changed several job titles but did not cause a net loss in the total number of administrators.[26] As part of the reorganization, an existing administrator was promoted to the title of director of elementary education and the high school principal was transferred to the title of director of secondary education. While Phillipsburg sought to justify the reorganization in terms of greater efficiency, Business Administrator Poch was unable to produce any cost-benefit analysis and admitted that the salary cost was pretty much "a wash." Aside from meaningless generalities, the district offered no explanation as to why its administrative expenses exceed other Abbott districts or why the duties of one of the three directors could not be redistributed among the five other central office administrators.

I FIND that the central office staff could be streamlined by abolishing one director's position, at a savings of $100,000, without harming the delivery of a thorough and efficient education. Simply put, Phillipsburg has too many administrators for a district of its size.

10. 1 Full-Time Assistant Principal Totaling $84,000

Phillipsburg employs four assistant principals at the high school. In comparison, Garfield City, with comparable enrollment, has only two assistant principal at the high school. As noted, Phillipsburg ranks low on Indicators 18 and 19 for administrative efficiency and was designated a high spender in the RosenfarbWinters study. Turek believes that Phillipsburg originally shared his perception because in April 2003 the Board selected one of the four vice-principal slots for elimination.

[26] Before the reorganization, Phillipsburg had a superintendent, two assistant superintendents, a business administrator/ school board secretary, a director of reading and a special projects coordinator. After the reorganization, Phillipsburg had a superintendent, one assistant superintendent, a business administrator/school board secretary, a director of elementary education, a director of secondary education and a director of whole school reform.

George Chando, the district's director of secondary education, described the duties of a vice principal as including staff evaluation, student discipline, attendance matters, parent contact and supervision of student activities. While Chando said that services at the high school would be "strained" by the loss of one assistant principal, he never claimed that the remaining supervisors would be unable to assume the additional responsibilities.

I FIND that the administrative structure of four vice-principals at the high school is inefficient and that one of the positions could be eliminated without significant impact on student academic achievement.

11. 1 Full-Time Central Office Technology Position Totaling $50,000

Although the DOE agrees that Phillipsburg is entitled to a director of technology to oversee the district's computer system, it questions whether he also needs an assistant to help him perform his duties. Here too, Phillipsburg spends considerably more than other Abbott districts to deliver similar services. Indicator 7 shows that Phillipsburg budgeted $2,219 per pupil for support-service salaries and benefits for FY '03, compared to the Abbott state median of $1,322, and ranks 25th highest in per-pupil expense for this cost center. Likewise, Indicator 8 shows that Phillipsburg budgeted $1,480 per pupil for total administrative costs, compared to the median of $1,309, and ranks 24th highest in per-pupil expense. Attempting to explain such poor showing, Turek noted that some of the smaller districts with declining enrollment, like Phillipsburg, would like to provide the same breadth of support services as larger districts, although their smaller size cannot justify the higher per-pupil expenditure.

Larry McKenna, Phillipsburg's director of technology, testified that he is in charge of three computer technicians, who monitor and repair computer hardware. Last year, McKenna also supervised an unspecified number of technology coordinators, who worked directly with teachers "to integrate current technologies into their curriculum."

Management of Phillipsburg's student database, including attendance records and scheduling, has been outsourced to a private company in Pennsylvania.

Nonetheless, McKenna claims that he must have an assistant, possessing data processing and web-design skills, to fulfill his own managerial responsibilities. Pressed to elaborate on his assistant's duties, McKenna mentioned that his assistant makes educational materials available on the district's website, publishes data for Title I monitoring, and performs the "time-consuming" process of transferring student information at the end of the year. It turns out, however, that the task of transferring student information occurs over the summer, so that McKenna (who is a twelve-month employee), or someone under his direction, should be able to accomplish the chore without interfering with other duties during the regular school year.

I FIND that Phillipsburg is inefficient in the area of support services and does not require an extra person, at a cost of $50,000, to assist the director in managing its computer services. No evidence establishes that Phillipsburg has been unable to repair or maintain its computer system. Inadequate consideration has been given to using secretaries or clerical staff to assist with whatever data collection and analysis is not done by the outside company. Phillipsburg has failed to prove that the lack of a director's assistant will significantly impair the ability of its student body to master the core curriculum content.

12. 7 Full-Time Custodial & Security Staff Totaling $270,000

While this cost center also incorporates maintenance workers and security guards, Turek focused on inefficiencies in custodial staffing. Indicator 11, which captures costs for operation and maintenance of physical plant, shows that Phillipsburg has a per-pupil cost of $864, well above the Abbott state median of $688, and ranks 23 among the 30 districts. Several New Jersey school districts, notably Keansburg Boro and the Paterson City, have realized considerable economies by opening their cleaning operations to competitive bidding. Consequently, Turek recommended that Phillipsburg could achieve substantial savings either by reducing its janitorial staff or by privatizing its custodial operations. In lieu of privatization, Turek suggested that Phillipsburg might reduce costs by minimizing overtime and cutting back on absenteeism. Assuming an average annual salary of $38,500, Turek estimated that Phillipsburg could save about $270,000 by eliminating seven custodians.[27] Phillipsburg itself abolished two custodial positions at the end of the 2003-03 academic year, which DOE regards as tacit recognition that its custodial department was overstaffed.

National figures from a cost study cited by DOE indicate that the median amount of square footage maintained per full-time custodial worker is 24,167.[28] Although the study has definite limitations, it offers a reasonable approximation of an acceptable workload for one custodian.[29] Applied to the total area of 420,960 square feet in Phillipsburg's physical plant, the study suggests that Phillipsburg only needs 18 full-time custodians to clean its buildings.

Phillipsburg seeks to retain its full complement of 35 custodial positions existing as of June 2003 and to add an additional custodial position. At the commencement of the 2003-2004 academic year, Phillipsburg had five vacant custodial positions and would have to remove another two custodians to attain DOE's goal of reducing seven positions. William Poch, school business administrator, maintained that DOE overstates the savings obtainable through the reduction of seven custodians, because seniority rules require that the district lay off lowest-paid workers first. He calculates actual savings from a reduction of seven custodial positions to be $215,131.

[27] It is not exactly clear how Turek arrived at this number, but apparently it represents the savings that he hoped Phillipsburg could achieve if they privatized custodial services.

[28] 32nd Annual Maintenance and Operations Cost Study, published in AMERICAN SCHOOL & UNIVERSITY MAGAZINE 32 (April 2003).

[29] The article cautions that, "When using these figures as a benchmark, keep in mind that all costs are greatly affected by a number of factors, including the age and overall condition of buildings, climate, the labor market in your area, as well as other aspects over which school administrations have limited control." (at 32-34).

Evidence shows that Phillipsburg's school buildings are relatively old, with the oldest dating back to 1927 and others built during the 1930's. Presumably, older buildings would require more maintenance and upkeep than newer structures. Conspicuously absent from the testimony, however, is any showing that the facilities in Phillipsburg are especially dilapidated or in need of repair. Instead, Tom Scerbo, Phillipsburg's director of facilities, testified that the thirty or so trailers serving as temporary classroom space are "a nightmare to clean" because of difficulty in moving furniture in such confined quarters. Scerbo anticipated that the proposed reduction of custodians would mean that his staff would no longer be able to continue wiping desktops, emptying wastebaskets and cleaning bathrooms on a daily basis. He predicted that less frequent cleaning might lead to a greater incidence of illness among students and teachers.

With respect to privatization, Poch stated that it would be extremely difficult to accomplish in FY '04 because the district's current contract with its custodial staff will not expire until June 2004.[30] Checking with colleagues in other New Jersey school districts, Poch learned of serious tradeoffs resulting from privatization, such as less dedication to the job, higher rates of absenteeism and loss of control over work product.[31] Hunterdon Central Regional High School District, which returned to a district-operated custodial staff after experimenting with privatization, reported that their experience had been "very negative."[32]

I FIND that the truth lies somewhere between the two extremes advocated by the litigants. Phillipsburg has not adequately explained why its custodial services are so labor intensive. DOE, on the other hand, has not presented a persuasive case for [30] But see Impey v. Board of Education, 142 N.J. 388 (1995), holding that a school board may legally terminate employment of tenured teachers and subcontract their former duties to an outside agency.

[31] For a frank discussion of the drawbacks of privatization, see "Privatization of Custodial Services – Lessons Learned" on the website of the Paterson Public School District. http://inet.paterson.k12.nj.us/~maintenance/ARTICLE2.html replacing the district's entire custodial staff. Any decision by the local board to privatize custodial services should be reached only after careful consideration of all alternatives and not in the heated context of Abbott litigation. A suitable middle ground is for Phillipsburg not to fill the five custodial positions that existed throughout most of FY '03 but are presently vacant. Elimination of five custodians at the district's lowest average salary of $30,700 should produce a savings in the neighborhood of $153,500.

13 . Rental Costs for Armory Totaling $49,855

Phillipsburg houses three of its kindergarten classes in a portion of an armory, which it leases from the Department of Military & Veteran's Affairs. Phillipsburg's School-Based Youth Services ("SBYS") occupy the rest of the building, and its costs are subsidized by federal grants. The present arrangement is only temporary. Plans are afoot for Phillipsburg to vacate the armory and consolidate its far-flung kindergarten operations at a single location by September 2005. In the meantime, Pat Cawley, Phillipsburg's director of elementary education, has examined the available alternatives and concluded that it is "not feasible" to find sufficient classroom space for the 57 kindergarten students elsewhere in the district.

Turek contemplated that Phillipsburg could save rent of $49,855 if it broke up existing kindergarten classes and rearranged elementary class configurations to free up additional classroom space in other elementary schools. This idea is an offshoot of Turek's proposal to increase kindergarten class size up to the state maximum of 21 students.[33]

I FIND that it would be unrealistic to attempt to redistribute three large kindergarten classes to other school facilities, especially since the temporary housing

[32] Besides the direct disadvantages to the district, there are accompanying social costs, including loss of local jobs in an economically depressed area and potential undermining of good will towards the school system.

[33] N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.2 requires full-day kindergarten for all five-year-old children in Abbott districts, staffed by one teacher and one aide, and prescribes that maximum class size "shall not exceed 21 children." It does not, however, prohibit a smaller class size.

arrangements are expected to last only two years. Transferring young children, now that the children are just getting accustomed to their new routine, would be highly disruptive and likely to have adverse educational and social effects.

14. Supplies and Materials Totaling $175,000

Entries in this cost center are for "amounts paid for material items of an expendable nature that are consumed, worn out, or deteriorated by use." DOE did not cut any school-based supplies used by teachers or children, such as paper, pencils, erasers and books, so that the proposed reductions are addressed to non-instructional consumables used by district personnel such as board members, central-office administrators, custodians, substance-abuse counselors and computer technicians. Due to the lack of a relevant indicator on the comparative spending guide, Turek made his determination solely on the basis of the RosenfarbWinters study, which flagged inefficient spending of $215,753 in the total supplies and materials account.

Turek refined his analysis into an alleged inefficiency of $75,000 for maintenance supplies and materials and $100,000 for administrative office supplies and materials. Reportedly, this more precise breakdown came from some unidentified "documentation" that never made its way into RosenfarbWinters' final report. Prior to the hearing, DOE failed to make a copy of this document available to Phillipsburg. During the hearing, Turek could neither produce the document nor recall its contents in detail. He admitted making "a quick evaluation" of these other accounts.

Phillipsburg had originally budgeted $229,300 for maintenance supplies and materials in FY '03, but expended only $151,412 because of a self-imposed "freeze" on expenses instituted mid-year. Average expenditure for this line item over the last four years has been $180,438. Director of Facilities Tom Scerbo testified that he had deferred much-needed repairs to the FY'04 budget, including the purchase of new motors for the heating system and an ejector pump for Green Street School. A cut of an additional $75,000 from the amount spent last year would virtually cut his supplies budget in half and devastate his capacity to maintain the safety of the school buildings.

Because of a lack of storage space, Phillipsburg keeps a very low inventory of replacement parts. In response to an inquiry, William Poch assured the DOE that Phillipsburg participates in a cooperative purchasing arrangement with over one hundred school districts and obtains quotes for every expense that exceeds the statutory threshold.

Referring to unaudited figures, Poch testified that last year Phillipsburg budgeted $257,500 for administrative-office supplies but spent only $150,517. Over the most recent four-year period, the average cost has been $161,915. A large part of this category is for copy paper purchased in bulk for sending newsletters to parents and for the drug-and-alcohol program and whole school reform. Paper alone costs $24,000 to $30,000 per year.[34] Another big-ticket item is computer supplies, including replacement parts, which last year came to $58,658.

I FIND that DOE has not adequately demonstrated that Phillipsburg has inefficient expenditures in the two named accounts. Unable to specify the information on which he relied, Turek cited composite data from the RosenfarbWinters study that does not provide adequate detail. Phillipsburg's voluntary budget freeze in this cost center in FY '03 resulted in considerably less spending for supplies and materials in these categories than its average annual expenses during the preceding four years. Forced to accept an additional $175,000 cut on top of its self-imposed budgetary discipline, Phillipsburg would not have sufficient supplies and materials to carry out its essential responsibilities.

15. Part-Time Substitute Caller Totaling $13,000

Relying on RosenfarbWinters study of total administrative salaries, Turek postulated that Phillipsburg could dispense with employment of a substitute caller and shift her duties to existing personnel without incurring additional expense. RosenfarbWinters highlighted inefficiencies totaling $1.4 million in the non-instructional salaries account, but did not single out the substitute caller in particular. While Turek did not explore the feasibility or cost of other alternatives, he speculated that "maybe" someone else could handle the task in exchange for "comp time" or a lesser stipend.

[34] Some of the paper supplies were apparently distributed to schools "without charging back" and probably should have been reported in the school-based budget accounts.

Every school district must make some arrangement to obtain substitutes for absent teachers and staff members. Summarized in a written job description, Phillipsburg's substitute caller "works early mornings (M-F) and early evenings (Sun-Th) to arrange coverage for employees who are using sick, vacation, family illness or personal days." Currently, the retired person who occupies this part-time position earns salary of $13,000 per year and does not receive paid vacation time or health insurance benefits. Even though she is only paid for a thirty-hour workweek, she is usually available on call throughout the school day.

Jackie Attinello, assistant superintendent in charge of operations, calculated that it would cost an average of $26,945 per year to assign a secretary to perform the same service. Secretaries working an identical thirty-hour workweek would be entitled under their contract to overtime at time-and-a half. Requiring secretaries to come early and stay late in order to perform this routine clerical task would interfere with performance of their secretarial duties. In an informal survey, Phillipsburg ascertained that nine other Abbott districts also employ a substitute caller, four others use secretaries and one uses an outside service. Burlington City, with roughly half the student enrollment of Phillipsburg, pays its substitute caller $7,000 per year.

I FIND that DOE has not shown that Phillipsburg's employment of a substitute caller is inefficient or that someone else is willing to do the work more cheaply. To the contrary, payment of a secretary at overtime rates is likely to be more costly and take away time from important secretarial duties.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the DOE's emergency regulations are fully consistent with the New Jersey Supreme Court's order to establish standards for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of non-instructional programs.

Long before its recent reminder, the Court recognized the obligation of DOE to devise firm administrative controls to ensure that the increased funding made available to Abbott districts "was spent effectively and efficiently." Abbott V, 153 N.J. at 492. Delegation of rulemaking authority to an administrative agency is designed to permit the appropriate governmental body with the staff, resources and expertise to understand and solve highly specialized problems. Steven L Lefelt, 37 N.J. Prac. Series, "Administrative Law & Practice," §2.12 (West 2003). The Legislature has vested the Commissioner of Education with broad supervisory powers over the public school system, including express power to withhold State aid from any school district which fails "to obey the law or the rules or directions of the state board or the commissioner." N.J.S.A. 18A:55-2. Jenkins v. Twp. of Morris Sch. Dist., 58 N.J. 483, 507 (1971).

Preliminarily, Phillipsburg argues that the Commissioner deviated from binding judicial interpretation by adopting a "maintenance budget" standard that excludes programs or services "approved" but not actually "provided" in the base year. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. Orders entered by the Office of Administrative Law have uniformly rejected Phillipsburg's legal argument, either on the substantive ground that the Commissioner's regulation is consistent with the Supreme Court's ruling, Judge Martone's view in Board of Educ. of Neptune. v. N.J. Dep't of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4096-03 (Sept. 11, 2003), or on the procedural ground of lack of jurisdiction, Judge Tassini's view in Board of Educ. of Asbury Park v. N.J. Dep't of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4095-03 (Sept. 4, 2003). The rationale of those cases is equally applicable here.

In passing, it is worth noting that the subtleties of the situation may require analysis of the particular facts in order to resolve what Phillipsburg conceptualizes as a legal question. When an Abbott district accepts state aid for an approved service, but fails to provide it and diverts the money to other purposes, one can easily see why that amount should be deducted from the maintenance budget in the following year. Results may be different, however, where a district makes a good faith effort to provide a particular service, but cannot find a qualified person willing and able to do the job. These niceties need not concern us, however, since Phillipsburg made no showing that it was prevented from delivering approved goods or services in FY '03 due to circumstances beyond its control.

Emphasis in the Supreme Court's recent ruling is on controlling wasteful spending in administrative overhead and non-instructional programs, without hampering a district's capacity to provide quality school-based services directly to students. Abbott funding was never intended to create additional layers of bureaucracy, but rather to expand educational opportunities and promote greater learning. Emergency regulations adopted by DOE foster the academic goal of enabling students to achieve core curriculum content standards and read at appropriate grade level. In keeping with the spirit of this approach, this decision gives close scrutiny to central office and supervisory expenses not directly related to classroom teaching.

Lastly, Phillipsburg raises the perplexing issue that DOE has been inconsistent in applying the same regulatory standard to different Abbott districts. As one of many examples, DOE slashed petitioner's custodial and maintenance expenses because Phillipsburg ranked 23rd from the top of the relevant indicator, but did not take similar action against Newark, which ranked 30th on the same scale. Turek was not responsible for conducting the review of Newark's budget and was unable to say what local circumstances may have led his colleague to make a different judgment call. Equal protection does not require mathematic exactitude, so long as distinctions are reasonably related to a legitimate state objective. Security Heritage, Inc. v. City of Cape May, 361 N.J. Super. 281, 300 (App. Div. 2003). If Phillipsburg is inefficient in providing custodial and maintenance services, the condition cannot be ignored merely because another district happened to get away with it.

Order

It is ORDERED that the DOE restore $94,049 for in-class support teachers, $160,749 for preschool handicapped teachers, $60,000 for instructional aides, $40,000 for an athletic trainer, $100,000 for legal fees, $116,500 for custodial and maintenance serves, $49,855 for armory rental costs, $175,000 for supplies and materials and $13,000 for a substitute caller.

It is further ORDERED that, in all other respects, DOE's determination of Phillipsburg's maintenance budget for 2003-2004 is upheld.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF PHILLIPSBURG, WARREN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties' exceptions and replies were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner initially concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to consider petitioner's argument regarding the validity and applicability of the regulation at issue, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003.

Further, based on the record before him and the credibility assessments of the ALJ, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's factual findings and determines that his analysis and legal conclusions are consistent with the Supreme Court's Order, as well as the Department's regulations.[1] [2] In so concurring, the Commissioner finds that, except as specifically noted in the text of the Initial Decision, the Department's determination of Phillipsburg's maintenance budget is upheld.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.[3]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[1] In so concluding, the Commissioner finds that, to the extent positions were restored herein, all such positions, together with their concomitant health benefits, if any, are subject to the findings and conclusions at pages 7 and 8 of the Initial Decision regarding the application of the Department's methodology to determine increases in salaries and health benefits.

[2] The Commissioner clarifies that in concurring with the ALJ's conclusion that five of the vacant custodial positions remain unfilled, it is his intent that these positions be eliminated.

[3] The Commissioner so determines, based upon the proofs brought to this record, while acknowledging that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) until November 2003. In any event, beyond his determination herein, the Commissioner underscores the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

[4] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 22, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Abbott District challenged what should properly be included in its budget as "non-discretionary" items and the Department of Education's determination of excess fund balance as of June 30, 2003.

The ALJ notes there are two issues: (1) whether the District has demonstrated that certain items are nondiscretionary and should, therefore, be added to the base 2002-03 budget and (2) whether the District has demonstrated that the 2% undesignated fund balance and excess surplus were improperly calculated by the Department. The ALJ found that No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Supplementary Services, the NCLB ESL Paraprofessional Position, the two ESL Positions and the two Balanced Literacy Positions should be considered "non-discretionary," but that radon testing, the Tienet testing and the position of Director of Security should not. Additionally, the ALJ found that the District had carried its burden of demonstrating that the 2% undesignated fund balance and excess surplus were improperly calculated by the Department.

The Commissioner modified the Initial Decision. On the latter issue, the Commissioner adopts the conclusion of the ALJ, subject to the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) in November 2003. However, the Commissioner set aside the ALJ's conclusion that items (a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (h), in part, are properly considered "non-discretionary," within the intendment of the Supreme Court's Order.

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner ("BOE" or "the District") appeals the determination by respondent ("DOE" or "the Department") of the BOE's maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year, including the Department's estimated need for discretionary additional Abbott v. Burke State aid (Exhibit R-1).

A detailed procedural history of this year's Abbott cases is set forth in the September 20, 2003 initial decision of Administrative Law Judge John R. Tassini in the case of Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. State of New Jersey, Department of Education, (OAL Dkt. # EDU 4095-03) and need not be repeated here.

The hearing in this matter was scheduled to begin on September 23, 2003 but had to be adjourned and rescheduled because petitioner's counsel was still in trial on another Abbott case in which he had been retained.

A further complication arose on September 19, 2003 when the Department advised the District that it had discovered a mathematical error in its calculations of the District's maintenance budget, resulting in a reduction of supplemental aid from $10,076,681 to $2,453,449. This dramatic reduction led the District to raise a host of new and unanticipated issues. A new hearing date was set for September 30, 2003, and the hearing began late that afternoon. Prior thereto, after extensive discussions and negotiations, most of the issues were resolved. The hearing concluded on October 1, 2003.[1] Counsel submitted letter memoranda on October 2, 2003, on which date the record closed.

The following stipulations were made by counsel at the outset of the hearing:

1. The District stipulates to all DOE figures on the DOE's maintenance budget worksheet through the EC Plan figures for 2002-03 and 2003-04. The District reserves its right to challenge the DOE's definition of "maintenance budget."

2. The District stipulates to the figures in the DOE maintenance budget worksheet for salaries, health benefits, charter school tuition, and CPI as 2.1%

[1] Altogether five witnesses testified for petitioner and one witness for the Department. All of them were candid, credible, and helpful. However, I was most impressed with the District's witnesses, whom I found to be very knowledgeable and well-prepared.

3. The DOE stipulates to an increase of $640,200 plus the increase of $76,210 or a total increase of $716,410 in special education tuition.

4. The DOE stipulates to the amount of $241,800 for Haines WSR implementation.

5. The DOE stipulates to an increase of $464,654 for curricular materials/books.

6. The DOE stipulates to an increase of $240,000 for basic skills math teachers.

7. The DOE stipulates to an increase of $360,000 for world language teachers.

8. The DOE stipulates to an increase of $130,00 for two police officers.

9. The District stipulates to the withdrawal of the Information Technology Salary.

10. The DOE stipulates to an increase of $151,966 in utilities.

11. The District stipulates to the DOE's figure of $25,830 in decrease in federal aid.

12. The District stipulates to the revenue figures for 2003-04 with the exception of IDEA revenue and excess surplus.

13. The DOE stipulates to the District's food service deficit calculation, subject to receipt of the CAFR.

14. The District withdraws the appeal on the issue of the reserve for encumbrances, based on the understanding that no later than October 21, 2003, the parties will meet and determine the encumbrances allocable to the 2002-2003 school year budget.

15. The DOE stipulates that on Exhibit R-2A (the revised maintenance budget worksheet) the difference between the District's EC Plan 03-04 and EC Plan 02-03 should be $631,000 rather than $669,000.

16. The DOE has agreed to a contracted transportation runs increase in the amount of $35,290.00.

17. The District and the DOE have agreed that on page 2 of Exhibit R-2A, the IDEA revenue increase should be $173,741 instead of $62,371.00.

The parties have agreed that two major issues remain. They are as follows:

1. Whether the District has demonstrated that the following items are non-discretionary items that should be added to the base 2002-2003 State Program budget:

(a) NCLB Supplementary Services
(b) NCLB Supplementary Services (2 additional schools)
(c) NCLB ESL Requirements
(d) Other ESL Requirements
(e) Balanced Literacy Requirements
(f) Radon Testing
(g) Tienet Testing
(h) Approved positions for FY 2002-2003

2. Whether the District demonstrated that the 2% undesignated fund balance and excess surplus were improperly calculated by the Department.

For the reasons to be expressed hereafter, I am of the opinion that - - with the exception of items 1.(f) and (g) and one position in (h), to be discussed below - - these questions should be answered in the affirmative.

Iliana Okum, the District's Assistant Director of Elementary Instructional Services, testified at length about the educational requirements imposed by both federal and state law. She explained that the federal "No Child Left Behind Law" ("NCLB"), which became effective on January 2, 2002, requires that certain school districts (of which Pemberton is one), provide extra instructional services to eligible students[2] immediately after the regular school day has ended. These extra services are primarily in "Language Arts" (reading, writing, speaking and listening) and in mathematics, i.e., the fundamentals or basic skills required of an educated person.

Out of the 11 schools in Pemberton Township, five have been designated "Category I" schools (schools in need of improvement). Two of the five have only recently been identified. According to a formula devised by the Department, approximately $1000 per student must be "set aside" by the District for the provision of such extra instruction, i.e., cannot be used for any other educational services, as had been the case in the 2002-2003 school year. Thus, a substantial number of other educational services (which had been funded in 2002-2003) will not be provided in 2003-2004 unless the District receives additional monies. The additional monies being sought total $401,638, including monies for the two recently added "Category I" schools.

According to Ms. Okum, there are requirements under both the NCLB law and under state regulations, to help Limited English-Proficient ("LEP") students. There are additional mandates to assist the "lowest performers" of the student population to pass the ESPA and GEPA tests given to all students every year. Yet, in the 2002-2003 school year, none of the 47

[2] There are approximately 350 students in five schools who are so eligible.

LEP students in the school system passed the ESPA and GEPA tests, and preliminary indications are that there will be an increase in the number of LEP students in the 2003-2004 school year.

Further, according to Ms. Okum, the District has not yet been able to fully comply with the Department's mandate (found in N.J.A.C. 6A:15-1.4) to establish a bi-lingual education program, although it does have one ESL (English as a second language) teacher serving the Denbo School and another ESL teacher serving three other schools. The teacher serving the Denbo School does not speak Spanish, even though Spanish-speaking students are the most numerous of the District's LEP students.

In order to comply with the aforesaid requirements and mandates, the District needs at least one ESL paraprofessional to assist a regular ESL teacher ($12,000), two new ESL teachers ($80,000), and two reading specialists (to serve the middle school and the high school) ($80,000).[3]

One of the subjects on which Patricia Austin (the District's Business Administrator) testified was a $10,000 item for radon testing. Referring to Exhibits R-8 and R-9, she noted that in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:20-40 all public schools must be tested for radon by September 2005 and that DOE "strongly recommends that schools . . . begin planning and budgeting for radon testing now [January 29, 2003]." She declared that the $10,000 item was calculated based on the District's having to place radon test kits (at $20 per kit) in 500 school rooms, and that the $20 figure was a minimum dollar amount.

Another of petitioner's witnesses was Charles A. Highsmith, Jr. (Director of Instructional Services). He stated that the "Tienet" item ($83,775) was the cost for obtaining and using a new test to "disaggregate" statistics and data so as to show the educational performance of students by designated sub-groups (primarily racial, ethnic, sex, and socioeconomic), required by the NCLB Act. The test used in 2002-2003, the "Stanford 9" test, did not effectively do this. Tienet was chosen after an investigation by a committee of administrators and teachers indicated that it was the best of several alternative programs and could do the job.

[3] At present, there are no reading specialist serving the middle school and the high school.

The Department did not offer any testimony or evidence disputing the District's claim that it needed the funding to meet state and federal mandates. Its only witness, Andrew Bishop, is not a program manager and stated that he had little knowledge of programmatic requirements under federal or state law. Indeed, he did not believe that he was responsible for providing funding to meet legal mandates, but only to approve funding for Abbott remedies.

A determination of which of the foregoing items is allowable depends on the definition of the phrase "maintenance budget." In applicable part, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 states that:

> 'Maintenance budget' means . . . a budget funded at a level such that the District can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures . . . . Maintenance does not include . . . new programs, positions or services . . . . (emphasis supplied)

As indicated, the operative phrase is "non-discretionary." The question is whether the phrase should be given a broad and expansive interpretation or a narrow and restricted one. In essence, the District argues for the former and DOE for the latter. I agree with the District.

The District has no discretion in deciding whether to comply or not with the NCLB Act and with state laws and regulations. It is required to do so, and, in my opinion it has clearly demonstrated that it needs the additional teachers and other instructional persons in order to do so.

Furthermore, the long history of Abbott v. Burke litigation manifests an unwavering intention by the Supreme Court to require the State and the Department to be generous in meeting the educational needs of all of the children of the State in order to comply with the Constitutional mandate of a "thorough and efficient education." It seems unlikely that the Court would now give the phrase "non-discretionary" the crabbed and narrow interpretation urged by the Department.

For these reasons, I believe that all of the items under numbers 1. (a) – (h) should be considered "non-discretionary" except for: radon testing (not actually required to be done until September 2005; Tienet testing (insufficient evidence that present testing programs and methods are unable to do the job); and the position of Director of Security found in item 1. (h) (this position was not filled either in whole or in part during the 2002-2003 school year, but remained vacant).

Testifying on behalf of the District on the issue of the 2% undesignated fund balance and excess surplus were Rodney R. Haines, C.P.A., [an independent auditor retained by the District to perform the Annual Comprehensive Financial Review ("CAFR")]; James J. Flanagan, C.P.A. (Assistant Business Administrator); and Patricia Austin (Business Administrator). Testifying for the Department was Andrew Bishop, C.P.A.

In Exhibit R-1, the budget decision letter dated August 27, 2003, DOE claims that the District had a sufficient excess fund balance, as of June 30, 2003, to eliminate the Abbott v. Burke State aid receivable for the 2002-2003 school year. Otherwise, the District would have been entitled to the amount of that receivable ($1,179,648) in July 2003 to apply to the 2002-2003 budget. DOE further contends that, even after that deduction, the District had sufficient excess balance to allocate to the 2003-2004 school year budget and, in addition, had sufficient funds to reach 2% in the undesignated general fund balance, the allowable amount under the FY 2004 Appropriations Act and applicable regulations. The District disputes these determinations.

Mr. Bishop testified that in his calculations he had used a $1.2 million number he obtained from the June 30, 2002 CAFR, but he did not produce the CAFR to support his statement. He admitted - - and it was confirmed by the testimony of Patricia Austin and Rodney Haines - - that this is the first time that the Department has projected a surplus balance and fund balance in advance of DOE's receipt and review of the CAFR. He could not explain why the Department made this change.

Ms. Austin testified that the District had no surplus in the 2001-2002 school year and that the only $1.2 million dollar item in the District's 2003-2004 budget relating to reserves was in the capital outlay account, which is a dedicated reserve allowable under DOE regulations. In other words, Ms. Austin claimed the Department mistakenly assumed a $1.2 million dollar surplus from 2001-2002 that did not actually exist.

The second component of the Projected Surplus Balance was information obtained from the Board Secretary's Report. Mr. Bishop candidly admitted that this was based on a "snapshot" taken on June 30, 2003, and that Mr. Haines' figures on the excess surplus calculations are more current. Also, he conceded that the Department's projected surplus as of June 30, 2003 did not take into account the information derived from the accrual method of accounting, which is required under DOE regulations (see N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2(c)(3)), but rather focused on circumstances as of that date. Under the accrual method, the District must record expenses when legally obligated to pay them, even though they may not actually be paid until a much later date.

The result of DOE's surplus calculations is to: (1) deprive the District of the Abbott v. Burke receivable for 2002-2003 in the amount of $1,179,648; (2) require the District to add $539,957 in the 2003-2004 budget since DOE found alleged excess surplus for 2002-2003; and (3) deprive the District of funding needed in 2003-2004 to fill any shortfall below 2% in the excess surplus.

In contrast to the Department's methodology, Mr. Haines testified that he calculated the excess surplus using the official DOE calculation sheet and the procedures he would ordinarily follow in an audit. He also utilized information from the District based on accrual accounting rather than merely taking a "snapshot" as of June 30, 2003. The result of Mr. Haines' excess surplus calculation was that the District had a surplus of $1,029,540, well below the 2% allowable amount of $1,553,127.

In short, it appears that: (1) the basis of the Department's calculation of Projected Surplus Balance is unsupported by the record and conflicts with the accrual method of accounting; (2) the District's more current determination of the surplus balance follows applicable regulations and prescribed methodology for the annual audit; (3) until this year, DOE had waited for the audited numbers in the CAFR to make adjustments to the excess fund balance; and (4) DOE's method of calculating the 2% surplus results in depriving the District of an Abbott v. Burke receivable for 2002-2003 in the amount of $1,179,606, as well as the $523,588 it needs to reach the allowable 2% undesignated general fund balance. I believe, moreover, that the Department has also mistakenly required the District to allocate $539,957 of alleged surplus fund balance in excess of 2% to the 2003-2004 budget when the evidence established that the District's actual surplus is considerably below the 2% allowable amount.

The sum total of these errors is to deprive the District of an Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid receivable of $1,179,606 that the District was entitled to have in order to meet obligations in the 2002-2003 school year and to reduce the District's Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid award in 2003-2004 by $1,063,544 (the sum of $539,956 and $523,588).

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons stated above, I CONCLUDE that: (1) petitioner has been able to carry its burden of proving that Items number 1(a), (b), (c), (d), (e), and (h) (except for the Director of Security position) are non-discretionary and should be added to the base 2003-2004 State Program budget; and (2) the District has carried its burden of proving that the 2% undesignated fund balance and excess surplus were improperly calculated by the Department and should be readjusted as indicated heretofore. The Department should revise the District's Maintenance Budget, including the estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid, accordingly. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties' exceptions and replies were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner initially concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to consider petitioner's argument regarding the validity and applicability of the regulation at issue, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003.

Next, the Commissioner recognizes that the Supreme Court's Order provides that the Department "shall bear the [initial] burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the [Abbott] district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations."Abbott v. Burke, M-976 September Term 2002, at 7. However, the Department did not reduce the District's maintenance budget based on ineffectiveness or inefficiency. (Pemberton's Exceptions at 3) Therefore, the Commissioner notes that the District bears the burden of proving that the Department's calculations were unreasonable or otherwise improper. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c).

There are essentially two issues before the Commissioner: whether the District has demonstrated that certain items are nondiscretionary and should, therefore, be added to the base 2002-03 budget and whether the District has demonstrated that the 2% undesignated fund balance and excess surplus were improperly calculated by the Department. On the latter issue, the Commissioner adopts the conclusion of the ALJ at page 10, subject to adjustment after receipt of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) in November 2003.

The Commissioner does not, however, concur with the ALJ that the items proposed by the District, enumerated as (a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (h)[1] in the Initial Decision at page 4, are properly considered "non-discretionary," within the intendment of the Supreme Court's Order.[2]

[1] That is, positions other than the Director of Security.

[2] The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that item (f) Radon testing and item (g) Tienet testing, cannot be considered nondiscretionary maintenance budget items.

In this connection, the Commissioner notes that the pertinent regulations provide the following definition of maintenance budget:

> [F]or the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that a district can implement 2002-3003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions or services unless necessary to meet Paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

Here, the District asserts that the No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Supplementary Services for the Busansky Elementary School, the Stackhouse Elementary School and the Fort Middle School ($251,638), the NCLB Supplementary Services for the Denbo Elementary School and the Pemberton High School ($150,000) and the NCLB ESL Paraprofessional Position ($12,001) should be considered nondiscretionary. The District reasons that, as a result of a mandatory set-aside of funds for supplemental services in these schools, it "does not have that funding to provide in 2003-04 the positions, programs and services in the basic skills area that were provided to students in these schools during the 2002-03 school year." (Pemberton's Post-hearing Brief, October 2, 2003, at 3)[3] Quite simply, the District asserts that, "[r]egardless of the source of the legal mandate, the District has an obligation to meet federal and state legal requirements, and that obligation renders such expenditures non-discretionary in the 2003-04 school year." (Id. at 4)

[3] Notably, however, the District does not provide detail with respect to those programs and services which, it alleges, were approved and provided for 2002-03 and will be sacrificed to the NCLB program and position requirements for the 2003-04 school year.

The Commissioner finds, however, that the District has failed to meet its burden of demonstrating that these items are "non-discretionary" within the intendment of the Supreme Court's Order and the implementing regulations, supra, where the NCLB Supplementary Services and NCLB ESL Paraprofessional Position were neither approved nor provided in 2002-03, and where the District failed to present evidence that it considered other resources or reallocations in order to meet these new requirements. In so finding, the Commissioner notes that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant.

Similarly, the Commissioner finds that the two ESL positions ($80,000) and the two Balanced Literacy Positions ($80,000) are unquestionably positions which were neither approved nor provided in the 2002-03 school year. As such, these positions cannot be considered within the definition of "maintenance budget" and are beyond the scope of the Supreme Court's Order and the implementing regulations.

Finally, the Commissioner acknowledges that the District seeks $312,353 in salary prorations that were filled for less than the full 2002-03 school year. However, the Department takes the position, and the Commissioner so upholds, that under the maintenance definition, positions are properly funded in accordance with the amounts actually spent on those salaries in the 2002-03 school year, along with the nondiscretionary salary increases, that is, "[t]he district will receive funding for any teacher or substitute that was employed last year based on the amount that the district paid to those individuals plus the agreed contracted salary rate increase agreed upon." (Department's Exceptions at 7-8)

In so finding, the Commissioner notes that the Department's overall charge in this matter was to determine the level of 2003-04 funding that would enable the District to continue in a "maintenance" mode, that is, to implement in 2003-04 the programs, services and positions provided in 2002-03. While it is true that dollar amounts actually paid out for staffing prior to June 30, 2003 will not perfectly predict the cost of providing comparable staffing in the next, it is equally true that originally budgeted amounts and other similar projections are no less imprecise. Thus, in the Commissioner's view, a methodology which preliminarily establishes the 2003-04 cost of providing positions at "maintenance" levels by determining, as nearly as possible without benefit of audit, the actual approved cost of providing them in 2002-03 and then allowing for reasonable, nondiscretionary adjustments, is a uniform, fair and rational method for estimating future expenditures which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision. In this connection, the Commissioner is not persuaded that this method does not take into account vacancies, retirements, substitutes and positions filled for only part of the year, since variances of these types occur every year and a preliminary district-wide salary budget is appropriately based on the assumption that staffing is a flexible and continuous process, with ebbs and flows that, absent specific evidence to the contrary, generally permit the projection of one year's experience onto the next.[4] To the extent that results may be imperfect, even after adjustment following audit, as noted above, N.J.A.C. 6A: 10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant.

[4] Moreover, as the Department noted and the District does not dispute:

> [T]he District failed to meet its obligation under N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(b)2 and 3, [which] required a district prior to submitting its application for additional supplemental funding, to consider its salary appropriations for vacant positions and salary breakage for replacement of retiring staff during the upcoming budget year. Mr. James Flanagan, Assistant Business Administrator for Pemberton testified that he had not completed a salary breakage analysis for the district for the 02-03 school year. (Department's Exceptions at 8)

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is modified as set forth herein.[5]

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the definition of "maintenance budget" set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 conflicts with the July 23, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court and, therefore, should not govern the case; that the Department's calculation for charter school tuition did not take into account the correct and actual documented increases in tuition; and that the Department's calculation for utilities rate increases fails to include the utilities costs for two buildings that were not fully utilized in the 2002-03 school year.

The ALJ found: 1) the rule duly promulgated to implement the Court's Order for "maintenance" controlled in this proceeding, and that the Office of Administrative Law lacked jurisdiction to determine its validity; 2) that the Department properly adjusted the maintenance calculation for charter school tuition; and 3) that the proofs offered by the District in support of its projected utility rate cost increase were deficient and devoid of any competent evidence that would offer credence to the District's position in this regard. The ALJ upheld the Department's calculations, concluding that the Department properly determined the District's increase in utilities costs in accordance with established Supreme Court criteria and appropriate Department regulations, with such calculations being subject to adjustment upon receipt of supportive information from the District in the course of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) process.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions and adopted the Initial Decision.

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Board of Education of the City of East Orange ("petitioner" or "District"), the operator of an urban special needs "Abbott" school district, appeals from the determination of the New Jersey State Department of Education ("DOE" or "Department") establishing the District's "preliminary maintenance budget" for the 2003-2004 school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3.

On March 24, 2003, the DOE moved before the New Jersey Supreme Court for an Order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). Specifically, the DOE requested that discretionary supplemental aid be limited in the years 2003-2004 to providing support for programs, positions and services approved for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center responded and cross-moved for an Order setting an expedited schedule for the DOE's decisions on district budget approvals and appeals. Following Court-ordered mediation, the parties agreed to an expedited schedule, pursuant to which respondent was to issue its determinations by May 30, 2003. The agreement further provided for a review process with hearings before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). On May 20, 2003, the Court entered an Order incorporating the agreement.

On May 30, 2003, the DOE rendered decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets. In this matter, by letter of that date, the District was notified that DOE had completed its initial review of the 2003-2004 budget, and that the budget had passed all required edit checks with no errors, and further, that the budget had been approved except as delineated in the letter. On June 6, 2003, the District's Verified Petition of Appeal was filed with the Department and the matter was, in turn, transmitted to the OAL on June 9, 2003. On June 16, 2003, the Department's Answer was filed with the OAL.

Petitioner's appeal raised the issue of the proper standard for approving district budgets for the 2003-2004 school year. On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order scheduling oral argument for July 10, 2003, concerning the standard to be used. On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order approving a maintenance standard as set forth therein, for the 2003-2004 budget process. The Court also directed the DOE to promulgate emergency regulations, and established a schedule for further proceedings.

On August 22, 2003, the DOE promulgated emergency regulations, a key provision of which is a definition of "maintenance budget" as the standard for reviewing the applications of "Abbott Districts" for supplemental aid for the 2003-2004 school year.

On August 27, 2003, the DOE sent to the district superintendent, preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year, setting the District's budget at $166,433,502 inclusive of the District's general fund budget and restricted revenue accounts. The DOE's review determined that the District's need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid was determined to be $2,606,739. The letter also noted that the preliminary maintenance budget and the estimated supplemental aid was subject to further adjustment after submission by the District of the 2002-2003 CAFR.

The hearing was originally scheduled to be conducted on September 4, 2003; however, on September 3, 2003, counsel for the District advised that his principal witness had been out of state for a week due to her father's serious illness, had only returned the day before, and had not had an opportunity to review the DOE documentation or discuss discrepancies between the District and DOE's budget numbers. The matter was thereafter scheduled to be heard on September 22, 2003, however, due to the multiple representations of the school districts by petitioner's counsel, it became impossible to begin the hearing until September 25, 2003, one day before the original filing deadline of September 26, 2003, pursuant to the Supreme Court's Order. The hearing was commenced on September 25, 2003. At the conclusion of the hearing, the parties requested the opportunity to file post-hearing briefs by September 29, 2003, which date was extended to September 30, 2003, following the Court's extension of the filing deadline to October 3, 2003. Briefs were received on September 30, 2003, and on that date the record closed.

ISSUES

Prior to the hearing, it was agreed that there were three issues in dispute. First, the District contends that the definition of "maintenance budget" set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 conflicts with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order, and therefore should not govern the case. Second, the District argues that the DOE's calculation for charter school tuition did not take into account the correct and actual documented increases in tuition. Third, the District argues that the DOE's calculation for utilities rate increases fails to include the utilities costs for two buildings that were not fully utilized in the 2002-03 school year.

FACTS

Based on the relevant evidence I FIND the following as FACT:

1. On March 24, 2003, DOE moved before the New Jersey State Supreme Court for an order to modify the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998)(Abbott V). Essentially, DOE sought to limit the supplemental aid to an amount sufficient to support programs, positions and services in the Districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003.

2. On July 23, 2003, the Court granted DOE's motion to relax the Abbott V remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. The Order states in part:

> (1) The DOE's application to extend the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott V is granted as follows: The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order.

(2) The Statewide aggregate amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid shall be presumptively calculated as the total amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid approved for the Abbott districts for Fiscal Year 2002-2003, subject to adjustment as required for a maintenance budget. A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.

(3) For purposes of calculating Additional Abbot v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.) Insofar as any Abbott district has not been informed of its total amount of last year's approved Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid, the DOE shall provide written notice of that amount within two weeks of the date of this Order. The DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard in its review of a district's maintenance school budget may result in a reduction to a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

(4) Within 30 days of the issuance of this Order, the DOE shall provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget. If the DOE

> deletes an expenditure from a district's 2002-2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs and based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must include in the written notice to the district the expenditure deleted along with a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient.
> (5) Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.
>
> (6) To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the districts' non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health > benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

4. On August 27, 2003, DOE issued a Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget for 2003-2004 for the District in the amount of $166,433,502. Further, DOE determined the District's estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid is $2,606,739. The notice also states:

> It should be noted that the preliminary maintenance budget and the estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid will be subject to further adjustment after submission by your district of the 2002-2003 CAFR.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The District contends that the definition of "maintenance budget" contained within N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 conflicts with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order. This issue has been previously addressed by two Administrative Law Judges. In the matter of Board of Educ. of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. EDU 4095-03, decision by Hon. John R. Tassini, ALJ, on Order Relative To "Maintenance Budget" (September 4, 2003), Judge Tassini considered an Abbott district's challenge to the validity and applicability of the definition of "maintenance budget" set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. Judge Tassini determined that a challenge to a duly adopted regulation, such as N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, must be brought in the Superior Court, Appellate Division, pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2), and that no jurisdiction exists at the OAL. He concluded, therefore, that the regulation must be applied at the OAL. Moreover, on September 10, 2003, in the matter of Board of Educ. of the Township of Neptune v. State of New Jersey, Department of Education, OAL Dkt. EDU 4096-03, decision by Hon. Joseph F. Martone, ALJ, on Order Relative To "Maintenance Budget" (September 10, 2003), Judge Martone agreed with Judge Tassini's determination, and found that the definition of "maintenance budget" within N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 was consistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003. As he concluded that the Supreme Court's Order provided a reasonable basis for the definition of "maintenance budget" in the regulation, he declined to disregard that definition in deciding an Abbott school district case. I concur with the analyses of both Judge Martone and Judge Tassini and the conclusions they reached regarding the definition of "maintenance budget" are incorporated here. I therefore CONCLUDE that the definition of "maintenance budget" as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is applicable to this matter.

The District also contends that the DOE did not consider the correct and actual documented increases in two categories of non-discretionary expenditures, charter school tuition and utilities. None of the other specific maintenance budget calculations of the DOE were contested by the District and, after making two agreed-upon changes, the parties stipulated to most of the remaining numbers set forth in those calculations (J-2). With respect to the corrections, on page one of J-2, the parties agreed to an increase of $119,734 in "Salaries-Contracted Rate", and on the top of page two of J-2, the parties agreed to the elimination as a revenue line item of "$333,947.00" on J-2, under the heading "Budget: 2003-2004".[1].

Testifying for the district was Joyce DeVincenzi, Assistant Business Administrator. She has been employed for five years in that capacity and previously was employed with the Boonton Board of Education as Superintendent, and prior to that with the same district as Business Administrator. She is certified as a Business Administrator and an Assistant Superintendent for Finance. Her duties include collecting data and preparing the budget for final submission to the DOE.

[1] The District stipulated to the numbers in the maintenance budget calculations but reserved its right to challenge whether the regulation comports with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order.

With respect to the calculations for charter school tuition, DeVincenzi first explained that the District disagrees with the decrease in charter school tuition of $76,952 which represents the difference between the 2002-03 budgeted amount ($4,197,650) and the 2003-04 budgeted amount ($4,120,698). The decrease is disputed by the District because the budgeted amount for 2002-03 was not actually received by the District. The actual cost to the District for the year 2002-03 for charter school tuition, through June 30, 2003, was $4,102,207. Ms. DeVincenzi, referencing p. 6 of P-1, indicated that pursuant to the per mandate of February 2003, the District budget for 2003-2004 should have included $4,262,508 for charter school tuition. This was a reduction of $79,328 from the District's approved estimated appropriation for charter school tuition for October 15, 2002. DeVincenzi testified that usually she would not receive another estimated appropriation for charter school tuition costs until October 15 of each year and was not aware that a figure as of June 1, 2003 was issued until she arrived at the hearing in this matter. DeVincenzi testified that she submitted her Board Secretary's June 30, 2003 report to the DOE in August of this year and that report contains the District's calculations of what they actually will expend on charter school tuition for 2003-04. DeVicenzi alleges that the "actual expenditure" for charter school tuition for 2003-04 will be $4,102,207.[2] DeVincenzi urges the utilization of the calculation of actual expenditures of $4,102,207 for 2002-03 and the February 25, 2003 estimate of charter school tuition of $4,262,508 to compute the 2003-04 appropriations amount which would result in an increase of $160,301 in tuition costs for 2003-04. The District argued none of the current numbers from the DOE should be used because they are all "budgeted" numbers and not "actual expenditures." However, DeVincenzi used the February 25, 2003 "budgeted" number to arrive at the $160,301 number. DeVincenzi acknowledged that each year the District provides enrollment figures to the DOE which recalculates charter school tuition and adjusts the estimated appropriations for the District's charter school tuition costs during the year. See N.J.A.C. 6A:11-7.2(k). DeVincenzi also indicated that it was her understanding that the per pupil tuition has decreased since 2002-03 and that was the reason for the reduction in the initial budgeted amount for 2003-04 over last year's figure. The District's primary concern, however, is that if there is an upward adjustment of enrollment, the District would not receive actual cash funding from the state; rather, it would receive an account receivable entry, which it would not be able to utilize to meet current expenses.

[2] The DOE issued an estimated notice for Charter School tuition costs on June 1, 2003 that it utilized to arrive at the figures in its August 27, 2003 preliminary maintenance budget determination in the amount of $4,120,698, which is $18,491 higher than the figure given by DeVincenzi.

With regard to the utilities calculations, DeVincenzi testified that the District is operating two additional buildings for classroom instruction, which have not previously been fully utilized. One facility is referred to as the Glenwood Avenue site, a building previously used by the Archdiocese of Newark. The second facility is referred to as the old East Orange High School building, located at 34 North Walnut Street, East Orange. DeVincenzi described the Glenwood Avenue site as being used to house an "alternative program", to provide a different setting for "certain students who are unable to function in a day-to-day classroom". She testified that she determined the square footage of the building and then compared it with the C.J. Scott building, another building in the District's inventory which is approximately the same square footage as the Glenwood site. She calculated what was spent on utilities at the Scott building and used that amount to set the utility costs for the Glenwood site, arriving at a figure of $98,330.14[3]. DeVincenzi indicated that these figures were obtained from the PSE&G bills for the Scott building. On cross-examination DiVincenzi was unable to offer testimony as to the age of either building, type(s) of heating system, age of the equipment, or any deficiencies in the equipment and indicated that she compared square footage only.

With regard to the old high school building, DeVincenzi testified that, for the past year, it has been largely unoccupied, with two people working in the kitchen occasionally, and no students in the facility for any portion of the year. Lights were kept on "as needed" for security purposes, and the building was heated to prevent pipes from freezing. The District now has transferred 1,000 students to that site with the attendant staffing, and runs a full educational program for the 9th grade at that location. The District arrived at its proposed utility figure for the building by doubling the total utility costs of $238,254.58 for the building in 2002-03.

Accordingly, the increases for utilities sought by the District for the 2003-04 school year, including the $529,812.50 calculated by the DOE to constitute utilities rate increases for existing buildings, is $866,397.22. DeVincenzi indicated that doubling the utilities expended at the old high school building last year for its new level of occupancy was her "best guess" of what utilities would be in 2003-04 for that building. She testified that the old high school building was last used in 2001-02 as a school; however, she was unable to provide any evidence of the cost of utilities for that year. She had no information relative to the temperature maintained in the building during the year when it was minimally used, did not know what type of heating system was in place, and had no information as to the amount of lighting utilized other than noticing "what lights were on as [she] drove by."

Testifying for the Department was Michael Arizechi, who has been employed by the DOE as Budget Manager for five years. Mr. Arizechi is a CPA, with an MBA and a BA degree in accounting. His responsibilities include reviewing the initial budgets of the school districts in February of each year and doing an analysis of the numbers. He reviewed the District's 2002-03 budget and its 2003-04 budget.

With respect to the reduction of $76,952 in the charter school tuition line item, Mr. Arizechi testified he arrived at this figure based upon the annual aid calculation as of June 30 for the year 2002-03. He utilized the chart (P-4), prepared by Yut'se Thomas, Director of the Office of School Funding within the DOE, entitled Aid Calculated for June 1, 2003 for the 2003-04 School Year, in his preparation of the DOE worksheet (J-2). The budgeted amount for charter school tuition for 2002-03 was $4,197,650 and the budgeted amount for the 2003-04 was estimated to be $4,128,698, resulting in a difference of $76,952. The decrease was reflected in the line item for charter school tuition on the worksheet. The number appears as a negative number because the mandate is $76,952 less. Arizechi agreed that he had not used the actual expenditure for 2002-03 in his calculation; rather he utilized the budgeted numbers for 2002-03 and 2003-04 in arriving at his calculation. He testified that the 2003-04 figure of $4,120,698 must be budgeted by the District, and thereafter is subject to adjustment depending on enrollment. He agreed that in other areas the actual expenditures were reviewed in determining the increases for 2003-04.

Regarding the utilities issue Arizechi agreed that he had not taken into account the utilization of the Glenwood School and the old East Orange High School buildings in arriving at his figure for utility cost increases of $529,812.50. Rather, he looked at the history and the actual numbers and the auditors report to see what the expenditures had been. He compared the auditors report with the District numbers and used 50% of the difference (the increase) as his basis for arriving at a figure of $529,812.50 for non-discretionary increased utility costs for 2003-04.

With respect to charter school tuition, increases or decreases are considered non-discretionary and accordingly must be added to or subtracted from the maintenance budget calculation. Preliminary charter school tuition figures are provided to the districts by the DOE. The districts report their student enrollment figures to the DOE for District charter schools three times a year, in October, February and June of each year. Adjustments in charter school tuition calculations are made pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:11-7.2(k)(4) which provides in salient part as follows:

Enrollment counts, payment process and aid adjustments.

(k) The following delineates the payment process and payment adjustments made to a charter school by the district of residence and non-resident district(s) during any given school year.

(4) During the school year, a charter school shall conduct an enrollment count on October 15, February 15 and the last day of the school year. A charter school shall submit each count through a summary school register for the purposes of determining average daily enrollment.

i. The data shall be submitted to the Commissioner three days after the dates of each of the three required enrollment counts and all aid to a charter school shall be adjusted accordingly from estimated enrollments counts to average daily enrollments and then adjusted forward to the next four months.

In calculating the changes in the charter school tuition, the DOE reviewed the budgeted tuition for 2002-03 and the budgeted tuition for the 2003-04, resulting in a decrease of $76,852, which is reflected as a deduction from the preliminary maintenance budget. The District argues that they did not actually receive this sum of money as it was merely a budgeted figure, and therefore should not be "charged with" having received it. The District acknowledges that the budgeted amounts are adjusted throughout the course of the school year as enrollment figures are revised and updated. It urges that, because the budgeted amount for 2003-04 is $18,481 more than the actual costs for charter tuition in 2002-03, this constitutes a documented actual increase in charter school tuition expenditures for 2003-04. This clearly is not the case. Charter school tuition aid is revised throughout the course of the school year pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:11-7.2 as the enrollment figures change. The District's concern is that enrollment may rise, and there is no assurance that the District will receive actual cash funding to help meet other financial obligations rather than an account receivable adjustment. Concern over an accounting entry cannot serve as the basis for an upward adjustment in the 2003-04 figure in favor of the District. Based upon the foregoing, I therefore CONCLUDE that the DOE properly adjusted the maintenance calculation for charter school tuition.

As to the utilities issue, any increase or decrease in utilities is a non-discretionary item under the Department's maintenance budget calculation. The Department calculated utilities rate increases in the amount of $529,812.50, and agreed that it had not included in its calculation the utilities costs for two buildings which had not been previously fully utilized for classroom instruction. With respect to the Glenwood Avenue site, the utilities costs for a building with similar square footage were utilized by the District in arriving at its request for the Glenwood site[4]. No other comparisons were made to take into consideration any of the other factors influencing utilities costs, including the age of either building, the type of heating system (whether oil or gas), number or type of windows, efficiency ratings in the heating systems of either building, or the utilities costs incurred by the Archdiocese of Newark which had previously utilized the building. The Court's Order requires funding for documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Clearly, the utility costs for the Glenwood Avenue site which the District urges be included are not documented, and contrary to the District's assertion, there is no "persuasive evidence" of $98,330.14 in utilities costs attributable to the Glenwood Avenue site.

With regard to the old East Orange High School building, the District utilized the building only for limited purposes in 2002-03 to operate some catering functions out of the kitchen. The building will now be used to house 1,000 ninth grade students and staff for the current school year and will be in full operation from September through June 2004. The District is seeking an addition $238,254.58 as the increase in utilities costs for this building for 2003-04, which figure was arrived at by doubling the utilities costs for last year. This figure is also an arbitrary figure and does not constitute competent evidence of an increase in utilities costs attributable to the East Orange High School property for 2003-04.

The District bears the burden of proving that the DOE's calculation of its maintenance budget failed to follow the maintenance budget review required under N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. I FIND the proofs to be deficient and devoid of any competent evidence that would offer credence to the District's position with regard to utilities cost increases. The District has not established entitlement to the additional $336.584.72 sought, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, and I so FIND. I FIND that the DOE properly determined the District's documented increase in utilities costs in accordance with established Supreme Court criteria and appropriate DOE regulations. Further adjustments based upon actual spending should await the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report ("CAFR"). Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:23-1, the District is to have an annual audit completed not later than four months after the end of the school fiscal year. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-1.2 defines the CAFR to be the official annual report of a governmental unit that includes all funds and accounts groups summarizing the activities and operations performed by all units. According to the DOE, if the District's new information is, after audit, included in the CAFR, then the adjustment will be made to the District's aid award pursuant to the Appropriations Act (New Jersey Fiscal 2003-04 Appropriations Act, P.L. 2003c. 122).

Moreover, N.J.S.A. 6A:10-6.1 provides a mechanism for the District to apply for additional supplemental funding. These options provide the District with a realistic approach under the circumstances, inasmuch as the severe time constraints in this matter[5] do not permit the record to be reopened in order for competent proofs to be received.

In a climate of extremely limited resources available for allocation, a concerted effort is mandated to guarantee that those resources are properly apportioned in a fiscally responsible manner. That apportionment cannot be based upon a "best-guess."

In light of this, I CONCLUDE that it is not only reasonable but appropriate that the District's Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award be adjusted based on the annual audit filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:23-1, if the District's supplemental information relative to [5] Post-hearing briefs were received on the afternoon of September 30, 2003, and on that date the record closed.

documented utilities costs for the two buildings is, after the requisite audit, included in the CAFR. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the DOE correctly adjusted the maintenance calculation for utilities, and that any further adjustments for supplemental information should be audited and adjusted with the 2002-03 CAFR.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing it is hereby ORDERED:

1. That the definition of "maintenance budget" set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is applicable in this matter.

2. That the maintenance budget reflect the DOE's calculation relative to charter school tuition of ($76,952).

3. That the maintenance budget reflect the DOE's calculation for increased utilities of $529,812.50 with the actual utilities costs attributable to the two additional buildings to be added into the final calculation.

I further ORDER for the reasons set forth above that in all other respects, the determination by the DOE with respect to the District's 2003-04 budget as set forth in Assistance Commissioner MacInnes' letter of August 27, 2003 be AFFIRMED and that the appeal be DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF EAST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. East Orange's exceptions were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner adopts the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) decision as he determines her factual findings, analysis and legal conclusions are consistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, as well as the Department's regulatory amendments adopted on August 22, 2003.

Initially, it is noted that petitioner's exceptions object to the ALJ's failure to address an issue, raised in its post-hearing brief, with respect to the legal propriety of the Department's fund balance calculation. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1, 2) In this regard, the District states that the Department's August 27, 2003 budget letter projected the District's excess fund balance, made reductions to what it had determined was a balance in excess of the required two percent, and denied the District's Abbott v. Burke receivable for 2002-03 based on its projected calculations. It charges that the Department's "projection of excess fund balance prior to the receipt of the [Comprehensive Annual Financial Review] CAFR violates the language and intent of the FY 04 Appropriations Act." (Id. at 8, 9)

The Commissioner finds the District's charge in this regard without merit. It is observed that the Supreme Court's Order directed the Department to provide Abbott districts with their preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-04 school year by August 27, 2003. In fulfillment of that directive, the Department, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c), reviewed the most recent budget calculations provided by the District to determine if all available resources and reallocations and other factors had been incorporated in the budget and that the budget submitted comported with the maintenance standard. Based on this review, the Department made the requisite projections in its August 27, 2003 preliminary maintenance budget letter. It must be emphasized that the preliminary maintenance budget figure for the District here is just that, preliminary, subject to the CAFR, which will establish the District's actual audited expenses for the 2002-03 school year. Likewise, the estimate of the District's discretionary Abbott v. Burke aid is also subject to the District's true audited fund balance and available revenue, if any, as of June 30, 2003.

Next, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, the regulation duly promulgated to implement the Court's July 23, 2003 Order, must control in the instant proceeding, and that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine, directly or indirectly, its validity, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995).

However, even if the Commissioner were to accept, arguendo, the District's contention that a "choice of law" may be made without passing on the validity of the rule itself, the Commissioner here agrees with the ALJ that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, is entirely consistent with the language and intent of the Court, with no conflict between it and the underlying order.

In his consideration of the District's remaining arguments herein, the Commissioner finds that a review of the respective parties' burdens of proof is particularly instructive. In this regard, the Commissioner recognizes that the Supreme Court's Order provides that the Department "shall bear the [initial] burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the [Abbott] district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations."_Abbott v. Burke_, M-976 September Term 2002, at 7. However, as indicated in the Department's preliminary maintenance decision letter dated August 27, 2003 (Exhibit J-1), the District's maintenance budget was not reduced based on ineffectiveness or inefficiency. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c), the District bears the burden of proving that the Department's calculations were unreasonable or otherwise improper.

This said, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Department's calculation of charter school tuition must be sustained, as he finds that the District has not met its burden of establishing that the Department's use of an approved plan-to-plan review to determine the tuition calculation figure was unreasonable or otherwise improper. In the Commissioner's view, the process used by the Department, based on the only available "like" components for comparison, i.e., approved 2002-03 and 2003-04 charter school tuition, in order to determine the change in the district need from one year to the next, fully allows for reasonable, fair and consistent preliminary determinations under circumstances where precise calculations must necessarily await the results of the CAFR. As well articulated by the ALJ in her Initial Decision in Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, Union County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5502-03, Agency Dkt. No. 206-6/03, decided September 26, 2003:

> I have considered the arguments of counsel and must agree with the position espoused by the DOE. (footnote omitted) Although I agree with the District that the consistent use of the DOE's methodology does not in itself make it correct, I do not agree that simply because it does not work to the District's advantage makes it incorrect. The methodology utilized by the DOE has been applied to all "Abbott Districts" uniformly and has served to increase maintenance budgets in over half of the Districts. The District has not established that the use of this methodology is per se improper, illegal, inconsistent with the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003 or violative of any of its constitutional rights. The DOE is obligated only to utilize an approach that is reasonable and uniformly applied. Here they have done so. If the methodology is to be changed in each area in which an Abbott District is not advantaged, there will be no uniformity or equity to the provision of Abbott funds. Thus, I reject the District's argument and CONCLUDE that the DOE's methodology is reasonable and will not be second-guessed. (Id. at 8)

The Commissioner, however, underscores that, to the extent the results of the Department's reasonable approach may be imperfect, even after adjustment following audit, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism for the District to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant.

Turning to the projected utilities increase calculation, the Commissioner, similarly, finds that the District has failed to satisfy its burden. The Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ that "the proofs [brought to the record are] deficient and devoid of any competent evidence that would offer credence to the District's position with regard to utilities cost increases." (Initial Decision at 14, 15) The District's exceptions maintain that the ALJ, while recognizing that the Department had not included its two new buildings in the utility increase calculation for 2003-04 (Initial Decision at 14), erred in failing to award the District any funding increase based on a lack of documented evidence. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 16) Rather, it proffers, "the ALJ should have directed the DOE to develop appropriate documentation in conjunction with the District to determine what increase should be attributable to these two buildings." (Id. at 17)

Upon consideration, the Commissioner finds the District's arguments in this regard specious. The Initial Decision reflects that the Department's witness, Michael Arizechi, testified > that he had not taken into account the utilization of the Glenwood School and the old East Orange High School buildings in arriving at his figure for utility cost increases of $529,812.50. Rather, he looked at the history and the actual numbers and the auditor['s] report to see what the expenditures had been. He compared the auditor['s] report with the District numbers and used 50% of the difference (the increase) as his basis for arriving at a figure of $529,812.50 for non-discretionary increased utility costs for 2003-04. (Initial Decision at 12)

Given the total unsupportability of the District's calculations in this regard, it cannot reasonably be argued that the Department's calculation for increased utility costs, subject to further refining after receipt of some logical, supportable additional information from the District during the course of the CAFR process, was unreasonable.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.[1]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

[1] The Commissioner so determines, based upon the proofs brought to this record, while acknowledging that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the CAFR until November 2003. In any event, beyond his determination herein, the Commissioner underscores the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget" and supplemental aid, alleging that the Department's review and calculations were not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court. The District also challenged the Department's reduction, as part of its review of noninstructional expenditures for ineffectiveness or inefficiency, of proposed costs for School Leadership Teams (SLTs), overtime, the Office of Design and Construction, the Office of Development Planning, resource teachers/coordinators, department chairpersons, food service deficits, consultants and drivers for the State District Superintendent.

The ALJ found that the rule duly promulgated to implement the Court's order for "maintenance" controlled in this proceeding, and that the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) lacked jurisdiction to determine its validity. The ALJ further found that, within the framework of that rule, the Department had made several appropriate determinations, but that the District was entitled to increases for certain previously undocumented encumbrances, salary adjustments and vacancies, workers' compensation reserves, special education tuition costs, CPI adjustments and utilities. The ALJ further found that, on the Department's findings of ineffectiveness and inefficiency, the District was entitled to restoration of all reductions except those for the Superintendent's drivers.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision with respect to OAL jurisdiction and several of its specific determinations, but rejected its acceptance of the District's claims for increases in allowable encumbrances, salary adjustments and vacancies, workers' compensation reserves, special education tuition costs, CPI adjustments and utilities. With respect to inefficiencies, the Commissioner rejected most of the ALJ's recommendations and restored only those funds supporting Resource Teachers/Coordinator positions. Additionally, the Commissioner directed the Department to conduct an analysis of the District's workers' compensation needs and to make thereafter any necessary adjustments to the District's budget and supplemental aid.

Michael Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 25, 2003 Decided: October 3, 2003

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On June 5, 2003, the petitioner, State-Operated School District of Newark (District), filed a Verified Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education appealing the May 30, 2003 determination of Assistant Commissioner Gordon MacInnes relating to the District's 2003-04 K-12 budget and Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid application for the 2003-04 school year. On June 9, 2003, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The respondent, Department of Education (Department), filed its answer with the OAL on June 12, 2003.

On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court of New Jersey (Court) issued its Order in Abbott v. Burke authorizing the Department to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts, including the Newark District. Abbott v. Burke, __ N.J. __, 2003 WL 21700375 (July 23, 2003) The Court defined a maintenance budget to mean:

> that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions or services.

The Court directed the Department to promulgate an emergency regulation for "purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls." The emergency regulation was to establish:

> the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.)

In accord with the Order of the Court, on August 22, 2003, the Department promulgated emergency amendments to N.J.A.C. 6A:10, originally promulgated on July 1, 2003. Specifically, the Department amended N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, 3.1, 4.2 and 4.7.

In the matter entitled Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. State of New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4095-03, presently pending before Administrative Law Judge John R. Tassini, Asbury Park, another Abbott district, challenged the definition of "maintenance budget" in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 as inconsistent with the Court's Order. Asbury Park argued that its maintenance budget should be considered its approved 2002-2003 budget and not limited to programs, positions, services and/or expenditures actually provided, plus non-discretionary expenditures. In his order, dated September 4, 2003, Judge Tassini ruled that the regulation could not be challenged in this forum because the OAL is without jurisdiction to hear this issue.

The same motion was brought by the District before the undersigned who adopted the ruling made by Judge Tassini and declined to hear this issue in the present appeal for the same reasons.

In its Order of July 23, 2003, the Court also directed the Department to:

> provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget. If the DOE deletes an expenditure from a district's 2002-2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs and based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must include in the written notice to the district the expenditure deleted along with a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient.

The Order further provides:

> To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the district's non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

On August 27, 2003, the Department issued its Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (Notice) to the District as directed by the Court. The issues to be addressed in the present proceeding are as set forth in this Notice. (J-1) The analysis contained therein was performed by an independent accounting firm retained by the Treasurer to review the District's financial information in cooperation with representatives of the Treasury and the Department.

CALCULATION OF THE BASE 2002-2003 STATE AND LOCAL PROGRAM BUDGET

Mary Byrne, a licensed CPA, has been employed by the Department of the Treasury, Office of Management and Budget, for four years. She is responsible for oversight of the State budget for the Department of Education and reviews the Department's yearly requests for funding as part of the State budget. She also provides advice and recommendations and monitors the Department's budget throughout the year.

In her testimony, Byrne referred to worksheets showing adjustments made to the budget and the Budget Analysis and Independent Accountant's Report on Applying Agreed-Upon Procedures (R-2) (Report).

These documents show that the independent accountants first considered the District's Approved General fund budget for 2002-2003 which was $642,662,024. It then subtracted $17,090,489 as the local contribution to Special Revenue. It added $53,661,167 in Early Childhood (EC) aid, $20,103,295 in DEPA Aid and $1,975,257 in Distance Learning aid to reach an Adjusted 2002-2003 State program budget of $701,311,254. This amount does not include funds paid to the District from federal sources so that they are subtracted from the budget items for purposes of computing Abbott aid.

The original Budget 2003 Spending, Local Contribution – Transfer, was $17,090,489; the projected spending for this item was $9,312,771. The difference between these two amounts, $7,777,718, was transferred to the Special Revenue Fund (SRF). The reduction was due to decreased enrollment in the program.

The independent accountants next considered the original Budget 2002-2003 Spending for Funds 11, 12 and 13, salaries and benefits, ($328,606,179) and determined that the unaudited 2002-2003 spending for these funds was $318,133,342. This showed that the District underspent its budgeted amount by $2,695,119 and this amount was deducted from the 2002-2003 base budget.

Byrne explained that all unaudited amounts are subject to finalization at the time the school districts are audited yearly and Comprehensive Audited Financial Reports (CAFR) are prepared in early November. All calculations based upon unaudited data will be revised at that time using audited figures and Abbott aid adjusted up or down as necessary.

In a similar manner, the accountants determined that the District had underspent its 2002-2003 budgeted amount for Fund 15, the segment of the District budget used to account for the individual school based budgets, by $2,337,739. Since seven percent of this fund is attributable to federal resources and 93% to State and local funding, the Adjusted 2003-2003 budget was reduced by $2,165,403, or 93% of the underspending.

These two adjustments resulted in a Base 2002-2003 state and local program budget (Base Budget) of $696,450,732.

ADJUSTMENTS TO THE BASE BUDGET

Early Childhood Plan

The EC Plan for 2003-2004 ($66,454,818) exceeded the EC plan for 2002-2003 ($52,104,130) by $14,350,688 and this amount was added to the budget.

Encumbrances

In the Notice, the Department excluded $25,510,005 in 2002-2003 encumbrances that appeared to be 2003-2004 expenditures and $5,860,928 in prior year encumbrances that are considered cancelled pursuant to Department accounting/audit guidance. The Notice invited the District to provide documentation to the Department in the event that it disputed the assessment of encumbrances. Due to time constraints, this documentation was presented at hearing.

Byrne explained that an encumbrance is a commitment of funds for an order placed for goods and services. In accord with the regulations, maintenance is based upon actual spending. Since encumbrances are not actually spent, they were accounted for as surplus and not included in the approved budget which is restricted to maintenance.

When the goods or services are received, their costs then become an account payable, which are maintenance, and as such are included in the approved budget. If goods and services were received but not billed, they remain encumbrances. According to the Report of the Secretary of the Board of Education, Newark Public Schools (R-3) (Secretary's Report), the total current encumbrances for 2002-2003 in Funds 10 and 15 was $25,510,004; the total encumbrances for these two funds for the prior year was $5,860,482. The total for the two years together was $31,370,392.

Byrne testified that, in the Department's accounting procedures, any encumbrances for goods and services not received within six months after the end of the fiscal year, June 30, are deemed cancelled. The only exceptions are for encumbrances attributed to long term projects, such as capital improvements, or undertaken pursuant to a contract. These exceptions do not apply to the encumbrances discussed here.

As a result, the Department deemed all encumbrances from the 2001-2002 school year to be cancelled. According to the accountants, they relied upon for information contained in columns in the Secretary's Report entitled "accounts payable" and "cash expenditures." The items in the Secretary's Report listed as "encumbrances" for the 2002-2003 fiscal year were all open items and not included as additional spending in the Report or accounted for in the 2003-2004 Approved Budget since they were deemed to be 2003-2004 expenditures.

Byrne explained that only expenditures were included in the maintenance budget and it was assumed that all open encumbrances would become expenditures in the 2003-2004 school year. The District was given the opportunity, as outlined in the August 27, 2003 letter, to present documentation that would support the expenditures of any of the $25,510,005 in encumbrances by supplying a listing of purchase orders that were invoiced for services or items received by June 30, 2003. Byrne noted that the District would then be given credit toward the maintenance calculation for 2003-2004.

The District presented testimony by Ronald Lee, School Business Administrator, that it is entitled to additional expenditures of $9,735,823.31 for invoiced encumbrances through June 30, 2003. It supported its claim by supplying a listing of purchase orders and the amount of invoices and accruals. Lee confirmed that these amounts represent goods and/or services that were received and invoiced in accordance with the standard outlined by Byrne. His testimony and the supporting documentation were never rebutted by the Department. Therefore, it is the District's position that the $9,735,823.31 should be added to the maintenance calculation in accordance with Supreme Court Order and regulations for the maintenance budget.

The Department argues that it will make appropriate adjustments after it reviews the District's Comprehensive Annual Financial Review ("CAFR") for the 2002-03 school year. This is required to be submitted to the DOE by early November 2003. The Department's present position is contrary to its position in its letter of August 27, 2003, in which it agreed to make these adjustments as soon as the appropriate documentation was submitted to the Department. Due to the constraints of time, that documentation was provided at the hearing and the Department should live up to its commitment to adjust the budget accordingly.

The District is concerned because historically adjustments are not made by the State when they receive CAFR information which should cause additional revenue to be paid to a district. Its experience has been that no additional revenues were provided and the District was forced to reallocate the scarce dollars within its budget.

Lee testified about a specific example in 2002-2003 relating to additional Charter school costs. When the actual costs exceeded the amount budgeted by the District, he requested additional funding from the State in the amount of $3.6 million dollars. The DOE responded by only providing $1.9 million and noted that the District would have to look within their budget to reallocate funds for the difference. As such, the District maintains that the $9,735,823.31 should be added to the maintenance calculation in accordance with Supreme Court Order and regulations for the maintenance budget.

Based upon the testimony of Lee and the supporting documentation, I FIND that $9,735.823 should be removed from encumbrances and treated as expenditures for the 2003-2004 school year. I, therefore, FIND that $9,735.823 should be added to the Base Budget.

Projected Surplus

The Department determined that the projected surplus balance for the 2002-2003 budget would be $17,526,672. This amount includes, among other items, the audited surplus balance of June 30, 2002 ($9,073,437), the total unspent appropriations from the General Fund and Fund 15 ($4,860,522), and the cancelled encumbrance of $5,860,928. It also includes a projected revenue surplus of $639,761 in the General Fund. ($631,524,067 - $ 630,884,306) (R-2, Schedule D, revised in Schedule F) It does not include a Budgeted Fund balance of ($4,000,000) or an increase in reserve for encumbrances ($2,366,185) for 2002-2003. The analysis incorrectly included cancelled encumbrances for the 2001-2001 year of $3,458,209. If this is removed, the projected excess surplus is reduced to $14,068,463. The District must maintain a surplus balance of 2%, or $12,988,365, so the projected excess surplus balance is $1,079,698. ($14,068,063 - $12,988,365)

The District did not address this issue and I FIND that this calculation stands as reported by the Department.

Other Adjustments

In Schedule D, R-2, the accountants erroneously deleted $18,382,753 from the actual 2002-2003 revenues because this amount had accrued but was not yet paid. This was corrected in Schedule F, R-2, according to generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) for government, which say that this can be done if there is a statute permitting it, as there is in this case. Schedule D is accurate in all other respects.

The District has a remaining receivable of $9,751,008 in 2002-2003 Abbott aid. This will become a receivable of $13,209,217 because of the cancelled $3,458,209 encumbrance. This change is an adjustment to a receivable and does not affect the Additional Abbott aid for 2003-2004.

Non-Discretionary Items - Salaries

Ben Rarick is employed by the Department as the Director of the Office of State-Operated School Districts. He has held this position for the last three years. In this capacity, he also serves as the budget manager for three districts, Jersey City, Paterson and Newark.

Rarick initially testified as to the treatment of non-discretionary items in the budget. Non-discretionary costs are those, such as contractual increases in wages, that will increase beyond the control of the District.

He first reviewed the salary analysis worksheet (R-8) (Funds 11, 12, and 13). He compiled the information contained in the salary accounts, using the Report as his source, and concluded that non-discretionary salaries for the 2003-2004 budget year would be $18,886,540.37. This is derived from the salary expenditures for 2002-2003 plus the estimated union contractual raises of 4.884%. Any funds not spent on salaries were excluded. $18,886,540.37 was added to the Base Budget.

Funds in the amount of $31,718,771, consisting of $77,092,000 for substitutes, $21,347,833 for overtime, stipends and per diems, and $3,278,938 for summer school salaries were not included in the calculation of non-discretionary contractual salary increases but the salaries themselves were accounted for elsewhere in the budget. Raises for non-affiliated staff of approximately $300,000 were deemed to be discretionary and excluded. This treatment was uniform across all of the Abbott districts. Rarick never considered whether the employees receiving these salaries were covered by union contract increases or salary increases pursuant to employment contracts.

The District agrees with the Department's calculation that the salaries expended in 2002-2003 amounted to approximately $424,035,384. However, it argues that Rarick improperly failed to take into account contractual increases in salaries for substitutes, overtime, stipends, per-diem and summer schools. These are areas that are historically and ordinarily subject to contractual increases. Therefore, Rarick erroneously deducted $7,092,000 for substitute costs, $21,347,833 relating to overtime, stipend and per-diem costs plus an additional $3,327,938 in summer school costs when calculating the non-discretionary increases and reduced the expended salary for 2002-03 to $392,316,613.

Rarick then applied a projected salary rate increase of 4.884%, the amount he considered the average salary increase for the Newark Teacher's Union ("NTU") contract. He applied this amount to all the contracts without supporting information as to the actual rate and the rate of settlements within the State and Essex County. His analysis yielded a total projected increase of $19,160,743.38 from which he arbitrarily deducted $274,203 in salary increases he contended should not be provided to the District's unaffiliated (non-union) employees.

Rarick conceded that he failed to consult any District handbooks with respect to the contractual salary increases for non-union employees. He also made the unwarranted assumption that the substitutes, overtime, stipends, per-diem and summer schools categories would not be entitled to contractual increases without checking the contract or inquiring about the status of negotiations with the District's unions.

Using contractual documents and current county averages for salary increases, the District, through Ronald Lee, the District Business Administrator, presented evidence that a more accurate and up-to-date calculation would amount to an increase of $32,585,087.15. Lee derived his numbers from the Summary Budget report for Funds 11, 12, 13 and 15 as reported in the District's current financial records.

With respect to substitutes, overtime, stipends, per-diem and summer school increases, Lee noted that those categories historically increased every year and he supplied copies of the actual contracts to prove his assertion.

The contract provided that teacher substitutes were paid a rate of $95.00 for the contract ending June 30, 2000. In the contract from July 1, 2000 to June 30, 2003, that rate increased to $100.00, or a 5.26% increase. For the same contract term, the per-diem rate for Aides, the smallest group in the bargaining unit, was $10.40 raised to $10.60 or a 1.92% increase. The substitute per-diem rate for clerks was $62.00 and increased to $70.00, for the respective year, or a 12.9% increase.

With respect to overtime, Mr. Lee explained that increases in overtime rates follow directly from the increase in the employee annual salary rates. The District showed that, if the salary rate increased by 5%, the overtime cost would also increase by 5%, so therefore a non-discretionary increase for overtime should be included in the calculations.

Items such as supplemental and extra pay are subject to contractual increases. Contract excerpts show that the stipend costs in the NTU contract increase from year to year, not just from one contract to the next. The percentage increases range from 4.58% to high of 4.96%.

Summer school rates are expected to increase again as they have under previous contracts. As support for this analysis, the District provided the summer school rates for the contract ending June 30, 2003 governing the salaries for teachers, school clerks, coordinators, psychologists and aides. This shows that, in July 1, 2001, the summer school rate for teachers was $29.00 but on July 1, 2002 the rate increased to $31.00 or a 6.9% increase. The District argues that, since the rates will continue to increase, the maintenance budget should reflect a non-discretionary increase in these categories.

After taking all of the above contractual increases into account, the District's financial records reflect that the total amount expended on salaries for 2002-2003 was $424,181,743, to which a contracted salary increase of 5% was applied to all categories. The District's rate was reached by analyzing the salary increase rate for 2003-2004 statewide (4.95%) but the Essex County rate increases (6%) were slightly higher than that. For example, Irvington has a salary increase for 2003-2004 in the amount of 6%.

Lee asserts that the 5% rate increase applied by the Department was too conservative an estimate. Lee realized that 5% was slightly above the state average but he believed it to be less the average for the county because of the contract reached Irvington. He testified that, when the 5% increase is applied to the $424,181,743.00 actually expended for salaries in 2002-2003, the non-discretionary increase for salaries $21,209,087.00.

Based upon the evidence, I FIND that the contractual increases in the salaries for substitutes, overtime, stipends, per-diem and summer school categories are non-discretionary and should have been accounted for in calculating the necessary budget increase. I FIND that the same thing applies to the contractual raises for non-affiliated employees. There is no evidence supporting the Department's assertion that these increases are discretionary. As a result, I FIND, based upon the historical expenses of the District, that the non-discretionary salary increases should be calculated using a total salary amount of $424,181,743.

With respect to the projected rate of increase, I FIND from the District's testimony that not all of the District's projected salary increases are at a rate comparable to that in Irvington and, therefore, there is no reason to disturb the Department's projection of a 4.884% increase, the State average.

Accordingly, I FIND that the projected non-discretionary salary increases for the 2003-2004 school year are $20,717,036 and this amount should be added to the Base Budget.

Unfilled Vacancies:

Rarick excluded salaries for teachers who left during the 2002-2003 school year and were not replaced. He stated that this was required under the "maintenance" standard so that the District would not be funded in 2003-2004 to fill teaching positions vacated during or after the prior school year.

Both the District's Deputy Superintendent, Anzella Nelms and Lee, testified to the devastating effect this decision would have on instructional programs. Lee demonstrated the manner in which instructional vacancies have a direct effect on the ability to provide educational programs at current levels. Nelms added that eliminating vacancies would deprive the District of the ability to hire certified teachers, resulting in the loss of classrooms and an increase in enrollments in the elementary and secondary levels in excess of statutory maximums.

The District explained that it is not always possible to replace a teacher who leaves after the start of the school year, particularly in certain subject matter areas such as math, music, and physical education. The best time for hiring is the period from the end of school, when recent teacher graduates are available, through the end of the summer vacation. Under the Department's interpretation of "maintenance," this would leave the District without a teacher during the following year through no fault of the District.

Lee requested the addition of $11,373,000.00 to the calculation of the maintenance budget, the amount needed to fund instructional vacancies. The instructional vacancies include instructional and classroom based personnel such as paraprofessionals. The total for the instructional vacancies was 164 FTE (Full Time Equivalents) and 73 FTE for paraprofessionals, for a total in the classroom for instructional purposes of $11,376,000.00. The District is only seeking to fill instructional vacancies and is not seeking funding for the approximately 200 other non-instructional FTEs consistent with its understanding of the maintenance budget mandates.

The definition of "maintenance" in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 allows funding for positions approved and provided during the 2002-2003 school year. It does not include the restoration of positions that were provided in previous years. The "maintenance" standard addresses the maintenance of "positions," not the maintenance of the District's actual expenditures in filling them. I CONCLUDE that any teaching or paraprofessional position that was filled by a permanent employee at the start of the 2002-2003 school year was "provided" within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, irrespective of whether it subsequently became vacant during the year and that employee could not be replaced. Therefore, I FIND that the District should be provided with funding for any instructional vacancy that arose during the course of the 2002-2003 school year, providing that there was a permanent employee in the position at the start of the year and the position could not subsequently be filled notwithstanding the efforts of the District to locate a permanent replacement.

The District has estimated this amount to be $11,376,000 to replace 164 FTE (Full Time Equivalents) for teachers and 73 FTE for paraprofessionals, and I FIND this amount should be added to the Base Budget subject to the conditions above.

Non-Discretionary Items - Benefits

Non-discretionary health benefits were calculated by taking the actual spending on benefits in 2002-2003 and applying a growth factor of 4.884%, the same as the projected rate of increase in salaries. In addition, the Department consulted with the State Health Benefits Program (SHBP) to determine if it would increase its rates. This increase had to be adjusted because the SHBP's fiscal year is the calendar year while the District's fiscal year is July 1 to June 30. As a result, the SHBP rate increase affects the non-discretionary benefits costs differently from January 1 to June 30, 2003 (20%) and then from July 1 to December 31, 2003 (10.8%). The Department calculated that the effective rate of increase over the 2002-2003 fiscal year was 14.5%. This rate is not an average but accounts for the compounding of increases over the twelve month school year.

The Department calculated the maintenance supplement for benefits to be $8,138,460. Rarick testified that the State included social security contributions of $12,408,220, the amount the District had expended in 2002-2003, and added a $4.884% increase to account for contractual salary increases. This resulted in an increase of $660,017.

Rarick then applied the 14.5% increase in health benefit costs to the Fund 11 amounts for an increase of $1,502,556 and to the Fund 15 amounts for an increase of $6,029,088.00. His total non-discretionary increase for benefits was $8,138,460.81.

Rarick failed to consider increases in other benefit categories, such as workers compensation, unemployment and retirement contributions. There was no explanation for these omissions. Worker's compensation will be discussed separately below.

I FIND that there should be no adjustment for State unemployment insurance contributions (SUI) at this time because of the projected rate of salary increases. The amount of SUI contribution per employee per year is capped and the rate of increase is determined by the State. The District has shown no relationship between the rate of an SUI contribution increase and the contractual rate of salary increase.

The District argues that pension contributions should increase at the projected rate of salary increases. However, there is insufficient information in the record to make an adjustment so that I FIND no adjustment can be made at this time.

Lee calculated the non-discretionary increase in benefits to be $14,894,159.10. This was based on actual rates published and supplied by the SHPB and the dental, prescription, and podiatry benefit providers multiplied by the actual number of employees enrolled in each plan. Lee's calculations included the amounts in the original budget, transferred amounts in the revised budget and any amount paid for 2002-2003. The base number for the amount paid for 2002-2003 did not differ from the Department's amount, $26,875,972.07, for Fund 11. The differences in the parties' results arises from the different rates applied in the District's calculations.

With respect to FICA or social security, Lee testified the District added a 5% increase to the 2002-2003 expenditures based upon its projected salary increases for 2003-2004. Since the Department's projected increase has been accepted, this increase will be calculated using the projected 4.884% increase. Likewise, the increase in contributions for pensions and unemployment will be calculated at the same rate.

In reaching his conclusions regarding health benefits, Lee used the actual rates that are delineated by the SHBP for coverages on the dental, prescription, and podiatry supplemental fringe benefits for a total of $66,842,044.00 (the largest amount being from health benefits of $48,361,268.00). That amount was then reduced by the amounts budgeted in Early Childhood, Title I and Title II, bringing the total supplement required to $62,965,542.10 minus $51,947,885.00, the amount expended in 2002-2003 for health benefits.

The support for the rates applied to the District's benefits calculation stem from a State Benefits and Pension division letter, dated September 2002, stating that the increase in NJ Plus was 28.4% in the Traditional plan and 21% in the HMO. In addition, an August 28, 2003 letter from the same agency provides the rate increases for 2003-2004. The District then applied the increased rates to the number of employees enrolled in the individual plans under the health benefits plan in calculating the actual cost. It claims its need in the health benefits maintenance cost category is $14,894,159.10.

Based upon the gaps in the record and the time constraints preventing implementation of the record, I FIND that the Department's $8,138,460.81 estimate of the non-discretionary benefit increases should be applied at this time. Adjustments can be made at a later time when the District's actual needs can be determined with some degree of accuracy.

Non-Discretionary Items - Worker's Compensation

The District is self-insured for worker's compensation. As of September 3, 2003, Allied Risk Services (Allied Risk), the District's fiscal agent for its worker's compensation program, required an additional deposit of $3,500,000 in its reserve to meet the program's obligations from September 9, 2003 to June 30, 2004. This projected increase was based upon Allied Risk's analysis of the program's history of claims.

In another portion of the District's maintenance budget, the Department made a reduction of $2,000,000 in insurance costs as a non-recurring expense. The District had included the increased contributions to worker's compensation as insurance expense so the Department's reduction effectively eliminated the District's possibility of receiving supplemental funding to address this additional expense.

The District has the obligation to adequately fund its worker's compensation plan. The source of the dollar amount of funding needed based upon the history of claims is the fiscal agent, Allied Risk. The District documented its history of past contributions and its fiscal agent's notice to increase the fund to meet projected needs.

The Department's position is that there should be no increase in funding because the amount to be kept in the reserve for claims is speculative. It suggests that the reserve be maintained at its prior level and, if additional funding is necessary because the fund has unforeseen expenditures, the District can apply to the Department for additional Abbott aid.

There are several problems with this suggestion. To begin with, the required expenditures are not unforeseen but are based upon an unrebutted actuarial analysis by Allied Risk. Further, if the worker's compensation plan is inadequately funded so that the District has a problem paying claims and has to apply to the Department for emergency relief, affected workers may not be comforted by the fact that an Abbott supplement will be provided in due course.

The Department has produced no actuarial evidence to refute the District's claims history causing the need for additional funding. I, therefore, FIND that this increase is no more speculative than the projected need to increase the size of any insurance reserve and is entitled to the same respect.

The District requires $3.5 million in additional funds over the $1,450,000.00 previously contributed by the District to its workers' compensation fund. Unless the Department subsequently analyzes the need for the large increase appropriately, I FIND that the additional contribution of $3,500,000 is a non-discretionary increase and should be added to the Base Budget.

Non-Discretionary Items – Charter School Tuition and Pupil Transportation

The Department stipulated that the costs of Charter School Tuition ($4,427,159), and the contracted increase in transportation costs ($3,085,209) were non-discretionary and $7,512,368 was added to the Base 2002-2003 budget for both items.

Non-Discretionary Items – Special Education Tuition in Private Schools for the Disabled

This was the only item in the request for supplemental aid in the area of special education tuition that was reduced by the Department. The total amount budgeted for all special education tuition in 2002-2003 was $41,307,680. The amount budgeted for 2003-2004 is $50,979,758. The District requested an increase of $9,259,855 for all tuition which was substantially reduced by the Department because of the manner in which the tuition in private schools for the disabled was calculated.

In 2002-2003, the District requested a budget of $24,904,661 for special education tuition in private schools for the disabled. It actually spent $20,318,603. Its projected need is $26,837,590 for 2003-2004 because of an increase of twenty-nine children and increases in tuitions. The initial increase requested by the District for the 2003-2004 school year is $7,685,703, less the projected IDEA funds for this purpose anticipated from federal sources, or $6,518,987.

Rarick determined that projected increases in tuition supported by the record are only about $1,900,000 so the Department replaced the requested increase of $6,518,987 with $1,900,000. This reduced the total increase in Abbott aid for all special education tuitions to $4,673,697 from $9,259,855. When this was adjusted to account for projected IDEA funds of $1,159,116 from federal sources, an increase of $3,514,681 was added to the Base Budget as a non-discretionary item.

Rarick had information that, during the fiscal year 2002-2003, approximately $5,752,000 was transferred out of this account and used for non-special-education purposes so it was not used to calculate the increase in aid. Records from the District business office showed that only $135,705 was actually transferred. In addition, the IDEA grant for 2003-2004 for this purpose was reduced to $500,000.

Rarick stated that the numbers used to calculate the spending for special education were obtained from the District Director of Special Education. Rarick requested that Steven Hoffmann, a Department coordinating auditor, learn how the District paid for its special education program when the budgeted amount was less than actual expenditures. Hoffmann learned that the program's creditors were paid and there were no significant purchase orders outstanding or cancelled. He did not verify any transfers out of the special education account since he was just told to identify amounts transferred in. Neither Hoffmann nor Rarick confirmed any information with the District business office.

The District requested additional increases for other non-discretionary special education tuitions that were not provided by the State. There was an additional $30,384.11 in increases for tuition to other regular local education agencies within the State and a difference of $1,162,530 for tuition to the regular County Vocational School District. These were excluded by the Department as increases in regular, not special education, tuition. The District provided no evidence to the contrary and the requested increases for these items will not be included.

Based upon the above, I FIND that the non-discretionary tuition increases for the private schools for the disabled should be revised in accord with the evidence. This results in the need of $1,900,000 for tuition increases for private schools for the disabled in 2003-2004 rather than the $6,518,986.69 requested by the District. When this substitution is made in the total requests for special education tuitions, the amount of increase becomes $4,640,868. This, however, should be reduced by the anticipated decreased IDEA grant of $500,000 for the fiscal year. I FIND the additional need for non-discretionary special education tuition increases to be $4,140,865 rather than the $3,514,681 calculated by the Department.

Only the special education tuition was treated as a non-discretionary item. All other special education spending was adjusted upward using the consumer price index for the tri-state area. (See below.)

Non-Discretionary Items – Rent/Lease Obligations and County Vocational School Tuition

The increase in rent/lease obligations of $222,483 was accepted as a non-discretionary item and added to the base budget. The increase of $932,228 for County Vocational School Tuition was also accepted and added.

Non-Discretionary Items – Consumer Price Index Adjustment

The Department compiled all non-salary accounts (R-12) except utility costs and adjusted them upward by 2.11%, the consumer price index (CPI) for the tri-state region. This added an additional $932,228 to the Base Budget.

N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 defines the appropriate CPI as follows:

> "CPI" means the average annual increase, expressed as a decimal, in the consumer price index for the New York City and Philadelphia areas during the fiscal year preceding the prebudget year as reported by the United States Department of Labor.

The Department used the average of the increases in the CPI's for the New York and Philadelphia areas to arrive at an average of 2.11%. No explanation of this percentage increase was provided. The District used the 3% CPI for New York, Northern New Jersey, Long Island, NY-NJ-CT-PA, for July 2002 to July 2003 based upon the U.S Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, News, Table 3. Since this does not include the Philadelphia area, as required by the statutory definition, the increase of 1.5% for the Philadelphia, Wilmington, Atlantic City, PA-NJ-DE-MD area for August 2002 to August 2003 was taken from the same source and averaged with the 3.1% CPI for New York, Northern New Jersey, Long Island, NY-NJ-CT-PA, for the same month. This results in a CPI of 2.3% instead of the 2.11% utilized by the Department. These values are as close to the CPIs for the fiscal year preceding the prebudget year as is possible without further information.

Since there is no dispute as to the base number used by the Department for this calculation, I FIND that the CPI adjustment should be $44,181,440 times 2.3%, or $1,016,173.

Non-Recurring Items – Legal Expenses

Rarick next discussed the treatment of non-recurring items in the budget. He explained that, in some years, the District incurs unusually high expenses for certain items and these expenses return to within normal limits in subsequent years. The abnormal increases need not be accounted for in subsequent budgets.

In 2002-2003, the District budgeted $800,000 for legal expenses but $1,523,311 was actually spent. $723,311 was subtracted from the Base Budget as a non-recurring expense. The District did not revise its 2002-2003 budget to reflect the additional expenditures and Rarick did not ask the District if more funds were needed.

The District states that the request of $1,500,000 is necessary based upon outstanding and pending litigation but no documentation or testimony was provided to specifically support this increase. I FIND that the District did not carry its burden to support this increased budget amount for the 2003-2004 fiscal year.

Non-Recurring Items – Insurance Expenses

In 2002-2003, $1,470,009 was budgeted for insurance but $4,530,404 was actually spent because of extraordinary costs. The Base Budget was reduced by $2,379,227 to $2,151,175, the increase requested by the District. Rarick did not make any adjustment for worker's compensation increases. (See above.)

I FIND that the increase in worker's compensation has been accounted for elsewhere and the Department correctly deducted $2,379,227 from the Base Budget for insurance expenses.

Non-Recurring Items – Utilities

The District originally requested Abbott aid for utilities in the amount of $10,180,000 which is less than it requested the year before. The request was accepted and $828,352 removed from the Base Budget for non-recurring utility expense. Rarick did not look at the amount actually spent and took no rate increases into consideration. He said he was not aware of any.

The District has demonstrated that it has ongoing utilities costs and is subject to significantly increased rates for service. I FIND that its projection of the necessary funding is supported by the record and is a non-discretionary expense. The District can not operate without adequate funding for electricity and fuel.

I, therefore, FIND that the District should receive additional funding for utilities at its projected level. As a result, I FIND that an additional $1,055,681 should be added to the Base Budget for utilities instead of a decrease of $828,352.

Non-Recurring Items – Belmont Runyon School

The District is in the process of constructing the Belmont Runyon School. The funding for this project comes from multiple sources: the New Jersey Department of Transportation, bond proceeds and approximately $2.8 million from the Department to cover "soft costs and furniture." Some of the specifications for constructing Belmont Runyon exceed the State standards and the Department will not fund them. This treatment is no different from that afforded to all schools in the State. At this time, the Department claims that it has already provided more than it had agreed to provide.

Because of the sources of its funding, Belmont Runyon is not part of the District's Long-Range Facilities Plan, pursuant to the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-1 to -44 (Act). Rarick argues that the Act allows Districts to amend their Long Range Facilities Plan to include the remaining costs for finishing Belmont Runyon and the District should do this instead of relying upon its budget.

The problem with this suggestion is that the District is planning to complete the school during the 2003-2004 school year and an application for funding under the Act may delay completion still further. The testimony shows that the District is presently starving for safe and efficient school buildings. (See below.) The end result of the suggested procedure would be to simply transfer funding to complete the project from one State department to the another to the detriment of the District.

As of May 21, 2001, the $2.8 million in costs for "furniture, equipment, exterior costs and other amenities and minor finishing work" on Belmont Runyon were to be deferred to the 2002-2003 General Fund budget. Rarick determined this to be a non-recurring amount for purposes of the 2003-2004 budget.

It was recently found that there are still open encumbrances on Belmont Runyon because it is a construction project. The District actually spent $1,589,609 on this school during 2002-2003, but $2,977,365, not including encumbrances, was initially removed from the Base Budget as a non-recurring cost before Rarick recalculated the amount. He made the correction during his testimony at hearing to add $1,387,756 back into the Base Budget and the final number may be further adjusted after the November 2003 CAFR audit.

Superintendent Bolden testified that the District had an agreement with former Commissioner Hespe of the Department that the District would be allowed to use up to $2,700,000 in general revenue to complete Belmont Runyon in exchange for the District's agreement to utilize $12,000,000 in bond funds raised for Belmont Runyon to close a budget deficit in the 2001 school year.

Since the District has already used $1,589,609 of its general revenue for Belmont Runyon pursuant to its agreement with the Department, it should still be able to utilize the remaining $1,387,756. I FIND that Rarick allowed for this by replacing $1,387,756 back into the budget and removing only $1,589,609 as a non-recurring expense.

Non-Recurring Items – Replacement of Title 1 Funds

The final non-recurring item was an increase of $322,759 to replace Title 1 funds that will not be received by the District in 2003-2004. This amount was added to the Base Budget only because the Department made a commitment to replace missing

Title 1 funds. Rarick was not aware that there were changes in the law and made no adjustment to compensate for them.

The District claims that it will lose $4,657,730 in funding from the federal No Child Left Behind, Pub. L. 107-110, 115 Stat. 1425, 20 U.S.C.A. §7231, (NCLB) program for the 2003-2004 fiscal year. It contends that this funding should be replaced by the Department under the same agreement as replacement of Title 1 losses. The Department responds that there is no provision for this in the regulations and its agreement with the District covers only Title 1.

It further argues that the "District's maintenance budget already includes all expenditures related to special education in 2002-2003, and assumes that in 2003-2004 it will not incur any of the same costs incurred in 2003-03. Newark has provided no documentation to support this assumption." This argument is included here to preserve it. It is not clear what specific costs are meant since NCLB has implications for special education but is by no means solely special education legislation.

In the past, the District has been able to divert funding from the Title 1 program in the WSR portion of its budget. Now, because of the reduction in Title 1 funds, and the requirements of NCLB for 2003-2004, more dollars from Title 1 have to be used for Title 1 programs. This will leave the District with a projected shortfall of $4,657,730 for mandated services under NCLB.

The Department only agreed to replace Title 1 funds and Title 1 is only one aspect of NCLB. The District failed to demonstrate what requirements under the NCLB cannot be met and would create such a large need for supplemental funding in 2003-2004. I FIND that it has not met its burden of showing that any NCLB funds should be replaced beyond the Title 1 funds the Department has already agreed to As there is no provision in the Abbott regulations for replacing all lost federal funding, I FIND that the Department correctly added only the missing $322,759 to the budget.

Inefficiencies - SLTs

Rarick next began to address inefficiencies for items budgeted in 2002-2003. The first of these concerns the five School Leadership Teams (SLTs) in the District. There are seventy-seven schools in the District and these are divided among the five SLTs for purposes of administration. Each SLT is responsible for about fifteen schools. Jersey City, the second largest district in the State, has a similar system and the reduction in the number of teams would bring the District in line with Jersey City.

This was deemed an inefficiency because of a Projected Five Year Cost Saving Actions agreement between the District and a prior Commissioner of Education to reduce the number of teams from five to four by the 2002-2003 school year. The remaining SLTs were to be restructured to meet K-12 feeder patterns. If this were done, it allegedly would have resulted in a savings of $2,000,000 in the 2002-2003 school year. Rarick would not consider a staff reduction affecting all SLTs to meet the terms of the agreement, even if it met the cost savings objective.

The SLT staff is not funded from the SLT account. Its staff's salaries are paid from different accounts and the roster of their employees was derived from their location, not the source of their pay.

Rarick also relied upon the report of Rosenfarb Winters, LLC (Rosenfarb), a forensic accounting firm retained by the Department to prepare a report to establish standards by which to quantify inefficiencies in the districts as they relate to non-instructional programs. Rosenfarb was provided with the CAFR reports for all Abbott districts for the 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 school years and with available budget expenditures for the 2002-2003 school year.

Rosenfarb then utilized the Abbott districts' performances on the corresponding Elementary School Proficiency Assessment - Language Arts (ESPA LA) tests for the fourth grade to develop a ratio between the test scores and the per pupil non-instructional costs for each district. When these were plotted on a chart, certain districts fell within the middle range for each of these fiscal years and they were classified as "generally efficient spending" Abbott districts. Rosenfarb then selected the four districts (Elizabeth, Gloucester, Long Branch and Phillipsburg) that consistently fell within this range and denoted them "Benchmark Abbotts." They then developed an average cost per pupil for non-instructional expenses for the Benchmark Abbotts and used this as the standard of comparison for the other Abbott districts. Rosenfarb designated the quantification of inefficiency in dollars as an "unfavorable variance" from the Benchmark Abbotts.

This was strictly a quantitative analysis. No attempt was made to inquire into the underlying reasons for the differences in spending. There were no allowances made for regional differences, numbers of school buildings, conditions of school buildings or student populations. Keith Balla, a partner in Rosenfarb, testified that unique needs were not considered because there would have been no way to quantify areas of inefficiency if they had been taken into account. Rosenfarb attributed $52,394,669 in inefficient spending to all salaries.

Rarick looked at those salaries attributed to the fifth SLT and determined that, although there had been a decrease in personnel in the SLTs, the projected $2,000,000 had not been saved. He further compared the District with Jersey City and Paterson and, finally, he looked at the Rosenfarb report which confirmed his determination of inefficiency. As a result of these considerations, he reduced the Base Budget by $1,208,080.

As the Department pointed out, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)(2) also requires that the Department consider historical spending patterns and district-specific information as to staffing needs, neither of which were considered in the Rosenfarb report.

I FIND the District to be unique in the State in many ways and its problems are long-standing and pervasive. The facts supporting this finding, which appear throughout this Initial Decision, are the size of its enrollment, the age and condition of its buildings, the obstacles it faces in maintaining and replacing its deteriorated buildings and its long history of neglect. See, Contini v. Board of Education of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, (App. Div. 1995), cert. den., 145 N.J. 372 (1996). In light of the uniqueness of the District's problems, this Initial Decision will rely heavily upon District-specific information in determining whether an inefficiency exists. If the item or organizational structure is found to be serving a necessary function, it will not be deemed an inefficiency in the absence of a more effective and immediate alternative.

Marion Bolden became the State Superintendent for the District in 1999. One of her goals was to make the District efficient financially as well as educationally. Between June 19, 2000 and October 27, 2000, she attended weekly meetings with auditors and District and Department personnel to identify areas that were inefficient and to develop strategies to improve them. These meetings were continued for almost two years and resulted in the development of the Projected Five Year Cost Saving Actions agreement in September 2001 during the time the Whole School Reform (WSR) plan was being implemented. The items that were the subject of the agreement represented areas of concern that could not be handled immediately. It was determined that there were redundancies of services that would be phased out as part of the agreement.

Bolden attempted to follow the plan by reorganizing the SLT system to group high schools together with their feeder elementary and middle schools. This did not work because of programmatic concerns with the secondary schools. The District has implemented a schools-to-careers initiative that requires uniform application and the new feeder grouping interfered with the District's ability to carry out this and other programs specific to secondary schools in a uniform manner. The schools were then regrouped to the prior SLT system and the programs now function more efficiently as a result.

Before entering into any further into the discussion of the administrative structure of the District, the following must be taken into consideration: Newark has 76 schools, whereas Paterson has 49 schools and Jersey City has 39. Newark has approximately 43,000 students and Jersey City approximately 36,000 students.

Dr. Raymond Lindgren, Executive Assistant to the Superintendent, prepared a chart that showed Paterson was grouped into four administrative units with an average of 12.25 schools per unit. Newark's five SLTs have an average of 15.2 schools per unit. Jersey City was divided into two administrative units with an average of 19.5 schools per unit. This puts Newark about midway between Paterson and Jersey City in the number of schools per administrative unit.

Rarick testified that he compared Newark with Jersey City because the two are the first and second largest districts. He considered the fact that the District has two special assistants in each SLT while Jersey City only has one in each of its two clusters. Lindgren testified that one of the special assistants is non-instructional and is paid significantly less than the special assistant for instruction. Lindgren also pointed out that Jersey City has one special assistant and one administrative analyst per cluster. The function of the administrative analyst is similar to that of the District's non-instructional special assistant.

Nelms testified that, prior to the state takeover of the District, the schools were grouped into four clusters for purposes of administration. She was the head of one of these clusters and supervised twenty-six schools so that she had insufficient time to spend on the needs of the individual schools that were her responsibility. When the District was reorganized into five units, now designated as SLTs, she was able to perform her duties much more effectively.

Bolden testified that, when she assumed the position of superintendent in July 1999, there were sixty-eight employees in the SLTs with a budget of approximately $18,000,000. She has reduced the roster of employees to its current level of forty with a budget of $6,000,000. Of the seventy-four employees shown in the present roster of the five SLTs, thirty-four are paid through other departments in the District and are not part of the SLT budget. Rarick included these employees as evidence of inefficiency but did not show that the thirty-four employees, or any category of them, serve no useful function. To the contrary, he arbitrarily eliminated the salaries of all employees of one SLT irrespective of the function performed or the source of their salaries.

Based upon the testimony, I FIND that the District has realized more than the savings projected by the plan even though it was not accomplished through implementation of the plan. I FIND that the District attempted to implement the structural reorganization contemplated by the plan but it found it to be less efficient than the five SLTs and it restored the more effective system. I FIND the Department's preference for implementing a five-year-old agreement, which creates a system that did not work as well as the one in place, to be arbitrary. Furthermore, its position does not take into consideration that creation of a massive reorganization of the District by suddenly withholding funds could easily lead to chaos. This matter should be resolved by negotiation, not through an attack on the District's funding.

I FIND the comparison of the District to Jersey City to be unpersuasive since it is based solely on numbers and ratios and ignores the requirement of the regulations that the spending history of the District and its specific staffing needs also be taken into consideration.

For all of the above reasons, I FIND that the fifth SLT is not an inefficiency and, therefore, $1,208,080 should be restored to the budget.

Rarick basically ignored the result of the Rosenfarb report in this instance and in those that follow. It will not be taken into consideration by this forum since it does not appear to be a useful measure of inefficiency in any of the areas it explored.

Inefficiencies - Overtime

Rarick reduced the Base Budget by $700,000 for excess overtime payments to blue collar workers. He characterized this as an inefficiency because the District was expected to reduce overtime spending by this amount. He did not explain the source of his expectation. Rarick was concerned about the amount of overtime paid in general, $5,700,000, and, specifically, the amount paid to certain individuals. There were two employees, a night electrician and a foreman of electrical workers, earning over $50,000 each in overtime during the 2000-2001 school year. He was also concerned about the unfavorable comparison between overtime spending in Newark and in Jersey City. Paterson is the smallest of the three districts he is involved with and it outsources its custodial services so that Rarick did not stress this comparison with Newark.

He conceded that there were certain problems during the 2002-2003 school year, such as the number of snowstorms, that led to increased use of overtime. He further conceded that there is provision in the union contracts for custodians and maintenance workers that require to District to pay for a minimum of four hours of overtime if a worker is called out to an emergency after school hours. In spite of these District-specific factors, he still based his decision on a comparison with other Abbott districts.

Steve Morlino, the Executive Director of Facilities Management for the District, testified that Newark has seventy-six schools but there are eighty-two school buildings. The average age of a District school building is eighty-five years. Newark is the only district with twenty-six buildings over 100 years old.

He testified that a significant amount of the overtime expense is weather-related. When the temperature drops below thirty degrees, the District's custodians are bound by contract to check the buildings' heating systems. When the temperature drops below twenty degrees, he requires the custodians to operate the school boilers on a 24-hour basis to avoid emergencies such as damaged boiler systems and freezing and bursting pipes. He stated that this was necessary to avoid losing the use of classrooms in already overcrowded classes.

Five of the buildings have boilers that are beyond repair. They have temporary boilers located in trailers outside the schools. These require considerable overtime attention to avoid freezing and to protect them from vandalism. Constant fuel deliveries are required because of the small capacity of the boilers. They create additional expense because they emit "cold oil smoke" which dirties the surrounding homes. The District cleans this up as a matter of public relations.

The age and condition of the school buildings exacerbate the overtime expenditures. Skilled trade workers are called out at all hours of the day and night to make emergency repairs or remedy vandalism so that the building can be used for school purposes.

The State performs renovation projects through an agency which will be identified here as the SCC. (This will be explained fully below.) Although the District does not do the work, the State workers do not clean up after the job is over so that District employees incur overtime carrying out this function.

When summer school is in session, custodial workers clean the buildings daily. When summer school is over, custodial and skilled trade workers are called upon to conduct a massive clean up and repair of schools for the regular school year.

Morlino performed a cost/benefit analysis and determined that adding additional staff would not reduce the need for overtime.

Rarick did not explain the basis for his expectations, but, given the problems, it is surprising that the District has been able to reduce the cost of overtime as much as it has. According to Morlino, it will attempt to negotiate the four-hour overtime minimum from the workers' contracts to save even further on this expense. In the meantime, I FIND that the cost of overtime is necessary given the historical expense and the staffing needs of the District. I, therefore, FIND that $700,000 should be restored to the Base Budget.

Inefficiencies – Office of Design and Construction

The District's Office of Design and Construction was also considered an inefficiency. Rarick determined that the functions of this office duplicated those of the District's office devoted to maintenance and plant services and also duplicated services provided by the New Jersey School Construction Corporation (SCC), a subsidiary of the New Jersey Economic Development Authority formed pursuant to the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-1 to –44 (Act), to administer school construction and renovation. For this reason, he deleted $2,154,000 from the Base Budget as inefficient use of funds.

