LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

Trenton, February 1, 1964

To the Hon. John A. Kervick, Treasurer of the State of New Jersey:

This is a report on the analysis of 174,164 information returns, covering tangible personal property used in business and on farms, filed under Chapter 9, Laws of 1963. The total number of personal property taxpayers reported by assessors was 183,880. For the purposes of a statistical study, this large coverage is reassuring. Reliability of the analysis depends, of course, upon validity of the data supplied by taxpayers.

The tabulations accompanying this report show aggregate comparative book values, actual 1963 assessed values, and assessed values calculated in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 51, Laws of 1960, as amended, broken down by 8 different business categories. These comparative figures are shown separately for each of the 567 municipalities, for each of the 21 counties and for the State as a whole.

The analysis demonstrates conclusively the absence of any uniformity in the present assessment of business tangible personal property under the present standard of "true value." As a broad generalization, this finding is neither unusual nor unexpected. What is unique about this study is that the lack of uniformity is now documented for more than 132,000 individual taxpayers whose reported book values have been matched with actual 1963 assessed values or found to have been unassessed in 1963. These constitute not only a large numerical majority of all owners of business tangible personalty but also, in the aggregate, account for 87.2% of all 1963 assessed valuations of business tangible personalty in the State.

This lack of uniformity exists both as among different taxing districts and as among individual taxpayers within single taxing districts. An illustration of individual inequalities is given at Part II. It is typical of the item by item listings which fill the 21 county volumes constituting the confidential source data for the published aggregate tabulations.

Study estimates indicate that if Chapter 51 had been operative in 1963, business personalty assessed valuations would have aggregated about 11% more, state-wide. However, the universal presence of extreme variations in assessment experience means that any easy generalization about the overall effect of Chapter 51 can be nothing more than an exercise in arithmetic. For all practical purposes, no such generalization based upon averages of unlike things can assume to represent a basis for achieving uniformity in personal property tax assessments at any level to require a minimum of adjustment. There is no way to bring uniformity to assessments which are not now uniform and at the same time require no adjustments in local tax rolls or in local property tax assessments for individual taxpayers. This fact of personal property tax life in New Jersey means that any standard by which uniformity in personal property tax administration is accomplished must be expected to result in some major changes.

Even the objective of maintaining total business personal property assessments at approximately the level prevailing in 1963 can have little practical meaning for any single taxing district or any single business property taxpayer. The implication is that such an objective can be nothing more than a crude guide to a resolution of the personal property tax dilemma. A more realistic approach would seem to be one of developing what appears to be a reasonable assessing method for business personal property, incorporating an assessment standard objectively ascertainable by tax assessor and taxpayer alike, with the full knowledge that it will result in tax change.

Chapter 51 represents such a method. It was developed after prolonged study by the Commission on State Tax Policy, by successive Legislative committees, and by representatives of state and local administrative agencies and business and farm organizations. If the personal property tax is to be retained in New Jersey and if we are to achieve order and uniformity in its administration, accounting guidelines, such as Chapter 51 supplies, are indispensable. Uniformity and stability of administrative procedures are the prime concern of the Division of Taxation.

Respectfully submitted,

William Kingsley

PART I

BACKGROUND

NEW LEGISLATION

Chapter 51, Laws of 1960, was the first major change in New Jersey local property tax law since adoption of the present State Constitution in 1947. Although its application to personal property used in business attracted greatest attention, it also concerned real estate and personal property not used in business. Its principal features are summarized as follows:

Real Estate

Estimated "taxable value" of real estate as percentages of "true value" established by county boards of taxation in multiples of 10% between a minimum of 20% and a maximum of 100% for uniform application in all taxing districts within each county.

Established presumption that agricultural lands may be valued without reference to their prospective value for subdivision or other non-agricultural purposes so long as they continued to be devoted to agricultural use. (This provision was set aside by the Supreme Court in Switz v. Kingsley, 37 N. J. 566, 1962.)

Defined "common level" of assessment as the unweighted average ratio of assessed value to sales value of real estate samples compiled by the Division of Taxation for the purposes of equalizing local property valuations.

Personal Property Used in Business

Exempted from taxation business inventories of raw materials, supplies and small tools.

Made business inventories other than raw materials, small tools and supplies taxable at a percentage of their book value representing 1/4 the "common level" percentage of real estate assessment within the taxing district.

Made farm machinery, livestock, crops and other farm personal property, other than raw materials, supplies and small tools, taxable at a percentage of their book value representing 1/4 the percentage level established for real estate within the county or the level applicable to business inventories within the local taxing district. (This provision was set aside by the Superior Court but subsequently upheld by the Supreme Court, Switz v. Kingsley, 37 N. J. 566, 1962.)

Made machinery, implements, equipment and all other personal property used in business, other than inventories and farm personal property, taxable at a percentage of their book value corresponding to the "common level" of real estate assessments within the taxing district.

Provided for business personal property tax returns to reflect book values and for non-compliance penalties.

Brought business personal property into equalization procedures for the first time so that its equalized value will be reflected in apportionments of county taxes and state aid to local schools.

Personal Property Not Used in Business

Made tangible personal property not used in business taxable at a percentage of fair value corresponding to the percentage level established for real estate within the county.

Permits municipalities to exempt household personal property by local ordinance.

ORIGIN OF CHAPTER 51

Chapter 51 (Laws of 1960) was the product of a search of more than a generation for a practical way to accomplish greater equalization of real estate assessments and to establish a workable basis for assessing personal property according to measurable standards capable of equalization. The immediate stimulus for its adoption was a legislative urgency to quiet apprehension about court enforcement of the prior statutory requirement for assessment of all taxable property at "true value" (100% assessment), but its provisions were compounded from an accumulation of past studies and recommendations.

For example, a Commission to Investigate County and Municipal Expenditures, appointed in 1929, [1] recommended separation of personal property from real estate and the development of special tax methods applicable to personal property. Foreshadowing "common level" legislation to come 30 years later, the Commission concluded that it was equalization which was important, and not the level at which such equalization is accomplished. The constitutional and statutory "true value" standard was criticized as a shield for discriminatory assessments.

