5. Reviewed its previous directions to the Commissioner in Abbott V regarding facilities and supplemental program funding, such as space, supplies, teaching faculty, staff, and means of transportation necessary to implement Abbott preschool programs. It quoted its prior opinion, where it had stated that "even though it is not feasible at this time to ascertain or mandate a specific funding level, adequate funding remains critical to the achievement of a thorough and efficient education," Abbott V, supra, 153 N.J. at 517-18, and "the Commissioner shall ensure that all other Abbott schools shall have the resources and additional funds that are necessary to implement pre-school education by the commencement of the 1999-2000 school year" 153 N.J. at 508, and explained that in doing so "the Commissioner may, before seeking new appropriations, first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for a demonstrably needed supplemental program," 153 N.J. at 518. It emphasized that "[o]nly after a review of individual applications from the districts can it be determined whether 'adequate funding . . . critical to the achievement of a thorough and efficient education' has been provided." Abbott VI, supra, 163 N.J. at 118.

6. Noted the concern expressed by amicus curiae Newark Emergency Committee to Save Childcare that "[a]n aggressive recruitment campaign is critical," and emphasized "the need for assessment and evaluation of the preschool programs in the SNDs" and directed that "existing enrollments can now be reviewed and that low enrollments will trigger a determination whether parents in the community are aware of the district's preschool programs" and, to the extent that they are not, "the district must make concerted outreach efforts to improve enrollments." In doing so, the Commissioner "must make funding available for [concerted outreach efforts to improve enrollments] through the DOE's supplemental program procedures." 163 N.J. at 119.

Summary of Legal Positions

Petitioner's Arguments

As expressed in its brief and at oral argument, the fundamental thrust of the ELC's series of "global issues" is that the DOE, in its response to the Supreme Court's orders and directions in Abbott V and VI, has failed to adequately direct, guide, monitor, assess and fund significant elements of the mandated preschool programs for three- and four-year-olds in the affected districts. It maintains that these failures serve to deprive its clients of their constitutionally mandated right to a thorough and efficient education. In its view, despite the regulations the DOE has adopted, the guidelines and expectations it has issued, the meetings, clinics, and seminars it has held, and the funds it has made available to the districts, both before and most particularly since the issuance of Abbott VI, it has still not provided the districts with legally and educationally adequate means of ensuring that they both can and are in fact delivering the constitutionally mandated well-planned, high-quality preschool education the Court intended. The lack of such adequate measures has also prevented or substantially limited the ability of the districts to properly provide transportation, special education and education for students with limited English proficiency and has affected the districts' ability to provide necessary facilities. More specifically, the ELC contends that in January 2000, prior to Abbott VI, the four districts whose students it represents filed defective plans for providing preschool, and that the DOE, after receiving that decision, failed to require that the districts, as well as other Abbott districts, revise their applications commensurate with the decision in order to eliminate the deficiencies and bring their proposals up to the level needed to ensure that such well-planned, high-quality programs would be provided. It points to what it deems as low and inadequate levels of enrollment in preschool programs as proof that the districts failed to aggressively market their programs and seek out those portions of the preschool population that are not adequately aware of the programs. It contends that the DOE failed to assure that districts did what was necessary to upgrade those Head Start programs that did not provide a program meeting Abbott standards, so that those children attending such programs would be receiving the mandated level of preschool education. It failed to provide substantive guidance to districts that would have directed them to assure that no child seeking preschool is excluded due to parental status. The ELC also argues that the DOE insisted upon limited, pre-set amounts of funding per pupil and failed to assess the needs of specific programs and the populations served thereby to assure that each program received adequate funding and provided programs targeted to the specific needs of the students and the program, and that, to the extent that the DOE is required to ensure that districts complied with the Court's mandate, it failed to provide the necessary level of oversight, in part by not insisting that the applications filed by districts adequately assess the needs and provide specific information and detail as to how the inadequacies of programs would be remedied. The DOE also failed to instruct districts, and insist on specific, detailed plans, regarding the districts' intentions for assuring the upgrading of teacher certification in line with the mandated level of qualification required for teachers. In addition, the ELC contends that the Department has issued regulations that, while perhaps adequately repeating the mandates of the Court, nevertheless fail to provide districts with the necessary guidance and direction as to how to provide the needed programs and how to present their applications in a manner that serves the DOE's need to monitor and assess the districts' plans and performance.

The DOE Response

In response to the ELC's allegations, the DOE, which maintains that the provision of preschool is not constitutionally required, nevertheless generally contends that it has properly responded to the mandates of Abbott V and VI. It has issued appropriately directed regulations, provided districts with a detailed written statement of the academic and programmatic expectations for the preschool programs that they are required to deliver and has approved properly supported requests for transportation funding and other services such as special education and bilingual education. It claims that it is working with districts on facility needs in accordance with the recently enacted Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act ("EFCFA"), P.L. 2000, c. 72, codified as N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-1 et seq. It is moving forward to ensure that full-day, full-year preschool is implemented as early as possible. As for the specific allegations raised by the ELC, the Department suggests that the ELC complaints regarding the supposed failure to provide substantive standards amount, in light of the adoption of the Expectations document on April 17, 2000, to a demand that the Department impose a uniform, age-appropriate curriculum upon the districts, an action that the DOE denies it is required to undertake in order to satisfy the Court's requirements. To the extent that the petitioners complain about any asserted lack of guidance, assistance and/or standards regarding curriculum and other issues, the Department contends that it has provided all these in appropriate form and detail, while not imposing any ironclad, straitjacketed approach. It denies that it has imposed any hard fiscal cap on districts, acknowledging that, to the extent required in order to fulfill the Court's mandate, it must provide needed funding to the districts, while nevertheless insisting that it has the obligation to assure that where funding is requested, it is authorized to assure that the need exists. It argues that the rising enrollment rates in the districts demonstrate that the programs in place therein have successfully strengthened community recruitment and outreach efforts, resulting in increases in enrollment. It defends its position regarding enrollment projections, and points out that the Court in Abbott VI noted that its concern was less with "enrollment numbers for planning purposes" than with the need in given situations for "community outreach." 163 N.J. at 119. As for Head Start, the DOE contends that as Head Start is a federal program, neither it nor the districts can dictate to that program what it must do. Nevertheless, the Department has tried to work out funding and other needed arrangements with Head Start programs so that they could be upgraded to the state standards where the particular program did not meet those standards. Where this effort has been unsuccessful (and the DOE concedes that it has), the district is affirmatively required to assure that each child in the deficient Head Start program can be accommodated within the district's plan for providing preschool. However, to the extent that the ELC contends that the DOE has failed in its obligations because deficient Head Start programs themselves have not been brought up to standard, the Department denies that there is any mandatory requirement to provide preschool through the Head Start medium. As for issues regarding district assessments of programs and students, it denies that such assessments are required before the preparation and submission of plans and revisions thereof. Finally, to the extent that districts are complaining about specific funding issues, these disputes must be resolved in the context of any pending case between the district and the DOE.

The DOE Response to Abbott VI

Regulations

Before considering the record and the arguments presented by the parties, it may be useful to review the regulations adopted by the DOE following the issuance of Abbott VI. These represent the most formal legal response to the Court's Abbott V and VI mandates. These regulations became effective on July 3, 2000, after the end of the 1999-2000 school year and, effectively, after the budget process for the 2000-2001 school year was complete. The regulations identify their purpose as ensuring that quality early childhood education programs are established in New Jersey. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.1. They require that the local board offer a half-day program to all three- and four-year-old children and implement a plan to provide a full-day, full-year program by the 2001-2002 school year. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a). They codify the Court's mandate that the board "shall provide one teacher and one aide for every 15 children" and that "[c]lass size shall not exceed 15 children." N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(3). They require that the board provide programs meeting the Department's expectations, expressed in its then recently adopted "Early Childhood Education Program Expectations: Standards of Quality" ("Expectations") that are linked to the Core Curriculum Content Standards ("CCCS") and integrated with the WSR model(s) or the whole school reform alternative program design(s) utilized in the district. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(4). They mandate that new teachers employed shall be required by September 1, 2001, to hold the new teacher of Preschool through Grade 3 endorsements and that master teachers be provided at a recommended ratio of one to every 20 classrooms. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(5) and (6). The regulations further provide that the board "shall develop, in consultation with the Department, community outreach and recruitment strategies to maximize participation," and that the board, to the extent that enrollments "do not exceed 50 percent of the projected preschool population in the district, . . . shall develop a corrective action plan to increase enrollments which shall be approved by the Commissioner and then implemented by the district." N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(8).

In addition to these requirements, N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(b) provides that the "board shall cooperate with or utilize a DHS-licensed child care provider whenever practical to implement required . . . programs and shall not duplicate programs or services otherwise available in the community." The regulation provides that when such arrangements are made for DHS-approved providers to conduct programs, the contract for such services shall be in a Department-approved form containing clear expectations, necessary supports and accountability measures. The DHS-approved provider must agree to comply with the class size and teacher-student ratio requirements established in N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(3) and must provide programs meeting the Expectations and linked to the CCCS and integrated as required in N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(4). Teacher certification for existing teachers who do not hold the required academic credentials must be brought up to required levels and the P-3 endorsement obtained by September 2004, and other certification requirements for newly hired teachers must be achieved by September 2001. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(b)(3), (4). The Board must operate its early childhood program consistent with its early childhood plan approved by the DOE and "shall provide any necessary information to the Department to ensure that the program implementation is consistent with that plan." N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.4(a). Finally, the regulations provide that "[n]o additional early childhood education programs or services shall be approved unless a particularized need is demonstrated pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5." N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.4(b).

The Preschool Program Contract

In addition to the regulations the DOE also issued the Abbott Preschool Educational Program Contract ("Contract"), a document incorporating and elaborating upon the requirements for the provision by outside providers of Abbott preschool education programs. This document addresses, among other items, the components of such programs, the staff qualifications required, the terms of the agreement and the termination procedures, the compensation rates, the need for district/provider coordination and cooperation, the record-keeping requirements, confidentiality issues and the monitoring of program performance. The Contract attempts to respond to the Court's observations in Abbott V and VI regarding the wisdom of and need for cooperation with existing community-based providers and the terms and conditions necessary to accomplish this cooperation while assuring that the districts have all necessary control and authority to ensure that the community-based programs function in accordance with Abbott standards. Abbott VI, supra, 163 N.J. at 114-16.

Arguments Concerning Specific Issues

Standards and Guidance

The ELC's first contention is that the DOE has failed to provide timely and concrete guidance to both enable and assure that districts plan and implement Abbott VI quality-preschool-for-all-children standards. In Abbott VI, the Supreme Court directed that uniform standards be established emphasizing articulation with the whole school reform programs and the Core Curriculum Content Standards. It emphasized then that staff assistance, which the DOE now offers and has been provided post-Abbott VI in many workshops, seminars, and meetings, is not a substitute for "substantive standards" issued by the Commissioner. The Court did not believe that the DOE would be able to evaluate preschool programs and prevent a two-tiered system from forming, with one tier consisting of those programs offering well-planned, high-quality early childhood education and the other tier consisting of those programs offering nothing more than daycare, unless such substantive standards were promulgated. Abbott VI, supra, 163 N.J. at 106-07. Indeed, in his concurrence, Justice Stein termed the need for "prompt adoption . . . of clear substantive standards" "incontestable." 163 N.J. at 123. The Court noted that at the time of the decision the DOE had a set of "draft standards" on its website and ordered that "substantive educational guidance," termed an "essential component of DOE's commitment," must be adopted by April 17, 2000. 163 N.J. at 107.

The Court's concerns regarding the need for substantive standards can only be understood in light of its previous comments regarding standards and the adoption of the Core Curriculum Content Standards by the Legislature. In Abbott v. Burke, 149 N.J. 145, 161-62 (1997) ("Abbott IV"), the Court noted that the development of the actual curriculum was left up to the local boards of education and that the Core Curriculum Content Standards were "not a curriculum; rather, they define the results expected without prescribing specific strategies or educational methodologies to ensure that students actually meet those expectations." However, the Court added that "the Legislature has now taken a major step to spell out and explain the meaning of a constitutional education. The content and performance standards . . . represent the first real effort on the part of the legislative and executive branches to define and to implement the educational opportunity required by the Constitution. It is an effort that strongly warrants judicial deference." 149 N.J. at 167-68. The Court found the standards to be "facially adequate as a reasonable legislative definition of a constitutional through and efficient education." 149 N.J. at 168.

As noted above, the Department did adopt its "Early Childhood Education Program Expectations: Standards of Quality" ("Expectations") by the April 17 deadline. In its later adopted regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a), the DOE provides that programs must meet the Expectations, which are linked to the Core Curriculum Standards and integrated with the WSR model or the whole school reform alternatives.

The ELC argues that the Expectations are not the "substantive educational standards" that the Court required the DOE to produce. In a certification entered in evidence by the petitioners, Dr. William Steven Barnett, director of the Center for Early Education at Rutgers ("CEER"), and a full member of the graduate faculty of Rutgers, New Brunswick, in public policy and education, who has previously testified as an expert in earlier Abbott proceedings, offered his review of the Expectations. He opined that they (1) are not substantive educational guidance or program standards to guide districts and community-based providers to implement preschool in accordance with the Abbott quality standards and to do so in a uniform fashion; (2) are exhortations to the reader to implement "developmentally appropriate practices" without explaining how "this can and should be done"; (3) primarily focus on the classroom activities and neglect program standards, program and child assessment, planning, budgeting, supervision, professional development, social and health services and services and strategies for children with disabilities and those with limited English proficiency; and (4) fail to provide "clear, measurable standards of high-quality classroom practice to which the teaching staff can be held accountable."

In response to Dr. Barnett's position, the DOE offers the certification of Kimberly Friddell, coordinator of the Division of Early Childhood Education for the DOE, who is responsible for review and assessment of Abbott school districts' Early Childhood Education Operational Plans. She offers that the Expectations are "substantive educational guidance to Abbott districts to assist in the development of the district's instructional program." In addition, the Department notes that it is now in the early stages of preparing an "Early Childhood Education Curriculum Framework," although it is noted from the record that the team charged with writing this document was only being selected sometime after February 8, 2001. According to an announcement seeking persons interested in being considered for the drafting process, this document is intended to present "broad overarching concepts and ideas for the development of curriculum" to support the successful achievement of the Expectations. "The introduction of the entire framework document will address issues of the effective instruction, interdisciplinary methodology and other related issues" and "will offer teachers multiple strategies to meet the preschool standards and related progress indicators, and also develop guidelines for instructional strategies and assessment methods to assist educators in the development of supportive, effective learning environments."

The Expectations document states that it is "not to be seen as a curriculum guide or to limit the district's implementation of developmentally appropriate curricula that will meet the individual needs of children in their communities." In addition, the Expectations "are not meant to be used in isolation, but as one of the many resources that are essential to building a developmentally appropriate early childhood program."

Enrollment/Recruitment/Head Start/Parental Status

The ELC raises several interrelated issues concerning the efforts of the districts and Department to assure that all Abbott-district children have the opportunity to attend early childhood programs. It argues that the DOE has failed to ensure (1) that the districts are providing high-quality, well-planned early childhood programs for all Abbott-district students; (2) that the districts are engaging in aggressive recruitment of eligible students; (3) that the districts include children in Head Start programs as a part of their programs; and (4) that no children are denied programs due to their parental status. In the ELC's view, a review of the number and percentage of students actually enrolled in preschool in the Abbott districts constitutes clear proof that the Supreme Court's goal of affording constitutionally appropriate preschool education to all Abbott-district preschoolers has been defeated by district and DOE inaction. To the extent that recruitment of hard-to-reach groups has not occurred and children in Head Start have not been included, these failures have played a role in limiting enrollment.

As the Court affirmed in Abbott VI, preschool programs are mandated for all Abbott-district children. In discussing what it characterized as "some misunderstanding about the DOE requirement that the districts plan for seventy-five percent of their anticipated preschool enrollment (based on the number of children in kindergarten the previous year) instead of 100 percent or full enrollment," 163 N.J. at 118-19, the Court recognized that the Commissioner, while allowing districts to develop their enrollment projections based on "reliable indicators," had, more importantly, "stated unequivocally that every child who seeks to enroll in preschool will be accommodated," 163 N.J. at 119. The Court determined that the issue of concern was not so much enrollment numbers for planning purposes, but instead, "whether there is a need for community outreach to inform parents about the availability of preschool for three- and four-year old children in the Abbott districts." 163 N.J. at 119. The Court announced its expectation that "low enrollments" revealed by "assessment and evaluation of preschool programs in the SNDs" "will trigger a determination whether parents in the community are aware of the districts' preschool programs," and, to the extent that parents are not aware, "the district must make concerted outreach efforts to improve enrollments"; to the extent necessary, the "Commissioner must make funding available for this purpose through the DOE's supplemental program procedures." 163 N.J. at 119.

The Court also recognized that, where a student attends a Head Start program that provides a preschool education at or above the standards required for class size, teacher-student ratio, quality standards, etc., in Abbott-district preschools, the district did not have to duplicate what was already a constitutionally appropriate program and did not have to separately provide that child with a preschool program. The district could therefore exclude such children from its projections as to the number of children it had to serve, and plan accordingly in terms of faculty, facilities, etc.

The regulations adopted by the DOE effective July 1, 2000, clearly provide that early childhood preschool "shall" be offered to all three- and four-year-olds. In Abbott V, the Court emphasized that the Commissioner "may authorize cooperation with or the use of existing early childhood and day-care programs in the community." 153 N.J. at 508. The regulations incorporate this requirement at N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(b), expressing in mandatory terms that districts "shall cooperate with or utilize a DHS-licensed child care provider whenever practical" and shall contract with such a provider "when that provider is able and willing to comply" with requirements imposed upon Abbott preschool programs. The district is not to duplicate programs or services that are otherwise available.

The petitioners contend that the DOE provided the districts with no guidance on revising their January 2000 plans to address the need for assessment of enrollment issues or the need for outreach and has not determined whether enrollments in any districts are too low, therefore triggering the need for concerted and aggressive recruitment activities. There have been no assessments regarding hard-to-reach persons, communities, or ethnic or cultural groups, and no district or state assessments of whether the parents in the districts are aware of their children's entitlement to preschool. No direction has been provided regarding either the creation of plans for recruitment or the budgeting of such recruitment programs, or for the planning of such campaigns. Only "isolated" expenditures have been approved for such recruitment activities and no additional funding has been provided to assist districts in this task. The proposals offered by the districts in January 2000 proposed to serve only 60% of the projected population of eligible students: indeed, the Newark plan only called for 40% to be served. According to Dr. Barnett's supplemental certification, as of December 2000, figures supplied by the districts to the DOE show that only 47% of the eligible students in the thirty Abbott districts are being provided with early childhood programs, with the figure in Newark standing at 42%, Paterson at 37%, Jersey City at 43% and West New York at 56%.[9] Other district total preschool enrollments range from a high of 84% in Harrison to a low of 22% in Plainfield.[10] When compared to the total number of eligible children these extremely low numbers demonstrate the failure of the DOE and the districts to do enough to ensure that all Abbott-district preschool children are served.[11] The ELC accuses the DOE of continuing to deny its obligation to serve all eligible children.

In support of their position on these issues, the petitioners offer the certification of Joan Ponessa, research director for the ELC's Abbott Schools Initiative, who asserts that a review of the one-year operational plans filed for Abbott districts for 2000-2001 shows no guidelines, standards or procedures for comprehensive, planned approaches to aggressive outreach and recruitment. Only some of the plans are even minimally responsive to these concerns. The Paterson, Newark and Jersey City plans provide for some expenditures, but do not describe any definite plans, and the West New York plan provides for minimal expenditures and for the [9] These figures reflect Dr. Barnett's data. According to his supplemental certification, this data was collected by the CEER from each of the thirty Abbott districts and also was consistent with the data supplied by the DOE, which had received preschool enrollment forms by December 15, 2000, from each Abbott district. According to his calculations, as of December 2000, out of a projected total of 49,064 eligible for preschool, only 22,926 are actually enrolled. In the State-operated districts of Newark, Jersey City and Paterson, the figures are: Newark, 2,908 out of 7,002; Jersey City, 2,598 out of 6,014; and Paterson, 1,795 out of 4,906. Joan Ponessa's certification on behalf of petitioners, drawn from information apparently received earlier than Barnett's, reflects slightly lower percentages of enrollment, with Newark at 39%, Jersey City at 39%, Paterson at 32% and West New York at 48%. Thus Barnett's data appears to reflect some increase, albeit limited, in enrollment in the first half of the 2000-2001 school year.

[10] Other examples drawn from Dr. Barnett's data include high figures such as City of Orange, 69%; Irvington, 78%; New Brunswick, 77%; Pleasantville, 68%; and Trenton, 64%. Examples of low percentages include Elizabeth, 25%; Paterson, 37%; Newark, 42%; Jersey City, 43%; and Asbury Park, 45%.

[11] Joan Ponessa's certification states that she calculated the "universe" of eligible three- and four-year-olds for each district by doubling the 1998-99 first-grade enrollments, a calculation that does not include those first-graders enrolled in private schools. Dr. Barnett used the same formula. Kimberly Friddell certifies that the DOE determined the universe of eligible students by averaging the enrollment of kindergarten and first grade and then multiplying by two. She asserts that this is a "most reasonable estimate," as kindergarten is voluntary and first grade mandatory and preschool is voluntary.

provision of literature to be distributed at several identified forums, but also does not describe a concrete strategy. Ms. Ponessa observes that after the Court issued Abbott VI, the DOE did not offer the districts any guidance as to how to comply with its mandate regarding assessment and, where indicated, recruitment. While Abbott-district superintendents wrote a letter to the Department seeking clarification and assistance regarding outreach, no guidelines were issued even after that request. Paterson did list some additional outreach activities on its revised application, but neither Newark, Jersey City nor West New York offered any revision in this area. The DOE's responses approving these plans did not require that any of these districts make any further revisions. Ponessa's comments regarding the lack of any post-Abbott VI guidelines or standards for the development and implementation of plans for aggressive outreach are echoed in the certification offered by Thomas G. Dunn, Jr., superintendent of the Elizabeth School District. Dr. Barnett reports in his certification that a CEER door-to-door survey conducted in Newark in spring 2000 found that "most parents" were unaware of the availability of an early childhood program from the district.

As for Head Start, the petitioners claim that those Head Start programs that did not meet Abbott standards were not offered sufficient funding to allow them to achieve the necessary standards. The failure of the DOE to provide such funding violates the Court's mandate. Ms. Ponessa's analysis of the four districts' applications both pre- and post-Abbott VI indicates that in January 2000, Paterson identified 492 three- and four-year-olds in federally funded Head Start and had no plan or budget to serve these children in a way that would assure that they received an Abbott-compliant education in their Head Start programs. Newark had included funding to serve 345, but had no plan to serve them in accordance with Abbott standards. In addition, it identified 1430 additional three- and four-year-olds in federally funded Head Start programs, but requested no funding to serve these children in Abbott-compliant programs. Jersey City offered no plan for children in Head Start, despite identifying 875 children as participating in federally funded Head Start. West New York also did not submit a plan that indicated that it intended to assure Head Start children an Abbott-quality program. Following Abbott VI, none of the districts provided any significant revision regarding Head Start.[12]

In support of these contentions, the petitioners offer the certifications of Cecile Dickey, executive director of the Concerned Parents for Head Start in Paterson ("Concerned Citizens"), Trish Morris-Yamba, executive director of the Newark Day Center and a member of the Executive Committee of the Newark Emergency Committee to Save Child Care, Audrey West, executive director of the Newark Preschool Council, and Lorraine Johnson, director of the North Hudson Community Action Head Start Agency. Each of these individuals details the circumstances of her particular organization and addresses concerns regarding allegedly inadequate funding offers, lack of assessment of needs, including for transportation, professional development and certification, disparity of salaries and benefits between their staffs and those of the local districts and the need for comparability in order to secure and retain qualified staff.

Ms. Dickey reports that her organization has operated since 1965 and currently serves 663 disadvantaged three- and four-year-olds, spending an average of $6,500 per student to provide a full-day or six-hour program for 560 children for 185 days a year and an extended day or ten-hour day for 103 children for 245 days a year. During the 1999-2000 school year, the Paterson School District approached the organization about providing Abbott preschool to non-Head Start children and also providing preschool under Abbott standards to some of the federally-funded Head Start children in Paterson. The district offered to pay $3,500 per child, but no contract was ever finalized and Ms. Dickey believes that the DOE rejected the district's offer. No explanation was ever provided as to how that $3,500 figure was determined, and she contends that it was not based upon any assessment of the educational needs of the children in her program or of the centers themselves. No approach was made to her organization for the 2000-2001 school year. A recent approach by the DHS, again offering to pay $3,500 per child to supplement federal funding for Head Start, with the Concerned Citizens to agree to extend its six-hour day/185-day program to ten hours per day/245 days, was "never seriously pursued" by Concerned Citizens, as they knew that they "could not possibly operate on so little funding." As of the present time,

[12] Dr. Holster's certification also complains that the DOE did not require Passaic to include Head Start children or class size in the Concerned Citizens program is 18-20 students per class and teachers are non-certified. Ms. Dickey advises that in order to meet Abbott requirements, the group would need funding based upon an assessment of the children's educational needs, as well as the needs of the program, including staff, facilities and the like. The staff issue is most significant, as the certified teachers previously employed have, with one exception, left for higher salaries offered by the district. In order to be able to provide Abbott-quality preschool for ten hours a day/245 days a year, the Concerned Citizens estimate that they would need approximately $5,000 per child, in addition to the federal funding they receive.

Ms. Morris-Yamba certifies that the Emergency Committee consists of approximately fifty early childhood centers ("centers") in Newark. The Newark plan submitted in January 2000 included all of these centers. In 1999-2000 the centers did not receive sufficient funding to provide preschool education consistent with Abbott standards. Class size, teacher certification and curriculum requirements were all difficulties. Following Abbott VI, the situation has not changed. Discussions held in the winter of 2000 regarding a contract for Abbott programs for the 2000-2001 school year resulted in an offer for blended DOE/DHS funding for full-day/full-year preschool. The amount offered was $9,000 per child, which Morris-Yamba states was, in the estimation of the Emergency Committee, "wholly inadequate to provide a high-quality ten-hour, twelve-month" Abbott program. The district advised the committee that the $9,000 was a "pre-set" figure established by the State and that the district had no authority to exceed that amount. Morris-Yamba is unaware of how the figure was determined, and is not aware of any formal needs assessment of either preschool children in Newark or those in the collaborating centers. Indeed, the Committee calculated the necessary funding per child for full-day, full-year, high-quality Abbott education at $13,000. While no contract was entered into following these negotiations, in late August an agreement was reached with the district for funding at $4,750 per child for six hours a day/180 days for the 2000-2001 school year. This would be supplemented by the $4,500 per child received from the DHS for daycare services for an additional four hours per day and an additional 65 days a year, and by an additional $600 received per child for family service workers, in accordance with a separate contract with the DHS. Although the Committee believed this amount of funding to be insufficient, it nevertheless "felt compelled to enter into this contract to avoid disruption of services to Newark's children and families." The lack of sufficient funding under the Abbott contract has greatly limited the centers' ability to provide the curriculum, staff, support, and facilities needed to provide a proper Abbott-standard program.

Ms. West, whose organization is described as the largest federally funded Head Start agency in New Jersey, serves 2582 three- and four-year-old children. She details that her program standards are below Abbott level, yet they have been unable to contract with the Newark School District. In addition, the Department of Human Services has rejected their proposed budget, offering to pay $5,050 or $5,800 per child, depending upon whether the teacher in the classroom is certified or not, for a ten-hour/245-day program. Ms. West is unaware that any assessment of educational needs or of the program itself was conducted to form the basis of these per-child funding offers. She asserts that the funding offered was based instead upon a pre-determined, per-pupil amount of either $9,250 or $10,000, again depending upon certification of the teacher. The DHS funding, although accepted for 345 children, was inadequate to permit the program to provide Abbott-compliant preschool for these children, as the requirements for class size, teacher certification and developmentally appropriate curriculum could not be met. No DOE or DHS funding has been provided to permit the organization to deal with these deficiencies. No contract is in place to allow for the provision of Abbott preschool for the remaining children in the Head Start program.

Ms. Johnson certifies that her program, which serves Union City and West New York, serves 349 children, 120 of whom are from West New York. Federal Head Start funding provides $6,996 per student for six hours per day/160 days per year. In 1999-2000 the West New York Board of Education contracted for services for 81 children not funded by federal funds, at $11,766 per pupil or $6,695 per pupil, the difference depending upon the location at which the services were provided, being either in the Head Start centers or in district-owned facilities. These contracts did not concern the federally funded children. In May 2000 the district first advised that it was discontinuing the contracts, but later, in June 2000, the District offered $4,500 per child for 30 children in a six-hour/180-day program to be held in two vacant classrooms. The amount offered was clearly insufficient, but the agency accepted the contract due to the overwhelming demand for the program. As with the other witnesses, Ms. Johnson knows of no assessments having been prepared on which to base the $4,500-per-pupil funding. No funding was provided for curriculum development, salary comparability, bilingual education or facilities.

The record also reveals that, apparently in anticipation of a statewide accord with Head Start, the Department denied district-requested funding for federally funded Head Start, as it did, for example, in its June 20, 2000, letter responding to Vineland's preschool plan. On September 22, 2000, the Commissioners of Health and Education jointly announced that the agencies had "made a commitment to Head Start directors to assist them in participating in the Abbott Early Childhood Education Program" and that an agreement had been reached allowing such participation, effective immediately. The letter announcing the agreement reports that the State would "contract with Head Start programs to fund the difference between federal Head Start funding and the average district-sponsored preschool funding," with the Head Start programs agreeing to meet DOE regulatory standards based upon the Abbott decisions. However, despite this announcement, counsel for the DOE concedes that in the end the contract negotiations were not successfully concluded.

The DOE points out that the Abbott VI decision clearly requires that, to the extent a district intends to serve children through a Head Start program, it must do so only in Head Start programs that meet Abbott quality standards. In such instances funding and other supports must be provided to allow those programs to reach such standards. However, the DOE does not read the decision as compelling districts to upgrade deficient Head Start programs. Instead, a district has a choice. It may work with the Head Start program to achieve the necessary upgrade to Abbott standards, or, alternatively, if the Head Start program is unwilling or unable to upgrade, even if offered district assistance, the district may fulfill its absolute obligation to provide a preschool program for these children by choosing to do so in some other community-based or in-district program.

In her certification on behalf of the DOE, Ms. Friddell advises that recruitment and outreach was a topic for discussion at the Program Development Institute held on March 8, 2000, just after the issuance of Abbott VI, and opportunities were provided to discuss successful strategies. Among those mentioned were the use of grocery bags and liners for trays at fast food establishments. The topic was again discussed at meetings in late April and early May. A memorandum issued on May 12 "reinforced" the need for recruitment of students with disabilities. Special efforts to recruit in the Hispanic community were made through contacts with the Hispanic Directors Association of New Jersey. Individual district applications filed with the DOE included provisions for recruitment and outreach activities. Jersey City listed nine activities to be paid for with Early Childhood Program Act Funds. West New York advised that it would use cable TV and posters in religious facilities, shopping areas and restaurants to get out the message. Paterson proposed to advertise in newspapers, place posters and issue fliers, and raise awareness at its Parents Awareness Day. Newark described its proposed actions as an "aggressive registration campaign . . . designed using varied media resources" and listed several items.

Ms. Friddell's amended certification, filed on February 16, 2001, asserts that, based upon projected enrollment data submitted to the DOE in the 2000-2001 early childhood plans and the October 13, 2000, ASSA data, every Abbott district except for Elizabeth is serving at least 50% of its projection.[13]

At oral argument counsel for the DOE observed that while the figures gathered in December 2000 are, of course, a confirmation that there is a long way to go to reach levels commensurate with the realization of full enrollment of the projected student population, they do demonstrate progress over earlier figures.

[13] Interestingly, Ms. Friddell's amended certification was filed after Dr. Barnett's supplemental certification in which he discussed the data collected by the DOE as of December 15 and the CEER data, and concluded that at least twelve Abbott districts were not serving at least 50% of their projected universe of three- and four-year-olds. Perhaps the difference between the Friddell and Barnett calculations is the result of the difference in calculating the projected universe.

The ELC also argues that the DOE has failed to assure that no child is denied an early childhood education due to parental status. In Abbott VI, the Court noted that allegations had been made that children whose parents had dropped out of a required Temporary Aid for Needy Families ("TANF") program could not attend Head Start. In light of this claim, the Court emphasized that "no child may be excluded from a preschool program that is part of a district plan because of parental status." 163 N.J. at 117. The ELC contends that despite this determination, the DOE has not required that districts do anything to assure that such parental-status-based exclusions not occur and has neither provided nor required such guidance or training as to this holding. In response the DOE notes that it has no reason to believe that such exclusions are occurring following the Court's ruling, and points out that the situation described was a limited one. It believes that no additional regulations, safeguards or instructions are necessary.

The Need for Assessments and Issues Regarding Funding and Facilities

In Abbott V the Supreme Court ordered that those Abbott schools able to obtain space, supplies, teaching faculty, staff, etc., necessary for the implementation of these programs for the 1998-99 school year "should be supplied with the necessary funding to enable them to do so" and that, in addition, the "Commissioner shall ensure that all other Abbott schools shall have the resources and additional funds that are necessary to implement pre-school education by the commencement of the 1999-2000 school year." 153 N.J. at 508. In Abbott VI the Court addressed concerns regarding the alleged lack of compliance by the DOE with the Abbott V mandate regarding the funding of supplemental programs and preschool facilities improvements. 163 N.J. at 117. It criticized the DOE for not providing the districts with sufficient guidance early on in the process in 1998-99 following Abbott V so that they could properly comply with the Department's process for considering facility and supplemental funding requests, pointing out that in some cases districts had made such requests as a part of their operational plans. The Department had then advised those districts that they had to make such requests separately. In response to the allegations regarding this alleged failure to comply with the Abbott V mandates, the Department assured the Court that requests for both supplemental and temporary facilities funding were being approved and funded under its chosen procedures. The Court indicated that the choice of procedures was "no doubt within the agency's prerogatives." 163 N.J. at 117. The Court further opined that disputes over the specific needs of districts were the sort of fact-sensitive matters demanding the creation of a record that were properly determined at the OAL and, ultimately, by the Commissioner. However, in response to what it called the DOE's "form letter responses" to district funding applications, the Court did express a caution that "reasonable requests to fund supplemental programs must be handled fairly and quickly." 163 N.J. at 118. The Court's continued insistence upon the need for assuring adequate funding must be understood in light of its determination in Abbott IV that the provision of "arbitrary" amounts of funding, unsupported by studies as to the adequacy of such amounts, was unconstitutional. 145 N.J. at 180-86.

The petitioners once again complain that the DOE has failed to fulfill the Court's mandate. In large part, the petitioners complain about what they see as the Department's failure to assess the needs of students and districts and to insist upon districts doing the same regarding their programs and students, as well as the community providers with whom they propose to work. As one example of the arbitrary action of the Department undertaken without the benefit of apparent study, analysis and assessment, the petitioners claim that rather than doing as the Court instructed, the DOE has instead insisted upon imposing a pre-established cost per student of $4,500, a figure used in such dealings as the DOE's contract negotiations over Head Start. It points to the form issued for the "Abbott Preschool Educational Program Contract,"[14] in which the "Compensation" section contains the $4,500 figure as the amount the district "shall pay the Provider . . . per child based on an average daily attendance of no less than 80%." In the Newark Plan submitted in January 2000, the Board proposed to serve 90 eligible three-year-olds, at a cost of $4,500 per student per school year in cooperation with providers, the tuition covering educational services, materials and supplies.

In addition, petitioners claim that the DOE has failed to insist that districts detail their plans for achieving certification of teachers within the time frames established or to provide funds for such purposes. It has also insisted upon limiting funding to districts to pre-determined ECPA levels, without assurance that such funding will be adequate for districts to provide well-planned, high-quality preschool education.

The petitioners also complain that the DOE has failed to provide safe and adequate preschool facilities. In part, they urge that the Department has failed to require the districts to assess their temporary and permanent facility needs in light of the restriction to fifteen students per classroom and the goal of increased enrollment. Elizabeth especially argues that it has encountered serious difficulties in its planning process due to the failure of the State to provide funding, and assurances of funding, for what the district believes to be its facility requirements. It contends that the DOE's failure to at least commit to the funding of the facilities prevented it from realistic planning for the 2000-2001 school year and forthcoming school years and, in particular, has deleteriously impacted on its ability to realistically recruit its preschool population since it could not itself be assured, or assure parents, that facilities would actually be in place for the children. Passaic also complains vigorously that the DOE has not acted so as to assure that funding for all necessary preschool facilities will be in place so as to provide adequate facilities for its programs.

In part, the DOE response to complaints regarding alleged systemic failures regarding funding is that in those cases involving district-specific complaints that adequate funding was not provided, those complaints are more properly addressed in individual appeals related solely to the circumstances of the individual district and its children. As previously noted, a number of these cases have been filed in the OAL in both the 1999-2000 and 2000-2001 school years and most have been resolved between the DOE and the individual district without the need for a full hearing. In addition, the DOE disputes the contention that either Abbott V or VI requires districts to conduct needs assessments of students and preschools prior to designing or revising early childhood plans. To an extent the DOE also argues that disputes regarding special education funding are properly addressed in OAL proceedings brought to deal with the rights and responsibilities attendant to the special legislation pertaining to special education, such as the

Addressing the facilities funding issue, the DOE believes that as of this time the appropriate procedure for districts to seek such funding is through the process established by the Legislature in the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act ("EFCFA"), N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-1 et seq., enacted on July 18, 2000. It contends that this legislation "fully funds the new construction and renovations" of Abbott-district schools and thereby responds to the mandate of the Abbott V Court. The EFCFA (1) establishes an orderly process for approval of long-range facilities plans, (2) establishes criteria for determining whether rehabilitation or renovations are warranted, and (3) allows districts to seek additional space beyond that provided by the facilities efficiency standards upon a demonstration of particularized need. N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-3, 4, 5(g)(1), 7(b). Educational Facilities Regulations promulgated by the Commissioner at N.J.A.C. 6:23A-1.1 et seq., effective on January 26, 2001, implement the EFCFA provisions. The DOE argues that at this time, all requests for temporary or permanent facilities must be made and reviewed under the standards and procedures of the EFCFA and its implementing regulations. If a district is unsatisfied with the results of the review of its EFCFA application, it can appeal that determination. To the extent that there is currently any dispute by a district over facilities funding, the matter is not properly before the OAL at this time. In the interim, to the extent that districts require temporary facilities to fulfill their Abbott commitments until permanent facilities can be constructed or renovated, the New Jersey Economic Development Authority ("EDA") is in the process of procuring temporary modular classroom units to ensure that all students eligible can be served in full-day, full-year preschool by September 2001.[15] Regarding Elizabeth's facilities complaints, the Department contends that the district failed to advise it of the specific facilities to be used by the district and this failure delayed the issuance of the decision on Elizabeth's plan and application.

Finally, the DOE argues that where a district exhausted its available ECPA funding in support of approved early childhood programs, additional funding was approved where need was demonstrated. To the extent that additional funding is demonstrably necessary above and beyond the supplemental funds already provided by the Legislature for the 2000-2001 school year, the Commissioner will seek those funds. The Department recognizes that the Commissioner must ensure that Abbott schools have the resources and additional funds necessary to implement preschool education in the 2000-2001 school year. Thus, it denies that it has imposed either an estimated amount per pupil for the costs of early childhood education or that it has capped funding by districts at the existing level of ECPA funds.

The petitioners respond that the DOE's insistence as to the required use of EFCFA procedures amounts to nothing more than a bureaucratic detour from the DOE's fulfillment of its responsibility to assure funding of necessary temporary and permanent facilities. Elizabeth urges that the Department's position vis-à-vis its facility requests is unreasonable, as logic compels that the DOE's decision on whether to allow the district to implement a full-day, year-round program for all eligible preschool children had to be received before the facilities for implementing the program could reasonably be identified and secured. The nature and structure of the program to be provided would be a vital factor in establishing the sites for the implementation of the approved program.

DISCUSSION

The long history of Abbott litigation demonstrates that the issues involved in the effective delivery of a thorough and efficient education to students in the designated Abbott districts are, for many reasons, not easily brought to conclusion. Indeed, in his concurring opinion in Abbott VI, Justice Stein reflected that "[t]he effectuation of the Abbott V requirements involves both a large scale and long-term cooperative effort between the DOE, the Abbott districts and the Abbott schools, much more in the nature of a marathon than a sprint." 163 N.J. at 128. He recognized that in this effort, so complex and vast in scope, "missteps are virtually certain to occur." 163 N.J. at 132. While he clearly foresaw that such a project could not be successfully completed in "a sprint," the fact that it might be a long-term, "marathon" undertaking did not, however, mean that the near-term efforts did not have to be undertaken with urgency, for "the clock is ticking, and for each school year in which implementation is delayed or flawed, thousands of urban children will lose the full benefit promised by the Abbott initiatives." 163 N.J. at 132-33. Foreseeing that "vigorous leadership on the part of the Commissioner and sustained support and encouragement from the DOE will be critical if the reforms are to succeed," 163 N.J. at 128, he asserted that "[t]he time for "bold, corrective and decisive action by the DOE is now," 163 N.J. at 133.

The petitioners, who initially contended in 1999 that the DOE had failed to comply with the mandates issued by the Supreme Court in Abbott V, continue to insist that the DOE continued to fail to comply with those mandates in the post-Abbott VI stage. In their arguments and evidence, they rely in significant part upon the conduct of the districts and the Department in regard to the plans and applications for funding presented by the districts, first in January 2000 for the 2000-2001 school year and, later, in regards to the post-Abbott VI district responses, or the lack thereof, regarding revisions to those plans and applications. They judge the affirmative responses and developing actions of the Department to be manifestly deficient and symbolic of an abject failure to deliver on the Commissioner's past promises and, perhaps more importantly, to effectively respond to the commands of the Court. To the extent that these failures have occurred, they constitute violations of the children's constitutional rights.

To a significant extent, the ELC's global issues focus upon what it perceives as the failure of the DOE to require that districts produce for its review appropriate and necessary information so that the Department can fully understand the circumstances, conditions and needs of the districts, their students, their schools and to the extent involved, the community-based providers whom the district proposes to use to assist it in providing preschool to its students. It asserts that only when armed with such information and knowledge, along with the information it must itself gather in order to assess the information given to it by districts, can the Department properly fulfill the overarching role the Court so definitively assigned it. These complaints, while ultimately grounded in specific allegations of inadequate funding that are properly resolved in individual district-specific hearings, are, on the "global" level, largely complaints about process, complaints that the process used by the districts and the Department to carry out their mandated tasks are flawed, so much so that they lead to inadequate or non-existent planning, review, assessment and delivery of necessary funding, facilities and programs to the Abbott children. They are, fundamentally, issues that address the aftermath of the broad pronouncements of the Supreme Court, which while mandating the ultimate roles and responsibilities of the Department and its district surrogates in delivering high-quality preschool to Abbott-district children, did not address the details of exactly how the districts and the DOE were to carry out their mandates. Thus, the Department is criticized for failing to properly arrange for and insist upon the details seen as essential to the process, such as allegedly failing to require, among other things, (1) the development of plans for provision of preschool to all eligible children in the districts, (2) plans regarding how to outreach and recruit, (3) assessments of children's needs and plans to meet those needs, (4) improvement plans for the school- and community-based programs, and (5) plans to deal with facilities, teacher qualification, transportation, class size, etc. The Department is then criticized because, to the extent it has not insisted upon receiving this information, it cannot act, and even where it has received the information, it has not acted, to assure that the districts receive the necessary funding to carry out the Court's mandates. Further, it is criticized for its own actions, or for its inaction, concerning promulgation of standards, imposition of alleged per-student spending caps and approval of deficient plans, and for arbitrary rejection of requests.

The remedy sought for the DOE's alleged violations of its responsibilities is a finding that the DOE's implementation of preschool in Abbott districts has violated the Court's Abbott mandates and an order directing the Department to require districts to conduct comprehensive assessments of their preschool children and of all school and community providers so as to assure the adequacy of planning for and performance of a list of mandated Abbott-related direct educational and supplemental items and to assist them in these undertakings.[16] Thus, in this "global" decision, the remedy sought is essentially one requiring the Department and districts to change their process, or, to the extent that process may already exist, but be unknowable to those outside the Department, to assure that it is made accessible and understandable to all concerned.

Judging the legal sufficiency of any steps taken in an ongoing process that is intended to reach a goal that admittedly cannot be achieved in a definably short time is difficult. Similarly, where some possible action has not occurred, the determination as to whether that lack of action at any given time in the long-term process constitutes a legally actionable violation can be difficult to determine. In this case, that determination is exacerbated by the passage of time in a setting where there exists a yearly cycle of events regarding budgets, plans, applications and an ever-changing population of individuals to be educated, who, for the most part, move on to a new school level each September. The application process for the 2000-2001 school year, which is the subject of much of the detailed evidential analysis presented by the petitioners in their briefs is, now, in March/April 2001, considerably dated, at least as to the districts' plans and applications for the approaching 2001-2002 school term. Thus, to a large degree, while the evidential details of what occurred last year are important as examples of what purportedly was wrong (or right) with the efforts of districts and, more pointedly here, the Department, it is the overarching systemic concerns raised by the petitioners that are most amenable to current treatment. In part, this is due to the fact that some of the DOE responses to the Court's mandates were not in effect at the time the January 2000 applications were issued, nor were they in effect, or even in existence, in the weeks and months immediately post-Abbott VI. As the case is judged today, regulations are in effect, the Expectations document is published, and a series of post-Abbott VI training and guidance events have occurred. Whether any of these have sufficiently performed the tasks for which they are meant and whether, even if valuable, such matters have allowed the Department to sufficiently respond to the Court's mandates so as to defeat the claims of the petitioners, is a primary aspect of the decisions herein. The ELC agrees that any relief that might be found appropriate in regards to its systemic complaints must be prospective in nature.[17] To the extent that the evidence presented establishes that the DOE has not done what the Court mandated it to do, the remedy for such non-compliance necessarily must be directive, that is, the DOE must be ordered to comply, and in that vein, possibly be given somewhat more detailed directives as to how to assure that it does so. In addition, the necessary level of evidence surrounding the actual individual and particularized needs of the four districts about which the ELC stands here are not before this judge. The decision here is therefore addressed to systemic concerns and is perceived as far more applicable to the next and future rounds of plans and applications, as any identified failings in the DOE's systemic response to the task set out for it by the Supreme Court must be immediately rectified so that the 2001-2002 school year can proceed in a more ordered and less contentious manner, and so that, in future years, the interested parties, agencies and groups can all address the issues in a more coordinated and cooperative manner. As a result, some of the comments and conclusions reached are perhaps more suggestive than they are adjudicative.

The Constitutional Basis for Preschool in the Abbott Districts

It is first appropriate to touch upon the question of whether the preschool education rights of three- and four-year-olds found by the Court in its Abbott decisions are constitutional in nature. The New Jersey Constitution, art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1, provides that the "Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years." In Abbott V the Supreme Court seemed unwilling to go so far as to unhesitantly declare that there was a constitutional right to preschool for all three- and four-year olds. Instead the Court, taking into account what it found to be the "significant and substantial positive impact on academic achievement in both early and later school years," 153 N.J. at 506, and given the deep concern as to the lag in achievement for youngsters in Abbott districts, stated that "because the absence of such early educational intervention deleteriously undermines educational performance once the child enters public school, the provision of pre-school education also has strong constitutional underpinning" 153 N.J. at 507. Thus, the Court, while seemingly on the verge of declaring preschool a right for these children, did not go quite so far. It found that it could resolve the issues before it without reaching constitutional issues. Perhaps the Court was concerned about the potential statewide impact of a finding that the Constitution, despite the clear delineation of the age range for which a thorough and efficient education must be available, nevertheless required that children younger than five be provided with a preschool educational program. Whatever the reason, I CONCLUDE that the Court has as yet not clearly declared preschool education for three- and four-year-old children, even those in the Abbott districts, to be a constitutional right. Instead, as the Court said, the provision of preschool education is so fundamentally tied to the chance for success in that thorough and efficient education that the Constitution does guarantee that it deserves a level of protection very close to, if not quite at the level of, constitutionally protected rights. In light of the Court's apparent caution, I decline to conclude in this case that preschool is a constitutional right guaranteed by the through-and-efficient clause. Nevertheless, given the recognized close relationship between a quality preschool experience and later academic achievement, a failure to provide an adequately funded and high-quality preschool educational program in the Abbott districts, while perhaps not amounting to a violation of Constitutional rights, is, without doubt, a very serious violation of legal rights.

Substantive Educational Standards

The ELC's request for relief seeks an order directing that the Commissioner require and assist the four district boards in assuring that they provide "high quality curriculum adopted and taught at every preschool site."[18] In regards to the Court's clear mandate that substantive educational standards and guidance be provided to districts, the ELC acknowledges that it is not advocating the most extreme form of state direction on standards and curricula, that is, a statewide mandated curriculum, nor is it advocating that all room for educational flexibility and judgment within districts be eliminated by state-mandated means and methods. In Abbott VI the Court acknowledged the "draft standards" then "under review by educators around the state," 163

[18] The petitioners do not advocate any particular standards, only that the Department act to promulgate "substantive" standards.

N.J. at 107, and ordered their prompt adoption, a mandate that the DOE fulfilled timely. If the adoption of those "standards" is enough to satisfy the Court, then the DOE has not violated the Court's mandate. Yet, to the extent that the Expectations are not a detailed how-to for achieving the goals and expectations set out both broadly and in particular therein, they may fall short of the expectations of the Court as to the level and degree of direction and guidance the Court deemed necessary. It is clearly the intention of the DOE to go further, as the Framework document promises to be a more specific set of guidelines as to strategies, methods and means for assuring that the Expectations become reality. If the adoption of the draft standards ordered by the Court does indeed fall short of complete satisfaction of the Court's mandate for substantive educational guidance because the "standards" are not "substantive" enough to assure that districts have the necessary direction and guidance to see to it that the education they offer to preschoolers is well planned and high-quality, then the Department must move forward quickly and decisively to put into place the Framework in as much detail as possible, as soon as possible. It is troubling that that effort seems to have been only in its formative stage in February 2001. While I CONCLUDE that the Department is not in violation of the Court's mandate at this time, that determination is conditioned upon the awareness that to truly meet the Court's mandate in full the Department must assure that the Framework is adopted and in place before the start of the 2000-2001 school year. If it was not the intention of the Department that this document be issued in final form by June 15, 2001, then the Department should either issue an interim Framework or otherwise issue interim suggestions and strategies meant to guide districts in how to best achieve the expectations for a well-planned, high-quality early childhood education.

In addition to issuing the Framework and any other guidelines regarding the nature of an appropriate curriculum and how it is to be achieved, the DOE must also insist that districts provide it with their plans as to how they will achieve successful implementation of the curriculum in district-operated and community-based providers. The Court placed the burden upon the DOE to assure that districts provided effective early childhood education to their students. It cannot do so if it does not have knowledge of the plans by which districts intend to achieve this goal. The level of information and detail that the Department requires to adequately assure itself of both the intention and the ability of the districts to achieve the implementation of the appropriate curriculum must be left to the expertise of the agency. Nevertheless, here, as in many areas of this case, the DOE must become the active insurer of the achievement of Abbott's goals. Passivity in this endeavor is simply not warranted.

Enrollment & Recruitment

Preschool education in the Abbott districts is required to be available to all students whose parents want them to attend. It is the absolute responsibility of each district to make the necessary arrangements to accommodate each and every eligible child, whether in a district-run program or an approved community-based program. There are, of course, reasons why the percentage of eligible children who actually enroll in the programs a district makes available may be less than 100%, even when the district has all the facilities and associated necessities to enable all students in the district to attend. Presumably some parents will choose not to send their children, or will make some other arrangements for a preschool program not associated with the district's plan. However, there can be no doubt that the mandate is that each district must provide an appropriate program for 100% of the children eligible.

In Abbott VI, the Court, while not actually holding, as the ELC asserts, that the DOE "had improperly capped the districts' January 2000 projections at 75% of 'anticipated preschool enrollment,'" nevertheless spoke to the true concern, that is, the need for community outreach. That is the real concern because, to the extent that a district is required to provide preschool for all children and the DOE and districts together must provide all necessary funding for such programs, provision of all these items will do little to increase enrollment if parents either do not know about or do not understand the programs available. The Court has advised that the projections are only important to the extent that they reveal the existence of a need for outreach. It stressed that the determination of the existence of "low" enrollments was "expect[ed]" to be the trigger for determinations that could identify the reasons for such "low" numbers. The Court did not define "low." In response to that direction, the DOE adopted N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(8). That regulation does two things. First, it codifies the requirement that districts, in consultation with the DOE, must develop "community outreach and recruitment strategies to maximize participation." This mandatory requirement necessarily incorporates a need for the districts to assess their enrollment situations, consider what groups may not be participating to a reasonably expected level and adopt a plan as to how to reach these groups. In addition, this first requirement, coupled with the Department's overall responsibility to the children of Abbott districts, inevitably mandates that the Department share in this task for each district, and to do so, it must determine the information it needs to evaluate whether the districts' plans and strategies are sufficient to ensure, to the greatest extent possible, that all reasonable steps are being taken to "maximize participation." The Department must therefore direct and guide districts as to what strategies it believes are likely to have positive effects on participation levels and what information it must have to assist with and assess district performance. Secondly, the regulation addresses the issue of what level of participation is to be defined as "low," responding to the Court's concerns by establishing the level at which a district must go beyond its initial responsibility to plan and engage in recruitment and outreach to a further responsibility to reassess its efforts and present for the Commissioner's specific approval a corrective action plan to increase enrollments by requiring corrective measures where the enrollments do not exceed 50% of the "projected preschool population in the district." As to this second aspect of the regulation, it is certainly possible to quibble with the Department as to the definition of "low." If the goal is to serve all of the eligible children then perhaps a district that is serving "only" 50% or some percentage above that rate is indeed serving an unacceptably "low" percentage of its universe. However, to the extent that the DOE has established by regulation a level that serves to define "low" for the purpose of establishing the threshold at which the Court's expectation of a determination of "awareness" must be triggered, the regulation is presumptively appropriate and, importantly, not open to review in this forum.

To the extent that subsequent to the issuance of Abbott VI, the DOE has taken regulatory action and thereby directed districts to engage in the very outreach and recruitment activities the Court emphasized as the real issue in regard to enrollment concerns, the Department has taken an important step that aims at assuring that the Court's directions and concerns are actually addressed. In its review of 2001-2002 plans and applications, it must be assumed that the Department will be assuring that the plans contain recruitment and outreach plans and that these are adequately funded and reasonably geared to success. To the extent that those proposals do not contain plans and information as to the funding allotted and/or sought, the Department must reject the plans and insist on compliance. As for the contentions in this case regarding whether there are at this time districts, other than Elizabeth, in which the enrollment is low and the districts are not serving at least 50% of the "projected preschool population," the question is whether the Department, faced with evidence of such "low" enrollments, has taken appropriate steps to require that the districts determine the awareness of parents about the district's preschool programs and, as appropriate, adopt plans to promote awareness and, as necessary, encourage enrollment. The Department apparently relies upon the assertions made in Ms. Friddell's certifications, in which she asserts that the ASSA data reveals that each district other than Elizabeth is serving at least 50% of its "projection." She presents no consolidated report or documentation for this conclusion. However, if her conclusion is correct, then the regulatory threshold of service to at least 50% of the "projected preschool population" has been achieved and there is no present basis for invoking the regulatory requirement that any district, other than Elizabeth, develop the corrective action plan mandated for those districts with less than 50% enrollment.

The record does, however, reveal that there is some discrepancy between the parties regarding the appropriate manner of determining the projected number of three- and four-year-olds in a district. Using his own methodology and basing his calculations upon the data collected by the CEER and the district enrollment information gathered by December 15 and presented in detail in the record, Dr. Barnett determined total eligibility at twice the first-grade enrollment. If Barnett's calculations are accepted, the rate of overall enrollment (three- and four-year-olds) in some of the Abbott districts is far in excess of that in others, ranging from Harrison's 78% down to Plainfield's 22%. He concluded that consolidated enrollment rates in twelve districts were below 50%, triggering the "corrective action" requirement.[19] [19] Asbury Park (45%); Bridgeton (42%); Camden (48%); East Orange (33%); Elizabeth (25%); Hoboken (48%); Jersey City (43%); Neptune (42%); Newark (42%); Paterson (37%); Pemberton (45%); Plainfield (22%).

The DOE's regulations do not provide regulatory guidance to districts as to how to determine the number of students they might be expected to serve, that is, the "projected preschool population." The regulations also make no distinctions based upon the percentages of enrollment of three-year-olds and of four-year-olds. Upon examination of the record herein, this distinction may be a significant factor in evaluating the performance of districts. Examination of the Barnett numbers shows that in districts with low (below 50%) three-year-old enrollment, the enrollment of four-year-olds is at least sometimes above 50%, even substantially so. In Bridgeton, the three-year-old rate is 25%, for four-year-olds the rate is 59%, an average of 42%. In Pemberton the rates are 29% and 60%; in West New York, 47% and 65%; in Newark, 34% and 49%; in Passaic, 41% and 59%. Not every district has this clear-cut distinction between the two age groups, or even if the difference is significant, it may not include a rate for either group close to 50%. In East Orange the rates are 26% and 41%; Elizabeth, 13% and 37%; Paterson, 32% and 41%. As counsel for the DOE posited at oral argument, these numbers may reflect that higher enrollments are likely for the older, as opposed to the younger, group of preschoolers, although the record is free of any substantive evidential support for that assertion. Indeed, there is no evidence in the record regarding any factors that might explain why any particular district might have low enrollment even if it were able to service all of its eligible students. If a district currently has a low or middling percentage of enrollment, the reasons might logically be a lack of parental awareness, awareness but indifference, lack of facilities to service students with a concomitant lack of interest by people convinced that they cannot obtain service, etc. Also affecting the numbers might be cultural or philosophical resistance to enrollment of young children, lack of understanding of the importance of early childhood education, distrust of the educational system, transportation difficulties, and child care issues. The point is that, at this stage in the "marathon," if one accepts the Barnett statistics there are a significant number of Abbott districts that still have enrollment percentages that, for one or both age groups, fall under the regulatory threshold. The DOE's own regulation mirrors the Court's expectation that low enrollments would "trigger a determination whether parents in the community are aware of the district's preschool programs." Abbott VI, supra, 163 N.J. at 119. Dr. Barnett's supplemental certification refers to a CEER survey in Newark that would appear to raise concerns about the knowledge of that district's parents as to its programs. There is no other evidence in the record that the DOE has demanded of any districts the production of plans in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(8).

The record before me does not include any evidence that would allow for a decision as to whether the Friddell representation of enrollment figures or the Barnett figures are more reliable indicators of the percentage of possible students in a district who are being served. Indeed, to the extent that their calculations differ in part due to differences in the formula used to determine the preschool population, there is no regulation controlling this calculation and it may be that both methods are reasonable. It is clear that where the Department has reasonable evidence that the enrollment in a district is below 50%, it must enforce its regulation strictly, demanding that districts with low enrollment, as defined by the regulation, take immediate and vigorous steps to determine the reasons for limited enrollments and identify the same to the DOE, so that the plans to increase such enrollments, the development of which the DOE must equally insist upon, can be expeditiously reviewed, critiqued and, as appropriate, revised and/or approved, with the necessary funding provided to ensure that the plan has a reasonable likelihood of success. In addition, although the Court in Abbott VI appeared to accept the Commissioner's method of letting districts rely upon "reliable indicators" to determine their projected population, it may be appropriate for the Department to consider refinements in the regulation, including a definition of the method to be used for calculation of the projected preschool population so as to allow for statistical uniformity and, additionally, in regards to the determination of "low" enrollments as relating to triggering of the need for corrective plans, to take into account the very likely difference in enrollment rates for three-year-olds as opposed to four-year-olds, if indeed it appears that there are significant reasons to anticipate that even with appropriate outreach and recruitment these numbers will reflect significant differences which may skew the overall enrollment figures and, perhaps, not allow the overall figure to truly reflect a district's performance in achieving an acceptable enrollment percentage that demonstrates a district's success at attracting those who actually will take advantage of the educational opportunity guaranteed by Abbott.

At oral argument, the deputy attorneys general did not vigorously dispute the Barnett figures, and pointed out that even if these were used it appears that overall enrollment has risen from about 39% to 47%, and argued that this level of progress is not to be dismissed as insignificant. Obviously, any gain in overall enrollment and the percentage of children served is a gain to be applauded. However, as counsel for the petitioners note, with only small yearly increments of progress it could take a considerable amount of time to reach the goal of full enrollment. To the extent that any action by districts can expedite the process, the districts must undertake that action, and, importantly, the DOE must insist that they do so.

In view of the controversy over the appropriate manner for determining the "projected preschool population" I am convinced that if future efforts to ensure appropriate recruitment and outreach are to be successful, a uniform standard should be established. What the proper means of calculation is I cannot tell. The Department should consider adopting a rule, after proper public input. To the extent that the record herein does reveal significant evidence that calls into question the claim that all districts, save Elizabeth, exceed 50% enrollment of the "projected preschool population," the DOE, in its current and ongoing review and assessment of district activity, should carefully evaluate the data, including the breakdown between three- and four-year-old enrollment, and, to the extent it determines that any districts have less than 50% enrollment, the DOE must advise those districts to immediately assess in detail the local situation as it pertains to the enrollment deficits and to prepare and present its detailed findings and corrective action plan for agency review and approval. Where necessary, the agency must then assist in adequately funding such plans.

Head Start

The record regarding Head Start and community-based programs reveals that in Newark and Paterson and West New York, existing Head Start and other community-based organizations appear quite willing to form a part of the districts' plan to provide early childhood education for all eligible children. In the case of Head Start, the DOE acknowledges the failure to reach a final statewide accord with Head Start, but has not offered any explanation why it could not do so. If the reason was that the non-Abbott-compliant Head Start programs were seeking exorbitant and unnecessary amounts of per-pupil assistance to supplement federal funds and the Department became convinced that these programs were attempting to gouge the districts and the State, then certifications and other documentary evidence in support of these contentions should have been produced. It is true that, as asserted in the Department's brief, to the extent that a Head Start agency cannot maintain Abbott standards at the offered contract rate, the Department need not enter into a contract with that agency. However, that presumes that the rate offered to the Head Start agency was a fair and appropriate rate based upon a reasonable assessment of the actual needs of the program and of the students it would serve. More broadly, the several allegations that the Department imposed a $4,500 per-pupil rate should have evoked more than a simple denial in the Department's brief that the DOE did not use an estimated amount per child. (See further discussion regarding this subject in the Funding section below.) At oral argument, co-counsel for the DOE noted that, while aware that negotiations had occurred with the Head Start programs, they could not say what actually happened. Of course, except to the extent that they might have been actual participants in the negotiations (they were not), the statements of counsel would not be evidential, but at least might have offered some insight into what happened and why no accord was reached. The Attorney General in fact conceded at oral argument that the record is barren of any evidence as to how the DOE determined the actual needs of the Head Start programs involved, including those of their students. Even more, regarding the contracts with community-based programs addressed in the West, Johnson, Morris-Yamba and Dickey certifications, how the districts decided upon the actual assistance needed for such pupils and programs on a particularized basis is not revealed. More specifically, the record does not reveal that the Department insisted that the local districts make such particularized determinations or present them to the Department for its assessment.

What is troubling here is that the thrust of the Supreme Court rulings and the clear wording of the regulations is that the districts should work with and wherever possible make use of existing community-based programs to deliver preschool services rather than duplicate such programs. If a community-based or Head Start program cannot reasonably provide Abbott-compliant preschool services or is unwilling to do so, then the district must provide its own program for the children attending the deficient program, or otherwise assure that there are other qualified community-based programs to deliver the program. However, if reasonable provision of funding and other supports will allow an already existing program to achieve Abbott quality, then the spirit of the regulations and Court rulings certainly requires that such reasonable measures be accomplished. If, in the districts here at issue, the DOE has, in its estimation, offered what was reasonable to accommodate the determined needs of the community-based and/or Head Start programs, it should have detailed its efforts and the circumstances that led to the failure to contract. It has not done so. There is therefore no way to determine whether the DOE acted properly. The Supreme Court has previously noted that funding levels determined without study as to the adequacy of such amounts are unconstitutional. Abbott IV, supra, 149 N.J. at 181-84.

Ultimately, as the DOE correctly argues, in districts where the children will not be served in adequate Head Start programs, the children must be served by the district in some other program and cannot be left adrift. However, I CONCLUDE that the Department violates both judicial intent and the regulatory spirit if it refuses to provide appropriate required levels of adequate funding, funding based on particularized need, to deficient but willing Head Start programs and thereby requires districts to duplicate the Head Start programs to the extent that they will have to provide not only the additional aspects of the deficient program, but also those aspects that fall short of Abbott requirements, but are nevertheless a proper part of a preschool program. As the record stands, I CONCLUDE that it is not possible to find that the DOE has acted in a reasonable and compliant manner. As the districts and Department confront the new school year and beyond the DOE must work with the districts and Head Start programs on both the local and statewide levels to cooperate so as to allow the districts to make maximum use of Head Start as an integral part of the districts' delivery of Abbott-quality education for preschoolers. In that effort, and especially to the extent that the Department is itself a participant in arranging any statewide agreement, the DOE must carefully assess the real needs of districts, students and specific providers, requiring districts to cooperate fully in the effort. It must document its actions and assessments, and, to the extent that the efforts are unsuccessful, must clearly explain to the districts involved and to the public the reasons why the Head Start program will not be a part of the process, just as it announced so publicly that it would be. If the issue is financial, then there must be a clear, documented review and assessment of the reasons why no agreement was possible, including an evaluation of the needs identified, the resources offered and the reasons, to the extent known, why the offers were not deemed acceptable and sufficient. Without these elements, it will be difficult to determine whether the agency has acted in accordance with the regulations and the Court's intentions.

Parental Status

As for the ELC's concerns regarding an alleged failure of the DOE to assure that districts are not denying preschool to children because of their parental status, the Court addressed this issue only in regard to concerns about the denial of services to children whose parents were excluded from Head Start due to their having dropped out of the TANF program. No other incidence of parental-status-based exclusion was addressed. The Court has spoken plainly on this: children cannot be excluded from a district's preschool programs simply because their parents have withdrawn from TANF and the children are consequently barred from Head Start. These children are fully entitled to a preschool education and the district must provide for them. The DOE did not adopt a regulation incorporating this bar on parental-status exclusion, instead adopting a regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3, that more broadly requires that the district "shall offer" an early childhood program to "all three- and four-year-old children." There is in this record no contention that any district is now excluding children based on parental status. In light of the Court's clear ruling, the all-encompassing nature of the quoted regulatory mandate and the lack of any evidence of a continuing problem, I CONCLUDE that no violation of the Court's mandates has been established.

The Role of Assessment

The crux of the ELC's complaints (and, in some degree, that also of the several participating districts) regarding the adequacy of both direct and supplemental funding revolves around the concern that the districts have not properly examined and assessed the conditions, circumstances, strengths and weaknesses relating to their delivery of an appropriate Abbott-quality preschool program for their children and thereby properly determined their needs, including those of the local community-based centers, and that the Department has failed to insist upon such district activity so that it can properly oversee the planning and implementation process and do all that is necessary to assure its success. The evaluation and assessment process is a procedure ultimately utilized as a means to produce plans for achieving the goals of Abbott and also to assist in assuring compliance with those mandates. In the petitioners' view, the failure to insist upon districts formulating plans and submitting them for assessment has led to inadequate funding being supplied to the districts in a number of Abbott-related areas.

The DOE argues in its brief that the petitioners attempt to foist a responsibility on the districts to assess the students and preschools prior to designing plans or revising them, a responsibility the agency contends is nowhere established in the Abbott cases. Such a reading of the Abbott decisions, especially after Abbott VI, is completely unwarranted. To the extent that the Court plainly requires that the DOE assure that the districts are adequately funded, that they are capable of delivering the level of educational program mandated and that they have the necessary tools to do so, the Department must understand the nature and quality of the programs and the conditions and circumstances of the districts and the students. The local districts must be even more cognizant of these matters in designing their plans for submission and assessment by the Department. While the "assessment and evaluation" phrase appears in the Abbott VI decision in the section relating to community outreach, 163 N.J. at 119, the whole tenor of the decision, including its emphasis on the "responsibility of the districts and the DOE to monitor operating preschools on a regular basis," to "ensure that they are delivering quality programs," 163 N.J. at 116, and the overall responsibility for the DOE as the insurer of performance dictate that the districts, and the DOE, engage in assessments of students, preschools and programs on an ongoing basis, so as to enable them to properly plan, assess and revise plans and programs. The essential nature of this function cannot be denied. The details of how such assessments are effectively carried out are clearly more flexible and need to be adaptable to the specific circumstances. However, it is apparent that the bold and vigorous effort to provide high-quality preschool programs to children of the Abbott districts cannot succeed without real understanding of the circumstances affecting the children, the community-based providers and the districts themselves.

While the petitioner asserts in broad terms that the DOE has failed to assure adequate funding, facilities, and supplemental funding for the Abbott districts in general and the ELC and participant districts in particular, in regard to disputes concerning the actual funding for specific district and preschool programs, the Department properly contends that the individual disputes between a district and the Department, or, for that matter, those disputes in which the representatives of the parents and students in a district challenge the adequacy of funding sought by and/or provided by the DOE, should be resolved separately from the global issues. In that regard, even as to the four districts directly involved in the ELC challenges, the detailed disputes as to the adequacy of the funding and programs in those districts cannot be decided on this record and must be separately addressed to the extent the petitioners seek any further resolution thereof. It may be that even in the absence of the plans and assessments that the petitioners see as missing, the district and the DOE have provided adequate funding to the districts and the districts are in a position to deliver an appropriate Abbott preschool program. However, the determination of the detailed issues in dispute concerning this question must be dealt with in separate proceedings. As for this "global" challenge, the question here is not whether any individual district received an adequate or an inadequate amount of funding, but instead whether there are systemic factors that exist that undermine the ability of the districts to obtain the funding they need or that limit the ability of the Department to assess that need. In this consideration, it is important to recall the Court's adjuration that determination as to "adequate funding remains critical to the achievement of a thorough and efficient education," Abbott V, supra, 153 N.J. at 517-18, quoted in Abbott VI, supra, 163 N.J. at 118. In addition, the Court's expectations as to the need for "assessment and evaluation" cannot be overlooked.

The ELC's specific complaints about inadequate funding include the aforementioned allegedly predetermined $4,500 per-child rate for community providers. However, the allegation that that rate was fixed without any evidence that it reflected a reasonable assessment of need, much less of the particularized need of specific districts, programs and children, also relates to a broader degree to the DOE's treatment of the districts' proposed budgets for the 2000-2001 school year. As the Department agrees that it must ensure full funding for all reasonable program needs through ECPA and, to the extent that ECPA funds are insufficient to meet adequate funding requirements, must ensure that supplemental funding is made available, there is no dispute about the fundamental funding responsibility. The Department properly insists that it must assure that funds requested are spent "effectively and efficiently." Abbott IV, supra, 149 N.J. at 195. The record contains a number of examples of the DOE advising districts that they would receive additional funds to implement the districts' plans, funds directly targeted to the early childhood program.[20] To the extent that these examples demonstrate that the Department has not acted to limit the expenditures of districts to the ECPA funds originally allocated to the districts, I FIND that they show that the DOE understands the obligation it has to provide adequate funding. Thus, the global issue is whether the record supports concerns that the DOE, despite such recognition, is nevertheless not acting to assure that the monies sought by districts are adequate for the task. The need for individual assessment of the adequacy of funds is emphasized by the Court in Abbott VI, where it recognized that "[o]nly after a review of individual applications from the districts can it be determined whether 'adequate funding . . . critical to the achievement of a thorough and efficient education' has been provided." 163 N.J. at 118. It is only when the Department truly understands and appreciates the level of funding adequate to the given situation that it can act on its understanding of its obligation to assure that those funds are available. Whether that understanding of the need is garnered solely from the information provided by a district, or from the district-provided information supplemented by the DOE's own information, the DOE must ultimately have sufficient knowledge of a district's situation that it is confident that the district can and will carry out its responsibility as the State's agent for providing education to the students of the district.

Examination of the record shows that, for example, the Paterson School District filed a plan in January 2000 in which it proposed to spend $3,500 for each three-year-old (half-day service) and $5,000 for each four-year-old (full-day service), with the program to be provided in [20] See letters included as Exhibit H to the Certification of Michelle Miller. These include notice of the issuance of additional funding to Pleasantville ($28,372); Vineland ($645,993); Gloucester ($50,198); and Keansburg ($300,000).

DHS-licensed centers pursuant to a subcontract agreement. It revised its plan on February 17 (pre-Abbott VI) and then again on April 18 (post-Abbott VI). Using a copy of the January plan, Paterson changed the rate of funding per four-year-old in the full-day program, striking out the original figure of $5,000 and writing in $4,500 for the same approximately 1,200 students. It continued to plan on spending $7,800 per child for students sent to the Passaic County Educational Services District. No explanation is provided as to the reason for the change in funding for the four-year-olds to be served in the DHS centers. No information is provided to allow anyone to understand whether the reduction in expenditure per student is based upon an assessment that the lower figure is adequate to provide a well-planned, high-quality education. Indeed, the original application did not provide any background information for the sufficiency assessment regarding the originally proposed $5,000 per four-year-old. If the reduction to $4,500 is a change to a predetermined set rate (here is that $4,500 number again), there is no evidence in the record as to the manner in which that rate was determined and how it relates to the provision of an appropriate Abbott preschool education. Additionally, while there are presumably legitimate reasons why the cost per student is higher for those served in the Passaic County Educational Services District, the rate for these students remains the same in the revised plan, while the DHS-center rate has been reduced. How, one wonders, does the reduction in one program relate to the stable rate in the other, and what impact, if any, does the reduction have on the program provided? To the extent that the applications do not explain the whys and wherefores, one is left to guess. The Department's approval of the revised plan, by letter dated April 24, 2000, references revisions "discussed on April 18 [the date of the second revision to the plan]," including the provision of "half of the full-day costs ($4,500) for children in community programs," and approves the same. There is no reference in the letter to the reason for the reduction, no evidence in the record of the nature of the discussions of April 18, and no suggestion as to how, why or from whom the suggestion for the revision arose. It must be assumed that the Department believed that the plan, including its per-student cost, was adequate to provide an Abbott-compliant education. However, since the reduction was to $4,500, the reduction seems suspiciously to have been based on some pre-set DOE rate calculation. Again, if this is true, a proposition that the DOE denies, no evidence explaining or justifying the adequacy of that rate has been presented. If this is not true, how was the $4,500 rate determined? In the face of a record lacking in explanation and documents that are likewise empty, the appearance of the very arbitrariness that troubled the Court in Abbott IV is evident.

Consideration of the Jersey City plans raises similar questions. Originally, the January plan called for three-year-olds to receive a half-day program in approved agencies at a cost per pupil of $3,400. When the plan was revised, sometime after its original submission, three-year-olds were to receive a full-day program with a per-pupil cost of $8,400. There is no explanation of the sufficiency of the per-pupil cost at either rate. Apparently the cost for full-day was more than twice that for half-day, but one is left to guess whether the original $3,400 cost was actually sufficient for an appropriate half-day. (It may be that the $8,400 figure reflects the inclusion of matching DHS funds. If this is so, the rate per pupil is apparently $4,200, an $800 dollar per-pupil increase over the previous figure. How the two figures relate and to what extent one or the other constitutes sufficient funding for an appropriate education is not revealed.) The DOE approved the revised plan by letter dated June 13, 2000. The letter makes no reference to the change in per-pupil costs. It states that the "plan meets all . . . required components." This blanket statement may imply that the DOE was satisfied that the plan would provide the well-planned, high-quality preschool education contemplated by the Court, but the approval letter, much like the plan produced by the district, does not explain how that conclusion is justified. It is interesting to note that Newark's plan originally called for funding for a full-day program in approved centers for three-year-olds at $4,500 per child, with matching funds from the DHS to be blended with that amount. As revised, on September 19, 2000, the Newark plan sets the rate for the same program at $4,750, again to be matched by DHS funds. Again, there is no explanation of the sufficiency of either figure, or any reason given for the change in rate. To the extent that the rates varied from those originally sought in Jersey City, or those sought in the amendment, there are no doubt reasons for the differences between the two districts, but on the face of the proposals and approvals, there is no way to understand the differences and the justifications as to why the amount needed per pupil varies. Of course, it is exactly this difference in the needs and circumstances of individual programs and of individual districts and students that argues for careful assessment by districts and the DOE, and against anything smacking of arbitrary treatment.

It is of course possible that the per-pupil costs listed in these plans are adequate for the provision of preschool programs that are fully compliant with Abbott standards and would provide each eligible child with a well-planned, high-quality education. The fact that no one elaborated on the subject may simply reflect that all involved were convinced that the costs were sufficient and did not believe it necessary to say so in writing. However, to the extent that the DOE has the responsibility to assure that the local districts are providing well-planned, high-quality education, one must wonder on what basis, if any, the DOE made that assessment regarding these plans. Additionally, one must wonder if the districts themselves made that assessment. It is also true that there is no evidence that the districts made a program-by-program, center-by-center assessment of the specific needs of those providers in order to determine whether a single fee amount throughout the district was sufficient to allow each provider to deliver the appropriate education. Perhaps these assessments were performed. However, if they were, they are not documented and there is no evidential record that the DOE reviewed these assessments or even saw them.

In the end, regarding issues relating to the need for specific levels of funding, supplemental services and the funding therefore, facilities, and the like, the DOE must carefully guide the districts as to the information it must have in order to fairly assess their needs and requests. It must insist that districts both assess and regularly monitor their own and community-provider programs. It must do so regarding teacher certification and the progression of staff towards mandated certification, and regarding the need for transportation and health services, overall special education staffing and funding (as opposed to pupil-specific needs properly determined under IDEA provisions, including due process hearings), and bilingual education. While the DOE might prefer to allow districts to deal with the planning and implementation of Abbott programs on their own, and while the districts do have the front-line responsibility for properly planning, assessing, monitoring and, where needed, revising the manner in which they deliver services, the DOE has an inescapable, constitutionally significant responsibility that requires that it not merely sit back and receive what the districts give it, that it not merely offer limited guidance and assistance to the districts, but that, as Justice Stein said, it boldly and even aggressively act as the strong and active insurer of the planning and implementation of Abbott preschool education.

I CONCLUDE that the districts are required to conduct reasonable evaluations, reviews and assessments of themselves, their preschool children and their providers' circumstances and to use these as aids in formulating plans for the implementation of Abbott preschool. These must be made available to the DOE so that it too can, as it must, conduct reasonable reviews and assessments of the districts' actions.[21] In addition, and of paramount significance, I CONCLUDE that the DOE must issue clear guidelines and standards to districts concerning the information that it requires to understand, evaluate and ultimately decide upon the adequacy of their plans, requested funding and plan implementation.

The permanent-facility needs of the several Abbott districts must be addressed through the path determined by the Legislature. The EFCFA is the Legislature's response to the challenge of assuring that the Abbott districts have these permanent facilities, while at the same time it represents a political decision by the elected representatives of the people as to how to achieve that mandate and at the same time recognize the interests of other districts and their students. To the degree that the EFCFA process controls the decisions regarding permanent facilities, all necessary measures must be taken to assure expeditious decision making, both in regard to initial determinations and reviews thereof. Of course, all such decisions must be made with full recognition of and obedience to the Supreme Court's requirement for the full funding of facilities necessary for the provision of Abbott preschool, as well as all other aspects of the broader Abbott mandates. To the extent that compliance by appropriate governmental agencies with such requirements must be anticipated, there is no warrant to avoid the EFCFA process, but that process must recognize the urgency of the needs of districts and students. That facilities funding has not been accomplished in the 1999-2000 and 2000-2001 school years is certainly regrettable, but at this time there is no relief that can be afforded for facilities not built or funding not provided in those years, except to the extent that there may be enforceable rights based upon approvals already given, such as Perth Amboy claims. The more immediate issue is the provision of temporary facilities to allow for the maximum enrollment of preschoolers during the interim period until the permanent facilities are in place. The Supreme Court's mandate, as expressed in Abbott V, is absolutely clear. The necessary funding for needed temporary facilities must be supplied. If the DOE disputes the need for space in any district, then the parties must, if they cannot resolve their dispute, seek resolution through the administrative hearing process. If the need is not disputed, then there is no warrant for delay in providing the funding or the facilities themselves. The key, of course, is the need for realistic assessment of the needs of the several districts for temporary facilities. Counsel for Passaic and Elizabeth has strongly asserted that the number of modular units the Department proposes to supply through the EDA is insufficient to serve the needs of the districts, perhaps grossly so, pointing out at argument that the two districts he represents will themselves need a significant percentage of the proposed modules. The record here does not allow for a determination of this question, which is inextricably tied to the individual needs of specific districts, but the Sztuk certification proposes that the number being obtained will suffice, and the Department has presumably based that number upon a full evaluation of the needs of the districts. In that regard, much said already in this decision as to the absolute need for DOE oversight and careful assessment of the districts' needs bears repeating. To the extent that individual districts allege that they will not have the needed temporary facilities in place for the start of the new school year, or that they do not now have them and could actually use them at this time to fulfill Abbott mandates if in place, the districts may seek relief from the Commissioner, although of course it is the Commissioner's right to determine whether they present proper grounds for a contested case. It is hoped, as the Court urged, that the parties will resolve these issues without the need for hearings.

Summary, Conclusion and Order

In summary of the above, based on the record as presented by the parties and the arguments of counsel, I make the following findings and conclusions, as well as the following suggestions that are, in my view, worth further consideration by the Department and the districts.

To the extent that these require action, the parties are ORDERED to comply and act in accord with the following:

1. As of this time, the Department has not violated the Court's mandate to issue substantive educational standards. However, in order to avoid concerns that the Expectations, while an important step, are by themselves not a fully sufficient formulation of such standards, the Department must adopt the Framework document prior to the start of the 2001-2002 school year. If the adoption of the final document is not expected prior to June 15, 2001, then an interim, draft document should be issued so that additional substantive guidance can be available to the districts before the next school year begins.

2. Adoption of N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a)(8) is a positive step to promote the Court's concern regarding the need for districts and the DOE to assess and evaluate the enrollment within districts and the need for and planning of recruitment and outreach efforts. However, further refinement of the regulation to define the procedure for determining the "projected preschool population" may be warranted. In addition, consideration should be given to whether distinctions are appropriate regarding the percentage of enrollment of the projected preschool population of three-year-old versus four-year-old children in determining the "low" threshold for districts. Finally, while the difference in methods of calculation employed herein by Barnett and upon which Friddell relied to determine the percentage of enrollment in districts clouds the issue of whether in the present school year districts other than Elizabeth have less than the regulatory threshold of in excess of 50% and points up the apparent need for a regulatory formula for this calculation, the DOE must carefully consider the Barnett data and insist that districts that are below the threshold based upon the most up-to-date reliable data immediately formulate and present for approval and, as necessary, funding, corrective action plans in conformity with the regulation.

3. The Department must negotiate in good faith with Head Start programs in order to allow the inclusion of all willing programs within the districts' plans for providing high-quality Abbott preschool. The Department and the districts must act in coordination to assure that such discussions are based upon fully adequate assessments of the needs of the several districts' students and the needs of the individual Head Start (or other community-based) programs. The determination of the funding to be offered to those programs that do not meet Abbott standards must be based on these assessments, and, to the extent that the determination is not supported by appropriate study and assessment, the funding cannot be pre-determined, across the board per-pupil amounts. The Department, and also the districts, must be able to support the funding levels offered with information, evaluations and calculations that will establish that the offers are reasonably geared to allow the deficient programs to deliver high-quality, Abbott-standard education. The record here does not allow the determination that the Department offers to Head Start were in fact adequate for this purpose. There does appear to be a lack of district- and program-specific analysis of the necessary level of funding.

4. The Department has not violated the Court's mandates in regard to the parental status issue.

5. The DOE clearly understands its obligation to assure that districts have all necessary funding for Abbott districts and programs and has demonstrated that understanding in some circumstances. Disputes over the implementation of specific district and program needs do not detract from that overall understanding. However, there appears to be some concern that the understanding is at times only theoretical.

6. Districts, as well as the Department, must engage in specific evaluations and assessments of the needs of their students, programs and community-based providers so as to determine in detail their specific requirements and to formulate plans and applications reasonably geared to meet those needs and thereby assure that Abbott-quality preschool is available for all eligible children. In addition, the DOE must make assessments and ultimately assure that the districts are providing such programs. In order to properly undertake these tasks, the DOE must issue guidelines, probably in the form of detailed regulations, that advise districts and providers as to the information deemed necessary to allow for the districts and the DOE to adequately understand the needs and plan, fund and carry out the programs, as well as assess their adequacy and success. The exact details of what is necessary to do this must be left, in the first instance, to the DOE to determine.

7. Permanent-facility needs must be addressed through the EFCFA process. That process must of course allow for expeditious and well-reasoned determinations. The Department must address short-term facility needs immediately and fully, and determination as to the actual needs of the districts to allow for full implementation of the necessary programs must be based upon careful and detailed assessment of such needs. To the extent that there are disputes over the needs of specific districts, these must be determined on a case-by-case basis.

8. The dispute regarding Perth Amboy's claim to $2.6 million dollars that it contends was spent based upon specific DOE approval will be determined in a separate decision and counsel will be notified promptly of a date for conferencing that matter. Likewise, Vineland's claim for restitution of funds already spent will also be considered in a separate hearing.

9. To the extent that the ELC or any districts seek to pursue any further specific funding issues or other matters regarding the 1999-2000 school year or the 2000-2001 school year, they may do so in the context of the unconsolidated portions of pending cases. Counsel shall assess their positions in light of this decision and shall notify the judge assigned to the relevant case within twenty (20) days as to their intentions. The filing of any new appeals regarding the 2001-2002 school year shall not delay such determinations. Counsel shall also notify the assigned judge if the district or other petitioner determines to withdraw a pending case.[22]

[22] Although not directly at issue in this case, I believe that it is appropriate to express as a footnote to the summary and conclusions some thoughts regarding the timing of decision making in Abbott matters. The experience following Abbott VI suggests that the individual districts and the DOE can often resolve their disputes without the need for hearings at the OAL. However, I believe that if the resolutions are to occur in a time frame that allows the districts to know how they actually stand early in any given school year, the time for resolution must be limited. Thus, when a contested case is forwarded to the OAL, following a reasonable, yet expeditious, discovery schedule, the parties should be allowed a limited time in which to work out their differences. If no resolution has occurred, the case should go directly to hearing, so that an initial decision can be forwarded to the Commissioner for review and a final decision issued at an early date. As desirable as a resolution of a dispute without the need for a full hearing is, given the need to provide some assurance of the funding and programs to be available as early as possible in a school year

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

(if not before the school year begins), prolonged settlement negotiations should not be permitted to delay prompt resolution of the dispute, although of course settlement can still occur even during the active stage of the hearing. As for the DOE review process, complaints in this case about the delay in receiving decisions from the agency are at times matched by allegations that the districts did not present their final revised plans until long after the spring. There need to be fixed and firm dates for applications to be filed, for review to be completed, for decisions approving or disapproving to be issued, and for appeals to be filed. If the application is considered incomplete, review by the Department must be on the application that is presented and decisions should be made on the application presented to the extent possible, with resolution of the disputes on the application presented left to the appeal. At least this moves the matter along and sets the issues for the appeal, without long delays in the initial stages of the process. All interested parties, including the districts and their attorneys, the ELC, the DOE and the Attorney General and the OAL, must of course consider how to accomplish the expeditious movement of plans and applications, reviews and assessments, decisions and appeals. To the extent that the regulations already incorporate time frames, the effectiveness of those time frames may need consideration. In addition, the needs of all concerned for adequate staffing for the review and the hearing process must be carefully considered so that cases may proceed without undue delay. Adequate personnel to review plans and issue determinations, sufficient attorneys to handle multiple agency-level and OAL matters, and adequate numbers of judges to hear these cases must be available. Perhaps all interested groups should be involved in discussions to determine the best means to achieve the desired resolutions in a fair yet timely fashion.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Early Childhood Education Program Expectations: Standards of Quality, April 2000 (internet report)

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3236-01

IN THE MATTER OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ABBOTT GLOBAL ISSUES.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by the respondent Department of Education ("Department"), as were replies by Petitioners Hoyos, Doresa, Aranda and DeWitt ("petitioners") and participant Boards of Education of Passaic and Elizabeth ("participants").[1]

In its exceptions, the Department observes that the Initial Decision consists of various suggestions and a few orders, and requests that, to the extent these suggestions and recommended orders are adopted, any changes resulting from them should apply to early childhood education plan cycles beginning with the 2002-2003 school year. Specifically, completion of the Early Childhood Education Curriculum Framework should be set within a reasonable time from the date of the Commissioner's final decision; draft or interim frameworks are not appropriate for adoption, since these might differ substantively from the finalized framework, necessitating mid-year modification of plans and services. (Department's Exceptions at 2)

The Department next requests that the Commissioner clarify, to the extent the Initial Decision suggests otherwise, that the Court placed the entire state-level burden for assurance of quality early childhood education programs not exclusively on the [1] Other petitioning/participating boards of education, although contributing to the record before the ALJ (Initial Decision at 5), made no submissions on exception.

Department of Education, but rather on the State. Therefore, the State must have the flexibility to allocate tasks to appropriate agencies other than the Department of Education, such as the Department of Human Services, the New Jersey Economic Development Authority, and the Commission on Higher Education. The State must also be able, in its discretion, to retain responsibility for accomplishing tasks itself, either directly or through procurement of services, rather than delegate them to districts. (Department's Exceptions at 2-3)

Finally, the Department urges the Commissioner to clarify that, while the Court plainly authorized collaboration with community providers in the delivery of early childhood education services, it did not require the use of any particular provider, including Head Start. Therefore, as with any other provider, if Head Start is unable or unwilling to deliver services meeting Abbott standards at a cost the State determines to be efficient, the State is under no obligation to collaborate with it or bring it up to Abbott standards, fiscally or programmatically. (Department's Exceptions at 3-4)

In reply to the Department's first exception, petitioners and participants contend that the record is devoid of factual basis for the Department's claims that compliance with the Initial Decision's recommended time frames is not feasible, and they strenuously object to any further delay in its implementation. Participants additionally contend that interim or draft curriculum frameworks would be neither inappropriate nor unworkable, since the Department routinely issues guidelines, standards and suggestions that are subject to change during the course of their implementation, and no reason is given why interim standards cannot be employed during the 2001-2002 school year with final standards to apply in 2002-2003 and thereafter. (Petitioners' Reply at 1, Participants' Reply at 2-3)

In reply to the Department's contention that responsibility for Abbott preschool programs may be delegated to State agencies other than the Department of Education, petitioners and participants respond that the Court unequivocally placed responsibility for providing required preschool programs on the Abbott districts and the Department of Education. Participants add that it is somewhat disingenuous for the Department to now back away from responsibility for programs it, itself, proposed to the Court, and that any means the Department chooses to implement the Court's mandates must be consistent with the Court's directives and result in prompt and timely fulfillment of obligations. (Petitioners' Reply at 1-2, Participants' Reply at 3-4)

Finally, in reply to the Department's contentions regarding its obligations to community service providers generally, and to Head Start in particular, petitioners and participants contend that the Court clearly required all Head Start programs to be included within districts' Abbott preschool plans, and that the only appropriate course of action with respect to Head Start is for the Department to assess what is needed to bring all Head Start programs up to Abbott standards and fund them accordingly. Even assuming, arguendo, that the Department's exclusion of Head Start on grounds of fiscal inefficiency were permissible under the Court's mandate, the record in this matter is totally devoid of factual evidence that would support such an action; indeed, it does not even include an explanation as to how and why the Department determined not to contract with Head Start. (Petitioners' Reply at 2, Participants' Reply at 4-5)

Over and above their replies to the Department's exceptions, petitioners and participants urge the Commissioner to adopt the findings, determinations, conclusions and recommendations of the Initial Decision in their entirety. At the very least the Commissioner should require the Department to direct completion of an Early Childhood Education Curriculum Framework, interim if not final, at the earliest feasible date and in as much detail as possible; reaffirm the responsibility of every district to serve every eligible child in a quality preschool program and the responsibility of the Department to fund plans and programs for this purpose; require the Department to issue clear guidelines and standards for the specific information required to understand and evaluate the adequacy of plans and funding requests, rather than reviewing them based on preset cost determinations; assure expeditious decisions on requests for permanent facilities and provide for temporary facilities in the interim; and require the Department to establish fixed and firm dates for the early childhood program application and approval process. (Petitioners' Reply at 2-3, Participants' Reply at 1-2)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

As set forth in the Initial Decision, petitioners[2] allege that, in a host of ways, the Department has failed to meet the mandate of the Court and has otherwise violated the law. Specifically, they allege:

> (1) Failure to provide timely and concrete guidance to enable and assure that districts plan and implement preschool for all children under the Abbott VI quality standards;
> (2) Failure to require the development and implementation of plans to provide high-quality preschool for all eligible three- and four-year-old children in the Abbott districts, based on need;
> (3) Failure to require the development and implementation of concerted and aggressive outreach and recruitment efforts to improve and maximize enrollments;
> (4) Failure to include Head Start children and programs in the districts' preschool plans and budgets;

[2] For purposes of the following discussion, "petitioners" refers to all petitioners and participants, consistent with the procedural explanation of the ALJ (Initial Decision at 4-5). Where specific filings are referenced, the submitting party is individually identified.

(5) Failure to require assessment of children's needs and the development and implementation of program plans and budgets based on those needs;

(6) Failure to require assessment of all school- and community-based programs and the development and implementation of improvement plans to enable each program to meet Abbott VI quality standards, including class size limits and teacher certification;

(7) Failure to require the development and implementation of uniform, age-appropriate content and curriculum for all programs;

(8) Failure to require the development and implementation of plans for transportation, social, health and other services, based on need;

(9) Failure to require the development and implementation of plans for safe and educationally adequate preschool facilities, including temporary and permanent facilities to address increased enrollments and the needs of unhoused children as a result of class size reduction;

(10) Failure to require the development and implementation of plans to provide preschool to children with disabilities, with limited English proficiency and other special needs;

(11) Failure to require the development and implementation of plans for district-wide assessments, supervision, technical assistance, coordination, training, evaluation and accountability measures to assure uniform, high-quality preschool education in all programs, whether community- or school-based, based upon an assessment of district-wide need;

(12) Failure to require the development and implementation of needs-driven district budgets and supplemental funding requests;

(13) Imposition of pre-determined, per-pupil funding amounts for preschool in community-based providers, based upon available state funding;
(14) Approval of district-revised plans for 2000-2001 that fail to comply with the Abbott VI preschool directives; and

(15) Arbitrary rejection of various components of district plans requiring supplemental funding for implementation. (Initial Decision at 6-7)

Based on these allegations, petitioners seek a decision[3] that "finds that the DOE's 2000-2001 implementation of preschool programs in the Abbott districts violates

[3] Petitioners agree that any relief must be prospective. (Initial Decision at 8)

Abbott V and VI, federal and state special education laws and state bilingual education law, and, as relief, directs the Commissioner to require and assist the Jersey City, Newark, Paterson and West New York districts, and other Abbott districts, to > (1) Conduct a comprehensive assessment of the particular academic, social and health needs of preschool-age children;

> (2) Conduct an assessment of all school and community providers of preschool to determine their needs and develop site-specific improvement plans and budgets therefore to assure maximum enrollment of three- and four-year-old children without regard to parental status;
> (3) Assure inclusion of all children enrolled in federally funded Head Start and services for children with disabilities;
>
> (4) Assure timely transition to classes of fifteen students where necessary;
>
> (5) Assure sufficient and ongoing professional development;
>
> (6) Assure teacher certification for non-certified teachers with needed supports and accessible higher education and phase-in of comparability between district and provider salaries, benefits and schedules for similarly credentialed and experienced teachers;
> (7) Assure high-quality curriculum at each site;
>
> (8) Assure all necessary transportation, health and social services;
>
> (9) Assure needed facility improvements and, as necessary, expansion and/or new construction;
> (10) Assure adequate programs and staff for oversight, training assistance, etc., and adequate provider-specific and district plans, budgets, facilities and state funding." (Initial Decision at 6-8)

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) addresses petitioners' allegations by distilling them into a handful of broad systemic issues and, by and large, resolving them not through the customary findings of fact and conclusions of law, but rather through reflections and observations culminating in a handful of orders, most of which are more in the form of suggestions for consideration than of directives for specific action.

Recognizing the inherently difficult task before him, the ALJ himself acknowledges the unusual character of the resulting decision in transitional comments between his statement of the parties' positions and his own discussion of specific issues:

> Judging the legal sufficiency of any steps taken in an ongoing process that is intended to reach a goal that admittedly cannot be achieved in a definably short time is difficult. Similarly, where some possible action has not occurred, the determination as to whether that lack of action at any given time in the long-term process constitutes a legally actionable violation can be difficult to determine. To the extent that the evidence presented establishes that the DOE has not done what the Court mandated it to do, the remedy for such non-compliance necessarily must be directive, that is, the DOE must be ordered to comply, and in that vein, possibly be given somewhat more detailed directives as to how to assure that it does so. The decision here is therefore addressed to systemic concerns and is perceived as far more applicable to the next and future rounds of plans and applications, as any identified failings in the DOE's systemic response to the task set out for it by the Supreme Court must be immediately rectified so that the 2001-2002 school year can proceed in a more ordered and less contentious manner, and so that, in future years, the interested parties, agencies and groups can all address the issues in a more coordinated and cooperative manner. As a result, some of the comments and conclusions reached are perhaps more suggestive than they are adjudicative. (Initial Decision at 36-37)

He reiterates this view when reaching his actual orders, in comments introducing the Initial Decision's Summary, Conclusion and Order:

> In summary of the above, based on the record as presented by the parties and the arguments of counsel, I make the following findings and conclusions, as well as the following suggestions that are, in my view, worth further consideration by the Department and the districts. To the extent that these require action, the parties are ORDERED to comply and act in accord with the following: (Initial Decision at 56-57)

While the ALJ's approach is an understandable one – arguably the only feasible one under the circumstances – its result is paradoxical. The Department, noting the general absence of determinations that the evidence showed clear and pervasive violation of the Court's mandate, finds only limited bases on which to take specific exception. Petitioners, on the other hand, noting the limited extent of the Department's exceptions, view the decision as a vindication of their claims and urge its immediate affirmance in all respects, contending that the Department's comment to the effect that no violation was demonstrated "flies in the face" of a detailed and well-reasoned determination. (Participants' Reply at 1)

The Commissioner, as agency head, stands in an unusual posture in reviewing a recommended decision of this nature. In accordance with the rules for adjudication of contested cases, he may accept, reject or modify findings of fact, conclusions of law and recommended orders based upon the record before him, and he does so below, to the extent that the Initial Decision presents these. However, where the ALJ has made suggestions for improvement, or expressed a conditional opinion because the record by which both he and the Commissioner are bound did not permit a firm conclusion, the Commissioner takes the ALJ's observations under advisement and, where appropriate, directs, as a matter of policy, further exploration and activity on the part of the Department.

Consistent with the parameters set forth above, the Commissioner now turns to the specific issues addressed in the Initial Decision.

Constitutional Basis for Preschool in the Abbott Districts

The ALJ analyzes the writings of the Court and concludes that he cannot find preschool to have been clearly declared a constitutional entitlement, although in the current context it is plainly a significant legal right. (Initial Decision at 37-38) The Commissioner concurs with this conclusion, which does not reappear in the Summary, Conclusion and Order.

Substantive Educational Standards

Addressing allegations that the Department has failed to meet the Court's directive for provision of substantive preschool educational standards, the ALJ reasons as follows: If the Department's adoption of its Early Childhood Education Program Expectations: Standards of Quality ("Expectations") document (Initial Decision at 18-19) is enough to satisfy the Court, then DOE has not violated the Court's mandate. However, the Department clearly intends to go further, as evidenced by its ongoing development of an Early Childhood Education Curriculum Framework ("Framework") document to give more specific guidance than is provided in the Expectations; thus it may be that the standards set by the Expectations are not substantive enough to meet the Court's mandate. If this is so, then the Department must move quickly to adopt more substantive standards in time for the 2001-2002 school year. (Initial Decision at 39)

From this reasoning, the ALJ concludes, and so orders, that although the Department is not in violation at this time, in order to truly meet the Court's mandate and avoid concerns that the Expectations are not fully sufficient as standards, the final Framework, or an interim version, must be in place by June 15, 2001, so as to apply to the 2001-2002 school year. The ALJ further states, with general reference to substantive educational standards, that the Department must insist on review of district early childhood education curriculum plans, seeking such information as the agency in its expertise determines to be necessary for this purpose, in order to ensure that the goal of effective schooling is being met. (Initial Decision at 39-40 and 57)

While wholeheartedly endorsing the ongoing process of developing the Framework document, the Commissioner cannot concur that the Department is in violation of the Court's mandate to provide substantive educational standards if the Framework document is not in place prior to commencement of the 2001-2002 school year. In effect, the ALJ's analysis construes the Department's plan to develop the Framework as per se evidence that the Expectations are not sufficiently substantive to meet the mandate of the Court. The Commissioner disagrees. The Expectations document is analogous to the Core Curriculum Content Standards (CCCS). It is the definitive document that clearly establishes State standards for what students are expected to know and be able to do upon completion of preschool, and it offers a wealth of strategies and resources for development of programs and practices that will lead to the desired results. Like the CCCS, it is a "stand-alone" document, albeit one designed to permit ongoing supplementation by further resources and support strategies, both at the State and the local levels. That such supplementation is possible and, indeed, is being actively undertaken by the Department in an effort to encourage creation of the best programs achievable, does not alter the essential value and character of the Expectations document, nor render it inherently deficient in terms of meeting the Court's mandate for substantive preschool standards. To the contrary, the early childhood Framework document will be analogous to the frameworks adopted for each content area of the CCCS[4] – a supporting resource, developed by a broad-based panel of experts over a period of time subsequent to the establishment of standards, intended to enhance and amplify strategies previously presented in conjunction with those standards.[5]

[4] Both the CCCS and their corresponding frameworks are accessible through the Department's website at http://www.state.nj.us/njded/stass/index.html

[5] The Commissioner rejects petitioners' claim that the Expectations document is deficient because it does not deal with budgeting, professional development and "clear, measurable standards of high-quality classroom practice to which the teaching staff can be held accountable." (Initial Decision at 18-19) Not every matter to be addressed as part of Abbott implementation falls within the rubric of "substantive educational standards" as used by the Court in this context.

Because neither its effectiveness nor its validity is contingent upon existence of a corresponding Framework, the Commissioner finds the Expectations document to be more than adequate to guide development of high-quality preschool programs consistent with the Court's mandate. Thus, he can ascertain no reason why the Framework cannot continue to be developed as currently scheduled, through the same careful, inclusive and highly successful process that was used to develop the Expectations and the various CCCS frameworks, as described in the introductory sections of those documents. However, because the Commissioner is committed to assisting districts in achievement of preschool standards of quality and the Framework will be yet another valuable tool in that endeavor, he directs the Department to ensure that the planned schedule for development of the Framework be maintained as announced, without delay or extension, so that the Framework will be finalized and disseminated, as planned, by August 2002.

Additionally, the Commissioner finds the requirement for Department review and approval of district preschool program plans, including plans for a district curriculum that conforms to Expectations standards which are linked to the CCCS, to be implicit in the rules governing early childhood education operational plans at N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.4. However, to the extent that district curriculum plans may not be undergoing sufficient review in the context of Department review of early childhood education operational plans or otherwise, the Commissioner directs that the Department revise its practices and procedures as may be necessary to include such review, and that it provide guidance to districts as to what they must submit in order for such review to occur. If necessary, the Department should also develop amendments to existing rules for presentation to the State Board of Education, so that, with public input and discussion, that body may duly consider their promulgation pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (N.J.S.A. 52:14B). In order to insure that any changes to, or clarifications of, the review process are in place prior to the due date for submission of early childhood education operational plans for 2002-2003, so as to allow for adequate preparation by districts, the Commissioner directs that the Department develop and publicize any such revisions or clarifications by August 31, 2001.

Enrollment & Recruitment

The ALJ endorses basic principles which all parties recognize: that intensified outreach is necessary when enrollment does not reach a minimum threshold of eligible students, and that adequately funded plans are needed for ongoing and expeditious improvement of existing enrollment patterns even where the minimum threshold has been met, so that, as soon as practicable, access to preschool programs meeting State standards is available to all eligible students as intended by the Court. Noting that the current regulation establishing a threshold of 50 percent of eligible students is presumptively valid and not open to review herein, the ALJ discusses the discrepancy in the parties' views as to the correct method of determining the projected number of eligible three- and four-year-old students to which the threshold percentage is to be applied, and the possible impact of distinguishing between three- and four-year olds. Finding that the record does not permit him to draw a conclusion as to which of the parties' two respective methods results in the more reliable indicator, or indeed, what the proper method of calculation might actually be, the ALJ concludes that the Department should establish, by rule after due public input, a uniform standard for determining the number of eligible students in a district. In the Summary, Conclusion and Order, he states that "further refinement [of the current regulation] may be warranted," that the Department should carefully consider the support such a claim. Neither does the record present any response to petitioners' allegation that the Department offered an inadequate, predetermined dollar amount to bring the programs up to Abbott standards, without any assessment of student or program needs; indeed, the record provides no explanation at all as to why agreement could not be reached. (Initial Decision at 45-47)

Based on this analysis, the ALJ concludes that he cannot find the Department to have met its burden of demonstrating that it acted in a reasonable and compliant manner with respect to Head Start. He further concludes that the Department violates the spirit and intent of the Court's directive, and its own rule, if it does, in fact, refuse to provide appropriate levels of funding based on particularized needs to willing but deficient Head Start programs, thereby requiring districts to duplicate Head Start services, as well as provide for those components found lacking in the rejected programs. Finally, he concludes that where the Department is going to reject a provider as impractical, it must have a clear, documented basis for doing so, so that the lawfulness of its action can be properly gauged. Accordingly, reiterating that the present record does not permit a determination that the Department's offer to Head Start was need-based and adequate, and that there appears to have been a lack of district- and program-specific analysis of the level of funding necessary to upgrade to Abbott standards, the ALJ orders that the Department must negotiate in good faith with Head Start; that the Department and districts must coordinate their efforts to assure that discussions with Head Start and other community providers are based on adequate assessments of student needs; and that funding must be based on such needs and not on pre-determined per pupil amounts. (Initial Decision at 47-48 and 57-58)

On the issue, the Commissioner cannot concur with the ALJ's analysis and conclusion, which appear to suggest that Head Start programs must be used, that the State has an independent obligation to negotiate with Head Start at the state level, and that, if a Head Start program – or for that matter any community preschool provider – is not offering a program that meets Abbott standards but is willing to do so, the State must pay for remediation of its deficiencies regardless of the availability of acceptable alternative means to serve the district's eligible student population.[6] If read in this manner, the Initial Decision would stand the relationship between Abbott districts and community providers on its head. Under applicable rules at N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(b), districts are required to provide preschool programs through existing community providers willing and able to meet Abbott standards, whenever practical. Thus, identifying and contracting with appropriate providers is a district responsibility, subject to Department approval through review of the district's early childhood education operational plan. To the extent that a district seeks additional funding to bring willing but below-standard providers up to Abbott levels, the State surely has the right – indeed, the responsibility – to deny such funding in whole or part based on a determination that the bringing of any particular substandard non-district program, including a Head Start program, up to Abbott expectations is not cost-effective or is otherwise impractical, and to direct the district to serve its students in an acceptable alternative manner. Certainly, there is no independent obligation for the State to "negotiate" with any particular community provider, including Head Start, or for districts to contract with any particular provider, including Head Start. However, the Commissioner does concur that where the State determines not to supply additional funding for a particular provider, such determinations cannot be made without consideration of student needs. Therefore, the Commissioner directs that, to the extent that the Department, in the formative stages of Abbott implementation, may ever have used pre-determined dollar amounts[7] or other apparently arbitrary standards as bases for excluding Head Start or other willing community providers from district preschool plans, this is not to occur. Rather, plans to use community providers, including Head Start, must be evaluated based upon student needs, with considerations of cost and practicality assessed relative to other means of meeting State standards.

Parental Status

The Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ's summary conclusion and order that the record provides no evidence of the Department having violated the Court's mandate by denying, or permitting the denial of, preschool services to any student based on the status of his or her parent, vis-à-vis ineligibility to enroll their children in Head Start or otherwise. (Initial Decision at 48 and 58)

The Role of Assessment

The ALJ characterizes the crux of petitioners' complaints regarding the adequacy of the Department's direct and supplemental funding processes as follows: Districts have not properly examined and assessed the conditions, circumstances, strengths and weaknesses surrounding their delivery of an appropriate Abbott-quality preschool program, and have, therefore, failed to properly determine their needs and those of the local community-based centers. The Department has failed to insist upon such district activity so that it can properly oversee the planning and implementation process, and do all that is necessary to assure its success. Failure to insist upon districts formulating plans and submitting them for assessment, in turn, has led to inadequate funding in a number of areas. The Department's response is that petitioners are attempting to foist a responsibility on districts to assess students and preschools prior to designing plans or revising them, a responsibility which the Court nowhere requires. (Initial Decision at 48-49)

The ALJ rejects the Department's position as totally unwarranted, especially after Abbott VI, supra. Instead, he holds that assessment must be viewed as central to any meaningful implementation of Abbott, which inherently demands ongoing evaluation of students, preschools and programs, to ensure that quality services are being delivered and identified needs are being met. In examining records of specific claims of inadequate funding vis-à-vis systemic issues, the ALJ finds that the Department understands its obligation to provide adequate funding, as evidenced by its provision of funding for early childhood education programs over and above the funds provided by Early Childhood Program Aid. He further finds, however, that while the funding at issue in the matters on record may, in fact, have been adequate, and appropriate underlying assessments may, in fact, have been made, the corresponding request determination letters do not indicate that Department decisions were based on specific assessments and analyses of district or student needs; to the contrary, they lack explanations, take little or no account of differences between districts, and generally create the appearance of the very arbitrariness that previously troubled the Court. With reference to this deficiency, the ALJ opines:

> In the end, regarding issues relating to the need for specific levels of funding, supplemental services and the funding therefore [sic], facilities, and the like, the DOE must carefully guide the districts as to the > information it must have in order to fairly assess their needs and requests. It must insist that districts both assess and regularly monitor their own and community-provider programs. It must do so regarding teacher certification and the progression of staff towards mandated certification, and regarding the need for transportation and health services, overall special education staffing and funding (as opposed to pupil-specific needs properly determined under IDEA provisions, including due process hearings), and bilingual education. While the DOE might prefer to allow districts to deal with the planning and implementation of Abbott programs on their own, and while the districts do have the front-line responsibility for properly planning, assessing, monitoring and, where needed, revising the manner in which they deliver services, the DOE has an inescapable, constitutionally significant responsibility that requires that it not merely sit back and receive what the districts give it, that it not merely offer limited guidance and assistance to the districts, but that, as Justice Stein said, it boldly and even aggressively act as the strong and active insurer of the planning and implementation of Abbott preschool education.

Following this discussion, the ALJ concludes that districts are required to conduct reasonable evaluations, reviews and assessments of themselves, their preschool children and their providers' circumstances and to use these as aids in formulating plans for the implementation of Abbott preschool. He further concludes that these must be made available to the Department so that it can conduct reasonable reviews and assessments of the districts' actions. Finally, he concludes that, above all, the Department must issue clear guidelines and standards concerning the information that it requires from districts to understand, evaluate and ultimately decide upon the adequacy of their plans, requested funding and program implementation. (Initial Decision at 49-55)

In the recommended orders based upon this section, the ALJ states that the Department clearly understands its obligation to provide adequate funding and has in some circumstances demonstrated that understanding, from which specific disputes do not detract. However, noting that "there appears to be some concern that the understanding is at times only theoretical," the ALJ directs:

> Districts, as well as the Department, must engage in specific evaluations and assessments of the needs of their students, programs and community-based providers so as to determine in detail their specific requirements and to formulate plans and applications reasonably geared to meet those needs and thereby assure that Abbott-quality preschool is available for all eligible children. In addition, the DOE must make assessments and ultimately assure that the districts are providing such programs. In order to properly undertake these tasks, the DOE must issue guidelines, probably in the form of detailed regulations, that advise districts and providers as to the information deemed necessary to allow for the districts and the DOE to adequately understand the needs and plan, fund and carry out the programs, as well as assess their adequacy and success. The exact details of what is necessary to do this must be left, in the first instance, to the DOE to determine. (Initial Decision at 58-59)

The Commissioner fully concurs that assessment of needs and evaluation of programs is central to any meaningful implementation of Abbott mandates; indeed, requirements for such assessment and evaluation are inherent throughout the detailed rules governing urban education reform in Abbott districts, at N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.1 et seq. While the record is not conclusive on this point, as recognized by the ALJ, it would come as no surprise if, in the first stages of implementing so vast and new an undertaking as the Abbott initiative – where programs needed to be put into place quickly so as not to delay immediate benefit to Abbott students – assessment and evaluation processes as they pertain to preschool and supplemental programs may not have been as refined as they should ideally become. Thus, while recognizing that improvement has been an ongoing process that continues to this day, the Commissioner directs, with respect to preschool operational plans and requests for supplemental funding, that to the extent that the Department may not be ensuring that assessments of student need are occurring or providing sufficient guidance as to how they are to be conducted, to the extent that the Department may not be ensuring that programs are being evaluated for compliance with approved plans, and to the extent that the Department may not be making its determinations on preschool and supplemental funding requests based on assessment of student needs, the Department shall, by August 31, 2001, recommend to the Commissioner such revisions to its practices and procedures as may be necessary to achieve these goals, as well as recommend whether any guidelines or rules may be warranted.[8]

Facilities

The ALJ concludes, and subsequently orders, that facilities needs must be addressed through the process established by the Legislature through the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act (EFCFA). He further concludes that short-term facilities needs must be promptly addressed through determination as to the actual needs of the districts to allow for full implementation of the necessary programs, based upon careful and detailed assessment of such needs, and that, to the extent that disputes exist over the needs of a specific district, these must be determined on a case-by-case basis in accordance with applicable appeal procedures. (Initial Decision at 55-56 and 59)

The Commissioner fully concurs with these conclusions and orders, clarifying that addressing of facilities needs must occur through the process established in the rules implementing EFCFA at N.J.A.C. 6:23A-1 et seq.[9]

Miscellaneous Orders

The ALJ makes recommendations regarding further procedures in the specific disputes pending at OAL with regard to Perth Amboy's and Vineland's claims to [8] The respective roles of districts and the State in assessment and evaluation processes (see discussion at 84-85 below), and what specific information is necessary in order to ensure that needs are identified and met, is a matter to be determined through development of the directed procedures.

[9] It is noted that the State Board of Education in May 2001 proposed superseding rules, to be codified as N.J.A.C. 6A:26 upon adoption, consistent with the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (N.J.S.A. 52:14B).

restitution of funds already spent, and with regard to other discrete matters pertaining to the 1999-2000 or 2000-2001 school year. (Initial Decision at 59) The Commissioner concurs with these recommendations and adopts them in their entirety.

Time Frames for Submission/Review of Applications and Resolution of Disputes

In a footnote to his summary and conclusions, the ALJ finds it "appropriate to expresssome thoughts regarding the timing of decision making in Abbott matters." The ALJ opines that, while resolution apart from the contested case hearing process is both possible and desirable, where this does not occur, the parties' time for resolution must be limited so that districts can know where they stand early in a given year; thus, OAL rules limiting the time for discovery and settlement efforts in cases of this type may be warranted. He further opines that the Department's application process suffers because there are no fixed time frames for submission of filings and rendering of decisions; he suggests that district papers should be due on dates certain, with Department decisions based on whatever is submitted and resulting claims of deficiency addressed on appeal, and that the effectiveness of rules already including time frames may need reconsideration. He urges all interested parties – such as the Department, districts, the Education Law Center, OAL and the New Jersey Economic Development Authority – to consider how to accomplish expeditious movement of plans, applications, reviews/assessments, decisions and appeals, suggesting that there should be "discussions to determine the best means to achieve the desired resolutions in a fair yet timely fashion." (Initial Decision at 59-60)

While these comments of the ALJ do not constitute a finding or order, it is clear from the record that problems exist with the time frames within which various Abbott determinations are occurring, although the Commissioner must observe with respect to Department determinations that, as alluded to by the ALJ, this appears to be due in no small part to district failure to submit requested information and the ensuing protracted efforts to obtain such information. Therefore, the Commissioner directs the Department to examine this issue, identify the places where improvement is necessary and the means required to effectuate such improvement (for example, regulatory or operational revisions, additional staff, coordination with other affected agencies regarding possible changes to their rules and procedures, and so forth), and report its conclusions and recommendations to the Commissioner by August 31, 2001, so that the Commissioner may effectuate changes in preparation for the 2002-2003 school year.

Burden on the Department of Education

Although the issue was not addressed or analyzed by the ALJ as a discrete topic, the Department contends in its exceptions, supra, that the wording of the Initial Decision in several places implies that the Court placed the entire burden for assurance of quality early childhood education programs exclusively on the Department of Education, thus precluding reliance on other State agencies. The Department stresses that compliance with the Court's directive is a responsibility of the State, not solely of the Department of Education, and that the State must be given the flexibility to allocate its responsibility among agencies, such as the Department of Human Services, the New Jersey Economic Development Authority, and the Commission on Higher Education, which are appropriate to handle the necessary tasks. Additionally, the State must be accorded the ability, in its discretion, to handle responsibilities, such as, perhaps, the needs assessments recommended by the ALJ, on its own or through procurement of services, rather than by assigning them to local districts. Such allocation of State responsibilities should not be viewed as inconsistent with the Court's directives, and the Initial Decision should not be construed to suggest that it is.

The Commissioner readily acknowledges that, because education is the fundamental right at issue in the Abbott rulings, the Department of Education is the State agency with primary responsibility for ensuring that Abbott mandates are met. However, he fully concurs with the Department that ultimate responsibility lies with the State, not exclusively with the Department of Education, and that, particularly in view of the wide-ranging nature of the Abbott directives, it would be both unwarranted and counterproductive to preclude the State in its discretion from allocating responsibilities among its various agencies and subdivisions as appropriate, so long as obligations to Abbott students are fulfilled.

Summary and Conclusion

Herein, the Commissioner is confronted with review of the Department's implementation of a task of enormous size, complexity and urgency, a task described by the Court in Abbott VI as nothing less than "a major transformation of the educational system serving the State's poor, urban districts." (Supra, at 101) It is clear from the record of this matter that, particularly since Abbott VI, a number of crucial formative tasks have been successfully accomplished (Initial Decision at 15-17), representing a Herculean effort of which the Commissioner is proud, a significant improvement in the education offered in poor, urban districts, and a good-faith commitment to the Abbott children as envisioned by the Court. That not every goal has yet been fulfilled to its utmost – that more remains to be done – should not be allowed to detract from the magnitude of what has already been accomplished. Pervasive bad faith and violation of Court directives, as alleged by petitioners, is not the same thing as a need for refinement, improvement and ongoing readjustment, based on practical experience with a vast and unprecedented undertaking.

That being said, it is equally clear that the first stages of Abbott implementation are behind us and the time is now right for such refinement, improvement and readjustment. Although the Initial Decision did not present the unequivocal findings and conclusions sought by petitioners, the Commissioner does concur with the ALJ that there are specific ways in which effectuation of Abbott requirements might now be bettered, and that the Department must be proactive in seeing that this occurs.

Accordingly, the Commissioner specifically finds, determines and directs as follows:

1. The Commissioner declines, as did the ALJ, to find that the Department's implementation of early childhood education in the Abbott districts is generally in violation of Abbott V, Abbott VI or other applicable law.

2. The Commissioner affirms the ALJ's conclusion that preschool, while a significant legal right in the present context, has not been declared a Constitutional entitlement.

3. The Commissioner rejects the ALJ's conclusion on the necessity of the preschool Framework document and accordingly reverses his order directing its promulgation in final or interim form by June 15, 2001, finding instead that quality, Court-compliant preschool programs can be implemented based upon standards set forth in the detailed Expectations document already promulgated, together with rules of the State Board and technical assistance provided by the Department. Notwithstanding, the Commissioner concurs that the Framework is an important part of the State's continuing commitment to Abbott children, and he directs that the schedule currently in place for its development be maintained without delay or extension, so that the Framework document will be finalized and disseminated by August 2002.

4. The Commissioner endorses the ALJ's observation that Department review of district preschool curriculum plans is required for implementation of the Abbott mandate, and to the extent this may not be sufficiently occurring as part of the Department's review of Early childhood education operational plans or otherwise, the Commissioner directs that the Department make, by August 31, 2001, such revisions to its practices and procedures as may be necessary to ensure district compliance with preschool standards.

5. The Commissioner affirms the ALJ's conclusion that a uniform regulatory method of determining the projected number of eligible preschool students is warranted, and he directs the Department to develop appropriate rule language for presentation to the State Board of Education at its August 2001 meeting, so that the Board may consider promulgation of rules in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act.

6. The Commissioner endorses the ALJ's observation that review of district enrollment and recruitment plans is necessary for effective implementation of the preschool mandate, and, to the extent that these, or corrective action plans where necessary, may not be undergoing sufficient review as part of the Department's review of early childhood education operational plans or otherwise, the Commissioner directs that the Department make, by August 31, 2001, such revisions to its practices and procedures as may be necessary to ensure district compliance with established regulatory standards.

7. The Commissioner rejects the analysis, conclusion and order of the ALJ with regard to Head Start, to the extent that it appears to require use of Head Start or any other particular provider by districts, negotiation with Head Start or any other particular provider at the state level, or provision of funds to bring Head Start or any other willing community provider up to Abbott standards regardless of the availability of alternative means of serving students.

8. The Commissioner stresses that identifying and contracting with community providers is a district responsibility and is required when practical. He affirms the ALJ's finding that, to the extent that Department determinations on preschool program and funding applications may ever have been based on predetermined fiscal considerations rather than on assessment of student needs, this must not occur. He further directs that the Department's method of review must be adjusted to the extent necessary, if any, to ensure that district plans to use community providers, including Head Start, are evaluated based upon student needs, with considerations of cost and practicality assessed relative to other means of meeting State standards, and that guidance is provided to districts as to the information the Department needs for adequate review.

9. The Commissioner affirms the ALJ's conclusion that the Department has not violated the Court's mandates in regard to exclusion of students based on parental status.

10. The Commissioner modifies the ALJ's directive with respect to needs assessments and program evaluation by clarifying that the State may allocate responsibility as it deems appropriate for particular tasks. However, the Commissioner concurs that assessments of student needs, and evaluation of programs, are essential to proper fulfillment of the Abbott mandate, and that the manner in which such assessments and evaluations are to be undertaken must be determined by the Department. Therefore, he directs, with respect to preschool plans and applications and requests for supplemental funding, that to the extent that the Department may not be ensuring that assessments of student need are occurring or providing sufficient guidance as to how they are to be conducted, to the extent that the Department may not be ensuring that programs are being evaluated for compliance with approved plans, and to the extent that the Department may not be making its determinations on preschool and supplemental funding requests based on assessment of student needs, the Department shall, by August 31, 2001, recommend to the Commissioner such revisions to its practices and procedures as may be necessary to achieve these goals, as well recommend whether any guidelines or rules may be warranted.

11. The Commissioner affirms the ALJ's conclusion that facilities issues must be addressed through the mechanism established by the Legislature for this purpose, that is, through EFCFA and its implementing rules.

12. The Commissioner affirms in their entirety the ALJ's orders (Initial Decision at 59, Nos. 8 and 9) with regard to further proceedings in the specific disputes pending, apart from the "global" issues determined herein.

13. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's suggestion that there is room for improvement in the various time frames operative in Abbott applications, determinations and appeals. He directs the Department to examine this issue, identify the places where improvement is necessary and the means required to achieve it, and report to him with conclusions and recommendations by August 31, 2001, so that he may effectuate changes in preparation for the 2002-2003 school year.

14. The Commissioner recognizes that the Department of Education has the primary state-level responsibility for ensuring that Abbott mandates are met, but clarifies the Initial Decision to the extent that it may be construed as finding that the Court placed this responsibility exclusively on the Department of Education, rather than on the State. He further clarifies that the State may retain tasks itself rather than delegate them to districts if, in its discretion, it deems that appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's residency determination that her sons were not domiciled in Wayne and not entitled to a free public education there. The Board counterclaimed for tuition owed.

A settlement agreement was drawn up and the parties complied with the terms even though the agreement was never executed by petitioner. The ALJ concluded that all the issues in the matter were resolved and ordered the petition and counterclaim dismissed with prejudice.

The Commissioner agreed with the recommendation of the ALJ and dismissed the petition.

Record Closed: April 9, 2001 Decided: April 11, 2001

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On August 8, 2000, the Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Petitioner appealed the action of the Wayne Board of Education (Board), which disenrolled her sons, J.P. and J.P., from the Wayne Public School District on the grounds that they were not domiciled in Wayne and not entitled to a free public education there. The Board counterclaimed against petitioner for the tuition owed for the time the children attended school in the District without entitlement.

A hearing was scheduled in this matter for August 28, 2001.

The Board notified the undersigned by letter, dated January 9, 2001, that the matter was resolved. A settlement agreement was drawn up by the parties under the terms of which the petitioner would pay the Board $2500 and J.P. and J.P. would no longer be enrolled in the District. A copy of this agreement is attached hereto.

On April 9, 2001, the undersigned received a letter from the attorney for the Board stating that the terms of the settlement have already been complied with and the Board's counterclaim has been satisfied. The letter also states that the Settlement Agreement was never executed by D.R.P. and her attorney is unable to make any further contact with her.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that all issues in this matter have been resolved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition and counterclaim are hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

v. Board of Education/Township of Wayne
O.A.L. Docket No.: EDUOS 07323-00N
Our File No.: 82/2955

Dear Judge Klinger:

This office represents the Wayne Township Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board"). By letter dated January 9, 2001, I informed Your Honor that the parties had reached a settlement in the above-referenced matter. Enclosed herein please find a copy of an unsigned Settlement Agreement.

Pursuant to the terms of the Settlement Agreement, the Petitioner was to pay the Board $2,500 in one lump-sum payment. In fact, these monies were paid by the Petitioner to the Board in accordance with terms of the Settlement Agreement. The Petitioner, however, has failed to execute the Settlement Agreement. Moreover, George M. Holland, Esq., counsel for the Petitioner, has indicated that he has not been able to contact his client to date or obtain the signed Settlement Agreement.

It is the Board's position that since the settled amount has been paid and these students are no longer enrolled in the Wayne Schools, this matter is resolved in its entirity and there is no need for a plenary hearing in this case. Accordingly, the Board withdraws its counterclaim without prejudice in light of the fact that Settlement Agreement remains unsigned. Moreover, we respectfully request that the Petition of Appeal be dismissed with prejudice for lack of prosecution.

If you should have any questions, of course, do not hesitate to contact us.

With kind regards, we are

Respectfully submitted,

Board of Education of the Township of Wayne	:	O.A.L. Dkt. No. EDUOS/07323-00N Agency Ref. No. 182-6/00
	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT, made on the _____ day of _____, 2001, by and between Debra Rusin Pavone who currently resides at 18 Sherbrook Drive, Lincoln Park, New Jersey (hereinafter referred to as the "Parent") and the Board of Education of the Township of Wayne which has its offices located at 50 Nellis Drive, in the Township of Wayne, County of Passaic and State of New Jersey (hereinafter referred to as the "Board").

WHEREAS, the Parent filed a Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education seeking a reversal of the disenrollment of J.P. and J.P. from the Wayne Township Public Schools;

WHEREAS, the Board filed an Answer to the Petition of Appeal and a counter-claim asserting that J.P. and J.P. were not residents of the Township of Wayne entitled to a free public education and seeking tuition reimbursement in the amount of $9,991.30;

WHEREAS, the Parent filed an Answer to the Board's Counter Claim stating that J.P. and J.P. were entitled to attend the Wayne Township Public Schools as they were homeless;

WHEREAS, a plenary hearing in this matter was scheduled for January 10, 2001;

WHEREAS, further litigation of this matter would necessitate the disruption of the Board's educational program due to the necessary absence of administrators, teachers and office personnel who would be called to testify at the hearing, said hearing expected to require at least two (2) days to conclude;

WHEREAS, the continuation of this litigation would cause the Board to incur substantial financial costs that would significantly exceed the cost of this settlement;

WHEREAS, the parties agree that a settlement would be in the best interests of the Wayne Township Public Schools and therefore, the public; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to amicably resolve their differences without the need to resort to any further litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the aforementioned mutual premises and promises and in exchange for the consideration more particularly set forth below, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Parent agrees she is liable to the Board in the amount of $2,500. To that end, Parent agrees to remit payment in the amount of $2,500 to the Board in one lump-sum payment by January 24, 2001. Payment shall be made by money order or cashier's check made payable to the Wayne Township Board of Education, which should be forwarded to Fogarty & Hara, Esqs., 16-00 Route 208 South, Fair Lawn, New Jersey 07410. Upon receipt of the check, the Parent will be forwarded a letter acknowledging receipt of payment.

2. The Parent agrees to withdraw her Petition of Appeal in the above-captioned matter bearing O.A.L. Docket No. EDUOS 07323-00N and Agency Reference No. 182-6/00, subject to the approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

3. The Board agrees to withdraw their Counter Claim for tuition in the above-captioned matter bearing O.A.L. Docket No. EDUOS 07323-00N and Agency Reference No. 182-6/00, subject to the approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

4. In the event the Parent defaults on her obligation to make payment to the Board in accordance with this agreement, the Board will proceed by summary action to enforce the terms of this settlement to obtain judgment in the amount of $5,000 and execute on the judgment. In addition, the Parent will be held responsible for the Board's attorneys' fees and costs which arise out of the Board's efforts to collect on the amount due to the Board.

5. The parties recognize that they have been represented by counsel of their own choosing and that they sign this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein. This agreement shall be subject to the laws of New Jersey.

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's decision to refuse bus service to his son to two locations within Branchburg in accordance with court-approved joint custody/visitation agreement wherein his son lived with him 5 days a week and with his mother 2 days a week.

In light of the record and the testimony of the transportation supervisor that the Board revised its transportation policy to end the issuing of bus passes which allowed students to be picked up or dropped off at alternate sites during the school week and restricting transportation to alternate drop off/pick up sites only "on a 5 day per week basis," the ALJ found that the reasons for revising the policy were reasonable and prudent, and designed to promote Branchburg's responsibility to provide safe, efficient and effective bus transportation to its students. The ALJ concluded that the Board did not act unreasonably, arbitrarily or capriciously in denying petitioner's request for the alternative pick-up and discharge locations for his son. Moreover, the ALJ concluded because a person may have only one domicile, for the purposes of this matter petitioner's son may have only one residence or home. Noting that petitioner did not present the entire Final Judgment for Divorce, the ALJ did not find merit in petitioner's argument that his son's living arrangements resulted from a Superior Court adjudication. The ALJ further concluded that because the Board was not a party to the Superior Court action, it had no additional duty for the son's transportation to and from his parents' homes. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner agreed with and adopted the recommended order of the ALJ dismissing the petition with clarification. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the record did not support petitioner's argument that the relief he sought must be granted by the Board because, inter alia, the living arrangements for his son resulted from a Superior Court adjudication. The Commissioner, however, did not concur with the ALJ's inference that the Board's not being a party in the divorce action before the Superior Court had any bearing on the controversy presented in this matter. Also, noting that the recent Somerville v. Manville court decisions were not applicable in this matter because those rulings were limited to the factual circumstances therein, the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner's son may have only one domicile/residence. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner ("Van Note") appeals the denial by the respondent ("Branchburg") of Van Note's request that his son receive school bus transportation at 2 locations within Branchburg Township in accordance with court approved joint custody/visitation agreement. Branchburg denies a statutory obligation to provide transportation to 2 dwellings of a student, and that its policy in this regard is not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Van Note's petition was filed with the Commissioner of Education on June 19, 2000 and thence transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 7, 2000 for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. A prehearing conference was conducted on November 29, 2000 at which time the parties agreed that the matter could be heard on motion for summary decision with January 24, 2001 fixed as the date for oral argument. Prior to the date for oral argument, Branchburg's attorney advised that he wished to include testimony in the hearing record and January 30, 2001 was fixed as the date of the plenary hearing.

The hearing was conducted on January 30, 2001 at Bound Brook, New Jersey. Witnesses who testified and exhibits admitted into evidence are listed in the appendix. The parties were granted leave to submit post-hearing memoranda. The last submission was received at the Office of Administrative Law on February 27, 2001 which dates constitutes the closing date of the hearing record.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The post-hearing submissions of the parties indicate agreement of the following statements of material fact. Therefore these statement constitute Findings of Fact.

Van Note's son Jeffrey has attended Branchburg schools since kindergarten, and now into seventh grade. During those years Jeffrey's parents were living apart, petitioner living in Neshanic Station and Jeffrey's mother living in the area of Branchburg served by the Somerville post office. By agreement of his parents Jeffrey lived with his father 5 days each week and with his mother the other 2 days of the week.

Jeffrey's parents divorced in 1996. Their Property Settlement Agreement (Exhibit P-4) states, "The parties shall continue to have joint legal and physical custody of the child [Jeffrey]." During a school week Jeffrey lives at his father's house on Tuesday, and Thursday mornings.

Jeffrey is at his mother's house Wednesday, and Friday mornings. "Every other Monday Jeffrey stays with a different parent."

Prior to the 1998-1999 school year Branchburg granted Jeffrey a "bus pass" to board a school bus in the morning at the bus stop nearest to the parent's house at which he had awakened and to be returned to the bus stop nearest to the parent's house where he would be sleeping that night.

Branchburg instituted a new "bus pass" procedure for the 1998-1999 school year (Exhibits R-1 and P-3). The revised bus transportation policy, insofar as is material to this matter "allows for transportation of a student from an alternate pick-up location and/or an alternative drop-off location . . . for the current school year and on a 5 day per week basis." (Exhibit R-2 – form letter from Department of Student Transportation).

Jeffrey is not permitted to board the school bus in the morning or be dropped off from the school bus in the afternoon at the bus stop closet to Van Note's home but must use the bus stop nearest his mother's home.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

"Each school district shall provide, for all children who reside in the district and are required to attend the public schools therein . . . suitable educational facilities including. . convenience of access thereto . . .". N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1. "Whenever in any district there are elementary school pupils who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance or secondary pupils who live more than 2½ miles from their public school of attendance, the district shall provide transportation to and from school for these pupils." N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

"The board of education may make rules and contracts for the public transportation provided pursuant to this section." N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. Pursuant to this legislated authority, Branchburg adopted a comprehensive transportation policy (Exhibit P-3) and charged its Transportation Supervisor, Gilbert Taylor with carrying out that policy.

Taylor testified that because of the increased number of students in the Branchburg School District and the inefficiency of the then existing transportation system, upon his becoming Transportation Supervisor in August 1998 he recommended that Branchburg end issuing bus passes which allowed students to be picked up or dropped-off at alternate sties during the school week. Taylor also testified that the procedure change was necessary because the district had grown to 2500 students and his office staff and bus drivers had an "easier" time not having to worry about "who is going where," children being on the wrong bus, getting off in the wrong area, and being on the bus without the driver's knowledge. Bus drivers are provided Bus Attendance lists (Exhibit R-3) and route directions (Exhibit R-4) which are changed only as students move into or out of the district.

Taylor thought it was possible for the Van Note situation to work, but expanding the policy district –wide would present administrative problems and may jeopardize the safety of using the buses.

Branchburg introduced a certified copy of excerpts of its November 16, 1998 meeting (Exhibit R-1) at which Taylor explained the new policy. The excerpted minutes introduce 2 concerns in this matter. The first is that Taylor addresses "transportations to locations other than the student's home . . .", and the second concern is that neither the minutes nor the Branchburg transportation policy (Exhibit P-3) indicate formal approval of Taylor's actions. The said transportation policy, as adopted October 20, 1997 refers to requests "for pick-ups or drop-off at locations other than the child's home shall be made in writing to the Transportation Supervisor" (at page 3 of 3).

Van Note's argument is that Jeffrey has 2 homes in Branchburg, and therefore Jeffrey should receive bus transportation to each home. N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 states that the word "residence" when used in Title 18A of the New Jersey Revised Statutes "means domicile . . .". Therefore, because a person may have but only one domicile, I CONCLUDE that for the purposes of this matter Jeffrey may have only one residence or home. American Employers' Insurance Co. v. ELF Altochem North America, Inc., 157 N.J. 580,590 (1999).

I do not find merit in Van Note's argument that Jeffrey's living arrangements result from a Superior Court adjudication. Van Note chose not to present the entire Property Settlement Agreement and the Final Judgment of Divorce so one is unable to divine whether the court had any knowledge of Jeffrey's ultimate visitation arrangements. Further, because Branchburg was not a party to the action before the court. I CONCLUDE that Branchburg has no additional duty for Jeffrey's transportation to and from his parents' homes.

Although the documentary evidence does not explicitly address Branchburg's formal approval of Taylor's actions in terminating bus passes for alternative drop-off points for students, the bus pass provision is not explicitly authorized by the transportation policy. Taylor has not denied a parent or guardian from having his/her child's bus stop location changed. However, in accordance with the policy provision, "all bus routes and bus stops shall be established annually," changes maybe thereafter made only when necessary "to establish an effective and efficient transportation system for [the] township."

Anyone may disagree with Taylor's decision to end bus passes, however, I FIND the reasons he expressed at the hearing for instituting the changes to be reasonable and prudent, and designed to promote Branchburg's responsibility to provide safe, efficient and effective bus transportation to its students. I CONCLUDE that Taylor did not act unreasonably, arbitrarily or capriciously in denying Van Note's request for the alternative pick-up and discharge locations for his son, Jeffrey.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition filed in this matter be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the recommended order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) dismissing the Petition of Appeal for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision with the following clarification.

Initially, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the record does not support petitioner's argument that the relief he seeks must be granted by the Board because, inter alia, the living arrangements for his son "result from a Superior Court adjudication."[1] (Initial Decision at 5) In so holding, however, the Commissioner does not concur with the ALJ's inference on page 5 of the Initial Decision that the Board's not being a party in the divorce action before the Superior Court has any bearing whatsoever on the controversy presented in the instant matter.

[1] Exhibit P-4, which contains several pages of the Property Settlement Agreement/Superior Court divorce decree between petitioner and his former wife, states only that that the parties have resolved the issues of custody, visitation and support and that they shall continue to have joint and physical custody of their son. Nothing in the record would support any inference that the Superior Court decree placed a duty on respondent to provide transportation to and/or from each of the parent's residences.

Further, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that, for the purposes of this matter, petitioner's son may have only one domicile/residence. In so holding, the Commissioner is cognizant of the recent Appellate and Supreme Court decisions in Somerville Bd. v. Manville Bd., 332 N.J. Super. 6 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd 167 N.J. 55 (2001) but does not find the decisions applicable herein because the rulings were limited to the factual circumstances presented in that specific matter. [2]

Accordingly, the petition is hereby dismissed.

[2] The Somerville case dealt with the issue of which school district was to bear the expense of educating a student, placed in a private school for the handicapped, whose divorced parents, residing in two different school districts, had joint custody and the districts had an oral agreement for four years to share the costs of the education. The trial court held that the student was a domiciliary of Somerville for purposes of a free public education and that, prospectively, Somerville alone had responsibility for the student's education. The New Jersey Appellate Division reversed the lower court's determination, holding that "Under the particular circumstances of this case, fairness dictates that both districts bear equally the costs of the child's special education." (emphasis supplied) (at 17) On April 10, 2001, the New Jersey Supreme Court affirmed the Appellate Division decision. Further, it acknowledged, as did the Appellate Division, that the issue posed in the Somerville case is one that appropriately may be addressed by State regulation. With respect to this, the Supreme Court stated, "The Department of Education participated in this matter as amicus curiae before the Appellate Division, and provided that court with a draft regulation addressing issues of domicile and residency that had not as yet been published or the subject of public comment. We anticipate that any regulation adopted in the future by the Department addressing the issue before us would supersede our disposition of this appeal." (at 59) The Department's draft regulation dealing with domicile/residency is currently under discussion by the State Board of Education as Chapter 28 of Title 6A.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Petitioning Superintendent of Schools alleged the Board violated his tenure rights and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20 when it invalidated his contract and failed to notify him in writing prior to July 1, 1999, that he would not be reappointed at the end of the term of his contract. The issue herein was whether, after rescinding the initial four-year contract for the 1992 to 1996 term in August 1995, the Board entered into a contract replacing the initial contract and a second contract for the term from 1996 to 2000. Petitioner asserted that there was a replacement contract, renewal and an addendum to the contract, and that certain actions of the Board ratified the renewal contract and that the Board's failure to properly notify him of nonrenewal triggered a third contract for 2000-2005 by operation of statute. Moreover, petitioner alleged that he was not given a 5% raise in accordance with his alleged 2000-2005 contract.

The ALJ found that whether there was a contract and/or whether the contract was ratified by Board action were purely issues of contract law. Citing East Brunswick and Picogna court decisions, the ALJ noted that although the Commissioner has jurisdiction to hear and decide cases arising under school laws, where a dispute does not arise under school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction, even though it may relate to school personnel. The ALJ found that the Commissioner lacked jurisdiction over the contract claims asserted by petitioner. Petition was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction; petitioner's motion for summary decision was rendered moot.

The Commissioner determined to reverse the Initial Decision of the ALJ and grant summary decision to petitioner. Following the passage of P.L. 1991, c. 267, establishing contractual tenure for superintendents, the Commissioner has consistently exercised his jurisdiction when faced with situations where appointment, contract rescission or modification of a superintendent's contract relates to questions of a superintendent's contractual tenure. The ALJ's reliance on Picogna was misplaced since Picogna was a nontenured assistant superintendent. Since it was undisputed that the Board herein appointed petitioner to an initial four-year contract beginning July 1, 1992 and ending June 30, 1996, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq., therefore, petitioner held tenure as a superintendent when the Board acted to rescind the initial contract on August 15, 1995. The Commissioner found that by Resolution on August 15, 1995, the Board rescinded petitioner's initial contract and reappointed him to a new five-year term commencing June 1, 1995 and terminating on June 30, 2000, and by its subsequent actions and vote to modify the agreement on January 20, 1998, the Board ratified the terms of that agreement. Thus, petitioner was contractually tenured through June 30, 2000. As a result of the Board's failure to act to reappoint petitioner to a contract for the same term or a different term, or to provide notice of nonrenewal at least one year prior to the expiration of the 1995-2000 contract pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1, petitioner was deemed reappointed for another five-year contracted term beginning July 1, 2000 and ending June 30, 2005 by operation of statute. The provisions of this 2000-2005 contract, including the 5% salary increases specified in the contract, thereby will remain in effect during its contractual term, unless either the petitioner and the Board elect to terminate the contract by mutual agreement or the Board prevails in the pending tenure proceedings. The Commissioner granted summary decision to petitioner with the exception of petitioner's claims of Open Public Meetings Act and Rice notice violations, which were rendered moot as a result of this determination.

Record Closed: March 2, 2001 Decided: April 4, 2001

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner asserts that Respondent violated his tenure rights and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2 when it invalidated his contract. Respondent has filed an application to dismiss the petition for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. Petitioner responded and Respondent filed a letter brief reply, the deadline for which was March 2, 2001.

Since this application, if granted, would dispose of the matter, the determination must be rendered within 45 days.

The petition asserts that Dr. John Howard, Jr., Petitioner, was appointed, by contract, as Superintendent of Schools for the East Orange School District. The term of the contract was July 1, 1992 to July 1, 1996. On August 15, 1995, prior to the expiration of the initial contract, the Board, Respondent herein, adopted a resolution rescinding the contract; the same resolution by the Board provides, in pertinent part, that Respondent "will establish new employment contracts with Dr. Howard, the terms and conditions of which shall commence July 1, 1992 to terminate on June 30, 1995 and commence July 1, 1995 and terminate June 30, 2000." A renewal contract and addendum thereto have been executed by Petitioner and the Board President.

This Board, however, failed to notify Dr. Howard in writing prior to July 1, 1999, that he would not be reappointed at the end of the term of his contract.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The statute provides that upon conclusion of the term of a contract, a superintendent shall be deemed reappointed for another contract term of the same duration as the previous contract unless he is either reappointed for a different term or the Board notifies him at least one year prior to the expiration of his contract, in writing, that he will not be reappointed at the end of the contract term. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2. (Emphasis added).

In this case, the issue is whether, after rescinding the initial four-year contract for the 1992 to 1996 term in August, 1995, the Board entered into:

1) a contract replacing the initial contract; and
2) a second contract for the term from 1996 to 2000.

Petitioner asserts that, indeed, there was a replacement contract, a renewal, and an addendum to the contract. Moreover, he asserts that certain actions of the Board ratify the renewal contract.

Whether there is a contract and/or whether the contract was ratified by the action of the Board are purely issues of contract law. It has been long established that, although the Commissioner has jurisdiction to hear and decide cases arising under the school laws; where, however, a dispute does not arise under school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction, even though it may relate to school personnel. Bd. of Ed., E. Brunswick Tp. v. Tp. Council, E. Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966), citations omitted.

In the case of an Assistant Superintendent, who asserted, inter alia, contract and constitutional violations claims, the Appellate Division found that dismissal for lack of jurisdiction was appropriate and affirmed the decision below, notwithstanding the Respondent Board of Education's assertion that the case arose under the school laws because if, in fact, the Board had wrongfully terminated his employment, the assistant superintendent was thereby prevented from obtaining tenure. Picogna v. Board of Educ., 249 N.J. Super. 332, 335 (App. Div. 1991).

In the case at bar, the term of a subsequent contract and the procedure for notification of intention to not reappoint, are matters which are settled by statute; however, those statutory requirements are triggered by the existence of a contract, which is the threshold issue in this case. Accordingly, I FIND that this tribunal lacks jurisdiction over the contract claim asserted by Petitioner; I CONCLUDE, therefore, that this matter should be dismissed for that reason.

Moreover, there being no claim arising under the school laws of this State before this tribunal, the claims of Petitioner under the Open Public Meetings Act and the corollary education statute, found at N.J.S.A. 18A:25-7, are also dismissed.

Finally, Petitioner has asserted a claim of violation of his contract when he did not receive a five percent raise in a separate case, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9906-00, which has been consolidated with this case. Since the five percent raise is a contractual entitlement which is contingent upon the existence of a contract, I FIND that this claim, too, should be dismissed.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that these petitions[1] be and hereby are DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

I note for the record that this determination renders Petitioner's motion for summary decision moot.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[1] Petitions bearing OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7553-00 and EDU 9906-00 were consolidated by Order entered by the undersigned on January 9, 2001.

JOHN HOWARD, JR.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF EAST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

Arguing that the Commissioner has primary jurisdiction over all controversies arising under the school laws, petitioner excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that the subject of this matter involves purely an issue of contract law and is, therefore, not within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4) Citing numerous cases, petitioner contends that the Commissioner has never declined to assert jurisdiction in matters implicating superintendents and the manner in which they were appointed or the manner in which their employment was to cease. (Id. at 5) Thus, petitioner asserts, the fact that an issue involves the contract of a superintendent does not mean that the case is governed by contract law. (Id. at 7)

Pointing to N.J.A.C. 18A:17-20(b), petitioner underscores that a superintendent holds contractual tenure during the term of the employment contract and that the same tenure protections afforded to other certified employees also apply to superintendents. See, West Village Civic Club, Inc., et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Manchester et al., decided by the State Board June 5, 1996. (Id. at 6-7) Petitioner argues that the ALJ's conclusion that this matter involves a question purely of contract law stands the statutory scheme of contractual tenure on its head, averring that the statute contemplates the formation of a superintendent's contract by operation of law, and that even if a board does not take formal action to vote for the renewal of a superintendent's contract, simply by failing to act within the prescribed timelines, the superintendent is automatically granted a new contract for the same duration as the expired contract. (Id. at 8)

Moreover, petitioner argues, there are two scenarios regarding his employment rights under Title 18A where, by operation of statute, rather than by virtue of a contract, petitioner's contract would be automatically renewed through non-action by the Board. Under the first alternative, if the Board did nothing prior to the end of his initial contract, which ran from July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1996, petitioner would have obtained contractual tenure from July 1, 1996 through June 30, 2000 by virtue of the fact that the Board did not provide notice of renewal one year prior to the end of the initial contract, and, given that the Board did not provide him notice of nonrenewal on or before June 30, 1999, petitioner maintains, a subsequent contract for the period of July 1, 2000 through June 30, 2004 also would be triggered by operation of statute. (Ibid.)

Secondly, petitioner asserts that the Board rescinded his initial contract in accordance with West Village Civic Club, supra, and appointed him to a new five-year contract from July 1, 1995 through June 30, 2000. (Id. at 9) If the Commissioner concludes that the Board properly rescinded the previous contract and entered into a new five-year contract, petitioner contends, he then had tenure in the superintendent's position from July 1, 1995 through June 30, 2000. Therefore, petitioner proffers, given that the Board failed to properly provide notice of nonrenewal, petitioner's contract was automatically renewed and he, therefore, has contractual tenure for the five-year period from July 1, 2000 through June 30, 2005. (Ibid.)

In addition to his argument that his tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20(b) are directly at issue in this matter, petitioner avers that the present dispute implicates N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, N.J.S.A. 18A:20.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2 and, thus, the Commissioner has jurisdiction over this matter. (Id. at 9-10)

Further, arguing that it is well-settled that the Commissioner has ancillary jurisdiction to hear petitioner's claims arising under the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), (See, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq. and Sukin v. Northfield Bd. of Educ., 171 N.J. Super. 184, 187 (App. Div. 1979)) and his notice rights pursuant to Rice v. Union Cty. Reg. H. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977), certif. den. 76 N.J. 238 (1978) because there is a significant nexus to education law, petitioner asserts that these claims should be addressed by the Commissioner in the event that the Initial Decision is reversed and the matter remanded to the OAL. (Id. at 10-11)

Pointing out that he has tenure during the term of his contract, petitioner submits that Picogna v. Bd. of Educ., 249 N.J. Super. 332 (App. Div. 1991), rev'd and remanded 143 N.J. 391 (1996), relied on by the ALJ in reaching her determination, is distinguishable from the instant matter because "Picogna involved a nontenured assistant superintendent who brought a whistleblower claim under the Conscientious Employee Protection Act and constitutional rights claims, in addition to a breach of contract claim." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 11) With respect to the other case relied on by the ALJ, Board of Educ. of the Twp. Of East Brunswick v. Twp. Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966), which finds that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction merely because matters involve school personnel, petitioner submits that the East Brunswick decision is generally supportive of the Commissioner's broad authority to decide school matters and that "[t]here is no holding or conclusion that would prohibit the Commissioner from exercising jurisdiction over the tenure rights[']claims of a superintendent." (Id. at 11-12) Therefore, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reverse the Initial Decision and remand the matter to the OAL.

In its reply, the Board urges the Commissioner to adopt the ALJ's finding that "[w]hether there is a contract and/or whether the contract was ratified by the action of the Board are purely issues of contract law" and, thus, that this matter is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction. (Board's Reply at 2)

In a counterstatement of the facts, the Board asserts that the resolution passed by the Board on August 15, 1995 recites the Board's intention to rescind petitioner's 1992 contract and to establish new employment contracts with petitioner, but that the Board did not take official action to approve a successor contract or set forth or approve specific terms of a new contract. (Id. at 3) Moreover, the Board posits that the 1995 contract language violates the explicit language in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, limiting superintendent's contracts to terms of three to five years, because it contains an automatic annual extension provision, thus converting the contract to a six-year agreement on the first effective date of the contract. (Id. at 4)

With respect to whether the Commissioner has jurisdiction to decide this matter, the Board cites Picogna, supra, and argues that the contract principles in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 and

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 are contained in Title 18A because they pertain to school personnel, but that "does not automatically convert this matter into 'school' law." (Id. at 5-6) The Board posits that the statutes governing contractual term limits and the renewal/termination process implicate traditional principles of contract law, not expertise in the educational field. (Id. at 6)

Moreover, the Board asserts that tenure is not the primary issue in this matter and that the ALJ correctly concluded that a determination must first be made with respect to which of petitioner's possible contracts is the controlling contract (if any) because the application of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 is meaningless until the contract question is answered. (Id. at 7-9) The Board also advances the argument that the procedure for renewal or termination of a superintendent's contract does not arise under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2, but that it might potentially apply once a decision is made with respect to which contract governs petitioner's employment. (Id. at 10-11)

The Board further argues that there is no OPMA claim for which the Commissioner can exercise jurisdiction because: 1) there is not a sufficient nexus; and 2) the Board's notice satisfied the Rice notice requirements. (Id. at 11-13) Acknowledging that the Commissioner may have jurisdiction to consider a claim under N.J.S.A. 18A:25-7, which requires written notice of entitlement to have representation whenever a teaching staff member is required to appear before the Board concerning any matter that could adversely affect his employment, the Board proffers that the statute does not apply in this instance because it applies to teaching staff members who are required to appear at meetings or interviews before the Board. (Id. at 12)

Finally, the Board claims that petitioner's arguments differentiating the nontenured assistant superintendent in Picogna, supra, from a tenured employee are irrelevant to the contractual dispute in this matter. (Id. at 13) Citing Board of Educ. of the Twp. of East Brunswick, supra, at 102, the Board argues that the involvement of school personnel in matters not arising under school laws does not place a matter within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. (Id. at 14) The Board, therefore, urges the Commissioner to adopt the recommended decision of the ALJ. (Id. at 15)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, the exceptions and the reply thereto filed in this matter, the Commissioner determines to reverse the Initial Decision of the ALJ and grant summary decision to petitioner for the reasons set forth below.

Initially, with respect to jurisdiction to hear this matter, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 sets forth the extent of the Commissioner's jurisdiction to hear and determine disputes, as follows:

> The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the state board or of the commissioner.

With the passage of P.L. 1991, c. 267 (N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq.), the Legislature eliminated career tenure for superintendents and instituted a system providing a period of tenure during the duration of the contract. The Assembly Education Committee Statement declares:

> This bill revises existing law regarding the tenure of a superintendent of schools to substitute for the present career tenure a period of tenure for the duration of the contract between the local board of education and the superintendent.
> The bill stipulates that a superintendent shall hold tenure during the term of the contract with the board and during the contract period shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause.

(Assembly Education Committee, Statement to Assembly Bill No. 1131, L. 1991, c. 267)

The new statutory scheme not only provides tenure to superintendents during the period of their contract, but also provides specific conditions for renewing a superintendent's contract either by the negotiation of a new contract or by failure to properly notify a superintendent that his contract will not be renewed. N.J.A.C. 18A:17-20.1 provides that the initial contract shall be renewed for a term of the same duration as the original contract unless, by contract, the board appoints the superintendent to a different term or, at least one year prior to expiration of the contract, the board notifies the superintendent that he will not be reappointed. The primary issue in this case, therefore, is whether petitioner has contractual tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17 20.1 and, if so, the duration thereof.

In the instant matter, it is undisputed that the Board appointed petitioner to an initial four-year contract beginning July 1, 1992 and ending June 30, 1996. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq., therefore, petitioner held tenure as a superintendent when the Board acted to rescind the initial contract on August 15, 1995. Thus, the issues of: 1) whether the Board replaced the initial contract with a contract beginning July 1, 1992 and ending June 30, 1996, and reappointed petitioner to a second contract beginning July 1, 1996 and ending June 30, 2001; or 2) whether a second contract term from July 1, 1996 through June 30, 2000 was awarded by operation of statute, expressly arise from the effect of the Board's actions or inactions on petitioner's tenure rights as a superintendent as governed by school law, over which the Commissioner has primary jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

The ALJ's reliance on Picogna, supra, is misplaced because petitioner in this matter was contractually tenured under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. at the time that the controverted contractual issues arose, whereas, Picogna was a nontenured assistant superintendent who asserted contractual and constitutional claims. Unlike the protections afforded tenured employees, a board of education has almost unfettered discretion to discontinue the services of a nontenured employee absent a constitutional or statutory infirmity. See, Dore v. Bedminister Twp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447 (App. Div. 1982); Kufel v. Union County Vocational-Technical School District, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 446, aff'd 97 N.J.A.R. 2*d* (EDU) 317 (App. Div. 1997); Gillison v. Board of Education of the City of Newark, Essex County, 95 N.J.A.R. 2*d* (EDU) 157 (1993); and Paladino v. Lacey Township Board of Education, Ocean County, decided by the State Board of Education February 1, 1989. Although the Board in Picogna, supra, argued that school laws were controlling because, if the assistant superintendent was found to have been wrongfully terminated, he was therefore prevented from obtaining tenure, the Appellate Division found that:

> The contract claim of a nontenured school employee does not arise under the school laws simply because its outcome may later enable him to attain tenure under the school laws. See Board of Ed., E. Brunswick Tp. v. Township Council, E. Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102, 223 *A.*2d 481 (1966) ("Where the controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction even though it may pertain to school personnel.") Whether petitioner's employment was wrongfully terminated under the contract and under the CEP Act is for the court, not the Commissioner, to decide. (Picogna, supra, at 335)

Additionally, it is noted that in analyzing Picogna's tenure entitlement under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, the Supreme Court, citing Canfield v. Board of Educ., 51 N.J. 400 (1968), found that:

> breach of a contract covering a full probationary period of employment that may have resulted in tenure had no breach occurred does not confer tenure in the absence of continued employment after service for the requisite number of consecutive years in the same district. (Picogna, supra, 143 N.J. at 401-402)

Moreover, since the passage of P.L. 1991, c. 267, establishing contractual tenure for superintendents, the Commissioner has consistently exercised his jurisdiction when faced with situations where appointment, contract rescission or modification of a superintendent's contract relates to questions of a superintendent's contractual tenure. See, West Village Civic Club, Inc, supra; Graham v. Board of Education of the Town of Kearney, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 510; Dunn v. Elizabeth Board of Education, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 279; and Harrington v. Board of Education of the Township of Clinton, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 535.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner rejects the ALJ's conclusion that the instant matter should be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction and, therefore, concludes that authority to decide the issues in this matter appropriately rests with the Commissioner.

Additionally, the Commissioner has determined to grant petitioner's motion for summary decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121 (App. Div. 1995) (citing, Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995), summary decision may be granted in an administrative proceeding if there is no genuine issue of material fact in dispute and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. In this regard, notwithstanding the fact that the ALJ did not reach to the merits of the matter because she determined to dismiss the consolidated cases for lack of jurisdiction, both parties filed motions for summary judgment and answers thereto and, thus, the issues were fully briefed in the proceedings before the ALJ. In viewing the evidentiary documents and the arguments presented in this matter in the light most favorable to the Board, there is no "'genuine issue' of material fact" and the Commissioner has determined that petitioner is entitled to prevail as a matter of law for the reasons that follow. See Brill, supra, at 540.

As stated above, it is undisputed that the Board appointed petitioner to an initial four-year contract beginning July 1, 1992 and ending June 30, 1996. It is also undisputed that that the Board did not notify petitioner that it did not intend to renew his contract before June 30, 1995, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1. (Petition of Appeal at 2, and Board's Opposition to Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at 2) Therefore, had nothing else occurred, petitioner would have been reappointed for another four-year contract beginning July1, 1996 through June 30, 2000 by operation of statute. However, on August 15, 1995, the Board acknowledges that it adopted a Resolution to rescind petitioner's 1992-1996 contract. (Board's Opposition to Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit B, Answer to Petitioner's Interrogatory #18) The Board's Resolution of August 15, 1995 reads, as follows:

> BE IT RESOLVED: "that the Board of Education, upon the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, approve the following resolution."
> WHEREAS, in June 1992 the East Orange Board of Education entered into an employment contract with Dr. John Howard, Jr., the term of which is from July 1, 1992 through July 1, 1996; and
>
> WHEREAS, the East Orange Board of Education has determined the necessity of renegotiating said employment contract and thus, rescinding the current employment contract with Dr. Howard.
>
> NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, on the 15th day of August 1995, the East Orange Board of Education hereby rescinds the current employment contract of Dr. Howard; and
> BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the East Orange Board of Education will establish new employment contracts with Dr. Howard, the terms and conditions of which shall commence July 1, 1992 and terminate on June 30, 1995 and commence July 1, 1995 and terminate on June 30, 2000. (emphasis added) (Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit A)

Although acknowledging that the above resolution rescinded petitioner's initial contract, the Board proffers the argument that the August 15, 1995 Resolution only expressed the Board's intent to establish new employment contracts and that the actual contracts were never approved. (Board's Opposition to Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at 2-3) As indicated above, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. establishes contractual tenure for superintendents. Accordingly petitioner was tenured under the initial contract from July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1996. Although a board has the authority to rescind an initial agreement with a superintendent prior to the conclusion of an existing contract and to reappoint the superintendent to a new contractual term, Graham, supra, contractual tenure protects a superintendent from a board rescinding an existing agreement without entering into a new contractual arrangement, except as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2, which states that:

> During the term of any employment contract with the board, a superintendent shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming a superintendent or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

Absent the sustaining of tenure charges as indicated in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2 above,[1] therefore, accepting, arguendo, the Board's claim that it did not act to reappoint petitioner to a new contract, the Board would have violated petitioner's tenure rights by acting ultra vires in rescinding his initial contract if it did so without entering into a new contractual agreement.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1, the Board had only two choices from which to select at the conclusion of petitioner's initial contract. The Board had to either 1) notify petitioner prior to June 30, 1995 that he would not be reappointed, or 2) reappoint petitioner by contract for a different term. Rescission of the initial contract without reappointment during the period that petitioner was contractually tenured was not an option available to the Board under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1. The Board acknowledges that it did not notify petitioner prior to June 30, 1995 that he would not be reappointed, and now claims that subsequent to the rescission of his existing contract, contrary to law, petitioner was not reappointed by contract.

Although in agreement with the Board that the language in the August 15, 1995 Resolution is somewhat ambiguous with respect to the establishment of the new contracts to which it refers, the Commissioner finds that review of the specific language in the Resolution, in light of statements of the Board members present on August 15, 1995, as well as the Board's subsequent actions, confirms that the August 15, 1995 Resolution rescinded the initial contract and reappointed petitioner to a new five-year term. Specifically, the Resolution states that, "the East Orange Board of Education will establish new employment contracts with Dr. Howard, the terms and conditions of which shall commence July 1, 1992 and terminate on June 30, 1995 and commence July 1, 1995 and terminate on June 30, 2000."[2] (emphasis added) (August 15, 1995 Resolution of the Board)

Six board members were present at the August 15, 1995 meeting wherein the Board's Resolution was adopted. One Board member was absent. None of the Board members serving on August 15, 1995 serve on the current Board. According to petitioner's affidavit, three of the Board members are now deceased and petitioner submits that he attempted to obtain an affidavit from Ernestine Harris, the Board president in 1995, but was unable to do so because she was ill.[3] (Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at 2) The two remaining Board members, Daniel Desrivieres and Sheila Oliver, submitted affidavits on petitioner's behalf, which state:

[2] If the Board had not acted, by operation of statute, petitioner's second four-year contract term would have also ended on June 30, 2000. Thus, unlike the situation in West Village Civic Club, Inc., supra, rescinding the initial contract and appointing petitioner to a new term did not extend the length of the contractual term beyond that which would have been triggered by the Board's failure to notify petitioner that he would not be reappointed as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1.

> At the Board's meeting on August 15, 1995, the Board voted to approve a five-year employment contract with Dr. John Howard, Jr., Superintendent of Schools. The employment contract was dated August 15, 1995. The term of the employment contract was July 1, 1995 to June 30, 2000. (Affidavits attached to Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision)

Although the minutes of subsequent Board meetings do not reflect further action to adopt the terms and conditions of a new contract, the Board's actions demonstrate that it recognized the existence of the five-year contract until the final year of the contract when it acted by Resolution on June 26, 2000 to terminate petitioner's contract as of June 30, 2000. (Petition of Appeal, Exhibit F) In support of his assertion of the validity of the 1995 contract, petitioner argues that, subsequent to the August 15, 1995 meeting, he was provided the salary[4] and benefits provided for in the 1995 contract with the exception of an automobile entitlement. (Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at 3) Moreover, the Board acknowledges that it agreed to several "modifications to the purported 1995 Contract" in December 1997 (Board's Opposition to Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at 4), and approved those modifications as an Addendum to the Employment Contract on January 20, 1998. (Petitioner's Motion for Summary Judgment, Exhibit 6, Board's Response to Interrogatory #38 and Petitioner's Exhibit 7) Given that the Board in this matter is authorized by statute to enter into a contract with an individual to serve as superintendent of its schools, by voting to modify the disputed 1995 contract and affording petitioner the salary and benefits set forth in the contracts other than the automobile,

[4] The Commissioner notes that the 1995 contract specifies that petitioner's salary for the 1995-96 school year would be $137,000. (Petition, Exhibit A) Petitioner asserts, and the Board concurs, that petitioner's salary for the 1999-2000 school year for $170,050. (Petition of Appeal at 2, #6 and Answer at 2, #6)

the Board acknowledged the validity of that contract and thereby ratified the 1995-2000 contract by its modification and conformance to the terms thereof. See, Matter of Certain Amendments, 133 N.J. 206, 221-223 (1993); Houmann v. Mayor of Pompton Lakes, 155 N.J. Super. 129, 159-160 (Law Div. 1977); Grimes v. City of East Orange, 288 N.J. Super. 275, 280 (App. Div. 1996).

Moreover, in the Board's Petition for Declaratory Ruling, filed before the Commissioner on April 14, 2000, (Commissioner Decision Number 130-00L), seeking a ruling on its contract options in the face of petitioner's assertion that the Board's failure to provide him with timely notice of nonrenewal of his 1995-2000 contract resulted in an automatic renewal of the terms and conditions of the soon to expire contract, the Board acknowledged the validity of the contract when it stated:

> 1. The East Orange Board of Education entered into a five year employment contract with its Superintendent of Schools, Dr. John Howard, Jr. that expires on June 30, 2000. (Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit D, Board's Petition for Declaratory Ruling at 1, #1)

The Commissioner also notes that the Board recognizes the 1995 contract in tenure charges it filed against petitioner on January 12, 2001 (Agency Docket Number 17-1/01) by referencing a tax deferred annuity plan which was only provided for in the 1995 contract, not the 1992-1996 contract. Charge No. VI states:

> In accordance with the terms and conditions of the employment contract between petitioner and Dr. John Howard, Jr., petitioner is obligated, among other things, to make matching contributions to a tax deferred annuity plan on behalf of Howard. (Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit #12)

For the reasons set forth above, therefore, the Commissioner finds that by Resolution on August 15, 1995, the Board rescinded petitioner's initial contract and reappointed petitioner to a new five-year term commencing July 1, 1995 and terminating on June 30, 2000, and by its subsequent actions and vote to modify the agreement on January 20, 1998, the Board ratified the terms of that agreement.

With respect to the Board's argument that the 1995 contract is invalid because its terms impermissibly provide for an automatic extension, thus becoming a six-year contract on the first effective date of the contract in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, the Commissioner observes that the contract expressly states that if any specific clause of the agreement "is illegal in Federal or State Law, the remainder of the Employment Contract not affected by such ruling shall remain in force." (1995-2000 Contract at 9) As found by the State Board in West Village Civic Club, supra at 9, citing "[I]t is well established that the law is a silent factor in every contract, and parties to a contract are presumed to have contracted with reference to existing law." See also, Red Bank Bd. of Ed. v. Warrington et al., 138 N.J. Super 564, 568-569 (App. Div. 1976) and Silverstein v. Keane, 19 N.J. 13 (1955). To the extent that the renewal provision in the 1995 contract violates the specific term limitations for appointments of superintendents to not less than three years nor more than five years, specified in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, the Commissioner, therefore agrees with the Board that the renewal provision is invalid. However, the invalidation of that provision does not serve to invalidate the entire contract at issue. Although the Board asserts that the misinformation and confusion caused by the automatic renewal provision in the 1995 contract resulted in its failure to act pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 in June 1999, to notify petitioner of its intent to not renew his contract (Board's Opposition to Petitioner's Summary Decision at 9), the Commissioner finds that the Board's argument only substantiates the conclusion that the Board recognized the 1995-2000 contract as its contractual agreement with the superintendent.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 specifically provides that a board of education is authorized to appoint a superintendent of schools "for a term of not less than three nor more than five years." N.J.S.A. 18A:20.1 is equally specific that, at the conclusion of the term of the initial contract or of any subsequent contract, the superintendent will be deemed appointed to another contracted term of the same duration unless the board appoints him for a different term of three to five years or notifies him in writing at least one year prior to the expiration of the first or subsequent contract that he will not be reappointed. Given the specificity in the statutes, the Commissioner finds the Board's explanation for its failure to act pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-1 disingenuous. The obligation to resolve any "confusion or misinformation" to assure the Board's compliance with statutory requirements when appointing, contracting, reappointing or advising petitioner that he would not be reappointed was inherently the responsibility of the Board and its attorney.

On June 26, 2000, the Board adopted a Resolution stating, in pertinent part:

> WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 provides for renewal of a Superintendent's employment contract unless notice of nonrenewal is given one year prior to its expiration date; and
> WHEREAS, although the Board did not give notice of nonrenewal to Dr. Howard prior to June 30, 1999, it believes that applicable legal and equitable principles operate to excuse such lack of notice; and
>
> WHEREAS, the Board wishes to retain all of its legal prerogatives with respect to the employment of the Superintendent;
>
> NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that Board does hereby direct that Notice be given to Dr. John Howard of the Board's intention not to renew any existing employment agreement between Dr. Howard and the Board as of June 30, 2001, unless the Board and Dr. Howard should mutually agree upon a successor contract; and
> BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this Resolution is approved without prejudice any of the Board's legal rights whatsoever with respect to the Superintendent's employment, including but not > limited to the Board's right to maintain, upon further review, that any existing contract of employment will terminate or has terminated as of June 30, 2000. (Board's Motion to Dismiss, Exhibit E)

As fully explicated above, petitioner was contractually tenured through June 30, 2000. As the Board acknowledges in its June 26, 200 Resolution, although it was aware of the requirement to give petitioner notice of nonrenewal of his contract one year prior to June 30, 2000 if it did not intend to renew petitioner's contract, it failed to do so. Accordingly, as a result of the Board's failure to act to reappoint petitioner to a contract for the same term or a different term, or to provide notice of nonrenewal at least one year prior to the expiration of the 1995-2000 contract pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1, petitioner is deemed reappointed for another five-year contracted term beginning July 1, 2000 and ending June 30, 2005 by operation of statute. The provisions of the 2000-2005 contract renewed by operation of statute, including the 5% salary increases specified in the contract, will, therefore, remain in effect during its contractual term, unless either the petitioner and the Board elect to terminate the contract by mutual agreement or the Board prevails in the pending tenure proceedings.

The Commissioner, therefore, grants summary decision to petitioner with the exception of petitioner's claims of OPMA and Rice notice violations, which are rendered moot as a result of this determination.

v.	)	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS	)

Appellant James Stewart having been charged with sleeping on duty and a penalty of a 3 week suspension having been sought, the parties hereto agree to settle this matter in accordance with the following terms:

1. Appellant admits that on January 23, 2001, at 10:50 in the morning, Mr. Hendricks and Mr. Gripp observed him sitting motionless in the law library with his eyes closed, apparently asleep. Appellant also acknowledges that he received letters of counseling for sleeping on duty on July 21, 2000 and November 23, 1992.

2. Respondent agrees to reduce the penalty associated with the current charge of sleeping on duty from a 3 week suspension to a 5 day suspension without pay and forfeiture of 2 vacation days.

3. Appellant understands that sleeping on duty within a correctional facility is a serious offense which places his own safety at risk. He acknowledges that any future infraction will result in tenure charges being filed.

4. The parties hereto stipulate that this agreement shall fully dispose of all issues in controversy between them with regard to this matter.

5. The appellant will not receive any back pay, counsel fees, costs or any other monetary relief as a result of this settlement.

6. The Personnel File for the appellant will be amended to reflect the provisions of this agreement.

7. This stipulation of settlement shall not constitute a precedent in any other matter involving another employee.

8. The appellant waives all claims, suits, or actions, whether known, unknown, vested or contingent, civil, criminal, or administrative, in law or equity against the State of New Jersey, the New Jersey Department of Corrections, or their employees, agents, or assigns, including but not limited to those which have been or could have been made or prosecuted on account of any conduct of any party occurring at any time with respect to the events, information and disputes giving rise to this action up to the date of this agreement, including but not limited to all claims under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, and any contract express or implied.