Abbott districts are required to use the SCC to construct their school facilities projects. Districts, such as Newark, that have approved long-range facilities plans may undertake pre-development activities consistent with the approved plans under the auspices of the SCC. N.J.A.C. 19:34-1.1. Further, the SCC promulgated rules to implement section 13(a) of the Act which permits the SCC to "authorize a school district to undertake the acquisition, construction and all other appropriate actions necessary to complete" a school facilities project whose eligible costs are less than or equal to $500,000 and to enter into a grant agreement with the District for the payment of the State share. N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-13(a).

Rarick never spoke to anyone in the SCC to confirm his analysis of the responsibilities of the District. It was based only upon his perception and the spending by the District. Newark ranks the highest in the state in spending per pupil, $2215. The second highest is Trenton which spends $1856 per child. This means that Newark exceeds the second highest district by twenty percent, a significant margin.

The Rosenfarb report found an unfavorable variance in salaries for the Office of Design and Construction (ODC) of $9,040,609.70. Rarick looked more closely at the underlying considerations, that is, the District employees in the Office of Facilities which includes the ODC. There are four subdivisions of the Office of Facilities: project control; building maintenance, performing SLT services in the schools; facility support; and ODC. He found no counterpart of ODC in any other Abbott district. He also considered that the staff of this Office had increased over time. Furthermore, there was a highly-paid consultant, Frost Associates, engaged by the District to assist with construction and renovation plans submitted under the Act.

Rarick conceded that the ODC had responsibility for projects less than $500,000 and emergency needs but stated that other districts had the same responsibilities and handled them without this type of office.

Rarick considered that there are 27 full-time equivalent (FTE) employees in the office, and calculated their total salaries and estimated total benefits to be $297,000. He estimated these benefits using an average per FTE employee of $11,000 per year times the twenty-seven employees. He then removed the result, $2,154,000, from the budget as an inefficiency.

William Parrish has been the District's Director of the ODC since July 2002. He testified that this office consists of a director, a chief engineer, a supervising engineer, eight project managers, a construction management specialist, an assistant building services management specialist, six assistant construction management specialists, a principal purchasing assistant and support staff.

The licensed professionals in the Office of Design and Development provide the technical expertise to develop all major capital projects of the district. They identify projects; draft specifications, including technical standards; and identify, select, and oversee outside professionals and contractors.

His staff also coordinates with agencies and the community with regard to land acquisition and predevelopment activities. The ODC is also involved in the day-to-day maintenance and oversight of the District's 80 buildings that are on average 85 years old, as well as the long-range improvements and recommendations for environmentally sound and energy efficient practices. The ODC also processes and oversees numerous federal, state and local grants, including SCC 13 and 13A grants for projects under $500,000 and pre-development work (traffic studies, geo-technical work, site feasibility).

Parrish disagreed with Rarick's testimony that the SCC maintains all school buildings at this time, as well as the premise that the ODC is an overlapping function with the SCC, which handles construction of new schools as opposed to continued need for capital projects at existing schools. Parrish outlined a number of functions of the ODC completely unrelated to the SCC, the applicable subsidiary of the EDA.

He testified that many of the duties of the ODC impact upon safety of students, staff and visitors, and implicate serious District liability concerns, such as: (1) removal of underground storage tanks; (2) sidewalk and curb repairs; (3) playground resurfacing; (4) athletic field repairs; and (5) exterior and site lighting upgrades. Other duties of the ODC are directly related to, and desperately needed for, maintaining the District's curriculum, such as: (1) library renovations; (2) classroom conversions (e.g., a $60,000 undertaking of transforming classrooms into a culinary arts program); (3) building and maintenance of vocational schools; (4) science labs; and (5) temporary classroom units. Indeed, some services are mandated by NCLB, such as creating media labs and writing centers in classrooms.

The ODC also addresses all emergency structural repairs at any of the District's 80 school buildings, a critical function not handled by the SCC. In fact, an emergency situation had just occurred the day before when a roof collapsed at a school, and his staff was called upon to stabilize the situation. He added that, without a staff, he would not have been able to respond adequately and the District would have incurred great expense.

Parrish testified that no other District had approximately 50 capital improvement projects at this time valued at over $20 million. The Belmont Runyon school alone is an approximately $30 million project. As an example, Parrish indicated that the SCC evaluated Jersey City's "health and safety" funding at $40 million and assessed Newark's at $130 million, largely in part due to the significantly greater amount of buildings, and the condition of those buildings. Therefore, contrary to Rarick's statements, a comparison to other Abbott districts can not properly be made.

Parrish disputed Rarick's assertion that the ODC staff was growing at a time that it should be reduced. He said that the District's Long Range Facilities Management Plan involves more than $1.6 billion in projects, and, at each stage of building, a higher level of District coordination is needed to interface with the SCC. This requires representatives of the ODC to ensure efficiencies for subsequent construction of buildings based on prior experience. Among other things, it eliminates the need for contracted professionals to educate themselves at the expense of the District or State each time a new project is undertaken.

Parrish made a cost/benefit analysis of retaining the staff in the ODC. Given the current $20 million in capital improvement projects, an industry standard of 15 to 20 percent in construction "soft" costs and management fees and private industry salaries, elimination of the ODC would cost the District approximately double the cost of maintaining the ODC.

Finally, Parrish testified that neither Rarick nor Hoffman, who, despite being stationed in the District's Internal Audit room outside of the ODC office, ever spoke to him regarding the functions or efficiency of the ODC.

George Gottuso is employed by the SCC as the senior project officer in charge of the District's public school construction programs. As part of its Long Range Facilities Plan, the District will construct forty new schools and renovate thirty others at an estimated cost of $1.6 billion dollars. The work will extend indefinitely into the future.

Gottuso testified that, once the Department approves a project, he works closely with the ODC. He attends meetings with District staff and educators to set up the design and construction of new and renovated schools at which the ODC educates prospective architects as to what is needed before a design is submitted. He works with Parrish and other District facilities staff when the design drawings are considered and approved. The design phase of each project can go on for up to eighteen months depending on the size and complexity of the project. The District must approve and sign off on the construction drawings so that they meet its standards. The SCC monitors the whole process and keeps it moving forward. In small districts, the SCC works with a district on a few schools. In Newark, it works with the District on 40 schools.

At the present time, the Department has approved twenty-eight projects submitted by the District and there are additional ones being prepared for submission.

Gottuso confirmed that the SCC approves the District for grants for projects costing less than $500,000; however, once the grant is approved, the District does everything else. The SCC only receives invoices and pays the contractors for the project. It does not have the capacity to deal with all of these projects and has delegated the responsibilities to the districts as permitted by law. As a result, the work is performed by the ODC.

Gottuso said that the office of SCC devoted to the District consists of himself and two project managers. Given the number of projects in the District and his lack of staff, he relies heavily upon District resources to carry out the work of his office. The SCC has no plan to provide him with additional staff.

Based upon the evidence, I FIND the ODC performs necessary services that do not duplicate the services provided by the SCC and the District would incur greater costs by eliminating it. The Department never considered the staff requirements of the District before eliminating funding for the ODC. I, therefore, FIND that this office is not an inefficiency and the Department should restore $2,154,000 to the Base Budget.

Inefficiencies – Office of Development Planning

Rarick also considered the Office of Development Planning (ODP) to be inefficient and questioned the need for it. He stated that, at least as far back as August 2001, he has been trying to get an organizational chart of this office and the job descriptions of its employees. These employees are a director, a teacher of industrial arts reclassified as a resource teacher/coordinator, a legislative information officer and a secretary. He was concerned that the resource teacher/coordinator, who helps to plan facilities needs in the schools, was performing a job for which he was not hired. Rarick was also concerned that the legislative information officer performed duties already being performed by the District's Office of Public Information. He could not find a comparable office in any of the other Abbott districts and, so, could not justify this expenditure in Newark.

Rosenfarb found this to be an unfavorable variance of $8,969,320.68. Rarick calculated the measure of the inefficiency to be the salaries and benefits of three employees and he removed $190,000 from the Base Budget.

Lindgren testified that the ODP was originally created to address the Abbott-mandated Long Range Facilities Management Plan. The office has existed for four years and originally had five employees. The staff was reduced approximately two years ago to three positions, two of whom were reallocated from other District offices.

He asserted that, given the scope of the undertaking involving Newark schools, which alone accounts for 20 percent of all new schools in the state and 25 percent of all projected expenditures, comparison to other Districts regarding the need for this office is unsound. He testified that 130 of 230 million dollars in School Construction Corporation Health and Safety projects are in Newark. Overall, Newark is building 40 new schools and restoring 35 others.

He explained that with each school, the ODP staff faces unique challenges regarding, among other things, state and municipal approvals, community interaction, land acquisition procedures and coordination of educational specifications, District standards and community needs. Lindgren said that it is not uncommon for the building of each school to implicate multiple parcels of land; in fact, Newark's new University High School impacts 60 separate parcels of land, by far the greatest number in the state. According to Lindgren, the ODP staff is uniquely qualified to implement these tasks.

The legislative information officer, whose job description is in evidence, is responsible for, among other things, coordinating between the state and municipal government and working with the multiple agencies of the City on a regular basis. Among his many responsibilities is his role as District liaison to the City Planning Board. He is uniquely suited to the position because of his familiarity with the municipal officials and the process. Lindgren testified that it is far more efficient to assign one experienced individual to this function rather than distribute individual tasks to random District staff.

Lindgren explained that the function served by the legislative information officer does not duplicate the functions of the District's Office of Public Information and Community Development. This office interacts with the District parents, the community and the media.

The industrial arts/facilities research teacher/coordinator, whose job description is in evidence, participates in meetings with the Department, the SCC, and the Facilities Task Force. He ensures compliance and continuity and uniformity with educational specifications and is charged with retaining voluminous records and coordinating documents relating to the educational side of the building process. Lindgren advised that this individual is also uniquely qualified for this position given his experience, as well as his knowledge and expertise of educational issues, drafting and design.

Lindgren was aware of the functions of the District's Office of Public Information and Community Development. He explained that the role of this offices was completely different than the role of the ODP and that there were no overlapping functions, with the exception of the sharing of information among the offices for community awareness. He added that the ODP performs functions that are not duplicative of any other District staff.

Finally, Lindgren testified that neither Rarick nor Hoffman spoke to him about the inefficiency of the ODP. The first time the Department of Education advised the District of this was in the August 27, 2003 letter.

Based upon the testimony of Lindgren and Rarick's admission that he had no understanding of the function of this office, I FIND that it performs a necessary function and should not be classified as an inefficiency. Therefore, I FIND that the Department should restore $190,000 to the District's Base Budget

Inefficiencies – Resource Teachers/Coordinators

The next item of inefficiency, resource teacher/coordinator positions, was another matter agreed upon in the Projected Five Year Cost Saving Actions agreement. The District was to reduce the number of math research teacher coordinators from sixty-three to five by the 2003-2004 school year, a savings of $50,000 per employee. As of the present, the number of these employees has only been reduced to twenty-nine. The District was to reduce the number of language arts teacher/coordinators from sixty-three to five by the 2003-2004 school years, also at a savings of $50,000 per employee. As of the present time, the number of these employees has only been reduced to twenty-seven.

Rarick did not consider any District savings in this area if they were not realized in accord with the five year agreement. He was not aware that the District had reduced the number of facilitators and tutors that used to be in the District and did not take this into account. He explained that he did not consider the educational impact of reducing the number of resource teacher/coordinators because he felt that this should have been contemplated by the District when the five year agreement was developed and agreed upon.

Rosenfarb arrived at an unfavorable variance of $14,343,938.77 for these positions. Rarick compared the District to Jersey City and Paterson and found that there were a few employees performing similar functions but not on the scale found in Newark. [illegible] inefficiency for this item in the following manner. $59,556.69, of a math resource teacher/coo[illegible] number of employees that should have been remo[illegible] of $1,452,772.67. He calculated the savings o[illegible] rce teacher/coordinators by taking their average s[illegible] by twenty-two. This resulted in a savings of $1,331,[illegible] on benefits for these forty-six employees in the mar[illegible] about $506,000. The approximate total of all of [illegible] emed to be the amount of funds spent inefficien[illegible] from the Base Budget.

Bol[illegible] er/coordinators as "master teachers" involved [illegible] ntoring teachers, assisting in curriculum development[illegible]

She[illegible] er/coordinators are a component of the District's [illegible]. She has reviewed this model with the Departmen[illegible] ve approval from the Commissioner. In fact, Bolds[illegible] ad reviewed the District's model and comment[illegible] he concluded that the Department's decision to elimina[illegible] research teacher/coordinator positions would have a se[illegible] rict's ability to implement its model.

Bo[illegible] urce teacher/coordinator position to WSR in compar[illegible] s and tutors. She found that the resource teachers [illegible] district from a programmatic standpoint given the fact th[illegible] vices were directly linked to an upswing in crucial te[illegible] cted that the work done by facilitators was not as closely [illegible] trict goals. Because of the value of the research[illegible] de the decision to reduce the number of facilitators[illegible] ar exceeded the cost savings proposed in the Septe[illegible] Specifically, the Superintendent reduced the number of facilitators by 26.5 with a corresponding saving of $1.85 million and reduced the tutors by 50 with a corresponding cost saving of $3.53 million.

Bolden stated that the elimination of the research teacher/coordinators would deprive the District of the extensive additional training they have already received. She described in detail how the research teacher/coordinators were trained in programs that, in some instances, spanned two and one-half years. In addition to their greater effectiveness, she determined to retain the resource teacher/coordinators in math and language arts because of the high cost of training them. According to Bolden, the need for language arts and math resource teacher/coordinators was explained to Rarick and he approved the District's plan.

In addition, she noted that the proposed reduction of research teacher/coordinators would result in placing the District's $5.7 million National Science Foundation (NSF) grant in jeopardy. The grant required maintaining at least 30 resource coordinators in math as a condition of continued funding. Rarick testified that he was unaware of the NSF grant when he identified the math research teacher/coordinator position as an inefficiency and failed to talk to anyone in the District about the need for the position.

Based upon the evidence, I FIND that, irrespective of the five-year plan, the positions of math and language arts resource teachers/coordinators do not constitute an inefficient use of funds. I, therefore, FIND that $3,290,000 should be restored to the Base Budget for this purpose.

Inefficiencies – Department Chairpersons

Rarick calculated that the District had inefficient spending in the amount of $3,024,000 because its department chairpersons do not teach classes. This is a situation unique to the Newark district. He could not find any other Abbott districts where department chairpersons were not required to teach. The Newark chairpersons teach voluntarily on occasion but Rarick could not factor this into the budget because there was no regularity.

In Paterson, the department chairpersons are required to teach at least one class. In Jersey City, the department chairpersons carry a full load of classes and receive a stipend for their additional administrative duties. In the District, the department chairpersons are full time administrators. Rarick suggested that department chairpersons were performing functions similar to supervisors and vice principals and suggested to the District that thirteen of them be reclassified to the latter position. He did not take into account whether any or all of them have the proper certification for this. According to Rarick, the department chairpersons not reclassified should be made to carry a full time teaching load and receive a stipend for their administrative duties.

The District has very few vice principals. In Rarick's opinion, if department chairpersons were reclassified, it would result in a more even distribution of vice principals throughout the District and bring it more in line with other districts.

Rarick calculated the dollar amount of this inefficiency to be the average salary of the fifty four department chairpersons ($45,000) times the fifty-four unnecessary positions plus the benefits associated with them. He arrived at $3,024,000, which he deducted from the Base Budget.

His analysis does not take into account that, if funding for the non-teaching positions were completely eliminated from the budget, the District would not have money to pay these individuals as vice principals and/or classroom teachers or to pay these teachers a stipend.

Bolden testified as to the responsibilities of department chairpersons as they exist in the District. In fact, she herself served as a department chairperson at one time and voluntarily taught while working in that capacity in order to remain current in her content area. She agreed that having department chairpersons teach is generally a benefit to the teachers and the system.

Bolden noted that department chairpersons are the instructional leaders in their respective content areas in the District's secondary schools and, as such, they are critical from a programmatic standpoint. They carry out important staff development functions and assist teachers in implementing the curriculum in their content areas. They are also responsible for the disciplinary functions in their respective departments. She observed that, if the positions were eliminated, the District would lose the benefit of the twenty additional days department chairpersons are contractually required to work each school year.

The Superintendent challenged the Department's contention that department chairpersons could be re-classified as vice-principals by pointing out that vice principals do not engage in the staff development function. She consulted with her colleagues in other districts who indicated that they realized no cost savings from having department chairpersons teach. In addition, she found that, in these other districts, adding teaching responsibilities resulted in the need for additional positions such as "Deans of Discipline" to carry out duties presently performed by department chairpersons and/or necessitated paying a teacher a stipend for the staff development function. When reviewed in that light, Bolden noted that the number of administrators in the high schools in the three State-operated districts supervised by Rarick were equivalent.

This testimony was verified by Lindgren. He took into consideration that the District's department chairpersons serve dual functions in that they supervise instruction and enforce student discipline. Based on his discussions with administrators at Jersey City and Paterson, he compiled a chart that confirmed the District's administrative structure to be consistent with the other state-operated districts, because Newark does not have the position of "Dean." Lindgren testified that Paterson has six "Deans of Discipline" and Jersey City has 18. Further, Lindgren ascertained that Jersey City has now assigned a number of supervisors to the high schools to assist with supervision of instruction. This information was also confirmed by Rarick in his testimony.

Finally, Bolden outlined the limitations to department chairpersons teaching contained in the District's collective bargaining agreement. This document only allows these individuals to teach if a staffing shortage exists. She explained the difficulty in negotiating changes to clauses embedded in a collective bargaining agreement and admitted that she would change those terms if she could.

Based upon the evidence, I FIND that the comparison of the District to other districts with respect to the job functions of department chairpersons is invalid since it is undisputed that the functions are different in Paterson and Jersey City. I FIND that the District has demonstrated that the positions are necessary as the District is presently structured and elimination would not necessarily result in any particular cost savings. I, therefore, FIND that the non-teaching department chairpersons are not an inefficiency and $3,024,000 should be replaced in the Base Budget.

Inefficiencies – Food Service Deficits

The District has a food service deficit of $3,200,000, or $176 per child, the highest in the State. This problem has been the subject of discussion since the CAFR of 2000. The District must contribute money from the General Fund to make up for the deficit in the food service budget which was $8,000,000 in 1999. A few strategies were developed. The first was to reduce the number of staff. The second was to create a two-tiered salary structure so that newly hired workers would be employed at a lower hourly rate. According to Rarick, this should have produced a $2,000,000 reduction in the deficit by this time. Therefore, since the budget for the fiscal year 2001 showed a deficit of $7,000,000 and there should be a $2,000,000 savings, the current deficit should only be $5,000,000. The actual current deficit was $8,195,000, subject to adjustment at the time of the annual audit. Rarick determined that the dollar amount of the inefficiency was the difference between what the deficit is and what he determined it should be. As a result, he deducted $3,200,000 from the Base Budget.

Rarick was not aware of which of these remedial strategies had been implemented by the District to lower the food service deficit.

Rosenfarb identified the unfavorable variance for food service as $5,926,274, but Rarick relied upon his own method to attribute a dollar amount to this inefficiency.

The District commissioned a September 1998 study seeking ways to reduce the deficit. Valerie Wilson, the District's Executive Director of Operations, stated that the District implemented the majority of its recommendations. It addressed the District's high labor costs by reducing staffing levels through attrition and outsourcing.

Specifically, Wilson testified that the staffing level was reduced from a high of 446 employees in 1996 to the current level of 259. Outsourcing and the negotiation of a tiered wage level ensured that newly hired employees would receive a significantly lower wage rate. Wilson pointed out that no employee had been hired for a food service position since 1997. There are no District employees in schools where the food service is outsourced.

The study also found that the District would always carry a food service deficit unless it was able to implement a more efficient, cost-saving central food kitchen. Wilson testified that the District followed up on the recommendation by requesting, in a September 11, 2002 letter, that the Department, through the SCC, approve the central kitchen as part of the District's Long Range Facilities Plan. No specific response was provided, but verbal statements were made regarding the need for the District to do another study and noting that this project could not be completed unless it was attached to a school project.

Wilson detailed the effect that the proposed $3.2 million budget reduction would have on the District's ability to maintain its meal program. She explained that the reductions would eliminate the District's ability to provide a hot lunch meal, eliminate the breakfast program, and impede the District's ability to provide free lunches for children with limited financial resources.

In addition, Newark is a school district that requires its students to remain in their buildings for lunch. It is required to provide a number of meal choices for the children. They have only about twenty-five minutes for their lunch periods. The lunchrooms are crowded and, if there is a shortage of staff to move the process along expeditiously, the children may not be able to select, purchase and eat their meals in the allotted time. This would impinge on their subsequent instructional time.

Based upon the testimony, I FIND that, irrespective of the desire of the District and the Department to reduce the number of employees in the food service program, there is no way to do this at the present time without seriously impinging upon other necessary and required services. I FIND that, under the existing circumstances, the District has lowered its food service staff to the extent possible and the remaining staff can not be considered an inefficiency because the food service program will not work without them. I, therefore, FIND that the food service staffing, which is creating the deficit, cannot be considered an inefficiency and $3,200,000 should be replaced in the Base Budget.

Inefficiencies - Consultants

The next area of inefficiency is the amount spent by the District for the services of four consultants. The Department specified just four consultants in its testimony and only these allegations of inefficiency will be considered. A fifth consultant was identified for the first time at hearing during the cross-examination of the District's witness but no adjustment was made for it in the budget. Therefore, it will not be considered an inefficient use of funds in this appeal.

The four consultants identified by Rarick as inefficiencies are Ciber, Inc., Accuent, Systems 3000, and Brokerage Concepts. He stated that Ciber duplicates the District's staff in the payroll department as does Accuent ($479,052.75). Systems 3000 ($23,450) is involved in the District's budget functions which overlap the others.

Therefore, he asserts, there are three separate consultants performing overlapping functions.

Ciber Inc.:

Ciber was paid $424,041.70 in the fiscal year 2003. It provides day-to-day technical assistance to the District in running its payroll program. Its function is described as the provision of "facilities management of the PeopleSoft human resource/payroll system." The District uses PeopleSoft software to run its payroll.

Paul Mailloux, the District's Chief Information Officer since February 1997, testified that his office oversees the processing of over 9,000 payroll checks every two weeks. There are about eight different employee unions whose requirements need to be accounted for. He explained that the Newark Public Schools retained Ciber in October 1998 to provide the District with on-site technical support, operations support, and maintenance for its human resource payroll systems and Oracle-based systems (PeopleSoft, SubFinder, Resumix, Tuxedo, Pay Base, Citrix, and SASI).

Bolden testified that, when she became State Superintendent for the District in 1999, she found the District's payroll to be unstable. The District had 11 full-time employees associated with processing payroll, and it was not unusual for these employees to incur more than 350 hours of overtime on a bi-weekly basis, the equivalent of five additional employees. The vast majority of the overtime was associated with running the payroll operation and recovering from the frequently occurring payroll operations errors that plagued the system. For example, employees were not being paid; records, such as W-2 forms, were erroneous; and required reports, such as the Board Secretary's Report and the Treasurer's Report, could not be generated and were not submitted. Ciber was hired in order to remedy this situation.

After engaging Ciber, this work is now performed by a total of four individuals: a systems engineer with specific hardware certifications; an Oracle-certified experienced database administrator; and two computer system operators.

The District's present payroll employees collect employees' time records and prepare the data to be processed by Ciber into payroll. This is a large operation given the number of District employees involved.

Ciber also provides the district with a "Disaster Recovery Hot Site" and "hot site administrative services" for its payroll operations. This network and systems infrastructure provides backup of critical data offsite and supports Human Resources and Payroll operations during emergencies and secures delivery of critical payroll applications with remote point-to-point access and local check printing capabilities in the event of disaster. During the recent blackout of August 14, 2003, a Wednesday before a scheduled payday, his office was required to utilize these emergency services.

Mailloux stated that his office conducted a cost/benefit analysis and determined that it is cost beneficial for the District to engage Ciber. The analysis concluded that the estimated annual savings is approximately $230,000 to $300,000. Replacing Ciber's services would cost the District approximately $780,000. It was Mailloux's opinion that he would not be able to process payroll in the event the Ciber contract was terminated.

Mailloux testified that Rarick never spoke to him about Ciber's functions, and never questioned the efficiency of its operations.

Accuent and Systems 3000:

Valerie Wilson, the District's Executive Director of Operations, testified that the District needs both Accuent and Systems 3000. Accuent is a human resource/payroll software implementation partner for PeopleSoft, the human resource-related software. The PeopleSoft company requires an implementation partner. Its software is not "plug and play." It requires constant monitoring and adaptation to meet the needs of the District. Furthermore, the software is proprietary; that is, the information required to provide critical functional and technical support for it is not available to the District so that no District employee can take the place of Accuent (which is licensed by PeopleSoft for this purpose).

The District had engaged another PeopleSoft certified partner before Accuent but Wilson described the situation as "a mess." This partner was replaced by Accuent and the system has been functioning well since. The function of Accuent does not overlap Ciber. Ciber is involved with the day-to-day operation of payroll while Accuent services and adjusts the payroll software.

Systems 3000 is proprietary software used for the District's finances as a whole, not just for human resources. It incorporates data generated by the consultants serving the District's human resources function for that segment of the budget but does not eliminate the need for their services nor do they eliminate the need for Systems 3000. Wilson testified that, as Director of Operations, she relies upon Systems 3000 on a daily basis.

Wilson confirmed that no other office or District staff provides the District with the services performed by these two consultants.

Brokerage Concepts:

Brokerage Concepts ($90,000) is the third party administrator for prescription, vision and temporary disability claims and administrative fees for the employees in two unions. There are a very small number of such employees. Rarick felt that this was an unnecessary function and deducted the cost even though the expense arises from an existing contract between the District and the union involved. The union has reserved the right to be serviced by this specific provider and, even though the Director of Labor Relations for the District believes this provision to be an infringement of management prerogative, it is still part of the existing contract.

Rarick found the costs for consultant services in the District to be significantly higher than those in other districts. He proposed that Newark create a Department of Operations Technology consolidated and handled mainly by District empl ow quickly this could be accomplished, but neve tal amount paid to these consultants as inefficient al of $1,057,000 from the Base Budget correspond Based upon the s of Ciber, Accuent and Systems 3000 are nec dundant and their services can not be provided by seeable future, if at all. I, therefore, FIND that the and $1,057,000 should be restored to the Base Bud

Inefficiencies - Drivers

The final inefficien ayment of $78,000 for two full-time drivers for Mario ndent. This payment was based upon an employ 7, 2001 between the New Jersey State Board of Ed xpired under its own terms on June 30, 2003.

The contract para

7. TRANSPORTA

In recogni NTENDENT will be required to travel such as the County Superintendent's on, etc., and in light of the fact that th m time to time travel throughout the S cts to carry on her responsibilities, t assigned a school District automobil used for work-related travel as well as is vehicle, but not the driver, may also b for her personal use.

Rarick explained prior State Superintendent of the District. It was p receiving death threats at the time he assumed the position. The drivers were to serve as bodyguards, as well as transportation for the Superintendent. The Department states that, at the present time, there is no special threat to Bolden different from what the superintendents face in other Abbott districts. It thinks that she can be transported by other District employees as necessary and no full time drivers are needed.

Furthermore, the Department believes that this expenditure, although relatively small, is a highly visible one and symbolizes waste to the public. No other Abbott district superintendents have full time drivers.

Since Bolden's contract has expired and will no longer be in effect in the upcoming fiscal year, the Department believes that the two drivers' positions can be eliminated as unnecessary. Rarick deleted $78,000 from the Base Budget to correspond to the elimination of these position. He pointed out that the Department may reallocate these funds for classroom costs if the District requests it.

Bolden testified that she customarily works late hours and is concerned for her safety when leaving the District's offices on Cedar Street. Nelms, her deputy superintendent, works approximately the same hours and has no driver.

Bolden also explained that she spends a significant amount of time driving to various meetings and appointments. If she has a driver, she is able to conduct District business from her car, thus making more effective use of her time.

I FIND that the District has failed to demonstrate that it is not possible to transport Bolden safely and efficiently by using District employees that can be used for other purposes if not needed by her. I, therefore, FIND that the use of two full time drivers by the Superintendent is an inefficiency and the Department correctly removed $78,887 from the Base Budget for this reason.

DEPARTMENT CALCULATION OF ADDITIONAL ABBOTT AID

The Department determined that the District's preliminary maintenance budget, that is, its total state program budget and maintenance for the 2003-2004 school year is $744,264,093. The projected General Fund revenue in Newark's Budget submission for 2003-2004 is $764,501,305 including the District's request for additional Abbott aid in the amount of $201,226,579. It will also have ECPA revenues of $36,370,678 and DEPA revenues of $20,103,295 for a total of $820,975,278. When the District's request for Abbott aid is subtracted, this leaves projected revenues of $619,748,699.

The District will receive an unbudgeted increase of $198,344 in pre-school expense and Projected Carryforward Balances – ECPA of $228,318, resulting in revenues of $426,662. This makes $620,175,361, the 2003-2004 total General Fund revenues available.

If the District receives maintenance budget revenues of $109,186,765 in additional Abbott aid, the total state program budget and maintenance, adjusted for inefficiencies, will be $744,264,093.

REVISED CALCULATION OF ADDITIONAL ABBOTT AID, 2003-2004

The Department approved $109,000 in Supplemental Abbott aid for the 2003-2004 school year. Based upon the findings above, I CONCLUDE that the following additions should be made to the proposed additional Abbott aid in accord with the maintenance standards set by the Court and the regulations.

Restore from encumbrances	$9,735,823
Non-discretionary increases:
Salaries	$1,830,496

ORDER

It is ORDERED that additional Abbott aid be provided to the District in the amount of $153,605,730 for the 2003-2004 fiscal year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by both the Board of Education (Board) and the Department of Education (Department) in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition, as were replies by each to the other's exceptions, and all were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision herein.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Department's methodology in reviewing the District's budget fully comports with the "maintenance" standard established by the Court and implemented by regulations promulgated in accordance with P.L. 2003, c. 122. The Commissioner concurs that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, such determination being solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). However, to the extent that he may appropriately do so in an administrative proceeding, the Commissioner also opines that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, is fully consistent with the language and intent of the Court. Thus, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds the regulatory definition controlling herein, with no conflict between it and the underlying Court order.

Accordingly, pursuant to the standard set forth in rule, the Commissioner makes the following determinations on the specific points in dispute, adopting in part, rejecting in part and modifying in part the Initial Decision of the OAL.

ADJUSTMENTS TO THE BASE BUDGET

Encumbrances

The ALJ ordered restoration of the full amount of $9,735,823.31 excluded from the maintenance budget set by the Department, based on "undisputed" documentation of qualifying encumbrances presented by the District at hearing and on testimony to the effect that the Department has a history of not increasing aid when Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) adjustments warrant. On exception, the Department reiterates that, at the time of the determination under appeal, the District had not yet shown this amount, or any part thereof, to represent 2002-03 expenditures in accordance with established guidelines, and it contends that the Commissioner should, instead of uncritically accepting the District's claims, direct preliminary adjustments to the maintenance budget based on the results of the now-in-progress review of the District's supporting documentation, which the Department saw for the first time during testimony at OAL despite repeated attempts to secure and review it so as to resolve this matter prior to hearing. (Department's Exceptions at 1-3) In reply, the District characterizes the Department's position as "nothing more than a delay tactic designed to further impede the operation of schools in the District," and reiterates that its documentation at hearing, which it had every right to present at that point and not before, was "uncontested" and, thus, must stand as found by the ALJ. (District's Reply at 3-5, quotation at 4)

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's recitation of the standard for determining whether encumbrances are to be considered part of the maintenance budget, but does not concur that the District's claim should be accepted wholesale merely because the Department was unable, in effect, to complete a detailed fiscal review of documentation previously available to the District but first proffered at OAL hearing. The Commissioner notes that the Court directed the Department to provide districts with preliminary maintenance figures for the 2003-04 school year by August 27, 2003, and, in fulfillment of that directive, the Department utilized the most recent information provided by the District. The Commissioner, therefore, finds it entirely appropriate and consistent with the Department's established accounting practices[1] for the Department to have excluded from the District's maintenance budget expenditures for which the District did not provide requisite documentation. Moreover, although the Commissioner recognizes the Court's "encouragement," as noted by the District, to accept ongoing supplemental documentation, the Court's holding cannot be construed to require the Commissioner to accept data without benefit of appropriate fiscal review, particularly where the District did not proffer the documentation when requested and the CAFR will be submitted in just over a week from the date of this decision so as to bring finality to the data in question.

[1] These practices are both set forth in testimony herein and embodied in instructions to districts with respect to the processing of year-end purchase orders as provided in Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg's letter of September 16, 2003, see Board of Education of the City of Burlington, Burlington County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided by the Commissioner on October 20, 2003.

Accordingly, while recognizing that adjustments in this area may well prove necessary, because the Commissioner is unable to determine definitively which of the District's encumbrances have become accounts payable by virtue of the receipt of the encumbered goods or services on or before June 30, 2003, the Commissioner concludes that the disputed encumbrances were properly excluded by the Department and rejects the ALJ's recommendation for adjustments to the maintenance budget, instead directing that such adjustments await the results of the impending CAFR.

Projected Surplus

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Department's calculation, to which the District did not object, shall stand, subject to final adjustment following the CAFR.[2]

Other Adjustments

The Commissioner notes the ALJ's recitation of corrections made to revenues and receivables, to which neither party objected and which did not result in a finding, conclusion or order.

[2] The Commissioner notes, however, that the ALJ errs in stating at page 8 of the Initial Decision that the District must maintain a surplus balance of 2%. Although that is the threshold for determining excess surplus, there is no requirement that surplus actually be maintained at 2%.

NONDISCRETIONARY ITEMS

Salaries

The ALJ ordered adjustment of the District's maintenance budget to allow for salary increases for substitutes, overtime, stipends, per-diem, summer school and nonaffiliated employees, reasoning that these were nondiscretionary based on past practice as evidenced by prior contracts; she declined, however, to disturb the 4.884% rate of increase applied by the Department to those salaries it found subject to nondiscretionary increase. The Department takes exception to the former, reiterating that these are not contracted increases, and that annual contracts expiring in June 2003 but not yet negotiated at the time of hearing are fully within the discretionary control of the District. (Department's Exceptions at 3-5) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's recommendation, reiterating that it provided evidence at hearing that these categories of employees are, in fact, subject to expected wage increases based on past practice. (District's Reply at 5-6)

The ALJ also found that any teaching or paraprofessional position filled by a permanent employee at the start of the 2002-03 school year, but later vacated, must be considered "provided" within the meaning of "maintenance budget," so that full-year salary amounts for such positions (237 Full-Time Equivalents at $11,376,000) must be added to the 2003-04 budget. The Department notes on exception that it does not disagree with the ALJ's determination as to positions filled for part of the year being "provided" for maintenance purposes, but contends that the District offered no credible evidence for its claims as to positions meeting this criterion. (Department's Exceptions at 5-7) The District, in reply, characterizes the Department's position as arbitrary and baseless, with the potential to leave the District without critical staff through no fault of its own. (District's Reply at 6-7)

Upon review, the Commissioner modifies the ALJ's analyses, findings and conclusions with respect to additional salary monies for noncontractual salary increases and filling of specific vacancies. Initially, the Commissioner notes that the Department's overall charge in this matter was to determine the level of 2003-04 funding that would enable the District to continue in a "maintenance" mode, that is, to implement in 2003-04 the programs, services and positions provided in 2002-03. With respect to salary costs, the Commissioner recognizes that, while it is true that dollar amounts actually paid out for staffing prior to June 30, 2003 will not perfectly predict the cost of providing comparable staffing in the next, it is equally true that other types of projections are no less imprecise. Thus, in the Commissioner's view, a methodology which preliminarily establishes the 2003-04 cost of providing positions at "maintenance" levels by determining, as nearly as possible without benefit of audit, the actual approved cost of providing them in 2002-03 and then allowing for reasonable, nondiscretionary salary adjustments, is a uniform, fair and rational method for estimating future expenditures which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision. With respect to salary increases, the Commissioner finds that applying the District's currently contracted increase rate of 4.884% was a reasonable method of projecting preliminary nondiscretionary costs for 2003-04, and, moreover, that increases requested in anticipation of upcoming annual negotiations where a contractual obligation does not presently exist cannot properly be considered "non-discretionary" costs appropriate for preliminary State support in a "maintenance" year occasioned in significant part by the need for fiscal austerity. The Commissioner is likewise unpersuaded by the Board's argument that the Department's method does not take into account vacancies and positions filled for only part of the year, since variances of these types occur every year and a preliminary district-wide salary budget is appropriately based on the assumption that staffing is a flexible and continuous process, with ebbs and flows that, absent specific evidence to the contrary, generally permit the projection of one year's experience onto the next. Finally, while the Commissioner recognizes that the results of the Department's method may be imperfect, even after adjustment following audit, he is also cognizant that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant. Therefore, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's recommendation with respect to application of a 4.884% rate of salary increase for preliminary calculation purposes, but rejects her recommendations adding additional monies to the maintenance budget for noncontractual salary increases and filling of specific vacancies.

Benefits

The ALJ declined to make adjustments to the Department's calculations for benefits, generally because there was insufficient information on record or because the District did not provide evidence to support its claims. On exception, the District argues that the Court, in its July 23, 2003 Order, anticipated that nondiscretionary cost determinations would be based on actual, current numbers, not on a "reasonable methodology," so that the ALJ's acceptance of the Department's projections violates the Court's directive. The District also objects to the ALJ's determination not to order adjustments at this time, alleging that such ruling conflicts with her prior ruling on encumbrances and ignores the District's testimony about the Department's historical failure to increase aid following the CAFR. Finally, the District contends that the ALJ, in rejecting the District's claim for increased pension costs, ignored testimony that such costs are based upon salaries and, thus, increase as salaries do. (District's Exceptions at 9-12) In reply, the Department reiterates that its method of calculating health benefits, which relies on applying the 2003-04 rate of increase in health benefit plan costs to the District's 2002-03 expenditures for health benefits, is superior to the District's, which takes a "snapshot" of its payroll at a specific point in time and then projects what those individuals' plans would cost in the following year, without regard for the fluctuations that occur during any given year in both numbers of employees and elections of coverage. The Department also urges adoption of the ALJ's finding on pension costs, noting that no documentation was offered in support of the referenced testimony. (Department's Reply at 3-4)

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that no adjustments to the Department's calculations are warranted at this time, in the case of health benefit costs because the Department's methodology for preliminary determination is sound and the District's arguments and evidence are insufficient to disturb it, and in the case of pensions because no specific evidence was brought to the record to support the District's claims.

Workers' Compensation

The ALJ recommended adjustment of the District's maintenance budget to include $3.5 million in additional workers' compensation costs, based on the actuarial analysis of the District's fiscal agent for its self-insured workers' compensation program,

"[u]nless the Department subsequently analyzes the need for the large increase appropriately." (Initial Decision at 18) On exception, the Department urges the Commissioner to direct the analysis suggested by the ALJ and decline to order adjustments to the District's maintenance budget until such analysis is completed. (Department's Exceptions at 7-8) In reply, the District again accuses the Department of delay tactics. (District's Reply at 7-8)

Upon review, although the Commissioner is mindful of the reasoned basis for the District's claim and the ALJ's conclusion, he is also mindful that the District is not required to maintain insurance reserves at the level recommended by its actuarial analyst, and that the need for fiscal austerity is one of the primary bases for the Court's maintenance order. Accordingly, in the interest of balancing competing concerns, and because this issue is not amenable to resolution by the CAFR, the Commissioner directs the Department to conduct forthwith the analysis suggested by the ALJ, and to make thereafter such adjustments to the District's budget and supplemental aid as may prove warranted.

Charter School Tuition and Pupil Transportation

The Commissioner notes the ALJ's recitation of the Department's determination that the District's charter school tuition and transportation costs represent nondiscretionary increases, so that $7,512,368 was included in the District's maintenance budget and no further order results herein.

Special Education Tuition—Private Schools for the Disabled

The ALJ found the evidence to show a need for $1,900,000[3] for private school tuition increases, as determined by the Department, rather than the $6,518,987 requested by the District; however, she also found that the total amount of the District's special education increase should be offset by $500,000 in anticipated IDEA monies rather than by $1,159,116 as determined by the Department. The District excepts to the ALJ's recommendation for IDEA offset, contending that she erroneously took into account the Department's disproved "transfer" analysis and failed to consider the substantially decreased IDEA resources available to the District, to which the Department replies that its calculations were not based on transferred funds, but rather on actual 2002-03 expenditures and actual numbers of new students and tuition increases. (District's Exceptions at 13-15; Department's Reply at 4-5) The Department, too, excepts to the ALJ's finding with respect to IDEA funds, without reply from the District, but does so on the basis that the District's IDEA Part B plan has not yet been approved by the Department and that, to the extent that the District is not required to do so as a result of a corrective action plan, it may allocate Part B funds to offset tuition increases. (Department's Exceptions at 8-9)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the Department's calculation of a $1,932,929[4] nondiscretionary increase in this category of special education tuition, exclusive of any offset, to be fully supported by the record and not at all, as suggested by the Board, dependent on the Department's inquiries regarding transfers. With respect to allocation of IDEA funds for offset purposes, however, the Commissioner cannot conclude from the present record that the District has shown its inability to make further discretionary allocation from IDEA funds. Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that the District's total need for increased special education tuition, including the $1,932,929 disputed herein for tuition at private schools for the disabled, be set at $4,673,797 as determined by the Department, but that this amount be offset by $1,159,116 in IDEA funds for a total increase of $3,514,681; subject, however, to further increase should the District demonstrate to the Department that any portion of the referenced IDEA funds are, in fact, required to support positions and services required by a corrective action plan.

[3] The ALJ's discussion references an adjustment of $1,900,000; however, Exhibit R-1, which sets out in summary form the calculations underlying the Department's maintenance budget and supplemental aid determinations as announced in it August 27, 2003 letter (Exhibit J-1), includes a total special education calculation of $4,673,797, confirming $1,932,929, as calculated in Exhibit R-10, as the actual amount of allowed increase in private school tuition.

Rent/Lease Obligations and County Vocational School Tuition

The Commissioner notes the ALJ's recitation of the Department's acceptance of certain rent/lease obligations and vocational school tuition as nondiscretionary increases, so that $222,483 and $841,410,[5] respectively, were included in the District's maintenance budget and no further order results herein.

Consumer Price Index Adjustment

The ALJ found that the appropriate rate for Consumer Price Index (CPI) adjustment was 2.3%, obtained by averaging the 3% CPI for New York, Northern New Jersey, Long Island, NY-NJ-CT-PA, for July 2002—July 2003 with the 1.5% CPI for Philadelphia, Wilmington, Atlantic City, PA-NJ-DE-MD, for August 2002—August 2003. On exception, to which the District did not reply, the Department argues that the [5] This amount is incorrectly reported in the Initial Decision as $932,228. See Exhibit R-1.

ALJ recognized the lack of data on record reflecting the fiscal year preceding the prebudget year as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3, yet went on to make a finding in the District's favor notwithstanding that it offered nothing cognizable to counter the Department's calculation. (Department's Exceptions at 9)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the District did not meet its burden of demonstrating that the CPI rate of adjustment employed by the Department, which was calculated pursuant to Department procedures for all school districts and in full accordance with applicable statutory requirements, was in any way infirm or improper. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation is rejected and the Department's calculation upheld.

NONRECURRING ITEMS

Legal Expenses

The Commissioner concurs with, and adopts as his own, the ALJ's analysis and conclusion, to which neither the Department nor the District took exception. Accordingly, the Department's calculation is upheld.

Insurance Expenses

The Commissioner notes the ALJ's recitation of this calculation, regarding which there is no dispute other than the Workers' Compensation issue discussed at page 66 above.

Utilities

The ALJ found that the District had demonstrated its need for the full amount of its utilities request and restored the Department's reduction of $828,352. On exception, the Department argues that the District spent $828,352 more for utilities in 2002-03 than it budgeted in 2003-04; thus, that amount was properly treated by the Department as a nonrecurring expense in calculating a maintenance budget based on adjusted 2002-03 expenditures, and the District cannot use the supplemental funding appeal process to, in effect, revise its 2003-04 budget appropriations. (Department's Exceptions at 10-11) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's recommendation, as "corrected" to reflect both the $1,055,681 adjustment ordered in the Initial Decision and restoration of the Department's $828,352 reduction for a total increase of $1,884,033, contending that the actual and current information supplied at hearing was entirely appropriate and amply demonstrated the District's need. (District's Exceptions at 15-16; District's Reply at 8)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the Department's rationale in considering $828,352 a nonrecurring expense for purposes of calculating a maintenance budget to be sound, and he further finds the present appeal process to be an inappropriate venue for the District to be, in effect, attempting to revise its approved 2003-04 budget. However, even if the Commissioner were to accept that the increase sought by the District could be considered in this context, he finds the evidence on record (Exhibit P-6, Tab 9) insufficient to support the District's claims, particularly in view of the unique considerations surrounding energy issues, such as ongoing fluctuations in rates and changing patterns of usage. Moreover, if it transpires that the District does, in fact, require funds for utilities beyond those appropriated, and additionally beyond those available through transfer of funds from over-budgeted accounts, the Commissioner notes that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism by which the District can obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation that $1,055,681 be added to the District's maintenance budget is rejected and the Department's calculation upheld.

Belmont Runyon School

The ALJ recommended no further increase to the District's maintenance budget beyond the additional $1,387,756 conceded by the Department at hearing, so as to permit the District, to the extent previously agreed by the Department, to use general fund dollars for completion of the Belmont Runyon School. On exception, the District claims that it provided ample evidence of its need for $2.9 million and of the Department's prior agreement to fund the project to completion, and that the ALJ clearly understood the difficulties of addressing completion of this project through the District's Long-Range Facilities Plan; therefore, the ALJ should have ordered additional funding consistent with the evidence. (District's Exceptions at 16-18) In reply, the Department contends that Newark is improperly seeking to extend its agreement to transfer a limited amount of 2001-02 and 2002-03 general fund monies, and it reiterates that the appropriate action to be taken by the District in addressing any remaining costs is amendment of its Long-Range Facilities Plan. (Department's Reply at 6-7)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the evidence on record insufficient to support the District's claim that its maintenance budget should be increased by an additional $1.5 million dollars, over and above the approximately $1.4 million already conceded by the Department, so as to enable it to complete the Belmont Runyon School in 2003-04 with general fund monies supported by supplemental State aid rather than through more appropriate and available means. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's recommendation making no increase beyond the $1,387,756 conceded by the Department at hearing consistent with its prior agreement.

Replacement of Title 1 Funds

The Commissioner concurs with, and adopts as his own, the ALJ's analysis and conclusion, to which neither the Department nor the District filed exceptions. Accordingly, the Department's calculation is upheld.

INEFFICIENCIES

With one exception, the ALJ recommended restoration of amounts reduced by the Department on the basis of ineffectiveness or inefficiency, generally because, although the Department had demonstrated a prima facie basis for its various determinations, the District was able to counter with fact-specific demonstrations, largely unrebutted by the Department, to the effect that the structures, positions, and services at issue had a useful function and made sense in light of the District's particular circumstances.

On exception, the Department generally contends that the ALJ applied the wrong standard with respect to inefficiency/ineffectiveness, misunderstanding the controlling rule to extend the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1i and 6A:10-3.1(c)1ii for consideration of "historical spending patterns" and "district-specific information regarding staffing needs" to all the listed bases for determination of effectiveness and efficiency, thereby ignoring that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1 lists four separate bases, each with its own elements, and erroneously expecting the Department to have addressed each and every element in any identified inefficiency.[6] Thus, the ALJ erred in considering "district-specific information regarding staffing needs" in any instance where the Department's determination of inefficiency was made on a basis other than N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1ii , and ignored that a district's particular circumstances are not pertinent where the Department's determination of inefficiency was made on the basis of a comparative analysis among Abbott districts pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1i or cost savings and/or inefficiencies identified or proposed by the district or by the State Auditor or Office of Legislative Services audit pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1iv. (Department's Exceptions at 11-16)

In reply, the District generally counters that the ALJ was correct in her application of the rule, and that the Department's suggested interpretation would compromise the integrity of the regulations. Moreover, according to the District, "virtually all of the Department's identified alleged inefficiencies--such as the elimination of an SLT, resource teachers, consultants, or entire departments--were in fact based upon an analysis of district staffing needs, an analysis that is inextricably intertwined with the comparative analysis," and "both the New Jersey Supreme Court and the Department have recognized that all Abbott districts are unique districts in terms of need," so that it is "fundamental that a credible and legitimate comparative analysis cannot be accomplished without an analysis of district-specific information." (District's Reply at 8-10, 12; quotations at 9-10, emphasis in text)

In considering the parties' positions on this issue, the Commissioner generally agrees with the Department, and modifies the Initial Decision, to the extent that it suggests that the Department could not identify areas of inefficiency, and have those identifications potentially sustained, without taking into consideration, collectively, the various criteria of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1. However, the Commissioner does not agree with the Department that district-specific information has no relevance on appeal unless the Department's inefficiency determination was made on the basis of a district-specific criterion; indeed, given that the district bears the ultimate burden of proof in an appeal of this type, regardless of the basis for the Department's finding of inefficiency, district-specific information would appear to be the primary, perhaps even only, basis on which an attempt could reasonably be made to demonstrate that a district's expenditures were not inefficient or ineffective under the regulatory standard. However, in so holding, the Commissioner emphasizes that it is not enough in this context for a district to demonstrate that the structure(s), position(s) or service(s) under scrutiny are explicable under the circumstances and rooted in a plausible district need; rather, it must demonstrate both that they are specifically necessary and that they cannot be more effectively or efficiently provided than they presently are.[7]

[7] To the extent that the Initial Decision tends, in effect, to shift the burden of proof to the Department once the District has explained its circumstances, that approach is expressly rejected by the Commissioner. See July 23, 2003 Court Order, paragraph 5.

Within this general framework, then, the Commissioner makes the following determinations on the areas in dispute between the District and the Department.[8]

School Leadership Teams (SLTs)

The ALJ found that the five-team approach worked better for the District than the four-team plan proposed by the District in 2001 in order to reduce inefficiencies, but later abandoned as counterproductive; she further found that the savings to be effectuated by that plan had been accomplished in an alternative manner. On exception, in addition to the general objections discussed above, the Department notes that the District itself recognized that its SLT structure could be more efficient, and that the referenced savings occurred prior to development of the four-team plan in September 2001, with only about $450,000 of the plan's projected $2 million cost savings having materialized since that time. The Department also objects to the ALJ's summary dismissal of the Rosenfarb Report, noting that, to the extent that the Department's final determinations of inefficiency differed from the Report's, such differences were, as set forth in testimony and exhibits, based on the Department's specific knowledge of the District, and that the Report is not, as characterized by the ALJ, useless as a measure of inefficiency because it lacks district-specific analysis, but is instead directly responsive to the distinct regulatory criterion of comparison to other districts. (Department's Exceptions at 16-20) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's analysis and recommendation.[9]

Upon review, the Commissioner is not persuaded by the evidence on record that the Department's reduction must be restored. To the contrary, the District is clearly inefficient in terms of comparison to other Abbott districts and has itself recognized that substantial economies needed to be undertaken in this area; to dismiss the criteria of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1i and 6A:10-3.1(c)1ii out of hand, as the ALJ effectively did, is to nullify the clear intent of the controlling regulation. Moreover, even under a fact-specific analysis of the type sought by the District, there has been no showing that the District cannot structure and staff its SLTs in a more efficient manner while still meeting its stated objectives and addressing its stated concerns. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation is rejected and the Department's determination upheld.

Overtime

The ALJ found that the District justified its substantial blue-collar overtime expenditures based on historical spending patterns, the staffing required to address the District's unique custodial and maintenance needs, and the Department's failure to explain the basis for its determination. On exception, the Department notes that the basis for its determination was comparison to other districts, and that testimony clearly established the Department's calculation as an application of Jersey City's expenditure rate to the District's larger physical plant, with the difference being the amount of identified inefficiency. Additionally, it points to the District's contractual clauses providing for overtime in four-hour minimum increments and the undisputed fact that in 2002-03 some employees earned more in overtime than an equivalent full-time salary. (Department's Exceptions at 21-22) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's analysis and recommendation, noting that much of its overtime is weather-related or due to the number and condition of its buildings or the "huge" number of School Construction Corporation (SCC) projects. (District's Reply Exceptions at 11-12)[10]

Upon review, the Commissioner is unpersuaded that the Department's reduction must be restored. Again, the District is clearly inefficient in comparison to other Abbott districts and has itself recognized that economies should be attempted in the area under scrutiny, and, even under a more fact-specific analysis, there has been no showing that the District cannot address its custodial and maintenance needs in a more efficient and effective manner so as to reduce overtime expenditures; moreover, the District should not be provided with the means to avoid negotiation of changes in a clearly inefficient contractual provision. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation is rejected and the Department's determination upheld.

Office of Design and Construction

The ALJ recommended restoration of the Department's reduction, based on findings that the Office of Design and Construction (ODC) performed necessary services, that the District would incur greater costs by eliminating it, and that the Department failed to consider the staffing requirements of the District in making its determination. On exception, the Department notes that the basis for its determination was comparison to other large K-12 districts, which shows that the District has the highest per pupil expenditure in Operation and Maintenance of Plant, over $350 more than the next highest spending district, and comparison to other Abbott districts, which shows a similarly disproportionate amount of expenditure, due largely to the District's unique maintenance of a separate office solely responsible for design and construction of buildings. The Department also notes that the District is like all other Abbott districts in having buildings in various states of disrepair, and in having a Long-Range Facilities Maintenance Plan requiring interface with the SCC, which itself has no plans to provide additional staff to work with the District notwithstanding the District's plans to hire additional project managers. (Department's Exceptions at 22-25) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's analysis and recommendation, noting in particular how the Department's erroneous assessment of the ODC as overlapping with the functions performed by the SCC and duplicative of the functions performed by the Economic Development Authority (EDA) is, in fact, a staffing analysis, contrary to the Department's contention as to the distinctness of each regulatory criterion. (District's Reply at 10-11)[11]

Upon review, the Commissioner again finds that the District has explained the circumstances and needs to which the identified area of inefficiency responds, but has not demonstrated that these cannot be addressed in an alternative manner so as to bring the District's costs more into line with other districts; in this regard, the Commissioner finds insufficient as proof the ODC director's general, unsupported statement that, based on industry "soft" cost standards, it would cost more to eliminate the ODC than to maintain it. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation is rejected and the Department's determination upheld.

Office of Development Planning

The ALJ recommended restoration of the Department's reduction, based on findings that the Office of Development Planning (ODP) performed necessary services and the Department failed to understand the function of the office. On exception, the Department again contends that the basis for its determination was a comparison to other districts, so that it was not required to consider district-specific information regarding staffing needs. The Department also reiterates that the District is like all other Abbott districts in having a Long-Range Facilities Maintenance Plan with requirements vis-à-vis the functions performed by the ODP, yet other Abbott districts do not incur expenditures at the District's level, and that one of the District's consultant firms handles many of the functions for which the ODP is purportedly responsible. (Department's Exceptions at 25-27) In reply, the District again urges adoption of the ALJ's analysis and recommendation, noting in particular how the Department's assessment of the ODP as overlapping with the functions performed by consultants or capable of performance by other District employees, is, in fact, a staffing analysis, contrary to the Department's contention as to the distinctness of each regulatory criterion. (District's Reply at 11)[12]

Upon review, the Commissioner again finds that the District has explained the circumstances and needs to which the identified area of inefficiency responds, but has not met its burden of demonstrating that these cannot be addressed in an alternative manner so as to bring the District's costs more into line with other districts. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation is rejected and the Department's determination upheld.

Resource Teachers/Coordinators

The ALJ recommended restoration of the Department's reduction, based on findings that the sole basis for the Department's determination appears to have been the District's September 2001 cost savings plan and unfavorable comparison to Jersey City and Paterson and to other Abbott districts, and that the Resource Teachers/Coordinators did, in fact, constitute an effective use of funds, the District having achieved its planned savings through other means such as elimination of a number of facilitators and tutors. On exception, the Department reiterates its objection to consideration of district-specific factors when the basis for the inefficiency determination was a comparative analysis among Abbott districts pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1i or cost savings and/or inefficiencies identified or proposed by the district pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1iv, contends that the savings effectuated through elimination of other positions do not obviate the need to address the separately identified inefficiency herein, and notes that the responsibilities of Resource Teachers/Coordinators duplicate those of the District's Department Chairpersons. (Department's Exceptions at 27-30) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's analysis and recommendation.[13]

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to adopt the ALJ's recommendation. The Commissioner is persuaded that the District's evidence on record (Exhibit P-5, Tab 4) supports the representations made in testimony, and that, in light of his determination on Department Chairpersons below, that the District has demonstrated both the necessity and effectiveness of the Resource Teachers/Coordinator positions. Accordingly, $3,290,000 is hereby restored to the District's maintenance budget.

Department Chairpersons

The ALJ recommended restoration of the Department's reduction[14] based on findings that the Department's comparison of the District to Paterson and Jersey City was invalid, that the positions were necessary, and that their elimination would not necessarily result in cost savings. On exception, the Department notes that the District is one of the few in the State with full-time non-teaching Department Chairpersons and points to the substantial overlap between the responsibilities of these positions and those of the Resource Teachers/Coordinators; it also contends that restoring this reduction would be, in effect, rewarding the District for an inefficiency in its collective bargaining agreement that the District itself recognizes. The Department further notes that, contrary to the ALJ's statement, funding for salary and benefits of reclassified Department Chairpersons was taken into account, and was not included in the District's inefficiency reduction. (Department's Exceptions at 30-33) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's analysis and recommendation.[15]

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the District has once again explained the circumstances addressed by the identified area of inefficiency, but has not demonstrated the necessity for these positions, particularly in light of restoration of the Resource Teachers/Coordinators above, or shown that it cannot address its needs in a more efficient and effective manner. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation is rejected and the Department's determination upheld.

[14] The Department alleged, based on its August 27, 2003 determination letter (Exhibit J-1), that the ALJ ordered restoration of $3,024,000 when the Department's actual reduction was only $3,000,000. However, Exhibit R-1, which sets out in summary form the calculations leading to the Department's final determination of supplemental aid as announced in J-1, shows the ALJ to be correct in her statement of the actual number used.

Food Service Deficit

The ALJ recommended restoration of the Department's reduction based on a finding that there is no way the District can further reduce its food service staffing without seriously impinging on the service itself as well as other required services. On exception, the Department again contends that the basis for its determination was a comparison to other districts, so that it is inappropriate to consider district-specific information regarding staffing needs. The Department further argues that an Office of Legislative Services (OLS) audit conducted in December 2000 identified high labor costs and staffing as the cause of the District's unusually high food services costs, and that, while the District may have allowed staff to decrease through attrition and may have negotiated a tiered wage level for new employees, it has done nothing to hire such employees at the new lower wage levels or terminate current employees who continue to receive the level of salary and benefits previously identified as the source of the District's problem. Additionally, the Department observes, the District has privatized food service operations in 30 schools, so that while its work force may have shrunk through attrition, the number of schools requiring staffing has also been substantially reduced; thus, the District has done nothing to address the high staff ratio identified in the OLS audit. (Department's Exceptions at 33-35) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's analysis and recommendation.[16]

Upon review, the Commissioner again finds that the District has explained the circumstances underlying the identified area of inefficiency, but he is not persuaded based on the present record that the District cannot address its food service needs in a more efficient and effective manner. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation is rejected and the Department's determination upheld.

Consultants

The ALJ recommended restoration of the Department's reduction[17] based on findings that the services provided by the identified consultants were necessary and could not be provided more efficiently by District employees, if at all. On exception, the Department repeats its objection to consideration of district-specific factors when the basis for its inefficiency determination was a comparative analysis among Abbott districts pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)1i. The Department also contends that every district in the State has to implement a payroll system, but the District appears to be the only one retaining consultants to do so, and, furthermore, employs a staff of 17 individuals in addition to multiple consultants; that every district in the State has to prepare budgets and maintain accounting records, but other districts do not incur ongoing consultant expenses for training and recording; and that condoning the District's retention of a third-party administrator for prescription drug, vision and temporary disability benefit plans as required by certain collective bargaining agreements, notwithstanding that the District could perform the necessary tasks itself, effectively rewards the District for inefficient labor agreements and provides no incentive to eliminate the pertinent provisions during negotiations. (Department's Exceptions at 35-38) In reply, the District urges adoption of the ALJ's analysis and recommendation.[18]

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the District has once again explained the circumstances and needs to which the identified area of inefficiency responds, but has not demonstrated that these cannot be addressed in an alternative manner so as to bring the District's costs more into line with other districts; in this regard, the Commissioner particularly concurs with the Department that the District should not be provided with the means to avoid negotiation of changes in a clearly inefficient contractual provision. Accordingly, the ALJ's recommendation is rejected and the Department's determination upheld.

Drivers

The ALJ recommended sustaining of the Department's reduction of $78,000 for two full-time drivers for the State District Superintendent. On this point, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's analysis, conclusion and recommendation, to which neither the Department nor the District took exception.

SUMMARY

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted with respect to its recommendations as to OAL jurisdiction over challenges to the validity of the controlling regulation, use of 4.884% as the District's rate of salary increase, allowable amounts for health/pension benefits and legal fees, addition of funds for completion of the Belmont Runyon school consistent with a prior Department agreement, replacement of Title 1 funds, restoration of funds for Resource Teachers/Coordinator positions and reduction of funds for salaries of full-time drivers, but modified or rejected in all other respects for the reasons set forth above. The Department is directed to conduct forthwith the required analysis of the District's workers' compensation needs and to make thereafter such adjustments to the District's budget and supplemental aid its results may warrant.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget" and supplemental aid, alleging that the Department's review and calculations were not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court. The District also challenged the Department's reduction of a nonrecurrent expense pursuant to a painting contract, and reductions, as part of its review of noninstructional expenditures for ineffectiveness or inefficiency, of proposed costs for a Fiscal Monitor position and a cooperative bid purchase contract.

The ALJ determined that OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, and that such regulation governed this matter. She also adopted the "interpretation" of maintenance budget espoused by the Honorable Richard McGill in Board of Education of the Town of Harrison v. New Jersey State Department of Education, and determined that the burden of proof was on the Department to establish the basis for proposed reductions in the District's budget. The ALJ: 1) concluded that the Department improperly excluded $3,427,560 in encumbrances from the District's budget; 2) rejected the Department's $9,252,814 increase in the District's salary accounts as not reflective of necessary new positions; 3) ordered an increase in the Department's health benefit calculation to reflect additional "necessary" positions and granted the District's requested increase of $638,756 for special education tuition; 4) agreed that the Department properly determined that cost overruns associated with the PaintSmart contract were an excludable nonrecurring cost; and 5) agreed that the position of Fiscal Monitor and costs of a cooperative bid program were properly excludable as "inefficient."

The Commissioner adopted in part, rejected in part and modified in part the Initial Decision. He first clarified the applicable burden of proof and the proper "interpretation" of the maintenance standard. He then: 1) reversed the ALJ with respect to encumbrances, the salary account and special education tuition costs; 2) modified the Initial Decision with respect to health benefits; and 3) adopted the determination of the ALJ as to the excludability of cost overruns under the PaintSmart contract and reductions of the Department, on the basis of inefficiency, for the Fiscal Monitor and the cooperative bid purchase contract.

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The State Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Passaic County, (Paterson or District), an urban special needs "Abbott" school district appeals from the decision by the Department of Education (Department or DOE) regarding Paterson's application for supplemental aid for fiscal year (FY) 2003-2004[1]. DOE applied a maintenance budget standard, which allows the school district to implement FY 2003-2004 programs, positions, and services that were approved for FY 2002-2003.

On June 9, 2003, the Commissioner of the Department of Education (Commissioner) transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case. Hearings were held on September 3, 4, and 8, 2003. The parties were given a schedule for filing post-hearing briefs. DOE timely filed its brief on September 15, 2003. For good cause, I twice granted Paterson's request for extensions of time to file briefs. Paterson failed to submit its post-hearing brief on the scheduled date. Therefore, on September 18, 2003, I denied Paterson's request for an additional extension of time and the record closed.

Subsequent to the close of the record, on September 19, 2003 by facsimile transmittal, Paterson sought to include into the record data from the United States Department of Labor. On September 20, 2003, DOE objected to OAL taking judicial notice of an item after the record has closed. On September 21, 2003, Paterson replied to DOE's objection. Further, Paterson renewed its "request to file a post-hearing brief out of time".

On September 24, 2003, after considering the position of the parties and based on the whole of the record, I denied Paterson's requests to supplement the record with additional data and to file a post-hearing brief.

In accordance with a request from DOE, due to the overwhelming number of Abbott decisions it received, I have filed this Initial Decision on October 3, 2003.

[1] Abbott district means one of the 28 urban districts identified in the appendix to Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990). N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3; see also N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.1 et seq.

FACTS

Based on the relevant evidence I FIND the following as FACT:

1. On March 24, 2003, DOE moved before the New Jersey State Supreme Court for an order to modify the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998)(Abbott V). Essentially, DOE sought to limit the supplemental aid to an amount sufficient to support programs, positions and services in the Districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003.

2. On July 23, 2003, the Court granted DOE's motion to relax the Abbott V remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. The Order states in part:

> (1) The DOE's application to extend the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott V is granted as follows: The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order.
>
> (2) The Statewide aggregate amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid shall be presumptively calculated as the total amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid approved for the Abbott districts for Fiscal Year 2002-2003, subject to adjustment as required for a maintenance budget. A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.
> (3) For purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, > services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.) Insofar as any Abbott district has not been informed of its total amount of last year's approved Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid, the DOE shall provide written notice of that amount within two weeks of the date of this Order. The DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard in its review of a district's maintenance school budget may result in a reduction to a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

> (3) Within 30 days of the issuance of this Order, the DOE shall provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget. If the DOE deletes an expenditure from a district's 2002-2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs and based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must include in the written notice to the district the expenditure deleted along with a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient.
> (5) Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.
>
> (6) To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the districts' non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary > to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

4. On August 27, 2003, DOE issued a notice of preliminary maintenance budget for 2003-2004 for Paterson in the amount of $388,549,971. Further, DOE determined Paterson's estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid is $15,993,270. The notice states in part:

> This amount reflects the instructional and non-instructural programs approved and provided in the 2002-2003 school year and includes increases to the 2002-2003 budget to reflect non-discretionary costs and adjustments to the 2002-2003 budget based on actual 2002-2003 expenditures.
> Your district's preliminary maintenance number excludes $3,427,560 in 2002-2003 encumbrances that appear to be 2003-2004 expenditures based on the opinion of an independent accounting firm retained by the State.
>
> In addition, the Department has reviewed the expenditures in your 2002-2003 budget related to your district's non-instructional programs in light of the effective and efficient standard established by the Commissioner in emergency regulations. Listed below are the expenditures reduced or deleted and a statement explaining why the reduction or deletion was made:
>
> | | |
> |---|---|
> | $ 95,000 | salary and benefits for the position of Fiscal Monitor to be inefficient. |
> | $ 390,000 | overtime payments in FY03 for maintenance and custodial staff as inefficient. |
> | $ 93,000 | cooperative bid purchase program as inefficient. |

ISSUES

The issues are as follows:

(1) Whether DOE properly calculated the District's maintenance budget of $388,549,971 for school year 2003-2004;

(2) Whether DOE properly excluded $3,427,560 from the 2002-2003 maintenance budget because the funding was for 2003-2004 expenditures;

(3) Whether DOE properly reduced or deleted funding of $95,000 for the salary and benefits of a Fiscal Monitor position as inefficient;

(4) Whether DOE properly reduced or deleted funding of $390,000 for overtime for maintenance and custodial staff as inefficient;

(5) Whether DOE properly reduced or deleted funding $93,000 for the cooperative bid purchase as inefficient; and

(6) Whether DOE properly determined the District's estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid to be $15,993,270.

The Department shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the District's maintenance budget based on the standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If the initial burden is met, the District shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard. (Order, July 23, 2003, at p.7).

DISCUSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The Court placed the burden of moving forward on DOE to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the District's maintenance budget. Thus, DOE must present persuasive evidence that "$3,427,560 in 2002-2003 encumbrances are 2003-2004 expenditures". In addition, DOE must demonstrate it properly reduced or deleted expenditures under the effective and efficient standard promulgated in the emergency regulations. N.J.A.C. 6A:10.

The Department presented three witnesses: Benjamin D. Rarick, the Director and Budget Manager for the State-Operated School Districts of Paterson, Jersey City and Newark; Douglas Triplett, accountant; and Glenn Forney, Acting Director for Fiscal Improvement, Department of Education.

Paterson presented seven witnesses: Edwin Duroy, District Superintendent; Elizabeth Shick, CPA; Anthony Campisi, Assistant Director, Whole School Reform; Paulette Waite, Director Special Service, Out-of-District; JoAnn Cardillo, Vice Principal, Academy Program; Dennis J. Mulvihill, Assistant Business Administrator; and Elaine Shafer, Director of Personnel.

Whether DOE properly calculated the Districts maintenance budget for school year 2003-2004.

The Department contends it correctly determined Paterson's 2003-2004 maintenance budget and Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid award under N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1. The regulation "specifically provides that a district's budget shall only contain those programs, positions and services approved and provided in 2002-2003." (Respondent's Brief at p.8.) Moreover, the regulation requires all non-instructional expenditures, which are included in the maintenance budget, be effective and efficient. *N.J.A.C.*6A:10-3.1(c). Ibid. Thus, DOE reviewed Paterson's approved budget for 2002-2003, made adjustments for actual expenditures, allowed increases in non-discretionary cost centers, and deducted costs related to non-recurring and ineffective and inefficient expenditures. Ibid.

Challenges to DOE's definition of the maintenance standard were addressed by Hon. John R. Tassini, ALJ, in Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4095-03, (September 4, 2003) and Hon. Joseph F. Martone, ALJ, in Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4096-03 (September 10, 2003). Although Paterson's counsel, who also represented the State-Operated School Districts of Asbury Park and Neptune, did not brief the issue here, the Asbury Park and Neptune school districts contend that DOE's emergency regulation is inconsistent with the Court's Order of July 23, 2003, and should be disregarded. DOE argues the "maintenance budget" definition cited in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is consistent with the court's order. Further, the contentions essentially challenge the regulation and therefore, must be decided by the Appellate Division. ALJs Tassini and Martone agreed with DOE. The ALJs concluded that the school districts were challenging the validity of a regulation, which must be brought before the Appellate Division, not the OAL. (R. 2:2-3(a)(2). Ibid. I agree.

I CONCLUDE that any challenge to the emergency regulation promulgated by the Commissioner of the Department of Education must be brought before the Appellate Division, not the OAL. (R. 2:2-3(a)(2). Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the regulation is the applicable standard in this case.

The remaining issues concern expenditures in FY 2002-2003. The Hon. Richard McGill addressed the application of the maintenance standard in Board of Education of the Town of Harrison v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5494-03, (September 24, 2003). Judge McGill summarized the proper interpretation of the definition of "maintenance budget" in the new regulation and the Supreme Court Order. As follows:

> The starting point is that the maintenance budget will include expenditures at a level such that the school district can implement current approved programs, services and positions in the 2002-03 budget. The base amount will be reduced by the costs of programs, positions and services that were not in fact provided during the 2002-03 school year. The base amount will be adjusted for documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures such as contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition. Finally, the base amount will be reduced by the costs of any non-instructional programs, which lack effectiveness and efficiency.

In this matter, DOE reduced the approved budget for the FY 2002-2003 by the amount of unspent funds. Judge McGill noted the flaw in this methodology allows DOE to limit the District's maintenance budget for FY 2003-2004 to funds approved and actually spent during FY 2002-2003. Judge McGill concluded there is no support for this standard in the language of the Supreme Court Order or in the definition of "maintenance budget" in the new regulation. Further, this quantitative approach provides no assurance that a school district will be able to implement its current approved programs, services, and positions. Judge McGill stated, "It follows that the quantitative methodology used by respondent in this proceeding is inconsistent with the applicable verbal standards, and therefore, its utilization in this processing is "impermissible." I agree with the analysis enunciated by Judge McGill. Indeed, the Court's driving concern in the Abbott cases is insufficient funding to poor urban school districts. Thus, methodologies cloaked under regulations and employed to limit on Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid must be closely scrutinized Whether DOE properly excluded $3,427,560 from Paterson's 2002-2003 maintenance budget because the funding was for 2003-2004 expenditures.

Benjamin D. Rarick has been employed by the Department for six years and has held the position of budget manager for three years. Rarick applied the maintenance budget standard to evaluate the proposed budget for Paterson for FY 2003-2004. He testified that his goal was to maintain programs and curriculum, which existed in FY03. Thus, he developed Paterson's 2003-2004 maintenance budget based on the approved budget for FY 2002-2003, with adjustments for actual expenditures and allowances for increases in non-discretionary cost centers. Rarick deducted costs that he believed were non-recurring, ineffective and inefficient expenditures.

Encumbrances:

In its notice of preliminary maintenance budget for 2003-2004, DOE states, "Your district's preliminary maintenance number excludes $3,427,560 in 2002-2003 encumbrances that appear to be 2003-2004 expenditures based on the opinion of an independent accounting firm retained by the State." (R-10). Rarick testified that he did not review the record of encumbrances or speak with Paterson administrators about the amount of encumbrances. Instead, he relied of the opinion of J.L. Ezyske & Co (Ezyske), the independent accounting firm hired by the State. In its report, Ezyske states in part:

> We have performed the procedures enumerated below for the Paterson Public Schools, which were agreed to by the State of New Jersey, solely to assist you and the New Jersey Department of Education in complying with State of New Jersey Supreme Court decision in Abbott v. Burke, dated July 23, 2003, in determining preliminary Additional Abbott v. Burke state aid awards for the year ended June 30, 2004....The sufficiency of these procedures is solely the responsibility of those parties specified in this report. Consequently, we make no representation regarding the sufficiency of the procedures described below either for the purpose for which this report has been requested or for any other purpose.

We were not engaged to and did not conduct an examination, the objective of which would be the expression of an opinion on the accompanying schedules. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. Had we performed additional procedures, other matters might have come to our attention that would have been reported to you.

J.L. Ezyske & Co.
August 15, 2003

Rarick further testified that his communications with Ezyske were limited to telephone discussions concerning the budgets for the Paterson and other State-Operated School Districts. Moreover, Rarick did not know whether Ezyske spoke with Paterson administrators about their District's encumbrances or other budget items.

DOE presented Douglass Triplett, Ezyske's manager of accounting. Triplett and Rarick agreed that encumbrances are an accounting tool, which permits the District to reserve funding for purchase orders that have been issued, but the goods or services have not yet been received. Triplett further testified that he reviewed the documents presented by DOE and prepared an accounting report, R-1. The report's foreword states, "The 'Secretary Report' as was given to our office did not have any breakdown between what was a true account payable and what was an outstanding encumbrance. We analyzed the detail encumbrance run to differentiate between true accounts payable and open encumbrances. As you know, accounts payable are reflected as expenditures but encumbrances are merely a reservation of fund balance and do not necessarily represent any additional spending by the district." R-1.

Triplett further testified that DOE directed him to exclude encumbrances from Paterson's maintenance budget. Triplett's analysis included review of booked line item accounts payable and recorded additional spending by line item. Under cross-examination, Triplett conceded that prior to the hearing he did not review the Department's Notice of preliminary maintenance budget for 2003-2004, which excluded $3,427,560 in encumbrances. He further conceded that he did not review any purchase orders. (R-10). Indeed, he accepted at face value the "bulk" number in surplus-encumbrances that was provided to him. "Mr. Triplette agreed that as of August 2003, Paterson had listed $3,427,560 in encumbrances." (Respondent's Brief at p.9.)

Elisabeth Schick, CPA, conducted an audit for Paterson. Schick, in agreement with Rarick and Triplett, testified that services provided to Paterson before June 30, 2003 should be reflected as an account payable. Subsequent to the notice of preliminary maintenance budget, R-10, Schick reexamined the Districts' contracts and purchase orders. She concluded that some of the encumbrances appeared to be accounts payable. (P-6). Accordingly, an adjustment to DOE's calculation of $3,427,560 in 2002-2003 encumbrances is necessary.

I have carefully considered DOE's statement that it "excluded $3,427,560 in 2002-2003 encumbrances that appear to be 2003-2004 expenditures, based on the opinion of an independent accounting firm [Ezyske] retained by the state." The evidence presented by DOE fails to support its statement. Indeed, Ezyske explicitly made known that it did not conduct an examination or offer an opinion on the budget information concerning the State-Operated School District of Paterson.

Based on the whole of the record, I FIND and CONCLUDE that DOE has not demonstrated the reasonableness for excluding "$3,427,560 in 2002-2003 encumbrances that appear to be 2003-2004 expenditures." As DOE notes, "The final adjustment to encumbrances will correct any misclassification or misunderstanding by the parties concerning the amount of encumbrances." (Respondent's Brief at p.8.) I agree. The final adjustment to encumbrances will correct any misclassification or misunderstanding at the time the CAFR is received from Paterson.[2] Therefore, I CONCLUDE that $3,427,560 should not be excluded from Paterson's maintenance budget.

The remaining items in dispute for non-discretionary expenditures are salaries, health benefits, vocational education, and special education.

Rarick accepted the District's rate of 4.9% for salary increases for contracted and non-contacted employees as shown in the salary contract between the District and the

[2] The Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR)

Paterson Education Association, (R-4). Based on the amount Paterson spent on salaries in 2002-2003, adjusted at 4.9% to reflect salary increases, Rarick calculated FY 2003-2004 expenditures for salary expenditures at $9,252,814. (R-2).

Under cross-examination Rarick acknowledged that he did not consider money accrued from vacancies in budgeted positions. Rather, he allowed for the actual expenditures. For example, if a ten-month budgeted position was filled by a regular teacher, who took a leave of absence from the position after three months, and the position became vacant for the remaining seven months of the school year school year, DOE will fund the regular teaching position based on the amount the District actually paid to the individual. Thus, for FY 2003-2003 Paterson will receive funds to cover three months of the regular teacher's salary. While Rarick conceded there could be "some gaps in situations where you have a teacher replacing a substitute", Rarick feels, "that such incidences should not represent a significant portion of the salary budget."

Rarick further believed that the expiration of Federal Grants, e.g. CLASS and PEP21 will not affect the salaries of teachers because the grants did not fund teacher salaries. DOE conceded that although the salary adjustment may not capture every employee, it represents a reasonable calculation based upon actual 2002-2003 spending that should closely approximate the salary costs incurred for school year 2003-3004.

Edward Duroy, State–Operated Superintendent, oversees the day-to-day operation of the District. Duroy testified that Federal grants, e.g. CLASS, were used to support services and curriculum that were approved in 2002-2003. For example, the grants helped to fund the salaries of persons who conducted after school programs, tutored and counseled students. The grants expired on June 30, 2003.

Duroy further testified that Paterson seeks to employ regular teachers for positions that were filled by substitute teachers. Duroy believes regular teachers provide students consistency in their educational program. Substitute teachers are temporary and do not provide consistency and continuity of instruction. Moreover, additional teachers are necessary to meet the need of an increase in the student enrollment at Kennedy High School. Duroy further testified that grade K to 5 uses out dated math and social studies textbooks. Textbooks with current and accurate information are necessary to comply with the curriculum that was provided in 2002-2003.

Elaine Shafer, Director of Personnel and Anthony Campisi each testified that additional teachers are needed to continue approved programs. However, the record is unclear, perhaps due to the expedited nature of these proceedings, as to the number of individuals needed to fill approved positions. Additionally, although it is undisputed that some positions were funded by grants that expired in June 2003, the record is unclear on the number of individuals that are needed to continue the programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003. The salary adjustment should reflect this number.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that DOE has not established its burden that the increase in expenditures for salaries in the amount of $9,252,814 "represents a reasonable calculation based upon actual 2003-2003 spending that should closely approximate the salary costs incurred in the 2003-2004 school year."

Further, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the District has demonstrated that additional positions are required to continue the programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003. Accordingly, this item is part of the maintenance budget, not a new expense. Additionally, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the District has demonstrated the reasonableness of replacing substitute teachers with regular teachers in programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003. The salary adjustment should reflect the costs of these items.

Based on the whole of the record I CONCLUDE the salary adjustment of $9,252,814, as calculated by DOE, should not be approved. Instead, the adjustment should reflect positions necessary to continue the programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003 and the costs of replacing substitute teachers with regular teachers in programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003. Accordingly, the District is directed to present to the Commissioner of Education the number of positions necessary to continue the programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003 and the costs of replacing substitute teachers with regular teachers in programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003.

With regard to health benefits, DOE claimed it allowed an increase in health benefits in the amount of $4,551,008 or 14.5%. The State Health Benefits Plan (SHBP) operates on a calendar year, and the District operates on a fiscal year. Thus, the amount of $4,551,008 recognizes the rate change in January. DOE argues that basing the projected increase in health benefit costs on actual spending in 2003-2003 is reasonable.

I agree. The costs of health care benefits should correspond to the actual number of employees who must be covered. I therefore CONCLUDE that DOE's increase in health benefits in the amount of $4,551,008 or 14.5% should be adjusted to reflect the number of positions necessary to continue the programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003 and the costs of replacing substitute teachers with regular teachers in programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003.

County Vocational Schools Tuition:

The District does not receive State funding to pay tuition for vocational school students. Paterson is obligated for this item. Campisi testified that 27,562 pupils attend vocational school. Rarick testified that DOE granted Paterson's request for vocational school tuition increase of $2,655,026 for school year 2003-2004. (R-2). "Rarick verified that amount of tuition by speaking with the County Superintendent and Dennis Mulvihill, Assistant Business Administrator." Consequently, it appears that the parties agree on the increase for this item.

Accordingly, I FIND and CONCLUDE DOE properly determined the vocational school tuition increase of $2,655,026.

Special Education

Paterson's 2003-2004 budget application requests an increase for special education tuition of $638,756. The Department determined that no additional special education funding was required in the 2002-2003 school year.

Rarick testified that because Paterson is receiving approximately $1 million in increased IDEA funds for the 2003-2004 school year, "the IDEA funding will more than cover Paterson's increased needs." (Respondent's Brief pp.11-12). With regard to specific special education positions, the parties acknowledged that the District had difficulty in finding employees to fill the vacancies. Consequently, "the Department is unwilling to fund unfilled special education positions, especially where the District has historically been unable to fill them". Ibid Rarick noted, however, that Paterson can make a request for supplemental funding for those additional special education costs pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(f) "should IEP's result in the need for additional teachers, and the teachers and/or specialists are actually hired." Ibid. The Department submits "since Paterson will be receiving IDEA revenues in excess of its projected increase in special education expenditures for 2003-2004". No additional funding for special education was required in FY 2002-2003. Ibid.

Paulette Waite, Director of Special Services, is responsible for costs related to for out-of-district placement and home instruction. Although there is no prohibition to use IDEA funding for out-of-district placement, the impact on Paterson would be drastic. Waite testified that currently, IDEA grants are used to supplement direct services to special education students such as teachers, supplies and materials. The funds are not used to pay tuition for out-of-district placement. Consequently, supplemental aid is required to ensure that special education students continue to receive free and appropriate public education and related services. Under federal and state law, New Jersey is obligated to provide eligible handicapped children with a free and appropriate public education, which may include an out of district placement. Lascari v. Board of Education of Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional School District, 116 N.J. 30 (1989).

I CONCLUDE that Paterson has justified under the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations, an increase for special education tuition of $638,756.

Non-recurring expenditures:

DOE determined that the contract between Paterson and Paintsmart resulted in excessive costs of $294,781 and thus, constituted an excludable non-recurring expenditure from FY 2002-2003. Rarick testified that the Paintsmart contract was a time and material bid, which is used only for emergency purposes. Rarick concluded that Paterson would have saved $294,781 in costs on this project had the District requested bids on a square foot cost rather than the time and material method.

Duroy testified that a time and material bids have previously been used and approved by the District. The Maintenance Department, the Business Department and the Legal Department reviewed and which approved Paintsmart bid within sixty days after it was submitted. There is one year remaining on the contract. Duroy conceded, however, that the time and material bid for painting was not the most cost effective and that he would not use that method in the future.

Based on the evidence presented, I CONCLUDE that the Department properly determined that the cost overruns associated with the Paintsmart painting contract for FY 2002-2003 constituted an excludable non-recurring cost.

Ineffective and Inefficient:

DOE reduced Paterson's 2003-2004 maintenance budget by amounts deemed to be ineffective or inefficient. DOE disallowed $95,000 for a fiscal monitor. The fiscal monitor's primary responsibility is to oversee the receipt and expenditure of grant monies. P-1. Rarick determined that the cost for the position was ineffective because that during the four years, in which Paterson employed the fiscal monitor, the amount of federal and state money returned each year has averaged $500,000; it has not decreased or "decreased by only a small amount." The amount of federal and state grant money returned for FY 1999 to 2002 are as follows: 1999- $581,374; 2000- $448,571; 2001, $409,470; and 2002- $310,908. During this period, the District paid the fiscal monitor $380,000 or $95,000 each year.

I am persuaded by DOE's argument that that the fiscal monitor is not cost effective or responsible for any significant decrease in the grant money returned. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the determination by DOE that the position of Fiscal Monitor is inefficient be upheld. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the salary of $95,000 and related benefits should be eliminated from the maintenance budget.

DOE identified an increase in maintenance overtime costs in the amount of $390,000. The parties have agreed to re-classify this item as a non-recurring expense, and Paterson will withdraw its appeal of this item. (Department's Brief at p.6).

The Department determined expenditures in the amount of $93,000 for a cooperative bid purchase contract to be inefficient. DOE argues that Paterson does not use the services of the cooperative bid program. In 2002-2003, the District purchased $450,000 worth of materials and supplies through the bid cooperative. Thus, $93,600 represents 20% of the cost of the goods purchased. A greater volume of goods or services provided would reduce the percentage cost of the yearly fee. Although Paterson concedes that the program is inefficient, it contends that it is obligated to continue the program for one more year. Contrary to Paterson's contentions, the Department is not requiring Paterson to breach its contractual obligations. Rather, the Department is not approving an inefficient and ineffective program or service. Therefore, the Department's determination to reduce the maintenance budget by $93,600 for the cooperative bid should be upheld.

Paterson presented no evidence to rebut DOE's argument. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Department properly determined that the expenditures in the amount of $93,000 for a cooperative bid purchase contract to be inefficient.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that DOE restore $3,427,560 in 2002-2003 encumbrances until the CAFR is received from Paterson.

It is ORDERED that DOE adjust the salary and health benefits increases to reflect positions necessary to continue the programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003 and the costs of replacing substitute teachers with regular teachers in programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003. It is further ORDERED that the District to present to the Commissioner of Education the number of positions necessary to continue the programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003 and the costs of replacing substitute teachers with regular teachers in programs that were approved and actually provided in FY 2002-2003.

It is ORDERED that the District's request calculation of DOE for vocational school education in the amount of $2,655,026 be upheld

It is ORDERED that the District's request for an increase for special education of $638,756 be GRANTED.

It is further ORDERED that, in all other respects, DOE's determination of Paterson's maintenance budget for FY 2003-2004 is upheld.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of Paterson and those of the Department, along with both parties' reply exceptions were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which it is noted included transcripts of the proceedings conducted at the OAL,[1] the Commissioner determines to adopt in part, reject in part and modify in part the Initial Decision of the OAL as detailed below.

Preliminarily, the Commissioner is compelled to correct a number of foundational errors which have inextricably colored the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) findings, leading to a number of inaccurate conclusions here. First of these is the ALJ's mistaken recitation of the "burden of proof" in this matter. The Supreme Court's Order provides that the Department

[1] Hearing in this matter was conducted on September 3, September 4 and September 8, 2003.

"shall bear the [initial] burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the [Abbott] district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations."Abbott v. Burke, M-976 September Term 2002, at 7. (emphasis supplied) However, as indicated in the Department's preliminary maintenance decision letter dated August 27, 2003 (Exhibit R-10), only two adjustments, currently involved in this matter, i.e., $95,000 related to the salary and benefits for the position of Fiscal Monitor and $93,600 for a cooperative bid purchase program contract, were made for reasons of inefficiency. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c), with respect to the remaining adjustments made to the District's maintenance budget herein, the District bears the burden of proving that the Department's calculations were unreasonable.

Next, the Commissioner observes that the ALJ correctly determined that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, the regulation duly promulgated to implement the Court's July 23, 2003 Order, must control in the instant proceeding, and that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine, directly or indirectly, its validity, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Notwithstanding the ALJ's correct understanding of these issues, she errs in citing to and adopting that portion of the decision of the Honorable Richard McGill in Board of Education of the Town of Harrison, Hudson County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5494-03, Agency Dkt. No. 195-6/03, decided by the Commissioner October 20, 2003, wherein he summarizes, what he viewed as "the proper interpretation of the definition of 'maintenance budget'" in the new regulation and the Supreme Court Order. (Slip Opinion at 9) It is noted that the Commissioner's October 20, 2003 decision in Harrison, supra, specifically modified ALJ McGill's definition thusly:

> The ALJ next undertakes to address the issue of whether the Department's quantitative method of implementing its regulatory definition of "maintenance budget" is inconsistent with the literal language contained in the regulation and in the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003. The ALJ concludes that the Department's methodology has, in effect, inappropriately substituted the phrase "funds approved and actually spent during the 2002-2003 school year" for the Supreme Court language authorizing funding for "current approved" programs, services and positions and for the regulatory language "approved and provided." The Commissioner observes that while it may be technically correct that merely looking at dollar amounts paid out prior to June 30, 2003 will not necessarily reflect actual costs of programs, services and positions provided, i.e., payment for items actually provided prior to June 30 may not actually have been made by June 30, it is also true that the budgeted amount, likewise, does not necessarily reflect actual costs of programs, etc., provided. Therefore, the ALJ's abrupt conclusion that the budgeted amounts for lines 11 and 15 must be reinstated does not follow from his analysis. Those services, programs and positions, which were provided and which are reflected on lines 11 and 15, were provided at an actual cost which was less than the budgeted cost. The Commissioner concludes that a methodology which begins by estimating the 2003-2004 cost of providing the same programs, services and positions by looking at the actual cost of providing these for 2002-2003 and then adds the projected costs of reasonable, nondiscretionary expenditures and adjustments is a reasonable method for estimating future costs which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision. (Harrison Slip Opinion at 18-19)

The Commissioner, therefore, found the Department's implementation methodology fully consistent with the verbal standards set forth in the regulation and the Court's Order, and modified ALJ McGill's interpretation of "maintenance budget" to so reflect, emphasizing that should the Department's utilized methodology prove to be insufficient because of unforeseen circumstances arising during the budget year, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism for addressing the need for additional supplemental funding.

Consequently, the Commissioner finds and determines that the interpretation of the definition of "maintenance budget" which he has articulated above is applicable herein.

With the underlying foundational precepts governing review of this matter thus clarified, the Commissioner turns to examination and evaluation of the substantive issues in controversy here.

NONDISCRETIONARY EXPENSES

Encumbrances

The Commissioner does not concur with the ALJ's finding that the Department erred in deducting $3,427,560 in encumbered funds from the District's maintenance budget, as it is evident that the ALJ's analysis and conclusion in this regard reflects her previously discussed misconception with regard to the parties' respective burdens of proof in this matter. In considering this issue, the Commissioner first finds that a clear appreciation of the differentiation between the terms "encumbrances" and "accounts payable" is beneficial here. In the context of close out procedures for the 2002-03 budget year, an encumbrance is an accounting tool that permits a school district to set aside funds for purchase orders that were issued during the 2002-03 school year for goods or services that were not received as of June 30, 2003. Unpaid purchase orders reserved as encumbrances on the June 30 general fund balance sheet, therefore, reflect liabilities to be honored in the next fiscal year for goods and services not received by June 30. An account payable, on the other hand, is an expenditure which was incurred in the 2002-03 school year for goods and services received and/or provided by June 30, 2003. Therefore, the Commissioner clarifies that, to the extent that Paterson's encumbrances represent charges for goods and services provided by June 30, 2003, i.e., they have become accounts payable, these are properly chargeable to the District's 2002-03 budget and appropriately included in its "maintenance budget.'" Those of its encumbrances representing goods and services not received by that date are properly excluded from the 2003-04 maintenance budget calculations.

This said, the Department's exceptions assert that, subsequent to the District's provision of the number $3,427,560 as its encumbrances figure to the outside auditor employed by the Department, such auditor contacted the District seeking a breakdown of these "encumbrances" as to whether they were "true" encumbrances or accounts payable. Respondent further reports "the evidence indicates that at the time the Department issued its August 27, 2003 maintenance budget determination, Paterson had identified $3,427,560 as encumbrances, even after Mr. Triplett [the Department's employed auditor] requested a further breakdown. Thus, prior to the August 27, 2003 maintenance budget determination from the Department, Paterson did not provide any information to the Department that would illustrate that the Department's determination was in error or unreasonable." (Department's Exceptions at 5) Respondent argues that only after the issuance of the Department's August 27, 2003 letter did Paterson begin reclassifying its encumbrances. (Ibid.)

The District's reply exceptions contend that, notwithstanding when the updated information with respect to its encumbrances was provided, the Department has a legal obligation to accept its supplemental documentation and to cure any deficiencies in the District's budget that were based on the Department's consideration of outdated and inaccurate information. (District's Reply Exceptions at 3, 4)

Upon consideration of the arguments advanced by the parties on this issue, the Commissioner is compelled to conclude that petitioner has not met its burden of demonstrating that the Department's deduction of $3,427,560 in encumbered funds from the District's maintenance budget was improper. In so determining, the Commissioner recognizes that the Supreme Court's Order directed the Department to provide the districts with their preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-04 school year by August 27, 2003. In its fulfillment of that directive, the Department, utilizing the most recent calculations provided by the District, made the requisite projections in its August 27, 2003 budget letter. Although the Commissioner recognizes the Supreme Court's encouragement to accept supplemental documentation from districts, the Court's holding cannot be construed to require acceptance of data without benefit of appropriate fiscal review, particularly where the District's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) will be submitted in a week or two from the date of this decision and there will then be finality in the very data in question.

While recognizing that it is entirely possible that adjustments in this area are necessary, in light of the District's burden in this regard and based on the proofs brought to the record, the Commissioner is unable to definitively determine here which of the District's encumbrances have become accounts payable by virtue of the receipt of the encumbered goods or services on or before June 30, 2003 so as to be considered 2002-03 expenditures. He, therefore, concludes that the District's encumbrances were properly excluded by the Department as a budget expense for 2002-03, and he directs that any required adjustments be made, based on updated information, in the course of the District's CAFR review scheduled to begin in November.

Salaries

In consideration of the Initial Decision's recommendation with respect to increases for salaries, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ's rejection of actual spending from 2002-03 as an appropriate approximation of salaries needed by the District for 2003-04 and her determination that positions necessary to continue programs that were filled by substitutes for a portion of the year are required to be funded at the equivalency of a full-time, regular teacher's salary. Such conclusion was not only the result of her, once again, inappropriately shifting the applicable burden of proof but is also wholly inconsistent with the Court's directive and the maintenance standard which required the Department to consider only actual expenditures stemming from goods and services provided in 2002-03 in establishing a maintenance budget.

In this connection, it is first noted that the ALJ bases her conclusion in this area on her finding that the Department "has not established its burden that the increase in expenditures for salaries in the amount of $9,252,814 'represents a reasonable calculation based upon the actual 200[2]-2003 spending that should closely approximate the salary costs incurred in the 2003-2004 school year.'" (Initial Decision at 13) However, as previously established, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9(c), the District bears the burden of proving that the Department's calculations here were unreasonable or otherwise improper, a burden the Commissioner finds, on this record, it has failed to satisfy.

The ALJ next undertakes application of the previously rejected "interpretation" of maintenance budget which, as pointed out by the Department's exceptions, leads to a somewhat absurd result:

> The crux of [the ALJ's] findings with regard to maintenance may be characterized as a belief that even if the funds were approved in the 2002-2003 school year but were not needed by the school district in the 2002-2003 school year because a program, service or position was provided for with less money than was budgeted, that the school district should still get the benefit of that savings and be allowed to keep that unspent money in its maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year. It is hard to conceive that the Supreme Court envisioned the Department awarding aid in a maintenance year to school districts which is in excess of the amount of money > that they were required to spend in the prior year with the noted cost adjustments. (Department's Exceptions at 2)

The ALJ's interpretation also fails to recognize that there will, inevitably, be leaves of absences, retirements and resignations in the 2003-04 school year which will have implications on the employment status of the District's employees, causing fluctuations in its salary account.

To the extent that the Initial Decision suggests, based on a "maintenance" analysis, the necessity of "new positions" to continue the provision of services approved and provided in 2002-03 or salaries for positions which the District asserts were partially funded by federal grants which expired on June 30, 2003, the Commissioner concludes that the District has failed to sustain its burden of establishing that the Department's refusal to fund these positions in its calculation of a "maintenance budget" was improper. Not only does the record lack specificity with respect to an actual "need" for such positions, it further fails to establish the number of positions or the dollar amount involved in this regard. Moreover, the District has not advanced a proffer that it will not be receiving other grant moneys or that funding of these salaries cannot be aided by some other source.

In contrast, and fully consonant with his prior determination with respect to the proper interpretation of "maintenance budget," the Commissioner underscores that the Department's overall charge in this matter was to determine the level of 2003-04 funding that would enable the District to continue in a "maintenance" mode, that is, to implement in 2003-04 the programs, services and positions provided in 2002-03. While it is true that dollar amounts actually paid out for staffing prior to June 30, 2003 will not perfectly predict the cost of providing comparable staffing in the next year, it is equally true that originally budgeted amounts and other similar projections are no less imprecise. Thus, in the Commissioner's view, a methodology which preliminarily establishes the 2003-04 cost of providing positions at "maintenance" levels by determining, as nearly as possible without benefit of audit, the actual approved cost of providing them in 2002-03 and then allowing for reasonable, nondiscretionary adjustments, is a uniform, fair and rational method for estimating future expenditures which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision. In this connection, the Commissioner is not persuaded that this method does not take into account vacancies, retirements, and positions filled for only part of the year, since variances of these types occur every year and a preliminary district-wide salary budget is appropriately based on the assumption that staffing is a flexible and continuous process, with ebbs and flows that, absent specific evidence to the contrary, generally permit the projection of one year's experience onto the next.

Consequently, the Commissioner finds and determines that, in contrast to the approach espoused by the ALJ, the Department's calculation of the District's maintenance budget of $9,252,814 in this expense category was fully appropriate and wholly consistent with the directives and intendment of both the Court's order and the governing regulation. It is, again, emphasized that to the extent that results of the application of the District's "maintenance budget" in this area may be imperfect, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant.

Health Benefits

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's finding that "[t]he costs of health care benefits should correspond to the actual number of employees who must be covered." (Initial Decision at 14) The record reflects that the Department calculated an increase in health benefits of $4,551,008, a 14.5% increase, basing such projected increase on actual spending during the 2002-03 school year. This calculation is entirely appropriate, being consistent with the regulatory mandate as well as the Court's order. The Commissioner specifically rejects the ALJ's conclusion that this number needs to be adjusted upward to reflect additional positions or the cost of replacing substitute teachers with regular teachers, as such adjustment, as was discussed above, antithetical to the concept of "maintenance budget."

County Vocational School Tuition

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, and notes the parties' agreement, that the Department properly calculated an increase of $2,655,026 in this area.

Special Education Tuition

Preliminarily, it is observed that the ALJ erroneously evaluated the Department's calculation of the District's special education maintenance budget under the "effective and efficient" standard, thereby improperly shifting the burden of proof in this area to the Department. Rather, the burden here is on the District to demonstrate, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Department's calculation of its budget for this category of expenses was improper.

With the applicable burden thus clarified, the Department's exceptions point out:

> Paterson's 2002-2003 revised budget for special education tuition is $16,531,446 (P-11, R-6). ($30,854,387 total minus $13,318,328 in actual spending on regular instruction). Paterson's request for special education costs for the 2003-2004 school year is $17,170,202. (P-4). ($33,645,524 total minus $16,475,322 in regular instruction). Thus, based on Paterson's 2003-2004 budget submission, Paterson's request for special education costs is $638,756. (Department's Exceptions at 13)

While the District argues that having to channel some of its $1 million in increased IDEA funds in 2003-04 special education tuition costs would have a "drastic" impact on the District (Initial Decision at 15), it makes no such demonstration on the record. Rather, given that the District is receiving $1 million in increased IDEA funds, while its projected increase in special education tuition costs is only $638,756, it is readily apparent that reallocation of a portion of the increased IDEA moneys to cover increased tuition costs, leaves the District with almost $400,000 of these increased funds to cover in-district services. Also particularly instructive here is the Department's exception observation that:

> Paterson actually spent $607,871 less than it budgeted last year (P-10, comparing expended at 6/30/03 of $16,531,446 with what was budgeted of $17,139,317). Therefore, given that the district spent close to $600,000 less than it budgeted, is receiving $1 million in IDEA which is [$361,244] more than the district's budgeted increase in special education, the Department's determination to require the district to utilize IDEA funding for special education cost and not provide any additional funding other than the amount the district spent last year, should be upheld.
> (Department's Exceptions at 14, 15)

It is noted that the District's reply exceptions object to such a reallocation of IDEA moneys, contending that the Department has overlooked a "critical fact" and a "critical legal point" in this regard. Overlooked factually, it argues, is that "[t]he District's IDEA application seeks funding for special education services to comply with the requirements in student IEPs not for special education tuition." (District's Reply Exceptions at 6) As to the overlooked legal point, it claims entitlement, pursuant to the Supreme Court's order, to established increases in special education tuition and maintains that "[i]t is unreasonable and contrary to law for the Respondent to suggest that the District should take needed funding for special education services to fulfill IEPs in order to reduce the Respondent's legal obligation under the Supreme Court's order to provide the District with needed funding for special education tuition costs." (Ibid.) The Commissioner disagrees. The record reflects that the District's 2003-04 IDEA application is not yet finalized and that amendment during the course of the school year is possible. Further, since use of these moneys for special education tuition is not prohibited; and since the District has not established the necessity of the additional funds it requests; and, concomitantly, it has not established that the Department's calculation of its maintenance budget in this area was unreasonable or otherwise improper, it has not sustained its burden here. The Commissioner, therefore, rejects the ALJ's grant of $638,756 in additional funding for special education to the District.

CPI Adjustment

The District's exceptions object to the ALJ's refusal to take judicial notice of its official federal government documentation of the "proper CPI adjustment for Paterson." (District's Exceptions at 8) It argues that N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.2(a) allows for judicial notice to be taken of matters under N.J.R.E.[2] 201 "that are judicially noticeable - published statistics of the federal government that 'are capable of immediate determination by resort to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned,'" and that the "ALJ erred in refusing to follow the mandate of N.J.R.E. 201(d)." (District's Exceptions at 8, 9)

Initially, it is noted that the ALJ had no obligation to grant the District's request, as N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.2(a), dealing with the granting of judicial notice, is discretionary rather than mandatory in this regard. Nonetheless, the Commissioner observes that the District was attempting to have the ALJ judicially notice documentation from the United States Department of Labor evidencing: 1) that the CPI for New York-Northern New Jersey is 3% and 2) that Paterson is included in the New York-Northern New Jersey area.

Irrespective of the content of the District's proffered document, N.J.S.A. 18A:7F specifically defines CPI as:

> the average annual increase, expressed as a decimal, in the consumer price index for the New York City and Philadelphia > areas during the fiscal year preceding the prebudget year as reported by the United States Department of Labor.

Thus, even if the ALJ had chosen to acquiesce to the District's request that judicial notice be taken of its documentation, such materials would have been of no import as the Commissioner finds that the Department properly calculated the District's 2.11 CPI rate pursuant to statute.

NONRECURRING EXPENSE

PaintSmart Contract

Upon full review of the record and the parties' exception arguments in this regard, the Commissioner is in agreement with the ALJ's conclusion that the Department correctly determined that cost overruns, in the amount of $294,781, with respect to PaintSmart painting contract for 2002-03 were properly excludable from the District's maintenance budget as a non-recurring cost. In so determining the Commissioner notes that the District, on this record, has wholly failed to sustain its burden of establishing that this exclusion was in any manner improper.[3]

INEFFICIENCIES

Fiscal Monitor

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's determination that the position of Fiscal Monitor is inefficient, necessitating the removal of the salary of $95,000 and related benefits of this position from the District's maintenance budget. On exception, the District charges that the ALJ based her conclusion in this regard on "erroneous" factual findings. (District's Exceptions at 15) In this connection, it proffers: 1) the reduction in returned grant money each year from 1999 to 2002 exceeded the costs of the monitor's salary (District's Exceptions at 15, 16); and

[3] The within record does not contain a copy of any current contract with PaintSmart. Rather, the only documentation in this record with respect to PaintSmart is Exhibit P-12, a Bid Summary and Contract Award Recommendation and a District "Action Form" indicating that the Board had adopted a recommended one year contract with PaintSmart, effective July 1, 2001 to June 30, 2002.

2) the Department failed to consider all of the "numerous functions performed by the fiscal monitor" over and above those related to monitoring grants. (Id. at 16, 17)[4]

In reaching his conclusion here, the Commissioner finds that the Department has met its burden of advancing a prima facie case for the reduction of the budget item relating to the Fiscal Monitor's position, while the District's self-serving, conclusory statements are not sufficient to sustain the shifted burden of demonstrating that this budgetary reduction is not justified under the effective and efficient standard.

Cooperative Bid Purchase Contract

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Department properly reduced the District's maintenance budget by $93,600 for its ineffective use of its cooperative bid purchase contract under the inefficient standard. Noting that the District, itself, concedes that the program is inefficient (Initial Decision at 17), it, nonetheless, claims entitlement to funding because: 1) it claims the Department did not fulfill the specific criterion required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c) in order to satisfy its burden of establishing that this agreement is inefficient; and 2) it is contractually obligated to fulfill this contract for another year. (District's Exceptions at 19-21)

In reply, the Department advances that "the district does not use the cooperative bid program effectively and realize any cost savings." (Department's Reply Exceptions at 12) The Department urges that, in reaching its determination on this issue, it did satisfy the test for ineffectiveness or inefficiency required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1, pointing out that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)(1)(i),

[4] Although it is noted that the majority of the "numerous" functions of the Fiscal Monitor, listed by the District in its exceptions, are identified in this individual's job description as "Performance Responsibilities" of his underlying "Job Goal" which is to "[m]onitor and insure compliance of expenditures related to funded programs and projects as established by local, state, and federal agencies" (Exhibit P-1), it additionally cites to testimony of Superintendent Duroy with respect to additional duties which he has, from time to time, assigned to this position.

> the Department can base its determination of an inefficient or ineffective program, position or service by reviewing the historical spending patterns of the district. Mr. Rarick testified that the district entered into a cooperative bid contract but did not use it.Thus, he properly looked at the historical spending patterns in the district in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c). Further, it is implicit that a district spending money on an unused and unnecessary program will not compare favorably to other school districts. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 12, 13)

Upon review, the Commissioner determines that the Department has sustained its burden of establishing a prima facie case for the reduction of this budget item. The District, on the other hand, has not sustained the shifted burden of demonstrating that this budgetary reduction is not justified under the effective and efficient standard. To the contrary, the District, concededly, recognizes that this program is inefficient. That the District may have incurred a contractual obligation in this regard,[5] cannot provide a concomitant requirement that the Department provide state aid, particularly in these difficult budgetary times, to an ineffective program. Furthermore, it is noted, the District has brought no demonstration to the record of its inability to fund this obligation, if it exists, from other sources. The Commissioner, therefore, sustains the Department's reduction of $93,600 from the District's maintenance budget.

Finally, the Commissioner notes and accepts the ALJ's Order that, except as specifically noted in the text of the Initial Decision (now modified), the Department's determination of Paterson's budget in all other respects is upheld.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted in part, rejected in part

and modified in part as set forth above, and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.[6]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[7]

[6] The Commissioner so determines, based upon the proofs brought to this record, while acknowledging that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) until November 2003. In any event, beyond his determination herein, the Commissioner underscores the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

Record Closed: August 25, 2003 Decided: August 28, 2003

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law on July 23, 2002, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a settlement agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached settlement agreement dated August 18, 2003.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record, Settlement Agreement and Stipulation of Dismissal, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the Settlement Agreement, as clarified below, as the final decision in this matter. Initially, the Commissioner observes that Item #1 of the settlement sets forth terms that were to be effectuated prior to approval of the settlement terms by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The Administrative Law Judge and the parties are cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement in controverted matters that have been duly transmitted to the OAL prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner.

Secondly, with respect to Item #2 of the settlement, the Commissioner points out that, although the parties may agree between themselves to keep the specific terms of a settlement agreement confidential, in the absence of a motion to seal the record for good cause shown, Commissioner's decisions and the underlying documents are a matter of public record.

Finally, turning to Item #4 of the settlement wherein "the parties agree that the Courtshall retain jurisdiction for the purpose of enforcement of this Settlement Agreement," the Commissioner clarifies that the OAL is not a "Court" within the judicial branch, but rather an executive branch agency charged with the responsibility, inter alia, of conducting administrative hearings of controverted matters for the state agencies. Litigants do not apply directly to the OAL for a hearing, but, rather, state agencies transmit contested cases to the OAL where the OAL conducts hearings, prepares initial decisions and transmits the matters back to the agencies for review. Upon the filing of an initial decision with the transmitting agency, such as has occurred herein, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.1(g), the OAL relinquishes jurisdiction over the case. Moreover, as a general rule, applications for enforcement of Commissioner's decisions, including approved settlement agreements, are taken to Superior Court.[1] In that the OAL cannot be bound by the provision agreed to by the parties in Item #4 of the within Settlement Agreement, Item #4 is, therefore, a nullity.

Accordingly, the Settlement Agreement, as clarified, is adopted as the final decision and the matter is dismissed, with prejudice, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION SYNOPSIS

George Osborne v. Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood, Ocean County; Meir Grunhut, Board President; Norman Bellinger, Board Vice President; Chet Galdo, Harvey Kranz, Sara Lichtenstein, Irene Miccio, Abraham Ostreicher, Neal Price and Leonard Thomas, Members of the Board; and Dr. Ernest J. Cannava, Superintendent of the Lakewood School District

Petitioning taxpayer sought ruling that the Lakewood Board's busing policy, which provides for courtesy busing services for public and nonpublic school students, was unlawfully discriminatory and designed to segregate students based upon race, religion and gender. Respondents asserted that the Board's busing policy and its implementation was neutral with respect to race, religion and gender.

Initially, the ALJ concluded that petitioner, who was a voting Board member in 1995 when the busing policy was revised, filed his petition more than seven years after he was on notice of the existence of the policy and how it was being implemented. Thus, the petition was untimely filed and the ALJ concluded that the 90-day limitation should not be waived. The ALJ also concluded that laches and estoppel precluded petitioner's claims and that petitioner, who was neither a student nor the parent of a student in the District, did not have standing to challenge the Board's busing policy under the New Jersey Constitution and State Law. Moreover, the ALJ determined that petitioner failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted; he failed to meet his burden of proving discrimination. The ALJ found that the Board chose to provide transportation to all children within its school district within reasonable limitations as to distance. Petitioner as taxpayer did not have standing to pursue any of his claims under the U.S. Constitution or Federal Laws with the exception that as taxpayer he brought a claim which attacked government expenditures on First Amendment Establishment Clause grounds. Petitioner, however, could not show that the Board's application of its busing policy violated the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution since the Board offered busing on the same terms to all school children in its District without regard to religion. Respondents' motion for summary decision was granted.

Following careful and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision and the parties' exceptions, the Commissioner modified the findings and determination in the Initial Decision. Initially, the Commissioner declined to apply the filing limitation of the 90-day period set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) or to apply laches since respondents did not raise untimely filing or laches as affirmative defenses in this matter and, if the allegations of discrimination and violations of Federal and State laws were true, they would constitute a continuing violation. The Commissioner agreed that petitioner did not establish that he had standing to pursue his claims under the U.S. Constitution or Federal laws except for petitioner's claim that Lakewood's busing policy, as applied, violated the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment of the Constitution. The Commissioner also found that petitioner had standing with respect to his New Jersey Constitutional claims; petitioner presented convincing arguments that, as a resident and taxpayer, he was directly affected by the District's courtesy busing policy. Notwithstanding the finding that petitioner had standing to pursue his claim under the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the Constitution and his New Jersey Constitutional claims, the Commissioner found that petitioner did not meet his burden of presenting specific facts to demonstrate that the busing policy was applied in a discriminatory manner nor did he allege that the courtesy busing was not provided to all students residing in the District, without regard to whether they attend public, private or parochial schools. Thus, petitioner failed to demonstrate that Lakewood's Busing Policy No. 3541.31 and its implementation were contrary to law. Summary decision was, therefore, granted to respondents and the petition was dismissed.

ERNEST J. CANNAVA, SUPERINTENDENT OF THE LAKEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT,

Respondents.

George S. Osborne, petitioner, pro se

Michael I. Inzelbuch, Esq., for respondents

Mordechai Biser, Esq., Associate General Counsel, admitted pro hac vice, appearing for Lakewood School District, on Amicus curiae brief
Attorney of record: Ronald D. Coleman, Esq.

