Petitioners have submitted materials from the NHS website indicating that although questionnaire's to the faculty are permitted, these should not be sole determinants and that ultimately, the faculty council must evaluate the merits of each candidate. These materials suggest that after the objective cutoff provided by GPA, the remaining task is evaluative and may not be avoided by an additional numerical cutoff. There are a few problems with this presentation thus far. Without the benefit of an affidavit from someone in authority at the NHS, it is hard to say whether this material represents current, or complete policy. Moreover, even if the District procedure deviates some from NHS policy, it is not clear whether this would be of moment to the NHS. It would be useful at a plenary hearing to have the NHS view.

Seen from the District's perspective, the 3.30 threshold established in advance by the faculty council is not appreciably different then the 3.5 GPA requirement, established as a first hurdle. Undoubtedly the high GPA requirement excluded many fine students, but that is the nature of the task and the NHS constitution gives local chapters discretion to establish procedure within certain broad guidelines. Without the specter of inconsistency with NHS policy, the procedure devised by respondent seems generally calculated to yield the most qualified candidates and would be well within its discretion. The only precedent I have found that is factually close is not entirely useful. In D.W. v. Pompton Lakes Board of Education, (SLD 77:1240), the Commissioner approved a similar rating scale, but it appears that the faculty council there made the evaluation. Thus, it is not the use of a scale, but how it is used that is the rubbing point.

Petitioners are also not satisfied that the 3.30 standard and the rounding decision were arrived at fairly, nor do they know how the calculations were tabulated for their son specifically. They may seek this information in the course of preparing for the plenary hearing, but at this stage they have merely surmised that there was a problem.

Petitioners exposed a procedural flaw regarding the dissemination of information about the NHS. Mr. Harmelin explained, however, that this was an oversight and that A.B. was not disadvantaged by this omission; there is no evidence to the contrary.

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that emergent relief be DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

7/30/03
DATE

SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ

/cad

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4399-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 172-5/03

J.B. AND D.B., ON BEHALF OF A.B.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PINE HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:

The recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), together with the audio tape of the emergent hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 16, 2003 have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs that petitioners have failed to satisfy the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) necessary to warrant the extraordinary remedy of emergent relief. Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with a plenary hearing scheduled for September 5, 2003.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 5, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 7, 2003

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq.

434-03

434-03

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :

HEARING OF BRENDA MAPP, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF : DECISION

TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.

:

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent teacher based on criminal offenses, teacher performance infractions, and failure to follow proper procedures related to tardiness and absences. Respondent's increment was withheld for the 1999-2000 school year.

The ALJ found that respondent's conduct adversely affected the morale or efficiency of the District, violated standard of good behavior and destroys public respect for teachers. She admitted allowing drug dealers to use her residence for storing, selling and cooking cocaine and she herself received money and cocaine, which she sold. This conduct which resulted in Charges 1 and 2 was so egregious in and of itself as to justify her removal. The ALJ concluded that in the best interest of the students in the District, respondent should be removed as a teacher.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. The Commissioner stressed that ultimate disposition of the criminal matters was irrelevant; rather, the focus of the inquiry in this matter was solely concerned with respondent's fitness to teach. The Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from her tenured teaching position as of the date of this decision and referred the matter to the State Board of Examiners for action as that body deems appropriate.

August 5, 2003

Charge One: That respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct based on allegations that on or about July 10, 2000, respondent committed the offenses of resisting arrest, eluding police, driving on the revoked/suspended list, and careless driving.

Charge Two: That respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct based on allegations that on or about June 6, 2001, respondent committed the following eight offenses: (1) possession of a controlled dangerous substance; (2) possession with intent to distribute; (3) possession with intent to distribute in a school zone; (4) maintaining a narcotics nuisance; (5) possession of an assault weapon while committing a narcotics offense; (6) possession of an assault weapon with a defaced serial number; (7) possession of hollow-nosed bullets; and (8) possession of a large-capacity magazine; and that from April 2001 to June 2001, respondent allowed her residence to be used for the preparation and distribution of a controlled dangerous substance for personal and compensatory gain.

Charge Three: That respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct based on allegations that on November 22, 1999, Hill School principal Nancy Puri reprimanded respondent for a number of infractions, including falling asleep in class and failing to submit a plan book in a timely manner; that on December 14, 1999, Ms. Puri again reprimanded respondent for sleeping in class while students were unsupervised; that on January 19, 2000, Ms. Puri received correspondence from a parent, Carlene Moore, requesting that her daughter be removed from respondent's classroom, the basis for the request being that respondent had called the child a "moron" on one occasion and on another referred to her as "stupid"; and that respondent was previously disciplined for similar conduct when on August 30, 1999, the Board withheld her increment for the 1999-2000 school year for sleeping in class during instructional time, as well as other reasons.

Charge Four: That respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct based on allegations that on October 5, 1999, Ms. Puri reprimanded respondent for failing to follow proper call-out procedures – respondent had originally stated her intention to come in for half of the school day and then failed to call in until 1:15 p.m.; that on November 3, 1999, respondent failed to follow proper call-out procedures when taking a personal illness day; that respondent was reprimanded by Ms. Puri on November 22, 1999, for, among other infractions, failure to notify the school of her absence in a timely manner, unauthorized late arrival after time required for one-half day, frequent absences and tardiness, and failure to meet with the principal to discuss monthly attendance notice; that on November 24, 1999, respondent failed to notify the school of her tardiness in a timely manner and respondent was docked for her 10:08 a.m. arrival (she is required to report to work at 8:20 a.m.); that on November 29, 1999, respondent failed to notify the school of her tardiness in a timely manner and respondent was docked for her 9:05 a.m. arrival; that on December 23, 1999, respondent failed to notify the school of her tardiness (10:55 a.m. arrival) in a timely manner; that on January 10, 2000, respondent failed to notify the school of her tardiness (1:10 p.m. arrival) in a timely manner; that on January 12, 2000, respondent failed to report to work after indicating to the principal that she would arrive at approximately 11:00 a.m.; and that respondent was previously disciplined for similar conduct when on August 30, 1999, the Board voted to withhold respondent's 1999-2000 increment for the following reasons, among others: absent 29 days, with respondent reporting her absence too late to procure a substitute on 22 of those days; tardy 70 days; refusing to sign in – 12 days; refusing to sign out – 25 days.

ISSUES TO BE RESOLVED

The issues to be resolved in this matter are:

1. Is respondent guilty of the charges by engaging in the conduct alleged by petitioner?

2. Is the conduct specified in the Statement of Tenure Charges and alleged by petitioner to have occurred on the part of respondent unprofessional and unbecoming a tenured teaching staff member under the laws of the State of New Jersey and the Rules of the State Board of Education?

3. If respondent is guilty of one or more of the charges, what is the appropriate remedy/penalty to be imposed?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Summary of Testimony

The following is not intended to be a verbatim recitation of the testimony. It is intended to summarize those facts that are not in dispute and to identify relevant portions of the testimony of the witnesses and the evidence presented in this matter.

Detective Robert Cowan testified for the school district. He has been employed as a detective by the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office for thirteen years, and is assigned to the Special Investigations Unit. Among his duties are investigations of mid-level and upper-level drug dealers in Mercer County.

Detective Cowan testified to his involvement with respondent. Sometime prior to June 2001, the Special Investigations Unit conducted an investigation involving the distribution of drugs from premises located at 31 Kirkbride Avenue, Trenton, New Jersey, which was respondent's place of residence. Based on the investigation, a search warrant was issued and executed for the premises, and more than one-half ounce of cocaine and an assault weapon with a defaced serial number were seized from the premises. Based on an affidavit of probable cause prepared by Detective Cowan (P-3) and based on complaints issued by Detective Cowan against respondent (P-1; P-2), respondent was arrested on June 7, 2001.

Detective Cowan testified that following her arrest on June 7, 2001, respondent was asked to provide a statement (P-5). According to Detective Cowan, respondent acknowledged that she understood her rights and voluntarily agreed to provide the statement. She provided answers to questions asked of her, initialed her responses, and signed the document. Detective Cowan also signed the statement at that time, and respondent then swore to the statement before an assistant prosecutor.

In her statement, respondent stated that all of the cocaine and assault firearms found in her residence belonged to Jamar Tucker, and that she allowed Jamar Tucker to use her residence for the purpose of storing and selling his cocaine. She also stated that she personally observed Jamar Tucker "cook" powdered cocaine into crack cocaine in her residence approximately fifty times and that she saw him conduct a 90-gram cocaine sale in her residence. She also stated that she allowed Eric Lacey to utilize her residence for the purpose of selling drugs. In exchange for this, she would receive money and cocaine from Jamar Tucker and Eric Lacey. She also admitted that, in the past, she had sold cocaine that Jamar Tucker had given her. Respondent stated that if she did not cooperate, he "would hit her off," or kill her. She also stated that she had been subjected to violence, they had punched her in the face and threatened to kill her, and that they were out of control.

On cross-examination, Detective Cowan testified that he had spoken to an assistant prosecutor about the status of the criminal charges against respondent the day prior to his testimony in this matter. He learned that all of the charges that he had filed against respondent had been dismissed and that she had pled guilty to a downgraded disorderly persons offense. He was not aware of the exact offense she pled guilty to. Although he had never seen the document before, he acknowledged that an Order Dismissing the Complaint against respondent was entered on June 20, 2002 (R-1), on the basis that there was insufficient evidence upon which to predicate successful prosecution of the charges, and that respondent had pled guilty to and been sentenced on other charges, and that no useful purpose would be served by further prosecution. The original criminal charges had subjected respondent to the possibility of substantial jail time. He also acknowledged that it was not unusual to dismiss criminal charges, because they must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

Detective Cowan acknowledged that the targets of the original investigation were Lacey and Tucker, and he questioned respondent in order to pursue charges against them rather than against respondent. At the time, he felt that respondent could provide information helpful in prosecuting Lacey and Tucker. He acknowledged that the statement signed by respondent (P-5) probably did not reflect the entire conversation between them. He acknowledged that respondent stated that she had called the Trenton Police Department a number of times. He also acknowledged that he did not check out her self-serving statements. He denied ever suggesting any answers to respondent.

On re-direct examination, Detective Cowan testified that he identified 31 Kirkbride Avenue, Trenton, New Jersey, as respondent's residence based on letters and other items found in that location showing that she lived there.

Nancy C. Puri also testified for petitioner. Ms. Puri has been the principal at the Patton J. Hill School on East State Street in Trenton, New Jersey, since August 1999. She has been an employee of the school district for thirty-two years and has served as a teacher, assistant principal, vice principal and principal. She testified to her educational background and certifications, including certificates in elementary education, reading specialist, principal, and supervisor.

Ms. Puri testified that prior to her coming to the Patton J. Hill School, Howard Colvin was the principal. Ms. Puri first met respondent one day prior to the beginning of the 1999-2000 school year. On that occasion, she observed an exchange between respondent and Mr. Colvin and respondent was quite unpleasant toward Mr. Colvin.

Ms. Puri indicated that although there may have been earlier incidents, she first gave respondent written notice of failure to follow proper procedures on October 5, 1999 (P-6). On October 4, 1999, respondent called in to say that she had a personal matter to take care of and that she would be in work for one-half day in the afternoon. Ms. Puri explained that for a teacher, working a half day in the afternoon requires that the teacher arrive at 11:30 a.m. Respondent did not show up at 11:30 a.m., and did not call until 1:15 p.m., when she advised that she would not be in for the entire day. Because petitioner had indicated that she would be in for a half day, Ms. Puri did not arrange for a substitute teacher. Often in a situation like this, the children are divided up among the other classrooms. As a result, the continuity of the instruction of the students is hindered. Ms. Puri does not recall what was done with respondent's class on October 4, 1999. Because respondent failed to follow proper call-in procedure, Ms. Puri prepared a memo to respondent. They then spoke informally and respondent said that she would try to follow the proper procedure from that point on.

Ms. Puri testified that on November 3, 1999, respondent neglected to call the school until 8:40 a.m. to advise that she was taking a personal illness day. All teachers are required to call by 8:00 a.m., prior to the opening of the school day, and the school district then attempts to hire a substitute teacher. Failure to comply with this procedure causes chaos and confusion. She recalls giving a memo to respondent documenting this incident (P-7), but cannot recall if they had a follow-up conversation.

Ms. Puri identified a memorandum that she gave to respondent on November 22, 1999 (P-8). This memorandum lists a number of serious concerns that she had as to respondent's performance. The memorandum was the result of a conference, and during the conference Ms. Puri indicated that she was concerned whether respondent had some personal problems. Ms.-Puri suggested that respondent contact the Family Guidance Service. She also advised respondent that this memorandum was a step in progressive discipline and that the next step would be to recommend the withholding of an increment.

Ms. Puri wrote another memorandum to respondent on November 24, 1999, because respondent was again tardy for school (P-9). Respondent is required to report at 8:20 a.m., but she reported at 10:08 a.m. on that date. Ms. Puri explained that if a teacher is tardy, she must arrange to have a certified staff member cover the class until the tardy teacher arrives, or the children must be divided among other classes. In either event, the continuity of instruction is interrupted. Ms. Puri explained that no matter how good a substitute teacher is, the substitute cannot fully replace the regular classroom teacher.

Ms. Puri testified that on November 29, 1999, respondent was again tardy, arriving at 9:05 a.m. (P-10). On December 23, 1999, respondent failed to show up for work and failed to notify the school district of her absence until 10:55 a.m. Based on this, Ms. Puri notified respondent that it would be her recommendation to the school district's Human Resources office that respondent be removed from the classroom (P-11). She explained that staff members are not required to explain why they are late, but they are required to notify the school if they will be late. She testified that on January 10, 2000, respondent was again tardy when she arrived at 1:10 p.m. (P-12). She explained that students are let out at 3:00 p.m. and teachers leave at 3:05 p.m. Thus, respondent was not present for the majority of the work day.

Ms. Puri testified that she and respondent had ongoing conversations. She was concerned about respondent and her well-being, but was also concerned about the children in respondent's class and the continuity of their instruction.

Ms. Puri testified that on January 12, 2000, respondent contacted her at 9:05 a.m. and stated that she would be late because of a furnace repair, and that she would report to school in approximately two hours. However, respondent never reported for work. Ms. Puri does not recall what she arranged for class coverage on that day. As a result of this incident, she wrote the memo of January 13, 2000 (P-13).

Ms. Puri testified to an incident that occurred on December 14, 1999. She stated that she was making her rounds of the school at approximately 9:15 a.m. and entered the back of respondent's classroom. She observed respondent sitting in her chair with her back to the students, sleeping. She watched respondent for ten minutes to make sure that she was asleep, leaving the students unsupervised. Ms. Puri acknowledged that the students were sitting quietly and working on their assignments. She gave a memorandum to respondent concerning this incident on December 14, 1999 (P-14).

Ms. Puri identified a letter written to her by a parent of a student alleging that her daughter was suffering academically by being in respondent's class (P-15). The parent's letter indicated that respondent would never call the parent to advise her of any deficiencies, and that respondent called her daughter a moron and stupid in class. The parent asked that her daughter be taken out of respondent's class. Ms. Puri indicated that the student was transferred. She testified that the class size is approximately twenty-five students, and she admitted that this was the only parent who put her complaint her in writing.

Respondent was eventually removed from the classroom, but Ms. Puri did not recall the date. Ms. Puri testified that from October 1999 through January 2000, she had many conversations with respondent. However, things did not improve over time. She testified that respondent never mentioned to her any medical reason for her inability to perform her duties.

Ms. Puri acknowledged on cross-examination that coverage problems occur on a daily basis, because there is a large staff. Her job is to provide supervision. She reiterated that the first time she felt it necessary to discuss respondent's problems with her was on October 5, 1999 (P-6). The memo was written when respondent was tardy and neglected to call in. If she had simply been tardy, but had called in appropriately, there would have been no memo written. She acknowledged conversing with respondent at the beginning of the school year, but she has no recollection of any mention by respondent of a medical condition that was affecting her conduct.

Ms. Puri acknowledged that respondent did ask that "specials" for her class be scheduled at the beginning of the day because it was hard for her to get through a whole day. However, she does not adjust schedules to accommodate staff. She also indicated that any disability or handicap accommodation is done through Human Resources, but this was never requested by respondent. It was at some point shortly after the January 19, 2000, letter from a student's parent (P-15) that Human Resources advised her that respondent would be reporting to them. Respondent was then taken out of the school. Ms. Puri acknowledged writing a memo to the teaching staff stating that they could not leave a classroom unattended to go to the bathroom.

On redirect examination, Ms. Puri testified that there is no question that she authored nine memos between October 5, 1999, and January 13, 2000, and gave them to respondent (P-6 through P-14). She first met with respondent when she was with former principal Colvin and respondent used profanities in addressing him. Ms. Puri opined that respondent had a bad relationship with Mr. Colvin.

Robert Cochran, a lieutenant with the Trenton Police Department, also testified for petitioner. Lieutenant Cochran testified that he has been a police officer for twenty-eight years. He is presently assigned as commander of the Northwest Narcotics Bureau. Prior to that, he was a lieutenant in the Patrol Division. He testified that around July 10, 2000, while he was assigned to the Patrol Division, he issued an arrest warrant for respondent for resisting arrest and eluding police. He identified the arrest warrant (P-16), the indictment (P-17), and his investigation report (P-18).

Lieutenant Cochran testified that on July 10, 2000, just after midnight, he was stopped in traffic on Market Street in Trenton when he observed a vehicle being driven around two vehicles that were in the left lane, designated for left turns. The vehicle continued north on South Broad Street and he activated his lights and siren and stopped the vehicle near the intersection of South Broad and Market. He indicated that he initially pulled the vehicle over because of reckless driving, but the driver, the respondent, did not appear to be under the influence of anything. She gave her name and date of birth, but stated to him that she did not have her purse or her driver's license. He called into headquarters and learned that her driver's license was revoked. He advised her that a motor vehicle summons would be mailed to her residence for operating a motor vehicle with a suspended license. He also told her that she could not drive the vehicle, and she assured him that she would contact a friend and have the friend drive her home. Lieutenant Cochran testified that he advised respondent that if she did operate a vehicle, she would be placed under arrest and her car would be towed. He stated that respondent was cooperative and that he was not concerned about her safety when he left.

Lieutenant Cochran testified that approximately ten minutes later he observed respondent driving her vehicle on South Broad Street. He observed her approaching the intersection of South Broad and Front streets and he exited his vehicle and ordered her to pull over to the side of the road. He told her that she was under arrest, but she disregarded his instructions and accelerated away. He then gave chase in his police vehicle by activating his emergency lights and siren and notifying other officers. He testified that respondent went through several red traffic lights and that eventually a patrol sergeant and he blocked respondent with their vehicles so that she could not proceed any farther. The respondent refused to open the door and struggled when they attempted to handcuff her. She was placed under arrest and charged with resisting arrest and eluding the police.

Lieutenant Cochran testified that he does not recall if he spoke to the prosecutor about respondent attending pretrial intervention (PTI). The parties stipulated that the charges filed against respondent by Lieutenant Cochran were eventually dismissed.

The parties stipulated at the hearing that on August 30, 1999, the Board voted to withhold respondent's 1999-2000 increment for sleeping in class during instructional time (Charge Three, paragraph 7), 29 days of absence, 70 days of tardiness, 12 days of refusing to sign in and 25 days of refusing to sign out (Charge Four, paragraph 16).

Respondent Brenda D. Mapp testified that she is a product of the Trenton School District. She has a degree from Trenton State College in secondary English and has teaching certificates in English, secondary education, elementary education and theater. She became a full-time teacher at the Skillman School of the Department of Corrections in September 1982. She then taught at St. Paul's Catholic School and has been teaching in the Trenton School District since 1991.

Respondent addressed the testimony of Lieutenant Cochran concerning the events of July 10, 2000. She explained that the incident occurred on a Sunday morning. She was returning home from driving someone from her home to Kingsbury Apartments. She came to the intersection of Broad Street and Market Street and stopped behind an old, beat-up, dirty car with no taillights sitting in the left-turn lane. The car sat there as the light changed twice. She believed that the car in front of her had stalled, so she pulled around the car in order to pass it on the left. Lieutenant Cochran, who was driving the car respondent had driven around, then pulled her over by flashing his headlights and a portable emergency light. When he approached her, he was in uniform. She told him her name, and after he called in her information, he told her that her license was suspended. She explained that she had gotten a speeding ticket in Virginia, but had paid it nine months before, and she attempted to tell him that her license could not be suspended. However, Lieutenant Cochran told her that he was going to be mailing her a ticket and that she should not drive her car since her license was suspended.

After Lieutenant Cochran left her, she started to walk home, but realized that it was too far. She admitted to using poor judgment and attempting to drive her car home. As soon as she started driving her car and made a right turn, she saw Lieutenant Cochran again, and she heard him say, "Stop the vehicle, you are under arrest." She admitted to driving away, but denied going through any red lights. She admitted that the lights on Lieutenant Cochran's car were flashing. She also admitted knowing that he was a police officer. However, she thought that he overreacted to her actions. When she eventually stopped her car, she got out of the car and was brutalized by Lieutenant Cochran and another officer. She was picked up, handcuffed and thrown into the police car. She was eventually indicted. Because she had no previous record, an order of dismissal was entered as to these charges.

Respondent also addressed the testimony of Detective Cowan concerning her drug arrest. She admitted that on June 6, 2001, she resided at Kirkbride Avenue, but said that her sister owned the house. The house had been vacant for three years before respondent moved in sometime in October 1997. She did not realize it at first, but there were problems with people in the neighborhood. They came into her yard and kicked in her door once. Many times windows were broken. There were drug activities going on in the neighborhood and crap games were being held on the house's front steps. At first, she was not aware that people were coming into the house. She testified that things started getting dicey six or seven months after she moved in. She called the police two or three times a week, but the police told her that if she did not press charges they could do nothing. On one occasion, an officer told her that she must realize what the neighborhood is like and if she does not like it, she should move out.

Respondent admitted that on one occasion, the police searched the house and found drugs, drug paraphernalia, weapons and bullets. She testified that none of these belonged to her. She eventually learned that many times intruders would break into her home and they had many avenues of escape. They knew how to get in and out of her home, and they would even remove windows to get in and out.

Respondent was asked about the sworn statement she gave to Detective Cowan in June 2001. She admitted that the statement contained her signature. She recalls giving this statement, but she indicated that not all of her conversation with Detective Cowan is reflected in the statement, and that many of the responses attributed to her are inaccurate. She indicated that Detective Cowan changed at least ten or fifteen of the responses. Detective Cowan wanted her cooperation, and the objects of his criminal investigation were Tucker and Lacey.

Respondent testified that she was not home when the search warrants were executed. She had moved many of her valuables out of the home and she was planning on leaving it because of the poor neighborhood and the drug problem. She had seen Tucker and Lacey on the street, but she never invited them into her home. She testified that she was physically brutalized by Tucker and Lacey. She identified the order dismissing the criminal complaints against her (R-1). The criminal charges against her were dismissed in return for a guilty plea to a disorderly persons offense.

Respondent testified that in March 1998 she underwent a complete hysterectomy. Her incision did not heal properly and sections of it leaked. She had continuing medical problems related to this procedure during the 1999-2000 school year. Following her operation, she could not walk up steps, she could not lift any heavy objects, she could not hold her bladder, she could not sit or stand, and wearing any type of clothing caused irritation and pain. She had a great deal of difficulty lifting the teacher's editions of textbooks, and during the hearing she brought in one of the textbooks to demonstrate its weight and bulkiness. She acknowledged that an increment was withheld because of her absences. All of her absences related to the surgery. She explained that she had not had any absences for four years and had carried over a significant number of sick days. The operation was necessary because she had been hemorrhaging, and due to blood loss she had to stop working in January 1998 to build up her strength in order to have the operation in March 1998.

Respondent also testified that she returned to work prematurely, and it was very difficult for her. Howard Colvin was the principal in 1998 and 1999. Respondent was happy when Principal Puri, a female, started in July 1999. In addition, the schedule that she had for several years was very difficult for her and she needed time between classes. Ms. Puri indicated that she would see what she could do for her. When respondent received her 1999-2000 school year schedule in September 1999, she discussed it with Ms. Puri, and Ms. Puri was again really nice and said that she would try to help. However, the schedule was identical to that of the prior year. Respondent identified her schedule (R-3), which showed that she was required to be on her feet in class from the 8:20 a.m. arrival time through 1:20 p.m. Further, Ms. Puri issued a memorandum to all teachers saying that they could not leave the classrooms during the day even to go to the bathroom. On one occasion, she was forced to have her entire class wait in the hallway outside of the bathroom while she used the bathroom. On that occasion, she was so upset she was crying and it was necessary for another staff member to calm her down in order for her to continue teaching.

In September 1999 Ms. Puri said that she would try to change respondent's schedule. However, when respondent questioned Ms. Puri about it the following week, Ms. Puri said there was nothing she could do, despite having changed the schedules of at least two other teachers. The schedule of teacher Ellen Stillitano was completely changed. Ms. Puri also changed the schedule for teacher Pat Robinson. Respondent was very upset because she had asked Ms. Puri four or five times to change her schedule, but Ms. Puri would not accommodate her.

Respondent explained that teachers have prep time during "specials," which are classes taught by other teachers, such as gym or music. In her case, her prep time is at the end of each day.

Respondent identified the memo she received on October 5, 1999 (P-6). She indicated that this was the first time that Ms. Puri had ever notified her of any kind of problem. There were no memos addressed to her prior to this one. There was also no discussion with Ms. Puri concerning this memo. She said that from September through November 1999, she was still having difficulties resulting from her surgery.

Respondent testified that on November 3, 1999, she successfully called the substitute office, which arranges for substitutes for teachers who are absent. She then attempted to call the main office of the Patton J. Hill School from 7:50 a.m. until 8:40 a.m. and could not get through. Until 8:05 a.m. the phone rang repeatedly without being answered, and the line was busy from 8:05 until 8:40. A substitute was appointed for her classroom as a result of her call to the substitute office.

Respondent testified that a couple of times in late November she either called in late or came in late. On one day she could not call in because she had no phone, and on another day she was late because she was having electrical problems in her home and her alarm clock did not go off on time. During the same period of time she still had abdominal pain and leakage of her incision, she could not go up stairs and she had to use the bathroom frequently. She testified that she told Ms. Puri about her medical problems, but Ms. Puri's response was simply to issue a memo to her.

Respondent denied Ms. Puri's allegation that she was sleeping in class on December 14, 1999. She testified that she was sitting with her back to the students, who were quietly working. She described the classroom area as open spaces with the classes being separated by partitions. She saw Ms. Puri outside of her class, and when Ms. Puri confronted her, she told Ms. Puri that she had not been asleep. Her class was not unsupervised, because she was present and there was no disruption to the class.

Respondent testified about the parent's written complaint concerning her (P-15). The first time she ever saw this was when she received the charges, and it was never discussed with her, nor was she ever given an opportunity to dispute the parent's allegations. She denied the allegations and indicated that the student in question, S.M., was removed from her classroom in September 1999. Therefore, the incidents in question could not have happened in January 2000. She explained that she had problems with S.M. from the first day of school, when S.M. refused to stand for the flag salute. On the second day of school, the parent came in and confronted respondent and Mr. Bethea came to the classroom to calm things down. The parent removed the child from respondent's class within three weeks of the start of the school year

Respondent testified that in January 2000 she was asked to leave her teaching assignment. She responded to this request by stating that she was not physically able to continue to teach with the schedule she was required to keep. She was not aware that she was to be suspended by the school district. She denied that her inability to continue teaching was because of drug use or that she needed to attend the Employee Advisory Service.

On cross-examination, with respect to the allegation that she was sleeping in her classroom on December 14, 1999, respondent admitted that she had her back turned to the class for six or seven minutes. However, she stated she was not sleeping and Ms. Puri's memo is not accurate. She was aware of what was occurring, and the children were quiet and cooperative. With respect to her calling in on November 3, 1999, and the line being busy, respondent said that the school has no answering service. With respect to her inability to carry heavy books or objects, she testified that she did not use a cart because she did not have one. She admitted that she did not provide medical documentation to Ms. Puri concerning her medical problems. However, she did give a copy of her letter requesting schedule changes to Ms. Puri and it should be in the files at the school. She never sought the assistance of the teachers' union as to the schedule changes. She also never took action to challenge the refusal of the school district to accommodate her disability.

Respondent testified that she had problems for one and a half years after her March 1998 surgery. She was undergoing medical treatment in September 1999 at Ewing Medical Associates with Drs. Walker and Refinski. She admitted that in her answers to interrogatories no one is listed in response to the question asking her to name any doctors she saw from July 1999 through January 2000.

With respect to the statement that she gave to Detective Cowan, respondent stated that she does not know if it was truthful and accurate. Detective Cowan wanted her to cooperate. She did not recall specific answers she gave in that statement. She called the police concerning break-ins and entries into her home about one year prior to her arrest. She never told police that anyone was cooking crack in her home prior to her statement. She indicated that when Lieutenant Cochran arrested her, she was brutalized, but she did not file a complaint.

Respondent admitted that there was a meeting on November 22, 1999, and she also admitted that there was a conference on September 23, 1999, with Ms. Puri and Mr. Bethea. However, she denied receiving a document confirming that meeting (P-23 for identification).

Respondent testified that Mr. Colvin was the principal in the school year of her hysterectomy and the year thereafter, and that she provided medical documents concerning her condition to Mr. Colvin. She testified that there is no question that she had discussions with Ms. Puri concerning her medical condition.

On re-cross examination, respondent admitted that she did not appeal or challenge the withholding of her increment and that the union did not advise her.

Petitioner called Nancy C. Puri as a rebuttal witness. She testified that the phone system in the school in the fall of 1999 had answering machines on both lines. However, she was not sure if the answering machines would pick up a call if both lines were busy. She also identified a memo given to respondent concerning the meeting on September 23, 1999 (P-23 for identification). She denies ever issuing a memo stating that teachers could not use the bathroom. She testified that having another teacher cover the class while a teacher goes to the bathroom is permissible. However, she would never not permit a teacher to use the bathroom.

DISCUSSION OF APPLICABLE LEGAL PRINCIPLES

The Commissioner of the Department of Education has jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The discipline of tenured school employees is authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which generally provides that no tenured school employee shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation during good behavior and efficiency except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing.

Respondent argues that petitioner produced no evidence of gross and harmful conduct on the part of respondent. In order to determine whether the petitioner met the elements of this charge, it is necessary to discuss what is intended by the term "unbecoming conduct."

There is no single definition of the term unbecoming conduct. In Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957), it was made clear that the touchstone of the charge is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position. See also In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 28-29 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 292 (1974).

There are numerous cases in which specific conduct was found to be unbecoming conduct. For example, the use of physical force by a teacher to maintain discipline was held to be unbecoming conduct. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). A teacher with an uncontrollable temper who verbally and physically abused students was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct. In re Tenure Hearing of Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737, 741 (App. Div. 1988).

Outside the field of education, unbecoming conduct on the part of public employees is conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the agency of which the employee is a member, which has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and confidence in the operation of governmental services, or which violates an implicit standard of good behavior. In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). A finding of unbecoming conduct does not require a violation of any specific rule or regulation, but may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior. Ibid.; see also City of Asbury Park v. Department of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955); Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317, 323 (App. Div. 1967).

In an educational setting, unbecoming conduct has been held to be demonstrated by a series of incidents indicating a pattern of behavior, or by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant. See Redcay v. State Board of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), affirmed o.b., 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944). In Redcay, a school principal was found guilty of the charges of inefficiency, incapacity, insubordination, lack of cooperation, unfitness and conduct generally unbecoming a principal. See 128 N.J.L. 281, 282 (Sup. Ct. 1942). The Court stated:

> Unfitness for a task is best shown by numerous incidents. Unfitness for a position under the school system is best evidenced by a series of incidents. Unfitness to hold a post might be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it might also be shown by many incidents. Fitness may be shown either way.
>
> [Redcay, supra, 130 N.J.L. at 371.]

Generally, in order for the charging party in a tenure hearing to prevail, the truth of the charges must be established by a preponderance of the credible evidence. In re Phillips, 117 N.J.

567, 575 (1990); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962).

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Respondent Brenda Mapp is a tenured teaching staff member in the school district of Trenton, Mercer County.

2. From October 1997 through June 2001 respondent resided at 31 Kirkbride Avenue, Trenton, New Jersey.

3. In June 2001 more than one-half ounce of cocaine and an assault weapon with a defaced serial number were seized from respondent's place of residence.

4. Respondent was arrested, and following her arrest she was asked to provide a statement.

5. In respondent's statement dated June 7, 2001, respondent admitted that she allowed Jamar Tucker to use her residence for the purpose of storing and selling cocaine, she personally observed him cook powdered cocaine into crack cocaine in her residence approximately fifty times, and she saw him conduct a 90-gram cocaine sale in her residence. In addition respondent admitted that she allowed Eric Lacey to utilize her residence for the purpose of selling drugs, and in exchange for this she would receive money and cocaine from both Jamar Tucker and Eric Lacey. She stated that she sold cocaine that Jamar Tucker had given to her.

6. Respondent admitted that the statement she gave to the police contains her signature, and recalls giving the statement, but asserted that she said things that were not in the statement and that many of the responses reflected in the statement are inaccurate. When she was questioned about this on cross-examination, respondent could not recall details of her involvement in the activities in question, and did not refute the truth of the contents of the statement.[1]

7. In her statement respondent said that if she had not cooperated with Jamar Tucker and Eric Lacey she would have been killed, and that she had been subjected to violence and threatened by them.

8. The weapons and drug possession charges against respondent were dismissed as a result of an agreement where she pled guilty to a downgraded disorderly persons offense.

9. Respondent testified that she called the police two or three times each week concerning drug dealings in her neighborhood, but was told to press charges or the police could nothing. Respondent also testified that none of the drugs, drug paraphernalia, weapons or bullets found in her home belonged to her. This testimony was not disputed at the hearing.

10. On October 4, 1999, respondent called her place of employment to say she would be in work for one-half day in the afternoon, requiring her to report at 11:30 a.m.; she did not report and did not call until 1:15 p.m., when she advised that she would be out the entire day. As a result, there was no arrangement for a substitute teacher and the continuity of instruction of the students was hindered.

11. On November 3, 1999, respondent neglected to call in to advise that she was taking a personal illness day until 8:40 a.m., rather than the required call-in time of 8:00 a.m., which would have permitted the school district to hire a substitute.

[1] It should be noted that during respondent's direct examination, it appeared as if she were about to deny the truth of the contents of her statement of June 7, 2001. I advised her counsel that if this were the case, I felt obligated to warn respondent that she had the right to remain silent and that any admission by her that she had given a false sworn

12. On November 24, 1999, respondent failed to report by 8:20 a.m. as required; she reported at 10:08 a.m., resulting in the interruption of the continuity of instruction.

13. On November 29, 1999, respondent was tardy, arriving at 9:05 a.m.

14. On December 23, 1999, respondent failed to show up for work and failed to notify the school district of her absence until 10:55 a.m.

15. On January 10, 2000, respondent was tardy, arriving at 1:10 p.m.

16. On January 12, 2000, respondent called in at 9:05 a.m. and indicated that she would report to school in approximately two hours, but never reported for work that day.

17. On December 14, 2000, respondent was observed at approximately 9:15 a.m. sitting in her chair with her back to the students, inattentive to her duties as a teacher for approximately six or seven minutes. Her school principal, Ms. Puri, observed this and testified that respondent was sleeping. Respondent admitted to having her back turned to the class for approximately six or seven minutes, but denied being asleep. At the very least, the facts support a finding of inattentiveness.

18. Even if respondent's testimony concerning her severe medical problems during the 1999-2000 school year is accepted as true, her repeated tardiness and failure to follow required call-in procedures and her inattentiveness cannot be excused in view of the clearly negative impact on the continuity of instruction of the students assigned to her.

---

statement to the police leading to the arrest and conviction of Jamar Tucker and Eric Lacey would be immediately forwarded to the prosecutor. Ultimately, she did not deny the contents of her statement.

19. On July 10, 2000, respondent was driving her vehicle while her driver's license was revoked, as indicated by the records of the State Division of Motor Vehicles. Respondent denied that her license had been revoked. She was stopped by a police officer, who gave her a ticket and instructed her not to operate her vehicle. Respondent disregarded this instruction after the police officer left and operated the vehicle. When she was subsequently observed by the same police officer, he directed her to pull to the side of the road and stated to her that she was under arrest. Respondent admits that she disregarded these instructions, and drove away. The police officer then gave chase in his vehicle, activating his emergency lights and siren. Respondent admits that the lights on the officer's vehicle were flashing and admitted knowing that he was a police officer. Eventually, respondent was forced to stop by another police vehicle and was placed under arrest. She was charged with resisting arrest and eluding the police, which charges were eventually dismissed.

Based on the foregoing findings of fact, I FIND respondent guilty of the following:

Charge One – unbecoming conduct. On or about July 10, 2000, respondent resisted arrest and attempted to elude the police.

Charge Two – unbecoming conduct. Respondent admitted on June 7, 2001, to committing the following offenses: (1) possession of a controlled dangerous substance; and (2) possession with intent to distribute. From April 2001 to June 2001, respondent allowed her residence to be used for the preparation and distribution of controlled dangerous substances for personal and compensatory gain.

Charge Three – unbecoming conduct. On December 14, 1999, respondent was inattentive to her duties in class, resulting in the students being unsupervised. It was stipulated at the hearing that respondent was previously disciplined for similar conduct when on August 30, 1999, the Board withheld her increment for the 1999-2000 school year for sleeping in class during instructional time, as well as other reasons.

Charge Four – unbecoming conduct. On October 4, 1999, respondent failed to follow proper call-out procedures – respondent had originally stated her intention to come in for a half-day and then failed to call in until 1:15 p.m.; on November 3, 1999, respondent failed to follow proper call-out procedures when taking a personal illness day; on November 24, 1999, respondent failed to notify the school of her tardiness (10:08 a.m. arrival) in a timely manner; on November 29, 1999, respondent failed to notify the school of her tardiness (9:05 a.m. arrival) in a timely manner; on December 23, 1999, respondent failed to notify the school of her tardiness (10:55 a.m. arrival) in a timely manner; on January 10, 2000, respondent failed to notify the school of her tardiness (1:10 p.m. arrival) in a timely manner; on January 12, 2000, respondent failed to report to work after indicating to the principal that she would arrive at approximately 11:00 a.m. It was stipulated at the hearing that respondent was previously disciplined for similar conduct when on August 30, 1999, the Board voted to withhold respondent's 1999-2000 increment for the following reasons, among others: absent 29 days, with respondent reporting her absence too late to procure a substitute on 22 of those days; tardy 70 days; refusing to sign in – 12 days; refusing to sign out – 25 days.

PENALTY

The appropriate remedy or penalty based on the foregoing findings of guilt must now be determined. In In re Tenure Hearing of Elizabeth Merkooloff, School District of the Township of Washington, 1980 S.L.D. 1370, 1371, the Commissioner stated:

> The Commissioner believes that these young pupils in their formative years surely deserve the best education possible with as complete continuity as can be accorded them.

In In re Tenure Hearing of Joseph A. Maratea, Township of Riverside, 1966 S.L.D. 77, 106, the Commissioner said:

> The Commissioner is assiduous to protect school personnel in their employment when they are subjected to unfair or improper attacks or when they are unable to perform effectively because of > conditions not of their own making or beyond their control. An employee is not entitled to the protection of tenure, however, when, by his own acts or failures, he creates conditions under which the proper operation of the schools is adversely affected. When the responsibility for the conditions unfavorable to the effective operation of the schools rests with the employee then, the Commissioner holds, the protection of tenure is forfeit.

In In re Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, School District of Black Horse Pike Regional, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321, the Commissioner said that > teachers of this State . . . are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment. As one of the most dominant and influential forces in the lives of the children, who are compelled to attend the public schools, the teacher is an enormous force for improving the public weal. Those who teach do so by choice, and in this respect the teaching profession is more than a simple job; it is a calling.

It was also stated in In re Tenure Hearing of Herman B. Nash, School District of the Township of Teaneck, 1971 S.L.D. 284, 296:

> A teacher, as any citizen, who decides to take any form of action or inaction does so at his own risk. No matter what the ultimate objective sought, the individual must accept the responsibility for his actions . . . and must accept the consequences of his actions.
>
> . . . .
>
> The Commissioner's basic and fundamental concern must be in the welfare of the students in the Teaneck School System and, therefore, in the proper administration of that School System.

With respect to respondent's prior disciplinary record, it was stipulated that on August 30, 1999, the Board withheld respondent's 1999-2000 increment for the following reasons: sleeping in class during instructional time; absent 29 days, with respondent reporting her absence too late to procure a substitute on 22 of those days; tardy 70 days; refusing to sign in – 12 days; and refusing to sign out – 25 days. Ms. Puri also testified that respondent was reprimanded by her on November 22, 1999, for among other infractions, failure to notify the school of her absence in a timely manner, unauthorized late arrival after time required for one-half day, frequent absences and tardiness, and failure to meet with the principal to discuss monthly attendance notice.

With respect to Charge Three, involving inattention to her duties in class resulting in the students being unsupervised, and Charge Four, involving repeated tardiness and failure to comply with call-out procedures, respondent's medical condition following surgery, if described accurately by respondent, may be a sufficient basis upon which to impose a remedy other than removal. However, the conduct and actions resulting in Charge One and Charge Two are so egregious as to justify her removal as a teacher. Respondent admitted that she allowed drug dealers to use her residence for the purpose of storing and selling cocaine. She admitted that she personally observed drug dealers cook powdered cocaine into crack cocaine in her residence approximately fifty times. She admitted that she observed a 90-gram cocaine sale in her residence. She also admitted allowing another drug dealer to use her residence for the purpose of selling drugs, in exchange for which she would receive money and cocaine, which she then sold. Notwithstanding her assertions that she was threatened with physical harm and death, respondent should have chosen some course of action other than acquiescence. I FIND that respondent's conduct is clearly conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the school district of which the teacher is a member, and has the tendency to destroy public respect for teachers and confidence in the operation of the school district. In addition, I FIND that respondent's conduct clearly violates not only an implicit, but also an explicit, standard of good behavior.

It is clear to me that it is not in the best interest of the students of the Trenton School District that respondent remain a teacher. The appropriate penalty for her unbecoming conduct is removal from her position. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent should be removed as a teacher in the School District of the City of Trenton.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND respondent guilty of the charges of unbecoming conduct as stated above, and I ORDER her removal as a teaching staff member of the School District of the City of Trenton.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

June 20, 2003
DATE

JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

Jun 23, 2003
DATE

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

JUN 27 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

mph

APPENDIX

Witnesses

For petitioner:

Robert Cowan

Nancy Puri

Robert Cochran

For respondent:

Brenda D. Mapp

Exhibits

For Petitioner:

P-1 June 7, 2001, State of New Jersey vs. Brenda Mapp, Complaint W249237

P-2 June 7, 2001, State of New Jersey vs. Brenda Mapp, Complaint W249238

P-3 June 7, 2001, Affidavit of Probable Cause, Detective Robert Cowan

P-4 June 12, 2001, Mercer County Prosecutor's Office, Supplementary Investigation Report, Case No. S-01-55, Detective Robert Cowan

P-5 June 7, 2001, Statement of Brenda Mapp, Mercer County Prosecutor's Office

P-6 October 5, 1999, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri to Brenda Mapp

P-7 November 3, 1999, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri to Brenda Mapp

P-8 November 22, 1999, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri to Brenda Mapp

P-9 November 24, 1999, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri to Brenda Mapp

P-10 November 29, 1999, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri to

Brenda Mapp

P-11 December 23, 1999, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri to Brenda Mapp

P-12 January 10, 2000, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri to Brenda Mapp

P-13 January 13, 2000, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri, to Brenda Mapp

P-14 December 14, 1999, Patton J. Hill School Memorandum from Nancy Puri to Brenda Mapp

P-15 January 19, 2000, e-mail from Carlene Moore to Nancy Puri

P-16 July 10, 2000, State of New Jersey vs. Brenda Mapp, Complaint S-2000-005948-1111, Lieutenant Robert K. Cochran

P-17 November 16, 2000, State of New Jersey vs. Brenda Mapp, Indictment 00-11-1252I

P-18 July 10, 2000, City of Trenton Police Investigation Report

P-19 July 10, 2000, City of Trenton Police Arrest Docket of Brenda Mapp

P-20 July 10, 2000, City of Trenton Police Vehicle Report

P-21 July 10, 2000, City of Trenton Municipal Court Complaint vs. Brenda Mapp, Driver's License Revoked

P-22 April 10, 2002, Superior Court of New Jersey, Mercer Probation Division, Letter by Glenn Buzzi, SPO

For respondent:

R-1 Motion and Order for Dismissal of Complaint dated June 20, 2002

R-3 Brenda Mapp Class Schedule

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8333-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 352-11/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF BRENDA MAPP,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent's exceptions charge that the Initial Decision failed to properly consider and weigh the criminal justice system outcome of the criminal charges forming the basis of Charges 1 and 2 of the tenure charges herein. She points out that, after a full investigation and consideration of all surrounding circumstances, the Prosecutor's Office dismissed the first charge and disposed of the second by downgrading it to a noncriminal disorderly persons offense. As such > [e]ither because the charges themselves, when fully considered, were not determined to be serious enough to warrant a full prosecution or because the respondent, herself, demonstrated a sufficient understanding of the issue and took the appropriate steps to curb her behavior, the conduct should not form a sufficient basis for unbecoming conduct.

> (Respondent's Exceptions at 1, 2)

Although respondent acknowledges that the justice system result does not "automatically" preclude a finding of unbecoming conduct, she argues that such an outcome provides "persuasive evidence" that such charges are insufficient to warrant termination from her position. (Id. At 1)

With respect to Charges 3 and 4, i.e., alleged inattention to her classroom duties resulting in students being unsupervised; failure to comply with call-out procedures and repeated tardiness, respondent refers to page 26 of the Initial Decision where the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) recognized that her testimony as to complications she experienced from medical surgery could provide a sufficient basis for the imposition of a penalty less than dismissal. Consequently, respondent argues, since Charges 3 and 4 are insufficient to require removal from her position, interests of justice and fair play dictate that "the addition to those charges of a single non-criminal offense should not tip the scales in favor of removal." (Id. at 2)

In reply, the Board submits a copy of its post-hearing brief advanced below and urges that, for the reasons set forth in this brief and the Initial Decision, the Commissioner adopt the recommended decision terminating respondent's tenured employment.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which it is noted does not include transcripts of the hearing below, the Commissioner agrees with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that respondent is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member with respect to each of the four charges against her (Initial Decision at 23-24) warranting her removal from her tenured position with the Trenton Board of Education.

In so concluding, the Commissioner rejects as meritless respondent's advancement that, as a result of the criminal court outcome of the charges underlying Counts 1 and 2 of the tenure charges here, the behavior involved should somehow be viewed as de minimis, therefore, incapable of rising to the level of unbecoming conduct. It is by now well-established that diversion or dismissal of criminal charges has no bearing on a finding of unbecoming conduct in a tenure matter as to the incident(s) underlying those charges or the imposition of an appropriate penalty. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Arlene Dusel,

School District of the Borough of Sayreville, 1978 S.L.D. 526, supplemental decision 1979 S.L.D. 153, aff'd State Board of Education, 1979 S.L.D. 155; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jeffrey Wolfe, School District of the Township of Randolph, 1980 S.L.D. 721, aff'd State Board, 1980 S.L.D. 728, aff'd App. Div., 1981 S.L.D. 1537; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of R. Scott McIntyre, Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional School District, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 718, aff'd State Board, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 726, aff'd App. Div., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 726. Such holdings are reflective of a recognition of the fundamental differences in the purpose and scope of these adjudicating forums. First, the quantum of proof necessary to sustain criminal charges is significantly enhanced from that necessary in an administrative matter, i.e., beyond a reasonable doubt as opposed to a preponderance of the credible evidence. More importantly, however, the interests implicated in a tenure proceeding are intrinsically different from those in a criminal matter. As found by the Commissioner in Dusel, supra:

> The "interests" to be protected herein are not those associated with a possible indictment or conviction in a criminal matter, but those concerned with fitness to hold a position as an instructor of school pupils. The right of these pupils to be taught by teachers who are free from the taint of patently illegal or flagrantly unbecoming acts is also at issue. (at 531)

Simply put, the focus of the inquiry in this matter is solely concerned with respondent's ability and fitness to teach public school children. Therefore, the analysis to be made is whether any of the charges herein, individually or collectively, amount to "unbecoming conduct."

The Commissioner finds and concludes that it is uncontestable that respondent's behavior and actions which formed the basis of Counts 1 and 2 of the tenure charges herein constitute conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. He further concurs with the ALJ that the nature of the incidents is so egregious, in and of itself, as to justify respondent's removal from her tenured position. The Commissioner recognizes that "teachers carry a heavy responsibility by their actions and comments in setting examples for the pupils with whom they have contact." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Blasko, School District of the Township of Cherry Hill, 1980 S.L.D. 987 at 1003. As such, some actions are "so foreign to the expectations of the deeds and actions of a professionally certificated classroom teacher as to raise manifest doubts as to the continued performance of that person in the profession." (Ibid.) Taken in conjunction with the unbecoming conduct evidenced in Charges 3 and 4, respondent's unfitness as an educator is beyond question.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons well expressed therein. Respondent is hereby dismissed from her tenured teaching position in the Trenton School District as of the date of this decision. This matter is being referred to the State Board of Examiners for action as that body deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8|05|03

Date of Mailing: 8|11|03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

435-03

435-03

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MICHAEL BERKLEY, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF PEMBERTON TOWNSHIP, BURLINGTON COUNTY.

And

MICHAEL BERKLEY,

PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

August 8, 2003

State of New Jersey

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 8172-02 and

EDU 661-03 (Consolidated)

AGENCY REF. NOS. 322-10/02 and 408-12/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF
MICHAEL BERKLEY,
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,

AND

MICHAEL BERKLEY,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PEMBERTON,
BURLINGTON COUNTY,

Respondent.

Robert A. Muccilli, Esq., for Pemberton Borough Board of Education (Capehart & Scatchard, P.A., attorneys)

Jason E. Sokolowski, Esq., for Michael Berkley (Zazzali, Fagella, Nowak, Kleinbaum & Friedman, P.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: June 17, 2003 Decided: June 18, 2003

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

This consolidated matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 14, 2002 and February 27, 2003, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

6/18/03
DATE

ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

6/24/03
DATE

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

JUN 27 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

/lam

CAPEHART & SCATCHARD, P.A.
A Professional Corporation
Laurel Corporate Center, Suite 300
8000 Midlantic Drive
Mount Laurel, N.J. 08054
(856) 234-6800
Attorneys for Board of Education of the Public Schools of Pemberton Township

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MICHAEL BERKLEY, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	STATE OF NEW JERSEY OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL DOCKET NOS. EDU 8172-02 and EDU 661-03 AGENCY REF. NOS. 322-10/02 and 408-12/02
AND	:
MICHAEL BERKLEY,	:
Petitioner,	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT
vs.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
Respondent.	:

Procedural History

THIS MATTER consists of two related docket numbers that were consolidated for hearing by Order dated March 6, 2003 and is now captioned In The Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Michael Berkley, School District of Pemberton, Burlington County, And Michael Berkley v. Board of Education of the Borough of Pemberton, Burlington County (OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 8172-02 and EDU 661-03) (AGENCY DKT. NOS. 322-10/02 and 408-12/02). In the caption the Pemberton Township Board of Education is incorrectly referred to as "School District of Pemberton, Burlington County" and "Borough of Pemberton, Burlington County." The consolidated matter was presented to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for a hearing on April 1, 2003 at which time the Pemberton Township Board of Education and Michael Berkley ("referred to together as "the Parties") met through their representatives with the administrative law judge and individually to review their positions and reached an Agreement to resolve the matter subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education ("the Commissioner");

Background

WHEREAS, Michael Berkley has been an employee of the Board since July 1, 1985 and holds tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, and at times pertinent to the current tenure charges was a night custodian at the Pemberton Township High School.

Commissioner's Disposition of Prior Tenure Charges

WHEREAS, by Decision dated October 18, 2000 the Commissioner approved a Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the OAL on September 16, 2000 pursuant to which Mr. Berkley was suspended from employment for 9 ½ months.

Board's Position As To The Current Tenure Charges

WHEREAS, the Board states its position with respect to the current tenure charges as follows. On April 11, 2002, a special education teacher reported that a 13 inch combination television/VCR set ("the set") was missing from a closet in her classroom. The teacher last saw the set when she left her classroom at the end of the school day on April 10, 2002. The Board alleges that Mr. Berkley, who was assigned to clean the teacher's classroom on the 3:00-11:00 P.M. shift on April 10, 2002, stole the set. The Board maintains that, shortly before Mr. Berkley left for mealtime on April 10, 2002, a video surveillance camera captured him rolling a custodial cart down a hallway moving away from the direction of the teacher's classroom with a rectangular object inside a charcoal colored plastic bag balanced on top of the cart.

Mr. Berkley was informed of the missing set on April 11, 2002 when he reported to work for the 3:00-11:00 P.M. shift. The Board alleges that Mr. Berkley returned the missing set once he learned that it was reported missing. The Board maintains that video surveillance cameras captured Mr. Berkley on April 11, 2002 returning in his car from mealtime, rolling a garbage can out to his car, reentering the building and making his way up to the vicinity of the audio visual room located within the area in which he had volunteered to work. Mr. Berkley reported to the night custodian supervisor that he had located two television sets, one of which was determined to be the missing set. Mr. Berkley stated that he located the two television sets in the audio visual room, however, the Board maintains that the audio visual room had been searched earlier on April 11 and that the set was not in the room. The Board seeks Mr. Berkley's dismissal from employment.

Michael Berkley's Position As To The Current Charges

WHEREAS, Mr. Berkley states his position with respect to the current charges as follows. Mr. Berkley denies each of the two tenure charges, and maintains that he has repeatedly denied throughout these proceedings the allegation that he stole the television set. Mr. Berkley further denies that he had anything to do with the missing set. Mr. Berkley maintains that he did not volunteer to work in the area of the audio visual room on April 11, 2002. Mr. Berkley maintains that even if the Commissioner were to find that the facts set forth in support of charges 1 and 2 by the Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton were true and would support the imposition of some form of disciplinary action, removal from his employment with the Board would not be the appropriate sanction.

Weighing of Considerations And Public Benefit of Settlement

WHEREAS, the Parties, are aware of the public's interest in the proper handling of tenure charges to insure that unqualified persons do not continue to be employed when diligence at this stage might prevent difficulties in the future. However, in considering the total circumstances, the Parties believe that it is in the best interest of the Board, Mr. Berkley and the public to resolve this matter by settlement. An evaluation of these circumstances include consideration of the details of the positions as stated by the parties herein, the time and expense in maintaining the tenure charges, questions concerning the clarity and scope of coverage of the video surveillance cameras with respect to the events of April 10 and 11, 2002, the lack of direct witnesses to the removal and return of the set, the uncertainty of the ultimate result which might be obtained and the lack of any allegation that Michael Berkley presents any threat to the children of New Jersey. The Parties believe that the settlement of this matter is appropriate and that the settlement comports with the standards for review of settlements in tenure matters in accordance with In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS agreed by and between the Parties, subject to the approval of the Commissioner:

1. Mr. Berkley will resign his employment with the Board, said resignation to be effective on the date of the Commissioner's decision approving of the Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision (should the Commissioner so approve), by signing and returning to the Board the resignation letter contained in attachment "A" within seven (7) days of the date the Commissioner mails his decision. Mr. Berkley agrees that by resigning his position, he is relinquishing all present and future rights to employment and re-employment with the Board as of the effective date of his resignation. Further, Mr. Berkley acknowledges that subsequent to the effective date of his resignation, the Board will not have any obligation to provide him with any future payments, benefits or considerations other than the payment recited in paragraph 2 below.

2. In consideration of the mutual execution of this Agreement which provides for a release given by Mr. Berkley and his resignation, the Board will within fourteen (14) days of the effective date of Mr. Berkley's resignation pay to him $57,682.00 less the gross amount of any salary payments made to him between April 1, 2003 and the effective date of his resignation.

3. Mr. Berkley agrees that any inquiries regarding him will be directed to the Board Secretary/Business Administrator who will, upon request, provide Mr. Berkley and any other individual inquiring about him with a letter reflecting Mr. Berkley's date of hire and date of resignation. This paragraph is not intended to and should not be construed as a restriction on the Board's obligation to comply with N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq. (and in particular N.J.S.A. 47:1A-10) and/or Executive Order 11 (1974).

4. Mr. Berkley, for and in consideration of the undertakings of the Board set forth in paragraph 2 herein, and intending to be legally bound, does hereby remise, release and forever discharge the Board and its officers, members, employees and agents, and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which he ever had, now has, or hereafter may have, or which his heirs, executors or administrators hereafter may have by reason of his employment relationship and/or the termination of his employment relationship and /or affiliation with the Board and/or the claims asserted by him in In The Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Michael Berkley, School District of Pemberton, Burlington County, And Michael Berkley v. Board of Education of the Borough of Pemberton, Burlington County (OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 8172-02 and EDU 661-03) (AGENCY DKT. NOS. 322-10/02 and 408-12/02). Excepted from this release are: claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., the Public Employees Retirement System, N.J.S.A. 43:15A-1 et seq., and claims arising from breach of this Agreement. Mr. Berkley represents that he is unaware of any claims arising under these exceptions as of the date he executes this Agreement.

5. The Parties agree that this Agreement shall not be construed in any way as an admission of wrongdoing by either Party. The Parties further agree that this Agreement shall not be admissible in a hearing in this matter should the Commissioner not approve the Agreement.

6. Both Parties have read the terms of this Agreement and acknowledge that they have had an opportunity to discuss it with counsel. The Parties further acknowledge that they are executing this Agreement of their own volition, with full understanding of its terms and effects, and without any coercion.

7. The Parties understand that this Agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner. This Agreement is reached based upon an evaluation of the individual considerations with respect to the Parties and issues in this matter. This Agreement is not precedent setting or binding respect to any other matter.

Michael Berkley (Date)

James Hager
Business Administrator/Board Secretary
Pemberton Township Board of Education
P.O. Box 228
One Egbert St.
Pemberton, NJ 08068-0228

Re: Letter of Resignation

Dear Board Members:

Please be advised that effective on the date the Commissioner of Education's Decision Approving the Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision, I resigned my custodial position with the Public Schools of Pemberton Township.

_____
Michael Berkley

ATTACHMENT "A"

g:\e&e\PembertBOE_Berkley\371918.doc

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF PEMBERTON TOWNSHIP PUBLIC SCHOOLS

By: _____ 5/13/03
James Hager, Business (Date)
Administrator/Board Secretary

ZAZZALI, FAGELLA, NOWAK,
KLEINBAUM & FRIEDMAN
Attorneys for Michael Berkley

By: _____ 6/13/03
Jason E. Sokolowski (Date)

CAPEHART & SCATCHARD, P.A.
A Professional Corporation
Attorneys for Board of Education of the Public Schools of Pemberton Township

By: _____ 6/11/03
Robert A. Muccilli (Date)

g:\e&e\PembertBOE_Berkley\371913.doc

OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 8172-02 AND EDU 661-03 (CONSOLIDATED)
AGENCY DKT. NOS. 322-10/02 AND 408-12/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MICHAEL BERKLEY, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF PEMBERTON TOWNSHIP, BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:
And	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
MICHAEL BERKLEY, PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision in this matter issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.[1]

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms of this consolidated matter involving a tenured custodian since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. See In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, decided by the [1] As noted in the Settlement Agreement, these consolidated cases were incorrectly captioned. The Pemberton Township Board of Education is incorrectly referred to as "School District of Pemberton, Burlington County," and "Borough of Pemberton, Burlington County." The case caption on this decision reflects changes to correct these errors.

Commissioner of Education April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983; and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a). The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8|08|03

Date of Mailing: 8|11|03

[2] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq.

436-03

436-03

PAUL S. NATANSON,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEQUANNOCK, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, resident of Bernards Township (Basking Ridge) in Somerset, County, sought an order requiring the Pequannock Board in Morris County (Board) to make candidates for school employment pay the cost of conducting criminal background checks. He contended that the Board's practice of paying the fee itself violated state statutes.

The ALJ found that petitioner was not a resident of either Pequannock Township or Morris County; he paid no taxes to Pequannock Township; he never worked for the Board or applied to the Board for employment. Moreover, petitioner offered no actual facts to support his theory that he was being harmed indirectly "through the state tax system." The ALJ concluded that the petition should be dismissed for lack of standing.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

August 8, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1848-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 19-1/03

PAUL S. NATANSON,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEQUANNOCK,
Respondent.

Paul S. Natanson, pro se

Greg K. Vitali, , Esq., for respondent
(Lindabury, McCormick & Estabrook, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 16, 2003 Decided: July 1, 2003

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

Petitioner Paul S. Natanson ("Natanson") seeks an order requiring the Pequannock Board of Education ("Board") to make candidates for school employment pay the cost of conducting criminal background checks. Specifically, Natanson alleges that the Board follows the practice of paying the fee itself. He asserts that this practice violates state statutes, which he interprets as requiring the job applicant to bear the cost of the criminal background check. Presently, the matter comes before the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on the Board's motion to dismiss the petition for lack of standing.

Procedural History

On January 13, 2003, Natanson filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). Respondent Board filed an answer on February 3, 2003, raising various affirmative defenses including lack of standing. Subsequently on March 4, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted the case to the OAL for hearing as a contested case.

Prior to hearing, the Board filed a motion to dismiss, together with supporting certification and letter brief, on April 11, 2003. Natanson filed opposing papers on April 30, 3003. The matter was submitted on May 16, 2003 for ruling on the papers.

Findings of Fact

All of the facts needed for disposition of the motion are undisputed. I FIND:

The Board is the governing body of a local school district situated in the Township of Pequannock in the County of Morris, New Jersey. Paul S. Natanson resides in the Township of Bernards (Basking Ridge) in the County of Somerset, New Jersey. Natanson is not a resident of either Pequannock Township or Morris County. He pays no taxes to the Township of Pequannock. Insofar as the record reflects, Natanson has never worked for the Board or applied to the Board for employment.

Several state statutes require that applicants for employment in public school jobs must undergo a criminal background check for disqualifying offenses. Each of these statutes contains language that "the applicant shall bear the cost for the criminal history record check, including all costs of administering and processing the check."[1]

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.14, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.2 and N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1

In his pleadings, Natanson accuses the Board of "paying and/or reimbursing some of these fees rather than compelling all applicants . . . to pay the fees themselves as the law requires." While Natanson does not allege that he ever sought employment in the Pequannock school district, he has applied for jobs in another unnamed school district that does require payment of such fees. Rather than seeking to change the policy in this other district, Natanson complains that, "Pequannock's conduct has blocked me from changing the law that requires me to pay for my own criminal background investigation." Strict enforcement of the law, he believes, will help him "convince our legislators to change the law so that schools can have the option of paying these fees, legally[.]"

Natanson also contends that the Board's policy gives it an unfair competitive advantage in attracting better workers. Consequently, Natanson theorizes that the pool of available job candidates in his hometown might be reduced and taxpayers in Basking Ridge might be forced "to support higher wages and higher advertising costs to attract job candidates to the school system." However, Natanson offers no actual facts to support his speculation. Other than that, the only other way in which Natanson claims he is harmed by the Board's actions is indirectly "through the state tax system." Again, he offers no underlying facts to show the amount of state aid that the Board may be receiving and whether any state money is being used to pay for background checks.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the petition should be dismissed for lack of standing.

"Standing" refers to the petitioner's ability or entitlement to maintain an action before a court or administrative agency. Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38, 47 (App. Div. 2001), certif. den. 171 N.J. 442 (2002). To possess standing, a party "must present a sufficient stake in the outcome of the litigation, a real adverseness with respect to the subject matter, and a substantial likelihood that the party will suffer harm in the event of an unfavorable decision." In re Camden Cty., 170 N.J. 439, 449 (2002). New Jersey courts have adopted a generous approach toward recognition of standing in order that aggrieved parties will not be denied easy access to the legal system. See Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98 (1971). S. Lefelt, Administrative Law & Practice, 37 N.J. Practice Series §7.4 (2d ed. 2003).

Nonetheless, there are accepted limits as to who may seek to vindicate rights belonging to others. Courts will not render advisory opinions or function in the abstract or entertain proceedings by parties "who are mere intermeddlers" or are "merely interlopers or strangers to the dispute." Crescent Park, at 107. Despite a broad standing policy, our courts require some real and direct interest be present before granting third party standing to seek judicial review of agency action. Camden County, at 447. Generally, two prerequisites must exist to establish standing: First, petitioner must demonstrate a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceedings; and, second, his position must be truly adverse to the opposing party. Home Builders League of So. Jersey, Inc. v. Berlin Twp, 81 N.J. 127, 132 (1979). Sometimes the first requirement is described in terms of the "substantial likelihood of harm" to the complainant if the requested relief is not granted. Home Builders, at 134. Where a case is of great public interest, however, "any slight additional private interest" will be sufficient to afford standing. Salorio v. Glaser, 82 N.J. 482, 491 (1980). But courts still continue to look for some measurable amount of detrimental impact on the complaining party's personal rights.

Similar restrictions are imposed on those who would initiate administrative proceedings before the Commissioner. While N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 confers upon the Commissioner jurisdiction to hear and determine "all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws," the Commissioner had adopted regulations clarifying exactly who may be considered interested persons for the purpose of such hearings. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 defines "interested person(s)" as someone "who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of a controversy before the Commissioner." Such language is consistent with the Administrative Procedure Act, which limits the definition of a contested case to proceedings where the "legal rights, duties, obligations, privileges, benefits or other legal relations of specific parties are required by constitutional right or by statute to be determined." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b).

Thus, the Commissioner has consistently declined to hear cases brought by petitioners who would not be affected by the outcome in a direct and meaningful way. See, e.g., U.K. & G.K. o/b/o D.K. v. Clifton Bd. of Educ., 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 73 (Nov. 20, 1992) (parents objecting to discipline of someone else's child); Kenwood v. Montclair Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8858-81 (April 23, 1982), adopted, Comm'r (June 14, 1982), aff'd St. Bd. (Sept. 8, 1982) (concerned citizen seeking to rewrite school attendance policy); Lobis v. Maple Shade Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. EDU 3630-79 (June 11, 1980), adopted, Comm'r (Aug. 11, 1980), aff'd, St. Bd. (Nov. 5, 1980) (parent whose child no longer attended school complaining about quality of education received by remaining students); Delaney v. Woodbridge Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. EDU 382-78 (Dec. 12, 1979), adopted, Comm'r (June 11, 1980) (taxpayer questioning propriety of filling job vacancies); Ricardelli v. Newark Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. EDU 1894-79 (Sept. 26, 1979), adopted, Comm'r (Nov. 16, 1979) (taxpayer challenging legality of school board's decision to transfer personnel); G.G. v. New Providence Bd. of Educ., 1975 S.L.D. 502 (parent of high school graduate challenging attendance policy).

Significantly, Natanson has no identifiable connection with Pequannock or its school system. Moreover, the harm that he alleges is attenuated and hypothetical. Regardless of whether the Board pays the cost of background checks for its school personnel, Natanson retains the right to petition the Legislature for redress of his grievances. Resolution of Natanson's complaint is unlikely to influence the Legislature or have an appreciable effect on the ability of his local school board to recruit competent school staff. In short, Natanson has no real stake in the outcome of these proceedings and has not demonstrated a substantial likelihood of suffering genuine harm.

Order

It is ORDERED that the Board's motion to dismiss the petition is granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

July 1, 2003
DATE

Ken R. Springer
KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7-1-03
DATE

M. Kathleen Dunscombe/ch
mailed to Parties:
ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

JUL 8 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

al

APPENDIX

List of Exhibits

No.	Description
P-1	Petition of Paul S. Natanson, filed on January 14, 2003
P-2	Petitioner's Reply to Answer, filed on February 6, 2003
P-3	Petitioner's Reply to Motion for Dismissal, filed on April 30, 2003
R-1	Answer and Affirmative Defenses of Pequannock Board of Education, filed on February 4, 2003
R-2	Notice of Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Standing, filed on April 11, 2003
R-3	Letter Brief of Pequannock Board of Education, filed on April 11, 2003
R-4	Certification of William Albert, filed on April 11, 2003

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1848-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 19-1/03

PAUL S. NATANSON,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEQUANNOCK, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner's appeal in this matter must be dismissed for lack of standing.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons clearly stated therein. The instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8|08|03

Date of Mailing: 8|11|03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

437-03

437-03

JERSEY CITY COMMUNITY CHARTER SCHOOL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Charter School sought payment of bus transportation costs incurred during the 2001-02 academic year from respondent local School District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-13. The District contended it met its legal obligation by offering bus tickets on public buses when it was not arranging private bus routes for petitioner's charter school students. The Charter School then entered into its own contract with a bus company due to the issue of safety. The District reversed its policy and arranged transportation for other charter schools except for petitioner because petitioner had a preexisting contract.

The ALJ found that when the District voluntarily provided all other charter schools located in Jersey City with bus routes, the District automatically triggered the statutory requirement to treat all in-district students alike. The ALJ ordered the District to pay the Hudson County Transport, Inc., the sum of $24,592 for services rendered to the Charter School from September 5 to December 5, 2001.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and ordered the District to pay the amount owed.

August 8, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5218-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 128-4/02

JERSEY CITY COMMUNITY CHARTER SCHOOL,
Petitioner,
v.
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY,
Respondent.

Marvin L. Comick, Esq., for petitioner
(Love & Randall, attorneys)

Charlotte Kitler, General Counsel, for respondent

Record Closed: March 28, 2003 Decided: June 24, 2003

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is a suit by a charter school seeking payment of bus transportation costs incurred during the 2001-2002 academic year. N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-13 requires local school districts to furnish transportation to resident charter school students "on the same terms and conditions" as its own students. In January 2001, the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City ("District") notified Jersey City Community

Charter School ("Charter School") that it was ending its past practice of arranging private bus routes for charter school students. Instead, the District offered to provide bus tickets on public buses. Unwilling to allow its young students to ride unattended on public buses, the Charter School entered into its own contract with a bus company to provide private bus routes. Shortly before the start of classes in September 2001, the District informed the Charter School that it was reversing itself and reinstating private bus routes. Nevertheless, the District refused to assume financial responsibility for the existing routes arranged by the Charter School because of substantial differences in the bidding specifications.

Ultimately, the District went through its own bidding process and began providing bus routes to Charter School students in early December 2001. Petitioner seeks payment of transportation expenses totaling $24,592 incurred during the first three months until the District began providing bus service. The District defends on the grounds that it met its legal obligation by offering bus tickets and that there is no statutory authority permitting it to make payment to or contract with "an intermediary" such as a charter school.

Procedural History

On April 29, 2002, the Charter School filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). Respondent District filed its answer with the Commissioner on May 20, 2002. Subsequently, on May 31, 2002, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on February 28, 2003. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Upon receipt of post-hearing briefs, the record closed on March 28, 2003.

Findings of Fact

Uncontested Facts

Most of the relevant facts are undisputed. Chartered in 1997, the Charter School has a student population of 275 students, drawn from Jersey City and surrounding communities. During 2001-2002, it served children in Kindergarten through grade four. Approximately one hundred in-district students attending the Charter School in 2001-2002 lived more than two miles away and thus were entitled to transportation.[1] In prior years, the District had always arranged private bus routes for remote in-district students attending charter schools located in Jersey City.

On or about January 9, 2001, the District gave written notice that "effective September 2001 the Jersey City Public Schools will be providing the same transportation services for Charter School students as it provides for students enrolled in the Jersey City Public Schools, that is, bus tickets[.]" Further, the District requested that the Charter School, "Kindly notify parents in order that they might have sufficient time to arrange for and adjust to these changes[.]"

Immediately upon receipt of this communication, Carletta Martin-Martin-Goldston, the head of the Charter School, conferred with her board of trustees and consulted with the parent-teacher organization. An experienced educator with a master's degree in elementary education, Martin-Goldston regarded it as "unsafe" for her students, all of whom were below the age of ten, to ride city buses without adult supervision. Stanley Wojik, acting transportation coordinator for the District, agreed that it is "probably not appropriate," although the District itself issues bus tickets to its own remote students of similar age. Moreover, Martin-Goldston feared that the unavailability of busing might reduce enrollment and threaten the financial stability of the Charter School, since its funding "depends on the number of students."

[1] Local school districts must provide transportation to resident elementary school students who live "more than two miles from their public school of attendance." N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

In accordance with instructions from her board, Martin-Goldston explored the possibility of declining the District's offer of bus tickets and "securing transportation on our own." Thereafter, on July 31, 2001, the Charter School accepted a bid from the Hudson County Transport, Inc. to supply two bus routes, including a driver and aide, at the cost of $212 per day for each route. Hudson County Transport began providing bus service to the Charter School on September 5, 2001.

On August 20, 2001, just two weeks before commencement of the 2001-2002 academic year, the District sent a letter to the Charter School advising that it had "reconsidered" its policy and would "revert back" to its original arrangement of providing bus routes to charter schools. Significantly, the letter failed to specify the anticipated date when such bus transportation might start. Instead, the letter merely stated that the District's transportation coordinator had been told "to solicit bids for the Charter School routes that were in effect during the 2000-2001 school year" and that, "[o]nce he has secured these routes he will notify you directly." As discussed in the next section, the parties presented conflicting versions of when the District notified the Charter School that busing was actually available.

Ostensibly, the reason for the District's change of heart was that many parents of charter school students had not been notified of the bus ticket arrangement "until the last day of school" and had insufficient time "to make plans to have their children transported in a manner acceptable to them." Of course, that rationale did not apply to the Charter School, which had acted promptly to make its own plans to secure suitable transportation for its students. As soon as she received the District's latest letter, Martin-Goldston wrote back on August 24, 2001, informing the District of the Charter School's contract for bus transportation and requesting that "the cost of our contract with Hudson County Transport be assumed by the Jersey City Public Schools." She also obtained assurance from Hudson County Transport that the bus company had no objection to the District assuming financial responsibility under the contract. According to Martin-Goldston, the Charter School did not try to cancel its contract with Hudson County Transport at that time because school was about to begin and she did not know when the District would be ready to provide busing.

Not having received any response to her letter of August 24th, Martin-Goldston wrote a second letter on September 28, 2001, enclosing a draft of an agreement for the District to assume the costs of its existing transportation contract with Hudson County Transport. Her letter asked that the District sign the proposed agreement and return it "no later than October 5, 2001." However, the District waited until October 12, 2001 before responding to the second letter. On that date, the District's general counsel, Charlotte Kitler, Esq., sent a letter advising that the District could not properly assume the contract because the Charter School's bid specifications were "so significantly different from our specifications and requirements, particularly in the conditions affecting performance and enforcement[.]" While Kitler's letter reiterated the District's willingness "to arrange to provide transportation services for your students," it did not mention that the District was ready and able to provide such busing immediately. Information furnished separately by the District indicated that bids for various bus routes, including transportation for Charter School students, "are due on October 23rd."

Meanwhile, however, the District had awarded an "emergency contract" to the same bus company, Hudson County Transport, to provide busing to Charter School students along the same two routes, starting on September 5, 2001. Ironically, the cost of each route under the District's emergency contract would have been $243 per day or $31 more than the daily rate under the Charter School's contract. After receipt of the October 12th letter from the District's general counsel, Martin-Goldston called the respondent's transportation coordinator, Stanley Wojik, to accept the District's offer to provide future bus routes. Hudson County Transport continued providing bus service under the Charter School's contract through December 5, 2001 and is now looking for payment in the amount of $24,592.[2] Neither party contends that Hudson County Transport's services were unsatisfactory or that the charges are unreasonable.[3]

(2) Disputed Facts

It is unfortunate that two public officials have such different recollections of whether the District notified the Charter School of the provisions for busing under the emergency contract. Martin-Goldston testified unequivocally that, after writing her letter of August 24, 2001, she had no communication with anyone from the District until she received the response from the District's general counsel in October 2001. She never saw a copy of Wojcik's letter awarding the emergency contract to Hudson County Transport until the District produced it at the administrative hearing. Wojcik's letter corroborates Martin-Goldston's testimony, since it shows that a copy was sent to the District's school bus administrator, but not to any representative of the Charter School. Admitting that he never sent a copy of the letter to Martin-Goldston, Wojcik offered the lame excuse that the arrangements had to be made quickly so everything was "done verbally."

Convincingly, Martin-Goldston asserts that, had she known of the District's emergency contract with Hudson County Transport, she would have tried to cancel the Charter School's independent arrangements with Hudson County Transport. Certainly it is unlikely that Hudson County Transport would have refused to substitute the District's emergency contract, which contained a higher price for the same two bus routes.

Wojcik claims that he personally telephoned Martin-Goldston on one or more unspecified dates and informed her that the District would have no problem furnishing bus transportation starting on September 5, 2001. But he failed to produce any substantiating documentation, such as telephone records reflecting the alleged contacts or contemporaneous notes of his conversations. While Wojcik apparently conferred with another District administrator, Ellen Zadroga, the District never called Zadroga to verify that someone had notified the Charter School about the emergency arrangements. Wojcik's discussions with Zadroga appear to have focused on whether the District could assume the Charter School's existing contract.[4]

---

[2] Since December 5, 2001, the District has undertaken to provide busing routes to the Charter School under a contract with a new vendor, Laidlaw.

[3] The Office of the Hudson County Superintendent of Schools has informed the Charter School that it cannot divert programmatic funds to pay for transportation costs. Martin-Goldston said that if the school's suit is unsuccessful, it will have to raise the extra money through candy and bake sales.

I FIND that Martin-Goldston was unaware emergency busing would be available for Charter School students when school opened in September. Proofs demonstrate that the Charter School management regarded safety as the highest priority and declined the District's offer of bus tickets for its young students. Leadership of the Charter School felt so strongly about the safety issue that it acted to avoid discontinuance of the private bus routes. If the Charter School administration had been informed that the District was ready to provide free busing for remote students, there is no good reason why the Charter School would not have taken advantage of the opportunity and cancelled its substitute arrangements.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the District must compensate Hudson County Transport for the cost of providing bus service to the Charter School.

A charter school is a public school operated pursuant to a charter approved by the Commissioner of Education, which is independent of a local board of education and is managed by a board of trustees. N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-3. In re Grant of the Charter Sch. Application of Englewood on the Palisades Charter Sch., 164 N.J. 316, 319-320 is managed by a board of trustees. N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-3. In re Grant of the Charter Sch. Application of Englewood on the Palisades Charter Sch., 164 N.J. 316, 319-320 (2000). It is the public policy of the State "to encourage and facilitate the development of charter schools." N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-2. Charter schools have more autonomy than other public schools in staffing, curriculum and spending choices. Englewood on the Palisades, at 320. Despite its independent governance, however, most of the funding for a charter school derives from the local school district of residence of the charter school. N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-12. Englewood on the Palisades, at 323. N.J.S.A. 18A:36-13 mandates that students who reside in the school district in which the charter school is located "shall be provided transportation to the charter school on the same terms and conditions as transportation is provided to students attending the schools of the district." N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-13. See also, N.J.A.C. 6A:27-3.1(d).

[4] For reasons that are not entirely clear, Wojcik wrote to Hudson County Transport on September 4, 2001 canceling the District's contract to provide transportation services to the Charter School. Again, Wojcik failed to inform the Charter School of this important development.

First, the District argues that it satisfied its legal obligation by offering the same type of transportation provided to its own remote students, namely bus tickets. If the District's involvement had ended at that point, it might well have been absolved of further financial obligation. But that is not the factual pattern presented in this case. Here the District went beyond minimum statutory requirements and voluntarily provided all other charter schools located in Jersey City with bus routes. By doing so, the District automatically triggered the statutory requirement to treat all in-district students alike.

Second, the District contends that assuming the contractual arrangements of a charter school would exceed its statutory authority. Citing Remedial Educ. & Diagnostic Servs. Inc. v. Essex Cty. Eduational Servs. Comm'n, 191 N.J. Super. 524, 529 (App. Div. 1983), certif. den. 97 N.J. 601 (1984), the District maintains that "a power or duty delegated by statute to an administrative agency cannot be subdelegated in the absence of any indication that the Legislature so intends." In Remedial Educ., the Appellate Division held that an educational services commission could not legally subcontract with a private entity to perform services that the Commission itself was obligated to supply. Local school districts, on the other hand, are fully empowered to provide bus transportation either by using their own buses or by entering into contracts with bus service providers. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-2. Coaches of Eight, Inc. v. Lakehurst Bd.

Of Educ., 1978 S.L.D. 416 (Comm'r 1978). In fact, the District arranged such transportation services for other charter schools and would also have done so for the Charter School, were it not for the Charter School's preexisting contract.

Legislation must be construed to avoid absurd results. In re Expungement Application of P.A.F., 176 N.J. 218, 222 (2003). Courts presume that the Legislature intended to achieve a reasonable result. Simpkins v. Saiani, 356 N.J. Super. 26, 36 (App. Div. 2002). Fundamentally, the Legislature envisioned that local districts would pay the transportation costs of remote resident students attending charter schools. The problem here was caused by the District's last-minute change in transportation policy. When the District denied its original request for busing, the Charter School was forced to make its own alternative arrangements to bus its students. It would be absurd for the one charter school that felt strongly about the safety issue to be deprived of payment of busing costs, while the other charter schools have their busing paid for by the District. Similarly, it makes no sense for the District to take advantage of its own inefficiencies to avoid its statutory obligation, even though the District would have paid more for the same service if it had acted with appropriate dispatch. Contrary to the District's contention, the Charter School is not asking for payment to be made to an intermediary. Rather, the Charter School is merely seeking to enforce the District's statutory duty to provide bus service on the same basis as other charter schools located in Jersey City.

Order

It is ORDERED that the District promptly pay the sum of $24,592 to Hudson County Transport, Inc. in full payment for services rendered to the Charter School from September 5 to December 5, 2001.

APPENDIX

List of Witnesses

1. Carletta Martin-Martin-Goldston, head of school, Jersey City Community Charter School

2. Stanley Wojcik, acting transportation coordinator, State-Operated School District of Jersey City

List of Exhibits

No.	Description
P-1	Copy of memorandum to charter school administrators from Dr. Charles T. Epps, Jr., dated January 9, 2001
P-2	Copy of letter to Jersey City Charter School directors from Dr. Charles T. Epps, Jr., dated August 20, 2001
P-3	Copy of letter to Dr. Charles T. Epps, Jr. from Carletta Martin-Martin-Goldston, dated August 24, 2001
P-4	Copy of letter to Hudson Company Transport from Carletta Martin-Martin-Goldston, dated July31, 2001
P-5	Copy of letter to Dr. Charles Epps from Carlotta Martin-Martin-Goldston, dated September 28, 2001
P-6	Copy of letter to Carletta Martin-Martin-Goldston from Charlotte Kitler, Esq., dated October 12, 2001
P-7	Copy of letter to Carletta Martin-Martin-Goldston from Anthony M. Tozzi Jr., Esq., dated December 20, 2001

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

June 24, 2003
DATE

Ken R. Springer
KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

June 27, 2003
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

JUN 30 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

al

R-1 Copy of letter to Alan Manzo from Stanley W. Wojcik, dated August 29, 2001

R-2 Copy of letter to Alan Manzo from Stanley W. Wojcik, dated September 4, 2001

R-3 Copy of Jersey City Community Charter School bidding documents, dated July 30, 2001

R-4 Copy of State-Operated School District of Jersey City bidding documents, dated October 18, 2001

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5218-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 128-4/02

JERSEY CITY COMMUNITY CHARTER SCHOOL, PETITIONER, V. STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of the State-operated School District and reply thereto of the Charter School were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and fully considered by the Commissioner in his determination herein.

The District's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate its arguments advanced below which the Commissioner finds were fully and fairly addressed by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in his Initial Decision and, therefore, do not require further elaboration here. To the extent the District additionally challenges the ALJ's credibility determinations with respect to the testimony of the Charter School's Director (Carletta Martin-Goldston) vis-à-vis that of the District's Acting Transportation Coordinator (Stanley Wojcik), the Commissioner is satisfied, based on the record before him, that the ALJ appropriately measured the plausibility of the testimony content in making his credibility assessments and reaching his factual findings and conclusions. It is also noted that credibility determinations of the finder of fact, who observed the witnesses first-hand, are to be accorded great weight in the absence of any meaningful basis on which to challenge them. This is especially true where, as here, transcripts of the proceedings were not provided to the Commissioner. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 157-158 (App Div. 1987) and N.J.S.A. 51:14B-10(c).

Upon his full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ for the reasons clearly set forth in his decision.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted. The District is hereby ordered to pay Hudson County Transport, Inc., $24,592 for transportation services provided to Jersey City Community Charter School for the period September 5, 2001 to December 5, 2001.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8|08|03

Date of Mailing: 8|12|03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

438-03

438-03

SUNLIGHT ELECTRIC COMPANY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

August 8, 2003

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1218-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 5-1/03

SUNLIGHT ELECTRIC COMPANY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The within matter concerns a challenge by petitioner Sunlight Electric Company, the lowest responsive bidder in two consecutive public bids for the project of electrical/technology renovations for the Bergenfield School District, to the Board's refusal to award Sunlight Electric Company the contract for the project.

This matter was originally brought as an Order to Show Cause before the Law Division of Superior Court, Bergen County. By Order of December 13, 2002, the Court denied petitioner's request for a stay of the bid award and forwarded the matter to the Commissioner pursuant to the doctrine of primary jurisdiction. On January 15, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing on petitioner's application for emergent relief.

On January 28, 2003, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) heard oral argument on the emergent relief application and issued an Order[1] on February 2, 2003 temporarily enjoining the Board from awarding and/or entering into any contract regarding the project until after conclusion of hearing on the merits of petitioner's claim. Hearings were subsequently held on March 4 and March 20, 2003, and the record closed on May 15, 2003. The ALJ issued an Initial Decision on June 25, 2003.

[1] It is noted that the ALJ did not transmit this Emergent Relief Order for the Commissioner's review as set forth at N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(i).

Prior to the Commissioner's consideration of this matter, the parties entered into the within Settlement Agreement. Upon review of the record and the terms of the settlement, the Commissioner finds that the parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement and that the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.[2]

Accordingly, the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement as the final decision in this matter and the matter is dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement. In light of this determination, the Commissioner does not reach to the conclusions in the Initial Decision. However, the Commissioner strongly cautions the Bergenfield Board and all boards of education where specific projects have been funded through the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A, Chapter 7G, such as the project herein, and where the voters have approved additional tax dollars for a specified purpose and the Department has approved said project based on the board's representation that the funds will be utilized solely to fund that project, that the approved funds may not be utilized by a board of education for a new project which departs from that approved by the taxpayers and the Department.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of decision: 8|08|03

Date of mailing: 8|12|03

---

[2] The Commissioner points outs that the within Settlement Agreement is signed by Sun Kim, President of Sunlight Electric Company, on behalf of petitioner, and Board President Steve Stavrou, on behalf of the Board. On August 7, 2003, Mr. Kim certified that he is a principal in Sun Electric Company, a close corporation, and, thus, authorized to sign the settlement on behalf of petitioner Sunlight Electric Company. By resolution of July 16, 2003, the Board authorized the Board President, Steve Stavrou, to execute the Settlement Agreement in this matter on behalf of the Board.

[3] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

SCHENCK, PRICE, SMITH & KING, LLP
10 Washington Street
P.O. Box 905
Morristown, New Jersey 07963-0905
(973) 539-1000
Attorneys for Respondent
Bergenfield Board of Education

SUNLIGHT ELECTRIC COMPANY,	STATE OF NEW JERSEY COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
Petitioner,
v.	OAL Docket No. EDU-1218-03 Agency Ref. No. 5-1/03
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD OF BERGEN COUNTY,	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT
Respondent.