9. This Agreement will only become effective when it is approved by the Commissioner of the Department of Education. Any disapproval by the Commissioner shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue this matter further.

Authorization has been given by the Department of Corrections to agree to this settlement, the parties have read this settlement agreement, and freely and voluntarily agree to its provisions.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RAMSEY, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioning Education Association challenged the respondent Board's use of noncertified school nurses serving as school health aides in school facilities when certified school nurses were not present. The Board denied that it was improperly utilizing noncertified school nurses.

At the OAL, petitioner moved for summary decision and the Board cross-moved to dismiss the petition. The ALJ denied petitioner's motion and granted the Board's motion to dismiss the petition. The ALJ concluded that the use of a noncertified nurse from 12:15 p.m. to 3:00 p.m., while the certified school nurse assigned to a school facility was not present, did not contravene the applicable statute, as the noncertified nurse was supplementing the services of the certified school nurse assigned to the facility from 8:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., which is specifically authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ, concluding that the Board's division of duties between a certified school nurse and a noncertified school nurse serving as a school health aide (who is a nurse) does not contravene the applicable statutes.

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

Petitioner, Ramsey Teachers Association, filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education wherein it challenged the respondent's, Ramsey Board of Education (the District) use of non-certified school nurses when certified school nurses were not present in the school building. The Department of Education transmitted the petition to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

Prior to the scheduled hearing date, the petitioners filed a Motion for Summary Judgment. The respondent filed an Answer/Cross Motion seeking dismissal of the petition. The record closed on February 14, 2001.

FACTS

I FIND the following FACTS to be undisputed, thus they are adopted as the FACTS:

The District employs three (3) part-time certified school nurses in grades kindergarten through fifth grade. Two (2) full-time certified nurses are assigned to its middle and high schools. On October 14,1999, the District hired a School Health Aide, Brenda Calabrese, (Calabrese) for its Tisdale School. Calabrese is a Registered Nurse, however she is not a certified school nurse and does not hold a school nurse endorsement. (N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7). The certified nurse, Beverly VandenBerger, is in the Tisdale school daily between 8:45 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. Calabrese staffs the office from 12:00 noon to 3:00 p.m. Thus, she is the only person staffing the nurse's office after 12:15 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Pursuant to the job description, as set forth in Exhibit A, a School Health Aide is required to assist the certified nurse with maintaining the health office and its records, such as immunization and confidential records; attend to the health needs of pupils and staff; render first aid for injuries and illnesses; weigh and measure students; send notices of medical examinations; dispense medication pursuant to Board policy under the direction of a certified school nurse as approved by the school physician; transport or arrange transportation of ill or injured persons to appropriate destinations; and assist the certified nurse in multifacted administrative duties, such as, coordinate examinations for athletic programs; assist the building administration with budgetary concerns for the health office; order supplies; and assist with the preparation of reports related to accidents and worker's compensation claims, among other duties.

A school nurse works under the direction and supervision of the medical inspection. A nurse is required to: assist with physical examinations as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:40-4; conduct yearly screening for scoliosis on all pupils; conduct annual audiometric screenings. . .; maintain student health records; observe and recommend to school principal the exclusion of students who show evidence of communicable disease; and lecture to teachers on communicable disease and other health concerns...

ARGUMENT

The petitioner asserts that N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 bars the use of a non-certified person to perform nursing services in a public school when a certified nurse is not in the building. More particularly, it contends that a school health aide who is not certified may only "supplement" the services of a certified nurse when the latter is also present.

Respondent asserts that such an interpretation of the statute would totally frustrate the manner in which nursing services are delivered in today's educational settings. Undisputedly, the District is statutorily obligated to have school nursing services performed by a certified nurse who holds an endorsement as a school nurse. However, if the petitioner's contention were to be accepted, a School Health Aide could only be present when the certified school nurse is actually in the same place as the health aide. Thus, the aide would only be circulating with or shadowing the certified nurse. Such a scenario was not the intent of the statute that expressly provides for local school Districts to supplement the services provided by certified school nurses with non-certified nurses (school health aides).

Further, the language in the statute that provides that a non-certified nurse be assigned to same building/complex as the certified nurse does not require that the certified nurse presence for every minute when the school health aide is in the building. Indeed, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 does not mandate that a local school district must have a certified school nurse present in each building/complex on a full-time basis. Rather, a certified nurse may "circulate" between buildings, thus being present in a particular building only part time. Indeed, Governor Whitman conditionally vetoed the original bill because it required school nurses to be present in all cases

Moreover, if the Legislature had intended such a result, it could have provided so in the statute by expressly requiring that the certified nurse to be present at all times when an School Health Aide is present. For example, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.4 expressly provides that secretarial or clerical duties that assist in providing nursing services may only be done under the supervision of a certified school nurse. Here, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 does not require such direct supervision. Thus, the only reasonable interpretation of the statute is that the certified school nurse and the School Health Aide may be assigned to the same building, and each responsible to perform their respective job duties and responsibilities, subject only to the limitations set forth in Title 18A and N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2.[1]

DISCUSSION, FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 provides in its pertinent part:

> A school district shall only utilize or employ for the provision of nursing services in the public schools of the district persons holding an educational services certificate with an endorsement as a school nurse issued by the State Board of Examiners, except for those non-nursing personnel who are otherwise authorized by statute or regulation to perform specific health related services. A school district may supplement the services provided by the certified school nurse with non-certified nurses, provided that the non-certified nurse is assigned to the same school building or school complex as the certified school nurse.

[1] Respondent contends that this position is consistent with the view of the New Jersey Department of Education recently expressed in a State Board of Education meeting of January 3, 2001 wherein it proposed to repeal N.J.A.C. 6:29, and to adopt a new chapter, N.J.A.C. 6A:16, including proposed rules and regulations to effectuate the purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3. These proposed rules and regulations would expressly permit the certified school nurse to delegate nursing tasks to non-certified school nurses consistent with their license. (See Exhibit B).

I FIND that the current division of duties between the certified school nurse and school health aide does not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3. The School Health Aide is expressly limited to performing work for which she is licensed by law.

I further FIND that while it is true that the statute provides that a "school district may only utilize or employ for the provision of nursing services in the public schools of the district persons holding an educational services certificate with an endorsement as a school nurse. . . " N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3. The statute also makes exceptions for "those non-nursing personnel who are otherwise authorized by statute or regulation to perform specific health related services." Thus, the statute allows the use of non-certified nurses to perform a proscribed set of tasks, and there is no evidence that the health aide at the Tisdale School is performing any prohibited tasks.

Furthermore, I FIND that the purpose of the statute was to introduce some flexibility into the school health system – a goal the governor supported in her veto message – by allowing the limited use of school health aides. It must be noted that the legislation vetoed by the Governor covered special education students, it is nonetheless instructive herein.

I am further persuaded that a local school district is not required to have a certified school nurse present in each building because the nurse is permitted to circulate among buildings, working part time in each one. Under the petitioner's interpretation of the statute, a school health aide could not be present in a school building unless a certified school nurse was also present in the building. This would limit the school health aide to merely "shadowing" the certified nurse, as respondent puts it – an interpretation that could not have been the intent of the Legislature. I CONCLUDE that if the Legislature had intended or was mandating the full-time hiring of school nurses, it could have expressly provided for same in the statute.

Thus, for the foregoing reasons, petitioner's motion for summary judgment is hereby DENIED and respondent's cross motion to DISMISS the petition is hereby GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RAMSEY TEACHERS ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RAMSEY, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record in this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination.

In its exceptions, petitioner argues that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3, adopted July 1, 1999, renders that statute superfluous because her reading means that the new law adds nothing, simply maintaining the status quo existing prior to its adoption. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) Petitioner points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 mandates that "nursing services" are to be provided by certified staff only and that the statute "does not say 'certified nursing services' or 'nursing services which require certification' when it describes what 'shall only' be performed by a certified nurse." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 2)

Although admitting that there is an exception provision in the statute for non-nursing employees, petitioner submits that, contrary to the ALJ's analysis, this provision does not refer to noncertified nurses, but rather to individuals who are not nurses, such as lifeguards, emergency medical technicians, etc. (Ibid.) Pointing to the Summary of Bill in the Governor's conditional veto, petitioner contends that the purpose of the bill was not to introduce flexibility in the system as the ALJ states, but rather to provide that "a school district shall only utilize or employ for the provision of nursing services in the public schools of the district, persons holding an educational services certificate with an endorsement as a school nurse issued by the State Board of Examiners." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 3, quoting Summary of Bill, Exhibit A, page 2, attached to the Jacobs Certification) Petitioner further maintains that the governor supported the bill's purpose, but that her concerns were "related to specialized care for individuals with special needs  and that supplementation of certified nurses be allowed if a certified nurse is assigned to the same building or complex." (emphasis in text) (Ibid., quoting Exhibit A, page 3)

Pointing to Old Bridge Twp. Ed. Assoc. v. Bd. of Ed. of the Tp. Of Old Bridge, decided by the Commissioner November 26, 1997, aff'd State Board April 1, 1988, petitioner asserts that the system which existed prior to the enactment of P.L. 1999, c. 153 was the most flexible because the preexisting system permitted the use of noncertified nurses without regard to certified nurse building assignments, and that respondent's use of a certified nurse for half a day and a noncertified nurse for the other half day is merely a subterfuge to pay cheaper salaries, provide fewer benefits and to avoid the accrual of tenure. (Id. at 4) Moreover, petitioner argues that the intent of the legislation was to permit a noncertified nurse to assist in covering a school or school complex, and that there is nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 which justifies the ALJ's interpretation that "assigned to" means that a certified school nurse's presence is only required for that part of a day when the non-certified nurse in not present. (Ibid.)

Acknowledging that the statute permits a noncertified school nurse to act as a temporary substitute when a certified school nurse is temporarily absent, see N.J.A.C. 18A:40-3.5, petitioner argues that that is not the situation in the instant matter because the certified and noncertified nurse are never in the building at the same time, except for a fifteen minute overlap in their work schedules. (Id. at 5) Moreover, petitioner posits that, since the Board admits that it authorizes its school health aides to assist in tasks, responsibilities and duties reserved for certified school nurses, the noncertified nurse is either only assisting the certified school nurse for fifteen minutes each day or is performing these responsibilities after the school nurse leaves.

Finally, arguing that the purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.2 et seq. is to promote the use of certified school nurses, petitioner asserts that the Commissioner should reverse the Initial Decision and find that a certified school nurse is required in the Tisdale school each day for the full day and that hereafter a full time certified nurse must be hired whenever the Board hires new employees for its nursing positions in any of its buildings. (Ibid.)

In its reply, the Board asserts that the ALJ's interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 is the only reasonable interpretation, and that there is no evidence that the school health aide in question is independently performing any tasks specifically reserved for the certified school nurse. (Board's Reply at 2) The Board further submits that the ALJ correctly concluded that there is no requirement that a school district must have a full-time, certified school nurse present in each building. (Ibid.)

Moreover, the Board argues that petitioner's contention that non-nursing personnel refers solely to individuals who are not nurses is a strained interpretation of the statute because it must be construed to permit, for instance, a lifeguard to perform health-related services without the presence of a certified school nurse, but would not permit a registered nurse within the job description of school health aide to perform services without a certified school nurse present. (Id. at 4) The more reasonable interpretation, the Board posits, is that the phrase non-nursing personnel refers to individuals not holding an Educational Services Certificate and, thus, non-nursing personnel would include noncertified registered nurses serving as school health aides. (Ibid.)

Arguing that its practices are in accordance with the intent and language of N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3, the Board objects to the inference that it is perpetrating a subterfuge of the legislative intent. (Id. at 4-5) The Board further asserts that the certified school nurse in the Tisdale School provides those services which are required to be performed by an individual holding an educational services certificate, and that the school health aide is limited to assisting the certified school nurse when both individuals are present in the building. (Id. at 5) At all other times, the Board avers, the school health aide is expressly limited to performing those tasks which are not required to be performed by the certified school nurse. (Ibid.) Therefore, the Board urges the Commissioner to adopt the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. (Ibid.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, the exceptions and the reply thereto, the Commissioner is in agreement with the ALJ that N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 does not expressly require that a certified school nurse be physically present whenever a non-certified nurse performs duties supplementing the services provided by the certified school nurse (see N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.5), and that there is no evidence that the registered nurse serving as a school health aide at Tilsdale School is functioning in a manner not in compliance with the applicable regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-2.1(e) and (f). Therefore, the Board's current division of duties between the certified school nurse and the school health aide does not violate the statute at issue.

Moreover, the Commissioner finds unpersuasive petitioner's argument that the ALJ's holding simply maintains the status quo prior to the adoption of P.L. 1999, c. 153, and thus renders the new law a nullity. To the contrary, prior to the adoption of P.L. 1999, c. 153, there was no requirement that noncertified nurses be assigned to a school building or school complex where a certified school nurse is assigned.

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to deny petitioner's motion for summary judgment and to grant the Board's cross motion to dismiss the petition for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Agreement is made this 4th day of April, 2001 by and between Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission ("Commission") and Roger Gilbert ("Mr. Gilbert").

RECITALS

A. For a number of years, Mr. Gilbert has acted as a per case psychologist for the Commission.

B. During these years of work, Mr. Gilbert has received various assignments, including psychological evaluations of different quantity and annual reviews.

C. To date, Mr. Gilbert has had the option to decline assignments at his discretion.

D. When his assignment of psychological evaluations decreased, Mr. Gilbert complained that he wanted additional psychological evaluations assigned while at the same time declining to accept annual reviews.

E. When the Commission's assignment of psychological evaluations did not increase to a level acceptable to Mr. Gilbert, he filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education arguing that he had acquired tenure and was entitled to an unspecified number of assignments.

F. In response, the Commission asserted that Mr. Gilbert acted in the non-tenurable position of per case psychologist because he served as a de facto substitute for the Commission's regularly employed psychologists.

G. Counsel for both parties exchanged motions for summary judgment and during the oral argument, the parties discussed a possible resolution short of decision.

H. Mr. Gilbert and the Commission exchanged proposals and with some modifications, the Commission's counter-offer was accepted by Mr. Gilbert subject to t he approval of the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") to the terms and conditions of the settlement.

THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants contained herein, the Commission and Mr. Gilbert agree as follows:

1. The Recitals are incorporated herein.

2. Mr. Gilbert agrees to withdraw his Petition with prejudice in consideration for the settlement contained herein.

3. Until his retirement, Mr. Gilbert will be assigned no less than 25 psychological evaluations to be distributed as best as practicable throughout the school year, which assignments shall begin in September, 2000. The Commission also agrees to pledge its best efforts to assign Mr. Gilbert up to 35 psychological evaluations for each academic year until Mr. Gilbert's effective date of retirement..

4. In exchange, Mr. Gilbert shall timely, professionally and appropriately complete his assignments and must accept the assignments of a minimum of 25 psychological evaluations for each academic year until his retirement, must complete 30 annual reviews for each academic year until his retirement and must complete such other work which the Commission deems appropriate for his position of psychologist, provided such other work does not conflict with Mr. Gilbert's duties and functions as a West Long Branch school psychologist.

5. Mr. Gilbert and the Commission (a) agree that they will take no action to publish the terms and conditions of this settlement to third parties, and (b) agree that the terms and conditions herein reflect no existing practice, no pre-existing agreement and no creation or affirmation of tenure rights.

6. This Settlement Agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

7. This Settlement Agreement contains all the terms and conditions of the parties' agreement and cannot be modified or changed unless all parties to do so in writing.

DECISION ON REMAND

Petitioner, tenured school social worker and substance awareness coordinator, contended that the Board's assigning her to be an in-class support instructor was violative of law and code since she did not possess certification as a teacher. She sought appointment to one of two positions for which she was qualified. ALJ determined that because the relief requested by petitioner could no longer be granted in this matter due to changed circumstances since petitioner was no longer assigned to the position of in-class support instructor, the case did not present any issue of great public importance compelling a definitive resolution. ALJ granted the Board's motion to dismiss this matter as moot.

Noting that there was clearly a reasonable potential for recurrence of the alleged improper assignment, the Commissioner reversed the ALJ's Initial Decision dismissing the matter as moot. Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for a determination on petitioner's underlying claim that the Board's assignment of her to an in-class support instructor position was improper.

On remand, the ALJ found that the Board acted within its authority and utilized petitioner as a highly qualified resource person to assist and complement the Health Department Family Life Program, not to teach. N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(g). The ALJ found that a certified teacher was always present with petitioner in the classroom while she was assisting the students. Thus, the ALJ ordered that the Board's assignment of petitioner as an in-class support instructor for the school year 1998-99 was valid. Petition was dismissed.

In light of the record and the transcript of the hearing, the Commissioner affirmed the Initial Decision with modification. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that use of petitioner's expertise in the classroom as a resource to the health teachers was not necessarily improper or violative of specific statute or code. The Commissioner, however, concluded that the Board's failure to take sufficient steps at the outset to clearly define petitioner's role as a classroom resource person and to provide her and the teachers with the necessary follow-up and supervision, paved the way for misapprehensions and missteps in performance. Petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: December 8, 2000 Decided: April 20, 2001

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

Petitioner, who holds certificates as a substance awareness coordinator and as a school social worker and has attained tenure with respondent, challenges respondent's assignment of her as an in-class support instructor in the health program for school year 1998 alleging that this constitutes an assignment for which a teaching certificate is required and which petitioner does not possess. Accordingly, the petitioner seeks a determination that this assignment was a violation of the law.

The original petition was filed on October 13, 1998, and was scheduled for hearing on June 22, 1999. At the hearing on that date, respondent's motion to dismiss for reasons of mootness was granted and an initial decision was entered on June 23, 1999. On August 9, 1999, the Commissioner of Education reversed the initial decision since this alleged improper action, under the circumstances of this case, is one capable of repetition, yet evading review. As a result, the matter was remanded for determination on petitioner's underlying claim that respondent's assignment of her to an in-class position was improper.

The remand was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 13, 1999, for hearing as a contested case. The matter was scheduled for hearing on February 17, 2000, but was adjourned at the request of attorney for petitioner due to a court conflict. The matter was rescheduled for hearing on September 14, 2000, and on that date a hearing was held and concluded. However, the record remained open to permit the attorneys to obtain a transcript of the hearing and to arrange for the submission of briefs. After briefs were submitted, the record closed on December 8, 2000. The 45-day statutory period within which to file the initial decision was extended by orders of extension to April 22, 2001.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following is not intended to be a complete summary of all of the testimony and evidence, but is intended to summarize those portions of the record which are relevant to the issues herein.

1. Testimony at prior hearing on June 22, 1999

At the prior hearing held on June 22, 1999, attorney for respondent moved to dismiss the petition on the basis of mootness. Respondent was directed to produce evidence supporting its motion, and it produced Dr. Arthur Travlos, the Superintendent of Schools. Although Dr. Travlos' testimony was provided for the limited purpose of supporting the motion to dismiss, it is part of the record in this proceeding.

Dr. Travlos testified that during the 1998-99 academic year, petitioner was assigned duties as a substance abuse coordinator and was also assigned to help support the health program. Petitioner's assignment as an in-class support instructor in the health program was for the purpose of supporting health teachers in those areas of the health curriculum where petitioner has expertise.

Dr. Travlos testified that petitioner was advised when this assignment was made that it was a limited assignment for the purpose of assisting health teachers in the health program until they became fully familiar with the subject areas within petitioner's area of expertise. She was advised that when it was determined that her expertise and assistance were no longer necessary she would be reassigned.

Dr. Travlos indicated that the decision was made by Dr. Burkhardt, the high school principal, in April 1999 that petitioner's expertise would no longer be needed for the next school year. As a result petitioner was taken out of this in-class support position for the 1999-2000 school year. Dr. Travlos emphasized that if petitioner's expertise and assistance had been needed for the 1999-2000 school year, her assignment would have continued. However, based upon the determination that her assistance was no longer needed, he confirmed that she has been removed from the assignment as in-class support and she will not be returned to the health program.

For school year 1999-2000 petitioner was to be assigned as a school social worker to conduct small group counseling sessions. He testified that as a courtesy petitioner was advised of her reassignment by Dr. Burkhardt in June 1999. He explained that this is not an assignment that requires formal Board approval, because such approval is necessary only for transfers between buildings or in matters involving transfers between areas which are the subject of certificates, and the action of assigning petitioner to small group counseling sessions is his decision. He testified that he has made this decision.

On cross-examination, Dr. Travlos admitted that the school year 1999-2000 reassignment of petitioner could be changed, and he emphasized that petitioner would still be in the health program as an in-class support if she was needed, or if she is needed in the future. However, that was not his intention.

2. Testimony at the remand hearing on September 14, 2000

At the hearing on remand on September 14, 2000, petitioner Cota Possien-Kania testified that she was hired by the school district on August 8, 1987, and held a certificate as a school social worker at the time. In 1989, she obtained an emergency substance awareness certificate which became a permanent certificate in 1991, or 1992. She holds no educational certificates.

Ms. Possien-Kania testified that prior to the 1998-99 school year, she was assigned to the school district's Pupil Improvement Program (PIP). This is quasi-alternative education program for grades 7 through 12 which served 50 to 60 non-special education students who participate in the program for three days each week, one period per day. She spent one day per week counseling special education students. She then took over as substance awareness coordinator on February 5, 1999.

The PIP program consisted of two staff members with petitioner as a counselor for the program operating under a school social worker's certificate. Ms. Marybeth Connolly provided the academic component, which was for support only. When petitioner was assigned to PIP, she would take individuals and groups of PIP students out of the class for counseling. Ms. Connolly is a certified teacher who taught the class and petitioner did support services and determined if the student's difficulties were based on social or emotional problems. Petitioner explained that she rarely became involved in the academic component and she was usually involved with motivating students and dealing with problems. She never lectured in classes and she was not involved in working with students on academics in the PIP program.

As the substance awareness coordinator petitioner took referrals from parents, teachers, and students when there was suspected substance abuse.

Petitioner testified that in June 1998, she received no indication that her assignment would be changed for the following school year. However, in the second week of September 1998, she was advised of a change of assignment for the 1998-99 school year. She received a letter from Dr. Burkhardt (R-2) removing her completely from PIP and assigning her as an in-class support instructor to assist the Health Department's new Family Life Program. There were three experienced teachers assigned to this new health program, but petitioner was required to provide 10 hours in the awareness training component. She went to see Dr. Burkhardt several times, and he explained to her that she was to support the three teachers. However, her role in the classroom was not clear. Dr. Burkhardt chose to place her there because a number of topics which would come up in her counseling sessions would be the subject of the program and the teachers felt overwhelmed with the new program. She indicated that the teacher's guide for these courses contain nothing about having a social worker or a substance awareness coordinator present and participating in the course work. Despite this, she was assigned to work with Ms. Del Rosario in the seventh grade, ninth period; Mr. Hummel in the eighth grade, tenth period; and Mr. Ulrich, in the ninth grade, various periods, for a total of three periods per day.

Petitioner testified that the subject matter of the program differed for each grade level and she tried to approach it as a co-teacher. Her areas of expertise in the seventh grade class involved conflict resolution, refusal skills, and social aspects. For the eighth grade, her areas of expertise were similar. The regular teacher would give a lecture on the subject for the day and then she participated in interactive areas. For ninth grade, there was a more traditional classroom approach. While petitioner was assisting Mr. Ulrich in his ninth grade class Mr. Ulrich was out sick for a time, and petitioner testified that she actually taught, tested and graded the class.

On cross-examination, petitioner testified that she has a substance abuse coordinator certificate and she also could have been a guest lecturer in the health curriculum and would have been a facilitator, but not a teacher. She identified her job description (R-1) and identified the letter of September 3, 1998 (R-2) in which she was assigned to be an in-class support instructor. She felt that this letter does not clearly indicate what was meant and Dr. Burkhardt never made it clear whether she was to teach, develop lesson plans or grade students. The teachers did the lesson plans and she never did them, but she would add to them or suggest additions.

Petitioner indicated that during Mr. Ulrich's absence, there was a certified substitute assigned to the class. She did not lecture each day, but did so when covering areas in which she is proficient. She was involved in discipline in the form of in-class reprimands. She also graded some papers and tests based on an answer key. She occasionally assigned homework, but she did not prepare progress reports. She would go over grades with the teachers and she kept her own attendance. There were occasions when other teachers were absent and either substitute teachers handled the class or the students were brought to the gymnasium. She was observed by Dr. Burkhardt and Mr. Pennisi. She identified two classroom observations (R-4A and R-4C), a summary evaluation (R-4D), and her response to the first classroom evaluation (R-4B) which was included to support her claim that she was performing teaching duties.

Tammy Del Rosario testified that she is a teacher of health and physical education and is in her thirteenth year at the school district. For the 1998-99 school year, a new health curriculum was introduced. She and Dan Hummel wrote up the new curriculum and she was trained in it. She taught this in seventh, eleventh and twelfth grades. At the beginning of the 1998-99 school year she learned from Dr. Burkhardt that petitioner would be assisting in the classroom. She brought up to Dr. Burkhardt the question what petitioner would be doing and he explained that it would be like when the school nurse would come in and help them, or "something like that."

Petitioner was assigned to Ms. Del Rosario's seventh grade class and was there every day. Ms. Del Rosario used her mostly on conflict resolution, mediation and refusal skills. Ms. Del Rosario had no training on how to use a substance awareness coordinator in the class.

On cross-examination, Ms. Del Rosario testified that she taught three health classes and petitioner was only involved with one. She denied ever asking Dr. Burkhardt for any classroom assistance and denied saying that she did not feel competent. She understood that petitioner was to be like an assistant and she may have used the term "team teacher." She was both pleased and not pleased with this arrangement. She was pleased because of petitioner's areas of expertise, but she was not pleased because she did not need her. She conversed with petitioner because she was puzzled as to how she was going to use petitioner in the classroom. Petitioner indicated to her that she was unhappy because it took her away from her area of expertise. Ms. Del Rosario testified that petitioner's involvement was similar to what a nurse would do, that is, each would teach a certain area. Petitioner never presented a written lesson plan or plan book. Ms. Del Rosario handled the discipline, the report cards and assigned and graded homework. In some of the sections, petitioner did the grading. If the parents had a problem, they would speak to Ms. Del Rosario.

Charles S. Ulrich testified that he has been employed by the Dunellen School District as a health and physical education teacher since October 1983. School year 1998-99 brought a new health curriculum and he became aware that petitioner was to be in the classroom. He spoke to Dr. Burkhardt who advised him that petitioner's role was to help him teach, but Dr. Burkhardt gave him no further information. Petitioner was in his ninth grade health class and she helped him teach the class. She taught in her areas of expertise and she did the bulk of lecturing regarding alcohol and tobacco. The curriculum also included sex education and nutrition. There was nothing in the material which said how a substance awareness coordinator was to be involved.

On cross-examination, Mr. Ulrich indicated that petitioner talked to the class everyday. He may have temporarily left her alone on occasion. He prepared the lesson plans and, as to discipline, it was his class and he would report any improper conduct. On occasion, petitioner assigned homework. He graded the tests and homework, but sometimes petitioner would. He entered the grades in the grade book and he took attendance.

Arthur L. Travlos testified that he is the Superintendent of Schools and was hired on July 1, 1996. During the 1997-98 school year, petitioner was the student assistance counselor for two days a week and assigned to the PIP program three days a week. He identified her job description as a social worker (R-5). For the 1997-98 school year, the PIP program involved students with problems involving discipline, disaffected students, and those who needed additional assistance. The students who were in the PIP class were there based on staff, parent, administrator, or guidance referrals. Ms. Connolly was the PIP teacher who was certificated to handle the academic component, and petitioner was to handle the social component, for example, if the home was not supportive or if the student was experiencing problems with peers. The guideline for petitioner was that she was to spend six-tenths of her time in the PIP program with the balance as the student assistance counselor. Petitioner was not certified as a teacher, but would interact with students and would try to help students improve on their schooling. Dr. Travlos indicated that there were occasions when he could not find petitioner.

In June 1998, petitioner's assignment for the 1998-99 school year was to be the same as in the 1997-98 school year. However, Dr. Travlos was contacted by Dr. Burkhardt who explained that the new Family Life Program health curriculum had created anxiety among the staff and they needed help to teach it. Dr. Travlos indicated that the school district had purchased this new program from a manufacturer, but it had volatile components, for example, showing a condom on a finger, and other similar examples. Ms. Nellie Eyerman, the Director of Curriculum, chaired the committee involved with this new component. They were hoping that the staff could implement the program independently, but it became apparent that the teachers were becoming uneasy and they voiced their concerns about their ability to implement this new program. The one person in the school district who was most competent in several of the areas of the new curriculum was petitioner. There were concerns about the PIP program if petitioner were to be transferred, but Dr. Travlos told Ms. Connolly that if any PIP student was in crisis, intercession should be by the guidance counselors and by school district's child study team members.

Dr. Travlos identified the Board of Education policy on assignment and transfer of personnel (R-7). He also testified that petitioner's job duty in the new program was to act as a resource for health teachers in her areas of competence and expertise. This involved refusal skills, teaching of self-esteem, and instruction with respect to sex, drugs and alcohol. He indicated that at no time was petitioner asked to teach, and that she was solely an in-class support person. He did not discuss this directly with petitioner.

Dr. Travlos testified that petitioner filed a Level II grievance (R-8) and as a result, he met with petitioner and told her what she was actually expected to do (R-9). She was not expected to perform any teacher responsibilities and this was made clear to her. He indicated that petitioner was never left alone, and whenever the regular teacher was absent, the school district always hired a certified substitute.

Dr. Travlos testified that following the 1998-99 school year petitioner was no longer needed in the health classes. The teachers are familiar with the subject matter and are comfortable with it and do not need support.

On cross-examination, Dr. Travlos indicated that in school years prior to 1998-99 petitioner was available to any teacher who needed her to assist. In the new health program for 1998-99, petitioner was there to make contributions to the class and to share ideas. She was never expected to deliver the lessons, and in areas not within her expertise, her role was to be passive. The curriculum company gave training to teachers. However, petitioner had the expertise in certain areas to assist the health teachers in providing instruction to students. The curriculum company or publisher did not recommend the use of a school social worker or an substance awareness coordinator. He did not personally talk to the health teachers about this situation.

On re-direct examination, Dr. Travlos indicated that he wanted the new health curriculum program to be first-rate and wanted to give full support to the program.

Donald J. Burkhardt testified that he is Principal of the Dunellen High School. He was part of the decision to place petitioner in the new health curriculum program. He had concerns about the new program and Ms. Del Rosario was extremely concerned about the new curriculum. Mr. Ulrich also expressed concerns about it. He felt that he had enough individuals to otherwise cover PIP counseling and he spoke to petitioner about this new role. He specifically told petitioner that she was not to be a teacher. He also indicated that it never occurred to him to place petitioner in class alone because she is not a certified teacher. He always made sure that if the teacher was not present, the class was covered by a substitute.

On cross-examination, Dr. Burkhardt indicated that petitioner was not in the class to provide crisis counseling or referral services. There was nothing in the curriculum as to which area she was to provide assistance. She was only to provide assistance in her areas of expertise. He met with the two teachers involved in the classes and told them to accept petitioner as a resource. He also met with petitioner at the end of each marking period. The only letter in which he gave written directions as to petitioner's duties was his letter of September 13, 1998. On re-redirect examination, Dr. Burkhardt indicated he had no problem with petitioner leaving a class in order to provide counseling.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

This matter arises out of a dispute regarding petitioner's assignment to assist certified health teachers of the Family Life Program established pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(g). Petitioner's position is that this assignment was improper because it required her to perform teaching duties for which a teaching certificate is required and which petitioner does not possess. Both parties submitted excellent briefs in support of their respective positions, and that which follows addresses their respective legal arguments.

1. Arguments of petitioner

Petitioner points out that there are extensive regulations regarding what certifications are required to provide instruction in various fields, and specifying that in those positions in which instruction is not traditional, such as school nursing, instruction may still be provided in relevant areas. Thus, while health teachers, physical education and health teachers, and school nurses are certified to teach health, substance awareness coordinators and school social workers are not. They are only available as a resource to the teaching staff, and should not be assigned as in-class support instructors for the provision of an entire course of instruction in health or any other area.

Petitioner argues that three types of certificates are provided for by the regulations: Instructional, Administrative and Educational Services. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. A "certificated" employee is eligible to serve under a certificate in any of the specific endorsements he or she has received under that certificate. The regulations provide a number of specified endorsements for individuals holding certificates. A certificated employee can be transferred among endorsements within a particular certificate and is entitled to preference in a reduction in force over a non-tenured employee in categories determined by the State Board. N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 [other citations omitted].

In the present matter petitioner has one certificate, an educational services certificate, with two endorsements: school social worker and substance awareness coordinator. Petitioner does not dispute that the respondent has the right to assign petitioner to any position consistent with the endorsements on her educational services certificate as a school social worker and a substance awareness coordinator. However, petitioner argues that the respondent cannot assign her to a teaching position for which she holds no certificate. Thus, petitioner argues that petitioner's assignment as an in-class support instructor in the health classes is outside the scope of her certificate.

Petitioner contends that the State Board of Education has extensively regulated the areas of school social work and health education and that both the Legislature and the State Board have provided extensive legislation and regulation in the area of substance abuse. She contends that a review of the relevant legislation and regulation concerning the job of school social worker and substance awareness coordinator shows that in-class support instruction is not an appropriate assignment for an individual with either of these endorsements.

N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18(b) specifically provides for the position of substance awareness coordinator by stating:

> The position of substance awareness coordinator shall be separate and distinct from any other employment position in the district, including, but not limited to district guidance counselors, school social workers and school psychologists.

N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18(c) specifically identifies the substance awareness coordinator job duties by providing:

> It shall be the responsibility of the substance awareness coordinator > to assist with the in/service training of school district staff concerning substance abuse issues and the district program to combat substance abuse; serve as an information resource for substance abuse curriculum development and instruction; assist the district in revising and implementing substance abuse policies and procedures; develop and administer intervention services in the district; provide counseling service to pupils regarding substance abuse problems; and where necessary and appropriate, cooperate with juvenile justice officials in the rendering of substance abuse treatment services.

Petitioner asserts that there is no reference to providing in-class support services in the statutory description of the position. The statute also refers to the substance awareness coordinator's role as being to, ". . . serve as an information resource for substance abuse curriculum development and instruction." Petitioner argues that an information resource is not assigned to the classroom on a daily basis.

Petitioner argues that nothing in the regulations regarding substance abuse, found at N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.1 to -6.5., indicates that instruction is to be provided on a regular basis by anyone other than a certificated teaching staff member. Petitioner additionally refers to the regulations regarding Safe and Drug Free Schools, N.J.A.C. 6:29-10.1 to -10.6 which make no reference to curriculum and instruction.

Petitioner contends that there is no provision which indicates that a substance awareness coordinator or a school social worker is to teach in areas related to their certifications, although there is such a heading with regard to the school nurse certification. The description under the school nurse endorsement show that a school nurse may teach in certain areas, while school social workers and substance awareness coordinators may not. The description of the school social worker endorsement at N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.8 (a) indicates that this endorsement is required for service as a school social worker in any school district in the State. The description of the endorsement for substance awareness coordinator states at N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.5(a) that :

> This endorsement is required for anyone, regardless of his or her current endorsements, was responsible for performing the duties stated in N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18C.

Petitioner asserts that the difference between the regulations and requirements to receive an endorsement as a school social worker or substance abuse coordinator and those required to receive an endorsement as a school nurse are critical for this case. Petitioner contrasts the foregoing school social worker or substance abuse coordinator provisions with the description of the endorsement for school nurse which states at N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7(a) as follows:

> This endorsement authorizes services as a school nurse in elementary, secondary and vocational schools, and teaching in areas related to health.

Petitioner points out that the regulations clearly provide that school nurses may be utilized to provide teaching in areas related to health, but there is no such provision made with regard to substance awareness coordinators or school social workers. There is no reference in the regulations to either social workers or substance awareness coordinators as providing instruction. The regulations also provide for only specific certifications to teach health education either under a health education endorsement, N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(10), or a health and physical education endorsement, N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(11).

2. Arguments of respondent

Respondent contends that it properly utilized petitioner as a resource person in the Family Life Program pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(g) and that it properly reassigned petitioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1 and 18A:11-1(d) which grants to the Board the unfettered right to transfer teaching staff members between and among appropriate assignments. Thus, respondent argues that the petition must be dismissed.

Respondent points out that the school district's health curriculum is a part of the state-mandated Family Life Program which is designed to develop students' understanding of the physical, mental, economic, social, emotional and psychological aspects of interpersonal relationships; the physiological and psychological foundations of human development, sexuality and reproduction; and to provide the opportunity for pupils to acquire knowledge which will support the development of responsible personal behavior, strengthen their own family life now and aid in establishing strong family life for themselves in the future. See, N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(a)

While this provision was repealed in May 2000, it was in effect during the time of petitioner's disputed assignment.

Respondent points out that N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(g) provides that during the course of Family Life instruction, "[d]istricts may use resource people to assist with their programs; that is, physicians, members of the clergy, attorneys, parents and guardians, school social workers, school psychologists, law enforcement personnel, and others as necessary."

Respondent argues that when interpreting a statute, one must first look at the wording of the statute to ascertain its plain meaning and intent. Bergen Commercial Bank v. Sisler, 157 N.J. 188, 202 (1999). The primary task is to "effectuate the legislative intent in light of the language used and the objects sought to be achieved." New Jersey Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Trustees. Public Employees' Retirement System, 327 N.J. Super. 326, 332-33 (App. Div. 2000). It contends that the plain meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(g) is to grant to the Board the power to utilize a number of different people as resources to aid Family Life instruction. The regulation even names specific people including police officers, doctors and lawyers. Most importantly, the regulation even specifically lists school social workers among those whom schools can and should utilize to enhance the Family Life program.

Respondent argues that this is exactly what occurred in the present matter. Petitioner, a school social worker, was reassigned to the health curriculum in order to enhance the program by assisting teachers with her expertise in the social aspects of the program. Petitioner is a certified school social worker. A certified teacher was always present with her in the classroom while she was assisting the students. Respondent contends that testimony was introduced that petitioner did not perform the duties of a classroom teacher. Thus the respondent argues that it acted within its power, as stated in N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2, by placing petitioner in the Family Life program to assist and supplement the teacher, and that she was performing the same function while assisting the Family Life teachers - counseling students on the dangers of drugs, alcohol and tobacco, refusal skills, conflict resolution and other social aspects of health - as she did previously in the PIP program.

Respondent contends that there was simply a need in the Health Department Program that had to be fulfilled because the two health teachers had expressed concerns that they did not have expertise in certain areas of the health program dealing with conflict resolution, peer mediation, refusal skills, sex education and other social aspects of health. Dr. Burkhardt and Dr. Travlos decided that petitioner was the ideal person to fulfill these needs because she addressed these same student concerns in the PIP program. Thus, respondent contends that it acted within its authority and utilized petitioner as a highly qualified resource person to assist and complement the health program.

Furthermore, respondent points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:25-l gives to boards of education broad power to reassign and transfer staff members, and that N.J.S.A. 18A:11-l(d) states that a school board shall:

> [p]reform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

In Board of Education of Asbury Park v. Asbury Park Ed. Assn., 145 N.J. Super. 495 (Ch. Div. 1976), the teachers went on strike to protest assignments to extracurricular and co-curricular activities. The court held that a board of education has the power to assign teachers to extracurricular activities, so long as the assignment was reasonable, nondiscriminatory, related to a teacher's interest and expertise, and does not require excessive hours. Id. at 506.

Respondent contends that the Legislature has expressly vested local school boards with the power to employ, promote, transfer and dismiss teaching staff members. N.J.S.A. 18A:ll-1; N.J.S.A. 18A:l6-l; N.J.S.A. l8A:28-9; Dunellen Bd. of Ed. v. Dunellen Ed. Sass's, 64 N.J. 17, (1973). Although such a personnel decision has some impact on a teacher's welfare, that factor is less significant than and outweighed by the board's managerial responsibility to make personnel decisions in the manner which it considers most likely to promote the overall goal of providing all students with a thorough and efficient education. Ridgefield Park Ed. Sass's v. Ridgefield Park Bd. of Ed., 78 N.J. 144, 156 (1978). In fact, Dr. Travlos testified that was his intention in this case. The PIP program was operating efficiently and Petitioner's expertise was needed to assist the health teachers in order to provide all students with a thorough education.

Respondent contends that the reassignment of Petitioner was proper and in the best interest of the students because it improved the structure and efficiency of the entire school. The PIP program was operating efficiently, however, the health curriculum, part of the State-mandated Family Life program, required assistance and supplementation in the areas of peer mediation, refusal skills, self-esteem, sex education, and drug and alcohol abuse .Petitioner's areas of expertise. In fact, petitioner was simply reassigned to assist the health program instead of the PIP program. "Reassignment" is a far less onerous personnel action than is "transferring" a teaching staff member; nevertheless, there is an abundance of authority which grants local school boards the power to transfer staff members. "Transfer" refers to the right of a school board to assign a teacher to a position within the scope of his or her certification. Carpenter v. Bd. of Ed. of Rumson, 322 N.J. Super. 522, 529 (App. Div. 1999). A tenured teacher may be involuntarily transferred to another position within his or her certification where no loss of salary or other reduction in employment is suffered and the teacher is not singled out for the transfer on a prohibited basis. Id

Thus, the respondent contends that it properly reassigned petitioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(d) which grant the Board the unfettered right to transfer teaching staff members between and among appropriate assignments.

3. Discussion and analysis

When the testimony is examined closely it appears clear that most of the essential facts in this matter are not disputed. The only area of dispute involves the specifics of petitioner's duties during her assignment to the Health Department's Family Life Program. While the specifics of her duties were unclear at the time of her original assignment to the Health Department's Family Life Program, the testimony of Dr. Travlos was that as a result of a grievance originally filed by petitioner in September 1998, (R-3 and R-8) it was made clear to petitioner that she was not expected to perform any teacher responsibilities. In addition, the testimony of Dr. Burkhardt was that he spoke to petitioner about her new role and specifically told her that she was not to be a teacher, and she was only to provide assistance in her areas of expertise.

Accordingly, I make the following FINDINGS OF FACT:

1. Petitioner Cota Possien-Kania was hired by the school district on August 8, 1987, as a school social worker.

2. Petitioner presently has one certificate, an educational services certificate, with two endorsements: school social worker and substance awareness coordinator.

3. Prior to the 1998-99 school year, petitioner was assigned to the school district's Pupil Improvement Program (PIP), a quasi-alternative education program taught by a certified teacher which served non-special education students who participate in the program for three days each week, one period per day; she was also assigned as a school social worker to conduct small group counseling sessions and counseling special education students, and she was the substance awareness coordinator. She never lectured in classes and she was not involved in working with students on academics in the PIP program.

4. According to Dr. Travlos the Family Life Program which was to be newly implemented in the 1998-99 school year had volatile components and the one person in the school district who was most competent in several of the areas of the new Program was petitioner.

5. For the 1998-99 academic year, petitioner was assigned duties as a substance abuse coordinator and also received a letter from Dr. Burkhardt dated September 3, 1998, removing her from the PIP Program and assigning her as an in-class support instructor to assist the Health Department's new Family Life Program (R-2).

6. Dr. Travlos testified that petitioner's job duty in the new program was to act as a resource for health teachers in her areas of competence and expertise, and that at no time was petitioner asked to teach, and that she was solely an in-class support person, although he did not discuss this directly with petitioner.

7. Dr. Burkhardt chose to place petitioner in the Health Department's new Family Life Program because it had a number of topics which would come up in her counseling sessions would be the subject of the program.

8. Petitioner's assignment as an in-class support instructor in the health program was for the purpose of supporting health teachers in those areas of the health curriculum where petitioner has expertise. This assignment was for the limited purpose of assisting health teachers in the health program until they became fully familiar with the subject areas within petitioner's area of expertise.

9. Petitioner went to see Dr. Burkhardt several times, and he explained to her that she was to support the three teachers. However, petitioner felt that her role in the classroom was not clear.

10. Petitioner testified that while she was assisting Mr. Ulrich in his ninth grade class Mr. Ulrich was out sick for a time, and she actually taught, tested and graded the class, although during Mr. Ulrich's absence, there was a certified substitute assigned to the class.

11. Petitioner did not lecture each day, but did so when covering areas in which she is proficient. She graded some papers and tests based on an answer key and she occasionally assigned homework

12. One of the teachers testified that petitioner's involvement was similar to what a nurse would do, that is, each would teach a certain area. Dr. Burkhardt advised another of the teachers that petitioner's role was to help teach, but gave him no further information.

13. Petitioner helped teach the classes by teaching in her areas of expertise.

14. Dr. Travlos testified that as a result of petitioner filing a grievance (R-8) he met with her and made clear to her that she was not expected to perform any teacher responsibilities (R-9); that she was never left alone, and whenever the regular teacher was absent, the school district always hired a certified substitute. She was never expected to deliver the lessons, and in areas not within her expertise, her role was to be passive.

15. Dr. Burkhardt spoke to petitioner about this new role and specifically told her that she was not to be a teacher, and that it never occurred to him to place petitioner in class alone because she is not a certified teacher. She was only to provide assistance in her areas of expertise.

16. If petitioner had been needed for the 1999-2000 school year, the challenged assignment would have continued, but based on the determination that her assistance was no longer needed she has been removed from the assignment as in-class support and she will not be returned to the health program.

N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(g) provided that during the course of Family Life instruction, "[d]districts may use resource people to assist with their programs; that is, physicians, members of the clergy, attorneys, parents and guardians, school social workers, school psychologists, law enforcement personnel, and others as necessary." The clear meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(g) is to grant to the individual school districts the power to utilize a number of different people as resources to aid Family Life instruction, and it even names specific people including school social workers among those who are permitted to be utilized to enhance the Family Life Program.

Petitioner, who is a certified school social worker, was reassigned to the new Health Department Family Life Program in order to enhance the program by assisting teachers with her expertise in the social aspects of the program. I have found as a fact that a certified teacher was always present with petitioner in the classroom while she was assisting the students. Therefore, I FIND that respondent acted within its authority and utilized petitioner as a highly qualified resource person to assist and complement the Health Department Family Life Program.

It is acknowledged that the regulations clearly provide that school nurses may be utilized to provide teaching in areas related to health, but there is no such provision made with regard to substance awareness coordinators or school social workers. However, I FIND that petitioner's role was to was to act as a resource for health teachers in her areas of competence and expertise, and that at no time was petitioner asked to teach, and that she was solely an in-class support person. I FIND that it was made clear to petitioner that she was not expected to perform any teacher responsibilities, she was not expected to deliver lessons, and in areas not within her expertise, her role was to be passive.

In addition, I FIND that the action of respondent assigning petitioner as an in-class support instructor is further supported by N.J.S.A. 18A:25-l which gives to boards of education broad power to reassign and transfer staff members, and N.J.S.A. 18A:11-l(d) which states that a school board shall:

> [p]erform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that respondent's assignment of petitioner as an in-class support instructor in the Health Department's Family Life Program for school year 1998-99 was valid and should be AFFIRMED.

DECISION AND ORDER

For the reasons stated above, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's assignment of petitioner as an in-class support instructor in the School District's Health Department's Family Life Program for school year 1998-99 is valid and is hereby AFFIRMED, and petitioner's petition is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF DUNELLEN, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included a transcript of the hearing conducted on September 14, 2000, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision, with modification. Like the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), the Commissioner finds that the Board's design to apply petitioner's expertise within the classroom as a resource to the health teachers was not necessarily improper or violative of specific statute or code.[2] However, the Commissioner further concludes that the Board's failure to take sufficient steps at the outset to clearly define petitioner's role as a classroom resource person vis-à-vis the health teachers, and to provide petitioner and the teachers with necessary follow-up and supervision as they implemented what was apparently a unique model for curriculum delivery in the District, no doubt paved the way for misapprehensions and, as the testimony adduced herein substantiates, missteps in performance.

[2] The Board cites as authority for its action, inter alia, Carpenito v. Bd. of Ed. of Rumson, 322 N.J. Super. 522 (App. Div. 1999), which is erroneously identified as "Carpenter" in the Initial Decision at page 16.

Here, the Commissioner notes that Ms. Del Rosario testified that she was informed that petitioner would be "sort of assisting [her in the] classroom" (Tr. at 49); that she and petitioner were initially "puzzled" about implementing the new arrangement (Tr. at 53); and that she viewed petitioner's participation in her classroom as similar to that of a school nurse (Tr. at 49, 55-56), notwithstanding that the school nurse is specifically authorized to teach "in areas related to health." (N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7(a)) Mr. Ulrich testified that he was made aware of petitioner's participation in his classroom "[b]y word of mouth from Mrs. Kania or some of the other health teachers" (Tr. at 61); that he was not sure whether he was approached by Dr. Burkhardt or vice-versa about the reassignment; and, in any event, he was told petitioner would be in his ninth grade classroom "to help [him] teach," but he was given no further information. (Ibid.)

Dr. Burkhardt indicated that, in his initial discussion with petitioner, he "never went down a list" of what she could or could not do in the classroom (Tr. at 103); indeed, even the written notice of petitioner's reassignment from the District, dated September 3, 1998, was ambiguous, since she was told she would be used as an "in-class support instructor."[3] (emphasis added) (Exhibit R-2) Moreover, Dr. Burkhardt acknowledged that, other than his initial meeting with petitioner and the health teachers, he had no subsequent meetings to evaluate petitioner's role, although he did meet with petitioner at the end of each marking period. (Tr. at 107) Recognizing that the Board's purpose in reassigning petitioner was to ensure successful delivery of a new curriculum, it should have taken greater care to avoid confusion, unnecessary duplication and the possibly inappropriate performance of tasks within the classroom, the very setting which was meant to be enhanced by this reassignment.

[3] It was not until Dr. Burkhardt's memorandum dated September 18, 1998 that he clarified, "I meant for this to be generic. I am not assigning you to be an in-class support instructor for special education. Your position is to be a supporting role for the Health teacher in charge of the class. Your role is to assist the teacher and provide technical expertise from your vast background as a Social Worker and [Substance Awareness Coordinator] counselor." (Exhibit R-3)

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is affirmed, with modification, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ.[4] The Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 6|7|01

Date of Mailing: 6|7|01

[4] To the extent the Initial Decision also employs the term "instructor" when referring to petitioner's position as a resource person within the classroom, the Commissioner does not adopt it as an appropriate designation.

[5] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

DEREK COPELAND, COMMUNICATIONS WORKERS OF AMERICA, AFL-CIO,

Respondents.

Thomas M. Toman, Jr., Esq., for petitioner (Murray, Murray and Corrigan, attorneys)

Stephen P. Weissman, Esq., and William G. Schimmel, Esq., for respondents (Weissman & Mintz, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 11, 2001 Decided: June 11, 2001

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on June 6, 2001 when the Board of Education of the City of Camden (hereinafter petitioner) filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education requesting a determination whether respondent Derek Copeland, and approximately fourteen other custodians similarly situated, all formerly employed by petitioner "are entitled to tenure or have any other entitlement to a hearing to challenge the basis for their non-renewal." Also on June 6, 2001, petitioner filed an application for temporary emergent relief enjoining arbitration scheduled for June 12, 2001 between the respondents and the petitioner before Arbitrator Joel Weisblatt. Petitioner filed a letter memorandum dated June 6, 2001 and a certification of counsel Karen A. Murray in support of the motion for temporary emergent relief.*

By letter dated June 7, 2001, counsel for respondents advised the Commissioner that it was their position the Commissioner did not have jurisdiction over the matter and requested that the Commissioner refrain from transmitting the case to the Office of Administrative Law until respondents could file their responsive brief the next day. By letter also dated June 7, 2001, the Commissioner's office advised counsel for respondents that the file would be transmitted to the OAL where the Commissioner's jurisdiction over this matter would be determined as a threshold issue. By letter dated June 7, 2001, counsel for petitioner replied to respondents jurisdictional assertions, and on June 7, 2001 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F- 1 to –13.

On June 8, 2001 respondents filed a brief in opposition to petitioner's motion to restrain the arbitration, together with the certification of William G. Schimmel, Esq. An original and two copies of a corrected brief in opposition to petitioner's motion to restrain arbitration was promptly filed thereafter.

Oral argument on the motion for emergent relief took place as scheduled on June 11, 2001 at the Trenton office of the Office of Adminsitrative Law.

* Since the first date scheduled for the commencement of this arbitration before Arbitrator Weisblatt was in March 2001, any "emergency" with respect to the within matter was one strictly created by petitioner.

For all the reasons set forth in respondents' well written and reasoned brief, petitioner's application for a temporary restraining order prohibiting the arbitration from going forward on June 12, 2001 is hereby DENIED. At the oral argument in this matter, both counsel agreed that this case is not about whether the custodians would have a right to a hearing on the reasons for non-renewal/termination before the Commissioner of Education. They also agreed that this case is not about whether these custodians have tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. Therefore all of respondents' rights with respect to his (their) employment by petitioner are set forth in the written contract of employment which incorporates the agreement between the Camden Board of Education and the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO, Local 1079, Custodial and Maintenance Employees. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 provides that "the Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws . . ." A dispute between parties to a contract who simply happen to be a school board and an employee does not present a controversy over which the Commissioner has jurisdiction. Smith v. Willingboro Township, Burlington County, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 205, 206-207. Such matters do not require the educational expertise of the Commissioner and are properly brought in a court of competent jurisdiction (or with respect to the threshold issue of negotiability, before the Public Employees Relations Commission. See Ridgefield Park Ed. Assn. v. Ridgefield Park Bd. of Ed., 78 N.J. 144 (1978) and respondents' brief pages 1 through 10.)

Furthermore, since none of the custodians has claimed any tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and none has requested a hearing before the Commissioner of Education concerning the reasons for a non-renewal/termination, petitioner's request for a determination on those issues constitutes a petition for a declaratory ruling pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1. The procedure for obtaining such a declaratory ruling has not been followed, thereby depriving the Commissioner of an opportunity to make the determination whether to entertain such petition. Since such determination is within the sole discretion of the Commissioner and since he has not granted such a request because one has not been made, the entire petition of appeal herein is hereby DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2963-01

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: April 23, 2001 Decided: April 23, 2001

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Woodbridge Township Board of Education brought charges of unbecoming conduct against Gerald Petrovey, a tenured custodian.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 10, 2000, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Following two prehearing conferences, the parties reached amicable resolution of the matter.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached agreement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The charges do not implicate moral turpitude.

3. The sound public policy of New Jersey favors settlements.

4. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this settlement agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded. I further note that the parties have agreed to waive the rights to file exceptions and cross-exceptions.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT (hereinafter referred to as "AGREEMENT") made this 15th day of March, 2001 between THE WOODBRIDGE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION (hereinafter referred to as "BOARD"), GERALD PETROVEY (hereinafter referred to as "EMPLOYEE") and THE WOODBRIDGE TOWNSHIP EDUCATION ASSOCIATION (hereinafter referred to as "ASSOCIATION");

WHEREAS, in September 2000, the BOARD certified tenure dismissal charges against EMPLOYEE to the Commissioner of Education ("COMMISSIONER") pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 (the "CHARGES") (Agency Docket No. 330-9/00; OAL Docket No. EDU 08056-00) and;

Whereas, the COMMISSIONER transmitted the CHARGES to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing; and

Whereas, the EMPLOYEE has proposed a settlement of the CHARGES; and

Whereas, the BOARD has determined that it is in the best interest of the BOARD to withdraw the CHARGES and enter into this AGREEMENT with EMPLOYEE; and

Whereas, EMPLOYEE agrees to enter into this AGREEMENT without admitting any of the CHARGES.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants herein contained, the parties agree as follows:

1. The parties stipulate to the dismissal of the tenure dismissal proceeding brought by the BOARD against EMPLOYEE (Agency Docket No. 330-9/00; OAL Docket

No. EDU 08056-00) upon the execution of this AGREEMENT by both parties and subject to the approval of this AGREEMENT by the Administrative Law Judge and the COMMISSIONER.

2. EMPLOYEE hereby resigns his employment with the BOARD effective May 19, 2001 or the date that EMPLOYEE gains employment in a position that provides salary and benefits equal to or greater than the amount of the position that is hereby resigned, whichever is earlier. The salary and benefits derived from any employment secured prior to June 30, 2001 will be used to mitigate salary and benefit payments payable through June 30, 2001. EMPLOYEE shall notify the BOARD when employment is secured prior to June 30, 2001.

3. EMPLOYEE hereby surrenders any tenure rights that he has with the BOARD upon execution of this AGREEMENT. EMPLOYEE shall simultaneously submit his letter of resignation in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A upon execution of this AGREEMENT.

4. In consideration of the settlement, the BOARD shall pay EMPLOYEE his salary through May 19, 2001, and his 29 total accrued vacation days, personal days and birthday day, which will be paid out in normal salary payments from May 19, 2001 through June 30, 2001 or until employment is secured, as explained in Paragraph 2 hereof, whichever is earlier. Payment of salary shall be less the standard payroll deductions made for EMPLOYEE (e.g. taxes, social security, pension, etc.) and based upon the payroll schedule utilized by the BOARD.

5. EMPLOYEE shall no longer be entitled to any payments or benefits/emoluments from the BOARD as of June 30, 2001 or until employment is secured, as explained in Paragraph 2 hereof, whichever is earlier, subject to the U.S. Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA).

6. In consideration of the foregoing, EMPLOYEE shall simultaneously execute with the execution of this AGREEMENT the form of General Release attached hereto as Exhibit B.

7. The BOARD agrees that any information provided to a potential employer of EMPLOYEE would be limited to such information about his employment that is designated as "public" information by N.J. Executive Order No. 11 (November 15, 1974; Gov. Brendan Byrne) and other laws, which includes the basic facts of his employment tenure in the Woodbridge Township School District.

6. This AGREEMENT shall become part of the EMPLOYEE'S employment record and maintained as a part of his personnel file.

7. The BOARD, ASSOCIATION, and EMPLOYEE agree that the within AGREEMENT does not violate the terms and conditions of their present Collective Bargaining Agreement and has been freely and voluntarily entered into as an alternative to formal disciplinary proceedings pursuant to the Collective Bargaining Agreement and the laws of the State of New Jersey.

8. The EMPLOYEE expressly acknowledges that he has had the benefit of representation through the ASSOCIATION and that he fully understands the terms and provisions of the within AGREEMENT, has had adequate opportunity to deliberate concerning its contents and has voluntarily executed this AGREEMENT.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

In so holding, however, the Commissioner observes that the settlement included with the Initial Decision sets forth terms that were to be effectuated prior to approval of the settlement terms by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The Administrative Law Judge and the parties are cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement in controverted matters that have been duly transmitted to the OAL prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner.

The matter is hereby dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

DECISION

Petitioning Board sought the suspension of respondent's teaching certificate for one year because respondent failed to resign from his position in accordance with statute. Respondent sought dismissal of the petition.

The ALJ determined that respondent failed to give proper notice of his resignation and that a one year suspension of his teaching certificate was appropriate. The ALJ found that respondent failed to present any credible mitigating factors, and noted that respondent provided less than the required 60 days notice, resigned solely because he had secured alternative employment as a police officer and took minimal steps to ensure a smooth transition for his class.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's decision, holding that respondent departed on short notice knowing that a suitable replacement had not been found, and that his sudden departure disrupted his class. Because respondent presented no compelling argument or mitigating factors warranting a shorter period of suspension, the Commissioner suspended respondent's certification for a period of one year from the date of his decision.

INITIAL DECISION MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3588-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 87-2/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF VINCENT MONTALBANO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF RIDGEFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY

Susanna L. Mould, Esq., for petitioner, Ridgefield Park Board of Education (Fogarty and Hara, attorneys)

Harold N. Springstead, Esq., for respondent (Springstead & Maurice, attorneys)

RECORD CLOSED: February 8, 2000 DECIDED: April 24, 2001

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On February 23, 2000, petitioner, the Ridgefield Park Board of Education (Board or Petitioner) filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of the State Board of Education seeking an Order that the respondent, Vincent Montalbano Show Cause as to why his teaching certificate should not be suspended for one year for violating N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. On March 14, 2000, the respondent filed a timely answer asserting affirmative defenses and requesting a dismissal of the petition.

On April 14, 2000, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. Plenary hearings were scheduled for March 14 and 15, 2001. On January 16, 2001, the Board filed a motion for summary decision. On January 31, 2001 the respondent filed a cross motion seeking dismissal of the matter. A reply was filed on February 8, 2001 at which time the record closed. The time for the issuance of the Initial Decision was extended by Order of the Commissioner until May 9, 2001.

FACTS

I FIND the following FACTS to be undisputed, thus, they are adopted as the FACTS herein.

1. Respondent, Vincent Montalbano ("Montalbano") holds a New Jersey teaching certificate with an endorsement of "Teacher of the Handicapped."

2. Montalbano was hired by the Ridgefield Park Board of Education ("Board") as a Special Education Teacher on June 28, 1995, commencing on September 1, 1995, at Ridgefield Park Junior Senior High School.

3. After submitting numerous applications to the Washington Township Police Department in Bergen County, Montalbano was offered a position with that department to begin in February of 2000.

4. During the pendency of his job application and offer of employment ,Montalbano was still under a teaching contract with tenured status with the Ridgefield Park Board of Education.

5. On January 19, 2000, Montalbano submitted a written resignation to the Board, effective on January 31, 2000, thus giving the Board twelve (12) days notice.

6. The Board met that evening and resolved to accept Montalbano's resignation, effective March 17, 2000.

7. Montalbano did not report to work as a teacher after January 31, 2000.

8. Although the Board placed ads for Montalbano's position, it was not able to replace him, thus his class assignments were covered with existing personnel.

DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The Board's motion for summary decision seeks forfeiture of respondent's teaching certificates for a period of one year. The respondent agrees that the matter should be submitted for summary decision, but that no suspension should be imposed, and that the petition be dismissed.

Pursuant to the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, a party may move for summary decision, and it may be rendered:

> If the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is no genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.
> [N.J.S.A. 1:1-12/5(b).]

In administrative proceedings, as in the courts, it is "the movant's burden to exclude any reasonable doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact." Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Company of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). Thus, "[a]ll references of doubt are drawn against the movant in favor of the opponent of the motion. The papers supporting the motion are closely scrutinized and the opposing papers indulgently treated." Id. at 75.

The New Jersey Supreme Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. 142 N.J. 520 (1995), provided further guidance for summary judgment analysis, applying the summary judgment standard employed by the federal courts. Under Brill, once the movant has presented competent evidence tending to show the absence of any genuine issue for trial, the nonmovant must do more than simply create some doubts as to the material facts. Moreover, the nonmoving party cannot rely on disputed issues of fact that are insubstantial. Rather, Brill requires the nonmovant to raise a factual issue substantial enough to sustain a reasonable conclusion in the nonmovant's favor if a hearing were held. If the evidence, along with reasonable inferences, could sustain a judgment in favor of the nonmovant, the motion must be denied.

A determination of whether there exists a genuine issue of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter, but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial. Id. at 540.

The parties agree to the underlying facts. Further, there is agreement that no genuine issue of material fact exists. Consequently, I FIND the matter is ripe for summary decision.

N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 governs the suspension of teaching certificates for wrongful cessation of the performance of duties. It provides that:

> Any teaching staff member employed by a board of education, who shall, without the consent of the Board, cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may, upon receiving notice thereof, suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year.

N.J. S.A. 18A: 28-8 establishes the procedure by which a teaching staff member must provide notice of resignation to a board of education. Additionally, it authorizes the Commissioner to suspend a teacher's certificates if that teacher fails to comply, and provides:

> Any teaching staff member, under tenure of service, desiring to relinquish his position shall give the employing board of education at least 60 days written notice of his intention, unless the board shall approve of a release on shorter notice and if he fails to give such notice he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year.

N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.8 also authorizes the Commissioner to suspend teaching certificates if a teacher is guilty of unprofessional conduct. A teacher may be found guilty of unprofessional conduct if a teacher fails to complete his or her contractual period of employment without the consent of the board. The regulation states that:

> (a) A teacher employed by a district board of education who shall, without the consent of the district board of education, leave the school before the expiration of the term of his or her employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct.
> [Ibid.]

Clearly, as stated, neither the statute or the regulations impose an automatic one year suspension period. Rather, the Commissioner's authority to suspend a license has been deemed discretionary. Thus, it has been held that "By using the term 'may' as opposed to 'shall' in this statute [N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10], it appears the Legislature did not intend the suspension of a teacher's certificate to be automatic, even if the board's consent is not obtained prior to the cessation of performance of duties." Bd. of Educ. Of Black Horse Pike Regional School District v. Mooney, 1984 S.L.D. 810, 814, adopted Commissioner of Education, 1984 S.L.D. 821. Consequently, the Commissioner must evaluate the facts and circumstances specific to the case to determine if the teacher wrongfully ceased to perform his or her duties. Ibid.

In the Mooney case, the respondent provided notice on May 3 that she would be resigning her teaching position effective May 27. Id. at 811. She needed to resign because her husband had received a promotion that required relocation to another state. After the school board accepted the resignation, the respondent sought to resign a week earlier than anticipated. Id. at 812. The board would not accept the earlier resignation date and informed respondent that if she resigned on that date her teaching certificate would be suspended. The respondent nevertheless resigned on the earlier date. Ibid.

The board initiated suspension proceedings, and it was found that suspension was improper. Specifically, it was concluded that the central purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is:

> Not to prevent a teaching staff member from leaving his or her teaching position; rather, it is to provide the local board of education with a reasonable opportunity to obtain a replacement and to acquaint the replacement with the background of the students and the duties and responsibilities of the particular teaching position.

The ALJ considered the following factors to be persuasive: 1) the respondent had a compelling need for an early release and her action was not precipitated by rashness or dissent; 2) the respondent gave immediate notice to the board in writing and assisted in the development of a program through the end of the school year; 3) the respondent met with her successor in order to establish the program, including lesson plans, and she left final grades for her classes; 4) the board had the ability to replace the respondent as of the requested release date and it did in fact replace respondent with the same teacher who would have replaced her whether she left on May 20 or May 27, 1983; 5) the respondent did not seek release from her employment in order to obtain employment elsewhere in New Jersey; and 6) the respondent's annual performance report for the year showed an above average record at the time the relationship with the school board terminated.

Here, unlike in Mooney, no similar mitigating factors have been presented. Notably, the respondent does not dispute that the notice he gave was insufficient and that he ceased teaching contrary to the 60 day requirement contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. Second, the respondent's need for early release of the contract was based solely upon his securing alternative employment as a police officer in the State of New Jersey. Finally, the actions taken by the respondent to insure that his class made a smooth transition were, at best, minimal and consisted only of the following:

> I tried to make a schedule for teachers to cover classes; I discussed the classroom duties and students with those teachers; after I left, I completed the second marking period grades; and sent notice of openings to surrounding colleges including William Paterson College, Kean University and Montclair University. (Exhibit D)

In I/M/O the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Robert J. Burgess, School District of the Township of Clinton, Hunterdon County, 1983 S.L.D. 183, adopted Commissioner of Education, 1983 S.L.D. 195, the respondent teacher therein provided notice on January 29, 1982 that he would resign effective February 15, 1982. Id. at 184. He needed to resign in order to accept a lucrative non-teaching position. The board accepted his resignation and noted that it would "do all in their power to try and replace him by February 15," but that he would not be released earlier than 60 days unless the Board procured a suitable replacement teacher. Id. at 190.

However, the board failed to find a replacement teacher until March 8 because of the absence of the superintendent between February 8th and 16th Consequently, the Board did not act until March 8, the day of the next scheduled meeting. Id. at 187.

It was concluded that suspension was not warranted because the board had failed to fulfill its promise to accelerate the replacement process and the teacher therein had taken steps to assist his replacement. It was reasoned "that neither the Board nor its chief school administrator in fact carried out the promise made to Burgess on February 1, that all in their power would be done to replace him by February 15th . Id. at 191.

In the present case, there was no promise made to the respondent on January 19, 2000. The Board met that evening and resolved to accept his resignation, effective March 17, 2000. It was made clear in a memorandum dated January 20, 2000, that the respondent would not be let out of his contract until March 17, 2000. Nevertheless, respondent notified the Superintendent of Schools that he intended to cease teaching the following week, and did not return to work after January 31, 2000.

In East Amwell Twp. Bd. of Ed. v. Acken, 1986 S.L.D. 2803, adopted Commissioner of Education, 1986 S.L.D. 2803, aff'd St. Bd., 1987 S.L.D. 2513, the respondent teacher's husband was transferred to Florida, and she remained employed by the board during the school year after his transfer, although she spent her summers in Florida. The respondent provided 11 days written notice that she intended to resign her position as a tenured teacher. Id. at 2809. It was concluded that the respondent was guilty of unprofessional conduct for failure to provide the statutorily mandated notice. Id. at 2814. Cf: In I/M/O the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Falco, EDU 9283-98, Final Decision (May 24, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html, wherein unprofessional conduct charges were sustained for failure to give timely notice notwithstanding a claim of emotional stress. Id. at 20. The Commissioner found this contention without merit, and held that the circumstances did not justify Falco not fulfilling the terms of his employment with the board, by not giving the 60 days requisite notice. Ibid.

However, I/M/O the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Rogers, 1989 S.L.D. 1962, adopted Commissioner of Education, 1989 S.L.D. 1968, a nontenured elementary teacher of the handicapped resigned without giving the requisite statutory notice in order to take a position working with severely handicapped children. The ALJ considered three factors: 1) that the board was able to find a replacement within a week 2) that respondent's erroneous belief that he could back out of the contract was credible; and, most importantly, 3) the respondent's motivation. Id. at 1965-1966. The ALJ found that not fulfilling the contract with the Board by taking the position working with severely handicapped children was not to "feather his own nest, but rather from honest and more noble motivations." Ibid. Even under these facts, however, the ALJ concluded that it was appropriate to suspend Roger's certificate for three months. Ibid.

Here, the respondent has failed to advance any mitigating factors that would compel the conclusion that a suspension for less than one year is appropriate. The Board placed ads to fill the respondent's position, but was unable to find a suitable replacement requiring the petitioner to cover respondent's classes with other staff members. The respondent was well aware of the statutory notice requirement as he does not dispute that the notice he gave was insufficient, and that he ceased his employment contrary to the 60 day requirement. Finally, I conclude that the respondent left his position to "feather his own nest." While it was a life long dream of the respondent to become a police officer, I am persuaded that the respondent could have waited until another position became available at the police academy, which would have allowed him to give adequate notice to the Board.

I therefore FIND and CONCLUDE that respondent failed to give proper notice of resignation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 and therefore the petitioner has demonstrated that the respondent engaged in unprofessional conduct and that his teaching license should be and is hereby suspended for a period of one year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A::26-10 and N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.8.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. 3588-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 87-2/00

IN THE MATTTER OF THE SUSPENSION	:
OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
VINCENT MONTALBANO, SCHOOL DISTRICT:		DECISION
OF RIDGEFIELD PARK TOWNSHIP,	:
BERGEN COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that he was guilty of misconduct and failed to advance any factors which would mitigate against suspension of his certificate for one year. Respondent notes in this regard that:

> [T]he ALJ made no mention of [his] outstanding record during his employment with the Board. In his letter to the Board, he listed 27 accomplishments of which he was proud in his service to the District. The Board was asked in interrogatories if there were any errors in the 27 separate accomplishments and to describe those errors. The Board disagreed with his statement that he used only two personal days. He also claimed that he never used "all four sick days in one year." The Board disagreed since staff receive ten days per year . Board records show that he used only two sick days during his employ. The Board did not take issue with respondent's statement that he "always had excellent evaluations" nor the 25 other achievements including that he was always a positive influence on all the students and gave them the best education possible. (Respondent's Exceptions at 4)

Thus, respondent reasons that the within matter is analogous to Mooney, supra., wherein the Commissioner considered respondent's above average record of performance for the year and declined to assess the departing teacher with a penalty.

Similarly, respondent maintains that this matter is akin to Burgess, supra, wherein the Board accepted the teacher's resignation, noting that it would try to find a replacement, but would not release him earlier than 60 days unless it found one. There, the Commissioner found that because the Board had failed to keep its promise to accelerate the replacement process, suspension was not warranted. By comparison, respondent notes that Superintendent Benfatti, when urging that he reconsider his decision to leave, also told him that he would be released earlier than March 17, 2000 if a replacement was found. Thus, respondent argues that the ALJ's finding that "no promise was made to the respondent and that it was clear that he would not be let out of his contract until March 17, 2000" was erroneous. (Id. at 5)

Finally, respondent challenges the ALJ's finding that he left the Board's employ "to feather his own nest." (Id. at 6) Instead, respondent advances, as in Rogers, supra, his leaving to become a police officer was a "noble motivation." (Ibid.) Moreover, respondent notes that the ALJ's finding that he "could have waited until another position became available at the policy academy," (Initial Decision at 9) is simply incorrect, based on the record. "Having an opening in the police academy has nothing to do with being appointed to the police department," respondent contends. (Respondent's Exceptions at 6) Thus, respondent urges that the Commissioner reject the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and dismiss the within suspension proceedings. In the alternative, respondent asserts that a penalty far less than one year is warranted.

In response, the Board underscores that although respondent appears to be arguing the opposite, the case law supports the conclusion that a one-year suspension is the general rule when teachers fail to provide local boards with the statutory notice of intent to leave their positions. (Board's Reply at 1) Thus, the cases which respondent cites are not only exceptions to the general rule, but are distinguishable from the instant matter, according to the Board.

Specifically, the Board notes that, contrary to the facts in Mooney, supra, respondent herein was not compelled to leave his teaching position when he did. Rather, he could have waited for the next opportunity for a police officer's position in Washington Township or another town. (Id. at 2) Respondent, having resigned when he did, the Board argues, left the District in a difficult position. "It is exactly for this type of motivation that N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 was drafted." (Ibid.) Additionally, contrary to the situation in Mooney, respondent was never told that his early departure would be acceptable. Neither did respondent take extraordinary measures, as the ALJ noted, to ease the transition for those left to cover his classes. Thus, the Board reasons that respondent's good record of performance in the District is without significance where the other Mooney factors are not present, since "[t]he ultimate effect that respondent's actions had on the district are in no way lessened by respondent's past record." (Ibid.)

Likewise, the Board argues that Burgess, supra, is distinguishable from the instant matter in several key aspects. First, the Burgess board actually resolved to let Burgess out of his contract if a replacement was found. Additionally, there was an available replacement, but the board, for reasons unacceptable to the Commissioner, failed to promptly act to appoint her. Finally, the teacher in Burgess took extraordinary measures to ease the transition by preparing lesson plans, reviewing the plans with his principal and other sixth grade teachers, leaving personal items for use by the replacement teacher and offering to meet with that teacher on his own time. (Ibid.) By contrast, the Board herein did not resolve to let respondent out of his contract if and when a replacement was found, no replacement was available before respondent left the District and respondent took no such extraordinary measures. (Id. at 3)

Finally, the Board contends that Rogers, supra, is also distinguishable from the instant matter because, therein, a replacement was available for the teacher. (Ibid.) Additionally, in Rogers, the Commissioner acknowledged that the teacher left the district to work with severely and multiply handicapped children, which the Commissioner deemed a noble motivation. (Ibid.) By contrast, the Board herein asserts, there was no replacement available for respondent and, although he left to take a job that he always wanted:

> [T]he noble choice would have been to continue working in his position in the Ridgefield Park School District where he was desperately needed for the statutory time period, not to take a position that he always wanted without regard for the effect that would have on the special education students and the staff and administration he left behind. (Ibid.)

For these reasons, the Board requests that the Commissioner affirm the decision of the ALJ.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that there is ample documentation to support the Board's position that respondent's undeniable failure to comply with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 18A:26-10 and 18A:28-8 is sufficient to warrant the suspension of his teaching certificate for a period of one year. In so finding, the Commissioner determines there can be no dispute that respondent abandoned his class for another job: (a) knowing that he was not yet "released" from his position in the Ridgefield Park School District; (b) only 12 days after the delivery of his written resignation; and (c) knowing that a suitable replacement was not yet employed. See, Dumont Board of Education v. Andrew Zweig, 1988 S.L.D. 904, 910.

Despite respondent's urging, for the reasons set forth by the ALJ in the Initial Decision and advanced by the Board, the Commissioner concurs that this matter is not analogous to Mooney, supra; Burgess, supra; or Rogers, supra. Moreover, while respondent properly observes that Superintendent Benfatti indicated that he would be released earlier than March 17, 2000 if a replacement was found (Affidavit of Irene Benfatti at 3), notably, he does not dispute the ALJ's finding that "[a]lthough the Board placed ads for [his] position, it was not able to replace him ." (Initial Decision at 3) Neither does respondent dispute the superintendent's attestations in this regard that:

> 2. After respondent  left the Board's employ, I tried to replace him. An advertisement to fill his vacant position was posted in the district and advertised in the newspaper.
> 3. No responses to that advertisement were received.
> 4. I would have preferred to replace Mr. Montalbano. However, since no responses were received to the advertisement for the position, I resorted to covering his classes with existing staff. This was not done easily.
> 5. The resulting situation was one that caused a strain on the district as well as the covering teachers.
> 6. For the 2000-2001 school year, Mr. Montalbano's former position has been filled. However, the district is still short one special education teacher.
> 7. It has been my experience that substitute teachers are hard to find. Further, it is my experience that special education teachers are very difficult to find. When you are looking for one in the middle of a school year, it is almost impossible.

Pursuant to the enabling statute, as noted supra, the Commissioner has both the authority and the discretion to suspend a teacher's certificate for a period of up to one year for relinquishing his position without "at least 60 days written notice of his intention." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. The Commissioner has recognized that "[t]he sudden departure of a teacher who has been working with a group of pupils for four months results in a disruption of the educational program to those pupils, if only because of a sudden change in teachers." See, Dunellen Borough Board of Education v. David T. Drake, 1987 S.L.D. 2016, 2019. Thus, although the Commissioner acknowledges the predicament in which respondent found himself when he was offered a position commencing mid-year in the Washington Township Police Department after having submitted numerous applications, there is no question that he "violated the letter and intent of the statute, resulting in disruption of his  class." Dumont Board of Education, supra, 1988 S.L.D. at 912. Inasmuch as respondent was a tenured teacher, the Board also offers a compelling policy consideration:

> The Legislature has established a system for protecting the school community from disruption to the relationship under which experienced teachers provide an education to the students within the school district. By statute, tenured teachers have the security of knowing they can continue to hone their skills and provide their services to the students of their districts indefinitely, and that they will only be removed or non-reappointed under extreme circumstances and after lengthy proceedings.  Because of these statutory protections, a school board makes a significant investment by granting tenure to any teacher. In exchange for this investment, the Legislature requires that tenured teachers provide their employers with a minimum of sixty days' notice of their intent to discontinue to serve the school district. (Board's Letter Brief in Support of Motion to Dismiss at 7-8; citations omitted)

Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct and, as such, his teaching certificate should be suspended for a period of one year, which period shall commence upon the date of this decision. A copy of this decision is hereby forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating the within decision.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF REBECCA CONNOR, CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE SCHOOL DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW AGENCY DKT. NO. 292-8/00 OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6549-00 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement is made by and between Rebecca Connor who resides at 500 Bay Avenue, #506N, Ocean City, New Jersey and the City of Pleasantville Board of Education (hereinafter "the Board"), with offices located at 115 W. Decatur Avenue, Pleasantville, New Jersey. In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Agreement, and for good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned state:

WHEREAS, Ms. Connor is a tenured employee of the Board, having been employed as a speech correctionist by the Board since on or about September 1, 1990; and

WHEREAS, the Board certified tenure charges against Ms. Connor to the Commissioner of Education captioned: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Rebecca Connor, City of Pleasantville School District, Agency Dkt. No. 292-8/00.

IT IS on this 12th day of December 2000, agreed that:

1. Ms. Connor will sign and tender an irrevocable and permanent letter of resignation in the form attached hereto as "Attachment A", to be effective December 12, 2000. Ms. Connor understands that by signing her resignation and this Agreement she is permanently ending all of her rights to tenure, seniority and employment in the Pleasantville School District.

2. Ms. Connor shall receive the amount of $16,019.10, which represents compensation for 120 calendar days of employment commencing on or about September 1, 2000 and ending on or about December 31, 2000, subject to the usual payroll deductions. Payment of this amount shall be made within seven business days of approval of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The Board also agrees to maintain health benefits for Ms. Connor for a period of 104 days, commencing December 12, 2000 and terminating on March 26, 2001, subject to mitigation by any health insurance coverage provided to Ms. Connor through March 26, 2001 by any subsequent employer.

3. Aside from the foregoing, Ms. Connor waives and releases any and all other rights to back pay, compensation for unused sick days and any other benefits to which she may otherwise be entitled by virtue of her employment with the Board.

4. Ms. Connor understands that, upon her filing of an application for retirement with the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF), or upon receipt of any employment inquiries, the Board will be required to provide accurate information. Upon receipt of any employment inquiries, the personnel office of the Pleasantville School District shall provide a "neutral" recommendation, consisting of the dates of Ms. Connor's employment in the district and the fact that she tendered her resignation.

5. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Board, by an appropria resolution. In the event that this Agreement is not ratified by the Board, it shall be null and void.

6. Ms. Connor agrees to sign the Release annexed hereto, waiving any and all claims to damages, salary, benefits, back pay, recoupment of monies or any other civil/administrative claim or cause of action, whether known or unknown, against the Board and its agents, employees, servants and other persons referenced in said Release. Said Release shall be in the form annexed hereto as "Attachment B" and shall be signed at the time of the signing of this Agreement by Ms. Connor.

7. The Board acknowledges and declares that, in light of Ms. Connor's submission of her irrevocable letter of resignation, it is not in the best interests of the Pleasantville School community or the taxpayers of the City of Pleasantville to proceed with a hearing on the charges.

* It is understood that the comissioner shall refer the entire matter to the Bd of Ed counsel for their independent review.

8. Should the Commissioner refuse to approve the within settlement, then this Agreement shall be null and void and the subject charges shall continue in full force and effect. Further, Ms. Connor agrees and understands that should the settlement be rejected by the Commissioner of Education, the Board shall not resume payment of her salary until the first day of the newly rescheduled tenure hearing as per N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. *

9. Ms. Connor acknowledges that she has consulted with an attorney of her own choosing prior to signing this Agreement and accompanying Release, and that she signs this Agreement and Release as her own voluntary act and deed, and that she fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

10. This Agreement contains the entire understanding of the parties. Unless explicitly set forth herein, all other promises, representations or agreements shall not be binding upon the parties.

11. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

1. In consideration of the payments made, or to be made, to or on behalf of Connor by the Board and the promises contained in the annexed Settlement Agreement (the "Agreement"), Connor hereby UNCONDITIONALLY RELEASES AND FOREVER DISCHARGES the Board, its trustees, officers, employees, agents, servants, representatives, attorneys, successors, heirs, executors and assigns (all of whom are hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Releasees") from all claims, liabilities, demands and causes of action, whether known or unknown, fixed or contingent, that Connor may have or claim to have against the Board for any reason as of the date of execution of the Agreement, including, but not limited to:

(i) Any and all claims asserted or which could have been asserted;

(ii) Any and all claims, charges or complaints asserted, or which could have been asserted, concerning any aspect of Connor's employment with the Board, any agreement concerning such employment or her resignation from such employment, including, but not limited to, any and all claims of wrongful or constructive discharge or breach of contract, any and all claims for equitable estoppel, any and all claims for employee benefits, and any and all claims of discrimination on any basis, including, but not limited to, any and all claims under: Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended; the Civil Rights Act of 1966, 42 U.S.C. §1981; the Older Worker Benefit Protection Act; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Constitution; and any other federal or State statute covering the employment relationship, under the common law or in equity or arising under any agreement, understanding or promise, written or oral, formal or informal, between Connor and the Board;

(iii) Any and all claims for back pay, reinstatement, sick pay, vacation pay, liquidated, compensatory and punitive damages, and attorneys' fees, disbursements and costs, which Connor or her legal representatives, heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns ever had, now have, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against the Releasees by reason of any matter, cause, or thing whatsoever from the beginning of time to the day of the date of Connor's execution of the Agreement.

2. Connor represents and warrants that she has never commenced or filed, and she covenants and agrees never to commence or file or aid or in any way, prosecute or cause to be commenced, or prosecuted, against the Releasees any action, charge, complaint or other proceeding, whether administrative, judicial, legislative or otherwise, including, but not limited to, any action or proceeding contesting the validity of this Release or attempting to negate, modify or reform it, or for attorneys' fees, disbursements or costs, based upon or seeking relief on account of actions or failures to act by the Releasees which may have occurred or failed to occur before the date of Connor's execution of the Agreement.

3. Connor and anyone who succeeds to her rights and responsibilities, such as her heirs, executors, personal legal representatives, assigns and successors are bound by this Release.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, Connor has signed this Release on the date set forth below.

Record Closed: April 27, 2001 Decided: April 27, 2001

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Dennis L. Grimmett, assistant superintendent of the Lower Camden County Regional School District Number One, which is to be dissolved, claimed tenure and seniority rights to such a position in one of the constituent school districts upon dissolution.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

Counsel conferred over several months and reached amicable resolution of the matter. The parties have prepared the attached settlement agreement and submit it together with a resolution from each board of education authorizing entry into the agreement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by authorized signatures on the agreement true copies of resolutions authorizing entry into the agreement, and

I note that in Part 4 of the agreement payment to the petitioner for unused days of sick leave accrued is addressed. The agreement calls for one-half of the agreed amount of this payment to be made on or before February 1, 2001, a date before submission of the agreement for approval. Under ordinary circumstances, this could not be approved. In recognition of the unique situation herein, I ORDER that the payment of these funds shall not constitute an impediment to approval of the entire agreement provided the monies shall be returned in the event this agreement is not approved by the Commissioner of Education.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement as modified meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

WINSLOW TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, located at 113 Central Avenue, Blue Anchor, New Jersey 08037-1667;

HEREINAFTER referred to collectively as the BOARDS and DR. DENNIS L. GRIMMETT, residing at 530 Maple Avenue, Haddonfield, New Jersey 08033, (hereinafter referred to as the "Respondent" or "Assistant Superintendent").

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Dr. Grimmett is a tenured assistant superintendent of the Lower Camden County Regional High School District #1 (LCCR);

WHEREAS, on or about May 12, 1998, the voters of the seven constituent districts voted to dissolve the Lower Camden County Regional High School District #1,and a dissolution date of July 1, 2001, has been set by the Commissioner of Education;

WHEREAS, the Petitioner filed a petition against the constituent boards of education before the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey under the Agency Docket Number 168-5/00 and Agency Reference Number EDU-4933-00 (hereinafter "the litigation") ;

WHEREAS, the subject matter of the litigation was to assert the petitioner's right to continued employment by one of the constituent districts following the dissolution of LCCR under N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64;

WHEREAS, the constituent districts desire to amicably resolve the Litigation and to provide for the terms and conditions of Dr. Grimmett's employment following the date of dissolution of LCCR;

1. TERM. This Agreement shall cover the term from June 30, 2001 to June 30, 2002.

2. TERM AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT. Dr. Grimmett shall cease his employment with the LCCR Board of Education upon dissolution. He shall be entitled to any and all benefits due and owing pursuant to his current employment contract and any other district policies, including but not limited to, payment for unused accumulated sick and vacation time with the LCCR Board of Education. The Winslow Township Board of Education, effective upon the date of dissolution of the LCCR shall employ Dr. Grimmett in the position of Director, Administrative Services. The job description for the position, to which the parties have mutually agreed , is annexed to this Agreement and made a part hereof as Exhibit A. The position is to be a TPAF position. Dr. Grimmett is to remain employed in the position for the term July 1, 2001 through June 30, 2002. Thereafter, effective midnight, June 30, 2002, he resigns, rejects and surrenders any employment rights he might have with the Winslow Township Board of Education and all other constituent districts. The Winslow Township Board of Education hereby also agrees that it shall not eliminate or abolish the position during the term of this Agreement. In addition, the compensation and terms of the position are to be controlled by this Agreement . Dr. Grimmett shall be a tenured employee during his employment by the Winslow Township Board of Education, and his employment shall be subject to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Except as otherwise provided herein, Dr. Grimmett shall be employed under the terms and conditions as provided under the Management Team Agreement, between the Winslow Township Administrators Association and the Winslow Township Board of Education covering the period from July 1,1998-June 30, 2001. A true copy of the Management Team Agreement is annexed hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibi B. Although Dr. Grimmett shall be accorded the benefits provided for by the Management Team Agreement he shall not be required to join the Winslow Township Administrators Association.

A. Medical Benefits. Dr. Grimmett shall be provided the same medical benefits as are currently being provided to the Principals and Assistant Principals. Thus, Dr. Grimmett shall receive full family coverage which shall include the following: Medical, Dental, Vision, and Prescription plans as is currently being provided. Coverage in these plans shall be equal to or better than that which is being provided to any bargaining group other than the Winslow Township Administrator's Association. Dr. Grimmett shall also be provided with a Health Maintenance Organization option. However, the Winslow Township Board of Education's obligation for the premium payment for an HMO shall not exceed the Board's obligation for the traditional indemnity plan at the family coverage rate.

B. Salary. During the term of this Agreement, Dr. Grimmett shall not be reduced in compensation, including salary and benefits. The Winslow Township Board of Education shall pay Dr. Grimmett a salary of $99,000 for the school year 2001-2002. The annual salary rate shall be paid to Dr. Grimmett in accordance with the schedule of salary payments in effect for other certified employees.

C. Vacation. The Winslow Township Board of Education shall grant Dr. Grimmett 20 vacation days annually which shall all become available to him, effective July 1, 2001. Dr. Grimmett shall be permitted to be reimbursed for all unused vacation days accumulated after he commenced his employment by the Winslow Township Board of Education either at the conclusion of the term of his employment, upon retirement, or upon his resignation from the Director of Administrative Services position at his full per diem rate. The per diem rate shall be calculated at 1/240th of his then-current salary. This provision is in addition to and not in lieu of Dr. Grimmett's right to be paid for unused accumulated sick or vacation days resulting from his employment by LCCR.

D. Association Memberships. The Winslow Township Board of Education shall pay 100 percent of Dr. Grimmett's membership fees and or charges to the New Jersey Association of School Administrators.

E. Sick Days. Dr. Grimmett, as a 12-month employee, shall be allowed sick leave with full pay for 13 working days for the period beginning July 1, 2001 to June 30, 2002. At the conclusion of his employment with Winslow Township Board of Education, Dr. Grimmett shall be compensated for all unused sick days, accumulated during his employment at Winslow at the rate of forty (40%) percent of his daily rate.

F. Personal Leave Days. Dr. Grimmett shall be given three personal days which shall all be immediately available upon the commencement of his employment (July 1, 2001). All unused personal days shall be converted to accumulated sick leave.

3. OTHER COMPENSATION. Dr. Grimmett shall receive the sum of ten thousar ($10,000) dollars from the Respondents, payable as follows:

(1) $5,000 (which will be advanced by the Winslow Township Board of Education)within fifteen (15) days of the Commissioner's approval of this Agreement, and

(2) $5,000 on or before July 31, 2001 (which shall be payable through the LEA but shall be the responsibility of all of the Respondents in the event the LEA is unable to pay).

4. PAYMENT FOR SICK TIME. The Boards hereby agree to pay Dr. Grimmett for all unused sick days he has accumulated in LCCR. The payment for said sick days shall be calculated at his per diem rate which shall be 1/240th of his salary for the 2000-2001 school year which is $94,317.00. Upon signing of this Agreement, Dr. Grimmett has 87 accumulated unused sick days. The payment shall be made to Dr. Grimmett in two equal installments and shall not exceed $45,000.00. The first payment shall be made on or before February 1, 2001, the second payment shall be made on or before June 15, 2001, or as otherwis negotiated between Dr. Grimmett and LCCR. This payment shall be made to Dr. Grimmett, by LCCR regardless of the application of the language contained within the LCCR Management Team Agreement, or the LCCR Central Office Administrators' Terms of Employment, or regardless of any settlements which have been reached with regard to the litigation which occurred concerning the Dissolution Incentive Plan ("DIP"). To the extent that any or all of this payment has not been paid to Dr. Grimmett by LCCR prior to the dissolution, it shall be paid post dissolution by the Boards (Respondents) through the LEA, on or before July 31, 2001. The Boards which are the Respondents herein, shall guarantee the payment of this money to Dr. Grimmett on or before July 31, 2001, in the event that the payment cannot be accomplished through the LEA. In addition, Dr. Grimmett shall be entitled to receive payment of this money by operation of the dissolution of LCCR and will not be required by the Boards to either resign or retire from LCCR from his position as Assistant Superintendent. However, should Dr. Grimmett be required to resign from his positio as Assistant Superintendent of LCCR, in order to be compensated from LCCR for accumulated sick and vacation time, the Boards, including but not limited to Winslow Township Board of Education, shall be required to honor all of the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

5. PAYMENT TO ESTATE. If the Assistant Superintendent dies before the contract term of this Agreement has been completed, payment of the ten thousand ($10,000) dollar lump sum, together with payment for any unused accumulated sick and vacation time, shall be made to Dr. Grimmett's estate.

6. RESIGNATION. By the operation of this Agreement, Dr. Grimmett shall resign from the position of Director, Administrative Services effective on June 30, 2002. The resignation shall be null and void if the Boards fail to execute and fulfill all of the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

7. MUTUAL RELEASE and INDEMNIFICATION

A. Dr. Grimmett hereby agrees to release and forever discharge the Boards, its individual members, successors, assigns, and agents from any and all past, present, and future claims, suits, actions at law or in equity of any kind, in any forum that he may have against it, and agrees that execution of this Agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of this Agreement or any provision thereof. He shall dismiss with prejudice, and without costs the matter presently pending before the Commissioner of Education.

B. The Boards and their members hereby agree to release and forever discharge Dr. Grimmett from any and all claims, suits, actions at law or in equity of any kind, in any forum that they may have against him, and agrees that execution of this Agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of this Agreement or any provision thereof.

C. The mutual releases set forth herein are entered into voluntarily and willingly and without any duress or coercion. Both parties agree to be bound by their respective releases and agree that their respective successors shall be bound by the releases and all other provisions of this Agreement.

D. Specifically excluded from Dr. Grimmett's release is his right, upon cessation of employment with the Boards, to obtain continued medical coverage at his own expense as authorized by the Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1986 (COBRA), any rights he may have arising under the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) and related statutes and regulations, any rights he may have under the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, N.J.S.A. 34:16-1, et seq., and any rights he may have in his individual capacity to assert any claim for personal injuries that may result and/or be discovered subsequent to the execution of this Agreement, caused by the negligent or intentional acts or omissions of the parties.

8. DISMISSAL OF LAWSUIT. Upon the execution of this Agreement by all parties to this lawsuit, upon the approval by all the Boards of Education of the terms contained herein, and upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education, this action shall be dismissed with prejudice against all parties to the Agreement.

9. CONSULTATION WITH COUNSEL. The parties represent that they have consulted with their respective attorneys before signing this Agreement and are fully satisfied with the advice received.

10. EXECUTION IN COUNTERPARTS and FACSIMILE SIGNATURES. This Agreement may be executed in two (or more) counterparts, each of which counterparts, when executed and delivered, shall be deemed to be an original, and all of which counterparts, taken together, shall constitute but one and the same Agreement. An original signature transmitted by facsimile shall be deemed to be an original for purposes of this Agreement.

11. APPROVAL BY THE COMMISSIONER. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

WHEREAS, duly authorized officers of the Boards have approved the terms and conditions of this Agreement; and,

WHEREAS, Dr. Grimmett has approved of the terms and conditions of the Agreement; and,

WHEREAS, this Agreement has been approved by the Boards of Education named above;

Management Team Agreement Between The Winslow Township Administrators Association
And
The Winslow Township Board Of Education

PREAMBLE

This agreement entered into this Seventh Day of December, 1998, by and between the Board of Education of Winslow Township, Blue Anchor, New Jersey, hereinafter called the "Board", and the Winslow Township Administrators Association, hereinafter called the "Association".

PHILOSOPHY STATEMENT

The Winslow Township Board of Education and the Winslow Township Administrators Association agree to work as a Management Team[1] in order to promote educational excellence, to ensure that all students receive a thorough and efficient education, and to provide educational services in the most cost-efficient manner.

Furthermore, both parties agree to do whatever is necessary to create an environment of trust and mutual respect.

To this end, the Board of Education and the Administrators Association recognize the role of the Board of Education, that is, to establish policy and serve in the capacity of employer, as well as the role of the administrative staff to implement board policy and serve as the leaders of the schools' educational program.

In order to function in these roles, the Association agrees to:

[1] The Management Team is a formally constituted body of administrators who exercise collaboratively all the administrative processes: goal setting, planning, organizing, implementing, coordinating, communicating, decision-making, and evaluating. It is composed of central office and building level administrative and supervisory personnel. The Management Team is responsible for executing the policies of the School Board. As in other collaborative efforts, when appropriate, input is gathered from teachers, students, parents, and community.

- Pursue professional excellence at all times
- Continually improve management skills
- Serve as models of professional excellence to all members of the staff
- In policy and personnel matters, to follow the administrative chain of command at all times
- Provide advice and consultations regarding personnel and policy matters through established channels
- Avoid public criticism of the Board, its members, and its policies
- Uphold all policies of the Board

In addition, the Board of Education agrees to:

- Provide administrators with opportunities to improve their management skills
- Provide incentives to administrators to improve these skills
- Respect the administrative chain of command by not discussing policy matters and professional appointments with administrators unless they have cleared this with the Superintendent and the Board
- Avoid public criticism of administrators
- Provide the necessary resources, within financial constraints, to ensure the accomplishment of the District's educational goals

RECOGNITION

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et. seq., the Board recognizes the Winslow Township Administrators Association herein known as "the Association", as the exclusive and sole representative for discussion of the terms and conditions of employment of all certified personnel, whether under contract, on leave, on a per diem basis, employed, or to be employed by the Winslow Township Board of Education, hereinafter known as "the Board" including only Principals and Assistant Principals.

ASSOCIATION/ADMINISTRATION LIAISON

In order to properly implement effective and continuing communication and to resolve differences, Association representatives will meet with the Superintendent on a regular basis.

RESOLVING DIFFERENCES

Definition

A difference is any complaint or claim that there has been an improper application, interpretation, or violation of any term or provision of this Agreement, administrative decision, board policy, or state statute affecting an individual, group of members, or the Association.

used for additional sick leave as needed in subsequent years. The need for presentation of a medical certificate after sick leave shall be at the discretion of the Board of Education. Administrative employees will be paid for unused sick leave upon retirement at the rate of forty percent (40%) of their daily rate with a maximum of one hundred and ten (110) days effective July 1, 1998.

The administrator, in order to be eligible for this benefit, must notify the Board in November prior to the adoption of the budget for the fiscal year in which he/she plans to retire. The only exception to this rule would be an unforeseen illness that necessitated retirement and, when applicable, to the beneficiary of the administrative employee.

Temporary Leaves of Absence

All administrative employees shall be entitled to the following leaves of absence with pay:

Death in Family

Every administrator shall be granted leave, without deduction, of up to five (5) days in case of death within the immediate family (i.e., father, mother, brother, sister, husband, wife, child, mother-in-law, father-in law). This leave may be extended by the use of personal leave.

Funerals

An allowance of one (1) day shall be granted to attend the funeral of other relatives of the administrative employee (i.e., uncle, aunt, grandmother, grandfather, cousin, niece, and nephew). This leave may be extended by the use of personal days.

Personal

All administrators shall be granted personal leave of no more than three (3) days per year without deduction for personal reasons. Except in extreme emergency, personal leave must be approved in advance.

This personal leave, if unused at the conclusion of the fiscal year, shall be added to the accumulated sick leave on the first day of the next fiscal year.

Legal

Each administrative employee shall be granted time off without deduction in pay for any appearance in a court of law, or other judicial proceeding, wherein the administrative employee's presence is required by the Board of Education, the Superintendent, or as a result of a subpoena by another district employee in the course of his/her employment with the Winslow Township Board of Education.

VACATION

Vacation accrues for the twelve (12) month administrators commencing July 1 through June 30. Vacation will be credited at the commencement of the following fiscal year. Vacation days are not cumulative from one fiscal year to the next fiscal year, but five (5) days vacation may be carried over to be used the following year or be reimbursed in cash upon advance written notice of intention.

If an administrator retires or resigns during the contract year, he/she shall receive all earned prorated vacation days or full payment for all said days at the discretion of the Board of Education. If an administrator is unable to use earned vacation prior to June 30th due to illness, the unused vacation time may be carried over to be used during the following fiscal year (July 1-June 30). If an administrator dies during the year, the beneficiary shall be paid for all unused vacation.

Administrators with one or more years of administrative service in the District shall receive twenty (20) days vacation a year.

With the prior written approval of the Superintendent, an administrator may work on up to two (2) holidays per year. The administrator will receive a compensatory day for each approved day. Such compensatory days may be taken in the period from the day after teachers are released for the year up to the workday before teachers return for the next school year.

Assistant Principals shall be employed on a ten (10) month basis (September 1 - June 30). They shall work five days in August to help prepare for the opening of school. Should the Board determine that assistant principals will become twelve (12) month employees, they will receive the same terms and conditions as all other twelve (12) month employees in this bargaining unit.

HOLIDAYS

Twelve month administrators shall receive annually a minimum of fifteen (15) holidays, up to two (2) professional days for the teachers' convention in November if approved by the Superintendent, and will be required to work one-half (1/2) of the work days during the winter and spring recesses.

Ten month Assistant Principals shall not work any of the days that the teachers have off during the school year since they do not earn vacation.

ADMINISTRATIVE VACANCIES

All vacancies in administrative positions, caused by death, retirement, discharge, resignation or by the creation of new positions, shall be filled pursuant to the following:

- Such vacancies shall be adequately publicized, including a notice in every school (by position, through the Superintendent's bulletin, or otherwise) as far in advance of the date of filling such vacancy as possible (ordinarily at least thirty (30) days in advance and in no event less than seven (7) days in advance). The Superintendent may concurrently publicize the position outside the school district.

STATE AND NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

Attendance at the PSA, national, state, or similar conventions will be permitted with the approval of the Superintendent. The method used for determining attendance at such conferences shall be by seniority on a rotating basis. Cost will be paid by the Board of Education.

The aforementioned criteria are intended as guidelines. As indicated in the agreement, the Superintendent reserves the right to approve/disapprove requests based upon the merit of the request.

ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIPS

Each administrator will be entitled to association memberships of his or her choice which are paid for by the Board up to a maximum of one percent (1%) of his or her salary or $800, whichever is higher.

HEALTH INSURANCE PROTECTION

Health and Insurance benefits shall be provided for Principals and Assistant Principals, and their eligible dependents by the Board of Education. These benefits shall include the following: Medical, Dental, Vision, and Prescription Plans as currently offered to all other groups. Coverage in these plans shall be equal to or better than that provided to any other bargaining group. If the Board of Education successfully negotiates changes in any of the existing plans of health insurance protection with any other group, this article will be subject to re-negotiation with the Board of Education and the Administrators.

The Board will also provide Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) options for members of the Association. However, the Board's obligation for the premium payment of any HMO shall not exceed the Board's obligation for the traditional indemnity plan at the family coverage rate regardless of the coverage status of a particular unit member.

USE OF AUTOMOBILE

All members of the Association who may be required to use their own automobiles in the performance of their duties shall be reimbursed at the mileage rate approved by the Board.

SALARY

Salary Schedules

The salary guides for the school years 1998-1999, 1999-2000, and 2000-2001 are as follows:

Principals' Salary Guide

Salary Adjustments

Following proper documentation of credits, salaries will be adjusted in July and January of each year as per Board policy.

Salary "Grandfather Clause"

Administrators employed prior to June 30, 1995, by the Winslow Township Board of Education will continue to be paid for all graduate credits for which they were previously paid and are hereby "grandfathered" by this contract. All administrators hired after June 30, 1995, will only be paid for graduate credits earned after they earn the necessary certification for the position they hold.

FUTURE CONTRACT NEGOTIATIONS

The parties agree to enter into negotiations over a successor agreement in accordance with N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et seq., in a good faith effort to reach agreement on all matters concerning the terms and conditions of Administrators' employment. Negotiations shall begin no later than January 1, 1998.

DURATION OF AGREEMENT AND SIGNATURES

This agreement shall be effective as of July 1, 1998, and shall continue in effect until June 30, 2001. This agreement shall not be extended by oral or written Agreement and it is expressly understood that it shall expire on the date indicated.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have caused this Agreement to be signed by their respective members.

Bob Clancy, Fourth Grade teacher at #5, asked if the fifth grades were going back to their home schools in the coming school year. There are rumors going around that they might be going to the Junior High School, or they might stay at #5. He asked if there had been any decision by the Board about where the fifth grades will go.

Mrs. Moncrief said no, there has not been. She said every year at this time, you look at your facilities, your rooms, at a lot of things, but there has been absolutely no motion at the Board level to move anything. Everything is as it was.

Record Closed: April 30, 2001 Decided: May 1, 2001

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on April 14, 2000, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A telephone conference was scheduled for March 7, 2001. During the conference, settlement discussions were held and a settlement was reached.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND MUTUAL RELEASE

WHEREAS WALTER RUSAK and the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION,("THE BOARD") having amicably agreed to resolve their differences, and hereby stipulate and agree that the matter entitled WALTER RUSAK vs. IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, under docket number EDUOA-03598-00N, Agency Ref. No. 48-2/00, shall be settled upon the terms and conditions stated herein;

WHEREAS, the Board Members of the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, having the authority to act on behalf of the Board of Education, have agreed after due consideration to settle all claims related to the employment of WALTER RUSAK in connection with his duties and responsibilities as an administrator and his claims which were filed challenging his removal from the position of Assistant Superintendent of Schools and the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION and WALTER RUSAK having determined that it would be in the best interests of the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION and WALTER RUSAK to enter into such settlement;

WHEREAS the aforesaid settlement is subject to the aforesaid conditions set forth below;

NOW THEREFORE the parties mutually covenant and agree as follows:

1. WALTER RUSAK was appointed as a teaching staff member of THE BOARD, on or about November 23, 1971, and has been an employee of THE BOARD since that time.

2. On or about February 4, 2000, WALTER RUSAK filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education, challenging his transfer from the position of Assistant Superintendent to Principal.

3. THE BOARD and WALTER RUSAK, through discussions between their respective counsel determined that it would be most beneficial to the parties involved to enter into the within agreement. Moreover, in furtherance of the within Settlement Agreement both parties agree that there were no findings made with respect to the petition.

4. In furtherance of the within settlement, it is agreed by and between WALTER RUSAK and THE BOARD, that WALTER RUSAK shall retire effective September 30, 2002. To that end, WALTER RUSAK shall tender his letter of retirement on or before March 21, 2001, effective September 30, 2002, which same shall be voted upon and accepted by THE BOARD at its March 2001, meeting. Said tendering and acceptance by THE BOARD shall be contingent upon the Commissioner of Education's acceptance of the terms and conditions of the within agreement. Moreover, WALTER RUSAK'S resignation shall not be effective or binding unless and until (1) it is approved by THE BOARD, and (2) the terms and conditions of the within Settlement Agreement are complied with by THE BOARD.

5. WALTER RUSAK shall continue to provide services to the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION as a "Principal", under the terms and conditions of his certification from the date of this agreement through June 30, 2001, at which time

WALTER RUSAK shall be on administrative leave with pay until the date of his retirement on September 30, 2002.

6. WALTER RUSAK shall continue to receive salary benefits in accordance with this Settlement Agreement through the date of his retirement on September 30, 2002. It is further agreed and acknowledged as of the execution of the within agreement that WALTER RUSAK's salary, shall be $120,786.00, (retroactive) from the date of March 1, 2001, through the date of his retirement. Said salary predicated upon a twelve (12) month academic year. WALTER RUSAK will not be entitled to any salary increments or increases above the $120,786.00, salary during the remainder of his employment. WALTER RUSAK shall be covered by THE BOARD's health and medical plans for administrators during the period covered by the within agreement. Upon retirement WALTER RUSAK shall be entitled to all the benefits and perquisites of a retiring Board employee and/or retiring administrator as provided by the administrative collective bargaining agreement including but not limited to health insurance and payment for unused vacation days.

7. Both parties, after fully considering this matter, have concluded that it is in the best interests of THE BOARD and WALTER RUSAK to settle the within matter involving WALTER RUSAK, in addition to the fact that there is a potential for further escalation of substantial legal and administrative costs, personal time and that parties' interest would be better served in resolving this matter through the within settlement which resolves all issues, currently in dispute.

8. The within Settlement Agreement shall satisfy in full the matter entitled; WALTER RUSAK vs. IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION under docket number EDUOA-03598-00N and Agency Ref. No. 48-2/00 and any other claims or demands which WALTER RUSAK now has or may have against THE BOARD up to and including the date of this Settlement Agreement. Disputes concerning this settlement Agreement shall be determined by a court of competent jurisdiction or administrative agency. Upon execution of the within agreement all matters involving WALTER RUSAK and THE BOARD shall be dismissed and/or withdrawn with prejudice.

9. WALTER RUSAK agrees to honor all duties and assignments as directed in good faith by the Superintendent of Schools in accordance with his assignment as Principal.

10. THE BOARD agrees that, if upon the request of WALTER RUSAK any third party makes an inquiry into his employment history with THE BOARD, after his retirement, that such inquiry shall be handled in a professional and courteous manner in accordance with the confidentiality provisions of this Agreement. Moreover, all inquiries, if any, shall be directed solely to the Superintendent of Schools, who shall be the only employee of THE BOARD authorized to respond to any such inquiry. THE BOARD and WALTER RUSAK agree that the reference letter attached here to as Exhibit "A" shall be the only document supplied by THE BOARD to prospective employers.

11. In consideration of the promises and undertakings of THE BOARD under this Settlement Agreement, WALTER RUSAK agrees to release and give up any and all claims against THE BOARD including any claims from the beginning of the world up to the date of his execution of this agreement, and specifically all claims related to the matter currently pending before the Office of Administrative law, under docket number EDU-03598-00N and agency Ref. No. 48-2/00. The following claims are specifically excluded from this release provision : (i) any claim alleging a breach of a term or condition of this agreement; (ii) any claims for physical injuries that may result and/or be discovered subsequent to the execution of this agreement caused by the negligent or intentional acts of the parties or their agents or in the course of performance of assigned duties on the worksite due to any hazardous or unsafe condition; (iii) any claim or right to obtain continued medical coverage at his own expense as authorized by the Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1986 (COBRA) ; (iv)any claim or right under the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund and related statutes and regulations; and (v) any rights he may have under New Jersey's Workers Compensation laws. WALTER RUSAK acknowledges that he fully understands the terms of this agreement and voluntarily executed it.

12. THE BOARD agrees to release and forever discharge WALTER RUSAK from any claims, suits, tenure charges, actions at law or in equity of any kind it may have against WALTER RUSAK agrees that execution of this Agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims advising from a breach of this Agreement or any provision hereof. THE BOARD acknowledges that it has voluntarily and willingly granted this release and agrees that its successor shall be bound there by.

13. THE BOARD acknowledges and agrees that disclosure of personnel records including this Settlement Agreement is governed by the Right to Know Law codified at N.J.S.A. 47: 1A-1, et seq., Executive Order No. 11 (Nov. 15, 1974) and case law interpreting them. Pursuant to the Right to Know Law and Executive Order No. 11, the only information in this Settlement Agreement and the only personnel information in connection with WALTER RUSAK's employment with THE BOARD which is deemed public is: (1) his name; (2) title; (3) salary; (4) payroll records; (5) length of service; and (6) letter of reference. All other information, except as otherwise provided by law is deemed confidential and shall not be released to the public absent a written release by WALTER RUSAK, or by a lawful order of a court of competent jurisdiction or pursuant to a rule of court of competent jurisdiciton.

14. It is understood that neither the execution of this Agreement nor any other action taken by THE BOARD in connection with this settlement constitutes an admission by THE BOARD of any violation of any law, duty or obligation, or that any decision or action with respect to WALTER RUSAK was unwarranted, unjustified, retaliatory, discriminatory or otherwise unlawful. THE BOARD specifically disclaims any liability to WALTER RUSAK.

15. The parties have entered into this Settlement Agreement solely to compromise the disputed claims. No findings of any kind have been made or issued by any court regarding the merits of the claims of this action and neither party purports to be the prevailing party in this action.

16. All parties to this Agreement and their counsel participated in the negotiation and drafting of this Settlement Agreement as equals. No particular party shall be deemed to be the drafter or provider of this Agreement and the parties agree that the Agreement shall not be construed against any particular party.

17. This Settlement Agreement and MUTUAL RELEASE referred to herein sets forth the entire agreement between WALTER RUSAK and THE BOARD , and supersedes all prior agreements or understandings, if any, between the parties regarding the subject matter of this Settlement Agreement. This Settlement Agreement shall be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

18. The parties acknowledge that they have consulted with their respective attorneys regarding this Settlement Agreement and Mutual Release, that the terms of this Settlement Agreement and Mutual Release have been explained to them and that they have represented to their attorneys that they have read this Settlement Agreement and Mutual Release and fully understand it and agree to be bound thereby.

19. In furtherance of this agreement, WALTER RUSAK agrees to waive use of 150 of his 300 sick days. THE BOARD shall pay WALTER RUSAK for 150 sick days at the rate specified in the administrators collective bargaining contract in effect on the date of his retirement. Said payment shall ve made within the time provided by the administrators collective bargaining agreement.

20. WALTER RUSAK and THE BOARD agree that WALTER RUSAK shall receive $10,000.00, as payment for back pay, relating back to the filing of the Petition. Said payment shall be subject to income tax withholdings in accordance with the Federal and State Tax laws. Said payment shall be made within thirty (30) days after the Commissioner of Education's approval of this Settlement Agreement.

21. WALTER RUSAK will forego any claim that he may have had to the position of Assistant Superintendent and any claim for tenure in that title/position.

22. THE BOARD and its individual members shall not make any disparaging remarks about WALTER RUSAK.

23. THE BOARD agrees to indemnify WALTER RUSAK in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and -6.1 and any amendments thereto.

24. If WALTER RUSAK dies prior to his retirement, THE BOARD shall make all payments hereunder to his estate.

25. THE BOARD agrees that WALTER RUSAK may obtain letters of recommendation or reference from individual board members (past and present) and or staff members.

26. In the event THE BOARD withholds salary payments from WALTER RUSAK, THE BOARD will be required to reimburse WALTER RUSAK, reasonable attorneys fees if he was compelled to file an application in a court of competent jurisdiction to recover said payments. THE BOARD will not be required to reimburse WALTER wh

RUSAK, in the event tenure charges are preferred against him pursuant to Title 18A, or criminal charges are filed against him, except as required by law, during the remainder of his employment.

27. THE BOARD will continue to pay all union dues on behalf of WALTER RUSAK, and will pay his dues to the New Jersey Association of School Administrators during the course of his employment.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties hereunder have signed this agreement as their voluntarily act and agree to be bound thereby.

EXHIBIT "A"

To Whom It May Concern:

Walter F. Rusak began his career in education in 1971 as a Social Studies teacher in the Irvington Public School System. He was appointed assistant principal after three years and was appointed principal of Chancellor Avenue school from 1976 to 1980 and principal of Union Avenue school from 1980 to 1998.

While in the district Mr. Rusak assisted in the building program by writing educational specifications for the district building program which built one elementary school and additions on two middle schools.

In 1985 Mr. Rusak received a Dodge Foundation Educational Grant which assisted in the training of the entire Union Avenue School faculty. This professional development grant was under the direction of Madeline Hunter.

Under his guidance and leadership each school maintained a high quality of education, high test scores and pupils were well disciplined. His professional manner was recognized by the educational community and teachers.

In October 1998, Mr. Rusak was appointed to the position of Assistant Superintendent of Schools. During his two year of service he assisted in bringing the district from a deficit to a six million dollar surplus. In addition, the district showed an increase in HSPT test results.

In this capacity he was also in charge of the reorganization of the entire district from K-6, K- 8, 7-8, 9-12 organized for various sections of the town, to a K-5, central 6, 7-8 and 9-12 high school plan. Mr. Rusak was responsible for the distribution of staff, re-districting of students and movement of school supplies. This was completed successfully.

During his years in Irvington Mr. Rusak has maintained a near perfect attendance record.

In summary Mr. Rusak is a hard working, dedicated school administrator. He had many successes in our large urban district. He has the respect of the pupils, teachers, parents and community. We would recommend him for employment in his chosen educational field.

W.H. and L.H.. on behalf of minor child, S.H. Petitioner vs. Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County, Respondent.	Department of Education Agency Docket No. 143-5/00

SETTLEMENT STIPULATION, DISMISSAL AND MUTUAL RELEASE

AGREEMENT and stipulation made this 4th day of January 2001, between Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins, on behalf of minor child, Savon Huggins, Petitioner, and the Board of Education of the Township of Union. Union County, Respondent.

WHEREAS disputes and differences have arisen between the parties with respect to the residency of the minor child, Savon Huggins.

WHEREAS, Petitioner and Respondent desire to finally compromise and settle their differences by entering into this stipulation:

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of their mutual covenants set forth herein, Petitioner and Respondent hereby agree as follows:

1. Payment. Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins shall pay the Board of Education of the Township of Union the total cash sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1000.00). This amount is to be paid by Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins in the following manner: $100.00 shall be due simultaneously with the signing of this stipulation; $200.00 shall be due on February 28, 2001; $200.00 shall be due on March 31, 2001; $200.00 shall be due on April 30, 2001; $200.00 shall be due on May 31, 2001; and $100.00 shall be due on June 30, 2001. This amount once paid in full ($1000.00) represents the settlement of all claims and by and for tuition due and owing for educational services provided to Savon Huggins for School Year 1999-2000. If any of the above referenced payments are late, if the monthly payment amount is less than stipulated herein, and/or if the full amount is not paid by June 30, 2001; the Board of Education of the Township of Union reserves the right to enforce this settlement agreement through a court proceeding for the full amount due plus attorney's fees and costs or in the alternative initiate an action for the full amount of tuition alleged due from the Petitioner.

2. General Release by Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins. Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins, on their own behalf and on the behalf of their heirs, personal representatives, successors and assigns, including but not limited to Savon Huggins, hereby releases and forever discharges the Board of Education of the Township of Union and their employees, agents, officers, directors and attorneys, from any and all actions, causes of action, suits, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, bills, invoices, covenants, contracts, controversies, agreements, promises, damages, costs, attorneys fees, interest, warranties, representations, claims and demands whatsoever, in law or equity, which Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins or anyone claiming by, through or under ever had or now has against the Board of Education of the Township of Union or its employees, agents, officers, directors or attorneys by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever from the beginning of the world to the date of this instrument. The undersigned hereby agree that the effect of this general release includes, but is not limited to, the elimination of any and all further liability on the part of the Board of Education of the Township of Union, with respect to all matters claimed by Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins in that certain petition filed with the State of New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, Agency Docket No. 143-5/00, captioned "W.H. and L.H. on behalf of minor child, S.H., Petitioner vs. Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County, Respondent". Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins hereby represent and acknowledge that this is a legally binding instrument, that there are no representations or promises made to them which are not contained in this instrument, and that the only obligation of Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins shall be to pay the Board of Education of the Township of Union the said above-mentioned sum of $1000.00.

3. General Release by the Board of Education of the Township of Union. The Board of Education of the Township of Union, on their own behalf and on the behalf of their successors and assigns, hereby releases and forever discharges Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins and their heirs, personnel representatives, successors and assigns, from any and all actions, causes of action, suits, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, bills, invoices, covenants, contracts, controversies, agreements, promises, damages, costs, attorneys fees, inte , warranties, representations, claims and demands whatsoever, in law or equity, which the Board of Education of the Township of Union or anyone claiming by, through or under ever had or now has against Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever from the beginning of the world to the date of this instrument. The undersigned hereby agree that the effect of this general release includes, but is not limited to, the elimination of any and all further liability on the part of Wendell Huggins and LaSaunda Huggins, with respect to all matters claimed by the Board of Education of the Township of Union in that certain counterclaim filed with the State of New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, Agency Docket No. 143-5/00, captioned "W.H. and L.H. on behalf of minor child, S.H., Petitioner vs. Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County, Respondent". PETITIONER-APPELLANT,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NORTH HALEDON, PASSAIC COUNTY,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Assistant Commissioner of Education, June 19, 2001

For the Petitioner-Appellant, K.D., pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Lindabury, McCormick & Estabrook
(Anthony P. Sciarrillo, Esq., of Counsel)

K.D. (hereinafter "petitioner") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging the determination of the Board of Education of the Borough of North Haledon (hereinafter "Board") that her daughter was not entitled to a free public education in that district. The Board filed a counterclaim seeking tuition from the petitioner for the period of her daughter's ineligible attendance in the district.

On June 19, 2001, the Assistant Commissioner of Education issued a letter decision in which he dismissed the petition for failure to state a claim for which relief could be granted. The Assistant Commissioner concluded that the petitioner had failed to demonstrate that she and her daughter were domiciled within the North Haledon School District so as to be entitled to a free public education in that district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Assistant Commissioner granted the Board's counterclaim for tuition and directed the petitioner to reimburse the Board for the period of her daughter's ineligible attendance in the North Haledon School District from January 24, 2001, when he found that the petitioner clearly understood that Hawthorne was responsible for the education of her daughter, through her daughter's last day of school in North Haledon.

The petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board, contending, inter alia, that the amount of tuition calculated by the Board following the Assistant Commissioner's decision – $4,888.88 – is excessive. More specifically, the petitioner maintains that the amount being charged by the Board for her daughter's resource center instruction is unreasonable. The Board counters that the amount of tuition owed by the petitioner "was calculated based upon the adopted tuition rate for non-resident students plus the cost of resource center support per child divided by the total number of school days to arrive at a per diem cost of $53.14....Pursuant to the Commissioner's decision, this per diem amount was then multiplied by 92 days, for January 25, 2001 through June 22, 2001, for a total of $4,888.88." Answer Brief, at 2.

After a thorough review of the record, we affirm the decision of the Assistant Commissioner that the petitioner has not demonstrated that she is domiciled in North Haledon. Accordingly, we concur with the Assistant Commissioner that the petitioner is responsible for tuition for the period of her daughter's ineligible attendance in that district.

However, the record does not permit a determination of the petitioner's contention regarding the specific amount of tuition calculated by the Board following the Assistant Commissioner's decision.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) provides in pertinent part that:

> If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance....

The issue of the amount of tuition to which the Board is entitled was not litigated in the proceedings below and, therefore, was not addressed or determined by the Assistant Commissioner. Since the record before us does not permit such a determination, we remand this matter to the Commissioner for the limited purpose of determining the Board's "total annual per pupil cost" as it applies to the educational program provided to the petitioner's daughter, particularly with regard to the resource center, and for a resultant determination of the amount of tuition to which the Board is entitled.

We do not retain jurisdiction.

Kathleen A. Dietz abstained.

The audiotape of the hearing of this emergent matter conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 6, 2001, and the Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed by the Assistant Commissioner to whom this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34.

Upon such review, the Assistant Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief as he concurs with the ALJ's hearing determination that petitioners have not satisfied the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982); most notably, they have fully failed to demonstrate that irreparable harm will result absent the grant of such relief.

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter on its merits will proceed at the OAL as expeditiously as possible consistent with the recommendation of the ALJ.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner alleged that respondent, a Chesterfield Board member, was not a resident of the District. Respondent, who was divorcing his spouse, while acknowledging that he sometimes was away from the home, provided documentation listing the Chesterfield property as his residence.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 states that membership in a local board of education terminates immediately when a board of education member ceases to be a bona fide resident of the district. The ALJ found no proof that respondent was no longer residing in Chesterfield. The ALJ found that respondent testified credibly and presented documentation such as bills, tax records, etc., that listed Chesterfield as his address. The ALJ denied petitioner's request for a declaration that respondent was not a bona fide resident of Chesterfield Township. The Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for further findings of fact and credibility determinations with regard to the testimony of two witnesses for petitioner.

On remand, the ALJ further examined the testimony of petitioner's two witnesses, and made findings of fact and credibility determinations with respect to those witnesses. The ALJ determined that respondent resides in Chesterfield and dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner adopted the decision of the ALJ as his own.

Respondent.

Peter Emmons, Esq., for petitioner

James R. Durr, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: March 15, 2001 Decided: May 7, 2001

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In the original petition, OAL Dkt. #EDU 4104-00, the petitioner, Martin Cohen, asserted that James R. Durr, a member of the Board of Education of the Township of Chesterfield, Burlington County, was not a resident of the District.

In the remand, OAL Dkt. #EDU 470-01, the Department of Education asked for additional factual findings and credibility assessments to permit the Commissioner to resolve fairly whether the petitioner met his burden. The remand was received by the Office of Administrative Law on February 9, 2001. On March 15, 2001, the petitioner advised this Administrative Law Judge's chambers that he would not participate in a telephone conference, and that he would rely on the record of the April 17, 2001 hearing. The record accordingly closed.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner claimed that James Durr (hereinafter Durr)is not a resident of Chesterfield Township, and has not been a resident since June, 1998, and that as such, he is not entitled to sit on the Chesterfield Township Board of Education (hereinafter Board). Petitioner asked that Durr be removed from the Board, and that an accounting be made of all actions taken by the Board during the past 2 years, and that all actions taken as a result of Durr's participation or influence, either directly or indirectly, be reviewed by the Board for their continued validity.

Martin R. Cohen, petitioner, testified that he formed his belief that Durr did not live in Chesterfield Township through an unsigned letter (P-1) to the Board, which listed many complaints, including a comment that a Board member, Durr, does not reside in Chesterfield[1].

Cohen then investigated the County divorce court records, and found the Complaint (P-2) and Answer (P-3) in Durr's divorce action[2]. Based on the Answer to the divorce petition, Cohen wrote the Board saying that Durr should resign. The matter was considered by the Board on February 7, 2000, with further discussion on February 14, 2000.

[1] The full text of the comment reads "Disregard of School Board member residency requirements as stated in NJ Statute 18-A. Jim Durr currently resides in a township other than Chesterfield and consequently should have been directed to resign by the School Board President. Exhibit #1: 1, 4, 5. NJ Statute 18A 'Bonafide resident' " . . . "see attached Exhibit #1 New Jersey School Board Member Code of Ethics"

This letter was presented by petitioner's wife, Dr. Marlene Cohen, and Kim Cesaro to the Board at their June 16, 1999 Board meeting. P4, page 5.

[2] The Complaint filed on behalf of Elizabeth Durr lists James Durr's address as 279 Sykesville Road, Wrightstown (which is within the school district), but goes on to say that "(o)n or about June, 1998, the Defendant (Durr) moved out of the marital home and with (sic) his paramour causing the Plaintiff to become upset." In the Answer filed on behalf of James Durr by John E. Kurts, Esq., Durr's residence is given as 66 Bunting Bridge Road, New Hanover Township.

At the February 7 meeting, Durr asked to respond to the assertions, and he offered the same explanation again at the hearing. Durr said that he had given John E. Kurts, Esq., the attorney he originally engaged for his divorce action, the mailing address of 66 Bunting Bridge Road for the mailing of any documents related to the divorce proceedings, so that his wife would not be bothered by receiving such mailings at 279 Sykesville Road. Durr said that Kurts had used the 66 Bunting Bridge Road address as Durr's address in the Answer, and that Durr did not catch the error when he signed the Answer. Prior to this matter reaching the Board, Durr said that his present attorney for the divorce action, Henry Tutek, Esq., filed an amendment to the Answer in the divorce action, correcting Durr's address to 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield. He also presented copies of utility bills, telephone bills and cancelled checks for property taxes he paid for 279 Sykesville Road. Durr said he regretted that a suggestion had been made that anyone on the Board acted improperly or in violation of a Code of Ethics by not removing him from the Board, or by allowing his son to remain in Chesterfield schools[3].

At the February 14 meeting, petitioner stated that a Board member said that his letter would not be answered by the Board (P-4, pages 4-6). The Board's minutes (P-4, at page 2) reveal that a Board member (Mary Mazzoni) did say that she would not dignify the comments about her or her ethics, or the comments about any other Board member, by a response. Also at the February 14 meeting, Durr said that he explained again to Cohen that the first divorce Answer had been incorrect, and had been amended by the court.

Elizabeth Durr was subpoenaed by petitioner. She said that she and her then-husband built the house at 279 Sykesville Road in 1989. They became separated in June, 1998, when Mr. Durr left the residence. Mrs. Durr assumed he went to his girlfriend's house in New Hanover (66 Bunting Bridge Road). To contact him, Mr. Durr left his cell phone number, and his girlfriend's telephone number.

Mrs. Durr believes Mr. Durr still lives at 66 Bunting Bridge Road, New Hanover Township. Since July, 1999, Mrs. Durr has lived at 263 Sykesville Road, which is in North

[3] Durr said that the School Board attorney had concluded that, since the parents share Joint Custody, as long as Durr remains a resident of Chesterfield Township, his son can remain in Chesterfield schools.

Hanover Township. She said that Mr. Durr's business (florist) is at the marital home at 279 Sykesville Road, and that he comes there to work at 279 Sykesville Road every day. It was his "constant presence" in the house at 279 Sykesville Road that made her move to 263 Sykesville Road.

Casey Durr, the daughter of Elizabeth and James, was also subpoenaed by petitioner. She said that her father moved out of 279 Sykesville Road in June, 1998, and that she believed he lives at 66 Bunting Bridge Road, New Hanover Township.

Respondent said that Mrs. Cohen (petitioner's wife) and Kim Cesaro (the presenters of P-1 at the June 16 Board meeting) ran as unsuccessful write-in candidates in a recent school board election.

Upon cross-examination, Mr. Durr said that he never moved out of his residence at 279 Sykesville Road, but that he was temporarily displaced. He said that he stayed sometimes at 66 Bunting Road, and sometimes at his parents, and sometimes he slept in his car during the early days of the divorce proceedings. He said that his residence remained at 279 Sykesville Road, and that it still is his residence. The divorce is not yet final and no distribution of assets has yet been made.

Petitioner recalled Mrs. Durr, who said that Mr. Durr did not sleep overnight at 279 Sykesville Road from June, 1998 through July, 1999.

FINDINGS OF FACT

James Durr is a member of the Chesterfield Township Board of Education. He and his wife are in the process of obtaining a divorce. The family home is at 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield.

In the Answer in the pending divorce action, Durr's residence is given as 66 Bunting Bridge Road, New Hanover Township. This address was given in error, and it has been corrected to 279 Sykesville Road in front of the appropriate court.

Durr presented at the hearing copies of bills for 1999 property taxes for James Durr Wholesale Florist, Inc. at 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield. Durr's Driver's License, utility bills and tax forms list 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield as his address. His magazine subscriptions come to this address. There was no showing of the establishment of any residence for Durr with the 66 Bunting Bridge Road address, other than the divorce Answer (supra).

DISCUSSION

Durr testified credibly that it was better for him sometimes to be out of the house particularly through the early stages of the divorce, but that he never gave up the house at 279 Sykesville Road as his residence. He also testified credibly that he gave his first attorney the address of his girlfriend as a mailing address, so that divorce-related matters would not be coming to 279 Sykesville Road while his wife still lived there. The first attorney inadvertently entered the mailing address as Durr's residence address in the divorce Answer, and Durr signed the Answer without noticing the error. This mistake has since been corrected through appropriate channels.

James and Elizabeth and Casey Durr all said that Durr continued to spend considerable time, including his work days, at 279 Sykesville Road. From the testimony, it is probable that he slept elsewhere during most of the time in question. But residence is not entirely dependent upon where someone lays his head. The totality of the circumstances should be viewed. Here, Durr continued to maintain 279 Sykesville Road as his residence for his financial transactions, tax purposes, driver's license and other major life activities. Magazines and club subscriptions were sent to him at 279 Sykesville Road. Mail sent to him at the Bunting Bridge address was returned by the post office as undeliverable. There was no showing that he ever established a residence for himself at 66 Bunting Bridge Road.

James and Elizabeth and Casey Durr were all entirely credible in their testimony, but Elizabeth and Casey knew only part of the story. They said that Durr lived at 66 Bunting Bridge Road, but just because he slept there most nights does not make 66 Bunting Bridge Road his residence. He maintained significant contacts with 279 Sykesville Road, he gave none of them up, he established no new contacts at 66 Bunting Bridge Road, he intended to keep 279

Sykesville as his residence, he is there practically every day at his business, and at the hearing, he said that he still lives at 279 Sykesville Road.

The statute, at N.J.S.A. 18:12-3, states that membership in a local board of education terminates whenever that member ceases to be a bona fide resident of that district.

> N.J.S.A.* 18A:12-3 Cessation of membership
> Whenever a member of a local or regional board of education shall cease to be a bona fide resident of the district, or of any constituent district of a consolidated or regional district which he represents, or shall become mayor or a member of the governing body of a municipality, his membership in the board shall immediately cease; and, any member who fails to attend three consecutive meetings of the board without good cause may be removed by it. Whenever a member of a county special service school district or a member of a county vocational school district shall cease to be a bona fide resident of the district, or shall hold office as a member of the governing body of a county, his membership on the board shall immediately cease.

The question then becomes, did Durr cease being a bona fide resident of Chesterfield Township? To answer this, one must look to the concept of residence. There is no precise legal definition of "bona fide resident." It is largely a matter of intention.

Here, Durr's bills, taxes, magazine subscriptions and driver's license all list 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield as his address. Durr testified credibly that sometimes he does not stay at 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield overnight. but this is because of the unsettled situation caused by the divorce. No evidence was presented that James Durr has or is about to change his residence to another address. Rather, the evidence indicates that Durr continues to maintain 279 Sykesville Road as his residence.

Therefore, the petition to declare that James Durr is not a bona fide resident of Chesterfield Township is DENIED.

Mrs. Durr and Casey Durr were both subpoenaed by petitioner to appear. It was evident that, even though they were both entirely credible witnesses, their appearance at the hearing was not a comfortable event for either of them. There is obviously no "love lost" between petitioner and respondent, but to subpoena respondent's soon-to-be-ex-wife and his daughter to testify against him in a matter unrelated to the divorce petition was of questionable delicacy, and utility.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's determination to employ Respondent Diane Paustien as a teacher of foreign language, arguing that petitioner was entitled to the position based on her tenure and seniority rights. The Board denied that petitioner is entitled to the position.

At the OAL, Paustien moved to intervene, which application was granted by the ALJ. The ALJ, based on stipulated facts, determined that petitioner was entitled to the position, as she had worked in the district under both her supervisor and instructional certificates, and achieved tenure in both positions, prior to being terminated because of a reduction in force several years before the position at issue became available. Because petitioner had a right to the position based on her tenure and seniority, the ALJ concluded that the respondent Board was required to offer the position to her, and improperly hired Paustien instead.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein, and ordered the Board to reinstate petitioner to a foreign language position to which she is entitled and to provide her all back pay, benefits and emoluments, subject to mitigation, to which she is entitled.

Record Closed: March 30, 2001 Decided: May 11, 2001

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on February 2, 2000, when Doreen Barca (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order that the Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel (hereinafter respondent) had violated her tenure and seniority rights by appointing Diane Paustian (hereinafter respondent-intervenor) to fill a position which had become vacant, i.e., Teacher of Foreign Language. An answer was filed on behalf of respondent on February 15, 2000, and on March 21, 2000, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The motion of respondent-intervenor seeking leave to intervene was unopposed. A prehearing conference was conducted on August 1, 2000, at which time it was determined that a joint stipulation of facts would be submitted and cross-motions for summary decision would be filed. An order was entered on August 2, 2000, granting respondent-intervenor's motion for leave to intervene and memorializing the determinations from the prehearing conference. The issue to be addressed was articulated as follows:

> Did respondent violate petitioner's tenure/seniority rights by employing non-tenured or less senior teaching staff members in the position Teacher of Foreign Language (French or Spanish)?

A joint stipulation of facts was filed on December 5, 2000. A letter memorandum dated January 17, 2001 was received on behalf of petitioner. Respondent's letter memorandum was dated the same day and was received on January 18, 2001. A letter memorandum dated January 19, 2001, on behalf of respondent-intervenor, was received on January 22, 2001. Thereafter, oral argument took place by telephone conference call on March 6, 2001, following which the record remained open for the receipt of additional information. By letter dated March 6, 2001, counsel for respondent transmitted copies of four annual performance reports for petitioner, as well as three observations/evaluations. By letter dated March 13, 2001, counsel for respondent transmitted copies of the job posting and job description for Supervisor of Foreign Language/Art/Music. By letter dated March 15, 2001, counsel for petitioner transmitted a copy of a letter dated May 4, 1994, from Wayne J. Oppito, Esquire, to Martin M. Barger, Esquire, counsel for respondent, to which respondent replied by letter dated March 20, 2001. Nothing further having been received from any of the parties, the record closed on March 30, 2001.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The joint stipulation of facts submitted by the parties provides as follows:

1. Petitioner holds certificates to teach Spanish and French (issued in 1982), as well as a Supervisor's Certificate.

2. Petitioner was employed by the Holmdel Township Board of Education as supervisor of Foreign Languages from September 1, 1988 until June 30, 1994.

3. As part of her Supervisory duties, petitioner taught two classes in Holmdel for each year she was employed. Petitioner is currently not in possession of a job description for supervisor, however, will attempt to secure same and amend this record upon receipt.

4. On or about April 18, 1994, the Superintendent of Schools in Holmdel, Dr. Susan Leglise, advised petitioner that her position had been abolished. As a result, petitioner was not offered a contract for the 1994-1995 school year.

5. In October 1999, the acting superintendent of schools informed petitioner that a position to teach in Holmdel had become available and that pursuant to her "Reduction in Force" rights, she was entitled to same. That letter states:

   > The Board of Education accepted the retirement of a full-time Spanish teacher at Holmdel High School effective, January 1, 2000. Since you are first on a preferred eligibility list in order of seniority for reemployment, I am offering you this position upon vacancy in compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.
   > Please complete the acceptance reply by November 24, 1999 on the bottom of this letter and return it to me in the envelope provided.

6. Sometime thereafter, petitioner was notified that she was not entitled to this position and that it had been offered to her in error, but that she could apply for the position when it was posted. The November 3, 1999 letter withdrawing the offer provided:

> On October 20, 1999, I offered you an opportunity to accept or refuse a full-time teaching position at Holmdel High School effective January 2000. I was in error in offering this position to you under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12, since you had not established tenure entitlement as a teacher. Your reduction in force entitlement is to an administrative position from which you were riffed. Therefore, my previous offer of employment under these conditions is rescinded and withdrawn.
> The full-time Spanish position is available beginning in January and I encourage you to apply. Your application will be considered among those that respond to our vacancy advertisement. I apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.

7. Petitioner did, in fact, apply for the position, but it was offered to another applicant who accepted same. Intervenor, Diane Paustian, holds an Instructional Certificate in Nursery, Elementary and Spanish Education. Intervenor was hired as a full-time Spanish teacher at some time during the 1999-2000 school year and is teaching Spanish full-time in the 2000-2001 school year.

The following additional relevant facts appear from the additional exhibits which were submitted after the oral argument. Petitioner's job description as "Supervisor, Grades 6-12 Foreign Language/Art/Music" required the following qualifications:

1. Valid New Jersey Teacher's Certificate in area of supervision (or in one area if two are supervised)

2. Valid New Jersey Supervisor's Certificate

3. A major in the area of supervision (or in one area if two are supervised)

4. Minimum of three years teaching experience in the area of supervision (or in one area if two are supervised)

5. Ability to assume leadership and responsibilities inherent in the position of supervisor

The job description listed four major responsibilities, "Instructional Leadership, Professional Development, School and Community Relations, and Instruction." With respect to instruction, the job description specified, "Maintains a .4 teaching load in assigned areas." During the several years she held the position, petitioner was formally evaluated both as a Teacher of Spanish and/or French and as a Supervisor. By letter dated May 4, 1994, Wayne J. Oppito, Esquire, counsel for the New Jersey Principals and Supervisors Association, wrote to counsel for respondent on petitioner's behalf as follows:

> This letter is to confirm our telephone conversation in which I indicated that it was my opinion that Doreen Barca has a seniority entitlement to a position of teacher due to the elimination of her current position of supervisor to be effective July 1, 1994. This opinion is based upon the following reasons.
> N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(f) states:
>
> > Whenever a person shall hold employment simultaneously under two or more subject area endorsements or in two or more categories, seniority shall be counted in all subject area endorsements and categories in which he or she is or has been employed. For purposes of calculating seniority entitlement, there shall be no distinction between academic years and calendar years.
>
> Ms. Barca has held employment simultaneously in two or more categories, supervisor and teacher. Accordingly, her seniority is credited in both categories.
>
> In the Matter of the Seniority Rights of Certain Teaching Staff Members Employed by the Old Bridge BOE and the Edison BOE, decided by the Commission, Aug. 6, 1984; aff'd. State BOE, Jan. 2, 1985; aff'd. App. Div. June 17, 1986 (A-2241-84T6 and A-2531-84T6 unreported), the Commissioner determined that teaching staff members employed in two or more categories attain full seniority in all categories. The Commissioner determined on p.12 of his decision:
> Petitioner's contention is further buttressed by the conscious deletion of the language in the prior N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(1) which limited seniority > entitlements to the category in which the individual spent the greatest portion of his or her time.

>
> Further, it may be noted that the State Board provided additional proof of its intent to provide full seniority in all categories or subject area endorsements served when it further amended the regulations at its November 1983 meeting to strike a sentence concerning the seniority rights of teaching principals because that sentence was inconsistent with the intent of the full paragraph. The sentence removed was as follows:
> > "The seniority rights of principals who teach shall be counted in the appropriate principal's category."
>
> Such further deletion makes absolutely clear the State Board's intent that principals who teach should receive seniority both as principals and teachers.

As noted by the Commissioner on p. 13 of his decision:

> Further, pro-rating of seniority under such circumstances would provide opportunities for abuse wherein seniority could be manipulated to advantage or disadvantage of one individual as opposed to another.

> In light of the above, it is clear that Ms. Barca has full seniority entitlement as both a supervisor and a teacher. I have enclosed a copy of the above-cited decisions for your convenience.
> Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

The record does not reveal what, if anything, occurred after Mr. Barger received Mr. Oppito's letter, until the occurrence of the above-recited facts which commenced the within action.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R.

4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

In the within matter, the parties agree that the facts relevant to a determination of the issue are not in dispute. Accordingly, this matter is ripe for summary decision.

Respondent and respondent-intervenor argue that petitioner has no seniority entitlement to the position Teacher of Spanish currently held by respondent-intervenor because petitioner obtained tenure in the district in the position Supervisor only. Both parties argue that petitioner obtained tenure under her administrative certificate (Supervisors endorsement). Respondent-intervenor cites Dennery v. Board of Education, 131 N.J. 362 (1993), for the correct proposition that tenure status is earned in a specific "position" and tenure rights earned through serving under a single certificate are not transferable to another certificate. Respondent-intervenor concludes that petitioner did not serve under her instructional certificate because her position title was supervisor and she was paid as a supervisor. Respondent's argument is essentially the same, i.e., that petitioner was not hired as a teacher and therefore does not have tenure as a teacher. Respondent also argues that because petitioner took no further action in 1994, after Mr. Oppito's letter to counsel for respondent, she has waived or abandoned whatever rights she might otherwise have had to a teaching position in respondent's district. For the reasons which follow, I CONCLUDE that respondents' arguments are without merit. Both the facts and the law compel the conclusion that petitioner has a superior entitlement to the position Teacher of Spanish which became available in January 2000, and which is currently held by respondent-intervenor.

As previously explained on numerous occasions, see, e.g., Howley and Bookholdt v. Ewing Bd. of Ed., 6 N.J.A.R. 509 (1982); Connor v. Bd. of Ed. of Township of Cinnaminson, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 861, tenure is a legislative status, not a contractual one, and in order to be protected by the status, a teaching staff member must have met the precise conditions articulated in the statute. In order to acquire tenure in any position in the public schools in any district, the teaching staff member must be a citizen of the United States (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-3), must hold an appropriate certificate for the position, issued by the State Board of Examiners, in full force and effect (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4) and, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, must hold employment in the district for:

> (a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

The undisputed facts in this matter reveal that for the five-year period during which petitioner was employed by respondent, her job description required her to hold a valid instructional certificate and to perform the instructional duties of a classroom teacher on a .4 basis. In accordance with Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982), any teacher who actually performs duties under a required certificate for the requisite period of time obtains tenure under that certificate. Petitioner in the within matter taught either Spanish or French for five years under the instructional certificate bearing endorsements allowing her to do so. The duties she performed and the certificates/endorsements, which she held, are no different from those persons in Spiewak, supra, many of whom also did not teach a full class load during the year. Mere possession of an instructional certificate while holding a position which requires an administrative certificate would not result in the holder obtaining tenure under both certificates, but that is clearly not the case in the within matter. Petitioner is not attempting to transfer tenure rights earned under one certificate to a position under another certificate like the employee in Dennery, supra. Rather, through her work experience petitioner earned tenure under both certificates. Alice Lightdale v. Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District No. One, and William Coyle, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 106, cited and discussed by the parties, is actually a seniority case, not a tenure case, and therefore, is not directly on point. The difference between "tenure" and "seniority" is explained in Howley and Bookholdt v. Ewing Bd. of Ed., supra, and has been recognized by the courts in Lichtman v. Ridgewood Board of Ed., 93 N.J. 362, 368 (1983), and Ellicott v. Board of Ed., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 349, (App. Div. 1991), i.e., tenure is a statutorily defined status for all teaching staff members who have fulfilled the conditions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, and seniority is a mechanism for ranking all tenured teaching staff members so that reductions in force and reemployment can be effected in an equitable fashion and in accord with sound educational policies. In the within matter, respondent-intervenor is a non-tenured employee and accordingly, there are no competing interests among tenured teaching staff members which need to be addressed through discussion of the seniority regulations. Of some peripheral relevance, however, is the Commissioner's comment in his decision adopting the ALJ's opinion in Lightdale, supra,:

> The law is well settled to permit simultaneous accrual of seniority rights in more than one seniority category. (N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(f).) In the instant matter, the Commissioner finds that consistent with the ALJ's determination, Coyle is entitled to seniority credit in the category for guidance counselors, as well as the category for directors. The Commissioner so determines not merely because Coyle possessed a guidance counselor endorsement, but because he actually performed services under that endorsement. The Commissioner further concurs that the quantity of cases held by Coyle is not determinative in such analysis, but rather his actual service as a guidance counselor, notwithstanding that such service was rendered in the position of director of guidance. Finally, the Commissioner concurs that licensing requirements are distinguishable from assignment of job duties, so that the dual > certification required herein is a function of Board action, not State. Id. at 109. (Emphasis added.)

Accordingly, if seniority were an issue in the within matter, I would CONCLUDE that petitioner simultaneously accrued seniority rights not only in the category Supervisor, but also in the secondary category/subject matters actually taught by her. As did the Board in Lightdale, supra, respondent herein required petitioner to possess and to use both her subject matter endorsements under her instructional certificate and her Supervisor's endorsement on her administrative certificate. Furthermore, since the rights of tenured teaching staff members on preferred eligibility lists remain inchoate until a position becomes available to which they are entitled, petitioner's rights were not violated until respondent appointed the respondent-intervenor to such a position. Consequently, the petition of appeal herein was timely filed within the 90-day period required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3, and there are no facts in this record which could support a conclusion that petitioner waived her rights to the position.

For all of the foregoing reasons, petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. The summary decision motions of respondent and respondent-intervenor are DENIED. It is hereby ORDERED that respondent reinstate petitioner to the position Teacher of Foreign Language to which she is entitled by virtue of her tenure rights, together with an award of back pay, benefits and seniority credit to which she would have been entitled, subject to reasonable mitigation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review of the record and Initial Decision, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the Administrative Law Judge's findings and conclusions of law for the reasons well stated in the Initial Decision.

Accordingly, petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision is granted and the summary decision motions of respondent and respondent-intervenor are denied. As correctly determined by the ALJ, petitioner was not only required by the Board to hold a valid instructional certificate in the area of her supervisor position but she actually taught under that certificate; thus, having served the requisite period of time set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-5 under both her instructional and supervisor certificates, petitioner acquired tenure not only in the position of supervisor, but also in the position of teacher. The Board is, therefore, ordered to reinstate petitioner to a foreign language teacher position to which she is entitled based on her tenure and/or seniority rights, together with all back pay, benefits and emoluments, subject to reasonable mitigation.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner: Ellen Marie Walsh, Esq. (Fogarty & Hara)

This matter, having been brought before the Commissioner of Education by the Board of Education of the Township of Marlboro (Board) by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on March 7, 2001, requesting that respondent be ordered to pay the Board tuition in the amount of $412.88; and

Whereas, respondent was sent a copy of the petition by the Board on March 5, 2001; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, by notice dated April 3, 2001, directed that an Answer to the petition be submitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5; and

Whereas, the Commissioner notified respondent, by regular and certified mail on May 30, 2001, that, if an Answer was not submitted, each count of the petition would be deemed admitted and the matter could then be decided on a summary basis pursuant to the Commissioner's authority granted by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e); and

Whereas, there is no indication that respondent did not receive such communications; and

Whereas, neither respondent, nor any attorney on her behalf, has filed an Answer to the charges against her; thus, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted; and

Whereas, the Commissioner's review of the petition indicates that: (1) respondent enrolled her daughter as a kindergarten student in the District's schools in the summer of 2000; (2) at the time of enrollment, respondent presented proof of domicile in the District; (3) on or about December 6, 2000, as a result of a routine telephone call by the Registrar to respondent's listed address, the Registrar was told that respondent no longer lived at that address; (4) on or about December 8, 2000, the District informed respondent that she was required to submit proof of residency in the District or she would be billed for tuition; (5) having received no response from respondent, on or about December 19, 2000 the District informed respondent of the amount of her tuition obligation; (6) to date, respondent has neither supplied proof of residency nor payment of tuition; (7) M.S. stopped attending school in the District after December 22, 2000; and

Deeming such charges to be admitted in the absence of an Answer being submitted by respondent, the Commissioner finds that respondent's daughter was ineligible, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, to attend school free of charge in the Marlboro School District for the month of December 2000 as set forth by the Board in its petition; now, therefore

IT IS ORDERED on this _____day of June 2001, that summary decision shall be granted to the Board of Education of Marlboro Township, and that respondent shall pay tuition in the amount of $412.88, as requested by the Board, for the period of time in which her daughter, M.S., was ineligible for a free education in the Marlboro Township School District.

There being no provision for the grant of attorney's fees or costs within the Commissioner's authority, said fees and costs are not herein granted. See Pascack Valley Regional High School v. Kwon, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 897, 898 (1993), citing Balsley v. North Hunterdon Board of Education, 117 N.J. 434 (1990).*

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education by way of Petition of Appeal filed on April 25, 2001, seeking tuition reimbursement pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38- 3; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent by notices dated May 10, 2001 and June 1, 2001 to file an Answer to the petition against her; and

As of this date, neither respondent, nor any attorney on her behalf, having filed an Answer to the petition against her, and each count of the petition against respondent having been deemed to be admitted; and

The Board having averred that respondent's son attended school for a total of 14 days while respondent was not properly domiciled in the district; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED on this _____ day of June 2001 that summary decision shall be granted in favor of the Board of Education and that respondent shall pay tuition in the amount of $553.28 due the Board for the 14 days that respondent's son attended free public school in the Board's district as a nonresident pupil. There being no provision for the grant of attorney's fees or costs within the Commissioner's authority, said fees and costs are not herein granted. *See Pascack Valley Regional High School v. SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the determination of the Assistant Commissioner that the Department would not review its application to install lighting on its athletic field, which was based on his determination that athletic field lighting does not affect educational adequacy and that the Department only reviews and approves capital projects of school districts relating to educational adequacy.

The ALJ concluded that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over an issue merely because it relates to a school. The ALJ noted that athletic field lighting for nighttime use is not an issue of educational adequacy and, therefore, the Department is not required to review the issue pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1; instead, it is an issue for the municipal planning board to decide and the planning board herein previously rejected the Regional Board's application for 70-foot-high towers, a decision upheld by the Law Division and then affirmed by the Appellate Division. Even though the Court stated that a school board has a choice between applying to either the Department of Education or the municipal planning board, the ALJ did not accord this statement any weight since this is not supported by regulation and the Regional Board already made its choice of the planning board. It may not have a "second bite of the apple." The ALJ ordered respondents' motion for summary decision granted and the petition dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner clarified that the determining factor in triggering a Department review is not whether some nexus exists between proposed nighttime lighting and the District's educational program, but whether the Department review is required pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.11. Motion for summary decision was granted and the petition was dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF NORTHERN HIGHLANDS REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT,

(John J. Farmer, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: May 11, 2001 Decided: May 15, 2001

This is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral initial decision rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2.

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On December 20, 1999, petitioner, the Northern Highlands Regional High School Board of Education, authorized the filing of an application to respondent, the New Jersey Department of Education (Department), to install six 68-foot light towers on its high school athletic field. Its application for 70-foot-high towers had previously been rejected by the Borough of Allendale Planning Board, a decision upheld by the Law Division and then affirmed by the Appellate Division. Northern Highlands Regional High School Sports Association, Inc. v. Borough of Allendale Planning Board v. Russell A. Pepe, et al., No. A-5355-97 (App. Div. May 19, 1999).

On December 17, 1999, intervener-respondents Russell A. Pepe and Kathleen Pepe filed an Order to Show Cause in the Bergen County Superior Court to restrain the School Board from proceeding with filing its application with the Department. This order was denied because adversaries were not given notice and the School Board had not taken action in contravention of any court orders.

On January 24, 2000, the Pepes filed another Order to Show Cause in the Bergen County Superior Court. Meanwhile, on February 2, 2000, the Department of Education advised the School Board that it was declining to review the application because it was not required to review it under N.J.A.C. 6:22-1. On March 9, 2000, Judge Gerald C. Escala dismissed the Order to Show Cause, finding that it was up to the Commissioner to determine whether or not the application was reviewable by the Department.

Petitioner filed a petition for declaratory judgment on May 1, 2000. On November 1, 2000, the Commissioner decided that the issues needed to be clarified, and the case was sent to the OAL. The respondent has moved for summary decision.

DISCUSSION:

A. A controversy "arising under the school laws"

*N.J.S.A.*18A:6-9 states:

> The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the state board or of the commissioner. For the purposes of this Title, controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws.

In Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. Murnick, 224 N.J. Super. 504 (App. Div. 1988), the Appellate Division discussed *N.J.S.A.*18A:6-9. That case involved an attempt by a school board to acquire a piece of private property in order to construct a public school facility for approximately 600-700 elementary students. A trial judge had stated that the Commissioner's jurisdiction over the issue was "ambiguous." Id. at 511. The Appellate Division, however, stated that this was incorrect. The court stated that the question of whether the property was an appropriate school site and whether it was properly approved for such a purpose "arises under the school laws and falls within the scope of the Commissioner's special expertise." Id. at 513. The issue involved size requirements, and the court assumed that the size requirements were a result of "thoughtful deliberations by the State Board and that the State Board considered site size to impact on educational quality.... It is evident to us that if a major variation from the requirement is to be allowed, it is for the Commissioner to make that essential educational determination in the first instance." Ibid.

The case at bar is distinguishable from Murnick. Rather than a school building, this case involves an application to install light towers on a high school athletic field. N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1 enumerates the types of building construction work that require review by the Department of Education:

(a) Types of building construction work requiring a review by the Department of Education are as follows:

1. New school buildings including pre-fabricated facilities;

2. An addition to an existing school building;

3. A change involving the total number of instructional spaces or the number of any one kind of instructional space;

4. A change in the dimensions (volume and/or area) of any instructional space;

5. A change of use as defined in N.J.A.C. 6:22-5.2;

6. The utilization of pre-manufactured trailers and vans; and

7. Any site or school building change or alteration for the purpose of making the site and school barrier free and accessible to handicapped persons as per N.J.A.C. 5:23 and Section 504 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

(b) Other construction projects that do not require a review for educational adequacy shall be submitted to the local municipal construction enforcing agency in accordance with N.J.A.C. 5:23-2.

[N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1 (emphasis added.]

The use of the phrase "as follows" shows that the list of projects requiring Department review is finite. Were it possible to add other options to the list, the regulation might have contained a more ambiguous word, such as includes. Furthermore, in the New Jersey Register, N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1 was summarized as follows:

> This subchapter defines the types of building construction work requiring review for educational adequacy by the Department of Education...
> [30 N.J.R. 3619 (October 5, 1998) (emphasis added).]

This limits the projects that require review to those listed in the regulation. Projects that do not require a review for educational adequacy—in other words, those not listed under N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1(a)—"shall be submitted to the local municipal construction enforcing agency in accordance with N.J.A.C. 5:23-2 [the Uniform Construction Code]." N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1(b). As N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1(a) is exhaustive, it is clear that projects that are not listed therein are not required to be reviewed by the Department.

Athletic field lighting is not among the items listed under N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1(a). Therefore, the Department is not required to review it.

If this is the case, it would be paradoxical to assert that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over the issue. The Commissioner is the chief executive and administrative officer of the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:4-22(a). If the issue of athletic field lighting cannot be reviewed by the Department, then it cannot be reviewed by the Commissioner either.

An issue does not fall under the school laws merely because it is connected to a school. For example, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 itself excludes issues relating to the conduct of school elections from the Commissioner's jurisdiction.

Another area specifically excluded from the Commissioner's jurisdiction is contractual disputes, unless only incidental interpretation of the contract is necessary to resolve the education claim. See New Jersey Educ. Ass'n v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 481, 489. The courts have affirmed the Commissioner's lack of jurisdiction over contract disputes. See, e.g., Picogna v. Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Cherry Hill, Camden County, 249 N.J. Super. 332, 335 (App. Div. 1991).

Additionally, school disputes arising under title relating to taxation have been held to be outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction. Bd. of Ed. of Borough of Fair Lawn v. Mayor and Council of Borough of Fair Lawn, 143 N.J. Super. 259 (Law Div. 1976), aff'd. 153 N.J. Super. 480.

Finally, an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) held that the Commissioner lacked jurisdiction over an issue involving the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6, when it was not connected to a school-related issue. See Rovello v. Hopewell Valley Regional School District Bd. of Educ., 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 313. In Rovello, petitioners claimed that the Commissioner had jurisdiction because the issue was related to the issuance of a school bond. The ALJ stated that "if the only and/or significant issue presented before the Commissioner concerns an Open Public Meeting Act purported violation, absent a significant nexus to an underlying substantive school law issue, the Commissioner is without jurisdiction..." Id. at 316. The ALJ went on to find that the Commissioner lacked jurisdiction, a decision that the Commissioner adopted.

Similarly, in the case at bar, there is no "significant nexus to an underlying substantive school law issue." As the Department points out, schools implement their curricula only during the day, and that is true even for physical activities. Therefore, athletic field lighting, which would be used only at night, would not benefit the school curriculum in any way.

B. The unreported Appellate Division decision

This case first came before the Appellate Division in Northern Highlands Regional High School Sports Association, Inc. v. Borough of Allendale Planning Board v. Russell A. Pepe, et al., No. A-5355-97 (App. Div. May 19, 1999). In summarizing the law, the court stated that > N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-16, as amended in 1990, and the regulations thereunder, provide that school building construction, including additions and reconfigurations, be submitted to the Department of Education for its review. N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1(a). However for lesser construction projects that do not require review for "educational adequacy," the regulations give the school board the choice of either having the department review its plans or the local municipal code enforcing agency.

> [Northern Highlands Regional High School Sports Association, Inc. v. Borough of Allendale Planning Board v. Russell A. Pepe, et al., Docket No. A-5355-97T2 (May 19, 1999) at 8.]

The Board of Education claims that this has the effect of stare decisis and that therefore, the school board has the choice of either having the Department or the local planning board review its plans. The Department, on the other hand, claims that the court's statement was merely dicta and not a holding of the case. I am in agreement with the Department's position for the following reasons.

In this part of the opinion, the Appellate Division is attempting to summarize law. It is not attempting to set forth a procedure for the future; it is not giving a directive to be followed. It provides no citation for its statement that there is a choice; actually, there seems to be no basis for the statement.

The Board of Education claims that the word shall in the phrase "construction projects that do not require a review for educational adequacy shall be submitted to the local municipal construction enforcing agency," *N.J.A.C.*6:22-1.1(b) (emphasis added), denotes not something mandatory, but a choice. Yet this interpretation is incorrect. "Under the 'plain meaning' rule of statutory construction, the word 'may' ordinarily is permissive and the word 'shall' generally is mandatory." Aponte-Correa v. Allstate Ins. Co., 162 N.J. 318, 325 (2000). Furthermore, the word shall is "used in laws, regulations or directives to express what is mandatory." Webster's Third New International Dictionary 2085 (1976). Finally, "[a] statute should be interpreted in accordance with its plain meaning if it is clear and unambiguous on its face and admits of only one interpretation." Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Neptune in County of Monmouth v. Neptune Twp. Educ. Ass'n, 144 N.J. 16, 25 (1996) (citations omitted).

It must be observed that dictum is something that "contains propositions not essential to the determination of" a case. See, U.S. v. Ricks, 5 *F.*3d 48, 50 (3rd Cir. 1993). In Ricks, the appellant relied on dictum contained in a previous Third Circuit decision. The Ricks court found that this dictum conflicted with the plain text of the Sentencing Guidelines, with precedent, and with federal case law generally and therefore held that it "is not and has never been law in this court and therefore never achieved the jurisprudential quality of a decision." Ibid. (citation omitted). Also, "dicta, if carefully weighed and found wanting, does not control." State v. D. Allen, 212 N.J. Super. 276, 280 (Law Div. 1986).

Furthermore, in his March 9, 2000, decision concerning an Order to Show Cause related to this litigation, Judge Escala questioned the Appellate Division's dictum, stating:

> I think the Appellate Division wittingly or unwittingly was merely reciting what it perceived to be the historical background. I don't think that it was anymore than that. And I don't find that they're enunciating a finding, a conclusion of law that an applicant has the right to go either way.
>
> And if you have other than what they happen to say in that decision, if you have any other authority for that, because it seems to me that perhaps they picked up on some history of the case that came up from below and incorrectly recited the history of the case in order just to illustrate how it got where it was. And it was irrelevant to the point that having opted voluntarily to go before the local board, you were stuck with what they did.

Finally, if petitioner's current application is treated as the same as that originally filed before the planning board several years ago, then one can argue that even if the Appellate Division's dictum is correct, Northern Highlands has already made its choice between the planning board and the Department. It has chosen the planning board, which rejected the application, and Northern Highlands may not have a second bite of the apple.

Therefore, the unreported Appellate Division decision stating that there is a choice has no bearing on the present circumstances.

CONCLUSION:

In sum, the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over an issue merely because it relates to a school. Athletic field lighting for nighttime use is not an issue of educational adequacy, and therefore the Department of Education is not required to review the issue. Instead, it is an issue for the municipal planning board to decide. This issue does not come under the school laws and therefore is not under the Commissioner's jurisdiction.

The unreported Appellate Division's statement that a school board has a choice between applying to either the Department of Education or the municipal planning board is merely dicta and is not supported by the regulation. Therefore, this statement has not been accorded weight in these proceedings. Furthermore, even if this dicta is correct, Northern Highlands has already made its choice. In addition, I do not find that there are any disputed facts here that require a hearing in this matter. I do not find that the letter provided by petitioner today or the arguments of counsel changes this decision.

Order

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision is granted and petitioner's appeal is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended oral decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

I, Anna M. Leggett, certify that the foregoing is a true and accurate transcript, to the best of my ability, of Judge Elinor R. Reiner's oral decision as edited by the ALJ for form but not substance, rendered in the above matter on May 11, 2001.

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a), petitioner's exceptions were untimely filed.[1]

Upon review of the record and Initial Decision, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the issue of school athletic field lighting for nighttime use is not an issue which must, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1, be the subject of review for educational adequacy by the respondent Department of Education (Department), and that even if the dicta found in the [1] N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a) requires that exceptions be filed within thirteen (13) days of the date the Initial Decision is mailed to the parties by the OAL. The Initial Decision was mailed to the parties by the OAL on May 21, 2001. Therefore, exceptions were due at the latest on June 4, 2000 because the thirteenth day, June 3, fell on a Sunday. In the instant matter, petitioner's exceptions were dated June 5, 2001, mailed on June 8, 2001, and filed with the Commissioner on June 12, 2001.

unreported Appellate Division decision in Northern Highlands Regional High School Sports Association, supra, was correct, petitioner has already made its choice -- the municipal planning board which rejected the application for the controverted athletic field lighting .

In affirming the Initial Decision, however, the Commissioner wishes to clarify that portion of the Initial Decision which states that "schools implement their curricula only during the day, and that is true even for physical activities. Therefore, athletic field lighting, which would be used only at night, would not benefit the school curriculum in any way." (Initial Decision at 6) The Commissioner finds this statement inaccurate in that there are some nontraditional curricula offerings/educational programs which districts across the State implement in the evening, such as "Twilight" or "Sunset" schools, and/or at night, such as adult high schools. Additionally, there are some extracurricular activities which occur after the regular school day and at night. Nonetheless, this does not mean that the Department must, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1, conduct a review of a district's proposal for outdoor lighting of a school athletic field for educational adequacy merely because an extracurricular activity, such as sports or interscholastic athletic events, may have some nexus to a district's physical education program. In other words, the determining factor in triggering a Department review is not whether some nexus exists between proposed nighttime lighting and the district's educational program, but whether Department review is required pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, as clarified herein, respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is granted and the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

Counsel conferred over several months and reached amicable resolution of the matter. The parties have prepared the attached settlement agreement and submit it together with a resolution from each board of education authorizing entry into the agreement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by authorized signatures on the agreement true copies of resolutions authorizing entry into the agreement, and

BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY OAL DOCKET NO. EDUOA 04932-00 AGENCY DOCKET NO. 211-6/00 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

Petitioner Rita Hanna ("Dr. Hanna"), and Respondent Boards of Education of Berlin Township, Chesilhurst, Clementon, Lindenwold, Pine Hill, Waterford and Winslow Township (collectively "Boards"), having duly negotiated the terms of a settlement of this matter, hereby agree as follows:

1. RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Dr. Hanna shall cease her employment with the Lower Camden County Regional High School District ("LCCR") upon dissolution of same, said dissolution having been approved by referendum held in the seven communities served by the LCCR on May 12, 1998 and a dissolution date of June 30, 2001 having been established by the Commissioner of Education. She shall be entitled to any and all benefits due and owing under her current employment contract with the LCCR Board of Education. The Winslow Township Board of Education, in its capacity as LEA for the dissolved LCCR, shall employ Dr. Hanna in pensionable position, namely Director of Business Services, Transition Team, from July 1, 2001 through June 30, 2002 on a full-time basis and from July 1, 2002 through June 30, 2003 in a part-time capacity. Dr. Hanna and the LEA may choose to negotiate for future employment thereafter on a per diem basis. Dr. Hanna shall be considered a tenured employee during the two-year period, and her employment shall otherwise be governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10; a job description is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

2. COMPENSATION

Dr. Hanna shall receive her salary of $109,050 for the 2001-2002 school year. Dr. Hanna shall receive as part of this compensation health insurance including dental, prescription and vision; NJASBO and ASBO International membership; attendance at the ASBO conferences (and any conferences that Winslow Township as LEA may approve). Dr. Hanna shall be permitted to attend, and have all reasonable expenses paid for, the NJASBO conference to be held in Atlantic City in May 2002. Specifically excluded are expenses associated with any other conferences or conventions, as well as any leave time benefits.

Additionally, Dr. Hanna shall be paid a fee of $40,000 for service for the 2002-2003 school year and will work a schedule mutually negotiated by Dr. Hanna and the LEA. It is specifically understood that during the second year she will receive none of the benefits referenced above.

It is anticipated that all monies referenced will be paid out of the LEA funds from the dissolved LCCR proportionally in accordance with statute. However, the Waterford and Chesilhurst Boards will not be charged with, or contribute toward, the $40,000 for the second year.

3. MUTUAL RELEASES

Dr. Hanna hereby agrees to release and forever discharge the Boards, their individual members, successors, assigns and agents from any and all past, present, and future claims, suits, actions at law or in equity of any kind, in any form, that they may have against them, and agrees that execution of this settlement agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of this settlement agreement or any provision thereof. She will dismiss with prejudice her petition presently pending before the Commissioner of Education.

The Boards and its members hereby agree to release and forever discharge Dr. Hanna from any and all past, present, and future claims, suits, actions at law or in equity, in any form, that it may have against her, and agrees that execution of this settlement agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of this agreement or her employment obligations or any provision thereof.

This document is entered into voluntarily and willingly without any duress or coercion. All parties agree to be bound by their respective releases and agree that their respective successors shall be bound by the releases and all other provisions of this Agreement.

4. CONSULTATION WITH COUNSEL

The parties represent that they have consulted with their respective attorneys before signing this document and are fully satisfied with the advice received.

5. EXECUTION IN COUNTERPARTS AND VIA FACSIMILE

This agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which, when executed and delivered, shall be deemed to be an original and all of which counterparts, when taken together, shall constitute but one agreement. An original signature transmitted by facsimile shall be deemed to be an original for the purposes of this Agreement.

6. APPROVAL

Extracts of the meetings of the respective Boards where this settlement was approved are attached hereto as Exhibit B. The parties acknowledge that this agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

Issues, Concerns, Comments

1. Mr. Dougherty said at the next meeting, he will bring along the information that he picked up in San Diego. He had copies made for everyone, and he will give a brief report on that.

2. Ms. Hershman said she attended a technology conference, and she will share that information tomorrow with Mr. Donatucci.

3. Mrs. Moncrief said the Special Education Committee had a meeting, and they will be asking members of the State Board to come to their June meeting to try to share with them some of the issues that they have. Chief among the issues are World Language concerns, and also, the aggregate sum that they talked about in this area. They will be addressing several issues.

4. Mrs. Glover said she was fortunate enough to attend "Parents Night Out." It was a huge success.

   Mrs. Moncrief said Mr. Wachter and Mr. Dougherty gave a very nice budget presentation. There were some questions, some concerns about curriculum as well as budget. It was valuable as we did get the word out a little bit more. One of the things that has amazed her is that no one has asked at any of the presentations why taxes are being raised. It's all

Ms. Hershman and Mr. Smith were supposed to be working on something. What they are trying to do is to sell the apartment community on offering incentives to potential teachers and/or district employees overall. These incentives would include the opportunity to come move into their apartment complex with a three to six month waiver of rent, or what-have-you, whatever they are willing to give. Mr. Smith and Ms. Hershman were going to put together some bullet points, a nice little sales package that they could present to the apartment community. But that hasn't happened yet.

They are focusing on trying to put together an employee database that would track new hires, and people who are interested in working for the district. Currently, they don't have anything that really does the job of tracking resumes or candidates. Miko Pickett who works with systems offered her services to help Mr. Donatucci put something together. They will be following up with these things in the next month or so, and report back to the other Board members.

REPORT OF THE CLERK OF THE WORKS

Mr. O'Donnell reviewed the following:

Bean Annex

- We will go out to bid the end of March.
- Demo items and sidewalk work we will take care of ourselves.
- Alternate - stucco entire building or just the front.
- We are waiting for Mr. Garcia to give us State approval.
- Mr. Gallagher questioned stucco versus vinyl siding. Mr. O'Donnell stated he believes vinyl siding to be more cost effective.

Ms. Narducci advised she spoke with Mr. Hassett. A letter was sent to LCCR informing them to make repairs to the meter pit. She will check and make sure these repairs are taken care of.

Mrs. Thompson advised that LCCR still has 40 outstanding violations in the Fire Marshall's office. She wants them to be corrected before they are our responsibility.
Mrs. Thompson questioned the cafeteria floor bid. Ms. Mascioli stated that the bid was awarded and asked Mr. Sahli for advice. He stated that maybe we can postpone installation, meet with the vendor, and substitute the flooring for what we would want to see installed.

Middle School

- There is an average of 65 people a day working at the site.
- The color for the membrane has been picked.
- Steel is up on the gym.
- Veneer will be started next week.
- Sheet rock will begin on the second floor.

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's determination that his three nephews, who reside with him, are not entitled to a free education in the Fort Lee School District. Petitioner sought to admit his nephews pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) because of a family and economic hardship.

The ALJ determined that petitioner's nephews are entitled to a free education in the Fort Lee School District because of family and economic hardship. The ALJ concluded that both the parent's economic situation and the danger to the health and safety of petitioner's nephews if they continue to reside with their parents in Columbia compelled a determination that petitioner's nephews are entitled to a free education in the Fort Lee School District.