Record Closed: May 12, 2003 Decided: May 16, 2003

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In or about late August of 2002, the petitioner, George S. Osborne, requested that the Commissioner of Education issue a declaratory ruling and answer filed in the above-entitled matter before it arrived at the Office of Administrative Law. Upon receiving Mr. Osborne's request and the response of respondents (hereinafter "Lakewood"), which in my view consisted of a motion for summary decision, the Office of the Commissioner, on or about September 5, 2002, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

In his transmission letter of September 5, the Commissioner indicates the following:

> Upon review of the petition for declaratory ruling and answer filed in the matter entitled George S. Osborne v. Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood, Ocean County, wherein petitioner challenges the bus routes established by the board, I decline to consider the matter as one for declaratory judgment, pursuant to my authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1(a). However, to the extent petitioner raises issues that are within my jurisdiction, this matter will be considered a contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 et seq. and is being transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for further proceedings.

On December 23, 2002, an in-person prehearing conference was conducted on the record (at the request of Mr. Inzelbuch) at the Office of Administrative Law in Mercerville, New Jersey. On that same date, I issued a three-page letter memorializing what occurred during the course of the conference. The audiotape is in the file. During the course of the conversation (and referred to in my letter of December 23), Lakewood had brought a motion for summary decision, and it appeared that part of that motion was addressed to the question of what issue or issues factually or legally are justicable before this forum. Because of the discussions, I advised Mr. Osborne that he could supplement his response to the brief (originally filed with the Commissioner) opposing summary decision, and I also gave Lakewood the opportunity to reply, if it felt appropriate and within a reasonable time. Much of the discussion then centered upon the setting of a discovery schedule, which in fact was done and was memorialized in my letter. So as to maintain management over the proceedings, I scheduled another conference to be conducted in early April 2003 in person at OAL, Mercerville, New Jersey, commencing at 10:00 a.m. I concluded the letter by indicating:

> Finally, it should be noted that I made an effort to explain to Mr. Osborne, an articulate and intelligent non-lawyer, that as a pro se litigant, the Administrative Law Judge has a special obligation to assist him in proceeding with this matter, and I advised him that, should he have questions, to telephone my chambers and that I would do my best to answer them – ex parte if I can – or if need be, I would convene a telephone conference in which Mr. Inzelbuch would also participate.

On December 27, 2002, some four days after the in-person conference was conducted, my office received an informal letter motion submitted by Mr. Osborne asking that I be disqualified from hearing the matter. On January 10, 2003, my chambers issued a four-page ruling and order which denied Mr. Osborne's motion. I end the letter by advising that should Mr. Osborne choose to seek interlocutory review of the denial of his motion for my disqualification, that review should be taken to the Director of the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10. Pursuant to that regulation, it is provided at subdivision B that any interlocutory review request must be made not later than five working days from the receipt of the written order or oral ruling, whichever is first rendered.

By letter to counsel and Mr. Osborne of January 24, 2003, I advised that the Acting Director of the Office of Administrative Law had not received any request for interlocutory review in respect to the denial of Mr. Osborne's motion for my disqualification. Since the five-day period had lapsed under regulation, I advised the parties that as of the issuance of this letter (the one issued on January 24), the matter shall proceed substantatively. I then set forth a motion schedule in which the parties were given the opportunity to respond and supplement their earlier submissions.

During this early stage of these proceedings, several other issues presented themselves. I had received a letter from a Reverend Jimmy Wilcox in early November 2002 in which he request the opportunity to appear as a nonlawyer representative on behalf of George S. Osborne in these proceedings. In my letter to Reverend Wilcox, I noted that since the matter was not a special education case, it was not governed by the special rules providing for nonlawyer representation, as set forth at N.J.A.C. 1:6A-5.1. Thus, the only legal basis under which a nonlawyer individual may appear as a representative for another in matters before OAL are set forth at N.J.A.C. 1:6A-5.4(a). Since none of the requirements were met by Mr. Wilcox, I indicated to him that "I must unfortunately deny your request to appear on behalf of Mr. Osborne." I then sought to reassure him that Mr. Osborne would not be at sea when I indicated in closing the letter, "As you may or may not know, when a pro se litigant appears in any proceeding, the judge has an affirmative obligation to assist him as well as he can, but not, of course, act as his attorney." And I also pointed out that in addition to my finding Mr. Osborne appeared fully competent to represent himself as a layperson; he also, of course, retained the opportunity to have counsel represent him.

On December 10, 2002, my office received a letter from a Mordechai Biser, Esq., dated December 4, 2002. Mr. Biser is Associate General Counsel to Agudath Israel of America, a national grassroots Orthodox Jewish organization with chapters throughout the United States. Mr. Biser requested the opportunity to submit an amicus curiae presentation in the case. By letter of December 19, 2002, addressed to Messrs. Inzelbuch, Osborne and Biser, I issued a ruling of three pages which granted Mr. Biser's request to submit an amicus curiae brief in the matter. I imposed the following qualifications on such submission:

> The amicus curiae brief could not in any way provide me with recommended findings of fact, but may be limited exclusively to legal argument. Mr. Biser's involvement in the case would be exclusively the submission of a brief. He was neither going to be treated as an intervenor nor a participant under N.J.A.C. 1:1-16.1 through 1:1-16.6. He was not permitted to sit at the counsel table or to engage in any in camera conversation throughout these proceedings.

I noted that he was welcome to attend the proceedings, as is anyone within a public forum. I also noted in the letter that after reviewing the New Jersey Lawyer's Diary, I came to the conclusion

Because the parties never actually ceased submitting further correspondence in the matter, I determined on my own initiative that the record in these proceedings would closed on May 12, 2003.

THE FACTS

Some of what I shall set forth has already been described in general fashion. Nevertheless, it is appropriate for purposes of addressing Lakewood's motion. This matter originated on or about July 30, 2002, with the filing of a Verified Petition by George S. Osborne, in the capacity of a taxpayer in the respondent school district, seeking declaratory judgment with the Commissioner of Education. The petition is concerned with how public funds are distributed by the respondent, Lakewood Board of Education, with respect to busing arrangements, in particular the courtesy busing of non-public school students. Osborne has alleged that Lakewood's financing of such busing arrangements is unlawfully discriminatory and designed to segregate students based upon race, religion and gender and in violation of the United States Constitution, particularly the Equal Protection and Due Process Clauses of the 14th Amendment and the Establishment Clause of the 1st Amendment, Federal Statutes, the New Jersey Constitution and the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination ("LAD").[1] Lakewood filed an answer on or about August 20, 2002, which denied the allegations of unconstitutional busing because, respondent asserted, it had implemented a busing policy that was neutral with respect to race, religion and gender, and set forth a variety of legitimate factors underlying the application of the policy.

On September 5, 2002, the Commissioner of Education issued a letter to both Osborne and Lakewood, in which he declined to consider the matter as one for declaratory judgment, but on or about September 12, 2002, transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case for determination of the issues that are within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. Lakewood filed their current motion for summary decision on January 23, 2003. Osborne filed his response in opposition to the motion on February 13, 2003.

[1] It is not clear from his verified petition whether the petitioner asserts other constitutional claims (i.e. the petitioner mentions infringement on the right to travel in his motion papers and counsel for the respondent briefly addresses the petitioner's lack of standing), however these will be disposed of in the same fashion as the other federal constitutional claims, with the exception of his claim under the establishment clause.

On June 25, 1975, Lakewood adopted Local Policy 3541.31, which was revised on June 12, 1995, which provides that all school children are entitled to transportation between their homes and schools subject to clearly defined riding limits.[2] The petitioner served as a member of the respondent, Lakewood Board of Education, from 1994 to 1997. This local school district policy has allowed many non-public school students to receive free busing to their school of choice. A large segment of these non-public school students attend Orthodox Jewish parochial schools. Many of those schools either have boys only or girls only in attendance. The bus routes that go to and from the boys only schools are ridden by boys only and the bus routes that go to and from the girls only schools are occupied by girls only.

DISCUSSION

The rules governing practice at the Office of Administrative Law provide that a motion for summary decision may be granted if there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. The determination should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits, which may have been filed with the application. In order for the adverse, i.e., the non-moving party, to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

The courts have further elaborated upon the issue of granting summary decision. The court, in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins Co of America, 142 N.J. 520, 541 (1995), encouraged trial judges to evaluate and analyze competent evidential materials presented with the application and to consider whether when they are viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving they are sufficient to permit resolution of the alleged dispute in favor of the non- moving party. Id. at 540. Moreover, once the moving party has presented evidence in support of its application, the burden is on the non-moving party to set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. Id. at 529.

[2] "Students living in the Lakewood school district shall be entitled to transportation between their homes and schools in accordance with the following riding limits as measured portal to portal: kindergarten through grade 6, a distance of one-mile or more; grades 7 through 8, one and one-half miles or more; and grades 9 through 12, two miles or more." Lakewood Bd. of Ed. Local Policy 3541.31.

The verified petition was not timely filed pursuant to the 90-day rule at* N.J.A.C. *6A:3-1.3(d)

The threshold issue that has emerged in this matter deals with whether Osborne's claim was timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).[3] N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) governs the filing of an action arising under the school laws and states in part that:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later that the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).]

In Kaprow v. Bd. of Ed. of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572 (1993), the New Jersey Supreme Court held that the Commissioner and the State Board of Education have the authority to establish a time limitation for the resolution of disputes arising under the school laws and addressed the public policy reasons behind the 90-day rule:

> The limitation period provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between the teachers and the administration. ... The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days. ... N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) represents a fair and reasonably-necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws."

The public policy, which favors providing school districts with a measure of repose must be weighed against the right of the petitioner, to be notified that the school board has taken a position adverse to it:

[3] N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) was recodified as N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), effective April 3, 2000. The language of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), except for an addition not relevant here, is identical to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Therefore cases interpreting N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) will apply to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). These regulations are used interchangeably throughout this section of the memorandum.

> Adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. Moreover, adequate notice under the regulation must be sufficient to further the purpose of the ninety-day limitations period. ... [T]he notice requirement should effectuate concerns for individual justice by not triggering the limitations period until [the petitioner has been alerted to the existence of facts that would be adverse to it]. At the same time, it should further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order "to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government." Borough of Park Ridge v. Salimone, 21 N.J. 28, 48 (1956).

Adequate notice under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) should accommodate the dual purposes of the limitations period:

> [T]he first is to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims. ... The second purpose is "'to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose'" by giving security and stability to human affairs.

In Kaprow, a secretary of the respondent board of education notified the petitioner that someone else was given her job. The Court held that such informal notice satisfied the "notice of a final order, ruling or other action" by the respondent, as required by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Id. at 588.

The ninety-day requirement has been strictly followed and applied almost without exception. Specifically, in Dreher v. Jersey City Bd. of Ed., OAL Dkt. EDU 2777-87 (December 18, 1987), adopted Comm'r. (February 2, 1988), aff'd. State Bd. of Ed. (July 8, 1988), a petition filed just two days after the ninety-day period was dismissed. Ibid. Other cases have also strictly applied the ninety-day rule. In Eisenburg v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Fort Lee, EDU 9451-01, Final Decision, (October 3, 2002)<http://lawlibrary.Rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, the Commissioner held that the petitioners informal appearance before the respondent board of Gladden v. Public Employees' Retirement Sys., 171 N.J. Super. 363, 370-71 (App. Div. 1979); Allstate Ins. Co. v. Howard Sav. Institution, 127 N.J. Super. 479, 489 (Ch. Div. 1974).

The State Supreme Court addressed the doctrine of laches in an education context in Lavin v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Hackensack, 90 N.J. 145 (1982). Lavin involved a petitioner's claim for employment credit as a teacher based on her prior military service. Because she asserted her claim nine years after her employment began, the Board of Education argued that laches barred her claim. The Supreme Court agreed and quoted the following from Atlantic City v. Civil Serv. Comm'n., 3 N.J. Super. 57, 60 (App. Div. 1949):

> Laches in a general sense is the neglect, for an unreasonable and unexplained length of time, under circumstances permitting diligence, to do what in law should have been done. More specifically, it is inexcusable delay in asserting a right.
>
> 'Long lapse of time, if unexplained, may create or justify a presumption against the existence or validity of plaintiff's right and in favor of the adverse right of defendant; or a presumption that if, plaintiff was ever possessed of a right, it has been abandoned or waived, or has been in some manner satisfied; or that plaintiff has assented to, or acquiesced in, the adverse right of defendant; or a presumption that the evidence of the transaction in issue has been lost or become obscured, or that conditions have changed since the right accrued; or a presumption that the adverse party would be prejudiced by the enforcement of plaintiff's claim.'

See also Windsor Card Shops, Inc. v. Hallmark Cards, Inc., 957 F. Supp. 562, 568 (D.N.J. 1997)(also citing Atlantic City, supra, and stating that laches, "similar to a statute of limitations, bars claims that were neglected for an unreasonable and unexplained length of time"). A court should consider and weigh the length of the delay, reasons for the delay, and changing conditions of either or both parties. Id. at 152. The length of the delay alone or combined with the other elements may result in laches. Ibid. "It is because the central issue is whether it is inequitable to permit the claim to be enforced that generally the change in conditions or relations of the parties coupled with the passage of time becomes the primary determinant." Ibid.

In the matter sub judice, the lengthy passage of time in conjunction with the petitioner's sophistication in such matters, justify a finding barring the petitioner from claiming that the local policy or that its application is improper. It is clear that from the petitioner's membership on the respondent board of education and from the fact that this policy was addressed during his term, that nothing short of willful blindness on the part of the petitioner could account for any lack of knowledge about the policy and its application. It is also clear that over seven years had passed from the date that the respondent school board, along with the petitioner as a member, addressed the policy and revised it. Knowledge and delay are prerequisites to the application of the doctrine of laches. C.R. v. J.G., 306 N.J. Super. 214, 239 (Ch. Div. 1997). The petitioner seeks to question a policy that was implemented over twenty-three years ago (or, at the very least, over seven years since the revision) and that policy's application. This policy appears to have been consistently applied over that time period. The petitioner knew, at the very latest, in June 1995, of the existence of the policy and how it was applied in the school district. Yet he waited until July 30, 2002, to file a verified petition challenging the policy and its application. Osborne provides no explanation as to why he chose to file recently rather than seven or twenty-three years ago. It would be unfair to allow him at this point to pursue such claims after such an unreasonable and unexplained delay in filing the petition. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that laches precludes petitioner's claims.

In so far as the petitioner facially challenges the constitutionality of Lakewood's busing policy for students, the Commissioner and OAL lack the jurisdiction to entertain the constitutional arguments; however, jurisdiction exists to the extent that the petitioner's constitutional claims can be considered challenges to the constitutionality to Lakewood's policy as applied

"Normally in administrative proceedings, petitioners can attack the constitutionality of rules as applied, but they may not mount facial attacks." 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice, § 3.8, at 107 (Steven L. Lefelt, Anthony Miragliotta & Patricia Prunty) (2d ed. 2000). "Pure legal questions are exclusively reserved for the courts. Accordingly, an agency has no power to determine constitutionality of a statute on its face." Ibid. The Commissioner of Education and ALJs do not have the authority to strike down statutes, rules, etc. Ibid. Thus, there is no jurisdiction for the ALJ to consider a facial constitutional challenge. However, "[i]n as applied challenges, the question involves whether an agency is applying its rule in such a way as to violate an individual's constitutional rights. Usually challenges to rules for being unconstitutionally applied raise the need for both fact finding and agency expertise." Ibid. To the extent that the petitioner claims that Lakewood's Policy 3541.31 is unconstitutional, the Commissioner and ALJ do not have jurisdiction. In so far that the petitioner's constitutional challenges do not constitute a facial challenge and claim that Policy 3541.31 has been unconstitutionally applied, the Commissioner and ALJ have jurisdiction to consider these claims.

The petitioner has no standing to pursue any of his claims under the U.S. Constitution or Federal Laws, with the exception of his claims under the Establishment Clause of the 1st Amendment of the U.S. Constitution

The issue of standing must be addressed even if the parties have not raised it. U.S. v. Hayes, 515 U.S. 737, 742, 115 S.Ct. 2431, 2435, 132 *L.Ed.*2d 635 (1995).

> Over the years, our cases have established that the irreducible constitutional minimum of standing contains three elements. First, the plaintiff must have suffered an "injury in fact"--an invasion of a legally protected interest which is (a) concrete and particularized, ... and (b) "actual or imminent, not 'conjectural' or 'hypothetical,' ... Second, there must be a causal connection between the injury and the conduct complained of-- the injury has to be "fairly ... trace[able] to the challenged action of the defendant, and not ... th[e] result [of] the independent action of some third party not before the court." ... Third, it must be "likely," as opposed to merely "speculative," that the injury will be "redressed by a favorable decision."

The petitioner, who seeks jurisdiction, bears the burden of establishing these elements. Ibid. "At the pleading stage, general factual allegations of injury resulting from the [respondent's] conduct may suffice..." Lujan, 504 U.S. at 561, 112 S.Ct. at 2137. "In response to a summary judgment motion, however, the [petitioner] can no longer rest on ... 'mere allegations,' but must 'set forth' by affidavit or other evidence 'specific facts.' ... Ibid.

Generally people have no standing as "citizens" or "taxpayers" to claim that government expenditures violate federal law or the U.S. Constitution. Lujan, 504 U.S. at 573-76, 112 S.Ct. at

Osborne does not have standing to pursue his claims against Lakewood under state law. Furthermore, the petitioner fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted with respect to his New Jersey Constitutional claims and LAD claim.

Standing is a jurisdictional concept that requires that a litigant "have sufficient interest in the subject of the litigation so that a genuine clash between opposing viewpoints will be presented. U.K. and G.K., o/b/o Minor D.K. v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Clifton, 82 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 71, 73 (citing Kenwood v. Montclair Bd. of Ed., OAL Dkt. EDU 8858-81 (April 23, 1982), adopted, Comm'r. (June 23, 1982), aff'd. St. Bd. (September 8, 1982)). New Jersey courts have taken a very liberal approach toward standing, in order to allow easy access to the legal system. Id. at 73 (citing Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n. v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98 (1971)). The approach to standing has been even more generous within the State administrative system, where even those with a mere "tangential interest" have been afforded the opportunity to challenge administrative decisions. Id. at 73 (citing 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice, § 7.4, at 360-62 (Steven L. Lefelt, Anthony Miragliotta & Patricia Prunty) (2d ed. 2000)).

However, there are limitations to this rule. For instance, "mere intermeddlers" or "mere interlopers or strangers to the dispute" do not have standing. Ibid. Hence, generally there are two prerequisites to standing. "First, petitioner must demonstrate a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceeding; and second, his position must be truly adverse to the opposing party." Id. at 73 (citing Home Builders League of South Jersey, Inc. v. Berlin Twp., 81 N.J. 127, 132 (1979)).

Although taxpayer status has been recognized to confer standing upon plaintiffs in some cases, the Commissioner "has consistently refused to hear cases brought by individuals who would not be affected by the outcome in a direct and meaningful way." D.K., supra, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 73 (citing Kenwood, supra, OAL Dkt. EDU 8858-81 (concerned citizen seeking to rewrite school attendance policy); Lobis v. Maple Shade Bd. of Ed., OAL Dkt. EDU 3630-79 (June 11, 1980), adopted Comm'r. (August 11, 1980), aff'd. State Bd. (November 5, 1980)(parent whose son no longer attended school in the district complaining about the quality of education received by remaining students); Delaney v. Woodbridge Bd. of Ed., OAL Dkt. EDU 382-78 (December 12, 1979), adopted Comm'r. (June 11, 1980)(Taxpayer questioning propriety of filling job vacancies); Ricardelli v. Newark Bd. of Ed., OAL Dkt. EDU 1894-79 (September 26, 1979), adopted Comm'r. (November 16, 1979)(taxpayer challenging legality of school board's decision to transfer personnel); accord G.G. v. New Providence Bd. of Ed., 1975 S.L.D. 502 (parent of high school graduate challenging attendance policy)).

One example where standing was held to be lacking is D.K., supra. The matter was brought by the parents of D.K., a student who was injured by another student while at school. The parents appealed the disciplinary actions taken by the Board's against the offending student. The issue before the OAL was whether the parents had standing to challenge the appropriateness of disciplinary actions taken against another student. The ALJ held that the parents lacked standing because, among other reasons, they had not sought an additional benefit for themselves or their child and so their interests would not be "substantially, specifically and directly affected" by the outcome of the matter. D.K., supra, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 73.

In the instant matter Osborne contends that his status as a resident taxpayer alone provides him with standing to pursue his claims. However, he is not affected in a direct and meaningful way by Lakewood's decision to adopt and implement courtesy busing to its students. He is neither a student nor the parent of student in the school district. Therefore, I CONCLUDE Osborne does not have standing to challenge Lakewood's busing policy under the New Jersey Constitution and state law.

The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination ("LAD") and Article I, § 1 and § 5 of the New Jersey Constitution extend protections to individuals on the basis of several enumerated categories. To state a claim under the LAD or these constitutional provisions, a petitioner must claim discrimination on the basis of one of these protected classes. J.P. v. Bd. of Ed. of South Brunswick, (EDU 4969-01), Initial Decision, (December 17, 2002) <http://lawlibrary.Rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. The petitioner alleges discrimination on the basis of race, gender and religion under the foregoing provisions. However, even with the presence of such allegations, "[m]ere inequality or difference in treatment does not suffice to support a charge of unconstitutional discrimination." Kenny v. Byrne, 144 N.J. Super. 243, 257 (App. Div. 1976), affirmed 75 N.J. 458 (1978). A "classification must be upheld under any reasonable set of facts unless there is a showing of invidious discrimination." Ibid. There is the presumption of constitutionality and Petitioners have "the burden of showing that it is arbitrary and without reasonable basis to support it." Ibid. Thus, even though the petitioner claims discrimination on the basis of three protected classifications, he has not met his burden. The petitioner does no more than present a variety of statistics indicating the racial and religious percentages in the population of the school district and the public schools. Even if Osborne's statistics are taken as true and accurate, they along with everything else in the record set forth no evidence of such invidious discrimination. Thus, I CONCLUDE Osborne fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted under the LAD, Article I, § 1 of the New Jersey Constitution[5], or Article I, § 5 of the New Jersey Constitution[6].

The petitioner cannot show that the respondent's application of its busing policy violates the Establishment Clause of the 1st Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

The Establishment Clause of the 1st Amendment of the U.S. Constitution bans any "law respecting an establishment of religion." In Flast v. Cohen, 392 U.S. 83, 88 S.Ct. 1942, 20 *L.Ed.*2d 947 (1968), the U.S. Supreme Court held that a taxpayer has standing to challenge a statute or rule under the Establishment Clause. However, the Court has routinely allowed governments to utilize tax dollars for aid programs as long as such provisions have a secular Article I, § 1 of the New Jersey Constitution. "It has long been required that Article I, Paragraph 1 of the New Jersey Constitution requires, just as the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, equal protection." purpose and do not have the primary effect of advancing or inhibiting religion. In Lemon v. Kurtzman, 403 U.S. 603, 91 S.Ct. 2105, 29 *L.Ed.*2d 745 (1971), the Court "considered whether a statute (1) has a secular purpose, (2) has a primary effect of advancing or inhibiting religion, or (3) creates an excessive entanglement between government and religion." Mitchell v. Helms, 530 U.S. 793, 807, 120 S.Ct. 2530, 2540, 147 *L.Ed.*2d 660 (2000). But, in Agostini v. Felton, 521 U.S. 203, 117 S.Ct. 1997, 138 *L.Ed.*2d 391 (1997), the Court "modified Lemon for purposes of evaluating aid to school and examined only the first and second factors... [The Court] recast Lemon's entanglement inquiry as simply one criterion relevant to determining a statute's effect [] and also acknowledged that [the] cases had pared somewhat the factors that could justify a finding of excessive entanglement." Mitchell, 521 U.S. at 807-08, 117 S.Ct. at 2540.

"[T]he question whether governmental aid to religious schools results in governmental indoctrination is ultimately a question whether any religious indoctrination that occurs in those schools could be reasonably attributed to governmental action." Mitchell, 521 U.S. at 809, 117 S.Ct. at 2541. Many cases have determined that the use of governmental aid for religious indoctrination could not be attributed to the state and therefore not a violation of the establishment clause. See Mitchell, supra (upholding the lending of educational materials and equipment to public and private, including parochial, schools); Everson v. Bd. of Ed. of Ewing Twp., 330 U.S. 1, 67 S.Ct. 504, 91 L.Ed. 711 (1947)(upholding a New Jersey statute and its application, which mandated the provision of transportation to public and private, including parochial, school children); Agostini, supra (allowing public school teachers to provide remedial education to disadvantaged children in parochial schools); Zobrest v. Catalina Foothills School District, 509 U.S. 1, 113 S.Ct. 2462, 125 *L.Ed.*2d 1 (1993)(finding that providing the services of an interpreter to a deaf child in a parochial school does not violate the establishment clause); Witters v. Washington, 474 U.S. 481, 106 S.Ct. 748, 88 *L.Ed.*2d 846 (1986)(held that First Amendment did not preclude state from extending assistance under state vocational rehabilitation assistance program to blind person who chose to study at Christian college to become pastor, missionary, or youth director); Bd. of Ed. of Central School Dist. No. 1 v. Allen, 392 U.S. 236, 88 S.Ct. 1923, 20 *L.Ed.*2d 1060 (1968)(held that statute authorizing the loan of textbooks to students attending parochial schools was not a 'law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof' in conflict with First and Fourteenth Amendments to Federal Constitution).

"In distinguishing between indoctrination that is attributable to the State and indoctrination that is not, [the courts] have consistently turned to the principle of neutrality, upholding aid that is offered to a broad range of groups or persons without regard to their religion." Mitchell, 530 U.S. at 809, 120 S.Ct. at 2541.

> [I]f the government, seeking to further some legitimate secular purpose, offers aid on the same terms, without regard to religion, to all who adequately further that purpose, then it is fair to say that any aid going to a religious recipient only has the effect of furthering that secular purpose. The government, in crafting such an aid program, has had to conclude that a given level of aid is necessary to further that purpose among secular recipients and has provided no more than that same level to religious recipients.

To assure neutrality, courts will consider whether any aid goes to parochial schools because of the genuinely independent and private choices of a child's parents. Ibid. "[I]f numerous private choices, rather than the single choice of a government, determine the distribution of aid pursuant to neutral eligibility criteria, then a government cannot, or at least cannot easily, grant special favors that might lead to a religious establishment. Private choice also helps guarantee neutrality by mitigating the preference for pre-existing recipients that is arguably inherent in any governmental aid program, and that could lead to a program inadvertently favoring one religion or favoring religious private schools in general over nonreligious ones." Ibid. "[T]he proportion of aid benefiting students at religious schools pursuant to a neutral program involving private choices [is] irrelevant to the constitutional inquiry." Mitchell, 530 U.S. at 812, 120 S.Ct. at 2542 (citing Agostini, supra, 521 U.S. at 229, 117 S.Ct. at 2013 (refusing "to conclude that the constitutionality of an aid program depends on the number of sectarian school students who happen to receive the otherwise neutral aid")).

It is well settled that if a board of education chooses to provide transportation to all children within its school district within reasonable limitations as to distance there would be no violation of the Establishment Clause. The New Jersey Constitution permits the legislature to "... within reasonable limitations as to the distance to be prescribed, provide for the transportation of children within the ages of five and eighteen years inclusive to and from any school." New Jersey Constitution, Article VIII, § 4, ¶ 3 (emphasis added). Thus, the Legislature has made it mandatory for school districts to provide transportation for all students to and from their schools that meet certain distance requirements under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.[7] Also, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.1, the Legislature has given the local boards of education the discretion as to whether or not to provide transportation for pupils not covered by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.1 states:

[7] 18A:39-1. Transportation of pupils

Whenever in any district there are elementary school pupils who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance or secondary school pupils who live more than 2 1/2 miles from their public school of attendance, the district shall provide transportation to and from school for these pupils. When any school district provides any transportation for public school pupils to and from school pursuant to this section, transportation shall be supplied to school pupils residing in such school district in going to and from any remote school other than a public school, not operated for profit in whole or in part, located within the State not more than 20 miles from the residence of the pupil; except that if the district is located in a county of the third class with a population of not less than 80,000 and not more than 120,000 transportation shall be provided to a nonpublic school located outside the State not more than 20 miles from the residence of the pupil, if there is no appropriate nonpublic school within the State located closer to the residence of the pupil; provided the per pupil cost of the lowest bid received does not exceed $675 for the 1992-93 school year or the amount determined for subsequent years pursuant to section 2 of P.L.1981, c. 57 (C. 18A:39-1a), and if such bid shall exceed that cost then the parent, guardian or other person having legal custody of the pupil shall be eligible to receive $675 for the 1992-93 school year or the amount determined pursuant to section 2 of P.L.1981, c. 57 (C. 18A:39-1a) for subsequent years toward the cost of his transportation to a qualified school other than a public school, regardless of whether such transportation is along established public school routes. It shall be the obligation of the parent, guardian or other person having legal custody of the pupil attending a remote school, other than a public school, not operating for profit in whole or in part, to register said pupil with the office of the secretary of the board of education at the time and in the manner specified by rules and regulations of the State board in order to be eligible for the transportation provided by this section. If the registration of any such pupil is not completed by September 1 of the school year and if it is necessary for the board of education to enter into a contract establishing a new route in order to provide such transportation, then the board shall not be required to provide it, but in lieu thereof the parent, guardian or other person having legal custody of the pupil shall be eligible to receive $675 or the amount determined pursuant to section 2 of P.L.1981, c. 57 (18A:39-1a), or an amount computed by multiplying 1/180 times the number of school days remaining in the school year at the time of registration, times $675 for the 1992-93 school year or the amount determined pursuant to section 2 of P.L.1981, c. 57 (C. 18A:39-1a) for subsequent years, whichever is the smaller amount. Whenever any regional school district provides any transportation for pupils attending schools other than public schools pursuant to this section, said regional district shall assume responsibility for the transportation of all such pupils, and the cost of such transportation for pupils below the grade level for which the regional district was organized shall be prorated by the regional district among the constituent districts on a per pupil basis, after approval of such costs by the county superintendent. This section shall not require school districts to provide any transportation for pupils attending a school other than a public school, where the only transportation presently provided by said district is for school children transported pursuant to chapter 46 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes or for pupils transported to a vocational, technical or other public school offering a specialized program. Any transportation to a school, other than a public school, shall be pursuant to the same rules and regulations promulgated by the State board as governs transportation to any public school.

The board of education may make rules and contracts for the pupil transportation provided pursuant to this section.

Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prohibit a board of education from making contracts for the transportation of pupils to a school in an adjoining district, when such pupils are transferred to the district by order of the county superintendent, or when any pupils shall attend school in a district other than that in which they shall reside by virtue of an agreement made by the respective boards of education.

Nothing herein contained shall limit or diminish in any way any of the provisions for transportation for children pursuant to chapter 46 of this Title.

> In addition to the provision of transportation for pupils pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:39-1 and N.J.S. 18A:46-23, the board of education of any district may provide, by contract or otherwise, in accordance with law, and the rules and regulations of the State board, for the transportation of other pupils to and from school.
> Districts shall not receive State transportation aid pursuant to section 25 of P.L. 1996, c. 138 (C. 18A:7F-25) for the transportation of pupils pursuant to this section.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.1.]

The New Jersey Supreme Court has held that the Legislature has not violated the Establishment Clause by extending to a private school student, the right to transportation on the same basis on which transportation would have been available if he attended public school in his district because it is "a measure to aid the student rather than the school he attends; its purpose and primary effect are not to advance religion." West Morris Regional Bd. of Ed v. Sills, 58 N.J. 464, 472, cert. denied 404 U.S. 986, 92 S.Ct. 450, 30 *L.Ed.*2d 370 (1971).

Lakewood, in its busing policy, provides for the transportation of any child to and from his or her school who resides beyond a specified distance from the school, which is less than the distance for which State law mandates such transportation. This policy applies to any child regardless of whether the child attends public school or private school, which includes parochial schools. Lakewood offers that the policy was instituted for the children's safety and that the policy itself is neutral with respect to race, gender, religion or the type of school a child attends. Lakewood suggests that its implementation of the policy was based upon a host of legitimate issues, such as varying school calendars, schedules and locations. For instance, the existence of an all boys or all girls bus route arises from the fact that the schools that these routes run to and from are attended respectively by boys only and girls only and the bus routes are set up so that each route will pick up children to go directly to their school and likewise drop them off only from that school. The petitioner presents no evidence to show that Lakewood's assertions are just a pretext for some non-secular purpose. He merely presents statistics in what seems like an attempt to somehow show that the children who attend Orthodox Jewish parochial schools disproportionately benefit from Lakewood's school transportation program. Even taking his statistics as true and accurate and even if the Orthodox Jewish children were disproportionately benefiting from the policy, petitioner can not show that Lakewood has violated the establishment clause, as such factors are irrelevant to the constitutional analysis, simply because these children attend the parochial schools as the result of the private choices of their parents or guardians. Lakewood offers busing on the same terms to all school children in its district, without regard to religion. Such neutrality is present in the policy, as it provides no more to a parochial school student than is provided to a public school student. The petitioner has not presented any evidence, other than his naked assertions, that tend to show that the busing policy as implemented does not have a secular purpose or that it has a primary effect of advancing or inhibiting religion. Therefore, even if the facts and inference therefrom are construed most favorably to the petitioner, I CONCLUDE the petitioner cannot show that the respondent's application of its busing policy violates the Establishment Clause of the 1st Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

In addition, I have dismissed as inherently irrelevant to these proceedings the various arguments made by Mr. Osborne that Lakewood's motion somehow was technically defective. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.1(2), no technical reforms of motion are required. In a motion, a party shall state the grounds upon which the motion is made, the relief or order being sought and the date when the matter shall be submitted to the judge for disposition.

The motion submitted by Lakewood, although awkwardly presented in various submissions, is in full compliance with OAL procedures. In addition, with Mr. Inzelbuch's response to my letter, he set forth chapter and verse exactly what it was he was seeking and why. Penultimately, it should be noted that I have not set forth an exhibit list. The reason is simple. The numbers of submissions and their disarray makes it practically impossible to determine what was and was not meant to be utilized as part of the motion. I reviewed every document submitted in the case and all of those documents remain in the file for further review by the agency head. I cannot, however, rationally set forth in numerical, chronological order what those exhibits are and whether they are or not germane to the issues sub judice.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, respondents' motion for summary decision is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LAKEWOOD, OCEAN COUNTY; MEIR GRUNHUT, BOARD PRESIDENT; NORMAN BELLINGER, BOARD VICE PRESIDENT; CHET GALDO, HARVEY KRANZ, SARA LICHTENSTEIN, IRENE MICCIO, ABRAHAM OSTREICHER, NEAL PRICE AND LEONARD THOMAS, MEMBERS OF THE BOARD; AND DR. ERNEST J. CANNAVA, SUPERINTENDENT OF THE LAKEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
RESPONDENTS.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions[1] and respondents' reply exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination.

[1]Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, the parties were permitted to file written exceptions with the Commissioner within 13 days from the date the Initial Decision was mailed. In the instant matter, the Initial Decision was mailed to the parties on May 21, 2003. The parties' exceptions in this matter were therefore due on or before June 3, 2003. Petitioner timely filed exceptions on May 28, 2003 and subsequently submitted "Supplemental Exceptions." Although these "Supplemental Exceptions" were dated and mailed on June 2, 2003, they were not received until June 5, 2003. Since exceptions are considered filed upon receipt (see N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2), petitioner's "Supplemental Exceptions" were untimely filed and were therefore not considered in making this determination.

Initially, petitioner asserts that the Initial Decision must be rejected in its entirety because it does not contain the elements set forth at N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Specifically, petitioner asserts that:

> 1. The written Initial Decision does not contain an appropriate caption as required by law;
> 2. The written Initial Decision does not contain an appearance of the parties and their representatives as required by law;
> 3. The written Initial Decision does not contain a statement of the issue(s) as required by law;
> 4. The written Initial Decision does not contain a factual finding as required by law;
> 5. The written Initial Decision does not contain a conclusion of law as required by law;
> 6. The written Initial Decision does not contain a disposition as required by law;
> 7. The written Initial Decision does not contain a list of exhibits admitted into evidence as required by law.[2] (Ibid.)

Petitioner also takes issue with the ALJ's concluding, without the benefit of discovery or the holding of a plenary hearing, that petitioner does not have standing to pursue any of his claims under the U.S. Constitution or Federal Laws, with the exception of his claims under the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. (Id. at 3) Citing, inter alia, Flast v. Cohen, 392 U.S. 83 (1968), Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty

[2]It is unclear as to why petitioner objects to the form of the Initial Decision in that the Initial Decision contains an appropriate caption (Initial Decision at 1), clearly lists the appearance of the parties and their representatives (ibid.) and contains a disposition of the matter (id. at 23). Moreover, as petitioner himself points out, N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3 states that the necessary elements may be combined and need not be separately discussed. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Such is the case in the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) statement of the issues (Initial Decision at 7), factual findings (ibid.) and conclusions of law (id. at 8-23). With respect to the list of exhibits, the ALJ provides the following explanation:

> Penultimately, it should be noted that I have not set forth an exhibit list. The reason is simple. The numbers of submissions and their disarray makes it practically impossible to determine what was and was not meant to be utilized as part of the motion. I reviewed every document submitted in the case and all of those documents remain in the file for further review by the agency head. I cannot, however, rationally set forth in numerical, chronological order what those exhibits are and whether they are or are not germaine to the issues sub judice. (Id. at 23)

Equity Corp. of N.Y., 58 N.J. 98 (1971) and Silverman v. Board of Ed., Tp. of Millburn, 134 N.J. Super. 253, 257-258 (Law Div. 1975), aff'd o.b. 136 N.J. Super. 435 (App. Div. 1975), petitioner argues that he has standing to pursue his constitutional claims because there is no bar to taxpayers challenging allegedly unconstitutional federal taxing and spending programs because taxpayers have a personal stake in the outcome. (Id. at 4) Petitioner, therefore, contends that there is no reason why the State's liberal approach to standing should not apply to taxpayer suits challenging quasi-legislative actions of a board of education. (Ibid.) Petitioner additionally maintains that, since the ALJ determined that he had standing to pursue his Establishment Clause claims, it was erroneous for the ALJ to dismiss those claims without a hearing on the merits. (Id. at 8)

Moreover, petitioner avers that material facts in this matter are in dispute with respect to whether state and federal monies are being spent in violation of constitutional protection against the abuse of legislative power so as to preclude this matter from being decided on a summary basis. (Ibid.) Petitioner asserts that:

> Specifically, there exists a "genuine issue of material fact" as to whether federal and state taxpayers' money is being used under Lakewood's "courtesy busing" policies programs to:
> 1. foster and promote religion in ways that violate state, federal, and school laws, and discriminate against public school students
>
> 2. foster and promote religion in ways that violate state, federal, and school laws, and [segregate] public school students from private students, and boys and girls in violation of state, federal, and school, and
> 3. foster excessive government entanglement[.]

Providing numerous citations with respect to the standards for the granting of summary judgment, i.e., evidential materials must be viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party; discovery and a full hearing on the merits of a case should not be prevented simply because the ALJ favors one of several views of evidence; the non-moving party must present enough evidence to demonstrate that a dispute is genuine, etc., petitioner concludes that the grant of summary judgment to respondents "should be reversed" because "there exists a 'genuine issue of material fact'" and respondents are not entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law. (Id. at 4-9)

Turning to the issue as to whether the petition in this matter was timely filed, petitioner asserts that he was severely prejudiced by the ALJ's abuse of discretion in concluding that the petition was untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). (Id. at 9) Petitioner points out that the record is silent on the issue of the timeliness of the filing of the petition and he is now forced to respond to an issue never raised by respondents. (Id. at 9 and 12) *Citing Kaprow v. Bd. of Ed. of Berkeley Townsh*ip, 131 N.J. 572 (1993), Borough of Park Ridge v. Salimone, 21 N.J. 28 (1956) and North Plainfield Ed. Ass'n v. Bd. of Ed. of North Plainfield Borough, 96 N.J. 587 (1984), petitioner contends that he "was obligated to file his claims with the [Department of Education] within 90 days of the date on which he first became aware that he had a 'cause of action' against the board, and not when Local Policy No. 3541.31 was revised on June 12, 1995." (Id. at 11)

Moreover, petitioner claims that respondents were put on notice on June 7, 2002 by way of petitioner's signature on a petition calling for the termination of nonpublic school student transportation contacts and a letter of July 17, 2002 to the former Board president. (Ibid.) Since petitioner filed his petition on August 2, 2002, petitioner argues, both dates are well within the 90-day rule specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). (Ibid.) Petitioner further argues that, as stated in Lopez v. Swyer, 62 N.J. 267, 272 (1973), the discovery rule "shields a plaintiff from the accrual of his cause of action 'until the injured party discovers, or by an exercise of reasonable diligence and intelligence should have discovered that he may have a basis for an actionable claim'" and that "although an injured party may be aware he suffered an injury, 'the injured party may not know it is attributable to the fault or neglect of another.'" (Id. at 12) The ALJ erred, petitioner claims, in dismissing his complaint on the erroneous assumption that petitioner "should have known that a 'facially neutral' local courtesy busing policy was discriminatory" by virtue of his service on the Lakewood School Board. (Ibid.) Petitioner therefore concludes that the 90-day rule should be waived and the Initial Decision rejected under the doctrine of fundamental fairness and abuse of discretion. (Ibid.)

Petitioner also excepts to the ALJ's raising the defense of laches, an issue which respondents failed to raise themselves, and then erroneously concluding that the petition was barred by laches. (Id. at 13) Citing Dorchester Manor v. New Milford Bor., 287 N.J. Super. 163, 172 (Law Div. 1994), petitioner argues, inter alia, that "[I]n order for laches to apply, the party asserting the doctrine must have 'a justifiable reason to believe that the alleged rights are meritless or have been abandoned.'" (Id. at 14) Petitioner asserts that, generally, a factual hearing is required in determining whether the application of laches or estoppel is equitable. Dorchester at 173. (Id. at 15) Petitioner points to Enfield v. FWL, Inc., 256 N.J. Super. 502, 520-521 (Ch. Div. 1991) in arguing that "the length of the delay in assertion of a party's rights is determined with reference to 'the date when alleged legal injury occurred'" and that "a party asserting laches must establish that the other party either knew or, with reasonable diligence and vigilance, could have known of such date of occurrence." (Id. at 14)

Clearly, petitioner submits, this means that the equitable defense of laches is to be asserted by a party to the action and respondent did not raise the defense of laches in their Answer to the petition or elsewhere in these proceedings. (Id. at 17) Therefore, petitioner reasons, in raising the issue of the timeliness of the petition and the defense of laches, the ALJ improperly abandoned his role as impartial judge and assumed the role of attorney for respondents. (Ibid.)

Additionally, petitioner argues, the nature of his complaint, which goes to policy considerations which affect the school tax burden on Lakewood property owners, should dictate hesitation by the Commissioner in applying laches or estoppel in the instant matter. (Ibid.) Rather, petitioner asserts that, in challenging the Board's spending habits, he has exercised express statutory rights and that the applicability of laches and estoppel should be determined based on policy considerations related to tax appeals where the right of appeal is constitutionally protected, quoting McKesson Corp. v. Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco, 496 U.S. 18, 36, 110 S. Ct. 2238, 110 *L.Ed.*2d 17, 35-36 (1990), which states that "[b]ecause exaction of a tax constitutes a deprivation of property, the State must provide procedural safeguards against unlawful exactions in order to satisfy the commands of the Due Process Clause." (Id. at 16-17)

Respondents' reply exceptions acknowledge that the 90-day requirement for the timely filing of relief from the Commissioner was never specifically raised, but notes that respondents did raise the factual issue that petitioner was a sitting member of the Board when the policy in question was revised. (Respondents' Exceptions at 1-2) In so acknowledging, respondents submit that there is no bar to the raising of this issue by the ALJ, noting that an ALJ in K.C. and C.C. o/b/m J.C. v. Lakewood Board of Education (OAL Docket No. EDS 739-03/Agency Reference No. 75-3/03), similarly raised said time bar on his own volition. (Id. at 2)

Despite protestation by petitioners in that matter, respondents aver, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination. (Ibid.)

Moreover, respondents argue that the application of the 90-day rule will not result in any legally based injustice. (Ibid.) Therefore, respondents assert, the strict application of the rule should be applied in that: 1) petitioner was a voting member of the Board when the policy in question was revised; 2) while petitioner's claims are couched in state and federal constitutional terms, none are novel; and 3) the OAL has no jurisdiction to confer much of the relief sought. (Id. at 2-3) With respect to petitioner's Establishment Clause claim, respondents state that they will rely on previously submitted legal memoranda. (Id. at 3)

BACKGROUND DISCUSSION

Initially, in reviewing the Petition of Appeal,[3] containing 96 enumerated items variously categorized under the headings of "Authority," "Parties," "Standing," "Statement of Facts," and "Counts" I through IV, it is noted that petitioner sets forth the context from which his claims arise by providing a description, from his perspective, of the alleged influence of the Orthodox Jewish population in Lakewood on policies and actions of the Lakewood Board, particularly in the creation and implementation of the school district's busing policy. In summary, petitioner avers that Lakewood has a population of over 60,000 persons, 50% of which are ultra Orthodox Jews and that the ultra Orthodox Jewish community's bloc voting controls the election process. (Petition of Appeal at 4 and 11) Petitioner also states that "[i]f, the ultra Orthodox Jewish community where [sic] to sneeze, the township committee, and the board of [3] This petition was originally filed as a Verified Petition for Declaratory Judgment. On September 5, 2002, the Commissioner declined to consider this matter as one for declaratory judgment, pursuant to his authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1(a), and transferred this matter to the OAL for further proceedings.

education would catch a cold. The board is more than 'excessively' entangled with religion. It is joined at the hip with it." (Id. at 11) Thus, petitioner claims, the public school district and the sectarian nonpublic schools are "woven together as one fabric with one common goal, and that is to ensure that members of the ultra Orthodox Jewish community are transported to their 'pervasively' sectarian schools in a segregated and separate manner." (Id. at 15) Petitioner also claims that "[w]hat the district calls courtesy busing for nonpublic school students has become a private taxi service for the transportation of Orthodox Jewish children." (Ibid.) Additionally, petitioner asserts that the courtesy busing of over 6,000 children[4] via routes that: 1) segregate public and nonpublic school students and 2) segregate Orthodox Jewish students by sex violates the federal and state constitutions, the Civil Rights Act, the Law Against Discrimination, and creates an undue burden on the taxpayers of the district.[5] (Id. at 5, 9 and 16-18)

Moreover, the following is a summary of specific claims asserted by petitioner in the Petition of Appeal. Petitioner seeks a decision that:

> 1. Remedies the distribution of public monies that are being used by the district to finance unlawful discriminatory segregated busing policies that have the "effect" of advancing religion. These unlawful discriminatory busing policies deny public school students free exercise and enjoyment of the right to travel free of discrimination upon intrastate highways, in violation of the Equal Protection and Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution. (Petition of Appeal at 1)

[4]Respondents contend that the Board transports 4,231 nonpublic school students with non-mandated transportation, and that, of these 4,231 students, 3,805 are Orthodox Jewish students, representing 64% of the total number of students that are transported daily via the school district's courtesy busing services, but that regardless of the numerical discrepancy, "the District's busing policies are neutral in nature and apply equally to all students regardless of race, religion, gender or school of attendance." (Answer at 9 and 11)

[5]Petitioner presents calculations indicating that the Lakewood School District spends in excess of 4 million dollars yearly to transport its students and that over 2 million dollars of these transportation costs are for courtesy busing services. (Petition of Appeal at 5) Although respondents in their Answer state that they leave petitioner to his proofs with respect to these costs, it is noted that respondents' Exhibit F confirms that these costs are accurately represented. (Answer at 8-11 and Exhibit F)

2. Finds that the Lakewood School District has disbursed federal funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 to finance instruction and the purchase of educational materials for use in religious and "pervasively" sectarian schools, in violation of the Establishment and Free Exercise clause of the First Amendment. (Ibid.)

3. Finds that respondents have created unlawful discriminatory segregated routes that are designed solely for the transportation of "pervasively" sectarian Orthodox Jewish parochial school students. (Id. at 19)

4. Finds that respondents have adopted, implemented and maintained student transportation policies that discriminate against similarly situated pubic school students and have failed to revise transportation policies to ensure that similarly situated public school students are not discriminated against. (Ibid.)

5. Finds that respondents have failed to desegregate and have failed to eliminate segregation in the transportation of all public and nonpublic school students. (Ibid.)

6. Finds that respondents have failed to assure that the district transportation policies are in full compliance with the Constitutional, Federal, and State antidiscriminatory provisions and have failed to require plans providing for the transportation of public and nonpublic students in an integrated setting. (Ibid.)

7. Finds that respondents have failed to require the development and implementation of concentrated and aggressive outreach and recruitment efforts to improve and maximize integrated travel for all pupils. (Ibid.)

Petitioner's constitutional claims are as follows:

1. Respondents have created unlawful discriminatory and segregated routes designed solely for the transportation of Orthodox Jewish parochial school students in violation of the Equal Protection and Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. (Id. at 17)

2. Respondents have designed bus routes solely for the purpose of transporting parochial nonpublic school students in a manner that is different from that of public school students, i.e., Orthodox Jewish students are transported to their parochial schools in a segregated manner so as to not come into contact with public school students and Orthodox Jewish boys and girls are transported to their respective schools on separate buses. These acts of respondents violate the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. (Ibid.)

3. The discriminatory, segregated routes designed solely for the transportation of Orthodox Jewish parochial nonpublic school students violates Section 201(a) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C. 2000a (a) (1964 ed.) and Section 207 (b) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 ("Title VI"), 42 U.S.C. 2000a-6 (b) (1964 ed.) The Board is also in violation of Section 601 of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 ("Title VI"), 42 U.S.C. § 2000d, "prohibits any recipient of federal financial assistance from discriminating on the basis of race color, or national origin in any federally funded program. (Id. at 18)

4. The discriminatory, segregated routes designed solely for the transportation of Orthodox Jewish parochial nonpublic school students violates Article I.1 and 5 of the New Jersey Constitution which provides in part: "All persons shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, and accommodations of any place of public accommodation, as defined in this section, without discrimination or segregation on the ground of race, color, religion, or national origin."[6] (Ibid.)

[6]Notwithstanding petitioner's "quote" from Article I.1 and 5 of the New Jersey Constitution, the Commissioner observes that the language contained in these sections is as follows:

Article I.1

All persons are by nature free and independent, and have certain natural and unalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, of acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and of pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

Article I.5

No person shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil or military right, nor be discriminated against in the exercise of any civil or military right, nor be segregated in the militia or in the public schools, because of religious principles, race, color, ancestry or national origin.

> in this title shall be the exclusive means of enforcing the rights based on this title, but nothing in this title shall preclude any individual or any State or local agency from asserting any right based on any other Federal or State law not inconsistent with this title, including any statute or ordinance requiring nondiscrimination in public establishments or accommodations, or from pursuing any remedy, civil or criminal, which may be available for the vindication or enforcement of such right." (Ibid.)

Additionally, referring to his petition, petitioner states in his exceptions that:

> The complaint alleged that Lakewood's "courtesy busing" policies and programs were carried-out in a manner that violates the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, Title10:1-5; Article I.1 and 5 of the New Jersey Constitution; The [Establishment] Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution; The Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution; Section 601 of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 ("Title VI"), 42 U.S.C. § 2000d, "prohibits any recipient of federal financial assistance from discriminating on the basis of race, color, or national origin in any federally funded program."[7] (Petitioner's Exceptions at 3)

Additionally, petitioner states that he "seeks to invalidate the Lakewood Board of Education Local Policy 3541.31, and all district state-sponsored, NON-MANDATED, public school 'courtesy busing' transportation policies, practices, and programs." (Petitioner's February 10, 2003 Memorandum of Law in Opposition to Respondents' Motion for Summary Judgment at 26) Thus, the primary focus of petitioner's claims is directed toward the Board's busing policy and its implementation.

Respondents answer petitioner's claims by stating that the transportation service provided to all children residing in Lakewood "is not discriminatory, does not advance religion in an impermissible manner, nor is same in violation of Federal or State law." (Answer at 1, [7]It is noted that petitioner makes no mention in his exceptions of his claim that the Lakewood School District has disbursed federal funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 to finance instruction and the purchase of educational materials for use in religious and sectarian schools.

emphasis in text) Respondents further claim that, with the adoption of Local Policy No. 3542.31 on June 25, 1975, and revised on June 12, 1995 providing all school children transportation between their homes and schools within clearly defined riding limits, the Board has been directly busing children, whether public, nonpublic, religious or nonreligious to their school of attendance for nearly thirty (30) years. (Motion for Summary Judgment at 3) Moreover, respondents claim that children are bused upon public policy concerning the safety of children and other neutral factors, such as school calendars and school schedules. (Id. at 3-4) While acknowledging that boys and girls are transported in separate buses to those Orthodox Jewish parochial schools that are same sex schools, respondents point out that "[s]everal parochial schools, including, but not limited to, Holy Family, Calvary Academy, and the Bezalel Yeshiva (an Orthodox Jewish day school), have bus routes wherein boys and girls are transported together." (Id. at 6)

With respect to petitioner's allegation that the Lakewood School District has disbursed federal funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 to finance instruction and the purchase of educational materials for use in religious and sectarian schools in violation of the Establishment and Free Exercise clause of the First Amendment, respondents deny the allegations "based on a Corrective Action Plan filed by the Lakewood Board of Education and accepted by the State Department of Education." (Answer at 1-2) Additionally, respondents point out that "[t]he Lakewood Board of Education has a responsibility to fulfill 'child find' requirements as delineated in Section 613 (a)(3) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA") including religious school children, 20 U.S.C. § 1412(a)(10)(A)(ii) and 34 CFR § 300.451; equitable participation under "IDEA" Part B, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-6.1; Chapter 192 services such as Child Study Team Examination and Classification Services, the provision of textbooks, Chapter 226 services such as Nursing and Transportation Services." (Certificate of Counsel in Support of Respondents' Motion for Summary Judgment at 6)

COMMISSIONER'S DECISION

TIMELINESS OF THE FILING OF THE PETITION AND APPLICATION OF LACHES

Initially, the Commissioner finds that consideration of the timeliness of the filing of the petition and the application of laches by the ALJ was inappropriate in this matter as these were not affirmative defenses raised by respondents.[8] In so concluding, it is noted that the Supreme Court in Zaccardi v. Becker, 88 N.J. 245, 256 (1982), found that:

> At the outset we note that statutes of limitations are not self-executing. Such statutes are based on the goals of achieving security and stability in human affairs and ensuring that cases are not tried on the basis of stale evidence. Galligan v. Westfield Centre Service, 82 N.J. 188, 191-92 (1980); Tevis v. Tevis, 79 N.J. 422, 430 (1979); Kaczmarek v. N.J. Turnpike Authority, 77 N.J. 329, 337-38 (1978). Because they are based on these specific policies, they must be raised as affirmative defenses, subject to judicial modification in appropriate circumstances. Mechanistic application of such statutes could unnecessarily sacrifice individual justice in particular circumstances. (emphasis added)

Moreover, assuming, arguendo, for purposes of this discussion, that Lakewood's busing policy and its implementation are discriminatory and contrary to Federal and State laws as petitioner claims, each act in designing and implementing the discriminatory and unlawful busing policy would constitute a pattern of discrimination and a continuing violation of law and, thus, the statute of limitations would begin only when the wrongful action ceases. As set forth by the Appellate Court in Bollinger v. Bell Atlantic, 330 N.J. Super. 300, 306 (App. Div. 2000):

[8] The Commissioner observes that the record is devoid of any claim by respondents that they have suffered prejudice or that they are unable to present a defense because petitioner did not assert his claims in a timely manner.

> For causes of action arising under anti-discrimination laws, however, a judicially created doctrine known as the continuing violation theory has developed as an equitable exception to the statute of limitations. (citations omitted)
> New Jersey recognizes the existence of a similar "continuing tort doctrine," which is unrestricted to discrimination claims and provides that when an individual experiences a "continual, cumulative pattern of tortious conduct" the limitations period begins only when the wrongful action ceases. Wilson v. Wal-Mart Stores 158 N.J. 263, 272, 729 A.2d 1006 (1999).
> Two types of continuing violations are recognized in the federal context: (1) "systemic violations," which originate in a discriminatory policy or practice that continues into the limitations period, and (2) "serial violations," which consist of a various number of discriminatory acts, all emanating from the same discriminatory animus, where each act nonetheless constitutes a separate actionable wrong. Thomas v. Eastman Kodak Co., 183 *F.*3d 38, 53 (1st Cir.1999), cert denied, ____U.S.___, 120 S. Ct. 1174, 145 *L.Ed.*2d 1082 (2000); accord Bullington v. United Air Lines, Inc., supra, 186 *F.*3d at 1311.

Additionally, the Supreme Court in Wilson, supra, at 273 observed that "a significant number of courts recognize that the cumulative effect of a series of discriminatory or harassing events represents a single cause of action for tolling purposes and that the statute of limitations period does not commence until the date of the final act of harassment." See also Terry v. Mercer County Bd. of Chosen Freeholders, 173 N.J. Super. 249 (App. Div. 1980).

Accordingly, in that respondents did not raise untimely filing or laches as affirmative defenses in this matter, and given the probability that petitioner's allegations of discrimination and violations of Federal and State laws, if found to be true, would constitute a continuing violation, the Commissioner declines to apply the filing limitation of the 90-day period set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) or to apply laches in this matter.[9]

SUMMARY DECISION

After an exhaustive review of the papers filed in this matter, the Commissioner has determined that grant of summary decision to respondents is appropriate in this instance. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121-122 (App. Div. 1995) (citing Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995)), summary decision may be granted in an administrative proceeding if there is no genuine issue of material fact in dispute and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. In this regard, notwithstanding petitioner's assertion to the contrary, there are no "material facts" in dispute in this matter. Black's Law Dictionary, seventh edition, at 610-611, defines "fact" as "[a]n actual or alleged event or circumstance, as distinguished from its legal effect, consequence, or interpretation" and a "material fact" as "[a] fact that is significant or essential to the issue or matter at hand." Thus, all the issues characterized by petitioner as "genuine issues of material fact" set forth in petitioner's exceptions, i.e., whether federal and state taxpayers' money is being used under Lakewood's courtesy busing policy to foster and promote religion, discriminate against public school students, segregate public and private school students and segregate boys and girls in violation of state, federal and school laws are issues calling for a legal conclusion

[9] Notwithstanding this conclusion, the Commissioner cannot ignore that petitioner failed to file a petition with respect to Lakewood's busing policy for seven years following its revision to its present form. The busing policy at issue is neither a new busing policy nor a new burden to petitioner as a taxpayer. The Board's Policy No. 3541.31, which provides courtesy busing services to all children residing in the school district within specified distance limitations, was adopted on June 25, 1975 and revised on June 12, 1995. Petitioner was a voting member of the Board seven years ago when Lakewood's busing policy in its present form was revised and implemented. There is nothing in the record to suggest that petitioner voted against the busing policy when it was revised or that he raised any concerns at the time of the revision. Moreover, there is also nothing in the record to suggest that petitioner raised any concerns with respect to the implementation of Lakewood's busing policy during the two years he served on the Board following the revision. Nor does petitioner assert that anything has changed with respect to the busing policy or its implementation in the five years since his service on the Board. Thus, it is reasonable to conclude that petitioner bears some responsibility for the formation and the implementation of the busing policy which he now claims is contrary to State and Federal laws.

with respect to the effect, consequence or interpretation of the school's busing policy as applied, not disputed "material facts" as presented by petitioner.[10] "It is well-established that where no disputed issues of material fact exist, an administrative agency need not hold an evidential hearing in a contested case." Frank v. Ivy Club, 120 N.J. 73, 98 (1990), citing Cunningham v. Dept. of Civil Service, 69 N.J. 13, 24-25 (1975). "Moreover, disputes as to the conclusions to be drawn from the facts, as opposed to the facts themselves, will not defeat a motion for summary judgment." Contini v. Board of Education of Newark, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 196, 215, citing Lima & Sons, Inc. v. Borough of Ramsey, 269 N.J. Super. 469, 478 (App. Div. 1994); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Andrew Phillips, School District of the Borough of Roselle, Union County, Commissioner's Decision No. 129-97, decided March 20, 1997; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Neal A. Ercolano, Board of Education of Branchburg Township, Somerset County, Commissioner's Decision No. 140-00, decided May 1, 2000. Additionally, the Commissioner agrees that respondents are entitled to prevail as a matter of law for reasons provided in the Initial Decision and explicated below.

DISBURSEMENT OF FEDERAL FUNDS UNDER THE ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY ACT OF 1965

Initially, the Commissioner notes that petitioner's claim that the Lakewood School District has disbursed federal funds to finance instruction and the purchase of educational materials for use in religious and sectarian schools stems from the ALJ's findings in the matter entitled C.L. and B.L., on behalf of C.L. v. Lakewood Township Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDS 878-01, decided August 3, 2001. (Petition of Appeal at 11) As a result of the ALJ's

[10] It is noted that respondents do not dispute that some of its bus routes transport boys and girls separately to same sex Orthodox Jewish parochial schools, but points out that bus service provided to parochial schools also includes the transportation of boys and girls together to parochial schools, including an Orthodox Jewish day school. (Answer at 12) determination in that matter, the Board filed a "Plan of Compliance" with the Department of Education on March 18, 2002, which was revised on April 11, 2002 and approved by the Department of Education on April 15, 2002. (Certification of Counsel in Support of Respondents' Motion for Summary Judgment, Exhibit A, Answer at 34 and Respondents' Exhibit B Attached to Answer) In that petitioner merely quotes verbatim from the ALJ's decision in that matter (Petition of Appeal at 11, Nos. 46, 47, 48 and Affidavit of George S. Osborne in Opposition to Respondents' Motion for Summary Judgment at 4-7), and does not present any facts or allegations beyond what was resolved in that case, nor does he allege that the Board's "Plan of Compliance" approved by the Department is not being followed, the Commissioner dismisses petitioner's claim with respect to this issue.[11] Accordingly, petitioner's remaining claims all relate to the Lakewood Board's courtesy busing policy and its implementation.

JURISDICTION AND STANDING

Initially, as fully set forth by the ALJ, the Commissioner emphasizes that, to the extent that petitioner is asserting a facial constitutional challenge to Lakewood's busing policy, the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to consider his claims. (Initial Decision at 14-15) However, jurisdiction does exist to the extent that petitioner is asserting that Lakewood's Policy No. 3541.31 regarding the busing of students has been unconstitutionally applied by the Lakewood Board.[12] (Ibid.)

[11] It is noted that the ALJ did not address this issue in the Initial Decision. Neither did petitioner address this claim in his exceptions.

[12] The Commissioner notes that "[a]dministrative agencies have power to pass on constitutional issues only where relevant and necessary to the resolution of a question concededly within their jurisdiction." Christian Bros. Inst. v. No. N.J. Interschol. League, 86 N.J. 409, 416 (1981), citing to Hunterdon Cent. High Sch. Bd. of Ed. v. Hunterdon Cent. High Sch. Teachers' Ass'n, 174 N.J. Super. 468, 474-475 (App. Div. 1980), aff'd o.b., 86 N.J. 43 (1981).

With respect to the question of petitioner's standing to pursue his claims under the U.S. Constitution or Federal Laws, the Commissioner fully agrees that, with the exception of petitioner's claim that Lakewood's busing policy as applied violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment, petitioner has not established that he has standing to pursue his claims under the U.S. Constitution or Federal Laws. Notwithstanding petitioner's assertion that there is no bar to taxpayers challenging allegedly unconstitutional federal taxing and spending programs because taxpayers have a personal stake in the outcome (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4), as pointed out by the ALJ, in responding to a motion for summary judgment petitioner bears the burden of establishing specific facts showing that he has suffered an "injury in fact--an invasion of a legally protected interest"; and that, generally, people have no standing as taxpayers to claim that expenditures violate federal law or the U.S. Constitution, except when a taxpayer brings a claim that a policy as applied violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment of the Constitution. Lujan, supra, and Flast, supra. (Initial Decision at 15-16) In the instant matter, petitioner claims that he has standing to pursue his claims under the U.S. Constitution or Federal Laws solely on the basis that he is a resident taxpayer. In so doing, petitioner has presented no specific facts, only naked assertions, that he has, in fact, suffered an injury from which he is legally protected under the U.S. Constitution or Federal Laws. The Commissioner, therefore, finds that petitioner has standing only with respect to his claim that Lakewood's busing policy, as applied, violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment of the Constitution.

The Commissioner, however, disagrees with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner does not have standing with respect to his New Jersey Constitutional claims. As noted by the ALJ, the New Jersey Courts and the State administrative system have adopted a very liberal approach to standing in order to provide easy access to the legal system. (Initial Decision at 16)

In In the Matter of Camden County v. Board of Trustees of the Pub. Employees Retirement System (PERS) and William J. Simon, 170 N.J. 439, 446-447 (2002), the Supreme Court observed that:

> Only "[a] substantial likelihood of some harm visited upon the plaintiff in the event of an unfavorable decision is needed for the purposes of standing." New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce v. New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Comm'n, 82 N.J. 57, 67, 411 *A.*2d 168 (1980) (citations omitted). Generally, a person who has suffered any economic detriment as a result of an administrative agency action can gain standing for judicial review of that action without proving any unique financial damages. See Walker v. Borough of Stanhope, 23 N.J. 657, 662-63, 130 *A.*2d 372 (1957) (noting numerous decisions of courts adopting broad approach to standing where residents and taxpayers sought to set aside wrongful official action).

Thus, while petitioner in this matter is neither a student nor the parent of a student in the school district, petitioner has presented convincing arguments that, as a resident and a taxpayer, he is directly affected by the annual expenditure of 2 million dollars for courtesy busing of students in the Lakewood School District. See also West Village Civic Club, Inc. and Arthur Silverstein v. Board of Education of the Township of Manchester and Joel P. Oppenheim, Superintendent of Schools, Ocean County, decided by the State Board, June 5, 1996, where petitioning resident taxpayers were found to have standing to challenge a superintendent's contract which guaranteed an additional annual expense which had not been included in the superintendent's previous contract. Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner has demonstrated a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceedings to confer standing to pursue his New Jersey Constitutional claims.

Notwithstanding this conclusion, however, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has not met his burden of presenting specific facts to demonstrate that Lakewood's busing policy is being applied in a discriminatory manner in violation of Article I.1 and/or 5 of the New Jersey

Constitution, nor does he allege that the courtesy busing services being provided in accordance with Policy No. 3541.31 are not being provided to all students residing in Lakewood without regard to whether they attend public, private or parochial schools. Respondents aver that its bus routes are designed to transport students to their individual schools to account for varying school calendars, schedules and locations and acknowledge that, in some instances, boys and girls are transported separately because the students have chosen to attend boys only or girls only parochial schools. While it is true that this individual school transportation scheme also means that public and private students do not ride together because they attend different schools, petitioner has presented no evidence that Lakewood's busing program transporting students to their individual schools has been designed as a pretext for discrimination.

Turning to petitioner's claims of discrimination on the basis of race, gender and religion under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD), even accepting all of petitioner's statements regarding the religious and racial statistics in Lakewood as true and considering the undisputed fact that boys and girls are being transported separately to their individual schools by the Lakewood School District, as well as other information in the record, petitioner has provided no evidence of invidious discrimination. As found in Kenny, supra, at 257, "[m]ere inequality or difference in treatment does not suffice to support a charge of unconstitutional discrimination." Moreover, "a classification must be upheld under any reasonable set of facts unless there is a showing of invidious discrimination." (Ibid.) Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner has failed to establish a claim upon which relief can be granted under the LAD.[13]

[13] The Commissioner notes that petitioner did not except to the recommended dismissal of his claims under the LAD for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted as set forth in the Initial Decision.

ESTABLISHMENT CLAUSE OF THE FIRST AMENDMENT OF THE U.S. CONSTITUTION

As noted above, in that the U.S. Supreme Court has held that taxpayers have standing to challenge statutes or rules under the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has standing to pursue his Establishment Clause claim.[14] Flast, supra.

In evaluating petitioner's Establishment Clause claim, the Commissioner points out that the Courts have consistently held that governments are permitted to use tax dollars to aid religious schools as long as the aid has a secular purpose and does not have the primary effect of advancing or inhibiting religion. See Lemon, supra; Mitchell, supra, and Agostini, supra; and Initial Decision at 19. With respect to the use of tax dollars to transport students to school, the New Jersey Legislature has made it mandatory that school districts provide transportation to all students, including private and parochial school students, to and from their schools within certain specified distance requirements[15] and, additionally, has provided school districts the discretion to provide non-mandated transportation, i.e. courtesy busing, to its students. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. Moreover, as noted by the ALJ in quoting West Morris Regional Bd. of Ed., supra, "[t]he New Jersey Supreme Court has held that the Legislature has not violated the Establishment Clause by extending to a private school student, the right to transportation on the same basis on which transportation would have been available if he attended public school in his district because it is 'a measure to aid the student rather than the school he attends; its purpose and primary effect are not to advance religion.'" (Initial Decision at 22)

[15] Payment of aid in lieu thereof is permitted in certain specified circumstances.

In the instant matter, Lakewood's busing policy provides for the transportation of all resident students, including children in public, private and parochial schools, to and from his or her school within certain specified distances that are less than the distances mandated in N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, as follows:

> The Lakewood Board of Education may, in addition to other factors, take into consideration in determining authorized bus routes, the existing unsafe conditions that pupils be subjected to if required to walk.
>
> Students living in the Lakewood school district shall be entitled to transportation between their homes and schools in accordance with the following riding limits as measured portal-to-portal: kindergarten through grade 6, a distance of one mile or more; grades 7 through 8, one and one-half miles or more; and grades 9 through 12, two miles or more.
> Students, upon approval of the Superintendent of Schools or his/her designee, with at least ten (10) days prior notice, shall be transported other than between their homes and schools, when on those special occasions the destination changes due to school-related activities, provided that there is no additional cost to the district. (Answer, Exhibit I, Board's Policy No. 3541.31)

Respondents assert that this policy was instituted for student safety and that its policy applies to all students within the school district without regard to race, gender, religion or the type of school the student attends. As noted above, respondents maintain that bus routes are designed to transport students separately to their individual schools to account for varying school calendars, schedules and locations. It is undisputed that, as a result of this scheduling decision, boys and girls are, in some instances, transported separately because the students have chosen to attend boys only or girls only parochial schools. It is also undisputed that all students in the school district, whether public, private, or parochial, are provided transportation services separately to their individual schools in the same manner.

Moreover, petitioner presents no facts to contravene Lakewood's explanation that its decision to provide courtesy busing services to its students is because of safety concerns, nor has petitioner offered facts that would support a conclusion that the implementation of Lakewood's busing policy is a pretext for some non-secular purpose or that the busing policy has the primary effect of advancing or inhibiting religion. Petitioner's arguments primarily focus on the expense of providing courtesy busing and the makeup of the population in Lakewood and his perception that the Orthodox Jewish children benefit disproportionately from Lakewood's busing policy due to the large Orthodox Jewish population. While this may be true, there is nothing in the record to suggest that Lakewood does not offer the same transportation services to all children in the school district, without regard to religion, so the mere fact that significant numbers of the children in Lakewood attend parochial schools as a result of parental choice does not establish that the busing policy at issue and its implementation has a non-secular purpose. Even construing the facts and the inferences therefrom in the light most favorable to petitioner, therefore, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner has not shown that respondents' application of its busing policy violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

Finally, the Commissioner recognizes petitioner's frustration that 4 million dollars (2 million dollars of which is spent for courtesy busing) is spent to bus children to and from school each year and acknowledges that this expenditure has an impact on the taxpayers in Lakewood. However, even if petitioner would prefer to eliminate the 2 million dollar expense to provide courtesy busing services for students or choose to spend this money in a different manner, N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.1 provides boards of education with the authority (but not the obligation) to provide courtesy busing services. Thus, it is the Lakewood Board, as elected representatives of the community, which is vested with the discretion to make the determination as to whether to provide non-mandated busing services.

Accordingly, in that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that Lakewood's Busing Policy No. 3541.31 and its implementation are contrary to law, respondents' motion for summary decision is granted and the petition in the instant matter is dismissed for the reasons set forth above.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [16]

INITIAL DECISION

OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2800-03

Agency Ref. No. 53-2/03

CAMDEN CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Petitioner,

v.

DARIN MCDONALD,

Respondent.

Karen A. Murray, Esq., for petitioner (Murray and Murray, attorneys)

Keith Waldman, Esq., for respondent (Selikoff and Cohen, PA, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 22, 2003 Decided: August 28, 2003

BEFORE ANA C. VISCOMI, ALJ:

Respondent has filed a letter brief in support of its motion to dismiss the tenure charges in lieu of filing an answer in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10. The basis for which respondent seeks to dismiss the tenure charges is respondent's contention that the charges were not properly certified by the Camden Board of Education in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Respondent's motion is hereby DENIED for reasons set forth below.

I FIND the following to be the facts with regard to the pending motion. A special Board of Education meeting was held on February 5, 2003. Seven of nine Board members were present. In accordance with the Tenure Employee Hearing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, the Board deliberated the charges and voted on the issues of certification and suspension in closed session. Furthermore, in accordance with an established procedure, one Board member moved to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education and another member seconded the motion. In the context of the closed session, the Board Secretary conducted a roll call and recorded the votes of all seven members present on an official voting sheet. All seven members present voted in favor of certifying the charges to the Commissioner.

Respondent asserts that the charges were not properly certified by the Board in that the resolution indicating the charges were certified by a recorded roll call vote of a majority of the members at the special meeting on February 5, 2003 does not indicate that such a vote was taken. Relying upon N.J.A.C. 18A:6-11, respondent asserts the charges must be dismissed as the Board's official minutes of that meeting contradict the claim in that no such vote is recorded. In addition, respondent asserts that as Camden is subject to the Municipal Rehabilitation and Recovery Act, N.JS.A 52:27BBB-63i., every official Board action must comport with the requirements of the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq.

Respondent's rationale is rejected. The Tenure Employee Hearing Act at N.J.S.A 18A:6-11 requires that the considerations and actions of the Board as to any charge "shall not take place at a public meeting." The Open Public Meetings Act has not been frustrated as the Board complied with the procedural requirements at the special meeting held on February 5, 2003. Had the minutes of the meeting included the Board's deliberation and vote, the Board would have been in violation of the Tenure Employee Hearing Act. The regulations promulgated pursuant to the Tenure Employee Hearing Act at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.2(a) provides that:

> the certificate of determination which accompanies the written charges shall contain a certification by the district Board of Education secretary or the state district superintendent:
> 1. that the district board of education of the state district superintendent has determined that the charges and evidence in support of the charges are sufficient, if true in fact, to warrant dismissal or a reduction of salaries;
>
> 2. are the date, place and time of the meeting at which such determination was made and whether or not the employee was suspended and, if so, whether such suspension was with or without pay;
>
> 3. that such determination was made by a majority vote of the whole number of members of the district board of education or by the state district superintendent in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7a-39; and
> 4. in the case of a charge of inefficiency, that the employee was given at least 90 days prior notice of the nature and particulars of the alleged inefficiency.

Petitioner complied with the statute and regulations. Section 9 of the Introductory Statement to the Open Public Meetings Act provides in pertinent part that > Minutes must be promptly available to the public, except for the material covering meetings or portions of meetings closed to the public.

Based on the foregoing, respondent's motion to dismiss in lieu of filing answer is hereby DENIED and respondent is directed to file an answer to the petition and this matter shall be returned to the Commissioner for a determination on the sufficiency of the charges.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the determination of the Administrative Law Judge that the instant tenure charges are not appropriately dismissed on procedural grounds. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Caricella Major, School District of the City of Orange, 1991 S.L.D. 1143; also see In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Thomas L. Puryear, School District of the City of Newark, 1977 S.L.D. 934.

It is noted that prior to the issuance of the Commissioner's decision herein, respondent submitted an Answer to the underlying tenure charges in this matter. Subsequent to receipt of respondent's Answer, the Commissioner reviewed the tenure charges and deems them sufficient, if true, to warrant respondent's dismissal or reduction in salary.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted. This matter is being transmitted to the OAL, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 1998, c. 42, for adjudication.

Record Closed: August 21, 2003 Decided: September 3, 2003

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

This matter arises from filing of tenure charges by the New Jersey Department of Human Services ("petitioner"), against Marlene L. Kamler ("respondent") for excessive absenteeism. The case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") from the Department of Education on January 9, 2003, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

The parties agreed to a settlement of all issues in dispute and have prepared a Settlement Agreement, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of the Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1.18 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-14F-1 to 15.

This Settlement is made between Marlene Kamler, employee (appellant), and the New Jersey Department of Human Services, Agency. The parties agree to settle this matter in accordance with the following terms:

1. The appellant Marlene Kamler will withdraw her appeal of the Certificate of Determination of Tenure Charges assessing a ten day suspension without pay.

2. The respondent shall reduce the suspension from ten days without pay to five days without pay. The Agency shall within a reasonable time, reimburse the appellant for 5 days back pay or $1,158.23.

3. Both parties agree to fully comply with the provisions of the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act ("FMLA"). The Agency acknowledges that the FMLA provides for intermittant leave.

4. The parties hereto stipulate that this agreement shall fully dispose of all issues in controversy between them with regard to this matter.

5. The personnel file for the appellant shall be amended to reflect the provisions of this settlement.

6. This settlement shall not constitute a precedent in any other matter involving another employee.

7. Nothing in this agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party. The disciplinary penalty cited in this agreement may be utilized in determining the appropriate penalty in future disciplinary actions.

8. This agreement will only become effective when it is approved by the Department of Education. Any disapproval by the Department shall operate to return the parties to the status quo pre-agreement

9. The parties waive the right to file exceptions and cross-exceptions.

Authorization has been given by the Department of Human Services to agree to this settlement; the parties have read this settlement agreement and freely and voluntarily agree to its provisions.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged her daughter's record of suspensions and discipline.

The ALJ concluded that the Board demonstrated that there were no genuine issues of material fact requiring a hearing and that the Board was entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Some of the allegations were time barred (strip search and harassment by a bus driver) while other allegations failed since the Board proved it acted within its authority and its decisions were entitled to a presumption of correctness (dress code, assault and detention matters). The ALJ granted the Board's Motion for Summary Decision and dismissed the Petition of Appeal.

The Commissioner determined that to the extent he has jurisdiction to hear and decide this matter, he concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. He determined, however, that the evidence later placed on the record concerning J.J.B.'s classification for special education indicated that this matter was not properly before the Commissioner. The petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: July 28, 2003 Decided: September 11, 2003

BEFORE JOSEPH F. FIDLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner R.P. filed papers with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education on November 13 and 27, 2002, and January 8, 2003, that together were deemed to constitute a verified Petition of Appeal. Respondent Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster filed an Answer to the Petition of Appeal on February 10, 2003. Respondent Barker Bus Company did not submit an Answer. On March 6, 2003, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, and a prehearing conference was held on June 13, 2003. Petitioner's core challenge concerns her daughter J.J.B.'s record of discipline and suspensions, and she alleges various incidents that she asserts demonstrate that respondents have conspired against J.J.B., have harassed her, and have punished her excessively.

Respondent Board of Education has moved for summary decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, asserting that there are no genuine issues of material fact and that it is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Petitioner responded in opposition to the motion, and respondent Board thereafter filed a reply to petitioner's papers. On July 28, 2003, I determined that all of the papers on the motion for summary decision had been received, and the record closed on that date.

DISCUSSION

Petitioner's request for relief alleges that J.J.B. was given excessive punishment as compared to other children on one occasion during the 2001-02 school year and on two occasions in October 2002. Petitioner further alleges that Diane Schmidt, Interim Principal of the Bedminster School, improperly questioned J.J.B. about an assault allegedly committed by J.J.B. at the A&P, that at the end of the 2001-02 school year, J.J.B. was strip-searched by school personnel after a student had told them that J.J.B. was in possession of marijuana, and that several years ago, J.J.B. was verbally harassed by a bus driver of the Barker Bus Company, with which the Board had contracted for student transportation services.

In its moving papers, the Board set forth the following facts, supported by the affidavits of its employees, Interim Principal Diane Schmidt, and Andrew Rinko, Ed.D., Superintendent of Schools:

> During the 2002-03 school year, J.J.B. was a seventh grade student at the Bedminster School, a public school operated by the Board. On or about October 11, 2002, J.J.B. was issued a one day out-of-school suspension for being disrespectful towards authority figures. In late > October of 2002, J.J.B. was issued a ten day out-of-school suspension after she hit a male student on the back of his head, causing the child to suffer a recurrence of a previous head injury. The decision to suspend J.J.B. for a period of ten days was made by the Interim Principal in consultation with the Superintendent of Schools and the school's child study team. Petitioner does not deny that J.J.B. engaged in the misconduct which resulted in her suspensions. See November 6, 2002 Petition.

> Prior to the October suspensions, J.J.B. had engaged in other misconduct earlier in the 2002-03 school year for which she had not been suspended. The suspensions of J.J.B. in October were based solely upon J.J.B.'s misconduct and were not excessive as compared to discipline received by other students of the Bedminster School.
> In November of 2002, J.J.B. and her mother moved out of the Bedminster Public School District. J.J.B. no longer attends school in the District. Upon transfer of a student to a school outside of the District, the Board forwards the student's academic records to the new school. The Board generally does not transmit the student's disciplinary records to the new school.

The Board contends on several grounds that it is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. First, it asserts that petitioner's claims are moot. Petitioner and her minor daughter moved out of the District on or about November 14, 2002, just after filing the petition in the present matter. Since there is no continuing relationship between J.J.B. and the Board, the Board's actions regarding J.J.B. are not capable of being repeated. The Board cites Spivak v. Westwood Regional High School District, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 270, 272, for the proposition that an action is considered moot when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the issues involved have become academic. A case is moot when a determination is sought on a matter which, when rendered, cannot have any practical effect on the existing controversy.

The Board also contends that most of petitioner's claims are time-barred, and therefore must be dismissed. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), a petition of appeal must be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." Thus, petitioner's claims regarding a suspension occurring during the 2001-02 school year, a strip-search occurring during the 2001-02 school year, and harassment of J.J.B. by a bus driver several years ago are time-barred and must be dismissed. For the same reason, petitioner's claims against Barker Bus Company are time barred and must be dismissed.

The Board further contends that to the extent any of petitioner's claims are deemed to be neither moot nor time barred, those claims must nevertheless be dismissed since they do not constitute claims upon which relief can be granted. Specifically, the only claims raised by petitioner that may be in compliance with the 90-day limitation concern the two suspensions given to J.J.B. in October 2002, and the allegation that Interim Principal Schmidt questioned J.J.B. regarding an assault allegedly committed by J.J.B. at an A&P. As to the latter claim, although the Board denies that the questioning actually occurred, such questioning of a student regarding an assault that allegedly involved the student is well within the scope of a school principal's authority, regardless of where the alleged assault occurred. In re State in the Interest of G.C., 121 N.J. Super. 108, 117 (J. & D. R. Ct. 1972).

With regard to petitioner's claims concerning the October 2002 suspensions, a local board of education has the authority to impose discipline upon the students under its care, and the decision of a local board as to the appropriate penalty to be imposed upon a student for a disciplinary infraction should not be disturbed absent evidence that the board's action was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. In J.D. and E.D. obo B.D. v. Bd. of Ed. of Toms River Reg. Sch. Dist., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6009-97 (February 17, 1998), the Commissioner of Education adopted the determination of the administrative law judge granting summary decision in favor of the local board of education:

> Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board's motion for summary decision may be properly granted. Even accepting as true the facts alleged by petitioners the Commissioner finds that they have failed to meet their burden of proving that the Board's decision to suspend B.D. for one day, out of school, is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. In this regard, the Commissioner underscores the ALJ's observation that B.D.'s use of profanity was the result of her own exercise of free will in her choice of words, and may not be viewed as an act of "self-defense," deserving of a lesser penalty.

The Board further notes that under the New Jersey School Laws, suspensions may be imposed for continued or willful disobedience, open defiance of authority, physical assault on another pupil, as well as other forms of student misconduct. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2. Significantly, petitioner does not deny that J.J.B. engaged in the misconduct for which she was suspended in October 2002. The Board argues moreover that petitioner has presented no evidence to support her conclusory allegation that J.J.B. was disciplined more severely than other students, and emphasizes that, in light of the severity of J.J.B.'s misconduct, petitioner cannot show that the suspensions were arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

The Board's final argument in its moving papers is that petitioner is not entitled to the relief she seeks in her petition. Petitioner requests that the Commissioner permanently remove Interim Principal Schmidt from her position with the Bedminster School and charge her with harassment and conspiracy against an emotionally disabled child. The Board notes that non-tenured certificated staff of a local board of education, such as Mrs. Schmidt, may be removed from their employment by the local board only upon the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). The Commissioner has no authority to remove a non-tenured building principal from her position, and has no authority to charge a school employee with "harassment" and "conspiracy," as these are criminal charges under N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4 and N.J.S.A. 2C:5-2, respectively, over which the Commissioner would have no jurisdiction. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Petitioner also requests financial relief. However, the Board asserts that the Commissioner of Education's authority to award monetary damages is very limited, occurring in cases such as those seeking lost earnings or restoration of an increment improperly withheld. Spivak, supra, at 272. There is no authority to award monetary damages in circumstances such as those present in this case.

In her response to the motion for summary decision, petitioner disagreed with respondent Board's legal arguments that her claims are moot, time barred, or not susceptible to relief by the Commissioner. She further stated in her brief that she charges the respondents with the following:

1. Mrs. Schmidt harassing J.J.B. and S.B. about "headbands being gang related" because they wore a headband to School on or about October, 2002 when other children wore Headbands without anyone saying anything. Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Fitzmaurice were present with Petitioner. Testimony is required in trial.

2. Mrs. Schmidt harassing J.J.B. and asking her to confess to assault about A&P incident which was a non-school incident because "she was part of a gang in that incident" around October, 2002. Mrs. Schmidt stated "Sometimes children are good, but when they get together they do things they normally would not do by themselves" on October, 2002, with Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Fitzmaurice were present with Petitioner. Testimony is required in trial.

3. Fabricating story about J.J.B. giving child [J.G.] receiving a head injury from child play slap. J.J.B. was suspended for 10 days for this alleged injury under false pretences. I will subpoena Mr. and Mrs. [G.] to court for the trial to get their testimony on this story. BOE has not furnished any facts about any other child that suspended for 10 days at Bedminster for doing anything.

4. Stating that J.J.B. is a "violent child" to fit conspiracy and discrimination against children story in Bedminster on October, 2002 with Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Fitzmaurice were present with Petitioner. These people need to testify in a trial.

5. In June 2002 J.J.B. was required to pull her pants down and searched because a child falsely accused her of having marijuana. Mrs. Fitzmaurice, Mrs. Shabot, and Mr. Beltramba need to testify in a trial. Report by DYFS take by Ms. Stephanie Wilson about June 30, 2002 will support this fact in trial. Report taken by James Gregory in May, 2003 will state his finds in this Institutional Abuse complaint by the Petitioner.

6. J.J.B. was accused of her "kid's tattoo" being gang related by Mrs. Schmidt with Petitioner, Mrs. Roth, and Mrs. Fitzmaurice present in October, 2002. These witnesses need to testify.

7. Mrs. Schmidt stating harassing remark about J.J.B. "When children act like this their parents take them to St. Clairs Hospital," with Petitioner, Mrs. Roth, and Mrs. Fitzmaurice present in October, 2002. These people need to testify in a trial.

8. During the school year 2000/2001 J.J.B. was continually harassed by the Barker Bus Company driver. Mr. Beltramba did not investigate the bus driver's story and kept issuing bus suspensions.

A parent [M.M.] came forward and said J.J.B. was not doing anything except the first time with the bus driver. BOE or Barker Bus Company did nothing to apologize to J.J.B. or issue any punishment to the driver. She was extremely upset and punished over and over for something she did not do. J.J.B. was given cruel and excessive punishment for something she did not do over and over again.

9. In the school year 2002, J.J.B. was given a detention for waiving to a teacher during a detention. This is excessive and cruel punishment to an emotional disabled child.

10. J.J.B. was sent to the office for saying "I found my paper" in a loud voice. This is excessive punishment.

11. J.J.B.'s disciplinary records were transferred to the new school where the original suspension notice in blue pen signed by Diane Schmidt sits in her file. There are other documents written by hand without any signature or any indication who wrote them they look extremely suspiciously false. There are multiple copies of one disciplinary sheet that was copied and whited out to look like there were occurrences of this document.

In its reply to petitioner's opposition brief, respondent Board argues that none of the eleven separate allegations requires an evidentiary hearing, either because the allegations are stale and barred by the applicable statute of limitations, or because the allegations, even if accepted as true, do not constitute a claim upon which relief can be granted. The Board further contends that it is entitled to summary decision based upon the arguments set forth in its initial brief. I agree.

Summary decision may be granted by an administrative law judge "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). This evidence is to be considered in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). The essential question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536. The rationale behind the procedure is clear. Summary decision is: > designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method of disposing of any cause which a discriminating search of the merits in the pleadings, depositions and admissions on file, together with the affidavits submitted on the motion, clearly shows not to present any genuine issue of material fact requiring disposition at a trial. Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

As respondent aptly argued, some of petitioner's claims are time barred, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), because her petition of appeal was filed subsequent to the expiration of the 90-day limitation. The first petition document was filed November 13, 2002. Thus, the claims concerning discipline and a strip search allegedly occurring during the school year ending in June 2002 are time barred and must be dismissed. I so CONCLUDE. For the same reason, I CONCLUDE petitioner's allegations regarding harassment by a bus driver and claims against Barker Bus Company from previous years are time barred and must be dismissed. Petitioner was aware of each of the actions or events at the time they occurred; yet she failed to file a petition of appeal within the requisite 90-day limitation.

It is axiomatic that when a local board of education acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness. The Board's decision may not be disturbed absent a finding that it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Petitioner's claims that are not time barred must be evaluated in this context.

As to petitioner's claim that J.J.B. was asked to remove her headband on the basis that it appeared to be gang related attire, such an action would be well within the authority of a local board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-9 provides in part that a board of education may adopt a dress code to prohibit students from wearing on school property any type of clothing, apparel or accessory which indicates that the student has membership in, or affiliation with, any gang associated with criminal activities. In the absence of evidence showing that respondent Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner, petitioner cannot prevail on this claim as a matter of law and it should be dismissed. I so CONCLUDE. By the same reasoning, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's claim that J.J.B. was accused of wearing a gang related tattoo should be dismissed.

It is well within the scope of a school principal's authority to question a student regarding an assault in which the student was allegedly involved. In re State in the Interest of G.C., 121 N.J. Super. 108, 117 (J. & D. R. Ct. 1972). So, even if Interim Principal Schmidt actually questioned J.J.B. about an alleged assault, which the Board denies, I CONCLUDE that petitioner cannot prevail on this claim as a matter of law and it should be dismissed. Respondent Board also denies petitioner's allegations that Mrs. Schmidt stated that J.J.B. is a "violent child" and that "when children act like this their parents take them to St. Clair's Hospital." Even if these statements were made, petitioner has not shown how they are beyond the scope of authority of the Board's employee. These do not constitute claims upon which relief may be granted, and I CONCLUDE these claims should be dismissed.

On or about October 11, 2002, while she was a seventh grade student at the Bedminster School, J.J.B. was issued a one day, out-of-school suspension for being disrespectful towards authority figures. Petitioner acknowledges that her daughter was openly defiant. Later that month, J.J.B. was issued a ten day out-of-school suspension after she hit another student on the back of his head. While petitioner disputes the degree of injury J.J.B. caused the other child to suffer, she admits that this misconduct occurred. The decision to suspend J.J.B. for a period of ten days was made by the Interim Principal in consultation with the Superintendent of Schools and the school's child study team. The suspension decisions are authorized by the New Jersey School Laws, which provide that suspensions may be imposed for continued or willful disobedience, open defiance of authority, physical assault on another pupil, as well as other forms of student misconduct. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2. Absent any evidence in this matter that could support a conclusion that the Board's action was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, the decision of the local board as to the appropriate penalty to be imposed for these disciplinary infractions should not be disturbed. Petitioner cannot prevail on her claims regarding the suspensions as a matter of law and they should be dismissed. I so CONCLUDE.

In regard to petitioner's allegations that J.J.B. was excessively punished by a detention for waiving to a teacher while in detention, and by being sent to the office for saying "I found my paper," it is well settled that a local board of education has the authority to discipline its students. Given the presumption of correctness that applies to the Board's actions, such discipline should not be overturned absent evidence that the actions were arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

There is no such evidence here, so I CONCLUDE that petitioner cannot prevail as a matter of law and these claims should be dismissed.

Petitioner and J.J.B. moved out of the Bedminster School District in November 2002. Petitioner alleges in her response to the motion for summary decision that J.J.B.'s disciplinary records were transferred to her new school. Such a transfer would be in accordance with the law's requirements. N.J.S.A. 18A:36-25.1(b) provides that when a child transfers from one school district to another, the receiving school shall obtain the child's school record from the district from which the child has transferred. The school district of last attendance shall provide to the receiving district all information in the child's record related to disciplinary actions taken against the child by the district, and written consent of the parent shall not be required as a condition of the transfer of information. Thus, petitioner's assertion does not constitute a claim for which relief can be granted.

Petitioner is not entitled to the relief she seeks in her petition. Her request that the Commissioner permanently remove Interim Principal Schmidt from her position with the Bedminster School and charge her with harassment and conspiracy cannot be granted. Non-tenured certificated staff of a local board of education, such as Mrs. Schmidt, may be removed from their employment by the local board only upon the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). The Commissioner has no authority to remove a non-tenured building principal from her position, and the Commissioner is also without jurisdiction to bring criminal charges against a school employee under N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4 or N.J.S.A. 2C:5-2 for harassment or conspiracy. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Finally, petitioner's claims gain no greater legal sufficiency for being accompanied by a claim for monetary damages, inasmuch as such damages cannot be awarded by the Commissioner. Spivak v. Westwood Regional High School District, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 270, 272.

Based upon the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that respondent Board has demonstrated that there are no genuine issues of material fact requiring a hearing and that it is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Therefore, respondent Board's Motion for Summary Decision is GRANTED and I ORDER that the Petition of Appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BEDMINSTER, SOMERSET COUNTY, AND BARKER BUS COMPANY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by Petition of Appeal and a letter requesting emergent relief dated November 13, 2002. By letter dated November 14, 2002 from the New Jersey Department of Education, petitioner was apprised of the deficiencies in her petition and request for emergent relief. Additionally, due to the nature of her claims, petitioner was specifically advised therein:

> that to the extent any issues related to your claim(s) herein implicate education programming and services regulated by Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and/or the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), any such claim must be pursued before the Office of Special Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1 et seq. (Letter from Director, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes at 2)

A copy of the letter was also sent to the Board Secretary, Superintendent and County Superintendent. Thereafter, although petitioner perfected her Petition of Appeal, she did not file a proper application for emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. Neither did petitioner clarify, amend or withdraw her petition in response to the Director's advisement, noted above.

The Board filed its Answer with Separate Defenses on February 6, 2003.[1] Notably, although the Answer addressed petitioner's substantive claims regarding the discipline issued to J.J.B. as raised in the Petition of Appeal, the Board did not indicate that J.J.B. had been classified while attending school in its District. Neither did the Board raise, within its Separate Defenses, the issue of the Commissioner's jurisdiction herein. Therefore, this matter was transmitted to the OAL for proceedings.

While at the OAL, the following evidence was placed on the record:

- A copy of a report from an IEP conference held for J.J.B. April 11, 2002, when J.J.B. was in sixth grade. The report indicates that J.J.B. is "eligible for special education services in the category of Emotionally Disturbed based on her initial assessment and eligibility of 4/6/01." (Bedminster Township School District IEP, received by the OAL on May 1, 2003 and again on May 28, 2003)
- A letter dated November 1, 2002 from Joyce Fitzmaurice, Director of Student Services for the Board, to petitioner, stating, in pertinent part:

> As [J.J.B.] has been suspended for more than ten days this academic year, it is required that we hold a "manifestation determination" meeting to address such issues as to the appropriateness of [J.J.B.'s] IEP and placement and whether her behavior is manifestation of her disability.
> We will hold this meeting on Monday, November 11th, at 9:00 a.m. [J.J.B.'s] teachers, the Child Study Team, the principal and I will be present. You are invited to attend. (Fitzmaurice's Letter, November 1, 2002, received by OAL on May 28, 2003)

[1] The delay in filing an Answer was due to petitioner's improper service of the Petition of Appeal.

- A letter dated November 20, 2002 from Joyce Fitzmaurice, enclosing a copy of the manifestation determination that was developed at the aforementioned meeting, wherein it was found that J.J.B.'s "behavior is judged to be a manifestation of her disability."[2] (Fitzmaurice's Letter and Report, November 20, 2002, received by OAL on May 28, 2003)

- An Affidavit dated April 23, 2003 from Diane Schmidt, Interim Principal of the Bedminster School, affirming, in pertinent part:

> In late October of 2002, J.J.B. was issued a ten (10) day out of school suspension after she hit a male student on the back of his head, causing the child to suffer a recurrence of a previous head injury. The decision to suspend J.J.B. for a period of ten (10) days was made by me in consultation with the Superintendent of Schools as well as the Director of the Child Study Team. (Brief on Behalf of Respondent Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster In Support of Motion for Summary Decision Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, Affidavit of Diane Schmidt at 2)

Upon careful review of the record as supplemented at the OAL, the Commissioner determines that to the extent he has jurisdiction to hear and decide this matter, he concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. However, notwithstanding the parties' silence in their initial pleadings as to J.J.B.'s classification for special education, a fact which is of paramount importance when considering student discipline issues, the evidence later placed on this record strongly indicates that this matter is not properly before the Commissioner.[3] I.D. and M.D. on Behalf of C.D. v. Board of Education of the Township of Hazlet, Monmouth County, State Board Decision April 2, 1997; s*ee also*, East Brunswick Board of Education v. New Jersey

[2] Petitioner was not listed as attending the meeting.

[3] The Commissioner so concludes, notwithstanding that the record additionally contains a letter dated July 10, 2003 from petitioner to respondent's counsel, wherein petitioner states, in pertinent part, "Let me also remind out [sic] that JJB is not classified as an emotionally disturbed child. (Letter from Petitioner to Paul Green, Esq., July 10, 2003, received by the OAL on July 11, 2003)

State Board of Education, EHLR DEC. 554:122 (DCNJ 1982); A.N. v. Clark Bd. of Ed., 6 N.J.A.R. 360 (1983).

Accordingly, the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

BEFORE W. TODD MILER, ALJ:

On May 12, 2003, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes of the Department of Education referred the present matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14-B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The Commissioner requested that an administrative law judge be assigned to conduct a hearing. The Director of the Office of Administrative Law assigned the matter to me to hear. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5(o).

The hearing was secheulded for July 7, 2003. Prior to a hearing, the parties conferred and arrived at a settlement agreement, and the terms were reduced to writing in the attached stipulation of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached stipulation of settlement. (Signed by petitioner on July 20, 2003 and respondent on August 5, 2003 and thereafter filed with this ALJ on September 8, 2003)

2. The settlement fully disposes of all the issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. THIS MATTER having come before the Honorable W. Todd Miller, A.L.J. by way of a telephonic pre-hearing conference with Carla Barnhart, petitioner, appearing and Gary M. Salber, Esquire, of Karr and Salber, appearing on behalf of the Pennsville Township Board of Education and the parties having reached an agreement for settlement with the terms of settlement set forth hereinafter.

1. If petitioner establishes a bona fide residence within the Township of Pennsville by August 18, 2003, her children, C.B. and J.B. shall be permitted to continue enrollment in the Pennsville Township School District and the Pennsville Township Board of Education will not seek reimbursement for any past tuition for said children.

2. In the event that the petitioner has not established a bona fide residence within the Township of Pennsville by August 18, 2003, Carla Barnhart shall have said children's records transferred to the Penns Grove/Carneys Point Township School District and that in said event the Pennsville Township Board of Education shall not seek reimbursement for past tuition in regard to said children.

3. Said children shall not be permitted to attend the Pennsville Township School District if said bona fide residency within the Township of Pennsville has not been established by August 18, 2003.

4. This Stipulation of Settlement resolves all issues concerning this matter.

The record, Stipulation of Settlement and Release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the President[1] of the Pennsville Township Board of Education signed the Stipulation of Settlement and Release on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the settlement agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the Board President to sign the agreement on its behalf, and the agreement is not signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement agreement.

[1] The Commissioner notes that the proposed settlement agreement does not identify the name and title of the person signing the agreement on behalf of the Board, nor is the Commissioner able to discern the name of the person signing on behalf of the Board from the signature. However, a letter in the file from counsel for the Board states:

> Enclosed please find original and two (2) copies of the Stipulation of Settlement which has been signed by both (C.B.) and the President of the Pennsville Township Board of Education in connection with the above-referenced matter. (Board Counsel's Letter of August 5, 2003)

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Stipulation of Settlement and Release consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 11, 2002, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled on September 12, 2003. Prior to the date of hearing the parties agreed to settle this matter. The attached Settlement Agreement was submitted indicating the terms of agreement which are incorporated herein by reference.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement is made this 24 day of July, 2003, by and between the Village of Ridgewood Board of Education ("Board"), and J.K. and S.K. o/b/o of minor child, D.K. ("Petitioners").

RECITAL

WHEREAS, the Board and Petitioners have been involved in a Litigation styled, J.K. and S.K. o/b/o of minor child, D.K. v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, Docket No.: EDU DS-09074-02M (hereinafter referred to as "the Litigation"); and

WHEREAS, the Board and Petitioners desire to resolve amicably and in good faith all matters and issues arising out of the Litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing and in consideration of their respective rights and obligations set forth herein and for other good and sufficient consideration, receipt of which is hereby acknowledge, the Board and Petitioners agree as follows:

ARTICLE I

WITHDRAWAL OF PETITION

For its obligations pursuant to this agreement, Petitioners hereby withdraw the Litigation styled J.K. and S.K. o/b/o of minor child, D.K. v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, Docket No.: EDU DS-09074-02M.

ARTICLE II

TERMS OF SETTLEMENT

2.1 Consideration - As consideration of Petitioner's withdrawal of the Litigation as set forth herein, the Board hereby rescinds the suspension of Petitioners' minor child that is underlying the cause of the Litigation. The Board has signed a letter on its letterhead attached hereto stating that the suspension of the child that took place on or about May 9, 2002, is hereby rescinded.

ARTICLE III

MISCELLANEOUS

3.1. Entire Agreement – This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement between the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes any and all prior agreements relating thereto. There are no other understandings or agreements between or among the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof, except to set forth herein, and as set forth in any other documents executed directly or in connection with this Agreement. No condition or provision of this Agreement may be modified, waived or revised in any way except in writing executed by all parties and referring specifically to this Agreement.

3.3. No Admissions – Nothing contained in this Agreement shall be construed to constitute an admission or acknowledgment by any party hereto of any wrongful or improper conduct, nor of any liability to any other party.

3.4 Binding Effect – This Agreement and all rights and duties set forth herein shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto, as well as their respective successors and assigns.

3.5 Governing Law and Choice of Forum – This Agreement and its interpretation and performance shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey, without giving effect to its conflicts of law rules.

3.6 Partial Invalidity – In the event any provision of this Agreement is held to be contrary to or invalid under the laws of any country, state, municipality or other jurisdiction, such illegality or invalidity shall not affect in any way any of the other provisions hereof, all of which shall continue in full force and effect.

3.7 Captions – The captions set forth in this Agreement are intended solely for the parties' convenience and ease of reference and are not intended to modify, limit, describe or affect in any way the scope, content or intent or this Agreement.

3.8 Signature in Counterpart - This Agreement may be executed simultaneously in counterparts, each of which shall be deemed to be an original, but all of which shall constitute one and the same instrument.

3.9 Authorization - The undersigned officer of the Board hereby represents that he/she is fully authorized by the Board to execute this agreement on the Board's behalf.

3.10 Investigations - The parties to this Agreement acknowledge and agree that they have entered into this Agreement and have executed it without duress or coercion, and have done so with the opportunity to consult counsel. Each party further acknowledges and agrees that no other party has made representations, warranties, promises or agreements not set forth herein and no party relies in any way upon any representation, warranty, statement of fact or opinion, understanding, disclosure or non-disclosure not set forth herein in entering into this Agreement and executing it, no party has been induced in any way, except for the consideration, representations, warranties, statements and covenants recited herein, to enter into this Agreement.

3.11 Construction and Enforcement - The terms of this Agreement are the product of negotiations between the parties, and shall be construed without regard to any presumption or other rule requiring construction against the party causing this Agreement to be drafted.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Agreement on the date above written.

The record, Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the Director of Human Resources of the Ridgewood Board of Education signed the Settlement Agreement on behalf of the Board.[1] In that neither the file nor the settlement agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the Director of Human Resources to sign the agreement on its behalf, and the agreement is not signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement agreement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

[1] Notwithstanding the provision in Item 3.9 of the Settlement Agreement that states that "The undersigned officer of the Board hereby represents that he/she is fully authorized by the Board to execute this agreement on the Board's behalf," the Board's attorney is the only individual who may sign on behalf of the Board without submission of a Board resolution approving the settlement.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was initiated by the petitioners D.T. and M.T. instituting a motion for emergency relief seeking to bar the imposition of a five-day bus suspension for their child, N.T., pending appeal of the matter on a plenary basis. This suspension is scheduled to commence tomorrow, Wednesday, October 22, 2003. The matter was heard commencing at 1:00 p.m. in the afternoon of the preceding day, October 21, 2003, the morning having been set aside for in-depth in chambers discussions which weren't successful in respect to a settlement. Nevertheless, the Board has withdrawn and will formally do so by letter of counsel all other disciplinary actions pending against N.T. occurring during the 2002-2003 school year. That includes the withdrawal of a matter already and currently pending before the OAL docketed EDU 470-03. At my request, counsel will submit a formal letter of withdrawal as soon as possible.

The current motion for emergency relief seeks to stay the implementation of a five-day school bus suspension imposed upon N.T. based upon conduct allegedly committed by him on a school bus on October 7, 2003. The supportive documentation in respect to that conduct has been provided by the Board via affidavits of the bus driver as well as by the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional Board of Education principal of the middle school. The Zimmerman Affidavit notes that she has been employed with the District as a school bus driver and that she was, in fact, performing her duties on October 7, 2003 when the incident occurred at approximately 2:30 p.m. There is no dispute that N.T. was a passenger on the bus. The bus had been parked along the curb of the middle school loading students to return them to their bus stops and allow them to go home. The rear emergency roof hatch had been opened approximately three inches above the bus roof for purposes of ventilation only. Zimmerman alleges that when N.T. entered the bus, N.T. wanted to shut the rear emergency roof hatch. Zimmerman told him not to touch the roof hatch. N.T. did not listen to her and turned the red handle of the emergency roof hatch "causing the roof hatch to open as an emergency exit and setting off an alarm." Zimmerman Affidavit, Paragraph 4. As a consequence, it was necessary for the District's safety coordinator to reset the hatch in order to turn off the emergency alarm.

She further alleges that following this incident, she proceeded on her bus route and N.T. proceeded to exit the bus at a stop which was not his. Zimmerman attests that she admonished him two or three times to return to the bus but N.T. refused. He had neither permission nor authority to get off the bus at a stop other than his bus stop.

As an incident to the affidavit, Ms. Zimmerman and the respondent submitted a bus conduct report dated the date of the incident, October 7, 2003, and attached to the affidavit. In the report, Zimmerman notes in handwriting, "I had the emergency door and roof opened for air, he [illegible] back windows and wanted to shut emergency door. I told him not to touch it but he didn't listen. He released the door completely from bus using red handle. Then [N.T.] got off bus" at a stop other than his own despite admonition by the driver to the contrary. The affidavit submitted by Nancy Mahoney, the principal of the middle school, indicates that when she became aware of the allegations set forth by Ms. Zimmerman, she concluded that N.T.'s conduct violated school policy 3711-3-R. That policy, which is attached to the affidavit, sets out the parameters of students' conduct on the bus and sets forth the justification for the imposition of discipline should that conduct be improperly exercised by the student. It is clear that the alleged actions by N.T. would directly violate the policy.

Ms. Mahoney notes as well that this was the second infraction by N.T. during the current school year which required an exclusion from the bus for a period of five school days. Mahoney advised as well that she sent a letter to N.T.'s mother, dated October 13, 2003, advising of the suspension, and based upon the mother's request, the suspension was delayed until October 22, 2003.

In addition, Ms. Mahoney notes that the policy previously alluded to mandates that students exit and enter the bus at their designated bus stops. This, by N.T.'s own written admission, was not done. Mahoney also advises that it was her understanding that when she made an effort to discuss the incident of October 7 with N.T., she was advised that based upon his father's instructions, he would not speak with her when summoned to her office. She characterizes this as an unacceptable situation indicating that under law N.T. must submit himself to authority.

As noted previously, N.T. submitted a handwritten statement which was neither certified nor in the form of an affidavit. In the interest of justice, however, I permitted the document to be admitted for purposes of the motion. He acknowledges closing the emergency roof hatch; however, he indicates that he was given permission to do so by the driver, Ms. Zimmerman. He further acknowledges making an effort to pull the roof hatch down but he was unable to move it, so he consequently pulled the red handle thinking that it would be effective to accomplish his ends. Once he did this, and presumably once the alarm was activated, Ms. Zimmerman, pursuant to N.T.'s written statement, screamed "I told you not to turn the red handle." N.T., in his written statement, denies having heard her say that. N.T. acknowledges getting off the bus at an impermissible bus stop with a friend so as to visit the friend's home. He further notes that he was never admonished by the driver to remain on the bus.

A temporary restraint is an extraordinary equitable remedy, utilized primarily to preclude and prevent irreparable harm; it must, therefore, be administered with sound discretion and always upon consideration of justice, equity and morality in a given case. See New Jersey Bar Association v. Northern New Jersey Mortgage Associates, 22 N.J. 184, 194 (1956); Citizens Coach Company v. Camden Horse R.R. Co., 29 N.J. Eq. 299, 303 (1878). Through the common law, it has been well established over a long term that a temporary restraining order or a stay will not issue unless the petitioner demonstrates:

1 A probability of eventual success on the merits of the appeal at the plenary hearing;

2. A threat of immediate and irreparable harm to the petitioner; and

3. The inconvenience or loss to the opposing party will be minimal if the relief is obtained. See Crowe v. Degioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982).

It should be noted that the standards have been promulgated in various ways and pursuant to various regulations. See e.g. N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1 (applying specifically to special education hearings) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, which applies to all OAL emergency matters. In reviewing the record in this case, it is my view that the petitioners are not entitled to emergent relief. Based upon the record before me, which excludes the disallowed testimony of N.T.'s father (who has no personal knowledge of the incident), it is my view and I CONCLUDE that the petitioners have failed to demonstrate that they have a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of this matter. The affidavits and accompanying exhibits clearly spell out that what N.T. was purported to have done was sworn to by the bus driver. The bus driver, based upon the evidence, has absolutely no reason to prevaricate or to make up a story. Of course, N.T.'s statement which, while acknowledging much of what he's accused of, indicates that he was never advised not to exit the bus or to close the hatch. This seemed somewhat strange because in respect to the latter, he does note that the driver screamed "I told you not to turn the red handle on." He then notes that he never heard her say it. If he's acknowledging that she screamed it, it's difficult to reconcile that with his inability to have heard her say it. Nevertheless, if anyone in this matter has a reason to distort the facts or to mislead or to convince himself that he was not guilty of any wrongdoing, it would have to be N.T. Since if the case were to go to plenary hearing the issue of credibility would be crucial, then there is no probable likelihood that an administrative law judge would accept the credibility of the disciplined party over that of an objective witness. N.T.'s father indicated that it was his understanding that there was a Board policy mandating that all bus trips be videotaped. In response to my questioning him concerning the authority for that position, he cited a Board policy which merely authorized the District to utilize videotape on school buses. Thus, it is my view that the District is not mandated to use videotape on every single bus ride. That it didn't choose to use it on the bus trip in question is not to conclude that the District erred.

N.T.'s father also argues that it's a violation of law to have the hatch of the school bus opened. He is suggesting that the driver contravened law and, therefore, whatever actions his son may have taken could not be considered misconduct. No evidence was offered to convince me that the law imposes a requirement on the school bus driver to keep the hatch roof closed in the fashion in which it was. Mr. Soriano, although not an expert, did represent as an officer of the court that it is his understanding that the emergency hatch was not opened; rather, the vent latch was opened which allowed air to circulate through the bus and that keeping that hatch open is perfectly permissible. It seems somewhat tertiary to resolve the emergency issue to determine whether the bus driver did or did not do what was advised of her. Assuming for the moment that she did not comply with all of the legal requirements does still does not provide an excuse for N.T. to behave in a manner which is contrary to school policy.