(1) Joint Resolution No. 13, Laws of 1929; Reports 1-8 issued during 1931 and 1932.

Acting upon recommendations by a Commission on Taxation of Intangible Personal Property,[1] appointed in 1944, the Legislature exempted intangible personal property from taxation (Chapter 163, L. 1945) and provided for the taxation of corporations on the basis of their net worth allocable to New Jersey. Here was an example of a property tax problem solved by "replacement."

In addition to recommending "replacement" of intangible personal property taxes, the Commission on Taxation of Intangible Personal Property rediscovered the shortcomings of local assessment practices as they related to tangible personal property. Public hearings held by the Commission revealed widespread and persistent anxiety about the vulnerability of tangible personal property to the "tax lightning" of assessment at unaccustomed levels under the "true value" requirement.

The Legislature created the Commission on State Tax Policy in 1945 (Chapter 157, L. 1945). In its first report, issued in 1946, the Commission announced that it "deemed the subject of local property tax administration one of its major responsibilities" and presented a series of recommended changes in the taxation of tangible personal property which set the pattern for tax discussions extending over the next 14 years and leading to the adoption of Chapter 51, Laws of 1960.

The Constitutional Convention of 1947 provided a new forum for the attack upon the restrictive "true value" standard for assessing real estate and personal property. The new Constitution developed by this convention placed the Legislature under no inhibition in establishing uniform assessment standards for real estate. Although classification of real estate "taxed locally or for allotment and payment to taxing districts" was forbidden, the Constitution left the Legislature free to establish assessment standards for personal property different from real estate and to classify personal property as well.

The Commission on State Tax Policy continued its series of reports pinpointing weak spots in the property tax structure and suggesting corrective changes. Its Sixth Report, issued in 1953 contained the first state-wide sales-ratio study documenting unequal real estate assessment results. This was followed by the Seventh Report[1] and Eighth Report[2] recommending the use of equalized values as a basis for apportioning state aid to local school districts for current operation and for capital outlay. The Ninth Report[3], issued in 1958, contained alternative recommendations to 1) tax real estate at 40% of its true value, machinery and equipment at 40% of book value and business inventories at 10% of book value, and 2) replace the tax upon business inventories with a tax upon business income. The first of these alternatives established the "40-40-10" concept which led to the Chapter 51 provision for taxing inventories at 1/4 the level established for other property.

A Commission to Study Laws Affecting Industrial Development[4], reporting in 1957, recommended complete equalization of real estate, ultimate abandonment of personal property taxes, and a broadening of the tax structure to include a retail sales and use tax. Pending exemption of personal property, this Commission recommended interim assessment of personal property at not more than 50 percent of cost less reasonable depreciation.

In 1956, the Legislature sought to resolve the difficulties of enforcing a single state-wide level of assessment by permitting each municipality to choose its own level. A constitutional amendment granting authority to adopt such legislation was defeated at the general election in November, 1956.[1] Its defeat did not end interest in local choice of assessment levels. Nor did it signify a decline in the apparent feeling of urgency to find an alternative to 100% assessment. A wide assortment of legislative measures was considered between 1957 and 1960, but Chapter 51 was the first to gain approval.

A series of New Jersey Court decisions between 1954 and 1960 indicated that equalization of property assessments and full application of the statutory "true value" standard was about to be accomplished by court order. Beginning with the Baldwin case[2] (1954) and continuing with the Gibraltar[3] case (1955), the concept of "common level" as a basis for taxpayer relief from discriminatory assessments began to take shape. Equalization tables provided the statistical raw material for giving substance to this concept and the statistical approach to "common level" received Court recognition in the Kents[4] case (1961). In the Switz case (1956),[5] the court made it clear that the legal standard of assessment would be enforced at the suit of any taxpayer, and so long as the standard was set by statute at 100 percent of valuation, the courts would mandate that standard. In the Switz case, Middletown Township was granted a two-year period in which to comply, and during which the Legislature could change the law.

The judicial attack on assessment inequalities was speeded up by the Ridgefield Park[1] case in which the court turned its back upon further postponement of reconciliation between statutory requirements and local assessment practices. This case broadened the scope of judicial attack because it reached all taxing districts in Bergen County as contrasted with a single district, and it included personal property as well as real estate.

In his annual message to the Legislature in 1960, Governor Robert B. Meyner made eight recommendations containing parts of various proposals which the Legislature had been considering for more than two years. The proposals also included a new concept that the constitutional requirement of assessment according to the "same standard of value did not necessarily mean assessment at the same standard." This was the basis for county choice of assessment ratios provided in Chapter 51. The Governor proposed a compromise on the taxation of business inventories by recommending that raw materials, work in process, small tools and supplies be exempted while finished goods remained taxable. Here was the first suggestion that various classes of inventories might be treated differently.

Governor Meyner's recommendations were largely incorporated into Assembly Bill 198 (1960) by the Joint Legislative Committee.

(1) Village of Ridgefield Park v. the Bergen County Board of Taxation, et al. (decided Jan. 25, 1960).

Because of local apprehension about loss of tax ratables, goods in process were dropped out of the exempt inventory category as this Bill found its way through the Legislature. On June 15, 1960 the amended Assembly Bill A-198 became Chapter 51, Laws of 1960, and New Jersey had a new property tax law.

POSTPONEMENT AND UNCERTAINTY

Deliberations preceding adoption of Chapter 51 were complicated by a lack of statistical information to measure its full effect. This statistical uncertainty was concentrated upon the provisions relating to "book value" assessment of tangible personal property used in business. Various estimates and counter-estimates were made throughout these deliberations, but none of them commanded general acceptance sufficient to quiet apprehension by business taxpayers that they would be called upon to carry an increased portion of local property tax bills and the counter apprehension by local taxing districts that they would suffer a loss in business personal property tax ratables. The new legislation sought to resolve this dilemma by providing copies of all first year business personal property tax returns with the Director of Taxation as a basis for study and review. It was implied that any unforeseen results could be objects of prompt legislative correction.