The Commissioner affirmed the determination of the ALJ, agreeing that the specific facts of this case demonstrate that petitioner's nephews reside with him because of family or economic hardship, and not solely for educational purposes.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal brought on behalf of three students seeking enrollment in the Fort Lee, New Jersey school system. They recently arrived from the South American country of Columbia and are now living with their uncle and his wife in Fort Lee. Their mother (the uncle's sister) sent them to the United States due to the general political climate and economic conditions in Columbia. Among other things, petitioners allege that drug cartels and paramilitary groups randomly kidnap children in Columbia to terrorize the local population. The controversy involves whether the children are entitled to a free public education under the so-called "affidavit-student" provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), which applies to students living with relatives or friends who reside in the school district. Basically, the issue is whether petitioners satisfy the "hardship" test, namely, whether the children's parents are incapable of supporting or providing care for the children "due to a family or economic hardship."

Significantly, the Board of Education of Fort Lee ("Board") does not dispute that Columbia is an undesirable place for raising children or that economic conditions in that country are difficult. Further, the Board admits that the uncle is domiciled in Fort Lee and that he is supporting his nephews without financial help from their parents. Nonetheless, the Board argues that many places are undesirable environments for raising children, including some parts of the United States, and that something more must be proven to establish a genuine "economic or family hardship."

Procedural History

By letter dated August 20, 2000, the Board notified the uncle that his three nephews would not be allowed to enroll in the Fort Lee public schools. On September 6, 2000, the uncle filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"), appealing the Board's denial of enrollment. Respondent Board filed its answer and counterclaim on September 15, 2000. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), petitioners were admitted to school, provided that the uncle will be liable for tuition if the Board ultimately prevails in this litigation.

Subsequently, on September 22, 2000, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on March 27, 2001. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix.

Many of the general background facts are uncontested. The uncle, age forty-five, is a naturalized American citizen. Born in Columbia, he entered the United States legally in 1980 and has lived here for twenty years. He works in New York City as a store manager. As a member of the U.S. army reserves, he was called to active duty and served for six months during the Gulf War crisis. Married for eleven years, he and his wife have no children of their own. He settled in Fort Lee in 1985, first renting an apartment and later purchasing a two-bedroom condominium together with his wife. Included in the record is a copy of a certificate evidencing the uncle's interest as a joint tenant in a corporate entity owning residential property in Fort Lee. Since coming to the United States, the uncle has remained in touch with his sister, who lives in an apartment in Bogotá. Last year, the uncle traveled to Colombia to visit his sister and other relatives.

All three children entered the United States on December 16, 1999.[1] On or about January 5, 2000, the uncle submitted separate application packets for school admission of his three nephews on forms prepared by the district. Each packet included an affidavit signed by the uncle and aunt verifying that the child is living at their home in Fort Lee and that they intend "to keep and support the said child gratuitously as if he were our own child with no contribution or payment, either in money or in kind, for food, clothing, recreation, medical expenses, lodging or other costs and expenses[.]"[2] In addition, the packet included an affidavit signed by both parents reciting the reasons for sending their children to the United States:

> Columbia is a country that is bathed in violence. Guerilla killings occur all the time and it is no place to raise and educate children to be responsible adults. Both parents recognize the danger, and want what is best for their children.
> In the United States, they will have a chance to get a good education and live a decent life.

---

[1] Insofar as the record discloses, the children entered the country legally to live with their uncle and aunt. Even if they entered the country illegally, however, a school district cannot deny a free public education to children solely on the basis of illegal-alien status. Plyer v. Doe, 457 U.S. 202 (1982). Antonio Indep. Sch. Dist. v. Rodriguez, 411 U.S. 1 (1973).

[2] Both parents in Columbia have jointly executed a notarized power of attorney authorizing the aunt and uncle "to represent us in all necessary matters related to our sons."

On May 18, 2000, the District notified the uncle that the claim for admission had been denied for lack of sufficient evidence that the parents are incapable of supporting them "due to family or economic hardship." However, the letter invited the uncle to furnish additional documentation "that substantiates why the conditions in Columbia warrant a family or economic hardship for the parents of these children." After consulting with a school official, the uncle submitted an addendum to the application elaborating on the parents' economic plight. This addendum recites that the mother works seven days a week, that every Saturday and Sunday she travels one-hundred miles each way over mountain roads from their home in Bogotá to a small outlying village where she works, and that the children "must travel with her to work on the weekends." Their father is unable to take care of them on weekends because he works in the City of Cali, a distance of two hundred and thirty-five miles from Bogotá. Again, however, the District advised the uncle that review of the additional evidence submitted on behalf of the three students "does not support the validity of their claim for admission."

As required by law, the Board admitted the three students to its school system, subject to a counterclaim for reimbursement of tuition in the event that petitioners are unsuccessful on appeal.[3] Presently, therefore, B.A.L.A., age seventeen, is enrolled in the District's ninth grade. C.A.L.A., age fifteen, is enrolled in the District's eight grade. D.A.L.A., age twelve, is enrolled in the District's elementary school. They appear to have made a smooth transition to their new surroundings. B.A.L.A., the oldest child, made the honor roll during his first semester at Fort Lee High School.

Proofs at the hearing support the assertion that Columbia is one of the world's most dangerous places, especially for children. Having recently returned from a visit to Columbia, the uncle testified that violence on the streets is commonplace. Thus, the uncle commented that, "we couldn't go out at night," "couldn't use public transportation," and couldn't travel "to some areas." Fearful for the safety of her children, his sister was "very demoralized." Because she is employed by the state-operated medical system, she is a government worker. Anti-government groups specifically target government workers for terrorist acts.[4] Despite his young age, B.A.L.A. described the violence he had encountered in Columbia on a daily basis. Someone regularly "gets robbed or raped," and there is "a lot of kidnapping." He remembered his mother as "very protective of us," and unwilling to let him go out alone.

[3] A local board of education must admit the child to its school system pending the outcome of a timely appeal to the Commissioner. If the Commissioner determines that the evidence does not support petitioner's claim, the Commissioner "shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

Information from official government sources supports this dire assessment of the current situation in Columbia.[5] A travel warning posted on the website of the United States Department of State in February 2000 notes that "[v]iolence by nacrotraffickers, guerrillas, paramilitary groups and other criminal elements continues to affect all parts of the country, both urban and rural." http://travel.state.gov/Columbia.html According to this bulletin, "There is a greater risk of being kidnapped in Columbia than in any other country in the world." Particularly relevant (given the fact that the children had to accompany their mother on her long trip to the interior of Columbia on weekends) is the comment that "[t]ravel by road outside the major cities is especially dangerous because of guerrilla activity in rural areas."

Private watchdog groups such as Amnesty International paint an equally bleak picture of the situation in Columbia. In a report issued in 1998, Amnesty International estimates that "[h]undreds of people were killed by the security forces and paramilitary groups operating with their support or acquiesce," many of whom "were tortured before being killed." http://www.amnesty.org/ailib/aireport/ar98/amr23.htm "Death-squad style" killings of people regarded as "disposable" occurred in urban areas. Innocent civilians continue to be the principal victims of the spiraling conflict, "mostly peasant farmers living in areas whose control was disputed between the armed forces and their paramilitary allies, and armed opposition groups." A later report, dated June 1999, refers to the practice of taking civilian hostages, including women and children, to use as bargaining chips in negotiations between warring factions. http://www.web.amnesty.org/ai.nsf/index/AMR230431999 While the Board emphasizes that Amnesty International has also been critical of human rights violations occurring in the United States, the circumstances are simply not comparable. Review of Amnesty International's 2000 annual report on the United States reflects that organization's opposition to the death penalty and alludes to reported instances of police brutality. The only mention of harm to children refers to the possibility that a proposed federal juvenile justice bill might allow more children to be incarcerated with adult prisoners. http://www.web.amnesty.org/web/ar2000

Aside from the constant threat to their children's physical safety, the parents rely on "economic" hardship as another reason for sending the children to live with relatives in the United States. Trained as a dentist, the mother earns a salary equivalent to roughly $450 American dollars per month.[6] During the regular workweek, she works at a medical clinic located in Bogotá. Every weekend, she travels by bus on an eight-hour journey to an outlying village, where she provides dental services to the rural population. Afraid to leave her children alone at home, the mother would bring her three children with her on the long bus ride. Her husband, the father of her children, is an itinerant paint salesman, who works on commission and earns much less than the mother. Unable to find any work in Bogotá, the father relocated to Cali to help support his family. Although their marriage bonds remain strong, the parents live separately most of the time due to economic necessity.[7]

[6] Since petitioners did not present any data about the overall cost of living in Columbia, it is difficult to equate the mother's buying power to someone with a comparable income in the United States. Nonetheless, the uncle claimed that $450 is a "very small" amount to meet the expenses of a Columbian household with three children.

[7] On cross-examination, the Board attorney sought to show that the parents had misrepresented their living arrangements in the original affidavit. However, the father maintains his domicile in Bogotá, and the uncle volunteered the details of the parents' forced separation only after the District had invited him to supply additional information about the family's economic hardship.

I FIND that the parents sent their children to America primarily to protect them from dangerous conditions in Columbia, including atrocities committed against the civilian population and the widespread practice of kidnapping hostages to use as bargaining chips. These three children were particularly vulnerable because their mother works for the government and because they regularly accompanied her on trips by public transportation through areas inhabited by guerillas. Economic conditions necessitate that the father leave the home to find work and that the mother work seven days per week. Therefore, the parents were unable to provide adequate care and adult supervision for their adolescent sons. The uncle and aunt are willing to assume full financial responsibility for their three nephews and agree to pay all living expenses out of their own pocket. Availability of an education in Fort Lee was not a major factor in the parents' decision. Rather, the parents chose Fort Lee because that happened to be the place where the uncle and aunt live.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that petitioners satisfy the statutory criteria and are entitled to a free public education in the Fort Lee School District.

Art. VII, §4 ¶1 of the New Jersey State Constitution affords the right to free public school instruction to "all children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years." State ex. rel. G.S., 330 N.J. Super. 383, 392 (Ch. 2000). Similarly, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) declares that public schools in New Jersey shall be free to anyone over five and under twenty years of age "who is domiciled within the school district." Ordinarily, a child's domicile follows that of the custodial parent or legal guardian. Mansfield Twp. v. State Bd. of Educ., 101 N.J.L. 474, 478n (Sup. Ct. 1925). Where, however, a child is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district who is providing full financial support, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) authorizes free school attendance upon satisfaction of certain statutory criteria, including the filing of a sworn statement by the child's parent or guardian verifying:

> . . . that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district.

Without raising any other objections, the Board contends that petitioners failed to demonstrate sufficient "family or economic hardship" to justify admission to its school system. In reviewing the validity of this determination, the Commissioner is not limited to documentary submissions, but must consider the circumstances by which the children came to live with their uncle. J.A. v. Board of Educ., 318 N.J. Super. 512 (App. Div. 1999).

Ever since the Pilgrims landed on our shores to escape religious persecution, the United States has traditionally been a refuge for those fleeing oppression at home. Ours is a nation of immigrants and their descendants. Mojica v. Reno, 970 F. Supp. 130, 143 (E.D.N.Y. 1997), aff'd in part, dismissed in part sub nom. Henderson v. INS, 157 F3d 106 (2d Cir. 1998), cert. den. sub nom. Reno v. Navas, 526 U.S. 1004 (1999). School law decisions regard substantial political unrest in a foreign land as enough of a "family hardship" for parents to send children to safety in the United States. Illustratively, in D.K.S. ex rel. H.I.L. v. Fort Lee Bd. of Educ., EDU 3341-99, Initial Decision (July 8, 1999), adopted (Comm'r Aug. 25, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/h/initial/edu3341-99_1.html Christian missionaries residing in Uzbekistan sent their child to live with friends in Fort Lee because political instability and religious strife in that Moslem country "had reached the level of frequent threats to foreigners." (at 3). An official State Department report corroborated much of the parents' claim concerning human rights abuses in Uzbekistan and hostility toward Christian groups who openly tried to convert Muslims. Holding that Fort Lee must admit the child into its school system free of charge, the Commissioner adopted the finding that the friends "generously took H.I.L. into their home to provide the nurturing and stability his parents were unable to give him due to their difficult missionary assignment." (at 4).

Indeed, in one extreme example, "family hardship" is broadly interpreted to extend to a family's strong preference to raise their child with American values. In R.C.P. ex rel. A.S.K., EDU 11001-99, Initial Decision (May 18, 2000), adopted (Comm'r Aug. 18, 2000), aff'd (St. Bd. Jan. 3, 2001) <http:lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/html/initial/edu11002-99_1.html>, a one-year old child moved from the United States to Korea with his parents. By the time he had attained age fifteen, he wanted to live in the United States as an American citizen. Since the family could not afford relocating to this country, the parents sent him to stay with an uncle who was living in the Ramapo-Indian Hills School District. Adopting the view that the family hardship consisted of the parents' inability to provide their child with "the privileges of an American citizen including the intimate knowledge of American culture and heritage," the State Board upheld a determination that the local school district was responsible for providing a free public education. (at 6).

Apparently, the Board seeks to apply the immigration standard for political asylum and argues that the family cannot show a genuine hardship unless they can establish a likelihood of retaliation for their beliefs. In order to obtain asylum, a person must show that he or she has a well-founded fear of persecution on account of race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group or political opinion. See Ratnam v. Lewis, 892 F. Supp. 619 (D.N.J. 1995). Unlike immigration law, however, the school law standard is much more general and covers a wider range of hardships, including economic as well as political. New Jersey law was never meant to penalize innocent parties, elevate form over substance or overlook the substantial state interest in ensuring the education of all its children. Gunderson v. City of Brigantine Bd. of Educ., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 39, 42, adopted (Comm'r 1994), aff'd 95 N.J.A.R.2d 132 (St. Bd. 1995).

Other decisions treat poverty or poor living conditions abroad as satisfying the "economic hardship" requirement. For instance, in E.M. ex rel. K.G. v. Lincoln Park Bd. of Educ., EDU 9186-97, Initial Decision (Feb. 11, 1999), adopted (Comm'r April 9, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/html/initial/edu9186-97.html, a seventeen-year old child born in Poland came to the United States to live with a family friend after her mother had died and her father exhausted most of his earnings on her brother's medical care. Agreeing that the credible evidence portrayed "a hardship which is appropriately recognized in the statute," the Commissioner ruled that the child is entitled to a free public education financed by the Borough of Lincoln Park. (at 6). Likewise, in M.H.R. ex. rel. L.C.G. v. Clifton Bd. of Educ., EDU 3005-96, Initial Decision (Feb. 27, 1998), http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/html/initial/edu3005-96.html, adopted (Comm'r April 16, 1998) <http:www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html>, the Commissioner held that a Mexican teenager from a large family, who came to live with a brother in Clifton because his parents "had no visible means of support due to their advanced age," was entitled to be educated by the local school district.

Like generations before them, the three children involved in this litigation fled to the United States to escape tyranny at home and to seek the opportunity for a better life. They did not come specifically to obtain an education and their living arrangement with their uncle is not a subterfuge to attend a particular school system. Now, the Board should get on with the important business of educating them.

Order

It is ORDERED that the three children on whose behalf this appeal is brought are eligible for a free public education in the Fort Lee School District.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

The Board excepts, inter alia, to the characterization of the father's employment as an itinerant paint salesman by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), arguing that petitioner's testimony clearly described the father's work as a regional salesman for a paint wholesaler whose job requires periodic absence from home like many other salesmen in other parts of the world. (Board's Exceptions at 2) The Board also argues that, while the mother's earnings were disclosed at hearing, there was no information provided on the father's earnings except testimony that he earns much less than the mother, and that there was no evidence presented showing the relationship between the parents' income and the standard of living in Columbia. (Ibid.)

Moreover, the Board objects to the ALJ's reliance on D.K.S. and K.S.S., on behalf of minor child, H.I.L. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Fort Lee, Bergen County, decided by the Commissioner August 25, 1999, claiming that the instant matter is distinguishable from that case, which involved Christian missionaries assigned to Uzbekistan, where the family was the target of religious and physical persecution, including threats, in an Islamic country openly hostile to Christians and that the child was "overwhelmed physically and emotionally." (Slip Op. at 3) The Board posits that petitioner in this matter offers only generalized statements with respect to conditions in the children's native country and that there is no evidence of personal hardship in the matter sub judice in contrast to D.K.S., supra.[1] (Board's Exceptions at 3)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that, under the particular circumstances of this case, petitioner has demonstrated that C.A.L.A., D.S.L.A. and B.A.L.A. are entitled to a free education in the Board's District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1. As observed by the ALJ, the children's mother works seven days a week, and the children must travel with her 100 miles each way on weekends to a small village through areas inhabited by guerrilla groups. Because the mother is a dentist and a government employee, she is particularly susceptible to kidnapping by guerrillas and paramilitary groups who do not have adequate health facilities, and who specifically target government employees. (Initial Decision at 5) The father is unable to care for his children on weekends because, unable to find work in Bogotá, he works in Cali, a distance of 235 miles from Bogotá, where the children resided prior to their move to Fort Lee.

[1] The Commissioner notes that, as in this instance, the Fort Lee School District was the respondent in D.K.S., supra, a matter in which the petitioners therein challenged the district's determination that the student in question was ineligible for a free public education in the district's schools as an affidavit student. The Commissioner in that matter determined that the student was entitled to attend school free of charge as an affidavit student due to family hardship.

The Commissioner, therefore, finds that C.A.L.A., D.S.L.A. and B.A.L.A. are residing with their uncle in Fort Lee because their parents are unable to care for them "due to family or economic hardship," and, not solely for educational purposes. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's determination to transfer her from her position of elementary school teacher of the handicapped to middle school teacher of the handicapped after a reduction in force (RIF) of elementary teachers of the handicapped. Petitioner argued that her tenure and seniority rights were violated by the transfer because there were nontenured or less senior teachers retained as elementary school teachers of the handicapped after the RIF. The Board argued that its actions were a proper exercise of its managerial prerogative because petitioner suffered no reduction in salary or other employment benefits.

The ALJ, relying on the Appellate Division decision in Carpenito, determined that the transfer of petitioner was based on a valid RIF and did not violate her tenure or seniority rights. The ALJ thus recommended dismissal of the petition.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ. Because there was a valid RIF, and petitioner did not suffer a reduction in compensation or any tangible employment benefit, the Commissioner concluded that the Board's transfer of petitioner was within its managerial prerogative and petitioner's tenure and seniority rights were not violated.

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education in October 2000 following the filing of a petition by Aurelia Zitman alleging that her tenure and seniority rights had been violated by virtue of the respondent Board's transferring her to a position as a middle school Teacher of the Handicapped rather than the position she previously held, elementary school Teacher of the Handicapped. According to Zitman, since there were other non-tenured and/or less senior teachers retained as elementary school Teachers of the Handicapped for the 2000-2001 school year, she should have been given preference over them in respect to the reduction in force which led to her transfer.

Thereafter, the respondent filed an answer essentially denying the allegations of illegal acts and maintaining that its conduct was in all respects a proper exercise of its managerial prerogatives following a reduction in force.

In January 2001, I conducted a telephone conference with counsel and a schedule was established for the filing of a motion by the Board to dismiss the petition. In the event that motion was denied, hearings were scheduled for June 4 and 5, 2001. Subsequent to that conference a motion to dismiss was made, accompanied by a brief and proposed form of order. A brief in opposition then was filed by the petitioner, as well as a Board reply to the opposition brief. Counsel also have filed a Joint Stipulation of Facts.

JOINT STIPULATION OF FACTS

The parties have agreed to the following facts:

1. Petitioner is a tenured teaching staff member employed by Respondent.

2. Up through the 1999-2000 academic year, Respondent served as Teacher of the Handicapped for elementary grades.

3. From January 12, 2000 through June 20, 2000 the petitioner was on an approved maternity/child rearing leave of absence.

4. By letter of March 15, 2000 (copy attached as Exh. J-1) petitioner was notified that her assignment for the 2000-20001 academic year would be changed from Special Education Teacher at Parker School to English as a Second Language teacher at the Middle School.

5. Subsequently, petitioner's assignment for 2000-20001 was changed again to a Teacher of the Handicapped at the district's Middle School.

Attached to the Joint Stipulation, was a letter, dated March 15, 2000, from Superintendent of Schools Montesano to Zitman advising of her transfer for the 2000-2001 school year from a special education teacher at an elementary school to an English as a Second Language teacher at a middle school.

DISCUSSION

The Board's position is that under the recent decision in Carpenito v. Bd. of Educ. of Rumson, 322 N.J. Super. 522 (App. Div. 1999) the action taken in the petitioner's case did not trigger a need to give such deference to her tenure and seniority rights as to prohibit her transfer to a middle school position. In Carpenito, a tenured teacher alleged that his tenure and seniority rights were violated when the Board abolished his position, transferred him to a different position within the scope of his certificate, then reinstated the original position but hired a non-tenured teacher to fill it. The Commissioner upheld the Board's action, the State Board reversed, and on appeal the Appellate Division held that absent allegations of bad faith or unlawful purpose a tenured teacher's seniority rights are not triggered when the board abolishes his or her position and transfers the teacher to teach different subjects so long as they are within his or her certification and the action did not result in a reduction of salary or other employment benefits. In its decision, the Appellate Division reviewed the case existing law concerning the transfer of a tenured teacher to a position within the scope of his or her certification and determined where no loss of salary or other reduction in employment was suffered, and the teacher was not "singled out for the transfer on a prohibited basis" an involuntary transfer is to be upheld. See Carpenito, supra at 529-530. As the court also noted, "a transfer is not a demotion or a dismissal under such circumstances. Indeed, transfers of teaching staff members are often advisable in the administration of schools for a variety of reasons." Carpenito, supra at 530. So too, as the court further observed, seniority is simply a "by-product of tenure" and comes into play only where tenure rights have been reduced in some meaningful way. Carpenito, supra at 531. So long as the transfer is the consequence of a valid reduction in force the managerial prerogatives of the Board to make such transfers cannot successfully be challenged. See, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. See also, Moore v. Cherry Hill Twp. Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 586, aff'd by Commissioner, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 588, aff'd by State Board, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 173; Greenway v. Board of Education of Camden, 129 N.J.L. 46 (N.J. Sup. 1942). Thus, according to the Board in this case, since Zitman was neither dismissed nor her salary reduced, nor any other adverse employment impact effectuated, her mere transfer from elementary school Teacher of the Handicapped to a middle school Teacher of the Handicapped, both within her certification, was perfectly appropriate. This being so, it is irrelevant whether the Board continued to employ other non-tenured and/or less senior teachers in the position which she previously held.

According to petitioner, the Board's argument totally ignores the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(i) which requires that where, as here, a reduction in force occurs and a position is abolished, the Board is obligated to select persons to be reassigned out of a category of employment on the basis of seniority rules which distinguish between "elementary" and "secondary." Thus, since petitioner's transfer to a middle school was a change in "category," permitting teachers with less seniority to remain within Zitman's original elementary category cannot be tolerated. Moreover, according to petitioner, there were many elementary level positions requiring the services of someone with her certification and she could have been reassigned to any one of them rather than having them filled, as they were, by non-tenured employees who should be subordinate to her. Thus, petitioner argues that Carpenito is not pertinent because the teacher in that case was assigned within the same category (secondary to secondary) and when his original position was eliminated there was no one with less seniority than he had teaching the particular subject.

In reply, the Board points out that Carpenito expressly determined that seniority rights are not triggered where a position is abolished and a teacher is transferred to another position within his or her certification so long as there is no reduction in the salary or benefits enjoyed. This is so even where there is a reduction in force. See Carpenito, supra at 533.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Based upon my review and consideration of the case law, I CONCLUDE, on the undisputed facts, that the Board's position is correct. Under Carpenito, Zitman's transfer from elementary to middle school Teacher of the Handicapped was the result of a valid reduction in force and did not violate either her tenure or her seniority rights. In particular, it did not trigger a right to claim a position at the elementary level (even though she was certified) given to less senior or non-tenured employees. The language of Carpenito amply supports the exercise of the Board's prerogatives in this case. Accordingly, the Board's Motion is GRANTED and the petition should be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF HACKENSACK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner affirms the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). In so doing, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds the Appellate Division's decision in Carpenito, supra, to be controlling.

In Carpenito, petitioner's tenured position as a seventh grade social studies teacher was eliminated due to declining enrollment. As a result, although he was initially assigned to teach computer applications to seventh and eighth grade students, along with health and basic skills courses, Carpenito was subsequently assigned to teach computer applications to grades four through eight, as well as a basic skills course. Carpenito at 525-526. However, he "suffered no loss of salary or reduction of tangible employment benefits as a result of the transfer." Id. at 526. When the board subsequently reinstated the seventh grade position, it chose to fill the position with a nontenured teacher. Ibid. Carpenito appealed, claiming that his tenure and seniority rights had been violated by the board's failure to assign him to the reinstated social studies position. Ibid. Additionally, like the petitioner herein, Carpenito claimed that the abolishment of his social studies position, which, for seniority purposes, was in a secondary category, resulted in his inappropriate assignment to an elementary category; Carpenito v. Rumson Borough Board of Education, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 958 (1996) at 960-961. Although he argued that he was not properly certified to teach the computer applications course to the elementary grades, both the Commissioner and the Court found otherwise. See, Carpenito, 322 N.J. Super. at 531.

In the instant matter, there appears to be no dispute that "the number of Elementary Special Education teachers was reduced by two after the 1999-2000 school year." (Petitioner's Brief in Opposition to Respondent's Motion to Dismiss the Petition at 4) Subsequent to this reduction, petitioner was reassigned to teach English as a Second Language at the Middle School, thereby resulting in a change in category (from elementary to secondary). Significantly, like Carpenito, petitioner did not suffer a reduction in compensation or a loss in any tangible employment benefit. As the Commissioner has observed:

> [T]he [Carpenito] court's determination refined the concepts of transfer and reduction in force to hold that when a board of education acts to abolish a teaching staff member's position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and reassigns that individual to another position with no loss of tangible employment benefit, that action does not constitute a reduction in force, but is instead tantamount to a transfer. (emphasis in text) Di Maggio v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, Commissioner's Decision, July 8, 1999, slip. op. at 19.

See, also, William Buckley v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, Commissioner's Decision, July 30, 1999.

Therefore, in accordance with the paradigm applied by the Court in Carpenito, because petitioner's tenure rights were not reduced as a result of the Board's action, there is no "triggering event"; "the triggering event for preference based on seniority is either a dismissal or transfer coupled with a loss of a tangible employment benefit." Carpenito, supra, 322 N.J. Super. at 533. Consequently, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds that petitioner was not entitled to assert her preference, under these circumstances, as against less senior or nontenured employees.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and amplified above. The Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Record Closed: May 10, 2001 Decided: May 17, 2001

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On March 9, 2000, petitioner, S.T. on behalf of J.T., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that J.T. resides within the Union Township School District and was wrongfully removed from the district. Respondent filed an answer and counterclaim on March 7, 2000, contending that petitioner failed to satisfy the domicile provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and seeking dismissal of the petition. Respondent also counterclaimed for tuition reimbursement for the period of J.T.'s ineligible attendance in the district. On March 23, 2000, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on April 17, 2000, and a telephone prehearing conference scheduled for June 26, 2000. The prehearing conference was held on that date, at which time the issues were isolated, and the hearing scheduled for August 16, 2000 at the OAL. The hearing was adjourned at the request of counsel to December 27, 2000, adjourned from that date to January 16, 2001 for possible resolution of this matter, and again adjourned at the request of the parties to March 27, 20001. On that date, the parties appeared and settlement conferences were held. As a result of these settlement conferences, a settlement was reached, and the hearing was adjourned. The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

AGREEMENT and stipulation made this 27th day of March 2001, between S.T. on behalf of minor child, J.T., Petitioner and the Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County, Respondent.

WHEREAS disputes and differences have arisen between the parties with respect to the residency of the minor child,

WHEREAS Petitioner and Respondent desire to finally compromise and settle their differences by entering into this stipulation;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of their mutual covenants set forth herein, Petitioner and Respondent hereby agree as follows:

1. Payment, S.T. shall pay the Board of Education of the Township of Union the total cash sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1000,00), in full settlement of all claims and by and for tuition due and owing for educational services provided to J.T. for School Year 1999-2000. S.T. shall pay $200 within 15 days of the signing of this document (April 10, 2001) and $100 per month on or before the 10th of each month.

2. General Release by S.T., on her own behalf and on the behalf of their heirs, personal representatives, successors and assigns, including but not limited to J.T., hereby releases and forever discharges the Board of Education of the Township of Union and their employees, agents, officers, directors and attorneys, from any and all actions, causes of action, suits, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, bills, invoices, covenants, contracts, controversies, agreements, promises, damage, costs, attorneys fees, interest, warranties, representations, claims and demands whatsoever, in law or equity, which S.T. or anyone claiming by, through or under ever had or now has against the Board of education of the Township of Union or its employees, agents, officers, directors or attorneys by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever from the beginning of the world to the date of this instrument. The undersigned hereby agree that the effect of this general release includes, but is not limited to, the elimination of any and all further liability on the part of the Board of Education of the Township of Union, with respect to all matters claimed by S.T. in that certain petition filed with the State of New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, OAL Docket No. EDU 3214-00, captioned "S.T. on behalf of minor child, J.T., Petitioner vs. Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County, Respondent, and hereby represent and acknowledge that this is a legally binding instrument, that there are no representations or promises made to them which are not contained in this instrument, and that the only obligation of S.T. shall be to pay the Board of Education of the Township of Union the said above-mentioned sum of $1000.00.

3. General Release by the Board of Education of the Township of Union. The Board of Education of the Township of Union, on their own behalf and on the behalf of their successors and assigns, hereby releases and forever discharges S.T. and her heirs, personnel representatives, successors and assigns, from any and all actions, causes of action, suits, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, bills, invoices, covenants, contracts, controversies, agreements, promises, damages, costs, attorneys fees, interest, warranties, representations, claims and demands whatsoever, in law or equity, which the Board of Education of the Township of Union or anyone claiming by, through or under ever had or now has against S.T. by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever from the beginning of the world to the date of this instrument. The undersigned hereby agree that the effect of this general release includes, but is not limited to, the elimination of any and all further liability on the part of S.T., with respect to all matters claimed by the Board of Education of the Township of Union in that certain counterclaim filed with the State of New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, OAL Docket No. EDU 3214-00, captioned "S.T. on behalf of minor child, J.T. SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, retired employees of the Board, contended that they should have been reimbursed for unused accumulated sick leave upon their retirement in accordance with the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement that governed their employment in the former Union County Regional High School District No. 1. The Board contended that it properly paid for accumulated sick leave upon petitioners' retirement pursuant to their collective bargaining agreement with the Board.

The ALJ concluded that the 90 day limitations period for filing petitions was applicable in this case and, because the petition was filed more than six months after petitioners received payment vouchers for accumulated sick leave from the Board reflecting a lesser amount that that to which they believed they were entitled, the ALJ concluded that the petition should be dismissed. The ALJ further concluded that relaxation of the 90-day rule was not appropriate in this case.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ. Initially, the Commissioner rejected petitioners' argument that their claim was statutory, and thus rendered the 90-day limitations period inapplicable. The Commissioner also rejected petitioners' contention that the limitations period had not began to run because there was no final action by the Board to trigger the limitations period, concluding that the provision of the payment vouchers constituted adequate notice of the amount of sick leave to be paid petitioners.

Finally, the Commissioner rejected petitioners' assertion that their written notices of disagreement constituted the filing of a grievance that would toll the limitations period, determining that, even if a grievance were filed, the 90-day period for filing a petition with the Commissioner would not be altered.

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners contend they should have been paid for their unused accumulated sick leave in accordance with the provisions of the collective negotiations agreement which had governed employment in the Regional High School District Union County No. 1 before its dissolution and Petitioners' employment by and retirement from the Clark public school district. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following FACTS were stipulated by the parties and are adopted as factual determinations in this matter.

1) Union County Regional High School District No. 1 (Regional District) was a limited purpose regional district as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:13-2.b., and provided for the high school education of pupils from Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield. Before July 1, 1997, the Regional District operated regional high schools in Berkeley Heights, Clark and Springfield. In each of the six municipalities, there existed separate, local kindergarten through grade eight districts which were the "constituent districts" of the Regional District.

2) Petitioners were employed as tenured teachers by the Regional District until June 30, 1997.

3) While they were employed by the Regional District, Petitioners were members of a negotiations unit represented by the Union County Regional Federation of Teachers, Local 3417, AFT, AFL-CIO (the Federation).

4) Article 17 of the 1995-97 collective negotiations agreement between the Regional district and the Federation provided in relevant part as follows:

> O. Commencing with the 1988-1989 school year, any teacher who has served in the district for twenty-five (25) years or longer, who has reached age fifty (50) and has > not reached age fifty-five (55) or any teacher who has served in the district for fifteen (15) years or longer at age fifty-five or older, shall be entitled to be paid for accumulated sick days within twelve (12) months from the date of leaving the district on the following basis:

> 1995-96 school year: $60 per day for up to 250 days
> 1996-97 school year: $65 per day for up to 250 days
> Joint Exhibit A

5) On May 14, 1996, voters in the six municipalities which comprised the Regional District approved the dissolution of the Regional District in a referendum. Thereafter, the Commissioner of Education determined that the dissolution of the Regional District would be effective July 1, 1997.

6) In approximately December 1996, Petitioners selected the Clark School District as their employer pursuant to the staff selection process which the Commissioner of Education, and subsequently, the State Board of Education, approved in Stagaard v. Contini, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 217, aff'd in relevant part State Board, S.B. #88-96 (State Board decision, 10/1/1997).

7) Petitioner were employed by the Clark Board as tenured teachers for the 1997-98 school year.

8) In June 1997, the Clark Education Association was decertified and the Clark Federation of School Employees was certified as the collective negotiating unit.

9) While they were employed by the Board during the 1997-98 school year, Petitioners were members of a negotiations unit represented by the successor Federation, the Clark Federation of School Employees, Local 3417, AFT, AFL-CIO.

10) Article XI of the collective negotiations agreement between the Board and the Clark Education Association for the 1996-97 school year provided in relevant part as follows:

> C. 1. Any employee who retires according to the Teacher Pension and Annuity Fund or the Public Employment Retirement System, in order to receive immediate benefits and not merely deferred retirement by submitting a letter of retirement after July 1, 1996 through June 30, 1997 shall receive twenty-five ($25) dollars per day for each unused accumulated sick day for up to and not to exceed 150 days and not be exceed $3750. Said payment shall be made in one (1) lump sum payment.

This provision remained in full force and effect until a new agreement was reached with the successor Federation for the 1998-2001 school year with identical provisions under Article XI above, except for effective dates.

11) Petitioners retired from employment by the Board and under the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund, effective June 30, 1998.

12) The records of the Board indicate that Petitioners had the following amounts of unused accumulated sick leave as of June 17, 1998:

a. Petitioner Nadasky had 315.0 days of unused accumulated sick leave. A copy of the Board's Attendance Summary for Petitioner Nadasky, dated June 17, 1998, is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit C.

b. Petitioner Waldvogel had 96.0 days of unused accumulated sick leave. A copy of the Board's Attendance Summary for Petitioner Waldvogel, dated June 17, 1998, is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit D.

c. Petitioner Dougherty had 203.5 days of unused accumulated sick leave. A copy of the Board's Attendance Summary for Petitioner Dougherty, dated June 17, 1998, is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit E.

13) All of the aforesaid amounts of unused accumulated sick leave included days accrued while Petitioners were employed by the Regional District as well as days accrued during he one year Petitioners were employed by the Board.

14) On September 21, 1998, the Board sent a payment voucher to Petitioner Nadasky for his unused accumulated sick leave as calculated by the Board. The voucher indicated that Petitioner Nadasky had 315.0 days of unused accumulated sick leave, for which he was due the sum of $3750. Petitioner Nadasky signed the payment voucher and returned it to the Board for payment. A copy of the Board's payment voucher issued to Petitioner Nadasky, and signed by him, is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit F.

15) On September 30, 1998, the Board issued a check in the amount of $3750 to Petitioner Nadasky for his unused accumulated sick leave as calculated by the Board. A true copy of the check issued to Petitioner Nadasky in the amount of $3750 (front and back) is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit G. Petitioner Nadasky cashed the check. On October 15, 1998, Nadasky submitted a letter to the Board indicating the he was accepting the check as partial payment and reserving his right to pursue additional payments based upon the expired Union County Regional contract. Joint Exhibit H.

16) On September 21, 1998, the Board sent a payment voucher to Petitioner Waldvogel for her unused accumulated sick leave as calculated by the Board. The voucher indicated that Petitioner Waldvogel had 96.0 days of unused accumulated sick leave, for which she was due the sum of $2400.

Petitioner Waldvogel signed the payment voucher and returned it to the Board for payment. A copy of the Board's payment voucher issued to Petitioner Waldvogel, and signed by her, is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit I.

17) On September 30, 1998, the Board issued a check in the amount of $2400 to Petitioner Waldvogel for her unused accumulated sick leave as calculated by the Board. A true copy of the check issued to Petitioner Waldvogel in the amount of $2400 (front and back) is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit J. Petitioner Waldvogel cashed the check under protest.

18) On September 21, 1998, the Board sent a payment voucher to Petitioner Dougherty for his unused accumulated sick leave as calculated by the Board. The voucher indicated that Petitioner Dougherty had 203.5 days of unused accumulated sick leave, for which he was due the sum of $3750. A copy of the Board's payment voucher sent to Petitioner Dougherty is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit K.

19) On September 30, 1998, the Board issued a check in the amount of $3750 to Petitioner Dougherty for his unused accumulated sick leave as calculated by the Board. However, the check was not mailed to Petitioner Dougherty because he had not returned the payment voucher to the Board for payment.

20) By letter dated February 25, 1999, the Board's Business Administrator, Florence Shukis, inquired whether Petitioner Dougherty intended to waive payment for his unused accumulated sick leave days. A copy of the letter dated February 25, 1999 from the Board's Business Administrator to Petitioner Dougherty is attached hereto as Joint Exhibit L. Petitioner Dougherty did not respond to this letter.

21) The Board has been holding the check in the amount of $3750 payable to Petitioner Dougherty since September 30, 1998.

22) The Petitioner of Appeal was filed on May 24, 1999.

The parties agree that the facts and exhibits constitute the complete record.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

This matter comes before me on cross applications for summary decision. When considering a motion for summary decision, this tribunal must determine whether, based on the proceedings, discovery and affidavits submitted, a genuine issue of material fact exists which must be decided by a full evidentiary hearing. In this case, the parties have agreed to the underlying factual predicate. Accordingly, I FIND that there is no genuine issue of material fact to be determined.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the resolution of the issue raised by these cross applications rests on analysis of legal principles.

Petitioners assert that they are seeking payment from the Clark School District for unused sick days which were accrued while they were employed as tenured teachers in the Regional District which was dissolved effective June 30, 1997.

Review of the facts, however, discloses that upon retirement, Petitioners were each sent a payment voucher for unused accumulated sick time. Moreover, Nadasky and Waldvogel cashed their checks, albeit with reservation; Dougherty has not returned the payment voucher to the District; consequently, the District has been holding his check since September 30,1998.

Based on these facts, I FIND that the issue to be determined is the rate at which Petitioners should be paid for the unused sick time accumulated during their employment with the dissolved Regional District.

Petitioners assert they have a statutory right to be paid at the contractual rate established by the collective bargaining agreement in effect at the time the days were accumulated, i.e., when they were employed by the Regional District. This assertion is based on the reading, in pari materia of several statutory provisions which, when read together, either protect or preserve all rights to leave of absence, tenure, seniority, pension and accumulated sick leave. N.J.S.A. 18A:3-5; N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64.

Clearly, Respondent, Clark School District does not contest the entitlement of these tenured teachers to be paid for unused accumulated sick time, since payment has been tendered to each of them. Respondent asserts, however, that Petitioners fail to recognize the distinction between the statutory right to accumulate (and carry over to a new employing district in a situation such as this), sick days and the contractual benefits of payment, at retirement, for those days remaining unused.

Moreover, Respondent contends that because this matter pertains to a contractual benefit and not a statutory right, it was not brought in a timely fashion under the 90-day rule as provided in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), since it was filed more than six months after payment vouchers were received by the Petitioners. Because Petitioners assert the rights are statutory, they assert that the limitations period does not apply.

The limitations regulation requires a Petitioner aggrieved by a determination of a Board of Education (BOE) to file a petition no later then 90 days from the date of receipt of the final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education which is the subject of the requested contested hearing. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). In this case, Petitioners alleges statutory violations to which the 90-day limitation period is inapplicable, pursuant to the determination in Lavin v. Hackensack BOE 90 N.J. 145 (1984) and its progeny which established the principle that absolute statutory rights cannot be denied because of a limitation period.

There is no question that the right to accumulate sick leave is, as noted above, statutory in nature. The right of teachers who are employed by a new district to transfer accumulated unused sick time to a new district when a regional district is dissolved is also protected by statute. It is clear from the facts to which both parties stipulated that neither of these rights has been violated by Respondent and I do so FIND.

I must decide, then, whether the determination of which rate the Petitioners should be paid for the accumulated unused sick time, either under the provisions of the 1995-97 collective negotiations agreement between the Regional District and the Union County Regional Federation of Teachers, Local 3417, AFT, AFL-CIO, which are more generous, or under the provisions of the collective negotiations agreement between Respondent and the Clark Education Association for the 1996-97 school year,[1] is a matter of statutory right or contractual benefit.

The Appellate Division has pointed out, as recently as 1998, that reimbursement for unused sick time is a matter which is not preempted by statute and may be negotiated as a term and condition of employment. Alford v. BOE of Buena Regional School District, 310 N.J. Super. 147, 155 (App. Div. 1998). Furthermore, as Respondent points out, the Commissioner has held that in N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64, providing that the rights of tenure, seniority and pension, for example, are transferable, there is no indication in the statute that its intent was to require the establishment of two levels of compensation and benefits for comparable levels of training and experience. Board of Education of Central Regional High School District v. Board of Education of Lacey Twp., et als; 1980 S.L.D. 553 (Commissioner decision, June 6, 1980). Clearly, to pay these three tenured teachers at a more generous rate than other tenured employees at the time of retirement would result in two levels of compensation for similarly situated employees. Finally, the very fact that there is a choice between provisions in two contracts is a clear indication that the nature of the issue to be determined is contractual.

[1] During 1997-98 Petitioners were members of the Clark Federation of School Employees, Local 3417 AFT, AFL-CIO, the successor to the Clark Education Association. The 1996-97 collective negotiations agreement remained in full force and effect until a new agreement was reached. (See Factual Findings #10).

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the matter at issue here is contractual in nature; I further CONCLUDE, therefore, that the 90-day limitation period does apply in this case.

The 90-day limitations period begins to run when the aggrieved individual has adequate notice, which has been defined as that notice which is sufficient to inform the person affected of something that he/she has the right to know and the other party has a duty to communicate. Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572 (1992).

The facts are clear. On September 21, 1998, the Board sent a payment voucher to each of the Petitioners. The voucher indicated the number of unused accumulated sick leave and the sum due each Petitioner. I FIND that, upon receipt of the vouchers, Petitioners adequate notice of the District's action.

I CONCLUDE, based on the fact that the voucher contained all pertinent information regarding payment for accumulated sick time, i.e., that adequate notice had been provided, that the receipt of the vouchers by Petitioners was the event which triggered the 90-day limitation rule.

Petitioners also assert that the dissolution of the Regional District and the subsequent election of a new collective bargaining unit as well as collective bargaining negotiations, resulted in such confusion as to warrant a relaxation of the 90-day limitation period. It has been held that the 90-day rule will only be relaxed when there is some compelling reason to do so, such as a constitutional or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties. Bogart v. Board of Education of City of East Orange, Essex County, 1983 *S.L.D.*___ (Commissioner decision, March 14, 1983).

I FIND that No constitutional issue or issue of compelling fundamental public interest has been raised by this matter.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the 90-day limitation period should not be relaxed.

The vouchers were sent to Petitioners on September 21, 1998. Assuming arguendo, they were received by October 1, 1998, the 90-day period started to run at that time and the petition should have been filed no later than December 31, 1998. In fact, the petition was not filed until May 24, 1999, almost five months later.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that his petition of appeal is barred by the limitations period as provided in the current regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), which is identical to its predecessor, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.21(c), in effect at the time this matter arose. I further CONCLUDE that this petition should be dismissed in its entirety.

Because I have determined that this petition should be dismissed in its entirety, I decline to address the issues raised by the Petitioners' application for summary decision.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ROBERT NADASKY, PATRICIA WALDVOGEL AND JAMES DOUGHERTY,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CLARK, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were timely filed pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioners' exceptions aver that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in determining that the matter should be dismissed because it was untimely filed as provided by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). In support of their position, petitioners reiterate their argument that the 90-day limitation period for filing a petition with the Commissioner is not applicable to the save harmless provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64. Of this, petitioners aver, inter alia, that:

> The legislative purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64 is to save teachers harmless from any loss they may incur as a result of dissolution. The protection afforded by the statute takes the form of preserving rights the teachers accrued. The triggering event for preservation of those rights is the dissolution – a unique circumstance functionally unrelated to the teachers' employment, and like the situation in Lavin, a circumstance unrelated to teacher performance. The statute has the effect of saving rights to which the transferred teacher is already entitled, from forfeiture occasioned by circumstances beyond the teacher's control. The statutory > protection is not occasioned by services rendered or to be rendered for teaching as such. Rather, it was established by the Legislature to protect and preserve rights already accrued and threatened as a result of dissolution. As such, the limitation period is inapplicable. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 3)

Petitioners also argue that there is no evidence that the Clark Board took any action regarding their entitlement and that the only evidence is a voucher submitted to the petitioners. As such, it is petitioners' position that they did not receive timely notice of final Board action so as to invoke the 90-day limitation period. (Id. at 4) Citing Kaprow, supra, petitioners further aver that the failure of the Board to make a final decision, and to provide officially authorized notice, tolls the statute. (Ibid.) Moreover, petitioners contend that Article V of the contractual agreement, submitted as Exhibit B to the briefs of both the Board and petitioners,[1] has a grievance and arbitration clause which afforded aggrieved employees the opportunity to appeal from an administrative decision. Of this, petitioners argue that:

> There is no question that each Petitioner objected in writing to the administrative decisions affecting their rights to pay for unused sick days at the rate and up to the maximum specified in the Regional contract. (See par. 3). Article V sets forth elaborate procedures, which are to be followed after a grievance is submitted. Those procedures contemplate several steps requiring written responses from administrative personnel, and eventually, a written answer form the Board (Step 3. e., page 9). Administrators did not follow the steps, and no official Board action was communicated to Petitioners regarding their grievance. Consequently, there was no final Board action communicated to Petitioners, which had the effect of triggering the limitation period prescribed in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

Lastly, petitioners argue that relaxation of the 90-day limitation period is warranted based on the totality of the circumstances in this matter and because, at the date

[1] It is noted for the record that Exhibit B submitted by both parties does not include the entire contractual agreement, only pages 24-25.

petitioners retired, the terms and conditions of employment affecting them were being negotiated. (Id. at 6-7)

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the findings and legal conclusions of the ALJ that the instant petition was not filed within the 90-day limitation set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). In so holding, the Commissioner finds meritless petitioners' argument that the 90-day time limitation is inapplicable because their claim is a statutory entitlement, unrelated to a teacher's employment or performance, within the intendment of the Court's determination in Lavin, supra. Rather, the Commissioner finds the circumstances in this matter analogous to those in Balwierczak et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Berkley Heights, Union County, decided by the Commissioner December 8, 1999 (No. 407-99), aff'd State Board of Education May 3, 2000, a matter involving former employees of the Union County Regional High School District, who alleged that the Board of Education of Berkeley Heights, the district to which they transferred upon dissolution of the regional district, denied them their rights to the salary guide placement to which they were entitled pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64. The holding in Balwierczak reads in pertinent part:

> The Commissioner concludes that, upon full consideration of the statute and its legislative intendment, it is undeniable that N.J.S.A. 18A: 13-64 was designed to operate, upon the dissolution of a regional district, as a "save harmless" provision to preserve and protect benefits earned by affected individuals by virtue of their service in such regional district. Absent rights and benefits accrued through their prior employment, N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64 does not operate to independently create a benefit for them. As such, petitioners' rights here are clearly distinguishable from the petitioner's right to military service credit in Lavin. They are not entitled to any right or benefit independent from the administration of a school system. Rather, any right or benefit to be afforded petitioners here is wholly predicated upon services they previously rendered as Regional District employees and, therefore, does not fall within the narrow prescriptions delineated in Lavin which might entitle them to a waiver of the mandatory filing timelines.

> Consequently, [the 90-day time limitation] applies here to time bar petitioners' within claims. (Slip Opinion at 24)

The Commissioner also finds meritless petitioners' argument that the 90-day time limit is not applicable in the instant matter because they did not have final action taken by the Board. Numerous decisions concerning the 90-day time limit have been litigated and the Courts have consistently held that the rule is mandatory and that the 90-day period begins to run on the date notice is received of the action taken. See, Kaprow, supra; Riely v. Hunterdon Central High Bd. of Ed., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980); Nissman v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Long Beach Island, Ocean County, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 380 (App. Div. 1994), certif. denied 137 N.J. 315 (1994). As correctly determined by the ALJ in the present matter, "[t]he 90-day limitations period begins to run when the aggrieved individual has adequate notice, which has been defined as that notice which is sufficient to inform the person affected of something that he/she has the right to know and the other party has a duty to communicate. [Kaprow, supra]." (Initial Decision at 10) Moreover, formality of notice is irrelevant where the goals of notice are achieved. See, Kaprow, supra See also Board of Education of the Gloucester County Institute of Technology, Gloucester County, v. Board of Education of the Lenape Regional High School District, Burlington County, decided by the Commissioner December 16, 1999 (No. 416-99), aff'd State Board of Education August 2, 2000, wherein the Commissioner held that formal board of education action and direct notice from the board, as opposed to actions of its designated representatives taken at its behest, are not absolute prerequisites to trigger the 90-day timeline for filing a petition. (Slip Opinion at 11-12)

Upon review of the record herein, the Commissioner finds, as did the ALJ, that because the Clark Board of Education vouchers sent to petitioners contained all pertinent information regarding the payment of accumulative sick leave, i.e., the number of unused accumulated sick days and the amount of money owing and due to each petitioner, the vouchers constituted adequate and sufficient notice to petitioners at the time they received them to trigger the 90-day time limitation for filing a petition.

Moreover, given the factual circumstances in this matter, the Commissioner finds that the petition would be time-barred under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) even if every inference in petitioners' favor were granted to the effect that their written notification of disagreement with the amount for payment of unused sick leave constituted the filing of a grievance under the contractual agreement between the Board and petitioners, which was ignored by the Board and its administrators. Such conclusion is reached because it is well established that the fact that other proceedings may have been initiated elsewhere, such as the filing of a grievance under a collective bargaining agreement or a claim with the Public Employment Relations Commission, does not alter the 90-day time period for filing a petition with the Commissioner. See, Bd. of Education Bernards Tp. v. Bernards Tp. Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311, 326-327, n.4 (1979); Riely, supra 173 N.J. Super. at 113; American Federation of Teachers, Local 3417 v. Board of Education of the Township of Berkeley Heights, decided by the Commissioner November 30, 1998 (No. 530-98).

Further, upon consideration of the parties' arguments regarding relaxation of the 90-day rule, the Commissioner concurs with the Board's position and the ALJ that there is nothing within this matter which justifies relaxation of the filing requirement set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). As stated in Portee v. Newark Bd. of Ed., 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 381 (1994), the 90-day filing requirement has been strictly construed by the Commissioner, the State Board of Education and the Courts and, while the rule gives the Commissioner broad discretion, relaxation is reserved for limited situations wherein a compelling reason can be demonstrated for expanding the limitation period, such as the presence of a substantial constitutional or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties. See also, Kaprow, supra; Nissman, supra; Morris-Union Jointure Commission v. Board of Education of the Borough of South River, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 453 (1992); Markulin & the Neptune Tp. Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Education of the Tp. of Neptune, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 406 (1992). Upon review of the pleadings in this matter, the Commissioner does not find that the factual circumstances presented herein constitute such grounds for relaxation of the 90-day rule. Kaprow, supra; Balwierczak, supra; American Federation of Teachers, supra; Pacio v. Bd. of Ed. of Lakeland Regional High School District, 1989 S.L.D. 2060.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision and herein, the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CLARK, UNION COUNTY,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, July 9, 2001

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Peterpaul, Clark & Corcoran (Luanne M. Peterpaul, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Kenney, Gross, Kovats & Campbell (Michael J. Gross, Esq., of Counsel)

The appellants, retired staff members of the Clark Township Board, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that they should have been reimbursed for unused accumulated sick leave upon their retirement in accordance with the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement that had governed their employment in the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 prior to its dissolution. The Commissioner dismissed the petition, finding that the appellants had failed to file within the 90-day period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

On August 13, 2001, the appellants filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.11(a), the appellants' brief in support of their appeal was due on September 4, 2001, 20 days after they filed their notice of appeal. The appellants, however, failed to file a brief by that date. By letter dated September 7, 2001, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office notified the appellants of their failure to file a brief and informed them that this matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of their failure to perfect the appeal.

The appellants have still failed to file a brief in support of their appeal, a month after the filing deadline. Nor have the appellants offered any explanation for their failure to file or requested an extension of time for such filing. As a result, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.12(a). See Paszamant v. Board of Education of the Borough of Highland Park, decided by the State Board of Education, April 1, 1992, aff'd, Docket #A-4812-91-3 (App. Div. 1993).

I/M/O THE TENURE HEARING OF MARGARET QUADRINI,
NORTH HUNTERDON-VOORHEES
REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT,
HUNTERDON COUNTY,

Beth Ann Stemmler, Esq., for petitioner (Riker, Danzig, Scherer, Hyland & Perretti, attorney)

Stephen E. Klausner, Esq., for respondent (Klausner, Hunter & Rosenberg, attorney)

Record Closed: March 13, 2001 Decided: May 22, 2001

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

The North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District Board of Education filed a charge pursuant to the Tenure Act alleging that respondent Margaret Quadrini was incapacitated from performing the duties of her position as a teacher. The Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund granted Ms. Quadrini a disability pension retroactive to October 1, 2000. Ms. Quadrini has retired effective as of that date. By letter of April 12, 2001, the Board of Education advised the administrative law judge that it was withdrawing its tenure charges without prejudice in view of Ms. Quadrini's retirement effective October 1, 2000. Since the disposition of tenure charges must generally be approved by the Commissioner, and since it appears that based on the information provided, there is no reason that these charges need be pursued and that in fact with respect to the Board's attempt to removed Ms. Quadrini from her position the proceedings are moot, the contested case is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

HUDSON COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the withholding of his salary increment for the 2000-2001 school year.

The ALJ concluded that respondent had demonstrated a reasonable basis for withholding petitioner's increment, and that petitioner had failed to demonstrate that the withholding of his increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9193-00
AGENCY DOCKET NO. 338-10/00

JAMES MCCORMACK,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,

Respondent.

Philip Feintuch, Esq., for petitioner (Feintuch, Porwich and Feintuch, attorneys)

Charlotte Kitler, Esq., General Counsel, for respondent

Record Closed: April 3, 2001 Decided: May 18, 2001

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, a teacher employed by the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City (the District), appeals the District's decision to withhold his salary increment for the 2000-2001 school year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 8, 2000, petitioner filed a Verified Petition. The District filed an Answer to Verified Petition on September 21, 2000. The Department of Education subsequently transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on October 6, 2000, it was filed for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14-1 to -13. On December 12, 2000 and February 26, 2001, a prehearing conference and status conference, respectively, were conducted with counsel. A hearing was held on April 3, 2001. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the attached Appendix.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a consideration of the totality of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the witnesses and evaluate their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Petitioner has been employed as a high school teacher in the Jersey City School District for nineteen years. He holds a teaching certificate in English and has taught English at Lincoln High School in Jersey City for seventeen years.

2. During the 1999-2000 school year, petitioner was assigned to teach at Lincoln High School English 1R, a freshman class comprised of "repeater" students; 10th grade English 2; and Language Arts Literacy 2 (LAL2), a class of 11th and 12th grade students who had taken, but not yet successfully passed, either the reading or writing portion (or both) of the State High School Proficiency Test (HSPT).

3. Petitioner's teaching performance was formally evaluated on five separate occasions during the 1999-2000 school year. Four of these observations were the subject of the hearing. David Clauser, the then principal of Lincoln High School, observed petitioner's English 2 class on November 15, 1999 and LAL2 class on February 23, 2000. Ellen Ruane, the Language Arts Supervisor for the high schools, observed petitioner's English 1R and English 2 classes on October 13, 1999 and January 19, 2000, respectively. Both Mr. Clauser and Ms. Ruane found petitioner's teaching performance to be less than satisfactory during each of the four observations.

4. Petitioner's teaching performance was evaluated in relation to four performance factors or "domains." These factors (and the subcategories that comprise the factors) are listed on the District's Formative Observation Form. The factors include: (1) planning and preparation; (2) students and learning; (3) instruction; and (4) classroom environment. With respect to each of the observations conducted during the 1999-2000 school year, petitioner did not receive a "satisfactory" rating in any domain. His composite average for the year in each domain reflected petitioner's need for improvement (R-6). By letter dated July 1, 2000, petitioner was informed that his employment increment and adjustment increment were being withheld for the school year 2000-2001 because of "less than satisfactory performance" (R-7).

5. In accordance with the practice employed for all teachers, in September 1999, Mr. Clauser (principal), Ms. Ruane (Department Supervisor) and the vice principal in charge of the learning discipline met with petitioner. The purpose of this meeting was to establish clear expectations for teacher performance. Mr. Clauser provided petitioner with a copy of the Teacher Guidelines setting forth the District's expectations (R-1, p. 6).

6. Language Arts Supervisor Ellen Ruane has been employed by the District for twenty-seven years. She conducted two formal observations/evaluations of petitioner's teaching performance on October 13, 1999 and January 19, 2000. The conclusions reached by Ms. Ruane as a result of these observations are memorialized in the Formative Observation Forms prepared by her (R-1, R-3). On both occasions Ms. Ruane rated petitioner's teaching performance as less than satisfactory in all four performance factors.

7. On October 13, 1999, Ms. Ruane observed petitioner's English 1R class from 10:05 a.m. to 11:25 a.m. The class included 19 students. Prior to the observation, Ms. Ruane met with petitioner for a pre-observation conference, during which Ms. Ruane discussed her expectations in connection with the observation/evaluation including the documentation to be furnished. A Pre-Observation Conference Form was signed by Ms. Ruane and petitioner on October 1, 1999 (R-1, p. 5).

8. On October 13, 1999, Ms. Ruane arrived at petitioner's class before the start of instruction. A journal prompt was written on the board and the students were provided an allocated time to respond to the topic in their notebooks. After journal writing and sharing, petitioner directed the students to "participate in a group" and the students grouped themselves into groups of 2 - 4 students. Petitioner provided the students with newspapers. As memorialized, the assignment called for the students to read one or two articles and to tell petitioner "what they have in common in a real general sense" (R-1, p. 2). Every student was not involved in the activity and, at the end of a designated time period, petitioner asked for the groups to share their articles (R-1, p. 2). Petitioner then told the class "There is some confusion about the assignment." "It is my fault." He redirected the students to select two stories for purposes of ascertaining "what is common about the writers' style" and a discussion later ensued. A few questions were then asked about The Interlopers and the final assignment included writing a story (R-1, pp. 2-3).

9. During the October 13, 1999 observation, Ms. Ruane found petitioner needed improvement in planning and preparation. Petitioner had a limited and insufficient amount of materials available for the students. Five newspapers were spread among the students which did not provide each student with the opportunity to read their own newspaper article and become meaningfully engaged in the activity. Petitioner did not clearly communicate the newspaper assignment to the students. The students were unsure of what they were supposed to do, resulting in petitioner having to refocus his lesson midway. With respect to petitioner's lesson plan, the planned activities were not congruent with, or working toward, the stated objectives. Lesson plans in the District must include an objective or "SWAT" (i.e., Students Will be Able To) and a "BY" (i.e., the activities that will be used for students to attain this objective) (see R-1, p. 10). At the end of the lesson, students did not appear to be able to accomplish petitioner's listed SWAT (i.e., "interpret, apply and extend details from short story, write a news story") which Ms. Ruane attributed to petitioner's lack of detailed planning/preparation and unclear objectives that resulted in the lesson causing more confusion than learning. As reported, "[t]he limited materials used did not support the instructional goals or engaged students in meaningful learning" and "[t]he lesson did not have a structure which resulted in meaningful work" (R-1, p. 1).

10. Ms. Ruane rated petitioner in need of improvement in the area of students and learning. Petitioner did not demonstrate a knowledge of various approaches to learning during the observed lesson on October 13, 1999. His marking book reflected a limited amount of assessment pieces and limited approaches to assessment. As of October 13, 1999, there were approximately four marks in petitioner's marking book. A number of students did not have any marks next to their names. The students' folders indicated that petitioner was utilizing selection tests from the resource materials. Other kinds of assessments that could have been used include project based assessments, group projects or additional writing pieces on the part of the students. Pursuant to a District directive that was in effect during the 1999-2000 school year, teachers are required to use a holistic scoring rubric when grading papers. This type of assessment is used in connection with the HSPT and the upcoming High School Proficiency Assessment (HSPA). Teachers are encouraged to use this method of assessment so that students become comfortable with the assessment in preparation for the State tests. Teachers are also encouraged to provide sufficient comments on a student's work to enable the student to revise, edit and rewrite their work based on the teacher's comments and be judged again according to the rubric. Although petitioner assigned holistic grades, the students' work did not include any comments. The students' journals further revealed that not all students were responding to the daily journal prompt and the journals contained no written comments by petitioner.

11. During her October 13, 1999 observation, Ms. Ruane found petitioner needed to improve in the area of instruction. As indicated above, petitioner did not clearly and accurately communicate the lesson's objectives to the students which caused students to be unsure of the assignment. Students were unable to be engaged in the activity because of the insufficient amount of materials. As indicated in Ms. Ruane's report, petitioner did not employ effective questioning and discussion techniques and discussion was not generated from the students because of the uncertainty regarding the assignment (R-1, p. 3).

12. Petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory in the area of classroom environment during the lesson observed by Ms. Ruane on October 13, 1999. Petitioner did not address inappropriate behaviors exhibited by students during the class. Certain students used profane language (as described in Ms. Ruane's report). As memorialized, petitioner did not appear to have much control over the students and, as a result, the students showed a limited amount of respect to him, including one student stating to petitioner "Shut up. I'm not talking to you" (R-1, p. 3). Throughout the lesson, students engaged in off-task conversations, two students were playing with dice and at different times petitioner asked for students to respond and they ignored his request (R-1, pp. 3-4). The expectation for student learning was not evident during Ms. Ruane's observation based on the lack of materials, the lack of preparation and the lack of engagement by the students which petitioner did not address. The classroom space was not effectively utilized (R-1, p. 4). Students were seated in a random, scattered fashion around the room, with most students clustered in the back and extreme right, which Ms. Ruane believed contributed to the lesson not being successful. In her report, Ms. Ruane noted that petitioner contributed to most students investing little or no time in the activities "by maintaining an environment that conveyed minimal expectations for student achievement" (R-1, p. 3). As indicated by Ms. Ruane, petitioner did not circulate the room to observe whether students were engaging in the journal writing activity; the monitoring of student behavior was unsatisfactory; it did not appear that petitioner established any standards of conduct; and the District's Code of Conduct was neither adhered to by the students nor reinforced by petitioner (R-1, p. 3).

13. Ms. Ruane held a post-observation conference with petitioner on October 27, 1999. The meeting was cordial in nature and both Ms. Ruane and petitioner signed the Formative Observation Form relating to the October 13, 1999 observation (R-1). Ms. Ruane reviewed her evaluation and concerns and provided petitioner with materials to assist him in journal writing and controlling off-task behaviors.

14. Ms. Ruane conducted a second formal evaluation of petitioner's teaching performance on January 19, 2000. She observed petitioner's 10th grade English 2 class from 1:40 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. The class included 20 students. Prior to this observation, Ms. Ruane met with petitioner for a pre-observation conference, during which Ms. Ruane again detailed her expectations. Ms. Ruane and petitioner signed a Pre-Observation Conference Form on January 13, 2000 (R-3, p. 4).

15. The results of Ms. Ruane's second evaluation on January 19, 2000 reveal that petitioner's performance had decreased in certain areas from her first observation on October 13, 1999. Petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory in three of the four performance areas (i.e., planning and preparation, instruction, classroom environment) and continued to be in need of improvement in the area of students and learning. The student activities during the January 19, 2000 observation included viewing "A Separate Peace," taking a timed test, returning to the viewing of the film and working in pairs to compare notes regarding the film needed to complete information on the sheets provided by petitioner (R-3, p. 1).

16. In the area of planning and preparation, Ms. Ruane rated petitioner's performance on January 19, 2000 as unsatisfactory. As noted in her report, petitioner's planbook "did not incorporate/document the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards for Language Arts Literacy in his planning" (R-3, p. 1). Petitioner also did not provide the students with specific guidelines as to the information that they should retrieve from viewing the film. There was a lack of organization as to what the students should be focused on for purposes of the later discussion. Although petitioner had previously provided the students with sheets of papers on which to take notes (R-3, pp. 8-10), this information did not provide detailed direction concerning the specific areas that the students should be looking for during the viewing. Petitioner did not reiterate or reinforce any directions to the extent they had been given the previous day. He did not circulate throughout the room during the viewing of the movie to ensure that the students were in fact taking notes. Some of the students did not "opt" to view the movie. Petitioner's lesson plan lacked specificity in that the objective (i.e., SWAT) that petitioner had hoped the students would accomplish as a result of watching the film (i.e., the BY) did not occur because of the lack of clear direction.

17. Ms. Ruane found petitioner needed improvement in the area of students and learning. As an English 2 class, the class was engaged in a HSPA plan. The student folders did not include any essays toward, among other things, preparing for the State test. Petitioner's comments on the students' work continued to be "very limiting." Many of the students' papers were scored with a numerical grade (versus a holistic scoring rubric) and contained no comments. The students' work did not reveal that they were given the opportunity to rethink or rewrite their responses. Petitioner continued to demonstrate a lack of using varied approaches to learning based on the absence of projects or presentations evident from a review of the student folders.

18. Petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory in the area of instruction and in need of "immediate attention" (R-3, p. 2) during the January 19, 2000 observation.

Petitioner's implementation of Ms. Ruane's earlier suggestions (as reflected in the Formative Observation Form for the October 13, 1999 observation) was not apparent. As indicated above, petitioner did not specify the type of notes that the students should take during the viewing of the film. In directing students to compare notes in pairs, petitioner assumed the students had taken correct notes and were sharing accurate information. Because some students did not listen to the movie, they were unable to engage in the later discussion. Petitioner failed to set expectations for the students and address inappropriate behavior. Although petitioner communicated the lesson clearly and accurately in terms of presentation (i.e., spoke articulately and used correct grammar), he did not employ effective questioning techniques which resulted in a lack of student engagement. As memorialized, many students "demonstrated a lack of engagement" and "[t]his lack of engagement resulted in inappropriate behavior" (R-3, p. 2). In addition, "very little conversation occurred" between petitioner and his students and the only feedback given was when he told one student "I am anxious to hear what you have to say" (R-3, p. 2).

19. Similar to the conclusion reached during Ms. Ruane's October 13, 1999 observation, petitioner continued to demonstrate unsatisfactory performance in the area of classroom environment. As memorialized, petitioner "has not created a classroom environment conducive to learning." He did "not appear to have established a rapport with his students" but "matter-of-factly assigns the work to be accomplished with little enthusiasm and/or interaction with his students" (R-3, p. 3). Petitioner did not exhibit high expectations for student learning and student behavior during the observation and there was a minimal "buy-in" by the students in the class (R-3, p. 3). Petitioner did not reinforce his expectations of students and did not address their inappropriate behaviors. These behaviors included students with their heads on the desks, students facing away from the television, students engaged in off-task conversation and a student sitting next to Ms. Ruane listening to headphones with her head on the desk. Although petitioner "told the class that they should be watching the video and taking notes, he did not circulate around the room" to ensure that "the students were meaningfully engaged or to address inappropriate behavior" (R-3, p. 3). Most of the students were gathered around the front, back and both sides of the room. Petitioner could have more effectively utilized the classroom space (i.e., rearranged the desks so students were not sitting in small groups around the room) which may have improved student behavior.

20. Ms. Ruane held a post-observation conference with petitioner on February 8, 2000. The conference was again cordial in nature and Ms. Ruane and petitioner signed the Formative Observation Form (R-3). Ms. Ruane inquired whether she could assist petitioner in any way based on her recommendations. Petitioner did not request any additional help during the conference or at any other time during the school year.

21. David Clauser, the then Principal of Lincoln High School, evaluated petitioner's teaching performance on two occasions during the 1999-2000 school year. Mr. Clauser served as the Lincoln High School Principal from August 1998 until August 2000.

22. On November 15, 1999, Mr. Clauser observed petitioner's 10th grade English 2 class from 2:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. Approximately one week before the observation, Mr. Clauser met with petitioner for a pre-observation conference. During the November 15, 1999 observation, the student activities included journal entries, reading and discussing an Emily Dickinson poem, certain grammar work and students beginning to compose an autobiography (R-2, p. 1).

23. Petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory in the area of planning and preparation during Mr. Clauser's November 15, 1999 observation. As memorialized, Mr. Clauser found that, although petitioner "is clearly knowledgeable in the subject," "the lesson plan, as it was designed and implemented failed to adequately utilize this knowledge" (R-2, p. 1). Petitioner's SWAT was too broad and lacked clarity and definition. The observed activities were not strongly connected to the SWAT. Petitioner did not explain to the students that the posted SWAT was their objective for the day and how the class would reach it. Rather, after the SWAT was placed on the board, the lesson began. While petitioner made efforts to keep the students occupied and busy, Mr. Clauser noted the distinction between busy students and students busy with learning and instruction. Petitioner utilized approximately seven learning activities and strategies. His lesson moved from activity to activity in an attempt to make it appear as though the students were kept actively engaged. However, the majority of the students did not appear to be engaged in each of the learning activities and this lack of engagement was not addressed by petitioner. The lesson presented was not largely received by most of the students. Some students had their heads down and others were inattentive or engaged in conversations.

24. In the area of students and learning, Mr. Clauser found petitioner's performance on November 15, 1999 in need of improvement. It was not apparent from the observation that the students' learning characteristics were addressed by the lesson. Petitioner's grade book did not demonstrate a clear link between lesson planning, assessment and students achieving identified learning objectives. Petitioner should have made an assessment of the students' performance and progress as to the items contained in the SWAT to enable him to know whether the lesson was successfully leading students to the SWAT and to identify those students who could move on to new material the following day versus those who required that deficiencies be addressed. Petitioner's grade book did not clearly reveal daily assessments and tests. Mr. Clauser initially had difficulty making sense of the grade book due to the absence of a legend which petitioner offered at the post-observation conference. Even with the legend, petitioner's grade book included deficiencies such as the lack of continuity of grades for all students (e.g., some student had many grades, others had no grades).

25. In connection with the November 15, 1999 observation, Mr. Clauser rated petitioner's performance unsatisfactory in the area of instruction. Although petitioner was an effective communicator in providing directions (i.e., speaks clearly, easily understood), petitioner's directives were not supported by actions and explanations to keep the students on task toward successfully completing each of the learning activities. As student unrest grew in each activity, petitioner's solution was not to address this unrest or to achieve a closure to each of the learning activities but to move on to the next activity. As memorialized, Mr. Clauser found petitioner unsatisfactory in employing effective questioning and discussion techniques, engaging students in learning, providing feedback to students and demonstrating flexibility and responsiveness, and noted deficiencies in petitioner's classroom management skills and actions toward establishing a classroom environment for learning (R-2, p. 2).

26. In the area of classroom environment, petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory on November 15, 1999. As indicated in Mr. Clauser's report, clear expectations for student and teacher conduct had not been established and boundaries for appropriate and unacceptable behavior were not defined (R-2, p. 3). Students had conversations, put their heads down and choose not to become involved in the learning process. As memorialized, "the spirit of the classroom is founded on the teacher requiring little from the students and students providing little attention to the tasks assigned." "A culture for learning does not exist." "Essential but elemental classroom procedures to create an orderly and effective environment have not been established" and "[w]hen student behavior had deteriorated beyond off task the solution was to introduce a new activity" (R-2, p. 3).

27. On December 3, 1999, Mr. Clauser had a post-observation conference with petitioner. During the conference they discussed petitioner's grade book legend. Mr. Clauser advised petitioner that he had been told of petitioner's reputation for being more than a competent teacher and that the observation in the classroom did not evidence this reputation. He informed petitioner of the need to raise the level of his efforts and offered assistance. Petitioner responded that he understood, there was no need for any involvement by Mr. Clauser and signed the Formative Observation Form (R-2).

28. Mr. Clauser evaluated petitioner's teaching performance for a second time on February 23, 2000. Prior to the observation, Mr. Clauser had a pre-observation conference with petitioner. Mr. Clauser observed petitioner's 11th and 12th grade LAL2 class from 8:50 a.m. to 9:50 a.m. Although Mr. Clauser found petitioner's performance had improved since his first observation, it continued to be less than satisfactory.

29. In the area of planning and preparation, Mr. Clauser rated petitioner's performance in need of improvement. While petitioner's lesson had improved, it still was not well planned. All of the activities during the class were not connected to the posted SWAT. As memorialized, while the "lesson plan crafted was sound," a "missing element seemed to be student motivation and interest. An urgency for learning and instruction was not apparent nor observed" (R-4, p. 1). Certain "students refused to share work, had not completed the work, or were asleep, not responding to the teacher's question. One student criticized the teacher's efforts" (R-4, p. 1).

30. Mr. Clauser also found petitioner's performance in need of improvement in the area of students and learning. Approximately one-third or more of the students appeared to lack any excitement or interest in the lesson. A daily pattern of an assessment of students performance and progress was lacking. Petitioner's grade/plan book lacked daily or regular assessments of student achievement of the daily SWATs. The grade book contained only three assessments in an approximate twelve day period. The Teacher Guidelines indicate that daily homework should be listed in the grade book which can be used to assess student attainment of lesson goals; the lesson plan should include how student success for reaching the SWAT will be measured; and weekly assessment/tests should be documented in the lesson plan/grade book (R-2, p. 5).

31. In the area of instruction, Mr. Clauser rated petitioner's performance on February 23, 2000 in need of improvement. Although petitioner was a satisfactory communicator, improvement continued to be needed in the areas of employing effective questioning and discussion techniques, engaging students in learning, providing feedback to students and demonstrating flexibility and responsiveness. As memorialized, "[t]he dynamic in the class observed reflected" petitioner "attempting to engage students who were reluctant to participate in any of the activities" and petitioner "had to lead instruction as students did not willingly volunteer nor participate" (R-4, p. 2). While petitioner was willing to lead the instruction, his effort should have been directed toward cultivating a willingness on the part of the students to become engaged in the learning. Petitioner did not address nor establish classroom leadership. The "[c]lass ended when students stated, 'Your time is up buddy'" (R-4, p. 2). His questioning and discussion technique came from the Coach Book. Although the questions were good, petitioner's timing and posing of the questions were not done in a manner that supported student engagement.

32. Mr. Clauser also found petitioner needed improvement in the area of classroom environment. The students felt free to show disrespectful comments to petitioner and questionable student behavior was not corrected. The students did not evidence an expectation that the class was a learning environment. Petitioner could have improved the environment by establishing expectations that clearly outline acceptable and unacceptable behavior (e.g., classroom rules posted on the board).

33. On March 3, 2000, Mr. Clauser had a post-observation conference with petitioner (R-3). Mr. Clauser noted the observed improvement in petitioner's performance from his first observation in November 1999 during which petitioner had received unsatisfactory ratings in three of the four performance areas.

34. In a memorandum dated March 27, 2000 (R-5), Mr. Clauser recommended to Michael Donohue, the Acting Executive Director of the Department of Human Resources, that petitioner's increment be withheld. This recommendation was based on Mr. Clauser's review of petitioner's five evaluations which indicated an overall rating of "needs improvement" in each of the four domains.

35. Mr. Clauser prepared a Summative Evaluation and Professional Improvement Plan (PIP) dated June 6, 2000 (R-6). Since petitioner was on sabbatical in 1998-1999, Mr. Clauser did not complete the section regarding whether petitioner had demonstrated progress in meeting the previous year's PIP. In the PIP, Mr. Clauser put an "X" next to "yes" in the area "recommended for increment." He did not take action, via a communication with the Department of Human Resources, to change his earlier recommendation on R-5 that petitioner's increment be withheld. Mr. Clauser met with petitioner and they both signed the forms on June 21, 2000. The Summative Evaluation form depicts petitioner's composite rating of "needs improvement" in each of the four performance factors evaluated during the observations. Mr. Clauser further rated petitioner's professional attitude and manner in need of improvement since, despite his ability and experience to deliver what was expected, petitioner's performance did not meet these expectations during the 1999-2000 school year.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold a teacher's salary increment "for inefficiency or other good cause." The purpose of this statute is "to reward only those who have contributed to the educational process thereby encouraging high standards of performance." Bernards Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Twp. Ed. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311, 321 (1979). In other words, an increment is not a statutory right but "a reward for meritorious service to the school district." North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587, 593, 594 (1984). See Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518 (1992). Toward that end, N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 was intended to vest local school boards "with the ability to withhold increments from teachers who had not performed well during the previous year." Id. at 526. A decision to withhold an increment is a matter of essential managerial prerogative that the Legislature has delegated to the local school board. Bernards Twp. Bd. of Educ., supra, 79 N.J. at 321.

A teacher may appeal from the local board's action to the Commissioner of Education who shall either affirm the action or direct that the increment be paid. N.J.S.A. 18:29-14. In connection with this review, the Commissioner's role is not to substitute his judgment for that of the local board which made the evaluation. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 296 (App. Div. 1960). Rather, the scope of review on appeal is whether the local board had a reasonable basis for its conclusion. Ibid. Thus, the inquiries presented are limited to determining (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed, and (2) whether it was unreasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind their expertise. Id. at 296-297. A local board's exercise of its discretionary powers "may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Id. at 294. And, the petitioner bears the burden of proving the unreasonableness of the local board's determination. Id. at 297.

Based upon the aforesaid facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold petitioner's salary increment should not be overturned.

The crux of petitioner's position does not challenge the facts upon which the evaluators based their conclusions. Petitioner further does not allege that either Ms. Ruane or Mr. Clauser harbored any animosity or bias against him. Rather, the essential thrust of petitioner's argument focuses on a claimed lack of a district-wide standard vis-à-vis when an increment will or will not be given, petitioner's improvement from an "unsatisfactory" to a "needs improvement" rating and petitioner's asserted recollection of being told by Mr. Clauser on June 21, 2000 that an increment would be forthcoming. Succinctly stated, I have considered petitioner's contentions and conclude that the evidence does not support relief in petitioner's favor.

The evidence demonstrates that the District employed a reasonable evaluation procedure in assessing petitioner's performance. There are district-wide performance criteria that was utilized by the evaluators. The evaluators met with petitioner before each observation and the form executed by petitioner at that time unambiguously delineates the performance factors that would be assessed. In connection with his March 27, 2000 recommendation that petitioner's increment be withheld, Mr. Clauser considered the cumulative assessment of petitioner's performance in the various factors resulting from the five formal evaluations. In other words, this procedure took into account that a teacher's performance on a given day may not necessarily be indicative of his/her teaching ability and a teacher's strengths and weaknesses may vary in different areas.

Although, petitioner's performance had improved as of the February 2000 observation, it continued to be less than satisfactory in the District's important measures of performance: planning and preparation, students and learning, instruction and classroom environment. Of significance, petitioner was evaluated by two independent and experienced evaluators who observed and assessed his teaching performance on two occasions each. The evaluators formally observed petitioner for a sufficient duration of time to enable them to make informed and reasonable decisions. The two qualified evaluators presented detailed and cogent reasons to support the conclusions reached by them, which were essentially undisputed by petitioner and, as detailed above and in their respective Formative Observation Forms, I accept as FACT. The record amply supports the conclusion that petitioner's teaching performance during each of the formal observations/evaluations was either unsatisfactory or in need of improvement in all performance areas. Notwithstanding the assistance and recommendations offered to petitioner, his shortcomings never progressed to a level during the school year that warranted a "satisfactory" rating in any performance factor. Some of the noted deficiencies continued to exist even though they had been previously brought to petitioner's attention and petitioner did not follow the District's guidelines and directives in certain areas. Simply put, petitioner was advised of what was expected of him, properly evaluated and his performance was less than satisfactory during each of the formal evaluations. The nature of the classes assigned to petitioner does not serve to mitigate his performance deficiencies. As evident from the record, behavioral issues interfering with the educational environment and the lack of student engagement were, at least in part, attributable to the apparent absence of clear rules in the classroom coupled with petitioner's failure to take measures that addressed the inappropriate behavior and ensured that students were engaged in the learning activities. And, whether the students in petitioner's class were behaviorally challenging has no direct bearing on other areas of petitioner's performance that were found to be less than satisfactory (e.g., lesson plan/grade book, planning issues, etc.).

In short, petitioner has failed to prove that it was unreasonable for the qualified evaluators to conclude that petitioner performed less than satisfactory during the 1999-2000 school year and, based on those evaluations, for the District to determine that petitioner's increment should be withheld. The totality of the evidence establishes a reasonable basis for the District's determination that petitioner did not deserve a reward for meritorious service. Plainly, it is reasonable for the District to require satisfactory reports by those charged with supervisory responsibility as a prerequisite to rewarding a teacher for his/her performance. Here, despite some improvement, petitioner's performance continued to be less than satisfactory throughout the school year in each of the four evaluation factors.

Finally, I do not find meaningful that petitioner's PIP depicts that he was recommended for an increment and do not place substantial weight on petitioner's testimony regarding Mr. Clauser's claimed advice that an increment would be forthcoming. Although Mr. Clauser was unable to explain the notation on the PIP, Mr. Clauser clearly indicated that he did not take action in furtherance of changing his earlier recommendation to Human Resources that petitioner's increment be denied. While petitioner testified as to the lack of advice during the school year that his increment was in "danger," the undisputed evidence reveals that petitioner was notified of his less than satisfactory performance after each of the observation reviews and the Summative Evaluation signed by petitioner at his annual review reiterated his need for improvement in every performance factor. Additionally, petitioner was advised shortly after the June 21, 2000 review that his employment increment and adjustment increments were being withheld. Suffice it to say, under the circumstances it cannot be said that petitioner had a reasonable foundation to expect that he would be receiving an increment and there can be no claim of detrimental reliance.

Based upon a careful review of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that the District had a reasonable basis to withhold petitioner's employment and adjustment increments for less than satisfactory performance during the 1999-2000 school year. I further CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to meet his burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's decision to withhold his increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the District's action should not be disturbed.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the determination of the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City to withhold petitioner's increment for the school year of 2000-2001 for less than satisfactory performance is AFFIRMED, the relief requested by petitioner is DENIED and petitioner's petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." 8. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.8, the Board has submitted an application for the issuance of a conditional world language certificate to Mr. Velazquez permitting him to teach Spanish during the 2001-02 school year and is currently awaiting issuance of said conditional certification. A copy of the application and supporting documentation is attached as Exhibit A.

9. The Board agrees that it will not appoint to a teaching position, or utilize the services of, Federico Velazquez during the 2001-02 school year, or any subsequent school year, unless and until it ensures that he holds a valid Conditional World Language Certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.8.

10. At a meeting held on September 21, 1999, the Board also approved the appointment of Yewanda (Norma) Kelley-Johnson to provide dance instruction to students assigned to Wildwood, Briarcliff and Lake Drive Schools during the 1999-2000 school year.

11. Yewanda (Norma) Kelley-Johnson was also employed by the Board to provide dance instruction to students in its public schools during the 2000-01 school year. Her service in the district for this current school year was completed by the end of April 2001.

12. Ms. Kelley-Johnson does not hold a standard instructional certificate issued by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners. Thus, during these past two (2) school years, the Board has required that regular physical education teachers, who hold valid instructional certificates with physical education endorsements, remain in the classroom while Ms. Kelley-Johnson delivers dance instruction to their students.

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

The Commissioner by Order dated November 27, 2000 remanded this matter back to the Office of Administrative Law. The Commissioner ordered the matter be held in abeyance pending review of the terms of the settlement agreement by the Division of Pensions.

The parties have resubmitted the settlement agreement in this matter which is attached and fully incorporated herein. The contingency regarding the Division of Pensions incorporated in the previous settlement agreement that caused the Commissioner to remand the contested case has been eliminated. The settlement now permits the Commissioner's approval to be deemed a final decision.

I have reviewed the record and terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law. It is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

v
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF NEW HANOVER TOWNSHIP IN BURLINGTON COUNTY, LISA Mulligan, and THERAPEUTIC OUTREACH COMPANY OR CORPORATION,	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT
Respondent.

The parties to the within matter hereby agree to settle and resolve the claims asserted by petitioner in the Petition of Appeal with the above docket number based upon the following terms:

1. The parties recognize that petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education which asserts that the termination of her employment at the end of the 1995-96 school year, and the retention, employment, or use of other persons or employees or of respondent Lisa Mulligan and/or of Therapeutic Outreach Corporation to provide child study team services violated her tenure, seniority, and other legal rights.

2. The parties recognize that this agreement resolves petitioner's claim for a remedy for the alleged violation of her rights for the 1996-97school year, and that the acceptance and implementation of all of the terms of this agreement shall result in the resolution of petitioner's claims that respondent violated petitioner's tenure, seniority, or other legal rights for the 1996-97 school year.

3. The parties recognize that the implementation and validity of this agreement is contingent upon the approval of this agreement in its entirety by the Commissioner of Education, and upon the effectuation of all of its terms, and that if the Commissioner of Education rejects this agreement or any term thereof, the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case for further proceedings.

4. The parties recognize that petitioner has alleged that respondent acted unlawfully and violated her legal rights when it contracted with a private vendor for the provision of child study team services for the 1996-97 school year. The parties further recognize that respondent asserts that it relied upon a waiver granted by the Commissioner of Education, that petitioner appealed the validity of said waiver to the State Board of Education, and that by decision dated May 3, 2000, the State Board held that the Commissioner of Education lacked the authority to grant such a waiver, that such waiver was invalid, and that the services previously provided by petitioner could not be provided by subcontract with a private party or vendor.

5. As a result, the parties recognize that but for respondent board's contracting to provide such salary with Lisa Mulligan and/or Therapeutic Outreach Company or Corporation, petitioner would have been retained in her employment as a school psychologist by respondent for the 1996-97 school year.

6. The parties recognize that for said school year, if petitioner was retained by respondent, petitioner would have earned approximately $10,000.00 in salary from respondent.

7. Petitioner has provided respondent with tax returns covering the 1996-97 school year, together with pay records from her other employer, the Florence Township Board of Education, and the parties have reached agreement as to petitioner's mitigation efforts and the amount due petitioner as backpay for the 1996-97 school year.

8. Respondent agrees to pay petitioner the lump sum of $10,000.00, which is essentially equivalent to petitioner's backpay entitlement after consideration of mitigation. The parties agree that from that $10,000.00 payment, no deductions shall be made, and that petitioner shall be responsible for any legally required deductions and shall execute an IRS form 1099 and any other appropriate form to assure that she will be responsible for payment of all taxes.

9. The parties agree that the payments required by this agreement shall be made within 30 days of the Commissioner of Education's approval of this agreement.

10. The parties acknowledge that because respondent contracted with the Burlington County Educational Services Unit for child study team services for the school years following the 1996-97 school year, petitioner has asserted no claim to backpay or other benefits against respondent for any years subsequent to the 1996-97 school year, and agree that petitioner reserves and does not waive her claims against the Burlington County Educational Services Unit which are presently pending before the State Board of Education in the case of Arlene Miller v. Burlington County Educational Services Unit, Agency Docket No.: 9-99.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW , ALJ

This matter is on remand from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) subsequent to an agreed upon settlement to dispose of the issues in controversy and as executed by the parties. The Commissioner observes, among other things, that the terms of the settlement were not appended to the Initial Decision nor were the terms included in the record. The Commissioner also observes that the Order included in the Initial Decision effectuated a term of the proposed settlement agreement prior to the Commissioner's approval, in violation of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The Commissioner, therefore, requires the specific terms of the settlement between the parties in order to permit his full review as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Petitioner, Danelle Connolly, was subject to a reduction in force (RIF) by the Woodbine Board of Education (Board) effective the 1998-99 school year. The Board on May 11, 1997, acted to reduce petitioner's position as a tenured school social worker from a full-time (12 month) employment to a two (2) days per week (10 month) employment position for the 1998-99 school year.

On June 16, 1998, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner wherein she sought, among other things, reappointment and assignment to a full-time (12 month) school social worker position by the Board for the 1998-99 school year; retroactive compensation for all salary; and, seniority and economic benefits lost by the Board's failure to reappoint petitioner to a full-time position, with interest.

A Prehearing Conference was held on January 28, 1999, at which, among other things, the issues to be determined by this administrative tribunal were agreed upon by the parties and hearing dates were established for June 11, 17 and July 1, 1999. Subsequently, Substitution of Attorney was filed by both parties and noted for the record. The scheduled hearing dates were adjourned and, after a series of telephone conferences, ultimately rescheduled for March 2, 2000.

The scheduled hearing did not take place on March 2, 2000. Rather, the parties had been engaged in settlement discussions and negotiations and so advised this tribunal on March 2, 2000. The Board approved of the settlement, which provided, among other things, that the Board remit the amount of $5,000 to petitioner in a lump sum payment.

The parties did not, however, enter into a Stipulation of Settlement or a Consent Order to dispose of the issues in controversy. Rather, based upon petitioner's counsel's representations, this tribunal issued an Initial Decision-Settlement. The Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision and remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law.

This tribunal thereupon contacted the attorneys of record in order to resolve the issues raised by the Commissioner's remand. On March 6, 2001, the parties agreed that copies of the minutes of the Board's meetings would suffice to show that the settlement was approved by the Board.

On May 14, 2001, this tribunal was in receipt of Minutes of the Board of its closed session held on March 2, 2000, which states, in pertinent part, that:

> 4. Mr. Sahli reported to the Board that the case with Mrs.Danelle Connelly was settled today for $5,000. PERC Case in Trenton, N.J.

Subsequently, on June 22, 2000, at a regular meeting of the Board, its Minutes for that meeting reflect the following:

> Mr. Ronald Sahli, Solicitor, informed the Board of the following:
> 1. Danelle Connelly case settled. Court ordered: $5,000. with 30 days to pay. Will be paid from 2000-2001 school budget.

The Board minutes of June 22, 2000, continue to state as follows:

> APPROVAL TO PAY SETTLEMENT: The Board approved the settlement between the Woodbine Board of Education and Danelle Connolly as per the final decision of the Administrative Law Judge. Matter has been settle (sic) as agreed to by the Board of Education pursuant to documents on file with the Board of Education in Business Administrator's office as recommended by Solicitor. Motion by: M. Johnson, Second: J. Tirado. Carried on a roll call vote, all Members present voting yes.

The settlement was effectuated by the parties and the money dispersed without the consent of the Commissioner, in violation of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The Commissioner has consistently admonished boards of education to await his approval of matters duly transmitted to the OAL for determination as contested cases. In the instant matter, neither the Board nor the ALJ heeded the Commissioner's caution.

The record shows that there is no longer an issued in controversy nor a justiciable question to be resolved. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the matter be considered closed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

This matter having been brought before the Commissioner of Education upon the above-captioned Petition of Appeal, Petitioner and Respondent hereby agree to amicably resolve the dispute between them, now pending before this court, subject to the terms and conditions set forth below:

1. For purposes of this agreement, Respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Mountain Lakes shall hereinafter be referred to as the Board, and Petitioner Mountain Lakes Education Association shall hereinafter be referred to as the Association.

2. The Association is the majority representative, pursuant to N.J.S.A.

34:13A-1 et. seq., of all certified non-administrative staff employed by the Board, including but not limited to teachers of foreign languages and teachers of physical education and the arts.

3. The Board is responsible for the administration and operation of the public schools in the Borough of Mountain Lakes and is required to comply with all of the provisions of Title 18A of the revised statutes, and to not exceed its authority thereunder.

4. The Association filed the Petition of Appeal in this matter with the Commissioner of Education in response to the Board's employment of non-certified individuals to provide foreign language and dance instruction in the Board's elementary schools.

5. More specifically, on or about September 8, 1999, the Board executed a written agreement with Berlitz Jr. to provide Spanish instruction during the 1999-2000 school year to elementary students in the Mountain Lakes School District. That Spanish instruction was provided by Federico A. Velazquez, an employee of Berlitz Jr.

6. Federico A. Velazquez continues to provide Spanish instruction during the 2000-01 school year to elementary students in the Mountain Lakes School District via an agreement between the Board and Berlitz Jr.

7. Federico A. Velazquez does not hold a standard instructional certificate issued by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners. Thus, during these past two (2) school years the Board has required that the regular classroom teachers, who hold valid instructional certificates with elementary endorsements, remain in the classroom while Mr. Velazquez delivers Spanish instruction to their students.

8. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.8, the Board has submitted an application for the issuance of a conditional world language certificate to Mr. Velazquez permitting him to teach Spanish during the 2001-02 school year and is currently awaiting issuance of said conditional certification. A copy of the application and supporting documentation is attached as Exhibit A.

9. The Board agrees that it will not appoint to a teaching position, or utilize the services of, Federico Velazquez during the 2001-02 school year, or any subsequent school year, unless and until it ensures that he holds a valid Conditional World Language Certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.8.

10. At a meeting held on September 21, 1999, the Board also approved the appointment of Yewanda (Norma) Kelley-Johnson to provide dance instruction to students assigned to Wildwood, Briarcliff and Lake Drive Schools during the 1999-2000 school year.

11. Yewanda (Norma) Kelley-Johnson was also employed by the Board to provide dance instruction to students in its public schools during the 2000-01 school year. Her service in the district for this current school year was completed by the end of April 2001.

12. Ms. Kelley-Johnson does not hold a standard instructional certificate issued by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners. Thus, during these past two (2) school years, the Board has required that regular physical education teachers, who hold valid instructional certificates with physical education endorsements, remain in the classroom while Ms. Kelley-Johnson delivers dance instruction to their students.

13. Yewanda (Norma) Kelley- Johnson was issued a Certificate of Eligibility as a Teacher of Vocational Arts/Dance by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners in October 2000, a copy of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit B. The Certificate of Eligibility merely renders her eligible to seek positions of employment requiring a Provisional Certificate in the area of vocational arts/dance instruction and qualifies her to obtain a Provisional Certificate in the event she is employed by a district which agrees to provide a state approved district training program, with required job support, performance evaluation and professional coursework pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.1, et seq.

14. The Board agrees that it will not appoint to a teaching position, or utilize the services of, Ms. Kelley-Johnson during the 2001-02 school year, or any subsequent school year, unless and until it ensures that she obtains a Provisional Certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.1 and it enrolls her in a state-approved district training program pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.3.

15. The Association shall withdraw the Petition of Appeal presently pending before the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education, under the following Docket Numbers: Agency Ref. No. 386-12/99, and EDUOT 01579-00N.

16. The parties recognize and agree that this stipulation of settlement must be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and that should the Commissioner of Education reject any provision of this stipulation of settlement, all provisions therein shall be null, void and of no effect, and that in such event, the Petition of Appeal shall be immediately reinstated and the parties shall retain all legal rights which they had prior

Dear Dr. Rovtar,

This is in reference to the certification status of Federico Velazquez who is employed in the Mountain Lakes Wildwood Elementary School as a teacher of Spanish. During the 1998-1999 school year, we initiated an elementary foreign language program using the services of Berlitz Junior. We selected Berlitz with the purpose of both using their excellent curriculum, and to engage a teacher who was a Berlitz trained native speaker.

Federico was selected both by the Berlitz staff and our administration as the teacher with the best qualifications. After the first year during which he was employed by Berlitz, we hired him as a regular teacher based on the excellent performance we witnessed during the first year. This is to verify that he was the best candidate available at the time we made the hire.

Thank you for assisting us to continue Federico as a certificated teacher.

Cordially,

John Sakala

: COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

: DECISION

SYNOPSIS

High school student, M.C., who had a record of prior school suspensions for offenses, slashed another student's coat with a box-cutter razor. Police verified the existence of weapons in M.C.'s possession and charged him as a juvenile with aggravated assault. M.C. pled guilty and was placed on probation. The Board suspended M.C. and eventually expelled him from the Bergenfield public school system. Petitioning parents sought an order directing respondents to assess M.C.'s alternative education needs and directing respondents to provide an alternative education program by the beginning of the 2000-2001 academic year. On application for emergent relief, the Commissioner directed the Board to immediately place M.C. on a program of home instruction until this matter was fully litigated and decided.

Following four days of hearing, the ALJ concluded, inter alia, that 1) petitioners' appeal for a Declaratory Ruling that expulsion of M.C. violated M.C.'s constitutional right to a thorough and efficient education was denied for lack of jurisdiction; 2) petitioners' appeal for a Declaratory Ruling that denial of an alternative education program for M.C. violated M.C.'s constitutional right to a thorough and efficient education was denied for lack of jurisdiction; 3) the District's expulsion of M.C. was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable; 4) the District's denial of an alternative education program for M.C. was not arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable; 5) petitioners' appeal for a Declaratory Ruling that expulsion of M.C. violated his constitutional right to equal protection was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction; 6) petitioners' appeal for an order setting aside the expulsion and requiring the Board to immediately assess M.C.'s alternative education needs and to identify an appropriate alternative education program that meets the Core Curriculum Content Standards was denied; 7) all evidence of M.C.'s expulsion be expunged from his school records; and that 8) the District should conduct an evaluation of M.C. consistent with the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), but that following evaluation, if it is determined that M.C. was not a child with a disability, the expulsion was not arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ, with modification. The Commissioner concurred that the constitutional question of expulsion without provision of (post-expulsion) alternative education is appropriately addressed by the Courts. The Commissioner also concurred that the record before him did not support a conclusion that the Board acted unreasonably by failing to provide M.C. with an alternative education program in lieu of expulsion. However, the ALJ's recommended Orders with respect to evaluation of M.C. to determine his eligibility for special education services were set aside for lack of jurisdiction, and the Commissioner held, absent a determination in the appropriate forum that M.C. should have been evaluated and found eligible for special education services, that the District's expulsion of M.C. was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, and thus not to be expunged from his record.

BEFORE MICHAEL L. RAVIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

M.C. (who may be referred to alternately as "M.C." or "petitioner") was permanently expelled, without the provision for an alternative education program, from the public schools of the Borough of Bergenfield ("district") as a result of assaulting another student with a weapon and possession of five (5) weapons. By doing so, argues P.H. (who may be referred to alternately as "P.H." or "petitioner"), the district violated M.C.'s right to a thorough and efficient education and his right to equal protection. Petitioner also challenges the district's action as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 26, 2000, fifteen year-old M.C., a sophomore attending Bergenfield High School, slashed at another student with a box-cutter razor, causing a large gash in the student's coat. Shortly after the slashing, he was found in possession of five weapons. A disciplinary process began which culminated on March 21, 2000 with the district's adoption, after a hearing, of a resolution permanently expelling M.C. from the district's public school system with no provision for any alternative education program.

On June 19, 2000, petitioner filed a Verified Petition of Appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education, naming as respondents the district, the Commissioner of Education and the New Jersey State Board of Education.

The relief originally sought in the Verified Petition of appeal was as follows:

A. A Declaratory Ruling that the Board's expulsion of M.C. violated M.C.' s right to a thorough and efficient education under Article VIII, Section IV of the New Jersey Constitution.

B. A Declaratory Ruling that the Board's denial of an alternative education program to M.C. violated M.C. 's right to a thorough and efficient education under Article VIII, Section IV of the New Jersey Constitution.

C. A Declaratory Ruling that the Board's expulsion of M.C. was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

D. A Declaratory Ruling that the Board's denial of an alternative education program to M.C. was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

E. A Declaratory Ruling that the Board's zero tolerance policy is over-broad and violated the right of M.C. and P.H. to procedural due process under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

F. A Declaratory Ruling that the Board's zero tolerance policy violates the right of all its students to a thorough and efficient education under the New Jersey Constitution.

G. A Declaratory Ruling that the Board violated the right of M.C. and P.H. to procedural due process under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution and to fundamental fairness by failing to provide written notification of its zero tolerance disciplinary policy, and by failing to provide written notification of the reasons for its expulsion decision on the charge and punishment and the means and time limit for appealing its decision.

H. A Declaratory Ruling that the Board's expulsion of M.C. violated his right to equal protection as guaranteed under the New Jersey Constitution.

I. A Declaratory Ruling that the Commission and State Board violated M.C.'s right to a thorough and efficient public education by failing to set any rules or standards governing the Board's expulsion of M.C. and its denial of alternative education to M.C.

J. A Declaratory Ruling that the Commissioner and State Board's failure to set any rules or standards governing the Board's expulsion of M.C. and its denial of alternative education to M.C. is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

K. A Declaratory Ruling that the Commissioner and State Board violated the right of M.C. and all students in the State to a thorough and efficient public education by failing to set uniform standards to guide local school districts in imposing long-term suspension and expulsion and in providing alternative education programs.

L. A Declaratory Ruling that the Commissioner and State Board violated the right of M.C. and all students in the State to equal protection of law by failing to set uniform standards to guide local school districts in imposing long-term suspension and expulsion and in providing alternative education programs.

M. A Declaratory Ruling that the Commissioner and State Board violated the right of M.C. and P.H. to procedural due process and fundamental fairness by failing to set rules or standards governing procedural due process in M. C's expulsion hearing.

N. A Declaratory Ruling that the Commissioner and State Board violated the right of M.C. and all students in the State to procedural due process and fundamental fairness by failing to set uniform standards to guide local districts in affording procedural due process in long-term suspension and expulsion hearings.

O. An Order setting aside the expulsion of M.C. and requiring respondents to immediately assess M.C.'s alternative education needs and to identify an appropriate alternative education program for M.C. that meets the Core Curriculum Content Standards.

P. An Order expunging all record of M.C.'s expulsion from his school records.

Q. An Order requiring the Commissioner and State Board to promulgate regulations to guide local school districts in the imposition of long-term suspension and expulsion, in the provision of alternative education program, and in the provision of procedural due process in long-term suspension and expulsion hearings.

The Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") declared the petition a contested case and transferred it to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On July 31, 2000, petitioner applied for emergent relief, which was assigned for disposition to the Honorable Ken R. Springer, Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"). Prior to oral argument on August 10, 2000, the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education ("State respondents") filed a Cross-Motion to Dismiss the allegations in the Petition of Appeal which related to them.

On August 18, 2000, Judge Springer heard and granted the application for emergent relief. He entered an order directing the district to immediately assess M. C's alternative education needs, identify an appropriate alternative education program for M.C. and place M.C. in an alternative education program no later than the first day of the 2000-2001 school year. The Order provided that in the event no such alternative educational placement was available, the district was mandated to furnish home instruction to M.C. while continuing its best efforts to find a suitable alternate education placement. ALJ Springer declined to decide the State respondents' Cross-Motion.

On September 15, 2000, the Commissioner issued a Decision on Motion, modified the relief recommended by Judge Springer and directed the district to immediately place M.C. on home instruction until the matter was fully litigated and decided. The Commissioner concluded that placement in an alternative educational setting was not an appropriate grant of interim relief.

Subsequently, the Acting Director of the OAL assigned the matter to me for plenary disposition.

At an off-the-record Prehearing Conference which took place on December 14, 2000, petitioners withdrew their procedural due process and fundamental fairness claims specified in the Petition of Appeal.

On January 5, 2001, I decided to enter an Interlocutory Order granting the State respondents' Cross-Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal as it related to them. The Commissioner affirmed that decision on January 22, 2001.

The plenary hearing took place over a period of four (4) days: January 30, 2001, January 31, 2001, February 14, 2001 and March 15, 2001. Testifying for petitioner were M.C., Michael B. Greene, John Galish and Katherine Crill. Testifying for respondent were N.S., Christopher Carter, Michael Kuchar, John Nowicky and John Galish. Various items, including Stipulations of Fact and documents more specifically described in the Appendix, were admitted into evidence.

After testimony concluded on March 15, 2001, the parties requested and I granted the opportunity to present their closing arguments in the form of written post-hearing submissions. I also allowed the parties to submit reply submissions, the last of which was received on April 10, 2001, after which the record closed.

Based on petitioner's Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law as expressed in petitioner's initial post-hearing submission, petitioner requested relief which petitioner had not originally requested. The additional relief requested by petitioner was:

A.

1. An independent assessment of M.C. by a psychologist trained in adolescent development, mutually agreed to by the parties, and paid for by the Board, to determine: (a) whether M.C. poses a threat of harm to himself or others in a school setting; (b) M.C.'s willingness and motivation to participate in a traditional public high school setting; and (c) M.C.'s individual educational, psychological and social needs.

2. If this first assessment finds that M.C. does not pose a threat of harm and recommends M.C.'s return to a traditional public high school setting, then the Board shall pay for the same psychologist to conduct a second assessment with the Bergenfield High School Principal, M.C.'s parents, M.C., and any other high school staff or students chosen by the assessor, to determine: (a) whether any negative feelings relating to M.C.'s expulsion from or possible return to Bergenfield High School have been sufficiently mediated to allow M.C. to thrive in Bergenfield High School; and (b) whether M.C.'s return to Bergenfield High School or another traditional public high school should be conditioned on the provision of social services and supports to meet his individual educational, psychological and social needs.

3. If this second assessment recommends M.C.'s return to Bergenfield High School, then respondent is required to promptly reinstate M.C. to the appropriate grade level and academic program that meets the Core Curriculum Content Standards at Bergenfield High School.

4. If the second assessment does not recommend M.C.'s return to Bergenfield High School, then respondent is required to promptly locate, pay tuition for, and provide transportation to, a traditional public high school in another town where M.C. can be enrolled in the appropriate grade level and academic program that meets the Core Curriculum Content Standards.

5. If the second assessment recommends that M.C.'s return to Bergenfield High School or another traditional public high school be conditioned on the provision of social services and supports to M.C., then respondent Board shall provide services and supports appropriately provided within a second setting and refer M.C. to appropriate community-based providers for services that cannot be provided within the school.

6. If the first assessment does not recommend M.C.'s return to a traditional public high school, then respondent shall promptly comply with the Order set forth in paragraph C.

B. Alternatively, an Order setting side M.C.'s expulsion and requiring his placement in an appropriate alternative education program, mutually agreed upon by the parties, which meets his individual educational, social and psychological needs and meets the Core Curriculum Content Standards.

C. An Order requiring respondent Board to reinstate M.C. in a traditional public high school or enroll M.C. in an alternative education program, under paragraph B or C, as applicable, immediately.

D. An Order requiring respondent Board to assume all costs, including transportation, if needed, and responsibility for providing M. C. with a thorough and efficient public education as set forth above.

E. An Order requiring respondent Board to provide M.C. with home instruction pending his enrollment in a school program as set forth above, in an amount sufficiently to allow M. C. to satisfy credit-year curriculum requirements and to meet the requirements of the Core Curriculum Content Standards.

STIPULATIONS OF FACT

The parties entered into written stipulations of most of the facts in this matter. Those stipulations are reproduced verbatim, post:

1. M.C. is currently sixteen years old (DOB 7/19/84) and resides with his mother P.H., his stepfather and his siblings in Bergenfield, N.J.

2. During the 1999-2000 school year, M.C. was in the tenth grade at Bergenfield High School.

3. M.C. was never classified as eligible for special education and related services under the Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act and was never identified as a qualified individual with a disability under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

4. The incident which led to M.C.'s expulsion occurred on January 26, 2000.

5. The incident occurred in the commons area outside the school cafeteria. M.C. approached N.S., another student, from behind, and cut N.S.'s jacket across the back with a box cutter.

6. N.S. was not physically injured. After reporting to his classroom for his exam, N.S. reported the incident to John Nowicky, Assistant Principal.

7. M.C. was questioned by Bergenfield High School administrators and was found to have on his person three box cutters, one razor blade scraper, and a Swiss army knife. During questioning, M.C. admitted bringing the weapons to school and using the largest razor blade box cutter to cut the back of student N.S.'s jacket while

N.S. was wearing that jacket. The Bergenfield Police Department was notified.

8. Board Policy 5114, as contained in the Board's Policy Manual and in the 1999-2000 Parent/Guardian Student Handbook and Calendar, advised parents and students that the punishment for a weapons infraction is "[m]inimum 10 day HS [home suspension] with consideration for expulsion." The Handbook also defines expulsion as "permanent removal from school rolls."

9. M.C. was suspended from Bergenfield High School for ten days, pending further disciplinary action.

10. The Board held a discipline hearing on March 21, 2000. M.C. was represented by legal counsel. At the hearing, testimony was provided by Assistant Principal of Bergenfield High School John Nowicky, then Principal of Bergenfield High School Ross Medlar, Bergenfield Police Officer Christopher Carter, Superintendent Dr. John Galish, M.C., P. H., and M.C.'s stepfather J. H.

11. Superintendent Dr. John Galish recommended expulsion to the Board as the appropriate penalty for M.C. Dr. Galish's recommendation was based upon this belief that the offense was an egregious one which could result in someone being seriously injured or killed; his belief that M.C.'s action was premeditated and that he followed N.S. from one area to another; the fact that M.C. brought five weapons to school when he knew weapons were prohibited; and Dr. Galish's disbelief that M.C. intended to slash only at N.S.'s jacket, rather than at N.S. himself.

12. The Board adopted a resolution determining that M.C. "has engaged in conduct of a very serious nature (aggravated assault of a fellow student with weapons) which presents a danger to the safety and well-being of the entire school community," and that M.C. "has engaged in conduct which constitutes good cause for expulsion." The Board's resolution, dated March 21, 2000, expelled M.C. permanently from the Bergenfield Public Schools.

13. Board Policy No. 5114 requires, for every student who is suspended from the Board's schools, the provision of individual instruction commencing within two weeks of suspension or, in the discretion of the Superintendent, assignment to an alternate educational program. Under this policy, M.C. received approximately 23.75 hours of home instruction from the Board from February 16, 2000 through March 20, 2000 in the areas of English, Math, Science and Social Studies. M.C.'s home instruction was terminated by the Board upon his expulsion.

14. The Board has no policy which requires the provision of alternative education to any student following expulsion from the Bergenfield Public Schools. In addition, the Board does not operate a formal alternative education program.

15. As a result of the January 26, 2000 incident, juvenile charges were filed against M.C. for aggravated assault, third degree, and unlawful possession of weapons on school grounds, fourth degree. M.C. was adjudicated juvenile delinquent at a hearing on those charges, pleading guilty to a disorderly persons offense and to a fourth degree weapons charge. A thirty-day sentence in the Juvenile Detention Center was suspended and M.C. was sentenced to probation, to payment of court fines and $200 restitution to N.S., and to attendance and completion of the court's Service Learning Program. M.C. was also ordered to have no contact with N.S.

16. Prior to his expulsion, M.C. had been a student in the Bergenfield Public Schools since his seventh grade year. In seventh grade and eighth grade, M.C.'s final grades at the end of the year were as follows:

Seventh Grade		Eighth Grade
English	D	English	E
Social Studies	C-	Social Studies	C-

M.C. was promoted to high school after retaking eighth grade English, Math, and Science in summer school and earning an A, B+, and A-1, respectively.

17. While a student at Bergenfield Middle School, M.C. was evaluated by the Board's Child Study Team to determine his eligibility for special education and related services. Upon completion of the evaluation, the Child Study Team conducted a meeting with M.C.'s stepfather on October 21, 1997 and concluded that M.C. was not eligible for special education and related services. According to the Eligibility/classification Conference Report prepared as a result of that meeting, the rationale for this decision was the Team's conclusion that M.C. was a student of Average to High Average intelligence. M.C.'s day to day functioning was not commensurate with his tested ability but appeared to be due to a lack of homework preparation and studying for tests. M.C. did not appear to have any learning disabilities or major emotional factors interfering with his ability to function in school at that time. The Child Study Team recognized the existence of past emotional factors which may have interfered with M.C.'s ability to perform, but there was no such interference at that time. M.C. did not exhibit any negative attention seeking or depression at the time of the evaluation. M.C.'s parents received their Parental Rights in Special Education.

18. M.C. entered Bergenfield High School in September 1998. In ninth grade, his midyear and final grades, with teacher comments, were as follows:

Midyear		Teacher's Comments

19. M.C.'s ninth grade year included the following discipline history: two detentions for throwing Skittles candy in the cafeteria on 11/20/98: five day home suspension focusing profanity towards a teacher on 1/11/99; three day in-school suspension for inappropriate behavior on 3/10/99 (accused by female student of grabbing her crotch); one day in-school suspension for cutting class on 5/18/99; two one day in-school suspension in June 1999 for repeatedly missing detention; and five day home suspension for fighting with another male student by the railroad tracks.

20. During the first part of his tenth grade year, while still attending Bergenfield High School, M.C. was failing English, Algebra, and Computer Aided Drafting, and he received incompletes in U.S. History, Biology, and Spanish, and a C+ in Phys Ed. Tardiness, absences, and possible yearly failure were noted under teacher comments on M.C.'s midyear report card.

21. Prior to the January 26, 2000 incident which led to his expulsion, M.C.'s tenth grade year included the following discipline history: detentions for cutting class on 9/28/99; one day in-school suspension on 10/13/99 for failing to report to detentions; two days in-school suspension for cutting classes on 11/5/99 and 11/9/99; four days in-school suspension for cutting classes, excessive tardiness, and inappropriate behavior in the cafeteria on 11/15/99; one day in-school suspension for cutting class on 11/29/99; four days in-school suspension for repeatedly cutting period six and cutting period 10 on 12/7/00; three days home suspension for possession of a stolen book bag on 1/4/00; and five days home suspension and police contact for breaking into another student's locker and taking his N.Y. Yankees hat on 1/11/00.

22. There was no referral (by M.C.'s parents or Board staff) to or consultation with the Child Study Team while M.C. was a student at Bergenfield High School. In December 1999, a letter was sent to the parents of M.C., [which read]:

> To the Parents of [M.C.]
>
> The Bergenfield High School staff and administration is very concerned that your child has failed 3 or more classes.
>
> In the near future we will be referring your child to the Pupil Assistance Committee (P.A.C.). P.A.C. is comprised of teachers, administrators, guidance counselors and child study team personnel to serve as a resource to students and their families who are experiencing academic difficulty. Your presence at these meetings are essential to help remediate academic underachievement. Please call our Student Assistance counselor, Mr. Seamus Regan, at 387-3836 to arrange for a P.A.C. meeting appointment.
>
> We look forward to working closely with you.
>
> Sincerely,
>
> Ross. W. Medlar, Principal
> Michael D. Kuchar, Director of Guidance

In response to the letter, M.C.'s stepfather contacted Seamus Regan, Student Assistance counselor, regarding the scheduling of an appointment, and suggested to Mr. Regan that the meeting be scheduled after mid-term exams (January 24-26,2000), in order to see how M.C. performed. Mr. Regan concurred with this suggestion.

23. The Board has never recommended that M.C. be placed in an alternative education program and the Board has never placed M.C. in an alternative education program.

24. As a result of a final decision by the Commissioner of Education awarding emergent relief to M.C., on September 26, 2000,the Board began providing M.C. with approximately eight and one half hours of home instruction per week at the public library. M.C. did not receive any credit for his tenth grade year as a result of his expulsion on March 21, 2000 and he is repeating tenth grade while on home instruction. M C. receives 1½ hours of instruction per subject per week in U.S. History, English and Basic Skills (English and Math) and 2 hours of instruction per subject per week in Foundations of Biology and Foundations of Algebra.

25. M.C. receives all of his home instruction from Naomi Ashner who holds a New Jersey State certification as a teacher of the handicapped.

26. Ms. Ashner reports that M.C. is very cooperative, working hard, completing all assignments, working independently, and participating in all discussions of material. Although M.C. was not issued a formal progress report, at the conclusion of the first marking period for this academlc year, Ms. Ashner awarded M.C. grades of Bs and B+s in all of his subjects.

27. The Board has provided payment for instruction for two students previously expelled by the Board who were subsequently placed in juvenile detention facilities. The decision to provide educational services to these students was made by the detention facility in consultation with the New Jersey Department of Education ("Department"). The Board initially rejected the Department's financial assignment of these two students to the Bergenfield school district, in light of their expulsions, and filed petitions of appeal with the Commissioner of Education. While pending before the Office of Administrative Law, both appeals were withdrawn and the Board assumed obligation for these two students.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

While not stipulated, the parties do not appear to dispute the descriptions of the weapons M.C. brought to school on January 26, 2000. The photographs of their weapons are in evidence. These weapons were verbally described by Bergenfield Police Officer Christopher Carter. I FIND his testimony about these weapons as fact.

R-3 is a box cutter having a handle length of approximately five inches, and an extended razor blade length of approximately three inches. The box cutter includes buttons which enable the user to extend the blade out of the plastic sheath and to lock it in place.

R-4 is a box cutter approximately four to five inches in length, having a surgical steel razor blade which can be extended from the plastic sheath three quarters of an inch to one inch.

R-5 is a transparent plastic tombstone-shaped scraper having a razor blade inside, which can be released by a button which extends the blade out approximately one half of its length, exposing the entire sharp surface of the blade.

R-6 is a box cutter having an extremely sharp 1 to 1½ inches long stainless steel blade which extends at an angle from the plastic case.

R-7 is a Swiss Army knife having nine different tools, including a two inch blade, a two inch jagged teeth saw blade, a fish scaler blade, scissors, a screw driver/can opener to puncture holes, a one inch awe blade, a one inch nail file, a one inch long Phillips head screw driver and a one inch long fingernail cleaner.

Each weapon (R-3, R-4, R-5, R-6 and R-6), could be characterized as a deadly weapon capable of producing death or serious bodily injury.

Petitioner offered evidence as to M.C.'s behavior post-expulsion. I CONCLUDE that such evidence is immaterial. The issue presented is the legal propriety of the district's March 26, 2000 decision to permanently expel M. C. based on the information considered (or not considered) by the district at the time of the expulsion hearing.

It is undisputed and I FIND that for purposes of reporting to the New Jersey Department of Education, expulsion is defined as when a student was expelled from school and not recommended for placement in any other alternative program run by the district or other agency.

It is undisputed and I FIND that expulsion is an action which the Department of Education has recognized as available to local school districts.

It is undisputed and I FIND that Bergen County no longer operates an alternative education program and has not operated one since approximately 1997.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACT

Petitioner first contends that the record establishes that M.C. neither intended to harm N.S. or did harm N.S. As a result, argues petitioner, the punishment meted out by the district was unreasonably harsh. The district contends that the record does not establish that M.C. did not intend to harm N.S., but even if the record established that M.C.'s intent was only to damage N.S.'s property, the district's expulsion of M.C. was not unreasonably harsh. An analysis of the record as it bears on this subject follows.

M.C. testified in this connection that he was sitting in the lunch room at a table full of students, which included fellow student N.S. N.S. was asking him why he did not have a coat. M.C. told N S. he had no coat because he could not afford one. N.S., testified M.C., "was picking fun at me." According to the testimony of M.C., the other students at the table were laughing at M.C., which made M.C. feel humiliated and upset. Then the bell rang. Everyone left the lunch room. N.S. was wearing a South Pole down or "bubble" jacket, with an estimated value of $200. M.C. did not own a similar coat at that time. M.C. testified that N.S. could not see M.C. coming up behind him and could not defend himself. M.C. picked up the bottom of N.S.'s jacket with his left hand and slashed it. N.S. then turned around and asked him why he did that. M.C. testified that he did not respond and went to his next class.

When asked by his attorney when he decided to cut N.S.'s coat, M.C. testified at one point:

> It wasn't really a decision. It was sort of like, impulsive. It was - - I was right behind him - - I didn't follow him, we were going in the same direction and I just did it.

M.C. added that he was too upset and distraught to think about the consequences of his action at the time he cut N.S.'s jacket.

N.S. testified that he was not sitting with M.C. in the lunch room prior to the attack and made no remark to M.C. about his coat. He testified essentially that he did nothing to provoke the attack and did not know why M.C. slashed his coat.

According to N.S., he knew M.C. as an acquaintance and not as a friend. N.S. testified that he was walking from the commons to his next class. As he was walking, a person (not M.C.) came up to him and said "what's up fellows?", then N.S. felt something running from the middle of his back down. He turned around and he saw M.C.'s hand with something sharp in it. M.C.'s hand moved back. N.S. saw "little feathers." He took off one sleeve of the jacket and saw a five or six inch vertical gash. He turned to M.C. and said "you cut my coat. What the fuck, you cut my coat." According to the testimony of N.S., M.C. did not respond. Rather, M.C. walked away, "faster and faster."

N.S. testified that he got angry and put the coat in his locker. He then went to class. He was angry in his class and asked his teacher if he could be excused to go to the principal's office. N.S. retrieved his coat from his locker, went to the principal's office and told the principal what happened.

Police Officer Christopher Carter testified that he was called to the school on January 26, 2000 and was advised by Principal Medlar and Assistant Principal Nowicky that one student had his jacket cut by another student. Officer Carter testified he asked M.C. if he slashed N.S.'s coat. M.C. replied that he slashed N.S.'s coat in retaliation to comments that were said to him earlier about his clothing. M.C. did not describe to how N.S. had been wearing his coat. Officer Carter testified that he asked N.S. whether or not N.S. had said anything to M.C. about his coat and that N.S. stated that he did not. Furthermore, Officer Carter testified that N.S. told him that he was wearing his coat but it was not zipped up.

Asked about the condition of the coat when he saw it, Officer Carter testified that the cut in the jacket was in the outer layer of the jacket only. It did not penetrate through the inner layer.

M.C. admitted to Officer Carter having the weapons in his possession at school and to using the largest of the weapons, the box cutter with a handle length of approximately five inches and an extended razor blade length of approximately three inches, to slash at N.S.

Officer Carter testified that his mission was not to judge why the incident happened. He testified that he did not question any other students about the incident.

Officer Carter was confronted with an incident report he had prepared concerning the incident, which read in pertinent part:

> On January 26, 2000 (at 10:30 a.m.) I was assigned to the Bergenfield H.S. on the report of an assault that occurred. On arrival I spoke to principal Ross Medler, who stated that he had received information that M.C. had slashed a jacket belonging to N.S. He conferred with N.S. that his jacket was slashed while he was wearing it and walking in the Commons, the front hallway of the school, at approximately 9:50 a.m. . . . Mr. Medler asked (M.C.) about the incident. M.C. admitted slashing the jacket and told Mr. Medler he did so because earlier, the victim was making fun of him . . .
> At (1:30 p.m.), parent J. H. arrived at the scene. I gave M.C. his Miranda Warning in the written form which he and his father signed. M.C. stated early in the day, N.S. had made remarks about him which upset him. He stated when he saw N.S. at 9:50 a.m. in the Commons, he slashed the jacket attempting to damage the jacket and not to harm the victim. He stated he pulled the jacket away from the body of the victim. He did not want to answer why he had the box cutter and knife on him . . .
> I also interviewed N.S, age 15, and his mother . . . N.S. stated that while walking through the Commons, he felt M.C. pull at his jacket and discover the slash when he got to his class at which time he notified Mr. Medler immediately . . . N.S. stated that the slash did not penetrate the interior of the jacket . . .

Officer Carter was asked whether his usual practice would have been to include in his report that he had questioned N.S. about whether or not there was any interaction between him and M.C. earlier in the day before the incident. Officer Carter responded that if N.S. had replied that there was not any interaction, he would not have felt it necessary to include that detail in his report.

Assistant Principal John Nowicky testified that N.S. had told him on January 26, 2000 that he was wearing his jacket when M.C. cut it. M.C. said nothing to Mr. Nowicky having to do with him making fun of M.C. about a coat. According to Mr. Nowicky, N.S. wrote a handwritten statement on January 26, 2000 which read:

> I got up from the cafeteria outside bench walked to class and (M.C.) slashed my coat and (student A, student B and student C) were there and saw it.

Mr. Nowicky testified that he asked N.S. why M.C. would have wanted to slash his jacket. N.S. told Mr. Nowicky that he did not know why.

When Mr. Nowicky asked M.C. what he had used to slash the jacket, M.C. reached into his pocket and pulled out a small razor knife. Subsequently, M.C. admitted that it was not the small razor knife he used but a sheetrock cutter with a long blade. Mr. Nowicky testified that M.C. told him that he came up from behind N.S. and just slashed the coat. M.C. did not tell Mr. Nowicky anything about N.S. wearing the coat over one shoulder and said nothing to him about lifting the bottom of the coat before slashing it.

Mr. Nowicky testified that he did not speak to any other students in the cafeteria or in the hallway about the incident or any remarks made before the incident. He testified that he interviewed the students that were identified by N.S. in N.S.'s January 26, 2000 statement. Those students said that they did not see anything and it gave Mr. Nowicky the impression that they just did not want to get involved.

Superintendent of Schools John Galish testified and I FIND that he has been the superintendent of the Bergenfield Board of Education since June 1992. He is responsible for the overall management and supervisor of the school district. For four years prior to June 1992, Dr. Galish was the superintendent of schools in another New York school district. He has been a superintendent of schools for 25 years and has been employed in the education field for 39 years. I found the testimony of Dr. Galish credible, due principally to his candor, straightforwardness and lack of evidence which contradicted his testimony.

Dr. Galish testified and I FIND that he had received interrogatories from petitioner. One of the interrogatories called for Dr. Galish to set forth the complete factual basis for denying the allegation in the petition that "M.C. did not intend to cause physical harm to N.S." Dr. Galish's answer to that interrogatory was:

> In the lunch room M.C. became upset and angry at another student who had made comments regarding M.C.'s coat. After they had left the lunch room while in the Commons, M.C. took out the largest weapon and slashed at the student because the student did not have the right to make fun of him.

Dr. Galish testified and I FIND that he never spoke with M.C. He also testified and I FIND that prior to M.C.'s expulsion, he did not receive a report from a school guidance counselor, school social worker, school psychologist or psychiatrist about M.C.'s intent or motivation at the time of the incident.

Michael Greene, PhD., is a developmental psychologist who was permitted to testify as an expert in the causes and prevention of school and youth violence. For almost thirty-five years, his work has involved research on the causes and correlates of youth violence, evaluations of intervention programs, writing in his field and contributions to policy discussions on school and youth violence. Since April 1998, he has served as the Executive Director of the Violence Institute of New Jersey at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. Through funding awarded by the United States Department of Education, Dr. Greene and the Violence Institute have been used as a technical assistance provider by the New Jersey Department of Education to develop strategies to address school violence within six school districts in the state of New Jersey. In addition, he has served as consultant to other school districts and has consulted with state government on policy initiatives in the areas of school and youth violence. Under his stewardship, the Violence Institute developed a tip sheet titled "Identifying and Responding to Adolescents Who May Harm Others," which they were asked to provide to the New Jersey Department of Education for distribution to every school in New Jersey.

While respondent attempted to discredit Dr. Greene's expertise in the area of courses and prevention of school and youth violence, I credited his testimony in these areas, but as I will explain, not others.

In Dr. Greene's opinion, M.C.'s intent was to damage N.S.'s jacket, but not to harm N.S. He testified that it would have been easy for M.C. to have injured N.S. had M.C. not exercised some restraint in using the largest of the box cutters to make the cut.

Dr. Greene testified that the most likely explanation for M.C.'s action was that he reacted out of feelings of anger or resentment or inadequacy of some kind to a perceived provocation, whether intended or unintended. He testified that when aggression or violence occurs between two adolescents, there is nearly always a precipitating event in a context that makes the behavior understandable, although not justifiable. Dr. Greene testified that this has been substantiated through micro-evolutionary studies of how fights and violent behaviors emerge.

Dr. Greene acknowledged that he never spoke with M.C. about the incident nor was there reference to any statement of M.C. utilized in reaching his conclusion. He admitted that his only communication with M.C. was a ten minute social conversation the morning of his testimony, and nothing in any of the materials he reviewed contained any information about the incident from M.C. himself.

In order to find as fact that M.C. only intended to damage N.S.'s coat, I would have to first credit M.C.'s testimony. Ample reason can be found to discredit that testimony. M.C. testified before me that the Swiss Army knife had been a gift from his father that he kept with him at all times. Yet, the issue of sentimental value was never raised to Board staff or before the Board in its hearing. Before me, M.C. testified that he had used the Swiss Army knife as a key ring, and that the police officer returned his keys when taking the knife into custody. However, Officer Carter and John Nowicky both testified credibly that there were no keys hanging from the Swiss Army knife. Dr. Galish testified that M.C. did not indicate to the Board that he was using the Swiss Army knife as a key chain. M.C. testified that N.S. had taunted him about his coat in the cafeteria in front of several other students, but M.C. presented no witnesses to this incident at his expulsion hearing. N.S. testified that he had not been in the cafeteria and had not spoken to M.C. M.C. demonstrated and testified that N.S. was wearing his jacket over one shoulder only. N.S. demonstrated and testified that he was wearing the jacket over both shoulders. M.C. testified he had met with Dr. Kuchar only twice. Dr. Kuchar testified credibly that he and M.C. had met numerous times during M.C.'s tenth grade year. Additionally, Dr. Galish testified credibly that at the Board hearing, M.C. initially testified that he had no discipline problems in school, then later in the hearing admitted that he had been disciplined for cutting class and stealing. Even then M.C.

was not being truthful. His disciplinary record was much more extensive than he admitted.

Those who have refuted M.C.'s testimony have not been demonstrated to have much to gain by their testimony. Petitioner has offered no reason for Officer Carter to fabricate that there were no keys on the Swiss Army knife. As to N.S., his tone and demeanor did not strike me as incredible and there is no evidence on the record to warrant more than speculation that his testimony was shaded by some possible fear of punishment for teasing M.C. about his coat.

I am not inclined to give much weight to Dr. Greene's opinion as to M.C.'s intent in attacking N.S. with a weapon. Dr. Greene's only personal contact with M.C. was in a ten minute social encounter between the two immediately before Dr. Greene took the witness stand. Additionally, none of the documents Dr. Greene reviewed contained a statement or affidavit from M.C. about the incident. Finally, Dr. Greene spoke to no school staff about the incident, nor did he speak to N.S.

I FIND, to the extent that such finding is material to the issues, that, at a minimum, M.C.'s slashing with the largest weapon he possessed was done with extreme indifference to the personal safety of N.S. For the reasons stated, I FIND, contrary to petitioner's suggestion, that the record does not establish that M.C. had no intent to injure N.S.

Petitioner appears to propose as fact that as of January 26, 2000 M.C. was without notice that school policy prohibited the possession of weapons at school and that expulsion could result for violation of that prohibition. The district counters that the evidence does not support such a finding.

It is important to note that petitioner does not claim that the disciplinary process employed by the district violated M.C.'s right to procedural due process or fundamental fairness. Therefore, the issue of what notice M.C. had that the possession of weapons was prohibited strikes me as largely immaterial.

For two reasons, I FIND that M.C. was aware as of January 26,2001 that weapons were prohibited at school and that expulsion could result from violation of the prohibition.

First, just a few days prior to January 26, 2001, the record establishes that on January 21, 2001, M.C. admitted to an incident in which one of his classmates brought a box cutter to school and used it to cut M.C.'s "super bouncer ball." Assistant Principal Nowicky took M.C.'s statement about the incident, which read:

> I and [named student] were hangin (sic) out yesterday and he I went to the dollar store in Foster Village. He stole a package of Box cutters. Then, Today (sic) He (sic) brought one out in study hall. I showed him my super bouncer, and he cut the ball, almost in half with the razor. Then, when he was about to start cutting my other one, Mrs. Schneider saw him and he gave it to me. I said it wasn't mine and gave it back to him. Mrs. Schneider said that one of us had to give it to Mr. Nowicky and I said I don't want to cause its not mine. So After (sic) She (sic) called Mr. Nowicky, [named student] said I'll take the blade out and put it under the desk and then we'll move seats so they don't check, and if they did they wouldn't find the blade. So I said O.K. and then he said let's get our stories straight so it doesn't look like we're lying. Then we said we "found" it in the Math hallway, without the blade so we wouldn't get in trouble. The only reason I went along with his story was because I didn't want to get in trouble, cause he said that it was mine, and it wasn't.

After this January 21st incident, Mr. Nowicky told M.C. that the possible penalties for having a weapon on school ground was "a ten day in-home suspension with a possible Board review."

Second, the record established that the district has developed a code of conduct through Policy 5114 and the Parent/Student Handbook. The handbook is mailed along with students' schedules shortly before each school year begins and the Assistant Principals speak with students at the beginning of each year regarding, inter alia, weapons and discipline. Although Mr. Nowicky could not say for sure whether or not M.C. was present for this address, M.C.'s name did not appear on the absentee list the day the address was apparently given.

The parties dispute the reason for M.C.'s possession of the Swiss Army knife (R-7). To recount, petitioner maintains that the knife had sentimental value to him as a gift from his father and that he was using it as a key chain. M.C. testified to that effect at the hearing before me. As noted, however, during his testimony before the Board, M.C. did not state that there was any sentimental value attached to the knife, nor did he say that he used it as a key chain. Furthermore, as noted, there was no evidence that when school officials confiscated the knife from M.C. that there were keys hanging from it or attached to it. As an aside, petitioner appropriately observes that it is misleading for respondent to note that M.C. did not tell Officer Carter that the knife had sentimental value as a gift from his father or that he was using it as a key chain. It is misleading in light of Officer Carter's testimony that he asked M.C. "what he had (the weapons) for," and at that point, his father arrived and stated that he didn't want that question to be asked.

Mr. Nowicky testified that his understanding was that M.C. did not believe that a Swiss Army knife was prohibited in school, but there was no direct testimony in the hearing before me from M.C. that he believed that bringing a Swiss Army knife to school was not prohibited.

Based on all of the evidence, I FIND that M.C. was not using the knife as a key chain at the time he possessed it. Furthermore, even assuming that the Swiss Army knife was not a weapon, by his own admission, M.C. possessed four other weapons in school on January 26, 2000.

Another point of contention appears to be M.C.'s intent in possessing the 4 (four) box cutters.

M.C. testified that he brought the box cutters to school to show them off. He testified that he did not bring them to school thinking that he would use them on anybody and did not think that he would get expelled for just bringing them to school.

I disregard M.C.'s testimony because of inconsistencies with other evidence I find credible. I also disregard it because based on the statement he wrote in connection with the January 21, 2001 incident, it is obvious that he is quite capable of tailoring his accounts based on his perception of what negative consequences might result from the accounts he gives. To the extent the finding is material to the issues I must decide, I do not FIND as fact that petitioner's intent in possessing the weapons was to "show them off."

In addition to the reasons for the district's action in expelling petitioner found in the district's resolution (which is the subject of a stipulation), it is necessary to the proper disposition of this matter to flush out any and all other considerations taken or not taken into account by the district in reaching its decision.

I FIND that Dr. Galish had no first hand knowledge of the incident which occurred on January 26, 2000. He did not know what was going on in M.C.'s mind at the time of the incident. He was, however, aware that when the school bell rung, M.C. had to walk in the same direction of M.S. to get to his next class.

I FIND that Dr. Galish did not automatically consider expulsion when he heard about the incident. At the time, he considered discipline ranging from a suspension longer than ten days (which requires approval from the Board of Education) to expulsion.

I FIND that Dr. Galish's decision to expel M.C. was made by him as of February 8, 2000, at the point that he wrote to petitioner's parents informing them of the Board hearing. I further FIND that he made that decision prior to speaking with M.C. and without receiving reports or advice from anyone as to M.C.'s intent or motive or awareness of consequences of his actions.

I FIND, that in addition to testimony taken at the Board hearing, that the only documentary evidence which was introduced was a January 26, 2000 memorandum from Mr. Medlar to Dr. Galish and a January 26, 2000 "Discipline Incident Report." The memo from Mr. Medlar to Dr. Galish read:

> At approximately 9:55 a.m. on January 26, 2000, a student reported to Mr. Nowicky that his jacket had been slashed by M.C., grade 10, (DOB: 7/19/84) while going to period for exam.
> Mr. Nowicky notified me. After talking with the victim, Mr. Nowicky and I went to M's class and escorted him to my office. I informed him of the complaint. I searched him and Mr. Nowicky searched his book bag. I found three box cutters, one razor blade scraper, and one Swiss Army knife. (See photocopy).
>
> I called the police to report the incident and Mr. Nowicky called M's mother and step-father.
>
> The police arrived, read M's rights, took his statement, took possession of the weapons, and photographed the slashed jacket. I placed M. on a 10 day home suspension, 1/27/00 – 2/9/00.

The "Discipline Incident Report," dated January 26, 2000, read, in part:

> (M.C.) slashed another boy's jacket, N.S., in the hallway in between exams. possession (sic) of a weapon, must make restitution plus Board review along with ten day H.S. starting 1/27, 28, 31, 2/1 through 2/8.

I FIND that no district guidance counselor, district social worker, district psychologist or district psychiatrist, testified at the Board hearing. I FIND that the Board did not solicit nor did the Board receive any reports from such professionals prior to its decision to permanently expel petitioner without an alternative education program. I FIND that there was no evidence from any professional as to M.C.'s intent or motivations, his awareness of the consequences of his actions, or his potential for future dangerous behavior.

I FIND that the Board considered various terms of suspension but they were rejected by the Board as not severe enough. One of the trustees remarked that it was sad that expulsion would terminate M.C.'s educational opportunity. While there were discussions of other options available to an expelled student, such as changing residence and enrolling in another school district, Dr. Galish conceded that he was aware and I FIND that M.C. had lived in Bergenfield since seventh grade with his mother, stepfather and siblings and that M.C. had two younger siblings in the Bergenfield public schools.

I FIND that the Board did not consider an alternate education program for M.C. because, as Dr. Galish testified, it is "not a required option and because such programs can be very expensive." In light of the history of defeats of the school budget, Dr. Galish did not think an alternative education program was appropriate for an offense as egregious has having brought five weapons to school and using one of them to slash another student.

I FIND that the home instruction that M.C. presently receives does not include any instruction in world languages, any comprehensive health and physical education instruction nor any instruction in visual and performing arts. I FIND that those three areas are required as contained in New Jersey's Core Curriculum Content Standards.

I FIND, based on Dr. Greene's testimony, that expulsion without alternative education is at the far end of the punitive approach to school discipline, without consideration for psychological social or educational needs.

I further FIND, based on Dr. Greene's testimony, that expulsion without alternative education by a school district has many negative consequences for a student. These include: denial of educational opportunity; reduction of the chances that a youngster will lead a productive and fruitful life; denial of critical factors – attachment to school, attachment to caring adults, and engagement with positive peers – that protect against the youngster continuing to act in ways that are increasingly aggressive or inappropriate, creation of resentment and stigma and deprivation of the opportunity to work on social development.

I further FIND, based on the testimony of Dr. Greene, that there are best practices recommended by experts in the field of school and youth violence for the handling by school administrators of incidents involving the possession and use of weapons in school. Those best practices include: removal of the weapon and removal of the student from the incident, analysis of the safety of the school community and risk of the youngster harming him or herself, non-judgmental psychological assessment of the context of the incident, the student's psychological background and the student's current psychological functioning, motivations, and intent with regard to possession of the weapons; inclusion of the student's parent and guardian and the analysis of the incident and assessment of the student, referral to the police for clear violations of the law, and providing the student with the opportunity to be in a structured educational setting which enables him or her to progress educationally and that addresses the particular behavioral deficits exhibited by the student.

I further FIND, based on the testimony of Dr. Greene, that home instruction is not an adequate substitute for placement in alternative school. Home instruction tends to be for fewer hours than an alternative school or regular school setting and, since violent behavior tends to occur when children are out of a structured situation, it increases the opportunity to engage in negative or violent behavior. Home instruction denies youngsters the critical opportunity to learn how to resolve conflict with other students in an appropriate way which can only be done in vitro with other people around getting into inevitable conflicts and learning how to resolve those conflicts. Finally, a student's interest and engagement in activities such as poetry or art can help reduce significantly the likelihood of further aggressive outing act behavior and these activities are typically not covered in home instruction, but are often promoted by alternative schools.

Petitioner proposed, as a finding of fact, that M.C. poses no danger to his school community and to himself. This proposed finding of fact is based principally on the testimony of Dr. Greene, who testified that he "could make a pretty good inference" based on the materials he had read. He also testified that the best general predictor of violent behavior is past aggressive and violent behavior. He testified that youngsters who are dangerous typically demonstrate a chronic pattern of hurting or attempting to hurt others.

I am not persuaded by Dr. Greene's testimony in this regard. He testified as to what "typically" occurs. He did not testify to that a dangerous youngster always has a chronic pattern of violence. I agree with the district that Dr. Greene incorrectly minimized M.C.'s history, which includes fighting with another student and grabbing the crotch of a female student. More important, no documents that Dr. Greene read contained any specific information from M.C. himself. Once again, it needs to be pointed out that Dr. Greene first met M.C. on the date of his testimony and engaged in only a ten minute social conversation. He never engaged in any therapeutic discussion with M.C.

Additionally, I reject Dr. Greene's testimony that there is absolutely no evidence that M.C. is a sociopath who is not bound by traditional psychological motivations. His opinion in that regard is not supportable. By his own admission, he never spoke to M.C. about anything more than basic social conversation shortly before he testified. There was no therapeutic relationship. He did not observe M.C. at any time. He did not observe him in a school setting. He did not speak with any school staff. He did not speak with any counselor seen by M.C. out of school. He read documents which contained nothing from M.C. about himself about his behaviors on January 26, 2000 or any other date.

Dr. Greene acknowledged that in the "extremely unlikely event" that the January 26, 2000 incident was not the result of an intended or unintended provocation, he would be "reluctant to make any predictions about what might happen in the future with regard to aggressive behavior."

Dr. Greene recommended that M.C. be provided with the opportunity to be in a structured educational setting which enables him to progress educationally and that M.C. be given help in resolving conflicts in a social setting. He testified that this "certainly can be done in an alternative school." If M.C. were to be considered for returning to Bergenfield High School in particular, Dr. Greene also recommended that a mental health professional conduct an assessment with the school principal, M.C.'s parents and M.C. as to whether any negative feeling that M.C. may have about being expelled, as well as any negative feelings school personnel may have about M.C., were sufficiently mediated so that M.C. could thrive in that environment. He admitted that in order for M.C. to return to Bergenfield High School, all parties (including school staff) would have to feel "it was feasible." However, it is clear and I FIND that at least up to the point of the hearing before me, the district is resolute in its belief that M.C. should not be in the schools of the district.

Dr. Greene clearly recommended that placing M.C. in an alternative school was "absolutely not" conditioned on his opinion that M.C. is not dangerous.

Dr. Greene does not rule out the possibility of M.C. "performing satisfactory, if not well, in a traditional or regular high school setting." He recommends, before return to a traditional high school, there be an independent assessment individually done, to determine M. C's willingness and motivation to participate in that kind of educational setting. I do not accept Dr. Greene's testimony as to the efficaciousness of his recommendations. In making his recommendations regarding M.C' need for alternative education, he did not speak to any Bergenfield High School staff member. He did not speak with any counselors M.C. may have consulted out of school, nor did he review any counseling records. Although testifying that counseling is an important component in dealing with violent youth, Dr. Greene admitted that he was not aware whether M.C. had been engaged in counseling since the time of his expulsion. The fact of the matter is that he has not been engaged in any counseling since that time.

Evidence was presented by the parties which addressed what, if any, counseling or other services were delivered to M.C. by the district prior to his expulsion. I FIND, based on the testimony, that he was not provided any psychological counseling while a student at Bergenfield High School. I further FIND that Bergenfield High School does not provide psychological counseling to its students.

Dr. Michael Kuchar (current Bergenfield High School principal) and M.C.'s guidance counselor during the 1999-200 school year testified credibly and I FIND that although M.C. did not have educational guidance counseling built into his schedule, Dr. Kuchar spoke with him numerous times regarding his grades and performance, including attending classes, not cutting classes while claiming to be meeting with Dr. Kuchar, devoting a certain amount of time to homework on a daily basis, taking advantage of the peer tutoring program, utilizing time management skills, seeking extra help from teachers, and assuming responsibility for his school performance before getting a job. Dr. Kuchar testified credibly and I FIND that he had eight to ten "informal" meetings with M.C., mostly occurring when M.C. would come to the guidance office to avoid being in a particular class he disliked. I FIND that Dr. Kuchar had no discussions with M.C. about any behavior issues that went on during his tenth grade year. I further FIND that Dr. Kuchar never met with or called M.C.'s parents, never recommended to M.C.'s parents that M.C. receive in-school or out-of-school counseling and never discussed with M.C. or with his parents consideration of an alternative high school program while M.C. was student at Bergenfield High School.

Petitioner offered evidence, largely through the testimony of Acting Director Katherine Crill of the Department's Office of Special Support Services, that the New Jersey Department of Education published A Guide and Application for the Operation and Approval of High School Alternative Education Programs in November 1999 and Safe Schools Initiative in July 1994. It is without contradiction that both documents were distributed to all chief school administrators in the state of New Jersey. Both documents express the policies and positions of the New Jersey Department of Education. However, the guide does not suggest or mandate the creation of alternative education programs by local school districts in New Jersey and I so FIND. Furthermore, while the Department recognizes that, "for most districts," alternative education programs offer a viable option for destructive students, Dr. Galish testified that in his opinion, Bergenfield has successfully addressed the needs of students within its own high school, by providing individual support and has not found a need for alternative program.

With regard to the 1991 Safe Schools Initiative, the Department of Education recognized and I FIND that violent students and their families must be accountable for their behavior in the school environment and their rights must not supercede the rights of all students to a safe environment in schools.

Petitioner offered evidence concerning the number of alternative education programs run by local school districts. Evidence was also offered from which a fact finder could infer that students who attended county-based alternative education programs made significant academic and social gains in the alternative programs compared to their performances in their regular high schools. Additionally, petitioner produced statistical evidence from local districts on expulsion and removals to alternative education for reasons of violence (including weapons), vandalism, or substance abuse. In light of the conclusions of law I am reaching in this matter, I need not decide whether or not the statewide statistics are relevant to whether or not the district violated petitioner's right to equal protection or to a thorough and efficient education. The statewide statistics are not relevant to whether or not the district's actions with respect to petitioner were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Disciplinary decisions are made by local school boards, not by the state. Local school boards have been vested with broad discretion in matters of pupil discipline, which will be discussed in the legal discussion portion of this Initial Decision. It is worthwhile to note that the very statistics put forth by petitioner demonstrate, to the extent it is material, that less than half the high schools in the state have sent students into alternative education programs.

I agree with the district and FIND that M.C. brought five deadly weapons to school and that he knew that such action was against school policy. I FIND he clearly used the largest of these as a weapon to assault another student. I agree with the district and FIND that if M.C. did not intend to stab his classmate, his actions certainly could have resulted in injury. I further agree with the district and FIND that even if the fact is that the slashing by M.C. of the other student's coat was precipitated by a derogatory comment about his coat, such a violent response was excessive and unjustified. The situation which occurred, I agree with the district and FIND, was entirely avoidable.

LEGAL DISCUSSIONS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

New Jersey's statutes governing discipline of pupils recite:

> Pupils in the public schools shall comply with the rules established in pursuance of law for the government of such schools, pursue the prescribed course of study and submit to the authority of the teachers and others in authority over them.

In 1995, the Legislature enacted N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.2, which addressed assault with a weapon:

> Any pupil who commits an assault upon a teacher, administrator, board member, other employee of a school board or another student, with a weapon, on any school property, on a school bus, or at a school-sponsored function shall be immediately removed from the school's regular education program pending a hearing before the local board of education....
>
> Any student that is removed from the regular education program pursuant to this section shall be placed in an alternative education program. If placement is an alternative education program is not available, the pupil shall be provided home instruction or other suitable facilities and programs until placement is available. ... Nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting the expulsion of a pupil.

The statute does not provide that there must be an alternative education program provided after the board hearing. In fact, the statute specifically allows a board to expel a pupil. New Jersey's current statutory and regulatory scheme does not explicitly address the provision of an alternative education following expulsion. In non-classified student discipline cases, the provision of alternative education is optional unless otherwise directed by the Commissioner of Education. See Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 489 (1998), opinion clarified 164 N.J. 84 (2000) (Supreme Court would authorize state Commissioner of Education to implement alternative schools or comparable education programs aimed at reducing dropout rate, at request of individual schools or districts or as he himself might otherwise direct, in satisfaction of schools' constitutional obligation to provide thorough and efficient education). Respondent is not an "Abbott" school district.

Petitioner's first two arguments challenge the constitutionality of respondent's policy of permanent expulsion without the provision of alternative education. Such action, argues petitioner, violates petitioner's right to a thorough and efficient free public education by the education clause of the New Jersey Constitution of 1947 and the constitutional right to equal protection laws which has been recognized as included within the protection of Article 1, paragraph 1, of the New Jersey Constitution.

As a backdrop, normally in administrative proceedings, petitioners can attack the constitutionality of rules as applied, but they may not, as petitioner is attempting to do, mount facial attacks. See Lefelt, 37 New Jersey Practice, 107, § 3.8 (2000). Lefelt writes:

> Pure legal questions are exclusively reserved for the courts. Accordingly, an agency has no power to determine the constitutionality of a statute on its face. Agencies may not strike down statutes as being unconstitutional. Therefore, agencies are thought to be without jurisdiction to consider facial constitutional challenges to rules since these are also pure legal questions. . .
>
> When a facial challenge to a statute is begun before an administrative agency, the constitutionality of the statute cannot be decided. The agency may, however, either express its opinion on the constitutionality question or simply note its lack of jurisdiction to determine the matter. When a rule is facially challenged, by analogy the agency would similarly be precluded from declaring the rule unconstitutional. No administrative agency is authorized to decide pure legal questions.

I am, of course, mindful of the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 299 (1985), in which it was noted:

> [in] previous education cases raising or implicating constitutional issues, [the New Jersey Supreme] Court has called for exhaustion of administrative remedies when this will serve to develop a fully informed factual record and maximize the soundness of determinations through the agency's expertise. [Citations omitted.]

The rationale underlying the rule was articulated in City of Atlantic City v. Laezza, 80 N.J. 255, 265 (1979), quoted in Abbott, supra at 297-298:

> (1) the rule ensures that claims will be heard, as a preliminary matter, by a body possessing expertise in the area; (2) administrative exhaustion allows the parties to create a factual record necessary for meaningful appellate review; and (3) the agency decision may satisfy the parties and thus obviate resort to the courts.

In Abbott, it was "apparent that the myriad, extraordinary and complex factual issues presented [would] cause the litigation to turn on the import of proofs that demand close and considered examination and evaluation." Id. at 300.

Such is not the case here. The issues presented, while undoubtedly of great importance, are neither myriad nor complex. The need for developing a fully informed and factual record which existed in Abbott and cases cited therein does not exist here given that most of the operative facts have been stipulated. Neither does the compelling need for agency expertise. I CONCLUDE that the issue of the constitutionality of the district's present exclusion from its disciplinary policy of an option for the provision of alternative education to permanently expelled students, whether described as an attack on the facial validity of the policy or as some mandamus-like demand for policy making, is a question for the courts and not the OAL to decide.

Alternatively, petitioner argues that respondent's action in expelling M.C. without the provision of alternative education was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Petitioner concedes that every board of education must be afforded the ability to maintain safety and order within the schools.

> There can be no doubt that the establishment of an educational program requires rules and regulations necessary for the maintenance of an orderly instructional program and the creation of an educational environment conducive to learning. Such rules and regulations are equally necessary for the protection of public school students, faculty and property. The power of public school officials to expel or suspend a student is a necessary corollary for the enforcement of such rules and the maintenance of a safe and orderly educational environment conducive to learning.

> R.R. v. Shore Regional Board of Education, 109 N.J. Super. 337, 343 (Ch. Div. 1987); see also Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565, 580 (1975) ("some modicum of discipline and order is essential if the educational function is to be performed").]

In this regard, petitioner bears the burden of proof and the standard is by a preponderance of the believable evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962).

As was said by the New Jersey Supreme Court:

> The test of whether agency action is arbitrary and capricious is essentially one of rational basis. Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasonable action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is [valid] when exercised honestly and upon due consideration even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached.

The Appellate Division in I.F.A. Ins. Co. v. Dep't of Insurance, 195 N.J. Super. 200 (App. Div. 1984), at 208, expressed the test for arbitrary and capricious agency action thusly:

> If there is any fair argument in support of the agency's action or any reasonable grounds for difference of opinion among intelligent and conscientious officials, the decision is conclusively legislative, and will not be disturbed unless patently corrupt, arbitrary or illegal.

As one Commissioner of Education stated:

> [I]t is not a proper exercise of a judicial function for the Commissioner to interfere with local boards in the management of their schools unless they violate the law, act in bad faith (meaning acting dishonestly), or abuse their discretion in a shocking manner.

> H.G. v. Monmouth Regional High School, Bd. of Educ., 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 38, 42, adopted in part, rejected in part, State Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 364.

See also Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 296 (App. Div. 1960) and L.B. v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Elizabeth, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 110, 114 (wherein the ALJ noted that "[a]ction of a local school board that lies with its discretionary power may not be upset [unless shown by a preponderance of credible evidence to be patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motive]," citing Kopera, supra at 294).]

In Thompson v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Ed., 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965), at 332, the Appellate Division said:

> When such body acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The agency's factual determinations must be accepted if supported by substantial credible evidence.

In support of his position, petitioner cites several administrative decisions.

Petitioner cites M.G. v. Washington Twp. Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 6743-00 (Sept. 14, 2000), adopted in part, rejected in part, Comm'r (Nov. 6, 2000) (<http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>). In that case, petitioner sought to overturn the expulsion without provision of alternative education of a 16-year-old student following two drug tests that showed he was under the influence of marijuana. Petitioner claimed the expulsion was arbitrary and capricious, in that reasonable suspicion did not exist to suspect he student was under the influence of drugs, the district had no parental consent to test him, and that the proceedings before the local board were procedurally deficient. The ALJ noted that "[e]xpulsion of a student is an extreme remedy and visits a most unfortunate penalty upon the student, and indeed, on his family." Id. at 2. The ALJ concluded that the board's action was not arbitrary and dismissed the challenge to the expulsion.

The Commissioner upheld portions of the Initial Decision as it related to reasonable suspicion and parental consent for drug testing, but reversed the ALJ's determination concerning the procedural fairness of certain aspects of the expulsion hearing. Specifically, the Commissioner was particularly concerned that:

> Notwithstanding the fundamental nature of an expulsion hearing, not only were petitioners dissuaded from attending the hearing and arguing on A.G.'s behalf, but there are also indications in the record that the Board may have deliberately failed to consider the viability of options other than expulsion, such as alternative educational programs, that might be suitable for him. (See Exhibit P-1, tape recording of Assistant Principal Spector's comments to A.G.'s parents, prior to the expulsion hearing, in response to their inquiries about what would happen at the hearing and various educational options for their son, including alternative program.) Thus, while the Commissioner is fully cognizant of his limited standard of review, Thomas, supra, Kopera, supra, he finds that, under these circumstances, the Board's decision to expel A.G. may not have been the result of sufficiently full deliberation, so as to warrant the extreme result of terminating his entitlement to a free public education in the district.

Petitioner also relies on C.S. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Piscataway, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 573, affirmed, State Bd., April 11, 1998, a case cited by the Commissioner in M.G., supra. C.S. involved the expulsion of a twelve-year-old student under that district's zero tolerance for drugs policy. The student, who was twelve years old and in the seventh grade and had no disciplinary record whatsoever, sold imitation LSD to a classmate. Following the incident, the district immediately suspended the student and put her on home instruction pending further disciplinary proceedings. Prior to those proceedings, the petitioner in that case requested an evaluation by the district's child study team, which conducted the evaluation and concluded that the incident was caused by a disability which would have made the student eligible for special education. Nevertheless, the district decided, after an expulsion hearing, to expel the student and consistent with district policy, provide alternative education which the district decided would take the form of home instruction.

Petitioner alleged that the expulsion was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, but the ALJ concluded otherwise. The Commissioner rejected that conclusion, concluding that the expulsion was unreasonable, citing several rationales. First, the student had no record of prior discipline. Second, the student was twelve years old and, according to the Commissioner, "a twelve-year-old cannot reasonably be expected to fully comprehend the implications of such a sanction. ..." Id. at 577. Third, "the Board failed to consider, investigate and effectively utilize the local and county-based alternative education programs that are available." Id.

The third case petitioner relies on is Scher v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of West Orange, Essex County, 1968 S.L.D. 92, which addressed the propriety of a twelfth grader's expulsion as a result of his involvement "in an altercation with a teacher." Id. In Scher, the Commissioner was called upon to decide "whether a public school pupil whose expulsion is under consideration was entitled to a hearing, and if so, what form a hearing must take." Id. at 94. The Commissioner held that a hearing was required and proceeded to list the procedures which must be employed at the hearing. It was noted in Scher that prior to the expulsion, the district required that the student be re-examined by the child study team. The parents refused. The Commissioner held that "respondent's requirement of a mental health evaluation is a proper exercise of its statutory authority." Id. at 96. The Commissioner went on further to opine:

> Termination of a pupil's right to attend the public schools of a district is a drastic and desperate remedy which should be employed only when no other course is possible. It involves a momentous decision which members of a board of education, most of whom have had little specific training in education, psychology, or medicine are called upon to make. The board's decision should be grounded, therefore, on competent advice. Such advice can be obtained from its staff of educators, from its school physician and school nurse, from its psychologist, psychiatrist, and school social worker, from its counsel, and from other appropriate sources. The recommendations of such experts are an essential ingredient in any determination which has as significant and far-reaching effects on the welfare of a pupil as expulsion from school. It is obvious that a board of education cannot wash its hands of a problem by recourse to expulsion. While such an act may resolve an immediate problem for the school, it may likewise create a host of others involving not only the pupil but the community and society at large. The commissioner suggests, therefore, that boards of education who are forced to take expulsion action cannot shrug off responsibility but should make every effort to see that the child comes under the aegis of another agency able to deal with the problem. The Commissioner urges boards of education, therefore, to recognize expulsion as a negative and defeatist kind of last-ditch expedient resorted to only after and based upon competent professional evaluation and recommendation. In the case under review, the Commissioner calls attention to the fact that although the Board ordered an evaluation of petitioner by its mental health team, it made its determination with respect to his status before such an examination and the recommendations emanating therefrom could be accomplished. The Commissioner suggests that the decision should have been left open until after it had received the results of the examinations and the recommendations made by the examiners.

The Commissioner upheld Scher's expulsion, noting that the procedures used to expel him were "consistent with the law." Id. at 97.

The State Board of Education remanded the proceeding to the Commissioner to enable petitioner to present evidence tending to disprove that the assault at issue occurred. The State Board was concerned with "ambiguities in the record" as to whether or not he had been allowed to present such evidence to the local Board or the Commissioner.

The district correctly notes that every board of education must be afforded the ability to maintain safety and order within the schools and the high burden petitioner bears in establishing arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable action. The district opines that the expulsion was certainly reasonable in light of M.C.'s behavior, his awareness of the prohibition against weapons in school and the possible penalties for such possession and assault. The district also notes that state law requires removal from school for assault with a weapon. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.2.

As observed by the district on page 15 of its April 3, 2001 post-hearing brief:

> Given M.C.'s self-admitted behavior, the Board was entirely justified in expelling him. The courts have routinely upheld expulsions that were warranted. See, e.g., M.G. v. Washington Tp. Bd. of Educ. OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6743-00S (September 19, 2000) (expulsion for being under the influence of marijuana); K.W. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Lower Camden County Regional High School District No. 1, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6129-99 (February 4, 2000) (expulsion for telephoning a bomb threat to the school), adopted as modified by the Commissioner (March 20, 2000); P.S. v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Atlantic City, OAL Dkt. No. 10886-98 (June 23, 1999) (expulsion for group fight with bricks and sticks), adopted by the Commissioner (August 4, 1999); W. W. v. Bd. of Educ. of Penns Grove-Carneys Point Regional School Dist., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2059-98 (April 8, 1998) (expulsion for profanity and for shoving two coaches), adopted by the Commissioner (May 22, 1998); K.O.H. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Tp. of Edison, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 27 (1995) (expulsion for assault on teacher), adopted by the Commissioner, affirmed by the State Board, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) (1996). When viewed in light of the lesser actions that resulted in expulsion in the aforementioned cases, M.C.'s expulsion was justified . . .

Although not expressed in its post-hearing submissions, it is fair to say the district takes the position that to the extent it recognized a "duty to administer the procedures for diagnosis and classification of pupils who give evidence of emotional disturbance or social maladjustment" [Scher, supra, at 96], but for petitioner's suggestion (with which the District agreed) that the December 1999 referral to the P.A.C. be postponed pending M.C.'s performance on the mid-term examinations, the district would have complied with that duty.

I CONCLUDE that while the failure to provide M.C. with an alternative education following his permanent expulsion may be an open constitutional issue – and one that I am without jurisdiction to resolve – such failure was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, given, among other facts, that alternative education following expulsion is not expressly mandated by statute or regulation. This district decided not to establish post-expulsion alternative education programs. The district advanced a rationale basis for this policy. Under the law, I may not substitute my judgment or the wisdom of this policy for the district's.

A more in-depth analysis is required when assessing petitioner's argument that the expulsion of M.C. in and of itself – without regard to the issue of the provision of an alternate education program – was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Only one month prior to the incident which led to M.C.'s expulsion, the district was undeniably and undisputedly "very concerned," (to quote its letter to petitioner of December 1999) about M.C. The district expressly believed it appropriate to refer him to a committee that included Child Study Team personnel.

Despite this concern, when it came time to deliberate cessation of all educational services to M.C., no resort whatsoever was made by the district to the Child Study Team and/or other appropriate professionals, who could have evaluated M.C. and could have advised the district as to their conclusions and recommendations.

Judging from the testimony of Dr. Galish, the prospect of soliciting advice from these professionals did not even occur to him or the Board. That M.C. was found ineligible for special education and related services two years prior to the incident does not dilute the strength of this point, in that the lack of eligibility in October 1997 did not stop the district from being "very concerned" about M.C. in December 1999. The district's apparent position that petitioner impeded the district in discharging its duty to refer M.C. for a Child Study Team evaluation, and the veiled insinuation that the district, therefore, could, in effect, wash their hands of him, is untenable. Given the obvious "red flags" exhibited by M.C. and the district's concern that he might be classifiable as of December 1999, prior to permanently expelling M.C., the district had a legal obligation to insist on evaluations. If the parent refused, the district could have filed for due process pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7. Finally, that petitioner is not requesting evaluations for the express purpose of determining M.C.'s eligibility for special education and related services does not relieve this tribunal of ordering these evaluations if the interest of justice so requires.

While the district may understandably have felt frustrated with M.C.'s history of disciplinary actions and suspensions, given the evidence possessed by the district that M.C. may have been disabled, given the utter absence of other appreciable attempts at intervention, I CONCLUDE that the district's failure to consult with appropriate sources before permanently expelling M.C. without an alternative education program was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

In short, a black cloud looms over the decision of the district. Sufficient evidence exists to believe the district has illegally imposed the educational equivalent of capital punishment upon a child with disabilities whose behavior on January 26,2000 could have been a manifestation of those disabilities. Until that determination is made by those professionals competent to make it, the decision should not be allowed to stand. I CONCLUDE the presumption that the district acted correctly has been overcome and that petitioner met its burden of proof.

I CONCLUDE that in an expedited manner, the district should conduct evaluations consistent with N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1 et seq. to determine whether M.C. was a child with a disability before the behavior that precipitated the disciplinary action occurred. If the evaluators conclude that M.C. was a child with a disability, the district should follow the disciplinary procedures for classified students embodied in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.8, including a determination of whether the behavior precipitating his expulsion was a manifestation of a disability. I further CONCLUDE that the evaluations should include assessments by the appropriate mental health professionals as to whether or not M. C. presents a continuing danger to himself, others or to the orderly and safe operation of the school. Pending the evaluations, I CONCLUDE that the district should continue petitioner on home instruction in a manner consistent with the Commissioner's September 15, 2000 Decision on Motion. If the evaluators conclude that M. C. was not a child with a disability, I CONCLUDE, setting aside the constitutional issues as I must, that the expulsion is not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

ORDER

1. Petitioner's appeal for a Declaratory Ruling that the district's expulsion of M.C. violated M.C.'s right to a thorough and efficient education under Article VIII, Section IV of the New Jersey Constitution is hereby DENIED for lack of jurisdiction.

2. Petitioner's appeal for a Declaratory ruling that the district's denial of an alternative education program to M.C. violated M.C.'s right to a thorough and efficient education under Article VIII, Section IV of the New Jersey Constitution is hereby DENIED for lack of jurisdiction.

3. Petitioner's appeal for a Declaratory Ruling that the district's expulsion of M.C. was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable is GRANTED.

4. Petitioner's appeal for a Declaratory Ruling that the district's denial of an alternative education program to M.C. was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable is DENIED.

5. Petitioner's appeal for a Declaratory Ruling that the district's expulsion of M.C. violated his right to equal protection as guaranteed under the New Jersey Constitution is hereby DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

6. Petitioner's appeal for an Order setting aside the expulsion of M.C. and requiring respondents to immediately assess M.C.'s alternative education needs and to identify an appropriate alternative education program for M.C. that meets the Core Curriculum Content Standards is hereby DENIED.

7. Petitioner's appeal for an Order expunging all record of M.C.'s expulsion from his school records is hereby GRANTED.

8. In an expedited manner, the district shall conduct evaluations for the purpose of determining whether prior to January 26, 2000, M.C. was a child with a disability within the purview of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and other applicable statutes and regulations.

9. The evaluations shall include an assessment(s) as to whether M.C. presents a continuing danger to himself, others or the safe and orderly operation of the school.

10. If the district concludes from the evaluations and recommendations that M.C. was classifiable, the district shall proceed in accordance with the IDEA and other applicable statutes and regulations and discipline M.C. in accordance with the special provisions governing the discipline of classified students.

11. Pending the above determinations, the district shall continue to provide M.C. with the quality and quantity of home instruction consistent with the Commissioner's September 15, 2000 Decision on Motion.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER

OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Both parties submitted exception and reply arguments.

BOARD'S EXCEPTIONS/PETITIONERS' REPLIES

The Board initially contends that the Commissioner should disregard the additional requested relief set forth at pages 6 through 8 of the Initial Decision, in that these requests were never pled and petitioners never sought to amend their pleadings pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2. Rather, the relief sought by petitioners should, argues the Board, be limited to that which is pled in the Verified Petition of Appeal. Therein, petitioners do not seek to have M.C. evaluated by a psychologist but, rather, to assess his alternative education needs so as to identify an appropriate alternative education program. (Board's Exceptions at 2) The Board points out that the petition does not seek M.C.'s placement in a public school setting. Although the Board acknowledges that the rules of Superior Court allow judgments to include relief to which a party is entitled, even if not pled, such relief is granted only where the parties have an adequate opportunity to be heard as to the relief granted. Here, the Board contends:

> Petitioner[s were] given the opportunity to pursue issues regarding special education and specifically rejected that opportunity. Certainly, one opportunity available to the Petitioner[s] was a due process hearing seeking to have M.C. evaluated to determine whether he was eligible for special education and related services. That evaluation could have included a psychological evaluation. However, the Petitioner[s] chose not to pursue that avenue, and specifically rejected this avenue when questioned by the court. The Board could not have foreseen that the court sua sponte would have raised the issue previously rejected by the Petitioner[s]. If special education were an issue in this case, the Board would have put on different witnesses and addressed those issues. As it stands, the Board was not given that opportunity. (Id. at 2-3)

In reply, petitioners assert that, indeed, they put the Board on notice that they were seeking M.C.'s return to a traditional public school setting as an alternative form of relief. (Petitioners' Reply at 2) Specifically, in her opening statement at the plenary hearing, petitioners' counsel so requested. Although the Board emphatically objected to this alternative request being raised at the start of the hearing, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) overruled the objection, stating, inter alia, that the Board would be permitted more time, if necessary, for additional investigation so as to allow it to meet this claim. (Ibid., citing to Tr. 1/30/01 at 18) Moreover, petitioners reason, that the OAL rules for amending pleadings are liberal, and since the Board was clearly put on notice of their alternative relief, yet did not make any requests for the additional time offered to it by the ALJ, it cannot claim to be prejudiced by this request. (Id. at 3) Moreover, petitioners argue that while they did not raise special education claims in this matter, they never waived their rights under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). To the extent local boards have an affirmative "child find" obligation imposed by IDEA, the ALJ's identification of M.C. as potentially eligible for special education services obligates the Board to conduct such an evaluation. Further, petitioners add that since M.C. is still of an age eligible for special education services and is "still within the time period in which he is subjected to expulsion" (id. at 4), the ALJ's recommendation for his evaluation constitutes a "request" under IDEA and, therefore:

> P.H. specifically authorizes and requests the Board to conduct a full and individual evaluation of M.C. to determine his eligibility for special education and related services, and asks that the Commissioner direct the Board to conduct such an evaluation as required by IDEA. Based on the request of the ALJ and P.H. for M.C.'s evaluation while he is subjected to expulsion, the Board and the Commissioner have no discretion but to provide such an evaluation. (Id. at 5)

The Board next reiterates its position that M.C.'s intent with respect to the slashing incident is irrelevant; "[t]he fact remains that N.S. could have been gravely injured as a result of M.C.'s actions." (Board's Exceptions at 3) Further, since the ALJ found that the record did not support the conclusion that M.C. did not intend to injure N.S., "whether Dr. Galish recommended expulsion without ascertaining M.C.'s intent is not relevant to the ultimate issue of discipline." (Id. at 5) Moreover, although the ALJ found that P-3 and P-9 were the only documents introduced at M.C.'s hearing prior to expulsion, the Board clarifies that the testimony reflects that these two documents were the only reports of the incident prepared for the hearing, but were not the only two documents. (Id.) Additionally, the Board underscores that there is no legal requirement that district guidance counselors, social workers or school psychologists testify at a board hearing. Neither are local districts required to perform child study team (CST) evaluations prior to expulsion of a noneducationally disabled pupil. (Ibid.)

To this, petitioners respond that although M.C.'s intent or motivation is immaterial to their claim that he is constitutionally entitled to alternative education after expulsion, they nevertheless maintain that the Board's knowledge of M.C.'s intent or motivation is relevant to their claim that the Board acted arbitrarily and capriciously. (Petitioners' Reply at 6) In this connection, petitioners contend that the Board's failure to solicit testimony or reports from any district guidance counselor, social worker or school psychologist prior to resolving to permanently expel M.C. constitutes a substantive deficiency. (Id. at 8)

The Board next asserts that the ALJ placed undue weight on Dr. Greene's testimony, in that such testimony was "generalized and not at all specific to M.C." (Board's Exceptions at 7) Moreover, the "best practices" that Dr. Greene addressed in testimony, have not, according to the Board, been adopted by the Commissioner, State Board or New Jersey Courts. The Board underscores that it need only act in a manner which is not arbitrary or capricious. (Id. at 8)

In reply, petitioners urge that Dr. Greene's testimony regarding the ill effects of expulsion be credited, inasmuch as the Board has introduced no testimony or documentary evidence to support the proposition that expulsion has any deterrent effect on the behavior of other students. (Petitioners' Reply at 10) Petitioners reason that a failure to employ recognized "best practices" is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable when that failure results in a student's permanent expulsion. (Id. at 11)

The Board's exceptions further assert that the ALJ ascribed to it a position which is not supported by the within record. Specifically, the ALJ concludes "that the Board implicitly argued that M.C.'s father's request to put off scheduling a Pupil Assistance Committee ("PAC") meeting until after mid-term exams was a means of circumventing District responsibility and washing the Board's hands of M.C." (Board's Exceptions at 8) However, the Board argues that the parties herein stipulated to the existence of a referral letter (J-2), as well as M.C.'s father's request to postpone action until after his exams. The PAC meeting did not take place because M.C. was suspended during the course of the mid-term exam period. (Ibid.) Moreover, the Board clarifies that the reason for the PAC referral was based on M.C.'s three failures for the first marking period, and had nothing to do with his behavior in school or his potential for being classified. (Id. at 8-9) To the extent the ALJ concludes that the Board had an obligation to evaluate M.C. for special education services before it expelled him simply because he had been referred to the PAC for experiencing academic difficulties, the Board asserts that the ALJ's position is not supported by the law. (Id. at 9) Here, the Board underscores that the PAC is designed for regular education students who have not been determined eligible for special education services. While the Board acknowledges there may be instances where a PAC referral precedes a student's ultimate referral to the CST pursuant to a district's "child find" obligations, "there is no provision  that suggests that a PAC referral requires a school district to make a determination of eligibility for special education services where there is a pending disciplinary hearing." (Id. at 9-10) Further, the Board argues:

> Under the IDEA, a regular education student facing disciplinary action is not entitled to the protections of the special education laws if the school district did not have knowledge that the child was a child with a disability. (citations omitted)  (Id. at 11)

> In this case, there is no evidence to suggest that the Board had "knowledge" that M.C. may be a student with a disability un accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.527. Accordingly, M.C. was appropriately subjected to the same disciplinary measures applied to students without disabilities who engage in behaviors in violation of Board rules of conduct.  (Id. at 13)

To buttress its claim to a lack of knowledge, the Board indicates that M.C. was not referred to the PAC for violent or disruptive behavior or a suspected disability. Additionally, pursuant to its "child find" obligations, M.C. had already been referred for an evaluation by the Board's CST two years before his expulsion and determined not eligible for special education services. Finally, the Board notes that M.C.'s parents never disputed or challenged the CST's determination that M.C. was not eligible for special education, never requested a due process hearing, or additional evaluations. (Id. at 14) Thus, the Board concludes that it has been "profoundly prejudiced" by its lack of "opportunity to present testimony and documentation at the hearing to address this post-hearing issue." (Id. at 15)

Petitioners view the Board's argument in this regard as a concession that "it took no action whatsoever in response to M.C.'s increasingly inappropriate behavior in school, which culminated in his expulsion." (Petitioners' Reply at 11) Petitioners contend that the stipulated facts demonstrate that M.C. had a "troubled record" both at Bergenfield High School and Bergenfield Middle School; yet, M.C. did not receive any physiological counseling and his counselor did not discuss behavioral issues with him or recommend that his parents get counseling for him. Therefore, petitioners maintain that the Board's imposition of the harsh remedy of expulsion before attempting less drastic interventions, as well as its failure to refer M.C. to an alternative education program before he exhibited behavior which gave rise to his expulsion is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. (Id. at 12)

PETITIONERS' EXCEPTIONS/BOARD'S REPLIES

Petitioners take issue with the ALJ's finding that the Department of Education's publication, A Guide and Application for the Operation and Approval of High School Alternative Education Programs (November 1999) (Guide), '"does not ...mandate the creation of alternative education programs by local districts in New Jersey .'" (Petitioners' Exceptions at 3, citing to Initial Decision at 30) To the contrary, petitioners contend that Department policy supports and recommends the creation and use of alternative education programs for local districts. (Id.)