The respondent, Bergenfield Board of Education (hereinafter, the "Board"), with its administrative offices located at 100 Prospect Avenue, Bergenfield, New Jersey, and the petitioner, Sunlight Electric Company, Inc. (hereinafter, "Sunlight"), with its principal place of business located at 41 Ray Avenue, Leonia, New Jersey, hereby set forth their full and complete agreement, as follows:

WHEREAS, Sunlight filed a petition challenging the Board's rejection of its bid for the electrical upgrades at the Roy W. Brown Middle School, the Jefferson Elementary School and the Hoover Elementary School; and

WHEREAS, a hearing on the matter proceeded before the Office of Administrative Law resulting in an Initial Decision adverse to the Board; and

WHEREAS, the Board disagrees with the Initial Decision; and

WHEREAS, the matter is pending before the Commissioner of Education for review; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to resolve the above captioned matter amicably, without the further litigation expense of review and appeal;

WHEREFORE, the parties agree to the following terms and conditions in full resolution of all matters and issues raised in the above captioned matter:

(1) The Board agrees to award contracts to Sunlight for the completion of the electrical upgrades work at Roy W. Brown Middle School, Jefferson Elementary School, and Hoover Elementary School.

(2) Sunlight agrees to withdraw and/or voluntarily dismiss its petition pending before the Commissioner of Education.

(3) Sunlight hereby releases, waives and gives up any and all claims, rights and damages, which it may have against the Board, its members, its employees, and agents, including those claims which Sunlight may not be aware, arising out of or otherwise related to the above captioned petition, which were included in the petition and/or settlement discussions or resulting from anything which has happened up to now or which failed to occur, including all claims which could not have been brought in the current forum due to jurisdictional reasons.

(4) This Agreement shall not constitute, be interpreted, construed or used as evidence of any admission, fact, law, responsibility, wrongdoing or liability on behalf of the parties.

(5) The parties acknowledge and expressly agree that the Agreement shall be subject to plain language interpretation and that no provision shall be interpreted in favor of one party over the other party.

(6) This Agreement constitutes the full and complete agreement of the parties hereto and supercedes any prior or contemporaneous representations, whether oral or written. This Agreement may not be modified or amended except by written instrument signed by all parties hereto.

(7) If any of the terms of this Agreement are found to be found illegal or void under State and Federal law, then the remainder of the Agreement not affected will remain in full effect.

(8) The Agreement is subject to the approval by the Commissioner of Education and the Bergenfield Board of Education.

SUNLIGHT ELECTRIC CO.

SUN KIM, PRESIDENT

Dated: 7/21/03

WITNESS:

Dated:

BERGENFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION

STEVE STAVROU, BOARD PRESIDENT

Dated:

455-03

#455-03

J.K., on behalf of minor child, L.K.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

August 11, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8010-99

AGENCY DKT. NO. 265-9/99

J.K. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, L.K.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY,

Respondent.

Stephen Latimer, Esq., for petitioner (Laughlin & Latimer, attorneys)

Gregory J. Giordano, Esq., for respondent (Lenox, Socey, Wilgus, Formidoni & Casey, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 30, 2003 Decided: July 2, 2003

BEFORE STEPHEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This matter was submitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 7, 1999 pursuant to a petition for emergent relief seeking a ruling in respect to the imposition by the respondent board of five Saturday detentions with varying additional burdens. On September 31, 1999, my office issued a ruling and order granting the request for emergent relief. That opinion was upheld by the Commissioner of Education on October 4, 1999.

Following the resolution of the emergent relief issue, I have never heard from the parties again. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the appeal in the foregoing matter be and is hereby DISMISSED for failure of the petitioner to responsibly, vigorously and reasonably pursue the appeal.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

7/02/03
DATE

STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7/2/03
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 9 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

cmo

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8010-99
AGENCY DKT. NO. 265-9/99

J.K., on behalf of minor child, L.K.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs that dismissal of this matter is warranted by petitioner's failure to pursue her claim subsequent to the Commissioner's October 4, 1999 ruling on her application for emergent relief.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Issue: August 11, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 13, 2003

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

456-03

#456-03

ELLEN M. STILLITANO, DENISE SMITH, VINCENT P. HAMMOND AND ROSE COPELAND, PETITIONERS,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

August 11, 2003

457-03

F.M., on behalf of minor child, R.K.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning uncle challenged the Board's residency determination that his nephew, R.K., was not entitled to a free public education in the District. R.K.'s Palestian parents live in a refugee camp in Syria.

In light of the record and the testimony of witnesses, the ALJ concluded that petitioner satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) in that petitioner was domiciled within the District; that he was supporting R.K. gratis; that the parents were incapable of supporting R.K. in their own country due to economic hardship; and that the minor child was not residing with petitioner solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the District. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that R.K. met the requirements of an affidavit student and was entitled to a free public education in the District.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as his own.

August 11, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8109-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 375-9/01

F.M., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, R.K.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,
Respondent.

Richard A. Shackil, Esq., for petitioner

Anthony V. D'Elia, Esq., for respondent (Chasan, Leyner, Bariso & Lamparello, attorneys)

Record closed: June 11, 2003 Decided: July 2, 2003

BEFORE ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, F.M., appealed the determination by respondent, Board of Education of the City of Clifton (Board/District), that his minor nephew, R.K., was not entitled to a free public education in the District. Petitioner claimed that the minor child was entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). Respondent answered that the application had not shown family or economic hardship or otherwise satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). On September 5, 20001, the Board denied petitioner's application to have his nephew, R.K., admitted to school in the District. On September 25, 2001, the petitioner filed a petition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 concerning this residency dispute. R.K. was permitted to attend school in the District during the pendency of the appeal, commencing September 26, 2001. On November 7, 2001, the Board filed an answer denying the allegations in the petition, with a counterclaim for tuition.

On November 16, 2001, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for August 8, 2002. At the hearing, petitioner advised he would be seeking legal guardianship of the minor child, R.K. The matter was adjourned to October 17, 2002. Petitioner requested an adjournment. Another scheduled hearing for December 10, 2002 was also adjourned to February 27, 2003. Petitioner requested another adjournment so that he could follow up on the guardianship application. Thereafter, petitioner retained the services of an attorney and the matter was set down for hearing on May 30, 2003. The record remained open for the submission of posthearing briefs and additional documentation.[1] On June 5, 2003, the District submitted the affidavit of tuition charges. Posthearing submissions were received by June 11, 2003 and the record was closed.

STIPULATED FACTS

The parties agreed to the following stipulated facts:

1. The student is R.K.

2. R.K. was born on January 1, 1985 in Damascus, Syria.

[1] Respondent submitted the affidavit of Karen Perkins, Business Administrator, on June 5, 2003. The affidavit is marked as Exhibit R-1.

3. Since September 2001, R.K. has lived in the United States with his maternal uncle, F.M., in Clifton, New Jersey.

4. F.M. filed an application by a Clifton resident for R.K.'s admission to the Clifton Public Schools (J-1) on September 4, 2001.

5. The Board advised F.M. of its decision to deny the application for R.K.'s admission to the Clifton Public Schools by letter dated September 5, 2001 (J-2).

6. F.M. filed an appeal of the denial on September 25, 2001.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

F.M.

F.M. testified first. He was born in Damascus, Syria. He came to the United States when he was twenty-one years old on January 28, 1978. He became a United States citizen fourteen years ago. He resides in a home owned by him in the City of Clifton. He lives there with his three daughters, ages six, eight and thirteen. They all attend the Clifton Public Schools. Also living with him is his nephew, R.K., age eighteen.

The witness testified that he has been back to Damascus nine or ten times since moving here. He was last there in July 2002. He visits his sister, the mother of R.K. She and her husband live there with three other children, two daughters, ages 22 and 17, and a son, age 8. F.M. has known his brother-in-law since they were children in Syria. He testified that the family is considered by the government to be Palestinian.

F.M. identified a document as a transcript from the Civil Status Record (P-1), translated from Syrian to English, as R.K.'s birth certificate. He obtained this document from his sister. The document identifies R.K. as a Palestinian citizen residing in the Syrian Arab Republic since birth.

The witness testified that Palestinians living in Syria reside in refugee camps. There are few jobs and poor housing. His sister and brother-in-law live with their family in a refugee camp. The brother-in-law is a plumber. There is little or no work for him because he is Palestinian. Being a Christian also makes things difficult for them. F.M. explained that his sister's family lives on the equivalent of $100 per month. They have no car.

R.K.'s family live in a one-room apartment in Syria. There is one bathroom shared by three families. His brother-in-law cannot support the family. He sent R.K. to live with the witness. F.M. testified that he provides all the support for R.K. He feeds him and clothes him. F.M. explained that R.K. came on a visitor's visa. He has no legal status in the United States.

The witness testified that he tried to obtain legal guardianship of R.K. He was unable to explain the steps he took to do so, but he indicated that he did not or could not follow up on that matter. He never went back to finalize efforts to obtain guardianship.

R.K.

The student lives with his uncle, F.M. He came to the United States in 2001, during the summer before school started. His father could not take care of him. He told R.K. that he would ask his uncle to take care of him. The witness testified that his family of six lived together in one room. His father was a plumber helper. It is hard to earn money in Syria. The work is not steady there.

R.K. testified that the other students in Syria treated him differently, because he is Palestinian. They made fun of him. Here, in the United States, he is a good student. His grade average is about an 85 percent. He will be a senior next year at Clifton High School. His uncle is his only relative in the United States.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and to assess their credibility, I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

1. The parents of R.K. live in a refugee camp in Damascus, Syria, with their three other children.

2. They live in a one-room apartment. Three families share the bathroom.

3. R.K.'s father, a plumber by trade, has little work, earning approximately $100 per week. He has difficulty supporting his family in Syria.

4. The family has no car.

5. R.K.'s parents cannot adequately support or provide care for R.K. due to economic hardship.

6. F.M. is a citizen of the United States and a legal resident of the City of Clifton.

7. Since living with his uncle, F.M., in September 2001, R.K. has not been back to Syria.

8. F.M. receives no remuneration for caring for R.K. and provides support and care for him gratis.

9. R.K. does not intend to return to Syria.

10. R.K. has attended school in the District since September 26, 2001 to the present.

11. The annual per pupil cost for the students at Clifton High School for 2001-2002 was $7,727.09. R.K. attended school in the district for 167 days in 2001-2002, for a per diem cost of $46.27 for the 2001-2002 school year.

12. The annual cost for the students at Clifton High School for 2002-2003 was $6,925.52. Based on 180 days for the entire school year, the per diem cost for the 2002-2003 school year is $41.72.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The State of New Jersey provides that "public schools shall be free to ... any child who is domiciled within the school district." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). The domicile of a minor child follows that of his parents. See V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamburg, 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286. The applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1, reads in pertinent part:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the District, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled in the District and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligation for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parents or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economical hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the District solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the District. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statement, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

Therefore, the evidence must show that: (1) petitioner is domiciled within the District; (2) petitioner is supporting R.K. gratis; (3) R.K.'s parents are not capable of supporting or caring for her due to family or economic hardship; and (4) R.K. is not residing with petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District. Petitioner has the burden of proof to demonstrate family or economic hardship.

The position of the Board is that F.M. has not established that the parents have shown that they were incapable of supporting or providing care for their children due to a family or economic hardship. In J.B. v Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Ocean, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU), rev'd, Comm'r of Educ. (March 25, 1996), rev'd, State Bd. of Educ. (Oct. 2, 1996), on remand, Comm'r of Educ. (Feb. 11, 1997), the Commissioner found that family strife had a detrimental affect on the student suggesting that the "parents, sadly, are incapable of meeting his emotional, social, and developmental needs." Having determined by prior decision that these unique and compelling circumstances constitute family hardship, the Commissioner clarified on remand that for the above reasons, J.B.'s parents were not presently capable of providing care for him due to such family hardship pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). Id.

Where no hardship exists, the law requires that the resident shall be assessed tuition prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1, further reads in pertinent part:

> Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced.

Where the facts are contested, the trier of fact must weigh the credibility of the witnesses in order to make factual findings concerning the disputed facts. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness's testimony, requiring an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it hangs together with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). Credible testimony must proceed from the mouth of a credible witness and must be such as common experience, knowledge, and common observation can accept as probable under the circumstances. State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955). A fact finder is expected to base credibility decisions on common sense, which is also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837, 93 S. Ct. 2357, 37 L. Ed. 2d 380 (1973).

CONCLUSIONS

In the instant matter, the Board maintained that no family hardship was shown. The undisputed facts indicate that the situation is to the contrary. The family hardship here is that the parents were unable to provide sufficiently for R.K. to the extent that he came to a foreign country to live with an uncle so that he would have enough to eat and a decent place to live. There is no evidence that R.K. moved for the sole purpose of attending school in the District. Indeed, R.K. moved there primarily because the uncle lived there, not to avoid attending school in another district in the State. Moreover, there is no other district in the State where this child is eligible to attend school under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. I CONCLUDE that the compelling circumstances in this case rise to a level of family and economic hardship that meets the standard of the statute. "To hold otherwise harms a party the Legislature never meant to penalize ... and overlooks the substantial state interest in ensuring the education of all its children ... ." Gundersen v Bd of Educ of the City of Brigantine, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 39, 42. In finding hardship in a child's reaction to marital conflict, the Commissioner quoted his previous decision with approval. "In interpreting a statute, the Commissioner must look to the fundamental purpose for which the legislation was enacted, and where a literal reading will not accord with that purpose, the spirit of the law will control over its letter. Moreover, the meaning of a statute is to be gathered from the mischief sought to be eliminated as well as the proposed remedy."

The amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1

> ... were intended to ease the burden on local boards of education attempting to remove illegally enrolled students, specifically those living with a parent or guardian who claims to be, but is not, domiciled within the district, and those living with a person other than the parent or guardian in order to obtain the benefit of a free public education in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile ... . The intent of the "affidavit student" law is not now, and never has been, to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be as contemplated by the statutory scheme ... .
>
> [R.H. v Ocean Co Bd of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 628, citing Gundersen, supra.]

The undisputed evidence showed that petitioner has taken his nephew into his home indefinitely to provide him with the necessities of life that the minor student's parents were not able to provide him in Syria. Hence, there was no goal of the family to move from one school district in New Jersey to another, which was a major reason for the stringent amendments to the law. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, Legislative Statement. There was no evidence that this arrangement was entered into fraudulently for the purposes of obtaining a free public education in the District.

Based on the above I CONCLUDE that petitioner has satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) in that petitioner is domiciled within the District, is supporting his nephew gratis, the parents are incapable of supporting him in their own country due to economic hardship, and that the minor child is not residing with petitioner solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the District. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that R.K. meets the requirements of an affidavit student pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) and is therefore entitled to a free public education in the District.

ORDER

For all of the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that the determination of the Board of Education of the City of Clifton is and shall be REVERSED. The petitioner's request to allow R.K. to attend school in the respondent District is GRANTED. The respondent's counterclaim for tuition is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

7/2/03
DATE

ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7/2/03
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan/CJ

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 10 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

md

APPENDIX

WITNESSES

For Petitioner:

F.M.

R.K.

EXHIBITS

Joint:

J-I Application by Clifton Resident, September 4, 2001

J-2 Letter, Board to F.M., September 5, 2001

For Petitioner:

P-1 Transcript from Civil Status Record, March 6, 2003

For Respondent:

R-1 Affidavit of Karen Perkins, June 2, 2003

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8109-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 375-9/01

F.M., on behalf of minor child, R.K.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, and based on the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) credibility assessments, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has demonstrated that R.K. is entitled to attend school in the Board's district, free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/11/03

Date of Mailing: 8/14/03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

474-03

#474-03

TOWNSHIP OF MARLBORO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, AND JAMES WASSER, SUPERINTENDENT,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:
R.W., on behalf of minor child, M.W.,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, AND MICHAEL MADDALUNA, MONMOUTH COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:
AND	:
J.D. AND J.D., on behalf of minor child, S.D.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:	SYNOPSIS

In consolidated matter petitioning Board and parents alleged respondents' redistricting plan was an improper exercise of the Board's discretionary authority and was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The ALJ found that petitioners did not meet their burden of proving that the Board acted improperly in its consideration of and action approving the Student Attendance Plan for school years 2003-04 through 2006-07. The ALJ ordered the consolidated petitions dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

August 14, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 659-03

AGENCY REF. NO. 400-12/02

TOWNSHIP OF MARLBORO,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, AND JAMES WASSER, SUPERINTENDENT,

Respondent.

OAL DKT. NO EDU 660-03

AGENCY REF. NO. 402-12/02

R.W., O/B/O M.W.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, AND MICHAEL MADDALUNA, MONMOUTH COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,

Respondent.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2933-03
AGENCY REF. NO. 147-5/03

J.D. AND J.D., O/B/O S.D.,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Respondent.

Lance J. Kalik, Esq., for petitioner, Township of Marlboro (Riker, Danzig, Scherer, Hyland & Perretti, attorneys)

Allan Weinberg, Esq., for petitioner, R.W.

J.D. and J.D., petitioners, pro se

Nathanya G. Simon, Esq., for respondents, Board of Education of the Freehold Regional High School District and James Wasser, Superintendent (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Sarah G. Crowley, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent Michael Maddaluna (Peter G. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey)

Record Closed: July 1, 2003 Decided: July 3, 2003

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners request the Commissioner of Education to nullify respondent's redistricting plan scheduled for implementation for the 2003-2004 school year through 2006-2007 school years. The petitions and answers were transmittal to the Office of Administrative Law on February 27 and May 29 for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The cases were consolidated for all purposes by Order Consolidating Cases entered June 9, 2003. On motion made on behalf of respondent Michael Maddaluna for summary decision, and with the consent of counsel for R.W., claims against respondent Michael Maddaluna were dismissed.

A telephone pre-hearing conference was conducted on April 25, at which time June 13, 20, 23, 24, 27, 30 and July 1, 2, and 3 were fixed as hearing dates. A subsequent in-person prehearing conference was held on June 6, at which time claims against Michael Maddaluna were dismissed. In addition, respondent, Township of Marlboro requested that R.W.'s matter be dismissed as moot because M.W. was scheduled to attend the specialized Business Administration program conducted at the Marlboro High School Learning Center. Respondent's motion was denied.

Because discovery was not completed the June 13 hearing was adjourned. Counsel for the Township of Marlboro issued subpoenas to Board of Education members, Bonnie Sue Rosenwald, Bunny Hummer and Patricia Horwath, requiring their attendance to testify on behalf of the Township of Marlboro. Counsel for respondent move to quash the subpoenas as an inquiry into the deliberative processes of the Board of Education. Counsel's motion to quash the subpoenas was granted.

The hearing commenced on June 20 and continued June 23 and 24. At the conclusion of petitioners' case on June 24, respondent requested the opportunity to furnish legal memorandum in support of a motion for involuntary dismissal. Memoranda were submitted by the parties and oral argument was received on July 1. At the conclusion of the argument, respondents' motion was granted.

Witnesses who testified and exhibits admitted into evidence are listed in the Appendix. The hearing record closed upon the issuance of the oral order of involuntary dismissal on July 1, 2003.

FACTUAL CONSIDERATIONS

For the purposes of considering a motion for involuntary dismissal all of the evidence submitted by the party opposing the motion, together with the legitimate inferences there from, must be accepted as true. Accordingly, for the purposes of this initial decision, the following is accepted as fact:

Councilman Barry Denkensohn testified that he was a member of the Township Council of the Township of Marlboro, serving in his second four-year term. Before joining the Council Denkensohn was a member of the Marlboro Township K-8 Board of Education.

In 2002 the Township Council adopted a Resolution "Re-Establishing the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE)" and appointed Denkensohn, Mayor Matthew Scannapieco, and 11 other concerned and knowledgeable residents as its members (Exhibit PM-1). Denkensohn stated Marlboro officials and residents became aware of the discussions among the Freehold Regional High School Board of Education ("Board") to redistrict the placement of pupils among the 6 high schools of the regional district.

A public forum was called in January 2002, with hundreds of parents converging at the Township Hall, to discuss the redistricting situation. ACE was a result of the public forum. One of the major areas of public outcry was the sentiment that Marlboro voters had been led in 1999 to believe that passage of the Board's December 14, 1999 Referendum and the ensuing enlargement of Marlboro High School would negate the redistricting of any Marlboro resident-student to another high school in the regional district. In particular, Denkensohn noted that the brochure published by the Board (Exhibit PM-2) explained that the project included for Marlboro High School, "add capacity by expanding the school with additional classrooms and labs to meet the growing student involvement." The referendum passed the 8-municipality vote by 26 votes; Marlboro voters approved the new construction by 391 votes. Before construction began on Marlboro High School, redistricting was again in the public discussion.

ACE met at least once a month during 2002. On May 20, 2002, ACE issued a Public Forum Report including 8 short-term recommendations and 4 long-term recommendations (Exhibit PM-3). ACE found no immediate overcapacity in Marlboro High School. Should "attendance reassignment" occur, the reassignments should be voluntary among all of students of the regional district. The Learning Centers should be expanded throughout regional district, both in depth of curriculum and into full-time programs. Further demographic studies should be undertaken.

Denkensohn presented the confidential 1998 Redistricting Study for the Freehold Regional High School District (Exhibit PM-4). The confidential Redistricting Study was not adopted by the Board. But it discussed 5 separate redistricting options. By way of comparison, the Final Recommendation on Student Attendance Plan for school years 2003-04 through 2006-07 (Exhibit PM-5) ("Plan") contained only 1 option – mandatory redistricting. At the meeting of the Board on September 9, 2002 the demographer spoke only of population statistics based on enrollment data. The likelihood of the student entering a non-public high school was not explored. Denkensohn spoke with Carol Fox and Bonnie Rosenwald, the 2 Marlboro-resident members on the Board's Student Attendance Advisory Committee. Fox told Denkensohn that she was "disturbed" with the process used by the Committee, that the Committee did not respect Fox's ideas, disregarded those ideas, and members told Fox to rely on faith. Fox's cover letter to the Student Attendance Committee (though not admitted into evidence because of the lack of identify of person handwriting marginal notes and corrections, is transmitted for a completed record) is Exhibit PM-6.

Denkensohn received numerous phone calls from Marlboro residents objecting to the Plan. The primary complaint was the omission of voluntarily redistricting from the Board's considerations. A petition was circulated throughout Marlboro (Exhibit PM-7) citing opposition to involuntary redistricting while Marlboro High School while current capacity existed in the high school, support of changing the regional high school tax assessment formula, and support of a re-examination of the Board Vote Appointment in accordance with Census 2000 results. Two thousand five hundred signatures are affixed to the petitions.

Lastly, Denkensohn discussed the adverse impact the redistricting will have on the Marlboro community. Because Marlboro has no downtown business district the high school is the focal point of Marlboro. The Plan divides the community.

On redirect, Denkensohn pointed to an approved senior citizen housing development and a master plan designed to slow growth to question the accuracy of the suggested school population figures.

Jerome Liebers and Susan Shakked are 2 Marlboro residents who live on streets affected by the Plan. (Exhibit PM-5, addendum #17). Liebers's older children graduated from Marlboro High School. His youngest son is most upset because he cannot follow in the footsteps of his siblings. Liebers believes the Board did not consider the Plan's impact or in-coming students. Shakked's daughter cannot understand the Board's decision to affect only a small number of children. Only a "handful" of the graduating class of 727 from the Middle School are going to Colts Neck High School. Shakked's daughter is a member of a 14-girl dance team; all but 2 of the girls are going to Marlboro High School. In order to keep his family in Marlboro schools, Shakked's husband commutes to Brewster, New York for work. The Shakked family had been active in all of the activities at Marlboro High School, especially during their older daughter's years in the school. Shakked's daughter has been "miserable" realizing her friends are going to Marlboro High and she has to go to Colts Neck. Colts Neck does not abut the area affected by the Plan. At the time the Plan was considered, it was thought that 114 students would be moved; but, considering the children going to the Learning Center and private/parochial schools, Shakked believes the number of students going to Colts Neck High School will be 40.

Lauren and Scott Preiss described the portion of Marlboro being assigned to Colts Neck High School as a "sliver." They left Brooklyn after careful study to locate a beautiful place to live and an exceptional school system. Their daughter who just graduated from the Middle School is "very, very upset." They believe the Board was arbitrary in its decision; all options were not explored, Ryan Road is not the area of Marlboro nearest to Colts Neck High School, and it is unfair to send students into another school where all of the other students already know each other. Scott Preiss rejected a job transfer to Chicago in order to keep his family in Marlboro's schools. Lauren Preiss thought the Board was not listening to the comments of parents and children made at Board meetings. Preiss indicated the areas of Marlboro affected by the planned redistricting of high school freshman to Colts Neck High School on an enlarged map of northern Monmouth County (Exhibit PM-8). Scott Preiss thought the addition to Marlboro

High School approved in the referendum provided sufficient space to avoid any involuntary redistricting. The recommendations of ACE were not even mentioned in the Board's final plan. The Board would have better served the student had it provided for more students to attend Colts Neck High School. Had the graduating class of one of Marlboro's middle schools been sent to Colts Neck the result would have been more "palatable."

Mayor Matthew Scannapieco testified as a 24-year resident and 12 year Mayor of Marlboro. Marlboro High School is the focal point of the Township. Both the Township and the independent soccer program changed their official colors to the blue and gold of the high school. Scannapieco recalled that redistricting of Marlboro was first raised approximately 5 years ago. In 1998 a decision to not involuntarily redistrict was made. Redistricting discussions with the Board continued in 1999 when the Board's representatives explained proposed expansions of its high schools. Scannapieco had a "sense" that the expansions were to provide additional cafeteria space.

The Marlboro governing body supported the referendum. Allowing for a student population of 2400 was to provide enough space to avoid redistricting. In June 2001 the redistricting issue was raised by the Board. During the 2001 discussions, residents raised their concerns with the Mayor and Council. ACE was formed to meet with the residents and attend meetings of the Board. In January 2002 the Board's Student Attendance Advisory Committee reported to the Board its recommendations for student attendance at the regional district's high schools. After Marlboro received the report ACE members met with Superintendent Wasser and Board President Horvath, and continued meeting on a regular basis.

On June 10, 2002, Wasser presented a draft proposal Student Attendance Plan for school years 2003-04 through 2006-07 (Exhibit PM-10) with an accompanying message (Exhibit PM-9). The draft proposal noted that the recommendations were first made in January 2002 for implementation by September 2002, but implementation was delayed for a year upon Wasser's recommendation. Scannapieco continued to meet with Wasser and Horwath delaying the Board's final action until September 2002.

Scannapieco described ACE, its subcommittees for demographics, statistics and community involvement, and the May 2002 report to the Board (Exhibit PM-3). The "short term" recommendations of ACE were: 1) redistricting should not begin in 2003 because no immediate overcapacity was shown, the number relied upon by the Board were inaccurate and did not account for students going to non-public schools; 2) voluntary redistricting through expansion of the Learning Centers should have been considered, 1/3 of the population of the regional district's Learning Centers are Marlboro students; 3) Learning Centers programs should be lengthened into full-day programs to save on classrooms use; 4) a "sibling rule" should be applied to keep siblings in the same high school; 5) a full-time Grants Acquisition Consultant should be hired to seek funding for the regional district; 6.) Centralized Registration is questioned as to its cost effectiveness, impact upon real estate values, and legality; 7) meetings with the governing bodies of the member municipalities at least semi-annually; and 8) cost apportionment among the member municipalities should be reexamined.

Scannapieco and Denkensohn as Co-Chairpersons of ACE addressed a memorandum to the Board members (Exhibit PM-11) as a cover letter to the ACE report (Exhibit PM-3). They requested further study and evaluation of alternative proposals before putting the Plan into effect. The "far reaching tentacles" of the Board's measures are the destruction of Marlboro's sense of community and pride in identification with Marlboro High School.

The actual enrollment figures used at Addendum #15 of the Board's Final Student Attendance Plan (Exhibit PM-5) was disputed by Scannapieco. Because the effect of the sibling rule, Learning Centers, and enrollments in non-public schools, Scannepieco believed the figure for 2003-04 school year should be 50 or 60, rather than 114.

Scannepieco believed that members of the Board had "ulterior motives" for voting in favor of the Plan. The Board members from Marlboro and Colts Neck voted against the Plan. Two other members who had indicated their disfavor with the Plan changed their minds after a September 6 visit to Marlboro High School. They then had concerns about "safety" and "overcrowding" of the cafeteria. The Board members spoke publicly of "parity" but comments were made that it was now "Marlboro's turn." If Marlboro was not redistricted other communities wanted all of their resident-students returned to their high schools.

Scannepieco also noted that Dr. Harber in his June 3, 2002 letter to the Board (Exhibit PM-5, attachment #3) made no reference to overcrowding at Marlboro until 2006.

Petitioners next sought to have Dr. Carol R. Conger testify as an expert on the educational impact of changes of placement of students. I did not accept Dr. Conger as an expert on that topic. Counsel made a proffer into the record that had Conger been permitted to give an opinion that should the 86 students who are now slated to attend Colts Neck High School go to Marlboro High School there would be no impact upon Marlboro High School. Having visited both high school and spoken with the administration of each Conger would testify that sending the Marlboro students to Colts Neck would not improve or change to educational opportunities at either school. Conger did not observe an overcrowding at Marlboro High School. She believed there was a more sensible way to change the dynamic of the high school, and overcrowding was not a reasonable approach to the current situation. Conger would also question the lack of an in-depth analysis of enrollment projections. Conger's CV was admitted as Exhibit PM-12.

Ilisa Diamond, Dawn Censoplano, Sandor Epstein, Beth Goldberg Meyer, Jed Steinberg, and Janet Doro, all residents of the area of Marlboro affected by the Plan, and all parents of children whose plans to attend Marlboro High Schools were dashed by the Plan, testified to their child's disappointment. Diamond's daughter is an accomplished gymnast who expected to compete on Marlboro's outstanding gymnastic team. Colts Neck does not have a gymnastic team. Censoplano described her daughter's efforts to renew her social life after the illness and death of her father. The realization that all of her friends were going to Marlboro High School and she would not, gave her daughter an anxiety attack. Epstein's child grew up with siblings who participated in sports at Marlboro, graduated and moved on to attend quality colleges. Although Epstein's child will attend the Learning Center at Marlboro he thought the redistricting a small part of the town was segregation. Meyer described her son's reaction to being forced to attend Colts Neck as "extremely frantic." He was a Junior Mustang wrestler who fully expected to be a Marlboro Mustang wrestler. Now he feels "isolated" and punished.

Steinberg's older daughter just graduated from Marlboro High School where she played soccer, was president or vice-president of several clubs, and participated in fund raising, sporting, and social events. His younger daughter looked forwarded to following her sister. She was a Marlboro Pop Warner cheerleader who looked forward to competing to become a Marlboro High School cheerleader. She does not know when cheerleader trials were or will be held at Colts Neck. Steinberg said his daughter will not discuss redistricting because she is no upset; "devastated" into quietude with the expectation of having to go to Colts Neck.

Dono is a petitioner in the matter of J.D. and J.D., o/b/o S.D. v. Board of Education of the Freehold Regional High School District. Dono is a Registered Nurse, certified to work as a Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse. Because she did not include herself as an expert witness in her response to discover she was precluded from offering an expert opinion. Nevertheless, Dono testified to her observations of her son who had attended Colts Neck High School for a special program during his junior high school years. When her son realized he had to return to Colts Neck his grades deteriorated to a point where graduation became marginal. He resents the fact that he cannot follow his sister at Marlboro; his sister graduated in June. He cannot comprehend why 2 of his neighbors on the block can go to Marlboro under the sibling rule but he cannot.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

In any case, upon the completion of the case by the party bearing the burden of proof, the opposing party "may move for dismissal of the action or of any claim on the ground that upon the facts and upon the law the plaintiff has shown no right to relief . . . . [s]uch motion shall be denied if the evidence, together with legitimate inferences there from, could sustain a judgment in [favor of the party with the burden of proof]." R.4:37-2(b). The judicial function on a motion for an involuntary dismissal "is quite a mechanical one." Dolson v. Anastasia, 55 *N.J.*2, 5-6 (1969). "The trial court is not concerned with the worth, nature or extent (beyond a scintilla) of the evidence, but only with its existence, viewed most favorably to the party opposing the motion. Ibid. The aforementioned Rule applies in this matter by operation of N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a).

Petitioners' burden in this matter is the demonstration that the Board acted arbitrarily, capriciously and unreasonably in its consideration of and action approving the Student Attendance Plan for school years 2003-04 through 2006-07 (Exhibit PM-5). I Find as a matter of Fact and I CONCLUDE as a matter of Law that petitioner have not met that burden in the hearing record.

Petitioners respond to respondents' motion for dismissal with argument that they have shown the Board did not consider alternative options to its course of conduct, relied upon faulty statistical information refusing to conduct a full demographic study, did not need to redistrict Marlboro students for 2003-04 school year, and failed to consider the dramatic impact of redistricting upon the affected students. The hearing record contains the March 2, 1998 "Confidential" Redistricting Study for the Freehold Regional High School District (Exhibit PM-4). The Report analyzed 5 redistricting options including the voluntary redistricting suggest by petitioners. The Report recognized that in 1998 voluntary redistricting would continue the status quo except for Colts Neck students and allows delay of reassignment until necessary new school construction is completed. I cannot infer that the Board did have access to this Report as it deliberated in 2002. As I mentioned during my oral opinion, the recitation of the 5 options in the September 9, 2002 Plan would have been tantamount to erecting "straw men" for destruction.

The hearing record does not contain the statistical data within the control of Marlboro Township, such as building permits, numbers of approved residential and non-residential housing, and voters records, to justify the Mayor's comment of "gross errors" in the housing reports relied upon by the Board. Likewise no credible evidence was presented upon which one could infer the number of students from Marlboro who will attend Marlboro High School and Colts Neck High School in September. Reviewing the enrollment projections contained in Appendix C of the 1998 Redistricting Study (Exhibit PM-4) with the figures in 2002 Plan (Exhibit PM-5) one sees that demographics is not an exact science; it is a tool for planning.

Discussing "need" for redistricting based upon a school physical capacity is an encroachment into the discretion of a board of education. I cannot infer that by not maximizing school population to the limit a board acted arbitrarily, unreasonably or capriciously. To the contrary one may more properly hold that filling the school to its maximum capacity is arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious.

Lastly, "dramatic impact" upon the redistricting student is alleged as a circumstance disregarded by the Board. No one seriously disagrees with the testimony of each parent at the hearing. Certainly each Marlboro child bused to Colts Neck has and will continue to have fears, anxieties and apprehensions over the new environment and classmates. I commented in my oral opinion that the Freehold Regional High School District administration has a lot of work in the next few months to unite all of the students at Colts Neck High School (and the other affected high schools) into community. I cannot infer that the Board ignored the problems of the adolescent nor that Superintendent Wasser will sidestep those problems. Might the expert testimony of Dr. Conger have established proffered premise that the change in the placement of a student adversely affects the education of that student? Without test results on that hypothesis the reliability of the premise is too questionable to be material. The expert's test to be accepted must be replicated, an error rate established, and the methods published in peer-reviewed journals.

"Arbitrary," "unreasonable," and capricious" are almost interchangeable terms, defined in Black's Law Dictionary as applying to actions which are determined to be "without fair, and substantial cause; that is without cause based on law," "irrational, foolish, unwise, absurd, senseless," and "willful, deliberate disregard of apparently trustworthy data." I may disagree with the Board's conclusion, but I cannot conclude its conclusion was erroneous.

Petitioners' counsel requested reconsideration of my Order quashing the subpoenas issued to Board members Bonnie Sue Rosewald, Bunny Hummer and Patricia Horwath. I deny the requested reconsideration. My reasons for quashing the subpoenas were respondents' imposition of the deliberative process privilege and the public access to all meetings of boards of education under the Open Public Meetings Act (N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to –21).

Notwithstanding the admonition of U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Judge J.L. Edmundson at the outset of the Elion Gonzalez hearing, "It is entirely possible that a judge may make a statement or ask a question that is the exact opposite of what he or she is thinking, because he or she may want to see how the lawyers respond," comment exchanged by members of a public body before the finalization of the resolution may be viewed as statements or questions of absolute fact. To later question those statement is unfair to the speaker. Board members must have the ability to fully and frankly discuss all matters on the Board agenda.

Secondly, with minutes of all public meetings a requirement under the Open Public Meetings Act and the availability of those minutes to eventually public scrutiny, counsel could have obtained the official record of Board deliberations.

I emphasize that my discussion is based entirely upon the hearing record and with any input from the respondents except for petitioners' exhibits.

ORDER

Accordingly, for all of the foregoing reasons, I ORDER that respondents' motion for involuntary dismissal of the three consolidated matters herein by GRANTED. I further ORDER that the petitions of Township of Marlboro, R.W., o/b/o M.W., and J.D. and J.D., o/b/o S.D., are DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

7/3/03 — Anthony T. Bruno by Miller, ALJ

DATE — ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7/3/2003

DATE

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 8 2003

DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

tmp

APPENDIX

WITNESSES

For Petitioners:

Barry D. Denkensohn

Jerome M. Liebers

Susan Shakked

Lauren Preiss

Scott J. Preiss

Matthew Scannapieco

Carol R. Conger

Ilisa Diamond

Donna Censoplano

Sandor Epstein

Beth Goldberg Meyer

Jed Steinberg

Janet Steinberg

Janet Dono

EXHIBITS

For petitioners:

PM-1 Resolution (No. 2002-81) Reestablishing the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) and Appointing Its Members

PM-2 Mailing/brochure of Freehold Regional High School District (3/2/98)

PM-3 Action Committee on Education Public Forum Report (5/20/02)

PM-4 Confidential Redistricting Study, Freehold Regional High School District (3/2/98)

PM-5 Final Recommendation on Student Attendance Plan for School Years 2003-2004 through 2006-2007 (9/9/02)

PM-6 Letter from Carol Fox to Superintendent Wasser (4/19/02) (attached dissenting opinion not admitted because of failure of identification of author of harnd-written notes)

PM-7 Signed petitions collected by ACE

PM-8 Street map of northern Monmouth County (returned to counsel for Township of Marlboro)

PM-9 Message from the Superintendent (6/10/02)

PM-10 Draft-Proposed Student Attendance Plan for school years 2003-2003 through 2006-2007 (5/13/02)

PM-11 Memornadum from co-chairpersons of ACE to Board (5/24/02)

PM-12 Curriculum Vitae of Carol R. Conger, Ed.D.

PM-13 Letter from Superintendent Wasser to Ilisa Diamond (5/6/02)

PW-1 Affidavit of Dr. Suzanne Koegler (5/12/03)

Respondents exhibits admitted into evidence but not considered for the purpose of this Initial Decision:

R-1 Letter from Donna L. Censoplano to Dr. Patricia Emmerman (1/14/03)

R-2 Letter from Patricia Emmerman, Ed.D. to Donna Censoplano (1/15/03)

TOWNSHIP OF MARLBORO, PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, AND JAMES WASSER, SUPERINTENDENT, RESPONDENTS. R.W., on behalf of minor child, M.W., PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, AND MICHAEL MADDALUNA, MONMOUTH COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, RESPONDENTS AND J.D. AND J.D., on behalf of minor child, S.D., PETITIONERS, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this consolidated matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioners have failed to sustain their burden of establishing that the Board's consideration and approval of the Student Attendance Plan for school years 2003-04 through 2006-07 were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and, therefore, the Board's actions in this regard must be upheld.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted and the within consolidated Petitions of Appeal are hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/14/03

Date of Mailing: 8/15/03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

475-03

#475-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF JULIA HANKERSON, :

WOODBINE BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

CAPE MAY COUNTY. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that respondent Board member committed numerous violations of the School Ethics Act, i.e., N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), (d), (e), (g) and (h), many of which occurred even after her Board member training. The Commission found her behavior so egregious that it recommended respondent be removed from her position on the Board.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision was restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty, concurred with the Commission's recommendation and, thus, ordered respondent removed from the Board as of the date of this decision.

August 14, 2003

IN THE MATTER	:	BEFORE THE 03 JUL -2 A 8:55
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
OF	:
	:	Docket No.: C36-02
JULIA HANKERSON,	:
WOODBINE BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	DECISION ON VIOLATION
CAPE MAY COUNTY	:
	:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The above-captioned matter arises from a complaint that was filed on September 10, 2002 by former Woodbine Superintendent Bruce Kinter. Therein, he alleged that that Woodbine Board of Education member, Julia Hankerson, violated the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. by: 1) initiating actions contrary to the report of the Fiscal and Education Intervention Team (FEIT); 2) directing employees without consulting the superintendent, but with the consultation of the Mayor of Woodbine; 3) proposing the termination of two employees without consulting the superintendent; 4) hiring new employees without the recommendation of the superintendent; 5) calling meetings regarding the budget for 2002-2003 without knowledge of the superintendent; 6) sending Rice notices to employees without recommendation by the superintendent; 7) restructuring staff without the consultation of the superintendent; 8) removing the superintendent from the agenda of the first day of school teacher in-service and directing him to conduct interviews; 9) advising the President of the WEA and an administrator that the contract of the superintendent would not be renewed in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g); 10) creating a position of behavior specialist without consulting the superintendent in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g); 11) ignoring the recommendation of the superintendent and recommending her own candidate to the Board to be business administrator/board secretary in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and (h); 12) rejecting the recommendation of the superintendent and the interview committee and recommending that the board hire a technology person in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h); 13) recommending the discharge of an employee because she was not a resident of Woodbine in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i); attending a class without signing in and interrupting the teacher which resulted in a teacher grievance in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j); and 14) directing staff members to drop everything and do as Ms. Hankerson directed.

Dr. Kinter presented evidence of other violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1 during the hearing of this matter, including the firing of math in-service consultants, the proposed firing of a custodian and the purchase of computers, but the Commission dismissed these allegations as they were not part of his complaint.

Ms. Hankerson denied every allegation in her answer of November 4, 2002. She set forth in her answer that she discussed each matter with Complainant prior to her taking action and that Dr. Kinter was aware of almost every action before it was taken, and if he was unaware, it was because he was not available to be informed.

The parties were invited to appear and present testimony at the Commission's meeting of December 17, 2002. Both parties appeared and both were represented by counsel. Each presented testimony and witnesses to aid in the Commission's investigation.

At its meeting of December 17, 2002, the School Ethics Commission tabled the matter. At its meeting of January 28, 2003, the Commission found probable cause to credit the allegations in the complaint that Ms. Hankerson violated the Code of Ethics of the School Ethics Act. Respondent's attorney requested that the Commission clarify the issues upon which it found probable cause because the complaint was so voluminous. On February 25, 2003, the Commission determined that probable cause was found on each allegation of the complaint. Further, because Ms. Hankerson denied each allegation, the Commission determined that the material facts were in dispute. Therefore, in light of the requirement that Code of Ethics cases be heard within 90 days, the Commission decided to hold a full hearing at a public meeting to determine whether Ms. Hankerson violated the Act.

After numerous proposed dates were recommended and rejected by the parties, their attorneys or members of the Commission, the Commission scheduled a full hearing for June 3, 2003 and so advised the parties in a letter dated March 31, 2003. By letter of May 12, 2003, Ms. Hankerson's attorney advised that Ms. Hankerson requested that he withdraw his appearance on her behalf because she did not want to incur any additional expense to the District. On May 27, 2003, the Commission received a letter from Ms. Hankerson requesting an adjournment due to a conflict that she had with the date of June 3, 2003. When Commission staff called to inform her that the adjournment could not be granted, she informed the Commission that she needed additional time to prepare her case because she was now representing herself. The Commission denied Ms. Hankerson's request. The Commission believed that it would be patently unfair to the complainant to adjourn the matter so close to the hearing date when he had prepared for the June 3, 2003 date that all parties were informed of since the Commission's letter of March 31, 2003.

On June 3, 2003, Dr. Kinter appeared with his attorney, Robert Schwartz, Esq. and his witnesses, Ronald Sahli, Esq., Sharon Popper, Lynda Blank and Stephen Hensil. Ms. Hankerson appeared with Board member Gregory Palm as a witness, but he did not testify. Ms. Hankerson began by stating that she was representing herself because she could not ask the Woodbine School District to continue to pay for her representation. Although the Commission found probable cause to credit each of the allegations in the complaint, at the hearing of June 3, 2003, the complainant did not present evidence on each allegation.

The Commission voted at its public meeting of June 3, 2003 to find that Ms. Hankerson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), (d), (e), (g) and (h), set forth in the Code of Ethics of the School Ethics Act and recommended that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal from her position as a Board member for these violations. The Commission adopted this decision with amendments at its meeting of June 24, 2003.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the pleadings, the documents submitted and the testimony presented, the Commission finds the following facts to be undisputed. Julia Hankerson was elected to the Woodbine Borough Board of Education (Board) in April 2002. Due to dissatisfaction with the budget, only three incumbent board members remained after the election. Ms. Hankerson became part of a new board majority and was elected Board President at the 2002 reorganization meeting. She attended new board member training class in June 2002. Complainant Dr. Bruce Kinter has been the Superintendent since March 2000. Prior to that time, he was Assistant Superintendent. At the time of the hearing of this matter, Dr. Kinter was still being paid pursuant to his contract but he was not working in the District.

The remaining facts were determined by Commission after having heard the testimony of the witnesses and reviewed the documents submitted. They are presented in a loose chronological order.

I. Meetings after Budget Defeat

On May 7, 2002, the Fiscal Educational Improvement Team (FEIT) issued its report on the Woodbine School District. The FEIT report listed numerous deficiencies in the District and directed at page 43, among other things, that the superintendent should be more involved in the budget process. (C-1 in evidence) The Administration put together a budget for 2002-2003 that included a $.19 tax increase. The tax increase became an issue in the Board elections, as set forth above, many incumbents were defeated in the April 2002 elections. The Board and the municipality had to discuss the tax increase. Dr. Kinter alleges that Ms. Hankerson held meetings on this subject without inviting him. He became informed when specific people told him that such meetings were taking place. He discussed this matter with Ms. Hankerson in late spring and early summer, but with no results. He alleges that he was not involved until the budget was completed. As superintendent, he is required to sign the Statement of Assurances that the budget meets the educational needs of the District, but he called the county business administrator and asked what he should do because the budget was not the one he proposed. He eventually signed it on June 20, 2002 noting, "Signed with serious reservations (ex. FEIT, special education, surplus)" (C-2 in evidence). The revised budget called for only a $.04 increase. Dr. Kinter was opposed to specific cuts in the budget and he was told, not consulted, about the cuts that were made.

Dr. Kinter admitted that he had no direct knowledge of who arranged the budget meetings or whether Ms. Hankerson attended them.

Ms. Hankerson testified that she attended one budget meeting that she thought was scheduled and arranged by Dr. Kinter. She denied making any unilateral decisions. She said that the Board discussed the issues and made decisions. She said that she is not the Board. She denied any knowledge of how the Board reached a $.04 tax increase from the $.19 increase recommended by the superintendent.

II. Hiring of Business Administrator

Regarding the hiring of a business administrator, the District's business administrator resigned in February 2002 in the middle of the FEIT inquiry. Dr. Kinter, after conducting interviews, recommended that the Board appoint applicant J.S. Dr. Kinter sent J.S. a letter on April 30, 2002 congratulating him and stating that he will begin working on May 6, 2002 upon approval of the Board. At the May 2, 2002 Board meeting, at which the recommendation was to be discussed, Ms. Hankerson commented that the Board was going to hire people from the community and sent Dr. Kinter back to review resumes. She said that the hiring should reflect the racial makeup of the school. Applicant Judson Moore was hired by the Board and given a contract, into which the superintendent had no input. Mr. Moore is the former mayor of a town not far from Woodbine.

Board Attorney Ronald Sahli testified that he drafted a contract for Mr. Moore working with him and Dr. Kinter, the term of which was from May 20, 2002 to June 30, 2003. (Exhibit C-26). However, the contract that was placed before the Board was for three years, which would automatically give Mr. Moore tenure. The contract was also changed to give Mr. Moore three substantial pay increases of 10% each year of the contract and vacation days that could be accumulated to allow him to be out long stretches of time. Mr. Sahli testified that this would cause hardship to the District. Mr. Sahli testified that he wrote Ms. Hankerson on June 17, 2002 pointing out the problems with the revised contract and noting that the contract as prepared could not be terminated during the three-year period unless mutually agreed to by the business administrator and the Board. He never received a reply from Ms. Hankerson. The revised contract was approved by the Board. Mr. Sahli's contract was terminated at the Board's last meeting in June 2002. At the direction of Ms. Hankerson, Mr. Moore asked Mr. Sahli not to attend the June meetings.

Ms. Hankerson testified that she did not put together the contract for Mr. Moore that was ultimately approved by the Board.

III. Giving Orders to District Employees and Observing Teachers without Signing-in L.B. testified that she was employed by the Board as confidential secretary to the School Business Administrator before Mr. Moore. She testified that Ms. Hankerson began coming to the Business Office and asking her to perform certain tasks. She said that in April 2002, she came in the office and told her to drop what she was doing and make copies of a document that she had and fax it to someone. She testified that Ms. Hankerson was frequently in the office, hallway, and cafeteria talking to students and teachers and she never signed the sign-in sheet required of anyone entering the building.

Ms. Hankerson testified that she never directly gave a staff person an order to do anything. She recommends that staff go to the administration if there is a problem.

IV. Removal of Two Employees by Reduction in Force

On the evening of June 11, 2002, Dr. Kinter was advised that the School Board President scheduled a School Board Meeting for June 13, 2002, without his knowledge and instructed the Business Administrator to give a Rice[1] notice to non-classroom personnel that their possible termination by reduction in force would be discussed. Dr. Kinter testified that N.J. and L.B. were recommended for a reduction in force at the meeting. He testified that he had no input into their termination and in fact, was vehemently against it because it violated the recommendations in the FEIT report. Dr. Kinter wrote a memorandum to Assistant Commissioner Albert Monillas to this effect dated June 12, 2002 (Exhibit C-19), but he did not receive a response. The Board Solicitor did not attend this meeting. The employees were terminated by the Board.

V. Hiring of Technology Specialist

In July 2002, Dr. Kinter interviewed applicants for a part-time technology position. There were ten applicants, eight of whom were scheduled for interviews. The interviews were held on July 11, 2002 before a committee consisting of Dr. Kinter, Business Administrator Mr. Moore and Supervisor of Student Services, Stephen Hensil. The interviews resulted in a ranking of the six that were actually interviewed. After two rounds, the recommendation from the committee was for applicant D.S. to receive the position. Applicant A.T. was ranked third of three in the second round by Dr. Kinter and Mr. Hensil and second by Mr. Moore. (Exhibit C-4) Despite the superintendent's recommendation based upon the committee interviews, the Board agenda had applicant A.T. as the recommended person for the job, at its July 11, 2002 meeting. (Exhibit C-5) At its August 2002 meeting, Ms. Hankerson suggested that A.T. become a full-time employee without any recommendation from the superintendent.

Ms. Hankerson testified that the Board hired A.T. She said she voted for him because she wanted the best person for the job.

VI. Hiring of Behavior Specialist

Referring back to the FEIT report, Dr. Kinter noted that the report recommended that the District maintain the position of Supervisor of Students for Discipline. (Exhibit C-1, page 34) However, against his recommendation, the Board eliminated the position. The employee holding the title was laid off pursuant to a reduction in force and the position of Behavior Specialist was created. Dr. Kinter was directed to make a job description for the new position, which he did. (Exhibit C-7) He submitted it to the county office for approval. However, the Board adopted a different job description with different qualifications. Instead of a teaching certificate, the new job description requested a certificate of school social work or school psychologist certificate. (Exhibit C-8)

[1] "Rice" refers to the case, Rice v. Union County Regional High School Bd. of Ed., 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977), certif. den. 76 N.J. 238 (1978), which held that when a board intends to discuss the termination of an employee in closed session, it must provide the employee with reasonable notice of its intention to do so in order to allow her to exercise her statutory right to request a public hearing.

Ms. Hankerson admits that she called the county office to determine the qualifications for a school psychologist, but denies that her inquiry had to do with the Behavior Specialist. She testified that the District never hired a school psychologist, but she just wanted to know. Ms. Hankerson denied that she put together a job description. The new job description was adopted by the Board and submitted to the county office.

At the August 8, 2002 meeting of the Board, the Board hired A.W. as Behavior Specialist. (Exhibit C-10) The item is listed under personnel, but does not indicate a recommendation by the superintendent. However, Dr. Kinter admitted to being present when Ms. Hankerson interviewed A.W. A.W. was the organist in the church to which Ms. Hankerson attended. He had no teaching certificate and no school psychologist certificate. On April 24, 2002, A.W. had been issued a summons in Middle Township for lewdness. He pleaded guilty to N.J.S.A. 2C:14-4A on July 16, 2002 and was sentenced to a $500.00 fine and one-year probation. (Exhibit C-12) On September 16, 2002, Dr. Kinter met with A.W. and advised him that he had to be suspended with pay. (Exhibit C-11)

Ms. Hankerson testified that the vote to hire A.W. was unanimous because he was bilingual. She testified that she only knew "of him" and that she had just started attending the church in which he played.

VII. Hiring of Teachers

At the beginning of the 2002-2003 school year, there were still vacancies for teachers in the District. Ms. Hankerson called an emergency meeting of the Board, which was held on September 2, 2002 for the purpose of discussing these vacancies. The minutes of the meeting set forth that five teachers without tenure were not notified that they were returning for the 2002-2003 school year and as a result, two of the five were not returning. The minutes go on to note that a physical education teacher also resigned and no arrangements had been made for the start of school on Tuesday, September 3, 2002. The minutes further note:

> Ms. Hankerson discussed the hiring of one teacher with Ms. Rinck, a current teacher for special education at WSD. Ms. Hankerson called this person by telephone and learned that she was bilingual. Ms. Hankerson offered Ms. Pownall, this position at step 2 as a 3rd grade teacher. (Exhibit C-13).

Dr. Kinter testified that he never spoke to Ms. Pownall or heard of her. He said he had no involvement in hiring her or setting her salary. He was planning to interview people the day after the meeting.

The minutes go on to discuss the opening for a school nurse saying:

> Ms. Hankerson discussed the nurse opening. Ms. Hankerson said that the school district has been out of compliance and that the district is illegal with just having an LPN according to the Department of Health. Ms. Hankerson said she new [sic] a nurse from a prior experience to recommend for this position. Ms. Hankerson said we cannot be illegal when hiring a nurse and informed the superintendent and business administrator to adjust salaries of the nursing position for the proper hiring of this person. (Exhibit C-13)

Dr. Kinter testified that he never interviewed this person and had no involvement in the setting of her salary. He met her when she came in and was filling out paperwork with the secretary of the office and was introduced to her as the "new nurse."

After the initial hearing before the Commission, Ms. Hankerson's attorney advised by letter of January 3, 2003 that the minutes of September 2, 2002 had been revised. He set forth, "Dr. Kinter knew or should have known that these minutes had been subsequently revised," although he gave no date that they were revised. (Exhibit J-1) The attorney attached the revised minutes which now set forth, "Ms. Hankerson interviewed candidates with Dr. Kinter." and "Ms. Hankerson discussed this with Dr. Kinter who thought this was a good recommendation." (Exhibit C-22) However, the revised minutes were not placed on the agenda for approval until January 9, 2003. (Exhibit C-24) At the January 9, 2002 Board meeting, the motion to approve the revised minutes was tabled. Other revised minutes for October 21, 2002, November 4, 2002 and November 21, 2002 were approved at the meeting. The revised minutes sent to the Commission were never approved by the Board.

Ms. Hankerson testified that she never hired anyone; the Board did. She said she talked to Dr. Kinter about Ms. Pownall, but when it was time to hire her because classrooms were not all covered at the start of the year, she could not reach Dr. Kinter. She testified that the ethics regulations say that if the administration is not performing its duty, then the Board can perform the duty. She said she had to make arrangements for an emergency meeting. Dr. Kinter was present at that meeting and endorsed the hires. She denied any knowledge about the revisions to the September 2, 2002 minutes submitted by her attorney. She testified that she does not know who asked that they be revised, who put them on the agenda to be approved or why they were tabled.

VIII. Teacher Orientation September 3, 2002

The first day of school for teachers was scheduled for September 3, 2002. The first day for students was to be September 4, 2002. Dr. Kinter prepared an agenda for the teachers' orientation on their first day of school. He was scheduled to give opening remarks, along with Ms. Hankerson, and then give a presentation on the faculty handbook and provide general information. (Exhibit C-15) However, Custodian of Records Mr. Cheesman's secretary gave Dr. Kinter an alternate orientation agenda in which Ms. Hankerson was scheduled to give opening remarks alone and Dr. Kinter was removed from the agenda altogether. (Exhibit C-16) Mr. Cheesman told him that Ms. Hankerson put the new agenda together. Dr. Kinter said he was told by Ms. Hankerson that he was to conduct interviews during the orientation. He attended the orientation, but only to explain that Mr. Hensil would be taking over.

IX. Removal of Superintendent

Dr. Kinter testified that in June 2002 he began to hear rumors that Ms. Hankerson wanted a new superintendent. Dr. Kinter heard it from Mr. Hensil, who said that the Board was going to act at its June 6, 2002 meeting. Dr. Kinter wrote a memorandum to Assistant Commissioner Albert Monillas to ask him to have a Department of Education representative present at that night's meeting. He said that the request was made because, among other reasons, the Board Solicitor was asked not to attend. (Exhibit C-18) At that meeting, Dr. Kinter's contract was nonrenewed and he was to cease working on June 30, 2002; however, he said that he had already received a new contract in January 2002. Dr. Kinter said that did not receive a response from Mr. Monillas. On or about September 18, 2002, Dr. Kinter was suspended from his duties, although he is still being paid and is still holding the title of Superintendent. Mr. Robert Manning was appointed to serve as Interim Superintendent on September 26, 2002.

Sharon Popper, WEA President, testified that Ms. Hankerson told her on May 15, 2002 that she had the contracts for the nontenured employees, but she would not be issuing one to Dr. Kinter. Ms. Hankerson assured Ms. Popper that all the teachers would be getting such contracts. Board member, David Zweigenbaum, was present during the conversation.

Mr. Stephen Hensil, former Supervisor of Student Services, testified that on June 13, 2002, Ms. Hankerson told her that she wanted to release a certain staff member, N.J., to make it so difficult for Dr. Kinter that he would leave. She said that she wanted Dr. Kinter out by September 2002. On July 22, 2002, Ms. Hankerson told Mr. Hensil that she was going to offer Dr. Kinter a buyout and asked whether Mr. Hensil would want to be interim superintendent. Mr. Hensil told her that he would not be eligible because he is not certified to be a chief school administrator. On July 26, 2002, Mr. Hensil confirmed with the County Educational Specialist that he would not be able to be a chief school administrator without certification. On that same day, he advised the superintendent of his conversation with Ms. Hankerson. Later that day, he related his conversation with the county office to Ms. Hankerson and she said that he was not supposed to have discussed the offer with anyone. Ms. Hankerson testified that she recalled the July 22nd conversation, but did not recall any subsequent conversations.

Mr. Hensil further testified that when he was waiting outside of the Board's executive session meeting on September 26, 2002 with others, when someone in the group asked Mr. Manning, who was also waiting, who might become the next superintendent and Mr. Manning said that he had been waiting for the job since June.

Last, Mr. Hensil testified that he appeared before the Commission on December 17, 2002 and presented testimony on behalf of Dr. Kinter. Mr. Hensil testified that he was given Rice notices on March 24 and 25, 2003 that his position would be discussed. At the March 27, 2003 Board meeting, his position was part of a reduction in force and he was given notice that his position would be abolished on May 1, 2003. He was reassigned to replace a long term substitute in a sixth grade class.

Ms. Hankerson testified that she did not know Mr. Manning prior to September 2002. She said that Mr. Manning submitted a resume for whatever position was available. She gave his resume to Mr. Hensil and they discussed it briefly. Mr. Manning's title was changed from Interim Superintendent to Assistant Superintendent in October 2002.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The Commission found probable cause to credit each of the allegations in the complaint. However, at the hearing of June 3, 2003, the complainant did not present evidence as to each of the allegations. The Commission will address the allegations in the order set forth above. The Commission notes at the outset that the complainant has the burden of proving factually that a violation of the Code of Ethics has occurred. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b).

I. Respondent held Meetings on the Budget to Which Complainant Was Not Invited

Complainant alleges that in May 2002, Ms. Hankerson had meetings with the Board Auditor, the School Business Administrator, the Mayor of Woodbine and other Borough official. He was not included in those meetings in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (c) of the Code of Ethics. The Commission determined that there were meetings between the Board and the Borough Council that occurred without the knowledge of the superintendent as he testified, resulting in the reduction of the budget tax assessment from the $.19 increase that the superintendent proposed to the $.04 cent increase that the Board eventually approved. However, the Commission is without sufficient evidence to sustain a finding that Ms. Hankerson had a role in the scheduling of such meetings or attended such meetings with the knowledge that Dr. Kinter was not invited. Therefore, the Commission must dismiss this allegation of the complaint.

II. Hiring of Business Administrator

Complainant alleges that on or about May 2, 2002, at a public meeting of the Board, Ms. Hankerson ignored and dismissed his recommendation for the appointment of a School Business Administrator/Board Secretary in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h). Complainant had already sent a letter to an applicant congratulating him and saying that he would begin work after Board approval. Complainant alleges that at the meeting following May 2, 2002, Ms. Hankerson rejected his recommendation and said that the District should hire people from the community. Judson Moore, who is the former mayor of a town not far from Woodbine, was hired by the Board.

Board Attorney Ronald Sahli, Esq. testified that the contract that he drafted for Mr. Moore was not the contract that was placed before the Board. The contract that he drafted was for one year; the contract before the Board was for three years, which would automatically give Mr. Moore tenure. Mr. Sahli testified that the contract was also changed to give Mr. Moore three substantial pay increases of 10% each year of the contract and vacation days that could be accumulated to allow him to be out long stretches of time, which would cause hardship to the District. Mr. Sahli testified that the letter that he wrote to Ms. Hankerson on June 17, 2002 pointing out the problems with the revised contract was not acknowledged and the revised contract was approved by the Board. Mr. Sahli's legal services contract was terminated at the Board's last meeting in June 2002. He had been asked not to attend the June meetings. Mr. Moore told him that Ms. Hankerson said that he was not to attend.

The issue is whether Ms. Hankerson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h) in connection with the above conduct. This section requires a board member to "vote to appoint the best qualified personnel available after consideration of the recommendation of the Chief Administrative Officer." Ms. Hankerson testified that she did not put together the contract that was ultimately approved by the Board and that she did not want Mr. Sahli to attend the meetings due to the cost to the Board.

As set forth above, there was no recommendation from Dr. Kinter to hire Judson Moore. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 makes clear that:

> A board of education shall appoint, transfer or remove a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons. [N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a)]

Section (h) of the Code of Ethics allows board members to reject the recommendation of the Superintendent, but implicitly requires that the board give the Superintendent an opportunity to present another recommendation. This was not done here. Rather, Ms. Hankerson, as Board President, had Mr. Moore come up for a vote before the Board without any recommendation from the Superintendent to hire him. Ms. Hankerson bypassed the superintendent and brought the vote for Mr. Moore before the Board without a superintendent recommendation. The Commission therefore concludes that Ms. Hankerson did not vote to appoint the best qualified personnel available after consideration of the recommendation of the superintendent in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h). In so concluding, the Commission makes no determination about Mr. Moore's qualifications, but finds there was no consideration of a recommendation by the superintendent.

III. Giving Orders to District Employees and Observing Teachers without Signing in Complainant alleges that Ms. Hankerson gave direction to employees of the District without consulting him in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), which requires a board member to confine her board action to policy making, planning and appraisal and (d), which requires that board members carry out their responsibility not to administer the schools, but, together with their fellow board members, see that they are well run. Lynda Blank testified that while she was confidential secretary to the School Business Administrator, Ms. Hankerson began coming to the Business Office and asking her to perform certain tasks. She said that in April 2002, Ms. Hankerson came in the office and told her to drop the work that she was doing (payroll) and immediately copy and fax documents that Ms. Hankerson handed her. She testified that Ms. Hankerson was frequently in the office, hallway and cafeteria talking to students and teachers and she never signed the sign-in sheet required of persons entering the building.

Ms. Hankerson testified that she never directly gave a staff person an order to do anything. She recommends that staff go to the administration if there is a problem.

The School Ethics Commission was given the charge of determining whether a violation of the Code of Ethics exists based on the proof submitted by the complainant. This necessarily requires that the Commission make determinations of credibility. The Commission finds the testimony of Ms. Hankerson to be less than credible. Even in the face of overwhelming evidence, her only response was denial of such conduct. The Commission finds that Ms. Hankerson spoke directly to the secretary Ms. Blank, and gave her orders without the knowledge of the complainant. The Commission also finds that she was engaged in the schools without following the protocol of signing-in upon entering the school building. The Commission finds such conduct to be in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) as alleged.

IV. Removal of Two Employees by Reduction in Force

Complainant alleges that on June 13, 2002, Ms. Hankerson proposed the termination of two employees without consulting him in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c). Dr. Kinter testified that Ms. Hankerson scheduled a School Board Meeting for June 13, 2002 without his knowledge and instructed the Business Administrator to give a Rice notice to non-classroom personnel that their possible termination by reduction in force would be discussed. Noelle Jacquelyn and Lynda Blank were recommended for reduction in force at the meeting without his recommendation. Not only did Dr. Kinter have no input into their termination; he spoke against it because he believed the terminations violated the recommendations in the FEIT report.

The Commission finds that Ms. Hankerson had the positions of two employees terminated without any recommendation from the superintendent, thus greatly exceeding her authority as board president to confine her board action to policy making, planning and appraisal as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c). Although Ms. Hankerson argues that the Board took the action and she did not act alone, as Board president, she is to act upon personnel matters upon the recommendation of the superintendent. In the present case, she was well aware that there was no such recommendation and even further, that the superintendent was opposed to the terminations. Therefore, the Commission concludes that Ms. Hankerson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) in connection with the above conduct.

V. Hiring of Technology Specialist

Complainant alleges that Ms. Hankerson hired a technology specialist in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h), which requires a board member to appoint the best qualified personnel available after consideration of the recommendation of the Chief Administrative Officer. Complainant alleges that on July 9, 2002, Ms. Hankerson advised a board employee that she was going to hire a specific person to the technology position in the District. Dr. Kinter and his appointed committee Business Administrator Judson Moore and Supervisor of Student Services Mr. Hensil, interviewed and rated applicants for the part-time position. The recommendation from the committee was for applicant D.S. to receive the position. However, despite the Superintendent's recommendation, the Board agenda had applicant A.T. as the appointee at its July 11, 2002 meeting. At its August 2002 meeting, Ms. Hankerson suggested that A.T. become a full-time employee, although A.T. was rated last by the interviewing committee and was not the recommendation of the superintendent.

Although Ms. Hankerson testified that the Board, rather than she alone, hired A.T. and that she voted for him because she wanted the best person for the job, the Commission finds that the procedure for the hire was flawed. It is not appropriate for the Board to simply appoint someone without taking into consideration the superintendent's recommendation. As previously set forth, the Board may reject the superintendent's recommendation and direct him to present another recommendation for board approval under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h). Once again, this was not done. Rather, Ms. Hankerson substituted her preference without consideration of the Superintendent's recommendation and thereby did not vote to appoint the best qualified personnel available after consideration of the chief administrative officer's recommendation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h).

VI. Hiring of Behavior Specialist

Complainant alleges that Ms. Hankerson had the position of Supervisor of Students for Discipline eliminated contrary to the recommendations in the FEIT report in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a), and, without consultation or recommendation from him, created the position of Behavior Specialist in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (g). The FEIT report recommended that the District maintain the position of Supervisor of Students for Discipline. (Exhibit C-1, page 34) Although Dr. Kinter had no input in the termination, the employee holding the title was laid off pursuant to a reduction in force. Dr. Kinter was told to make a job description for the new position, which he did. (Exhibit C-7) He made it and submitted it to the county office for approval. However, the Board adopted a different job description with different qualifications. (Exhibit C-8) Instead of a teaching certificate, the new job description requires a certificate of school social work or school psychologist certificate. Ms. Hankerson denied drafting the new job description, but admits to calling the county office to determine the qualifications for a school psychologist, not the behavior specialist. Dr. Kinter admits to being present when Ms. Hankerson interviewed A.W. for the position.

The Commission finds Ms. Hankerson's testimony that she called the county office regarding the qualifications for a school psychologist, when there was no employment issue pending about a school psychologist, to be lacking in credibility. Once again, Ms. Hankerson denied taking the action, but never could explain how the resultant action came about, in this instance the changed job description. She denies that she put together the new job description, which was adopted by the Board and submitted to the county office, but does not dispute that the superintendent's version of the job description was substituted with the Board's own version.

The Commission finds that the job description for Behavior Specialist and the hiring of A.W. as Behavior Specialist on August 8, 2002 should have been recommended by the superintendent. Ms. Hankerson's interview of a candidate in the presence of Dr. Kinter clearly demonstrates her overstepping her role as a board member. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission concludes that Ms. Hankerson again violated her duty to confine her action to policy making, planning and appraisal in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c). Because the FEIT report was not a law, rule or regulation of the State Board of Education or a court order, the Commission cannot conclude that the elimination of the position violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a). Also, although A.W. was hired by the Board after he pleaded guilty to a disqualifying criminal offense, the Commission did not hear any evidence that Ms. Hankerson knew of A.W.'s disqualification status before she recommended him such that it could find that she failed to provide accurate information in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g). The Commission cannot infer such a fact solely because A.W. was Ms. Hankerson's church organist.

VII. Hiring of Teachers

Complainant also alleges that Ms. Hankerson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) by recommending the hiring of staff for the 2002-2003 school year. Complainant presented minutes of an emergency meeting of the Board that was held on September 2, 2002 for the purpose of discussing remaining vacancies. The minutes of the meeting note that there were vacancies at the start of the school year. Ms. Hankerson said that she had to act to fill those vacancies because Dr. Kinter was not acting. The minutes of the meeting are clear that Ms. Hankerson offered Ms. Pownall a teaching position and even determined the step at which she was to be placed. She also selected and recommended the hiring of an individual for the position of school nurse.

Even if it were true that Dr. Kinter had been less than diligent in filling all the vacancies for September 2002, the Commission would have to conclude that Ms. Hankerson overstepped her bounds as a Board member when she actually hired personnel. The Board minutes showed that she nominated, interviewed and recommended the hiring of candidates for employment. The submission to the Commission of unapproved revised minutes with changes that would be favorable to Ms. Hankerson further undermines Ms. Hankerson's credibility. The Commission therefore finds Dr. Kinter's statement that there was no emergency requiring Ms. Hankerson to take such actions to be more credible in this regard.

The Commission believes that Ms. Hankerson is well aware that she acted outside her authority on September 2, 2002 and that is why she submitted, through her attorney, unapproved revised minutes to replace the actual ones. Ms. Hankerson had attended new board member training in June 2002 and was aware of the standards set forth in the Code of Ethics. Based on the foregoing, the Commission concludes that Ms. Hankerson administered the schools in a clear attempt to subvert the superintendent in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

VIII. Teacher Orientation September 3, 2003

Complainant alleges that Ms. Hankerson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) when she removed him from the agenda that he had prepared for the teachers' orientation on their first day of school. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) requires a board member to recognize that authority rests with the board of education and make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board. Dr. Kinter was scheduled to give opening remarks to the teachers, along with Board President Hankerson and then give a presentation on the faculty handbook and provide general information. (Exhibit C-15) However, Ms. Hankerson directed the superintendent to conduct interviews rather than attend the orientation.

Ms. Hankerson testified that Dr. Kinter was pulled from the agenda and directed to conduct interviews because of the emergency resulting from not having all positions filled at the start of the year. She noted that she did not fill in for him on the agenda, but rather had another administrator, Mr. Hensil, substitute for Dr. Kinter at the orientation.

As set forth above, Ms. Hankerson's testimony is less than credible in this regard. The Commission recognizes a clear pattern of Ms. Hankerson to discredit the superintendent at every opportunity. Pulling Dr. Kinter from the teachers' orientation clearly undermines his authority with his staff and thereby compromises his ability to serve as chief school administrator. The Commission therefore concludes that in setting her own agenda for the teachers' orientation, Ms. Hankerson took private action that may compromise the Board in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e).

IX. Removal of Superintendent

Complainant last alleges that Ms. Hankerson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) by discussing with District employees her intent to remove him as superintendent before giving him any official notice. Prior to the June 6, 2002 meeting at which Dr. Kinter had his contract non-renewed, Ms. Hankerson informed the President of the WEA, Ms. Popper and Mr. Hensil that Dr. Kinter's contract would not be renewed. She made the unsolicited comment to Ms. Popper in May 2002 and to Mr. Hensil just prior to the meeting. Although Dr. Kinter's contract was nonrenewed at the June 6, 2002 meeting and he was to cease working on June 30, 2002, Dr. Kinter said that he had already received an extended contract in January 2002. This is the subject of litigation to which the Commission does not offer any opinion. However, it is undisputed that on or about September 18, 2002,

Dr. Kinter was suspended from his duties, although he was still being paid and was still holding the title of Superintendent. Mr. Manning was appointed to serve as Interim Superintendent on September 26, 2002.

The sole issue before the Commission concerning Dr. Kinter's removal is whether Ms. Hankerson "failed to hold confidential matters pertaining to the schools which, if disclosed, would needlessly injure individuals or the schools" in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g). The Commission finds it reprehensible that Ms. Hankerson would discuss her intent to get rid of Dr. Kinter with his subordinates in the District. Personnel matters are confidential and fall within an exception to the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)(8), yet Ms. Hankerson casually discussed Dr. Kinter's contract with members of the staff. The Commission finds that her unsolicited comments clearly constitute a failure to hold confidential matters pertaining to the schools, which would needlessly injure Dr. Kinter and the schools.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

For the foregoing reasons, the School Ethics Commission hereby CONCLUDES that Julia Hankerson violated the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the following ways: 1) Ms. Hankerson ignored the recommendation of the superintendent and allowed a business administrator to be hired without any recommendation in violation N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h); 2) Ms. Hankerson gave orders to a District employee to perform tasks for her in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c); 3) Ms. Hankerson had Rice notices sent to employees proposing the termination of two employees without consulting the superintendent in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c); 4) Ms. Hankerson hired a technology specialist contrary to the superintendent's recommendation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h); 5) Ms. Hankerson created the position of Behavior Specialist and had a candidate appointed to the position without recommendation from the superintendent in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c); 6) Ms. Hankerson interviewed and hired a teacher and a nurse for the 2002-03 school year without the superintendent's recommendation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d); 7) Ms. Hankerson removed the superintendent from the agenda of the teacher in-service orientation and directed him to conduct interviews in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e); and 8) Ms. Hankerson advised the President of the WEA and an administrator that the contract of the superintendent would not be renewed in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g).

The Commission further CONCLUDES that there is insufficient evidence that she scheduled budget meetings in violation of the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (c). Moreover, although Ms. Hankerson acted contrary to the report of the Fiscal and Education Intervention Team (FEIT) when she terminated the position of Supervisor of Students for Discipline and created the position of Behavior Specialist, the Commission CONCLUDES that her action did not violate the alleged provisions N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) because no law, rule or regulation of the State Board or court order was violated or (g) since there was no evidence that she provided inaccurate information.

ORDER

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission concludes that respondent Julia Hankerson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), (d), (e), (g) and (h), set forth in the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal from her position as a Board member for these violations. The Commission finds that Ms. Hankerson continued to act in blatant disregard of the Code of Ethics even after she had been trained as to its provisions. Ms. Hankerson's submission of false revised minutes in order to defend herself in this action undermined her credibility. Further, the Commission heard testimony that the positions of employees who testified against her in the first hearing of this matter were terminated subsequent to the December hearing. Such retaliatory conduct makes the argument for removal even more compelling. Because the Commission finds Ms. Hankerson's conduct to be so egregious, if the Commission had the authority to do so, it would further recommend that Ms. Hankerson be barred from holding a position on a school board in the future.

This decision, having been adopted by the Commission, shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, the respondent may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Paul C. Garbarini

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

Resolution Adopting Decision – C36-02

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties and the documents submitted in support thereof and the testimony of the parties; and

Whereas, the Commission found probable cause to credit the allegations that Ms. Hankerson violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (h), (i) and (j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members; and

Whereas, the Commission held a full hearing to determine whether Ms. Hankerson violated the Code of Ethics for School Board Members as alleged in the complaint; and

Whereas, the Commission now finds that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), (d), (e), (g) and (h) of the Code of Ethics and concludes that removal would be the appropriate penalty for the reasons set forth;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter finding Julia Hankerson in violation of the Act and recommending that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

I hereby certify that the School
Ethics Commission adopted this decision
at its public meeting on June 24, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers
Executive Director

AGENCY DKT. NO. 231-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF JULIA HANKERSON,	:
WOODBINE BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CAPE MAY COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), finding that Julia Hankerson, member of the Woodbine Board of Education, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), (d), (e), (g) and (h), set forth in the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act, and recommending a penalty of removal from her position as a Board member have been reviewed. Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided 13 days from the mailing date of the decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration.

Respondent's comments set forth her disagreement with and defenses to the Commission's findings on each of the ethics violation charges addressed in its decision. She maintains that such findings were not founded on valid evidence but, to the contrary, were "based on misinformation, unsubstantiated and blatantly erroneous statements, unreported information and an assumption that a denial is not an appropriate response to an untrue statement or situation, and most horrifying; THAT A SUPERINTENDENT HAS MORE CREDIBILITY THAN A BOARD MEMBER." (Respondent's Comments at 7) She, additionally, argues that some of the allegations here arose during her first four months as a new Board member, with two of those months having been prior to her receiving Board Member Training. She proposes that "[i]t is unreasonable to believe that a new Board Member and President of a troubled school would have a working knowledge of all School Board processes and procedures immediately."

(Id. at 2) Respondent, therefore, urges that if any "penalty" is to be imposed, removal is entirely too harsh.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record and full consideration of respondent's comments, the Commissioner concurs with the Commission that respondent's blatant disregard of the Code of Ethics evidenced herein warrants no less a penalty than removal from her position as a Board member. The Commissioner is unpersuaded by respondent's attribution of her offenses here to her newness as a Board member. Rather, he concurs with the Commission, respondent repeatedly acted outside her authority and "in blatant disregard of the Code of Ethics even after she had been trained as to its provisions." (Commission's Decision at 16)

Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Julia Hankerson is removed from the Board of Education of Woodbine as of the date of this decision.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/14/03

Date of Mailing: 8/15/03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

476-03

#476-03

K.R.C. AND N.L.C., on behalf of minor child, L.M.U.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SALEM COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, WILLIAM ADAMS AND JOHN CLIFFORD,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

August 14, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INIITAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4202-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 213-6/03

K.R.C. & L.L.C. o/b/o L.M.U.,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SALEM COUNTY VOCATIONAL TECHNICAL SCHOOLS, WILLIAM ADAMS, AND JOHN CLIFFORD,

Respondents.

K.R.R. & L.M.C., parents of L.M.U., for petitioners pro se

Robert A. Muccilli, Esq., for respondents (Capehart & Scatchard, attorneys)

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

Record Closed: July 9, 2003 Decided: July 9, 2003

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Respondent Board of Education of the Salem County Vocational Technical Schools (BOE) operates two high schools: the Salem County Career and Technical High School and the Salem County Arts, Science and Technology High School, in which there are 5 academies, including the Academy of Biological and Environmental Sciences (ABES). Petitioners K.R.C. and L.M.C. and petitioner L.M.U., their daughter, who recently graduated from the ABES program, claim that respondents should have named L.M.U. a "distinguished student speaker" for the ABES graduation. Respondents submit that L.M.U. did not meet all of the criteria for that distinction, particularly because she was not a student in the ABES program for all 4 of her high school years. Respondents also submit that, because L.M.U. has now graduated, petitioners' claim should be dismissed as moot.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 12, 2003, the petition was filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the contested to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on June 13, 2003 and scheduled for a hearing on June 16, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). (The petition names as respondents only William Adams, Ed.D., Superintendent of the BOE's school system and John Clifford, Ed.D., principal of the BOE's Career and Technical High School. However, the case's caption, as transmitted by the Department, showed the BOE as a respondent.) On June 16, 2003, respondents' answer and exhibits were filed in the OAL, testimony was taken, the request for emergent relief was argued on a taped record, and I issued an order denying the request. The letter transmitting the order notified the parties that the case was scheduled for a plenary hearing on July 9, 2003 and respondents' attorney represented that, on July 8, 2003, by way of a telephone message, he reminded petitioners of the hearing. By 9:30 am on July 9, 2003, petitioners had not appeared, the OAL had no message from them, and respondents' attorney moved for dismissal.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The BOE operates two high schools: the Salem County Career and Technical High School and the Salem County Arts, Science and Technology High School.

The Salem County Career and Technical High School primarily prepares students to directly enter specific fields of vocational or employment. The Salem County Arts, Science and Technology High School (on campuses other than its own) operates 5 educationally rigorous academies, including the ABES.

On December 17, 1996, the BOE approved establishment of a Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program at the "Career Center" and provided that it "may become full-time and an academy program." R-C. On July 15, 1997, the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program's "Vo Tech Career Center Curriculum" was presented and the BOE approved implementation of that program during the 1997-98 school year. R-C. On August 26, 1998, the BOE again approved the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program as part of the "Career Center." R-G.

On August 3, 1999, the BOE approved courses for the 1999-2000 school year for the ABES program and the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program. The ABES program's courses, e.g., "Algebra I," "Honors English I" and "Honors History II," were more rigorous than the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program's courses, e.g., "Pre Algebra," "Algebra," "English 9" and "US History II – 20th Century America." R-E.

Substantial differences among the BOE's schools and programs make it difficult if not impossible to reconcile the weights and values of grades in the various courses. Therefore, the BOE has not recognized a valedictorian or salutatorian. Instead, Dr. Adams, the Superintendent of the BOE's school system, has determined an academy's "distinguished student speaker" on the following criteria: (1) at the time of graduation, the academy must have been in operation for a minimum of 4 years, (2) to be eligible a student must have participated in the same academy's program for a minimum of 4 years, (3) the student must have the highest grade point average (GPA) of eligible students, and (4) the student must be of good character. R-1, R-A

In past years, Dr. Adams determined who would be the "distinguished student speaker" and reported the student's name to the BOE. The criteria were not written or formally adopted by the BOE in a policy, etc.

During the 1999-2000 school year, L.M.U. was a freshman in the BOE's school system's Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program, so that she took Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program courses and not the more rigorous ABES program courses. R-F.

During the 2000-01 school year, L.M.U. was a sophomore in the BOE's school system's Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program, so that she again took Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program courses and not the more rigorous ABES program courses. R-F.

During the 2001-02 school year, L.M.U. was a junior in the BOE's school system, she transferred from the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program to the ABES program and took that program's courses. R-D.

On July 23, 2002, the BOE approved "Career and Technical Programs", including the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program as a full-time program option. R-C. The BOE thereby reiterated that the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program is not an academy program.

During the 2002-03 school year, L.M.U. was a senior in the ABES program.

Dr. Adams, a credible witness, applied the above-described criteria and determined that I.R. would be the ABES program class of 2003 graduation "distinguished student speaker."

Petitioners contended that L.M.U. had attained the highest average in her class, so that she should be named the "distinguished student speaker." However, since L.M.U. had not been a student in the more rigorous ABES program for all 4 of her high school years, Dr. Adams, determined that she was not eligible for that distinction.

On June 18, 2003, the Salem County Arts, Science and Technology High School graduation ceremony was held.

L.M.U. will be entering college for the 2003-04 school year.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Generally, in administrative adjudication, the claimant bears the burden of persuasion (proof), by the preponderance (greater weight) of the competent and credible evidence of facts essential to his or her claim. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c); see also N.J.S.A. 2A:84A-1 et seq.; N.J.R.E. 101(b)(1); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962); Snyder v. I. Jay Realty Co., 53 N.J. Super. 336, 347 (App. Div. 1958), rev'd in part on other grounds, 30 N.J. 303 (1959); Collins Realty Co. v. Sale, 104 N.J. Eq. 138, 142 (E. & A. 1929).

The above-described criteria for determination of what graduate will be the "distinguished student speaker" appear reasonable. More particularly, given the difference of educational rigor between the ABES program and the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program, the second criterion for eligibility, requiring that a student must have participated in the same program for a minimum of 4 years, appears to subject all students to equal standards. Further, although it would be preferable for the BOE to adopt written criteria, from the past years, the BOE appears well aware of and essentially ratified the criteria. (Petitioners have cited no law requiring the BOE to, e.g., adopt a written policy setting forth criteria.)

For all four high school years, I.R. took the more rigorous ABES program courses However, for her first two high school years, L.M.U. took the less rigorous Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program's courses. As applied, the criteria subject L.M.U. to no inequity. That is to say, petitioners have not shown that respondents should be ordered to designate L.M.U. as a "distinguished student speaker" for the graduation.

In support of respondents' motion for dismissal, they also cite Oxfeld v. New Jersey State Board of Education, 68 N.J. 301 (1975), wherein since petitioners had graduated and were no longer students in a school, their constitutional challenge to a school regulation were dismissed as moot. Respondents also distinguish this case from the circumstances noted in Justice Clifford's Oxfeld dissent wherein he points out that the Oxfeld petitioners brought a constitutional challenge to a school regulation governing distribution of pamphlets and leaflets on school grounds.

Respondents submit that they have acted reasonably; but they also point out the following: since L.M.U. has graduated and is no longer a BOE student, the claim that she should be a "distinguished student speaker" cannot be granted; petitioners have not claimed that respondents should be ordered to amend the BOE's records to show that she was "distinguished;" and petitioners have not brought a constitutional claim. Consequently, this case could also be dismissed as moot and I agree with this.

To reiterate, the petitioners have failed to prove that the respondents wrongfully refused to name L.M.U. a distinguished student speaker" and their case is moot.

ORDER

I ORDER the petition DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

July 9, 2003
DATE

JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

July 10, 2003
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 16 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

EXHIBITS

For Petitioners:

P-1 Board resolution: Approval of New Career Center and Salem County Arts, Science and Technology High School Curricula and Curriculum Modifications for the 2000-01 School Year

For Respondents:

R-1 Affidavit of Dr. Adams

R-A Memorandum (relative to honors distinction) from Superintendent William H. Adams, Ed.D., May 17, 2001

R-B Letter (relative to selection of students for distinguished speaker status) from Superintendent Adams to petitioners, June 11, 2003

R-C Board Minutes: Approval to Establish a Law Enforcement and Public Safety Program for the 1997-98 School Year, December 17, 1996; Board Minutes: Approval of Career Curriculum Changes for the 1997-98 School Year, July 15, 1997; Board Minutes: Board Review and Approval of the 2002-03 District Educational Curriculum, July 23, 2002

R-D Transfer Information, School: Salem County Arts, Science and Technology High School, 2002-03 School Year, Term: Marking Period 3, L.M.U.

R-E Board Minutes: Request and Recommendation for Board of Education Approval of the Career Center and the Salem County Arts, Science and Technology High School Curriculum and Curriculum Modifications for the 1999-2000 School Year, August 3, 1999

R-F Official Transcript, Salem County Vocational Technical Schools, L.M.U.

R-G Board Minutes: Request and Recommendation for Board of Education Approval of the Career Center Curriculum for the 1998-99 School Year, August 26, 1998

WITNESSES

For Petitioners:

K.R.R.

L.L.C.

For Respondents:

Dr. Adams

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4202-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 213-6/03

K.R.C. AND N.L.C., on behalf of minor child, L.M.U.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SALEM COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, WILLIAM ADAMS AND JOHN CLIFFORD,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioners have failed to meet their burden of demonstrating that respondents' actions in not selecting L.M.U. as a "distinguished student speaker" at graduation were arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law. Further, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds the matter moot given the relief sought by petitioners and the previous denial of their motion for emergent relief.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/14/03

Date of Mailing: 8/15/03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

#477-03

477-03

H.A. DeHART & SONS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST DEPTFORD, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, AND HOLCOMB BUS SERVICES, INC.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, unsuccessful bidder, sought emergent relief enjoining respondent Board from taking further action upon the awarding of a contract for pupil transportation services to respondent bus company, setting aside the award of contract and directing the award to petitioner. Petitioner contended respondent company made changes to its original bid violating the bidding laws.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner should be granted the relief it requested insofar as enjoining the Board from proceeding on the award of the transportation contract to respondent since the legal right for disqualification was settled and the harm to petitioner would be irreparable. The ALJ, however, concluded that awarding the contract to petitioner without an immediate rebidding opportunity for the Board would place an economic burden upon the taxpayers, which may be mitigated through a rebidding for the contract; rebidding eliminates the need to review the contentions of the Third Count of the petition (petitioner did not know that the Board no longer required the successful bidder to bear the cost of a bus route coordinator). The ALJ ordered the bids received on July 17, 2003 rejected and ordered the Board to solicit the receipt of new bids for the 2003-04 school year. The ALJ ordered the remaining issues contained in the petition dismissed as moot.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that, under all of the circumstances, the appropriate resolution of this matter is a prompt rebid, which also serves to moot any remaining matters in dispute.