"Book value" assessment of personal property used in business had wide popular appeal as a way to bring certainty to the assessment of a class of property for which "assessment by negotiation" had long been more the rule than the exception. As the first date for filing business personal property tax returns drew near, this popular support for the principal of "book value" assessment did not become equally wide support for "book value" assessment in practice. Extreme variation in personal property assessments as among property owners and as among taxing districts meant that any new method which promised uniform procedures for all personal property also held the promise that the change would not be the same for all taxpayers or for all taxing districts. The fact that New Jersey did not have enough information to project with any degree of certainty the effect of the change upon the total amount of personal property which would be taxed or the amount and direction of "tax shift" which would occur between personal property and real estate served only to compound the diversity and intensity of speculative fears.

Business personal property taxpayer return forms developed under Chapter 51 became the scapegoat for two successive annual postponements of its effective date.[1] It is not necessary to review the many abuses heaped upon these forms to observe that resistance to filing the forms was in fact resistance to potential changes under the law itself. Implied assurances of legislative correction to adjust for unforeseen results based upon analysis of first year returns were not sufficiently persuasive to prevent these first two postponements.

By 1963, it had become apparent that postponement, of and by itself, would not cause the problems to go away. Postponement could not provide any additional information or anything else except time, and it was becoming increasingly clear that time was running out. It was against this background that a third postponement[2]

(1) C. 17, L. 1961 postponed effective date to 1963; C. 20, L. 1962 postponed effective date to 1964.
(2) C. 9, L. 1963 postponed effective date to 1965.

carried an additional provision that comprehensive statistical review of its potential effects precede actual implementation of the business personal property provisions of Chapter 51. Hence the requirement for business personal property information returns to be filed with the Director of Taxation in 1963. The object was to permit New Jersey business to answer its own questions by taking the personal property information return seriously enough to provide complete and accurate information.

INFORMATION RETURNS

The Legislature recognized that taxpayers are not likely to welcome information returns any more than they welcomed tax returns. A suggestion that returns be required only from businesses owning personal property valued at $25,000 or more (book value) was abandoned because it eliminated too many taxpayers and too much taxable property. Information returns limited to large taxpayers would not answer enough questions about the overall effect of Chapter 51. The end result was a provision that owners of business personal property valued at $25,000 or less (book value) may file a simplified information return requiring answers to the following five questions:

(1) The name, business address and type of business of the taxpayer;

(2) The net book value of business machinery and equipment not including supplies and small tools;

(3) The net book value of inventory, not including raw materials;

(4) The net book value of all other tangible personal property, if any, used in business, not including those items exempted in (2) and (3) hereof; and

(5) The total net book value of all such personal property.

Correct answers to these few questions by all small businesses would supply the basic materials to show the effect of Chapter 51 upon those same small businesses and the municipalities where they are located. It was hoped that more complete information about personal property of larger businesses would round out the picture and answer some of the questions which have plagued this new tax law throughout its inception, adoption and postponement.

Even in the case of larger businesses, however, Chapter 9, Laws of 1963, limited the information which could be required to that directly pertinent to Chapter 51 in its present form. Further simplification of both the law and the information return requirements was accomplished by redefining the "book value" of depreciable personal property to exclude the requirement for minimum valuation at 20% of original cost so long as depreciable property remained in use.[1]

Assurances to business personal property taxpayers that information returns would not be used for property tax purposes took the form of a specific provision that the information returns are for study purposes only and they must be destroyed within one year. They were made confidential and their content could be revealed only in the form of statistical compilations. All returns were to be filed with the Director of Taxation and were not to be made available to any local assessor.

The special nature of farm accounting led to the preparation of special information forms to be used by owners of farm tangible personal property. These special forms for farmers were developed in consultation with the Rutgers University College of Agriculture and representatives of farm organizations.

(1) C. 23, L. 1963.

The result was a booklet of information forms and instructions which were sent to each owner of business and farm tangible personal property listed on local property tax rolls in every local taxing district. Each folder contained two copies of all information forms so that the property owner could use the appropriate form and retain a copy for his own records. A copy of this folder is attached.

3. PROPERTY OWNERS REQUIRED TO FILE RETURN:

   The basis for valuing inventories is the same basis which the property owner reports for Federal Income Tax purposes.

   (c) Inventories — Average:
   In the event property owner's books do not reflect inventories on a quarterly or monthly basis, the average value of inventories may be computed as the average of values as of the beginning and as of the close of the accounting year used for Federal Income Tax purposes. EXCEPTION: Monthly or quarterly (at least) averages are required in all cases in which 50 percent or more of the annual business gross receipts are received during any three month period of the accounting year.

PART II

PERSONAL PROPERTY INFORMATION RETURNS

OVERALL VIEW

Personal property assessments under Chapter 51, Laws of 1960 have been calculated from 174,164 business personal property information returns. These Chapter 51 assessed values total $1,517.7 million, based upon $5,593.8 million book values divided between inventories and other business personal property as follows:

	(Millions) Book Value	Chapter 51 Assessment
Inventory	$2,589.2	$ 271.4
Other	3,004.6	1,246.3
Total	$5,593.8	$1,517.7

All New Jersey business and farm personal property assessments for 1963 totaled $1,462.7 million. This means that potential Chapter 51 assessments upon personal property reported in 174,164 information returns amount to $55 million more than all personal property assessed values in 1963. The implication is that Chapter 51 would result in a minimum overall increase of 3.8% in personal property assessments. Since the comparison is between information returns received and all 1963 personal property assessments, the unanswered question concerns the amount of potential Chapter 51 assessments upon properties for which no information returns were received. The potential increase in assessments under Chapter 51 would be enlarged by this unknown amount.

For purposes of analysis, the 174,164 information returns received fall into three distinct groups as follows:

127,654 returns matched against 1963 actual personal property assessed valuations.

4,672 returns determined to be not assessed in 1963.

41,838 returns thus far not matched against any 1963 assessment and not determined to have been unassessed.