The Board counters that the Guide discusses the merits of alternative educational programming and provides necessary guidance for a local board's application for approval of such a program, but does not suggest that all local districts in New Jersey create alternative education programs. (Board's Reply at 2)

Petitioners next except to the "ALJ's oversight in not making an explicit finding that Dr. Greene is an expert in the area of the causes and prevention of school and youth violence." (Petitioners' Exceptions at 6) They also object to the ALJ's rejection of Dr. Greene's opinion that: (1) M.C. poses no danger to his school community and to himself; (2) placement in alternative education would be appropriate for M.C.; and (3) M.C. most likely acted out of feelings of anger, resentment, inadequacy or perceived provocation. (Id. at 7-8)

To this, the Board counters that, indeed, the ALJ specifically noted that Dr. Greene was permitted to testify and as an expert in the causes and prevention of school violence. (Board's Reply at 3) Furthermore, since Dr. Greene admitted that he did not speak to M.C. until he had a 10-minute social conversation with him prior to his testimony, and that he never reviewed any documents about the incident in question, the ALJ properly credited his supposed "expert" opinions. (Ibid.)

Petitioners also take exception to the ALJ's failure to rule on any of their constitutional claims. Contrary to the ALJ's finding, petitioners maintain that the Commissioner has jurisdiction to decide these issues. Petitioners argue that the ALJ "is simply incorrect" in describing their constitutional claims "as either 'an attack on the facial validity of [the Board's disciplinary] policy or as some mandamus-like demand for policy making.'" (Petitioners' Exceptions at 10, citing to Initial Decision at 33) Petitioners herein clarify that their challenge is "clearly on the constitutionality of the Board's action as applied to M.C., [which] is inextricably linked to an examination of the legality of the Board's expulsion of M.C. without alternative education." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 10)

The Board, however, contends that petitioners' argument is a fallacy, in that their constitutional attacks are not unique to M.C. and could be applied to any student in New Jersey who is expelled without alternative education. (Board's Reply at 4) The Board reasons that petitioners have attacked the constitutionality of various State statutes, and the administrative courts are not the appropriate forum for determining the constitutionality of these State statutes.

Petitioners additionally claim that the ALJ applied the wrong standard of review for determining M.C.'s entitlement to an education. That is, petitioners assert that the "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" standard is not applicable herein, since a student's fundamental rights are at issue:

> Because a fundamental right is at issue, every instance of long-term suspension and expulsion must be examined under a fundamental rights analysis, requiring the weighing of the governmental and individual interests involved and a determination of the narrowest means to achieve the governmental interest. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 11)

The Board, however, argues that the arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable standard is routinely applied to expulsion cases, and case law holds that there is no need to explore constitutional issues when the Kopera, supra, standards are met. (Board's Reply at 5)

Petitioners next take exception to the ALJ's Interlocutory Order, dated January 5, 2001, (dismissing the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education as respondents) and to the ALJ's Interlocutory Order, dated January 9, 2001, (denying petitioners' request that he take judicial notice of a factual finding in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998)), seeking the reversal of the respective Orders. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 11-13)

In reply, the Board argues that petitioners fail to note that both Orders were subject to interlocutory appeal, and both Orders were affirmed by the Commissioner on January 22, 2001 and January 26, 2001, respectively. Thus, the Board asserts, petitioners are not entitled to "a second bite out of the apple" by appealing the Commissioner's decisions at this time. (Board's Reply at 6) The aforementioned Orders by the Commissioner are considered final orders as to separable issues. Since an appeal to the State Board of Education of a final order by the Commissioner must be made within 30 days for the filing date of the decision, the Board reasons that petitioners are clearly out of time to challenge these Orders. (Id.)

Petitioners further challenge the ALJ's conclusion that the Board's failure to provide M.C. with alternative education following his expulsion was not arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. In support of their claim, they cite to the Commissioner's decisions in C.S. v. Bd. of Education of the Tp. of Piscataway, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 573, aff'd State Board April 11, 1998, and M.G. v. Bd. of Educ. of Twp. of Washington, Commissioner Decision November 6, 2000. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 14) That the ALJ concluded the Board had a rational basis for denying post-expulsion alternative education to M.C. was, according to petitioners, erroneous:

> The Board does not need to establish its own alternative education program in order to provide alternative education to M.C.; it could enroll him in the program of another county or local school district. The Board produced no evidence that it would be very expensive to enroll M.C. in another district's program ." (Id. at 14-15)

Similarly, petitioners object to the ALJ's conclusion that the Board's expulsion is not arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable if, upon evaluation, M.C. is determined not to be a child with a disability. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 15) Here, petitioners reason that the record establishes that, irrespective of the results of the evaluation, the Board's failure to assess M.C. and offer less drastic interventions renders its action arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The Board counters that "[p]etitioners have lost sight of the very core of this dispute: there exists no legal obligation imposed upon local school districts in New Jersey to afford students expelled in accordance with law the opportunity to attend an alternative education program." (Board's Reply at 7) Neither do the cases cited by petitioners create any obligation to provide such services. (Id. at 8)

As to the ALJ's Order that a determination be made whether M.C. was a child with a disability prior to January 26, 2001, petitioners argue that if M.C. was a child with a disability before that date, then he was entitled to the protections of IDEA which preclude expulsion for behavior related to a disability and which further require that, if a student is expelled for behavior which is not a manifestation of his disability, the student must still receive a free appropriate education. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 17) Petitioners add that "if M.C. is determined to be a child with a disability during any time that he is subject to disciplinary measures by the Board, such as during his period of expulsion" he must receive special education and related services under IDEA. (Ibid.)

The Board finds petitioners' challenge in this regard to be disingenuous at best. Where petitioners made it clear that this case did not concern an alleged denial of special education services or treatment inconsistent with IDEA, and the Board attests that petitioners' counsel specifically disclaimed any allegations of entitlement to special education services on behalf of M.C., they should not now be permitted to argue in favor of the very IDEA protections they rejected. (Board's Reply at 8-9)

Finally, as to the ALJ's Order that, pending the evaluations for special education, the Board must continue to provide M.C. with home instruction consistent with the Commissioner's Decision on Motion of September 15, 2000, petitioners argue that the Order is inconsistent with the ALJ's finding that home instruction is not an adequate substitute for placement in an alternative education program. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 17-18; citing to Initial Decision at 27) Petitioners maintain that M.C.'s home instruction should include the areas required by New Jersey's Core Curriculum Content Standards.

The Board points out, in this connection, that M.C. is receiving instruction in English, Math, Science, and History, as well as Basic Skills instruction in English and Math, and neither the Commissioner's September 15, 2000 Order nor current statute, regulation or case law require more than that which is provided; similarly, compliance with the Core Curriculum Content Standards is not required. (Board's Reply at 9-10)

The balance of petitioners "exceptions" merely identify where the ALJ's findings were not as comprehensive as petitioners would like, but do not, in most instances, challenge those findings made by the ALJ as erroneous and/or not supported by the record in this matter.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL on January 30, 2001, January 31, 2001, February 14, 2001 and March 15, 2001, the Commissioner determines to adopt the Initial Decision, with modification. The essential factual findings issued by the ALJ, the Commissioner notes are well-grounded in the record before him and, therefore, except as specifically noted herein, those findings are affirmed. In so affirming, the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's credibility determinations, finding that he carefully measured conflicts, inconsistencies and potential biases in deciding which testimony to credit in reaching his findings of fact. As the finder of fact, the ALJ had the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses, and judge their credibility. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 549, 550, citing In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 121 N.J. 615 (1989). (See, also, Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, New Jersey Appellate Division August 7, 2000, Docket No. A-5978-98T2 , slip. op. 14.)[1]

Initially, to the extent petitioners challenge the constitutionality of respondent's policy of expulsion without the provision of (post-expulsion) alternative education, as the ALJ correctly observes, neither statute nor regulation "explicitly address[es] the provision of an alternative education program following expulsion." (emphasis added) (Initial Decision at 32) Indeed, the Board's policy appears to be grounded in the current statutory scheme. Thus, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that this issue of constitutional dimension is more appropriately addressed by the Courts.

In addition to their constitutional claims, petitioners contend that the Board's failure to provide M.C. with an alternative education following his permanent expulsion was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.[2] In support of this position, petitioners cite to C.S., supra, and M.G., supra. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 14) However, the Commissioner finds that since neither case addressed the issue of post-expulsion alternative education, petitioners' reliance on these cases is misplaced. Moreover, to the extent petitioners contend that the Board improperly failed to provide M.C. with an alternative education program in lieu of, or prior to, reaching the ultimate sanction of expulsion, the Commissioner cannot determine that the Board acted unreasonably where the ALJ found, and the record presents no basis to challenge, that:

[1] The Commissioner herein notes that although he recognizes Dr. Greene's testimony that experts in the field of school and youth violence have embraced "best practices" for handling incidents involving the possession and use of weapons in school (Initial Decision at 27), the acknowledgment of such testimony should not be read as diminishing the significance of the State Board of Education's recent adoption of School Safety regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.

[2] Curiously, although the Petition of Appeal seeks, inter alia, a declaration that the Board's expulsion of M.C. was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable (Initial Decision at 2), petitioners' exception arguments find such standard to be inappropriate. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 11) Notwithstanding this assertion, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ, indeed, applied the correct standard in reviewing this expulsion matter. See, V.A., on behalf of minor child, K.M.A. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Collingswood, Camden County, State Board of Education July 5, 2000.

> Dr. Galish did not think an alternative education program was appropriate for an offense as egregious [as] having brought five weapons to school and using one of them to slash another student. (Initial Decision at 26) .[3]

Finally, the Commissioner declines to adopt the ALJ's conclusion that the Board had sufficient basis to believe that M.C. may have been a student with a disability at the time of the incident underlying his expulsion so as to oblige it to conduct a child study team evaluation of M.C. prior to determining to expel him. Rather, the Commissioner finds that he has no jurisdiction to reach such a conclusion, and holds that any allegation by petitioners that M.C. should have been evaluated to determine his eligibility for special education services and the protections of the IDEA must be pursued in a forum of appropriate jurisdiction. That such allegations were not previously or concurrently made when the instant matter was filed does not preclude petitioners from pursuing them now.[4]

Therefore, the Commissioner concludes that, under these circumstances, he has no cause to substitute his judgment for that of the local Board. Based on the compelling facts presented to the Board in this matter,[5] and noting the weight ascribed by the ALJ to the testimony of Dr. Galish, who affirmed that he did not automatically consider expulsion when he learned of the incident herein, but considered discipline ranging from suspension for longer than 10 days to expulsion (Initial Decision at 19, 25), and further noting there are no surviving claims

[3] Note that recently adopted regulations by the State Board of Education include a provision for mandatory student placement in an alternative education program, under certain circumstances. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.3 The code specifically provides for such mandatory placement where "a student [is] removed from general education for an assault with weapons offense, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.6." N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.3(a)2; see, also, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.6(d). The code further provides that if such an alternative education program is not available, "the student shall be provided instruction at home or in another suitable facility until placement is available, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-9." N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.3(b); see, also, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.6(d)1.

[4] The Commissioner notes that allegations of this type were neither made in the initial pleadings nor raised before the ALJ until the time of the post-hearing submission. (Initial Decision at 6)

[5] With respect to the evidence before the Board at the time of M.C's expulsion hearing, the Commissioner accepts the Board's clarification, noted supra, that the record herein reflects that P-3 and P-9 were the only two incident reports relied upon by the Board in making its decision, Tr. 3/15/01 at 71, 72, but the record does not substantiate that these were the only two documents reviewed by the Board at the hearing.

of due process violations (Initial Decision at 5), and assuming M.C. is not subsequently found, upon appeal to an appropriate forum, to have required evaluation and that any required evaluation, once conducted, does not conclude that M.C. is eligible for special education services as to invoke the protections of the IDEA, the Commissioner hereby modifies the Orders set forth at page 41 of the Initial Decision and DENIES petitioners' appeal for a ruling that the District's expulsion of M.C. was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and, further DENIES petitioners' appeal for an Order expunging all evidence of M.C.'s expulsion from his school records. (Id.) Finally, the ALJ's recommended Orders with respect to an evaluation of M.C. to determine his eligibility for special education services are hereby set aside for lack of jurisdiction.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted in part, and modified in part, as set forth herein.[6] The Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

For the Respondent-Respondent David C. Hespe, Commissioner, and New Jersey State Boad of Education, Todd Schwartz, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

On September 5, 2001, we directed that emergent relief pending our decision on the merits of the underlying case be afforded to M.C., a sophomore at Bergenfield High School who had been permanently expelled by the Bergenfield Board without any provision for an alternate education program. Specifically, we directed the Bergenfield Board to immediately assess M.C.'s alternative education needs and to effectuate M.C.'s placement in an appropriate alternative education program. Although the relief we directed was to be effective as of the first day of the 2001-02 school year, we directed that in the event that M.C.'s placement in an alternative program could not be effectuated by that date, the Bergenfield Board was to provide M.C. with home or out-of-school instruction until an appropriate placement could be arranged.

On September 10, 2001, the Bergenfield Board sought a stay of our decision and also moved for "leave to file an interlocutory appeal." In support of its motion, the Board argued that petitioners had not demonstrated any entitlement to interim relief and had not shown that there was a likelihood that they would prevail on the merits of the underlying case. It further argued that M.C. would not suffer any irreparable harm because he would be able to obtain a high school diploma by applying to another school district, enrolling in an adult high school program or by being home-schooled. It also contended that on balance, the equities favored denying the relief because the Board would be harmed by "having to expend funds upon a former student who had forfeited his right to an education by committing a violent act toward another student."

On September 13, 2001, petitioners moved for enforcement of the State Board's decision of September 5, 2001. In support of their motion, petitioners submitted a certification executed by their counsel which indicated that the Bergenfield Board had not yet contacted petitioners concerning implementation of the State Board's decision, that no attempt had been made to assess M.C.'s alternative education needs, and that M.C. had neither been offered nor afforded home instruction.

Upon the request of the Director of the State Board Appeals Office, the Bergenfield Board clarified on September 18, 2001 that it sought reconsideration of our decision by its motion of September 10, rather than leave to appeal.

On September 27, 2001, petitioners filed their answer to that portion of the Board's motion seeking reconsideration. In their answer, petitioners advised us that the Bergenfield Board had commenced providing home instruction to M.C. on September 25, 2001, and had scheduled a meeting for September 28 to assess M.C.'s alternative education needs.

In considering the motions filed by the parties, we cannot ignore the fact that despite the clear directive in our decision of September 5, the Bergenfield Board did not begin to provide M.C. with any educational services until September 25. We are appalled at the Board's recalcitrance in the face of our decision. We are also taken aback by the fact that the Bergenfield Board of Education does not appear to grasp the fact that any child suffers irreparable harm when deprived of an education for any prolonged period. Such an attitude flies in the face of the responsibility entrusted to district boards of education by the Legislature and the critical role played by a district board in insuring that each child domiciled in its district is provided with an education that will equip him or her to function as a productive worker and citizen in our democratic society. E.g. Abbott by Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990). Moreover, from an educational policy perspective, such an attitude is shortsighted.

Again, our decision of September 5 was clear. As set forth therein, we had no hesitation in affording interim relief to M.C. As we expressed it in our decision:

> ...we recognize our broad responsibilities for insuring the effectuation of the constitutional mandate for a thorough and efficient system of free public education "for the instruction of all children in the State between the age of five and eighteen years." New Jersey Constitution, Article VIII, Sec. IV, para. 1. See, e.g., In re Upper Freehold Reg'l School Dist., 86 N.J. 265, 273 (1981); Robinson v. Cahill, 62 N.J. 473, 509 n.9 (1973); Jenkins v. Morris Tp. School Dist., 58 N.J. 483, 494 (1971). It would be an abrogation of our responsibility were we to fail to insure that such instruction is provided to a child who is the subject of litigation before the State Board during the pendency of the matter. Furthermore, we find it obvious that a child such as M.C. suffers irreparable harm when he is deprived of an education for even a brief period of time. In fact, given M.C.'s academic record as stipulated by the parties, it is a certainty that he will suffer such harm if his education is disrupted at this point. The nature of the harm that M.C. would suffer were we to deny him relief far outweighs that which the Board may experience as the result of being required to provide him with an education during the pendency of the appeal in this case. In addition, it is clear from an educational policy perspective that the public interest is best served by continuing M.C.'s education during that period.

State Board's Decision, slip op. at 4-5.

Reconsideration of our decision reinforces our conclusion that the Bergenfield Board must provide M.C. with an alternative education placement during the pendency of the underlying case. Furthermore, the Board's failure to even begin the process of effectuating M.C.'s placement in an appropriate alternative education program until September 28 makes it imperative that the decision now be fully implemented immediately. We therefore deny the Board's motion for a stay and direct that the Commissioner of Education take all measures necessary to ensure that the Board of Education of the Borough of Bergenfield does in fact comply immediately with our decision of September 5.

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON MOTION

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, January 22, 2001

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, January 26, 2001

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, July 16, 2001

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Education Law Center (Elizabeth Athos, Esq., of Counsel)

This matter is before us pursuant to an application for emergent relief filed on behalf of M.C., a sophomore who was permanently expelled by the Bergenfield Board without any provision for an alternative education program for slashing at another student with a box-cutter, causing a gash in the student's coat, and for being in possession of four box-cutters and a Swiss army knife. Petitioners challenged M.C.'s expulsion by filing a petition of appeal with the Commissioner. The matter was then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing.

Prior to the hearing, petitioners sought emergent relief, which the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") granted on August 18, 2000. The ALJ's order directed the Bergenfield Board to immediately assess M.C.'s alternative education needs, to identify an appropriate alternate education program for him, and to place him in such program no later than the first day of the 2000-2001 school year. On September 15, 2000, the Commissioner issued his determination, modifying the relief which the ALJ had directed. Concluding that placement in an alternative educational setting was not an appropriate grant of interim relief, the Commissioner directed that M.C. be placed on home instruction until the underlying case was decided.

On October 12, 2000, petitioners appealed to the State Board from the Commissioner's determination denying M.C.'s placement in an alternative education program while the underlying case was being decided. However, they then requested that their appeal be placed in abeyance pending the Commissioner's decision on the merits of that case.

On May 25, 2001, the ALJ issued his initial decision on petitioners' challenge to M.C.'s expulsion. Stressing that New Jersey's statutory and regulatory scheme does not explicitly address the provision of an alternative education following expulsion, the ALJ declined to address petitioners' claims that the Board's policy of permanent expulsion without the provision of alternative education violated M.C.'s right under the education clause of the New Jersey State Constitution to a thorough and efficient free public education and the equal protection guarantees of the State Constitution. However, the ALJ concluded that the school district's failure to consult with appropriate sources before permanently expelling M.C. without an alternative education program was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. He further concluded that the District should conduct evaluations pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1 on an expedited basis to determine whether M.C. was a child with a disability and, if he was, that the District should follow the disciplinary procedures for classified students. The ALJ also concluded that M.C. should remain on home instruction as the Commissioner had directed in his September 15, 2000 determination pending the outcome of the evaluations. However, he found that if the evaluators concluded that M.C. was not a child with a disability, the Board's action in expelling M.C. was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioners' challenge to the constitutionality of the Board's policy was more appropriately addressed by the courts. He also rejected petitioners' contention that the Board's failure to provide alternative education following M.C.'s permanent expulsion was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. However, he rejected the ALJ's determination that the District should conduct evaluations to ascertain whether M.C. is a child with disabilities, finding that he did not have the jurisdiction to reach such a conclusion. Therefore, concluding that he had no cause to substitute his judgment for that of the Board, the Commissioner "denied petitioners' appeal for a ruling that the District's expulsion of M.C. was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 59.

Petitioners appealed to the State Board from the Commissioner's decision, requesting that this appeal be consolidated with their earlier appeal, which is currently pending before the State Board.

In addition, petitioners filed the motion for emergent relief that we are now considering. By their motion, petitioners seek emergency relief pending determination by the State Board of their appeals in the underlying case. Specifically, they seek a directive that the Bergenfield Board assess M.C.'s alternative education needs and identify an appropriate alternative education program that meets his needs and satisfies New Jersey's Core Curriculum Content Standards. They also seek to have the Bergenfield Board bear the expense of such program, including any necessary transportation.

The Bergenfield Board opposes any grant of interim relief.

In order for us to grant emergent relief in this case, we must be satisfied that: 1) absent such relief, M.C. will suffer irreparable harm, 2) his claim is based on a settled legal right, 3) there are no material facts in dispute, and 4) M.C. will suffer greater hardship if relief is denied him that that which the Board will suffer if such relief is granted. Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). In addition, the presence of an issue of public interest is a factor to be weighed. Samaritan Center, Inc. v. Borough of Englishtown, 294 N.J. Super. 437 (Law Div. 1996). See Yakus v. United States, 321 U.S. 414, 440 (1944).

After careful review of the papers submitted in the case, we conclude without hesitation that M.C. is entitled to emergency relief. Initially, we recognize our broad responsibilities for insuring the effectuation of the constitutional mandate for a thorough and efficient system of free public education "for the instruction of all children in the State between the age of five and eighteen years." New Jersey Constitution, Article VIII, Sec. IV, para. 1. See, e.g., In re Upper Freehold Reg'l School Dist., 86 N.J. 265, 273 (1981); Robinson v. Cahill, 62 N.J. 473, 509 n.9 (1973); Jenkins v. Morris Tp. School Dist., 58 N.J. 483, 494 (1971). It would be an abrogation of our responsibility were we to fail to insure that such instruction is provided to a child who is the subject of litigation before the State Board during the pendency of the matter. Furthermore, we find it obvious that a child such as M.C. suffers irreparable harm when he is deprived of an education for even a brief period of time. In fact, given M.C.'s academic record as stipulated by the parties, it is a certainty that he will suffer such harm if his education is disrupted at this point. The nature of the harm that M.C. would suffer were we to deny him relief far outweighs that which the Board may experience as the result of being required to provide him with an education during the pendency of the appeal in this case. In addition, it is clear from an educational policy perspective that the public interest is best served by continuing M.C.'s education during that period.

Accordingly, we grant petitioners' motion. The Board is directed to immediately assess M.C.'s alternative education needs and to identify and effectuate M.C.'s placement in an appropriate alternative education program. It is axiomatic that such program must satisfy New Jersey's Core Curriculum Content Standards. The Board is responsible for the costs of such program, including transportation costs.

The relief we are directing is effective as of the first day of the 2001-02 school year. In the event that M.C.'s placement in an alternative education program cannot be effectuated by that date, the Board must provide M.C. with home or out-of-school instruction until an appropriate placement can be arranged. Any such instruction must conform to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-9.1 et seq., including the requirement that it meet the Core Curriculum Content Standards. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-9.2(b). We emphasize that our directive that M.C. be placed in an appropriate alternative education program must be implemented immediately and that M.C. may receive home or out-of-school instruction only until such placement can be arranged.

DECISION ON REMAND

SYNOPSIS

This matter is on remand from the State Board of Education for a determination of whether the purchase of land by the Board with surplus was valid, in light of the State Board's determination that voter approval of the use of surplus to purchase land is required.

The ALJ determined, based on the testimony and evidence presented, that the voters were informed of the land purchase and the use of surplus to effectuate the same, and thus, that the purchase should not be disturbed. The ALJ concluded that the matter should be closed.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ, concluding that, based on the unique circumstances and sequence of events herein, the purchase of land should remain undisturbed.

This matter is on remand from the State Board of Education (State Board) to the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) for a determination as to the validity of the purchase of vacant land by the Board of Education of Fairfield Township (Board) with surplus funds and where the Board failed to include the purchase price of the property within its advertised 1995-96 annual school budget.

Pursuant to the State Board's Decision to remand the instant matter to the Commissioner, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to further develop a sufficient record upon which the State Board may base its final determination of the issue in controversy; i.e., whether or not the public was provided the opportunity to assess the Board's use of surplus funds and evaluate the district's financial condition so as to make the necessary judgment concerning the Board's proposed budget. In conformity with the State Board's directive, a plenary hearing was held on March 19, 2001, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City New Jersey. The parties submitted post-hearing memoranda, the last of which was received by the undersigned on April 30, 2001. The hearing record, therefore, closed on April 30, 2001.

TESTIMONIAL AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Daniel R. Mastrobuono, Ed.D., was the only witness to testify and testified on behalf of the Board. Dr. Mastrobuono asserted that he served as the Board's Superintendent of Schools from 1991 until January 1998. Thereafter, he served as the Camden County Superintendent of Schools for a period of three years.

Dr. Mastrobuono was involved with the land purchase in question. He asserted that Fairfield Township is divided into two distinct areas and the Board wished to purchase land in the center of the township for the new construction of a school building to accommodate both areas. The Board reviewed four building sites which were priced as much as $400,000 per acre.

One site was polluted while another site did not have access to sewer connections. The Board required a minimum of 40 acres and, he asserted, that the Ench site met the Board's and the Department of Education (DOE) criteria. The Ench site was accessible to public sewer and public water without any environmental restrictions. The owners of the property were Robert Ench and the Estate of Benjamin Kasper, partners trading as Bench Realty.

Dr. Mastrobuono testified that the public was involved with the proposed purchase from the very beginning of planning and negotiations. He asserted that the Board had formed a Community Task Force and referred to the Minutes of a Special Meeting of the Board held on February 7, 1995. Under the heading of PUBLIC DISCUSSION, the Board Minutes reflect the following:

> The meeting was opened to the public to discuss their feelings about the new school project.
> Some of the residents presenting comments and concerns were: Tom Munson, Margaret Bozearth, Nancy Burt, Joyce Taylor, Ruth Hands, Melissa Martinez, Cynthia Zirkle, Frank Goldsboro, Doris Pierce, Henry Bender, JoAnne Servais, Deborah Davis, Marg Broglin, Viola Thomas, Thomas Lane.
> Topics of discussion concerning the building were: cost of construction, current facility problems, recent repairs/upgrades, tax impact, property being considered, current status of state funding to the district, inability of residents to fund such a project. (Exhibit, BOE-1)

Dr. Mastrobuono testified that there were other meetings held with Parent-Teacher organizations as well as public announcements and publications by the Board. He then referred to the Board Minutes of its regular meeting held on March 15, 1995, at which the Board adopted a resolution which states, in part, as follows:

> NEW SCHOOL PROPERTY OPTION
> BE IT RESOLVED that a 40-acre site of ground on Buckshutem Road adjacent to the Federal Prison sewer line be optioned by the Board of Education up to a date not to go beyond July 15, 1995, at a fee not to exceed $200.
> (Exhibit, BOE-2)

Dr. Mastrobuono asserted that the option to purchase the property was for the benefit of the electorate, however, the annual school budget for the 1995-96 school year had already been published and, therefore, could not be included in the budget. The Board determined that it would use its surplus funds to purchase the property. Mr. Jacob, the Board's then attorney, was instructed to contact Mr. Ench with respect to the option. Subsequently, Mr. Jacob's law firm was in receipt of a letter from Bench Realty, dated May 31, 1995, rejecting the Board's offer of an option for the Ench property. (Exhibit, BOE-3). Dr. Mastrobuono testified that the Board had scheduled a special election at its regular meeting held on May 17. 1995. The special election was to be held on June 27, 1995, pursuant to the Board's Resolution for a Special Election (Exhibit, BOE-5)

On June 7, 1995, Mr. Jacob sent a letter to Dr. Mastrobuono where, among other things, he summarized the law regarding elections and offered the Board two options for its consideration. In his summary, Mr. Jacob stated:

> The law gives the Board the authority to enter into Option Agreements not exceeding one year in duration. However, an Option may be exercised by the Board only after authority to purchase the property has been given at an annual or special school election. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1. The law authorizes the Board to call a special election whenever, in its judgment, the interests of the schools require it, as long as it is not within twenty (20) days of a primary or general election. There cannot be more than two special elections within six months on taxing or bonding issues for the same purpose, without approval from the Commissioner. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-3. The Board must give the public 10 days notice of the election. NJSA 18A: 14-19.
> Given these facts, two courses of action are open to the Board:
>
> OPTION ONE: Hold the election on the bonding for the school project only, and not the purchase of the land. A separate special election to approve the purchase of land would have to be held once a suitable site has been identified. Because only 10 days notice is required, we still have time to amend the notice and properly post it before the election.
>
> OPTION TWO: Postpone the election altogether until such time as a suitable site has been identified and new Option Agreement entered. Under this Option the voters would > approve the funding and the site as a "package."

> My recommendation is that the Board adopt Option Two. Presenting the proposal to the public as a package should make the package more marketable. . . . .(Exhibit, BOE-4)

Dr. Mastrobuono testified that on June 8, 1995, at a special meeting, the Board postponed the special election by way of an unanimous roll call vote of the Board members present. (Exhibit, BOE-6) Dr. Mastrobuono asserted that the action was taken by the Board because it was believed that the Ench property was now a dead issue.

On October 18, 1995, the Board, at its regular monthly meeting, adopted a resolution to purchase a modification of the original site known as the Ench property. The resolution was adopted with six members in favor and two opposed. The resolution to purchase the land authorized the Board President, Christine Richardson, to enter into a contract for the purchase. The resolution stated that settlement would take place on or about January 15, 1996. The Board's Resolution also stated, among other things, that the purchase of the land would be funded out of its surplus funds. (Exhibit, BOE-7) Members of the public were present at the meeting. The executed Contract for Sale of Real Estate for the purchase price of $150,000 and which included the date of January 15, 1996, as the date of settlement is found in Exhibit, BOE-8.

At its regular monthly meeting held on October 21, 1995, the Board adopted a resolution to extend the settlement date from January 15, 1996, to a date not to exceed six months in which to finalize the purchase of the property. The settlement date was extended in order for the Board to acquire all of the necessary permits for sewer connections, among other things. (Exhibit, BOE-9) Dr. Mastrobuono testified that members of the public were present during the Board's discussion of the purchase of the property and its reasons for the extension for settlement.

Dr. Mastrobuono referred to the Board's tentative budget for the 1995-96 school year. Therein, under its Advertised Recapitulation of Balances, Budget Category 01640, Additional Balance Anticipated during FY94-95, it shows a balance of $150,000. The Superintendent asserted that because there was no purchase of land during the 1994-95 fiscal year, the $150,000 was returned to its surplus account in the 1995-96 budget. (Exhibit, BOE-10)

The Board's minutes of its regular meeting held on February 21, 1996, reflect that there was public involvement with respect to the purchase of the Ench property. Two members of the public addressed the Board with concerns about the site acquisition. The minutes of the February 21, 1996, meeting also shows that approximately 2.7 acres were added to the original contract, which increased the cost from $150,000 to $156,750. The Board adopted a resolution to transfer funds for the purchase of the property. The Superintendent testified that there were sufficient funds in the surplus account to pay the $156,750 for the property. (Exhibit, BOE-12)

On February 22, 1996, Board Attorney Frederick Jacob sent a letter to Mary Dean, Turner Dean Realty, advising the realtor that the Board had completed all of the necessary paperwork for submission to the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and to request a six-month extension for the purchase of the property. The additional time was needed to acquire the necessary sewer approvals. The Board Attorney reminded Ms. Dean that the Board had sufficient funds to fulfill its obligation to Mr. Ench. (Exhibit, BOE-11)

On March 21, 1996, the Board's Secretary submitted a Statement of Appropriations for the period ending February 28, 1996 to the Board. Item 12-000-4XX-710, Land Improvements, shows an available balance of $156,750. (Exhibit, BOE-13) Dr. Mastrobuono testified that the Statement was discussed at a public meeting of the Board. He also asserted that at this juncture, the Board did not have a valid contract with Mr. Ench nor did it have an approved extension of time in which to consummate the purchase of the property.

On August 15, 1996, Board Attorney Jacob sent a letter to Ms. Dean to advise, among other things, that the purchase of the Ench property would be on the Board's Agenda at it regular monthly meeting scheduled for August 21, 1996. Mr. Jacob requested that Ms. Dean attend the August 21, 1996 Board meeting with a firm commitment that Mr. Ench would accept the Board's offer to purchase the property. (Exhibit, BOE-14)

Superintendent Mastrobuono testified that on August 21, 1996, at its regular monthly meeting, the Board ratified the contract, with modifications, for a purchase price of $156,750. The resolution passed with five members in favor and two opposed to the purchase the land. (Exhibits, BOE-15 and BOE-16) The public was represented at the meeting. The Superintendent testified that it was his belief that the issue of the purchase of the land was an emergency. He asserted that, under such circumstances, it was his understanding that school law permitted the transfer of funds for the purchase the property.

Dr. Mastrobuono testified with respect to the Board's 1996-97 Budget, which included the amount of $156,750 in line item 01630 as a carryover from an appropriation for the fiscal year 1995-96. (Exhibit, BOE-17) He asserted that the document was available to the public for its review. He further asserted that the Board had no interest in keeping information about the purchase of the land from the public. In fact, he testified, the Board sent information to the parents and the general public concerning the purchase of the land for school purposes. He testified that there were publications concerning the purchase of the property as well as coffees, meetings with parent-teacher organizations and, meetings with the town fathers.

On August 22, 1996, Board Attorney Jacob sent a letter to Mr. Julius Lovell, Colonial Title Agency, advising, among other things, that he had an emergency settlement and enclosed the Contract of Sale of the property, dated October 30, 1995, together with the Board's ratification signed on August 21, 1996. Mr. Jacobs requested that a settlement be scheduled for August 27 or August 28, 1996. (Exhibit, BOE-19)

> During the 1995-96 year the Board entered into a contract of sale to purchase land. The purchase price in the Contract is $2,500/ acre. The purchase is contingent on the Board obtaining various federal and state approvals regarding the proposed use of the land as a school building site. As of June 30, 1996, the amount of $156,750. is reflected as a reserve for encumbrance in the general fund. (Exhibit, BOE-20)

Exhibit, BOE-21, shows the Settlement Statement for the property with the Contract sales price of $156, 750. Exhibit, BOE-22, reflects the Deed to the property.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the testimony and documentary evidence adduced at the hearing and having given fair weight thereto, I FIND the following FACTS.

The herein record clearly demonstrates that members of the public of the Board's school district were informed and involved with the proposition of the purchase of the Ench property for school purposes. There is sufficient documentary evidence to show that members of the public participated in the discussion of the acquisition of the property in question at the Board's public meetings. In addition, the public was kept informed of the Board's proposal to build a school on the site of the Ench property through publications and meetings throughout the school district.

I FURTHER FIND that while the land purchase is not specifically addressed in the Board's budget proposals, the amount of the proposed purchase price is reflected in its Budget Statement for the School Year 1995-96, transmitted to the Cumberland County Superintendent of Schools. (Exhibit, BOE-10) In addition, the amount of $156,750 is found in its Statement of Appropriations for the period ending February 28, 1996. (Exhibit, BOE-13). The Board's annual audit similarly reflects the Board's intent to purchase the property in question (Exhibit, BOE-20) All of these documents are public records and available to the public for their inspection and review.

I FIND Dr. Mastrobuono's testimony is credible where he asserts that the Board had no interest in keeping the information concerning the purchase of the property from the public. See In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521 (1950); Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 555 (1954).

CONCLUSIONS

The legal considerations as set forth in the Initial Decision, dated November 10, 1999, nor those of the Commissioner or the State Board shall be repeated here. Rather, I CONCLUDE that the hearing record, as reported herein, is sufficient for the State Board to make its final determination concerning the issue as to whether or not the public had access to information concerning the Board's use of surplus funds with which to purchase the Ench property.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the matter should be considered closed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

KASPER, EXECUTRIX OF THE ESTATE OF BENJAMIN KASPER, PARTNERS, TRADING AS BENCH REALITY, FREDRICK A. JACOB AND OLD REPUBLIC NATIONAL INSURANCE COMPANY, RESPONDENTS.	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION ON REMAND

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ that, notwithstanding the Board's failure to specifically include the purchase of vacant land as a line item in its budget, in light of the unique circumstances and sequence of events which existed here, the purchase should remain undisturbed and this matter should be considered closed.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is affirmed. The Commissioner transmits this matter to the State Board of Education, which has retained jurisdiction.

ALLYSON KOHLER, Petitioner, vs. TUCKERTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY DOCKET NO. STIPULATION OF AGREEMENT

It is stipulated and agreed between the parties, specifically, Allyson Kohler, an employee of the Tuckerton Elementary School District, and the Tuckerton Board of Education as follows:

1. It is agreed between the parties that Allyson Kohler will be granted twenty (20) sick days from the beginning of September 1999. This would, in terms of days, be calculated from September 2, 1999, the first day school, through September 30, 1999. (This would exclude September 6, 1999 which would have been a holiday).

2. The parties agree that that period from September 2 through September 30, 1999 is to be treated as sick time as per Allyson Kohler's doctor's note of August 27, 1999 previously submitted to the Superintendent which indicates that Allyson Kohler was disabled from 9/1/99 to 10/1/99.

3. The parties agree that Allyson Kohler will be given eight (8) sick days for the 1999-2000 school year, instead of the previously offered six (6) sick days as per the Superintendent's letter of July 1, 1999 to Allyson Kohler.

4. The parties agree that this agreement will not act as setting any precedent for future determinations concerning any of the issues that are treated in this Stipulation.

The record of this matter and the September 6, 2000 letter of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) acknowledging the Asbury Park Board of Education's withdrawal of its petition, and dismissing the Education Law Center's request to intervene in the matter in light of the Board's decision to withdraw, have been reviewed. Notwithstanding the Education Law Center's disagreement with both the Board's assessment that the students of Asbury Park will receive a thorough and efficient education in light of the Court's determinations in Abbott V and its decision to withdraw its petition, the Commissioner concurs that it is appropriate to approve the Board's withdrawal of the petition for the reasons expressed by the ALJ.

Accordingly, the Commissioner approves the withdrawal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2. This matter is, therefore, no longer deemed to be a contested matter before the Commissioner and is dismissed.

Eugene G. Liss, Esq., for respondent
(Murray, Murray & Corrigan, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 4, 2001 Decided: June 8, 2001

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

In October 1996, petitioner certified tenure charges against respondent, a tenured teacher employed in petitioner's district. Respondent filed an answer, and the Department of Education (DOE) transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 6, 1997 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

On April 1, 1999, the presiding Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued an Initial Decision approving a settlement which had been reached by the parties. The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) issued a decision on May 24, 1999, determining not to accept the settlement and remanding the matter to the OAL. The DOE transmitted the matter on remand to the OAL on June 4, 1999 for determination as a contested case, and it was assigned to this judge.

Conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings, and the parties attempted to resolve the matter. A hearing was subsequently scheduled for May 4, 2001. The parties appeared on that date and, subsequent to conferring, executed a Stipulation of Settlement. Attached herewith is a copy of the Stipulation. The record was closed on May 4, 2001.

The Stipulation of Settlement references, and is based on, a decision issued by the Commissioner on September 22, 2000 pertinent to respondent in another case (OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7958-97, Agency Dkt. No. 223-6/97). That matter involved allegations that respondent had intentionally participated in conduct intended to defraud the State Health Benefits Program and that such conduct constituted unbecoming conduct. The ALJ who presided over that matter issued an Initial Decision on November 8, 2000. Although observing that the issue of a termination was, at that time, moot because respondent had forfeited her position as part of a guilty plea to criminal charges, the ALJ concluded that respondent was unfit to remain a teacher and that action by petitioner suspending respondent was appropriate and should be affirmed. In his September 22, 2000 decision, the Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's Initial Decision, determined that respondent was not entitled to reimbursement of pay, and directed that the matter be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate, as it deemed appropriate. In the current matter, the parties state, in the pertinent Stipulation of Settlement, that all matters in dispute have been resolved by virtue of the Commissioner's decision and that they agree the matter is moot.

After considering the matter, I CONCLUDE that the current matter is moot in light of the Commissioner's decision of September 22, 2000 in OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7958-97.

Having reviewed the terms of the Settlement Agreement, I FIND the parties voluntarily have agreed to the terms and conditions of the settlement as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon and that the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement and that these proceedings be and are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's determination that her daughter was not entitled to a free public education in its District. The Board denied that petitioner's daughter was entitled to a free education in its District and counterclaimed for tuition.

The ALJ determined, based on the testimony and evidence presented, that petitioner is not domiciled in Union Township, and that, although S.M. might be living in Union Township, she is not living there with a parent or guardian who is domiciled in the district. The ALJ rejected the testimony of both petitioner and A.B., a family friend who assists petitioner in caring for her children, that petitioner lives in Union Township with her daughter, and found credible the testimony of the Board's investigator that petitioner was not at her purported residence on the six days she visited and observed the residence. The ALJ determined that petitioner must reimburse the Board tuition.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ and ordered that petitioner reimburse the Board tuition for the period of ineligible attendance.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1822-01

AGENCY DKT. NO. 5-1/01

M.C., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, S.M.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,

Resondent.

Richard J. Szemiot, Esq., for petitioner

Joseph M. Wenzel, Esq., for respondent
(Thomas McCormack, attorney)

Record Closed: May 18, 2001 Decided: June 1, 2001

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On January 5, 2001, petitioner, M.C., filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education to compel the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Union (District), to provide her daughter, S.M., with a free public education in the Township schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

On January 25, 2001, the District filed its answer to the petition and, on March 12, 2001, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing was held on May 18, 2001 and the record closed on that date.

In December 2000, Osborne F. Abbey, Jr., Assistant Superintendent of Schools for the Township of Union, notified M.C. that it had obtained information that her 16 year old daughter, S.M., lived in Union and attended the public high school there while her mother and guardian, M.C., was living in Newark. S.M. was to be removed from the Union school system as of December 19, 2000 unless M.C. agreed to pay tuition for her attendance there. The District also seeks reimbursement for tuition during S.M.'s alleged prior period of ineligible attendance. M.C. requested a hearing and S.M. was allowed to remain in Union High School pending the outcome of this appeal.

It is undisputed that M.C.'s son, R.M., also attended Union High School until he became the subject of a judicial restraining order preventing him from having any contact with a neighborhood girl in the Township of Union. In order to keep him from getting into further trouble, M.C. sent him to live with her mother, A.H., in Newark and attend Barringer High School there. There was no court order requiring this.

In support of R.M.'s attendance in the Newark school district without cost, M.C. induced A.H. to write a note (R-2) to Barringer to prove that both M.C. and R.M. were domiciled with A.H. in Newark. M.C. admits that she was fully aware of the content of the note and she presented it to Barringer along with her mother's PSE&G bill when she enrolled her son there. The note states:

> My name is [A.H.]. I am the owner of the house on 240 Summer Ave [Newark].
> My daughter [M.C.] and her son [R.M.] will be staying here.
> They will be living with me on the 3rd floor.
> They won't be paying any rent. I [A.H.] pay everything.
> I have other tenants living in the house.

The note is signed by A.H.

Schmidtberg continued her surveillance on April 25 and 27, 2001 with the usual results. A.B. and S.M. exited at about 7:30 a.m. She rang the doorbell several times on these days but no one answered. She then attempted to inquire about the family from the neighbors but they did not want to be involved and would not respond to her questions.

At no time during the six days of surveillance did Schmidtberg see any sign of M.C. in or near the apartment. Since the investigator was at the door by 6:00 a.m., she would certainly have observed M.C. who allegedly left at about 6:30 a.m.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a provides public schooling shall be free to any person over five and under 20 years of age who is domiciled within the school district. If the district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending school in the district is not domiciled within the district, the child may, after a hearing, be removed from the school system and the parent or guardian assessed for tuition for the period of ineligible attendance. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-b(2). The parent has the burden of proving domicile by a preponderance of the credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-b(2).

M.C. produced documents which showed that she held a lease on an apartment on Morris Avenue in Union, at least until December 31, 2000. She can also demonstrate that she had accounts with PSE&G and Elizabethtown Gas to provide services to the apartment. However, in spite of these, there are other documents and there is testimony in the record which casts serious doubt on her assertion that she is domiciled in Union.

First, there is the letter presented to Barringer by M.C. stating that M.C. lived with her mother in Newark. Second, there is the fact that M.C. turned over all parental responsibility for S.M. to A.B. proving that she planned to be absent from the Morris Avenue apartment and out of touch with her daughter for extended periods of time. Third, there is the lack of any sighting of M.C. at the apartment at times when the testimony of A.B. shows that she should have been observed there.

Finally, much of the support for M.C.'s story rests upon the testimony of A.B. His relationship to this family is not clear but I FIND no doubt that he is extremely protective of M.C. and her children, enough so to distort the truth to help her in this situation. I FIND his testimony to be simply incredible. It is unbelievable that M.C. leaves home every morning at 6:30 a.m. burdening him with the full responsibility to parent her daughter and he does not know where she is going or where she might be during the day. M.C. does not even seem to be around in the evening when A.B. stays to help S.M. with her homework.

A.B. stated that he lives in Toms River and there is no evidence to the contrary so that he may not be living in the Morris Avenue apartment with S.M. However, I FIND that there is no credible evidence that M.C. lives there either. The documents she presented as proof of domicile show only that she used the Morris Avenue apartment as a mailing address. It appears from weighing the evidence that S.M. is living alone on Morris Avenue under the watchful eye of A.B. but no finding of fact will be made in this regard. There is only one clear thing in this strange situation. I FIND that S.M. is not living in Union Township with a parent or guardian domiciled within the District.

I further FIND that M.C. has not been domiciled in Union Township since she transferred her son to Barringer on or about November 28, 2000 when the transfer came to the attention of Schmidtberg. The exact date is not in the record. This finding is further supported by the date of the "Limited Power of Attorney" (P-13), which is November 20, 2000. This is when M.C. turned over parental control of S.M. to A.B. in preparation for leaving her in Union to move to Newark.

In the present case, I CONCLUDE that M.C. has failed to carry her burden of proving that she was domiciled in the District at all relevant times.

If the parent or guardian fails to carry the burden of proof, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides that the district can remove the child from school and assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the period of ineligible attendance in district schools. In this case the District will not allow S.M. to continue attending Union High

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence that she was a domiciliary of Union during the period from November 28, 2000 through the present time, so as to entitle her daughter, S.M. to attend the Board's schools free of charge during this time. In so finding, the Commissioner notes, as did the ALJ, the conflicting nature of the documents and testimony brought to the record with respect to petitioner's claim of domicile. The Commissioner likewise concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons detailed on page 8 of the Initial Decision, that the testimony of petitioner's supporting witness is incredible.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board for the period of S.M.'s ineligible attendance in its schools, at the rate, as calculated by the Board, of $740.90 a month.

SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement and Release is by and between:

Lawrence Reznik and Yolanda Reznik, ("the Rezniks")currently residing at 2 Sussex Court, Bedminster, New Jersey 07921,

-and-

The Bedminster Board of Education ("the Board"), with offices located at 234 Somerville Road, Bedminster, New Jersey 07921.

WITNESSETH:

Whereas, on or about September 22, 2000, the Board filed a Petition of Appeal with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, seeking, among other things, a declaration of ineligible attendance in the Bedminster Public Schools by the Reznik's minor children, G.R. and V.R., and a concomitant award of tuition for the period of ineligibility; and

Whereas, the aforesaid Petition of Appeal was transmitted by the Commissioner to the Office of Administrative Law for a plenary hearing as a contested matter, docketed as OAL. No. EDU 8200-00, and is to commence on June 4, 2001; and

Whereas, discovery is ongoing in the subject matter and the Rezniks have been ordered by the Court to submit to sworn depositions; and

Whereas, the parties now wish to resolve the subject matter expeditiously;

Now, therefore, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, they agree as follows:

1. The Rezniks represent that they currently are domiciled in Bedminster Township at the above listed address.

2. The Rezniks shall deliver to the Board, at the above listed address, a certified check in the amount of $3,000 U.S. (Three Thousand Dollars), within five calendar days of the execution of this Agreement by both parties. Failure to do so shall render this Agreement null and void, and the Petition and related discovery shall resume immediately.

3. The Board shall withdraw its above referenced Petition, within ten days of receipt of the above specified payment by the Rezniks, and shall forgive the balance of its remaining monetary claim against the Rezniks for the attendance of their children in the Bedminster Schools through the date of this Agreement.

4. The Rezniks' children, G.R. and V.R. shall be enrolled in the Bedminster Public Schools at the appropriate grade level, as determined by the Board, free of charge, subject to their ongoing domicile in Bedminster.

5. The Board reserves all rights to file another Petition, in the event that the Rezniks' children do not remain domiciled in Bedminster in the future and fail timely to withdraw from the Bedminster Public Schools.

6. Nothing contained in this Agreement shall be construed as an admission of wrongdoing by any party.

7. The Rezniks acknowledge that they have been apprised of their right to seek independent legal counsel in reviewing this Agreement and that they enter into it without duress, and of their own free will and volition.

8. This Agreement contains the entire agreement between the parties, and no other representations, whether verbal or in writing, shall be binding upon them.

RELEASE AND
SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

1. Parties. The parties to this Agreement are: John W. Rickert (hereinafter Rickert), of 2400 McClellan Avenue, Apt. 508 East, Pennsauken, New Jersey 08109, and The Board of Education of Pennsauken Township School District, Camden County, New Jersey, its administrators and employees, (hereinafter BOE). John W. Rickert is party to an action before the State Commissioner of Education and against the Board of Education of Pennsauken Township School District in which Rickert is petitioner and the Board of Education, its administrators and employees are the respondents.

2. Release. These presents hereby document that in exchange for payment of compensation, to be paid in two parts, totaling thirty-six thousand dollars ($36,000.00) from the Board of Education, Rickert hereby releases, dismisses, discharges, waives and forever gives up and relinquishes any claims which he has or could have asserted against the Pennsauken Board of Education up to and including the date of this release for any kind of action, claim, conduct, or lack thereof, or wrong of any kind related to or having to do with his claim to any position requiring an administrator certification prior to the date of this document being executed by him.

3. Who is Released. Rickert agrees hereby to hold harmless, release, settle, and forever waive as to the Board of Education, it's individual board members, superintendents, administrators, employees, and ager. jointly, severally, partly or wholly responsible for any kind of action, damage, injury, prejudice, or negative effect or impact suffered by Rickert prior to this document's execution date relating to his employment, job assignment or compensation for same regarding the position of Athletic Director.

4. Payment. Payments shall be made in two (2) equal parts totaling thirty-six thousand dollars ($36,000.00). One payment of eighteen-thousand dollars ($18,000.00) within thirty (30) days of Commissioner's Decision and the second shall be made prior to November 15, 2001. Payment shall be made as soon as the Dismissal of the action and this settlement is approved by the Commissioner of Education.

5. Contingency. All payments and this release are contingent upon the approval of this settlement and its terms and dismissal of the pending action before the Commissioner of Education. Absent the approval of this Agreement by the Commissioner and the extinguishment of this action, no payment of any kind need be made and this agreement and release are in all ways null and void.

6. Who is Bound. John W. Rickert is bound by the release, as well as anyone who has a derivative claim, e.g. spouse, or anyone who succeeds to any rights of Rickert, such as heirs or the executor of his estate, is also bound. This release is made for Respondents for its benefit and all who succeed to the rights and responsibilities of the defendant, BOE.

7. Signatures. I understand and agree to the terms of this release. I acknowledge that I have had the benefit of the advice of my counsel in accepting its terms and executing this release for the dismissal and permanent extinguishment of any claims against the Pennsauken Board of Education regarding a claim of tenure to a Administrator or Supervisor position.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DENNYCE NUTTER SCONIER, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE, ATLANTIC COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

AGENCY DOCKET NO. 206-6/01

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :

HEARING OF DENNYCE NUTTER : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SCONIER, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE : DECISION

CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE, ATLANTIC :

COUNTY.

For the Board, Joan M. Damora, Esq. (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler)

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 15, 2001 by the Pleasantville Board of Education through the certification of tenure charges against respondent, a tenured teacher, for incapacity, unbecoming conduct, insubordination and other just cause; and

The respondent, having been served, via certified and regular mail, with a copy of the charges, the Board's resolution, the Statement of Evidence and the Certificate of Determination on June 14, 2001; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on June 15, 2001, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her; and

Whereas, such communications clearly provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period will, absent granting of an extension for good cause shown, result in the charges being deemed admitted; and

In that the certified mail receipt signed by respondent on June 18, 2001 was returned to the Commissioner; and

In that no reply has been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted; and

Whereas, the Commissioner's review of the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicate respondent was suspended with pay by the Board on October 3, 2000 until further notice and directed to undergo a psychiatric examination; and

Whereas, a psychiatric evaluation conducted on or about October 30, 2000 yielded, inter alia, various psychiatric diagnoses with psychotic features and R/O Schizophrenoform, including paranoia and delusions and limited intact judgment; and

Whereas, the psychiatric evaluation further indicated that respondent was "not threatening harming to self or others" and had no suicidal or homicidal tendencies but that she refused medication and did not plan to continue with psychiatric treatment "unless she is made to"; and

Whereas, on or about February 23, 2001, the psychiatrist who evaluated respondent advised the Board that respondent had not returned for treatment; and

Whereas, on March 6, 2001, the Board directed respondent to provide the name(s) and address(es) of psychologists or psychiatrists from whom she received treatment and the dates of such treatment, a directive to which respondent failed to respond, despite a warning that failure to do so would be deemed insubordination, which could result in disciplinary action; and

Whereas, the tenure charges and statement of evidence are replete with allegations of actions manifesting respondent's psychiatric diagnoses, which, according to the Board, "include delusions and paranoia as evidenced in disturbing comments made by Sconier regarding persons, situations, and objects; an inability to get along with peers; a heightened sense of racial animosity and hostile work environment; absenteeism and tardiness; aggravated physical disabilities; and an inability to adequately perform her teaching responsibilities. Such conduct became apparent during the course of the 1997/1998 school year and continued until [her] suspension on October 5, 2000, under the tutelage of three separate principals, increasing in number and seriousness of occurrences, finally necessitating her suspension. Sconier's illness, aggravated by her adamant refusal to comply with medical recommendations for treatment, renders her incapable of carrying our her duties." (Sworn Tenure Charges at 2); and

Deeming such charges to be admitted, and noting that respondent has not replied to the specific allegations contained therein, the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constitute incapacity, excessive absenteeism, unbecoming conduct, insubordination and other just cause, as charged by the Board, which warrant dismissal from her tenured teaching position; now, therefore

IN THE MATTER OF ROSEMARY JACKSON, :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF :

CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission found probable cause to credit the allegation that Rosemary Jackson violated the School Ethics Act by voting to approve a bill list that contained a bill of her employer. The Commission and Jackson reached a settlement wherein they agreed that Jackson inadvertently violated the School Ethics Act, and that the Commission would recommend a penalty of reprimand to the Commissioner.

The Acting Commissioner issued a decision imposing a penalty of reprimand for the violation of the School Ethics Act.

ROSEMARY JACKSON,	:
Respondent	:	Docket No.: C11-01
CAMDEN CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION, CAMDEN COUNTY	:	AGREEMENT OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, complainant Jeffrey Fox initiated this action against the respondent, Rosemary Jackson and said respondent has answered thereto; and

WHEREAS, the Commission found no probable cause to credit the allegation that respondent violated the School Ethics Act by accepting employment with a vendor of the Camden Board of Education but found probable cause to credit the allegation that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) by voting on a bill list that contained the bill of her employer, Respond, Inc.; and

WHEREAS, after a finding of probable cause, the School Ethics Commission becomes the complaining party; and

WHEREAS, the Commission and the respondent desire to resolve all disputes between them giving rise to the claims in this action; and

WHEREAS, the Commission and the respondent desire to set forth their agreement to settle their disputes here below;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Commission and the respondent agree to settle their disputes on the following terms:

1. Respondent admits to voting on a bill list containing a bill of her employer, Respond, Inc., although she did so inadvertently.

2. The School Ethics Commission, in consideration of the provisions hereof, recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose the sanction of reprimand for the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) on which it found probable cause. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2, a reprimand is a letter from the Commission rebuking a school official for having been found to have breached the standards of conduct prescribed by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq.

3. Respondent agrees that this settlement agreement concludes this matter and no further appeals will be taken.

Resolution Adopting Settlement -- C11-01

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties and the documents submitted in support thereof and has considered the testimony of the complainant, the respondent and the witness; and

Whereas, at its meeting of May 22, 2001, the Commission found no probable cause to credit the allegations that respondent violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. by accepting employment with a district vendor, but found probable cause to credit the allegation that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) by voting on the bill list containing the bill of her employer; and

Whereas, the Commission requested that its staff offer a settlement of reprimand for the above violation upon which it found probable cause; and

Whereas, the Commission has reviewed the draft settlement agreement and agrees with the agreement;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby consents to the proposed settlement agreement recommending a penalty of reprimand to the Commissioner of Education.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

I hereby certify that the School Ethics Commission consented to this settlement agreement

DECISION

The record and Settlement Agreement containing the School Ethics Commission's recommendation that respondent be reprimanded for a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), because she inadvertently voted on a bill list containing a bill of her employer, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29c, the Commissioner hereby accepts the penalty recommended by the Commission.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that Rosemary Jackson be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

AGREEMENT

On May 15 , 2001, MARY TECKTONIUS ("Tecktonius"), residing at 104 Lincoln Avenue, Avon-by-Sea, New Jersey 07717-1311, and the HOBOKEN BOARD OF EDUCATION ("Board"), with offices at 1115 Clinton Street, Hoboken, New Jersey 07030-3201, hereby agree as follows:

1. The Board has restored to Tecktonius' sick leave bank all sick days charged to her during the period of time from October 22, 1998 through October 21, 1999. As the result of the restoration of these sick days, Tecktonius has a total of 294 accumulated sick days as the result of her employment service with the Board. The restoration of these sick days is confirmed by the attached printout. (Exhibit A)

2. The Board agrees that, if necessary, it will issue appropriate amended W-2 statements for the period of time in question and comply with its obligations pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-32.1.

3. The petition in this matter, bearing O.A.L. Docket No. EDU 11814-99 and Agency Ref. No. 261-8/99, shall be dismissed with prejudice.

4. Tecktonius acknowledges that she has been advised of her right to consult with an attorney or representative of her own choosing prior to signing this Agreement, and has done so, and that she signs this Agreement as her own voluntary act and deed, and that she fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

5. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they agree to the terms and conditions of this Agreement and have the authority to bind the Board to its terms.

6. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

7. The parties agree that their respective covenants and entry into this Agreement does not constitute an admission of wrongdoing or guilt on the part of either party.

FRANK KILLINO, Petitioner, v. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CINNAMINSON TOWNSHIP SCHOOL, DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY, Respondent.	:	BEFORE THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL Docket No.: EUDOR 10341-98S SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties to the within matter hereby agree to settle and resolve the claims which were asserted by petitioner in the Petition of Appeal bearing the above docket number, based upon the following terms:

1. The parties recognize that petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education which asserts that respondent's failure to assign counseling work which required that he hold a Student Personnel Services endorsement, and which work was required of certified counselors employed by respondent, violated petitioner's tenure and seniority rights to be assigned said work for several school years, and violated the requirements of the Superior Court, Appellate Division's decision in Killino v. Board of Education of the Township of Cinnaminson, Docket No. : A-2042-84T7, decided April 30, 1986, and subsequent decisions of the State Board of Education and the Appellate Division, Superior Court, for example Taxman v. Piscataway Township Board of Education decided September 1, 1993 by the State Board of Education. The parties also recognize that the Board denied the allegations of the Petition of Appeal and filed an answer denying the allegations of the Petition of Appeal.

2. The parties agree that this settlement shall resolve petitioner's claims for a remedy for the asserted violations of his tenure and seniority rights, and that the acceptance and implementation of all of the terms of this settlement shall result in the amicable resolution of those rights, and shall control petitioner's tenure and seniority rights to future employment with respondent.

3. The parties agree that this settlement is contingent upon approval by the Commissioner of Education and its acceptance by the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund.

4. The parties agree that this settlement shall not apply to any claims that are based upon facts not presently known to petitioner. Nor shall it apply to any claims based upon any facts which may arise or occur after the date that petitioner signs this settlement. The parties also agree that any such claims are neither waived nor abandoned by this settlement, and that this settlement shall only extinguish those claims which petitioner is aware of as of the date of signing this settlement.

5. The parties agree that this settlement must be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and that if the Commissioner of Education rejects any provision of this settlement, if respondent does not fully implement the terms of this settlement, or if the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund does not accept and implement this settlement, all provisions of this settlement shall be deemed null, void, and of no effect, and that the Petition of Appeal, in its entirety, shall be deemed active and shall be remanded to the Administrative Law Judge for proceedings as a contested case, and that in such event, the parties shall retain all legal rights that they had prior to their entering into this settlement.

6. The parties agree that petitioner shall be restored to the status of supervisor effective July 1, 2001, and that because petitioner assumed the duties of the position of supervisor for the 2000-2001 school year, petitioner shall receive backpay in the amount of $4,500.00. The parties further agree that based upon petitioner's assumption of the duties of a supervisor and his status as a supervisor, petitioner's salary shall be increased in the amount of $4,500.00 for the 2001-2002 school year. Pension contributions shall be remitted for petitioner's position and salary as defined in this paragraph both for his backpay for the 2000-2001 school year and for the 2001-2002 school year, and that petitioner shall receive full pension credit for such salary, i.e., for the backpay that petitioner receives, and for petitioner's salary as a supervisor for the 2001-2002 school year. If the date of the Commissioner's approval is after the last school year paycheck, payment for the backpay shall be made within 15 days of the Commissioner's approval and shall be considered part of petitioner's 2000-2001 school year salary.

7. The parties agree that the duties petitioner shall be required to perform as a supervisor as required for respondent to fulfill its obligations to provide a thorough and efficient education.

8. The parties agree that the petitioner shall be assigned and compensated for a minimum of twelve additional days work for each year, to be performed satisfactorily during the 2000-01, 2001-02 and 2002-03 school years. The parties further agree that petitioner shall be assigned and compensated for no less work days than the amount of work days assigned to the senior certified counselor in the respondent school district. The parties also agree and understand that pension contributions shall be remitted for this work and that petitioner shall receive pension credit for this work, but that in accord with recent determinations of the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund, such credit shall be provided only prospectively, meaning for the 2001-02 and 2002-03 school years.

9. It is recognized that because this work is required and necessary, respondent shall make pension contributions and petitioner shall receive pension credit for all salary and compensation attributable to said work with all said pension credit to be provided. The parties further acknowledge and agree that the salary and compensation attributable to said work is apart and distinct from the payments referred to in paragraphs 6 and 7.

10. The parties agree that prior to the acceptance of this settlement agreement the parties shall seek recognition and approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education and the Division of Pensions.

11. The parties agree that when petitioner retires, petitioner shall be paid for all accumulated sick leave at the minimum rate of $100.00 per day.

Re: Frank Killino v. Board of Education of the Cinnaminson Township School District, Burlington County
OAL Docket No. EDU 10341-98

Dear Judge Duncan:

Enclosed please find copy of correspondence from Mindy Smith-Sopko of the Division of Pensions, which confirms that the Division of Pensions and Benefits has approved the settlement agreement. Accordingly, the parties request that you issue an initial decision approving the settlement agreement.

Thank you for your patience and cooperation in this matter.

Respectfully submitted,

Re: Frank Killino

Dear Mr. Friedman:

This is in response to your letter, dated May 30, 2001, in which you requested the Division of Pensions and Benefits approval for pension purposes of the award of back salary in the settlement agreement between the above named member and his employer.

The settlement is acceptable for implementation by the Division. Once the Division receives the member's contributions for pension and contributory life insurance from the employer, the Division will retroactively increase the member's pensionable salary by $4,500 for the 2000-2001 school year.

Contributions for the member's increased salary as a supervisor in the 2001-2002 school year should be remitted to the Division as part of the member's regular pension contributions.

If you have any further questions, please contact me at (609) 292-3405.

Sincerely,

Mindy Smith-Sopko

M.G. AND M.G., on behalf of minor child, A.G., :

PETITIONERS, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners challenged the Board's determination to expel their son after he twice tested positive for marijuana, arguing that the Board failed to follow the Commissioner's directives when reaching its determination.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the ALJ held that the Board's determination to expel A.G. was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The ALJ determined that the testimony of the administrators from the district that placement of A.G. in the alternative school was considered and rejected as an option to expulsion because of A.G.'s failure to enroll in intensive drug treatment and based on his and his family's apparent absence of desire to combat his drug abuse was credible.

Having reviewed the record and the transcript of the hearing, the Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ with modification. The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's conclusion that petitioners failed to sustain their burden of establishing that the Board's decision to expel A.G. was arbitrary, capricious or otherwise contrary to law and that, consequently, such determination must be sustained. The Commissioner, however, rejected the ALJ's statement that "no legal support is cited by the Commissioner of Education for the proposition that a local board of education is required specifically to consider alternative educational options for a nonclassified student over sixteen years of age before expulsion can be ordered." Citing Scher, the Commissioner noted that it is well-established that "termination of a pupil's right to attend public schools of a district is a drastic and desperate remedy which should be employed only when no other course is possible." Consequently, in reviewing the propriety of such a decision, the Commissioner must be persuaded that expulsion is employed as the last ditch expedient. Petition was dismissed.

M.G. AND M.G., ON BEHALF OF A.G.,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP,

Respondent.

Christopher M. Manganello, Esq., for petitioners

Joseph F. Betley, Esq., for respondent (Capehart & Scatchard, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 4, 2001 Decided: June 11, 2001

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Appeal of the Washington Township Board of Education's second decision (decision on remand from the Commissioner of Education) to expel A.G. because A.G. twice tested positive for marijuana. The petitioners allege the Board failed to follow the Commissioner's directive when it considered the expulsion for the second time.

The petitioners filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging the Board's expulsion. The petitioners also requested emergency relief, seeking immediate placement in the school district. On February 15, 2001, the Commissioner denied the petitioners' application for emergent relief, but directed the Board to provide home instruction to A.G. until determination of the matter on its merits.

On February 27, the Board filed an appeal with the State Board of Education, controverting that part of the Commissioner's decision ordering it to provide home instruction. On March 8, 2001, the Commissioner denied the Board's motion for reconsideration or clarification or stay.

On May 2, 2000, the State Board dismissed the Washington Township Board's appeal as to home instruction.

Further background includes the following: A.G. is a sixteen-year-old boy who has an accommodation plan under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. A.G. was expelled from Washington Township High School effective August 15, 2000, following two positive drug tests. The petitioners had filed an appeal of the expulsion on July 7, 2000, before the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case including a request for emergency relief, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

The Honorable Jeff S. Masin, Acting Chief ALJ, after an emergent hearing, denied the petitioners' application for emergent relief on August 10, 2000. Judge Masin ordered the matter to plenary hearing as soon as possible. The plenary hearing was held on September 7, 8 and 13, 2000. As a result of the hearing and by two orders dated September 19, 2000, Judge Masin dismissed the special education portion of the case and dismissed the petitioners' challenges to A.G.'s expulsion.

The petitioners filed exceptions to Judge Masin's decision with the Commissioner on April 12, 2000. The Commissioner affirmed in part and reversed in part the initial decision. In his decision of November 6, 2000, the Commissioner directed the respondent Board to readmit

A.G. and to determine, after considering pertinent factors including available alternative educational options, whether expulsion should be the appropriate result under all of the circumstances present. On Wednesday, December 6, 2000, the Board conducted a hearing. The parties have markedly different views as to what occurred at hearing. A transcript is available to me. Exhibit E.

On December 15, 2000, the petitioners received the Board's decision dated December 13, 2000. A.G. was again expelled. At the hearing of December 6, the Board presented two witnesses, Rosemarie Farrow and Jack McGee. The petitioners produced testimony from Sally Anne Bickford, Ph.D. There was considerable disagreement as to what the scope of Bickford's testimony should be. The hearing ended abruptly, each side blaming the other for the breakdown.

On January 30, 2001, I heard arguments on the petitioners' motion for emergency relief. After considering the record and all arguments put forward, and balancing the equities, I DENIED the motion and suggested that the matter was appropriate for plenary hearing. The Commissioner of Education expeditiously reviewed the order. On February 15, 2001, the Commissioner affirmed the order denying the motion. The matter was returned to the Office of Administrative Law for plenary hearing and that hearing was held on March 22, 2001. Counsel made post-hearing submissions and provided me a transcript of the March 22, 2001 hearing. The record closed would have on April 24, 2001. One petitioners' exhibit was missing, however. Upon notification, the petitioners' counsel promptly supplied the document and the record closed on June 4, 2001.

The petitioners argue that the Commissioner's decision of November 6, 2000 was predicated on the idea that the Board's first decision to expel A.G. may not have been the result of sufficiently full deliberation. The Commissioner noted that the record demonstrated that the Board, in applying its policy to A.G. turned to the ultimate sanction of expulsion from the District, although its policy did not require expulsion for a second offense of this kind. The Board was, by its own policy, mandated to conduct an expulsion hearing. That hearing was the petitioners' opportunity to make a case for A.G.'s continued enrollment in the District, while also allowing the Board the opportunity to consider A.G.'s circumstances and other options short of expulsion. The Commissioner expressed concern that the Board may have tried to dissuade the petitioners from attending the hearing and the Board may have failed to consider other options than expulsion.

According to the petitioners, A.G. was perfunctorily expelled a second time without consideration of the facts that his parents had tried to get him the intensive drug treatment the school recommended, but were unable to do so in a timely manner and the fact that immediately following the second drug test, A.G. did receive the intensive outpatient drug treatment the school recommended.

The petitioners also assert the Board failed to consider the fact that A.G. had not tested positive for drugs after the second positive drug test and, in fact, had tested negative for drugs approximately six to eight times between the second positive drug test and the second expulsion hearing. They further argue that the Board failed to consider any alternative educational options other than the Evening Program and the Alternative School, despite the Commissioner's directive to consider available alternative educational options. Finally, the petitioners assert Ms. Farrow wrongfully excluded the Gloucester County Alternative School from consideration simply because A.G. had had two positive drug tests.

Conversely, the Board argues that the sole issue is whether, in the context of the Commissioner's remand, the Board acted arbitrarily, capriciously or unreasonably by accepting the recommendation of the administration to expel A.G. from the District after he violated the Board's Substance Abuse Policy. In his November 6, 2000 decision, the Commissioner upheld the decision of Judge Masin that, in turn, affirmed the determination by the Board to expel A.G. for violation of the Substance Abuse Policy. The Commissioner also ordered a partial and limited remand based on a suspicion that there may not have been full deliberation by the Board in its original decision to expel. The Commissioner directed the Board to consider "available alternative educational options" in deciding whether it was appropriate to expel A.G. in light of his violation of the policy. The Commissioner identified two factors, a memorandum dated March 1, 2000 from Vice Principal Farrow to then Superintendent Kern that to the Commissioner implied perfunctory deliberation by the Board and unidentified statements made by Assistant Principal Spector to the G. family that were secretly tape recorded. The Commissioner cited the latter as indications that the Board may have deliberately failed to consider the viability of other options.

Rather than appeal the order of remand, the Board agreed to hold a second expulsion hearing to address the specific questions the Commissioner raised. The petitioners had opportunity at the hearing on December 6, 2000 to present relevant evidence to the Board concerning A.G.'s conduct since the first expulsion hearing and any alternative educational options for the Board's consideration. Nothing was presented. The Board was presented only with the recommendation of administration that two alternative settings, although considered, should be rejected. These alternatives included the extended day program at Washington Township High School and the Gloucester County Alternative School in Glassboro. Rejection was based on A.G.'s failure to become involved in an intensive drug treatment program as recommended by professional drug counselors after the first positive test and also on the absence of any showing of desire on the part of A.G. and his family to work aggressively to combat A.G.'s drug abuse.

The Alternative School in Glassboro, which petitioners claim to be a perfect placement for A.G., was specifically considered by the administration and rejected because of A.G.'s lack of desire to embrace rehabilitative efforts. The efforts to enroll A.G. in a drug treatment program after the second positive test – with an expulsion hearing imminent – provided too little, too late.

The Vice Principal stated that expulsion was still recommended despite the family's late efforts to enroll A.G. in a treatment program because there was a sixty-three day period between the first positive drug test and the second. In that time, A.G. should have been getting an intensive counseling and therapy program, but was not. It was not until the second positive result that real efforts appeared to have been made. Even then, there was nothing of significant length or quality that had been accomplished. The Vice Principal believed that the school should have seen some attempt to alter behavior, but did not.

The testimony of the Vice Principal and Principal before the Board at the December 6, 2000 hearing illustrates their concern that substantial intervention did not take place until after the second positive result. The record shows no contrary evidence presented by the family. The Board did consider alternative educational options and disagrees with the Commissioner's allegations of intentional failure to consider other remedies. The second hearing, however, erases all doubt. There is no evidence of any arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable conduct.

At the second hearing, the petitioners attempted to attack the integrity of the Vice Principal and gave excuses for nonenrollment in a drug treatment plan sooner. The Vice Principal's testimony was consistent with that of December 6, 2000. The petitioners clearly did not agree with the recommendation, but they are required to show more than mere disagreement.

Mrs. G. testified the same way before the Board and before Judge Masin. That A.G. finally received help is commendable. But there is no cogent explanation as to why treatment was received only after the second positive test. At neither Board hearing was there any suggestion of accountability or responsibility coming from the petitioners.

The Board has complied with the Commissioner's order of remand.

At hearing, the petitioners presented Michelle Woollen, a public school teacher who also works for a tutoring service. She has worked for the Washington Township Board of Education. She tutored A.G. from May through the end of June 2000 in mathematics, literature and history. From February 2001 to the date of hearing, she had tutored A.G. in mathematics, career education, history and applied biology. Instruction averages two-three hours per week. The average was slightly higher last year. A.G. does his work and cooperates with his instructor.

Rosemarie Farrow is executive assistant principal for ninth and tenth grades at the high school. She has been in education for twenty-nine years.

Concerning the second hearing on expulsion, Farrow reviewed the evening and day program and reviewed the Gloucester County Alternative Program. She reviewed all circumstances of the tests, interaction with the parents and discussions among administrative personnel. The evening-day program and the County Alternative Program were the only alternative placements considered. Other options would be home instruction and expulsion without instruction. The two placements, the evening-day program and the County program are the usual resort for nonlearning disabled pupils. This is not a child study team matter, which would have opened many more options.

Farrow testified clearly that she was unaware of any pupil who twice tested positive, was not a classified pupil and who was not expelled. One positive test result triggers procedures that do not include appearing before the Board. Only if a second positive test occurs within the period is expulsion considered.

The witness considered A.G. against the criteria of the two possible programs. The costs associated with the programs were not included in her deliberations. Farrow testified forthrightly that she had never discussed program cost with any other employee. She also stated that after the second positive result, she learned that the G. family had made attempts after the first drug test to place A.G. in a program. This information came from the G. family.

The petitioners introduced an undated letter from Magellan Health Services stating that Mrs. G. did arrange for services for A.G. in January 2000 through Rainbow House, but because Rainbow House closed unexpectedly, no appointments after the first appointment were met. Without explanation, the letter states, "She did encounter significant problems in arranging other services." Farrow stated that this was not raised at the second hearing. Farrow recalled that, after the second positive result, the G. family represented that they could not get services. She has no knowledge of how hard the family tried to secure services. The one appointment A.G. did have at Rainbow House was over a month after his positive test result. Other places were recommended to the family and the need was great, yet there is no record of any treatment for more than a month.

At the second hearing, the staff made recommendations based on what occurred with the student in reference to the code of conduct. A second violation is the end point. What the student does after that may go to readmission, but does not go to expulsion.

A.G. was not a candidate for the Gloucester County Alternative School because that facility is not geared to drug problems. Support services that pupils with drug problems would require are not available. The program serves all districts in the County. Each district has two or three places available to it. The usual pupil has disciplinary and academic problems. The program does accept some pupils with substance abuse problems. A.G. seems to fit, facially. A.G. is average or above average in ability. Both his academic records and his IQ were considered at the second hearing. That A.G. has now completed intensive out-patient treatment was not relevant to the issue of cause for expulsion. The Board says it invited input at the hearing and the petitioners say they were cut off.

Exhibit P-3, a letter from Kennedy Memorial Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. G. dated March 29, 2000 does not change the witness's mind. That letter addresses efforts undertaken after the second positive drug test. Farrow also testified that she consulted the child study team and whether they had recommendations as between the evening program and the Gloucester County Alternative Program. These talks did not change her mind about expulsion, but were directed only at the most appropriate placement for A.G.

She did not ask the child study team what their recommendations would be after the positive drug test results were received. The child study team cannot recommend for or against expulsion; that is an administrative decision. Only if the school had wrong drug test information could there have been no recommendation of expulsion.

The Board's decision was based in part on the fact that there was no indication of an effort to work through the drug issues. Until the second positive result was received, there was no evidence of any effort to get help. The parents said they tried to get help, but had had problems.

A.G.'s Section 504 accommodation plan was developed with the guidance counselors and parents (P-6). It was presented at the first expulsion hearing. The parents charge it relates because it was not implemented. The witness recalled that a manifestation hearing was held based on the fact that a Section 504 plan was in effect.

M.G., mother of A.G., testified that she learned of the first positive test result "just before winter break." She did not know until January 6, however, what she had to do, such as involve A.G. in counseling.

Mrs. G. was concerned. A.G. admitted smoking marijuana. The witness knew that A.G. had to complete certain requirements. She tried to contact her medical insurance company. She called providers on a computer generated list and asked if they were covered by her plan. Mrs. G. says she could not locate the Kennedy program and was not referred to Rainbow until about two weeks later. Four appointments were set up for the month of February. These appointments were never met. When she appeared with A.G. for the first appointment, the facility was closed. The next day she called her health maintenance organization and was quite angry. She asked why she was not told that Rainbow was closing. All she got was an apology.

Mrs. G. spoke with Spector on March 6. They discussed what the Board probably would not do and he suggested what they could do. Spector mentioned that the Board does not make allowances for costs. Mrs. G. thought he meant that the Board would not approve the alternative program because of cost.

After the attempts to secure services from Rainbow proved fruitless, Mrs. G. went into the network again and found the Kennedy Access Center. The second positive test result was then received. Mrs. G. took A.G. to a psychiatrist and went to Kennedy. He entered and completed the program there (P-3). If her Health Maintenance Organization had found the name in the network, A.G. could have been in the Kennedy program at least two weeks sooner.

Mrs. G. also testified that she did over-the-counter drug tests with A.G. at least six times and there were no positive results. Hospital tests were done at her attorney's suggestion.

Mrs. G. conceded that there was no mention of costs at either expulsion hearing. None of the school personnel or documents involved indicate any consideration of costs.

Mrs. G. stated she did not go to the Kennedy Center first because her Health Maintenance Organization could not find it via computer. Cost was a factor in her considerations because she wanted all insurance help possible. She would have cooperated with day or evening hours and inpatient or outpatient status. She called most facilities on a list the school gave her. She cannot remember which she did not call. She went to her own insurer to find agencies in their network.

Rainbow was the first name that her HMO suggested and it was near her. She therefore tried it first. In response to a question as to whether her conversation with Spector about drug abuse had been taken seriously in the family, Mrs. G. said she had no recall. However, she and her husband do not make light of marijuana use.

Mrs. G. did no follow up with the Alternative School after the second positive result.

The March 9, 2000 test was done while A.G. was in an intensive therapy program. The therapy program also tested A.G. and all results were negative. The therapy program involved eleven, twelve or thirteen sessions over four weeks. A.G. was evaluated in February and attended sessions throughout March. He has been involved in no other program, outpatient care or after-therapy program. Mrs. G. believes there was no need for further treatment because A.G. has changed his habits.

Mr. G. testified. Mr. G. describes himself as straightforward. It is not saying too much to observe that Mr. G. has a strong personality. He recited a series of medical problems he ascribes to A.G. He believes he has done all "a prudent parent" could do. His work requires that he leave home early on Monday morning and return late on Friday afternoon. All things considered, Mrs. G. has handled the situation well.

Mr. G. has smoked marijuana. He last used the drug in January 1999. He never advocated use to his son. He does not approve of the use of marijuana.

The first notice from the school was the first he had any inkling that A.G. might have a problem. He retained an expert first to assess A.G. and then to opine on the propriety of expulsion. The witness was not present at this hearing. Mr. G. says that is because his retainer was "used up."

Mr. G. believes the Board did not consider all relevant factors. Both hearings seemed unfair to him. He believes the baby is being thrown out with the wash water.

The family did all it could do as quickly as possible. He believes A.G. has cleaned up both literally and physically. Mr. G. states he is the ultimate authority in his family, yet the family makes decisions together. He did try to watch expenses within the choices available to him.

The Board should have considered that A.G. was not a disciplinary problem, that A.G. has attention deficit disorder, that A.G. succumbed to peer pressure and that A.G. straightened out since the incidents. Mr. G. stated that he would "kick his butt" if otherwise. His son is a good kid who wants to resume his education.

Based upon this testimony and the documents entered in evidence, I CONCLUDE for the following reasons that the Board's action was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and that the petition must fail.

Preliminarily, it must be noted that no legal support is cited by the Commissioner of Education for the proposition that a local board of education is required specifically to consider alternative educational options for a nonclassified student over sixteen years of age before expulsion can be ordered. In fact, the assertion appears contrary to previous statements by the Commissioner that acknowledge the authority of a local school district to deny all educational services to an expelled student. See Somerset County Educational Services Commission v. North Plainfield Board of Education, EDU 2793-98, Final Decision (September 7, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. Importantly, there as here, the Commissioner ordered the board to continue educational services to a student while making clear that there is no general obligation on the part of a board of education to provide or pay for educational services for a student after it has lawfully expelled the student pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1 through -12. Clearly, it is within the sound discretion of a board to continue to provide educational services to a student whom it has expelled.

Second, I respectfully disagree with the Commission where he deems the Board's deliberation to be perfunctory and where he finds unelaborated statements allegedly made by Assistant Principal Spector to the G. family that were surreptitiously tape recorded, to be indications that the Board may have deliberately failed to consider the viability of options other than expulsion. A memorandum from Vice Principal Farrow to Superintendent Kern clearly recognizes the Board's Substance Abuse Policy requires that administration bring the student before the Board for an expulsion hearing on the second offense. The policy does not mandate expulsion as the sole and exclusive remedy. The Vice Principal recognized that the Board makes the ultimate decision when she noted that no recommendation becomes final until and unless approved by the Board of Education. Closely related to this, it must be observed that Judge Masin reviewed the tape in detail and found no evil intent on the part of Spector. And of overwhelming importance is Judge Masin's note that Spector stated "very clearly that in that meeting [with the G. family prior to the first expulsion hearing] he did not function as a spokesperson for the Board or an agent of the Board." And there is no showing that any Board member had any knowledge of what Spector may have said to the parents. Therefore, there is no basis for the conclusion that the Board's deliberations on the expulsion were tainted in any way by the opinions of Spector expressed to the family.

Third, on the question of the cause of termination of the Board hearing of Wednesday, December 6, 2000, after considering the parties' arguments, I ruled orally on March 22, 2001 as follows:

> Counsel have asked a ruling as to the cause of termination of the Board hearing of Wednesday, December 6, 2000. A transcript was provided some time ago and I have had the opportunity to read it several times.
>
> Referring particularly to pages 36 through 48, I FIND that the petitioners have attempted at the December 6 hearing to reach behind an earlier child study team (CST) determination that A.G. was not eligible for special education. That determination, it is noted, was not appealed.
>
> The testimony shows at pages 36 and 37 that the Board's counsel recommended that the Board take evidence of what A.G. had done since the first expulsion hearing. That evidence was not presented until today.
>
> When the hearing ended, Dr. Sally Bickford was responding to a series of questions about the CST decision from the petitioners' counsel and the Board's counsel was objecting, with particularly, to the line. The last exchange followed an expression of opinion by Bickford that the CST determination was wrong:

>
> MR. BETLEY: Counsel, I will interrupt you. I will again instruct the witness—or instruct the board to disregard that testimony. That's not relevant to the proceedings of what this witness thinks that the expulsion was because of a disability. Counsel, you are not going to use these proceedings to revisit the issue of manifestation determinations or issues of eligibility and so forth. If you continue to do that, again, we will end the proceedings.
>
> MR. MANGANELLO: Well then let's end them because that's going to be the testimony and we will go on with a motion. Thank you.
> MR. BETLEY: Let the record reflect the testimony is over. The board will deliberate based upon the evidence presented. There will be a written decision given to the parents within, I don't want to put any time on it, but hopefully within a week. Counsel, I will give that decision to you.

There is no doubt that the Board's counsel was properly objecting to attempts to reach far behind the expulsion matter. It is equally clear that the petitioners' insistence on pursuing the line anyway led to the termination.

For today's purposes, I repeat to counsel that this hearing is to examine the Board's second action for arbitrariness, caprice and unreasonableness. In the Commissioner's words, the decision "may not have been the result of sufficiently full deliberation." Thus, today's hearing will consider what the Board had before it at the first expulsion hearing, any relevant happenings between the first and second expulsion hearings and what the Board considered at the second expulsion hearing. This will provide "all the circumstances of A.G.'s case."

The Board obviously heard little or nothing about A.G.'s conduct between the first expulsion hearing and the second. The Board had before it the recommendation of administration that two alternative educational settings were considered and rejected. These alternatives included the extended day program at the Board's own high school and the Gloucester County Alternative School in Glassboro. I FIND quite credible the administrators' testimony that, although the Alternative School does have some students with drug problems, the rejection was based on A.G.'s apparent failure to enroll in an intensive drug treatment program as recommended by professional drug counselors after the first positive test and the apparent absence of any desire on the part of A.G. and his family to work aggressively to combat A.G.'s drug abuse. Most efforts seem to have occurred after, not before, the second positive result. As to the unavailability of services to the family after the first positive test results, there is nothing in the record that indicates the parents made aggressive efforts to find a program and/or services for A.G. For example, if suggested programs or facilities were not immediately available, there is nothing to indicate that they asked their own physician for recommendations or even consulted the classified advertisements in a telephone directory.

To the extent the Board suggests that M.G. and M.G. failed to suggest alternative educational options for the Board's consideration, I merely note that they were under no duty to do so. They could have provided recommendations to the Board that the Board would have been obligated to consider. They were not required to do so.

In summary, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the Board's actions were not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable under the circumstances. That this Judge or even the Commissioner might have decided the matter differently is not relevant. The Commissioner has previously stated that:

The Washington Township Board of Education had sufficient credible evidence before it upon which to base its decision. The petitioners have shown that they are dissatisfied with the result, but have done nothing to show that the result was improper. Accordingly, the petition of appeal is DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were filed in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In that petitioners' exceptions are essentially a verbatim recitation of their post-hearing brief advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), and that the Initial Decision fully considers and addresses all relevant arguments made therein, petitioners' reiterative exception submission will not be revisited here.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included a transcript of the hearing conducted at the OAL on March 22, 2001, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's conclusion that petitioners have failed to sustain their burden of establishing that the Board's decision to expel A.G. was arbitrary, capricious or otherwise contrary to law and that, consequently, such determination must be sustained.

In so concluding, however, the Commissioner specifically rejects the ALJ's discussion on page 11 of the Initial Decision wherein he states:

> [I]t must be noted that no legal support is cited by the Commissioner of Education for the proposition that a local board of education is required specifically to consider alternative educational options for a nonclassified student over sixteen years of age before expulsion can be ordered.

To the contrary, the Commissioner has long held that "[t]ermination of a pupil's right to attend public schools of a district is a drastic and desperate remedy which should be employed only when no other course is possible." Scher v. West Orange Board of Education, 1968 S.L.D. 92, 96*; see, also, C.S. v. Township of Piscataway,* 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 573, aff'd State Board April 1, 1998, slip op. at 5. Consequently, in his review of such a determination, the Commissioner must be persuaded that expulsion is employed as the last ditch expedient which it is expected to be. See Scher, supra.

Implicit in such a determination is assurance that a board, in making its decision, considered the appropriateness of alternatives, short of expulsion, which would accomplish its objective of removing a child from a regular educational environment while still allowing him to continue his educational program in a public school setting. The Commissioner, similarly, does not concur with the ALJ's suggestion of apparent inconsistency between this matter and Somerset County Educational Services Commission, supra, a case with a wholly unique fact pattern.[1] Where, as in this matter, the "lawfulness" of the Board's expulsion is itself at issue, which it was not in Somerset, and the Commissioner's review leads him to believe that the Board may have taken such a drastic measure without the benefit of a sufficiently full deliberation of possible alternatives prior to permanently depriving a student of public education, it is entirely appropriate, if not mandatory, that the Commissioner order a continuation of educational services to the child during the period while this concern is being addressed and resolved. Moreover, notwithstanding that the ALJ may not necessarily share the Commissioner's uneasiness with respect to this Board's initial deliberations in this regard, as the individual charged with the oversight of public schools and students in New Jersey, the Commissioner of Education must be satisfied in matters of this type that actions taken by school boards are not an abuse of their discretionary powers.

[1] Somerset dealt with a board's refusal to pay for tuition and services rendered to a child, domiciled in the district, who was enrolled in the Alternative to Incarceration Program pursuant to order of the Superior Court, as that child had previously been expelled from its schools. There the Commissioner rejected arguments advanced by petitioner and alluded to by the ALJ which conveyed the impression that there was any obligation on the part of a board to provide or pay for educational services for a student after it has lawfully acted to expel a student pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1 et seq., except, as was the circumstance in that case, where a court of appropriate jurisdiction orders the student's school placement or where a statutory or regulatory provision imposes such an obligation.

Finally, it must be emphasized that this decision does not in any way suggest that local boards of education cannot expel students from their schools. Rather, it once again emphasizes that before a board takes that dire step it must assure that less draconian courses of action were considered and found to be inappropriate under the particular circumstances of the case.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons stated therein, as modified above, and the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE LENAPE REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Rural Tabernacle Coalition (RTC) alleged that the Board violated N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1 and improperly spent public funds by engaging in campaign activities for the purpose of advancing its interest in proceeding with the construction of a new high school. All other issues, which had been the subject of a previous petition and amended petition, were no longer part of this contested case proceeding.

Following analysis of RTC's status as a jural entity and the finding that RTC failed to submit any evidence of impropriety concerning expenditure of public funds, the ALJ concluded that nothing RTC submitted suggested that there was a genuine issue that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision.

The Commissioner, initially finding that RTC was an "interested person" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2, concluded that RTC failed to set forth facts showing that there was a genuine issue with respect to the Board's expenditure of bond and other public monies, which can only be determined in an evidentiary hearing. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This is a ruling and order issued as a result of the motion instituted on behalf of respondent, Lenape Regional High School District Board of Education (hereinafter "Lenape") for summary decision and dismissal of the above-entitled appeal. For the following reasons the motion be and is hereby GRANTED.

I

On or about August 3, 1999 the petitioner, (RTC), commenced this action by a letter petition addressed to the Commissioner of Education. Several days thereafter respondent filed a motion to dismiss the petition. Because of a technical failure of the petition to comply with appropriate regulatory standards, RTC was permitted to amend its documents and did so within ten days thereafter. An answer to the amended petition was filed by Lenape on September 13, 1999 in addition to its amended motion to dismiss.

The genesis of the petition relates to the efforts of the petitioner to prevent Lenape from constructing a new regional high school at a location referred to as the "Carranza Road Site". The school district began developing plans for this new high school in or about 1996 as a result of what it perceived to be severe overcrowding within the district. After addressing and analyzing the potential of approximately 35 different sites, the Carranza Road Site was chosen as being most appropriate. For purposes of conducting a district wide referendum Lenape announced this site and the referendum was conducted December 19, 1997. It passed in all of Lenape sending districts including Tabernacle Township. [1] In late Spring or early Summer 1998 an environmental organization known as the Pinelands Preservation Alliance ("PPA") commenced a public relations campaign seeking to oppose the construction of the high school at the Carranza Road Site. In response, Lenape initiated an effort referred to as "Save Our Schools" which, pursuant to the representation of counsel for Lenape, was designed to inform the public of the factual circumstances surround the proposed construction.

[1] At footnote 5 of petitioner's earlier opposition papers to a motion for discovery Lenape notes that after the referendum Lenape was able to obtain either approvals or recommendations for approval from a variety of municipal and governmental agencies including the Tabernacle Township Land Development Board, the Tabernacle Township Committee, the Burlington County Agriculture Board, the New Jersey Pinelands Commission, the Governor of the State of New Jersey and the United States Department of the Interior. On September 14, 2000 Administrative Law Judge M. Kathleen Duncan issued an initial decision in Pinelands Preservation Alliance v. Lenape Regional High School District and Pinelands Commission and Tabernacle Township Planning Board OAL Dkt. EPC 8626-99. The decision essentially upholds the School District's rights under the Pinelands Comprehensive Management Plan to construct the high school at issue at the Carranza Road Site and is granted Lenape's motion to dismiss the appeal with prejudice. On October 13, 2000 the New Jersey Pinelands Commission issued a resolution which substantially adopted Judge Duncan's decision with some modifications which, in my view, do not negatively impact upon Lenape's rights to develop the Carranza Road Site, pursuant to thePinelands Commission Comprehensive Management Plan.

Petitioner's amended application to the Commissioner of Education sets forth a variety of claims and, by letter of April 3, 2000, the Commisioner of Education granted Lenape's motion to dismiss in part leaving only two of the petitioner's claims to be adjudicated in this proceedings. The Commissioner in his April 3, 2000 ruling noted:

> This matter shall be transmitted to the OAL for further proceedings solely to determine whether the Board [Lenape] has acted in violation [of] N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1 and whether the Board has inappropriately spent bond and other public monies.

All other issues which had been the subject of the previous petition and amended petition are thus no longer part of this contested proceeding.

As an incident to this matter my office conducted on in-person conference with counsel and several telephone status conferences to determine the procedure to employ in disposing of this appeal. Following the in-person conference the respondent, as was indicated at the conference, submitted the motion sub judice for summary decision and dismissal on or about August 10, 2000. In its motion papers seeking dismissal and summary decision the school district inter alia argues that as a matter of fact, and law, the district did not contravene N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1 in that it purchased options for the Carrenza Road Site and did not, as set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1(a), acquire land which would require school site approval from the Department of Education as a prerequisite. The motion also argues that petitioner cannot provide any factual or legal proofs to demonstrate that the bond and public monies which are to be utilized in constructing the high school was, in any way, improperly spent. Lastly, and based upon our conversations in chambers, Lenape argues as well that the matter warrants dismissal in that RTC is not a jural entity and thus has not right to bring or maintain an action, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:64.1.

On or about February 22, 2001 my office issued a six-page ruling and order denying petitioner's motion to compel further discovery and it was not until after that motion was decided upon that RTC submitted its responsive papers to the motion sub judice. Final submission of May 2, 2001 on behalf of Lenape was received by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 11, 2001, the date on which the record in these proceedings closed.

II

THE FACTS

Unless otherwise noted, the following is a substantially uncontradicted narrative of the facts in these proceedings. If a factual dispute is presented, and is material, then of course the motion would be denied.

Accordingly, I FIND:

Lenape High School District is experiencing overcrowding. This fact is not disputed by RTC. Every action over the past two years involving the Lenape Regional High School Board of Education ("Respondent" or "Lenape") has consistently acknowledged this fact. See e.g., Pinelands Preservation Alliance v. Lenape Regional High School District, EPC 8626-99, Initial Decision, (April 28, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>; Rural Tabernacle Coalition v. Land Development Bd. of Twp. of Tabernacle, No. BUR-L-1355-99 (Law Div. Dec. 10, 1999).

Due to the overcrowding, in 1996, Respondent School District, which serves eight sending municipalities including Tabernacle, as part of a comprehensive plan to provide a safe, thorough and efficient education to its students, embarked on several measures to ease the overcrowding. Specific measures sought by Lenape included an addition to the Cherokee High School, renovations to the Lenape and Shawnee High Schools and the construction of a new high school. It is construction of the new high school that RTC objects to.

The various grounds for RTC's objection have been considered in several proceedings both in the administrative forum and superior Court. All environmental grounds for RTC's objection have been dismissed.[2] The only remaining substantive issue raised by RTC is whether Respondent improperly spent public funds by engaging in campaigning activities for the purpose of advancing its interest in proceeding with the school construction.

[2] The determination by the Pinelands Commission that Lenape's plans complied with the requirements of the Pinelands Comprehensive Management Plan is presently pending appeal. A 2283-99T2.

a. Prior Actions

In 1996, when it became clear that overcrowding was a problem, Respondent began developing plans for construction of a new high school. The plans involved extensive participation of the public. Respondent's Brief in Support of Motion for Summary Decision, dated August 9, 2000, at 3. A firm, hired to look for a site, conducted a blind study of potential sites to avoid outside influences. Daniel Hicks Affidavit., dated August 9, 2000, at ¶ 11. After months of searching, the pool of potential sites was narrowed to 35. Id. at ¶ 12. Respondent's engineers then studied these sites, taking educational and environmental factors into account. Id. at ¶ 13. In March of 1997, when Respondent's engineers met with the New Jersey Pinelands Commission, the Carranza Road site was deemed developable by the Pinelands Commission. Id. at ¶ 14.

Respondent then announced selection of the Carranza Road site to the public. Meetings and information sessions were held in order to involve the public and to prepare them for a public referendum. Respondent obtained the recommendation of the Tabernacle Township Land Development Board as well as the preliminary site approval from the New Jersey Department of Education. Id. at ¶ 18. The referendum was held on December 9, 1997, and passed in all eight sending districts, including Petitioner's.[3]

Prior to the instant action, Respondent' s efforts to proceed with the construction of the high school had been challenged in various actions by RTC and PPA. See Pinelands Preservation Alliance, supra. When the Executive Director of the Pinelands Commission determined that Respondent's development plans complied with the requirements of the Pinelands Comprehensive Management Plan, Petitioner sought review. While the issue of whether the Commission's determination was erroneous is still under review by the appellate division, another ALJ granted Respondent's summary decision on the following issues:

[3] After the referendum was passed, the Pinelands Preservation Alliance ("PPA"), which has several members in common with RTC, began to oppose the construction of the school. Respondent claims that in order to refute PPA's "numerous misstatements," Respondent formed the "Save Our Schools" campaign to impart to the public factual information concerning the proposed school construction. Respondent's Brief, at 5.

(1) Adequate Grounds Management: Contrary to the allegations that Respondent had not specified a satisfactory grounds management plan, it was found that Commission had granted approval on condition that Respondent meet a rigorous plan of monitoring the grounds frequently for various chemical levels. Pinelands Preservation Alliance, supra, at 7.

(2) Wetlands Buffers: Petitioner claimed that Respondent failed to justify the revised buffers. The regulations permit modification of the 300-foot buffer zone provided applicant can show that it will not create a significant adverse impact on the wetland. N.J.A.C. 7:50-6.1 to –6.14. The ALJ held that Respondent had followed proper procedure in seeking the modification, utilizing a model propounded by the Commission. Id. at 8.

(3) Remediation of Historic Pesticides: Petitioner asserted that respondent's studies of pesticides were flawed and that the soil contained a higher concentration of pesticide dialdrin than reported. Summary decision was granted on this issue because the level of dialdrin detected (0.042 ppm) was significantly lower than the level requiring remediation (50 ppm); moreover, Petitioner had voluntarily entered an agreement with the Tabernacle Township Planning Board to remove such soils in any case. Id. at 9.

(4) Improvements to Hawkins Road: Petitioner claimed that Respondent failed to specify the nature of improvements to Hawkins Road, which runs into the proposed site. However, the ALJ found that Petitioner offered no studies or certifications to suggest that improvements to Hawkins Road were necessitated; moreover, Respondent had conducted traffic studies that concluded that no modifications were necessary. Id. at 10.

Petitioner also filed a motion before the Law Division, Burlington County, to void the amended zoning ordinance adopted by the Tabernacle Land Development Council on April 19, 1999, which provided for construction of the school. Rural Tabernacle Coalition v. Land Development, No. BUR-L-1355-99 (Law Div. Dec. 10, 1999). More specifically, Petitioner alleged that (1) the vote amending the ordinance included the vote of one who had been disqualified; (2) certain conflicts infected the vote; and (3) an agreement between Respondent and Tabernacle was impermissibly tainted. Id. at 5.

Judge Wells held that there was "nothing unlawful, arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" in the procedural actions surrounding passage of the revised ordinance. Id. at 6. He also held that the disqualified vote did not taint later actions of the Township Committee. Id. at 8. Finally, J. Wells held that the agreement between Respondent and Tabernacle was lawful and did not taint the process surrounding passage of the revised ordinance. Id. at 13. The court held that Respondent's main purpose in entering the agreement was to spread the project development costs among all it sending districts. Ibid.

b. Instant Action

Petitioner commenced this action on or about August 3, 1999 by filing a letter petition with the Commissioner of Education. Respondent filed a motion a few days later to dismiss the petition. Due to a technical failure in the petition, RTC was permitted to file an amended petition within ten days. RTC alleged that the proposed Carranza Road site was inappropriate and that Lenape had failed to obtain proper review of its proposal. Lenape answered the amended petition on September 13, 1999 and moved to dismiss. On April 3, 2000, the Commissioner granted Lenape's Motion, in part, and transmitted Petitioner's claim to the OAL stating that there were only two claims to be resolved:

> This matter shall be transmitted to the OAL for further proceedings solely to determine whether the Board has acted in violation [of] N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1 and whether the Board has inappropriately spent bond and other public monies.
> [Commissioner's Letter Decision, April 3, 2000, at 2.]

Therefore the only remaining justiciable issues are whether Respondent illegally purchased land and whether it misused public funds.

Following several telephone status conferences and one in- person conference to determine discovery schedule and resolution of this matter, Respondent filed a motion for summary decision on August 10, 2000. Meanwhile both parties proceeded with discovery. Sometime in August, 2000, Respondent received RTC's first set of interrogatories and requests for documents. On September 29, 2000, Respondent provided answers to those interrogatories and produced the requested documents. Almost four months after Respondent forwarded the answers to interrogatories and produced the requested documents, and five months after Respondent's motion for summary decision, Petitioner submitted its letter motion to compel discovery and to depose the Director of Public Information on January 12, 2001. On February 22, 2001, Petitioner's Motion to Compel further discovery was denied. As a result, on March 2, 2001, Petitioner filed a motion to reconsider the decision to deny additional discovery.

The Motion for Reconsideration was denied on March 16, 2001. In the decision it was noted that Petitioner had failed to establish good cause to depose the Director of Public Information and that the Respondent had already provided Petitioner with summaries of its expenditures. Thereupon, nine months after Respondent filed the Motion for Summary Decision, Petitioner submitted its response opposing that Motion. In its response, Petitioner elected not to pursue the first of the two issues referred to the OAL (whether Respondent had illegally purchased land); therefore, the only issue now at bar is whether Respondent improperly spent public funds.

III

a. Arguments of Parties

Respondent asserts that summary decision should be granted for two reasons: (a) Petitioner has not offered sufficient proof of its status as a jural entity; more specifically, Respondent challenges Petitioner's status as a jural entity on the grounds that Petitioner has not shown that it had the requisite number of members as of the filing date, owns no common property, and shares no common rights. (b) In addition, Respondent claims Petitioner has failed to submit any evidence of impropriety concerning expenditure of public funds.

Petitioner, on the other hand, asserts that it has the requisite number of members as well as rights in common to meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 2A:64.1. Furthermore, Petitioner claims it has submitted sufficient evidence of Respondent's misuse of public funds to defeat summary judgment under Brill, infra.

b. Petitioner is a Jural Entity.

Petitioner is correct in noting that Respondent has erroneously relied on New Jersey Bankers Ass'n v. Van Riper, 1 N.J. 193 (1948), to support its motion for summary decision that Petitioner is not a jural entity. As Petitioner notes, Van Riper, supra, was expressly reversed by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98 (1971).

In Van Riper, the Court held that the petitioners in that case faced common questions of law and redress. Van Riper, supra, at 197. Yet, the Court noted that despite such "community of purpose and unity of legal question" Petitioner was not legally competent to maintain that action because it could not meet the "common property, rights and liabilities" requirement. Ibid. (citing Farmers Co-op. Oil Co. v. Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., 133 F.2d 101, (8th Cir. 1942)).

The Crescent Park Court observed that New Jersey cases had taken a much more liberal approach to standing than had the federal cases. Crescent Park, supra, 58 N.J. at 101. The Court noted its desire to do away with "technisms" and procedural hurdles and permit suits where "the litigant's concern with the subject matter evidenced a sufficient stake and real adverseness." Id, at 107. It further noted that to permit such litigation would also serve the public interest. Id. at 109. In criticizing its decision in Van Riper, the Court noted:

> We fail to see how justice or its sound administration can be said to have been at all furthered by [Van Riper]. We have cited the subsequent rejections of the single federal case on which it relied and in Institute of Planners, supra, Justice Francis recently noted that it had been 'much criticized' in academic circles. 48 N.J. at 587, 227 A.2d 313. It is incompatible with our current procedural philosophies and with our justly liberal holdings in the field of standing; it has become a derelict in our law and is now expressly overruled.

c. Standard of Review

Under Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995), the motion judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Id. at 540.

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, a party may move for summary decision if > the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.

> [N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).]

The summary decision rule is essentially the same as the summary judgment rule under the New Jersey Rules of Court, which permits a party to move for summary judgment if > the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to judgment or order as a matter of law. An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact.

> [R. 4:46-2(c).]

Under the summary judgment rule, the judge is not required to evaluate the facts for their accuracy and truth. Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540. Rather, the judge is only asked to determine whether, as a matter of law, any trier of fact could decide for the non movant, even assuming all the facts submitted were favorable to the nonmovant. The decision involves one of law, not one of facts.

It is well settled in New Jersey that decisions of local school boards of education are entitled to a presumption of correctness and are to stand undisturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. J.M., by his Guardian, D.M. v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School District, Hunterdon County, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 415, 419 (citing Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J.Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). See also R.A.M. and C.A.M. v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Tabernacle, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 573, 576; Boult v. Board of Educ., 133 N.J.L. 15 (Sup. Ct. 1945); Offhouse v. State Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J.L. 391 (Sup. Ct. 1944); Greenway v. Board of Educ. of the City of Camden, 129 N.J.L. 461 (E. & A. 1943).

In J.M, supra, a star athlete was not permitted to engage in athletics in his junior year of high school because of bad grades earned in his sophomore year. The student contested his Spanish grade and the matter was referred to the OAL. The ALJ denied the student's request and the Department of Education affirmed. The ALJ held that the student bore the burden of proving "by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that his failing grade in Spanish II was the result of respondent's arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable actions." J.M., supra, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 419.

In Kopera, supra, a teacher was denied tenure by a school board of education based on unfavorable ratings given by the principal and another teacher. The denial was affirmed by the Commissioner and the State Board of Education. The teacher neither asserted that she had been the victim of any personal animosity, nor even that she disagreed "in any substantial measure [with] the facts upon which the evaluators based their conclusion that her performance was unsatisfactory"; she merely contended that these facts were not serious enough to warrant the unsatisfactory rating. Kopera, supra, 60 N.J.Super. at 292.

The Appellate Division held that there need be no inquiry into whether the evaluation was too severe. Id. at 294-95. Since there had been no allegation of bad faith or prejudice, the only question was whether the board had a right to require a rating system. Ibid. The court there refused to evaluate or require a factual analysis of the evaluation. It defined its duty as limited to determining whether, as a matter of law, the board could utilize a rating system. Citing approvingly from the Commissioner's Opinion, the court noted:

> A board of education is certainly within its statutory authority if it establishes satisfactory performance as a criterion for advancement in salary. Indeed, a board is given specific authority to deny a statutory increment under the minimum salary laws . . . for inefficiency or other good cause.
> [Id., at 295 (citing N.J.S.A. 18:13-13.7).]

In affirming the decision of the Commissioner, the court further emphasized that "local boards have the right to reward the capable and the efficient, provided they do it fairly, without bias, prejudice, favoritism or discrimination, and they have the right to adopt any reasonable means toward that end." Id., at 298.

e. Standard Not met by Petitioner

Petitioner bears the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the Respondent's action was "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." J.M., supra, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 419. The thrust of Petitioner's complaint is that Respondent misused public funds by using them to promote construction of the school. Petitioner cites N.J.S.A. 18A:24-47 in support of its claim that Respondent misused public funds. N.J.S.A. 18A:24-47 states:

> The proceeds of any bonds authorized and issued under this chapter shall be paid to the custodian of school moneys of the district, who shall, in no event, disburse them except to pay the expenses of issuing and selling the bonds and for the purposes for which the bonds were issued and for temporary investment as and in the manner prescribed by law, pending the carrying out of the purpose or purposes for which the bonds were issued and for such other purposes as are prescribed in this article.
> [Ibid.]

Although the bonds were issued and sold for the purpose of building the school, it is inconceivable that the legislature limited the nature of the expenditure so narrowly as to preclude literally all expenditure other than the cost of land, bricks and mortar, and their assembly. As seen in the instant case, there were numerous studies performed, permits obtained, professional services engaged, and litigation costs incurred, all for the "purposes for which the bonds were issued." Ibid.

As the New Jersey Supreme Court noted in Brill, "[t]he thrust of today's decision is to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 541. As that Court further observed, "[t]he 'judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Id. at 540, citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc. 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 *L.Ed.*2d 202, 212 (1986).

IV

CONCLUSION

Nothing Petitioner has submitted suggests that there is a genuine issue that Respondent's actions were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The motion for summary decision, therefore, should be granted.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the motion for dismissal and summary decision instituted on behalf of respondent, Lenape, be and is hereby GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RURAL TABERNACLE COALITION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE LENAPE REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Both parties submitted exception arguments and the Board submitted replies in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 which were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, and notwithstanding the Board's continued arguments to the contrary, the Commissioner initially finds that petitioner Rural Tabernacle Coalition (RTC) is an "interested person" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 (formerly, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1) with "sufficient stake in the outcome of these proceedings so as to have the requisite standing to maintain this action." West Village Civic Club, Inc. and Arthur Silverstein v. Board of Education of the Township of Manchester et al., State Board decision June 5, 1996, Slip Opinion at 6.

However, with respect to the Board's Motion to Dismiss this matter, the Commissioner finds that RTC has failed to "set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue [with respect to the Board's expenditure of bond and other public monies] which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Rather, as the Board notes, the affidavits provided by RTC, as the nonmoving party, are insufficient to meet the legal standard necessary to defeat the Board's motion.

In this connection, the Commissioner observes that the affidavit provided by Frances Brooks, a resident of Tabernacle Township and a former member of the Township Committee and Land Development Board (LDB), predominantly speaks to Ms. Brooks' involvement with the district vis-à-vis its application for zoning changes before the LDB, and her subsequent "intense harassment by the SOS campaign" when she did not, as a member of the LDB, vote as the district wanted her to vote. (Certification of Frances Brooks at 1-2) Additionally, the affidavit of Raymond McCarty, a resident of Tabernacle Township and member of the RTC, underscores that the district was instrumental in supporting a change to Tabernacle's zoning ordinance, that key persons in the district, as well as district counsel, engineers, architects and consultants, attended those meetings, that district staff distributed SOS buttons and American flags at certain meetings, and did not attempt to distinguish "the Lenape District from the SOS campaign ." (Certification of Raymond McCarty at 1-2)

Similarly, the lengthy affidavit of Edmund Hallowell, together with 50 exhibits, raises numerous issues that are not germane to the single issue remaining before the ALJ and the Commissioner. Neither does the Hallowell affidavit assert facts which specifically refute those offered by Superintendent Hicks regarding the Board's alleged improper spending of bond money (Board's Motion for Summary Decision; Hicks Affidavit at 6-7)[1] so as to raise a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary hearing.[2]

[1] Superintendent Hicks attested, in pertinent part:

> With respect to the accusation that the Lenape District is improperly spending bond money, the estimated budget for the various projects included in the referendum anticipated monies to obtain all of the necessary approvals and permits necessary to construct the additions, make the alterations, and construct the new high school.

Accordingly, the recommendation of the ALJ dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted for the reasons herein noted.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

We have followed the dictates of the New Jersey Pinelands Commission insofar as the fourth high school is concerned, and are meeting the conditions of the New Jersey Pinelands Commission's various approvals.
The purchase of these development rights/credits does not involve the purchase of real estate, and is a condition to building the new high school.
One of the requirements is the purchase of development rights/credits which I understand are a part of the New Jersey Pinelands Commission Comprehensive Management Plan. (Board's Motion for Summary Decision; Hicks Affidavit at 6-7, paragraphs 36-39)

[2] Note, in this connection: "[D]isputes as to the conclusions to be drawn from the facts, as opposed to the facts themselves, will not defeat a motion for summary judgment." *Contini v. * Extensions of time for issuing the decision on the parties' cross-motions for summary decision were requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on June 28 1999, when the five petitioners named hereinabove filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking, inter alia, a determination that each petitioner either had achieved tenure status, or in the case of petitioner Braunstein would achieve tenure status, by virtue of employment as a teacher in the "Kaleidoscope Program" run by the district. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on July 15, 1999, and on July 26, 1999, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on November 29, 1999 and was continued on April 13, 2000. At that time a schedule for submission for cross-motions for summary decision was set. Hearing dates were scheduled for October 3 & 4, 2000, in the event that it was discovered there were material facts in dispute.

The hearing dates were adjourned at the joint request of the parties, and the schedule for submission of the cross-motions for summary decision was revised. A joint stipulation of facts and simultaneous briefs in support of cross-motions for summary decision were filed on November 17, 2000. Each party filed a brief in opposition to the other' s motion on December 1, 2000, and on January 23, 2001, oral argument was conducted by telephone conference call. By letter dated January 23, 2001, the undersigned wrote to the parties as follows:

> This will confirm, pursuant to our telephone conference call today, that you will be forwarding copies of the contracts between petitioners and respondent and any correspondence from the Department of Human Services or the Attorney General's office which may exist concerning the status of the program under N.J.A.C. 10:122-1.3. As we discussed, you may also wish to submit a supplemental memorandum concerning the legal status of Capella after Spiewak. Finally, if this matter is really a request for a Declaratory Ruling, which is what it appears to be, the format of the petition does not comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.2, and I question whether the Commissioner understood it to be such a request and actually made the discretionary determination to entertain the petition as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1. If you have suggestions concerning the method or necessity for correcting the procedural posture at this point in the proceedings, I would be happy to hear them. Please have whatever additional material you would like to have considered on my desk by 5 p.m. on February 6, 2001.

On February 6, 2001 each party filed a supplemental letter memorandum in response to the January 23, 2001 letter from the undersigned, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties have entered into the following joint stipulation of facts:

1. The Warren Township Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board") approved the creation of an extended-day program for children attending the district's half-day kindergarten program on January 27, 1992, which commenced on or about September 1, 1992 and continues to date.

2. The extended day program was known as "Kaleidoscope Kids" (hereinafter referred to as "Program" or "Kaleidoscope"). The Program was a fee-based, first come first served program. No taxpayer funds are used to pay for the petitioner's salaries or to purchase program materials. The Program did not utilize existing basal kindergarten materials. The Board contends that the Program was and is limited to child care and not academically based. Letters sent to parents to describe the Program when it was created referred to the Program as child care. When the Program was being created, a committee was created by the Board, which consisted of Board members, teachers, administrators, and community members, and that committee directed the program staff to develop the curriculum which was used and was aware of and approved that curriculum. The committee did not exist after the Program was in place. Petitioners contend that the Program was academically and instructionally based, and that the Program entailed duties and activities which required Petitioners to hold instructional certification with elementary endorsements issued by the State Board of Examiners.

3. The Board advertised for teachers for the Program. The Board required teachers employed in the Program to hold certification issued by the State Board of Examiners as elementary teachers and advertised to that effect. When they were interviewed and hired, Petitioners were not told that they were being interviewed or hired for a childcare program, but rather that they were being interviewed and hired for the extended day Kindergarten program and that it was thematically based.

A. Activities of the Program and duties supervised and/or performed by Petitioners included supervised play, quiet time, arts and crafts, computers, music, movement, dramatics, read aloud and large group experience stores and those duties described more particularly in paragraph 3 B.

B. As part of their duties, Petitioners taught thematic units which included the following topics: Birds, Community, Dental Health, Dinosaurs, Ecology, Fairy Tales, Friendship, Frogs, Good Citizenship, Hawaii, Imaginarium, Keats, Jack Ezra, Likenesses and Differences – visual differences, people, animals, families, Manners, Measurements, Musical Instruments, Nature, Ocean, Pets, Popcorn (plant seeds), Puppetry, Safety, Space, The Post Office, Transportation, My Family, Solar System, passport Around the World – a brief study of Italy, Mexico, Africa and Russia, Signs of Spring – spiders, insects, the pond, pussy willows, Seasonal Holidays – Halloween, Columbus Day, Thanksgiving, December Celebrations, Martin Luther King's Birthday, President's Day, Mother's Day and Father's Day, Ports, Fitness, Olympics, Theater, Drama, Art Appreciation, Dance, Rhythm, Instruments, Geography, Countries, Nutrition and Health Building and Architecture.

The Program curriculum for the above units was theme based and incorporated the whole language philosophy. The curriculum was not formally approved by the Board of Education, but it is the curriculum determined as referred to in paragraph 2 above.

Petitioners contend that there was a writing component of the Program. The writing component of the Program involved creating books, which was a cooperative learning endeavor, whereby each child would be responsible for writing a page of a book. Other writing activities included individual books, thank you notes, letters and journals. Respondent does not stipulate to this writing component.

The reading component of the Program included teachers reading literature to students, such as stories, poems, books and audiotapes. The reading was intended to develop vocabulary, recall of detail (listening, audio and visual memory), ability to sequence events to improve attention span, development of print awareness and appreciation of the written word.

The speaking component of the Program was integrated into and encouraged the Program students to respond to questions regarding literature and to share facts and personal circumstances related to particular themes, and to share general news. The activities and lessons were intended to develop language skills and confidence. Petitioners contend that students also share their writings among their peers, and recited poems, songs, and finger plays in groups. Respondent does not stipulate to the above sentence.

Students were also taught and engaged in music, creative dramatics, and puppetry to provide the opportunity for team creative expression, large muscle development, listening skills, socialization, and music appreciation. This included teaching songs, reenactment of stories, and creative movement.

Students were also taught and engaged in art projects developing small motor skills to teach them to follow directions, to complete tasks independently, to develop manual dexterity, through the use of scissors, tracing, and art materials. These activities also encouraged self-esteem, creativity, and appreciation of art.

In the course of the Program, petitioners took students on field trips, and teachers were required by the Superintendent, but not by Board directive, to prepare daily lesson plans and monthly calendars, to coordinate their plans and ideas, to meet monthly in person and by phone, and to hold parent teacher conferences and to attend parent evenings. The parent conferences and parent evenings were separate from the parent conferences and parent evenings held by the Board of Education for the regular Kindergarten program.

4. Petitioners were always included on the Board's seniority list. The parties disagree as to the significance of such inclusion, but attached for the Court's review are copies of relevant seniority lists. In addition, Petitioners were on the list as being tenured.

5. Petitioners were observed and evaluated by supervisors employed by the Board. Petitioner's observations and evaluations were based upon implementation of curriculum, instruction, and similar activities, and the attached observations and evaluations accurately set forth, memorialize, and evaluate the duties performed by Petitioners.

6. By letter dated April 19, 1999, Dr. Patrick Parenty, Superintendent of Schools, informed Petitioners that the Board's position was that teachers assigned at the Kaleidoscope Program did not and cannot acquire tenure or seniority credit for service to that Program.

7. Petitioner Marlene Roth (hereinafter "Roth") is presently employed by the Board as a half-time Kindergarten teacher.

A. Roth holds a Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education and a Masters of Business Administration.

B. Roth was issued an Instructional Certification with an Elementary Education endorsement by the State of New Jersey in May, 1976.

C. Roth's employment history with the Board is as follows:

1.	1991-93	Kaleidoscope (.5)
2.	1993-94	Kaleidoscope (.5)
3.	1994-95	Kaleidoscope (.5)
4.	1995-96	Kaleidoscope (.5)
5.	1996-97	Kaleidoscope (.5)
6.	1997-98	Kaleidoscope (.5)
7.	1998-99	Kindergarten Teacher (.5)
8.	1999-00	Kindergarten Teacher (.5)

8. Petitioner Paula Darby (hereinafter "Darby") is presently employed by the Board as a fourth grade teacher.

A. Darby holds a Bachelor of Science in Child Development and Elementary Education.

B. Darby was issued an Instructional Certificate with an Elementary Education endorsement by the State of New Jersey on July, 1992.

C. Darby's employment history with the Board is as follows:

1.	1992-93	Kaleidoscope (.6)
2.	1993-94	Kaleidoscope (.6)
3.	1994-95	Kaleidoscope (.6)
4.	1995-96	Kaleidoscope (.6)
5.	1996-97	Kaleidoscope (.6)
6.	1997-98	Kaleidoscope (.6)
7.	1998-99	Kaleidoscope (1.0)
8.	1999-00	Fourth Grade teacher (1.0)

D. During the time period that she was employed by the Board and assigned to the Kaleidoscope Program, Darby was employed in the position of "Head Teacher."

9. Petitioner Marilyn Brown (hereinafter "Brown") is presently employed by the Board as a tenured first grade teacher.

A. Brown holds a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts in Elementary Education.

B. Brown was issued an Instructional Certificate with an Elementary Education Endorsement by the State of New Jersey in February, 1990.

C. Brown's employment history with the Board is as follows:

1.	1992-93	Kaleidoscope (.5)
2.	1993-94	First Grade (1.0)
3.	1994-95	First Grade (1.0)
4.	1995-96	First Grade (1.0)
5.	1996-97	First Grade (1.0)
6.	1997-98	First Grade (1.0)
7.	1998-99	First Grade (1.0)
8.	1999-00	First Grade (1.0)

10. Petitioner Judy Hamilton (hereinafter "Hamilton") is presently employed by the Board as a Teacher.

A. Hamilton holds a Bachelor of Science in Psychology.

B. Hamilton was issued an Instructional Certificate with an Elementary Education Endorsement by the State Board of Examiners in January, 1975.

C. Hamilton's employment history with the Board is as follows:

1.	1992-93	Kaleidoscope (.5)
2.	1993-94	Kaleidoscope (.5)
3.	1994-95	Kaleidoscope (.5)
4.	1995-96	Kaleidoscope (1.0)
5.	1996-97	Kaleidoscope (1.0)
6.	1997-98	Kaleidoscope (1.0)
7.	1998-99	Kaleidoscope (1.0)
8.	1999-00	First Grade (1.0)

11. Petitioner Nancy Braunstein (hereinafter "Braunstein" is presently employed by the Board as a Program Teacher.

A. Braunstein holds a Bachelor of Arts in English and Journalism.

B. Braunstein was issued an Instructional Certificate with an Elementary endorsement by the State Board of Examiners in April, 1990.

C. Braunstein's employment history with the Board is as follows:

1.	1997-98	Substitute teacher & Kaleidoscope Aide
2.	9/98 – 12/98	Substitute teacher & Kaleidoscope Aide
3.	1/99 – 6/99	Kaleidoscope (1.0)
4.	1999-00	Kaleidoscope (1.0)

12. Petitioners were informed by the former Superintendent, Pamela Fiander, while she was the Superintendent, that they would acquire tenure and that service in the Program was tenure eligible. Respondent admits that this statement was made, but denies that it was or is relevant.

13. Petitioners were enrolled in the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF), and Respondent filed certifications with the TPAF to obtain Petitioners' enrollment in the TPAF. The parties dispute the significance of such certifications, but a copy of a sample certification is attached to this stipulation as Exhibit H. In addition, during all their employment with Respondent, Petitioners received pension credit in TPAF.

14. During their employment, Petitioners received reimbursement for tuition for college and/or graduate courses that they completed. Those courses were taken at colleges and universities, and were subject to reimbursement based upon the terms of Respondent's policies and the collective bargaining agreement applicable to teachers.

15. During their employment, Petitioners requested permission to and were granted staff development activities, which they completed. Those activities were subject to reimbursement based upon the terms of Respondent's policies and the collective bargaining agreement as applicable to teachers. The activities for which Petitioners sought and obtained professional development reimbursement involved instructional subject matter. Attached as Exhibit J are application forms filed by Petitioners seeking reimbursement and Respondent's approval of same for these charges. Those forms accurately set forth the nature of the activities for which Petitioners sought and were granted reimbursement.

Although the demand clause of the petition of appeal requests an order from the Commissioner "directing respondent to reinstate or assign petitioners to full-time positions immediately and retroactively, together with all back pay, benefits, and all other emoluments denied as the result of any action by respondent to terminate or reduce any petitioners' employment, if necessary or warranted," in fact, no petitioner has suffered any adverse employment action either reducing hours or salary. Petitioners' February 5, 2001 letter memorandum sets forth the following argument concerning the issue of the relief requested:

> As regards the issue of whether this matter should properly be viewed as a request for a Declaratory Judgment, it is the position of petitioners that this action was properly initiated with the filing of a Petition of Appeal in June of 1999 following the petitioners' receipt, a month earlier, of correspondence from the Superintendent of Schools notifying them that respondent had determined that they could not, and did not, acquire tenure as a teacher for the period of time in which they were employed as teachers in the "Kaleidoscope" program. This notice constituted an adverse action of the board of education against these teachers, which has as a practical matter resulted in the professional observation and evaluation of these petitioners as if they were non-tenured teaching staff members, and which clearly constitutes a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws. If however, this court finds that this matter necessitates a Declaratory Ruling, then petitioners should be permitted to amend their Petition of Appeal to conform with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1 et seq.

Respondent's February 6, 2001 letter memorandum addresses the issue as follows:

> It is our opinion that the action in this case is seeking declaratory relief. To the extent that it does so we have no objections to an amendment to the Petition of Appeal to conform to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1, but such an amendment would be required inasmuch as this case clearly is seeking declaratory relief.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1 sets forth the requirements for obtaining a declaratory ruling from the Commissioner of Education:

> (a) Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8, any interested person(s) may petition the Commissioner for a declaratory ruling with respect to rights, responsibilities and status arising from any statute or regulation within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner. The determination to entertain such petitions for declaratory ruling shall be within the sole discretion of the Commissioner. If such request is granted, the matter shall proceed in accordance with these regulations as they pertain to petitions. A > declaratory ruling shall be binding upon the Commissioner and all parties to the proceedings on the specific statement of facts set forth therein.

>
> 1. A request for a declaratory ruling shall reflect adverse positions on the statute or rule in question by the parties in interest, may not seek consequential relief beyond a declaration as to the meaning of the statute or rule, and may not be based on underlying facts which are future, contingent, uncertain or disputed.
> (b) Except that the format of the petition shall be as set forth in this subchapter, the rules pertaining to filing, service and answer of petitions as set forth in this chapter shall apply to petitions for declaratory ruling. (Emphasis added.)

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.2 sets forth the required format for a petition for declaratory ruling. The petition of appeal in the within matter does not follow that format. The sole issue in dispute relates to whether petitioner's teaching positions in the Kaleidoscope extended-day program are tenure-eligible positions. This appears to present a request for a declaratory ruling. I CONCLUDE that whether or not petitioners are subject to the evaluation requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 for non-tenured teaching staff is merely another way of stating the issue, rather than a sufficient consequence to create a case or controversy requiring a decision or consequential relief from the Commissioner. Although respondent has indicated that it has no objection to permitting petitioners to amend the petition of appeal to conform with the required format, because N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1 requires the Commissioner of Education to make a determination whether to entertain such a petition for declaratory ruling and because it is in the sole discretion of the Commissioner to make such a determination before transmitting the file to the Office of Administrative Law for processing as a petition of appeal, it occurred to me, after I realized that none of the petitioners had actually suffered any adverse employment action requiring affirmative relief from the Commissioner, that it would be presumptuous of me to issue an initial decision on the underlying issues without first submitting the declaratory ruling issue to the Commissioner for a determination.

Accordingly, I am hereby returning the petition of appeal to the Commissioner to determine whether this case is one which requires the format of the petition to comply with

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.2, and if so, whether the Commissioner wishes to entertain such a petition for a declaratory ruling.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6128-99
AGENCY DKT. NO. 172-6/99

MARILYN BROWN, PAULA DARBY, MARLENE ROTH, JUDY HAMILTON, AND NANCY BRAUNSTEIN,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WARREN, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	PARTIAL SUMMARY DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in the form of a partial summary decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were timely filed pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioners' exceptions contend, inter alia, that although all but one of them have served the requisite period of time as a teacher in the Kaleidoscope Program to have attained tenure as teachers pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, respondent determined to treat them as if they were, and still are, nontenured teachers, including, but not limited to, altering the manner of their professional observation and evaluation, and to deny them various benefits of tenure. It is petitioners' position that this determination by the Board clearly constituted an adverse action against them which resulted in a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq.; thus, they aver, the filing of a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner was appropriate. Petitioners further assert that at no time during the course of litigation in this matter did the Board ever raise the argument that petitioners did not suffer any adverse employment action as a result of its determination as to their tenure status. Rather, it was only after the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) questioned whether this matter could be viewed as a request for a declaratory judgment that the Board argued that the relief sought by petitioners was declaratory in nature.

Consequently, petitioners urge rejection of the Initial Decision wherein the ALJ concluded that their matter should be viewed as a request for a declaratory ruling and, instead, remand the matter to the ALJ for a determination on the merits.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, at this point in time, the instant matter is appropriate for declaratory ruling pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1 et seq. In so holding, however, the Commissioner emphasizes that at the time the Petition of Appeal was filed on June 28, 1999, shortly after petitioners received notice from the superintendent of schools, on or about May 20, 1999, that their service in the Kaleidoscope Program was not tenure-eligible, the pleadings included a prayer for relief which included, inter alia, an order of the Commissioner:

> B. Directing respondent to reinstate or assign petitioners to full-time positions immediately and retroactively, together with all back pay, benefits, and all other emoluments denied as the result of any action by respondent to terminate or reduce any petitioners' employment, if necessary or warranted.
> C. Directing respondent to assure that each petitioner receives proper pension credit for all periods of any improper failure to provide same.
>
> D. Attaching interest, both pre and post decision, to any backpay awarded . (Petition of Appeal at 4)

Moreover, the Board's Answer raised an affirmative defense that:

> With the exception of Marilyn Brown, none of the Petitioners are tenured employees of the district and they are not entitled to reinstatement to any particular position and have no right to any back pay or other benefits or other emoluments and Respondent has the right to terminate or reduce a position at any time as all Petitioners except Brown are employees at will without any tenure rights. (Board's Answer at 2)

Given the pleadings at the time the Petition of Appeal was filed and answered, the matter did not appear to be one conducive to a declaratory judgment.[1] However, now that two years have transpired since petitioners were notified of their change of tenure status and the only apparent "adverse" employment action to which any of the petitioners has been subjected is observation and evaluation as nontenured staff, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the issue to be decided in the instant matter, i.e., whether employment as a teacher in the Board's Kaleidoscope Program constitutes tenure-eligible service, is one appropriate for declaratory judgment. Consequently, the Commissioner herein determines to exercise his discretion, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1, to entertain the matter as a declaratory judgment request and direct that the matter shall proceed at the OAL on that basis.

Accordingly, petitioners are directed to submit promptly an amended petition to the OAL, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2, such that the petition is in conformity with the format requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.2. Given that more than two years have transpired since petitioners original filing in this matter, the Commissioner requests that the case proceed as expeditiously as possible so that final resolution may be reached forthwith as to petitioners' tenure status.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The petitioner, Francine Barndt, challenged a Highland Park Board of Education (respondent) resolution requiring that she undergo physical and psychological examinations. The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

On April 17, 2001, the date set for hearing, counsel reached an amicable resolution of all issues between them. The parties have prepared the attached settlement agreement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures;

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues and is consistent with the law, and

3. The settlement is sensitive to the nature of the issues addressed.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded. I further note that the parties have agreed to waive the right to file exceptions and cross-exceptions.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

Highland Park Board of Education ("Board") and Francine Barndt ("Barndt") hereby agrees as follows:

1. Ms. Barndt will be placed on an "administrative leave" by the Board from the date of this agreement through November 30, 2002. During this leave, Barndt will accrue sick leave consistent with the collective bargaining agreement between the Board and the Highland Park Education Association, and will also earn and receive whatever salary increases she is entitled to pursuant to that agreement. Barndt will be paid a payroll check during this period of leave, from which shall be deducted her share of the normal pension contributions, with the Board paying its share of the pension contributions.

2. Barndt shall submit a valid letter of resignation to the Board, stating that she is resigning her position in the Highland Park School District effective November 30, 2002. This resignation will be valid, binding, and effective when it is accepted by the Highland Park Board of Education.

3. Barndt agrees that at no time in the future will she apply for another position of employment with the Highland Park Board of Education.

4. At the time of her leaving the Highland Park School District (November 30, 2002), Barndt will be entitled to reimbursement for whatever accrued sick and personal time she has as of that date (again, pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement between the Board and the Highland Park Education Association).

5. The Board will bear the cost of Barndt's purchasing back up to two years of pension credit from the New Jersey Division on Pensions. The Board will "buy back" this time within 90 days of the date of this Agreement. The amount of time to be purchased shall not exceed the time necessary to get Barndt to 25 years of service as of 11/30/02. If TPAF rejects the purchase of this time, then this Agreement, as well as the attached Release, are null and void, and the parties have whatever rights they would have otherwise enjoyed but for this Agreement and Release.

6. Barndt will dismiss with prejudice her pending Petition of Appeal with the Department of Education.

7. The Board will withdraw its request for Barndt to go for a psychiatric and physical examination.

8. During the aforementioned administrative leave of absence, Barndt will not work in any capacity between 8:00 A.M. and 3:30 P.M. during days when school is in session, except that she may attend continuing education courses pursuant to the state continuing education obligation (100 hours in 5 years).

9. At no time in the future will Barndt be permitted on any property or grounds of the Board, except to attend non-school related functions in or on any school property. Other than Barndt's right to be on district property for a non-school function, Barndt agrees that she will not be present on any Board of Education property.

10. Barndt will provide a valid and binding General Release and Waiver to the Highland Park Board of Education, its servants, agents, employees, successors and assigns. Said Release will specifically include a waiver by Barndt of any right to recovery of legal fees she has incurred in the Department of Education matter, the criminal matter, or any other legal action involving the Board and/or the employees.

11. The Highland Park Education Association and Barndt will dismiss with prejudice its pending grievance concerning the contents of Barndt's personnel file. The Board will remove copies of all disputed documents from any of its files, and said disputed documents will be held in escrow by the Board's attorney, pursuant to a separate escrow agreement between Barndt and the Board.

12. Barndt will withdraw her pending Appellate Division Appeal in the Barndt/Barbosa case, and will dismiss all claims currently pending against Matthew Barbosa. The aforementioned Release that Barndt will provide to the Board will encompass a waiver of all claims Barndt has or may have had against Mr. Barbosa. Barbosa will supply Barndt with a General Release and Waiver releasing all claims that Barbosa had or may have had against Barndt.

13. The existence of this Agreement, the terms contained herein, any discussions concerning this Agreement, and any facts related to the aforementioned Petition of Appeal are to be treated as confidential by the parties, and shall not be disclosed by either party except as required by law. Notwithstanding this provision, Barndt may discuss these otherwise confidential matters only with her husband, her attorney, her adult children, and her brother (who is also an attorney). The parties agree that they will provide a simple "no comment" in response to any inquiries by reporters.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Stipulation of Settlement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed. Upon review, the Commissioner is compelled to remand the settlement agreement to the OAL. On its face, the agreement is expressly contingent upon the approval by the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF), Division of Pensions and Benefits, of the purchase of "buy back" time by the Board on behalf of petitioner. The agreement provides that

> If TPAF rejects the purchase of this time, then this Agreement, as well as the attached Release, are (sic) null and void, and the parties have whatever rights they would have otherwise enjoyed but for this Agreement and Release. (Settlement Agreement at paragraph 5, p. 2)

The Commissioner recognizes that any settlement agreement effectuated by parties to a dispute shall, upon his approval, be deemed a final decision. N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(d). Therefore, although he does not find objectionable the terms of the agreement which are within his jurisdiction, the Commissioner cannot sanction a settlement which is clearly contingent upon the satisfaction of conditions by another agency, namely the Department of Treasury, Division of Pensions and Benefits, and which further provides that if such conditions are not met, the agreement shall be deemed null and void.

Accordingly, the within settlement is rejected. The Commissioner directs that this matter be remanded to the OAL and held in abeyance, pending review by the Division of Pensions and Benefits of the parties' application to purchase the proposed pension credit for petitioner. If the parties obtain the necessary approval from the Division of Pensions and Benefits, the within agreement may be modified to so reflect that approval, and may be resubmitted to the Commissioner for review. If, however, the parties cannot obtain from the Division of Pensions and Benefits the outcome they seek, and they are unable to agree on revised settlement terms, this matter shall proceed to a determination on petitioner's claims.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PETITIONERS-APPELLANTS, :

V. :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 6, 2001

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Christopher M. Manganello, Esq.

For the Respondent-Respondent, Capehart & Scatchard, P.A. (Joseph F. Betley, Esq., of Counsel)

The petitioners filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging the action by the Board of Education of the Township of Washington (hereinafter "Board") expelling their son, A.G., from school following two positive drug tests. On August 6, 2001, the Commissioner dismissed the petition.

On September 7, 2001, the petitioners filed the instant appeal to the State Board of Education.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.11(a), the petitioners' brief in support of their appeal was due on September 27, 2001, 20 days after they filed their notice of appeal. The petitioners, however, failed to file a brief by that date. By letter dated October 1, 2001, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office ("Director") notified the petitioners of their failure to file a brief and informed them that this matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of their failure to perfect the appeal.

By letter dated October 30, 2001, the counsel for the petitioners indicated that:

> my office mistakenly failed to submit a brief in support of the appeal with regard to the above-referenced matter. Please be advised that I thought that the brief was submitted with the original notice of appeal; however, that was evidently not the case. I respectfully request that the State Board of Education permit me additional time to file said brief.

By letter dated November 2, 2001, the Director responded that:

> On Wednesday, October 24, 2001, your secretary called this office to say that a brief would be filed by Monday, October 29, 2001. She was advised that you would have to submit a certification explaining why the brief had not been timely filed and that it would be necessary to seek leave of the Legal Committee to file your brief. She was further advised that the brief should accompany this request and that it was necessary to file an original and seventeen (17) copies of all documents. There was no further contact from your office until we received your letter of October 30, 2001.
> If you wish to seek leave of the Legal Committee to file your appeal brief nunc pro tunc, you are required to file the original and seventeen copies of any such request along with the brief.

On November 13, 2001, the counsel for the petitioners called the State Board Appeals Office and indicated that he had just received the Director's letter of November 2. He further indicated that his secretary had not fully informed him of the details of her conversation of October 24 with the State Board Appeals Office. He gave his assurance that the brief would be filed by November 16.

However, no brief was filed by that date. In fact, counsel for the petitioners has still failed to file a brief in support of the appeal, more than two months after the filing deadline, despite repeated assurances from him and his office that the brief would be filed. Nor has he communicated with the State Board Appeals Office since his telephone call of November 13, sought leave to file nunc pro tunc or offered any explanation for his ongoing failure to file a brief. As a result, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.12(a). See Paszamant v. Board of Education of the Borough of Highland Park, decided by the State Board, April 1, 1992, aff'd, Docket #A-4812-91-3 (App. Div. 1993).

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SALEM COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES SCHOOL DISTRICT, WOLFINGTON BODY COMPANY, AND SHEPPARD BUS SERVICE, INC.,	:	DECISION ON REMAND

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, unsuccessful bidder for a busing contract, claimed it was the lowest bidder and contended the District's awarding of the contract to Wolfington was illegal and in contravention of the Public Schools Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 to –49.2. The Commissioner found that the central issue in the ALJ's determination as to whether the contract should be re-bid was his finding that petitioner's CAT 3126B engine was not equivalent to the DT 466 engine which the District preferred. Finding that the parties did not have the opportunity to brief or introduce technical evidence on the issue of whether the two engines were equivalent, the Commissioner remanded the matter for further proceedings as necessary so that the question of equivalency could be determined based on a complete record.

On remand, the ALJ granted respondents' Motion to Dismiss the petition and denied petitioner's cross-motion to hold the District and its business administrator in contempt for their failure to comply with a June 7, 2000 restraining order.

On remand, Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that the District's Motion to Dismiss was properly granted. In that the available grant expired in February 2001 and all four of the local school districts withdrew from the partnership which the grant supported and purchased the needed buses individually, there was no basis on which the relief petitioner sought in this litigation could be granted and the petition was dismissed as moot. Further, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the cross-motion to hold the District and its business administrator in contempt must be denied as petitioner failed to demonstrate, and the record did not support, a finding that either the District or its business administrator willfully or purposely disobeyed such order. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

This will serve as my ruling on the motion dated April 10, 2001 by the Salem County Special Services School District ("the District") to dismiss the petition of H.A. DeHart & Son ("DeHart") and on the cross-motion dated April 12, 2001 of DeHart to hold in contempt both the District and its Business Administrator, Henry Bermann. It also constitutes an Initial Decision.

I note for the record that both counsel for the District and DeHart have submitted excellent briefs and reply briefs, supported by voluminous exhibits and, in the case of the District, a four-page detailed certification of Mr. Bermann. I commend counsel for their diligence and the high quality of their arguments.

For the reasons that follow, I have decided (1) to grant the District's motion to dismiss and (2) to deny DeHart's motion to hold the District and Mr. Bermann in contempt.

Respecting the District's motion, DeHart agrees - - as per Mr. Ward's letter to me dated May 1, 2001 - - that "the issues to be decided have been rendered moot . . . [and that] the court has no relief to grant petitioner." Mr. Ward adds further: "The sole remaining issue before this court is whether or not [the District] violated the temporary restraining order of this court and what sanctions should be imposed." Mr. Ward's letter amounts to a withdrawal of the original petition for relief or, at least, to a concession that DeHart does not oppose the motion to dismiss.

The essential facts underlying petitioner's contempt motion are not in dispute. They can be summarized as follows.

On or about September 1, 1999, the District received a Consolidation of Services grant from the State of New Jersey to sponsor and administer joint purchasing projects. The theory of the grant was that administrative and transactional costs normally incurred in the acquisition of products and materials could be reduced if school districts would join together to acquire them. In addition, the grant contemplated that the districts would incur lower per unit costs if larger quantities were purchased. The reduction in cost would benefit the participating districts and their taxpayers.

In accordance with the terms of the grant, the District offered to prepare specifications and advertise for bids for seven school buses that four local districts needed for the 2000-2001 school year. The districts were Cumberland Regional School District (1 bus), Millville City School District (1 bus), Oldmans Township School District (1 bus), and Pittsgrove Township School District (4 buses). None of the buses would be retained by the District.

Bids for the buses were received from four bidders on March 27, 2000. On April 25, 2000 the District awarded a contract for the purchase of the buses to Wolfington Body Company ("Wolfington"). Although DeHart appeared to be the low bidder, its bid was disqualified upon the recommendation of Henry Bermann, the Business Administrator for the District. Mr. Bermann advised the District that the "parent bore" engine offered by DeHart was not the equivalent of the "wet sleeve" engine desired by the four local school districts. Mr. Bermann also pointed out that Sheppard Bus Service ("Sheppard") offered the parent bore engine as an alternate and that if a parent bore engine were to be purchased, the contract should be awarded to Sheppard.

Shortly after the contract award to Wolfington, DeHart filed a petition seeking to void the award and applying for emergency relief to restrain the District and Wolfington from completing the purchase. On May 30, 2000, I heard from counsel by way of oral argument on the application and granted it. On June 7, 2000 I signed an Order temporarily restraining the District and Wolfington "from taking any further action pursuant to any award of the bid for school buses awarded April 25,2000 until there can be a plenary hearing . . . ."

At that point, the District modified and corrected the specifications previously issued and readvertised for bids. This was done because the four local districts needed the buses for the beginning of the 2000-2001 school year. However, to date no contract has been awarded by the District. During the summer of 2000 the four local districts advised the District, either verbally or in writing, that they were withdrawing from the program. Subsequently, the local districts individually issued specifications and advertised for bids for the buses they needed. Pittsgrove advertised for four buses. DeHart participated in the Pittsgrove bidding process but its bid was disqualified because it was not timely submitted.

Since June 10, 2000 all four local districts have purchased the buses which they desired through individual bidding processes conducted by each school district.

The grant program under which the disputed bids were advertised terminated on February 28, 2001, and at this moment the District has no legal authority or funds to purchase the 7 buses which are the subject of this litigation.

Henry Bermann has been the Business Administrator for the Pittsgrove Township School District for more than 12 years, as well as having served as the business administrator for the District at all times relevant to the instant litigation. Sometime during the summer of 2000 Mr. Bermann consulted the solicitor for the Pittsgrove Township Board of Education to ascertain if, in light of the outstanding restraining order, Pittsgrove could legally advertise for bids for the four buses it needed. The solicitor advised that this was permissible because the restraining order did not apply to Pittsgrove but only to the District and Wolfington.

DeHart's motion to hold the District and Mr. Bermann in contempt is based on its contention that Mr. Bermann "allowed" the four local districts to withdraw from the joint agreement. This argument, however, is not supported by the facts. Mr. Bermann's certification -- neither contradicted nor rebutted by petitioner - - declares:

> 5. "In order to ascertain the interest of local school districts in the purchase of new school buses, an announcement was made in December of 1999 at a joint meeting of business administrators for Salem and Cumberland counties. The business administrators were advised that, if there were enough interest in new buses, Salem County Special Services School District would advertise for bids. The participating districts would have the option to either accept the bid price or advertise individually for the bus or buses that district needed.
> 6. Four school districts indicated interest in the joint purchasing of buses: Pittsgrove Township, Oldmans Township, Millville City and Cumberland Regional. Pittsgrove wanted four buses. The other districts asked for one bus each. As a result of the expressions of interest by these school districts, the bid specifications which are the subject of the within litigation were prepared.

> 7. No formal agreements or contracts were signed by the participating school districts. The understanding of all parties was that the buses would be bid by Special Services, that each district could purchase the bus or buses in which it was interested and that there was no obligation to purchase anything if the district did not desire to do so."

In paragraph 10 of his certification, Mr. Bermann added: "Since the entry of the restraining order, Special Services has taken no action concerning the buses in dispute. I know of no legal right possessed by Special Services to prevent the other districts from purchasing the buses which they needed."

Mr. Bermann's certification is supported by an attached exhibit (Exhibit "A"). This is a sample "Joint Purchasing Agreement" which the Pittsgrove Board of Education has used for many years with other Salem County School District boards of education when the latter want to avail themselves of the efficiencies and economies of joint purchasing of natural gas, paper, materials and supplies. The agreement is binding on the other school districts in one respect only, viz., to pay Pittsgrove for those items which they decide to purchase. There is no obligation on the part of the other districts to purchase any item jointly. There is nothing precluding the other districts from purchasing any materials or supplies individually. And there is nothing in the agreement preventing the other districts from withdrawing from the purchasing arrangement any time they desire.

It is clear, as counsel for the District points out, that the District had no legal or equitable right to prevent the other districts from withdrawing from the informal purchasing partnership. There was no contract prohibiting the participating districts from acquiring the bus or buses separately and individually, nor was there any regulation or statute prohibiting it.

A party to a legal action cannot be held in contempt unless it is able to comply with an order of the court and willfully refuses to do so. Greer v. New Jersey Bureau of Securities, 288 N.J. Super. 69, 86 (App. Div. 1996). Before a party is held in contempt, there must be a showing that the party willfully and purposely disobeyed the order. Lusardi v. Curtis Point Property Owners' Association, 138 N.J. Super. 44 (App. Div. 1975).

In my opinion, petitioner has failed to show that Mr. Bermann and the District purposely and willfully disobeyed the restraining order of June 10, 2000. Indeed, the evidence indicates that both Bermann and the District have respected the order and acted in good faith.

Accordingly, I hereby GRANT respondent's motion to DISMISS the petition and DENY petitioner's motion to hold the District and Henry Bermann in contempt. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the District's Motion to Dismiss the within petition is properly granted. As recognized by petitioner, in that the grant made available through the Consolidation of Services Grant Program expired on February 28, 2001, and since, prior to this time, all four of the local school districts had withdrawn from the partnership which the grant supported and subsequently individually issued specifications, advertised for bids, and ultimately purchased the buses they needed, there is no basis on which the relief petitioner sought in this litigation can be granted, and the instant petition must be dismissed as moot. The Commissioner, likewise, concurs with the ALJ that petitioner's cross-motion to hold the District and its business administrator in contempt for their failure to comply with the June 7, 2000 restraining order must be denied as petitioner has failed to demonstrate, and the record does not support, a finding that either the District or its business administrator willfully and purposely disobeyed such order.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons stated therein and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Steve Hallett, Esq., for the petitioner
Richard E. Golden, Esq., for the respondent (Sumners, George & Dortch, P.C., attorneys)

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

On June 21, 2001 petitioner filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education of New Jersey requesting that the action of respondent terminating "Abbott Preschool Educational Program Contract dated July 27, 2000 between the Trenton Public School and First Step Academy and Community Development Center ("First Step") be stayed pending a final decision in this matter.

Petitioner's request with exhibits was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 22, 2001. Oral argument on petitioner's motion was scheduled for July 2, 2001. All parties appeared on that date at the Office of Administrative Law, however, because respondent had not responded to petitioner's moving papers the argument was continued to July 24, 2001. Prior to that date both parties filed letter briefs with exhibits. Oral arguments were completed on July 24, 2001.

The only disputed fact in this matter is the Abbott Preschool Educational Program Contract, dated July 27, 2000 ("Contract") and appended as Exhibit A to the submissions of each party. It appears that First Steps was closed to "Abbott" children on April 6 although funding was last paid by the BOE in March. Petitioner alleges she first received written notice of adverse action pursuant to the contract on April 18, 2001; respondent alleges the notification of termination of the contract because of a material breach was sent to First Steps on April 9.

Respondent further alleges that its action were necessitated by its finding that employees of First Step were arrested "for altering birth certificates and the removal of all Abbott records" from First Steps thus breaching the contract. Petitioner cites Section V, Paragraph B of the contract in her argument that respondent must give "no less than ten (10) business days" notice to comply with the terms of the contract before termination. This action is authorized as a request for a stay of the termination pending the outcome of an appeal to the Commissioner of Education.

> N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(a) states:
> Where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision granting or prohibiting some action or relief connected with a contested case, emergency relief pending a final decision on the whole contested case may be ordered upon the application of a party.

"Harm is generally considered irreparable in equity if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages. In certain circumstances, severe personal inconvenience can constitute irreparable injury justifying issuance of injunctive relief. "Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-133 (1982). Four "principles," "rules" or "tests" for authorizing preliminary relief are detailed in the Crowe decision. In addition to the prevention of "irreparable harm," Crowe holds, "a preliminary injunction should not issue where all material facts are controverted" and the moving party "must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits." Ibid.

In this matter, because the term of the contract ended on June 30, 2001 and the respondent did not attempt to renew the contract, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's potential for recovery is limited to the contract term ending June 30, 2001. Therefore, a stay of the contract termination can only require respondent to pay money to petitioner for contracted services to June 30, 2001 – a date now past. Counsel for petitioner has more than adequately explained the depth of personal inconvenience to petitioner and the employees of First Step whose teacher certifications may be in jeopardy. However, I CONCLUDE that personal inconvenience results from the annual renewability of the contract, not from whether the respondent properly terminated the contract. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioner's request for a stay of respondent's action terminating the contract is DENIED.

Petitioner requests that this matter be scheduled for plenary hearing of the issues raised in her original petition, the amended letter brief for emergent relief, and for such additional amended relief requests which may be made. It is therefore ORDERED that petitioner file any further amendments of the petition for relief within 20 days of the date of this Order. It is further ORDERED that respondent file its response to petitioner's amended petition within 20 days after it receives service of the amended petition. It is further ORDERED that all motions for summary disposition of this matter, with briefs and supporting affidavits, be filed within 30 days after respondent files its response.

It is finally ORDERED that the date of the plenary hearing is fixed at October 22, 2001.

This order on application for emergency relief shall remain in effect until issuance of the decision in the matter. The plenary hearing has been scheduled for October 22, 2001.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Petitioning Board member, against whom a private citizen filed a slander complaint, alleged the Board wrongfully refused to indemnify him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20.

The ALJ noted that board members are indemnified when civil actions are brought against them for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of duties as a member of a board of education. The ALJ emphasized that petitioner was a member of the Board when he defamed the private citizen; however, he was not acting in any official capacity when he made the comments, he was engaged in personal, political activity. Moreover, he was not sued for reports to the police or to the school administration, he was sued for "unthinking statements [made] to private citizens." The ALJ denied petitioner's request for legal fees and costs and dismissed the petition.

Having reviewed the record, including transcripts of the hearing, the Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

Record Closed: May 17, 2001 Decided: June 29, 2001

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Robert Grant (Grant or petitioner) appeals the decision of the Green Brook Board of Education (Board) not to indemnify him under the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20. The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

STIPULATED FACTS

The parties stipulate the following:

1. At all times relevant herein, the petitioner was an elected member of the Green Brook Board of Education, Green Brook, Somerset County, New Jersey, having been elected to the School Board on April 15, 1997. The petitioner's term expired in April 2000.

2. Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 through –10, respondent, Board, having administrative offices at 132 Jefferson Avenue, Green Brook Township, New Jersey, is a body corporate of the State of New Jersey and is charged with the administration of the public school system in Green Brook Township.

3. On or about January 22, 1999, a verified complaint was filed by Arthur Nelson against Robert Grant and unnamed John Does' in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Somerset County, in the matter entitled Arthur Nelson v. Robert Grant et al., Docket No. SOM-L-97-99. (Exhibit J-1).

4. On or about April 14, 1999, an answer was filed on Grant's behalf. (Exhibit J-2).

5. As part of the discovery in the Superior Court case, depositions were taken of the following individuals:

   a. Stanley Wainwright, May 6, 1999 (Exhibit J-3);
   b. Douglas Judge, May 6, 1999 (Exhibit J-4);
   c. Arthur Nelson, May 12, 1999 (Exhibit J-5) and
   d. Robert Grant, June 4, 1999 (Exhibit J-6).

6. On or about November 15, 1999, Grant and Nelson entered into a Stipulation of Dismissal. (Exhibit J-7).

7. On or about December 2, 1999, Grant and Nelson entered into a Settlement Agreement. (Exhibit J-8).

8. On or about December 2, 1999, Nelson executed a release in Grant's favor. (Exhibit J-9).

9. On or about February 14, 2000, Grant signed a Green Brook Board of Education voucher for $27,454.83, representing $19,454.83 in legal fees and $8,000 in settlement costs in In the Matter of Nelson v. Grant. (Exhibit J-10).

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Grant was elected to the Board in April 1997 and served until his term expired in April 2000. In February 1998, Grant attended a meeting of approximately six private citizens at the home of Stanley Wainwright to put together a slate of potential candidates to run in the April 1998 school election. The group called itself "Partnership in Education for the New Millennium." Grant was the only board of education member at the meeting.

At the end of the meeting, Arthur Nelson, a private citizen, stated to Grant and Wainwright that he was going to "drag" three school administrators out of town. After Nelson left, the petitioner told Wainwright that Wainwright should disassociate himself from Nelson because he was associating with someone who was under investigation.

In March 1998, Grant told Douglas Judge, also a private citizen, that Nelson is a racist, an anti-Semite and a Nazi sympathizer and also that Nelson was under investigation by the Department of Justice. Grant states he told Judge to disassociate himself from Nelson because Judge was associating himself with someone who was under investigation. Grant testified, on cross examination, that he had no knowledge of Nelson being under investigation and the only person in town that was under investigation to his knowledge was a student named Ben Blackwelder who was accused of making racist statements and drawings.

Arthur Nelson filed a slander complaint against Grant in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Somerset County, on January 22, 1999. The complaint names Grant alone, in his individual capacity, and alleges among other things that Grant falsely and maliciously told private citizens that Nelson was under investigation by the Department of Justice. When Grant was served with a copy of the complaint, he entered a closed Board meeting at which the Board was interviewing candidates for superintendent. Grant requested that the Board indemnify him in a law suit. This appears to the first knowledge the Board had of any matter involving Nelson. Grant had not mentioned or requested to be heard with respect to matters concerning Nelson. Grant never advised the Board that Grant believed Nelson was associated with or responsible for some incidences of bias that were occurring in the school.

There appears to have been no discussion of the matter from that time until January 2000. The Board was not supplied copies of the complaint. During the old business portion of the agenda at the Board meeting of January 17, 2000, Grant stated he had a letter he wanted to read into the minutes. The Board president objected, but Grant proceeded to read a letter of apology to Nelson. The Board did not discuss the matter after Grant read the letter. However, at the next Board meeting, seven of the nine Board members voted to have the letter stricken from the record because it was not a matter of Board business. The petitioner then demanded that the Board indemnify him for legal fees in the Nelson law suit. The Board declined.

In Grant's letter of apology to Nelson, he stated among other things that he knows of no instance in which Nelson demonstrated any attitude of racism, anti-Semitism or bigotry. (P-103). At hearing, Grant testified he was not directed by the Board to make the statements he did to Wainwright or to Judge.

The petitioner's view is different. He suggests there is something causative in the Nelson statement concerning dragging administrators out of town because two of those persons were Jewish. The threat was made at Wainwright's home and Wainwright was deeply involved in board of education matters. Nelson's complaint is "liberally sprinkled" with references to the Green Brook Board of Education. The individuals identified in the complaint are prominent in Green Brook Board of Education matters. Grant says his purpose in speaking to the three individuals identified in the complaint was to keep school board elections clean and free of bias.

Nelson's complaint refers to statements Grant made about an investigation by the Department of Justice concerning bias matters in the schools. Grant made a report to police related to bias incidents at the school and the threats made to three school administration persons and, he believed, himself.

Nelson's preferred candidate for the school board at the next election was a woman who had written, in Grant's opinion, inappropriate letters to the Board and Superintendent and whose son was the pupil referred to earlier as possessing a "notebook full of swastikas."

According to Grant, he followed the chain of command in reporting what he saw to be an incidence of bias. He believes he was directed by the Board president, Board vice-president, Board attorney and affirmative action officer to report the incident to the police. In addition, Board policy required Grant to report the incident to the police. Training as a new board member, required by law, included discussions of bias-related incidents. The president of the Green Brook Board had written a letter to Board members urging them to report incidents of bias to authorities. There was a memorandum of agreement between the Green Brook Board and law enforcement officials that also required Grant to report any incidents of bias that came to his attention to law enforcement authorities.

The petitioner produced Sergeant William C. Birath, Green Brook Police Department, who testified about complaints given to him by Grant. Birath's notes do reflect that Grant recorded the threat by Nelson to "drag" certain administrators out of town. Birath's notes also indicate that Grant provided him information regarding bias incidents at the schools that the Sergeant was not previously aware of.

The settlement agreement with Nelson required Grant to read a letter of apology at a Board of Education meeting and Grant did so. Elected officials, including board of education members, are required to take an oath of office and to speak out when confronted with racial or other bias statements and threats to employees. That statute is remedial in nature and must be liberally interpreted.

DETERMINATION

Even if every one of Grant's assertions is true, his petition must fail. The essence of the case is quite simple. Board members are indemnified when civil actions are brought against them for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of performance of duties as a member of board of education. Certainly Grant was a member of the Green Brook Board of Education when he defamed Nelson. However, he was not acting in any official capacity when he made the comments. In Errington v. Mansfield Township Bd. of Ed., 100 N.J. Super. 130 (App. Div. 1968), the Appellate Division made it quite clear that a personal attack by a board member on another person cannot be authorized or ratified by a board of education. Id. at 134-135. See, also, Dorrington v. North Bergen Board of Education, 182 S.L.D. 247 and Woodsom v. Pemberton Township, 172 N.J. Super. 489 (Law Div. 1980).

A school board member acts in an official capacity when the board is in session or when the member has been delegated by an appropriate mechanism such as a board resolution to carry out a particular function. An example of this would be serving as a delegate to the New Jersey School Board's Association under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-46. Grant clearly was in neither circumstance. He was engaged in a political activity. Although school board elections are non-partisan, it is obvious that they constitute a political activity. Grant had a right, as a citizen, to engage himself with a group putting together a slate of candidates for a board election. The immutable fact is that he participated as a citizen and in no way as an official representative or emissary of the Green Brook Board of Education.

It is also evident that Grant was not sued in his capacity as a public official. His case seems to be based on the fact that he had a duty to report Nelson's alleged threats to administrators to the police and the school administration. This duty came about because of board policy, training he received as a new board member from the New Jersey School Boards Association, a memorandum of agreement between the schools and law enforcement officials, his oath of office as a board member and direction he received from the Board president, Board attorney and Board superintendent. The petitioner again misses the point. Nothing in that list required Grant to make allegations or statements to members of the general public. Grant was not sued because of his reports to the police. He could not have been sued successfully because of his reports to the police. What caused his problem was unthinking statements to private citizens. Had he made his concerns known only to law enforcement officials and members of the school administration, it is unlikely that a successful defamation suit could have stood against him. It must be noted that the Nelson complaint does not refer to police reports or anything the petitioner said to the school administration.

The fact that the Nelson complaint was "liberally sprinkled with references to the Green Brook Board of Education" or that "individuals identified in the complaint were all prominent persons in Green Brook Board of Education matters" simply does not establish a nexus to Grant's official duties. No fair reading of the complaint can lead to a conclusion that Grant was sued in any capacity other than that of private individual.

Grant tried to make out a case that he was moving to counter anti-Semitism and racism in the community. The record tends to show that Grant attempted to latch on to an ongoing investigation concerning a student bias-related incident. Grant argues that there was some connection between his role as a board member, the student incident and his comments about Nelson. The suggestion of a connection is there, but there is no foundation of proofs. And, as stated above, even if Grant had an obligation to speak out, the fact remains that he should have done so through the appropriate channels.

Finally, the Board asks that the Commissioner of Education award legal fees and costs because this is a rare case and should be an exception to the rule. Grant engaged in defamatory conduct against Nelson. Grant conceded in testimony here that he is unaware of any facts that substantiate his statements about Nelson. The taxpayers of Green Brook should not be made to pay the petitioner's legal fees and costs in connection with the law suit. Similarly, they should not be made to pay the Board's costs in defending this case, given the admissions Grant has made about the reckless and willful nature of his statements concerning Nelson.

While the Board's argument has a great deal of appeal, it also has no basis in law. Unless shown an authority for such an action, I cannot commit to the Commissioner of Education to order reimbursement in circumstances such as these.

DISPOSITION

For the reasons stated above, the petition of Robert Grant is DENIED. Similarly, the request of the Green Brook Board of Education for costs in connection with this case is DENIED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ROBERT GRANT,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF GREEN BROOK, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto and cross-exception were filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination here.

Inasmuch as the Commissioner finds that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) considered and addressed all relevant arguments advanced in petitioner's exceptions in his Initial Decision, these and the remainder of petitioner's exception submission, rejected as meritless, will not be detailed here. Specifically rejected are petitioner's tendered arguments in support of his contentions that: 1) Although the caption of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 uses the word "indemnity," the content of this statute is devoted entirely to imposing a "duty to defend" on the board, which petitioner claims is broader than the duty to indemnify; 2) Whether or not an insurance carrier is required to pay an eventual award to the board is irrelevant to petitioner's right to a defense by the board; 3) Duties of a board member should be broadly interpreted; 4) The test which should be applied in order to determine whether a Board is required to defend pursuant to the statute should be "[i]f the Board member has acted in good faith, however negligently, in discharging what he perceives as being the duties of his office," the board's obligation to defend attaches. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 31); and 5) petitioner's conduct does not satisfy the legal definition of slander per se in New Jersey. [1] [2]

By way of cross-exception, the Board urges that the ALJ should have granted its request for legal fees and costs. While recognizing that these are generally not recoverable in an action before the Commissioner of Education, the Board believes an exception should be made in this case where petitioner's "unauthorized acts have resulted not only in him being sued, but in the expenditure of substantial public funds in defense of the present matter." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 17) Moreover, such an exception would additionally serve to discourage frivolous litigation where, like here, the conduct at issue is so clearly outside the purview of the indemnification statute.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which included transcripts of the three days of hearing conducted at the OAL,[3] the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner is not entitled to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20. He, likewise, agrees that the Board's request for legal fees and costs must be denied. In concluding that petitioner's claim must fail, the Commissioner is cognizant that petitioner

[1] This particular exception was raised in rebuttal to the ALJ's statement on page 6, first paragraph, that refers to petitioner defaming Nelson. It is noted that whether or not petitioner's conduct satisfies the legal standard of defamation or slander per se is unrelated to the question at issue herein. As such, the ALJ's statement in this regard can be viewed as no more than dicta and, consequently, is immaterial to resolution of this matter.

[2] Petitioner's exceptions also raise a procedural issue. He claims that the ALJ denied him the customary right in litigation of presenting his summation last, thereby depriving him of the ability to correct many factual inaccuracies advanced by the Board upon which the ALJ relied in his decision. Even accepting, arguendo, each of the factual inaccuracies detailed by petitioner, the result of the Commissioner's determination here would remain unaltered.

[3] Hearing dates were January 12, 17, and 30, 2001.

professes entitlement to reimbursement pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 which, in its entirety, reads:

> 18A:12-20. Indemnity of members of boards of education against cost of defense of civil and criminal action; insurance coverage. Whenever a civil or a criminal action has been or shall be brought against any person for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties as a member of a board of education, and in the case of a criminal action such action results in final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting therefrom. Any board of education may arrange for and maintain appropriate insurance to cover all such damages, losses and expenses.[4]

By its very terms, central to qualifying for protection under this statute, which is intended to provide for the legal defense of a member of the board who is sued for official acts taken or omitted by him while actively engaged in carrying out his prescribed responsibilities as a board member, is that the alleged wrongdoing must arise out of and be in the course of the individual's duties as a board member. Here, the Commissioner finds that no reasoned review of the record or petitioner's advanced proffers can serve to bring his admitted conduct under the ambit of this provision so as to impose a duty of indemnification upon the Board. Rather, the Commissioner fully concurs with the analysis of the ALJ on pages 6-7 of the Initial Decision, culminating in the conclusion that petitioner's uttering of knowingly false statements about a private citizen to three other private citizens was personal, political activity and the resultant civil suit was, similarly, personal unto him.

[4] It is noted that this provision was modified, effective July 27, 2001, to extend board member indemnification to administrative, quasi-criminal actions or other legal proceedings. It is further noted that such amendment has no bearing on the instant matter.

Turning to the Board's request for legal fees and costs, although recognizing the Board's legitimate concern with respect to the expenditure of a substantial amount of public funds to defend against an unwarranted claim, it is by now well-established that the Commissioner does not have plenary authority to award counsel fees in determining controversies and disputes presented under Education Law. See Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434, 442, 443 (1990) where, in an education-discrimination matter, the Supreme Court found that, notwithstanding the Commissioner's "sweeping remedial powers for enforcing equal protection in the administration of the public education laws, the absence of express statutory authority is fatal to the claim for counsel fees," and State, Dept. of Environ. Protect. v. Ventron Corp., 94 N.J. 473, 504 (1983), where the Court affirmed that legal expenses are not recoverable absent express authorization by statute, court rule or contract. Consequently, until such time as the Commissioner is granted statutory authority or the imprimatur of the Courts of New Jersey to do so, he must decline to award counsel fees.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons clearly articulated therein. The within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed. The Board's request for attorney's fees and costs is denied.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

On June 1, 2001, the instant matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to the New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act.

The petition and its accompanying motion for emergent relief sought to allow petitioner's son, M.S., to participate in graduation exercises with the rest of the Sterling High School Class of 2001 on June 20, 2001.

A hearing on the motion for emergency relief was scheduled and held on June 12, 2001. Prior thereto, I reviewed the petition itself, the motion, the answer to the petition, and the certification of Gary Kasprack, Superintendent of Schools.

On June 12, 2001, I heard the arguments of counsel and concluded, for the reasons set forth on the record, that the petitioner had failed to sustain her burden with respect to the standards for injunctive relief set forth in Crowe v.DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), particularly, that she had not shown a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim, and therefore, that her application for emergency injunctive relief was denied. Petitioner was also advised on the record that she had the right to appeal this decision to the Commissioner of Education.

Accordingly, I hereby ORDER that petitioner's application for emergency relief be DENIED. Further, since the graduation exercises of June 20, 2001 have presumably already occurred, I CONCLUDE that this matter is now moot and that the petition should be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's denial of emergent relief in this matter as petitioner has not satisfied her burden of demonstrating the requisite standards, pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), which would justify the granting of such extraordinary relief. The Commissioner, likewise, agrees that since M.S.'s participation in graduation exercises on June 20, 2001 was petitioner's sole requested relief, this matter must now be dismissed as moot.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents challenged the Board's residency determination. The Board denied the allegations of the petition and sought reimbursement of tuition.

The ALJ determined that petitioners were not domiciled in the District and that the Board is entitled to reimbursement of $8,975.

The Commissioner affirmed the determination of the ALJ.

Record Closed: May 4, 2001 Decided: June 26, 2001

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner challenged the Board of Education's determination of residency. The petitioner appealed to the Department of Education and on February 7, 2001, the Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Accordingly, the matter was heard on April 30, 2001. The record closed on May 2, 2001, upon receipt of a submission from respondent's attorney of the cost of tuition.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Dorothy Prochnow, Attendance Officer, Freehold Regional High School, testified that K.L., mother of N.L., called her to notify her that N.L. would be absent from Freehold Regional High School on September 21 and 22, because of the difficulty in driving from Staten Island. On September 25, 2000, Ms. Prochnow received another telephone call from K.L., telling her that the family was living in New York because of construction problems with their new home, at 17 Helen Avenue, Howell, N.J.

In September 2000, Ms. Prochnow went to 17 Helen Avenue, and she said the front porch was not finished, there were no inner walls, the shell of the house was vacant and empty, and there was construction material on site. She returned to 17 Helen Avenue on April 16, 2001, and saw that the house now had an upper story, and now had windows, but the inner walls and roof were not completed. There was no sign of habitation, and there were still construction materials on site. On April 27, 2001 she called the Howell housing department, and found that there was no Certificate of Occupancy issued to 17 Helen Avenue.

N.L. attended Freehold Township High School for the 2000-2001 school year. The 2000-2001 school year ends July 21, 2001.

Petitioner said that their house at 17 Helen Avenue, Howell, N.J. is still under construction. Petitioners lived on Staten Island, N.Y.

In their appeal of November 14, 2000, petitioners said that they would be occupying the house within 30 days. But they said that they had problems with the local authorities in obtaining building permits. Petitioner said that they would be filing suit in civil court over this matter.

The Board wrote to petitioners on October 18, 2000, sympathizing with their building problems, but saying that, unless N.L. met the legal requirements, she could not continue to attend Freehold Regional High School.