August 14, 2003

State of New Jersey

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
PO BOX 500
TRENTON, NJ 08625-0500

JAMES E. MCGREEVEY
Governor

WILLIAM L. LIBRERA
Commissioner

August 15, 2003

Thomas H. Ward, Esq.
Albertson Ward
36 Euclid Street
P.O. Box 685
Woodbury, NJ 08096

Robert A. Muccilli, Esq.
Capehart & Scatchard, P.A.
Laurel Corporate Center, Suite 300
8000 Midlantic Drive - C.S. 5016
Mount Laurel, New Jersey 08054

Thomas Cosma, Esq.
Connell Foley LLP
85 Livingston Avenue
Roseland, NJ 07068

Dear Parties:

H.A. DeHART & SONS V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST DEPTFORD, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, AND HOLCOMB BUS SERVICES, INC., AGENCY DKT. NO. 267-7/03, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4918-03

We are enclosing a copy of the decision of the Commissioner of Education dated August 14, 2003, in the above-captioned matter. Appeals of Commissioner decisions, other than State Department of Education employee contractual determinations and matters involving the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, may be filed with the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

Please note that this office is no longer providing courtesy copies of Commissioner decisions directly to represented parties or to the Board Secretary or County Superintendent of Schools.

Additionally, please note that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), the Commissioner's decision is mailed to the parties three days prior to the date it is deemed officially filed. This provides counsel and pro se litigants with the decision before it is made public by the Department. Parties and counsel are requested to refrain from making Commissioner decisions public prior to the filing date. Your cooperation is appreciated.

Very truly yours,

M. Kathleen Duncan

M. Kathleen Duncan, Director
Bureau of Controversies and Disputes

MKD/cc:o/dec ltr/HADeHartSons.doc
Enclosure

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION ON MOTION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 4918-03
AGENCY REFERENCE NO. 267-7/03

H.A. DeHART & SONS,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST DEPTFORD, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, AND HOLCOMB BUS SERVICES, INC.,

Respondent.

Thomas H. Ward, Esq., appeared for petitioner (Albertson Ward, attorneys)

Robert A. Muccilli, Esq., appeared for respondent, Board of Education of the Township of West Deptford (Capehart & Scatchard, attorneys)

Thomas S. Cosma, Esq., appeared for respondent, Holcomb Bus Services, Inc. (Connell Foley, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 6, 2003 Decided: August 6, 2003

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner ("DeHart") seeks emergent relief enjoining respondent, Board of Education of the Township of West Deptford ("West Deptford") from taking further action upon the awarding of a contract for Pupil Transportation Services ("Contract") to respondent, Holcomb Bus Service, Inc. ("Holcomb"), setting aside the award of said Contract to Holcomb, directing the award of the Contract to DeHart, and for costs of suit and other just and equitable relief.

DeHart's verified petition for emergent relief was filed with the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, on July 30, 2003 and then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 1, 2003 for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. West Deptford's Answer, Affidavit of William H. Thompson, and Brief were filed August 5, 2003. Oral argument was presented on August 6, 2003 at the Office of Administrative Law. Upon conclusion of testimony of the parties a verbal opinion in accordance with the terms of the Initial Decision was given. The hearing record closed August 6, 2003.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The Petition and Answer address three counts. This decision addresses only the First Count because the allegations of the Second Count and Third Count are rendered moot by the Order contained herein. Further, a plenary hearing would be required because the material facts of the latter Counts are in dispute.

The material facts relative to the First Count of the Petition are not in dispute. On or about July 7, 2003, West Deptford issued Bid Specifications for Pupil Transportation Services for the 2003-2004 School Year (Exhibit A of the Petition, a/k/a Exhibit P-1). Among the documents contained in the Bid Specifications was a multi-page Bid Sheet. The first page of the Bid Sheet contained the following statements:

$ Bids which do not include an adjustment amount will not be accepted.

$ The following routes and aide/attendant (if applicable) are to be bid on a PER DIEM basis.

$ Routes which require an aide are so indicated by an asterisk(*).

Seven columns followed the introduction:

Tier Number	Route Number	Route Cost (without aide)	Tier Cost	Increase/Decrease Adjustment Cost	Per Diem Aide/Attendant Cost (if applicable)	Tier cost Including Aide (if applicable)

Because the dispute in this matter arises from Holcomb's responses to Route 308 and 310, a copy of the Route Description provided in the Bid Specifications for those routes were submitted as Exhibit D to the Petition (Exhibit P-2). The Route Descriptions list as "Special Instructions" for Route Nos. 308 and 310 "Aide."

Bids were returned on July 17, 2003 by DeHart and Holcomb. DeHart's proposal totaled $1,401,416.28 and Holcomb's bid was $1,287,276.00. Holcomb's Bid Sheet for both Route Nos. 308 and 310 were Route Cost $57.00, Increase/Decrease Adjustment Cost $1.00, and Per Diem Aide/Attendant Cost (if applicable) $ N/A. (See Exhibit A attached to Answer, a/k/a R-1). DeHart's Bid Sheet (Exhibit D attached to Answer, a/k/a R-2) shows DeHart's figures were $45.00, $1.25, and $20.00 for Route Cost, Increase/Decrease Adjustment Cost, and Per Diem Aide/Attendant Cost (if applicable) for Route No. 308. The Route Cost for Route No. 310 was $66.00 with the other 2 items being $1.25 and $20.00, respectively.

Upon the opening of the bids DeHart protested Holcomb's bid. West Deptford alleges Holcomb promptly verbally advised West Deptford that Holcomb was not charging for the cost of an aide for Route Nos. 308 and 310. Five days later Holcomb addressed a letter to West Deptford (Exhibit B attached to the Petition, a/k/a R-3) stating, "Holcomb Bus Service, Inc. will not be charging for the aides on these routes [308 and 310]."

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

DeHart contends that the award by West Deptford of its Public Transportation Services Contract to Holcomb violated the public bidding laws of New Jersey and the terms of the Department of Education Regulations for transportation services. The bid sheet which is one of the "documents and forms" required "to be made part of the bid specifications and of the contract" "shall include a separate per diem cost for each aide to be assigned to the route." N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.3(e)1ii. DeHart further suggests that N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.8(c) was violated by West Deptford's consideration of Holcomb's verbal response during the bid opening and its July 22 letter; both of which should be considered as changes to the original bid.

Counsel for West Deptford argued that Holcomb's "N/A" was "understood" by the Board to mean that because no per diem cost was to be charged; the requirement to specify "$0" was neither necessary nor appropriate. To respond "not applicable" was reasonable under the circumstances. Counsel for Holcomb emphasized that Holcomb's bid was not defective because Holcomb did not leave the space empty as was the case in L. Pucillo & Sons, Inc. v. Mayor of New Milford, 73 N.J. 349 (1977), and Hall Construction Co., Inc. v. New Jersey Sports & Exposition Authority, 295 N.J. Super. 629 (App. Div. 1996).

"Where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision . . . emergency relief pending a final decision on the whole case may be ordered upon the application of a party." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(a). Described in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982), as "principles, rules or tests" to guide a court in "the most sensitive exercise of judicial discretion," four findings must be made: "a preliminary injunction should not issue except when necessary to prevent irreparable harm, . . . the legal right underlying [petitioner's] claim is [settled], . . . all material facts are uncontroverted, and . . . [weighing] the relative hardship to the parties [who suffer more] . . .". These "fundamental principles" are better stated in Ispahani v. Allied Domecq Retailing USA, et al., 320 N.J. Super. 494, 498, (App. Div. 1999), "To obtain a preliminary injunction, the applicant must establish that he will suffer irreparable injury if the relief is denied, that his claim is based on a settled legal right, that the material facts are substantially undisputed, and that the harm to him if the injunction is denied will be greater than the harm to the opposing party if the injunction is granted."

I CONCLUDE that DeHart should be granted the injunctive relief it requested insofar as enjoining West Deptford from proceeding on the awarding of the Pupil Transportation Services Contract to Holcomb. However, I CONCLUDE that awarding the Contract to DeHart without an immediate re-bidding opportunity for West Deptford will place an economic burden upon the taxpayers of West Deptford, which may be mitigated through a re-bidding for the Contract. Counsel for West Deptford represents that it will be able to re-publish its request for bids, receive and open those bids, and award the Contract in time to meet the September 4, 2003 start date. That the re-bidding process also disposes of DeHart's objection that it did not know that West Deptford no longer required the successful bidder to bear the cost of a bus route coordinator (Third Count) and should result in a lower bid from DeHart should not be overlooked. Re-bidding disposes of the entire controversy without the need for a plenary hearing.

In arriving at the aforesaid conclusion I first CONCLUDE that Holcomb's bid must be set aside, the legal right for disqualification being settled.

"Bidding statues are for the benefit of the taxpayers and are to be construed as nearly as possible with sole reference to the public good. Their objects are to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance and corruption, their aim is to secure for the public the benefits of unfettered competition. To achieve these purposes all bidding practices which are capable of being used to further corrupt ends or which are likely to affect adversely the bidding process are prohibited, and all awards made or contracts entered into where any such practice may have played a part, will be set aside." Terminal Construction Corporation v. Atlantic County Sewerage Authority, 67 N.J. 403, 409-410 (1975). "The long standing judicial policy in construing cases governed by the Local Public Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 40A:11-1 et seq. and its predecessors, has been to curtail the discretion of local authorities by demanding strict compliance with public bidding guidelines." L. Pucillo v. Mayor and Council of Borough of New Milford, supra, 73 N.J. at 356. Allowing West Deptford the discretion of what it understood "N/A" to mean frustrates judicial policy.

Respondents emphasize that Holcomb did not leave the space blank or empty, but in fact, responded to indicate that no charge would be made. However, the title of the column "Per Diem Aide/Attendant Cost" also included the parenthetical "if applicable." The specifications defined aide/attendant cost to be applicable; it is neither unreasonable nor undebateable that Holcomb could use the ambiguous – and contrary to specifications – N/A to withdraw its bid on the grounds of obvious error or oversight. "A deviation is material if: (1) waiver of such defect deprives the purchase of its assurance that the contract will be entered into, performed, and guaranteed according to the specified requirements and (2) it adversely affects the competitive bidding process by placing a bidder in a position of advantage over other bidders or by otherwise undermining the necessary common standard of competition." Hall Construction Co., Inc. New Jersey Sports & Exposition Authority, supra, 295 N.J. Super. At 637. "Material conditions contained in the bidding specifications cannot be waived by the contracting authority." Ibid. ". . . [A]dvertised conditions whose waiver is . . . capable of affecting the ability of the contracting unit to make bid comparisons, are the kind of conditions which may not under any circumstances be waived." Terminal Construction Corporation v. Atlantic County Sewerage Authority, supra., 67 N.J. at 412.

I CONCLUDE that the harm to DeHart should emergent relief not be granted is irreparable; "it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages." Crowe v. DeGioia, supra. 90 N.J. at 133. The final test is relative hardship. West Deptford indicates that it can meet its obligation to transport it students by immediately re-instituting the bidding process. As alluded to at the outset of this decision, re-bidding eliminates the need to review the contentions of the Third Count of DeHart's Petition. The aura of favoritism and unfairness alleged to have resulted from West Deptford's removal of the bus coordinator from the obligations of the successful bidder will be removed with all parties being aware of all of the circumstances for performing the Contract.

Note is made of the request of counsel for Holcomb for a stay of the implementation of this decision. I denied the request because it should be addressed in the Final Decision of the Commissioner.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Board of Education of the Township of West Deptford is permanently enjoined from taking further action upon a Contract for Public Transportation Services based upon the bids received on July 17, 2003. It is further ORDERED that the bid's received on July 17, 2003 are deemed rejected. It is further ORDERED that the Board of Education of the Township of West Deptford forthwith solicit the receipt of new bids for Public Transportation Services for the 2003-2004 School Year. It is finally ORDERED that upon the implementation of this Order, the remaining issues contained in the Petition are moot and are DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

August 6, 2003
DATE

ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

DATE

Mailed to Parties:

DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

/tmp

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4918-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 267-7/03

H.A. DeHART & SONS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST DEPTFORD, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, AND HOLCOMB BUS SERVICES, INC.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision on Motion for Emergent Relief of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Although applicable rules make no provision for the filing of exceptions to Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Orders on motion for emergent relief, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, Respondent Holcomb's submission of August 12, 2003[1] has been considered by the Commissioner in rendering his decision herein, as has the Board's submission of August 13, 2003, since the ALJ's decision also serves as the OAL's recommended Initial Decision on the merits pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3.

Upon review and consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, regardless of what Respondent Holcomb's intent may have been, its bid as actually submitted is not properly responsive to published specifications governing aides for the designated bus routes.[2] The Commissioner further concurs that, under all of the circumstances, the appropriate resolution of this matter is a prompt rebid, which also serves to moot any remaining matters in dispute.

[1] Respondent Holcomb's submission seeks a "stay" of the ALJ's Order to reject all bids and rebid the contract at issue. However, since the ALJ's ruling serves as a recommendation to the Commissioner and is, in itself, of no force and effect, respondent's submission is considered as exceptions to the Initial Decision, to be considered by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 before rendering a final decision. The Board objects to Holcomb's request for "stay" and urges the Commissioner to decide the matter without delay, but excepts to the ALJ's recommended order on grounds that any "defect" in Holcomb's bid, which the Board does not concede, was not material.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law, directing timely rebid of the contract in dispute and dismissing the remainder of the Petition of Appeal as consequently moot, is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/14/03

Date of Mailing: 8/15/03

[2] In this regard, the Commissioner notes that Holcomb's entries in the "Per Diem Aide/Attendant Cost (If Applicable)" column for routes 308 and 310 ("$ N/A") are identical to its entries on routes where the Board did not require an aide or attendant.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

478-03

#478-03

N.A., on behalf of minor child, J.A.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

August 14, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
SETTLEMENT
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1598-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 487-12/01

N.A. on behalf of minor child, J.A.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON,
Respondent.

N.A., pro se, petitioner

Anthony V. D'Elia, Esq., for respondent
(Chasan, Leyner, Bariso & Lamparello, P.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: July 8, 2003 Decided: July 9, 2003

BEFORE: ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ

On or about December 3, 2001, petitioner, N.A., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, challenging respondent's residency determination in regard to his nephew, J.A. On January 16, 2002, respondent filed its answer seeking dismissal of the petition and counterclaiming for tuition for the period of ineligible attendance. On February 5, 2002, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case for a hearing, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on February 22, 2002, and a telephone prehearing conference scheduled for April 29, 2002. A telephone conference was held on April 30, 2002 and, based upon a possible resolution of this matter, the prehearing conference was adjourned. The prehearing conference was rescheduled and held on July 29, 2002, during which the issues were isolated and a hearing scheduled for January 27and 28, 2003 at the OAL. On January 27, 2003, the parties appeared and settlement discussions were held. Due to a probable settlement of this matter, the hearing was adjourned. Since the settlement agreement was not forthcoming, the matter was rescheduled for hearing on July 8, 2003 at the OAL. As the result of settlement conferences held between the parties on that date, a settlement was reached and the hearing was not held.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement and Board Resolution, indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

July 9, 2003
DATE

Elinor R. Reiner
ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7-11-03
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan/CS

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 14 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

al

CHASAN, LEYNER, BARISO & LAMPARELLO, P.C.
300 HARMON MEADOW BOULEVARD
SECAUCUS, NEW JERSEY 07094-3621
201-348-6000
ATTORNEYS FOR Respondent, Clifton Board of Education
08550-0001

NA o/b/o JA

Plaintiff(s).

vs.

BOARD OF EDUCATION
CITY OF CLIFTON

Respondent(s).

BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DOCKET NO.: 01598-02N

AGENCY REFERENCE NO.: 487-12/01

Civil Action

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The matter and things in controversy having been discussed by and between the parties, and the parties having agreed as follows:

It is on this 8 day of July, 2003, stipulated by and between the parties as follows:

1. Petitioner agrees to pay the sum of $4,000.00, which sum Respondent agrees to accept in full settlement of its counterclaim herein.

2. The sum aforesaid shall be paid for by Respondent to Karen Perkins, Business Administrator, Clifton Board of Education, 745 Clifton Avenue, Clifton, N.J. 07111 in the following manner:

(a) 30 equal monthly payments beginning with the month of ~~March~~ August, 2003;

(b) All payments to be due on the first of each month;

NA

(c) In the event Petitioner fails to pay in accordance with the terms set forth in this Stipulation then, and in that event, Respondent shall be entitled to obtain the entry of a judgment against Petitioner, Neil Angelino, ex parte in the sum of $4,000.00 (giving ~~Respondent~~ Petitioner and credit for any sum actually paid pursuant to the terms of this Stipulation) along with interest at the maximum rate allowable by law, retroactive to ~~March~~ August 1, 2003 on any unpaid amount plus reasonable attorney fees and costs of suit incurred in obtaining this Stipulation and executing any judgment which may be obtained in accordance with this sub-paragraph;

3. In the event of default of the aforesaid, Respondent shall be entitled to obtain the entry of judgment upon ex parte application with supporting Certification and with notice to the Petitioner, Neil Angelino, only in the form of the application addressed to Neil Angelino, ~~127 East 6th Street~~ 14 Vasser Rd. Newfoundland NJ 07435, ~~Clifton~~, ~~N.J. 07011~~, by First Class Mail, postage prepaid.

4. All claims / counterclaims are hereby withdrawn and dismissed.

We hereby understand the terms of this Agreement and consent and agree to the terms as described herein.

Neil Angelino
Dated: 7/8/03

Marie L. Hakim
Marie Hakim, President
Clifton Board of Education
Dated: 2/12/03

Anthony V. DeLa
Attorney for Clifton Board of Education
2h 7/8/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION
CLIFTON, NEW JERSEY 07013
RESOLUTION #2/12/03 - C

APPROVAL TO SETTLE PENDING APPEAL
"NA ON BEHALF OF JA VS. THE CLIFTON BOARD OF EDUCATION"

WHEREAS, the Clifton Board of Education has determined that it is in their best interest to settle the pending appeal "NA on Behalf of JA vs. the Clifton Board of Education";

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of Education agrees to the terms of settlement as follows:

1.) Petitioner agrees to pay the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000.00), which sum the respondent agrees to accept in full settlement of its counter-claim.

2.) The aforesaid sum shall be paid by respondent to our Business Administrator in thirty (30) equal monthly payments beginning with the month of March, 2003. All payments are due on the first of each month. In the event that the petitioner fails to pay in accordance with this agreement then the respondent (Board) shall be entitled to obtain the entry of a judgement in the Superior Court of New Jersey against the petitioner in the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000.00), giving the petitioner credit for any sum actually paid along with interest at the maximum rate allowable by law, retroactive to March 1, 2003 on any unpaid amount, plus all reasonable attorney's fees in the course of the suit incurred in obtaining this settlement agreement and executing any civil judgement which may be obtained.

Introduced by John M. Traier

Second by James A. Leeshock

DATE: February 12, 2003

VOTE: YES: Bernstein,Demikoff,Hakim,Kolakowsky,Kolodziej,Leeshock,Smith & Traier
ABSENT: Kurnath

ATTEST:

Karen L. Pinkus
Secretary/Business Administrator

PRESIDENT Marie L. Hakim

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1598-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 487-12/01

N.A., on behalf of minor child, J.A.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Stipulation of Settlement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed. Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/14/03

Date of Mailing: 8/15/03

479-03

#479-03

MARK STEINBRICK,

PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SHORE REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

August 15, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
DISMISSAL FOR FAILURE TO PROSECUTE
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4773-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 315-8/01

MARK STEINBRICK,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF SHORE REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Respondent.

Stephen B. Hunter, Esq., for petitioner (Klausner, Hunter & Rosenberg, attorneys)

Gregory W. Vella, Esq., for respondent (Tucci and Collins, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 10, 2003 Decided: July 10, 2003

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This is an appeal by the petitioner from the allegation that the respondent school district's decision not to renew his employment for the 2001 school year was based upon arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable grounds. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13, on August 15, 2001. The case was scheduled before me for a telephone prehearing conference to be conducted on November 16, 2001. The matter was adjourned in advance at the request of counsel. My chambers was advised by counsel for Mr. Steinbrick that he had spoken to counsel for the district and a settlement of the parties' issues was arrived at and would be submitted to my office for review and for an issuance of a decision approving it. In the alternative, it was my understanding that Mr. Hunter suggested his desire might be to withdraw the appeal. To date, I have never heard from either party again nor have I received any documents in regard to this case.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the above-entitled appeal be and is hereby DISMISSED with prejudice for failure to prosecute.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

7/10/03
DATE

STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7/11/03
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 16 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

cmo

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4773-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 315-8/01

MARK STEINBRICK,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SHORE REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that this matter is properly dismissed for failure to prosecute. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/15/03

Date of Mailing: 8/18/03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

480-03

#480-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD, UNION COUNTY,

PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT BEACH, OCEAN COUNTY AND THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SUMMIT, UNION COUNTY,

RESPONDENTS.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

August 15, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
PARTIAL SETTLEMENT
OAL DKT. No. EDU 5987-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 184-6/02

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD, UNION COUNTY,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT BEACH, OCEAN COUNTY AND THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SUMMIT, UNION COUNTY,

Respondent.

Thomas O. Johnston, Esq., for petitioner
(Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, attorneys)

Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General, for New Jersey State Department of Education, respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Kevin B. Riordan, Esq., for Point Pleasant Beach Board of Education, respondent (Berry, Sahradnik, Kotzas, Riordan & Benson, attorneys)

Arla Cahill, Esq., for Summit Board of Education, respondent
(Schenck, Price, Smith & King, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 28, 2003 Decided: July 7, 2003

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the New Jersey Department of Education on July 26, 2002 as a contested case and concerns the issue of which Board of Education (petitioner Springfield Board or respondents Point Pleasant Beach Board and/or Summit Board) is responsible for the payment of tuition for two children who petitioner claimed were not domiciled in Springfield during the 1999-2000 school year but, instead, were the responsibility of either Point Pleasant Beach or Summit. Following the filing of the petition, answers and crossclaims were filed by the respondents and the matter was scheduled for hearing in April 2003. Those scheduled dates were adjourned when a motion was filed by the Springfield Board for summary decision.

Shortly thereafter, a Stipulation of Dismissal was entered into between the Springfield Board and the Summit Board whereby it was agreed any claims between those two parties would be dismissed but without prejudice to the claims asserted by the petitioner against the remaining respondents, the Department of Education and the Point Pleasant Beach Board.

Accordingly, having reviewed the Stipulation of Settlement which is attached hereto I FIND as follows:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between the Springfield Board and the Summit Board and is consistent with law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the Springfield Board and the Summit Board comply with the terms of the settlement and that the proceedings between those two parties be and are hereby CONCLUDED. However, the issuance of this partial initial decision settlement shall not interfere with the continued processing of the claims between the remaining parties.

I hereby FILE this partial initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

July 7, 2003
DATE

STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

7-10-03
DATE

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 11 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

\mvh

PORZIO, BROMBERG & NEWMAN, P.C.
100 Southgate Parkway
P.O. Box 1997
Morristown, NJ 07962-1997
Attorneys for Petitioner Springfield Board of Education

SPRINGFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION, Petitioner, v. NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, POINT PLEASANT BEACH BOARD OF EDUCATION and SUMMIT BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondents.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW Agency Dkt. No. 184-6/02 OAL Dkt No. EDU 5987-02 STIPULATION OF DISMISSAL WITHOUT PREJUDICE BETWEEN PETITIONER SPRINGFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION AND RESPONDENT SUMMIT BOARD OF EDUCATION

It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between petitioner, Springfield Board of Education, and respondent, Summit Board of Education, that all claims asserted herein between and against the Springfield Board of Education and Summit Board of Education, be and hereby are dismissed without prejudice as against any claims between these respective parties and without costs in favor of or against these respective parties, and that the within Stipulation of Dismissal shall have no affect on the claims asserted herein by the Springfield Board of Education against respondents New Jersey Department of Education and Point Pleasant Beach Board of Education.

SCHENCK, PRICE, SMITH & KING, LLP
Attorneys for Respondent
Summit Board of Education

By: _____
Arla Cahill
An Attorney of the Firm

Dated: 4/30/03

PORZIO, BROMBERG & NEWMAN, P.C.
Attorneys for Petitioner
Springfield Board of Education

By _____
Thomas O. Johnston
An Attorney of the Firm

Dated: 5.1.03

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5987-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 184-6/02

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.		COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT BEACH, OCEAN COUNTY AND THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SUMMIT, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record and notice of dismissal, as to respondent Summit Board of Education, transmitted by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. It is noted that this matter was characterized as a partial Settlement, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, by the Administrative Law Judge in his Initial Decision. The Commissioner determines that because no settlement terms were brought to the record and the document appended to the decision is an advisement of dismissal, this matter is more appropriately categorized as a withdrawal as to this respondent under N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2. The Commissioner approves the withdrawal and, consequently the Summit Board of Education is no longer deemed a party in this case.

This matter shall proceed at the OAL with respect to the remaining parties.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/15/03
Date of Mailing: 8/18/03

481-03

#481-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION (IN THE MATTER OF THE DISTRICT'S SUPPLEMENTAL AID APPLICATION)	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

August 18, 2003

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

7/14/03
DATE

STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7/14/03
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

JUL 17 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

cmo

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6197-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 241-6/00

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION (IN THE MATTER OF THE DISTRICT'S SUPPLEMENTAL AID APPLICATION)	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that this matter is properly dismissed for failure to prosecute.[1]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/18/03

Date of Mailing: 8/18/03

[1] Because this agency is a party to the present matter, had a settlement been effectuated pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(c), it would have been deemed the final decision in this matter. N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(d).

[2] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

482-05

#482-03

HOPE SANKER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

August 18, 2003

State of New Jersey

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7572-01

Agency Dkt. No. 307-7/01

HOPE SANKER,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, BERGEN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Alfred F. Maurice, Esq., for petitioner
(Springstead & Maurice, attorneys)

Rodney T. Hara, Esq., for respondent
(Fogarty and Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 29, 2003 Decided: July 11, 2003

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on August 31, 2001 for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The parties entered into an agreement and have prepared a settlement letter, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the correspondence and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to a settlement of this matter.

2. The correspondence fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(d) and should be approved. I approve the stipulation of settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the agreement.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

July 11, 2003
DATE

MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

July 16, 2003
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan (Ca)
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:
ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

JUL 17 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

cb

Springstead & Maurice

Attorneys at Law

JUN 4 2 23 AM '03

Practice Limited to Labor Relations
39 Hudson Street, Hackensack, NJ 07601
(201) 487-1414 OR (201) 343-0003
Telecopier (201) 487-0212

6/20/03
6/23/03

ALFRED F. MAURICE
N.J. & Fl. Bars

HAROLD N. SPRINGSTEAD, L.L.M.
(certified criminal trial attorney)

LAUREN E. MCGOVERN

May 29, 2003

Honorable Mumtaz Bari-Brown, ALJ
Office of Administrative Law
33 Washington Street
Newark, New Jersey 07102

Re: Hope Sanker v. Englewood Cliffs Board of Education
Agency Ref. No. 307-7/01, OAL Docket No. EDUOR 07572-01N

Dear Judge Bari-Brown:

The above-referenced matter has been amicably resolved by the parties. Would you please consider the matter settled and withdrawn by the petitioner.

Thank you for your attention in this regard.

Respectfully,

Alfred F. Maurice

Cc: Fogarty & Hara, Esqs. (201) 791-3432
Ms. Hope Sanker

OAL DKT. NO EDU. 7572-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 307-7/01

HOPE SANKER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and notice of dismissal transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. It is noted that this matter was characterized as a Settlement, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, by the Administrative Law Judge in her Initial Decision. The Commissioner determines that because no settlement terms were brought to the record and the document appended to the decision is an advisement of withdrawal, this matter is more appropriately categorized as a withdrawal under N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2. The Commissioner approves the withdrawal and, consequently, this matter is no longer deemed to be a contested matter before him and is, accordingly, dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/18/03

Date of Mailing: 8/18/03

483-03

#483-03

D.B., on behalf of minor child, J.S., :

PETITIONER, :

V. :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

August 18, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
SETTLEMENT
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11227-02
Agency Dkt. No. 312-10/02

D.B. o/b/o minor child, J.S.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

Keith O.D. Moses, Esq., for petitioner

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: July 1, 2003 Decided: July 11, 2003

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on December 31, 2002 for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The parties entered into an agreement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to a settlement of this matter.

2. The Stipulation of Settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(d) and should be approved. I approve the stipulation of settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the agreement.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

July 11, 2003
DATE

EDITH KLINGER, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

July 16, 2003
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan (Ex)
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

JUL 17 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

cb

Stephen J. Christiano
Attorney for Respondent
49 Mt. Pleasant Avenue
West Orange, NJ 07052
(973) 736-1636

BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY
OAL DOCKET NO. EDU-11227-02

D.B., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.S.,

Petitioner,

vs.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties having amicably adjusted the differences between them, it is hereby stipulated as follows:

(1) Petitioner withdraws his petition of appeal.

(2) Respondent withdraws its counterclaim for tuition charges.

(3) J.S. shall be permitted to attend West Orange High School so long as all school residency requirements continue to be met.

(4) Petitioner shall provide respondent with a copy of the custody order for J.S. as soon as possible.

(5) Petitioner agrees to pay respondent the sum of $1,500 in full settlement of all tuition charges. Payment shall be made in five (5) monthly installments of $300. The first installment is due June 15, 2003, and the succeeding installments will be due on the fifteenth day of each month thereafter. If petitioner defaults on any of the payments ("default" meaning failure to make a payment within 10 days of its due date), respondent shall be entitled to the entire amount of tuition for the period of J.S.'s school attendance in West Orange during the 2002-2003 year, less any payments made.

(6) This settlement is subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education. If the Commissioner rejects this settlement, any tuition payments heretofore made by petitioner shall be refunded by respondent.

(7) The parties, upon completion of the terms of this settlement, do mutually release the other party, including agents, employees, heirs, executors, personal representatives and assigns, from all claims, demands, damages, causes of action or suits which could have been made, have been made or might have been made with respect to the events giving rise to this action.

(8) This stipulation of settlement constitutes the entire agreement of and understanding between the parties.

Dated:

Derrick Bishop, Petitioner

Dated:

Keith O.D. Moses,
Attorney for Petitioner

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE

By: Debbie Haus 6/26/03
President

ATTEST:

Mark A. Young 6/26/03
Secretary

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11227-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 312-10/02

D.B., on behalf of minor child, J.S.,

PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The record, Settlement Agreement and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the Settlement Agreement as the final decision in this matter. In so holding, however, the Commissioner observes that the settlement included with the Initial Decision sets forth terms that were to be effectuated prior to approval of the settlement terms by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The ALJ and the parties are cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement presented to the Commissioner for his review prior to receiving approval from the Commissioner.

The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/18/03

Date of Mailing: 8/19/03

484-03

484 -03

STUDENTS – NONRESIDENT TUITION

SUMMARY OF COMMISSIONER'S DECISION

A.K., on behalf of minor child, R.K. v. Robert E. Smith, Superintendent of Schools and the Board of Education of the Rumson-Fair Haven School District, Monmouth County Petitioning parent challenged the Board's refusal to accept his daughter as a nonresident tuition student.

The matter was dismissed as moot.

August 19, 2003

A.K., on behalf of minor child, R.K.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ROBERT E. SMITH, SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS AND THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RUMSON-FAIR HAVEN SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 107-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 348-11/02

A.K. obo R.K.,

Petitioners,

v.

ROBERT E. SMITH, SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, & THE RUMSON-FAIR HAVEN REGIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondents.

A.K., Esq., father of R.K., for petitioners pro se

Martin M. Barger, Esq., for respondents (Reussille, Mausner, Carotenuto, Barger & Steel, attorneys)

Record closed: July 9, 2003 Decided: July 17, 2003

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner R.K. resides in the district served by the Red Bank Regional (RBR) High School, from which she has now graduated. While a senior in RBR High School during the 2002-03 school year, R.K. applied for admission as a nonresident tuition-paying student to Rumson-Fair Haven Regional (R-FHR) High School and respondent Robert E. Smith, Ed.D., the R-FHR superintendent of schools, denied the application. Petitioners alleged that the denial of the application violated the R-FHR Board of Education's (BOE's) criteria for admission of such applicants and they demanded orders reversing the denial and requiring respondents to provide a written, detailed decision on the application. By March 2003 R.K. had completed requirements for graduation from RBR High School and she entered a college. In responses to discovery demands, respondents described the policy on applications for admission by nonresident students and explained the decision on R.K.'s application. Given R.K.'s graduation, respondents (who deny any wrongful conduct) move for an order dismissing the petition and its claims as moot. Petitioners move for an order allowing an amended petition and for an order allowing additional discovery.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY
AND
FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts and procedural history are interrelated and are set forth together.

Petitioners reside in Little Silver, which is in the district served by RBR High School.

During the 2001-02 school year R.K. was a junior in RBR High School. Two of R.K.'s eight courses were honors courses: in Pre-Calculus Honors she received a final grade of "79" and in Spanish 4 Honors she received a final grade of "86." In A.K.'s four non-honors courses, she received grades in the "80s"; in Family Life II she received a "92"; and in Band Percussion she received a "99." P-2.

Petitioners allege that, during the 2002-03 school year when R.K. was a senior in RBR High School, she had "conflicts of a personal nature" in her school that distracted her from her academic work and "threatened to cause a motivational decline in [her] studies and academic goals." P-1.

R-FHR High School considers applications from nonresidents to be tuition-paying students and the R-FHR BOE's policy states that in considering such an application, the school administrator should consider factors including the student's "potential" and the school's "capacity" so as "not to incur any additional expense." P-2.

In October 2002, A.K. (who is an attorney) spoke with Dr. Smith about R.K. applying for admission as a nonresident tuition-paying student. A.K. alleges that Dr. Smith stated that, when space is available and a non-resident tuition-paying student appears likely to be successful in R-FHR High School, subject to the discretion of the R-FHR BOE, an applicant for admission to the high school may be accepted. A.K. represented that R.K. was an "honors student" at RBR High School. A.K. alleges that Dr. Smith stated that R-FHR High School staff would communicate with RBR High School staff relative to R.K. and that he "expressed confidence that the [R-FHR] guidance department would be able to structure a program for R.K. that would accomplish her goal of high school graduation." P-1. A.K. alleges that Dr. Smith stated that he had authority to accept R.K. (before the BOE could act on the application) and that R.K. could begin classes at R-FHR High School as early as Wednesday, November 6, 2002. P-1.

On October 22, 2002, R.K. submitted her application and on October 31, 2002, Dr. Smith interviewed R.K. Dr. Smith then notified A.K. that A.K.'s RBR High School program was "light" and there may be difficulties in preparing a program at R-FHR High School that meshed with A.K.'s RBR High School program. P-2. Dr. Smith discussed the application with Deborah Connolly, R-FHR High School's supervisor of guidance, who held the opinion that R.K.'s RBR High School courses "could not be duplicated" by R-FHR High School. P-2. Having obtained more information about R.K.'s academic history, Dr. Smith was concerned about several factors: R.K. would need extra service from the R-FHR High School staff to overcome her academic deficit; there would be difficulty meshing A.K.'s RBR High School program with a program at R-FHR High School; and A.K.'s application was made when she was already well into her senior year.

On November 1, 2002, Dr. Smith telephoned A.K. and notified him that he may have been "overly enthusiastic" in first discussing the matter with him and that, given the above-described circumstances, he had denied the application. P-2. A.K. has alleged that, during the November 1, 2002, telephone conversation, Dr. Smith also stated that "extra help" would be needed for R.K. to "catch up" with the R-FHR High School program, which would place an "unreasonable burden" on R-FHR High School. P-1. A.K. requested that Dr. Smith reconsider, but Dr. Smith stated that his decision was final.

On November 6, 2002, the petition was filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. (The petition incorrectly identified Dr. Smith as William E. Smith.) Petitioners contended that respondents' denial was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, and that it violated R.K.'s right to a thorough and efficient education. P-1. R.K. is Asian-American and petitioners also wrote that the denial of the application "raises the question of whether there may be some hidden racial discrimination at work." P-1. Petitioners demanded an order requiring that respondents reconsider the application, writing:

> such reconsideration [should] include a rational, detailed, and written decision based on a sufficiently thorough analysis of R.K.'s educational, academic, intellectual and personal qualifications, and adequate pedagogical consultation with [RBR High School] for the purpose of determining whether R.K. is capable of succeeding in a transfer to [R-FHR High School] and accomplishing her goal of high school graduation this year.
>
> [P-1.]

On November 7, 2002, respondents' answer and defenses were filed with the Department.

On November 14, 2002, the Commissioner issued a letter denying petitioners' motion for emergent relief.

The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on January 15, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On February 24, 2003, I issued a letter scheduling discovery, etc.

By February or March 2003 R.K. had completed the requirements for her high school degree from RBR High School and entered college. However, petitioners did not disclose these circumstances until months later (as detailed below).

In response to discovery demands, respondents provided petitioners with a description of the factors on which respondents rely in acting on applications for nonresident tuition-paying students, as well as copies of records related to R.K.'s application and the denial. P-2.

On June 2, 2003, petitioners filed a motion for orders relative to discovery and a proposed amended petition. Petitioners submitted copies of their discovery demands and the respondents' responses, including answers to interrogatories and copies of documents. Petitioners seek an order allowing additional discovery, e.g., respondents' "prior record of adjudicating applications of non-resident applicants, comparative degree of burdensomeness on the teaching staff of accepting students after the start of the school year, and regarding the school district's non-discrimination policy" and "all Stringed Instrument Ensemble courses" offered at R-FHR High School. P-2.

In the proposed amended petition, petitioners allege that respondents willfully disregarded their policies relative to applications for admission by non-resident students; they contend that the denial of the application was arbitrary, capricious and discriminatory; and they allege that the denial of the application harmed R.K.'s educational career and record, harmed her ability to gain admission into the school of her choice, harmed her self-esteem, and constituted violation of her due process and constitutional rights. P-3. The proposed amended petition demands compensatory damages of $50,000 and punitive damages of $150,000. P-3. (Petitioners did not file a motion for an order allowing the proposed amended petition, but I am treating their submission as such a motion. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3; R. 4:9-1.)

On June 11, 2003, I conferred with A.K. and respondents' attorney. A.K. stated that by February or March 2003 R.K. had completed her requirements for a high school degree from RBR High School and that she had entered a college. Upon learning of R.K.'s circumstances, respondents' attorney represented that he would file a motion for summary decision, dismissing petitioners' claims as moot. I stated that I would defer any decision on petitioners' motion relative to discovery, etc., until I had decided respondents' anticipated motion.

On June 24, 2003, respondents filed their papers in support of their motion to dismiss and in opposition to petitioners' motion for an order allowing the amended petition.

On July 9, 2003, petitioners submitted a letter memorandum in opposition to respondents' motion.

Summary of Facts

R.K. resides in the district served by RBR High School, from which she has now graduated. During the 2001-02 school year, when R.K. was a junior in RBR High School, two of her eight courses were honors courses. In the honors courses she received a "79" and an "86," and in most of her other courses her grades were acceptable, but not very high. Well into the 2002-03 school year, when R.K. was a senior, she applied for admission to R-FHR High School. The R-FHR policy on applications for admission of nonresident tuition-paying students provides that the chief school administrator should consider factors including the student's "potential" and the school's "capacity" so as "not to incur any additional expense." P-2. A.K. represented to the R-FHR superintendent that R.K. was an "honors" student and the R-FHR superintendent was optimistic about R.K.'s chances for admission. However, after obtaining more information about R.K.'s academic history, the R-FHR superintendent was concerned about several factors: R.K. would need extra service from the R-FHR High School staff to overcome her academic deficit; there would be difficulty meshing A.K.'s RBR High School program with a program at R-FHR High School; and A.K.'s application was made when she was already well into her senior year. Consequently, the R-FHR superintendent notified petitioners that he had denied the application. In this litigation, respondents have provided to petitioners information and copies of documents detailing the relevant factors and process of decision-making on R.K.'s application and reasons for the denial. R.K. has received her high school degree from RBR High School and has entered college.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

New Jersey's constitution requires that the Legislature provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in this state between the ages of five an eighteen years. N.J. Const. art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1. The Legislature complies with this requirement by providing for school districts, including regional school districts operated by boards of education, to provide instruction to school-age children residing within their districts. See N.J.S.A. 18A:13-1 to -81.

R.K. resides within the RBR High School district and, consistent with the above-cited laws, RBR High School has provided her with instruction. Petitioners have cited no authority requiring the R-FHR's BOE to provide instruction to R.K., who is not a resident of its district. However, when a public school system accepts applications from school-age children to enter its school as nonresident tuition-paying students, in making a decision on the application fundamental fairness requires that it use reasonable factors and that it notify the applicant of the reasons for a denial of an application. J.A. v. Board of Educ. for S. Orange, 318 N.J. Super. 512, 525-26 (App. Div. 1999).

The BOE's factors for decisions on applications relate reasonably to both the potential for success of the applicant and to the potential burden on the school system. The factors are realistic and equitable. Following A.K.'s representations about R.K.'s academic achievement, when Dr. Smith had more complete information about her academic history, he determined that she would need "extra help" to "catch up" with the R-FHR High School program, which would place an "unreasonable burden" on R-FHR High School. P-1; P-2. Petitioners have not shown that respondents' denial of R.K.'s application was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or that it resulted from invidious discrimination. Dr. Smith spoke with A.K. about the denial and, by way of the discovery process in this case, respondents provided additional information and copies of relevant documents. Respondents thereby provided a reasonably detailed explanation of the factors and process involved in the decision on R.K.'s application. Petitioners have submitted no evidence creating an issue necessitating a trial-type hearing.

R.K. has graduated from her high school and entered college, so petitioners' claims, which are based on her application for admission to the respondents' high school, are also dismissible as moot. Oxfeld v. New Jersey State Bd. of Educ., 68 N.J. 301, 303-04 (1975). A.K. has provided no reasonable basis for his speculation that the denial "raises the question of whether there may be some hidden racial discrimination at work." P-1. That is, petitioners have submitted no evidence showing, e.g., some matter of compelling public importance capable of repetition such that this case should be decided despite its mootness. See In re J.I.S. Landfill, 110 N.J. 101, 104-05 (1988) (citing Matter of Conroy, 98 N.J. 321, 342 (1985); Guttenberg Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Rivera, 85 N.J. 617, 622-23 (1981); Dunellen Bd. of Educ. v. Dunellen Educ. Ass'n, 64 N.J. 17, 22 (1973)).

Relative to petitioners' motion for an order compelling additional responses to discovery demands, etc., respondents have already reasonably complied with petitioners' initial discovery demands. Petitioners' proposed discovery requests information relating to, e.g., respondents' "prior record of adjudicating applications of non-resident applicants, comparative degree of burdensomeness on the teaching staff of accepting students after the start of the school year, and regarding the school district's non-discrimination policy" and relating to "all Stringed Instrument Ensemble courses" offered at R-FHR High School, etc. P-2. An order compelling respondents to expend time and effort complying with such discovery requests would waste public funds.

Relative to petitioners' proposed amended petition, the proposed claims for alleged damages cannot be granted in this administrative education case. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; see J.A. v. Board of Educ. for S. Orange, supra, 318 N.J. Super. at 526.

The motion for summary decision is an efficient means of resolving a contested case, available where there is no genuine issue of material fact that necessitates a trial-type hearing. The movant bears the burden of persuasion that there is no such genuine issue of material fact and, in making such a determination, reasonable inferences are drawn in favor of the objector. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; R. 4:46-1; Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 528-40 (1995); Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-75 (1954). Even where a statute calls for a hearing, where the objector submits no evidence to demonstrate such a genuine issue of material fact, the motion procedure constitutes the hearing and no trial-type hearing is necessary. South Brunswick Asphalt v. Department of Envtl. Protection, No. A-693-98T5 (App. Div. April 10, 2000) (citing Contini v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106, 120-21 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996)), certif. denied, 165 N.J. 487 (2000).

Petitioners have shown no basis in law or in fact for their petition and/or claims or for their proposed amended petition. There is no need for a trial-type hearing here. The BOE's motion must be granted. Petitioners' motions must be denied.

ORDERS

I GRANT the respondents' motion and I ORDER the petition DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I DENY the petitioners' motion for an order allowing amendment of the petition and for orders requiring compliance with petitioners' discovery requests.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

July 17, 2003
DATE

John R. Tassini
JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

July 17, 2003
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 23 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

/lam

EXHIBITS

For Petitioners:

P-1 Petition for Emergent Relief, certified by A.K., November 5, 2002

P-2 Papers in support of A.K.'s motion to compel more specific answers to interrogatories; interrogatories and answers; answer to request for production of documents; Dr. Smith's notes regarding application for admission of R.K.; letter from Deborah Connolly; Nonresident Policy; Non-resident Student Tuition Contract (form); R.K.'s Application for Admission; R.K.'s academic records; petitioners' proposed second set of interrogatories, etc.

P-3 Proposed "First Amended Petition"

For Respondents:

None

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 107-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 348-11/02

A.K., on behalf of minor child, R.K.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ROBERT E. SMITH, SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS AND THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RUMSON-FAIR HAVEN SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of the matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners exceptions were filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and have been fully considered by the Commissioner in his determination herein..

Petitioner excepts, inter alia, to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that this matter is moot. Rather, he argues, "a teenager's due process rights with respect to applying to other school districts which have chosen to accept non-resident applications, is a matter of sufficient public importance to fall under the doctrine of exceptions to mootness." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 17)

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner finds and determines, as did the ALJ, that inasmuch as R.K. graduated from high school in February or March 2003 and now attends college, the debate concerning her admission to Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School as a nonresident, tuition-paying student is academic and moot. Additionally, contrary to the advancement of petitioner, this matter presents no issue of significant public importance or other compelling reason warranting deviation from the general rule against adjudicating moot issues. There being no relief which the Commissioner can grant petitioner herein, the Board's motion for summary decision on the basis of mootness is appropriately granted.[1] This being the case, the Commissioner finds it unnecessary to reach to the discussion of the ALJ or the arguments of the parties which go to the underlying merits of this case.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL, as modified above, is adopted. The instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed as moot.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 19, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 19, 2003

[1] The Commissioner additionally concurs with the ALJ that petitioner's motion to amend his petition to include a claim for damages must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

[2] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

485-03

485-03S

NANCY WILTBANK,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF DEAL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

August 19, 2003

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

July 21, 2003
DATE

Ana C. Viscomi
Ana C. Viscomi, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

July 23, 2003
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan (for)
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 25 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

jck

EXHIBITS

Jointly Submitted

J-1 Stipulation of Dismissal and Settlement Agreement

ZAZZALI, FAGELLA, NOWAK
KLEINBAUM & FRIEDMAN
150 West State Street
Trenton, New Jersey 08608
(609) 392-8172
Attorneys for Petitioner

NANCY WILTBANK, Petitioner, v BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF DEAL, MONMOUTH COUNTY, Respondent.	:BEFORE THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL DOCKET NO.: EDUOR 06672-01S STIPULATION OF DISMISSAL AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This matter having come before this forum on the petition of Nancy Wiltbank, Richard A. Friedman, Esq., appearing, and a response having been submitted by the Deal Board of Education, Honora O'Brien Kilgallen, Esq., appearing, and the school nurse, Marianne Baumann having intervened in the matter, Stephen B. Hunter, Esq., appearing, and the parties having agreed to amicably resolve the issues in dispute, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. That the petitioner, Nancy Wiltbank, shall dismiss the claims asserted in the petition of appeal against the respondent, Deal Board of Education, in consideration of a total settlement amount of $7,500.00, which shall be paid no later than

4a

September 30, 2003; and

2. That the dismissal of the claims asserted in the petition of appeal applies only to Ms. Wiltbank's and Ms. Baumann's present assignments of health and physical education classes, and that Ms. Wiltbank reserves and retains her tenure and seniority rights, so that if additional physical education or health classes become available, or additional physical education or health classes are assigned to any other teaching staff member or to Marianne Baumann, Ms. Wiltbank reserves the right to assert tenure and seniority claims to any such classes, positions, or assignments; and

3. That the terms of this settlement shall be held in the strictest of confidence and that no party to this action shall reveal the terms of this Settlement Agreement to any third parties, except for representatives of the respondent, Deal Board of Education or of the New Jersey Education Association, either verbally or in written form, except to the extent required by law; and

4. That the fully executed original of this Stipulation of Dismissal and Settlement Agreement shall be submitted to the Office of Administrative Law and that each of the parties shall receive and obtain one fully executed copy of this document for their respective files.

KILGALLEN & KILGALLEN, LLP

By: _____
Honora O'Brien Kilgallen, Esq.
Attorney for Respondent

Dated: 6/18/03

ZAZZALI, FAGELLA, NOWAK, KLEINBAUM & FRIEDMAN

By: _____
Richard A. Friedman, Esq.
Attorney for Petitioner

Dated: 6/13/03

ZAZZALI, FAGELLA, NOWAK, KLEINBAUM & FRIEDMAN
A PROFESSIONAL CORPORATION
ATTORNEYS AT LAW

KLAUSNER & HUNTER

By: Stephen B. Hunter
Stephen B. Hunter, Esq.
Attorney for Mary Ann Baumann

Dated: 6/20/03

ZAZZALI, FAGELLA, NOWAK,
KLEINBAUM
& FRIEDMAN
A PROFESSIONAL CORPORATION
ATTORNEYS AT LAW

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6672-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 384-9/01

NANCY WILTBANK,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF DEAL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

The record, Stipulation of Dismissal and Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms* and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 19, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 20, 2003

* The Commissioner is, however, compelled to comment on Term 3 of this agreement. Although the parties may agree between themselves to keep the specific terms of a settlement agreement confidential, they cannot seek to bind the Commissioner or any other individual to such confidentiality. Furthermore, in the absence of a motion to seal the record for good cause shown, Commissioner's decisions and the underlying proceedings are a matter of public record.

486-03

486-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF JUAN SANTIAGO,	:
PATERSON BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	DECISION
	:

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that respondent Board member violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) when dealing with personnel or confidentiality issues (writing a letter to the superintendent requesting the demotion of the assistant superintendent and copying that person's subordinates among other parties). The Commission recommended the penalty of reprimand.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision was restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty, concurred with the Commission's recommendation and, thus, ordered respondent reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

August 19,2003

IN THE MATTER	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
OF	:
	:	Docket No.: C01-03
JUAN SANTIAGO	:
PATERSON BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
PASSAIC COUNTY	:	DECISION
	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The above-captioned matter arises from a complaint filed by Paterson Board of Education (Board) member Joseph Atallo against Board member Juan Santiago alleging that Mr. Santiago violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), (d) and (j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act when he wrote a letter to the superintendent of the Paterson school district requesting that assistant superintendent, Dr. John Sico be demoted from his position and copied Dr. Sico's subordinates.[1]

Mr. Santiago filed an answer to the complaint on February 25, 2003 admitting that he did write the above-referenced letter. Mr. Santiago denies that his actions were in violation of any provision of the Code of Ethics.

The Commission invited the parties to its March 25, 2003 meeting to present witnesses and testimony to aid in the Commission's investigation. Dr. Atallo appeared pro se. Mr. Santiago appeared and was represented by counsel, Gregory Johnson, Esquire. After hearing testimony, the Commission voted at its public meeting to find probable cause to credit the allegation that Mr. Santiago's conduct was in violation of the Code of Ethics section N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j). The Commission found no probable cause to credit the allegation that Mr. Santiago violated N.J.S.A. 18A12-24.1(c) and (d) of the Code of Ethics

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute with respect to the issue upon which it found probable cause and, therefore, the Commission advised the parties that it would decide the matter on the basis of written submissions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.14(b). Mr. Santiago was invited to provide a written submission to the Commission within 30 days of the date of the probable cause decision, May 14, 2003, and set forth why the Commission should not find Mr. Santiago in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) for the above stated action. He was also told that his written submission should include the respondent's position on an appropriate sanction should the Commission determine that the Act was violated.

[1] Although Dr. Atallo did not cite these specific sections, he quoted the language from these provisions.

The Commission did not receive a response from Mr. Santiago. It discussed this matter at its meeting of June 24, 2003 and voted to find Mr. Santiago in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) and recommended a penalty of reprimand.

FACTS

Based on the pleadings, documents and testimony, the Commission found the following facts to be undisputed.

Mr. Santiago became a member of the Paterson Board of Education (Board) in April 2002. At all times relevant to this complaint, he was serving as Board president.

On May 1, 2002, the Panther Academy held an induction ceremony for its new students at the Passaic County Community College (PCCC).[2] The ceremony was planned and organized by Dr. Sico. Several students in the district were honored at the ceremony, including eleven students from the district's school no. 11. Board members Dr. Anthony Davis, Dr. Jonathan Hodges and Dr. Joseph Atallo were present. Mayoral candidate William Kline also attended the ceremony. The superintendent of schools, the building principals from school no. 11 and the other Board members were not officially notified of the event. After the ceremony, a reception was held in the PCCC cafeteria where "Vote for Kline" buttons were made available.

Mr. Santiago discussed the aforementioned events with those Board members who were not formally invited to the ceremony. Mr. Santiago also met with the superintendent of schools, Dr. Edwin Duroy, to advise him that Dr. Sico had engaged in what he believed to be prohibited political activity for school employees. Dr. Duroy recommended that Mr. Santiago set forth his complaint in a letter to him.

In his letter to Dr. Duroy, dated May 3, 2002, Mr. Santiago alleged that Dr. Sico concealed the induction ceremony for new students of the Panther Academy from certain Board members for political purposes. Mr. Santiago further requested that the superintendent demote Dr. Sico from his position as assistant superintendent of schools. The letter was copied to the Board, Dr. Sico, assistant superintendents, building principals, the State Department of Education and the New Jersey School Boards Association.

ANALYSIS

The Commission found a violation to credit the allegation that Mr. Santiago's conduct, particularly in copying Dr. Sico's subordinates on his letter asking the superintendent to demote Dr. Sico, was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j). It provides:

> I will refer all complaints to the chief administrative officer and will act on the complaints after failure of an administrative solution.

[2] The Panther Academy recruits 8th grade students of the Paterson School District and other districts to participate in math and science enrichment courses.

The Commission finds that the board president and superintendent were not properly notified and political activity occurred at the Panther Academy ceremony. Therefore, the Commission does not find any fault with the fact that Mr. Santiago wrote the letter to the chief administrative officer as he requested. Clearly, such action is what N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) contemplates when a board member has or hears a complaint. The Commission finds that a violation of the Code of Ethics occurred; however, when, instead of writing the letter in confidence and waiting for the chief administrative officer's response to the letter, he copied it to the Board, assistant superintendents, building principals, the State Department of Education and the New Jersey School Boards Association. Building principals are school employees under Dr. Sico's supervision. Personnel matters are not supposed to be addressed publicly pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b). Here, Mr. Santiago did not wait for an administrative solution before notifying Dr. Sico's staff and others of his complaint. The Commission concludes that by so doing, Mr. Santiago violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission concludes that Mr. Santiago acted on his complaint prior to the failure of an administrative solution in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members. Due to the conduct that precipitated Mr. Santiago's action, specifically Dr. Sico's failure to properly notify Mr. Santiago of a District-related event and the distribution of political buttons at the event, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, Mr. Santiago may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

Resolution Adopting Decision – C01-03

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties, the documents submitted in support thereof and the testimony presented; and

Whereas, at its meeting of June 24, 2003, the Commission found that Juan Santiago violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) of the Act and recommended that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of reprimand; and

Whereas, the Commission requested that its staff prepare a decision consistent with the aforementioned conclusion; and

Whereas, at its meeting of July 22, 2003, the Commission reviewed the draft decision and agrees with the decision;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter and directs its staff to notify all parties to this action of the Commission's decision herein.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

I hereby certify that this Resolution was duly adopted by the School Ethics Commission at its public meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers
Executive Director

IN THE MATTER OF JUAN SANTIAGO,	:
PATERSON BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	DECISION
	:

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), finding that Juan Santiago, member of the Paterson Board of Education, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j), set forth in the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act, and recommending a penalty of reprimand have been reviewed. Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided 13 days from the mailing date of the decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration.

Comments filed by counsel on behalf of respondent state that he does not disagree with the Commission's decision. He appreciates that, notwithstanding it is common practice for District board members to copy parties on letters sent to the superintendent, particularly with respect to personnel or confidentiality issues, this practice must cease. Respondent understands his action was improper and agrees to accept a letter of reprimand for such action.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record and full consideration of respondent's comments, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied that, in recommending a penalty for the violation found, the Commission fully considered the nature of the offense and weighed the effects of aggravating and mitigating circumstances. Therefore, the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Juan Santiago be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 19, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 20, 2003

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. aned N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

494-05

494-03 SEC

IN THE MATTER OF PAUL	:
BLOCKER, LAWNSIDE BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION
_____	:

August 21,2003

SCHOOL ETICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
PAUL BLOCKER	:
Lawnside Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T03-03
Camden County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Paul Blocker was appointed to a term on the Lawnside Board of Education in September 2001; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing him to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Blocker failed to provide any response to the Order to Show Cause and further failed to attend a June training session; and

/

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Respondent, by letter dated July 15, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, Respondent did not respond to this letter, nor provide any reason for failing to attend the required training program for more than the one year allowed by law; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from September 2001 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds removal from the Board to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend training;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Blocker violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education remove him from the Board of Education herewith.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

LJB/PSC/m:ethics/trainingresT03-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 261-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF PAUL	:
BLOCKER, LAWNSIDE BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION
	:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member did not reply to the Order to Show Cause and further failed to attend a June training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be removed from the Board and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is removed from office as of the filing of this decision.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 21, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 22, 2003

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

495-03

495-03 SEC

IN THE MATTER OF LOUIS SCALDINO, :

LINDEN BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

UNION COUNTY. : DECISION

:

August 21, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
LOUIS SCALDINO	:
Linden Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T28-03
Union County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Louis Scaldino was elected to serve a three-year term on the Linden Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing Respondent to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Scaldino responded and advised Commission staff on July 17, 2003, that he was registered for the October 2003 training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Respondent by letter dated July 15, 2003, that it would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, Respondent provided no reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend through June; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Scaldino fails to attend training by the end of October 2003, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Scaldino violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends, but remove him from the board if he fails to attend by the October training session.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garbarini

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

(LJB/PSC/m:ethicstrainingresT28-03.doc)

AGENCY DKT. NO. 259-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF LOUIS SCALDINO,	:
LINDEN BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
UNION COUNTY.	:	DECISION
	:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member advised that he was registered for the October 2003 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended from the Board until he attends the October 2003 session and removed if he fails to attend the October 2003 session, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training, and, in the event he fails to complete the training session in October 2003, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of that date.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 21, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 22, 2003

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

496-05

496-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF JAY	:
CARTER, BRANCHVILLE BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, SUSSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION
	:

August 21, 2003

AGENCY DKT. NO. 262-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF JAY	:
CARTER, BRANCHVILLE BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, SUSSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION
	:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member did not reply to the Order to Show Cause and further failed to attend a June training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be removed from the Board and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is removed from office as of the filing of this decision.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 21, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 22, 2003

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

497-03

#497-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF RANDIE ZIMMERMAN, :

ROCKY HILL BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SOMERSET COUNTY. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that respondent Board President violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g) by taking private action that compromised the Board, sending letters under her title of Board President and not acting in concert with her fellow Board members. The Commission recommended the penalty of reprimand.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision was restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty, concurred with the Commission's recommendation and, thus, ordered respondent reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

August 21, 2003

IN THE MATTER	:
	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL
OF	:	ETHICS COMMISSION
	:
RANDIE ZIMMERMAN	:	SEC Docket No.: C49-02
ROCKY HILL BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:
SOMERSET COUNTY	:	DECISION
	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaint alleging that Rocky Hill Township Board of Education (Board) member Randie Zimmerman violated the Code of Ethics of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., when she investigated a complaint by a member of the public and drafted a letter that appeared to have the endorsement of her Board. The complaint alleged that Ms. Zimmerman took private action that may compromise the board in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e); used the schools for personal gain or for the gain of friends in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f); failed to provide accurate information in violation N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g); and failed to refer all complaints to the chief administrative officer and act on the complaints at public meetings only after the failure of an administrative solution in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) of the Code of Ethics within the Act.

Ms. Zimmerman filed her answer to the complaint setting forth that she tried to contact the superintendent in order to address her neighbor's concerns, but her calls were not returned. It was only then that she went to the school to investigate the neighbor's concerns and eventually wrote the letter that became the subject of this complaint. She denied having violated any provision of the Code of Ethics.

The Commission discussed the case at its meeting on March 25, 2003. The parties appeared, Ms. Zimmerman with counsel. At its public meeting on that date, the Commission voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations in the complaint that Ms. Zimmerman violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g). The Commission found no probable cause that respondent's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) or (j). The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute and therefore agreed to accept a written submission from Ms. Zimmerman.

The Commission received a timely written submission from Ms. Zimmerman in which she denied having committed any violation of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members. However, in the event that the Commission reaches a different conclusion, she asserted that the lowest sanction of reprimand would be the appropriate penalty.

FACTS

The Commission was able to discern the following facts based on the pleadings, documents submitted and testimony. The Commission found these facts to be undisputed.

At all times relevant to this complaint, complainant Ms. Regan-Seither and Ms. Zimmerman were members of the Rocky Hill Township Board of Education. Ms. Zimmerman has been a member since 1998. Since April 2001, Ms. Zimmerman has served as the president of the Board. Rocky Hill sends all of its students to the Montgomery School District.

On or about September 13, 2002, a parent of a child who is sent to the Montgomery School District and who happens to be a neighbor of Ms. Zimmerman, expressed concerns to Ms. Zimmerman regarding her ill child being placed in a kindergarten classroom that appeared to her to be a large, windowless closet. In response, Ms. Zimmerman tried to contact the superintendent, Dr. Stuart Schnur, but she was unable to reach him.

On September 18, 2002, Ms. Zimmerman personally appeared at the Village School to discuss the matter with the school principal, but the principal refused to see her without an appointment. On September 25, 2003, she informed members of the Board, without having the issue placed on the agenda, that she intended to return to the school on parents' night to see whether the parent's concerns were warranted. The Board did not discuss any specific actions that Ms. Zimmerman would undertake on the Board's behalf nor was there any motion made regarding any such action.

On September 25, 2002, at parents' night, Ms. Zimmerman was informed that one of the parents had drafted a letter to Dr. Schnur. That parent requested that the other parents who were there sign and forward copies of the letter to him. Although complainant alleged that Ms. Zimmerman had the letters at the Board meeting, Ms. Zimmerman testified that she obtained a copy of the letter on computer disk from a parent and printed it out when she went home with her own signature. In any event, she forwarded the parent's letter to Dr. Schnur with a cover letter that she drafted. The parent's letter sets forth that the classroom in question is a converted resource/storage room that has only one exit so the children have no escape route if there is a fire outside the classroom door. The letter further provided that the room has no window for sunlight or fresh air, no ventilation system and has insufficient space for classroom materials and resources. The letter goes on to suggest that Dr. Schnur placed a first year teacher in that room because she would not be able to complain about the situation without risking her job. In her cover letter, Ms. Zimmerman refers to the "substandard kindergarten classroom" and says that the room is an "obvious Fire Code Violation" because there must be two available exits to any classroom." She signed both letters as Rocky Hill

School Board President and, on the parent's letter, copied the school principal, the President of the Montgomery School Board and the Somerset County Superintendent.

In a letter dated October 7, 2002, Dr. Schnur, apparently upset with Ms. Zimmerman's letter, challenged the accuracy of the correspondence and accused her of an ethics code violation. He noted that the room was not a resource/storage room, but a classroom that had been approved by the county superintendent for music instruction in 2001-2002 and for a kindergarten classroom in 2002-2003. In the letter, he also faulted her for representing that she was acting with the knowledge and support of her Board during a conversation that he had with her while she was at the school.

Ms. Zimmerman denies having had such a conversation with Dr. Schnur and believes that this fact is material to the resolution of the case.

ANALYSIS

The Commission found probable cause that Ms. Zimmerman's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), which sets forth:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) of the Code of Ethics sets forth:
>
> > I will recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board.

The Commission found sufficient evidence that Ms. Zimmerman took private action using her position as Board President to create the impression that she was representing the interests of her Board when she complained about the classroom in question. Even if the Commission discounts Dr. Schnur's assertion that Ms. Zimmerman represented to him that she was acting on behalf of her Board, there is sufficient evidence to sustain a finding that Ms. Zimmerman took private action that may compromise the Board. Ms. Zimmerman's writing of such a strongly worded letter and copying the county superintendent could have resulted in the revocation of the use of the room by the county superintendent. The letter that she provided him, referencing an "obvious fire code violation" surely could have compromised the Board and greatly damaged its relationship with the Board's receiving district. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission concludes that Ms. Zimmerman violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e).

Complainant next found probable cause that Ms. Zimmerman violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), which provides:

> I will hold confidential all matters pertaining to the schools which, if disclosed, would needlessly injure individuals or the schools. In all other matters, I will provide accurate information and, in concert with my fellow board members, interpret to the staff the aspirations of the community for its school.

The Commission found probable cause that Ms. Zimmerman did not provide accurate information and act in concert with her fellow board members to interpret to the staff the aspirations of the community for its school. Ms. Zimmerman does not dispute that, particularly while serving as board president, she has the duty to provide accurate information. The classroom had received approval from the Department of Education and was not a fire code violation. Yet, Ms. Zimmerman called the room substandard and "an obvious fire code violation." She further signed the letter as Board President and proceeded to copy the Montgomery Board of Education and the County Superintendent on the parent's letter, which further suggested that Dr. Schnur placed a first year teacher in that room because she could not complain about the situation without risking her job. The Commission concludes that she did not provide accurate information. Further, she did not discuss these strong allegations with her own Board or give the administration opportunity to address the concerns raised. Therefore, she did not act in concert with her fellow board members to interpret to the staff the aspirations of the community for its school. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Ms. Zimmerman violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the School Ethics Commission concludes that Ms. Zimmerman violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g) of the School Ethics Act.

The Commission, in determining the appropriate penalty, considered the fact that Ms. Zimmerman was trying to do the right thing in making inquiries on behalf of a constituent. However, by signing the negative letter of the parents as if it were her own and adding her title of Board President, she went too far and violated the Code of Ethics. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Paul C. Garbarini
Chairperson

Resolution Adopting Decision – C49-02

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties, the documents submitted in support thereof and the testimony; and

Whereas, at its meeting of June 24, 2003, the Commission found probable cause to credit the allegations that Respondent violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g); and

Whereas, after considering Respondent's submission in response to the finding of probable cause, the Commission determined that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g) of the Act; and

Whereas, the Commission requested that its staff prepare a decision consistent with the aforementioned conclusion; and

Whereas, the Commission has reviewed the decision and agrees with the decision;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter on July 22, 2003 and directs its staff to notify all parties to this action of the Commission's decision herein.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

I hereby certify that this decision was adopted by the School Ethics Commission at its public meeting on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers
Executive Director

AGENCY DKT. NO. 249-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF RANDIE ZIMMERMAN, :
ROCKY HILL BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SOMERSET COUNTY. : DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), including the recommended penalty of reprimand, have been reviewed. Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided 13 days from the mailing of such decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. Respondent submitted no comments.

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon Respondent Randie Zimmerman, President of the Rocky Hill Board of Education, based on findings of fact and conclusions of law by the Commission that she violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e) of the School Ethics Act by taking private action using her position as Board President to create the impression that she was representing the interests of her Board, and that she violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(g) of the School Ethics Act for not providing accurate information and for not acting in concert with her fellow Board members to interpret to the staff the aspirations of the community for its school.

Initially, it must be emphasized that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner. Only the School Ethics Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of a violation by the School Ethics Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to review of the recommended penalty and its implementation.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied that, in recommending a penalty for the violations it found, the Commission fully considered the nature of the offense and weighed the effects of aggravating and mitigating circumstances. Therefore, the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Randie Zimmerman be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/21/03

Date of Mailing: 8/25/03

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in this matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

498-03

#498-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF STEVEN NICHOLAS,	:
HALEDON BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	DECISION

August 21, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
STEVEN NICHOLAS	:
Haledon Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T25-03
Passaic County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission passed a resolution on March 23, 1999 which states in pertinent part,

> Any school board member newly elected or appointed as of April, 1999 and forward, who would have previously been exempted from attending a new board member orientation because of previous service on a board of education prior to June, 1992, is no longer exempt and must attend a new board member orientation conducted by the NJSBA;

and

WHEREAS, Respondent Steven Nicholas was elected to serve a three-term on the Haledon Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was offered in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing Respondent to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Nicholas responded by letters, dated June 30, 2003 and July 14, 2003, generally advising that he attended training before and thus, was "grandfathered" with regard to the training requirement and thus, asked the Commission to reconsider its demand that he be "re-trained," and asked the Commission staff to confirm his previous attendance with his board secretary or NJSBA; and

WHEREAS, in a letter dated July 15, 2003, Respondent was notified by Commission staff that he was required to produce a record of his attendance at a training session between 1992 and July 18, 2003, in order to have this matter dismissed against him, and that without such proof, this matter would be considered at the Commission's meeting on July 22, 2003, where Respondent was invited to be heard, but, that he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act; and,

WHEREAS, the Commission was able to confirm that Respondent attended an NJSBA training conference in 1987, through representatives at the NJSBA, but was unable confirm his attendance at any training session since the inception of the School Ethics Act in 1992; and

WHEREAS, Respondent's attendance at a training session prior to June 1992 does not warrant his exemption to the training requirement, pursuant to the Commission's March 23, 1999 Resolution, and

WHEREAS, the Commission has considered Respondent's reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a per se violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Nicholas fails to attend by the end of October 2003, the Commission finds it appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Nicholas violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends training, but remove him from the Board if he fails to attend one of the October training sessions.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

ljb/psc/m:ethics/trainingresT25

AGENCY DKT. NO. 264-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF STEVEN NICHOLAS,	:
HALEDON BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member responded by letters of June 30, 2003 and July 14, 2003 asserting that he had attended training before and was, therefore, "grandfathered" with regard to the training requirement and, thus, asked the Commission to reconsider its demand that he be "re-trained," and asked the Commission staff to confirm his previous attendance with his Board secretary or the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA); and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was advised by the Commission by letter of July 15, 2003, that he was required to produce a record of his attendance at a training session between 1992 and July 18, 2003, in order to have this matter dismissed against him, and that without such proof this matter would be considered at the Commission's meeting on July 22, 2003, where he was invited to be heard, but, that he could be found to be in violation of the School Ethics Act; and

Whereas, the Commission confirmed that the above-named Board member had attended an NJSBA training session in 1987, but was unable to confirm his attendance at any training session since the inception of the School Ethics Act in 1992; and

Whereas, the Commission considered the above-named Board member's reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed and determined that his attendance at a training session prior to June 1992 does not warrant his exemption to the training requirement, pursuant to the Commission's March 23, 1999 Resolution; and

Whereas, the Commission found that the above-named Board member's failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a per se violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended from the Board until he attends the October 2003 session and removed if he fails to attend the October 2003 session, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training, and, in the event he fails to complete the training session in October 2003, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of that date.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/21/03

Date of Mailing: 8/25/03

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

499-03

#499-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF MICHAEL BAILEY,:

MONROE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER COUNTY. : DECISION

_____:

August 21, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
MICHAEL BAILEY	:
Monroe Township Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T12-03
Gloucester County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Micheal Bailey was elected to a term on the Monroe Township Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing him to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Bailey failed to provide any response to the Order to Show Cause and further failed to attend a June training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Respondent, by letter dated July 15, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, Respondent did not respond to this letter, nor provide any reason for failing to attend the required training program for more than the one year allowed by law; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from September 2001 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds removal from the Board to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend training;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Bailey violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education remove him from the Board of Education herewith.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

LJB/PSC/m:ethics/trainingresT12-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 265-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF MICHAEL BAILEY,:

MONROE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER COUNTY. : DECISION

_____:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member did not reply to the Order to Show Cause and further failed to attend a June training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be removed from the Board and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is removed from office as of the filing of this decision.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/21/03

Date of Mailing: 8/25/03

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

487-03

487-03 SEC

IN THE MATTER OF WILLIAM EVANS, BELLMAWR BOARD OF EDUCATION, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

August 19, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
WILLIAM EVANS	:
Belmawr Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T05-03
Camden County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, William Evans was elected to serve a three-year term on the Hammonton Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing him to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, he responded and advised that was unable to attend in June due to family obligations but that he would attend the October training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified him by letter dated July 15, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission has considered Respondent's reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend through June; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Evans fails to attend by October 2003, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Evans violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends, but remove him from the board if he fails to attend by the October training session.

Dated: July 24, 2003

Paul C. Gabarini

Paul C. Gabarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

(psc/ljb/m: ethics/trainingresT05-03.doc)

AGENCY DKT. NO. 257-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF WILLIAM EVANS, BELLMAWR BOARD OF EDUCATION, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member advised that he was unable to attend in June due to family obligations but that he would attend the October 2003 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended from the Board until he attends the October 2003 session and removed if he fails to so attend, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training, and, in the event he fails to complete such training by October 2003, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of the date of the October 2003 session.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 19, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 20, 2003

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

488-03

488-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF KIM SCOTT HEINLE, TUCKERTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, OCEAN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

August 19, 2003

SCHOOL ETICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
KIM SCOTT HEINLE	:
Tuckerton Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T23-03
Ocean County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Kim Scott Heinle was elected to serve a three- term on the Tuckerton Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing Respondent to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Heinle responded by letter advising that he was unable to attend in June due to business and family obligations but that he would attend the October training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified him by letter dated July 15, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission has considered Respondent's reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend through June; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Heinle fails to attend by October 2003, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Heinle violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends, but remove him from the board if he fails to attend by the October training session.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

psc/ljb/m:ethics/trainingresT23

AGENCY DKT. NO. 256-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF KIM SCOTT HEINLE, TUCKERTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, OCEAN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member advised that he was unable to attend in June due to business and family obligations but that he would attend the October 2003 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended from the Board until he attends the October 2003 session and removed if he fails to so attend, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training, and, in the event he fails to complete such training by October 2003, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of the date of the October 2003 session.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 19, 2003

Date of Mailing: august 20, 2003

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

489-03

#489-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF LAURETTA	:
BRUNETT, AUDUBON PARK	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
CAMDEN COUNTY.	:
	:

August 20, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
LAURETTA BRUNETT	:
Audobon Park Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T04-03
Camden County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Lauretta Brunett was elected to a three-year term on the Audobon Park Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing Respondent to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Respondent failed to provide any response to the Order to Show Cause and further failed to attend a June training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Respondent, by letter dated July 15, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that she had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, Respondent did not respond to this letter, nor provide any reason for failing to attend the required training program for more than the one year allowed by law; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds removal from the Board to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend training;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Ms. Brunett violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education remove her from the Board of Education herewith.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

LJB/PSC/m:ethics/trainingresT04-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 258-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF LAURETTA BRUNETT, AUDUBON PARK BOARD OF EDUCATION, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of her failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member did not reply to the Order to Show Cause and further failed to attend a June training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be removed from the Board and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendation of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is removed from office as of the filing of this decision.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/20/03

Date of Mailing: 8/21/03

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

500-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF LORI GRUBER, :

MAGNOLIA BOARD OF EDUCATION : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

CAMDEN COUNTY. : DECISION

August 21, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
LORI GRUBER	:
Magnolia Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T07-03
Camden County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Lori Gruber was elected to serve a three-year term on the Magnolia Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

\"WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing Respondent to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Gruber responded and advised that she was unable to attend in June due to health reasons and family obligations but that she would attend the October training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified her by letter dated July 15, 2003, that it would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that she had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission has considered Respondent's reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for Respondent's failure to attend through June; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Respondent fails to attend by October 2003, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have her removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Ms. Gruber violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend her from the Board until she attends, but remove her from the Board if she fails to attend by the October training session.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Gabrinetz
Paul C. G Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers
Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

(ljb/psc/m:ethics/trainingresT07-03.doc)

AGENCY DKT. NO. 263-7/03

IN THE MATI'ER OF LORI GRUBER,	:
MAGNOLIA BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-l.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of her failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member responded and advised that she had been unable to attend a training session due to health reasons and family obligations but that she would attend the October 2003 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended from the Board until she attends the October 2003 session and removed if she fails to attend the October 2003 session, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. lSA:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training, and, in the event she fails to complete the training session in October 2003, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of that date.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 21., 2003

Date of Mailing: August 26, 2003

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-l.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-l.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

501-05

501-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF KEITH KEELER, BLOOMINGDALE BOARD OF EDUCATION, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

August 21, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
KEITH KEELER	:
Bloomingdale Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T24•03
Passaic County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Keith Keeler was appointed to a term on the Bloomingdale Board of Education in June 2001; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing Respondent to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Respondent advised that he was registered for the September 2003 training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified him by letter dated July 15, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

/

WHEREAS, the Commission considered that although Respondent provided no reasons for failing to attend the required training program for more than the one year allowed, he has registered for September 2003 training; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from June 2001 to April 2003 constitutes a violation ofN.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend through June; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Keeler fails to attend by the end of September 2003, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Keeler violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends, but remove him from the board if he fails to attend by the September training session.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garguilo
Paul C. Gairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

(psc/ljb/m: ethics/trainingresT24-03.doc)

AGENCY DKT. NO. 253-7/03

IN THE MATIER OF KEITH KEELER,BLOOMINGDALEBOARD OF EDUCATION, PASSAIC COUNTY.	: : : :	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member advised that he was registered for the September 2003 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended from the Board until he attends the September 2003 session and removed if he fails to attend the September 2003 session, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, by copy of a letter dated August 12, 2003, from the Board's School Business Administrator/Board Secretary, the Commissioner was advised that the above-named Board member resigned his position as a member of the Bloomingdale Board of Education effective August 11, 2003, rendering the issue of Board member training for this individual moot; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that this matter is hereby dismissed as moot.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 21, 2003

Date of Mailing: August 27, 2003

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

502-03

502-03SEC

IN THE MATIER OF DAVID	:
TAWIL, DEAL BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	DECISION
	:

August 21, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
DAVID TAWIL	:
Deal Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T21-03
Monmouth County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seg. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent David Tawil was elected to serve a three- term on the Deal Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing Respondent to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Tawil responded by letter advising that he was unable to attend weekend sessions for religious reasons, which require observance from sunset Friday through sunset Saturday, and certifies that he was in Hong Kong at the time of the one weekday session offered by NJSBA in October 2002. He further states that he will attend the October 2003 weekday training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified him by letter dated July 15, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, the Commission has considered Respondent's reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes aper se violation ofN.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Tawil fails to attend by the end of October 2003, the Commission finds it appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Tawil violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends training, but remove him from the Board if he fails to attend by the October training session.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garbarini x
Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

psc/ljb/m:ethics/trainingresT21

AGENCY DKT. NO. 260-7/03

IN THE MATIER OF DAVID	:
TAWIL, DEAL BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	DECISION
_____	:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. lSA:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. lSA:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-l.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member responded and advised that he would attend the October 2003 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended from the Board until he attends the October 2003 session and removed if he fails to attend the October 2003 session, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, counsel, on behalf of the above-named Board member, states that there were seven training sessions conducted between April 2002 and April 2003, all, except one offered in October, were on Saturdays. Counsel reports that the above-named Board member is unable to attend weekend sessions for religious reasons, which require observance from sunset Friday through sunset Saturday, and he was in Hong Kong on a business trip at the time of the one weekday session offered in October. Counsel further reports that respondent plans to attend the October 2003 weekday training session;

Whereas, under these particular circumstances, the Commissioner finds the Commission's recommended suspension of the above-named Board member at this time an unduly harsh sanction but he agrees with the Commission that if the above-named Board member fails to attend the weekday training session in October, 2003, which provides him ample time to arrange his business and personal affairs, he should be removed from the Board; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member shall satisfy his training obligation by attending the weekday training session in October 2003, and, in the event he fails to complete this training session, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of that date.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: August 2J 2003

Date of Mailing: August 27, 2003

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A. C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

)QLf-()J

11504-03SEC

IN THE MATIER OF SIOBHAN	:
RYAN, BELMAR BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	DECISION
	:

August 21, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
SIOBHAN RYAN	:
Belmar Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T20-03
Monmouth County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Siobhan Ryan was elected to a three-year term on the Belmar Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing Respondent to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Respondent failed to provide any response to the Order to Show Cause and further failed to attend a June training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Respondent, by letter dated July 15, 2003, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that she had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, Respondent did not respond to this letter, nor provide any reason for failing to attend the required training program for more than the one year allowed by law; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a violation ofN.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds removal from the Board to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend training;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Ms. Brunett violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education remove her from the Board of Education herewith.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. G, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. lSA:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

LJB/PSC/m:ethics/trainingresT20-03

)05··-c5

*If*505-03SEC

IN THE MATTER OF ROBERTS. :

CORRENTI, KEARNY BOARD OF :

EDUCATION, HUDSON :

COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

August 21, 2003

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION	:	BEFORE THE
	:	SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
v.	:
	:	RESOLUTION
ROBERTS. CORRENTI	:
Kearny Board of Education	:	SEC Docket No.: T15-03
Hudson County	:
	:

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-21 et seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Robert S. Correnti was elected to serve a three-year term on the Kearny Board of Education in April 2002; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) advises prospective board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit"; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on January 3, 2003 and February 19, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2002 and April 2003 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held in March 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on May 21, 2003, directing him to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Correnti responded and advised that he would attend the October training session and subsequently had the NJSBA confirm that he was registered for the October session by letter dated July 18, 2003; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Respondent that the Commission would discuss this matter at its July 22, 2003 meeting, that he had the right to attend, and could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, Respondent provided no reasons for failing to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that this failure to attend board member training from April 2002 to April 2003 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds suspension to be the appropriate penalty for failure to attend through June; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that if Mr. Correnti fails to attend by October 2003, the Commission finds that it would be appropriate to have him removed from the board;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Mr. Correnti violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education suspend him until he attends, but remove him from the board if he fails to attend by the October training session.

Dated: July 22, 2003

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, the board member may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

I certify that the within Resolution
was duly adopted by the School Ethics
Commission at its Public Meeting
on July 22, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director

AGENCY DKT. NO. 254-7/03

IN THE MATTER OF ROBERTS.	:
CORRENTI, KEARNY BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, HUDSON	:	DECISION
COUNTY.	:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas the Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 21, 2003, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Commission granted an extension for similarly situated board members to attend one of the June training sessions; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member responded and advised that he would attend the October 2003 training session and subsequently had the NJSBA confirm that he was registered for the October session by letter dated July 18, 2003; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on July 22, 2003 to recommend that the above-named Board member be suspended from the Board until he attends the October 2003 session and removed if he fails to attend the October 2003 session, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29;and

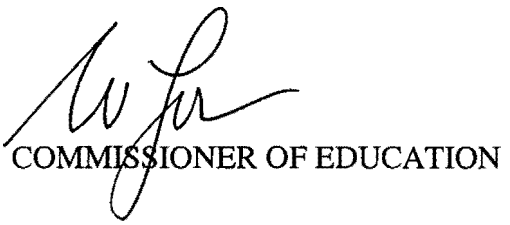
Whereas, on July 29, 2003, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no comments were received from, or on behalf of, the above-named Board member; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training, and, in the event he fails to complete the training session in October 2003, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of that date.*



COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/21/03

Date of Mailing: 8/28/03

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

11506-03

T.A., on behalf of minor children, A.A. & W.A.,:

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

_____:

August 21, 2003

L-1. t[illegible]i<[illegible]-[illegible]i[illegible]ce'lecbfrimends and I so move that the board approve Stipu(a1ion of Settlervieflt in the matter of T.A. o/b/o A.A. and W.A. vs1nfp'(AASBit:} [illegible]Rfo'n Board of Education in accordance with the information in the hands of each board member and recorded in the non-public portion of these minutes.

I CERTIFY THAT THE FOREGOING RESOLUTION WAS ADOPTED BY THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION BOARD OF EDUCATION AT ITS REGULAR MEffiNG ON JULY 15, 2003.

JAMES J. DAMATO
BOARD SECRETARY

!} e_

II

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 01013-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 331-10/02

T.A., on behalf of minor children, A.A. & W.A.,:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

The record, Stipulation of Settlement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 8/21/03

Date of Mailing: 8/28/03

11527-03

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ADAM MUJICA,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION ON REMAND
OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC	:
COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges against respondent teacher alleging that he had, on numerous occasions, made sexually inappropriate remarks and gestures to students including commenting on female students' bodies, discussed his personal sex life, discussed the sexual aspects of a television program and addressed female students by the name of the title character, made sexual gestures and squeezed a sexual toy during class. Respondent denied all charges, and argued that the charges and testimony against him were motivated by a plot conceived by the physical education department to have him terminated from his position.

After hearing extensive testimony and argument and assessing the credibility of the witnesses, the A U concluded that the Board's witnesses were credible and that it had proven Charges one through five and eight, that Charge seven had been partially proven, and that Charges six and nine should be dismissed. The A U further determined that the charges that were sustained constituted conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and, because of the nature of the charges, recommended dismissal of respondent.

The Commissioner adopted the determination of the A U that the Board had sustained most of its charges by a preponderance of the evidence and ordered that respondent be dismissed from his position. The State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's Decision.

The Appellate Division affirmed that the District had proven its charges of unbecoming conduct, but remanded the decision for reconsideration of the penalty.

On remand, the Commissioner reiterated that, even without giving weight to respondent's past, undetermined accusations, the unbecoming conduct established herein warranted his dismissal as a tenured teacher.

September 2, 2003

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10130-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 417-11/00
COMMISSIONER'S DECISION NO. 294-01
STATE BOARD NO. 36-01

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ADAM MUJICA,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION ON REMAND
OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC	:
COUNTY.	:

For the Petitioner: Gregory Johnson, Esq.

For the Respondent: John H. Norton, Esq.

The Commissioner decided this matter on September 7, 2001, adopting the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that respondent, a tenured teacher in the State-operated School District of the City of Paterson, was guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.[1] The Commissioner ordered that respondent be dismissed from his employment as of the date of that decision. The State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision on February 6, 2002. On appeal, the Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's decision that the evidence supported the seven charges of unbecoming conduct, but remanded the matter for reconsideration of the penalty. The Court therein stated:

> In disciplinary actions against public employees, under West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 524 (1962), the employee's past disciplinary record may be considered at the penalty phase only if it resulted in a formally adjudicated action or if the charge was admitted by the employee. Accord, In re Wenderwicz, 195 N.J.

[1] The Commissioner agreed that the District had proven Charges One, Two, Four, Five and Eight and had partially proven Charges Three and Seven.