The first two categories of returns present no analytical problem. Direct comparison of Chapter 51 assessment with actual assessments for 1963, or with no actual assessments, shows the specific changes in personal property tax treatment. For example, the 127,654 information returns in Category 1 were from taxpayers accounting for $1,275.0 million (87.2%) of the $1,462.7 million total business personal property assessed valuations in 1963. Chapter 51 assessed valuations indicated by these returns and the 4,672 returns in Category 2 total $1,408.6 million to represent an increase of $133.6 million over the $1,275.0 million actually assessed for 1963. For the sample of 132,326 returns tabulated, this means a potential increase of 10.5% in business personal property assessed valuations as follows:

(Millions)

	1963 Assessment	Chap. 51 Assessment	% Increase
127,654 Returns matched against 1963 assessments	$1,275.0	$1,385.0	8.6%
4,672 Returns found not assessed in 1963	none	23.6	-
132,326 Returns tabulated	$1,275.0	$1,408.6	10.5%

Like all summary statements, the composite effect of Chapter 51 upon 132,326 personal property taxpayers in Categories 1 and 2 include a wide variety of unlike effects upon separate taxpayers. These fall into three major categories as follows:

74,453 taxpayers would have the assessed value of their personal property decreased. In aggregate, the decrease would be $422.7 million.

53,201 taxpayers would have the assessed valuation of their personal property increased. In aggregate, the increase would be $532.7 million.

4,672 taxpayers who were not assessed in 1963 would be assessed under Chapter 51 at values aggregating $23.6 million. This would be a net increase in taxable valuations.

Chapter 51 assessments total $109.1 million for the 41,838 personal property owners who filed information returns which have thus far not been matched against any 1963 assessment and not determined to have been unassessed (Category 3). If all of these 41,838 information returns do represent properties which are unassessed, the $109.1 million of Chapter 51 assessments would represent net increase in local property assessed values. Although it is tempting to assume that all unmatched information returns represent properties which are unassessed, the many difficulties encountered in matching returns with assessed values suggest caution. It is probable that many of them do represent properties which are assessed under names or in taxing districts different from those indicated in information returns and thus not readily identifiable. Comparison of unmatched (Category 3) and tabulated returns (Categories 1 and 2) appears as follows:

	($ Millions)
	Tabulated Returns (Categories 1 & 2)	Unmatched Returns (Category 3)	Unmatched as % of Tabulated
Number of Returns	132,326	41,838	31.6
Book Values reported
Inventory	$2,391.4	$197.8	8.3%
Other	2,782.0	222.6	8.0
Total	$5,173.4	$420.4	8.1%
Chapter 51 Assessment
Inventory	$ 252.6	$18.8	7.4%
Other	1,156.0	90.3	7.8
Total	$1,408.6	$109.1	7.7%

The fact that the 132,326 of tabulated information returns account for $1,275.0 million of personal property assessed values means that there remains $187.7 million of total business and farm personal property assessments not accounted for in the sample as tabulated. Comparison of $109.1 million Chapter 51 assessments representing properties reported in the 41,838 returns not matched (Category 3) and the $187.7 million of actual personal property assessments not accounted for in tabulated returns suggests probable effect of Chapter 51 upon these taxpayers ranging from a net increase of $109.1 million if all of them are actually unassessed to a net reduction of $78.6 million if they are assumed to represent all present assessments not accounted for. While both of these extreme possibilities are doubtful, they provide a rough basis for estimating the range within which complete results would be expected to fall. Together with results obtained for the 132,326 of tabulated returns (Categories 1 and 2) this means the potential net increase in personal property assessed values for all properties represented by all information returns ranging from a minimum of 3.8% to a maximum of 19%. The 10.5% increase for tabulated returns (Categories 1 and 2) appears to be a reasonable overall estimate for all returns.

In order to reduce this range of estimated probable impact of Chapter 51 upon local property tax ratables as much as possible, the Division of Taxation is presently engaged in a continuing process of checking the 41,838 personal property information returns unmatched with local assessments. The aim is to determine the extent to which they do in fact represent properties not now assessed for taxation.

WIDE VARIATIONS

Analysis of 132,326 tabulated information returns demonstrates conclusively the absence of any uniformity of present assessment of business tangible personal property. This lack of uniformity exists both as among different taxing districts and as among individual taxpayers within single taxing districts. For example, the following comparison of actual 1963 personal property assessments with reported book values for 22 large and small taxpayers were selected from a single taxing district:

Book Value	1963 Assessment	% of Book Value	Book Value	1963 Assessment	% of Book Value
$ 6,377	$ 8,500	133.3%	$ 2,500	$ 2,000	80.0%

4,909	600	12.2	4,500	2,400	53.3

The important thing to remember is that a similar list could be compiled from almost any page of the tax lists in any taxing district situated within any of the 21 counties.

AMONG THE COUNTIES

Table 1 shows that the 87.2% of all New Jersey business personal property assessments for 1963 clearly identified with information returns is in fact an overall average ranging from 79.1% in Cape May County to 95.4% in Salem County. This large coverage of personal property tax assessments is accounted for by 127,654 information returns which were matched against 1963 assessed values (Category 1). The number of such returns ranges from 1507 in Salem County to 19,731 in Essex County.

In addition to 127,654 information returns matched against personal property assessments in 1963, the 4,672 tabulated returns representing property found to be not assessed in 1963 (Category 2) included such returns in individual counties ranging from 32 in Passaic to 693 in Hudson. There were also 41,838 information returns unmatched against any 1963 assessments or not determined to have been unassessed (Category 3). This class of return was also received from each of the 21 counties in numbers ranging from 485 in Salem to 5,062 in Bergen. The large coverage of actual assessed values represented by "matched" returns suggests that these "unmatched" returns are mostly assessed in small amounts or not assessed at all.

Within a statewide average of 103.8% of all 1963 personal property assessed values, total Chapter 51 assessed valuations upon all business and farm personal property reported in all information returns range from 66.5% of 1963 assessments in Salem to 147.6% in Warren and 147.7% in Monmouth. As shown in Table 2, personal property reported in all information returns received has a Chapter 51 potential sufficient to increase local personal property assessments in 14 counties in amounts ranging from 3.8% in Passaic to 47.7% in Monmouth. In the remaining 7 counties, personal property in all information returns received has a Chapter 51 potential ranging from 66.5% of all 1963 assessed valuations in Salem to 95.1% in Middlesex.