In addition, it is my view that the petitioners have been unable to demonstrate that if the five-day bus suspension were imposed that N.T. would suffer irreparable harm. The Board of Education cites to the unreported decision of the Commissioner of Education issued on June 4, 1993 affirming an administrative law judge's decision denying an application for emergency relief. See W.H.V.P. and J.P.V.P. on behalf of their minor child, T.L.V.P. v. Board of Education of the Township of Edison, et al, Middlesex County. In that matter, the administrative law judge determined that it was not irreparable harm to suspend a student from school and classes for three days. Clearly, a suspension from classes for three days is much more severe than a suspension from the school bus. The impression clearly given to me by the petitioners was that they would somehow and in some way get their child to and from school during the suspension. While there is no doubt that there is some harm inuring to N.T. because of a suspension and the consequential discipline attached to it, based upon prior case law, that harm does not rise to the level of irreparability such that it would warrant the imposition of emergency relief. Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioners have failed to meet the standards for granting emergency relief. Accordingly, I ORDER that the petitioners' application for emergency relief is DENIED. Since there are no other issues remaining in this matter once the emergency relief matter has been resolved, I deem this decision to be the final decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law subject, of course, to review by the Commissioner of Education. Should the Commissioner choose to reverse, then, of course, the matter will be remanded, a stay will be imposed and a plenary hearing will determine the outcome. If the decision is affirmed, then it becomes a final decision in the matter.

Without prejudice to N.T.'s rights and/or without in any way assessing the other matters against him, it is my understanding based upon conferences in chambers that there were numerous acts of alleged misconduct committed by N.T. last school year on the bus, and there were at least two allegedly committed this year on the school bus. It would seem to me that given that N.T. apparently is a good student and well liked by faculty and peers, the conduct engaged in on the bus is a significant departure from his conduct, behavior, and acting out everywhere else. Under those circumstances, I would recommend to the Board that serious consideration be given to conducting an evaluation of N.T. I am not suggesting that N.T. requires classification. I am merely suggesting that perhaps an evaluation – given his record of discipline may be appropriate and beneficial.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, including the audiotapes of the hearing conducted by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) of the Office of Administrative Law on October 21, 2003, and the Order Denying Petitioners' Motion for Emergent Relief issued by the ALJ denying emergent relief and dismissing the petition in this matter have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs that petitioners have failed to satisfy the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) for obtaining emergent relief. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy which may only be issued where petitioner has demonstrated that the relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm; where the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled; where there is a likelihood of success on the merits; and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Crowe at 132-34. As set forth by the ALJ, petitioners' application does not, on its face and granting petitioners every inference for purposes of this motion, meet the standards required by Crowe for the granting of extraordinary relief and must, therefore, be denied.

However, in reviewing petitioners' Motion for Emergent Relief, it is noted that the Board has not made a decision with respect to petitioners' appeal of the bus suspension imposed on their son.[1] As the merits are not properly before him at this juncture, therefore, the Commissioner makes no findings on the underlying conduct which constitute the merits of this matter.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the Order Denying Petitioners' Motion for Emergent Relief in the instant matter, as modified above, for the reasons expressed therein.

In consolidated matter, petitioning Boards contested the calculation of their school year aid being contrary to CEIFA.

The ALJ concluded that respondents and the Appellate Court had correctly addressed the issues in this matter and observed that the legislative intent of the FY03 Appropriations Act was to limit expenditures of the State treasury and that the Legislature's action to enact the FY03 Appropriations Act superseded any and all statutory provisions which would increase such expenditures including, among others, CEIFA. The ALJ concluded that petitioners failed to demonstrate that respondents were required to recalculate CEIFA aid based upon petitioners' student population counts; nor did petitioners demonstrate that respondents were required to apply any new or increased student population count for an updated calculation formula to increase their Core Curriculum Standards Aid, Demonstrably Effective Program Aid, or any other aids. The ALJ entered Summary Decision on behalf of respondents and denied petitioners' Motions for Summary Decision.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ and the Appellate Court that the funding formula as set forth in CEIFA cannot coexist with the Legislature's enacted State budget appropriation, and, consequently, must be deemed to be suspended by the adoption of the FY03 Appropriations Act.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners, the Boards of Education of the Town of Hammond and the Township of Egg Harbor (Boards), contests the calculation of its Comprehensive Education Improvement and Financing Act of 1966 (CEIFA) and seeks an Order from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) directing the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) to recalculate its CEIFA aid based upon petitioners' student population; directing the DOE to provide the mid-year adjustment as required by law; directing the DOE to use said new pupil count in an updated calculation of the district's local share formula and increase petitioner's Core Curriculum Standards Aid; Demonstrably Effective Program Aid and all other aids, among other things.

In lieu of an Answer to the Verified Petitions of Appeal before the Commissioner, the DOE submitted a letter brief in support of its Motion to Dismiss the matters, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g), among other things.

Prior to filing of the Verified Petition by the Hammonton Board before the Commissioner, the Board filed a Verified Complaint in Lieu of Prerogative Writ and Order to Show Cause with Temporary Restraints before the Superior Court against the DOE, William L.

Librera, Commissioner, Honorable James McGreevey, Governor of the State of New Jersey and the New Jersey Legislature, defendants. The Board sought, among other things, an Order directing defendants to recalculate CEIFA aid based upon the Board's pupil population counts; directing the defendants to provide the mid-year adjustment set forth in CEIFA; and directing defendants to use said count in an updated calculation of the Board's local share formula and adjust the Board's Core Curriculum Standards Aid, Demonstrably Effective Program Aid and all other aids as required by CEIFA.

The Honorable Valerie H. Armstrong, PJSC, dismissed the Complaint for lack of jurisdiction and reasoned that the Board's judicial remedy lies with the Appellate Division of Superior Court because the trial court had no jurisdiction over the subject matter which is purely a matter of school law and which arises out of State agency action.

On March 26, 2002, the Appellate Division denied the Board's emergent application for temporary relief. On March 26, 2002, the New Jersey Supreme Court denied the Hammonton Board's motion for emergent relief pending appeal in the Appellate Division.

On April 25, 2002, petitioners filed the instant Verified Petitions of Appeals which raises issues identical to those raised in the Verified Complaint in Lieu of Prerogative Writ. On July 18, 2002, the matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The parties filed cross-motions for summary decision and the date of the hearing record was extended to August 11, 2003, due to illness, with a close of the record now September 25, 2003.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

The Board's Position

Background Facts

It is noted here that the Egg Harbor Township Board's legal arguments are similar to the legal arguments set forth in the Hammonton Board's Legal Brief. Therefore, the legal arguments set forth by the Hammonton Board are relied upon here.

The Hammonton Board observes that its schools consist of (1) an early childhood center housing pupils in grades Pre-Kindergarten through First Grade; (2) an elementary school housing pupils in Second Grade through Sixth Grade; (3) a middle school housing pupils in Seventh and Eighth Grades; (4) a high school housing students in Ninth Grade through Twelfth Grade. The Board is also currently the receiving district for Folsom Borough pupils in Grades Nine through Twelve. The Egg Harbor Board operates a K-12 school district.

School districts in the State of New Jersey have been divided by the DOE since 1974 into socioeconomic groups known as District Factor Groups (DFG) and designated DFG "A" through "J", with "A" the group with the lowest socioeconomic status and "J" with the highest socioeconomic status. Another statistical category adopted by the DOE was the urban or Abbott district. Hammonton has been designated as a DFG "B" district by the DOE, categorizing it in the second lowest socioeconomic group.

On December 20, 1996, the New Jersey Legislature adopted the CEIFA to provide funding by the State in order to comply with its constitutional mandate of providing a thorough and efficient education (T & E). The T & E mandate is expressly provided in the New Jersey Constitution, a clause the New Jersey Supreme Court has interpreted as a mandate to ensure equal opportunity in education for children of the State. Robinson v. Cahill, 69 N.J. 449, 473 (1975). Prior funding laws, including the Public School Education Act of 1975 and the Quality of Education Act, have been ruled unconstitutional by the New Jersey Supreme Court. Abbott v.

Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990); Abbott v. Burke, 136 N.J. 444 (1994).

The Boards observes that school districts have been operating under CEIFA since 1997. See Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 (App. Div. 2001), cert. den. 171 N.J. 442 (2002). CEIFA has been found unconstitutional as applied to special needs districts in Abbott v. Burke, 149 N.J. 145 (1997), resulting in the New Jersey Supreme Court retaining jurisdiction to ensure the remedial relief it ordered would be implemented by the State with regard to special needs districts. Hammonton, although a "B" district, is not an urban school district and, therefore, does not receive additional special needs aid. The Appellate Court, however, has recently rejected a challenge on equal protection clauses to the constitutionality of the CEIFA funding formula. See Stubaus, 339 N.J. Super. 38. Thus, for these petitioners, CEIFA is, and remains, the funding law governing their aid.

Under CEIFA, core curriculum standards have been established which "provide a substantial framework detailing what children need to know in order to participate as workers and citizens in contemporary society, which is the goal of the T & E public education system. 339 N.J. Super. at 45. CEFIA sets forth a model of prototypical school district that efficiently provides the programs and services necessary for pupils to achieve the core curriculum standards and it is the program that the Legislature believed would satisfy the T & E constitutional requirements. Id. The basis for distributing State education aid is then derived from the per pupil cost to implement the prototypical model, combined with the local school district's ability to contribute to that cost. Id.

In Stubaus, the Appellate Court set forth succinctly the framework for deriving state aid under CEIFA as follows: In order to implement CEIFA, the Commissioner is required under the Act to establish what is called the T & E amount which is "based on the costs necessary to provide the programs and services that will enable an elementary school pupil to achieve the core curriculum standards. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3; N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-12. The T & E amount is then weighted for the additional cost of middle and high school pupils and a half-day kindergarten program. Ibid. The T & E weighted amount is then multiplied by the number of pupils in the district to arrive at the T and E budget. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3; N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-13." Id.

It is the T & E budget that is used in determining and calculating a district's State Aid. Id. A district's local share of the T & E budget is established by the relative wealth of a school district based upon property values and income. A district's core curriculum standard aid is the "T and E budget figure less the local share." Id. 46.

Student enrollment data, that is, the number of children attending a district's schools, plays a critical part in determining each district's school aid. In fact, aid is based on certain student enrollment data as defined under CEIFA, including "school enrollment," "modified district enrollment" and "resident enrollment." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3.

Aid is generally calculated in February for the following school fiscal year which begins in July. However, because enrollment data changes, CEIFA provides that districts receive what is called mid-year adjustments based on the actual enrollment of the fiscal year determined by pupil enrollment in October. Under CEIFA, each year in or about March, adjustments to state aid are made to reflect actual pupil enrollments as of October 15 of the budget year. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5. The mid-year adjustments are reported to a district and are required to be shown as account receivables for the following year's budget.

In sum, as the Supreme Court noted, the CEIFA funding provisions are critical in determining constitutionality because "they determine the types and amounts of resources that will be available to enable students to achieve a thorough and efficient education, as defined by the content standards." Abbott, 149 N.J. at 163.

Moreover, the funding time schedule set forth in CEIFA is critical as each year districts prepare their budget. The CEIFA statute also sets forth a timeline for receipt by the DOE state aid figures. The timeline begins with the Governor's budget address. In the year 2002, under N.J.S.A. 52:27B-20, the Governor was required to submit by February 15, a budget to the Legislature that includes the amount of state aid to be provided to public school districts. Thereafter, under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5, within two days, the Commissioner notifies each public school district of the amount of aid payable to that particular district. Prior to this fiscal year, state aid figures had been released by the DOE at the time school budgets were prepared in January of that year. However, for the year challenged here, in or about late January 2002, Governor James McGreevey requested and the Legislature approved his request to wait until March 26, 2002, to submit his fiscal year budget to the Legislature. The Commissioner had the legislative power to make adjustments to the school budget and election calendar. P.L. 2002, Ch. 2. The DOE, however, failed to make corresponding postponement in the date for the public hearings for local school budgets of the date of the April 16, 2002 school elections. Consequently, the last day to hold budget hearings and adopt budgets to be voted upon at the school election was March 26, 2002, despite the fact that the school districts had been deprived of certified state aid figures and/or state aid figures calculated in accordance with CEIFA.

Moreover, and in direct contravention of CEIFA, the DOE provided to the Boards in early March 2002, anticipated state aid figures for the 2002-2003 fiscal year and advised that the preloaded aid amounts for 2002-2003 SAI's printout (the 2001-2002 cash payment). The end result is that Hammonton, like other districts, was forced to complete a budget with flat, or level, state funding. The unofficial state aid numbers became official on March 26, 2002. Consequently, Boards' state aid numbers for fiscal year 2002-2003 were based exactly on 2001-2002 school fiscal year school aid numbers, in complete disregard of the CEIFA statutory formulas. Petitioners asserts that the DOE did, in fact, recalculate its debt service, school choice aid and parity aid, however, it does not receive such aid nor did it recalculate its other aid; i.e., core curriculum, demonstrably effective program aid or district learning network aid. The end result was that the Boards are to receive, and is currently receiving, in state aid that which it received the prior year, without regard to its increased enrollment or its failure to receive its midyear adjustment.

The Hammonton Board's pre-budget total entitlement state aid for fiscal year 2002-2003 is $8,522,542. For the categories set forth therein including core curriculum aid. The Board's 2001-2003 state aid numbers for the same categories was $8,522,524. For example, core curriculum aid in 2002-2003 is $4,377,2 55, and in 2001-2002 was the same $4,377,255.

However, although State aid was frozen, the Boards' enrollment has increased. For the budget year 2001-2002, the Hammonton Board's State aid was based on the DOE's projected resident enrollment of 2,125 pupils and a weighted projected resident enrollment of 2,146 pupils. The actual resident enrollment on October 15, 2001 was 2,286.5 pupils. The Board's and DOE's projected resident enrollment for the budget year 2002-2003 was 2,374 pupils and the projected weighted enrollment was 2,376 pupils.

Similarly, the Egg Harbor Board's pre-budget total entitlement State aid for fiscal year 2002-2003 is $27,872,214, for the categories set forth therein including core curriculum aid. The Egg Harbor Board's 2001-2002 State aid numbers for the same categories was $27,872,214, where the core curriculum aid in 2002-2003 was $20,341,417, the same as 2001-2002.

The Egg Harbor Board's State aid was based on the DOE's projected resident enrollment of 6,008 pupils and a weighted projected resident enrollment of 6,027 pupils. The actual resident enrollment on October 15, 2001 was 6,130 pupils. The Board's projected resident enrollment for the budget year 2002-2003 was 6,428 pupils and the projected weighted enrollment was 6, 474

As a result of the DOE's failure to calculate State aid, the Boards' proposed State aid for 2002-2003 was based incorrectly on the Boards' 2001-2002 enrollment data and failed to take into account an increase of 230 and 420 respectively, in projected resident enrollment. The DOE's failure to make mid-year required adjustments and failure to use appropriate enrollment data, contravene and ignore the express statutory requirements set forth in CEIFA. The end result is that the school districts have been deprived of State aid due it under CEIFA, and in particular, the mid-year adjustment that would be shown as an account receivable.

The 2002-2003 T & E education per pupil ranges announced on March 4, 2002 were as follows: $7,734 to $8,548. Under the Hammonton Board's 2002-2003 advertised budget, which was soundly defeated by the voters, the Board's per pupil spending based upon the Board's projected weighted enrollment was $6,352, well below the State's T & E range. Similarly, the Egg Harbor Board's 2002-2003 advertised budget was defeated at the polls, its per pupil projected weighted enrollment was $7,500, again, well below the State's T & E range.

As a result of the State's failure to provide state aid as required under CEIFA, the Board filed a Verified Complaint in Lieu of Prerogative Writ with Order to Show Cause with Temporary Restraints against the New Jersey DOE, the Commissioner of Education, the Governor of New Jersey and the New Jersey Legislature on March 19, 2002 in the Superior Court, Law Division, Atlantic County. The complaint was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction and, subsequently, the Appellate Division and the New Jersey Supreme Court denied the Board's request for emergent relief.

The annual school election occurred on April 16, 2002 and the Board's school budget was defeated. After the defeat of its school budget on April 16, 2002, the Board filed the herein Petition of Appeal on April 25, 2002 with the Commissioner based upon the certified state aid numbers supplied on March 26, 2002, that failed to include current student population counts despite the statutory requirement to do so. On the budget front, the Town of Hammonton reduced the Board's advertised budget by the amount of $880,000, the same amount the Board claimed it had lost through state aid. The Board appealed, seeking restoration of that amount, and the Commissioner reinstated $737,000 in cuts made by the Town Council on June 26, 2002.

By this Petition of Appeal, the Board seeks an order from the Commissioner for the DOE to recalculate the state aid numbers in accordance with CEIFA. The exact relief the Board seeks is as follows:

a. Directing the DOE to recalculate 2002-2003 CEIFA aid based upon Petitioner's pupil population counts as set forth in CEIFA;
b. Directing the DOE to provide the mid-year adjustments as required by law;
c. Directing the DOE to use the CEIFA formulas in an updated calculation of the district's local share formula and the Board's Core Curriculum Standards Aid, Demonstrably Effective Program Aid and all other aids.

The Boards' Legal Arguments

I. Standard For Summary Decision

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedural Rules, a motion for summary decision may be granted "if there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). This rule is essentially the same as N.J. Court Rule 4:46-2 and the legal principles under that rule apply to administrative proceedings. Summary judgment is "designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method of disposing of any case" where the record establishes that there is no genuine issue of material fact. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. Of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). As such, "by its plain language, Rule 4:46-2 dictates that a court should deny a summary judgment motion only where the party opposing the motion has come forward" with specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. Brill, 142 N.J. at 529 [emphasis in original]. In addition, "a non-moving party cannot defeat a motion for summary judgment merely by pointing to any fact in dispute." Id. [emphasis in original]. Disputed issues of fact that are not significantly probative and "of an insubstantial nature" or simply colorable cannot preclude summary judgment. Id. Rather, Rule 4:46-2 (c) expressly sets forth that a dispute of fact only will be genuine if "the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact." Only when there is a need for trial should summary judgment be denied. Id.

In this regard, the following material facts are undisputed:

1. CEIFA expressly requires that state aid amounts be calculated using projected enrollment. CEIFA, in relevant part, provides as follows: "aid amounts payable for the budget year shall be based on budget year pupil counts, which shall be projected by the Commissioner using data from prior years. Adjustments for the actual pupil counts of the budget year shall be made to State aid amounts payable during the school year succeeding the budget year. Additional amounts payable shall be reflected as revenue and an account receivable for the budget year." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5 (emphasis added).

2. Respondent admits in its answer that the State Aid figures for the 2002-2003 fiscal year are the same as the previous fiscal year, without regard to any changes in enrollment figures.

3. The District had a projected increase for the budget year 2002-2003 of 230 resident enrollment pupils for the Board from the 2001-2002 year.

4. Respondents have failed to make any mid-year adjustments to aid based on enrollment.

II. THE BOARDS ARE ENTITLED TO THE RELIEF THEY SEEKS AND THE DEPARTMENT SHOULD BE ORDERED TO CALCULATE THE BOARD'S STATE AID PURSUANT TO CEIFA

The Boards' action here challenges the Respondents' failure to calculate the Boards' State aid in accordance with CEIFA - regardless of whether the Legislature chooses to appropriate less or more funds. It is the CEIFA formulas that must be utilized to calculate the Boards' State aid amounts. CEIFA is designed as its own funding mechanism for school State aid and its statutory definitions and formulas are required to be followed regardless of whether the annual appropriations act sets forth a decrease or increase in the overall appropriated aid amount.

The DOE had not, and indeed cannot, dispute that the State aid it allocated to the Boards directly contradicts CEIFA. Rather, the entire defense of the DOE's action is that their inactivity or otherwise failure to adhere to the CEIFA requirements was either permitted or ultimately excused by the FY03 Appropriations Act. However, the Boards asserts that the Appropriations Act, a general statutory annual enactment, does not supercede the carefully tailored statutory language of CEIFA, which was specifically enacted to address constitutionally required funding and certainly does not cure the Department's admitted violation of the statutory requirements last March. Moreover, even if the FY03 Appropriations Act excuses the Department's failure to calculate state aid figures in accordance with CEIFA, Petitioners here are entitled to a least its mid-year adjustment - an amount that was payable and vested prior to the enactment on June 30, 2002 of the Appropriations Act.

A. The Appropriations Act Cannot Supercede or Excuse the Department's Failure to Calculate Aid Pursuant to the CEIFA Statutory Formulas.

The New Jersey Constitution mandates that:

> The Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the Instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of five > and eighteen years. [*N.J. C*onst. art. VIII, §4.]

The Legislature in enacting CEIFA declared that CEIFA would establish:

> (1) A definition of a thorough and efficient system of public education which is uniformly applicable to all districts in the State and specifics what must be learned with reference to academic standards that must be achieved by all students.
> (2) The types of programs and services that will accomplish these goals in a manner that is thorough and efficient.
> (3) A level of financial support sufficient to provide those program and services.
> (4) A funding mechanism to ensure that support.
> (5) A system which ensures that the expenditure of public funds will be undertaken both with prudence and sound management and with accountability that includes mechanisms for enforcement in the event a district fails to meet the substantive standards established as set for herein.
> N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 [emphasis added]

Moreover, the Legislature in CEIFA set forth the time, mode and occasion for the state funding mechanism. Specifically, 18A:7F-5a states in pertinent part:

> "Beginning in the 1998-99 school year, unless otherwise specified within this act, aid amounts payable for the budget year shall be based on budget year pupil counts, which shall be projected by the commissioner using data from prior years. Adjustments for the actual pupil counts of the budget year shall be made to State aid amounts payable during the school year succeeding the budget year. Additional amounts payable shall be reflected as revenue and an account receivable for the budget year."
> N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5a [emphasis added]

CEIFA is not ambiguous as it relates to determination of aid calculations. Specifically, CEIFA defines aid in part based on enrollment and enrollment is determined utilizing enrollment figures from October 15 of the current school year plus projections based on prior years. N.J.S.A. 10A:7F-5

The Legislature expressed legislative intent that CEIFA would be a permanent funding formula when it stated that CEIFA provides and establishes "a funding mechanism" to ensure a thorough and efficient education. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-2b (4). Moreover, there is nothing discretionary in the language of 18A;7F-5, which states in pertinent part, "Beginning in the 1998-99 school year, unless otherwise specified within this act, any amounts payable for the budget year shall be based on budget year counts, which shall be projected by the Commissioner using data from prior years." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5a [emphasis added]. That is, CEIFA stands alone and independent of other legislative machinations. It is through CEIFA that the Legislature answered its constitutional obligations, and it is CEIFA which directs how to answer the Legislature's constitutional obligations.

In its moving papers to dismiss the Boards' petitions, respondents relied upon the case of City of Camden v. Byrne, 82 N.J. 133 (1980), and at first glance it would appear that the Boards' actions is rendered moot by FY03 Appropriations Act. But careful analysis demonstrates that the Camden case in inapposite. In Camden, a number of municipalities and counties brought several court actions against the State to have certain amounts appropriated for their use claiming that the funds were required purportedly under several state statutes. The lower courts in the actions granted summary judgment in favor of the defendants and the decisions were affirmed on appeal. The actions were consolidated before the New Jersey Supreme Court which used the cases to embark upon an analysis of the constitutional framework in the state budgetary process. In rejecting the municipalities' claim, the New Jersey Supreme Court noted that withdrawal of monies from the State treasurer can be accomplished only by legislative appropriations, Id. at 145, and that the power and authority to appropriate funds lies solely and exclusively with the legislative branch. Id. In reaching its conclusions, the Court noted that the statutes in question which called for disbursements of tax revenues - sales and use tax - were not legislative appropriations in and of themselves and determined they gave way, in part, because of other constitutional provisions including a constitutional provision requiring appropriations to be incorporated into a single balance budget and the constitutional debt limitation provisions. Id.

Here, the Boards in these petitions are not directing or requesting that more money be appropriated to the education line item in the State budget for school districts, although the Boards' assert that educational funding should certainly be the top priority in disbursing State funds. Rather, remedy sought here is their share of the State aid amount appropriated in accordance with the CEIFA formula. The first step in achieving those amounts is for the Court here to direct the DOE to calculate the aid payable as determined under CEIFA.

Similarly, the respondent's reliance in their motion to dismiss on the case of County of Camden v. Waldman, 292 N.J. Super. 268 (App Div. 1996), cert. den. 149 N.J. 139 (1997) is not determinative. In Waldman, the Department of Human Services refused to provide to counties funds received by the State from the federal government, in essence, the counties were challenging the Legislature's decision not to appropriate the funds. But unlike here, there was no asserted constitutional mandate as there is for the Legislature to fund education. Nor are the detailed funding levels under CEIFA to be casually disregarded in the annual appropriations act - certainly the contrary is true. CEIFA and its formulas were enacted to provide a funding mechanism. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1.

Moreover, it can be stated, without the need of lengthy citations, that "there generally exists a strong presumption against any implied negation of statutory enactments." Id. at 154. In fact, the presumption may be overcome only "when there is a clear showing that two legislative measures are patently repugnant or inconsistent." Id. In Camden, the Court examined the complete failure of the Legislature to appropriate funds and concluded that the failure was an intentional and an advertent act. Id. Here, however, the expressed determination of the Legislature was to hold Districts harmless. Indeed, the FY03 Appropriations Act states in relevant part that "each district shall receive no less of a total State aid amount payable for the 2002-2003 year than the sum of the district's total State aid amount for the 2001-02 school year."

Thus, there is nothing inconsistent in directing the DOE to make the CEIFA calculations, which once finally made, will permit the petitioners to have at least a baseline of the State aid under the "permanent funding mechanism." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1. This is indeed important even if the end result is that the petitioners are unable to obtain additional funds.

Presumably, the DOE will argue that its inaction in calculating State aid in direct contradiction of CEIFA is somehow excused by the budget Appropriations Act and that the DOE's actions were prudent because the failure to calculate the requisite aid levels under CEIFA gave districts advance warning of the State aid cuts. This argument, apparently relying on a pre-CEIFA case of Board of Education of Fairfield Twp. v. Kean, 188 N.J. Super. 244, 250 (Ch. Div. 1982), however, turns the entire statutory framework upon which CEIFA was enacted on its face. Under CEIFA, N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5, within two days of the budget address, the Commissioner was to notify each public school district of the amount of aid payable to that particular district. The CEIFA statute did not permit the DOE to just ignore the CEIFA formulas. Thus, when the Governor announced flat funding, it was incumbent upon the DOE to at least use that set flat amount to calculate the aid in accordance with the CEIFA funding requirements including, without limitation, the enrollments. The DOE ignored the statutory requirements and now uses an end justifies the means defense: claiming that since no calculations were done, the Districts have to receive the same amount as the prior year. Of course, the actual result for districts, as petitioners, with increased enrollments is that petitioners did not receive the same aid as the prior year based on a per pupil analysis while districts with decreased enrollments received a windfall. Certainly, the CEIFA statutory framework was not enacted with such detail in order to be generally ignored at the arbitrary and capricious notion of the DOE. The FY03 Appropriations Act does not expressly relieve the DOE from its statutory duties.

For all of the above reasons, the petitioners should be entitled to the relief it seeks: namely, requiring the DOE to engage and calculate the CEIFA statutory formulas.

B. Even Under the appropriations Act, the Boards are Entitled to Receive their Mid-Year Adjustments.

Even, if the Court were to determine that the FY03 Appropriations Act excused the DOE from its failure to comply with CEIFA in March, the Appropriations Act clearly stat that:

> Notwithstanding any other law or regulations to the contrary, each district shall receive no less of a total State aid amount payable for the 2002-2003 school year than the sum of the district's total State aid amount payable for the 2001-2002 school year for the following aid categories: Core Curriculum Standards Aid, Supplemental Core Curriculum Aid, Early Childhood Program Aid, Instructional Supplemental Aid, Demonstrably Effective Program Aid, Rewards and Recognition, Stabilization Aid, Stabilization Aid 2, Stabilization Aid 3, Large Efficient District Aid, Aid for Districts with High Senior Citizen Populations, Regionalization Incentive Aid, Distance Learning Network Aid, Adult and Postsecondary Grants, Bilingual Education Aid, Special Education Aid, County Vocational Program Aid, Transportation Aid, and Aid for Enrollment Adjustments.

Aid for Enrollment Adjustments is determined under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5, which expressly provides that "Adjustments for the actual pupil counts of the budget year shall be made payable during the school year succeeding the budget year." However, despite this clear statutory authority, the DOE failed to make any enrollment adjustments for the school year 2001-02. The net effect of failing to make the adjustments is that petitioners have been deprived of its cash adjustments payable to in the school year 2002-03. Certainly, the FY03 Appropriations Act cannot strip petitioners or, in other words, divest petitioners of the amount the law vested under CEIFA prior to June 30, 2002. The fact that the amount was payable during the 2002-2003 school year does not in any way excuse the DOE's failure to make the enrollment adjustments.

Indeed, the net result of the DOE's failure to calculate and book mid-year adjustments is that districts with increased enrollment the prior year and no increase in 2001-2002 received a windfall bonus; whereas, districts that experienced continued growth have a continued and exacerbated hardship. Surely, the constitutional mandate to fund a through and efficient education does not relieve the DOE from making the calculations so that some districts get bonuses, and districts, such as petitioners, suffer further hardship. It is hard to imagine action which could be more readily characterized as arbitrary and capricious action.

Finally, it is anticipated that the DOE will assert a "no harm" defense. Specifically, the DOE's steadfast refusal to calculate aid is premised solely on the idea that since there is only one pot of monies (and no Court can order more money), and districts are to obtain the same amounts as prior years, there was no reason to calculate aid amounts under CEIFA. However, this position ignores the basic tenet of CEIFA. CEIFA's formulas - mid-year adjustments, enrollment data, stabilization growth limits - are all based on formulas that reflect prior budget years. If the 2002-2003 numbers are never run, districts such as petitioners will lose any incremental base or adjustments in upcoming budget years. It will be as if 2002-2003 never occurred, and the CEIFA formula would be all for naught. Certainly, this Court should not permit the DOE to be derelict in its obligations to make the adjustments and calculations under CEIFA.

In conclusion, the Board asserts that there is no disputed issue of fact. The matter is really solely of law and remedy. The Boards have met their burden demonstrating that the CEIFA laws have not been followed. The Court should order respondent to calculate the petitioners' 2002-2003 aid in accordance with CEIFA, including mid-year adjustments.

Respondent Department of Education Legal Arguments

Respondent, DOE, asserts that the "inaction" alleged by the Boards is that the certified State school aid figures for the 2002-2003 fiscal year were not calculated pursuant to CEIFA. The Boards' argument, however, ignores the fact that the purpose of certifying the State aid amounts is to provide an accurate estimate upon which the public can rely when it is voting on the local tax levy in the school budget. See, e.g., Board of Educ. of Fairfield Twp. v. Kean, 188 N.J. Super. 244, 250 (Ch. Div. 1982) (while dismissing plaintiffs action the court agreed with plaintiffs that it "would have been better for [plaintiffs] to have received some advance warning of [state aid] cuts"). Thus, State aid figures are not required to be provided to districts until after the Governor's budget message so that the figures provided are a more reliable estimate of what school districts are likely to receive. Often, the budget message and the Appropriations Act adopted in response to that budget message have altered the formula distributing aid to school districts. To that end, the Legislature wisely decided not to require certification of State aid numbers until after the Governor's budget message. Compare N.J.S.A.18A:7A-27 (repealed by L. 1990, c. 52 § 90) (On or before November 1, Commissioner shall determine for local budget purposes the amounts payable to each of the counties and districts under the Public School Education Act of 1975); and N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-26 (amended by L. 1992, c. 159 § 2) (Annually, on or before December 15, the Commissioner shall notify each district of the maximum amount of aid payable under the Quality Education Act for succeeding school year); with L. 1992, c. 159, § 2 (repealed by L. 1996, c. 138, § 85) (Annually within seven days following transmittal of the budget message to the Legislature by the Governor, the Commissioner shall notify each district of the maximum amount of aid payable to the district under the act).

Moreover, the Commissioner's certification of State aid amounts at the same amount that the districts received for the 2001-2003 school year clearly cannot constitute agency "inaction" in light of the FY03 Appropriations Act. As demonstrated below, the FY03 Appropriations Act provides a clear legislative intent to maintain the amount of total State aid for school districts for the 2002-2003 school year at the same amount they received for the 2001-2002 school year, rather than distribute State aid pursuant to CEIFA. The FY03 Appropriations Act provides:

> Notwithstanding any other law or regulation to the contrary, each district shall receive no less of a total State aid amount payable for the 2002-2003 school year than the sum of the district's total State aid amount payable for the 2001-2002 school year for the following aid categories: Core Curriculum Standards Aid, Supplemental Core Curriculum Standards Aid, Early Childhood Program Aid, Instructional Supplemental Aid, Demonstrably Effective Program Aid, Rewards and Recognition, Stabilization Aid, Stabilization Aid II, Stabilization Aid III, Large Efficient District Aid, Aid for Districts with High Senior Citizen Populations, Regionalization Incentive Aid, Distance Learning Network Aid, Adult and Postsecondary Education Grants, Bilingual Education Aid, Special Education Aid, County Vocational Program Aid, Transportation Aid, and Aid for Enrollment Adjustments.

Notably, the FY03 Appropriations Act appropriates the same amount of funds for each of the above-listed aid categories that was appropriated for those aid categories in the FY02 Appropriations Act. For example, $3,080,318,000 was appropriated for Core Curriculum Standards Aid in both the FY02 and FY03 Appropriations Acts. Thus, in order for each district to receive no less of a total State aid amount payable for the 2002-2003 school year than the sum of the district's total State aid amount payable for the 2001-2002 school year for the listed aid categories, it follows that no district can receive more total State aid for the 2002-2003 school year than it received for the 2001-2002 school year. Accordingly, the FY03 Appropriations Act reflects a clear legislative intent to maintain the amount of State aid for the listed aid categories for the 2002-2003 school year at the same amount districts received for the 2001-2002 school year.

Similarly, petitioners' argument that is entitled to additional Aid for Enrollment Adjustments must be rejected. The FY03 Appropriations Act explicitly provides that the same amount of Aid for Enrollment Adjustments that was appropriated for that aid category in the FY02 Appropriations Act is appropriated for FY03. Again, in order for each district, including petitioners, to receive no less of a total State aid amount payable for the 2002-2003 school year than the sum of the districts' total State aid amount payable for the 2001-2002 school year for the listed aid categories (including Aid for Enrollment Adjustments), it follows that no district can receive more Aid for Enrollment Adjustments for the 2002-2003 school year than it received for the 2001-2002 school year. Otherwise, some districts would receive less total State aid amount payable for the 2002-2003 school year than the sum of the district's total State aid amount payable for the 2001-2002 school year for the listed categories.

It follows that such a definitive legislative intent as reflected in the FY03 Appropriations Act supersedes any previously expressed legislative desires, i.e., CEIFA, at least for the duration of the FY03. Clearly, the funding formula as set forth in CEIFA for the listed categories cannot coexist with the enacted appropriation and, consequently must be deemed to be suspended by the adoption of the FY03 Appropriation Act. See City of Camden v. Byrne, 82 N.J. 133, 153-55 (1980); see also County of Essex v. Waldman, 292 N.J. Super. 268, 290-93 (App. Div. 1996), cert. den. 149 N.J. 139 (1997. Therefore, the FY03 Appropriations Act dictated the Boards' statutory entitlement of State aid. To this end, the Commissioner's certification of State aid figures at the same amount as the previous school year cannot constitute "inaction." Rather, the Commissioner, in accordance with the statutory time frame, provided an accurate certification of the State aid districts would receive for the 2002-2003 school year. Moreover, the Commissioner's certification of State aid figures at the same amount as the previous school year is consistent with the FY03 Appropriations Act which dictates the Boards' statutory entitlement of State aid.

Petitioners attempt to distinguish the statutes at issue in City of Camden v. Byrne, is hollow. CEIFA, similar to the statutes at issue in City of Camden v. Byrne, does not constitute a legislative appropriation in and of itself. CEIFA does not serve as valid authority for the withdrawal of monies from the State treasury under the State Constitution. Rather, CEIFA requires subsequent legislative appropriations to be effective authorizations of the expenditure of public monies. See e.g. FY2002 Appropriations Act. P.L. 2001, c. 130. Thus, the legal principles established in City of Camden v. Byrne apply equally to the present matter.

Finally, respondent submits that it is immaterial that the Hammonton Board's 2002-2003 district budget, as submitted to the local voters, was below the T&E range. First, the Verified Petition of Appeal contains no allegations that the Hammond Board is unable to provide a through and efficient education. Second, the Hammonton Board is statutorily entitled to submit such a budget as long as Hammonton is not failing to meet the core curriculum content standards. See, N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-6(a).

For the reasons set forth above, as well as those set forth in respondent's previous filings, respondent's motions for summarily decision should be granted in the above-captioned matters and petitioners' motions for summary decision should be denied.

Unpublished Appellate Division Opinion

Subsequent to the submissions of the parties briefs, the Deputy Attorney General submitted the unpublished Appellate Division opinion in the matter of Hammonton Board of Education v. New Jersey Department of Education, et. al. Docket No. A-3836-01T5, delivered by the Honorable Michael P. King, P.J.A.D. The Boards object, to the submission asserting, among other things, that unpublished opinions do not constitute precedent and is not binding upon any court. R. 1:36- 2. The respondent, on the other hand, asserts that the Appellate Division opinion deals with the very same issues contested in the instant matter.

Having reviewed and considered the arguments of the parties and having further considered the Appellate Court's opinion in Hammonton, supra, it is incumbent upon this tribunal to address the Court's analysis of the issue of the legislative function with respect to the Appropriations Act. To that end, the following is the Court's analysis of that issue:

The Honorable Michael P. King, in the opinion of the Court, observed:

> . . . Our courts have repeatedly affirmed that only the Legislature may appropriate funds. City of Camden v. Byrne, 82 N.J. 133, 148 (1980) (asserting that "New Jersey Courts have consistently adhere to the principle that the power and authority to appropriate funds lie solely and exclusively with the legislative branch of government"); Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 60, (App. Div. 2001) (holding that it is "the Legislature's responsibility to allocate the State's resources"); Franklin v. DHS, 225 N.J. Super. 504 (App. Div. 1988) (the "Constitution has placed matters [of appropriations] in the Legislature and it is that branch of government which must weigh the interests of its citizens"); Bd. of Ed. of Fairfield v. Kean, 188 N.J. Super. 244, 250 (App. Div. 1982) ("It is a rare case . . . in which the judiciary has any proper constitutional role in making budget allocations").
> (Slip op. at p. 15)

Judge King continues to state that:

> The principle is also well established that statutes which rely on State funding are not "self-executing." City of Camden, 82 N.J. at 147. Thus, even were "the Legislature has mandated a particular program, it is subject, insofar as it requires appropriations, to the Annual Appropriations Act." Franklin, 225 N.J. Super. at 516. Accordingly, "the judiciary is unable to compel a requested appropriation even where a statutorily defined substantive right to the monies is established." City of Camden, 82 N.J. AT 148. Furthermore, and most relevant to the claim mad in this case concerning the supposed "inaction" of the defendants, our Supreme Court has held that there can be "no redress in the courts to overcome either the Legislature's action or refusal to take action pursuant to its constitutional power over state appropriations." Id at 470. An order by the judiciary to appropriate funds would "constitute a judicial intrusion upon the legislative and executive authorities in violation of the doctrine of separation of powers." Smith v. Goldman, 159 N.J. Super. 297, 303 (App. Div. 1978). (Slip op. at pp. 15-16)

With respect to the alleged conflict between the Appropriations Act and CEIFA, the Court had this to say:

> The current appropriations act at issue in this case, the FY03 Appropriations Act, L. 2002, c. 38 (FY03), has the full effect of law and expresses a "definite legislative intent." City of Camden, 82 N.J. at 142. To the extent that the two enactments - CEIFA and FY03 – are irreconcilable, they cannot coexist. Our courts, consistent with federal statutory interpretation, have declined to apply the doctrine of "implied repeal." Id. See also Friends of the Earth v. Armstrong, 485 F. 2d. 1, 16 (10th Cir. 1973) (holding "the Supreme Court has consistently stated that judicial construction is disfavored as a means of establishing a repeal of legislation"). Because appropriations acts have "a life limited to its fiscal year," our courts have been sensitive to the impact of appropriations laws upon existing laws, choosing to characterize the effect of appropriations on standing legislation as an implied "suspension rather than an implied repeal"; however, for practical purposes, the effect is the same. City of Camden, 82 N.J. at 153. A suspension of an existing law in favor of an appropriations act overcomes the presumption against repeal "when the two legislative measures are patently repugnant or inconsistent." Id. at 154.
> (Slip op. at 16-17)
> . . . . .Where a legislative failure to appropriate funds is "an intentional and > advertent act," the appropriations law will supersede "any previously expressed legislative desire at least for the duration of the particular appropriation act. Id. (Slip op. at 17)

> . . . .
> A suspension, as in the City of Camden, is appropriate because the appropriations bill, which defendants acknowledge disregards CEIFA's mandatory formula, expresses the clear legislative intent to supersede CEIFA's requirements. . . . . (Slip op. at 18)

CONCLUSIONS

The respondents and the Appellate Court have clearly and succinctly addressed the issues of these contested matters and observed, among other things, that the legislative intent of the FY03 Appropriations Act was to limit expenditures of the State treasury and that the Legislature's action to enact the FY03 Appropriations Act superseded any and all statutory provisions which would increase such expenditures including, among others, CEIFA. As observed in the matter of City of Camden v. Byrne, 82 N.J. 133, 148 (1980), that our courts "have consistently adhered to the principle that the power and authority to appropriate funds lie solely and exclusively with the legislative branch of government." (emphasis supplied).

The Legislature, in adopting the FY03 Appropriations Act, clearly limited the amount of State aid for each of the State's school public school districts. It specifically provided that ". . . .each district shall receive no less of a total State aid amount payable for the 2002-2003 school year than the sum of the district's total State aid amount payable for the 2001-2002 school year. . ." The language of the Act continues to list the categories for which aid was appropriated. There is nothing in the Act which provides for additional aid for any of the listed categories, including Aid for Enrollment Adjustments.

Having considered and assessed the arguments of the parties and having also considered the analysis of the Appellate Court, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' have failed to demonstrate that respondents are required to recalculate CEIFA aid based upon petitioners' student population counts. Nor have petitioners' demonstrated that respondents are required to apply any new or increased pupil population count for an updated calculation formula to increase their Core Curriculum Standards Aid; Demonstrably Effective Program Aid; or any other aids.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that Summary Decision is hereby entered on behalf of respondents. I FURTHER CONCLUDE, that petitioners' Motions for Summary Decision is hereby DENIED and DIMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this consolidated matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Joint exceptions of the Boards of Education of Egg Harbor and Hammonton, were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioners' exceptions essentially recast and reiterate their arguments advanced below which the Commissioner determines were considered and addressed by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in his Initial Decision and, therefore, these will not be revisited herein.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ and the guidance provided by the unpublished Appellate Division opinion of the Honorable Michael P. King, that the funding formula as set forth in CEIFA cannot coexist with the Legislature's enacted state budget appropriation and, consequently, must be deemed to be suspended by the adoption of the FY 03 Appropriations Act, at least for the duration of this particular Act. See City of Camden v. Byrne, 82 N.J. 133 (1980); see, also, County of Essex v. Waldman, 292 N.J. Super. 268 (App. Div. 1996), certif. denied 149 N.J. 139 (1997). Consequently, as the FY 03 Appropriations Act dictates the parties' statutory entitlement to state aid, petitioners cannot prevail on their claim that respondents are required to increase their CEIFA aid.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL granting summary decision to respondents is adopted and the within Petitions of Appeal are hereby dismissed.

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, Acting Director and Chief ALJ:

This matter, alleging that respondent Cumberland Board of Education awarded a contract in violation of the public bidding statutes, was filed with the Office of Administrative Law on July 27, 1997. The matter was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Kathryn Clark who entered an order granting emergency relief on August 8, 1997.

No information has been received from the parties since that time. On June 9, 2003, I contacted the parties requesting information as to the status of this matter and as to whether or not the case had been resolved. I further informed the parties that if I did not receive response within ten (10) days, the file would be closed.

More than ten (10) days having passed without a response from either party, this matter is DISMISSED for failure to prosecute.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Dear Counsel:

We are attempting to clarify our records concerning the status of the above-referenced matter. The case was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Kathryn A. Clark for an administrative proceeding. An order granting emergency relief was issued by Judge Clark on August 8, 1997. No information has been received since that time. Please provide any information you may have as to whether the case was resolved. If I do not receive a response within 10 days, I will assume that this contested case has been resolved and will close our file administratively.

Very truly yours,

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT Between THE ELIZABETH BOARD OF EDUCATION and
SEAN BENSON

1. This Agreement is being entered into between the Elizabeth Board of Education ("Board") and Sean Benson ("Benson") to resolve the litigation pending between them before the Commissioner of Education, Agency Docket No. 310-7/01 and O.A.L. Docket No. EDUOR 03110-03N and all grievances filed by Mr. Benson against the Board of Education, as well as any litigation that could have been brought.

2. The Board agrees to pay Mr. Benson's for twelve (12) sick days representing days deducted from his sick bank which shall be paid at his salary for the 2000-2001 school year minus standard and ordinary deductions.

3. Mr. Benson agrees to withdraw his case before the Commissioner of Education, Agency Docket No. 310-7/01 and O.A.L. Docket No. EDUOR 03110-03N

4. Neither party makes any admission in the settlement of this case.

5. Mr. Benson acknowledges that this Agreement is in settlement of disputed issues of fact and law, that he has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Agreement with his legal counsel prior to entering into it and that he has availed himself of this right, that he has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of this Agreement, and that he is entering into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily in exchange for good and valuable consideration.

6. In consideration for this Agreement, Benson irrevocably and unconditionally releases the Board, and any employee and/or official of the Board, from any and all charges, complaints, claims, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, causes of action, rights, costs, losses, debts and expenses of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, which Benson, his heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns ever had, now have or hereafter can, shall or may have (either directly, indirectly, derivatively or in any other representative capacity) by reason of any matter, fact or cause whatsoever from the beginning of time to the date of this Agreement, including without limitation, all claims arising under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Equal Pay Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the Civil Rights Act of 1866, 42 U.S.C. §1983, The Americans with Disabilities Act, Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes, Title 6 and 6A of the New Jersey Administrative Code, all claims arising under the public policy of the State of New Jersey, all tortious claims (including intentional infliction of emotional distress and inducing breach of contract) and all other federal, state and local labor and anti-discrimination laws, the common law and any other purported restriction on the Board's employment related decisions.

7. In consideration of this Agreement, the Board releases Mr. Benson from any claims the Board may have against his.

8. Each party hereto represents that, in executing this Agreement, such party has not relied and does not rely upon any representation or statement of any other party not set forth herein with regard to the subject matter, basis or effect of this Agreement or otherwise.

9. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement among the parties hereto. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements and understandings concerning the subject matter hereof, and it may not be changed orally but may be changed only in a writing signed by all parties. This Agreement shall be interpreted in accordance with New Jersey law.

10. Mr. Benson has voluntarily and without coercion entered into this Agreement.

11. The parties agree that this Agreement must be approved by the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education. The Board of Education will make payment to Mr. Benson upon the approval of this Agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Settlement Agreement as of the date set forth below.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 01360-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 311-10/02

T.A., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, R.A,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,
Respondent.

No appearance by or on behalf of petitioner

Anthony D'Elia, Esq., for respondent (Chasan, Leyner, Bariso & Lamparello, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 25, 2003 Decided: September 25, 2003

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On or about October 2, 2002, petitioner, T.A., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, challenging respondent's residency determination in regard to his brother, R.A. On November 22, 2002, respondent filed its answer seeking dismissal of the petition and counterclaiming for tuition for the period of ineligible attendance. On January 31, 2003, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law

(OAL) as a contested case for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

This matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on February 28, 2003, and a telephone prehearing conference held on April 8, 2003. At that time, the issues were isolated, and a hearing was scheduled for August 5, 2003 at the OAL. In addition to the hearing schedule set forth in the prehearing order, notice of the time and place of hearing were sent to both T.A. and counsel for respondent reiterating the date, time and place of the hearing.

On August 5, 2003, counsel for respondent appeared. No appearance was made by or on behalf of T.A. Counsel for respondent attempted to reach T.A. at the telephone number he had listed for T.A. and was informed that it was the wrong number. Counsel for respondent called information and received a different telephone number. However, when he telephoned that number there was no answer. No appearance was made by T.A., although the court and counsel for respondent waited one hour for him to appear. Further, the court has not received any other information or contacts from T.A. since the date of the scheduled hearing. Thus, T.A.'s petition will be DISMISSED.

With respect to the counterclaim by respondent for tuition owed by T.A., counsel for respondent provided the affidavit of Karen Perkins, Business Administrator and Board Secretary for respondent. The affidavit was sent to T.A. by counsel for respondent. T.A. filed no response or objection to it.

Perkins' affidavit indicates that as Business Administrator, she is responsible for providing annual reports to the New Jersey Department of Education regarding the total annual per pupil costs for respondent. She had been requested as part of respondent's request for tuition in this matter to review the business records utilized by her office to compute the annual per pupil costs for the local school district. Her affidavit indicates that R.A. was enrolled in respondent school district from October 4, 2002 to the present, August 20, 2003, the date of the affidavit. She stated that the annual per pupil cost for each minor child for that period of time at Clifton High School was $7,509.00 per year. She computed the cost for R.A.'s attendance of 159 days to be $6,633.48. T.A. has not filed a response to Perkins' affidavit filed on August 25, 2003 and sent to T.A. by counsel for respondent by letter dated September 3, 2003.

Based on the foregoing, petitioner has failed to prove that respondent's residency determination in regard to R.A. was improper. Thus, it remains undisputed that T.A. did not meet the requisite family or economic hardship which would allow R.A. to attend respondent school district free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1).

Based on the affidavit submitted, I CONCLUDE that R.A. was improperly enrolled in the Clifton School system between October 4, 2002 and the present. I further CONCLUDE that the proper tuition reimbursement for that period of time (159 days) is $6,633.48.

Thus, it is ORDERED that petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that tuition reimbursement in the amount of $6,633.48 be paid to respondent school district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner's appeal here is appropriately dismissed for failure to prosecute and the Board's counterclaim for tuition is appropriately granted.

Accordingly, petitioner is directed to compensate the Board in the amount of $6,633.48 for the period of his child's ineligible attendance in the Board's schools. The instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, nontenured campus police officer, alleged the Board improperly denied him back pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, when he was suspended without pay on November 14, 2000, prior to and during his period of indictment which occurred in January 2001. The charge of child endangerment was later dismissed. The Board questioned the timeliness of the petition.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner's request for relief was timely filed and that he should be awarded back pay with compensation from the first day of his suspension. The ALJ found that petitioner was involved in an unfortunate family matter, for which he was totally exonerated in October 2001. Moreover, the ALJ found that there was no evidence offered by the Board that petitioner should have remained suspended in the absence of criminal charges. The ALJ concluded that withholding back pay and benefits, under the circumstances herein, was not justified.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision with modification. Citing Busler, the Commissioner noted that there is no basis under education law to award back pay regardless of the disposition of the criminal indictment. The Commissioner, however, directed the Board to compensate petitioner for all back pay and emoluments due from November 14, 2000 until the date of his indictment in January 2001.

Record Closed: September 12, 2003 Decided: October 3, 2003

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

The New Jersey Department of Education Bureau of Controversies received a petition for relief on August 7, 2002. Respondent filed an answer to the petition on August 23, 2002. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 11, 2002. The Director of the OAL assigned the undersigned to hear this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5o.

The matter was scheduled for hearing on May 15, 2003. The May date was adjourned and the matter rescheduled for July 18, 2003. Respondent requested that the July 18, 2003, date be adjourned. During the July 17, 2003, telephone conference, all parties agreed to submit a stipulation of facts and legal argument, in lieu of a evidentiary hearing. The schedule was confirmed in writing on July 29, 2003. (C-1). The stipulation of facts was due on August 18, 2003, and respondent's opposition brief was due to be filed on like date. Petitioner had already filed a detailed legal memorandum with the Commissioner of Education upon filing its petition.

Petitioner prepared a stipulation of facts and submitted it to respondent on or about July 18, 2003. (C-2, C-3, C-5). Respondent did not respond or object to the proposed stipulation. (C-4). On September 8, 2003, this ALJ advised respondent that:

> Pursuant to my letter/order of July 29, 2003, respondent was to have filed its opposition brief and executed stipulation of facts by August 18, 2003. See letter attached. Respondent has failed to file an opposition brief or an executed stipulation of facts. No request for an extension has been received.
> This matter was scheduled for trial on May 15, 2003 and July 18, 2003. Both dates were adjourned at the request of the respondent. The purpose my July 29, 2003 letter, which followed a conference call arrange by me, was to avoid any further delay in hearing and deciding this matter. I made that clear during the conference call on July 17, 2003. The parties agreed that this matter could be decided summarily. Petitioner had already filed an extensive brief with the petition. I accepted that brief in support of petitioner's motion for a determination.
> I am mindful that this matter was filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 7, 2002. It was transmitted to the OAL on October 11, 2002. Two trial dates been adjourned and a briefing schedule ignored. No extension has been requested. Enough time has passed and petitioner is entitled to have his case decided in an efficient and timely manner.
>
> Therefore, be advised that I am accepting the stipulation of facts submitted to the court by petitioner on August 13, 2003. I will close the record on September 12, 2003. I will then decide this matter based upon the papers filed with the court at the close of business on September 12, 2003.
> (C-8).

As of September 12, 2003, respondent did not respond, object or otherwise seek an extension to file anything in this matter. Accordingly, the stipulation was accepted as filed and the record closed on September 12, 2003. I note respondent did not file any additional papers through October 3, 2003.

STATEMENT OF STIPULATED FACTS:

At all times relevant to this proceeding, the petitioner, Joseph Lopez, (hereinafter referred to as the "Petitioner") was employed by the Bridgeton Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "B.B.O.E.") as a Campus Police Officer.

In October of 2000, the B.B.O.E. suspended the Petitioner subsequent to his arrest on October 6, 2000, under charges of 2nd degree child endangerment.

The arrest was predicated upon an accusation made by the Petitioner's daughter who was at that time a student at the middle school where the Petitioner was employed.

On or about November 14, 2000, the B.B.O.E. issued a suspension without pay to the Petitioner, even though the Petitioner had not yet been indicted on the charges.

On or about November 30, 2000, the Petitioner sent a written objection to the Board of Education concerning his suspension without pay.

The Petitioner was indicted in January 2001, on the insistence that the Cumberland County Prosecutor either prosecute or dismiss the charges against the Petitioner.

The Petitioner contended that the charges were the result of an on-going custody dispute between him and his former wife who is the mother of the child who made the statements that were the basis of the accusation. The child had been in the custody of Petitioner for 8 years prior to his arrest. Furthermore, the child had, a year earlier, made a known false accusation similar to that which supported this charge. Furthermore, the physical evidence contradicted the assertions made by the girl.

In June of 2001, plea negotiations were conducted and the Prosecutor made an offer to amend the charges to 4th degree and admit the Petitioner to PTI with a subsequent dismissal within 30 days. Petitioner rejected the plea after discussions with the B.B.O.E. on the impact of any plea to his future employment and back pay and sought a trial on the merits of the case.

The indictment against the petitioner was dismissed by the Gloucester County Superior Court in November of 2001, on motion of the defendant. The Court considered the nature of the indictment and the evidence offered by the State and found inter alia that the indictment was unsupported by credible evidence and had been improperly obtained.

The dismissal WAS NOT as a result of PTI and the motion for dismissal was actively opposed by the County Prosecutor.

There are no charges against the Petitioner and no action for termination has been brought by the B.B.O.E.

The B.B.O.E. reinstated the Petitioner to his former position in November of 2001.

On December 7, 2001, Petitioner by letter from counsel to the B.B.O.E. solicitor, made a request for information on how to proceed to request back pay from the B.B.O.E. As part of that request, counsel requested a hearing before the School Board and that the solicitor of the B.B.O.E. instruct him as to any necessary procedures to be followed in making said request for back pay.

On December 10, 2001, the solicitor responded by claiming that the discussions that had taken place concerning the plea had provided for no back pay.

On January 10, 2002, the Petitioner responded to the solicitor's letter of December 10, 2001 by reminding the solicitor that the plea had been rejected by the Petitioner precisely because of the conditions placed on his return to employment by the B.B.O.E., if he had accepted the plea. Furthermore, the charges against the Petitioner were dismissed on its merits by the court without the benefit of plea bargain or P.T.I.

On January 15, 2002, the solicitor wrote and indicated that no back pay would be forthcoming and invited a response from the Petitioner. No hearing had been held and the Petitioner was not afforded an opportunity to appear or otherwise present his claim to the B.B.O.E. The letter did not reference any meeting by the board of Education on the matter and the letter was not consistent with the content and format of other notices that had been issued by the Board of Education. There was no resolution denying the request for back pay, nor was any notice of denial issued to the Petitioner from the School Board.

On January 30, 2002, Petitioner again wrote to the solicitor and again requested back pay predicated upon certain case law that had developed in the preceding 6 months and asked for a response on that request in light of these cases.

Thereafter, during a telephone conversation between counsel and the solicitor, the solicitor requested that counsel for the Petitioner provide a copy of the Supreme Court case cited in the January 30th letter of the Petitioner. A copy of that opinion and other related cases were hand delivered to the solicitor in February, 2002. Several telephone calls over the succeeding months indicated that the solicitor had not had an opportunity to review the material and could not therefore respond.

No response was ever provided by the B.B.O.E. to the letter of January 30, 2002, nor the material that was dropped off thereafter. No hearing or notice of denial was issued by the B.B.O.E.

Thereafter, having received no response from the B.B.O.E., the Petitioner filed this action before the Commissioner.

See, Stipulation of Facts (C-5).

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The matter at hand involves the interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and whether it provides for the payment of back pay and other benefits where a school board employee is vindicated of criminal charges. Petitioner is a campus police officer for the district. Petitioner was suspended without pay effective November 14, 2000. He was exonerated of all charges on October 21, 2001. Petitioner seeks all back pay and benefits from the date of his suspension to the date of his reinstatement. The applicable statute is covering campus police is N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and provides:

> Any employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary as provided in chapter 6 of which this section is a supplement.

Petitioner contends that his right to back pay is contained in the School Laws under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. In support of that contention, the Petitioner relies upon the case of Griffin v. Board of Education of the City of Paterson, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 882 (Decided November 12, 1992; affm'd, October 19, 1993) and Driggins, v. Board of Education of the City of Newark, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) (Decided February 27, 1992; affm'd, April 9, 1992) as well as Beatty v. Newton Bd. Of Ed., 1991 S.L.D. (Comm'r. June 25, 1991), and State of New Jersey, Department of Corrections v. International Federation of Professional and Technical Engineers, Local 195, 27 NJPER P 32109, Docket No. A-20-2000 decided July 12, 2001.

Petitioner relies upon the Initial Decision in Griffin v. Board of Education of the City of Paterson, supra. Therein the ALJ cited Beatty, supra. and stated:

> "It is reasonable to conclude that there is no express statutory right to back pay subsequent to an acquittal. Notwithstanding, in a recent case involving the question of whether a suspended teacher should receive back pay following acquittal of criminal charges, the Commissioner held that 'fundamental fairness' dictated that the teacher be granted back pay, including sick pay and vacation pay, in light of the fact that a trial by jury yielded a verdict of not guilty on an indictment. Beatty v. Newton Bd. Of Ed., 1991 S.L.D. (Comm'r. June 25, 1991)"

The Administrative Law Judge then went on to find:

"Notwithstanding the absence of specific statutory language, the Commissioner believes that in weighing the equities of this matter, fundamental fairness dictates that petitioner be granted back pay for the period of his unpaid suspension given that a trial by jury yielded a verdict of not guilty on the indictment which provided the basis for his suspension without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. At the present time, petitioner has not been found guilty of any wrongdoing and the indictment upon which the suspension is based has been disposed of in his favor; therefore, it is concluded that as a matter of equity, back pay is warranted under the circumstances..."

In the present matter, the legal arguments offered by petitioner were unopposed by respondent. (See, procedural history, supra.). Notwithstanding the arguments by petitioner are unopposed, they still must be evaluated in accordance with the applicable law governing education. Notably, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 provides that should the criminal charge be dismissed, the person shall be reinstated immediately with full pay from the first day of such suspension. Arguably, this section applies exclusively to tenured teachers. However, petitioner makes the argument that the statute (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3) covering all employees is silent on the issue of back pay. But, the language in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 suggests that granting back pay is permissible for employees of the district who are exonerated.

Petitioner was criminally charged with child endangerment. N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4(a). The indictment against petitioner was based upon questionable or even specious accusations. "The charges were the result of an on-going custody dispute between [petitioner] and his former wife who is the mother of the child who made the statements that were the basis of the accusation. The child had been in the custody of Petitioner for 8 years prior to his arrest. Furthermore, the child had, a year earlier, made a known false accusation similar to that which supported this charge. Furthermore, the physical evidence contradicted the assertions made by the girl." (C-5). The indictment was dismissed on motion before the criminal trial Judge. (C-6). The Court concluded that the allegations were baseless or unsupported. Moreover, the Superior Court

Judge's Decision reveals that the entire incident was influence by an ongoing custody dispute and involved matters associated child discipline. Specifically, Hon. John Tomasello, JSC stated:

> Should the discipline have produced a favorable change in the child's behavior, it would have been highly justified. All of the evidence available to the State indicates that if there was any contact between the defendant and the alleged victim, it did not rise to the level required for criminal prosecution. Thus, it can be seen that the State did not offer sufficient proofs of this element of the offense to obtain an indictment.
>
> The need to discipline children arises both as a matter of morality, the protection of one's neighbor from the misbehavior-or-worse-of one's offspring, and as a matter of legal compulsion. See: definition of "neglect" at N.J.S.A. 9:6-1, "failure to do or permit to be done any act necessary for the child's physical or moral well-being," and various parental responsibility laws.
>
> There are increasing demands on parents to see that their children are law abiding, and they are given precious few sources to do so by the State. One of them is the right to use physical force in discipline. N.J.S.A. 2C:3-8.
> The State may well argue that this is a trial issue. However, it is more than that, because this grand jury was not properly charged with regard to the law and could well have indicted based on the statements of criminality. It is highly inappropriate to fail to charge the grand jury with definitions of criminality, as it may lead to an indictment that is not otherwise obtainable, as here. Thus, the Court must dismiss the indictment on either theory. (C-6).

In the matter at bar, I FIND that petitioner, a school employee, was involved in an unfortunate contentious family matter. An immediate suspension appeared to be justified given the nature of the allegations and pending charges. However, as of October 12, 2001, petitioner was totally exonerated of the charge. There has been no evidence offered by the district that petitioner should have remained suspended, even in the absence of criminal charges. The record is barren of any evidence that petitioner acted wrongfully or was a risk to students. In essence, petitioner did nothing wrong if measured by a criminal or civil standard. The allegation of any wrongdoing was dismissed as baseless. In fact petitioner asserts that "Mr. Lopez was arrested because of an overzealous prosecutor who pursued a cause of action on untrue assertions in the face of evidence that contradicted the compliant by an adolescent seeking to shed the parental yoke of her father in favor of a permissive lifestyle wit her mother who never enjoyed the custody the child." (Petitioner's brief at page 10). Apparently, the criminal trial Judge agreed. In the spectrum of possible outcomes, a pretrial dismissal of an indictment is about the best possible vindication. In view of the aforementioned, the district reinstated petitioner but refused to do so with back pay and other benefits. Had petitioner been culpable in a civil sense, applied for Pretrial Intervention, accepted a plea agreement or presented some other concern to the district, then withholding back pay would be plausible. However, none of the aforementioned occurred.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner must be awarded all of his back pay, vacation time, benefits, pension credit and any other benefits from the first day of such suspension. Griffin, supra., N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3; N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. To suspend a school employee, without pay, because they were involved in a contentious family matter resulting in criminal charges is reasonable. However, if they are fully exonerated, as in this case, it is unreasonable to not fully reinstate the teacher with all rights and emoluments. The districts failure to do so does not comport with "fundamental fairness" as expressed in Griffin, Beatty, supra. This type of action could have a chilling effect upon school board employees involved in difficult family matters. It may impact or deter necessary child discipline for fear losing one's wages and benefits. Mere "trumped up charges" and the fear of the related consequences, including a suspension with no right to recover back pay, could negatively impact important family matters and decisions. The threat of filing charges could disrupt the process of resolving family matters. The present matter is a clear indication of just how family matters can carelessly spiral out of control and spill over in a way that seriously affects the family unit's financial well being. I CONCLUDE that withholding back pay and benefits, under the circumstances presented in this case, is simply not justified.

Finally, petitioner addressed the timeliness of his request for relief. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. The regulation requires that a petition for relief be filed with the Commissioner "no later than 90 days from the date of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education...." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. Petitioner argues that his request for relief was timely because the district never issued a final order, resolution or decision. The charges against petitioner were dismissed by the Superior Court on October 21, 2001. The Order and Decision were mailed to petitioner on December 17, 2001. Back pay negotiations between counsel for the district and petitioner ensued but did not yield a final order or decision from the board of education. There were extensive negotiations between counsel but no formal board action was taken. (C-7).

Alternatively, petitioner was not served with notice of any formal decision or order of the board. Accordingly, petitioner argues that its action was timely.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner's request for relief was filed timely in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. There was nothing presented by respondent that could be construed as a final order, resolution or decision by the Bridgeton Board of Education. Hence, petitioner did not fail to act in a timely manner absent notice of (and proper service) a final action, resolution or decision by the Bridgeton Board of Education.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons set forth above, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's request for relief is hereby GRANTED. I CONCLUDE and ORDER that petitioner be awarded all of his back pay, plus interest, vacation time, benefits, pension credit and any other benefits from the first day of such suspension subject to mitigation for any earnings, wages or unemployment benefits gained by petitioner during the relevant period.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful review of the record in this matter, and assuming, arguendo, that this matter was timely filed, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), the Commissioner is compelled to modify the legal conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that the pertinent statute provides that:

> Any employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary as provided in chapter 6 [18A:6] of which this section is a supplement.[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3.

[1] It is undisputed that petitioner is a campus police officer and, as such, is not a tenured employee. The exception noted herein, then, is not applicable.

It is clear from the undisputed facts in this matter, that, contrary to the plain language in statute, the Board suspended petitioner without pay on November 14, 2000, although he was not indicted until January 2001.[2]

Notably, however, the statute is silent on the issue of back pay subsequent to the disposition of a criminal indictment. In this connection, the Commissioner has recently declared, and the State Board has affirmed, that there is no basis under education law to award back pay regardless of the disposition of the criminal indictment. Robert Busler v. Board of Education of the City of East Orange, Essex County, decided August 30, 2001, aff'd State Board of Education February 6, 2002. See, also, Pawlak v. Board of Education of the Borough of Hopatcong, Sussex County, 1988 S.L.D. 154. Thus, although petitioner attempts to distinguish Busler as "not relevant to this case because the defendant in that action availed himself of the PTI program as a way of avoiding the prosecution for which he was indicted" (Petitioner's Memorandum of Law at 8-9), the Commissioner does not find the holding in Busler to be so limited.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is modified as set forth herein. The Board is hereby directed to compensate petitioner for all back pay and emoluments due from November 14, 2000 until the date of his indictment in January 2001.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

Petitioning early childhood education center sought funding for Abbott services it allegedly provided to the District from September 4, 2001 through January 31, 2002. The District contended the center was not functioning or contracted as an approved Abbott provider during the period in question.

The ALJ found that, even though the issues in this matter involve a contract dispute, since the resolution of these issues was grounded in the regulations governing the establishment of Abbott preschools, they are proper issues to be determined by the Commissioner. In light of the testimony of the witnesses and the record in evidence, the ALJ found that the center failed to sustain the burden of proving that it was in compliance with the regulatory requirements for an approved "Abbott" preschool from September 2001 through January 2002, notwithstanding the absence of a contract. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioners had failed to demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence that the center was providing authorized and verifiable subcontractor Abbott preschool services during the time in question. The Commissioner agreed that the center was not functioning as a de facto Abbott preschool prior to its execution of a contract with the District. Moreover, the Commissioner found that petitioners failed in their burden of proof to establish the accuracy of their claims that they were compliant with Abbott guidelines. The petition was dismissed.

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASEAND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this case, Petitioner, Silver Fox Learning Center, an Early Childhood Education Center seeks funding for "Abbott" services allegedly provided to eligible three and four year olds residing within the District, from September 4, 2001 through January 31, 2002. Respondent District asserts center was not functioning or contracted as an approved "Abbott" provider during the period at issue.

This matter was transferred by order of the Honorable Burrell I. Humphrey from the Superior Court of New Jersey on September 18, 2002, with direction that it be heard and decided on an expedited basis. In the matter before the Commissioner, the City of Paterson, the individual Respondent DeMolli, were dismissed as parties to the matter before the Commissioner.

The Department of Human Services did not file an answer because, pursuant to a consent agreement, if the Center is found to have a valid "Abbott" contract with the District for the period at issue, it will fund the services for which it is responsible.

On January 6, 2003, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The scheduling of this matter was hampered by severe weather conditions and heavy caseload with statutorily imposed deadlines. It was ultimately scheduled to be heard on June 2, 3 & 5, 2003.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

1. Silver Fox Learning Center (hereinafter "Silver Fox"), a non-profit corporation located in Paterson, New Jersey, was formed to provide early childhood education in accordance with the Supreme Court directives in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (hereinafter "Abbott V").

2. Abbott V requires the Commissioner of Education to make funds available to poor districts to provide educational services and facilities to three and four year olds in designated school districts.

3. The State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (hereinafter "Paterson") is one of these districts.

4. Construction of Silver Fox began in Paterson in the Spring of 2001.

5. Silver Fox was opened for the start of the 2001 school year in September 2001.

6. The Silver Fox Board of Trustees was created on November 9, 2001.

7. Silver Fox currently has enrolled 45 students, who are each provided one hot meal and one cold meal per day pursuant to federal guidelines. The hours of operation are between 7:30 a.m. and 6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, as required by Abbott V, supra. The services are provided free to the residents of Paterson but should be paid portionally by Paterson and the New Jersey Department of Human Services (hereinafter "DHS").

8. Silver Fox has not received any funding from either source for the time period from September 4, 2001 through January 31, 2002.

9. Silver Fox has been unable to pay all of its vendors and has not made lease payments and certain required tax payments.

10. Silver Fox was required to borrow money to pay operating expenses and salaries which resulted in a regular pay check.

11. Silver Fox's lack of funding has also resulted in the incursion of fines and penalties from the State and Federal taxing authorities.

12. Silver Fox executed an "Abbott Preschool Educational Contract" (hereinafter "the contract") with Paterson on February 4, 2002.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Because the petition in the opening statements of counsel sounded in theories of breach of contract, unjust enrichment and equitable estoppel, I raised the issue of the Commissioner's jurisdiction to hear and decide the matter.

For the reasons set forth below, I CONCLUDE that the Commissioner has jurisdiction to determine whether Silver Fox is entitled to funds as a provider of early childhood education for services rendered prior to the execution of the contract with the State-Operated School District of Paterson.

The Commissioner of Education has "fundamental and indispensable" jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, which provides, in relevant part, "[t]he commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine . . . all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws."[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; see, Balsley v. N. Hunterdon Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434, 438 (1990); Hinfrey v. Matawan Regional Bd. of Educ., 77 N.J. 514, 525 (1978). The courts have "repeatedly reaffirmed the great breadth" of this power, yet it is not limitless. Id. at 524. Where a controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction even though it may pertain to school personnel. East Brunswick Bd. of Educ. v. Twp. Council, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966).

Generally, contractual disputes are excepted from the Commissioner's jurisdiction because an interpretation of contractual language, rather than school law, is necessary to determine the outcome of the claim, and the expertise of the agency is not needed. The courts have affirmed this lack of jurisdiction over contractual disputes. See Picogna v. Bd. of Educ. of Cherry Hill Twp., 249 N.J. Super. 332, 335 (App. Div. 1991) (no jurisdiction over contract claim of non-tenured school employee because no interpretation of school laws is required); South Orange-Maplewood Educ. Ass'n. v. Bd. of Educ. of South Orange, 146 N.J. Super. 457, 463 (App. Div. 1977) (no jurisdiction where dispute involved interpretation of sabbatical leave provisions of agreement and no statutory interpretation was required); Newark Teachers Union v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 149 N.J. Super. 367, 372 (Ch. Div. 1977) (no need to defer to administrative expertise since the only question properly before the court is one of contract interpretation). However, the courts have also considered circumstances that resulted in a determination to split jurisdiction between the court and agency. In Archway Programs, Inc., v. Pemberton Township BOE, 352 N.J. Super. 420 (App. Div. 2002), the court stated:

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 provides in its entirety:

> The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the state board or of the commissioner. For the purposes of this Title, controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws.

> The basic proposition that no administrative officer or agency, absent a specific grant of legislative authority, is empowered to decide questions of law, such as those arising in contract actions, applies to the Commissioner of Education even in the context of his plenary authority to decide controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. The Commissioner's authority is not exclusive where particular statutes provide alternate routes for issue resolution ... or where the matter involves a question of law outside the purview of the school laws.
> [Id. at 426 (citations omitted).]

Finally, a dispute involving both contractual and statutory interpretations has been found to be within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner. See New Jersey Educ. Ass'n. v. Trenton, Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 481, 489 (incidental interpretation of the contract that is necessary to resolve education claims is within the Commissioner's jurisdiction); Kohn v. Bd. of Educ., City of Vineland, EDU 8705-00, Initial Decision, (July 26, 2001), adopted, Comm'r. (Sept. 14, 2001) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (since superintendents are tenured for the term of their contract, violation of the contract may be a violation of school laws and as such is within the Commissioner's jurisdiction).

The matter herein involves an Abbott district, the subject of numerous decisions rendered by our Supreme Court. In Abbott V, the Court direct:

> the Commissioner to exercise his power under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-6b and –16 to require all Abbott districts to provide... pre-school for three- and four-year olds. ... In directing the implementation of pre-school programs in the Abbott schools, the Commissioner must ensure that such programs are adequately funded...
> [Abbott, supra 153 N.J. at 508.]

The Court went on to hold:

> We recognize that disputes will occur in the administration of ... these reforms. Those disputes will involve issues arising from the implementation, extension, or modification of existing programs, ... the allocation of budgeted funds, the need for additional funding ... Such disputes shall be considered "controversies" arising under the School Laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-1 to 7F-34.

N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.1 to –9.6, which governs appeals of Abbott district reforms states:

> An aggrieved applicant for Department authorization to improve or amend an existing program, adopt a supplemental program or service, implement a required secondary program, build or renovate a school facility or seek additional Abbott v. Burke State aid may appeal to the Commissioner in accordance with the provisions of this subchapter.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.1 (emphasis added).]

The current dispute is seeking a determination of whether payment of funds to Silver Fox is appropriate. Such a determination requires an initial analysis of whether Silver Fox was operating an approved preschool learning center as of September 1, 2001. If not, was Silver Fox operating in compliance with the regulation so as to be a de facto Abbott preschool? If so, is funding permissible for such a program without an executed a contract with the Abbott district? The resolution of these issues is grounded in the regulations governing the establishment of "Abbott" preschools; thus, they are proper issues to be determined by the Commissioner.

Petitioner asserts that Silver Fox relied on actions and representations of Respondent, Paterson School District and proceeded to borrow and expend money to initiate a model preschool Abbott program based on those representations. Analysis of the testimony, however, reveals that whatever representations may have been made were vague hearsay statements made to Carol Ann Gauthier, the Silver Fox representative at least from the inception of the program until some time in October or November 2001, or to Laverne Davis, the first Director of Silver Fox, neither of whom testified. Although, pursuant to the rules of this forum, hearsay may be admissible, the testimony regarding the representatives made by Respondent to Gauthier and Davis are recounted accounts to Mr. Ambrosio and Dr. Powers. They are, therefore, even less reliable in addition to which there is no corroborative evidence to validate this testimony.

Moreover, the testimony of Respondent's witnesses places the circumstances under which the representations were made in the context of budget development for the next school year, i.e., the discussions which took place between Petitioner and Respondent in the Fall of 2001 were in contemplation of the next school year; moreover, the budget funds for the 2001-02 school year had been committed in the Fall of 2000.

Based on the foregoing, as well as the further testimony of Respondent's witnesses that, at the time in question, Respondent did not consider them an "Abbott" preschool because Petitioner was not a member of the Paterson preschool collaborative and, thus, were not monitored by Respondent, I FIND that Petitioner was not an approved "Abbott" preschool during the time in question.

Turning next to the issue of whether Silver Fox was de facto operating an Abbott preschool program, in compliance with the regulatory requirements, from September 2001 to January 2002, notwithstanding the absence of a contract, an examination of the regulatory requirements is appropriate. The regulations require the Board to cooperate with or utilize a licensed child care provider whenever practical to implement required early childhood education programs; such cooperative efforts shall not duplicate programs or services otherwise available in the community.

The relevant regulations provide minimum standards which the licensed day care provider must meet in order to provide preschool services to children in Abbott districts. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(c) et seq. Analysis of the testimony presented by Petitioner discloses first that Silver Fox received a temporary approval to operate a child care center from the Department of Human Services on September 19, 2001. (P-5). The approval expires 30 days from the date of issuance. According to the testimony of Dr. Powers, President of the Board of Trustees, the temporary license was continuing at the time of hearing.

Although Dr. Powers and Mr. Ambrosio, who is also a member of the Board of Trustees, testified at great length to their compliance with the requirements of the regulations, much of their testimony was conclusory rather than specific. Moreover, that which offered specific details was unsupported by documentation. For example, Mr. Ambrosio testified that he has personal knowledge of the facility's compliance with all requirements and that he spent a great deal of time making sure they were in compliance. However, it was not clear whether he was testifying whether he meant compliance with the contract or compliance with the regulatory provision. In any case, the testimony offered on such issues as whether they were in compliance with the regulation was evasive and vague at best.

Although it is clear from some of the documentation that the facility was in compliance with some of the regulations, there are omissions on other points. For example, it is clear that there was at least one teacher for every 15 children and that class size did not exceed 15 children as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(c)1. However, the following section of the regulation requires that the programs provided meets the department's early childhood program expectations linked to the core curriculum content standards and integrated with the Whole School Reform models utilized in the district. There is no indication in the record, other than Dr. Powers' testimony that the program planners wished to design a program to exceed the minimum standards that Silver Fox was in compliance with this regulation. In addition, there is nothing in the record which reflects the Board of Trustees imposed an obligation upon the existing teachers who lacked academic credentials to make progress toward a Bachelor's degree and a teacher of preschool through grade three endorsement by September 2004, as required by the regulations.

Based on the foregoing I FIND that Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proving that Silver Fox was in compliance with the regulatory requirements for an approved "Abbott" preschool during the period from September 1, 2001 to January 31, 2002, notwithstanding the absence of a contract. Accordingly, I further FIND, therefore, it is unnecessary to reach the issue of whether funding is permissible for such a program since I have found that Petitioner has failed to prove compliance. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that this petition should be dismissed with prejudice.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY; DR. ANNA DE MOLLI, ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT OF THE PATERSON PUBLIC SCHOOL DISTRICT;[1] NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES; WILLIAM LIBRERA, NEW JERSEY COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION;[2] THE CITY OF PATERSON; AND FELIX ESPOSITO, IN HIS CAPACITY AS PATERSON CODE ENFORCEMENT OFFICIAL,[3]	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter, including hearing transcripts, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the District's reply thereto were filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

Initially, petitioners except to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that the Commissioner has jurisdiction to decide this matter, asserting that, in directing the parties to [1] On November 22, 2002, the parties submitted a Stipulation of Dismissal, without costs against either party and without prejudice, with respect to Dr. Anna DeMolli as a respondent.

[2] A Consent Order of Settlement between petitioners and State respondents, the New Jersey State Department of Human Services and the Commissioner of Education, was entered on June 4, 2003, providing that, if Silver Fox Learning Center, Inc., is found to have a valid "Abbott" contract with the Paterson School District for the period at issue, the Department of Human Services will fund the services for which it is responsible.

[3] Prior to the Superior Court's transmittal of this matter to the Commissioner, the City of Paterson and Felix Esposito were dismissed by the Court as respondents in this matter, without prejudice, as the result of a settlement agreement.

submit briefs as to whether the Trial Court/Commissioner has jurisdiction to decide this case, the "Trial Court" rightly perceived this matter as a breach of contract action that alleged other common law causes of action. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 4) Pointing to Archway Programs, Inc. v. Pemberton Township Board of Education, 352 N.J. Super. 420, 432, 426 (App. Div. 2002), petitioners acknowledge that the Appellate Division held that the Commissioner had primary jurisdiction in addressing the claims of the parties in the Archway matter, including petitioner's breach of contract and other asserted claims of unjust enrichment or quantum merit in that matter, but petitioners herein assert that the Appellate Division also found that, absent a specific grant of legislative authority, the Commissioner, even in the context of his plenary authority to decide controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, is not empowered to decide questions of law, such as those arising in contract disputes. (Id. at 4-5) Thus, petitioners submit, they are entitled to have their "strong common law claims," which were not addressed or disposed of by the ALJ's decision, decided by the Superior Court. (Id. at 5)

Petitioners also argue, inter alia, that the ALJ's findings that: 1) Silver Fox Learning Center, Inc. (Silver Fox) was open from the start of the school year; 2) Silver Fox was formed to provide Abbott[4] educational services; 3) the lack of funding from September 4, 2001 through January 31, 2002 caused Silver Fox many problems; and 4) a contract was entered into between the Board and Silver Fox, do not support the ALJ's ultimate conclusion that Silver Fox should not be funded for the period in question because it was not compliant with the Abbott guidelines. (Id. at 6) These "material inconsistencies," petitioners' proclaim, call for the rejection of the Initial Decision. (Ibid.) Petitioners further assert that the ALJ's conclusion that

[4] On May 21, 1998, the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey issued its decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) containing, among its mandates, the requirement that the Commissioner of Education "exercise his power under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-6b and -16 to require all Abbott districts to provide half-day pre-school for three-and four-year olds." (at 508) The Court further clarified the requirements of Abbott V as to early childhood education and required Department of Human Services (DHS) licensed child care providers to meet enhanced standards in its decision in Abbott v. Burke, 163 N.J. 95 (2000) (Abbott VI). In response, the State Board adopted regulations requiring local boards of education, in cooperation with DHS licensed child care providers, to provide full-day, full-year early childhood education programs by the 2001-2002 school year. See N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(a).

Silver Fox should not be funded for the period in question is also directly at odds with the objective facts and evidence in the record, i.e., Silver Fox's possession of a sign that is given only to schools that are part of the District's collaborative, and the content of the Philosophy Statement appearing in the parent handbook stating Silver Fox's goals to meet or exceed the educational and professional guidelines required of it. (Id. at 7-8) Citing to the transcripts, petitioners posit that Silver Fox was compliant with the other Abbott guidelines in all other relevant respects in that:

1. Silver Fox had a license from the Division of Youth and Family Services;
2. Silver Fox had certified teachers with experience in other Abbott schools;
3. Silver Fox had classrooms of 15 students with a teacher and a teacher's aide;
4. Silver Fox had separate contracts with its teachers and teacher's aides;
5. Silver Fox had performed background checks on its staff;
6. Dr. Harry Powers, President of the Board of Directors of Silver Fox, testified that a curriculum was developed that was exemplary;
7. Silver Fox had professional development procedures in place for its teachers;
8. Silver Fox had a certified School Board Administrator working on its budget between September 2001 and January 2002. (Id. at 9-10)

Additionally, petitioners aver that the District did not rebut the testimony of petitioners' witnesses, Dr. Powers and John Ambrosio, who testified that no one from the Paterson School District challenged Silver Fox's compliance with the Abbott guidelines at any time during the period from September 1, 2001 to January 30, 2002. (Id. at 10)

Moreover, petitioners claim that the ALJ failed to consider any of the three causes of action raised in the petition, i.e., breach of contract, unjust enrichment and equitable estoppel. (Id. at 11) With respect to the allegations of breach of contract, petitioners aver that the express language of the contract requires Silver Fox to be open from September 1, 2001 through June 30, 2002, and that District's Database Management Specialist Corey Fronte's explanation that her failure to change the mandated opening date in the contract was an oversight is "simply not believable in light of Ms. Fronte's expressed ability to make changes to the form [of the] Contract and the fact that she changed several critical dates in the Contract." (Id. at 12) Citing In re Miller's Estate, 90 N.J. 210 (1982) and Kearney & Trecker Corp. v. Master Engraving Co., Inc., 234 N.J. Super. 466 (Law Div. 1988), petitioners claim that any ambiguity in the contract is to be construed against the District as the party who drafted it. (Ibid.) Additionally, pointing to Dontzin v. Myer, 301 N.J. Super. 501, 507 (App. Div. 1997) and Burley v. Prudential Ins. Co. of America, 251 N.J. Super 493, 500 (App. Div. 1991), inter alia, petitioners posit that Section I of the contract is specific, while Section III of the contract is general[5] and that it is well-settled that specific terms of a contract have control over general terms. (Id. at 12-13)

With respect to petitioners' claim of unjust enrichment, petitioner avers that the District was well aware of Silver Fox's status as an Abbott school, that Assistant Superintendent DeMolli had first-hand knowledge that Silver Fox was open as of September 4, 2001, and that the District benefited from the provision of Abbott services by Silver Fox during the period at issue. (Id. at 13) In that the Abbott services provided by Silver Fox fulfilled the mandate imposed on the District by the Commissioner to provide full-day, full-year early childhood education services, petitioners assert that the District has been unjustly enriched at Silver Fox's expense. (Id. at 14)

[5] In pertinent part, Section I of the contract states:

> The Provider shall provide a full-day, full-year early childhood educational program to children residing in the Paterson Public Schools District commencing September 1, 2001 and ending June 30, 2002. (Exhibit P-14 at 2)

Section III(A) of the contract states:

> The Term of this Agreement shall be from February 1, 2002 to August 31, 2002. (Exhibit P-14 at 4)

Turning to petitioners' argument that the District should be precluded from denying payment based on the doctrine of equitable estoppel, petitioners claim that: 1) Silver Fox notified the District that it was opening an Abbott school; 2) the Assistant Superintendent attended the Silver Fox opening ceremonies in September 2001; 3) Silver Fox was given a sign by the District that represented to the citizens of Paterson that it was a "Participating" Abbott school; and Carlotta Blakely, an aide to Assistant Superintendent DeMolli, testified that she expressly told Dr. DeMolli that Silver Fox was enrolling students as an Abbott school. (Id. at 15) If Silver Fox was not considered an Abbott school as the District claims, petitioners submit, with the District's knowledge that Silver Fox was operating as an Abbott school, "it is both appalling and astonishing" that Dr. DeMolli, who oversees the District's Abbott schools, did not feel an obligation to advise the parents of Silver Fox's students that Silver Fox was not an Abbott school, nor did she ask Silver Fox to shut down as an Abbott school. (Id. at 14-17) Since the District allowed Silver Fox to open as an Abbott school, never notified Silver Fox that it was not considered to be an Abbott school, never notified Silver Fox that it was not compliant with the Abbott or District requirements and never notified Silver Fox that it would not be funded for the Fall of 2001-2002, petitioners assert that the District should be equitably estopped from denying payment for the period from September 1, 2001 through January 31, 2002. (Id. at 17-18)

In reply, the District claims that, although Silver Fox did operate prior to February 1, 2002, when it became authorized by written contract with the District to provide Abbott pre-school services to Paterson children, it did so without authorization by the District. (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 2) The District avers that, since it did not authorize Silver Fox to operate as an Abbott preschool prior to February 1, 2002, it did not monitor the center nor budget for payment to Silver Fox. (Ibid.) The reason Silver Fox did not become part of the Paterson collaborative until February 2002, the District asserts, is that it was not properly managed. (Ibid.) The District further proffers that when the District became aware of Silver

Fox's situation in the Fall of 2001 during budget planning for the 2002-2003 school year, it worked with Silver Fox to develop a budget that would allow the District to contract with Silver Fox mid-year for 2001-2002. (Ibid.) That contract, the District argues, was within the District's budget for that year and specified the period of time of the contract and also specified the dollar amount. (Ibid.) Additionally, the District submits that there are no funds set aside or available for an Abbott preschool to operate on its own without approval from the District or the State. (Ibid.)

The District explains that when the Silver Fox contract was prepared to reflect mid-year commencement of services the standard Department of Education form was used and all of the dates were adjusted to reflect the mid-year commencement, except for the provision that delineates the responsibility for DHS wrap around and supplemental day services, which was not changed due to an oversight. (Id. at 3) The District claims that the incorrect date makes no sense in the context of the entire agreement and was properly explained as a clerical error. (Ibid.)

With respect to petitioners' claim that it had a Paterson Abbott Preschool banner, the District avers that it does not know how Silver Fox acquired the banner because Silver Fox was not authorized to provide contracted services until February 1, 2002, and that a banner is no substitute for a contract. (Ibid.) The District expresses its agreement with the ALJ's finding that "there was no clear and convincing evidence that Silver Fox was providing authorized and verifiable subcontractor Abbott preschool services." (Ibid.) The District also submits that the only testimony offered by Silver Fox was that of a developer of the project, who is also a member of the Board, and a consultant who serves as Board President, and that neither of these two individuals possessed first-hand knowledge of the day-to-day operations of Silver Fox. (Id. at 4)

With respect to the Commissioner's jurisdiction to hear this matter, the District relies on Archway, supra, and argues: 1) that it is both permissible and appropriate for the Commissioner to decide if an educational provider may claim reimbursement for a period in which there is no contract, and 2) that the within matter is under the primary jurisdiction of the Commissioner to decide whether "the services purportedly provided, but never proven to be provided, are subject to comprehensive early childhood guidelines." (Ibid.)

Turning to the question of whether Silver Fox was an approved Abbott preschool during the period in question, the District points out that the only two individuals who provided testimony on behalf of Silver Fox executed "Resolutions" stating that they had absolutely no participation in the affairs of Silver Fox prior to November 9, 2001. (Id. at 5) Thus, the District claims, Silver Fox relied upon witnesses who could not supply the necessary proofs and that petitioners could not prove, after the fact, that all the necessary requirements, i.e, teacher qualifications, class sizes, attendance and the like had been met. (Ibid.)

Moreover, the District argues that, although Silver Fox may have been formed in 2001 and may have opened in September 2001, it was not an Abbott preschool until the District agreed to contract for services with it, commencing February 1, 2002. (Id. at 6) Although petitioners claim to have common law claims, the District avers that, as in Archway, supra, petitioners have failed to meet the initial hurdles regarding entitlement for these claims to be considered in that such claims can proceed to a court only if petitioners can meet their burden of proving that Silver Fox met the regulatory requirements for the period in question. (Ibid.) The District concludes that there is no need for further proceedings in that primary jurisdiction rests with the Commissioner. The District, therefore, concludes that Silver Fox is not entitled to funding for September 2001 through January 2002 because Silver Fox did not meet all of the regulatory requirements and because it did not have a contract. (Ibid.)

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, the transcripts, the exceptions and the reply thereto filed in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioners have failed to sustain their burden of proving that Silver Fox Learning Center, Inc., was in compliance with the regulatory requirements to be considered an approved Abbott preschool during the period from September 1, 2001 through January 31, 2002.

With respect to the Commissioner's jurisdiction to determine whether Silver Fox in entitled to receive funds for its early childhood education program prior to the execution of a contract with the District, the Commissioner points out that it is well-settled that jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws rests with the Commissioner of Education. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; Balsley, supra; and Hinfey, supra. As noted by the ALJ, generally, contractual disputes are not within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. However, there are circumstances where the jurisdiction to hear a matter is split between the Commissioner and the courts and where a contractual dispute requires an interpretation of the underlying school law. See Archway, supra; New Jersey Educ. Ass'n, supra; and Kohn, supra. In the instant matter, a determination is required as to whether Silver Fox was operating an approved Abbott preschool as of September 1, 2001, and, if not, whether Silver Fox was operating in compliance with regulations so as to be considered as operating a de facto Abbott preschool, notwithstanding the fact that a contract for preschool services was not executed with the District until February 4, 2002.

The Supreme Court in Abbott V, supra, directed the Commissioner to require that all Abbott school districts provide preschool education for three- and four-year-olds. The resolution of whether Silver Fox was operating an approved Abbott preschool or, if not, was operating a de facto Abbott preschool during the period in question is grounded in the implementing regulations governing the establishment of Abbott preschools. As such, the Commissioner has jurisdiction to make this determination. Moreover, the Court in Abbott V recognized the possibility of disputes arising with the implementation of its directed preschool requirement and addressed this issue, as follows:

> We recognize that disputes will occur in the administration of public education in the era ushered in by these reforms. Those disputes will involve issues arising from the implementation, extension, or modification of existing programs, the need for additional supplemental programs, the allocation of budgeted funds, the need for additional funding, and the implementation of the standards and plans for the provision of capital improvements and related educational facilities. Such disputes shall be considered "controversies" arising under the School Laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-1 to 7F-34. Abbott V at 526.

For the reasons expressed above, therefore, the Commissioner concludes that the issues herein are proper issues to be decided by the Commissioner. In so concluding, the Commissioner points out that, notwithstanding petitioners' stated objections in their exceptions to the ALJ's conclusion that the Commissioner has jurisdiction in this matter, petitioners refer to the above quotation from Abbott V at 526 in response to the ALJ's request that the parties brief the issue of jurisdiction, and state that "[p]etitioner submits that the source of this Court's jurisdiction comes from Abbott itself." (Petitioners' Post-Trial Brief at 7) Citing Archway, supra, in support of its claim that the Court (OAL)[6] has jurisdiction to decide the matter, and arguing that the "City"[7] should not be permitted to argue that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over this matter, petitioners further state:

> Petitioner submits that it would be in bad faith now to allow the City to argue that this Court does not have jurisdiction.
> This case has been tried to a conclusion. The Petitioner has spent its time and has incurred legal fees to try this case. In the event that it is now forced to re-try the case in the Trial Court, it asks this

[6] Although petitioners repeatedly refer to OAL as a "Court," in fact, the OAL is a quasi-judicial forum established to provide hearings and proposed findings to New Jersey's administrative agency heads who are charged with final decision-making authority.

[7] Although petitioners refer to arguments anticipated by the "City," the sole remaining respondent in this matter at the time petitioners' post-hearing brief was submitted was the Paterson School District. A Settlement Agreement was executed between petitioners and the City of Paterson at Superior Court prior to this matter's transmittal to the Commissioner by that Court. See footnote 3.

> Court to award its attorney's fees and costs associated with the prosecution of this matter before the Commissioner and in this Court. (Id. at 9)

Next, the Commissioner turns to the question of whether petitioners have met their burden of proving that, during the period of September 1, 2001 through January 31, 2002, Silver Fox was an approved Abbott preschool or was operating in compliance with Abbott early childhood regulations so as to be considered a de facto Abbott preschool, and if so, whether funding is permissible. It is undisputed that it was the intent of the founders of Silver Fox to establish an Abbott preschool, that Silver Fox held its grand opening on September 6, 2001, that classes began on September 10, 2001, and that there was not an executed contract between the District and Silver Fox at the time of opening, nor until some five months later. Notwithstanding the founders' intent that Silver Fox would be an Abbott preschool upon opening in September, however, upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner concludes that Silver Fox was not operating as an Abbott preschool nor operating in compliance with Abbott early childhood regulations so as to be considered a de facto Abbott preschool during the period in question, but, rather, during the period from September 1, 2001 through January 31, 2002, Silver Fox can best be described as a work in progress towards becoming an Abbott preschool.

In this regard, the Commissioner points out that, since its opening in September 2001, Silver Fox has been operating under a series of Temporary Certificates of Occupancy (CO) issued for a period of 30 days, and, at the time of the hearing at OAL, Silver Fox was still operating on temporary CO's. (Tr. 6/2/2003 at 43) Moreover, with respect to the license to operate a Child Care Center, the Board President, Dr. Powers, testified at hearing that:

> Q And do you know at the time of opening or shortly thereafter whether or not Silver Fox obtained a license from the State?
> A We were in the process. The thing that we understood from Doctor DeMali's (sic) office, from the State Department of Education, from Human Services, the reason that we couldn't get a full license was because of the CO, and we anticipated getting the CO on a weekly basis.

Q Well, when you say you didn't have a license, did you have a temporary license?

A Yes, we had a temporary license.

Q Was that, the temporary license continues through today?

A Correct.
(Tr. 6/2/03 at 75-76)

Thus, Silver Fox was experiencing difficulty in getting all the approvals in place necessary to keep the school open as a Child Care Center, a threshold prerequisite for becoming an Abbott preschool as such approvals, were, and apparently still are, being issued on a month-to-month basis.[8]

Notwithstanding the claim by Silver Fox that its financial problems were a result of not being compensated as an Abbott preschool, the Commissioner finds that the failure to meet all of the criteria for establishing an Abbott preschool can be attributed squarely to its founders. By undated letter, Silver Fox advised the Paterson School District of its intent to participate in the Paterson Early Childhood Education Collaborative. (Exhibit P-6, in evidence) However, there is nothing in the record, absent third-party hearsay, to substantiate that there was any attempt by Silver Fox, prior to the school's opening in September 2001, to contract with the Paterson School District so as to establish the required relationship with the District to become an Abbott preschool. Under the auspices of founder Carol Ann Gauthier, Silver Fox began experiencing financial difficulties shortly after opening. The Charter Foundation of New Jersey, Inc., was responsible, under an August 14, 2001 Letter of Agreement between the Charter Foundation of New Jersey, Inc. and the Silver Fox Learning Center, for the fiscal management of the school and for performance of certain fiscal services. (Exhibit R-2, in evidence) As Board

[8] The record contains a copy of the initial Approval to Operate a Child Care Center for serving children ages 2 1/2-6 years of age from the Department of Human Services, issued September 19, 2001. The Approval indicates that it expires 30 days from the issuance date. (Exhibit P-5, in evidence) member Ambrosio testified, Carol Ann Gauthier, a founder of Silver Fox and also a trustee for the Charter Foundation of New Jersey, Inc., initially managed the financial affairs of Silver Fox, but when she began to write checks with insufficient funds:

> We--one of the other things we did after we--we got the CPA to give us an audit, opened up the new account, told the bank not to honor any checks from the old Silver Fox account, which was Ms. Gothie's (sic) signature, and then, we proceeded to fire Ms. Gothie (sic)—not have her resign. She was fired for cause." (Tr. 6/2/03 at 32)

> So, I think that she got swept up in the problem of not knowing how to handle the situation, and therefore, got indicted by the prosecutor because of -- not our school, because we didn't file charges against her, but Hovey filed charges against her with his school, and it had to do with checks that were cashed she claimed were owed her, and she was a signature on a check. So, that was simultaneous to this all happening when we fired her for cause. And the cause that we fired her for was mismanagement of the school--school funds, not the school. (Tr. 6/2/03 at 33)

Prior to November 9, 2001, Silver Fox was still operating under the auspices of the Charter Foundation of New Jersey, Inc. The Record does not reflect when Carol Ann Gauthier was removed for "mismanagement of school funds." It is noted, however, that, when the Board of Directors of Silver Fox was formed on November 9, 2001, Ms. Gauthier was still affiliated with Silver Fox as a nonvoting Board member. (Exhibit R-2, in evidence) The minutes of that meeting, as amended on November 16, 2001, state that:

> The stated purpose of the meeting was to constitute an official Board for the Silver Fox Learning Center, isolate the activities of Silver Fox Learning Center from all other entities and to clarify the relationship between the Silver Fox Learning Center, New Jersey Charter School Foundation, 236 Ellison Street LLC and Silver Fox LLC. (Minutes of Meeting, November 9, 2001, R-2, in evidence)

Additionally, as late as December 17, 2001, in a letter to Paterson Assistant Superintendent DeMolli, Silver Fox's Director, Laverne Davis, acknowledges that Ms. Gauthier was responsible for the financial problems at Silver Fox, stating "Dr. DeMolli, at present, we are operating without any funds of any kind due to poor planning by Ms. Carolann Gautier (sic) ." (Exhibit R-3, in evidence)

Moreover, during its first five months in existence, in addition to experiencing initial mismanagement of its funds, operating without a signed contract with the Paterson School District, operating under temporary CO's and temporary approvals from DHS, Silver Fox was still in the process of forming its Board of Director's[9] and obtaining appropriate insurance. In this regard, the Commissioner observes that the standard Department of Education contract form utilized for contracting for the provision of Abbott preschool services requires the contracted Child Care Center to carry General Liability Insurance of $3 million and Comprehensive Automobile Liability Insurance of $2 million. If the required insurance is not in effect, the District may refuse to make payment of any further monies until such times as the provider reinstates the insurance. (Paterson Public Schools Abbott Preschool Educational Program Contract 2001-2002 School Year, Exhibit P-14, in evidence) When queried as to when Silver Fox obtained insurance compliant with the terms of an Abbott preschool contract, Board Member Ambrosio testified that: "Silver Fox had no money to purchase insurance at all for the first half of the year" (Tr. 6/3/03 at 41) and, subsequently, testified that he didn't know for sure when Silver Fox became insured, that "you'd have to find out from Bolinger [the insurer]." (Tr. 6/3/03 at 41-42) The minutes of the Silver Fox Learning Center's Board meeting of January 9, 2002 indicate that some four months after opening, Silver Fox was attempting to secure insurance and provide the required certification documentation. The minutes reflect, inter alia, that: 1) "[r]elevant documentation pertaining to certification is being submitted as required;" 2) "T. Ambrosio is following through to obtain liability insurance;" and 3) "L. Davis will check companies for health benefit quotations."[10] (Exhibit R-2, in evidence) Thus, during the first five months of its operation, Silver Fox was operating without a signed contract for the provision of Abbott preschool services, was operating under temporary CO's and temporary approvals from the Department of Human Services to operate a Child Care Center, experienced initial mismanagement of its funds, did not establish a Board of Directors for the school until November 9, 2001, and in January 2002 was still attempting to resolve its insurance issues so as to fulfill the contract provisions required as a provider of Abbott preschool services for the Paterson School District.

Moreover, notwithstanding petitioners' claim that Silver Fox was compliant with Abbott guidelines in other respects during the period in question, i.e., that Silver Fox used certified teachers with experience in other Abbott schools; that Silver Fox had classes of 15 students with a teacher and a teacher's aide; that Silver Fox had a curriculum that was exemplary; that Silver Fox had professional development procedures in place for its teachers; that Silver Fox offered health services as the year progressed (Tr. 6/2/03 at 111); and that Silver Fox had a certified School Board Administrator working on its budget between September 2001 and January 2002 (Petitioners' Exceptions at 9-10), the Commissioner finds that petitioners have failed in their burden of proof to establish the accuracy of these claims. Silver Fox provided no witnesses with first-hand knowledge of the day-to-day operations of the school and did not provide adequate documentation to support its claims that its teachers were properly certified and that classes were comprised of Paterson residents and had the appropriate teacher-pupil ratio. With respect to whether Silver Fox's curriculum was consistent with that required to be considered an Abbott preschool, it is notable that petitioners did not submit any documentation of the curriculum content and whether it was consistent with requirements, but offered only the unsupported testimony of Board President Powers that "[w]e developed a curriculum, an instructional modality that was exemplary." (Tr. 6/02/03 at 75)

Finally, the Commissioner finds that petitioners have failed to establish that Silver Fox had the required relationship with the Paterson School District during the period September 1, 2001 through January 31, 2002 so as to become an Abbott preschool. As stated above, Silver Fox did not execute a contract with the Paterson School District until February 1, 2002. Petitioners claim that a relationship existed between Silver Fox and the Paterson School District prior to that time and offer as proofs of that relationship an undated letter of Silver Fox's intent to participate in the Paterson Early Childhood Education Cooperative, the possession of a banner given only to Abbott preschools, the attendance at Silver Fox's grand opening of Paterson School District staff assigned to monitor Abbott preschools, and a site visit by one of the staff members assigned to monitor Abbott preschools.

With respect to petitioners' claim that the banner was given only to Abbott preschools, and that possession of the banner alone proves that the Paterson School District considered Silver Fox to be an Abbott preschool, the Commissioner disagrees, pointing out that, although the District cannot explain how Silver Fox came into the possession of the banner, the banner itself is not specific as to Silver Fox and there are a number of possible explanations as to how Silver Fox obtained the banner, a recruitment tool to encourage parents to enroll their children in a Participating Preschool Center in the Paterson School District, as follows:

Moreover, the Commissioner finds that petitioners have failed to adequately document how Silver Fox came into possession of the banner, claiming that the banner was given to Ms. Gauthier, who did not testify at hearing, by some unnamed staff member of the Paterson School District at some unknown time.

Turning to the Grand Opening invitation, the Commissioner also observes that there is nothing in the invitation itself that indicates that Silver Fox is an Abbott preschool or that Silver Fox is affiliated in any manner with the Paterson School District. The invitation simply states:

> You're Invited
> Thursday, September 6th, 2001
> at 12 Noon
> To the dedication of > Silver Fox Learning Center
> By the > Charter Foundation of New Jersey, Inc.
> R.S.V.P. – September 4th at 973-278-8428
> (Exhibit P-1, in evidence)

Thus, attendance at the grand opening by Paterson School District staff does not lead to a conclusion that the District considered Silver Fox to be an Abbott preschool. Nor can the Commissioner conclude from the proofs presented that a site visit to Silver Fox by a District staff member constitutes the monitoring and reporting required of an Abbott preschool.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner concludes that the preponderance of the evidence does not establish that Silver Fox was providing authorized and verifiable subcontractor Abbott preschool services during the period September 1, 2001 through January 31, 2002 so as to entitle it to Abbott preschool funding during that period. It was presumptuous for Silver Fox to have assumed that, without an executed contract with the Paterson School District, simply by notifying the District of its intent to join the Paterson Early Childhood Education Collaborative and then proceeding to open a child care center under the auspices of the Department of Human Services that Silver Fox was automatically an Abbott preschool. To the extent that petitioners made such assumption, they did so at their own peril. Given the Commissioner's ultimate conclusion that Silver Fox Learning Center, Inc., was not functioning as a de facto Abbott preschool prior to its execution of a contract with the Paterson School District, it is unnecessary to reach to the issue of whether funding is permissible for a de facto Abbott preschool program operating without an executed contract with an Abbott district, or to reach to petitioners' claims of unjust enrichment and equitable estoppel. To the extent petitioners' assert other contractual claims, the Commissioner notes that he lacks jurisdiction to consider these claims. Moreover, the court which transferred this matter to the Commissioner did not retain jurisdiction[11] and, therefore, there is no mechanism for the Commissioner to return this matter to the court.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons articulated herein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[12]

IN THE MATTER OF RONALD UDY, :

DAVID A. EWART AND FRANK B. FRAZIER, :

WOODSTOWN-PILESGROVE BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION, SALEM COUNTY. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

In consolidated matters, the School Ethics Commission determined that respondent Board members violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1 et seq. After considering the nature of the charges, the Commission found that Respondent Udy violated N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d) and (f) of the Code of Ethics and Respondents Ewart and Frazier violated N.J.S.A. 1A:12-24.1(a) and (f) of the Code of Ethics when they overruled the recommendation of the superintendent not to renew the District's former Supervisor of Guidance, C.L., who did not have the requisite certification for such position, and when they voted to create a new administrative position for C.L. without the recommendation of the superintendent, surrendering their independent judgment to supporters of C.L. The Commission recommended removal for Udy and censure for Ewart and Frazier.

Upon review of the record, the Deputy Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated for review pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33, and whose decision was restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalties, concurred with the Commission's recommendations of removal for Udy and censure for Ewart and Frazier. The Deputy Commissioner, however, in light of comments raising the troubling allegation of procedural errors in these consolidated matters, determined to stay the implementation of the penalties ordered, pending respondents' timely appeal to the State Board of Education.

IN THE MATTER	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
OF	:
	:	Docket No. C20-03/C21-03
RONALD UDY, DAVID A. EWART and FRANK B. FRAZIER	:	CONSOLIDATED DECISION
WOODSTOWN-PILESGROVE BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
SALEM COUNTY	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The above matter arises from a complaint filed by Woodstown-Pilesgrove Board of Education (Board) member John W. Morrison on May 2, 2003 alleging that fellow Board members Ronald Udy, David A. Ewart and Frank B. Frazier violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. Complainant also named Matthew Nowicki in the complaint, but withdrew his complaint against him. First, the complainant alleges that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members when they overruled the recommendation of the superintendent to not renew the District's former Supervisor of Guidance (C.L.) and voted to retain C.L. for the same position. Second, the complaint alleges that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d) and (f) when they voted to create a new administrative position for C.L. without the recommendation of the superintendent. Third, the complainant alleges that the respondents surrendered their independent judgment to supporters of C.L. in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f).

Mr. Udy and Mr. Ewart filed answers to the complaint through their counsel, John D. Jordan, Esquire, on June 13, 2003. Mr. Frazier filed a separate answer on June 3, 2003. In their answers, the respondents admit that they voted in favor of rehiring C.L. for the same position for which the superintendent recommended her non-renewal and voted to create a new administrative position for C.L. The respondents assert that it was in the best interest of the District to keep C.L. in the school system and that they had the legal right to take such action.

The Commission invited the parties to its August 26, 2003 meeting to present witnesses and testimony to aid in the Commission's investigation. Mr. Udy and Mr. Ewart were represented by Mr. Jordan. Mr. Frazier and the complainant appeared pro se. The Commission also heard testimony from board secretary, Susanne Fox; superintendent of schools, Michael Schreiner; and board members, Karen Malos and Patricia Parazewski. After hearing testimony, the Commission voted at its public meeting that Mr. Udy's conduct was in violation of the Code of Ethics, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d) and (f). The Commission found the conduct of Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier to be in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1 (a) and (f) of the Code of Ethics.

FACTS

The Commission found the following facts to be undisputed.

At all times relevant to the allegations in the complaint, Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier were members of the Woodstown-Pilesgrove Board of Education. Mr. Udy was elected vice-president of the Board in 2002 and has worked 32 years in the District, serving as superintendent of schools, high school principal and teacher. Mr. Ewart has intermittently served on the Board, with more than 6 years of experience, and is currently serving as the Board president. Mr. Frazier is currently a member of the Board.

In 1999, the Board filled the position of Supervisor of Guidance. C.L. held a teaching certificate and supervisor certification from the State of New Jersey, but did not hold certification for the position of Director of Student Personnel Services. C.L. was hired by the Board with the understanding that she would obtain the aforementioned certifications. In January, 2000, the job title for the position of Supervisor of Guidance was changed to Director of Guidance and C.L. was "flagged" by the New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE) for not having the necessary certification for the Director of Guidance position. The Board subsequently changed the title back to Supervisor of Guidance. No further "flags" were issued by the NJDOE.

A letter, dated January 17, 2001, to C.L. from the Pennsylvania Department of Education indicated:

> We have carefully reviewed and evaluated your application and accompanying credentials using certification Standards and Regulations of the State Board of Education of Pennsylvania, Chapter 49 Certification of Professional Personnel. Based upon the information you have submitted, the evaluation reveals that you have not met the requirements for the certificated [of Pupil Personnel Services].

The Superintendent received a letter, dated September 6, 2001, from the New Jersey Department of Education stating that in order for C.L. to qualify to serve as a Director of Student Personnel Services, C.L. would need to present a regular New Jersey Student Personnel Services endorsement. At the Board meeting of April 4, 2002, the superintendent recommended the non-renewal of C.L. in the position of Supervisor of Guidance and indicated that C.L. did not possess the required certification.

On April 22, 2002, the Superintendent issued a letter of non-renewal to C.L. On May 15, 2002, a hearing was held on the matter, at the request of C.L., who provided a letter dated February 26, 2001, from the Associate Dean for the Center for Education at Widener University. The letter indicated that C.L. had completed the course requirements for certification as Pupil Personnel Services Supervisor. The Board solicitor attended the hearing and advised the Board of N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.10 regarding the Director of Personnel Services certification, which provides in pertinent part:

> (a) This endorsement is required for any person who is assigned as a director, administrator or supervisor of guidance and student personnel services of a school system, including the supervision of educational activities in areas related to and within the guidance program.
>
> (b) The requirements are:
> > 2. A standard New Jersey student personnel services certificate or its equivalent...

During the May 15, 2002 Board meeting, Mr. Udy made a motion to retain C.L. as the Supervisor of Guidance. The motion was defeated by 5-6 vote. Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier voted in favor of retaining C.L.

At the request of the Board president, the county superintendent confirmed, in his letter of May 30, 2002, that any person in the position of Supervisor or Director of Guidance is required to hold the required certifications for Director of Student Personnel Services. At its meeting of June 4, 2002, the Board approved, by 10-1 vote, a resolution encouraging C.L. to gain the Student Personnel Services Certification and encouraged the superintendent to leave open the Supervisor of Guidance position for one year, to give CL the opportunity to obtain the required certifications.

During the Board's meeting of June 6, 2002, Mr. Udy made a motion to create a new administrative position for C.L. The Superintendent was not present at the meeting to make a recommendation to create the position, but did write a letter to the Board members indicating that she had reviewed Mr. Udy's proposal and was supportive of it. The motion was defeated by 5-6 vote. Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier voted in favor of the creation of a new position for C.L.

After C.L.'s non-renewal, her supporters organized to recall the Board president and vice-president. Board member, Patricia Parazewski, testified that during the public session of the Board's meeting of May 15, 2002, she saw Mr. Udy call Margaret Scholl, a member of the recall committee who was sitting across the room, on his cell phone to tell her that the Board had defeated his motion to retain C.L. for the position of Supervisor of Guidance. Ms. Parazewski indicated that she did not hear Mr. Udy's conversation, but read his lips. Mr. Udy denied the allegation.