Super. 126, 134 (App. Div. 1984). (State-operated School District of the City of Paterson v. Adam Mujica, Appellate Division, A-3610-01T5, slip op. at 12-13)

Because the Court determined that the ALJ and the Commissioner "utilized earlier alleged misconduct" against respondent in deciding to dismiss him from his tenured teaching position, (id. at 11), and since neither of the past charges had been adjudicated against respondent at the time of his hearing on the tenure charges, the Court remanded this matter for reconsideration of respondent's penalty, "without any weight given to the past, undetermined accusations." (Id. at 13)

Upon reconsideration of the appropriate penalty in this matter, and mindful that the Appellate Division clearly affirmed that respondent was guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, the Commissioner maintains that respondent's pattern of unprofessional conduct, as demonstrated by the District herein, was sufficient to warrant his dismissal. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Roberts, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 284; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sheridan, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 257, affd State Board 92 N.J.A.R 2d (EDU) 393; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Van Gilson, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 378, 382, 385, aff'd State Board 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 630; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Henry Komorowski, State-operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner July 27, 2000, aff'd State Board December 6, 2000, aff'd Appellate Division March 4, 2002, A-2486-00T2; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ward Campbell, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 196, aff'd State Board 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 604, aff'd Appellate Division 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 211.

Accordingly, without any weight given to his past, undetermined accusations, the Commissioner concludes that respondent's unbecoming conduct necessitates his dismissal as a tenured teacher.

IT IS SO ORDERED.2

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/2/03

Date of Mailing: 9/3/03

2 This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A: 1SA:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A. C 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

5-2-g-o_5

11528-03

O.S., on behalf of minor child, K.S.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY AND ANTHONY P. CAVANNA, SUPERINTENDENT,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's placement of her daughter, K.S., in the 6th grade, rather than the 7th grade. The Board contended it took into consideration her age and English proficiency. The Board urged that the petition be dismissed for mootness because K.S. was withdrawn from the District.

The AU concluded that, even though the matter would appear moot, because this issue is one that is capable of frequent repetition, it is not rendered moot. In light of the record and testimony of witnesses, the AU concluded that the Board did not act in an arbitrary or discriminating manner in applying its entrance age policy (#5112) to determine that petitioner's daughter was not eligible for admission to its 7th grade for the 2003-2004 school year. The petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner concurred with the A1J that the matter should not be dismissed as moot. The Commissioner, however, concluded that the Initial Decision misperceived the question at issue herein necessitating remand to the OAL to address and resolve the propriety of the District's actions. Petitioner contended that the District acted in violation of its established regulation for new students, R 5120 (Assignment of Pupils), by its failure to objectively evaluate K.S. through testing in its determination of an appropriate grade placement for her as required by that document. The remand is for expansion of the record as to Board policy #5120 and regulation R 5120 and the interrelationship between the two, along with the reasonableness of the District's deviation from established policies/procedures in making the grade placement determination for K.S.

September 2, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1840-03
AGENCY REF. NO. 395-12/02

O.S. on behalf of K.S.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY and ANTHONY P. CAVANNA, SUPERINTENDENT
Respondents

Before O.S., petitioner pro se

Robert Tessaro, Esq., for respondents

Record closed: June 10, 2003 Decided: July 25, 2003

ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, O.S., the mother of the minor, K.S., appeals the determination of the respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Fort Lee to place K.S. in the sixth grade at the time of enrollment in the school district. A petition of appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education on November 22, 2002. Respondent filed an answer to the petition on December 16, 2002. Thereafter, the Department of Education confirmed that the petitioner had withdrawn the original petition and filed a second petition on December 10, 2002. Respondent filed an answer to the second petition on January 10, 2003. Thereafter, the matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 4, 2003 as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52: 14F-1 to 13. A hearing in the matter was held on April 16, 2003. Prior to the conclusion of the hearing, counsel for the respondent moved for dismissal of the petitioner's appeal as moot since petitioner had acknowledged that the parents had withdrawn K.S. from the District, first to be home schooled and then enrolling her in a private school, the European Learning Center. The undersigned reserved on the motion pending the receipt of post-hearing briefs. The record remained open for the submission of the post-hearing briefs. The submissions were received by the undersigned by May 30, 2003. The record was held open to June 10, 2003 for the submission of responses by the parties. No responses being submitted by that date, the record was closed on June 10, 2003.

ISSUES

The issues to be resolved are whether the Board has the authority and/or discretion to apply an educational policy utilizing chronological age in determining the grade placement of the minor child, K.S. upon entering and enrolling in its schools and whether the Board has improperly utilized English language proficiency in making such determination.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

Jack Foster

The respondent has employed Jack Foster for thirty-four years, the last five years as principal of the Lewis F. Cole Middle School. He received his undergraduate degree at Montclair State University in 1968 and he holds certificates for teaching, supervisor and principal. He obtained a Master's Degree in Education Administration at William Paterson University in 1981. During his tenure at Fort Lee School District, he has been a teacher and Department Head of various departments. He has also served as principal of a K-12 summer program for remediation and enrichment. The witness was qualified as an expert in the area of educational administration.

Foster described the enrollment patterns in the District. There are 3400 students enrolled in the District. There are 570 students in the Middle School grades 7-8. Fort Lee is a multi-cultural community. The population is approximately forty percent Asian. There is also a fairly high transitional population. The students in the District speak thirty different languages. There are a good number of Russian students and the number is increasing.

The witness explained that he is normally not involved in the placement of the students enrolled in the District. However, he did become aware of this matter in August 2002. He explained that generally parents would register the child at the placement office. There are four elementary schools in the District. The elementary student will be enrolled at the elementary school where the student resides. There is one middle school and one high school.

In this case, the witness was advised there was a problem regarding placement. He met with the parents in August 2002. He advised the parents that he wanted to meet the child. Foster testified that the child was placed in accordance with the District policy 5120. The placement of the child was age appropriate. The cutoff for Kindergarten is October 31. The District attempts to apply this cutoff throughout. There is a policy to track the students for possible advanced study. The District has accelerated programs to help keep the children challenged.

At the time the parents wanted to have K.S. placed in the Middle School, the sixth grade was the age appropriate placement for her. K.S. was eleven years old at the time. Students in the seventh grade would be twelve or thirteen years old. Foster testified that he spoke to the parents at great length about the placement. He explained to them that his primary concern was age appropriateness. He did acknowledge that K.S. spoke little or no English. Foster testified that to his knowledge, K.S. did well in the last marking period in some areas, specifically art.

The witness was shown a four-page report from Russia regarding K.S. (R-1). These were the records from the prior educational institution in Russia. The records indicated that K.S. was born on February 28, 1991. Foster testified that the country in which the student resides makes the assignment of grade levels. Often, these grade levels do not correspond with the grade levels here. In placing the foreign student, proper consideration is given to age, courses of study, and grades achieved.

Foster described the nature of the programs available in the elementary schools and in the Middle School. Honors programs are started in the seventh grade. Students in the Middle School have seven classes per day and change class every 43 minutes. The classes in the sixth grade are primarily self-contained. The District does have English as a Second Language (ESL) program. The District also has bi-lingual programs, but not in Russian.

After several meetings with the parents, it was determined that the best placement for K.S. would be in the sixth grade for the 2002-2003 school year.

On cross-examination, the witness related the history of the matter. He testified that the concerns regarding placement came to him from the placement office. He spoke with the mother first by telephone, then at an in-person meeting. The child was not present at that meeting. K.S. was present at a second meeting. The witness recalled her as quiet and shy. He said that they were barely able to greet each other, but he did try to make her feel comfortable. The witness acknowledged that he is not qualified to evaluate her language skills. The District does not have any devise to permit the evaluation of skills. There are many cases of transfer students with different language proficiency levels. Foster opined that language plays a major role in success in school.

Foster acknowledged there are no standardized tests offered in the native languages of foreign students. The ESL department does all standardized testing. Math skills and language arts skills are measured on standardized tests. Another factor to consider is social acceptance. He explained that the seventh grade students in the District for the 2002-2003 school year were born between October 1989 and October 1990. The placement decisions are the reasonable exercise of discretion and are not made in a discriminatory manner.

Vincent Taffaro

Dr. Vincent Taffaro testified next for the respondent. He has been the Assistant Superintendent of the School District for the last thirteen months. Prior to that, he was the principal of School Number 4 for fifteen years. He has also served as assistant principal and classroom teacher in the Fort Lee School District for a total of thirty-one years.

Dr. Taffaro graduated St. Peter's College in 1971. He received a Master's Degree from Jersey City State College in 1977. He received a Doctorate Degree from Fordham University in Educational Administration in 1995. He is certified in teaching, as a supervisor, principal and superintendent of schools. The witness was qualified as an expert in educational administration.

He became aware of a problem in August 2002, related to the placement of K.S. in the school system. He went to the registration office and spoke to the registration officer, Carol Fratee. He also spoke to Mr. Foster. Dr. Taffaro identified the Fort Lee District policy regarding the assignment of pupils (R-2). He testified that age is a factor in the placement decision. He stated that often other countries use different levels, sections, or degrees in the grade system. It is difficult to ascertain from that what would be the appropriate grade level in the school systems here. When he spoke to the parents in August, they were concerned that their child was not being properly placed. They felt she should be in the seventh grade.

Dr. Taffaro felt that based on her age and grade level that the appropriate placement for K.S. was the sixth grade. He advised the parents of this decision both by telephone and in person. He explained to them that they could appeal this decision to the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Cavanna. Dr. Cavanna met with the parents as well. According to the witness, Dr. Cavanna concurred with the placement decision. Dr. Cavanna sent a letter to the parents outlining the basis for the decision on November 13, 2002 (R-3). Among the factors used in the decision was the chronological age of the student as well as her ability in the English language. He felt that the age of the student is an appropriate factor. He would have been concerned about placing this child in the Middle School. He also felt that the ability of the child to speak English is important in considering the socialization of the child.

The District provides a modified program in the fifth and sixth grades. The students change for several of the classes. This is considered a transitional time for the students. Fort Lee provides an ESL program. The parents will complete a form providing information regarding the length of time in the country and describing the proficiency in the English language. The children are given a language proficiency test. K.S. was given this test on September 12, 2002. Her score indicated that she was at the 42.5 percentile in language proficiency. Parents are free to withdraw their children from the ESL program.

Dr. Taffaro acknowledged that he could not make a judgment as to the grade level of the curriculum in Russia. The decision to place K.S. in the sixth grade were those outlined in the November 13, 2002 letter to the parents.

Peter Emr

The next witness to testify was Peter Emr. He has been the principal at elementary School Number 4 since March 2002. Previously, he had been the assistant principal at Lewis Cole Middle School for two years. He has also been principal in Hackensack for the K through adult education program and assistant principal in the Glen Ridge Middle School. He is an educational consultant in K through adult education in computer-based learning.

The witness received his Bachelor's Degree and Master's Degree from Jersey City State College. He also has approximately fifteen credits in psychology counseling at Seton Hall University.

Mr. Emr learned about the situation involving K.S. in August 2002. He recalled that he was advised that the child was to be placed in School Number 4. The child was registered for the Middle School, but redirected to School Number 4. He recalled meeting with the parents after the start of the school year. When the school year started in September, K.S. was placed in the sixth grade. She was there until November 12, 2002. He testified that K.S. had multiple absences during that time. In October alone, she was absent seven days.

The witness testified that there was a meeting with the parents after they removed K.S. from the school. That meeting was not about the placement but an injury she had apparently suffered in the playground at one time.

He recalled that K.S. participated in the ESL program and the regular education program at School Number 4. He believes that the parents received the report card for the first marking period, which ended October 12, 2002. As he recalled, K.S. did satisfactorily in all her courses. He testified that toward the end of her stay at the school, K.S. exhibited some behavioral problems. Emr testified that in his opinion, the age appropriate placement in the sixth grade was the best placement for K.S. A seventh grade placement would have been a mistake.

Mr. Emr testified that the parents withdrew the child from the District. He understood that she was going to be home schooled by the parents. A letter dated November 26, 2002, to the Assistant Superintendent of Schools, advised that the parents were withdrawing K.S. from the District and would begin home schooling (R-5).

The witness acknowledged that he became aware that K.S. was obtaining higher scores on assignments from the private tutor at home than she had gotten in school. He stated he did not know how she was scored on those tests. He testified that K.S. had some difficulty in mathematics with computations.

O.S.

O.S. testified on behalf of her daughter. She explained that K.S. did not have enough time to study the sixth grade studies because she was also receiving instruction in seventh grade material from the tutor. K.S. was called "stupid" by her classmates because she was going through the sixth grade again. Petitioner acknowledged that the District maintained a policy regarding entrance age, Policy 5112 (P-6).

The parents insisted that K.S. be tested. They wanted Mr. Foster to meet her. They were upset that at that meeting, Mr. Foster just greeted her and asked questions about things like the sports she liked. They then asked the Superintendent to have K.S. tested.

O.S. explained that K.S. started school in September 1997 in grade 0. She remained in grade Othrough June 1998. In September 2001, K.S. entered her fifth year of school. After the third level of a ten-year program, she was tested and placed in the sixth level of the eleven-year program.

The witness acknowledged that prior to filing the within appeal, she withdrew her daughter from the District. She had her home schooled for one week. She then placed her in the European Learning Center in Fairlawn, New Jersey. Mr. Foster told her that K.S. would not be accepted into the seventh grade in the District.

She also indicated that she did not have a problem with the ESL program in the District. She made her mind up that the placement in the sixth grade was a mistake. When she met with the woman at the registration office, she was told that K.S. would be referred to the seventh grade even though there was an age problem.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and to assess their credibility, I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

1. K.S. is a minor born on February 28, 1991.
2. K.S. started school in 1997 in Russia.
3. She attended school in the 1st class in 1999.
4. K.S. attended the 2nd class in 2000.
5. K.S. attended the 3rd class in 2001.
6. In 2002, K.S. attended Junior High School in Russia in the 6th class.
7. K.S. was registered for enrollment in the Fort Lee School District by her parents in August 2002, for the 2002-2003 school year.
8. At the time of enrollment, K.S. was eleven years of age.
9. She was being enrolled for the 2002-2003 school year commencing September 2002.
10. Although the parents requested she be enrolled in the seventh grade, K.S. was referred for enrollment in the sixth grade at elementary school Number 4.
11. The District uses October 31 as the cutoff date for eligibility.

12. For the 2002-2003 school year, students generally eligible for placement in the seventh grade were born between October 1989 and October 1990.
13. K.S. was age appropriate for placement in the sixth grade for the 2002-2003 school year.
14. The English language proficiency test score for K.S. was 42.5 percentile at the beginning of the 2002-2003 school year.
15. Pursuant to District Policy 5112, a child is eligible for entrance into kindergarten that will have attained the age of five years on or before October 31 of the year in which entrance is sought.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The respondent urges that the petition of appeal must be dismissed for mootness because K.S. was withdrawn from the District, first to be home schooled, and then placed in a private school by the parents. The mootness doctrine is "[t]he principle that when the matter in dispute has already been resolved, there is no actual controversy that would be affected by a judicial decision." Black's Law Dictionary 697 (Abridged 6th Ed.1991). It is well established that questions that have become moot or academic prior to judicial scrutiny generally have been held to be an improper subject for judicial review ... for reasons of judicial economy and restraint, courts will not decide cases in which the issue is hypothetical, a judgment cannot grant effective relief, or the parties do not have concrete adversity of interest. Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super. 432 (Ch. Div. 1976). Likewise, the Commissioner of Education does not consider moot issues. J.B. and P.B. v. Bd of Educ of Asbury Park, OAL DKT. EDU 7940-87 (Oct. 12, 1988) adopted Comm. Ed. (Nov. 23, 1988). See, Feldman v. Bd. of Educ. of Lindwood, OAL DKT. EDU 1665-94 (Oct. 14, 1994), adopted Comm. Ed., where the petitioners argued that their child was deprived of the opportunity to participate in a gifted and talented program as required by N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.5(4), because the school district did not have an honors program for first graders. After petitioners transferred their child to a private school, the ALJ held:

> . . . the removal of A.F. from the policies and dictates of the Linwood school system destroys the concrete, immediate adversity necessary to sustain a justiciable controversy. Accordingly, I FIND that the removal of A.F. from the Linwood school system renders the matter moot and as a result, petitioner's complaint is herein dismissed.

However, appellate courts occasionally will rule on such matters where they are of substantial importance and are capable of repetition while evading review. Advance Elec. Co., Inc. v. Montgomery Tp. Bd. of Educ. 351 N.J Super. 160 (App. Div. 2002).

The petitioner urges that the assignment of K.S. in the sixth grade denies equal access to education, based on the unlawful consideration of English language proficiency. The New Jersey Constitution (1947), Art. VIII, Sec. IV. par. 1 provides that it is the duty of the State to educate our children and that such education is of supreme importance, State v. Vaughn, 44 N.J. 142, 145 (1965); Pingry Corp. v. Hillside Tp., 46 N.J. 457, 460-461 (1966). It has been held that it is within the authority and discretion of board of education to exclude children within its jurisdiction who sought to transfer into first grade from private kindergarten or day school program who had not attained age of six years on or before October 1 of school year, even though the board made an exception for children not meeting such age requirement who moved into district after attending a public supported kindergarten. H.A.B., Guardian for S.T.B. v. Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School Dist., Monmouth County, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 640, 1992 WL 405315, (1992). A local board of education may promote or place pupils enrolled into public schools for its district according to the prescription of its own rules. Boulogne v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Jamesburg, Middlesex County, 1964, S.L.D. 107; Wilcox v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Oceanport, Monmouth County, 1954-55 S.L.D. 75; Staats v. Bd. of Ed. of Montgomery Twp., Somerset County, 1938 S.L.D. 669. Shenk/er v. Bd. of Ed. of the Bor. of Ho-Ho-Kus, Bergen County, 1974 S.L.D. 772. The Commissioner of Education in the Shenkler case analyzed the authority of local boards based on cases decided prior to that time. There, the Commissioner noted at pages 777-778 that:

> In Boulogne, supra, the Commissioner was concerned with a policy of local board of education, which required that pupils be six years of age on or before December 31 in order to qualify for entrance to first grade. Such policy was consistent with another Board policy with respect to qualifications for entry to kindergarten.

It has long been held that it is the right and responsibility of the local board of education to establish rules for the promotion of pupils from grade to grade. In 1914, the State Board of Education in reversing the decision of the Commissioner in Staats v. Board of Education of Montgomery Township, 1938 S.L.D. 669, 671, said, "The State Board of Education holds that a local board of education has authority to prescribe its own rules for promotion. It is given that express right by statute." In the case of Wilcox v. Board of Education of Oceanport, 1954-55 S.L.D. 75, the Commissioner directed the admission of a child on transfer from a private kindergarten, concluding:

> The Board of Education of the Borough of Oceanport, Monmouth County, will determine in its discretion the grade in which the child shall be placed. (See R.S. 18:11-1.) (Now, N.J.S.A.18A:33-1) That a board of education may give consideration to age as a factor in determining promotion policies is set forth in the statutes. R.S. 18: 11-1 requires boards of education provide suitable school facilities and accommodations for the education of the children who reside in the district. Such facilities ... shall include ... courses of study suited to the ages and attainments of all pupils between the ages of five and twenty years.

No child under the age of five years shall be admitted to any public school, except such as may be provided pursuant to law for children of his age. No board of education shall be required to accept by transfer from public or private school any pupil who was not eligible by reason of age for admission on October 1 of that school year, but the board may in its discretion admit any such pupil if he or she meets such entrance requirements as may be established by rules or regulations of the board. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5.

In fulfillment of its duty to provide suitable school facilities, the board has no obligation under the law to employ formal testing procedures to determine a child's fitness to enter a particular grade. The statutes specifically reserve to the local school district the right to prescribe its own rules for promotion. N.J.S.A. 18A:4-24. While the board may use tests for grade placement purposes, it is not required to do so. In the case of Gutch and Fugger v. Board of Education of Demarest, Bergen County, decided by the Commissioner March 13, 1963 (1963 S.L.D. 85), affirmed State Board of Education May 1, 1963 (1963 S.L.D. 89), one of the questions was whether a board of education could make psychological testing a prerequisite to early admission to kindergarten. The Commissioner held:

> ... respondent is under no obligation to obtain the results of psychological testing as evidence of readiness for schooling of a child under the age of five years. If, on the other hand, respondent desires such guidance in the exercise of its discretion given it by R.S. 18:15-1, supra, the Commissioner is convinced that there is implied power for respondent to employ such professional assistance or advice as it may reasonably require.

The Legislature, in its wisdom, provided local boards of education with wide discretion to admit or not to admit a child into its schools that was not eligible to be admitted by reason of not having attained the age for admission on or before October 1 of the school year.

CONCLUSIONS

On its face, the instant matter would appear to be rendered moot by virtue of the fact that the petitioners have withdrawn K.S. from the District, thus obviating the adversity necessary to sustain a justiciable controversy. However, by the very evidence adduced on behalf of the respondent, this issue is one that is capable of frequent repetition. The Fort Lee School District is a multi-cultural, transient community with an increasing immigrant population. The provision of an education is of the utmost importance. Thus, I CONCLUDE that the issue as presented here is not rendered moot.

As to the issue of whether the respondent may establish enrollment eligibility based on chronological age, the case law leads but to one conclusion. The legislative authority has been conferred upon a local board of education to make and enforce rules for its own governance under N.J.S.A. 18A: 11-1, to include policies adopted by it consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5. The Board herein has done just that. It has determined to use its discretion in determining the appropriate placement of students transferring into the District. There is no evidence extant that the Board here utilized any unlawful consideration in determining the placement of K.S. To the contrary, the evidence leads to the opposite conclusion. K.S. tested at a language proficiency of less than fifty percentile. Notwithstanding this, she was not placed in a grade lower than her age appropriate placement. Only in such case could the petitioner arguably assert that K.S. was misassigned to a class because of her lack of language skills. The respondent Board has, through N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, adopted a rule, not inconsistent with any provision of Title 18A, not to accept children into its kindergarten who have not attained the age of five years on or before October 31 of the school year in which entrance is sought. The Board has extended its rule to apply throughout in determining grade placement for those children within its jurisdiction who seek eligibility for enrollment into the school system at any age. Interestingly, the child's mother acknowledged that K.S. started school in Russia in 1997. As such, she would have been in school for five years prior to enrollment in the Fort Lee District. For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that the Board has not acted in an arbitrary or discriminating manner in applying its entrance age policy to determine that petitioner's daughter was not eligible for admission to its seventh grade for the 2002-2003 school year.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that the appeal of petitioner is and shall be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:148-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

7/25/03
DATE

ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

7-25-03
DATE

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on: 7 l::LS \ C3

Mail-e nl[illegible]

'JUL 2 9 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

id

APPENDIX

WITNESSES

For respondents:

Jack Foster
Vincent Taffaro
Peter Emr

For petitioner:

O.S.

EXHIBITS

For respondents:

R-1 Student's Information-Translated from Russian
R-2 Policy 5120 - Assignment of Pupils
R-3 Letter dated November 13, 2002, Dr. Cavanna to O.S.
R-4 Student Profile Sheet
R-5 Letter dated November 26, 2002, O.S. to Vincent Taffaro

For petitioner:

P-1 Spelling test-October 11, 2002
P-2 Math Quiz-October 30, 2002
P-3 Math Quiz-October 27, 2002
P-4 Math quiz-November 1, 2002
P-5 List of Seventh Grade books

P-6 Policy 5112 - Entrance Age

P-7 Policy 5120 -Assignment of Pupils

P-8 Confirmation from Ministry of Education-Translated from Russian

P-9 General Education-Sixth Grade-Translated from Russian

OALDKT. NO. EDU 1840-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 395-12/02

O.S., on behalf of minor child, K.S.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY AND ANTHONY P. CAVANNA, SUPERINTENDENT,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions charge that "[i]n his findings of fact, legal discussion and conclusion, [the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ)] completely ignored the whole premise and basis for my petition of appeal." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) She claims that throughout this matter, in both her written submissions and at the hearing, she continually stressed that resolution of this matter revolved around one single piece of evidence, a District regulation (P-7) which "requires that all new pupils must be administered the District Approved Standardized Test to ensure proper grade placement." (Ibid.) Notwithstanding this clear regulation, which on its face makes no exception for students with limited English proficiency, the District repeatedly denied K.S. an opportunity to take these tests. As such, petitioner contends, the District was in clear violation of its own policies and/or procedures in the placement of her child. Rather than recognizing and addressing this violation, the ALJ erroneously concluded that chronological age, in and of itself, is a sufficient basis to determine grade placement. In so concluding, she argues, the ALJ's case citations and legal discussion centered around acceptance into kindergarten and first grade, along with the bold assertion that the District has extended the kindergarten/first grade age entrance policy to all grades through high school, an assertion that is without foundation as there is no written policy in the Fort Lee School District so stating. {Petitioner's Exceptions at 2)

Upon his full and independent review and after due consideration of petitioner's exception arguments, the Commissioner finds and concludes that the Initial Decision misperceives the question at issue herein necessitating remand to the OAL to address and resolve the propriety of the District's actions, under the particular circumstances existing in this matter, as explicated below.

Initially, however, the Commissioner concurs with the AI.J that, notwithstanding K.S.'s withdrawal from the District and her subsequent enrollment in a private school, this matter should not be dismissed as moot. Rather, as recognized by the AI.J, "[t]he Fort Lee School District is a multi-cultural, transient community with an increasing immigrant population" {Initial Decision at 13), and, therefore, the issue involved here is of substantial importance and one capable of frequent repetition, qualifying it as an exception to the mootness doctrine. See Advance, Inc. v. Montgomery Tp., 351 N.J. Super. 160 {App. Div. 2002).

This said, the Commissioner next observes that, in his Initial Decision, the AI.J categorizes the issues to be resolved in this matter as:

> whether the Board has the authority and/or discretion to apply an educational policy utilizing chronological age in determining the grade placement of the minor child, K.S. upon entering and enrolling in its schools and whether the Board has improperly utilized English language proficiency in making such determination. {Initial Decision at 2)

Based on his review here, the Commissioner finds that the AU's categorization does not adequately identify the issue in controversy. It is by now well-established that a board of education possesses the statutory right to promote or place pupils enrolled in its schools according to the prescription of its own rules. Shenkler v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Ho-Ho-Kus, 1974 S.L.D. 772, aff'd State Board 1975 S.L.D. 1157; Boulogne v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Jamesburg, 1964 S.L.D. 107; Wilcox v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Oceanport, 1954-55 S.L.D. 75. It is, likewise, well-established that when a local school board acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966). The record in this matter indicates that this District has established both a Policy, #5120, and a Regulation, R 5120, with respect to ascertaining the appropriate grade level placement for new or returning students from a private or public school outside of the District (see R-2 and P-7), although the interrelationship between these two documents is unclear. The gravamen of the instant petitioner's contention here is that the District acted in violation of its established regulation by its failure to objectively evaluate K.S. through testing in its determination of an appropriate grade placement for her as required by that document. Although recognizing that testing for English language proficiency for students such as K.S. is mandated by N.J.A.C. 6A:15-1.1 et seq., the Commissioner finds the examination herein should focus on whether the District's reliance on the results of this test and its "Entrance Age" policy (P-6), dealing with the admission of children to kindergarten and first grade, to determine whether K.S. would more appropriately be placed in 6th or ? th grade, when it appears to have in place a generally applicable policy or practice for determining grade placement which it ostensibly uses for all other new students, was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby remanded to the OAL for expansion of the record as to Board policy #5120 and regulation R 5120 and the interrelationship between the two, along with the reasonableness of the District's deviation from established policies/procedures in making the grade placement determination for K.S.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/02/03

Date of Mailing: 9/3/03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

529-03

11529-03

T.D'O. and R.D., on behalf of minor children, J.F.D., S.M.D. and S.C.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents challenged the Board's decision to deny enrollment to their children based on N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.4(a)(l)(vii), which provides that where the students' dwelling is located within 2 or more local districts, the district of domicile for school attendance purposes shall be that of the municipality to which the resident pays the majority of property tax.

The ALJ found that it was undisputed that petitioners' property was located both in Fort Lee and Englewood and that the majority of the property taxes for the residence were paid to the City of Englewood. Therefore, it would be unfair for respondent to bear the financial burden of providing a free public education to petitioners' children while the City of Englewood received the benefit of the bulk of petitioners' taxes. The ALJ concluded that petitioners' children were not entitled to a free public education in the Borough of Fort Lee. Citing Zadran, the ALJ also concluded that, under the facts of this case, it would be inequitable to assess tuition against petitioners for the period of their children's attendance in respondent's schools.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

September 2, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3920-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 107-4/02

T.D.'O AND R.D. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN J.F.D., S.M.D. AND S.C., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Kenneth J. Lindenfelser, Esq., for petitioners

Robert Tessaro, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: June 26, 2003 Decided: July 31, 2003

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners T.D.'O and R.D. challenge the determination made by respondent Fort Lee Board of Education ("Board" or "District") that minor children J.F.D., S.M.D., and S.C. were not domiciled in the District and thus were not entitled to a free public education in the District.

A prior challenge to the Board's residency determination was heard by the Honorable Margaret M. Hayden, administrative law judge (ALJ), R.O. on Behalf of Minor Children S.C., S.O.'O and J.D.'O v. Board of Education of Fort Lee, Bergen County, EDU 7327-00, Initial Decision (February 21, 2001), adopted in part, modified in part, Comm'r of Educ. (April 2, 2001) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. Judge Hayden concluded in that matter that as petitioners were domiciled in Englewood, petitioners' children were not entitled to attend schools in the District. The Commissioner concurred, but ordered a tuition assessment against petitioners for the period of time after which the Board had determined the children were ineligible to attend school in the district. The amount of tuition owed was eventually compromised at the sum of $7,500 for the 2000-2001 school year.

The within matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 13, 2002, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Counsel for the Board filed a motion for summary decision and petitioners cross-moved for summary decision. A hearing was scheduled for June 13, 2003, at the OAL in Newark and on that date the parties agreed that the matter would be decided on the papers. The Board's reply to petitioners' cross-motion for summary decision was received on June 26, 2003, and on that date the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The essential facts in this matter are not disputed. In approximately March 2000 the District office conducted a review of students enrolled in District schools who were residing in homes on streets straddling the boundary line with the adjacent municipality of Englewood. Petitioners resided at that time in a home located at 460 Westview Place, Englewood, New Jersey, pursuant to the recorded deed. Simultaneous with the review conducted by the District, petitioner T.D.'O submitted a verification of attendance form certifying her address as 460 Westview Place, Englewood, New Jersey. Following the submission of this information by T.D.'O, the District undertook an inquiry regarding the petitioners' property. The deed to the property showed the premises as being located both in Fort Lee and in Englewood. The inquiry conducted by the Board also determined that the portion of the property located within Fort Lee was assessed for land only, with an annual real estate tax bill of $335.65. The Englewood Tax Assessor's Office assessed the property for land and improvements, resulting in an annual City of Englewood tax bill of $4,412.

As a result of this investigation, petitioners were advised that slightly more than two feet of a corner of the property was located in Fort Lee and the remainder of the property was located in Englewood. The superintendent of the District then determined to terminate the enrollment of petitioners' children. Following that determination petitioners had a hearing before the Board, at which time the decision to terminate enrollment was upheld.

Petitioners appealed that determination and by decision dated April 2, 2001, the Commissioner of Education affirmed in part and modified in part the decision of Judge Hayden, based upon the District's motion for summary decision, that petitioners' children were not entitled to a free public education in the District. The Commissioner modified that portion of Judge Hayden's decision that declined to assess tuition for the period of ineligible attendance, and the amount of tuition due was eventually compromised at the sum of $7,500.

At some point thereafter petitioners were informally advised that based upon the recommendation of the former superintendent, the children could remain in District schools if a portion of the residence were located within the District. Petitioners then represented to the Board that they would construct an addition adding living quarters within the District boundaries. Construction was commenced in August 2001. On November 1, 2001, the District enrollment officer, Thomas Sweeney, reported that his inspection of the premises at 460 Westview Place revealed that neither the inside nor the outside of the new structure was finished, in fact the interior construction was "99% incomplete." A further check by Mr. Sweeney with the Building Department revealed that no inspection had been conducted. Correspondence was sent by the District to petitioners advising that the children had been permitted to remain in District schools based upon a representation that construction of the addition would be diligently pursued, and inquiring as to the status of the addition. Petitioners thereafter corresponded with the District, indicating that there had been some design changes and delays encountered but that the project was moving forward in a timely fashion.

On November 29, 2001, the superintendent of the District advised petitioners by letter that the New Jersey State Board of Education had adopted a new regulation requiring students to attend school in a district where the majority of the property tax for the dwelling in which they reside is paid. Petitioners were informed that as a result of the change in law the children would no longer be permitted to attend District schools, since even after completion of the addition the amount of taxes paid to the City of Englewood would far exceed the amount of taxes paid to the Borough of Fort Lee.

Petitioners continued with the construction of the addition and the certificate of occupancy was issued on May 14, 2002. Petitioners filed the within appeal seeking to have their children remain in the District without the payment of any tuition for the 2001-2002 or 2002-2003 school years.

MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION AND DISCUSSION

Summary decision is available in the administrative process pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits. The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery that have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue that can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. Additionally, the facts must be considered in the light most favorable to the opposing party. Boyer v. Anchor Disposal, 135 N.J. 86 (1994). Moreover, under the most recent guidelines delivered by our New Jersey Supreme Court, summary judgment is encouraged when the proper circumstances present themselves:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 249, 106 S. Ct. at 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 212. Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not the judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 250, 106 S. Ct. at 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 213. The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214, the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment.
>
> [Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 {1995).]

This standard is equally applicable in the context of administrative proceedings. Even where a statute calls for a "hearing," where a motion for summary decision is made and supported by documentary evidence and where the objector submits no evidence to demonstrate a genuine issue of material fact, the motion procedure constitutes the hearing and no trial-type hearing is necessary. Contini v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106, 120-21 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996). The matter is then considered in light of the applicable law.

In the instant matter, petitioners argue that respondent's motion for summary decision should be denied, but do not specify what material facts are in dispute. Contrary to petitioners' contentions, therefore, the underlying facts are clear and this matter is ripe for summary decision. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b); Brill, supra, 142 N.J. 520.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

N.J.S.A. 1SA:38-1 provides that the public schools of a district are free to persons domiciled within the district who are over five and under twenty years of age. Domicile is the place of a person's abode, where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile, which is the place that the person regards as his or her true and permanent home. Board of Educ. of Middle Township, Cape May County v. K.K., 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 461.

Petitioners assert and respondent does not dispute that petitioners have at all times acted in good faith. Petitioners also reference "the agreement made with the Board" which they relied upon in going ahead with plans for the addition.[1] Petitioners also assert the doctrines of laches, estoppel and equity in urging that the District be required to retain the children in the District schools.

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.4(a)(1)(vii), which was adopted on November 7, 2001, and became effective on December 17, 2001, provides as follows:

> Where a student's dwelling is located within two or more local school districts, or bears a mailing address that does not reflect the dwelling's physical location within a municipality, the district of domicile for school attendance purposes shall be that of the municipality to which the resident pays the majority of his or her property tax, or to which the majority of property tax for the dwelling in question is paid by the owner of a multi-family dwelling.
>
> [Emphasis added.]

Here it is undisputed that petitioners' property is located both in Fort Lee and in Englewood and that the assessment in Englewood of $142,800 exceeds that in Fort Lee of $43,900 by nearly $100,000. Clearly, the majority of the property taxes for the residence are being paid to the City of Englewood.

[1] No written agreement was entered into permitting the students to remain in the District school system.

Following the completion of the addition, the taxes paid to the Borough of Fort Lee for the year 2002 totaled $814.24. Taxes of $4,559.60 were collected by the City of Englewood for the year 2002, more than five times the amount paid to the Borough of Fort Lee.

Respondent cites the matter of Zadran v. Board of Education of the Township of Belleville, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 335, aff'd in part, rev'd in part, State Bd. of Educ. (April 1, 1998), wherein the petitioner resided in a condominium located on the border between Belleville and Newark. The petitioner in that matter had a Belleville address and believed that he resided in Belleville, however, in actuality the unit sat directly on the boundary line, with the majority of the unit located in the city of Newark. Petitioner paid real estate taxes to Newark only, but his children were enrolled in Belleville schools. The ALJ concluded, and the Commissioner agreed, that the petitioner's children were domiciled in the city of Newark and not eligible to attend public school in Belleville free of charge, and that therefore tuition reimbursement was owed to Belleville. The ALJ noted that "it would be inequitable to impose the financial burden of educating the Zadran children on the citizens of Belleville while the citizens of Newark enjoy the benefit of tax revenues derived from their living arrangements." The State Board of Education affirmed the conclusion that the Zadran children were domiciled in Newark. I note, however, that the State Board also concluded that despite the "legal and geographical realities" in the case, it would be inequitable under the particular facts of the case to assess tuition against the petitioner for the period of his children's attendance in the Belleville schools, citing State, Department of Environmental Protection v. Stavola, 103 N.J. 425, 436 n.2 (1986) (any administrative agency in determining how best to effectuate public policy is limited by applying principles of fundamental fairness).

Petitioners in the instant matter urge that the principles of laches, estoppel and equity require that the District accept the children as students in District schools without requiring the payment of tuition. It is unclear, as petitioners make no argument in their papers relative to the concept of !aches, how respondent is guilty of laches in this matter.

The amended regulation[2] was adopted on November 7, 2001, with an effective date of December 17, 2001, and on November 29, 2001, correspondence was sent to petitioners from the Board enclosing a copy of the new regulation. Clearly this is not a situation where the District failed to act quickly enough. Laches is an equitable defense, asserted where neglect or omission to assert a right, over a period of time, causes prejudice to an adverse party. Enfield v. FWL, Inc., 256 N.J. Super. 502, 520 (Ch. Div. 1991), aff'd, 256 N.J. Super. 466 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 130 N.J. 9 (1992). The delay in enforcing a known right must be unexplained and inexcusable and it must prejudice the party claiming it. Gladden v. Board of Trustees of the Pub. Employees' Retirement Sys., 171 N.J. Super. 363, 370-71 (App. Div. 1979); Allstate Ins. Co. v. Howard Sav. Inst., 127 N.J. Super. 479,489 (Ch. Div. 1974).

As the State Supreme Court articulated in Lavin v. Board of Education of the City of Hackensack, 90 N.J. 145, 151 (1982), quoting Atlantic City v. Civil Service Commission, 3 N.J. Super. 57, 60 (App. Div. 1949):

> "Laches in a general sense is the neglect, for an unreasonable and unexplained length of time, under circumstances permitting diligence, to do what in law should have been done. More specifically, it is inexcusable delay in asserting a right . . . . " 30 C.J.S. § 112, pp. 520, 521.

Clearly, petitioners' claim of !aches is without merit.

With regard to the argument advanced by petitioners that the principle of equitable estoppel precludes the removal of the children from the District's schools, petitioners cite to the matter of Carlsen v. Masters, Mates and Pilots Pension Plan Trust, 80 N.J. 334, 339 (1979), wherein the New Jersey Supreme Court defined equitable estoppel as > the effect of the voluntary conduct of a party whereby he is absolutely precluded, both at law and in equity, from asserting rights which might perhaps have otherwise existed . . . as against another person, who has in good faith relied upon such conduct, and has been led thereby to change his position for the worse.

[2] N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.4(a)(l)(vii).

The basic requirements for claiming equitable estoppel against anyone - intentional misrepresentation and detrimental reliance thereon - must be proven against the State government. Citizens for Equity v. New Jersey Dep't of Envtl. Protection, 252 N.J. Super. 62, 79-80 (App. Div. 1990), affd, 126 N.J. 391 (1991). Since estoppel against the government may be detrimental to the public interest and could interfere with essential governmental functions, however, New Jersey courts require a claimant to prove more than just the basic elements of estoppel. O'Malley v. Department of Energy, 109 N.J. 309, 316 (1987). In O'Mal/ey the Court held that the Department of Energy was not estopped from returning an employee to his permanent position when a promotional examination was not administered between the date of his provisional appointment and date of "demotion." The Court referred to the Civil Service Act of 1986, N.J.S.A. 11A:1, in holding that a failure to administer a timely civil service examination does not vest a provisional appointee with the right to retain the provisional appointment until such time as the examination is given. Id. at 316. Courts have focused on the requirement of "knowing and intentional misrepresentation" by the party to be estopped. Id. at 317. This intent can be seen where the governmental agent "engages in conduct that is calculated to mislead the [petitioner]." W.V. Pangbome & Co. v. New Jersey Dep't of Transp., 116 N.J. 543, 553 (1989).

The "intent" requirement is further defined by the Court's ruling that "the party seeking the benefit of estoppal [against the State] has the burden of establishing that an officer of the State, conscious of the State's true interest and aware of the private owner's misapprehension, stood by while the private owner acted in detrimental reliance." City of Newark v. Natural Resource Council in Dep't of Envtl. Protection, 82 N.J. 530, 545, cert. denied, 449 U.S. 983, 101 S. Ct. 400, 66 L. Ed.2d 245 (1980), citing O'Neill v. State Highway Dep't, 50 N.J. 307, 318 (1967). Words such as "conscious" and "awareness" connote intentional conduct.

Thus, in addition to the traditional equitable estoppel elements, New Jersey courts also require a showing of intentional misrepresentation or other intentional misconduct, or at least a negligent disregard as to the consequences (detrimental reliance) of the acts by the government in order for a claimant to be able to assert equitable estoppel against the government.

In the within matter there is no allegation of any misrepresentation, intentional or otherwise. The then superintendent's suggestion to petitioners was made based upon the law at the time. The thrust of petitioners' argument is that the District has breached an agreement entered into with petitioners, and upon which petitioners relied. However, no agreement was entered into by the parties. Although I am sympathetic to petitioners' belief at the outset that they resided in Fort Lee, the fact remains that petitioners reside in Englewood and have an Englewood address, as reflected in their deed. As Judge Hayden articulated in the prior proceedings, "the fact that [petitioner] held himself out to others as living in Fort Lee does not change geography." R.D., supra, EDU 7327-00, Initial Decision (February 21, 2001) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

Based upon all of the foregoing, I FIND that there are no material facts at issue. I FIND that petitioners pay the majority of their property taxes to the City of Englewood and, accordingly, it would be unfair for the Borough of Fort Lee to continue to bear the financial burden of providing a free public education to petitioners' children while the City of Englewood receives the benefit of the bulk of petitioners' property taxes.

The burden of proof rests with petitioners. In proceedings such as this, the parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence to establish that the children meet the eligibility requirements. In this matter there is no dispute that J.F.D., S.M.D. and S.C. are not domiciled within the District, and I therefore CONCLUDE that petitioners' children are not entitled to a free public education in the Borough of Fort Lee.

The District has asserted a counterclaim for tuition at the per diem rate of $42.69 for the ineligible attendance of each child from the date petitioners were notified of the enactment of N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.4(a)(1)(vii). The rationale applied by the State Board of Education in the Zadran case is equally applicable here. The inequity that would result from the assessment of tuition against the petitioners for the period of their children's attendance in District schools is no less compelling than the inequity in Zadran, notwithstanding the "legal and geographical realities" in the within matter.

As the Court articulated in Stavola, supra, 103 N.J. at 436 n.2:

> "When specific parties are particularly affected by a proposed rule, fair play and administrative due process dictate that an agency must conscientiously concern itself with and make reasonable efforts to accommodate the rights and interests of the affected individual and genuinely account for the individualized effect of its proposed action." Bally Mfg. Corp. v. New Jersey Casino Control Comm'n, 85 N.J. 25, 345 (1981) (Handler, J., concurring).
>
> "[T]here are no simple answers as to what constitutes fundamental fairness" and "[e]ach case must be considered and evaluated on its merits." In re Kallen, 92 N.J. 14, 27 (1983).

I CONCLUDE that under the facts of this case, tuition should not be assessed against petitioners for the period of their children's attendance in District schools.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioners' appeal of respondent's determination is DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that J.F.D., S.M.D. and S.C. are ineligible for attendance in respondent's school district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

[illegible]
DATE

LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

[illegible]
DATE

Mai[illegible]

ACT[illegible]R AND [illegible] LAW JUDGE

AUG 5 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

da

EXHIBIT LIST

For Petitioners:

A	Letter to petitioners from counsel for the Board dated November 5, 2001
B	Letter from petitioners to counsel for the Board dated November 14, 2001
C	Letter to petitioners from Interim Superintendent of Schools Dr. DiGiovanni, dated November 29, 2001
D	Letter to petitioners from Dr. DiGiovanni dated March 25, 2002
E-H	Pictures of petitioners' home
I	Certificate of Occupancy dated May 14, 2002

For Respondent:

A	Change of address form submitted by petitioners
B	Deed dated June 17, 1998, and deed dated July 1, 1993
C	Deed dated June 17, 1998
D	Tax office information from Fort Lee
E	Memorandum from Tom Sweeney to petitioners dated June 7, 2000
F	Letter dated May 10, 2000, from Fort Lee Fire Prevention Bureau revoking petitioners' Certificate of Occupancy
G	Student Verification of Right of Attendance
H	Survey of petitioners' property dated July 8, 1993
I	Survey of petitioners' property dated May 25, 2000
J	Resolution entered into by the Board on June 6, 2000
K	Decision of the Commissioner of Education (in prior proceeding) dated April 2, 2001, and Initial Decision of Judge Hayden dated February 21, 2001
L	Memorandum to Dr. DiGiovanni from Tom Sweeney
M	Letter to petitioners from Interim Superintendent DiGiovanni dated November 29, 2001
N	Letter to petitioners from Interim Superintendent DiGiovanni dated March 25,2002

0 Tax Assessment Information from City of Englewood

P Tax Bill from the City of Englewood

T.D'O. and R.D., on behalf of minor children, J.F.D., S.M.D. and S.C.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. No reply was filed by petitioners.

The Board's exceptions, objecting to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) failure to award it tuition in this matter, essentially recast and reiterate a factual recitation and arguments advanced below which the Commissioner determines were fully addressed by the ALJ in her decision and, therefore, will not be revisited herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the A U that J.F.D., S.M.D. and S.C. are not domiciled in the Borough of Fort Lee and, thus, are not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools. The Commissioner, similarly, agrees with the A U that, under the particular circumstances existing here, it would be inequitable to assess tuition against petitioners for the period of their children's attendance in Fort Lee schools. Zadran v. Board of Education of the Township of Belleville, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 335, aff'd in part, rev'd in part, State Board of Education, April 1, 1998.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons clearly stated therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/2/03

Date of Mailing: 9/4/03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

>f-03

11531-03

E.B., on behalf of minor children, R.B. and R.V., :

PETITIONER, :

V. :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

September 4, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9660-01

AGENCY DKT. NO. 469-11/01

E.B. o/b/o of MINOR CHILDREN,

R.B. AND R.V.,

Appellant,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF UNION TOWNSHIP, UNION COUNTY,

Respondent.

E.B., parent of R.B. and R.V., appearing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)7, for petitioner

Joseph M. Wenzel, Esq., for respondent
(Law Offices of T.M. McCormack, attorney)

Record Closed: September 10, 2002 Decided: July 25, 2003

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On December 19, 2002 this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:148-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. The matter was scheduled for hearing on several occasions but adjourned because the parties were discussing settlement. On September 10, 2002 a Stipulation of Settlement/Dismissal was filed and was inadvertently misplaced during the OAL's relocation.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the attached settlement/dismissal and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:148-10.

1/u/u1
DAE /

IRENE JONES,

Receipt Acknowledged:

2fa/o3
DATE

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mail eo

ACTING D!RECTOR AND EFADC::NiSTA/\TIVE LAW JUDGE

AUG
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

sej

LUM, DANZIS, CRASCO, POSITAN & KL!INBERG, LLC
103 Eisenhower Parkway
Roseland, NJ 07068-1049
(973) 403-9000
(973) 403.9021 (FAX)
Attorneys for Respondent

E.B. o/rJ/o R.B. and R.B.

Pmtioncr,

·VS·

Board of Education. ofth Tov.nsh p of Union, Union County

RC$pondcnt.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

OAL Docket No. EDU-9660-0lN

Civil Action

SETTLEMENT STIPULATION, DISMISSAL AND MUTUAL RELEASE

AGREEMENT and stipulation made this 23rd day of April, between E.B.• on behalf of minor children, R.B. and R.B., Petitioner, and the Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County, Respondent.

WHEREAS disputes and differences have arisen between the parties with re$pect to the residency of the minor children.

WHEREAS, Petitioner and Respondent desire to finally compromise and settle their differmces by entering into this stipulation;

NOW THEREFORE in consideration of their mutual covenants set forth herein. Petitioner and Respondent hereby agree as follows:

I. Payment. E.B. shall pay the Board of Education of the Township of Union the total cash sum of Two thou.sand two hundred fifty dollars ($2,250.00). This amount is to be paid by Petitioner in the following manner:

$2,250.001hall b. ""• simultangously wilh the signinr ofth/4 ttlpulation.

This amount once paid in full ($2,250.00) represents the settlement of all claims and by and for tuition due and owing for educational service$ providt.d to minor children for School Year 2001-2002. If the full amount is not paid by certined check or attorney trust account check on or before May 3, 2002; the Board of Education of the Township of Union reserves the right to enforce this settlement agreement through a coun proceeding for the full amount due plus attorney's fees and costs or in the alternative initiate an action for the full amount of tuition alleged due ti-om the Petitioner.

2. Genertl Release by Petitioner. E.B., on her own behalf and on the behalf of her heirs, penonal representatives, successors and assigns, including but not limited to minor children. hereby releases and forever discharges the Board of Education of the Township of"Union and their employees, agents, officers, directon and attorneys, from any and all actions, causes of action. suits, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, bills, invoices, covenants, contracts. controversies, agreements, promises, damages, costs, attorneys fees, interest, warranties, representations, claims and demands whatsoever, in law or equity. which Petitioner or anyone claiming by, through or under ever had or now has against the Board of Education of the. Township of Union or its employees, agents, officers, directors or attorneys by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever from the beginning of the world to the date of this instrument. Toe undersigned hereby agree that the effect of this general release includes, but is not limited to. the elimination of an.

and all further liability on the part of the Board of Education of the Township of Union, with respect to all matters claimed by E.B. in that certain petition filed with the State of New Jersey Department of Education. Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, Agency Docket No. 469-11/01, captioned "E.B. on behalf of minor children, R.B. and R.B., Petitioner vs. Board of Education of the Township o(Union, Union County, Respondent'\ Petitioner hereby represent and acknowledge that this is a legally binding instrument, that there • e no representations or promises made to them which are not contained in this inatrument, and that the only obligation of Petitioner shall be to pay the Board of Education of the Township of Union the said above-mentioned sum of s2.2s0.oo.

3. General Release by tb.e Board of Education of the Township of Ualon. The Board of Edu.cation o'f the Township of Union, on.their own behalf and on tho behalf of their successors and assigns, hereby releases and forever discharges Petitioner and her heirs, personnel representatives, successors and assi$_{g\,n\,s}$, from any and all actions, causes of action, suits. debts. dues, sums of money. counts.. bills, in.voices, covenants, contracts. controversies. agreements, promises. damage9, costs, attomeys fees., interest;. warranties, representations, claims and demands whatsoever. in law or equity, which the Board of Education of the Township or Union or anyone claiming by, throuah or under ever bad or now has against Petitioner by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever from the beginning of the world to the date of this ins1rumcnt The Wldcrsigncd hereby agree that .the effect of this general release includes. but is not limited to. the elimination of any and all further liability on the part of Petitioner, with respect to all matters claimed by the Board of Education of the Township of Urtiott in that certain counterclaim filed with the State of New Jersey Department of Education. BureaJJ. of Controversies and Disputes, Agency Docket No. 469-11/01, captioned "E.B. on behalf of minor children, R.B. and R.B., Petitioner vs. Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union Cowty. Respondent", The Board of Education of the Township of Union hereby represents and acknowledges that this is ll legally bindinl instrument. that there are no representations or promises made which are not contained in this instnunent, and that the only obliption Ot Petitioner shall be to pay the Board or Education of the Township of'Union the said above-mentioned sum of$2,2S0.00.

4. DlsmJssal. The parties hereby agree and stipulate that this case is voluntarily dismissed with prejudice and without costs.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this stipulation as of the day and year &st written above.

PETITIONER:
Elvire Bastien

P.ESPONDBNT:
Board of Education of Township of Union

By.-f}1¥-

Title: BQld.Sc;gctary

A'TTEST:

Carl T. Herman. Esq.
Anomey for Petitioner

ATI'EST:

Joseph M. Wenzel, Esq.
Attorney for Respondent

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9660-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 469-11/01

E.B., on behalf of minor children, R.B. and R.V.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A. C. 1: 1-19.1, have been reviewed.[1] [2]

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the Settlement Agreement as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, however, the Commissioner observes that the settlement included with the Initial Decision sets forth terms that were to be effectuated prior to approval of the settlement terms by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A. C. 1: 1-19.1. The ALJ and the parties are cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement presented to the Commissioner for his review prior to receiving approval from the Commissioner.

The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9I 4/ 03

Date of Mailing: 9/5/03

[1] It is noted that party representation is listed erroneously in the Initial Decision. Petitioners are represented by Carl J. Herman, Esq., and the Board by Joseph M. Wenzel, Esq. (Lum, Danzis, Drasco & Positan, LLC).

[2] Correspondence indicating Mr. Damato's authorization to approve settlement on behalf of the Board was submitted to the record at the Department's request.

#538-03E

CONTROL BUILDING SERVICES, INC.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY, PATERSON BOARD OF EDUCATION, EDWIN DUROY, MICHAEL AZZARA AND PRITCHARD INDUSTRIES,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

September 8, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

ORDER ON MOTION
FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7429-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 268-7/03

CONTROL BUILDING SERVICES, INC.,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY, PATERSON BOARD OF EDUCATION, EDWIN DUROY, MICHAEL AZZARA AND PRITCHARD INDUSTRIES,

Respondents.

Joseph B. Fiorenzo, Esq., for petitioner
(Sokol, Behot and Fiorenzo, attorneys)

Jack Gillman, Esq., for the State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Paterson Board of Education, Edwin Duroy and Michael Azzara

Patrick T. Collins, Esq., for Pritchard Industries
(Franzblau Dratch, attorneys)

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

The dispute in this matter concerns the award of a contract for custodial services by the State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson ("School District") to Pritchard Industries ("Pritchard") pursuant to the Public School Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 to -59. The complaining party in this matter is Control Building Service, Inc. ("Control" or "petitioner"), which is the incumbent provider of custodial services to the School District. In a Verified Complaint which was originally filed with the Superior Court of New Jersey and subsequently transferred to the Commissioner of Education, Control alleges that the process of awarding the contract violated various provisions of the Public School Contracts Law and the Public School Education Act of 1975, as amended, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-3 to -52. In conjunction with the transfer, Control filed a motion to continue a preliminary injunction entered by the New Jersey Superior Court.

Control originally filed the Verified Complaint in the Superior Court of New Jersey on or about June 29, 2003, and an order preliminarily restraining the respondents from executing the contract and Pritchard from performing the services was entered on June 30, 2003. An order maintaining the temporary restraints and transferring the matter to the Commissioner of Education was entered on July 28, 2003.

Control's filing with Commissioner of Education was received on July 31, 2003, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 5, 2003, for determination as a contested case. Oral argument in regard to Control's motion to continue the preliminary restraints entered by the Superior Court of New Jersey was conducted on August 13, 2003.

In terms applicable to this administrative proceeding, Control has in effect applied for emergent relief or a stay pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). As set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), the factors to consider in regard to an application for emergent relief are as follows:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The first consideration is whether Control will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted. Harm is considered to be irreparable if it cannot be remedied by money damages. Injunctive relief is generally viewed as the only effective means to safeguard the policy objectives of public bidding statutes. Disposmatic Corp. v. Mayor & Council of Kearny, 162 N.J. Super. 489, 495-96 (Ch. Div. 1978). Specific to this case, award of the contract to Pritchard will cause Control to lose key managerial personnel assigned to the oversight of the School District's custodial contract. In addition, custodial staff members who become employees of Pritchard may lose their medical benefits for a period of ninety days as described further below. Under the circumstances, petitioner along with others will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted.

The second consideration is whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled. Here, Control's claim is based on well-settled law in regard to bidding on public contracts and a specific statutory provision from the Public School Education Act of 1975, as amended. It follows that the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is well settled.

The third consideration is whether petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. Evaluation of this consideration requires an understanding of the principles underlying statutes governing bidding on public contracts. In Meadowbrook Carting Co. v. Island Heights Borough, 138 N.J. 307 (1994), our Supreme Court set forth these principles as follows:

> The competitive-bidding process is incorporated in the Local Public Contracts Law. N.J.S.A. 40A:11-3 and -4 require that municipalities and counties advertise for bids on public contracts that exceed the statutory threshold amount. The purpose of the Local Public Contracts Law is to "secure for the public the benefits of unfettered competition." Terminal Constr. Corp. v. Atlantic County Sewerage Auth., 67 NJ. 403,410,341 A.2d 327 (1975); see also Township of River Vale v. R.J. Longo Constr. Co., 127 NJ.Super. 207, 215, 316 A.2d 737 (Law Div. 1974) (stating that purpose of competitive bidding for local public contracts is not protection of individual interests of bidders, but rather advancement of public interest in securing most economical result by inviting competition in which all bidders are placed on equal basis). The statutes authorizing competitive bidding accomplish that purpose by promoting competition on an equal footing and guarding against "favoritism, improvidence, extravagance and corruption." Township of Hillside v. Sternin, 25 NJ. 317, 322, 136 A.2d 265 (1957); see also L. Pucillo & Sons, Inc. v. Mayor of New Milford, 73 NJ. 349, 356, 375 A.2d 602 (1977) (L. Pucillo) (stating that purpose of act is " •to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance and corruption' ") (quoting Terminal Constr. Corp., supra, 67 NJ. at 410,341 A.2d 327).

Accordingly, the statutory rule in New Jersey is that publicly advertised contracts must be awarded to "the lowest responsible bidder." N.J.S.A. 40A: 11-6.1; see also Hillside, supra, 25 N.J. at 323, 326, 136 A.2d 265 (construing predecessor to Local Public Contracts Law). This Court has interpreted that requirement to mean that the contract must be awarded not simply to the lowest bidder, but rather to the lowest bidder that complies with the substantive and procedural requirements in the bid advertisements and specifications. Hillside, supra, 25 N.J. at 324, 136 A.2d 265 ("The significance of the expression 'lowest bidder' is not restricted to the amount of the bid; it means also that the bid conforms with the specifications."); see also William A. Carey & Co. v. Borough of Fair Lawn, 37 N.J. Super. 159, 165, 117 A.2d 140 (App. Div. 1955) ("The lowest bidder, within the contemplation of the statute [the predecessor of N.J.S.A. 40A:11-1 to -49][ ] is the one whose bid is not only the lowest for the work to be done but also conforms to the requirements of the notice to bidders.").

Strict compliance is required, and a municipality generally is without discretion to accept a defective bid. See L. Pucillo, supra, 73 N.J. at 356, 375 A.2d 602; 426 Bloomfield Ave. Corp. v. City of Newark, 262 N.J. Super. 384, 387, 621 A.2d 59 (App. Div. 1993). "The long-standing judicial policy in construing cases governed by the Local Public Contracts Law  has been to curtail the discretion of local authorities by demanding strict compliance with public bidding guidelines." L. Pucillo, supra, 73 N.J. at 356, 375 A.2d 602. This Court has adopted that approach largely as a prophylactic measure. Ibid. As Justice Francis observed in Hillside, supra, "In this field it is better to leave the door tightly closed than to permit it to be ajar, thus necessitating forevermore in such cases speculation as to whether or not it was purposely left that way." 25 N.J. at 326, 136 A.2d 265.

As a result, all bids must comply with the terms imposed, and any material departure invalidates a nonconforming bid as well as any contract based upon it. Id. at 323, 136 A.2d 265. "It is firmly established in New Jersey that material conditions contained in bidding specifications may not be waived." Terminal Constr. Corp., supra, 67 N.J. at 411, 341 A.2d 327 (citing Hillside, supra, 25 N.J. at 324, 136 A.2d 265). However, minor or inconsequential discrepancies and technical omissions can be the subject of waiver. Ibid; Hillside, supra, 25 N.J. at 324, 136 A.2d 265. That limitation on the doctrine of strict compliance was acknowledged in Terminal Construction Corp., supra:

> Essentially this distinction between conditions that may or may not be waived stems from a recognition that there are certain requirements often incorporated in bidding specifications [that] by their nature may be relinquished without there being any possible frustration of the policies underlying competitive bidding. In sharp contrast, advertised conditions whose waiver is capable of becoming a vehicle for corruption or favoritism, or capable of encouraging improvidence or extravagance, or likely to affect the amount of any bid or to influence any potential bidder to refrain from bidding, or which are capable of affecting the > ability of the contracting unit to make bid comparisons, are the kind of conditions [that] may not under any circumstances be waived. [67 N.J. at 412, 341 A.2d 327.]

>
> [Id. at 313-15.]

Generally, specifications may not be modified after the submission of bids. Hillside Twp. v. Sternin, 25 NJ. 317, 327 (1957). Further, private understandings which undermine the requirement that all bidders bid on the same specifications are impermissible. Belousofsky v. Board of Education of City of Linden, 54 N.J. Super. 219, 222-23 (App. Div. 1959). However, imposition of post-bid conditions adverse to the bidder is permissible. Palamar Const., Inc. v. Tp. of Pennsauken, 196 NJ. Super. 241,253 (App. Div. 1983).

Several statutes and a regulation are applicable to this case. In accordance with NJ.SA. 18A: 18A-4(a), every contract for the performance of services, the cost of which in aggregate exceeds the bid threshold, shall be awarded only by resolution of the board of education to the lowest responsible bidder after public advertising for bids and bidding therefor. A board of education may reject all bids for various reasons including a determination by the board to substantially revise the specifications for goods and services. NJ.S.A. 18A:18A-22(d). Change orders to a contract which has been awarded to a bidder are permissible but only under limited circumstances. NJ.A.C. 6A:23-7.1{a). Finally, beginning in the fourth year of State operation, the State district superintendent shall bring fiscal matters before the board of education for a vote. NJ.SA. 18A:7A-48(b).

The general course of events is reasonably clear from the certifications and exhibits submitted in this matter. Pursuant to contracts awarded after public bidding, Control has provided custodial services to the School District since July 1996. In March 2003, the School District gave public notice of an invitation to bid for its custodial services in accordance with a set of specifications. Two of the specifications are significant in relation to the dispute in this matter. One specification required full employer contribution toward employee health benefits after three months of service. This provision raised a concern that custodial workers would lose their medical benefits for a period of ninety days under a new contractor. Another specification required a one-hour paid meal break for custodians on the shift from 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. The closing time and date for submission of bids was 11:00 a.m. on April 3, 2003.

At that point in time, Control had a collective bargaining agreement applicable to 214 employees. In accordance with the agreement, health benefits were required for all employees who completed one year of employment. As of July 1, 2003, 196 of those employees would be eligible for health benefits. While the source is not entirely clear from the submissions in regard to the request for emergent relief, there was an expectation or understanding that any new contractor would take on the same custodial workers performing services for the School District as were employees of Control.

Bids were opened on April 3, 2003. Control submitted a bid of $6,841,000. Pritchard's bid of $6,247,000 was lower by $594,000. Two other bids were higher than the amount submitted by Control.

After reviewing the details of Pritchard's bid, the Union raised the concern that medical benefits could not possibly be provided for the estimated amount included in the bid. In addition, it appears that some individuals including members of the Paterson Board of Education ("Board") did not consider the ninety-day interruption in medical benefits to be acceptable. The inference may be drawn that this circumstance raised a concern among certain individuals that the Board would reject all bids and require revisions to the specifications.

In an apparent attempt to deal with this situation, Pritchard wrote a letter dated April 16, 2003, to the School District proposing to provide medical coverage during the first three months at an estimated cost of $123,600. In exchange, Pritchard suggested that the paid meal break for the shift from 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. be changed to unpaid with an estimated savings of $120,348.83. Pritchard would not charge the difference to the school district. It may be noted that Control estimated the cost of this provision to be in the area of $600,000.

There followed a series of communications between Pritchard's representative and Business Administrator Michael Azzara. The result was an agreement that Pritchard would provide medical coverage to employees as of July 1, 2003, and that the funds to cover the additional expense would be derived from a change order which would provide for an unpaid one-hour meal period for custodians on the shift from 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. In fact, the Business Administrator prepared a change order with a date of July 16, 2003, to implement the agreement.

On May 30, 2003, the custodial contract was presented to the Board for consideration. The Board voted to table the matter by a vote of eight to one. In a memorandwn dated June 11, 2003, the School District's attorney expressed the opinion that the change order as proposed by the Business Administrator would be illegal. In addition, the ninety-day hiatus in medical coverage for new employees created a situation where all bidders were not on an equal basis because Control as the incumbent could not benefit therefrom.

The next public meeting of the Board was held on June 11, 2003. At 11:57 p.m., District Superintendent Edwin Duroy handed out a resolution stating that all custodial bids would be rejected and that the contract would be rebid. The comments of the members of the Board reflect consternation that an important matter would be raised at such a late hour and a desire for additional time to consider the resolution. The Board voted to table the resolution without acting on it that evening.

In a letter dated June 13, 2003, to the State Department of Education, the Business Administrator opposed the District Superintendent's recommendation to reject the bids for the custodial services and rebid. The Business Administrator recommended that the contract be awarded to Pritchard. In addition, the Business Administrator stated that the paid lunch break was put in the specifications in error based upon erroneous information that it was required by the current Union contract.

As late as June 19, 2003, District Superintendent Du.roy continued to recommend rejection of all bids and re-bid of the contract. A meeting among School District personnel and bidders was scheduled for June 24, 2003. The meeting was canceled on June 23, 2003.

By letter dated June 24, 2003, the Commissioner of Education directed that the contract be awarded to the responsible low bidder. Thereafter, District Superintendent Duroy awarded the contract to Pritchard. As noted above, the initial temporary restraints were imposed by Order dated June 30, 2003. By letter dated July 22, 2003, the Commissioner of Education rescinded his prior directive in the letter dated June 24, 2003, citing new facts that had come to light and greater complexity of the issues.

Consideration of these facts in light of the legal principles pertaining to the bidding for public contracts reveals several potentially fatal flaws in the process. First, it is questionable whether all bidders were in equal positions from the start. All bidders other than the incumbent could benefit from the three-month period without medical benefits for new employees. However, Control as the incumbent with existing employees may have been bound by contract to provide health benefits during this period. Second, School District personnel were aware of two problems with the specifications. One problem is that the custodial workers could lose their health benefits for a three-month period. Second, the specifications provided for a costly paid lunch break which was included therein based upon the erroneous belief that it was required by the Union contract. This requirement appears to be quite improvident. These problems would appear to the sufficiently serious to warrant rejection of all bids, revision of the specifications and a re-bid of the contract as recommended by District Superintendent Duroy. Given the concerns expressed by members of the Board, they likely would have followed the recommendation of Dr. Duroy if they had been given a reasonable opportunity to do so. This approach would have placed all bidders on an equal basis in relation to changes in the specifications. Instead, the School District took the approach of negotiating changes in the specifications with only one bidder, namely, Pritchard. This is the sort of favoritism that the laws pertaining to bidding on public contracts are designed to prevent. It follows that Control has a likelihood of success in regard to its allegations of violations of the Public School Contracts Law.

Control also alleges that District Superintendent Duroy violated N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-48(b), which requires that fiscal matters be brought before the Board for a vote. This provision requires a good faith effort to provide the Board with a reasonable and meaningful opportunity to vote on fiscal matters. In this case, the Board was not given that type of opportunity and the record does not indicate that a good faith effort was made to do so. It follows that Control has a reasonable probability of success with its contention that the award of the contract to Pritchard by District Superintendent Duroy was ultra vires and therefore null and void.

In regard to the equities and interest of the parties, both Control and Pritchard seek the financial benefit of the contract. An additional concern for Control is the potential loss of managerial personnel, if Pritchard provides the custodial service during the pendency of this proceeding. Evidently, the several respondents connected with the School District did not take identical views of the situation. One consideration is that the low bid would produce a savings for the School District relative to the other bids. On the other hand, the Board had concerns with the harshness of the custodial employees losing their medical benefits for a three-month period. Further, the requirement of a paid one-hour lunch break appears improvident such that a revision of the specifications to eliminate this requirement could produce a savings for the School District. Finally and most importantly, parties should not benefit from acts which, as discussed above, are likely violations of various laws. On balance, the equities and interests of the parties indicate that the most appropriate course of action is to maintain the status quo during the pendency of this proceeding.

In view of the above, I CONCLUDE that the emergent relief requested by Control should be granted. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Preliminary Injunction as previously entered by the New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division, Passaic County, on June 30, 2003, and maintained in effect by Order dated July 28, 2003, shall continue in effect during the pendency of this proceeding.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

A-...'-'\1.003
DATE

RICHARD M. GLEN, ALJ

cl/pb/jb

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7429-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 268-7/03

CONTROL BUILDING SERVICES, INC.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY, PATERSON BOARD OF EDUCATION, EDWIN DUROY, MICHAEL AZZARA AND PRITCHARD INDUSTRIES,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

The recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), which included a summary of the evidence presented at the emergent hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 13, 2003, has been reviewed. Upon such review, the Deputy Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33, concurs that petitioner has satisfied the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) necessary to warrant emergent relief.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The preliminary injunction previously entered by the New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division, Passaic County, on June 30, 2003, and maintained in effect by Order dated July 28, 2003, shall continue in effect during the pendency of proceedings which shall ':."ntinue at 4

IT IS SO ORDERED.•

DEPUTY COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/08/03

Date of Mailing: 9/10/03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq.

#540-03

OAL DKT. NO. EDU. 7557-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 260-7/00

O.M., on behalf of minor child, J.M.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's residency determination that minor child, J.M., was ineligible to attend respondent's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 during the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years. The Board sought tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance.

In light of the record and the testimony of witnesses, the ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to prove by a preponderance of evidence that J.M. was domiciled in respondent's school district during the years in question. Petition was dismissed. The ALJ concluded that petitioner must be assessed $26,612 as tuition reimbursement to the Board.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

September 10, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7557-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 260-7/00

O.M. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.M.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Michael J. Montanari, Esq., for petitioner
(Fusco & Macaluso, attorneys)

Joseph A. DeFuria, Esq., for respondent
(Gaccione, Pomaco & Beck, attorneys}

Record Closed: March 18, 2003 Decided: July 28, 2003

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

O.M. (hereinafter "petitioner"} filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging a residency determination by the Board of Education of the Township of Bloomfield (hereinafter "respondent") in regard to minor child, J.M. Respondent counterclaims for tuition reimbursement for an alleged period of ineligible attendance.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed his petition on July 19, 2000, invoking the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. On August 10, 2000, respondent filed an answer and counterclaim. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 21, 2000, for determination as a contested case.

The hearing in this matter was held on April 8, September 18, and December 18, 2002, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey. The record closed on March 18, 2003, upon receipt of petitioner's brief.

ISSUES

The main issue in this proceeding is whether J.M. was eligible to attend respondent's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 during the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years. More specifically, the question is whether J.M. was domiciled within respondent's school district during these two school years. Since petitioner established to respondent's satisfaction that J.M. was domiciled in the school district as of the beginning of the 2000-2001 school year, there is no question as to disenrollment. The final issue is whether respondent's counterclaim for tuition reimbursement should be granted.

BACKGROUND AND UNDISPUTED FACTS

Prior to May 1998, petitioner lived on D. Avenue in Newark, New Jersey, with his wife, M.M., and three children whose ages as of 1998 were four, eight and fourteen. The youngest of the three children was J.M., who had a serious medical condition such that he had to take medication multiple times per day and required constant supervision. During the 1997-1998 school year, J.M. was registered in the Newark public schools.

On May 1, 1998, petitioner and M.M. purchased property on E. Street in Bloomfield, New Jersey. There were two structures on the property including a front house with three apartments and a single-family dwelling to the rear.

In September 1998, M.M. registered J.M. and J.M.'s older brother, Ju.M., to attend respondent's public schools. The registration form gave E. Street in Bloomfield as their address. Ju.M. entered respondent's Carteret School as a third grade student, and after an evaluation by the child study team, J.M. was placed in a pre-school handicapped class at the Oakview School. After one year at the Carteret School, Ju.M. transferred to a parochial school.

On June 15, 2000, petitioner and his wife purchased a home on Y. Avenue in Bloomfield. It is undisputed that J.M. was domiciled in respondent's school district subsequent to this purchase.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Petitioner testified on his own behalf, and he called his wife, M.M., as a witness. Respondent's witnesses included District Compliance Officer Jeffrey Allyn and Dr. Nicholas Bruno, who is respondent's Director of Administrative Services.

2. Petitioner's Witnesses

1. M.M.

M.M. testified that she currently lives on Y. Avenue in Bloomfield. Prior to May 1998, M.M. lived with her husband and children in a two-family house on D. Avenue in Newark. From May 1998 into 2000, M.M. resided on E. Street in Bloomfield.

The front house on E. Street has three apartments. M.M.'s parents live on the first floor, and the other two apartments are rented to tenants. A.Q. is M.M.'s mother, and W.A. is M.M.'s father.

Petitioner and M.M. lived in the single-family house on the property on E. Street. This house has a living room, a bedroom, a kitchen and a bathroom on the first floor, two bedrooms on the second floor and a finished basement. Petitioner and M.M. slept in the bedroom on the first floor, and the children slept upstairs.

M.M. has been employed as a police officer for six years. From 1996 to 1998, M.M. was assigned to patrol on rotating eight-hour shifts. It was not unusual for M.M. to hold over for another shift. Since 1998, M.M. has been assigned to central communications where she works as a dispatcher. From January 1999 to the present, M.M. has worked a shift from 6:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. with four days on and two days off. M.M. may work an extra shift at times. M.M. was on a shift for 2:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. for three months over a summer. Petitioner is also employed as a police officer.

J.M. requires constant care and supervision. As the result of his medical condition and his parents' employment, J.M. often stayed with his grandparents or other relatives including M.M.'s sister and petitioner's sister.

In May 1998, M.M. and petitioner moved their furniture to the single family dwelling on E. Street. They slept at that location, took their meals there and conducted their daily business there. They also received bills and other mail at E. Street. M.M. acknowledged that she and petitioner left some belongings at their previous home on D. Street in Newark and that some mail was sent there.

In addition to the deed for the property on E. Street, M.M. produced copies of bank statements sent to her and petitioner at their address on E. Street. Statements from Valley National Bank were dated November 8, 1999, and March 8, 2000. A statement from PNC Bank was for the period from March 22, 2000, to April 19, 2000. M.M. also produced statements from Public Service Electric and Gas Company for electric and gas service at the front house on E. Street. The statements are dated September 2, 1998, December 2, 1998, February 2, 1999, and June 3, 1999. M.M. acknowledged these bills were for the first floor apartment occupied by her mother in the front house. M.M. also produced a letter from an insurance agency addressed to her and petitioner at E. Street.

On an emergency card for J.M., M.M. listed A.Q., who is M.M.'s mother; L.B., who is petitioner's mother; and M.R., who is M.M.'s sister. M.M. gave E. Street as A.Q.'s address, and she provided the same telephone number for herself and A.Q. M.M. explained that A.Q. did not have her own phone. However, she had a key to the rear house, where she was often present and could use the telephone. M.M.'s parents speak only Spanish. However, someone at the school office would speak Spanish.

J.M. spent most of his time at the home on E. Street. The school bus picked up J.M. at 9:30 a.m. for the pre-school handicapped program and dropped him off at 2:30 p.m. M.M. was often at work during this time span. J.M. was met by M.M.'s mother getting off the bus and was often taken to his paternal grandmother or another relative. J.M. often slept at a relative's home, particularly when M.M. worked night shifts.

M.M. stated that she and petitioner had telephone and cable service at E. Street. However, she did not produce any statements. M.M. acknowledged that she did not change her voter registration until the summer of 2000. However, she stated that she rarely voted in other than presidential elections. M.M. did not recall voting in a primary election in June 1999.

2. O.M.

Petitioner testified that he has been employed as a police officer for twenty-two years. Prior to May 1998, petitioner lived on D. Avenue in Newark with his wife, M.M., and children. That property is a two-family house owned by his mother, L.B., and his stepfather. In May 1998, petitioner and M.M. purchased the property on E. Street in Bloomfield. The property has a front house with three apartments and a single-family house to the rear. Petitioner's mother-in-law and father-in-law lived in the first floor apartment, M.M.'s sister and her family lived in the second floor apartment, and an elderly couple rented the third floor apartment. Petitioner lived in the house toward the rear of the property with his wife and children. The first floor had a living room, a kitchen, a bedroom and a bathroom, the second floor had two bedrooms, and there was a finished basement. Two boys slept in the first floor bedroom. Petitioner and his wife slept in one upstairs bedroom. The other son slept in the other upstairs bedroom.

Petitioner stated that he received mail at both E. Street in Bloomfield and D. Avenue in Newark. Petitioner explained that he does not want people to know where he lives because criminals might seek revenge. Petitioner received mail including mortgage papers and utility bills at E. Street in Bloomfield.

The oldest son went to parochial school in Newark. Ju.M. attend Carteret School in Bloomfield for one year and then transferred to a parochial school in Newark. J.M. was a special education student because of his medical condition and attended respondent's Oakview School.

Petitioner worked a shift from 6:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. with four days on and two days off. He was sometimes held over for mandatory overtime. On many occasions, petitioner would be called to work from four to eight hours. Petitioner's wife is also a police officer. M.M. was assigned to a different district, but she usually worked the same shift.

While petitioner and his wife were at work, various relatives particularly petitioner's mother-in-law or his mother took care of the children. At times, petitioner's sister in Little Falls or his mother's sister in Newark took care of the children. When the children were in school, one of these relatives would wait for the school bus. Someone was always with J.M., because he required attention twenty-four hours per day. Petitioner felt fortunate to have relatives to help with the children, because he was called to work at night many times.

Petitioner lived at the property on D. Avenue for five years prior to May 1998. Petitioner had telephone and cable service at D. Avenue, where he lived on the first floor of a two-family house. After petitioner moved to E. Street in May 1998, his niece moved into the apartment a month later. The niece paid the phone bill but kept the same number. Petitioner wanted her to keep the same phone number because he had given it to many people. The niece remained in the first floor apartment for approximately two years. She no longer has petitioner's old telephone number.

Petitioner presented various papers related to his property on E. Street in Bloomfield including records of mortgage interest payments and a property tax assessment. These papers were addressed to petitioner and M.M. at E. Street in Bloomfield.

Petitioner acknowledged that his cars are registered at an address in Little Falls, New Jersey. His wife's car is registered at the same address. Petitioner also acknowledged that his W-2 Form for 2000 shows an address in Newark at which he lived eighteen to twenty years ago. Petitioner explained that he does not want people to know his address.

While living on E. Street, petitioner started work at 6:00 a.m. The school bus stopped right in front of the house and dropped off J.M. at the same location.

In early 2000, petitioner started looking for a new home and signed a contract to purchase a house in Nutley. Petitioner was packed and ready to move. His mother-in-law was moving to the rear house and the first floor apartment was rented to a new tenant. However, the deal fell through with the result that petitioner had to stay in his mother's home until June 2000.

In June 2000, petitioner and M.M. purchased a single-family house on Y. Avenue in Bloomfield. Petitioner still owns the property on E. Street. The three apartments in the front house are rented to tenants, and petitioner's mother-in-law and father-in-law live in the single-family house. Both J.M. and Ju.M. now attend respondent's public schools.

Petitioner acknowledged that he never registered to vote at E. Street in Bloomfield. Petitioner voted in Newark, until he registered in Bloomfield after he moved to Y. Avenue in 2000.

B. Respondent's Witnesses

1. Jeffrey Allyn

Jeffrey Allyn has been employed by respondent for twenty-two years, and he has been the district compliance officer for fifteen years. His duties include residency verification. During the last two years, Mr. Allyn has conducted residency verifications for approximately 600 residents.

The investigation in regard to J.M. began when Ju.M. asked to call home on September 2, 1998. A secretary noticed that he called a Newark telephone number. On September 3, 1998, Mr. Allyn conducted a surveillance at the address on E. Street in Bloomfield from 7:10 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. Mr. Allyn saw another male child come out of the house but not J.M. or Ju.M. The male child was later identified as M.A., who is a cousin of J.M. and Ju.M.

On September 4, 1998, Mr. Allyn conducted an observation at D. Avenue in Newark beginning at 7:15 a.m. At 8:20 a.m., Ju.M. came out with petitioner and was driven to the home on E. Street where another child was picked up. The vehicle was registered to petitioner at an address in Little Falls, New Jersey.

On September 14, 1998, petitioner's vehicle arrived at E. Street and left without picking anyone up. Ju.M. was present for school and arrived on time that day. On September 16, 1998, Ju.M. and his father left D. Avenue in Newark and went to E. Street where they picked up M.A. On September 22, 1998, petitioner and Ju.M. left D. Avenue in Newark at 8:10 a.m. Mr. Allyn acknowledged that he did not know J.M.'s starting time.

On September 28, 1998, Mr. Allyn performed a door check on the rear house at the property on E. Street. W.A., the maternal grandfather, opened the door. Asked where the children were, W.A. said that they were with someone else for the night. Observing the boys' bedroom, Mr. Allyn did not see any clothes at all and only a few toys. The other bedroom was that of W.A. and his wife. There was no bedroom for petitioner and M.M. In regard to the front house, W.A. stated that the second and third floor apartments were occupied and that the first floor apartment was vacant.

Mr. Allyn returned to D. Avenue in Newark and at 7:59 a.m. saw petitioner leave in uniform and head toward downtown Newark. At 8:20 a.m., a vehicle on which the license plate had M.M.'s first name dropped off J.M. at E. Street and then proceeded to the Carteret School with Ju.M. This vehicle is registered to petitioner at an address in Little Falls, New Jersey, and was seen at D. Avenue at 7:00 a.m.

Mr. Allyn reported the situation to his supervisor. The determination was to continue the investigation in March 1999.

On March 19, 1999, Mr. Allyn began an observation at D. Avenue in Newark at 7:00 a.m. At 7:38 a.m., Ju.M. and J.M. left the house with petitioner in his truck.

On March 22, 1999, Mr. Allyn began an observation at D. Avenue in Newark at 7:15 a.m. At 7:45 a.m., petitioner and J.M. came out and drove in petitioner's truck to E. Street in Bloomfield.

On April 1, 1999, Mr. Allyn conducted an observation on D. Avenue in Newark from 7: 15 a.m. to 8:25 a.m. and did not see anyone come out. Another district employee, Mr. Barba, observed E. Street in Bloomfield from 8:20 a.m. At 9:42 a.m., J.M. and his mother pulled up in M.M.'s truck, and J.M. later got on the school bus. At 2:03 p.m., the school bus dropped off J.M., and he was driven by M.M. to D. Avenue.

On April 6, 1999, at 9:40 a.m., J.M. came out from the property on E. Street in Bloomfield with his grandfather. At 3:07 p.m., M.M. drove up in uniform and took J.M. to D. Avenue in Newark.

On April 7, 1999, an observation of the property on D. Avenue in Newark began at 6:00 a.m. Petitioner's truck was at this location. The windows were fogged up, indicating that the vehicle had not moved overnight. At 7:35 a.m., petitioner and Ju.M. left the residence. At 9:40 a.m., the school bus arrived at E. Street in Bloomfield and left when J.M. did not come out. At 10:07 a.m., M.M. pulled up with J.M. and then drove J.M. to Oakview School. At 1:42 p.m., the school bus returned J.M. to E. Street. M.M. came out to meet J.M., and they drove to D. Avenue in Newark in M.M.'s truck.

An observation of the property on D. Street began at 7:00 a.m. on April 8, 1999. Petitioner's truck was at that location. At 8:10 a.m., petitioner came out and moved his truck to comply with street cleaning regulations.

On April 21, 1999, an observation was made that none of the family vehicles was at D. Avenue or E. Street, indicating that petitioner and M.M. could be at work. At 8:00 a.m., J.M. was observed being driven in a vehicle registered at an address in Montclair, New Jersey.

At 7:00 a.m. on April 22, 1999, none of the family vehicles was present at D. Avenue or E. Street. After arriving home from school, J.M. remained at E. Street until the observation ended at 4:00 p.m.

An observation on April 23, 1999, continued from 7:00 a.m. to 8:25 a.m. Petitioner's truck was at D. Avenue at that time.

On April 26, 1999, an observation of the property on D. Avenue began at 7:00 a.m. Both petitioner's and M.M.'s vehicles were parked at the property on D. Avenue. At 7:52 a.m., petitioner, Ju.M. and another boy left the house and drove off in the father's truck.

On April 30, 1999, the boys were driven from E. Street to D. Avenue at 3:45 p.m. At 4:00 p.m., petitioner was washing M.M.'s truck, while the children were playing in the yard on a swing set.

On April 30, 1999, Mr. Allyn requested information from the postmaster in Newark concerning persons receiving mail at the property on D. Avenue in Newark. Mr. Allyn was advised that petitioner and M.M. were receiving mail at that address.

To summarize, there were thirteen observations in March and April 1999. At the time, Mr. Allyn could recognize J.M, and the parents knew that they were being observed. Mr. Allyn never saw petitioner come out of the property on E. Street. However, Mr. Allyn saw petitioner come out of the home on D. Avenue on five occasions. Mr. Allyn was convinced that J.M. was not domiciled at the property on E. Street in Bloomfield.

Further investigation from May to September 1999 revealed that while Ju.M. was attending a parochial school, he used D. Avenue as his home address. Petitioner had cable service and an unlisted telephone number in his name at D. Avenue. Further, a representative of their employer confirmed that both petitioner and M.M. used D. Avenue as their address for employment purposes. These facts confirmed Mr. Allyn's opinion that J.M. never was domiciled in Bloomfield.

In June 2000, respondent requested information concerning petitioner and M.M. from the Essex County Commissioner of Registration and Superintendent of Elections, who responded by letter dated June 27, 2000. According to the letter, the voter files revealed that both petitioner and M.M. live on D. Avenue in Newark. They both voted in the June 1999 primary and listed D. Avenue as their home address. Neither petitioner nor M.M. was registered to vote at E. Street in Bloomfield.

2. Dr. Nicholas Bruno

Dr. Nicholas Bruno is employed by respondent as its Director of Administrative Services. His duties include registration of students and disenrollment.

Dr. Bruno presented the tuition computation for J.M., who is a special education student. For the 1998-1999 school year, the tuition and other costs totaled $12,273. For the 1999-2000 school year, the corresponding costs were $14,339. The total for the two-year period was $26,612.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

a. Law

A person who meets age requirements and is domiciled within a school district may attend its public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 (a). A person may have many residences but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. v. Manville Bd., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000). A child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. Ibid. The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), affd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div. 1998), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S.Ct. 1357, 143 L Ed. 2d 518 (1999). The court further stated as follows:

> "Home is the place where a person dwells and which is the center of his domestic, social and civil life." . . . "[T]he overwhelming proportion of the indicia as to what the decedent regarded as her real, principal and permanent home . . . as well as the central fulcrum of her life must here be found to converge . . . " in that location found to be her domicile. . . . Thus, the concepts of home and domicile mean more than physical residence. They also embody the subject's objective and subjective relationship to that residence.
>
> A person may establish a domicile in one place and then acquire a second residence. This does not lead to multiple domiciles, for it "is everywhere conceded that a person can have only one true domicile, which is synonymous with the common understanding of the word 'home.'". . . If a person maintains multiple residences it may become necessary to determine which one is the true domicile. Various approaches to this problem have been used by New Jersey courts.
>
> Establishing a domicile involves an act of volition. "A person has the right to choose his own domicil, and his motive in doing so is immaterial." . . . In accordance with this principle it has been held that one does not relinquish his domicile by having another residence based on reasons of health, society, business or employment. . . . Additionally, it has been held that a change of domicile "may be made to avoid taxation .