Table 2 also shows that total Chapter 51 assessments upon all personal property reported in all information returns in each of the 21 counties includes Chapter 51 assessments upon property reported in information returns not matched with 1963 assessed values and not determined to be unassessed in amounts ranging from $359,000 in Hunterdon to $23.1 million in Essex. The implication is that the overall relationship between potential Chapter 51 assessments and all actual 1963 personal property assessments is an unsatisfactory basis for appraising the complete potential effect of Chapter 51 in any county. Its principal deficiency concerns the lack of any reasonable basis for estimating potential Chapter 51 assessments upon personal property not reported in any information return.

The validity of any generalization that Chapter 51 would result in an overall 3.8% increase in personal property assessments must of necessity rest upon an assumption that all personal property assessments for 1963 not identified with any information return is accounted for by returns in the "not matched" category. The fact that the "not matched" information returns have not been identified with any 1963 assessments means that there is no valid way to appraise the accuracy of such an assumption. However, it amounts to an unlikely assumption that information returns were received to cover all business and farm personal property within the State.

Table 3 shows that the 127,654 information returns matched against actual 1963 assessed valuations reflect potential Chapter 51 assessment increases and decreases in each of the 21 New Jersey counties. The 53,201 returns indicating potential increases include numbers ranging from 528 in Salem to 7,672 in Essex. The amount of potential assessment increases range from $2.2 million in Salem to $129.6 million in Essex. The 74,453 potential decreases include numbers ranging from 979 in Salem to 12.059 in Essex. Amounts of potential assessment decreases range from $1.7 million in Sussex to $146.5 million in Essex. The number of potential decreases exceed the number of potential increases in 19 of the 21 counties. The amount of potential decreases exceed the amount of potential increases in 7 counties.

Table 3 also shows 4,672 potential Chapter 51 personal property assessments based upon information returns found to be not assessed in 1963 in amounts ranging from $73,000 in Sussex County to $14.4 million in Essex County. These returns added to the 127,654 "matched" returns imply that aggregate Chapter 51 assessments upon property reported in 132,326 information returns exceed 1963 aggregate assessed valuations upon the same properties in 14 counties in amounts ranging from $1.5 million in Sussex to $41.6 million in Monmouth. In the remaining 7 counties, Chapter 51 assessments would be less than total 1963 assessments upon the same properties in amounts ranging from $536,000 in Union to $7.6 million in Hudson. Net percentage changes in personal property assessed values for the sample range from an increase of 55.3% in Atlantic to a decrease of 32.1% in Salem.

It must be recognized that net changes in potential assessed valuations for any county is nothing more than a composite of separate changes found for each municipality within the county. Table 4 shows that each of the 21 New Jersey counties contains local taxing districts in which Chapter 51 assessments upon properties reported in information returns would represent net increases as well as net decreases from amounts assessed in 1963 upon the same properties. In the aggregate, these computations indicate net increases totaling $556.3 million in 377 taxing districts and decreases totaling $423.7 million in 190 districts.

CLASS OF PROPERTY

The $5.6 billion of book values of all business and farm tangible personal property reported in all information returns includes $2.6 billion of inventories and $3 billion of other property. Chapter 51 assessments upon these same properties total $1.5 billion and are 27.1% of the total book value. These Chapter 51 assessments include $271 million for inventories and $1.2 billion for other personal property. Chapter 51 assessments for inventories at 1/4 the "common level" as contrasted with assessments for other personal

Tables 5 and 6 show the same data as they are distributed among the 21 New Jersey counties. Large differences in the levels at which real estate is assessed, and hense differences in "common level," cause the relationship between Chapter 51 assessments and book values to vary widely among the counties. For example, Table 5 shows that Chapter 51 assessments upon inventories reported by 132,326 tabulated returns range from a law of 3.4% of book values in Somerset County to a high of 24.5% in Cape May. Chapter 51 assessments upon personal property other than inventories range from a low of 14.8% of book value in Somerset County to a high of 97.1% in Cape May. Table 6 shows similar variations in relationship between Chapter 51 assessments and book values reported in 41,838 information returns not matched against 1963 assessed valuations.

The only departure from a 4 to 1 relationship between Chapter 51 assessments upon inventories at 1/4th the "common level" and other business personal property assessments at the "common level," concerns farm machinery and equipment which is assessed at 1/4th the "common level." County averages reflect some additional variation from the 4 to 1 relationship because of varying distributions of inventories and other personal property in individual taxing districts with unlike "common levels" within the county.

TYPE OF BUSINESS

Personal property information returns received and tabulated show that potential increases or decreases in personal property assessments under Chapter 51 are not closely related to business types. The 132,326 returns matched against 1963 assessed valuations, or found to have no corresponding 1963 assessment, include examples of both increases and decreases in each reported business type. Table 7 shows that the number of potential decreases exceeds the number of potential increases in every type of business except manufacturing. In the case of manufacturing, the sample includes 4,904 potential assessment increases under Chapter 51 as compared with 4,639 potential assessment decreases.

Table 7 also shows that the 4,904 potential increases for manufacturing taxpayers represent $308.3 million of increased personal property assessed valuations. Another 4,639 manufacturing taxpayers show potential decreased in personal property assessments totaling $152.5 million. The net result is a $155.8 million overall increase from $461.8 million of 1963 assessments to $617.6 million of Chapter 51 assessments for all reporting manufacturers included within the sample. These 9,543 manufacturing returns account for 48.7% of all book values reported by the 132,326 information returns tabulated. They account for 36.2% of all 1963 personal property assessments for the sample and 43.8% of all Chapter 51 assessments. The $308,310 of increased assessments under Chapter 51 for 4,904 manufacturing returns account for 55.4% of all increased assessments for 57,873 sample returns. The $152,504 of decreased assessments for 4,639 manufacturing returns account for 36.1% of all decreased assessments for 74,453 returns.