When the Board made its decision on October 16, 2000, petitioners said that they were not being allowed to perform work on the house at 17 Helen Avenue, Howell, N.J. A Certificate of Continued Occupancy had been issued to the previous owners, T. and B. F., on May 6, 1999, but no Certificate of Occupancy has been issued to petitioners.

Petitioner filed an appeal, which stayed the Board's actions. N.L. will complete the school year in Freehold Township High School. Petitioner said that his two children probably would be enrolling in other schools in 2001-2002. Petitioner said that he pays property taxes in New Jersey. Petitioner said that he would be willing to pay tuition costs for N.L. Petitioner said he and his wife sleep overnight at 17 Helen Avenue, Howell, N.J., but that the house will not have a Certificate of Occupancy before the end of the school year.

Respondent stipulated that N.L. would not be removed from high school before the end of the school year.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had the opportunity to observe and to judge the demeanor and credibility of all witnesses in their testimony, and upon review of all the evidence and exhibits submitted, and drawing reasonable inferences therefrom, I FIND the following as FACT by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

1. Freehold Regional High School District is located in Englishtown. Freehold Township High School is in Freehold Regional High School District.

2. Petitioner's daughter, N.L., attended Freehold Township High School for school year 2000-2001.

3. Petitioners were not domiciliaries of Freehold Regional High School District during school year 2000-2001.

4. The tuition for Freehold Township High School in Freehold Regional High School District for school year 2000-2001 is $8,975.

DISCUSSION

The relevant statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, states that public schools shall be free to all domiciliaries of the school district. Because of unforeseen construction problems, petitioners have been unable to become domiciliaries of the school district. Their daughter, N.L., has been able to complete the school year in Freehold Township High School.

Petitioner is responsible for tuition for Freehold Township High School in Freehold Regional High School District for school year 2000-2001, in the amount of $8,975.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the residency determination of the Board of Education of Freehold Regional High School District be AFFIRMED and that the appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions, which were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, challenge the veracity of testimony presented by the Board, the amount of tuition charged by the Board, as well as the residency law itself, as applied in this matter.[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioners have failed to prove that N.L. was entitled to a free public education in respondent's District for the 2000-2001 school year since they were not domiciliaries of the District at that time. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed

[1] Specifically, petitioners argue: "That all testimony offered on behalf of the Respondent was not truthful[.] That the amount trying to be charged for tuition, is well beyond the true cost of what a resident would pay through its tax burden charged based on property. That the residency law as it applies, is in itself illegal and [we] wish to appeal this decision based on that fact alone." (Petitioners' Exceptions) therein. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2), the Commissioner directs that petitioners remit to the Board tuition for the 2000-2001 school year in the amount of $8,975.

Robert M. Tosti, Esq., for respondent
(Rand, Algeier, Tosti & Woodruff, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 20, 2001 Decided: June 28, 2001

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On or about March 13, 2001, the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark certified charges of unbecoming conduct and corporal punishment against respondent, Bessie Holman, a tenured teacher. On March 23, 2001, respondent filed an answer denying the charges and asserting affirmative defenses.

On April 9, 2001, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:15B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on April 23, 2001, and a telephone prehearing conference scheduled for May 14, 2001. During the prehearing conference held on that date, the issues were isolated, timelines were established and a hearing scheduled for June 18 and 19, 2001 and July 23, 2001 at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102. As a result of settlement conferences held between the parties on June 18, 2001, a settlement was reached and the hearing was adjourned.

The parties have agreed to a proposed settlement, subject to approval by the Commissioner. In accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in Cardonick v. Brooklawn Bd. of Educ., 193 S.L.D. __ (St. Bd. April 6, 1983), the record of any proposed settlement must include:

> . . . the nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the Board of Education and the teacher to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's finding that the teacher entered into an agreement with a full understanding of his rights, and (a finding) that the agreement is consistent with the public interest.

On June 18, 2001, a record was established on the issue of whether or not the proposed settlement should be accepted. Counsel for both parties set forth on the record the reasons why settlement would be in the public interest. Ms. Holman testified that she fully understood and voluntarily agreed to the terms of settlement. In addition, the parties have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement, which is attached and fully incorporated in this decision. The State District Superintendent approved the settlement terms on June 18, 2001.

Based on my review of the record, I FIND that the proposed settlement is consistent with the public interest for the following reasons:

1. It is anticipated that the hearing in this matter would be protracted and costly. Board counsel estimates that he would call approximately twelve fact witnesses to prove the charges.

2. A number of the district's intended witnesses are children approximately nine years old.

3. Under the proposed terms of settlement, Ms. Holman will resign her position effective December 31, 2001.

4. An essential provision of the agreement required Ms. Holman to acknowledge that she had been advised of the duty of the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 and In re Cardonick, concerning referral to the State Board of Examiners for possible action regarding her teaching certificate. She is aware that the Commissioner of Education may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for any action, which he may deem appropriate.

5. Before entering into this agreement, Ms. Holman fully understood her rights and had an adequate opportunity to consult with legal counsel.

6. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

7. The settlement agreement complies with the requirements of In re Cardonick, supra.

8. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that the terms of this agreement are in the public interest. I further CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, the parties, State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ("District"), and Bessie Holman, a tenured teacher, residing at 15 Rolling Hill Drive, Morristown, New Jersey 07960, hereby stipulate and agree as follows:

1. Ms. Holman hereby agrees to irrevocably resign her tenured teaching position, effective December 31, 2001, and to relinquish any rights to such position under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Attached is a copy of the signed Letter of Resignation (Exhibit A). Upon the final approval of the signed Stipulation, the District shall and hereby does withdraw the Tenure Charges of Conduct Unbecoming certified on March 12, 2001.

2. Ms. Holman will receive her salary and benefits as an employee from July 12, 2001 through December 31, 2001.

3. Upon the final approval of the Commissioner of Education of the signed Stipulation, Ms. Holman will receive a lump sum payment for the equivalent of sixty days pay, minus proper deductions. Ms. Holman will not be compensated for the balance of her 120 day unpaid suspension running from March 12, 2001 to July 12, 2001.

4. As of December 31, 2001, all of Ms. Holman's employment rights, including, but not limited to salary, insurance coverage, tenure and seniority, will permanently end. Ms. Holman expressly waives and gives up any rights to tenure in the District and agrees not to seek employment with the District in the future.

5. As of December 31, 2001, Ms. Holman will receive compensation for all sick, personal and/or vacation days accrued as per the terms of the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the State Operated School District of the City of Newark and the Newark Teachers Union.

6. The District will not pursue tenure charges against Ms. Holman as long as this Stipulation remains in effect and is not voided by any court of competent jurisdiction or agency with jurisdiction over this matter. However, if the Stipulation is voided, the District retains the right to file and consider for certification tenure charges against Ms. Holman, including such charges that have previously been filed by the District against Ms. Holman.

7. Ms. Holman specifically acknowledges that she has been advised of the duty of the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 and In re Cardonick concerning referral to the State Board of Examiners for possible action regarding her teaching certification. The parties agree that settlement of this matter will be in the public's best interest. In addition, settlement of this matter will avoid the necessity of student testimony.

8. The parties respectively acknowledge that counsel has advised them and that each is signing this Stipulation freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party.

9. This Stipulation constitutes the full agreement between the parties.

10. The undersigned representatives of the parties hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the respective parties to sign this Stipulation and bind their principals to its terms.

11. Except as noted above, Ms. Holman waives all claims of any nature in any forum against the State Operated School District of the City of Newark with regard to this matter, including fees, or other monetary relief. This agreement includes, without limitation, any and all claims directly or indirectly related to or arising out of his employment by the District. This release specifically includes, but is not limited to, claims Appellant may have in connection with his employment with Respondent under the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended by the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, the Conscientious Employees Protection Act, and any other federal or state civil rights laws, wrongful discharge claims, or grievances under collective bargaining agreement.

12. This Stipulation is subject to approval by the State District Superintendent and the Commissioner of Education.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Association sought a determination that the Board violated the tenure and seniority rights of the Association's members by not filling certain positions, newly created by statute, with staff members holding appropriate certification from the State Board of Examiners.

The ALJ determined that the Passaic positions of dropout prevention officer and health and social services coordinator did not require certification since, in promulgating the Abbott regulations, the Abbott positions were not included within the certification and endorsement sections of Title 6, nor was any language included within Title 6A requiring certification and endorsement for these positions. Moreover, the ALJ found that the legislative history underlying the Abbott regulations directly addresses the issue of certification stating that the Department will provide guidance but it is a local district decision to determine job qualifications because the individuality of the Abbott districts must be preserved. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner set aside the Initial Decision of the ALJ. The Commissioner concluded that although this Board and other Abbott districts may structure the positions of dropout prevention coordinator and coordinator of health and social services, as authorized by N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4(h), in accordance with local need, they must nonetheless, when establishing the duties assigned to the positions, be mindful that the duties may be of such a character as to require the individual assigned to the position to hold certification. Thus, in the absence of a revision to the within job descriptions that would eliminate need for certification, the Board was directed to submit within 20 days of the date of this decision, the job descriptions for the positions in dispute to the County Superintendent for review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b) and this decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 7, 1999, petitioner, Education Association of Passaic (Association), filed a Verified Petition (Petition) with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) seeking a determination that the Passaic County Board of Education (Board) violated the tenure and seniority rights of the Association's members by not filling certain positions, newly-created by statute, with staff members holding appropriate certifications issued by the State Board of Examiners. Respondent filed its answer to the Petition on November 24, 1999. On December 30, 1999, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

All affected parties were given notice of this appeal and the opportunity to intervene. Only Edward Rowbatham, Maryallan Fisher, Minnie Hiller and Sherri Grier elected to do so.

Following a series of telephone conferences, it was determined that the material facts in this matter were not in dispute and could be stipulated by the parties. It was agreed at that time that a Joint Stipulation of Facts would be submitted by the parties followed by cross-motions for summary decision. The record closed on April 20, 2001, when the last briefs were received, but was reopened on May 14, 2001, when it was discovered that additional documents, which were necessary for decision, were not previously submitted.

THE STIPULATED FACTS

1. Petitioner is the majority representative under the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et seq., for those employees working in the Passaic School District as set forth in the recognition clause of the collective bargaining agreement between the parties.

2. Respondent is a body corporate and politic of the State of New Jersey.

3. Attendant to the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998), the New Jersey Legislature promulgated certain regulations codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.1 et seq.

4. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4, those districts deemed Abbott districts, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:19-1.2, were required to create certain positions including school technology coordinator, dropout prevention officer, and coordinator of health and social services.

5. Prior to May 1999, Derlys Gutierrez, human resources specialist for the Passaic School District, spoke to the County Superintendent of Education's Office to discuss the aforementioned positions. The County Superintendent's Office informed Ms. Gutierrez that the District did not need to hire certified people to fill the positions of dropout prevention officer and coordinator of health and social services.

6. On September 29, 2000, the New Jersey Department of Education issued a Memorandum to all Abbott district superintendents that confirms the oral advice given to Ms. Gutierrez by the County Superintendent's Office. This Memorandum explicitly states that "[d]istricts may use certified or uncertified staff" to fill the position of health and social services coordinator. With respect to dropout prevention officers, the Memorandum provides that districts are free "to determine the job description for this position and determine certification requirements," and, if a district chooses to create a position that does not require certification, approval from the county office is not required.

7. On May 21, 1999, the Board posted vacancies for the positions at issue pending Board approval and funding.

8. On May 24, 1999, the Board resolved to create the positions mandated by the Abbott regulations.

9. The Board subsequently accepted applications and interviewed several candidates for each position. Interested applicants deemed qualified by the Board were interviewed by the respective building principals.

10. On August 5, 1999, the Board appointed successful applicants to each position. Edward Rowbatham was appointed as health and social services coordinator at Passaic High School and Maryallyn Fisher was appointed as health and social services coordinator at Lincoln Middle School. Regina Reilley was appointed school technology coordinator at Passaic High School, Peter Tumminelli was appointed school technology coordinator at Lincoln Middle School, and Richard Bossard was appointed school technology coordinator at the #8 School. Minnie Hiller was appointed dropout prevention officer at Passaic High School and Barbara Taylor was appointed dropout prevention officer at Lincoln Middle School. Ms. Taylor was eventually replaced by Sherri Grier.

11. All the candidates appointed to the position of school technology coordinator hold New Jersey standard teacher certificates. While several of the candidates appointed to the positions of dropout prevention officer and health and social services coordinator do hold various certificates, certification is not required for these positions.

12. The successful candidates appointed to the positions at issue started in these positions effective September 1999.

13. On October 6, 1999, the petitioner filed the within Petition.

The parties have also agreed that the position of technology coordinator is not in issue here.

THE APPLICABLE REGULATIONS

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-2.1(a), Abbott districts are to establish a School Management Team (SMT) in each school.

> The purpose of the SMT is to ensure participation of staff, parents and the community in the school level decision making and to develop a culture of cooperation, accountability and commitment, all with a focus on improving student achievement.

The boards of education in the local Abbott districts are further responsible for implementing new, required programs and services by, among other things, the creation of certain staff positions explicitly described in the regulations. The positions relevant to the present appeal are the following:

> (h) The board shall provide for a full-time dropout prevention officer and a full-time staff member responsible for the coordination of health and social services and the referral of students to such services for each secondary school within the district. These staff members shall, in addition to such other duties as they may be assigned, provide assistance to the SMT as needed.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4(h).]

There is no specific requirement to be found in any of the statutes or regulations mandating that the two positions be filled by certificated employees.

THE POSITIONS IN DISPUTE

A Memorandum dated September 29, 2000 (Memorandum), from Barbara Anderson, Ed.D., assistant commissioner of student services, New Jersey Department of Education (Department), and John Sherry, Ed.D., assistant commissioner of field services, in the Department, was sent to all Abbott district superintendents. The subject of this Memorandum was "Positions Required by the Urban Education Reform Code, N.J.A.C. 6A:24." Its purpose was to "provide further clarification and assistance to districts and to eliminate the use of unrecognized titles," and to "assist districts to comply with code requirements for these positions."

Draft job descriptions for three of the five newly-created positions were attached. It should be noted that two of the positions specifically require appropriate certifications and another may require them:

> 1. Media Specialist, already a recognized title, requires the appropriate certification.
> 2. School-Based Technology Coordinator requires a "valid New Jersey Teacher Certification" unless "the position is not responsible for developing and/or delivering curriculum." This is left to the needs of the individual school districts.

The third attached job description is for health and social services coordinator. The Memorandum makes the following comment with respect to the job description attached:

> 3. Health and Social Service Coordinators: The attached draft job description defines the primary functions for this position. Schools can develop their own job descriptions and integrate the functions mentioned in this draft document and also specify certification if they choose. Districts may use certified or uncertified staff. An individual with a social worker certificate may serve in this role. If a social worker certificate is required, the position should be filed as Social Worker/Health and Social Service Coordinator and would, therefore, be a recognized title and no county office approval would be necessary.

With respect to the position of dropout prevention officer, the Memorandum states:

> 4. Dropout Prevention Officer: No job description has been formulated for this position beyond what is in code. The code only requires that the staff in this position provide assistance to the School Management Team. The code does not define or mandate any function for this position. It is left up to the districts to determine the job description for this position and determine certification requirements. If the district chooses to create a position requiring a certified staff person, an appropriate title would be Guidance Counselor/Dropout Prevention Officer, which is a recognized title. If the district chooses to create a position without required certification, such as a truant officer, it is not necessary to obtain approval from the county office.

Although there is no attached draft job description for the position of WSR school facilitator, the Memorandum states that the position requires teacher certification and should be titled "teacher/WSR school facilitator," which is a recognized title and does not need county office approval.

CERTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

Teaching staff members employed in a public school by a board of education must hold "a valid certificate to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of [students]." N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. In furtherance of this objective, the State Board of Examiners is charged with the responsibility of issuing three types of educational certificates: the Instructional Certificate, the Administrative Certificate, and the Educational Services Certificate. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38; N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. The Board may issue for each teaching, administrative or service position a special endorsement under the appropriate certificates. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3.

N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a) states that "the requirement of certification applies to any person who is employed by a district board of education to perform duties that are regulated through certification rules pursuant to this chapter." [Emphasis added.] The question in this matter then becomes whether the certification rules of Title 6 apply to titles created under other titles of the Administrative Code, specifically Title 6A.

ABBOTT DISTRICTS

Pursuant to statute, the State Board of Education was directed to adopt regulations to implement the order of the New Jersey Supreme Court in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (hereinafter "Abbott Court"). N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-36. Specifically, the Abbott Court mandated the creation of certain staff positions in the Abbott districts relevant to health and social service programs, school security programs, technology programs, and programs aimed at reducing dropout rates. Abbott, supra, 153 N.J. at 512-16.

The rules of Title 6A, Chapter 24, of the New Jersey Administrative Code were promulgated in order to "implement educational programs necessary to provide urban education reform initiatives that ensure that public school children, including students with disabilities and limited English proficient students, from the poorer urban districts receive the educational entitlements guaranteed them." N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.1. These rules target the urban districts, including Passaic, now commonly referred to as "Abbott districts," pursuant to their identification in Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287, 394 (1990). These rules are:

> adopted to ensure the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E), as defined by the Core Curriculum Content Standards, to the students attending the public schools of those districts. The rules apply to Abbott districts, in addition to the requirements of the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act and rules otherwise promulgated to implement that act; except that where differences in rules occur, the rules herein shall take precedence.

N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4(h), the specific regulation creating the positions of dropout prevention officer and health and social services coordinator, is set forth in full above.

Language regarding the requirements of certification or endorsement for these positions is absent from the regulations creating the relevant staff positions and no reference is made to the applicable regulatory provisions governing certification and endorsements of Title 6. The Department of Education is charged with the responsibility of working with the Abbott districts to implement the requirements of the Abbott regulations. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.6.

ABBOTT IMPLEMENTATIONS IN PASSAIC

In the matter herein, prior to May 1999, Derlys Gutierrez, human resources specialist for the Passaic School District, spoke to personnel from the County Superintendent of Education's Office (hereinafter "Office") to discuss the positions of dropout prevention officer and health and social services coordinator. The Office informed Ms. Gutierrez that the District did not have to hire certified people to fill the positions at issue. Thereafter, petitioner advertised and subsequently filled the positions. What, if any, certifications the hired individuals hold was not disclosed in the Joint Stipulation of Facts, which merely states that "[w]hile several of the candidates appointed to the positions of Dropout Prevention Officer and Health and Social Services Coordinator do hold various certificates, certification is not required for these positions."

As stated previously, attached to the Abbott Memorandum was a draft job description for the health and social services coordinator. In pertinent part, the job description states, "the coordinator will be responsible for assessment of needs, developing linkages with and making referrals to resources in and outside of the community and follow-up with students, their families, and school personnel to assure the satisfactory provision of services." Those services may include "access to primary and preventive health care, dental services, mental health services, . . . familiarity with crisis management, communication and problem solving, child development and parenting skills programs."

When respondent posted the vacancy for the health and social services coordinator position, the job posting stated that the person hired must meet numerous requirements. For example, the applicant is required to hold a bachelor of arts degree in "Psychology, Social Work, Sociology, Public Administration, Guidance or any related health field," possess "demonstrated, extensive knowledge of health and social services agencies available for students in the Passaic City area and in Passaic County," and possess "demonstrated, extensive experience in working with children and adolescents." Passaic Coordinator of Health and Social Services Job Description.

In regard to the posted vacancy of dropout prevention officer, the job posting stated that the person hired for that position:

> works with staff, parents, and students to identify those students who are at-risk of dropping out of school and to intervene by referring students to appropriate services to prevent their dropping out of school. The job requires active participation and interaction with students and their families, including home visits and > referrals to appropriate government and local agencies when necessary.

The dropout prevention officer must also meet certain qualifications, including: hold a bachelor of arts degree in "Psychology, Social Work, Sociology, Public Administration, Guidance or any related health field," possess "demonstrated, extensive knowledge of health and social services agencies available for students in Passaic City area and in Passaic County," possess "demonstrated, extensive experience in working with children and adolescents," and "exhibit a personality that demonstrates interpersonal skills to relate well with students, staff, administration, parents, and agencies and resources within the community." Passaic Dropout Prevention Officer Job Description.

THE ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner argues that the positions of dropout prevention officer and health and social services coordinator must be appropriately certified. It reasons that, since the duties of the position of dropout prevention officer correspond to the duties of a guidance counselor and the duties of the position of health and social services coordinator correspond to the duties of a school nurse and/or guidance counselor, these positions require certification.

Petitioner refers to the District's written job description of the health and social services coordinator position, which states that the duties and responsibilities of this position include maintaining health records, sending students for health screenings, developing protocols for when a student becomes ill or injured at school, instructing students in sound health practices, and coordinating the health management of all students referred for health and social services.

Petitioner also argues that the District's job description for the position of dropout prevention officer is similar to that of a guidance counselor because the person filling the position is "assigned to work with staff, parents and students to identify those students who are at risk of dropping out of school and to prevent such an event from occurring."

Respondent asserts that it has not violated any certification requirement since it has complied with the relevant regulatory provisions applicable to these positions. It argues that the Abbott regulations allow a district to hire non-certified persons for the positions in question, while the other positions do or may require some kind of certification. In addition, it argues that, since school boards have broad discretion to establish certification requirements for positions within the district, petitioner must show by a preponderance of the evidence that respondent's actions were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

With respect to petitioner's claim that the Abbott positions of health and social services coordinator and dropout prevention officer are similar to school nurse and guidance counselor, respectively, respondent asserts that the regulatory authorities clearly provide that certification is not required and the argument that certification should be required because the Abbott positions are similar to that of nurse and counselor is unsupported and without merit. It argues that nurses and guidance counselors are in every district, while the positions at issue here are only in Abbott districts to combat specific problems.

Respondent further argues that the duties of the District positions are distinct from those enumerated within the certification provisions. For example, while nurses directly provide health care and guidance counselors work directly with students to provide guidance services and intervention, the positions at issue here identify students needing services and refer them to the proper source to obtain these services. In essence then, the persons in these Abbott positions serve as a referral network, they do not directly offer health or guidance services.

Finally, respondent argues that the regulations governing school nurses and guidance counselors explicitly require certification, as evidenced in N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7 and -11.11. Therefore, if the Department wanted the disputed positions to be filled with certified personnel, it would have stated its requirements in the text of N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4. Instead, the Department has left this decision up to each district.

As to the position of school nurse, the District's job description states that the applicant must hold an educational certificate and be a licensed registered nurse. In addition, the applicant must "show evidence of successful health care experience and experience in working with children and adolescents, including teaching" and "demonstrate knowledge and understanding of child growth and development, wellness education, community health and social service resources, and current health issues." As to job functions and responsibilities, a school nurse must work "in concert with the school administration, school physician and other medical personnel . . . completing appropriate records and carrying out medical orders that may be issued," "plan and conduct screening examinations, health appraisals and surveys," "complete and submit . . . all medical forms and reports," "carry out state requirements and district policies for communicable disease control and the exclusion and readmission of pupils for reasons of health," and administer medication to students. A school nurse must also "assume a leadership role in identifying students with health problems that may interfere with effective learning," "work with community health agencies and resource persons to provide a comprehensive and coordinated health services program for the school and its students," "consult with the Child Study Team, Attendance Officer, and other school personnel regarding the health of a child and the home situation," "counsel students, staff, and parents concerning health conditions, care, treatment, and other community health issues," and "teach classes in health as assigned." Passaic School Nurse Job Description.

A District high school guidance counselor must hold an educational services certificate, have excellent experience in teaching and working with adolescents, and "demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the components of a comprehensive developmental guidance program, child growth and development, strategies for effective career and educational planning, learning assessment and diagnosis, research related to learning, and the resources available in the school and community to assist secondary students." In regard to job functions and responsibilities, a high school guidance counselor must "establish high standards and expectations for all students for academic performance and responsibility for behavior," "develop with the student post-high school plans, using interest and aptitude inventories, and providing career and educational opportunity information and resources available, including scholarships and financial aid," "assist students with developing a student portfolio, including a resume, employment and college applications," "counsel individual students on a regular basis to resolve educational, personal, emotional, and social needs and other areas of concern as identified by the counselor, student, parents, teachers, administrators, child study teams members, or others associated with the student," "provide counseling services" and "work closely with other school personnel to prevent students from dropping out of school." Passaic High School Guidance Counselor Job Description.

Similarly, a District elementary school guidance counselor must also hold an educational services certificate. In regard to job duties and responsibilities, an elementary school guidance counselor must "assist teachers with planning and implementing guidance interventions for children to promote positive concepts in self esteem," "teach developmental guidance lessons to address the Core Curriculum Content Standards, using a variety of instructional strategies and materials," "assist with creating healthy class environments by providing teachers with developmental guidance concepts to support the teaching of Core Curriculum Content Standards," "teach individual and group counseling and problem solving skills in a non-threatening atmosphere of privacy, warmth, and acceptance," and "work cooperatively with the Substance Abuse Counselor." Passaic Elementary School Guidance Counselor.

I FIND that a comparison of the three titles discussed above with the two Abbott positions at issue herein reveals that, although some similarities in job qualifications and responsibilities exist, the compared positions are very different.

For example, a school nurse is primarily responsible for providing medical and health care for the students. The nurse must also provide counsel and guidance to them. However, a District health and social services coordinator does not directly provide medical or health services to the students, although the person must possess knowledge of medical issues and treatment facilities in order to refer students appropriately. In addition, while the health and social services coordinator must, to some extent, work with students to guide them to services, his or her responsibility is to make the appropriate referrals and to coordinate, rather than directly participate in, their implementation.

The District's job description for guidance counselor is very different from the job description for dropout prevention officer. A high school guidance counselor must work directly with students and staff members to ensure that the students' learning needs are met, as well as prepare them for a future after high school (some type of continuing education or employment); an elementary school guidance counselor deals more with maintaining and creating the social and mental well-being of students. In contrast, the District's dropout prevention officer specifically identifies students at risk of dropping out of school, refers them to the appropriate agency and follows up as necessary.

Consequently, I FIND that analogizing the disputed positions to existing positions, as suggested by petitioner, provides no guidance in making the determinations of certification requirements.

ARE THE ABBOTT POSITIONS RECOGNIZED TITLES?

In the matter herein, it is not stated that any certification requirements apply to the disputed positions as they were created by the Abbott Court. The Abbott Memorandum leaves this decision to the Abbott districts and the regulations implementing the relevant part of the Abbott opinion, specifically N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4(h), do not mandate that these positions be certified.

The Abbott positions at issue are recognized within Title 6A of the Administrative Code and not in the certification and endorsement provisions of Title 6. This renders the present matter very different than prior cases, decided before the existence of Title 6A, involving a district's creation of its own titles.

Specifically, the Abbott Memorandum indicates that, in regard to the dropout prevention officer and health and social services coordinator positions, if a district chooses to require certification for the positions, then the appropriate title would be "guidance counselor/dropout prevention officer" or "social worker/health and social services coordinator." Such titles do not need the approval of the county superintendent because they are existing recognized titles and the required certifications have already been determined. If the District does not attach a necessary certification for its dropout prevention officer, none is required and there is no reason to obtain the approval of the county superintendent.

In fact, the actions of the Passaic County Superintendent's Office were in agreement with the Department's subsequent Abbott Memorandum. When respondent informally discussed the two positions with the County superintendent prior to the issuance of the Abbott Memorandum, the District was advised that no certifications were required and it filled the positions accordingly.

THE ABBOTT DISTRICTS' DISCRETION IN IMPLEMENTING THE ABBOTT POSITIONS

The rules of construction applicable to interpreting statutes apply to administrative regulations as well. State Dep't of Health v. Tegnazian, 205 N.J. Super. 160, 174 (App. Div. 1985) (stating that regulations "are subject to the same rules of construction and the same constitutional standards as a statute"). In addition, an agency's interpretation of its own rule is owed considerable deference since the agency that drafted and promulgated the rule should know the meaning of that rule. 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 3.25, at 156 (Steven L. Lefelt, Anthony Miragliotta, & Patricia Prunty) (rev. 2d ed. 2000) (citing In re Revision in Rates Filed by Plainfield-Union Water Co., 57 N.J. Super. 158 [App. Div. 1959]). Furthermore, it is necessary to foster the legislative or agency intent when interpreting statutes and regulations:

> . . . In searching for a rule's meaning, a court is not confined to its specific terms but may look to the policy sought to be achieved. Thus, the obligation of the rule interpreter is to ascertain that intent, to disregard a literal reading leading to an absurd result, and to even furnish omitted words when doing so will promote the agency will. . . .
> When interpreting rules, the legislative history of the rule may be used to ascertain the true sense and meaning of the language used. The regulation should be construed in accordance with the plain meaning of its language and in a manner that makes sense when read in the context of the entire regulation. Thus, you may use as interpretative aids . . . the summary of the agency's responses to public comment. In addition, the rule headings may be used to interpret a rule. . . .
>
> . . . If the Legislature wished to change the way an agency was implementing a statute, it could pass a law clarifying its will. The Legislature's failure to act is interpreted as an affirmance of the agency's construction. Therefore, under these circumstances, Courts will give great weight to the agency's interpretation. . . .
>
> A court, however, will not overturn an agency's choice among reasonable interpretations of statutes that delegate rulemaking powers. Under the arbitrary and capricious review standards, the range of tolerance is great. A state agency's interpretation of its own regulations is entitled to considerable deference, but a court need not accept the agency's interpretation if it is plainly erroneous or inconsistent with the regulation. An agency may not interpret its rules in such a way as to amend those rules without complying with the Administrative Procedure Act. A court will reverse only when "there is no room for agency interpretation: the act can have only one meaning, and the agency's reading is just plain wrong." Therefore, an ambiguous rule or an interpretation which is inconsistent with the plain reading of the rule will be construed against the agency.
> [37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 3.25, at 156-58 (footnotes and citations omitted).]

These principles indicate that, when construing regulations and statutes, their language as a whole must be considered, as well as the intent in promulgation. At the same time, however, deference should be given to the agency's interpretation of its own regulations as long as that interpretation is not plainly erroneous or inconsistent with the regulation.

Furthermore, in matters involving school law:

> [t]he Legislature clearly and pointedly has vested responsibility in the State Board to fashion standards and promulgate guidelines concerning the qualification and certification of public educators within the State. The Legislature intended that the State Board "promulgate specifications concerning the categories of 'certification'" and that courts not intervene "unless the State Board's decision is palpably arbitrary." Agency regulations are accorded substantial deference based on the recognition that "certain subjects are within the peculiar competence of the agency." . . . Our courts have long recognized the importance of allowing the State Board to devise requirements governing both students and teaching staff.
> [Dennery v. Board of Educ. of the Passaic County Reg'l High Sch., 131 N.J. 626, 637 (1993) (citations omitted).]

The Abbott regulations must be considered with this framework in mind.

In its decision, the Abbott Court stressed the importance of the individuality of each Abbott school district. In this regard the Court stated:

> . . . we have stressed the importance of having the particularized needs of these children drive the determination of what programs should be developed. . . .
>
> . . . The particularized needs of an individual school will inform the decision of what type of program is necessary; different schools will have different health and social service needs depending on their student population and their location. . . . As the Commissioner recognized, adopting and ordering one uniform approach for every school to follow would not be educationally sound.
>
> [Abbott, supra, 153 N.J. at 511-12 (emphasis added).]

Accordingly, as indicated by the Court, the varying needs of Abbott district students must be considered.

The concept of individuality established in Abbott is mirrored in the Abbott Memorandum, in which the Department provided the Abbott districts with the discretion to use certified or non-certified personnel to fill these positions based upon the needs of their students.

The Passaic positions of dropout prevention officer and health and social services coordinator do not require certification. In promulgating the Abbott regulations, the Abbott positions were not included within the certification and endorsement sections of Title 6, nor was any language included within Title 6A requiring certification and endorsement for these positions. This indicates that the positions are to be considered as distinct from those requiring certification.

Furthermore, the legislative history underlying the Abbott regulations directly addresses the issue of certification. As noted by respondent, in adopting the Abbott regulations, some commentators to the proposed regulations suggested that the regulations should be revised to state the required training experience and qualifications for the Abbott positions. The Department's response rejected this proposal, stating, "It is a local district decision to determine job qualifications. While the Department will provide guidance, this is a policy issue for the local board of education." 31 N.J.R. 2926 (Oct. 4, 1999), cmt. 3. This statement echoes the determination of the Abbott Court, that the individuality of the Abbott districts must be preserved.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the principles of statutory construction and the nature of the Abbott regulations, I CONCLUDE that the Administrative Code's failure to attach any certification requirements to the disputed Abbott positions was purposeful and must be interpreted as such. Considering the importance the Abbott Court placed upon the individuality of the Abbott districts and the absence of language requiring certification for these positions within the applicable regulation and its interpretation by the Department, I CONCLUDE that the certification requirements of Title 6 should not automatically attach to the disputed Abbott positions. To do so would effectively prevent an Abbott district from exercising its specifically delegated discretion to determine the necessary job duties, and from them the necessary certifications, for dropout prevention officers and health and social service coordinators in order to implement the educational mandates to which the individual districts are subject. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.1.

I further CONCLUDE that neither the title of nurse nor the title of guidance counselor, nor any other titles established under Title 6, are similar enough to the Passaic District's positions of dropout prevention officer and health and social services coordinator to require certification.

Since there are no material facts in dispute in this matter, based upon the arguments and the affidavits and documents submitted by the parties, I CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to summary decision dismissing this appeal as a matter of law. I further CONCLUDE that petitioner is entitled to no relief in this forum.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that summary decision is hereby GRANTED to respondent and the petition herein is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PASSAIC EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:
	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
RESPONDENT,	:	DECISION
AND	:
EDWARD ROWBATHAM, MARYALLYN FISHER, MINNIE HILLER AND SHERRI GRIER,	:
INTERVENORS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions reiterate its argument, as presented before the OAL, that the Board is required to fill both positions in question with individuals holding appropriate certification from the New Jersey State Board of Examiners because the job duties "clearly demand" appropriate certification. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Notwithstanding that both positions focus solely upon an at-risk student population rather than the general student population, petitioner underscores that the duties assigned to the dropout prevention coordinator are the same as those performed by individuals working as guidance counselors, and the duties assigned to the coordinator of health and social services are the same as those performed by individuals working as school nurses. (Id. at 5-6) Furthermore, the petitioner argues, the absence of certification language in the authorizing regulation is not determinative, since N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4(g) is similarly silent with respect to certification requirements for the full-time technology coordinator; yet, it is undisputed that certification is required for that position. (Id. at 7-8) The petitioner urges the Commissioner to abide by this State's public policy respecting certification as an essential, minimal criterion for employment as a teaching staff member, and recognize that there is a compelling need for this standard in urban districts with serious educational deficiencies. (Id. at 9)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to set aside the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), for the reasons set forth below.

The Board correctly argues that the resolution to the dispute herein rests on an analysis of the duties assigned to the positions of coordinator of health and social services and dropout prevention officer. That analysis, however, need not proceed, as the parties suggest and the Initial Decision recommends, with a comparison of the duties of the new positions vis-à-vis the duties of existing positions in the District, in order to determine whether the new positions "correspond" with these existing positions so as to require certification (Petitioner's Exceptions at 5-7), or whether the new positions are sufficiently "separate and distinct" to avoid the certification requirements imposed upon existing positions. (Board's Letter Brief in Opposition to Cross-Motion for Summary Decision at 2-3)

Rather, as the State Board of Education has directed:

> Whether or not an  assignment is a teaching staff assignment requiring an [appropriate] certificate turns upon the specific duties to be performed in that particular assignment, requiring assessment of whether the employment is of such character as to require that > the individual assigned thereto hold appropriate certification in order to perform such functions." David Dowding v. Board of Education of the Township of Monroe, Middlesex County, 1990 S.L.D. 1711, 1712. See also, Guttenberg Education Association v. Leo Klagholz, Commissioner of Education and Board of Education of the Borough of Guttenberg, Hudson County, State Board decision March 3, 1999, slip. op. at 6.

Additionally, "[p]ursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2, the requirement of certification applies to any person who is employed by a district board of education to perform duties that are regulated through certification rules pursuant to this chapter." N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a). (See, also, Edison Township Education Association v. Edison Township Board of Education, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 592, 594, wherein the State Board finds, "Whether or not the duties performed by individuals providing services in a school district are of such character as to require certification issued by the State Board of Examiners is determined by the rules that have been adopted by the State Board of Education.")

The Board acknowledges that "[t]he primary function of the Dropout Prevention Officer is to work with staff, parents, and students to identify those students who are at risk of dropping out of school and to intervene by referring students to appropriate services to prevent their dropping out of school." (Board's Letter Brief in Opposition to Cross-Motion for Summary Decision at 7) The position is described in nature and scope as one requiring "active participation and interaction with students and their families, including home visits and referrals to appropriate government and local agencies when necessary." (Id. at Exhibit B, p. 1) Indeed, despite the Board's claim that the dropout prevention officer is "not directly offering health or guidance services" id. at 3, among the functions and responsibilities noted in the job description, the dropout prevention officer is expected to "[c]ounsel students regarding attendance, seeking cooperation, building trust, and identifying any problems that may require intervention by other school personnel and community agencies." (Id. at Exhibit B, p. 2) The dropout prevention officer is also required, inter alia, to:

> 6. Conduct in-home visits to follow up with individual student progress.
> 7. Meet with and work with student's parents/guardians/family to discuss attendance/school problems and seek assistance from community providers.
> 8. Refer students and family members to appropriate service agencies to help to keep student in school.
> 12. Maintain contact with parents/guardians/family to follow up with students' progress. (Ibid.)

The Commissioner recognizes that the State Board of Education requires an educational services certificate for persons who counsel "teachers, students, and parents regarding personal, social, educational and vocational plans and programs; and [who develop] cooperative relationships with community agencies in assisting children and families," N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11(a), as well as for persons fulfilling social service functions in the district, N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.8. Thus, notwithstanding that there may be no comparable position in the District, the Commissioner concludes that, based on the job description on record, the duties of the dropout prevention officer are of "such character" as to require that the individual assigned thereto hold an appropriate educational services certificate in order to perform such functions. Dowding, supra, at 1712; Guttenberg, supra, slip. op. at 6.

Employing a similar analysis, the Board contends that the primary function of the coordinator of health and social services is to ensure "that students are afforded the health and social services that they need in order to benefit from instruction in the Core Curriculum Content Standards and to succeed in school." (Board's Letter Brief in Opposition to Cross-Motion for Summary Decision at 7) The nature and scope of the position establish that the coordinator > serves as an advocate for students' health and well-being and interacts with other staff members and with community providers of health and social services to provide students with access to such services. Inherent in the position are the responsibilities for planning, sending students for health screenings, maintenance of health records, protocols for the ill and injured while in school, instruction in sound health practices, coordination of services, program evaluation, personnel management, and financial management.  (Id. at Exhibit A, p. 1)

Again, notwithstanding the Board's claim that the coordinator of health and social services is not directly providing health or guidance services, id. at 3, among the functions and responsibilities noted in the job description, the coordinator:

> 1. Provide[s] programs for student intervention and support services.
> 2. Refers students to local providers for health and social services.
> 3. Coordinates the case management of all students referred for health and social services.
> 4. Visits the students' home(s) when necessary and appropriate to provide the optimum services to the students.
> 5. Plans and coordinates activities that will increase parental participation in student's lives.
> 6. At the high school, functions as the high school's liaison for the School Based Youth Services Program. (Board's Letter Brief in Opposition to Cross-Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit A, p. 2)

The Commissioner recognizes that the State Board of Education requires an educational services certificate for those persons teaching in areas related to health, N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7, performing functions identified in N.J.A.C. 6A:16-2.1(e)1[1], and fulfilling social service functions in the district, N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.8. Thus, the Commissioner concludes that, based on the job description on record, the duties of the coordinator of health and social services are of such character as to require that the individual assigned thereto hold an appropriate educational services certificate in order to perform such functions. Dowding, supra, at 1712; Guttenberg, supra, slip. op. at 6.

[1] With exception as noted in N.J.A.C. 6A:16-2.1(f).

The Commissioner does not, however, determine herein which is the appropriate endorsement on the educational services certificate to require of the candidates holding either the position of dropout officer or coordinator of health and social services. Rather, under these particular circumstances, where newly-authorized positions are at issue and where the record before him was developed pursuant to cross-motions for summary decision, the Commissioner finds that such a determination is better made by the County Superintendent of Schools pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b).

Finally, the Commissioner notes that, in deciding the within matter, he rejects the importance placed by the ALJ on the fact that these "Abbott positions" were not included within the rules for Professional Licensure and Standards. (Initial Decision at 18) The Commissioner further rejects the Board's contention that the State Board of Education's apparent deference to local district need when establishing these positions, or the Department of Education's guidance relative thereto, is plausibly read as an unqualified exemption from certification rules. (Board's Brief in Support of Cross-Motion for Summary Decision at 7-9; Board's Letter Brief in Opposition to Cross-Motion for Summary Decision at 5) Such a position, the Commissioner finds, would be inconsistent with the State Board of Education's steadfast view that:

> Certification requirements establish the threshold qualifications for teaching staff members employed in the public school system throughout the state. N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1; N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. As such, and under the current statutory framework embodied in Title 18A, the certification process is critical to assuring the provision of a thorough and efficient education.  Since certification requirements are at the core of the current structure governing the delivery of all education programs under our jurisdiction, setting aside the standards embodied in our certification rules necessarily risks [the compromise of a thorough and efficient education]. (emphasis added) Phillipsburg Education Association v. Board of Education of Phillipsburg, Warren County et al., State Board > decision August 1, 2001, slip. op. at 6, quoting Guttenburg, supra, slip. op. at 7, citing In the Matter of the Waiver Granted to the Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, State Board of Education decision May 3, 2000, slip. op. at 4)

Neither is the Commissioner persuaded that the decision issued by the Abbott Court compels the result urged by the Board and recommended by the ALJ in this matter, particularly where the State Board of Education recently found, in a case involving an Abbott district, albeit within the context of an equivalency determination, that the above-cited certification policy of this State > is no less true for positions involving the provision of educational support services than for instructional positions. Not only is the character of positions that involve the provision of educational services such that appropriate certification is required in order to be qualified to provide these services, N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, but such services are essential to the success of the education programs provided by our public schools. See Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990) (subsequent history omitted) (emphasis added) (Phillipsburg , supra, slip. op.at 6)

The Commissioner therefore concludes that although this Board and other "Abbott districts" may structure the positions of dropout prevention coordinator and coordinator of health and social services, as authorized by N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4(h), in accordance with local need, they must nonetheless, when establishing the duties assigned to the positions, be mindful that the duties may be of such character as to require the individual assigned to the position to hold certification.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is set aside. In the absence of a revision to the within job descriptions that would eliminate the need for certification, the Board is directed to submit, within 20 days of the date of this decision, the job descriptions for the positions in dispute to the County Superintendent of Schools for review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b), consistent with the parameters of this decision. Subsequent to the County Superintendent's determination as to the appropriate endorsements, the Board is reminded that these are teaching staff positions that are subject to all laws applicable to such positions. A copy of this decision shall be forwarded to the Passaic County Superintendent of Schools.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 16, 2001

For the Respondent-Appellant and Intervenors, Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Cherie Adams Maxwell, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Zazzali, Fagella, Nowak, Kleinbaum & Friedman (Richard A. Friedman, Esq. and Kathleen A. Naprstek, Esq., of Counsel)

The State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner of Education substantially for the reasons expressed in his decision. In doing so, we stress, as did the Commissioner, that pursuant to the statutory framework, an individual must hold appropriate certification issued by the State Board of Examiners in order to be employed by a school district as a teaching staff member. As the Commissioner recognized in his decision, whether or not a given assignment constitutes employment as a teaching staff member requires an assessment of whether the employment is of such character that appropriate certification is required in order to be qualified. Such an assessment necessarily dictates an examination of the functions of the position, including the specific duties attached to the assignment.

We find that the Commissioner's decision in this case is grounded in such an assessment, and we fully concur with the conclusions he reached on the basis of his examination of both the function of the assignments at issue and the specific duties attached to them. As set forth in the Commissioner's decision, the functions to be served by these assignments and the duties attached to them are such that there is no question but that the positions at issue are of such character as to require the individuals serving in them to possess appropriate certification in order to be qualified.

We stress that our affirmance of the Commissioner's decision is based on his findings with respect to the job descriptions as they were developed and submitted by the Board of Education of the City of Passaic. That being the case, we decline to speculate as to whether the Board could have developed job descriptions for assignments that would adequately fulfill the functions of the positions at issue here but which would not be of such character as to require certification. We therefore modify the Commissioner's decision to eliminate any suggestion that the Board could now avoid the certification requirements established by the Commissioner's decision merely by revising the job descriptions that were the basis for that decision. Accordingly, as the Commissioner directed and as required by N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(b), the Board must submit the job descriptions that were at issue in this case to the Passaic County Superintendent for determination of the appropriate certification and position titles.

In view of our determination today, we need not pass upon the motion for a stay that was filed in this matter by counsel for the appellant and the intervenors.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JOSEPH PRINZO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PASSAIC COUNTY TECHNICAL	:	DECISION
INSTITUTE, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent, T.V. Production Instructor, for allegedly allowing his summer program students to watch an inappropriate and unacceptable videotape. The Board charged him with failing to follow proper procedure governing the use of a videotape in his classroom, not properly supervising the students in his charge and allowing students to view a sexually explicit videotape.

The ALJ concluded that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher warranting disciplinary action. Even though the ALJ did not find sufficient credible evidence to support a conclusion that respondent either gave the students express permission to watch the offensive videotape or, with knowledge of the activity, permitted it to continue, the ALJ determined that the Board had proven, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that respondent did leave three students essentially unattended for approximately 20 to 30 minutes and failed to properly supervise the students which, in turn, led to their viewing of an inappropriate movie during classroom time. However, in light of mitigating factors in this case including the findings that the students switched the videotape without respondent's knowledge; that respondent was engaged in conducting a tour of the rooms comprising the t.v. production studio for a prospective student, her parent and the guidance counselor during a portion of the unsupervised time; and that participants on the tour failed to make their observations that the videotape contained adult nudity and sex known to respondent so that the viewing could be ceased sooner, the ALJ determined that the penalty of dismissal was not warranted. Thus, the ALJ concluded that a loss of salary for a period of 30 days was reasonable discipline regarding this charge. (In re Sammons; In re Fulcomer)

Having reviewed the record, including the hearing transcripts and the parties' arguments, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board sustained its burden of proving that respondent was guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher for failure to properly supervise his students. Moreover, the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that, in view of the circumstances of this matter, the extreme penalty of dismissal was not warranted. The Commissioner concurred with the penalty of 30 days loss of pay.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

AGENCY DOCKET NO. 424-11/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOSEPH PRINZO, PASSAIC COUNTY TECHNICAL INSTITUTE, PASSAIC COUNTY

Steven Gerber, Esq. and Michelle N. Johnson, Esq., for petitioner (Gerber & Samson, attorneys)

Sheldon H. Pincus, Esq., for respondent (Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 15, 2001 Decided: June 29, 2001

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter involves tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher certified by the Passaic County Technical Institute Board of Education (the Board) against the respondent, Joseph Prinzo (Prinzo), a tenured T.V. Production instructor at Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI), pursuant to the provisions of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about September 28, 2000, the Superintendent of Schools of PCTI filed tenure charges against Prinzo (J-1 at ¶4; P-18). In pertinent part the charges allege:

1. On August 2, 2000, Respondent, Joseph Prinzo was a tenured teacher at Passaic County Technical Institute.

2. On that date, Respondent, Joseph Prinzo was the T.V. Production Instructor in the Workforce Investment Board Summer Program. Betty Schulte, Guidance Counselor was taking a prospective 10th grade female student and her mother on a tour of the school. The student wanted to view the T.V. studio. When Ms. Schulte, the parent and child walked through the classroom into the studio, the studio lights were off, it was dark and the students were watching a film.

3. The segment of the film observed by the counselor, parent and child was sexual in nature showing naked breasts and buttocks of a man and woman who were involved in sexual activity in bed.

4. Three students were seated in front of the large screen T.V. watching the film. All three students were part of Respondent, Joseph Prinzo's class.

5. Members of the school administration conducted an investigation of the incident with the three students from the T.V. production class. The students admitted to viewing the film "Belly," that contained nudity and sexual activity. . . .

6. The students said that another student had brought the film to class.

7. The students said Respondent, Joseph Prinzo had given them permission to watch a film. The Administration viewed the video in its entirety and deemed it highly inappropriate and unacceptable in the educational setting. The video contained graphic violence, adult nudity, explicit sex and profanity.

Based on these allegations, Prinzo was charged with "conduct unbecoming a teacher in that he failed to follow proper procedure" governing the use of a video in a classroom. He was further charged with "conduct unbecoming a teacher in that he did not properly supervise the students in his charge" and "[i]n failing to maintain proper supervision, Respondent, Joseph Prinzo allowed the students to view a sexually explicit video."

The charges were accompanied by a supporting sworn statement of evidence and timely served upon Prinzo under letter of the Board secretary dated September 29, 2000 (P-18). N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b) 1 and 2. In that letter, Prinzo was advised of his right to submit a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence, under oath, within fifteen days of receipt of the tenure charges. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)3. Prinzo filed a written statement of position, under oath, dated October 13, 2000 (P-31).

On November 28, 2000, the Board determined, by a majority vote of its full membership, that there was probable cause in support of the charges and voted to certify the tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education for a hearing. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)4. The Board further resolved to suspend Prinzo from his teaching position, without pay, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 (J-1 at ¶5; P-19).

By letter dated November 29, 2000, the Board filed the tenure charges, statement of evidence and certification of determination with the Commissioner of the Department of Education (Department) together with proof of service upon Prinzo (P-19). N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b) 5 and 6; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.2. Prinzo filed an Answer and Affirmative Defenses which the Department received on December 14, 2000. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3. The Department subsequently notified the parties, by letter dated December 15, 2000, of its referral of the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on December 29, 2000, it was filed for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. See N.J.A.C. 1:6B-4.1; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.5(a).

A prehearing conference was held on January 10, 2001. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.1; N.J.A.C. 1:6B-13.1. A Prehearing Order was thereafter entered on January 11, 2001 establishing discovery deadlines in accordance with the required time periods, as may be extended for a period of up to thirty days, and scheduling the hearing to commence within thirty days of the end of the discovery period (as extended) on March 27, 2001. N.J.S.A. 14B-10.1; N.J.A.C. 1:6B-9.1; N.J.A.C. 1:6B-10.1.

A hearing was held on March 27, 2001 and continued on March 28, 29 and 30, 2001. At the conclusion of testimony on March 30, 2001, the parties were granted leave to file post-hearing submissions. The respective briefs of the parties (including proposed findings of fact encompassed in respondent's brief) were received on May 11, 2001 and, following the undersigned's receipt of the transcripts on May 15, 2001, the hearing record was closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

STIPULATED FACTS

The parties submitted a Joint Stipulation of Facts (J-1) addressing certain background facts. As embodied therein, I FIND the following stipulated FACTS:

1. At all times relevant herein, Prinzo was employed as a T.V. Production teacher at PCTI, and was so employed as a teacher in the Telecommunications Department since his date of hire in September 1991.

2. On August 2, 2000, the Superintendent of Schools suspended Prinzo from his position as a teacher at PCTI, with pay, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:25-6.

3. At its Regular Meeting of May 23, 2000, the Board appointed Prinzo to the position of T.V. Productions instructor in the Workforce Investment Board Summer Program for the period of July 5 to August 11, 2000 at a rate of $27.83/hour, 6-½ hours/day (R-3).

4. The tenure charges in this matter were filed against Prinzo on September 28, 2000 (P-18).

5. On November 28, 2000, the Board resolved to certify the tenure charges against Prinzo and further resolved, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, to suspend Prinzo from his teaching duties without pay (P-19).[1]

6. On July 18, 2000, the Board approved for the 2000-2001 school year that Prinzo was to be paid (prorated) on step 12F of the salary guide ($72,134) and further approved that he was due a longevity increment of 3% ($2,164) for a total (non-prorated) salary of $74,298 (R-2).

7. At all relevant times herein, in connection with the charges instituting this procedure, PCTI has complied with all necessary procedures regarding the filing of tenure charges set forth in Title 18A of N.J.S.A. and N.J.A.C. including, but not limited to, notice and service requirements.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In support of the charges against Prinzo, the Board presented eight witnesses: Diana C. Lobosco, Superintendent of Schools and Principal of PCTI; Assistant Principal Joseph M. DiGise; Kent Bania, the supervisor of the PCTI Summer Workforce Program; Elizabeth Schulte, a PCTI guidance counselor; Mark O'Neill, a PCTI mathematics teacher; T.J., a student who was in Prinzo's summer T.V. Production class; Ms. C., a parent of a prospective student who was touring Prinzo's classroom on the date in question; and Prinzo. Testifying on behalf of Prinzo was William Easton, a PCTI guidance counselor.

Although a majority of the facts surrounding this matter were not significantly disputed, the inferences drawn from those facts are hotly contested. In addition, divergent testimony was elicited, principally from the Board's own witnesses, with respect to certain operative facts. Plainly, such evidence requires that I make credibility determinations.

[1] The parties' Stipulation refers to this action being taken on November 29, 2000. The documentary evidence reveals, however, that the Board voted to certify the tenure charges at its meeting on November 28, 2000 (P-19).

Where facts are contested, the trier of fact must assess and weigh the credibility of the witnesses for purposes of making factual findings as to the disputed facts. Credibility is the value that a finder of the facts gives to a witness' testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness' story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749, (9th Cir. 1963). "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself" in that "[i]t must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). A fact finder "is free weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness . . . when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." Id. at 521-522. See D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). In other words, a trier of fact may reject testimony as "inherently incredible" and may also reject testimony when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or "overborne" by the testimony of other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Similarly, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the . . . [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952), certif. den. 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted). The choice of rejecting the testimony of a witness, in whole or in part, rests with the trier and finder of the facts and must simply be a reasonable one. Renan Realty Corp. v. Community Affairs Department, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 421 (App. Div. 1981).

Overall I found much of the testimony presented by the Board's witnesses to be somewhat contradictory of one another and lacking a clear recollection of specific events (or the time of events) that transpired on August 2, 2000. A canvass of the testimony as a whole casts a shadow of doubt on the accuracy of certain witnesses' recollection and rendition of the circumstances surrounding the tenure charges. For example, although Ms. Schulte presented detailed credible testimony as to the timeline with respect to the tour in Prinzo's classroom and her observation at that time, she was unable to recall various details of the tour (e.g., discussions during the tour, exactly at what point she viewed the video) and initially identified the wrong door from which she had exited (see e.g., Schulte at TI 77, 103, 105, 141, 148, 155-157, 160-161, 170, 172, 192-193, 198-199). Similarly, Ms. C. could not identify Prinzo, expressed her inability to recall the tour with specificity (e.g., discussions, time periods) and candidly testified "[m]y memory is so bad" (see e.g., Ms. C. TII 136, 144, 146, 148, 151-152, 155).

With respect to the subsequent investigation, Dr. Bania indicated his failure to recall many facts relating to his involvement in the investigation (e.g., meeting with Prinzo at the cafeteria area at 11:30 a.m., the names of the students taken by him to Mr. DiGise's office, whether other students remained in the classroom, the circumstances with respect to requesting and obtaining Prinzo's statement, and his request that Prinzo see Ms. Lobosco), as well as the timeframe when other occurrences transpired (e.g., when Mr. DiGise contacted him, when he went to Prinzo's classroom to retrieve the students, the film and Prinzo's statement) (see e.g., Bania at TI 211, 218, 222; TII 6, 55-60, 63, 68, 72-73, 76). Although Dr. Bania testified that Prinzo was by his desk near the doorway to the "blue classroom" when he initially went to secure the students in the classroom and Prinzo was still at his desk when Dr. Bania later returned to retrieve the videotape, he corrected this account during the second day of his testimony. Dr. Bania then candidly acknowledged that Mr. O'Neill had been present on the second occasion and noted his uncertainty as to Prinzo's presence in the classroom at that time (Bania at TI 213, 215, 221-223, TII 7, 67-68, 72). This testimony as to Prinzo's presence on either occasion was refuted and overborne by the testimony of Mr. O'Neill. I found the testimony of Mr. O'Neill, a witness who has no apparent interest in the outcome of this proceeding, to be clear, specific, persuasive and believable. As corroborated by the Summer Workforce Program Master Schedule (R-6) and the testimony of Prinzo, Mr. O'Neill presented unequivocal and credible testimony that he (not Prinzo) was in the classroom when Dr. Bania arrived to obtain the students and he accompanied Dr. Bania and the students to Mr. DiGise's office.

The Board's proofs included testimony by one student (T.J.). T.J. had brought the videotape into Prinzo's class on August 2, 2000. In evaluating T.J.'s testimony, I am guided by the caution that must be employed in examining such testimony:

> 'It is the opinion of the Commissioner that testimony of children, especially of those ten years of age, against a teacher, whose duty it is to discipline them, must be examined with extreme care. It is dangerous to use such testimony against a teacher; it is likewise dangerous not to use it. The necessities of the situation sometimes make it necessary to use the testimony of school children. If such testimony were not admissible, the children would be at a teacher's mercy because there is no way to prove certain charges except by the testimony of children.'

See In re Wolf, 231 N.J. Super. 365, 370-371 (App. Div. 1989), certif. den. 117 N.J. 138 (1989).

I place limited weight on T.J.'s ability to accurately perceive, remember and relate certain details surrounding the August 2, 2000 incident (e.g., the number of students in the class that day, Mr. O'Neill's arrival when T.J. was leaving with another teacher, his observation of Prinzo approximately 5 minutes later in the locker room) (see e.g., T.J. at TII 103, 106, 112-113, 115-116, 121, 123). This testimony was at odds with other evidence in the record, which is essentially undisputed, including the timeline of events that morning (e.g., the time of Ms. Schulte's tour, Mr. O'Neill's arrival). The ability of a student to recall such specifics with precision was not, in my view, unreasonable and did not distract from the truthfulness of T.J.'s testimony as to the critical facts; namely, T.J. did not show the videotape to Prinzo and did not secure Prinzo's permission to watch it during the class. Although Ms. Lobosco testified that, on or about August 3, 2000, T.J. orally told her that he had brought the videotape to class and Prinzo allowed him to watch the film (Lobosco at TIII 206, TIV 12-14, 27-28), the absence of corroborating evidence regarding this alleged statement by T.J., including the lack of reference to any such advice in the discovery responses certified by Lobosco in February 2001 (R-87 to R-90; see Lobosco at TIV 13-20, 23-25), significantly impairs the weight to be given to such testimony. I further found this testimony materially less persuasive than T.J.'s unequivocal and credible sworn testimony at the hearing.

In judging the credibility of the witnesses, I found Prinzo's testimony as to the events that transpired on August 2, 2000 to be extremely detailed, cogent and having a "ring of truth." Prinzo did not attempt to sidestep the fact that the "Belly" videotape apparently had been viewed by the students during his class and the inappropriateness of the movie in an educational environment.

Based upon a consideration of the totality of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe and assess the credibility of the witnesses who testified, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. PCTI is the vocational high school of Passaic County. Beyond its technology/vocational component, PCTI also provides a rigorous academic curriculum for approximately 2000 day students and an adult and evening program servicing approximately 3000 additional students (Lobosco at TIII 156-157; DiGise at TII 159).[2]

2. The PCTI Summer Workforce Program is a six-week program sponsored by the Workforce Investment Board that is made available to approximately 120-130 PCTI students. During the summer of 2000, the program ran from July 5 to August 11, 2000. Students must meet certain financial criteria to participate in the Program and be in need of academic remediation. Those who do participate receive a minimum wage salary for the school day. Students spend half the day involved in a technical/vocational area and the other half in academic courses (Bania at TII 84; Lobosco at TIII 179-181).

[2] The references designate the respective witness, day of the hearing (e.g., I, II, III or IV) and transcript page.

3. Diana C. Lobosco (Lobosco) is the Superintendent of Schools and Principal of PCTI. She has served as the Superintendent for five years and as Principal for an additional four years (Lobosco at TIII 154-155).

4. Joseph M. DiGise (DiGise) has been employed at PCTI for twenty-nine years, seven years of which have been in his current Assistant Principal position. DiGise's responsibilities as Assistant Principal include, among others, overseeing the daily operation of the school, implementing curriculum and discipline issues that arise and evaluating instructional staff (DiGise at TII 158-159).

5. Dr. Kent Bania (Bania), employed at PCTI for twenty-eight years, is the Supervisor of Adult Continuing and Apprentice Education. During the summer of 2000, he also supervised the Summer Workforce Program and had the responsibility for issues relating to the instructional content of the Program (Bania at TI 203; Lobosco at TIII 171; Prinzo at TIII 86; Easton at TIV 73).

6. Elizabeth Schulte (Schulte), a PCTI employee for twenty-three years, has served in her current position as a guidance counselor for approximately fifteen years (Schulte at TI 27-28).

7. Mark O'Neill (O'Neill) has been a mathematics teacher at PCTI for approximately four years and taught this subject in connection with the 2000 Summer Workforce Program (O'Neill at TIII 116, 118-119).

8. William Easton, employed at PCTI for seven years, is a guidance counselor and served in this capacity during the 2000 Summer Workforce Program (Easton at TIV 47-48).

9. Ms. C., a parent of a prospective student, toured Prinzo's T.V. Production class on August 2, 2000.

10. T.J., who is seventeen years of age, was a student in Prinzo's T.V. Production class during the 2000 Summer Workforce Program. T.J. brought the "Belly" videotape to class on August 2, 2000 (T.J. at TII 97, 99, 101).

11. On August 2, 2000, at approximately 9:30 a.m., Schulte interviewed a prospective female student and her mother (Ms. C.) in Schulte's PCTI office (Schulte at TI 36-38; Ms. C. at TII 133-134). Schulte's duties as guidance counselor entail, among others, evaluating applications of prospective students. Schulte had been charged by her supervisor, William Betar (Betar), the director of student personnel services, with the responsibility of providing tours of the PCTI facility, when requested, in connection with the admission process (Schulte at TI 29-31).

12. The district has no policy that restricts tours by potential students, parents and the like to periods when the instructional process is not underway in the classroom (Lobosco at TIV 25-26). Teachers at PCTI are not required to be given advance notice that a tour will take place in their classroom and, according to Lobosco, teachers are well aware of the fact that on any given day such tours or other visitors may come through their classroom (Lobosco at TIV 28-29).

13. The prospective student and parent met in Schulte's office for approximately ten minutes during which they discussed, among other things, the student's interest and experience in the T.V. Production field (Schulte at TI 40, 174; Ms. C. at TII 134, 142-143). The parent requested to see the T.V. Production studio (Ms. C. at TII 135). Schulte brought the student and parent to the T.V. Production classroom where they arrived at approximately 9:40 a.m. (Schulte at TI 41-43, 173-175; Prinzo at TIII 18-19, 56; P-1; P-21).

14. The T.V. Production classroom, known as Room B-206, includes two adjacent editing rooms (P-5, P-8 to P-11), designated on the floor plan as offices of 87 square feet each and denoted, for purposes of the hearing, as the "yellow" and "blue" offices (P-2). Each editing room is situated within a larger classroom. These adjacent larger rooms were similarly referred to and designated for purposes of the hearing as the "yellow" and "blue" classrooms. The "yellow" classroom (P-6; P-8) is approximately 654 square feet and the "blue" classroom (P-13 to P-15) is approximately 1112 square feet (P-2). There is a doorway between the "yellow" and "blue" offices (P-5), a doorway between the "yellow" and "blue" classrooms near a platform area located within the outer "blue classroom" (P-12; P-15) and a doorway leading from the "blue office" into the main "blue classroom" (P-7).

15. The time of Schulte's arrival (approximately 9:40 a.m.) fell within Period 2 of the 2000 Summer Workforce Program Master Schedule (R-6). Prinzo was assigned to teach T.V. Production during Period 1 (8:00 a.m. to 8:55 a.m.), Period 2 (9:00 a.m. - 9:55 a.m.) and Periods 4-6 (11:35 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.). The Summer Workforce Master Schedule provided for Prinzo to be relieved of his duties by O'Neill during Period 3 (10:00 a.m. to 10:55 a.m.).

16. Schulte, the parent and the prospective student entered the T.V. Production studio through the door leading into the "yellow classroom" (Schulte at TI 51-52, 65; P-2; P-3). Upon entering the classroom, they walked down a corridor (P-4) to the doorway of the "yellow office" (P-5) where they were met by Prinzo who came from within the "yellow office." Prinzo, Schulte, the prospective student and her mother engaged in a discussion while in the "yellow" corridor area (P-4) outside the "yellow office." That discussion generally included introductions, the student's prior experience and the availability (or lack thereof) of a space in Prinzo's T.V. Production class for the Fall semester and lasted for approximately five minutes (Schulte at TI 55-57, 67-69, 162-164; Prinzo at TIII 21, 44-47).

17. Although Schulte testified that, during the course of this dialogue, Prinzo told the student "honey, if you want to come to Passaic County Tech and you want to major in this shop, I'll throw one of my bums out" (Schulte at TI 70), I FIND the strength of this testimony significantly overborne by the credible testimony of the student's parent and Prinzo, and the persuasiveness of such testimony impaired by the absence of any reference to this alleged statement in the report prepared by Schulte (P-1) within hours of the incident. In this regard, the student's parent testified that she would have been surprised if the words were spoken and opined that she would have remembered them (Ms. C. at TII 146), and Prinzo unequivocally denied uttering the remark (Prinzo at TIII 47).

18. Following the approximate five-minute discussion in the corridor, the parties proceeded into the "yellow office" (P-5; P-8). In the "yellow office," Prinzo engaged in a discussion regarding the program including the equipment used, and showed or demonstrated to the prospective student the different types of equipment located in that editing room (Schulte at TI 72, 160-161; Prinzo at TIII 47-48). The participants remained in the "yellow office" for approximately two minutes (Schulte at TI 162, 164).

19. The parties then proceeded through the doorway (P-7) leading into the "blue office" (Schulte at TI 79, 86-87; Prinzo at TIII 50). The "blue office" includes glass panels which enable one to see out into the outer "blue classroom" where a platform area is located (P-10 to P-11). A large screen television was situated on or in front of the platform area within the "blue classroom" (P-13 to P-15) facing toward the direction of the "blue office" windows (Schulte at TI 168-169; T.J. at TII 129-130; Prinzo at TIII 23, 57).

20. From the "yellow office" Prinzo backed his way into the "blue office." The student, who was engaged in discussion with Prinzo, followed him into the "blue office" and was, in turn, followed by the parent and Schulte. The parent and Schulte observed Prinzo's discussion and/or were engaged in separate conversation between themselves (Prinzo at TIII 50-51, 99). At the time, the lights were on in the "blue office" and were off in the outer "blue classroom" area (Schulte at TI 87).

21. While in the "blue office" Prinzo, who according to Schulte was facing sideways in front of her, continued to engage in dialogue and show or demonstrate the different types of equipment located throughout the "blue office" (Schulte at TI 87, 144-145, 147-148, 160-161; Prinzo at TIII 51, 99-102). Prinzo engaged in this activity of showing the equipment in the "blue office" for approximately three minutes (Schulte at TI 148, 157-158, 164).

22. While in the "blue office" Schulte observed through the glass panel facing the outer darkened "blue classroom" a segment of a movie (later identified as "Belly") on the large screen television (Schulte at TI 87, 89-90, 101, 114-115, 139-140, 192-194). At the hearing, Schulte identified the brief scene observed by her which, based on the parent's testimony, was also witnessed by the parent and the prospective student. The scene can generally be described as depicting a male and female engaged in sexual activity on a bed and includes views of their naked buttocks and the female's partially naked breasts (Schulte at TI 90, 97, 101, 114-115, 190; Ms. C. at TII 137, 153, 155; P-16) (the "bedroom scene"). This scene is at a point that is 12 minutes and 25 seconds from the beginning of the movie (TI 190; P-16).

23. Although Schulte testified as to Prinzo's presence at the time of her observation (Schulte at TI 194), Schulte did not know whether Prinzo had looked out the glass window and was able to observe the movie (Schulte at TI 91). Consistent with her report (P-1), Schulte testified, and I FIND, that Prinzo at one point advised that the students were "watching a film" (Schulte at TI 90, 199). Prinzo did not tell Schulte, nor did Schulte hear Prinzo tell the parent or the prospective student, that the students were watching the film "Belly" (Schulte at TI 165-166, 200).

24. At no time during the tour did Schulte, the parent or the prospective student advise Prinzo, either by word or by gesture, that they had observed anything on the large screen television or had seen something that made them uncomfortable or they found inappropriate (Schulte at TI 90, 159-160; Ms. C. at TII 138, 145; Prinzo at TIII 56). During the tour, neither Schulte nor the parent observed Prinzo engage in any discussion with the students (Schulte at TI 170; Ms. C. at TII 152). Prinzo testified, and I FIND, that none of the students watching the large screen television in the "blue classroom" directed any comments or questions to him when he was giving the tour, during which Prinzo was engaged in discussion and/or demonstration of the equipment with the student, the parent and Schulte (Prinzo at TIII 56).

25. At one point Prinzo exited the "blue office" through the doorway into the outer "blue classroom." He walked around the corner of a smaller office in the "blue classroom" into the corridor of the "blue" area (away from the platform area) for purposes of turning on the lights in the outer "blue classroom" (Schulte at TI 92, 141-144; Prinzo at TIII 51-52). Although Schulte testified that Prinzo turned on the lights after she had observed the "bedroom scene" (Schulte at TI 90, 102), Schulte subsequently acknowledged her inability to state the exact point at which she observed the movie (e.g., when being shown the equipment, when exiting the "blue office") (Schulte at TI 192-193,198-199). Schulte recalled exiting the "blue office" into the "blue classroom " area and that she did not enter the "blue classroom" as far as the platform area (Schulte at TI 104, 108-109, 141, 158, 164, 199). Similarly, neither the student nor the parent walked over to the area of the platform or television (Prinzo at TIII 54). It was Prinzo's recollection that, at the time he turned on the light switch, Schulte and the parent were in the doorway of the "blue office" and the prospective student had taken "a step or two out into the area in front of that office" where he and the student then continued their conversation (Prinzo at TIII 55).

26. It was when the lights were turned on by Prinzo that Schulte first observed students in the darkened "blue classroom" area. Schulte observed the upper portion of the bodies of between 3-6 students "come up" from a "lounging position" on a couch in the "blue classroom." The students looked toward Schulte and started laughing (Schulte at TI 103, 166-169).

27. After Prinzo's return from turning on the lights and short discussion with the student (Prinzo at TIII 55), and following Schulte's observation of the students, Schulte excused herself and the parties then began the process of exiting the "blue office" through the "yellow office" and into the "yellow" corridor outside the "yellow office" (Prinzo at TIII 54-55; Schulte at TI 103-104).

28. As the parties proceeded back through the "yellow office," Schulte observed Prinzo take a "Blockbuster" videocassette box from a shelf in the "yellow office" (Schulte at TI 155-156). Schulte's subsequent report of the incident recites that

"[w]e exited the class and Mr. Prinzo took out a 'Blockbuster' tape case" (P-1). Prinzo testified, and I FIND, that he did not take the "Blockbuster" videocassette box for purposes of placing the "Belly" tape in the box but, instead, the box was for another videotape that Prinzo had viewed at the request of a colleague (Prinzo at TIII 78-81; TIV 98; R-7; R-8).

29. In the "yellow" corridor, the parties exchanged greetings and the parent, student and Schulte exited through the "yellow" door (Prinzo at TIII 55).

30. The portion of the tour, beginning from when the parties left the "blue office" area after being shown the equipment to the point at the doorway in the "yellow" corridor, lasted approximately 3 to 6 minutes (Schulte at TI 159, 164).

31. The entire tour, beginning from when the parties first met Prinzo to when they left his presence, transpired over a period of approximately 13-16 minutes (per Schulte) or 15 minutes (per Prinzo) (Schulte at TI 165, 182; Prinzo at TIII 81). Utilizing the approximate 9:40 a.m. arrival time, the tour ended at approximately 9:55 a.m.

32. After leaving the T.V. Production classroom, Schulte, the parent and the prospective student returned to Schulte's office. They summarized the interview for approximately 5-10 minutes without any discussion as to what had been seen on the large screen television (Schulte at TI 111-112; Ms. C. at TII 138-139). Although the prospective student ultimately did not attend PCTI in the 2000 Fall semester, the basis for that decision was unrelated to the incident (Ms. C. at TII 140-142).

33. After the parent and the student left PCTI, Schulte had a conversation with her supervisor, Betar, in the secretarial area of the guidance office where Schulte had been talking to a secretary. Schulte told Betar that when she went into Prinzo's classroom "the students were watching a porno film." Schulte advised Betar that she "personally have [sic] not seen porno films, however, this must be one of them" (Schulte at TI, 112, 114-116, 177).

34. The "Belly" movie can be generally described as an R-rated movie concerning urban youths involved in the drug culture and the efforts of some of the youths to leave that culture. The movie includes violence, profanity, the brief "bedroom scene" and nudity (P-16).

35. During the 2000 Summer Workforce Program, O'Neill was scheduled to teach mathematics in the PCTI Rocco Building for Periods 1 (8:00 a.m. to 8:55 a.m.) and 2 (9:00 a.m. to 9:55 a.m.) and to "cover" Prinzo's classroom for Period 3 (10:00 a.m. to 10:55 a.m.) (R-6). In connection with this "cover" period, O'Neill relieves Prinzo of his classroom duties. His primary function is to monitor discipline while the students continue the projects assigned to them by Prinzo (O'Neill at TIII 120-121; Prinzo at TIII 17-18, 63-64).

36. On August 2, 2000, O'Neill arrived at Prinzo's classroom at approximately 10:00 a.m. (O'Neill at TIII 124). Schulte and the visitors had already left by the time of his arrival. Although Prinzo opined that O'Neill arrived either when Schulte was leaving or shortly thereafter (Prinzo at TIII 23, 31, 82), O'Neill credibly testified, and I FIND, that he did not observe Schulte near the T.V. Production studio and, in turn, Ms. Schulte did not recall seeing O'Neill (O'Neill at TIII 147; Schulte at TI 175).

37. Upon his arrival, O'Neill observed Prinzo seated in the "yellow office" (O'Neill at TIII 123-124.) They had a brief conversation during which Prinzo told O'Neill that the students were "watching a movie" (he did not identify the movie as "Belly") (O'Neill at TIII 124-127, 150, 153). Shortly after O'Neill's arrival, Prinzo left on his break (Prinzo at TIII 34).

38. O'Neill went to the doorway by the desk area of the "yellow classroom" that looked into the "blue classroom" by the platform area (P-12; P-13). O'Neill either "stepped" into the "blue classroom" or "stuck" his head through the doorway. As he did, O'Neill observed approximately 3-4 students sitting in the dark in front of the large screen television watching a movie. O'Neill watched the movie for approximately one minute and then went to the desk in the "yellow classroom"

(P-6) to work on math problems. Throughout this period, the lights in the "blue classroom" remained off and O'Neill could hear the movie soundtrack through the open doorway including "four letter words" and noises suggesting firearms (O'Neill at TIII 127-134, 137, 139-140, 142). O'Neill did not view hearing profanity in a movie that he believed the students had been allowed to watch as "unusual" and he did not observe anything about the movie that troubled him (O'Neill at TIII 136).

39. At approximately 10:05 a.m., Betar and Schulte reported the incident to DiGise (DiGise at TII 163, 192-194; Schulte at TI 116; P-21). DiGise contacted Bania, who came to DiGise's office, and DiGise apprised him of the situation (DiGise at TII 163, 192-193; Bania at TI 211-212). DiGise also reported the information to Lobosco who instructed that DiGise and Bania pursue an investigation (e.g., interview the students, retrieve and view the film) and report back to her (Lobosco at TIII 182; DiGise at TII 164).

40. Prior to taking lunch Schulte was directed by Betar, in the presence of DiGise, to prepare a report of the incident. As directed, Schulte prepared a written incident report (Schulte at TI 116-120, 149-151, 177; P-1).

41. Bania left DiGise's office and went to the T.V. Production classroom for purposes of speaking to the students who had viewed the movie (Bania at TI 211-213, TII 69). The evidence as to the time of this encounter reveals that, and I FIND, Bania went to the T.V. Production studio after the reporting by Schulte and Betar (at approximately 10:05 a.m.), Bania's subsequent contact with DiGise and during the time that O'Neill was scheduled to cover, and was in fact covering, Prinzo's class (*i.e.,*10:00 a.m. to 10:55 a.m.). O'Neill testified, and I FIND, that he had been at the desk in the "yellow classroom" approximately 15 to 30 minutes (which would be in or around 10:15 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.) at the time of Bania's arrival (O'Neill at TIII 139-140). Based upon O'Neill's unequivocal and credible testimony as to his presence at this time, which is consistent with the timeframe of the events and corroborated by Prinzo's testimony that he did not see Bania before 11:30 a.m. in the cafeteria area (Prinzo at TIII 66), I REJECT

Bania's testimony that Prinzo was near the desk area in the "yellow classroom" when he arrived to remove the students.

42. Bania appeared to O'Neill to be agitated (O'Neill at TIII 141). Bania observed that the large screen television was on (Bania at TII 218; TIII 8-9). The lights in the "blue classroom" were then turned on, the movie was stopped and Bania instructed the three students in the "blue classroom" who had been watching the movie to come with him (O'Neill at TIII 141-143; Bania at TI 215, 218, 222). Bania brought the students to DiGise's office area to be questioned (O'Neill at TIII 143; DiGise at TII 164-165; Bania at TI 218-192, TII 54, 69).

43. O'Neill credibly testified, and I FIND, that he followed Bania and the students to DiGise's office, he observed the students enter the office, DiGise told O'Neill "this doesn't concern you" and, as a result, O'Neill left (O'Neill at TIII 143). I found O'Neill's testimony as to this encounter unequivocal, forthright and believable and I REJECT the testimony of Board's witnesses to the extent that it suggests otherwise. Neither Bania, DiGise nor Lobosco spoke with O'Neill (or could recall speaking with him) concerning what transpired during the time he was assigned to the classroom (O'Neill at TIII 146, 148-149; Lobosco at TIII 190, 216; DiGise at TII 197-198; Bania at TII 67, 70). Before the day on which O'Neill testified at the hearing, Lobosco had no knowledge of what O'Neill knew about the incident in the classroom (Lobosco at TIII 216). Similarly, DiGise testified as to his unawareness of whether O'Neill had any responsibilities on August 2, 2000 with regard to the delivery of instruction in Prinzo's classroom (DiGise at TII 202).

44. In the conference room by DiGise's office, the three students (D.M., E.C. and D.G.) were questioned in the presence of one another. No written statements were requested from the students. From this discussion it was learned that the students had viewed the "Belly" videotape in Prinzo's classroom, the tape was still in the "blue classroom" and it had been brought in by another student (T.J.) (DiGise at TII 165-170, 199-200; Bania at TII 69, 76-77; TI 219, 222). DiGise's subsequent report to Lobosco further recites that when DiGise asked if Prinzo "gave them permission to watch this film" E.C. "responded 'Yes'" (P-21). While not reflected in his report, DiGise testified that the other student(s) also nodded which DiGise understood to mean that the student(s) agreed with E.C.'s advice (DiGise at TII 166-167, 170, 199).

45. Bania left the conference with one of the students (D.M.) to retrieve the video from the T.V. Production studio (DiGise at TII 169-70; Bania at TI 220, 222-224, TII 6, 9-10, 68). At the time of his arrival, the movie was not in play on the screen (Bania at TII 9) and O'Neill was in the classroom (or its immediate vicinity) (O'Neill at TIII 144-146; Bania at TII 7, 17, 72).

46. After Bania and the student returned to DiGise's office, the students were released. DiGise and Bania then spent the next hour to hour and a half viewing the "Belly" videotape in its entirety (DiGise at TII 171-172, 203-204; Bania at TII 19-21, 78, 80, 82).

47. Subsequent to the viewing of the movie by DiGise and Bania, DiGise contacted Betar for purposes of having Schulte report to the conference room. DiGise requested Schulte to view a portion of the movie. This meeting transpired after Schulte's lunch in the presence of Betar. In connection therewith, DiGise had queued the film to the "bedroom scene," believing that it signified the portion of the movie observed by Schulte in Prinzo's classroom. During Schulte's viewing of this portion, which lasted for a few minutes, Schulte identified it as the scene (Schulte at TI 93-94, 120-121, 178-180; DiGise at TII 174-176, 204-205). Before her viewing at the hearing, Schulte had not seen the portion of the movie prior to the "bedroom scene" (Schulte at TI 115, 121-122, 180-181).

48. After releasing Schulte and Betar, DiGise forwarded the videotape to Lobosco. DiGise authored a report to Lobosco (P-21), the substance of which DiGise orally discussed with Lobosco when he provided the film, and his written report was given to Lobosco the next day (DiGise at TII 176). The video was queued up to the "bedroom scene" and viewed by Lobosco who then viewed the videotape from its beginning up to this scene (Lobosco at TIII 184, 185; Easton at TIV 54).

49. Based on their respective viewings of the "Belly" movie, Lobosco, DiGise and Bania found the film to be inappropriate for an educational setting (Lobosco at TIII 197-198; DiGise at TII 173; Bania at TII 22-23). Similarly, based on Prinzo's viewing of the 12-14 minute portion of the movie at the hearing, Prinzo "absolutely" agreed that it was inappropriate to be shown at PCTI (Prinzo at TIII 33).

50. PCTI has a written procedure regarding "The Use of Videos" by a teaching staff member in classroom instruction (P-27). In general, it requires the teacher to submit a form at least two weeks prior to the planned use of the video setting forth, among other things, the title of the video and the rationale for its use. This information is then subject to review and approval by a supervisor. The PCTI Faculty Manual, which is available on the PCTI website and previously had been provided to all teaching staff members, also includes a section addressing "Request for A.V. Equipment/VCR" (DiGise at TII 179-181; Bania at TI 38-39; P-24). I FIND that the written video procedure, along with the PCTI Faculty Manual, were in force and effect during the Summer Workforce Program (see Lobosco at TIII 169-171; O'Neill at TIII 119; Bania at TII 34-35; DiGise at TII 185-186) and REJECT the testimony of Prinzo and Easton to the extent it suggests otherwise. Prinzo did not obtain approval from Bania for the use of any video during the Summer Workforce Program and Prinzo did not complete a request for approval to use the "Belly" movie (Bania at TII 36-37; Prinzo at TIII 33, 34).

51. Prinzo first learned of an incident involving his class at 11:30 a.m. on August 2, 2000. Bania met Prinzo in the cafeteria area when Prinzo was picking up his afternoon students. Bania inquired whether Prinzo had knowledge of an incident that occurred in his classroom that morning and, when Prinzo indicated he did not, Bania relayed that he thought some students might have been watching an inappropriate film (Prinzo at TIII 16, 65).

52. At the commencement of Prinzo's morning class on August 2, 2000, there were seven students in class (Prinzo at TIII 42).

53. Subsequent to 9:30 a.m. and before Schulte's arrival at approximately 9:40 a.m., four students (T.J., R.E., M.J. and K.W.) left the T.V. Production studio to accompany a teacher, Mr. Iurato, on another project (T.J. at TII 104-105, 114; Prinzo at TIII 12-13, 43, 87).

54. Prior to Schulte's arrival that morning, the students had been engaged in independent editing activities. The three remaining students in the class (D.G., E.C. and D.M.) were involved in this activity. In this regard, a portion of Prinzo's curriculum included watching a videotape of a championship football game that PCTI had played against Union Hill in Giants Stadium. The students watched this film essentially on a daily basis during the Summer Workforce Program and also were involved in the project of editing clips of the video and creating highlight films. This editing process could occur in the editing rooms (i.e., the "blue" and "yellow" offices) or the "blue classroom" in which the platform and large screen television are located. Prinzo had checked the students and observed them engaged in this activity with the championship football film between 9:30 a.m. and Schulte's arrival at approximately 9:40 a.m. (Prinzo at TIII 28, 37, 39-40, 61-62, 64-65, 88-89, 108-110).

55. T.J. testified that, although he did not remember the exact time that the "Belly" videotape began playing, he viewed the movie (which was started at the beginning) on the large screen television for approximately two minutes before he left with Mr. Iurato, during which time Prinzo was at his desk in the "yellow" area and the door to his office was closed (T.J. at TII 103-105, 124-128).

56. After the students left with Mr. Iurato and before Schulte and her guests arrived, Prinzo had been cleaning up from the class' earlier activities in the "yellow office" (Prinzo at TIII 21, 44-45, 91-92). The three remaining students in Prinzo's class were in the "blue classroom" area when Schulte arrived. The "blue classroom" is not visible from within the "yellow office" (P-8).

57. It is physically impossible to observe all areas of the T.V. Production classroom from any single point (Prinzo at TIII 58-59; Lobosco at TIII 175; P-2). Part of the instructional process in Prinzo's class entails students working on projects, such as the editing activity described above, independently with one another at various stations located throughout the classroom without hands-on instruction from Prinzo (Prinzo at TIII 58, 60, 63, 108).

58. T.J. credibly testified, and I FIND, that he brought in the "Belly" videotape to Prinzo's class on August 2, 2000. He did not show it to Prinzo. He did not ask Prinzo's permission to watch it. Prinzo did not watch the video in T.J.'s presence and T.J. did not hear words by Prinzo to the effect that it was alright to watch the "Belly" movie (T.J. at TII 101-102, 109, 120). In this regard, T.J. testified "I was messed up from bringing the tape in by accident" and "I shoulda asked him before we popped it in and looked at it. . . ." (T.J. at TII 108, 109).

59. Prinzo credibly testified that, and I FIND, although he was aware that between 9:30 a.m. and 10:00 a.m. (when he left on break) the students were watching something on the large screen television in the darkened "blue classroom" (Prinzo at TIII 13-14, 20-21), he had no knowledge of the "Belly" film being viewed. Prinzo testified, and I FIND, that no student asked his permission to watch the "Belly" movie. He did not observe the "bedroom scene" during the tour. He did not look out the windows in the "blue office." He did not observe what was on the television screen from the time of Schultz's arrival to his departure on break. He did not hear the movie soundtrack. Rather, during this period, it was Prinzo's belief that the students were involved in the editing activities previewing the championship football game videotape (Prinzo at TIII 11, 20-21, 27-28, 33, 37-38, 51, 53, 57, 79, 102, 110). Prinzo testified that at the time of the tour his "concern wasn't heightened about what they [the students] were doing" and he "assumed they were continuing to do what [he] had observed them doing earlier" (Prinzo at TIII 103).

60. At the 11:30 a.m. cafeteria encounter on August 2, 2000, Bania requested Prinzo to write a statement about what occurred in the classroom that morning. When Prinzo asked Bania how he could write a statement about something that he had no knowledge of, Bania requested Prinzo to write a statement about the parent/student tour with Schulte (Prinzo at TIII 66-67).

61. Bania later came to Prinzo's classroom at approximately 12:30 p.m. - 1:00 p.m. inquiring about the status of the statement (Prinzo at TIII 67-69).

62. Bania returned to Prinzo's classroom for the statement approximately twenty minutes later. Prinzo provided a written statement to Bania (P-32), and Bania left. Bania returned shortly thereafter and asked Prinzo to sign the statement (Prinzo at TIII 69-71; Bania at TII 60-62, 90-91).

63. Bania returned to Prinzo's classroom at approximately 2:00 p.m. and requested a copy of Prinzo's lesson plans for the summer program which Prinzo furnished (Prinzo at TIII 71-72; Bania at TII 62-63). On the same day, Lobosco had questioned Easton concerning whether teachers in the summer program were required to submit lesson plans and the procedure vis-à-vis showing videos in the classroom (Easton at TIV 52-54).

64. Prior to meeting with Prinzo, Lobosco had received Schulte's statement, along with an oral report from DiGise, and viewed the "Belly" excerpt. Lobosco's purpose for the conference was to "listen to what he [Prinzo] had to say about the incident. . . ." Inasmuch as Lobosco believed that discipline was "at least a realistic possibility," she directed Bania to notify Prinzo of his right to have a union representative present (Lobosco at TIII 186-188, 190-191, 204, 207-208).

65. At approximately 2:30 p.m., Bania advised Prinzo of the need to see Lobosco. Prinzo was also advised prior to the conference of the need for a union representative (Prinzo at TIII 72-73; Bania at TII 63-64).

66. The conference with Prinzo transpired at approximately 2:30 p.m. on August 2, 2000. It was attended by Lobosco, Bania, Prinzo, his union representative and Lobosco's administrative assistant who took notes of the meeting as memorialized in a report prepared by her (P-26) (Lobosco at TIII 189-190, 192-194). The conference began by Lobosco reading Schulte's written statement (P-1) to Prinzo and Lobosco then asked Prinzo six questions which he answered (Lobosco at TIII 195-196; Prinzo at TIII 75-78). As memorialized, Prinzo denied that he brought the "Belly" film into his class. He further indicated that the bringing in of films by students is "not encouraged or suggested;" as part of his lesson, Prinzo uses "pieces of film to use affects"; "[w]e were preparing for break" when Ms. Schulte arrived; he "didn't see what the students were watching;" and his "assumption was - based on the time, break time - that students were watching clips of the championship football game, which they've watched every other day" (P-26). Lobosco read a letter to Prinzo (P-25), which she previously had prepared, informing him that she was terminating Prinzo's employment in the Summer Workforce Program effective immediately for conduct unbecoming a teacher, suspending Prinzo from his coaching duties and suspending Prinzo, with pay, from his teaching duties for the upcoming 2000-2001 school year pending Board action scheduled for August 29, 2000 (see Lobosco at TIII 198-199, 207). Prinzo gathered his belongings and left the premises (Prinzo at TIII 77).

67. Easton was directed by either DiGise or Bania to meet with the students in Prinzo's morning shop class to determine what had occurred (Easton at TIV 55-56; Bania at TII 52-53). In or around 8:00 a.m. on August 3, 2000, Easton met with approximately five students, including T.J. and E.C., in the school cafeteria (Easton at TIV 55-59). Easton testified that the students told him, among other things, that they did not have Prinzo's permission to watch the video and identified T.J. as the student who had brought it to class (Easton at TIV 60-62). Easton debriefed Bania of this meeting with the students, including the information conveyed as to O'Neill's presence in the classroom (Easton at TIV 67-69).

68. On August 3, 2000, Bania dismissed T.J. from the Summer Workforce Program (Bania at TII 27-28, 30; P-17). Subsequent to an appeal by the student's parent, Lobosco reinstated T.J. after a two or three day suspension (Lobosco at TIV 12-13, TIII 205-206; Bania at TII 30-31, 87-89).

69. At its public meeting on August 29, 2000, the Board unanimously voted to continue Prinzo's suspension with pay (P-18). After the Board determined to certify the tenure charges and suspend Prinzo without pay, he received no salary for one hundred twenty (120) calendar days in an approximate amount of $29,719.20 (i.e., 2000-2001 year salary of $74,298 divided by 10 months multiplied by 120 days) (see Lobosco at TIV 8-10; R-2).[3]

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The legislative design of the statutory tenure provisions is "to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording to teachers. . . a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service." Viemeister v. Borough of Prospect Park Board of Education, 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). Tenure protects competent and qualified teachers during good behavior and guards them against "dismissal for 'unfounded, flimsy or political reasons.'" Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982) (citation omitted). In furtherance of this objective, a tenured teacher shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause," N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, and only after compliance with the litany of procedural safeguards engrafted in the Tenure Employees Hearing Law. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.

The Board shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the charges against Prinzo by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). This forum has the duty "to decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Co., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E & A 1933). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes 'the reasonable probability of the fact.'" Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consolidated Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958). See Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, [3]Prinzo also did not receive pay for the remainder of the Summer Workforce Program (i.e., August 2 through 11, 2000) and a stipend for coaching in the 2000-2001 school year (see Lobosco at TIV 6-12; R-12). Prinzo's post-hearing brief (at p. 52, n. 4) states that these issues are the subject of separate grievance/arbitration proceedings which are being held in abeyance by agreement of the parties pending a determination of this matter.

104 (App. Div. 1959). Precisely what is needed to satisfy this burden necessarily must be judged on a case by case basis.

The Board charges Prinzo with conduct unbecoming a teacher based upon his alleged failure to follow proper procedures, as set forth in the written "Use of Videos" procedure (P-27), and his alleged failure to "properly supervise the students in his charge" through which Prinzo "allowed the students to view a sexually explicit video."

Conduct unbecoming a public employee has been described as an "elastic" phrase that includes "'any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency'" of the public entity or "'which has a tendency to destroy public respect for . . . [public] employees and confidence in the operation of . . . [public] services.'" In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960) (citation omitted). See Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998). Behavior rising to the level of unbecoming conduct need not be predicated upon a violation of any particular rule or regulation and may be based simply upon a violation of the implicit standard of good behavior. City of Asbury Park v. Department of Civil Service, 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955); In re Tuch, 159 N.J. Super. 219, 224 (App. Div. 1978). In the context of a tenured teacher, the contours for dismissal set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 have been found to provide a sufficient standard which, while "general in terms," when "measured by common understanding . . . fairly and adequately conveys its meaning to all concerned." Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957). Succinctly stated, "the touchstone is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position." In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974), certif. den. 65 N.J. 292 (1974). Such unfitness to remain a teacher may be demonstrated by a single incident, if sufficiently flagrant. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967); Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd o.b. 131 N.J.L. 326 (E & A 1944).

Preliminarily, this matter does not implicate the issue of whether the observed portion of the "Belly" movie rises to the level of pornography as described by Ms. Schulte or a teacher's right to show the film, due to its content, in an educational setting. Rather, Prinzo readily acknowledges that it is not an appropriate movie to be shown to high school students in class.

Against this backdrop, the Board asserts, in its post-hearing brief, that Prinzo "deviated from the standard of conduct required of him as a teacher at PCTI in that he failed to follow procedure regarding the use of a VCR and video for instructional purposes" and, more particularly, Prinzo "failed to follow the above procedure when he allowed his summer program students to watch the film, Belly." See Post-Hearing Brief on Behalf of Petitioner Passaic County Technical Institute at 9, 10. The Board emphasizes that "[t]he use of videos for instructional purposes is an extremely sensitive topic" and the "VCR/video use policy is primarily a screening process used so that inappropriate material is not shown to students in the classroom." Id. at 9. The Board further contends that Prinzo "failed to supervise his students and further engaged in conduct unbecoming of a teacher in that his students were watching an inappropriate film while under his instruction." Id. at 12. In this regard, it is urged that "a responsible teacher would not have allowed such an R-rated video in the classroom setting," "a responsible teacher would have turned off the videotape after viewing the sex scene" and, "regardless of whether the students had respondent's permission to watch the movie, the Belly videotape should not have been playing in respondent's classroom on August 2, 2000 or on any other day." Id. at 12, 13. The Board avers that "[a]s a teacher, it was respondent's responsibility to be aware of his students' activities" and, "[a]lthough the production classroom is divided into two sections, respondent was nonetheless still held accountable for what his students were doing while under his instruction." Id. at 15.

The gravamen of Prinzo's position is that the "charge relating to an alleged failure to follow the video approval procedure is void" for want of "legally competent proof on which it can be concluded that Prinzo was aware the students were watching the video 'Belly,' let alone gave permission for them to do so." See Post-hearing Brief for Respondent at 52. With respect to the lack of supervision charge, Prinzo argues that "it ill-behooves the Board to assert that because of an administrative determination requiring him to cease the instructional process and to give a tour which resulted in something unfortunate occurring while the tour was going on" he engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher and/or failed to supervise the students. Id. at 53 (emphasis in original).

Based upon a careful review of the entire record, I FIND insufficient credible and legally competent evidence to support a conclusion that Prinzo either gave the students express permission to watch the "Belly" videotape during his class or, with knowledge that this activity was underway, he permitted it to continue. Although the evidence demonstrates the capability of Prinzo to view the television screen from a vantage point within the "blue office" had he looked out the windows (e.g., as he was backing in, exiting the office, etc.), there is a lack of evidentiary support that Prinzo made any such observation. The record is further bereft of sufficient credible evidence to support a conclusion that Prinzo authorized the students to watch the "Belly" videotape or was aware of this activity during the tour or at any other time. No witness testified that they observed Prinzo view any portion of the "Belly" movie while present in the T.V. Production studio or that Prinzo looked out the "blue office" glass windows into the "blue classroom" area. Similarly, no testimony was presented to support a conclusion that the soundtrack of the movie could be heard during the tour or from within the "yellow office" where Prinzo was situated before the tour and at the time of O'Neill's arrival. The undisputed evidence also reveals that no student spoke to Prinzo throughout the entire period of the tour and its participants left without mentioning to Prinzo what they had observed on the television screen. I am unpersuaded that the testimony presented by Schulte and O'Neill as to Prinzo's advice vis-à-vis the students watching "a film" or "a movie" preponderates in favor of the conclusion that Prinzo knew that they were watching "Belly." The phraseology used by Prinzo can reasonably have more than one connotation and it is not necessarily inconsistent with Prinzo's testimony (and advice to the administration shortly after the incident) as to his belief that the students were watching the championship football game.

It is apparent that a critical underpinning of the Board's charges, to the extent that they impute knowledge to Prinzo or a deliberate action on his part, was premised on the belief that Prinzo had been at his desk in the "yellow classroom" within earshot of the large screen television when Bania arrived. For the reasons previously expressed, I FIND that the evidence reveals otherwise. The charges in this regard are also founded to a substantial extent on the unsworn statement allegedly made by the student to DiGise during the course of his investigation on August 2, 2000 which, according to DiGise's testimony, was accompanied by the other student(s) signifying their assent. Apart from the absence of any reference in DiGise's report to the other student(s) nodding, none of the students questioned by DiGise testified at the hearing.

Hearsay evidence is admissible in administrative proceedings and "shall be accorded whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a). However, notwithstanding its admissibility, "some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b). In the words of the New Jersey Supreme Court:

> [A] fact finding or a legal determination cannot be based upon hearsay alone. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal and competent evidence in the record to support it.
> [Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36, 51-52 (1972).]

See Clowes v. Terminex International, Inc. 109 N.J. 575, 599 (1988). In other words, under the residuum rule, I cannot rely solely upon hearsay, such as the student's unsworn statement, to support the charges in this matter. Rather, there must be some legally competent evidence in the record to support the ultimate finding of fact.

Beyond the inability to judge the veracity of the students involved in DiGise's meeting, the reliability of this evidence is highly questionable. The alleged advice emanated after the students were removed from the classroom for questioning by the Assistant Principal and, thus, may have evidenced an attempt to avoid being called to task for the incident. The unreliability of this evidence is also demonstrated by the unequivocal sworn testimony of T.J., coupled with the testimony of Easton as to the significantly different information conveyed to him by the group of students (which included the one who allegedly made the remark to DiGise) the morning after the incident. Simply put, the only legally competent evidence regarding whether Prinzo gave the students permission to watch the movie consists of Prinzo's unwavering denial and T.J.'s corroborative testimony. In this regard, I found Prinzo's detailed recitation of the events during the morning hours of August 2, 2000 persuasive and believable.

The evidence adduced at the hearing gives rise to a reasonable inference that, at some point in time after Prinzo had observed the students engaged in the editing/viewing activity (i.e., between 9:30 a.m. and Schulte's arrival at approximately 9:40 a.m.), the football tape was switched with "Belly." That T.J. did not remember watching the football video on August 2, 2000 (T.J. at TII 110-112) did not, in my view, undermine Prinzo's precise recollection and credible testimony that this activity occurred. As detailed above, T.J.'s testimony raises some doubt as to his ability to recall and relate the events that transpired in the classroom that morning and, given the timeline evidence presented in this case, it is reasonable to conclude that T.J.'s recollection as to the sequence and occurrence of certain events is not accurate.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Board did not sustain its burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that Prinzo failed to follow the video procedure and that the charge of conduct unbecoming a teacher premised on this basis should be DISMISSED. Although Prinzo did not submit a request or obtain approval as to the "Belly" videotape in accordance with "The Use of Video Procedure," this procedure governs situations when a teacher seeks to use a video as part of the instructional process. Notwithstanding the testimony regarding Bania's request for Prinzo's lesson plans, the Board did not introduce any lesson plans or other evidence to establish a pre-planned design on the part of Prinzo to utilize the "Belly" videotape as part of his curriculum. Beyond this, a violation of the video procedure plainly hinges on a teacher permitting, through affirmative action or deliberate inaction, a videotape to be viewed during classroom time. For the reasons detailed, I FIND that the weight of the evidence does not support such a conclusion as to the "Belly" videotape and the credible evidence in the record demonstrates the opposite.

The Board further alleges, however, that Prinzo engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher by failing to properly supervise his students through which Prinzo permitted the inappropriate activity to occur. This charge does not depend on whether Prinzo had knowledge of the activity or gave the students express permission to watch the film. In judging its validity, the evidence elicited concerning the timeline of events is instructive.

As detailed in the Findings of Fact previously made, Prinzo had observed the students at some point between 9:30 a.m. and Schulte's arrival at approximately 9:40 a.m., engaged in the editing/previewing activities. Ms. Schulte arrived at approximately 9:40 a.m. and the portion of the videotape witnessed by her through the "blue office" windows is 12 minutes and 25 seconds from the beginning of the movie. I am unpersuaded by Prinzo's argument that this evidence, coupled with Schulte's testimony regarding the duration of discussions at each location during the tour, proves that the videotape was only viewed by the students after the tour commenced. Schulte's testimony as to the time spent in each section of the classroom represented simply a reasonable estimate by her and the direct evidence from T.J. addressing this issue was that he watched approximately 2 minutes of the movie before leaving with Mr. Iurato. Although the exact moment in time that the students began watching the movie cannot be precisely ascertained, the evidence does lead to a reasonable conclusion that the students engaged in this viewing either immediately before the tour started or shortly after it was in progress. The movie then continued to be viewed by the students for the next approximate 20 minutes until Prinzo was relieved by O'Neill. While at that juncture the students were no longer under Prinzo's charge, this activity continued during a portion of O'Neill's "cover" period and until Bania's appearance at approximately 10:15 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Accordingly, the issue essentially boils down to whether Prinzo failed to properly supervise the students during the period commencing from after the point that Prinzo had checked on the students (between 9:30 a.m. and approximately 9:40 a.m.) and until such time as Prinzo was relieved of his duties by O'Neill (at approximately 10:00 a.m.), and whether any such dereliction rises to the level of conduct unbecoming a teacher warranting disciplinary action.

It is initially observed that this case is markedly distinguishable from a situation where a teacher consciously and deliberately exposes his/her students to inappropriate material. See e.g., In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of William Lee Johnson, 1979 S.L.D. 267 (holding that teacher exhibited unbecoming conduct by allowing his 12th grade class to view a film, which included a scantily-clad female, brought in by a student after the student had described its content and by failing to stop the film when its content became evident and imposing a penalty of loss of 120 days' pay). The instant matter also does not involve unbecoming conduct premised on a teacher physically leaving a classroom unattended. See e.g., In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Alan S. Tenney, 1983 S.L.D. 836 (holding that teacher failed to properly and adequately supervise a student who the teacher placed outside the classroom for disciplinary reasons and also left his classroom unattended for 23 minutes warranting a loss of three months' salary); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Lorraine Sondey, 1975 S.L.D. 652 (teacher charged with leaving her class unattended and unsupervised on approximately 218 occasions); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sally Williams, 1973 S.L.D. 464, aff'd State Board of Education, 1974 S.L.D. 1437, aff'd New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, 1975 S.L.D. 1162 (teacher left classroom unattended and unsupervised).

Although Prinzo did not leave the T.V. Production classroom, his mere physical presence does not per se equate with proper supervision of the students. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Victoria Jakubiak, EDU 3961-97, Initial Decision (December 22, 1998), adopted, Commissioner (February 11, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (finding that respondent left student unattended in an area of the library and substantially unsupervised warranting a forfeiture of one month's pay). See also Black's Law Dictionary 1452 (7th ed. 1999) (defining "supervision" as "[t]he act of managing, directing, or overseeing persons or projects"). The T.V. Production studio is undeniably not the typical classroom setting. Its size and layout do not enable one to observe all parts of the classroom at any given time. However, this does relieve a teacher of his/her duty to properly supervise the students, whether they are situated in the "blue" or "yellow" rooms and irrespective of whether or not the students are believed to be engaged in independent activities, by continually circulating throughout the entire classroom.

Based upon a review of the evidence, I FIND that Prinzo left the three students unattended in the "blue classroom" and substantially unsupervised for an approximate period of 20-30 minutes. The evidence discloses that, subsequent to Prinzo's observation of the students between 9:30 a.m. and 9:40 a.m., he took no meaningful effort before leaving on break (approximately 20-30 minutes later) to supervise the activities of these students. Had he done so, Prinzo would have clearly recognized that the videotape being viewed by them did not involve football. Prinzo's shortcomings in failing to properly oversee, supervise and make himself aware of the activities of the students in his care are not vitiated by the tour. While this activity is a mitigating factor in the equation and appears to have consumed the majority of the time that the students watched the film, it does not discharge Prinzo of his primary responsibilities as a teacher. The conducting of the tour further does not explain the reason why Prinzo plainly did not monitor the students' activities upon Schulte's arrival knowing that his full attention to them would be soon diverted and did not take measures during the tour (i.e., from the "blue office" or the "blue classroom") to observe the students' activities which would have disclosed the content of the videotape playing on the screen. And, after the tour was concluded, Prinzo left the students unattended in the "blue classroom" and substantially unsupervised as evidenced by the continuation of the videotape, notwithstanding that Prinzo had not checked on them for an approximate 20-30 minute period and O'Neill would be essentially monitoring their discipline (versus the instructional activities) for next approximate hour. Simply put, it is clear from a review of the record that for an approximate 20-30 minute period Prinzo took no meaningful actions to make himself aware of what the students were watching on the large screen television and ensure that the students were engaged in appropriate instructional activities.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the Board has proven, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that Prinzo left the three students essentially unattended in the "blue classroom" for an approximate 20-30 minute period and failed to properly supervise the students which, in turn, lead to their viewing of an inappropriate movie during classroom time. I further FIND and CONCLUDE that through these actions Prinzo engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher warranting disciplinary action.

Unquestionably, a teacher holds a sacred position demanding public trust and, as such, they are held to a high standard against which their conduct is to be measured:

> [Teachers] are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment. As one of the most dominant and influential forces in the lives of the children, who are compelled to attend the public schools, the teacher is an enormous force for improving the public weal. Those who teach do so by choice, and in this respect the teaching profession is more than a simple job; it is a calling.

Succinctly stated, Prinzo displayed poor judgment and an indifference to the needs of his students by leaving them unattended and substantially unsupervised in the "blue classroom." This conduct falls short of the high standard of conduct expected of a teacher.

The only remaining issue concerns the appropriate penalty under the circumstances. Focusing on the nature of Prinzo's dereliction on August 2, 2000, the Board seeks his dismissal. Without condoning Prinzo's poor judgment and lack of attentiveness with regard to the students entrusted to his care, I am persuaded that dismissal is an unduly harsh penalty to impose under the circumstances presented. Relevant considerations to be balanced in the equation of whether dismissal or something less is appropriate include the nature and gravity of the teacher's offense, the context in which it arose, the impact on the teacher's career and the harm or injurious effect the conduct "may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system." Fulcomer, supra, 93 N.J. Super. at 421-422.

There are several factors present in this case which mitigate in favor of a penalty less than dismissal. The charge involves a single incident that transpired over a relatively de minimis period of time. Prinzo's actions cannot be said to be "premeditated, cruel or vicious." In re Fulcomer, supra, 93 N.J. at 421. Rather, the record supports a conclusion that Prinzo's actions evidence misguided judgment. I give weight to the fact that Prinzo was at all times physically present in the room and during a substantial portion of this timeframe Prinzo was actively engaged in conducting the tour which undeniably compromised his ability to provide undivided attention and supervision to the students. In addition, the presence of the videotape in the classroom along with its viewing were not precipitated by Prinzo but through the apparent intervening actions of the students (i.e., switching of the videotape). The videotape viewing also did not cease sooner, in part, because the participants on the tour did not make their observations known to Prinzo. And, there is an absence of evidence to support a conclusion that Prinzo's actions had any lasting effect on the operation of the school or the students involved. Based upon a consideration of the totality of the circumstances presented, I CONCLUDE that a loss of salary for a period of thirty (30) days is a reasonable discipline regarding this charge.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the charge of conduct unbecoming a teacher pertaining to the video procedure be and hereby is DISMISSED; that the charge of conduct unbecoming conduct of a teacher relating to respondent's failure to properly supervise the students be and hereby is SUSTAINED; that respondent be reinstated to his tenured teaching position; that respondent be subject to a forfeiture of salary for a period of thirty (30) days; and that respondent be provided remuneration for the period of his suspension with any associated emoluments as dictated by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, except to the extent of the aforesaid thirty (30) day period.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JOSEPH PRINZO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PASSAIC COUNTY TECHNICAL	:	DECISION
INSTITUTE, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

In his exceptions, respondent takes issue with Finding of Fact 55 in the Initial Decision wherein the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) credits student T.J.'s statement that he viewed the videotape "Belly" for approximately two minutes before he left the room with Coach John Iurato. (Respondent's Exceptions at 1) Pointing out that the ALJ stated that she placed limited weight on T.J.'s testimony because of his inability to accurately remember certain particulars about the August 2, 2000 incident, including the number of students in the class, Mr. O'Neill's arrival time and his alleged observation of respondent in the locker room, and given the ALJ's observation on page 31 of the Initial Decision that "'it is reasonable to conclude that TJ's recollection as to the sequence of events and occurrence of certain events is not accurate,"' respondent argues that T.J.'s testimony that he viewed the "Belly" video for two minutes should not be credited in Finding of Fact 55 to establish that the video was first watched between 9:30 a.m. and 9:40 a.m. before the tour for the prospective student commenced. (Id. at 2-3)

Respondent alleges that the only competent direct evidence dictates that the "Belly" film could not have been viewed before the tour began because the portion of the video that Guidance Counselor Elizabeth Schultz identified as seeing at the end of the tour occurs at 12 minutes, 25 seconds into the video and the testimony establishes that the tour lasted between 13-16 minutes. Thus, respondent argues that it is improper to draw the inference that respondent improperly supervised his students prior to the start of the tour. (Id. at 4) In further support of his contention that the ALJ erred in Finding of Fact 55, respondent points to the ALJ's comments on page 32 of the Initial Decision wherein she states that it is reasonable to conclude that the viewing of the film occurred either shortly before or shortly after the tour began. (Ibid.)

Respondent also objects to the ALJ's conclusion that he failed to properly supervise his students following the tour. Respondent maintains that the students in his class were well disciplined and that he wasn't concerned about what the students were doing after he completed the tour because he assumed they could work independently following their regular routine of editing portions of the football film. (Id. at 5) Respondent also notes that at no time during the tour did the prospective student, the parent or Ms. Schulte mention that they observed anything inappropriate on the screen. (Ibid.) Respondent also underscores the fact that the teacher relieving him, Mathematics Teacher Mark O'Neill, actually watched the movie with the students, and that the District does not have a policy restricting tours by potential students and their parents to times when the instructional process is not underway. (Ibid.)

Respondent submits that the size and the layout of the production studio prohibits any one person from being able to observe the whole area at any one time and that the Board bears some responsibility in what occurred because respondent was operating under an administrative directive to conduct the tour during an instructional session and Ms. Schulte failed to immediately inform respondent about what she saw on the screen so that he could put a stop to it. (Id. at 6-7) Respondent also takes issue with the manner in which the Board conducted the investigation of the incident, averring that Superintendent Lobosco acknowledged that she was unaware of what Mr. O'Neill knew about the incident until he was called as a witness because Mr. O'Neill had never been interviewed. (Id. at 7)

Finally, respondent argues that it is unfair that he is subjected to the loss of a month's pay when other staff members whose actions or inactions directly contributed to what occurred are permitted to "simply walk away." (Id. at 8) Respondent, therefore, asks that the charges against him be dismissed in their entirety, or in the alternative, that a non-pecuniary penalty be imposed, such as placing a letter in respondent's file warning him that if future acts of a similar nature occur, respondent will be subject to dismissal and/or reduction in salary. (Id. at 9-10)

In its reply, the Board urges the Commissioner to accept the ALJ's findings of fact as they relate to the sequence of events, arguing that regardless of when the students started watching the "Belly" video, the students were in respondent's class and under his care at the time. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1-2) The Board also takes issue with respondent's claim that he is a scapegoat and that a flawed administrative policy permitting tours during instructional time and other staff members' actions or inactions are to blame for this incident, arguing that this is respondent's attempt to try to shift blame for what was clearly respondent's responsibility. (Id. at 4) The Board, therefore, requests that the Commissioner affirm the Initial Decision in its entirety and assess the penalty of 30 days loss of pay. (Id. at 5)

Having conducted a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, including the hearing transcripts and the arguments advanced by the parties, the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the credibility determinations and factual findings rendered by the ALJ. The Commissioner is satisfied, based upon the record before him, that the ALJ appropriately measured the plausibility of content in deciding the credibility of witnesses and the proper weight to assign to testimony in reaching her factual findings and conclusions.

Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs that the Board has sustained its burden of proving that respondent is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher for failure to properly supervise his students during a 20-30 minute period of time by a preponderance of credible evidence.

As to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner finds it necessary to balance the totality of the record herein with the need to stress most emphatically on respondent the seriousness of his conduct and his need to properly supervise the students under his care. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, in view of all the circumstances in this matter, the extreme penalty of loss of tenured employment is not warranted. However, the Commissioner also agrees that respondent's lack of supervision of his students is a serious infraction deserving an appropriately severe penalty. The Commissioner, therefore, concurs with the penalty crafted by the ALJ.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision in this matter is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

(EDU 6843-00 ON REMAND)

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DR. ROBERT H. MANN, ASBURY PARK SCHOOL DISTRICT

Nicholas Celso, III, Esq., for petitioner (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

James E. Collins, Esq., for respondent (Cerrato, Dawes, Collins, Saker & Brown, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 6, 2001 Decided: July 5, 2001

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

This matter is returned for revision of the agreement entered into by the parties. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

The Commissioner of Education appropriately notes his duty to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certificate(s) where loss of tenure or dismissal results from inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. Just as important for today's purposes in the Commissioner's observation that a board's decision to certify tenure charges leads to the dedication of significant administrative resources. That clearly is true of this case.

Nevertheless, the record herein shows a clash of leadership styles more than anything else. Under these circumstances, it may fairly be said that the charges were intemperately preferred. Yet, even if that were not so, the sound public policy of the State favors settlements and they are to be effected where possible. In determining whether complained of conduct is indeed causally connected to a harm so as to justify the imposition of some sort of liability, overall fairness and sound public policy must be considered. Brown v. United States Stove Co., 98 N.J. 155, 173 (1984). Such a balancing here strongly preponderates in favor of approving the revised settlement herein and allowing the parties to go their separate ways.

The parties have carefully redrafted the agreement, particularly the third acknowledgement. I am satisfied that, under the circumstances and especially recognizing problems of proof because so much of what was presented is lay opinion, the parties have done their best. They recognize the difficulties each party faces and want to end the matter. They should be permitted to. I FIND that the submitted settlement agreement has been voluntarily agreed to and fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded. The parties have waived the right to file exceptions hereto.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND AGREEMENT

THIS STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND AGREEMENT, made this day of , 2001, by and between Asbury Park Board of Education, whose principle place of business is 407 Lake Avenue, Asbury Park, New Jersey 07712 and Dr. Robert Mann (hereinafter "Dr. Mann"), whose address is 110 Tanya Circle, Ocean, New Jersey 07712 if as follows:

RECITALS

WHEREAS, Asbury Park Board of Education is a public school district, which school district has been designated as an "ABBOTT" district and is required to comply with the rules and regulations as codified in NJSA 18A et seq and NJAC 16:9A entitled "ABBOTT Regulations" as well as all laws governing public schools as delineated in the State and Federal Codes; and

WHEREAS, Asbury Park Board of Education has a staff of approximately 600 and a student body of approximately 3700; and

WHEREAS, the district has three elementary schools (Bangs Avenue, Thurgood Marshall and Bradley), one middle school and one high school as well as the Goody School, the Pre-School Center, the Adult Learning Center and the Computer Center; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Robert Mann had been an educator and/or Administrator employed by the Asbury Park Board of Education since July 1, 1970; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Mann obtained tenure as the Assistant Superintendent of Asbury Park Board of Education in or around July 2, 1996; and

WHEREAS, On October 19, 1997 Dr. Mann was named Superintendent of Asbury Park School District; and

WHEREAS, on or about June 25, 1998 Dr. Mann entered into a contract with the Asbury Park Board of Education wherein Dr. Mann would be employed as Superintendent for a period of five years; and

My Commission Expires 04-17-02

WHEREAS, on or about November 2, 1999 the Asbury Park Board of Education authorized the Board Attorney to certify tenure charges against Dr. Mann; and

WHEREAS, the said tenure charges were filed with the Commissioner of Education on November 3, 1999; and

WHEREAS, the said tenure charges alleged that Dr. Mann failed to faithfully perform his duties and obligations as Superintendent, that he failed to keep the Board fully informed of all Administrative actions, that he failed to appropriately address issues surrounding student athletic eligibility, that he failed to address the State's Corrective Action Plan, that failed to advise the Board of the need to update the policy manual, that he failed to address state requirements for special education, that he failed to assign staff so as to achieve maximum effectiveness, and that he failed to ascertain that all teachers were properly certified; and

WHEREAS, the attorney for the Petitioner Asbury Park Board of Education forwarded all discovery requests to Respondent's attorney; and

WHEREAS, trial commenced in front of the Honorable Bruce R. Campbell, Administrative Law Judge, in May 2000; and

WHEREAS, the trial continued for four days during which time Petitioner called the Board President, the Board Vice President, and numerous Board Members to testify; and

WHEREAS, the Petitioner also called Dr. Vito Gagliatti, Mr. Gerald O'Malley, Mr. Francis McGorty, Mr. Angelo Rizzo and Dr. Guy Barabto who were special monitors from the Office of Commissioner of Education; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner and Respondent submitted over one hundred evidentiary exhibits; and

WHEREAS, after four days of trial that included testimony from state monitors and Board Members as well as cross examination of the aforesaid witnesses, it was acknowledged by the Petitioner and Respondent the following:

1. The testimony and evidence exhibits indicated that facts set forth in the tenure charges could not be provable.

2. All parties thereafter agreed that even though the charges could not be provable and it would be in the best interest of the students and citizens of Asbury Park as well as the Superintendent to allow the said Superintendent to resign from his position in consideration of the Asbury Park Board of Education making the payment of certain monies subsequent to the approval of the Court and Commissioner of Education and as set forth in detail hereinbelow.

3. The Petitioner and Respondent have been represented throughout these proceedings by counsel and have been informed of their rights and responsibilities. Accordingly both parties enter into this Agreement with the full and complete knowledge and understanding of their respective rights and responsibilities. Additionally, Dr. Mann has been advised by counsel as to the provisions of NJAC 6:11-3.6. However, it is the opinion of Respondent's attorney that the aforesaid New Jersey Administrative Code provision does not apply to the within matter since the Petitioner acknowledged that it could not meet it's burden of proof and the Respondent elected to resign as a opposed to an adverse finding concerning the loss of tenure or dismissal of Respondent as specifically required in NJAC 6:11-3.6.

NOW, THEREFORE, based upon the representations and covenants contained herein, the parties agree as follows:

a. Dr. Mann resigned from his position as Superintendent effective June 30, 2000.

b. The Asbury Park Board of Education agrees to pay to Dr. Mann the sum of $310,000.00 distributed as follows:

$50,000.00, to be paid upon approval of the within Agreement for services previously rendered by Dr. Mann during the September 1999-June 2000 school year.

The sum of $260,000.00 to be paid in annual installments of $130,000.00. The first installment to be made within 30 days of approval by the Court and the Commissioner of Education of the within settlement and the remaining $130,000.00 to be paid on or before August 15, 2001.

c. The Asbury Park Board of Education and Dr. Mann acknowledge that the sum of $310,000.00 represents a compromise settlement of the contractual obligation existing between the parties and is further acceptable to both parties under the terms and conditions of the Superintendent's contract, past practice and policies of the District with regard to the severance of employment relationships with employees, including sick and vacation days; and the annuity provision of his contract.

d. The parties voluntarily entered into this agreement in good faith to resolve this matter and have been continuously represented by counsel.

e. The Asbury Park Board of Education additionally has paid counsel fees of $40,000.00 to James E. Collins. This payment having been made pursuant to the receipt of an invoice for services by Asbury Park Board of Education.

f. The terms and conditions set forth immediately hereinabove had been approved by the Asbury Park Board of Education on Thursday May 18, 2000.

This matter involves an appeal by petitioner D.W., on behalf of S.G., from a residency determination by respondent Board of Education of the Township of West Orange. The Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on April 20, 2001, it was filed for expedited hearing and determination as a contested case. Subsequent to the assignment of the matter to the undersigned on May 4, 2001, a hearing was scheduled for June 20, 2001. The parties appeared on June 20, 2001 and the hearing was adjourned to provide the parties additional time to finalize an amicable resolution of the matter. The parties reached a settlement and, thereafter, submitted the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of agreement which the undersigned received on June 29, 2001. Having reviewed the record and the terms of settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

The parties having amicably adjusted the differences between them, it is hereby stipulated as follows:

1. Petitioner withdraws her petition of appeal.

2. Respondent withdraws its counterclaim for tuition charges.

3. S.G., based on a custody order obtained by petitioner, is eligible to attend school in respondent's district, provided that petitioner and S.G. continue to meet the school residency requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, et seq.

4. Petitioner agrees to pay respondent the sum of $2,000 for back tuition charges. Payment shall be made in eight (8) monthly installments of $250. The first installment is due July 1, 2001 and the succeeding installments will be due on the first day of each month thereafter. If petitioner defaults on any of the payments, respondent shall be entitled to the entire tuition from the date S.G. began attending school in West Orange to the date custody was obtained by petitioner, less any payments made.

5. This settlement is subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education. If the Commissioner rejects this settlement, any tuition payments made by petitioner shall be refunded by respondent.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners challenged the Board's handling of two separate incidents involving threats made by students against teaching staff members pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2, arguing that a suspension/expulsion hearing should have been held before the Board of Education in each matter. In each case, the school's administration imposed penalties and did not schedule suspension/expulsion hearings before the Board of Education.

The ALJ permitted petitioners to amend both petitions to assert claims pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, and concluded that the superintendent was required to place both incidents before the Board for suspension/expulsion hearings because the conduct underlying each incident constituted an assault. The ALJ recommended remanding both matters to the Board for suspension/expulsion hearings.

The Commissioner reversed the decision of the ALJ and dismissed the petitions. The Commissioner determined that the district superintendent's decisions not to schedule suspension/expulsion hearings before the Board in each case were not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Commissioner noted that district administrators, at the time the incidents occurred, determined that these matters fell within the purview of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 and, thus, a suspension/expulsion hearing was not required. In addition, petitioners did not allege that the incidents fell within N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 at the time the incidents occurred, nor did they make written allegations of assault as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(b), nor seek a review of the administrators' determinations within the 30-day time frame for conducting suspension/expulsion hearings before a board set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1. As such, the Commissioner determined that the decision to proceed in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 in each case and the measured and reasoned penalties imposed therein, were not arbitrary and capricious, and did not constitute an abuse of the Board's discretion and authority.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE,

David L. Rosenberg, Esq., on behalf of petitioners (Klausner, Hunter and Rosenberg, attorneys)

James T. Hundley, Esq., on behalf of respondent (Hundley and Parry, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 18, 2001 Decided: May 18, 2001

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of separate incidents in which Christine Knight and Ernest Rizzitello, teachers, were threatened by two students. The teachers and their collective bargaining unit sought review before the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A.

18A:6-9 and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. The Board filed a motion to dismiss for lack of standing and petitioners have cross-motioned for a decision remanding the matter to the Board for hearing.

The facts for purposes of the motions are undisputed. During the 1999-00 school year B.S. was assigned to Christine Knight's fourth-grade class. On March 7, 2000, the school nurse reported overhearing B.S. say to another student "I'm going to kill my teacher with my father's gun – word is bond." The information was reported to the administration and an investigation followed. B.S. was suspended for four days and required to attend anger management therapy sessions. He returned to school and to Ms. Knight's class on March 14, 2000, after being required to apologize to her.

H.B. is enrolled in respondent's high school and during the 1999-00 school year was assigned to Mr. Rizzitello's math and homeroom classes at the middle school. On March 2, 2000, H.B. was disruptive and Mr. Rizzitello instructed him a few times to quiet down. Mr. Rizzitello then asked H.B. to stay after class to discuss his behavior. After class H.B. was not receptive to dialogue. He used profanity and approached Mr. Rizzitello menacingly, threatening to punch him in the face. The matter was reported to the administration and H.B. was sent home pending a parent conference. A conference was held on March 6, 2000, and H.B. was suspended for five days. Upon his return H.B. was transferred from Mr. Rizzitello's classes and was required to undergo anger management counseling. This is the substance of the record.

The Board argues that it enjoys wide policymaking discretion, Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960), which extends by statute to disciplinary matters, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2. While affected students may challenge such decisions, Tibbs v. Board of Education of the Township of Franklin, 59 N.J. 506 (1971), a teacher and his/her union may not. This is the general rule, but circumstances here compel a different result.

Our courts bar persons with ephemeral interests from pursuing litigation, but otherwise construe standing liberally so that parties with a sufficient stake and adverseness can go forward. Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp. of New York, 58 N.J. 98 (1971); New Jersey Chamber of Commerce v. New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Comm'n, 82 N.J. 57 (1980). Ms. Knight and Mr. Rizzitello are not mere intermeddlers; they were personally threatened and in one way or another were likely to come into contact with these students again. In Ms. Knight's case, B.S. was returned to her class. This distinguishes these two teachers from all other school personnel with a generalized interest in school safety. No case has been cited by petitioners in the administrative context granting standing per se to victims. Such a step raises important policy considerations and I take note of the fact that in the criminal law victims are gaining increasing rights of participation. State v. Muhammad, 145 N.J. 23 (1996); State in the Interest of K.P., 311 N.J. Super. 123 (Ch. Div. 1997).

Standing here, however, need not rest on the nascent rights of victims. The facts sound in simple assault. N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1 defines assault to include putting another in fear of imminent serious bodily injury. In such cases N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 requires immediate suspension "pending suspension or expulsion proceedings before the local board of education."[1] This statutory section supplements the general provisions for discipline in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2, where the Board is more free to proceed as it chooses. In assault cases a hearing before the Board is mandatory, presumably because this class of offense is generally serious and deserves a higher profile. No such hearing was conducted. Unless Ms. Knight and Mr. Rizzitello are given sufficient standing to seek a remand the broad public interest in having the Board act lawfully cannot be served. A long line of cases supports standing in such circumstances. See Elizabeth Fed. Sav. and Loan Ass'n v. Howell, 24 N.J. 488 (1957); Associates in Radiation v. Siegel, 272 N.J. Super. 208 (App. Div. 1994); see also 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 7.4 (Steven L. Lefelt, Anthony Miragliotta & Patricia Prunty) (2d ed. 2000).

It is not necessary to decide whether the union also has standing.

Based on the foregoing it is ordered that this matter be returned to the Board for a disciplinary hearing.

[1] In their response to the Board's motion, petitioners sought to amend their complaint to include the allegation that this section was violated. The Board did not oppose this application, although counsel represented during a telephone conference that no hearing was held below because petitioners did not raise the assault charge until now. The motion is granted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and petitioners' reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

In its exceptions, the Board avers that the stipulated facts do not establish that Petitioner Knight was assaulted within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(a)(3) because she was not present when her fourth-grade student stated to another pupil, "I'm going to kill my teacher with my father's gun – word is bond," and, moreover, the student was not in possession of a weapon. Noting that N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1 states that a person is guilty of simple assault if that person "'attempts by physical menace to put another in fear of imminent serious bodily injury' [Emphasis added]," the Board asserts that there is no evidence that the student directed physical menace toward Petitioner Knight because she only learned of the student's statement through the school nurse and there was no showing that the student ever intended that she should learn of the remark. (Board's Exceptions at 4, 5)

With respect to the incident involving another student and Petitioner Rizzitello, wherein the student engaged in a verbal confrontation, threw a brush to the floor and threatened to punch Rizzitello in the face, the Board notes that there are no allegations that the student made physical contact with Rizzitello or caused him bodily harm (Id. at 6) The Board also contends that the threat to punch Rizzitello in the face does not establish that he was placed "in fear of imminent serious bodily injury" as required by the statute. (Ibid.) In support of this argument, the Board points to N.J.S.A. 2C:11-1(b), which defines serious bodily injury as follows:

> "Serious bodily injury" means bodily injury which creates a substantial risk of death or which causes serious, permanent disfigurement, or protracted loss or impairment of the function of any bodily member or organ. (Id. at 6-7)

In reply, petitioners maintain, inter alia, that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) legal analysis was correct and that both of the students committed simple assault by attempting, by physical menace, to put their teachers in fear of imminent serious bodily injury, thus requiring the initiation of expulsion proceedings against these two students pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1. (Petitioners' Reply at 3) Petitioners further posit that the Board has cited no case law in support of its contention that there must be actual physical contact to put another in fear of imminent serious bodily injury by physical menace. (Ibid.) Citing the definitions for

"physical" and "menace" in Black's Law Dictionary, petitioners also assert that incidents such as those herein where a student threatened to kill his teacher with his father's gun and where a student threatened to punch his teacher in the face would cause any reasonable person to fear imminent serious bodily injury. (Id. at 3-4)

Moreover, petitioners proffer that the "Legislature has gone out of its way to provide extra protection to school personnel," noting that N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1 was amended in 1979 to provide that a person committing simple assault under N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(a)(1), (2) or (3) is guilty of aggravated assault if committed upon a school board member or any employee of the school board while those individuals are engaged in the performance of their school duties. (Id. at 4) Petitioners also argue that, prior to the filing of its exceptions, the Board had not submitted any legal arguments with respect to whether the students committed simple assault and, therefore, should not be permitted to first raise the issue of whether the students' conduct constituted simple assault under the statutes in its exceptions to the Initial Decision. (Id. at 5) Finally, pointing to their Brief in Opposition to Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision and N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, petitioners assert that Petitioners Knight and Rizzitello and the Neptune Township Education Association have standing in the instant matter. (Id. at 5)

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner, for the reasons set forth below, cannot accept the recommended decision of the ALJ.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that petitioners filed a challenge to the Board's actions in two incidents involving students and teachers, alleging that the Board's refusal to initiate expulsion hearings under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 in these two consolidated cases was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable. Neither petition alleged that the individual teacher had been assaulted so as to trigger proceedings under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1. As an Affirmative

Defense, the Board, in its Answer in the Rizzitello matter stated that it was not required to institute suspension or expulsion proceedings because petitioner did not allege that the pupil's actions constituted an assault upon petitioner within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1. (Board's Answer in Rizzitello at 3-4) In a footnote in their Brief in Opposition to Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision, filed approximately one year later, petitioners sought to amend each petition to allege a violation of both N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 and N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1. (Brief in Opposition to Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision at 4, Footnote 1) The ALJ granted the Motion to Amend the Petition by footnote in the Initial Decision. (Initial Decision at 3, Footnote 1)

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(a) requires that any pupil who commits an assault, as defined in N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1, on a teacher, administrator, board member or other board employee, shall be immediately suspended from school consistent with procedural due process pending suspension or expulsion proceedings before the board of education. In the instant matters, however, the Board argues that the facts fail to establish that criminal assaults were committed by the two students at issue, and that, therefore, the school administration in each instance, although recognizing the two incidents as serious, proceeded with disciplinary measures pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2. (Board's Exceptions at 4 and 8) The record supports the Board's contention that the school's administrators, after interviewing the students and teachers involved, did not believe that these students had attempted, by physical menace, to put the respective teachers in fear of imminent serious bodily injury, and, therefore, they did not consider these incidents to be assaults within the intendment of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1.

Of particular note, in the Rizzitello matter, Petitioner Rizzitello was given an assault form to fill out, which might lead one to believe that either Rizzitello had raised the issue or the principal was giving Rizzitello an opportunity to assert such a claim. However, as of March 6, 2000, the principal notes that petitioner had not filed a complaint and there is nothing in the record to demonstrate that it was ever filed. (Board's Exceptions, Exhibit C, Exhibit 2 attached thereto) The superintendent's letter to Petitioner Rizzitello confirms that the superintendent's review of the incident led to a conclusion that a suspension or expulsion hearing was discretionary, not required, as it would be if determined to be an assault under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(a). (Id. at Exhibit 4) The superintendent reported to Petitioner Rizzitello the actions that were being taken in response to the verbal confrontation and responded to the Association's request for an expulsion hearing by stating, in pertinent part:

> I have carefully reviewed the conduct of H.B. as well as the actions taken by Principal Lampinen, which included the following:
>
> - Five day suspension and parent conference.
> - Removable (sic) of pupil from your math and homeroom.
> - Referral to counseling for Anger Management Program.
> - Reassignment of pupil or yourself to alternate lunch period site as of 5/1/00.
>
> I view the incident as serious and am requesting the Child Study Team to further investigate and assess the educational and emotional profile of the pupil. We have requested a CST evaluation in this case and issued an administrative letter to the parent insisting upon the need for a CST evaluation, along with my discussion at the Superintendent's level to underscore the seriousness of H.B.'s verbal interaction with you.
>
> Your Association's request for an expulsion hearing in this case is viewed as not in keeping with the progressive discipline and social service approach that we feel will correct H.B's deportment now and in the future. (Ibid.)

The State Board recently adopted N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.7, specifying the procedures to be followed, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, when a student commits an assault. Although not controlling in this matter, this regulation is instructive in the implementation of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, and, thus, provides guidance for deciding the issues herein. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.7 requires that any pupil who commits an assault, as defined in N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1, on a teacher, administrator, board member or other board employee, shall be immediately suspended from school consistent with procedural due process pending suspension or expulsion proceedings, which must take place before the board of education within 30 calendar days. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.7(c) further identifies the principal or his or her designee as the responsible party to immediately remove the student, report the removal to the chief school administrator and notify the parent of the removal action and the student's due process rights. Therefore, under N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.7(c), it is the principal, or his or her designee, who must make an initial assessment with respect to whether an assault has occurred.

There is nothing in the record indicating that the principals at the two schools where these incidents occurred deemed the pupils' actions to constitute assaults as defined in N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1, which would have required that they act in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(a). Additionally, the superintendent's actions reflect that he, too, did not deem the actions to be assaults as defined in N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1 because, upon assessment of the situations, he concluded that suspension or expulsion hearings were not required, as would be the case were the incidents determined to be assaults. Moreover, as noted above, the Petitions of Appeal did not allege that petitioners had been assaulted.

Petitioners were put on notice that the District had determined that these incidents were not assaults when: (1) the students were not immediately suspended pending a hearing before the Board; and (2) neither a suspension nor an expulsion hearing was scheduled for the students before the Board within 30 days, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(a) when an assault upon a staff member has occurred. If petitioners believed that they had been assaulted, as they now claim, nothing precluded petitioners from making written allegations of alleged assaults pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(b), thereby triggering mandatory reporting by the principal to the superintendent, who must then report allegations of assault to the Board. Petitioners could also have filed Petitions for Emergent Relief at that juncture, naming the alleged assaulters as party respondents, asserting that these incidents constituted assaults so as to trigger the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(a).

According to the petitions, the Neptune Township Education Association (NTEA) was advised through the superintendent that the Board would not conduct expulsion hearings for the students involved in these incidents. (Knight Petition at 2-3, and Rizzitello Petition at 3) The Commissioner is unable to determine whether the NTEA requested expulsion hearings alleging assaults, as prescribed by N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(b), because those communications are not part of the record. However, assuming arguendo, that allegations of assaults were reported by NTEA pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(b), a board is not required to hold suspension or expulsion hearings upon receipt of such allegations. See N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(b), which reads as follows:

> Whenever a teacher, administrator, board member, other employee of a board of education or a labor representative on behalf of an employee makes a allegation in writing that the board member or employee has been assaulted by a pupil, the principal shall file a written report of the alleged assault with the district's superintendent of schools. The superintendent to whom the alleged assault is reported or, if there is no superintendent in the district, the principal who received the allegation from the board member, employee, or labor representative shall report the alleged assault to the board of education of the district at its next regular meeting; provided that the name of the pupil who allegedly committed the assault, although it may be disclosed to the members of the board of education, shall be kept confidential at the public board of education meeting. (emphasis added)

In the instant matter, the administration conducted an immediate investigation of the two incidents at issue, determined that these incidents fell within the parameters of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2, not N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, and proceeded to assess punishment and administer corrective action accordingly. Of particular note, petitioners herein did not allege that these incidents fell within the parameters of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, so as to require expulsion or suspension hearings, until a year after the incidents occurred.[1] Moreover, there is nothing in the record to indicate that petitioners made an allegation in writing that an alleged assault had occurred in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(b) upon learning that the Board was not going to conduct expulsion or suspension hearings. Neither can the Commissioner conclude, upon a thorough review of the undisputed facts presented in this matter, that the Board's assessment that these incidents fell within the parameters of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Therefore, petitioners have not met their burden of proving that the Board acted unreasonably in concluding that these incidents did not fall within the prescriptions of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, but rather within N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.[2]

With respect to petitioners' claim that the Board's failure to initiate expulsion hearings, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2, in these two instances was arbitrary, capricious,

[1] The Commissioner notes that the Petitions of Appeal asserted that the Board's refusal to conduct expulsion hearings under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Petitioners amended their petitions to include a claim that the Board was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 in response to the Board's contention in its Motion for Summary Judgment that it was not required to hold suspension or expulsion hearings because petitioners did not invoke a claim under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1. With the amendment of their petitions, therefore, petitioners asserted claims under both N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 and N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1. In amending their claims, petitioners did not assert, however, that these incidents fell within the prescriptions of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, rather than N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.

[2] In Garrity v. State-operated School District of Paterson, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 567, the Commissioner found that the board failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 when it did not schedule expulsion proceedings for several students who assaulted their teachers. Garrity was decided prior to the effective date of amendments of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1(a) in 1995 and 1997, which changed the language requiring expulsion proceedings for students committing assault to that of requiring suspension or expulsion proceedings, and changed the requirement for a hearing to be held from to within twenty-one days to within thirty days. Garrity also differs from the proceedings herein in that the board in Garrity had compelling reasons to believe that assaults had occurred, substantiated by the fact that the students involved subsequently pled guilty to, or were convicted of, assault.

unreasonable and in violation of that statute, the Commissioner notes that N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 does not require expulsion hearings before the Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 states, in pertinent part:

> Any pupil who is guilty of continued and willful disobedience, or of open defiance of the authority of any teacher or person having authority over him, or of the habitual use of profanity or of obscene language, or who shall cut, deface or otherwise injure any school property, shall be liable to punishment and to suspension or expulsion from school.
>
> Conduct which shall constitute good cause for suspension or expulsion of a pupil guilty of such conduct shall include, but not be limited to, any of the following. (emphasis added)

It is undisputed that, in each instance herein, the administration immediately conducted an investigation of the underlying incident, assessed punishment and administered corrective action. With respect to the incident involving Petitioner Knight, the following steps were taken:

1. Instituted an investigation of the incident;
2. Notified the local police department which also conducted an investigation;
3. Notified the student's parents;
4. Conducted a parent conference;
5. Suspended the student for four days;
6. Principal conducted a conference with the student, his parents, Petitioner Knight and the school nurse;
7. Student was removed form petitioner's fourth grade class and placed in another class for the remainder of the 1999-2000 school year; and
8. Student was referred to a licensed Clinical Psychologist for counseling.

(Answer at 4)

With respect to the incident involving Petitioner Rizzitello, the following steps were taken:

1. Instituted an investigation of the incident;
2. Suspended student for five days;
3. Removed the student from Rizzitello's math and homeroom classes and reassigned lunch period;

4. Conducted a parent conference;
5. Directed that the student receive counseling through the Anger Management Program.

(Answer at 4 and Board's Exceptions, Exhibit C, Exhibit 4 attached thereto)

N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(d) grants a board of education broad discretionary powers to "[p]erform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district." Thus, the Board herein had the discretionary authority to determine the appropriate punishment to be imposed in these two instances. Further, it is well-settled law that when a board acts within its discretionary authority, its decision "is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable." Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966).

The standard of review for determining whether or not a board of education action was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable is narrow in its scope and, consequently, imposes a heavy burden on those who challenge actions of boards of education. The standard defined by the New Jersey Courts states:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis.  Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached.  Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling. (citations omitted) Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't. of Env., N.J., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

In applying this standard to the instant matter, the Commissioner finds and determines that the record does not establish that the Board herein took willful or unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of the circumstances. On the contrary, it shows that the Board acted quickly to investigate the two incidents at issue and determined to punish the students involved, remove the students from the teachers' classes and require the students to attend counseling to deal with the underlying issues surrounding their behavior.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that petitioners have failed to demonstrate that the Board actions were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or contrary to law. The petitions are, therefore, dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 20, 2001

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Klausner and Hunter (Stephen B. Hunter, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Hundley and Parry, P.C. (James T. Hundley, Esq., of Counsel)

The decision of the Commissioner of Education is affirmed substantially for the reasons expressed therein. In so doing, we clarify that the investigation of the incidents at issue and the disciplinary action were undertaken by the district's administrators, rather than by the Board. We stress, in addition, that there is nothing in the record that would indicate that either of the staff members involved were "in fear of imminent serious bodily injury," N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1, so as to require the Board to conduct a suspension/expulsion hearing under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 as the result of an assault.

E.G.P., on behalf of minor child, M.B.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RUTHERFORD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner sought to compel the respondent Board to provide a free public education to her grandson, M.B. The Board contested the petition because petitioner had not demonstrated that her grandson was legally entitled to a free public education in Rutherford. After initial decisions were issued, the case was twice remanded to the OAL for a plenary hearing, the second time based on the Commissioner's determination that testimony from petitioner was essential to a determination of whether M.B. resided with her because of a family or economic hardship and the length of time M.B. resided with E.G.P.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to demonstrate that M.B.'s parents could not support him because of a family or economic hardship, and that M.G. was not entitled to a free public education in Rutherford prior to the date his father resided with him in petitioner's home. The ALJ ordered payment of tuition by petitioner in the amount of $23,234 for the period of M.B.'s attendance at school in the Rutherford schools prior to his father residing with him and petitioner.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ, agreeing that petitioner had failed to demonstrate a family or economic hardship that would entitle M.G. to attend school in Rutherford free of tuition prior to his father residing with him in E.G.P.'s home.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Record Closed: May 21, 2001 Decided: July 2, 2001

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is a further remand of OAL Docket Nos. EDU 5562-97 and EDU 1162-99. The instant remand is a result of the Commissioner of Education's (Commissioner) January 24, 2000 decision and the State Board of Education's decision of July 5, 2000 that remanded this matter for further hearing. A plenary hearing was held on February 28, 2001 at the Waterview Center, an elder care facility in Cedar Grove, New Jersey. At this hearing, the petitioner presented testimony. The respondent did not present additional testimony but did submit a letter brief on March 7, 2001. The petitioner filed a letter brief on May 21, 2001 at which time the record closed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The procedural history in this matter is long and laborious. However, it is significant and relevant, thus worthy of consideration.

Briefly, the petitioner, E.G.P., (Petitioner) is the grandmother of M.B., a student in the respondent's, Rutherford Board of Education, (District or respondent) school District. On April 31, 1997, E.G.P. filed an action challenging the respondent's, decision to disenroll her grandson from the district schools, effective April 15, 1997. The decision to disenroll M.B. was based on the District's conclusion that M.B. was not entitled to a free education in the school district. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case. After a prehearing conference, hearing dates were established. In February 1998 petitioner was hospitalized and in an elder care facility for several months. Thus, the parties agree to have the matter decided on the papers. After written submissions were filed an Initial Decision was issued on October 29, 1998 granting the petitioner's cross motion for summary judgment. See I/M/O E.G.P. on behalf of Minor child M.B., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5562-97.

On December 21, 1998, the Commissioner issued a decision that affirmed in part and reversed in part the Initial Decision. The Commissioner found that M.B. was not domiciled in the District with his legal guardian or parents. Further, that petitioner was a domiciliary of Rutherford and that she supported M.B. gratis. However, it was concluded that the issue of whether M.B. had resided with the petitioner since he was three months old was a disputed issue.[1] Thus, the Commissioner found the matter to be inappropriate for summary disposition and ordered that a plenary hearing be held to determine:

1. The length of time that M.B. lived with the petitioner;

2. Whether an economic or family hardship existed so as to render M.B.'s parents incapable of caring for and supporting him; and

3. The Board's annual per pupil cost for the grades and school years at issue.

Petitioner appealed the Commissioner's decision to the State Board of Education. Remand hearings were scheduled for March 8 and 10, 1999. On March 8, 1999, the respondent was present for the remand hearing. However, the petitioner did not appear but telephoned my chambers to advise that she would not be appearing due to her appeal. Over the objection of the District, the hearings were adjourned pending the decision with the State Board of Education. On June 2, 1999, the State Board affirmed the decision of the Commissioner of Education. Remand hearings were rescheduled for October 19th and October 20, 1999.

On October 12, 1999, petitioner filed a letter advising that she was ill, thus unable to attend the remand hearings. She requested that the hearings proceed based on the documents that she had previously submitted. Respondent opposed this request stating that it would be inappropriate to proceed if the petitioner would not be present to give testimony on the contested issues. The respondent appeared for the hearing on October 20, 1999 and there was no appearance by the petitioner. Respondent moved to dismiss the case for petitioner's failure to prosecute. This motion was denied. Respondent also objected to any consideration of any documents submitted by petitioner since it could not be cross examined. The hearing proceeded wherein respondent presented the testimony of Hazel E. Ralph, Margaret Vaccarino, Danielle Sabato and Steve Albin, Administrative Assistant to the Principal.

[1] The Board asserted that M.B. had only resided with the petitioner when he became of school age.

An initial decision was issued on December 6, 1999 wherein it was found that the petitioner was not M.B.'s legal guardian and that he was not domiciled in Rutherford. Further, that the record was barren of any evidence of an economic or family hardship, that would prevent M.B.'s parents from being able to care for him. Thus, it was concluded that M.B.'s domicile is with his parents and the petitioner was assessed tuition in the amount $28,798.82.

On January 24, 2000, the Commissioner issued a decision finding that the petitioner's testimony was essential to resolve the material facts in the case. Further, that the matter should not be dismissed for failure to prosecute and that the delays in this case were not deliberately caused by petitioner. Finally, the Commissioner found that measures could have been taken by the respondent or the Court to elicit the testimony needed to present petitioner's case rather than to proceed without her. Consequently, the Commissioner reversed the findings in the initial decision and remanded the matter for another remand hearing.

The respondent filed an appeal with the State Board of Education on or about February 22, 2000. On July 7, 2000, the State Board issued a decision remanding the matter to the OAL. By letter dated November 13, 2000, the State Board advised that the matter was being transmitted and it was accepted and docketed at the OAL on November 22, 2000. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on November 29, 2000. A prehearing conference was scheduled for January 17, 2001. By letters of January 12, 2000 and February 21, 2001, petitioner requested an adjournment until such time that she was released from the Waterview elder care facility. In said letter, petitioner expressly refused to allow anyone, e.g. M.B.'s parents, to replace her in these proceedings. Petitioner also made several calls to my chambers regarding the scheduling of this matter. At my request a social worker at the Waterview Center advised the undersigned that the petitioner was physically able to attend a hearing at the nursing home. Thus, on February 16, an Order was entered wherein a field hearing was ordered at the nursing home for February 28, 2001. (See attached Order). Petitioner was advised that she could have witnesses present to testify. Indeed, it was urged that M.B.'s parents be present to give testimony as to why their son resides with the petitioner.

On February 28, 2001, a hearing was held at the Waterview Center. The petitioner was the sole witness. At the conclusion of the hearing, the parties were allowed to submit their closing statements in writing. The respondent filed a statement on March 9. On May 3, petitioner was advised that her statement had not been received and if not filed by May 21, 2001 a decision would be rendered without it. Petitioner filed a written statement on May 21, 2001, at which time the record closed.

TESTIMONY

E.G.P. testified that M.B. came to live with her and her husband (Mr. P.) when he was three months old. Her husband died in 1994. Prior to his death, Mr. P. had a heart attack and the baby, (M.B.) helped his health. The two bonded very well and M.B. gave Mr. P. a new reason for living. M.B. was claimed as a dependent on their income tax returns. While petitioner cannot recall the exact year that M.B. initially declared a dependent, she was certain that he was listed as a dependent when he attended the Slyvan School in Rutherford. During this time, she worked full time at the Rutherford Municipal Court as a Deputy Court Clerk.

Petitioner recalls meeting a Mrs. Carrie, M.B. second grade teacher. She also attended PTA meetings, until she was hospitalized in 1994. After she had a mastectomy, she had a housekeeper and a home health aide who assisted her. Petitioner is currently suffering from phlebitis and diabetes.

Her daughter works full time for Valley National Bank. Her son-in-law, M.B.'s father, is depressed because his former employer (Hertz) moved from the area. He now works for an Amoco Station in Hackensack. Presently, he takes care of M.B. at her home. Indeed, after her husband died, M.B.'s father would take him out for different activities. M.B. sleeps in his own room and his parents have their own room at her house. Prior to the instant hospitalization, M.B.'s parents resided in Clifton. Petitioner asserts that she does not know the salaries of her daughter and son-in-law. She only knows that M.B. is cared for by all three of them.

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

Based on the testimonial and documentary evidence, I FIND that M.B. has resided with the petitioner since he was three months old. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that he is not living in the District for the sole purpose of attending its schools. The record supports that M.B.'s parents reside in and are domiciled in Clifton and I so FIND. The law is clear that a child's domicile is where his parents reside, thus I CONCLUDE that M.B. is a resident and not a domiciliary of Rutherford.

I FIND that the petitioner is not M.B.'s legal guardian. She has failed to present any legal documents that confers legal guardianship. The fact that M.B. was declared as a dependent for income tax purposes is insufficient.

Having failed to demonstrate that she is M.B.'s legal guardian, petitioner must demonstrate that M.B. resided with her because of the existence of an economic or family hardship that rendered his parents incapable of caring for and supporting him. On this issue, petitioner's testimony at the nursing home is essentially the same as she stated in previous written submissions, that is, that M.B. resides with her as a matter of family choice. He is cared for by the entire family. His father is employed at Amoco in Hackensack after having been downsized from his previous job with Hertz. Mr. B. is depressed as a result of the downsizing. M.B.'s mother is employed by Valley National Bank and takes a vanpool to her job from her home in Clifton.

I FIND that petitioner has failed to demonstrate an economic or a family hardship. There has been no showing that M.B.'s parents are incapable of caring for him. Petitioner has not shed any light on why her grandson lives with her in lieu of living with his parents. Indeed, there has been no participation in this case by M.B.'s parents.

The statute requires the showing of an economic or family hardship. While a hardship need not be financial, it must be real and demonstrable. See J.B. on behalf of her grandchild, R.H. v. BOE Township of Ocean, Monmouth County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8770-95, State Bd. of Ed. For example, hardship can be found where the parents was so uncaring as to have essentially abandoned the child. E.L. and J.L. on behalf of A.H. v. Morris Hills Regional School District, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3172-97. In this case, petitioner has failed to present any demonstrable hardship. She has neither claimed a financial or a family hardship. Indeed, the adjusted income tax returns previously submitted by the petitioner reveals that her income is only $300 greater than M.B.'s parents. Petitioner's unrefuted assertion, I will presume to be true, that M.B. lives with her based on a cultural custom has been deemed insufficient by the Commissioner. In any event, cultural customs do not constitute a hardship. Nor does the lack of child care qualify as a hardship. H.K. and G.K. v. Bd. of Cherry Hill, 1998 S.L.D. ___

I CONCLUDE that the District has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that it is entitled to tuition for the 1996-1997, 1997-1998 and 1998-1999 school years in an amount of $23,234. As noted in the District's written submission, M.B. is and has been living with his father at the petitioner's home for the last two years. Consequently, he is residing with his legal guardian and is entitled to a full education in the District schools for the school year commencing in the 1999-2000 term.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the petitioner shall remit to the District the sum of $23,234 for tuition of M.B. for the 1996-1997, 1997-1998 and 1998-1999 school terms.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RUTHERFORD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that, due to petitioner's failure to make any demonstration as to a family or economic hardship, which necessitated her grandson living with her rather than with his parents, petitioner has failed to satisfy her burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence that, prior to the commencement of the 1999-2000 school year, when M.B.'s legal guardian began living with him in petitioner's home, M.B. was entitled to a free public education in the Rutherford School District.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board a total of $23,234, representing tuition for the 1996-1997, 1997-1998 and 1998-1999 school years. Since M.B. has been residing with his legal guardian in petitioner's home since the 1999-2000 school year, he is entitled to a free public education in the District from that time forward, unless and until this circumstance changes so as to alter his entitlement.

SYNOPSIS

In consolidated matter, the Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against two respondent vice principals for allegedly aiding and abetting the principal of their school, School 17, in failing to hold two fire drills each month as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1 and failure to notify the administration that their school did not hold the requisite number of fire drills (two drills each month within school hours).

The ALJ determined that, in this situation, the duty to conduct fire drills and to file reports was clearly placed on the principal. The ALJ stated, "Even by the most general standards of good conduct, the inaction of the vice principals would not likely affect morale or efficiency by destroying public respect for or confidence in school operations or services." The ALJ concluded that the principal's misconduct should not be thrust upon the vice principals and that, therefore, respondents did not engage in conduct unbecoming a vice principal. Motion for Summary Decision was granted. The ALJ determined that the charges should be dismissed.

The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ's determination that respondent's Motion for Summary Decision could be decided to the extent of ascertaining whether or not respondents were guilty of unbecoming conduct. Moreover, the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ's recitation of the law and citing of the Motley decision on what constitutes unbecoming conduct and he concurred with the ALJ that unbecoming conduct may be based on a failure to act where there is a duty to do so and that "a duty to act is the touchstone for unbecoming conduct based on failure to act." The Commissioner, however, did not agree with the conclusions of law reached by the ALJ that the charge of unbecoming conduct levied against each respondent should be dismissed. The Commissioner determined that, under the facts of this matter, the unbecoming conduct charge rested upon the inaction of the vice principals who have a professional duty to ensure the health, safety and well-being of the students and staff under their care and supervision. The Commissioner emphasized that "[t]he very fact that the law requires fire drills to be conducted at least two times each month in schools underscores the grave importance of such safety drills for ensuring the emergency preparedness of students and staff." Moreover, this duty gave rise to a duty on respondents' part to act on/report the continuous, long-term violations of law in that respondents' failure to act on/report such violations was no less serious than the failure of the principal to hold fire drills, given that the health, safety and well-being of students and staff were seriously jeopardized. The Commissioner further concluded that, under the circumstances of this matter, wherein the health, safety and well-being of students and staff were seriously jeopardized, an undue burden would not have been placed on respondents to act on their knowledge of long-term, continuous violations of safety law and Board regulation, even if one accepts arguendo that respondents did not know if the principal was failing to report noncompliance with the fire drill law. Thus, the Commissioner sustained the charge of unbecoming conduct against respondents. However, because the ALJ dismissed the tenure charges, the record was insufficiently developed to determine either the assignment or mitigation of penalty. Therefore, the Commissioner was compelled to remand this matter to the OAL solely for proceedings as necessary to develop a full and factual record in order that recommendations may be made, as appropriate, with respect to penalty.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Record Closed: May 24, 2001

Decided: July 6, 2001

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

The Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (hereinafter "Board," "School District" or "petitioner") filed charges with the Commissioner of Education against Edward Jackus and Sharon Gaines (hereinafter sometimes "respondents"), both of whom it employs as vice principals. Each respondent faces one count of conduct unbecoming a vice principal.

The charges against the respondents are substantially the same. The charge against Ms. Gaines states as follows:

> Ms. Gaines is guilty of conduct unbecoming a Vice Principal by aiding and abetting the Principal in failing to hold two (2) fire drills per month as required by New Jersey Statutes and the Fire Code. Ms. Gaines had knowledge that the school has failed to hold two (2) fire drills per month as required by Board Policy and New Jersey Law. (Exhibits A and B). Ms. Gaines is aware of the law and Board policy yet did not advise the administration that her school has failed to hold the requisite number of fire drills in her school. (Exhibit C).
> Such conduct establishes Ms. Gaines' unfitness to supervise the education and safety of the children in the Elizabeth schools, violates the public trust placed with Ms. Gaines as a Vice Principal and endangers the physical well being of the students.

Both respondents denied that they engaged in conduct unbecoming a vice principal, and they also raised various affirmative defenses. Most notable among the affirmative defenses, Mr. Jackus asserted that the charge was filed against him in violation of his constitutional rights because of his political activity and constitutes a form of selective prosecution in that other schools had similar violations. Likewise, Ms. Gaines maintains that she was improperly singled out in a situation where there were similar violations at other schools in the district.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The School District filed both charges of conduct unbecoming a vice principal with the Commissioner of Education on January 8, 2001. Mr. Jackus filed an answer on January 25, 2001, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 9, 2001, for determination as a contested case. Ms. Gaines filed an answer on February 8, 2001, and that proceeding was transmitted to the Office on February 16, 2001, for determination as a contested case. The two matters were consolidated by Order dated April 26, 2001.

On April 24, 2001, Ms. Gaines filed a motion for summary decision. On April 26, 2001, Mr. Jackus joined in the motion, and on May 8, 2001, petitioner submitted papers in opposition to the motion. After Ms. Gaines filed a reply on May 17, 2001, an oral argument was conducted on May 24, 2001, concerning the motion for summary decision. It may be noted that on May 24, 2001, the parties also argued the merits of petitioner's motion in limine to exclude evidence intended to prove that similarly situated individuals were treated in a dissimilar manner related to the selective prosecution defense.

MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

a. Legal Standard

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to *R.*4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The movant must show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Id., at 74-75. However, excessive caution which would undercut the purposes of a motion for summary judgment should be avoided. Pierce v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp., 84 N.J. 58, 65 (1980). Thus, if the opposing party offers only facts which are immaterial or insubstantial in nature, this circumstance should not defeat a motion for summary judgment. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. at 75. Although the pleadings may raise a factual issue, summary judgment procedure pierces the allegations in the pleadings, where the other papers show the absence of any genuine issue of material fact. Ibid.

In determining whether there exists a genuine issue as to a material fact, the judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

b. Facts

In support of the motion for summary decision, Ms. Gaines submitted a statement of material facts as to which no genuine dispute exists. The statement contains twenty-eight numbered facts. Mr. Jackus filed a separate statement of material facts as to which no genuine dispute exists. This statement contains twenty-one numbered facts. In its response to the motion, petitioner contends that there are numerous genuine issues of material fact.

Petitioner has demonstrated that there are genuine disputes as to some of the numerous facts asserted by respondents. However, I am satisfied that there is a core of facts as to which there is no genuine dispute in this matter and that the pending motion for summary decision can be decided based thereon. The only fact which requires comment concerns various sources such as statutes and Board policies which petitioner cites as sources of a duty for respondents to act in regard to the fire drills. While the parties differ as to the proper interpretations of these sources, there is no dispute as to what they say. Therefore, there is no need for a hearing with respect to these sources.

The material facts as to which there is no genuine dispute are as follows:

1. During the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school terms, Mr. Jackus served in the capacity of vice principal at the Theodore Roosevelt School (School 17).

2. During that same period of time, Ms. Gaines served in the capacity of vice principal at the Theodore Roosevelt School (School 17).

3. During that same period of time, Jean Cina served as principal at the Theodore Roosevelt School (School 17).

4. A statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1, requires that the principal shall have at least two fire drills each month within school hours.

5. The School District has Fire Drill Regulations, which incorporate N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1 to -4. The Regulations specify additional details and responsibilities. The Regulations state in part as follows:

> FIRE ALARMS:
>
> All members of the faculty, office personnel and maintenance staff shall be acquainted with the location of building fire alarm boxes and instructed in their use. The school principal shall test the fire alarm system regularly as required to ensure it is functioning properly.
>
> . . . .
>
> RESPONSIBILITY:
>
> Responsibility for a fire drill shall be assumed by a designated person in the absence of the principal from the building.
>
> . . . .
>
> It shall be the duty of the principal, his assistants and maintenance staff to see the doors to the furnace room, hallways, fire towers and smoke doors are kept closed at all times. This rule shall apply whether or not the building is occupied. This is a State law requirement.
>
> GENERAL RULES:
>
> . . . .
>
> The State Law requires two fire drills in each calendar school month. During inclement weather students may be advised of a drill and permitted to put on clothing before fire alarm is sounded. It is not required that all fire drills be spontaneous.
>

IMPORTANT:

All principals are to continue to send to this office monthly, the "Emergency Drill Report" indicating compliance with the State Law that required a minimum of two fire drills every month. This office will then report to the Board of Education that all schools are in compliance.

6. Ms. Cina, Mr. Jackus and Ms. Gaines were all aware of the requirement to hold fire drills.

7. During the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school terms, fire drills were not conducted as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1.

8. Ms. Cina, Mr. Jackus and Ms. Gaines were all aware that fire drills were not conducted as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1.

9. The job description for vice principal provides in part as follows:

TITLE:

Assistant House Director/Vice Principal

....

QUALIFICATIONS:

A New Jersey Certificate with the appropriate Principal's endorsement.

....

BASIC FUNCTIONS OF POSITION:

To effectively assist the House Director or principal in the administration and supervision of the educational program within the assigned school.

....

SPECIFIC RESPONSIBILITIES:

Within the approved limits of authority and in compliance with all applicable rules, regulations and policies of the Elizabeth Board of Education and the New Jersey Administrative Code, the Assistant House Director/Vice Principal is responsible for assisting the House Director or Principal in the effective performance of the following:

....

7) Maintenance of the Physical Plant:

b. Determines the needs and develops an efficient program of plant operation.

c. Develops a plan for the orderly growth and improvement of school facilities.

d. Recommends a program of repair, replacement and structural changes when necessary.

e. Supervises the custodial staff.

10) Implements the negotiated agreement between the Elizabeth Board of Education and the Elizabeth Education Association, and the rules, regulations and policies of the Elizabeth Board of Education.

10. In or about June 2000, petitioner began an investigation into the failure to hold fire drills at the Theodore Roosevelt School.

11. Prior to June 2000, Mr. Jackus did not take any action in regard to the failure to hold fire drills at the Theodore Roosevelt School.

12. Prior to June 2000, Ms. Gaines did not take any action in regard to the failure to hold fire drills at the Theodore Roosevelt School.

c. Law and Analysis

The charge against respondents is that they engaged in conduct unbecoming a vice principal in that: (1) they aided and abetted the principal in failing to hold two fire drills each month as required by statute and (2) they did not advise the administration that the school had not held the requisite number of fire drills. At the oral argument, petitioner contended that the expression "aided and abetted" is not a factual assertion but rather a legal term which adds nothing to the charge. However, this phrase appears to be sufficiently central to the charge to require discussion.

The phrase "aid and abet" is usually used in the context of criminal law. "Aid and abet" refers to "all assistance rendered by words, acts, encouragement, support or presence, actual or constructive, to render assistance if necessary." State v. Sullivan, 43 N.J. 209, 236 (1964).

The terms "aiding" and "abetting" are also used in the civil context, e.g., Halberstam v. Welch, 705 *F.*2d 472 (D.C. Cir. 1983) (tort liability for aiding or abetting a wrongful act). In that case, the Court stated that aiding-abetting includes the following elements: "(1) the party whom the defendant aids must perform a wrongful act that causes an injury; (2) the defendant must be generally aware of his role as part of an overall illegal or tortious activity at the time that he provides the assistance; and (3) the defendant must knowingly and substantially assist the principal violation." Id., at 477.

In the context of civil rights, aiding or abetting is prohibited by statute. N.J.S.A. 10:5-12(e). However, the requirement of shared intent which is necessary in the criminal law is not an element of aiding and abetting in the civil context. Failla v. City of Passaic, 146 *F.*3d 149, 157(3rd Cir. 1998). Liability for aiding or abetting requires that one know the other's conduct constitutes a breach of duty and that one gives substantial assistance or encouragement to that conduct. Id., at 158. See also, Shepherd v. Hunterdon Dev. Ctr., 336 N.J. Super. 395, 424-426 (App. Div. 2001).

Inaction can form the basis for aiding and abetting liability under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (NJLAD), N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to -49, if it rises to the level of providing substantial assistance or encouragement. Hurley v. Atlantic City Police Dept., 174 *F.*3d 95, 126 (3rd Cir. 1999). When a supervisor flouts or is deliberately indifferent to a duty to act against harassment, the supervisor may be liable for aiding and abetting. Ibid. Thus, a failure to act in a context in which there was a duty to do so may constitute aiding and abetting. This principle may reasonably be applied in the context of this case.

Unbecoming conduct constitutes grounds for dismissal or reduction in compensation for various school personnel including principals and vice principals in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which provides in pertinent part as follows:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of teacher, principal, other than administrative principal, assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent ... shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause ... .

Unbecoming conduct may be grounds for removal in other types of public employment. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)6. Our Supreme Court addressed the concept of unbecoming conduct in Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998), which involved a situation where an off-duty firefighter directed a racial epithet at an on-duty police officer during a traffic stop. The Court noted that the phrase "unbecoming conduct" is an elastic one that includes any conduct that adversely affects morale or efficiency by destroying "public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services." Id., at 554. A finding of misconduct need not "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dept. of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992).

A charge of unbecoming conduct may be based upon a failure to act where there is a duty to do so. City of Asbury Park v. Department of Civil Service, 17 N.J. 419 (1955). In that case, a police officer was suspended for conduct unbecoming for failure to conduct an investigation despite ample evidence of infractions of the law. The Court stated as follows:

> The fundamental duty of a policeman "from chief of police to patrolman, is to be on the lookout for infractions of the law and to use due diligence in discovering and reporting them, and in a proper case arresting the perpetrator and lodging and prosecuting a proper complaint," [citation omitted.] Id., at 429.

Thus, a duty to act is the touchstone for unbecoming conduct based upon failure to act.

In the school context, failure to act has been found to constitute unbecoming conduct in a variety of situations. For example, where a teacher repeatedly and willfully disregarded directions to conform his conduct to the level expected by staff members, a charge of unbecoming conduct was sustained. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Loria, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 379. Similarly in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Graceffo, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5619-99 (June 19, 2000), affirmed with modifications, Comm'r (September 21, 2000), charges of unbecoming conduct against a vice principal were sustained in a situation where he willfully and repeatedly violated State law and Board policy regarding drug testing of students who were suspected of being under the influence of alcohol or other drugs.

In the situation sub judice, the duty to conduct the prescribed number of fire drills is placed squarely upon the principal by N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1. Similarly, the School District's Fire Drill Regulations, which incorporate N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1, place the responsibility squarely on the principal to file the "Emergency Drill Report" indicating compliance with State law requiring a minimum of two fire drills every month. It may be noted that the principal of the Theodore Roosevelt School (School 17) was subject to tenure charges, which were not consolidated with this proceeding, based upon the failure to hold fire drills and to file proper reports.

With respect to respondents, N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1 does not refer in any way to vice principals. Similarly, the Fire Drill Regulations do not place any specific responsibility on vice principals. In the job description for vice principal, there is no mention of fire drills or a responsibility to report acts or omissions of the principal. Under the circumstances, the vice principals were not under a specific duty to conduct the fire drills or to report the principal's failure to do so. Since the vice principals were not under a duty to act, the failure to act would not rise to the level of providing substantial assistance or encouragement. It follows that respondents did not aid or abet the principal in this case.

The final question is whether in the absence of a specific duty to act the vice principals engaged in conduct unbecoming by failing to uphold an implicit standard of good behavior. One general concern is that a duty of this nature would place a burden on subordinates to report questionable acts or omissions of superiors or risk facing tenure charges. This seems to be an undue burden to place on subordinates.

In this situation, the duty to conduct fire drills and to file reports was clearly placed on the principal. Even by the most general standards of good conduct, the inaction of the vice principals would not likely affect morale or efficiency by destroying public respect for or confidence in school operations or services. Under the circumstances, any possible misconduct by the principal should not be thrust upon the vice principals. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondents did not engage in conduct unbecoming a vice principal and that therefore the charges of conduct unbecoming a vice principal in this matter should be dismissed.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. The motion for summary decision is granted.

2. The charge of conduct unbecoming a vice principal against Edward Jackus is dismissed.

3. The charge of conduct unbecoming a vice principal against Sharon Gaines is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

AND	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:	DECISION
HEARING OF SHARON GAINES,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:
OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in his consolidated tenure charge matter have been reviewed. Petitioner's (Board) exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as were the reply exceptions filed by Respondent Jackus. Respondent Gaines' reply exceptions were untimely filed.[1] Further, it is noted for the record that while the Board recognizes that N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 does not provide for a response to reply exceptions, the Board submitted such a response because it contends that the [1] Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, Respondent Gaines' reply exceptions were due on July 30, 2001. On July 31, 2001, Ms. Gaines' counsel filed reply exceptions via facsimile transmission acknowledging that they were due on July 30 but requesting relaxation of the rule because he "was out of [his] office for a portion of last week." While N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8(a) permits time limits for filing exceptions and replies to be extended for good cause, N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8(b) requires that a request for such extension be submitted no later than the day on which time period for filing is to expire. This did not occur herein. Moreover, that regulation provides that the time period for requesting an extension may only be waived in case of emergency or other unforeseeable circumstances. Because counsel's justification for not filing reply exceptions on or before July 30, 2001 does not meet the requisite criteria for relaxation of the filing time limit, the reply exceptions are deemed to be untimely.

replies filed by respondents do not address the Board's exceptions and, therefore, should have been filed as primary exceptions to the Initial Decision.[2]

Initially, it is noted that the Board's exceptions essentially reiterate and/or recast arguments previously made before and rejected by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ); therefore, the exceptions will only be briefly summarized below.

In its exceptions, the Board argues, inter alia, that the ALJ erred in granting respondents' Motion for Summary Decision because there are numerous issues of material fact to be decided. As to this, the Board urges that the ALJ erred in deciding this matter purely on a legal question as to whether the vice principals could be held responsible for the failure of their school to hold fire drills, when the crux of the charges against respondents is their knowledge of a violation of Board policy and their failure to report and/or correct this violation. The Board vehemently objects to the ALJ's ruling that as a matter of law the tenure charges should be dismissed as respondents cannot be held responsible for fire drills, urging instead that vice principals, in light of their administrative certificates and position, are aware that schools must conduct two fire drills per month. Further, the Board reiterates its assertion that respondents failed to ensure that the school followed this rule of law and Board regulation and, therefore, are guilty of unbecoming conduct, urging that "[t]he issue to be decided by the [ALJ] at a hearing is whether the Vice-Principals are guilty of unbecoming conduct by their failure to ensure compliance with Board policy. The Respondents deny that they have violated Board policy. Thus, a material fact must be decided by the [ALJ]." (Board's Exceptions at 5)[3] [2] Since there is no provision in law for submission of a response to reply exceptions, the Board's submission will not be considered by the Commissioner in reaching a final decision in this matter.

[3] The Commissioner also notes for the record that the Board's exceptions argue that "[b]ased on the Commissioner's transmittal of this matter for a hearing [pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16], the issue of whether [respondents] could be held responsible for the fire drills at School No. 17 had been decided. The law of the case precluded the [ALJ] from making a different determination as it would be res judicata."[3] (Exceptions at 5) The Commissioner finds the Board's res judicata argument entirely without merit. Transmittal of tenure charges to the OAL for hearing under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 is not tantamount to a legal conclusion.