> . . [or some other motive], so long as the necessary ingredients for establishment of the new domicile are present." ... Even a change of domicile predicated on a desire to avoid a forced heirship statute has been upheld when the change was supported by other indicia of a new domicile, ...
>
> It is clear, therefore, that a choice of domicile by a person, irrespective of his motive, will be honored by the court, provided there are sufficient objective indicia, by way of proofs, supporting the actual existence of that domicile.
>
> Thus, a person may not arbitrarily designate a given residence as his domicile. It is necessary that the requisite subjective intent be present since domicile is "very much a matter of the mind-of intention." ... "Where there are multiple residences ... domicile is that place which the subject regards as his true and permanent home." ...
>
> "When a man has acquired a domicile in a particular place, that place remains his domicile until he acquires another domicile." . . . In considering whether a change of domicile has occurred, three elements must be considered: 1) whether there had been an actual and physical taking up of an abode in a particular state; 2) whether the subject had an intention to make his home there permanently or least indefinitely; and (3) whether the subject had an intention to abandon his old domicile. The court must evaluate all of the facts of the case to determine the place in which there is the necessary concurrence of physical presence and an intention to make that place one's home. [Id., at 374-76 (citations omitted)].

The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in light of all circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J. S.A. 1BA:38-1 (b)2.

b. Factual Discussion

Preliminarily, it may be noted that since J.M. is a child, his domicile is that of his parents, petitioner and M.M. Further, it is undisputed that petitioner and M.M. were domiciled at the property on D. Avenue in Newark prior to May 1998. Thus, the main question in this case is whether petitioner and M.M. changed their domicile from D. Avenue in Newark to E. Street in Bloomfield. The factors to consider are whether there was an actual and physical taking up of an abode at E. Street, whether petitioner and M.M. had an intention to make their home on E. Street permanently or at least indefinitely and whether petitioner and M.M. had an intention to abandon their old domicile on D. Avenue.

The first question is whether there was an actual and physical taking up of abode at the property on E. Street. Petitioner and M.M. relied on their own testimony and documentary evidence. The latter consisted of a deed, bank statements, electric bills and a letter from an insurance agency. There is no doubt that petitioner and M.M. owned the property on E. Street. It is noteworthy, however, that the electric bills were for the front house at the property on E. Street. It also may be noted that the earliest bank statement was from November 1999. Another consideration is that there was a substantial conflict between M.M.'s testimony and that of petitioner. When asked about the living arrangements in the back house on E. Street, M.M. testified that she and her husband slept in a bedroom on the first floor, while the two boys slept in the bedrooms upstairs, one in each room. In contrast, petitioner testified that two boys slept in the bedroom on the first floor and that petitioner and M. M. slept in one bedroom upstairs with J.M. in the other.

Respondent's witness, Mr. Allyn, testified to multiple observations of D. Avenue in Newark and E. Street in Bloomfield. His testimony was fully credible as to his observations. It is noteworthy that petitioner was observed coming out of the home on D. Avenue in the morning on various occasions. None of the observations had petitioner or M.M. coming out of the property on E. Street in the morning. Perhaps the most telling evidence was the door check on September 28, 1998. On that occasion, the maternal grandfather, W.A., answered the door at the back house on E. Street. According to W.A., one bedroom in the back house was for him and his wife. During his visit, Mr. Allyn found no clothes for boys and only a few toys. The first floor apartment in the front house was vacant.

Petitioner's response is that the observations pertained to only a very small percentage of the days in the school year. Further, none of the observations occurred during the 1999-2000 school year.

The second and third factors are related in that one concerns the intention to make the new home the individual's domicile and the other concerns the abandonment of the old domi ile. One telling consideration is voter registration. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 19:4-1, an individual "shall be entitled to vote in the polling place assigned to the election district in which he actually resides, and not elsewhere." The election district of residence is the place where the voter is domiciled. In re General Election, 255 N.J. Super. 690, 726 (Law Div. 1992). Here, petitioner and M.M. never changed their voter registration from D. Avenue in Newark to E. Street in Bloomfield. In fact, petitioner and M.M. voted in June 1999 based upon voter registration at D. Avenue in Newark. This circumstance is indicative of an intention not to abandon the domicile at D. Avenue in Newark and change it to E. Street in Bloomfield.

Other circumstances are inconsistent with a change in domicile to E. Street in Bloomfield. First, petitioner and M.M. never registered a motor vehicle at E. Street. Second, petitioner and M.M. continued to use the address on D. Avenue for purposes of employment. Likewise, the address at D. Avenue was used as Ju.M.'s home address while he attended parochial school. Further, petitioner continued to receive mail and to have electric, telephone and cable service in his name at the property on D. Avenue.

In view of all of the above, petitioner has not demonstrated any of the three elements to establish a change of domicile to E. Street in Bloomfield. Under the circumstances, I FIND that petitioner has failed to prove by a preponderance of evidence that J.M. was domiciled in respondent's school district during the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petition in this matter should be dismissed.

c. Counterclaim

Respondent filed a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement for the periods of ineligible attendance. The applicable statute is N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b){2), which provides in pertinent part as follows:

> If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance . . . .

Here, the evidence does not support petitioner's claim that J.M. was domiciled in respondent's school district, and petitioner does not challenge the tuition computation as presented by Dr. Bruno. Under the circumstances, I FIND that the tuition and costs for J.M. were $12,273 and $14,339 for the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years, respectively, for a total of $26,612. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner must be assessed $26,612 as tuition reimbursement.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. The petition in this matter is dismissed.

2. Petitioner is assessed $26,612 as tuition reimbursement.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

7-1-03
DATE

RICHARD McGILL, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

7-31-03
DATE

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mat;e J.6-:Parfie l', t,CW1". DIR=CTOR AND CWEF t,D;;;;.\liSTRt'\TIVE LAW JUDGE

AUG 4 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

al

APPENDIX

WITNESS LIST

For petitioner:

M.M.

O.M.

For respondent:

Jeffrey Allyn

Dr. Nicholas Bruno

EXHIBIT LIST

P-1	Deed dated May 1, 1998	Evidence
P-2	Photocopies of portions of three bank statements	Evidence
P-3	Photocopies of four electric bills	Evidence
P-4	Letter dated May 11, 1999, from Laurie Sojka	Evidence
P-5	Transfer form dated September 3, 1998	Evidence
P-6	Registration checklist dated September 3, 1998, with attached registration forms	Evidence
P-7	Emergency card dated September 15, 1998	Evidence
P-8	Photocopy of 1999 mortgage interest statement (retained)	Evidence
P-9	Photocopy of Form 1098 for 1999 Evidence
P-10	Photocopy of property tax assessment	Evidence
P-11	Form W-2 for 2000	Evidence
P-12	Letter dated November 4, 1998, from Frank Pomaco, Esq., to Felix Montalvo-Lopez, Esq. (retained)	Identification

R-1	Application for Free and Reduced Price Meals or Free Milk dated September 14, 1998	Evidence
R-2	Tuition computation	Evidence
R-3	Letter dated June 22, 2000, from Coleen French	Evidence
R-4	Memorandum dated September 28, 1998, from Jeff Allyn to Gerry Nazzaretto	Evidence
R-5	Investigation notes dated May 3, 1999	Evidence
R-6	Investigation notes dated May 24, 1999	Evidence
R-7	Request for Boxholder Information dated April 30, 1999	Evidence
R-8	Memorandum dated September 27, 1999, from Jeff Allyn to Gerry Nazzaretto	Evidence
R-9	Letter dated June 27, 2000, from Carmine P. Casciano to J. Frank Vespa-Papaleo, Esq.	Evidence
R-10	Letter dated June 29, 2000, from Frank Pomaco, Esq.	Evidence

OAL DKT. NO. EDU. 7557-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 260-7/00

O.M., on behalf of minor child, J.M.,	:
PETfilONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were untimely, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, having been filed on August 21, 2003 in response to an Initial Decision mailed on August 4, 2003.[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, and based on the Administrative Law Judge's (AU) credibility assessments, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Commissioner concurs with the AU that petitioner has failed to sustain his burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that he was domiciled in Bloomfield during the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years, so as to entitle his child, J.M., to a free public education in the District's schools.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed. Petitioner is hereby directed to reimburse the Board for tuition in the amount of $26,612 for the period of J.M.'s ineligible attendance in the District's schools.

[1] It is noted that at no time during the exception period did petitioner request an extension of time within which to file, pursuant to N.J.A. C 1:1-18.8.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/10/03

Date of Mailing: 9/10/03

[2] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A. C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

11541-03

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING	:
OF RICHARD CONSALES, SUSSEX COUNTY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TECHNICAL SCHOOLS, SUSSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

September 10, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATNE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5934-02

AGENCY DKT. NO.: 206-7/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF RICHARD CONSALES, SUSSEX COUNTY TECHNICAL SCHOOLS, SUSSEX COUNTY,

---

Margaret A. Miller, Esq., for petitioner
(Weiner Lesniak, LLP, attorneys)

Gary Kraemer, Esq., for respondent
(Daggett, Kraemer & Eliades, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 25, 2003 Decided: July 28, 2003

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

On July 23, 2002, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. The matter was scheduled for a conference on April 22, 2003 and at that time the parties engaged in settlement discussions. The parties reached a settlement on June 24, 2003 and submitted the signed Settlement Agreement indicating the terms of settlement on July 25, 2003. A copy is attached hereto.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A. C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five {45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

July 28-V/
DATE

JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

)-30-03
DATE

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mia1le I

UG 4 ?.00'3
DATE

AC'HNG mr-:rcroR ANO LAW JUDGE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

sej

AGREEMENT M"1J REL E

This Sctlieriient Agrsexnent and Release ("Agreeme ") is made and enterefi into betvveen the Sussex County Vocational and Technical Board of E4:ucation (the "Board") and Richard Consales ("Consales"). This Agreement is made pursuant Fe following terms and conditiom.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on or about July 9, 2002, the Boid certified tenure charges against Consales seeking bis termlnatlon for co unbecomin la public employee, incapacity and other charges; and

WHEREAS. Consales wa$ paid through June 30 12002 and thereafter .placed on an unpaid suspension for 120 days pending the outcome ofth.e ibnure charges; and

WHEREAS. Consales filed an appeal of the tenure-lh.arges before the Commissioner of Education that was subsequently transferred to the Office o d:mini.strative La;.:r; and

WHEREAS, the OAL matter -was scheduled to comw.ence during June of2003; and

WHEREAS, the parties elected to settle all o matters and allegations in dispute in lieu of conducting the hearing, so as to avoid ending further resources and to eliminate the uncertam:ties of litigation; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Consales deem it to be 1 their best interests to set forth in a fui:mal written agreement their respective rights; duties } obligations regarding Consa!es' terntination from the Board; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Consales are now m y desirous of settling the matters and allegations in dispute; and

WHEREAS, all parties have been afforded the oppgrtunity to consider the terms of this Agreement with advice of counsel and/or a representative o, eir choice;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the pro ses and the mutual covenants herein contained, and for other good and valuable considerations. 4 parties hereby agree as follows:

I. The Sussex County Vocational and Technical Boar jofEducation (the "Board"), as used herein, shall at all times mean the Sussex County ,yocational and Technical Board of Education, its predecessors, successors and assigns Bf any and all of them, their present and former Board members, officials, officers, r resentatives, servants, employees, agents, attorneys, successors, and administrators w ether in their individual or official capacities, and all other persons, finns, corporatiol,, associations, partnerships or any other entity connected therewith.

2. Consales, as used herein, shall mean Richard Consal s, his heirs, representatives, privies, executors, administrators, assigns, successors-io-inteti st and predecessors-in-interest.

3. The Board agrees tha.t it will not pursue the TenureJfharges filed against Consales and th.at the parties shall cause to be filed a withdrawal W!b.ejudice with the OAL.

4. In consideration of the Board's covenant set forth yl Paragraph 3, Consales agrees to resign from his position as a tenured teacher with fue Board., effective June 30, 2003. Consales further agrees that for the period Septemb1 1, 2002 through June 30, 2003, he shall be deemed to have been oo administrative leavei!

5. Consales expressly agrees and understands that his t on is final and irrevocable no matter what and regardless of whether or not any a cation filed for retirement or other employment is successful. Consales' resignation of his position as a tenured teacher effective June 30, 2003 shall be deemed accepted. b t the Board upon execution of th.is Agreement. Consales forever waives any and all ri1ts or ability to seek re-employment with the Board in any capacity. Consales further agrees to never seek reemployment "With the Board at any time in the future in any capacity.

6. In considerations of the promises set forth in Paragnwm 3 through 5, the Board shall pay Consales as follows:

(a) _The sum of $21,000 shall be paid on July 1, 003. The payment shall represent Consales' annual salary for the school year :from j eptember 1: 2002 through June 30, 2003 while on administrative leave. The parties gree that the $21,000 shall be paid through a regular payroll check with all applicaj:.,le taxes and pension contributions applied.

(b) Con.sales shall receive an additional $128,000 to'.e paid on a prorated monthly basis commencing on or about August 1, 2003 and co tinuing for twenty-'four consecutive months thereafter ($5 333.33 per month). All payments made under this subparagraph shall be paid to Consales under a iom 099 without any taxes being withheld.

(c) The Board shall continue Consales' employer-p1d health insurance for a period not to exceed 12 months from July 1, 2003 or untiJ!IlConsales is eligible to receive any level of health benefits through a new employer o by being self-employed.-

(d) This settlement is intended as and for damages fr any and all possible injuries and Consales hereby waives any and all claims for lo t wages, income or future earnings. However, should it be determined that any p a + t s made pursuant to Para h 6 herein constitute gross income within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code and its applicable amendments, or under any othe:tl federal, state or local statute or ordinance, Consales shall be solely liable for and 1'agrees to pay any amount that may be determined to be due and owing as taxes, interest and penalties arising out of such payments. Specifically, Consales understands and agrees that he will be provided with an annual 1099 Miscellaneous form incorporating his payments from the Board. Consales also understands and agrees that any adjustments to his withholding or any estimated tax payments are his responsibility. Further, Consales understands and agrees that the Board will report the payments made to Consales to the Internal Revenue Service, the New Jersey State Division of Taxation and other pertinent agencies, but the Board will not take a position as to whether the payments are taxable. Any and all tax liabilities arising from the payments set forth herein are the sole and exclusive responsibility of Consales and he hereby indemnifies and holds harmless the Board from any and all tax liabilities arising therefrom.

7. In consideration of the promises set forth in this Agreement, the Board agrees to allow Mr. William Leach to prepare a written recommendation for the sole and exclusive use by Consales to apply for a master's degree program. The letter shall not be used for any other purpose whatsoever. The content of the letter shall be as set forth in the attached Exhibit A and placed on Board letterhead and signed by Mr. Leach.

8. The parties further agree and understand that this Agreement is a compromise settlement of all claims asserted and unasserted in connection with Consales' separation of employment. By entering into this agreement, neither party admits that it has violated Title 18 state or federal law or any contractual provisions that might exist.

9. The parties acknowledge and agree that the payments set forth in this Agreement are in full and complete settlement of any and all claims that had been asserted or can be asserted or may be asserted or could be asserted by either party against the other for compensatory damages, pain, suffering, emotional distress, stress, humiliation, embarrassment, mental angttlsh, medical expenses, punitive damages, interests, attorneys fees, costs of suit, loss of sick time, loss of vacation time, loss of benefits, consequential damage, reputation damage, breach of express or implied contract, interference in any contract, economic opportunity or prospective economic advantage which arose out of or could arise out of Consales' employment with the Board.

10. As an inducement for the parties to enter into this Agreement, each party does hereby remise, release and forever discharge all other parties (including the Board's employees and agents) from any and all debts, obligations, suits, actions, causes of action, claims or demands, in law or in equity, which any one party now has or hereafter may assert against the others arising out of Consales' employment by the Board including, but not limited to, all claims, liabilities, costs and attorney's fees under: (1) the tenure charge docketed before the OAL; (2) the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended (42 U.S.C. 2000(e) et seq.); (3) the Americans with Disabilities; (4) the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1, et seq.; (5) any directive negotiations agreement; (6) Title 18A and its rules and regulations; (7) the Constitution of the United States; (8) the Constitution of New Jersey; (9) wage and hour laws, federal and state; (10) any other federal or state statute or common law; (11) the New Jersey Tort Claims Act N.J.S.A. Title 59; (12) the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution; and/or (13) other causes of action whether enumerated herein specifically or not. Further, Consales hereby waives any and all relief not explicitly provided for in this Agreement.

11. Consales and the Board expressly understand and agree that the payments set forth in this Agreement include any and all amounts that may be claimed by Consales or on his behalf or by his attorneys, heirs, successors or assigns, against the Board.

12. The parties agree that in consideration of the promises set forth in this Agreement that Consales shall not file, or shall immediately withdraw, with prejudice: (a) any and all appeals before the Commissioner of Education seeking any type of relief whatsoever from the Board; (b) any grievances or arbitrations relative to Consales' employment or termination; and (c) any type of judicial or administrative action of any type or nature in connection with Consales' employment, termination or payments made under this Agreement. This provision expressly pertains to the pending suits filed by Consales against Mr. Jack Utter, Vice Principal, and Joseph Cahunarata, Superintendent

13. Nothing in this Agreement shall prohibit or bar Consales from filing a Workers' Compensation claim against the Board in connection with exposure-type injuries from environmental conditions that might have existed while the Board employed Consales. Consales expressly states that no such claim currently exists, that he is unaware that any such claim potentially exists and does not anticipate filing any such claim at the time of executing this Agreement.

14. In any action commenced against a party to enforce the provisions of this Agreement, the moving party, if it is the prevailing party, shall be entitled to recover its reasonable attorneys' fees, costs and disbursements incurred in prosecuting the action.

15. Each party agrees not only to release, acquit and forever discharge the other and its employees/agents from any and all claims which arose from the incidents set forth and in any way related thereto to the tenure charge docketed before the OAL that each party could make on its own behalf. but also those which ve been or may be made against the other by any other person or organization on bisfrts ehalf. Consales specifically waives any right to become, and promises not to become, ,member of any class in any case in which any claim is asserted against the Board and its 6mployees/agents and inYolving any eve t that has occurred on or before the date of , Settlement Agt ent and General Release.

16. The Board affirms that, as of the date of executio of this Settlement Agreement and Ge eral Release, they have no knowledge of any pe kting class action against it to which Con.sales could be a potential class member.

17. Comales specifically acknowledges that the paym referred to in Paragraph 6 her_eof constitutes any and all additional consideration o t h f se owed to him for this Settlement Agreement and General Release or arising from collective negotiations agreement, policy or regulation.

18. Unless directed to do so by Court Order or lawfully ssued subpoena with notification to the Board at the time the la'Wfully issued subpoena issued, Consales agrees that he will not give te ony or evidence against the Bo in any proceeding with respect to the incidents giving rise to the tenure charges docket]F before the OAL or with respect to the terms and conditions of this Agreement

19. The parties and their attorney(s) agree and prom.is that they will not disclose, either directly or indirectly, in any manner whatsoever; anyd ormation regarding either: (a) the substance or existence of Consales' tenure charges ifu.d/or his actions giving rise to the tenure charges; or, (b) the existence, terms or contenf of $is Settlement Agreement and General Release, to any person or organization, fcluding, but not limited to, any govern.mental agency, members of the press and edia, present and former officers, employees and agents of the Board and other me lbers of the public. This paragraph sh.all-not preclude the parties or their attomey(s) frol# disclosing the existence or tenns of this Settlement Agreement and General Release to governmental authorities that require such information. The parties may only state, without elaboration, as follows: "The situation has been resolved to the mutual satisfactio J of Consales and the Board." In the event that the Board is approached for a reference, :e only information to be provided will be Consales .date of hire, date of resi$_{gna}$tion an salary.

20. This Settlement Agreement and General Release cotibins the full agreement of Consales and the Board and may not be modified, altered, chwiged or terminated except upon the express prior written consent of Consales and the B@ard, which consent must be signed by Consales and the Board or their d ly a thorized Jen.ts.

21. 'fh;e waiver by Consales and/or the Board of a brea h of any provision hereof shall not operate or be construed as a waiver of that breach :Py the other, or as a waiver of any subsequent breach by :the other.

22. I f any term, provision or condition of this SettlemeJ Agreement and General Release is held invalid or unenforceable by a court of competeii.t jurisdiction, such holding shall be without effect upon the validity or enforceabili l of any other provisioD.t term or condition of this Settlement .Agreement and General Release.

23. Consales hereby acknowledges and agrees that he + e r expressly waives and assumes the risk of any and all claims or damages which exi t as of this date for which Consales does not know of or· suspect to exist, whether $ough ignorance, oversight, error, negligence, or otherwise. and which, if knoWD., wo d materially effect his decision to entei: into this Settlemeat Agreement and Genera.l Jase.

24. Con.sales represents and warrants t no other perso or entity has or has had any interest in the claims, demands, obligations, or causes of ction referred to in this Settlement Agreement and General Release; that Consales 5 not sold, assigned, transferred, conveyed or otherwise disposed of any of the cl , demands, obligations or causes of action referred to in his verbal complaint(s) and/o in this Settlement Agreement and General Release.

25. This Settlement Agreement and General Release s be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws oftbe State of New Jersey,;

26. Consales and the Board agree to cooperate fully an execute any and all supplemen ary documents and to take all additional actions which m ly be necessary or appropriate to get full force and effect of the basic terms and interes of this Settlement Agreement and General Release.

27. This Settlement Agreement and General Release s l not be executed in counterparts and shall be enforceable only if executed by Consale;, and the Board.

28. This Settlement Agreement and General Release become effective immediately following execution by Consales and the B ard, but be contingent pon approval by the Office of Administrative Law and Commissio1'r of Education. In the event that approval is not given for this Agreement, Consales all refund all monies provided to hlm hereunder to the Board. In the event that the 1 e r l y i n g tenure charges are litigated as a result of this Agreement being voided in its en ety by the OAL or Commissioner, any amounts paid under this Agreement must be lpplied by the parties against any potential Board liability (i.e., subsequent settle r,t, a detennination of back pay damages or the forced continuation of salary durinj the pendancy of the litigation). In the event that litigation is re-instituted and the BoarJ prevails, Consales shall re-pay any amounts paid under this Agreement, except as o t h e 7 e ordered by the Court.

29. Consales and the Board shall bear all c sts and exper es arising from the a tions of their own counsel in connection with the Settlement ieement and General Release. A; further consideration for this Settlement Agreemen;:jan.d General Release, Consales and his attorney agree that the sums set forth in Paragrapij 6 represent all of the monies which the Board has agreed and will ever agree to pay to iConsales and bis attorneys and that any additional attorneys fee which may arise from the actions of Consales' attorneys in connection with the incidents set forth and any in;dents relo!ed thereto to the tenure charge docketed before the OAL are to be home by G nsales.

30. This Settlement Agreeme11t and General Release co ta:i:ns the entire Agreement between Gonsales and the Board with regard to the matters ! et forth in it, and shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of their offic:@$, officers, directors, attorneys, representatives, employees, associates, pa.rtne, agents, servants, executors, administrators, personal representatives, heirs, succ ssors and assigns of each, and all other persons, finns, corporations, associations or :iartnersbips or any other entity or persons connected th rewith, except as set forth h or as may be agreed to in writing between the parti s.

31. In entering into this Settlement Agreement and G peral Release, Consales has relied upon the legal advice of his attorney, who is the a t m e y of bis ovvn choice, as to the terms of this Settlement Agreement and General lease which have been completely read and explained by his attorney and those terms are fully understood and voluntarily accepted.

32. This Settlement Agreement and General Release become effective immediately following execution by all the following parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, Consales and the Board have hereunto set their hands.

RICHARD CONSALES

Gary Kraemer, Esq.

Richard Consales

IRACYNCKEJI
·10 No. 225H>23
IOARV PUIUC OF NEW JERSEY
Commission Expires 5/22/'JIIJS

SUSSEX COUNTY VOCATIONAL AND TECHNICAL BOARD OF EDUCATION

By:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY)
) ss.
COUNTY OF 0U5XIf)

I, (rCluj e , TucJv· ' a #iotary Public, d hereby certify that Richard Consales, personally known to me to be the same ierson whose name is subscribed to the foregoing instrument, appeared before me this day person and acknowledges that he signed and delivered the said instrument as his free and vol ta:ry act, for the uses and purposes set forth therein.

Given under m:x hand and official seal thls _Jy . Jiay of _JlnL, 2003.

No uouc.
TUCKER
ID - 2251023
NOTARY PtJIIUC OF NEW JiRSEY
\ l,y,\wNot.\lli\w11.1u:n\SVS-I 13 SculcmcnL Aammcll1 06,,;l;l-O:S.MA'I'.doc iExphS 5'1J/61J5

EXHIBIT A - TO BE RE-PRINTED ONTO LETTERHEAD AND SIGNED BY LEACH

To. Whom It May Concern:

I recon:unend Richard Consales for your Master's Digree Program. I was his supervisor for the five years that he was an instructor of the Grap]#c Arts Program at Sussex County Technical School located in Sparta TO\,vnship, New Jersey.]?uring the time I supervised him, be received exceptional evaluations and I highly recommend as an excellent candidate for a Master's Degree Program.

Thank you for your consideration of this letter.

Very truly yours,

_____

William Leach

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5934-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 206-7/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING	:
OF RICHARD CONSALES, SUSSEX COUNTY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TECHNICAL SCHOOLS, SUSSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon his careful and independent review of the terms of the settlement, together with the full record in this matter, the Commissioner cannot be satisfied that the proposed settlement meets the standards for review of settlements in tenure matters set forth in In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, ajf'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, 850-851, wherein the State Board found that a proposed tenure settlement or withdrawal should be accompanied by supporting documentation as to the nature of the charges, the circumstances justifying the settlement, the consent by the board of education and the teacher to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's (AU) findings that the agreement is consistent with the public interest, and that the agreement was entered into by the teacher with a full understanding of his or her rights, including the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certification.

Initially, the Commissioner finds that the within agreement is devoid of the content and analysis fundamental to a board's duty to act in a manner consistent with public policy. Cardonick at 848. Here, respondent, a tenured teacher in the Print Communications

Shop, is charged with 14 counts of unbecoming conduct, incompetence, insubordination and other just cause by virtue of his alleged fraudulent submission of time sheets, misappropriation of cash deposits, diversion of school/public monies, disparate treatment of female students, sexual harassment and/or sexism directed toward female students, degrading, violent and aggressive behavior towards students, name-calling, humiliation and ridiculing of students, jeopardizing the safety and welfare of students, awarding of grades not based on merit and failure to administer tests, as well as a host of other alleged offenses. It is well-established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, a board may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges can no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth S. Smith, School District of the City of Orange, Essex County, decided by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, 1983 S.L.D. 489, aff'd N.J. Superior Court, Apellate Division, January 30, 1986. In this regard, the District now affirms only that:

> [T]he parties elected to settle all outstanding matters and allegations in dispute in lieu of conducting the hearing, so as to avoid expending further resources and to eliminate the uncertainties of litigation[.] (Settlement Agreement at 1)

Given the serious nature of the charges against respondent, the Commissioner finds the above statement by the Board insufficient to persuade the Commissioner that, in evaluating the within agreement under Cardonick, the circumstances in this matter justify the settlement and that the settlement is consistent with the public interest. This is of particular import in the instant matter where there are specific allegations involving inappropriate interactions with students and where the settlement provides for substantial sums of money to be paid to respondent, as well as a continuation of respondent's health benefits for up to a year. The Commissioner also observes that the Board has not provided any explanation as to why the circumstances in this matter justify the Board's provision of a recommendation for respondent to enter a master's degree program nor how the public interest is served by such recommendation.

Secondly, the Commissioner notes that the proposed agreement does not indicate that respondent was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of his certificate.

Moreover, it is observed that two unidentified individuals signed the proposed settlement on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the Settlement Agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the proposed settlement, and the agreement is not signed by the Board attorney, who is petitioner's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Settlement Agreement must be rejected by the Commissioner.

Additionally, it appears that the terms of the settlement have already been effectuated through the Board's initial distribution to respondent of $21,000 on July 1, 2003, an additional $128,000 to be paid on a prorated basis commencing on or about August 1, 2003 for 24 consecutive months, and employer-paid health insurance for a period not to exceed 12 months from July 1, 2003 or until respondent is eligible to receive health benefits through a new employer or by being self-employed. Notwithstanding that the proposed settlement provides for respondent's repayment of these distributions should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement, the Commissioner reminds the Board that it has acted at its own peril, since settlement agreements of controverted matters are of no force and effect and may not be implemented absent the Commissioner's approval pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Finally, the Commissioner is compelled to comment on Term #19 of the herein proposed Settlement Agreement. Although the parties may agree between themselves to keep the specific terms of a settlement agreement confidential, it does not in any way alter the fact that the filing of tenure charges, tenure charge documents and any record of or determination related to same are a matter of public record. See Williams v. The Board of Educ. of the Atlantic City Public Schools et al., 329 N.J. Super. 308 (App. Div. 2000). Moreover, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1: 1-14.1 (a), records of all hearings shall be open for public inspection unless, for good cause shown, the A U orders the sealing of the record, or any part thereof. Furthermore, the Commissioner cautions the Board that any action it may take with respect to disclosure of information regarding this tenure matter must fully comport with the requirements of New Jersey's Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:lA-1 et seq.

In conclusion, while the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation to the schools and children of this State, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra. Accordingly, the proposed settlement is rejected for the reasons expressed herein.

The Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for expansion of the record and revision of the Settlement Agreement, consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/10/03

Date of Mailing: 9/11/03

• This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. lSA:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-l.1 et seq.

542-('J

/1542-03

N.W.O'H, on behalf of minor children, M.P.O'H. AND C.M.O'H.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF DOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

September 15,2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11219-02

AGENCY DKT. NO. 276-9/02

N.W.O'H., o/b/o MINOR CHILDREN,

M.P.O'H. AND C.M.O'H.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE

TOWN OF DOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,

Respondent.

Robert J. Stickles, Esq., appearing for petitioner
(Klett, Rooney, Lieber & Schorling, attorneys)

Philip E. Stern, Esq., appearing for respondent
(Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 18, 2003 Decided: July 29, 2003

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

Petitioner N.W.O'H. requested a hearing on behalf of minor children, M.P.O'H. and C.M.O'H., challenging the Board of Education's residency determination in this matter. In accordance with 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415 and 34 C.F.R. § 300.500 et seq., the Commissioner of Education requested that an Administrative Law Judge conduct a hearing. This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on December 31, 2002, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for April 4, 2003 at the OAL, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. During a telephone conference held on March 26, 2003, the parties requested that the hearing be adjourned to discuss settlement. After several discussions, they submitted the attached Settlement Agreement and Release, which sets forth the terms of the settlement.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement and Release, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:148-10.

DA' J–9, ;Jo7:; 3

MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

DAI03

/Jl-1.Jift:rttliD,. &u_,a.,Q

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Maile t /JY•

w.:EF ACTING DIPECTOR AND ADMSNISTfiATIVE LAW JUDGE

AUG 4 2003

DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

jb

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release ("Agr e ent") madk. thij] ____ day of _J \I\ o ___, 2003, by and between the Dover Board of Education ("Board"), and Mr. N. W. O'Halloran, ("Mr. O'Halloran") on behalf of minor children, M.P. O'H., and C.M. O'H. ("the Children").

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the Board and Mr. O'Halloran have been involved in a litigation styled, KN.W. O'H. on behalf of minor children. M.P. O'H. and C.M. O'H v. Dover Board of Education, Docket Number EDUOS 11219-02N (hereinafter referred to as "the Litigation"); and

WHEREAS, the Board and Mr. O'Halloran desire to resolve amicably and in good faith all matters and issues arising out of the Litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing and in consideration of their respective rights and obligations set forth herein and for other good and sufficient consideration, receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the Board and Mr. O'Halloran agree as follows:

ARTICLE I

Release

1.1 Mr. O'Halloran's Release of the Board - For its obligations pursuant to this Agreement, Mr. O'Halloran hereby releases and discharges the Board, any and all of its former and current trustees, officers, employees, agents, contractors, representatives, predecessors, successors and assigns, as well as its heirs, executors and administrators, from liability on or for the Litigation styled, KN.W. O'H. on behalf of minor children, M.P. O'H. and C.M. O'H v. Dover Board of Education, Docket Number EDUOS l 1219-02N.

1.2 The Board's Release of Mr. O'Halloran -- For his obligations pursuant to this Agreement, the Board hereby releases and discharges Mr. O'Halloran, any and all of his agents, representatives, predecessors, successors and assigns, as well as his children, heirs, executors and administrators, from liability on or for the Litigation styled, KN.W. O'H., on behalf of minor children. M.P. O'H. and C.M. O'H v. Dover Board of Education, Docket Number EDUOS 11219-02N.

ARTICLE II

Terms of Settlement

2.1 Consideration - As consideration for Mr. O'Halloran's Release as set forth herein, the Board will allow the Children to attend Dover Public Schools for the remainder of the 2002-2003 school year. The Board waives any past or present tuition which may be due and owing resulting from the Children's attendance at the Dover Public Schools at any time through and including the 2002-2003 school year. In the event that Mr. O'Halloran moves to Dover such that he establishes residence in Dover, the Children will be entitled to a free public education in the Dover Public Schools. In the event that Mr. O'Halloran remains in his present residence, the Children will be enrolled in the Rockaway Public Schools for the 2003-2004 school year; provided, however, that shonld it develop that the residence is actually within the municipal boundary of Dover, the children will be entitled to a free, public education in the Dover Public Schools. In the event that Mr. O'Halloran moves to another location outside of Dover, and establishes residence in that location, the Children will be enrolled in that location's public schools. Mr. O'Halloran and the Board understand that the aforementioned consideration is all either party will be entitled to under this Agreement.

ARTICLE III

Miscellaneous

3.1. Entire Agreement - This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement between the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes any and all prior agreements relating thereto. There are no other understandings or agreements between or among the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof, except to set forth herein, and as set forth in any other documents executed directly or in connection with this Agreement. No condition or provision of this Agreement may be modified, waived or revised in any way except in writing executed by all parties and referring specifically to this Agreement.

3.3. No Admissions - Nothing contained in this Agreement shall be construed to constitute an admission or acknowledgment by any party hereto of any wrongful or improper conduct, nor of any liability to any other party.

3.4 Binding Effect - This Agreement and all rights and duties set forth herein shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto, as well as their respective successors and assigns.

3.5 Governing Law and Choice of Forum - This Agreement and its interpretation and performance shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey, without giving effect to its conflicts of law rules.

3.6 Partial Invalidity- In the event any provision of this Agreement is held to be contrary to or invalid under the laws of any country, state, municipality or other jurisdiction, such illegality or invalidity shall not affect in any way any of the other provisions hereof, all of which shall continue in full force and effect.

3.7 Captions - The captions set forth in this Agreement are intended solely for the parties' convenience and ease of reference and are not intended to modify, limit, describe or affect in any way the scope, content or intent or this Agreement.

3.8 Signature in Counterpart - This Agreement may be executed simultaneously in counterparts, each of which shall be deemed to be an original, but all of which shall constitute one and the same instrument.

3.9 Authorization - The Board hereby represents and warrants that the undersigned officer of' the Board is fully authorized to execute this Agreement on the B,oard•s hehalf.

3.10 InyeltiaR.tjoos - Toe parties to this Agreement acknowledge and agree that they have entered into this Agreement and have executed it without duress or coercion, aa,d have ckme so \Vith the opportunity to consult coW1Sel. Each party further acknowledges and qrees that no other party has made representations, warranties. promises or qreeinents not set forth herein and no party relies in any way upon any wtlttllllty,-statement ·of fact or opW.nr, l.ifidcmai:uliiig; aiiclosure or n'on-disclosure not set forth herein in entering into t1'Js Agreenient and executin& it. no party h u been indnced in any way, except for the consideration, representations, warranties. atatementa and coven.anti recited herein, to enter into thls Agreement.

3.1 t Conm:w;tion and Enforcement - The terms o f this Agreement are the product o f neaotiations between the parties. and shall be construed without regard to any pre6Umption or other rule requiring construction against the party causing this Agreement to be drafted.

IN wrrNBSS WHBRBOF, the parties have executed this Agreement on the date above written.

DOVER. BOARD OP EDUCATION

adu/ ,President

,/i'&le,()!/
Mr. N.W. O'Hallornn

r-y'-„.,"{;_Sk" ,c..
J ') , X~.
q/u Ju s
MI"6Yl•O'lldiian,4

cl

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11219-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2'76-9/02

N.W.O'H, on behalf of minor children, M.P.O'H. AND C.M.O'H.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF DOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the settlement agreement as the final decision in this matter.

Accordingly, the settlement is adopted as the final decision and the matter is dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/15/03

Date of Mailing: 9/15/03

543-03

K.W. and W.B., on behalf of minor child, L.B., PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MILLSTONE, SOMERSET COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

September 11, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
SETTLEMENT
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4177-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 138-5/02

K.W. and W.B., O/B/O L.B.,
Petitioner,
v.
MILLSTONE BOROUGH BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Angela White Dalton, Esq., for petitioner, (Bowe & Fernicola, attorneys)

Bruce W. Padula, Esq., for respondent (Scarinci & Hollenbeck, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 21, 2003 Decided: July 22, 2003

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 12, 2002, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Dismissal and Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

July 22, 2003
DATE

ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CH/EF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

JUL 29 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

tmp

SCARINCI & HOIJJ!Nl3B<X, LLC
1100 Valley BrcokA'ftttU.e
P.0. Box 790
Li!rndhu!st;.New Jcrrrq 07071
Tel: 201•392-8900
Att.ome)·s for Mlllstone Board o fEducation

K.W. .md. W.B ODb:.laali' of'tb.e U.OH.B.,	STATE OF NEW JERSEY OF.FJCP. OP ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
l'etlt:ionc:r.s,	O A l DOCKET Na,: EDU-4177-0.2
'!I!.	Dock.at No.: 138-5/02
MILLSTO'NEBOR.OUOHBOAIU>OP EDUCATION, Respondent.	STIPULATION 0:F OJSMISSAL M"D SE'ITLEMENT AGREEMENT

WBEREAS, on er about May 9, 2002., Petitio.neni filed a Pe:tit:.ion of Appeal with 'illl' C llioner of Sduoauon regar4ins Pctftk>11eis' i:esideccy qt:talifiem:iens for a free public education ifl the ndeat•o dbb:iot; a =

WHEREAS, on Ju.'"e 3> 200 Respolldent 6led it, Answer and widl the Commissioner; and

WHEREAS, 1:hc pmi,:= hs.ve sgr:= to am.icably n:sol this upol'1 the foll0'Wlll.J tcmm mid li!Qnditiom,

NOW THEREFORE, the parties sfipulaw B1.ld agrc= as fclkrws:

1. 'Petiti.0:0l:l'S stipglate mid agr= that tbi mattsr shall 'be dismb.sei 'With prejudiga a:Dd without 0i0ms or :ad'Ome)F1B a ;

2. Rcspo.o.d.eat stipnla:tea and agrees thm its co m for tuition oosu. shall be dismi8s.ed with dice md without costs or attomeys fees; Md

3. PQtitiorun qrc:o lo 'Withdraw I.,& from me sebooJs by Millstn11.t Borough 8 o u d of' on. and further agree not to s<lGk:m-admU:tanoe thereto.

DATED: 7/18/03

Angela White Dalton, Esq.
Attorney for Petitioners

Frank G. Chilson, Business Administrator
Millstone Borough Board of Education

{,)1>120454,00¢)

OALDKT. NO. EDU 4177-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 138-5/02

K.W. and W.B., on behalf of minor child, L.B., PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MILLSTONE, SOMERSET COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

The record, Stipulation of Dismissal and Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 have been reviewed.

Upon review, although the Commissioner has no objection to the terms of the settlement, he is compelled to reject it because the record includes no indication that the agreement was approved by the Board of Education as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:1-13.(d). In this regard, the Commissioner notes that the Department provided ample opportunity for such indication to be brought to the record prior to the Commissioner's decision in this matter, but the Board did not respond to the Department's request.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for such proceedings as are necessary to ensure compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:1-13.(d).

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/11/02
Date of Mailing: 9/11/02

544-03

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF FREDDIE WILLIAMS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:
	:

SYNOPSIS

Board of Education brought charges of excessive absenteeism and unbecoming conduct against tenured custodian.

ALJ found that the Board failed to prove charge of excessive absenteeism, finding, among other deficiencies, that the Board did not consider the reasons for and nature of respondent's absences and that it offered no proof of any adverse impact as a result of the absences. ALJ found the Board proved unbecoming conduct based on one instance of respondent's unauthorized absence from the worksite (not two, as charged) and several instances of respondent's failure to clock out at the end of his shift.

Commissioner adopted Initial Decision with modification. Commissioner concurred with ALJ's findings and conclusions as to tenure charges, but disagreed that a 30-day suspension was sufficient penalty for the charges proven. The Commissioner instead directed that respondent forfeit the salary already withheld from him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

September 15, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4579-02S

AGENCY REF. NO. 191-6/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF FREDDIE WILLIAMS, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY

Thomas W. Sumners, Jr., Esq., appearing for Petitioner (Sumners George, P.C., attorneys)

Sidney H. Lehmann, Esq., appearing for Respondent (Szaferman, Lakind, Blumstein, Blader, Lehmann & Goldshore, P.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: June 10, 2003[1] Decided: July 29, 2003

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 28, 2002, the School District of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, certified tenure charges against Freddie Williams, a tenured custodian, to the Commissioner of the State

[1] It would appear that the record should have been closed on April 28, 2003, upon receipt of appellant's post-hearing brief. However, there was some confusion over the finality of the Stipulation of Facts filed on January 23, 2003. Although filed as a joint exhibit, petitioner submitted a letter that same date objecting to the facts set forth in paragraphs 3 and 5, stating that "if there is a need to discuss the Stipulation further because Respondent does not agree with the changes set forth above, I am available for a telephone call." The undersigned anticipated that either appellant would respond to the letter or the parties would submit a revised Stipulation of Facts deleting those paragraphs. It was not until a telephone conference on June 6, 2003, that the parties indicated that with two exceptions, the Stipulation filed on January 23, 2003, was being admitted into evidence as the final version of that

Department of Education. Charge One alleged that respondent was guilty of unprofessional conduct due to excessive absenteeism, having been absent 46½ times between July 1, 2000 and June 30, 2001, and 47 times between July 1, 2001 and April 10, 2002. Charge Two alleged that respondent was guilty of insubordination for failing to sign out upon leaving the building on ten separate occasions and for an unauthorized absence from the work site. Respondent filed an answer to the tenure charges on July 8, 2002 and the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law on July 18, 2002, as a contested case in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.1, a prehearing conference should have been held by August 10, 2002, thirty days from the date the Department of Education deemed the file to be complete. For whatever reason, the Administrative Law Judge to whom this matter was initially assigned failed to schedule a prehearing conference until September 26, 2002, at which time he determined that a conflict prevented him from hearing the case. The matter was reassigned to this ALJ on September 30, 2002, and, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-13.1 and –13.2, a telephone prehearing conference was held on October 1, 2002.

At the time of the prehearing conference, the parties indicated that discovery was substantially complete. Therefore, the matter was scheduled for and commenced on October 10, 2002. Due to scheduling conflicts, the additional hearing dates of October 28 and 29, 2002, could not be honored and the matter was rescheduled for December 4, 2002, at which time the hearing was continued. The hearing concluded on January 6, 2003, and the record was closed on June 10, 2003.

---

document. The parties agreed that paragraph 5, as amended by petitioner, was acceptable; and it would be "the court's call" to decide the facts in issue in paragraph 3. Consequently, the record was closed on that date.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Stipulated Facts

Some of the material facts are not in dispute and have been agreed upon in a Stipulation of Facts submitted on January 23, 2003. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.11. That stipulation is reprinted below, verbatim:

1. Exhibits P-11, P-12, P-14 and P-15 introduced by the Petitioner, Trenton Board of Education, have been admitted into evidence as business records of the Trenton Board of Education. As such, they are not admitted to the accuracy (truth) of the matters contained within them, but rather as documents which reflect the record maintained by the Board with respect to Mr. Williams' attendance.
2. Exhibit P-15 sets forth certain notations with respect to the attendance of the Respondent, Freddie Williams, for the July 1, 2001 through June 30, 2002 school year. The parties have agreed and stipulated that the notation of C for October 31, 2001 which under the Board's codes indicates an illness in the immediate family, should be changed to a G indicating an absence due to a subpoena directed to Mr. Williams to appear in Court.
3. December 3 and December 12, 2001, which have the code symbol G entered, should be changed to a code symbol Z indicating an absence beyond the days for which Mr. Williams was entitled to paid time off. Employees are not paid for Z days because they are absences not covered by regulation. [Respondent is not paid for Z days because they are not excused absences covered by regulation.]
4. The absences set forth for February 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8, 2002 are inaccurately recorded as G days. They should be recorded as Z days as they were absences due to Mr. Williams' personal illness, which the Board maintains were in excess of the sick days for which he was entitled to compensation.
5. Rescinded.

6. In Charge 2 of the Statement of Tenure Charges the allegations of unauthorized absence from the work site are limited to only the allegations set forth in paragraph 7 with respect to January 4, 2002, referring to a failure to properly sign out for lunch and paragraph 10 with regard to an allegation the Respondent did not properly sign out when he was observed on the corner by the school speaking to an individual. None of the other dates referenced in Charge 2 related to an allegation of unauthorized absence from the work site.

Hearing Testimony and Evidence

Testimony of Judy M. Steele

Judy M. Steele has been employed by the Board for twenty-five years, the last six as Principal of the Gregory Elementary School. Ms. Steele testified that during the 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 school years, respondent was assigned to the second shift and worked from 2:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Since the light cleaners left each night at 8:00 p.m., he worked alone until 9:30 p.m. At the end of his shift, he was expected to call the Central Dispatch office, set the alarm and lock up.

On September 15, 2000, acting upon information she'd received from his supervisor, Aida Lamboy, Ms. Steele sent respondent a memorandum concerning allegations that he had, on at least two occasions, left work before his 9:30 p.m. departure time and/or failed to sign out. Specifically, on September 8, 2000, he had called out at 9:12 p.m. but failed to sign out upon leaving the building. On Thursday, September 14, 2000, he had called out at 9:05 p.m., but signed out with a 9:30 p.m. departure time.

Although respondent denied these allegations during a scheduled 3:30 p.m. meeting in her office, Ms. Steele continued to receive reports that he was "coming and going at different times without signing in and out." In fact, the alleged misconduct persisted even after the Board switched from a manual reporting system to an electric time punch clock.

Testimony of Aida Hernandez Lamboy

As head custodian at the Gregory School, Aida Lamboy is charged with the responsibility of ensuring that the building is kept clean and in good condition. She supervises two custodians, one of whom works the 6:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m. shift, and respondent, who works the 12:30 p.m. – 9:30 p.m. shift. She is also in charge of four light cleaners who work from 4:00 p.m. – 8:00 p.m.

Ms. Lamboy testified that she began reporting problems with respondent's attendance early in the 2000-2001 school year. These problems continued throughout the year and culminated with the Board sending respondent a Letter of Warning on June 15, 2001 (Exhibit P-2). The letter, which was the second such letter he had received that year, related to an incident that had taken place on June 12, 2001. On that date, respondent reported for work at 4:00 p.m., one-half hour later than his then-scheduled starting time, and left early, telling Ms. Lamboy that he "owed the district a couple of hours." Respondent's time card indicated that he punched out for the night at 11:00 p.m.

On January 7, 2002, Ms. Lamboy sent a memorandum (Exhibit P-3) to Everett Collins, the Board's Director of Facilities, concerning respondent's conduct the previous Friday, January 4, 2002. According to Ms. Lamboy, although he had not "clocked out" or called Central Dispatch to say he was leaving, respondent was not on the premises at 5:45 p.m. He returned approximately ten minutes later, explaining that he had "let another person out of the building and that's why [I] forgot to clock out." He added that he had then gone to a friend's house to get the date and time of a viewing. When asked why he had not done that during his lunch break, respondent replied that it was the time for his lunch break and he now "could clock in." At that point, Ms. Lamboy reminded him about a memo he had received concerning clocking out when leaving the building. Respondent replied, "I never leave the building for lunch."

Ms. Lamboy also advised Mr. Collins that there had been several occasions the previous month when respondent had neglected to clock out at the end of his shift. On each occasion, respondent's explanation was that he had forgotten. When she told respondent that she would be reporting this misconduct to Mr. Collins, respondent asked her if she really had to do that. She replied in the affirmative, stating, "Yes, I have to[,] is my job to do so."

On March 4, 2002, Ms. Lamboy sent Mr. Collins a letter (Exhibit P-8) concerning respondent's time card for the week ending March 1, 2002. The only entry for February 27 was a "clock in" at 12:20 p.m. The time card (Exhibit P-9) also included the following handwritten notation: "I talk to Mr. Amata about me punching out." In her letter, Ms. Lamboy questioned respondent's explanation that he'd had trouble with the clock that day because no one else had reported having had any problems punching in or out.

Ms. Lamboy also reported that upon returning from lunch at 1:04 p.m. on February 28, 2002, she observed respondent speaking to a person in a van at the corner of Rutherford and Prospect Avenues. When she clocked in, she noticed that respondent had not clocked out.

Testimony of Everett O. Collins

Everett O. Collins has been the Director of Facilities for the Trenton Board of Education for the past five years. Among many other things, he is responsible for the district's custodians. It is in this capacity that he knows respondent and is familiar with his work history.

Mr. Collins testified that on March 14, 2001, Robert Richardson, the Coordinator of Custodial Services and Grounds, sent respondent a memorandum (Exhibit P-10) regarding "Leave Abuse/Absenteeism." In this memorandum, Mr. Richardson advised respondent that because he had abused his leave privileges, he had been placed on leave restriction. Consequently, vacation and personal leave would not be granted and sick leave would be approved only if respondent submitted a doctor's note the day following the absence. These restrictions were imposed for the remainder of the school year.

Mr. Richardson also advised respondent to accept the memorandum as a warning. In the event respondent did not report for work and failed to submit a doctor's note the following day, disciplinary action, including termination proceedings, would be initiated.

On November 6, 2001, of the following school year, Mr. Collins sent respondent a memorandum (Exhibit P-13) advising him that as of October 31, 2001, he had completely exhausted all of his days. Therefore, "[f]rom this day forward, any time off will be without pay."

One month later, on December 13, 2001, Mr. Collins sent a memorandum (Exhibit P-16) to Anita McLaurin, Payroll Supervisor, concerning respondent's excessive use of leave days. In this memorandum, Mr. Collins reported that respondent, who had exhausted all of his days, had not reported for work on December 3 and December 11, 2001. Consequently, respondent was to be placed on "non-pay status" for those absences.

On January 10, 2002, Mr. Collins sent a memorandum (Exhibit P-18) to Dr. Clarence Guthrie, Assistant Superintendent for Human Resources, concerning respondent's "problem" with signing in and out during the workday. Although his supervisor, Ms. Lamboy, had warned him about this, respondent had failed to correct his misconduct. Therefore, Mr. Collins recommended that respondent be suspended from work for three days without pay "in order to rectify this problem once and for all."

Finally, on March 5, 2002, Mr. Collins sent a memorandum (Exhibit P-20) to Fougere Aupont, Human Resources Manager, recommending that respondent be terminated. In this memorandum, Mr. Collins reported that > Mr. Freddie Williams's behavior continues to be problematic. He has received numerous verbal warnings as well as memos regarding refusal to punch out when leaving the building, unexcused absences, failure to complete assigned duties etc. Mr. Williams has received both a three (3) day and a five (5) day suspension with the hopes that his behavior would improve to no avail. It is clear that Mr. Williams refuses to comply with the rules set forth by the administration and at this time I am recommending Mr. Williams (sic) employment be terminated.

Concerning respondent's alleged abuse of leave privileges, Mr. Collins testified that the collective bargaining agreement (Exhibit J-1) entitles custodians to take eighteen days of sick leave per year; three days of leave for illness in the immediate family; three days of leave for personal business or religious holidays; and, in the case of an employee such as respondent, who has been employed by the Board for five years, twelve days of vacation time. With the exception of leave taken for personal business or religious holidays, unused days are cumulative.

The Monthly Summary for the 2000-2001 contract or school year (Exhibit P-12) indicated that respondent had accumulated and carried over from the 1999-2000 school year four unused vacation days, thirteen unused sick days, and one personal day. Pursuant to the Collective Bargaining Agreement, he received a new allotment of twelve vacation days for a total of sixteen such days and used eight, leaving a balance of eight days. He also received a new allotment of eighteen sick days for a total of thirty-one such days, used them all and did not have any remaining days to carry over. Finally, he received and used the new allotment of three personal days. Consequently, for the 2001-2002 school year, respondent was entitled to twenty vacation days, eighteen sick days, and three personal days.

Testimony of Freddie Williams

Freddie Williams has been employed by the Board as a custodian for five years. He was initially hired as a substitute custodian in 1997 and became a full-time assistant custodian on January 4, 1999. Originally assigned to the Holland Middle School, he has worked at the Gregory School since July 10, 2000.

As a member of the Trenton Custodians Association, the Collective Bargaining Agreement governs the amount of leave time to which he is entitled. Under this agreement, he is entitled to eighteen days of sick leave per year; three days of leave for illness in the immediate family; three days of leave for personal business or religious holidays; and twelve days of vacation time. With the exception of leave taken for personal business or religious holidays, unused days are cumulative.

Although the Yearly Summary for 2000-2001 (Exhibit P-11) indicates that he was out sick August 14-18, 2000, he was actually on vacation at that time. Consequently, the A's, which denote personal illness, should have been V's. Similarly, he should not have been docked for half a personal business day on August 22, 2000, because he had actually left early for treatment of alcoholism at Princeton House, Medical Center of Princeton, where he attended ninety Alcoholics Anonymous meetings over ninety days. Therefore, he should have been marked as taking one-half an A day.

Respondent added that he had been in the Center's in-patient program from August 22, 2000, through September 1, 2000, and had provided Mr. Richardson with a note regarding his participation in the program. The Center's Discharge Summary Report (Exhibit R-1) verified that he had been admitted on August 23, 2000, and discharged August 28, 2000.

On February 7, 2001, respondent required treatment for a back injury suffered on January 31 of that year. He was treated at the Fischer Chiropractic Back & Neck Pain Center and cleared to return to work on February 12, 2001. The absences recorded on February 5-9, 2001, were all due to this injury.

Respondent acknowledged receiving Mr. Richardson's March 14, 2001 memorandum placing him on restricted leave. In April and May, he had to use sick leave to have all of his teeth extracted. His initial appointment was on April 2, 2001 and was followed by appointments on April 9, 2001 and May 21, 2001. The Eastern Dental Excuse Slip for April 9, 2001 (Exhibit R-3) indicated that he could return to work on April 11. The Excuse Slip dated May 21, 2001(Exhibit R-3) asked that he be excused from work May 21-23. Respondent stated that Ms. Lamboy, Mr. Collins and the Board were all provided with these notes.

Respondent asserted that during the 2000-2001 school year he did not take any sick time unless he was actually ill. Moreover, he always brought in a doctor's or dentist's note the first day he returned to work. For example, he had been trying to get his dental work done for a long time, going back to his days at the Holland Middle School. In April 2001, the time finally came to get this work done and he brought in the Excuse Slips from Eastern Dental following each appointment.

He was also physically unable to report for work July 9-13, 2001, due to a broken hand. Although the doctor did not want him to return to work until July 23, 2001, and even then only for light duty (Exhibit R-4), he came back after one week. A recurrence of the same injury caused his orthopedist to recommend he remain out of work from October 1-12, 2001 (Exhibit R-5). Yet, he returned to work on October 4, 2001.

Although charged with Z days – absences not covered by regulations – for the week of February 4-8, 2002, respondent stated that he had been hospitalized with high blood pressure. In fact, he had called the Buildings & Grounds office the morning of February 4 to state that he would be reporting to work late and, upon being hospitalized, dispatched a friend to the office to advise Mr. Collins. He later supplied a doctor's note excusing his absences February 4-11. Nevertheless, Mr. Collins deemed his sending of a friend to the office an infraction of the call out procedure, which requires the employee himself to call out sick. Then, because he did not report for work or call out on February 5, 6, and 7, Mr. Collins recommended he be suspended without pay the week of February 11-15, 2002. He did not take any action to contest the suspension.

Similarly, although he was charged with a C day – illness in the immediate family – on October 12, 2001, respondent stated that the date was actually October 31, 2001, and he had been absent because he had to honor a subpoena. Respondent elaborated on this point in his answer to the tenure charges, explaining that his mother had been a murder victim and he had taken time off to meet with the assistant prosecutor who would be trying the case and then to attend the trial against his stepfather.

Concerning his alleged failure to comply with sign-in/sign out procedures, respondent denied that he failed to sign out upon leaving the building on September 8, 2000. He also stated that although he called out at 9:12 p.m. on September 14, 2000, he did not sign out until 9:30 p.m. because he remained in the building checking windows and doors before setting the alarm and exiting. He added that this procedure normally takes forty minutes.

Respondent also maintained that he had been on the grounds, even if not in the building, the evening of January 4, 2002. After letting the light cleaners out, he drove his car around to the rear of the building on Exton to lock the back gate. Since his cousin's house is on the corner of Exton and Stuyvesant Street, he stopped by to ask her for the time of her brother's funeral. He then returned to the building where he encountered Ms. Lamboy.

Respondent allowed that he had forgotten to sign out on February 27, 2002. As soon as he realized it he spoke to Mr. Amato, who suggested that he make a notation on his time card. He followed Mr. Amato's advice but inadvertently drew the line from the notation to a space for February 26 instead of February 27.

He also admitted taking five minutes to speak to a friend during a "quick smoke" on February 28, 2002. He did not sign out because he was unaware of any rule requiring him to do so during smoking breaks.

Respondent also stated that many of his failures to sign out were due to logistics. As he explained it, the time clock is located in the rear of the building, while the key pad for the alarm is located near the front office. Once he set the alarm, he did not have enough time to go to the rear of the building, sign out and exit.

DISCUSSION OF THE LAW

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation, (a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state, . . . except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, whom may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, in turn, provides:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, . . . except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10].

Excessive Absenteeism

Excessive absenteeism may constitute sufficient grounds for the removal or suspension of a tenured employee. Passaic Bd. of Ed. v. Viani, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 76. In fact, chronic or excessive absenteeism may warrant removal even when the sick leave is taken for legitimate medical or health reasons. State-Operated School District of Jersey City v. Pellechio, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 269; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Marsden, OAL Docket Number EDU 1188-84; Kelsey v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, 1989 SLD 1622. Excessive absenteeism may also be found to constitute incapacity, unbecoming conduct, and other just cause for removal. Ibid.

The rationale underlying the principle that chronic or excessive absenteeism is conduct that warrants dismissal has, for the most part, been addressed in cases involving full-time teachers. For example, in Trenton Bd. of Ed. v. Williamson, OAL Docket No. 7335-85 (April 14, 1986), Administrative Law Judge Bruce Campbell held that "there is no question that repeated and excessive absenteeism of regular teachers poses a threat to the integrity of the educational process." Similarly, in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Reilly, 1977 S.L.D. 403, the Commissioner found that "[f]requent absences of teachers from regular classroom activity disrupt the continuity of the instructional process."

A custodian is not held to the same attendance requirements as a teacher. Passaic Bd. of Ed. v. Viani, supra, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d 76. Nevertheless, a school custodian holds a position of trust and responsibility requiring high standards of dependability. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Joseph McDougall, 1974 S.L.D. 170. Regular attendance is essential because repeated absences may make it difficult to keep the building clean and possibly jeopardize the health and safety of the students and staff members of the school. State-Operated School District of Paterson v. Watson, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 362.

The point at which absenteeism is so chronic as to warrant dismissal falls within the prerogative and discretionary authority of the local board of education, subject to review pursuant to the Commissioner's general authority to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. Ibid; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sheets, 1980 S.L.D. 1536, rev'g 1979 S.L.D. 790. Among other things, the Commissioner has conditioned dismissal upon a demonstration by the board that it has attempted to correct the pattern of absenteeism and that such efforts failed to elicit any change. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Marsden, supra, OAL Docket Number EDU 1188-84. Consequently, the nature of any warnings given to an employee and any corrective action taken by the board, as well as the reasons for the absences, are relevant to the questions of whether discipline should be imposed. Passaic Bd. of Ed. v. Viani, supra, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d 76. There must also be a showing of the harm the custodial employee's absences have had on the provision of a thorough and efficient education. Ibid.

The number of leave days to which a custodial employee of the Trenton Board of Education is entitled derives from the Agreement between the Trenton School Custodians Association and the Trenton Board of Education (Exhibit J-1). Pursuant to this Agreement, respondent was entitled to take eighteen days of sick leave per year; three days of leave for illness in the immediate family; three days of leave for personal business or religious holidays; and, in the case of an employee such as respondent who has been employed by the Board for five years, twelve days of vacation time. With the exception of leave taken for personal business or religious holidays, unused days are cumulative. Personal business or religious days not used may only be added to accumulated sick leave for calculation of retirement benefits. They may not be accumulated for any other purpose.

At the end of the 1999-2000 school year, his first as a full-time custodian, respondent had thirteen unused sick days, four unused vacation days and one unused personal day. Starting July 1, 2000, respondent received a credit of three family illness days, three personal days, eighteen sick days and twelve vacation days for the 2000-2001 school year. Therefore, the Board's records indicated that he had available to him a total of fifty-four paid leave days; eighteen carried over from 1999-2000 and thirty-six credited for the following year.[2]

[2] The plain language of Article IX, Section E, of the Agreement between the Custodians Association and the Board would appear to prohibit employees from accumulating unused personal business days or religious holidays for use in the following year. In what may have been a bookkeeping error, the Board credited respondent with the unused personal day from the 1999-2000 school year, giving him a total of four for 2000-2001. The error must have been caught, because after respondent used three personal days in 2000-2001, the end-of-year monthly summary for the 2001-2002 school year did not credit him with an unused day and showed a zero balance in the personal day column.

During the course of the 2000-2001 school year, respondent used all thirty-one of his allotted sick days. Seven of these days were taken after he had received the March 14, 2001 memorandum from Robert Richardson placing him on leave restriction. Respondent substantially complied with the requirements of this memo and, with but one exception, the sick days taken after March 14, 2001 were all excused.

According to the 2000-2001 Yearly Summary (Exhibit P-11), respondent called out sick on April 2-3 and 9, 2001, as well as May 14-15 and 21-22 of that year. The excuse slips obtained from Eastern Dental (Exhibit R-3) asked that he be excused on April 2, April 9-11 and May 21-23. Therefore, the absence on April 3 was unexcused. Yet, when he could have remained home with excused absences on April 10 and 11, he reported for work. Then, although the dentist excused him from work May 21-23, he inexplicably used a vacation day instead of a sick day on May 23.

Overall, respondent's testimony and documentary evidence disclosed excuses for slightly more than half of the thirty-one sick days taken in 2000-2001 as follows:

- The Medical Center's Discharge Summary (Exhibit R-1) accounted for his absences on August 23, 24 and 25, 2000. Discharged on August 28, respondent did not use another sick day, but took a vacation day instead. He added that although he had been recorded as out sick on August 14-18, 2000, he was actually on vacation those five days. While this assertion cannot be verified on the record before me, given the number of other disputed entries in the Board's Yearly Summaries, it is not inconceivable. Therefore, the eight sick days he took that month may be considered excused.
- The Fischer Chiropractic Back & Neck Pain Center's certificate (Exhibit R-2) excused his absences for February 7, 8 and 9, 2001. According to respondent, all of his absences that week were due to the same back injury. Since it may be that he was hurt on February 5 and could not get in to see the doctor until February 7, his absences the week of February 5-9 may be considered excused.

Therefore, respondent should have had a total of fifty-three and not fifty-four leave days available to him in 2001-2002.

- Eastern Dental Center's Excuse Slips (Exhibit R-3) explained his absences on April 2 and 9, as well as May 21-22, 2001, for a total of four days.

Therefore, although the Board asserts that respondent only submitted documentation for eleven of the thirty-one days, and respondent argues that there was documentation to cover twenty-three of those days, it would appear that the actual number is closer to seventeen, the midpoint between the parties' totals.

The Board has made much of the fact that respondent took seven sick days after he received Mr. Richardson's March 14, 2001 memo placing him on restricted leave. As respondent correctly points out, the memo did not prohibit him from taking any additional sick leave. Rather, it put him on notice that if he was absent again and failed to provide a doctor's certificate, disciplinary action, including termination proceedings, might begin. Yet, when respondent used sick days on April 3 and May 14-15 and did not provide doctor's notes, the Board did not take any corrective or punitive action, such as withholding his increment or imposing a suspension. Instead, it focused on respondent's overall number of sick days, added it to the days he took in 2001-2002, and initiated the present tenure proceedings.

Be that as it may, the fact remains and I FIND that respondent did not exceed the number of sick days he was contractually entitled to take during the 2000-2001 school year. In fact, even with the Board's unexplained withholding of one day's pay in July 2000 for an unspecified reason, and one-half day's pay in June 2001 for an unauthorized personal illness, the sick day column in the Monthly Summary (Exhibit P-12) had a zero and not a negative balance. Given the fact that all of his other absences were vacation or personal days respondent was entitled to under the Agreement, respondent's absenteeism in 2000-2001was not technically excessive.

However, that does not necessarily mean that his absenteeism in 2000-2001 could not form the basis for the Board's initiation of tenure charges and ultimate decision to terminate his employment. Smith v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, OAL Docket No. EDU 5255-88; Bas Zion Kelsey v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, 1989 SLD 1638. As the Commissioner of Education stated in Kelsey:

> Initially, it is stressed that absences, even legitimate ones which do not exceed statutory or contractual entitlements, may be the basis for increment withholding, notwithstanding the fact that a teacher's performance may be good, or even excellent, when he or she is present in the classroom. . . . What a board of education is required to show, however, is that there was consideration of (1) the particular circumstances of the absences and not merely the number of absences . . .; (2) the impact that the absences had on the continuity of instruction during the period of time the absences occurred, not merely after the fact; and (3) that there be some warning given to the employee that his or her superiors were dissatisfied with the pattern of absences. (Citations omitted)

Although respondent may not have submitted doctors' and dentists' notes covering all of the sick days he used, those he did submit certainly made the Board aware of his medical and dental problems. However, there is no evidence to suggest that the Board actually considered them. If anything, it would appear that the Board was focused exclusively on the number and not the nature of those problems. By way of example, in his March 14, 2001, memorandum to respondent (Exhibit P-10), Mr. Richardson states that the Board extends leave privileges to employees "when there is a legitimate need." In the very next sentence he goes on to state that "abuse of leave privileges is another matter" and proceeds to place him on leave restriction. The unmistakable implication is that most if not all of respondent's leave days were taken for other than legitimate purposes. It is almost as if the doctors' notes were accepted as simply verifying that respondent had been absent on a particular day. There is nothing in the record disclosing consideration of "the particular circumstances of the absences and not merely the number of absences." Ibid.

Similarly, the record does not contain any evidence illustrating "the impact that the absences had on the continuity of instruction during the period of time the absences occurred." Ibid. Neither Ms. Steele, Ms. Lamboy, nor Mr. Collins testified that respondent's numerous absences had a deleterious impact on the budget, scheduling, or morale, much less resulted in dirty or unsanitary conditions. In fact, the only mention of dirty conditions was in Mr. Collins' June 15, 2001 Letter of Warning (Exhibit P-2), and even there it was in the context of respondent having left the building for a period of time without punching his time card.

On the facts presented, I CANNOT FIND that respondent's absences during the 2000-2001 school year were excessive, improper, or deleterious to the overall delivery of educational services. However, those absences remain in play because they may also be viewed in conjunction with his absences in the 2001-2002 school year. As the Hon. Joseph Lavery, ALJ, held in Smith v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, supra, OAL Docket No. EDU 5255-88:

> Past conduct over a reasonably relevant period of time may be considered, where it establishes a pattern which has continued into the school year in which the action to withhold the increment is taken. Where conduct not warranting board action to withhold salary increments in a single year continues in subsequent years, and a cumulative effect of the pattern imposes a deleterious impact on the delivery of educational services, the board may withhold future increments because of this continuing pattern.

Id. at p. 7, citing Borrelli v. Bd. of Education, Borough of Rutherford, State Board decision, July 3, 1985, at 5-6. Therefore, following an examination of respondent's absences during the 2001-2002 school year, it will be necessary to determine whether the absences in 2000-2001 and 2001-2002, when viewed together, establish a pattern of chronic behavior.

When the new school year began on July 1, 2002, respondent had available for his use eighteen days of sick leave, three days of leave for family illness, three personal days, and twenty days of vacation leave. How respondent may have used those days remains unclear because the Board's records are somewhat inconsistent. For example, the monthly summary (Exhibit P-14) indicates that by the end of October respondent had exhausted his eighteen days of sick leave, three days of leave for family illness and three personal days. However, the daily summary (Exhibit P-15) indicates that he had only taken sixteen days of sick leave, one day of leave for family illness and one personal day. Much more confusing is the fact that the same daily summary, printed out seven months before Exhibit P-15 and attached to the Statement of Tenure Charges, discloses that respondent had in fact exhausted his eighteen days of sick leave, three days of leave for family illness, and three personal days.[3]

[3] In his post-hearing brief, respondent attempts to amplify the inconsistencies in the Board's records by drawing comparisons to the Absence Record for 2001-2002 (Exhibit J-2). In so doing he has presumably forgotten that it was at his insistence that this exhibit was admitted into evidence on the condition that only the letter codes at the bottom

Similarly, Exhibit P-15 charged respondent with unauthorized absences on December 3 and 12, 2001, and February 4-8 and 11-15, 2002, for a total of twelve such absences. Yet, the version of P-15 attached to the Statement of Tenure Charges lists those same days as absences necessitated by his having been subpoenaed to appear in court or by virtue of his being a party in a court action. Respondent was not a party in the case and he introduced into evidence but one subpoena (Exhibit R-6) that covered an absence on October 31, 2001. Article IX, paragraph F, of Collective Bargaining Agreement provides that only absences necessitated by subpoena shall not result in a deduction of salary. Therefore, had those February dates been court related, eleven of these twelve absences still would have been unauthorized and more properly designated as "Z" days.

The Stipulation of Facts clears up half of this inconsistency. Pursuant to paragraph 4, the absences set forth for February 4-8, 2002 were inaccurately recorded as G days. Instead, they should have been recorded as Z days since they were absences due to Mr. Williams' personal illness, which the Board maintains were in excess of the number of sick days to which he was contractually entitled. However, it is the remaining five Z days covering February 11-15, that are much more problematic.

By memorandum dated February 7, 2002, Mr. Collins advised respondent that he was recommending respondent be suspended for a period of five days commencing February 11, 2002. According to Mr. Collins, the recommendation was being made as a result of respondent's violation of the call out procedure on February 4, 2002, and subsequent failure to report for work on February 5, 6 and 7.[4] Respondent did not contest the suspension and therefore did not report for work the week of February 11-15, 2002.

---

of the document were to be considered. The actual letter entries on any given date were to be ignored. As it happens, Exhibit J-2 would have supported the version of P-15 attached to the Statement of Tenure Charges.

[4] There is no dispute that respondent also failed to report for work on February 8, 2002. Had Mr. Collins waited one more day, he most assuredly would have added that absence to the list of dates on which respondent had failed to report for work. Therefore, rather than consider it a separate infraction worthy of discipline in its own right, in the interests of fairness I am instead considering the five-day suspension as having been based upon respondent's failure to report for work the week of February 4-8, 2002.

Although the Board suspended and ordered respondent not to report for work, it nevertheless proceeded to charge him with five Z days for that period of time. It is difficult to understand how these five days could have been "absence[s] not covered by regulations" when they were the product of a suspension imposed in accordance with regulations. But even more incomprehensible is the Board's subsequent decision to include these five days of suspension in the Statement of Tenure Charges. See Charge One, paragraph 3.[5] The Board cannot on one hand order respondent not to report for work and then, on the other, charge him with unauthorized absences after he followed that order. Therefore, insofar as the charge of excessive absenteeism for the 2001-2002 school year is concerned, I FIND that respondent's absences of February 11-15 should not be considered and must be removed from those upon which the Board relies.

It is equally troubling that the Board has included the absences of February 4-8 in the Statement of Tenure Charges. The suspension of February 11-15 was expressly imposed as punishment for these unauthorized absences.[6] To allow the Board to include the same absences among those upon which it is seeking respondent's termination would be to punish him twice for the same offense. I therefore further FIND that the absences of February 4-8 also should not be considered and must be removed from those upon which the Board relies.

When the 2001-2002 school year began, respondent had available for his use eighteen days of sick leave, three days of leave for family illness and three personal days. As of October 31, 2001, he had exhausted all twenty-four of those days. Thereafter, he was charged with two absences in December and the aforementioned ten absences in February. After adding in the eleven vacation days he used, the Board charges that respondent was absent from work on forty-seven occasions. However, having found that the February absences ought not be considered, the total must be adjusted down to thirty-seven. Moreover, since the number of vacation days respondent has taken in any given year has never been an issue and should not factor into this equation, the net number of absences should be twenty-six, two over the allotment of twenty-four,[7] and I so FIND.

[5] "After exhausting all of his leave days for the 2001-2002 period, Respondent was again absent for two (2) days in December 2001 and ten (10) days in February 2002."

[6] There is little doubt that February 8, 2002, would have been included but for the fact Mr. Collins drafted his memo on Thursday, February 7 instead of waiting to see if respondent reported for work the following day.

Insofar as the actual sick days are concerned, there is once again nothing in the record disclosing that the Board considered "the particular circumstances of the absences and not merely the number of absences." Kelsey v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, supra, 1989 SLD 1638. The Board could not dispute that respondent was physically unable to report for work July 9-13, 2001, due to a broken hand. It had been provided with the July 12, 2001, letter from Mercer-Bucks Orthopaedics and was aware that the doctor did not want him to return to work until July 23, 2001, and even then only for light duty. It must also have been aware that he came back after one week. A recurrence of the same injury caused his orthopedist to recommend that he remain out of work from October 1-12, 2001. Yet, he returned to work on October 4, 2001. The nature of his injuries and the fact that he prematurely returned to work on two occasions seems not to have mattered.

Additionally, as was the case with his absences in 2000-2001, the record is bereft any evidence illustrating the impact that the absences may have had on the school during the period of time the absences occurred. Ibid. As stated earlier, neither Ms. Steele, Ms. Lamboy, nor Mr. Collins testified that respondent's absences caused scheduling problems or had a negative impact on morale, much less resulted in dirty or unsanitary conditions. Once again, it would appear that the Board was preoccupied with the number of absences, not the adverse impact, if any, they may have had.

On the facts presented, I FIND that respondent's absences during the 2001-2002 school year were, technically, excessive. However, I CANNOT FIND that they were necessarily illegitimate or deleterious to the overall delivery of educational services.

[7] Respondent carried a balance of eight vacation days over to the 2001-2002 school year. When added to the twelve additional days he automatically received, he had a total of twenty such leave days. Had he used them for his absences on December 3 and 12, 2001, a charge of excessive absenteeism would have been more difficult to sustain, particularly when there was no evidence establishing that the absences had a deleterious impact on the delivery of educational services.

In Smith v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, supra, OAL Docket No. EDU 5255-88, Judge Lavery held that misconduct continuing from one year to the next, such that it established a pattern, warranted board action even though the misconduct would not necessarily have warranted board action in a single year. However, in order for the action to be sustained, the board first had to establish that "a cumulative effect of the pattern imposes a deleterious impact on the delivery of educational services." Having already found that the record is bereft of any evidence establishing that respondent's absences had any impact, much less a deleterious one, on the delivery of educational services in 2000-2001 and 2001-2002, I FIND that the issue of whether or not the continuing conduct over the course of these two years constituted a pattern warranting termination is now moot.

Unbecoming Conduct

The remaining charges against respondent, alleging unauthorized absence from the worksite and failure to follow established procedures for signing out, fall under the general heading of unbecoming conduct. While there is no single definition of the term, unbecoming conduct on the part of public employees may include excessive, violent, or other intemperate behavior that is not in accord with propriety, modesty, good taste or manners, or behavior that is otherwise unsuitable, indecorous, or improper under the circumstances. It may consist of conduct that is disrespectful to one's supervisors, discourteous to one's fellow employees and disruptive of governmental operations. A finding of unbecoming conduct does not require that any specific rule or regulation has been violated, but may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior. In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960); Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317, 323 (App. Div. 1967).

In the field of education, our Supreme Court has held that the touchstone of the charge is a teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of the office or position. Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957), See also, In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 *N.J. Super.*13, 28-29 (App. Div. 1974), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 292 (1974). A significant number of cases have found certain types of specific behavior to be unbecoming conduct as well. For example, in In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967), the use of physical force by a teacher to maintain discipline was held to constitute unbecoming conduct. Similarly, in Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737, 741 (App. Div. 1988), a teacher with an uncontrollable temper who verbally and physically abused students was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct.

Unbecoming conduct may be found where there has been a series of incidents indicating a pattern of behavior, or a single sufficiently flagrant incident. Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd o.b. 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A 1944). In Redcay, a school principal was found guilty of the charges of inefficiency, incapacity, insubordination, lack of cooperation, unfitness and conduct generally unbecoming a principal. In so finding, the court stated:

> Unfitness for a task is best shown by numerous incidents. Unfitness for a position under the school system is best evidenced by a series of incidents. Unfitness to hold a post might be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it might also be shown by many incidents. Fitness may be shown either way.
> [130 N.J.L. at 371.]

Unbecoming Conduct – Unauthorized Absence from Worksite

The Board alleges that although he had not "clocked out" or called Central Dispatch to say he was leaving, respondent was not on the school grounds at 5:45 p.m. the evening of January 4, 2002. He returned approximately ten minutes later and, upon being confronted by his supervisor, Aida Lamboy, explained that he had "let another person out of the building and that's why [I] forgot to clock out." He added that he had then gone to a friend's house to get the date and time of a viewing. When asked why he had not done that during his lunch break, respondent replied that it was the time for his lunch break and he now "could clock in." At that point, Ms. Lamboy reminded him about a memo he had received concerning clocking out when leaving the building. Incongruously, respondent replied, "I never leave the building for lunch."

Respondent testified that although he was not in the building, he had been on the grounds that night. At the time in question, he had let the light cleaners out and driven his car around to the rear of the building on Exton to lock the back gate. Since his cousin's house is on the corner of Exton and Stuyvesant Street, he stopped by to ask her for the time of her brother's funeral. He then returned to the building where he encountered Ms. Lamboy.

One factor to consider in determining which party's version of an incident has the "reasonable probability of truth" is that the "interest, motive, biases or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify [the trier of fact], whose providence it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952). More importantly, in so far as this matter is concerned, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Careful comparison of Ms. Lamboy's and respondent's respective versions of the incident discloses that they are actually quite similar and tend to support one another. To the extent they differ, it is in the number, and to a certain extent, the nature of the details provided. Each version tends to fill in the blanks left by the other and the two may be read together as one unified narrative. However, there is an old saying that "the devil is in the details," and a close reading of the details provided by respondent more than suggests that, even without addressing Ms. Lamboy's testimony, his version of the incident is incredible.

Initially, respondent stated that at the time in question, 5:45 p.m., he had let the light cleaners out and driven his car around to the rear of the building on Exton to lock the back gate. However, the principal, Ms. Steele, testified that the light cleaners leave each night at 8:00 p.m. Moreover, Ms. Lamboy stated that when she could not find respondent in the building she had asked "one of the ladies," i.e. one of the light cleaners,[8] if she knew where he had gone. Had respondent actually let the light cleaners out, there would not have been anyone left for Ms. Lamboy to question concerning his whereabouts.

One must also question why he drove his car around to the rear of the building on Exton to lock the back gate. Certainly, he could have accessed the gate just as easily by exiting the building and walking through the lot. It is conceivable that it may have been because his car had been parked on the street and he wanted to move it to the lot for the balance of the evening. But it is just as plausible that he had decided to run a quick errand and did not believe he or his car would be missed. In fact, had Ms. Lamboy not returned to retrieve her paycheck at that particular time, his absence would have gone unnoticed.

[8] Ms. Lamboy testified that in addition to two custodians, she supervises four light cleaners who work from 4:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Finally, respondent testified that although he was not in the building, he had been on the grounds. However, it is respondent's own words that belie that statement. By his own admission, he stopped by his cousin's house, which is located on the corner of Exton and Stuyvesant Street, to ask her for the time of her brother's funeral. In fact, this statement is consistent with the one he gave to Ms. Lamboy that evening. No matter how proximate to the school it may have been, the cousin's house was not on the grounds.

In his closing brief, respondent asserts that the testimony, as well as Exhibit P-3, establishes that this incident took place during his lunch break, a period during which he is entitled to leave the grounds. Therefore, the most he can be charged with is a failure to sign out. However, respondent appears to be stretching the record. Among other things, respondent did not testify that he had visited his cousin's house during his lunch break. Moreover, a careful reading of Exhibit P-3 discloses that it was not respondent, but Ms. Lamboy, who first mentioned lunch when she asked him why he had not gone to his cousin's house during his lunch break. Although he replied, "this is my lunch time," when reminded about the policy of clocking out for lunch he stated, "I never leave the building for lunch," failing to recognize the inherent contradiction in those two statements. Therefore, on the facts presented, I FIND that respondent was absent from the worksite without authorization.

The Board also alleges and Ms. Lamboy testified that on February 28, 2002 at 1:04 p.m., she observed respondent speaking to a person in a van at the corner of Rutherford and Prospect Avenues. When she clocked in, she noticed that respondent had not clocked out. For his part, respondent admitted taking five minutes to speak to a friend during a "quick smoke" on February 28, 2002. He did not sign out because he was unaware of any rule requiring him to do so during smoking breaks.

It is notable that the Board does not dispute respondent's statement that he was on a smoking break. Although Ms. Lamboy testified that she was returning from her lunch break at that time, she did not state that respondent was or should have been on his. Nor did the board offer any testimonial or documentary evidence concerning the length of "smoking" breaks or the procedure that should be followed in taking them. Examination of the time cards in evidence discloses two sign in and two sign out lines for each day worked in any given week. From that, one might reasonably infer that an employee was only required to clock in at the beginning of the shift, clock out for lunch, clock back in at the conclusion of lunch, and clock out at the end of the shift. Consequently, the fact that respondent did not clock out does not, as the Board would suggest, mean that he improperly failed to follow clocking out procedures and I so FIND.

More importantly, the evidence presented does not lead to an inescapable conclusion that respondent was absent from the grounds without authorization. Assuming that a custodian is not required to clock out for a smoking break, it is not unreasonable to assume that such a policy anticipates that the break will be brief and the custodian will remain on the grounds and available if needed. Here, there is nothing to suggest that when respondent's friend pulled over at the corner of Rutherford and Prospect Avenues and respondent walked out to greet him it was anything but spontaneous. Common sense also suggests that if respondent and his friend had a need to discuss something important at length and could only get together during his shift, respondent would not have arranged to do so during an extended smoking break in broad daylight right in front of the school.

Significantly, the Board did not offer any evidence that respondent's break was for a period of time longer than it takes to smoke a cigarette. It appears to have taken a rather rigid stance that any departure from the grounds without first signing out, no matter how long the duration, is by definition an unauthorized absence. Taken to an illogical extreme, a custodian who spontaneously left the grounds to assist a pedestrian or remove a safety hazard from the sidewalk would be guilty of an unauthorized absence. Therefore, in the absence of a specific policy concerning smoking breaks, I FIND that respondent's absence was of such a short duration and so de minimis that it does not constitute an unauthorized absence.

Unbecoming Conduct – Failure to Sign Out

The final charges against respondent relate to his alleged failure to clock out on September 20-21, 2001; November 14 and 16, 2001; December 10-12 and 20-21, 2001; and February 27, 2002. In support of these charges the Board introduced time cards that disclose the following information:

- The time card for the week ending September 21, 2001, Exhibit P-4, shows that on September 20, respondent clocked in at 2:34 p.m., but failed to clock out at the end of his shift. The same is true for September 21, when respondent clocked in at 2:42 p.m. but failed to clock out.
- The time card for the week ending November 16, 2001, Exhibit P-5, illustrates that on November 14, respondent clocked in at 2:22 p.m., but failed to clock out at the end of his shift. However, the same cannot be said of November 16, when respondent clearly clocked out at 9:52 p.m.
- The time card for the week ending December 14, 2001, Exhibit P-6, illustrates that on December 10, respondent clocked in at 2:26 p.m. and clocked out at 10:09 p.m. However, respondent failed to clock out on December 12 after clocking in at 2:12 p.m. Curiously, the time card also indicates that respondent did not clock in or out on December 11, suggesting that he was absent on that date. An examination of Exhibit P-15 disclosed that respondent was recorded as present on that date but absent on December 12. Since the time card indicates that he was, in fact, present on December 12, his absence on December 11 must have been incorrectly recorded as December 12 in Exhibit P-15.
- The time card for the week ending December 21, 2001, Exhibit P-7, reveals that on December 20, respondent clocked in at 2:03 p.m., but failed to clock out at the end of his shift. The same is true of December 21, when respondent failed to clock out after clocking in at 1:08 p.m.
- The time card for the week ending March 1, 2002, Exhibit P-9, reveals that on February 27, respondent clocked in at 12:20 p.m., but did not clock out at the end of his shift. There is, however, a handwritten note stating, "I talk[ed] to Mr. Amata about me punching out." The arrow from the note is drawn to a space for February 26, but was clearly intended for February 27 because respondent did, in fact, clock out on the 26th.

Consequently, it would appear that respondent failed to clock out at the end of his shift on at least six, and possibly seven, separate occasions.

The primary date in controversy is that of February 27, 2002. In her March 4, 2002 letter to Mr. Collins, Exhibit P-8, Ms. Lamboy directed his attention to the time card for that date and asked him to "read what he wrote for the 27th of Feb. Freddie told me he had problems with the time clock. But how come nobody else had problems with it."

During his testimony, respondent did not mention anything about having had a problem with the clock. Rather, he admitted that he had forgotten to sign out on that date. As soon as he realized it he spoke to Mr. Amato, who suggested that he make a notation on his time card. He followed Mr. Amato's advice but inadvertently drew the line from the notation to a space for February 26 instead of February 27. However, he did not insert the approximate time he ended his shift.

Unfortunately, neither party called Mr. Amato as a witness. Consequently, we do not know when respondent called Mr. Amato and received his advice to annotate the time card. In all probability it was sometime before March 1, 2002, the last work day on the card. By the same token, we do not know whether Ms. Lamboy or Mr. Collins attempted to contact Mr. Amato in order to determine whether respondent actually called him and, if so, what he said.

Respondent has proffered two alternative excuses for his failure to clock out. As he advised Ms. Lamboy and then stated during cross-examination, he had problems with the clock that evening. However, he also testified on direct that he simply forgot. The two are mutually exclusive and the former is implausible due to the fact that no other employees reported any problems that day. Moreover, he clocked in earlier that day and the following day without any difficulty. That being the case, I will take his second explanation – that he simply forgot – as the truth. Consequently, whether or not he actually called Mr. Amata, the fact remains that respondent failed to clock out on February 27, 2002, and I so FIND.

Respondent also testified that many of his failures to sign out were simply a matter of logistics. As he explained it, the time clock is located in the rear of the building, while the key pad for the alarm is located near the front office. Once he sets the alarm, he does not have enough time to go to the rear of the building, sign out and exit. Yet, however problematic the building layout may have been, it is indisputable that respondent was able to call out, set the alarm and clock out, in whatever order, on countless other evenings during the course of his employment. Therefore, respondent's failures to clock out on September 20-21, November 14, and December 12, 20 and 21, 2001 were due to a lack of effort or forgetfulness, and I so FIND.

Nevertheless, respondent argues that his failures to clock out cannot form the basis for a tenure proceeding because the Board does not have a specific rule or regulation requiring an employee to punch in or punch out. More specifically, he cannot be charged with a violation of a rule if he does not have knowledge that such a rule exists. In support of this argument respondent cites but one case, Grossman v. State Health Benefits Commission, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d 35 (1991), in which Administrative Law Judge Daniel B. McKeown held that an individual could not be penalized for failing to comply with a rule when the appointing authority did not provide him with notice of the rule.

Respondent's reliance on Grossman is misplaced. In that case a health insurance provider had denied a claim for reimbursement of prescription drug expenses because the claimant had failed to file his claim within ninety days of the end of the calendar year in which the expenses were incurred. The health insurance had been in his late wife's name and the eighty-one-year-old claimant was unaware of the rule because he had not been provided with a manual explaining the procedure for filing a claim, even after he decided to continue the coverage in his own right.