As contrasted with 47.7% for manufacturers, inventories account for 80% of all book values reported for wholesale trade and 75.6% of all book values reported for retail trade. This means that a larger portion of book values of personal property reported by trading businesses is subject to Chapter 51 assessment at 1/4 the "common level" than in the case of manufacturing business. Table 7 shows that 4,786 wholesale assessments would be increased $29.1 million under Chapter 51 and 5,370 wholesale assessments would be reduced $39 million for an overall reduction of $9.9 million in wholesale trade assessments. In the same pattern, 19,298 retail assessments would be increased $68.5 million and 24,314 retail assessments would be reduced $99.8 million for an overall reduction of $31.3 million in retail trade assessments.

Inventories comprise 10% of all book values reported by service businesses. Assessment changes for service businesses include 19,950 increases totaling $121.1 million and 24,207 decreases totaling $94.8 million with a net increase of $26.3 million for all service businesses included in the sample.

Returns from taxpayers in the professions indicate 5,461 increased personal property assessments totaling $7.1 million and 6,780 decreased assessments totaling $6.1 million. The net increase for all profession returns is $945,000 from $12,983,000 assessed in 1963 to $13,929,000 of Chapter 51 assessments.

Chapter 51 provides for the assessment of all farm personal property at 1/4 the "common level." Information returns from 7,864 farm taxpayers indicate 1,730 assessment increases totaling $869,000 and 6,134 assessment reductions totaling $7,007,000. The net result is a $6.1 million reduction for farm personal property from $10.6 million assessed in 1963 to $4.5 million assessed under Chapter 51. A few farm personal property information returns were eliminated in so far as they could be detected.

Other reported types of business show 933 assessment increases totaling $16.9 million and 1,252 assessment reductions totaling $18.5 million for a net reduction of $1.6 million. This represents a reduction from $36.5 million assessed in 1963 to $34.9 million assessed under Chapter 51. Another 2,568 information returns not indicating their type of business show 811 assessment increases totaling $4.5 million and 1,757 assessment decreases totaling $4.9 million.

Table 8 shows that every county contains businesses of every type with expected increased assessments as well as with expected decreased assessments under Chapter 51 as compared with 1963 assessed valuations. Table 9 shows total amounts of these expected assessment increases and decreases by type of business within each county. Appendix Table 1 shows the complete detail in each local taxing district comprising each county total.

DETAIL OF BUSINESS INVENTORIES

Restrictions imposed by Chapter 9, Laws of 1963, upon the detail with which owners of business personal property valued at $25,000 or less could be asked to report book values in information returns limited any possible analysis of inventory or depreciable personal property accounts to information obtained in "long forms."

Table 10 shows that book values of inventories taxable under Chapter 51 represent 68.4% of all inventory book values reported in 26,555 "long form" information returns (farms are not included). Inventories not taxable under Chapter 51 include 27.8% of all reported inventory book values classified as raw materials and supplies and 2.8% of the total representing goods stored in public warehouses. The $2.2 billion of taxable inventory book values compares with $3.1 billion of total inventory book values reported.

Among major types of business, the percentage of all inventory book values which are taxable under Chapter 51 range from 59.2% for manufacturers to 95.5% for retail trade. An exception occurs in the miscellaneous "other" business type which reports taxable inventories averaging 47.9% of their total inventory book values. Exemption of raw materials and supplies removes from the Chapter 51 tax base inventory values ranging from 2.5% of all book values reported by retail trade to 39.1% of the total reported by manufacturers. Exemption of goods stored in public warehouses removes from the tax base inventory values ranging from 5/100 of 1% of all inventory book values reported by professions to 16.7% of the total reported by miscellaneous "other" business types.

DETAIL OF DEPRECIABLE PERSONAL PROPERTY

Table 11 shows that adjusted net book value of depreciable personal property subject to taxation under Chapter 51 represents $2.5 billion of the $5.1 billion original cost of all such property reported in 26,555 "long forms."

Net book value for federal income tax purposes reported in these "long forms" totals $2.5 billion and is the result of deductions totaling $23 million of investment tax credits and $2.6 billion of depreciation from the original cost. Adjustments to federal book values for purposes of Chapter 51 include $5.8 million of first year depreciation and $11.5 million for amortization of emergency facilities added back for purposes of Chapter 51 valuation. Remaining miscellaneous adjustments may be additions or subtractions for individual taxpayers. The net of such adjustments for the 26,555 "long form" returns is a reduction of $1.8 million. Table 11 shows these adjustments for each type of business reported in information returns.

Table 12 shows that net value for purposes of Chapter 51 represents 48.9% of the original cost of all depreciable property reported. Among the types of business this percentage ranges from 42.7% for manufacturing returns to 64.2% for services. Adjustments for first year depreciation and amortization of emergency facilities have the effect of adding back to the federal depreciated value amounts equivalent to approximately 1/3 of 1% of the original cost.

PART III

ESTIMATED TOTAL EFFECT OF CHAPTER 51

Change in Personal Property Assessed Values

It is estimated that application of Chapter 51, Laws of 1960, in all local taxing districts in 1963 would have produced business and farm tangible personal assessed valuations aggregating $1,629.8 million. This would have represented an overall increase of 11% over the $1,462.7 million actually assessed.

The $167.1 million estimated statewide increase in personal property assessed values for 1963 does not mean that such assessed values would be increased in all local taxing districts. Estimates indicate that assessed values in 377 taxing districts would be increased in amounts aggregating $327 million while assessed values in the remaining 190 taxing districts would be reduced in amounts totaling $159.9 million. Table 14 shows that each of the 21 New Jersey counties contain taxing districts with expected increases as well as taxing districts with expected decreases. Among counties, net changes include $192 million of increased assessments in 15 counties and $25 million of decreased assessments in 6 counties.

Basis of Estimate

The probable change in business and farm personal property assessed valuations as a result of applying Chapter 51 in 1963 was estimated for each taxing district separately on the basis of coverage obtained from 132,326 information returns matched against actual 1963 assessments (Category 1) or found to be unassessed in 1963 (Category 2). The 41,838 information returns not matched against 1963 assessments and not determined to be unassessed in 1963 (Category 3) were not used for purposes of the estimates.

Estimating procedure is described as follows:

Step 1: Personal property assessed values for 1963 identified with information returns included within the estimating sample were totaled and expressed as a percentage of all 1963 business and farm personal property assessed valuations.