Returning to the ALJ's finding that, as a matter of law, the vice principals were not responsible for holding fire drills, the Board reiterates its argument that according to their certificate, training and job description, vice principals are required to implement Board policy, including fire drills and, therefore, should be held accountable for their inaction in the face of a school safety hazard. The Board also urges that the ALJ erred in finding that the vice principals' refusal to do anything in the face of their knowledge that fire drills were not being conducted in their school did not constitute unbecoming conduct. It reiterates its position that the vice principals have a duty to implement Board policy based on their job description and, therefore, have a duty to ensure that fire drills were being held in their school when they became aware that the drills were not being held because they plainly had a duty that arises from their status as administrators in a school to ensure the safety of students. Of this, the Board states:

> The Respondents were assigned to School No. 17 for over two (2) years, never heard the fire bells ring, never witnessed a fire drill and ignored the situation. The Respondents knew that the law was being violated and failed to act. (Initial decision at 6). The response from respondents that they assumed [the principal] was reporting to the Board that no fire drills were being conducted is irrelevant. The Respondents are charged with the care and instruction of the students of Elizabeth. Their principal responsibility is to ensure the safety and well-being of those students. Carried to its logical conclusion, based upon the "its [sic] not my job" defense of the respondents, if the Respondents became aware of abuse of a child, they could assume that the counselors knew about it because it was not their job. Or, in the alternative, if a dangerous condition was created in the School, that they did not have responsibility to see it was fixed because that was the Head Custodians (sic) job. (Id. at 8)

The Board next argues that a determination as to whether an action constitutes unbecoming conduct is discretionary and must be decided on a case-by-case basis. In support of this contention and its position that respondents are guilty of unbecoming conduct, the Board relies upon In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Charles Motley, State-operated School

District of the City of Newark, Essex County, issued by the Commissioner August 4, 1999, aff'd State Board of Education December 1, 1999, wherein the ALJ stated:

> "Unbecoming conduct" is an elastic term broadly defined to include any conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and competence in the operation of [public] services." Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J., 532, 554 (1998). Behavior rising to the level of unbecoming conduct "need not be predicated upon a violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon a violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of what is morally and legally correct. [citation omitted] Despite the apparent vagueness of this standard, "it fairly and adequately conveys its meaning to all concerned." Laba v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957). In the context of a school tenure case, "the touchstone is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office and position." In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974), certif. den. 65 N.J. 292 (1974). (Slip op. at 15-16)

Lastly, the Board argues that the ALJ erred in finding that (1) requiring a vice principal to address the failure of the school to hold fire drills would place an undue burden on subordinates to report illegal acts of superiors or risk facing tenure charges and that (2) the inaction of respondents would not likely affect morale or efficiency by destroying public respect for, or confidence in, school operations or services. With respect to this, the Board argues, inter alia, that the Conscientious Employee Protection Act (CEPA) protects employees who report unsafe conditions and protects such employees from retaliation for their whistle-blowing. It further urges that the ALJ minimized the conduct in this case when referring to the failure of the school to hold fire drills as "questionable acts or omissions." (Initial Decision at 11) Of this, the Board states, "It is more than that. It is illegal conduct that violates N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1 and jeopardized the children's safety." (Board's Exceptions at 10) Consequently, the Board requests that the Commissioner find that respondents have a duty to implement Board policies regarding the safety of students and their failure to do so warrants discipline.

Initially, Respondent Jackus' reply exceptions[4] aver, inter alia, that it is clear that the motives for bringing tenure charges against respondents had nothing to do with the Board's desire for safety in the schools, but rather was a vendetta and retaliatory action against him for his political association outside of school. He next argues that the ALJ's decision correctly states the principle of law for consideration of a motion for summary judgment and urges that it is clear from all submissions by the Board and N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1 that the duty to conduct fire drills is placed squarely upon the principle. Of this, Respondent Jackus reiterates that, "[n]owhere in either the statute or the school district's fire drill regulations is there any mention of Vice Principal's duty either to conduct fire drills, report fire drills or report the lack of fire drills to the administration." (Jackus' Reply Exceptions at 3) Jackus further argues that the ALJ is correct in finding that "[e]ven by the most general standards of good conduct, the inaction of the vice principals would not likely affect morale or efficiency by destroying public respect for or confidence in school operations or services." (Initial Decision at 11) Jackus also contends that the only factual assertion for evidence presented by the Board as to the effect of morale and efficiency was the Board's own assertions.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's determination that, notwithstanding the Board's demonstration that there are genuine disputes as to some of the numerous facts asserted by respondents, there exists, nonetheless, a core of essential facts over which there is no dispute; thus, respondents' Motion for Summary Decision can be decided to the extent of ascertaining whether or not respondents are guilty of unbecoming conduct. Further, the Commissioner is in agreement with the ALJ's recitation of the law on what constitutes unbecoming conduct, found on pages 9-10 of the Initial Decision, and as set forth

[4] A review of the record indicates that respondent Jackus' reply exceptions address exhibits which were not part of the record before the Administrative Law Judge. Those exhibits will not, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), be considered herein.

above in the Board's recitation from Motley, supra. Moreover, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ that unbecoming conduct may be based on a failure to act where there is a duty to do so and that "a duty to act is the touchstone for unbecoming conduct based upon failure to act." (Initial Decision at 10)

However, upon careful and thorough consideration of the record, the Commissioner does not agree with the conclusions of law reached by the ALJ that the charge of unbecoming conduct levied against each respondent should be dismissed because, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1 and the Board's regulations, the duty to conduct fire drills is placed squarely on the principal and because neither the law, nor Board regulations, nor the job description for vice principals assign any responsibilities for fire drills on vice principals; thus, under the circumstances of this matter, respondents were not under a specific duty to conduct fire drills or to report the principal's failure to do so. Moreover, the Commissioner does not agree with either of the ALJ's conclusions that "[e]ven by the most general standards of good conduct, the inaction of the vice principals would not likely affect morale or efficiency by destroying public respect for or confidence in school operations and services," and that an undue burden would be placed on subordinates to report questionable acts or omissions of superiors or risk facing tenure charges. (Id. at 11)

In so holding, the Commissioner fully concurs with the Board that the crux of the unbecoming conduct charge, under the facts of this matter, rests upon the inaction of the vice principals who have a professional duty to ensure the health, safety and well-being of the students and staff under their care and supervision. The very fact that the law requires fire drills in schools to be conducted at least two times each month underscores the grave importance of such safety drills for ensuring the emergency preparedness of students and staff. Of paramount importance to the core of undisputed facts in this matter is that (1) respondents had knowledge that statute and Board regulations require that two fire drills be conducted each month in their school; (2) respondents had knowledge that the law and Board regulations for the conduct of fire drills were violated continuously for at least two years at School 17; and (3) respondents failed to act on that knowledge. To have such knowledge and not act upon it in the face of the duty of care for student and staff safety, which they bear as administrators of School 17, constitutes, in the Commissioner's judgment, unbecoming conduct, even if one accepts arguendo that respondents did not know if the principal was reporting noncompliance with the fire drill law and Board regulations. In other words, respondents, by virtue of their status as vice principals, have a duty to protect the health, safety and well-being of students and staff in School 17. Moreover, this duty of care in turn gave rise to a duty on respondents' part to act on/report the continuous, long-term violations of law in that the vice principals' failure to report such violations was no less serious than the failure of the principal to hold fire drills, given that the health, safety and well-being of students and staff were seriously jeopardized.

Next, the Commissioner finds and determines that, under the factual circumstances of this matter, wherein the health, safety and well-being of students and staff were seriously jeopardized, an undue burden would not have been placed on the respondent vice principals to act on their knowledge of the long-term, continuous violations of law and Board regulation with respect to fire drills in School 17.

Having sustained the charge of unbecoming conduct against respondents, it is necessary to make a determination as to the appropriate penalty in this matter. However, because the ALJ dismissed the tenure charges, the record is insufficiently developed to determine either the assignment or mitigation of penalty; therefore, the Commissioner is compelled to remand this matter to the OAL solely for proceedings as necessary to develop a full and factual record in order to make recommendations, as appropriate, with respect to penalty.

Accordingly, respondents' Motion for Summary Decision is denied and the charge of unbecoming conduct certified by the Board against each respondent is sustained for the reasons set forth above. The matter is, therefore, remanded to the OAL for further proceedings, as necessary, on the question of appropriate penalty.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on October 6, 2000, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for June 12, 2001 at the OAL, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. Prior to the hearing, settlement discussions were held and a settlement was reached.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT Between THE ELIZABETH BOARD OF EDUCATION
and
CYNTHIA WINTER

1. This Agreement is being entered into between the Elizabeth Board of Education ("Board") and Cynthia Winter ("Winter") to resolve all the litigation pending between them before the Commissioner of Education, Agency Docket No. 129-4/00 and all grievances filed by Ms. Winter against the Board of Education, as well as any litigation that could have been brought.

2. The Board agrees to grant Ms. Winter a sabbatical leave for rest and recuperation for a duration of September 1, 2001 to December 31, 2001 as provided in Article XVI of the negotiated agreement between the Board of Education and the Elizabeth Education Association. Ms. Winter will receive compensation in the amount of half her regular salary from September 1, 2001 to December 31, 2001. The Board of Education will continue all other benefits until December 31, 2001 as set forth in the collective bargaining agreement. No payment shall be made by the Board of Education until the approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

3. Ms. Winter agrees to submit, within five (5) working days from the approval of this Agreement by the Commissioner of Education, a letter of resignation which shall state it is effective on January 1, 2002.

4. Neither party makes any admissions in the settlement of this case.

5. Ms. Winter acknowledges that this Agreement is in settlement of disputed issues of fact and law, that she has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Agreement with her legal counsel prior to entering into it and that she has availed herself of this right, that she has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of this Agreement, and that she is entering into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily in exchange for good and valuable consideration.

6. In consideration for this Agreement, Winter irrevocably and unconditionally releases the Board, and any employee and/or official of the Board, from any and all charges, complaints, claims, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, causes of action, rights, costs, losses, debts and expenses of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, which Winter, her heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns ever had, now have or hereafter can, shall or may have (either directly, indirectly, derivatively or in any other representative capacity) by reason of any matter, fact or cause whatsoever from the beginning of time to the date of this Agreement, including without limitation, all claims arising under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Equal Pay Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the Civil Rights Act of 1866, 42 U.S.C. §1983, The Americans with Disabilities Act, Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes, Title 6 and 6A of the New Jersey Administrative Code, all claims arising under the public policy of the State of New Jersey, all tortious claims (including intentional infliction of emotional distress and inducing breach of contract) and all other federal, state and local labor and anti-discrimination laws, the common law and any other purported restriction on the Board's employment related decisions with the following exceptions: claims arising under the Worker's Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., claims arising under the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et seq., and claims alleging a breach of this Settlement Agreement.

7. The Board, for and in consideration of the undertakings of Ms. Winter set forth herein, and intending to be legally bound, does hereby remise, release and forever discharge Ms. Winter and her heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which it ever had, now has, or hereafter may have, or which its officers, members, employees and/or agents, its and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors or administrators hereafter may have by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever, from the beginning of her employment with the Board to the date of these presents, and particularly, but without limitation of the foregoing general terms, any claims arising from or relating in any way to her employment relationship and/or the termination of her employment relationship and/or affiliation with the Board, including but not limited to, any claims which have been asserted or could have been asserted or could be asserted now or in the future under any and all federal, state or local laws and any common law claims now or hereafter recognized, and any and all claims arising out of her employment with the Board, including but not limited to tenure charges, with the following exception: claims alleging a breach of this Settlement Agreement.

8. Each party hereto represents that, in executing this Agreement, such party has not relied and does not rely upon any representation or statement of any other party not set forth herein with regard to the subject matter, basis or effect of this Agreement or otherwise.

9. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement among the parties hereto. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements and understandings concerning the subject matter hereof, and it may not be changed orally but may be changed only in a writing signed by all parties. This Agreement shall be interpreted in accordance with New Jersey law.

10. Ms. Winter has voluntarily and without coercion entered into this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Settlement Agreement as of the date set forth below.

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On September 18, 1995, petitioners Concetta B. Caponegro, Virginia DeVane, Howard Johnson, Norman Jeffries and Bessie White filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that they were each improperly denied 60 days' pay and that due to implied contracts of employment, each petitioner should be awarded his or her full position for the entirety of the 1995-96 school year. Respondent filed an answer on November 1, 1995, alleging inter alia that implied contracts do not exist between any of the petitioners and respondent and that petitioners are not entitled to additional compensation for any accumulated vacation, personal or sick days or to 60 days' pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44.

On November 6, 1995, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on December 15, 1995. After a hearing was held and the record closed, the undersigned issued an Initial Decision on November 18, 1998.

Subsequent thereto, on January 4, 1999, the Commissioner of Education rendered a decision affirming the undersigned's decision with clarification. On April 7, 1999, the State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision. On April 14, 2000, the Appellate Division affirmed in part and reversed and remanded in part the agency's decision. More particularly, the Appellate Division decision reversed the decision to the extent it denied petitioners compensation for accumulated vacation and sick days and remanded for reconsideration and calculation of these benefits in accordance with the policy and procedure manual of the Board and, to the extent appropriate, the Board's past practices. The Appellate Division also remanded for determination of whether Johnson's accumulated vacation limit is forty or sixty days. The Appellate Division affirmed the decision in all other respects.

The matter was remanded to the undersigned judge on July 21, 2000 and a number of settlement conferences were held in an effort to resolve the remanded issues.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement in regard to petitioners Caponegro, Devane, Johnson and White. The parties further agreed to a dismissal of the matter of Norman Jeffries for failure to prosecute.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's residency determination that his daughter B.A. was not domiciled in the South Plainfield District and, therefore, was not entitled to continue to attend school in the District.

In light of testimony from witnesses, including the School District's Residency Officer and former police investigator, the ALJ dismissed the petition, concluding that B.A. resided with her mother, who was not domiciled in the District, and that since B.A. was not kept in the home within the respondent District, B.A. was not entitled to be educated in the District. The ALJ ordered that petitioner was liable for tuition from the time B.A. enrolled in the South Plainfield School District in 1998 to the present, a total amount of $25,617. The ALJ denied the Board's request for prejudgment interest, but awarded postjudgment interest pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-17.

The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that petitioner failed to prove that B.A. was domiciled in the District so as to be entitled to a free public education in that District. The Commissioner directed that petitioner reimburse the Board tuition in the amount of $25,617. Concurring with the ALJ, the Commissioner denied prejudgment interest. The Commissioner, however, also denied postjudgment interest because the requisite time had not passed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-17. In the absence of express statutory authority to award counsel fees, the Commissioner determined that he may not direct that the Board be compensated for legal fees.

Record Closed: May 29, 2001 Decided: July 12, 2001

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 14, 2000, respondent South Plainfield Board of Education (Board) determined that B.A. is not domiciled in South Plainfield and, therefore, is not entitled to continue to attend school in the District. (C-1, ¶ 14). Petitioner appealed the Board's determination to the Commissioner of Education on or about April 3, 2000. The Board filed an Answer with Affirmative Defenses on or about May 8, 2000, and on May 12, 2000, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned administrative law judge (ALJ) to hear the matter. On December 8, 2000, the Board was permitted to amend its answer to include a counterclaim for tuition. Petitioner did not file an answer to the counterclaim.

A prehearing conference was held on December 21, 2000, and the parties discussed the nature of the proceeding, the issues to be resolved, the scheduling of hearing dates and discovery deadlines. The matter was scheduled for hearing on January 10 and 11, 2001.

The hearing in this matter commenced on January 10, 2001, and on January 11, 2001, the parties concluded the hearing telephonically. At the conclusion of the hearing, the ALJ directed that the Board's post-hearing brief be submitted within thirty days of receiving the transcripts and that Petitioner's brief be submitted within thirty days of receiving the Board's brief and allowing the Board to submit a reply brief within seven (7) days thereafter. Because petitioner was late in submitting his brief, a letter order was entered on April 26, 2001, establishing a final date for the petitioner to submit his brief or no submission would be accepted. All submissions were eventually received, and the record closed on May 29, 2001.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

It is stipulated or otherwise undisputed that B.A. is the daughter of petitioner W.A. and C.R. (C-1, ¶1). B.A.'s date of birth is September 11, 1986. (C-1, ¶2). W.A. and C.R. never married. (C-1. ¶3) B.A. is a student currently enrolled in South Plainfield School District pursuant to the stay-put provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. On March 14, 2000, the respondent Board determined that B.A. is not domiciled in South Plainfield and, therefore, is not entitled to continue to attend school in the District. (C-1, ¶ 14).

It is additionally stipulated or otherwise undisputed that B.A. enrolled in the South Plainfield School District in September, 1998. (C-1, ¶4; J-1). The enrollment application lists the address of C.R. as 517 C. Road and petitioner's address as 705 P. Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. (C-1, ¶ 14). C.R. also provided the District with a lease dated September 1, 1998 in support of her claim that she is domiciled in South Plainfield. (C-1, ¶5; J-2). The lease lists C.R. and B.A. as the sole occupants of 517 C. Avenue, South Plainfield, New Jersey. (C-1, ¶14). B.A.'s parents also provided the District with a transfer card from the Plainfield Public School District which states that B.A. formerly lived at 946 M. Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. (C-1, ¶6, J-3).

As is indicated in the Legal Discussion, the burden is on petitioner to establish that he is entitled to the requested relief by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Thus, petitioner testified first; however, because his testimony was responsive to the respondent's case, I shall first discuss the testimony and evidence elicited by respondent school district.

Kenneth Van Kleef, the School District's Residency Officer and a former police investigator with 25 years experience, testified that had received a tip from a middle school guidance counselor who told him that she suspected that B.A. is not living in South Plainfield. Upon receiving the tip, Mr. Van Kleef reviewed B.A.'s file and found certain of the information contained therein to be questionable. For instance, the application (J-1) lists C.R.'s address as C. Road, South Plainfield. However, the correct address is C. Avenue because there is no C. Road in South Plainfield. Moreover, petitioner's address is listed as 705 P. Avenue, but Mr. Van Kleef testified that he is fully familiar with this location, and that 705 P. Avenue is a professional building rather than a residence. (R-1). He then sent a letter to both parents on January 14, 2000, requesting various documents in support of B.A.'s claim of domicile in South Plainfield. (C-1, ¶7, J-4).

Mr. Van Kleef testified that neither petitioner nor C.R. responded to his correspondence of January 14, 2000. As a result, he decided to conduct surveillance to ascertain whether B.A. was living in South Plainfield with C.R. His surveillance lasted from mid-January until mid-March, 2000. He prepared a report documenting the results of his surveillance (R-2), and he took a number of photographs documenting his findings. (R-5).

Mr. Van Kleef testified that during the three months of his surveillance he never saw B.A. leave for school from the South Plainfield home in the morning, except for the day following the Board hearing. In addition, during the three months of his surveillance, he never saw B.A. return to the South Plainfield home after school. On all of the days that he conducted surveillance, B.A. left for school in the morning from the home located at 946 M. Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey where she was driven to school by a female adult which he believed to be C.R., and following school each day, B.A. was driven back to the home on 946 M. Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. B.A. was never seen carrying a suitcase, nor was B.A. ever seen in the presence of petitioner. Mr. Van Kleef testified that it was only on January 24, 2000, that B.A. was picked up from school in a white stretch limousine and driven to the home in Plainfield. (R-5).

Mr. Van Kleef also testified that during the early stages of his investigation he sent a letter to both parents requesting a meeting to discuss his preliminary findings and to obtain additional documentation. (C-1, ¶8, J-5 & J-6). He sent the letter to C.R. via certified mail, at the Plainfield home because he believed that this is where she and B.A. continued to reside. When Mr. Van Kleef received the signed certified mail card from the Plainfield address, it was signed for by B.A. (R-3).

A residency hearing was held before the South Plainfield Board of Education on March 7 and 14, 2000, to determine whether B.A. is domiciled in South Plainfield. (C-1, ¶ 10). At the March 7, 2000 hearing, a board member asked petitioner if he would mind if Mr. Van Kleef went to his home to view B.A.'s living quarters. Petitioner consented to the request, and Mr. Van Kleef went to petitioner's home. Two police officers met Mr. Van Kleef and petitioner at the home. Petitioner escorted Mr. Van Kleef to B.A.'s living quarters. Mr. Van Kleef testified that the room contained a bed, a dresser and a computer on a table. Mr. Van Kleef looked in the dresser drawers, with petitioner's consent, and observed that there was nothing in them. Mr. Van Kleef then asked petitioner to open the closet where he observed that there were just a few things hanging, and that there were no shoes in the closet or anywhere else in the room. He indicated that the room simply did not look lived in. Mr. Van Kleef explained that he is the father of a young girl and has viewed hundreds of children's' homes as a police investigator, and that B.A.'s room was totally barren and contained no toys, posters, jewelry, make-up, footwear, or stuffed animals, and there was nothing at all in the room to indicate any child of any age lived therein.

Petitioner W.A. testified that B.A. has a serious illness and because of this illness she must be between both parents and that these are extenuating circumstances. In his legal argument, W.A. asserts that B.A. has a life-threatening health condition which requires special medication and constant monitoring by both parents. She has attended school in South Plainfield since kindergarten.

Petitioner testified with respect to the surveillance by the school district. He indicated that he was out of the country on business between January 13 to January 24 or 25, 2000, and that B.A. stayed with her mother until January 30, 2000. He is self-employed and sometimes he works at LaGuardia Airport. Because of his employment, B.A. stays with her mother two or three times per week. He also explained that B.A. was upset with the surveillance because there are many crazy people out there. There is less than one mile between his home in South Plainfield and the home where C.R. lives in Plainfield.

Petitioner identified his passport (P-4) and indicated that this shows the amount of time that he was out of the county. He also identified a statement which he provided to the respondent Board of Education.

Petitioner testified that B.A. has continuously resided at the South Plainfield home for two or three years from 1997 to the present. Unfortunately, W.A. is trying to develop an import-export business which requires a great deal of his time.

On cross-examination, petitioner admitted that he does not claim B.A. as a dependent and he does not know if C.R. claims her as a dependent. Travel is part of his job because he is self-employed. In petitioner's brief, petitioner asserts that when C.R. listed W.A.'s address at 705 P. Avenue, C.R. and W.A. were engaged in serious relationship disputes and he saw that it was fitting for the sake of B.A. to stay at 705 P. Avenue. He further asserts that when Mr. Van Kleef commenced the surveillance in January, he was out of the country on business and B.A. was staying with C.R. He also asserts that during the month of February 2000, Mr. Van Kleef only made two observations out of 21 school days, and that his surveillance reports do not show that he conducted surveillance before 7:00 a.m. or after 5:00 p.m.

Petitioner testified that when Mr. Van Kleef came to examine B.A.'s room at his home in South Plainfield, there were four policemen. He allowed Mr. Van Kleef and one police officer into the home. When Mr. Van Kleef examined B.A.'s room, he only looked into two drawers of a six-drawer dresser and he failed to indicate that there was a 19" color television, a matching nightstand and lamp, a matching desk for the computer, a bean bag in the corner, a sheepskin rug on the floor and a teddy bear. He also failed to look under the bed where B.A. stores her shoes. W.A. also explained that the room is only seven feet by nine feet, and that B.A. keeps her sweaters, light jackets and outerwear in a front entrance hall closet. B.A.'s room also has a computer and a teddy bear. Petitioner testified that all of B.A.'s clothing were in the wash when Mr. Van Kleef looked into her underwear drawer, and he also indicated that B.A. does not have many clothes. W.A. testified that he if was afraid of what Mr. Van Kleef would see, he would not have let him into the room.

Petitioner testified that the other, unopened drawers were full of clothes, but that he did not feel it was necessary to show this to Mr. Van Kleef. He indicated that he offered to show Mr. Van Kleef B.A.'s clothing, which he claimed was piled up in the laundry room, but then rescinded his offer to show it to Mr. Van Kleef. Petitioner also testified that B.A.'s shoes were under the furniture, but he admitted that he did not point this out to Mr. Van Kleef. At that point, Mr. Van Kleef and the police officers left the home with petitioner to return to the Board hearing. The Board reconvened on March 14, 2000, to consider any additional evidence and concluded by a unanimous vote that B.A. is not domiciled in South Plainfield. (J-9, J-10).

Petitioner testified that during the past two years he has been away at least five times for business, for his own pleasure as well as to develop an import-export business and that B.A. lived with her mother in Plainfield during this time. He also indicated that there are other occasions when B.A. lives with her mother on some weekends and sometimes during the day because petitioner also has own personal life.

When he was asked how often B.A. lives with her mother, petitioner testified that during the year in question, the job that he was working on was at LaGuardia Airport, and that he was working there every day. He testified that B.A. stayed with her mother during that year.

Petitioner testified that most of his jobs are out-of-State which requires him to leave early in the morning and return late at night, and that B.A. cannot care for herself because of her medical condition. B.A. has to receive injections in her personal areas, which have to be administered by her mother. Petitioner admitted that he does not claim B.A. as a dependent on his tax returns.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.(2) provides as follows:

> If the superintendent or administrative principal of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district and the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the superintendent or administrative principal may apply to the board of education for the removal of the child. The parent or guardian shall be entitled to a hearing before the board and if in the judgment of the board the parent or guardian is not domiciled within the district or the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the board may order the transfer or removal of the child from school. The parent or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the parent or guardian in writing of his right to contest the decision within 21 days. No child shall be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the parent may contest the > board's decision or during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner . . .

Based on this provision, the petitioner bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that B.A. is domiciled in the South Plainfield School District and thus is eligible for a free public education therein. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). In an administrative proceeding such as this the party seeking relief has the burden to establish his claim by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). Precisely what is needed to satisfy this standard must be decided on a case-by-case basis. The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily depending on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975).

Domicile is a person's abode where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercandante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). Domicile is an individual's true and permanent home. In re Jaffe, 74 N.J. 86, 90-91(1977).

The Commissioner has held that the domicile of a minor depends upon where a minor lives if the parents were never married or if there is no fixing of legal custody. C.K.F. v. Upper Twp. Bd. Of Educ., 1975 S.L.D. 723, 723-24 (Comm. of Ed., 1975). It has also been held that when parents are divorced, the assignment of legal custody determines the domicile of the child.

Clifton Bd. of Ed. v. Sauro, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 497, 500 (Comm. of Ed., 1996); Gunther v. Bd. of Ed. of Borough of Bay Head, 1978 S.L.D. 771 (Comm. of Ed., 1978). Even where a custody order is in place, the Commissioner will look to see where the minor child actually is residing, and a custody order is not always dispositive.

Respondent relies on a number of cases to support its position. In Bd. of Ed. of the City of Summit v. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Millburn, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 506, 508 (Comm. of Ed., 1995) the divorce decree allowed for joint custody, but the father had physical custody. The Commissioner found that by mutual consent of her parents, the child had lived with her mother in Summit for most of her life and all of the evidence supported that assertion. The child used her mother's address as her address, she had a bedroom in her mother's house, and when she stayed at her father's house, she used a guest room that was used by others when she was not there. The Commissioner held that if there was any ambiguity as to the child's domicile, the judgment of divorce might be determinative, but because there was no ambiguity as to where the child spent most of her time, the judgment of divorce was not controlling. Thus, the Commissioner found that the child was domiciled with her mother and, therefore, the school district in which the mother resided bore responsibility for the child's education.

In R.A. v. Ewing Twp. Bd. of Ed., 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 49 (Comm. of Ed., 1994), the board contended that the children of an unmarried couple lived with their father in Trenton. However, the Commissioner did not uphold the board's position, finding that the children and their mother lived in Ewing, where they left for school in the morning and returned each evening. Thus, although there was some evidence presented that the mother and one or both of her children spent some time at the Trenton apartment, this was insufficient to establish domicile.

In Roxbury Tp. Bd. of Ed. v. W. Milford Bd. of Ed., 283 N.J. Super. 505 (App. Div. 1995), the Court considered a residency dispute involving an autistic child whose parents divorced. The father maintained physical custody at first, but later consented to the mother taking physical custody when he moved to Roxbury. The mother, who had remarried, moved to West Milford, but the West Milford school district challenged the child's domicile and refused to accept responsibility for the child. The Appellate Division concluded that West Milford, the mother's domicile, was responsible for the child's education, holding that a child of a divorced couple is domiciled where the parent the child lives with is domiciled (Id. at 521-22). The Court went on to find that certain factors, such as the presence of a room for the child in the mother's home, combined with the intent that the child live with his mother, established the mother's home as the child's domicile.

Respondent argues that applying the principles in the foregoing decisions to the facts in this case, petitioner was required to show that B.A. lives with him at the South Plainfield home, at least for a majority of the time, since there is no formal custody order in place. Respondent contends, however, that petitioner has fallen far short of sustaining this burden and that the record amply demonstrates that B.A. is domiciled with her mother in Plainfield, New Jersey and that B.A. spends little, if any, time at the South Plainfield home of petitioner.

Specifically, respondent Board relies on the testimony of Kenneth Van Kleef to the effect that he never saw B.A. return to the South Plainfield home following school during the entire period of his surveillance, but would return to her mother's home in Plainfield, New Jersey carrying only a bookbag, and that BA. was never seen carrying a suitcase. It further relies on his testimony that during the surveillance period, B.A. was seen on every occasion except one, leaving early in the morning from the Plainfield home. The only day B.A. was seen leaving from the South Plainfield home to go to school was the day following the residency hearing before the Board. It also points out that when Mr. Van Kleef sent a certified letter to B.A.'s mother at the Plainfield home, it was signed for by B.A.

Also, when Mr. Van Kleef viewed B.A.'s living quarters, the room identified as hers by petitioner was virtually barren except for a bed and a dresser, and there was no indiciation that the room was lived in by young girl. There were no toys, posters, make-up dolls, stuffed animals, and B.A.'s dresser drawer was empty of clothing. Petitioner, testified on re-direct examination that the other, unopened drawers were full of clothes, but that he did not feel it was necessary to show this to Mr. Van Kleef. Petitioner offered to show Mr. Van Kleef B.A.'s clothing, which he claimed was piled up in the laundry room, but then rescinded his offer to show Mr. Van Kleef the laundry room after Mr. Van Kleef agreed to view it. There were only a few articles of clothing hanging in the closet and there was no footwear. In response, petitioner testified that B.A.'s shoes were under the furniture, but again he did not point this out to Mr. Van Kleef.

Respondent Board argues that the petitioner's own testimony shows that B.A. clearly is not domiciled in the South Plainfield home, but instead is domiciled in Plainfield with her mother, where BA. spends most, if not all of her time.

Respondent argues that the totality of the evidence leads to only one conclusion - B.A. does not live in petitioner's home, but rather she lives with her mother in Plainfield, and that petitioner's busy work schedule, which requires extensive interstate travel, renders him unable to care for B.A., other than on a sporadic basis, if at all. Even assuming arguendo that B.A. lives with petitioner on an intermittent basis, respondent argues that this is not sufficient to establish her domicile in South Plainfield, relying on Bd. of Ed. of the City of Summit v. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Millburn, supra. Respondent concludes that petitioner has fallen far short of sustaining his burden of proof in this matter and that his petition should be dismissed in its entirety, and petitioner should be found liable for tuition for the time B.A. illegally attended school in South Plainfield. Moreover, B.A. should immediately be removed from the South Plainfield School District.

Based on the legal discussion set forth above, it is clear that the domicile of a child depends upon where the child lives if the parents were never married. In such a case, it is necessary to look to see where the minor child actually is residing. A child of a couple is domiciled where the parent the child lives with is domiciled, and factors, such as the presence of a room for the child in the parent's home, combined with the intent that the child live with the one parent establishes that parent's home as the child's domicile.

When the testimony of witnesses is in disagreement, it is the obligation and responsibility of the trier of fact to weigh the credibility of the witnesses in order to make factual findings. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to the testimony of a witness. The word contemplates an overall assessment of the story of a witness in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 *F.*2d 718 (9th Cir., 1963). The term has been defined as testimony which must proceed from the mouth of the credible witness and must be such as our common experience, knowledge, and common observation can accept as probable under the circumstances. State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955); see, also, Gilson v. Gilson, 116 N.J. Eq. 556, 560 (E. & A. 1934). Credibility, or more specifically, credible testimony, in turn must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself as well. Spagnulo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954). A fact finder is expected to base decisions on credibility on his or her common sense, intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837 (1973). Credibility does not depend on the number of witnesses and the finder of fact is not bound to believe the testimony of any witness. In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514 (1950).

The circumstances surrounding the visit of Mr. Van Kleef to petitioner's home, and petitioner's testimony concerning that visit raises serious doubts in my mind as to petitioner's credibility. Even though petitioner gave the explanation that most of B.A.'s clothes were being washed and were not in the room, he did not permit Mr. Van Kleef to go to the laundry room to confirm the presence of clothing. At first he offered to show Mr. Van Kleef B.A.'s clothing which he claimed was piled up in the laundry room, but he then rescinded his offer to do so. Petitioner also testified at the hearing that other drawers in the room were full of B.A.'s clothes, but he did not feel it was necessary to show this to Mr. Van Kleef. Petitioner also testified that B.A.'s shoes were under the furniture, but he failed to point this out to Mr. Van Kleef. He also indicated that because the room is small, B.A. keeps her sweaters, light jackets and outerwear in a front entrance hall closet, but he did not feel it was necessary to show this to Mr. Van Kleef. Most of this testimony seems unlikely and improbable.

Even petitioner's undisputed testimony does not support his claim that the B.A. is domiciled with him in South Plainfield. B.A. testified that during the past two years he has been away at least five times for business, for his own pleasure as well as to develop an import-export business and that B.A. lived with her mother in Plainfield during this time. He indicated that most of his jobs are out-of-State which requires him to leave early in the morning and return late at night, and that B.A. cannot care for herself. B.A. has to receive injections in her personal occasions when B.A. lived with her mother on weekends and sometimes during the day because petitioner has own personal life. Further, petitioner testified, that during the year in question, he was working at LaGuardia Airport every day and that B.A. stayed with her mother during that year. Finally, petitioner admitted that he does not claim B.A. as a dependent on his tax returns.

On the other hand, I FIND the testimony of Kenneth Van Kleef to be entirely credible. My overall assessment of Mr. Van Kleef's testimony is that it was rational, internally consistent, it was consistent with the documentary evidence, and it appeared probable under the circumstances. I FIND it to be significant that Mr. Van Kleef never saw B.A. return to the South Plainfield home following school during the entire period of his surveillance, but she would return to her mother's home in Plainfield, New Jersey carrying only a bookbag. It is also significant that BA. was never seen carrying a suitcase. During the entire surveillance period, B.A. was seen on every occasion except one, leaving early in the morning from the Plainfield home. When Mr. Van Kleef sent a certified letter to B.A.'s mother at the Plainfield home, it was signed for by B.A.

I also FIND it to be significant that the room identified as belonging to B.A. in the South Plainfield home appeared to be relatively unused, and there were no toys, posters, make-up, dolls, stuffed animals, or other indicia that the room was lived in by a young girl. The dresser drawers which were opened were found to be empty of clothing, and the petitioner did not feel it was necessary to show the other unopened drawers which he claims were full of clothes, to Mr. Van Kleef. There were only a few articles of clothing hanging in the closet and there was no footwear. Petitioner claimed that B.A.'s shoes were under the furniture, but he did not point this out to Mr. Van Kleef at the time. Petitioner refused to show Mr. Van Kleef the laundry room where petitioner claimed B.A.'s clothes were.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND that W.A. has failed to sustain the burden of showing that B.A resides with him in South Plainfield, New Jersey. I FIND that the evidence actually shows that B.A. resides with her mother in Plainfield, New Jersey, and that because the mother is not domiciled within the district and the child is not kept in the home within the school district she is not entitled to be educated within respondent's school district.

she is not entitled to be educated within respondent's school district.

It is now necessary to address respondent's counterclaim. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides:

> If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian [that the minor child is domiciled in the district], the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced.

Respondent argues that the foregoing provision regarding payment of tuition is mandatory when a petitioner fails to sustain the burden of proof. Respondent cites to, Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Cranford. Union County v. A. McG. And L.M., 95 N.J.A.R. 74 (Comm. of Ed., 1995), where tuition was awarded to the Cranford school district where a child was domiciled in Newark; A.A. v. Bd. of Education of the City of Paramus, 97 N.J.A.R.2d. 244 (Comm. of Ed., 1997), where the Commissioner awarded tuition to the Paramus school district where the custodial parent was unable to prove that he was domiciled therein; D.W. v. Greater Egg Harbor Regional Bd. of Ed., 95 N.J.A.R.2d. 227 (Comm. of Ed., 1995), where the Commissioner awarded three years of tuition to the school district because the parents were not domiciled within the school district but chose to send the child to school in the grandmother's district.

Respondent also relies on Mansfield Township Bd. of Ed. v. State Board of Education. Mary M. Towner and Lillian Baysdorf, 101 N.J.L. 474 (1925), wherein respondent asserts that the Supreme Court expressed as a basic school law policy that public schools shall only be free to domiciliaries of a school district.

I agree with the legal position taken by respondent in this regard. The rationale behind requiring a parent or guardian to pay a school district tuition for his or her child's ineligible attendance, is not to create a hardship on the family, but to ensure that local tax dollars which are who have a lawful right to attend the school in question. To provide non-residents with a free public education could potentially drain a school district's limited financial resources, as well as cause overcrowding by illegal student attendance.

Because petitioner has failed to prove that B.A. is domiciled in South Plainfield, I FIND that the Board should be awarded tuition for the entire period of ineligible attendance together with any postjudgement interest which may be awarded by the Commissioner pursuant to pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(a) and (c)2 if there is any delay in payment. Based on Mr. Van Kleef's report as to tuition in the District (R-8), as of June 30, 2001, the accrued tuition totals $25,617.00 and is broken down as follows:

School year	Tuition per pupil
1998-1999	$8,138.00
1999-2000	8,797.00
2000-2001	8,682.00
Total	$25,617.00

With regard to prejudgement interest, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(a) 1 and (c)1 provide as follows:

> (a)The Commissioner may, pursuant to the criteria of this section, award prejudgment and/or postjudgment interest in any circumstance in which a petitioner has sought such relief and has successfully established a claim to a monetary award.
>
> 1. Any petitioner seeking award of prejudgment interest shall propose, before the Commissioner or the ALJ, whoever is hearing the case, an interest calculation consistent with (c) below.
>
> * * *
>
> (c) The following criteria shall be applied when awarding interest:
>
> 1. The Commissioner shall award prejudgment interest when he or she has concluded that the denial of the monetary claim was an action taken in bad faith and/or has been determined to have been > action taken in bad faith and/or has been determined to have been taken in deliberate violation of statute or rule.

In order to succeed in obtaining prejudgement interest, respondent is required to establish that petitioner either deliberately violated the statute or acted in bad faith or from other improper motive. Bassett v. Bd. of Educ. of Borough of Oakland, 223 N.J.Super. 136 (App .Div. 1988). I FIND that respondent has not established these prerequisites on the part of petitioner. It is clear to me that petitioner was only seeking to provide his daughter with the best possible education, and I cannot conclude that this amounts to bad faith or other improper motive. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent is not entitled to prejudgement interest on its counterclaim.

DECISION AND ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, and based on the finding and conclusion that B.A. resides with her mother in Plainfield, New Jersey, and the mother is not domiciled within the South Plainfield School District and B.A. is not kept in the home within the school district, B.A. is not entitled to be educated within respondent's school district, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's petition is hereby DENIED and DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that petitioner is liable for tuition from the time B.A. enrolled in the South Plainfield School District in 1998, to the present in the total amount of $25,617.00 together with postjudgment interest pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-17.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were submitted by petitioner in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

Petitioner's exceptions state in their entirety:

> On July 12, 2001, a decision was render[ed] on the above referenced petition by the honorable Joseph F. Martone.
>
> Consider this letter my exceptions to the entire decision rendered.
> It is obvious we need help from a higher authority for BA to receive her basic civil rights.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which includes transcripts of proceedings before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), the Commissioner concurs with the finding by the ALJ that petitioner has failed to prove that B.A. is domiciled in the South Plainfield School District so as to entitled her to a free public education in that District. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2), therefore, the Commissioner directs that petitioner reimburse the Board for tuition in the amount of $8,138 for the 1998-99 school year, $8,797 for the 1999-

2000 school year and $8,682 for the 2000-01 school year, for a total of $25,617, as set forth in the Initial Decision at page 15.

With respect to the Board's counterclaim for prejudgment and postjudgment interest, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board has failed to establish that petitioner deliberately violated the statute, acted in bad faith or acted from other improper motive. Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that the Board is not entitled to prejudgment interest in this matter. The Commissioner also observes that the Board's claim for postjudgment interest is not properly before him at this time, since the requisite time period has not passed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)2. The Board's claim for postjudgment interest is, therefore, also denied.

Finally, in the absence of express statutory authority to award counsel fees, the Commissioner may not direct that the Board be compensated for legal fees in this matter.[1] See Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434 (1990) and State, Dept. of Environ. Protect. v. Ventron Corp., 94 N.J. 473 (1983).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is affirmed, with modification as set forth above. Petitioner is, therefore, directed to reimburse the Board for tuition in the amount of $25,617.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's determination that her daughter is not entitled to a free education in the District. After petitioner's request for emergent relief was denied, an administrative hearing was conducted.

The ALJ determined that the petition should be dismissed because petitioner and her child did not reside in the respondent District but, rather, petitioner had rented a duplex with two other persons based on her incorrect understanding that doing so would satisfy the requirements for registering her child in the District's schools although she continued her domicile and residence in Pennsylvania. Concluding that petitioner was not misled by respondent, the ALJ rejected petitioner's fairness/equitable estoppel argument and her assertion that renters are treated disparately from those who own property or are building homes in the District.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein. The Commissioner denied petitioner's motion to reopen the record to permit her to demonstrate that, had she known of the District policy of permitting persons who intend to move into the District within 60 days of the start of school to enroll their children in the District's schools free of tuition, she would have enrolled her daughter and obtained a suitable residence within the 60-day period, rather than the duplex she rented. In this regard, the Commissioner noted that petitioner had failed to secure a residence for the 2001-2002 school year as of the date of the ALJ's decision, which was months after the expiration of the 60-day period. The Commissioner also rejected petitioner's estoppel and disparate treatment arguments and affirmed the determination of the ALJ that petitioner's daughter is not entitled to a free education in the District. Finally, the Commissioner determined that petitioner must pay respondent $9,791 in tuition for the 2000-2001 school year.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Record Closed: June 22, 2001 Decided: July 9, 2001

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of respondent's determination that petitioner is not domiciled in the Princeton Regional School District and that she owes tuition for the 2000/01 school year. Petitioner requested a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. Petitioner's application for emergent relief was denied and a plenary hearing was conducted on May 21, 2001. The record closed on June 22, 2001, with the receipt of post-hearing memoranda.

The basic facts are undisputed. Petitioner resides with her daughter, R.E., and son in Lahaska, Pennsylvania. R.E. attended a private preparatory school in Lawrenceville, New Jersey, during the 1999/00 school year, but petitioner began a search for a public school district in the 2000/01 school year. R.E. is a gifted child and petitioner did not feel that the Solebury district in which she resides could provide the advanced placement courses necessary to challenge her. Petitioner then settled upon the respondent district because of its high reputation and ability to provide an appropriate education.

Petitioner proceeded to rent a duplex in Princeton with two other people. Petitioner and her daughter never intended to live in this house and have not lived there. Rather, the arrangement was made to satisfy the terms of a one-page document petitioner obtained from respondent's guidance office regarding registration procedures. Among other things this page indicates that a student must establish residency. This may be accomplished by presenting an "up-to-date lease," a current tax bill, a sales agreement on a new home, or an official letter from the Princeton University housing office, the Institute for Advanced Study, or the Theological Seminary. Petitioner testified without contradiction that during the summer of 2000 she asked in the guidance office about the lease requirement and was told that this was a prerequisite for registration. Petitioner then secured the lease and R.E. was enrolled. Petitioner told no one in the guidance office that she would not be living in these premises.

Respondent became suspicious about the residency issue when its attendance officer, Nicholas Cream, noticed that R.E. was arriving to school daily in a van marked East Coast Limousine Service bearing Pennsylvania license plates. Mr. Cream conducted an investigation and learned that petitioner was living in Lahaska. He reported his findings in January 2001 and the Board of Education conducted a hearing in February 2001, at which it concluded that R.E. was not entitled to a free education. Petitioner was notified that if she relocated into the district costs going forward would stop. Petitioner testified that she injured her back during this period and could not undertake such a move.

Petitioner called as her own witness Charles Bryant, the district's director of student personnel services. Mr. Bryant testified that he had no contact with petitioner until early February 2001, when they spoke a few times about the upcoming Board hearing and related questions. Mr. Bryant testified that there are some children in the district who attend for free but reside elsewhere. These are cases where the family is in the process of relocating into the district. Board policy grants 60 days from the start of school, or from an application to attend, in which to complete such a move. Additionally, families constructing a home in the district have until the beginning of the fourth quarter of the school year to complete that process and still receive free tuition for the entire year (P-1). Mr. Bryant testified that the 60-day rule applies equally to tenants and homebuyers. None of these exceptions are automatic, however; a written request must be submitted to the superintendent for approval. Mr. Bryant testified also that he has on occasion directed Mr. Cream to check on whether families who have claimed these waivers actually did move into the district.

Nicholas P. Cream was also called by petitioner. He is the district's attendance officer and he spoke with petitioner one time while delivering papers to her after the Board's decision. Mr. Cream acknowledged discussing Board policy with petitioner regarding families who relocate during the school year, but he did not recall the details and conceded that he is not expert in such matters.

Petitioner testified in her own behalf. She did not learn that the 60-day exception was available to tenants until Mr. Bryant so testified. The guidance office told her that having a lease in hand was a condition for registration. Had she been aware of this policy in the summer of 2000 she would not have rushed to lease a property by the beginning of the semester and might have found a rental that she could move into, obviating this entire problem. Petitioner testified that when she obtained the page of registration instructions from the guidance office and saw that she could establish residency with an "up-to-date lease," she earnestly understood this to mean that living in Princeton was unnecessary; all that was required was a stake in a lease. If she was mistaken district staff ought to have clarified for her.

Petitioner testified that she did not know there was a distinction between the concepts of domicile and residence. She knows little of government procedure and made an error that anyone not schooled in such legalities might make. Petitioner also testified that for financial reasons she is currently a member of the tenant class and that the district's policies treat tenants less favorably than they do landowners. The parties stipulated that petitioner spoke with a longtime staff member at the high school after this matter came to light, who said that she did not know that domicile was necessary to attend. This is the substance of the record.

Petitioner acknowledges that that she is not a domiciliary of Princeton within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. She argues rather that tuition should be excused on equitable estoppel or general fairness principles. It is axiomatic that a governmental entity may not misdirect a party and then seek advantage from the resultant error, W. V. Pangborne & Co. v. Department of Transp., 116 N.J. 543 (1989). That, however, did not occur here.

Petitioner wanted her daughter to attend public school in a district, and for that matter in a state, in which she did not live. There are many citizens who would not know the nuances of such an undertaking, but most could be expected to realize that there are nuances and that they carry a burden of inquiry. At no time did petitioner ask anyone in authority about the legitimacy of retaining her domicile in Lahaska and sharing a rental in Princeton that she would not live in. The guidance office could not intuit these circumstances. A better reading of the registration procedures page is that a current tax bill, an agreement of sale, or an up-to-date lease are indicia that the individual makes or plans to soon make his/her home in the district. The district does have a detailed policy concerning non-resident student attendance and an open exploration of the issue with school personnel might have led petitioner to it.

Having come into possession of this written policy after the fact, petitioner now works to find fault with it. Learning from Mr. Bryant for the first time at hearing that the Board allows a renter up to 60 days to relocate into the district, petitioner argues that this knowledge would have changed everything.[1] She would have waited to find a house that she could actually live in. We cannot speculate about what might have been. Petitioner may have found another rental, although her own testimony suggests that affordable rentals in Princeton are hard to come by.[2] Moreover, a waiver application would have to be filed with the superintendent and approval

[1] After the hearing closed but before briefs were due petitioner filed a motion to reopen based on newly discovered evidence. She now asserts that Mr. Bryant testified falsely that the 60-day grace period applied to renters as well as buyers and that he did so only to blunt her constitutional arguments. If she were permitted to present four additional Board employees she could prove this. Petitioner expects these to be hostile witnesses and she has not sought affidavits from them in support of her motion. The motion is denied. Petitioner has already called two Board employees, Mr. Cream and Mr. Bryant, in an effort to find some contradiction in Board policy. She appears to believe that her own mistake will diminish if she can discover error on the other side. Nothing in the motion papers leads me to expect useful disclosures from such testimony and the only likely result is delay.

[2] Her closing statement notes that she has yet to find a house in Princeton for the coming school year.

would depend on the facts presented. The critical consideration, however, is that petitioner asked no question that would have led her timely to the non-resident attendance policy, and thus what she might have done had she known of it is irrelevant.

Petitioner argues also that renters are treated as second-class citizens under the district's policies. The children of persons who buy land and are building a home in the district need not live in the district until the fourth quarter of that school year in order to receive a free public education. Renters, on the other hand, do not have this option. At best they must relocate within 60 calendar days from the beginning of school year, or the time they make their application. School districts have wide discretion to fashion policy and their decisions may not be disturbed unless arbitrary and capricious. Thomas v. Board of Educ. of Morris, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. Board of Educ. of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div 1960). Distinctions of every stripe are made daily in school districts and this alone is not an infirmity. Renters and existing-home buyers appear to fall into one category; new construction falls into another. There is nothing particularly invidious about this, as new construction is often marked by unanticipated delays. Although petitioner submitted copies of a number of equal protection cases,[3] none suggest that the distinctions here suffer from constitutional infirmities. Moreover, petitioner was not a tenant, homeowner, or landowner within the meaning of Princeton's out-of-district admission policy, and she is in no position to assert the rights of others. To fall within the policy petitioner would have to actually relocate into leased premises during the school year and then be denied free tuition. At that point she could join issue on the question of whether landowners and homeowners are wrongly favored.

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the petition seeking a tuition waiver is DENIED and that the Board is entitled to tuition for the 2000/01 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

[3] These come from a 1979 edition of a constitutional law text appended to petitioner's closing submission.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

H.M., on behalf of her minor child, R.E.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE PRINCETON REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were submitted by petitioner in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1 18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination. [1]

In her exceptions, petitioner essentially reiterates the arguments presented before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) claiming that, although she and her daughter never lived in the house she rented in conjunction with two other individuals so that she could produce the required lease specified on the green enrollment form, she believed that she was acting in accordance with the District's requirement for residency as listed on that form because respondent's enrollment form failed to explain the definition of residency within the meaning of the residency statutes. Thus, petitioner maintains, she honestly misunderstood the legalities of residency and domicile which would entitle her daughter to attend respondent's schools free of charge. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 6-8) Petitioner also asserts that the ALJ's contention that the basic facts are undisputed is not correct, stating that the facts as the ALJ recites them are "absolutely disputed." (Id. at 2) Petitioner claims that the ALJ misconstrued her testimony and that of Director Bryant and Attendance Officer Cream and that the ALJ was biased in favor of respondent's view of the disputed facts. (Id. at 1-2) Additionally, petitioner asserts that Mr. Bryant lied on the witness stand with respect to the availability of any waiver offered to tenants, and that the ALJ's denial of her motion to reopen the case so that she might bring other witnesses to prove that Mr. Bryant testified falsely and to prove that respondent "is allowing people to rent or own without sleeping in their domiciles, and yet still attend school," prevents a fair determination in this matter. (Id. at 8)

[1] Petitioner submitted additional exceptions, which she labels as an "addendum" to her exceptions, five days after the due date for exceptions. Since N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 does not provide for submissions after the date for filing exceptions or for submitting exceptions in a bifurcated manner, petitioner's additional submission has not been considered.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, including transcripts of the proceedings before the ALJ and exceptions submitted by petitioner, the Commissioner affirms the findings and conclusions in the Initial Decision.

Initially, the Commissioner notes his agreement that no meaningful purpose would be served by the granting of petitioner's motion to reopen. Even assuming, arguendo, that Mr. Bryant testified falsely with respect to the availability of any waiver offered to tenants who plan to move into the District within 60 days of the opening of school, petitioner's assertion that, if she had known about the waiver, this knowledge would have changed everything because she would have waited to find a house that she could live in, is, at best, speculative. Petitioner has stated that rentals are difficult to find in Princeton, and, as the ALJ observed, petitioner's closing statement indicates that she has yet to find a house in Princeton for the coming year. Even if petitioner had been successful in finding a home in order to move into Princeton after the start of school, however, she would have had to apply to the superintendent for approval of the 60-day waiver and such approval would be based on the facts presented in her application. Moreover, petitioner did not provide affidavits from the additional witnesses she now wishes to call indicating what "newly discovered" evidence they would testify to in a second hearing. Additionally, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner has had a full and fair opportunity to present her arguments and to present witnesses on her behalf. Therefore, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's motion to reopen was appropriately denied.

The Commissioner also rejects petitioner's claim that equitable estoppel should be applied so as to excuse her from paying tuition for her daughter's ineligible attendance in respondent's schools because she made an error that anyone not familiar with the legalities of domicile might make, and that she was misled by the lack of information explaining that a person had to actually live in the District, not just rent or own property in the District, to attend school without charge. Nothing in the record demonstrates that petitioner consulted with anyone in authority in the District concerning her plan to rent part of a house in Princeton, without living there, so that her daughter could qualify for a free education in respondent's schools, while she and her daughter continued to live in Lahaska, Pennsylvania. As noted by the ALJ, the District does have a detailed policy on nonresident student attendance and full disclosure by the petitioner would have enabled a full exchange of information.

With respect to petitioner's claim that tenants are treated disparately from those building a home within respondent's School District because those building a home need not live in the District until the fourth quarter to receive a free education, while tenants, at best, must move into the District within 60 days, the Commissioner finds that such distinction alone is not necessarily improper. As noted by the ALJ, the Board's policy is written such that tenants and existing home buyers fall into one category and new construction falls into another, which may reasonably be attributed to the fact that construction of a new home is often marked by unanticipated delays. Moreover, as the ALJ pointed out, petitioner lives out-of-state, not in respondent's District, and is, therefore, not a tenant or homeowner within the meaning of the District's out-of-district admission policy.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the Initial Decision of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein. Petitioner is, therefore, directed to reimburse the Board tuition in the amount of $9,791.[2]

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on August 17, 2001, by Michael K. McFadden, Esq., by the filing of a Petition of Appeal and seeking emergent relief concerning the placement of minor child, R.M., in the fourth grade under the direction and control of the Board of Education of the City of Linwood, commencing on or about September 4, 2001; and

The matter having been transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13; and

The parties having filed briefs of law before this administrative tribunal prior to the scheduled Oral Argument on August 23, 2001; and

The undersigned having heard and considered the oral arguments of the parties; and

This tribunal having applied the criteria for the granting of emergent relief as set forth by our Supreme Court in the matter of Crowe v. Degioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982); and Having denied petitioner's application for emergent relief on the grounds that petitioner failed to demonstrate that immediate and irreparable harm would be visited upon R.M.;

It is NOW ORDERED, that this matter move forward to a plenary hearing on August 30, 2001; September 11, 13, and 14, 2001, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The decision and Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), along with an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law on this emergent matter have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief as he concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has not satisfied the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Most particularly, petitioner has failed to demonstrate that irreparable harm would inure absent the granting of the requested relief.

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter shall move to plenary hearing on its merits, scheduled to begin on August 30, 2001, as directed by the ALJ.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, former assistant principal with 25 years experience in the District's employ, sought back pay, attorney fees and service credit for the period of suspension in 1997 when criminal indictment was filed against him and later dismissed after pre-trial intervention (PTI) was completed by petitioner. Petitioner had been charged with sexually assaulting and recklessly endangering the welfare of a child.

The ALJ noted that indemnification for the costs of defending against the charges for which petitioner was indicted, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 16-6.1, require 1) that the charges arose out of the course of his employment and 2) that the charges resulted in a final disposition in favor of petitioner. In this matter, the ALJ determined that petitioner's participation in PTI was not tantamount to an acquittal; the component factors of the PTI program imply guilt with amenability to rehabilitation, not innocence. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that petitioner's participation in the PTI program was not a final disposition in his favor under the provisions of the indemnification statutes. The ALJ further found that the charges did not arise out of or in the course of his employment. Moreover, there was no statutory or equitable basis on which to award back pay and service credit.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own with clarification. The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that it is well-established that the Courts, in interpreting N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, have held that successful completion of PTI leading to dismissal of charges is not a dismissal or favorable determination of a criminal proceeding entitling the employee to reimbursement. Thus, the Commissioner found it unnecessary to reach to the ALJ's discussion as to whether petitioner's criminal charges arose out of and during the course of his employment. As to petitioner's claim for back pay, benefits and restoration of service credit for the period of his suspension, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 makes no provision for back pay, regardless of the disposition of the criminal indictment and there is no basis under education laws here to award such relief. As to petitioner's reliance on the concepts of fundamental fairness and estoppel as justification for his recovery, the Commissioner found no merit to petitioner's contention that he properly and reasonably relied on a District administrator as having the authority to grant him the relief he sought thereby rendering the representations of this individual binding on the Board. The Commissioner noted that it is well-established that representations of an individual board member or administrator are insufficient to bind a board to a particular course of action. (Dorrington) Petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner seeks back pay, attorney fees and service credit for the period during which he was suspended in 1997. Criminal charges which had been filed were dismissed after Petitioner completed a pretrial intervention program. The matter was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case on May 12, 2000, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

At the time of hearing, the parties requested leave to submit briefs and a schedule was set. The record closed on May 9, 2001, but was reopened when the Court needed clarification of certain issues. The record then closed on June 12, 2001.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

1. Robert Busler (Busler or Petitioner) was employed at all times relevant to this petition by the East Orange Board of Education (Board or Respondent) and the East Orange School District (District) whose address is 715 Park Avenue, East Orange, New Jersey.

2. Busler was arrested in East Orange, New Jersey in June 1996. He was charged with sexually assaulting and recklessly endangering the welfare of a child.

3. As a result of those charges, the Respondent voted to suspend Busler without pay from his position as Assistant Principal at Clifford J. Scott High School (Clifford School) effective January 23, 1997, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. As of that date, Busler had accumulated 24 years and 5 months service. His suspension without pay continued through November 30, 1997. During Busler's entire education career, he had been assigned to the Clifford School where he taught English for 16 years and was Assistant Principal for the remainder of his career.

4. Busler retired from the District on December 1, 1997.

5. During the period between January 23 and November 30, 1997, Busler would have been paid $51,476.37 and the time would have been credited toward early retirement and pension.

6. The State dismissed the charges against Busler with prejudice on August 13, 1998, upon completion of Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI). There was no finding or admission of criminal liability and no plea agreement was entered into. An investigation by the New Jersey Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) determined that the allegations against Busler were unsubstantiated.

7. Busler's admission into the PTI program was intentionally structured to delay the disposition so that Busler could accumulate enough time for early retirement. Busler would then voluntarily resign from his position with the District and obtain his back pay and pension credit. The Assistant Prosecutor, Robert Laurino, who handled the case, was aware of and consented to this arrangement. It was because of representations made to him by District employees that Busler agreed to accept PTI as a means to resolution of the criminal case. If not for the promises of the school District employees, Busler would have elected to go to trial to prove his innocence.

8. Shortly after the charges against Busler were dismissed, his counsel wrote numerous letters to Dr. King and Marvin Comick, Board attorney, demanding the plaintiff immediately be paid all salary, benefits, pension and reimbursement for legal expenses owed to him since his suspension on January 23, 1997. The Board owes Busler legal fees in the amount of $17,943.87.

9. On May 13, 1999, Dr. King, in a letter to Mark Kramer, authorized Busler's back pay and requested that the payment of the monies be expedited to Busler. That letter also instructed Busler be given a Perfect Attendance Bonus for the 1996-97 school year and a Responsibility Factor Stipend for the 1997-98 school year.

10. Two checks were issued to Busler on June 15, 1999, by the Board: check number 130659 in the amount of $6,339.25 and check number 130657, in the amount of $45,137.12. Busler deposited those checks on June 16, 1999, into his joint checking account.

11. Busler made a request for attorney fees on June 17, 1999, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1. An invoice for legal services rendered to Busler was sent to Mr. Comick on that date for a total amount of $17,943.87.

12. Subsequently, on June 17, 1999, Mr. Comick instructed the Board to stop payment on the two checks issued to Busler.

13. Busler received notice that the Board would meet to decide whether he was entitled to back pay and counsel fees on October 19, 1999.

14. Respondent has not reimbursed Busler for any amount of the salary owed to him for the period of time in which he was suspended without pay.

15. Dr. King and the District had timely notice of Petitioner's claim for reimbursement Busler and Alan L. Zegas.

16. A copy of the complaint and retainer agreement were furnished in compliance with District policy.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The issues to be resolved in this matter are twofold:

1. Is Petitioner entitled to retroactive pay and service credit lost during the period of suspension, from January 23, 1997 to November 30, 1997, after which he resigned; and

2. Is Petitioner, under the circumstances of this case, entitled to be reimbursed for attorney fees incurred?

Initially, I note that the District's action in suspending Petitioner was predicated on the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, which provides for suspension without pay when an indictment is handed down against any employee or officer of a board of education.

In this case, an indictment on charges of sexual assault and recklessly endangering the welfare of a child was handed down against Petitioner, who was then suspended without pay.[1] Petitioner chose to participate in a PTI program which he completed. As a result of the successful completion of the program, the charges against Petitioner were dismissed. Petitioner resigned his position effective December 1, 1997. He now seeks restoration of service credit lost and back pay for the period of the suspension, as well as indemnification of legal fees.

The first issue to be determined is whether Petitioner is also entitled to indemnification for the costs of defending against the charges on which he was indicted. In resolving this issue, it is necessary to read the provisions of the indemnification statutes in pari materia. The pertinent statutes provides that a school employee may be reimbursed for expenses incurred in defending a civil or criminal action when the underlying charges are predicated on an act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of the employee's duties. A final disposition in favor of the employee results in indemnification. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6; N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

[1] A female student accused Petitioner of inappropriate touching and he was arrested in June 1996; during the period of investigation, he was assigned to the District administrative offices and received his full salary until the indictment was handed down.

Petitioner rests his claim for back pay and the restoration of service credit on two separate grounds, those of fundamental fairness and estoppel. The parties agree that the statute makes no provision for the relief Petitioner seeks. Turning first to the issue of fundamental fairness, Petitioner cites several cases to support the assertion that he is entitled to pay for the period of suspension. In each of he cases on which this Petitioner relies, however, the Petitioner was acquitted of the charges for which he was suspended.[2] In this case, the criminal charges against Petitioner were dismissed after successful completion of PTI.

As Respondent asserts, participation in the PTI program is not tantamount to an acquittal. The component factors of the PTI program imply guilt with amenability to rehabilitation, not innocence. Lindes v. Sutter, 621 F. Supp. 1197 (1985).[3]

In this case, Petitioner asserts that the dismissal of the charges with prejudice at the successful completion of the PTI program is a disposition in his favor. Respondent, on the other hand, argues that while such a dismissal may be a final disposition of the charges, it is not a favorable one within the meaning of the statute. In coming to a determination as to whether a claimant is entitled to indemnification, the courts engage in a two pronged analysis which focuses on whether the charges involved arose out of the performance of the employee's duties and responsibilities and whether successful completion of PTI constituted grounds for indemnification because the underlying was dismissed or resulted in a final disposition in favor of the employee. Pawlak v. Borough of Hopatcong, 1988 S.L.D. 132; McCorkle v. Pittsgrove Township Board of Education (App. Div. A-5580-81T2, June 2, 1983).

[2] Petitioner relies on Griffin v. Board of Educ. of the City of Paterson, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (Edu), 1993; Beatty v. Newton Board of Education, 1991 S.L.D. (Comm'r June 25, 1991) as decisions specific to school law; he relies on Eaddy v. Dept. of Transportation, 208 N.J. Super. 156, 162; Romanowski v. Board of Educ. of Jersey City, 89 N.J. Super. 38, 40-41 (App. Div. 1965) for the general proposition that a "fully vindicated employee must be made whole."

[3] I reject Petitioner's assertion that Lindes is not relevant to the case at bar. For the purpose for which Respondent offered Lindes, the court's analysis of the purpose of the PTI program, it is certainly relevant.

In each of the cases cited by Respondent, the tribunal found that the charges, similar to those lodged against Busler, were not of the quality or character to be classified as arising out of or in the performance of the duties of the Petitioner therein. Thus, having failed to meet the first of the two-pronged test, it was unnecessary for either tribunal to proceed to address the issue of the impact of the successful completion of the PTI program on the claim for indemnification.

Petitioner asserts that the determination in Bower v. Bd. of Educ. of East Orange, 149 N.J. 416 (1997) is applicable in resolving this case. In Bower, however, the criminal charges were dismissed before trial and not as a result of participation in PTI. Dismissal of the charges before trial rises to the level of exculpation. As noted above, the component factors of the PTI program imply guilt; the purpose of the program is rehabilitation, not exoneration. Moreover, the Appellate Division has addressed the issue, noting that the statute intends that only exoneration will entitle a claimant to reimbursement of legal expense. A claimant cannot use the legal fiction of a diversionary program to support a conclusion that there was a final determination in his favor. Cressinger v. Board of Educ., 256 N.J. Super. 155, (App. Div. 1992) Citations omitted.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that Petitioner's participation in the PTI program is not a final disposition in his favor under the provisions of the indemnification statutes; I further CONCLUDE that the determination of Respondent should be affirmed.

In a case involving similar charges, Petitioner also participated in PTI, was required to resign his position as a condition of participation, and, at the successful completion of PTI, made claims for indemnification of legal costs, back pay and other contractual benefits. The State Board of Education issued a decision concurring with the determination of the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner, both of whom had found the conduct with which Petitioner had been charged could not have arisen out of the scope of his duties under any circumstances; accordingly, there could be no indemnification; in addition, the State Board held that the claim for back pay for the period of his suspension pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 was without merit because that statute makes no provision for back pay regardless of the disposition of the indictment and the Board could find no basis under the education laws upon which to award such a claim. Pawlak v. Bd. of Educ. of Hopatcong, 1988 S.L.D. 154.

Similarly, in this case, I FIND no basis under the education laws to award back pay and service credit for the period of suspension.

Petitioner also asserts, however, that because Assistant Superintendent Dr. Kenneth King assured him that he would receive back pay and service credit, Respondent is estopped from denying his claims. Petitioner asserts, in essence, that an agency by estoppel exists between the District Board and Dr. King. The concept of agency by estoppel is predicated on several factors. First, the alleged principal must have engaged in conduct calculated to mislead the third party.[4] Second, the alleged principal should have expected the conduct to be relied and acted upon in good faith to the injury of an innocent party. Most importantly, there must have been some representation or conduct on the part of the purported principal; the representations of the purported agent are not sufficient. 2A C.J.S. § 61.

In this case, there is nothing in the record to indicate that the District engaged in any conduct which was calculated to mislead Busler. The representations of Dr. King, without more, are not sufficient to cloak him in a mantel of agency.

Moreover, Petitioner was employed by the Board as a teacher and as an assistant principal for 25 years. It is inconceivable that someone who has literally spent his adult, professional life in public education would rely on informal discussions with a colleague, albeit a supervisor, in making decisions regarding retirement and indemnification. Petitioner asserts that there is no evidence that Busler knew or should have known that Dr. King did not have the authority to bind the Board or District.

[4] In this case, the alleged or purported principal would be the District; the alleged or purported agent would be Dr. King and the third party would be Busler.

Looking at the record as a whole, however, it is reasonable to infer that, based on 25 years of experience in public education, Petitioner was aware of the hierarchical nature public education.

Accordingly, I FIND that there is no basis grounded in estoppel on which to award back pay and service credit.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that he determination of Respondent should be affirmed; I further CONCLUDE that this petition should be dismissed in its entirety with prejudice.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the determination of Respondent be and hereby is AFFIRMED; I further ORDER that this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ROBERT BUSLER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF EAST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination here.

Petitioner's exceptions 1) object to the omission of what he avers are certain relevant facts in points 7, 8 and 9 of the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Factual Findings[1]; 2) claim the cases cited by the ALJ on pages 6-7 of the Initial Decision are factually irrelevant as they are distinguishable from the within matter because in none of these cited cases "was a petitioner actually issued a check for the full disputed amount let alone actually receiving and depositing said check," as was the circumstance here (emphasis in text) (Petitioner's exceptions at 2); and 3) contest the ALJ's determination that the Board was not bound, by the doctrine of agency by estoppel, to honor Dr. King's representations that petitioner would be reimbursed for counsel fees and back pay if the charges against him were dismissed, irrespective of any conditions accompanying such dismissal. Here, petitioner argues that his undisputed hearing testimony established that Dr. King, who was Assistant Superintendent of Personnel and his long-standing supervisor, was aware of the charges against him and served as his conduit to the personnel committee throughout the pendency of the matter. He professes that Dr. King's authority to speak for the Board was evidenced by the fact that it was he who informed petitioner of his suspension and authorized the issuance of checks to petitioner, which were subsequently issued. As such, he argues, contrary to the conclusion of the ALJ, it was entirely reasonable for petitioner to rely on the representations which had been made to him by this individual.

In reply, the Board advances that although petitioner claims to have placed a great deal of reliance on representations, supposedly made by Dr. King, that he would be reimbursed back pay and legal fees if the charges against him were dismissed, irrespective of any conditions on such dismissal, there is no independent corroboration of such a "sweeping representation" in the record. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1) Indeed, it argues, the statement, in and of itself, is illogical. Even assuming, arguendo, that Dr. King may have been of the impression that petitioner's successful completion of pretrial intervention (PTI) would entitle him to the compensation he claims, this administrator's suppositions are not the issue here. The focus of attention in this matter is whether petitioner is legally entitled to the relief he seeks. Pursuant to applicable statutes and relevant case law, PTI is not a successful disposition of criminal charges which would operate to trigger the monetary protections claimed by petitioner.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which it is noted did not contain transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL, the Commissioner, finding petitioner's exceptions without merit, is in accord with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner is neither entitled to indemnification for attorney fees and expenses nor back pay and pension credit for the period he was suspended subsequent to his indictment.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that petitioner seeks reimbursement for legal fees and expenses accrued in defending against his prior criminal action pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 which must be read in pari materia and, in pertinent part, specify:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6: Indemnity of officers and employees against civil actions
> Whenever any civil action has been or shall be brought against any person holding any office, position or employment under the jurisdiction of any board of education, for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of the duties of such office, position, employment , the board shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting therefrom. (emphasis supplied)
> N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 Indemnity of officers and employees in certain criminal actions
> Should any criminal action be instituted against any such person for any such act or omission and should such proceeding be dismissed or result in a final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall reimburse him for the cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the original hearing or trial and all appeals. (emphasis supplied)

Thus, an employee is entitled to reimbursement for the cost of attorney's fees and expenses upon the satisfaction of a two-pronged analysis: 1) whether the charged offense arose out of and during the course of the employee's performance of his duties and responsibilities; and 2) whether the underlying criminal action is dismissed or resulted in a final disposition in favor of the employee. As was recognized by the ALJ, it is well-established that the Courts, in interpreting N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, have held that an employee's successful completion of PTI leading to dismissal of the charges against him is not a dismissal or favorable determination of a criminal proceeding, within the intendment of this statute, entitling the employee to reimbursement. See Cressinger, supra; Thadeus Pawlak v. Board of Education of the Borough of Hopatcong, (App. Div. A-5083-87T2, July 12, 1989). Given that petitioner's application here clearly fails to satisfy this requisite statutory condition, the Commissioner finds it unnecessary to reach to the ALJ's discussion on page 7 of the Initial Decision as to whether petitioner's criminal charges arose out of and during the course of his employment.[2]

With respect to petitioner's claim for back pay, benefits and restoration of service credit for the period of his suspension, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, from January 23, 1997 to November 30, 1997, the Commissioner finds and concludes, as did the ALJ, that this statute makes no provision for back pay, regardless of the disposition of the criminal indictment, and that there is no basis under education laws here to award such relief.

Finally, turning to petitioner's contention of entitlement to his requested reliefs pursuant to the concepts of fundamental fairness and estoppel, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ that reliance on either of these doctrines is misplaced in this matter. First, as to fundamental fairness, as was pointed out by the ALJ, each of the cases relied on by petitioner "for the general proposition that a 'fully vindicated employee must be made whole,'" (Initial Decision at 6, footnote 2) are inapposite to the within matter, as in those cases each of the petitioners was acquitted of the charges for which he was suspended while here the charges were dismissed subsequent to completion of PTI, which is not tantamount to an acquittal or vindication. The Commissioner similarly finds no merit in petitioner's contention that he properly and reasonably relied on a District administrator as having the authority to grant him the relief he sought, thereby rendering the representations of this individual as binding on the Board. It is by now well-established that the representations of an individual board member or administrator are insufficient to bind a board to a particular course of action. See Cheryl Dorrington v. North Bergen Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 247; see, also, Kevin Griffin v. Board of Education of the City of Paterson, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 882 (1993). Rather, the Commissioner concludes that here, as in Dorrington:

> An examination of the [full] record reveals that the Board committed itself not at all to petitioner, but that petitioner mistakenly relied on the opinions and assurances of [a Board administrator] in concluding that a commitment had been made. Such reliance was misplaced, since opinions and assurances cannot stand in the stead of deliberate Board action.
> Dorrington 1982 S.L.D. at 256, quoting Anna Brennan v. Board of Education of the City of Pleasantville, 1977 S.L.D. 1059.

As found by the ALJ, it is inconceivable that petitioner, as a professional educator and administrator with 25 years experience in the District's employ, would be unaware of this "hierarchical nature of public education." Initial Decision at 9.[3]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons stated therein as clarified above and the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

[3] Petitioner's contention that issuance of checks for the monies he sought at the direction of Dr. King evidences the reasonableness of his reliance on this individual's representations is misplaced. This argument is specifically belied by the fact that payment on such checks was almost immediately stopped, in obvious recognition that the administrator had exceeded his authority in directing their issuance.

[4] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:2-1.1 et seq. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

On June 6, 2001, following review of the record of this matter and advisement of failure to appear transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, along with copies of the notification sent to the petitioner by the OAL on April 18, 2001, providing petitioner ten days to submit an explanation for such nonappearance, the Commissioner dismissed this matter with prejudice due to petitioner's failure to appear at hearing or to provide an explanation for her nonappearance. Petitioner was further ordered to pay tuition for the period of B.N's ineligible attendance in the District's schools on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance.

On August 29, 2001, the Commissioner received a letter from petitioner requesting that the matter be rescheduled for hearing due to a "mix up on my behalf and the mail," stating that she "[could] not remember receiving a notice stating a hearing date" and that failure to attend a hearing was purely an oversight on her part. (Petitioner's Letter of August 27, 2001 at 1-2) Petitioner further submits that she has custody of B.N. and that if she cannot attend Ewing Schools, B.N. has no school to attend. (Id. at 2)

Upon a careful review of the record in this matter, and in light of petitioner's assertion that she cannot remember receiving notice of the hearing date and was unaware of such date, the Commissioner determines that, in the interest of fundamental fairness and B.N's ability to obtain an education, this matter must be returned to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with N.J.A.C. 1:1-1 et seq.

Accordingly, this matter shall be returned to the OAL for further proceedings, along with a request that this matter be heard on an expedited basis as it involves a residency dispute.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 11, 1996, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

During the pendency of the case at the Office of Administrative Law, the parties settled their differences as provided in the attached Order Dismissing Petition.

Having reviewed the contents of the attached Order Dismissing Petition, I FIND (a) that they are consistent with the law, (b) that they fully dispose of all issues in controversy, and (c) that they were voluntarily entered into by the parties.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the attached Order Dismissing Petition meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.1 and I hereby APPROVE same. In conjunction therewith, I ORDER that the parties comply with its contents and that these proceedings be (and are hereby) TERMINATED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. THIS MATTER having been brought before the Commissioner of Education and the Office of Administrative Law by Feintuch, Porwich & Feintuch, attorneys for petitioner, and by Charlotte Kitler, Esq., attorney for respondent, and it appearing that the petition seeks to have certain sick days restored to the petitioner's credit for absences alleged to be due to work-related injury;

AND IT appearing that the petition in the matter was filed beyond the 90-day time period prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) (previously 6:24-1.2(c)), and the sole issue is whether the 90-day rule should be relaxed because of an alleged custom of having disputes about sick days submitted to a Judge of Workers' Compensation for resolution;

AND it further appearing that this issue has already been determined by Administrative Law Judge Elinor Reiner and by the Commissioner of Education in the case of Nichols et als. v. State-Operated School District of Jersey City, OAL Docket No. EDU

9048-96, where it was held that the 90-day rule should not be relaxed and the petitions were dismissed;

AND finding that the determination in the Nichols case should properly be the same to apply here; and for good cause shown,

IT IS on this 17 day of July 2001,

ORDERED that the petition in this matter shall be and hereby is DISMISSED.

Record Closed: July 10, 2001 Decided: July 16, 2001

BEFORE MICHAEL L. RAVIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

This matter involves tenure charges of conduct unbecoming certified by the Demarest Board of Education ("Board") against Gerard Mabli ("Mr. Mabli") under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to-18.1.

[1] The original Initial Decision - Settlement, bearing OAL Dkt. EDU 7998-00, was dated April 7, 2001 and is incorporated herein by reference.

Gerard Mabli is a tenured teacher designated as a Technology Coordinator employed by the Board. On or about September 8, 2000, tenure charges were filed with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") in connection with actions Mr. Mabli took on or about June 21 or June 22, 1999. The four separate charges alleged that Mr. Mabli, while employed by the Board as a Technology Coordinator, committed acts of conduct unbecoming, namely: (1) the destruction, misuse, and unauthorized removal of computer software operating systems; (2) violation of policies and procedures; (3) insubordination; and (4) disregard of the educational needs of students. On September 15, 2000, respondent filed an answer. On September 21, 2000, the Commissioner referred this matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

The matter was heard by me on January 9, 10, 11 and 12, 2001. The parties were then offered the opportunity to submit posthearing submissions and replies.

Prior to the due date for the parties posthearing submissions, I was advised that the parties had agreed to a Stipulation of Settlement, subject to approval by the Commissioner.

After reviewing the Stipulation of Settlement and as reflected in my April 7, 2001 Initial Decision, I found that it was in accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in In Re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. (1983), which instructs that the record of any proposed settlement must include:

> . . . the nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the Board of Education and the teacher to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's finding that the teacher entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights, and [a finding] that the agreement is consistent with the public interest.

I therefore ordered the parties to comply with the settlement terms, concluded the proceedings and sent the Initial Decision adopting the settlement to the Commissioner of the Department of Education for consideration.

On or about June 1, 2001, the Commissioner rejected the settlement and remanded the matter to the OAL. As stated in the synopsis of the Decision:

> The Commissioner noted that the proposed agreement does not indicate that the parties considered the potential impact referral of this matter to the State Board of Examiners might have on their agreement should the State Board of Examiners act on respondent's certification during the term of employment contemplated by the agreement. Absent an expression by the parties of their understanding and acceptance of this eventuality, the Commissioner could not approve the settlement.

After discussing the Commissioner's concerns with the parties, the parties agreed to submit an Addendum to the Stipulation of Settlement and Settlement Agreement, subject to the approval of the Commissioner. In addition to incorporating therein by reference all terms and conditions of the original settlement, the Addendum, which was filed with the OAL on July 10, 2001, recites in pertinent part:

> [T]he parties have reviewed the comments and objections to the settlement from the Commissioner of Education and are mindful of the issues raised by the Commissioner concerning any potential action taken by the State Board of Examiners, and agree to the terms and conditions of the underlying agreement and will deal with the consequences of any such action when and if they arise.

Having reviewed the Stipulation of Settlement, Settlement Agreement and Addendum ("agreement"), I FIND that it explicitly includes the nature of the charges and the consent or authorization of the Board and Mr. Mabli. I FIND that Mr. Mabli entered into the agreement with full understanding of his rights. I further FIND that Mr. Mabli understands the Commissioner's duty pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.7(b)(1)(i) to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of his certificate.

I further FIND that the agreement expresses that the Board and Mr. Mabli considered the potential impact such referral might have on their agreement should the State Board of Examiners act on Mr. Mabli's certification during the term of employment contemplated by the agreement. I further FIND that the parties understand and accept this eventuality.

I FIND that Mr. Mabli is satisfied with his attorney's representation and had adequate time to discuss the contents of the agreement.

Finally, I FIND the agreement is consistent with public policy. The parties acknowledge the public interest in saving considerable costs in attorney's fees through amicably settling this matter. The Board is expressly aware of the public's interest in the proper pursuit and handling of tenure charges, but recognizes that even if the charges were proven true, Mr. Mabli might not be dismissed, given mitigating factors which arguably exist in the record. For his part, Mr. Mabli, while never conceding the validity of the tenure charges, does not want to risk that the charges may be sustained and that he may be dismissed.

I FIND the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE CHARGES AGAINST GERARD M. MABLI, TEACHING STAFF, MEMBER OF THE DEMAREST BOARD OF EDUCATION DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

OAL Docket No. EDU 7998-00
Agency Ref. No. 311-9/08

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties to this matter, the Petitioner, Demarest Board of Education ("Board") and Respondent, Gerard M. Mabli ("Mabli"), having reached an agreement to resolve the matter amicably, hereby request that the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education approve the following terms as the settlement agreement:

1. The parties state and agree that this agreement and all terms of this agreement are contingent upon approval by the Administrative Law Judge and Commissioner of Education, and that if any of the terms of this agreement are rejected by the Administrative Law Judge or the Commissioner of Education, this agreement shall be deemed null and void, and the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for completion of the record including the rendering of a decision by the Administrative Law Judge in relation to tenure charges filed in this matter, but that nothing in this paragraph or agreement shall, in any event, preclude the parties from agreeing to a new, revised or modified settlement agreement, provided that such agreement shall be subject to the approval of the Administrative Law Judge and of the Commissioner of Education.

2. Rationale for Settlement: On or about September 6, 2000 some four separate tenure charges were filed by the Board against the respondent for his actions occurring on June 22, 1999. The four separate charges alleged that Mabli, while employed as a Technology Coordinator with the Board, committed acts of conduct unbecoming, namely, (1) the destruction, misuse, and unauthorized removal of computer software operating systems; (2) violation of policies and procedures; (3) insubordination; and (4) disregard of the educational needs of students. Mabli denied the charges and the matter proceeded to a hearing on January 9, 10, 11 and 12, 2001. Transcripts have been received and a briefing schedule was ordered by Administrative Law Judge Ravin. Both the Board and Mabli believe that it is in the best interest of all parties and the public to amicably resolve this matter pursuant to the specific terms set forth below.

The Board is aware of the public's interest in the proper pursuit and handling of tenure charges which in the present case are considered serious and warranted. However, the Board understands that the charges, even if proven true may not result in a dismissal of Mabli in light of his having taught in the District for over 21 years without incident and with positive evaluations.

Mabli does not concede nor has he conceded the validity of the tenure charges. Nevertheless, he understands that the tenure charges may be sustained and he does not want to take the risk.

Furthermore, the parties both acknowledge the public interest in saving considerable costs in attorneys fees through amicably settling this matter.

3. The parties agree that based upon and subject to the terms and conditions of this agreement, the Board shall withdraw the tenure charges and will not appeal the Commissioner's decision dismissing the tenure charges.

4. Mabli agrees to withdraw his challenge to the increment withholding, which is pending in arbitration and to rescind his Notice of Tort Claim filed against the Board and the Superintendent of Schools. The parties recognize that Mabli has claims and certain rights, including status as a tenured teacher arising from his employment by the Board. In exchange for the foregoing promises made by the Board, Mabli hereby releases the Board, its members, officers, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, representatives, and insurers (collectively referred to as "the Board") from all claims and liabilities which it or they may be subject to arising from Mabli's employment with the Board, except for any claims Mabli may assert for benefits under the State Workers Compensation laws, or any other rights Mabli may have pursuant to this agreement. Further, Mabli and anyone who succeeds to his rights, such as heirs or executors of his estate, or his assigns, waive any and all claims against the Board including, but not limited to claims for attorneys' fees, compensatory damages, emotional distress, punitive damages and costs allegedly incurred, as well as all claims arising under contract, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Civil Rights Act of 1866, the Age Discrimination and Employment Act of 1967, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Executive Orders 11246 and 11141, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, and all other claims arising under federal law, state law or the common law. Mabli will not make any claim to or receive additional monies or benefits which may be provided to the teachers in the Demarest School District pursuant to any Collective Bargaining Agreement or Board policy, including but not limited to any claim for payment for unused sick days or personal days. Mabli further represents that he has been given twenty-one days from the date of the receipt of this document to accept or reject this Agreement, and further that he has up to seven (7) days after signing this document to withdraw his agreement to this settlement. Nothing in this Agreement or the General Release given by Mabli shall preclude either party from bringing an action to enforce performance of any of the terms of this agreement, should there be a default of performance.

5. The parties agree that the Board shall pay Mabli his full salary, medical benefits and pension contributions, if any, for the 2000-2001 school year which salary is currently $73,605.00 per year, less the 120 days Mabli was suspended without pay during the 2000-2001 school year. The Board shall place Mabli on a terminal leave of absence for the 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 school years at half-pay ($36,802.50 per school year) with medical benefits and pension contributions, if any. The Board agrees to consider the 120-day suspension without pay as an unpaid leave of absence so as to permit Mabli to attempt to purchase back the time from the Teachers Pension & Annuity Fund ("TPAF"). If the TPAF does not permit the purchase back of his time, then commencing July 1, 2003, Mabli will be granted an unpaid leave of absence until on or about December 31, 2003, so as to permit Mabli to achieve 25 years of credited service with the TPAF. It is Mabli's sole responsibility to arrange for and purchase his pension credit for this unpaid leave of absence. During this unpaid leave of absence, the Board will continue Mabli's medical benefits with the expense thereof to be paid solely by Mabli. Mabli further agrees that he will pay the Board a lump sum payment by no later than June 15, 2003 to cover all such expenses for medical benefits for the entire period of this unpaid leave of absence. The Board will notify Mabli on or before June 1, 2003 of the exact amount of that lump sum payment. Should Mabli fail to make that lump sum payment to the Board on or before June 15, 2003, the Board will cease making all payments for Mabli's medical benefits as of June 30, 2003.

6. Along with this agreement, Mabli shall submit an irrevocable letter of resignation effective June 30, 2003 and shall not seek further employment with the Demarest Board of Education, which is annexed hereto as Exhibit A. If, however, the TPAF does not permit Mabli to purchase his pension credits for the 120-day suspension, then Mabli's resignation shall be deemed effective on or about December 31, 2003 so as to permit Mabli to achieve 25 years of credited service with the TPAF. Mabli further agrees that he will not enter Board property except for a legally required purpose.

7. The Board agrees that any reference for employment requested by and provided on behalf of Mabli will be a neutral recommendation stating the number of years worked with no mention of increment withholding or tenure charges. Mabli will not seek references from any administrator currently employed by the Board, with the exception of any administrator employed by the Board prior to the filing of the tenure charges. Any references received from current administrators employed by the Board will not be on Board or other Demarest Schools letterhead.

8. If Mabli obtains employment during the term of this agreement with another public entity that makes contributions to the TPAF on Mabli's behalf, any payments by the Board due to Mabli pursuant to this agreement shall immediately terminate as of the effective date of Mabli's employment with the other public entity.

9. This Stipulation of Settlement incorporates the complete financial obligation of the Board with respect to Mabli's employment relationship and separation of employment from the Board.

10. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document constitutes the entire understanding of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties. Duly executed copies of this Agreement shall be deemed originals.

11. By settling this matter, respondent acknowledges that he is waiving his right to a decision from the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education, in which he could obtain an adjudication of the merits of the tenure charges and of the penalty, if any, if the charges were sustained. Mabli further acknowledges that he understands and agrees to the terms of this agreement and is fully satisfied with the legal representation he has received in this matter.

12. Mabli is aware, and it has been explained to him, that the Commissioner of Education has a duty to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of his certificate.

THE UNDERSIGNED STATE THAT THEY HAVE CAREFULLY READ THE FOREGOING SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT, KNOW THE CONTENTS THEREOF, HAVE HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO DISCUSS THOSE CONTENTS WITH COUNSEL OR OTHER PERSONAL ADVISOR OF THEIR CHOOSING, FREELY AND VOLUNTARILY CONSENT TO ALL TERMS AND CONDITIONS THEREOF AND SIGN SAME AS THEIR OWN FREE ACT.

Re: Irrevocable Resignation of Employment

Dear Mr. Chilson:

Please be advised that I hereby tender my resignation from the teaching staff and any other employment with the Demarest Board of Education, effective June 30, 2003, in accordance with the Stipulation of Settlement and Settlement Agreement. If TPAF does not permit me to purchase back the 120 unpaid leave days from September 6, 2000 to January 15, 2001, my irrevocable resignation shall be effective December 31, 2003 to allow me to earn twenty-five (25) years of service. Furthermore, If I obtain employment with another public entity which contributes to the TPAF on my behalf, this resignation will become effective on the date my employment with the other public entity commences. I understand that this letter of resignation is irrevocable under any circumstances. I have discussed the contents of this letter with my attorney and sign this letter of resignation upon my own free will and accord.

Very truly yours,

Gerard Mabli

ADDENDUM TO STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties to this matter, the Petitioner, Demarest Board of Education ("Board") and Respondent, Gerard M. Mabli ("Mabli"), having reached an agreement to resolve this matter amicably, and the Commissioner of Education having raised some concerns regarding said agreement in his written opinion dated June 1, 2001, the parties hereby request that the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education approve this Addendum to the Stipulation of Settlement and Settlement Agreement upon the following terms:

1. The Board and Mabli incorporate herein by reference all terms and provisions of the Stipulation of Settlement and Settlement Agreement dated April 26, 2001; and

2. Furthermore, the parties have reviewed the comments and objections to the settlement from the Commissioner of Education and are mindful of the issues raised by the Commissioner concerning any potential action taken by the State Board of Examiners, and agree to the terms and conditions of the underlying agreement and will deal with the consequences of any such action when and if they arise.

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Jean Golden was elected to serve a three-year term on the Manville Board of Education in April 2000; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 1, 2000 and February 13, 2001; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2000 and April 2001 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2001; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on April 9, 2001, directing her to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, she replied that she could not attend due to her disability and that she had not received reminder notices from the NJSBA, but that she planned to attend the October 2001 session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified her that the Commission would discuss this matter at its June 26, 2001 meeting, that she had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission has considered the reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2000 to April 2001 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension to similarly situated board members to attend one of the June sessions; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Ms. Golden fails to attend by October, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have her removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Ms. Golden violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend her until she attends, but remove her from the board if she fails to attend by the October training session.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 245-7/01

IN THE MATTER OF JEANNE GOLDEN, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MANVILLE, SOMERSET COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of her failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on April 6, 2001, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why a penalty should not be imposed for such failure; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member informed the Commission by letter dated April 24, 2001, that she had not been able to attend training due to her disability and that she had not received reminder notices from the New Jersey School Boards Association, but that she planned to attend the October 2001 session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on June 26, 2001 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended until she takes the required training program; and

Whereas, the Commission further voted on June 26, 2001 that the above-named Board member be removed from office if she fails to so attend a required training program by the end of October 2001, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 12, 2001, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending removal; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member submitted a comment to the Commissioner expressing her dismay with the Commission's determination since she feels that the Commission did not give full consideration to her April, 2001 letter of explanation for her failure to attend and the fact that, upon receipt of the Commission's first letter regarding training, she immediately undertook action to ensure her registration for the October session; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and notes that the Commission provides for an extension, without penalty, to Board members who attend one of the training sessions scheduled for June 2001;

Whereas, he further notes that the above-named Board member advised that, upon receiving notice of this amnesty, she inquired about attending a June session and was told that both scheduled sessions were 2-day sessions and required extensive walking which this Board member did not feel her disability would allow her to do, whereupon she immediately undertook action to ensure her registration at the 1-day October session;

Whereas, in light of the explanation provided by the above-named Board member, the Commissioner cannot concur with the Commission's determination that this Board member should be suspended from office until her attendance at the October training session; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that, in the event the above-named Board member fails to complete the required training by October 23, 2001, the above-named Board member is hereby summarily removed from office effective October 24, 2001.*

John E. Collins, Esq., for the respondent (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, P.A., attorneys)

Record Closed: July 17, 2001 Decided: July 19, 2001

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the allegation of the petitioner, Ronald L. Burd, that the decision of the respondent, the Board of Education of the Delaware Valley Regional High School District, Hunterdon County, to withhold his increment for the 2000-01 school year was arbitrary and capricious. The petitioner requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 27, 2000, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

There was a telephone prehearing conference on February 26, 2001 and the conference was continued on March 6, 2001. The hearing was scheduled for July 23, 2001. Prior to that date, the parties conferred and agreed to a settlement. The attached stipulation sets forth the terms of the settlement, and is incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement, and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Dear Dr. Matula:

Please accept this letter as notification of my resignation from the professional staff of Delaware Valley Regional High School effective June 30, 2001.

This letter also serves as notice of my acceptance of the offer of $20,000 in addition to my sick leave conversion. I understand that, should I require more than three (3) sick days between March 2, 2001 and June 30, 2001, one day of pay will be deducted from the sick leave conversion for each additional day used.

In accepting the offer, I am certifying to the following:

- that I shall have accumulated 25 years of eligible service in the New Jersey Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) by June 30, 2001; and,
- that I shall leave the employ of the Delaware Valley Board of Education with no sick days to be used for any purpose.

I understand that, in order to satisfy eligibility requirements, this resignation must be filed in the Office of the Superintendent no later than March 16, 2001.

I also understand that I shall receive the money on the following schedule:

- half by July 1, 2001
- half by July 1, 2002

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. No. EDU 5520-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 198-6/00
(ON REMAND FROM OAL DKT.NO.7214-00)

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN H. YOUNG, CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY,

---

Joseph R. Morano, Esq., for petitioner (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Charles I. Auffant Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: July 11, 2001 Decided: July 20, 2001

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Commissioner of Education on July 3, 2001 following a decision by the Commissioner in which he rejected a previous settlement and remanded the case to the Office of Administrative Law for an explanation as to what underlying circumstances justified the conclusion that the settlement was in the public interest. See, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John H. Young, City of Orange Township School District, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7214-00, decided by the Commissioner May 24, 2001.

Following the Commissioner's remand to the Office of Administrative Law the parties reengaged in settlement discussions and prepared a revised Settlement Agreement. The new Agreement sets forth the prior history of the case and fully explains why the parties believe the settlement is in the public interest. Specifically, the Board notes that during the course of the hearing, and as a result of the testimony of certain witnesses, it became apparent that the tenure charges likely could not be sustained and therefore it was in the interest of all parties, including the public, to withdraw the case and transfer respondent to the Orange Middle School from Orange High School. The revised settlement also notes there was no allegation in the tenure charges involving conduct by Young unbecoming a teaching staff member.

The parties have agreed that respondent will: (a) resume his duties as an Assistant Principal, but at Orange Middle School rather than at Orange High School; (b) he will not be reduced in salary as a result of his reassignment and; (c) in addition, he shall receive compensation, subject to payroll deductions, in the amount of $29,518.22 representing 120 calendar days of employment from June 14, 2000 to October 14, 2000. Young will receive his full salary increment for the 2001-2001 school year as well. In addition, the parties agree to release each other from any and all claims for damages, salary, benefits, back pay or any other civil/administrative claim or cause of action, known or unknown. Upon execution of the agreement, the Board will withdraw the tenure charges, with prejudice. If, however, the Commissioner should reject the revised settlement, it then would become null and void and the charges would be restored. Finally, Young acknowledged that he entered into the revised agreement only after having an opportunity to consult with an attorney of his own choosing regarding its terms, and fully understands its contents and the duties and obligations set forth therein.

Based upon my independent consideration of the record in this case, including a review of the prior testimony and my own notes pertaining thereto, I agree it was unlikely the Board could establish the truth of the charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Moreover, even if one or more of the charges actually were sustained, the possibility of a substantial sanction was extremely remote. Under the circumstances, then, I also agree it is in the public interest, as well as the parties, to resolve the matter in the amicable fashion agreed to here.

Accordingly, having reviewed the Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal which is attached hereto and FIND as follows:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between the parties and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement and that these proceedings be and are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN H. YOUNG, CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY.	:	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
	:	AGENCY DKT. NO. 198-6/00 OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7214-00
	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement is made by and between John H. Young who resides at 1608 Montgomery Street, Rahway, New Jersey and the City of Orange Township Board of Education (hereinafter "the Board"), with offices located at 451 Lincoln Avenue, Orange, New Jersey. In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Agreement, and for good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned state:

WHEREAS, John H. Young is a tenured employee of the Board, having been employed as an assistant principal by the Board since on or about September 1, 1994; and

WHEREAS, the Board certified tenure charges of inefficiency against John H. Young to the Commissioner of Education captioned: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John H. Young, City of Orange Township School District, Agency Dkt. No. 198-6/00; and

WHEREAS, during the course of the tenure hearing and the testimony of certain witnesses, it became apparent to the Board that it could not sustain the charges; and

WHEREAS, during the course of the tenure hearing, it became apparent to both parties that their interests would be better served by the voluntary transfer of John Young to the Orange Middle School as opposed to continuing with the adjudication of charges of inefficiency; and

WHEREAS, both parties believe that a transfer to the Orange Middle School would be in the best interests of the students, the District and Mr. Young; and

WHEREAS, in consideration of the fact that the allegations contained in the tenure charges of inefficiency did not involve conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, both parties wish to amicably resolve this matter to the benefit of the Board of Education, as well as to benefit the professional improvement of the certificated employee involved; and

WHEREAS, in light of same, the Board believes that it is not in the public's interest to expend additional public funds in pursuit of these tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, the terms set forth below are acceptable to the Board and John Young; and

WHEREAS, this amicable resolution of the pending tenure matter shall not be construed as an admission of wrongdoing by either party;

IT IS on this 7th day of ~~June~~ July 2001, agreed that:

1. John H. Young will resume his duties as assistant principal in the Orange Public Schools, but at the Orange Middle School, rather than the High School, with such placement to be effective upon execution of this settlement agreement. For tenure purposes, Mr. Young's employment at the Middle School shall be treated as a voluntary transfer.

2. John H. Young's salary will not be reduced as a result of his reassignment by the District to an assistant principal position at the Orange Middle School. Mr. Young shall continue to be paid and receive the same benefits and emoluments as an Assistant Principal - High School.

3. John H. Young shall receive the amount of $29,518.22, which represents compensation for 120 calendar days of employment commencing on or about June 14, 2000 and ending on or about October 14, 2000, subject to the usual payroll deductions unless otherwise directed by the Court. Payment of this amount shall be released to Charles Auffant, Esq., attorney for John H. Young, within seven business days of approval of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. By signing this agreement, Mr. Young authorizes the board to make payment to Mr. Auffant.

4. Mr. Young shall receive his full salary increment for the 2001-2002 school year.

5. John H. Young and the Board hereby release, abandon, surrender, and waive any and all other claims to damages, salary, benefits, back pay, recoupment of monies or any other civil/administrative claim or cause of action, whether known or unknown, against one another, as well as against the Board's agents, employees, servants and Board members individually and collectively.

6. The Board agrees to withdraw the certified tenure charges against John H. Young captioned: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John H. Young, City of Orange Township School District, Agency Dkt. No. 198-6/00 with prejudice upon execution of the Settlement Agreement and Release by the parties.

7. Should the Commissioner refuse to approve the within settlement, then this Agreement shall be null and void and the subject charges shall continue in full force and effect.

8. John H. Young acknowledges that he has consulted with an attorney of his own choosing prior to signing this Agreement, and that he signs this Agreement and Release as his own voluntary act and deed, and that he fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

9. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

PETER KOWAL, Rahway Board of Education Union County	:	SEC Docket No.: T40-01

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Peter Kowal was elected to serve a three-year term on the Rahway Board of Education in April 2000; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 1, 2000 and February 13, 2001; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2000 and April 2001 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2001; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on April 9, 2001, directing him to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, he replied that he did not attend due to his father's illness, but that he planned to attend the October 2001 session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for all board members who had failed to attend within the year to attend one of the June sessions; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified him that the Commission would discuss this matter at its June 26, 2001 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission has considered the reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2000 to April 2001 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Kowal fails to attend by October, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Kowal violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends training, but remove him from the board if he fails to attend the October training session.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ADAM MUJICA,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC	:
COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges against respondent teacher alleging that he had, on numerous occasions, made sexually inappropriate remarks and gestures to students including commenting on female students' bodies, discussed his personal sex life, discussed the sexual aspects of a television program and addressed female students by the name of the title character, made sexual gestures and squeezed a sexual toy during class. In addition, respondent was alleged to have sexually harassed a female teacher by grabbing and squeezing her legs, made remarks in class about female students who had reported his inappropriate behavior in an attempt to intimidate them and approached a student after his suspension and attempted to convince her not to testify against him. Respondent denied all charges, and argued that the charges and testimony against him were motivated by a plot conceived by the physical education department to have him terminated from his position.

After hearing extensive testimony and argument and assessing the credibility of the witnesses, the ALJ concluded that the Board's witnesses were credible and that it had proven Charges one through five and eight, that Charge seven had been partially proven, and that Charges six and nine should be dismissed. The ALJ further determined that the charges that were sustained constituted conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and, because of the nature of the charges, recommended dismissal of respondent.

Upon review of the Initial Decision, transcripts and evidence submitted, the Commissioner agreed with and adopted the determination of the ALJ that the Board had sustained most of its charges by a preponderance of the evidence. Based on the nature of the proven charges, involving sexually inappropriate statements and gestures, as well as actions intended to dissuade students from testifying against him, the Commissioner determined to dismiss respondent from his teaching position. The Commissioner noted several past incidents of inappropriate conduct by respondent, and the fact that he was specifically warned by the Board in 1995 that future inappropriate conduct of a sexual nature would result in tenure charges against him, in support of this determination that dismissal, rather than a lesser penalty, was appropriate in this case.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10130-00

AGENCY DKT. NO. 417-11/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF ADAM MUJICA, STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY,

---

Gregory Johnson, Esq., appearing for petitioner State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson

John H. Norton, Esq., and Jonathan Meyers, Esq. appearing for respondent Adam Mujica (Alpert, Butler, Sanders & Norton, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 5, 2001 Decided: July 20, 2001

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 21, 2001, the Superintendent for the State-Operated District of the City of Paterson (District) certified tenure charges against respondent Adam Mujica, a tenured teacher at Eastside High School. The charges alleged eight separate acts of conduct unbecoming a teacher, particularly inappropriate conduct towards female pupils and a teacher and one act of insubordination. Upon certification of the charges, the respondent was suspended for 120 days. On December 5, 2000, respondent filed an answer denying all of the charges. On December 14, 2000, the Commissioner's office transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a plenary hearing. The OAL held a prehearing conference on January 8, 2001. After extended discovery, the hearings were held on April 2 through 6, 9 through 12, 16 & 17, 2001. After the District rested its case, the respondent moved to dismiss several of the charges; the undersigned dismissed Charge Nine (insubordination) and denied the remaining parts of the motion. The record was held open for transcripts, written summations and briefs. The record was closed with the submission of the petitioner's brief on June 5, 2001.

The Charges

Charge One:

During the 1999-2000 school year, the respondent made sexually inappropriate remarks and comments during history class causing female pupils to feel uncomfortable and embarrassed. On a number of occasions, the respondent made statements about an adult TV show entitled "Xica" (or Chica) and actors appearing naked. Respondent made statements to certain female pupils that they reminded him of naked actresses appearing on the show. The respondent's reprehensible conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming warranting his termination as a teacher.

Charge Two:

During the 1999-2000 school year, the respondent made sexually inappropriate gestures during history class. On several dates, the respondent held a bottle of whiteout in his hand and simulated a provocative motion masturbating in front of students. The respondent's reprehensible conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming warranting his termination as a teacher.

Charge Three:

During the 1999-2000 school year, the respondent had improper relations with female students. On one occasion, respondent told student V.D. that he was "going out" with a female student, L.R. Respondent stated that his wife had an operation resulting in sexual problems. The respondent's behavior caused V. to feel uncomfortable in respondent's class. The respondent's reprehensible conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming warranting his termination as a teacher.

Charge Four:

During the 1999-2000 school year, the respondent made sexually inappropriate remarks and comments during history class causing female pupils to feel uncomfortable and embarrassed. The respondent made statements about his personal sex life. Respondent told the class about a trip to Spain and his relations with a young lady in a hotel room. The respondent talked about kissing the young lady in the hotel room and stated "you guys know what happened next." On another occasion, the respondent talked of a vacation to the Philippines, and a woman who undressed in front of him. The respondent's reprehensible conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming warranting his termination as a teacher.

Charge Five:

During the 1999-2000 school year, the respondent made sexually inappropriate remarks and comments to students during history class causing female pupils to feel uncomfortable. The respondent squeezed a teddy bear toy, which made sounds mimicking people having sexual intercourse. Also, the respondent used his middle finger to point and make motions in a demeaning and profane manner. The respondent's reprehensible conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming warranting his termination as a teacher.

Charge Six:

On or about June 23, 1999, the respondent committed an act of sexual harassment by grabbing teacher Bonnie Cook on her legs and squeezing. At this time Ms. Cook was receiving medical attention by the school nurse for injuries suffered while breaking up a student fight. The respondent's actions were totally unjustified. The respondent's conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher warranting his removal.

Charge Seven:

During the 1999-2000 school year, the respondent made statements during class regarding female students that reported allegations of inappropriate conduct against him to school officials. Respondent identified these students during class to intimidate them. One female student was threatened by a male student in retaliation. The respondent's conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming warranting his termination as a teacher.

Charge Eight:

On or about September 22, 2000, the respondent was suspended by the State District Superintendent pending an investigation of charges. Subsequently, the respondent approached student V.D. and discussed his suspension. The respondent encouraged V. not to cooperate and refuse to testify, if asked. The respondent's conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher warranting his removal.

Charge Nine:

On numerous occasions, including May 2000, the District reported the respondent to DYFS for allegations inappropriate sexual conduct towards female students. On three occasions, the respondent received written warnings from building principals regarding his conduct: May 24, 2000, July 19, 1995, and April 18, 1985. The respondent has ignored clear and direct warnings to stop all sexually inappropriate comments and behaviors toward students. The respondent's conduct constitutes gross insubordination.

ISSUE

The issue in this case is whether the District has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Mr. Mujica committed one or more of the charges against him and if so, what is the appropriate penalty.

FACTS

District's Testimony

A. Spring 2000

Hector Martinez

Hector Martinez, a physical education and health teacher at Eastside since September 1999, testified that G.A.[1] and M.A. were in his fourth period class. One day in spring 2000, when G.A. and M.A. came into the class, G.A. was visibly upset. When Mr. Martinez expressed concern, G.A. said that Mr. Mujica had made a remark to her that she found very upsetting. G.A. was wearing a low cut dress with a necklace with a dangling pendant. Mr. Mujica said that he would like to be that necklace so he could be close to her breasts. Mr. Martinez sent for the head of his department, Ms. Michaels. After he spoke to Ms. Michaels, she took over.

Lorraine A. Michaels

Lorraine A. Michaels, Department Chair of the Physical Education/Health Department, has taught at Eastside for 28 years. Sometime in May 2000 when the [1] As several student witnesses were juveniles when the incidents occurred and some were still juveniles at the time of the hearing, all students will be identified by their initials only.

classes were changing she saw a young lady, later identified as G.A., crying. Ms. Michaels tried to talk to her but she was too upset. Mr. Martinez pulled Ms. Michaels aside and said G.A. had told him that Mr. Mujica had done or said something inappropriate. Ms. Michaels entered the office to call for the affirmative action officer. Although there are two affirmative action officers, she called Angie Ray because she thought the matter would be appropriate for a woman to handle this. Shortly thereafter she brought G.A. to Ms. Ray.

A few days after the previous incident, Ms. Sanchez, a health teacher, said that students had told her that Mr. Mujica was saying Ms. Sanchez had started rumors about Mr. Mujica to get him into trouble. Ms. Michaels called Ms. Ray again about this.

A few months prior to these incidents, Mr. Mujica had spoken to his department chair about Ms. Sanchez, saying that she was charging students money for various items like highlighters. Mr. Kushner had questioned Ms. Michaels about the matter. Ms. Michaels spoke to Ms. Sanchez, who explained that she bought highlighters for the driver's education manual and charged the class if they wanted to buy them. Ms. Michaels thought that Ms. Sanchez was providing a service to the students, not selling things to the students for profit. Ms. Michaels told Mr. Kushner that she had gotten a satisfactory explanation from Ms. Sanchez and nothing further had occurred concerning the inquiry.

Angenett Ray

Angenett Ray, a former English teacher, was a Teacher Assistant to the Principal as well as an Affirmative Action Officer. On May 10, 2000, Ms. Ray spoke to G.A., who stated that Mr. Mujica had been making inappropriate remarks and gestures to her. Mr. Mujica made direct sexual comments to G.A. and made sexually-charged remarks in class as well as sexual gestures. For example, G.A. said "I have a headache" and Mr. Mujica said in a suggestive tone, "I'll take care of you." He also used his middle finger to point. G.A. said that the way Mr. Mujica acted made her feel uncomfortable. G.A. was nervous and shy talking about her complaints but seemed determined.

Ms. Ray next spoke to A.M. and M.C., whom G.A. had named as witnesses. M.C. responded that Mr. Mujica made a lot of sexual remarks in the class. Mr. Mujica often stood uncomfortably close but M.C. had told Mr. Mujica that if he laid a finger on her he would go to jail. Mr. Mujica would make sexual gestures in class. M.C. had told her mother about it and her mother urged her to tell someone so she spoke to Mr. Martinez. At this interview with M.C., A.M. was present and agreed with M.C.'s accusations saying that Mr. Mujica made sexual remarks daily and when they were taking a test he took a toy that made sexual sounds and put it next to students and squeezed it. G.A. and M.C. had mentioned two teachers to whom they reported these charges, Mr. Martinez and Ms. Louro, a guidance counselor. Ms. Ray spoke to both teachers who confirmed that the girls had raised the allegations with them.

The next day Ms. Ray spoke to Mr. Mujica who denied making any sexual remarks or gestures. He expressed surprise at his accusers because the girls were good students and he has never had been any conflicts with them. Mr. Mujica did say that sometimes they refused to learn and he told them if they come to the class to do nothing then they should stay home. He said they were B students but there has never been any conflict over their grades.

The next day Mr. Mujica came to Ms. Ray after school and was very upset. He said that he was having a very bad time personally and that he could not imagine why anyone would say this. One of the girls had come to him saying that she just went along with everything and that someone was behind the accusations but would not tell him who. Mr. Mujica seemed to feel that someone had him set up in order to discredit and destroy his career.

On May 17, 2000, Mr. Howell called Ms. Ray to his office to hear V.D., a student in Mr. Mujica's first period class, who made similar sexual misconduct accusations about him. V.D. stated that she had not spoken about the inappropriate remarks before because she was an honor student and was afraid that her grades would be affected. For example, Mr. Mujica would take out a bottle of liquid whiteout and shake it in front of his private parts. She said that he talked to her about his personal life such as his problems with his wife when she was pregnant and that he went out with girls because he needed sex. V.D. told him that she did not want to hear about it. V.D. said that Mr. Mujica taught a little history but he would also talk in the class about his personal life like when he was a young man when he had a girlfriend. When he made personal remarks that seemed to be sexual in nature and she objected he said that was her interpretation. Finally, V.D. reported that in her class and she had heard in other classes Mr. Mujica gave out the names of the girls who complained about him. The students began threatening harm to the girls if anything happen to Mr. Mujica. V.D. was uncomfortable discussing the allegations but stated she found it disgusting to be in his class.

On May 16, 2000, Ms. Ray determined that the complaint had merit and recommended to the principal reporting the matter to the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS). She did not make a determination of the truth of the accusations because the Institutional Abuse Division of DYFS investigated these types of matters. A few days later she heard from Vice-Principal Rizzo that male students had come outside her office protesting and yelling loudly "Mujica, Mujica." Ms. Ray interviewed several other students in Mr. Mujica's seventh period class, all of whom denied the Mr. Mujica made any sexual comments or gestures in class.

Robert L. Howell, Sr.

Robert L. Howell, Sr., the principal of Eastside High School since January 2000, certified the tenure charges on October 24, 2000. In Spring 2000 students had come to speak to him about Mr. Mujica. He interviewed G.A. who said that she did not like the way Mr. Mujica talked or looked at her. G.A. stated that when Mr. Mujica looked at the girl students, it is not the way a teacher should look. G.A. had a chain with a pendant around her neck and Mr. Mujica said he would like to be that chain. Mr. Howell also spoke to M.C., who stated that around the same time in April as the incident, Mr. Mujica stood by her and said that he wanted to have sex with her. M.C. thought that G.A. had heard. The students said that Mr. Mujica speaks with a "double tongue," meaning that he said one thing but seemed to imply another. Both students said there was no touching involved.

Mr. Howell also interviewed a third student, A.M., who had been named as a witness to Mr. Mujica's action. The student said that she never heard Mr. Mujica say anything wrong or out of the way. A.M. said that a male student brought the toy in and was playing with it and Mr. Mujica took it away but did not squeeze it during the class. It was also discovered that she was a student in a different period than the two students who made the accusation. After these interviews Mr. Howell reached the conclusion that Institutional Abuse had to be contacted. On May 16, 2000, the case was referred to Institutional Abuse.

On May 16, 2000, he interviewed Mr. Mujica regarding the allegations in the presence of the chairperson for the department, Sanford Kushner. Mr. Mujica said that the students were mistaken in the translation of what he said and had the wrong impression. He said that both students were upset because of tests that they had taken. Mr. Mujica denied that he had ever made any suggestive comments or gestures to these young ladies or had ever been alone with them.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. Howell was out of the building. When he returned to school he learned that students had demonstrated in support of Mr. Mujica outside Ms. Ray's office during school hours during the change of classes.

On May 17, 2000, Mr. Howell met with V.D., who made similar allegations about Mr. Mujica and also said that Mr. Mujica had given out the names of the girls making complaints about him. This would be very inappropriate as the complaining witnesses had been told that what they said about a teacher was confidential.

In May after reporting Mr. Mujica, the students had expressed concern about their safety. They had reported that Mr. Mujica had said their names in class and that they were afraid and felt uneasy. Mr. Howell counseled them and told them they had nothing to worry about.

On May 24, 2000, Mr. Howell met with Mr. Mujica and gave him a letter talking about the allegations and instructing him to conduct himself properly. He also instructed Mr. Kushner to observe the classes more frequently to help ensure that further allegations were not made against him.

Sometime in September 2000 Mr. Howell had a meeting with Greta Anderson, the investigator from Institutional Abuse, and other people including Mr. Jimenez, the district's attorney. Ms. Anderson summarized the statements of the witnesses that she had interviewed. As a result of reviewing the investigation to date and consulting counsel, Mr. Howell filed the tenure charges against Mr. Mujica.

G.A.

G.A., a freshmen in college, graduated from Eastside in June 2000. In 1999-2000 semester, she had seventh period history with Mr. Mujica. She did not like the class because she felt she did not learn history. There was too much time spent talking about things like soap operas and personal life.

Mr. Mujica spent a lot of time talking about "Xica," the Spanish language soap opera. "Xica" was about a woman who dressed very sexually; she was often naked. The show depicted Xica as well as other people in bed. Their private parts would be shown but blocked on the screen. Mr. Mujica would often bring up "Xica," talking about how beautiful the lead character was and what a nice body she had. G.A. had spoken to her guidance counselor, Ms. Louro, and talked about how she did not like the class. Then one day when she was very upset she spoke to Mr. Martinez about the class. After she spoke to Mr. Martinez and Ms. Ray, all the students were mad at her.

She felt uncomfortable with the way Mr. Mujica looked at her. He looked at her like a man looks at a women when he was flirting. He used to tell her that she was pretty. One day she had a necklace and he said that he would like to be that pendant on her chest. It made her feel ashamed. Her final grade in the class was C. After she reported Mr. Mujica, all the students in the school knew. Students asked her why she was doing such a thing. Last semester her aunt had called her and said that someone called and told her not to testify against Mr. Mujica.

Mr. Howell's summary of her statement is accurate. For instance, one day she asked to go to the nurse because she had a headache. He said "I will take care of you" not in a normal way. No other teacher ever acted like that; they would either say yes or no.

When G.A. met with Greta Anderson, the DYFS investigator, she related everything that she had told Mr. Howell plus other incidents that had been going on. Once Mujica gave lollipops to L. & M., then they sat in front of him licking the lollipops and he was just staring at them. Also, when the class was taking a test Mr. Mujica put a teddy bear on someone's desk that made sounds like people having sex. Another time she had asked to borrow whiteout and he gave it to her, shaking it first like he was jerking off. She saw Mr. Mujica do that every time a girl asked for the whiteout. G.A. denied making a statement to K.P. that Mr. Mujica was dating L.R. She never asked K.P. to lie. K.P. never said anything to her about L. and Mr. Mujica. G.A. denied saying what K.P. said she said in the statement. Nor did she ever tell K.P. that she was sorry about a false report.

G.A. had complained a lot to her classmates about Mr. Mujica's class because she did not like the way he acted; she had never said she would get revenge. She had never went to the principal; she complained to Mr. Martinez. She never intended to get Mr. Mujica in trouble.

M.C.

M.C., an Eastside graduate currently attended college and worked. In the 1999-2000 school year, she had Mr. Mujica for seventh period history. The problem started in February 2000 when Mr. Mujica said to her that he imagined her on the "Xica" show which made her feel embarrassed as Xica was often naked on the show. Mr. Mujica said he imagined her in bed like Xica which had also made her embarrassed because he said this in front of other students. The students began to call her "Xica." When he would call the attendance list, he would call her Xica. She told him to stop calling her by that name. She watched the "Xica" show as did a lot of the other students. While waiting for class to start, the students would discuss it and when the period started Mr. Mujica would talk about it practically every day.

Mr. Mujica had a little teddy bear toy, which made a sound like people having sex. Mr. Mujica used it at least on three separate occasions when people were taking a test and everything was quiet. He also pointed with his middle finger suggestively. When she objected, he said there was nothing wrong with it but she told him it was not okay. Mr. Mujica often hugged and kissed the girls hello particular M. and L. Once he was pointing with his middle finger suggestively and he got up very close to her. She said "Stop. If you touch me, you will have to go to jail." The way he talked to her made her feel uncomfortable.

After she brought the complaints against him, she had problems with the other students because Mr. Mujica was such a popular teacher. She had only complained because one day in gym class they were upset about the problems and the gym teacher heard and told them they had to go to the office.

After her complaint, Mr. Mujica stopped calling her name for attendance and put a briefcase on the desk with the top open so that he could not see her or G.A. The students also isolated them. This was upsetting because no one was supposed to know about the complaint but when they went to the class everyone knew.

She did have an argument with Mr. Mujica because one time when she got a D, she thought she deserved a higher grade. M.C. denied seeking revenge against him but thought something was wrong with Mr. Mujica's actions. She was speaking up because she has a little cousin who will be going to the high school and she did not want her to have to put up with Mr. Mujica. Mr. Mujica said once in class that someone had brought charges against him but when he went to court, the girl did not show up so he won the case. M.C. was testifying to stop Mr. Mujica so that he cannot continue his conduct. M.C. talked about Mr. Mujica's class in other classes and said that she wanted to stop the problem of Mr. Mujica before school ended but not to get revenge. M.C. never went to Ms. Sanchez and complained about Mr. Mujica. She had never complained to Mr. Mujica about her seat, she sat in the front row, although not directly in front of the teacher's chair. She never asked K.P. to lie about Mr. Mujica. She had never had a conversation with K.P. about the complaint.

V.D.

V.D., a senior at Eastside, had history class with Mr. Mujica first period in her junior year in 1999-2000. She had liked Mr. Mujica as a teacher. In May 2000 she spoke to Ms. Sanchez, her health teacher, concerning his class because Mr. Mujica had asked the students to sign a paper saying that Ms. Sanchez was bad and did bad things to the students. V.D. did not sign it and did not examine the list. After the class V.D. spoke to Ms. Sanchez and later went to the principal's office to talk about it.

On another day V.D. was interviewed by the DYFS investigator and discussed other problems with Mr. Mujica. She talked about the favoritism shown in the class for L.R. Mr. Mujica said things in class or to her in the hallway that were sexual. For example, Mr. Mujica spoke to her about his wife, saying he could not have sex with her because she had had an operation and did not feel like having sex anymore. V.D. had asked if he was going out with L.R. He said yes but not having sex with her. She thought that meant Mr. Mujica was L.R.'s boyfriend who made her feel bad because L.R. was young and her friend and Mr. Mujica was her teacher.

V.D. did not want to testify because this was not her problem and it made her nervous. She had received an A in Mr. Mujica's class and had been on high honor roll consistently. She does not want to hurt anyone but her mother had told her to come to court and say the truth.

A lot of the kids watched the TV show called "Xica," about a beautiful lady who was shown at the beginning of every show taking a bath without clothes. "Xica" was often discussed in the class; Mr. Mujica would bring it up about three times per week. Everyone liked to talk about it, particularly the guys. Mr. Mujica told one of the girls, F.S., that she looked the actress playing Xica. Sometimes the discussions were okay but sometimes the discussions "got a little bit nasty." In these discussions she felt like they were discussing sex.

She gave another example that one time in one of the history books said in the old days that families have a lot of children. Mr. Mujica said it was not so bad because women like it when they have sex and make children. These remarks made V.D. feel uncomfortable. One day he told the class about going on a trip with a girlfriend. He described kissing the girlfriend and going to a hotel and then said "You can imagine what happened after that." Male students said "say it, say it" but he did not say it. She felt like it was not appropriate for history class.

Mr. Mujica used whiteout and shook it like he was masturbating. She found it disgusting. Mr. Mujica also used his middle index finger suggestively to point and to touch his head. He would say that he was just thinking.

One day in the Fall of 2000 Mr. Mujica gave her his phone number and asked her to call him. When she called, he spoke to her about the accusations against him. Mr. Mujica told her about the other students who had accused him but she did not know them. He said the other girls were lying and he had never touched anyone. He said if he had to go to court he could not be a teacher and he would lose his pension. He was very concerned about his job. He made her feel that it would be her fault if he did not have a job. He spoke to her for about a half of hour. He also said Ms. Sanchez did bad things to him because she did not like him.

While at Eastside, she had brought a charge against a student because he touched her in her private parts. The case had not been dismissed; it was settled out of court after V.D. and the student met with a social worker and he agreed not to approach her or speak to her.

J.T.

J.T., a senior in Eastside, had Mr. Mujica for first period history in the 1999-2000 school year. The students sometimes talked about "Xica" and he only heard Mr. Mujica talk about it several times; Mr. Mujica would talk about the actresses. He called one of the students by the name Xica, just playing around and the class would often laugh. J.T. had mentioned Mr. Mujica's behavior to his father and mother.

In the summer of 2000, his father, who worked at Eastside, took him to meet the DYFS investigator. When he reviewed the synopsis of the statement he gave to Ms. Anderson, he said only one or two of the words were not his. He was certain that Mr. Mujica never named the girls who brought charges.

J.T. felt that Mr. Mujica treated the girls differently than the boys; in his opinion almost all the girls were passing and all the boys were failing. Mr. Mujica would use his middle finger to point; the class would laugh and he would tell them it's just a finger the same as the index finger. There was a language difference, for instance, between Puerto Rican Spanish and Dominican Spanish. Quera means like bitch in Dominican but means leather in Puerto Rican. After Mr. Mujica learned about the charges against him, he told the students about them. He did not teach a class that day, because he spent the whole class period talking about the charges. Before the charges several girls used to always hug Mr. Mujica. After the charges, the hugging stopped. He did not want to testify because he liked Mr. Mujica, one of the most popular teachers.

Greta M. Anderson

Greta M. Anderson, an investigator with the Institutional Abuse Unit (IAU), had worked for DYFS for approximately two years. Ms. Anderson had a bachelor degree in Criminal Justice and has been undergone training in investigation techniques. When the matter was referred to her to investigate, she contacted Mr. Howell after reviewing the two previous investigations of Mr. Mujica by DYFS. Next she spoke to witnesses.

Ms. Anderson also interviewed M.C., who stated that Mr. Mujica was not speaking to G.A. and her since they reported his behavior. He had put a brief case on his desk and opened it in such a way so that he blocked them from his sight. He had been telling the other students that M.C. and G.A. have been saying false things about him.

M.C. stated that her problems with Mr. Mujica began when he said that she was beautiful. She had told Mr. Mujica if he put one finger on her, he was going to jail. Mr. Mujica does not teach ninth period and all the girls cut class and hang out in his room, especially a girl name L.R. M.C. told her about the sex toy, the sexual gesture with the whiteout, the intentional use of his middle finger to point and the lollipops for two girls who licked them like they were having oral sex while he watched.

On May 28, 2000, Ms. Anderson interviewed G.A., who said that since the accusation she had been cutting school because some of the male students had threatened her because of her complaint about Mr. Mujica. G.A. reiterated her prior accusations about the lollipops, teddy bear, "Xica" and the whiteout. She said that Mr. Mujica told the class that the girls have nice bodies and talked about how he has had sex with young girls. There was a rumor going around that Mr. Mujica was dating L.R.

On May 25, 2000, Ms. Anderson spoke to L.R., first at Eastside but continuing at the IA office because she needed a translator. In the IA office the staff used Aracelis Vasquez as a Spanish translator and during this interview, the translation seemed to go very smoothly. According to L.R. she had heard that other students were saying that she had a special relationship with Mr. Mujica but she denied the rumor. However, she had heard Mr. Mujica speak to other girls in a sexual manner. The other girls kissed Mr. Mujica on the cheek and he kissed them back. He makes sexual comments to the other girls like how he liked their bodies and how they reminded him of women on the TV show "Xica." She admitted that she had cut class a couple times during ninth period to hang out with Mr. Mujica. She had walked into the room with Mr. Mujica, he had his face up close in a girl's cleavage and when he saw her, he would back out. He talked about how he had a young girlfriend. He shook whiteout like he was masturbating. Mr. Mujica had a stuff white animal that sounded like people having sex. Mr. Mujica taught in double meanings by using a word in Spanish that has a dirty meaning in Dominican dialect. Ms. Anderson verified from L.R.'s attendance record that L.R. had cut numerous classes from her ninth period. On May 25, 2000, Ms. Anderson also interviewed V.D ,who corroborated the prior accusations by other students. During all interviews, Ms. Anderson took notes then reviewed the notes with the witness to make her notes were correct.

Next Ms. Anderson randomly chose 25 names, five from each class period that he taught and sent a letter in Spanish and English asking students to come and answer some questions. Only two students responded, K.C. and J.T.

Ms. Anderson interviewed K.C. after she spoke to K.C.'s mother. Aracelis Vasquez, a secretary at DYFS, was present to translate. After Ms. Anderson asked K.C. if anything made her feel uncomfortable in Mr. Mujica's class, K.C. said yes and corroborated a lot of what had been said by the others. K.C. was in fifth period and said that Mr. Mujica was not a good teacher, he flirted with the girls and grabbed their hand and looked at the girls like he was undressing them with his eyes. During ninth period class he talked to the boys and girls about sex and his sexual experiences. During class he mimicked sexual things with his hands, such as purposely using his middle finger to point. He grabbed the whiteout and shook it like he was jerking off. He always talked about the show "Xica" and about how the girls in the class reminded him of the naked women. He purposely used double entendres when he taught.

In August J.T. also came in response to Ms. Anderson's letter. He said that Mr. Mujica talked about "Xica" a lot in class. Mr. Mujica used his hands to make sexual gestures. For example, Mr. Mujica always used his middle finger to point and said "What? It is only a finger." He looks at the girls up close right in their eyes. Mr. Mujica would look at the boys and then at a girl in the class and when she was not looking he would make a gesture with his hands like he was grabbing her breast and wink at the boys. Mr. Mujica shook the whiteout like he was jerking off. Mr. Mujica also told the class the names of the girls who complained about him and said that the class should go to the office to tell the principal about what a good teacher he was.

On September 8, 2000, Ms. Anderson presented the information that she had gathered to date at a meeting with District personnel. During the meeting it was decided that a female Spanish language aide would be placed in Mr. Mujica's classroom until the investigation was completed and Mr. Mujica would be removed from all private contact with students.

Ms. Anderson was scheduled to interview Mr. Mujica but it did not occur. After receiving the letter to call for an appointment, Mr. Mujica had gone to the Paterson DYFS office to see her but she was unable to see him. Although she scheduled an appointment, she was called away on an emergency and was unable to see him that day. In October 2000 Ms. Anderson left the Northern Region of DYFS before completing the investigation with the understanding that the case would be reassigned but apparently it was not.

Aracelis Vasquez

Aracelis Vasquez worked for DYFS in the Institutional Abuse Unit in Paterson as a senior clerk transcriber. Because she was from Puerto Rico and fluent in Spanish, she also served as a Spanish translator when necessary. She recalled translating for two students who were interviewed at her office. One student came in with her mother and one student came after school. She recalled the statement made by K.C. Ms. Vasquez felt that she spoke Spanish very well and there was never any suggestion during the interview that K.C. or her mother did not understand her Spanish. Ms. Anderson wrote down everything that was being translated for her. At the end of the interview, Ms. Anderson went over the notes with K.C., who agreed that was what she said. In reviewing Ms. Anderson's notes of the interview, Ms. Vasquez recalled K.C. making the summarized statement.

Ms. Vasquez also remembered translating during the interview with L.R., who had said basically what the other girls had told them. L.R. said that Mr. Mujica had treated the girls like sexual things and looked at the girls like he wanted to undress them. L.R. also admitted cutting her ninth period class to hang out with Mr. Mujica. In reviewing Greta Anderson's summary of L.R.'s interview, Ms. Vasquez recalled translating most of it except the part that said Mr. Mujica had a young girlfriend.

K.C.

K.C., currently a junior at Eastside High School, had Mr. Mujica during the 1999-2000 school year for history in fifth period. She had heard that a student made a complaint about Mr. Mujica but she knew nothing about it. K.C. did not know M.C. and never met or spoken to her.

K.C. recalled meeting with Ms. Anderson sometime in May or June 2000 and giving her information. Ms. Anderson's secretary translated but the secretary did not speak Spanish well enough to understand K.C. K.C. denied having said anything against Mr. Mujica at the DYFS interview. She denied saying that Mr. Mujica was not a good teacher or that he used his middle finger or whiteout suggestively. He only spoke about "Xica" to give an example of history. Ms. Anderson never asked if her summary was true. K.C. also met in the principal's office with Ms. Pagan and Mr. Jimenez as translators. At that time she also never said any bad things about Mr. Mujica.

On March 17, 2000, K.C. gave a statement to Mr. Mujica's private investigators. That statement, in which she denied that Mr. Mujica even said anything about sex in history class, was true and the statement that Ms. Anderson claimed she made was false. When she was interviewed in March 2001, her stepfather and her brother were present.

K.C. knew someone name F.H., who told her that he brought the bear to class and that Mr. Mujica had confiscated it but had given it back to him. She had seen the bear in another class, not Mr. Mujica's.

J.A.

J.A. testified that she was in Mr. Mujica's class. She never heard or saw Mr. Mujica say anything inappropriate. She only heard him discuss "Xica" one time when he stopped the class to tell the students that they should not talk about. Sometimes Mr. Mujica said words that had double meanings but she did not believe that he meant them sexually.

Matilde Louro

Matilde Louro, a guidance counselor at Eastside, worked with both G.A. and M.C. in the Spring of 2000 because they were both preparing to go to college. In the course of a number of conversations separately and together, they both brought up things that were happening in their history class. G.A. was an excellent student, the best one that Ms. Louro had last year, who was accepted in two colleges and was very serious about it. Initially all G.A. said was that she did not like Mr. Mujica's class because she was not learning anything. Later G.A. said that Mr. Mujica talked about a racy soap opera and spoke about the girls in the class. After G.A. and M.C. had told Mr. Martinez and others, they gave Ms. Louro more details, including the remark that Mr. Mujica had made about the necklace and about the headache. Ms. Louro never wrote anything down as it had already been reported.

Rocio Sanchez

Rocio Sanchez, now Rocio Fernandez, has taught bilingual physical education and health at Eastside for nine years. During the 1999-2000 school year she had no personal problem with Mr. Mujica. One day V.D. told her that during first period Mr. Mujica had passed around a paper for students to sign because Ms. Sanchez was telling students to say bad things about him. Immediately Ms. Sanchez went to her department chair, Ms. Michaels, and they both went to Mr. Rizzo, the vice-principal to tell him. She understood that Mr. Rizzo spoke to Mr. Mujica who denied that this was happening.

Ms. Sanchez learned from Mr. Martinez that some girls had made accusations about Mr. Mujica. As far as she knew she did not know the girls and had not sent them. Later she learned that Mr. Mujica kept blaming her but she had nothing to do with the whole matter. The students kept saying that he was telling the class that she had sent the girls to report him. She became very upset and called Mr. Montanez, who was her friend, to tell him that the girls never came to her and she wanted the accusations to stop.

Mr. Montanez had expressed concern about her charging students for pens. Ms. Sanchez explained that every marking period she bought highlighters and gave the students an option to buy them from her or to buy them on their own. She also sold students pencils for a nickel when they came to school and they were not prepared.

V.D. had come to Ms. Sanchez to tell her things that had to be reported. When V.D. told her about Mujica's behavior, she had told V.D. to go to Ms. Ray.

Sanford Kushner

Sanford Kushner, Chair of the Eastside Social Studies Department, had taught for over thirty years in the District. During March and April 2000, several other teachers came and expressed concern about female students frequently milling around Mr. Mujica's desk. Mr. Kushner said that he was aware of it and would keep his eye on it. He also warned Mr. Mujica to keep the students away from his desk.

In May 2000 Mr. Kushner and Mr. Mujica attended a meeting concerning the allegations about Mr. Mujica's conduct. Mr. Mujica said he was offended by the accusations, which he denied. Mr. Howell asked Mr. Kushner to observe Mr. Mujica as much as possible to monitor the situation.

During the 1999-2000 school year, Mr. Kushner sat in the hall of the Social Studies wing, often outside of Mr. Mujica's room. After Mr. Howell's orders, he sat in the hall much more and went into the classroom every few days. He spoke to Mr. Mujica and told him to keep his distance from the students. During his observations, he noted that female students were still milling around his desk and he told Mr. Mujica to keep those kids away. Most of the time at the end of the day Mr. Mujica had tutoring time in the ninth period. Again he saw female students around the desk and told Mr. Mujica to keep them away.

Mr. Mujica and Mr. Kushner had lunch in Mr. Kushner's office almost every day. In April 2000, Mr. Mujica raised a concern about Ms. Sanchez selling highlighters to kids because he did not think it was proper. Mr. Kushner mentioned Mr. Mujica's concern about Ms. Sanchez to her department head, Ms. Michaels, who said she would speak to Ms. Sanchez. That was the end of the matter as far as Mr. Kushner was concerned. Mr. Mujica never mentioned it again. The whole issue was not a big deal at the time.

Mr. Kushner and others had consistently rated Mr. Mujica highly as a teacher. Mr. Mujica had the control and respect of the class. He respected the students and they respected him. He never heard Mr. Mujica mention "Xica" and when he sat in the hallway and the door was open he could hear what was going on. He was in the hallway four hours out of the six. Mr. Kushner does not speak Spanish and could not understand what Mr. Mujica said in Spanish. Mr. Mujica's door was not always open and he could not hear everything that went on in Mr. Mujica's class when he sat outside. Mr. Mujica's door was either more closed than open or equally closed and open.

Appellant's Testimony

Fernando Montanez

Fernando Montanez, a social studies teacher with Morristown Board of Education, had worked from 1989 to June 2000 at Eastside High School. From September 1989 to June 1993 he was a teacher's aide assisting Mr. Mujica. In September 1993 he became a teacher. He considered himself to be a friend of Mr. Mujica. Mr. Montanez had never seen Mr. Mujica act inappropriately. He had never seen or heard Mr. Mujica make sexual comments.

In 1999-2000 Mr. Montanez could see Mr. Mujica's classroom door from his classroom. Mr. Mujica taught with his door open most of the time although teachers generally did close their door because of the high level of noise. Mr. Montanez explained that the show "Xica," which he had seen a few times, was very popular and students like to discuss it. In his opinion it was not pornographic but it was a lot racier than any of the other Spanish language shows on TV. The show was often very revealing physically, occasionally shocking, and sometimes very sexually suggestive. However, the show was quite historic and based on true facts about the ill treatment of Blacks in Brazil during a certain period.

Mr. Montanez knew Ms. Sanchez and knew that she did not like Mr. Mujica. Ms. Sanchez had said that Mr. Mujica could not be trusted because he went too far with the girls. In April 2000 Ms. Sanchez called him at home sounding very emotional and saying that Mr. Mujica had accused her of charging the students for supplies. She was crying and said that she did not want any problems.

Mr. Montanez explained that the bilingual program at Eastside were mostly Hispanic speaking students, a majority from the Dominican Republic, but also from Peru, Puerto Rico and Colombia. Different words can mean different things in dialects from different Spanish-speaking countries.

A.M.

A.M., a senior at Eastside in 1999-2000 school year, had taken history with Mr. Mujica during eighth period that year. Mr. Mujica was a good teacher and had never said anything disrespectful or sexual to any students in her class. Last year when Ms. Ray had asked her questions about Mr. Mujica, she had denied that he became fresh with the girl students or that he used words with double meanings. M.C. was also being interviewed at the time. A.M. knew that M.C. was not happy with her grade in history from Mr. Mujica. She did not know G.A.

About three days later she was called to see the principal. Mr. Howell read her a report saying she had made complaints against Mr. Mujica. A.M. told the principal that she did not say what was in Ms. Ray's report. . A.M. thought that because M.C. was also being interviewed that Ms. Ray was confused about what M.C. had said and what A.M. had said. When she went to Ms. Ray with M.C. she did speak in English as she can understand and read English but cannot fully express herself. She heard and understood M.C. speak in English about sexual remarks and gestures in Mr. Mujica's seventh period class. At the meeting she had told Ms. Ray that Mr. Mujica did not do anything similar in her eighth period class.

A.U.

A.U., who had graduated from Eastside in June 2000, had Mr. Mujica for history in her senior year during seventh period. Mr. Mujica was a good teacher and a nice person and was always very helpful. During her senior year her grades went down and he gave her extra attention to help her.

Mr. Mujica had never made any sexual remarks or gestures towards her or during her class. He was always very professional. Mr. Mujica told the students not to talk about "Xica;" he never made any statements about "Xica" not even about history. Mr. Mujica never mentioned the accusations against him in class. She had at times spoken to G.A. and M.C., and she never heard them say anything about Mr. Mujica. When a girl wore inappropriate clothing, Mr. Mujica made her put a sweater on.

J.R.

J.R. was a student in Mr. Mujica's seventh period class. Mr. Mujica never said anything inappropriate or disrespectful. He believed that G.A. and M.C. had a problem with Mr. Mujica because they used to sit in the front and one semester they did not get to sit in the front. Many times throughout the entire year H.R. had overheard M.C. and G.A. say that Mr. Mujica was bad. He had heard rumors that they were going to go to the principal to get revenge. They did not like the way Mr. Mujica taught but he did not remember why. J.R. had liked Mr. Mujica as a teacher and often spoke to him about personal problems.

K.P.

K.P., a student in Mr. Mujica's seventh period history class in 1999-2000, sat behind G.A. and M.C. G.A. and M.C. were unhappy in the class because they had wanted to sit in front of Mr. Mujica but were not permitted to do so. She overheard M.C. saying that she wanted to report Mr. Mujica. M.C. and G.A. wanted K.P. to report Mr. Mujica after they had done so but she refused.

After school ended in June 2000, K.P. spoke with G.A. who said that she was sorry for reporting Mr. Mujica. G.A. said she did not realize that her complaint was going to come to this extreme but it was the fault of the people in the office who investigated the matter more.

K.P. never heard Mr. Mujica say anything sexual. He was a very good teacher and respectful of everyone.

E.N.

E.N. was in Mr. Mujica's fifth period history class during the 1999-2000 school year. Mr. Mujica at times may have discussed vacations, trips and his family, but he never spoke about sexual things. E.N. had brought the teddy bear that made sexual noises into history class. Mr. Mujica was giving a lecture when E.N. pressed it so Mr. Mujica confiscated it. Later, E.N. went back in when the classroom was empty and just took it from Mr. Mujica's desk drawer. Other teachers in other classes heard the toy and just laughed. Mr. Mujica was a good teacher, always helpful. Unlike a lot of teachers, when E.N. needed help Mr. Mujica helped him out. In particular Mr. Mujica helped him pass the second marking period which he needed in order to be eligible to play baseball. He was absent from the class about 20 to 25 days.

A.P.

A.P. was in Mr. Mujica's history class. He knew G.A. and M.C. but they were not in the same history class. Once during the 1999-2000 school year, he had breakfast at school and was sitting near M.C. He overheard M.C. talking to someone. M.C. appeared upset and stated that she had to retaliate against Mr. Mujica but she did not give any reason. M.C. also said that she had gone to Ms. Sanchez. Ms. Sanchez spoke about Mr. Mujica in health class. Everyday she asked the class about how Mr. Mujica was in the class and the students who were in his class said he was a good teacher. A.P. never saw Mr. Mujica do anything sexual or inappropriate in the class. A.P. knew that a window had fallen in Mr. Mujica's class sometime in the 1998-99 school year that resulted in him having his middle finger taped and in a metal splint for a while. This period was the only time Mr. Mujica had pointed with his middle finger.

L.R.

L.R., a student in Mr. Mujica's class in 1999-2000, had graduated and was attending college. Around June 2000 L.R. spoke to the DYFS investigator. Ms. Anderson asked her many questions through the translator and said M.C. was accusing

Mr. Mujica. L.R. told Ms. Anderson that Mr. Mujica never did anything inappropriate or sexual. The translator did not speak very good Spanish.

M.C. had talked a lot in Mr. Mujica's class even though Mr. Mujica had told her to keep quiet. M.C. had also argued with Mr. Mujica about a grade in front of the class. L.R. had never heard G.A. or M.C. talk about Mr. Mujica.

In her seventh period class one day a student with a teddy bear doll walked in and started showing the teddy bear doll to the students. When the class started he was still playing with the doll. Mr. Mujica went to the back of the classroom and took the doll from the student. He did not squeeze it.

Sometimes Mr. Mujica would give her a ride home with her cousin who lived at her house. The cousin worked and needed to get there by 3:30 p.m. and school ended at 3:05. The cousin asked Mr. Mujica for the favor of riding home and L.R. would go along.

J.S.

J.S. was a sophomore in Mr. Mujica's fifth period history class in 1999-2000. Mr. Mujica was a good teacher who never spoke about anything sexual or inappropriate. In the fall of 2000 she was supposed to be in Mr. Mujica's class but after a few weeks a substitute started teaching his class. J.S. started the petition to bring Mr. Mujica back which many students in his classes signed. She did not know that Mr. Mujica had been brought up on tenure charges at that time.

George DeLatorre

George DeLatorre was a teacher assistant to the principal, an affirmative action officer, and a former bilingual math teacher at Eastside. Mr. Mujica was a personal friend. No students had ever approached him concerning Mr. Mujica's behavior although students come to him with problems. He had never seen Mr. Mujica do anything inappropriate and he was surprised and shocked by the charges. He remembered on cross-examination that in the past other female students had made sexual misconduct allegations against Mr. Mujica but he did not remember the details. In 1994 he was questioned about similar allegations against Mr. Mujica and was part of an investigation of the charges but he did not recall the allegations.

Mr. DeLatorre was very close to K.C. and her family as they all came from the same hometown in Colombia. At some point K.C. came to his office and asked his advice before going to make a statement about Mr. Mujica in the principal's office. He told her to go into the office and tell the truth, without asking what the truth was. Afterward she came and said that she had told the truth and it would not harm Mr. Mujica. J.A.'s and R.A.'s father is also a friend of Mr. DeLatorre. The family asked about the letter J.A. received about the case. She only had positive things to say about Mr. Mujica.

He thought that Ms. Ray's investigation of the charges was a thorough job. Students were interviewed more than once to make sure that the District had a case.

Ms. Pagan, a secretary in the front office who was Puerto Rican, did some of the translation for the investigation. Ms. Pagan often did Spanish translation for many Spanish-speaking students for the office and always did a very thorough job. There are only a few Spanish words in other countries differed from Puerto Rican Spanish, mainly dialect. Mr. DeLatorre was confident that a person who could speak Puerto Rican Spanish would be able to translate for someone who was from the Dominican Republic.

C.A.

C.A., an Eastside High School graduate, had Mr. Mujica for second period history class in the 1999-2000 school year. He also had gym with M.C. and G.A. that year. One day in gym he had heard M.C. tell G.A. and others that she had to do something to Mr. Mujica even if it was the last thing she did before leaving school because she had received a C and thought she deserved an A. He did not report M.C.

but he did tell Mr. Mujica about the threat, which had been made before M.C. reported Mr. Mujica.

Mr. Mujica was a very good teacher. He helped the students after school in ninth period. Mr. Mujica had spoken personally to him and to others encouraging them to stay in school.

R. P.

R.P., a senior at Eastside High School, testified that in the 1999/2000 school years she was in Mr. Mujica's first period history class. In class the students spoke about "Xica" both before and during class. She thought the show was X-rated because of the nude scenes although the picture was scrambled the actors' private parts. Mr. Mujica said "Xica" was history and the real life of Blacks in Brazil. She was not a friend of V.D. because V.D. had once told her something that was untrue.

Mr. Mujica never discussed anything sexual in class. He refused to discuss his personal life, saying it was private. Once a girl was wearing something and her whole back was uncovered. Mr. Mujica told her to put something on and when she refused, he sent her to the office.

Mr. Mujica was a good teacher; he had helped her out a lot. He was very honorable and had helped many other students too.

W.P.

W.P., a graduate of Eastside High, had Mr. Mujica second period in the 1999-2000 school year. He denied that Mr. Mujica would ever say anything inappropriate concerning his personal or sexual life. Mr. Mujica had taught correctly and was very concerned about the students.

Adam Mujica

Adam Mujica, 65 years of age, grew up in Puerto Rico and moved to the continental United States in 1968. He has a B.A. in psychology, a teaching certificate in social studies and a bilingual license. He began teaching in Paterson since 1977 and has always taught U.S. History and World History.

In 1999-2000, he taught five periods of bilingual U.S. History. Some students spoke poor Spanish and none were fluent in English. He taught the class by first speaking in English and then translating into Spanish. Additionally, in ninth period he had tutoring when students came for extra help or for makeup tests.

In his class if students did not have the proper attire according to the dress code, he would make them put on a jacket or refer them to the office. One time early in the 1999-2000 school year, M.C. came into the classroom with a scanty top. Mr. Mujica told her to put on a jacket but she refused. When he went out to call security, M.C. put the jacket on. That was the only time he had such a problem with her.

In February 2000 M.C. argued with him about a grade because she flunked a test and she thought she deserved better. One time in April 2000 M.C. was doing algebra homework in class and he told her to stop. She said "I'm going to report you." He forgot about it because he did not think he had anything to worry about.

In his class Mr. Mujica kept his desk in the middle of the front of the room and often walked around the room. He kept the door open most of time, just closing it at lunch and when classes were changing. Mr. Kuschner was in the hallway approximately ninety-eight percent of the day and he could hear everything that went on in Mr. Mujica's classroom.

In the spring of 1999 Mr. Mujica had fractured his left middle finger in school while closing the window. For a period of time his fourth finger and his middle finger were taped together to promote healing. Mr. Mujica never used his middle finger sexually or inappropriately and never pointed with his middle finger.

Mr. Mujica generally and specifically denied all of the allegations made by the students. He used whiteout every day for his class record book but never inappropriately. In his grade book he saw that for the first three marking periods G.A. had a B in his class. During the fourth marking period which began in early May she had seven absences and four cuts so she got an F for that marking period making her final grade a C. He had considered G.A. to be a good student. M.C. got a C for the first marking period and a B for the next two marking periods. However, during the fourth marking period when she cut class a lot, she did poorly and got a D. V.D. was a good student. Her final grade for the year was A.

Three or four times per year he purchased lollipops from students selling them as a fundraiser and gave them to other students. He did not allow the students to eat in the class. In September 1999 M.C. had wanted to sit by him and moved her desk next to Mr. Mujica's desk. He said no and moved her back, which made M.C. unhappy. G.A. did not say anything or ask for a seat by him. G.A. generally worked hard and sat quietly. He had never had any problem with V.D.

In his classes students would bring up the TV show "Xica" as a usual student delaying tactic. He never called any student "Xica." He only watched the show two or three times. Other teachers said that the students liked to talk about the "Xica" show.

He had never taken a vacation in Spain or the Philippines so he never spoke about being in Spain or the Philippines or being in a hotel with a woman. He did confiscate a teddy bear one period because two students in the back of the room were playing with it. He never heard any sound coming from the teddy bear. He put it in his desk immediately and the next day it was not there. He never discussed his personal life or sex life in class. During the mid-1990s he was aware that at least one student alleged he engaged in improper sexual conduct but to his knowledge he had received no discipline.

Every Spanish-speaking country has unique expressions or slang that can result in ordinary words having sexual meanings. He gave an example of the word "totalitarian" which has a double meaning to people from the Dominican Republic. He found out in class about the double meaning because the kids laughed. It was part of the course to teach about totalitarianism and he never meant to use it sexually. He never used words intentionally to convey a sexual meaning.

He never said anything to G.A. about a necklace or a pendant. He never said he was going out with L.R. and he never dated her although on occasion he had given her a ride home. He never said his wife had an operation resulting in sexual problems.

At least three students had complained to him about Ms. Sanchez, saying that she collected money for paper, pencils and fines for chewing gum. Mr. Mujica told the students to tell Mr. Kushner, which they did. A few days later, Mr. Montanez said Ms. Sanchez had called crying and upset that Mr. Mujica had reported her.

Sometime in February or April 2000, Mr. Rizzo called Mr. Mujica to the office to ask about a list or petition. Mr. Rizzo said students had said that Mr. Mujica had started a petition against Ms. Sanchez. Mr. Mujica was not involved in circulating a petition and did not know anything about a petition.

Mr. Mujica first became aware of the allegations against him some time in May 2000, when he was called to Ms. Ray's office. Ms. Ray never asked him to provide witnesses. At that time he told Ms. Ray that G.A. and M.C. were good students. He did not tell her that M.C. and G.A. talked in class a lot or that they were not prepared for tests. When he went back to his eighth period classroom, the students told him they knew all about the charges and the names of the girls who had complained. He did not talk about it to the students; they talked about it to him. Then A.M. came to him and said she had not said anything bad about him. Mr. Mujica told her to go to the office and tell them. Later he heard about the demonstration in his favor. He was surprised as he knew nothing about it. He spoke to his seventh and eighth period classes and he told them this was not the way to go about it.

On approximately May 16, 2000, he met with Principal Howell. At this time he told Howell that there had been a problem with G.A. and M.C. because they had refused to take a test one day. He only meant M.C., as on more than one occasion, M.C. was upset about taking a test but G.A. had never given him any problem.

Mr. Kushner had never told Mr. Mujica that he was doing anything inappropriate in ninth period. Mr. Kushner had never warned him prior to the complaints to stay away from the girls or that there had been complaints from other teachers about the ninth period class. He was doing nothing wrong in ninth period as the students always sat on their seats and he sat at his desk.

In the summer of 2000, he went to DYFS to make a statement. He made an appointment, which Ms. Anderson did not keep. He spoke to Ms. Anderson's supervisor who promised to set up another appointment but none was ever set up. He denied that he had spoken to V.D. and asked her not to cooperate.

Mr. Mujica denied receiving a letter from DYFS in 1995 discussing the abuse charges brought against him. He also denied receiving a letter from the school in 1995 commenting on the DYFS finding and warning him that further such conduct could result in discipline.

District's Testimony

B. June 1999 Incident

Zynida Banks

In June 1999 around 8:20 a.m., Zynida Banks, the school nurse at Eastside, was called to the scene of an incident where a teacher had been injured breaking up a student fight. When she got to the hall in front of the gym she found physical education teacher Bonnie King-Cook in a chair with her legs elevated in front of her on a desk. Ms. Banks did an initial assessment and obtained ice for Ms. King-Cook's injuries. Ms. King-Cook was wearing shorts and her legs were exposed. As Ms. Banks was applying ice to the leg, out of nowhere, someone stroked Ms. King-Cook's leg from the knee to the lower leg for a few seconds and Ms. King-Cook screamed. Ms. Banks did not remember Mr. Mujica saying anything. Ms. King-Cook said "Why are you touching my leg, you don't know me like that." Ms. Banks did not know why Mr. Mujica touched Ms. King-Cook or what he did after that. Ms. Banks did not know Mr. Mujica and never had a problem with him. She remembers Mr. Mujica saying "I didn't mean it."

Bonnie King-Cook

Bonnie King-Cook, a physical education teacher at Eastside for approximately 25 years, was now a Teacher Assistant to the Principal. Around June 23, 1999, while breaking up a student fight, her left knee was badly scrapped and her upper back was injured. Other teachers helped her to a chair and elevated the leg and the nurse came and applied an ice pack.

Prior to the incident, Ms. King-Cook had been proctoring an exam. While the nurse was attending to her, Ms. King-Cook saw R.P., a student in the class, coming down the hall with Mr. Mujica. Ms. King-Cook said, "Why are you coming so late to class and you better not have Mr. Mujica lie for you." Ms. King-Cook thought Mr. Mujica had given a lot of students passes for being late but R.P. did not have a pass. Mr. Mujica came up to her and leaned down and put both of his hands on her calf. R.P. went pass her into the gym. Mr. Mujica was about two feet away when he squeezed her calf. She said "Get you f---g hands off my leg. I am not your wife." Mr. Mujica did not move so she said again "Get your f---ing hands off my leg, I am not your girlfriend." He stopped. Mr. Mujica said nothing to Ms. King-Cook just turned and walked away.

Ms. King-Cook has never had any problems with Mr. Mujica but she was very annoyed and offended. After the incident Ms. King-Cook went to the principal, Mr.

Lighty, and said she wanted to file a sexual harassment charge. The principal sent her to Ms. Ray, who took a written statement. When she spoke to Mr. Lighty again he told her to file a police report, which she did. The detective contacted her later and told her she could not file a report because there was no touching of sexual parts. Ms. King-Cook felt what Mr. Mujica did was unwanted and unwelcome and touching her bare legs and squeezing them was sexual.

Appellant's Testimony

Adam Mujica

In June 1999 Mr. Mujica was standing in the hallway with Mr. Kushner when a Spanish-speaking student came up and said she was late for an exam and asked for help. Mr. Kushner told Mr. Mujica to take her to the exam. As he was walking with her he saw Ms. King-Cook at the end of the corridor sitting with her feet up. When Ms. King-Cook saw him she started yelling, "Don't come lie for the student." Mr. Mujica was surprised and tried to explain. Ms. King-Cook kept calling him a liar and told him to shut up. Mr. Mujica tapped or touched her foot briefly, which made her explode like a bomb and say a lot of bad words. Mr. Mujica felt very ashamed and puzzled as he had never had a problem with Ms. King-Cook. He did not touch her in a sexual way. His gesture was like putting a hand on someone's shoulders to make a point.

R.P.

In June 1999, before R.P. was in Mr. Mujica's class, she came late for school one day. Walking into the building, she saw Mr. Mujica and ask for his help to explain why she was late because she did not speak English well and the gym teacher did not speak Spanish. Mr. Mujica walked with her to the gym where Ms. King-Cook was outside of the gym sitting on a chair normally with her feet on the floor. Ms. King-Cook and Mr. Mujica started arguing about something but she did not know what it was because they were speaking English. She went into the gym while they were talking loudly then Ms. King-Cook stood up and started screaming but she did not know why. She saw Mr. Mujica gently touched Ms. King-Cook's foot.

R.A.

R.A., J.A.'s brother, went to Eastside until April 1999. In June 1999, he had went to Eastside to meet a friend who owed him money. The friend had met him on the stairway and as they were talking, they heard screaming. Immediately he came upstairs and opened the stairway door. He saw Ms. King-Cook, who was yelling "liar, liar," loudly. At that time she was sitting near the door leading to the gym. He stayed at the top of the stairwell looking out the door. He observed Mr. Mujica walking towards Ms. King-Cook saying "I am not a liar." Before he said he was not a liar, Mr. Mujica touched the tip of Ms. King-Cook's foot, which was raised up on the corner of her desk. Ms. King-Cook started yelling bad words at him.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Where the facts are contested, the trier of fact must weigh the credibility of the witnesses in order to make factual findings concerning the disputed facts. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness's testimony, requiring an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it hangs together with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 *F.*2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). Credible testimony must proceed from the mouth of a credible witness and must be such as common experience, knowledge, and common observation can accept as probable under the circumstances. State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955). A fact finder is expected to base credibility decisions on common sense, which is also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837, 93 S. Ct. 2357, 37 L. Ed. 2d 380 (1973).

Respondent argued that the complaining witnesses' testimony was inherently incredible as full of exaggeration and inconsistency. According to respondent all the witnesses have motives to lie. M.C. and G.A. wanted revenge, V.D. was getting back at

L.R. and was put up to it by Ms. Sanchez, who disliked Mr. Mujica and got her entire department to lie about him. The principal and the affirmative action officer were "out to get" Mr. Mujica as was the DYFS investigator. Moreover, respondent argued that his witnesses were forthright with no motive to lie. On the other hand, the District argued that in spite of some inconsistencies the District's witnesses were credible and provided credible evidence of the charges by a preponderance of the evidence.

In evaluating the testimony and evidence in this matter, I have been mindful of the gravity of the charges brought against Mr. Mujica. Having carefully and thoroughly considered the testimony and observed the witnesses I FIND that the school personnel and the DYFS personnel testifying for the District testified credibly. No motive appeared in the record why the principal and Ms. Ray would fabricate the results of their investigation. The explanation that Mr. Martinez's and Ms. Sanchez's testimony was part of a plot by the physical education department is undeserving of belief. Both Ms. Michaels and Mr. Kushner said that Mr. Mujica's concern about Ms. Sanchez had been raised, a satisfactory explanation given, and then the issue was dropped with no consequences for Ms. Sanchez. I FIND it extremely unlikely that such a trivial matter could result in the sensational plot alleged by Mr. Mujica. Similarly, I FIND Ms. Anderson and Ms. Vasquez appeared straightforward and truthful and had no motive to lie and I credit their testimony.

Student testimony against a teacher must be viewed with great caution and scrutiny. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Polito, 1974 S.L.D. 666. The students making allegations that Mr. Mujica engaged in improper sexual conversations and gestures were extremely reluctant witnesses. However, their demeanor and their testimony leads me to believe that they were generally testifying truthfully. While the details of each witness may differ in general I FIND that the fundamental testimony of G.A., M.C., V.D. and J.T. to be consistent, forthright, and credible. G.A., who was a good student and never gave Mr. Mujica any trouble, had no motive to lie except perhaps her friendship with M.C. M.C. has admitted that she had a disagreement about a grade sometime in February but she got a B for that marking period, making this is a rather trifling motive to lie in May. The allegations that because G.A. and M.C. were not allowed to sit in front of the teacher in September they had made up these allegations is also so insubstantial that it will be disbelieved. V.D. was an honor student, who never gave Mr. Mujica any problems and had no motive to lie. I do not credit the theory of the respondent that V.D. was a sexually obsessed person who was jealous of L.R. The fact V.D. was in a different class and did not know M.C. or G.A. yet had essentially the same experience with Mr. Mujica also lends credence to the testimony of G.A. and M.C.

Additionally, J.T., a student from another class corroborated many of their statements concerning the sexually-charged nature of Mr. Mujica's conversation and gestures in the class. He too, seemed to be a reluctant witness, because he liked Mr. Mujica. But he gave a statement to DYFS and he agreed that he said all the things in Ms. Anderson's statement except he denied that Mr. Mujica had mentioned the girls who brought charges against him by name.

To a great extent the charges by the original three complaining students were substantially corroborated by the statements made by K.C. and L.R. to the DYFS investigator. I FIND incredible their testimony that they never made such statements and that the fault lie in the inability of the Puerto Rican translator to understand their Spanish because they were from the Dominican Republic and Colombia. Mr. Mujica is Puerto Rican and he teaches in Spanish and English to predominantly Dominican students. Mr. DeLatorre said there was no reason why a Puerto Rican speaker could not translate for a person from the Dominican Republic, as very few words were different. Moreover, neither of the girls had made any protest at the time of the interviews that they did not understand the translator. Additionally, the fact that K.C. changed her statement after talking to Mr. DeLatorre, a personal friend of Mr. Mujica as well as a personal friend of her father's, provides a motive for the switch. L.R.'s change of testimony must be viewed in light of the intense popularity of Mr. Mujica and the hostility to those who made statements against him. By contrast when first approached by DYFS, K.C. and L.R. had no motive to corroborate the charges made by G.A. and M.C. and yet they did. Indeed the swift reaction of students in support of Mr. Mujica provides the motive for A.M. to change the statement she made to Ms. Ray in a few days. I FIND her testimony that Ms. Ray misunderstood A.M.'s answer when Ms. Ray asked if Mr. Mujica acted inappropriately in eighth period incredible as it is very difficult to confuse the word "no" with "yes" in English or Spanish.

I FIND less credible the many students who testified that there were no sexual conversations or gestures from Mr. Mujica. Mr. Mujica was a very popular teacher and they all freely stated that they very much liked Mr. Mujica. Many of his witnesses had examples of how he had helped them, urging them to stay in school, individually tutoring them, or enabling them to be eligible to play sports. I FIND incredible the testimony that M.C. and G.A. went around saying that they would get "revenge" on Mr. Mujica for a poor mark or a seat in class. Moreover, I am compelled to point out that I found the testimony of Mr. Mujica particularly unconvincing. He claimed that his conduct in the classroom is corroborated by Mr. Kushner, who was outside his classroom with an open door 98 percent of the day. Yet Mr. Kushner, whom I fully credit, said he was in the hallway four out of six hours and Mr. Mujica's door was closed more often, or equally open and closed. But Mr. Kushner did not speak Spanish so he could not understand at least half of the discussion or necessarily see the offending gestures as Mr. Mujica moved around the room. Moreover, Mr. Kushner testified that he told Mr. Mujica several teachers expressed concern in March and April 2000 about students milling around the desk in the ninth period yet Mr. Mujica denied it. I also FIND incredible his denial that he never received the letter from DYFS or the letter from Mr. Lighty in 1995 concerning the DYFS investigation and yet showed no concern about the results of that investigation.

Thus, on balance I FIND credible the accusations that on several occasions in the first, fifth and seventh period classes Mr. Mujica made sexually inappropriate remarks and gestures to members of the class, including commenting on the girls' bodies, discussing his personal sex life, talking about the sexual aspects of "Xica" and calling girls by that name, making sexual gestures with whiteout and his middle finger, and squeezing a sexual toy during class. I further FIND credible the complaint that his conduct made some of the students embarrassed and uncomfortable.

In light of these credibility findings I will consider the specific charges against Mr. Mujica. Charge One accused Mr. Mujica of making sexually inappropriate remarks and comments about the show "Xica" causing female students to feel uncomfortable. I CONCLUDE based on the credible testimony that this charge has been proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Charge Two accused Mr. Mujica of making sexually inappropriate gestures with a whiteout bottle simulating masturbation. Based on the credible testimony, I CONCLUDE that the charge has been proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Charge Three alleged that Mr. Mujica had improper relations with female students in that he said he was going out with L.R. and that he discussed his sex life with V.D. The testimony concerning "going out" with L.R. is ambiguous at best. Mr. Mujica never said he was dating L.R., which would be inappropriate, and even V.D. said that he said he was not having sex with her so the "going out" could be as innocuous as giving her a ride home, the explanation of both Mr. Mujica and L.R. However, V.D. testified credibly that Mr. Mujica discussed his wife's sexual problems and his sexual needs with her which made her feel uncomfortable. I CONCLUDE that the District has proven that part of Charge Three by a preponderance of the evidence.

Charge Four alleged that Mr. Mujica made sexually inappropriate remarks and comments during class about his sex life. Both M.C. and V.D. testified credibly that he discussed bringing women to hotel rooms and undressing women. That Mr. Mujica had never taken a vacation to Spain or the Phillipines does not undermine this as sexual fantasies are not necessarily based on actual occurrences. I CONCLUDE that the District has proven this charge by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

Charge Five alleged that respondent made sexually inappropriate gestures by squeezing a teddy bear toy, which made sexual sounds and used his middle finger to point sexually suggestively. While fifth period student stated that Mr. Mujica had confiscated such a toy in his class, other people saw such a toy confiscated in seventh period class. I CONCLUDE that based on the credible evidence that the district has proven this charge by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

Charge Six alleged that respondent committed an act of sexual harassment by squeezing Ms. King-Cook's legs. I CONCLUDE based on the fully credible testimony that Mr. Mujica squeezed her leg but that act alone did not constitute an act of sexual harassment, which requires conduct so severe and pervasive as to make a reasonable person believe the workplace had become a hostile environment. Lehmann v Toys 'R' Us, Inc., 132 N.J. 587, 603(1993). Nor does the touch of Ms. King-Cook's leg for a few seconds while she was yelling, at him even though unwelcome, rise to the level of a violation of the implicit standard of good behavior that amounts to conduct unbecoming. See City of Asbury Park v. Department of Civil Service, 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955). Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the credible testimony does not substantiate the charge and the charge must be dismissed.

Charge Seven alleged that Mr. Mujica made statements during class regarding students who reported allegations of inappropriate conduct to school officials and identified the students by name. J.T. testified that after the allegations were made Mr. Mujica spent a good part of the class discussing the allegations and urging the students to go to the school authorities to defend him. In his statement to DYFS J.T. reported that Mr. Mujica specifically named the girls but when he testified he denied that Mr. Mujica named the girls. No one with firsthand knowledge of Mr. Mujica naming the girls testified. Thus, I CONCLUDE under the residuum rule, there is no competent evidence that he gave out the names of the students. I FIND that Mr. Mujica did make statements during the class regarding the charges and generally regarding the female students who made the allegations.

Charge Eight alleged that Mr. Mujica subsequent to his suspension approached V.D. and discussed his suspension with her, encouraging her not to cooperate and refuse to testify if asked. I FIND that the credible evidence shows Mr. Mujica had a lengthy telephone conversation with V.D. telling her that the charges were ruining his life and that he was going to lose his job and his pension. She does not specifically state he said the words "do not cooperate" but by what he was saying he was obviously suggesting that. V.D. said the conversation made her feel that it was her fault if those things happened if she testified. I CONCLUDE that the District has proven the charge by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

Charge Nine alleged that respondent received written warnings from the building principals regarding inappropriate sexual conduct with female students: May 24, 2000, July 19, 1995 and April 18, 1985. The charge alleged that respondent's ignoring these warnings to stop inappropriate behavior constituted gross insubordination. At the hearing Mr. Mujica's motion to dismiss this charge was granted. There is no proof that the inappropriate sexual conduct happened after May 24, 2000, leaving the last warning on July 19,1995. Said warning, even if received, advised him to have no further inappropriate conduct. Such a general letter hardly could result in insubordination five years later.

The dismissal of tenured persons in the public educational system can only be for "inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10(b). Conduct unbecoming a public employee has been described as an "elastic" phrase that includes "'any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency'" of the public entity or "'which has a tendency to destroy public respect for . . . [public] employees and confidence in the operation of . . . [public] services.'" In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1940) (citation omitted). See Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998). Behavior rising to the level of unbecoming conduct need not be predicated upon a violation of any particular rule or regulation and may be based simply upon a violation of the implicit standard of good behavior. City of Asbury Park v. Department of Civil Services, 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955); In re Tuch, 159 N.J. Super. 219, 224 (App. Div. 1978).

In the context of a tenured teacher, the contours for dismissal set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 have been found to provide a sufficient standard which, while "general in terms," when "measured by common understanding . . . fairly and adequately conveys its meaning to all concerned." Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957). Succinctly stated, "the touchstone is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position." In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974), certif. den. 65 N.J. 292 (1974). Lack of fitness to remain a teacher is best demonstrated by a series of incidents but may be shown by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967). The nature of the offense, any mitigating circumstances, and the teacher's record must be considered when determining unbecoming conduct. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Boyd, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 445, 452. I CONCLUDE that the charges that have been sustained separately and together amount to conduct unbecoming a teacher.

Teachers found guilty of sexual misconduct have traditionally received harsh penalties. The rationale for this approach was explained in Tenure of Sammons, 1952 S.L.D. 302: "Teachers . . . are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of . . . school children. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and control of behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Id. at 321. The testimony of many witnesses demonstrated that over the years Mr. Mujica has helped many students in Eastside. His record is not unblemished given that there was evidence of undetermined prior complaints of inappropriate sexual misconduct in the past, i.e., a 1985 suspension and a 1995 letter of warning which he said he never received. The sustained charges showed that in at least the first, fifth and seventh period classes, Mr. Mujica routinely talked about sexual issues in the class and routinely made inappropriate sexual gestures and inappropriate sexual remarks over much of the school year. Such behavior sets a very poor example and demonstrates a lack of respect for the students in the class. Additionally, the sustained charge demonstrated that Mr. Mujica attempted to manipulate one of the students not to testify against him. This one act in itself must be seen as a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior and extremely egregious conduct for a teacher to engage in.

Taken as a whole, there are more than enough incidences of unbecoming conduct to sustain dismissal of Mr. Mujica. Hence, I CONCLUDE that the charges in the instant matter which have been sustained by a preponderance of the credible evidence have shown respondent's conduct to be unbecoming, unprofessional and have demonstrated his unfitness to continue teaching in the school district.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that respondent Adam Mujica be dismissed as a tenured employee of the District.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10130-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 417-11/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ADAM MUJICA,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC	:
COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions, which included a Motion to Reopen the Record, and the District's reply thereto, were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.5.

MOTION TO REOPEN THE RECORD

Respondent contends that the record in this matter should be reopened to admit his "newly-discovered" evidence that reveals the District's motives to remove him for improper reasons. (Respondent's Exceptions and Memorandum in Support of Motion at 49) Specifically, respondent requests that the Commissioner consider recently acquired witness statements, in that they provide:

> context, meaning and a motive to both (a) the prior testimony at hearing; and (b) the actions of Paterson officials, who seek to have [him] removed from his tenured teaching position on the verge of his retirement after almost twenty five years of service to the School District. (Id. at 49)

Respondent claims that these statements were not available to him until after the close of the hearing, and that they "go to the illegality of the District's action ." (Ibid.) Respondent further alleges that the District's certification of a second set of charges to the Commissioner

during the pendency of the hearing before Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Hayden, wherein such charges were based on incidents dating back as far as 16 years, "impermissibly tainted her ruling through the unmistakable implication that 'where there is smoke there must be fire.'" (Id. at 51-52)[1]

In support of his motion, respondent cites In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Gregory Brewer, School District of Roselle, Union County, decided by the Commissioner December 11, 2000, wherein the Commissioner granted respondent Brewer's Motion to Reopen the Record based upon his finding that the ALJ's credibility determinations, which were crucial to the outcome of the tenure matter, "were based, in part, on facts not supported by evidence in the record." (Id. at 8-9, citing Brewer slip. op. at 34) In this regard, respondent contends that the ALJ failed to make proper factual and demeanor findings and that recently discovered evidence supports a reopening of this case. "New witnesses," the respondent affirms, "are prepared to provide a compelling look at the motive behind petitioner's conduct and further assist the ALJ in regard to her credibility determinations." (Id. at 11) Respondent reasons that this newly discovered evidence provides "a clear insight into the motives of the District, and adds substantial additional credibility to the many witnesses who testified on [his] behalf." (Id. at 57)

In reply, the District asserts that respondent has failed to show good cause and reasonable diligence in making his application to reopen the record. As the District argues, respondent offers "no explanation why this motion was not made soon after the hearing ended on April 17, 2001 or before the ALJ issued her July 20, 2001 decision." (District's Reply at 9-10) Specifically, respondent appends to his motion the same 16 witness statements that have already been submitted into evidence. As to the five additional certifications appended to the motion,[2] the District notes that: one of them is from Fernando Montanez, respondent's friend, who already testified at the hearing; all "contain old conspiracy allegations not relevant to the October 2000 Charges" (id. at 10); and respondent's "conspiracy" theory is not new evidence, but an attempt to raise old allegations. "The respondent has failed to explain why after an extensive discovery period, and 11 contentious hearing days, he failed to produce the so-called new witnesses or offer new evidence." (Id. at 10-11) Finally, the District argues that this matter is distinguishable from Brewer, wherein "the Commissioner found that the ALJ's determinations with respect to the teacher's credibility were based upon facts not in the record [and wherein] the teacher's counsel wrote to the school district's attorney before the hearing ended about presenting rebuttal testimony on a contested issue of student grades." (Id. at 11)

[1] Respondent further requests that the Commissioner consider an Interlocutory Order issued on July 13, 2001 by ALJ Giordano, who is currently hearing the matter entitled In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Adam Mujica, State-operated School District of Paterson, Passaic County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5184-01, wherein the District brought a second set of tenure charges against respondent based upon incidents alleged to have occurred in 1985 and 1994, since ALJ Giordano dismisses the charges dating back 16 years as reflective of bad faith. (Id. at 51, 54)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION ON THE MOTION TO REOPEN THE RECORD

Having thoroughly and carefully reviewed each of the transcripts for the 11 days of hearing in this matter, together with all documentary evidence on record, the Commissioner finds that, contrary to the situation in Brewer, each and every credibility determination issued by the ALJ is grounded in the record before her. Further, the record provides no basis for concluding that a reopening of this matter is warranted; there appears to be no reason why the motivational theory respondent now proposes to advance was impossible to develop, with reasonable diligence, prior to the close of the record. Even accepting, arguendo, that respondent only learned "around the beginning of May  [that certain] individuals had relevant and important information which might assist [him] " in defending these charges, the Commissioner notes that the record did not close until June 5, 2001, thereby affording respondent and his counsel sufficient opportunity to, at minimum, alert the District and the [2] Although the District notes that there are four certifications, there are actually certifications from five persons.