Upon reviewing the manual, ALJ McKeown found that the very rule upon which the provider relied clearly acknowledged that it might not be reasonably possible to file claims within the ninety-day time period but that such claims would still be accepted if proof of loss was furnished as soon as reasonably possible. He further found that since the claimant had suffered from depression following the death of his wife of fifty-one years and the receipts had long been packed in a box in anticipation of a move to Florida, it had not been reasonably possible for him to file the claim any sooner. Consequently, Judge McKeown ordered the provider to reimburse the prescription drug expenses.

Unlike Grossman, this case does not involve a lack of knowledge of an existing rule that by its own terms may be relaxed when compliance is not reasonably possible. That there may not have been a written policy is of no moment. The many verbal and written admonitions respondent received more than adequately placed him on notice that he was required to clock out at the end of his shift. The fact that he did so on all but a handful of occasions establishes that he knew what was expected of him. Moreover, in a matter such as this, a finding of unbecoming conduct does not require that any specific rule or regulation has been violated, but may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior. In re Emmons, supra, 63 N.J. Super. at 140; Newark v. Massey, supra, 93 N.J. Super. at 323.

Given my findings that respondent is not guilty of excessive absenteeism; but is guilty of unbecoming conduct for an unauthorized absence on one occasion and failing to comply with the clocking out procedure on seven occasions, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the termination of respondent's tenure rights and his removal as a custodian is not an appropriate remedy. Under the circumstances, the imposition of a period of suspension is the appropriate penalty that should be imposed. The reason for a suspension is to remind respondent of his obligation and responsibility to follow the rules necessary for the overall delivery of educational services. Consequently, on the facts presented, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the imposition of a thirty-day suspension is the appropriate penalty to be imposed in this matter.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing findings of fact and conclusions of law, it is ORDERED that respondent's tenure rights be and are hereby RESTORED. It is further ORDERED that based upon these findings of guilty to the tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, respondent be and is hereby SUSPENDED for a period of thirty days. And it is further ORDERED that respondent be AWARDED back pay, related benefits and seniority in an amount that reflects the imposition of a thirty-day suspension.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

July 29, 2003 — DATE

ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7/31/2003

DATE

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE,

AUG - 6 2003

DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

IDD/mamf

EXHIBITS

For Petitioner:

P-1 Memorandum dated September 15, 2000

P-2 Memorandum dated June 15, 2000

P-3 Memorandum dated January 7, 2002

P-4 Time Cards for weeks ending September 14, 2001 and September 21, 2001

P-5 Time Card for week ending November 16, 2001

P-6 Time Cards for weeks ending December 14, 2001 and December 28, 2001

P-7 Time Card for week ending December 21, 2001

P-8 Letter dated March 4, 2002

P-9 Time Card for week ending March 1, 2002

P-10 Memorandum dated March 14, 2001

P-11 Yearly Attendance Summary, 2000-2001

P-12 Monthly Attendance Summary, 2000-2001

P-13 Memorandum dated November 6, 2001

P-14 Monthly Attendance Summary, 2001-2002

P-15 Yearly Attendance Summary, 2001-2002

P-16 Memorandum dated December 13, 2001

P-17 [Not moved into evidence]

P-18 Memorandum dated January 10, 2002

P-19 [Not moved into evidence]

For Respondent:

R-1 Medical Center at Princeton Discharge Summary Report

R-2 Doctor's Note from Fischer Chiropractic Back & Neck Pain Center

R-3 Dentist's Notes from Eastern Dental

R-4 Doctor's Note from Mercer-Bucks Orthopaedics, P.C.

R-5 Doctor's Note from [illegible]

R-6 Subpoena for October 31, 2001

R-7 Doctor's Note from Harold J. Brown, M.D.

R-8 Memorandum dated February 7, 2002

Joint Exhibits:

J-1 Agreement between Trenton School Custodians Association and the Trenton Board of Education

J-2 Memorandum dated November 6, 2001 with Absence Record attached (admitted limited to use of code at bottom of Absence Record only)

WITNESSES

For Petitioner:

Judy M. Steele

Aida Hernandez Lamboy

Everett O. Collins

For Respondent:

Freddie Williams

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4579-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 191-6/02

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF FREDDIE WILLIAMS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:
	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, exceptions to the Initial Decision were filed by the Board of Education (Board), as were reply and cross-exceptions by respondent.[1]

In its exceptions, the Board urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision and find instead that respondent's absences as set forth by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) do, in fact, constitute excessive absenteeism, since respondent has exhibited a continuing pattern of absenteeism despite being placed on notice about his attendance. The Board further urges that dismissal from tenured employment is the appropriate penalty for the instances of unbecoming conduct found by the ALJ, or at the very least, a 120-day loss of salary as was imposed in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ralph McCullough, School District of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, decided by the Commissioner on September 6, 2002 and affirmed by the State Board of [1] See note 2 below.

Education on April 2, 2003. In reply, respondent urges adoption of the Initial Decision with respect to the charge of excessive absenteeism, but contends that the ALJ erred in finding respondent guilty of unbecoming conduct and imposing a 30-day suspension as a result.[2]

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons carefully enumerated in the Initial Decision, that under all the circumstances of this matter, the Board has not met its burden of proving its charge of excessive absenteeism. Additionally, finding no basis to disagree with the credibility determinations of the ALJ or with his analysis of respondent's actions, the Commissioner further concurs that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct for one instance of unauthorized absence from the worksite (not two, as charged) and several instances of failure to clock out at the end of his work shift.

The Commissioner does not agree, however, that the appropriate penalty for respondent's unbecoming conduct as proven on the present record is a 30-day suspension. While there is no question that the charges proven in this matter do not rise to the level of warranting respondent's dismissal from tenured employment, they do warrant a penalty sufficiently severe to discourage the cavalier attitude evident in respondent's testimony with respect to basic employee responsibilities of remaining on premises when on duty and appropriately signing or clocking out at the end of a work shift. The Commissioner finds a 30-day suspension insufficient for this purpose, and he

[2] The Commissioner here notes that respondent's submission, filed within the time period for reply exceptions as extended at respondent's request, is substantially in the nature of primary exceptions, not reply or cross-exceptions as purported. However, to the extent that respondent's submission does not constitute a reply to the Board's exceptions, the arguments raised therein substantially reiterate those of respondent's post-hearing brief, which both the ALJ and the Commissioner have fully considered.

directs instead that respondent forfeit the salary already withheld from him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/15/03

Date of Mailing: 9/16/03

[3] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

546-03

M.F., on behalf of minor children, K.F. and K.F.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's residency determination that her children were not domiciled in the District.

In light of the record and the testimony of witnesses, the ALJ found that the District established proof that petitioner was a resident and domiciliary of Sea Bright not Atlantic Highlands. The ALJ ordered the children removed from the Atlantic Highlands School District. The ALJ did not make any calculation with respect to unpaid tuition amounts since the Board made no claim for tuition.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision with modification. Based on the record and the credibility assessments of the ALJ, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner failed to establish that she was a domiciliary of Atlantic Highlands so as to entitle her children to a free public education in that District. The Commissioner, however, rejected the ALJ's apparent belief that, absent the filing of a counterclaim for tuition, the Board is not entitled to collect such compensation for the period of the children's ineligible attendance in its schools. The Commissioner determined that tuition was clearly identified as a relief sought in the Board's Answer. Thus, the Commissioner remanded the matter to OAL solely for such further proceedings as may be needed in order to determine the amount of tuition due the Board for the period of ineligible attendance.

September 22, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2566-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 99-3/03

M.F., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, K.F. AND K.F.,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Respondent.

M.F., petitioner, pro se

R. Armen McOmber, Esq., for respondent (McOmber & McOmber, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 1, 2003 Decided: August 7, 2003

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, petitioner challenges respondent Board of Education's determination as to residency. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 5, 2003, for hearing as a contested case. The hearing took place on July 1, 2003, and at the conclusion of the hearing, the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following is intended to summarize the testimony and evidence, which I found to be relevant to the issues in this matter.

It is undisputed that on February 25, 2003, the Board of Education of the Borough of Atlantic Highlands held a hearing at which petitioner was present. Following that hearing, the Board adopted a resolution setting forth its findings and conclusions. In particular, it concluded that M.F., the parent of K.F. and K.F., and M.F.'s children, are not domiciled within the Borough of Atlantic Highlands, and it ordered that they be removed from the school. Petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education on April 2, 2003, in which she asserts that the decision of the Board is incorrect.

It is also undisputed that K.F. and K.F. attended the Atlantic Highlands Elementary School operated by respondent Board from January 2003 through the end of the school year in June 2003. By letter dated February 12, 2003, the Board Secretary notified M.F. of the intention of the Board to have a hearing on February 25, 2003, in order to determine whether the parent and children were domiciled within the Borough.

At the hearing before the OAL, the first witness to testify for respondent was Timothy R. Haase. He is an employee of respondent school district and has been the Assistant Principal for two years. Prior to that, he was a Child Study Team Director, and he also served for 12 years as a teacher. He knows both of M.F.'s children. He explained that the Atlantic Highlands Elementary School is a small school with an enrollment of 300 children. As a result, he knows all of the children on a personal basis.

As part of his duties, Mr. Haase investigated assertions that the children were no longer living in Atlantic Highlands, but were living in Sea Bright. Mr. Haase testified that he knows of at least two school district employees and one mother of a student who stated that M.F. was no longer living in Atlantic Highlands but was living in Sea Bright. However, he did not identify these individuals.

Mr. Haase testified that he decided to make observations of the premises located on East Highland Avenue, Atlantic Highlands, where the children allegedly resided with M.F. He observed this address on February 5, 6, 10 and 25, 2003, by parking his car across from the entrance to the residence from 7:50 a.m. until 8:30 a.m. or 8:35 a.m., and he just watched to see if the children exited the residence to go to school. He explained that school starts at 8:35 a.m. He never saw the children or M.F. leave this residence on any of the four occasions he observed it. However, the children arrived at the school at 8:35 a.m. on the first three mornings, and at 8:25 a.m. on the fourth morning.

Mr. Haase also testified that he conversed with Kimberly Littlefield, a teacher in the school district. He asked her to make an observation of a home in Sea Bright because he knew she drove to work in that vicinity. He also had information that this was where the children were living at that time. On February 10, and 25, 2003, Ms. Littlefield observed the children leaving the Sea Bright home.

Mr. Haase testified that the Board of Education sent all correspondence to both addresses. He identified a certified mail envelope (R-1) which was addressed to M.F. at the Atlantic Highlands address. This letter was stamped as Unclaimed, and written on the face of the envelope by the postal authorities was the notation: "Fwd to __ New Street, Sea Bright, New Jersey 07760."

On cross-examination, Mr. Haase testified that Ms. Littlefield observed the Sea Bright address on February 10 and 25, 2003, and that she would be testifying in this matter. He also admitted that neither the Atlantic Highlands residence not the Sea Bright residence was observed after February 25, 2003.

Kimberly Littlefield testified that she has been employed as a schoolteacher by the Atlantic Highlands Board of Education for 31 years. She knows both K.F. and K.F. She was requested by Mr. Haase to observe the premises located on New Street in Sea Bright, New Jersey. The request was made of her because she lives in Long Branch and drives by the Sea Bright address.

On February 10, 2003, Ms. Littlefield observed the Sea Bright address from 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. On February 25, 2003, she observed the Sea Bright residence from 7:30 a.m. until 8:10 to 8:20 a.m. She explained that school starts at Atlantic Highlands Elementary School at 8:25 a.m. On both of these occasions, she saw K.F., K.F., and M.F. leave the house, get into the car, and drive to school. She also saw both of the children later than day in school. She explained that on February 10, 2003, she observed M.F. drive the children to school. On February 25, 2003, she observed W.M. drive the children to school.

The final witness called by respondent school district was Doris T. Muller. Ms. Muller testified that she is a process server and investigator and has been engaged as such for well over 25 years. She was retained by the attorney for respondent the day before the hearing to serve an order. She was instructed to go to __ New Street in Sea Bright, New Jersey to serve the order. If no one was there, she was then to go to the Atlantic Highlands address.

Ms. Muller testified that when she arrived at the 22 New Street address in Sea Bright, K.F. answered the door and said, "I am K____." She also spoke to the other child. They stated to her that their mother worked in Red Bank in a mortgage company. Another woman came to the door who only spoke Spanish. She then asked the first child what grade he was in, and he said, "I'm going into fourth grade and I go to school in Atlantic Highlands." She then left the order with the adult who was present.

M.F. testified in this matter. She stated that she had been living with W.M. at his home on East Highland Avenue, Atlantic Highlands. On or about January 15, 2003, she had to leave these premises and she took an apartment on New Avenue in Sea Bright temporarily and remained there until the beginning of February 2003. She indicated that she now no longer lives in Sea Bright, but has moved back to Atlantic Highlands, and her aunt now lives in the Sea Bright apartment. She provided copies of envelopes mailed to her by the school district to the Atlantic Highlands address (P-1 and P-2), as well as copies of Verizon Wireless Bills sent to her at the Atlantic Highlands address (P-3, P-4 and P-5).

M.F. explained that it was necessary for her to leave W.M.'s home for a short period of time, but that they have since cleared up their problems. She claimed to have moved back to Atlantic Highlands shortly after moving to Sea Bright, and that her aunt has taken over the lease on the Sea Bright apartment.

M.F. admitted that her children answered the door to the Sea Bright apartment when the process server came the day before the hearing. She explained that her aunt was babysitting the children while she was work. She admitted that the children were with the aunt in Sea Bright during the hearing of this matter. However, their whole house is set up in Atlantic Highlands.

M.F. testified that the school district is pursuing this matter as a vendetta because of school vandalism committed by her son.

On cross-examination, M.F. admitted that her name is on the lease for the Sea Bright apartment. She signed the lease on January 15, 2003, and she admitted that it is a one-year lease and the lease term is from January 2003 through January 2004. Her aunt, L.S., who is now babysitting, has taken over the lease on that apartment, and pays rent of $1,100 for a two-bedroom apartment. She also states that the phone in the apartment is in her aunt's name. Her aunt is not employed, and she is using her savings and social security in order to pay the rent.

W.M. testified that he is the owner and occupant of the premises located on East Highland Avenue, Atlantic Highlands. He admitted that there was a stressful situation between M.F. and him, and M.F. was told to leave his house by DYFS. He explained that M.F. had been calling DYFS and complaining about the situation in his house and that the DYFS caseworker called M.F.'s bluff and ordered her to leave. However, at the end of February or the beginning of March 2003, M.F. and her children moved back to Atlantic Highlands, and they now live with W.M. at the East Highland Avenue address in Atlantic Highlands. He indicated that DYFS took action to instruct M.F. to move out of his home on January 9, 2003, but DYFS never officially ordered them out. M.F. and the children moved back right after the school district's last observation at the end of February 2003. W.M. indicated that he is a retired former police officer.

W.M. identified an Atlantic Highlands Police Department investigation report of an incident which occurred on January 9, 2003, involving him and M.F. (P-6). This report contains allegations by M.F. concerning an incident that took place several nights prior to that date. The report indicates that W.M. and M.F. got into an argument and that he was physically and verbally abusive to her. W.M. was advised by DYFS that M.F.'s children could no longer reside at his house and would be moved temporarily to another location until her apartment was ready. M.F. stated several times to the investigating officer that she was going to try and get a temporary restraining order against W.M. after she moved to her new apartment. The officer reported that it is apparent that M.F. will not be returning to live in Atlantic Highlands again. She stated to both DYFS and to the investigating officer that she was moving to Sea Bright.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, free public education shall be provided to any person over five and under twenty years of age who is domiciled within the school district. In general, domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intent of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), affd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971).

The terms "residence" and "domicile" are not synonymous; a person may have several residences or places of abode, but only one domicile at a time. See, Collins v. Yancy, supra, at 520,521*; see* also State v. Benny, supra, at 251.

> In a strict legal sense, the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. (Matter of Unanue, supra, at 374, citing Kurilla v. Roth, 132 N.J.L. 213, 215, 38 A.2d 862 (Sup. Ct. 1944))

See also, Mercadante v. The City of Paterson, supra, at 39, aff'd 58 N.J. 112 (1971).) Thus, the domicile is what one regards as a true and permanent home. In re Jaffe, supra, at 90, 91.

The courts have recognized that a person may have multiple residences, but only one domicile, State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955); In re Jaffe, 74 N.J. 86, 90-91 (1977); Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, (1955). In the Mercadante case, the court stated that the following factors are important in determining the domicile of a person:

> . . . the physical characteristics of each [place], the time spent and the things done in each place, the other persons found there, the person's mental attitude towards each place, and whether there is or is not an intention, when absent, to return.
>
> [111 N.J. Super. at 39-40]

The Court in In the Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 376 (Law Div. 1991), stated that "a choice of domicile by a person, irrespective of his motive, will be honored by the court, provided there are sufficient objective indicia, by way of proofs, supporting the actual existence of that domicile." In general, the courts have recognized that intent is a decisive factor in establishing domicile, State v. Benny, supra, 20 N.J. 238; Unanue, supra, 225 N.J. Super. 362, Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514 (Law Div. 1959). In Fort Lee Board of Education v. Kintos, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 96, 103, the Commissioner recognized that the determining factor in deciding a family domicile is a matter of intent. The Commissioner stated:

> Establishing a domicile involves an act of volition. "A person has the right to choose his own domicile, and his motive in doing so is immaterial." Lyon v. Glaser, 60 NJ. 259, 264, 288 A.2d 12 (1972). In accordance with this principle, it has been held that one does not relinquish his domicile by having another residence based on reasons of health, society, business or employment. * * * .
>
> [Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 375 (1991)]

My decision turns on the element of intent in accordance with Fort Lee Board of Education v. Kintos, supra, affd State Board April 13, 1994. The concepts of home and domicile embody both a subjective and objective relationship to a physical residence. Matter of Unanue, supra, at 375.

In the present matter, M.F. and W.M. testified that sometime after February 25, 2003, M.F. no longer resides in Sea Bright with her children, but that she has moved back to W.M.'s residence in Atlantic Highlands. In support of this position, M.F. relies on objective evidence in the form of letters addressed to her by the school district in April and May 2003 (P-1 and P-2). She also relies on Verizon wireless phone bills for February, March and April 2003 (P-3, P-4 and P-5).

The school district discounts the letters sent to the address in Atlantic Highlands and provided testimony that letters were sent to both the Atlantic Highlands and the Sea Bright addresses. In addition, it argues that a bill for a wireless phone does not establish a place of residence, but simply shows where the bill was sent.

The objective evidence relied upon by the school district are the observations made by Assistant Principal Haase on February 5, 6, 10 and 25, 2003, establishing that on those dates, petitioner and her children were not living at the Atlantic Highlands address, but were living in Sea Bright. In addition, they relied upon the objective observations by Ms. Littlefield on February 10 and 25, 2003, when petitioner and her children were seen leaving the Sea Bright residence in order to travel to school.

Respondent also relies upon a certified mail envelope addressed to M.F. and mailed on May 13, 2003, addressed to the Atlantic Highland residence (R-1). The notations on this envelope are that it is unclaimed, and it contains the forwarding address to the premises located in Sea Bright. Finally, respondent relies upon objective evidence in the form of the testimony of a process server who observed the children at the Sea Bright premises on the day prior to the scheduled hearing in this matter.

I also find to be of significance are statements made by petitioner on January 9, 2003, to both the investigating officer and DYFS (P-6) that she could no longer live in Atlantic Highlands, that she was leaving to move into her new apartment in Sea Bright and that she would not be returning to Atlantic Highlands.

I FIND that the proofs relied upon by the school district in this matter have established that petitioner herein is a resident and domiciliary of Sea Bright, New Jersey. I FIND that petitioner has not established with her proofs that her intent is to reside in Atlantic Highlands. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the actions of respondent in determining that K.F. and K.F., as well as M.F., are not residents and domiciliaries of Atlantic Highlands is correct, and the order of the Atlantic Highlands Board of Education requiring that the children be removed from the Atlantic Highlands school district should be AFFIRMED.

I note that since respondent has made no claim for tuition, that I am making no calculation with respect to unpaid tuition amounts.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination that petitioner and her children are residents and domiciliaries of Sea Bright, New Jersey, and not of Atlantic Highlands, New Jersey, is hereby AFFIRMED, and petitioner's appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

August 7, 2003
DATE

JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

8/7/03
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan /CS

Mailed to Parties:

AUG 13 2003

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

mph

APPENDIX

LIST OF WITNESSES:

For petitioner:

M.F.

W.M.

For respondent:

Timothy R. Haase

Kimberly Littlefield

Doris T. Muller

LIST OF EXHIBITS:

For petitioner:

P-1 Envelope addressed to petitioner from respondent, postmarked April 9, 2003

P-2 Envelope addressed to petitioner from respondent, postmarked May 15, 2003

P-3 Verizon Wireless Bill, for February 2003

P-4 Verizon Wireless Bill for March 2003

P-5 Verizon Wireless Bill for April 2003

P-6 Police Department of Atlantic Highland's Investigation Report, dated January 9, 2003

For respondent:

R-1 Certified Mail envelope addressed to M.F., unclaimed with forwarding address

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2566-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 99-3/03

M.F., on behalf of minor children, K.F. and K.F.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Petitioner requested and was granted an extension of time within which to file primary exceptions and replies to the exceptions filed by the Board.[1] Such submission, filed on petitioner's behalf by James J. McGuire, Jr., Esq., was received in accordance with the extended timeframe.

The Board excepts to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) declining to assess tuition in this matter notwithstanding his finding that petitioner and her children were not domiciled in Atlantic Highlands during the period at issue herein. It urges that the ALJ's reasoning in this regard, i.e., "that '....since respondent has made no claim for tuition ...I am making no calculation with respect to unpaid tuition amounts[,]' Initial Decision at Page 9" (Board's Exceptions at 1 and 2), is clearly erroneous. The Board points out that Page 2 of its Answer to the petition in this matter specifically requested "that the Commissioner of Education  award respondent tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1)." (Id. at 2) The Board attaches to its exceptions a Certification of its Board Secretary/School Business Administrator detailing the amount of tuition to which it claims to be entitled and urges that the Commissioner modify the decision of the ALJ to award it such amount.

[1] Petitioner, who was previously pro se, stated that she wished to secure the services of her attorney to make the filing.

Petitioner's exceptions contest the validity of the ALJ's factual findings and credibility assessments in reaching his conclusion that she and her children were not domiciled in Atlantic Highlands. She contends that, because domicile, by definition, involves not only the place where an individual resides but also the place that he or she has the "intent" of returning to permanently, in any judgment with respect to petitioner's "intent," her testimony should receive the greatest consideration.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, and based on the credibility assessments of the ALJ, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Commissioner finds no basis to disturb the conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner has failed to establish that she is a domiciliary of Atlantic Highlands so as to entitle her minor children, K.F. and K.F. to a free public education in that District. In so finding, the Commissioner stresses that challenges to the factual findings rendered by an ALJ require the objecting party to provide the Commissioner with relevant portions of the transcript of the hearing in order to permit him to assess the merits of those exceptions. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 157-158 (App. Div. 1987). Transcripts were not filed in this matter.

The Commissioner, however, rejects the ALJ's apparent belief that, absent the filing of a counterclaim for tuition, the Board is not entitled to collect such compensation for the period of K.F. and K.F.'s ineligible attendance in its schools. See Z.A., on behalf of minor children, A.K. and J.K. v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, Bergen County, decided by the Commissioner July 23, 2003. Also see N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.10(b). Rather, tuition is clearly identified as a relief sought in the Board's Answer and the Commissioner finds and concludes that, petitioner having failed to prevail on her appeal, the Board is entitled to collect such tuition in this matter. Inasmuch as the record before the Commissioner is devoid of any information which would form a basis for a calculation in this regard,[2] a remand to the OAL is required for additional fact finding as is necessary to determine the amount of tuition due, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.10.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted, as modified above, for the reasons expressed therein. This matter is hereby remanded to the OAL solely for such further proceedings as may be needed in order to determine the amount of tuition due the Board for the period of the ineligible attendance of petitioner's children in the District's schools.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9|22|03

Date of Mailing: 9|22|03

[2] It is noted that the Board's Certification, submitted for the first time with its exceptions, is violative of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c) and cannot be considered herein.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

549-03

IN THE MATTER OF THOMAS KEELEN, :

KEANSBURG BOARD OF EDUCATION, :

MONMOUTH COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

A vendor employee alleged respondent former Board member violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (e) of the School Ethics Act for attempting to use his official position to secure an unwarranted advantage for himself and for the solicitation of a political contribution.

The ALJ determined that complainant's allegations were proven by a preponderance of competent and credible evidence. The ALJ transmitted the case back to the School Ethics Commission to determine whether respondent's conduct constituted a violation of the Act and to make a recommendation relative to sanction.

After considering the nature of the charges, the Commission found respondent blatantly disregarded N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (e) of the Act and his conduct warranted removal from the Board. Since respondent is no longer on the Board, the Commission recommended a penalty of censure.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision was restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty, concurred with the Commission's recommendation and, thus, ordered respondent censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

September 22, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EEC 8784-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. C06-01

IN THE MATTER OF CHARGES OF VIOLATION OF THE SCHOOL ETHICS ACT
BY THOMAS KEELEN

Kimberly Lake Franklin, Deputy Attorney General, for complainant School Ethics Commission, Department of Education (Peter C. Harvey, Acting Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

David Corrigan, Esq., for respondent Thomas Keelen

Record Closed: March 3, 2003 Decided: March 27, 2003

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

An employee of a vendor with the Borough of Keansburg Board of Education (BOE) alleges that respondent Thomas Keelen, while president of the BOE, solicited a contribution to his election campaign for election to the Borough's governing body (council) with the implication that the contribution would affect the possibility of the vendor's future contracts with the BOE. On this basis, the respondent is charged with violation of the School Ethics Act.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 to -34. A school official who violates the Act is subject to sanctions, including reprimand, censure, suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c); N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.16. The respondent denies the allegations and submits that the charge should be dismissed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 14, 2001, William J. Noe, an employee of Aramark, a BOE vendor, filed a complaint with the School Ethics Commission. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-27; N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.8. By letter dated February 16, 2001, the Commission's executive director notified the respondent that he had an opportunity to file a written response to the complaint. On April 20, 2001, respondent filed his response. R-1; N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b); N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.10, -11. By letter dated August 20, 2001, the Commission notified the respondent that during its June 26, 2001, meeting it had found probable cause to credit the complainant's allegations and probable cause to believe that he (respondent) had violated the Act. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b); N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.12, -1.13, -1.14. The Commission transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on December 10, 2001. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b); N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b); N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.14. By letter dated April 25, 2002, the respondent's attorney substituted for respondent's prior attorney and entered his appearance. On April 29, July 24 and September 23, 2002, conferences were held, but the case could not be settled. On January 30, 2003, the case was heard in the OAL, Trenton. On the record closed date, the last of the parties' written closings was received in the OAL.

The incident on which this case is based gave rise to two other cases the Commission transmitted to the OAL: In re Charges of Violation of the School Ethics Act by Judith Ferraro, OAL Dkt. No. EEC 8783-01, and In re Charges of Violation of the School Ethics Act by Hugh Gallagher, OAL Dkt. No. EEC 8785-01. Respondents Ferraro, Gallagher and Keelen were notified that they should appear for an April 29, 2002, in-person conference. However, respondents Ferraro and Gallagher failed to appear and I received no message explaining their absence or providing good cause for their failure to appear. By letter dated April 29, 2002, I notified them that, by May 10, 2002, they should file with me written explanations showing good cause for their failure to appear; that, if they did not do so, I would assume that they did not wish to defend the charges; and that the Commission could enter final decisions imposing sanctions, etc., against them. Neither of those respondents filed such an explanation, so the OAL's clerk transmitted the cases back to the Commission.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In 1999 and 2000 respondent was president of the BOE; Aramark was a BOE vendor, responsible for maintenance of the BOE's buildings and grounds, and its contract with the BOE was subject to renewal every year; and Mr. Noe was the Aramark employee responsible for the maintenance of the BOE's buildings and grounds.

The BOE election was scheduled to be held in April 2000 and the election for the Borough's governing body (council) was scheduled to be held in May 2000.

Ms. Ferraro and Mr. Gallagher were members of the BOE and candidates for reelection in the April 2000 BOE election. The respondent's BOE term was to end in May 2000, and he was not a candidate for reelection to the BOE; he was a candidate in the May 2000 council election. The respondent's commercial building on the Borough's Main Street housed the headquarters for his, Ms. Ferraro's and Mr. Gallagher's campaigns and all were seeking contributions for their campaigns. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, "political organization."

Mr. Noe testified credibly that, on Saturday, April 29, 2000, he checked the BOE's schools' buildings and grounds to confirm that Aramark's personnel were performing properly. Thereafter, he and his young son were walking on Keansburg's Main Street when he observed the respondent, Ms. Ferraro, Mr. Gallagher, and BOE members Dolores Bartram and William Manoes by the respondent's building and they signaled him to enter the building. The respondent testified that he observed Mr. Noe and that (only) he stepped out of his building to signal Mr. Noe in. In any event, Mr. Noe and his son entered the building, where the respondent, Ms. Ferraro, Mr. Gallagher, Ms. Bartram and Mr. Manoes were present. Mr. Noe testified that respondent, in a jesting manner, stated, "We've got you now!"

Mr. Noe also testified as follows: In the campaign headquarters, all of the above-named persons except the respondent sat down. The respondent stated that they had put together a "list" of vendors with dollar amounts they figured the vendors could afford, and said, "We penciled you in for $1,000." The respondent stated that he wanted a contribution and, in a stern tone, stated, "Frankly, I expect it and I don't care how you get it." Knowing that the respondent and his running mates were candidates and wanted contributions to their campaigns, he (Mr. Noe) had already discussed the matter with an Aramark superior and, consistent with that discussion, he replied that Aramark would contribute, but to both parties in the election. However, the respondent replied, "We really don't want you to give to both parties. That would work against us. . . . You know, Billy, let's face it. These things are remembered come contract time." The respondent and he repeated the substance of this exchange and the respondent then stated, "We'll remember this" and "Let's face it, everybody remembers who supported them and who didn't."

On cross-examination, Mr. Noe testified that the date of the above-described conversation in the campaign headquarters was probably, maybe absolutely, April 29, 2000. He also testified as follows: He probably asked the respondent who his running mates were in the council election. The respondent's statements distressed him, especially because they were made in the presence of his son, and, on the Monday after the weekend, he reported what had occurred to Scott Donegan, his Aramark superior. Mr. Donegan advised him to speak to the police, but several of the above-named persons had ties to the Borough police, e.g., Ms. Bartram worked for the Borough police and Ms. Ferraro's son was a Borough police officer who was married to the respondent's daughter. In an attempt to obtain proof of what he took to be a threat to his job, after April 29, 2000, he recorded telephone conversations with Ms. Ferraro and Mr. Gallagher. Eventually, he contacted the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office, the Attorney General's Office, and the Commission.

The respondent testified as follows: The BOE's (April 2000) election had already occurred by the time of the above-described conversation in the campaign headquarters and, at that time, he had no expectation that, after his BOE term ended (in May 2000), he would serve again on the BOE. When he stated to Mr. Noe that he had "penciled Aramark in for $1,000," he may have mentioned other vendors, but there was no discussion of the BOE and he did not state anything about future contracts with the BOE. After the above-described conversation,

Ms. Ferraro reported to him that Mr. Noe called her and stated that Aramark would contribute to the campaign, but that it would contribute to both sides, and, given those terms, he (the respondent) refused the contribution. Aramark made no contribution, but he had "no hard feelings" about no contribution being made.

During the BOE's May 2, 2000, organizational meeting, the respondent, as president of the BOE, presided until Mr. Gallagher, nominated by Ms. Ferraro, became the BOE president. Mr. Gallagher then presided over the meeting, during which a BOE vice president was elected, professional appointments were made, etc. P-1.

The respondent was unsuccessful in his run for council, and in October 2000 he was appointed to complete the term of a BOE member who resigned.

In December 2000, while Mr. Noe was away on vacation, a snowstorm struck the Borough; Aramark's personnel failed to adequately remove the snow; and parents and others complained. In January 2001, Mr. Noe was called to the BOE's school administration offices for the BOE's Buildings and Grounds Committee's meeting to review snow removal procedures. The respondent, Ms. Ferraro, Mr. Gallagher, and Mr. Manoes (still BOE members), BOE superintendent Barbara Trzeszkowski, and BOE business administrator Barbara Pieszcynski were present and told the respondent that they were unhappy with Aramark's snow removal. Mr. Noe agreed that Aramark had performed poorly and the Committee reprimanded him.

On February 14, 2001 (as noted in the procedural history), Mr. Noe filed his complaint with the Commission.

In June 2001 Mr. Noe ended his employment with Aramark.

In 2001 the BOE again contracted with Aramark.

Mr. Noe, who now resides in Virginia, returned to New Jersey for the hearing.

Balancing all of the competent and credible evidence and considering the demeanor of the witnesses, Mr. Noe's testimony was credible. And to summarize, as Mr. Noe testified, the respondent, while president of the BOE, i.e., a "school official" subject to the Act, stated to Mr. Noe, "We've got you now!"; stated that he expected a $1,000 contribution from Mr. Noe's employer, a BOE vendor whose contract was subject to yearly renewal; and stated, "These things are remembered come contract time." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23. The respondent solicited the contribution for the purpose of influencing him in the discharge of his duties. Although the respondent's BOE term ended in May 2000, when he made the solicitation he was politically tied to BOE members who would remain on the BOE after that time and, therefore, he appeared to be in a position to influence them in the exercise of their official duties related to contracting. Further, the respondent himself returned to the BOE in October 2000.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

In the Act, the Legislature found and declared:

> a. In our representative form of government it is essential that the conduct of members of local boards of education and local school administrators hold the respect and confidence of the people. These board members and administrators must avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated.
>
> b. To ensure and preserve public confidence, school board members and local school administrators should have the benefit of specific standards to guide their conduct and of some disciplinary mechanism to ensure the uniform maintenance of those standards among them.
>
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22.]

A local school district board of education member (among other persons) is a "school official" under the Act. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24 states, in pertinent part:

> b. No school official shall use or attempt to use his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for himself, members of his immediate family or others;
>
> . . . .
>
> e. No school official, or member of his immediate family, or business organization in which he has an interest, shall solicit or accept any gift, favor, loan, political contribution, service, promise of future employment, or other thing of value based upon an understanding that the gift, favor, loan, contribution, service, promise, or other thing of value was given or offered for the purpose of influencing him, directly or indirectly, in the discharge of his official duties. This provision shall not apply to the solicitation or acceptance of contributions to the campaign of an announced candidate for elective public office, if the school official has no knowledge or reason to believe that the campaign contribution, if accepted, was given with the intent to influence the school official in the discharge of his official duties.
>
> [Emphasis added.]

A school official who violates the Act is subject to sanctions, including reprimand, censure, suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c); N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.16.

Consistent with the findings of fact, the complainant's allegations have been proven by the preponderance (greater weight) of the competent and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c). There is good cause for the Commission to determine whether the respondent's conduct constituted a violation of the Act and make a recommendation relative to sanction. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c); N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.15.

ORDER

I ORDER the clerk of the OAL to transmit this contested case back to the Commission. The Commission may make a finding and recommendation consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, -30; N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.15.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, the School Ethics Commission has jurisdiction to determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. If it concludes that the conduct constitutes a violation of the School Ethics Act, it shall recommend an appropriate penalty to the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner of Education shall issue the final decision in this matter.

The recommendations of this decision as to whether the conduct constitutes a violation of the School Ethics Act may be adopted, modified or rejected by the SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION. If the School Ethics Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision.

If the School Ethics Commission determines that a violation has occurred, it shall issue a written decision recommending to the Commissioner of Education an appropriate penalty and shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its decision, to the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner of Education may subsequently render a final decision as to the appropriate penalty. If the Commissioner of Education does not render a final decision within forty-five (45) days of its receipt of this initial decision, and unless such time period is otherwise extended, the recommended decision of the School Ethics Commission shall become the final decision.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION, DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

March 27, 2003
DATE

JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ
Receipt Acknowledged:

DATE

SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
Mailed to Parties:

DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

EXHIBITS

For Complainant:

P-1 Minutes of the BOE's May 2, 2000, meeting

For Respondent:

R-1 Affidavit of Thomas Keelen

WITNESSES

For Complainant:

William J. Noe

For Respondent:

Thomas Keelen

	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
IN THE MATTER OF THOMAS KEELEN,	:
	:	Docket No.: C06-01
KEANSBURG BOARD OF EDUCATION MONMOUTH COUNTY	:	DECISION

The School Ethics Commission, having reviewed the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law, dated March 27, 2003, determined at its June 24, 2003 public meeting to accept the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge.

The Commission has found that the respondent blatantly disregarded the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., by soliciting a contribution to his election campaign for the Keansburg Borough Council, implying that the contribution would affect the possibility of the vendor's future contracts with the Board. The Commission concludes that respondent's conduct constitutes an attempt to use his official position to secure an unwarranted advantage for himself in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and the solicitation of a political contribution for the purpose of influencing him directly or indirectly in the discharge of his official duties in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e).

Regarding the penalty, the Commission would have recommended that the Commissioner of Education remove respondent from his position on the Keansburg Board of Education (Board). However, since respondent is no longer a member of the Board, the highest penalty that the Commission can impose is a censure. The Commission therefore recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure in this matter.

This decision, having been adopted by the Commission, shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, the respondent may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairman

Resolution Adopting Decision – C06-01

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties and the documents submitted in support thereof; and

Whereas, the Commission found probable cause to credit the allegations that Thomas Keelen violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (e) of the School Ethics Act; and

Whereas, the matter was brought before Administrative Law Judge John R. Tassini and the allegations were proven by the preponderance of the competent and credible evidence; and

Whereas, the Commission now finds that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (e) of the School Ethics Act and believes that the penalty of removal would have been the appropriate sanction, but may not impose removal since Mr. Keelen is no longer a member of the Board; and

Whereas, since the highest penalty that may be imposed in this matter is censure, the Commission finds that censure is the appropriate sanction;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter finding Thomas Keelen in violation of the Act and recommending that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairman

I hereby certify that the School
Ethics Commission adopted this decision
at its public meeting on June 24, 2003.

Lisa James-Beavers
Executive Director

AGENCY DKT. NO. 289-8/03

IN THE MATTER OF THOMAS KEELEN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
KEANSBURG BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), finding that Thomas Keelen, former member of the Keansburg Board of Education, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (e) of the School Ethics Act, and recommending a penalty of censure have been reviewed. Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided 13 days from the mailing date of the decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. Respondent submitted no comments.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Commission that the appropriate sanction for respondent's flagrant violations of attempting to use his official position to secure an unwarranted advantage for himself and the solicitation of a political contribution for the purpose of influencing him directly or indirectly in the discharge of his official duties would have been removal. However, since respondent is no longer a member of the Board, the Commissioner agrees that censure is the appropriate penalty for respondent in this matter. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied from the record before him that, in recommending a penalty for the violations it found, the Commission fully considered the nature of the offenses and weighed the effects of aggravating and mitigating circumstances. Therefore, the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Thomas Keelen be censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/22/03

Date of Mailing: 9/23/03

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in this matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

558-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF PHILLIPSBURG, WARREN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" Board of Education claimed the Department was required to provide full State funding for its 2003-04 early childhood education program. The Department had provided Early Childhood Program Aid (ECPA) and Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) in accordance with prescribed formulas, but the district contended that additional State monies were required to fully fund the difference between the total of these aids and the approved preschool budget.

The ALJ concluded that the Department correctly calculated the district's ECPA and PSEA, but that this did not end the inquiry. The ALJ concluded that Court, Department and legislative pronouncements, taken together, require that the district's preschool plan be funded entirely by the State, subject to legislative appropriations.

The Commissioner concurred that ECPA and PSEA were correctly calculated, but rejected the conclusion that full State funding of preschool program was required regardless of other funds available in the district budget. The Commissioner held that the State's obligation is to ensure that sufficient funds are available to fully support the district's approved early childhood education plan, with additional State aid to be provided where formula aids and local resources are together inadequate for this purpose. Petition was dismissed.

September 25, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION –
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3423-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 104-3/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF PHILLIPSBURG, Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Acting Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: May 19, 2003 Decided: May 21, 2003

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by an Abbott school district from the adequacy of state aid granted to fund its early childhood plan for the 2003-2004 fiscal year ("FY 2004"). Petitioner Phillipsburg Board of Education ("Board" or "Phillipsburg") contends that it is entitled to full state funding of its approved preschool program. Phillipsburg seeks an additional $835,034 of state aid required for full state funding of its approved preschool program.

Basically, the New Jersey Department of Education ("Department") denies that the state is legally obligated to provide full funding for Phillipsburg's preschool program. Instead, the Department maintains that preschool funding for Abbott districts may be derived from a combination of sources including, where applicable, local tax share. The Department seeks dismissal of the complaint on two grounds: first, that the amount of Preschool Expansion Aid ("PSEA") awarded to Phillipsburg was correctly calculated in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions; and, second, that this appeal is premature because the Department has not yet determined whether Phillipsburg will receive additional state aid that could be used to support its preschool program.

For the reasons that follow, the state is obligated to fully fund the preschool programs in the Abbott school districts and the Commissioner should seek sufficient appropriations from the Legislature to implement Phillipsburg's approved preschool plan for FY 2004.

Procedural History

On February 14, 2003, the Department approved Phillipsburg's preschool program plan for FY 2004 at a total cost of $3,540,720. By notice dated February 26, 2003, the Department advised Phillipsburg that its estimated PSEA for that year had been determined to be $961,775. (Later, on March 17, 2003, the Department revised these figures upwards by $50,000 to total costs of $3,590,720 and PSEA of $1,011,775).

Phillipsburg filed a verified petition of appeal to the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on March 27, 2003, challenging the adequacy of state funding for its FY 2004 preschool program. Subsequently, on April 4, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

Both parties filed cross-motions for summary decision, together with supporting briefs, on May 13, 2003. They filed reply briefs, including a certification from Phillipsburg's business administrator/board secretary, on May 16, 2003. In addition, on May 19, 2003, the parties filed a joint stipulation of facts and consented to the admission of joint exhibits.

The OAL heard oral argument on May 19, 2003, on which date the record closed.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts are stipulated. From the pleadings, joint stipulation and representations of counsel at oral argument, I FIND the following facts:

Phillipsburg School District is an Abbott District as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.2. Under New Jersey Supreme Court decisions and Department regulations, the Board has certain programmatic, budgeting and supervisory responsibilities for a preschool program for all eligible three and four year olds residing in the district. Initially, the Department had approved a total budget of $3,393,741 for Phillipsburg to implement its FY 2004 Abbott preschool program. As a result of a prior appeal and settlement negotiations, the Department increased the total approved budget to $3,590,720. Whatever the ultimate source of funding, the parties agree that Phillipsburg has demonstrated a need for $3,590,720 to operate its 2003-2004 preschool program.

Utilizing a statutory formula, the Department calculated Phillipsburg's Early Childhood Program Aid ("ECPA") for FY 2004 to be $1,743,911. Phillipsburg accepts the correctness of this calculation. Additionally, Phillipsburg is eligible for Preschool Expansion Aid ("PSEA"), which the Department calculates as the difference between the total budget for the FY 2004 approved plan and the FY 2002 approved plan. In the 2001-2002 FY, the total budget for Philipsburg's approved preschool plan was $2,578,945. Consequently, the Department performed the following computation to obtain an initial PSEA of $1,011,775 for Phillipsburg in FY 2004.

FY 2004 Approved Plan	$3,590,720
FY 2001 Approved Plan	-2,578,945
Initial PSEA	$1,011,775

Since total costs of $3,590,720 were approved for FY 2004 and promised state aid comes to $2,755,686, Phillipsburg seeks additional state aid of $835,034. It does not matter to Phillipsburg whether such aid is designated as ECPA, PSEA or something else, so long as the state share fully covers Phillipsburg's approved preschool budget.

Presently, the Department has not yet approved Phillipsburg's school budget for FY 2004 or ascertained whether Phillipsburg might receive "Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid". According to the Deputy Attorney General, the Department expects to complete its review of Phillipsburg's school budget and allocate any additional state money by May 31, 2003.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Department should arrange for full state funding of Phillipsburg's approved preschool program for FY 2004.

During oral argument, the Department framed the issue very narrowly in terms of whether it correctly calculated the amount of Phillipsburg's PSEA for FY 2004. State regulations contemplate that Abbott districts will increase the participation of eligible three and four-year old children in preschool programs over a three-year period. Accordingly, the Department set goals of achieving 70% participation in the 2001-2002 school year, 80% participation in the 2002-2003 school year and 90% participation in the 2003-2004 school year and each school year beyond. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(b)(1). To effectuate such anticipated growth, the Legislature appropriated "Preschool Expansion Aid" to cover increased costs from year to year. In the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004, this legislative intent is clearly articulated:

> The amount appropriated hereinabove as Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid is for the purpose of funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." Payments of Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid shall be based on documented expansion of the preschool program. (Emphasis Added). (at D120).
> http://www.nj.gov/treasury/omb/publications/04budget/pdf/34.pdf

Guided by the highlighted language, the Department correctly calculated the amount of Phillipsburg's PSEA as equivalent to "the increase in approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004." Nearly identical language, except for the years involved, was contained in the Appropriations Act enacted into law for FY 2003. L. 2002, c. 38.

That conclusion, however, does not end the inquiry. As noted, Phillipsburg does not care how the aid is categorized, as long as it originates from state funds. Phillipsburg argues that the case law, the Legislature's understanding of the constitutional mandate and the Department's own interpretation of its responsibilities all support the proposition that the state must fully fund preschool programs in Abbott districts.

New Jersey's highest court recognizes "that pre-school for three- and four-year olds will have a significant and substantial positive impact on academic achievement in both early and later school years." Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480, 506 (1998) ("Abbott V"). Recently, the Supreme Court reiterated that high-quality preschool programs for children in Abbott districts "are a critical component of the whole school reform effort." Abbott v. Burke, 163 N.J. 95, 120 (2000) (Abbott VI). Underlying the Commissioner's plan for early childhood programs "is the clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." Abbott V, at 518. Phillipsburg asserts that this commitment to provide funding must be viewed in the context of earlier decisions emphasizing the existence of municipal overburden and the inadequacies of the local tax base. See, e.g., Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287, 355-357 (1990) (Abbott II); Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 292-293 (1985) (Abbott I). Nonetheless, in Abbott V, the State Supreme Court stopped short of declaring a constitutional mandate for preschool education programs. Rather, the Court interpreted the statutory language as evincing "a clear indication that the Legislature understood and endorsed the strong empirical link between early education and later educational achievement." Abbott V, at 507.

Language in the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004, the very document on which the Department relied, reflects continuing legislative concern that the Abbott districts receive full state funding for their preschool programs. Thus, the Governor's proposed budget envisions that:

> The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbot v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to "Abbott districts" to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and the approved early childhood operational plans. The remaining funds appropriated will be used for the award of discretionary funding to Abbott districts to maintain the programs, services and positions from the prior year that the commissioner determines are essential to the provision of a thorough and efficient education in those districts. (Emphasis Added). (at D-120).

Two important points are readily apparent from this passage. First, the state acknowledges its responsibility to provide full funding for early childhood programs and dedicates "Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid" for that specific purpose. Second, any "remaining funds" may be used for "discretionary" awards for other items deemed by the Commissioner to be "essential" for a thorough and efficient education. Read together, these provisions strongly imply that state reimbursement for the full cost of childhood programs is nondiscretionary.

Significantly, the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004 does not impose any preconditions on receipt by Abbott districts of additional state aid for preschool programs. In contrast, the Governor's Budget Message requires that, before establishing any "discretionary" funding, the Commissioner "shall determine whether some or all of the additional funds sought can be achieved by reallocating non-instructional expenditures, increasing the local property tax levy or achieving economies and efficiencies in the delivery of services and programs." (at D-120).

Public pronouncements of the Department have consistently adopted the same approach. As recently as February 6, 2003, a top official of the Department wrote to the Abbott districts that, "The state will meet its obligation to fully fund parity and preschool programs for Abbott districts." Last year, the Department reassured Abbott districts on March 18, 2002 that sufficient state funds would be available "to fully support the district's approved preschool plan." None of these policy statements gave any suggestion that the Department would look to local funding to defray the cost of preschool programs.

Finally, the Department contends that the issues are not ripe for determination and that action on the appeal should be deferred until a determination has been made on additional state aid. Phillipsburg responds that the issue of full state funding is clearly drawn and that it is entitled to immediate relief. Appeals involving school budgets in Abbott districts are of high priority and receive expedited consideration. Since the facts are undisputed and the parties have had adequate opportunity to brief the legal issues, no good reason exists to delay resolution of this dispute.

Order

It is ORDERED that summary decision be granted in favor of Phillipsburg.

And it is further ORDERED that the Department fully fund Phillipsburg's preschool program for FY 2004, subject to sufficient legislative appropriation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

May 21, 2003
DATE

Ken R. Springer
KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

May 23 2003
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan (for)
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

MAY 27 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

al

APPENDIX
List of Exhibits

No.	Description
J-1	Copy of memorandum to Abbott Chief School Administrators and Business Administrators from Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner, dated March 18, 2002
J-2	Copy of memorandum to All Abbott Superintendents and All Abbott Business Administrators from Gordon MacInnes, Assistant Commissioner and Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner, dated March 18, 2002
J-3	Copy of letter to H. Gordon Pethick, Chief School Administrator, from Ellen Freede, Ph.D. and Gordon MacInnes, Assistant Commissioner, dated January 6, 2003
J-4	Copy of memorandum to Abbott School Districts from Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner, dated January 15, 2003
J-5	Copy of memorandum to Chief School Administrators and Board Secretaries/School Business Administrators from Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner, dated February 6, 2003
J-6	Copy of memorandum to Phillipsburg School District from Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner, dated February 26, 2003

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3423-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 104-3/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF PHILLIPSBURG, WARREN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by the Department of Education (Department), as were replies by the Board of Education (Board), in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and extensions duly requested and granted. Following enactment of the FY '04 Appropriations Act, a supplemental submission was made by the Department, to which the Board, in turn, replied.

In its exceptions, the Department urges the Commissioner to limit his adoption of the Initial Decision to finding that the Department correctly calculated the amount of the Board's Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) for the 2003-04 fiscal year, and to reject Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Springer's addressing of broader issues in a matter pled solely as an appeal of the Department's February 26, 2003 PSEA determination. The Department contends, as it did in its Letter Brief in Reply to the Board's Motion for Summary Decision at 1-2 and 4, that the February 26 determination under appeal was confined to the issue of PSEA and "neither calculates nor advises [the Board] of the amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid that it will receive" so that any assertion by the Board regarding such aid is "entirely inappropriate" in the present proceeding. Instead, the Department argues, the Board's entitlement to Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid was the subject of a May 30, 2003 Department determination which the Board appealed on June 5, 2003 in accordance with the expedited schedule established by the Supreme Court on May 21, 2003, so that consideration of additional aid in the current context is misplaced. (Department's Exceptions at 1-3, quotation at 2)

The Department further contends that the ALJ erred in interpreting the Governor's Budget Message for FY '04, on which he relied in concluding that the Board's approved Early Childhood Plan must be fully funded with State aid, that is, with a combination of Early Childhood Program Aid, PSEA and Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid. Instead, the Department urges, the pertinent language should be read as "requiring the Department to ensure that there are sufficient funds in [the Board's] budget to support the approved Early Childhood Plan," with such funds deriving from both State aids and the local tax share where available. (Department's Exceptions at 4-6, quotation at 5-6, emphasis supplied) The Department argues:

> In Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998), the Supreme Court opined, "the Commissioner may, before seeking new appropriations, first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for a demonstrably needed supplemental program." Id. at 518. The Court further opined, "[u]nderlying the Commissioner's proposal for whole-school reform, early childhood programs and supplemental programs, is the clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." Ibid. (emphasis added).
>
> The above-quoted language demonstrates that the Supreme Court intended for the Commissioner to ensure that the early childhood programs are fully funded, however, the Commissioner could first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for such programs. Because local tax levy is included [in] the budget, the > Commissioner can consider those funds as well as other revenue supporting the budget when determining the amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid, if any, that a district needs.

>
> (Department's Exceptions at 5)

The Department buttresses its position with the language of the FY '04 Appropriations Act, adopted by the Legislature and signed by the Governor as P.L. 2003, *c.*122, contrasting that language with the earlier Governor's Budget Message as cited in the Initial Decision at 6.[1] The Department urges:

> Notably, the Governor's Budget Message for FY04 provided: "The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to 'Abbott districts' to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and the approved early childhood operational plans." (Emphasis added). The FY04 Appropriations Act provides: "The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to 'Abbott districts' to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and approved 'Abbott' preschool expansion." L. 2003, c. 122.
>
> ***
>
> Here, the Legislature revised the language contained in the Governor's Budget Message to clarify that, contrary to Judge Springer's interpretation, the Department is not required to ensure that Phillipsburg's approved Early Childhood Plan is fully funded with State aid such as Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid. By purposefully deleting the words "early childhood operational plans" from the Governor's Budget Message and replacing those words in the FY04 Act with "'Abbott' preschool expansion," the FY04 Act unequivocally demonstrates that, while the Department must ensure that Phillipsburg's "approved 'Abbott' expansion" is fully funded with State aid, the Department is not required to ensure that Phillipsburg's approved "early childhood operational plan" is fully funded with State aid. Moreover, this revision is consistent with the method, established in the FY04 Act, by which Preschool Expansion Aid is calculated. "funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." L. 2003, c. 122.
>
> (Department's Supplemental Submission at 2-3)

In reply to the Department's threshold objections, the Board counters that the ALJ did not address issues outside the scope of the pleadings, since the Petition of [1] The Department added this argument in the post-exceptions submission noted at page 10 above.

Appeal not only challenged the amount of PSEA awarded the Board, but also the Department's failure to fully fund the Board's approved preschool program.[2] (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2-4) The Board further objects to the Department's protestation over the scope of the ALJ's ruling, noting that the Department itself raised the issue of full funding by arguing, in its initial brief in support of a motion for summary decision, that " 'as a matter of law,' while the State must ensure that Phillipsburg's preschool program is fully funded, there is not a concomitant obligation that such funding be provided by the State," and that the Department "sought summary decision based on the claim that there was no State obligation to fully fund the DOE-approved preschool program with State funds; the [Department] cannot now be heard to complain that the ALJ ruled adversely to the [Department] on the very 'matter of law' asserted by the [Department]." (Id. at 4-5, quoting Department's Letter Brief of May 13, 2003 at 8) Neither, the Board alleges, can the Department claim that the Initial Decision wrongly addresses yet-to-be-determined Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid; this claim "disingenuously misconstrues" the Initial Decision, which did not find that the Board was owed Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid, but rather concluded that the State had an obligation, to be met however the State deemed fit, to provide full State funding for approved preschool programs, subject to legislative appropriations. (Id. at 5-6, quotation at 6) The Board urges that deferral of the question of full State funding makes no sense as a matter of public interest, since the question will only recur later if not resolved here, where it has already been fully briefed and considered. (Id. at 6-7)

[2] The Board points to its claim for relief, and also to ¶¶ 4, 7, 11, 13, 14, 18 and 20 of the Verified Petition, noting that while PSEA is mentioned, "the gist of these claims is that the State must fully fund the DOE-approved preschool program with State funds." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 3-4, quotation at 3)

In reply to the Department's further exceptions, the Board references its arguments made before, and adopted by, the ALJ, and offers the additional argument that the Supreme Court's decision in Abbott V, supra, nowhere intimates that preschool programs should or could be funded in part by local tax share; indeed, the Board avers, the Court's decision was based on the recommendations of the Honorable Michael King, P.J.A.D., sitting as the remand court, and, while the Court disagreed with Judge King regarding full-day preschool, it "did not take issue with his conclusion that preschool would be funded by ECPA, T&E, parity funds and the incremental State funding needed to fully fund the preschool program." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 7-9, quotation at 8-9) Finally, the Board offers the Office of Legislative Services' analysis of the Department's FY '03 budget, explaining the purpose of PSEA as a new line item funding the increase in costs between 2001-02 and 2002-03 for programs which had been, "[u]p until this timefunded through a combination of Early Childhood Program Aid and Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid." This excerpt, the Board opines, "reflects the Legislature's clear understanding that prior to the 2001-02 school year, the State had fully funded preschool with State funds and that PSEA was to ensure full state funding for any increase in 2002-03 over 2001-02. Thus, when the FY '04 Appropriations Act provides that PSEA in 2003-04 is to fund the difference between the 2002-03 program and the 2003-04 program, the evident legislative intent is to continue the full State funding in effect prior to the 2001-02 school year -- and extended into the 2002-03 school year by PSEA -- into the 2003-04 school year." (Id. at 9-10, quotation at 10)

Moreover, the Board counters, the Department errs in claiming that the language of the Appropriations Act as finally adopted by the Legislature supports its position, since the Initial Decision does not, as the Department alleges, rely exclusively on the earlier Governor's Budget Message, but rather places that message in the context of continuing expressions of legislative concern, the Abbott decisions, and the Department's repeated public pronouncements. (Board's Supplemental Submission at 1-2) Additionally,

> [t]he FY ['04] Appropriations Act still links the Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid to the "State's obligation" to fully fund parity and approved Abbott preschool expansion. Significantly, the language is not limited to the formula for funding approved preschool expansion aid, but rather to the funding of preschool expansion. Moreover, the FY Appropriations Act does not define what the Legislature meant by the State's obligation so the Commissioner must "employ extrinsic aids, such as legislative intent or prior precedent, to interpret the language at issue." In re Passaic County Util. Auth., 164 N.J. 270, 300 (2000) (citation omitted). (Id. at 3)

Thus, the Board concludes, "properly construed under governing legal principles," the FY '04 Appropriations Act not only fails to support the Department's position, but actually "reinforces the correctness" of the Initial Decision. (Id. at 4)

Upon his own review and consideration, the Commissioner initially concurs with the ALJ and the Board that the issue to be decided in this matter is not limited strictly to the question of whether the Department correctly calculated the amount of PSEA due the district for 2003-04. Notwithstanding that the Petition of Appeal was, in fact, pled largely in terms of PSEA as claimed by the Department, the Commissioner finds it in the best interest of both the parties in this matter and Abbott districts generally to decide the broader question squarely underlying the Board's specific allegations, that is, the question of whether Court, legislative and Department pronouncements, alone or in combination, require that the entire cost of approved Abbott preschool programs be funded, dollar for dollar, exclusively by the State.

The ALJ answered this question in the affirmative, based on legislative intent as expressed through the Governor's FY '04 Budget Message, read in light of 1) Court language recognizing preschool as a critical component of Abbott reform efforts although not a constitutional mandate and acknowledging the statutory endorsement of the link between preschool and later educational achievement; 2) prior enactments reflecting the Legislature's concern with fully funded early childhood education in Abbott districts; and 3) Department pronouncements expressing clear commitment to full funding of preschool programs.

The Commissioner, however, cannot concur with the ALJ's analysis. With respect to the requirements of the Court, nowhere in the Abbott decisions is there a suggestion, let alone a directive, that approved Abbott preschool programs must be funded exclusively by the State. On exception, the Board argues implicit endorsement of its position by the Court's silence in response to Judge King's statement that preschool would be funded by ECPA, T&E, parity funds and "the incremental State funding needed to fully fund the preschool program," with no mention of local revenues. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 8-9) Similarly, based on the Board's earlier arguments, the ALJ cites to the Court's concern with municipal overburden and Abbott districts' inadequate tax bases and to its language referencing the State's "clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." (Initial Decision at 5) These statements, however, do not even on their face require State funding regardless of need. Rather, they provide for the State to ensure, with additional aid if necessary, that sufficient funds are available to the district to fully fund its preschool program, that is, to ensure that any gap remaining after receipt of statutory formula aids will be addressed by the State to the extent that need exists because funds otherwise available to the district are insufficient to fully support the approved program. This reading is consonant not only with the Court's actual language and concern with local taxation capabilities, but also with its overall recognition that, while adequate funding is critical to achievement of a thorough and efficient system of public education in Abbott districts, such funding is a shared responsibility between the State and the local district.

Taken within the proper framework, then, the proffered Department pronouncements regarding "full funding" of Abbott preschool programs cannot be viewed as promises or expectations of dollar-for-dollar State funding regardless of resources available in the local district budget. Rather, they must be understood as reflections of the Department's commitment, and recognition of its obligation, to provide or secure additional State funds to the full degree necessary to support approved programs where local budgetary resources, including formula aids, local levies and monies realized through economies, efficiencies and reallocations, are found inadequate for this purpose. Indeed, this is the only interpretation consistent with sound educational policy, which must recognize both the critical importance of ensuring that approved Abbott preschool programs are supported by sufficient funds and the necessity to allocate State and local resources as efficiently and effectively as possible in meeting the shared responsibility for education in Abbott districts.

Finally, the Commissioner cannot ignore that the Legislature has now spoken definitively on the question posed by this appeal. Even granting, arguendo, that prior Legislatures provided for full State funding of Abbott district early childhood operational plans during the first years of their development, and that the Governor's Budget Message for FY '04 appeared to continue that pattern, the current Legislature has acted deliberately and decisively to clarify that its intent for the FY '04 budget year is to provide additional funding for only those costs directly associated with approved program expansion, not for the entire early childhood operational plan. In that regard, it is noted that there is no question, nor does the Board except to the ALJ's conclusion, that the Department correctly calculated the district's PSEA in accordance with the prescribed legislative formula.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law is rejected except insofar as it concludes that the Department correctly calculated petitioner's ECPA and PSEA for 2003-04. The Petition of Appeal, therefore, is dismissed in its entirety.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/25/03

Date of Mailing: 9/26/03

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

559-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" Board of Education claimed the Department was required to provide full State funding for its 2003-04 early childhood education program. The Department had provided Early Childhood Program Aid (ECPA) and Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) in accordance with prescribed formulas, but the district contended that additional State monies were required to fully fund the difference between the total of these aids and the approved preschool budget.

The ALJ concluded that the Department correctly calculated the district's ECPA and PSEA, but that this did not end the inquiry. The ALJ concluded that Court, Department and legislative pronouncements, taken together, require that the district's preschool plan be funded entirely by the State, subject to legislative appropriations.

The Commissioner concurred that ECPA and PSEA were correctly calculated, but rejected the conclusion that full State funding of preschool program was required regardless of other funds available in the district budget. The Commissioner held that the State's obligation is to ensure that sufficient funds are available to fully support the district's approved early childhood education plan, with additional State aid to be provided where formula aids and local resources are together inadequate for this purpose. Petition was dismissed.

September 25, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2202-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 107-3/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF
THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE,
MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: June 9, 2003 Decided: July 2, 2003

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is an appeal by the Neptune Township School District, which is an Abbott school district, challenging the adequacy of State aid granted to fund its early childhood plan for the 2004 fiscal year (FY 2004). Neptune filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on March 27, 2003, and on April 9, 2003, the matter was transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. The Department filed an answer to the petition on April 23, 2003.

Petitioner's Board of Education (Board or Neptune) contends that it is entitled to full state funding of its approved preschool program. Neptune seeks an additional $3,768,176 of State aid which it contends is required for full State funding of its approved preschool program.

The New Jersey Department of Education (Department) denies that the State is legally obligated to provide full funding for Neptune's preschool program. Instead, the Department takes the position that preschool funding for Abbott districts may be derived from a combination of sources including, where applicable, local tax share. The Department seeks dismissal of the complaint on two grounds: first, that the amount of Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) awarded to Neptune was correctly calculated in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions; and, second, that this appeal is premature because the Department has not yet determined whether Neptune will receive additional state aid that could be used to support its preschool program.

The matter was assigned to me on or about May 6, 2003. A telephone conference was scheduled for May 22, 2003 and a hearing was scheduled to commence on June 6, 2003.

On and after May 27, 2003, after consultation with the attorneys, it was learned that the Honorable Ken R. Springer, ALJ had issued an initial decision in a matter entitled Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03, Agency Dkt. No. 104-3/03, decided May 21, 2003. In that case, the identical legal issue based on similar facts was addressed by Judge Springer. I indicated to the attorneys that I had reviewed Judge Springer's initial decision and that my impression was that I agreed with his legal conclusion. The attorneys agreed to proceed in this matter by stipulating the essential facts and by relying upon their legal arguments in prior similar cases. I could then reach a conclusion without the necessity for an evidentiary hearing. Based on this agreement, the attorneys supplied me with an agreed upon statement of figures (J-1) and their prior submissions which have been marked in evidence (P-1 through P-4, R-1 through R-5). Upon receiving the written submissions, the record in this matter closed on June 9, 2003.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

All of the material facts in this matter are either stipulated or undisputed. From the pleadings and the representations of counsel, I FIND the following facts:

The Neptune Township School District is an Abbott District as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.2. Under New Jersey Supreme Court decisions and Department regulations, the school district has certain programmatic, budgeting and supervisory responsibilities for a preschool program for all eligible three- and four-year-olds residing in the district.

It has been stipulated and agreed by and between the parties that the Department has approved Neptune's Early Childhood Plan for the 2003-2004 school year in the amount of $5,967,430. Also, for the 2003-2004 school year, the Department's initial award to Neptune of PSEA was $114,545 and Neptune's Early Childhood Program Aid (ECPA) was $2,084,709. Accordingly, the approved amount of Neptune's 2003-2004 Early Childhood Plan exceeds the aggregate of Neptune's ECPA and PSEA by $3,768,176.

Utilizing a statutory formula, the Department calculated Neptune's ECPA for FY 2004 to be $2,084,709. There has been no challenge to the correctness of this calculation. Additionally, Neptune is eligible for PSEA, which the Department calculates as the difference between the total budget for the FY 2004 approved plan and the FY 2002 approved plan. In the 2001-2002 FY, the total budget for Neptune's approved preschool plan was $5,852,885. Consequently, the Department performed the following computation to obtain an initial PSEA of $114,545 for Neptune in FY 2004.

FY 2004 Approved Plan	$5,967,430
FY 2001 Approved Plan	-5,852,885
Initial PSEA	$ 114,545

Since total costs of $5,967,430 were approved for FY 2004 and promised state aid comes to $2,199,254 Neptune seeks additional state aid of $3,768,176. It does not matter to Neptune whether such aid is designated as ECPA, PSEA or something else, so long as the State share fully covers Neptune's approved preschool budget.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In this matter, it is undisputed that the Department has approved a total budget of $5,967,430 for Neptune to implement its FY 2004 Abbott preschool program. Whatever the ultimate source of funding, Neptune has demonstrated a need for $5,967,430 to operate its 2003-2004 preschool program. Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, and giving full credit to Judge Springer for his well-reasoned decision in Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03, Agency Dkt. No. 104-3/03, (decided May 21, 2003), I have also concluded that the Department is obligated to fully fund the preschool programs in the Abbott school districts. Therefore, the Commissioner should seek sufficient appropriations from the Legislature to implement Neptune's approved Early Childhood Program for FY 2004.

As stated by Judge Springer in the Phillipsburg case, State regulations contemplate that Abbott districts will increase the participation of eligible three- and four-year- old children in preschool programs over a three-year period. Accordingly, the Department set goals of achieving 70% participation in the 2001-2002 school year, 80% participation in the 2002-2003 school year and 90% participation in the 2003-2004 school year and each school year beyond. *N.J.A.*C. 6A:24-3.3(b)(1). To effectuate such anticipated growth, the Legislature appropriated "Preschool Expansion Aid" to cover increased costs from year to year. In the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004, this legislative intent is clearly articulated:

> The amount appropriated hereinabove as Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid is for the purpose of funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." Payments of Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid shall be based on documented expansion of the preschool program. (Emphasis Added). (at D120).
>
> http://www.nj.gov/treasury/omb/publications/04budget/pdf/34.pdf

Guided by the highlighted language, the Department correctly calculated the amount of Neptune's PSEA as equivalent to "the increase in approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004." Nearly identical language, except for the years involved, was contained in the Appropriations Act enacted into law for FY 2003. L. 2002, c. 38.

That conclusion, however, does not end the inquiry. As noted, Neptune does not care how the aid is categorized, as long as it originates from state funds. Neptune argues that the case law, the Legislature's understanding of the constitutional mandate and the Department's own interpretation of its responsibilities all support the proposition that the State must fully fund preschool programs in Abbott districts.

New Jersey's highest court recognizes "that pre-school for three- and four-year olds will have a significant and substantial positive impact on academic achievement in both early and later school years." Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480, 506 (1998) (Abbott V). Recently, the Supreme Court reiterated that high-quality preschool programs for children in Abbott districts "are a critical component of the whole school reform effort." Abbott v. Burke, 163 N.J. 95, 120 (2000) (Abbott VI). Underlying the Commissioner's plan for early childhood programs "is the clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." Abbott V, at 518. This commitment to provide funding must be viewed in the context of earlier decisions emphasizing the existence of municipal overburden and the inadequacies of the local tax base. See, e.g., Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287, 355-357 (1990) (Abbott II); Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 292-293 (1985) (Abbott I). In Abbott V, the State Supreme Court stopped short of declaring a constitutional mandate for preschool education programs. Rather, the Court interpreted the statutory language as evincing "a clear indication that the Legislature understood and endorsed the strong empirical link between early education and later educational achievement." Abbott V, at 507.

Language in the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004 reflects continuing legislative concern that Abbott districts receive full state funding for their preschool programs. Thus, the Governor's proposed budget envisions that:

> The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbot v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to "Abbott districts" to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and the approved early childhood operational plans. The remaining funds appropriated will be used for the award of discretionary funding to Abbott districts to maintain the programs, services and positions from the prior year that the commissioner determines are essential to the provision of a thorough and efficient education in those districts. (Emphasis Added). (at D-120).

Two important points are readily apparent from this passage. First, the State acknowledges its responsibility to provide full funding for early childhood programs and dedicates "Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid" for that specific purpose. Second, any "remaining funds" may be used for "discretionary" awards for other items deemed by the Commissioner to be "essential" for a thorough and efficient education. Read together, these provisions strongly imply that State reimbursement for the full cost of early childhood programs is nondiscretionary.

Significantly, the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004 does not impose any preconditions on receipt by Abbott districts of additional state aid for preschool programs. In contrast, the Governor's Budget Message requires that, before establishing any "discretionary" funding, the Commissioner "shall determine whether some or all of the additional funds sought can be achieved by reallocating non-instructional expenditures, increasing the local property tax levy or achieving economies and efficiencies in the delivery of services and programs." (at D-120).

Public pronouncements of the Department have consistently adopted the same approach. As recently as February 6, 2003, a top official of the Department wrote to the Abbott districts that, "The state will meet its obligation to fully fund parity and preschool programs for Abbott districts." Last year, the Department reassured Abbott districts on March 18, 2002, that sufficient State funds would be available "to fully support the district's approved preschool plan." None of these policy statements gave any suggestion that the Department would look to local funding to defray the cost of preschool programs.

Finally, the Department contends that the issues are not ripe for determination and that action on the appeal should be deferred until a determination has been made on additional state aid. The school district's response is that the issue of full state funding is clearly drawn and that it is entitled to immediate relief. Appeals involving school budgets in Abbott districts are of high priority and receive expedited consideration. Since the facts are undisputed and the parties have had adequate opportunity to brief the legal issues, no good reason exists to delay resolution of this dispute.

DECISION AND ORDER

It is ORDERED that summary decision be granted in favor of petitioner Board of Education of the Township of Neptune. It is further ORDERED that the Department fully fund the Neptune Township School District early childhood program for FY 2004, subject to sufficient legislative appropriation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

July 2, 2003
DATE

JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

July 2 2003 lam
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

JUL 8 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

/lam

APPENDIX:

LIST OF EXHIBITS:

Joint exhibits:

J-1 Letter of Michael Walters, Deputy Attorney General, dated June 5, 2003, setting forth the agreed upon figures applicable herein

For petitioner:

P-1 Letter brief dated May 14, 2003, in Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Dept. of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03

P-2 Letter brief dated May 16, 2003, in Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Dept. of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03

P-3 Letter brief dated May 22, 2003 in Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2203-03

P-4 Letter brief dated June 1, 2003 in Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2203-03

For respondent:

R-1 Letter brief dated May 13, 2003, in Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Dept. of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03

R-2 Reply letter brief dated May 16, 2003 in Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Dept. of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03

R-3 Letter brief and supporting certification dated May 27, 2003 in Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03

R-4 Letter brief dated May 26, 2003 in Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2203-03

R-4 Certification of Yut'Se O. Thomas in Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2203-03

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2202-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 107-3/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by the Department of Education (Department), as were replies by the Board of Education (Board), in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, the Department urges the Commissioner to limit his adoption of the Initial Decision to finding that the Department correctly calculated the amount of the Board's Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) for the 2003-04 fiscal year, and to reject Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Martone's addressing of broader issues in a matter pled solely as an appeal of the Department's February 26, 2003 PSEA determination. The Department contends that the February 26 determination under appeal was confined to the issue of PSEA and "neither calculates nor advises [the Board] of the amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid that it will receive" so that any assertion by the Board regarding such aid is "entirely inappropriate" in the present proceeding. (Department's Exceptions at 1-3, quotation at 2-3)

The Department further contends that the ALJ erred in relying on the Governor's Budget Message for FY '04 in concluding that the Board's approved Early Childhood Plan must be fully funded with State aid, since the FY '04 Appropriations Act, adopted by the Legislature and signed by the Governor as P.L. 2003, *c.*122, expressly revised the earlier Governor's Budget Message language as cited in the Initial Decision. The Department urges:

> Notably, the Governor's Budget Message for FY04 provided: "The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to 'Abbott districts' to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and the approved early childhood operational plans." (Emphasis added). The FY04 Appropriations Act provides: "The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to 'Abbott districts' to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and approved 'Abbott' preschool expansion." L. 2003, c. 122.
>
> ***
>
> Here, the Legislature revised the language contained in the Governor's Budget Message to clarify that, contrary to Judge Martone's interpretation, the Department is not required to ensure that Neptune's approved Early Childhood Plan is fully funded with State aid. By purposefully deleting the words "early childhood operational plans" from the Governor's Budget Message and replacing those words in the FY04 Act with "'Abbott' preschool expansion," the FY04 Act unequivocally demonstrates that, while the Department must ensure that Neptune's "approved 'Abbott' expansion" is fully funded with State aid, the Department is not required to ensure that Neptune's approved "early childhood operational plan" is fully funded with State aid. Moreover, this revision is consistent with the method, established in the FY04 Act, by which Preschool Expansion Aid is calculated: "funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." L. 2003, c. 122. (Department's Exceptions at 4-5)

This interpretation, the Department avers, is consistent with the Court's language concerning Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid. The Department argues:

> In Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998), the Supreme Court opined, "the Commissioner may, before seeking new appropriations, first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for a demonstrably needed supplemental program." Id. at 518. The Court further opined, "[u]nderlying the Commissioner's proposal for whole-school reform, early childhood programs and supplemental programs, is the clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." Ibid. (emphasis added).
>
> The above-quoted language demonstrates that the Supreme Court intended for the Commissioner to ensure that the early childhood programs are fully funded, however, the Commissioner could first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for such programs. Because local tax levy is included [in] the budget, the Commissioner can consider those funds as well as other revenue supporting the budget when determining the amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid, if any, that a district needs. (Id. at 5-6)

In reply, the Board counters that the ALJ did not address issues outside the scope of the pleadings, since the Petition of Appeal not only challenged the amount of PSEA awarded the Board, but also the Department's failure to fully fund the Board's approved preschool program.[1] (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2-4) The Board further objects to the Department's protestation over the scope of the ALJ's ruling, noting that the Department itself raised the issue of full funding by arguing, in its initial brief in support of a motion for summary decision, that "'as a matter of law,' while the State must ensure that Neptune's preschool program is fully funded, there is not a concomitant obligation that such funding be provided by the State," and that the Department "sought summary decision based on the claim that there was no State obligation to fully fund the DOE-approved preschool program with State funds; the [Department] cannot now be heard to complain that the ALJ ruled adversely to the [Department] on the very 'matter of

[1] The Board points to its claim for relief, and also to ¶¶ 4, 7, 11, 13, 14, 18 and 20 of the Verified Petition, noting that while PSEA is mentioned, "the gravamen of [these] claims is that the State must fully fund the DOE-approved preschool program with State funds." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 3-4, quotation at 3)

law' asserted by the [Department]." (Id. at 4-5, quoting Department's Phillipsburg[2] Letter Brief of May 13, 2003 at 8) Neither, the Board alleges, can the Department claim that the Initial Decision wrongly addresses yet-to-be-determined Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid; this claim "disingenuously misconstrues" the Initial Decision, which did not find that the Board was owed Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid, but rather concluded that the State had an obligation, to be met however the State deemed fit, to provide full State funding for approved preschool programs, subject to legislative appropriations. (Id. at 5-6, quotation at 6) The Board urges that deferral of the question of full State funding makes no sense as a matter of public interest, since the question will only recur later if not resolved here, where it has already been fully briefed and considered. (Id. at 6-7)

The Board next proffers that the Supreme Court's decision in Abbott V, supra, nowhere intimates that preschool programs should or could be funded in part by local tax share; indeed, the Board avers, the Court's decision was based on the recommendations of the Honorable Michael King, P.J.A.D., sitting as the remand court, and, while the Court disagreed with Judge King regarding full-day preschool, it "did not take issue with his conclusion that preschool would be funded by ECPA, T&E, parity funds and the incremental State funding needed to fully fund the preschool program." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 7-10, quotation at 8) Finally, the Board offers the Office of Legislative Services' analysis of the Department's FY '03 budget, explaining the purpose of PSEA as a new line item funding the increase in costs between 2001-02 and 2002-03 for programs which had been, "[u]p until this timefunded through a combination of Early Childhood Program Aid and Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid." This excerpt, the Board opines, "reflects the Legislature's clear understanding that prior to the 2001-02 school year, the State had fully funded preschool with State funds and that PSEA was to ensure full state funding for any increase in 2002-03 over 2001-02. Thus, when the FY 04 Appropriations Act provides that PSEA in 2003-04 is to fund the difference between the 2002-03 program and the 2003-04 program, the evident legislative intent is to continue the full State funding in effect prior to the 2001-02 school year -- and extended into the 2002-03 school year by PSEA -- into the 2003-04 school year." (Id. at 9-10, quotation at 9-10)

[2] As noted in the Initial Decision at 2, the parties in this matter agreed to incorporate and rely upon submissions and arguments made in the matter of Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg, Warren County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03, Agency Dkt. No. 104-3/03. As indicated below, that matter was decided by the Commissioner on September 25, 2003.

Finally, the Board contends that the Department errs in claiming that the language of the Appropriations Act as ultimately adopted by the Legislature supports its position. According to the Board, the Initial Decision does not, as the Department alleges, rely exclusively on the earlier Governor's Budget Message, but rather places that message in the context of continuing expressions of legislative concern, the Abbott decisions, and the Department's repeated public pronouncements. (Id. at 10-11) Additionally,

> [t]he FY ['04] Appropriations Act still links the Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid to the "State's obligation" to fully fund parity and approved Abbott preschool expansion. Significantly, the language is not limited to the formula for funding approved preschool expansion aid, but rather to the funding of preschool expansion. Moreover, the FY Appropriations Act does not define what the Legislature meant by the State's obligation so the Commissioner must "employ extrinsic aids, such as legislative intent or prior precedent, to interpret the language at issue." In re Passaic County Util. Auth., 164 N.J. 270, 300 (2000) (citation omitted). (Id. at 11-12)

Thus, the Board concludes, "properly construed under governing legal principles," the FY '04 Appropriations Act not only fails to support the Department's position, but actually "reinforces the correctness" of the Initial Decision. (Id. at 12)

Upon his own review and consideration, as he did in the matter of Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg, Warren County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided on September 25, 2003, subsequent to issuance of the Initial Decision herein, the Commissioner first concurs with the ALJ and the Board that the instant matter is not limited strictly to the question of whether the Department correctly calculated the amount of PSEA due the district for 2003-04. Notwithstanding that the Petition of Appeal was, in fact, pled largely in terms of PSEA as claimed by the Department, the Commissioner finds it in the best interest of both the parties in this matter and Abbott districts generally to decide the broader question squarely underlying the Board's specific allegations, that is, the question of whether Court, legislative and Department pronouncements, alone or in combination, require that the entire cost of approved Abbott preschool programs be funded, dollar for dollar, exclusively by the State.

The ALJ, concurring with the Initial Decision in Phillipsburg, supra, answered this question in the affirmative based on legislative intent as expressed through the Governor's FY '04 Budget Message, read in light of 1) Court language recognizing preschool as a critical component of Abbott reform efforts although not a constitutional mandate and acknowledging the statutory endorsement of the link between preschool and later educational achievement; 2) prior enactments reflecting the Legislature's concern with fully funded early childhood education in Abbott districts; and 3) Department pronouncements expressing clear commitment to full funding of preschool programs.

The Commissioner, however, does not concur with the Phillipsburg analysis. With respect to the requirements of the Court, nowhere in the Abbott decisions is there a suggestion, let alone a directive, that approved Abbott preschool programs must be funded exclusively by the State. On exception, the Board argues implicit endorsement of its position by the Court's silence in response to Judge King's statement that preschool would be funded by ECPA, T&E, parity funds and "the incremental State funding needed to fully fund the preschool program," with no mention of local revenues. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 8-9) Similarly, based on the Board's earlier arguments, the ALJ cites to the Court's concern with municipal overburden and Abbott districts' inadequate tax bases and to its language referencing the State's "clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." (Initial Decision at 5) These statements, however, do not even on their face require State funding regardless of need. Rather, they provide for the State to ensure, with additional aid if necessary, that sufficient funds are available to the district to fully fund its preschool program, that is, to ensure that any gap remaining after receipt of statutory formula aids will be addressed by the State to the extent that need exists because funds otherwise available to the district are insufficient to fully support the approved program. This reading is consonant not only with the Court's actual language and concern with local taxation capabilities, but also with its overall recognition that, while adequate funding is critical to achievement of a thorough and efficient system of public education in Abbott districts, such funding is a shared responsibility between the State and the local district.

Taken within the proper framework, then, as in Phillipsburg, the proffered Department pronouncements regarding "full funding" of Abbott preschool programs cannot be viewed as promises or expectations of dollar-for-dollar State funding regardless of resources available in the local district budget. Rather, they must be understood as reflections of the Department's commitment, and recognition of its obligation, to provide or secure additional State funds to the full degree necessary to support approved programs where local budgetary resources, including formula aids, local levies and monies realized through economies, efficiencies and reallocations, are found inadequate for this purpose. Indeed, this is the only interpretation consistent with sound educational policy, which must recognize both the critical importance of ensuring that approved Abbott preschool programs are supported by sufficient funds and the necessity to allocate State and local resources as efficiently and effectively as possible in meeting the shared responsibility for education in Abbott districts.

Finally, as in Phillipsburg, the Commissioner cannot ignore that the Legislature has now spoken definitively on the question posed by this appeal. Even granting, arguendo, that prior Legislatures provided for full State funding of Abbott district early childhood operational plans during the first years of their development, and that the Governor's Budget Message for FY '04 appeared to continue that pattern, the current Legislature has acted deliberately and decisively to clarify that its intent for the FY '04 budget year is to provide additional funding for only those costs directly associated with approved program expansion, not for the entire early childhood operational plan. In that regard, it is noted that there is no question, nor does the Board except to the ALJ's conclusion, that the Department correctly calculated the district's PSEA in accordance with the prescribed legislative formula.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law is rejected except insofar as it concludes that the Department correctly calculated petitioner's ECPA and PSEA for 2003-04. The Petition of Appeal, therefore, is dismissed in its entirety.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/25/03

Date of Mailing: 9/26/03

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

560-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" Board of Education claimed the Department was required to provide full State funding for its 2003-04 early childhood education program. The Department had provided Early Childhood Program Aid (ECPA) and Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) in accordance with prescribed formulas, but the district contended that additional State monies were required to fully fund the difference between the total of these aids and the approved preschool budget.

The ALJ concluded that the Department correctly calculated the district's ECPA and PSEA, but that this did not end the inquiry. The ALJ concluded that Court, Department and legislative pronouncements, taken together, require that the district's preschool plan be funded entirely by the State, subject to legislative appropriations.

The Commissioner concurred that ECPA and PSEA were correctly calculated, but rejected the conclusion that full State funding of preschool program was required regardless of other funds available in the district budget. The Commissioner held that the State's obligation is to ensure that sufficient funds are available to fully support the district's approved early childhood education plan, with additional State monies to be provided where formula aids and local resources are together inadequate for this purpose. Petition was dismissed.

September 25, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2203-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 106-3/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON,

Petitioner,
v.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: June 19, 2003 Decided: July 30, 2003

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is an appeal by the Pemberton Township School District, which is an Abbott school district, contesting the adequacy of the State preschool expansion aid granted to fund its early childhood plan for the 2003-2004 fiscal year ("FY 2004"). Pemberton filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner or Education on March 27, 2003, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on April 9, 2003, for hearing as a contested case. The State Department of Education filed an answer to the petition on April 10, 2003.

Pemberton contends that it is entitled to full state funding of its approved preschool program. Therefore, it seeks an additional $424,569 of State Aid for its approved preschool program.

The New Jersey Department of Education denies that the State is legally obligated to provide full funding for Pemberton's preschool program. Instead, the Department maintains that preschool funding for Abbott districts may be derived from a combination of sources including, where applicable, local tax share. The Department seeks dismissal of the complaint on two grounds: first, that the amount of Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) awarded to Pemberton was correctly calculated in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions; and, second, that this appeal is premature because the Department has not yet determined whether Pemberton will receive additional state aid that could be used to support its preschool program.

This matter was assigned to me on April 14, 2003. A prehearing conference was scheduled for and held on May 2, 2003 and at that time the parties agreed to conduct the plenary hearing on June 3, 2003. However, on or about May 27, 2003, it was learned that the Honorable Ken R. Springer, ALJ, had issued an initial decision in a matter entitled Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU 3423-03, Agency Reference No. 104-3/03, on May 21, 2003. In that matter, Judge Springer addressed the identical legal issues and facts substantially similar to those presented here.

After careful consideration of Judge Springer's Initial Decision, I contacted and advised the parties that I had read the decision and preliminarily determined that I agreed with his legal conclusion. Following a brief discussion, the attorneys agreed to proceed in this matter by stipulating the essential facts and relying upon the legal arguments already advanced in their prehearing briefs. This agreement obviated the necessity of an evidentiary hearing and, upon receiving a joint statement of figures (Exhibit J-1), the record closed on June 19, 2003.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

All of the material facts are either stipulated or undisputed. From the pleadings, joint stipulation and representations of counsel, I FIND the following facts:

The Pemberton School District is an Abbott District as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.2. Under New Jersey Supreme Court decisions and Department regulations, the District has certain programmatic, budgeting and supervisory responsibilities for a preschool program for all eligible three and four year olds residing in the district. The Department has approved a total budget of $5,452,305 for Pemberton to implement its FY 2004 Abbott preschool program.

Utilizing a statutory formula, the Department calculated Pemberton's ECPA for FY 2004 to be $2,858,058. Pemberton accepts the correctness of this calculation. Additionally, Pemberton is eligible for Preschool Expansion Aid, which the Department calculates as the difference between the total budget for the FY 2004 approved plan and the FY 2002 approved plan. In the 2001-2002 FY, the total budget for Pemberton's approved preschool plan was $3,282,627. Consequently, the Department performed the following computation to obtain an initial PSEA of $2,169,678 for Pemberton in FY 2004:

FY 2004 Approved Plan	$5,452,305
FY 2001 Approved Plan	-3,282,627
Initial PSEA	2,169,678

Since total costs of $5,452,305 were approved for FY 2004 and promised state aid comes to $5,027,736, Pemberton seeks additional state aid of $454,569. It does not matter to Pemberton whether such aid is designated as ECPA, PSEA or something else, so long as the state share fully covers Pemberton's approved preschool budget.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

It is undisputed that the Department has approved a total budget of $5,452,305 for Pemberton to implement its FY 2004 Abbott preschool program. Whatever the ultimate source of funding, Pemberton has demonstrated a need for $5,452,305 to operate its 2003-2004 preschool program. Based upon these facts, applicable law, and Judge Springer's well-reasoned decision in Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Department of Education, supra, OAL Docket No. EDU 3423-03, I CONCLUDE that the Department is obligated to fully fund the preschool programs in this Abbott school district. Therefore, the Commissioner should seek sufficient appropriations from the Legislature to implement Pemberton's approved Early Childhood Program for FY 2004.