Step 2: Chapter 51 assessments were calculated from information returns included within the estimating sample - using "common levels" calculated in the manner prescribed in Chapter 51, but not in excess of Chapter 51 percentages declared by County Boards of Taxation.

Step 3: Estimated total Chapter 51 assessments were calculated on the basis of an assumption that Chapter 51 assessments calculated from information returns included within the estimating sample (step 2) represent the same percentage of all Chapter 51 assessments as their actual assessed values were to total assessed values (step 1).

Step 4: Estimated increase or decrease in personal property assessed valuations for 1963 was obtained by comparing estimated total Chapter 51 assessments (step 3) with total actual personal property assessed valuations for 1963.

Application of this procedure is shown for each local taxing district in Appendix Table A.

Aggregate results obtained for all local taxing districts appear as follows:

	$ millions
	Estimating Sample (132,326 returns)	Amount of Remainder	Total State
1963 personal property assessed valuations	$1,275.01	$187.7	$1,462.7
Chapter 51 assessment	1,408.6	221.2	1,629.8
Increase resulting from Chapter 51	$ 133.6	$ 33.5	$ 167.1

The estimate that Chapter 51 assessments upon personal property not reported in the estimating sample of 132,326 information returns would total $221.2 million is covered in part (47.3%) by $109.1 million of such assessments upon properties reported in 41,838 information returns received, but not included within the estimating sample. Subject to all the reservations implied by the fact that these unused information returns were not matched against any 1963 assessments and not determined to be unassessed, Table 15 shows that they account for portions of amounts estimated (remainder) ranging from 11.9% in Salem County to 89.5% in Atlantic County. In a number of local taxing districts, Chapter 51 assessments indicated by information returns not used in the estimating sample exceeded the estimated part (remainder) of all anticipated Chapter 51 assessments. This finding may indicate inadequacies of the estimates, or it may indicate faulty identification of taxing districts in which the properties are located.

Actual Personal Property Assessed Valuations in 1963

An important by-product of the current tabulation of personal property information returns has been a careful reexamination of personal property assessed valuations as reported in county abstracts of tax ratables. Some discrepancies of reporting were discovered and corrected in order to provide an accurate basis for comparison with potential Chapter 51 assessments. All references to 1963 actual assessments in this study relate to the corrected totals. In all instances, reference is made to total personal property assessments without breakdown by kind of property because divisions reported in County Abstracts are unreliable. The amount of total correction is indicated as follows:

Some example corrections are indicated as follows:

Assessment corrections made by County Boards of Taxation.

Assessments in local tax rolls not included in County Abstract totals.

Tangible personal property not used in business reported as business personal property.

Errors in printing and in addition.

Public utility apportionment valuations wrongly reported in County Abstract as business personal property.

Personal property reported in Abstract as real estate - also real estate reported as personal property.

Comparison with Tax Policy Commission Recommendation

In its 10th Report (January, 1963), the New Jersey Commission on State Tax Policy recommended some changes from the Chapter 51 approach to the taxation of business and farm personal property. These recommendations were as follows:

Exempt business and farm inventories from all property taxes and provide "replacement" revenue.

- Chapter 51 provides for assessment of inventories at 1/4 the "common level" upon book value.

Establish the standard of value for business and farm personal property other than inventories at 1/2 the original cost of such property to the taxpayer.

- Chapter 51 provides the standard of value at the depreciated (book) value.

Establish the taxable value for business and farm personal property at 1/2 the "common level" upon this 1/2 of the original cost.

- Chapter 51 provides taxable value at the "common level" except for farm property which is 1/4 the "common level".

Exempt personal property owned by telephone companies from property taxes and make telephone companies subject to the public utility gross receipts tax.

Personal property information returns received on "long forms" report original cost of all depreciable property. Similar information was not reported by taxpayers with property valued at $25,000 or less and filing "short forms." This means that the probable effect of the Commission recommendations could be calculated only from information reported by large taxpayers filing "long form" information returns.

Comparison of personal property assessments calculated from 26,555 "long form" returns (not including Farm returns) according to Chapter 51 and according to recommendations by the commission appears as follows:

	Amounts ($millions)	% of actual
Actual assessment, 1963	$1,083.6	100.0%
Chapter 51
Inventory	$ 225.8	20.8%
Other	1,032.8	95.3
Total	$1,258.6	116.1%
Commission Recommendation
Inventory	-	-
Other	$ 514.9	47.5%
Total	$ 514.9	47.5%

The 26,555 "long form" information returns (non-farm) used in this comparison include returns from telephone companies. This means that the comparison relates only to the methods for assessing personal property and contains no adjustment for the Commission recommendation for alternative methods for taxing telephone companies. Subject to this qualification, Table 16 shows that the Commission's recommendation would reduce personal property assessments for the example taxpayers in every county to new levels ranging from 34.6% of 1963 totals in Somerset to 77.9% of 1963 totals in Warren.

A fundamental part of the Commission program was the anticipated "replacement" of some present personal property taxes (inventories) from other sources.

Personal property assessments recommended by the Commission were expected to maintain assessed values at levels approximating assessments upon personal property other than inventories. Abstracts of tax ratables report non-farm business personal property assessed values totaling $1,435 million divided as between $549 million (38.3%) for business inventories and $886 million (61.7%) for other business personal property.

Chapter 51 contains no element of personal property tax "replacement" from non-property tax sources. It does anticipate reduced assessments upon business inventories with the expectation of corresponding increased assessments upon other classes of business personal property. For the 26,555 long form returns as a group, Chapter 51 assessments would be 16% more than 1963 actual assessments.

Rough adjustments for failure of some local taxing districts to divide business personal property assessments between the two classes indicate a more probable division assigning 42% to business inventories and 58% to other business personal property. Subject to such modification as may result from special treatment for telephone companies, the implication is that the Commission recommendations would be expected to result in business personal property assessments approximating 58% of 1963 personal property assessed values. The division of 1963 actual 1963 personal property assessed values for the 26,555 taxpayers used in this comparison is not known. For the group as a whole however, the application of the Commission recommendations would produce assessed valuations equivalent to 48% of 1963 actual assessments.