Office of Administrative Law of their "discovery." (Respondent's Exceptions and Memorandum, Certification of Adam Mujica, August 7, 2001, at 2) Under these circumstances, the Commissioner cannot find that respondent was denied an opportunity for a full and fair hearing or that principles of fundamental fairness were compromised. Accordingly, respondent's Motion to Reopen the Record is denied.

RESPONDENT'S EXCEPTIONS TO THE INITIAL DECISION

Respondent's exceptions essentially challenge the ALJ's consideration of witnesses' motives and the ALJ's resultant credibility assessments in the Initial Decision. He asserts, inter alia, that the ALJ failed to make adequate and necessary findings of fact or to make demeanor observations potentially worthy of deference. (Respondent's Exceptions and Memorandum at 11) In this connection, respondent underscores the testimony of his witnesses and asserts that the ALJ "summarily dismissed entire witnesses without even naming them, let alone recounting the demeanor, alleged inconsistencies, and/or purported motive to lie of each one, as required." (Id. at 17) Rejecting this testimony, respondent posits, is tantamount to finding that they all lied under oath and committed perjury. (Id. at 17-18) Mindful that a 23-year teaching career "hangs in the balance," respondent urges that:

> [T]his Department, the Third Circuit, and many other Courts require more on the part of an ALJ then [sic] a one sentence dismissal of the testimony of these  witnesses. ***
>
> Fundamental fairness and due process requires [sic] that the ALJ provide basic findings of fact -- exactly how did each witness lie, why did that witness lie, what physical demeanor observations made it clear that witness was lying -- so that a reviewing tribunal or Court may glean the precise basis for the determination that has been rendered. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 18-19)

Respondent also asserts that despite the ALJ's indication that she fully credited the testimony of Stanford Kushner, Chairperson of the Social Studies Department, she failed to review key components of his testimony, which includes his affirmation that he never saw anything inappropriate going on in respondent's classroom. (Id. at 21-22)

Respondent next challenges the ALJ's refusal to permit testimony or arguments of a Constitutional law or due process nature, as well as her refusal to consider the violation of respondent's Constitutional rights or its impact on the charges "constructed" by the District. (Id. at 24) Respondent contends that he repeatedly requested that the ALJ consider his arguments of Constitutional dimension, but the ALJ would not permit him to explore such issues, finding, instead, that the within proceeding was a de novo hearing rather than a review of a local district's action to determine whether that action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. (Id. at 25-26) Respondent notes that he repeatedly argued before the ALJ that "at some point the procedures used [and] the method employed could be so egregious as to eclipse the conduct alleged and taint the process ; and that justice would require a dismissal." (Id. at 28) Yet, respondent continues, the ALJ's recommendation "shows that she heard the testimony with a mindset successfully established by the taint of sensationalist charges that never should have been brought, and resurrected claims from decades past." (Id. at 29) Thus, respondent maintains that the Constitution requires a "probing analysis" of the circumstances under which these charges were brought. (Ibid.)

Respondent next argues that the ALJ's finding as to Charge Eight is wholly unsupported by the record and such finding constitutes misinterpretation of the law. Respondent notes that the ALJ stated, with regard to respondent's attempts to manipulate one of his students not to testify against him, "This one act in itself must be seen as a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior and extremely egregious conduct for a teacher to engage in." (Id. at 34, citing the Initial Decision at 43) Thus, respondent reasons that the ALJ "in large measure" grounds her decision to recommend his termination upon her finding that he attempted to encourage V.D. not to cooperate and to refuse to testify against him, if asked. However, respondent argues that this finding is not supported by V.D.'s testimony or the testimony of Principal Robert Howell, Sr. (Ibid.) Furthermore, respondent argues that he has a right as a "defendant" to communicate with a witness in order to defend himself from serious charges, and he characterizes such communication as "innocuous conversation," rather than "witness tampering." (Id. at 34-35) Respondent, therefore concludes: (1) there is no evidence on the record to suggest that he urged V.D. not to cooperate or testify; and (2) if, arguendo, all or part of the District's allegations were true, "there is absolutely nothing improper about [his] talking to a witness and seeking a helpful statement or even a fuller measure of cooperation." (Id. at 37)

Respondent additionally claims that the ALJ improperly dismissed the significance of his theory that Ms. Sanchez and/or her Eastside High School Gym Department, "were shown to be at the genesis of each allegation of impropriety by [him]." (Id. at 39) Respondent maintains that Ms. Sanchez had a "strong motive" to harm him, (ibid.) and concludes that:

> The only reasonable inference that can be drawn is that Mrs. Sanchez, already angry at [him] for reporting her collection activities, did her best to retaliate. Her allies were other students who disliked [him]. Her target was his perceived area of vulnerability from charges frivolously lodged during the initial "get" Adam era, now verified by a high-ranking Administration official." (Id. at 43)

He urges that it was simply erroneous for the ALJ to conclude that the alleged money-collection activities were "trivial." (Id. at 47)

Finally, respondent argues that the ALJ's recommended penalty is disproportionate to the alleged violation, and asserts that the ALJ ignores an entire body of case law suggesting that offenses such as those that he is alleged to have committed "are not worthy of a penalty as drastic as termination after 23 years of service to the School District." (Id. at 58) In support of this position, respondent cites to the decision in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Henry Allegretti, School District of the City of Trenton, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 2000, aff'd State Board August 2, 2001, wherein the respondent was not dismissed from his tenured teaching position, notwithstanding a finding that he had engaged in unbecoming conduct of a sexual nature. Respondent reasons that the conduct charged to Allegretti "is vastly more serious that that which [he] is accused of." (Id. at 59)

PETITIONER'S REPLY

The District argues, in reply, that the Commissioner should affirm the finding in the Initial Decision that it has proven seven of the nine charges. The District underscores that as the factfinder, the ALJ "had the opportunity to observe the witnesses and take note of their demeanor during testimony. [As such] [h]er observations as to credibility should be given substantial weight." (District's Reply at 3) Moreover, the District contends that respondent failed to present a complete analysis of the evidence that the ALJ properly relied upon to sustain the seven charges. Specifically, "Judge Hayden declared the testimony of students GA, MC, VD and JT to be 'consistent, forthright, and credible.'" (Id. at 4, citing the Initial Decision at 37)

Further, contrary to respondent's assertion that the ALJ ignored crucial facts, the District argues that the ALJ carefully summarized the witnesses' testimony:

> The respondent's "revenge" theory that MC and GA were out to get him was properly rejected.  Other students who had no alleged "revenge motive" corroborated the allegations of MC and GA. Students VD and JT testified about the numerous inappropriate actions of the respondent ." (Id. at 5)

As to respondent's contention that the ALJ erred in sustaining Charge Eight, the District counters that this charge "is supported by credible and legally sufficient evidence." (Ibid.) Since the court found V.D.'s testimony credible, the ALJ "correctly inferred that by having a telephone conversation with V.D. while on suspension from school, and causing her to feel 'bad,' the respondent intended to persuade V.D. not to cooperate." (Id. at 6) The District notes that N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b) requires "some legally competent evidence  to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the appearance of arbitrariness." (Id. at 6, citing N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b))

Turning to respondent's contention that the ALJ ignored his Constitutional claims, the District argues that:

> [T]he respondent suggests that in this case, the mere filing of tenure charges by the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 & 11, caused constitutional violations. The respondent's position is unsupported. In In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967), the court stated that the board's authority with respect to tenure charges is specifically limited to that of a preliminary review ." (Ibid.)

This and other cases, the District advances, support the principle that the Board is not required to adjudicate tenure charges filed against an employee, but to consider the written statement of evidence as submitted, as well as the employee's statement, and to determine, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, whether there is probable cause to credit such evidence. (Id. at 6-7, citing In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Deborah Suitt-Green, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, decided by the Commissioner October 14, 1997, aff'd State Board February 17, 1998, aff'd App. Div. A-3918-97T1 (February 17, 1999)) Thus, the District reasons, respondent's arguments attacking the quality of its investigation, as well as the DYFS investigation, are misplaced, and the ALJ properly focused upon the District's burden to prove the charges. (Id. at 7 and 8) Moreover, the District denies that it acted unfairly or violated respondent's rights with respect to these charges. (Id. at 7)

Finally, the District contends that the ALJ correctly recommended respondent's termination based upon the proven charges. Here, the District argues, that the Commissioner has dismissed teachers for unbecoming conduct toward female students. In support of this, the District cites to, among others, the Commissioner's decisions in In the Matter if the Tenure Hearing of Nicholas Ciufi, Board of Education of the Township of Irvington, Essex County, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 980; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of George McClelland, School District of Washington Township, Mercer County, 1983 S.L.D. 225, aff'd State Board 1983 S.L.D. 247, aff'd App. Div. 1984 S.L.D. 1964; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Donald Henley, School District of the City of Camden, Camden County, 1979 S.L.D. 356. Thus, the District urges the Commissioner to affirm the recommended decision of the ALJ in that she produced "a thorough and well reasoned decision that properly considered all testimony and evidence presented." (District's Reply at 1)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon careful and independent review of the complete record in this matter, including transcripts from each of 11 days of hearing,[3] together with exhibits, posthearing briefs, exception and reply arguments, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth below.

The parties recognize, as did the ALJ, that this matter turns on the issue of the credibility of the witnesses, many of whom were students. In this regard, the Commissioner is satisfied that the ALJ's recitation of testimony is both accurate and thorough, and that she carefully measured conflicts, inconsistencies and potential biases in deciding which testimony to [3] The hearing was conducted on April 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 12, 16, and 17, 2001.

credit. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, School District of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 284, 294, aff'd 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 349, aff'd App. Div. 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 549. The Commissioner finds that "[t]he ALJ carefully scrutinized the students' testimony recognizing that the case hinged on the issue of credibility." (96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 549)

As the District correctly observes, the ALJ's credibility determination is entitled to the Commissioner's deference. "The reason for the rule is that the administrative law judge, as a finder of fact, has the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of the involved witnesses, and, consequently, is better qualified to judge their credibility. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div.) certif. denied, 121 N.J. 615 [1990]." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, supra, at 550. The Appellate Division recently affirmed this principle, underscoring that "[u]nder existing law, the [reviewing agency] must recognize and give due weight to the ALJ's unique position and ability to make demeanor based judgments." Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Docket No. A-5978-98T2 (App. Div. 2000), slip op. at 14. The Court also noted then pending legislation providing that "'the agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact on the issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record.'" (Ibid. citing A. 1484, 209th Leg., §10(b), later enacted as P.L. 2001, c. 5 and now codified at N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c))

Further, contrary to respondent's assertion, the Commissioner determines that the findings issued by the ALJ provide him with a sufficient basis for reviewing her conclusions and recommendations. In this connection, the Commissioner recognizes that "the ultimate determination of the agency and the ALJ's recommendations must be accompanied by basic findings of fact sufficient to support them." State, Dept. of Health v. Tegnazian, 194 N.J. Super. 435 at 442, 443. The purpose of such findings "is to enable a reviewing court to conduct an intelligent review of the administrative decision and determine if the facts upon which the order is grounded afford a reasonable basis therefor." (Id. at 443) Additionally, > the sufficiency of evidence "must take into account whatever in the record fairly detracts from its weight"; the test is not for the courts "to read only one side of the case and, if they find any evidence there, the administrative action is to be sustained and the record to the contrary is to be ignored." (citation omitted) (St. Vincent's Hospital v. Finley, 154 N.J. Super. 24, 31 (App. Div. 1977))

Here, the Commissioner notes that the ALJ fairly summarizes the testimony and evidence on both sides, explaining how she weighed the proofs before her and why she credited, or discredited, certain testimony.[4] Each of the ALJ's conclusions is clearly aligned and consistent with those credibility determinations.[5] As such, the Commissioner finds that he can ascertain which testimony the ALJ accepted as fact, and further determines that these facts provide a reasonable basis for her conclusions.[6]

Additionally, the Commissioner is not persuaded by respondent's contention that the ALJ erred in denying him the opportunity to pursue in this forum his procedural due process claims regarding the District's investigation of this matter prior to the certification of tenure

[4] This includes, the Commissioner notes, the ALJ's proper rejection of respondent's theory that the within charges were, either in whole or on part, generated by the need of either Ms. Sanchez (now Mrs. Fernandez) or the Physical Education Department to retaliate against him.

[5] Contrary to respondent's urging, this is also true of the ALJ's conclusion with respect to Charge Eight, i.e., that the District proved by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent encouraged V.D. not to cooperate or to testify, if asked. (Initial Decision at 41-42)

[6] Contrast, Pitts v. N.J. Racing Comm'n., 185 N.J. Super. 190, 196 (App. Div. 1982), wherein, notwithstanding that a hearing was conducted before the Racing Commission which included witness testimony, videotapes and photographic evidence, the Commission issued a decision "entirely lacking in findings and conclusions" so as to render its decision "of no use" to the Court in its administrative review.

charges to the Commissioner.[7] The Commissioner concurs with the District's view that its role in this matter, prior to certification of tenure charges, is one of issuing a "preliminary determination." See In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 410 (App. Div. 1967).[8] Whereas, the Commissioner, by contrast, has jurisdiction to conduct the hearing and issue a decision on the charges in the first instance; his jurisdiction is not appellate, but primary. (Id. at 412) The Commissioner declines to find, therefore, that the ALJ's careful attention to gathering evidence relevant to the veracity of the charges was erroneous, as her rulings indicate:

> I don't look at whether they were acting arbitrary and capriciously. I make a finding De Novo. In the general civil service law, lack of due process at a prior hearing, isn't even taken into consideration as long as there's due process at the hearing that makes the decision. (Tr. (4/3/01) at 92-93)
>
> This is a hearing De Novo. In other words,-- the reason why I'm trying to stop you is that I think we're going to take a lot of time on extraneous matter. I understand what you're saying and to some extent I've allowed it to go on because if they didn't do a very good job or a tiptop job, it really goes to the weight of the evidence that I'm going to consider.  (Id. at 94)

Moreover, the ALJ's Prehearing Order setting forth the issues to be resolved does not include respondent's procedural due process claims and he was, therefore, on notice as to the parameters of the hearing before the ALJ.[9]

[7] The Commissioner notes that respondent's Answer to the Tenure Charges does not raise any substantive Constitutional defenses. (Respondent's Statement in Opposition to Charges, December 5, 2000)

[8] Under the Tenure Employees Hearing Act, a local board or district is limited to determining whether there is probable cause to credit the written charges and supporting evidence presented to it and, where the board or district "finds that such probable cause exists and that the charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary, then it shall forward such written charge to the commissioner for a hearing." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11.

[9] Rather, the Prehearing Order identifies the following issues to be resolved at hearing: (1) Whether the District's evidence establishes that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher or insubordination; (2) Whether the charges are procedurally defective as failing to set forth with specificity the conduct alleged; and (3) If the District proves the charges, what should be the penalty? (Prehearing Order, January 9, 2001 at 1)

The Commissioner, therefore, affirms the ALJ's conclusion that the District has proven Charges One, Two, Four, Five and Eight and has partially proven Charges Three and Seven, for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision at pages 40-42.[10] Each of these charges establishes that respondent is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

PENALTY

In affirming the conclusions of the ALJ, the Commissioner is ever mindful that this matter, as with many controversies that come before him, is fraught with grave consequences for respondent. Tegnazian, supra, 194 N.J. Super. at 440. However, the ALJ reaches the disturbing conclusion, and the Commissioner so affirms, that:

> The sustained charges showed that in at least the first, fifth and seventh period classes, Mr. Mujica routinely talked about sexual issues in the class and routinely made inappropriate sexual gestures and inappropriate sexual remarks over much of the school year. Such behavior sets a very poor example and demonstrates a lack of respect for the students in the class. (Initial Decision at 43)

The Commissioner has dismissed tenured teaching staff members for conduct largely centered on inappropriate comments of a sexual nature directed to students. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Roberts, supra, wherein respondent was found to have spoken openly about sex, at times crudely, to have discussed his personal experiences and probed the conduct of his students, to have initiated monologues about sex, and to have commented on the sex lives and physical features of his students; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sheridan, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 257, aff'd State Board 92 N.J.A.R 2d (EDU) 393, wherein respondent was found to have used profanity in the presence of students, to have made derogatory remarks about women, to have made improper sexual references to students' bodies, and to have inferred that he was in a relationship with a student; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Van Gilson,

[10] The ALJ found, and the Commissioner concurs, that Charge Six was not substantiated and Charge Nine was properly dismissed. (Initial Decision at 41, 42) (Tr. (4/10/01) at 11)

93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 378, 382, 385, aff'd State Board 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 630, wherein respondent was found to have verbally abused and ridiculed a classified pupil in class, to have made derogatory and belittling comments to students, to have commented about a seventh grader's "hooters" and said "If I were 30 years younger, I would be after you," to have used profanity when talking to a student, and to have discussed personal matters regarding his wife and their divorce with his students.

Indeed, the Commissioner has also dismissed tenured teaching staff members for conduct that included inappropriate comments, even where such comments were not necessarily of a sexual nature. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Henry Komorowski, State-operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner July 27, 2000, aff'd State Board December 6, 2000, wherein respondent was found to have engaged in graphic discussions with fifth grade students regarding torturing and killing one of the students in his class; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ward Campbell, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 196, aff'd State Board 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 604, aff'd App. Div. 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 211, wherein respondent was found, inter alia, to have made racist remarks to students in class, to have commented that "girls can be stupid" to a student, to have told students that he's been known "to hit kids," and to have engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct with parents, students and administrators generating numerous complaints, in spite of many prior warnings from administration. (93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 207, 208)

Here, respondent does not have an unblemished record, notwithstanding that he has received positive performance evaluations as a teacher.[11] Specifically, the record shows that in 1985, he was suspended by then Principal Joe Clark pending investigation of allegations of inappropriate "verbal and physical behavior" toward students. (Exhibit P-10) In 1994, allegations were again made against respondent, resulting in a letter from the Division of Youth and Family Services' Institutional Abuse Unit to respondent, dated June 28, 1995, indicating that, upon investigation, "sexual abuse was unsubstantiated with concerns." (Exhibit P-33, Letter from Antonio Villegas and Leonard Brazaitis at 1) Thereafter, by letter dated July 19, 1995, then Principal Charles Lighty, provided the following warning to respondent:

> The Paterson Public School District is in receipt of correspondence from D.Y.F.U.S. [sic] regarding the 1994 allegations against you.
> Based on the fact that this was not the first offense, let this letter serve as a warning that, if similar allegations are made against you again, you will be terminated for conduct unbecoming a teacher. (Exhibit P-11)

Under these circumstances, and based on a record before him which substantiates that respondent made not only unacceptable comments to his students, but also inappropriate gestures, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that respondent's conduct demonstrates unfitness to remain a teacher.[12]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein and amplified above. Respondent is deemed dismissed from his tenured teaching position in the State-operated School District of the City of Paterson as of the date of this decision. In view of the nature of the charges, this matter is hereby referred to the State Board of [12] Contrast, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Henry Allegretti, supra, wherein respondent's lengthy and unblemished history mitigated against the extreme penalty of loss of his tenure.

Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[13]

AGENCY DKT. NO. 255-7/01

IN THE MATTER OF STEVEN YOUNG,	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF MONTCLAIR, ESSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

On September 6, 2001, the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) rendered a decision concurring with the recommendation of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) that the above-named Board member be suspended from office, effective upon filing of the Commissioner's decision, for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6. Such suspension was to have remained in effect until training was completed, with summary removal to result, effective October 24, 2001, in the event the Board member failed to complete the required training by October 23, 2001.

However, by way of letter dated September 21, 2001, the above-named Board member informed the Commissioner that, in response to the Commission's recommendation, and without knowledge of the Commissioner's decision of September 6, 2001, which he had not yet received, he had arranged for, and fully intended to complete, the training session to be held on September 13-14, so as to eliminate any need for suspension. The Board member further advised the Commissioner that the offices of his employer, JP Morgan Chase, are located within 100 yards of the World Trade Center, and that, on September 11, 2001, as a senior executive of the firm, he was called upon in the wake of the tragedy that occurred that day to assist in both evacuation and subsequent disaster recovery efforts. In choosing to meet that obligation, and unaware of the Commissioner's September 6, 2001 decision, the Board member did not attend the September 13-14 training as planned, opting instead to re-register for the next offered session in October. Upon his subsequent receipt of the Commissioner's decision suspending him from office pending completion of training, the Board member immediately contacted the Department to explain what had transpired, and it was confirmed that neither he nor his Board of Education could have received the Commissioner's decision prior to the occurrence of these events.

Accordingly, in light of the information today provided to the Commissioner, the Assistant Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated for determination in the absence of the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34, hereby VACATES the Commissioner's decision of September 6, 2001 to the extent that it imposed a suspension of the above-named Board member pending completion of his requisite training, or through October 23, 2001, whichever came first. Instead, the Assistant Commissioner ORDERS that NO SUSPENSION OF THE BOARD MEMBER IS WARRANTED OR IMPOSED pending completion of the stated training, provided that this occurs on or before October 23, 2001. However, as before, in the event the Board member fails to complete the required training by October 23, 2001, the above-named Board member is hereby summarily removed from office effective October 24, 2001.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

GERALD W. KOHN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's termination of his employment as superintendent of schools and placement of him in the position of director for special projects with a reduction in salary, pursuant to his contract with the Board, asserting that the contractual provision and the Board's actions were contrary to statute and decisional law. The Board denied the charges and contended that petitioner was contractually bound to accept the termination and placement in a different position.

The ALJ determined that respondent must reinstate petitioner to the position of superintendent and provide him his full salary and emoluments, concluding that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 precluded the Board from reducing the contract term from five years to three years, and from reducing his compensation and benefits. The ALJ also rejected respondent's assertion that principles of waiver and equitable estoppel precluded petitioner from seeking reinstatement to the position of superintendent.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ. While agreeing with the Board that the legislative history relied upon by the ALJ pertained to a section of the law that was never adopted by the Legislature, the Commissioner concluded that the plain language of the applicable statute and relevant decisional law compelled a determination that petitioner is entitled to the position of superintendent for the full five-year term of the contract, unless he is dismissed pursuant to statute. The Commissioner also determined that the contract at issue is for a term of five years, not a contract for a minimum of three years as argued by respondent, and that petitioner is entitled to his full salary and benefits and is not required to mitigate his damages.

GERALD W. KOHN,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,

Respondent.

Maria M. Lepore, Esq., for petitioner

Louis J. Greco, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: June 18, 2001 Decided: July 26, 2001

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Gerald W. Kohn, asserts that the action by the Board of Education of the City of Vineland (Board) to terminate his employment as Superintendent of Schools on September 6, 2000 and placing him in the position of Director for Special Projects with a reduction in salary is illegal and void pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20(b) and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2.

The Board denies petitioner's allegations and contends that petitioner entered into a negotiated contract which provided, among other things, the Board's right to unilaterally terminate petitioner's employment as Superintendent with a reduction in salary and his appointment to the position of Director of Special Projects. (Certification of Robert A. DeSanto, Esquire, Exhibit O).

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was conducted on March 26, 2001, where, among other things, the issues to be resolved by this administrative tribunal were agreed upon and set forth in a Prehearing Order dated March 28, 2001. The Prehearing Order also shows that the Board had filed its Notice of Motion for Summary Decision with its Brief, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. Petitioner was granted leave to file his cross-motion for Summary Decision. The last submission was received by this tribunal on June 18, 2001.

THE POSITION OF THE PARTIES

The Board's Position

These proceedings were commenced on or about October 4, 2000, by the filing of a Petition of Declaratory Ruling with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner). A response was filed and, after review of the pleadings, the Commissioner declined to grant interim or emergent relief and transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case.

Petitioner seeks, inter alia, to have selected portions of his Superintendent's employment contract with respondent declared illegal and void. He also asks that respondent's actions taken in accordance with the express provisions of the contract be declared illegal and void, and that he be returned to active duty in the position of Superintendent for respondent school district.

Respondent seeks enforcement of the plain language of the contract, as written.

Statement of Facts

A comprehensive statement of the facts of the case, together with relevant exhibits, has been filed herewith in the form of a Certification of Robert A. DeSanto, Esquire. Mr. DeSanto is the regularly retained Solicitor to the respondent and has been for some time last past. He has intimate knowledge of the contract negotiations between petitioner and respondent.

A summary statement of facts, as explained in specific detail in the DeSanto Certification, indicates that petitioner and respondent commenced negotiations in or about April of 1997 with the goal of having petitioner become Superintendent of Schools of the City of Vineland School District. These negotiations culminated in the signing of an employment contract between the parties, which is dated July 1, 1997, and a copy of which is attached to the DeSanto Certification as Exhibit O.

Extensive negotiations took place between the parties prior to signing the final contract terms and conditions. The negotiations included meetings, telephone conferences, exchanges of contract drafts, exchanges of marked up and re-written contract clauses, offers, counter-offers, debate and discussion of perceived legal and contract issues, as well an array of additional negotiation activities between the parties. Each party was represented by legal counsel during the negotiation period. The details of the negotiation process are recounted in the DeSanto Certification and Exhibits and such detail will not be repeated in this summary statement of facts.

It became clear to the parties at the outset of these negotiations that there was a seemingly insurmountable obstacle between them. At the outset, it was made clear that petitioner would accept no less than a five-year employment contract, while respondent indicated that it would offer not more than a three-year term. In ostensible good faith each of the parties continued in the negotiations in an effort to reach resolution of this and other significant issues.

Eventually, agreement was reached on the proposition that petitioner would receive a contract by which he would be employed under tenure like circumstances for a three-year term. The contract provides for two or more years of employment, however, the contract language also gave respondent the right to change petitioner's employment position during these final two years, to reduce his compensation to a sum specified in the contract, and to place petitioner on a paid leave for any remaining time left in this two year period. The contract does not require any mitigation by petitioner against the reduced salary to be paid during the leave of absence. (DeSanto Certification, Exhibit 0, page 10, paragraph (d)).

Petitioner commenced duties pursuant to the contract on or about July 1, 1997. He served in the position of Superintendent of Schools for the three years required. Thereafter, on or about September 6, 2000, respondent voted to exercise it's right under the contract to change petitioner's position, reduce his compensation, and place him on leave of absence.

After being placed on leave, petitioner filed the legal proceedings now before the court and apparently takes the position that the contract language in question is "illegal and void" when measured against prior case decisions rendered by the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner), and that because of such perceived "illegality" petitioner is relieved of any obligation to honor the contract clause in question.

To be sure, the parties included specific discussion of this clause and its legal implications in the negotiations process, as explained in the DeSanto Certification. The clause was negotiated at arms length with each party represented by competent legal counsel. The contract was signed by each party. The question now before the Court is whether the clause can be enforced as written.

Discussion of Prior Case Law

Two prior Commissioner decisions of some import were specifically noted and discussed during the parties' contract negotiations. As is obvious from the contract language, from various items of correspondence, and from the respondent's appointing resolution, these decisions were considered by both parties prior to contract signing. Does the contract accommodate the rulings of these decisions? That is the legal question now to be answered.

Each decision will be discussed in some detail as a prelude to specific school law and contract law issues to be set forth herein.

Robert M. Harrington v. Board of Education of the Township of Clinton, Hunterdon County, EDU 10750, Agency 342-9/93, decided February 16, 1995.

The Clinton Board of Education hired Harrington as its Superintendent of Schools. A dispute arose, and the Board voted to terminate Harrington's contract and to pay the remainder of salary otherwise due under the contract. Harrington filed an administrative petition for relief claiming that a Superintendent's contract can be terminated by a board of education only by way of filing tenure termination charges. The ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, finding that the filing of tenure charges in not the only vehicle by which a board of education had choices to either allow the superintendent to remain on duty, file tenure charges, or to relieve the superintendent of his contract obligations. The ALJ specifically noted ". . .The statute does not say that buy-outs (consensual) or pay-outs (at the option of the board) are impermissible. It is silent on this issue . . . ."

The Commissioner held in his Final Agency Decision that the ALJ erred in the finding that the governing statutory scheme would permit a unilateral summary contract termination by a board of education. The Commissioner concluded that the statutory scheme enacted by the Legislature has elements of both contract and tenure protection for a Superintendent of Schools. He also noted the ALJ to be correct in finding that the employing board does have the options to allow the Superintendent remain on duty, to file tenure charges, or to relieve the Superintendent of duties, going to say, however, that this last option does not include a statutory right to unilaterally relieve the superintendent from duty and pay the remaining salary due under the contract. The Commissioner, specifically, based this conclusion on the notion that permitting unilateral contract termination by the board would negate the tenure attributes of the controlling legislation. However, of paramount importance to the case now before the court, the Commissioner stated the following:

> The Commissioner further notes petitioner's effective acquiescence to the Board's position by his acceptance of contractual terms that clearly contemplate, notwithstanding his protestations to the contrary in these proceedings, unilateral termination. Therefore, to the extent that petitioner may have been entitled to any relief beyond a finding that the Board should have retained him in its employ while relieving him of his duties rather than terminating his employment outright, the Commissioner declines to so order.

Thomas G. Dunn, Jr. v. Elizabeth Board of Education, EDU 7090-94, Agency 269-7/94, decided December 6, 1995.

In 1991 the Elizabeth Board of Education hired Dunn to serve as Superintendent of Schools for five years. On June 24, 1994 the Board voted not to renew Dunn's contract, terminated his services as superintendent, and directed him to perform duties as assistant superintendent with no salary reduction. The ALJ found that all other contracts benefits were retained thus permitting the unilateral reassignment of duties by the employing Board. The ALJ specifically noted that the employment contract ". . . contained no termination provision . . . ."

The Commissioner, however, noted in his review that, while the Board is free to unilaterally relieve Dunn of his duties for the remainder of the contract, the Board was not free to assign him the duties of assistant superintendent. However, in applying his interpretation of the hybrid contract-tenure rules for the position of superintendent of schools, the Commissioner noted the following critical analysis:

> It is axiomatic that, when entering into an employment contract with a superintendent, a board must expect to make a commitment to live and work with him or her during the term of the contract, and if the board in that time becomes dissatisfied, it cannot merely dismiss the superintendent, impose a unilateral 'buyout' or effectuate what amounts to an involuntary transfer to another position in the district. Rather, the board must conclude that the prospect of continuing the working relationship, for a period which by law cannot be more than 5 years and in reality is likely to be considerably less, is so untenable that, in the absence of a mutual separation agreement, it warrants the serious step of either filing tenure charges or relieving the superintendent of the performance of his or her duties . . . ." (emphasis added)

Points of Legal Argument

1. Does the negotiated termination language contained in petitioner's employment contract satisfy the "mutual separation agreement" requirement of the Harrington and Dunn decisions?

We must now apply the applicable law to the facts before the court. As previously stated, the Harrington and Dunn decisions were specifically contemplated by the parties during their negotiations. This is obviously important on the issue of interpreting and applying these decisions, as well as on the issues of equitable estoppel and waiver, as will be discussed under other points of argument.

Simply stated, does the course of dealing between the parties, as ultimately expressed in the contract termination clause, constitute a mutually negotiated separation agreement such that the Commissioner's case decision requirements are satisfied? We think it does.

The Commissioner has noted the statutory scheme and has specifically held that it was intended by the legislature to contain some elements of tenure so as to lend stability to both the operation of the schools as well as to give superintendents a "reasonable degree of security." Of imports here is that the contract clause at issue does not offend either the stability or security contemplated by the legislature in enacting this law. To be sure, by any interpretation of the contract, the three-year minimum "tenure" term requirement of the statute has been satisfied and, ipso facto, the entire intent of the legislative scheme has been satisfied. Remember that the minimum three-year versus maximum five-year contract term was the specific basis for the negotiation of the clause in question between the parties. Since the contract provides for the minimum statutory requirement to be met, there can be no legal argument that the tenure aspect of the law has been violated.

Indeed, the Commissioner's requirement that termination of the superintendent's duties requires a "mutual separation agreement" is more than met in the contract language at hand. It cannot otherwise be argued in good faith in these proceedings. Even a cursory review of the arduous negotiations between the parties as explained in great detail in the DeSanto Certification can lead to no other conclusion than that the clause is one of mutuality between the parties. We contend that in the context of this case, the negotiated clause should be upheld and enforced since it satisfies the Commissioner's requirement of a mutual separation agreement. To reach any other conclusion would read too much into the tenure aspect of the governing law. It is merely prudent business, for both a superintendent and a school board, to negotiate the separation aspects of the employment contract "up front" rather than later, so long as the minimum statutory requirements have been met, which they have in this case. To hold otherwise would not only render these good faith and arms length negotiations to be meaningless, but would also lead to unnecessary controversy.

It seems now that petitioner is arguing that a superintendent of schools is entitled under the statute to insist on a five-year term. This is simply not the case. The statute requires the three-year minimum, which was given, but does not preclude the advance mutual termination language under review. This clause is no different in its purpose than any liquidated damages or early termination provision in any contract. The purpose and intent of such contract language is to avoid controversy, avoid litigation, fix the position of the parties in advance, and give clear notice of all possible outcomes to the contracting parties. Simply stated, the statute's plain language, as well as the interpreting case law to the date, presents no impediment to this contract language or its enforcement.

The respondent negotiated these terms and conditions in complete good faith and assumed the petitioner did likewise. The language under review also presents clear and reasonable interpretation of the case decisions to date. If the court finds a different result, equity would dictate that the clause nonetheless be enforced as between the present litigants.

2. Does the Doctrine of Equitable Estoppel and Waiver Bar Recovery by Petitioner?

For reasons stated in Point 1, supra, we contend that the termination language should be enforced as written as a simple matter of enforcing clear and unambiguous contract language. Petitioner contends that the language is "illegal" or somehow unenforceable. We disagree and contend relief should be granted to respondent based simply and solely on principles of contract law. Even if the court were to find, however, that the clause in question somehow violates a clear mandate of governing law, we nonetheless contend relief should be granted to respondent under the doctrine of waiver and equitable estoppel.

The written and signed contract between the parties present an exchange of express promises. It is the essential nature of a contract that it is a mutual promise. Since the three versus five year term of the contract was one of the central negotiations points, going through debate and revision, it can hardly be argued that the respondent did not rely on this aspect of petitioner's promise. Respondent obviously relied on the promise of petitioner to adhere to the contract, including the termination language under review. An outcome of respondent's direct reliance on this promise resulted in it's hiring of petitioner and approval and execution of the contract. Under these circumstances, is it now equitable to permit petitioner to repudiate this language as "illegal" and ask the court to give him more than he bargained for? We think not.

Waiver, or equitable estoppel as it sometimes described, is a legal doctrine applicable to the dealings between these parties. It is the relinquishment of a known and existing right. 13 Wililston on Contracts 39:14; Playmates Toys, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 316 N.J. Super. 509 (A.D. 1998), affirmed, 162 N.J. 186 (1999). Waiver presupposes full knowledge of the right and an intentional surrender. County of Morris v. Fauver, 153 N.J. 80 (1998); West Jersey Title and Guaranty Co. v. Industrial Trust Co. 27 N.J. 144.

In the matter of Belfer v. Merling, 322 N.J. Super. 124 (A.D. 1999) the court described elements of the doctrine as follows:

> Waiver is the intentional relinquishment of a known right. It implies an election by a party to forego some advantage, which he might have otherwise demanded. It 'presupposes full knowledge of the right and an intentional surrender,' and it 'cannot be predicated on consent given under a mistake of fact' . . . . (citations omitted)

It is beyond dispute that petitioner was clearly and fully aware of his rights, real or imagined, at the time of the contract negotiation. Again, the three versus five year term was a central point of negotiations, and the specific clause under review was exchanged, debated, and revised numerous times in the dialogue between the parties. Armed with such knowledge of his perceived "rights," and proceeding to knowingly sign them away, is it equitable to now permit petitioner to repudiate? No. He is barred by the equitable principles of waiver and estoppel.

Certainly we expect petitioner to answer this argument with citations to prior case law standing for the principle that statutory tenure rights cannot be signed away or waived. Reliance on this principle will be misplaced. No superintendent has a statutory right to a five year contract term with tenure-like protection. The statute provides for a minimum term of three years and petitioner's argument would prevail only for a termination during this portion of the contract. Once we get past the three year minimum, both enforceable contract law principles as well as applicable equitable principles take over. The clause as written is enforceable. Tenure-like principles do not permit the repudiation sought by petitioner. At the time of the contract negotiation, petitioner was not in a legal position to demand a five year term as a matter of statutory right. Knowing that, he negotiated and signed the termination clause under review. He should be held to his promise.

3. Conclusion

The contract language signed by the parties is enforceable as a matter of basic contract law. It was negotiated at arms length, with assistance of counsel, does not include a waiver of a non-waivable statutory right, and was crafted based on a fully reasonable interpretation of the applicable statutory and interpreting case law in effect at the time. In addition, independent of respondent's right to a contract law remedy, principles of waiver and estoppel bar petitioner's requested relief.

Petitioner's Position

Preliminary Statement

The case before the court is a simple one which requires the resolution of one issue: is a provision in the superintendent's contract, which unilaterally permits the board to reduce his compensation, while he holds tenure during the term of his contract, illegal? In this case, the Vineland Board of Education (Board) transferred Dr. Kohn in the position of Director for Special Projects, placed him on leave from the district, and reduced his compensation during the term of his contract. Petitioner concedes that, of those actions, the only one, which is legal, is the Board's placing Dr. Kohn on leave.

In support of its conduct, the Board relies in large part on the Certification of Robert DeSanto, Esquire, and Solicitor for respondent. Mr. DeSanto's extensive Certification is submitted as virtually the only authority as to why the Board took its illegal action. Mr. DeSanto states in his Certification that he is "objectively and accurately setting forth the factual background of this dispute without any intension [sic] to advocate any position other than the truth." Petitioner contests this position. Mr. DeSanto does in fact, represent the respondent as its solicitor. By Mr. DeSanto's own admission, it was he who advised the Board as to how to unilaterally "buy-out" Dr. Kohn. It is disingenuous for Mr. DeSanto to suggest, in the interest of truth and objectivity that he also represented Dr. Kohn, when in fact, he was advising the Board as to how to take adverse employment action against him.

Additionally, to the extent Mr. DeSanto mischaracterizes the proposed contract as containing "terms and conditions beyond the typical language involving duties, compensation, and the usual public employment benefits package," that statement represents the opinion of Mr. DeSanto that is intended to prejudice the court. Petitioner disputes that mischaracterization. In fact, the initial proposal was based nearly verbatim, on the Model Contract for Chief School Administrators published by the New Jersey Association of School Administrators. That form is used extensively throughout the State by a large number of superintendents in New Jersey.

Additionally, Mr. DeSanto's opinion as to Dr. Kohn's financial demands is irrelevant to the present matter.

Moreover, throughout his lengthy Certification, Mr. DeSanto sets forth his version of the facts as they related to the extensive and prolonged negotiations between the parties prior to Dr. Kohn being appointed as superintendent. The factual information, as corroborated by the writings between the parties will not be disputed by the petitioner. However, these facts are largely irrelevant, and may not be considered by the court since the contract contains an integration clause. See, Legal Argument, Point II, infra. Nevertheless, petitioner submits to the court that, to the extent that Mr. DeSanto indicates or suggests that petitioner's counsel somehow assented to the contract, his comments are misleading. In fact, petitioner's counsel merely acted as a negotiator and drafted the contract in accordance with the negotiations as they proceeded. Petitioner's counsel is not a party to that contract. To the extent Mr. DeSanto attributes much of the assent or disagreement to the various proposals to petitioner's counsel, those characterizations are misleading and irrelevant, and should be disregarded by the court.

In addition, Mr. DeSanto attempts to portray petitioner and his counsel as devious, intimating that petitioner lured him and his client into agreeing to a contract petitioner intended to use against respondent. This is vigorously denied and disputed by petitioner. By Mr. DeSanto's own admissions contained throughout his Certification, it was, in fact, petitioner who brought the relevant cases to Mr. DeSanto's attention. Mr. DeSanto admits that counsel for the petitioner went so far as to fax the relevant cases to him, since he had never read them. At all times through the negotiations, it was Mr. DeSanto (and not petitioner or his counsel) who was responsible for advising respondent as to the legality of its actions.

Petitioner clearly informed Mr. DeSanto that the termination provision respondent insisted upon was illegal; Mr. DeSanto's own Certification confirms this. In fact, Mr. DeSanto acknowledges that he drafted the Resolution appointing Dr. Kohn which "acknowledges that the enforcement of buyout provisions under applicable statutory and decisional law has not yet been settled." DeSanto Certification at 11. It is troubling that Mr. DeSanto would claim that he was never told about the illegality of that provision, when the Board's Resolution, which he admittedly authored, acknowledges it.

Finally, respondent, through Mr. DeSanto's Certification, seeks to submit Mr. DeSanto's incorrect interpretation of the relevant laws as binding authority to uphold respondent's action. As the court is aware, the Board Solicitor's interpretation of relevant case law, whether it is correct or incorrect, cannot be binding legal authority on which respondent can base its defense.

Nevertheless, as will be discussed in the Legal Argument infra, the negotiations between the parties, as set forth in Mr. DeSanto's Certification, may not be considered in rendering a decision in this matter.

Jurisdictional Statement

This case was brought before the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, et seq. which is the statutory scheme under which superintendents of schools are appointed to their positions in New Jersey. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, a superintendent of schools may be appointed for a term of "not less than three nor more than five years and expiring July 1 . . . ." Under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20(b) and –20.2, a superintendent is tenured during the term of his contract and cannot be reduced in compensation except by bringing successful tenure charges, pursuant N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to determine all disputes arising under the school laws. The issue before the court is whether Dr. Kohn's tenure rights were violated when the Board unilaterally reduced him in compensation, and placed him in another position, and whether the provision in his contract of employment which permits this action, is illegal under the tenure laws.

Statement of Facts

With the caveats set forth above, the relevant facts relative to the issue before the court are acknowledged in the Certification of Robert DeSanto, Esquire and set forth in respondent's Exhibit O. The only relevant facts are that the petitioner and respondent entered into a Employment Contract effective July 1, 1997. The contract is for a five year term beginning July 1, 1997 and ending June 30, 2002. Dr. Kohn and the Board are at the end of the fourth year of that contract as of the date of this brief. That contract was approved by respondent at its meeting of April 24, 1997. A copy of that contract is set forth at respondent's Exhibit O. That contract was signed by Dr. Gerald W. Kohn and Joaquin Martinez, President of the Vineland Board of Education.

The contract states, in pertinent part:

> (d) TERM
>
> The board, in consideration of the promises herein of the Superintendent, hereby employs, and the Superintendent hereby accepts employment as Superintendent of Schools for a term commencing July 1, 1997 and expiring midnight June 30, 2002.
>
> * * * *
>
>
> (d) During the 2000-01 and the 2001-02 school years, the Board may unilaterally elect to terminate Dr. Kohn's employment as Superintendent by a minimum of six affirmative votes of the Board. Should the Board do so, Dr. Kohn will be paid thirty-three and one-third percent (33?%) of the salary indicated in this contract for those years plus full health benefits, and he shall thus be appointed until July 1, 2002 to the position of Director for Special Projects. He shall be granted a paid leave of absence for the remainder of this contract.
>
> (d) COMPLETE AGREEMENT

>
>
> If, during the term of this Employment Contract, it is found that specific clause of the contract is illegal in Federal or State law, the reminder of this Employment Contract not affected by such a ruling shall remain in force.

Respondent's Exhibit O-11.

On September 6, 2000, at a public meeting, respondent voted to "terminate" Dr. Kohn's employment. That resolution is not contained in the exhibits provided to petitioner by respondent. At that time, Dr. Kohn was placed in the position of Director of Special Projects, and was placed on a leave of absence. Since September 6, 2001, respondent has only paid Dr. Kohn one-third of his salary and provided his health benefits. Respondent has failed and refused to provide Dr. Kohn with any other benefits or emoluments, as expressly set forth in the contract since that date. The benefits which respondent has failed to pay are set forth in the Certification of Dr. Gerald Kohn, which is attached hereto. The Petition for Declaratory Action, which was transmitted to the Court, followed.

Legal Argument

Point I

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20(b) and –20.2, a Superintendent of Schools In New Jersey is Tenured During the Term of his Contract and cannot Be reduced in Compensation Except upon a Finding by the Commissioner Of Education of Inefficiency, Incapacity or Other Just Cause

---

The Commissioner has held that, the Legislature has created a scheme by which superintendents enjoy the protection of tenure for the term of their contracts. The Commissioner recognized that, "the Legislature was equally mindful of the need to ensure a reasonable degree of security for superintendents, so that their employment status and professional integrity would not be subject to the whims of ever-changing boards which could summarily dismiss them for any reason." Harrington v. Board of Educ. of Clinton Twp., 95 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 535, 540.

The statutes provide tenure to superintendents during the term of their contract, which shall be not less than three nor more than five years. This mandatory statute is set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20(b) states, in pertinent part:

> Any superintendent of schools who has not acquired tenure in the position of superintendent as of the effective date of . . . [N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2; August 24, 1991] but who holds tenure during the term of his employment contract pursuant to . . . (18A:17-20.2), shall be the chief executive and administrative officer of the boards of education employing him . . .

Moreover, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2 provides:

> Dismissal; reduction in compensation. During the term of any employment contract with the board, a superintendent shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming, or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B or article 2 of chapter 6 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes (18A:6-10, et seq.) (emphasis added)

The State Board of Education has also expressly stated "that a superintendent would hold tenure during the term of the contract and could not be dismissed or reduced in compensation during the contract period except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause." West Village Civic Club, Inc. et als, v. Board of Education of the Township of Manchester, et al. State Board #5-95, slip op. at 9 (June 5, 1996) (unreported decision) (citations omitted) (emphasis added). There is nothing, anywhere in this mandatory statute that provides that a board may dismiss or reduce its superintendent in compensation if his contract contains language saying the board may take that action. It is submitted by respondent in its motion for summary decision that the board dismissed the superintendent and did reduce him in compensation without bringing up tenure charges pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq.

Throughout respondent's arguments, which are largely based upon common law and equity, respondent has ignored this critical point: as a superintendent of schools in New Jersey, Dr. Gerald Kohn is tenured for the term of his contract. Dr. Kohn's contractual term is five years and does not expire until June 30, 2002. Tenure protection is created by statute, and is mandatory. Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982) (emphasis added); In the application of the Board of Education of the West Morris Regional High School District, 1981 S.L.D. 723. As a result, all of respondent's common law contract and equity arguments do not apply. Spiewak, at 76.

A. An Employee with Tenure Cannot be Reduced In Compensation Except by an Order of the Commissioner of Education

Tenure protects an employee from dismissal or reduction in compensation without cause and without resort to the procedures set forth in the Tenure Employee Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. It is well-settled that tenure can never be waived by an employee: "[w]hether certain teachers are entitled to tenure never depends on the contractual agreement between the teachers and the board of education. Tenure is a 'statutory right imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment' . . . it may not be forfeited or waived. . . . ." Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982).

Here, respondent removed Dr. Kohn from the position of superintendent, placed him in a lesser position, and reduced his salary and other forms of compensation. No tenure charges were ever brought against him. This action is illegal and must be reversed:

B. Contractual Provisions which Waive Tenure in Advance are Illegal

The New Jersey Supreme Court has stated, unequivocally:

> It is now settled that public employees and employers may not agree to contractual terms that contravene a specific term or condition of employment set by a statute. If the Legislature establishes a specific term or condition of employment that leaves no room for discretionary action then negotiation on that term is fully preempted.

Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982) citing In re IFPTE Local 95 v. State, 88 N.J. 393, 403 (1982). The Legislature has provided, unequivocally, that a superintendent has tenure during the term of his contract. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20(b) and –20.2. Tenure through the entire term of a superintendent's contract is a statutory right that "may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak at 77. The clear terms of the statute provide that a superintendent may be reduced in compensation during the term of his contract only through the filing of tenure charges. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2.

There is nothing that can be cited by respondent, anywhere in New Jersey Law, which provides that tenure may be waived in advance by a contractual provision or what respondent refers to as a "mutual separation agreement." The difference between a contractual waiver of tenure, entered into in advance, and a "mutual separation agreement" entered into in advance, is one of mere semantics for which there is legal authority.

More specifically, Dr. Kohn never submitted a resignation from his position. It is undisputed that the term of Dr. Kohn's Employment Contract is expressly stated to be five years. Thus, Dr. Kohn enjoys tenure protection as superintendent from July 1, 1997 until June 30, 2002.

The law, with respect to the contractual tenure for superintendents, is not new. The Commissioner has already ruled on this issue:

> . . . where the possibility of unilateral termination is expressly contemplated, the Commissioner holds that such provisions cannot take precedence over a statutory requirement for tenured employment. Such precedence would permit terms and conditions of employment to effectively negate a legislative entitlement, a perversion which is not only unacceptable as a matter of law, Spiewak, supra. but also inadvisable as a matter of educational policy, largely for the reasons expressed by petitioner.
> Harrington v. Board of Educ. of Clinton Twp., 95 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 535, 541.

In Harrington, the board signed an employment contract with the superintendent, which provided that, in the event the board wished to terminate the superintendent's employment before the expiration of the contract, then the superintendent was required to use due diligence and find other employment. In the event the superintendent did find other employment, the board would be entitled to reduce the amount it paid Harrington by the amount he was receiving in his other employment. Just as it was in the case before the court, this provision was placed in the employment contract before the board decided to unilaterally terminate Harrington's employment. The Commissioner found that such a provision is an illegal abrogation of the superintendent's tenure rights and unenforceable. There was no finding that it was permissible to enter into a "mutual separation agreement" in advance. The court should disregard respondent's argument that the contract before the court represents a mutual separation agreement is without any basis.

In fact, there are many cases decided by the Commissioner on the issue of whether an employee may "waive" tenure rights in a position in advance, either implicitly, or explicitly and knowingly. The reason for such a prohibition is simple – if tenure could be waived by an employee in a contract, boards of education would require all employees to sign contracts waiving tenure rights upon beginning employment (much like respondent attempted to do here). Such an action is an illegal attempt to subvert tenure rights which are granted to employees, including superintendents, by statute.

In Carney v. Summit Board of Education, 80 S.L.D. 1110, a teacher was found to have earned tenure after she was non-renewed after three years of service, and then rehired one-half year later. Her tenure was earned despite her "understanding" with the district that she was "disinterested" in tenure status and would not try to enforce tenure rights.

In Yasson v. Weehawken Board of Education, C.D. #322-89 (December 13, 1989) (unreported decision) the board attempted to settle its dispute with an assistant high school principal through an agreement by which the assistant principal agreed to forfeit tenure rights to the position of assistant principal. The principal signed that agreement to relinquish his tenure rights to the position of principal, knowingly and voluntarily, in an effort to settle a dispute with the board. This agreement was also "mutual" and acceptable to both the employee and the board. Nevertheless, the Commissioner held that such an agreement was invalid holding "tenure cannot be voluntarily relinquished." Id. slip op. at 6.

In another case, the Commissioner found that an agreement between a board of education and its principal, by which the principal agreed he would not claim tenure protection if his probationary period was extended, was unenforceable. In In the Application of the Board of Education of the West Morris Regional High School District, 1981 S.L.D. 723, Ronald Batistoni was not recommended for tenure as principal and was reassigned to the position of vice-principal, a position under which he was tenured. Mr. Batistoni and the board subsequently executed a Stipulation, whereby Mr. Bsatistoni agreed that he would relinquish all tenure rights to the position of principal if his probationary period were extended. This agreement was entered into mutually by the parties in advance of the time by which Mr. Bastistoni would obtain tenure. The parties subsequently sought a declaratory ruling as to the legality of the agreement.

The Commissioner set aside the ALJ's decision, which approved the agreement between Bastistoni and the Board. In ruling that Bastistoni's agreement to waive tenure would be ineffective, even if made knowingly and willingly in advance, the Commissioner stated: "[t]he agreement reached between the board and Bastistoni, its professional employee, is not a valid one and may not be enforced." Id. at 734.

In fact, respondent's arguments sounding in breach on contract or equity based on the parties receiving the benefit of the bargain are not new. These same arguments have been made, unsuccessfully, by boards of the education in the past. As set forth throughout this brief, the New Jersey Supreme Court has already ruled that, with respect to tenured employees, such arguments are without any merit. In fact, the Supreme Court has noted that, the purpose of tenure is to prevent "school boards from abusing their superior bargaining power over teachers in contract negotiations." Spiewak, 90 N.J. 63, 73. The court should note, that superintendents are certified teaching staff members just as teachers, supervisors and principals are. The Spiewak case has been cited by the Commissioner and applied to the employment of superintendents. Harrington, 95 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) at 541. Superintendents are subject to the same disadvantage bargaining position as the teachers – in fact more so. Teachers and in most instances, principals, can negotiate collectively with a board of education. There is only one superintendent in each school district and each must negotiate by himself against the school board. Thus, as noted in Spiewak and acknowledged by the Commissioner in Harrington, the contractual tenure protection afforded to superintendents is even more important.

Moreover, respondent's argument that the contract was legal because it amounted to a "mutual separation agreement" is without any basis. Petitioner never submitted a letter of resignation to respondent. One need only look at the title of the final agreement between parties to see it is a "Employment Contract" not a "Separation Agreement." In every one of the cases quoted above, and in Harrington, each board of education illegally attempted to obtain the employee's waiver of tenure before the employee obtained tenure. A mutual separation agreement can never be entered into before an employee even begins employment.

In Harrington, the board required the superintendent to sign the contract containing the illegal unilateral termination clause before he began employment. There, such a clause was illegal. In fact, respondent cites no cases supporting its position and rests its arguments solely on passing dicta in the Dawn case. The reason is simple – here are no cases supporting the position that a "mutual separation agreement" can be put in place before the superintendent even begins employment. Here, it cannot be argued that the parties contemplated a separation in July 1997, more than three years before the board's illegal action of September 7, 2000. No separation was imminent. In fact, by the express terms of the contract, Dr. Kohn remained employed in the district after September 7, 2000, and still remains employed by the district. Accordingly, there is no basis by which the court can find, in light of the extensive case law on this point, that a board of education can subvert a superintendent's tenure rights in advance, under the ruse of a mutual separation agreement. Such an argument does in fact, create a fuse that cannot be upheld.

In respondent's brief, it attempts to argue a contrary position, while quoting a discrete portion of Harrington. The court should note that language critical to the accurate interpretation of that case has been omitted from the quote. The quote, in its entirety, actually indicated that the Commissioner found that the board did violate Harrington's tenure rights. However, the issue before him was one of first impression. The Commissioner ultimately ruled that since the Commissioner had never before interpreted the superintendent's tenure statute, he would in that instance, limit the amount of compensation over and above what Harrington would have ordinarily received had he been retained in his position. In short, Harrington was only to receive the compensation set forth in his contract with no damages or interest. The quote in its entirety, actually supports petitioner and not respondent. The Commissioner actually stated:

> However, notwithstanding that the Commissioner finds the board in this matter to have acted beyond the scope of its authority in unilaterally terminating petitioner's employment, the Commissioner notes that the controlling statute is a relatively new one which has not yet been interpreted by the Commissioner, the State of Board of Education, or the courts so as to have provided guidance to the board. The Commissioner further notes > petitioner's effective acquiescence to the board's position by his acceptance of the contractual terms that clearly contemplate, notwithstanding his protestations to the contrary in these proceedings, unilateral termination. Therefore, to the extent that petitioner may have been entitled to any relief beyond a finding that the board should have retained him in his employ while relieving him of his duties rather than terminating his employment outright, the Commissioner declines to so order. Harrington, at 541 (emphasis added).

Thus, the Commissioner actually ruled in Harrington that the board violated the superintendent's contractual rights even though the superintendent agreed to a contract which permitted the board's actions. The Commissioner did hold, however, that the superintendent was entitled to be retained in his position, while being relieved of his duties, with the compensation and benefits due to him as superintendent – nothing more.

Harrington is directly on point to the case before the court. In this case, the board reduced the superintendent's salary and placed him in a position of Director for the remainder of the term of his contract. Here, just as it was in Harrington such action by the board was illegal. However, here, Dr. Kohn is not asking for any compensation beyond that to which he would have been entitled pursuant to his Employment Contract. Respondent cannot use its solicitor's misinterpretation of clear, unequivocal precedent as a shield to enable it to violate Dr. Kohn's tenure rights. Thus, as in Harrington, petitioner asks this court to rule that respondent action is illegal.

It should be noted that, in this case, respondent clearly contemplated that there was a possibility that the termination provision in the contract would be found to be illegal. First, respondent, in its appointing resolution, stated: "The board acknowledges that the enforcement of the buyout provisions under applicable statutory and decisional law has not yet been settled." DeSanto Certification at 11. Second, the parties included a "Savings Clause" in the Employment Contract. That Clause provides:

> 12. Savings Clause
> If, during the term of this Employment Contract, it is found that a specific clause of the contract is illegal in federal or State law, the remainder of this Employment Contract not affected by such a ruling shall remain in force.

Respondent's Exhibit O-11. Under the express terms of the Savings Clause, once the Termination provision is found to be illegal, all other terms and conditions of the employment contract shall remain in full force and effect. As a result, the termination clause is illegal and should be stricken, but Dr. Kohn does maintain a contract for a five year term, with all the benefits and emoluments set forth herein.

Accordingly, petitioner hereby requests this court order that Dr. Kohn be immediately restored to the position of superintendent with the Vineland Board of Education. Moreover, petitioner requests this court order respondent to restore his salary and all benefits retroactive to September 7, 2000.

C. The Commissioner of Education has established that if a Board wishes to Terminate the Services of its Superintendent before the Expiration of His Contractual Term, it May Either Bring Tenure Charges or Relieve Him of His Duties with Full Compensation

In Dunn v. Elizabeth Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 279, 283, aff'd State Board 96 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 285, the Commissioner again stated "the statutory scheme governing the appointment of superintendent does not permit unilateral termination of a superintendent's employment, but rather requires either that employment be maintained for the duration of the contract or that tenure charges be brought pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq." The Commissioner also specifically stated in Dunn:

> . . . when entering into an employment contract with a superintendent, a board must expect to make a commitment to live and work with him or her during the term of the contract, and if the board in that time becomes dissatisfied, it cannot merely dismiss the superintendent, impose a unilateral "buyout" or effectuate what > amounts to an involuntary transfer to another position in the district . . .

Dunn at 283.

Consistent with this, the Commissioner previously held in Harrington v. Clinton Twp. Bd. of Educ. 95 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 535:

> In the Commissioner's view, the scheme established by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. does not permit this result. Rather, the statute provides for a superintendent to be employed through one or more three to five year contracts, with employment following the initial contract to either continue via a succession of subsequent contract(s), or cease upon expiration of the current contract following due notice of non-renewal, or alternatively, upon dismissal through tenure proceedings. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20 through 18A:17-20.2. There is neither mention of, nor place for, unilateral termination in this scheme.
> Id. at 541.

Again, even if there is a provision in Dr. Kohn's contract that provides to the contrary, respondent has no authority to unilaterally remove Dr. Kohn from the position of superintendent during the term of his contract. As set forth supra, longstanding case law has held that, a provision waiving tenure rights in a contract in advance is ineffective. Respondent cannot use it's solicitor's misinterpretation of clear, unequivocal precedent as a shield to enable it to violate Dr. Kohn's tenure rights. Thus respondent's action of removing Dr. Kohn from the position of superintendent, placing him in another position, and reducing his salary are illegal actions. Accordingly, petitioner asks the court to order the board restore Dr. Kohn to his position as superintendent, retroactive to September 7, 2000, together all benefits and emoluments for the entire period of his employment contract.

D. Respondent's Arguments that Tenure can be Subverted Because it is "Prudent Business" are without any Legal Authority or Basis and must be Disregarded

Respondent argues that it is "prudent business" to require a superintendent to waive his tenure rights in advance. Respondent argues "to reach any other conclusion would read too much in to the tenure aspect of the governing law." Respondent's Brief at 11. Moreover, respondent argues that permitting such a provision "is no different in its purpose than a liquidated damages or early termination provision in any contract." Id. at 12. (emphasis added) What is most interesting about this argument is an acknowledgement by respondent that the contract did in fact contain an early termination provision and not a mutual separation agreement.

Respondent has clearly missed the point. As set forth above, there is extensive statutory and case law that provides tenure to a superintendent of schools. Tenure is "mandatory" and "may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 72, 77. Respondent will be able to cite no law which permits a board of education to violate the tenure rights of a superintendent, or any other employee, because it is "prudent business." Moreover, there is no law that will support respondent's argument that a board should be entitled to "any liquidated damages or early termination provision in any contract." The employment of a superintendent is not "any contract." The employment of a superintendent is governed by an extensive, strict statutory scheme, which is supported by ample case law. Respondent may not agree with that law, just as it had misinterpreted the extensive case law on point, but it must obey the law.

Moreover, respondent's argument that, "if the court finds a different result, equity would dictate that the clause nonetheless be enforced . . . ." also must fail. The case before the court is not one of first impression. There is ample authority on point. The Legislative scheme is mandatory, not permissive. Thus, maxims and prayers of equity in fashioning a remedy cannot be applied in this matter.

Accordingly, respondent's attempts to abrogate tenure rights already afforded to its superintendent during the term of his contract must fail.

E. Because Tenure Rights are Mandatory, the Doctrines of Waiver and Estoppel Do Not Apply

Respondent likewise argues that it is entitled to relief under the doctrine of equitable estoppel and waiver. Again, such an argument ignores the extensive legislative scheme that makes tenure rights "mandatory." Spiewak, at 77. The New Jersey Supreme Court has already held, with respect to this issue: "The statute makes tenure a mandatory term and condition of employment. It, therefore, supersedes contractual terms." Id. at 77. Specifically, with respect to superintendents and their tenure rights during the term of their contracts, the Commissioner has held that contractual provisions "cannot take precedence over a statutory requirement for tenured employment." Harrington v. Clinton Twp. Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 535, 541.

The theories espoused by respondent might apply if respondent was a private entity, such as General Motors, which was entering into a contract with its new Chief Operating Officer. However, that is not the case here. Respondent is a public school board of education that is highly regulated, and is permitted to have only the powers and rights dictated to it by statute. A board of education has no right or authority to subvert the tenure of its superintendent. Quite the contrary, it is the superintendent, as well as other teaching staff members, that enjoy the protection of tenure. The protection is mandatory, and cannot be waived.

It should be noted also, that respondent states clearly throughout its brief that respondent dealt at arm's length with Dr. Kohn throughout the contract negotiations. Mr. DeSanto makes it clear in his Certification, that he was providing legal advice and counsel to the board throughout respondent's offer of employment to Dr. Kohn, to its negotiation of the Employment Contract with him, to its illegal action of September 7, 2000. Respondent at all times had access to legal advise relative to tenure rights of Dr. Kohn as well as its other employees.

In fact, Mr. DeSanto acknowledges in his Certification that petitioner, through his counsel, went so far as to provide Mr. DeSanto with the research indicating that such a contractual provision is illegal. Mr. DeSanto made an interpretation of that law and, by his own admission, provided that interpretation to the Board. Thus, the Board was clearly advised on this issue. However, that interpretation, if wrong, is not binding on the court in this proceeding. Petitioner, therefore, submits if respondent wishes to seek redress for entering into a contract under which it had no intention to be bound, it is not Dr. Kohn who should suffer a loss of tenure rights. In fact, under the mandatory nature of the statutory scheme of tenure, Dr. Kohn cannot suffer a loss of tenure for the board's actions.

POINT II

Respondent's Extensive Recitation of the Negotiations Between the Parties are Irrelevant and must be Disregarded as Parole Evidence

It is settled in New Jersey Law that "extrinsic evidence of one party's alleged contractual intent is not admissible to alter or contradict the express and unambiguous terms of a written agreement." Saul v. Midlantic National Bank/South, 240 N. J. Super. 62, 77 (App. Div. 1990). Parole evidence may not be considered to vary or contradict the term agreed upon where the term is so clear as to require no additional interpretation. Flavorland Industries, Inc. v. Schnoll Packing Corp., 167 N.J. Super. 376, 381 (D. Ct. 1979); Atlantic Northern Airlines, Inc. v. Schwimmer, 12 N.J. 293, 302 (1953). "The only safe criterion of the completeness of a written contract as a full expression of the terms of the parties' agreement is the instrument itself." Flavorland Industries, 167 N. J. at 381. If it purports to contain the whole agreement, parole evidence to add to or vary the terms is not admissible. Id. "The essence of voluntary integration is the intentional reduction of the act to a single memorial; and where such is the case the law deems the writing to be the sole and indisputable repository of the intention of the parties." Harker v. McKissock, 12 N.J. 310, 321-22 (1953).

The Employment Contract between the parties provides, in pertinent part:

> (10) Complete Agreement
> This Employment Contract embodies the entire agreement between the parties hereto and cannot be varied except by written agreement of the undersigned parties.

Respondent's Exhibit O-11. Since the Employment Contract on its faced declared that it embodies the entire agreement or complete agreement between the parties, it is considered under New Jersey law to be an integration of all of the understanding of the parties. Therefore, parole evidence relative to the negotiations between the parties and their understandings may not be considered.

The Employment Contract also provides, in pertinent part:

> (2) TERM
> The board, in consideration of the promises herein of the Superintendent, hereby employs, and the Superintendent hereby accepts employment as Superintendent of Schools for a term commencing July 1, 1997 and expiring midnight June 30, 2002.

Respondent's Exhibit O-2. Clearly, it was the intent of the parties, as set forth by the express terms of contract itself, that the contract was an integration of the complete understandings of the parties. Those understandings as set forth clearly in the Employment Contract were that Dr. Kohn was to be superintendent for a five year term subject to the compensation and terms and conditions of employment expressly set forth in the contract. That contract also provided, as part of the "Savings Clause" (See, Respondent's Exhibits, O-11) that if any provision of the contract should be found to be illegal, the remainder of the contract should "remain in force."

Here, respondent is now urging the court to accept inadmissible parole evidence to vary the clearly expressed understanding of the parties to the contract. Respondent has included with its brief an extensive and detailed Certification from Robert DeSanto, Esquire, who is the solicitor for respondent. The parties agree that Mr. DeSanto was involved in all phases of the negotiations of the Employment Contract and the drafting of the contract. Nevertheless, all of the details of the negotiations and the understandings of respondent, which respondent is attempting to utilize to vary the term of the contract, are inadmissible, and thus, cannot be considered in deciding the issues before the court.

Accordingly, petitioner respectfully requests that this court disregard the Certification of Robert DeSanto, Esquire to the extent that Certification is being offered to vary or change the express terms of the contract. Such evidence is parole evidence which cannot be considered. Petitioner, therefore, respectfully requests, pursuant to his arguments set forth at Point I supra., that the court enforce Dr. Kohn's tenure rights as superintendent for a five year term beginning July 1, 1997 and ending June 30, 2002. Since Dr. Kohn is still within the term of his contract, petitioner requests this court to order that Dr. Kohn be immediately permitted to assume the position of superintendent, together with his full compensation and benefits retroactive to September 7, 2000.

POINT III

In the Event the Court Declines to Enforce Dr. Kohn's Tenure Rights, the Board has Illegally Failed to Provide Dr. Kohn with Benefits Negotiated in His Contract

This point being offered to the court only in the event that the court declines to enforce Dr. Kohn's tenure rights. In that event, as an alternative argument, Dr. Kohn submits that respondent has failed to provide him with benefits and other forms of compensation during his period of leave, as it is required to do under the Employment Contract.

The Employment Contract provides, in pertinent part:

> 11. TERMINATION
>
> (d) During the 2000-01 and the 2001-02 school years, the board may unilaterally elect to terminate Dr. Kohn's employment as Superintendent by a minimum of six affirmative votes of the board. Should the board do so, Dr. Kohn will be paid thirty-three and one-third percent (33.3%) of the salary indicated in this contract for those years plus full health benefits, and he shall thus be appointed until July 1, 2002 to the position > of Director for Special Projects. He shall be granted a paid leave of absence for the remainder of this contract.

Respondent's Exhibit O-10-11. Nowhere in the above provision, or elsewhere in the contract, is the Board permitted to cease providing Dr. Kohn with other benefits as set forth in his contract. Those benefits are numerous, as they are for most superintendents. These benefits include travel expenses, health benefits, expense reimbursement, tuition reimbursement, expenses in connection with the attendance of conferences and professional growth, and membership dues and fees to professional organizations. Of the benefits which respondent is required to provide Dr. Kohn for the life of the contract, it has provided him only with the health benefits. The specific terms which respondent has failed and refused to pay to date, together with their cost, are included in Dr. Kohn's Certification which is attached hereto and submitted in support of this Motion. The items set forth in Dr. Kohn's Certification are benefit items for which respondent did pay throughout the term of the contract prior to September 7, 2000.

Accordingly, because the Employment Contract provides that respondent will provide Dr. Kohn certain benefits during the life if its contract, the Board is obligated to provide these benefits. There is no language in the Employment Contract which provides that respondent is permitted to cease providing these benefits to Dr. Kohn. Dr. Kohn, therefore, asks this court to order respondent to immediately reimburse him for all expenses he incurred due to respondent's refusal to provide his benefits. Moreover, Dr. Kohn asks this court order that respondent continue to provide Dr. Kohn with all benefits for the remaining term of the contract.

Point IV

Petitioner is Entitled to Summary Judgment as a Matter of Law

A court shall grant a motion for summary judgment if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. R. 4:46-2. Summary judgment is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive means of disposing of an action. Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-74 (1954).

The New Jersey Supreme Court set forth the appropriate standard for the determination of summary judgment motions in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance of Company of America, 142 of N.J. 520 (1955):

> [W]hen deciding a motion for summary judgment under Rule 4:46-2, the determination whether exists a genuine issue with respect to material fact challenged requires the motion judge to consider whether to competent evidential materials presented when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational factor to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. This assessment of the evidence is to be conducted in the same manner as that required under Rule 4:37-2(b). Brill, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (emphasis added).

All inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant in favor of the party opposing in motion. Judson, 17 N.J. at 75. However, if the opposing party presents only facts which are immaterial or insubstantial in nature, the court may, taking as true the statements of uncontradicted fact presented by the moving party, and such papers not otherwise showing the existence of controverted material fact, grant the moving party's request for summary judgment. Brill, 142 N.J. 520, 529-30.

Here, there are no material facts in dispute. Dr. Kohn and respondent entered into an Employment Contract for a five year term beginning July 1, 1997 and ending June 30, 2002. The overwhelming authority of statutory and case law provides that Dr. Kohn enjoys tenure protection in the position of superintendent for the entire term of that contract. The same authority provides that an employee who enjoys tenure rights cannot waive those rights in advance by contract. Therefore, respondent's action of placing Dr. Kohn in the position of Director, and reducing his salary and other forms of compensation during the term of his contract is illegal. Accordingly, Dr. Kohn asks the court to order that Dr. Kohn be restored to the position of superintendent, and be provided with his salary and other benefits and emoluments, including those set forth in Dr. Kohn's Certification, retroactive to September 7, 2000.

Conclusion

It is submitted to the court that the only facts relevant to a ruling in this matter are those terms specifically set forth in the Employment Contract between the parties, and respondent's illegal action of September 7, 2000, by which it removed Dr. Kohn from his position, placed him in a lesser position, and provided him with a lower salary and fewer benefits and emoluments. All other facts as set forth in the Certification of Robert DeSanto, Esquire, offered as authority to justify respondent's illegal action, should not be considered.

When applying the overwhelming statutory and case law to the relevant facts of this matter, it is clear Dr. Kohn enjoyed tenure rights which were illegally violated. The remedy for an employee when his tenure rights are violated is restoration to his position with back pay and all benefits and emoluments. Dr. Kohn requests this court to so order.

The Board's Reply

Please accept this letter as my reply to the Summary Decision Motion filed in behalf of petitioner.

Let me preface my remarks by noting that I will not respond to the attacks made on respondent's solicitor in the moving papers. There are two reasons for this. First, both the substance and tone of the allegations are argumentative and immaterial to the legal issues pending. Second, the use of a personal attack on a witness has no place in litigation unless it's purpose is to address credibility on a critical factual issue. No such critical factual issue is at play in these proceedings.

There is a basic flaw in the legal argument put forth in petitioner's brief. The argument is bottomed on the erroneous assumption that the employment status of a superintendent of schools under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 is the functional equivalent of the tenure status granted to certificated teaching staff members under other provisions of Title 18A. This proposition is an erroneous premise in the reasoning put forth to the court in petitioner's behalf. I think we can all agree that teaching staff tenure cannot be contractually waived, which is what case law cited by petitioner tells us. I will not argue against this conclusion. I agree with it.

The legal problem comes when petitioner cites this tenure case law and asks the court to apply it to the employment contract of a superintendent of schools. This equation fails simply because N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 does not grant the same tenure status to a superintendent. The status of a superintendent under this statute is a hybrid of both tenure and contract principles. Harrington v. Board of Education of the Township of Clinton, Hunderton County, OAL EDU 10750-93, Agency 342-9/23, decided February 16, 1995. The statute itself specifically states that the board " . . . may, by contract, appoint, . . . a superintendent of schools . . . ." (emphasis added). The single limitation put on the contract relationship in this statute is that the term shall be ". . . not less than three nor more than five years . . . ." Thus, if the tenure relationship in the contract is established for "not less than three" years, the statute has been complied with, and no one has been asked to waive a statutory tenure right. That is exactly the case now before the court.

The contract between the parties, when read in its entirety, which the court must do when interpreting it, did not grant petitioner a five year tenure term. Any examination of the contract and facts set forth before the court can lead to no conclusion other than that the petitioner went into this employment relationship fully aware that his "no cut" tenure period of employment was for only three years – the statutory minimum requirement. The contract simply cannot be analyzed in any other fashion. For this reason, there simply can be no finding that the contract somehow asks petitioner to "waive" a statutory tenure entitlement. It does not.

Examine, if you will, paragraph 11 and Exhibit F to the DeSanto Certification. Petitioner's counsel is quoted in news articles as stating:

> Kohn signed the contract, Lepore said, because otherwise the board was not going to give him the job.
>
> The board insisted that they were not going to give a contract without this, Lepore said 'Kohn wanted the job.'

Thus it is obvious that both petitioner and his attorney were fully aware that the "no cut" tenure-like benefit period under the employment contract was for the three year statutory minimum only. It could not have been more clear. The requirements of the statute have been met. Concepts of tenure have not been violated or waived. Petitioner is bound by his contract.

Does the court erase the contract provisions relying on case law which addresses the statutory tenure of teachers? We think not. To do so would render the contract aspects of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to be meaningless.

Petitioner's legal argument, if nothing else, asks that the court rule that a superintendent of schools is entitled to a five year employment term even when he knowingly signs a contract that makes clear that he's getting a protected term of only three years. There is no basis in either tenure law to reach such a conclusion in this case. Simply stated, petitioner signed the contract that he and his attorney bargained for. The terms of that contract do not violate either the letter or spirit of the statute. Petitioner is bound by his contract and is not entitled to relief of any kind of court.

CONCLUSIONS

The parties to the instant matter have cross-moved for summary decision as provided by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. As petitioner observes, the standard for granting or denying summary judgment has been set forth in the matter of Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Company of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). The standard was subsequently modified by the Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). The Brill Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under *R.*4:40-1 (Motion for judgment at trial) and R. 4:40-2 (Reservation of Decision on Motion: Motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict). The courts considering motions for summary judgment are not required to engage in the same type of evaluation and analysis, or sifting of evidential material in light of the burden of persuasion that applies as if the matter goes to trial. The Brill Court held that:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there:
> exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial. "Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 249, 106 S.Ct. at 2511, 91 *L.Ed.*2d at 212. Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not the judge. If there exists a single unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of *R.*4:46-2. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 at 250, 106 S. Ct., at 2511, 91 *L.Ed.*2d at 213. The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S.Ct., at 2512, 91 *L.Ed.*2d at 214, the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. 142 N.J. at 540.

Having carefully reviewed and considered the pleadings, the certifications, the briefs of law and the exhibits, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the instant matter may proceed to summary decision, pursuant to the holdings of our Courts and the regulations found at N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

The statutes, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to –23, must be read in harmony as a consequence of the New Jersey Legislature's action to revise the then existing laws which provided superintendents of schools with lifetime tenure, as provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, reads, in pertinent part, that:

> The board of education of a Type I district and of any Type II district, now having or hereafter authorized to have a superintendent of schools, may, by contract appoint, for a term of not less than three years nor more than five years and expiring July 1, a superintendent of schools by the recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board.

Accompanying the statute is the New Jersey Assembly Education Committee (Committee) Statement which interprets the legislation and the intent of the Committee by stating, among other things, that the superintendent shall hold tenure in the position during the term of the contract and shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause. The Committee Statement continues to state that:

> . . . The bill does, however, authorize the board of education to terminate the contract with the superintendent upon paying to the superintendent the amount of compensation he would have received had he served the remainder of the contract period and the period of any contract for which he is deemed to have been reappointed. (emphasis supplied)

Recognizing that the statute, *N.J.S.A.*18A:17-15, combines principles of contact and limited tenure, the termination clause in the statute speaks only of paying compensation to the superintendent in the amount he/she would have received had he/she served the remainder of the contract. There is no provision for a board of education to reduce the superintendent's compensation in the event the board unilaterally terminates the contract. The statue explicitly spells out the procedure the Board must follow in order to terminate the contract; i.e., to file tenure charges with the Commissioner against petitioner. Here, the Board and petitioner entered into a five year contract. Notwithstanding the Board's position that the contract included the provision that it could unilaterally terminate the five year contract and reduce petitioner in position and salary after a three year period, the fact remains that it entered into a five year contract with petitioner.

Our Supreme Court has addressed the interpretation of our statues and held in the matter of Duke Power Co. v. Patten, 20 N.J. 42 (1955) that:

> . . .Where the wording of a statue is clear and explicit we are not permitted to indulge in any interpretation other than that called for by the express words set forth (citations omitted). . . . Id. at 48

And, in the matter of Dacunzo v. Edgye, 19 N.J. 443 (1955), the Court said:

> We must construe a statute as written, hence a statute should not be construed to permit it purpose to be defeated by evasion, Grogan v. DeSapio, 11 N.J. 308 (1953), and we must enforce the legislative will as written and not according to some unexpressed intention. Hoffman v. Hock, 8 *N.J.*397 (1952) Id. at 451

In the matter of State v. Butler, 89 N.J. 220 (1982), the Court said, at 226, that:

> As a general rule of statutory construction, we look first to the language of the statute. If the statute is clear and unambiguous on its face and admits of only one interpretation, we need delve no deeper than the act's literal terms to divine the Legislature's intent. (citations omitted)

I CONCLUDE, that for the purpose of terminating the contract between the Board and petitioner, the only interpretation to give N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 is that the Board is required to pay petitioner for the remainder of the contract pursuant to the statute. There is no statutory provision for the Board to unilaterally convert a five year contract to a three year contract or to reduce his compensation and other benefits. The facts clearly demonstrate that petitioner and the Board entered into a five year contract, notwithstanding the Board's wish to offer only a three year contract.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the Board's action to terminate petitioner's employment contract was not pursuant to the statutory provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-5, and must be reversed.

I CONCLUDE that Summary Decision should be entered on behalf of petitioner and that petitioner must be restored to his position of superintendent of schools until June 30, 2002, with all back pay, benefits and emoluments due to him under the terms of the five year contract.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED, for the reasons expressed above, that Summary Decision is hereby entered on behalf of petitioner. It is FURTHER ORDERED that the Board of Education of the City of Vineland restore petitioner to his position as superintendent of schools with all back pay, benefits and emoluments due to him under the terms of the five year contract.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination.

In its exceptions, the Board avers, inter alia, that the portion of the Assembly Committee's Statement relied on by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) as the underpinning of his conclusion that the termination clause in the statute speaks of paying a terminated superintendent the amount he/she would have received if he/she had served the remainder of his/her contract, refers to language that was deleted from the bill during the legislative process. (Board's Exceptions at 2) Since the language relied on was not included in the bill enacted by the Legislature, the Board asserts, the ALJ's analysis is incorrect. (Ibid.) The significance of the deleted language, the Board posits, is that it clearly demonstrates the legislative intent that a board is not obligated to pay a full salary to a terminated superintendent. (Ibid.)

Additionally, the Board argues, the ALJ failed to recognize that the Board did not act to terminate petitioner, but instead acted in accordance with the provisions of petitioner's contractual agreement when it changed petitioner's appointment to another position and paid him the agreed amount for that position. (Id. at 3) Emphasizing that petitioner's contract is a guarantee of three years in the office of superintendent, not a five-year contract for superintendent of schools, the Board contends that the contract guaranteeing petitioner three years in the office of superintendent satisfies the minimum statutory requirement and, thus, "the tenure like aspects of [the] statute have not been offended." (Ibid.)

With respect to the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner must be restored to the position of superintendent, the Board points to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-18, contending that it is within the Board's discretion as to whether petitioner is permitted to continue to perform the duties of superintendent during the term of his contract, and that the plain language of superintendents' contract law does not disturb the Board's power in this regard. (Id. at 4) The Board also takes issue with the implication in the Initial Decision that there should be no mitigation. (Id. at 5) In support thereof, the Board points to the Court's interpretation of N.J.S.A. 40A:9-172 governing municipal employees, which it asserts contains identical language to that in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30. (Ibid.) In interpreting N.J.S.A. 40A:9-172 in White v. Township of North Bergen, 77 N.J. 538 (1978), petitioner argues that the Court found that restoration of payment due to wrongfully terminated individuals is subject to mitigation (Ibid.) The Board also argues that in Mullen v. Board of Education of the Township of Jefferson, 81 N.J. Super 151 (App. Div. 1963), N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30 and 30.1 are found to be applicable to the office of superintendent of schools and Mullen also holds that the right to lost income is subject to mitigation. (Ibid.)

Finally, the Board seeks relief from the Commissioner, as follows:

1. A finding that there has been no contract termination and that the contract between the parties should be enforced as written since it does not violate the minimum requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15.

2. In the alternative, should the Commissioner find that the statute has been violated, a ruling that the doctrine of estoppel should be applied to petitioner due to the unique facts of this case, as briefed below, and requiring that the contract be enforced as written.

3. In the alternative, should the Commissioner find that the statute has been violated, a ruling confirming that [it] is solely within the discretionary power of the Board to determine if Petitioner should be returned to duty, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30.1.

4. In the alternative, should the Commissioner find that the statute has been violated, a ruling noting that the obligation of mitigation applies to the calculation of damages, if any, as required by the State Supreme Court and other controlling judicial rulings. (Id. at 5-6)

In his reply, petitioner submits that Dunn v. Elizabeth Bd. of Educ., 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 279, 283, aff'd State Board 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 285 holds that "[a] board of education has the right to relieve the superintendent of his duties, so long as he retains the position of superintendent, with all compensation, benefits and emoluments pursuant to the contract of employment." (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at 4) Petitioner, therefore, agrees that the Board has the authority to determine whether a superintendent should actually perform the duties of his office or be placed on leave. (Ibid.) The problem herein, petitioner contends, is that the Board removed petitioner from the position of superintendent with its attendant compensation, benefits and emoluments and placed him in the position of a director at a lesser salary. (Ibid.)

Petitioner further argues that his contractual term is five years and that he, therefore, has tenure protection, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2, which provides that a superintendent shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation during his contractual period except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. (Id. at 5) Citing Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 76 (1982), petitioner avers that there is no mechanism in the mandatory statutes permitting a board to dismiss a superintendent or reduce his salary, thus waiving his tenure rights by virtue of a contractual provision entered into in advance, because an employee cannot forfeit or waive tenure by virtue of his contract. (Id. at 6)

Arguing that the Commissioner has already ruled on this issue, petitioner cites Harrington v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Clinton, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 535, 541, wherein the Commissioner found that:

> [W]here the possibility of unilateral termination is expressly contemplated, the Commissioner holds that such provisions cannot take precedence over a statutory requirement for tenured employment. Such precedence would permit terms and conditions of employment to effectively negate a legislative entitlement, a perversion which is not only unacceptable as a matter of law, Spiewak, supra, but also inadvisable as a matter of educational policy. (Id. at 8)

Citing numerous other cases, petitioner further maintains that the Commissioner has consistently held that employees may not waive tenure rights in advance, even where the employee does so "explicitly and knowingly." (Id. at 9)

The Board realized that there was a possibility that the termination provision in the contract was illegal, petitioner advances, as demonstrated initially by the fact that the appointing resolution acknowledges the fact that "the enforcement of the buyout provisions under applicable statutory and decisional law has not yet been settled." (Id. at 10) Secondly, petitioner points to the "Savings Clause" which provides that if it is found that a specific clause of the contract is contrary to law, the remainder of the contract shall remain in effect and will not be affected by such ruling. (Ibid.)

Finally, petitioner argues that the Board raises the issue of mitigation for the first time in its exceptions and that there are no facts on the record to support a finding for the Board on this issue. (Id. at 12) Thus, if the Commissioner determines that a ruling is required on mitigation, the matter should be remanded to the OAL for further proceedings. (Ibid.) Citing Harrington, supra, and Dunn, supra, petitioner submits that a superintendent removed from his position contrary to law is not required to mitigate his damages. (Ibid.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, the exceptions and the reply thereto filed in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision.

Although the Board correctly notes that the language in the Assembly Education Committee Statement relied on by the ALJ refers to a provision not included in the bill establishing contractual tenure for superintendents enacted by the Legislature, the Commissioner notes that there is ample case law which establishes the principle upon which the ALJ relied; i.e., that a board that relieves a superintendent from his duties during the term of his contract must continue to pay the compensation and other emoluments the superintendent would have received as superintendent had he performed superintendent duties for the remainder of the contract period. See Dunn, supra, and Harrington, supra.

Moreover, the Commissioner agrees that the Board awarded petitioner a five-year contract as superintendent of schools, not a contract for a minimum of three years as argued by the Board. Item 1 in petitioner's contract states, as follows:

> The Board, in consideration of the promises herein contained of the Superintendent, hereby employs, and the Superintendent hereby accepts employment as Superintendent of Schools for a term commencing July 1, 1997 and expiring midnight June 30, 2002. (emphasis added) (Petitioner's Contract at 2)

Moreover, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2 provides that:

> During the term of any employment contract with the board, a superintendent shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming a superintendent or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

Notwithstanding the contract provision that permits the Board to terminate petitioner's five-year contract as superintendent of schools after three years and reduce petitioner in position and salary, therefore, there is no statutory authority, absent the sustaining of tenure charges as indicated in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2 above, for the Board to reduce petitioner's position and salary during the term of his five-year contract. Moreover, it is well-settled that a teaching staff member cannot waive or forfeit tenure entitlement by virtue of a contract, nor is an improperly removed superintendent required to mitigate his damages. See Spiewak, supra, Dunn, supra, and Harrington, supra.

The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that petitioner is contractually tenured as the superintendent of schools of the Vineland School District through June 30, 2002 by virtue of the five-year contract entered into by the Board, and that petitioner must be restored to the position of superintendent with all back pay, benefits and emoluments due him as superintendent of schools.[1]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, employees of the Newark Board prior to takeover, argued they were terminated without notice, contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44b and c. They sought reinstatement with back pay.

ALJ determined that petitioners' employment was terminated by the discretionary action of the State superintendent rather than abolishment of their positions pursuant to the takeover statute and, as at-will employees, they are not entitled to relief. Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. Matter was dismissed.

The State Board reversed, holding that the State Superintendent did not have discretion to terminate petitioners under the circumstances of the case and that petitioners were entitled to the salary each would have earned from the time of termination until effectuation of reorganization, plus 60 days pay. The district appealed the State Board's determination to the Appellate Division and sought a stay of the State Board's decision, which was granted by the Court in December 2000. The Court also remanded the matter to the State Board for a calculation of damages within 30 days, the time for which was subsequently extended by the Court to October 5, 2001.

The case was sent to OAL for an initial calculation of damages pursuant to the directive of the State Board's remand decision issued in response to the Appellate Division decision. The ALJ determined the amounts due petitioners based on the proofs submitted by the parties.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's decision with modification, noting that the lack of proofs and the time constraints imposed by the Appellate Division prohibited him from applying broader mitigation principles than those utilized by the ALJ. However, the Commissioner did reduce the award to petitioner Block by the amount of his salary earned while working for the Education Law Center during the period at issue.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 15, 1995, Ruben Gonzalez, Ed.D. (Gonzalez or petitioner), Paul J. O'Donohue (O'Donohue or petitioner), Steven G. Block (Block or petitioner), and Claude

Craig (Craig or petitioner) filed petitions with the State Department of Education (DOE), contesting the terminations of their employment by the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (District or respondent). The DOE transmitted the cases to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in December 1995 for determination as contested cases pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, and they were subsequently consolidated.

Hearings were conducted in May 1997 and July 1998, and, subsequent to post-hearing proceedings, this judge issued an initial decision (1999 Initial Decision) on April 19, 1999. The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) issued a decision on June 1, 1999, and the State Board of Education (State Board) issued a decision on May 3, 2000 (May 3, 2000 Decision).

The District appealed the State Board's decision to the Appellate Division of Superior Court and subsequently filed a motion seeking a stay of the State Board's decision. On December 8, 2000, the Appellate Division issued an order granting respondent's motion for a stay, pending determination of the appeal or further court order, and remanding the matter to the State Board for the computation of the amount of damages, with a directive that the remand be completed within thirty days. On February 2, 2001, the Appellate Division issued an order granting a motion by the State Board, extending the deadline to April 12, 2001.

On February 7, 2001, the State Board issued a decision (Remand Decision), directing "that the DOE determine the amount of mitigation for each petitioner and calculate the damages due each of them." Remand Decision at 5. The DOE transmitted the matter on remand to the OAL on February 14, 2001, for determination as a contested case.

On or about June 7, 2001, the State Board filed a motion with the Appellate Division for a further extension, and the deadline was extended to October 5, 2001.[1] Telephone conferences were conducted on April 26 and May 29, 2001, and a hearing was conducted on June 4, 2001. The District subsequently advised that it would not be presenting any witnesses.

The parties subsequently filed initial and reply briefs. At my initiation, a telephone conference was conducted on July 23, 2001 to address this judge's concerns that the record was not sufficiently developed in respect to petitioners' arguments based on Caponegro v. State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, 330 N.J. Super. 148 (App. Div. 2000) (Caponegro). The parties were given the options of stipulating facts in that respect, without prejudice to their positions, and filing letter memoranda clarifying their positions. The District was also given the option of presenting evidence. Respondent filed a supplemental memorandum on August 1, 2001. Petitioners filed a response to that document on August 8, 2001.

NATURE OF THE CASE

On July 12, 1995, the DOE removed the Newark Board of Education (Board) and created a State-Operated School District, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:34 et seq., commonly referenced as the "Takeover Statute." Petitioners were employees of the Board prior to the takeover, and respondent terminated their employment on August 17, 1995. Petitioners argued that they were terminated without notice, contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1, and that they therefore should be reinstated, with back pay. The District argued that those provisions were not applicable, that petitioners were "at will employees," before and after the takeover, and that they were not entitled to notice.

Respondent filed motions for summary decision, and petitioners filed a cross-motion for summary decision. This judge issued an order on January 10, 1997, denying the motions and determining that a hearing should be conducted regarding the questions of whether petitioners fell within N.J.S.A. 18:7A-44(a) or 44(c), whether respondent implemented a reorganization of central and administrative supervisory staff, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(b), and what relief should be granted to petitioners if they prevailed. I found that section 44 of the Takeover Statute does not, as respondent argued, apply only to individuals having tenure prior to a reorganization.

The Commissioner issued a decision on the motions, on interlocutory review, on February 11, 1997. Although agreeing that N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 applies to both tenured and non-tenured employees, the Commissioner held that if petitioners' positions were not abolished pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a), nor 44(c), but that if their individual employment were terminated by discretionary action of the State Superintendent, they would be entitled to no relief. With that decision controlling, and as set forth in the 1999 Initial Decision, this judge subsequently concluded that petitioners were not entitled to relief pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 nor N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 and that their petitions should be dismissed. In his June 1, 1999, decision, the Commissioner concurred with this judge's findings and conclusions and adopted the 1999 Initial Decision, for the reasons stated therein.

In its May 3, 2000 Decision, the State Board affirmed the conclusion that N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 is not applicable in the current matter but reversed the Commissioner's determination that petitioners were not entitled to relief pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44. However, the State Board also concluded that petitioners' relief was > limited to the salary that each would have earned from the time of termination until effectuation of the reorganization, plus 60 days' pay.

> [May 3, 2000 Decision at 2.]

The State Board held that the State District Superintendent did not have the discretion to terminate petitioners under the circumstances of the case.

The issue, at this time, broadly, is the relief to which petitioners would be entitled if they prevail. The period in question is from August 17, 1995, the date of termination of their employment with respondent, until July 19, 1996, effectuation of the reorganization of the District's central office, plus sixty days.

In its Remand Decision, the State Board denied petitioners' requests for pre-judgment interest. Remand Decision at 3-4. That determination is binding. Additionally, during the May 29, 2001, telephone conference, this judge ruled that the question of mitigation by petitioners is limited to any income during the period in question, not efforts by petitioners to secure alternate employment, or any efforts that petitioners arguably should have undertaken in that respect. That ruling was memorialized in an order issued on May 30, 2001. The parties did not file interlocutory appeals, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10, and that ruling is also binding, at this time.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Commissioner and the State Board did not disturb, in their June 1, 1999, and May 3, 2000, decisions, respectively, the findings of fact set forth in the 1999 Initial Decision. Those findings are hereby incorporated and, to the extent relevant to the current matter, set forth hereinafter. Petitioners supplemented the record on remand at the June 4, 2001, hearing, and the findings of fact are also based upon a review of the record in that respect.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be facts.

Petitioners were previously at-will employees of the Board. O'Donohue was appointed by the Board to the position of Director of Purchasing and Warehousing, effective September 1, 1980, and he served in that position until August 17, 1995. Craig was employed by the Board effective May 4, 1973, and he held various provisional positions under civil service status from that date through June 1, 1989. The Board appointed Craig to the unclassified civil service position of Executive Director of Personnel, effective June 1, 1989, and he was terminated from that position effective August 23, 1991. The Board provisionally appointed Craig to the position of Hearing Officer, effective August 23, 1991, and he remained in that position until August 17, 1995. Block was appointed by the Board to the position of Executive Director, in the Office of Accountability and Quality Assurance, effective October 31, 1994. Gonzalez was employed by the Board from 1979 until 1982. From 1979 through 1982, he served as the Board's Director of the English as a Second Language program and Bilingual Education. He was appointed to the position of Executive Superintendent, effective July 1, 1993.

Dr. Beverly Hall (Hall) was appointed as the State District Superintendent after the State Board removed the Board and created a State-Operated School District. The State assumed control on July 12, 1995, at which time Hall was appointed as Acting Superintendent for up to one year. The Board was eliminated upon the takeover of the district. Respondent terminated petitioners' employment effective August 17, 1995. In July 1996, the District engaged in a reorganization of the central office. The reorganization was implemented on July 19, 1996.

At the time of the termination of his employment with respondent, O'Donohue's annual salary was $88,766. Subsequently, for the balance of 1995, O'Donohue had no "W-2 income," i.e., income from employment. Tr., 6/14/01, at 14. He received a pension from the United States Army (Army) in 1995 and 1996. He received total unemployment compensation benefits of $4,602 and $9,204 in 1995 and 1996, respectively. O'Donohue received no earned income during 1996. O'Donohue did not find employment subsequent to his termination by respondent.

In addition to his Army pension, O'Donohue also receives Social Security benefits. Based upon his understanding of communications with Social Security Administration personnel, O'Donohue believes that if he had been employed by respondent for an additional thirteen months, he would receive "approximately" $10 additional monthly in Social Security benefits. Id. at 18. O'Donohue also receives a pension related to his prior employment with the District. At some point, O'Donohue contacted State pension personnel, requesting a calculation of what pension he would have been entitled to if he had been employed for an additional eleven months and received 60 days' "severance pay" by respondent. Id. at 18-19. He had not received any response as of June 4, 2001. At the time of the termination of his employment with respondent, O'Donohue was fifty-nine years of age.

At the time of the termination of his employment by respondent, O'Donohue had accrued a total of 79.5 vacation days, 38 sick days, and three "personal" days and he was not "paid" for any of them. Id. at 16. As an employee of the Board/District, O'Donohue received 20 vacation days, 15 sick days, 3 personal days, and 19 "paid holidays" annually. O'Donohue believes that, pursuant to "contract," he would have accumulated additional vacation, sick, and personal days if he had been employed an additional year by respondent. Id. at 19. Part of applicable insurance premiums were paid by him, and part by the Board/District. He also had the right to purchase medical insurance. O'Donohue has "military medical" benefits. Id. at 32. Upon the termination of his employment by respondent, O'Donohue "immediately" lost medical and dental coverage and life insurance. He continued the dental coverage, for "one period," approximately one year, at a cost to him of $600. Id. at 20. He had previously had life insurance equal to two and one-half times his salary. He was not a member of a union at the time of the termination of his employment.

At the time of the termination of his employment by respondent, Gonzalez's annual salary was $89,000. Gonzalez did not subsequently become employed until February 1998, when he was hired by the New Brunswick Board of Education, at an annual salary of $85,000.

During 1995, he received total unemployment compensation benefits of $4,956. He had no "W-2 income," i.e., earned income, during 1995 subsequent to the termination of his employment by respondent. Subsequent to the termination of his employment, Gonzalez engaged in some consulting activities. He had no "consulting income" during 1995, although he attempted to obtain such. Id. at 36. During 1996, Gonzalez received total unemployment compensation benefits in the amount of $4,248. He received no "W-2 income" during 1996. Id. at 37. Gonzalez was involved in two business activities during 1996 and earned income from them, during approximately the "second half" of the year. Id. at 38. One business in which he was involved was R.G./L.G. Enterprises (R.G./L.G.), via which he was "available" for consulting work for school districts in the New Jersey/New York/Connecticut region. Id. at 39. Gonzalez, in fact, performed consulting work for the Hartford, Connecticut, School District. His 1996 income tax returns, which were filed as joint returns with his wife, reflected gross income in that respect of $26,392 and income after the deduction of expenses of $19,520. Gonzalez was also involved in another business, the sale of merchandise and gifts, i.e., an import business, obtaining pottery from Mexico and transporting it into, and selling it in, the United States. Any income from that business was earned during the "tail end" of 1996 and in early 1997. Id. at 41. The pertinent 1996 tax returns reflected that there was no income from the receipt of sales from that business and expenses of $11,534. At the time of the termination of his employment, he needed two additional years in the pertinent pension system to vest his pension.

During 1995, Gonzalez owned a rental property in Belleville, New Jersey (Belleville). The pertinent 1995 tax returns reflected rent received totaling $9,003 from rental property in Staten Island, New York, a two-story house. Gonzalez resided in one apartment, and he rented the other. The tax return rental property for the property in Belleville was listed as $28,620.

At the time of the termination of his employment, Gonzalez had accrued "about" 45 sick days, which he "lost," i.e., he was not paid for them. He was entitled to three personal days annually. He had not utilized, to his knowledge, a total of nine, although he is not sure if he could accumulate days from year to year. However, it was his understanding that he could accrue vacation days and sick days, without limit. He received 20 vacation days and 15 sick days annually. He also received pension and health insurance benefits. Subsequent to the termination of his employment, at his request, Gonzalez received a lump-sum pension check in the amount of a "little less" than $6,000, and he utilized credit available to him, to the maximum amount. Id. at 44. He was not a member of a union at the time of the termination of his employment.

At the time of the termination of his employment by respondent, Craig's annual salary was $65,000. He also had pension and health benefits. He obtained employment with the Newark Housing Authority on September 30, 1997, at an annual salary of $50,000. He received no earned income during 1995 and 1996. Craig received a total of $6,372 and $7,434 in unemployment compensation benefits in 1995 and 1996, respectively. Prior to the termination of his employment, Craig formed a corporation to facilitate efforts to conduct a consulting business. He received no consulting income in 1995 and 1996.

Craig was employed a total of 22 years and 3 months by the Board/District. In June 1996, he withdrew the funds in his pension, thereby losing the "potential" for life insurance and health benefits "for life" upon retirement. Pursuant to his prior pension, he was eligible for a "full" pension after 25 years of service and attaining the age of 55, i.e., one-half of his three highest years of income. Id. at 71-72. Based upon communications with pension fund personnel, Craig's understanding is that if his employment had not been terminated, his pension "would have been" $40,000 annually. Id. at 72. Craig's pension from the Board/District was vested after ten years of employment. He withdrew $55,000 from his pension fund, and he is therefore not eligible to receive a pension. No individual required that Craig withdraw monies from his pension as a condition of filing a letter of resignation with the District.

At the time of the termination of his employment, Craig had "approximately" 15 "uncompensated" sick days. Ibid. To his understanding, sick days could be accrued without limit. If his employment had not been terminated, he would have been entitled to additional vacation days during an additional 13 months of employment, as well as health benefits. He received 3 personal days a year, which, to his understanding, had to be utilized within a given year. Prior to the takeover, there was also an "unwritten policy" that vacation days could not be accumulated in excess of "two years of vacation time," which might periodically be extended. Id. at 79. If he had retired at the age of 55, with 25 years of service, he would have received medical benefits. Craig will be 55 years of age in December 2001, and if his employment with the District had continued during that time, he would have been employed for 28 years. Craig was not a member of a union.

At the time of the termination of his employment by respondent, Block's annual salary was $77,000. Block began as a "volunteer" at the Education Law Center (ELC) in approximately November 1995. Id. at 89. On January 1, 1996, he commenced employment with the ELC, at an annual salary of $60,000. He is currently the Director, School Reform Initiatives, at the ELC, and his annual salary increased to $66,000, as of September 9, 1998. Block was not a member of a union while employed by the Board/District.

Block is currently married. He filed individual tax returns for 1995. Block received unemployment compensation benefits totaling $3,540 in 1995, and none in 1996. He did not receive any "W-2 income" during 1995. Id. at 84.

Block's 1995 and 1996 tax returns reflected consulting income. Block's spouse "owns a business." In 1995 and in 1996, their accountant advised them that Block could be a "legal tax shelter" for his wife because they regularly discuss her "business affairs," and he "advised her" regarding "a number of matters." His wife's business relates to "educational publishing," an area pertinent to which he has "expertise." Their accountant advised that it would be "perfectly proper" for Block's spouse to pay him a "consulting fee" as a way of reducing her "tax obligation" for the two years in question, 1995 and 1996. Id. at 85. Any time spent resulting in that income did not make Block "unavailable" for his employment at the ELC. Id. at 86. In his judgment, if his employment with the District had continued for the balance of 1995, he would have received the same amount of consulting income; that income related to his "wife's situation," not his. Id. at 87. Block received no other consulting income during 1995 and 1996.

During 1995 he gave his wife "advice" regarding her "business affairs and educational matters," which assisted her in developing a business that was "growing rapidly" at that point. Id. at 89-90. Block and his wife were initially married in 1970, for a year, and apparently were remarried in 1993. Although he gave her "advice," apparently, continuously, after their remarriage, he was not "compensated" for such until 1995 and 1996 because of the "income" and "tax implications." Id. at 90. Block received lump-sum checks at the end of those years. For 1995, he received a check in the amount of $75,000, "probably" in December. Id. at 91. For 1996, he also received a check in the amount of $75,000.

If Block had been employed with the District for the remainder of 1995, to his belief, he would have accumulated additional vacation and sick days pertinent to ten months' additional employment. He also apparently had accumulated some vacation and sick days prior to his termination. He received 20 vacation days and 15 sick days annually. To his belief, if he had not been terminated in 1995, he would have accumulated $^5/_6$ of those days.

DISCUSSION

As reflected hereinabove, the period of time in issue is from August 17, 1995, until July 19, 1996, plus an additional sixty calendar days, thus terminating the time period on September 17, 1996.

Petitioners' arguments in their post-hearing submissions reflect their positions generally throughout the proceedings. Petitioners, more specifically, argue that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, individuals not hired by a reorganized State-operated school district shall be given sixty days' notice of termination or sixty days' pay and that such constitutes severance pay, which should not be subject to any mitigation. Petitioners therefore calculate the sixty days as an amount equal to $^1/_6$ of their annual salaries. Petitioners also argue that they were entitled to be paid for the eleven months between August 17, 1995, and July 19, 1996 and that they have not calculated the benefit of any salary increase during that time. Petitioners' arguments in that respect are hereby rejected. The controlling law at this time is as set forth by the State Board in the Remand Decision and its May 3, 2000 Decision. I also note that the OAL only acquires jurisdiction over a matter after it has been determined to be a contested case by the agency head. N.J.A.C. 1:13-.2.

Petitioners also argue that respondent is not entitled to credit for any unemployment benefits received by them. However, that position is also contrary to the parameters set forth by the State Board and is rejected. Petitioners consider, and conclude to the contrary, the possibility that they arguably might have an obligation to repay the State Department of Labor for any back pay awards they receive. However, those issues are not before me, and the DOE would not have jurisdiction to make a determination in that respect, which petitioners apparently acknowledge.

Petitioners' calculations of damages do not reflect any unemployment compensation benefits or consulting or other income they received. Petitioners' response to the District's discovery arguments, which were made during the hearings, argued delay involved in litigating the current matter, as well as the prior proceedings, and discovery issues. However, it is clear that the State Board contemplated that petitioners would be forthcoming in providing pertinent documents, including income tax returns, and I am persuaded that petitioners did not provide such in a timely fashion.[2] Notwithstanding, as noted hereinabove, the findings of fact are based on the evidence produced at the hearing.

Petitioners argue, specifically referencing O'Donohue and Craig's situations, that they had no income even arguably subject to mitigation. Gonzales argues, in that respect, that petitioners' right to back pay ends in mid-July 1996, essentially the end of the first half of that year, and that respondent is not entitled to the benefit of any income earned by him during the second half of 1996. Block argues that his consulting income should not be deemed to be mitigation because it was not related to the work he performed during regular business hours and he would have had the income in question even if his employment were not terminated by the District. Block acknowledges that his employment with the ELC, commencing in 1996, should be deducted from any award of back pay.

Relying on Caponegro, supra, 330 N.J. Super. 148, petitioners also argue that they were entitled to vacation, sick, and personal days upon the termination of their employment and that they should be entitled to an increase in their awards of back pay of 25 percent to reflect the value of fringe benefits lost as a result of their termination. In petitioners' reply brief, O'Donohue modified his position to claim entitlement for uncompensated vacation time, which, he argues, can be based on an adverse inference against respondent because of a failure by it to provide documentation in that respect. More specifically, O'Donohue includes in his calculations 60 vacation days, calculated by dividing his annual salary by 240 and multiplying by 60 days.

[2] Petitioners' counsel, by letter dated May 15, 2001, advised that petitioners' 1995 and 1996 tax returns would be provided as soon as a Protective Order was executed, but that petitioners would not answer any other interrogatories without an order. Petitioners' counsel confirmed that position in a letter dated May 29, 2001, to this judge. By letter dated May 24, 2001, to this judge, respondent's counsel stated, in part, that petitioners had declined to respond to discovery requests for tax returns. By letter dated May 30, 2001, to petitioners' counsel, respondent's counsel, referencing prior correspondence from petitioners, indicated receipt of the 1995 and 1996 federal tax returns, but the absence of W-2 forms. Subsequent to discussion of the issue during telephone conferences, this judge issued a Protective Order regarding petitioners' tax returns on May 30, 2001.

O'Donohue claims total damages of $142,411.50; Gonzalez, $120,520.88; Block, $63,645.88; and Craig, $88,020.88. Petitioners calculate those figures as follows:

O'Donohue:

2 months @ $7,398.00	$ 14,896.00
11 Months @ $7,398.00	81,378.00
	$ 96,174.00
25% value of benefits lost	24,043.50
	$120,217.50
$88,776/249 x 60	22,194.00
	$142,411.50

60 days of unpaid vacation leave

Gonzalez:

2 months @ $7,416.67	$14,833.34
11 months @ $7,416.77	81,583.37
	$96,416.71
25% value of benefits lost	24,104.17
	$ 120,520.88

Block:

2 Months @ $6,416.67	$ 12,833.34
11 Months @ $6,416.67	70,583.38
	$ 83,416.71

Deductions:

6.5 months @ $5,000 month ($60,000 annual salary)	$ 32,500.00
	$50,916.00
25% value of benefits lost	12,729.17

	$ 63,645.88

Craig:

2 Months @ $5,416.67	$ 10,833.34
11 Months @ $5,416.67	59,583.37
	$ 70,416.71
25% value of benefits lost	17,604.17
	$ 88,020.88

The District avers that petitioners would arguably be entitled to the following base salary amounts, subject to mitigation:

O'Donohue – $97,312.11, reflecting 57 weeks at $1,707.23/week

Craig – $71,250, reflecting 57 weeks at $1,250/week

Gonzalez – $97,557.78, reflecting 57 weeks at $1,711.54/week

Block – $84,403.89, reflecting 57 weeks at $1,480.77/week

Respondent argues, referencing discovery issues, that in the absence of documentation to the contrary, all income received by petitioners should proportionately apply towards mitigation. However, as reflected in the above findings of fact, petitioners testified regarding their income, referencing their 1995 and 1996 income tax returns, which documents were made available to the District. The District did not establish, through cross-examination or documentary evidence, that petitioners' testimony was not credible, nor that the income tax returns reflected data contrary to their testimony. The District argues, however, that in the absence of specific documentation setting forth the dates when income was earned, at a minimum, a percentage of income earned in 1996 should count towards mitigation. The District more specifically argues that petitioners are potentially entitled to damages for $28^{5}/_{7}$ weeks in 1996, approximately 55.22 percent of the year, and that in the absence of documentation regarding when income was earned in 1996, 55.22 percent of all income earned by petitioners during that year should count towards mitigation.

Consistent with that position, and noting that Gonzalez did not provide documentation regarding when in 1996 he earned income from R.J./L.G., respondent calculates that 55.22 percent of that gross income, or $14,871.85, should offset any potential award to him. Respondent's position is that in light of that income, as well as his unemployment benefits, Gonzalez's potential damages should be reduced by $24,075.85.

The District argues, pertinent to Block, that it is entitled to a minimum offset of his salary at the ELC for 55.22 percent pertinent to 1996, or $33,132. Noting that there is no evidence that Block consulted prior to 1995, respondent also argues that a pro-rated portion of Block's income in 1995 and 1996 from consulting services to his wife should offset any potential damages to him. Averring that there are $19^{3}/_{7}$ weeks, or 37.36 percent, of 1995 in issue, respondent argues that the prorated fee for consulting in 1995 is $28,020. Similarly, the District argues that the prorated rate for $28^{5}/_{7}$ weeks, or 55.22 percent of the year, at issue in 1996 results in a pro rata portion of consulting income for that year offsetting potential damages totaling $41,415. Reflecting Block's unemployment compensation benefits, his employment at the ELC, and his consulting income, the District argues that his potential damages should be offset by $106,107, thereby establishing that Block did not suffer from his discharge and is not entitled to any damages.

The District argues that Craig's damages should be reduced by $13,806, the total amount of his unemployment compensation benefits in 1995 and 1996. Similarly, it argues that O'Donohue's potential damages should be offset by $13,806, the total amount of unemployment compensation benefits he received in those years.

The District's overall position is that if the State Board's decision is affirmed, without modification, and if this judge's ruling regarding mitigation is upheld, petitioners' damages are as follows:

O'Donohue:	$83,506.11 ($97,312.11 - $13,806.00)
Craig:	$57,444 ($71,250.00 - $13,806.00)
Gonzales:	$73,481.93 ($97,557.78 - $24,075.85)
Block:	$0 ($84,403.89 - $106,107.00)

The District further agues that the State Board's decisions awarded petitioners relief limited to the salary each would have earned during the time in question subject to mitigation, as calculated by respondent. The District therefore argues that no other monetary relief can be granted at this point.

In its supplemental filing, as well as in its initial brief, respondent addresses issues regarding accrued time entitlements. The District argues that any such issues were not part of the proceedings before the State Board and not addressed in the State Board's decisions and therefore are not before this judge on remand. Respondent additionally avers that whatever claims to accrued leave petitioners may have had existed at the time of their actual termination of employment, August 1995, and that if petitioners believed that they did not receive something to which they were entitled in that respect, they should have made a claim for such at that time pursuant to the District's procedures and should have filed a claim with the Commissioner within the applicable 90-day time limit. Respondent characterizes the State Board decisions, in that respect, as extending the date of petitioners' terminations until July 1996 and asserts that the fact that the State Board did so does not now provide for additional, and untimely, claims to be considered relative to entitlements upon actual termination of employment. Finally, the District argues that if the Appellate Division ultimately reverses the State Board's decision and upholds the Commissioner's decision that petitioners were properly terminated in August 1995, their petitions would be dismissed and there would be no separate, and pending, claims relating to accrued leave payments at the time of termination.

In their August 8, 2001, filing, petitioners argued that respondent's August 1, 2001, filing advances an entirely new position, that their initial pleadings were sufficiently broad to raise issues regarding accrued leave time, that respondent should be required to produce evidence to calculate petitioners' accrued time, and that the District's position is "mean spirited."

I am persuaded that unemployment compensation benefits received by petitioners should be treated as mitigation of damages. Such was clearly contemplated by the State Board. Remand Decision at 4. Additionally, as respondent argues, such benefits were received in lieu of any salaries petitioners would have received from the Division. I am not persuaded by petitioners' arguments that unemployment compensation benefits should not be deemed as mitigation because the District violated State law in terminating their employment. Although respondent arguably may have violated certain procedural requirements, there is no ruling, at this time, that petitioners are entitled to reinstatement.

I am not, however, persuaded that any consulting and rental income should be treated as mitigation. As petitioners argue, there is nothing in the record to support a conclusion that they could not, and would not, have received consulting or rental income even if their employment were not terminated. This is especially so regarding Block and Gonzalez. The fact that Block received consulting income during 1996, when he was employed full time by the ELC, lends support to his argument in that respect. I am persuaded that such income should not be deemed mitigation.

The question of whether petitioners' relief should include any accumulated sick, vacation, and/or personal leave time is a more difficult one. The State Board's emphasis on petitioners' entitlements to their "salaries" supports respondent's argument that the State Board did not intend that petitioners receive compensation for any accrued time. May 3, 2000 Decision at 5.

It is not clear if the State Board determined that petitioners are entitled to relief pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a) or -44(c), although it is reasonable to infer that it concluded that the latter provision is applicable. Id. at 2-5. Such distinction is not, however, determinative of the issue.

The pertinent statutory provisions, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a) and (c), read as follows:

> a. Notwithstanding any other provision of law or contract, the positions of the district's chief school administrator and those executive administrators responsible for curriculum, business and finance, and personnel shall be abolished upon creation of the State-operated school district. The affected individuals shall be given 60 days' notice of termination or 60 days' pay. The notice or payment shall be in lieu of any other claim or recourse against the employing board or the school district based on law or contract. Any individual whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall be entitled to assert a claim to any position or to placement upon a preferred eligibility list for any position to which the individual may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority within the district. No individual whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall retain any right to tenure or seniority in the positions abolished herein.
>
> c. Notwithstanding any other provision of law or contract, the positions of the central administrative and supervisory staff, instructional and noninstructional, other than those positions abolished pursuant to subsection a. of this section, shall be abolished upon the reorganization of the State-operated school district's staff. The State district superintendent may hire an individual whose position is so abolished, based upon the evaluation of the individual and the staffing needs of the reorganized district staff. These individuals shall be hired with tenure if they had tenure in their prior position. If they did not have tenure in their prior position, they may obtain tenure pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S. 18A:28-6. Individuals hired as State assistant superintendents shall not be hired with tenure and shall not acquire tenure. Employees or officers not hired for the reorganized staff shall be given 60 days' notice of termination or 60 days' pay. The notice or payment shall be in lieu of any other claim or recourse against the employing board or the school district based on law or contract. Notwithstanding this limitation, nothing herein shall preclude an individual from asserting upon separation from service any legal contractual right to health care coverage, annuities, accrued vacation days, accrued sick leave, insurance and approved tuition costs. Any employee whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall be entitled to assert a claim to any position or to placement upon a preferred eligibility list for any position to which the employee may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority within the district. No employee whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall retain any right to tenure or seniority in the positions abolished herein.

Subsection (c) clearly provides that an individual whose employment is terminated pursuant thereto can claim a right to accrued leave time. Although subsection (a) does not, on its face, contain such a provision, the court in Caponegro, supra, held that depriving a board's auditor and certain administrators of their earned vacation and sick leave, upon termination of their employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a), would unconstitutionally impair the obligation of contracts.

The petitioners in that case were former senior staff members whose positions were abolished as a result of the takeover of the district, one by reason of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-42(a)(3), and four by reason of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a). They had been at-will, non-union employees. All petitioners, except one, who received a letter dated November 21, 1995, were advised on July 12, 1995, of the abolition of their positions and their immediate termination. Caponegro, supra, 330 N.J. Super. at 152. Subsequent to their terminations, they appealed to the Commissioner, asserting, among other claims, that they were entitled to payment for their respective accumulated vacation, sick, and personal days. Petitioners also argued that the 60 days' pay provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a) should have been calculated on the basis of working days, not calendar days. Id. at 151-52. The DOE transmitted the matter to the OAL, and the ALJ rejected all of the petitioners' assertions. The Commissioner generally concurred with the ALJ, and the State Board affirmed. The Appellate Division held that petitioners' "contractual right" to payment, on termination, for accumulated vacation or sick days was not abrogated by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a) and remanded to the Commissioner for calculation of the monies to which petitioners were entitled. The court affirmed in all other respects. Id. at 151.

The court emphasized that there is a distinction between "a prospectively effective contract nullification" and "the abrogation of previously vested property rights," concluding that petitioners were entitled to the same "deferred compensation," that is, their accumulated vacation and sick days, that they would have received had they terminated their employment voluntarily. Such compensation could not be constitutionally withheld, and the court did not construe the pertinent statutory provisions to so intend. Id. at 155. Whether or not before it, the court noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c), applicable to former staff not rehired for the restructured staff, other than those individuals subject to subsection (a), also were entitled to 60 days' notice or 60 days' pay, but that individuals so separated from their employment could assert any legal contractual rights to certain benefits. The court, more particularly, construed subsection (c) as conferring not only the benefits of accumulated vacation days and sick leave, i.e., "deferred compensation," but "prospective benefits," i.e., continuing health care coverage, insurance benefits, annuities, and tuition. The petitioners in Caponegro did not claim "prospective benefits." However, the court determined: "But the benefits of accumulated vacation days and sick leave stands on an altogether different footing." The court held that the petitioners were entitled to receive "a contractual right to comparable accumulated leave," "deferred compensation" payments, "to the extent the pre-takeover contracts of employment of these petitioners require payment ... upon termination of employment," as if their employment had been "voluntarily terminated." Id. at 156 (citation omitted).

The court then considered the question of exactly which accumulated vacation days and sick leave benefits the petitioners were entitled to. It disposed of any claims to compensation for unused personal days, noting that the testimony had established that petitioners were entitled to three personal days annually, but that such were lost if they were not used in the year earned. Id. at 157. The court considered, pertinent to vacation and sick leave, evidence regarding the prior board's written policy and procedural manual relevant to the issues, although such was not introduced into evidence per se. Id. at 158. The evidence indicated that petitioners were accorded 20 vacation days annually and were permitted to accumulate a total of 60 days and that they were permitted to receive compensation, at their option, for accumulated, unused sick leave days at a certain specified rate of compensation. Evidence had also been introduced regarding the board's past policies and practices regarding compensation for accumulated vacation and sick days upon termination of employment pertinent to the 1994-95 school year. However, there was a dispute in the evidence regarding vacation entitlement for the 1995-96 school year. Id. at 158-59. One issue was whether any entitlement to vacation days translated into compensation for employees terminated during the school year, and whether vacation days were prorated. Id. at 159-60. They were prorated in accordance with that portion of the year actually worked. Finally, the court determined that petitioners' claims that the 60-day severance compensation in subsection 44(a) of the Takeover Statute intends compensation for 60 calendar days. Id. at 161. The court reversed the State Board's decision to the extent it denied compensation for accumulated vacation and sick days and remanded for reconsideration and calculation of such benefits in accordance with the board's policies and procedural manual and, as appropriate, the board's past practices. Id. at 162.

Respondent's arguments regarding accrued time have some merit. A petition shall be filed with the Commissioner no later than the ninetieth day from the date of receipt of a notice of final order, ruling, or other action by a district board of education, individual party, or agency which is the subject of a requested contested case hearing. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). That requirement has been applied to claims for accrued leave time. See, e.g., Romanoli v. Willingboro Township Bd., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 81. Scotch Plains-Fanwood Ass'n v. Scotch Plains-Fanwood Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J.A.R. 175 (1980). Petitioners initially filed their petitions with the DOE within 90 days of the termination of their employment. Although the specific relief requested in the petitions is not clear, petitioners contested the termination of their employment and requested that they be reinstated, "with back pay." 1999 Initial Decision at 1-2.[3] A request for an award of back pay is sufficiently broad to include a claim for accrued leave time. Although the State Board's decisions can be construed as contemplating that petitioners are entitled only to salary, not accrued leave time, I am persuaded that those decisions should be interpreted as intending to be consistent with any applicable case law. In this case, the principles articulated in Caponegro, supra, 330 N.J. Super. 148, are applicable. I am therefore persuaded that the relief to which petitioners would be entitled if they ultimately prevail should be calculated as set forth by respondent, without mitigation for consulting and rental income, but subject to enhancement of petitioners' claims for the monetary value of any accrued leave time.[4]

However, there is insufficient information in the record upon which to calculate the relief to which petitioners would be entitled pertinent to accrued leave time. Additionally, I am persuaded that petitioners' methodology should be rejected.

[3] The DOE did not transmit the petitions to the OAL with the case file on remand.

[4] Parenthetically, I am not persuaded by petitioners' argument that respondent's initial position in this case did not raise arguments pertinent to the 90-day rule. The District's position was sufficiently broad to include the argument that requested relief was not filed timely, and in any event, the rule was applicable. In addition, petitioners did not demonstrate that respondent's position is "mean spirited," and petitioners' argument in that respect is, in any event, irrelevant.

The record does not reflect sufficient, nor reliable, information regarding any relevant personnel manuals utilized by the Board/District, practices and procedures of the Board/District, including whether the different categories of leave time could be accrued, or even the number of sick, personal, or vacation days accrued by each petitioner at the time of his termination or that would have been accrued during the period in question. The evidence offered by petitioners in that respect, as reflected in the above findings of fact, was ambiguous and non-specific, and as noted hereinabove, respondent did not present any evidence.

Petitioners rely on census data regarding fringe benefits, not data specific to petitioners or respondent.[5] In addition, petitioners' positions relate to arguments regarding other "damages," for example, Craig's loss of the possibility of receiving the benefit of his pension and Gonzalez's incurrence of credit card interest debt. Petitioners cite no authority for the assumption that the DOE has the authority to award such relief, and I am not persuaded that it does. I am also not persuaded by petitioners' arguments that in light of the time involved in these cases, any award is inadequate because petitioners still are obliged to pay for their legal expenses. Petitioners do not provide any legal authority for the proposition that the DOE has authority to provide such relief, including an implied award of counsel fees and costs, and I am not persuaded that it does.

Petitioners did not support any claims to fringe benefits, i.e., deferred compensation, other than, possibly, to accrued leave time. The evidence regarding pension benefits was vague and, at least in part, hearsay. Petitioners presented no evidence that they were not offered any options of continuing medical and life insurance benefits to which they may have been entitled, and in fact, as found, O'Donohue did so for a period of time. The fact that Craig may have lost the right to collect a pension because he withdrew pension funds, for whatever reason, does not entitle him to any additional benefits. Caponegro does not support a conclusion that petitioners, whose positions were eliminated pursuant to the Takeover Statute, are entitled to enhanced pension benefits based on what they would have received if their employment had not been terminated.

Respondent's argument that even if petitioners were entitled to relief for accrued leave time, such should be based on accrued time as of the date of the termination of their employment is persuasive and consistent with the pertinent statutory provisions. However, for purposes of this proceeding, I am persuaded that it is reasonable that the period in question be the same as set forth by the State Board relevant to petitioner's relief pertinent to their salaries, i.e., the date of termination until effectuation of the reorganization, plus 60 days.

In order to expedite the matter, and to facilitate compliance with the Appellate Division's mandate regarding the deadline for the issuance of a Final Agency Decision, I am persuaded that the parties should be required to file information with the Commissioner sufficient to calculate the monetary value of any accrued leave time to which petitioners would have been entitled during the period in question, including, but not limited to, respondent's records regarding its policies and practices regarding the awarding and accruing of leave time, the number of days accrued by petitioners in each category of leave time as of the date of the termination of their employment, any applicable contracts, and any pertinent manuals or other documents. The parties are urged to attempt to stipulate the relevant facts in that respect.

Pursuant to the parameters set forth by the State Board, and for the foregoing reasons, I am persuaded that, if they ultimately prevail, petitioners are entitled to relief in the amounts of $83,506.11, $57,440.00, $88,353.78, and $80,863.89, pertinent to O'Donohue, Craig, Gonzalez, and Block, respectively, subject to increases for the monetary value of any accrued leave time, or time that would have been accrued, during the period in question.

These figures are calculated as follows:

O'Donohue	$97,312.11 - $13,806 ($4,602 + $9,204)
Craig	$71,250.00 - $13,806 ($6,372 + $7,434)
Gonzalez	$97,557.78 - $9,204 ($4,956 + $4,248)
Block	$84,403.89 - $3,540

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that if petitioners ultimately prevail, they are entitled to relief in the amounts of $83,506.11, $57,444.00, $88,353.98, and $80,863.89, pertinent to O'Donohue, Craig, Gonzalez, and Block, respectively.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that if petitioners ultimately prevail, they be awarded relief in the amounts of $83,506.11, $57,444.00, $88,353.98, and $80,863.89, pertinent to O'Donohue, Craig, Gonzalez, and Block, respectively.

It is also ORDERED that the parties file with the Commissioner, no later than September 7, 2001, information and/or any stipulations reached by the parties sufficient for the Commissioner to calculate the monetary value of any accrued time, including time that would have been accrued, by petitioners during the period in question.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the District's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[1]

Petitioners' exception arguments contend that: (1) respondent should not have been credited for unemployment benefits paid to petitioners; (2) the failure to award petitioners post-judgment interest for the period after May 3, 2000, the date upon which the State Board of Education determined that they were entitled to relief, is "incomprehensible;" and (3) petitioners are entitled to reinstatement in their former positions with the District. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 1-3)[2]

[1] The District's submission consists primarily of what it termed "cross-exceptions." However, upon review, the Assistant Commissioner finds that the District's arguments do not counter issues raised by petitioners' exceptions, but, instead, take exception to the ALJ's factual findings and conclusions of law. Therefore, they should have been filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a), and must be rejected as untimely. Accordingly, these arguments are neither summarized nor considered herein.

[2] Petitioners additionally object to the ALJ's dicta on page 12 of the Initial Decision, in which she opines that petitioners submitted pertinent documents to the record in an untimely fashion. In its single reply exception, the District notes its agreement with the ALJ's characterization.

Upon careful and independent review, the Assistant Commissioner, to whom this decision was delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34c, determines to affirm the Initial Decision of the ALJ, with modification, as set forth below.

As a preliminary matter, the Assistant Commissioner notes that the ALJ's Interlocutory Order of May 30, 2001 limits the question of mitigation by petitioners in this matter to any income during the period in question, but does not consider efforts by petitioners to secure alternative employment, or any efforts that petitioners arguably should have undertaken in this regard. (Initial Decision at 4-5) The ALJ bases her order upon her interpretation of the State Board of Education's Decision on Remand, issued on February 7, 2001, also finding that "Goodman [v. London Metals Exchange, Inc., 86 N.J. 19 (1981)] involved a civil rights matter, and I am not persuaded that the principles articulated therein, regarding mitigation efforts, are applicable to education matters." (Interlocutory Order, May 30, 2001 at 2) Although the Assistant Commissioner does not take issue with the ALJ's reliance upon her reading of the State Board's remand decision to support her order, he is compelled to note that, indeed, broader mitigation principles have been applied in education matters involving the award of back pay.[3] However, while the Assistant Commissioner is mindful of his power to review, and, if necessary, reverse the ALJ's Order pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j),[4] he is, in this instance, constrained by

[3] See, West Orange Supplemental Instructors Assoc., et al., v. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of West Orange, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 287, 298, wherein the Commissioner determined that: "(1) an individual must exercise reasonable diligence and ordinary care to mitigate damages, (citation omitted); (2) honest attempts to mitigate should be liberally construed; (3) the burden of the facts in mitigation of damages rests with the breaching employer, (citation omitted); and (4) the amount of an award to a wrongfully discharged employee is also subject to mitigation by the amount which could have been earned by the employee, (citation omitted)." (West Orange, supra at 298) As to the fourth finding, the State Board of Education elucidated: "[I]f it is shown that any of the Petitioners could have secured other employment by reasonable efforts, but did not, then the Board is entitled to have such Petitioners' back pay awards reduced by the salary they should have earned had they exercised the required diligence. (citation omitted)" (emphasis in text)

[4] The Initial Decision states, "[t]he parties did not file interlocutory appeals, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10, and that ruling is also binding, at this time." (Initial Decision at 5) However, the Assistant Commissioner underscores that, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j), and except as limited by N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(m):

the Appellate Division's impending deadline in this matter[5] to avoid a remand to the OAL to consider broader mitigation principles.[6] In any event, as the ALJ noted, neither party appealed her interlocutory order when it was issued, nor does any party take exception to that order at this stage of the proceedings. Therefore, the District can fairly be said to have conceded to the ALJ's decision to limit mitigation in this matter.

The Assistant Commissioner adopts as final the relief calculated by the ALJ at pages 23 and 24 of the Initial Decision,[7] with one exception. As petitioner Block concedes, respondent clearly should be credited for the money Block earned working at the Education Law Center (Petitioners' Exceptions at 1), during the period at issue. Therefore, the Assistant Commissioner concludes that Block's award shall be reduced by $32,500. (Initial Decision at 13)

As to the issue of petitioners' entitlement to compensation for accumulated sick, vacation and/or personal leave, even assuming petitioners' request for the award of back pay may fairly encompass such a claim, and further assuming that petitioners are legally entitled to this relief, like the ALJ, the Assistant Commissioner finds that "there is insufficient information in the record upon which to calculate the relief to which petitioners would be entitled pertinent to

> [A]ny order or ruling reviewable interlocutorily is subject to review by the agency head after the judge renders the initial decision in the contested case, even if an application for interlocutory review: 1. Was not made; 2. Was made but the agency head declined to review the order or ruling; or 3. Was made and not considered by the agency head within the established time frame. (N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j)) (emphasis added)

[5] The Appellate Division's Order of June 29, 2001 extends this time for decision in this matter by the Commissioner and the State Board of Education to October 5, 2001. Oral argument in the Appellate Division is set for October 22, 2001.

[6] The Assistant Commissioner notes in this connection that the Initial Decision was delivered to him August 21, 2001; the file followed thereafter on August 31, 2001. Additionally, the ALJ's recommended decision left the record open until September 7, 2001 (see infra). Thus, the time for review of this matter has been compressed and, indeed, cannot even extend to the 45 days that he is ordinarily accorded by law. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[7] The Assistant Commissioner notes in this connection that petitioners' awards were properly reduced by their respective amounts of unemployment compensation. (See, West Orange, supra at 301)

accrued leave time." (Initial Decision at 21) In this regard, the Assistant Commissioner specifically notes that the ALJ permitted the record to remain open through September 7, 2001 to accommodate additional submissions directly to the Commissioner relative to this issue, but that neither party made a submission in response to this opportunity. (Initial Decision at 24)

Finally, the Assistant Commissioner finds that petitioners are not entitled to an award of postjudgment interest subsequent to May 3, 2000, where conclusions on specific damages were not reached in the State Board's May 3, 2000 decision, where the Appellate Division subsequently issued an order on December 8, 2000 granting the District's motion for stay of the State Board's decision (Initial Decision at 2) and where the "precise amount of such claim" remained to be established in the record before the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is affirmed with modification as set forth herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON REMAND

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, June 1, 1999

Decided by the State Board of Education, May 3, 2000

Remanded by the Appellate Division, December 8, 2000

Order on motion by the Appellate Division, February 2, 2001

Remanded by the State Board of Education, February 7, 2001

Order on motion by the Appellate Division, June 29, 2001

Decision on remand by the Assistant Commissioner of Education, September 14, 2001

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Medvin & Elberg (Philip Elberg, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Cherie L. Maxwell, Esq., of Counsel)

The petitioners, who were employed by the Board of Education of the City of Newark at the time of the creation of a State-operated school district, claimed that their employment was terminated on August 17, 1995 without notice contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1, and they sought reinstatement with back pay. On May 3, 2000, the State Board of Education reversed the determination of the Commissioner of Education that the petitioners were not entitled to relief under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, concluding that the State District Superintendent did not have the discretion to terminate the petitioners' employment under the facts presented by this case. Under the circumstances, however, we limited their relief to the salary that each of the petitioners would have earned from the date of their termination in August 1995 until effectuation of the reorganization on July 19, 1996, plus 60 days' pay in lieu of notice as provided for by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c).

On December 8, 2000, the Appellate Division granted the State-operated District's motion for a stay, pending determination of the appeal or further order of the Court, and remanded the matter to the State Board for computation of the amount of damages. The Court directed that the remand be completed within 30 days.[1]

On February 7, 2001, we remanded the matter to the Commissioner with the direction that he determine the amount of mitigation for each petitioner and calculate the damages due each of them. We indicated in so doing that:

> As set forth in their proposal, petitioners contend that, as a matter of law, the damages in this case should be decided solely on the basis of the record that was developed before the Office of Administrative Law. According to petitioners, on that basis, they would be entitled to be paid at least the difference between what they actually earned prior to September 17, 1996, which was sixty days after the reorganization became "official," and what they would have earned had they not been terminated....

It is the District's position that the issue of damages was not settled during the proceedings before the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"). Although the District does not take issue with the annual salaries earned by petitioners at the time of their termination as set forth in the record that has been developed thus far, it does dispute whether there has been mitigation. It is the District's position that calculation of damages must include consideration of all alternative income received, as evidenced by tax returns and supporting documentation, and that because the record does not include the necessary information, it must be expanded in order to justify an award of any relief beyond payment in lieu of sixty days' notice....

Further, review of the record that was developed during the proceedings before the ALJ shows that it does not provide a sufficient basis upon which to calculate the damages that are due petitioners. Tr. 5/9/97 at 86-24 through 89-15; Tr. 7/7/98 at 99-21 through 102-19. Although the record indicates that petitioners did receive other income during the relevant period before they secured permanent employment, tr. 5/9/97 at 86-12, 88-16, 89-6; tr. 7/7/98 at 101-6, it does not include the information necessary to establish the total amount of income each received following his termination. In this respect, we stress that although the certification submitted by each petitioner after the close of hearing sets forth the amount of his salary prior to termination and the date and the salary of any permanent employment, none of the certifications include any information pertaining to other income, such as amounts received in the form of unemployment benefits. [Footnote omitted.] Consequently, although we did not specifically order petitioners to produce their tax returns when they submitted their proposal, we anticipated that counsel for petitioners would include this information along with some form of supporting documentation to evidence the accuracy of the information. Counsel, however, did not do so, and included instead only the certifications that were put into the record in September 1998 and his letter of November 20, 1998 to the ALJ setting forth his calculation of damages based on those certifications.

> In short, the submissions of the parties reflect that there is a dispute between them concerning whether petitioners received income during the pertinent period in addition to the salary amounts set forth in their certifications that must be considered in calculating any damages. We find that the record establishes that petitioners did receive such income and conclude that the amounts that they received must be considered in calculating the damages to which they are entitled. Goodman v. London Metals Exchange, Inc., 86 N.J. 19 (1981). We further find that because the record before us does not establish the amount of additional income that each petitioner received, we are unable to calculate the damages without further development of the record.

State Board's Decision, slip op. at 3-5.

On August 17, 2001, the ALJ, following an additional hearing, concluded that if the petitioners ultimately prevailed, they were entitled to relief in the following amounts: O'Donohue–$83,506.11; Craig–$57,444; Gonzalez–$88,353.98; and Block–$80,863.89. In arriving at such computations, the ALJ offset the petitioners' damages by the full amount of unemployment compensation which they each had received in 1995 and 1996.

On September 14, 2001, the Assistant Commissioner adopted with modification the computation established by the ALJ. The Assistant Commissioner reduced the damages to which petitioner Block would be entitled by an additional $32,500, finding that, as Block conceded, the State-operated District should have been credited for money he had earned while working at the Education Law Center following the termination of his position.

After a thorough review of the record, including all of the exceptions filed with the Assistant Commissioner, we affirm the decision of the Assistant Commissioner as modified herein.

Like the Assistant Commissioner, we stress that the broad mitigation principles applied in Goodman v. London Metals Exchange, Inc., 86 N.J. 19 (1981), have been held to be applicable to education matters. West Orange Supplemental Instructors Association v. Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, decided by the State Board of Education, April 1, 1992 [previous and subsequent agency history omitted], aff'd, Docket #A-4864-96T1 (App. Div. 1998). However, as the Assistant Commissioner correctly observed, it would not be appropriate to remand this matter at this point for the purpose of applying those principles even if we were not faced with the Appellate Division's impending deadline. The State-operated District did not file an appeal from the ALJ's interlocutory order limiting the question of mitigation to any income earned by the petitioners during the period at issue, nor has it challenged that determination in the instant appeal or provided any evidence relevant to broader mitigation principles.

We also concur with the Assistant Commissioner's determination that the record does not permit the computation of the accrued leave time to which the petitioners claim entitlement. Although the ALJ provided the petitioners with ample opportunity to submit information to the Assistant Commissioner that would be sufficient to calculate the monetary value of such leave time, they failed to do so. Nor have they offered any such information to the State Board, despite being given the opportunity to file an additional submission.[2]

[2] By letter dated September 14, 2001, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office, noting the "severe time limitations" imposed by the Appellate Division, provided the parties with the opportunity to make any additional submissions to the State Board by September 25, 2001. In a letter dated September 19, 2001, Philip Elberg, Esq., counsel for the petitioners, indicated that he was not able to comply with that request,

However, we find that the petitioners' damages should not be reduced by unemployment benefits which were paid to them for any period after September 17, 1996. It is axiomatic that the damages to which the petitioners are entitled would be offset under mitigation principles only by earnings, including unemployment benefits, during the period in which they were entitled to damages. In our decision of May 3, 2000, we expressly limited the petitioners' relief to the salary that each of them would have earned from the date of their termination on August 17, 1995 until effectuation of the reorganization on July 19, 1996, plus 60 days' pay in lieu of notice as provided for by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c). Consequently, the period for which the petitioners would be entitled to damages ended on September 17, 1996. Similarly, any earnings, including unemployment compensation, for any period after that date cannot be used by the State-operated District to offset the amount of the petitioners' damages under mitigation principles.

Unfortunately, the petitioners did not provide any documentation or other evidence during the proceedings on remand before the ALJ that would be sufficient to establish how much, if any, of the unemployment compensation they received represented payments for the period subsequent to September 17, 1996.[3] Nor did the stating, "...I think it is unfair to ask me to put other matters and clients aside to handle this on an emergent basis. In the absence of a legal basis for such a requirement, I will not do it."

Nonetheless, on October 1, Mr. Elberg submitted a letter brief on behalf of the petitioners in which he maintained, inter alia, that the lack of adequate information resulted from the State-operated District's "refusal to provide that information and not anything the petitioners' [sic] have done. The petitioners had no additional information they could provide."

[3] Pursuant to their testimony and as documented on their tax returns, the petitioners received the following amounts as unemployment compensation in 1996: O'Donohue–$9,204; Craig–$7,434; and Gonzalez–$4,248. During his testimony, Craig indicated that his unemployment benefits had been received "throughout the year 1996." Tr. 6/4/01, at 69. Block did not receive any unemployment benefits in 1996 since he was working full-time.

State-operated District elicit information regarding the specific amounts of unemployment benefits that represented payments for the period prior to that date that could be used to offset the petitioners' damages. Hence, the record does not permit us to compute the exact amount of the unemployment benefits received by petitioners Gonzalez, O'Donohue and Craig which could be used to reduce their damages under mitigation principles.

In addition, we reject the State-operated District's contention that the consulting income earned by petitioner Block in 1995 and 1996 should reduce the amount of damages to which he might otherwise be entitled. Block testified that his wife, who operated an educational publishing business, paid him a consulting fee in 1995 and 1996 on the advice of her accountant as a way to reduce her tax obligation. According to Block, the accountant had advised them that he could be a legal tax shelter for his wife since they regularly discussed tax matters and since he advised her on a number of matters with regard to her business. Tr. 6/4/01, at 85-87, 89-92. The ALJ found that the State-operated District had failed to establish that Block's testimony was not credible or that his tax returns reflected data contrary to his testimony. Under these particular circumstances, we conclude that such payments, which were designed to provide a tax shelter for his wife, do not constitute earned income for purposes of mitigation. See Ford v. Board of Review, 287 N.J. Super. 281 (App. Div. 1996). Thus, since Block did not receive any unemployment compensation in 1996, we agree with the Assistant Commissioner's computation of his damages.

The State-operated District also argues that any damages to which petitioner Gonzalez might be entitled should be reduced by the consulting income he received in 1996. Gonzalez testified that he had performed consulting work for the Hartford, Connecticut school district during the second half of 1996. Tr. 6/4/01, at 38, 40, 43, 52. As with the other petitioners, the ALJ found that the State-operated District had failed to establish that the testimony of Gonzalez was not credible or that his tax returns reflected data contrary to his testimony. Under the circumstances – in which we had directed that the petitioners be compensated for the salary that each of them would have earned in the State-operated District from the date of their termination in August 1995 until effectuation of the reorganization in July 1996, and the State-operated District has provided no evidence to counter the ALJ's credibility determination regarding Gonzalez's testimony that his consulting income had been received in the second half of 1996 – we conclude that only the consulting income received by Gonzalez prior to September 17, 1996 could be used to offset any damages to which he might be entitled. Again, however, we are not able to calculate on the basis of the record before us the amount of the consulting income earned by Gonzalez prior to September 17, 1996.

We recognize that the Court, in remanding this matter, charged us with the task of computing the amount of damages. However, as reflected in our decision, the record established by the parties in the Office of Administrative Law does not permit us to calculate with specificity 1) the amount of unemployment benefits received by petitioners Gonzalez, O'Donohue and Craig which represented payments for the period prior to September 17, 1996, and 2) whether Gonzalez had earned any consulting income prior to that date which could be used to offset his damages. Therefore, we cannot calculate the exact amount of damages to which those petitioners might be entitled. Ordinarily, we would remand this matter to the Commissioner for further

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 26, 2001, for determination as contested cases, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is incorporated herein by reference and attachment.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT REGARDING ACTION PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the City of Pleasantville Board of Education ("Board") and its tenured employee Paula Goldberg ("Goldberg").

WHEREAS, Ms. Goldberg has been continuously employed by the Board as a secretary since in or about May, 1987; and,

WHEREAS, on February 27, 2001, the Board certified tenure charges against Ms. Goldberg to the Commissioner of Education under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, which charges were captioned:

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE
HEARING OF PAULA GOLDBERG, CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE
BOARD OF EDUCATION
ATLANTIC COUNTY
AGENCY DKT. NO.: 56-2/01

WHEREAS on March 20, 2001 Ms. Goldberg filed an Answer contesting the tenure charges; and,

WHEREAS, the aforesaid tenure charges were listed for hearing before the Honorable Lillard E. Law, A.L.J.; and,

WHEREAS, the parties have agreed to a means of resolving this dispute in a manner consonant with the public interest, the Board having had an opportunity to review Ms. Goldberg's medical records concerning her physical disabilities; and in view of that medical documentation indicating that her attendance difficulties resulted from physical incapacities caused by medical circumstances beyond her control; and based on this it appearing to the Board that Ms. Goldberg is totally and permanently disabled and no longer able to perform her job duties; and, whereas, in view of her pending application to the New Jersey Division of Pensions and Benefits for Disability Retirement benefits; and given the fact that her performance as a secretary was never at issue, but rather her attendance; and,

WHEREAS, it is understood that this Agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education; nothing in this Agreement is intended to prevent the Commissioner of Education from exercising his exclusive authority to decide tenure matters;

NOW THEREFORE, the matter in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties and based on the foregoing having fulfilled the public interest, it is hereby stipulated a agreed as follows:

1. Ms. Goldberg, for and in consideration of the undertakings of the Board set forth herein, and intending to be legally bound, does hereby remise, release and forever discharge the Board and its officers, members, employees and agents, and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which she ever had, now has, or hereafter may have, or which her heirs, executors or administrators hereafter may have by reason of her employment relationship and/or the termination of her employment relationship and/or affiliation with the Board, with the following exception: claims arising in connection with her right to receive pension/disability retirement benefits.

2. The Board, for and in consideration of the undertakings of Ms. Goldberg set forth herein, and intending to be legally bound, does hereby remise, release and forever discharge Ms. Goldberg and her heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which it ever had, now has, or hereafter may have, or which its officers, members, employees and/or agents, and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors or administrators hereafter may have by reason of her employment relationship and/or the termination of her employment relationship and/or affiliation with the Board.

3. The Board agrees to withdraw and dismiss all of the tenure charges with prejudice subject to the approval by the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education of this agreement.

4. Unless mandated by law or otherwise requested by Ms. Goldberg or anyone acting on her behalf, the Board shall take no further action in connection with Ms. Goldberg's employment.

5. Ms. Goldberg agrees to resign from her employment by reason of disability effective on the approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education or upon approval of her application for Disability Retirement Benefits whichever occurs sooner. In that regard, she will execute the attached Exhibit "A". Ms. Goldberg understands that this decision is irrevocable. The Board agrees to release her from any contract responsibilities in this regard without penalty.

6. The Board, inasmuch as it is not opposed to Ms. Goldberg's application for disability retirement, will cooperate with her in connection with that application to the Division of Pensions and Benefits by promptly completing and forwarding to the Division all necessary forms and information including any corrected forms and information. Prior to sending any documents to the Division of Pensions a copy of the proposed submission shall be sent to Ms. Goldberg's attorneys, Selikoff and Cohen, P.A. for Ms. Goldberg to review for accuracy.

7. Should the Commissioner fail to approve this Settlement Agreement, the parties agree to make every reasonable effort to reform the Agreement to meet his objections.

8. Inasmuch as Ms. Goldberg's performance as a secretary was never at issue, the Board agrees that it will provide Ms. Goldberg with a letter of reference in the form attached as Exhibit "B". Said letter will be provided to Ms. Goldberg within ten (10) days of the approval of this Agreement by the Board.

9. Neither the Board nor its agents or employees will say or write anything negative concerning Ms. Goldberg's work performance with the Board. Inquiries concerning her employment record, shall be met with a response in the form attached as Exhibit "B".

10. In the event for some reason that Ms Goldberg's application for Disability Retirement is not approved, the Board will provide Ms. Goldberg with such benefits allowed by law to any separated Board employee to the extent of Ms. Goldberg's eligibility under the law for same including if applicable, COBRA benefits.

11. Within thirty (30) days of the approval of this Agreement by the Board, the Board will pay to Ms. Goldberg at her applicable salary rate, 6.5 days of pay, which represents vacation days due to Ms. Goldberg. No deductions shall be made other than those normally taken for federal, state and/or local authorities for taxes, social security etc.

12. Other than as set forth herein, Ms. Goldberg shall seek nothing further from the Board in terms of employment benefits.

13. The Parties agree to be bound by a covenant of good faith and fair dealing with respect to the terms of this agreement.

14. This Agreement may be enforced in any court or other tribunal having jurisdiction in New Jersey.

15. Ms. Goldberg agrees that she has been fairly and adequately represented and advised at all stages of these proceedings, that she is fully satisfied with the services of counsel and that she is voluntarily and without coercion with a full understanding of her rights and the ramifications of this settlement agreement entering into it on her own accord and with the specific understanding that it is subject to the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

16. The parties agree that this represents the full and complete agreement between them.

17. By signing this Agreement, each signatory represents that she or he is a party or has been duly authorized by a party to sign on the party's behalf. The parties agree that this Agreement may be signed in counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

Intending to be legally bound, the parties execute the foregoing Agreement on the date(s) indicated below.

Re: Letter of Resignation

Dear Board Members:

Please be advised that effective on approval of the settlement agreement by the Commissioner of Education or the approval of my application for disability retirement benefits whichever occurs first, I resign from my position with the Board. This resignation is subject to the Board's full performance of its obligations under the Agreement and General Release signed by me and dated June 19, 2001. I realize that this decision is irrevocable.

I take with me many fond memories of the students who I have come into contact with over the years.

309-01 SEC

IN THE MATTER OF BRUCE WHITE,	:
EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

This matter arose from a complaint alleging that respondent, former member of the Ewing Township Board, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act (Act) when, as a member of that Board, he voted on the payment of tuition to the Mercer County Vocational School Board, where he was employed as a principal.

The School Ethics Commission (Commission) concluded that respondent did have an indirect financial involvement that a reasonable person could perceive as impairing his objectivity or independence of judgment since respondent's employer acquired funds from the tuition payment that the Ewing Board paid. Thus, his conduct of voting on the payment did violate the Act. The Commission recommended penalty of censure.

Initially, the Commissioner emphasized that the determination of the Commission as to violation of the Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of violation by the Commission. Upon independent review of the record, the Commissioner found and determined that the Commission's recommended penalty to censure respondent was an appropriate penalty.

IN THE MATTER	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
OF	:
	:	Docket No.: C01-01
BRUCE WHITE,	:
EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF ED.	:	DECISION
MERCER COUNTY	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The above-captioned complaint was filed on January 26, 2001. It alleged that Bruce White violated the School Ethics Act by being employed by the Mercer County Vocational School District as a Principal and being a member of the Ewing Township School Board and by voting on the payment of tuition to the Mercer County Vocational School. The complainant alleged that Mr. White's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(h). On February 21, 2001, in its cover letter to Mr. White enclosing the complaint, the Commission notified Mr. White that the Commission would also consider whether the conduct alleged would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) or (c).

At its meeting of April 24, 2001, the School Ethics Commission found probable cause to credit the allegation that Bruce White violated the School Ethics Act when, as a member of the Ewing Board, he voted on the payment of tuition to the Mercer County Vocational School Board, where he is employed as a Principal. Specifically, the Commission found probable cause to exist under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). The Commission found no probable cause to credit the allegation that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) or (h). Although the complainant also alleged that Mr. White had an inherent conflict of interest in being employed as a Principal by the Mercer County Vocational School and serving as a member of the Ewing Township Board, the Commission did not find probable cause to credit this allegation.

The Commission found the material facts of the case to be undisputed regarding the conduct on which it found probable cause and invited Mr. White to submit a written statement within 30 days setting forth why he should not be found in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act. On June 18, 2001, Mr. White responded that he was waiving his right to submit any further information to the Commission, including taking a position with respect to any penalty to be imposed by the Commission. The complainant submitted correspondence on June 21, 2001 disagreeing with the Commission's decision finding no probable cause on the issue of Mr. White's employment constituting a conflict and arguing that Mr. White should be given the maximum penalty, including preventing him from running for office again. Mr. Ferrante noted that Mr. White was found guilty of a violation of the Act on two prior occasions and that he displays a cavalier attitude toward the Commission's rulings.

The Commission now finds that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act by voting on the tuition payment to the school at which he works. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner censure Mr. White for this violation. The Commission will not reconsider its finding of no probable cause on the allegation that Mr. White violated the School Ethics Act by being employed as a Principal with the Mercer County Vocational Schools and serving as a Ewing Township Board Member.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the pleadings, the documents submitted and the testimony presented, the Commission believes that the following facts are undisputed.

At all times relevant to the allegations in this Complaint, Respondent Bruce White was a member of the Ewing Township Board of Education. Mr. White lost the election in April 2001 and is currently not a member of the Board. Also, at all times relevant to the allegations in this Complaint, Mr. White was a Principal at the Mercer County Vocational School District's Assunpink Center Vocational School.

The Mercer County Vocational School District is the local education agency (LEA) for the Thomas J. Rubino Alternative School, which is physically located on the campus of the Mercer County Community College. The Mercer County Vocational School District has an agreement with Comprehensive Education Resources (CER) to serve as the contractor of the county alternative education program. A tuition fee of $11,400 per student is charged to the participating sending school district. The total tuition received from all the districts includes a rental fee to the Mercer County Community College for use of their facilities, an administrative fee to the Mercer County Vocational School District and reimbursement to CER for educational costs. The formula for fund distribution is as follows: 36 students (the minimum enrollment base) x $11,400 = $410,400. Of that $410,400, $10,000 is submitted to the community college as a rental fee; $396,000 is submitted to CER for program costs; and $4,400 is retained by the school district for central administrative costs.

Each year, the Mercer County Vocational School District sends out an articulation agreement to each of the participating sending school districts. This agreement allows the sending school district to reserve a number of slots in the alternative education program for the school year. The Ewing Township Board reserves slots at the Alternative School for its students. On January 22, 2001, the Ewing Township School Board voted to approve a list of checks including the tuition payment to Mercer County Vocational School Board in the amount of $2,280.00. Mr. White seconded the motion and voted in favor of that item along with the other Finance items including the Financial Reports of the Secretary and Treasurer. At meetings of the Ewing Township School Board, all financial items are voted on as a block. However, an individual Board member may abstain on any items that he or she asks to be addressed separately. Mr. White did not ask whether he should vote; nor was he told by anyone present that he should not vote.

The Ewing Township Board retains discretionary authority in terms of where to send students warranting an alternative education program. According to Ewing's Board Secretary/Business Administrator, the choices include an in-district school.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), which provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family.

Mr. White has no personal involvement with the Thomas J. Rubino Alternative High School. The sending of pupils from the Ewing Township School District to the Alternative High School does not directly impact his employment or compensation. The involvement that he has is that the Mercer County Vocational School District administers the alternative school program and keeps an administrative fee from the tuition payments received for doing so. Mr. White is not a member of the central administrative staff, so the administrative fees are not calculated based on his salary, but the salaries of the Vocational School superintendent and business administrator. As a practical matter, however, the fees go to the general fund of the vocational school. For these reasons, the Commission concludes that Mr. White does not have a personal involvement with the tuition that the Ewing Board pays to the Mercer County Vocational School District.

However, the Commission concludes that Mr. White does have an indirect financial involvement that a reasonable person could perceive to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. Mr. White's employer, the Mercer County Vocational School, acquires funds from the tuition payment that the Ewing Board pays. The funds are not specifically earmarked for any particular purpose although the administrative fees charged to the district are derived from the salaries of administrators who do not include Mr. White. The fees go into the general fund of the Vocational School. Based on the above facts, the Commission finds that Mr. White's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission concludes that respondent Bruce White had an indirect financial involvement that would reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he voted for the Ewing Board to pay the tuition to the Mercer County Vocational Technical School.

PENALTY

The Commission is mindful of the fact that Mr. White has previously been found to have violated the School Ethics Act in In the Matter of Bruce White, C18/C22-99 (March 28, 2000), Commissioner's sanction (June 1, 2000), appeal dism'd, State Board of Education (September 6, 2000). The fact remains however, that Mr. White is no longer a member of the Board. Therefore, the penalties of suspension and removal are rendered moot by that fact. The Commission finds that the appropriate penalty for Mr. White's violation in this case is a censure. A censure is a formal public resolution read into the record of the School Ethics Commission and the school official's local board of education to rebuke a school official who has been determined by the Commission to have violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2. Since the Commission does not have statutory authority to prevent a school official from running for the school board in the future, this penalty requires a public statement of his violation at his local school board, which the public can take into account in the next election.

This decision, having been adopted by the School Ethics Commission, shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, the respondent may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Resolution Adopting Decision -- C01-01

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties and the documents submitted in support thereof and has considered the testimony of the parties; and

Whereas, the Commission found probable cause to credit the allegations in the complaint that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act; and

Whereas, the respondent chose not to submit a written submission in response to the Commission's finding of probable cause; and

Whereas, the Commission concludes that respondent's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act; and

Whereas, the Commission has reviewed the proposed decision of its staff setting forth the reasons for its conclusion; and

Whereas, the Commission agrees with the proposed decision;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter finding Bruce White in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act and recommending a sanction of censure.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 270-7/01

IN THE MATTER OF BRUCE WHITE,	:
EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), including the recommended penalty of censure, have been reviewed.

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon Respondent Bruce White, former member of the Ewing Township Board of Education, based upon findings of fact and conclusions of law by the Commission that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act when, as a member of the Ewing Township Board of Education, he voted on the payment of tuition to the Mercer County Vocational School Board, where he is employed as a principal.

Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided 13 days from the mailing of such decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. Respondent's comments, in large measure, deal with objecting to the standard utilized by the Commission in finding him guilty of a School Ethics Act violation and complaints regarding the individual who initiated the charge against him. He additionally challenges the authority of the Commission to impose a sanction on him since he is no longer a board member and has retired, as of August 1, 2001, as principal of the Assunpink Center at the Mercer County Technical Schools. [1]

Initially, it must be emphasized that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that censure is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision. In so ruling, the Commissioner notes that, in recommending the penalty of censure, the Commission had the opportunity to fully investigate the facts presented and, thus, was in the optimum position to determine whether respondent inadvertently or knowingly violated the School Ethics Act, and to weigh the effects of aggravating and mitigating circumstances.[2] Therefore, the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed.

[1] It is noted that a comment was also filed by Frank Ferrante, the original complainant in this matter. As a complainant has no standing to appeal either the Ethics Commission's finding of an Ethics Act violation or the appropriate penalty (see In the Matter of Frank Pannucci, Board of Education of Brick Township, Ocean County, decided by the State Board January 19, 2000), such comment was not considered.

[2] Respondent's challenge to the Commission's authority to impose a penalty on him, since he is no longer a board member nor principal of Assunpink Center at the Mercer County Technical Schools, is deemed meritless, inasmuch as the recommended penalty is for an action taken when he was a sitting board member.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Bruce White be censored as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for respondent
(Bucceri & Pincus, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 19, 2001 Decided: July 26, 2001

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This custodial tenure case was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in August 2000, as a result of the filing of charges of excessive absenteeism, etc., against respondent. Plenary hearings were scheduled for November 2000. However, the parties were able to agree shortly before the start of the hearings that the matter could be resolved in an amicable fashion. Thus, the hearings were adjourned.

Following lengthy discussions thereafter, a Stipulation of Settlement was prepared and has been submitted to me for review which is attached hereto and made part hereof. The parties have agreed that respondent will tender her resignation from her tenured employment as a custodian, effective October 31, 2001, and shall remain on unpaid leave with medical benefits until then. The parties also recognize in the agreement that resolution of the case in this fashion is in their interest, as well as the public, since its obviates the need for protracted litigation and the consequent time and expense involved therewith.

I have reviewed the attached settlement agreement and the terms contained therein and I FIND as follows:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

This Agreement is made by and between THERESA AGUGLIARO, residing at 5912 Meadowview Avenue, Apartment 10B, North Bergen, New Jersey 07047 (hereinafter referred to as "Ms. Agugliaro") and the NORTH BERGEN BOARD OF EDUCATION, with offices located at 7317 Kennedy Boulevard, North Bergen, New Jersey 07047 (hereinafter "the Board"). In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Agreement, and for good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned state:

WHEREAS, Ms. Agugliaro is a tenured custodial worker employed by the Board; and,

WHEREAS, certain tenure charges based on allegations of excessive absenteeism were filed against Ms. Agugliaro by certain members of the Board's administrative and supervisory staff; and,

WHEREAS, the parties wish to come to a full an final resolution of the tenure charges proceedings in lieu of any further processing of the charges in accordance with the New Jersey Tenure Employees Hearing law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.

IT IS AGREED ON THIS _____DAY OF _____2001, that:

1. Ms. Agugliaro agrees to tender her resignation now from her tenured employment as a custodial worker, to become effective October 31, 2001. For the intervening period, Ms. Agugliaro will be on unpaid leave with medical benefits at the same level of benefit. This resignation is expressly conditioned upon the Board's execution of this Agreement and compliance with its terms. This resignation will be rendered null and void if the Board does not comply with the terms of this Agreement or fails to approve it or if this Agreement is not approved by the Administrative Law Judge hearing this matter or the Commissioner of Education.

2. The parties agree that the resolution of this matter upon the terms set forth herein is both in their interests and in the public interest for the following reasons:

   (a) Ms. Augliarc's resignation obviates the need for protracted litigation over these issues and the time and expense involve therewith.

   (b) It avoids disruption of the school district as the result of the need for its employees to testify during these proceedings.

3. Ms. Augliaro acknowledges that she has been advised that she has the right to consult with an attorney or a representative of here own choosing prior to signing this Agreement, and has done so, and that she signs this Agreement as her own voluntary act and deed, and that she fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

4. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they agree to the terms and conditions of this Agreement and have the authority to bind the Board to its terms.

5. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

6. The parties acknowledge that the their agreement to dismiss the tenure charges is subject to the approval of the office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. If such approval is not given, this Agreement and all of the stipulations, releases and acknowledgements, as well as, Ms. Augliaro's resignation, shall be rendered null and void and the parties shall be returned to the status quo existing prior to this Agreement.

7. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to constitute past practice or precedent as to the rights or liabilities of any employee, other than Ms. Augliaro or the Board.

8. The parties agree that their respective covenants and entry into this Agreement does not constitute an admission of wrongdoing or guilt on the part of either party.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

PATRICIA COLACCI, Guttenberg Board of Education Hudson County	:	SEC Docket No.: T16-01

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Patricia Colacci was elected to serve a three-year term on the Guttenberg Board of Education in April 2000; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 1, 2000 and February 13, 2001; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2000 and April 2001 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2000; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on April 9, 2001, directing her to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, she replied that she could not attend due to a serious heart condition and an extensive recuperation, but that she planned to attend as soon as her health improves; and

WHEREAS, she did not submit a doctor's note indicating the length of her treatment; and

WHEREAS, the Commission discussed this matter at its June 26, 2001 meeting,

WHEREAS, the Commission has considered the reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2000 to April 2001 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Ms. Colacci fails to attend by October 2001, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have her removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Ms. Colacci violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend her until she attends, but remove her from the board if she fails to attend by the October training session.

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of her failure to attend such training; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on April 9, 2001 the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why a penalty should not be imposed for such failure; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member replied that she could not attend due to serious health issues; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on June 26, 2001, to recommend suspension of the above-named Board member until she attends the required training, and to remove her from the Board if she fails to timely attend such training in violation of State statute, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 12, 2001, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to the Commission's resolution recommending suspension, pending attendance at training, and removal if she fails to so attend in October 2001; and

Whereas, on July 20, 2001, the above-named Board member sent a facsimile transmission to the School Ethics Commission stating that she had resigned from the Guttenberg Board of Education; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member's resignation has been confirmed; now therefore

It is determined that the within matter has been rendered moot by the above-named Board member's resignation from the Guttenberg Board of Education and it is, accordingly, dismissed.*

Record Closed: July 12, 2001 Decided: July 25, 2001

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

On August 11, 1998, petitioner filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) seeking relief from respondent. Respondent filed an answer, and the DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on September 25, 1998 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

Telephone conferences were conducted in March, April, August, and September 1999. Hearings scheduled in September 1999 were adjourned at the requests of the parties. Hearings were subsequently scheduled for June 26, 27, and 28, 2001.

Petitioner, a tenured employee of respondent, averred that his tenure and/or his seniority rights were violated when he was not appointed to a Supervisor, Principal, or Director position subsequent to the abolishment of his position on July 8, 1998. Count One of his petition addressed petitioner's claims to a supervisory position; Count Two, to a Principal position; and Count Three, to a Director position. During the course of the proceedings, respondent filed a motion for partial summary decision on Counts Two and Three. On November 21, 2000, this judge issued an order granting the motion and dismissing Counts Two and Three. The parties did not file requests for interlocutory review. Also during the proceeding, various individuals whose positions could be affected by petitioner's claims intervened in the matter.

The parties appeared for the hearings which were to commence on June 26, 2001, which hearings were to address Count One of the petition. At the requests of the parties, settlement conferences were conducted on June 26 and 27, 2001, and petitioner and respondent executed a Stipulation of Settlement on June 27, 2001. The hearing scheduled on June 28, 2001 was adjourned.

By letters dated July 2 and July 10, 2001, which were received on July 6 and July 12, 2001, respectively, counsel for interveners advised that they had no objections to the Stipulation of Settlement agreed to by petitioner and respondent. The record is deemed closed on July 12, 2001.

Having reviewed the terms of the Settlement Agreement, I FIND that petitioner and respondent voluntarily agreed to the terms and conditions of the settlement as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon, that interveners do not object to the settlement, and that the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I ORDER that petitioner and respondent comply with the terms of the settlement and that these proceedings be and are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Stipulation of Settlement

In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Stipulation of Settlement, the parties herein agree to resolve the above matter as follows:

1. The parties agree that this settlement represents a compromise of disputed claims and is not an admission of liability, negligence or wrong doing by either party. This Settlement was reached by the parties as a business judgment bearing in mind the cost, disruption and uncertainty of litigation

2. Petitioner withdraws, with prejudice, any and all claims set forth in the Petition OAL Docket # EDU 09212-98N, Agency Ref # 378-8/98 and waives any and all claims arising from the abolishment of his supervisor of Adult Continuing position on or about July 8, 1998 and/or his subsequent reassignment to the position of Teacher of Art on or about Sept 1, 1998

3. The District agrees to appoint Mr. Cash to either a position of vice principal or supervisor effective September 1, 2001. Mr. Cash shall be informed of his specific assignment as soon as practical.

4. If Mr. Cash is appointed to a vice principal position, his salary will be on the 3rd step of the H.S. Vice Prin Pay Table 15A (MA+32) for the 2001-2002 school year, the salary being $95,074, plus any longevity he may be entitled in the "Contract Agreement between the State Operated School District of Jersey City and the Administrators and Supervisors Association"

5. If Mr. Cash is appointed to a position of supervisor, the salary shall be on the 3rd step of the Supervisors Pay Table 21A (MA+32), school year that salary being $92,234 plus any longevity he may be entitled to by the Contract Agreement as noted in paragraph 4.

6. Mr. Cash agrees to waive any claims to any and all other positions so long as he is employed as a vice principal or supervisor. However, Mr. Cash may apply for any position which may become available.

7. The parties to this settlement acknowledge that they have been represented by independent legal counsel of their own choice throughout these proceedings and are satisfied with their representation. The parties and/or their representatives acknowledge that they have carefully read and understand all of the provisions herein and they have voluntarily executed same without coercion and duress.

8. This Settlement constitutes the entire agreement with respect to the subject matter hereof and shall not be amended, modified or amplified except in writing signed by the parties.

Record Closed: August 1, 2001 Decided: August 3, 2001

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

Initially, this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on August 31, 1998. The multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, Catherine Harris ("Harris"). On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. Subsequently, on October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one case to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98.

A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing.

A hearing was scheduled in the Harris case, designated OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3803-99 on December 20 and 21, 1999. After several adjournments of scheduled hearing dates due to possible resolution of this matter, it was rescheduled for a telephone conference on October 30, 2000. Settlement conferences were held, and during the telephone conference, the parties indicated that a settlement had been reached.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Stipulation of Settlement (hereinafter "Settlement") the Petitioner, Catherine Harris, and Respondent, State-Operated School District of Jersey City (hereinafter "District"), hereby agree that the above-captioned matter and any and all other claims, rights and obligations between the undersigned parties shall be resolved as follows:

1. The parties agree that this Settlement represents the compromise of disputed claims and is not an admission of liability, negligence or wrongdoing by either party. This Settlement was reached by the parties as a business judgment bearing in mind the cost, disruption and uncertainty of litigation.

2. Catherine Harris withdraws, with prejudice, her appeal of the District's withholding of her salary increment for the 1998-1999 school year for less than satisfactory performance during the preceding 1997-1998 school year, bearing Agency Reference Number 399-9/98 and OAL Docket Number EDUOA 03803-99N.

3. Catherine Harris, and anyone who succeeds her rights and responsibilities such as her heirs and/or the executor of her estate, hereby releases and forever discharges the District, its successors and assigns, and its past, present or future officers, directors, agents or employees, from all claims, including those unknown to petitioner and/or those not mentioned in this Settlement, based upon the withholding of her salary increment for the 1998-1999 school year.

4. As set forth in Article 11-5 of the 1998-2001 Collective Bargaining Agreement between the State-Operated School District of Jersey City and the Jersey City Education Association (teachers), Catherine Harris would have been entitled to appeal to the State District Superintendent three (3) years after the withholding of her salary increment, September 1, 2001, for the prospective restoration of same. Article 11-5 of the Collective Bargaining Agreement is attached as exhibit 1.

5. Pursuant to this Settlement, Catherine Harris shall have the right to appeal to the State District Superintendent on February 1, 2001, for the restoration of her salary increment pursuant to the terms and conditions set forth in Article 11-5 of the Collective Bargaining Agreement attached as exhibit 1.

6. The parties to this Settlement acknowledge that they have been represented by independent legal counsel of their own choice throughout all of the negotiations that preceded the execution of the Settlement and that they are satisfied with their representation. The parties and/or their representatives acknowledge that they have carefully read and understand all of the provisions herein and that they have voluntarily executed same without coercion and duress. The parties and/or their representatives further acknowledge that they are not taking any medication nor are they suffering from any physical or mental disabilities which would affect their understanding of the terms of this Settlement or their decision to enter into this Settlement.

7. This Settlement constitutes the entire agreement with respect to the subject matter hereof and shall not be amended, modified or amplified except in writing signed by both parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, retired music teacher, sought payment of her salary without the loss of sick leave for an illness allegedly sustained during the course of her employment. The Board denied it had improperly charged petitioner sick leave.

Initially, the ALJ also concluded that petitioner's acceptance of a lump-sum workers' compensation settlement did not preclude the within claim. The ALJ then determined that petitioner was not entitled to sick leave for her six-week absence, as she failed to demonstrate an illness with objective medical evidence, or that the illness arose from her employment.

The Commissioner affirmed the Initial Decision for the reasons set forth therein.

Record Closed: April 24, 2001 Decided: August 6, 2001

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a retired music teacher who contends that her former employer, the Board of Education of the City of East Orange ("Board"), failed to credit her with sick leave for absences "caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of [her] employment." N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Petitioner Darienne T. Franks ("Franks") contends that her six-week absence commencing in November 1996 was due to a "psychological injury" attributable to the stress of her heavy work schedule. A threshold issue is whether Franks is barred from seeking relief by virtue of her acceptance of a lump-sum settlement in a related disability claim before the Division of Workers' Compensation. Mainly, however, the Board maintains that Franks has failed to establish a causal connection between her injury and her work duties by sufficiently credible evidence.

Procedural History

On April 3, 1997, Franks filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking a determination that she was entitled to sick-leave injury benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Respondent filed its answer on July 22, 1997, raising lack of primary jurisdiction as an affirmative defense. Subsequently, on July 29, 1997, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

By letter dated November 26, 1997, petitioner's counsel requested that the matter be placed on inactive status pending resolution of Franks' claim "for benefits for work-related injuries" pending before the Division of Workers' Compensation.[1] Consequently, the OAL issued a series of orders placing the case on inactive status for successive six-month intervals until receipt of notice on July 18, 2000 that the workers' compensation matter had been settled "for the total amount of $7,500." Thereafter, the OAL restored this case to its active calendar. The OAL held a hearing on March 9, 2001. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Both parties filed post-hearing briefs on or before April 24, 2001.

[1] Inquiry revealed that Franks had not yet filed a claim in the Division of Workers' Compensation, so that the delay continued while she pursued her claim in that forum.

Findings of Fact

Except for the disagreement over whether the injuries were job-related, the pertinent facts are largely undisputed. Hired in or about 1975, Franks had taught in the district for over twenty years. She retired in July 1998. Throughout most of her career, she served as a teacher of vocal music at a single school. In September 1996, however, the Board assigned her to teach half day at the high school and half day at an elementary school. During the morning, she taught four periods at East Orange High School. Then she had a regular lunch period. She was allotted thirty-minutes travel time to get to Franklin Elementary School, where she taught three additional periods. It took fifteen to twenty minutes for her to travel by car from one school to the other.