As Judge Springer stated, State regulations contemplate that Abbott districts will increase the participation of eligible three- and four-year old children in preschool programs over a three-year period. Accordingly, the Department set goals of achieving 70% participation in the 2001-2002 school year, 80% participation in the 2002-2003 school year and 90% participation in the 2003-2004 school year and each school year beyond. *N.J.A.*C. 6A:24-3.3(b)(1). To effectuate such anticipated growth, the Legislature appropriated "Preschool Expansion Aid" to cover increased costs from year to year. In the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004, this legislative intent is clearly articulated:

> The amount appropriated hereinabove as Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid is for the purpose of funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." Payments of Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid shall be based on documented expansion of the preschool program. (Emphasis Added). (at D120). http://www.nj.gov/treasury/omb/publications/04budget/pdf/34.pdf

Guided by the highlighted language, the Department correctly calculated the amount of Pemberton's PSEA as equivalent to "the increase in approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004." Nearly identical language, except for the years involved, was contained in the Appropriations Act enacted into law for FY 2003. L. 2002, c. 38.

That conclusion, however, does not end the inquiry. As noted, Pemberton does not care how the aid is categorized, as long as it originates from state funds. Pemberton argues that the case law, the Legislature's understanding of the constitutional mandate and the Department's own interpretation of its responsibilities all support the proposition that the state must fully fund preschool programs in Abbott districts.

New Jersey's highest court recognizes "that pre-school for three- and four-year olds will have a significant and substantial positive impact on academic achievement in both early and later school years." Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480, 506 (1998) (Abbott V). Recently, the Supreme Court reiterated that high-quality preschool programs for children in Abbott districts "are a critical component of the whole school reform effort." Abbott v. Burke, 163 N.J. 95, 120 (2000) (Abbott VI). Underlying the Commissioner's plan for early childhood programs "is the clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." Abbott V, at 518. This commitment to provide funding must be viewed in the context of earlier decisions emphasizing the existence of municipal overburden and the inadequacies of the local tax base. See, e.g., Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287, 355-357 (1990) (Abbott II); Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 292-293 (1985) (Abbott I). Nonetheless, in Abbott V, the State Supreme Court stopped short of declaring a constitutional mandate for preschool education programs. Rather, the Court interpreted the statutory language as evincing "a clear indication that the Legislature understood and endorsed the strong empirical link between early education and later educational achievement." Abbott V, at 507.

Language in the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004, the very document on which the Department relied, reflects continuing legislative concern that the Abbott districts receive full state funding for their preschool programs. Thus, the Governor's proposed budget envisions that:

> The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbot v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to "Abbott districts" to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and the approved early childhood operational plans. The remaining funds appropriated will be used for the award of discretionary funding to Abbott districts to maintain the programs, services and positions from the prior year that the > commissioner determines are essential to the provision of a thorough and efficient education in those districts. (Emphasis Added). (at D-120).

Two important points are readily apparent from this passage. First, the state acknowledges its responsibility to provide full funding for early childhood programs and dedicates "Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid" for that specific purpose. Second, any "remaining funds" may be used for "discretionary" awards for other items deemed by the Commissioner to be "essential" for a thorough and efficient education. Read together, these provisions strongly imply that state reimbursement for the full cost of childhood programs is nondiscretionary.

Significantly, the Governor's Budget Message for FY 2004 does not impose any preconditions on receipt by Abbott districts of additional state aid for preschool programs. In contrast, the Governor's Budget Message requires that, before establishing any "discretionary" funding, the Commissioner "shall determine whether some or all of the additional funds sought can be achieved by reallocating non-instructional expenditures, increasing the local property tax levy or achieving economies and efficiencies in the delivery of services and programs." (at D-120).

Public pronouncements of the Department have consistently adopted the same approach. As recently as February 6, 2003, a top official of the Department advised the Abbott districts that, "The state will meet its obligation to fully fund parity and preschool programs for Abbott districts." Last year, on March 18, 2002, the Department reassured Abbott districts that sufficient state funds would be available "to fully support the district's approved preschool plan." None of these policy statements gave any suggestion that the Department would look to local funding to defray the cost of preschool programs.

Finally, the Department contends that the issues are not ripe for determination and that action on the appeal should be deferred until a determination has been made on additional state aid. Pemberton responds that the issue of full state funding is clearly drawn and that it is entitled to immediate relief. Appeals involving school budgets in Abbott districts are of high priority and receive expedited consideration. Since the facts are undisputed and the parties have had adequate opportunity to brief the legal issues, no good reason exists to delay resolution of this dispute.

DECISION AND ORDER

It is ORDERED that summary decision be granted in favor of Pemberton. It is further ORDERED that the Department fully fund Pemberton's preschool program for FY 2004, subject to sufficient legislative appropriation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

July 30, 2003
DATE

ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

7/31/2003
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

AUG - 6 2003

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

APPENDIX

EXHIBITS

Joint Exhibits:

J-1 Memorandum dated June 16, 2003, setting forth Revised Initial FY 2004 Preschool Expansion Aid

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2203-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 106-3/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by the Department of Education (Department), as were replies by the Board of Education (Board), in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, the Department urges the Commissioner to limit his adoption of the Initial Decision to finding that the Department correctly calculated the amount of the Board's Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) for the 2003-04 fiscal year, and to reject Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Dubin's addressing of broader issues in a matter pled solely as an appeal of the Department's February 26, 2003 PSEA determination. The Department contends that the February 26 determination under appeal was confined to the issue of PSEA and "neither calculates nor advises [the Board] of the amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid that it will receive" so that any assertion by the Board regarding such aid is "entirely inappropriate" in the present proceeding. (Department's Exceptions at 1-3, quotation at 3)

The Department further contends that the ALJ erred in relying on the Governor's Budget Message for FY '04 in concluding that the Board's approved Early Childhood Plan must be fully funded with State aid, since the FY '04 Appropriations Act, adopted by the Legislature and signed by the Governor as P.L. 2003, *c.*122, expressly revised the earlier Governor's Budget Message language as cited in the Initial Decision. The Department urges:

> Notably, the Governor's Budget Message for FY04 provided: "The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to 'Abbott districts' to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and the approved early childhood operational plans." (Emphasis added). The FY04 Appropriations Act provides: "The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to 'Abbott districts' to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and approved 'Abbott' preschool expansion." L. 2003, c. 122.
>
> ***
>
> Here, the Legislature revised the language contained in the Governor's Budget Message to clarify that, contrary to Judge Dubin's interpretation, the Department is not required to ensure that Pemberton's approved Early Childhood Plan is fully funded with State aid. By purposefully deleting the words "early childhood operational plans" from the Governor's Budget Message and replacing those words in the FY04 Act with "'Abbott' preschool expansion," the FY04 Act unequivocally demonstrates that, while the Department must ensure that Pemberton's "approved 'Abbott' expansion" is fully funded with State aid, the Department is not required to ensure that Pemberton's approved "early childhood operational plan" is fully funded with State aid. Moreover, this revision is consistent with the method, established in the FY04 Act, by which Preschool Expansion Aid is calculated: "funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." L. 2003, c. 122. (Id. at 4-5)

This interpretation, the Department avers, is consistent with the Court's language concerning Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid. The Department argues:

> In Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998), the Supreme Court opined, "the Commissioner may, before seeking new appropriations, first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for a demonstrably needed supplemental program." Id. at 518. The Court further opined, "[u]nderlying the Commissioner's proposal for whole-school reform, early childhood programs and supplemental programs, is the clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." Ibid. (Emphasis added).
>
> The above-quoted language demonstrates that the Supreme Court intended for the Commissioner to ensure that the early childhood programs are fully funded, however, the Commissioner could first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for such programs. Because local tax levy is included [in] the budget, the Commissioner can consider those funds as well as other revenue supporting the budget when determining the amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid, if any, that a district needs. (Id. at 6)

In reply, the Board counters that the ALJ did not address issues outside the scope of the pleadings, since the Petition of Appeal not only challenged the amount of PSEA awarded the Board, but also the Department's failure to fully fund the Board's approved preschool program.[1] (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2-4) The Board further objects to the Department's protestation over the scope of the ALJ's ruling, noting that the Department itself raised the issue of full funding by arguing, in its initial brief in support of a motion for summary decision, that "'as a matter of law,' while the State must ensure that Pemberton's preschool program is fully funded, there is not a concomitant obligation that such funding be provided by the State," and that the Department "sought summary decision based on the claim that there was no State obligation to fully fund the DOE-approved preschool program with State funds; the [Department] cannot now be heard to complain that the ALJ ruled adversely to the [Department] on the very 'matter of

[1] The Board points to its claim for relief, and also to ¶¶ 4, 7, 11, 13, 14, 18 and 20 of the Verified Petition, noting that while PSEA is mentioned, "the gravamen of [these] claims is that the State must fully fund the DOE-approved preschool program with State funds." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 3-4, quotation at 3)

law' asserted by the [Department]." (Id. at 4-5, quoting Department's Phillipsburg[2] Letter Brief of May 13, 2003 at 8) Neither, the Board alleges, can the Department claim that the Initial Decision wrongly addresses yet-to-be-determined Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid; this claim "disingenuously misconstrues" the Initial Decision, which did not find that the Board was owed Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid, but rather concluded that the State had an obligation, to be met however the State deemed fit, to provide full State funding for approved preschool programs, subject to Legislative appropriations. (Id. at 5-6, quotation at 6) The Board urges that deferral of the question of full State funding makes no sense as a matter of public interest, since the question will only recur later if not resolved here, where it has already been fully briefed and considered. (Id. at 6-7)

The Board next proffers that the Supreme Court's decision in Abbott V, supra, nowhere intimates that preschool programs should or could be funded in part by local tax share; indeed, the Board avers, the Court's decision was based on the recommendations of the Honorable Michael King, P.J.A.D., sitting as the remand court, and, while the Court disagreed with Judge King regarding full-day preschool, it "did not take issue with his conclusion that preschool would be funded by ECPA, T&E, parity funds and the incremental State funding needed to fully fund the preschool program." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 7-10, quotation at 8) Finally, the Board offers the Office of Legislative Services' analysis of the Department's FY '03 budget, explaining the purpose of PSEA as a new line item funding the increase in costs between 2001-02 and 2002-03 for programs which had been, "[u]p until this timefunded through a combination of Early Childhood Program Aid and Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid." This excerpt, the Board opines, "reflects the Legislature's clear understanding that prior to the 2001-02 school year, the State had fully funded preschool with State funds and that PSEA was to ensure full state funding for any increase in 2002-03 over 2001-02. Thus, when the FY '04 Appropriations Act provides that PSEA in 2003-04 is to fund the difference between the 2002-03 program and the 2003-04 program, the evident legislative intent is to continue the full State funding in effect prior to the 2001-02 school year -- and extended into the 2002-03 school year by PSEA -- into the 2003-04 school year." (Id. at 9-10)

[2] As noted in the Initial Decision at 2, the parties in this matter agreed to incorporate and rely upon submissions and arguments made in the matter of Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg, Warren County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3423-03, Agency Dkt. No. 104-3/03. As indicated below, that matter was decided by the Commissioner on September 25, 2003.

Finally, the Board contends that the Department errs in claiming that the language of the Appropriations Act as ultimately adopted by the Legislature supports its position. According to the Board, the Initial Decision does not, as the Department alleges, rely exclusively on the earlier Governor's Budget Message, but rather places that message in the context of continuing expressions of legislative concern, the Abbott decisions, and the Department's repeated public pronouncements. (Id. at 10-11) Additionally,

> [t]he FY ['04] Appropriations Act still links the Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid to the "State's obligation" to fully fund parity and approved Abbott preschool expansion. Significantly, the language is not limited to the formula for funding approved preschool expansion aid, but rather to the funding of preschool expansion. Moreover, the FY Appropriations Act does not define what the Legislature meant by the State's obligation so the Commissioner must "employ extrinsic aids, such as legislative intent or prior precedent, to interpret the language at issue." In re Passaic County Util. Auth., 164 N.J. 270, 300 (2000) (citation omitted). (Id. at 11-12)

Thus, the Board concludes, "properly construed under governing legal principles," the FY '04 Appropriations Act not only fails to support the Department's position, but actually "reinforces the correctness" of the Initial Decision. (Id. at 12)

Upon his own review and consideration, as he did in the matter of Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg, Warren County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided on September 25, 2003, subsequent to issuance of the Initial Decision herein, the Commissioner first concurs with the ALJ and the Board that the instant matter is not limited strictly to the question of whether the Department correctly calculated the amount of PSEA due the district for 2003-04. Notwithstanding that the Petition of Appeal was, in fact, pled largely in terms of PSEA as claimed by the Department, the Commissioner finds it in the best interest of both the parties in this matter and Abbott districts generally to decide the broader question squarely underlying the Board's specific allegations, that is, the question of whether Court, legislative and Department pronouncements, alone or in combination, require that the entire cost of approved Abbott preschool programs be funded, dollar for dollar, exclusively by the State.

The ALJ, concurring with the Initial Decision in Phillipsburg, supra, answered this question in the affirmative based on legislative intent as expressed through the Governor's FY '04 Budget Message, read in light of 1) Court language recognizing preschool as a critical component of Abbott reform efforts although not a constitutional mandate and acknowledging the statutory endorsement of the link between preschool and later educational achievement; 2) prior enactments reflecting the Legislature's concern with fully funded early childhood education in Abbott districts; and 3) Department pronouncements expressing clear commitment to full funding of preschool programs.

The Commissioner, however, does not concur with the Phillipsburg analysis. With respect to the requirements of the Court, nowhere in the Abbott decisions is there a suggestion, let alone a directive, that approved Abbott preschool programs must be funded exclusively by the State. On exception, the Board argues implicit endorsement of its position by the Court's silence in response to Judge King's statement that preschool would be funded by ECPA, T&E, parity funds and "the incremental State funding needed to fully fund the preschool program," with no mention of local revenues. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 8-9) Similarly, based on the Board's earlier arguments, the ALJ cites to the Court's concern with municipal overburden and Abbott districts' inadequate tax bases and to its language referencing the State's "clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." (Initial Decision at 5) These statements, however, do not even on their face require State funding regardless of need. Rather, they provide for the State to ensure, with additional aid if necessary, that sufficient funds are available to the district to fully fund its preschool program, that is, to ensure that any gap remaining after receipt of statutory formula aids will be addressed by the State to the extent that need exists because funds otherwise available to the district are insufficient to fully support the approved program. This reading is consonant not only with the Court's actual language and concern with local taxation capabilities, but also with its overall recognition that, while adequate funding is critical to achievement of a thorough and efficient system of public education in Abbott districts, such funding is a shared responsibility between the State and the local district.

Taken within the proper framework, then, as in Phillipsburg, the proffered Department pronouncements regarding "full funding" of Abbott preschool programs cannot be viewed as promises or expectations of dollar-for-dollar State funding regardless of resources available in the local district budget. Rather, they must be understood as reflections of the Department's commitment, and recognition of its obligation, to provide or secure additional State funds to the full degree necessary to support approved programs where local budgetary resources, including formula aids, local levies and monies realized through economies, efficiencies and reallocations, are found inadequate for this purpose. Indeed, this is the only interpretation consistent with sound educational policy, which must recognize both the critical importance of ensuring that approved Abbott preschool programs are supported by sufficient funds and the necessity to allocate State and local resources as efficiently and effectively as possible in meeting the shared responsibility for education in Abbott districts.

Finally, as in Phillipsburg, the Commissioner cannot ignore that the Legislature has now spoken definitively on the question posed by this appeal. Even granting, arguendo, that prior Legislatures provided for full State funding of Abbott district early childhood operational plans during the first years of their development, and that the Governor's Budget Message for FY '04 appeared to continue that pattern, the current Legislature has acted deliberately and decisively to clarify that its intent for the FY '04 budget year is to provide additional funding for only those costs directly associated with approved program expansion, not for the entire early childhood operational plan. In that regard, it is noted that there is no question, nor does the Board except to the ALJ's conclusion, that the Department correctly calculated the district's PSEA in accordance with the prescribed legislative formula.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law is rejected except insofar as it concludes that the Department correctly calculated petitioner's ECPA and PSEA for 2003-04. The Petition of Appeal, therefore, is dismissed in its entirety.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/25/03

Date of Mailing: 9/26/03

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

561-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF MILLVILLE, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" Board of Education claimed the Department was required to provide full State funding for its 2003-04 early childhood education program. The Department had provided Early Childhood Program Aid (ECPA) and Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) in accordance with prescribed formulas, but the district contended that the State was required to fully fund the difference between the total of these aids and the approved preschool budget.

The ALJ concluded, by reference to Initial Decisions in similar matters involving the Phillipsburg and Pemberton school districts, that the Department correctly calculated the district's formula aids, but that Court, Department and legislative pronouncements, taken together, require that the district's preschool plan be funded entirely by the State, subject to legislative appropriations.

The Commissioner concurred that formula aids were correctly calculated, but rejected the conclusion that full State funding of preschool program was required regardless of other funds available in the district budget. The Commissioner held that the State's obligation is to ensure that sufficient funds are available to fully support the district's approved early childhood education plan, with additional State aid to be provided where formula aids and local resources are together inadequate for this purpose. Petition was dismissed.

September 25, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 379-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 44-2/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION
THE CITY OF MILLVILLE,
CUMBERLAND COUNTY,
Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT
OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Arnold Robinson, Esq., appeared for petitioner (Robinson and Andujar, attorneys)

Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: August 28, 2003 Decided: September 5, 2003

BEFORE EDGAR HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is an appeal by the City of Millville School District, which is an Abbott school district, contesting the adequacy of the State preschool expansion aid granted to fund its early childhood plan for the 2003-2004 fiscal year ("FY 2004"). Millville filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commission of Education on February 3, 2003. The State Department of Education filed an answer to the petition on February 3, 2003, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 6, 2003, for hearing as a contested case.

A partial final decision was rendered by the Commissioner of Education on April 17, 2003. This decision essentially approved a withdrawal of certain issues.

Millville contends that it is entitled to full state funding of its approved preschool program. Therefore, it seeks an additional $1,763,866. of State Aid for its approved preschool program.

The New Jersey Department of Education denies that the State is legally obligated to provide full funding for Millville's preschool program. Instead, the Department maintains that preschool funding for Abbott districts may be derived from a combination of sources including, where applicable, local tax share. The Department seeks dismissal of the complaint on two grounds: first, that the amount of Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) awarded to Millville was correctly calculated in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions; and, second, that this appeal is premature because the Department has not yet determined whether Millville will receive additional state aid that could be used to support its preschool program.

The Honorable Ken R. Springer, ALJ, has issued an initial decision in a matter entitled Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU 3423-03, Agency Reference No. 104-3/03, on May 21, 2003. In that matter, Judge Springer addressed the identical legal issues and facts substantially similar to those presented here. Judge Israel Dubin followed Judge Springer's decision in Pemberton BOE, EDU 2203-03 on July 30, 2003.

On the return day of this matter, the attorneys agreed to proceed by stipulating the essential facts and relying upon the legal arguments already advanced in their prehearing briefs together with the matters presented to Judges Springer and Dubin. This agreement obviated the necessity of an evidentiary hearing.

STIPULATED FACTS

The parties stipulated that the Millville Board of Education seeks $1,763,866. of State aid calculated pursuant to the joint exhibits J-1, J-2, J-3 and J-4 attached hereto and made a part hereof.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The parties rely on the legal briefs filed herein, filed in Phillipsburg and in Pemberton together with the legal discussions set forth in the initial decisions of Judges Springer and Dubin.

DECISION AND ORDER

It is ORDERED that summary decision be granted in favor of Millville. It is further ORDERED that the Department fully fund Millville's preschool program for FY 2004, subject to sufficient legislative appropriation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 5, 2003
DATE

Edgar Holmes
EDGAR HOLMES, ALJ

By: Joseph Martone ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

September 5, 2003
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

SEP 9 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

/tmp

APPENDIX

EXHIBITS

Joint Exhibits:

J-1 January 6, 2003 letter Department of Education to Miller – 7 pages

J-2 February 18, 2003 letter Department of Education to Miller – 2 pages

J-3 February 6, 2003 memo Department of Education to Chief School Administrators – 2 pages

J-4 February 26, 2003 – memo Department of Education to Millville – 1 page

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 379-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 44-2/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF MILLVILLE, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by the Department of Education (Department), as were replies by the Board of Education (Board), in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, the Department urges the Commissioner to limit his adoption of the Initial Decision to finding that the Department correctly calculated the amount of the Board's Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) for the 2003-04 fiscal year, and to reject Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Holmes' addressing of broader issues. The Department contends that the determination under appeal neither "calculates nor advises [the Board] of the amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid that it will receive" so that any assertion by the Board regarding such aid is "entirely inappropriate" in the present proceeding. (Department's Exceptions at 1-3, quotation at 2)

The Department further contends that the ALJ erred in relying, by reference to the Initial Decisions in the related matters of Board of Education of the Township of Phillipsburg, Warren County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Agency Dkt. No. 104-3/03, OAL Dkt. No. 3423-03, and Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton, Burlington County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Agency Dkt. No. 106-3/03, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2203-03,[1] on the Governor's Budget Message for FY '04 to conclude that the Board's approved Early Childhood Plan must be fully funded with State aid. The FY '04 Appropriations Act adopted by the Legislature and signed by the Governor as P.L. 2003, *c.*122, the Department notes, expressly revised the earlier Governor's Budget Message language. Specifically:

> Notably, the Governor's Budget Message for FY04 provided: "The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to 'Abbott districts' to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and the approved early childhood operational plans." (Emphasis added). The FY04 Appropriations Act provides: "The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to 'Abbott districts' to meet the State's obligation to fully fund parity and approved 'Abbott' preschool expansion." L. 2003, c. 122.
>
> ***
>
> Here, the Legislature revised the language contained in the Governor's Budget Message to clarify that, contrary to Judge Holmes' interpretation, the Department is not required to ensure that Millville's approved Early Childhood Plan is fully funded with State aid. By purposefully deleting the words "early childhood operational plans" from the Governor's Budget Message and replacing those words in the FY04 Act with "'Abbott' preschool expansion," the FY04 Act unequivocally demonstrates that, while the Department must ensure that Millville's "approved 'Abbott' expansion" is fully funded with State aid, the Department is not required to ensure that Millville's approved "early childhood operational plan" is fully funded with State aid. Moreover, this revision is consistent with the method, established in the FY04 Act, by which Preschool Expansion Aid is calculated: "funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." L. 2003, c. 122. (Id. at 4-5)

[1] Both matters have been subsequently decided by the Commissioner as indicated below.

This interpretation, the Department avers, is consistent with the Court's language concerning Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid. The Department argues:

> In Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998), the Supreme Court opined, "the Commissioner may, before seeking new appropriations, first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for a demonstrably needed supplemental program." *Id.*at 518. The Court further opined, "[u]nderlying the Commissioner's proposal for whole-school reform, early childhood programs and supplemental programs, is the clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured." Ibid. (emphasis added).
>
> The above-quoted language demonstrates that the Supreme Court intended for the Commissioner to ensure that the early childhood programs are fully funded, however, the Commissioner could first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for such programs. Because local tax levy is included [in] the budget, the Commissioner can consider those funds as well as other revenue supporting the budget when determining the amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid, if any, that a district needs. (Id. at 6)

In reply, the Board posits that it is not seeking additional Abbott v. Burke State aid as claimed by the Department; rather it is requesting that, in compliance with the Abbott V mandate, the Department fully fund the approved early childhood education budget by filling, with funds designated specifically for that purpose, the gap of $1,763,866 left after payment of formula aids. (Board's Reply at 1-2)

The Board further argues that the Department's attempt to rely on the Legislature's amendment to the Governor's Budget Message cannot be sustained in view of the Court's mandate in Abbott V. The Board states:

> Abbott V clearly sets forth a mandate to fully fund Early Childhood programs. This mandate should be viewed in the context of earlier Abbott decisions where the Supreme Court recognized the existence of municipal overburdens and the lack of an adequate tax base facing many school districts. See Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 292-293 (1985) (Abbott I) citing Robinson v. Cahill, 69 N.J. 449, 465 (1976) which recognized a "lack of an adequate tax base for educational purposes as > indicated by the gross disparities shown in per pupil tax resources." See also Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287, 355-357 (1990) (Abbott II).

>
> Upon a finding that the right of children to a thorough and efficient system of education is a fundamental right guaranteed by the Constitution, the Supreme Court, in Robinson v. Cahill, 69 N.J. 133 (1975), found that the Court was a "last-resort guarantor of the Constitution's command." Id. at 154. This supported their finding that "when there occurs a legislative transgression of a right guaranteed to a citizen, final decision as to the invalidity of such action must rest exclusively with the courts." Id. at 146-147.
>
> The Supreme [Court] has mandated, with respect to Early Childhood Programs, that when additional funds are needed they should be provided or secured by the Department. See Abbott V, 153 N.J. at 518. Accordingly, the Department's argument that legislative interpretation can circumvent the Supreme Court's Constitutional interpretation is without merit. (Id. at 2-3)

In addition to the arguments above, the Board further references the arguments of the petitioning boards in the related matters of Board of Education of the Township of Phillipsburg, supra, and Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton, supra. Briefly, those arguments contend that the instant matter is not limited strictly to the question of whether the Department correctly calculated the amount of PSEA due the district for 2003-04 and that deferral of the broader underlying issue would not serve the public interest; that the Supreme Court's decision in Abbott V, supra, nowhere intimates that preschool programs should or could be funded in part by local tax share; that Department communications pertaining to the 2003-04 school year repeatedly referenced "full funding" of early childhood education programs; and that the Department errs in claiming that the language of the Appropriations Act as adopted by the Legislature supports its position because the Act still links Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid to the State's obligation to fully fund parity and approved Abbott preschool expansion.

Upon his own review and consideration, as in the matter of Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg, supra, and Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton, supra, both decided on September 25, 2003, subsequent to issuance of the Initial Decision herein,[2] the Commissioner first concurs with the ALJ and the Board that the instant matter is not limited strictly to the question of whether the Department correctly calculated the amount of PSEA due the district for 2003-04. Rather, the Commissioner finds it in the best interest of both the parties in this matter and Abbott districts generally to decide the broader question of whether Court, legislative and Department pronouncements, alone or in combination, require that the entire cost of approved Abbott preschool programs be funded, dollar for dollar, exclusively by the State.

The ALJ, through reference to the Initial Decisions in Phillipsburg, supra, and Pemberton, supra, answers this question in the affirmative based on legislative intent as expressed through the Governor's FY '04 Budget Message, read in light of 1) Court language recognizing preschool as a critical component of Abbott reform efforts although not a constitutional mandate and acknowledging the statutory endorsement of the link between preschool and later educational achievement; 2) prior enactments reflecting the Legislature's concern with fully funded early childhood education in Abbott districts; and 3) Department pronouncements expressing clear commitment to full funding of preschool programs.

The Commissioner, however, does not concur with this analysis. With respect to the requirements of the Court, nowhere in the Abbott decisions is there a suggestion, let alone a directive, that approved Abbott preschool programs must be funded exclusively by the State. Phillipsburg and Pemberton, as well as the Board herein, cite to the Court's concern with municipal overburden and Abbott districts' inadequate tax bases and to its language referencing the State's clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured. (Phillipsburg Initial Decision at 5, Pemberton Initial Decision at 5, Board's Reply at 3) By reference, the Board additionally argues implicit endorsement of its position by the Court's silence in response to Judge King's statement that preschool would be funded by ECPA, T&E, parity funds and "the incremental State funding needed to fully fund the preschool program," with no mention of local revenues. (Phillipsburg Reply Exceptions at 8-9) These statements, however, do not even on their face require State funding regardless of need. Rather, they provide for the State to ensure, with additional aid if necessary, that sufficient funds are available to the district to fully fund its preschool program, that is, to ensure that any gap remaining after receipt of statutory formula aids will be addressed by the State to the extent that need exists because funds otherwise available to the district are insufficient to fully support the approved program. This reading is consonant not only with the Court's actual language and concern with local taxation capabilities, but also with its overall recognition that, while adequate funding is critical to achievement of a thorough and efficient system of public education in Abbott districts, such funding is a shared responsibility between the State and the local district.

[2] See also Board of Education of the Township of Neptune, Monmouth County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, similarly decided on September 25, 2003.

Taken within the proper framework, then, as in Phillipsburg and Pemberton, the proffered Department pronouncements regarding "full funding" of Abbott preschool programs cannot be viewed as promises or expectations of dollar-for-dollar

State funding regardless of resources available in the local district budget. Rather, they must be understood as reflections of the Department's commitment, and recognition of its obligation, to provide or secure additional State funds to the full degree necessary to support approved programs where local budgetary resources, including formula aids, local levies and monies realized through economies, efficiencies and reallocations, are found inadequate for this purpose. Indeed, this is the only interpretation consistent with sound educational policy, which must recognize both the critical importance of ensuring that approved Abbott preschool programs are supported by sufficient funds and the necessity to allocate State and local resources as efficiently and effectively as possible in meeting the shared responsibility for education in Abbott districts.

Finally, as in Phillipsburg and Pemberton, the Commissioner notes that the Legislature has spoken definitively on the central question posed by this appeal. Even granting, arguendo, that prior Legislatures provided for full State funding of Abbott district early childhood operational plans during the first years of their development, and that the Governor's Budget Message for FY '04 appeared to continue that pattern, the current Legislature has acted deliberately and decisively to clarify that its intent for the FY '04 budget year is to provide additional funding for only those costs directly associated with approved program expansion, not for the entire early childhood operational plan. In that regard, it is noted that there is no question, nor does the Board except to the ALJ's conclusion, that the Department correctly calculated the district's PSEA in accordance with the prescribed legislative formula. Nor does the Commissioner agree, as set forth above, with the Board's contention that the Court has mandated exclusive State funding of early childhood education in Abbott districts; thus, the Commissioner is not persuaded by the Board's argument that legislative interpretation cannot circumvent the requirements of the Court.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law is rejected except insofar as it concludes that the Department correctly calculated petitioner's ECPA and PSEA for 2003-04. The Petition of Appeal, therefore, is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/25/03

Date of Mailing: 9/26/03

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

562-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" Board of Education claimed the Department was required to fund full cost of expansion of the district's preschool program from 2001-02 to 2002-03, and that the Department's methodology for reduction of initial Preschool Expansion Aid award (because enrollment was less than projected) improperly left the district with unfunded costs and forced its use of surplus to finish the 2002-03 school year. Petitioner had additionally sought a determination that the district could not be compelled to expend surplus to a level less than 2%, but attempted to withdraw that request at the close of proceedings.

The ALJ found that the Abbott Court mandate did not require full State funding of preschool programs regardless of need, and that the Department's per-pupil method of reducing aid for less-than-projected enrollment was a rational means of adjustment. Denying petitioner's request to withdraw the question because it had at that point been fully heard and briefed, the ALJ also found that Abbott districts can, under appropriate circumstances, be directed to allocate surplus to a level less than 2%.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's conclusions, additionally clarifying that the Department's per-pupil reduction methodology was consistent with legislative intent as expressed in the FY'03 Appropriations Act. Petition was dismissed.

September 25, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3424-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 105-3/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., appearing for Petitioner

Allison C. Eck, Deputy Attorney General, appearing for Respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: June 11, 2003 Decided: June 25, 2003

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Board of Education of the City of Passaic (Petitioner) is challenging Respondent Department of Education (Respondent) determination of funding for preschool program expansion for the 2002-03 school year. On April 4, 2003, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13, with a request that the matter be expedited. Consequently, the hearing was held on June 10 & 11, 2003, at which time the record closed. This decision is rendered on an expedited basis.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. On or about February 5, 2002, the Respondent approved Petitioner's Early Childhood Budget for the 2002-03 school year.

2. On February 22, 2002, after discussions with Petitioner, the Respondent made adjustments to the approved early childhood plan.

3. Petitioner requested additional funding for costs associated with providing special education services; supplemental adjustments were made.

4. Pursuant to an audit of Petitioner's Early Childhood Program Expansion and Enrollment data, enrollment was determined to be 1038 instead of the projected 1917.

5. As a result of the audited enrollment, the amount of Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA) was reduced for the 2002-03 school year.

6. The initial PSEA calculation for 02-03 was based on the projected expansion over Petitioner's plan in the 2001-02 school year.

7. In the 2001-02 school year, Petitioner's total Early Childhood Plan totaled $8,476,408. For the 2002-03 school year, it was projected that Petitioner's plan would total $18,064,151.

8. The increased costs due to the expansion of the plan was projected to be $9,587,743.

9. There were, however, 879 fewer students enrolled than Petitioner had originally projected.

10. The amount of preschool expansion aid was reduced from $9,587,743 to $1,304,807.

11. Respondent calculated the amount of the award of preschool expansion aid on a per pupil basis.

12. Further review of Petitioner's approved Early Childhood Plan resulted in a total budget of $12,330,283 on April 25, 2003.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Petitioner raises three issues in this appeal:

1. Does Respondent's failure to provide PSEA to fully fund the difference between Petitioner's approved Preschool Program for 2001-02 (the designated base year) and the 2002-03 year violate the mandate of the Abbott decisions;

2. Are Respondent's reductions in PSEA arbitrary and capricious; and

3. Did Respondent compel Petitioner to utilize a portion of the undesignated fund balance to fund the preschool program, thus bringing the fund balance to .76 percent?

I turn first to the issue, which succinctly stated, is whether Respondent is required, by virtue of the Abbott mandates, to fully fund the year to year expansion of the preschool programs, which, by regulation are required to serve an increased percentage of three to four year olds in successive years, beginning with 70 percent of eligible preschoolers in 2001-02 and increasing that number to 90 percent in 2003-04. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-3.3(b)1.

Throughout Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) the Court emphasizes adequate funding as critical to achieving a thorough and efficient education. Abbott V, supra 517-18. The Court specifically relies on the statutory delegation of power to the Commissioner of Education under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-6b to take such action as he may deem appropriate, including, among others, redirecting expenditures. Read in conjunction with other language from Abbott V, it is clear, although the court shifts the emphasis from financing a thorough and efficient education to education itself, the provision of adequate funding is a shared responsibility. For example, the Commissioner is directed to "ensure" programs are adequately funded and to "assist" the schools in meeting the need for transportation and other services. Abbott V, supra 507-508.

Moreover, in discussing the need for sufficient funds to be provided for Whole School Reform and for supplemental programs that are constituent parts of the reform, the Court acknowledges that there must also be a clear and effective funding mechanism in place and further acknowledges that the first step in making such a determination is whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request, although funds may not be reallocated if that will weaken other program. Abbott V, supra 518.

Although the foregoing is couched in terms of the use of funds for supplemental programs, the Court links the Early Childhood Programs by commenting > Underlying the Commissioner's proposal for whole school reform, early childhood programs, and supplemental programs, is the clear commitment that if there is a need for additional funds, the needed funds will be provided or secured. Id. (Emphasis supplied).

The thread running through the Abbott V decision is to require adequate funding of the various components of Whole School Reform, including the early childhood program. The language is repeatedly clear, the Commissioner must "ensure" or the Commissioner must "assist."

Consequently, I CONCLUDE that adequate funding, in terms of the Abbott "mandate" means that the enquiry may start with analysis of the particular budget in question with a view toward "redirecting expenditures and/or reallocating funds; if there is insufficient funding available, then, the Commissioner must ensure that funds are provided.

Petitioner's assertion that failure to require full State funding of the Respondent's preschool program will result in the funding obligation falling on the District's taxpayers through local share is misguided. Review of the language of Abbott as well as the statutory provisions invoked by the Court reveals that the initial inquiry in the analysis of adequate funding should begin with a review of the school budget in question with the goal being to reallocate funds which have already been appropriated; thus, the burden on local taxpayers would not be increased.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE, with respect to the issue Respondent's actions being violative of the Abbott mandates, Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proof.

I turn now to the issue of whether the methodology used to reduce the PSEA, i.e., the per pupil cost, is arbitrary and capricious. PSEA is an amount of State aid to be utilized by a District to cover the costs of the expansion of its preschool program. The Legislature gave the Commissioner the discretion to adjust preschool expansion aid based upon actual need. (C-2, p. 53, line 2-3). Clearly, the choice was left to the Commissioner and, if the reasoning is sound and rational, it should not be disturbed.

In this case, the testimony reflects the preschool plan is based upon the projected costs required to provide preschool programs and services to the District's eligible universe of three and four year olds. The budget consists of fixed as well as recurring costs. A per pupil amount is arrived at by dividing the total budget by the number of students enrolled in the programs. The per pupil cost is an estimate of how much it costs the District to educate an individual student in its preschool program. Petitioner's program did not enroll as many students as originally projected; thus, the Petitioner's preschool program did not expand as projected.

Contrary to Petitioner's assertions, utilizing the per pupil amount to both increase and decrease the preschool budget over the course of a school year is a fair estimate since it is based on the projected expenses of the entire program. The testimony of Respondent's witnesses was instructive on this point indicating that the "per pupil" methodology is used in many other instances.

On the other hand, actual costs incurred cannot be accurately determined until the end of the school year when final audit is prepared. In order to provide adjustments, both increases and decreases, in the current year, the Respondent and the District must use estimates in an attempt to accurately gauge the costs to be incurred, during the fiscal year. As Respondent's witnesses further testified, the per pupil cost adjustment is a reasonable methodology because it is based upon quantifiable figures – namely, the number of students and the budgeted costs. Further, the per pupil amount is based upon the particular District's school budget. The per pupil amount accounts for all of the budgeted costs, is uniformly applied and provides a methodology that should closely approximate the audited costs incurred in providing a preschool education to the District's eligible three and four year old population.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, the per pupil calculation provided a rational, uniform basis for the determination made herein. I further CONCLUDE that Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proof on this issue.

Although Petitioner attempted to withdraw his request for a determination on the issue of whether Respondent has the authority to compel a District to reduce the undesignated fund balance below two percent to .76 percent to fund the preschool 2002-03 program, since testimony had been taken, trial briefs submitted and the record had closed, in fairness to Respondent, I will consider the question.

Respondent determined that in order to fund its educational programs and services in the 2002-03 school year, that Petitioner could appropriate a portion of its undesignated fund balance, which would bring that balance to below two percent. The

New Jersey Constitution mandates that the "Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all children in the State . . . ." N.J. Const., art VIII, § 4, ¶1. Through the Abbott v. Burke litigation, the Supreme Court has directed the Commissioner and the Legislature to implement remedial measures in order to "ensure that public school children from the poorest urban communities receive the educational entitlements that the Constitution guarantees them." Abbott v. Burke, 153, N.J. 480, 489 (1998) (Abbott V).

The Commissioner is the chief officer of the Department of Education and has supervision of all schools of the State. N.J.S.A. 18A:4-22, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23. See, Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Bd. of Educ., 77 N.J. 514 (1978) (Finding that there is lodged with the Commissioner an encompassing responsibility over public education and broad authority to supervise all public schools). Moreover, the Legislature intended that the Commissioner have broad remedial powers under the Comprehensive Education Improvement and Financing Act (CEIFA), See e.g., Abbott V, 153 N.J. 480 at 499-502, and provided > Commissioner may direct such budgetary reallocations and programmatic adjustments, or take such other measures as he deems necessary to ensure implementation of the required thoroughness and efficiency standards. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-6.

Having been granted the power to direct reallocations of budgets as well as take all steps deemed necessary to ensure the provision of a thorough and efficient education, I FIND it is within the Commissioner's discretion to direct a District to appropriate surplus fund balances to support its educational programs and services, especially if, as in this case, analysis of the school budget disclosed funds which Respondent suggested could be reallocated and the District chose not to do so. For example, Respondent's witness testified that he suggested several non-instructional, non "Abbott" positions could be eliminated for economy purposes; the district chose not to follow the suggestion.

Contrary to Petitioner's allegations, there is no prohibition or statutory bar preventing a school district from appropriating money from its general fund which will result in a general fund surplus balance below two percent. Petitioner erroneously relies upon the language contained in the FY03 Appropriation Act which stated that in establishing the final award amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid, the Commissioner "shall consider all of the District's available resources and any appropriate reallocations, including, but not limited to, a reallocation of the District's undesignated general fund balance in excess of two percent." FY03, L. 2002, c. 38. A close reading of the section in question discloses that there is no mention of PSEA.

Moreover, because the analysis of adequate funding begins with the inquiry of whether the District has money which could be reallocated, I FIND when a school district has available revenue sufficient to fund expenses for the remainder of the school year, regardless of whether it is surplus or other undesignated funds, those monies should be utilized before additional State aid is provided. Cf., Abbott V, supra, 153 N.J. at 518 (providing that commissioner may, before seeking new appropriations, first determine whether funds within an existing school budget are sufficient to meet a school's request for a demonstrably needed supplemental program). Thus, I CONCLUDE the Respondent correctly determined that Petitioner should be required to utilize its available resources to fund the programs and services necessary to provide a constitutionally mandated educational program.

Based on all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE this petition should be dismissed.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

June 25, 2003
DATE

Maria LaFiandra
MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

June 26, 2003
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

JUN 30 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

jb

APPENDIX

Witnesses

Henry Lee

Yut'se Thomas

James Turek

Exhibits

For Petitioner:	For Respondent:
Pet-1	No Number	Memo, March 18, 2002
Pet-2	No Number	Another directive to district about budget
Pet-3	R16-R17	Letter, October 14, 2002
Pet-4	R23-R24	Letter, February 3, 2002
Pet-5	R2-R9	Letter, February 5, 2002
Pet-6	R19-R21	Letter, February 22, 2002
Pet-7	R29	Memo, February 25,2003
Pet-8	No Number	FY 2002-03 Preschool Expansion Aid Notice
Pet-9	R35-R36	Letter, April 25, 2003
Pet-10	No Number	Adjustments to Preschool Expansion Aid (Prepared by Mr. Lee)
Pet-11	No Number	Budget costs not related to per pupil cost calculations (Prepared by Mr. Lee)
Pet-12	No Number	Letter, June 17, 2002
Pet-13	No Number	Office of Legislative Services Bulletin (Judicial Notice C2)
Pet-14	R33	FY 2002-03 Preschool Expansion Aid Notice ($118,064,151 plan)

C-1 FY03 Capital Construction

C-2 Analysis of NJ FY 2002-03 Budget

* Petitioner's documents were received in evidence; Respondent relied on many of the same documents and the Respondent's numbers are indicated for informational purposes only.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3424-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 105-3/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, timely exceptions were filed by the Board of Education (Board), as were replies by the Department of Education (Department).[1]

In its exceptions, which reference prior briefs as well as arguments made in the concurrent matter of Board of Education of the Township of Phillipsburg, Warren County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Agency Dkt. No. 104-3/03, OAL Dkt. No. 3423-03,[2] the Board first urges the Commissioner to reject the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ)'s conclusion that approved Abbott preschool programs need not be funded exclusively by the State. The Supreme Court's decision in Abbott V, supra, the Board opines, nowhere envisions that preschool programs would or should be partly funded by local tax share; indeed, according to the Board, the Court's decision was based on the recommendations of the Honorable Michael King, P.J.A.D., and, while the Court disagreed with Judge King regarding full-day preschool, it did not take issue with his conclusion that it was the State's obligation to fully fund preschool in Abbott districts. (Board's Exceptions at 3-4) However, the Board contends, even if the Commissioner were to find that the Abbott decisions do not require full State funding, the FY '03 Appropriations Act makes it clear that the Legislature "intended that preschool expansion aid would provide full State funding for the expansion of the approved preschool program in the 2002-03 school year over the 2001-02 approved program," so that the Department's actions, and the Initial Decision supporting them, are directly contrary to a Legislative mandate which the Initial Decision fails even to consider. (Id. at 4-5, quotation at 5) Finally, the Board argues, although the ALJ did not address the issue despite its having been briefed, the Department itself "repeatedly recognized" the State's legal obligation to provide full State funding for approved preschool programs in numerous memoranda to Abbott districts. (Id. at 5-6, quotation at 5)

[1] The Board additionally made a submission in response to the Department's reply. However, because applicable rules make no provision for this submission, the Commissioner does not consider it herein.

[2] Subsequently decided by the Commissioner on September 25, 2003.

The Board further objects to the ALJ's acceptance of the Department's utilization of a per-pupil formula for calculating adjustments to Preschool Expansion Aid (PSEA), contending that such acceptance is "contrary to fact, law and budgeting and funding practices relating to the Abbott districts." (Id. at 6) The Board first posits that Department-approved preschool budgets are not constructed on a per-pupil basis, as stated by the ALJ, but are instead derived by totaling the cost of all Department-approved items, including fixed costs; the per-pupil amount is then obtained by dividing the total budget by the projected number of enrolled students. Thus, the Board concludes, using the per-pupil amount to adjust PSEA necessarily leads to reductions that exceed the actual savings arising from less-than-anticipated enrollment, thereby violating the legislative mandate (FY '03 Appropriations Act) that any adjustments to PSEA be based on "actual need;" in the Board's case, this methodology led to an undisputed shortage of over a million dollars in the amount actually needed to fund the preschool program for the remainder of the 2002-03 school year, rendering unsustainable the ALJ's characterization of adjusted PSEA as a "close approximation" or "fair estimate." (Id. at 6-9) Moreover, according to the Board, budgeting in Abbott districts, and funding by the Department, "is always based on the District's projection and the Department's determination of actual need during the school year," since actual expenditures will not be known for certain until after the annual audit, at which time the Department makes the necessary adjustments if State funding exceeds actual need. (Id. at 9) The Legislature is well aware of this situation, the Board argues, and for this reason it elected to base PSEA adjustments neither on estimates so as potentially to leave districts with shortfalls, nor on actual audited costs so that funding needs for the 2002-03 school year would not be determined until well after the school year had ended and such needs were moot; instead, it required the Department to "make adjustments based on the actual need projected by the District and then to take back any preschool expansion aid that turns out at the end of the school year not to be actually needed." (Id. at 9-12, quotation at 11) Indeed, the Board notes, the Initial Decision fails even to recognize the "obvious consequence of its reasoning," that is, the necessity for an adjustment, either up or down, following determination of actual costs through the annual audit. (Id. at 12)

Lastly, the Board excepts to the Initial Decision's "gratuitous adjudication" of the question of Department's authority to compel the District to expend undesignated fund balance (surplus) so as to reduce it to less than 2%, an issue that was "not presented by [the] appeal and, therefore, was unnecessary for its resolution." During hearing, the Board explains, undisputed testimony established that allocations from surplus reducing it to .76 % were voluntarily undertaken by the Board in response to the Department's reduction in PSEA monies, but that the Department did not compel such allocations. (Id. at 12-14, quotation at 12) Thus, the Board avers, it attempted to withdraw the question of Department authority to compel expenditure of surplus below 2%, but the ALJ erroneously considered it nonetheless:

> The issue of when and to what extent the Department may compel reallocations by a District should be decided on a complete record that squarely presents this issue for the proper resolution of an appeal.The initial decision's conclusion that broad reallocation authority may be exercised in these circumstances resolves an issue in the wrong case at the wrong time. Before such a broad issue is determined in an administrative appeal, there should be a full and complete record showing that the District was compelled to reallocate and the effect on the District of that compelled reallocation. This is not the proper case or record to decide issues that could affect all Abbott districts who are compelled to reallocate undesignated general fund balance below 2% in the future. Therefore, Petitioner respectfully requests that the Commissioner reject the initial decision's gratuitous resolution of an issue not properly before that tribunal. (Id. at 13-14)

In reply to the Board's exceptions, the Department first argues that the ALJ's conclusion with respect to State funding for approved preschool programs is contrary to neither the Abbott rulings nor any statutory or regulatory requirement. Indeed, the Department contends, Abbott does not require provision of additional State aid if a district has other revenue sufficient to be reallocated, but requires instead "an analysis of [the District's] budget with a view toward redirecting or reallocating expenditures and funds," with additional aid to be provided only if needed. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 3) The Department further urges adoption of the ALJ's conclusion that the Department's method of adjusting the District's PSEA award was reasonably based, since any adjustments prior to determination of actual costs through audit, that is, during the current fiscal year, must necessarily be made on estimates, and the Department's method was based on uniform, quantifiable measures for determining "documented need" as directed by the Legislature. (Id. at 3-5) Finally, the Department objects to the Board's stance with respect to the propriety of determining the question of the Department's authority to appropriate undesignated fund balance (surplus) below 2%. The Department notes that this issue was identified at prehearing and addressed in both briefs and testimony, and that the Board did not attempt to withdraw it until after it had been fully litigated; thus, the Board is "disingenuous" in now asserting that the issue was not presented on appeal and a full record not developed. The Department also finds "incredible" the Board's claim that it voluntarily reduced its surplus below 2%, since this "was one of petitioner's main arguments as to why the reduction [in PSEA] should not be made, and the District certainly did not 'volunteer' to utilize its undesignated fund surplus balance for the pre-school program." The Initial Decision should be adopted, the Department contends, because the question of Department-directed reallocation of surplus below 2% will surely recur, and its determination here, following full hearing and briefing, will conserve time and resources, as well as provide guidance for future litigation. (Id. at 5-7, quotation at 6)

Upon his own review and consideration, the Commissioner initially concurs with the ALJ that the Abbott Court did not categorically require full State funding of preschool programs regardless of need. As set forth in Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg, Warren County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided by the Commissioner on September 25, 2003, at 16-17,[3] the Abbott decisions nowhere suggest, and certainly do not direct, that approved Abbott preschool programs must be funded exclusively by the State. Rather, they require the State to ensure, with additional aid where necessary, that sufficient monies are available to an Abbott district to fully fund its preschool program, that is, to provide or secure additional State funds to the full degree necessary to support approved programs where local budgetary resources are found inadequate for this purpose. Similarly, Department pronouncements regarding "full funding" of Abbott preschool programs must be understood as a reflection of, and commitment to, this shared obligation, recognizing both the critical importance of early childhood education in Abbott districts and the necessity of allocating resources efficiently and effectively in providing it. (Id. at 17)

The Commissioner agrees with the Board, however, that the central question in this matter cannot be resolved without express consideration of the FY'03 Appropriations Act, which establishes the requirements of the Legislature for PSEA for the 2002-03 school year. The Board contends that, even if the Commissioner were to find that the Court did not require full funding of preschool expansion, he cannot ignore statutory language demonstrating that the Legislature did. Specifically, the Board avers, the Legislature required that any adjustment to PSEA be based on "actual need," so that the Department's adjustment methodology, having resulted in less money than was actually needed to finish out the school year, cannot be sustained.

---

[3] See also the concurrently decided matters of Board of Education of the Township of Neptune, Monmouth County v. New Jersey State Department of Education; Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton, Burlington County v. New Jersey State Department of Education; and Board of Education of the City of Millville, Cumberland County v. New Jersey State Department of Education.

The pertinent portion of the Act provides:

> The amount appropriated hereinabove as Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid is for the purpose of funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2002-2003 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." Payments of Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid shall be based on documented expansion of the preschool program. Upon the Commissioner of Education's request, "Abbott districts" will be required to provide such supporting documentation as deemed necessary to verify that the actual expansion in the preschool program has occurred in the 2002-2003 fiscal year. Such documentation may include enrollment and attendance data that may be subject to an audit. Appropriate adjustments to a district's Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid amount may be made by the commissioner based on actual need. (Exhibit C-1, pages 52-53)

The above-quoted language, in the Commissioner's view, does not support the Board's contention. In the context of the full passage, it is clear that "actual need" refers not, as the Board argues, to a dollar-for-dollar match between State aid and the district's unaudited program costs, but to the extent to which the district's documented expansion differs from its projected. Quantifying, for current-year aid adjustment purposes, the dollar amount associated with that difference by means of a per-pupil cost, derived for each district by dividing its projected budget by its number of projected pupils, is a reasonable, objective and consistent Statewide methodology for carrying out the Legislature's directive; indeed, in most cases, it likely would, as found by the ALJ, result in a fair approximation of actual program expansion costs.[4] That the Board in this instance experienced so large a drop in aid based on the Department's determination of "actual need" was due entirely to the extraordinary difference between the district's initial enrollment projection (1917) and its actual documented enrollment (1038); such anomaly, however, does not render the Department's method of adjustment inherently infirm, improper, or in violation of law.

[4] The Commissioner here notes that, contrary to the Board's representation on exception, the ALJ does not misunderstand or mischaracterize the manner in which preschool budgets are constructed in Abbott districts. Initial Decision at 5.

Similarly, there is no violation of the Act in the Board's being required, whether "voluntarily" or by Department direction, to expend surplus funds in order to complete its preschool program for the 2002-03 school year.[5] As noted by the Department in its brief before the ALJ, school districts, including Abbott districts, have no statutory or regulatory entitlement to retain unreserved, undesignated balances through the end of a school year; indeed, the very purpose of surplus is to provide an ability to meet unforeseen costs arising during the course of the year. (Department's Brief at 11) Within an appropriate context, such as when dealing as here with a dedicated, current-year State aid entitlement not structured as a dollar-for-dollar match, use of reserve funds--even to the point of bringing the remaining surplus balance below 2%--to address a gap between aid received and targeted program costs is entirely appropriate, notwithstanding that such funds may have derived from the general budget supported in part by local taxes. To the extent that current-year application of surplus may leave a district with less money to direct toward the following year's budget, or be construed, as it is by the Board herein, as an abrogation of the State's responsibility for "full" funding, the overall framework for State support of Abbott districts—the larger context within which the current matter must be viewed—acts to ensure that district students will not be deprived of the educational entitlements guaranteed them by the New Jersey Legislature and Constitution.

---

[5] The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ and the Department that this issue is appropriately decided herein.

Accordingly, as clarified above, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The actions of the Department are sustained and the Petition of Appeal dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[6]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/25/03

Date of Mailing: 9/26/03

[6] Pursuant to P.L. 2002, c. 38, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

563-03

563-03

GAIL REMPELL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST HANOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

September 26, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7571-01

AGENCY DKT. NO. 264-6/01

GAIL REMPELL,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF EAST HANOVER TOWNSHIP, MORRIS COUNTY,

Respondent.

Richard A. Friedman, Esq., appearing for Petitioner
(Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak, attorneys)

Joseph R. Morano, Esq., appearing for Respondent
(Viola, Benedetti, Azzolini & Morano, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 6, 2003 Decided: August 8, 2003

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on August 31, 2001, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for October 29, 2002 at the OAL, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey, which was adjourned at the request of Petitioner's counsel. The matter was rescheduled for April 22, 2003. Prior to the hearing, settlement discussions were held and a settlement was reached.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

August 8, 2003
DATE

Maria M. La Fiandra
MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

8-14-03
DATE

M. Kathleen Duncan/CG
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

AUG 14 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

jb

F-11.2

ZAZZALI, FAGELLA, NOWAK,
KLEINBAUM & FRIEDMAN
150 West State Street
Trenton, New Jersey 08608
(609) 392-8172
Attorneys for Petitioner

GAIL REMPELL,	:BEFORE THE OFFICE OF :ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
Petitioner,	:
v	:
	:AGENCY DOCKET NO.: 264-6/01
EAST HANOVER TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, MORRIS COUNTY	:OAL DOCKET NO.: EDUOR 07571-01N :
	: SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT
Respondent.	:

This Settlement Agreement is made between the petitioner, Gail Rempell, and the respondent, East Hanover Township Board of Education ("Board").

Introduction and Background

WHEREAS, petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education under Agency Docket No.: 264-6/01, OAL Docket No.: EDUOR 07571-01N, alleging that the reduction of her employment to part-time and assignment of other employees to positions as speech language specialists by the respondent violated her tenure and seniority rights.

WHEREAS, the parties are desirous of resolving this matter promptly and amicably, and

F-11.3

WHEREAS a settlement in this matter will save both parties and the public the cost and uncertainties of litigation, the parties agree that this matter shall be resolved based upon the following terms.

1. Respondent shall pay to petitioner, within 30 days of the date of the Commissioner's approval of this Settlement Agreement, the sum of $9,000.00.

2. The parties agree that no deductions shall be taken for taxes or any other reasons from said payment, and that all taxes and other deductions shall be petitioner's responsibility.

3. Petitioner waives and abandons her claim that the number of speech language specialist positions and their percentages of employment now in effect in the respondent school district, specifically the employment of speech language specialists with one speech language specialist being employed full-time as a speech language specialist, three speech language specialists employed on a half-time basis, and one half-time speech language specialist - half-time co-teacher, all of whom who are either non-tenured or less senior than petitioner (except for the full-time speech language specialist), does not, in the factual circumstances of this matter, violate petitioner's tenure or seniority rights.

4. The parties agree that petitioner preserves, reserves, and retains her tenure and seniority status and rights, so that if a full-time speech language specialist position is created, re-established, or becomes vacant, petitioner may assert tenure and seniority claims to such position.

F-11.4

5. Although petitioner agrees to waive or relinquish her challenge to the number of speech language specialist positions and their percentages of employment as referred to in paragraph 3 above, in the event that such configuration is changed, such that a full-time speech language specialist position is created, re-established, or becomes vacant, petitioner reserves the right to assert tenure and seniority claims to any such speech language specialist positions.

6. In consideration of the above terms, petitioner agrees to withdraw the petition of appeal with prejudice.

7. The parties agree that this agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education, and that if such approval is denied, neither the agreement nor any of its terms shall be admissible in any legal or administrative proceedings of any nature, and that in such event, the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings.

By: Gail Rempell Dated: 5/22/03
Gail Rempell, Petitioner

East Hanover Township Board of Education

By: _____ Dated: _____
, Board President

EAST HANOVER TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS
20 School Avenue
East Hanover, New Jersey 07936
(973)-887-2112
(973)-887-2773 fax#

John L. Tudor
School Business Administrator/
Board Secretary

Larry Santos Superintendent

July 7, 2003

Viola, Benedetti, Azzolini, & Morano LLC
Attorneys at Law
134 Columbia Turnpike
Florham Park, NJ 07932

ATTN: Mr. Joseph Morano, Esq.- Partner

Re: Rempell Settlement

Dear Mr. Morano:

Enclosed please find the certified minutes for the above referenced settlement that was approved during the June 19, 2003 board meeting.

Please feel free to contact me should you require any other information.

Very truly yours,

John L. Tudor
School Business Administrator/
Board Secretary

JLT:dcl
encl(s)

EXTRACT FROM THE MINUTES OF A MEETING OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST HANOVER, MORRIS COUNTY, N.J. AS RECORDED IN

THE OFFICIAL MINUTE BOOK

The Board of Education of the Township of East Hanover in the County of Morris, New Jersey, convened in Public Meeting on June 19, 2003 at 7:30 p.m., in the conference room of the board offices, 20 School Avenue, East Hanover, New Jersey.

The following members of the Board of Education were present:

Catherine Pfund-Olsen, President
Patricia Anderson
Edward Garcia
Lisa Krueger
Frank Verducci
Frank Hoffman
Frank Sullivan

The following motion was moved by Mr. Garcia and seconded by Mr.Hoffman and adopted by the Board of Education by the following roll call vote:

Approve the negotiated settlement agreement with Gail Rempell in the amount of $9,000.00 which is attached.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY)
EAST HANOVER TWP.) ss COUNTY OF MORRIS)

I, John L. Tudor, Secretary of the Board of Education, of the East Hanover Township School District, in the County of Morris, State of New Jersey, hereby certify that the foregoing extract from the minutes of the meeting of the Board of Education of said district duly called and held on June 19, 2003, has been compared by me with the original minutes as officially recorded in my office in the minute book of said East Hanover Township, Board of Education and is a true, complete copy thereof and of the whole of said original minutes so far as the same relate to the subject matter referred to in said contract in witness I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the corporate seal of said Board of Education this 7th day of July, 2003.

Board Secretary/Business Administrator

JLT:dcl

2 e

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7571-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 264-6/01

GAIL REMPELL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST HANOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9|26|03

Date of Mailing: 9|26|03

564-03

564-03

THOMAS FEDOR,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ELMWOOD PARK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning tenured principal claimed the Board reduced his employment from a 12-month to a 10-month position and similarly reduced his salary while retaining a less senior individual in a 12-month position, thereby violating his tenure and seniority rights.

The ALJ determined that a RIF, a reduction in petitioner's tangible employment benefits, occurred and, thus, petitioner's seniority rights were triggered. (Carpenito) Both petitioner and Michael Nazzarro were tenured employees but because petitioner's seniority as a high school principal exceeded that of Nazzarro, petitioner was entitled to bump Nazzarro for the position. The ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as his own and directed the Board to compensate petitioner as indicated in the Initial Decision.

September 26, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

TRANSCRIPT
ORAL INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7669-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 287-7/01

THOMAS FEDOR,
Petitioner,
v.
ELMWOOD PARK BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for petitioner
(Bucceri & Pincus, attorneys)

Matthew P. Demaria, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: August 6, 2003 Decided: , 2003

BEFORE: ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ

Procedural History

On or about July 12, 2001, petitioner filed an appeal with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that respondent's action to reduce his employment from a 12-month position to a 10-month position while retaining a less senior individual in a 12-month position violated his tenure and seniority rights. On August 23, 2001, respondent filed its answer requesting dismissal of the petition. On September 10, 2001, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The case was assigned to the undersigned judge on October 24, 2001, and a telephone prehearing conference held on December 19, 2001. The hearing scheduled for July 17, 2002 was adjourned at the request of counsel to August 14, 2002 and then to January 23, 2003. The scheduled hearing was adjourned at the request of counsel who indicated that a joint stipulation of facts and cross motions for summary decision would be filed. The parties have filed a joint stipulation of facts and cross-motions for summary decision. I have considered the briefs filed in the matter and have today heard oral argument, and am prepared to make a determination in this matter.

Stipulated Facts

The parties have filed a joint stipulation of facts, which is attached and constitutes the undisputed facts in this matter. They may be summarized as follows:

This case arises out of a dispute between respondent Elmwood Board of Education and petitioner an Elementary School Principal, Thomas Fedor. Petitioner holds the following certificates and endorsements issued by the State Board of Examiners:

1. Instructional Certificate with endorsement as Secondary School Teacher of Social Studies issued on July 19, 1966.
2. Educational Services Certificate with endorsement for Student Personnel Services issued January 1973.
3. Administrative Certificate with endorsements in:

    a. Principal/Supervisor issued September 1978.
    b. School Administrator issued October 1982.

Petitioner has been employed by respondent since 1966 and has held the following positions:

1966-1975	Teacher of Social Studies, Grades 7 to 12
1975-1978	Guidance Counselor, Grades 7 to 12
1978-1980	Elementary School Principal
1980-1986	Assistant to the Superintendent of Schools
1986-1988	Assistant to the Superintendent of Schools and Acting High School Principal
1988-1990	Assistant to the Superintendent of Schools
1990-1991	High School Principal (12 months)
1991-1992	High School Principal (12 months)
1992-1993	High School Principal (12 months)
1993-1994	High School Principal (12 months)
1994-1995	Elementary School Principal (12 months)
1995-1996	Elementary School Principal (12 months)
1996-1997	Elementary School Principal (12 months)
1997-1998	Elementary School Principal (12 months)
1998-1999	Elementary School Principal (12 months)
1999-2000	Elementary School Principal (12 months)
2000-2001	Elementary School Principal (12 months)
2001-2002	Elementary School Principal (10 months)

On April 24, 2001, respondent acted to appoint petitioner as an Elementary School Principal on a ten (10) month basis.[1] By decreasing petitioner's employment from twelve (12) months to ten (10) months, respondent reduced petitioner's employment and salary. Petitioner's salary for the 2001-2002 school year was $90,924.00 ($90,299.00 plus $625.00 longevity). If respondent had continued to employ petitioner on a twelve (12) month basis for the 2001-2002 school year, his salary would have been $109,108.00 ($108,483.00 plus $625.00 for longevity). Petitioner's salary for the 2000-2001 school year was $105,573.00.

As a result of the reduction in petitioner's employment, from twelve (12) months to ten (10) months, petitioner's sick time was reduced from fourteen (14) days to twelve (12) days. As a result of the reduction in petitioner's employment, from twelve (12) months to ten (10) months, petitioner's vacation time was reduced from twenty (20) days to six (6) days.

[1] At the time of the reduction, petitioner was employed by respondent as the Elementary School Principal for seven (7) consecutive years (from 1994-2001 and as a High School Principal for four (4) consecutive years (1990-1994).

At the time respondent decreased the Elementary School Principal position from twelve (12) months to ten (10) months, Michael Nazzaro (Nazzaro) held the position of High School Principal. Respondent has employed Nazzaro since 1968, in the following positions:

1968-1991	Teacher of Mathematics, High School
1991-1996	Teacher of Mathematics, High School and Facilitator
1996-1997	Assistant Principal
7/9/97-2/3/98	Acting High School Principal
2/4/98-Present	High School Principal (12 months)

Nazzaro was properly certified for the employment positions appointed to by respondent.

Petitioner alleges that the reduction in petitioner's employment, from twelve (12) to ten (10) months violates his rights under the Education Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28 –1 to –18. Petitioner asserts that since the High School Principal position, held by Nazzaro, was not reduced from twelve (12) to ten (10) months, and petitioner obtained tenure as a principal in 1993, he is entitled to Nazzaro's position based on his seniority and bumping rights.

Discussion

1. Tenure Law

Tenure is a status in a particular position created by statute rather than an agreement of the parties. Zimmerman v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962). Tenure serves to provide a measure of security to teachers and other school employees who faithfully serve for the requisite period. Barnes v. Bd. of Educ. of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45 (App. Div. 1964). The Education Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to –18, authorizes the tenure of educational personnel.

Educators who are employed in public schools must hold a valid certificate "to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction or educational guidance of . . . pupils in such public schools." N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. The State Board of Examiners has implemented the certification requirement by authorizing three certificates that an educator may hold: (1) Instructional; (2) Administrative; and (3) Educational Services. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. In order to attain tenure, an educator must hold the appropriate certificate for his or her position. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-5. An educator may hold more than one type of certificate.

In addition to the three types of certificates an educator may hold, the State Board of Examiners has designated special endorsements under each type of certificate. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. An educator must hold the appropriate certificate and endorsement for his or her position. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.1, -6.2. An educator may possess multiple endorsements under a single certificate, qualifying him or her to fill any position covered by the respective endorsements. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2 (a)(2), (a)(8).

Therefore, in order to obtain tenure, an educator must hold the appropriate certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners and maintain employment in a position for:

> Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or (c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.]

Once an individual has obtained tenure within a particular area, she or he cannot lose tenure protections as long as she or he continues within the area of tenure absent inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. In the event that a tenured educator is transferred or promoted to a separately tenurable position, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 provides for the acquisition of tenure in the new position.[2]

Tenure does not apply in the same way for administrative and supervisory personnel as it does for teachers. Nelson v. Bd. of Educ. of Township of Old Bridge, 148 N.J. 358, 367 (1997). It has been uniformly recognized by both the State Board of Education and the Commissioner that the positions enumerated under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5,[3] are separately tenurable, meaning that tenure accrued within one of the enumerated positions does not transfer to another enumerated position. Id. at 365 (citing, Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ., 255 N.J. Super. 76, 92 (App. Div. 1992) (agreeing that "Assistant Superintendent" is a separately tenurable position)). The position of "Principal" is a separately tenurable position. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Thus, an educator can only obtain tenure as a principal by holding the requisite certification and working as a principal for the requisite period of time. However, for purposes of acquiring tenure there is no distinction between the position of High School Principal and Elementary School Principal. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The lack of distinction between the two categories

---

[2] N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 provides: Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter on or after July 1, 1962, shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after: (a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period is fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or (b) employment for two academic years in the new position together with employment in the new position at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or (c) employment in the new position within a period of any three consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than two academic years; ... in the event the employment in such new position is terminated before tenure is obtained therein, if he then has tenure in the district or under said board of education, such teaching staff member shall be returned to his former position at the salary which he would have received had the transfer or promotion not occurred together with any increase to which he would have been entitled during the period of such transfer or promotion.

[3] The positions enumerated under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are: "teacher, principal, other than administrative principal, assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent, and all school nurses including school nurse supervisors, head school nurses, chief school nurses, school nurse coordinators, and excepting those who are not the holders of any other nurse performing school nursing services, school athletic trainer and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners."

implies that once an educator acquires tenure in a Principal position, the educator is entitled to tenure in any Principal position.

Educators who are under tenure, "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming ... or other just cause," N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (emphasis added), and then only in the manner prescribed by N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10, which provides that a dismissal or a reduction in compensation, must be preceded by:

> a hearing ... by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

Thus, once an educator has attained tenure, he or she is entitled to notice and a hearing prior to receiving a reduction in salary or being dismissed.

2. A RIF is a reduction in any tangible benefit

Although there are many protections afforded to individuals with tenure, tenure does not prohibit a school district from engaging in a RIF. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.[4] In the event of a RIF, dismissals must be made on the basis of seniority[5] according to standards adopted by the State. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10. Thus, if it is determined that a RIF occurred, the seniority of the individuals affected by the RIF must be considered.

---

[4] The "reduction-in-force" concept is embodied in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, which provides:

Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such position for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause . . .
[N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9].

[5] Seniority is a by-product of tenure and comes into play only if tenure rights are reduced by way of dismissal or reduction in tangible employment benefits.

Seniority is a right afforded to employees who have acquired tenure. Seniority entitles tenured employees to either continue in an existing job opening based upon their longevity of employment or to be placed upon an eligible list for reemployment when a new position becomes available. N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(i). In essence, seniority provides employees with bumping rights. Bumping rights are governed by N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 which provides, in relevant part:

> (b) Seniority ... shall be determined according to the number of academic or calendar years of employment, or fraction thereof, as the case may be, in the school district in specific categories as hereinafter provided.
>
> ...
>
> (h) Whenever a person shall move from or revert to a category, all periods of employment shall be credited toward his or her seniority in any or all categories in which he or she previously held employment.
>
> ...
>
> (l) The following shall be deemed to be specific categories, not necessarily numbered in the order of precedence:
>
> ....
>
> 4. High school principal;
>
> ...
>
> 9. Elementary principal
>
> [N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 (emphasis added).]

If the language of a statute is plain, unambiguous, and uncontrolled by other parts of the regulation, the words of the statute are to be given their ordinary and well-understood meaning. Fahey v. Jersey City, 52 N.J. 103, 106-7 (1968); Safeway Trails, Inc. v. Furman, 41 N.J. 467, 478 (1964); Lane v. Holderman, 23 N.J. 304, 313 (1957). A regulation is subject to the same rules of construction as a statute and should be construed according to the plain meaning of the language. Medford Convalescent and Nurs. Ctr. v. Div. of Med. Assist. and Health Servs., 218 N.J. Super. 1, 5 (App. Div.1985). Seniority can only be obtained by the accrual of actual experience in a specific job category.[6] Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 221 N.J. Super. 239, 241 n. 1 (App. Div. 1987). Thus, the concept of seniority is narrower than the concept of tenure.

A reduction in force is not limited to the complete elimination of positions. A reduction in hours of employment is considered to be a reduction in force. Klinger v. Bd. of Educ. Cranbury, 190 N.J. Super. 354, 357 (App. Div. 1982) (citing Popovich v. Bd. of Educ., 1975 S.L.D. 737, 745); see also, Bednar, supra, 221 N.J. Super. at 240 (finding a reduction of an art teacher's full-time position to a part-time position constitutes a RIF); Avery v. Bd. of Educ. Trenton State Board of Education, EDU 8316-93, State Bd. of Educ. #95-97 (July 2001)<http://www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/sboe/2001/jul/sb95-97.pdf> (holding that petitioners suffered a RIF when the board "abolished their 12-month unrecognized positions and reassigned them to 10-month positions with recognized titles"). Thus, when a school board deems it necessary to reduce tangible employment benefits and/or eliminate a position, the seniority regulations shall be applied.

3. Analysis

Based on the stipulated facts and the evidence provided, there is no genuine issue of material fact. Petitioner, a tenured principal, experienced a reduction in salary, vacation days, and sick days as a result of respondent's decision to reduce the Elementary School Principal position from twelve (12) months to ten (10) months. Case law has consistently held that a reduction in hours is a RIF which triggers the application of the seniority regulations. Therefore, respondent had an obligation to consider petitioner's seniority status prior to reducing his hours.

[6]For example, an individual may obtain tenure in any "principal" position, but his seniority is based upon his actual experience with a specific age group. Thus, petitioner has tenure based on the eleven (11) years serving as principal, but only four (4) years of seniority for a High School Principal position and seven (7) years of seniority for the Elementary School Principal position.

For purposes of determining seniority, petitioner served in two different principal categories. Petitioner served four (4) years in the category of High School Principal, and seven (7) years in the category of Elementary School Principal. Petitioner's tenure and service in both principal categories entitled him to assert bumping rights for a principal position in either category.[7]

The undisputed facts indicate that Nazzaro had also obtained tenure as a Principal. However, for purposes of determining seniority, Nazzaro served as principal in the High School category for three (3) years, four (4) months and twenty-five (25) days. Petitioner served in the High School category for four (4) years. Consequently, at the time of the RIF, petitioner's seniority in the High School Principal category exceeded Nazzaro's. Since petitioner was tenured as a Principal and had more seniority in the High School Principal category then Nazzaro, petitioner was entitled to bump Nazzaro for the High School Principal position.

Conclusion

Respondent engaged in a RIF when it reduced the Elementary School Principal position from a twelve (12) month position to a ten (10) month position. Because respondent engaged in a RIF, it had an obligation to consider the seniority rights of those affected by the RIF. Based on the stipulated facts and evidence submitted by the parties, it is clear that respondent failed to fulfill its obligation under the tenure act. Petitioner, based upon his seniority, was entitled to bump Nazzaro for the High School Principal position.[8]

---

[7] Even if seniority were determined based on the broader category of "principal", petitioner, with his eleven (11) years in a principal position, would still have more seniority than Nazzaro and, as such, petitioner would be entitled to bump Nazzaro for the High School Principal position.

[8] Moreover, the collective bargaining agreement negotiated several years ago, has no relevance to the subject matter of the instant dispute, which involves petitioner's seniority rights as a result of a reduction in force.

Order

Based on the above, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted. For school year 2001-2002, petitioner is entitled to the difference between the salary he actually earned in the ten-month position and the amount he would have earned as a 12-month high school principal. Petitioner will also be entitled to a back-pay differential for the 2002-2003 school year and thereafter until he is placed or paid for a twelve-month principal position. He is also entitled to restoration of lost sick days and vacation days as well as any other benefits or emoluments of employment loss as a result of respondent's action. I am not, however, awarding prejudgment interest as requested, since I do not find based upon the information available to me that respondent's action was in "bad faith."

This recommended oral decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended oral decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended oral decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

END OF TRANSCRIPT

I, Anna M. Leggett, certify that the foregoing is a true and accurate transcript, to the best of my ability, of Judge Elinor R. Reiner's oral decision rendered in the above matter on August 13, 2003.

August 13, 2003
DATE

Anna M. Leggett
ANNA M. LEGGETT, SECRETARY

August 13, 2003
DATE

Elinor R. Reiner
ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

8-15-03
DATE

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

AUG 18 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

al

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7669-01
AGENCY DKT. NO. 287-7/01

THOMAS FEDOR,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ELMWOOD PARK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that once petitioner was subject to a reduction in his tangible employment benefits, as a tenured principal, his seniority rights were triggered. See Carpenito v. Board of Education of the Borough of Rumson, 322 N.J. Super. 522, 531, (App. Div. 1999). For the reasons set forth by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), the Commissioner further agrees that petitioner has established he was entitled to the 12-month High School Principal position held by Michael Nazzaro.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's recommendation to grant summary decision to petitioner and directs the Board to compensate petitioner as indicated on page 11 of the Initial Decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9|26|03
Date of Mailing: 9|26|03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

565-03

JAMES ALT,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teacher alleged the Board failed to acknowledge his tenure and seniority rights upon his reemployment following a reduction in force.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner forfeited his prior tenure and seniority rights when he refused to accept the full-time position offered to him by the Board in 1992. (The Board had sent him a certified notice, the receipt of which was signed by his daughter.) The ALJ concluded he was rehired by the Board as a new teacher in 2001 and was not entitled to his prior seniority, vacation or sick time. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that there were no equitable circumstances present that could operate to require the Board to grant any form of relief to petitioner as a result of the appeal. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, clarifying only that, under these particular circumstances, where petitioner failed to respond to a duly served recall notice in 1992, the Board reasonably determined that petitioner had abandoned his tenure and seniority rights.

September 29, 2003

State of New Jersey

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9624-02

AGENCY DKT. NO. 303-9/02

JAMES ALT,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Alfred F. Maurice, Esq., for petitioner, (Springstead & Maurice, attorneys)

Joanne L. Butler, Esq., for respondent, (Schenck, Price, Smith & King, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 7, 2003 Decided: August 15, 2003

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On September 25, 2002, petitioner, James Alt, filed a Verified Petition before the Commissioner of Education to compel the respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Bergenfield (Board), to grant him appropriate tenure and seniority rights, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12, after he was allegedly recalled following a layoff from his prior teaching position.

On October 28, 2002, the Board filed its answer to the petition and on November 22, 2002, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The hearing was held on June 24, 2003 and the record closed on August 7, 2003 after receipt of the last submission from the parties.

Alt was employed by the Board as an Industrial Arts teacher on or about September 1, 1969. He remained in that position until he was subject to a reduction in force on or about June 30, 1988.

On June 26, 1991, the Board offered Alt a five-sixths position as a teacher of Industrial Arts. He admits that he received the offer and declined to accept the position.

On May 13, 1992, the Board sent Alt a notice offering him a full-time position in Technology Education, the equivalent of his former Industrial Arts position. The notice was sent to his home by certified mail and the receipt for the letter was signed by Alt's daughter who was seventeen years old at the time. He confirmed that his daughter lived with him and that it was his daughter's signature on the receipt. He does not assert that his daughter was under any disability.

Alt never responded to the offer. He now claims that his daughter never gave him the letter and that this was an improper way for the Board to notify him of the vacant position. He argues that the letter should have been sent by certified mail with the receipt for his signature only.

Service in administrative actions may be made by certified mail, return receipt requested, by regular mail, or in any manner designed to provide actual notice to a party. Shannon v. Academy Bus Lines, 346 N.J. Super. 191, 196, (App. Div. 2001); N.J.A.C. 1:1-7.1(a). In actions brought in the Superior Court of New Jersey, one may obtain in personam jurisdiction over an individual by leaving a copy of a summons and complaint at that individual's usual place of abode with a competent member of the household, aged fourteen or above, residing there. R. 4:4(a)(1) of the Rules Governing the Courts of the State of New Jersey. There is no requirement for service to an 'addressee only' in either forum. I CONCLUDE that a Board need provide no greater service of a notice containing a job offer than required to initiate an action against an individual. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Alt must be deemed to have received the offer.

Between approximately 1988 and 2000, Alt was successfully engaged in the restaurant business in New York. In 2000, he decided to return to teaching, applied for a position in the Paramus school system and was hired. In fact, Richard Cirelli, Assistant Superintendent for Personnel of the Bergenfield Board, wrote Alt a letter of reference in support of his application to teach in Paramus. Cirelli testified that, prior to this time, Bergenfield had not been contacted by Alt since he refused the five-sixths position in 1991.

Based upon Alt's success in the restaurant business and his failure to inquire about a teaching position for at least eight years, it may be inferred that he was not particularly interested in being recalled to a full time teaching position in Bergenfield during this period. I CONCLUDE that Alt's failure to respond to the Board's offer coupled with his failure make further inquiry for approximately eight years is the equivalent of his refusing the full time position offered.

During the course of Alt's application to Paramus, he had occasion to contact members of the teaching staff in Bergenfield and learned that there was a position open in his field at the Roy W. Brown school there. He was urged by a friend teaching at the Roy W. Brown school to speak to the principal. The principal in turn urged Alt to apply for the vacancy.

The opening at Roy W. Brown was a posted position. Cirelli testified that, if there is a position available which is subject to a recall list, the position is not posted. Alt denies that he ever saw the posting but I FIND this to be irrelevant to the present appeal.

I FIND that the Bergenfield Board never contacted Alt about filling the position; he approached them. In his letter of application, dated February 28, 2000, he wrote

> I am contacting you to express my interest in an Industrial Arts teaching position at the Roy W. Brown Middle School. I am currently self-employed as an owner/manager of a restaurant. However, I am extremely interested in changing my career path back towards education.
>
> I am an experienced teacher, who taught nineteen years at the Roy W. Brown Middle School from 1969-1988.
>
> ...
>
> I am confident that my strong educational background and skills obtained through my work experience of nineteen years will enable me to be an asset to your teaching staff. Thank you for your time and consideration, and I am looking forward to hearing from you.

The letter is similar to the one Alt wrote to apply for the position in Paramus. It must be noted that Alt mentioned nothing about being recalled or asserted any prior tenure or seniority rights in this letter. He simply applied for a vacant teaching position in his field.

As a result, I FIND that Alt was not recalled by the Board to his former teaching position in Bergenfield. This leaves the issue of whether he should have been recalled, that is, whether he was still on the preferred list in 2000 after refusing the Board's offer in 1992.

All of the existing case law says he was not. A teacher who is subject to a reduction in force and refuses an assignment within the scope of his or her certificate abandons the right to tenured employment. Ralph v. Highland Park Board of Education, 91 S.L.D. 2476 (McKeown, 1991); aff'd 91 S.L.D. 2484; Collins v. New Milford Board of Education, 86 S.L.D. 2231 (Dower-LaBastille 1986); aff'd, 86 S.L.D. 2240); Clark v. Margate Board of Education, 74 S.L.D. 678, aff'd, 75 *S.L.D.*1082, aff'd, N.J. Super., App. Div., 76 *S.L.D.*1134. Since Alt refused the tenured position offered in 1992, I CONCLUDE that the Board had no reason to retain him on the preferred employment list and his tenure and seniority rights were abandoned at that time.

The only remaining issues are Alt's assertions that he is entitled to relief for equitable reasons. The first is that he gave up his position in Paramus to his detriment based upon representations made by Board employees. The second is that the Board is estopped by the representations of its employees from denying him the restoration of his tenure and seniority he seeks.

Alt claims that Bergenfield lured him away from his teaching position in Paramus with promises that he would be given back his former tenure status and seniority and receive a higher salary. Cirelli testified that Alt was not offered enough of a financial inducement for him to leave Paramus, in fact, it would have been unethical for Bergenfield to lure Alt away from Paramus. Alt offered no evidence of a significant difference in salary between Paramus and Bergenfield, and, therefore, based upon the testimony of Cirelli, I FIND nothing to support Alt's claim that he was lured away by the promise of more money.

Alt claims he was told that he would be a tenured teacher and retain his prior seniority when he returned to Bergenfield. Cirelli admitted that he thought that Alt was returning to the faculty with his prior tenure and seniority status and might have expressed this opinion to Alt. Dr. John Galish has been superintendent of schools in Bergenfield since 1992. He recommended that the Board hire Alt in 2001. Galish said that he initially thought Cirelli's representations to Alt might bind the Board but later learned that they could not.

Alt was actually treated as a tenured teacher when he began teaching again at Roy W. Brown. He was observed and evaluated on forms designated for tenured teachers. A notice posted in the teacher's room during the 2001-2002 school year stated that Alt had nineteen years of seniority. This notice is from an unknown source and did not originate with the Board.

Respondent maintains that the errors of its employees do not create an estoppel for the Board. The case law is clear that representations of an individual Board member or administrator are insufficient to bind the Board to a particular course of action. Robert Busler v. East Orange BOE, EDU 3916-00, Comm'r, (August 30, 2001), affirmed. St. Bd., (February 6, 2002) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html; Dorrington v. North Bergen BOE, 1982 S.L.D. 247 (Campbell 1982), aff'd, 1982 S.L.D. 256. This can only be accomplished by official Board action.

In his testimony, Alt could not remember whether anyone told him before he was hired in about November 2001 that his employment would have to be approved by the Board or that the Board had to approve the restoration of his prior tenure and seniority rights. He was never told that the Board had given its approval. He just assumed his teaching contract was for tenured employment. However, according to the Commissioner's decision in Busler, supra, absent formal action or ratification by the Board, Alt could not reasonably rely upon representations by Board employees. I, therefore, I CONCLUDE that these representations are insufficient to confer Alt's prior tenure and seniority and do not create an estoppel against the Board.

By letter dated June 27, 2002, Galish informed Alt that he intended to clear up any misunderstanding that might have arisen concerning the terms and conditions of his employment. He clarified the Board's position on the issue as follows:

> You continued to remain on the preferred eligibility list for a full time teacher position within the scope of your certification. Thus, by letter dated May 13, 1992, you were offered a full time position as a Technology Education teacher, the newly changed title for the Industrial Arts teacher position you formerly held, You declined this offer of employment as well.
>
> Please be advised that your refusal of a full time position within the scope of your certification constitutes an abandonment and results in the forfeiture of tenure and seniority rights accrued as a full time teacher.

> Thus, although you have become employed with the Bergenfield Board of Education recently, the tenure and seniority rights that accrued with your previous employment were forfeited and do not apply to your current employment with the Board.
>
> Please also be advised that any purported personal promises that may have been made to you by anyone are ineffective to bind the Board. By law, the Board only acts by formal action and no formal action to restore your forfeited tenure and seniority has been undertaken by the Board.
>
> This letter resulted in the present appeal.

Alt will become a newly tenured teacher in Bergenfield within about one year. Consequently, his only detriment, if any, is that he would have acquired tenure one year earlier if he had remained in Paramus. This is somewhat offset by his assertion that he earned a higher salary in Bergenfield. He seeks restoration of his seniority and his prior accrued sick and vacation time.

In summary, I CONCLUDE that Alt forfeited his prior tenure and seniority when he refused to accept the full time position offered to him by the Board in 1992. I CONCLUDE that he was rehired by the Board as a new teacher in 2001 and is not entitled to his prior seniority, vacation or sick time. I CONCLUDE that there are no equitable circumstances present that can operate to require the Board to grant any form of relief to petitioner as a result of this appeal.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the appeal of James Alt is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE because there is no relief to which he is entitled.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

August 15, 2003
DATE

EDITH KLINGER, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

AUG 18 2003
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

AUG 18 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

pb

APPENDIX

Witnesses:

For Petitioner:

James Alt

For Respondent:

Richard Cirelli

John Galish

Exhibits:

J-1 Letter, dated June 27, 2002, Galish to Alt

P-1 Notice, seniority list

P-2 Evaluation of Tenure Teacher Performance, April 12, 2002

P-3 Evaluation of Tenure Teacher Performance, April 23, 2003

R-1 Letter, dated May 13, 1992, offer of full time position

R-2 Copy of Return Receipt for certified mail

R-3 Letter, dated June 26, 1991, offering five-sixths position

R-4 Letters of Application and enclosures, February 28, 2000

R-5 Letters of Application and enclosures, May 18, 2000

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9624-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 303-9/02

JAMES ALT,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner essentially concurs with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, clarifying only that, under these particular circumstances, where petitioner failed to respond to a duly served recall notice in 1992, the Board reasonably determined that he had abandoned his tenure and seniority rights.[2] Additionally, the Commissioner concurs, for the reasons set forth by the ALJ, that petitioner has failed to demonstrate he is entitled to equitable relief.

[1] Both the exceptions and the reply thereto essentially reiterate arguments which were presented in papers previously considered by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). To the extent petitioner's submission included evidence that was not presented at the hearing or was not before the ALJ, such evidence is not considered by the Commissioner. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c).