There is no information to show that C.L. obtained the necessary certification for Student Personnel Services from the State of New Jersey, or that she completed the necessary coursework to obtain the certification

ANALYSIS

Complainants allege that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier overruled the recommendation of the superintendent and voted to rehire C.L. in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a). The Commission notes that in complaints alleging a violation of the Code of Ethics, the complainant has the burden of proving factually that the respondent's conduct is in violation of the Act.

Section 24.1(a) provides in pertinent part:

> I will uphold and enforce all laws, rules and regulations of the State Board of Education, and court orders pertaining to schools.

The Commission notes that the respondents were advised by the Board solicitor of the legal requirements under N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.10(a) and (b)(2), which mandate that Supervisors of Guidance hold a certification in Director of Student Personnel Services or Student Personnel Services. The Commission also recognizes the notification from the New Jersey Department of Education advising the superintendent of schools that C.L. did not hold the requisite certification. There is no information to show that C.L obtained the proper certifications. Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier argue that their decision to vote in favor of retaining C.L. was in the best interest of the District. The Commission disagrees. Although the Department of Education may not have "flagged" C.L. at the onset of her employment as Supervisor of Guidance, the law is clear. Under the aforementioned Department regulations, persons who hold the position of Supervisor or Director of Guidance must hold the Student Personnel Services certificate. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier failed to enforce the regulations of the State Board of Education and violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a).

Complainant also alleges that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier voted to create a new position without the recommendation of the superintendent in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d) and (f).

The Commission has found that the respondents violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) for failing to adhere to the law and voting to retain C.L. Similarly, the Commission finds that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier did not adhere to the law when they voted to create a new position for C.L., despite the requirement of N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.10(a) and (b)(2). Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a).

Section 24.1(c) provides:

> I will confine my board action to policy making, planning, and appraisal, and I will help to frame policies and plans only after the board has consulted those who will be affected by them.

The Commission finds that Mr. Udy's motions to retain C.L and to create a new position for her when there was no evidence that C.L. did hold the required certification, went beyond his duty of policy making, planning and appraisal.

Section 24.1(d) of the Code of Ethics provides:

> I will carry out my responsibility, not to administer the schools, but, together with my fellow board members, to see that they are well run.

Based upon Mr. Udy's extensive experience, serving in the District for 32 years and holding such positions as the superintendent of schools, it is presumed that he knows the laws pertaining to the schools. The Commission finds that Mr. Udy attempted to undermine the authority of the superintendent and circumvent the requirements under N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.10 when he made the aforementioned motions. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. Udy administered the schools in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

Section 24.1(f) states:

> I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or for the gain of friends.

The Commission finds that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) when they voted to retain C.L. as Supervisor of Guidance and voted to create a new position for her, although there was information to demonstrate that she had not gained the necessary certification and no evidence to show that she had completed the necessary coursework to obtain the certification for the position. The Commission finds that the facts lead one to conclude that this was done for C.L.'s gain, because she was a friend.

However, the Commission finds insufficient proof that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier surrendered their independent judgment to the supporters of C.L. in violation of the second prong of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f). Since it does find that all three respondents violated the first part of the section, the Commission finds a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A12-24.1(f).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Mr. Udy violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d) and (f) of the Code of Ethics and Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (f).

PENALTY

Based on the findings set forth above, demonstrating that Respondents violated the Code of Ethics for Board Members, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure regarding Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier. The Commission further recommends to the Commissioner the penalty of removal from office for Mr. Udy.

This decision, having been adopted by the Commission, shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, the respondent may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Resolution Adopting Decision – C20/21-03

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties, the documents submitted in support thereof; and the testimony, and,

Whereas, the Commission found that Ronald Udy violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d) and (f) and David A. Ewart and Frank B. Frazier violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (f) of the Code of Ethics For School Board Members; and

Whereas, the Commission believes that the penalty of removal is the appropriate sanction for Mr. Udy and the penalty of censure is appropriate for Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter finding the respondents in violation of the Code of Ethics and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose the aforementioned penalties.

IN THE MATTER OF RONALD UDY,	:
DAVID A. EWART AND FRANK B. FRAZIER,	:
WOODSTOWN-PILESGROVE BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record of this consolidated matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission") finding that Mr. Udy, Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier violated the Code of Ethics found at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1 et seq. have been reviewed. Therein, the Commission found that Mr. Udy violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d) and (f) of the Code of Ethics and that Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (f) of the Code of Ethics. The Commission recommended a penalty of removal for Mr. Udy, and censure for Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier. Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondents were provided 13 days from the mailing of the decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration.

Comments were filed on behalf of Mr. Udy and Mr. Ewart,[1] who primarily contend that they were denied due process in this matter. Respondents explain that the current matter was commenced by the filing of two complaints by John W. Morrison. Letters to [1] On October 14, 2003, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes received a letter from counsel for Mr. Udy and Mr. Ewart which made reference to "exceptions" that were filed on October 3, 2003. However, since there was no record of that filing with the Bureau, counsel was asked to forward another copy, which was received on October 16, 2003. Additionally, counsel's correspondence of October 14th appended a letter in support of the comments/exceptions. However, the Deputy Commissioner notes that in his review of a Commission decision, he is bound by the facts found by the Commission, as well as the Commission's determination that the facts constituted a violation of the Code of Ethics. Since it is his role to act upon the Commission's recommendation regarding sanction based upon the record it transmits to him, together with any written comments regarding the Commission's recommended penalty that may be filed by a party to the matter, the additional evidence could not be considered.

respondents dated May 8, 2003 from the School Ethics Commission provided notice of the complaints and also acknowledged that the complaints alleged violations of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. (Respondent Udy's and Ewart's Comments at 1-2)

Subsequent to the filing of their Answers, respondents were notified, by letters dated June 30, 2003, that, at the upcoming meeting scheduled for July 22, 2003, the Commission may take one of several actions; that is, the Commission "may table the matter and ask for additional information and/or advice, the Commission may dismiss the matter or the Commission may determine that probable cause exists." (Id. at 2) Thereafter, the meeting scheduled for July 22, 2003 was adjourned and rescheduled for August 26, 2003.

Respondents Udy and Ewart assert that, based on the aforementioned communications, "the litigants, including the Petitioner proceeded with the understanding that the August 26, 2003 meeting was to determine the existence of probable cause." (Ibid.) After that meeting, however, respondents report they were informed that the Commission found violations in both cases. Respondents Udy and Ewart, therefore, argue:

> The Commission did not proceed in accordance with the Administrative Code. Accordingly, the Respondents have been deprived of a meaningful opportunity to be heard with regard to the allegations made against them. Since the Complaints alleged violations of the School Ethics Act, the Respondents had the right to expect that their case would be heard in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.14 if the Commission found probable cause. That procedure was clearly communicated to the Respondents by the Commission through the letter of its Executive Director dated June 30, 2003. There is no fairness in advising parties that they are attending a probable cause hearing, and then informing them, after the hearing, that they have been found guilty. (Ibid.)

Moreover, Udy and Ewart find it implausible that the Commission could, on this record, conclude that there were no facts in dispute. However, assuming, arguendo, that the district. Under these circumstances, even a reprimand is a harsh result. (Ibid.)

Mr. Frazier submitted written comments which also addressed the Commission's findings and conclusions. With respect to the recommended sanctions, Mr. Frazier merely stated, "Mr. Udy is no more responsible then [sic] I am and should NOT be removed from the board. We all played an equal part and we should all be charged accordingly." (emphasis in text) (Frazier's Comments at 2)

Mr. Morrison, the complainant in this matter, submitted written comments, as well.[4] He acknowledges that there are "some minor errors in the Decision," (Morrison Comments at 1), but asserts that the Commission has drawn appropriate conclusions and recommended appropriate sanctions. (Ibid.)

Initially, the Deputy Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated for review pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33, emphasizes that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), the Commission's determination as to violation of the Act or Code of Ethics is not reviewable by him. Only the School Ethics Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act or Code of Ethics has occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of a violation by the School Ethics Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the recommended penalties for the respondents and its implementation and cannot reach in substance to the weaknesses in either procedure or content which were alleged by the respondents.

[4] Although complainants do not have standing to participate in proceedings held in accordance with alleged School Ethics Act violations, see, In the Matter of Frank Pannucci, Board of Education of the Township of Brick, Ocean County, State Board Decision March 1, 2000, slip opinion at 6-9, this decision was issued as a Code of Ethics violation. As such, the pertinent regulations provide that a complainant "has the burden to prove factually a violation under the Code of Ethics," N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.13(b), and therefore, may be fairly considered a participant in this matter.

Commission did so find, respondents maintain that it was then obliged to notify them of their right to submit written statements setting forth the reasons they should not be found in violation of the Act, as provided in regulation. (Id. at 3) N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.14.[2] Respondents reason that the Commission's failure to afford them due process has harmed their respective reputations and, in Mr. Udy's case, will serve to disenfranchise "the significant majority of residents" who voted for him. (Id. at 2) Respondents also take exception to the factual errors contained in the Commission's decision which, they argue, demonstrate that the process used by the Commission "was defective and that its decision is unreliable." (Id. at 3)[3]

On the issue of their respective penalties, although Respondents Udy and Ewart maintain that they did not violate either the Code of Ethics or the School Ethics Act, they urge the Commissioner to consider "the whole dispute, the merits of the positions advanced by the parties, the reasons for the actions of the Respondents and the extensive and distinguished service of the Respondents to their community." (Id. at 7) They continue:

> With regard to the proposal to rehire C.L., the respondents did nothing different than [sic] three predecessor Boards of Education. The proposal to fill the vacant position of Assistant Principal was supported by the Superintendent and would have helped to supply the District's need for administrative staff. The Respondents have advanced plausible reasons to support their understanding that their votes were not only legal, but in the best interests of the school

[2] As a demonstration of the harm that followed from these procedural errors, respondents note that the Commission found, at page 3 of its decision, that Mr. Udy made a call to Ms. Scheule, a member of the recall committee, on his cell phone during a public session of the Board's meeting on May 15, 2002. Respondents contend, however, that they had no notice that Mr. Morrison intended to introduce such evidence and, therefore, Mr. Udy had no opportunity to rebut the allegation. "Of course," respondents reason, "had the August 26th meeting proceeded as a probable cause hearing, there would be no harm in allowing the testimony." (Id. at 5)

[3] Respondents detail the following errors: Mr. Udy worked in the District for 14 years, rather than 32, as stated by the Commission (id. at 3); with respect to Mr. Udy's second motion, there are no facts on the record to support a finding that a "new position" was created, but, rather, the Assistant High School Principal position had existed for years and was merely vacant (id. at 5); the certification required for the Assistant Principal position is different from that required for Supervisor of Guidance and C.L., indeed, possessed the proper certification to be an Assistant Principal (id. at 5-6); and this record does not support a finding that Mr. Udy attempted to undermine the authority of the Superintendent when he made the two motions. (Id. at 6)

Consequently, the Deputy Commissioner is constrained to accept the Commission's recommendations that censure is the appropriate penalty in this matter for Mr. Ewart and Mr. Frazier for violating N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (f) of the Code of Ethics, and that removal is the appropriate penalty for Mr. Udy, for violating N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d) and (f) of the Code of Ethics. However, in light of comments raising the troubling allegation of procedural errors in these consolidated matters, the Deputy Commissioner determines to stay implementation of the respective penalties ordered herein, pending respondents' timely appeal to the State Board of Education. If no appeal is filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq, the penalties ordered herein shall be effectuated immediately.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DONALD HAMMARY,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CITY OF ASBURY PARK, MONMOUTH	:	DECISION ON REMAND
COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board filed tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against respondent special education teacher/guidance counselor for three incidents involving racial remarks, profanity, failure to counsel students and use of excessive force to discipline a student.

At the OAL, the parties agreed to a settlement. The Commissioner rejected the settlement, as it did not comport with the Cardonick standards for settling tenure matters in that it failed to set forth the nature of the charges and the circumstances justifying settlement, and failed to reflect respondent's understanding that the matter would be referred to the Board of Examiners for possible revocation of his certificates. The matter was remanded to OAL for further proceedings. The matter proceeded to hearing.

Following 20 days of testimony, the ALJ found that the Board's witnesses were more credible than respondent and most of his witnesses. The ALJ concluded that the Board had proven its charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent and had demonstrated his unfitness to be a teacher. The ALJ ordered respondent terminated from his employment.

In light of the record and the credibility determinations of the ALJ, the Deputy Commissioner, to whom this matter was delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33, adopted the Initial Decision as his own and ordered respondent dismissed from his tenured position as of the date of this decision. The Deputy Commissioner directed that a copy of this decision be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 803-02

AGENCY REF. NO. 327-8/01

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DONALD HAMMARY, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ASBURY PARK, MONMOUTH COUNTY.

Mark H. Zitomer, Esq.; Carol R. Smeltzer, Esq.; and Nicholas Celso, III, Esq., for petitioner (Schwartz Simon Edelstein Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Kevin E. Daniels, Esq., for respondent (Daniels & Davis, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 13, 2003 Decided: September 24, 2003

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

This is a teacher tenure proceeding under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to –18. Petitioner ("Board of Education" or "Board") brought three charges of unbecoming conduct and/or just cause for dismissal against Donald Hammary ("respondent"). The incidents that comprised two of the charges are alleged to have occurred on November 10, 1999; the third incident is alleged to have occurred on May 4, 2001. Specifically, petitioner accuses respondent of uttering offensive racial remarks during a classroom presentation on November 10, 1999; failing to counsel children on November 10, 1999; and uttering profanity and using excessive force to discipline a student on May 4, 2001.

On September 14, 2001, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act. On January 4, 2002 the parties entered into a stipulation of settlement, whereby respondent agreed to resign from his position of teacher-guidance counselor and to surrender all of his New Jersey teaching and guidance counselor certificates to the State Board of Examiners. On January 9, 2002 I issued an initial decision approving the settlement and filed it with the Commissioner.

On February 25, 2002 the Commissioner rejected the settlement and remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for expansion of the record and revision of documents, consistent with the concerns set forth in his decision. He further ordered that if the parties were unable or unwilling to reach an accord consistent with his order, the matter should proceed to hearing.

The hearing began on June 25, 2002 and, after 20 days of testimony, concluded on April 11, 2003. The record closed upon submission of reply briefs.

There are no significant legal issues in this case. All of the issues are factual. Some of the facts in this matter, however, are not contested. They are as follows.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

1. The Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and overseeing the public schools of the Asbury Park School District.
2. Respondent is the holder of a standard Teacher of Social Studies certificate issued by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners in February 1981, as well as the holder of a standard Teacher of the Handicapped certificate issued by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners in October 1983, and a standard Student Personnel Services (Guidance) certificate issued by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners in June 1986.

3. Respondent earned an Associates Degree in Education from Brookdale Community College, a Bachelor's degree from Rutgers University, and a Master's degree in Counseling from Trenton State College.

4. Prior to commencing his employment with the Board as a special education teacher on or about January 2, 1996, respondent had served as a guidance counselor at the North Main Street School, a public elementary school located in Pleasantville, New Jersey.

5. On or about January 2, 1998, respondent was transferred by the Board from the position of special education teacher to the position of guidance counselor for the Bradley Elementary School ("Bradley"), which is his current assignment.

6. Respondent was the only guidance counselor assigned to Bradley.

7. Respondent has acquired tenure in the District.

8. On or about July 27, 2001, Dr. Antonio N. Lewis, Superintendent of Schools, filed sworn tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause against respondent, together with a sworn statement of evidence in support of the charges, with Cecilia Tucker Brown, Acting Board Secretary.

9. On August 16, 2001, after considering the sworn tenure charges and sworn statement of evidence against respondent, together with the submission filed on his behalf, the Board determined to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.

10. On or about August 17, 2001, the sworn tenure charges, together with a certificate of determination and certificate of service, were filed by the Board with the Commissioner of Education, and respondent was simultaneously served with the tenure charges, statement of evidence, certificate of determination and certificate of service, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 et seq.

11. On or about September 5, 2001, an Answer was filed on behalf of respondent, denying each of the sworn tenure charges.

12. The tenure matter was thereafter transmitted by the Commissioner of Education to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case.

ISSUES

1. Credibility

Because the issues here are factual, a determination of the credibility of the witnesses who testified on behalf of petitioner and on behalf of respondent is vital.

I find that petitioner's witnesses were far more credible than respondent and most of his witnesses. [1]

I do so primarily because I carefully observed and listened to all of the witnesses and made notes of my impressions. For example, one of the key witnesses for petitioner was Joseph Romano, former Principal of Bradley. I noted that he was an "excellent witness: careful – articulate – sincere – fair – responsive – convincing – credible." Another important witness was Pamela Parker, employed as a secretary and parent coordinator at Bradley. I noted that she was "quiet – careful – thoughtful – responsive." A third key witness, Amanda Napolitani, saw what occurred on May 4, 2001 in the main office of Bradley; I found her to be thoroughly credible, noting that she was "sincere – responsive – alert – candid – sensitive – articulate – intelligent." I made similar observations of all of petitioner's witnesses.

My impressions of respondent and his witnesses, on the other hand, was quite different. For example, I noted during respondent's testimony that he rambled, was often unresponsive and argumentative, and frequently answered "I don't remember" or "I don't recall." I also noted that his answers sometimes were "almost incoherent" and that sometimes he appeared "confused." Another of respondent's witnesses was Harold Cooper, a schoolbus driver and a long-time friend of respondent, who said that on May 4, 2001, as he was driving his bus past Bradley, he witnessed a confrontation between respondent and a student (K.R.) and overheard a verbal exchange between the two of them. I was not impressed with Mr. Cooper, finding it hard to believe that while driving his school bus at some undisclosed distance from the scene, he actually overheard a conversation between respondent and the student.

Furthermore, petitioner was able to produce rebuttal testimony quite damaging to respondent's credibility. For example, on direct examination respondent contended that many of petitioner's key witnesses - - such teachers as Laura Duffy, Barbara Liedl, Nancy Nolan and Amanda Napolitani - - were biased against him. He declared that he had been told by another teacher, Esther Kelso, that they had circulated a petition critical of him and seeking his removal. On rebuttal, however, Mrs. Kelso flatly denied that allegation.

In sum, for the reasons just stated, I believe petitioner's version of what occurred on November 10, 1999 and on May 4, 2001 and disbelieve respondent's. Thus, my findings of fact on the critical factual disagreements are much closer to petitioner's version of what transpired than to respondent's.

2. Respondent's November 10, 1999 Presentation on Racism

1. For the 1999-2000 school year, respondent was assigned as the guidance counselor at Bradley.
2. One of respondent's responsibilities for the 1999-2000 school year was to give presentations to classes on subjects such as conflict resolution.
3. During the 1998-99 school year, as well as at the beginning of the 1999-2000 school year, several teachers complained to Mr. Romano, the Principal of Bradley, regarding respondent's presentations to their classes.
4. These teachers advised Mr. Romano that after respondent gave a presentation, they were left wondering what the presentation was supposed to have been about. They also advised Mr. Romano that they would need to spend two or three lessons answering the questions their students had regarding each of respondent's presentations.
5. On the afternoon of November 10, 1999, respondent made a presentation on the subject of racism to the third grade class of Ms. Laura Duffy.
6. Education on racism is an important topic in the Asbury Park community.

7. Ms. Duffy's third grade class was comprised of students between the ages of seven and eight years old.

8. Respondent gave Ms. Duffy little or no advance notice of his intention to make a presentation to her class on November 10, 1999.

9. Ms. Duffy was present for respondent's entire presentation, as was Mr. Romano.

10. Prior to November 10, 1999, Mr. Romano had given respondent some educational materials, including a book, about racism, in order to assist him in his in-class presentations.

11. Respondent's presentation to Ms. Duffy's third grade class was itself racist in tone and content. He said, verbatim or in effect: "If a white man had an affair with a black lady, they would have a black child. If a white man had an affair with a Spanish lady, they would have a black child." He also declared: "So the real reason we have racism is because of the white race. They don't want to be depurified."

12. Respondent then wrote comments to the above effect on the chalkboard.

13. After respondent completed his presentation to Ms. Duffy's class, he left the classroom.

14. The students in Ms. Duffy's class were left "dumbfounded" and/or confused as a result of respondent's presentation.

15. Mr. Romano documented his concerns regarding the November 10, 1999 presentation in a memorandum to respondent dated November 16, 1999.

16. Mr. Romano offered respondent a copy of the memorandum and asked respondent to sign a receipt that he had received a copy.

17. Respondent refused receipt of the memorandum, and refused to acknowledge that he had received it or that it had been offered to him.

Respondent's Alleged Failure to Counsel Students on November 10, 1999

1. Respondent was the only counselor assigned to Bradley for the 1999-2000 school year.

2. His primary job responsibility for the 1999-2000 school year was to counsel students.

3. Mr. Romano was concerned about what he considered respondent's failure to counsel students during the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years.

4. Ordinarily, the counseling of students was supposed to take place in respondent's office.

5. Sometime in late 1998 or early 1999 respondent was instructed by Romano to submit a schedule to him on a weekly basis, setting forth the names of the students he would counsel the following week and the times of each counseling session.

6. Prior to preparing this schedule, respondent was told by Romano to meet with the classroom teachers to develop convenient times for the upcoming week's counseling sessions.

7. Prior to the week commencing November 8, 1999, respondent submitted a schedule to Romano, setting forth the names of the students he would counsel on November 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12, as well as the time each of these counseling session would occur.

8. On the morning of November 10, 1999, respondent reported for work as usual.

9. Ordinarily, if respondent did not go to the classrooms of the students and escort them to his office, the students did not go to his office on their own and would not receive counseling.

10. In light of various complaints that had been made to Romano by teaching staff members regarding respondent's failure to counsel their students, Romano decided on November 10, 1999 that he would conduct an observation of respondent's counseling sessions.

11. Mr. Romano did not advise respondent in advance that he would be conducting this observation, not did he advise respondent of the observation as it was taking place.

12. About 10 a.m. on November 10, 1999, Romano stationed himself at a desk immediately outside respondent's office and remained there until 1 p.m.

13. From where Romano was stationed, he could see whether any students entered or left respondent's office.

14. During this three-hour period, Romano had respondent's program schedule with him.

15. According to the schedule (which had been submitted by respondent to Romano) respondent was to counsel ten students in the three-hour period from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on November 10, 1999.

16. From 10:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., respondent was to counsel students D.E. and D.G.

17. From 10:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m., respondent was to counsel students K.R. and B.D.

18. Respondent's schedule indicated that he was to take a half-hour for lunch from 11:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

19. From 11:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., respondent was to counsel students P.C. and M.C.

20. From 12:00 p.m. to 12:30 p.m., respondent was to counsel students T.C. and M.D.

21. From 12:30 p.m. to 1:00 p.m., respondent was to counsel students S.L. and J.L.

22. Respondent did not counsel any students between the hours of 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on November 10, 1999.

23. None of the students whom respondent was to counsel on November 10, 1999 were absent from school that day.

24. During the period from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on November 10, 1999, Mr. Romano made the following observations:

"10:00 A.M. I arrived for observation of counseling session for D.E. and D.G. (Ms. Vivino's 5th grade).

10:30 A.M. Mr. Hammary still has not returned. Two pupils K.R. and B.D. (Ms. Tacy's Sp. Ed. class) did not arrive.

10:40 A.M. Mr. Hammary returns with no students.

10:41 A.M. Mr. Hammary leaves again.

10:45 A.M. Mr. Hammary returns with no students.

10:46 A.M. Mr. Hammary leaves – still no children have arrived. His scheduled lunch is 11:00 A.M. to 11:30 A.M.

11:30 A.M. Two children have been scheduled P.C. and M.C. (Ms. Lockley's 2nd grade). These children do not arrive.

11:51 A.M. Mr. Hammary returns.

12:00 P.M. Two children have been scheduled, T.C. and M.D. . . . These pupils do not arrive.

12:30 P.M. Two children have been scheduled, S.L. and J.L. (Mr. Hamilton's 1st grade). These pupils do not arrive."

25. During this three-hour period, Romano prepared detailed notes of respondent's activities, which were later put into the form of a typewritten memorandum to respondent.

26. At no point during this three (3) hour period did respondent explain to Romano why he was not performing his counseling duties, nor did respondent advise Romano of any emergency occurring in the school building during those hours which would have required his attention, although he had ample opportunity to do so.

27. As the Principal, Mr. Romano would very probably have been aware of any crisis situation occurring in the school building on November 10, 1999.

28. Mr. Romano was not aware of any crisis having occurred in Ms. Tacy's class on November 10, 1999.

29. Mr. Romano did not assign or direct respondent to tend to any crisis in Ms. Tacy's class on November 10, 1999.

30. Ms. Tacy's classroom, where respondent claims he was during this three (3) hour period, was located on the same floor as respondent's office, approximately 60 to 70 feet away.

31. Mr. Romano subsequently spoke to at least two of the teachers whose students were supposed to have been counseled on November 10, 1999; these teachers told him that respondent had not counseled their students on that date.

32. Respondent does not deny that he failed to counsel any students on the day in question.

Respondent's Alleged Verbal and Physical Abuse of Student K.R.

1. On November 16, 2000, the Board adopted a policy prohibiting corporal punishment and governing the manner in which disruptive students, including elementary school students, were to be disciplined.
2. The Board's policy governing the discipline of disruptive students does not permit staff to use force to discipline disruptive students, except in self-defense or to prevent harm to the student or to others. "Using force" means trying to control the student without hurting him.
3. During the 2000-01 school year, K.R., a male student, attended fifth grade at Bradley Elementary School.
4. During the 2000-01 school year, K.R. was eleven (11) years old.
5. During the 2000-01 school year, the education and discipline of K.R. were governed by K.R.'s Individual Education Program ("IEP"), since K.R. is a classified student.
6. K.R.'s classification is "emotionally disturbed."
7. A student who is classified as emotionally disturbed is unable to meet his educational responsibilities in the same manner as a regular education child.
8. Prior to the 2000-01 school year, respondent served as the guidance counselor of K.R.
9. In his capacity as K.R.'s guidance counselor, respondent should have been familiar with K.R.'s disability and special needs.
10. On and before May 4, 2001, respondent had access to K.R.'s I.E.P.
11. K.R.'s I.E.P. set forth detailed procedures to be followed in disciplining him.
12. The proper methods for disciplining K.R., as set forth in his I.E.P., did not include engaging in any physical force.
13. Emotionally disturbed students should not be disciplined by being yelled at, cursed at, or physically assaulted.

14. Yelling, cursing at, and/or using physical force towards an emotionally disturbed student is improper and is likely to cause the student's misbehavior to escalate.

15. As a certificated guidance counselor and special education teacher, respondent knew, or should have known, that acting in a confrontational manner with K.R. would cause him to become upset and angry, and would serve no useful purpose.

16. On the afternoon of May 4, 2001, respondent was assigned to dismissal duty.

17. On that afternoon, at dismissal time (around 2:15 pm), K.R. left his class in the trailer which was used as a classroom for "emotionally dysfunctional" children.

18. Respondent observed student K.R. in the Bradley Elementary School yard.

19. K.R. was walking towards the alleyway behind the trailer where a commotion, apparently a fight or confrontation, between two students was taking place.

20. Respondent directed K.R. to turn around and to go home.

21. K.R. disregarded the directive of respondent and continued walking towards the alleyway.

22. Respondent then approached K.R. and attempted to black K.R.'s path with his body.

23. K.R. cursed at respondent, calling him a "black motherfucker" ("M.....F....."), and tried to run around him.

24. Respondent tried to restrain K.R., and some pushing and shoving between the two of them ensued. Particularly, respondent forcibly shoved or pushed K.R.

25. During this time, respondent angrily and loudly said to K.R.: "Who are you calling a black M.....F.....?" and other words to the same effect.

26. K.R. was frightened, and ran into the school building, proceeding through the school gymnasium, and into the main office.

27. Respondent pursued K.R., walking at a very rapid pace.

28. K.R. ran into the main office from the gym area. He was visibly upset, shaking, crying and afraid.

29. He saw his teacher, Barbara Lawrence, standing at the counter and in a trembling voice exclaimed "Mrs. Lawrence! Mrs. Lawrence!" When she asked him "what's the matter?" he replied: "I'm having a problem with Mr. Hammary. He choked me." She told him to stay next to her.

30. At that point, respondent burst into the office. He seemed upset and angry. In a loud voice he said: "you're not going to call me a M.....F..... bitch," or words to that effect.

31. Upon seeing and hearing respondent, K.R. left Mrs. Lawrence's side and ran through the swinging gates leading into the inner office behind the counter. He was apparently attempting to get to the office of Enoch Peters, the Principal of Bradley at that time.

32. Respondent pursued K.R. through the gates, loudly uttering profanities. On a "loudness" scale of one to ten (with 10 being the loudest), respondent's voice was at or close to ten.

33. Just after going through the gates, K.R. tripped and fell to the floor. Respondent leaned over him, grabbed him by the collar with both hands and pulled him off the floor.

34. When K.R. was on his feet, respondent pushed him against the fax machine and/or a wall of the inner office.

35. During this entire incident, K.R. was not resisting, kicking at respondent, or talking back to respondent, except to say "leave me alone."

36. Among those present at this time were several teachers, staff, parents, and other students. The office was "crowded" with people.

37. Two of the teachers present, Ester Kelso and Barbara Lawrence, attempted to get respondent to calm down but were at first unsuccessful. Mrs. Kelso tried to intervene by grabbing respondent's arm, but he pushed her hand away.

38. About that time, Vice-Principal Denise White, hearing a loud commotion, came out of a closed-door conference room located in the inner portion of the main office. She saw K.R. on the floor with respondent standing over him. She remembered that respondent was angry and was speaking loudly. She and Mrs. Kelso asked respondent to calm down and to step back, which he did. Mrs. White also instructed one of the secretaries to page the Principal, Enoch Peters.

39. When Mr. Peters, who was on dismissal duty in front of the building, heard his name being called over the intercom, he hurried inside the building and proceeded toward the main office. As he approached the office, he encountered respondent. Respondent was walking with his head lowered and apparently talking to himself. Respondent looked angry. He kept repeating the phrase: "I'm not gonna be too many more M....F....."

40. Since Mr. Peters did not know what respondent was talking about, he asked respondent to come with him into his office to discuss the situation. When Peters and respondent entered the office they discovered K.R. sitting in the office with tears in his eyes. He obviously had been crying.

41. When respondent saw K.R. he yelled at him: "I told you that I'd tell Mr. Peters that I am not going to be too many more M.....F...ers," or words to that effect.

42. K.R. replied: "You choked me."

43. At that point, Peters asked respondent to leave the office, which he did, and Peters spoke with K.R. about what had happened.

44. Subsequently, Peters reported the incident to Dr. Antonio Lewis, Superintendent of Schools, and to the Institutional Abuse Unit of the Division of Youth and Family Services.

45. An investigator for the Division of Youth and Family Services conducted a thorough examination of the May 4, 2001 incident and concluded that respondent had physically abused K.R. on that date.

RESPONDENT'S CONTENTIONS

In essence, respondent contended that Mr. Romano was biased against him and imposed onerous and unreasonable demands on him. At first he said that he did not remember whether he counseled any students on November 10, 1999; later in his testimony, he admitted that he had not, but he said that the reason was because he had been asked to be on security detail, particularly to breakup fights, in the classroom of one of the teachers (Ms. Tacy).

With respect to the racism lecture, respondent first seemed to deny having given a talk to Ms. Duffy's class on November 10, 1999, but then claimed that at the request of Mr. Romano, he had done so. He admitted making reference to affairs between white women and Hispanic, Asian, and black men but said he did so in response to a comment by a child ("grandma said that racism is because of the white race") and, further, denied saying anything to the effect that racism is the fault of the white race. He said he did not intend to put down anyone's race or to humiliate anyone. He denied writing anything on the chalkboard. And he maintained that the children understood what he was saying and "clapped" at the end of his presentation.

With respect to the incident of May 4, 2001, respondent testified that in addition to his other duties, he was a member of the "A Team," the security detail at Bradley. Around 2:15 p.m. on May 4, he was on duty in the schoolyard outside the main building during dismissal time. He saw a group of about ten children standing around and watching two girls hollering at each other. Respondent tried to disburse them, shouting "let's go! let's go!" He then saw K.R. - - who had a reputation for being a bully, using profanity, fighting, and resisting authority - - chasing a younger child. He told K.R. to go home. K.R. began to walk away but then reversed himself and came towards respondent. He pushed respondent hard with his shoulder and then "bumrushed" him. Respondent denied pushing K.R., knocking him down, or even putting his hands on him. However, K.R. fell down and called respondent a "M.....F....." He got up walked past respondent, called him a "bald M.....F....." and ran into the school. Respondent pursued him, walking rapidly. As he approached the office respondent saw K.R. inside, standing near some teachers. Respondent entered the office and looked around for K.R. He saw him on the floor of the inner office. He walked over to K.R., who began kicking him. At that point respondent shouted: "Now call me a 'M.....F.....'" About that time, Mr. Peters arrived and asked what had happened. Respondent said that K.R. had called him a "black M.....F....."

5. Penalty

The law in tenure proceedings is well-settled. Tenured teaching staff members shall not be "dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Further, this section of the statute provides that a tenured teaching staff member cannot be dismissed unless tenure charges are filed against the staff member by the local board of education and a hearing on the charges is conducted by the Commissioner of Education. The local board of education has the burden of proving tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982) and I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Marrero, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2D (EDU) 104, aff'd State Bd. Of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 319.

Having found for petitioner on the three substantive charges, the only remaining issue is that of penalty. On this issue also, established case law leaves little, if any doubt, that dismissal is the only appropriate sanction under the circumstances here.

See, e.g., in the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Campbell 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 196, adopted Comm'r, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 604, aff'd App. Div., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 211, cert. denied, 142 N.J. 518 (1995), wherein the Appellate Division upheld the determinations of the State Board of Education, Commissioner of Education and Administrative Law Judge that Campbell should be removed from his tenured teaching position, in part based on racist comments made by him to seventh and eighth grade students. I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Campbell, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 196, adopted Comm'r, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 604, aff'd App. Div., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 211, 212, cert. denied, 142 N.J. 518 (1995). In this case, the Administrative Law Judge properly pointed out:

> "Respondent's offensive remarks were made in a public school classroom setting, at a time when positive self-attitudes are to be nurtured in pupils regardless of race, creed, color or sex . . . . [The students] were individually and collectively subjected to stereo typical, race-based remarks by respondent which resulted in feelings of hopelessness, anxiety, frustration and anger by the > pupils. This is hardly the nature of positive self-attitudes to be nurtured in a public school classroom." [Ibid.]

In affirming, per curiam, the Appellate Division stated that classroom speech denigrating a particular race "need not be tolerated by a school which, to the extent it fails to restrict such speech, is thereby allied with it." Id. at 212.

The Commissioner of Education has consistently held that inappropriate touching of a student by a teacher constitutes unbecoming conduct requiring dismissal. Teachers must not grab, push, choke or shove their pupils for any reason. I/M/O of the Tenure Hearing of Campbell, supra. See also I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Harrell, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d. (EDU) 387, 405, adopted, Comm'r. 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 405, aff'd, App. Div. 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 137 [affirming dismissal of tenured gym teacher who had been physically aggressive (grabbing, striking, and kicking) with his students]. The Administrative Law Judge properly observed: "In a society which is becoming ever more violent, it is essential that teachers be exemplars of problem solving that does not resort to physical aggression."

To the same effect, see, among many other cases, I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Kendle , EDU 54-02, Initial Decision, (September 27, 2002), adopted, Comm'r. (November 6, 2002); In re Tenure Hearing of Tiefenbacher, East Orange, App. Div. remand to St. Bd., 83 S.L.D. 1648, St. Bd. decision on remand, 84 S.L.D. 2043, aff'd App. Div. A-594-84T6 (December 30,1985) (teacher pushed fifth grade student against a cabinet or blackboard and against a metal desk); I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Juanita Zielenski, 1977 S.L.D. 786, 794, (use of profanity by teacher toward student constitutes unbecoming conduct requiring dismissal, even if not coupled with violence towards the student); and I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Catherine Cooper, EDU 6550-00, Initial Decision, (February 2,2001), adopted, Comm'r. (March 22, 2001) (teacher's conduct demonstrated her insensitivity toward her emotionally disturbed students, thus warranting dismissal).

As the Commissioner properly noted in I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Anthony Ashley, EDU 1916-02, Initial Decision, (September 20, 2002), adopted, Comm'r. (December 6, 2002), aff'd, St. Bd. Educ. (May 13, 2003):

> "While the Commissioner understands the exasperations and frustrations that often accompany the teacher's functions, he cannot condone resort to force and fear as appropriate procedures in dealing with pupils, even those whose recalcitrance appears to be open defiance . . . . Competent teachers never find it necessary to resort to physical force or violence to maintain discipline or compel obedience." [Ibid. (emphasis supplied)]

Moreover, petitioner's behavior with respect to K.R. violated the prohibition set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1: "No person employed or engaged in a school or educational institution . . . shall inflict or caused to be inflicted corporal punishment upon a pupil . . . ." The exceptions contained in that statute, such as self-defense and protection of persons and property, are not applicable in this case.

In sum, the conduct of respondent respecting the two incidents on November 10, 1999 and the incident of May 4, 2001 have, in my opinion, demonstrated his unfitness to be a teacher.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons expressed above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has proven its charges against respondent of unbecoming conduct and that its decision to terminate his employment with the Board of Education should be AFFIRMED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DONALD HAMMARY,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CITY OF ASBURY PARK, MONMOUTH	:	DECISION ON REMAND
COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent's exceptions primarily challenge the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) credibility determinations and factual findings, along with the ALJ's recommendation that respondent be terminated from his tenured position. As the Board notes in its reply, however, respondent has neither provided the Commissioner with copies of relevant portions of the hearing transcripts nor "made any effort to cite any portion of those transcripts which support his conclusory assertions that Judge Miller's credibility determinations were flawed." (Board's Reply at 2) Furthermore, the Board contends that the ALJ, who observed the witnesses firsthand, is in the best position to make credibility determinations. (Id. at 3)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts from only two of the 20 days of hearing in this matter,[1] and based upon the credibility assessments of the ALJ, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Deputy Commissioner, to whom this matter was delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33, concurs that petitioner has proven its charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent. As the Board correctly observes, the ALJ's credibility determination is entitled to the Deputy Commissioner's deference. "The reason for this rule is that the administrative law judge, as a finder of fact, has the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of the involved witnesses, and, consequently, is better qualified to judge their credibility. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div.) certif. denied, 121 N.J. 615 [1990]." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 549, 550. The Appellate Division affirmed this principle, underscoring that "[u]nder existing law, the [reviewing agency] must recognize and give due weight to the ALJ's unique position and ability to make demeanor based judgments." Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Docket No. A-5978-98T2 (App. Div. 2000), slip op. at 14.[2] Like the ALJ, the Deputy Commissioner is satisfied, therefore, that the charges and proofs established herein reflect conduct which cannot be tolerated in a school setting, warranting respondent's loss of his tenured position.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Respondent is dismissed from his position as a tenured teacher as of the date of this decision. A copy of this decision will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners Lindenwold Education Association, Pine Hill Education Association and Winslow Township Education Association (the Education Associations), filed petitions in which they are challenging the alleged refusal of respondents Boards of Educations to honor and recognize the rights of petitioners' affected members as established by contract or past practice and enjoyed by them in their former school district. Petitioners allege that these actions and failures to act violate the Education laws and, in particular, N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64, and the administrative regulations promulgated thereunder. Petitioners are seeking a determination restoring to the affected members all of the terms and conditions of employment formerly enjoyed by them as employees of the former regional school district, and requesting the restoration of all back pay, benefits and emoluments of employment which they have lost to date as a result of respondents' actions and failures to act. These matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 9, 2002, for hearing as contested cases. On April 30, 2002, these three matters were consolidated.

On March 1, 2002, petitioners filed unfair practice charges with the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) against the same three respondents. The unfair practice charges are captioned Winslow Township Association and Winslow Township Board of Education, PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-235, Lindenwold Ed. Association and Lindenwold Board of Ed., PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-236; and Pine Hill Ed. Association and Pine Hill Board of Education, PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-237.

By Order of Consolidation and Predominant Interest entered on October 21, 2002, I recommended that the three PERC matters be consolidated with the consolidated OAL matters, and by an Order entered by the Chair of the Public Employment Relations Commission on November 25, 2002, and by the Commissioner of Education on December 5, 2002, this recommendation was accepted.

Following numerous discussions between the parties and a number of telephone conferences with the ALJ, this matter originally captioned Winslow Township Education Association vs. Board of Education of the Township of Winslow, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 114-02, Agency Dkt No. 491-11/01 and the unfair practice charge captioned Winslow Township Association and Winslow Township Board of Education, PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-235, have been settled and resolved by and between the parties as the product of contract negotiations, and they have submitted a Joint Stipulation of Dismissal. In order to effectuate the dismissal it is necessary to sever these two matters from the remaining ongoing matters.

Therefore, it is ORDERED that the contested case originally captioned Winslow Township Education Association vs. Board of Education of the Township of Winslow, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 114-02, Agency Dkt No. 491-11/01 and the unfair practice charge captioned Winslow Township Association and Winslow Township Board of Education, PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-235 are hereby SEVERED from the remaining ongoing cases in this matter. It is further ORDERED that the Joint Stipulation of Dismissal filed herein by the parties is hereby accepted, and this matter is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make the final decision on all issues within the scope of its predominant interest. If the COMMSSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision on all of the issues within the scope of predominant interest shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering its final decision the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its final decision, to the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION which may subsequently render a final decision on any remaining issues and consider any specific remedies which may be within its statutory grant of authority.

Upon transmitting the record, the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c) request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION within forty-five (45) days of the predominant agency decision. If the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION does not render a final decision within the extended time, this recommended decision on the remaining issues and remedies shall become the final decision.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF PAUL SCHAEDER, :

GOLDEN DOOR CHARTER SCHOOL, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that respondent Board member violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) by acting as a "one-member board" in terminating the Chief Academic Officer. The Commission further found that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) in hiring a former Board member as technology coordinator without Board approval. The Commission recommended removal of respondent.

Upon review of the record, the Deputy Commissioner, to whom the matter was delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33 and whose decision was restricted by law solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty, concurred with the Commission's recommendation. Respondent was ordered removed as of the filing date of this decision.

PAUL SCHAEDER,	:
GOLDEN DOOR CHARTER SCHOOL	:	DECISION
HUDSON COUNTY	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from five complaints filed against Mr. Paul Schaeder, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Golden Door Charter School, for violations of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. Specifically, they alleged that he, without the consultation of the Board, forced the Chief Academic Officer to resign and that he appointed his former fellow trustee as a consultant within a month after he resigned from the Board. The complaints also raised various allegations that he misused his position in connection with the number of trustees on the Board, that he had police called to a public meeting on January 16, 2003 and that he discriminates against African-American parents and trustees.

Mr. Schaeder answered the complaints admitting that the Chief Academic Officer had been released from her duties and that a former trustee had been hired as a consultant, but denied having committed any violation of the School Ethics Act in connection with those matters. He denied the remainder of the allegations.

The five complaints were consolidated for hearing. The School Ethics Commission advised the parties that it would discuss this matter at its meeting of May 1, 2003. The parties were advised of their right to bring counsel and witnesses. All parties appeared with counsel and witnesses. The complainants were represented by Joseph Pojanowski, Esq. The respondent was represented by Richard West, Esq. The Commission heard testimony from most of the parties and witnesses. At its public meeting on May 27, 2003, the Commission voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that Mr. Schaeder violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in connection with the dismissal of the Chief Academic Officer and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) of the School Ethics Act in connection with the hiring of the Information Technology Consultant. The Commission dismissed the remainder of the charges, so they are not addressed herein.

Mr. Schaeder was given 30 days from the date of the decision to respond to the probable cause decision. He was advised that if he disagreed with the Commission's determination that the material facts were not in dispute, he could set forth each fact that he believed was in dispute and why the fact was material to resolution of this matter. The Commission received a timely response, which it considered at its meeting of August 26, 2003. After consideration of the issues raised in the response, the Commission voted at its public meeting to find Mr. Schaeder in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) of the prohibited acts in the School Ethics Act and recommend his removal from the Board of Trustees. The Commission adopted this decision at its meeting of September 23, 2003.

FACTS

The Golden Door Charter School is located in Jersey City, New Jersey. Approximately 500 students attend the school. When it was chartered, the charter provided that the school was to have between five and eleven trustees. At all times relevant to the allegations in the complaints, the school was operating with a three-member Board of Trustees. Apparently the by-laws were changed to allow for a three-member Board, but the changes were never approved by the Commissioner of Education. At the present time, the Board consists of seven members.

I. The Termination of the Chief Academic Officer

Karen Jones was hired in January 1999 as the director of the Golden Door Charter School. Her title at all times relevant to this complaint was Chief Academic Officer. Annette Johnson has been a member of the Board since 1999 and has a child in the school. Paul Schaeder is the Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Amal Manassah is also a member of the Board, having replaced Trustee Barry Fields in October 2002.

In March 2002, due to concerns with Ms. Jones' performance, an agreement was made to give Ms. Jones a 2½ month sabbatical. Ms. Johnson was aware of that agreement. Mr. Schaeder testified that Ms. Jones did not improve after she returned. He testified that he and Mr. Fields drew up an improvement plan and discussed it with her in the summer of 2002 and then in September 2002, Ms. Jones signed off on it.

On December 19, 2002, a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees was canceled. However, the three trustees did have a meeting for the purpose of discussing Karen Jones. The testimony of Trustee Annette Johnson was undisputed regarding this matter. Ms. Johnson testified that on December 19, 2002, she came to the school for what she thought was a meeting with Ms. Jones to evaluate her performance. However, two members from Foundations, Inc., Mr. Funston and Mr. Kurtz, were present. Foundations, Inc. is the consulting company utilized by the school. Mr. Schaeder and Ms. Manassah were also present with an attorney. Ms. Johnson was given a copy of a four-page severance agreement regarding the termination of Ms. Jones. Prior to that date, Mr. Schaeder had never indicated to her that he spoke with anyone to facilitate Ms. Jones' removal. Although Ms. Johnson admitted that the Board had discussed problems with Ms. Jones' performance, she was completely surprised by the action. Even more surprised was Ms. Jones because she thought she was only going to be evaluated at the meeting. She requested time to think it over. According to Mr. Funston, Ms. Jones was told that she could sign and rescind the agreement within six or seven days. She signed the agreement later the next day.

A bill from the School attorney sets forth that the attorney drafted the severance agreement and e-mailed it to the client on November 25, 2002. In December, prior to the December 19th meeting, Mr. Schaeder informed Ms. Manassah of the pending forced resignation. Mr. Schaeder testified that only two of the three board members were notified of the decision to terminate the employment of Ms. Jones because he did not trust Ms. Johnson to keep the matter confidential. Mr. Schaeder testified that Ms. Jones was told that she had 21 days to review the agreement and respond. The following day, Ms. Jones voluntarily executed the Agreement which, among other things, provided her with a 7-day period in which to revoke her signature. Ms. Jones' submitted a letter of resignation to the Board on December 20, 2002.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees on January 16, 2002, all three members of the Board, including Annette Johnson, voted in favor of accepting the agreement after an executive session to discuss it.

Each of the complainants and their witnesses testified that the students and parents were very emotional about Ms. Jones' removal when they found out on December 20, 2002.

Mr. Schaeder appointed an administrator in the school, Brian Stiles, to replace Ms. Jones on December 20, 2002.

II. The Hiring of a Former Board Member as Information Technology Consultant

Barry Fields became a member of the Board with Ms. Johnson in 1999. In 2000, Mr. Fields began performing information technology services for the school without charging for his services. At the October 17, 2002 meeting of the Board of Trustees, the Board appointed a new board member. The minutes indicate that, after a search from a list of ten potential candidates for board membership, Chairman Schaeder invited Amal Manassah to join the Board. The Board interviewed her in executive session, then reentered public session and voted 3-0 to invite her to join the Board. The meeting minutes go on to set forth:

> Following Ms. Manassah joining the Board, Mr. Fields resigned and presented a proposal for Information and Technology Consultant. It was agreed the work Mr. Fields was performing for the school warranted him compensation. In compliance with the law, Mr. Fields chose to resign from the Board in order to receive compensation for his services.

Ms. Johnson testified that the proposal was tabled at that time. However, in the minutes, there is no motion or vote before adjournment of the meeting. There is no mention of the proposal at the November 21, 2002 meeting. The December 19, 2002 meeting is noted as cancelled despite the meeting of the three trustees on this date. Ms. Johnson recalled that on December 20, 2002, the Board talked with Mr. Fields regarding the proposal. However, by that time, it appears that he had already entered into an agreement with Mr. Schaeder and was paid $50.00 per hour for November and December.

A representative from Foundations, Inc. certified that this is well below the market rate for such services. Foundations, Inc. certified that it would charge $750.00 per day to provide such consultant services.

The Board of Trustees never approved the hiring or appointment of Barry Fields prior to his beginning employment with the District.

ANALYSIS

The Commission determined that there was probable cause to credit the allegations that Mr. Schaeder violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) in connection with the termination of Ms. Karen Jones and that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) in connection with the hiring of a former board member to serve as a consultant to the District. Mr. Schaeder raised several issues in response to the finding of probable cause and argued that the complaint should be dismissed. These will be addressed in turn.

I. The Termination of the Chief Academic Officer

In response to the Commission's finding of probable cause that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) in connection with the termination of the Chief Academic Officer, Mr. Schaeder first argues that, as a member of a charter school board of trustees, he is not subject to the Code of Ethics for School Board Members, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1. He cites N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-3 of the Charter School Program Act for the proposition that a charter school, although a public school, "is operated independently of a local board of education and is managed by a board of trustees." He argues that the Code of Ethics does not state that it applies to members of a charter school board of trustees; rather, it applies to "board members" as that term is defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23. Although he acknowledges that the State Board promulgated regulation N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1, effective October 2, 2000, which provides that the members of a board of trustees of a charter school shall be "school officials" as defined in the School Ethics Act, he argues that the Code of Ethics was enacted after that in July 2001 and no regulation was promulgated that made members of a charter school board of trustees subject to the Code of Ethics for School Board Members.

The Commission finds that Mr. Schaeder's interpretation of the Code of Ethics obliterates the intent and purpose of the Code of Ethics and ignores a crucial provision of the Charter School Program Act, which provides:

> A charter school shall operate in accordance with its charter and the provisions of law and regulation which govern other public schools; except that, upon the request of the board of trustees of a charter school, the commissioner may exempt the school from State regulations concerning public schools, except those pertaining to assessment, testing, civil rights and student health and safety, the board of trustees satisfactorily demonstrates to the commissioner that the exemption will advance the educational goals and objectives of the school. [N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-11a]

Thus, from the initiation of charter schools in 1996, the Legislature envisioned that charter schools would be subject to all of the laws that govern other public schools. Their structure and management may be different, but the laws that govern them are the same. Charter schools may only be exempt from regulations and that is by request to the Commissioner of Education. They cannot be exempt from laws. Therefore, it is clear that the State Board, in promulgating N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1, was not making new law, but effectuating the above provision of the Charter School Program Act. In view of N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-11, there is no need for the State Board to revisit its regulation each time that the Legislature amends the School Ethics Act in order to clarify that the amendment applies to charter school trustees. It applies, in its entirety, to members of charter school boards of trustees.

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission concludes that Paul Schaeder, as a member of a charter school board of trustees, is subject to the Code of Ethics for School Board Members and declines to dismiss the charges that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d).

Mr. Schaeder next argues in response to the finding of probable cause that he did not violate the Code of Ethics because the majority of the Board supported the decision to terminate Ms. Jones and the entire board and Ms. Jones had been aware for many months prior to this action of the issues that prompted this decision.

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. Schaeder acted without board approval in executing the termination of Ms. Jones in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) of the Code of Ethics.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) provides:

> I will confine my board action to policy making, planning and appraisal, and I will help to frame policies and plans only after the board has consulted those who will be affected by them.

Mr. Schaeder argues that the Board was aware of issues concerning Ms. Jones' performance and voted to approve the severance agreement. He set forth that Ms. Jones voluntarily executed the Severance Agreement and General Release the day after it was presented to her although she was told that she had 21 days to consider it. Thereafter, she was provided with seven days to revoke her signature, but she did not revoke it. Rather, she provided a resignation letter to the Board. During its meeting of January 16, 2002, the Board, including Annette Johnson, voted in favor of accepting the agreement. Mr. Schaeder argues that Ms. Jones' letter to the Board of December 20, 2002 indicates that she had reason to know that her termination was forthcoming.

The Commission does not dispute that Mr. Schaeder had discussed with the other trustees that there were concerns about Ms. Jones' performance prior to her termination. However, the Commission notes that Ms. Manassah became a trustee in October 2002, just before this action took place. The Commission does not dispute Mr. Schaeder's argument that Ms. Johnson was aware that there were issues concerning Ms. Jones' performance. However, knowing that there are concerns with an administrator's performance and firing that administrator are two different matters. Mr. Schaeder admitted that he did not include Ms. Johnson in the decision-making process on the Jones matter because he did not feel that he could trust her to keep it confidential. Under the Code of Ethics, one board member does not have the right to determine that another board member will be denied access to the same information as the other board members. Further, the evidence showed that, at a board meeting on January 16, 2003, Mr. Schaeder admitted that he initiated the paperwork regarding Ms. Jones' departure prior to the knowledge of any fellow board members. This was also confirmed by the bill from the board attorney dated February 21, 2003, listing the preparation of the severance agreement on November 25, 2002, well before any trustee was advised that termination was imminent. Trustee Manassah had just joined the Board in October 2002. Trustee Johnson testified that she only became aware of Ms. Jones' termination when she saw the severance agreement in December 2002. This testimony was unrefuted. Again, knowing that performance issues exist with an administrator is not the same as knowing that the administrator is going to be terminated. Ms. Johnson reasonably expected that an evaluation or review of a corrective action plan would precede presenting Ms. Jones with a severance agreement. Yet, Mr. Schaeder initiated the preparation of a severance agreement and only Mr. Schaeder and Ms. Manassah knew about its existence. Ms. Johnson was informed at the meeting with Ms. Jones that led to her termination.

The Commission finds that the termination of Ms. Jones was initiated and completed by Mr. Schaeder and he sought approval of the full board after the fact. Mr. Schaeder has not set forth any argument to change what the Commission found in its probable cause determination. The fact that Ms. Jones resigned after being terminated and all trustees eventually ratified the severance agreement is irrelevant to the suspect circumstances surrounding the termination. The circumstances defy all notions of fairness and respect owed to the Chief Academic Officer of a school. The Commission finds that Mr. Schaeder's conduct on such an important issue was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c).

The Commission also found probable cause that Mr. Schaeder's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) of the Code of Ethics. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) provides:

> I will carry out my responsibility, not to administer the schools, but, together with my fellow Board members, to see that they are well run.

As set forth above, Mr. Schaeder did not act in concert with his fellow Board members. He unilaterally decided that Ms. Jones should be terminated, as shown by the bill from the attorney, and admittedly kept a Board member uninformed who he believed would disagree with his decision and possibly inform Ms. Jones or her supporters. The Commission finds that, by so doing, Mr. Schaeder administered the schools instead of acting with his fellow Board members to see that the schools are well run in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

The Commission did not find probable cause that Mr. Schaeder's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a) and (b) because section 22 sets forth the Legislature's findings and declarations. Section 22(a) sets forth:

The Legislature finds and declares:

a. In our representative form of government it is essential that the conduct of members of local boards of education and local school administrators hold the respect and confidence of the people. These board members and administrators must avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated.

Section 22 indicates the Legislature's purpose for the Act. While the Commission has said in prior decisions that Section 22 does not set forth a prohibited act that the Commission can charge a school official with violating, In the Matter of Wesley Smith, C28-97 (April 28, 1998), the Commission has cited to section 22 to support a charge. In the present case, the Commission believes that in finding Mr. Schaeder in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d), it is ensuring that the conduct of school officials does not violate the public trust as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a).

II. Mr. Schaeder hired former Board member Barry Fields to be the School's Information Technology Consultant.

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. Schaeder used his position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for Mr. Fields under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b). The Commission found that the Board was never presented with a contract for Mr. Fields, but he was paid thousands of dollars. The Commission was not provided evidence that a contract was ever approved by the Board.

The minutes from the October 17, 2002 meeting at which Mr. Schaeder, Mr. Fields and Ms. Johnson were present as board members indicate that Chairman Schaeder invited Amal Manassah to join the Board. She was approved by a vote of 3-0. Mr. Fields then resigned and presented a proposal for him to become the Information and Technology Consultant. The minutes make it clear that Mr. Fields resigned from the Board for the purpose of being able to receive compensation for his services. He began receiving compensation for those services without any motion or vote by the Board. Mr. Schaeder admitted that Mr. Fields resigned from the Board to take on the job, but says he did so because the volunteer work was becoming a full-time job.

Mr. Schaeder's responds to the Commission's finding that he cannot be held personally responsible for the hiring of Barry Fields when he was just one member of a unanimous Board. Additionally, he argues that the employment was not unwarranted because, prior to his resignation from the Board, Mr. Fields had volunteered his expertise to aid the computer/technology programs of Golden Door. He said the consultant agreement with Mr. Fields cost much less than other consultants such as Foundations, Inc., which would charge $750.00 per day to provide similar services. He adds that the outside accountant for the Charter School recommended that this action be taken and he relied on the accountant's position.

The issue before the Commission is whether Mr. Schaeder used his position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for Mr. Fields in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b). The Commission does not discount Mr. Schaeder's response, but his response seems to imply that at some point there was an actual vote on the matter at a public meeting. There was none. It also assumes that there was a contract entered into before Mr. Fields started to get paid. There was not. The Commission believes that the manner in which the hiring took place was the unwarranted privilege and advantage that Mr. Fields received as a former member of the Board, not the hiring itself, which was apparently recommended. The Commission holds Mr. Schaeder responsible for the manner in which Mr. Fields was hired because he was the Board President when the action took place. Ms. Manassah had just become a trustee minutes before the decision was made to make Mr. Fields a consultant. Thus, it is disingenuous to suggest that Ms. Manassah made an informed decision as to whether he should be hired. The full board did not make the decision. It is clear from the minutes that Mr. Fields and Mr. Schaeder made that decision. Further, the outside accountant may have recommended hiring Mr. Fields, but it did not recommend a stealth hiring and payment being made without a contract. The manner in which the hiring took place did not provide the public with any notice that there was a need to hire an Information Technology Consultant. Further, it did not give the public the opportunity to determine why Mr. Fields was preferred to any other provider of the service. The Commission reiterates from its probable cause determination that the information submitted by Foundations -- that other providers charge much more, should have been part of the public discussion of the issue, not presented in a closed hearing before the Commission. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. Schaeder used his position to secure an unwarranted privilege and advantage for Mr. Fields in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Mr. Schaeder violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) in connection with the termination of Ms. Jones and violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) in connection with the hiring of former trustee Barry Fields.

The Commission considered Mr. Schaeder's response to the finding of probable cause that argued that the matters for which he is being disciplined were decisions of the full board, but the evidence showed the opposite. Regarding Ms. Jones, the Board's approval was sought only after Ms. Jones had been presented with the severance agreement. Regarding Mr. Fields, the Board's approval was never sought. Mr. Schaeder has acted as a one-member board and in so doing has violated the Code of Ethics and the standards of conduct expected of board members in general. The Commission finds his conduct to be so egregious that only the penalty of removal would be appropriate. Therefore, the Commission recommends that Paul Schaeder be removed from the Golden Door Charter School Board of Trustees.

IN THE MATTER OF PAUL SCHAEDER, :

GOLDEN DOOR CHARTER SCHOOL, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY. : DECISION

The record of this matter, and the recommendation of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) that respondent be removed as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Golden Door Charter School, have been reviewed. Respondent filed timely comments on the Commission's decision, which have been duly considered herein.

This matter comes before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1 to impose a sanction upon respondent, who serves as Chairman of the Board of Trustees. The Commission's recommended sanction is based on its finding that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) by unilaterally effectuating the termination of the Charter School's Chief Academic Officer and then seeking Board approval after the fact, and on its further finding that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) by hiring, without Board motion or vote, a Board trustee who resigned from the Board expressly for the purpose of receiving compensation for his formerly voluntary technological services.

In his comments, respondent initially contends that the Commission exceeded its statutory authority by making factual findings without transmitting the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for the full evidentiary hearing to which respondent is entitled under the School Ethics Act and the Administrative Procedure Act; he further contends that, even assuming that the Commission did have the authority to hear the matter itself after determining that no material facts were in dispute, it clearly erred in doing so herein. (Respondent's Comments at 1-4)[1] Respondent next contends that the Commission erred in its factfinding, ignoring testimony and certifications and making flawed credibility determinations, and overlooked the unusual and difficult circumstances with which respondent had to deal. (Id. at 4-6)

With respect specifically to the Commission's recommendation of removal, respondent argues that even if the Commission's findings were accepted, they still do not support the ultimate penalty of removal from the charter school Board of Trustees. All the Commission essentially found, respondent contends, was that respondent acted like a "one-member board" in taking actions he strongly believed to be in the school's best interest; the Commission did not find that he in any way benefited personally from his decisions, nor did it find that his objectives were improper or illegal in themselves. Respondent notes that his actions were supported by the majority of the Board of Trustees, which unanimously reelected him as Chairman in 1998, 2001 and most recently on August 28, 2003, and that, at the time of his actions, the school was undergoing a period of difficulty and transition requiring strong, decisive leadership. Respondent thus avers that removal from the Board of Trustees would be unfair to him—who at most did not understand the parameters of his authority and who has had no previous instances of Ethics Act violations—and contrary to the best interests of a charter school to which he has brought substantial improvement and stability, as well as to the will of its Board of Trustees and school community. (Id. at 4-9)

[1] Respondent submits, under cover of separate letter to the Commissioner, an example of the type of evidence he would bring to a full OAL hearing. However, in that applicable rules make no provision for the Commissioner to consider information outside the record, that submission is not considered herein.

At the outset, the Deputy Commissioner, to whom the determination of this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33, emphasizes that, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, only the School Ethics Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act has occurred, and that the Commission's decision in that regard, including any underlying factfinding, discretionary procedural determinations and conclusions of law, is not reviewable herein. Rather, the Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to review of any sanction the Commission may recommend based upon its decision that a school official has violated the Act.

Given the limitations of his review in this matter, and upon consideration of the record and respondent's arguments on exception, the Deputy Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that respondent be removed as a member of the Golden Door Board of Trustees. In so ruling, the Deputy Commissioner is satisfied that the Commission, in recommending a penalty for the violations it found, considered both the nature of respondent's offense and his arguments as to why no penalty should be imposed, and he finds nothing in respondent's exceptions that would warrant disturbance of the Commission's judgment in concluding that respondent should be removed as a Trustee. Additionally, respondent's contention that the Commission lacked authority to hear this matter itself rather than refer it to the OAL is, in essence, a challenge to the facial validity of the Commission's procedural regulations (N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.12), a challenge which is within the sole purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); s*ee, also, Pascucci v. Vagott,* 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Furthermore, the Commission's finding, also protested by respondent, that no material facts were in dispute is a discretionary Commission determination authorized by N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.12 and, as such, is not reviewable herein, but, rather, on appeal to the State Board of Education. Finally, although it is true that the Commission did not find respondent's actions illegal in themselves, the fact remains that it could not have made such a finding, since its authority is expressly limited to determination of School Ethics Act violations.[2]

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Paul Schaeder be removed from the Board of Trustees of the Golden Door Charter School, effective on the filing date of this decision, as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.[3]

Date of Decision: 11/10/03

Date of Mailing: 11/10/03

[2] For example, the Commission would lack authority to determine whether the hiring of a former Trustee was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.1, as raised during preliminary proceedings in this matter.

[3] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in this matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(d) and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning nonprofit private school for the handicapped challenged the Department's disallowing of certain costs totaling $122,077.52, that had been included in tuition calculations for its students.

The ALJ found that the Department's decision to disallow lump sum payments to the staff was correct, since these are prohibited by rule. In addition, the ALJ found that the Department's decision to disallow the salary paid to an uncertified speech instructor was correct, since it would be contrary to public policy to permit an uncertified teacher to instruct children in the State's schools. The ALJ ordered the Department's decisions affirmed.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's Initial Decision. The petition was dismissed.

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

This is a hearing on the appeal of Search Day Program, Inc. ("petitioner" or "Search Day") from a decision of the Office of Compliance of the New Jersey State Department of Education ("respondent" or "the Department") disallowing certain costs totaling $122,077.52 that had been included in its calculations of tuition charges for its students.

On April 4, 2000, the instant matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to the New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act. An in-person prehearing and settlement conference was held on June 5, 2001. A stipulation of facts was filed on January 14, 2002. The case was scheduled for hearing on April 23, 2002, but I converted the hearing date into a case management conference and requested that counsel obtain and provide a substantial amount of additional information and data, details of which are set forth in a letter dated September 10, 2002 from Joann L. Lynch, Esq. to me. The hearing was held on October 22, 2002 and a videotaped deposition of the Department's expert witness (Roger Bell) was conducted on May 19, 2003. The record closed upon my receipt of the deposition transcript on August 22, 2003.

The essential facts in this case and not in dispute, having been stipulated by counsel prior to the hearing, and having been further established by the testimony of two witnesses (Lillian Hobson for petitioner and Roger Bell for respondent), as well as by the admission into evidence of financial records, contracts, certifications, and other documents.

Accordingly, I make the following

FINDINGS OF FACT

A. Background

1. Search Day, located in the Township of Ocean, County of Monmouth, was established in 1971 as a not-for-profit school that provides services for early elementary, middle elementary, and transitional children suffering from autism.
2. In addition to providing school for children with autism, Search Day provides an adult activity center and a group home for adult males with autism.
3. Search Day's school year runs from July 1 to June 30 of the following year.
4. During the six month from October 1997 until March 1998, Search Day experienced unusual turnover of administrative staff. In particular: (a) in October 1997 Nancy Radich resigned as business manager. She was replaced that same month by Nellie Brumbaugh, C.P.A.; (b) in December 1997 Nellie Brumbaugh resigned as business manager; (c) in January 1998, Kenneth Appenzeller, Executive Director, tendered his resignation to become effective June 30, 1998; and (d) on or about March 1998, Lillian Hobson was hired as business manager.

5. During the period from December 1997 to March 6, 1998, routine financial transactions were handled by Search Day's bookkeeper, Jean Veltri.

6. On or about May 18, 1998, Katherine Solana was appointed to replace Kenneth Appenzeller as Executive Director.

B. The Lump Sum Payment

1. During the 1997-1998 school year and the school years preceding that year, Search Day had no salary schedule or guidelines in effect for its employees.

2. In June 1998, all full time employees of Search Day having an annual salary base received a lump sum payment equal to 9.28% of their annual salary. Part-time employees and others not having an annual salary base received a payment of $1.18 per hour multiplied by the number of hours worked during the fiscal year 1997-1998, also representing an increase in wages of about 9.28%. The total amount of money required for that payment was $113,536.96 (including payroll taxes).

3. The rationale for this lump sum payment was that Search Day's employees were underpaid compared to the other schools, public and private, in the county providing similar educational services, and that its employees had not received the increase in salary that had been "promised" to them in the Fall of 1997.

4. On or about December 7, 1998, the Department began an audit of Search Day's books and records. Among the "non-allowable" costs submitted by Search Day were (1) a $104,021.03 payment made to Search Day's employees in June 1998, and (2) the sum of $8,538.58 in salary and benefits paid to employee Lauren Nemeroff during the period from January 1998 through April 1998.

5. Except for newly hired employees, none of Search Day's staff had a written employment contract for the 1997-1998 school year. This situation was consistent with the established practice at Search Day at that time, to wit, when a new employee was hired he/she received an employment contract which was not formally renewed in subsequent years, even though the employee continued to work for Search Day.

6. Search Day had no salary step guides, merit payment system or "contingent pay" system in place during the 1997-1998 school year.

7. A salary step guide for Search Day's employees was not established, approved and promulgated until February 1999.

8. In accordance with its usual practice, Search Day's employees had received an approximately 4% salary increase for the 1997-1998 school year.

9. The base salaries of Search Day's employees did not change immediately after the lump sum payment totaling $113,538.96 made to those employees in June 1998; rather, the base salaries of those employees remained the same until at least September 1998.

10. In or about September 1998 Search Day granted its employees a 4.5% (approximately) salary increase.

11. If Search Day had not made the $113,538.96 lump sum payment in June 1998, it would have had a surplus of $82,601.39 at the end of that month, which surplus it would have had to refund to those school districts which had sent its handicapped children to Search Day during the 1997-1998 school year.

12. Prior to the grant of the June 1998 lump sum payment, Search Day's Board of Directors neither passed a resolution nor took any other official action approving that payment.

C. Lauren Nemeroff

1. On or about January 8, 1998 Search Day hired one Lauren Nemeroff as a member of its teaching staff.

2. Ms. Nemeroff's title at the time of hire was "Speech Instructor." This is not a title or position recognized by the New Jersey State Department of Education.

3. Although Ms. Nemeroff held the requisite number of credits to qualify as a "Speech and Language Specialist," she had not received state certification for that position at the time she was hired.
4. Ms. Nemeroff's salary was $403.85 per week.
5. During the period from January to April 1998 Ms. Nemeroff was on probationary status.
6. Upon completion of her probationary status, on May 8, 1998 Search Day forwarded her credentials to the Office of the County Superintendent for permanent certification.
7. Shortly after May 8, 1998 certification was granted by the County Superintendent.
8. According to Lillian Hobson: "Had Nemeroff chosen to return for the 1998-1999 school year, she would have been promoted to the position of 'Speech and Language Specialist.'"[1] However, Nemeroff chose not to return for the 1998-1999 school year and was not employed by Search Day at the time of the Department audit.

ISSUES AND ANALYSIS

There are two basic issues in this case:

1. Did the Department correctly determine that the one-time payment in the amount of $113,538.96 made to Search Day's employees in June 1998 was a non-allowable cost, constituting "a payment or benefit in lieu of salary (bonus)," disallowable under former N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)35?

2. Was the salary of Lauren Nemeroff for the four-month period (January 1998-April 1998) properly disallowed because she did not posses the required certification at the time she was hired?

[1] "Speech and Language Specialist" is a title recognized by the Department of Education.

For the reasons to be expressed hereafter, I am of the opinion that both of these questions should be answered in the affirmative.

1. The Lump Sum Payment

Although the facts in the case of Y.A.L.E. School, Inc. v. State of New Jersey, Department of Education, App. Div., Dkt. # A-2607-92T2 (decided July 8, 1994) are not identical to those of the instant case, the legal principles enunciated in that case are applicable here. In Y.A.L.E., the Appellate Division upheld the disallowance of the payments to teachers and administrators during the school year 1987-1988, which were made in the form of a "merit pay salary adjustment." The court declared:

> ". . . the payments are properly characterized as a bonus because they were 'in addition to the usual or expected.' They were not part of the salary guide, were determined after the end of the school year, and were subject to the total discretion of the administration. Contrary to petitioner's argument, these payments were less in the nature of a legal expectancy and more in the nature of a mere gratuity, to be bestowed upon such objects of the donor's bounty as the donor or his trustees may select." (citations omitted)

In his initial decision (OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3912-90) (decided July 31, 1992), Judge Reback declared:

> "In my judgment regardless of the application given to the payments made by Y.A.L.E. to its staff members in 1986-87 and 1987-88, those payments indeed constituted a bonus. The monies which were paid were not obligatory; that is, notwithstanding that a Y.A.L.E. official may have announced an intention to pay monies in the future, it was entirely discretionary. It need not have been given and even if it were, its distribution was dependent upon the exercise of the discretion of the school. Clearly, in addition, no employee had an entitlement to the receipt of the merit pay or was > in possession of a legal contractual right to those monies should it have been withheld.

Judge Reback further stated: ". . . notwithstanding what might be described as the good faith intentions of Y.A.L.E. to reward its employees, Y.A.L.E.'s motivation cannot validate what is otherwise a patently invalid payment scheme . . . ."

I agree with the analysis of Deputy Attorney General Eck. In her Brief, she pointed out:

> "Petitioner's one-time payment to its employees in June of 1998 was a payment in lieu of salary, since it was made at the end of the school year, there was no contractual requirement to provide its employees with such a payment, there was no set amount promised to the employees, the employees' base salaries did not change after the payment, and in fact never incorporated a 9.28% increase in the succeeding year, and the payment was made at a time when the school had a surplus which it would otherwise be required to refund to the sending school districts."

Petitioner argues that the lump sum payment in June 1998 should be viewed as a retroactive salary adjustment, pursuant to the typical labor union negotiations for a new contract, i.e., comparable to "any salary increase that is not paid immediately but delayed due to extended negotiations beyond the beginning of the work year. The employee receives a lump sum check which represents the entire increase retroactively to the beginning of the work year."

In my opinion, this argument is specious. Unlike negotiations in the typical labor-management arena, the Legislature has established a highly regulated system for the provision of services and facilities by private schools to handicapped children and for the amount of tuition that can be charged to sending districts. See, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-1 to N.J.S.A. 18A:46-46, in particular, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-21, which states: ". . . in no case shall the tuition rate exceed the actual cost per pupil as determined under rules prescribed by the Commissioner and approved by the State Board of Education." The Department has promulgated a detailed and complex set of regulations pursuant thereto. See, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.1 to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.15. Both under the current regulations and the predecessor regulations (N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1 to –4.11), if at the end of the school year there exists a "surplus," i.e., an excess of income over costs and expenses, that surplus must be refunded to the sending school districts. It cannot be used for other purposes, such as granting a retroactive salary increase to school staff or administrators.

Search Day's counsel also argue that the Y.A.L.E. decision is inapposite because the court stressed the fact that "merit" increases in varying amounts were given to some employees but not to others and that this could be considered arbitrary, whereas in the instant case, the increase was given across the board to all employees. However, as earlier noted, the Y.A.L.E. court had other compelling reasons for its decision, all of which are applicable to the instant case.

2. Lauren Nemeroff

As I have earlier found, when hired, Ms. Nemeroff was given the title of "Speech Instructor." Ostensibly, she performed duties corresponding to that of a Speech and Language Specialist. Indeed, she was listed on at least one student's Individual Educational Plan as a Speech and Language Instructor.

However, "Speech Instructor" is a title not recognized by the Department. To act as a Speech and Language teacher, she needed a standard teaching certificate with the appropriate endorsement for speech. N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.2 and –6.2. During the first four months of her employment she did not possess that certificate.

Certification requirements establish a threshold for teaching staff members employed in the public (and private) school systems of New Jersey. As noted by the State Board of Education, the certification process is critical to assuring the provision of a thorough and efficient education. Guttenberg Ed. Ass'n. v. Leo F. Klagholz, Comm'r of Educ., SB 11-98, State Bd. Decision (March 3, 1999). <http://www.state.nj.us/njded//legal/sboe/1999/ma/sb11-98.pdf.>

In my opinion it would be contrary to public policy to permit an uncertified teacher to instruct children in the State's schools.

Petitioner contends that despite her title, Ms. Nemeroff really performed the duties of an aide, in particular, as an assistant to Lillian Sarason, a properly certificated teacher in the school, and that she was always under the direct supervision of Ms. Sarason. This argument is not convincing. Neither Ms. Nemeroff nor Ms. Sarason testified at the hearing or even submitted a statement to this effect. The only evidence to support Search Day's position came from Lillian Hobson, who admitted that she rarely had occasion to personally observe the relationship, if any, between Nemeroff and Sarason, together with the undisputed fact that Nemeroff worked with the children in a small (approximately 8' x 15') room immediately adjacent to where Ms. Sarason usually taught. All other evidence pertaining to Ms. Nemeroff's actual duties is hearsay. In my opinion this is not enough to satisfy the residuum rule, i.e., the requirement that some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact. *N.J.A.C.*1:1-15.8.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons stated above I CONCLUDE that the decision of the Department to disallow the lump sum payment made to Search Day's staff in June 1998 and the salary paid to Lauren Nemeroff during the months of January to April 1998 was correct and should be AFFIRMED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that the Department of Education was correct in disallowing, in petitioner's calculation of tuition for its public school students, the cost of lump sum payments to staff and the salary of an uncertified teacher.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL recommending dismissal of the Petition of Appeal is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning aunt challenged the Board's residency determination that her nephew, A.V., was not entitled to a free public education in the District.

The ALJ concluded that undisputed evidence showed that A.V. was not domiciled in the District. Twice, petitioner failed to appear at hearing. Thus, the ALJ granted the District's request to dismiss the appeal for petitioner's failure to appear and granted the District's request for reimbursement of past tuition in the amount of $7,092.40.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision and directed petitioner to remit to the Board the tuition due.

Record Closed: September 23, 2003 Decided: October 3, 2003

BEFORE SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appealed the determination by respondent Board of Education of the City of Clifton (District) that her minor nephew A.V. was not entitled to a free public education in the District. Petitioner claimed that the minor child was entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) because the child was domiciled within the District. Respondent answered that the minor child did not meet the requirements of domicile in the District and filed a counterclaim for payment of tuition.

On September 20, 2002, petitioner submitted an appeal of the District's residency determination. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 1, 2002. The OAL scheduled a prehearing conference for January 3, 2003. As the petitioner did not make herself available, the prehearing conference could not be held. The hearing was scheduled for March 12, 2003 and again the petitioner failed to appear. The hearing was scheduled again for July 31, 2003 and petitioner did not appear. Phone calls were made to Petitioner's home by the OAL secretary and Petitioner's daughter said Petitioner was on her way. Counsel for the District waited 1-1/2 hours for Petitioner's arrival. She did not appear. The OAL opened the record to entertain the District's motion to dismiss Petitioner's appeal and to accept evidence on the District's counterclaim for back tuition. The record was held open until September 23, 2003, for the submission of an affidavit concerning the per diem tuition rate. To date the petitioner has not phoned or mailed an explanation or any other writing regarding her failure to appear.

FACTS

The following facts are undisputed and I FIND them to be FACTS in the case.

On or about September 12, 2002, Petitioner received notice from the Superintendent of Schools that the application for school admission submitted for Petitioner's nephew had no sworn statement from the parent/guardian stating an inability to support or care for the student.

The District through its business administrator reviewed the business records and determined that A.V. was enrolled in the Clifton public school on September 19, 2002 and continued to the present. The cost of educating A.V. in the District amounted to $7,092.40 per year for the 2002-03 school year with the per diem rate of $41.72.

Thus, the amount of tuition owed by petitioner for the period of ineligible attendance in 2002-03 amounted to $7,092.40 (170 school days x $41.72). (Exhibit R-1)

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Public education must be provided free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A: 18A:38-1(a). The converse is also true that a person is not entitled to a free public education if they are not domiciled within the District. I FIND that the undisputed evidence showed that petitioner's minor child was living with his Aunt in Clifton. Hence, I CONCLUDE that A.V. was not domiciled in Clifton and was not entitled to receive a free public education from that District. I further CONCLUDE that at the per diem rate of $41.72, petitioner owes the District tuition for one hundred and seventy school days in the 2002-03 year amounting to $7,092.40.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing it ORDERED that the District's request to dismiss petitioner's appeal for failure to appear is GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the District's request for reimbursement of past tuition in the amount of $7,092.40 is hereby GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, and accepting the factual findings of the Administrative Law Judge, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner, the minor child's aunt, twice failed to appear for the hearings scheduled in this matter, and, therefore, has not demonstrated that A.V. is entitled to a free public education in respondent's District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1.

Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal is dismissed. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), the Commissioner directs that petitioner remit to the Board tuition for the 2002-03 school year in the amount of $7,092.40.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Honors Physics grading policy for the 2001-02 school year, claiming the flawed policy would result in the wrong persons being selected as Valedictorian and Salutatorian. In June 2003, the Commissioner denied emergent relief in this matter and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing.

The Board moved to dismiss this matter on three grounds: 1) petitioner did not have standing; 2) petitioner's claims were moot; and 3) the petition was untimely filed. The ALJ concluded that the petition must be dismissed for said reasons.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

Record Closed: September 15, 2003 Decided: October 7, 2003

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner challenged the Honors Physics grading policy for the 2001-02 school year.

By emergency petition filed May 20, 2003, petitioner requested emergent relief on the grounds that the allegedly flawed grading policy might result in the wrong persons being selected as Valedictorian and Salutatorian. The Commissioner denied the application for emergent relief on June 16, 2003. In his opinion Commissioner Librera specifically declined to entertain either petitioner's request for summary decision or the Board's motion to dismiss.

The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case on July 16, 2003. When the matter was transmitted the transmittal noted that the threshold issues were the timeliness of the petition and whether petitioner has standing to bring this action. On August 26, 2003, the OAL held a prehearing conference at which the schedule for the pending motion to dismiss was set. Petitioner filed her opposition to the pending motion on September 3, 2003. The district filed its reply on September 15, 2003.

FACTS

For purposes of this motion, the following FACTS are undisputed.

Petitioner is the mother of C.J., who graduated Mountain Lakes High School in June 2003 and is now attending Johns Hopkins University. During the 2001-02 school year, C.J., a junior at the time, received a "C" as his final grade in Honors Physics. C.J. felt he deserved a higher grade and met with his teacher about it but to no avail.

In September 2002, petitioner met with the Honors Physics teacher, Mr. Polashenski, and Mr. Ludwig, Principal of the high school, about the calculation of her son's grade. Petitioner also spoke to the Superintendent about her concerns. Petitioner also requested the Board to consider the grading practice used to determine the 2001-02 grades for Honors Physics. In late October 2002 the Board denied her request.

C.J. was not in contention to be named either Valedictorian or Salutatorian of the high school 2003 graduating class. The high school does not provide the ranking of its students, although it does provide the grade point average. Any change in the grade distribution of the 2001-02 Honors Physics class could not affect the ranking of any member of the class of 2003.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The Board moved to dismiss this action on three grounds. The first basis was that petitioner does not have standing to bring this claim. The Board also contended that petitioner's claims are moot. Lastly, the Board argued that the petitioner's claim was not filed within 90 days of the Board's refusal to provide a hearing and thus was untimely. The petitioner argued that the motion was timely because unless the discriminatory process and faulty procedures are addressed the students will continue to suffer from these improper procedures. The petitioner claimed an interest in the subject matter because if the Valedictorian or Salutatorian filed suit for damages, petitioner as a taxpayer would be harmed. Further, such an unfair grading situation might in the future happen to her minor child currently in the high school. Petitioner argued she should also be allowed to bring this action because the school cannot provide adequate representation to protect the students' interest.

The Standing Issue

In order to bring a claim a litigant must have sufficient interest in the subject matter of the litigation; this concept is known as standing. See U.K. and G.K. o/b/o D.K. v. Clifton Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 71 (1992). Generally, in order to have standing a petitioner must demonstrate a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceedings and his/her position must be truly adverse to that of respondents. K.S.R. and E.D.R. o/b/o E.D.R., Jr. v. Montague Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5300-03, 201 AGEN LEXIS 583, (Oct. 3, 2001) citing Home Builders League of So. Jersey, Inc. v. Berlin Tp., 81 N.J. 127, 123 (1979). It is necessary to demonstrate standing by showing some measurable amount of detrimental impact on the complaining party's personal rights. Salorio v. Glaser, 82 N.J. 482, 491 (1998). The courts refused to entertain proceedings by parties who are mere intermeddlers, interlopers, or strangers to a dispute. Cresent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98, 107 (1971).

Additionally in order to bring a complaint to hear a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, a person must be an interested party. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 defines interested persons as those who will be substantially, specifically and directly effected by the outcome of the controversy before the Commissioner. The dismissal of cases brought by litigants who will not be effected by the outcome in a direct and meaningful way is required by this regulation. E.D.R. v. Montague at 15.

The district argued that the petitioner has not shown that she is directly effected by the outcome in a direct and meaningful way. Petitioner has admitted that she is not contesting this grade on account of her son as he is not going to become Valedictorian or Salutatorian. Her claim that the Valedictorian or Salutatorian may sue the district therefore costing her as a taxpayer extra money was previously rejected by the Commissioner as too speculative. She now claims that her other son is in the high school and if he takes Physics and if he has the same teacher and if the teacher continues to mark in the same way as he did in 2001-02 school year her son will be subjected to the same unfairness. Plainly, I FIND that the requisite demonstration of direct and meaningful involvement is not shown by these contingencies: if the family continues to live in the district, if the child continue going to the school, if the child takes the Physics, if the teacher is still there, if the teacher uses the same computer program and the same text books. These mere speculative effects are not the measurable amount of detrimental impact required to demonstrate a sufficient interest in the subject matter to provide standing. Hence on the undisputed facts I CONCLUDE that the petitioner does not have standing under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 as she is not an interested person who will be substantially, specifically and directly effected by the outcome of this controversy.

The Issue of Mootness

The Board also contends that petitioner's claim should not be considered as the matter is moot. An action is considered moot where it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the issues have become academic. When a determination is sought on the matter which when rendered cannot have practical effect on the existing controversy, the matter is moot. S.G. v. Fairlawn Bd. of Educ., 2000 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 552. The purpose of the doctrine of mootness is to refrain from unnecessary decision where an issue is hypothetical, judgment cannot grant effective relief or the parties do not have concrete adversity of interest. Fox v. Tp. of East Brunswick Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10067-98, 1999 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 140 (March 19, 1999).

In a landmark case the Supreme Court considered a case where students were disciplined for violation of a regulation. By the time the matter reached the Appellate Division the students challenging the regulation had graduated from the high school. Under the circumstances the Supreme Court declined to review the educational authority's actions. Oxfeld v. N.J. Bd. of Educ., 68 N.J. 301, 304 (1995). Similarly, in a recent case where a student was disciplined under a zero tolerance policy, the State Board of Education was asked to consider uniform guidelines for the discipline of students and the constitutionality of zero tolerance policies. The State Board refused to consider the policy issues as any dispute regarding H.R.'s ability to attend school in the district had been resolved, meaning that the questions being raised by petitioner were academic at that point. L.H. and L.H. o/b/o H.R. v. Bd. of Educ. of Rahway, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5449-01, State Board of Education decision April 2, 2003. In the instant case, the Valedictorian and Salutatorian have graduated and petitioner's son has also graduated. Hence, I CONCLUDE that the issues raised concerning the 2002-2003 Honors Physics grades have become academic, rendering them moot.

The Timeliness Issue

Claims brought before the Commissioner must be brought in a timely manner in order to provide "a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws." Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley, 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993). Specifically, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) provides the petitioner "shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." The 90-day rule can only be relaxed if strict adherence to the rule would be inappropriate, unnecessary, injustice or if there exist substantial constitutional issue or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond the parties themselves. DeMaio v. New Providence Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 449, 453.

Here petitioner does not deny the fact stated by the Board that her request for a hearing in front of the Board was rejected in late October 2002. Although petitioner did not cease her inquiry and went to other agencies and continued her investigation, she knew in late October that the Board had refused to hold a hearing on the matter. Accordingly, the petition filed in May 2003 was about four months later than the 90-day time limitation required. Moreover petitioner has not demonstrated the necessary elements required to relax the rule. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petition must be dismissed because petitioner did not adhere to the 90-day deadline required in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

In sum, I CONCLUDE that the petition must be dismissed because the matter is moot, the petitioner has no standing, and the petition was filed untimely.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons it is hereby ORDERED that the petitioner's request for an examination of the grades of the 2001-02 Honors Physics is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." WHEREAS, Mr. Larry Hazzard is a member of the Newark Board of Education and thus a "school official" under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the Act and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2 of the Code; and

WHEREAS, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003 and 30 days from swearing-in or start of employment for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office as required by the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Commission sent a reminder letter to him on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003, directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the disclosure statements; and

WHEREAS, the school official failed to reply to Order to Show Cause; and

WHEREAS, in its letter enclosing the Order, the Commission notified this school official that the Commission would discuss this matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official was given ample opportunity to provide the complete disclosure statement; and

WHEREAS, the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from his Board, but removal if he does not file within 30 days of the date of the Commissioner's decision on penalty, especially in light of the failure to respond to the Commission's reminder letter before the September 15, 2003 deadline.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Larry Hazzard violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of suspension from his Board, but removal if he does not file within 30 days of the effective date of the Commissioner's decision.

DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named school official for failure to file a personal/relative disclosure statement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and/or an annual financial disclosure statement required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26;

Whereas, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003, or 30 days from swearing in or start of service for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission, was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office, as required by the Act; and

Whereas, the Commission sent a reminder letter to the above-named school official on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(j), the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003 directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the necessary statement(s); and

Whereas, the above-named school official failed to reply to the Order to Show Cause; and

Whereas, the Commission found that failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the above-referenced school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 28, 2003 to recommend suspension of the above-named school official until he files the necessary disclosure statement, and his automatic removal from the board if he fails to file within 30 days, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated November 7, 2003 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending removal; and

Whereas, neither the above-named school official nor anyone on his behalf submitted a response for the Commissioner's consideration; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission; and

Whereas, the Commissioner recognizes that, were the Commission's recommendation to be adopted without modification, school officials filing the requisite disclosure statement prior to the decision of the Commissioner, and hence, prior to imposition of the recommended suspension, would receive no penalty notwithstanding that the School Ethics Act was violated and the Commission has recommended reprimands for school officials who failed to file until after issuance of the Order to Show Cause; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that, as recommended by the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official be suspended until he files the necessary disclosure statement, and automatically removed from the Board if he fails to file within 30 days. IT IS additionally ORDERED that even if the above-named school official shall have filed the necessary statement prior to the filing date of this decision, he shall nevertheless be reprimanded for his failure to abide by the requirements of the School Ethics Act despite many opportunities for compliance, thereby causing administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials.*

Eric Martin Bernstein, Esq., for respondent (Eric M. Bernstein & Associates, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 3, 2003 Decided: October 7, 2003

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 12, 2003, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement and General Release indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

CONFIDENTIAL

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

IT IS HEREBY AGREED by and between PAMELA JUSTINIANO ("Justiniano") and the ATLANTIC CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION ("Board"), for the good and sufficient consideration set forth below, as follows:

1. The Board, as used herein, shall at all times mean the Atlantic City Board of Education, its subsidiaries, affiliates, predecessors, successors and assigns of any and all of them, their present and former directors, officials, officers, representatives, associates, partners, servants, employees, agents, attorneys, designees, successors, heirs, executors and administrators whether in their individual or official capacities, and all other persons, firms, corporations, associations, partnerships or any other entity connected therewith; and,

2. Justiniano, as used herein, shall mean Pamela Justiniano, her heirs, representatives, privies, executors, administrators, assigns, successors-in-interest and predecessors-in-interest; and,

3. Within thirty (30) working days of the Board's receipt of this Settlement Agreement and General Release, executed by Justiniano before a Notary Public, the Board shall pay to Justiniano an amount equal to ONE THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS AND NO CENTS ($1,500.00). Justiniano and the Board acknowledge and agree that the payment mentioned above is in settlement of any and all claims that had been asserted, were asserted or may have been asserted or could be asserted by Justiniano for compensatory damages, pain, suffering, emotional distress, stress, humiliation, embarrassment, mental anguish, medical expenses, punitive damages, interests, attorneys fees, costs of suit, loss of sick time, loss of vacation time, loss of benefits, consequential damage, reputation damage, breach of express or implied contract, interference in any contract, economic opportunity or prospective economic advantage which arose out of Justiniano's employment with the Board, as well as deriving from the incidents related to the matter known as Pamela Justiniano v. Atlantic City Board of Education, Docket No. EDUOA-04650-98S, for, but not limited to, violation of her civil rights, privileges and immunities secured by the Civil Rights Act of 1871, 1964 and 1991, 42 U.S.C. §§1981, 1983, 1985, 1986 and 1988, the New Jersey Tort Claims Act, N.J.S.A. 59:1-1 et. seq., the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et. seq., the Tenure Protection Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-4 and any and all other federal, state and local constitutional, statutory, regulatory or administrative laws, ordinances or common law duties. Justiniano and the Board expressly understand and agree that said payment includes any and all amounts that may be, could be or will be claimed by Justiniano or on her behalf, or by her attorneys, heirs, successors or assigns, against the Board. The payment mentioned above is in complete and full settlement of all amounts that Justiniano is or could be owed by the Board and Justiniano agrees that she will not seek any future compensation or benefits from the Board except what is stated explicitly herein. Further, Justiniano and the Board agree that this Settlement Agreement and General Release is contingent on and subject to approval and ratification by the Board; and,

4. (a) This settlement is intended as a resolution for any and all possible claims, actual or implicit, and Justiniano hereby waives any and all claims for lost wages, income or future earnings and any other benefits potentially available arising out of the matter known as Pamela Justiniano v. Atlantic City Board of Education, Docket No. EDUOA-04650-98S. Justiniano also understands and agrees that any adjustments to her withholding or any estimated tax payments are her responsibility; and,

(b) In any action commenced by either party against the other to enforce the provisions of this paragraph, the Board or Justiniano, if it/she is the prevailing party, shall be entitled to recover its reasonable attorneys' fees, costs and disbursements incurred in prosecuting the action.

5. Neither this Settlement Agreement and General Release, nor anything contained herein, shall be construed as an admission by the Board or Justiniano of any liability or unlawful conduct whatsoever. Justiniano and the Board further acknowledge that the parties enter into this Settlement Agreement and General Release solely to avoid further expensive, burdensome and protracted litigation. This Settlement Agreement and General Release is not intended to be used and shall not be used as evidence or for any other purpose in any other action or proceeding, other than evidence of the compromise between Justiniano and the Board as set forth herein or to enforce the terms of this Settlement Agreement and General Release; and,

6. Justiniano releases, acquits, gives up and forever discharges any and all claims and rights which she may have against the Board up to the time of the execution of this Settlement Agreement and General Release. Justiniano specifically releases the following claims:

Any and all damages, whether known or unknown at this date, arising from or in any way relating to the matter known as Pamela Justiniano v. Atlantic City Board of Education, Docket No. EDUOA-04650-98S or arising from Justiniano's employment with the Board, including, but not limited to, attorney fees pursuant to 42 U.S.C. §1983 and/or 42 U.S.C. §1988 and/or N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq.

More specifically, in consideration of the payment specified in Paragraph 3 above and the entry into this Settlement Agreement and General Release by the Board, Justiniano hereby releases, acquits and forever discharges the Board of and from any and all actions or causes of action, suits, debts, claims, complaints, contracts, controversies, agreements, promises, damages, cross-claims, claims for contribution and/or indemnity, claims for costs and/or attorney's fees, judgments and demands whatsoever, in law or equity, which Justiniano ever had, now has, or may have, as of the date of this Settlement Agreement and General Release, as set forth more particularly in Paragraph 3.

7. Justiniano agrees not only to release, acquit and forever discharge the Board from any and all claims which arose from Justiniano's employment with the Board that Justiniano could make on her own behalf, but also those which have been or may be made against the Board by any other person or organization on her behalf. Justiniano specifically waives any right to become, and promises not to become, a member of any class in any case in which any claim is asserted against the Board, involving any event that has occurred on or before the date of this Settlement Agreement and General Release; and,

8. The Board affirms that, as of the date of execution of this Settlement Agreement and General Release, they have no knowledge of any pending class action against it to which Justiniano could be a potential class member, and,

9. Justiniano specifically acknowledges that the arrangement referred to in Paragraph 3 hereof constitutes additional consideration not otherwise owed to her but for this Settlement Agreement and General Release; and,

10. Unless directed to do so by court order or lawfully issued subpoena with notification to the Board at the time the lawfully issued subpoena was issued, Justiniano agrees that she will not give testimony or evidence against the Board in any proceeding with respect to any incidents related to any incidents/events involving Justiniano's employment with the Board; and,

11 This Settlement Agreement and General Release contains the full agreement of Justiniano and the Board and may not be modified, altered, changed or terminated except upon the express prior written consent of Justiniano and the Board, which consent must be signed by Justiniano and the Board or their duly authorized agents; and,

12. The waiver by Justiniano and the Board of a breach of any provision hereof shall not operate or be construed as a waiver of that breach by the other, or as a waiver of any subsequent breach by the other; and,

13. If any term, provision or condition of this Settlement Agreement and General Release is held invalid or unenforceable by a court of competent jurisdiction, such holding shall be without effect upon the validity or enforceability of any other provision, term or condition of this Settlement Agreement and General Release; and,

14. Justiniano hereby acknowledges and agrees that she further expressly waives and assumes the risk of any and all claims or damages which exist as of this date for which Justiniano does not know of or suspect to exist, whether through ignorance, oversight, error, negligence, or otherwise and which, if known, would materially effect her decision to enter into this Settlement Agreement and General Release; and,

15. Justiniano represents and warrants that no other person or entity has or has had any interest in the claims, demands, obligations, or causes of action referred to in this Settlement Agreement and General Release; that Justiniano has not sold, assigned, transferred, conveyed or otherwise disposed of any of the claims, demands, obligations or causes of action referred to in her verbal complaint(s) and/or in this Settlement Agreement and General Release; and,

16. This Settlement Agreement and General Release shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey; and,

17. Justiniano and the Board agree to cooperate fully and execute any and all supplementary documents and to take all additional actions which may be necessary or appropriate to get full force and effect of the basic terms and interest of this Settlement Agreement and General Release; and,

18. This Settlement Agreement and General Release shall not be executed in counterparts and shall be enforceable only if executed by Justiniano and the Board; and,

19. This Settlement Agreement and General Release shall become effective immediately following execution by Justiniano and the Board and approval by all applicable Board officials, except as noted herein; and,

20. Justiniano and the Board shall bear all costs and expenses arising from the actions of their own counsel in connection with the Settlement Agreement and General Release. As set forth in Paragraph 3, the Board has agreed to only pay the amounts herein mentioned to Justiniano. As further consideration for this Settlement Agreement and General Release, Justiniano and her attorney agree that this sum represents all of the monies which the Board has agreed to pay to Justiniano and her attorney and that any additional attorney's fees which may arise from the actions of Justiniano' attorney in connection with any matter arising from Justiniano' employment with the Board are to be borne by Justiniano; and,

21. This Settlement Agreement and General Release contains the entire agreement between Justiniano and the Board with regard to the matters set forth in it, and shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of their officials, officers, directors, attorneys, representatives, employees, associates, partners, agents, servants, executors, administrators, personal representatives, heirs, successors and assigns of each, and all other persons, firms, corporations, associations or partnerships or any other entity or persons connected therewith, except as set forth herein or as may be agreed to in writing between the parties; and,

22. In entering into this Settlement Agreement and General Release, Justiniano has relied upon the legal advice of her attorney, who is the attorney of her own choice, as to the terms of this Settlement Agreement and General Release which have been completely read and explained by her attorneys and those terms are fully understood and voluntarily accepted; and,

23. All notices, demands and requests which are required and desired to be given shall be in writing and shall be sent regular mail and pre-paid, registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed as follows:

	: ORDER APPROVING SETTLEMENT
Defendant(s).	:

THIS MATTER having been brought by Amadu A. Jollah by filing a pro se residency appeal on behalf of his minor child, C.F., against the Southampton Township Board of Education, wherein on June 12, 2003 he alleged that he was in the process of purchasing a home in Southampton Township.

Amadu A. Jollah now admitting that he has been domiciled in the Township of Mount Laurel since January 2003 while C.F. attended schools in Southampton Township and his efforts to purchase homes within the Southampton Township have been unsuccessful, although it is his intention to become domiciled within Southampton Township by December 31, 2003, and it is his desire to pay tuition so that C.F. can continue to be educated in the Southampton Township school district.

IT IS ORDERED that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement set forth hereinafter and these proceedings be and hereby are concluded.

C.F. shall be permitted to remain a pupil in the Southampton Township school district upon Amadu A. Jollah paying tuition of $9,303.30 by cash or certified check. By September 26, 2003 he shall pay $2,000.00 and the balance by October 27, 2003. Failure to make either payment on time shall result in C.F. not being permitted to attend school in the Southampton Township unless at such time Amadu A. Jollah is domiciled in the Township of Southampton. If Amadu A. Jollah makes the required tuition payments but is not a domiciliary of Southampton Township by December 31, 2003, C.F. shall not be permitted to attend school in Southampton Township beyond that date. Tuition for January to June 2003 semester is $5,365.80. Tuition for the September to December 2003 semester is $3,937.50. If Amadu A. Jollah is domiciled in Southampton Township before December 31, 2003 he shall receive a credit of $52.52 for each day he is domiciled within the municipality for which tuition was charged.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's residency determination that petitioner and her child, J.L.S., were not domiciled in the District. The Board counterclaimed for tuition and costs.

In light of the record and the testimony of witnesses, the ALJ found that petitioner did not prove by a preponderance of evidence that J.L.S. was eligible for a free education based on domicile within the District. Thus, the ALJ dismissed the petition and granted the Board's counterclaim for tuition and costs. The ALJ ordered petitioner to pay $7,175 in tuition and $378.69 in sanctions to the Board.

The Commissioner concurred with the dismissal of the petition and the grant of tuition to the Board. The Commissioner, however, did not reach to the order for sanctions, since final agency review of such orders is within the sole purview of the Director of the OAL.

BEFORE JOHN SCHUSTER III, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Dunellen (hereinafter BOE or respondent), held a hearing and determined that J.L.S., the child of T.L.S., was not domiciled within the BOE school district, although she continued to attend school within the BOE district. Consequently, the respondent decided that the child should be removed from the school and that T.L.S. should pay tuition for the child. According to the papers filed, T.L.S. alleges that she and her child, J.L.S., are domiciled within the district and claim that the BOE was and is required to provide her child with a free public education. The BOE submits that T.L.S. has not met her burden of proof and counterclaims for an order requiring T.L.S. to pay tuition.

In addition, the BOE has requested that petitioner pay a sanction as a result of her failure to answer interrogatories or otherwise provide discovery causing a postponement of a hearing.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 18, 2003, a hearing was held by the BOE, which the petitioner attended, for the purpose of giving the petitioner the right to appeal the determination of the respondent that J.L.S., the daughter of petitioner, does not reside within the Dunellen school district (R-3). On March 20, 2003, the respondent notified the petitioner that the BOE affirmed its initial determination and directed the petitioner to remove the child from the Dunellen schools. That notice (R-5) also advised the petitioner that she could file an appeal with the Commissioner of Education. On April 3, 2003, petitioner filed a pro se residency appeal with the Commissioner of Education. On April 23, 2003, the respondent filed an answer to the aforesaid petition. The Department of Education then transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 12, 2003, where it was received and filed as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). Respondent made a discovery demand on petitioner on June 4, 2003. The original hearing was scheduled for June 16, 2003, but an adjournment was granted at the request of the petitioner because she advised the court she was out-of-state because of a severe illness in her family. By way of a telephone conference call with the parties on June 11, 2003, I ordered that all discovery requests had to be answered no later than July 18, 2003. The matter was rescheduled for August 1, 2003, at which time the parties appeared. Respondent made a motion to strike petitioner's pleadings at that time and declare her in default for failure to respond to interrogatories and a request for a production of documents, which had been duly served upon her. At the August 1 hearing, the petitioner admitted that she did not answer the discovery requests previously served upon her. On August 7, 2003, I entered a Letter Order, by which I directed the petitioner to answer all discovery requests no later than August 20, 2003. In addition, I ordered that if petitioner did not do so, I would reconsider respondent's request to strike petitioner's pleadings and conduct a proof hearing at 4:00 p.m. on September 2, 2003, regarding the BOE's claim for tuition and for payment of monetary sanctions for failure to comply with my discovery order of June 11, 2003. On August 13, I received a Certification of Expenses from the respondent and a request that I consider them as a sanction against petitioner pertaining to the postponed August 1 hearing. On August 18, 2003, I wrote to petitioner and advised her she had until September 6, 2003 to respond to respondent's request. Petitioner did not provide discovery responses by August 20, 2003, and a proof hearing was held on September 2, 2003. Petitioner did not attend the September 2, 2003 hearing, nor did she ever respond to the Certification of Expenses submitted by attorney Damora. At the September 2 hearing, respondent appeared and at that time testimony was taken pertaining to J.L.S.'s domicile and the cost of her education provided by the Dunellen Board of Education.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Dr. Joyce Baynes testified on behalf of the respondent. She is the superintendent of schools for that district. She testified that J.L.S. was enrolled for a full-day kindergarten at the John P. Faber School. She further testified that the BOE has an excellent academic program for its kindergarten students and is one of the few districts in the area that has a full-day kindergarten program. This program is very attractive because it eliminates any childcare costs that would be incurred by working parents if it was only a part-time program. Dr. Baynes testified that she questioned the residency of this student because she discovered that the school's emergency notification card listed the student's home telephone number as being a land-based telephone exchange for Branchburg, New Jersey and not Dunellen (R-1). When residency was questioned, Dr. Baynes testified that the petitioner supplied a 2001 preliminary tax bill for property known as 212 North Washington Avenue, Dunellen, New Jersey, listed in her name (R-2). The mailing address for the tax bill indicates 212 North Washington Avenue, Dunellen, New Jersey, however; it appears to have been altered. She further testified that at one point, the petitioner told a school official that she did not live in Dunellen, but later changed her story to indicate that she misspoke and that her husband was the one that did not live in the Borough of Dunellen. In addition, the witness testified that the petitioner advised her that she was going through a divorce, that her husband lived in Branchburg, New Jersey and that she lived in Dunellen with a newborn child fathered by an individual other than her husband. Dr. Baynes testified that the issue of domicile was first brought to the surface because on October 25, 2002 one of the school's secretaries called the phone number of the emergency record card and the petitioner answered the phone and admitted that she was at the Branchburg residence. Upon further investigation of this matter, Dr. Baynes testified that the 2001 tax records from the Borough of Dunellen indicate that the tax bills for the property owned by the petitioner on North Washington Avenue gets sent to a Neshanic Station (Branchburg), New Jersey address (R-7). This is a further indication that the tax bill supplied by the petitioner as proof of her residence (R-2) was altered.

The next person to testify was the child's kindergarten teacher, Ms. Laurie Mann. She testified that J.L.S. was a student of her's in the 2002-2003 school year. She further testified that the child always told her that she lived in Branchburg, and she had observed the child's father dropping her off from school consistently and the mother picking her up on a regular basis, instead of using school bus transportation. She also observed that on many occasions the father had a newborn child with him, even thought the petitioner said that the parties were going through a divorce, that the child resided with her in Dunellen and not with the father in Branchburg and that the newborn child was fathered by a man other than J.L.S.'s father. In addition, Ms. Mann testified that another child, a friend of J.L.S., told her that she visited J.L.S. at her home in Branchburg.

The next witness to testify was Frank Patullo, who was the supervisor of the respondent's buildings and grounds department. He testified that in the early part of March, 2003, the petitioner picked up J.L.S. from school and he followed her in his vehicle to 173 Brandon Court in Branchburg, the address listed on the Borough of Dunellen's tax records. He further testified that in early April, he observed J.L.S.'s father pick her up from school and likewise he followed him to the home in Branchburg with the child. He further testified that he observed the house at 212 North Washington Avenue, at least ten times from 7:30 a.m. He did not see the petitioners or their cars at that location. Over a period of time, he observed that property at least 50 times at various times of the day and he never saw the petitioner's car at that location. He did however candidly record that on one instance he spoke to a neighbor who was very reluctant when questioned on the issue of residency, but she did say that the petitioner resided at the Washington Avenue address. Mr. Patullo believed that from his observations that she was a tenant of the petitioner. Therefore, I FIND, based on the inconsistencies in petitioner's statements to the witnesses, the statements of the child, the observations of the respondent's employees and the documentary evidence presented, that J.L.S. is not domiciled within the Borough of Dunellen and, in fact, resides at 173 Brandon Court, Neshanic Station (Branchburg), New Jersey.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) states that when the superintendent of a school district determines that a person is attending a district school but is not domiciled within the district, the parent may present proofs at a hearing to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education based on domicile within the district. If the parent or guardian does not meet that burden, then they may be assessed for the child's tuition prorated on a per diem basis. Based on the unrefuted testimony at the hearing, it is clear that T.L.S. and J.L.S. do not reside or are domiciled in the Borough of Dunellen, but, in fact, are domiciled and reside at 173 Brandon Court, Neshanic Station (Branchburg), New Jersey, a location not within the district of the BOE. The respondent has made an application pursuant to that statute for tuition reimbursement, which I FIND it is entitled to pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). I also FIND that the allowable tuition for reimbursement purposes has been fixed at $7,175 for the 2002-2003 school year. I further FIND that J.L.S. attended the John P. Faber School in Dunellen for the entire 2002-2003 school year.

As a result of my Letter Order of August 7, 2003, the respondent was to submit a certification of expenses to be considered as a sanction for the postponement of the August 1 hearing, which was a direct result of the petitioner's failure to comply with my prior discovery order. The respondent has submitted a certification indicating that counsel fees for that date are $641.25 based on 4 ¾ hours at the district's rate of $135 per hour. The work involved making up that 4 ¾ hours is for the appearance in court, a prehearing meeting with the witnesses to review their testimony and prepare for the hearing scheduled on the August 1 date. In addition, there is a request that the district expended $108.69 for mileage and substitute coverage for the witnesses that attended the August 1 hearing. I FIND the expenses incurred by the district of $108.69 to be fair and reasonable. I also FIND that the hourly rate charged by counsel to be reasonable. I do not FIND however the time spent of 4 ¾ hours to be appropriate since it included prehearing meetings with the witnesses, which is necessary for all hearings and not just the August 1 hearing, which was adjourned. Consequently, I am ordering the appropriate counsel fee to be two hours at the rate of $135 or $270 and a reimbursement of expenses in the amount of $108.69 for a total of $378.69.

ORDER

Based on the above, and for good cause shown, I ORDER that the petition in this matter be and is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE. I further ORDER that the BOE's counterclaim for tuition is GRANTED and I ORDER T.L.S. to pay $7,175. I further ORDER that because J.L.S. is not domiciled within the district, she may be removed from the educational program offered by the BOE. I further ORDER T.L.S. to pay the sanction previously ordered in the amount of $378.69.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that J.L.S. is not domiciled in the respondent's school district and that the Board of Education is entitled to collect tuition from T.L.S. in the amount of $7,175 for the period of J.L.S.'s ineligible attendance. The Commissioner does not, however, reach to the ALJ's recommended order for sanctions, since final agency review of such orders is within the sole purview of the Director of the OAL pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.2(c)4.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL, recommending dismissal of the Petition of Appeal and granting the Board's counterclaim for tuition, is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought reversal of the NJSIAA's decision not to allow Gregory Raiford, a 19-year-old educationally disabled student in his senior year, to participate in interscholastic competition in contact sports, i.e., football and basketball, for the 2003-04 school year. He was denied a waiver of the "Age Rule," Article V, Section 4.C of the NJSIAA Bylaws.

Noting that it conducted the individualized review contemplated by the NJSIAA's Constitution, Bylaws, Rules and Regulations in its consideration of this matter, the NJSIAA denied the waiver, alleging that the student would have an unfair advantage over the other participants because of his size and experience and that the nature of the competition would be altered.

The Commissioner found that the student was provided the due process to which he was entitled; that the NJSIAA made every effort to provide a full, fair and timely hearing by the Eligibility Appeals Committee; and that NJSIAA's rule was not applied in an inconsistent manner. The Commissioner found that the NJSIAA's decision to deny the request for waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 4.C of the NJSIAA Bylaws was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Also, the student was granted a "limited" waiver allowing him to travel or "suit up" with the football and basketball teams, or to participate in other team activities such as practices and scrimmages. The Commissioner upheld the NJSIAA's decision. Petition was dismissed.

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Edison Township Board of Education, Elizabeth Farley Murphy, Esq. (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, P.A.)

For Respondent, Michael J. Herbert, Esq. (Herbert, Van Ness, Cayci & Goodell)

This matter came before the Commissioner of Education on August 25, 2003 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of Edison Township (petitioner), on its own behalf and that of student Gregory Raiford. Petitioner sought an order reversing the determination of the Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA), wherein Gregory Raiford, a 19-year-old educationally disabled student, was denied a waiver of the "Age Rule," Article V, Section 4.C of the NJSIAA Bylaws, thereby precluding him from participation in interscholastic competition in contact sports, i.e., football and basketball, for the 2003-04 school year. Petitioner's submission also included a Motion for Emergent Relief and to Supplement the Record. Respondent's Answer to the Petition and the motions were filed on September 2, 2003, together with a complete record of the proceedings before the NJSIAA's EAC. Upon consideration of the parties' submissions with respect to the Motion for Emergent Relief and to Supplement the Record, such motions were denied by the Commissioner by decision dated September 10, 2003, and a briefing schedule for the matter on its merits was established. On September 22, 2003, petitioner submitted a brief in support of its position, and NJSIAA filed its reply brief on October 2, 2003, whereupon the record in this matter was closed.