Generally, her eight-hour workday, including lunch, began at 7:00 a.m. and ended at 2:45 or 3:00 p.m. Each period lasted forty to forty-five minutes. Her course load in prior years consisted of seven or eight periods, including one period for preparation time. In the 1996-97 academic year, she lost her daily preparation period. Instead, she had to cover two vocal ensemble classes for another music teacher, who was "fatally ill." Her new assignment required her to carry books from one building to the other and to climb additional stairs. Other teachers also pitched in to cover the absent teacher's remaining classes. Insofar as the record discloses, none of these other teachers had a schedule split between two schools. Frequently her department chairperson assigned her to work overtime to cover other teachers' classes. She received compensation at a higher rate of pay for such overtime services. Although Franks conferred with the president of her bargaining unit regarding such extra assignments, she never filed a formal grievance.[2]

[2] A teacher's working hours are the classic "terms and condition" of employment subject to collective bargaining. Englewood Bd. of Educ. v. Englewood Teachers Ass'n, 64 N.J. 1 (1973).

Franks testified about a number of vague symptoms, which she believed were aggravated by her increased workload that year. She described feeling "tense" and "muscularly tight," especially in her shoulder and neck area. Her back and hip gave her unspecified "problems."[3] In addition, she was "crabby" with family members and experienced sleeping difficulties. Due to perceived resentment over her treatment, she felt "angry" and exhibited "hysteria" at home (but apparently not at school). According to Franks, she became "a nervous wreck." In or about November 18, 1996, she saw her primary-care physician, Dr. Paul Arts, who "may have put [her] on tranquilizers for three or four weeks."[4] Dr. Arts further recommended that she go for counseling.

Following her doctor's advice, Franks went to see Mr. Jack Eagan, whom she inaccurately identifies as a licensed "clinical psychologist."[5] Previously, she had consulted Mr. Eagan regarding other stressful events in her life, such as a fire in her house, a divorce and the loss of a loved one.[6] On this particular occasion, she went for counseling twice a week for an indeterminate length of time. She also was seen by a chiropractor for an ill-defined course of treatment lasting an unknown number of sessions.

During this time, Franks was absent from work for a six-week period from November 21, 1996 to January 3, 1997. Franks told school officials that she would be out sick for "a stress-related injury." She received full pay during this entire period, but the absences were deducted from her accumulated sick leave. [7] As a result, she [3] Franks had preexisting back and hip problems, which arose before her workload was increased. In 1991 she underwent surgery to relieve her prior condition.

[4] Since Franks has asthma, Dr. Arts also prescribed an inhaler to relieve her "coughing attacks."

[5] Franks admits that Mr. Eagan does not hold a doctorate-level degree in psychology. New Jersey statutes governing the practice of psychology mandate that a licensed psychologist must have received a doctoral degree in psychology or a closely allied field. N.J.S.A. 45:14B-17. The official Directory maintained by the State Board of Psychological Examiners contains no listing for any licensed psychologist by the name of "Eagan." http://www.state.nj.us/lps/ca/medical.htm

[6] Mr. Eagan had formerly been a priest and, at least part of the time, Franks consulted him in his capacity as a spiritual advisor.

exhausted her accumulated sick days and did not receive pay for a subsequent illness later in 1997. Utilizing salary stubs, she estimates her loss at about $1,300.

Significantly, Franks does not offer any medical evidence to connect her alleged illness to any incident occurring at the workplace. She failed to present an authoritative diagnosis of her supposed condition, much less any proof that it was caused by her working conditions. Rather, the only suggestion that the two were related is her own subjective "feeling, belief [or] understanding" that her illness was stress-induced.

I FIND that the proofs do not establish a causal connection between any injuries from which Franks may have been suffering and any accident arising out of or in the course of her employment.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Franks is not entitled to sick-leave injury benefits for her six-week absence from work in November 1996.

At the outset, the Board maintains that Franks' appeal to the Commissioner is precluded by the settlement reached in the related compensation matter, wherein a Compensation Judge approved a dismissal constituting "a complete and absolute surrender and release of all rights arising out of this/these claim petitions." Such order was entered pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-20, which permits parties to enter into a lump-sum settlement of a claim "seeking compensation by reason of accident, injury or occupational disease of any employee." Appellate courts have held that the Division of Workers' Compensation possesses "primary jurisdiction" over claims for work-related injuries and that the function of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 "is to complement compensation benefits for a strictly limited time period." Forgash v. Lower Camden Cty. Sch., 208 N.J. Super. 461, 466 (App. Div. 1985). Accord, Theodore v. Dover Bd. of Educ., 183 N.J. Super. 407, 416 (App. Div. 1982). Consequently, the State Board of Education has instructed the Department of Education to refrain from considering claims for sick-leave injury benefits until the Division of Compensation has had an opportunity to determine the parallel compensation claim. Verneret v. Elizabeth Bd. of Educ., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 134 (St. Bd. 1991).

Recently, the State Board clarified that a settlement of the compensation claim without any findings on the underlying merits does not necessarily bar a petitioner from litigating a sick-leave injury claim before the Commissioner. Marino v. Willingboro Twp Bd. of Educ., SB 25-99 (St. Bd. March 1, 2000) http://www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/content.html Of course, a claimant can always waive a statutory entitlement to benefits "by the intentional relinquishment of a known right." Marino, slip op. at 6. Here, however, Franks insists that she never intended to give up her sick-leave claim when she accepted the settlement of her compensation claim. Under the circumstances, she did not knowingly and intelligently waive her rights and the Commissioner has jurisdiction to decide her school-law claim.

N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 provides, in pertinent part:

> Whenever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall pay to such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such absence charged to the annual sick leave or the accumulated sick leave provided in sections 18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3. (Emphasis added).

The phrase "accident arising out of and in the course of his employment" in N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 was intended to have precisely the same meaning as it does in the context of the Compensation Act. Theodore, 183 N.J. Super. at 415. Therefore, in interpreting such statutory language for school-law purposes, the Commissioner must apply the same standard applicable in compensation cases.

While psychiatric disabilities are compensable under workers' compensation law, an award of benefits "must be based on demonstrable objective medical evidence."

Saunderlin v. E.I. Dupont Co., 102 N.J. 402, 408 (1986). Objective medical evidence is understood to mean evidence exceeding the subjective statement of the petitioner. Saunderlin, at 411. It is insufficient for a claimant to rely solely on her own subjective statements of her condition or on the mere parroting of such statements by her doctor. Rather, the requirement is to interpose a professional medical judgment between the subjective statement of the petitioner and the award of disability benefits. Saunderlin, at 412. Satisfaction of this enhanced standard of proof necessitates expert testimony. Thus, in Saunderlin, at 417, the New Jersey Supreme Court instructed:

> [I]n all instances the psychiatric expert [should] be allowed to relate to the court exactly how he reached his opinion and what were the sources of his information. He should be required to describe in fairly precise terms his own process of evaluating his source material: What information did he accept, and what did he reject; what sources did he place great weight upon, and what sources did he minimize; and why did he evaluate the clinical material in these ways.

Moreover, an employer is entitled to cross-examine an adversary's medical experts to probe the quality of their opinions. Saunderlin, at 417. Even where petitioner offers expert opinion, courts routinely scrutinize the record to assure that the professional's conclusions are adequately supported by proven facts. See, e g., Goyden v. State of New Jersey, 256 N.J. Super. 438 (App. Div. 1991) (rejecting psychiatric testimony that petitioner's depression was due to verifiable working conditions, including an unusual backlog of work, staff shortages and the vindictiveness of his supervisor. See also, Saunderlin (discounting psychiatric testimony as nothing more than uncritical repetition of the patient's description of his symptoms).

In addition, appellate courts have consistently held that the issue in stress disorder cases is whether there is objective evidence, realistically viewed, which sustains petitioner's burden of proving that his mental disorder is "due in a material degree" to the repetitive work-place exposure. Wernowski v. Continental Can Co., 261 N.J. Super. 269, 274 (App. Div. 1993). It is not enough for a worker simply to show that the working conditions were generally stressful, such conditions must be "peculiar to the particular work place." Goydon, 256 N.J. Super. at 445. Put in conventional terms, the mental illness must arise out of the employment. That is, it must be due in some realistic and material degree to a risk reasonably incidental to the employment. Williams v. Western Elec. Co., 178 N.J. Super. 571, 585 (App. Div. 1981). Compensation does not exist where the evidence consists primarily of petitioner's subjective, neurotic reaction to the demands of his job. Wernowski, at 274.

Here, of course, the record is totally devoid of any expert testimony and Franks' claim must necessarily fail on that ground alone. Insofar as the record reveals, it is unclear whether Franks suffered from any genuine mental disorder and, if so, the nature and extent of that illness. Correct diagnosis of the type and degree of mental illness is critical to a determination of eligibility for benefits. Certain comparatively minor psychiatric conditions, such as generalized anxiety disorder, do not materially affect working conditions or substantially interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life and, therefore, are excluded from the definition of permanent partial disability. Saunderlin, at 419. Amendments to the Workers' Compensation Act, enacted in 1979, were designed "to eliminate awards for minor permanent partial disabilities so as to increase the awards for the more seriously disabled workers." Id.

Furthermore, Franks failed to establish that her psychological distress was "peculiar" to the particular workplace. Many, if not most, jobs have fluctuating workloads and periods of greater or lesser activity. Franks received extra work when another music teacher in the district suffered a terminal illness. She had to travel between two schools located within close proximity in the same community. However, it is not uncommon for workers to commute considerable distances to their job sites. As an experienced music teacher, she was capable of coping with the temporary loss of her preparation period. While she was asked to teach some of the classes formerly taught by the absent music teacher, other teachers in the district also took over his classes. Accordingly, the additional work for a limited period of time was not unusually onerous or substantially different from what any employer might reasonably expect in an emergency situation. Although such added responsibilities undoubtedly contributed to Franks' feelings of stress and overwhelm, they do not represent a condition "peculiar" to the workplace.

Order

It is ORDERED that Franks' request for sick-leave injury credit is denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner has failed to sustain her burden of establishing that her absences from work were the direct result of a compensable injury or illness arising during the course of her employment and she is, therefore, not entitled to the restoration of sick days/reimbursement she seeks pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons clearly stated therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 20, 2001, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The parties entered into an agreement and have prepared a stipulation of settlement which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidence by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

RESOLUTION

JUL 23 2 [illegible] '01

WHEREAS, the Elizabeth Board of Education certified charges against Jeffrey Bennett, a tenured teacher, to the Commissioner of Education,

WHEREAS, the parties have reached a recommended settlement as memorialized in the Stipulation of Settlement between the Elizabeth Board of Education and Jeffrey Bennett which is in the public interest.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of Education requests that the Commissioner of Education approve the attached Stipulation of Settlement between the Board and Jeffrey Bennett.

HEARING OF JEFFREY BENNETT, :	AGENCY REF. NO. 51-2/01
ELIZABETH BOARD OF EDUCATION:	OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1927-01N

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

This Stipulation of Settlement is made this 19th day of July 2001, by and between Jeffrey Bennett, who resides at 1309 Woodlock Avenue, Wanamassa, New Jersey 07712 (hereinafter referred to as "Mr. Bennett" or "respondent"), and the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, with its principal offices located at 500 North Broad Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey 07208 (hereinafter the "Board" or "petitioner").

WHEREAS, an administrative action was instituted by the Board, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 et seq., certifying to the Commissioner of Education three (3) charges of unbecoming conduct and one (1) charge of insubordination against Bennett; and,

WHEREAS, respondent filed an Answer denying those charges in compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16; and,

WHEREAS, prehearing discovery has been diligently pursued by both parties; and,

WHEREAS, an order for production of reports by the Division of Youth and Family Services ("DYFS") was issued by the Honorable Mumtaz Bari-Brown, A.L.J., pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.10a(b)(6) and (14) after in camera review of same by the Judge; and,

WHEREAS, the process of discovery, interviewing of witnesses and the review of the DYFS reports as to the incidents set forth in the charges has established no evidence of abuse or corporal punishment by respondent; and,

WHEREAS, these facts lead to the conclusion that respondent's dismissal from his employment would not be warranted under the circumstances.

NOW THEREFORE, the parties stipulate and agree as follows:

1. As to Charge 1 - This charge alleges an incident on March 14, 2000 and another incident on May 23, 2000 involving an allegation of inappropriate physical contact. As to March 14, 2000, the allegation is that respondent hit a student in the stomach. District medical records establish that no bruise was found, although the child complained of pain.

Discovery indicates the contact was due to an accidental collision with no indication of force or intent to make contact by respondent. No evidence exists that the child was injured. No DYFS investigation was conducted as to this incident.

As to May 23, 2000, the allegation is that Mr. Bennett screamed at two students who were "play fighting" and grabbed one by the neck and held him down. Discovery has shown that no incident took place on May 23, 2000 as alleged in the charges. An incident did occur on May 22, 2000. There was an investigation by DYFS as to this incident. That investigation found that the student was not injured and that intervention by respondent was justified because the students were acting in a manner which posed a danger to each other. It was found that no excessive force was used but that the manner of intervention by respondent was inappropriate. There was no indication that respondent "screamed" at the students. Instead it was found that he correctly tried to stop the fight by verbal commands prior to intervening.

Respondent acknowledges that his hold on the student, near the neck area, was ill advised. He attributes his action to the emergent nature of the situation and the resistance of the student. He denies any intent to harm or choke the student.

The location of his hold was inadvertent. DYFS found abuse to be unsubstantiated and recommended counseling and monitoring upon respondent's return to work. Respondent has been removed from the classroom since May 23, 2000 and was not returned prior to his suspension on tenure charges.

Based on interviews with students and discovery, petitioner no longer finds that probable cause exists to conclude that Charge 1 would result in petitioner's termination.

2. As to Charge 2 - The allegation is that on March 29, 2000, respondent called a student a "bastard." When originally filed, petitioner understood that a teacher had heard this remark. Discovery establishes that this was not the case. A student reported this allegation to a teacher, but the teacher did not hear it. Respondent denies the remark was ever made. The student is no longer enrolled in the district and cannot be located. There were no other witnesses to support this allegation. Based on these facts, petitioner no longer finds probable cause exists to conclude that Charge 2 would result in respondent's termination.

3. As to Charge 3 - The allegation alleges an incident in 1997-98 in which respondent held a plastic bat which made contact with a student. A DYFS investigation was conducted as to this incident and the charge of abuse was declared unfounded. Physical intervention was found to be justified. The student presented a danger to himself because he was outside of school without permission sitting on a railing over a 10 to 15 foot stairwell. Respondent attempted verbal intervention. The student reacted by swearing and throwing objects at respondent. The student came towards respondent and respondent held a hollow plastic bat between himself and the student to ward him off. The student intentionally walked into the end of the bat and then claimed he was struck by it. DYFS found that no excessive force was utilized and the child was at no appreciable risk of harm. No injuries consistent with the student's claim of being hit with the bat were found.

Based on these facts, petitioner no longer finds probable cause exists to conclude that Charge 3 would result in petitioner's termination.

4. As to Charge 4 - Charge 4 alleges that Mr. Bennett failed to attend an activity and classroom management workshop in March 1999. The facts establish that there was no directive to Mr. Bennett with regard to a workshop in March 1999. Respondent agrees to comply with any request for him to participate in training or workshops which petitioner may make.

As to a request to attend workshops made on March 31, 2000, there is no evidence of any intentional refusal to follow orders by Mr. Bennett. Based on these facts, petitioner no longer finds probable cause exits to conclude that Charge 4 would result in petitioner's termination.

5. Petitioner agrees to withdraw and dismiss, with prejudice, the tenure charges of unbecoming conduct which it certified to the Commissioner of Education and which form the basis of the above-captioned matter, with no loss of tenure by respondent.

6. In return, respondent agrees to waive and abandon any and all rights and claims to back salary for the period of his suspension without pay.

7. The parties agree that the pursuit of this litigation through plenary hearing is not in the best interests of the students, parents or the community of the petitioner school district because litigation would entail testimony by students and the expending of public funds, with the most probable result being, at most, a loss of 120 days pay or an increment withholding based on evidence which can, at worst, establish poor judgment in an emotionally charged situation. Rather, this settlement is in the best interests of all concerned, and in particular, is in the public interest. The parties agree that the standards set forth in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Cardonick, 1982 S.L.D. ___ (Comm. Ed. April 7, 1982), aff'd. 1983 S.L.D. ___ (St.Bd. 4/6/83) (reported at 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 have been met.

8. Both parties have each had independent legal representation. They both fully understand the terms and conditions set forth in this Agreement, as well as their respective rights to litigate the issues in this case with a final decision to be made by the Commissioner of Education as an alternative to settlement. The decision to enter into this Agreement rather than to avail themselves of the right to litigate has been made of their own free will without duress or coercion.

9. The parties acknowledge that this settlement must be recommended by the Honorable Mumtaz Bari-Brown, A.L.J., and approved by the Commissioner of Education. In the event such approvals are not forthcoming, the parties will resume the tenure charge process with all claims, charges, rights and defenses preserved, and this Agreement shall be null and void.

10. The stipulations and agreements set forth in this document are made as part of this settlement. In the event this settlement is not approved by the appropriate authorities, it is agreed that nothing set forth herein may be used as evidence in any subsequent proceedings.

11. All terms of this Stipulation of Settlement are deemed material and shall be controlled by the laws of the State of New Jersey. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

12. The parties signing below hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized to sign this Stipulation of Settlement. A copy of the Board's resolution adopting this Agreement is attached hereto.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

SYNOPSIS

In consolidated matters, petitioners, two tenured, part-time, hourly, supplemental teachers, alleged the Board violated their tenure and seniority rights by reducing their employment and compensation in the 1998-99 school year while retaining full-time nontenured teachers. Petitioners sought: 1) employment as full-time elementary teachers; 2) an award of back pay representing the difference between the salary they actually earned in their part-time positions and the amount they would have earned as full-time teachers; 3) pre- and post-judgment interest; and 4) retroactive full-time seniority credit beginning with the 1998-99 school year.

The ALJ determined that neither tenure nor seniority rights were implicated since there was simply no reduction in force. The ALJ concluded that a reallocation of hours of work and numbers of students among part-time teachers does not constitute a reduction in force, and noted that the number of part-time teachers was not reduced, nor were positions abolished or transfers to other positions effectuated.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ with clarification. After noting that acquisition of tenure does not differ based on full-time or part-time status, the Commissioner agreed that petitioners were not subjected to a reduction in force or adverse employment action that would trigger petitioners' tenure and seniority rights. The Commissioner rejected the notion that a reduction in hours of a part-time employee automatically triggers tenure and seniority rights, and noted that petitioners accepted employment that did not guarantee a minimum number of hours of work. Petitions were dismissed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

These are consolidated cases which were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education in late 1998 and early 1999, respectively and a telephone prehearing conference was held on July 9, 1999. The issue raised is whether respondent had deprived either petitioner, part-time hourly teachers, of their statutory tenure and/or seniority rights and, if so, to what relief would they be entitled. Hearings originally scheduled for October 1999 had to be adjourned from time to time for a variety of reasons. Ultimately, the matter was heard in June 2000 and concluded in August 2000. Posthearing proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law were later filed. The case also has been the subject of a number of Orders of Extension arising out of a variety of circumstances.

At the outset of the hearing, counsel agreed to a joint stipulation of facts setting forth the essential underlying circumstances (Joint Exhibit J).

(a) Petitioner, Theresa Alfieri ("Alfieri") holds an Instructional Certificate with endorsements for Elementary School Teacher (J-1) and Nursery School (J-2). Alfieri has been properly certified for her employment throughout her employment history with the respondent.

(b) Petitioner, Therese Mezak ("Mezak"), formerly DiMarco, holds an Instructional Certificate with an endorsement as an Elementary School Teacher (J-3). Mezak has been properly certified for her employment throughout her employment history with the respondent.

(c) Alfieri was appointed as a part-time Early Training Program teacher effective March 14, 1994. (J-4). Copies of her available monthly timesheets for this school year are attached hereto as Exhibit J-5.

(d) (a) Alfieri was reappointed as a part-time Early Training Program teacher for the 1994-95 school year.

a. Mezak was appointed as a part-time Basic Skills teacher effective October 1994. She continued in that capacity through the end of the 1994-95 school year.

5. (a) Alfieri was reappointed as a part-time Early Training Program teacher for the 1995-96 school year. Copies of her available monthly timesheets are attached hereto as Exhibit J-6.

(a) Mezak was appointed as a part-time Basic Skills teacher for the 1995-96 school year. She received a letter dated October 16, 1995 advising her of her appointment as a Title I Math teacher (J-7).

6. (a) Alfieri was reappointed as a part-time Early Training Program teacher for the 1996-97 school year. (J-8). She received a letter dated August 28, 1996 notifying her of this appointment (J-9). Copies of her available monthly timesheets are attached hereto as Exhibit J-10.

(a) Mezak was reappointed as a part-time Basic Skills teacher for the 1996-97 school year. (J-8) She received a letter dated August 28, 1996 notifying her of this appointment. (J-11).

7. (a) Alfieri was reappointed as a part-time Early Training Program teacher for the 1997-98 school year. (J-12). Copies of her available monthly timesheets for this school year are attached hereto as Exhibit J-13.

(a) Mezak was reappointed as a part-time Basic Skills teacher for the 1997-98 school year. (J-12). Copies of her available monthly timesheets for this school year are attached hereto as Exhibit J-14.

8. (a) Alfieri was reappointed as a part-time Early Training Program teacher for the 1998-99 school year. (J-15) she received a letter dated September 3, 1998 advising her of this appointment. (J-16). Copies of her available monthly timesheets for this school year are attached hereto as Exhibit J-17.

(a) Mezak was reappointed as a part-time Early Training Program teacher for the 1998-99 school year. (J-15). She received a letter dated September 3, 1998 notifying her of this appointment. (J-18). She actually worked as a Chapter I Math teacher. Copies of her available monthly timesheets for this school year are attached hereto as Exhibit J-19.

9. (a) A copy of Alfieri's teaching schedule for the 1997-98 school year is attached hereto as Exhibit J-20.

(a) A copy of Alfieri's teaching schedule at the start of the 1998-99 school year is attached hereto as Exhibit J-21.

(b) A copy of Alfieri's teaching schedule issued on or about October 19, 1998 is attached hereto as Exhibit J-22.

10. (a) A copy of Mezak's teaching schedule for the 1997-98 school year is attached hereto as Exhibit J-23.

(a) A copy of Mezak's teaching schedule for the 1998-99 school year is attached hereto as Exhibit J-24.

11. The respondent employed the following nontenured individuals as full-time elementary grade teachers for the 1998-99 school year: Amy Abate, Carolyn Pagoumian and Kimberly Wagner. Jeffrey Roem and Thomas Kievit were full-time non-tenured teachers employed as Middle School teachers under Elementary certificates.

12. By letter dated May 25, 1999, Alfieri applied for an open elementary teaching position in respondent's school district. (J-25). Her application was acknowledged by the Superintendent of Schools in a letter dated May 27, 1999. (J-26). She did not receive the position in question. Alfieri was reappointed as a Early Training Program teacher for the 1999-2000 school year. She received a letter dated July 23, 1999 advising her of this appointment. (J-27).

13. By letter dated May 26, 1999, Mezak applied or an elementary teaching position for September 1999. (J-28). Her letter was acknowledged by the Superintendent of Schools in a letter dated May 27, 1999. (J-29). By letter dated June 15, 1999, Mezak was notified that she was rejected for the position (J-30) Mezak was reappointed as an Early Training Program teacher for the 1999-2000 school year. She received a letter dated July 23, 1999 advising her of this appointment. (J-31). She has actually been working as a Chapter I Math teacher.

14. The respondent has employed nontenured full-time elementary teachers for the 1999-2000 school year. The individuals in question are Amy Abate, Carolyn Pagoumian and Kimberly Wagner. (J-32). Four additional non-tenured, full-time elementary teachers have also been employed by the Board. They are Maryann Gelenius, Danielle Ransom, Michael Barcadepone and Nicole Silva.

15. The following documents are attached hereto:

    (a) 1993-94 ETP/Basic Skills Payroll Records, including Alfieri (J-33);

    (b) 1994-95 ETP/Basic Skills Payroll Records, including Alfieri and Mezak (J-34);

    (c) 1995-96 Basic Skills Payroll Records, including Alfieri and Mezak (J-35);

    (d) 1996-97 Basic Skills Payroll Records, including Alfieri and Mezak (J-36);

    (e) Memo, dated January 22, 1999 (J-37);

    (f) Letter, dated June 15, 1999 (J-38).

TESTIMONY

Both petitioners' testified on their own behalves. Testimony on behalf of the respondent was received from Harry A. Groveman, Superintendent of Schools since May 1998, Joan Slywka, a teacher familiar with the "programs in which the petitioners were involved, Carol Ann Schonberger, another teacher familiar with the program, Jack C. Wasdyke, a retired principal and Dorthea Gorman, also a principal in.

Mezak's testimony first dealt with her employment history in the district and the types of positions she held into the 1999-2000 school year. Basically, she tracked much of the information that was contained in the Joint Stipulation, including the number of students she taught and her hours per week which varied from year to year. Pertinently, in 1998-99, a new policy was introduced by senior administrative whereby no group of students less than three would be allowed unless special permission to do so was received. Mezak did receive permission to break-up a group of five pupils into three and two. Mezak was paid on a hourly basis following her submission of timesheets. Her pay fluctuated, of course, because of holidays or other nonschool days during any particular school year.

Alfieri, too, testified as to her background, largely tracking the Joint Stipulation as well. Between 1995-96 and 1997-98 she worked, she believed, an average of 18½ to 19½ hours per week. In 1998-99, she was cut back to about 10 hours per week. Until that school year, she would prepare her own schedule. In 1998, when her hours were reduced, she was given a schedule that she had to follow and she, too, was told there would be no group of less than three pupils without special approval. In 1999-2000, her number of hours were increased to 19½ per week.

Testimony on behalf of the respondent, as noted, was received from the superintendent, teachers and two principals, former and current. The first witness, Superintendent Groveman, described the Early Training Program taught by the petitioners' (ETP) as a remedial one designed for children with moderate deficiencies in order to help them "keep up". For 1998-99, he determined to require that no group less than three students should be taught unless special permission was received. This was due to the fact that the hourly teachers, of which there were six, had disparate work loads. For example, Schonberger had 38 students and Slywka had 31 students, whereas Alfieri had only 14 students. Groveman met with his principals prior to the start of the 1998-99 school year and determined there was simply too much one-on-one instruction causing an ineffective use of time and leading to the disparate caseload. Thus, it was determined to have a three student minimum unless there was a request to have less for some pressing reason. He believed that change had the largest impact on Alfieri, less so on Mezak.

Joan Slywka testified that she began teaching in the ETP program in 1987 to small groups of students in grades 8 through 12. Prior to 1998-99, the selection largely was done by teacher screening. She, like the other ETP teachers, including the petitioners, were paid hourly and worked less than 19½ hours per week. Usually, they began their employment in the third week of school starting, since pupils had to be tested and schedules prepared in conjunction with a master schedule.

Schonberger testified she has been teaching in the ETP program since 1979. She, too, noted that those teachers were paid on an hourly basis and worked no more than 19½ a week. Over the years, on overage, she taught between 33 and 40 students each school year.

The next witness, Jack C. Wasdyke retired as principal of Smith School at the end of 1999. He participated in discussion over was involved with the change implemented in 1998-99 by Superintendent Groveman concerning the minimum number of students to be taught per class. He recalled it was believed that groups of only one or two pupils was not an inefficient way to deliver the services. Thus, the three student minimum was prescribed unless the superintendent approved any change.

The last witness, Dorothy Gosman has been a principal for over 25 years in Saddle Brook. She, too, described the ETP program and how it worked and, like Wasdyke, described the selection process and explained that the number of children taught each year by each of the part-time teachers would vary. She, too, commented on the change put into effect by Superintendent Groveman in the beginning of the 1998-99 school year – that a minimum of three students was more appropriate for efficiency purposes. If a teacher wanted to have a class of less than three, she would have to notify Groveman and receive approval for it. In response to testimony by Alfieri, Gosman said that she could not recall Groveman ever telling her never to approve a class of less than three students and she never told Alfieri that Groveman said that.

DISCUSSION

Petitioners' assert, and respondent does not dispute, that whether certified teaching staff members acquire tenure depends upon compliance with the statutory requirements and there is no room for discretion in that respect. Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Educ., 91 N.J. 63 (1982). Petitioners' argue that the requirements of the statute are met in this case since both were duly certified, appointed to teaching positions requiring a certificate and served for the requisite time period set forth in the statute. Thus, according to petitioners, the express language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 vest them with tenure protection and their reduction in compensation because their number of hours worked was reduced in 1998-99 cannot stand. Furthermore according to petitioners, the Board violated their seniority rights by reducing their hours of work beginning in 1998-99 while, at the same time, hiring nontenured teachers in positions within the scope of the certifications and endorsements they held. Since the Board therefore hired these nontenured teachers in violation of the their seniority rights, the petitioners maintain they now are entitled to the full-time employment held by those nontenured teachers. See, e.g., Lichtman v. Board of Education of Ridgewood, 93 N.J. 362 (1983). Thus, claiming that the Board blatantly violated their tenure and seniority rights, petitioners' seek a determination that they are entitled to: (1) employment as full-time elementary teachers; (2) an award of back-pay representing the difference between the salary they actually earned by the in their part-time positions and the amount they would have earned as full-time teachers; (3) pre- and post-judgment interest. In addition, petitioners' seek retroactive full-time seniority credit beginning with the 1998-99 school year.

The Board, in response, argues that neither the tenure nor the seniority rights, if any, of the petitioners' was negatively impacted by any Board action during the school years in question. What happened, instead, was simply the implementation of a directive by senior administrative staff designed to effect a more efficient operation in the remediation areas in which petitioners taught. Group instruction of smaller than three students, or one on one, was determined to be less than optimal since it created substantial imbalances with respect to allocation of work among the several part-time hourly instructors who were providing the services. Also, it was felt that the development by teachers of their own schedules was potentially troublesome in regard to supervision over their activities.

Equally important, according to the Board, is the fact that neither the tenure nor the seniority rights of the petitioners were implicated here because there simply was no "reduction in force". All that happened was that the number of hours of part-time teachers were reduced as a result of a floor being placed on the number of students to be instructed at any one time. Since no one was dismissed, no tenure or seniority rights are involved.

In my view, the position taking by the respondent is correct one. Reduced to its essence, this case simply involves a determination by the administration to more equitably allocate the number of hours among the half dozen or so part-time teachers providing the services involved, as well as to make sure there was greater administrative supervisory control over their activities, especially in the area of scheduling. The fact that the petitioners' hours were reduced from close to 20 to less than that legally is insignificant. None of the cases cited by petitioners compel a different result. Tenured part-time remedial instructors like Alfieri and Mezak do not have statutory entitlement to full-time positions. Their tenure is with respect to their part-time activities only. The claim that they have a right to be appointed to full-time employment as elementary teachers has no sound basis in the law.

Nor is there any support for the proposition that seniority is involved. Neither petitioner is entitled to a full-time position. I agree with the Board that there was no "reduction in force" within the plain meaning of that term. A reallocation of the number of hours worked among part-time teachers, and the number of students for whom they are responsible, does not give rise to any claim that the "force" has been "reduced". As point out by the Board, the number of part-time hourly teaching staff members was not reduced, nor were their positions abolished. Nor were any transferred to other positions. The administration, and hence the Board, had every reason to exercise its discretion with respect to establishing a minimum number of students per group.

Moreover, it was uncontradicted that a part-time hourly instructor can teach a group of less than three with administrative approval – there was no blanket prohibition against it.

In light of my determination, there is no need to discuss, the questions of prejudgment or post judgment interest, or county superintendent oversight of the Board's activities. To the contrary, based upon the stipulated facts and the testimony adduced at the hearing, it is clear that no tenure and/or seniority rights of these part-time hourly instructors were violated. Accordingly, the consolidated verified petitions are dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

THERESE MEZAK,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SADDLE BROOK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in this consolidated matter have been reviewed. Petitioners' exception and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Initially, petitioners argue that the Initial Decision contains a series of legal conclusions without any supporting citations to case law, statute or regulation, a factor they believe is significant because it is their contention that the decision is contrary to existing law. More specifically, petitioners aver that the following conclusions are without basis:

> 1. The conclusion that the reduction in petitioners' hours and compensation "from close to 20 to less than that is legally insignificant." (Initial Decision at 9.)
>
> 2. The statement, without analysis or explanation, that "None of the cases cited by petitioners compel a different result." (Initial Decision at 9.)

3. The resurrection of a distinction between part-time remedial and full-time tenure for teachers. (Initial Decision at 9.)

4. The conclusion that an administrative decision "establishing a minimum number of students per group," which results in a reduction in hours and compensation, does not constitute a reduction in force. (Initial Decision at 9.)

5. The assertion that "Tenured part-time remedial instructors like Alfieri and Mezak do not have statutory entitlement to full-time positions." (Initial Decision at 9) (Petitioners' Exceptions at 1-2)

Petitioners next reiterate their position and legal arguments that the reduction in their work hours and compensation, while the Board employed nontenured teachers in positions within the scope of their certifications and endorsements, invoked their tenure rights. In support of their position petitioners cite Klinger v. Cranbury Tp. Bd. of Ed., 190 N.J. Super. 354, 357 (App. Div. 1982), certif. den. 93 N.J. 277 (1983); Avery et al. v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, decided by the State Board of Education July 10, 2001; Ackerman et al. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Oakland, Bergen County, 1986 S.L.D. 2191; Von Schalscha v. Board of Education of the Borough of Tenafly, Bergen County, decided by the Commissioner September 2, 1983; Laufenberg v. Board of Education of Ramapo Indian Hills Regional High School District, 1991 S.L.D. 2447; Lichtman, supra.

Petitioners also argue that, contrary to the Initial Decision, a part-time teacher whose rights are violated may claim a full-time position, citing in support Lichtman, supra; Ackerman, supra; Gainer v. Wayne Township Board of Education, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 222 (State Board of Education); Greiner v. Board of Education of the Township of Shamong, Burlington County, decided by the State Board of Education September 5, 1984.

Petitioners further aver that that fact that there may have been an administrative justification for the reduction in their hours is irrelevant and that "administrative efficiency and flexibility do not trump tenure rights." (Petitioners' Exceptions at 6) Of this, petitioners state:

> The argument put forward by the respondent and accepted in the Initial Decision is a throwback to the argument that, at one time, was used to deny tenure status to part-time remedial teachers. In Point Pleasant Beach Teachers' Ass'n v. Callam, 173 N.J. Super. 11 (App. Div. 1979), certif. den. , 84 N.J. (1980), the court held that such teachers were not teaching staff members in the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:1:1 and under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, in part, because the program in which they were employed required "flexibility in operation which would be impeded if its instructors were granted tenure." Point Pleasant Beach, supra at 18, citing Capella v. Camden County Voc. Tech. Sch. Bd. of Ed., 145 N.J. Super. 209, 214-215 (App. Div. 1976). Point Pleasant Beach, supra, was expressly overruled by the Supreme Court in [Spiewak, supra]. Issues of flexibility and administrative convenience have no place in determining whether tenure is acquired. If the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are met, tenure, and all of its protections, exists. Spiewak, supra. (Id. at 7)

Lastly, petitioners argue that, in light of the Board's violation of the petitioners' tenure status, a complete remedy must issue, including back pay; pre-and post-judgment interest; seniority credit; assignment to a full-time elementary position; restoration of other benefits and emoluments; and referral to the county superintendent's office for oversight.

The Board's exceptions reiterate its position that petitioners' tenure rights were not invoked because it did not effectuate a reduction in force for the 1998-1999 academic year; i.e., the Board did not reduce the number of part-time hourly teaching staff members; it did not abolish any of those positions or dismiss any of them; and it did not transfer any petitioner to other positions. Rather, the only change that occurred was an administrative directive requiring the part-time hourly staff to teach students in groups of at least three, absent permission for an exception. In support of its position, the Board cites Carpenito v. Board of Education of the Borough of Rumson, Monmouth County, decided by the Commissioner August 21, 1996, rev'd State Board February 4, 1998, rev'd New Jersey Superior Court, 322 N.J. Super. 522 (App. Div. 1999).

The Board also argues that petitioners' reliance upon Avery, supra, is misplaced because the holding in that matter is distinguishable from the instant matter since the petitioners' positions in Avery were abolished and their terms of employment reduced from 12 months to 10 months. Moreover, the Board urges that the other cases cited by petitioners herein, including Von Scalscha, supra, and Laufenberg, supra, are distinguishable as well, because no reduction in force occurred in the instant matter. As such, the Board urges that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) correctly held that absent a reduction in force, petitioners' tenure and seniority rights are not implicated and that tenured, part-time, remedial instructors like petitioners do not have statutory entitlement to full-time positions, absent a reduction in force that affects their positions or employment. Lastly, the Board avers that the Initial Decision is not based upon administrative efficiency but on a finding that a reduction in force did not take place and the additional remedies sought by petitioners are not warranted by the evidence.

Upon review of the record, including the exceptions and reply exceptions submitted by the parties, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's recommended decision to dismiss the Petitions of Appeal with the following clarification. Initially, the Commissioner emphasizes that as determined by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Spiewak, supra, tenure acquisition is not in any way distinguished or differentiated by one's employment on a part-time versus a full-time basis; i.e., once an individual fulfills the statutory requirements for tenure acquisition, that individual is tenured in the position of teacher, irrespective of the fact that the position filled may be part-time, as opposed to full-time. Moreover, "a tenured part-time teaching staff member with proper certification can claim, as against a nontenured applicant, seniority rights in seeking appointment to a full-time position that is within the specific categories covered by the certification and that has responsibilities identical to those of the part-time position in which employment was actually held." Lichtman, supra, 93 N.J. at 364.

Notwithstanding such holdings by the Court, the Commissioner is in agreement with the ALJ that the cases cited by petitioners in support of their claims in the instant matter do not compel a result granting the relief they seek because, upon review of the factual circumstances herein, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioners were not subject to a reduction in force or other adverse employment action which would trigger their tenure and seniority rights. It is undisputed that petitioners knowingly entered into employment with the Board in positions having fluid hours, not to exceed 19 or 19.5 hours per week, based on the needs of its students for remedial instruction. (J-7, J-16, J-18, J-27, J-31) Further, petitioners' employment hours fluctuated from year to year, even pay period to pay period, based on those needs. (J-33 to J-36) Consequently, the Commissioner agrees with the Board that, given the structure of the programs in which petitioners were employed and the terms of their employment agreements, they never had any tenure entitlement to a minimum number of hours worked per year. Therefore, while petitioners' hours of employment were fewer in the 1998-1999 school year than in the previous year, tenure and seniority protections were not triggered because their employment from its inception was intended to be flexible in terms of the precise number of hours to be worked. To accept petitioners' position would mean that if at any point their schedule required fewer hours than in the previous year, or portion of a year, then they would be able to invoke their tenure and seniority rights. In this regard, the Commissioner fully concurs with the Board when it states:

In the 1997-1998 school year, which is the immediate year preceding the year which is the subject of the petitions, Alfieri's gross monthly compensation decreased in consecutive months 5 times during the academic year. (R-4a). Likewise, Mezak's gross monthly compensation decreased in consecutive months 6 times during the academic year. (R-4a).

Given the structure of the programs in which the part time hourly staff were employed, these teachers never had a "tenure entitlement" to a minimum number of hours worked per year. The administrative directive implemented during the 1998-1999 school year did not abolish a part time hourly position such that there were less number of part time hourly teachers employed in the district, nor did the directive "transfer" any of the part time hourly staff as a result of declining enrollment or for reasons of economy. All the administrative directive attempted to do is to give the administration greater control over the development of the schedules for the part time hourly staff.[1]

Under petitioners' theory of the case, upon attaining tenure, the moment their monthly or annual gross compensation would decline, or they would work less hours [than] the month before, they would suffer a "reduction" in employment so as to trigger their tenure and seniority rights and thereby enable them to "bump" a full time nontenured teacher. This would occur without a formal reduction in force by the Board. The nature of petitioners' positions is such that their hours would fluctuate from month-to-month and from year-to-year. Petitioners' contractual hourly rate of pay was never reduced by the Board.

Petitioners were not "reduced" in employment because they were employed in positions that did not require a fixed number of hours of instruction from year-to-year. Their positions do not involve a fixed teaching schedule, and compensation, which could only be reduced as a result of a reduction in force if enrollment declines but rather, involves positions which require a teaching schedule (and therefore teacher contact time), and compensation, to vary from year-to-year. A reduction in force with respect to the part time hourly staff would be seen in the reduction of the number of part time hourly positions or the transfer of staff and/or combining of schedules and a resulting loss of hours and reduction in compensation. None of that took place during the 1998-1999 school year. (Board's Memorandum of Law at 17-18)

Finally, the Commissioner concludes that the cases cited by petitioners, and which the ALJ found inapposite in the instant matter, do not have a fact pattern such as is present herein, where each year petitioners knowingly accepted employment which did not guarantee a minimum number of hours of work. Therefore, it is determined that petitioners did not suffer an adverse employment action within the meaning of a reduction in force expressed by the Court in Carpenito, supra.

Accordingly, the petitions are hereby dismissed for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision as clarified herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

INTERLOCUTORY ORDER FOR CONSOLIDATION AND PREDOMINANT INTEREST

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF STEPHEN FORD, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY,

and

STEPHEN H. FORD,

Complainant,

v.

WILLINGBORO BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00885-01S
AGENCY DKT. NO. 45-2/01

OAL DKT. NO. CRT 02367-01S
AGENCY DKT. NO. EC38WE-46177A

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

A previous Interlocutory Order for Consolidation and Predominant Interest was withdrawn with the consent of the Director ("Director") of the Division on Civil Rights ("DCR") and the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). The parties to these contested cases have filed additional arguments regarding these issues. Based upon these arguments and the case law, especially Balsley v. North Hunterdon Regional School District Board of Education, 117 N.J. 434 (1990), I CONCLUDE that the cases shall be consolidated as they each involve the same or similar facts and the interlocking legal issues are such that separation of the cases is not appropriate. In addition, I CONCLUDE that the Commissioner of Education has the predominant interest, as while both the Commissioner and the Director have jurisdiction over the discrimination aspects of the consolidated case, the Commissioner's expertise in regard to the interests of the students who might be impacted by determinations as to Mr. Ford's continued employment supports his primary interest. In this case there is no dispute as to the existence of a handicap and the nature thereof, or that the conduct complained of was a manifestation of the handicapping condition. As the accommodation sought by Mr. Ford is apparently limited to time during which he would transition from one medicine regimen to another, and as there is apparently no dispute that, but for Mr. Ford's epilepsy and the unfortunate manifestations thereof that he has experienced the Board would not be seeking to remove his tenure, the question as to whether Mr. Ford can be relieved of his tenure despite the protections afforded by the Law Against Discrimination ("LAD") appears to depend on an assessment of the "safety defense" raised by his employer, an analysis which must follow the standards set forth by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Jansen v. Food Circus Supermarkets, Inc, 110 N.J. 363 (1988). In short, the Board bases its position that, despite the LAD protections, it can lawfully remove tenure (through the process established by the Tenure Law), on its contention that Mr. Ford's continued employment by the Board in a teaching capacity poses such potential for unacceptable consequences to the students who might be exposed to similar manifestations that the LAD will not compel the Board to continue his tenure. While it is recognized that in cases involving other employment situations where the "safety defense" is raised, the Director would generally be the predominate determiner of the issue of whether the employer has succeeded in meeting its burden to demonstrate that the employee can be discharged, I CONCLUDE that under the unique facts of this case and in the context of the employment of an educator in a school workplace where the "safety" issue specifically implicates concerns about students who are generally minors and issues of educational policy, impact and student welfare that may be involved in the decision, the Commissioner, who bears the charge to both consider issues of discrimination in the schools as well as the charge to provide students with a thorough, efficient and safe education, has the predominant interest. Balsley, Id. at 439, citing Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Bd. of Education, 77 N.J. 514, 520 (1978) (and recognizing Hinfey's adjuration that the Commissioner did not necessarily always have the predominant interest vis a vis the Director in every case involving school problems.)

The Commissioner of Education shall therefore first determine whether, under all the circumstances, including the student safety issue raised by the Board, the Board may remove Mr.

Ford's tenure. Depending upon the outcome, the Director shall then consider any additional remedial relief, penalties or other remedies unique to the DCR's jurisdiction.

This order may be adopted, modified or rejected by the DIRECTOR OF THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS and the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law are authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The Director of the Division on Civil Rights and the Commissioner of the Department of Education are encouraged to consult and coordinate with each other before issuing a final order. If the DIRECTOR OF THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS and the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION do not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended order shall be deemed adopted by the DIRECTOR OF THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS and the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF STEPHEN FORD, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	ORDER OF CONSOLIDATION AND PREDOMINANT INTEREST
AND	:
STEPHEN H. FORD,	:
COMPLAINANT,	:
V.	:
WILLINGBORO BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The Commissioner has reviewed the initial order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) filed on July 30, 2001, together with the exceptions filed by Respondent/Petitioner Ford and the reply of the Board of Education.

Upon such review, the Commissioner fully agrees that the above-captioned matters should be consolidated for hearing and initial decision. However, he cannot agree that primary jurisdiction in the consolidated matter rests with him rather than with the Director of the Division on Civil Rights (DCR).

The ALJ notes, and the parties do not dispute, that there is no question as to the existence of a handicapping condition or the fact that the conduct forming the basis of the tenure charges is a manifestation of that condition. Thus, as properly concluded by the ALJ, whether

Mr. Ford can be removed from employment will primarily rest on assessment of a "safety defense," that is, on the validity of the Board's contention that respondent's continued employment as a teacher poses such unacceptable consequences for students that the Board cannot be compelled to continue such employment notwithstanding the protections afforded by the Law Against Discrimination.

The Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ and the Board that, as a general proposition, the Commissioner's special expertise and interest uniquely qualify him to assess a teacher's behavior in terms of impact on students and the school environment; without doubt, the Commissioner would ordinarily have the predominant interest in a tenure matter. However, under the unique circumstances of this matter, the Commissioner is compelled to conclude that he cannot adequately make such an assessment without benefit of the expertise and prior assessment of the DCR in evaluating respondent's claims of discrimination, retaliation for filing a complaint with DCR and failure by the Board to make reasonable accommodation of his condition as requested. Therefore, the Commissioner declines to exert primary jurisdiction over this consolidated matter, notwithstanding that tenure charges are integral to it.

Instead, the Commissioner finds it more appropriate that, upon issuance of an initial decision recommending comprehensive findings of fact and conclusions of law, the Director of DCR shall first review the decision and render a final determination on Mr. Ford's claims of discrimination, retaliation and failure to accommodate. Thereafter, the Commissioner shall determine, in light of the DCR's holdings, whether under all the circumstances of this matter, the Board's tenure charges have been proven and, if so, whether dismissal from employment is warranted as a result.

Accordingly, the initial order of the ALJ is set aside with respect to the determination that the Commissioner of Education has primary jurisdiction to decide these consolidated matters. Primary jurisdiction shall instead rest with the Director of the Division on Civil Rights, who shall, subsequent to review of the initial decision, forward the matter to the Commissioner for determination on the tenure charges in light of the Director's holdings.

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2962-01

AGENCY DKT. NO. 141-5/01

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF DR. FRANK SAVAGE, ASBURY PARK BOARD OF EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY

Nicholas Celso, III, Esq., for petitioner, Asbury Park Board of Education (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso and Kessler, attorneys)

Frank F. Savage, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: August 10, 2001 Decided: August 13, 2001

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The Asbury Park Board of Education asked the Commissioner of Education to suspend the teaching certificate of Frank F. Savage because Savage allegedly abandoned his position by failure to give notice of intention to resign as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8; Savage denied the charge.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by the Asbury Park Board of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through –13.

The allegations are and I FIND that on or about September 8, 2000, the Board sent to Savage a letter advising that he had been appointed to a teacher position at the ten month salary of $62,705, prorated, effective September 8, 2000 through June 30, 2001, subject to successful criminal history review and approval by the County Superintendent of Schools of a request for emergent hiring. Savage accepted and these things were accomplished. He commenced his teaching duties. On March 8, 2001, Savage failed to report for duty and failed to notify the Board of his absence. On the following day, he submitted his resignation, effective immediately, contrary to the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. This action followed.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 6, 2001. This judge conducted a prehearing conference on July 16, 2001. Among other things, hearing was set for October 25, 2001 and the parties agreed to discuss settlement.

Under cover of August 6, 2001, the parties announced agreement and submitted a stipulation of settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 provides that notice of intention to resign must be provided to an employing board of education at least sixty days prior to the last day of service unless the Board shall approve of a release on shorter notice. The statute further provides that if a teaching staff member fails to give such notice, he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the Commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year. I FIND and CONCLUDE that Frank F. Savage conducted himself unprofessionally in this matter and thereby violated the statute. A one-year suspension of his certificate is therefore appropriate. I further CONCLUDE that, with the one-year suspension, this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.9 and should be approved. I approve the settlement and one-year suspension and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded. I note that the parties have agreed to waive the right to file exceptions and cross-exceptions to this initial decision.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF DR. FRANK SAVAGE, ASBURY PARK BOARD OF EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY	STATE OF NEW JERSEY BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL DKT. NO. EDUOR 02962-01S AGENCY DKT. NO.: 141-5/01 Hon. Bruce C.Campbell, ALJ

1. In or about August 2000, respondent was interviewed for a vacant position as teacher of chemistry at the Asbury Park High School.

2. On or about September 8, 2000, a letter was sent to respondent informing him that he had been appointed to the position at the ten-month salary of $62,705, prorated, effective September 8, 2000 through June 30, 2001, subject to successful criminal history review and approval by the County Superintendent of a request for emergent hiring.

3. Respondent accepted the appointment, and commenced his teaching duties.

4. On March 8, 2001, respondent failed to report to his assigned post, and failed also to notify petitioner of his absence.

5. On March 9, 2001, respondent submitted his resignation, effective immediately.

6. Soon thereafter, petitioner commenced the within action seeking an Order to Show Cause why respondent's teaching certificate should not be suspended for failure to provide timely notice of termination and to withhold salary for failure to provide services. The Commissioner signed the Order to Show Cause and forwarded same to petitioner for service upon respondent, on or about April 24, 2001.

7. Petitioner was served with the Order to Show Cause, on or about May 1, 2001.

8. Respondent, filed an action in the Superior Court seeking payment of his withheld salary. That action was dismissed due to respondent's failure to appear.

9. The within matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on or about June 3, 2001.

10. A prehearing conference was held on June 16, 2001.

11. Thereafter, the parties engaged in settlement discussions and have agreed upon the following, subject to approval by the Court and the Commissioner:

A. The parties agree to release, remise, abdicate and abandon any and all claims they may have against one another as a result of their employment relationship, now and forever, in any court or agency. Dr. Savage releases the Board and its agents, individually and collectively.

B. Dr. Savage agrees that he improperly abandoned his teaching position with the Asbury Park Public Schools without proper notice, as set forth above.

C. Dr. Savage hereby agrees to surrender his teaching certificate to the Commissioner and/or State Board of Examiners for whatever period of time shall be deemed by them to be appropriate.

D. The Board agrees to remit to Dr. Savage one week's salary, less all normal payroll deductions, upon approval of this settlement by the Commissioner of Education.

HEARING OF STEVEN ELWELL,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SCHOOL DISTRICT, CAPE MAY	:
COUNTY.	:

For the Board, Bruce M. Gorman, Esq. (Gorman and Rauh)

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 11, 2001[1] through certification of tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher by the Board of Education of the Lower Cape May Regional School District; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on July 13, 2001 to file an Answer to the tenure charges against him; and

Such communication clearly having provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges, and that failure to answer within the prescribed period, where no extension has been applied for and granted, or where there has been no submission by the charged employee of a responsive filing indicating that s/he does not contest the charges, will result in the charges being deemed admitted by the charged employee; and

[1] Although tenure charges were certified to the Commissioner on June 11, 2001, the Board did not, on that date, present proof that the charges were duly served upon the respondent, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3(a). Such proof of service was not received until July 12, 2001; accordingly, respondent's opportunity to answer the charges was calculated from the latter date.

In that no reply has been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted; and

The Commissioner's review of the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicating that respondent engaged in sexual intercourse with a minor female student known as A.J. while he served as a coach for the Board's wrestling team and A.J. served as manager of the team, and the evidence further indicating that respondent pled guilty to second degree sexual assault pursuant to criminal charges brought in connection with his actions; and

Deeming such charges to be admitted, and noting that respondent has chosen not to deny the specific allegations contained therein, the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constituted unbecoming conduct sufficient to warrant his dismissal from his tenured position; now, therefore

IT IS ORDERED this _____ day of September 2001 that summary decision shall be granted to the Board, and Steven Elwell shall be dismissed from his tenured position as a teacher in the Board's employ as of the date of this order.[2] This matter shall be referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.[3]

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, applicant for teacher certification through the Alternate Route Program, challenged respondent's determination that she is disqualified from school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 based on her conviction for "death by auto."

The ALJ determined that petitioner's 1990 conviction under N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5, which was a third degree crime at that time, constituted a disqualifying offense because the crime is "substantially equivalent" to the second degree crime of vehicular homicide in the amended N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5. Moreover, the elements of petitioner's crime involved both the use and threat of force upon a person.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 14, 2000, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education requesting the reversal of respondents' decisions to deny her certification as a teacher and certification as a county substitute teacher on the basis of her prior criminal history. On November 2, 2000, respondents filed their answer and affirmative defenses. On December 20, 2000, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

During the course of a series of telephone conferences with the parties, it was determined that the material facts in this matter were not in dispute and the hearing could proceed upon cross-motions for summary decision based upon the applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

THE FACTS AS STATED BY PETITIONER

1. In or about February 2000, petitioner made application for teacher certification through the Alternate Route Program to the New Jersey Department of Education ("Department").

2. In or around the same period of time, petitioner also made application to be certified as a county substitute teacher to the Department.

3. Petitioner passed the National Teacher Examination and moved forward with her application for teacher certification through the Alternate Route Program with the Department.

4. Petitioner completed all requirements necessary to be certified as a county substitute teacher in the state of New Jersey with the Department.

5. The application process for teacher and county substitute teacher certification in the state of New Jersey requires that applicants, including petitioner, complete a criminal history review form and be fingerprinted in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

6. Petitioner complied with the requirements by submitting her fingerprints and completed criminal history review form to the Department.

7. On May 11, 2000, petitioner received a letter from respondent Carabelli, dated May 8, 2000, in which Carabelli indicated that petitioner is "permanently disqualified from employment in any position with a school or other educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education or with a contracted service provider under contract with said school or educational facility," pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:39-17 et seq., or N.J.S.A. 18A:4-13 et seq.

8. Carabelli's letter indicated that a fingerprint search conducted by the New Jersey State Police and Federal Bureau of Investigation revealed that petitioner had been convicted of "felony neg./homicide/manslaughter motor vehicle."

9. Petitioner, by letter dated May 18, 2000, advised Carabelli that his citation of the criminal charge "felony neg./homicide/manslaughter motor vehicle" was in error and challenged the accuracy of the criminal history record. She submitted documentation from the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division (Essex County), to support her claim of error in the criminal record within fourteen days from the date of the notice of disqualification.

10. On May 12, 2000, petitioner faxed to Frank Masterson, first assistant to respondent Carabelli, (1) a certified copy of the Essex County Superior Court Judgment of Conviction, (2) petitioner's letter dated April 27, 2000, to respondent Graham, as Director of the Office of Licensing and Credentials, and (3) a completed "Information Regarding Conviction Form." The transmission challenged the accuracy of the information contained in the aforementioned disqualification notice and sought reconsideration of the decision.

11. The aforementioned Judgment of Conviction indicated that the conviction in controversy was for "death by auto" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5, a third-degree offense at the time of the conviction in December 1990. A jury found the petitioner culpable of "reckless operation of a motor vehicle."

12. Petitioner noted in her submission to the Board of Examiners, "I was attempting to drive into a parking lot to get my disabled vehicle off the street. According to the State's witness, my spouse moved in front of my moving vehicle as I was reaching to close an open door on the driver's side while looking in another direction."

13. In February 1991, as a result of the "death by auto" conviction, petitioner was sentenced to five years' probation, 500 hours of community service, two years' suspension of her driving and automobile registration privileges and a monetary fine.

14. The judgment stated that it was unlikely the offense would occur again.

15. On or about May 18, 2000, petitioner formally requested that the controversy be considered a contested matter and forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law for a full hearing and adjudication on the merits.

16. Petitioner received a letter dated June 1, 2000, from Deborah Antanaitis, director, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, acknowledging petitioner's intent to appeal respondents' determination to disqualify her from holding any permanent position with a public school entity in the state of New Jersey pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:1-1 et seq.

17. On June 16, 2000, petitioner received a letter from respondent Graham, secretary of the State Board of Examiners, dated May 8, 2000, in which Graham indicated that the "Board unanimously voted to deny county substitute teacher certification to Ms. Howard based on her permanent disqualification from employment in any school or institution under the supervision of the Department of Education, by the Office of Criminal History Review."

THE APPLICABLE STATUTE

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 provides, in relevant part, that an individual is permanently disqualified from employment as a teacher or substitute teacher

> if the individual's criminal history record check reveals a record of conviction for any crime of the first or second degree; or
>
> . . . .
>
> c. (1) A crime involving the use of force or the threat of force to or upon a person or property including, but not limited to, robbery, aggravated assault, stalking, kidnapping, arson, manslaughter and murder; or
>
> . . . .
>
> d. For the purposes of this section, a conviction exists if the individual has at any time been convicted under the laws of this State or under any similar statutes of the United States or any other state for a substantially equivalent crime or other offense.
>
> e. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, an individual shall not be disqualified from employment or service under this act on the basis of any conviction disclosed by a criminal record check performed pursuant to this act without an opportunity to challenge the accuracy of the disqualifying criminal history record.
>

> g. This section shall first apply to criminal history record checks conducted on or after the effective date of P.L.1998, c.31 (C.18A:6-4.13 et al.). . . .

RESPONDENTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

On February 15, 1991, petitioner was convicted by a jury of death by auto, N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5, then a crime of the third degree. In 1995, this statute, entitled "death by vehicular homicide," was changed to raise the crime to a second-degree offense. It defines criminal homicide as "vehicular homicide when it is caused by driving a vehicle or vessel recklessly."

Respondents argue that, in 1991, Howard was convicted of a crime of the third degree which is "substantially equivalent" to the present N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5, a crime of the second degree, and, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(d), this permanently disqualifies her from employment as a teacher or substitute teacher.

Respondents further argue that Howard's crime was one involving the "the use of force or the threat of force to or upon a person" and this further permanently disqualifies her from employment as a teacher and substitute teacher pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(1).

PETITIONER'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

Petitioner's position is that the criminal record is inaccurate and Howard actually caused the death of her husband as the result of a tragic accident. She denies that the crime of which she was found guilty was "substantially equivalent" to the present version of N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5.

Likewise, she argues that the act of which she was convicted was the product of negligence or carelessness and so cannot be considered one which involved the use or threat of force. As a result, she cannot be permanently disqualified pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(1) either.

DISCUSSION

The precise questions raised here were already decided by the Supreme Court of New Jersey in In re Howard, 143 N.J. 526 (1996). This opinion was issued in the professional disciplinary proceeding brought against petitioner, Olivia C. Howard, as a result of her criminal conviction in the death of her husband. It is, therefore, the authority to which the undersigned must look for guidance in interpreting N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5 and determining the validity of the parties' positions.

With respect to the nature of the crime of which petitioner was convicted in 1991, the Supreme Court clearly equates the substance of the offense throughout its opinion with the present N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5, the only difference between the statute as amended and the prior version being the following:

> The Legislature has recently upgraded N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5 to make a violation of that statute a second degree offense with a presumption of imprisonment of five to ten years.
>
> [Howard, supra, 143 N.J. at 531.]

The substance of the crime remained unchanged.

In like manner, the Supreme Court dealt fully with the elements of the crime of which the jury found Howard guilty:

> Although respondent characterizes this tragedy as an accident, she was convicted of "criminal homicide" caused by driving a vehicle recklessly. N.J.S.A. 2C:11-5. Under this statute, a person acts recklessly when she consciously disregards a substantial and unjustifiable risk that her driving will result in someone's death. The disputed conduct must involve a "gross deviation from the standard of conduct that a reasonable person would observe in the actor's situation." N.J.S.A. 2C:2-2b(3). Thus despite her contention to the contrary, the jury found that respondent disregarded a substantial and unjustifiable risk that her conduct would kill her husband.

Howard's characterization of her crime in her applications for certifications and in this forum is the same one clearly rejected by the jury that found her guilty and by the New Jersey Supreme Court in the disciplinary proceeding that followed. For these reasons it can have no persuasive value here either.

Consequently, I CONCLUDE that respondents are entitled to summary decision in this appeal as a matter of law. The only possible factual dispute, the circumstances of the crime, has already been resolved by a jury after a full trial. The elements of petitioner's crime have been fully explained by the Supreme Court of New Jersey and they clearly involve both the use and threat of force upon a person. The crime, which is now one of the second degree, is "substantially equivalent" to the third-degree crime of which Howard was convicted in 1991. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is permanently disqualified from employment as a teacher or substitute teacher as a matter of law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(1) and (d).

Howard proposed to raise the issue of rehabilitation should she be found disqualified for employment. I CONCLUDE, however, that this is not an avenue available to her under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 as amended in 1998. The former version of section N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(e), describing the factors to be considered in determining rehabilitation, was amended. The amendment allows only those individuals whose criminal record was discovered as the result of a criminal history check conducted before the effective date of the amendment to demonstrate rehabilitation. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(g). Those individuals, like Howard, whose background checks were performed after 1998 are now given only the right to "challenge the accuracy of the disqualifying criminal record." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(e).

For this reason, I CONCLUDE that all issues in this appeal are disposed of and petitioner is entitled to no relief in this forum. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondents are entitled to summary decision.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that summary decision is hereby GRANTED to respondents and the petition herein is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE. It is further ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, residents of Newark, challenged the amount of State funding for the Newark School District's early childhood program for the 1999-2000 school year. After the matter was transmitted to the OAL, 15 "global issues" common to this and other "Abbott" cases were resolved by the Chief ALJ.

After resolution of the global issues, the ALJ twice requested that the parties identify any outstanding local issues. No outstanding issues were identified by the parties. Rather, petitioners sought that the matter be placed in abeyance until the Supreme Court issues a decision in the global issues appeal. The ALJ dismissed the appeal as moot, noting that it pertains to a past school year and that any relief ultimately obtained by petitioners would be prospective. The appeal was also dismissed based on petitioners' failure to comply with the order of a judge.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an "Abbott" appeal brought by various residents of the City of Newark challenging the funding of the 1999-2000 preschool program of the State-Operated School District of Newark ("District"). By letter dated August 23, 2000, the Education Law Center ("ELC") identified fifteen "global issues" common to a number of separate appeals filed on behalf of various special-needs school districts in New Jersey. Petitioners in the Newark appeal participated in that bifurcation between "global" and "local" issues.

On April 20, 2001, Chief Administrative Law Judge Jeff S. Masin issued an initial decision resolving the common global issues and ordering that any petitioner wishing to pursue local funding issues or other matters for the 1999-2000 school year should notify the judge assigned within twenty days. Thereafter, on June 4, 2001, the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") issued a final decision reversing and modifying various findings and recommendations in the global case. ELC has filed a motion in aid of litigant's rights, which is currently pending before the New Jersey Supreme Court.

The only issues remaining involve specific local concerns, if any, that were unique to the District for the 1999-2000 school year.

Procedural History

On May 10, 1999, petitioners filed a verified petition seeking relief, including adequate funding for its preschool program for the 1999-2000 school year. Respondents New Jersey Department of Education ("Department") and the District filed their answers on June 1, 1999 and June 22, 1999 respectively. Subsequently, on June 24, 1999, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the OAL for hearing as a contested case. With the consent of both parties, the local issues were held in abeyance pending resolution of all global issues in a consolidated proceeding.

Findings of Fact

I FIND the following relevant facts:

On April 20, 2001, Chief Administrative Law Judge Jeff S. Masin issued an initial decision resolving the common global issues and ordering that any petitioner who wishes to pursue local funding issues for the 1999-2000 school year should notify the judge assigned within twenty days. Both ELC and the District failed to respond to this directive within the required twenty days.

Consequently, on May 24, 2001, I sent a letter to the parties inquiring whether the local issues had become moot and requesting notification of any local issues that are still outstanding. (A copy of this letter is annexed as Exhibit A.) One month later, on June 28, 2001, I sent a second letter to the parties renewing the request for identification of any remaining local issues. (A copy of this letter is annexed as Exhibit B.)

In response, on July 6, 2001 the ELC filed a written request that the present matter continue in abeyance pending a ruling by the Supreme Court on the motion brought by the global plaintiffs. Without substantiation, ELC contended that, "Until such time as the 2000-01 'global issues' are finally resolved, it cannot be determined what district-specific issues remain to be resolved in the above-captioned appeals." (A copy of this letter is annexed as Exhibit C.)

By letter dated July 9, 2001, the Department set forth its opposition to the ELC's request. Pointing out that petitioners had agreed that any relief regarding the global issues must be prospective, the Department urged that any specific funding issues regarding the 1999-2000 school year "will not be affected by the Supreme Court's determination on the Global Issues." Accordingly, the Department demanded that petitioners "should immediately identify any remaining issues or withdraw their case." (A copy of this letter is annexed as Exhibit D.)

ELC's written response, dated July 10, 2001, merely reiterated its request that the hearing concerning district-specific issues for the 1999-2000 school year be delayed. Acknowledging that any relief ordered by the Supreme Court with respect to the global issues "must be prospective," ELC nonetheless argued that "it would be inefficient to order relief in the upcoming school year for past district-specific violations before the Supreme Court decides the pending motion[.]" Without specifying exactly why or how, ELC concluded that "any such relief will undoubtedly be affected by the Supreme Court's order for 2001-2002." (A copy of this letter is annexed as Exhibit E.) Implicitly, ELC recognizes that whatever relief may be fashioned to remedy any past wrongs would necessarily be prospective in nature.

Meanwhile, the Department continues to insist that any relief to be ordered by the Supreme Court with respect to the global issues "is irrelevant to the present case." (A copy of this letter is annexed as Exhibit F.)

The District does not take any position with regard to this issue.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the petition should be dismissed for mootness and for failure to comply with an order of a judge.

It is now more than two years since petitioners instituted this litigation in May 1999. Most of the three and four-year-olds who were eligible for the preschool program at that time are now old enough to attend regular school. Those of petitioners' children who are still eligible for the preschool program will benefit from any prospective relief that may be awarded as a result of litigation. Obviously, litigation must be pursued to define the rights of New Jersey children in special-needs districts to a preschool education, but that litigation will not be of direct benefit to children who are no longer of preschool age.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF JAMES KENNEY, :
PRINCETON REGIONAL BOARD OF :
EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

October 10, 2001

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 80-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 382-12/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JAMES KENNEY, PRINCETON REGIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record and notice of withdrawal transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2 have been reviewed.

Upon such review, it is noted that, although the record does not contain a settlement agreement, the Board's letter withdrawing the tenure charges states, in pertinent part:

> please be advised that we are withdrawing the tenure charges filed against James Kenney pursuant to the settlement entered into by the parties and based on Mr. Kenney's retirement. (emphasis added) (Board's Letter, dated August 21, 2001)

The Commissioner notes that the charges of unbecoming conduct and insubordination certified against respondent in this matter are of an extremely serious nature, involving the charge of jeopardizing the health and welfare of the District and students by the use of provocative subject matter, belittling of students, invasion of the female dressing area, disparate treatment of minority students, use of foul language and sexual materials, and conduct inducing students to withdraw from class. (Statement of Charges, Charge 1, and Statement of Evidence, Affidavit of John Kazmark at 5) In the absence of the parties' submission of the settlement agreement for review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, the Commissioner is compelled to reject the Board's request to withdraw the tenure charges. In so doing, the Commissioner is mindful of his exclusive authority to decide tenure matters, which authority necessarily entails his scrutiny, evaluation and approval of proposed settlements. See In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board of Education April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 849.

Moreover, it is well-established that, having once undertaken the burden of tenure charges, the Board may not lay it down without setting forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation as to why such charges need no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. As emphasized by the Commissioner in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Corey Younger, State-operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, decided September 7, 1999 and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Elmena Jean, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, decided October 4, 1999, the mere fact that a proposed settlement in a tenure matter calls for the teaching staff member's resignation, in and of itself, does not assure that the Cardonick standards have been met, because the Commissioner's concern for the public interest extends beyond the boundaries of the particular district certifying the tenure charges.[1]

While the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his obligation to the schools and children of New Jersey, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

[1]Assuming, arguendo, that the settlement agreement satisfies the Cardonick standards so as to negate the prosecution of tenure charges against respondent, it does not prevent the processing of charges to revoke respondent's certification or prevent the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund from making a determination with respect to the truthfulness of the allegations, and the effect, if any, on respondent's continued pension eligibility. See N.J.S.A. 43:1-4 and N.J.S.A. 43:1-5 and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Loretta Palumbo, School District of the Borough of Old Tappan, Bergen County, decided February 20, 2001.

Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that this matter be remanded to the OAL for expansion of the record to include the settlement agreement to which the Board refers and for the Administrative Law Judge's review of such agreement. If the parties are unwilling or unable to provide a settlement agreement that meets the Cardonick standards, the matter shall proceed to plenary hearing.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [2]

Record Closed: September 6, 2001 Decided: September 6, 2001

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

These matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 22, 2000, (EDU 6841-01) and on March 7, 2001 (CRT 737-01) for determination as contested cases, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. A joint order of consolidation and determination of predominant interest was issued by the agency heads on May 10, 2001, determining that the Commissioner of the Department of Education would exercise the predominant interest.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a written agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION and the DIRECTOR OF THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision on all issues within the scope of his predominant interest. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision on all of the issues within the scope of predominant interest shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering his final decision the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and his final decision, to the DIRECTOR OF THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS who may subsequently render a final decision on any remaining issues and consider any specific remedies which may be within the Division's statutory grant of authority.

Upon transmitting the record, the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c) request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the DIRECTOR OF THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS within forty-five (45) days of the predominant agency decision. If the DIRECTOR OF THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS does not render a final decision within the extended time, this recommended decision on the remaining issues and remedies shall become the final decision.

JOINT REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF SETTLEMENT

INTRODUCTION

The Petitioner/Complainant, Patricia Fleming (Fleming) and counsel for the Respondent, Haddon Township Board of Education (Board) join in moving for an Order (1) declaring that the Settlement Agreement between the parties attached hereto as Exhibit "A" meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1; (2) recommending that said Settlement Agreement be approved by the Commissioner of Education as well as the Director of the Division on Civil Rights (DCR) without modification; and (3) Ordering that the Settlement Agreement be implemented and that these matters be dismissed with prejudice.

PROCEDURAL STATEMENT

On June 19, 2000, Fleming, a tenured teacher employed by the Board, filed a Petition of Appeal under OAL Dkt. No. EDUCR06841-00S, Agency Ref. No. 217-6/00 alleging inter alia that her tenure rights had been violated by her being assigned to a part-time position. On July 20, 2000, the Board filed an Answer to those charges denying the allegations.

On July 28, 2000, Fleming filed a Verified Complaint with the DCR, Docket No. ED 11

WE46105, alleging that the Board discriminated against her on the basis of handicap and age and refused to fully accommodate her handicap by returning her to a full-time teaching position from a leave and part-time position taken due to illness. Fleming simultaneously filed a charge with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) under Charge No. 17EA00917 alleging that the Board in doing this also violated Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C., §2000(E2)(A)(1) et seq., and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), 42 U.S.C. 12101 et seq. The Board filed an Answer dated January 26, 2001 with the DCR, denying those allegations.

On February 2, 2001, Fleming sought transfer of the Civil Rights matter to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:5-13.

On February 8, 2001, Fleming filed a motion to consolidate for purposes of hearing the Education and the Civil Rights matters, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1.1-17.1 to 17.8, as well as for summary decision. The Board by correspondence dated February 26, 2001, filed opposition to the motion and a cross-motion.

On March 26, 2001, the Honorable M. Kathleen Duncan, A.L.J. entered an Order consolidating these matters and determining predominant interest.

On May 10, 2001, upon review by the respective agency heads, a Joint Order was entered modifying the Order of Judge Duncan with respect to predominant interest

On May 21, 2001, the Honorable M. Kathleen Duncan, A.L.J., entered an Order granting partial summary decision in favor of Fleming.

The parties have now reached a settlement expressly conditioned upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education and the Director of the DCR.

CONCLUSION

The parties have been fully informed of their respective rights in connection with these proceedings, including those standards for the approval of Settlement Agreements. The parties are satisfied with the Settlement Agreement (Exhibit "A") and believe that it fulfills the public interest with respect to these matters. For these reasons, they assert that the Settlement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and request that the Settlement Agreement be adopted without modification by the Commissioner of Education, as well as the Director of the DCR. In this regard, it is requested that an order be entered directing that the Settlement Agreement be implemented and that the Petition of Appeal pending before the Department of Education and the Verified Complaint pending in the DCR be dismissed with prejudice.

EXHIBIT 'A'

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE REGARDING ACTIONS PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION AND THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS/EEOC

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Haddon Township Board of Education (Board) and its tenured employee, Patricia Fleming (Fleming).

WHEREAS, Fleming has been continuously employed by the Board as an art teacher since in or about March 1987; and,

WHEREAS, on June 19, 2000, Fleming filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education against the Board, alleging a violation of her tenure rights and captioned Patricia C. Fleming v. Board of Education of the Township of Haddon, County of Camden, OAL Dkt. No. EDUCR06841-00S, Agency Ref. No. 217-6/00; and,

WHEREAS, on July 20, 2000, the Board filed an Answer contesting certain of the allegations contained in the Petition of Appeal; and.

WHEREAS, on July 28, 2000, Fleming filed a Verified Complaint against the Board with the Division on Civil Rights (DCR) and Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), captioned Patricia C. Fleming v. Haddon Township Board of Education, Docket No. ED 11 WE-46105, EEOC Charge No. 17EA00917; and,

WHEREAS, the Board filed an Answer dated January 26, 2001, contesting the Verified Complaint filed by Fleming before the DCR/EEOC; and,

WHEREAS, the aforesaid Verified Complaint to the DCR/EEOC was transferred to the Office of Administrative pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:5-13, and consolidated for purposes of hearing before the Honorable M. Kathleen Duncan, A.L.J.; and,

WHEREAS, in consideration for the mutual promises contained herein, the parties intend to resolve all matters in dispute in these proceedings and in connection with Fleming's employment by the Board; and

NOW, THEREFORE, the matter in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties and based on the foregoing having fulfilled the public interest, IT IS hereby STIPULATED and AGREED, as follows:

1. The parties will seek approval from the aforesaid respective agencies of this Agreement without modification and ask that the Petition of Appeal, as well as the Verified Complaint with the DCR be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice.

2. Should either agency fail to approve this Agreement without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform this Agreement to meet any objections.

3. Fleming, for and in consideration of the undertakings of the Board set forth in paragraph #4 herein, and intending to be legally bound, does hereby remise, release and forever discharge the Board and its officers, members, employees and agents, and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which are the subject of a Petition of Appeal captioned Patricia C. Fleming v. Board of Education of the Township of Haddon, County of Camden, OAL Dkt. No. EDUCR06841-00S, Agency Ref. No. 217-6/00, as well as a Verified Complaint filed by her with the DCR/EEOC captioned Patricia C. Fleming v. Haddon Township Board of Education, Docket No. ED 11 WE-46105, EEOC Charge No. 17EA00917. Fleming agrees that on approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education and Director of DCR, she shall execute whatever documents are necessary to withdraw/dismiss those matters with prejudice. This includes the withdrawal/dismissal of the EEOC charge. Fleming shall not pursue any other actions in any other forum with respect to the allegations set forth in the aforesaid Petition of Appeal and/or the Verified Complaint.

4. The Board, for and in consideration of the undertakings of Fleming as set forth herein:

a. Will pay to Fleming as wages the difference between what she actually earned as a part-time art teacher during the 2000-2001 school year and what she would have earned as a full-time art teacher during that year under the applicable collective bargaining agreement and any applicable subsequent agreements for that year had she been a full-time art teacher, at the appropriate step which Fleming calculates to be 20P, with a B.A. degree. Normal and appropriate deductions shall be made out of this for taxes, pension contributions, etc. The Board shall provide the Division of Pensions with all appropriate documentation indicating Fleming's resulting adjusted salary for the 2000-2001 school year and the correct amount of pension contribution based upon that adjusted salary. The Board will also forward to the Division of Pensions, the additional pension contribution amount due. The aforesaid salary adjustments shall be accomplished within thirty (30) days of the approval of this agreement.

b. The Board agrees to place Fleming in a full-time teaching position for the 2001-02 and 2002-03 school years at the appropriate step on the salary guide. In this regard, Fleming shall be placed in a .6 elementary art position at the Stoy and Jennings Schools, and .4 art position at the high school level for these school years. In no event shall Fleming's employment as a teacher be anything but full-time during those school years.

In the absence of appropriate classroom space, Fleming shall be assigned the cafeteria at the Stoy and Jennings Schools to conduct art classes which is consistent with the past and is where she has taught art for the past few years. At the high school level, her art classes shall be conducted in one of the classrooms dedicated to the teaching of art so that Fleming will have access to art supplies, as well as an environment which is conducive to art activities.

c. Any in-servicing of Fleming in connection with her assignments during the 2001-02 and 2002-03 school years shall be at Board expense in accordance with in-service scheduling for the teaching staff generally.

d. Fleming shall receive the preparation time allotted under the applicable collectively negotiated agreement pro rated with regard to her .6 elementary art position and .4 position at the high school level.

e. In the event there is an opening for a full-time elementary level art teacher or a vacancy in such position as a result of the current holder being transferred or relinquishing said position, Fleming will be given the right of first refusal/option of taking that assignment, provided it does not violate the seniority rights of any other teaching staff member.

f. Fleming has expressed concern about being involuntarily transferred from the .6 elementary art .4 high school position to some other position in the future, and has requested that she not be involuntarily transferred for the duration of her employment with the Board. In recognition thereof, the Board represents and agrees that it shall not involuntarily transfer Fleming arbitrarily or capriciously. In no event shall any dispute over this provision result in nullifying or voiding this Agreement. However, in the event of a breach of this paragraph or any other, Fleming shall be permitted to file legal action to enforce the terms thereof, and/or seek appropriate monetary damages on account of any such breach.

g. Fleming agrees in light of the fact that even prior to this agreement it has been her intention to retire upon attaining 25 years of service, that she will in fact resign her employment with the Board and retire at the end of the school year in which she obtains twenty-five (25) years of service, provided that she serves as a full-time teacher during the 2001-02 and 2002-03 school years, as promised by the Board in this agreement. Fleming calculates that to be at the end of the 2002-2003 school year. Accordingly, Fleming agrees that her employment relationship with the Board will be permanently and irrevocably severed as of July 1, 2003, and that the Board will not have any obligation, contractual or otherwise, to hire, rehire, or re-employ her in the future. Fleming acknowledges that she is relinquishing all future rights to employment and re-employment with the Board after that date. If it is determined by the Division of Pensions at that time that Fleming is not eligible for retirement with at least 25 years of service, the Board shall continue to employee Fleming as a full time art teacher provided she faithfully carries out of her professional responsibilities as a teaching staff member until such time as she becomes eligible for retirement with at least 25 years of service.

h. Fleming, upon her resignation and retirement, shall be entitled to the same rights under the negotiated collective bargaining agreement or Board policy and any other applicable subsequently negotiated agreement or adopted Board policy as any other full-time tenured staff member in her position who retires effective that date.

i. The Board agrees to cooperate with Fleming in connection with her application for retirement to the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund to the extent necessary for her to be eligible for and receive pension benefits based on her years of service credit pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1, et seq.

j. Should the Board fail to pay monies due Fleming directly or to be paid on her behalf under this agreement as said monies become due, Fleming shall be entitled to have any arrearage reduced to judgement against the Board on the filing of appropriate documents with any tribunal having jurisdiction.

5. This agreement is the result of a compromise in order to buy the parties peace. It is expressly understood and agreed that nothing contained in this agreement is intended to be construed as, and/or to be an admission or determination of, wrongdoing or liability on the part of the Board as to any claims made in this action.

6. The parties recognize that they are in an ongoing employer-employee relationship. As such, this agreement does not release the Board from liability for any act or omission which may take place after the date of this agreement, including any allegation that the Board has breached this agreement, nor does it release Fleming from good faith evaluations or from the faithful carrying out of her professional responsibilities as a teaching staff member.

7. The parties agree that a covenant of good faith and fair dealing applies to all provisions of this agreement.

8. By signing this agreement and general release each signatory represents that she or he is a party or has been duly authorized by a party to sign on the parties' behalf. The parties agree that this agreement and release may be signed in counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

9. Should any provision of this agreement be declared or be determined by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction to be illegal or invalid, the validity of the remaining parts, terms, and provisions shall not be affected, thereby and said illegal or invalid part, term, or provision shall be deemed not to be a part of this agreement. The parties agree in such circumstances to make a good faith effort to reform that portion of the agreement so that the intent of the parties as set forth in the illegal or invalid provision(s) can be accomplished.

10. This agreement contains the sole, complete, and entire agreement and understanding of the parties concerning the subject matter hereof. This agreement, including this paragraph, may not be altered, modified, or changed in any manner, except by a writing duly executed by all the parties hereto. This agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties, their heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns.

11. This agreement shall be construed according to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

12. Both parties agree that from this point forward neither one of them will publicize or publish the contents of the agreement or voluntarily disclose the agreement to other parties except their attorneys and in the case of Fleming her immediate family, tax advisor/preparer and union representatives. The parties understand that the file and this agreement will remain part of the public record and therefore available to members of the public, including the press.

13. Both parties having read the terms of this agreement and release state that they have had an opportunity to discuss it with counsel, that they are fully satisfied with the services of their attorneys. The parties further acknowledge that they are executing this agreement and release of their own volition, with full understanding of its terms and effects without any coercion. It is understood that this agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education and the Director of the DCR.

This Agreement was considered and approved by the Board at its meeting of August 16, 2001.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending to be legally bound, the Parties have set their hands and seals on the respective date(s) set forth below.

HEARING OF RICHARD H. DAVIS,	:

COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent Board Secretary/Business Administrator for embezzlement of funds and numerous other irregularities in the performance of his duties. On May 2, 2001, respondent entered a guilty plea, admitting, among other things, that he and a co-conspirator commenced an embezzlement scheme in July 1993 to embezzle funds from the Board by submitting for payment numerous fraudulent invoices for either maintenance supplies never delivered or for landscaping services never rendered.

The ALJ found that the undisputed evidence proved the charges in question. In light of respondent's admissions at his guilty plea to embezzling $1.7 million from the Board, the ALJ found the evidence overwhelming that petitioner engaged in conduct unbecoming a public official. The ALJ concluded that the Board demonstrated respondent's unbecoming conduct by a preponderance of credible evidence and concluded that dismissal of respondent from his tenured position was the appropriate penalty given the enormity of respondent's crime. The ALJ ordered the tenure charges upheld and respondent dismissed from his tenured position.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own and referred the matter to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF RICHARD H. DAVIS, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WYCKOFF, BERGEN COUNTY,

Mark G. Sullivan, Esq., appearing for petitioner, Wyckoff
(Sullivan & Sullivan, attorneys)

Paul E. Griggs, Esq., appearing for respondent, Richard H. Davis
(McConnell, Lenard & Griggs, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 14, 2001 Decided: August 24, 2001

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Board of Education of the Township of Wyckoff (Board) decided to request the Commissioner of Education to hear and determine tenure charges against respondent Richard H. Davis, then Board Secretary and Business Administrator, on January 2, 2001. On January 9, 2001, those charges were filed with the Commissioner of Education. On January 26, 2001, respondent filed an answer denying the allegations. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 9, 2001. The matter was assigned to the undersigned administrative law judge (ALJ) on February 20, 2001, for a hearing. The ALJ held a telephone prehearing scheduling conference with the parties on February 27, 2001. The matter was set down for a hearing in April 2001 but the time was extended for additional discovery at the request of the parties. The matter was then scheduled for a hearing to begin June 15, 2001.

On June 5, 2001, respondent Board filed a motion for summary decision. The petitioner filed no answer but submitted a letter dated June 12, 2001, indicating that he was irrevocably resigning from his position. Hence, the summary decision motion is unopposed.

FACTS

Based on the undisputed evidence submitted by the Board, I FIND the following FACTS.

Respondent Richard H. Davis had been the Board Secretary and Business Administrator of the Wyckoff Township Board of Education since July 1, 1983. On October 3, 2000, representatives of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and the United States Attorney's Office executed a search warrant on Mr. Davis' office in conjunction with an investigation as to whether Mr. Davis was embezzling funds from the Board for his personal use. Subsequently, the Board employed an investigator to review Mr. Davis' activities. Thereafter the Board uncovered numerous irregularities in the performance of Mr. Davis' duties, despite the fact that virtually all the evidence had been removed by the federal agencies. Accordingly, the superintendent of schools certified 32 tenures charges against Mr. Davis warranting his removal from office. Included in the 32 charges were the following:

Charge 1

That Mr. Davis improperly and in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1 made expenditures of funds to certain individuals and/or corporations or other entities, which were not authorized by the Board.

Charge 6

That Mr. Davis violated N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2(a) in that he, with purpose to obtain a benefit for himself or another or to deprive another of a benefit, committed an act relating to his office as business administrator/board secretary which constituted an unauthorized act, knowing that such act was unauthorized or that he was committing it in an unauthorized manner.

Charge 7

That Mr. Davis violated N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2(b) in that he knowingly refrained from performing a duty imposed upon him by law or clearly inherent in the nature of his office by issuing payment for claims which were not disclosed to the Board or were not authorized to be paid by the Board.

Charge 15

That Mr. Davis violated Board Policy 3320.1-R by not following the New Jersey statutory bidding process in certain instances including but not limited to his issuing payments based upon purchase orders supplied or apparently supplied by Arbor Industries, Inc., and/or Co-Main-Co and/or Districtwide Maintenance and/or I. Scott Chemical, Inc. and/or Consolidated Industries.

Charge 16

That Mr. Davis violated Board Policy 3320.2 by extending favoritism to vendors including but not limited to Arbor Industries, Inc., and/or Co-Main-Co and/or Districtwide Maintenance and/or I. Scott Chemical, Inc. and/or Consolidated Industries.

Charge 17

That Mr. Davis violated Board policy 3320.2 by failing to audit bills supplied by vendors including but not limited to Arbor Industries, Inc., and/or Co-Main-Co and/or Districtwide Maintenance and/or I. Scott Chemical, Inc. and/or Consolidated Industries.

Charge 21

That Mr. Davis violated Board policy 4015 regarding the Code of Ethics for Administrators by failing to fulfill his professional responsibilities with honesty and integrity (section 2).

Charge 22

That Mr. Davis violated Board Policy 4015 regarding the Code of Ethics for Administrators by failing to obey local, state and national laws (section 4).

Charge 26

That Mr. Davis improperly issued advance payment for purchase orders produced for Arbor Industries, Inc., and/or Co-Main-Co and/or Districtwide Maintenance and/or I. Scott Chemical, Inc. and/or Consolidated Industries.

Charge 27

That Mr. Davis improperly issued payment via issuance of "hand checks" in lieu of the typical, approved purchase order procedure to Arbor Industries, Inc., and/or Co-Main-Co and/or Districtwide Maintenance and/or I. Scott Chemical, Inc. and/or Consolidated Industries.

On or about April 18, 2001, the U.S. Attorney for the District of New Jersey filed a two count information charging Mr. Davis with one count of embezzlement of money from Wyckoff Board of Education in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 666(a)(1)(A). The information alleged that Mr. Davis with co-conspirators invoiced the Board using six different company names and prepared payment vouchers for each fraudulent invoice causing the Board to issue checks in the amount the fraudulent invoices. After delivering the checks to the co-conspirator who cashed the checks, the co-conspirators divided the proceeds. The information also charged Mr. Davis with one count of conspiracy to structure financial transaction to avoid reporting requirements in violation of 31 U.S.C. § 5234(a)(3)&(c)(2). On April 18, 2001, Mr. Davis and his attorney executed a plea agreement with the U.S. Attorney dated April 13, 2001. In the agreement Mr. Davis agreed to plead guilty to the two counts of the information and agreed to make restitution to the Board for the $1.7 million loss.

The U.S. Attorney wrote to Honorable Dickinson R. Debevoise on April 30, 2001, setting forth the information in which Mr. Davis had agreed to plead guilty. To establish the underlying facts, the U.S. Attorney provided a list of question to be asked which established the facts of the crimes and the knowing nature of the crime. On May 3, 2001, Mr. Davis entered a guilty plea to the two-count information before Judge Debevoise. At the time he entered such plea, he also answered in the affirmative all the questions set forth in Exhibit C, numbered 1 through 33. Essentially Mr. Davis admitted that he and a co-conspirator commenced an embezzlement scheme in July 1993 to embezzle funds from the Board by submitting for payment numerous fraudulent invoices for either maintenance supplies never been delivered or for landscaping services never rendered. Mr. Davis also admitted that he and his co-conspirator had attempted to arrange with a checking cash establishment to cash $24,000 worth of checks without filing the federally required currency transaction report.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The Board moved for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 on the basis that there is no genuine issue as to any material facts and the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. I FIND that there are no disputed facts as no evidence has been submitted by Mr. Davis in opposition to the facts presented by the Board. Additionally, while Mr. Davis in his answer alleged procedural defects, he did not defend on that basis.

The Board argued that the truth of charges one, six, seven, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-six, and twenty-seven are established by respondent's guilty plea and that such charges, given the enormity of respondent's crime, are sufficient in themselves to amount to conduct unbecoming a public employee warranting Mr. Davis' removal from office. I FIND that the undisputed evidence proves the charges in question, which in substance allege that Mr. Davis improperly and illegally made unauthorized and fraudulent expenditure of Board funds to benefit himself rather than the Board and improperly submitted and audited the accounts.

Unbecoming conduct is defined broadly as "any conduct which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services. Karins v. Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998). In light of Mr. Davis' admissions at his guilty plea to embezzling $1.7 million from the Board, I FIND the evidence overwhelming that petitioner has engaged in conduct unbecoming a public official. I CONCLUDE that the Board has demonstrated respondent's unbecoming conduct by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Further I CONCLUDE that dismissal of respondent from his tenured position is the appropriate penalty under the egregious circumstances here whereby Mr. Davis has demonstrated that he is unfit to discharge the duties of his position. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Alan Morton, Sch. Dist. of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, OAL Dkt. Nos. EDU 1957-93, 9331-92N, 10944-93, aff'd by State Board 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 444.

ORDER

Accordingly, I ORDER that the tenure charges against Richard H. Davis be UPHELD and that Mr. Davis be and hereby is DISMISSED from his tenured position.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF RICHARD H. DAVIS,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP OF WYCKOFF, BERGEN	:	DECISION
COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision for the reasons expressed therein. Accordingly, respondent is dismissed from his tenured position as a teacher in the Board's district.[1] This matter is hereby referred to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/12/01

Date of Mailing: 10/12/01

[1] The record shows that, by letter dated June 13, 2001, respondent submitted to the Board his "irrevocable resignation from the position of School Business Administrator/Board Secretary to the Township of Wyckoff Board of Education." (Letter of Richard H. Davis) However, there is no indication in the record that this resignation has been acted upon by the Board. Therefore, even if the Board has, in fact, acted, prior to the date of this decision, to accept respondent's resignation, it is reminded of the chief school administrator's responsibility to cooperate with the State Board of Examiners in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5.

[2] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, retired teacher, alleged the Trenton Board of Education failed to follow New Jersey guidelines in its implementation of the Special Review Assessment (SRA). The Department investigated the allegations and issued a report which concluded that the allegations were without merit. In light of this report, the Board asked that the matter be dismissed.

The ALJ found that petitioner failed to meet the administrative code definition of interested person in a controversy. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 defines interested persons as persons who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of a controversy. The ALJ concluded that petitioner did not have legal standing to bring the present petition and that, even if she did, there was no relief that he might order. Petition was dismissed.

In lieu of exceptions, petitioner submitted a motion to amend her pleadings. Finding no legal authority for pleading amendment subsequent to the issuance of an initial decision and, even if such lack was not in and of itself dispositive, that interests of efficiency, expediency and the prevention of undue prejudice preclude acceptance of amendment of pleadings at such a late stage, the Commissioner denied petitioner's motion. The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner, however, found it appropriate that petitioner's materials be reviewed by the Special Committee he recently convened to review the SRA process statewide, since they may provide a perspective on some of the issues and problems potentially associated with that process.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 104-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 401-11/00

STEPHANIE I. RYAN,
Petitioner,
v.
TRENTON BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Stephanie I. Ryan, petitioner, pro se
Sharon D. Larmore, Board Counsel, for respondent

Record closed: August 6, 2001 Decided: August 27, 2001

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Stephanie I. Ryan, petitioner, filed a petition of appeal before the Commissioner of Education alleging that the respondent Trenton Board of Education had failed to follow State guidelines in its implementation of the Special Review Assessment II (SRA). The New Jersey Department of Education investigated the petitioner's allegations and issued a report, dated September 15, 2000, which concluded that the allegations were without merit. The respondent Board filed an answer denying the petitioner's allegations on January 2, 2001. In light of the final report issued by the State Department of Education, the Board asks that the matter be dismissed.

On January 30, 2001, Ryan filed a letter opposing the motion to dismiss. The letter deals almost entirely with procedural matters. After acknowledging receipt of the Board's counsel's letter, the petitioner states:

> I hereby oppose her reasons. I must quote the following sentences from a letter dated October 12, 2000, from Robert A. DeSando, Special Assistant for External Affairs for the Commissioner of Education: "In response to the issues raised in your letter, I must advise that Assistant Commissioner Schechter's report represents the Department of Education's final investigative findings in this matter, and that, while you may believe that the report is inaccurate and incomplete, the Department cannot be of further assistance to you outside the mechanism, established by statute and rule for hearing of school law disputes by the Commissioner. That mechanism, initiated through a petition of appeal set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3, provides for a strictly prescribed administrative hearing process where the Commissioner acts as an impartial adjudicator in deciding whether violations of school law have occurred and remedial directives are warranted."
>
> After contacting Governor Whitman's office on the morning of October 16, because Assistant Commissioner Schecter did not return my phone calls concerning inquiries about my report, I received a call at 11:56 that same day from Commissioner Schechter. At that time, Ms. Schechter acknowledged to me that she, "Did not get any other documents and did not interview any other teachers or students" even though I had provided her with 160 pages of documentation supporting allegations against the Trenton Board of Education. Ms. Schechter then stated that she had gleaned all information for her final report, which was more than a month late, and which exonerated Trenton from all allegations, based solely on a July 11 meeting held in Dr. Lytle's office at the Trenton Board of Education, and that she had not investigated any of my allegations set forth in my lengthy documentation. On November 8, taking the advice of Special Assistant Robert A. Desando, I filed an appeal as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3. against the Trenton Board of Education for > noncompliance of New Jersey State Statutes and New Jersey Administrative Codes.

> In light of my letter dated September 23, 2000, and Mr. DeSando's letter dated October 12, 2000, I hereby oppose the respondent's reasons for dismissing Docket No.: EDU 104-01.

The Board's motion rests on uncomplicated grounds. The Board states that Ryan filed a petition alleging failure to adhere to State guidelines in implementation of the SRA. The Department looked into the matter and issued a comprehensive report. Among its conclusions were that the petitioner's allegations were without merit. The respondent Board filed an answer denying the allegations and the Department of Education report of September 15, 2001, disposes of all issues.

DETERMINATION AND ORDER

Pursuant to the statutory definition, a matter is a contested case where, by virtue of a statutory or constitutional requirement, a hearing is required before a State agency to determine rights, duties, obligations, privileges, benefits or other legal relations of specific parties. The required hearing must be preeminently adjucatory and judicial in nature and not informational or intended to provide a forum for the expression of public sentiment on a proposed or accomplished agency action. Nor is a matter which is susceptible of administrative resolution a contested case. In order for a matter to be a contested case, it must be heard by a judge and:

1. A hearing must be required by statute or constitutional provision;

2. The matter must not be susceptible of informal resolution on the administrative level, and

3. The required hearing must be designed to result in an adjudication concerning the rights, duties, obligations, privileges, benefits or other legal relations of specific parties over which there exists disputed questions of fact, law, or disposition.

In order to be a party, a person or group must be affected by the outcome of the matter substantially, specifically and directly. The petitioner here fails to meet these standards. First, there is no order I can make that will affect her rights, duties, obligations, privileges, or benefits. There is no order I can make that will affect the petitioner substantially, specifically and directly.

To have a property interest in a benefit, a person clearly must have more than an abstract need or desire for it. He must have more than a unilateral expectation of it. Board of Regents v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564 (1972). Under Flast v. Cohn, 392 U.S. 83 (1968), the gist of the question of standing is whether the party seeking relief has alleged such a personal stake in the outcome of the controversy as to assure that concrete adverseness which sharpens the presentation of issues upon which courts so largely depend for illumination. New Jersey courts have followed this line of thinking. In Frazier v. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., 15 N.J. Super. 123 (Law Div. 1977), the court stated at 127 "plaintiff must show a personal stake in the outcome of the litigation or controversy in an adversarial context and in a form historically reviewed as capable of judicial resolution."

A tribunal or a court will not do, or require the doing of, a vain or useless thing; it will not use its powers to accomplish a useless purpose, nor will it grant a decree which does not confer a benefit, which is impractical as concerns enforcement, which is not enforceable, or which is ineffectual because compliance is impossible.

Reading the pleadings in the light most favorable to the petitioner, I FIND that she has failed to establish that she is an interested person as contemplated in the foregoing discussion. I further FIND that there is no relief I can order that would confer any recognizable benefit upon her. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petition of appeal herein is without merit and should be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STEPHANIE I. RYAN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY ET AL.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner filed no exceptions but, rather, submitted a "Request for Motion to File an 'Amended Initial Complaint.'" In reply, the Board filed an objection to such request. Petitioner tendered a rejoinder to the Board's responsive submission.

Preliminarily, the Commissioner determines that petitioner's request to amend her pleadings, at this late stage in these proceedings, must be denied. It is noted that authorization for amendment of pleadings is derived from two specific rules, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.7 and N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2, whose respective applicability is determined by the stage of the proceedings. First, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.7 specifies:

> Prior to the transmittal of any matter to the OAL, the Commissioner may order the amendment of any petition or answer, or any petitioner may amend the petition, and any respondent may amend the answer; provided, however, that once an answer or other responsive pleading is filed, an amendment to a petition may be made only with the consent of each adverse party or by leave of the Commissioner upon written application.(emphasis supplied)

Subsequent to the transmittal of a matter to the OAL, amendment of pleadings is governed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2(a) which states:

> Unless precluded by law or constitutional principle, pleadings may be freely amended when, in the judge's discretion, an amendment would be in the interest of efficiency, expediency and the avoidance of over-technical pleading requirements and would not create undue prejudice. (emphasis supplied)

While both of these provisions clearly contemplate pleading revisions during the course of the proceedings of a contested case, there is no corresponding regulatory authority for amendment subsequent to an OAL hearing and the issuance of an Initial Decision. Even assuming, arguendo, that this absence of legal authority is not, in and of itself, dispositive, the Commissioner finds and concludes that interests of efficiency, expediency and the prevention of undue prejudice preclude a process which would essentially operate as a vehicle for all unsuccessful litigants to cure deficiencies and relitigate their cases. Consequently, petitioner's request to amend her pleadings, submitted in lieu of exceptions to the Initial Decision, is hereby denied.

Turning to the substance of the matter before him, upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that the within petitioner lacks the requisite legal standing to maintain this action as a contested case.

However, notwithstanding this result, and fully recognizing that information brought to the record here remains unproven, the Commissioner of Education cannot ignore the implications of petitioner's allegations as they pertain to his concerns about the efficacy of the Special Review Assessment (SRA) methodology as an alternative means of measuring student achievement in New Jersey's public schools. At the October 3, 2001 meeting of the State Board of Education, the Commissioner announced his formation of a Special Committee in this regard, explaining:

> As we prepare to launch a new high school proficiency assessment this year, it's only appropriate that we take a long, hard look at the Special Review Assessment (SRA). While the SRA has merit, I am becoming increasingly concerned about the number of students who receive a diploma through this process. I recently convened a special committee to review the SRA process. Serving on this committee are county superintendents, teachers, district superintendents, test coordinators and high school principals. Their mission is to recommend by the end of the year a course of action that will guarantee that diplomas awarded as a result of the SRA process are as meaningful as those earned by passing the regular High School Proficiency Assessment.

In view of his broader concerns in this regard, the Commissioner finds it appropriate that petitioner's materials be reviewed by the recently convened special committee, since they may provide a perspective on some of the issues and problems potentially associated with the SRA process, thereby contributing to the committee's thinking in charting a course of action, as the Commissioner has directed, that will ensure the integrity of the SRA process statewide.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the instant Petition of Appeal is affirmed for the reasons stated therein, and a copy of the record of this matter will be submitted to the special committee.

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Stephanie I. Ryan, petitioner, alleges the respondents failed to enforce State mandates by permitting the Trenton Board of Education to bypass, thwart or fail to comply with Special Review Assessment II (SRA) guidelines. The New Jersey Department of Education denies the allegations.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

The respondents moved for summary decision and the petitioner objected. The short answer is that a motion for summary decision may be made at any time after a case is determined to be a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

The motion to dismiss must be granted for the following reasons. First, the petitioner is without standing to bring this case. Second, the petitioner has failed to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

The prerequisite of standing is meant to ensure real adverseness with respect to the litigation and to ensure that there is a substantial likelihood some harm will occur in the event of an unfavorable outcome. New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce v. New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission, 82 N.J. 57 (1980); See also Kenwood v. Montclair Board of Education, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8858-81 (April 23, 1982), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (June 14, 1992), aff'd, St. Bd. (Sep. 8, 1982). Further, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 defines interested persons as persons who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of the controversy.

The petitioner cannot meet the standards of standing. She has not alleged a sufficient stake, a real adverseness or that there is a substantial likelihood some harm will occur to her in the event of an unfavorable decision.

In a similar case, Lobis v. Bd. of Ed. of Maple Shade, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3630-79 (June 11, 1980), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (Aug. 11, 1980), Aff'd St. of Bd. (Nov. 5, 1980), a similar petition was filed alleging that the respondent was not providing equal educational opportunities under the Public School Education Act of 1975. See also, D.K. v. Bd. of Ed. of Clifton, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 71.

Riccardelli v. Bd. of Ed. of Newark, OAL DKT. No. EDU 1904-79 (Sep. 26, 1979), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (Nov. 16, 1979), provides perhaps the clearest instruction. The petitioner, a resident of Newark, alleged that the Executive Superintendent had illegally transferred personnel, a power by law vested in the board of education. The initial decision, affirmed and adopted by the Commissioner of Education, found the petitioner failed to meet the administrative code definition of interested person in a controversy.

Despite the petitioner's sincerity and earnestness, I FIND and CONCLUDE that she does not have standing to bring the present petition and that, even if she did, there is no relief that I may order.

A court or tribunal will not do, or require the doing of, a vain or useless thing; it will not use its powers to accomplish a useless purpose, nor will it grant a decree, which does not confer a benefit, which is impractical as concerns enforcement, which is not enforceable, or which is ineffectual because compliance is impossible.

In consideration of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petition of appeal must be DISMISSED for the reasons asserted by the respondent Department of Education. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DR. THOMAS J. RUBINO, COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT, DAVID HESPE, COMMISSIONER, ELLEN SCHECHTER, ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner filed no exceptions but, rather, submitted a "Request for Motion to File an 'Amended Initial Complaint.'" In reply, the Board filed an objection to such request. Petitioner tendered a rejoinder to the Board's responsive submission.

Preliminarily, the Commissioner determines that petitioner's request to amend her pleadings, at this late stage in these proceedings, must be denied. It is noted that authorization for amendment of pleadings is derived from two specific rules, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.7 and N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2, whose respective applicability is determined by the stage of the proceedings. First, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.7 specifies:

> Prior to the transmittal of any matter to the OAL, the Commissioner may order the amendment of any petition or answer, or any petitioner may amend the petition, and any respondent may amend the answer; provided, however, that once an answer or other responsive pleading is filed, an amendment to a petition may be made only with the consent of each adverse party or by leave of the Commissioner upon written application. (emphasis supplied)

Subsequent to the transmittal of a matter to the OAL, amendment of pleadings is governed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2(a) which states:

> Unless precluded by law or constitutional principle, pleadings may be freely amended when, in the judge's discretion, an amendment would be in the interest of efficiency, expediency and the avoidance of over-technical pleading requirements and would not create undue prejudice. (emphasis supplied)

While both of these provisions clearly contemplate pleading revisions during the course of the proceedings of a contested case, there is no corresponding regulatory authority for amendment subsequent to an OAL hearing and the issuance of an Initial Decision. Even assuming, arguendo, that this absence of legal authority is not, in and of itself, dispositive, the Commissioner finds and concludes interests of efficiency, expediency and the prevention of undue prejudice preclude a process which would essentially operate as vehicle to allow unsuccessful litigants to cure deficiencies and relitigate their cases. Consequently, petitioner's request to amend her pleadings, submitted in lieu of exceptions to the Initial Decision, is hereby denied.

Turning to the substance of the matter before him here, upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that the within petitioner lacks the requisite legal standing to maintain this action.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons stated therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING :

OF MICHELE HERNANDEZ, SCHOOL :

DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, :

UNION COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Board filed tenure charges against respondent, a secretary in the Board's employ, alleging excessive absenteeism, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, abandonment of position and abuse of sick leave. An answer denying the charges was filed on behalf of respondent.

At the OAL, respondent's attorney, who had been retained by her union, sought to be relieved as counsel for respondent because, from the inception of this case, he has been unable to contact respondent or communicate with her. The motion was granted on the adjourned hearing date and, despite being forwarded notice of the hearing, respondent failed to respond or appear. The ALJ, based on the ex parte proofs submitted by the Board at the hearing, determined that the Board had sustained its charges of excessive absenteeism and incapacity, and recommended dismissal of respondent.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 50-2/01

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MICHELLE HERNANDEZ, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY

Mary E. Hennessy, Esq., for petitioner (Murray, Murray & Corrigan, attorneys)

No appearance for respondent

Record closed: July 24, 2001 Decided: August 24, 2001

Before ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Respondent, Michele Hernandez, is a tenured secretary with the petitioner Elizabeth Board of Education. On January 25, 2001, tenure charges were filed against respondent alleging excessive absenteeism, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, abandonment of position and abuse of sick leave. Petitioner certified the tenure charges on February 22, 2001 (P-4). On February 26, 2001, counsel for petitioner attempted to serve respondent with a copy of the charges, Certificate of Determination and Board Resolution by certified mail. This mailing was returned undelivered on March 7, 2001 (P-2). On March 7, 2001, counsel for petitioner served respondent with a copy of the charges, Certificate of Determination and Board Resolution via first class mail and airborne express (P-1).[1]

The New Jersey Education Association retained counsel to represent respondent in this tenure charge matter. Through the retained counsel, an answer to the charges was filed on behalf of respondent with the Commissioner of Education on March 16, 2001. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on March 27, 2001. A prehearing conference was conducted and the matter was set down for hearing for June 26 and June 27, 2001.

On May 31, 2001, Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., counsel for respondent, filed a motion to be relieved as counsel for respondent. Counsel for petitioner advised that petitioner did not oppose the motion. Respondent had not contacted Mr. Syrek by the scheduled hearing date, June 26, 2001. The hearing was adjourned in the matter to June 28, 2001. At that time, the undersigned entered an order relieving the firm of Bucceri and Pincus as counsel for respondent.

Thereafter, counsel for petitioner requested ex parte proofs be taken in the matter. Petitioner submitted documentary evidence in support of the tenure charges. The record remained open for the receipt of posthearing submissions on behalf of petitioner. Submissions were received on July 24, 2001, and the record was closed on that date.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Respondent is a tenured secretary with petitioner Elizabeth Board of Education. Petitioner hired her on September 27, 1993. Petitioner brought tenure charges against respondent on January 25, 2001. The Statement of Charges alleges that respondent is guilty of chronic and excessive absenteeism, abuse of sick leave, unbecoming conduct, incapacity to perform her duties and abandonment of her position (P-3). In support of the charges, petitioner offered documentary evidence that respondent exceeded her allotted sick time during the years 1997-1998, 1999-2000 and 2000-2001. The documents indicate that respondent had not reported to work at all since July 2000 (P-3, Exhibits A-C). While respondent had been granted a leave of absence from March 30, 1999 to May 6, 1999, she failed to return to work on May 7, 1999 (P-3, Exhibit B). She remained on unauthorized leave until March 30, 2000, at which time another leave of absence was granted from March 30, 2000 to May 5, 2000. The undersigned has gleaned from the documentary evidence that petitioner, recognizing that respondent has been encountering personal problems, has attempted to accommodate respondent by authorizing several leaves of absence. The district has a policy regarding leaves, recognizing that there are absences that are justifiable.

Again, respondent failed to report to work on May 8, 2000 and has been on unauthorized leave since May 8, 2000. The attendance records for respondent indicate that she has been absent for more than four hundred and sixty-eight days since July 1, 1997 (P-3, Exhibits A-C). An affidavit of Linda G. King, School Business Administrator for petitioner, addresses the problems that have arisen as a result of the continued absence of respondent. Other employees in the Business Office have had to perform her duties in addition to their own. This has resulted in the expenditure of funds to pay overtime to these employees (P-3, Exhibit N).

Petitioner has attempted to ascertain the intentions of respondent regarding her employment with the Board. The Board has been notified that respondent has been in treatment for substance abuse in a facility in Florida (P-3, Exhibits D, J, K, M). Despite several attempts at contacting respondent, petitioner has been unable to obtain any response (P-3, Exhibits F, G, H, I). Respondent has failed to contact her attorney at any time up to the scheduled hearing date of June 26, 2001. Although an answer was filed on behalf of respondent, that answer was authorized by and at the direction of the New Jersey Education Association. Respondent herself has not communicated with counsel at all. She has also failed to contact the school district that employs her, despite the fact that she has not reported to work since May 2000. In support of the charges against respondent, petitioner has provided a copy of the policy regarding leaves (P-3, Exhibit O).

By certification dated May 29, 2001, Mr. Syrek advised that although he has made numerous attempts to contact respondent, he has been unsuccessful in communicating directly with her (C-1).[2] All contacts were to the facility in which respondent was admitted. Mr. Syrek has been advised that respondent has since left the facility as of on or about May 9, 2001. Respondent has not contacted him at any time since that date.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the ex parte proofs taken pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(c), I make the following FINDINGS OF FACT:

1. Respondent, Michelle Hernandez, is a tenured secretary with respondent Elizabeth Board of Education.

2. Petitioner hired respondent on September 27, 1993.

3. Respondent was absent from work during the year 1997-1998 for thirty-six days.

4. Respondent was absent from work during the year 1999-2000 for one hundred ninety-eight days. Of those absences, seventeen days were on leave granted by petitioner.

5. Respondent was absent from work during the year 2000-2001 in excess of two hundred thirty-eight days. Of those absences, thirty-four days were on leave granted by petitioner.

[2] This certification is dated May 29, 2001. Although not introduced at the hearing, it is referenced in the within decision as Exhibit C-1. The information provided therein formed the basis upon which the motion to be relieved as counsel for respondent was granted. The substance of that certification was also considered in the within matter.

6. Petitioner has notified respondent on several occasions, requesting that she return to work. Specifically, notices were sent out on March 17, 2000, March 29, 2000, June 27, 2000, January 9, 2001 and January 23, 2001.

7. Respondent has been absent from her position as secretary with the Elizabeth Board of Education since March 23, 1999.

8. The continued absence of respondent has affected the operation of the Business Office of petitioner.

9. Respondent has not contacted petitioner since that date advising of her intentions about returning to work.

10. On January 25, 2001, tenure charges were filed against respondent with Linda G. King, Board Secretary/School Business Administrator for petitioner.

11. The tenure charges included chronic and excessive absenteeism, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, abandonment of position and abuse of sick leave.

12. On February 22, 2001, petitioner certified the tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education.

13. On February 26, 2001, petitioner caused a copy of the charges, Certificate of Determination and Board Resolution to be mailed to respondent by certified mail.

14. These documents were returned "undelivered" on March 7, 2001.

15. On March 7, 2001, petitioner caused a copy of the charges, Certificate of Determination and Board Resolution to be delivered to respondent via first class mail and airborne express.

16. An answer was filed with the Department of Education on behalf of respondent on March 16, 2001.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Secretaries of a board of education shall hold office under tenure upon serving full time for three consecutive years in the position. Such employees shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, et seq. See N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. In matters involving the termination of a tenured employee in the public school system in New Jersey, the provisions of *N.J.S.A.*18A:6-10 apply. That statute provides in pertinent part:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,
>
> (a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state ...
> except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

Excessive absenteeism constitutes valid grounds for dismissing a tenured teacher, even where the absences have been excused or are caused by legitimate reasons of personal illness. State-Operated School District of Jersey City v. Pellecchio, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 267, 269-270; Tenure Hearing of Lena White, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 157, 161; Tenure Hearing of Edna Booth, 1985 S.L.D. 722, 744, 760-761; Tenure Hearing of DeKrafft, supra; Tenure Hearing of Reilly, supra, 1977 S.L.D. at 413-415. Even if a teacher's performance in the classroom is sufficient and even if the absences were approved leave or sick days to which the teacher was entitled, the absences may nevertheless be considered as material to the issue and can justify removal of the teacher. Trautwein v. Board of Educ. of Bound Brook, 1980 S.L.D. 1539 (Dkt. A-2773-78, N.J. App. Div., April 8, 1980), certif. den., 84 N.J. 469 (1980); Tenure Hearing of Sheets, 1979 S.L.D. 790, 798, adopted State Bd. of Ed., 1980 S.L.D. 1536.

Relative to the foregoing, it is well settled law that a teacher's chronic and excessive absenteeism constitutes both "unbecoming conduct" and "incapacity" such as to amount to "just cause" which warrants the termination of a teacher under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jerome Kacprowicz, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 1147, 151, citing Trenton Board of Education v. Williamson, OAL DKT. EDU 7335-85 (Apr. 14, 1986), aff'd Commissioner (May 28, 1986).

Nevertheless, in order for a Board of Education to terminate a tenured employee for excessive absenteeism, the Board must demonstrate that:

> There was consideration of (1) the particular circumstances of the absences and not merely the number of absences, (2) the impact that the absences had on the continuity of instruction during the period of time the absences occurred, not merely after the fact and (3) that there be some warning given to the employee that his or her supervisors were dissatisfied with the pattern of absences.
> [In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Lena White, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 157, 161.]

The point at which the absenteeism is judged to be excessive falls within the reasonable judgment and discretion of the local school district. Trautwein v. Board of Educ. of Bound Brook, supra. In sum, excessive or chronic absenteeism of a tenured employee, even if related to legitimate medical or health problems, has been held to constitute "incapacity," "unbecoming conduct," and/or "just cause" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, so as to warrant dismissal from employment.

While most tenure cases involve the dismissal of tenured teachers, the evaluation of cause must certainly apply to tenured secretaries as well. In one case, a tenured clerk could not have been said to have abandoned her position, having maintained contact while her doctor informed the board that she was disabled. However, it could be said that she was unable to perform, thus supporting her dismissal from her tenured position due to incapacity. In Matter of Tenure Hearing of Stanley, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 495 (1995).

CONCLUSIONS

This matter has developed a unique posture for tenure hearings. Generally, when a respondent fails to answer a charge, there is little but the formality of the statute to unfold. However, when an answer is filed on behalf of a respondent who might not have answered upon her own initiative, the process becomes more than mere formality. Procedural guidelines must be followed. In that regard, I have concluded that notice was sufficient in the instant matter. In addition to notices being served on the then attorney of record, copies of all appropriate notices were served on respondent at her last known residence. As such, I further concluded that the submission of proofs ex parte was also appropriate under the circumstances. From the facts adduced from the evidence before me, it is abundantly clear that petitioner has sustained its burden in establishing just cause to sustain the dismissal of respondent due to excessive absenteeism and incapacity, and I so CONCLUDE. Not even the tenure laws can countenance the excessive and continual absences from work exhibited by respondent.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that respondent, Michelle Hernandez, be DISMISSED as a tenured employee of petitioner, School District of the City of Elizabeth.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions.

Upon his full and independent review the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge that, under the circumstances here, ex parte submissions of proofs were appropriate and such proofs satisfy the Board's burden of establishing its charges of excessive absenteeism and incapacity against respondent, necessitating her dismissal from her tenured position.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons stated therein. Respondent Michele Hernandez is terminated from her tenured secretarial position with the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth as of the date of this decision.

RE: D.P. o/b/o D.P. v. BOE of Township of Willingboro
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6503-01

Dear Ms. Prince & Mr. Ross:

This will confirm, pursuant to our conversation on the record yesterday, that petitioner's motion for a stay of the continuing suspension pending a determination on the merits is DENIED as moot; D.P. will have served the entire suspension in issue by the close of school on Thursday, October 11, 2001, and no meaningful order could be entered before that time since my decision on the motion is required to be submitted to the Commissioner of Education for review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 and accordingly, no final decision on the motion could be rendered before the close of school on October 11, 2001. This will also confirm that respondent is ORDERED to file an answer to the petition of appeal on or before October 19, 2001. The answer should specify exactly what actions the respondent asserts it has taken with respect to disciplining D.P., since it was not at all clear to me from yesterday's discussions exactly what sanctions had been imposed for what conduct or when and how petitioner was notified of respondent's determinations. Specifically, the documents given to me by petitioner yesterday reflect a letter dated September 12, 2001, providing in pertinent part:

> Your son/daughter has been SUSPENDED from school as a result of the infraction detailed on the enclosed form. The dates of the suspension are #32 Administrative Leave 9/11-9/12/01.

and another letter dated 10-2-01, providing:

> Your son/daughter has been SUSPENDED from school as a result of the infraction detailed on the enclosed form. The dates of the suspension are 9/27-10/11/01 #2 Open Defiance, #20 Abusive Language first and second offense, #14 MAJOR Classroom Disruption. Out of School Suspension.

There are no other particulars described on the forms attached to either letter.
When I specifically asked respondent's counsel on the record yesterday for a citation for what seemed to be the respondent's position that D.P. was now also precluded from attending extra-curricular activities, the only response I got was "past practice." I see from reading the copy of the Secondary Discipline Policy handbook, given to me by petitioner, that Section III B, provides:

> After the accumulation of 10 discipline points, in grades 9 through 12, students will no longer have the privilege of participating in inter-scholastic athletics, or in other extra-curricular activities including grade level class trips, proms, dances, plays, clubs, games, and other social activities.

Does respondent assert that D.P. has accumulated 10 or more discipline points? If so, respondent's answer should set forth the basis for the calculation. I have scheduled the plenary hearing in this matter for Monday, November 26, 2001. At that time we will address the issue of whether respondent's actions disciplining D.P. were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, and, if so, what relief should be granted. The burden of proving by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that the respondent acted arbitrarily is upon petitioner; however, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.7(l), I am ordering respondent to proceed first. Petitioner's witnesses will testify following respondent's. Please bring an original and two copies of any document you intend to offer into evidence.

Finally, I am enclosing for both parties copies of N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 and 6A:3-1.6, governing the filing and processing of applications for temporary emergent relief. If there are further applications for such temporary emergent relief, I expect to see affidavits from both sides setting forth the alleged facts. In general, such motions are decided on the basis of affidavits and oral argument. I may (or may not) permit limited supplemental testimony, but you should not expect to conduct a full-blown hearing on the return date for such a motion. Please remember to send a copy of all papers filed to your adversary and always show that the copy was so served on the face of the document.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If (title of agency head) does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The Letter Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in this emergent matter has been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief as he concurs with the ALJ's determination that because D.P. will have served the entire suspension imposed by the Board by the close of school on Thursday, October 11, 2001, no meaningful order could be entered at this point in time.

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is denied. Respondent is hereby directed to file an Answer to the Petition of Appeal with the Office of Administrative Law on or before October 19, 2001 as directed by the ALJ, and this matter shall move to plenary hearing on its merits, scheduled for November 26, 2001.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's residency determination. Petitioner failed to attend the administrative hearing.

In light of the fact that petitioner abandoned his case, the ALJ dismissed the petition and ordered payment of tuition.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's decision with regard to the residency determination. However, after requesting and receiving specific information from the Board setting forth the amount of tuition owed, the Commissioner received a letter from an attorney acting on behalf of petitioner contesting the calculation of the amount of tuition owed by petitioner. As such, the Commissioner remanded the case to OAL for proceedings solely to determine the amount of tuition owed by petitioner to the Board.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5172-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 104-4/01

E.M.M.A., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, M.A. AND H.A.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,

Respondent.

No Appearance for or on behalf of petitioner

Joseph M. Wenzel, Esq., for respondent (McCormack & Matthews, P.C.)

Record Closed: August 22, 2001 Decided: August 28, 2001

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This "residency" appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education on June 7, 2001 following the filing of a pro se petition by E.M.M.A., the father of two elementary age school children, M.A. and H.A., asking that they be permitted to attend the Union Township public schools gratis. In his petition the father claimed his address to be 2735 Route 22 West, #308, Union, New Jersey. He explained that his family is here from the Sudan and since one of his sons has a medical condition which was being treated at Children's Specialized Hospital, temporarily he has moved to a hotel in Union Township to be close to him. In that petition E.M.M.A.

acknowledged that if the Commissioner determined his children not to be eligible for a free education in the district, or finds that he has abandoned or withdrawn his appeal, tuition costs may be assessed against him for the period of his children's ineligible attendance.

The Board filed an answer denying eligibility, and, by way of counterclaim, sought reimbursement equal to 1/180th of the total annual per pupil cost multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance by the two students. See, N.J.A.C. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

A hearing in connection with the residency appeal was scheduled for August 22, 2001 and notices to that effect were sent to the parties, including E.M.M.A. at the Route 22 address provided by him in his petition. When the hearing was convened at 9:55 a.m. on that date the only one who appeared was the attorney for the Board, Mr. Wenzel. E.M.M.A. did not appear nor was any communication received from him, either orally or in writing, at any time indicating his intended non-appearance.

As a result of petitioner's non-appearance, Board counsel moved to dismiss the petition on the basis that E.M.M.A. had abandoned and/or withdrawn it. To that end, he pointed out that efforts had been made over the last few months to contact the father, without avail. These included sending letters both by certified and regular mail to the Route 22 address, and making telephone calls there. The letters were returned unclaimed (moved left no address) and the telephone number, when called, resulted in a message that it had been disconnected with no forwarding number given.

The file also contains two appointment forms for consultations at Children's Specialized Hospital for M.A. Those forms (Exs. R-1,R-2) indicate that the address for the children was at 10 Hill Street, Apartment 2H, Newark, New Jersey 07102. Counsel for the Board further represented that he had sent the answer by both regular and certified mail to the that Newark address and no response was given although someone signed for them on petitioner's behalf. Counsel also sent interrogatories by regular mail both to the Union and Newark addresses. The Union envelope was returned unclaimed and the Newark envelope was never returned although presumably it was received.

Given all of the circumstances it is clear that petitioner has determined to abandon his appeal. Based, as well, on the evidence that I do have, it seems that the likelihood of his succeeding had he even come to the OAL hearing was rather slim. All of that evidence points to the conclusion that this family likely is or was residing in Newark and the only connection with Union is the fact that the father might have stayed for a period of time during April at a hotel on Route 22. Although I make no finding with respect thereto, it does appear to me that if formal proofs were presented that would have been the conclusion to be drawn.

In light of the fact that petitioner must be deemed to have abandoned his case, I also recommend that the Board's counter-claim for tuition reimbursement be granted. Counsel did not have specific information but believed that the two children attended public school for nearly all of the 2000-2001 school year in Union. From a practical standpoint, collection of any tuition reimbursement is quite problematic. However, both the statute and the petition of appeal, itself, contain a basis for a tuition reimbursement recovery should the Board be inclined to pursue.

I hereby FILE this initial decision ORDERING DISMISSAL with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions to the Initial Decision were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. In its submission the Board indicates it is inclined to pursue its counterclaim for tuition against petitioner; thus, while it urges affirmance of the Initial Decision, the Board also requests remand of the matter to the OAL for hearing on the calculation of tuition. On September 18, 2001, the Board was instructed to submit to the Commissioner, within five (5) days, the information for the calculation of tuition required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1(d) for each of petitioner's children; i.e., the rate(s) of tuition for the year(s) at issue, the per diem rate(s) for same, the date the ineligible attendance began, and the number of days of ineligible attendance at issue for each child.

On September 24, 2001, the Board submitted a certification by the Board Attorney which provided information to calculate the tuition owed for the period of ineligible attendance in the Union Township Schools by petitioner's children, one who, the Board reports, attended kindergarten and one who attended grade 4 from April 23 – May 29, 2001. At the per diem rate of $32.70 for kindergarten and $39.50 for grade 4, the Board calculates tuition owed to be $1,949.40.

On October 9, 2001, a letter from Abdul Majid Hasan, Esq. was filed on petitioner's behalf in response to the Board's information regarding calculation of tuition. The letter avers, inter alia, that:

> 1. Petitioner initially enrolled his children in the Union Township Schools on April 30, 2001;
>
> 2. The children were in kindergarten and first grade, not kindergarten and fourth grade;
>
> 3. The children's last day of attendance was May 9, 2001. Petitioner recalls the date because, in light of the controversy surrounding their attendance at school, he declined the advice of the school's principal to leave the children in school to the end of that week;
>
> 4. Petitioner lived at the Best Inn Hotel in Union from May 5, 2001 through May 13, 2001; thereafter, living with a friend at 901 Chestnut Road in Union; and
> 5. On or about May 14, 2001, petitioner moved from Union, New Jersey to New York where he could get appropriate medical care for his son. (Hasan letter, dated October 5, 2001)

Upon review of the record in this matter[1], the Commissioner is compelled to agree with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner abandoned or withdrew his appeal when he failed to appear at the OAL hearing. Consequently, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, except as it pertains to the Board's counterclaim for tuition.

However, review of the parties' submissions in response to the Initial Decision clearly indicates that a factual dispute exists regarding the dates of the children's attendance in [1] Upon review of the record, the Commissioner notes that the letter of ineligibility for attendance at school in Union Township sent to petitioner by respondent references the children's visa/immigration status. The Commissioner wishes to caution the Union Township Board of Education, and other boards of education as well, that the visa/immigration status of a student seeking admission to school may not be considered in making eligibility determinations pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1.

the Union Township Public Schools and the grade placement of one of petitioner's children. Therefore, calculation of tuition owed by petitioner cannot be effectuated based on the record currently before the Commissioner. Consequently, the matter must be remanded to the OAL for further proceedings as necessary to yield an accurate calculation of tuition owed. Such calculation should consider, among other evidence, school register data which documents the daily attendance of a pupil in a given school by grade pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.1 et seq.

Accordingly, the matter is hereby remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for the sole purpose of conducting further proceedings, as may be necessary, to calculate the tuition owed by petitioner to the Board for the period of ineligible attendance of his children during the 2000-2001 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

RESPONDENT-CROSS PETITIONER.	:

For Petitioner: Dennis M. DeSantis, Esq. (Destribats, Campbell, DeSantis, Magee & O'Donnell)

For Respondent: David W. Carroll, Esq. (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, P.A.)

The Board of Education of the Township of Washington having applied, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1, to the Commissioner of Education for a change of designation of the receiving district for its high school pupils, heretofore designated to attend the Lawrence Township High School in respondent's district, to attend a high school to be established in petitioner's proposed K-12 district; and

The Board of Education of the Township of Washington having further requested that severance be made contingent on its receipt of approval of the voters of the Township of Washington of the necessary local support for the construction of a high school; and

The Board of Education of the Lawrence Township School District having joined with petitioner in requesting a termination of the sending-receiving relationship between itself and petitioner; and

The Board of Education of Lawrence Township having further requested that severance be granted without the contingency that the voters of Washington Township approve the necessary local support for the construction of a high school, based on the Board's assertion that such funding may be approved by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-12; and

Petitioner having conducted a feasibility study in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1; and

Petitioner and respondent having further stipulated to certain facts, including facts reflected in the feasibility study, setting forth that no substantial educational, financial or racial impact will inure to either school district upon severance of the sending receiving relationship; and

The feasibility study having established to the Commissioner's satisfaction that the withdrawal of the Washington Township students from the Lawrence Township High School would cause no substantial negative impact on the educational program of the Lawrence Township High School or on the quality of education received by the pupils in each of the districts; and

The feasibility study having further established to the Commissioner's satisfaction that there will be no substantial negative impact on the financial conditions of petitioner and respondent; and

The feasibility study having further established to the Commissioner's satisfaction that said withdrawal will have no substantial impact on the racial composition of either the proposed high school or the Lawrence Township High School; and

The Commissioner having reviewed and considered the public comments, filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1, for and against severance of the sending receiving relationship between the Boards when assessing the educational, financial and racial impact on each district, and having determined that the public comments do not reveal that a substantial financial, educational or racial impact will inure to either district; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED, on this 17th day of October 2001 that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1, the application of the Board of Education of the Township of Washington for severance of its sending-receiving relationship with the Lawrence Township School District beginning in September 2004, and as set forth in paragraph 12 of the petition of appeal, is APPROVED, said severance not to take effect, however, unless and until such time as the Board has received all necessary approvals and constructed its own high school, and, in the opinion of the Mercer County Superintendent of Schools, is actually able to provide programs and facilities for its high school students as anticipated in the feasibility study and petition of appeal; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that, upon review of the cross petition filed by the Lawrence Township Board of Education seeking unconditional termination of the sending receiving relationship between the Boards, and consideration of the parties' suggestion in their Consent Case Management Order to bifurcate this matter in order to first address the petition, while holding open the cross petition for consideration if voter approval for funding of a high school is not obtained by petitioner by December 11, 2001, the Commissioner, having determined that the cross petition is premature at this juncture, hereby DISMISSES THE CROSS PETITION WITHOUT PREJUDICE to the Board filing a petition in the future should any condition to severance ordered above not occur.

William S. Donio, Esq., for respondent (Donio, Bertmanm & Donio, attorney)

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

The parents of twin fourth graders, a boy and a girl, filed a petition and a request for emergent relief seeking to change the classroom assignment of their children in the Linwood public school. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contest the case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

The petitioners allege that their children, and in particular their daughter, are placed in a classroom setting which has interrupted their education and caused emotional and physical distress to their daughter. The evidence adduced by the parents was anecdotal and insufficient to overcome the presumption that the Board acted in good faith. K.L.L. 92 NJAR 2d 650. The Superintendent appeared by way of affidavit and described the process by which the Board groups its pupils. It did not appear to be an arbitrary or capricious scheme.

Nevertheless, the parents' allegations, especially those which indicate that their daughter suffers daily migraines and other illnesses as a result of her classroom placement, are sufficient to warrant an early return date. Accordingly I DENY the parents' request for emergent relief, and I ORDER that the matter be set down for a plenary hearing on Friday, the 19th day of October, 2001, at 9 a.m. at the Office of Administrative Law, 1201 Bacharach Boulevard, Atlantic City, New Jersey.

The parties are instructed to provide each other with all materials intended to be presented at the hearing and to comply with the rules for discovery at N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1.

The record of this emergent matter, which includes the audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief as he concurs with the ALJ's hearing determination that petitioners have not satisfied the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter shall move to hearing on its merits, scheduled for October 19, 2001, as directed by the ALJ.

FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7831-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 365-9/01

A.M. AND S.M. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, M.M., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF LIVINGSTON TOWNSHIP, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

David B. Rubin, Esq., and Joseph D. Pope, Esq., for petitioners

James J. Rothschild, Jr., Esq., for respondent
(Weiner, Hoenig, Scherer, Skyland & Perrotti, attorneys)

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

A.M. and S.M. filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking relief in regard to the expulsion of their son, M.M., by the Livingston Township Board of Education (respondent). In conjunction with the petition, petitioners filed a motion for emergent relief.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 21, 2001, for determination as a contested case. Oral argument in regard to the motion for emergent relief was conducted on September 26, 2001.

As set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), the factors to consider in regard to an application for emergent relief are as follows:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The first consideration is whether petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted. Here, respondent has offered M.M. placement in three other educational institutions including the Interim Alternative Educational Program, the Milton School and Essex High School. In addition, M.M. may apply on or after May 15, 2002, for readmission to Livingston High School for the 2002-2003 academic year. While it is understandable that M.M. and his parents would prefer their local high school, which may well be the better educational institution, it is unlikely that the alternative placement will cause M.M. irreparable harm.

The second consideration is whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled. It is undisputed that a board of education may not engage in arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable action.

The third consideration is whether petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. The facts in this matter are reasonably clear. M.M. brought homemade explosive devices to school on four occasions. Respondent characterizes the devices as bombs, while petitioners describes them as homemade firecrackers. The devices consisted of CO_2 cartridges, which are approximately three inches in length and a half inch in diameter, filled with powered model rocket fuel, which was to be ignited by a fuse. On the second and third occasions, M.M. attached brads, which are small nails, to the outside of the CO_2 cartridges.

On a weekend in January 2001, M.M. placed the CO_2 cartridge on the back of a vending machine which stood next to an exterior wall of the Mount Pleasant Middle School and lit the fuse. M.M. and others ran around the corner of the school building and heard the device go off. The damage to the vending machine was very limited and evidently went unnoticed at the time. No one else was present in the area.

On a Thursday evening in that same timeframe, M.M. was attending a concert at the school. M.M. went outside with a device and met some friends. M.M. placed the device in the chute for soda cans and lit the fuse. M.M. and the others again ran around the corner of the school building for their own protection and heard the device go off. Any damage to the vending machine again went unnoticed.

On a Saturday afternoon, M.M. returned to the same location and placed the device on the front of the vending machine. M.M. lit the fuse, and he and others ran around the corner of the school building. From that location, they heard the device go off. No one else was in the area, and any damage to the vending machine evidently went unnoticed once again.

On Saturday, February 17, 2001, M.M. and a friend entered the school through an open window. M.M. had another $C0_2$ cartridge taped to his leg and an M&M (the candy) tube containing a used road flair. M.M. and the friend broke into an office and took a set of keys. However, they decided to leave the school without doing any damage or utilizing or placing an explosive device. While in the school, M.M. and his friend set off a silent alarm. When they exited the school through the window, the police apprehended them.

In regard to the explosive devices, their destructive capacity is not clearly established because they were homemade. However, it is known that they did not seriously damage the vending machine. On the other hand, the description of the devices and the fact that M.M. ran around the corner of the school building after lighting the fuse suggest that the devices were capable of causing personal injury. It is also noteworthy that M.M. took each device to the school. If he had simply wanted to satisfy his curiosity, he could have exploded the devices in an open field.

On February 18, 2001, M.M. was detained at the Essex County Youth Detention Center, where he remained for approximately forty days. Due to M.M.'s small stature and the threats posed by other youths, M.M. had to be placed in protective custody, which consisted of solitary confinement in a cell. On April 3, 2001, M.M. pled guilty to three violations of the New Jersey Criminal Code in regard to the incident on February 17, 2001, and another three counts in regard to the soda machine. As a result, M.M. was adjudicated a delinquent. Shortly thereafter, M.M. was released from the Essex County Youth Detention Center, but he was confined to his home with an ankle bracelet. There were very strict terms including restrictions on contacts with minors. On June 2, 2001, M.M. was permitted to go out in his backyard, and on June 27, 2001, he was allowed to remove the ankle bracelet. In August 2001, M.M. was allowed to attend summer camp in New England. On August 15, 2001, a Superior Court judge placed M.M. on closely-supervised probation known as the Juvenile Intensive Supervision Program.

On September 10, 2001, respondent conducted a hearing to determine whether M.M. should be expelled from school. The determination was to expel M.M. on terms set forth above.

Respondent has a policy, designated Policy #5114, concerning suspensions and expulsions. In accordance with Policy #5114, a student may be suspended or expelled for disruptive behavior including: "F. Willfully causing or attempting to cause substantial damage to school property; ... L. Use or possession of unsafe or illegal articles ...." Policy #5114 further states: "The Board will consider expulsion only if: ...B. The nature of a single act presents such a clear possibility of danger to others that immediate definitive action is indicated."

Petitioners attempt to minimize the danger by describing the devices as homemade firecrackers. In addition, petitioners point to the fact that the expulsion hearing was not held until six months after the incidents as indication that there was no immediate danger. Further, petitioners rely on expert opinions to the effect that M.M. is not a danger to others.

Petitioners' arguments are unpersuasive. As noted above, indications are that the devices had the capacity to cause personal injury and were both unsafe and illegal. Petitioners' argument concerning the date of the expulsion hearing disregards two important facts. First, M.M. was suspended immediately after the incident on February 17, 2001, and did not return to school during the interim. Second, the expulsion hearing was adjourned several times at petitioners' request, while criminal proceedings against M.M., who was a fourteen-year-old juvenile, ran their course. In regard to the expert opinion that M.M. is not a danger to others, it appears that the Superior Court judge did not accept this view for the disposition of M.M.'s case.

The parties have cited a variety of expulsion cases, but none is very similar to this matter. Respondent's citation to cases involving bomb threats provides the best guidance. Bomb threats have been found to be grounds for expulsion. This indicates that an expulsion under the circumstances of this case is not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Under the circumstances and in view of the facts as set forth above, petitioners have not established that they have a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim.

In regard to the equities and the interests of the parties, it is evident that M.M. has brought this situation on himself through his own serious misconduct. On the other hand, respondent has to be concerned about the safety of the students and others in the schools. Therefore, the equities of the situation clearly favor respondent.

In view of the above, I CONCLUDE that emergent relief is not warranted in this case. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the motion for emergent relief is denied.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 11, 2001, petitioners D.M., P.D., D.H., and A.P. filed an application for emergent relief with the State Department of Education (DOE) pertinent to action taken by respondents affecting petitioners' respective minor children. The DOE transmitted that matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 12, 2001 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. It was docketed as EDU 7677-01. On September 13, 2001, petitioners S.K.P. and P.P. filed a petition for emergent relief with the DOE, also seeking relief pertinent to action taken by the Northern Highlands Regional School District (District) relative to their respective minor children. The DOE transmitted that matter to the OAL on September 17, 2001 for determination as a contested case, and it was docketed as EDU 7708-01.

Petitioners initially filed briefs and certifications in support of their motions, and respondents filed a brief and certification in response to the petitions on September 18, 2001. Petitioners D.M., P.D., D.H., and A.P. filed additional certifications on September 19, 2001. Oral argument was conducted on the latter date, and the parties were given the opportunity to file additional legal references, as well as additional documents, in support of their positions. The parties subsequently filed additional documents.

NATURE OF THE CASE

The minors in question are all seniors at the District's high school (High School) and, it is reasonable to expect, would have been on the High School's girls' varsity field hockey team during the current school year. Try-outs were conducted during the summer of 2001, and the season commenced in September. By letter dated September 4, 2001, John J. Keenan (Keenan), Principal of the High School, advised petitioners that their respective children were suspended from the field hockey team and prohibited from serving as captains for any other athletic team. Petitioners seek emergent relief, reinstatement to the girls' varsity field hockey team, pending a plenary hearing. Respondents oppose granting emergent relief.

FACTS

Petitioners in OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7677-01 filed certifications of P.D., D.H., and A.P. Respondents filed a certification of Keenan. Based upon a review of the motion papers, including the certifications, as well as the information conveyed during oral argument, it is clear that many of the pertinent facts are not materially in dispute at this time.

The District's constituent municipalities are Allendale and Upper Saddle River. Petitioners are seniors at the High School. Prior to the 2001-2002 school year, the school had three girls' field hockey teams, freshman, junior varsity (JV), and varsity teams. It is reasonable to anticipate that the High School would have had freshmen, JV, and varsity teams during the current school year. Petitioners were all members of the varsity team during prior school years, and, consistent with respondent's practice that seniors who previously were on the varsity team would not be "cut," it is reasonable to anticipate that they would have been on the varsity team during the current school year. There are usually three captains for the teams. It is reasonable to expect that K.K. and P.P. would have been captains.

Petitioners attended a field hockey camp, the East Coast Field Hockey Camp (Hockey Camp), in Estella, Pennsylvania, from on or about July 30, 2001 through August 3, 2001. Students at the High School who would be sophomores during the current school year also attended. A total of 14 incoming seniors and 11 incoming sophomores attended the Camp. Approximately a total of 300 individuals were at the Hockey Camp at the time in question. The Hockey Camp was not affiliated with the High School and was not a school-sponsored activity. Petitioners apparently paid the Camp fee directly to the Camp, and permission slips for attendance were not required by the High School. Katherine Ohnegian (Ohnegian), the girls' field hockey coach, had "some involvement" with planning the trip. It was not, however, an "officially sanctioned" District trip. (Keenan's Certification, par. 5.) No coaches or staff from the High School, nor high school coaches from any other schools, attended. Ohnegian apparently collected money for transportation costs from students. Petitioners, as well as other students from the High School, traveled to the Hockey Camp via bus, a three-hour ride each way.

Keenan certified that on Wednesday, August 29, 2001, administrative personnel began to "hear rumors of improper activities" which had occurred at the camp. A field hockey player "confirmed" to Herb Cohen (Cohen), the High School's Athletic Director, on that date, the details, and personnel thereafter commenced a "preliminary" investigation. (Id. at para. 2.) Respondent's personnel received additional "direct information" regarding the matter during the afternoon of August 30, 2001, and Keenan met with Cohen, Vice Principals Joseph Occhino and Frank DeLuise, and Ohnegian during the evening of August 31, 2001, a Friday, regarding the matter. The allegations were that the "seniors" on the field hockey team had engaged in "harassment of a hazing nature" of the incoming sophomores on the team at the Hockey Camp. (Id. at par. 3.)

Keenan additionally certified that on September 1, 2001, members of the "Northern Highlands Administrative team" interviewed all but two of the fourteen seniors, in the presence of their parents, who were on the field hockey team, as well as eight of the eleven sophomores who had attended the Hockey Camp, also in the presence of their parents. (Id. at par. 4.) Two seniors, including K.K., were not interviewed because their parents were on vacation and unavailable to attend the interview. Those seniors were told that they should have their parents contact the "Administration" as soon as they returned from vacation, and messages were also left on the answering machines of the parents of the two seniors in question, to the effect that they were to contact the school as soon as possible so that interviews could be conducted. None of the parents ever contacted the "Administration". (Ibid.)

Keenan also certified that after conducting the interviews on September 1, 2001, High School personnel reached several conclusions. These were that the seniors who had engaged in "hazing" spent approximately $300 on 'hazing' equipment prior to the trip to the Hockey Camp (Id. at para. 5b), and that certain "hazing" activities had been engaged in by the incoming seniors, directed at the incoming sophomores, during the bus trips to and from the Hockey Camp, and also at the Camp, as set forth in paragraphs 5e through 5q of Keenan's Certification. A copy of that portion of the Certification is attached herewith as Appendix A for convenience. Respondent's personnel additionally concluded that many of the "events" were videotaped by the seniors and that the videotape was circulated and viewed by both parents and students.

Based upon the information presented by respondents' counsel during oral argument, High School personnel apparently subsequently unsuccessfully attempted to obtain, or view, any such videotape. In addition, personnel also concluded that at least one sophomore became "physically ill" during the bus ride to the Hockey Camp, as a result of the alleged treatment, requiring the bus to stop; that the seniors were "warned by the adults" operating the Hockey Camp on three separate occasions against engaging in "hazing" and that "hazing" is illegal in Pennsylvania; that the "Camp "officials" "threatened" to send the girls home because of their "hazing conduct"; and that "[M]ost of the sophomores were "clearly traumatized" by the incidents in question, and "[M]any of the sophomores and/or their parents expressed a "reluctance or even total inability" for the sophomores to continue playing on the same team as the seniors, (Id. at par. 5(r) & (s), and that the seniors' "hazing conduct" continued after the students returned from the Hockey Camp, for example, the seniors "compelled" several freshman field hockey players to "lick chocolate syrup off the chests of male athletes", and seniors made "threatening speeches" to freshmen and sophomore players, warning of "dire consequences" if the latter "said anything about these actions", specifically, that the seniors would make their "lives" 'a living hell' (Id. at pars. 5-7).

Keenan additionally certified that the sophomores informed personnel that "all the senior field hockey players were involved, to some degree", in the pertinent activities and that the seniors interviewed "for the most part confirmed the activities and the existence of the videotape, although many denied that they were direct participants." (Id. a par. 8.) The "Administration" does not know "precisely which seniors did what in terms of the hazing," but concluded that all of the seniors participated, to some degree, in the activities in question. Apparently, none of the seniors reported the incidents alleged and/or attempted to "prevent or halt the circulation of the videotape in the community." Respondent's personnel also apparently concluded that "many of the seniors falsely denied any participation in these activities despite the unanimity of the sophomores as to the involvement of the seniors and that some of the seniors falsely denied that any of these activities occurred, even when they were questioned about specific activities. (Id. at para. 9.) High School personnel determined that "[P]ending the completion of the Administration's investigation," all senior field hockey players should be suspended indefinitely from the field hockey team. (Id. at para. 10.)

A meeting was conducted at the High School during the evening, on September 4, 2001, to which the "District" had "invited each and every senior player and their parents". (Id. at par. 10.) Apparently, each of the players attended, with at least one parent. Keenan certified that he addressed, in detail, the facts, as viewed by the High School, and distributed an identical letter to all of the girls' parents, advising that all senior field hockey players were suspended permanently for the Fall 2001 season and that they were prohibited from serving as captains for any other athletic team. For convenience, a copy of that form letter is attached herewith as Appendix B.

Keenan certified that personnel determined to impose the same penalty on each senior because they concluded that each had participated in the "hazing activities"; the District received no "exculpatory evidence" from the seniors, or any other source, including, but not limited to, the sophomores; and that personnel had requested that the seniors and/or their parents provide the District with a copy of the videotape in question, and that although the District has information "that the videotape has not been destroyed," none of the seniors, nor their parents, produced the tape. In that respect, Keenan stated in his Certification: " . . . I note from a review of the Petitioners' pleadings that none of the four juvenile appellants deny any of the allegations concerning the above-described conduct." (Id. at Para. 11.)

As a result of the suspension of the seniors from the hockey team, the High School has two girls' field hockey teams for the current school year, freshman and varsity teams. The varsity team apparently includes sophomores, although the exact make-ups of the teams are not clear. Apparently, the regular season is scheduled to end in mid-or late October. Previously, there were no sophomores or freshmen on the varsity team.

K.P. stated, in part, in her Certification that she first became aware of any problems related to the Hockey Camp at approximately 8:15 a.m. on September 1, 2001, at which time she was contacted by Cohen, who informed her that there were 'serious allegations' and that her daughter would be interviewed at 9:15 a.m. K.P. went to the High School, arriving at approximately 9:00 a.m. and went to the library, where other parents and two senior girls were present. K.P. also certified that she was not allowed to talk to the parents or her daughter prior to her interview. However, she attended an interview with her daughter, Keenan, and DeLuise. K.P. additionally certified that she asked Keenan for the basis for his authority to conduct the interview and that he did not provide such; that Keenan asked D.P. questions regarding incidents alleged to have taken place at the Camp and on the buses; that all the questions were "vague" and did not request "specific information" about K.P.'s participation in any of the activities; that he did not ask for the names of those who did participate; and that after the interview was concluded, she was told to leave the building and not talk to the other students or their parents. (K.P.'s Certification, pars. 3-5.) K.P. additionally certified that the following Monday, she was contacted by the varsity field hockey coach in the afternoon and told that Tuesday's practice was canceled and a meeting was scheduled on Tuesday evening; she attended that meeting, but there was no "discussion", only a recitation of 'allegations' by Keenan, who announced that all the senior girls had been suspended from the team and were banned from holding any captain position in any other sport for the remainder of the year; K.P. received a copy of Keenan's September 4, 2001 letter; and D.P. was never advised of any specific allegations of wrongdoing against individual students. (Id. at par. 7-9.)

The High School Student-Parent Handbook (Handbook) includes a list of offenses/violations and specified disciplinary actions. Pertinent to "Harassment," discipline for a first offense includes one to three days' suspension, referral to the "Affirmative Action Officer", peer mediation, and a parent conference; for a second offense, three to five days' suspension, referral to the Affirmative Action Officer, peer mediation, and a parent conference; and for a third offense, five days' suspension, a principal's "hearing", and referral to the Affirmative Action Officer. For "Pranks or Prankish Behavior", the disciplinary action is at the discretion of the Administration. The Handbook, pertinent to harassment, references materials on 'sexual harassment'. (Handbook, p. 12.) The Handbook also contains a listing of a "Continuum of Unwanted Sexual and Gender-directed Behavior Patterns". (Id. at 18.)

The Handbook also sets forth the "EXPECTATIONS FOR STUDENT ATHLETES" (Expectations), which state, in part, that except for "extraordinary or extenuating circumstances", the coaching staff has certain specified expectations of "youngsters" who are candidates for an interscholastic sport, including comporting themselves in a manner reflecting "positively" on their family, team, school and themselves. (Id. at 36). The Expectations also state the following:

> Please be advised that coaches will handle athletes who do not live up to expectations on an individual basis and that part of the disciplinary process may result in one or more of the following: The loss of captainship, the loss of a varsity letter, probation or dismissal from an athletic team. Such actions will be reviewed by the Athletic Director before implementation. (Ibid.)

The Handbook generally provides that students are expected to exercise "self-discipline" and to behave in a mature, courteous, and responsible manner at all times and that improper behavior will result in disciplinary action, including, but not limited to, removal or exclusion from participation in student activities. Examples of unacceptable behavior include "disrespectful actions, including harassment, discourtesy, and the use of inappropriate language and gestures directed toward staff or students", "threats, in any form, to harm people or damage property", "disobedience, insubordination, or the use of profanity or abusive language", "pranks, in any form, at any time, and for any purpose", and "demonstrating any other behavior or possessing any item which does or could endanger the health, safety, or welfare of any members of the school community". (Id. at 8.)

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals between the ages of 5 and 25 years, in certain circumstances. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Where the subject matter of a contested case controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education, or any other parties subject to the Commissioner's jurisdiction, a petitioner may include, by way of separate motion, an application for emergent relief or a stay of the action in question, pending the Commissioner's final decision in the case. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). A motion for a stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief addressing certain specified standards, to be met for granting such relief. Those standards are as follows:

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
>
> 4. Balancing the equities and interests of the parties, petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent if the requested relief is not granted.
>
> (Id. at § b) (emphasis added)

IRREPARABLE HARM

Counsel for petitioners argued, at oral argument, that petitioners, who apparently intend to attend college subsequent to their graduations, would be irreparably harmed if emergent relief is not granted, in part, because they will not be able to include information regarding participation on the varsity field hockey team, their status as captains, if applicable, possible participation in play-off games after the regular season is over, and, at least in some cases, in relation to applications for sports scholarships. D.M., P.D., D.H., A.P. and K.P. all certified that their children would be harmed if not permitted to play field hockey during the current school year because they would lose their rights to compete, would not "qualify" for "All League, All County, and All State honors", and their children's ability to compete for scholarships would be eliminated. (Certifications, par. 3.) Respondents argue that petitioners have not demonstrated that they have, or will, suffer legally cognizable irreparable harm if emergent relief is not granted.

As petitioners S.K.P. and P.P. note, the Commissioner has long recognized the value to students of participation in extra-curricular activities, also referenced as co-curricular activities, in general. Smith v. The Paramus BOE, 1968 S.L.D. 62, 64-65. The Commissioner has also noted the importance of interscholastic sports, specifically, to students. BOE of the City of Camden v. N.J. State Interscholastic Athletic Association, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 189 (Camden BOE).

However, as respondents argue, the Commissioner has also repeatedly held that students do not suffer irreparable harm if they are prohibited from participating in extra-curricular activities, including sports activities. BOE of the City of Trenton v. N.J.S.I.A.A., 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 158 (Trenton BOE), Camden BOE, supra, Elmwood Park BOE v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 106 (Elmwood Park BOE), W.M.B. v. Woodbury District Board of Education, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 695 (1996) (Woodbury BOE). The Commissioner has "long held", for example, that a prohibition on attending a senior prom does not constitute irreparable harm. Woodbury BOE, supra at 696. The "extraordinary remedy" of a stay has not been granted in the context of sports activities, in light of the principle that "participation in sports is a privilege not a right." Trenton BOE, supra at 160 (citations omitted). See also, Camden BOE.

In addition, although petitioners may not be able to play on the varsity team, the Certifications of petitioners regarding the argued effects of non-participation are conclusionary in nature, and speculative. Petitioners, for example, do not address the specific goals and needs of their children, any information regarding a particular college's admission procedures, whether they have been actively recruited for college teams, whether or not they are on other sports teams, and the effect of such participation on the college admission and scholarship processes. Petitioners' representations and arguments in that respect are not supported by certifications and are similarly conclusionary in nature. Additionally, although prior girls' field hockey varsity teams may have participated in State and County championship tournaments, petitioners do not argue, nor demonstrate, that such participation during the current school year is inevitable or guaranteed.

The Commissioner has held that arguments regarding denial of an opportunity to benefit from college athletic scholarships or education are "merely speculative, at best, and misguided as to the purpose of inter-scholastic sports in the educational process at worst, and are thus dismissed, as being without merit." City of Camden BOE, supra at 189. In that case, the Commissioner rejected arguments that a denial of participation in basketball play-offs would deny students exposure to college scouts, potential scholarship offers, and attendance at higher levels of education. Ibid. The Commissioner has also noted that there is "no protectable expectation for any school to participate in championship competition." Elmwood Park BOE, supra at 109.

Based upon the foregoing, I am persuaded that petitioners have not demonstrated irreparable harm. All four elements of the requirements for emergent relief must be satisfied, and petitioners therefore cannot be granted emergent relief. Notwithstanding, in the interest of administrative efficiency, I will consider the other requirements set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

STATUS OF UNDERLYING LEGAL RIGHTS AND LIKELIHOOD OF PREVAILING

Consideration of whether petitioners have demonstrated that the legal rights underlying their claims are settled and whether they have demonstrated a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claims are interrelated. Petitioners advance several arguments in that respect.

Petitioners D.M., P.D., K.D., and A.P. argue that their children were not given a preliminary hearing, nor a full and proper hearing, prior to being suspended from the varsity team, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 and the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution; that respondents do not have jurisdiction to impose discipline on them because the alleged incidents occurred at an event which was neither sanctioned nor sponsored by the District; and that respondents violated their own rules and regulations, as set forth in the Handbook, because they did not know the exact degree of any participation by petitioners in the alleged misconduct and did not attempt to differentiate the consequences of such alleged misconduct. Relevant to their arguments regarding the need for a preliminary hearing prior to any suspension, petitioners rely, in part, on R.R. v. the Board of Education of the Shore Regional High School District, 109 N.J. Super. 337 (Chancery Div. 1970) (R.R). Petitioners S.K.P. and P.P. similarly argue that respondents' action were arbitrary and capricious and violated the District's own policies and procedures, as reflected in the Handbook. Although recognizing that a school district may have a right to control participation in extra-curricular activities based on misconduct occurring outside of the school, petitioners, also referencing R.R., argue that there is no evidence that K.K. or L.P. ever comported themselves in such a way, or that they placed any student's physical or emotional safety in jeopardy. Petitioners S.K.P. and P.P. also cite to the Administrative Guide of the New Jersey Association of School Administrators, which, in part, on its face, summarizes pertinent statutory requirements and related Commissioner decisions. However, such is not determinative of the issues presented. Petitioners also argue that respondents' actions cannot stand because they violated the Handbook, more specifically, the sanctions imposed did not consider facts specific to each petitioner.

Respondents argue that a hearing was not required, that students can be disciplined for conduct occurring outside of school, that respondents' actions were reasonable, and that petitioners have not demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits or that the law is settled in their favor.

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 addresses the conduct which shall constitute good cause for a suspension or expulsion of a pupil from school. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2. That provision, as well as related ones, on their face, address expulsions, suspensions, or removal from school, not participation in extra-curricular activities. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 to 5 & N.J.S.A. 18A:37-7 et seq.

A seminal case regarding due process pertinent to students is Gross v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565, 95 S.Ct., 729, 42 L.Ed. at 2d 725 (1975) (Gross). That case involved an appeal by administrators of the Columbus, Ohio, public school system challenging the determination of a federal court that the appellees, high school students, were denied due process, contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment, because they were temporarily suspended without a hearing, neither prior to the suspensions nor within a reasonable time thereafter, and enjoining the administrators to remove all references to the suspensions from their records. State law provided for a free education to all children between the ages of six and twenty-six and empowered principals to suspend a pupil for misconduct for up to ten days or to expel the student, and imposed certain procedural requirements. 42 L.Ed. 2d at 730 - 731.

The Court noted that when considering whether due process requirements apply, the "nature" of the interests, not the "weight", must be considered. Although the appellees were "excluded" from school temporarily, the length and consequent severity of a "deprivation", although relevant to determining the appropriate form of a hearing, 'is not decisive to the basic right' "to a hearing of some kind." " . . . as long as a property deprivation is not de minimis, its gravity is irrelevant . . ." to the question of whether account must be taken of the Due Process cause. A ten-day suspension was not de minimis. Id. at 735-736 (citations omitted). Due process requirements require, at a minimum, that a student facing the possibility of a suspension must be given some type of notice and hearing. In cases involving a suspension of ten days or less, the student must be given oral or written notice of the charges, and, if the student denies them, an explanation of the evidence the authorities have and an opportunity to present his/her "side of the story." Id. at 737. (citation omitted). There also should be no delay between the time the notice is given and the time of the hearing. In most cases, however, a disciplinarian may "informally discuss" the misconduct alleged with the student "minutes after it had occurred." Id. at 739 (citation omitted.) Generally, the notice and hearing should precede removal, although there are recurring situations in which such cannot be required. Ibid. However, the Due Process clause does not require, at hearings regarding a "short suspension", the opportunity to obtain counsel, confront and/or cross-examine witnesses, or call witnesses. Id. at 740. The Court made clear that it was considering only "short" suspensions, i.e., those not exceeding ten days. Id. at 740.

Gross did not consider limitations on or prohibitions from participation in extra-curricular activities, and courts have subsequently determined that when there is no exclusion from the educational process, there is no constitutionally protectable interest to which due process attaches. See, e.g., Nevares v. San Marcos Consol. Independent School, 111 F. 3d (5th Cir. 1997), Casey v. Newport School Committee, 13 F.Supp. 2d 342 (D.R.I. 1998) (Casey). Nevares involved a challenge by a high school student to a transfer to an alternative educational program. Referencing Gross, the court noted that Nevares was " . . . not being denied access to public education . . . ." The court referenced prior decisions holding that there is no protected property interest in a denial by a school to offer a student a particular curriculum, no protected interests in the separate components of an educational process, such as participation in interscholastic activities, and no constitutional right to the particular incidents of education, such as sports, advance placement classes, attending a particular school, or a transfer to a different school for disciplinary reasons. Id. at 27. The court in Casey noted that the right to a public education " . . . does not include entitlement to particular aspects of the educational program", nor does it ' . . . necessarily encompass every facet of the educational program.' Casey, supra at 246 (citations omitted).

Citing Gross, the court in Glidden v. County of Monroe, 958 F.Supp. 73 (W.D.N.Y. 1997), held that a high school student did not have a protectible property interest in participation in a school marching band, whether such was deemed to be a curricular or extra-curricular activity, although under applicable state law, the student had a legitimate claim of entitlement to a public education. Courts have also held, relevant to sports activities, that the due process requirements of the Fourteenth Amendment do not apply to a one-year prohibition of a high school student from inter-scholastic athletic competition, pursuant to a local rule prohibiting such participation when a student transferred from one school district to another but did not reside in the transferee district with a parent or guardian, Dallam v. Cumberland Valley School District, 391 F. Supp. 358 (1975); that a student does not have a constitutional right to such "incidents of education" as participation in sports, Seamons v. Snow, 84 F. 3d. 1226 (10th Cir. 1996); and that college students at a state university who are placed on probation and denied certain school privileges did not assert grievances rising " . . . to the level of the deprivation of a right secured by the Constitution requiring judicial relief." Sill v. Pennsylvania State University, 462 F. 2d 463 (1972).

Similar results have been reached by courts in New Jersey. In R.R., upon which petitioners rely, the court determined that the possible imposition of a " . . . serious sanction such as suspension or expulsion" mandates procedural due process pursuant to the Fourteenth Amendment. R.R., supra at 346 (citations omitted). In State v. Conk, 180 N.J. Super. 140 (App. Div. 1998), the court, citing Gross, noted that the "focus" of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1 to 5 " . . . is to guarantee student discipline and the student's due process rights in proceedings taken by the school administration which could result in the imposition of the serious sanctions of suspension or expulsion." Id. at 144 (citation omitted).

As respondents argue, although extra-curricular activities, including inter-scholastic athletics, are an integral part in satisfying the breadth of programs required in public schools in New Jersey, " . . . each pupil does not have a right to participate in inter-scholastic athletics." Burnside v. N.J.S.I.A.A. 1984, S.L.D. 1677-94, aff'd 1984

S.L.D. 1695-1701, unpublished decision (App. Div. November 15, 1984, at 1697, certif. den. 101 N.J. 236 (1985). Students do not have a federally protected property interest in extra-curricular activities. A suspension from playing a particular sport therefore does not have to comport with due process. Palmer v. Merluzzi, 689 F. Supp. 400 (D.N.J. 1988), aff'd 868 F. 2d 90 (3rd Cir. 1989).

Commissioner decisions also recognize a distinction between procedural requirements mandated in cases of suspension or exclusion from the educational system and limitations on or exclusion from participation in extra-curricular activities. See, Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). In Woodbury BOE, the Commissioner, in determining that the petitioners had not demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits, stated that: "It is well-settled that the Board's policy concerning participation in its senior events may not be upset unless it can be demonstrated to be patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" and that " . . . the burden of proof that an action was so deficient rests with the person challenging the decision." Woodbury BOE, supra at 697 (citations omitted). The Commissioner has similarly noted that participation in inter-scholastic sports has not been deemed to be a constitutional right and that participation in extra-curricular activities does not rise to the level of a property interest protected by procedural due process. City of Camden BOE, supra at 188. (citations omitted).

Even in cases involving a possible suspension or expulsion, if public school officials have "reasonable cause" to believe that a student, because of activities occurring after school hours and off school premises, presents a danger to himself or others, they may temporarily suspend him/her for a short period of time, pending a "full hearing", but, under ordinary circumstances, must afford a "preliminary hearing." Id. at 347. Such preliminary hearing may, however, be "completely informal." The student should be given the opportunity to persuade the authorities that there is a case of "mistaken identify" or another "compelling reason" why he/she should not be suspended pending a full hearing. The nature of a full hearing depends on the circumstances of the case. R.R., supra at 348.

Even if Fourteenth Amendment due process requirements are applicable in this case, which petitioners have not demonstrated, petitioners have not demonstrated that the law is settled or they are likely to prevail regarding any issues pertinent to whether respondents' actions prior to Keenan's September 4 letter met the requirements of a preliminary hearing.

In light of the above, I am persuaded that petitioners have not demonstrated that even if they were not afforded a "hearing" prior to their suspensions, they are likely to prevail on the merits. nor that the law is settled in their favor. Even if due process principles are applicable, hearings to address claims of procedural deficiencies in violation of Gross are generally not de novo but are intended to review the action in question and the process provided, to determine whether a school district acted in an "arbitrary or capricious manner." The "heavy burden of persuasion" rests with petitioners. R.W. v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School District Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 114, 115.

Arguably, respondents' actions must not have been arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. See, Burnside, supra. However, petitioners have not demonstrated that they are likely to prevail on the merits in that respect, nor that the law is settled. District personnel spoke with most of the students in question and reached conclusions that all of the seniors had participated, to some extent. Available information regarding the allegations, in particular, that the sophomore students were each assigned to a "Master", arguably support a reasonable basis for concluding participation to some extent by petitioners. Although petitioners may not initially have been advised of all the specifics of the alleged misconduct, Keenan's certification was filed prior to oral argument, and none of the petitioners subsequently filed certifications that they were not involved in any of the alleged incidents of harassment, that such incidents did not occur, that a videotape of any such incidents was made, that students and/or parents viewed the videotape, and that High School personnel unsuccessfully asked to see or view the videotape.

The Handbook's procedures on discipline in general, as well as the requirements specific to participation in sports, on their face, are applicable. In addition, school boards are not required to establish an "exhaustive shopping list of infractions with specified disciplines" when developing a student handbook. It is sufficient to impose discipline if the conduct in question "clearly violated the letter and spirit of school rules."

R.W., supra at 115 (citation omitted). The alleged activities in question, on their face, clearly fall within the general prohibition of unacceptable behavior in the Handbook, as well as the District's policy pertinent to athletics, specifically. The Handbook is consistent with the definitions of exclusion and suspensions as reflected in the pertinent case law. (Handbook, p. 9.)

I am also not persuaded that petitioners have demonstrated that the law regarding discipline for activities or incidents related to matters not occurring on school grounds nor related to officially sanctioned school activities is settled in their favor, nor that they are likely to prevail in that respect. The Commissioner has held that management by local school boards of their schools will not be interfered with except in certain circumstances, such as a violation of the law, dishonest action, or an abuse of discretion in a 'shocking manner.' A.F. v. BOE of the Township of Holmdel, Decision on Motion, pp. 919-920 dated June 18, 1991. [1] The Commissioner held in that case that action of a board of education is presumed to be valid and can only be set aside if a petitioner can establish that such action was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Id. at 921.

R.R., upon which petitioners rely, as discussed hereinabove, considered a suspension, not participation in extra-curricular activities. R.R., a high school sophomore on the date in question, subsequent to dismissal from school, went to his home in a neighboring municipality. Finding the door locked and no one home, R.R. went across the street to the home of another individual. A physical altercation thereafter developed. Based upon information obtained from a local police department, and other information, the superintendent of the high school suspended R.R. until the next meeting of the board of education. The school board subsequently decided that R.R. should continue to remain at home pending an investigation and the outcome of the trial. R.R., supra at 339-341. The court held that in New Jersey, public school officials are authorized to suspend or expel students for events occurring out of school hours, and for conduct occurring away from school grounds, if such "is reasonably necessary for the student's physical or emotional safety and well-being, or for reasons relating to the safety and well-being of other students, teachers or public school property." Id. at 344. (citations omitted).

In light of the nature of the alleged incidents of harassment and other activities, including the fact that High School personnel concluded that there was reason to believe students were threatened after their return to school, petitioners have not demonstrated that the safety and well-being, including the emotional or psychological well-being, of other students was not threatened.

For the above reasons, I am also persuaded that petitioners did not demonstrate that the law is settled, or that they are likely to prevail on the merits, vis-à-vis their arguments that the actions taken were not individualized to their particular circumstances. In light of Keenan's certification regarding the information available to the High School's personnel, and the fact that petitioners did not demonstrate that due process requirements are applicable, nor that respondents' actions were arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, and in light of the nature of the alleged incidents, petitioners did not demonstrate that respondents' actions must be overturned because the same sanction was imposed on each petitioner.

BALANCING OF EQUITIES

Petitioners argue that they will suffer greater harm than will respondents if emergent relief is not granted. Respondents argue to the contrary.

In determining questions of relative harm, the Commissioner has noted that a local board of education " . . . has an important interest in enforcing its policies in order to effectively operate its schools and insure academic achievement." Parsippany BOE, supra at 697. In addition, as respondents allude, in this case, they are in the position of having to consider the well-being of the freshmen and sophomore field hockey players, as well as the senior players. I am persuaded that petitioners have not demonstrated that a balancing of the equities is in their favor.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' applications for emergent relief should be denied.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioners' applications for emergent relief be and are hereby DENIED.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, either upon interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10, or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

b. The camp was not an officially sanctioned board of education trip, but field hockey coach Ms. Ohnegian had some involvement with the planning of the trip. No coaches or staff from Northern Highlands attended the trip (nor did any other high school coaches from any other schools attend the camp, which had approximately 300 student campers during the week in question).

c. The seniors who engaged in the hazing spent approximately $300.00 on "hazing equipment" prior to the trip.

d. Many of the events described below were videotaped by the seniors, and the videotape was circulated and viewed by both parents and students in Allendale and Upper Saddle River (the school district's constituent municipalities).

e. Each senior field hockey player acted as a "master" for a sophomore field hockey player for the duration of the trip.

f. The girls went to the camp by way of a three-hour bus ride. During the bus ride sophomores were forced by the seniors to put red hots and hot peppers in their mouths, which were then taped shut for most or all of the three-hour trip. Other sophomore girls were compelled to keep dog bones or bottles in their mouths.

g. At least one sophomore became physically ill during the bus trip as a result of this treatment, requiring the bus to stop on the highway.

h. On the return trip from the camp, four sophomore girls were locked in the bus bathroom for ten minutes or more.

i. The senior field hockey players wrote on the tape over the sophomore girls' mouths such things as the following: "I am a pussy licker"; "I blow my father"; "I lick my brother's cock". Several sophomore girls were forced to make such statements on videotape.

j. The bus stopped for a meal break during the trip to Pennsylvania. In a public restaurant during this stop the sophomores were forced to wear dog collars and leashes, smear ketchup on their faces, wear thongs over their pants, and order food by stating to the restaurant workers, "I'll blow you for a free burger" or "I'm a slut give me a cheeseburger".

k. At the camp itself, the sophomores were forced by these seniors to "bob" for pig's feet or have their faces pushed into plates of dog food.

l. Seniors placed eggs in the bras of sophomore players before practices and punched the girls in the chest, sometimes repeatedly, to break the eggs.

m. On videotape sophomores were forced to simulate "giving a blow job" to a banana. This action was done at the specific verbal direction of the senior field hockey players.

n. Sophomores were also videotaped while being interviewed by seniors concerning the sophomores' sexual activities. For example, the sophomores were asked on videotape: "Why haven't you fucked anyone yet"; "Why are you still a virgin"; and were to answer the question on tape. Also on videotaped were sophomore girls showering in bathing suits; several sophomore girls expressed discomfiture with this activity being videotaped.

o. At the direction of the senior field hockey players, the sophomore field hockey players performed a "fashion show", which consisted of a mock striptease. This activity was also videotaped. During this activity, the seniors told the sophomores that the more clothes they took off, the more likely they were to be spared from other hazing activities.

p. Sophomores were forced to put jelly and marshmallows in their socks, then don their cleats and practice.

q. In addition, the senior girls videotaped the following: seniors, prior to practice, pulled the sophomores' shorts and underwear back and poured syrup down their buttocks. The sophomores thereafter were forced to practice in that condition. Many of the sophomores were particularly upset about having their buttocks filmed.

r. The seniors were warned by the adults operating the camp on three separate occasions against engaging in hazing and that hazing is illegal under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania. The camp officials threatened to send the girls home from the camp due to their hazing conduct.

s. Most of the sophomore girls were clearly traumatized by the incidents described above. Many of the sophomore girls and/or their parents expressed a reluctance or even total inability for the sophomores to continue to play on the same team as the seniors.

September 4, 2001

Dear Mr. & Mrs.

As you are aware, we have been investigating allegations concerning the behavior of senior field hockey players towards sophomores at a recent field hockey camp. After several days of interviews, consultations, and deliberations, we have concluded the following:

1. The actions taken by the seniors toward the sophomores were demeaning, injurious, unwanted, and totally inappropriate.

2. Several seniors were not honest when questioned by administrators.

3. Given the emotional distress suffered by the sophomore athletes, it is impossible for them to participate as teammates to the seniors.

4. Our school has made many efforts over the past three years to eliminate harassing behaviors. Thus, our senior field hockey players should have been more aware of what is appropriate than their predecessors.

5. Not having been present, we are not aware of the exact degree of participation of the seniors, and as such will not attempt to differentiate consequences.

6. All seniors are permanently suspended from the field hockey team and prohibited from serving as captains for any other athletic team.

We are deeply distressed that our seniors will not be able to participate this season, but we are hopeful that this will bring the matter to a conclusion, and that none of them will face criminal complaints. However, rest assured that any harassment directed at any individual resulting from this incident will become a matter for police involvement.

We know that you will not be happy with our decision, but we hope you understand that it is made in an effort to do what is in the best interest of all of our students.

Sincerely,

19d

The Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in this emergent matter has been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief, as he concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioners have not satisfied the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter shall proceed to hearing on its merits.
