Meet New Jersey's driving force in value-based healthcare transformation

The New Jersey Innovation Institute (NJII), a wholly owned subsidiary of New Jersey Institute of Technology. NJII is the healthcare technology innovation leader in the state of New Jersey with a three-part mission to Improve Patient Outcomes, Optimize Care Delivery and Increase Reimbursements for Healthcare Providers.

In 2018, NJII launched Healthcare Innovation Solutions, Inc. (HCIS) to help providers address gaps in care, discover innovative ways to optimize value-based care delivery and provide innovative technologies to positively impact outcomes, and reimbursement.

HCIS's software and services portfolio enables the data-driven transformation of healthcare service delivery and helps providers and payers improve their bottom line and move from fee-for-service to value-based healthcare. Healthcare providers have avoided close to $30 million in penalties and earned close to $100 million in payment incentives with our support.

Next-generation technology platforms and a staff of certified professionals trained in innovation, quality management and transformation, deliver high-value solutions for healthcare providers and health systems.

of Health to guide providers as they incorporate value-based care and population health programs into their care delivery workflows. HCIS provides a certified registry for Merit-Based Incentive Payment System (MIPS), and the new MIPS Value Pathways, as well as our Measures Manager™ platform for Population Health Quality Reporting and Submissions.

The Healthcare Innovation Solutions (HCIS) team has a single mission: Advancing Healthcare Technology to Improve Patient Outcomes, Optimize Delivery and Reduce Costs

Thank you HCIS for assisting our office in 2023 quality reporting. The process was overwhelming however, your experience, expertise, guidance and reassurance made a difference! Your step-by-step individual approach and patience is valuable and appreciated. You took the time to explain the process and answered my questions. Thank you for your support in our successful 2023 reporting!