Gregory Raiford is a senior in this 2003-04 school year. On November 21, 2002, the principal of John P. Stevens High School, in the Edison Township Public School District, requested the NJSIAA to review the eligibility of Gregory, who turned 19 years of age on June 10, 2003 and would, therefore, be ineligible to participate in sports, specifically basketball, during the 2003-04 school year pursuant to the "Age Rule," Article V, Section 4.C of the NJSIAA Bylaws.[1] [2] On February 13, 2003, petitioner's request for a waiver of the Age Rule was considered by the NJSIAA's Eligibility Committee, which denied the request by a vote of 7-0. On June 4, 2003, an appeal hearing was conducted by NJSIAA's EAC. After considering the evidence, the EAC, by unanimous decision, declined to waive the Age Rule to permit Gregory to compete interscholastically in contact sports. The EAC did, however, grant a waiver to allow him to be a member of, travel with or "suit up" with the football and basketball teams, or to participate in other team activities, as long as he did not compete interscholastically in those sports. The granted waiver also permitted Gregory to compete in any non-contact sport during

[1] This rule, in pertinent part, specifies "An athlete becomes ineligible for high school athletics if he/she attains the age of nineteen prior to September 1." (NJSIAA Handbook, 2002-2003, at 45) Rationale for this rule is provided by the NJSIAA Interpretive Guidelines For Student-Athlete Eligibility which state: "This rule is not only aimed at preventing 'red-shirting' but is also aimed at encouraging students to satisfactorily complete their academic studies starting with the elementary school level. It is also a safety measure to assure that 13-and 14-year-old students are not expected to compete against adults who are six or more years older, with substantially greater physical size, strength and skills." (*NJSIAA Handbook*at 70)

[2] It is noted that although the within Petition of Appeal seeks a waiver of the Age Rule to permit participation in both basketball and football, the record indicates that the Eligibility Waiver Request made to the NJSIAA by the District on November 21, 2002, the issue before both the NJSIAA Eligibility Committee and the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC), and the subject of the EAC's final decision, all dealt with an application to allow Gregory Raiford to play basketball in his senior year of high school.

his senior year. The EAC issued a written decision to this effect on June 9, 2003, explaining its rationale for granting only a limited waiver thusly:

> The Committee was extraordinarily sympathetic to the plight of this young man. However, it was noted at the hearing that special provisions had been made for this type of student several years ago when the NJSIAA amended its eligibility rules to permit eighth graders to play on a high school team so as to allow such students four years of competition in any sport. These provisions are set forth in Article V, Section 4.1 of the NJSIAA Bylaws and the clarifications to that section in the NJSIAA Handbook. (See NJSIAA Handbook, pp. 51, 53.) This legislation was designed in recognition that the Association does not grant waivers of the Age Rule for contact sports, since that Age Rule, imbedded in Article V, Section 4.C. of the NJSIAA Bylaws, is predicated on health and safety considerations. The facts in this case show that the student did not participate in the eighth grade and therefore his eligibility has been limited to three years based on the Age Rule. Accordingly, the Committee must respectfully decline waiving the Age Rule to permit this student to participate in any contact sports in interscholastic competition during his senior year, including basketball.
> (Statement of Items Comprising the Record on Appeal, Exhibit H, at 1, 2)

The record evidences the following facts: Gregory was born and raised in Plainfield. His father was a victim of homicide in 1993 and his mother is HIV positive and has not been a positive influence in his life. Gregory was retained three times in elementary school in Plainfield because of excessive absenteeism. In approximately February 1997, guardianship of Gregory was transferred to his paternal aunt, Laura Grayer, and he entered Edison Township Public Schools in September 1997 as a 6th grader. He was classified in October 1998, with a disability category of specific learning disability. Gregory participated in football as a freshman and in basketball, at JV Varsity level as a freshman and Varsity level as a sophomore and junior.

PETITIONER'S POSITION

Petitioner contends that the NJSIAA's decision was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable as it failed to conduct an individualized review as to the appropriateness of applying the Age Rule to Gregory, thereby violating its own Constitution, Bylaws, Rules and Regulations and Gregory's rights pursuant to Federal law. Specifically, petitioner alleges that in reaching its determination the NJSIAA failed to consider whether the granting of a waiver under the particular circumstances here was a "reasonable and necessary" accommodation, in violation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and the Civil Rights Act. (Petition of Appeal at 6) Further, petitioner charges "[t]he decision also neglected to 'take into account the size, agility and skills of the student in question and the degree to which these issues will not fundamentally alter the competition' as required by NJSIAA's own interpretive guidelines." (Ibid.)

In this connection, petitioner points out that, as a classified student, Gregory is entitled to the protections of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which provides:

> [n]o otherwise qualified individual with a disability shall, solely by reason of her or his disability, be excluded from the participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance. 29 U.S.C. Section 794(a).

Pursuant to 34 C.F.R. Section 104.3(j)(1), (j)(2)(ii), it argues, a disabled individual is defined as one "who 'has a physical or mental impairment which substantially limits one or more major life activities,' such as 'learning.'" (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Appeal at 5) Moreover, it contends, 34 C.F.R. Section 104.4(b)(1)(i), specifies that "[a] recipient of federal funds may not deny an otherwise qualified disabled person the opportunity to participate in or benefit from an aid, benefit or service." (Id. at 6)

Petitioner, additionally, argues that Title II of The Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. 12101 et seq. (ADA) and a recent Supreme Court case interpreting this provision further supports Gregory's entitlement to a waiver here. Specifically, petitioner observes that Title II of the ADA specifies:

> [s]ubject to the provisions of this subchapter, no qualified individual with a disability shall, by reason of such disability, be excluded from participation in or be denied the benefits of the services, programs, or activities of a public entity, or be subjected to discrimination by any such entity. (42 U.S.C. Section 12132)

The ADA defines a "qualified individual with a disability" as:

> an individual with a disability who, with or without reasonable modifications to rules, policies, or practices, meets the essential eligibility requirements for the receipt of services or the participation in programs or activities provided by a public entity. (42 U.S.C. Section 12131(2)
> (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Appeal at 6)

Petitioner argues that, pursuant to the dictates of the ADA, the NJSIAA is required to make "reasonable and necessary" modifications to meet Gregory's disability, i.e., a waiver of the Age Rule, "provided the requested modification would not fundamentally alter the nature of the service." (Ibid.)

In support of its position here, petitioner cites to the Supreme Court's decision in PGA Tour, Inc. v. Martin, 532 U.S. 661 (2001). In this case, a golfer suffering from a degenerative condition, which caused his leg to atrophy causing him significant pain when walking, was denied permission to use a golf cart by the PGA which determined that his use of a cart would fundamentally alter the nature of the competition because he would not be subject to the fatigue experienced by other players walking the course during the tournament. The Court disagreed stating:

> Petitioner's refusal to consider Martin's personal circumstances in deciding whether to accommodate his disability runs counter to the clear language and purpose of the ADA. As previously stated, the ADA was enacted to eliminate discrimination against "individuals" with disabilities, 42 U.S.C. Section 12101(b)(1), and to that end Title III of the Act requires without exception that any "policies, practices, or procedures" of a public accommodation be reasonably modified for disabled "individuals" as necessary to afford access unless doing so would fundamentally alter what is offered, Section 12182(b)(2)(A)(ii). To comply with this command, an individualized inquiry must be made to determine whether a specific modification for a particular person's disability would be reasonable under the circumstances as well as necessary for that person, and yet at the same time not work a fundamental alteration. Martin, supra, at 688 (emphasis added)
> (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Appeal at 7)

Additionally, petitioner cites to Cruz v. Pennsylvania Interscholastic Ass'n., Inc., 157 F.Supp. 2d 485 (E.D. Pa. 2001), a case which it contends is "very similar" to the instant matter, as further evidence of its entitlement to a waiver. In this case the petitioner charged that the Association violated the ADA by refusing the school district's request for a waiver of the Age Rule for a 19-year-old classified student. The Cruz court observed that Martin, supra, clarified that a fundamental requirement of the ADA is that a disabled person must be evaluated on an individual basis. It posits that Cruz, supra, further found that, pursuant to Martin, three inquiries are relevant in such an individualized evaluation: "(1) whether the requested modification is reasonable; (2) whether it is necessary for the disabled individual; and (3) whether it would fundamentally alter the nature of the competition." Cruz at 498-99. (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Appeal at 8)

Finally, in this regard, petitioner argues that the NJSIAA's Interpretive Guidelines with respect to the Age Rule, in pertinent part, provide:

> In contact sports, the rule may be waived if the student can't comply due to circumstances beyond the student's control. A determination will take into account the size, agility and skills of > the student in question and the degree to which these issues will not fundamentally alter the competition. (NJSIAA Interpretive Guidelines at 70) (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Appeal at 3-4)

Notwithstanding the clear mandates of federal law, the courts, and even the NJSIAA's own rules with regard to the necessity of an "individualized assessment" in making a determination regarding a waiver of the rule for a "disabled" student, the June 9, 2003 determination of the NJSIAA was completely devoid of such an examination and analysis, rendering this decision arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, requiring its reversal. (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Appeal at 8)

In conclusion, petitioner contends that the NJSIAA's assertion that its Constitution, Bylaws and Rules and Regulations have undertaken to accommodate disabled students "generally" is of no import here, as such general provisions do not serve to "diminish its obligation to provide reasonable accommodations for disabled students on a case-by-case basis." (Id. at 9) Petitioner further argues that the record does not sustain a finding that school officials should have encouraged Gregory to play contact sports in 7th and 8th grade or "that this was a practical solution in Gregory's case." (Ibid.)

NJSIAA'S POSITION

Citing D.J.K. and H.J.K. v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259 and Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU)182, 188, the NJSIAA, initially, points out that the Commissioner's scope of review in NJSIAA determinations is an appellate one; thus, where due process has been granted and the record substantiates that there is an adequate basis for the decision reached below, the Commissioner may not overturn an eligibility decision of the NJSIAA. (Respondent's Letter Brief at 2)

The NJSIAA next underscores that the purpose of the Age Rule, as set forth in the NJSIAA Handbook is as "a safety measure to assure that 13 and 14-year-old students are not expected to compete against students who are six or more years older, with substantially greater physical size, strength and skills. In view of this paramount safety factor, waivers of this rule will be granted only in truly extraordinary circumstances." (NJSIAA Handbook, p. 70) (Respondent's Letter Brief at 5) (emphasis in text) Recognizing that the education of students who are classified or disabled may be extended beyond the customary 12-year period and, therefore, they may turn 19 years of age before their senior year of high school, the NJSIAA rules make provision for accommodation of such students by allowing them to compete in interscholastic sports in 7th or 8th grade, thus providing for a full eight semesters of competition. (NJSIAA Handbook, p. 70) (Ibid.) At the time he attended middle school in Edison Township, Gregory was 15 years of age and was eligible to participate in high school sports pursuant to Article V, Section 41.1 of the NJSIAA's Bylaws. (Id. at 10)[3]

The NJSIAA next avows that petitioner has cited no facts in support of its contention that the EAC's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or that this body failed to conduct an "individualized" review of this case. As specified in its rules, the NJSIAA avers, "[w]aivers for contact sports are only granted in situations that were beyond the student's control; and such a waiver will take into account the student's size, skill, agility and the degree to which these factors will not fundamentally alter the competition. (NJSIAA Handbook, p. 70) (Respondent's Letter Brief at 5-6) (emphasis in text) It observes that the EAC hearing was attended by Gregory Raiford's guardian, along with the Principal and the Athletic Director of J.P. Stevens High School. Although Gregory received a specific invitation from the

[3] The NJSIAA points out that petitioner presented no circumstances beyond Gregory's control which would have prevented him from participating in contact sports during 7th or 8th grade. (Respondent's Letter Brief at 6)

NJSIAA to attend, he did not do so.[4] As a result of Gregory's failure to attend the EAC hearing, the Committee was required to rely on the information provided by Principal Riccio and Athletic Director Capraro which, although limited, established that:

> [Gregory Raiford] as described by his principal is a tall, well built student; he is six foot two inches tall and weighs 170 pounds. What is more, the record reflects that [he] has been a member of the varsity basketball team for three years, and therefore must possess significant skill. (Respondent's Letter Brief at 12)

In light of the information in the record and that adduced at hearing, the NJSIAA argues that "[a]llowing [Gregory] to participate in football and basketball, would result in giving him an unfair advantage over the other participants and would fundamentally alter the nature of the competition." (Ibid.) NJSIAA further argues that there are additional factors in the record which also support denial of the waiver:

> Petitioner would be a starter on the Stevens' basketball team. Allowing him to participate would displace another student, who has not had an opportunity to play for four years, from that starting position. It would also be unfair to opposing teams whose athletes have met the eligibility standards. It would also set the very unwise precedent of permitting a member school to ignore the ability to allow a student to participate in the eighth grade, which would allow four years of participation, to serve as an excuse for waiving eligibility rules. Indeed, it would encourage "red shirting" by allowing student-athletes to play when they are older, stronger and more skilled than their opponents. (Id. at 12, 13)

Consequently, notwithstanding petitioner's contention to the contrary, it is evident that the EAC conducted the individualized review contemplated by the NJSIAA's Constitution, Bylaws, Rules and Regulations in its consideration of this matter.

Finally, the NJSIAA maintains that the Age Rule, or its application here, does not violate Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act or the ADA. In this regard, it avers that petitioner's

[4] The NJSIAA proffers that one of the purposes of urging students seeking a waiver of the Age Rule to attend the EAC hearing is to provide the Committee members an opportunity to personally assess the size and athletic skills of the student. (Respondent's Letter Brief at 11) reliance on Martin, supra, dealing with a disabled individual who wished to use a golf cart while participating in the PGA tour, is misplaced. In that decision

> [t]he Court found that Martin should be permitted to use the cart because such a use did not fundamentally alter the character of the competition. The purpose of the rule against the use of golf carts was to inject fatigue into the game which would [affect] a [player's] shot-making ability. The Court found that allowing Martin to use the golf cart would not alter an essential element of the game which was essentially shot-making. Allowing Martin to use a cart would only have a peripheral impact on the game, and would not give Martin an advantage over the other players. The Court found that even if Martin was permitted to use a golf cart, he would still be required to walk at least 25% of the course, equal to approximately 1¼ miles from the golf cart to the course. Additionally, Martin's disability caused him to fatigue much faster tha[n] other competitors, that he [w]as in significant pain when he walked; and with each step there was a danger of fracturing his leg and hemorrhaging. Permitting Martin to use a golf cart during the tournament in no way gave him an advantage over the other participants, and did not fundamentally alter the nature of the competition. (citations omitted) (Respondent's Letter Brief at 7, 8)

In Martin, the NJSIAA argues, it is fully evident that the individual's disability precluded his compliance with the PGA rule. Here, on the other hand, Gregory did not repeat three grades in elementary school as a consequence of any disability but, rather, because of excessive absenteeism. The causal connection between Martin's inability to comply with the rule was evident in that case, such is not the case in this matter. "Instead, it was demonstrated that the student could have participated for four years and that the School District did not avail itself of that accommodation. NJSIAA properly found that the granting a waiver of the age requirement in this situation would fundamentally alter the nature of the competition as contrary to the rules." (Id. at 13) The NJSIAA finds support for its position in Baisden v. West Virginia Secondary School Activities Commission, 568 S.E.2d 32 (W.V. 2002), wherein the Supreme Court of Appeals, West Virginia, reversed a lower court determination granting a waiver of the age requirement for a 19-year-old student to play football. The court held that an individualized approach to granting waivers was preferable and "waivers should be granted where a student's disabilities have delayed his progression through the education process and it is shown that a waiver will not materially alter the quality of the interscholastic sports competition involved." (citations omitted) (Respondent's Letter Brief at 9) Notwithstanding, the court in this matter found a waiver inappropriate as the student's size and ability would compromise the safety of the other players. (Ibid.)

Petitioner's claim that Cruz, supra, supports its position, the NJSIAA charges, is in error. In that case the court ruled that the association was required to consider applications for waiver of its Age Rule and to review each such application on a case-by-case basis. The NJSIAA points out that the Cruz court required nothing additional to that which is already provided by the NJSIAA. Applications for waivers of the age requirement are accepted from anyone who wishes to apply and each of these is reviewed and considered on a case-by-case basis pursuant to the factors articulated in Martin, supra.

The NJSIAA emphasizes that its decision in this matter is fully sustainable pursuant to Martin. Its enacted standards for modifying the Age Rule are reasonable; its rules allow for exceptions to the age requirement; students who will reach age 19 prior to having eight semesters of interscholastic ability are permitted to play in 7th or 8th grade; and the rules allow for waivers of the age requirement under certain circumstances. A waiver in this matter, it contends, would fundamentally alter the nature of the competition and, therefore, pursuant to Martin, was appropriately denied. (Id. at 9, 10)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association of public and nonpublic schools, organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, to oversee athletics for its member schools in accordance with its Constitution, Bylaws, rules and regulations, which are approved by the Commissioner of Education and adopted annually by the member schools. Upon adoption by the member schools, these rules and regulations are deemed school policy and are enforced by the internal procedures of the NJSIAA.

It is well-established that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA determinations is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a finding that the Association applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Nor may the Commissioner substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if he were to decide differently in a de novo hearing, where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA Committees. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259; see, also, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4(a). The scope of the Commissioner's review in NJSIAA matters has also been codified to provide notice of this standard to the public and regulated parties:[5]

> 1. If the NJSIAA has granted a petitioner due process and its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole, the Commissioner shall not substitute his judgment > for that of the NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge otherwise in a de novo review.

> 2. The Commissioner shall not overturn NJSIAA's application of its own rules absent a demonstration by the petitioner that such rules were applied in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7(a).

Moreover, the burden of proof that an action was thus improper rests with the person or entity challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). It must be remembered that the arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review is extremely narrow in its scope and, consequently, imposes a heavy burden on those who challenge determinations of the NJSIAA. The standard, as defined by the New Jersey Courts provides:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis.  Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. (citations omitted) Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't of Envt. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

Upon careful consideration of the record of this matter, and mindful of the applicable standard of review, the Commissioner is satisfied that the decision of the NJSIAA denying a waiver of the Age Rule for Gregory Raiford, with respect to competing interscholastically in contact sports, was not arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or violative of law. Initially in this regard, the Commissioner determines that petitioner was provided with the full measure of due process to which it was entitled. Two separate committees convened to consider petitioner's request for a waiver of the NJSIAA's Age Rule. The EAC hearing was attended by the school principal, the athletic director and Gregory Raiford's guardian, each giving sworn, recorded testimony which was considered by that body. The Commissioner finds that the EAC rendered its decision based on the record before it and the evidence presented by petitioner.

Next, while not unmindful of the value of athletic competition to Gregory, the Commissioner recognizes the legitimate interest of the NJSIAA in upholding its regulations, based on health and safety considerations, designed to protect younger, less skilled students from having to compete against more skilled adult athletes. He further notes that, notwithstanding Gregory's inability to compete interscholastically in contact sports, the EAC, after considering the circumstances in his case, granted him a "limited" waiver. As such, he is not precluded from being a member of, traveling with, or "suiting up" with the football and basketball teams, or participating in other team activities such as practices and scrimmages. Thus, the Commissioner concludes that Gregory is not prevented from taking advantage of many of the beneficial aspects of the football and basketball programs even though he is ineligible to participate in interscholastic competition in these sports. Moreover, the Commissioner is also cognizant that Gregory was granted a full waiver with respect to non-contact sports, allowing him to participate competitively in any of these activities.

Accordingly, petitioner having failed to sustain its burden of establishing that denial of a waiver for Gregory Raiford to compete interscholastically in contact sports was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or violative of law, the Commissioner upholds the NJIAA's decision and dismisses the Petition of Appeal.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[6]

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

CONFIDENTIAL

This Release, dated September 30, 2003, is given

BY: The releasor(s): ERNEST HARPER

TO: ATLANTIC CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION, ITS SUBSIDIARIES, AFFILIATES, PREDESESSORS, SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS OF ANY AND ALL OF THEM, THEIR PRESENT AND FORMER DIRECTOR, OFFICIALS, OFFICERS, REPRESENTATIVES, ASSOCIATES, PARTNERS, SERVANTS, EMPLOYEES, AGENTS, ATTORNEYS, SUCCESSORS, HEIRS, EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS WHETHER IN THEIR INDIVIDUAL OR OFFICIAL CAPACITIES AND ALL OTHER PERSONS, FIRMS, CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, PARTNERSHIPS OR ANY OTHER ENTITIY CONNECTED THEREWITH.

If more than one person signs this Release, "I" shall mean each person who signs this Release.

1. Release. All parties mentioned above release and give up any and all claims and rights which they may have against each other. This release applies to claims resulting from anything which has happened up to now. I specifically release all claims relating to or arising out of Mr. Harper's employment with the Board Of Education deriving from the incidents related to the matter known as Ernest Harper V. Atlantic City Board Of Education, Docket No: EDUOA-02321-95S. Harper and the Board expressly understand and agree that said payments include any and all amounts that may be claimed by Harper or on his behalf, or by his Attorney's, Heirs, Successors or Assigns, against the Board. The payment mentioned above is in complete and full settlement of any and all claims that Harper has or could be owed by the Board in connection with anything that happened in reference to the above referenced matter. Further, Harper and the Board agree that the Settlement Agreement and General Release is contingent on and subject to approval and ratification by the Board.

   The $9,000.00 (Nine Thousand Dollars) agreed upon settlement figure was inadvertently already paid to Ernest Harper prior to the approval by the commissioner of the Board of Education.

2. Payment. This Settlement is intended as a resolution for any and all possible claims, actual or implicit and Harper hereby waives any and all claims for lost wages, income or future earnings and any other benefits potentially available arising out of the matter known as Ernest Harper V. Atlantic City Board Of Education, Docket NO: EDUOA-02321-95S. Harper also understands and agrees that any adjustments to his withholding or any estimated tax payments are his responsibilities.

3. Who is Bound. This Settlement Agreement and General Release shall not be used as evidence or for any other purpose in any other action or proceeding, other than evidence of the compromise between Harper and the Board as set forth herein or to enforce the terms of the Settlement Agreement and General Release.

4. Signatures. Harper releases, acquits, gives up, forever discharges any and all claims and rights which he may have had against the Board for anything that happened arising from or in any way relating to the matter known as Ernest Harper V. Atlantic City Board Of Education EDUOA-02321-95S. The Board releases, acquits, gives up and forever discharges any and all claims and rights which the Board may have had against Harper.

5. This settlement and general release contains the full agreement of Harper and the Board and may not be modified, altered, changed or terminated except upon the express prior written consent of Harper and the Board, which consent must be signed by Harper and the Board or their duly authorized agents.

6. Harper represents and warrants that no other person or entity have any interest in the claims, demands, obligations, or causative action referred to in this settlement agreement and general release; that Harper is not sold, assigned, transferred, conveyed or otherwise disposed of any of the claims, demands. Obligations or causative action referred to in the verbal complaint and / or in this settlement agreement and general release.

7. This settlement agreement and general release shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

8. Harper and the Board shall bear all costs and expenses arising from the actions of their own counsel in connection with the settlement agreement and general release. As further consideration for the settlement agreement and general release, Harper and his attorney agree that this sum represents all the money the Board has agreed to pay Mr. Harper and his attorney and any additional fees which may arise from the actions of Harper's attorney in connection with any matter arising from Harper's employment with the Board are to be born by Harper.

This settlement agreement and general release contains the entire agreement between Harper and the Board with regard to the matter set forth in Ernest Harper V. Atlantic City Board of Education, Docket No: EDUOA-02321-95S.

9. In entering into the settlement agreement and general release, Harper has relied upon the legal advice of his attorney who is the attorney of his own choice, as to the terms of the settlement agreement and general release which have been completely read and explained by his attorney and has been fully understood and voluntarily accepted.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, Harper and the Board have hereunto set their hands

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents alleged the Board's selection process for the National Honor Society (NHS) was arbitrary and capricious.

The ALJ found that the Board reasonably assessed A.B.'s candidacy for the NHS in the 2002-03 school year. Local chapters of the NHS enjoy a "measure of latitude" in forming policy within broad guidelines as long as the process is fair and fairly applied. The ALJ found this was the case herein and ordered the petition dismissed.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's assessment of the testimony of the witnesses (no transcripts were submitted), The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination of the ALJ as his own.

Record Closed: September 29, 2003 Decided: October 17, 2003

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a petition filed with the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, alleging irregularities in the selection of students for membership in the National Honor Society (NHS) and seeking instatement for A.B. The matter was referred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15. A hearing was conducted on September 5, 2003 and the record closed on September 29, 2003, with receipt of the last post-hearing memorandum.

The basic facts are undisputed. The NHS is a national organization dedicated to the promotion of scholarship, leadership, service and character in secondary school students. Within the respondent district, Overbrook High School has constituted a local NHS chapter. The chapter is governed by a five-member faculty council, which among other things votes on the admission of student candidates. The faculty council is served by an advisor, who acts as a sixth, non-voting member of the council and is responsible for the day-to-day work of the chapter. A.B. was a candidate for admission to the chapter in 2002/03 while a junior at the High School and was not offered admission.

During the 2002/03 school year the first threshold requirement for student eligibility was a grade point average (GPA) of 3.5. All students with that average, including A.B., entered a second stage of competition, in which questionnaires were sent to the entire faculty seeking evaluations in the areas of interest to the NHS (R-1). A rating scale of 1 to 4 was used and the questionnaires were returned to Jane Windle, the faculty council advisor, who tabulated the results and provided a summary to the council for each student. A.B. received a score of 3.268, which was rounded up to the next 100^{th} of a point, or 3.27 (R-3). A weighted average rating of 3.3 was required to continue in the competition. Of 38 students with qualifying GPA's 29 were admitted to the chapter (R-8).

Petitioners subpoenaed Barbara Ashe as a witness. She is a guidance counselor at Overbrook High School and has been a member of the faculty council for about ten years. Ms. Ashe testified that the faculty council voted a few years ago to use 3.5 as the GPA requirement and 3.3 as the faculty response threshold. Ms. Windle organizes and summarizes the information upon which the council votes. Typically she does not see the questionnaires provided by the faculty, but these raw scores can be made available should any council member have a question. The students who achieved the 3.3 level on questionnaire responses were invited to a final step in the competition, which requires them to substantiate extra-curricular activity information. Those that fell below 3.3 were eliminated from further consideration by a vote of the council.

Ms. Ashe testified that she was disappointed that A.B. was not invited to join the NHS, however, the process of the faculty council was serious and deliberate. There were a few other students who missed the second threshold by even closer margins than A.B.

A.B. testified in his own behalf. He feels that he was eliminated unfairly partly because he was given no idea of the qualification requirements. He was a member of the NHS in his junior high school and he recalled that at that time there was a form to complete that allowed him to discuss his accomplishments. Under the system used in the senior high school his teachers did not have the benefit of this type of information. A.B. testified that Ms. Windle was his math teacher last year and that she discussed the NHS with him. She told him that if he had a sport, or a club he would probably be fine. Ms. Ashe gave him similar advice and this was inadequate. A.B. testified that Ms. Ashe told him that there was no vote to utilize 3.3 as a minimum score.

Respondent also presented witnesses. Jane Windle has been employed in the district for thirty-seven years as a math teacher and has been the NHS advisor for twenty-five years. As the faculty advisor she chairs the meetings of the council and oversees student service projects. Ms. Windle testified that she forwarded student questionnaires to the faculty on or about March 10 2003 and these were completed and returned to her on or about March 14, 2003. She then eliminated the highest and lowest scores to protect students from any one adverse responder and rounded to the nearest 100^{th} to determine whether the standard had been met. This procedure has been in place since the 1998 school year (R-2, R-6). Before then there was no 3.3 cut-off and the faculty council felt that the system was overly subjective. Rounding is done to the nearest 100^{th} because that is also the standard for calculating a GPA.

Ms. Windle testified that the faculty council reviews the summary data she provides and then votes on each student. After the vote she talks to students who have been rejected and tries to explain what they might do as seniors to compensate. It is not always clear what is missing, but she can sometimes glean the areas of perceived weakness from the faculty assessments. The low scores for A.B. fell in the areas of leadership and service (R-3). Ms. Windle testified that she spoke to A.B. generally as a junior about how he might gain admission to the NHS and she did mention clubs and sports because often this is where students falter. Ms. Windle testified that there were students who missed the 3.3 cut, who were closer to this threshold than A.B. The final stage of the competition requires students to complete an activity advisory form and have their list of extra-curricular activities verified.

Ms. Windle testified that Mr. and Mrs. B. visited her after A.B.'s rejection and they sought to probe into the workings of the faculty council and the raw scores provided by the general faculty. This was delicate because the deliberations of the faculty council are intended to be confidential and faculty members are assured that their questionnaire responses will not be divulged. Ms. Windle testified that most faculty councils that she is aware of do not retain the faculty questionnaires and she destroyed this material soon after tabulating the scores. Petitioners formally requested these responses by letter of March 27, 2003, but they were no longer available (P-3).

Paul J. Harmelin has been the principal of Overbrook High School for nineteen years. He testified that he annually appoints Ms. Windle as the NHS advisor and that he is not involved in the faculty council deliberations. He maintains this distance so that he can review questions that may arise after a student is rejected. He was asked to review this matter and could find no basis for disagreeing with the vote of the council.

Mr. Harmelin conceded that information about the NHS was not published in the student handbook last year and he explained that this was an error due to reorganization. He testified, however, that all of the candidates were assessed in exactly the same way and he saw no prejudice in this omission. He has made certain that information about the NHS is in the current handbook. This is the substance of the record.

School districts enjoy wide policy-making discretion and their actions may not be disturbed unless arbitrary and capricious, Thomas v. Morris Bd. Of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. Of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288(App. Div. 1960). To satisfy this burden petitioners were obliged to show that District practices for admission to the local NHS chapter varied significantly from core NHS requirements. This has not been done. Petitioners have carefully scrutinized the NHS rules in search of deviations by respondent, but it may be useful to note that NHS is not the forum for this controversy and we do not know clearly the measure it uses to evaluate chapter conformity. The arbitrary and capricious standard imposes obligations well short of the exacting compliance sought by petitioners.

It appears from the NHS documentation in the record that local chapters enjoy a measure of latitude in forming policy within broad guidelines. Thus, for example the NHS does not mandate general faculty involvement in the selection process and creates no point system for evaluation. Nonetheless, local chapters are authorized to utilize both. The NHS is also cognizant of the fact that local law may govern in some jurisdictions and instructs local chapters to make appropriate adjustments. The primary concern throughout the NHS records is that the process be fair and fairly applied. R-4.

Respondent generally follows the NHS guidelines. Ms. Windle, Ms. Ashe [1] and Principal Harmelin were credible witnesses. They testified that the district uses a five-person faculty council to vote on policy and that in 1998 this council adopted the thresholds at issue here. The faculty assessments are the primary rub in this matter. Ms. Windle gathers these and then tabulates the results for each student. The faculty council reviews her summaries and is free to see the raw scores. The raw scores are then discarded. Petitioners characterized this procedure pejoratively as destruction of evidence. Yet, the NHS actually counsels that this be done to preserve confidentiality; Ms. Windle related that this is how many chapters operate. Although no one from the NHS testified the documentation suggests that the national office is aware that some parents will want to interrogate teachers and faculty council members regarding their deliberative processes, a practice it discourages (R-4).

Petitioners argued that under these circumstances they have only Ms. Windle's assurance that her summary accurately calculated faculty responses. That is true, but in this context it is not the shortcoming they make it out to be. Ms. Windle has been performing this service for twenty-five years and she was A.B.'s math teacher last year. There is no hint that she harbored a bias in the matter. A.B. was among a group of students who missed this second tier measurement, some by a smaller margin than him. Petitioners would prefer a system that affords them open access to the teachers who provided the low evaluations and to the members of the faculty council. Typically, discovery encourages liberal information gathering. Yet, there are various policy balances that sometimes militate against this. It is not hard to see in our circumstances that the prospect of annual involvement in litigation might dampen faculty enthusiasm for this enterprise, which runs contrary to NHS and District interests. This is not to say that greater openness would be wrong, but rather, that current policy is rationally based and well within an acceptable spectrum.

[1] Petitioners advanced the theory that the faculty council was not truly independent and that Ms. Windle essentially controlled decision-making. Although NHS documents recommend that faculty council members not be drawn into disputes, petitioners represented that Ms. Ashe was a critical insider who would support their understanding. They were permitted to call her over the District's protest, however, her testimony did not appreciably help petitioners.

Mr. Harmelin conceded that a paragraph about the NHS was not contained in the 2002/03 student handbook, but I do not see how A.B. was prejudiced by this. None of the competing students had this information and they all ran the same gauntlet.

Membership in the NHS is a tribute and is coveted particularly by students seeking admission to highly selective colleges. Rejection has clearly been a bitter pill for A.B. and for his parents. Based on this record it appears the process was fair, though it is inherently subjective. Other faculty responders might have evaluated the matter differently and this result is not the measure of A.B. He is an excellent student with bright prospects. A.B. and his family ought to understand this moment for what it is and know that in the long run this event will have no greater importance than they give it.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that respondent reasonably assessed A.B.'s candidacy for the NHS in the 2002/03 school year and it is ORDERED that this petition be dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PINE HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the findings of fact and conclusions of law contained in the Initial Decision. Although he acknowledges that petitioners raise exceptions regarding facts determined by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) based on testimony of the witnesses and the credence and weight ascribed to such testimony by the ALJ, the Commissioner notes that the record before him does not include transcripts from the hearing conducted at the OAL in this matter. Challenges to the factual findings predicated upon credibility determinations made by an ALJ require that the challenging party supply the Commissioner with the relevant and necessary portion of the transcripts. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158 (App. Div. 1987). In the absence of such transcripts, due regard must be given to the person who heard the live testimony

Petitioning Home Instructor/ HSPT/SRA Tutor alleged the Board violated her tenure and seniority rights in deciding not to reemploy her for the 2002-03 school year.

In light of Hyman, Spiewak and N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, the ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to attain tenure through any of the positions that she held within the District. The ALJ found that home instructors are akin to substitutes for purposes of tenure and, thus, the temporary employee exception to tenure acquisition applies herein. Moreover, the ALJ determined that petitioner's tutor position fell into the category of an extra-classroom assignment that was not subject to tenure. The ALJ ordered that the Board's and Intervenor's Motion for Summary Decision be granted.

Citing Spiewak, and the subsequent court decisions in Sayreville and Lammers, the Commissioner concluded that the only applicable exception to the Tenure Act relating to tenure accrual by teachers, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, does not apply to teachers serving in the position of home instructors since they are not serving in the place of absent employees who are expected to return. Also, the Commissioner lacks the authority to create exceptions to the tenure law; therefore, petitioner's years of service as a home instructor are found to be tenure eligible. In addition, petitioner's assignment as an HSPT/SRA Tutor was an instructional assignment necessitated by the regulations dealing with graduation requirements and, thus, akin to an assignment as a remedial teacher, basic skills teacher or supplemental teacher. In that petitioner held valid certificates and endorsements issued by the State Board of Examiners and served in positions requiring certification during the entire period of employment at issue, the Commissioner set aside the order of the ALJ and granted summary decision to petitioner. The Commissioner ordered petitioner's reinstatement to a full-time position held by any nontenured teacher within petitioner's area of certification of the Board's choice, with full back salary and benefits, less mitigating income.

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Kathleen Donvito, filed a Verified Petition on or about May 31, 2002 alleging that the Respondent, Northern Valley Regional High School Board of Education (Board), violated her tenure and/or seniority rights in deciding not to re-employ her for the 2002-2003 school year. The Board filed its Answer denying the petition on or about June 19, 2002. The matter was forwarded for filing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 18, 2002. A pre-hearing telephone conference was held on November 18, 2002. At the time the petitioner was instructed to notify, by January 30, 2002, twenty-two non-tenured teaching staff members of their right to intervene in the litigation. Louise Ryan elected to intervene.

On March 10, 2003, the parties participated in a telephone conference call with the Court. The hearing dates of April 7 & 8, 2003 were adjourned at the parties' request. A schedule was prepared for Cross-Motions for Summary Decision. Initial Briefs were submitted on April 8 and reply briefs were submitted on May 9, 2003. On June 12, 2003 I sent a letter to all parties stating that one issue had not been fully briefed. I asked to be informed, whether the petitioner resigned her position when she accepted the out of district position in September 1999 and what impact her resignation would have on the issue before the court. Petitioner responded by letter brief on June 25 and Respondent on June 26, 2003.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

1. The petitioner, Kathleen Donvito (hereinafter referred to as the "petitioner") was employed by the Northern Valley High School District (hereinafter referred to as "respondent") to perform the following services during the time period indicated.

a) Per diem substitute teacher on occasion through the 1995-96 school year.

b) Home Instructor – Home Instructors are paid on an hourly wage basis, without contract and without benefits. Duties included providing instruction for those students who were unable to attend classes in school because of physical illness or other reasons. Home Instructors taught course content based upon the program requirements for graduation. Home instructors work at times that varies depending upon the number of students needing services. Since a student's absence is usually unpredictable home instruction assignments are usually made with minimal advance notice. John Salisbury, Director of Guidance for Northern Valley Regional High School, was Petitioner's Supervisor in her role as a home instructor. Petitioner provided such services during the following school year as indicated by the time sheets and other documents referenced:

i) 1995-96
ii) 1996-97
iii) 1997-98
iv) 1998-99
v) 1999-2000
vi) 2000-01
vii) 200-02

c) HSPT/SRA Tutor –Duties included tutoring for the High School Proficiency Test ("HSPT") and tutoring students for the Special Review Assessment ("SRA"). SRA and HSPT tutoring provides remediation for students to assist in preparation for testing and is conducted for a limited time period per pupil. Jim McDonnell, Supervisor of World Languages, ESL, and SRA Coordinator supervised Petitioner in this role. Petitioner provided such services as needed during the following school years as indicated by the time sheets and other documents referenced:

ii) 1999-2000

d) Perkins Grant Counselor – Performing testing of students for high schools participating in Region III of the Bergen County Special Services District. Respondent obtained the grant to perform this service in its role as LEA for Region III. John McKeon, Director of Region III Special Education, supervised Petitioner in her role as a Perkins Grant Counselor. These services were performed by petitioner as follows:

i) March 11, 1998 into June 1998

ii) March 1999 into June 1999

e) Special Education Teacher, two-fifths (2/5) contract from February 18, 2000 through June 30, 2000.

f) Special Education Teacher, full-time contract from September 1, 2000 through June 30, 2001.

g) Special Education Teacher, four-fifths (4/5) contract from September 1, 2001 through June 30, 2002.

2. Petitioner holds the following educational certificates and endorsements issued by the New Jersey Department of Education:

a) Elementary School Teacher (issued 2/75)
b) Teacher of English (issued 2/75)
c) Nursery School (issued 4/75)
d) Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant (issued 8/80)
e) Teacher of the Handicapped (issued 6/99)

3. Petitioner's contract with Respondent expired on June 30, 2002 and Petitioner's employment was not renewed for the following school year.

4. Respondent did employ full-time non-tenured teachers in petitioner's area of certification and endorsement for the 2002-3003 school year. Intervener Louise Ryan is one of those non-tenured teachers.

5. During calendar year 1997, petitioner earned gross wages of $26,112.50 from employment with respondent.

6. During calendar year 1998, petitioner earned gross wages of $15,091.75 from employment with respondent.

7. During calendar year 1999, petitioner earned gross wages of $20,738.42 from employment with respondent.

8. Petitioner was employed and performed the duties of a full-time Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant in the Park Ridge School District from September 1, 1999 until mid-October 1999. She continued to be paid on 60 days notice by Park Ridge until approximately mid-December, 1999. She did not continue in that position thereafter. She resumed home instruction assignments for Northern Valley as of September 15, 1999.

9. For the 2001-2002 school year petitioner was paid a salary of $50,282.40 on a 4/5 contract based on Salary Guide September 06, Scale 04. She also received the normal benefits due to a teaching staff member.

10. As of January 28, 2003, petitioner secured alternative full-time employment in another school district under contract through June 30, 2003 at a prorated salary based on an annual salary of $65,955.00. She is also receiving full health insurance coverage.

11. All of the students assigned to petitioner for home instruction during the time period from June 1, 1999 to February 18, 2000 were classified as handicapped.

12. From June 1997 through January 2000, the only hiring resolutions by the respondent Board as to petitioner were resolutions placing her on its substitute list.

13. Petitioner's payment as a Home Instructor, based on her hourly time sheets, was duly authorized through the procedures in effect in the district during that time period.

14. As a Home Instructor, petitioner was instructing students who were absent from school due to illness or other reason. If those students were not absent, they would be taught by classroom teachers who were present, willing and able to teach these absent students if they were able to return to school.

15. During the period of her service as a Home Instructor, Ms. Donvito was not working in a position that was previously held by a teacher who left it on a leave of absence or by a teacher who was otherwise absent from the position but expected to return.

LEGAL ISSUES

1. The first issue raised is whether this matter can be decided on Summary Motion. While the parties dispute who should be granted Summary Decision, they agree that, as a matter of law, there is no genuine issue of material fact with respect to the controversies involved in this matter.
2. The second issue is whether, under a series of scenarios, the Petitioner has gained tenure.
3. The third issue is whether the petitioner resigned from her position when she accepted a full-time position out of District in September 1999.
4. If the petitioner has gained tenure, is she entitled to the relief sought in the petition.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

The petitioner argues that, according to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, an individual appointed to a position requiring a teaching certificate gains tenure, if they teach for the time required under the statute. The time required is three consecutive calendar (12 month) years, three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year, or the equivalent of more that three academic years within four consecutive academic years. See N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a)-(c). The only exception to the statute is the "temporary employment" exception, which, according to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, is limited to employees hired to take the place of an absent teacher. See Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. Of Ed., 90 N.J. 63 (1982) quoting Point Pleasant Beach Teachers' Association v. Callam, 173 N.J. Super. 11, certif. den., 84 N.J. 469 (1980). Since Spiewak, supra, the only statutory exception relating to tenure accrual by teachers is N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, which allows a district to designate some person to act in the place of any absent employee, but that person would not acquire tenure in that office. Thus, according to Sayreville Education Association v. Board of Education of the Borough of Sayreville, 193 N.J. Super. 425 (App. Div. 1984), N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 applies when a substitute teacher is required, because of the absence of the regular teacher, whose return to duty is contemplated. The petitioner further asserts that the fact that an employee is part-time or that there is no formal appointment to the position by the board does not bar the accrual of tenure.

The petitioner then goes on to outline a number of scenarios that could be constructed to prove that she gained tenure by service for the equivalent of more than three academic years within four consecutive academic years. In one scenario, accrual of tenure is based on service during the 1996-97 through the1999-2000 school year. The time consists of a combination of Home Instructor, HSPT/SRA tutor and 2/5 Contract Teacher for a total of 33.5 months. The second scenario covers the period of service from 1997-98 through the 2000-01 school year. The service consists of 10 months as a full-time Contract Teacher, approximately four months as a 2/5 Contract Teacher and the balance of the time as a Home Instructor and HSPT/SRA tutor for a total of 38.5 months. The third scenario is based on service during the 1998-99 through the 2001-2002 school year. Here 19.5 months were accrued as a Home Instructor and 20 months as a full-time Contract teacher and a 4/5 Contract teacher for a total of 39.5 months. The fourth possibility attains tenure based on service as a Home Instructor and 2/5 Contract teacher for the years 1996-2000 for a total of 31.5 months. Finally, the petitioner argues that tenure can be based on service as an HSPT/SRA tutor and Contract Teacher for the period 9/98-6/02 for a total of 31.5 months[1]. The petitioner also posited that the petitioner's service testing students from 3/1/98-6/98 and 3/12/99 to 6/18/99 could be included in the calculations, since certification is required and the source of funding is irrelevant.

The petitioner then goes on to take exception with the decision in Hyman, et al. v. Bd. Of Ed., Teaneck, 1983. 1983 S.L.D. 699 (Comm. Of Ed.), reversed in part 1985 S.L.D. 1940 (St. Bd. Of Ed.) aff'd. in part, remanded in part, Superior Court Appellate Division, Dkt. No. A-3508-84T7. In that decision the Administrative Law Judge found that service as a Home Instructor did not count toward tenure. This opinion was adopted by the Commissioner of Education. The petitioner submitted that the Hyman decision was wrong as a matter of law and fact. This position was based on the fact that the ALJ referred to home instruction as intermittent, temporary and unscheduled. The petitioner argued that her service as a Home Instructor was virtually continuous from January 1997-June 2000. Therefore, it did not fall into the category of intermittent or temporary. Further, the petitioner earned substantial income from the District during that period of time. In addition, contrary to the conclusion of Hyman, Home Instruction does not constitute the work of a substitute, because it is not work done in place of an absent teacher. Since no other statutory exception applies, tenure must be found to accrue based on the Home Instruction service. Therefore, the Petitioner has the right to claim existing full-time positions held by non-tenured employees, whether or not she was last employed as a part-time teacher.

As to the issue of resignation, the petitioner first asserts that there was no formal resignation by Ms. Donvito, when she took a full time position out of district in September 1999. In addition, an employee is permitted to decline part-time employment and still retain their tenure rights to a full time position. Boquszewski v. Board of Ed., Demarest, 1979 S.L.D. 232 (Comm. Of Ed.). The petitioner also pointed out that she continued to work for the District in September 1999 as a home instructor and, therefore, there was no break in service. Further, an employee cannot be found to waive the accrual of tenure absent a clear and express agreement to do so. See Carney v. Bd. Of Ed., Summit, 1980 S.L.D. 1110 (Comm. of Ed.). In addition, since accrual of tenure prior to the 1999-2000 school year was not possible, the petitioner's working for another district in 1999 had no impact on her tenure rights.

[1] This is the position outlined in the reply brief. In the initial brief the last scenario consisted of 7 months as an HSPT/SRA Tutor, 5.5 months as an SRA Home Instructor and 2/5 Contract Teacher, 10 months as a Full-time Contract Teacher and 10 months as a 4/5 Contract teacher.

On their part the School District asserts that, time spent working as a home instructor, does not count toward tenure. Their position is that the reasoning in Hyman is applicable to this case as well. Ms. Hyman worked as a home instruction teacher and she possessed a teaching certificate, as required by law. Her schedule varied greatly as to the number of hours she worked per day and the number of days and weeks she worked in a particular month. She was paid hourly and at times performed home instruction, while serving in other tenure eligible positions. This was similar to the present matter. Ms. Hyman claimed that her home instruction assignments should be credited toward tenure. The Board cited the Commissioner's opinion in the Hyman case that home instruction is "intermittent, temporary, and unscheduled employment" and that " it was akin to substitute teachers, who also do not earn tenure, except that the home instruction is necessitated by the student's inability to attend class at school, as opposed to the teachers' absence." Id. at 709. The Board asserted that, as in Hyman, the Petitioner was the equivalent of a substitute based on the intermittent and unscheduled nature of her work. They assert that petitioner's service was anything but "virtually continuous", stating that she worked anywhere from one to seven hours per day and "on some days, weeks, and even months she did not work at all." In fact, the Petitioner's hiring resolutions placed her on a substitute list. Thus, the Board argues that Hyman is right on point. Based on this opinion, Petitioner first started to accrue tenure on February 18, 2000, when she was appointed to a position as a special education teacher on a two-fifths basis. Therefore, her total tenure time is slightly more than two years and four months over three academic years. Louise Ryan, the Intervener in this matter, agreed with the position of the Board, that Ms. Donvito could not gain tenure based on her service as a Home Instructor.

The Respondent also took exception to the Petitioner's scenario, that time spent as a HSPT/SRA tutor counted toward tenure. The Board asserted that the tutor position was essentially an unrecognized, auxiliary assignment that did not count toward the accrual of tenure. See Boney v. Pleasantville Bd. Of Education, 71 *S.L.D.*579. In addition, the time sheets demonstrate that the Petitioner performed this work in a sporadic manner, working random hours and days. In addition, the petitioner listed her hours on her Home Instruction work sheet. The Board also argued that the petitioner's decision to decline the District's offer of employment and accept employment in another district precluded the achievement of tenure. Citing Solomon v. Princeton Bd. Of Education, 77 S.L.D. 650, aff'd 77 S.L.D. 657 and Kimless v. Woodbridge Twp. Bd. Of Ed., 78 S.L.D. 651, they argue that an employee who resigns and leaves a district, no matter what the length of time between resignation and re-employment, relinquishes her tenure rights and must commence the tenure probationary period anew. The break in service from September-October 1999, when she accepted a position in another district, represented a resignation and a relinquishment of her tenure rights.

The District further argued that, while there was no formal resignation, the petitioner effectively resigned her position by refusing the Board's offer of Employment in September 1999 and extinguished any tenure rights that may have accrued. The Respondent cited Riemann v. Edison Bd. Of Education, 80 S.L.D. 636 for the position that a staff member who resigns forfeits all tenure and seniority rights, that accrued prior to resignation. The petitioner's refusal to accept the Board's offer in June 1999 of a two-fifths position for September 1999, and her decision to teach full-time in another district was essentially a resignation, which voided any tenure rights petitioner may have had. The Respondent cited a number of cases including Ralph v. Highland Park Bd. Of Education, 91 S.L.D. 2476, Hagens v. Princeton Board of Education, Commissioner of Education #25-82 (January 26, 1982) and Bartz and Burke v. Green Brook Bd. Of Education, 87 S.L.D. 2520 to support its position.

DISCUSSION

1. STANDARD FOR SUMMARY DECISION

The rules governing practice in the Office of Administrative Law provide that a motion for summary decision may be granted, if there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitle to prevail as a matter of law. This provision mirrors the language of Rule 4:46-2 and the Supreme Court's decision in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant Summary Judgment should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits, which may have been filed with the application. In order for the adverse, i.e., the non-moving party to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. The Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of American, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), set the standard to be applied when deciding a Motion for Summary Judgment.

> The determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the Motion Judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party... they are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

If the non-moving party's evidence is merely colorable, or is not significantly probative, summary judgment should not be denied. See Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Suppl. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998).

Based on the Briefs and Affidavits presented by the parties, I FIND, that there is no genuine issue of material fact and the matter can be decided on Summary Decision.

2. WHETHER, UNDER ANY OF THE SCENARIOS PRESENTED, THE PETITIONER HAS ACQUIRED TENURE.

A. Tenure Law

The tenure of educational personnel is authorized by the Education Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to –18. Tenure is a status in a particular position created by statute, not the agreement of the parties, therefore, it is a "statutory right imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment" ... that "may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982)(citing, Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962); Red Bank Ed. Ass'n v. Red Bank Bd. of Educ., 78 N.J. 122, 141 (1978)).

Educators who are employed in public schools must hold a valid certificate "to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction or educational guidance of ... pupils in such public schools." N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. The State Board of Examiners has implemented the certification requirement by authorizing three certificates that an educator may hold: (1) Instructional; (2) Administrative; and (3) Educational Services. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. In order to obtain tenure, an educator must hold the appropriate certificate for his or her position. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-5. An educator may hold more than one type of certificate.

In addition to the three types of certificates, an educator may hold, the State Board of Examiners has designated special endorsements under each type of certificate. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. An educator must hold the appropriate certificate and endorsement for his or her position. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.1, -6.2. An educator may possess multiple endorsements under a single certificate, qualifying him or her to fill any position covered by the respective endorsements. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(2), (a)(8).

Therefore, in order to obtain tenure, an educator must hold the appropriate certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners and maintain employment in a position for:

> (a) Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.]

Our Supreme Court has held that "teachers who provide remedial and supplemental instruction to educationally handicapped children may acquire tenure... if they meet the qualifications in the statute." Spiewak, supra, 90 N.J. at 66. The Court also held, "[b]y the express terms of the these statutes [N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 and 18A:28-5], an employee of a board of education is entitled to tenure if (1) she works in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) she holds the appropriate certificate; and (3) she has served the requisite period of time." Id. at 73-74.

The only applicable exception to the Tenure Act was addressed in Spiewak. There the court, citing N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, provided:

> ... [a] Board of Education may designate some person to act in place of any officer or employee during the absence, disability or disqualification of any such officer or employee... [However,] no person so acting shall acquire tenure in the office or employment in which he acts pursuant to this section when so acting.
>
> Although, this statute denies tenure to temporary employees, it extends only to those who "act in place of" another employee who is absent or disabled.
>
> However, that exception is limited to employees hired to take the place of an absent teacher. The courts are not free to expand that exception by judicial fiat. Id at 74, 77.

B. CAN SERVICE AS A HOME INSTRUCTOR BE COUNTED TOWARD TENURE

Home instruction is the provision of one-to-one instruction in the student's home or other appropriate setting for reasons of discipline, safety, disability, or medical condition. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.3; N.J.A.C. 6A:16-4.8. Home instruction is generally requested when a student cannot attend regular classes due to temporary illness or injury, or if the student is disabled and receives home instruction pursuant to an Individual Education Plan. See N.J.A.C. 6A:16-4.8. The minimum number of hours required may vary based on the needs of the student, but in no case shall such instruction be completed in less than 3 days per week. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.8; -4.9.

There are no statutes, regulations or cases defining substitute teachers, except as noted above when discussing "temporary employees". The dictionary defines a substitute as "to put in place of"; "a person or thing that takes the place or function of another"; "to put or use in the place of another"; or "serving in lieu of another". Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary 1177 (1988); Barron's Law Dictionary 494 (4th ed. 1996). Pennsylvania Public School Code of 1949 specifically defines a substitute as:

> "any individual who has been employed to perform the duties of a regular professional employe[e] during such period of time as the regular professional employe[e] is absent, on sabbatical leave, or for other legal cause authorized and approved by the board of school directors or to perform the duties of a temporary professional employe[e] is absent."
> [Richland Educ. Assoc. v. Richland School Dist., 418 A.2d 787, 789 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 1980).]

All parties argue the use of Hyman, et al. v. Teaneck BOE, 1983 S.L.D. 699, adopted in part, modified in part, Commissioner 1983 S.L.D. 722, modified St. Bd. 1985 S.L.D. 1940, aff'd in part, remanded in part, App. Div., No. A-3508-84 (Feb. 26, 1986). In Hyman, ALJ Dower-LaBastille concluded "home instructors are not teaching staff members pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and their time is not tenurable ... Home instructors have no specific expectation of employment duration; they have full knowledge of the variability of the assignments and hourly rate of pay." Id. at 709 (citations omitted). In her findings of fact, which were adopted by the Commissioner, the ALJ made the following determinations:

> Since home instructors do not know from day to day and week to week whether or not or for how long they will be scheduled for such assignments and how many hours a month may be required, their work bears even less similarity to that of a > regular teaching staff member than that of a substitute teacher.

>
> A home instructor is a substitute for a regular classroom teacher where substitution is necessitated by inability of the student to attend class at school.
>
> Home instruction is intermittent, temporary, and unscheduled employment.

Ibid.

In making her decision, the ALJ made reference to cases that were decided prior to Spiewak, supra, but she clearly had a full understanding of Spiewak, as it was discussed, where appropriate, in her decision. For other reasons, the State Board modified the Commissioner's decision. However, neither the State Board of Education nor the Appellate Division considered the "home instruction" issue, as the parties did not raise it in those appeals. Thus, the ALJ's determination that home instructors are akin to substitutes for purposes of tenure, which the Commissioner specifically adopted, stands. See Id. at 724. This definition of substitute, along with those noted earlier, S*upra*, is well within the scope of the temporary employee exception to tenure acquisition in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 and discussed in Spiewak, supra. I FIND the reasoning of the ALJ in Hyman to be persuasive on the issue of the tenure accrual of Home Instructors. Therefore, I FIND that the time that Ms. Donvito served as a Home Instructor cannot be used toward the accrual of tenure.

B. CAN TENURE STATUS ACCRUE FROM SERVICE AS A HSPT/SRA TUTOR

The petitioner puts forward the argument that, even if the service as a home instructor does not count toward the accrual of tenure, her position as a HSPT/Tutor for seven months should be counted toward her tenure time. It appears that the Petitioner takes this position based on the fact that HSPT/Tutor does not fall into the substitute teacher exception and there are no other allowable exceptions according to Spiewak, Supra at 77. Based on this reasoning, the petitioner is entitled to tenure for her combined time as an HSPT/Tutor and her three contract positions. The Respondent school board relies on the decision in Boney v. Pleasantville BOE, 1971 S.L.D. 579 to counter this position. Boney involved a claim by a physical education teacher, who had been appointed as chairman of the physical education department. Mr. Boney claimed that he had acquired tenure in that position, after being appointed chairman for five years. The Commissioner of Education ruled that no tenure status accrues to extra-classroom assignments such as that performed by petitioner, and they are renewed or discontinued at the discretion of the Board, Id. at 585.

While the Spiewak case dealt with special education teachers, some of whom were funded through federal grants, they all performed their duties on a regular basis for a set number of hours per week. They were only distinguishable from other teachers based on the children they taught and the source of funding. In the case of the HSPT/SRA tutor, the position more closely resembles the Hyman home instruction model than the Spiewak situation. The petitioner, in fact, clocked her hours on the home instruction time sheet. While the name given to a position is not necessarily determinative, the title "Tutor" points to an auxiliary assignment as outlined in Boney. In addition, taking the reasoning of the petitioner to its natural conclusion, a tutor could work one hour per week for seven months and be entitled to count those seven months as tenure eligible time. It does not appear logical that a tutor, working sporadic hours in an auxiliary type position, would be entitled to tenure. It is my conclusion that the tutor position falls into the category of an extra-classroom assignment that is not subject to tenure.

3. WHETHER THE PETITIONER RESIGNED WHEN SHE ACCEPTED A FULL TIME POSITION OUT OF DISTRICT IN SEPTEMBER 1999.

Since I have previously found that the petitioner did not acquire tenure under any of the scenarios presented, it is unnecessary to reach a conclusion as to whether Ms. Donvito resigned, when she accepted the out of district position in September 1999. I will note that all parties agreed that there was no formal resignation. If we reached the issue of constructive resignation, the petitioner's position that she could not give up tenure rights that she had not yet acquired is a reasonable argument. In addition, the cases cited by the Respondent, dealing with resignation, all involve matters in which the petitioners were offered full time employment that they declined. This is not the case with Ms. Donvito. However, as previously stated, I will not reach a conclusion on this issue, since it does not affect the outcome of this matter.

4. WHETHER THE PETITIONER IS ENTITLED TO THE RELIEF SOUGHT.

Since I have found that the petitioner did not gain tenure, she is not entitled to the relief sought.

CONCLUSION

Based on the arguments presented by the parties and the exhibits produced, I CONCLUDE that the district and the intervener are entitled to Summary Decision. The petitioner has failed to prove that she attained tenure through any of the positions that she held within the District.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Respondent and Intervener's Motion for Summary Decision be GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

KATHLEEN DONVITO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE NORTHERN VALLEY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT,	:
AND	:
LOUISE RYAN,	:
INTERVENOR.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

In her exceptions, petitioner objects to the analysis in the Initial Decision which applied both Hyman, supra, and N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 to the instant matter, submitting that "both instances represent a clear violation of the holding of the Supreme Court in Spiewak et al. v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63 (1982)." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Petitioner avers that, in Hyman the issue of tenure accrual for Home Instruction Teachers was not raised on appeal of the Commissioner's decision. (Id. at 1) Petitioner further argues that the fact that "substitute" employment is not defined in statute or regulation is not important because the only issue is whether N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 applies so as to prohibit home instruction teachers from achieving tenure. (Id. at 2)

Pointing to Spiewak, supra at 77, petitioner posits that the Supreme Court expressly interpreted N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 to apply only to those taking the place of an absent teacher and clearly held that no court or agency can create exceptions to the tenure law. (Ibid.) Thus, petitioner asserts, there is no authority for the creation of a Home Instructor or HSPT/SRA Tutor exception. (Ibid.) Petitioner further asserts that the fact that home instructors do not know how much work they will be doing is no more relevant in this matter than it was in Point Pleasant Beach, supra, which was rejected in Spiewak, supra. (Id. at 3) Petitioner submits that the fact that a home instructor will not know how many students she or he will have does nothing to affect the accrual of tenure. In the instant matter, petitioner avers, the facts demonstrate that petitioner was continuously working as a home instructor from January 1997 through her years as a contracted classroom teacher until her termination in June 2002. (Ibid.) The time must count toward tenure, petitioner argues, because it is service requiring certification, is not temporary and does not fit within the exception set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, and, therefore, no statutory exception applies pursuant to Spiewak, supra. (Ibid.)

Additionally, petitioner advances the argument that the ALJ's reliance on Boney, supra, as a basis for denying the tenurable nature of the work of an HSPT/SRA Tutor is in error because Boney, rendered eleven years prior to Spiewak, involved an assignment to a position which had no certification requirement. (Ibid.) In this instance, petitioner submits, preparing students for the HSPT/SRA was instructional work mandated by regulations dealing with graduation requirements. (Ibid.) Finally, petitioner points to Lichtman v. Ridgewood Bd. of Ed., 93 N.J. 362 (1983), in averring that part-time service in a position requiring certification is tenure eligible. (Ibid.)

In its reply, the Board relies on Hyman, supra, at 709 in asserting that petitioner's claim that she earned tenure based, in part, on her service as a home instructor should be rejected because, as the ALJ in Hyman determined, and the Commissioner affirmed, "home instruction is 'intermittent, temporary, and unscheduled employment' akin to the work of a substitute." (Board's Reply at 2) Accordingly to Hyman, therefore, the Board asserts, petitioner is excluded from the acquisition of tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. (Id. at 3) Therefore, in reaching her conclusions in the instant matter, the Board argues, the ALJ properly followed the sound reasoning underlying and supporting the conclusions in the Hyman decision. (Id. at 3)

Moreover, the Board asserts that petitioner's reliance on Spiewak, supra, is misplaced because the Court in Spiewak determined: 1) that remedial and supplemental teachers who were required to hold certificates and who provided instruction to educationally disabled children were entitled to tenure if they met the criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, and 2) that temporary employees and substitutes are not entitled to tenure. (Id. at 4, citing Spiewak, supra, at 84 and 74) The Board points out that the ALJ and the Commissioner in Hyman, supra, were aware of the Spiewak decision and recognized that, unlike supplemental instruction, home instruction is temporary, intermittent and unscheduled and, as such, the position of home instructor is "akin to that of a substitute, a non-tenure-eligible position." (Ibid.) The Board also avers that it would be impossible to calculate tenure rights for a home instructor given the unfixed and constantly changing schedule, as in this case, where petitioner worked from one to seven hours a day for certain days and weeks and sometimes did not work at all. (Ibid.)

Finally, the Board argues that petitioner's service as an HSPT/SRA tutor was an unrecognized, auxiliary assignment, was a part of her home instruction work, and was performed in a sporadic manner on random hours on various days. (Id. at 5) Thus, the Board concludes, petitioner's HSPT/SRA assignment would not count towards tenure. (Ibid.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, the exceptions and the reply thereto filed in this matter, the Commissioner has determined to reject the ALJ's recommended decision in this matter and to grant summary decision to petitioner for the reasons set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121-122 (App. Div. 1995) (citing Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995)), summary decision may be granted in an administrative proceeding if there is no genuine issue of material fact in dispute and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. In the instant matter, the parties filed cross-motions for summary decision, submitted joint exhibits, and a joint stipulation of facts.[1] Based on a review of the stipulated facts, the joint exhibits, and the motion papers and briefs submitted by the parties, the Commissioner finds that a grant of summary decision is appropriate in this instance in that there is no genuine issue of material fact and petitioner is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

The Education Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18, grants tenure to teaching staff members who meet precise statutory conditions. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides, in pertinent part, that:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of teacher, principal, other than administrative principal, assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent, and all school nurses including school nurse supervisors, head school nurses, chief school nurses, school nurse coordinators, and any other nurse performing school nursing services, school athletic trainer and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of

[1] To the Joint Stipulation of Facts, the parties attached a "Statement of Disputed Factual Issue," stating that, although there is a dispute as to whether petitioner was offered and rejected a two-fifths (2/5) teaching position to commence in September 1999, "[t]he parties agree that for purposes of this motion for summary judgment, the Judge may assume that such a position was offered and declined as proffered by respondent. In the event that the Judge determines that such an offer would be the basis for denying petitioner's claim, the parties request that judgment be reserved pending a hearing limited to the facts surrounding the alleged job offer." (Exhibit J-1, in evidence) > examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect and school business administrators shared by two or more school districts, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title, after employment in such district or by such board for:

> (a) Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

In Spiewak, supra, at 81, the Supreme Court held that "all teaching staff members who work in positions for which a certificate is required, who hold valid certificates, and who have worked the requisite number of years, are eligible for tenure unless they come within the explicit exceptions in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or related statutes such as N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1."

The Court in Spiewak also addressed the only applicable exception to the Tenure Act relating to tenure accrual by teachers, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1,[2] finding that, "although this statute denies tenure to temporary employees, it extends only to those who 'act in place of' another employee who is absent or disabled." Id. at 74. The Court further concludes that "[t]he courts are not free to expand that exception by judicial fiat." Id. at 77.

[2] N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 provides:

> In each district the board of education may designate some person to act in place of any officer or employee during the absence, disability or disqualification of any such officer or employee subject to the provisions of section 18A:17-13.
> The act of any person so designated shall in all cases be legally binding as if done and performed by the officer or employee for whom such designated person is acting but no person so acting shall acquire tenure in the office or employment in which he acts pursuant to this section when so acting.

The ALJ in Hyman, supra, found that "home instructors are not teaching staff members pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and their time is not tenurable. Home instructors have no specific expectation of employment duration; they have full knowledge of the variability of the assignments and hourly rate of payment." Hyman at 709. Although the ALJ's finding in Hyman that home instructors were not tenure eligible was specifically upheld by the Commissioner, the petitioners in Hyman were all found to be tenured based on time served as supplemental teachers and entitled to full salary and, thus, did not appeal the Commissioner's decision. The Board appealed solely on the salary issue to the State Board and prevailed and the State Board's decision was subsequently appealed to the Appellate Division. The issue of whether home instruction is tenure eligible was not addressed by either the State Board or the Appellate Division as the parties did not raise it in those appeals.

Since the 1982-83 Spiewak, supra, and Hyman, supra, decisions, however, the courts have interpreted and clarified the exception to the Tenure Act relating to the tenure accrual exception set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. In Sayreville Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Educ., Etc., 193 N.J. Super. 424, 428 (App. Div. 1984), the court interpreted N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, as follows:

> We construe the authorization of this provision as applying when the services of a substitute teacher are required because of the temporary absence, even if protracted, of a regular teacher whose return to duty is contemplated. We do not construe it as authorizing the use of a substitute to fill a vacant position on a long-term basis. This interpretation, in our view, accords with the plain meaning of the statutory provision. The phrase, "to act in place of any officer or employee during the absence, disability or disqualification of any such officer or employee," clearly implies a temporary arrangement. That is, the "place" which is the intended subject of the statute is the place of another which that other will reclaim when his period of absence is over. The substitute is appointed to act for the other during that period. If that other employee has, however, terminated his employment, then the place which the appointee is filling is not the place of the other but rather a vacant place, and the statute ordinarily does not apply. This interpretation is, moreover, in accord with the observation in > Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., supra, 90 N.J. at 77, that the exception to the tenure statute which N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 constitutes "is limited to employees hired to take the place of an absent teacher." Again the implication is clear that the place for which the temporary substitute teacher was hired is not vacant but only temporarily unoccupied by its incumbent.

Moreover, the Supreme Court in Lammers v. Bd. of Educ., 134 N.J. 264, citing Sayreville, supra, noted that: "[t]he implication drawn by the Appellate Division in Sayreville between a vacancy and an absence is unmistakable. An absence exists when the missing teacher is scheduled ultimately to return to the position. A vacancy exists when the teacher leaves the position permanently, as in the case of a resignation or a retirement." Id. at 268.

The decisions in Sayreville and Lammers issued subsequent to Spiewak and Hyman, thus clarify that the statutory exception to tenure accrual set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 is limited to situations where a person is serving in the place of an absent employee who is expected to return to work. That is not the case herein where the classroom teachers were present and teaching any students in attendance. As specifically stipulated by the parties, petitioner "was not working in a position that was previously held by a teacher who left it on a leave of absence or by a teacher who was otherwise absent from the position but expected to return.," (Exhibit J-1, #14, in evidence), but, instead, was serving in the individual position of a home instructor. Accordingly, the Commissioner rejects the argument that petitioner's position of home instructor is akin to that of a substitute in that petitioner is not serving in the place of an absent employee who is expected to return and, thus, cannot be excluded from tenure accrual under the exception set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1.

Moreover, as expressly found in Spiewak, supra, at 80, the courts, and by extension the OAL and the Commissioner, cannot create exceptions to the tenure law:

> To summarize, neither Schulz [Schulz v. State Bd. of Ed., 132 N.J.L. 345 (E. & A. 1945)] nor Biancardi [Biancardi v. Waldwick Bd. of Ed., 139 N.J. Super. 175 (App. Div. 1976), aff'd o.b., 73 N.J. 37 (1977)] nor Capella [Capella v. Bd. of Ed. of > Camden County Voc. Tech. Sch., 145 N.J. Super. 209 (App. Div. 1976)] holds that courts may themselves define exceptions to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. To the extent those decisions imply that the right to tenure derives from contract rather than statute, they are wrong. To the extent they suggest that courts may create exceptions to the clear language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 based on policy considerations, they are disapproved."

In that the Commissioner concludes, in light of Spiewak and the subsequent court decisions in Sayreville and Lammers, that the only applicable exception to the Tenure Act relating to tenure accrual by teachers, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, does not apply to teachers serving in the position of home instructor, and in that the Commissioner lacks the authority to create exceptions to the tenure law, petitioner's years of service as a home instructor are found to be tenure eligible. Moreover, the Commissioner agrees with petitioner that Boney, supra, does not apply so as to exclude petitioner's service as an HSPT/SRA Tutor from tenure eligibility, as, unlike the Boney decision, which dealt with the assignment to a job which had no certification requirement, petitioner's assignment herein as an HSPT/SRA Tutor was an instructional assignment necessitated by the regulations dealing with graduation requirements set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:8-1.1 et seq., and thus akin to an assignment as a remedial teacher, basic skills teacher or supplemental teacher.

During the period at issue, petitioner was a teaching staff member in the Northern Valley Regional High School District, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18A:1-1,[3] and tenure eligible, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, holding valid certificates and endorsements issued by the State Board of Examiners as an Elementary School Teacher, Teacher of English, Nursery School Teacher, Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant, and Teacher of the Handicapped and assigned to teaching positions requiring valid certification, i.e., home instructor (see

[3] N.J.A.C. 18A:1-1 defines a "teaching staff member" as "a member of the professional staff of any district or regional board of education, or any board of education of a county vocational school, holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualifications, for such office, position or employment, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate, appropriate to his office, position or employment, issued by the State Board of Examiners and includes a school nurse and a school athletic trainer."

N.J.A.C. 6A:16-9.2(b)2; N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.8(a)(4); N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.9(a)(4); and J-3, in evidence), a Special Education Teacher, and an HSPT/SRA Tutor. Although petitioner served in part-time teaching positions during this time period, it is well-established that a part-time position requiring certification is tenure eligible. See Lichtman, supra, and Dudzinski v. Borough of Franklin, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 531.

Moreover, the parties stipulated that petitioner was assigned the following teaching responsibilities and provided such service during the 1996-1997 through 1999-2000 school years:

School Year	Service Dates	Position	Academic Months
1996-1997	1/13/97-6/18/97 (J-3)	Home Instructor[4]	5
1997-1998	9/18/97-6/26/98 (J-4)	Home Instructor[5]	9
1998-1999	10/21/98-6/30/99 (J-5) 9/4/98-4/5/99 (J-9)	Home Instructor[6] HSPT/SRA Tutor	10
1999-2000	9/15/99-6/19/00 (J-6) 2/18/00-6/30/00 (J-13) 1/14/00-3/10/00 (J-10)	Home Instructor[7] 2/5 Special Ed. Teacher SRA Tutor	9.5
TOTAL			33.5 months

[4] Petitioner earned $19,150 during her five months as Home Instructor. (Exhibit J-3, in evidence)

[5] Petitioner earned $13,987.50 during her nine months as Home Instructor. (Exhibit J-4, in evidence)

[6] Petitioner earned $12,700 as a Home Instructor and $3,825 as an HSPT/SRA Tutor during her ten months of service. (Exhibits J-5 and J-9, in evidence)

[7] Petitioner earned $26,250 as a Home Instructor, $23,103.60 as a 2/5 Special Education Teacher and $1,650 as an SRA Tutor during her 9½ months of service. (Exhibits J-6, J-13 and J-10, in evidence) Notwithstanding the Board's claim that petitioner resigned her position when she was offered and rejected a 2/5 teaching position to commence in September 1999 and petitioner's denial that such position was offered to begin in September 1999, as noted above, the parties have stipulated that, for purposes of the summary decision motions, that such a position was offered and declined by respondent. Even assuming, arguendo, that a 2/5 teaching September 1999 teaching position was offered to petitioner and she declined the offer, the Commissioner cannot conclude that petitioner resigned from her position with the Board as the record reflects that petitioner continued to be employed as a home instructor for the Board, earning $14,450 in the period from 9/15/99 through 2/18/00 when she accepted a 2/5 teaching position.

Thus, petitioner achieved tenure, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(c), by her service as a teacher in the District for the equivalent of more than three academic years (30 months) within four consecutive academic years. The Commissioner also observes that petitioner worked for the Board as a full-time Special Education Teacher in the 2000-2001 school year[8] and as a 4/5 Special Education Teacher in the 2001-2002 school year.[9] The Board did not renew petitioner's contract for the 2002-2003 school year. In the 2002-2003 school year, the Board employed 22 nontenured teaching staff members within the areas of petitioner's certification.[10] (Initial Decision at 2) The Commissioner, therefore, finds that the Board violated petitioner's tenure rights in deciding not to appoint petitioner to one of the positions held by nontenured individuals.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner grants summary decision to petitioner and orders petitioner's reinstatement to a full-time position held by any nontenured or less senior teacher within petitioner's area of certification of the Board's choice, with full back salary and benefits, less mitigating income.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[11]

Record Closed: October 21, 2003 Decided: October 21, 2003

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

This matter arises from the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Emilyann Gardiner ("petitioner"), to the Commissioner of Education challenging a determination of the Board of Education of the City of Long Branch, Monmouth County, ("respondent") to withhold her employment and adjustment increments for the 2002-2003 school year. The case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") from the Department of Education on September 5, 2002, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to – 13.

The parties agreed to a settlement of all issues in dispute and have prepared a Settlement Agreement, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. Also attached is an October 14, 2003, letter from counsel for the respondent indicating that the respondent approved the settlement as written in the minutes from their regular meeting of July 23, 2003, attached to his letter.

I have reviewed the record and terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Agreement, made this _____ day of April, 2003, by and between the Board of Education of the City of Long Branch, County of Monmouth ("Board") and Emilyann Gardiner ("Ms. Gardiner").

RECITALS:

A. The Board employs Ms. Gardiner as a tenured SFA reading teacher/tutor.

B. During the 2001-2002 school year, the principal of the Gregory School observed that Ms. Gardiner's performance required improvement in time management, curriculum implementation, fulfilling job responsibilities and quality of instruction.

C. Based on these observations, the principal recommended to the Board to withhold her employment and adjustment increments for the 2002-2003 school year.

D. The Board voted to withhold Ms. Gardiner's increments and the reasons were provided pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

E. Ms. Gardiner then filed a Petition, asserting that the Board's actions in this regard were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, which the Board disputed in its Answer.

F. During the pendency of the Petition, Ms. Gardiner offered to resign for retirement purposes effective October 31, 2003, subject to certain terms and conditions.

G. The Office of the Superintendent of Schools entered into negotiations with Ms. Gardiner regarding her offer.

H. The Board has considered Ms. Gardiner's offer and has approved the settlement by resolution.

I. Ms. Gardiner has been advised that the Commissioner of Education is required to approve settlements of administrative proceedings.

THEREFORE, IN CONSIDERATION OF THE MUTUAL COVENANTS HEREIN CONTAINED, the Board and Ms. Gardiner agree as follows:

1. Ms. Gardiner shall immediately offer her irrevocable letter of resignation for retirement purposes to the Board, effective as of October 31, 2003.

2. Upon receipt, the Board shall immediately accept Ms. Gardiner's offered resignation for retirement purposes.

3. Upon acceptance of Ms. Gardiner's offered resignation for retirement purposes, the Board agrees to retroactively restore one-half of Ms. Gardiner's increments for the 2002-2003 school year by beginning their restoration on February 1, 2003.

4. Ms. Gardiner shall receive her employment and adjustment increments for the 2003-2004 school year until the date of her resignation for retirement purposes.

5. Ms. Gardiner will complete the 2002-2003 school year by actively teaching and improving her performance to the extent required by the principal and shall, during the months of September and October, 2003, be employed as a teacher with duties to act as a substitute at the discretion of the Office of the Superintendent, when required, but will not be assigned regular classroom duties.

6. Upon execution of this Agreement, the Petition filed by Ms. Gardiner shall be withdrawn with prejudice.

7. The Board and Ms. Gardiner shall exchange general releases, with the only exception to those general releases being the terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement.

8. The terms and conditions of the settlement are contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education. If approval is not given, then the increment withholding petition shall proceed to a hearing.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :

HEARING OF ROSA SARDUY, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF : DECISION

PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and insubordination against respondent assistant principal who had been employed in the District since 1974 in a variety of positions, both teaching and administrative. The charges involved failure to perform certain assigned duties, failure to call in absences, refusal to perform duties even after receiving directives from the Superintendent and other unprofessional actions.

Following six days of hearing, the ALJ determined that the Board had established that Charges 1, 2, 4 and the first paragraph of Charge 7 had been sustained by a preponderance of the credible evidence and warranted respondent's removal from her position. The ALJ ordered respondent dismissed from her employment as a tenured assistant principal.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ and ordered respondent dismissed from her position as of the date of this decision and directed that a copy of this decision be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as that body deems appropriate.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5474-02

AGENCY DKT. NO. 154-5/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF ROSA SARDUY, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY

Cherie L. Adams, Esq., for petitioner, School District of the City of Passaic (Sills Cummis Radin Tischman Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Robert F. Varady, Esq., for respondent Rosa Sarduy (La Corte, Bundy, Varady & Kinsella, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 25, 2003 Decided: October 31, 2003

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this case the School District of the City of Passaic ("District") has certified a variety of unbecoming conduct and insubordination charges against the respondent, Rosa Sarduy, a tenured assistant principal who has been employed by the District since September 1974 in a variety of positions, teaching and administrative, including bilingual teacher, guidance counselor, Director of Guidance, and Vice (or Assistant) Principal.

Following the District's certification of the charges to the Commissioner of Education the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 18, 2002, for determination as a contested case. Hearings commenced before the undersigned administrative law judge in December 2002 and continued intermittently until their conclusion on June 8, 2003. Delays in moving the case forward more quickly were occasioned by a variety of circumstances, including illness, efforts to settle and counsels' trial conflicts. Following the conclusion of the testimony a schedule was established for the filing of posthearing proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. The time for issuing my initial decision was extended by order to November 24, 2003.

A total of eight witnesses testified at the hearing, seven on behalf of the District and respondent Sarduy. Since seven separate charges of unbecoming conduct and/or insubordination had been certified to the Commissioner, each charge and the relevant testimony and other evidence in support of, and in defense against, the charges will be discussed, infra.

THE TENURE CHARGES

Charge One alleged that during 1999-2000, Sarduy failed to perform certain assigned duties after having been directed by her building principal at School No. 8 to perform those duties. Charge Two alleged that in January 2002, Sarduy was directed by the Principal at School No. 6, where she had been reassigned in 2000-2001, to supervise a lunch period when the teacher so assigned was absent, but that she failed to do so for the entire period.

Charge Three alleged that in 1999-2000, while at School No. 8, Sarduy refused to assist in the implementation of certain aspects of "Whole School Reform" unless the Superintendent of Schools, not just the building principal, required her to do so. Charge Four maintained that during the 1999-2000 school year Sarduy informed the Superintendent that she would no longer perform observations of staff members at School No. 8, and then continued to refuse to do so even after having been directed by the Superintendent to perform them. Charge Five alleged that on some occasions in 2000-2001, while assigned to School No. 6, Sarduy failed to call to advise that she would be absent.

Charge Six alleged that on one occasion, after Sarduy took a child to his home after school since no one had come on time to do so, she addressed a person at the child's home in an abrasive and unprofessional manner. Charge Seven alleged that with respect to special education matters Sarduy had acted in an inappropriate and unprofessional manner in a variety of ways. First, that she rudely interrupted a meeting between a child study team member and a parent at School No. 6 and complained that the member did not act appropriately concerning another student's placement. She then threatened to call the Department of Education and the newspapers if the placement was not quickly resolved. In addition, the charge alleged that in 1999-2000, while assigned to School No. 8, Sarduy interrupted a CST team meeting to which she had not been invited, and that and other behavior that day towards faculty and parents was unprofessional and insulting.

TESTIMONY FOR THE DISTRICT

The first witness for the district was John Scozzaro who presently is the principal of School No. 11. During the 1999-2000 school year he was acting principal at School No. 8 where Sarduy was employed as his assistant principal. Scozzaro was new to School No. 8 that year and first met respondent when classes began in September 1999. He understood Sarduy had been serving there as "acting principal" for a short period of time in 19998-1999 since the principal was out ill.

Scozzaro met with Sarduy early in the 1999-2000 school year, described her expected role and told her to follow the prescribed job description for her position. However, soon thereafter Sarduy, referring to a, " ... long existing animosity created toward me by a few staff members of School No. 8", asked Scozzaro for specific directions as to her duties and responsibilities (Ex. P-18). He replied that Sarduy simply should follow her job description and if any specific directions were necessary he would inform her of the same (Ex. P-19). Subsequently, a problem did arise with respect to that very subject.

Specifically, it is alleged in Charge Four that Sarduy failed to perform required observations of teaching staff members at School No. 8. Scozzaro explained that he and Sarduy each were to observe one-half the staff members. However, when one of the teachers on her list objected to her doing so because of a problem in the past (Sarduy gave her a poor rating), Scozzaro decided he would evaluate that teacher instead. Sarduy then wrote to the Superintendent concerning the removal and described it as having stemmed from a prior disagreement between the teacher and herself over an observation Sarduy had performed (Ex. P-34). Since all the teachers at School No. 8 were aware of the incident (removal from her list), Sarduy then declared she no longer would conduct any observations. The Superintendent directed Sarduy to meet to discuss the situation and in a memorandum he dispatched to her on March 1, 2000, advised that she remained responsible, as directed, to perform observations and evaluations and any disagreements she might have with the principal's decision should be discussed with him (Ex. P-40). Nevertheless, subsequent to receiving that memorandum from the Superintendent, respondent only belatedly began to conduct observations, and even then did so in a deliberately inappropriate manner by uniformly rating all the teachers she observed as "extremely excellent".

With respect to Charge Three concerning respondent's reluctance to assist in "Whole School Reform", Scozzaro identified the concept as the particular model chosen to be implemented at School No. 8. It centers on teaching practices developed at Yale University and a team composed of teaching and administrative staff members at School No. 8 was to develop strategies in all areas. Although Sarduy was expected to be involved in the process as well, when she appeared to deliberately present obstacles interfering with the work of the team he then was obliged to contact Yale to have a consultant sent to the school to discuss the matter (Ex. P-26).

With respect to respondent's alleged interference with child study team meetings at School No. 8, Scozzaro explained that because of the need to schedule meetings to include parental participation, a great deal of flexibility was required. Thus, a notice was posted giving meeting schedules in advance. An incident occurred, he said, in January 2000 when respondent learned that a meeting which was to include child study team members, the regular teacher and the parents of the child would proceed even though the regular teacher was absent from school that day. Since Scozzaro was out of the building at the time, one of the members asked Sarduy if another teacher could be made available to attend in her place. Respondent allegedly responded that she would not make a teacher available without prior notice of at least one day even though the parents had come to school to attend the meeting.

Nevertheless, the meeting was convened after a speech therapist, who knew the student, was enlisted to attend in the regular teacher's place. Toward the end of the meeting, however, Sarduy entered the room, began to take notes and then questioned the participants about what had gone on. She angrily expressed concern about not having been given prior notice and the illegality of holding a meeting without the regular teacher present. After she left, she then attempted to cancel a meeting with another parent who had been waiting there, refusing to permit that meeting to go forward until she first obtained the Superintendent's approval.

These incidents prompted several memoranda describing what had happened and, according to Scozzaro, were demonstrative of the kind of insensitive behavior Sarduy too often displayed in the presence of staff and parents. (See, Exs. P-28,P-29, P-30, P-31).

Scozzaro next identified an evaluation form he had prepared with respect to respondent's performance during 1999-2000 (Ex. P-47), in which he rated her to be "below standards" in several categories, including requirements that she: (a) exercise educational leadership by serving as a positive role model; and (b) respect and adhere to the "chain of command". As Scozzaro described it, Sarduy's conduct actually "obstructed the flow of the educational process" and often he had to do her work because of her performance deficiencies and the low morale among staff members which she had created.

On cross-examination, Scozzaro conceded the evaluation form made no mention of any deficiencies he said she had with respect to Whole School Reform, and that she had a right to disagree with the way it had been implemented.

The next witness for the Board, Celinda Barreto, has been principal of School No. 6 for eight years. Like Sarduy, she has been employed by the District since 1974, both as a teacher (for twelve years) and as an administrator. Respondent was assigned to School No. 6 as her assistant principal for the 2000-2001 school year, but she did not report to the building until September 11, 2000 when she told Barreto she had not come earlier because she had been ill. Barreto discussed what she expected Sarduy's role to be as the assistant principal and gave her a memorandum which set forth duties and responsibilities (Ex. P-52). School No. 6, she explained, contains grades kindergarten through six with approximately 800 students. Rather than using the "Whole School Reform" model, her school chose the "Success for All" model. When she so informed Sarduy, the respondent told Barreto she was not familiar with it since she had transferred from a school which used a different model.

According to Barreto, from the very outset Sarduy's attendance during the 2000-2001 school year was not "up to par." By the beginning of October 2000 she had been absent eight school days – 31 percent of the school days to that point (Ex. P-71p). Barreto understood that some absences are unavoidable, but the total number, and the percentage of sick days taken by respondent were "excessive". This poor attendance, she observed, set a poor example for staff and negatively impacted on the operation of the school since she and Sarduy were the only two senior administrators there.

According to Barreto, Sarduy's attendance did not improve very much, and when respondent failed to report for work for the first four school days immediately following the Christmas recess in January 2001, Barreto sent a memorandum in which she observed that on one of those four school days Sarduy had not called her absence in to the answering service as required (Ex. P-71(q)). Although a handwritten reply note at the bottom on the memorandum by Sarduy insisted that she did in fact call each day, Barreto could find no record of that call. During the rest of January 2001, Sarduy continued to be absent from time to time and told Barreto she was having health issues. As Barreto put it, respondent then was "in and out" until early April 2001, after which she remained out sick every day for the entire balance of that school year.

Sarduy returned to work when school opened in September 2001, and was given what Barreto described as "a whole litany" of duties she was expected to perform, one of which was to supervise third and fourth periods in the lunch room and to be available at such other times as might be required. If, for example, the regularly assigned teacher was absent, Sarduy might have to provide coverage herself.

Among other duties Barreto assigned to Sarduy in 2001-2002 was the obligation to make sure there were adequate supplies available, but according to the witness respondent failed properly to carry out that function as well. In particular, she untimely distributed supplies, not just "start up" items, leaving some classrooms short.

Then, on January 3, 2002, without prior notice to or discussion with Barreto, Sarduy dispatched a memorandum to staff members regarding, among other things, "plan books and monthly supply requisitions". In it she stated that since there were insufficient supplies for all teachers, when they filled out their monthly request forms she would permit them to come to the supply room, and " . . . take whatever items you need from what we have". Sarduy also expressed to staff her concerns about plan books and her need for "clarification" from Barreto concerning them. Thus, Sarduy declared that since," ... I have not received any response [from Barreto], I will not check your plan book until further notice" (Ex. P-71a).

When Barreto saw the memorandum that day it was, she said, the first time she was even aware of respondent's intent to refuse to review plan books, one of the major duties Sarduy was expected to carry out (Ex. P-52). As Barreto put it, she was "very surprised". As a result, the principal immediately dispatched her own memorandum to Sarduy reiterating that respondent was obliged to review plan books and was also expected to handle discipline referrals (which she had also refused henceforth to do). Whether or not Sarduy agreed with these duties was, in the principal's words, " ... irrelevant to your job responsibility" (Ex. P-71b). With respect to supplies, Barreto directed respondent to continue to distribute them to staff and, "... not allow them to take whatever they wish from the closet." She concluded the memorandum with the observation that Sarduy's failure to abide by her directives would be considered, "... as "dereliction of duty and insubordination."

In order to be sure that Sarduy received her memorandum, Barreto put one copy in a sealed envelope and personally took it to Sarduy's office where she put it on respondent's desk. She placed another copy in a sealed envelope in respondent's mailbox. Later that day, Barreto found one of the unopened envelopes on her desk with the notation "refused" written on it and the initials "RS". Also written on the outside of the envelope was a handwritten directive to Barreto's secretary to give it to the principal, initialed by Sarduy (P 71c).

Because of the return of Barreto's memorandum in an unopened envelope on which Sarduy had marked "refused", Barreto then took yet another copy to Sarduy's office and hand delivered it to her. Later that day, Barreto received a ripped-up envelope (Ex. P 71d) inside another envelope which had Sarduy's handwriting on it stating, " ... the enclosed was left in my mailbox" (Ex. P 71e). See also, Ex. P-71.

As noted earlier, among other duties Sarduy was directed to carry out as assistant principal was the need to assure coverage in the cafeteria if the regularly assigned teacher would not be able to be there. On January 8, 2002, a teacher unexpectedly could not attend to her cafeteria obligation that day, having left work complaining of feeling ill. Sarduy was instructed to cover for her and went to the lunch area to do so. However, at some point during that period, Sarduy left the lunch room and went to Barreto's office where she told the principal she would not continue to undertake the coverage since she had received such late notice. The principal immediately directed Sarduy to return to her post since now it was left unsupervised. Later, before the lunch period ended, Sarduy returned to Barreto's office a second time and left a message which Barreto's secretary wrote down to the effect that she would not cover the cafeteria any further and Barreto, " ... can write [an] insubordination letter if you want" (Ex. P-71f). See also, Ex. P-71.

Charge Six involved the incident alleging rude and unprofessional conduct by Sarduy when the young student had not been picked up timely from school. Although Barreto was not present, she requested a written report concerning the incident from another teacher, Ms. Tavarez, who was there (Ex. P 71o). Tavarez (who later testified) wrote that on January 4, 2002, a family member who was supposed to pick up the child failed to arrive by 5:00 p.m. after everyone was gone. Tavarez could not contact the family because she did not have a telephone number to call. At that point, respondent happened to be driving past in her car and stopped to find out if there was a problem. When Tavarez explained the situation Sarduy contacted the local police who apparently told her it was not within their jurisdiction. Sarduy then decided that she would drive the child home herself and followed Tavarez who knew where he lived. When Tavarez, Sarduy and the young boy arrived at the home, a person who Tavarez believed was the child's aunt met them at the door. According to Tavarez's memorandum to Barreto, Sarduy, "... gave her [the aunt] a piece of her mind. She demanded that the child learned [sic] his telephone number and address. She also demanded that the child's parent report to her office on the next school day, Monday 1/7/02."

Further according to Tavarez's memorandum, no parent reported to school on January 7. On the following day, Sarduy told Tavarez to bring the child to her office where Sarduy told him that if his parent did not come in with him the next day he would not be allowed to return to school. Tavarez then went to the main office at Sarduy's direction and obtained a "stay-home" letter which the boy had to take home with him. Barreto later spoke to an adult relative of the pupil who complained that Sarduy had been "rude" when she brought the boy home and had "screamed" at the person there. (Ex. P-71).

Another allegation against Sarduy had to do with her unauthorized attendance at a conference. In order to attend, a staff member had to submit a request for approval to the principal. In mid-November 2000, Barreto rejected a request by Sarduy to attend a conference on November 16, 2000 (Ex. P 71i). Apparently, Sarduy sent another request to Barreto asking permission to attend the same conference which contained a handwritten notation along the margin that Barreto should be aware it was respondent's intention to attend in any case. As a result, Barreto wrote to the Superintendent, attached the request form, and indicated it was for the same conference that had been rejected the first time. Barreto explained that the rejection was due to the fact that Sarduy already was approved to attend a more appropriate conference the following month. Barreto later learned that Sarduy spoke to the Superintendent and claimed there had been some mistake, i.e., that the second request was for a different conference for which she had Barreto's approval. That was not true. The entire set of circumstances was, in the Barreto's view, insubordinate behavior.

Another charge discussed by Barreto was respondent's alleged non-compliance with the procedure for calling in expected absences in advance (Charge Five). Barreto explained that if a staff member expected to be absent, he or she was to call an answering service to provide all necessary information. Persons were to call as early as possible, but no later than 6:00 a.m. The answering service then provided a list of those who called to the school so steps could be taken to obtain substitutes. According to Barreto, on some occasions Sarduy never called and, as a result, Barreto had to dispatch memoranda to her complaining about that neglect. Barreto was particularly concerned since she and Sarduy were the only senior administrators in the building.

Yet another area of concern about which Barreto testified had to do with implementation of the "Success for All" model at School No. 6. According to Barreto, it essentially was a reading program and at the start of each day students in grades 1-3 spent 90 minutes receiving instruction in reading. A student who reported twenty minutes or more late to school would be required either to wait in the office or be sent home and told to return with a parent. Sarduy told Barreto she disagreed with the policy of not allowing students to go into the classroom, even if late, and Barreto suggested that Sarduy could see to it that the student was occupied with other work (Ex. P-62). Respondent, she said, refused to do so unless specifically instructed to do so by the Superintendent of Schools (Ex. P-71j).

With respect to that part of Charge Seven surrounding Sarduy's conduct at School No. 6, Barreto related that in early January 2002, she learned of an incident wherein Sarduy essentially "barged in" to a meeting being held by a child study team member with a classified student's parent and another staff member (Ex. P-71h). Sarduy, in their presence, had demanded to know why no placement of another student (who Sarduy brought with her) had not yet been made and his evaluation not yet completed. Although Barreto was not an eyewitness to the event, the child study team staff member directly involved, Robert Mendez, later testified and his testimony will be discussed infra.

In summary, Barreto related that Sarduy's overall conduct as her assistant principal, rather than "assisting", actually interfered with and obstructed the principal's ability properly to administer the school building - - her primary responsibility. As Barreto put it, Sarduy chronically was "undermining my authority" and was "insubordinate".

Another incident descriptive of this untoward behavior occurred on January 23, 2002, which Barreto memorialized in a critical memorandum to Sarduy a few days later (Ex. P-72). In that incident, the guardian of a student who had been suspended came to the main office to look at the student's folder. A paraprofessional was assigned to copy materials from that folder. When Barreto saw Sarduy in the hallway she saw that respondent had the original folder in her possession and she told Sarduy it should not have been removed from her office. Sarduy then began to yell at Barreto, complaining that the principal was preventing her from doing her job and was wasting time having copies made instead of observing teachers. In her memorandum, Barreto noted that Sarduy continued to shout at her in the presence of secretaries, the attendance officer, a paraprofessional and three parents in the office, all of which conduct was described as "unprofessional and most inappropriate."

On cross-examination, Barreto explained that she first learned Sarduy would be assigned to School No. 6 as her assistant about one week before respondent actually reported for work. Although Barreto heard that Sarduy had experienced "some difficulties" with individuals in other schools, Barreto did not want to dwell in the past and hoped to "start fresh." She recalled giving Sarduy a list of her duties (Ex. P-52) but did not remember exactly how long they spent discussing the items on it. She specifically mentioned to Sarduy that she would be trained in the "Success for All" model and told her there was an educational session which Sarduy was approved to attend in December. Although Sarduy wanted to attend an earlier training session, Barreto believed it to be "inappropriate" since it was on an advanced level and Sarduy first needed basic foundation knowledge.

With respect again, to the distressing incident involving the destruction of her reply memorandum to respondent on January 3, 2002, (Ex. P-71b), Barreto repeated that after the unopened envelope addressed to respondent was returned and left on her desk, she brought Sarduy a second copy which she believed was the ripped up copy later returned as well.

Concerning the 90-minute reading period that Barreto described as an essential part of the "Success for All" program, it was designed to begin at about 9:00 a.m. and a child who arrived after 9:15 a.m. or 9:20 a.m. would be directed to remain in the office or go home and return with a parent or guardian. Barreto agreed Sarduy took the position that a child should be receiving instruction from a teacher in class and not be made to stay in the office, but she had suggested ways that Sarduy could provide instruction to the late students in that situation. According to Barreto, the reason for the policy was to prevent children from coming to class late and disrupting the group.

Further with regard to lunchroom coverage, Barreto reiterated that if the assigned certified staff member could not be there it was imperative that proper coverage be provided since there are approximately 200 students present at the same time in need of supervision. It was, she said, Sarduy's absolute obligation to provide coverage if needed and she had no right to refuse to do so, whatever her reason. Although Sarduy did, at first, return to the cafeteria when told to do so by Barreto, apparently she stayed there for only a very short period and returned to Barreto's office before the period ended to announce she would not stay.

The next witness for the District was Josefa Tavarez, the teacher who accompanied Sarduy to the home of the child who had not been picked up when school ended. Tavarez waited with him outside school that day and Sarduy drove by in her car. After the assistant principal stopped to ask about the situation, she then went into the building to see if she could find a home telephone number. When she could not do so, she called the Passaic police, who apparently were unwilling or unable to provide help. As a result, Sarduy and Tavarez, in separate cars, drove to the boy's home where a woman who Tavarez believed identified herself as the child's "aunt" answered the door bell. Sarduy insisted that someone in charge of the boy come to school the next school day, using a tone of voice which Tavarez described as "a little high." The "aunt" seemed upset by the conversation and told Sarduy someone had gone to school to find him.

On the following Monday, when no parent or guardian came to school despite Sarduy's insistence, Tavarez was told by Sarduy to have a letter sent to the home directing that the child not return to school unless accompanied by a responsible adult. Tavarez was present when Sarduy told the boy he could not come back to school unless accompanied by a parent.

The next day (Tuesday) the boy's brother came to school to see Sarduy and Tavarez was called to the meeting. The brother was very upset because the "aunt" did not believe she had been spoken to properly by respondent. See, also, Ex. P-71(o).

The District's next witness, Roberto Mendez, is a school social worker who was in his first year of employment at School No. 6 during the 2001- 2002 school year. In January 2002, while meeting in his office with a classified student and a parent, Sarduy opened his door unannounced and interrupted the meeting. He recalled she had another student with her and expressed concern about that student - demanding to know why no out-of district placement had yet been secured for the student. Also, she threatened to take the matter to the Department and the newspapers if it was not resolved by "the following Monday."

Mendez insisted respondent came into the room unannounced and uninvited, accompanied by the other child. Although Mendez had been working on the student's case, Sarduy immediately demanded answers concerning the length of time the process was taking. He was very distressed that Sarduy would so freely discuss the particulars of another student's situation in front of other persons and was "shocked" and "taken aback by the whole experience". Even though only a first year employee, Mendez considered Sarduy's behavior to be so unprofessional that he personally apologized to the parent of the child with whom he was meeting.

The next witness, Lydia Agosto, is Barreto's secretary at School No. 6 and has been employed there for about 20 years. With respect to lunch duty coverage, it is Agosto's obligation to advise the principal if a teacher is not available so Barreto immediately could assign a certified person to provide the needed coverage.

One day in January 2002, a teacher who was assigned to cover one of the lunch periods became ill at work, which left a need for a substitute. Barreto told Agosto to page Sarduy and tell her to provide that coverage. Although Sarduy did go to the cafeteria in response to Barreto's directive, Sarduy shortly came to the office and told Agosto she would not remain on duty there because she was tired of being called so late. Agosto, at respondent's direction, wrote down Sarduy's exact words on a phone message slip (Exhibit P-71f). In the message, Sarduy told Agosto to tell Barreto that she would not provide coverage and Barreto could cite her for insubordination.

Agosto also observed the incident involving the student folder. When respondent insisted she wanted the original folder and Barreto said she could not release the original to her (suggesting she make copies), Sarduy become quite upset.

The next District witness was Linda Kowalski who is a school social worker employed for the past six years. She worked about twice a week at School No. 8 where Sarduy was employed in 1999-2000. On January 7, 2000, Kowalski had a meeting scheduled with a parent to discuss an initial evaluation but was not aware until that day that the regular classroom teacher would not be able to attend. Rather than cancel the meeting (both parents were there), she determined a replacement teacher could attend the meeting to provide input. When Kowalski asked Sarduy to assign someone to undertake that function, she was told by respondent that no one was available because there were too many people out that day and there should be no meeting without the regular classroom teacher in attendance.

Nevertheless, since the parents had taken the trouble to come to school for a meeting, Kowalski was intent upon going forward and enlisted the child's speech teacher (Mrs. Kurland) to come with her to the meeting. Toward the end of the session Sarduy came into the room and, as the parents were ready to leave, Sarduy asked them to sit down and inquired if they had received a copy of a parental rights booklet, which they had. After some further discussion, the parents left.

On the same day, Kowalski had another meeting scheduled with a parent which had been rescheduled for her from the previous day. Sarduy told Kowalski not to meet with the parent until she spoke to the Superintendent. Ultimately, respondent told Kowalski she could hold the meeting. Kowalski felt that Sarduy's actions that day were unnecessarily "confrontational" and her behavior was, in Kowalski's view, inappropriate. It was wrong, she said, to heighten tension when the purpose of the meetings was to ease fears. Kowalski also identified a memorandum she prepared describing the two incidents (Exhibit P-29).

The final District witness, Susan Kurland, is a speech specialist also employed at School No. 8 for the last six years. On January 7, 2000, she was approached by Kowalski who advised her that she needed a replacement to attend a meeting with two parents since the regular teacher was not there that day. Since Kurland had the student for speech therapy, and also had special education certification, she arranged to attend the meeting too. At some point before the meeting began, Sarduy approached both Kurland and Kowalski and, "in a loud manner," told them to cancel the meeting because she, Sarduy, had not been informed about it. Kowalski and Kurland held the meeting anyway since the parents had come to school and wanted this to take place. Sarduy came into the room toward the end of the meeting and began making comments in a "loud and demeaning" manner about how she "knew the law". At that point, a secretary called to inform Kowalski that a parent had arrived for a second meeting. Kurland planned to be there as well since it also involved a child to whom she had been giving speech instruction. Sarduy then stood up, pointed her finger at Kurland and declared, "no one is to leave the room". This was done in front of the two parents and was very upsetting. Sarduy told the two of them not to have the next meeting until she spoke to the Superintendent. Later, Sarduy reported she had in fact reached an Assistant Superintendent who said the meeting could take place after all. Kurland, like Kowalski, prepared a memorandum detailing the events (Exhibit P-30).

TETIMONY FOR RESPONDENT

Sarduy then testified on her own behalf. She obtained a degree from a college in her native Cuba in 1961 and came to the United States in 1969. She attended Montclair State College (now Montclair State University) where she obtained both Bachelor's and Master's degrees. She has several teaching and supervisory certifications, including Student Personnel Services, Assistant Superintendent and English as a Second Language. She also received one week of training at Yale University in the Comer methodology of Whole School Reform and had training in "Success for All" at Johns Hopkins University as well.

After coming to the United States and obtaining her degrees, respondent first taught at St. Joseph's High School in Paterson. She began teaching in Passaic in 1974. In 1977, she became a guidance counselor at Passaic High School and served in that capacity until 1993. Between 1993 and 1999, she held a variety of supervisory positions including Director of Guidance, Supervisor and Assistant Principal, first at School No. 10 in 1995-96. She was transferred to School No. 8 and in September 2000 received her assignment to School No. 6.

Sarduy reported to work at School No. 6 on September 11, 2000. She said she did not receive training nor special advice from Barreto concerning her responsibilities, although she did recall having a meeting, which lasted less than five minutes, at which Barreto merely handed her a list of duties and advised that the school was a "Success for All" school. Sarduy said she had no notice she was going to be assigned to School No. 6 until after school started in early September - no one had advised her before then – and she had no training or experience with "Success for All".

Respondent also explained that she has suffered from a variety of physical ailments, including fibromyalgia and depression, which cause her trouble in sleeping and to always function effectively. That is why she would be absent from time to time. She knew the call-in procedure if she was going to be absent and always did so. However, due to her varying illnesses, she would not always know far in advance how she would be feeling.

With respect to her January 3, 2002 memorandum to staff concerning supplies, plan books and discipline (P-71a), she explained that all three subjects were important to her. With regard to discipline, she was concerned that students referred to her likely were also in need of evaluation for behavioral problems and were being sent to her without consideration of their real needs.

With regard to inadequacy of supplies, prior to here assignment to School No. 6 Sarduy had never been involved with ordering supplies. When she arrived she found that there was not enough and she invited teachers to come and see for themselves. She insisted she never told the staff to take as many items as they wanted. Finally, with regard to her refusal to continue plan book review, she said she previously had questioned Barreto why lesson objectives were not required to be included, but since she never received any response she felt she could not properly continue to perform that duty.

Sarduy also explained that although she did find the reply memorandum from Barreto in her mailbox, she decided to return it unopened so that Barreto could tell her whatever she wanted to in person. In the past when she tried to have discussions with Barreto, the principal avoided meeting with her. Thus, by returning the envelope unopened it provided an opportunity for such a meeting. Only after she received a second envelope did she read the memo. She denied returning a ripped copy to Barreto's office.

With regard to the lunch period incident on January 8, 2002, on the day in question respondent only found out about the need for her to cover for an absent teacher at the last moment. Usually, she would receive a phone call from the office in advance. Thus, on this day, the request was "a big inconvenience" since she had to stop what she was doing, send the students with whom she was dealing back to their class, and then walk into the middle of a lunch period where it could be difficult to exercise control.

Specifically, Sarduy was about half-way through dealing with three students when she was advised to leave to go to the lunchroom. On her way there she was delayed when she had to stop in order to prevent some children from misconducting themselves. She then went to the cafeteria where she found only an aide in charge. Nevertheless, Sarduy shortly left to go to the principal's office to demand to know why only an aide was there. Although she conceded she was not comfortable about leaving the aide alone, she wanted felt so frustrated that she had to pursue the situation immediately with Barreto. When Barreto told her to return to the cafeteria, she did so. Sarduy estimated that she was gone for only two or so minutes.

With respect to the allegation that she refused to cooperate in preventing students who came late to school from going to reading class, she felt this rule was not educationally proper and had expressed concerns to Barreto about it. Sarduy felt it was unfair to penalize students who came late to school when, in many instances, it might have been their parents' fault. When Barreto ultimately did offer suggestions, including Sarduy having to provide instruction to the latecomers, respondent believed this now involved a "contractual thing" and wanted first to discuss the issue with the Superintendent.

Concerning Charge Four, respondent's alleged failure to perform observations of staff members at School No. 8 in 1999-2000, she said she told the Superintendent she could not continue to do them since one of the teachers given a bad rating by her in 1998-99 had succeeded in having herself removed from her list. The teacher, it seems, had complained that Sarduy was not truthful with respect to the observation and she (Sarduy) was asked to make changes on the observation. Thus, when the particular teacher was removed by Scozzaro, respondent considered this action to be detrimental to the integrity of the evaluation system; i.e., she would not be allowed to observe people who previously she had criticized. Sarduy insisted, however, that after being directed to do so by the Superintendent, she again began to perform the observations.

With respect to Charge Five, failing to call in some of her absences, Sarduy again denied she had ever failed to do so.

Concerning Charge Six – respondent's alleged rudeness when the young student was not timely picked up at school, respondent corroborated much of what Tavarez testified had occurred. When Sarduy was told by the person at the home that she was not in charge of the boy, Sarduy told her to have the parent call the school to provide an address and also that she wanted to see the parents personally to make them aware of the seriousness of the situation She conceded she might have been "firm" in her approach, but she was extremely disturbed by the incident and had tried to prevent it from recurring. Sarduy denied she was rude or abusive, and at no time was she ever upbraided or disciplined by Barreto for her conduct.

Insofar as Charge Seven involving her allegedly interrupting the meeting conducted by Mendez is concerned, Sarduy explained it as follows. A student she had counseled had been referred for classification and she believed the process was taking much too long. One day, when she again saw the student sitting idly outside the office, she decided she had to take matters into her own hands and took him with her to see Mendez. Respondent said that she first knocked on the door and asked if she could interrupt and Mendez told her that she could enter the room. Although there was a parent there, she asked him if he understood English, and when he said "no" she spoke to Mendez only in English and urged prompt action be taken with regard to the student. She agreed she told Mendez that if the problem was not solved by the following Monday, she would call the newspapers. However, Sarduy was very upset over the process taking so long. She fully understands she cannot barge into a meeting and denied that ever occurred.

Taking umbrage over the circumstances of her belated transfer to School No. 6 at the beginning of the 2000 – 2001 school year, Sarduy explained that in 1999-2000, after the principal at School No. 8 had become ill, and would not return, she and others had applied for the position. It was not until August 30, 2000, that she received a call from a secretary who told her Scozzaro, not she, would be selected. Respondent was particularly upset because even though she was the assistant principal at School No. 8 she had not even been interviewed. Although Sarduy received a letter from the Superintendent advising that administrators were to report on August 30, 2000, he had agreed that she would not have to report until September 2. When she did not report on that date either, the Superintendent wrote her to express his concern and he closed his letter with a request that she inform him of her intent regarding her assignment for the 2000-2001 school year (Exh. P-14). To that end, she identified another letter from the Superintendent, dated August 31, 2000, which directed her to meet with him on September 5, to discuss the assignment (Exh. P-50), which she did. Then, in a letter he sent to her on that date, the Superintendent confirmed their discussion and reiterated she would be transferred as an assistant principal to School No. 6 and should report there on September 7. In that letter the Superintendent explained that her transfer was necessitated by the Department of Education's denial of a District request to continue to fund her position at School No. 8 (Exh. P-51). Overall, Sarduy was miffed over her treatment and felt she was unfairly victimized by the late notice of her reassignment.

With respect, again, to the memorandum she sent to staff at School No. 6 on January 3, 2002 declining to review plan books, etc., Sarduy agreed she did not inform Barreto of that intent in advance, and never grieved it either. However, she felt she was placed in an awkward position regarding plan book review because Barreto told her one way to do it, and the central office told her another. Thus, she concluded it was in her best interest to refrain from doing it at all until the Superintendent cleared the matter up.

With regard to distribution of supplies, she again explained that her memorandum meant only that teachers should follow procedures and take what they need from her. As for her refusal to be involved in discipline referrals any further, Sarduy explained she took this position because students were being sent to her again and again who clearly needed screening for possible classification and should really not be treated as "discipline" problems at all. Thus, requiring her to discipline those students, whose needs were different, delayed the delivery of appropriate services to them and it was her intention to have superior authorities take notice of her concern.

Further with respect to the lunch duty coverage incident (Charge Two) Sarduy explained that she received Agosto's call in the middle of the period telling her to proceed to the lunchroom, which she did as soon as she could. When she arrived and found only an aide there, Sarduy felt she had to go to Barreto's office rather than wait until later since she was very upset over a situation which she described as "emergent." She agreed that in retrospect leaving the lunchroom was not the preferable course of action, but at the time felt she had no real choice. After she found Barreto and complained about having been called late yet again, she immediately returned as directed where, she said, the students were already in the process of leaving. She went back to tell Agosto that she was returning to her regular duties, but did tell Agosto to write down that Barreto could cite her for insubordination if she wished. Again, Sarduy was frustrated and upset at having been called to assist in the cafeteria in the middle of the period that day, which then required her to arrange coverage for three other students.

Concerning her alleged refusal to carry out teacher observations in 1999 – 2000 at School No. 8, Sarduy reiterated this occurred only after Scozzaro removed a teacher who had requested that she not be observed by respondent. According to Sarduy, it was unethical for Scozzaro to have acquiesced in that request and she told him what a poor precedent it would set and the untenable position in which she was placed. While Sarduy was aware that nontenured teaching staff members must be observed at least three times per year, she claimed she was not even requested by Scozzaro to do them in time to complete all three by April 15th. She was only able to start her observations in early March because, she said, she had not timely heard from the Superintendent about her complaint over the removal of the teacher from her list. Ultimately, the Superintendent told her to begin the observations (Exh. P-40).

With regard, again, to that part of Charge Seven involving her allegedly interrupting Mendez while he was involved with another student and a parent, Sarduy reiterated she was extremely concerned about the student she brought with her since she had never received a status report concerning what was being done to place him. At times, she would see the boy sitting in the office for hours at a time, doing nothing, and she felt she had an obligation to step in to speed up the process. Respondent insisted she did not "discuss" the student's case in the other parent's presence, she simply asked Mendez to see to it that the student received classroom instruction while waiting for a placement rather than being given nothing to do for hours at a time. When Mendez told her he had no idea when the placement would occur, she did tell him that she would call the newspapers if nothing was done by the following Monday and she conceded that Mendez possibly could have been intimidated by her demeanor.

DISCUSSION

As noted, seven tenure charges were certified to the Commissioner with respect to respondent's alleged unbecoming conduct and insubordination. They will be discussed in order.

Charge One alleged that during the 2001-2002 school year Sarduy engaged in conduct unbecoming a tenured teaching staff member by failing to perform her assigned duties. In particular, the charge related to the January 3, 2002 missive which Sarduy dispatched to School No. 6 staff members respecting three separate topics: (a) inadequacy of available supplies and their distribution; (b) review of teacher plan books; and (c) discipline cases referred to her (Ex. P-71a). This memorandum was sent by her without any meaningful prior discussion with the principal concerning the topics. Nor did Sarduy alert the principal in advance that she intended to send that memorandum.

At the outset, Sarduy advised staff members that since the school did not have enough supplies, when they filled out monthly request forms for supplies she intended to let them come on their own to the supply room and, "take what you need . . . ." In her second paragraph Sarduy specifically advised staff members that since September she had "some concerns about the plan books which I have asked on several occasions to be clarified by Ms. Barreto," and since Barreto had not given her a response she declared, "I will not check your plan book until further notice." Finally, Sarduy stated that, "I will not receive any discipline cases that you refer to me" and, further, that "My discipline records are not looked at and/or my opinion, suggestions or recommendations are not taken into consideration or asked at all."