Column 1 - "Common level" shown for each local taxing district is the unweighted average percentage of true value at which real estate was found to be assessed in sales transactions used in 1963 Table of Equalized Valuations. Where "common level" exceeds assessment percentage declared by County Board of Taxation, the County percentage is shown. Chapter 51 provides for assessment of book value of inventories and farm personal property at 1/4 of this percentage and for assessment of the book value of other business personal property at this full percentage.

Column 2 - 1963 total assessment is the total assessed valuation of all business and farm personal property reported for the taxing district in 1963 County Abstract of Tax Ratables, as corrected upon review in the Study.

Column 3 - 1963 actual sample assessments is the total of all business and farm personal property assessed valuations in the taxing district upon properties reported in Information Returns used for estimating purposes.

Column 4 - % of compliance is the percentage of 1963 total assessments (Column 2) represented by 1963 actual sample assessments (Column 3).

Column 5 - Sample Chapter 51 Assessments is the total of all Chapter 51 assessments in the taxing district calculated from all information returns used for estimating purposes.

Column 6 - Estimated total Chapter 51 assessments for the taxing district is calculated on the assumption that 1963 actual sample assessments (Column 3) represents the same percentage of total Chapter 51 assessments as the % of Compliance (Column 4).

Column 7 - Increase is the dollar amount by which estimated total Chapter 51 assessments (Column 6) exceeds 1963 actual assessment (Column 1).

Column 8 - Decrease is the dollar amount by which 1963 actual assessment (Column 1) exceeds estimated total Chapter 51 assessments (Column 6).

Column 9 - Percentage is the percentage of estimated increase (Column 7) or decrease (Column 8) of estimated total Chapter 51 assessments (Column 6) over or under 1963 total assessment (Column 2). Percentage increases are shown with no sign (177.6) and percentage decreases are shown with a minus sign (41.2-).

All amounts are shown in dollars ($151,297).
Local taxing districts are shown in alphabetical order by county.
County totals are shown at the end of each county listing of local taxing districts.
State totals are shown at the end of the table.

This is the amount of investment tax credits deducted from original cost of assets for Federal income tax purposes.

Net value - Federal - is original cost minus investment tax credit and depreciation allowed for Federal income tax purposes.

All other adjustments to net value as reported in information returns, shown as + or -.

This is the total original cost of all depreciable personal property reported in non-farm "long form" information returns - classified by type of business indicated in return.

This is the amount of depreciation allowed for Federal income tax purposes and under Chapter 51.

These are amounts of additional 1st year depreciation (Sec. 179) and accelerated depreciation of emergency facilities (Sec. 168) allowed for Federal income tax purposes, but not allowed under Chapter 51 (Reg. 16:12-2.140).

Adjusted net value is net value (Federal) after adjustments shown in preceding 3 columns. Chapter 51 assessments are these values X "common levels".

Detail concerning depreciable business personal property was available only in "long form" information returns filed by taxpayers and used in the estimating sample.

Appendix Table 111 shows such detail reported in non-farm information returns. Appendix Table V shows detail reported in farm information returns.

All amounts are shown in dollars ($151,297).
Local taxing districts are shown in alphabetical order by county.
County totals are shown at the end of each county listing of local taxing districts.
State totals are shown at the end of the table.

Appendix Table IV shows the adjusted net value and each element of such adjusted net value (shown in amounts in Appendix Table III) as a percent of original cost.

All percentages are averages by type of business for depreciable personal property reported in "long form" information returns from each local taxing district.

See Appendix Table III for all explanations.

Local taxing districts are shown in alphabetical order by county. County totals (averages) are shown at the end of each county listing of local taxing districts.
State totals (averages) are shown at the end of the table.

Detail concerning depreciable business personal property was available only in "long form" information returns filed by taxpayers and used in the estimating sample.

Appendix Table III shows such detail reported in non-farm information returns. Appendix Table V shows detail reported in farm information returns.

This is the total original cost of all depreciable personal property, other than livestock, reported in farm "long term" information returns

This is the amount of investment tax credits deducted from original cost of assets for Federal income tax purposes.

This is the amount of depreciation allowed for Federal income tax purposes.

This is amount of additional 1st year depreciation (Sec. 179) allowed for Federal income tax purposes but not allowed under Chapter 51 (Reg. 16:12-2.140).

Adjusted net value is original cost minus investment tax credit and depreciation allowed; plus 1st year depreciation.

This is the value of livestock held for production - valued according to unit values specified in information return instructions.

This is the total net value of all depreciable property, including livestock held for production. Chapter 51 assessments for depreciable property are these values X 1/4 the "common level".

This is the total average inventory value of livestock and crops held for sale and subject to assessment under Chapter 51 at 1/4 the "common level". (Valued according to unit values specified in information return instructions.)

Detail concerning depreciable business personal property was available only in "long form" information returns filed by taxpayers and used in the estimating sample.

Appendix Table V shows such detail reported in farm information returns together with the reported value of livestock held for production and the value of livestock and crops held for sale (inventory).

This is the total value of farm personal property subject to assessment under Chapter 51 at 1/4 the "common level".

All amounts are shown in dollars ($151,297).
Local taxing districts are shown in alphabetical order by county.
County totals are shown at the end of each county listing of local taxing districts.
State totals are shown at the end of the table.

This is the value of livestock held for production - valued according to unit values specified in information return instructions.

This is the total net value of all depreciable property, including livestock held for production. Chapter 51 assessments for depreciable property are these values X 1/4 the "common level".

This is the total average inventory value of livestock and crops held for sale and subject to assessment under Chapter 51 at 1/4 the "common level". (Valued according to unit values specified in information return instructions).

This is the total value of farm personal property subject to assessment under Chapter 51 at 1/4 the "common level".

Chapter 9, Laws of 1963 provided that owners of business and farm personal property valued under $25,000 could be required to file only "short form" information returns showing no detail about depreciable property or inventory.

Appendix Table VI shows the non-detailed totals of personal property valuations reported in "short form" farm information returns.

All amounts are shown in dollars ($151,297).
Local taxing districts are shown in alphabetical order by county.
County totals are shown at the end of each county listing of local taxing districts.
State totals are shown at the end of the table.