At the very least, sending such a defiant memorandum to staff, especially without first discussing the topics in a meaningful way with Barreto, no less failing to alert her in advance that the memorandum was intended to be sent, was highly unprofessional. All three subjects were responsibilities which had been given to Sarduy, as Barreto noted in her reply memorandum (Ex. P-71b). As Barreto aptly pointed out in that memorandum, whether or not the two agreed on the issues, "is irrelevant to your job responsibility".

I totally agree with that observation. As Barreto noted, distribution of supplies in an orderly fashion was expected - it was not within Sarduy's province simply to allow teachers to come to the supply closet and take whatever they wished. So too, review of plan books and handling disciplinary referrals were vital matters which fell within the ambit of Sarduy's critical responsibilities as assistant principal. As Barreto explained, Sarduy's refusal to perform those duties, "must be viewed as a dereliction of duty and insubordination." Again, I agree. Decisions with respect to distribution of supplies, review of plan books and handling discipline cases referred to her were not to be made unilaterally by Sarduy, especially in a way that failed to accommodate her responsibilities as the assistant principal. To blatantly challenge her principal in this way was deliberately confrontational and bordered upon the appalling. With respect to her refusals vis-à-vis plan books and discipline, at least, Sarduy's behavior was palpably insubordinate.

As if sending the defiant memorandum to staff was not bad enough, when Barreto sent her reply memorandum to Sarduy concerning her expectations that respondent would continue to carry out her assigned duties, Sarduy's return of one of the opened envelopes to Barreto's secretary, upon which she had written "refused", was petulant and unprofessional. Worse yet, another copy of the memorandum delivered to respondent by Barreto was ripped into pieces and placed back on Barreto's desk (Ex. P-71d.) Although Sarduy denied that action (she admitted she ripped up a copy but said she disposed of it in the trash can), her testimony is not credible. Who else would do that? By her actions on this occasion respondent demonstrated inexcusable rage against Barreto and clearly conducted herself in a highly unbecoming manner. I believe it was Sarduy who saw to it that the ripped copy was returned to Barreto's office. Indeed, yet a third copy of the memorandum was ripped up (likely by Sarduy as well) and placed back in Barreto's mailbox (Ex. P-71e). Such juvenile conduct is inexplicable.

This entire unfortunate chain of events concerning the above incident clearly constituted unacceptable behavior by Sarduy. As assistant principal, she was obliged to carry out her assigned responsibilities in a civilized fashion. If she disagreed with either the substance of the responsibilities, or the process by which they were assigned, it was her obligation as a senior professional staff member with 25 plus years' experience to bring her concerns in a proper fashion to the principal so they could be calmly discussed. Sarduy's conduct went well beyond the range of acceptable responses and easily rose to the level of unbecoming and/or insubordinate conduct. Sarduy knew better than to behave in that childish fashion, and her inability to control herself, followed by her unacceptable behavior in ripping up copies of the memorandum, cannot be tolerated.

With respect to Charge Two concerning the cafeteria coverage incident on January 8, 2002, I believe that Sarduy's behavior in that regard was particularly inappropriate and also constituted conduct both insubordinate and unbecoming a professional teaching staff member. Regardless of her disgruntlement concerning "late" notice to her, once she arrived at the cafeteria and found there was no certified staff member present it was her primary duty to remain there to provide proper supervision. Leaving the scene and proceeding to Barreto's office to complain was unacceptable conduct under any circumstances. To abandon her post in order to make a point concerning late notice and/or inadequate coverage was an extremely poor exercise of judgment. To make matters worse, even after Barreto directed respondent immediately to return to the lunchroom, Sarduy again abandoned her post prior to the end of the period, returned to the principal's office, told Agosto she would not remain at the cafeteria and that she (Barreto), "can write insubordination letter if you want" (Ex. P-71f).

Particularly troubling about Sarduy's conduct on this occasion was the fact that even she acknowledged the real potential for danger that leaving 200 children in an unsupervised lunch area creates. As Sarduy herself observed, ". . . I was very afraid the student will have a fight, these are big, big boys - - sometimes they bring knives to the school and teacher, me and the students will see themselves and the whole cafeteria on the problem. I was very, very concerned about that." (Tr., June 5, 2003, p. 53-22 to -24.) For that very reason, Sarduy's leaving to go to Barreto's office to complain was extremely disturbing. That Sarduy, herself, knew her conduct was unacceptable (her comment to Agosto to write down "insubordination") reinforces my determination with respect to the unbecoming conduct committed by respondent as alleged in Charge Two. She abandoned her post not once, but twice, during the lunch period when obviously she could and should have remained to provide the coverage which even she agreed was necessary to prevent problems. Whether or not only an aide had been left to supervise the lunchroom in the past was not a justification or an excuse permitting Sarduy to act in the way she did.

Charge Three alleged that when Barreto asked respondent to assist in the implementation of certain aspects of Whole School Reform she responded that she would not do so unless specifically directed by the Superintendent. Testimony was received not only from Barreto with regard to School No. 6, but also from Scozzaro concerning conduct by Sarduy when she was his assistant at School No. 8. Because the testimony concerning the School No. 8 activities was too vague with respect to respondent's role, I will reject findings of culpability as it relates to her conduct in 1999-2000. On balance, while Sarduy may have been unfamiliar with some of the Whole School Reform requirements and/or unsure about the directives she was given pertaining to them, none of her conduct rises to the "unbecoming" level. While she might have been better advised to attempt to discuss the expectations concerning her participation in a more professionally apt fashion, her failure to do so is not a colorable offense.

Charge Four alleges that during the 1999-2000 school year, while serving as assistant principal at School No. 8 under the direction of Scozzaro, Sarduy unilaterally determined that she would no longer perform observations of teaching staff members. The charge continues that even after being directed by the Superintendent to perform those observations, and despite meetings with him as well as communications between them on the subject, respondent continued to refuse to carry out the assigned duty in timely fashion, if at all.

It is not entirely clear precisely when Scozzaro first instructed Sarduy to begin performing her observations with respect to half of the teaching staff members. However, since observations of non-tenured persons must be completed by April of any given school year, clearly the directions were given to her some months in advance. At some point, perhaps in December 1999 or January 2000, Sarduy expressed concern that one of the teaching staff members who she originally was assigned to observe had protested (because of a prior year's observation) and asked that her responsibilities with respect to observing that staff member be removed. When Scozzaro acquiesced in the teaching member's request not to be observed by Sarduy, respondent was disturbed over the propriety and the ethics of that determination and she decided in light of what she believed to be improper conduct by Scozzaro respecting the efficacy of the evaluation process not to carry out the observations (Ex. P-34).

Not unexpectedly, because she had declared she would not do any observations at all, the Superintendent directed Sarduy to meet with him on February 9, 2000 because he had, "serious concerns over several issues that are taking place". The meeting confirmed that Sarduy had determined not to conduct further evaluations.

Apparently, Sarduy nonetheless continued in her contumacious course of conduct not to observe, and in a letter from the Superintendent on March 1, 2000 (Ex. P-40) he pointed out to her that he believed the subject had adequately been addressed during their meeting in February and her obligation as assistant principal required her to perform observations as directed by Scozzaro. He concluded with the observation that, "I trust that I will not have to discuss this matter further".

Yet, even then, Sarduy either did not begin to conduct observations or stated that she would not since, just five days later, on March 6, 2000, the Superintendent sent her yet another letter pointing out her obligations to observe and requesting she meet with him on March 14, 2000 (Ex. P-41). At some point, thereafter, Sarduy apparently did begin to perform observations but, by then, there was inadequate time to do enough of them by April 15. While, technically, she may have performed the duty for a brief time, it was in an extremely limited, ineffective fashion and undertaken only after having been directed on more than one occasion to do so, not only by her immediate superior, Scozzaro, but by the Superintendent himself. Such conduct is both insubordinate and "unbecoming". Sarduy's role as assistant principal was to assist Scozzaro in the evaluation process, not create obstacles. While she may have had a valid complaint with regard to the propriety of removing a teacher from her list at the teacher's request, the self-help action she then took (refusing to conduct further observations at all) was not a tolerable alternative. It was her duty to perform as directed by her superior and she knowingly refused to do so. Placing her own needs ahead of the District's requirements was not an option.

Charge Five alleges that on "several occasions" respondent failed to give notice that she would be absent as required by District policy. While Barreto testified to some absences, the specific nature of the charge is limited to the procedure whereby staff members who expect to be absent must place a telephone call as early as reasonably possible to alert the central office or the school itself to the situation so that there will be time to obtain substitute coverage. The exhibits pertaining to this charge (Exhibit P-56, P-71K) relate to instances whereby Sarduy allegedly failed to provide that telephone notice (January 5, 2001 and September 12, 2001). It appears, as well, that a call she did make on January 4 regarding her absence was not made until shortly after 8:00 a.m.

For her part, Sarduy denied that she ever neglected to make phone calls to advise of her intended absences. On balance, given the relatively minor nature of the infractions (even if they occurred), I do not believe they rise to a level serious enough for me to determine that a tenure charge can be sustained. Thus, Charge Five should be dismissed.

Charge Six alleged that Sarduy performed in an unbecoming manner on the occasion when she had to take a child to his home because no one had picked him up after school on time and that she addressed an adult relative of the child in an "abrasive and unprofessional manner".

In my view, this charge cannot be sustained. First, respondent acted in an entirely appropriate fashion by stepping into a situation whereby a young child presumably was left "stranded" at school. She made proper inquiry to find out where he lived and whether he had a telephone so that a call could be made (apparently he did not), and she then attempted to enlist the aid of the local police, also to no avail. In order to safeguard the young boy, she and Tavarez accompanied him to his home and safely delivered him there. The only testimony with regard to the conversation Sarduy had on that occasion with the boy's "aunt" was offered by Tavarez and Sarduy. While Tavarez felt that Sarduy addressed the aunt in a "firm" manner, there is no direct evidence that she was rude, abusive or otherwise inappropriate in her remarks. Neither the "aunt" nor any other person testified concerning the conversation.

With regard to Sarduy's subsequent conduct in advising the boy he could not come to school unless he was accompanied by a parent or guardian, etc., this apparently was consistent with policy. While, on this occasion, as with many others, Sarduy could have acted in a less confrontational manner, her performance in respect to the entire incident does not rise to the level of unbecoming conduct. Thus, Charge Six should also be dismissed.

The last charge, Charge Seven, relates to Sarduy's conduct concerning child study team meetings. Although there was some general testimony on the subject by Scozzaro, Charge Seven does not relate to that testimony. Rather, it involves specific incidents which took place at School No. 8 during the 1999-2000 school year, and at School No. 6 in 2001-2002.

The first paragraph of Charge Seven relates to the incident at School No. 6 on January 4, 2002 whereby Sarduy, accompanied by a male student, interrupted a meeting conducted by Mendez with the parent of another child and began making demands concerning the status of the child who accompanied her. Whether or not Sarduy "barged in" to the meeting unannounced (which I suspect she did), or first knocked and asked permission to enter, is not that important. While she may have entertained legitimate concerns with respect to the lack of progress she believed had been made in finding a proper placement for a student, she had no business marching him down to Mendez's office, intruding upon another meeting with a parent, and in the presence of others demand that steps immediately be taken or she would complain to the press. As in several other instances, Sarduy let her emotions get the better of her judgment, and without thinking the matter through in a reasonable fashion, as she was expected to do, taking it upon herself to engage in publicly improper behavior which was inimical to the best interests of the school system.

Simply put, respondent had no business discussing another student's situation in the presence of other persons. Her explanation that she spoke in English and that the parent in the room with Mendez did not understand that language was woefully unacceptable. Making threats in front of the student, a teaching staff member and a parent having no connection with the case she wanted to discuss is beyond the pale of acceptable behavior – it clearly was "unbecoming conduct" within the meaning of the tenure statutes. Sarduy should have known better than to comport herself in such an outrageous fashion. As Mendez aptly observed, even as a first year employee new to the profession it was obvious that what he observed in respect to Sarduy's actions was highly unprofessional. As he testified, "I was very taken aback. . . . . Again, I - - that was my first year. . . . I just - - I was just very taken aback by the whole experience. You know, - - you know I just question the professionalism. And I - - you know, I kinda of - - I was just taken aback. I was just very in shock, I guess." (Tr., April 7, 2003, p. 10-13 to –18.) In fact, Sarduy's conduct was so disturbing that Mendez had to apologize to the parent for the outburst.

The second paragraph of Charge Seven relates to the events which took place at School No. 8 on January 7, 2000 when Sarduy attempted to cancel child study team meetings because she felt the absence of the regular classroom teacher was unacceptable. Testimony was received from Sarduy, of course, and also from the two staff members directly involved, Kowalski and Kurland. Without again going into detail concerning the events which took place, suffice it to say I do not believe that Sarduy's conduct on those occasions rose to a level justifying tenure charges for unbecoming conduct. While her activities generated a host of memoranda (see, e.g., Exs. P-29,P-30,P-31) the actual events only demonstrated that, at times, Sarduy could be abrasive, insensitive, and disagreeable. While clearly she may have exceeded tolerable limits on occasion, she did not do so with respect to the two meetings she attempted either to delay or cancel. Fortunately, neither meeting was cancelled and no untoward consequences occurred as a result of her actions. Thus, so much of Charge Seven as relates to the incidents at School No. 8 in January should he dismissed.

In reviewing the evidence related to the seven tenure charges, I have chosen not to discuss a variety of other incidents which were testified to during the hearings. I have attempted, instead, to relate my discussion directly to the specific allegations of the charges against which Sarduy was given a fair opportunity to defend. A broad series of minor incidents may, of course, provide a basis to prefer tenure charges. However, they must be more specific than appears in the charges in this case and, therefore, I have determined not to address them or to make any findings concerning them.

In summary, then, I have determined that the allegations against Sarduy contained in Charges One, Two and Four, and the first paragraph of Charge Seven have been sustained by a preponderance of the credible evidence. I have determined to recommend dismissal of the allegations contained in Charges Three, Five, Six and the second paragraph of Charge Seven.

PENALTY

Accordingly, there remains for consideration what penalty is appropriate for the findings of culpability that I have made in this case. Rosa Sarduy emigrated to the United States from her native Cuba after having been educated in that country in preparation for a teaching career. She obtained two degrees here, became employed in Passaic in 1974 and then served in a variety of responsible positions for over twenty-six years. In recent years she seems to have suffered from disabilities which may explain some of the problems which ultimately led to the instant proceedings. Nevertheless, she must account for the clearly unbecoming and persistent insubordinate conduct which I have found to exist in this case.

It is difficult to imagine what prompted someone with Sarduy's experience to behave the way she did on the occasions which led to these tenure charges. To dispatch a memorandum to staff members advising that henceforth she will not carry out her assigned duties, without even first discussing with Barreto both the substance of the communication and the fact that she was going to send it, is unfathomable. Unilaterally declining to review plan books or to engage in the student discipline process is particularly egregious conduct. At times Sarduy seemed intent upon exhalting her own interests over that of the District, and while her assignment to School No. 6 in 2000 was made in a manner which she felt to be precipitous, her disgruntlement with the process did not justify what she did thereafter. Assistant principals do not, as she did, decline to perform the responsibilities assigned to her by the principal, particularly where the two of them are the only administrators in an elementary school responsible for 800 students in kindergarten through sixth grade. Cooperation should be the hallmark of that relationship, not the defiance and confrontation which Sarduy seemed incapable of avoiding. It was not respondent's right to make up her own rules concerning distribution of supplies, and she had no business self-determining not to review teacher plan books or not to involve herself in disciplinary matters. Those were not her choices unilaterally to make. Although she claimed she attempted to discuss the matters with Barreto without success, the record is woefully inadequate in terms of what those efforts might have been. Even if respondent obtained less than satisfactory responses from Barreto, her proper course of action would have been to appeal to higher authority (as she seemed quite capable of doing on other occasions). Her memorandum of January 3, 2002 to the staff members at School No. 6 was not only unbecoming, it consisted, as well, of publicly insubordinate behavior which is not tolerable in any tenured teaching staff member, no less an assistant principal with over twenty-five years experience. Then, to make matters much worse, she deliberately and contumaciously ripped up memoranda delivered to her by Barreto concerning her misconduct. That infantile and petulant behavior was unbecoming and insubordinate in the extreme.

Of equally high concern was the behavior displayed by Sarduy with regard to the cafeteria coverage incident. She, herself, described the potential dangers which can arise when an experienced, certified teaching staff member is not present during a lunch period where 200 or more students are congregated in an informal setting like that. Despite her admitted awareness of the pitfalls, she left the cafeteria unsupervised by a certified person not once, but twice, in order to complain to the principal about being notified "late" (which could have waited) and/or about the lack of coverage by a certified person which she, herself, was creating. I cannot conceive of any justification for that unbecoming conduct, and the abandonment of her post a second time was insubordinate as well.

Another highly disturbing event was the occasion involving Sarduy's interrupting the meeting conducted by Mendez. Clearly, Sarduy had no business taking a student to a meeting while the parent of another child was there to discuss his own child's situation and berating Mendez for the alleged lack of action in connection with the child who accompanied her. Even if I assume that her dismay was justified (and the testimony in that regard is not at all clear), and even if the parent meeting with Mendez did not understand English, how a senior administrator with respondent's special education certification and employment experience can behave in that way almost defies description, no less comprehension. Even a first year employee like Mendez knew her behavior was shockingly unprofessional, and to his credit he apologized to the parent for what had taken place.

These several incidents, alone, under normal circumstances could justify the removal of a tenured teaching staff member. When, added to them, are the additional findings I have made with regard to some of the other behaviors exhibited by respondent, that outcome appears to be inevitable. No school district need tolerate the arrogant behavior displayed by Sarduy toward Scozzaro (if not the Superintendent as well) by refusing to carry out observations even though directed to do so, or towards Barreto (defying her instructions, dispatching critical memoranda to staff without first discussing them with the principal and defying Barreto to cite her for insubordination). Dismissal of tenured teaching staff members has been found appropriate in situations involving much less untoward conduct than that.

In determining what an appropriate penalty recommendation to the Commissioner should be, it is difficult to ignore the service Sarduy has given to Passaic for many years in a variety of senior positions. Recommending the removal of any tenured teaching staff member is a regrettable action under any circumstances.

Nevertheless, Sarduy's service to the District and the parents, students and taxpayers it represents, clearly was so severely compromised by her unbecoming conduct and insubordinate behavior as to justify that her employment relationship be severed.

Even accounting for Sarduy's passionate beliefs and her concerns for students, sadly her deficient and largely self-interested behavior provides an ample basis for her removal. Indeed, it was as if respondent had embarked upon an almost deliberate course of career self-destruction. No staff member, particularly an assistant principal, can act in the manner Sarduy did and logically expect to be retained in his or her employment. No tenured teaching staff member, no less an assistant principal, can so militantly defy lawful directives from a superior, by ripping corrective memorandum and return them in that condition to the superior, leaving a busy lunchroom unattended by a certified staff person to challenge her superior to cite her for insubordination, and by intruding into meetings involving child study team members and parents where she has no business to be and comporting herself there in an entirely unacceptable fashion. As an assistant principal with her years of experience, Sarduy knew better than to embark upon the stridently negative path she seems to have chosen. Teaching staff members, including assistant principals, are required to be role models for students and staff. They are not permitted to be so confrontational, deliberately obstreperous and fiercely insubordinate as she was. Many staff members with whom Sarduy came in contact were negatively impacted by her - teaching staff, clerical workers, principals, child study team members, and even the Superintendent of Schools himself. As noted by the District, tenured teaching staff members (be they teachers or administrators) are expected, not just requested, to exhibit self-restraint and controlled behavior and not act in such a way as to so consistently impact upon the morale or the efficiency of the department or school in which they serve in such counterproductive ways. The high standards expected of someone in Sarduy's position, beginning in 1999-2000 and continuing into 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 were not met by her and the inexorable consequence, given the proven charges, is her removal from her tenured position.

Accordingly, in light of the circumstances described herein, I ORDER that the respondent, Rosa Sarduy, be DISMISSED from her employment as a tenured assistant principal.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5474-02
AGENCY DKT NO. 154-5/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ROSA SARDUY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the District's reply thereto were filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were fully considered by the Commissioner in his determination herein.

Upon his full independent review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts of the hearing at the OAL,[1] the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that Charges 1, 2, 4 and the first paragraph of Charge 7 have been sustained by a preponderance of the credible evidence.[2] The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons fully and fairly presented on pages 29-32 of his decision, that the proven charges against respondent warrant termination from her tenured position.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons articulated therein. The Commissioner hereby directs that Rosa Sarduy be dismissed from her employment as a tenured assistant principal with the School District of Passaic as of the date of this decision.

[1] Hearing in this matter was conducted on December 3, 2002, January 22, 2003, March 7, 2003, April 7, 2003, May 28, 2003 and June 5, 2003.

[2] The Commissioner agrees, for the reasons aptly stated by the ALJ, that Charges 3, 5, 6 and the second paragraph of Charge 7 are appropriately dismissed.

A copy of this decision shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as that body deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 12/11/03

IN THE MATTER OF DR. JONATHAN HODGES, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that respondent Board member violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) of the School Ethics Act due to conflict of interest. A fellow Board member alleged that respondent had interest in a preschool that had a contract with the District and that he voted to approve payments to the preschool.

After considering the nature of the charges, and the fact that the preschool no longer was under contract to the District, the Commission recommended the penalty of reprimand. The Commission found that even though respondent sold his shares in the preschool, he held the note for the sale of his shares and had received at least one payment drawn on the preschool's general business account.

Upon review of the record, the Deputy Commissioner, whose decision was restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty, concurred with the Commission's recommendation and, thus, ordered respondent reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

DR. JONATHAN HODGES	:
PATERSON BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The above matter arises from a complaint filed by Paterson Board of Education (Board) member Juan Santiago on March 7, 2003, alleging that fellow Board member Jonathan Hodges, M.D., violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. Specifically, the complainant alleges that Dr. Hodges had interest in a preschool that has a contract with the District and that he voted to approve payments to the preschool in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) and (b).

Dr. Hodges filed an answer to the complaint on April 3, 2003 and filed an amendment to his answer on April 24, 2003. He admitted that he voted to pass resolutions during the Board meetings of September 18, 2002 and January 8, 2003, but was not specific as to the content of those resolutions. Dr. Hodges asserted that prior to his election to the Board, in April of 2002, he had a financial interest in the Kidz Pre-school Academy ("Academy"), but sold his interest in the Academy upon his election to the Board. He responded that he has had no role in the Academy's management, since that time. Dr. Hodges denies that he violated the Act.

The Commission invited the parties to attend its June 24, 2003, meeting to present witnesses and testimony to aid in the Commission's investigation. Mr. Santiago appeared represented by John D. Lynch, Esquire. The Commission also heard testimony from his witness, Toni Scholing, an internal auditor with the Board. Dr. Hodges appeared represented by Joel M. Miklacki, Esquire. Joseph Atallo, a member of the Board, was also present, as witness for Dr. Hodges. After hearing testimony, the Commission tabled the matter.

At its public meeting on July 22, 2003, the Commission found probable cause that Dr. Hodges' conduct was in violation of the Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) and (b) of the Act. The Commission asked Dr. Hodges to file a written submission in response to the finding of probable cause. He was also asked to comment on the appropriate penalty should the Commission determine that he violated the Act. Dr. Hodges filed a timely response. After consideration of Dr. Hodges' response to its probable cause decision, the Commission found, at its meeting of September 23, 2003, that Dr. Hodges violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a), but that he did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and dismissed this charge against him.

FACTS

The Commission find the following facts to be undisputed.

Dr. Jonathan Hodges was elected to serve on the Paterson Board of Education in April 2002. He and Malikah Abdulla incorporated Kidz Academy in the State of New Jersey in 1996 to provide daycare and after school care for children. Dr. Hodges and Ms. Abdulla were the two sole shareholders. The Paterson School District became an "Abbott" District in 1989 and, therefore, became entitled to receive State funding. In 1999, 2000 and 2001 the Academy contracted with the Paterson School District to provide pre-school services. The Academy was allotted a total of $354,000 in State funding for the 2001-2002 school year. Dr. Hodges was designated a salary of $30,000 for the same year, as the Academy's Chief Financial Officer.

In April 2002, Dr. Hodges was elected to the Board. On April 23, 2002, Dr. Hodges executed an agreement to sell his 500 shares in the Academy to Ms. Abdullah, who was the executive director of the Academy at that time. The agreement stipulated that the purchase price for the 500 shares was $500,000 to be paid in installments of $2,777.78 per month, with interest, commencing June 1, 2002 and concluding June 1, 2017.

In January 2003, the District prepared an audit of Kidz Academy which revealed that Dr. Hodges received a check from the Academy in the amount of $2,500, dated September 6, 2002. The memo at the bottom of the check notes it as a "mortgage payment." In his certification, Dr. Hodges indicated that Ms. Abdullah has other businesses that she runs in addition to the Academy that have no connection with the Board. He asserted that for business purposes, Ms. Abdullah channeled the proceeds of these businesses into the Academy's general business account.

Dr. Hodges testified that he advised the Board that for one year he would not vote on matters regarding early childhood education in an effort to avoid the appearance of conflict. At the Board's September 18, 2002 meeting, Dr. Hodges voted to pass a resolution to pay vendors' bills, including the payment of $52,115.40 to the Academy. Dr. Hodges also voted to approve the payment of $52,115.40 to the Academy at the Board's January 8, 2003 meeting.

The Board did not renew its contract with Kidz Academy for the 2003-2004 school year.

ANALYSIS

The Commission found probable cause that Dr. Hodges violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) and (b) of the Act. Section (a) provides:

> No school official or member of his immediate family shall have an interest in a business organization or engage in any business, transaction, or professional activity, which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest.

The Commission noted in its decision on probable cause that under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, "interest" is defined as the ownership or control of more than 10% of the profits, assets, or stock of a business. While Dr. Hodges agreed to sell his 500 shares in the Academy to Ms. Abdullah for $500,000, the agreement stipulated that the payments were to be made in installments of $2,777.78 per month for a period of 15 years. As a result, Dr. Hodges holds the note for the sale of his shares. The Commission also recognized that Ms. Abdullah has only been paying on the note for one year. The Commission found that the note is an asset. Therefore, in its probable cause decision, the Commission found that Dr. Hodges held an interest in the assets of the Academy, due to the agreement, which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest.

In his response to the Commission's probable cause decision, Dr. Hodges argues that he divested all of his interest in Kidz Academy. He indicates that in exchange for the relinquishment of his interest and control of the business, he received an unsecured Promissory note from Malikah Abdullah. Dr. Hodges argues that the note does not provide for the return of stock or control of Kidz Academy upon default, is not collateralized with any security against the business and is not contingent upon Kidz Academy continuing to do business with the Board.

The Commission acknowledges the agreement binding Ms. Abdullah and not the Academy. However, the Commission recognizes that upon the default of the agreement, Dr. Hodges would have a legal claim to Ms. Abdullah's assets, which include the Academy. The Commission recognizes that Dr. Hodges does not currently hold interest in the Academy. However, it is undisputed that Dr. Hodges received at least one check from Ms. Abdullah that was drawn on the general business account of the Academy. The Commission finds that this one transaction was in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of Dr. Hodges' duties in the public interest, since the Academy receives funding from the District. The Commission, therefore, finds that Dr. Hodges violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a).

The Commission also found probable cause to credit the allegation that Dr. Hodges voted to approve the payment of $52,115.40 to the Academy in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b), which provides:

> No school official shall use or attempt to use his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for himself, members of his immediate family or others.

The Commission reasoned that there was sufficient evidence that Dr. Hodges used his official position to ensure that by voting on the payments, Ms. Abdullah could continue to pay him. In his response to the Commission's probable cause decision, Dr. Hodges asserts that the vote to pay the Academy "was not a preferential vote, but was one of hundreds of vendor bills approved for payment." Dr. Hodges argues that he did not use or attempt to use his position to secure unwarranted advantages or privileges.

The Commission is persuaded by Dr. Hodges' argument and finds that there is insufficient information to demonstrate that he cast the aforementioned vote to use or attempt to use his official position to secure an unwarranted advantage for himself or others. Therefore, the Commission finds that Dr. Hodges did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Dr. Hodges violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a). The Commission, however, finds that Dr. Hodges did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and dismisses this charge against him.

PENALTY

Based on the findings set forth above that Dr. Hodges received funds drawn on the general account of the Academy, which was a vendor of the District, the Commission found that Dr. Hodges violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a), and should receive a reprimand. This penalty is warranted in that Dr. Hodges must be admonished that his action was wrong and that the Commission will not tolerate such action from him or others. The Commission does not recommend a higher penalty in this instance because it is mindful that Dr. Hodges initially took precautions to try to comply with the law. The fact that the Board no longer contracts with the Academy should preclude future conflicts. Therefore, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of a reprimand in this matter.

This decision, having been adopted by the Commission, shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, the respondent may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Resolution Adopting Decision – C13-03

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties, the documents submitted in support thereof; and the testimony, and,

Whereas, the Commission found that Dr. Jonathan Hodges violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) of the School Ethics Act, but found that he did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and dismissed the charges against him; and

Whereas, the Commission believes that the penalty of a reprimand is the appropriate sanction for Dr. Hodges;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter finding the respondent in violation of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose the penalty of a reprimand.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairman

I hereby certify that the School
Ethics Commission adopted this decision at its public meeting on October 31, 2003.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 401-10/03

IN THE MATTER OF DR. JONATHAN HODGES, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The Deputy Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33, has reviewed the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) and the record of this matter. The matter comes before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1 to impose a sanction upon respondent, a member of the Board of Education of the Paterson State-operated School District, based on the Commission's finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act. Specifically, the Commission found that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) by maintaining an interest, through receipt of a Promissory Note payment drawn on the general business account of the program, from the new owner of a daycare/after-school program formerly co-owned by him and performing, during the time relevant to these proceedings,[1] under a contract with the District. For that violation, the Commission recommended that respondent be reprimanded.

Respondent filed a timely comment on the Commission's decision, wherein he notes his continuing disagreement with the Commission's interpretation of "interest" as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a), but indicates that, if the Commission's interpretation is accepted, the recommended reprimand is a fair penalty for the violation found. (Respondent's Comment at 1)[2]

At the outset, the Deputy Commissioner emphasizes that, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, only the School Ethics Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act has occurred, and that the Commission's decision in that regard, including its underlying conclusions of law, is not reviewable by the Commissioner. Rather, the Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to review of any sanction the Commission may recommend based upon its determination that a school official has violated the Act.

Given the limitations of the Commissioner's review and upon full consideration of the record in this matter, the Deputy Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the Commission's recommended sanction, which fairly considers both the nature and the circumstances of respondent's offense.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's residency determination that his brother, A.J., who came from the Palestinian area of Ramala, Israel, to live with him, was not entitled to a free public education under the "affidavit student" provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

The ALJ concluded that A.J., an American citizen, was entitled to a free public education in the District since he came to live with petitioner due to legitimate family or economic hardship and not solely in order to attend school in the District. Moreover, petitioner provided all of A.J.'s financial support. The ALJ granted petitioner's request that A.J. be permitted to attend school in the District without cost for the period from October 11, 2001 to April 17, 2003 and dismissed the Board's counterclaim for tuition.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as his own.

Record closed: October 30, 2003 Decided: November 6, 2003

BEFORE ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ:

Petitioner, K.J., appealed the determination by respondent, Board of Education of the City of Clifton (Board/District), that his minor brother, A.J., was not entitled to a free public education in the District. Petitioner claimed that the minor child was entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). Respondent answered that the application had not shown family or economic hardship or otherwise satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). On September 25, 2001, the Board denied petitioner's application to have A.J. admitted to school in the District. On October 3, 2001, K.L. appealed the Board's denial pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 concerning this residency dispute. A.J.. was permitted to attend school in the District during the pendency of the appeal, commencing October 11, 2001. On November 9, 2001, the Board filed an answer denying the allegations in the petition, with a counterclaim for tuition.

On November 29, 2001, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for August 8, 2002. Petitioner failed to appear on the hearing date. Counsel for respondent requested relief pursuant to the counterclaim for tuition. Respondent was to submit an affidavit in support of the application for tuition to the undersigned. No affidavit being received, the matter was rescheduled for hearing on the matter. After several adjournments, petitioner contacted the OAL and advised that he had not received notice of hearing in the matter. He had moved and no notices were received at that new address. The matter was rescheduled for hearing for July 17, 2003. At the hearing, petitioner requested additional time to retain an attorney. Since petitioner had moved from the district and the claim for tuition was fixed at the period from October 11, 2001 to April 17, 2003, an adjournment was granted. Charles Ira Epstein, Esq. entered an appearance on behalf of petitioner and the matter was rescheduled for September 16, 2003. At the conclusion of the hearing, the record remained open for the receipt of an amended affidavit regarding the per diem tuition charges in the District for the relevant time period. The affidavit was received on October 30, 2003. Thereafter, the record was closed.

STIPULATED FACTS

The parties agreed and stipulated that the minor student, A.J., was domiciled in Clifton and attended school in the District from October 11, 2001 to April 17, 2003.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Respondent called no witnesses but introduced documents in evidence. Included in the documents moved into evidence are the Affidavit of Karen Perkins, Business Administrator and Board Secretary for the Clifton Board of Education (R-1).[1] Additionally, respondent introduced the application submitted by petitioner (R-2), the letter from petitioner to the Commissioner of Education, requesting an appeal of the determination of the Clifton Board of Education (R-3), and the letter of determination by the Clifton Board of Education dated September 25, 2001 (R-4).

Testimony

T.J.

T.J., sixty years of age, is the father of petitioner, K.J., and the minor student, A.J. He is an American citizen who has resided in Ramala, Israel, since 1982. He lives there with nine family members for whom he is the sole means of support. Living with him are his wife and twelve-year-old son, B.J. Also living with them are his mother, two sisters, a sister-in-law and her three children. They live in an apartment with two bathrooms and three bedrooms. He indicated that there is little space for all of the family members. He is a teacher earning $1,200 per month. He has no other means of support or income. The household spends approximately $700 per month for food, $200 for insurance, and $300 for telephone and utilities. Often, he must borrow money from others to meet financial obligations.

The witness testified that he has three sons living in the United States. They are K.J., 26 years of age, and his brother, A.J., as well as another son, R.J., who is 27 years of age and also lives in Clifton, New Jersey. Both K.J. and R.J. came to the United States to live when they turned eighteen years of age. The minor son, A.J., came to the United States when he was fifteen years of age. None of the sons has any plans to return to Israel to live. The witness testified that he provided no financial support for A.J. and that A.J. is supported solely by his brother, K.J. In fact, K.J. had to pay for the father's trip to the United States.

K.J.

The witness testified that he is the brother of the minor, A.J. He is employed as a salesman and is the sole support for A.J. He has been the sole support for his brother since he came to the United States to live. He testified that he would continue to support his brother beyond school years. In fact, his brother left school without graduating in April 2003 and K.J. has continued to support him. The witness testified that he receives no financial help in supporting his brother.

He further testified that his brother could not stay in Israel because of the situation there. The country is confronted with what was described by the witness as war. A.J. will have a better life in the United States.

K.J. himself came to the United States in 1994. His older brother had previously moved to the United States when he turned eighteen years of age. They each graduated from high school in Israel before coming to the United States. Only the younger brother, A.J., had not yet graduated before coming here.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and to assess their credibility, I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

1. The minor child, A.J., was born on February 3, 1986.

2. His father, T.J., is an American citizen living in Israel, along with nine other family members, in a three-bedroom, two-bathroom apartment. They are his wife, son, mother, two sisters, a sister-in-law and her three children.

3. T.J. is a teacher in Israel, earning $1,200 per month. He is the sole support for the family members living together in Israel.

4. The family has monthly expenses of approximately $700 for food, $200 for insurance, and $300 for telephone and utilities. T.J. has difficulty supporting his family in Israel.

5. T.J. has three sons living in the United States. R.J. is 27 years old and living in Clifton, New Jersey.

6. K.J. is 26 years old and is also living in Clifton, New Jersey.

7. Both R.J. and K.J. came to the United States at the 18 years of age after graduating high school in Israel.

8. A.J. came to the United States when he was 15 years old, not yet having graduated from high school. He went to live with his brother, K.J., who has supported him since that time.

9. K.J. receives no remuneration for caring for A.J. and provides support and care for him gratis.

10. A.J. has no plans to return to Israel to live.

11. A.J. left high school before graduating in April 2003.

12. A.J. has continued to live with and to be supported by K.J. since that time.

13. A.J. attended school in the District for 157 days in the 2001-2002 school year.

14. The tuition cost for A.J. at Clifton High School for 157 days during the 2001-2002 school year was $7,264.74.

15. A.J. attended school in the District for 132 days in the 2002-2003 school year.

16. The tuition cost for A.J. at Clifton High School for 132 days during the 2002-2003 school year was $4,922.57.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The State of New Jersey provides that "public schools shall be free to ... any child who is domiciled within the school district." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). The domicile of a minor child follows that of his parents. See V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamburg, 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286. The applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1, reads in pertinent part:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the District, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled in the District and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligation for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parents or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economical hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the District solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the District. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statement, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

Therefore, the evidence must show that (1) petitioner is domiciled within the District; (2) petitioner is supporting A.J. gratis; (3) A.J.'s parents are not capable of supporting or caring for him due to family or economic hardship; and (4) A.J. is not residing with petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District. Petitioner has the burden of proof to demonstrate family or economic hardship.

The position of the Board is that K.J. has not established that the parents have shown that they were incapable of supporting or providing care for A.J. due to a family or economic hardship. In J.B. v Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Ocean, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU), rev'd, Comm'r of Educ. (March 25, 1996), rev'd, State Bd. of Educ. (Oct. 2, 1996), on remand, Comm'r of Educ. (Feb. 11, 1997), the Commissioner found that family strife had a detrimental affect on the student suggesting that the "parents, sadly, are incapable of meeting his emotional, social, and developmental needs." Having determined by prior decision that these unique and compelling circumstances constitute family hardship, the Commissioner clarified on remand that for the above reasons, J.B.'s parents were not capable of providing care for him at the/that time due to such family hardship pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). Id.

Where no hardship exists, the law requires that the resident shall be assessed tuition prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1, further reads in pertinent part:

> Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced.

CONCLUSIONS

In the instant matter, the Board maintained that no family hardship was shown. The undisputed facts indicate that the situation is to the contrary. The family hardship here is that the parents were unable to provide sufficiently for A.J. to the extent that he came to a foreign country to live with a brother so that he would have a decent place to live. There is no evidence that A.J. moved for the sole purpose of attending school in the District. Indeed, A.J. moved to Clifton primarily because the brother lived there, not to avoid attending school in another district in the State. Moreover, there was no other district in the State where A.J. was eligible to attend school at the time, under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. I CONCLUDE that the compelling circumstances in this case rise to a level of family and economic hardship that meets the standard of the statute. "To hold otherwise harms a party the Legislature never meant to penalize ... and overlooks the substantial state interest in ensuring the education of all its children ... ." Gundersen v Bd of Educ of the City of Brigantine, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 39, 42. In Gundersen, in finding hardship in a child's reaction to marital conflict, the Commissioner quoted his previous decision with approval. "In interpreting a statute, the Commissioner must look to the fundamental purpose for which the legislation was enacted, and where a literal reading will not accord with that purpose, the spirit of the law will control over its letter. Moreover, the meaning of a statute is to be gathered from the mischief sought to be eliminated as well as the proposed remedy."

The amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 > were intended to ease the burden on local boards of education attempting to remove illegally enrolled students, specifically those living with a parent or guardian who claims to be, but is not, domiciled within the district, and those living with a person other than the parent or guardian in order to obtain the benefit of a free public education in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile ... . The intent of the "affidavit student" law is not now, and never has been, to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be as contemplated by the statutory scheme ... .

The undisputed evidence showed that petitioner has taken A.J. into his home indefinitely to provide him with the necessities of life that the A.J.'s parents were not able to provide him in Israel. Hence, there was no goal of the family to move from one school district in New Jersey to another, which was a major reason for the stringent amendments to the law. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, Legislative Statement. There was no evidence that this arrangement was entered into fraudulently for the purposes of obtaining a free public education in the District. Finally, A.J. is an American citizen, imbued with the same right to a free public education as any other citizen.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) in that petitioner was domiciled within the District; was supporting A.J. gratis; the parents were incapable of supporting A.J. in their own country due to economic hardship, and A.J. was not residing with petitioner solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the District. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that A.J. met the requirements of an affidavit student pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) and was therefore entitled to a free public education in the District during the 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 school years.

ORDER

For all of the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that the determination of the Board of Education of the City of Clifton is and shall be REVERSED. Petitioner's request to allow A.J. to attend school in the respondent District without cost for the period from October 11, 2001 to April 17, 2003 is GRANTED. Respondent's counterclaim for tuition is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter,[1] the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has demonstrated that: 1) he is supporting his brother, A.J., gratis; 2) A.J.'s parents are incapable of supporting A.J. and caring for him in their own country due to economic and family hardship; and 3) A.J. is not residing with petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District. A.J. was, therefore, entitled to attend school in the Board's District, free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq., during the period from October 11, 2001 to April 17, 2003.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

Record Closed: October 29, 2003 Decided: November 3, 2003

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This tenure matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law on April 3, 2003, following the certification of tenure charges by petitioner Board of Education of the School District of the City of Jersey City versus respondent, Anne McAlary, a tenured teaching staff member. A plenary hearing was scheduled to be commenced before the undersigned administrative law judge in August 2003 but was adjourned in advance of that date in light of the pendency of an application by respondent for an ordinary disability retirement.

Subsequently, a Stipulation of Settlement containing the terms and conditions of an agreement between the parties to resolve the dispute was submitted to me for review.

I have reviewed the attached Stipulated of Settlement submitted by the parties and find that it fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law. In particular, respondent acknowledges that by entering into this settlement she understand that the Commissioner must approve and that he could refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of her certificate. Also, the stipulation sets forth that the school district believes that the withdrawal of the tenure charges and resolution of the matter without the need for hearing would serve the public interest in light of the background circumstances involved.

The parties voluntarily have agreed to the terms of the settlement as is evidenced by the signatures appearing thereon.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ANNE McALARY	:	Agency Ref. No. 94-3/03
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF JERSEY CITY	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, Anne McAlary has been employed as a school nurse by the Jersey City School District since September 1, 1986; and

WHEREAS, the District filed charges with the Commissioner of Education on March 19, 2003, to terminate the employment of Ms. McAlary for excessive absenteeism and unbecoming conduct; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund acted on September 4, 2003, to approve Ms. McAlary's application for retirement on ordinary disability, effective retroactively to March 1, 2003; and

WHEREAS, Ms. McAlary's retirement from the District's employment renders the charge of excessive absenteeism moot, Barshatsky v. Freehold Reg'l High School Dist., 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 71, 73; and

WHEREAS, the charge of unbecoming conduct was based upon (1) an alteration in the beginning date of a medical leave of absence for Ms. McAlary in November 2001;

(2) two appointments for Ms. McAlary with Board physicians which were not kept; and (3) absence without approved leave; and

WHEREAS, Ms. McAlary has explained, in her certified answers to interrogatories, that (1) the date on the medical leave of absence submitted in September, 2001 was changed by her personal physician as a correction of dates; (2) she was unable to keep one of the two appointments with Board physicians because she received only two days' notice and was concerned with the terminal illness of her brother, and she was unable to keep the second appointment because of her own illness at the time; and (3) the applications for medical leave which she submitted were denied, and hence she was considered absent without leave, only because of her missed medical appointments and because of the change in date on the November 2001 submission; and

WHEREAS, Ms. McAlary's certified answers to interrogatories provide satisfactory explanations sufficient to negate the charge of unbecoming conduct; and

WHEREAS, the public interest would be best served by a withdrawal of the tenure charges and resolution of the matter without further adjudicatory proceedings; and

WHEREAS, Ms. McAlary acknowledges that she clearly understands the terms of this settlement agreement, that she entered into the settlement agreement voluntarily, that she was advised and understood that the Commissioner of Education had to approve the settlement agreement and that she was also advised and understood that the Commissioner could refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of her certificate;

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties have agreed to the following terms of settlement:

1. The respondent Anne McAlary resigns from employment with the Jersey City School District on retirement, effective March 1, 2003.

2. The petitioner Jersey City School District agrees to accept Ms. McAlary's resignation, and agrees to withdraw the tenure charges bearing the OAL Docket Number EDUTH-03400-03N and the Agency Reference Number 94-3/03.

RE: TPAF 399478

DATE: September 4, 2003

SUBJECT: APPROVAL OF DISABILITY RETIREMENT APPLICATION

The Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund Board of Trustees at its meeting onSeptember 4, 2003, approved your application for Ordinary Disability Retirement effective March 1, 2003, under Maximum. You have the right to withdraw, cancel, or change your retirement application provided you notify the Division of Pensions and Benefits within 30 days of the date of the Board's approval or your retirement date, whichever is later; otherwise, the retirement will stand as approved and cannot be changed for any reason.

If you continue to receive a salary beyond the effective date of retirement, no retirement benefits shall be paid for the period where you received salary and no salary or service credit shall be provided for the service rendered after the approved effective date of retirement. In addition, your employer shall be required to complete an updated Certification of Service and Final Salary.

Your retirement allowance as a disability retirant is subject to adjustment if your earnings from employment after retirement exceed the difference between the pension portion of your retirement allowance and the salary attributable to your former position.

The statute permits the Board of Trustees to require a disability retirant to undergo annual medical examinations to determine if she/he continues to be totally and permanently disabled and therefore eligible for continued receipt of his/her disability retirement allowance.

If you were required to purchase service credit in order to qualify for your retirement, you must complete the purchase transaction before your retirement benefit can be paid.

The Board has waived the 30-day waiting period for all Retirements with an effective date of March 1, 2003, and earlier. However, the processing of your retirement allowance will take approximately 2 to 4 weeks.

Your file is being transferred to the Retirement Bureau to implement the Board's decision.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents challenged the Board's decision denying their request to relocate their children's bus stop at the intersection of Carlisle Place Road and Route 47. Rather, they sought relocation closer to their home on Carlisle Place Road, an unpaved, gravel road.

Having considered the testimony of witnesses and the record, including the video tapes and exhibits presented, the ALJ determined that petitioners failed to prove that the Board's actions were improper. The ALJ found that he could not substitute his judgment for that of the Board; that the Board's judgment was based on a professional evaluation of all of the surrounding circumstances; and that said judgment was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, nor was it discriminatory. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

Frank DiDomenico, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: October 28, 2003 Decided: November 10, 2003

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

The New Jersey Department of Education Bureau of Controversies received a request for relief on March 6, 2003. Petitioners assert that respondent, Maurice River Township Board of Education, arbitrarily refused the relocate a school bus stop. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 20, 2003. The Director of the OAL assigned the undersigned to hear this matter pursuant to pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing telephone conference was held on June 24, 2003. A plenary hearing was conducted on September 4, 2003. The evidentiary hearing concluded on that date.

The matter was carried until October 3, 2003, so that petitioners could present their motion for reconsideration to the district. It was previously presented to the district in February 2003, but certain facts and pertinent engineering information was held back. It was held back under the advice of counsel due to pending litigation. During the evidentiary hearing, it was apparent the Board did not consider a letter from the Township Engineer that directly addressed a question regarding the adequacy of the road and location of the bus stop proposed by petitioners. Therefore, the district did not consider all of the information offered by petitioners at the time the motion for reconsideration was denied. Accordingly, in order to avoid any procedural issues, the motion, with all supporting documents, was re-offered to the Board for its consideration.

The Board considered the matter at its September 16, 2003, meeting. The Board voted not to alter its original decision. Post hearing briefs were submitted on September 30, 2003, (respondent) and October 27, 2003 (petitioner). Additionally, the minutes from the Board of Education meeting, as well as a video tape of the September 16, 2003, meeting, were submitted on October 28, 2003. (C-2, P-8)

SUMMARY OF RELEVANT FACTS

Petitioners, Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, (hereinafter "petitioners or Bailey") are the parents of two children, ages 9 and 13, both whom attend the Maurice River Township Public Schools (hereinafter "respondent, Board or district"). They are currently in eighth grade and fourth grade. Petitioners live on Carlisle Place Road, Maurice River Township, New Jersey.

Carlisle Place Road is a Township dedicated roadway, which is unpaved and has a gravel surface. Petitioners are concerned for the safety of their children. They must walk approximately one mile down Carlisle Place Road to the nearest bus stop. The unpaved road is not well marked in terms of traffic safety devices. It does not have a signage for speed, guardrails, sidewalks or other similar safety devices. Carlisle Place Road is not well lighted. During rain, snow or ice the road becomes filled with potholes and the surface becomes bumpy, much like rumble strips found on the shoulder of highways. The Township has the responsibility to maintain the roadway. The testimony revealed that the Township performs a reasonable job maintaining the gravel road. Nevertheless, petitioners urge that it is not safe for their children to walk one mile to the bus stop in view of the aforementioned conditions. Petitioners's explored other options, but were unable implement any other alternative. For instance, petitioners both work in the morning and therefore they cannot oversee the bus pick up. Presently, the children's grandmother must drive them to petitioner's sister's house where they are picked up by a school bus. They also explored a developing a bus turn-a-round in front of the home, unsuccessfully.

During August 2002, petitioners appeared before the Maurice River Township Board of Education requesting a change of the school bus stop. The Bailey children's bus stop was and is located at the intersection of Carlisle Place Road and Route 47 (Delsea Drive). Carlisle Place Road extends approximately two miles between Route 47 and Route 347. Route 347 is recognized as a high fatality road; therefore, the Board does not schedule any bus stops on Route 347. The Baileys appeared before the Board on several additional occasions between September and December 2002, with regards to the bus stop issue. They urge that Carlisle Place Road is safe for a school bus.

Petitioners regularly drive this road and are familiar with its conditions. Contrary to the Board's opinion, petitioners suggest the road is more dangerous to walk than for a bus to transverse. Petitioner's offered several pictures depicting the conditions they regularly observe. (P-1, 2 & 7). Petitioners argue that the pictures and video reflect a smooth well-maintained road that is safe for bus travel. Additionally, they support their conclusion by reference to the Township Engineer's letter. The Engineer concludes, "It is my professional opinion that this section of Carlisle Place Road is serviceable as a local street, and as such is sufficient for use by school busses." (P-4, 8).

In December 2002, the Board, during its public meeting, voted not to change the scheduled bus stop. The Board minutes reflect the following:

> Take from table Resolution #02/03-34.
> (#02/03-34 - Approve bus stop at Carlisle Place Road with the stipulation that a 60' by 90' turnaround be placed at the location.
> (Tabled at August 27, 2002 Board Retreat Meeting).
>
> Motion made by Mr. Chard, seconded by Mr. Ciaurelli to withdraw resolution #02/03-34. Motion passed by roll call vote with Mrs. Hess abstaining.
>
> Mr. Baumgarten noted that the condition of the dirt road at issue (Carlisle Place Road) is such that sometimes you can drive down it at 40 mph and at other times only 5 mph and it feels like the front end of your car will fall off. After a rain, the road is a mess. He is not sure what the Township can do or cannot do but suggests that Mr. & Mrs. Bailey go to the Township and request that the road be paved. He believes in its current condition, the road is unsafe for a bus of children to travel.
>
> Mrs. Costello stated that she believes the bus stop change request of the Baileys has been reviewed extensively by the board. She stated that the current location of the bus stop at Route 47 and Carlisle Place Road is in accordance with policy, regulation and law.
> Motion made by Mrs. Costello, seconded by Mr. Chard that the current location of the bus stop remain at Route 47 and Carlisle Place Road. Motion carried by roll call vote with Mrs. Hess leaving the room, and therefore being absent for the vote.

The Board's written policy is that it will not require the bus driver to leave the main highway for pupils residing within one and one-half miles of the of the bus route. (R-3). The district explained, however, that Petitioner's request was not rejected based solely upon Board policy.

Prior the making a final decision, the Board referred the matter to its transportation committee. This is reflected in the Board minutes, supra. The committee included Robert Chard, a Board member and Eleanor Whildin, Transportation Supervisor. Both members testified at the OAL hearing. Mr. Chard was a five-year member of the Board and a retired police officer. Ms. Whildin has thirty-seven years experience as a bus driver for the district. Both committee members personally inspected and drove Carlisle Place Road on various dates and under various conditions. They concluded that it would not be safe for a school bus, with school-aged children, to drive on this road. The basis of their conclusions was that the road was too bumpy, it lacked traffic control devices such as speed signs, middle lane dividers, guardrails and the bus could not turn around or perform a K-turn without risking getting stuck.

In February 2003, petitioners filed a motion for reconsideration. The motion was discussed, but the written materials containing a letter from the Township Engineer were not presented. The Engineer had opined that Carlisle Place Road, while gravel, was safe for school bus operation and transportation. The letter was not presented to the Board prior to its vote in December 2002, or during reconsideration motion in February 2003. During the OAL hearing, the ALJ urged the parties to re-offer the motion for reconsideration, in its entirety, to the Board. This included the presentation of the Township Engineer's letter concluding that a school bus could be operated on Carlisle Place Road. Also, in February 2003, Whildin reported to the Board as follows:

> As the Board of Education is aware, I have lived in Maurice River Township for the past 63 years. I have worked for the Maurice River Township Board of Education for 37 years in the capacity of a school bus driver, and for the past 33 years I have been the Transportation Supervisor. I am very familiar with the Township and its roads. Carlisle Place Road is a gravel road that runs between Rt. 47 and Rt. 347. When Carlisle Place Road became an issue with the Transportation Committee, at the Committee's request, I drove down the road with an empty school bus during a dry period, after it had been scraped. With the road in this condition, I was able to drive at 25 mph in spots, but other spots were rutty and I had to slow down to maneuver the road. Although I was traveling at such a slow speed, the bus shook a great deal. I also drove an empty school bus down this road after a wet spell and I could not go over 15 mph. At 15 mph, with the road in this condition, the bus was jumping around because of the ruts and potholes.

> It is the District's practice not to go down gravel roads, and if a bus stop is placed on this road, a precedent will be established that can affect other roads and routs in the District. Additionally, it is my opinion as a school bus driver that this road is unsafe during inclement weather conditions to drive a 54 passenger bus down it with students on board. A bus stop is provided for residents on this road at the corner of Carlisle Place Road and Rt. 47.
> Finally, for the Transportation Committee's information, there is no adequate turn around on Carlisle Place Road. If a stop is placed on the road, the bus would have to travel straight through to Rt. 347, which is a very dangerous road. Rt. 347 has had more accidents and deaths than any other road in the Township, and because of this, I have designed routs so as to travel this road minimally.

> (R-2)

On September 16, 2003, the Baileys, through their attorney, re-offered the motion for reconsideration to the Board. The Baileys presented testimony from Kent Schellinger, P.E., Township Engineer. The Board also reviewed and considered the report of Ken Schellinger marked as Exhibit P-4. The Board again denied the request to relocate the bus stop. (See, letter of Frank DiDomenico, September 23, 2003 marked as C-1) (See also video tape of meeting, P-8) At the Board's September 16, 2003, meeting, it fully reconsidered petitioner's prior motion for consideration as well as new evidence. Petitioners came prepared with counsel and offered live testimony from Kent Schellinger, P.E., Township Engineer. Mr. Schellinger testified, under oath, that he was familiar with Carlisle Place Road. Again he opined that the road was suitable for a 54-passenger bus to traverse. However, he indicated he had not actually driven a 54-passenger bus on this particular road. The proper maintenance of Carlisle Place Road was of particular importance to the Board members. Mr. Schellinger indicated the road is adequately maintained by the Township, but that it is not on any fixed maintenance schedule. He was also questioned as to whether the Township had asked him to make any particular recommendations concerning Carlisle Place Road. His recommendations included signage, guardrails and a speed study. (C-2, p.3) The minutes reflect the following discussions and reasons:

> Motion made by Mr. Baumgarten, seconded by Mr. Chard to reconsider the board's earlier denial of a bus stop on Carlisle Place Road. After discussion by individual board members, (as detailed in the presentation summary attached), the motion was denied by roll call vote with Mrs. Hess recusing herself, six board members voting no and zero board members voting yes. Prior to voting, Mr.

Ewan stated that after considering the reports of Kent Schellinger and Eleanor Whildin, he was voting no. Prior to voting, Mrs. Ireland stated that based upon Eleanor Whildin's report and safety issues, she was voting no.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Based upon the petition and evidentiary hearing, two issues must be decided: 1) Whether the Board's bus stop policy is valid? 2) Did the petitioner meet its burden of proof the by the preponderance of credible evidence establishing that the Board's application or interpretation of its policy was unreasonable? The thrust of petitioner's argument is that the Board acted in an unreasonable and arbitrary manner when it denied petitioner's request to relocate the bus stop.

It is undisputed that a Board of Education has both the prerogative and obligation to establish bus stop locations. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.1. The applicable regulations provide a minimum standard for students who live in remote locations from their school. For instance, for K-8 students transportation must be provided if they reside beyond two miles and for grades 9-12 two and one-half miles. N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.1(a)1.

It is a well-settled principle that policy, legislative and quasi-legislative determinations are committed to the judgment of local governmental bodies. Riggs v. Long Beach Tp., 109 N.J. 601, 610-11, 538 A.2d 808 (1988); United Advertising Corp. v. Metuchen, 42 N.J. 1, 8, 198 A.2d 447 (1964). Such determinations enjoy a distinct presumption of validity, First Peoples Bank of N.J. v. Medford Tp., 126 N.J. 413, 418, 599 A.2d 1248 (1991); Hutton Park Gardens v. West Orange Town Council, 68 N.J. 543, 564, 350 A.2d 1 (1975), and will remain undisturbed absent a showing of arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable action on the part of the governmental agency. Palamar Constr., Inc. v. Pennsauken Tp., 196 N.J. Super. 241, 250, 482 A.2d 174 (App.Div.1983).

These principles apply to policy determinations made by local Boards of Education. See Parsippany-Troy Hills Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Ed. of Tp. of Parsippany-Troy Hills, 188 N.J.

Super. 161, 167, 457 A.2d 15 (App.Div.), certif. denied, 94 N.J. 527, 468 A.2d 182 (1983); Kopera v. Board of Ed. of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294, 158 A.2d 842 (App.Div.1960). When such a body acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The agency's factual determinations must be accepted if supported by substantial credible evidence. Quinlan v. Board of Ed. of North Bergen Tp., 73 N.J. Super. 40, 179 A.2d 161 (App.Div.1962); Schinck v. Board of Education of Westwood Consol. School Dist., 60 N.J. Super. 448, 159 A.2d 396 (App.Div. 1960).

In the present matter, there was little dispute regarding the validity of the Board's bus stop policy. The policy provides that school buses will not leave the main route unless the student is within one and one half miles of the route for K-8 children and two miles for high school students. (R-3). The policy is presumed to be correct. I FIND and CONCLUDE that presumption was not overcome in the matter at hand. The policy is consistent with N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.1(a)1. In fact, the Board's policy is more favorable to petitioner than the administrative regulations. (1.5 and 2 miles vs. 2 and 2.5 miles).

Therefore, the only issue to be addressed is whether the District acted in an arbitrary or capricious manner when it denied petitioner's request to move the bus stop. Petitioner presented safety and hardship issues. Moreover, petitioner suggested that the Board failed to appreciate or understand the issues. For instance, the Board concluded that the gravel road was unsafe for a bus with school-aged children. The bus would bounce and rattle. The District's bus driver tested the road and concluded the road was unsafe as the bus was "jumping around because of ruts and potholes." (R-2). The transportation supervisor candidly admitted that, at times, the road was safe to drive at 15-25 miles per hour. However, she was not comfortable driving the road. Issues such as ice, snow, potholes, road maintenance as well as bus mechanical maintenance were a concern for her and the Board. Several members of the Board transportation committee test-drove the road on their own or in a 54-passenger bus with the transportation supervisor. They reached the same conclusions. Parties offered numerous photographs and a VHS video into evidence. (P-7) The photographs depict the road on various dates and times that reflect conditions favorable to positions asserted by the both parties.

In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis. Bicknell v. United States, 442 F.2d 1055, 1057 (5 Cir. 1970). The terms "arbitrary" and "capricious" embrace a concept which emerges from the due process clauses of the 5th and 14th Amendments of the United States Constitution and operate to guarantee that acts of government will be grounded on established legal principles. See Canty v. Bd. of Education, City of New York, 312 F.Supp. 254, 256 (D.C.S.D.N.Y.1970). Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. State v. Jones, 66 Wash.2d 199, 401 P.2d 841, 842 (Wash.Sup.Ct.1965). Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Comm'n, 254 La. 160, 223 So.2d 132, 136 (La. Sup. Ct., 1969).

This rationale has been applied to bus stop location controversies. The Commissioner of Education will not overturn a district's decision pertaining to the location of school bus stops and will not second guess such exercise of discretion unless it is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. See Lemma v. Branchburg Board of Education, EDU 8953-97 Initial Decision (July 22, 1998), adopted Commissioner (August 28, 1998) (upholding the local district's refusal to change the bus stop): Mandaglio v. Mendham Township Board of Education 1998 S.L.D. 1380, 1384 (Comm'r 1990) (upholding uniformly – applying school policy prohibiting the school buses from turning around on dead end streets); J. O'D. v. Peapack Gladstone Board of Education, 1989 S.L.D. 1303, 1313 (Comm'r March 15, 1989) (upholding appropriateness of the local district's bus stop and rejecting a proposed alternate route as patently dangerous).

Based upon the evidence, including the investigation performed by the transportation committee together with the testimony of the Board members, I FIND that a reasonable person could come to two different opinions. The Board struggled with the decision for several months. The original request for relief was presented to the Board in or around August 2002. The matter was tabled for investigation. Various options were explored. This included construction of a turn-a-round in front of petitioner's home. A thorough investigation followed. The Board decided the not relocate the bus stop at its December 2002 meeting. The minutes from the meeting reflect the debatable concerns. A motion for reconsideration was filed in February 2003. The motion was not fully discussed and reviewed by the Board. A letter from the Township Engineer opining that the gravel road was safe for school bus travel was not presented or considered. The motion for reconsideration was not fully discussed because of pending litigation. Between the conclusion of the evidentiary portion of the within matter and the close of the record, the Board was directed to reconsider the motion. This was completed at the Board's September 16, 2003 meeting. The Board reaffirmed its earlier decision not to relocate the bus stop. (C-1, C-2). The import from the abovementioned history is that the Board fully, fairly and justly considered the issue. The Board made a rational decision based upon facts derived from an investigation that spanned several months. A Court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling. Bacoli v. Board of Education of Ramapo Indian Hills Regional School District, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1839-98 (January 22, 1999) citing, Bayshore Sewerage Company v. The Department of Environmental Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), affirmed 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). The Board's factual conclusions, while possibly debatable, were nevertheless reasonable. I so FIND.

Petitioner also eluded that the Board was engulfed in a small town controversy. Consequently, petitioner argues that the Board did not approach petitioner's request for relief with an open mind. The proofs offered by petitioner in this respect were mere inferences or allegations. While that may have been the impression by petitioner, I FIND that there were no reliable proofs offered to support this belief. Stated differently, the proofs offered on the issue were not to the degree that I can conclude the Board acted with malice, bias or unfairly.

Petitioner's presented legitimate safety concerns for their children. The road in question clearly poses real concern for parents of school aged children. It is dark during winter mornings, and the gravel road lacks the ordinary traffic control devices of a paved road. The area is developing and more children are using the unpaved portion of the road. Unfortunately, petitioners are both employed and their work hours do not allow them to oversee the bus pickup. If the road were paved, the Board may consider altering the bus route. I encourage the Board and petitioners (and the Township) to revisit this matter in the future if the circumstances materially change. This includes, additional paving or temporary paving, increased students living on Carlisle Place Road or other significant changes.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

I CONCLUDE that the school district's bus stop location policy is valid and its application in the present matter was reasonable. Therefore, the petition requesting a change in the bus stop at the intersection of Rt. 47 and Carlisle Place Road must be DENIED and the petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, and after full consideration of all of the particular circumstances existing here, the Commissioner agrees with the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that petitioners have failed to sustain their burden of establishing by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the Board's refusal to change the location of their children's bus stop was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or discriminatory; therefore, its determination in this regard must be upheld.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons stated therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The New Jersey Department of Education Bureau of Controversies received a request for relief on August 6, 2002. Petitioner, a School Principal for the Borough of Magnolia School District contends that the non-renewal of his alleged contract was improper and unlawful. The district asserts that position was eliminated pursuant to a reduction in force (RIF). The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 11, 2002. The Director of the OAL assigned the undersigned to hear this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing telephone conference was held on January 3, 2003. A settlement conference was scheduled for May 27, 2003, and hearing dates for June 11 and 12, 2003. On May 7, 2003, petitioner submitted a letter motion seeking to compel discovery of information in certain personnel files. The letter motion was preceded by a telephone conference regarding the discovery request and procedure. During the May 27, 2003, conference the plenary hearing was adjourned until October 1, 2003. Thereafter, on August 27, 2003, petitioner submitted a motion for partial summary judgment concerning the contract claims and issues. Respondent filed opposition and oral argument was heard on October 27, 2003.

Petitioner requested, in the interest of avoiding unnecessary litigation and expense, that this Order be submitted to the Commissioner of Education for immediate review as an initial decision, as it makes up the primary claims sought to be adjudicated by petitioner. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(c).

UNDISPUTED FACTS

1. Petitioner, Thomas F. Griggs (hereinafter "Griggs" or "petitioner") is a former employee of respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Magnolia (hereinafter "respondent" or "Board"). From July 1, 1999 to June 30, 2002, Griggs was employed by the Board as Principal of its elementary school.

2. During the 2001-2002 school year, Griggs was the Acting Principal pursuant to an unsigned contract.

3. On May 28, 2002, the seven member Board voted 6 to 1 to eliminate Griggs' position effective June 30, and to continue the position of Principal with the position of Superintendent of Schools.

4. The school budget, which had been approved on March 26, 2002 by the Board, was defeated in an election held in April 2002. Once the budget was defeated, there were legitimate concerns regarding numerous programs and services being slated for elimination from the budget due to its defeat in the April election.

5. On May 28, 2002, the Board approved the reduction of force with abolishment, for economic reasons, of the Principal's position, effective June 30, 2002.

6. In accordance with the RIF, the Superintendent's job title and description was revised to reflect the chief school administrator's duties and responsibilities. By letter dated May 29, 2002, Dr. Gibson advised Griggs that the Board of Education had met on May 28, 2002 and had abolished his position as part of a RIF procedure. Dr. Gibson informed petitioner that a letter of May 29, 2002 would serve as a 60 day notice of termination wherein he would receive compensation until July 30, 2002.

7. During the period 2001 through May 2002, Griggs and the Board, through its agents and representatives, had been actively negotiating contractual terms and provisions. On May 28, 2002, Griggs notified the Board and the Superintendent, in writing, that he accepted continued employment in the district for the 2002-2003 school year. The written notification was forwarded to the Superintendent's office via telefax and it provided as follows:

> Based on my attorney's advice, I accept the employment contract as Principal for the 2002-2003 school year. Respectfully, Thomas F. Griggs

The fax indicates that it was transmitted at approximately 2:25 p.m. on May 28, 2002.

SUMMARY OF LIMITED TESTIMONY

The present motion for partial summary judgment revolves around contract law in a school law setting. Petitioner also asserts that respondent violated the RIF provisions, but has chosen to submit the contract issues for summary decision in the interest of judicial economy and cost savings. The testimony of Superintendent Gibson and Petitioner Griggs were offered at oral argument. From their testimony the following facts were developed.

It is undisputed that, in or around June 1999, petitioner and the district entered a two-year agreement wherein petitioner would serve as the principal. This agreement was executed and its term was from July 1, 1999 to June 30, 2001. There remains a legal question as to whether it was appropriate for the district to enter into a multi-year contract for the position of principal. (Petitioner's letter dated October 6, 2003, page 2.) This agreement expired on June 30, 2001, pursuant to its terms, or on June 30, 2000, if multi-year contracts are prohibited as a matter of law.

On June 26, 2001, the Board of Education authorized the hiring of petitioner as its principal for another two years. The Board solicitor was authorized and directed to prepare the necessary contract. No contract was ever prepared by the solicitor. In or around January 2002, petitioner marked up his old 1999-2001 contract and submitted it to Superintendent Gibson. Gibson and petitioner met sometime between January 2002, and April 2002, to discuss the marked up contract. Petitioner's proposed changes were generally minor, except that he wanted to be paid at the superintendent's daily rate in situations where he temporarily served in that capacity. Petitioner was advised by Dr. Gibson that this modification "would not fly" because it was contrary to school law. Also, at this time, the district was preparing the 2002-2003 budget. Petitioner's title as principal was contained in the budget.

In or around May 2002, Gibson also marked up the draft agreement and forwarded it to the solicitor for review and comment. The district did not provide petitioner with notice on or before May 15, 2002, that it intended not to renew his agreement N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. On May 28, 2002, petitioner faxed a handwritten note to Dr. Gibson stating that he accepted the employment contract for the 2001-2003 school year. On May 28, 2002 the Board voted 6 to 1 to eliminate petitioner's position pursuant to a RIF. The position was abolished as of June 28, 2002. The Board however, gave petitioner 60 days notice and, therefore, paid his salary until July 30, 2002.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner Griggs argues that he is entitled to all the rights and benefits that flow from the unexecuted or unsigned employment contract for the 2002-2003 school year, citing N.J.S.A.

18A:27-11. This includes, but is not limited to, full salary, vacation, sick time and other benefits arising from the district's failure to provide notice of termination pursuant to what petitioner argues is a valid contract. More specifically, petitioner relies upon N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11, which provides as follows:

> Should any Board of Education fail to give any non-tenured teaching staff member either an offer of contract for employment for the next succeeding year or notice that such employment will not be offered, all within the time and manner provided by this Act, then the Board of Education shall be deemed to have offered to the teaching staff member continued employment for the next succeeding school year upon the same terms and conditions but with such increases in salary as may be required by law or policies of the Board of Education.

Petitioner's argument is that the board is required to provide him with notice by May 15, 2002, of its intention not to renew his employment contract. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. If the district failed to provide such notice of non-renewal, his contract is automatically renewed. The contract that would be renewed is the agreement that was signed back in 1999. Petitioner refers to termination provisions in the unexecuted 2001-2003 contract and places significant reliance thereupon. The termination provisions in the unexecuted contract provide as follows:

> 8. TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT CONTRACT.
>
> A. Mutual Agreement. This contract may be terminated by mutual agreement of the parties.
> B. Notice of Termination. By notice of the Principal, this contract may be terminated upon giving 60 days notice to the Board.

Petitioner argues that he cannot be terminated unless it is reached by mutual agreement as expressed in the unsigned 2001-2003 contract. Again, petitioner urges that if the Board fails to notify him by May 15th of the given calendar year, his employment contract is automatically renewed.

In the present matter, petitioner argues that he never agreed to be terminated. Petitioner also argues that, while the present matter arose pursuant to the RIF statute, the Board does not have unfettered authority to override contractual notice provisions, even if it is proceeding pursuant to a good faith RIF action, citing, Siegel v. Board of Education of the City of Garfield, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 766, aff'd, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 319. Petitioner offers the aforementioned authority to support the theory that the district must honor the notice and termination provisions of a non-teaching staff member's employment contract.

In opposition, respondent district argues that the board of education has complete authority to determine if a RIF should be implemented for reasons of economy. In Re Maywood Board of Education, 168 N.J. Super. 45 (App. Div. 1979); cert. denied 81 N.J. 292 (1979). Furthermore, the district argues that a reduction in force is non-negotiable and non-grievable. Jamison v. Morris School District Board of Education, 198 N.J. Super. 411 (App. Div. 1985). The district suggests that each and every contract between the board of education and teaching staff member must be in writing and signed by the President and the Secretary of the Board of Education, in addition to being signed by the teaching staff member. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5. The district argues that the RIF statute and provisions supercede the non-teaching staff member's contract rollover provisions contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11. Therefore, so long as the RIF was performed in good faith and for economic reasons, a teaching staff member can be terminated.

STANDARD FOR SUMMARY DECISION

The rules governing practice in the OAL provide that a Motion for Summary Decision may be granted if there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. This provision mirrors the language of Rule 4:46-2 and the Supreme Court's decision in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary judgment should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits, which may have been filed with the application. In order for the adverse, i.e., the non-moving party to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. The Court, in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of American, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), set the standard to be applied when deciding a Motion for Summary Judgment. Therein the Court stated:

> The determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the Motion Judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party... are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

If the non-moving party's evidence is merely colorable, or is not significantly probative, summary judgment should not be denied. See Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Supp. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998).

Based upon the testimony, briefs, affidavits and interrogatory answers and having considered the oral argument of the parties, I FIND that there are no genuine issues of material facts and the contract issues and claims can be decided by summary decision. Petitioner's claims and issues concerning the validity of the RIF action have not been submitted with this motion. They are reserved for a plenary hearing.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

Petitioner filed a Motion seeking an Order for Partial Summary Judgment carrying forth the terms and condition of petitioner's employment contract for the 2000-01 school year to the 2001-02 school year; binding the Board by contractual notice provisions and not arbitrarily determining the length of notice to be given; granting the equivalent of one year's compensation (less mitigation); and compensation for petitioner's unused sick leave days.

Petitioner argues that his contract automatically rolls over pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11. Specifically, the statute provides that if the district fails to give a nontenured teaching staff member either an offer of a contract for employment for the next succeeding year or notice that such employment will not be offered, then the board of education shall be deemed to have offered continued employment under the same terms and conditions. The only executed agreement between petitioner and the district was in June 1999. Neither the original nor a copy of that agreement could be located. The parties agreed that multi-year contracts are generally forbidden, except for the position of superintendent. See, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Therefore, the district was required to offer employment and prepare agreements for 2000, 2001, 2002 and 2003. The district did not comply with the applicable statutes in 2000, 2001 and 2002. It prepared multi-year agreements and therefore, skipped 2000, 2001 and 2002. It did not retain on file or cannot locate the original agreement from 1999. The solicitor was authorized to prepare the 2001-2003 employment agreement, but did not do so. Dr. Gibson summarized the contract status in her September 5, 2002, memorandum as follows:

> The original contracts were with Mr. Wade and were to be forwarded to Mr. Sahli so that renewal contracts could be prepared. Believe it or not, we tried but we were not able to get them. As a last resort, Mr. Sahli asked that I do the changes by hand and his office would re-type the re-newal contracts. As you and former board members know, all of our contracts were up in the air for that one year and with no signatures. We can blame the former Board, we can blame the Solicitors, the administrators, the current Board and everyone else till doomsday, but the bottom line is that neither Mr. Griggs nor I had any legally signed contract at the time that the Board made a decision to restructure the school district and abolish the Principal's position. I know you recognize that a Board has the authority to restructure, abolish, or cut positions as needed and I did personally call and advise the County Superintendent of their intent to re-structure in order to downsize administration and free up funds to bring back other services. The current Board has complied with getting all current administrative and association contracts completed and signed.
> Respondent's Brief –Exhibit 5

For purposes of employment in 2001-2002, petitioner was left to mark up and submit his old 1999 contract almost 6 months after the official Board action. This was done in January 2002. The marked up version was reviewed by Dr. Gibson and the Board and than sent to the solicitor in May 2002. This occurred substantially after the board directed the solicitor to prepare agreements in June 2001. Almost one year passed and a simple six-page employment contract was left unfinished. The administrative contracts for this title were poorly handled.

Petitioner complicated matters when he marked up the agreement in January 2002, and added a material change to the former agreement. He effectively made a new offer or a counter offer when he requested payment at the superintendent's daily rate. This proposal caused the district and its solicitor, to further mishandle petitioner's employment agreement.

In spite of all of the inappropriate handling of the employment agreement, petitioner served the district for the 2001-2002 school year pursuant to the terms of the original 1999 contract. Similarly, petitioner and the district operated pursuant to the terms in the 1999 agreement in all subsequent years even though they never signed the contract. Therefore, when the May 15, 2002, deadline passed, the district was obligated to have responded in some fashion. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 and -11. There were unequivocally ongoing contract negotiations. Superintendent Gibson sent the Board solicitor a memorandum regarding this subject on May 2, 2002. (Respondent's Brief exhibit 2.) But, by all indications, the material terms from 1999 were operational. Therefore, the Board either had to reject petitioners marked up counter offer, reject the 1999 agreement in its original form or provide notice that employment would not be offered.

The district's lack of diligence in finalizing its administrative contracts is analogous to W.V. Pangborne & Co. v. New Jersey Dept. of Trans., 116 N.J. 543 (1989). In Pangborne, the Court held that government bodies must "turn square corners" when dealing with taxpayers. The "square corners" doctrine applies even where the party cannot satisfy the stricter evidentiary requirements that justify equitable estoppel. The Court, in Pangborne, stated:

> [W]e have insisted that in the exercise of statutory responsibilities, government must "turn square corners' rather than exploit litigational or bargaining advantages that might otherwise be available to private citizens. [Citing to FMC Stores Co.] ["The government's primary obligation is to comport itself with compunction and integrity, and in doing so government may have to forego the freedom of action that private citizens may employ in dealing with one another."]

Here, the district, a government body, neglected to finalize the 2001-2002 administrative contract for petitioner for almost an entire year. It did not deal fairly with petitioner in terms of preparing his employment contract. It is inexcusable that his employment contract was not reduced to writing and executed. Having done very little on or before May 15, 2002, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the 1999 original employment contract rolled over pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 and -11. The district was in the better position and is statutorily obligated to maintain executed employment contracts on file. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5. It failed to fulfill its statutorily obligation for all years. The original contract cannot be located and admittedly no formal contracts were prepared and executed in any years after 1999. The district improperly prepared multi-year contracts.

Having determined that petitioner's 1999 agreement rolled over on or after May 15, 2002, the question remains what contractual notice is petitioner entitled to a since the contract was terminated pursuant to a RIF. The actual contract terms provide that the agreement may be terminated by mutual agreement of the parties and the principal of this contract may unilaterally terminate it by giving sixty (60) days notice to the board.

Petitioner argues that, notwithstanding the RIF action, the board, only upon mutual agreement of the parties, can terminate the contract. Therefore, the RIF action does not "trump" the contract termination notice requirements. Petitioner suggests that he is entitled to one-years notice as a mutually agreeable termination date and, therefore, he is entitled to one-years salary and benefits. The district argues that its RIF action supersedes an employment contract and awarding a full years salary would, in effect, nullify the important function of the RIF statute. Old Bridge Twp. Bd. Of Educ. v. Old Bridge Educ. Ass'n, 98 N.J. 523, 531-533 (1985); N.J.S.A 18A:29-9. Moreover, the district contends that 60 days notice is reasonable absent mutual agreement of the parties. Sixty days notice is also consistent with other RIF actions for nontenured teaching staff members. Old Bridge, supra. Finally, the district urges that 60 days notice is reasonable because it is the same period of time petitioner proposed to give the board if he terminated the contract.

Since the parties did not reach a mutual agreement as to the length of notice before effective termination, it has been submitted to this tribunal for determination. Petitioner relies upon Siegle v Garfield Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 766, decided August 10, 1993. In Siegle, the boilerplate employment contract contained notice provisions that were left blank at the time the agreement was executed. The ALJ observed:

> Here, however, the contractual language is not susceptible of such interpretation. Language chosen by the Board itself plainly provides that "[I]n the absence of any provision herein for a definite number of days' notice, the contract shall run for the full term[.]" Under these unique circumstances, where the Board could have easily limited its liability by using the appropriate language in its contract, it does not seriously interfere with managerial prerogatives to require the Board to honor the commitment that it voluntarily made.

The ALJ and Commissioner agreed that since the notice clause was left blank and the general provisions in the agreement specifically required the agreement to run for its full term, the teacher was entitled to entire years salary. The decision was an exception to the more typical 60 day notice requirement set forth in Old Bridge. Siegle also turned on the fact that the teacher was terminated in October. The teacher was unable to obtain a new teaching position because of the timing of the RIF in October.

In Seigle the ALJ stated:

> Had this been a non-tenured teacher, the Commissioner of Education would have looked to the standard contract of employment to find the correct resolution. 98 N.J. at 531. Relying on prior school law decisions, the Court elaborated:
>
> > To determine the amount of the award the State Board has drawn upon the provisions in the standard contract of employment for non-tenured teachers requiring 60 days. Armstrong v. East Brunswick Bd. of Educ., 1975 SLD 117, aff'd 1976 SLD 1104 (App. Div. 1976) (non-tenured teacher who did not receive notice of nonrenewal until two days after statutory deadline awarded 60 days salary). Had the reduction in force occurred in mid-term to a non-tenured teacher, the Commissioner would presumably draw upon the same provisions in teachers' contracts calling for 60 days notice of termination to value the claim. Cf. Contaldi v. Board of Educ. of Jersey City (Commissioner of Education, January 23, 1981) (non-tenured teacher awarded 60 days pay when he was not properly notified of his dismissal until the new school year had begun and he had already taught for one school day). 98 N.J. at 532.
> While 60 days' notice of cancellation seems to have become the generally-recognized practice in the educational field, it is not enshrined in any statute or regulation. Review of the two administrative decisions cited by the Supreme Court reveals that in each instance the underlying contract or salary policy specified 60 days' notice. Armstrong, 1975 S.L.D. at 1104. Contaldi, slip op. at 4. Accord, Mozier, 450 F.Supp. at 748 n.4, where it was said that the presence of an express 60-day notice provision in a teacher's contract "vitiates any expectancy of year long employment." See also, Canfield v. Pine Hill Bd. of Educ. 97 N.J. Super. 483, 492 (App. Div. 1967) (Gaulkin, S.J.A.D. dissenting), rev'd for reasons expressed in the dissent, 51 N.J. 400 (1968), suggesting that, absent a > cancellation clause, "the teacher would, at most, be entitled to his salary for the full term of the contract, but not to tenure."

Nothing prohibits the parties from negotiating a shorter or longer notice period. Rahway Educ. Ass'n v. Rahway Bd. of Educ, 1986 S.L.D. 1588, 1600 (wherein the Commissioner declared that any agreement which extends salary benefits to nontenured teachers beyond the 60-day termination provision included in their employment contracts is contrary to law.) Even if the cancellation clause was silent as to time, the Commissioner would be likely to impute 60 days as a "reasonable" time period. Ordinarily, if a contract contains no express terms as to its duration, it is terminable at will or after a reasonable time. In re Miller's Estate, 90 N.J. 210, 219 (1982); West Caldwell v. Caldwell, 26 N.J. 9, 27 (1958).

Here, petitioner was RIF'd before the start of the next school year (2002-2003) and compensated through July 30, 2002, while only obligated to work through June 28, 2002. Moreover, there was no specific contract clause that required the agreement to run for its full term as in Seigle. These facts distinguish this matter from Siegle and make it more analogous to Old Bridge. Finally, petitioner included 60 days a reasonable period to give the board notice if he terminated the agreement. Absent more specific language, 60 days is reasonable for both parties.

In sum, petitioner's original 1999 contract rolled over each year, but remained subject to a good faith RIF action. The RIF action is a statutorily sanctioned breach of the agreement. Petitioner may be entitled to the full benefit of the termination clause in his employment agreement. However, in this matter, the termination provisions were left vague and unclear. Therefore, if a contract contains no clear expressed terms as to its duration, it is terminable at will or after a reasonable time. In re Miller's Estate, supra. There is sufficient decisional law citing 60 days as a reasonable period for notice for termination, if the notice was given in a way the future employment opportunities were not adversely impacted. A RIF'd teacher should be given notice at or near the end of one school year so that future employment may be explored during the summer recess for the start of the next year. Petitioner was given notice of the RIF in May 2002. Accordingly, in the school law tradition, 60 days notice and compensation was reasonable. I so FIND.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons set forth above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's employment contract rolled over for the years 2000, 2001 and 2002. I further CONCLUDE that the contract termination clause was vague and unclear and therefore, sixty (60) days notice of termination was reasonable. Accordingly, petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED, in part and DENIED, in part.

Petitioner requested that this Order be submitted to the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for immediate review as if it were an initial decision. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e).

This order granting petitioner's motion for summary judgment in part and denying petitioner's motion for summary judgment in part is being submitted under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) for immediate review. This recommended order may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make the final decision in this matter. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended order shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this order was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The Commissioner has received the Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and the record of this matter, together with petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e), however, the Commissioner determines that immediate review of the Order will not avoid unnecessary litigation, in that petitioner has not abandoned his claim, as raised in Count III of the Petition of Appeal, that "Respondent had no reasonable financial or other reason to eliminate Mr. Griggs' position as Principal," (Petition of Appeal at 4) and as such, the Board's reduction in force was in bad faith.[1]

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that the within Order shall be reviewed at the end of the contested case, and returns this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for continued proceedings.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

[1] Indeed, petitioner challenges the ALJ's recitation of undisputed facts at pages 2 and 3 of the Order, asserting that "No evidence was presented by the parties in their motion papers or during oral argument proceedings which could have led the ALJ to the conclusion that that 'there were legitimate concerns regarding numerous programs and services being slated for elimination from the budget.'" WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Karen Jackson was appointed to the Galloway Community Charter School in July 2001; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted eight training sessions between July 2001 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order against Ms. Jackson on June 9, 2003, via regular and certified mail, directing her to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the October training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Respondent provided no response to the Order, and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified her by letter dated June 12, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting, and if she did not attend training by that time, she could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission found on October 28, 2003, that this failure to attend board member training from July 2001 to April 2003, well beyond the one year required by law, constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Jackson filed a letter and doctor's note with this Commission on October 29, 2003, and a letter stating that she intended to attend the October 2003 training session but had caught influenza and suffered from a pulmonary disorder related to an asthmatic condition which prevented her from attending the October 2003 training session, but that she has registered to attend the January 2004 session; and

WHEREAS, the principal of the Galloway Community Charter School submitted a letter via facsimile on October 30, 2003, and correspondence from the NJSBA to illustrate that there has been some debate as to whether this individual was required to attend training; and

WHEREAS, the Commission reconsidered this matter based on Respondent's submissions of October 29, and October 30, 2003, at its meeting of October 31, 2003, and found suspension to be inappropriate under these circumstances, but that a penalty of removal would be appropriate if she fails to attend one of the trainings in January, 2004;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Ms. Jackson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education remove her from the board if she fails to attend one of the January 2004 training sessions.

IN THE MATTER OF KAREN	:
JACKSON, GALLOWAY COMMUNITY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CHARTER SCHOOL BOARD OF	:	DECISION
TRUSTEES, ATLANTIC COUNTY.	:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new school board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was appointed to the Galloway Community Charter School in July 2001; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was duly apprised of the training requirement via the New Jersey School Boards Association's (NJSBA) "candidate kit," together with correspondence to her dated January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted eight training sessions between July 2001 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on June 9, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the October 2003 training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member provided no response to the Order; and

Whereas, the Commission notified her by letter dated June 12, 2003 that it would discuss this matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting and, if she did not attend training by that time, she could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

Whereas, the Commission found at its meeting on October 28, 2003 that this failure to attend board member training from July 2001 until April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

Whereas, on October 29, 2003, the above-named Board member filed a letter and doctor's note with the Commission, explaining that she had intended to attend training in October but had been prevented by illness from doing so; and

Whereas, on October 30, 2003, the Charter School principal submitted a letter including correspondence from the NJSBA illustrating some confusion over whether the above-named Board member was required to attend training; and

Whereas, at a meeting on October 31, 2003, the Commission reconsidered this matter based on the aforementioned submissions and found suspension to be inappropriate under the circumstances, deciding instead to recommend removal if the above-named Board member failed to attend training by the end of January 2004, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on November 12, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no response was submitted; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission, and, while he has determined to adopt the recommendation of the Commission that the above-named Board member not be suspended pending her completion of training, he also finds that some penalty is warranted for her violation of the School Ethics Act as found by the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that, in the event the above-named Board member fails to complete a training session during January 2004, she shall be summarily removed from office as of the date of the final session offered that month. Additionally, IT IS ORDERED that the above-named school official shall be reprimanded for her failure to abide by the requirements of the School Ethics Act, thereby causing administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials. [1] It is noted in this regard that respondent was appointed to the Board of Trustees in July 2001 and made no apparent attempt to arrange for training or clarify her status as to training requirements until after issuance of the Commission's June 2003 Show Cause Order, to which she filed no response. Additionally, she gave the Commission no indication of her intention to attend the October training session prior to the Commission's October 28, 2003 meeting, and waited until after that meeting to communicate, directly or though the charter school, with the Commission regarding the circumstances of her nonattendance.

[2] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Afifah Muhammad was appointed to the Elysian Charter School in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted four training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order against Mr. Muhammad on June 9, 2003, via regular and certified mail, directing him to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the October training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Respondent provided no response to the Order; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified him by letter dated June 12, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting, and if he did not attend training by that time, he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend through October; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Muhammad fails to attend by the end of January 2004, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Muhammad violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends, but remove him from the board if he fails to attend one of the January 2004 training sessions.

IN THE MATTER OF JOHN F.	:
KROSCHWITZ, II AND WENDY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STURGEON, BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	DECISION
OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON,	:
MERCER COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that respondent Board members violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(f) of the School Ethics Act by surrendering their independent judgment concerning the District's food service contractor to a special interest group (HTEA and HTSSA) which supported their candidacy and opposed the renewal of the existing food service contract. Respondent Sturgeon also violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) by taking her complaints directly to the media instead of first giving the administration an opportunity to address them. After considering the nature of the charges, the Commission recommended the penalty of censure.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision was restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty, concurred with the Commission's recommendation and, thus, ordered respondents censured as school officials found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

OF
	Docket #C29-03
JOHN F. KROSCHWITZ, II and WENDY STURGEON, Respondents, HAMILTON BOARD OF EDUCATION MERCER COUNTY	DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaints filed against John Kroschwitz, II and Wendy Sturgeon for violations of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. Specifically, the Hamilton Township Board of Education alleges that respondent Sturgeon entered schools and took photographs of the kitchens in order to damage the reputation of food service contractor Sodexho whose contract the teachers' union opposed. Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz had been endorsed by the union. The complaint also alleges that Mr. Kroschwitz and Ms. Sturgeon appeared on a television program broadcast on WZBN complaining of Sodexho's management of the kitchens.

Mr. Kroschwitz filed an answer to the complaint admitting to having been endorsed by the political action committee of the unions, but stating that the board president and two other board members were also so endorsed. He admitted to being interviewed on WZBN and expressing concerns about the sanitary conditions and management of the kitchens by Sodexho. He denied having committed any violation of the School Ethics Act. Ms. Sturgeon filed an answer to the complaint admitting that she was endorsed by the union's political action committee, but stating that because she was elected in April 2003, she was not present for the majority of meetings where the union expressed its objections to Sodexho. She stated that it was her belief that it was her duty to inspect the cafeterias prior to voting on whether to renew the contract and does not believe that she violated any provision of the School Ethics Act.

The School Ethics Commission advised the parties that it would discuss this matter at its meeting of September 23, 2003. The parties were advised of their right to bring counsel and witnesses. All parties appeared with counsel and witnesses. The complainants were represented by board attorney, Dennis DeSantis, Esq. The respondent was represented by Diane Proulx, Esq. The Commission heard testimony from the parties and complainant's witness, Robert Foster, Board President. At its public meeting on September 23, 2003, the Commission voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that Ms. Sturgeon violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act in connection with the conduct taken in opposition to Sodexho. The Commission neglected to render a decision on Mr. Kroschwitz and therefore, the matter was placed on the agenda of the October 28, 2003 meeting. The Commission adopted this decision at a special meeting of October 31, 2003 that was called to continue the agenda from its regularly scheduled meeting of October 28, 2003.

The decision concludes that Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act and recommends a penalty of censure.

FACTS

Mr. Kroschwitz is a member of the Hamilton Township Board of Education who was elected in April 2002. Ms. Sturgeon is a member of the Hamilton Township Board of Education who was elected in April 2003. Both respondents were endorsed by the Hamilton Township Friends of Education, the political action committee formed by the Hamilton Township Education Association (HTEA) and the Hamilton Township School Secretaries' Association (HTSSA) when they ran for election to the Board. The HTEA represents all teaching staff members, educational assistants, custodians and kitchen workers. The HTSSA represents all school secretaries employed by the Complainant Board.

On June 26, 2002, the Board entered into a contract with Sodexho Management, Inc. to manage the food services in the District. Sodexho began performing these services on July 1, 2002. The agreement provided that the District would continue to maintain its current staff of kitchen workers who were members of the HTEA. However, these workers would be managed by Sodexho and any further vacancies would be filled by Sodexho and those replacement employees would no longer be employees of the complainant or members of the HTEA.

After July 1, 2002, HTEA and HTSSA representatives appeared repeatedly at monthly Board meetings objecting to the hiring of Sodexho and criticizing its performance. The Sodexho contract was scheduled to expire on June 30, 2003 and the Board agenda for May 28, 2003 set forth the consideration of the renewal of the contract for an additional one year period.

On May 8, 2003, two board members visited Nottingham High School to inspect the cafeteria. On May 9, 2003, Mr. Kroschwitz and another board member visited the school. Ms. Sturgeon was aware of the visits by these board members.

On May 13, 2003, Ms. Sturgeon made visits to Nottingham High School, Grice Middle School and Reynolds Middle School. The principals of all the middle and high schools in the District were attending a meeting at the Board office that day. Ms. Sturgeon did not notify any of the administrators in those buildings of her visit in advance nor did she ask for any administrator when she arrived. She wore her badge identifying her as a board member. She went to the main office and asked to enter the kitchen where she took photographs. She did not sign in or out and did not advise the Board's central administration of what she had done or inform them of what she had found. At Grice and Reynolds Middle Schools, she asked for a specific custodian that she had been told to request by a staff member. The custodian, who had been advised by a union representative that Ms. Sturgeon would be coming, took her through the kitchen and answered her questions.

At no time after her visits to the three schools did Respondent Sturgeon advise any administrators of the three schools or any members of the Central Office Administration that she had visited, the reason that she did so or the result of her visits. She did not provide copies of the photographs to the administrators.

On May 19, 2003, Ms. Sturgeon went to a television station with the pictures and taped a program that was to air on May 20, 2003. Mr. Kroschwitz appeared on the program with Ms. Sturgeon. Members of the Board saw the program and were upset that neither they nor the Board had been given advance notice of her findings. On May 21, 2003, the Trenton Times newspaper printed an article quoting both Respondents regarding their complaints as to the sanitary conditions of the kitchens in the three schools. At the Board's agenda meeting on May 21, 2003, the Respondents advised the Board and the chief administrative officer for the first time of Ms. Sturgeon's visit to the schools and their complaints about the condition of the schools' kitchens. Officers and members of the HTEA and HTSSA publicly spoke about the cleanliness of the kitchens managed by Sodexho in opposition to the renewal of its contract.

Respondents voted not to renew the contract with Sodexho at the Board meeting on May 28, 2003. The contract with Sodexho was not renewed.

ANALYSIS

Complainants allege that Ms. Sturgeon's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), (d) and (j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board members. In addition, complainants allege that both respondents violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) because they undertook such action after having been endorsed by the political action committee of the HTEA and the HTSSA.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) provides:

> I will confine my board action to policy making, planning and appraisal, and I will help to frame policies and plans only after the board has consulted those who will be affected by them.

The Commission reviewed Ms. Sturgeon's conduct in relation to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and concludes that Ms. Sturgeon's conduct could arguably be viewed as "appraisal," which is permitted under the Code of Ethics. The Commission does not view the rest of this section to be particularly pertinent to the facts of this case. Ms. Sturgeon undertook an appraisal of the kitchens in order to inform her vote as to whether to renew the contract with Sodexho. She was not setting out to formulate a policy. The Commission does not view this conduct as a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c).

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) sets forth:

> I will carry out my responsibility, not to administer the schools, but, together with my fellow board members, to see that they are well run.

The Commission does not view Ms. Sturgeon's conduct as an attempt to administer the schools. Further, one could argue that she was attempting to see that the schools are well run although she undertook the investigation without the knowledge of the other board members.

The Commission believes that there are other sections that are more applicable to the conduct alleged and concludes that Ms. Sturgeon did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) provides:

> I will refer all complaints to the chief administrative officer and will act on the complaints at public meetings only after failure of an administrative solution.

Ms. Sturgeon admitted that she did not advise the chief administrative officer of her intent to visit the schools because she heard complaints of less than sanitary conditions at the schools that she visited. She further admitted that she did not take her complaints to the chief administrative officer after she visited the kitchen and took pictures of what she believed confirmed the complaints. Instead, she took her complaints to a television station and provided an interview to the local newspaper. In doing so, she gave the chief administrative officer no opportunity to solve the problem before making her complaint public. The Commission finds that her doing so was a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j).

Complainants next allege that both Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) in connection with the fact that both were endorsed by the political action committee of the HTEA and the HTSSA.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family.

The Commission advised in Public Advisory Opinion A13-02 that board members who were endorsed by the local education association would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) if they were to participate in negotiations and vote on the contract in the year of the endorsement. In such a case there was a direct relationship between the union endorsement and the union contract. Therefore, the Commission concluded that a personal involvement was created by the endorsement by the association and that a benefit was created by the services attached to that endorsement and the board members endorsed in the year in which contract negotiations began had a personal involvement with the association that constituted a benefit to them. Thus, the board members' participation in negotiations and voting on the teachers' contract would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). In the present case, the complainants seek to broaden that opinion and rule that a board member endorsed by the teachers' union is not only prohibited from negotiating and voting on the union contract, but is also prohibited from voting on matters coming before the board where the union has advocated a certain position. The Commission declines to expand the prohibition to this extent. The Commission declines to rule that board members endorsed by the union have a personal involvement that constitutes a benefit to them in issues that impact upon the union outside of the contract. The benefit that such board members would acquire is not clear. Also, such a ruling could conflict endorsed board members from voting on any matter before the Board that could impact the union either positively or negatively. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds no probable cause to credit the allegation that the Respondents' conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

Last, complainants argue that both Respondents' conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f), which provides:

> I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or the gain of friends.

The opposition of the HTEA and the HTSSA to the Sodexho is undisputed. While the Commission believes that both Respondents could have exercised independent judgment in voting against the renewal of Sodexho's contract, the Commission believes that the motivating factor behind Ms. Sturgeon's visits to the schools and her and Mr. Kroschwitz's appearance on television describing the poor conditions of the schools' kitchens was the opposition of the unions to Sodexho's contract with the Board. The Commission finds this to be a reasonable inference that can be drawn from the Respondents' endorsement by the HTEA and HTSSA's political action committee, the surreptitious investigation into the kitchens without the knowledge of the administration and the Respondents' choice to present the information to the media rather than the administration. This is evidence that they were more concerned about seeing that the contract was not renewed than correcting the problem. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that there is ample evidence that Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz surrendered their independent judgment to a special interest group in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Ms. Sturgeon violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) by not presenting her complaints to the chief administrative officer and giving him an opportunity to address them before discussing them on a television program and finds that Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) for surrendering their independent judgment to a special interest group.

In determining the penalty to recommend, the Commission had to consider that the Respondents were addressing a potential hazard to students in the Hamilton School District. The Commission disagreed with their methods for addressing the problem and concluded that those methods were motivated by the involvement of the union in the contract issue. For this violation of the Code of Ethics, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure against both Respondents.

OF
	Docket #C29-03
JOHN F. KROSCHWITZ, II and WENDY STURGEON, Respondents, HAMILTON BOARD OF EDUCATION MERCER COUNTY	AMENDED DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaints filed against John Kroschwitz, II and Wendy Sturgeon for violations of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. Specifically, the Hamilton Township Board of Education alleges that respondent Sturgeon entered schools and took photographs of the kitchens in order to damage the reputation of food service contractor Sodexho whose contract the teachers' union opposed. Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz had been endorsed by the union. The complaint also alleges that Mr. Kroschwitz and Ms. Sturgeon appeared on a television program broadcast on WZBN complaining of Sodexho's management of the kitchens.

Mr. Kroschwitz filed an answer to the complaint admitting to having been endorsed by the political action committee of the unions, but stating that the board president and two other board members were also so endorsed. He admitted to being interviewed on WZBN and expressing concerns about the sanitary conditions and management of the kitchens by Sodexho. He denied having committed any violation of the School Ethics Act. Ms. Sturgeon filed an answer to the complaint admitting that she was endorsed by the union's political action committee, but stating that because she was elected in April 2003, she was not present for the majority of meetings where the union expressed its objections to Sodexho. She stated that it was her belief that it was her duty to inspect the cafeterias prior to voting on whether to renew the contract and does not believe that she violated any provision of the School Ethics Act.

The School Ethics Commission advised the parties that it would discuss this matter at its meeting of September 23, 2003. The parties were advised of their right to bring counsel and witnesses. All parties appeared with counsel and witnesses. The complainants were represented by board attorney, Dennis DeSantis, Esq. The respondent was represented by Diane Proulx, Esq. The Commission heard testimony from the parties and complainant's witness, Robert Foster, Board President. At its public meeting on September 23, 2003, the Commission voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that Ms. Sturgeon violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act in connection with the conduct taken in opposition to Sodexho. The Commission neglected to render a decision on Mr. Kroschwitz and therefore, the matter was placed on the agenda of the October 28, 2003 meeting. The Commission adopted this decision at a special meeting of October 31, 2003 that was called to continue the agenda from its regularly scheduled meeting of October 28, 2003.

The decision concludes that Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act and recommends a penalty of censure.

FACTS

Mr. Kroschwitz is a member of the Hamilton Township Board of Education who was elected in April 2002. Ms. Sturgeon is a member of the Hamilton Township Board of Education who was elected in April 2003. Both respondents were endorsed by the Hamilton Township Friends of Education, the political action committee formed by the Hamilton Township Education Association (HTEA) and the Hamilton Township School Secretaries' Association (HTSSA) when they ran for election to the Board. The HTEA represents all teaching staff members, educational assistants, custodians and kitchen workers. The HTSSA represents all school secretaries employed by the Complainant Board.

Members of the Board saw the program and were upset that neither they nor the Board had been given advance notice of her findings. On May 21, 2003, the Trenton Times newspaper printed an article quoting both Respondents regarding their complaints as to the sanitary conditions of the kitchens in the three schools. At the Board's agenda meeting on May 21, 2003, the Respondents advised the Board and the chief administrative officer for the first time of Ms. Sturgeon's visit to the schools and their complaints about the condition of the schools' kitchens. Officers and members of the HTEA and HTSSA publicly spoke about the cleanliness of the kitchens managed by Sodexho in opposition to the renewal of its contract.

Respondents voted not to renew the contract with Sodexho at the Board meeting on May 28, 2003. The contract with Sodexho was renewed.

ANALYSIS

Complainants allege that Ms. Sturgeon's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), (d) and (j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board members. In addition, complainants allege that both respondents violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) because they undertook such action after having been endorsed by the political action committee of the HTEA and the HTSSA.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) provides:

> I will confine my board action to policy making, planning and appraisal, and I will help to frame policies and plans only after the board has consulted those who will be affected by them.

The Commission reviewed Ms. Sturgeon's conduct in relation to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and concludes that Ms. Sturgeon's conduct could arguably be viewed as "appraisal," which is permitted under the Code of Ethics. The Commission does not view the rest of this section to be particularly pertinent to the facts of this case. Ms. Sturgeon undertook an appraisal of the kitchens in order to inform her vote as to whether to renew the contract with Sodexho. She was not setting out to formulate a policy. The Commission does not view this conduct as a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c).

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) sets forth:

> I will carry out my responsibility, not to administer the schools, but, together with my fellow board members, to see that they are well run.

The Commission does not view Ms. Sturgeon's conduct as an attempt to administer the schools. Further, one could argue that she was attempting to see that the schools are well run although she undertook the investigation without the knowledge of the other board members.

The Commission believes that there are other sections that are more applicable to the conduct alleged and concludes that Ms. Sturgeon did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) provides:

> I will refer all complaints to the chief administrative officer and will act on the complaints at public meetings only after failure of an administrative solution.

Ms. Sturgeon admitted that she did not advise the chief administrative officer of her intent to visit the schools because she heard complaints of less than sanitary conditions at the schools that she visited. She further admitted that she did not take her complaints to the chief administrative officer after she visited the kitchen and took pictures of what she believed confirmed the complaints. Instead, she took her complaints to a television station and provided an interview to the local newspaper. In doing so, she gave the chief administrative officer no opportunity to solve the problem before making her complaint public. The Commission finds that her doing so was a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j).

Complainants next allege that both Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) in connection with the fact that both were endorsed by the political action committee of the HTEA and the HTSSA.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family.

The Commission advised in Public Advisory Opinion A13-02 that board members who were endorsed by the local education association would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) if they were to participate in negotiations and vote on the contract in the year of the endorsement. In such a case there was a direct relationship between the union endorsement and the union contract. Therefore, the Commission concluded that a personal involvement was created by the endorsement by the association and that a benefit was created by the services attached to that endorsement and the board members endorsed in the year in which contract negotiations began had a personal involvement with the association that constituted a benefit to them. Thus, the board members' participation in negotiations and voting on the teachers' contract would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). In the present case, the complainants seek to broaden that opinion and rule that a board member endorsed by the teachers' union is not only prohibited from negotiating and voting on the union contract, but is also prohibited from voting on matters coming before the board where the union has advocated a certain position. The Commission declines to expand the prohibition to this extent. The Commission declines to rule that board members endorsed by the union have a personal involvement that constitutes a benefit to them in issues that impact upon the union outside of the contract. The benefit that such board members would acquire is not clear. Also, such a ruling could conflict endorsed board members from voting on any matter before the Board that could impact the union either positively or negatively. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds no probable cause to credit the allegation that the Respondents' conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

Last, complainants argue that both Respondents' conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f), which provides:

> I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or the gain of friends.

The opposition of the HTEA and the HTSSA to the Sodexho is undisputed. While the Commission believes that both Respondents could have exercised independent judgment in voting against the renewal of Sodexho's contract, the Commission believes that the motivating factor behind Ms. Sturgeon's visits to the schools and her and Mr. Kroschwitz's appearance on television describing the poor conditions of the schools' kitchens was the opposition of the unions to Sodexho's contract with the Board. The Commission finds this to be a reasonable inference that can be drawn from the Respondents' endorsement by the HTEA and HTSSA's political action committee, the surreptitious investigation into the kitchens without the knowledge of the administration and the Respondents' choice to present the information to the media rather than the administration. This is evidence that they were more concerned about seeing that the contract was not renewed than correcting the problem. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that there is ample evidence that Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz surrendered their independent judgment to a special interest group in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Ms. Sturgeon violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) by not presenting her complaints to the chief administrative officer and giving him an opportunity to address them before discussing them on a television program and finds that Ms. Sturgeon and Mr. Kroschwitz violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) for surrendering their independent judgment to a special interest group.

In determining the penalty to recommend, the Commission had to consider that the Respondents were addressing a potential hazard to students in the Hamilton School District. The Commission disagreed with their methods for addressing the problem and concluded that those methods were motivated by the involvement of the union in the contract issue. For this violation of the Code of Ethics, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure against both Respondents.

Resolution Adopting Decision – C29-03

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties, the documents submitted in support thereof and the testimony presented; and

Whereas, at its meeting of September 23, 2003, the Commission found that Wendy Sturgeon violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) and at its meeting of October 31, 2003, the Commission found that both Ms. Sturgeon and John Kroschwitz, II violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) of the Act and recommended that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of censure for both; and

Whereas, the Commission staff prepared a decision consistent with the aforementioned conclusion; and

Whereas, at its meeting of October 31, 2003, the Commission reviewed the draft decision and agreed with the decision;

Whereas, at its meeting of November 25, 2003, the Commission noted an error in its prior decision;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed amended decision referenced as its decision in this matter and directs its staff to notify all parties to this action of the Commission's decision herein.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 429-11/03

IN THE MATTER OF JOHN F.	:
KROSCHWITZ, II AND WENDY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STURGEON, BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	DECISION
OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON,	:
MERCER COUNTY.	:

This matter comes before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1 to impose a sanction upon respondents, members of the Hamilton Township Board of Education, based on the finding of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) that respondents violated the School Ethics Act. Specifically, the Commission found that Respondent Sturgeon violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) by taking her complaints about the District's food service contractor directly to the media without first presenting them to the chief school administrator for resolution, and that both respondents violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) by surrendering their independent judgment to a special interest group consisting of District employee associations which had supported respondents' candidacy for Board membership and strongly opposed renewal of the existing food service contract. For these violations, the Commission recommended that both respondents be censured.

The Commissioner has reviewed the Commission's decision and the record of this matter. Additionally, the Commissioner has reviewed respondents' comments, jointly submitted, on the Commission's recommendation that they be censured.

In their comment, respondents urge the Commissioner to reject the Commission's recommendation, contending that:

> Contrary to the stated fact in the Decision, the Sodexho [food service] Contract was, in fact, renewed at the Meeting of the Hamilton Township Board of Education on May 28, 2003. This is public record. Although N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1 states that the findings of fact and determinations of violations are not reviewable by the Commissioner, this particular fact is not a "finding," but a matter of public record. The Commission found that both Respondents violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) which states, "I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or the gain of friends." A finding of fact by the Commission that is contrary to the actual public record is a significant error that the Commission should address prior to recommending any sanctions in the above-mentioned Complaint. This is particularly egregious since the outcome of the vote is relevant to the alleged violation. (Respondents' Comment at 1-2)

At the outset, the Commissioner emphasizes that, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, and as recognized by respondents, only the School Ethics Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act has occurred, and the Commission's decision in that regard is not reviewable by the Commissioner. Rather, the Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to review of any sanction the Commission may recommend based upon its determination that a school official has violated the Act.

Given the nature of the Commissioner's review and upon full consideration of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the Commission's recommended sanction. The Commissioner so holds notwithstanding the error noted by respondents, since, regardless of whether it constitutes a "finding" reviewable by the Commissioner, it has no relation to the violation found with respect to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j), failure to report complaints to the administration prior to taking public action on them, and it is immaterial to the violation found with respect to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f), surrendering one's independent judgment to a special interest group. In this latter regard, the Commissioner specifically notes that, notwithstanding any action taken by the Board as a whole to renew or not renew the disputed food service contract, respondents each admitted that they voted not to renew it. (Complaint at 6, paragraph 19; Response of John F. Kruschwitz, II at 3, paragraph 19; Response of Wendy Sturgeon at 6, paragraph 19) Additionally, on November 25, 2003, the Commission acted to issue an amended decision correcting its prior factual error while still retaining its analyses, determinations of violation and recommendation for penalty.[1]

Date of Decision: 12/19/03

Date of Mailing: 12/19/03

[1] The October 31, 2003 decision reads, at the last sentence of the "Facts" section ending on page 3, "The contract with Sodexho was not renewed." The November 25, 2003 decision reads, at the same place, "The contract with Sodexho was renewed." In all other respects, the decisions are identical.

[2] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(d) and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to the latter, Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

IN THE MATTER OF MICHAEL TULLO,	:
NEW HORIZONS CHARTER SCHOOL,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

December 22, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
V.	:
	:	Docket No.: D19-03
MICHAEL TULLO NEW HORIZONS CHARTER SCHOOL ESSEX COUNTY	:	RESOLUTION FOR FAILING TO FILE DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 of the School Ethics Act requires each school official to file a personal/relative disclosure statement and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26 requires each school official to file a financial disclosure statement for the School Ethics Commission; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Michael Tullo is a member of the New Horizons Charter School Board of Trustees and thus a "school official" under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the Act and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2 of the Code; and

WHEREAS, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003 and 30 days from swearing-in or start of employment for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office as required by the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Commission sent a reminder letter to him on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003, directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the disclosure statements; and

WHEREAS, the school official failed to reply to the Order to Show Cause; and

WHEREAS, in its letter enclosing the Order, the Commission notified this school official that the Commission would discuss this matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official was given ample opportunity to provide the complete disclosure statement; and

WHEREAS, the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from his Board, until he files the required form, but removal if he fails to file within 30 days from the date of the Commissioner's decision on penalty, especially in light of the failure to respond to the Commission's reminder letter before the September 15, 2003 deadline.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Michael Tullo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of suspension from his Board, but removal if he fails to file within 30 days from the effective date of the Commissioner's decision.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson
School Ethics Commission

Dated: October 28, 2003

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to you, you may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 Riverview Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 417-11/03

IN THE MATTER OF MICHAEL TULLO, :

NEW HORIZONS CHARTER SCHOOL, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

ESSEX COUNTY : DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named school official for failure to file a personal/relative disclosure statement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and/or an annual financial disclosure statement required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26;

Whereas, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003, or 30 days from swearing in or start of service for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission, was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office, as required by the Act; and

Whereas, the Commission sent a reminder letter to the above-named school official on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(j), the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003 directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the necessary statement(s), with a cover letter

indicating that the Commission would discuss the matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting, that the named official had the right to attend, and that the Commission could, at that meeting, find a violation of the School Ethics Act and recommend a penalty up to removal; and

Whereas, the above-named school official failed to reply to the Order to Show Cause and provided no reason for his failure to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission found that failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline, despite ample opportunity to do so, constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 28, 2003 to recommend suspension of the above-named school official until he files the necessary disclosure statement, and his automatic removal from the Board of Trustees if he fails to file within 30 days, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated November 7, 2003 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending removal; and

Whereas, no response was submitted to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, the Commissioner has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission; and

Whereas, the Commissioner recognizes that, were the Commission's recommendation to be adopted without modification, school officials filing the requisite disclosure statement prior to the decision of the Commissioner, and hence, prior to imposition of the recommended suspension, would receive no penalty notwithstanding that the School Ethics Act was violated and the Commission has recommended reprimands for school officials who failed to file until after issuance of the Order to Show Cause; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that, as recommended by the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official be suspended until he files the necessary disclosure statement, and automatically removed from the Board of Trustees if he fails to file within 30 days. IT IS additionally ORDERED that even if the above-named school official shall have filed the necessary statement prior to the filing date of this decision, he shall nevertheless be reprimanded for his failure to abide by the requirements of the School Ethics Act despite many opportunities for compliance, thereby causing administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials.*

ALBERT ZIEGLER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF BAYONNE, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, former teacher of Employment Orientation, alleged the Board violated his tenure rights when it terminated his contract two months into the 1998-99 school year on the assertion that he was not certified for the new courses to which he was assigned following elimination of his previously assigned courses. The ALJ found that petitioner was entitled to be reemployed by the Board since his Employment Orientation endorsement permitted him to teach certain vocational courses which the Board was continuing to offer. The Commissioner, however, was not persuaded that the issue of petitioner's qualification to teach these courses could be summarily resolved, and he remanded the matter for further factfinding on the actual content of the courses at issue so as to determine the certification required to teach them.

On remand, the ALJ concluded that the courses to which petitioner claimed entitlement did, in fact, fall within the scope of petitioner's Employment Orientation endorsement, so that petitioner was entitled to be reemployed and assigned to them.

The Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision, finding that the classes at issue were subject area vocational courses requiring appropriate specialized certification, and were thus beyond the limited scope of the Employment Orientation endorsement. The petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: February 21, 2003 Decided: August 8, 2003

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Albert Ziegler, was terminated from his position as a Shop Teacher by the Board of Education of the City of Bayonne on November 23, 1998. Ziegler appealed contending that his tenure rights had been violated. Cross Motions for Summary Judgment were filed and the undersigned concluded that Ziegler was entitled to tenure and that he should be reinstated.

The Commissioner of Education agreed that Ziegler had earned tenure but was not convinced that reinstatement was an issue that could be resolved in a summary fashion. The Commissioner in his decision stated the following:

> However, in order to determine whether the Board improperly terminated petitioner on November 23, 1998 and whether petitioner is entitled to reinstatement to his tenured position of employment it is also necessary to examine what skills are required to be taught, and are actually taught, by a teacher of Shop 9, Shop 10, Maintenance and Repair and Industrial Technology.

The Commissioner goes on to say:

> This matter, therefore, is remanded to the OAL for further fact finding as necessary to determine (1) The actual duties of and skills taught by a teacher of Shop 9, Shop 10, Maintenance and Repair and Industrial Technology within the Board's Industrial Arts Program; (2) Whether petitioner's endorsement as a teacher of employment orientation permits him to teach any or all of the courses; and (3) If petitioner is entitled to teach any or all of these courses, what back pay and emoluments are now due as a result of his improper termination.

Although Ziegler does not have a Bachelor's Degree, he does have a Skilled Trade Certificate, which allows him to teach Employment Orientation.

Ziegler does not dispute the fact that he is not certified in Industrial Arts which the Board's contends encompasses Shop 9, Shop 10, Maintenance/Repair and Industrial Technology. Ziegler contends that the subject matter actually taught in these classes are in essence what he has been teaching for years and that he should not be terminated because the verbiage of his certification does not equal the verbiage of the certification requirements for Industrial Arts.

TESTIMONY

The Board's first witness was Alfred Pissciotti. He has been a teacher for 37 years and is certified as an Industrial Arts teacher and has a vocational certification for automotive technology. Mr. Pissciotti, who has taught Shop 9, described it as a course in which students would spend one marking period in different trade areas. Mr. Pissciotti focused on basic wood working for his semester. The course was not designed specifically for Special Education or Special Needs students but was in fact, from Pissciotti's testimony, taught on a very basic level. According to Pissciotti, the course was designed to reinforce other basic skills taught to students like math and science. It was not a required course, but was a prerequisite to Industrial Technology II, which was a more advanced woodworking course.

The next witness to testify was Dedicacon DeJesus was also certified to teach Industrial Arts and had been teaching at the time of the hearing for two years.

Mr. DeJesus taught Shop 9 in his first year on a rotated basis. In his second year, the rotating basis had been abandoned and Mr. DeJesus taught Shop 9 for Special Education Students. Mr. DeJesus indicated that the course focused on the basic tools for woodworking and the basic skills necessary to handle those tools. Mr. DeJesus did try to incorporate other subject matter into the course for example, basic electricity and drafting, but his flexibility was limited by the nature and capacity of his students.

Richard Roberts, who also had been employed in the district for two years at the time of the hearing, held an endorsement for Industrial Arts and Teacher of the Handicapped and had been assigned to teach Shop 9 during his tenure. In his first year, like Mr. DeJesus before him, he was involved with the rotation system and taught drafting. In his second year, he taught drafting and woodshop in the Shop 9 course. According to Roberts, the course labeled Shop 9 exposed the students to basic tools used in woodworking and drafting. In combining the drafting and woodworking, Roberts had the students plan a project and then produce it as part of the woodworking component.

Only Dedicacon DeJesus testified that he taught Shop 10. Shop 10 was a progression from Shop 9. The Shop 10 class that Mr. DeJesus was teaching in his second year at the time of the hearing was mostly Special Ed., although not exclusively. The course was project based and students would learn how to use power tools and other machinery. Woodworking was definitely the emphasis.

Both Alfred Pissciotti and Dedicacon DeJesus taught maintenance and repair classes. The course was designed to give basic instruction in the areas of plumbing, masonry, electrical, carpentry, fluid movement and painting and decorating. It is designed to give special need students exposure to simple repairs to items that might be the subject of janitorial or general maintenance work.

Industrial Technology taught by Mr. Pissciotti and Mr. Roberts was similar in content to Shop 9 but in more detail. It ranges from the use of simple tools to the construction of basic wood joints and other more sophisticated wood skills.

In addition to the teachers delineated above, Doctor Michael Wanko, the Principle of Bayonne High School also testified.

He filled in some background by indicating that Mr. Ziegler had been assigned to Bayonne High School in 1994. Prior to that, Mr. Ziegler had been teaching at the alternative school which was a program for 6th, 7th and 8th graders who although high school age were experiencing academic difficulties. The alternative program was phased out at about the time Mr. Ziegler was transferred to Bayonne High School. According to Dr. Wanko, the alternative school had a program known as Employment Orientation, which was designed to assess students' vocational abilities. The Singer System, which was a series of carrels, utilizing filmstrips and cassette tapes to acquaint the students with various trades was used only by Ziegler.

The next witness to testify was Tom Jacobson, Supervisor for Industrial Arts in Bayonne who prepares the evaluations of all Industrial Arts and Vocational teachers. Jacobson confirmed that, at the time he made his observation of Mr. Ziegler in Shop 9 during 1998, the course was a project based wood shop in which the students, after receiving basic instruction would work on their own wood projects. Mr. Ziegler's testimony was challenged on cross-examination, which was very effectively conducted by Mr. Merryman. Mr. Ziegler's credibility was undoubtedly put into question by what appeared to be an attempt to answer for the unanswerable. For example, Ziegler indicated that after being transferred from the alternative school to Bayonne High School, he continued to teach a vast array of subject matters, which would have given the students exposure to many more areas than are actually reflected in his observations by his supervisors. Two of his observations from 1995 and 1996 and from 1998 to 1999 indicate that his students were working on individual wood projects. However, Ziegler's credibility is simply not dispositive of the issues before the court. What is at issue was delineated by the Commissioner of Education in that it was to be determined by further fact-finding concerning what the duties of and skills taught by the teachers of Shop 9, Shop 10, Maintenance/Repair and Industrial Technology encompass and whether Ziegler's endorsement permits him to teach any of the courses.

THE LAW

Ziegler has a certificate as a Teacher of Skilled Trades. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(27) states

> Teacher of Skilled Trades: This endorsement authorizes the holder to teach skilled trade courses in the area of his or her State Approved Occupational Experience in all public schools. Presently, a list of skilled trades is incorporated into the code.

Ziegler received his Employment Orientation Endorsement in March of 1981. Apparently, this endorsement, which is no longer issued, was last issued in 1982, shortly after Ziegler received his. At the time he received his endorsement, it did not contain a list of authorize skilled trades, but there was a "fact sheet" which described employment orientation as follows:

> Employment Orientation is a significant and integral component of the school's career development sequence for special needs, handicap or disadvantage students. It is designed to assist special needs students to develop sound work habits and attitudes and basic vocational and interpersonal skills through the use of vocational evaluation, simulated work in basic vocational instruction. Because > employment orientation offers in-school, hands-on vocational experiences, it is the major link between career, exploratory and awareness activities and specific vocational training for special needs students.

The endorsement for Industrial Arts at N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(13) states as follows:

> This endorsement authorizes the holder to teach Industrial Arts in all public schools. Industrial Arts normally includes: graphic arts, drafting, woodworking, metalworking, arts and power mechanics.

As pointed out by petitioner, the regulations define the scope of Industrial Arts by the nature of its subject matter.

Petitioner argues that characterization by the Board of the courses in questions as "Industrial Arts" does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that those who teach the course must be certified as Teachers of Industrial Arts. The characterization of the course must be supported by an analysis of the duties performed. Lipencot v. Board of Educ. Of Wachung Hills Reg. High School Dist. 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 311 aff'd St. Bd. Of Educ. 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 430, aff'd App. Div. 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 304.

DISCUSSION

Skilled Trades-Employment Orientation reflected a program, which envisioned an evaluation process, a teaching and basic skill phase and an actual hands-on practice of skills.

As originally conceived, Special Needs students would be given a more broad based exposure to various skilled trades then what is presently occurring at Bayonne High School. However, petitioner argues that the "slimmed down" nature of the exposure does not preclude Ziegler under his certification from teaching the basics of woodworking and carpentry. The testimony of the teachers in this matter, confirmed that those courses, which primarily encompass Special Needs Students (that are now all Special Needs students) taught only rudimentary skills accompanied by rather simple individual projects. The description of Employment Orientation in the fact-sheet indicates "Employment Orientation is designed to develop sound work habits and attitudes in basic vocational and interpersonal skills through the use of vocational evaluation and simulated work in basic vocational instruction."

Ziegler's endorsement as a Teacher of Employment Orientation having been discontinued in 1982 or 1983 indirectly creates the debate involved herein. The absence of the certification leads to an absence of updated requirements. Thus, in the twenty years that Ziegler has had the certification, no attention has been paid to its standards and requirements of its possession. The present duties of teachers of Shop 9, Shop 10, Maintenance and Repair and Industrial Technology are far less demanding when applied exclusively to Special Education students and come just as close to the student anticipated in the course of employment orientation in that employment orientation was in fact designed for Special Education and Special Needs students. The description by the teachers presently teaching the four courses confirms that their duties do not extend much past the rudimentary introduction to skilled trades with an emphasis on woodworking.

I FIND as a matter of FACT that the actual duties of and skills taught by the teachers of Shop 9, Shop 10, Maintenance Repair and Industrial Technology are, as presently constituted, no different than the skills Ziegler has acquired by virtue of his Employment Orientation Certification and actually teaching the courses. The skills required by an Employment Orientation Certification as issued twenty years ago encompassed the skills presently be exhibited by the teachers at Bayonne High School in that the various areas of basic skills has been narrowed but those areas still being taught at the high school are all encompassed in a Employment Orientation Certificate.

CONCLUSION

Albert Ziegler is entitled to reinstatement as a teacher with back pay. The amount of the back pay is undecided in that there was not enough evidence of salary or mitigation, if any, to allow an exact figure to be determined. It is further ORDERED that no prejudgment interest will attach to the back pay since a showing of "bad faith" by a preponderance of the evidence was not sustained.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ALBERT ZIEGLER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF BAYONNE, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Office of Administrative Law's Initial Decision on Remand have been reviewed. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, the respondent Board of Education (Board) filed timely exceptions, to which petitioner duly replied.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to take account of the full spectrum of evidence in assessing the courses at issue, leading to their mischaracterization as rudimentary introductions to skilled trades and to the erroneous conclusion that petitioner's Skilled Trades certificate, along with the classroom experience he has gained over the years, authorizes him to teach them. The Board contends that these courses are not introductions to skilled trades, as found by the ALJ, but rather genuine Industrial Arts offerings, clearly distinguishable from Employment Orientation courses and requiring teachers with Industrial Arts certification. By concluding that petitioner may teach them, the Board opines, the ALJ has effectively converted the limited Skilled Trades certificate into a regular instructional certificate encompassing all the industrial arts. (Board's Exceptions at 2-7, 8-14, 16-18) The Board

additionally rejects the ALJ's "conclusion" that special education students do not require a fully certified teacher (Id. at 7-8); his reliance, notwithstanding concerns about petitioner's credibility as raised in the Initial Decision at 4-5, on petitioner's testimony to the effect that the courses at issue are merely "slimmed down" versions of prior Employment Orientation courses (Id. at 15-16); his ordering of petitioner's reemployment without any consideration of whether courses within the scope of petitioner's certification and seniority rights are presently being taught in the District (Id. at 20); and his ordering of back pay despite insufficient information on record about petitioner's attempts (or lack thereof) to mitigate damages. (Ibid.)[1]

In reply, petitioner counters that the Board persists in its error of equating what is stated in curriculum guides or course descriptions with what is actually being taught in the classroom, as described by the staff members doing the teaching. In petitioner's view, Shop 9, whether the special or the non-special education section, is "a very basic, introductory level class designed to give students some information and instruction regarding tools and their uses," with "a great deal of flexibility in how the course is taught and a level of instruction somewhat less sophisticated [than] the [specified course] proficiencies appear." (Petitioner's Reply at 2) Shop 10 is "a progression from Shop 9," continuing the subject matter with "somewhat more advanced instruction," and consisting of mostly or all special education students. (Id. at 5-6) Maintenance and Repair is limited to special education students and provides basic instruction in the areas of plumbing, masonry, electrical, carpentry, fluid movement, and

[1] The Board also notes the Initial Decision's error in indicating that the record of this matter was closed on February 21, 2003 rather than February 25, 2002, and asks that, if the Initial Decision is otherwise adopted, back pay not be awarded for the period from April 2002 to the present, since petitioner should not receive a windfall at the expense of the Board on account of the ALJ's 16-month delay in issuing a decision. (Id. at 19)

painting and decorating, at a level suitable to household repair, janitorial or maintenance work. (Id. at 6-7) Industrial Technology covers the same subjects and skills as Shop 9, but in greater depth and with an eye toward their use in society and industry, resulting in a course that is project-based, employs hand and power tools, is taught to both special and non-special education students, and focuses primarily on woodworking with other areas covered if they happened to arise. (Id. at 7-8)[2]

Petitioner reiterates that his Teacher of Employment Orientation endorsement authorizes him to teach these "introductory or rudimentary Skilled Trades" courses, and that he, in fact, did so for years before the Board erroneously determined to characterize them as Industrial Arts courses. Petitioner compares the scope of the Industrial Arts endorsement, which includes graphic arts, drafting, woodworking, metal working, arts and power mechanics, with that of the Teacher of Skilled Trades endorsement, which, although in its present form does not include a specified list of trades, over the years has included aircraft mechanics, appliance repair, auto mechanics, brick and masonry, cabinet making, carpentry, custodial training, drafting, electrical construction trades, painting and decorating. According to petitioner, "each of these skilled trades is, in theory or practice, part of the courses in review in this case," a significant fact because the Employment Orientation endorsement, which petitioner holds and under which he taught basic introductory skills for years, is a subcategory of the Teacher of Skilled Trades endorsement. (Petitioner's Reply at 9-13, quotation at 11)

[2] Petitioner also rejects as baseless the Board's allegation that the Initial Decision somehow views special education/special needs students as less deserving of fully certified teachers, observing that the ALJ reached no such conclusion but merely analyzed what was actually taking place in the classroom in order to determine the certification required to teach the courses at issue. (Id. at 9)

Petitioner further contends that his career in the Board's District has been consistent with the scope of Employment Orientation as described in the Department of Education's 1985 Fact Sheet (Attachment to Stipulation of Facts) that remains valid as shown by its parallel to current regulation:

> Employment Orientation is a significant and integral component of the schools' career development sequence for special needs, handicapped or disadvantaged students. It is designed to assist special needs students to develop sound work habits and attitudes and basic vocational and interpersonal skills through the use of vocational evaluation, simulated work and basic vocational instruction. Because Employment Orientation offers in-school, hands-on vocational experiences, it is the major link between career exploratory and awareness activities and specific vocational training for special needs students. (Cf., N.J.A.C. 6A:19-1.2 and 6A:19-6.3)

Petitioner contends that throughout his employ, just as contemplated by this description, he taught basic introductory skills, either at the alternative school or the high school, to primarily special education, special needs, and disadvantaged students, in order to provide them with a variety of in-school, hands-on vocational experiences that might interest them in careers or more advanced coursework in masonry, carpentry, plumbing, home repair, welding, electrical work and the like. According to petitioner, there is "very little difference" between the instruction provided by him and that offered in the courses at issue herein; it is "simply a matter of degrees," since petitioner covered a dozen or more skills through use of the Singer work-station system, while the present classes cover fewer skills but retain the same basic instructional level and purpose. It makes no sense, petitioner reasons, to hold that he is qualified to teach a program that covers "far more vocational experiences and career opportunities" and yet is not qualified to teach "fewer skills in the current courses." (Petitioner's Reply at 13-15, quotations at 13-14)

Petitioner reiterates that, since he is qualified to teach the courses at issue and these were assigned to nontenured teachers in sufficient number to have provided him with a full-time schedule, his tenure rights were violated by his termination and he is entitled to all the relief he seeks, including reinstatement, back pay less mitigation, pre-judgment and post-judgment interest, seniority credit, pension credit and contributions, reimbursement for medical insurance and expenses, restoration of any benefits or emoluments received by comparable teaching staff members since the time of his termination, and "[r]eferral of this matter to the County Superintendent's office for oversight to ensure that the Board complies with its obligations under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 in the future." (Petitioner's Reply at 16-20, quotation at 20)

Upon review, however, the Commissioner cannot agree with petitioner and the ALJ that petitioner holds appropriate certification to teach the classes to which he herein claims entitlement. Even accepting, arguendo, petitioner's contention that the nature of these courses must be determined by teachers' testimony about what is actually taught in them rather than by paper syllabi, the Commissioner finds the courses to be beyond the scope of the limited certificate held by petitioner.

Petitioner is certified as a Teacher of Employment Orientation. As he himself notes, at a time when the Employment Orientation endorsement was more commonly in use, the Department of Education described Employment Orientation as > a significant and integral component of the schools' career development sequence for special needs, handicapped or disadvantaged students[,] designed to assist special needs students to develop sound work habits and attitudes and basic vocational and interpersonal skills through the use of vocational evaluation, simulated work and basic vocational instruction[, and offering] in-school, hands-on vocational experiences[so as to serve as] the major link between career > exploratory and awareness activities and specific vocational training for special needs students. (Joint Stipulation, attached "Fact Sheet")

Consistent with this view, the Department stated that the program objectives of Employment Orientation were:

> To identify students' vocational interests, abilities, aptitudes, and employability characteristics, and develop an individualized vocational profile for each student;
>
> To modify and/or develop and reinforce appropriate work habits and attitudes in line with the world-of-work and the specific needs of the students; and
> To provide basic vocational training which will prepare students for entry into a vocational education program. (Joint Exhibit XX)

Elaborating on this three-prong purpose, the Department presented Employment Orientation as a pre-vocational program with three distinct phases: the vocational evaluation phase, the simulated work experience phase, and the initial vocational training and exploration phase. The evaluation phase is designed "to identify and assess each student's work habits and attitudes, as well as his or her vocational interests, abilities, and aptitudes and to establish an individual student's profile of vocational potential." Where necessary, students then participate in simulated work experience, designed to "[modify, develop and/or reinforce] desirable work habits and attitudes;" when ready, they advance to the initial vocational training/exploration phase, where each student is provided "with actual experiences that reinforce his or her potential and capabilities, and to prepare him or her for future employment or vocational training." This is most commonly accomplished through a de-centralized approach, using a shop or lab where various learning centers are set up, with each addressing one occupational area and designed as a self-contained, self-instructional unit. Successful completion of Employment Orientation will ideally lead to a student's placement in a regular or cooperative vocational education program. (Joint Exhibit YY at 5-15)

The Department's description of Employment Orientation is entirely consistent with Bayonne's former program as taught by petitioner (Joint Exhibits I, K, L, M, P, R, S, U, V) and described by Principal Wanko, who noted in particular petitioner's use of the Singer system, "a series of carrels, utilizing filmstrips and cassette tapes to acquaint the students with various trades." (Initial Decision at 4)

The courses petitioner now seeks to teach, however, do not differ from his former Employment Orientation classes merely in degree, as he claims, but in kind. Shop 9, Shop 10, Maintenance & Repair and Industrial Technology as they are presently taught at Bayonne High School may well be at the lower end of the vocational education spectrum in content level and student capacity, and may share overlapping elements with the third and culminating phase of Employment Orientation as described above. But that does not alter their fundamental nature as specific subject-area courses requiring appropriate subject-area certification,[3] rather than as broad-based introductions to the world of work covered by a generalist endorsement expressly limited in its authorization to exploring the aptitudes and interests of special needs students, enhancing their overall work-readiness, and providing them with introductory exposure to a variety of trades so as to prepare them for entry into actual vocational education programs.

[3] Shop 9, despite its rotational structure and occasional limited introduction of other elements, is taught almost entirely as a woodworking and drafting course (Initial Decision at 3, 4-5; Exceptions at 4-5); Shop 10 likewise focuses on woodworking (Initial Decision at 3-4; Exceptions at 6); Maintenance and Repair, although it covers a number of areas, is taught specifically as preparation for custodial and general maintenance work (Initial Decision at 4; Exceptions at 6); and Industrial Technology centers on woodworking at a higher level (Initial Decision at 4; Exceptions at 8).

The record in this matter is clear that, as claimed by the Board, Employment Orientation is no longer offered as a discrete program in the Bayonne School District; rather, the District has incorporated elements of Employment Orientation into its regular vocational class structure.[4] But petitioner's qualification to teach Employment Orientation does not concomitantly qualify him to teach the classes into which it has been subsumed. While petitioner may, indeed, as found by the ALJ, have acquired, "by virtue of his Employment Orientation Certification and actually teaching the courses[,]the skills presentlyexhibited by the teachers at Bayonne High School" in teaching certain of the school's vocational classes "as presently constituted" (Initial Decision at 7), the fact remains that he does not hold the subject area certifications that would authorize him to do so. As noted by the ALJ in Deborah Ulrich v. Board of Education of the Monmouth County Vocational School District, Monmouth County, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d(EDU) 290, the "relevant inquiry regarding certification is not what a person can teach, but what a person may teach." (emphasis supplied) (at 293) Nor can the Board be compelled to restructure its program by once again segregating Employment Orientation elements, so as to accommodate petitioner's tenure rights.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Commissioner finds that petitioner is not appropriately certified for the assignments to which he lays claim, so that the Board did not violate his tenure rights by terminating his employment. Thus, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law is rejected and the Petition of Appeal dismissed with respect to the relief sought. However, in view of his tenure status, [4] Such incorporation is fully consistent with the Department's discontinuance of Employment Orientation as a separate endorsement.

petitioner is to be placed on a preferred eligibility list for reemployment if and when an assignment within the scope of his certification becomes available in the District.[5]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[6]

FIELDS HOWARD NEWARK BOARD OF EDUC. ESSEX COUNTY	:	RESOLUTION FOR FAILING TO FILE DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 of the School Ethics Act requires each school official to file a personal/relative disclosure statement and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26 requires each school official to file a financial disclosure statement for the School Ethics Commission; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Howard is a member of the Newark Board of Education and thus a "school official" under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the Act and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2 of the Code; and

WHEREAS, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003 and 30 days from swearing-in or start of employment for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office as required by the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Commission sent a reminder letter to Mr. Howard on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003, directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the disclosure statements; and

WHEREAS, the school official failed to reply to the Order to Show Cause; and

WHEREAS, in its letter enclosing the Order, the Commission notified this school official that the Commission would discuss this matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official was given ample opportunity to provide the complete disclosure statement; and

WHEREAS, the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from his Board, but removal if he does not file with the County office within 30 days of the effective date of the Commissioner's decision on penalty, especially in light of the failure to respond to the Commission's reminder letter before the September 15, 2003 deadline.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Fields Howard violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of suspension, but removal if he does not file within 30 days of the effective date of the Commissioner's decision.

Whereas, the Commission found that failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the above-referenced school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 28, 2003 to recommend suspension of the above-named school official until he files the necessary disclosure statement, and his automatic removal from the board if he fails to file within 30 days, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated November 7, 2003 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending removal; and

Whereas, neither the above-named school official nor anyone on his behalf submitted a response for the Commissioner's consideration; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission; and

Whereas, the Commissioner recognizes that, were the Commission's recommendation to be adopted without modification, school officials filing the requisite disclosure statement prior to the decision of the Commissioner, and hence, prior to imposition of the recommended suspension, would receive no penalty notwithstanding that the School Ethics Act was violated and the Commission has recommended reprimands for school officials who failed to file until after issuance of the Order to Show Cause; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that, as recommended by the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official be suspended until he files the necessary disclosure statement, and automatically removed from the Board if he fails to file within 30 days. IT IS additionally ORDERED that even if the above-named school official shall have filed the necessary statement prior to the filing date of this decision, he shall nevertheless be reprimanded for his failure to abide by the requirements of the School Ethics Act despite many opportunities for compliance, thereby causing administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials.*

V.	:
	:	Docket No.: D02-03
RICHARD ZAPPY GREATER EGG HARBOR BOARD OF EDUCATION ATLANTIC COUNTY	:	RESOLUTION FOR FAILING TO FILE DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 of the School Ethics Act requires each school official to file a personal/relative disclosure statement and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26 requires each school official to file a financial disclosure statement for the School Ethics Commission; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Zappy is a member of the Greater Egg Harbor Board of Education and thus a "school official" under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the Act and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2 of the Code; and

WHEREAS, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003 and 30 days from swearing-in or start of employment for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office as required by the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Commission sent a reminder letter to him on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003, directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the disclosure statements; and

WHEREAS, the school official failed to reply to the Order to Show Cause; and

WHEREAS, in its letter enclosing the Order, the Commission notified this school official that the Commission would discuss this matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official was given ample opportunity to provide the complete disclosure statement; and

WHEREAS, the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from his Board, but removal if he does not file within 30 days of the date of the Commissioner's decision on penalty, especially in light of his failure to respond to the Commission's reminder letter before the September 15, 2003 deadline.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Richard Zappy violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of suspension, but removal if he does not file within 30 days of the effective date of the Commissioner's decision.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTH ORANGE-MAPLEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's determination that her child was not domiciled in the District and its demand for tuition from petitioner, claiming that she never changed her domicile, but became homeless.

The ALJ determined that petitioner and her child had not been domiciled or resided in the South Orange-Maplewood School District since October 2001, but, in fact, had been and continue to be domiciled in Union, New Jersey. The ALJ ordered payment of tuition to the Board at a per diem rate of $50.29 for the dates of D.P.'s ineligible attendance during the 2002-03 school year.

The Commissioner adopted the decision of the ALJ finding that D.P. was not domiciled in the South Orange-Maplewood School District so as to be entitled to a free public education in respondent's District, but modified the tuition calculation, ordering petitioner to pay the District tuition in the amount of $9,345.00 for the 2002-03 school year and $50.29 for each day of D.P.'s ineligible attendance in the 2003-04 school year. The Commissioner denied the Board's claim for pre and post-judgment interest and legal fees.

B.W., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, D.P.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOAD OF EDUCATION OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF SOUTH ORANGE-MAPLEWOOD, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Beverly Williams, Petitioner, pro se

Joanne Butler, Esq., for Respondent (Schenck, Price, Smith and King, LLP)

Record Closed: October 20, 2003 Decided: November 21, 2003

BEFORE SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the Board of Education of the School District South Orange Maplewood (BOE/Respondent), held a hearing and determined that D.P., the child of B.W. (Petitioner/B.W.), was not domiciled within the BOE's school district, although she continued to attend a school within the district. Consequently, the BOE decided that the child should be removed from the school and that B.W. should pay a per diem rate on the $9,345.00 tuition for 2002-2003 attendance in Respondent's district.

According to the papers filed, B.W. alleges that she and her child, D.P., remained domiciled within Respondent's district, since she never changed her domicile, but became homeless. Thus, B.W. claims that the BOE was and is required to provide her child with a free public education. The BOE submits that B.W. has not met her burden of proof and counterclaims for an order requiring B.W. to pay tuition.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 8, 2002, the BOE informed B.W. that she was required to withdraw D.P. as a student from the South Orange Maplewood School District and enroll her in the Union School District, where B.W was domiciled. On November 1, 2002, B.W. filed a residency appeal with the Commissioner of Education. On November 13, 2002, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, forwarded correspondence to B.W. to advise that the matter would proceed as a residency appeal. On February 3, 2003 the BOE filed an answer to the aforesaid appeal and included a counterclaim for tuition. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 4, 2003, where it was received and filed as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). A hearing was scheduled for September 11, 2003, testimony was completed and exhibits were marked and entered on the record. As Ordered, the record was closed on October 20, 2003 upon receipt of post hearing briefs.

ISSUE

Was Petitioner domiciled in South Orange Maplewood during all or any part of the 2002-2003 school year?

TESTIMONY

Tiffani Barnes (T.B.) – has been the Registrar for the South Orange Maplewood Board of Education (BOE) since April 2002. The Registrar's duties include: registration of all new and returning students, residence checks, residency verifications, parent letters, student withdrawals and preparation for and testimony at residency hearings before the BOE and other tribunals as required.

T.B. has known student D.P. since April 2002 and is familiar with her chronological student school history. (Exhibit R-1). In September 2001 T.B. commenced an inquiry of D.P.'s residency with a letter mailed to B.W. (D.P.'s mother); a copy of the letter was also hand delivered by D.P. Two weeks elapsed and B.W. did not respond to the letter, so an Officer of Residency Verification was dispatched to B.W. and D.P.'s home on Boyden Street in Maplewood. The Officer was unable to determine if the family still resided on Boyden Street. On October 8, 2001 D.P. was picked-up by the Maplewood Police because she had been standing on a corner near the Boyden Street residence for two hours, waiting for her mother. The Officer of Residency Verification was given D.P.'s File Summary Form Of Student Information to review and was again dispatched to the Maplewood residence. (Exhibit R-2). The Officer spoke with the first floor tenant who informed him that the family had moved from Boyden Street one week ago. The BOE mailed a letter to B.W. which required that D.P. be removed from the school district. (Exhibit R-3). On or about October 24, 2001 B.W. submitted a letter to the BOE which provided notice of a new address on Valley Street in Maplewood. On November 4, 2001 she submitted a "Landlord Affidavit" which noted her new address; the Affidavit was not acceptable because it did not bear a notarized signature. (Exhibit R-4). A note disclaiming the "Landlord Affidavit" was recorded in the school files on November 29, 2001. (Exhibit R-5).

In December 2001 B.W. disclosed her homelessness to the BOE. She was referred to a Help Counselor and asked to submit verification from an agency of her homelessness. When B.W. did not submit verification by January 18, 2002, a hearing on residency and education entitlement in Respondent's school district was set for February 7, 2002. A Case Summary Narrative and an Activity List was submitted to the BOE members to prepare for the hearing. (Exhibits R-1, R-6). After the meeting, the Superintendent mailed B.W. a summary letter with instructions for submission of additional information which was required from B.W. (Exhibit R-7). The Superintendent's letter was hand delivered to B.W. by her children, since a current address had not been provided to the BOE. On February 15, 2002, B.W. submitted to the BOE a copy of a Verification Application for Work First New Jersey Temporary Assistance To Needy Families (WFNJ/TANF) AFDC/Food Stamps (Exhibit R-8). After B.W.'s February 15, 2002 submission was reviewed, the Superintendent of the South Orange Maplewood BOE had another letter hand delivered to B.W. which outlined the remaining outstanding items she needed to present. (Exhibit R-9). B.W. did not submit the additional information within the requested ten-day response period. On April 15, 2002, the BOE passed Resolution 1492 which ordered the transfer or removal B.W.'s children for Respondent's school district. (Exhibit R-10). A letter dated April 16, 2002 was hand delivered to B.W. to advise her of the Resolution and that she had twenty-one days to appeal the notice. (Exhibit R-11).

On March 7, 2002 B.W. received her denial letter for Family Care and Food Stamps addressed to her at 1867 Manor Drive in Union. (Exhibit R-12). There was no mention of her homelessness in the denial letters. B.W. again visited Respondent's offices and explained that admission of her children in the Union School District was denied because of inappropriate documentation. T.B said that B.W. told her that she did not want her children in the Union School District because there were too many Black People there. Donald Wright B.W.'s boyfriend, the alleged sole owner/renter of 1867 Manor Drive in Union, prepared a letter of explanation regarding B.W.'s homelessness and her temporary residence. (Exhibit R-13). T.B. showed Donald Wright's letter to her Superintendent and two Board Members, and based on the letter and the fact that it was late in the year, Respondent School District allowed the children to stay in the school District only for the purpose of completing the 2001-2002 school year. (Exhibit R-14). Resolution No. 1512 to rescind the Transfer and Removal Resolution 1492 was presented at Respondent School District's BOE meeting on May 13, 2002. (Exhibit R-15).

In May 2002 B.W.'s application for WFNJ/TANF benefits was denied and B.W. wrote to Governor McGreevey and Senator Corzine regarding the denial decision; both replied. (Exhibits R-16, R-17, R-18). By Action Letter dated November 11, 2002 B.W.

was notified that cash and food stamps benefits were granted retroactive to October 1, 2002. (Exhibit R-33).

Based on a July 25, 2002 residency check by the Officer of Residency Verification, B.W. was living with her boyfriend D. Wright at 1867 Manor Drive in Union, New Jersey. The Officer saw B.W. and her children's names on the mailbox and spoke with a representative in the complex management office and learned that B.W.'s children also live there and their names are listed on the Lease Agreement (Exhibit R-19). One month later, on or about August 22, 2002 B.W. came to T.B.'s and informed a Registrar's Agent S. Sommer, of her continued homelessness. (Exhibit R-20). On August 28, 2002 the BOE personnel mailed to B.W.'s Union address (regular and certified mail) a request for verification of five items. (Exhibit R-21). B.W. returned to Respondent's office on September 2, 2002 with documents from the Unemployment Offices which had been mailed to her at 1867 Manor Drive in Union. (Exhibit R-22).

On September 5, 2002 the Officer of Residency Verification submitted a note to T.B. regarding his recent observance at 1867 Manor Drive in Union and a copy of the "Mill Run Application For Residency". (Exhibits R-23, R-24). Copies of documentation related to B.W.'s challenge to residency was given to the Superintendent of the South Orange Maplewood School District. (Exhibits R-24, 26). On October 1, 2002 Respondent's Superintendent mailed a letter to B.W. requiring removal of D.P. from the South Orange Maplewood School District by October 11, 2002. (Exhibit R-25). On October 8, 2002, the Superintendent mailed a letter to B.W. to inform her that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8(a) her daughter should not be considered homeless and she should be immediately enrolled in the Union School District. (Exhibit R-27). On October 15, 2002 B.W. visited Respondent's office twice for the purpose of discussing her homelessness; notes were taken. (Exhibit R-28).

On October 18, 2002 T.B. received a copy of the entire Mill Run Residency Application. She learned that the Lease would expire on September 30, 2003 and that rent checks were signed by Petitioner and paid from her Personal Checking account. (Exhibit R-29). On October 30, 2002 the South Orange Maplewood District Superintendent sent a letter to the Superintendent of the Union School District regarding D.P.'s permanent residency in Union. (Exhibit R-30). The Union Superintendent did not respond. The South Orange Maplewood District Superintendent also sent B.W. a letter dated October 30, 2002 to inform that D.P. is ineligible to continue school in Respondent's District. (Exhibit R-31).

On October 31, 2002 T.B. telephoned the Commissioner of Education to determine if an appeal had been filed; it had not. On November 1, 2002 B.W. brought her appeal documents to the BOE offices to be faxed to Trenton. On November 4, 2002 B.W. visited the BOE offices again to request that the appeal be faxed a second time. The BOE personnel declined to complete a second fax and told B.W. that the first fax was done as a courtesy and that it was strictly her responsibility to complete the transmittal of her appeal to Trenton. On November 13, 2002 the Commissioner of Education confirmed receipt of B.W.'s appeal. (Exhibit R-32).

The South Orange Maplewood School District established the following tuition rates:

Resolution No 11721 dated February 28, 2000 for 2000-01
Rates (Exhibit R-34);

Resolution No 1345C dated April 16, 2001 for 2001-02

PETITIONER'S TESTIMONY

Petitioner (B.W.) explained to the BOE that she had lost her job in August 2001 and lost her apartment in September 2001 and was homeless. She became depressed and needed medical attention and housing assistance. B.W. said she was placed on the Essex County "wait list" for housing assistance and needed to use an Essex County address for contacting purposes. She stayed with several friends in Newark until the end of 2001, but did not have letters to verify her temporary residence with them. B.W.'s boyfriend's letter regarding her residency with him in Union was submitted. (Exhibit R-13). B.W. said her name and her children's names had to be listed on the Mill Run Lease Agreement because the agreement required disclosure on all persons who would reside in the unit. B.W. explained to T.B. that all of her mail was received in Union, and that was the reason her name had to appear on the mailbox. In regard to the lack of reference to homelessness in the assistance applications, B.W. said that social workers told her that she could not be considered homeless if she had a roof over her head. In regard to the rent payments, B.W. said she was a Manager of Mid Range Systems for two years at Summit/Fleet Bank and still had privileges of free checks and money orders, so her checks were used and her boyfriend gave her the money. B.W. confirmed that her boyfriend stays at the Union apartment off and on. In regard to the bus stop incident, B.W. said she was still living on Boyden Street in Maplewood and there was no DYFS involvement since the landlord had called the police.

On cross-examination, B.W. confirmed that she no longer lives in Maplewood or South Orange. She said she never presented her eviction papers to the BOE because no one ever asked for them. B.W. acknowledged that her name appears on the September 10, 2001 Mill Run Application under the heading of "permanent resident"; and that her name and her children's names appear on the Lease Agreement dated October 1, 2002.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the facts, applicable law, legal discussion, credible testimony and evidence, I FIND:

1. Petitioner was provided with many opportunities to present proofs in meetings and at a hearing to show by a preponderance of the evidence that D.P. was eligible for a free education based on domicile within Respondent School District;

2. Petitioner failed to meet the burden of production of evidence to substantiate that her residency and that of her daughter was maintained in Respondent's school district between October 2001 and the present date;

3. As per N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) the Superintendent of Respondent School District correctly determined that D.P. was attending a District School while not domiciled within the district;

4. The Superintendent, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) correctly assessed D.P.'s prorated tuition on a per diem basis.

5. The following is credible evidence favoring a finding of Petitioner's permanent domicile and residency in Union, New Jersey from October 2001 through the present:

    (1). Absence from the Boyden Street Maplewood, New Jersey address;
    (2). Inability to provide proof of residency for another address in Maplewood, New Jersey;
    (3). Family Name and Union, New Jersey address on all mail after October 2001 (including the Governor's letter, Senator's letter, Unemployment, Work First New Jersey, Food Stamp, Respondent school district and other correspondence);

(4). Family name and children's names on the Application Agreement and Lease Agreement for the Union, New Jersey address;

(5). Family name and children's name on the mailbox for the Union, New Jersey address;

(6). Payment of rent at the Union, New Jersey address, using personal checking account and signing personal checks;

4. As per N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) the Superintendent of Respondent School District correctly determined that D.P. was attending a District School while not domiciled within the district;

5. The Superintendent, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) correctly assessed D.P.'s prorated tuition on a per diem basis.

6. Petitioner is not domiciled in the South Orange Maplewood School District.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

DOMICILE:

Domicile may be acquired in one of three ways: (1) through birth or place of origin; (2) through choice by a person legally capable of choosing his domicile; and (3) through operation of law in the case of a person who lacks capacity to acquire a new domicile by choice. In re Gillmore's Estate, 101 N.J. Super. 77, 87 (App. Div. 1968), cert. den., 52 N.J. 175 (1968).

Domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she, if absent, intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd 58

N.J. 112 (1971). A person may have multiple residences, but may only have one true domicile at a time. Therefore, residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 151 (1955). Intent is the decisive factor in establishing domicile. It is the manifestation of a person's intent that converts residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. at 251. As the New Jersey Supreme Court held in Lyon v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 259, 264 (1972), domicile requires proof of physical presence and the intention to remain there indefinitely. Domicile is acquired upon the "concurrence, even for a moment, of physical presence at a dwelling place with the intention of making it a permanent abode." 60 N.J at 264.

Traditionally, the domicile or resident of children, for school purposes under Title 18A is the domicile of the parent. I.P. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Leonia, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 128, 132 (1993). See also, V.R. on Behalf of A.R. v. Hamburg Board of Education, N.J.A.R. 283, 286 (EDU 1980), aff'd St. Bd. 1981 SLD 1553, rev'd on other grounds, Rabinowitz v. New Jersey State Board of Education, 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982).

HOMELESSNESS:

The statute defines a homeless parent with a school-aged child as "an individual who temporarily lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence." N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12c. The State regulations regarding homelessness state very specific criteria supporting a determination of homelessness. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-1.1, et seq. See also, Board of Education of the Borough of Woodlynne v. Board of Education of the Borough of Lindenwold, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8609-97 (May 4, 1999), C.D. 196-99 (June 21, 1999), in which the Commissioner of Education affirmed the Administrative Law Judge's finding that because petitioner lived in a single school district from April 1996 until June 1997, petitioner's child was not the child of a homeless family.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) states that when the superintendent of a school district determines that a person is attending a district school but is not domiciled within the district, the parent may present proofs at a hearing to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education based on domicile within the district. If the parent or guardian does not meet that burden, then they may be assessed for the child's tuition prorated on a per diem basis. Based on the unrefuted testimony at the hearing it is clear that in spite of the letters of explanation and affidavits which were submitted, B.W. and D.P. have not been domiciled or resided in the School District of South Orange-Maplewood since October 2001, but, in fact, were and continue to be domiciled and residing in Union, New Jersey at 1867 Manor Drive, a location not within the district of the BOE. The Respondent has made an application pursuant to that statue for tuition reimbursement, of which there is entitlement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). The allowable tuition for reimbursement purposes shall be at the fixed per diem rate for the 2002-2003 school year.

ORDERS

Based on the above, and for good cause shown, I ORDER that the appeal in this matter be and is hereby DISMISSED. I further ORDER that the BOE's counterclaim for tuition is GRANTED and I ORDER B.W. to pay a $50.29 per diem rate for the dates of attendance during the 2002-2003 school year in Respondent's School District. I further ORDER that because D.P. is not domiciled within the district, she may be removed from the educational program offered by the BOE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

B.W., on behalf of minor child, D.P.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTH ORANGE-MAPLEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that B.W. and D.P. are neither homeless nor domiciled in the South Orange-Maplewood School District so as to entitle D.P. to a free public education in respondent's district, but, in fact, are, and continue to be, domiciled in Union, New Jersey.

With respect to the Board's counterclaim for tuition, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ's conclusion in the Initial Decision that petitioner is to pay a $50.29 per diem rate to the Board solely for the dates of D.P.'s ineligible attendance during the 2002-03 school year is not supported in the record. (Initial Decision at 11) Initially, it is noted that the $50.29 per diem rate provided by the Board refers to the daily tuition rate for the 2003-04 school year, rather than the 2002-03 school year. (Exhibit R-38, in evidence) Moreover, in reviewing the Board's counterclaim for tuition, the Board seeks the award of tuition "for the period of ineligible attendance, as well as attorneys['] fees, pre and post-judgment interest, and costs of suit, and such further relief as deemed appropriate by the Commissioner." (Answer and Counterclaim at 5) The Board's counterclaim for tuition, therefore, is not limited to the 2002-03 school year. Accordingly, petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board $9,345.00 for the period of D.P.'s ineligible attendance in the District's schools for the 2002-03 school year (Id. at 5, Number 11 and Exhibit R-36, in evidence), and $50.29 for each day of D.P.'s ineligible attendance in the 2003-04 school year (Exhibit R-38, in evidence).

With respect to the other remedies sought in the Board's counterclaim, the Commissioner finds that the record does not support a finding that petitioner's actions were taken in bad faith or in deliberate violation of the law. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)1. The Commissioner further notes that the Board's claim for post-judgment interest is not properly before him at this time, since the requisite time period has not passed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)2.

Finally, turning to the Board's claim for counsel fees, in the absence of express statutory authority to award counsel fees, I may not direct that the Board be compensated for legal fees in this matter. See Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Board of Education, 77 N.J. 514, 525 (1978); B.B., on behalf of her son, L.C. v. Board of Education of the Union County Regional High School District No.1. and Donald Merachnik, Superintendent of Schools, Union County, 1987 S.L.D. 323*; Balsley v. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision, as modified above, as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
V.	:
	:	Docket No.: D21-03
ARTHUR WILSON NEW HORIZONS CHARTER SCHOOL ESSEX COUNTY	:	RESOLUTION FOR FAILING TO FILE DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 of the School Ethics Act requires each school official to file a personal/relative disclosure statement and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26 requires each school official to file a financial disclosure statement for the School Ethics Commission; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Arthur Wilson is a member of the New Horizons Charter School Board of Trustees and thus a "school official" under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the Act and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2 of the Code; and

WHEREAS, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003 and 30 days from swearing-in or start of employment for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office as required by the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Commission sent a reminder letter to him on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003, directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the disclosure statements; and

WHEREAS, the school official failed to reply to the Order to Show Cause; and

WHEREAS, in its letter enclosing the Order, the Commission notified this school official that the Commission would discuss this matter at is October 28, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this school official was given ample opportunity to provide the complete disclosure statement; and

WHEREAS, the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from her Board, until he files the required form, but removal if he fails to file within 30 days from the date of the Commissioner's decision on penalty, especially in light of the failure to respond to the Commission's reminder letter before the September 15, 2003 deadline.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Arthur Wilson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of suspension from his Board, but removal if he fails to file within 30 days from the effective date of the Commissioner's decision.

IN THE MATTER OF ARTHUR WILSON,	:
NEW HORIZONS CHARTER SCHOOL,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named school official for failure to file a personal/relative disclosure statement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and/or an annual financial disclosure statement required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26;

Whereas, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003, or 30 days from swearing in or start of service for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office, as required by the Act; and

Whereas, the Commission sent a reminder letter to the above-named school official on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(j), the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003 directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the necessary statement(s); and

Whereas, the above-named school official failed to reply to the Order to Show Cause; and

Whereas, the Commission found that failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the above-referenced school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 28, 2003 to recommend suspension of the above-named school official until he files the necessary disclosure statement, and his automatic removal from the board if he fails to file within 30 days, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated November 7, 2003 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending removal; and

Whereas, no comments were received from the above-named school official; and

Whereas, the Commissioner recognizes that, were the Commission's recommendation to be adopted without modification, school officials filing the requisite disclosure statement prior to the decision of the Commissioner, and hence, prior to imposition of the recommended suspension, would receive no penalty notwithstanding that the School Ethics Act was violated and the Commission has recommended reprimands for school officials who failed to file until after issuance of the Order to Show Cause; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that, as recommended by the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official be suspended until he files the necessary disclosure statement, and automatically removed from the Board if he fails to file within 30 days. IT IS additionally ORDERED that even if the above-named school official shall have filed the necessary statement prior to the filing date of this decision, he shall nevertheless be reprimanded for his failure to abide by the requirements of the School Ethics Act despite many opportunities for compliance, thereby causing administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials.*

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to you, you may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 Riverview Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

IN THE MATTER OF JOSEPHINE CUPO, :

GATEWAY CHARTER SCHOOL, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

HUDSON COUNTY. : DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named school official for failure to file a personal/relative disclosure statement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and/or an annual financial disclosure statement required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26;

Whereas, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2003 for school officials in office since January 30, 2003, or 30 days from swearing in or start of service for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with her school district and the County Superintendent's office, as required by the Act; and

Whereas, the Commission sent a reminder letter to the above-named school official on September 5, 2003, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2003, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(j), the Commission issued an Order on September 24, 2003 directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file the necessary statement(s); and

Whereas, the above-named school official filed the completed disclosure statement thereafter; and

Whereas, the Commission found that failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the above-referenced school official did not provide any reason why she failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 28, 2003 to recommend reprimand of the above-named school official in light of her failure to respond to the Commission's reminder letter before the September 15, 2003 deadline, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated November 7, 2003 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending reprimand; and

Whereas, no comments were received from the above-named school official; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission, and further admonishes the school official for her failure to timely file the requisite statement, in that such delay has caused administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 12/22/03

Date of Mailing: 12/29/03

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF LINCOLN PARK, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning receiving district sought severance of its relationship with the respondent sending district, contending that no substantial negative impact would result from such severance. Respondent moved for dismissal of the petition on contractual grounds, but later withdrew its opposition and entered into a settlement with petitioner, agreeing to sever their relationship under the terms and conditions specified.

The ALJ recommended approval of the parties' Consent Order effectuating severance.

The Commissioner rejected the proposed order, holding that the record was insufficient for him to determine whether the criteria of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 had been met and that the parties could not, in any event, compel Commissioner-directed issuance of bonds if referenda to construct a new high school failed in the respondent district. The Commissioner declined to permit severance at this time, instead ordering further proceedings in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1 so that the parties' now-mutual application could be properly assessed under the standard prescribed by law.

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

In August 2002, the petitioner Board of Education of the Town of Boonton filed an appeal with the Commissioner of Education in which it sought to sever a longstanding sending-receiving relationship with respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Lincoln Park. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. Thereafter, respondent moved to dismiss the petition in lieu of filing an answer. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g). As a result, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law in October 2002 and the undersigned Administrative Law Judge was designated to handle the matter.

Thereafter, as the result of discussions between counsel and the undersigned, together with consultations counsel had with their respective clients, the parties were able to agree on the terms and conditions of an amicable resolution of the dispute. Attached hereto is a Joint Stipulation of Facts setting forth the agreement reached between the parties signed by their Presidents and Board Secretaries. Also attached is a Consent Order signed by counsel with respect to the severance.

I have also attached a letter dated November 5, 2003, from counsel for the Lincoln Park Board of Education in which she clarifies certain matters contained in the Consent Order and Stipulation. Specifically, the letter sets forth that all issues relating to the severance question have been resolved by this Consent Order and Stipulation, except for one matter pending before the undersigned and scheduled for hearing in January 2004 (EDU 3066-03) concerning a paving expenditure. In addition, counsel's letter clarifies that the settlement does not effect or limit in any legal way the rights of the respondent to continue to challenge any financial decisions and expenditures which occur after the entry of this Order (and, of course, its approval by the Commissioner). Finally, the letter explains that respondent retains its right to audit the tuition rate charged to it by Boonton during the period that any Lincoln Park student continues to attend Boonton High School.

I have reviewed the file and the terms of the Consent Order and Stipulation effects and FIND that:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF BOONTON, MORRIS COUNTY Petitioner, vs. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF LINCOLN PARK, MORRIS COUNTY Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW Agency Dkt. No. 251-8/02 OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9211-02 ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION CONSENT ORDER REGARDING THE SEVERANCE OF THE PARTIES' SENDING RECEIVING RELATIONSHIP

THIS MATTER having been opened to the Court by the Law Offices of Dennis A. Collins, Esq., attorney for the Petitioner, with the consent of Schwartz Simon Edelstein Celso & Kessler, LLP, attorneys for Respondent; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Town of Boonton Board of Education (hereinafter "Boonton") is a body corporate of the State of New Jersey organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-1 et seq. and

WHEREAS, Boonton operates a K-12 school district in Morris County; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Lincoln Park (hereinafter "Lincoln Park") is a body corporate of the State of New Jersey organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-1 et seq.; and

WHEREAS, Lincoln Park operates a K-8 school district in Morris County; and

WHEREAS, Boonton and Lincoln Park have been engaged in a long-standing sending receiving relationship, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8 et seq., whereby Lincoln Park sends its pupils in grades 9 through 12 to Boonton High School, since Lincoln Park does not have its own high school; and

WHEREAS, on or about April 14, 1999, the parties memorialized their sending-receiving relationship into a formal written agreement (hereinafter the "Agreement") which was negotiated, executed and approved by both Boards for a period of seven (7) years commencing with the 1999-00 school year and running through 2005-06 school year, with an option to be exercised by Lincoln Park for an additional five (5) years; and

WHEREAS, Boonton filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on or about August 9, 2002 seeking to sever the relationship and the subject Agreement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13; and

WHEREAS, Lincoln Park moved to dismiss the Petition in lieu of filing an Answer, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g); and

WHEREAS, the matter was assigned by the Commissioner of Education to the Honorable Stephen Weiss, A.L.J., and

WHEREAS, on or about May 12, 2003, with the Consent of the Court, Lincoln Park withdrew, without prejudice, its pending Motion to Dismiss, so that the parties could explore the voluntary severance of the sending-receiving relationship; and

WHEREAS, Lincoln Park created an Ad Hoc Exploratory High School Committee to explore severance of the sending-receiving relationship; and

WHEREAS, the Committee has fully explored the issues surrounding severance and has met with representatives of the Boonton Board to discuss same; and

WHEREAS, Lincoln Park, in consultation with the Committee, has deemed the creation of a grade kindergarten through twelve school district and the construction of its own high school to be in the best interest of the community; and

WHEREAS, the parties, wishing to amicably resolve the issue of severance hereby agree to the terms and conditions set forth herein, upon approval by the Court and the Commissioner; and

WHEREAS, and the parties having consented to the relief set forth in this Consent Order; and good cause having been shown;

It is on this 6th day of November, 2003,

ORDERED that the parties' sending-receiving relationship and Agreement, under which Lincoln Park sends its high school students to Boonton High School and pays tuition for these students to Boonton pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8 et seq, shall hereafter be severed in accordance with the terms of this Agreement as follows:

1. Lincoln Park shall provide Boonton with one (1) calendar year's advance notice of the date for the actual severance and that it intends to transition its students from Boonton High School back to Lincoln Park School District; and

2. There shall be a transition period designated exclusively by Lincoln Park, for a time period not to exceed two (2) school year(s), during which time Lincoln Park's students attending Boonton's High School shall be returned to Lincoln Park. For those students remaining at Boonton after severance, Lincoln Park shall pay tuition at a rate consistent with the State formula, with Lincoln Park retaining its right to audit any tuition rate established per the procedures established in the Agreement.

3. Neither party waives its rights to continue this or any other pending legal action or to commence future litigation in order to resolve disputes between the parties concerning any and all financial or contractual aspects of the sending/receiving relationship, this severance, or any other financial or sending/receiving dispute.

4. Providing that all necessary approvals are obtained and the property on which the prospective Lincoln Park High School identified and established, Lincoln Park shall proceed with presenting a bond referendum for the construction of its own high school to its citizenry in March of 2004 , or as soon thereafter as legally and reasonably possible. In the event this referendum fails, Lincoln Park shall proceed with presenting a second bond referendum as soon thereafter as legally and reasonably possible; and

5. In the event that the second referendum fails, the Commissioner of Education will authorize the issuance of school bonds to fund the local share to build the Lincoln Park High School providing there is no decrease in State Aid eligibility for the project. See N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-12. The Lincoln Park Board of Education expressly reserves all of its rights with regard to any other assignment of its students, as well as to maintain the right to continue in the sending-receiving relationship with Boonton, subject to the acknowledgment that the terms of the Sending/Receiving Agreement dated April 19, 1999 shall expire on June 30, 2006.

Re: Board of Education of the Town of Boonton v.
Board of Education of the Borough of Lincoln Park
OAL Docket No. EDU 9211-02
Severance of the Sending/Receiving Relationship

Dear Judge Weiss:

I am pleased to advise that the parties have clarified the respective positions of their clients such that the proposed submitted Consent Order and Stipulation of Facts resolves all issues relating to the severance other than the related pending matter involving the paving dispute. Additionally, it has been clarified that this settlement does not affect or limit in any legal way whatsoever Lincoln Park's ability to continue to challenge financial decisions and expenditures which occur after the entry of the Consent Order. Additionally, it is clear that for the time period during which any Lincoln Park student continues to attend Boonton High School, Lincoln Park retains its right to audit the tuition rate.

Attached hereto please find a copy of correspondence issued to me from Dennis Collins which clarifies the position of Boonton to be consistent with that submitted herein on behalf of Lincoln Park. Accordingly, we would request that the Court issue its Initial Decision in this matter as soon as possible.

Re: Boonton Board of Education ads. Lincoln Park Board of Education (Severance File)

Dear Ms. Simon:

As a follow-up to our recent conference with Judge Weiss, I would clarify that the position of Boonton is that the Consent Order and Stipulation of facts resolves all issues, including financial, related to the severance other than pending matters including the parking lot dispute. This should not be construed as limiting Lincoln Park's ability to challenge financial decisions on expenditures which occur after the entry of the order.

I trust this clarifies this position. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Very truly yours,

Board of Education of the Town of Boonton,	:	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY
Petitioner,	:	DOCKET NO:
v.	:
Lincoln Park Board of Education,	:	STIPULATION OF FACTS
Respondent.	:

The parties hereby stipulate to the facts and the conclusions of law in the above-referenced matter as follows:

1. The Town of Boonton Board of Education is a body corporate of the State of New Jersey organized pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:13-1et seq.
2. The Board of Education of the Borough of Lincoln Park is a body corporate of the State of New Jersey organized pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:13-1et seq.
3. Boonton operates K-12 school district in Morris County New Jersey.
4. Lincoln Park operates a K-8 school district in Morris County New Jersey.
5. Boonton and Lincoln Park have been engaged in a long standing sending/receiving relationship pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8 et seq, whereby Lincoln Park sends it's pupils in grades 9-12 to the Boonton High School.
6. Lincoln Park does not have its own High School.
7. By agreement dated April 14, 1999, Boonton and Lincoln Park entered into a formal written agreement which was executed and approved by both Boards of Education. That agreement was for a term of 7 years beginning with the 1999-00 school year and running through the 2005-2006 school year.

8. On August 9, 2002 Boonton filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking to sever the send/receive relationship pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:38-13.
9. Pursuant to the requirements of the statute, appended to the Petition of Appeal was a "Feasibility Study to determine the impact of terminating the sending/receiving relationship between Boonton and Lincoln Park School District" prepared by Harry A. Galinsky, Ed.D. dated March 15, 2003. (A true and accurate of the report of Dr. Galinsky is attached hereto as Exhibit A.)
10. Lincoln Park moved to dismiss the petition in lieu of filing an answer.
11. On May 12, 2003, with the consent of the Court, Lincoln Park withdrew without prejudice that motion to dismiss.
12. The Lincoln Park Board of Education has deemed the creation of a kindergarten through twelfth grade school district and the construction of its own high school to be in the best interest of the community.
13. The format and structure of the feasibility study attached as Exhibit "A" conforms to the requirements of the May 25, 1998 New Jersey Department of Education Memo which outlines the process to be filed in a formal feasibility study of terminating sending/receiving relationship.
14. The Town of Boonton Board of Education maintains four schools. They are noted as the "School Street School" which is pre-k to grade three, the "John Hill School which is grade four through grade six, the Boonton Middle School" which is grades seven through eight and the "Boonton High School" which is grades nine through twelve.

15. The functional capacity at Boonton High School is 605 students.
16. A full listing of the 135 general courses and 14 special education courses offered by the Boonton High School is attached to Exhibit A as table II-4.
17. The average class size fluctuates between 15.2 students and 22.13 students and accordance with table II-6 of Exhibit A.
18. The parties hereto accept the conclusion of Dr. Galinsky as to the impact on course sections and staff in major subject areas as contained in table II-16 of Exhibit A.
19. The parties agree that there will be modification in courses and staff at Boonton High School but the district will still be able to offer all programs contained in its current curriculum.
20. There will be no reduction in the quality of education at Boonton High School at the time of severance of the relationship.
21. The Boonton School District Organizational Structure provides a built in mechanism to mitigate the affect of the withdrawal of Lincoln Park students.
22. The fact that Boonton's Middle School program is part of Boonton High School creates a favorable condition for dealing with any staffing or programmatic difficulties that otherwise might a merge if the grade 9-12 population stood alone.
23. The parties accept the conclusions of Dr. Galinsky that when taking into account that sufficient time is available for good planning, staffing changes will not affect the quality of education and program offerings, that the Academy For Visual and Performing Arts is projected to grow in the next 5 years to 120 students, and that the physical location of the middle school within Boonton High School results in little consequence to Boonton High School.
24. There is no substantial negative impact on the quality of education in the Boonton High School if a severance between Boonton and Lincoln Park occurs.

25. Lincoln Park School District operates two schools, "Lincoln Park Elementary School" which houses grades K-4 and the "Lincoln Park Middle School" which contains grades 5-8. The Borough of Lincoln Park provides a quality education on all grade levels.
26. The Lincoln Park Board of Education has determined that it is in the best interest of the community to seek voter approval for the construction of a new high school.
27. The present Lincoln Park school board and the teaching staff that exist can adequately prepare for the implementation of all appropriate high school programs of study to ensure the continuity of a quality education in a future Lincoln Park High School.
28. The modification of enrollment of students in the Boonton High School will not adversely affect the quality of education.
29. Under the current arrangements the present population of Boonton High School exceeds the functional capacity calculated in the districts long range facility plans.
30. The parties accept the enrollment projections of Dr. Galinsky and note that the termination of current sending/receiving relationship with Lincoln Park would permit the town of Boonton Board of Education to accomplish district educational goals without new construction.
31. The racial composition of the school district is noted in tables V-1 through V-7 of Exhibit A.
32. The two districts are similar racially.
33. It is projected by Dr. Galinsky that Lincoln Park's withdrawal will result in Boonton High School without Lincoln Park students to be 35.74% minorities in contrast to 23.43% if the Lincoln Park Students remained.
34. The removal of Lincoln Park students from Boonton High School will not result in a substantial negative racial impact to either district.

35. The parties agree that there will be no substantial negative impact to the quality of education or the tax burden on local taxpayers or the racial composition of each respective school district as a result of the termination of the sending/receiving relationship, provided that the voters of Lincoln Park approve a bond referendum for the construction of its own high school, or, the Commissioner of Education orders the construction and authorizes the issuance of school bonds for the local share of the project with no decrease in the state aid eligibility for the project.(See N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-12)
36. The parties hereto stipulate to the facts and conclusions as contained herein and agree to the execution of the proposed form of Consent Order severing the parties sending/receiving relationship in accordance with the terms set forth therein.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF BOONTON, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF LINCOLN PARK, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the Consent Order Regarding the Severance of the Parties' Sending-Receiving Relationship, the Stipulation of Facts, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) recommending approval of the parties' settlement effectuating severance, have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(a) and (b).

Upon review, the Commissioner cannot agree with the OAL's recommended approval of the proposed Consent Order, nor can he, on the present record, approve the parties' proposed severance as consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13.

This matter was commenced as a contested case by the Boonton Board of Education (Boonton), through a petition seeking to sever its sending-receiving relationship with the Lincoln Park Board of Education (Lincoln Park), alleging, among other things, that no negative impact in any area of consideration prescribed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 would result. In lieu of an answer, Lincoln Park filed, as permitted by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g), a Motion to Dismiss the petition, contending that Boonton could not presently seek to sever the relationship because it had entered in 1999 into a binding seven-year contract with Lincoln Park with no provision for severance prior to the contract's expiration. Subsequent to transmittal of the matter to the OAL but prior to adjudication of this motion, to which Boonton had by then duly replied, Lincoln Park withdrew its demand for dismissal because the parties had determined to engage in settlement discussions. These discussions ultimately led to the agreement herein proposed.

Because the Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of Answer was withdrawn and the parties proceeded directly to settlement, no answer to Boonton's petition was ever filed; instead, the request for severance became mutual and the parties, in their Consent Order and Joint Stipulation of Facts, attested to their agreement that no negative impact would result from severance. In effect, then, notwithstanding its initial posture and transmittal to the OAL as a contested case, Boonton's application for severance became uncontested before any record could be developed beyond Boonton's initial feasibility study and the parties' later settlement documents.[1]

As the State Board of Education has recognized in a prior matter involving the same parties, notwithstanding that member districts may agree to sever their sending-receiving relationship, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, it is "the Commissioner's ultimate determination whether to grant severance" after "consideration of all relevant circumstances" so as to ensure that "no substantial negative impact will result therefrom." Board of Education of the Borough of Lincoln Park, Morris County, v. Board of

[1] In this regard, the Commissioner notes that Lincoln Park's Motion to Dismiss and the ensuing responsive papers were centered on contractual principles, and the Commissioner's jurisdiction over them, rather than on the criteria of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13.

Education of the Town of Boonton, Morris County, decided April 5, 1995, slip opinion at 3, emphasis in text.[2] The State Board further recognized that the Commissioner could not make such determinations absent a sufficient record, and, understanding the potential for insufficiency in this regard where a request for severance is uncontested, the Board in December 1999 proposed rules, later promulgated as N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1,[3] 32 N.J.R. 1177,

[2] In the referenced matter, Lincoln Park sought to enjoin Boonton from incorporating its 7th and 8th grades into the high school facility, and, as part of a proposed settlement, Boonton agreed not to oppose any request for severance filed within two years of the agreement. The State Board rejected that provision and remanded the settlement to the Commissioner, who had also rejected it, for deletion of the inappropriate provision or proceedings on the merits if the parties did not agree to such deletion. Following transmittal to the OAL on remand, the matter was withdrawn.

[3] These rules provide as follows:

6A:3-6.1 Application for termination or change in allocation or apportionment

(a) An application for change of designation of a high school (termination or severance of relationship) or of allocation or apportionment of students pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 shall be made by petition of appeal, accompanied by the required feasibility study, and shall proceed in accordance with the provisions of this chapter except as set forth below.

(b) Where an application for change is unanswered within the requisite filing period, or is answered by a filing or filings indicating that each respondent does not oppose the application, the Commissioner shall so notify the petitioning district board of education and each respondent district board of education. At the next public meeting of each district board of education following notice from the Commissioner, each district board shall announce that the record before the Commissioner shall remain open for a period of 20 days from the date of the announcement in order that interested persons or entities may submit written comments to the Commissioner. Such announcement shall indicate the manner in which, and the address to which, comments may be submitted to the Commissioner as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 and 6A:3-1.3 above, and shall further indicate the nature and purpose of such comments as set forth in (c) below.

1. Each district board of education shall, within 10 days of the date of the announcement, submit to the Commissioner a certification indicating the date the announcement was made and the content of the announcement.

(c) Comments submitted pursuant to (b) above shall not exceed 10 pages in length, shall be served on all parties to the case, shall include proof of such service when filed with the Commissioner, and shall specifically address the following statutory standard for the Commissioner's review of applications for change in designation, allocation or apportionment:

1. Comments shall address the question of whether the proposed change in designation, allocation or apportionment will result in a substantial negative impact in any of the affected districts in one or more of the following areas: educational and financial implications; quality of education received by students; and racial composition of the student populations.

(d) Each party to the application for change shall have 20 days to reply to any comments at the close of the designated comment period.

(e) If the Commissioner determines, upon review of the record at the close of the period established for submission of comments and replies, that further inquiry, fact-finding or exploration of legal argument is required in order to determine the matter consistent with the standard of statute, the Commissioner shall direct such further proceedings as the Commissioner deems necessary.

specifically addressing the need for > development of a record where a district board of education has applied for severance or alteration of a sending-receiving relationship and the application is unopposed by the responding parties. In these situations, there are no adversarial proceedings through which to develop a record beyond the feasibility study required by law upon submission of an application to the Commissioner. The proposed rules offer a mechanism by which public comment may be brought to the record, and by which the Commissioner may direct further inquiry as needed, prior to the Commissioner's making a decision on whether the standard of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 for granting of a severance or alteration has been met. (31 N.J.R. 4173(a), Summary of Proposed Readoption and Recodification with Amendments: N.J.A.C. 6:24 as 6A:3, quotation at 4174)

In the present matter, not only has there been no opportunity for presentation of opposing perspectives, but the Commissioner is also not satisfied, based on the feasibility study alone, that the criteria of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 have been met. By way of example, in the area of educational impact, it is unclear how "sufficient planning" and "incremental changes" over the three-year withdrawal period posited by the feasibility study can ensure that there will be "little consequence" to the quality of education in Boonton High School; according to the study, its 9-12 student body will eventually be reduced by nearly half, from approximately 650 to 360, there will be a significant drop in the number of class sections, e.g., from 32 to 21 in language arts, 31 to 20 in math, 32 to 21 in science, and 29 to 19 in social studies, and teaching staff will be reduced by a third, typically by 2 positions out of 6 in each major discipline. (Feasibility Study at 29-32, 72, 80-81, 100) The Commissioner's concern is heightened by the fact that the proposed Consent Order calls for the actual withdrawal of Lincoln Park students to occur over a period not exceeding two years, making the study's "three-year incremental" argument even less persuasive notwithstanding the agreement's one-year notice provision. (Consent Order at 3)

Additionally, in the area of racial impact, the feasibility study concludes that data in tables based on Fall Reports "indicate that Lincoln Park and Boonton are similar racially," with "student populations that are predominantly white with small percentages of minority students," so that "there would be no substantial negative racial impact as a result of the withdrawal of the Lincoln Park students from Boonton High School." (Feasibility Study at 82-87, 100; quotation at 83) However, the referenced tables show that Boonton's student population is 66% white as compared to Lincoln Park's 85%, and that withdrawal of Lincoln Park students will result in 12.31% decrease in white students attending Boonton High School. The Commissioner finds that the referenced statistics may not necessarily support the bare assertions drawn from them, and he notes with particular concern that, notwithstanding Boonton's feasibility study having been based in part on a review of "recent legal cases involving the terminating of sending-receiving relationships" (Id. at 5), the record includes no mention whatsoever of the cases reviewed or how the proposed severance is consistent with them.

Another area of concern is that the Commissioner cannot meaningfully assess the fiscal impact of severance on Lincoln Park, since the feasibility study focuses on comparative tuition rates based on sending Lincoln Park students to other districts in the area, while the proposed settlement agreement clearly contemplates the district's building of its own school. There is no discussion on record of the impact of this option, except insofar as the feasibility study notes its existence and concludes that, should it be chosen, the referendum process will include information on cost so the decision to build can be made by local citizens. (Feasibility Study at 98-99, 100) Moreover, in the proposed Consent Order, the parties have agreed that, should these same citizens twice fail to approve building referenda, issuance of bonds will be ordered by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-12, with no decrease in State Aid eligibility. (Consent Order at 4) With or without a discussion of fiscal impact, this provision cannot stand, since the parties cannot compel the Commissioner to require issuance of bonds, nor can Lincoln Park make application for such issuance, or receive State Aid, except through the processes and at the levels prescribed by law. In the Matter of the Application of the Board of Education of the Township of Clark, Union County, for an Order Directing Issuance of Bonds pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-12, decided by the Commissioner June 2, 2003.

In sum, while the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of permitting Boonton and Lincoln Park to sever their long-standing sending-receiving relationship, the parties have not complied with the procedure for consideration of uncontested severance applications, and the areas discussed above are indicative of need for the fuller record contemplated by that procedure in order for the Commissioner to carry out his obligation under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. That this matter is not a simple one is demonstrated by the parties' own prior disagreement, as reported in the feasibility study, on whether an application for severance was even viable; indeed, as part of its historical introduction, the study notes that Boonton took the step of initiating the present application because Lincoln Park has long "supported a legal position that it is unable to terminate the send-relationship in light of the Commissioner's previous decisions." (Feasibility Study at 5)

Accordingly, the Commissioner rejects the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law recommending approval of the settlement agreement, and, instead, consistent with the process established by law for uncontested severance applications, the Commissioner directs that at the next public meetings of the Boonton and Lincoln Park Boards of Education, each Board shall announce that the record before the Commissioner in this matter shall remain open for a period of 20 days from the date of the announcement in order that interested persons or entities may submit written comments to the Commissioner addressing the question of whether the proposed severance will result in a substantial negative impact on either district. Such announcement, and its certification to the Commissioner, shall comply with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1(b) and (c), and, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1(d), at the close of the designated comment period, each district shall have 20 days to reply to any comments filed. If, upon review of the record at the close of the period established for submission of comments and replies, the Commissioner determines that additional inquiry, factfinding or legal argument is required in order to determine whether to grant severance consistent with the standard of statute, further proceedings will be directed as necessary pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1(e)

SYNOPSIS

In consolidated matter, petitioners, two unsuccessful finalists for Assistant Superintendent position, alleged the Board unlawfully appointed Respondent Highsmith to the position. They requested the appointment be declared null and void since respondent did not possess the requisite certification prior to the March 12, 2001 application deadline. Since the filing of the positions, Respondent Highsmith resigned; Petitioner Farmer retired; and the Board significantly restructured the position.

The ALJ concluded that there were no genuine issues of material fact and that the Board was entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Moreover, the ALJ determined that the Commissioner did not have the authority to appoint either petitioner to the position nor did he have the authority to award monetary damages. The ALJ dismissed the issues as moot.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ and dismissed the consolidated petitions.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The matter docketed EDU 6790-01 involving the petitioner Paul Stephenson (hereinafter "Stephenson") results in an appeal by Mr. Stephenson alleging that an open position for which he was one of two finalists was awarded to the other individual who lacked the requisite certification. He thus seeks to have such appointment voided. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on October 26, 2001, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The second matter, docketed OAL Docket No. EDU 6789-01, is an appeal by the petitioner Dr. Wilma J. Farmer (hereinafter "Farmer") who contends that the respondent, the Camden County Board of Education, violated her rights under the education laws when it hired an individual with a provisional administrator certificate to be assistant superintendent. She seeks to void that decision by the Board and has appealed the matter, which was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on October 26, 2001. Both matters were initially assigned to then Administrative Law Judge Kathryn A. Clark (now retired) who maintained control of the cases until her retirement several months ago. As part of Judge Clark's actions on June 13, 2002, she granted a motion to consolidate the above-entitled matters. Thereafter, Camden instituted its motion for summary decision in each matter, and no action, unfortunately, was taken by Judge Clark prior to her retirement. The matter was thereafter referred to my chambers by Administrative Law Judge and Acting Director of the Office of Administrative Law Jeff Masin. By letter of August 13, 2003 to all counsel, he advised that Judge Clark was then on leave of absence and unable to complete the hearing or to issue an initial decision. Counsel were then advised that the matters were reassigned to my chambers, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.13(b).[1]

[1] It should be noted that prior to Judge Clark's involvement with the matter, the cases were originally scheduled to be heard by then Administrative Law Judge M. Kathleen Duncan. Then Judge Duncan resigned the position as an

Follow my initial review of the case files, I followed up Judge Masin's letter with one of my own addressed to counsel on August 25, 2003, reiterating the reassignment to my office and advising that I had received, as part of the case file, a motion for summary decision issued by Camden. The purpose of the letter was also to apprise the parties that because of the extended period of time between the appeals being taken and the matter now coming before me for judicial decision, I would give them the opportunity if they wished to have either an in-person conference or a telephone conference should the situation in the case change. Thereafter, I was advised by counsel that their preference would be to have me address the motion for summary decision, to which I have asceeded. I have closed the record in a manner most reasonable.

THE FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

These cases arise from respondent, Camden City Board of Education's appointment of respondent Charles Highsmith (hereinafter "Highsmith") to the position of Assistant Superintendent for Administration and Support Services and Director for Curriculum and Instruction, Pre-K to 5. Both petitioners, Farmer and Stephenson, also applied for the position of Assistant Superintendent for Administration and Support Services and Director for Curriculum and Instruction. Petitioners originally filed separate petitions in this matter; however, pursuant to an Order by Administrative Law Judge Kathryn A. Clark, these matters were consolidated on June 13, 2002.

On February 13, 2001, the Board posted an opening for the position of Assistant Superintendent for Administration and Support Services and Director for Curriculum and Instruction. Four individuals applied. The minimum qualifications included, among other things, that the applicant have a valid New Jersey School Administrator's Certificate, a minimum of five years administrative experience in a public/private education setting at Principal's or higher level, and a demonstrated expertise in managing diverse educational programs. Additionally, the posting indicated that each applicant was responsible for providing the administrative law judge and has since served as Director, Office of Controversies and Disputes, Department of Education.

appropriate documentation in support of each application prior to the application deadline. The application deadline was March 12, 2001.

The Board contends that Highsmith was recommended first by the interview committee, Farmer was recommended second, and Stephenson was recommended fourth.[2] All four names were submitted to the Superintendent, consistent with Abbott regulations, who then selected a candidate from the submitted names.[3] In accord with the Committee's recommendations, the Superintendent recommended Highsmith to the Board, who was then duly appointed.

Petitioners contend that Highsmith was not in possession of a New Jersey School Administrator's Certificate prior to the March 12, 2001 application deadline. However, petitioners Farmer and Stephenson did possess the requisite certification. It appears that Highsmith may have obtained a Provisional New Jersey School Administrator's Certificate on June 1, 2001, nearly three months following the application deadline date. Despite Highsmith's failure to timely possess the requisite requirements for the position, his appointment was confirmed on June 25, 2001 by the Board.

As a consequence of Highsmith's appointment, Farmer filed a petition challenging Highsmith's "unlawful appointment." Farmer's petition requested that Highsmith's appointment be rescinded and other just and equitable relief, including appointment to the position, be awarded.[4] Stephenson also filed a petition, requesting that the Highsmith appointment be declared null and void and that Stephenson be appointed to the position. Stephenson's petition also sought back pay, front pay interest, damages and reasonable attorney's fees. Since the filing of these petitions, Highsmith has resigned from his position as Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction, effective June 30, 2002. The position was restructured as part of a Central Administrative Reorganization and currently remains vacant. The Board contends that the position of assistant superintendent has since been significantly restructured. The job description has been modified, and the position has been separated into two positions.

[2] The first interview committee ranked the applicants in this manner.
[3] N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.1 – 9.6.
[4] The Board alleges that Farmer's salary would not have increased on account of her receiving the promotion.

The Board has petitioned for summary decision based on the arguments that the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") lacks the requisite power to afford petitioners the relief they seek, namely the power to order appointment to the position of assistant superintendent and award monetary damages. Furthermore, the Board contends that the issues presented by the petitioners are now moot, because Highsmith has resigned, Farmer has retired, and the position of Assistant Superintendent has been significantly restructured so that it essentially no longer exists.

Standard for Granting Motion for Summary Decision

Summary decision is available in the administrative process pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision is appropriate when:

> the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must be responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.
> [N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).]

The summary decision rule is substantially the same to that of the summary judgment rule provided by the New Jersey Rules of Court, R. 4:46-2. Contini v. Bd. of Ed. of Newark, 286 N.J.Super. 106, 121 (App. Div. 1995) (recognizing that the summary decision standard in administrative proceedings is substantially similar to that of New Jersey Court Rule 4:46-2). R. 4:46-2 permits a party to move for summary judgment if:

> the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to judgment or order as a matter of law.

The New Jersey Supreme Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995) has indicated that in the analysis of a motion for summary judgment, a motion judge is required to consider "whether the competent evidential material presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged dispute in favor of the non-moving party." Id. at 540. Therefore, where a moving party demonstrates by competent evidential material that no genuine and material issue of fact exists, the Court must grant the motion for summary judgment. Similarly, the rules governing administrative proceedings provide that summary decision may be granted if there is "no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Borough of Lincoln Park Bd. of Ed. v. Bd. of Ed. of the Town of Boonton, EDU 5944-02, Initial Decision (April 2, 2003) <http://lawlibrary.Rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, modified, Comm'r. (May 15, 2003) <http://www.state.nj.us/njded/news/info.ntm>. Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary decision should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits filed with the application. Ibid.

In my view, in the matter sub judice, there are no genuine and material facts at issue and respondent's motion should be granted as a matter of law.

Authority of the Commissioner of Education

The jurisdiction of the Commissioner to hear controversies and disputes arising under school law is set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, which provides that the Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the State Board or of the Commissioner. The Commissioner is charged with the duty of supervising State schools and enforcing the rules prescribed by the State Board. In the Matter of the Bd. of Educ. of City of Trenton, 176 N.J Super. 553, 563 (1980) (citing N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23). "The Commissioner has long had significant responsibility and sweeping remedial powers for enforcing equal protection in the administration of the public education laws." Balsley v. North Hunterdon Regional Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434, 442 (1990). This is a judicial function, and in reviewing the administrative and managerial acts of boards of education, the Commissioner is constrained to keep within the proper limits of judicial inquiry. Boult v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Passaic, 1946 S.L.D. 7, 11. Generally, if the board of education acts within the authority conferred upon it by law, courts are without power to interfere in its actions or decisions in matters involving the exercise of discretion, in the absence of clear abuse. Id. at 12. The Commissioner should not interfere with local boards in the management of their schools unless they violate the law, act in bad faith, or abuse their discretion in a shocking manner." Id. at 13. When a school board acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness that will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Bd. of Educ. of the Township of Morris, 89 N.J.Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965).

In the present case, the petitioners could have properly requested the Commissioner to review the actions of the Board to determine whether the appointment of Highsmith was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. However, the petitioners, instead, seek to have the Commissioner usurp the power of the Board and award appointment and/or damages for the Board's actions.

The Commissioner Does Not Have the Authority to Order Appointment to a Position.

The Board of Education and not the Commissioner is lodged with the authority to make appointments. The Board has the authority to appoint officers and employees. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 provides that "[a] board of education shall appoint, transfer or remove a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board." The Legislature has expressly vested local school boards with the power to employ, promote, transfer, dismiss, and to adopt appropriate rules in connection therewith, subject to specific statutory provisions. Dunellen Bd. of Educ. v. Dunellen Educ. Assoc., 64 N.J. 17, 23 (1973). Case law suggests that the board of education has the ultimate authority to promote. Bd. of Educ. of the Township of North Bergen v. North Bergen Federation of Teachers, 141 N.J.Super. 97, 103 (App. Div. 1976) (emphasis added); see also Lally v. Clark Bd. of Educ., 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 784, 787 (recognizing the board's "ultimate authority to make appointments").

While the Commissioner is provided broad supervisory power over schools, the authority sought by petitioners is not appropriate in this context. The Commissioner's power appears to be more of a remedial and supervisory nature. It has been recognized that the authority needed by the Commissioner must be sufficient to implement solutions to problems. Deardon v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Trenton, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 321, 328-29. However, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to an evaluation of whether the school board has a reasonable basis for their conclusions. Kopera v. Bd. of Educ. of the Town of West Orange, 60 N.J.Super. 288, 295 (App. Div. 1960). The Commissioner must determine whether the action under review is violative of the law, and if so must then take the proper corrective action. Id. at 296. However, the Commissioner should not substitute his own judgment for that of those who made the initial evaluation but, instead, should determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions. Ibid.; see also Boult v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Passaic, 1946 S.L.D. 7, 13 (the opinion of the Commissioner states that "it is not the function of the Commissioner in a judicial decision to substitute his judgment for that of the board members on manners which are by statute delegated to the local boards").

The authority of the Commissioner does not comport with the relief sought by the petitioners. In the instant case, the petitioners are not alleging that the Board engaged in discriminatory practices or vindictive termination. Rather they appear to be asking the Commissioner to assume the responsibility for hiring personnel. This request exceeds the statutorily granted authority of the Commissioner and usurps that of the Board of Education. Therefore, the Board's motion for summary decision should be granted.

The Commissioner Lacks the Authority to Award the Payments of any Damages other than Lost Earnings or Restoring an Increment, Which Has Been Improperly Withheld.

The Commissioner has authority to award money damages. However, the Commissioner is limited in the monetary damages that he may award. It has been consistently held that the Commissioner cannot award punitive damages. Dunn v. Elizabeth Bd. of Educ., 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 279, 281 (citing North Bergen Fed. of Teachers Bd. of Ed. of Bergen, 1975 S.L.D. 461, 467). Additionally, the Commissioner may not award counsel fees or legal costs. Ibid. (citing Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Ed., 117 N.J. 434, 442-43 (1990)). However, the Commissioner may award lost earnings or may restore an increment that has been improperly withheld. Ibid. (citing McLean v. Bd. of Ed. of Glen Ridge, 177 S.L.D. 311. 314; Mith v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamilton, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5468-87 adopted in part and rejected in part on other grounds, Comm'r. (April 21, 1998)).

In the present case, Farmer seeks back pay for the year that she contends she was unlawfully denied the position. Stephenson, as well, seeks "as a minimum" front pay and back pay for respondents' wrongful conduct. As the facts have been presented, it appears that Farmer was recommended second to Highsmith and Stephenson was ranked last among the four applicants. Therefore, Farmer contends that, but for the unlawful appointment of Highsmith, she would have been appointed to the position of assistant superintendent. Stephenson, on the other hand, does not appear to be alleging that he would have otherwise been appointed. Rather, the money damages he seeks seem to be more punitive in nature. He seeks such damages on account of respondents' "wrongful conduct." As noted, the Commissioner cannot award punitive damages. Ibid. (citing North Bergen Fed. Of Teachers Bd. of Ed. of Bergen, 1975 S.L.D. 461, 467). Therefore, Stephenson is not entitled to any relief, and summary decision should be granted in favor of respondents.

Additionally Farmer has failed to establish that she was entitled to the position. As noted above, the Commissioner lacks the authority to appoint her to the position, and it logically follows that she should not be entitled to back pay. Despite the fact that she was recommended second to Highsmith by the interview committee, she was not necessarily entitled to appointment based entirely on her rank within the applicants. Although the Board is obligated to consider the recommendation of the superintendent, it is not bound by that recommendation. Rotondo v. Board of Education of Carlstadt, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 376, 377; see also Primka v. Jamesburg Borough Bd. of Educ., 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 91, 93 (finding that the Board if not bound by the recommendation of the superintendent). Therefore, Farmer has failed to sufficiently show that she would have been appointed but for Highsmith's appointment. Moreover, the Board contends that she would not have earned a higher salary than she did in her previous position even if she had been appointed to the position. As such, respondent's motion for summary decision should be granted.

The Issues Presented by Petitioners Are Now Moot.

The Board contends that this matter should be dismissed because it is now moot based on the fact that Farmer has retired, Highsmith has resigned from the position, and the position has been significantly restructured and essentially no longer exists. An action is moot when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the question has become academic or when a determination of the controversy will have no practical effect. Victoria v. Woodbridge Bd. of Educ., 1982 S.L.D. 1. It is well established that questions that have become moot or academic prior to judicial scrutiny generally have been held to be an improper subject for judicial review. Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J.Super. 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976). The Anderson court reasoned that courts will not decide cases in which the issue is hypothetical and a judgment cannot grant relief. Ibid. The court went on the state that it is the premise of the Anglo-American judicial system that a contest engendered by genuinely conflicting self-interests of the parties is best suited to developing all relevant material before the court; therefore, when a change in circumstances occurs that creates doubt concerning the immediacy of the controversy, courts will ordinarily dismiss cases as moot. Ibid.

Similarly, the Commissioner of Education also does not decide moot cases. J.B. v. Asbury Park Bd. of Ed., 1988 S.L.D. 2303; Weehawken Educ. Assn. v. Weehawken Educ. Assn. v. Weehawken Bd. of Ed., 1978 S.L.D. 924. An event renders a controversy moot where it precludes a court from granting effective relief. 2 Am. Jr. 2d Administrative Law 524 (6th ed. 1990).

In the present matter, the Board argues that the action is moot because there is no controversy. Highsmith no longer occupies the position of assistant superintendent. Without the authority to appoint one of the petitioners to the position, the petitioners' remedy would otherwise be removal, which would be unnecessary at this point. Furthermore, petitioner Farmer has since retired. Even if the Commissioner had the requisite authority to make such an appointment, Farmer is unavailable to be appointed to the position, and Stephenson has failed to establish any concrete entitlement to the position. Finally, the Board has changed the position of assistant superintendent, modifying the job description and separating it into two distinct positions. See Nichols v. Bd. of Educ. of Jersey City, 65 N.J.Super. 45, 49 (1961) (finding that petitioner's request for appointment or reinstatement could not be ordered because the position was presently non-existent and the issue was therefore moot). [5]

Finally, petitioner's challenge to the contention that these issues are moot on account of a public policy argument should be denied. Petitioners have failed to show that respondents engaged in any actual wrongdoing. The fact remains that Highsmith was appointed to a position that he apparently was not qualified to hold. However, the circumstances surrounding this appointment are unclear, and petitioners have failed to substantiate any allegations of intentional evasion of certification requirements.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the respondent, Camden City Board of Education, has established that there are no genuine issues of material fact and that it is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Accordingly, its motions for summary decision in these matters be and are hereby GRANTED. The Commissioner does not have the authority to appoint either petitioner to the position, nor does he have the authority to award the monetary damages sought by the petitioners. Finally, the issues presented by both petitioners are moot, because there is no justiciable controversy.

[5] The Commissioner could consider whether the restructuring of the position by the Board was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Thomas v. Bd. of Educ. of the Township of Morris, 89 N.J.Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965). However, petitioners are not contending that the restructuring of the position was inappropriate action by the Board.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this consolidated matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, the Board submitted an "exception" requesting correction of the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) statement, at page 4 of the Initial Decision, that Charles Highsmith was "confirmed" by the Board on June 25, 2001. The Board notes that, although Highsmith had been recommended by the Superintendent, only the Board can appoint, and the Board's action in June 25, 2001 was its first and only official appointment of Highsmith, rather than the "confirmation" of an earlier Board action. Petitioners did not reply to the Board's submission.[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that summary decision is properly granted in favor of the Board. Accordingly, the Petitions of Appeal filed in this matter are dismissed for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between December 2001 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order against Mr. Gaines June 9, 2003, via regular and certified mail, directing him to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the October training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Respondent responded to the Order by letter stating that he registered to attend the October 21, 2003 training session in Atlantic City; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Gaines did not attend the training in October 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified him by letter dated June 12, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its October 28, 2003 meeting, and if he did not attend training by that time, he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from December 2001 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend through October; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Gaines fails to attend by the end of January 2004, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Gaines violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends, but remove him from the board if he fails to attend one of the January 2004 training sessions.

BLOOMFIELD EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, :

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Education Association alleged the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 when it unilaterally changed the retirement/resignation date of one of its members, Benedict Salamone, from October 1, 2001 to September 4, 2001, thus depriving the member of his full salary for the month of September. Salamone had notified the Board well in advance of the 60-day written notification requirement.

The ALJ determined that there were no cases that specifically addressed the problem as factually laid out in this matter. Once formal action was taken by the Board to accept the retirement/resignation date, only very unusual circumstances would allow rescission. The ALJ concluded that by unilaterally altering the date on the basis of alleged educational continuity, the Board did deprive Salamone of his full salary for the month of September, in essence reducing his income by having him accept a pension payment in lieu of salary. The ALJ found as a matter of equity Salamone was entitled to the difference between his pension payment for the month of September 2001 and his full salary for the month from the Board.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision with modification, finding resolution compelled as a matter of law. The Commissioner determined that unilaterally changing petitioner's termination of active employment date, thereby purporting to retire him prematurely and involuntarily, was tantamount to an unlawful discharge. The Commissioner noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, governing the resignation of tenured individuals, must be read in pari materia with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which specifies the circumstances under which a tenured individual may be dismissed. The Commissioner directed the Board to pay Salamone his full salary for the month of September 2001, less the amount of pension payment received by him for that month.

BLOOMFIELD EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF BLOOMFIELD,

Respondent.

Sanford Oxfeld, Esq., for petitioner

Joseph DeFuria, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF CASE

Benedict Salamone, a teacher in the Bloomfield School District, decided, after 40 years of service to resign his position effective October 1, 2001. He notified the Board in writing by letter dated July 9, 2001 that he intended to retire on September 30, 2001.

At its meeting of July 17, 2001, the Board of Education of Bloomfield excepted and approved Salamone's resignation and resignation date.

The Board of Education of Bloomfield on August 28, 2001 unilaterally changed Salamone's retirement date from September 30, 2001 to September 4, 2001.

Mr. Salamone's argues that by unilaterally moving up his retirement date, the Board violated his tenure rights since he was deprived of his full salary for the month of September.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was received by the Office of Administrative Law on or about November 29, 2001 and cross-motions for Summary Decision were received early in January 2003.

The Petition of Appeal as originally filed was in three Counts of which only Count 1 remains contested. Count 2 is dependent upon the argument in Count 1 that a teaching staff member cannot have his tenure rights violated unilaterally while Count 3 involved a different employee and has been resolved.

FACTS

The pertinent facts in this matter are not in significant dispute.

Benedict Salamone began his employment with the Bloomfield Board of Education in September 1961. During the entire time of his employment, he taught either English or Reading.

By letter dated July 9, 2001, Mr. Salamone wrote to Thomas Dowd, the Superintendent of Schools in Bloomfield that he would be retiring as of September 30, 2001. His notification was approved by the Board on July 17, 2001. Mr. Salamone intended to return to his job on September 4, 2001 but having returned from vacation on that day, the received notification that the Board had approved his resignation but his resignation was to be effective on September 1, 2001.

The letter to Mr. Salamone indicated that the Board at its August 28, 2001 meeting had changed his resignation date to accommodate a replacement teacher who was available as of September 5, 2001.

Telephone conversations and e-mail exchanges did not alter the Board's position.

Mr. Salamone went to the Division of Pensions in Trenton and requested that his retirement be effective August 1, 2001 to prevent a lapse in his health insurance. After an unsuccessful grievance arbitration, a petition of appeal was filed with the Department of Education and subsequently forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law for disposition. Petitioner and respondent agreed that the sole issue presented in this matter is the appropriateness/legality of the Board of Education unilaterally changing Salamone's requested resignation date.

THE LAW

Petitioner rightfully points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 requires only that he gives sixty day written notice of his intention to relinquish his position. The statute reads in full as follows:

> Any teaching staff member, under tenure of service, desiring to relinquish his position should give the employing Board of Education at least sixty-days written notice of his intention, unless the Board shall approve of a release on shorter notice and if he fails to give such a notice, he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the Commissioner may suspend the certificate for not more than one year.

Salamone's letter exceeded the sixty-day requirement and was accepted by the Board of Education.

The Board concedes that Salamone's resignation with a date of September 30, 2001 was approved.

The Board's position in this matter is as follows:

". . . Continuity of classroom instruction was a compelling educational interest, and this was maintained by hiring a replacement for Mr. Salamone to begin at the commencement of the school year, in September, rather than having Mr. Salamone teach the class for one month and to then immediately replace him as of October 1st with a new teacher. The Board's goal of maintaining educational continuity in the classroom was in the best interest of the children, and was not an attempt to benefit the Board in any way, in its capacity as an employer."

Petitioner contends that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 which reads in pertinent part as follows:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation (if he is tenured) except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause and then only after a hearing held pursuant to the sub-article by the Commission, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of the complaint, shall be profit against such persons signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of the Board of Education and filed and proceeded upon as in this sub-article provided.

The essence of the arguments by both sides is that, according to petitioner, there is no restriction on his choice of retirement date although the Board believes that the educational continuity of the students and their best interests allows the Board to in fact unilaterally alter Mr. Salamone's chosen retirement date.

DISCUSSION

The Collective Bargaining Unit between the Bloomfield Education Association of which Salamone is a member and the Bloomfield Board of Education is silent with respect to acceptance or alteration of a submitted retirement date.

There are no cases which specifically address the problem as factually laid out in this matter.

The sixty-day notice required pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 is undoubtedly intended to provide the Board with an adequate amount of time to seek a replacement for the retiring or resigning teaching staff member. Although the statute allows for a shortening of the sixty-day time period for the acceptance of a notice, it amounts to no more than a restriction on the conduct of the tenured teacher for it provides a penalty in the event the notice is not timely. It does not however, preclude a retirement nonetheless nor does it mandate any action by the Board of Education which if not undertaken would warrant a penalty.

There are some general rules culled from prior cases that afford some guidance in this matter.

In Hanley v. Board of Education of Township of East Brunswick, 1988 S.L. D. 1149 read in conjunction with In The Matter of Fisher v. The Board of Education of City of East Orange 1988 S.L.D. 31 confirmed that an effective resignation must be unambiguous and voluntary to end up in a relinquishment of the position.

As a general rule, an employee may rescind a resignation prior to its formal acceptance by the Board of Education. Kozak v. Board of Education of Waterford Township, 1976 S.L.D. 633. Formal acceptance does require a motion or resolution by the Board. Lippincot v. Board of Education of the Borough of Riverton, 1990 S.L.D. 639.

Once formal action is taken by the Board only very unusual circumstances will allow the resignation to be rescinded. Evaul v. Board of Education of the City of Camden, 35 N.J. 244 (1961).

The Board's argument in this matter would have been more compelling had they not accepted Salamone's notice of retirement. The notice given by Salamone was in accordance with his statutory responsibility, which in theory and actually in practice gives the Board sufficient time to seek a replacement. The Board not only sought the replacement but once they found the replacement, they "unilaterally" altered their agreement with Salamone with not even the slightest consideration of how that alteration may affect Salamone. Equitably speaking, I see little to refute the argument that this conduct by the Board was patently unfair. It is however, not prohibited by statute or regulation nor precluded by agreement in the Collective Bargaining Contract.

Anger, aggravation, irritation and disappointment experienced by Salamone are understandable responses but not a basis for compensation in this matter. However, there is some validity to the creative argument that Salamone has lost the difference between what he received in pension for the month of September and what he would have received in salary for that month had his retirement date not been unilaterally altered. No charges, no hearing, no notice, no loss of salary. In a nutshell, that is Salamone's contention with respect to the purported violation of his tenure rights.

If the Board did not want to accept Salamone's purposed retirement date contained in his notice, they could have at very minimum discussed it with him at the time he submitted. The interest of the children and the continuity of their education were no different then than it was when they found a replacement for Mr. Salamone. Although it might seem quite logical to require a teacher's retirement to take place at the least disruptive time to the students, that most likely being in September, or at the end of the school year, there is no statute, regulation or agreement mandating such logic.

The facts of this case as applied to Mr. Salamone and the Board are situationally unique. The principal that the Board can unilaterally move up a retirement date would fall in the category of ludicrous if examined from the standpoint of an attempt by a Board to move up a retirement date for example, six-months. An analysis of a Board's attempt to so alter a retirement request leads to the conclusion that it is simply inequitable. Salamone followed all of the mandates required of him in order to retire. He has no obligation to either explain his chosen retirement date nor give a reason for why he chose it. Most disturbing in the factual context of this matter, is that the Board did accept not only Salamone's resignation, but also the date that he chose. By unilaterally altering that date, with what appears to be a pretextual contention that educational continuity would benefit from the unilateral change, they did deprive Salamone of his full salary for the month of September, in essence reducing his income by having him accept a pension payment in lieu of salary.

The Board's action was equitably wrong. A wrong shall have a remedy.

ORDER

It is so ORDERED that the Board of Education of Bloomfield should pay to Benedict Salamone the difference between his pension payment for the month of September 2001 and his full salary for the month.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU. 8308-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 466-11/01

BLOOMFIELD EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board's exceptions charge that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination in this matter was premised solely on "sympathy" for Mr. Salamone because he found the result here "inequitable and unfair." (Board's Exceptions at 1) However, as the ALJ recognized, there is no law, regulation or bargaining agreement which prohibited the Board's actions in this regard. The Board argues that it is the responsibility of the OAL to interpret and apply the laws of the State. The Board's actions here were not violative of any law or regulation. To the contrary, the Board asserts, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, which was enacted to protect boards of education by requiring teachers to provide sufficient notice of their intent to resign/retire so as to permit boards to secure replacements, specifically authorizes such action by a board.[1] As such, the Board urges the Commissioner to reverse the decision of the OAL. (Id. At 2)

[1] The Commissioner notes that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8., Notice of intention to resign required, specifies:

In reply, petitioner contends that the fundamental issue to be resolved here "is the ability of a Board of Education to assign a termination date for a tenured teacher, without the teacher's consent and without the filing of tenure charges." (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at 2) Petitioner charges that the Board's reliance on language in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 in support of its action is misplaced, professing

> [c]learly the phrase indicating that the Board may approve release on shorter notice contemplates that the individual giving the notice must first have requested a period shorter than the 60 days set for[th] in the statute. It is the Board of Education's prerogative to then "approve" a release on shorter notice if it so desires. If the Board does not so approve, it can seek to have the teacher's certification suspended for up to one year. It must be emphasized that the statute does not give the Board of Education the right to "grant" release on shorter notice. In short, if the teacher makes a request to resign with shorter notice, the Board of Education has the right to either approve or not approve, but the statute in no way contemplates the Board of Education of its own accord giving a teacher a shorter period of notification than the teacher requested. (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at 2-3)

Here, petitioner argues, Mr. Salamone submitted notification of his intention to leave the District on October 1, 2001, by letter dated July 9, 2001, in full compliance with the requisite statutory notification period. The Board accepted such notification, pursuant to its terms, on July 17, 2001. At no time did Mr. Salamone request a reduced notification period but, rather, the Board, subsequently, unilaterally changed his termination date. Petitioner contends that the impropriety of such an action is readily apparent when N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, which is solely applicable to tenured individuals, is read in pari materia with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, Dismissal and

> Any teaching staff member, under tenure of service, desiring to relinquish his position shall give the employing board of education at least 60 days written notice of his intention, unless the board shall approve of a release on shorter notice and if he fails to give such notice he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year.

reduction in compensation of persons under tenure in public school systems, which, in pertinent part, specifies:

> [n]o person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation [if he is tenured] except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to the sub-article, by the Commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of the complaint, shall be preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of the Board of Education, and filed and then proceeded upon as in this sub-article provided.
> (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at 4)

Such an examination, petitioner opines, evidences that there are only two ways that a board of education and a tenured teacher can permanently sever their employment relationship, i.e., the tenured teaching staff member can submit a letter of resignation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 or the board can file tenure charges against the teaching staff member pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. (Ibid.) As it is undisputed that Mr. Salamone provided the requisite notice, the law is clear that the only way he could have been forced to leave his employment is by the filing of tenure charges, which never happened in this matter. (Id. At 7) Petitioner, therefore, submits that the decision of the ALJ should be affirmed.

Upon his full and independent review of the record, Initial Decision and the parties' exception arguments, while the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the ALJ's determination that the Board improperly deprived petitioner of his full salary for the month of September 2001, he provides the following modification. Notwithstanding that there is no statutory provision which specifically addresses the effect of retirement/resignation notifications and that prior case law deals with situations where individuals sought, under various circumstances, to rescind their retirement/resignation notification subsequent to acceptance of such notifications by their boards of education rather than the question of unilateral action by a board as occurred here, the Commissioner concludes that foundational precepts contained in these prior decisions of the Commissioner compel the outcome of this case as a matter of law.

Initially, it is well-established in school law that in the absence of statutory provisions dealing with the effect of resignations and their rescission or modification, principles of contract law are applicable. Cutro v. Hazlet Township Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 402, affirmed with modification by the State Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 557. The provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 require tenured teaching staff members desiring to relinquish their position to give the employing board of education written notice of their intent to resign at least 60 days prior to their intended departure date. It is by now well recognized that upon acceptance of that letter of resignation/retirement by the board the teaching staff member does not have a right to unilaterally rescind the resignation. See F. Rupert Belles v. Wayne Township Board of Education, 1938 S.L.D. 556; Kozak v. Waterford Township Board of Education, 1976 S.L.D. 633; Cutler v. Board of Education of the Township of Parsippany-Troy Hills, 1990 S.L.D. 725. Ordinary principles of contract law compel the conclusion that the Board is similarly bound by the accepted terms of the resignation. Thus, petitioner's tendered notification of retirement, by letter dated July 9, 2001, with an effective date of October 1, 2001, was legally binding on both parties upon acceptance of its proffered terms by the Board on July 17, 2001, and could not thereafter be unilaterally rescinded or modified. See Cutro, supra; Lisette R. Delgado v. BOE of the City of Union, Hudson County, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 744; Ronald Fischer v. Board of Education of the City of East Orange, Essex County, 1988 S.L.D. 31. Therefore, the Board's subsequent action on August 28, 2001, unilaterally changing petitioner's termination of active employment date, thereby purporting to retire him prematurely and involuntarily, was tantamount to an unlawful discharge.

The Commissioner specifically rejects the Board's contention that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 provided authorization for its August 28 action. Rather, he concurs with petitioner that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, governing the resignation of tenured individuals, must be read in pari materia with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which specifies the circumstances under which a tenured individual may be dismissed. To find otherwise would render meaningless tendered notification of retirement/resignation and the Board's acceptance thereof, as the Board would be free to unilaterally alter the agreement prior to the effective date, thereby serving to eviscerate the tenure protections guaranteed these individuals by law.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as modified herein. The Board is hereby directed to pay Mr. Salamone his full salary for the month of September 2001, less the amount of pension payment received by him for that month.

	: BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE MATTER OF TENURE CHARGES AGAINST JOHN CROWELL, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY	: AGENCY DOCKET NO. 192-6/02 : OAL DOCKET NO. EDUTH 4580-02S
	: SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, this Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, New Jersey, and the Respondent, John Crowell.

WHEREAS, the Respondent is a tenured teacher within the meaning of the education Laws and regulations covering the State of New Jersey employed by the Petitioner. On June 17, 2002, the Petitioner certified tenure charges against the Respondent seeking his dismissal from his teacher's position. The tenure charges were filed by the Petitioner with the Commissioner of Education's office on June 28, 2002. On July 12, 2002, the Respondent filed an Answer to the tenure charges denying the allegations set forth in the tenure charges.

WHEREAS, on July 18, 2002, the tenure charges were transmitted by the Commissioner to the Office of Administrative Law and assigned to Administrative Law Judge Robert Miller to conduct a plenary hearing. The hearing was commenced on April 23, 2003 before ALJ Miller and a settlement conference was conducted between the parties resulting in the within agreement.

WHEREAS, the tenure charges against the Respondent involve the following three separate incidents which occurred during the 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 school years:

1. On June 11, 2001, it is alleged that Trenton Central High School student, Tameka Jones, after receiving her failing grade and the possibility that she might not graduate, told Respondent that she would do anything to increase her grade. Respondent replied, "Would you have sex with me every day?" Respondent acknowledges that he made the statement but it was intended to be a joke, albeit an inappropriate joke. There is only one student who is available to testify regarding this statement and she has acknowledged in her statement, and it would be confirmed in her testimony, that Respondent may have been joking.

2. On January 3, 2002, it is alleged that Respondent forcibly removed the headband of a student and used it to wipe the chalkboard. It is further alleged that when the student attempted to retrieve the headband, the Respondent kicked him several times in front of other students. Respondent claims that he did not forcibly remove the headband. He also claims that when the student grabbed a calculator from his shirt pocket, he grabbed the student's hand to prevent his pocket from tearing and in response, the student kicked him in the ankle. Respondent claims that he attempted to defend himself by putting his foot out to stop the student from kicking him. The student who claimed to be the victim of Respondent's conduct is not available to testify. In addition, only one of three other possible witnesses is available to testify.

3. On February 13, 2002, it is alleged that the Respondent kneed a student three times when she returned to the classroom after being dismissed for being disruptive. Respondent claims that he never kicked the student with any part of his body but as she attempted to punch him, he lifted his knee for protection. A disorderly conduct complaint was filed against Respondent by the student's mother in Trenton Municipal Court. A hearing was conducted and a Municipal Court judge dismissed the complaint based upon his finding that the victim's story was not credible and that Respondent's action was done in self defense. Although the student victim is available to testify, there are no other witnesses available to substantiate her allegations.

WHEREAS, the petitioner feels this settlement is appropriate because the strength of it's case may be effected by the unavailability of many of the witnesses as set forth above who it intended to produce at the hearing and that a municipal court trial related to the above mentioned February 13, 2002 charge alleging assault against a student resulted in a dismissal of simple assault charges against Respondent on the grounds that he acted in self-defense.

WHEREAS, Respondent contends that the allegations against him, separately and together, do not constitute unbecoming conduct on the grounds that they can not be supported by facts based upon a preponderance of evidence, and even if there may be some factual support for the allegations, they do not constitute unbecoming conduct as defined by law, and moreover, if it was determined that some of his conduct was not consistent with the law or district policy, his tenure would not be terminated when he had not previously been disciplined as a principal beyond a written warning, or even during his prior experience in the School District as a teacher and assistant principal, over the course of his 20 years of employment in the District; and

WHEREAS, It is now the desire of both parties to resolve any and all issues and disputes in this proceeding because of the uncertainty of the outcome should this matter proceed to hearing. In consideration for the mutual promises and covenants contained herein, the parties agree as follows:

1. The Respondent will be reinstated to his former position as a tenured teacher upon the approval of this settlement agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

2. The parties also agree and understand that based upon the needs of the Petitioner, the Respondent's assignment may change from the assignment that he held at the time the tenure charges were certified, provided that such change is consistent with the laws and regulations of the State of New Jersey, policies and practices of the Petitioner, and the collective bargaining agreement between the Petitioner and the Trenton Education Association.

3. In accordance with state tenure laws, the Respondent was suspended without pay for 120 days following certification of the tenure charges. The parties agree that this period of suspension without pay shall be deemed to be a disciplinary suspension without pay and may be treated as a disciplinary suspension by the Petitioner for purposes of the Respondent's employment record with the Petitioner.

4. It is agreed that the Respondent's acceptance of this disciplinary suspension without pay does not constitute an admission of guilt by him to any of the allegations set forth in the tenure charges or an acknowledgment that he engaged in any wrongdoing of any kind, including that set forth in the tenure charges. Respondent has entered into this settlement agreement due to the uncertainty of the outcome and in an effort to dispose of this matter in a way that will allow him to return to work.

5. Respondent acknowledges that he is not entitled to any back pay as a part of this settlement agreement, nor is he entitled to have any of his attorney's fees paid by the Petitioner.

6. Respondent understands that the Commissioner, pursuant to NJAC 6:11-3.6 has the authority to refer tenure decisions to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certification

7. This agreement constitutes a full and final settlement of all claims in dispute, which were raised, or could have been raised, in this matter. Both parties waive any rights to any further appeals with respect to this matter, or any other proceedings to contest the matters which were raised in this proceeding, or could have been raised, except that either party may file an appropriate action to enforce the terms of this settlement agreement.

8. The parties agree that this settlement agreement will be incorporated as part of an Initial Decision issued by the Honorable Robert Miller, ALJ, and will be presented to the Commissioner of Education to accept as a final decision in this matter.

9. The Respondent by signing this agreement below represents and warrants that he has had an opportunity to review this agreement with his attorney, Michael T. Barrett, Esq., Bergman and Barrett, and warrants that he is satisfied with the services of Mr. Barrett and his firm and with the representation that he has received from the Trenton Education Association.

10. This agreement is entered into voluntarily, without duress and of free will and that there are no agreements between the parties other than that which are set forth herein.

11. The representatives of the Petitioner signing this agreement represents and warrants that they are authorized by the Petitioner to enter into this agreement based upon a public action approving the agreement by the Petitioner and their signatures bind the Petitioner to the terms set forth herein.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 192-6/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JOHN CROWELL,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review of the Settlement Agreement and the charges certified by the District, as well as the written statements in evidence appended thereto and respondent's Answer to such charges, the Commissioner is compelled to reject such agreement, since he cannot be satisfied that it meets the Cardonick standards for settlement of tenure matters. In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

It is well-established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, the District may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges can no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. (In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth S. Smith, School District of the City of Orange, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 1982, decision on remand June 16, 1983, 1983 S.L.D. 420; affirmed with modification by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, 1983 S.L.D. 489; affirmed N.J. Superior Court, Appellate Division, January 30, 1986.) Specifically, the Commissioner finds that the charges delineated herein are of a serious nature, involving allegations of two separate instances of corporal punishment against students in January and February 2002, respectively, and an allegation that respondent propositioned a female student in his classroom in June 2001, telling her that she could graduate if she slept with him every night. Although the District asserts that the "strength of [its] case may be [affected] by the unavailability of many of the witnessesand that a municipal court trial related to the above mentioned February 13, 2002 [corporal punishment] charge alleging assault against a student resulted in a dismissal of simple assault charges against Respondent on the grounds that he acted in self-defense" (Settlement Agreement at 3), the Commissioner is simply not persuaded that the District lacks the ability to go forward. The proposed agreement indicates that there is at least one witness on each of the charges "available" to testify, including the victim in one of the corporal punishment charges. The record further contains written documentation of two investigative reports of the school principal, Ms. Dawson, which involved her interviewing of respondent with respect to each of the two corporal punishment incidents, and in one of these incidents there is an incident statement of a teaching staff member. Presumably, availability of these school personnel should be assured. Moreover, the outcome of a charge in municipal court would not foreclose establishment of unbecoming conduct in this forum based on the identified conduct largely because of the significant difference in the required burdens of proof in the respective forums, i.e., beyond a reasonable doubt vs. preponderance of the credible evidence.

Particularly troubling here is that the proposed Settlement Agreement appears to contemplate respondent's reinstatement to his position and, concomitantly, a return to his instructional duties. Given the serious nature of the charges filed by the District, the Commissioner cannot approve any agreement which contemplates respondent's unconditioned return to the classroom absent successful adjudication of the charges without detailed elaboration as to how this result serves the public interest.

Accordingly, the within Settlement Agreement is rejected and this matter is remanded to the OAL for further action consistent with this determination.