[2] In this connection, the Board understandably questions,"[i]f Petitioner believed he was never recalled, and therefore entitled to a position, why did he submit applications to the Board in 2000 and 2001? As clearly indicated in Exhibits R-4 (2000) and R-5 (2001- when he was hired), Petitioner applied for positions with the District.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted with clarification as set forth herein and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/29/03

Date of Mailing: 9/29/03

Nothing is referenced in either application  to indicate that Petitioner seeks to be employed in the position to which he would have recall rights." (Board's Letter memorandum in Reply to Petitioner's Post-hearing Brief, August 7, 2003 at 1-2)

[3] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

566-03

566-03

CARL SUNDERLIN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF LINDEN, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

September 29, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

DISMISSAL

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1666-97

AGENCY DKT. NO. 1-1/97

CARL SUNDERLIN,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF LINDEN, UNION COUNTY,

Respondents.

Gail Oxfeld Kanef, Esq., for Petitioner
(Oxfeld & Cohen, attorneys)

Alan J. Schnirman, Esq., for Respondent
(Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Record Closed and Decided: August 12, 2003

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on February 6, 1997 for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The case was assigned to the undersigned on March 3, 2003.

A hearing was scheduled for May 16, 2003 at the OAL, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. Prior to the hearing, settlement discussions were held and a settlement was reached. The parties having agreed and stipulated, as indicated by their signatures on the attached Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice, that this matter should be dismissed.

I have reviewed the record and dismissal and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the dismissal as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The dismissal fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this dismissal meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the dismissal should be approved. I approve the dismissal and, therefore, it is hereby ORDERED that this matter be and hereby is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

August 12, 2003
DATE

Maria M. LaFiandra
MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ

Receipt Acknowledged:

8-15-03
DATE

M. Kathleen Dunn/CH
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mailed to Parties:

AUG 18 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

jb

SCHWARTZ SIMON EDELSTEIN
CELSO & KESSLER LLP
Ten James Street
Florham Park, New Jersey 07932
(973) 301-0001
Attorneys for Respondent

CARL SUNDERLIN, Petitioner, vs. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF LINDEN, Respondent.	OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL DOCKET NO. EDU-166-97 AGENCY DOCKET NO. 1-1/97 STIPULATION OF DISMISSAL WITH PREJUDICE

It is hereby stipulated and agreed by the undersigned that this matter is hereby dismissed with prejudice and without costs.

OXFELD COHEN

Attorney for Petitioner

By: _____
Gail Oxfeld-Kanef

DATED: 8/6/03

SCHWARTZ SIMON EDELSTEIN
CELSO & KESSLER LLP
Attorney for Respondent

By: _____
Alan J. Schnirman

DATED: 8/7/03

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1666-97
AGENCY DKT. NO. 1-1/97

CARL SUNDERLIN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF LINDEN, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and notice of dismissal transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. It is noted that this matter was characterized as a Settlement, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, by the Administrative Law Judge in her Initial Decision. The Commissioner, however, determines that because no settlement terms were brought to the record, this matter is more appropriately categorized as a withdrawal under N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2. The Commissioner approves the withdrawal and, consequently, this matter is no longer deemed to be a contested matter before him and is, accordingly, dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9|29|03

Date of Mailing: 9|29|03

~~576-03~~
567-03

567-03

B.R., on behalf of minor child, M.P.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning aunt challenged the Board's residency determination that M.P., who came from Poland to live with her, was not entitled to a free public education under the "affidavit student" provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

The ALJ concluded that M.P. was entitled to a free public education in the District since she came to live with petitioner due to legitimate family or economic hardship and not solely in order to attend school in the District. Moreover, petitioner provided all of M.P.'s financial support and declared M.P. as a dependent on her income tax return. The ALJ ordered that M.P. be admitted to the District without cost and that the Board's counterclaim for tuition be denied.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as his own.

October 2, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1011-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 283-9/02

B.R. o/b/o minor child M.P.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON,
Respondent.

David R. Fromkin, Esq., for petitioner

Anthony V. D'Elia, Esq., for respondent
(Chasan, Leyner, Bariso & Lamparello, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 14, 2003 Decided: August 15, 2003

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal on behalf of a high school student seeking enrollment in the Clifton public school district. Petitioner came from Poland to live with her aunt and uncle because her father is ill and unable to earn a livelihood. She resides in Clifton and attended Clifton High School for the 2002-2003 academic year. The dispute involves whether petitioner is entitled to a free public education under the "affidavit student" provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

Basically, the issue is whether petitioner satisfies the two-part statutory test for admission as an affidavit student: first, the "hardship test," i.e., whether the child's parent is incapable of supporting or providing care for the child "due to a family or economic hardship;" and, second, the "gratis test," i.e., whether she is "supported by such other person gratis as if [s]he were the other person's own child."

Procedural History

On or about September 2, 2002, B.R. applied to the Clifton Board of Education ("Board") for admission of her niece M.P. to the local public high school. In support of that application, she submitted an affidavit from the child's father in Poland verifying that he is seriously ill and provides no financial support for his child. Although the affidavit appeared to satisfy the statutory requirements, Clifton denied admittance for lack of adequate documentation.

Thereafter, on September 12, 2002, the aunt filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"), contending that petitioner is eligible to attend school in the district. The Board filed its answer and counterclaim on November 12, 2002. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), M.P. was admitted to school, provided that the aunt and uncle would be liable for tuition if the Board ultimately prevailed in this litigation. Subsequently, on January 6, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on August 14, 2003. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts are undisputed. I FIND:

M.P., age 17, lived with both parents and her brother in a one-bedroom apartment in Poland. Last summer, her father became seriously ill and was hospitalized for several weeks. According to the father's affidavit, he remained "unconscious and in critical care" for two weeks. Hospital records, translated from Polish, corroborate that the father was treated for "bilateral pneumonia, acute respiratory failure, chronic anemia [and] arterial high blood pressure." After discharge from the hospital, the father required further medical treatment and had "to be assisted and looked after by another person." On doctor's orders, he is "discouraged from traveling" and is "unable to drive a car."

Prior to his hospitalization, the father had supported his family by operating a convenience store and traveling around Poland to various flea markets. Unable to work or to travel, the father now survives on a meager disability pension from the Polish government. Because of extreme financial difficulties, the father sent his daughter to live with B.R. and her husband in the United States.

B.R., petitioner's aunt, is also her godmother. She and her husband have lived in the City of Clifton for eight years. presently, they own a house in Clifton and pay real estate taxes that support the local school system. While M.P. has been staying with them, the aunt and uncle have paid all of her living expenses. Their joint income tax return for 2002 reflects that the aunt and uncle claimed M.P. as their dependent. They do not receive any financial support from M.P.'s parents in Poland. Indeed, they send money to M.P.'s parents in Poland "to help them out."

M.P. came to the United States because of financial problems at home and not in order to get an education at Clifton High School. Her aunt testified that M.P. can continue living at her home "beyond the school year free of charge." When M.P. graduates from high school her aunt "wants her to go to college."

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that M.P. satisfies the statutory criteria and is entitled to a free public education in the Clifton school district.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) provides that public schools shall be free to any person over five and under twenty years of age who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child. A sworn statement from the resident must establish that he or she is domiciled within the district, that he or she will assume all personal obligations for the child and that he or she intends to support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term. In addition, a sworn statement from the child's parent or guardian must show that he or she is incapable of supporting or providing care for the child "due to a family or economic hardship" and that the child is not residing with the resident "solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the district."

If the school board determines that the evidence does not support the validity of the claim, it may deny admission to the child and the resident may appeal to the Commissioner for a hearing. At such hearing, the resident "shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection." Id. Such proceedings are subject to the requirements of due process, and a district may not automatically deny an application on the basis of inadequate documentation without consideration of the full circumstances developed at the evidentiary hearing. J.A. v. Board of Educ. for South Orange and Maplewood, 318 N.J. Super. 512 (App. Div. 1999).

Recently, the Appellate Division construed the pertinent statute as "directed at instances where the student is living with a parent or guardian claiming to be but not actually domiciled in the school district or, alternatively, where a child is placed with a person other than the parent or guarding to obtain the benefit of a free education in that district" P.B.K. o/b/o E.Y. v. Board of Educ. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super. 419, 428 (App. Div. 2001). Specifically, the Court held that the prohibition does not apply where a student will be left "without a school even though a resident domiciliary." P.B.K., at 428.

Unrefuted evidence shows that M.P. came to live with her uncle and aunt in Clifton due to legitimate family or economic hardship and not solely in order to attend the Clifton School District. Her relatives in Clifton are long-time residents who own their own home. Moreover, the record establishes that the aunt and uncle provide all of M.P.'s financial support and have declared her as a dependent on their income tax return. Consequently, she is clearly eligible for free attendance in the Clifton Public Schools.

Order

It is ORDERED that M.B. be admitted to the Clifton School District without cost.

And further ORDERED that the Board's counterclaim for tuition is hereby denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Aug. 15, 2003
DATE

Ken R. Springer
KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

AUG 18 2003
DATE

Mailed to Parties:
ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

AUG 18 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

al

APPENDIX
List of Witnesses

1. B.R., aunt of M.P.

List of Exhibits

No.	Description
P-1	Copy of affidavit of non-resident parents on form prepared by the Clifton Public Schools, dated December 2002
P-2	Copy of English translation of document prepared by Dr. Barbara Urbas-Myrczek, dated September 6, 2002
P-3	Copy of English translation of document prepared by Dr. Kazimiera Nowara, dated May 21, 2003
P-4	Copy of 2002 federal income tax return of the uncle and aunt
P-5	Copy of credit card receipt, dated June 10, 2003
P-6	Copy of 2002 Polish tax return of the father

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1011-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 283-9/02

B.R., on behalf of minor child, M.P.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has demonstrated that: 1) she is domiciled within the Clifton School District; 2) she is supporting M.P. gratis; 3) M.P.'s parents are incapable of supporting M.P. and caring for her in their own country due to economic and family hardship; and 4) M.P. is not residing with petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District. M.P. is, therefore, entitled to attend school in the Board's district, free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10|2|03

Date of Mailing: 10|3|03

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

568-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT BEACH, OCEAN COUNTY AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SUMMIT, UNION COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

In December 2001, the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools notified respondent Point Pleasant Beach Board (Point Pleasant) that it was the district of residence for A.M. and her children, S.M. and M.C., for 1999-2000. Point Pleasant filed an appeal of that determination 84 days later. The Assistant Commissioner of Education for Finance reversed the determination in March 2002 and found petitioner Springfield Board was the responsible Board. Petitioner challenged the determination by the Assistant Commissioner that it was the district of residence for A.M. and her children and contended that Point Pleasant's appeal of the Ocean County Superintendent's decision was untimely.

The ALJ found that, as a matter of law, the appeal by Point Pleasant to the Assistant Commissioner was not made in a timely fashion as it was filed well beyond the 30-day requirement and no compelling circumstances existed to relax the rules for filing appeals. The ALJ granted summary decision in favor of petitioner.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision with modification. The Commissioner concurred that Point Pleasant's appeal was time-barred and, applying general principles of equity, the Commissioner found that respondents advanced no compelling reason to excuse Point Pleasant from the 30-day filing requirement. The Commissioner granted summary decision in favor of petitioner and set aside the March 2002 determination.

October 2, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

SUMMARY DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5987-02

AGENCY DKT. NO. 184-6/02

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD, UNION COUNTY,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POUINT PLEASANT BEACH, OCEAN COUNTY AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SUMMIT, UNION COUNTY
Respondent.

Thomas O. Johnston, Esq., Esq., for petitioner, Springfield Township Board of Education (Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, attorneys)

Kathleen Asher, DAG., for respondent, New Jersey State Department of Education (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Kevin B. Riordan, Esq., for respondent, Point Pleasant Beach Board of Education (Berry, Sahradnik, Kotzas, Riordan & Benson, attorneys)

Arla Cahill, Esq, for Summit Board of Education (Schenck, Price, Smith & King, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 14, 2003 Decided: August 21, 2003

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ

Procedural History

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education as a contested case on July 26, 2002 and involves a claim by the petitioner, Board of Education of the Township of Springfield (hereinafter "Springfield Board"), that it is not responsible for the education costs for two children during the 1999-2000 school year since they were not domiciled within the district. The remaining respondents are the New Jersey Department of Education and the Board of Education of Point Pleasant Beach. On July 7, 2003 the Springfield Board and the Summit Board entered into a stipulation of dismissal with respect to any claims between them pertaining to the case.

The essential underlying facts are as follows:

On February 2, 2000, the Point Pleasant Board of Education (hereinafter "Point Pleasant Board") renewed an earlier request to the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools that she investigate into and determine the appropriate district of residence for one A.M. and her two minor children who had moved from Springfield to Point Pleasant Beach in 1999 to reside with A.M.'s boyfriend. The children were enrolled in the Point Pleasant Beach School district for the 1999-2000 school year. In November 1999, A.M. and her children moved into a motel in Point Pleasant Beach, A.M. declared herself to be homeless and she requested public assistance. See N.J.A.C. 6:5-1.4(d). Ultimately, in a letter dated December 5, 2001, the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools notified the Point Pleasant Beach Board that as a result of her investigation she determined that Point Pleasant Beach was the district of residence for 1999-2000. That letter was date stamped as received by the Board on December 11, 2001.

On March 5, 2002, 84 days after the determination by the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools was made known to the Point Pleasant Beach Board, it filed an appeal of that determination. On March 20, 2002, the Assistant Commissioner of Education for Finance issued a determination reversing the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools and determining that Springfield, not Point Pleasant Beach, was to be considered the district of residence for the family during the period in question. In his determination the Assistant Commissioner noted that A.M. and her children had lived in Springfield with A.M.'s parents until June 1999 when they vacated because of the issuance of a restraining order filed by A.M.'s parents. Noting that in his view the issue turned on whether the family was "homeless," the Assistant Commissioner found that their relocation to Point Pleasant Beach was not intended to be permanent and the family had to be considered as "homeless" while they stayed there. Thus, citing N.J.S.A. 18:7B-12(c), the Assistant Commissioner determined that since the district of residence for children whose parent or guardian temporarily moves from one school district to another as a result of being homeless shall be the district in which the parent or guardian last resided prior to becoming homeless, Springfield was liable for the cost of their education. He concluded that Point Pleasant Beach could not be the district of residence since the family did not have a fixed, regular residence there. Thus, the school district responsible for the costs therefore had to be Springfield, the last district of permanent residence. Springfield then timely filed a petition of appeal challenging the determination and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case. Thereafter, a motion for summary decision was filed by the Springfield Board on the basis that Point Pleasant Beach Board's appeal on March 5, 2002 was out of time under the applicable law.[1]

Discussion

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), any party may move for summary decision upon any of the substantive issues in a case, and the administrative law judge may make a ruling in favor of the movant when the papers filed, together with any supporting affidavits, demonstrate that no genuine issue as to any material fact exists and the moving party is entitled to a summary decision as a matter of law. The OAL rule is essentially the same as the summary judgment rule contained in the New Jersey Rules of Court (see R. 4:46-29(c)). See also, Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520

[1] The "merits" of the controversy are not addressed by the motion.

(1995). Since the appeal by Point Pleasant Beach from the determination of the Ocean County Superintendent came 84 days after the Superintendent's decision was received by it, Springfield maintains that the undisputed facts clearly demonstrate under the regulations in effect at the time the decision was made (an appeal to the Assistant Commissioner had to be made in 30 days), the appeal was untimely and should be dismissed.

The pertinent regulations in effect at the time of the March 5, 2002 decision were N.J.A.C. 6:5-1.4(d) and N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3(d) (e) and (f). The first provided that where there was a dispute regarding a determination of the appropriate district of residence, the districts involved were immediately to notify the county Superintendent of Schools who would resolve the dispute. If, as here, the Superintendent could not resolve the dispute, an appeal could be made to the Assistant Commissioner, Division of Finance. Subsection (d) of N.J.A.C. 6:20-5 specifically addressed the time frame for the appeal process and stated that where a district contested a determination of residence written notification had to be submitted to the Assistant Commissioner within 30 days of the receipt of the final notice as to the determination of the district of residence. In this case it took 84 days.

Although both regulations have been repealed, (the current version of N.J.A.C. 6:5-1.4(d) is N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8, effective February 19, 2002 and the current version of N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3 is N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.1(d) effective July 1, 2001), the regulations are virtually identical to the prior regulations. Thus, under the regulations in effect at the time the controversy arose, and now, a district contesting a determination of residence and seeking to appeal the same to the Assistant Commissioner must file the appeal within thirty days. See Lower Camden County Regional School District No. 1 v. Department of Education, Bureau of School Finance, EDU 8578-98 and EDU 8579-98, Initial Decision June 28, 1999, adopted by the Commissioner, August 13, 1999, aff'd State Board of Education, July 5, 2000. Under both the prior and the current rules governing district of residence disputes over "homeless" children, the County Superintendent's decision has to be appealed within the thirty-day time frame. No matter which version of which regulation is applied, in my view no change was made or intended to be made with respect to the thirty-day time limit and, unless reasons exist to relax the limitation, the appeal in this matter must be deemed to have been launched substantially out of time.

In its reply brief the Point Pleasant Board points out there are no cases interpreting the provisions applicable to appeals from the County Superintendent's decision which resulted in dismissal on the basis of untimeliness and, citing the recent decision in Unangst v. Board of Education of the Township of Fredon, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9828-98, 2003 WL 1795761 (March 13, 2003) argues that the same criteria for relaxing the 90-day time period with respect to appeals to the Commissioner of Education in school law controversies, generally, should be followed here as well.

In that decision the Commissioner repeated his oft cited references to decisions dealing with the subject (e.g., Reily v. Board of Education of Hunterdon Central Regional High School District, 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980); Weir v. Board of Ed. Of Northern Valley Regional High School District, 1984 S.L.D. (decided by the Commissioner July 20, 1984); aff'd, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, Dkt. No. A-3520 84T6 (April 9, 1986, unreported*); Polaha v. Buena Regional School District,* 212 N.J. Super. 628 (App. Div. 1986). Thus, according to Point Pleasant Beach, the rule, if it applies, should be relaxed since its effective ability to review the reasons for the County Superintendent's decision and to lodge a timely appeal was shortened by the following factors: (a) the district was on a Christmas-New Year's break between December 24, 2001 and January 2, 2002; and (b) the matter was not transmitted to Board counsel's office until mid-January 2002 when he had been diagnosed with a condition which ultimately necessitated he remain out of work on doctor's orders for six weeks. Thus, these two factors, combined with what the Point Pleasant Beach Board characterizes as the "extraordinary delay" that transpired when the matter was pending before the Ocean County Superintendent, provides sufficient justification for relaxation. Moreover, according to counsel, the usual reasons for enforcing strict time limits are not present here: preservation of the record and stability of the educational process. Since Springfield was well aware of the potential claim, Point Pleasant Beach Board argues that petitioner suffered no prejudice by the relatively short delay.

I agree that the relaxation rule as to appeals to the Commissioner is the starting point for the inquiry in this case, too. Thus, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 specifically provides that where time limits are not contained in a statute, or in or underlying OAL rule, they may be relaxed or dispensed with by the Commissioner where, " . . . strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." What constitutes "strict adherence" is a fact sensitive issue as witnessed by the many cases decided by the Commissioner concerning the same. However, as the Springfield Board accurately points out, cases relaxing or waiving the 90-day rule with regard to controversies and disputes generally are rare and the rule is sparingly invoked. See, e.g., DeMaio v. New Providence Bd. of Ed., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 449; Gordon v. Passaic Bd. of Ed. 1985 S.L.D. 1929, aff'd New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, Dkt. No. A-3294-84T7 (May 27, 1986) (unreported), certif. den. 105 N.J. 534 (1986); Dreher v. Jersey City Bd. of Ed., EDU 2777-87 (decided by the Commissioner February 2, 1988), aff'd State Board of Education (July 8, 1988); Unangst v. Township of Fredon, supra.

Having reviewed the cited cases, as well as others touching on the time limit question, I am convinced that in this case, as a matter of law, the appeal by Point Pleasant Beach Board to the Assistant Commissioner was not made in timely fashion and no compelling circumstances exist dictating that I recommend that the time limit be relaxed. There are no constitutional issues involved. There are no overriding issues of public importance either. While the question of determining homelessness under the regulations is certainly of scholarly interest, each such case is peculiarly fact sensitive and how the Commissioner might rule on the merits of this case may or may not have any bearing on subsequent such disputes involving different parties and different circumstances.

Nor is there any indication, as there were in a few cases, that the person against whom the rule is sought to be applied has somehow deliberately been misled or has been prevented from knowing and understanding his or her rights. Indeed, a lack of sophistication with regard to the time limit is no excuse. See, e.g., Weir, supra. While I appreciate there was a 10-day vacation break in late December, the 30-day limit is not a school day concept, it is a calendar day rule. Furthermore, while it is regrettable that Board counsel had a medical issue, it is unclear exactly when that occurred and the firm is a relatively large one. It would be poor precedent for me to conclude that since one particular attorney might have been out unavailable to put together an appeal in a timely fashion, this relieves the client of the burden of the rule to the detriment of the person in whose favor the rule is sought to be enforced.

Finally, while this may be a "money" case involving tuition for two students, the amount involved is not so monumental as to require the Point Pleasant Beach Board be relieved of the obligation on the basis of "hardship" despite its failure timely to file its appeal. While perhaps no "bright line" standard can be established to determine what is or is not substantial, the facts of this case do not compel relaxation based upon financial or other considerations. Cf. Hoffman v. Hillsborough Board of Education, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 943. If missing a 30-day deadline by 54 days is excusable, why have a time limit at all?

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth, summary decision in favor of the petitioner because of the untimely filing by the Point Pleasant Beach Board of its appeal to the Assistant Commissioner should be granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

August 21, 2003
DATE

STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ

Faxed to the Department of Education on:

August 22, 2003
DATE

Mailed to Parties:
ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

AUG 25 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

al

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5987-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 184-6/02

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT BEACH, OCEAN COUNTY AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SUMMIT, UNION COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondents' exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, respondent New Jersey State Department of Education renews its contention, previously argued before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that this matter should proceed to hearing since the Commissioner is permitted to relax the rules for the filing of appeals pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. In this connection, the Department asserts that injustice will result if the Commissioner strictly adheres to the "30 day requirement." (Department's Exceptions at 5) The Department also argues that this matter presents "unique and compelling circumstances" warranting such relaxation. (Ibid.)

Similarly, respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Point Pleasant Beach, (hereinafter, "Point Pleasant") admits that it filed a late appeal of the Ocean County Superintendent's decision to the Assistant Commissioner of Finance, but maintains that this late filing should be excused by the Commissioner. (Point Pleasant's Exceptions at 1) Point Pleasant cites as a basis for the excusal the reasons considered by the ALJ in his Initial Decision, adding that the County Superintendent's delay in initially deciding this matter contributed to its late appeal. "First," Point Pleasant explains, "they had to find the records, almost two years old, which supported the appeal to the Ocean County Superintendent. Then a decision on whether or not to appeal had to be made." (Id. at 2) Furthermore, Point Pleasant argues that the County Superintendent's delay "certainly lulled Point Pleasant Beach, without the availability of advice of counsel, into believing this was not an urgent matter." (Id. at 3)

In reply, petitioner, Board of Education of the Township of Springfield, counters that neither respondent has introduced facts in the record to challenge its motion for summary decision. Petitioner contends that even if Point Pleasant's claim regarding its attorney's illness is true, it fails to explain why it did not file a challenge before the middle of January 2002. Neither, petitioner continues, does a one-week break at Christmas justify a March 2002 untimely filing. Additionally, petitioner argues that the relaxation rule advanced by the respondent Department is not applicable to this matter, since that regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, concerns only those rules under Chapter 3, Controversies and Disputes. Finally, petitioner attests that this matter does not present "unusual and compelling" circumstances, as argued by the Department, but is strictly a monetary dispute. (Petitioner's Reply at 4, 5) Petitioner concludes, therefore, that it is entitled to summary decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds, like the ALJ, that there can be no dispute that Point Pleasant's appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3(d), now codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(d), was untimely.[1] Furthermore, applying general principles of equity, the Commissioner finds, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ, that respondents have advanced no compelling reason to excuse Point Pleasant from the 30-day filing requirement.[2]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted, with modification as set forth herein. Summary decision in favor of petitioner is hereby granted; Point Pleasant's March 2002 appeal to the Assistant Commissioner is time-barred and the decision resulting therefrom, consequently, is set aside.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/2/03

Date of Mailing: 10/3/03

[1] In the first paragraph of its letter dated March 1, 2002, Point Pleasant indicates that its appeal "corresponds to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.2(d)(1-3)." (sic) (Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at Exhibit Q)

[2] In this connection, the Commissioner recognizes that the relaxation rule found at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 is restricted to the rules set forth in Chapter 3.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

569-03

DR. MICHAEL A. COLUCCI,

PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF TUCKERTON, OCEAN COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning superintendent/business administrator claimed the Board terminated his employment without following statutorily required tenure removal procedures.

The ALJ found that petitioner filed his petition 160 days after he received the final notice of "the subject of the requested contested case hearing." The ALJ dismissed the petition as untimely, finding it barred by the 90-day rule, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

October 2, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
ON MOTION PURSUANT TO
N.J.A.C.* 6A:3-1.3
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4208-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 88-3/03

DR. MICHAEL A. COLUCCI,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION TUCKERTON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, OCEAN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Richard A. Carlucci, Esq., for petitioner (Griffith and Carlucci, attorneys)

Michael K. Willison, Esq., for respondent (Dickie, McCamey & Chilcote, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 15, 2003 Decided: August 19, 2003

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Respondent BOE terminated petitioner from his position as Superintendent and Business Manager at the Tuckerton Elementary School and petitioner appeals to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A 6-9 et seq.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14 B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A 52:14F-1to13.

SUMMARY OF THE RELEVANT FACTS

Petitioner signed two contracts with the BOE for the two positions of Superintendent and Business Manager on August 26, 2002. Both contracts were to be effective October 1, 2002 through June 30, 2005, unless terminated earlier. The contracts were terminated earlier. On September 24, 2002, respondent's solicitor notified petitioner of the BOE's decision to terminate his contracts and on September 30, 2002, the BOE rescinded the contracts. On October 1, 2002, the decision was mailed to petitioner who received it on October 2, 2002.

Petitioner filed his petition on March 11, 2003, alleging that the BOE failed to identify the underlying cause of its decision to terminate petitioner in writing or to provide petitioner with an opportunity to be heard, among other things, all contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, 6-11 and 6-7.1.

However, petitioner does not allege that the respondent BOE failed to provide him with adequate and sufficient notice that the Board took adverse action against him on September 30, 2002. That notice was provided to him both before and after the adverse action, on September 24, 2002, and on October 2, 2002. He admits it in his pleadings.

SUMMARY OF THE RELEVANT LAW

The New Jersey Administrative Code at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) provides in pertinent part:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

In petitioner's brief, this rule is thoroughly discussed.

> New Jersey courts which have interpreted the 90-day filing requirement have applied it strictly. See Kaprow v. Board of Ed. of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572, 622 A.2d 237 (1993). See also Nissan v. Board of Ed. of The Twp. of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J.Super. 373, 640 A.2d 293 (1994); Wilson v. Toms River regional S.D., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 872 (1996); Hoffman v. Twp. of Hillsborough, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 817 (1996); McCrea v. Upper Saddle River Bd. Of Education, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 801 (1996).

In Kaprow, supra, Petitioner was terminated as a tenured assistant superintendent as a result of a reduction in force ("RIF") on June 30, 1981. The Local Board failed to notify Kaprow of his post-RIF rights to certain positions in the district which later became available, despite having a legal duty to provide such notification. Kaprow ultimately learned that the Local Board had failed to notify him of the availability of subsequent positions when he received a letter from the Board Secretary on February 28, 1998. Five months after obtaining this information, Kaprow filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education.

Affirming the dismissal of Kaprow's Petition, Supreme Court of New Jersey concluded that he was on notice of the Board's failure to notify him of post-RIF positions upon receipt of the February 28, 1998 letter from the Board Secretary. The Court noted that N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c) [now 6A:3-1.3 (d)] does not specify what constitutes adequate notice. However, the Court concluded that notice is sufficient when it informs the individual of "some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a right to communicate." 131 N.J. at 587. It held that the letter from the Board Secretary clearly advised Petitioner of the facts which gave rise to his Petition. Accordingly, the 90-day time period for filing began to run from that date. His petition, filed five months later, was therefore untimely.

It is noteworthy that the Kaprow Court barred the Petition as untimely, even though the Local Board had neglected its statutory duty to notify Kaprow of the availability of post-RIF positions. While the Court disapproved of the Board's conduct, it did not view such conduct as a basis for a departure from strict enforcement of the 90-day statute of limitations.

This point was re-enforced by the Superior Court in Nissan v. Bd. Of Ed. of The Twp. of Long Beach Island, supra. In Nissan, the Court cited Kaprow for the principle that the limitations period "gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days." 272 N.J.Super. at 380 [citing Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 582]. The Nissan Court then went on the hold that "it is not necessary for the purposes of this discussion to decide whether the Local Board acted correctly" in connection with the conduct alleged in Petitioner's Petition. Id. Rather, the Court stated that "what is important is that the Local Board had the right to know within 90 days whether its action was going to be challenged." Id.

In this matter, petitioner filed his petition 160 days after he received the final notice of "the subject of the requested contested case hearing." The alleged failure of the BOE to provide the petitioner with the due process provided by law is not relevant. A contested case hearing before The Commissioner or his designee is the forum in which such alleged failures are to be cured. Access to this forum is time barred after 90 days.

ORDER

I DISMISS the petition filed herein as untimely and FIND that it is barred by the 90-day rule, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

8/19/03
DATE

EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

8/20/03
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

AUG 26 2003
DATE

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

/lam

WITNESSES

For Petitioner:

None

For Respondent:

None

EXHIBITS

For Petitioner:

None

For Respondent:

None

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4208-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 88-3/03

DR. MICHAEL A. COLUCCI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF TUCKERTON, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In his exceptions, petitioner renews his argument, initially raised in his Brief in Opposition to Motion to Dismiss Appeal, that, pursuant to Lavin v. Board of Education of the City of Hackensack, 90 N.J. 145 (1982), he has a statutory entitlement to the procedural safeguards enacted by the Legislature in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7[1], *N.J.S.*A. 18A:6-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and, therefore, the 90-day limitations period is inapplicable to his claims herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that this matter is untimely, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). In so concluding, the Commissioner finds without merit petitioner's argument that the 90-day time limitation is inapplicable because his claim is a "statutory entitlement," unrelated to his employment or performance, within the intendment of the Court's determination in Lavin, supra. In Lavin, the Supreme Court created a limited exception to the timely filing requirements when it ruled that crediting military service is a statutory entitlement that is a reward for military service, not for performance as a teacher, and, thus, is not subject to the applicable limitations period. However, this limited exception for statutory entitlements has been strictly applied. See, e.g., North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley, 131 N.J. 572 (1993); Nissman v. Board of Education of the Township of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373 (App. Div. 1994), certif. denied, 137 N.J. 315 (1994). As the Supreme Court in Kaprow reasoned:

[1] Petitioner's reference to this provision may have been a typographical error, since, in his earlier brief, referenced above, he refers to "N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1" when arguing that he was denied the safeguards to which he was entitled by statute. In any event, neither N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7, which requires persons employed in teaching capacities to take an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, nor N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, which establishes the requirements for criminal history record checks for candidates of school employment, appears germane to petitioner's claims.

> Because the decision necessary to confer tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 is based on an evaluation of teacher performance, behavior, and efficiency,  the only way Kaprow could acquire tenure rights, and therefore RIF rights, was through employment in the school district. Kaprow's RIF rights are then distinguishable from the petitioner's right to military service credit in Lavin; Kaprow is not entitled to his RIF rights independent from the administration of a school system or from his standing as a tenured assistant superintendent. Kaprow, supra, at 586.

Similarly, even assuming, arguendo, the procedural safeguards established in statute would apply to petitioner herein, an issue which would be addressed were this matter to be reviewed on its merits, such statutory rights and protections are acquired only through employment in the school district and cannot, therefore, be viewed as independent from his employment or from the administration of a school system. Where such a "functional relationship" exists, Kaprow, supra, at 586, the "statutory entitlement" exception in Lavin does not apply.[2] Furthermore, the

[2] See also, Balwierczak et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Berkeley Heights, Union County, decided by the Commissioner December 8, 1999 (No. 407-99), aff'd State Board of Education May 3, 2000, where former employees of the Union County Regional High School District alleged that the Board of Education of Berkeley Heights, the district to which they transferred upon dissolution of the regional district, denied them their rights to the Commissioner finds nothing in this record which warrants relaxation of the filing requirement, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and amplified above. The Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/02/03

Date of Mailing: 10/03/03

salary guide placement to which they were entitled pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64, the Commissioner found that the pertinent statute was designed to operate, upon the dissolution of a regional district, as a "save harmless" provision, and absent rights and benefits accrued through prior employment, N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64 does not operate to independently create a benefit; Nadasky et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Clark, Union County, decided by the Commissioner July 9, 2001 (No. 211-01), where retired employees of the Board asserted a statutory right to be paid for unused accumulated sick leave at the contractual rate established by their collective bargaining agreement, the Commissioner rejected their claim that the 90-day rule was inapplicable pursuant to Lavin, supra; Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County v. M.M. on behalf of minor child, C.B., decided by the Commissioner November 19, 2001 (No. 452-01L), where the petitioning Board of Education argued that reimbursement of tuition is a statutory entitlement not subject to the 90-day rule, the Commissioner determined that, to the extent a local board seeks an order directing payment of tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq., such a proceeding is subject to compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. and does not fall within the limited exception enunciated in Lavin, supra, for statutory entitlement.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

5 76-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF GLOUCESTER, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court.

The ALJ found: 1) the "ancillary" issue of moneys due the District as a consequence of its latest figures indicating that its undesignated general fund balance was below two percent was a "distribution" issue more properly resolved subsequent to receipt of the District's Comprehensive Annual Financial Review (CAFR); 2) the District had demonstrated a reasonable basis to justify its request for a 30 percent natural gas increase; 3) the rule duly promulgated to implement the Court's Order for "maintenance" controlled in this proceeding, and the Office of Administrative Law lacked jurisdiction to determine its validity; 4) the Department had employed a uniform, rational approach in calculating the District's Early Childhood Plan figure and such figure, therefore, was properly established at $650,011; and 5) the District's encumbrances which remained unpaid as of June 30, 2003 were properly excluded from its maintenance budget.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions with respect to deferring of the undesignated general fund payment question until review of the CAFR, calculation of the Early Childhood Plan figure, and jurisdiction and application of the "maintenance" rule. The Commissioner rejected the granting of a 30 percent increase for natural gas finding that the Department's offered 15 percent increase was not unreasonable or improper, and, while sustaining the propriety of the Department's calculation with respect to the District's encumbrances, he clarified the methodology to be utilized in arriving at this figure.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4158-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 188-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF GLOUCESTER, CAMDEN COUNTY,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., appearing for petitioner

Cindy Campbell, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 23, 2003 Decided: September 24, 2003

BEFORE JOHN R. FUTEY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this matter petitioner, the Board of Education of the City of Gloucester, Camden County (hereinafter "Gloucester") appeals a notice by respondent, the New Jersey State Department of Education (hereinafter "DOE") regarding its supplemental funding request for the 2003-2004 budgeted year, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.1 et. seq.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 24, 2003, the DOE moved before the Supreme Court for an Order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott IV). See also Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (IX). The DOE requested that the discretionary additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (Supplemental Aid) that it would be required to provide in Abbott Districts in 2003-2004 be limited to an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the districts approved budgets for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003 the Education Law Center (hereinafter "ELC") cross-moved for an order setting an expedited schedule for the DOE's decisions on districts-budgets and requiring the DOE to conduct a formal evaluation of the implementation of the Whole School Reform (hereinafter "WSR"), etc. On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court Ordered the DOE and the ELC to participate in mediation before the Honorable Phillip S. Carchman, J.A.D., to attempt to resolve issues raised by their motions.

Mediation resolved all issues except the 2003-2004 budget process, so the DOE's motion for an Order extending by an additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX remained outstanding. However, the parties agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals, beginning with DOE's reviews and approval and approvals of districts' budgets by May 30, 2003. Districts' appeals from the DOE's reviews were to be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (hereafter "OAL") where administrative law judges (hereinafter "ALJs") were to issue initial decisions (hereinafter "ID's") within twenty-five days of the appeal. The DOE's Commissioner was to issue final decisions within twenty-five days of the IDs. On May 20, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect until further order of the Court.

On May 30, 2003, the DOE issued decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets. In accordance with the issuance of those letters, in this matter, the DOE's Assistant Commissioner, Division of Abbott Implementation (Gordon MacInnes) notified Gloucester that the DOE had completed its initial review of the District's 2003/2004 expenditure budget dated April 9, 2003, with a budget code 4900. On June 5, 2003, the District's verified petition of appeal was filed with the DOE. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Thereafter, the DOE transmitted this matter as a contested case to the OAL, where it was filed on June 9, 2003, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through –13. On June 20, 2003 the DOE's answer was filed in the OAL.

On June 24, 2003, Supreme Court issued an Order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument on DOE's motion for an Order extending the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. On July 1, 2003, the DOE moved for an Order amending the schedule for processing the appeals to allow the Court to rule on the standard in the appeals to the OAL for hearings and issuance of initial decisions. On July 10, 2003, the Supreme Court heard Oral Argument on the budget process. The Supreme Court granted the DOE's motion and relaxed Abbott v. Burke 153, N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process.

The Supreme Court also set a schedule for new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and the administrative appeal and hearing process and ordered the DOE to promulgate emergency regulations governing the process. The DOE, relying on the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act and the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order, promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10, including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, 3.1, -4.2 and –4.7. The regulations are effective August 22, 2003 and expire June 30, 2004.

I was assigned to this matter on June 16, 2003. As a result, I conducted a telephone conference with Gloucester's attorney Richard Shapiro, Esq. and the Deputy Attorney General assigned at the time, James Harris, on June 26, 2003, at which time procedural issues were discussed and a timeline regarding initial hearing was set to be heard for the days of July 11 and July 17, 2003. Based upon the extension of time which was granted by the Supreme Court hereinabove, that schedule was adjourned in order to allow further clarification from the Supreme Court before a further hearing in this matter. That telephone conference took place on July 9, 2003, based upon the foregoing procedural readjustments made by the Supreme Court. Thereafter, upon being advised that the matter was once again ripe for hearing before the OAL, I conducted a telephone conference with counsel on September 2, 2003, at which time the parties agreed to a hearing schedule for the date of September 18, 2003. A letter confirming same was sent by fax on September 9, 2003, which also set the matter down to be heard peremptorily before me commencing at 9:00 am on the agreed upon date. However, on September 17, 2003, at approximately 3:30 pm, I was for the first time advised that my matter which was peremptorily set for the next day, was to be adjourned at the purported order and direction of some unidentified OAL authority due to the unavailability of Mr. Shapiro, who was then still appearing before the Honorable Edith Klinger, ALJ, at the Newark OAL. Accordingly, I was summarily directed and told that Mr. Shapiro would not be available at the agreed upon and peremptorily set time and date. I nonetheless conducted a telephone conference with both counsel at 4:00 pm on September 17, 2003, at which time both counsel agreed that they would be available at 1:30 pm on September 18, 2003 at the OAL, Trenton. Judge Klinger acceded accordingly. The matter proceeded to hearing on that day. However, since various issues could not be resolved between the parties at that time and due to the scheduling demands of Mr. Shapiro, the matter was continued and heard with the full consent of all the parties on Sunday, September 21, 2003, between 8:45 am and 12:20 pm as well as on September 23, 2003 between 7:30 am and 9:00 am, which ended in virtual darkness (but for the emergency light in the hearing room) as OAL and its surrounding environment experienced an extended power outage due to a vicious storm. The end of the matter was taped on a portable tape battery-operated recorder. Upon completion of all the testimony and upon receipt of all the documentation at that time, the hearing record closed.

STIPULATIONS AND REMAINING ISSUES

At the commencement of the hearing, the parties indicated that they had had an opportunity to confer between the first and scheduled hearing dates and had arrived at a stipulation regarding all funding requirements requested by the District as contained in R-1 and R-7, and as more fully set forth in the written summation of DAG Campbell filed on the last day of hearing herein, except for issues involving utility rate increases (most directly only the gas rate), the Early Childhood Plan for budget year 03-04 (hereinafter "EC Plan 03-04") and the figures utilitized for the Early Childhood Plan for budget year 02-03 (hereinafter "ECP 02-03"), as well as whether or not billing encumbrances should have been calculated in the budget for 03-04, or whether there should have been included in the previous budget for 02-03. These became the framed issues for hearing. It is noted that an ancillary "issue" also arose regarding the excess fund account whose balance was $1,538,947, with the additional Abbott vs. Burke aid to be $475,703 and the timing of its reimbursement and disbursement to the District. Although I was subsequently advised by the deputy attorney general who substituted in for Mr. Harris and who tried this matter before me, Cindy Campbell, and her supervisor, Assistant Attorney General Michelle Miller, upon my order and direction to report its status to me at 3:30 pm on September 22, 2003, that the issue regarding the date of disbursement of that excess fund back to Gloucester had not yet been clarified, I was nonetheless told by them that it is still not an issue for resolution by this tribunal but rather a simple matter of disbursement. In the event the Comprehensive Annual Financial Review (hereinafter "CAFR") demonstrates that there is an entitlement, current "point in-time" estimates by the DOE suggest that the undesignated general fund may, however, have a surplus in excess of 2 percent. However, the DOE acknowledged that should Gloucester's surplus be determined to be under or below the 2 percent under CAFR, Gloucester will then get the receivable. Thus, this issue will be resolved at that time, although the DOE's representative at hearing, Andrew Bishop, conceded that, according to his own personal and unofficial understanding, this may be the first year that the DOE reduced the undesignated general fund prior to receipt of the CAFR.

TESTIMONY OF THE WITNESSES

In this matter four people testified and their relevant testimonies are summarized as follows:

Dr. Mary Stansky

Dr. Mary Stansky is Gloucester's Superintendent of Schools where she is in her fifth year. As a result of the current budget appeal, the amount that Gloucester thought they would get was the amount of $547,000 in order to hire additional people pursuant to a settlement which had been negotiated with DOE in February 2003. They had an agreement to hire those people, which included two Spanish teachers to meet the "Full Content" standard, one more facilitator for tutoring, six additional tutors, and one additional security person (in one of the four schools where they had no security personal at all.) Gloucester has four schools in its District, including an alternative high school for grades 7 through 12, a junior through senior high school for grades 7 through 12, an intermediate school for grades 4, through 6 and a pre-K through 3 school. They understood that the maintenance budget would be sufficient in order to meet the ongoing needs of the District and provide the above-cited services. However, given the denial of those funds by DOE they would be unable to provide for those positions in the 03-04 budgeted year, even though they were previously provided during the 02-03 budgeted year. She reviewed a list of the positions and programs that would be lost without that supplemental aid, the after-school and summer programs, and as well as the professional development costs, all of which had been contained in the prior year's budget (P-1). The school supply costs will also be cut. As a result of the adjustment required by DOE in February 2003, which resulted in a reduction of the two Spanish teachers, in the amount of $106,500, the total amount of the loss was recorded as being $6,024,498 (less the $106,500 indicated hereinabove). They are nonetheless required to provide those services for the "Whole School Reform." Those figures were prepared in February 2003 as a maintenance figure at the time and did not include the non-discretionary items, most of which had been resolved as set forth hereinabove in the stipulation entered into between the parties at the due process hearing. She did not believe that the State has relieved them of their obligations for education for this year, however.

Robert Stewart

Robert Stewart is an independent auditor employed by Gloucester. He is the co-owner of an auditing firm in Marlton, New Jersey. He has been a Certified Public Accountant since 1974. On an annual basis his CPA firm conducts audits on an independent basis regarding approximately forty districts throughout the State of New Jersey. This is his first year with Gloucester.

In addition to being a licensed CPA, he is also licensed as a public school accountant which he also received in 1974, and is also a registered municipal accountant (since 1976.) He testified regarding the encumbrances which the district feels should be attached and given credit for in the 03-04 budget year. An encumbrance is a order issued to a vendor but which results in it not being paid by June 30, which is the end of the standard fiscal year. If is not signed off or paid in that year's end by June 30 it serves as a reservation of fund balance as an open encumbrance. It is the district's position that the amounts which constitute encumbrances were denoted and recorded as such by DOE for the 03-04 year in the total amount of $797,686, and actually should have been charged against the preceding year of 02-03, even though they were not accounts payable.

In that regard, he reviewed the Gloucester Board of Education's Secretary's Reports (P-2 and P-4) regarding the amounts of outstanding expenditures in place as of June 30, 2003. That review comprised Fund Ten, which includes Fund 11 (the general fund), Fund 12 (which comprises the capital fund), and Fund 13 (which constitutes the special school account) (P-3). Those outstanding expenditures should be treated as part of the 02-03 expenditures of the district since, even though they will be spent after June 30, they must be attributed back to the prior budget year of 2002-03. However, it was the district's position that the DOE did not see them as a proper entry. It was his conclusion that all the outstanding expenditures should be made part of the expenditures for the 02-03 year and then added to the DOE's actual expenditure for calculation of the 03-04 budget. Otherwise, there will be a shortfall in that amount of $797,686 in the 03-04 budget.

In the process, he conceded that, from an accounting standpoint, many of those expenditures did remain outstanding as open encumbrances because paperwork had not been completed and the vendors payments had not been completed prior to the end of the fiscal year of June 30, 2003. He also acknowledged that he did not know how much had been even spent to date from the total of the $797,686, representing both of the above cited funds 10 and 15 (this being the Blended Resources Fund.) Finally, he noted that they employ general accepted accounting principles (more commonly referred to as "GAAP"s) in order to arrive at applying credit for outstanding expenditures, even though DOE does not view them as being actual expenditures from the 02-03 year,. The district wants those open expenditures counted for that year, thereby increasing its total allotment for 03-04.

James Devereaux

James Devereaux is the Business Administrator and Board Secretary of Gloucester, which role he has held for three months. He had prior experience as the Township Manager and for two of the three years, Chief Financial Officer, of Washington Township, Gloucester County between 1987 and 1990, the Chief Financial Officer and Administrator for Gloucester City between 1990 and 1992, and the Township Administrator of Manalapan Township for 9 years, prior to assuming his current role with Gloucester, City.

He testified regarding the issues of utility rate increase as well as the Early Childhood Plan aid in this matter.

Regarding the utility rate increase, the DOE authorized the amount of $91,591.95 for the 03-04 year, while the district seeks the amount of $116,694 for the same period. He based his calculation upon actual bills for natural gas and electricity on behalf of the district which he culled from the 02-03 school year. Thereafter, he separated out the billings for the gas increase verses the electricity increase. He applied a 15 per cent increase only for the electrical component based upon a Board of Public Utilities order of August 2003 which authorized the Public Service Electric and Gas Company to charge that rated increase. It is noted that the DOE did not challenge that figure at the due process hearing. Rather, as stated hereafter, regarding the testimony of DOE's Andrew Bishop, although the DOE originally allocated a zero increase for that purpose, it acceded to the district's request for the 15 percent adjustment only for the electricity for the 03-04 budget year. This constitutes a further stipulation in this matter. And I so FIND.

The only utility rate challenge therefore remained regarding the natural gas increase, which the district projected as being 30 percent. Devereaux arrived at that percentage increase based upon his research regarding the market conditions and fluctuations in the natural gas market. In that regard, he referred and offered into evidence two articles from which he had gleaned the range of increases as occurring between 20 and 70 percent projected for the ensuing year, based upon American Industry Standards and an article from the Energy Information Administration. His conclusion was that the increase would probably fall somewhere between those two areas, and, as a result, he merely picked the figure of 30 per cent as being on the low end of that range to support that increase. On cross-examination, he acknowledged that the one article upon which he relied referred to there being projected levels 60 to 70 percent higher than last year as related to a comparison with last summer's rates only. He noted, however, that it would be totally impossible to project over-all figures for the entire year but felt that 30 percent was a reasonable estimate given what he had otherwise determined from those articles as well as his discussions with unnamed personnel at Public Service Electric and Gas.

As to the issue involving the Early Childhood Plan aid (hereinafter "ECP") a review of the district's budget (R-1) reveals that the DOE treated the EC Plan for 02-03 as a negative in the amount of $3,490,379. The DOE's number is based upon a January 02 letter which stated that the approved plan was that figure. However, Gloucester's approved DOE budget for 02-03 was actually $3,203,949, as of October 2, 2002. (See P-9 and P-10) Yet, on February 25, 2003, Gloucester was told by DOE that they would receive a lesser amount after having deducted the amount of $740,531 from that previously approved figure. This would leave a balance of an actual budget of $2,463,418 for Early Childhood Plan purposes as being the actual budget for the 02-03 year. Thus, they contend that DOE used the wrong figure by employing the amount of $3,490,379 since the actual budget of $2,463,418 was the actual budget for the ECP for the 02-03 period. As a result, it is their contention that the district actually lost nearly $1,000,000 when one combines the nearly $200,000 which they had been reduced by DOE in the budget adjustment on February 25, 2002 ($3,490,379 verses the actual budget of $3,203,949) and the reduction they received of $740,531, which they got as a result of the letter of February 25, 2003. The district should have actually received their increased amount of $376,950 to the bottom line budget. Instead, the DOE's use of the $3,490,379 constituted a negative to the district in the amount of $650,000. He conceded that the district did not do a similar calculation for 03-04.

Andrew Bishop

Andrew Bishop testified on behalf of the DOE as a budget manager, which role he has assumed for several districts, including Gloucester, since December 2001. He is an accountant by trade, has been a Certified Public Accountant since 1994, and has spent over 18 years engaged in audit practice.

He reviewed the maintenance calculation work sheet prepared by DOE (R-1) and (R-7) and indicated that, overall, the DOE attempted to strike a systematic approach to establishing the maintenance budget for 03-04 regarding approved ECP's. In the Gloucester City matter, after they adjusted the 02-03 budget they did a comparison of the budget verses actual calculation for the programs in place and made a computation of projected spending of Gloucester in that regard (R-2). In that regard, the ECP budget for 02-03 for Gloucester was $3,490,379 (R-4) as an approved budget plan and, as a result, they came to the conclusion that there was not an expansion of a budget but rather a reduction of $650,011 when they compared the EC plan for 02-03 ($3,490,379) verses the EC plan for 03-04 in the amount of $2,840,368, thereby leaving the reduction to $650,011.

Regarding the utilities allowance, Bishop indicated that the DOE originally had calculated the projected increases for electricity and gases being zero. However, as a result of the due process hearing herein, the DOE conceded and agreed that Gloucester should receive a 15 percent increase regarding the electricity based upon the verification that the BPU had granted a rate increase to Public Service Electric and Gas. At the same time however, the DOE was not convinced that any similar bona fide increase for natural gas was adequately demonstrated by the district. However, in the spirit of attempting to maintain uniformity in that regard, it nonetheless conceded and agreed that a 15 percent increase for natural gas expenditures would also be appropriate for the 03-04 budget year, that being based upon his review of a fellow budget director's e-mail which referenced a recommendation for same by the New Jersey Association of School for Business Officials (hereinabove "NJASBO"). He also noted however, that should the actual expenditures exceed that amount, emergency appropriation requests can be made by the district and will be given appropriate review by the DOE upon submission of same.

Regarding any credits for encumbrances, he noted that the DOE worked up the CPA report and gave credit for the actual spending, since actual spending is the best information available, as opposed to encumbrances, which appear as a carryover beyond the authorized fiscal year. As a result, only accounts payable before June 30, and even paid very shortly after June 30 will be given recognition by the DOE on a consistent bases. The DOE's conclusion was that bills not paid by that time would be listed and included in the ensuing budget for 03-04.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

In this matter, Gloucester and the DOE have, as a result of the due process hearing, made significant efforts toward resolving the outstanding issues relative to the maintenance budget presented for the 03-04 year. Both sides should be commended in that regard since considerable energy was spent during the pendency of the due process hearing in order to re-address all those issues. The stipulations set forth on the record regarding the vast majority of the figures and as referenced hereinabove at the beginning of this decision, reflect those positive and strenuous efforts. Accordingly, only three issues remained at the commencement of the due process hearing and for which findings and conclusions are made at this time it being my understanding that the excess Fund account issue is a distribution issue more properly assessed at the CAFR. After having considered the evidence presented, regarding the utility rate increase, I FIND that, since the parties have jointly agreed to an adjustment regarding the electricity rate increase to 15 percent, that issue is also stipulated and moot as an issue before me at this time. That agreement was apparently predicated upon an assessment that the BPU order regarding the PSE&G increase demonstrated the projected increase for electricity over the next year. At the same time, however, I FIND that the district has demonstrated a reasonable or plausible basis to suggest a 30 percent increase regarding the natural gas increase, due to the volatility and uncertainty of that market over time. After considering the documentation presented in support of Gloucester's claim regarding a 30 percent increase, I FIND it to be somewhat reasonably determined based upon the projections set forth in the articles which were submitted in support of their calculation in that regard. Although there is absolutely no way to demonstrate the viability of the natural gas increases over the next year the district's attempted assessment at least gives a tangible basis upon which to assert the projected increase of 30 percent. And I so FIND. As a result, absent any other realistic or corroborated showing to the contrary and/or any other authority who could substantiate anything short of a 30 percent increase, I reject DOE's acquiescence for a 15 percent increase by a preponderance of the credible evidence. I FIND that the DOE accepted and conceded a 15 per cent increase, consistent with the electricity rate increase, in order to maintain as must uniformity as possible. However, as was gleaned from the hearing, Gloucester had at least some corroborating proofs while DOE did not. The purported reliance upon the NJASBO e-mail was highly deficient in that regard. And, in any event, to the extent that any amount over DOE's conceded 15 percent gas increase exceeds that amount in reality, those increase must be viewed as unforeseen circumstances and/or unanticipated expenditures, for which cash payment should be forthwith issued by DOE and Gloucester can make a request for emergency appropriations at any time that the projected estimated figures do exceed the authorized budgeted amount. Thus, they will not be prejudiced in that regard because they do have relief at hand to address those gas increases above 15 percent.

Regarding the Early Childhood Plan figure, I FIND that the DOE properly attempted to employ a systematic approach to maintaining a uniform analysis for all of the affected districts and utilized that concept in its assessment of and comparison of the 02-03 and 03-04 budget for Gloucester. In the process, I FIND that the use of an approved plan-to-plan review (emphasis added) was reasonable under the circumstances and, accordingly, I will not disturb DOE's determination to fix a review at a uniform period in time, being the date of the actual approved budget, whether or not any subsequent adjustment resulted in recalculations thereafter. Therefore, I FIND that the utilization of the ECP budget for 02-03 in the amount of $3,490,379 was properly compared with the ensuing budget for 03-04, of $2,840,368, resulting in a reduction in aid between the two periods of $650, 011. And I so FIND.

Although, on first blush, it appeared incongruous to observe that the DOE considered the 02-03 budget figures for the district of $3,490,379 as the baseline which later became emasculated and/or reduced for whatever reason(s) the district has presented nothing which convinces me that any other accounting calculation practice is more do-able. This failing was similarly reflected in the presentation about the encumbrance issue. The proofs were highly deficient and devoid of any detail or clarity to give credence to the District's positions in those regards. The DOE has at a minimum created a systematic approach to be applied across the board among all the boards by comparing "approved" budgets to "approved" budgets. As a result, the DOE's allocation of ECP data correctly reflects the proper comparison data.

At the same time, I also FIND that Gloucester's Devereaux incorrectly included the approved preschool expansion aid, which had been based upon a projected enrollment of 336 pupils. At the end of the school year, however, only 238 pupils had been actually enrolled. As a result there was no real expansion at all, and the DOE properly adjusted the expansion aid for 02-03 to be zero (even though technically it was really a negative $1,018,027 for that period.)

Thus, Gloucester erred when it included the approved ECP expansion aid because the final approved ECP expansion aid was zero. As a consequence, I FIND that, by comparing only the final approved ECPs for the two budget periods, the DOE properly calculated Gloucester's ECP aid for 03-04 as being $650,011.00.

Finally, as set forth at the commencement of the due process hearing in this matter, I FIND that the DOE properly determined the actual spent expenditures are to be used for calculations purposes instead of the encumbrances, the latter of which have not resulted in a full, credited payment, even according to all appropriate accounting standards, and that, accordingly, the DOE followed proper, sound procedures in calculating and giving credit for only those expenditures which became actual by the end of the fiscal year. Even the district's independent auditor could not confirm the status of any on-going actual payments subsequent to that time, which further illustrates the vagueness with which such calculations would have to be made. The only realistic approach is that which was employed by the DOE under the circumstances. And I so FIND.

As a result, notwithstanding any purported "generally accepted accounting principles," (GAAP) as articulated by Gloucester's independent auditor Stewart (but which were not established or corroborated and even though not challenged on its face by the DOE at the due process hearing at all), I am nonetheless satisfied and FIND that the DOE has clearly established that any billings for services of any sort will only be allocated and credited in the budget year when the funds are spent and not when reserved as an indebtedness or encumbrance to the district, consistent with the maintenance standard ordered for districts under Abbott. An encumbrance is an accounting tool which permits a district to reserve funds for purchase orders that may have been issued but for which the goods or services have not yet been received. Thus, I FIND that any encumbrances which remained open and/or unpaid after June 30, 2003, are chargeable to the budget for 03-04, and not in the proceeding year of 02-03. By contrast, the DOE did give Gloucester credit for true accounts payable in 02-03.

This is based upon the definition of maintenance budget found at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, which specifically provides that a district's maintenance budget shall (emphasis added) include "a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided (emphasis added) programs, services and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures.

Further, if even Gloucester's Stewart could not determine even at this time how many or how much of Gloucester's open encumbrances were accounts payable in 02-03, then how could the DOE be expected to make either an informed decision or apply any credit for those goods or services which have yet to be received at this time.

Of course, Gloucester will be able to have any adjustments made thereto when its Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (otherwise referred to as "CAFR") is made by the DOE approximately two months from now, in November 2003. At that time, Gloucester will hopefully be able to convert its open encumbrances into accounts payable.

I also FIND that the Supreme Court set a schedule for new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and the administrative appeal and hearing process and ordered the DOE to promulgate emergency regulations governing the process. The DOE, relying on the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act and the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order, promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10, including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, 3.1, -4.2, and –4.7. The regulations are effective August 22, 2003, and expire June 30, 2004. Among these emergency regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. move states completely:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

The district bears the burden of proving that DOE's calculation of its maintenance budget failed to follow the maintenance budget review required under N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. In this matter, I FIND that, given the level of proofs and testimony offered by both sides, the DOE developed Gloucester's 03-04 maintenance budget after it reviewed Gloucester's approved budget for 02-03, made adjustments for actual (emphasis added) expenditures, allowed increases in non-discretionary costs, and dedicated costs for any non-recurring items as mandated in the maintenance budget formula definition. As a result, I FIND that the DOE did properly determine Gloucester's 03-04 maintenances budget in accordance with established Supreme Court criteria and appropriate DOE regulations, the only exception to that finding being my determination regarding the utilization of the projected 30 percent natural gas rate increase requested by Gloucester.

Finally after having considered the arguments advanced herein and pursuant to my announced determination at the due process hearing, I FIND that the DOE regulations define "maintenance budget" consistent with the Supreme Court mandate and order relative to implementation of those regulations. I further adopt the relevant findings and conclusions in that regard which were contained in the Order Relative to Maintenance Budget of Honorable John R. Tassini, ALAJ, in the matter of Board of Education of Asbury Park vs. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU 4095-03, Agency No. 199-6/03 dated September 4, 2003, and the Order Relative to Maintenance Budget rendered by Honorable Joseph F. Martone, ALJ, in the matter of the Board of Education, of Neptune vs. New Jersey Board of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU 4096-03; Agency No. 202-6103, dated September 10, 2003. And I so FIND.

CONCLUSIONS AND ORDER

Based upon all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the DOE has demonstrated the reasonableness of its budget for the Gloucester district for the 03-04 school year by a preponderance of the credible evidence. It is ORDERED that the proposed budget, as fixed by the DOE for that period, except as to the natural gas rate increase, is AFFIRMED. The denial of the 30 percent natural gas rate is REVERSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 24, 2003

DATE

JOHN R. FUTEY, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

September 24, 2003

DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

September 24, 2003

DATE

JRF/mamf

WITNESSES

For petitioner

Dr. Mary Stansky

Robert Stewart

James Devereaux

For respondent

Andrew Bishop

EXHIBITS

For petitioner

P-1 Summary of budget items by Dr. Mary Stansky

P-2 Fund 10 Account

P-3 Abbreviated detailed budget accounts status for Fund 10

P-4 Fund 15 board secretary's report for June 30, 2003

P-5 Abbreviated detailed budget account status for Fund 15

P-6 2003 audit financial summary

P-7 Comparison chart

P-8 Utility calculations rate

P-9 Early Childhood Plan aid calculations for 02-03

P-10 Additional Early Childhood Plan calculations for 02-03

P-11 Letter from Gordon MacInnes to Dr. Mary Stansky, dated January 6, 2003

For respondent

R-1 Maintenance Budget calculation worksheet

R-2 Schedule A from KPMG audit

R-3 School District Budget Statement for the 2002-2003 school year

R-4 Budget approval letter for 2002-2003 Early Childhood Plan

R-5 Budget approval letter for 2003-2004 Early Childhood Plan

R-5.1 Salary Increase Spreadsheet for 2003-2004

R-6 Special Education Tuition Calculation for Gloucester City

R-7 Supplemental Abbott v. Burke Aid calculation worksheet

R-8 School District Budget statement for the 2003-2004 school year

R-9 IDEA increase in aid spreadsheet

R-10 Extraordinary aid spreadsheet

Joint exhibit

J-1 Letter from Gordon MacInnes to Dr. Mary Stansky, dated August 27, 2003

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4158-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 188-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF GLOUCESTER, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of Gloucester and those of the Department, along with both parties' reply exceptions were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's Order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner determines to adopt in part, reject in part and modify in part the Initial Decision of the OAL as detailed below.

Initially, it is noted that petitioner's exceptions strenuously urge that the Commissioner should reject the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) resolution of the undesignated general fund issue in this matter, i.e., that "[this issue] is still not an issue for resolution by this tribunal but rather a simple matter of disbursement," a question which would ultimately be resolved at the time of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) review.[1] (Initial Decision at 5) (Petitioner's Exceptions at 10-11) Petitioner reports that, subsequent to the receipt of the Department's August 27, 2003 budget decision letter, its auditor conducted a preliminary audit of the undesignated general fund balance which demonstrated that the District's fund balance was now below the required two percent level, contrary to the Department's budget letter calculation and, therefore, "the District should immediately be awarded the Abbott v. Burke State Aid receivable that was improperly and prematurely deducted in the [Department's] August 27, 2003, letter. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 12) The District argues that the Department has a legal obligation to accept its supplemental documentation and to cure any deficiencies in the District's budget that were based on the Department's consideration of outdated and inaccurate information. It, thus, proffers that the required adjustments should be immediately made based on its newly provided supplemental updated information and should not await the CAFR. The District further charges that the Department improperly reduced the undesignated general fund balance, which it had determined was in excess of two percent, prior to the receipt of the CAFR, in violation of the FY 04 Appropriations Act.

In reply, the Department advances "that the ALJ properly found that the issue of when and how Gloucester City would receive its disbursement from the Department if its undesignated general fund balance was below two percent was not a legal issue before him in this matter. However, the issue of the calculation of Gloucester City's excess fund balance was a legal matter properly reviewable by the ALJ in this case." (Department's Reply Exceptions at 2-3) The Department further advances that the Supreme Court's Order directed it to provide the districts with their preliminary maintenance figures for the 2003-04 school year by [1] Petitioner charges that such determination of the ALJ was the result of an improper ex parte conversation with counsel for respondent in this matter and, therefore, the Commissioner is obligated to grant the relief it seeks. Petitioner is advised that "allegations" of impropriety by an ALJ are not properly before the Commissioner of Education nor do such "allegations" provide a basis for the granting of petitioner's requested relief in this forum. Rather, these are appropriately cognizable before the OAL. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.5; Code of Judicial Conduct for Administrative Law Judges, Canon 3A(6); and N.J.A.C. 1:31-3.1(a)4.

August 27, 2003. In fulfillment of that directive, the Department utilized the most recent calculations, provided by the District, to make the requisite projections in its August 27, 2003 budget letter. Although recognizing "the Supreme Court's encouragement to accept supplemental documentation [from districts], the Supreme Court's holding should not be construed such that the Department should accept piece-meal and potentially inaccurate data on an on-going basis, particularly where the district's CAFR will be submitted in several weeks and there will be finality in the data." (Department's Reply Exceptions at 5)

Upon consideration of the arguments advanced by the parties on this issue, the Commissioner, while conceding that the District's entitlement to payment may have been properly addressed by the ALJ in these proceedings, concurs that timing of such payment was not amenable to resolution by the ALJ. It must be observed, however, that the District's proffered arguments herein are somewhat disingenuous. While charging that the Department improperly made reductions to its undesignated general fund balance based on preliminary projections in advance of its receipt of the CAFR, it, nonetheless, demands payment based on its "supplementary" projections, also prior to completion of the CAFR process. Under the circumstances existing here, the Commissioner determines that resolution of this issue is appropriately deferred subsequent to the completion of the CAFR process. If the District's supplementary information at that time demonstrates that its undesignated general fund balance is below two percent, adjustment will be made to its aid award pursuant to the Appropriations Act (New Jersey Fiscal FY 04 Appropriations Act, P.L. 2003, c. 122).

Turning to the remaining issues in dispute herein, the Commissioner, first, concurs with the ALJ that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine, directly or indirectly, the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R.2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v.

Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to determine "a choice of law" as argued by the District, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003. Consequently, the Department's application of such regulatory definition in its review and approval of the District's 2003-04 budget is wholly appropriate.

In his consideration of the ALJ's grant of a 30 percent natural gas rate increase to the District, the Commissioner cannot agree with the ALJ that the District has met its burden of establishing the necessity of an increase of this magnitude. At this juncture, the Commissioner finds that a review of the respective parties' burdens of proof in this matter is particularly instructive. In this regard, the Commissioner recognizes that the Supreme Court's Order provides that the Department "shall bear the [initial] burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the [Abbott] district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations."Abbott v. Burke, M-976 September Term 2002, at 7. However, as indicated in the Department's preliminary maintenance decision letter dated August 27, 2003 (Exhibit J-1), the District's maintenance budget was not reduced based on ineffectiveness or inefficiency. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c), the District bears the burden of proving that the Department's calculations were unreasonable or otherwise improper. Here, the Initial Decision reflects that James Devereaux, Business Administrator and Board Secretary of Gloucester, testified that he arrived at the projected 30 percent increase in natural gas cost > based upon his research regarding the market conditions and fluctuations in the natural gas market. In that regard, he referred > and offered into evidence two articles from which he had gleaned the range of increases as occurring between 20 and 70 percent projected for the ensuing year, based upon American Industry Standards and an article from the Energy Information Administration. His conclusion was that the increase would probably fall somewhere between those two areas, and, as a result, he merely picked the figure of 30 per cent as being on the low end of that range to support that increase. (emphasis supplied) (Initial Decision at 8)

Although reporting that the Department "accepted and conceded a 15 per cent increase, consistent with the electricity rate increase, in order to maintain as [much] uniformity as possible" id. at 11, and recognizing testimony advanced by the Department's witness that such a figure was based on the recommendation of the New Jersey Association of School Business Officials (NJASBO), the ALJ, nonetheless, granted the increase finding "Gloucester had at least some corroborating proofs while DOE did not." The Commissioner disagrees. Mindful of the District's burden on this issue, the Commissioner finds the proofs advanced by the District to be deficient and devoid of any competent evidence that would offer credence to its position with respect to a 30 percent natural gas cost increase. As such, the Commissioner finds that the Department's offered 15 percent increase cannot be found unreasonable or improper. Therefore, the ALJ's finding in this regard is rejected. The District is also reminded that, should its actual natural gas cost exceed the allotted 15 percent, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism for it to apply for additional supplemental funding.

The Commissioner, similarly, concludes that the District has not met its burden of establishing that the Department's use of an approved plan-to-plan review to determine the District's Early Childhood Plan figure was unreasonable or otherwise improper. In the Commissioner's view, the process used by the Department, based on the only available "like" components for comparison, i.e., approved 2002-03 and 2003-04 Early Childhood Plans, in order to determine the change in district need from one year to the next, fully allows for reasonable, fair and consistent preliminary determinations under circumstances where precise calculations must necessarily await the results of the CAFR. As well articulated by the ALJ in her Initial Decision in Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, Union County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5502-03, Agency Dkt. No. 206-6/03, decided September 26, 2003:

> I have considered the arguments of counsel and must agree with the position espoused by the DOE.Although I agree with the District that the consistent use of the DOE's methodology does not in itself make it correct, I do not agree that simply because it does not work to the District's advantage makes it incorrect. The methodology utilized by the DOE has been applied to all "Abbott Districts" uniformly and has served to increase maintenance budgets in over half of the Districts. The District has not established that the use of this methodology is per se improper, illegal, inconsistent with the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003 or violative of any of its constitutional rights. The DOE is obligated only to utilize an approach that is reasonable and uniformly applied. Here they have done so. If the methodology is to be changed in each area in which an Abbott District is not advantaged, there will be no uniformity or equity to the provision of Abbott funds. Thus, I reject the District's argument and CONCLUDE that the DOE's methodology is reasonable and will not be second-guessed. (Id. at 8)

As such, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the District's Early Childhood Plan adjustment for the 2003-04 school year was properly calculated at $650,011. In so holding, the Commissioner is also mindful that, to the extent that the results of the Department's reasonable approach may be imperfect, even after adjustment following audit, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism for the District to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant.

As to whether the Department appropriately excluded certain of the District's encumbrances in the development of its maintenance budget, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ's analysis erred in concluding that only expenditures fully paid by June 30, 2003 were properly attributable to the 2002-03 budget and all expenditures which remained unpaid after

June 30, 2003 were chargeable to the District's 2003-04 budget, and were not to be included in the calculation of its "maintenance budget." Rather, he finds, the focus of the inquiry in this area is properly the timing of the receipt of goods and services, not payment. The ALJ's analysis appears to reflect a fundamental misunderstanding of the differentiation between the terms "encumbrances" and "accounts payable." Respondent's exceptions explain:

> An encumbrance is an accounting tool that permits Gloucester City to reserve funding for purchase orders that were issued during the 2002-2003 school year, but the goods or services were not received by (sic) as of June 30, 2003. An encumbrance is not an expenditure in the 2002-2003 school year, but rather merely a reservation of fund balance, which may be expended in the 2003-2004 school year if the goods and services are received. By contrast, an account payable is an expenditure which is incurred in the 2002-2003 school year for goods and services actually received or provided prior to June 30, 2003.
>
> With regards (sic) to those purchase orders for goods and services that have not been received or provided before June 30, 2003, they would be rolled over as encumbrances into 2003-2004 school year. As such these purchase orders are properly excluded from the 2003-2004 maintenance calculation, which properly includes only approved goods and services actually provided in the (sic) 2002-2003. They are not to be included in the 2003-2004 maintenance budget for Gloucester City since they have not been received or provided in that year. (emphasis supplied) (Respondent's Exceptions at 5-6)

Therefore, the Commissioner clarifies that, to the extent that the "encumbrances" as discussed in the Initial Decision represent charges for goods and services provided by June 30, 2003, i.e., they have become accounts payable, these are properly chargeable to the District's 2002-03 budget and appropriately included in its "maintenance budget" for 2003-04. Those "encumbrances" representing goods and services not received by that date are properly excluded from the 2003-04 maintenance budget calculation. Petitioner's exceptions assert that the auditor for the District audited certain sections of the District's records, subsequent to June 30, 2003 and immediately prior to the hearing, and, citing Exhibits P-3 and P-6, contends that he found that the Department had failed to allocate certain open encumbrances to 2002-03 expenditures. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 18-19) The Commissioner, while recognizing that it is entirely possible that adjustments in this area are necessary, in light of the District's burden in this regard and based on the proofs brought to the record, is unable to definitively determine which of the District's encumbrances have become accounts payable by virtue of the receipt of the encumbered goods or services on or before June 30, 2003 so as to be considered 2002-03 expenditures. The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that the District's encumbrances were properly excluded as a budget expense for 2002-03 by the Department, and he directs that any required adjustments be made, based on updated information, in the course of the CAFR review scheduled to begin in November 2003.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted in part, rejected in part and modified in part as set forth above. The instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[2] The Commissioner so determines, based upon the proofs brought to this record, while acknowledging that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the CAFR until November 2003. In any event, beyond his determination herein, the Commissioner underscores the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

577-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court.

The ALJ determined that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. The ALJ also concluded that: 1) the Department incorrectly included encumbrances, reserves for inventory and capital reserves in calculating the excess fund balance; 2) the Department erred in including $1,863,652 of unspent salary and benefits funds in calculating the excess fund balance; 3) the sum of $74,349 for transportation should be added to the District's budget as a nondiscretionary item; 4) the District's request for $1,000,000 for No Child Left Behind should be denied as beyond the maintenance standard; and 5) the District's request for $110,543 for its Second Chance Program should be granted.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions with respect to the disputed issues except in three instances wherein the Commissioner rejected the ALJ's findings and concluded that: 1) the Department correctly included encumbrances, reserves for inventory and capital reserves in calculating the excess fund balance; 2) the Department correctly included $1,863,652 in unspent salary and benefit funds in calculating the excess fund balance; and 3) the District's request for $110,543 in additional funds for its Second Chance Program did not comport with the maintenance budget standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 and, therefore, the District's request for additional funds for this program was denied.

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4156-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 190-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Robert A. De Santo, Esq., for petitioner (Gruccio, Pepper, De Santo & Ruth, attorneys)

Jennifer Killaugh-Herrera, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 22, 2003 Decided: September 25, 2003

BEFORE JOHN SCHUSTER III, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appeals the May 30, 2003 determination of the department relating to its 2003-2004 budget and additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid application for the same year. On March 17, 2003, Vineland submitted to the respondent a proposed budget for the 2003-2004 school year. On May 30, 2003, the department issued a decision modifying the proposed budget based on the New Jersey Supreme Court order of July 23, 2003, directing that 2003-2004 budgets should be funded at a level which will enable the district to continue implementing its 2002-2003 approved programs, services and positions (the "maintenance" standard). Onto June 6, 2003, petitioner filed with the Department a Verified Petition of Appeal alleging the respondent was improperly calculating its proposed budget and not applying the practice as set forth in Abbott v. Burke decisions and orders. The matter was then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 9, 2003, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 52:14B-2(b). The respondent filed an Answer to the Verified Petition on June 12, 2003 denying any non-compliance in the budget process. The matter was heard on September 18 and 19, 2003, at the OAL in Mercerville, New Jersey. The record remained opened pending the exchange of supporting documentation so that a stipulation regarding special education costs could be made. The stipulation was confirmed on September 22, 2003, and record closed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Board of Education of the City of Vineland (hereinafter petitioner or Vineland) disputes the calculation by the New Jersey State Department of Education (hereinafter respondent or Department) of its 2003-2004 operating budget. That dispute is significant because the petitioner relies upon supplemental aid provided by the respondent granted pursuant to the line of cases commonly referred to as the Abbott v. Burke decisions. These decisions require the Department to provide certain districts with supplemental financial aid in order for those districts to provide a thorough and efficient education for its students. Pursuant to the recent Supreme Court decision of July 23, 2003, the respondent is to provide to the petitioner supplemental aid in an amount as was provided in the 2002-2003 budget and as adjusted to provide for modifications in expenses which are non-discretionary expenses on the part of the petitioner. This is commonly referred to as the "maintenance" standard and pursuant to emergency regulations adopted by the Department, they are defined as the funding for those programs which were previously approved by the Department and provided by the petitioner in the 2002-2003 school year. The petitioner has argued that the respondent, in calculating Vineland's 2003-2004 budget, violated some basic accounting principles and did not include in its budget calculation various items that should have been included pursuant to the Supreme Court directive. On the other hand, the Department has taken the position that this whole exercise is of minimal consequence because the budget that has been presented by the Department to Vineland is only an interim budget and final numbers will not be determined until the early part of November, 2003, when final calculations are completed. The various issues to be determined in this hearing are enumerated as follows: (1) Did the August 27, 2003 determination letter issued by the Department to Vineland accurately calculate the maintenance standard amount on the approved 2002-2003 budget as mandated by the July 23, 2003 order of the New Jersey Supreme Court? (2) Did the August 27, 2003 determination letter issued by the Department to Vineland correctly calculate the sum of $8,817,650, as the amount of additional excess fund balance that would be available for the 2003-2004 spending? (3) Did the August 27, 2003 determination letter issued by the Department to Vineland properly identify with specificity the Department's approval and disapproval of proposed expenditures in Vineland's 2003-2004 submitted budget?

The petitioner argues that the Department did not appropriately calculate the maintenance standard amount as set forth in the approved 2002-2003 budget and therefore incorrectly calculated the sum of $8,817,650, as the excess fund balance that will be available for the petitioner in the 2003-2004 school year. Vineland further argues that because the Department did not specify which expenditures were approved and which were disapproved, the proposed figures in the respondent's suggested budget did not provide funding for non-discretionary items and/or underprovided for those items. The Department's position is that estimated figures are satisfactory at this stage in the budget process. It argues that even though certain includable expenditures were omitted from the calculation those exclusions are of no consequence because they, along with the review process before this tribunal, is a meaningless exercise until final calculations are made on or about the first week of November. The primary area of dispute is the deductions in the 2002-2003 budget for under-spending in funds 11 and 15, the exclusion of some non-discretionary expenditures and the calculation of the excess fund balance in the proposed 2003-2004 budget. Therefore, the following is an item-by-item review of the evidence presented by the petitioner for modification of the proposed budget.

Excess Fund Balance

The Department has determined that the excess fund balance in the estimated 2003-2004 Vineland budget is $8,817,650. The excess fund balance is an amount which the Department says should be carried over into the 2003-2004 budget as unspent funds or monies on hand that were not spend in the previous year. The petitioner argues that this is an overestimate and the Department's calculations in arriving at this figure does not take into account basic accounting principles for reserves and payables which must be considered. In particular, Vineland points to the audit of its books and records by certified public accountants hired by the New Jersey State Department of Treasury. This audit was performed by Menzoni-Preziosi and Company, P.A., and has been entered into evidence as R-13. Vineland specifically points to Schedule G (page DOE 001236) of that report which recognizes encumbrances and reserves in support of its position (P-4). That schedule lists an adjustment to the surplus balance of $3,714,380 made up of encumbrances (accounts payable) in the amount of $3,041,818, reserves for inventory in the amount of $518,986 and a capital reserve account in the amount of $153,576. Petitioner argues through its Assistant Superintendent for Business and Board Secretary, Kevin J. Franchetta, that the encumbrances and reserves are required to be deducted from the Department's proposed excess fund balance because they are comprised of real debt and monies which must be held in reserve. The Department takes the position that the number it has designated as the excess fund balance is merely an estimate and should not be of any concern, as it is anticipated that a new figure will be determined when the final budget is struck in the beginning of November, 2003. Joseph Kirchon, the Budget Manager for the Department who handled the Vineland request for supplemental aid, testified that the excess fund balance of 8.8 million dollars was an overestimate, but it was his understanding by way of a Department directive that in calculating the excess fund balance he was not to look at setoffs, even though that is customary in accounting practice. I FIND that in determining the excess fund balance, it is acceptable accounting practice as evidenced by the Menzoni-Preziosi audit report that encumbrances and reserves should be included in the calculation of that amount. I therefore CONCLUDE that the excess fund balance as determined by the respondent in the amount of $8,817,650 should be reduced by the existing encumbrances and reserves in the amount of $3,714,380 so that the appropriate excess fund balance should be $5,103,270.

Fund 11 and 15 Adjustments

The Department takes the position that $7,491,019 of the fund 11 and fund 15 accounts remain unspent in the 2002-2003 budget. It says that because it was unspent, it should be a deduction from that budget in calculating the base 2002-2003 state program budget (P-2). Vineland's position is that not all of those moneys should be deducted because some of those funds were for salaries and benefits for positions that were "approved and provided," but paid for from other sources. Quinten J. Phillips, Jr. the Executive Director of Personnel for the Vineland Board of Education testified that he was familiar with this issue and testified to the following facts. In the 2002-2003 school year there were an inordinate amount of leaves of absence without pay, retirements and resignations in its staff. Those positions were filled primarily with substitute teachers or temporary hires which gave the district a one-time cost savings in salaries and benefits. That cost savings amounted to $2,126,478, but would not be duplicated again in the 2003-2004 school year. In addition, there were four other positions that were previously approved and the associated services were provided through outside contractors, substitute teachers or by some other method. Those positions were for a supervisor, speech therapist, music teacher and bilingual math teacher. The total cost in salary and benefits for those positions is $237,204. He further testified the cost to petitioner in the 2002-2003 year to provide those services was approximately $500,000. Vineland is saying that the leaves, retirements, resignations and unfilled full-time positions were all approved and the services of those positions were provided in the 2002-2003 school year and, therefore, should not be taken away in the 2003-2004 school budget as they satisfy the "maintenance" standard. Consequently, Vineland is seeking to have the fund 11 and 15 deduction reduced by the cost of providing these services in the 2003-2004 school year. That cost would be $2,126,478 plus $237,204 in savings less the $500,000 in costs paid to provide those services. That amount is $1,863,652. See P-14.

The respondent argues that leaves, resignations, etc. occur every year and the cost savings are rightfully deducted from the fund 11 and 15 accounts. However, the Department presented no evidence to dispute the testimony of Mr. Phillips that this was an unusual event resulting in part from a higher than normal number of pregnancies. This is in spite of the fact that respondent had audits of petitioner's budgets for the past few years and could have shown that these amounts were not extraordinary if, in fact, they were not.

I FIND that the positions affected by the leaves of absence, retirements and resignations as well as the four unfilled full-time positions were approved in the 2002-2003 budget and the services associated with those positions were provided by the petitioner in various ways. Therefore, those positions meet the maintenance standard and must be deducted from the surplus in the fund 11 and 15 accounts, as they are not likely to be recurrent at least to the extent they were in the prior year. I CONCLUDE that the fund 11 and 15 accounts of $7,491,019 shall be reduced by $1,863,652 so that the proper deduction is $5,627,367. This then changes the base 2002-2003 state program budget to $134,256,430.

Non-Discretionary Additions

Vineland is seeking $2,555,473 in what it characterizes as mandated or non-discretionary expenses that were not considered by respondent. Those expenses are for transportation, the Second-Chance Program special education and the No Child Left Behind Program.

The Department has conceded that special education costs for out-of-district tuition, residential placements and Bayada nurses were omitted from the proposed 2003-2004 budget and should have been included. It has been stipulated that the sum of $1,370,581 be included in the proposed budget as a non-discretionary addition.

With respect to transportation issues, the petitioner is requesting $74,349 in additional funding which is comprised of $66,000 in salary and $8,349 in benefits for six bus drivers. Vineland's Coordinator of Transportation, Joseph D. Callavini, testified that his duties include the coordination of transporting 11,500 students within the district area of 64 square miles to their specific destinations in a timely manner. He stated that during the early part of the 2002-2003 school year, he found it necessary to develop six new routes and add 6 new drivers which he got from the substitute driver pool. Two drivers were needed because students were not arriving to their school early enough for them to participate in the petitioner's School Breakfast Program. Mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:33-10 (P-7). One driver was needed because of an increase enrollment at one of the elementary schools and one driver was needed because of an increase in enrollment at the County Votec facility. He stated that without the additional buses the petitioner would have violated existing regulations by exceeding passenger capacity and that would create obvious safety concerns. Two more drivers were needed to transport additional special education students. He further testified that the substitute drivers were paid from the substitute driver fund resulting in a negative balance in that fund at the end of last year. Both Mr. Callavini and Mr. Phillips testified because these six positions were needed on a full-time basis, they had to be filled with full-time employees and part-time drivers could not be continued to be drawn from the substitute list. To do otherwise would violate both the union contract between the petitioner and the drivers' union as well as the New Jersey Department of Personnel civil service rules.

The respondent takes the position that regardless of the reason why full-time drivers are needed this year, those positions did not exist last year and, therefore, are not permitted under the "maintenance" standard.

I FIND that petitioner is required to provide transportation for its students and it must do so in accordance with adopted regulations, existing union contracts and pursuant to State civil service rules and regulations. I further FIND that the need for six additional drivers has been demonstrated by a preponderance of evidence and the cost for same is reasonable. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the addition of six bus drivers is an allowable non-discretionary item in accordance with the decision of the New Jersey Supreme Court and the sum of $74,349 should be added to the non-discretionary items list.

No Child Left Behind Textbooks, Supplies and Materials

Vineland believes it should receive an extra $1,000,000 in funding to implement its No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Program. Mrs. Marie M. Adair, the Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction testified that the NCLB is a federally-mandated and partially federally-funded program which requires that certain basic standards in language arts and math be met by the year 2014. In addition, that program mandates that until the full standard is met, the districts must show annual improvement in test scores in those areas. Mrs. Adair testified that Vineland is not meeting all of its interim requirements, as improvements are not being continually made in test scores to satisfy the mandates of this program. She testified that in order to rectify that situation, petitioner instituted a number of pilot programs to determine the most effective teaching aids so that continual improvement can be demonstrated in accordance with the program's mandates. She stated that she has developed an improvement plan for the petitioner district which she believes will meet the requirements of this program. That improvement plan will consist of new materials, additional staffing and a coordinated curriculum so that as the students progress in grade, they can build on the foundation that has been previously established for them. This is necessary, she says, to show adequate yearly progress which is a requirement of the NCLB Program. The pilot programs that were tested indicate positive results on the part of the participants. Mrs. Adair testified that in order to meet the annual improvements requirements of the NCLB Program it will be necessary for Vineland to implement the Harcourt Trophies in Waterford Language Arts Program and for mathematical improvements institute the Everyday Mathematics Program in grades K through 6 and the Corps Plus Math Program in grades, 9, 10 and 11, as a supplement for those students who need extra help. The total cost for instituting these three teaching systems would be $1,000,000.

The Department takes the position that instituting these teaching programs is clearly a change in the curriculum and one that was not previously "approved and provided" by the petitioner. Therefore, the Department argues, that these expenses are beyond the "maintenance" standard set by the Supreme Court. In addition, the Department states that in this year of severe budget crunching, the petitioner will have to make due with what was has been in existence and although improvements are desirable at this time there is not available funding to provide for them.

I FIND that the Department's position is correct, in that the implementation of new teaching devices reach beyond the "maintenance" standard of those devices that were previously approved and provided by the District. I therefore DENY Vineland's request for any funding to modify its No Child Left Behind Program.

Second Chance Program

Vineland is requesting $110,543 in additional funding for its Second Chance Program. Dr. Keith Figgs, the Assistant Superintendent for Administration, testified on behalf of Vineland that the petitioner's Second Chance Program is part of the mandated Required Programs for Secondary Schools which he says the Department requires be in place. Dr. Figgs testified that N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4(j) states: "The Board shall implement its department-approved plan providing for the establishment of an alternative middle school and high school, or other comparable program, to meet the needs of students who are disaffected or disruptive or who have not been successful in traditional learning environments." Dr. Figgs stated that Vineland has an alternative program called its Second Chance Program for those students who don't deal well in the standard high school setting. The program was established some years ago and was approved by the State Department of Education. It called for a seven-hour standard education day at the same time as the normal high school program ran, but at a separate facility. The program was instituted but because the separate facility was not approved by the Department, the petitioner unilaterally modified it to become an after-school program running from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. This creates obvious difficulties, in that it is very difficult to find instructors to work those hours and it eliminated participants of the program from partaking in extracurricular activities and it allowed the students who are most in need to be unsupervised for the better part of the day. Because of new construction, students in one of the district's buildings were able to be moved to a section of another building and their vacation allowed the Second Chance Program to be run in that vacated facility. The program could then become a seven-hour-a-day program like the regular high school and run during the day simultaneously with the regular high school programs as was previously approved by the Department. Dr. Figgs testified Vineland's after-school program that was in existence in the 2002-2003 school year does not comply with the program that was approved by the Department. Using the new facility, however, will bring the program into compliance by making it a full-day matriculated program. Currently, students who attend the program full-time can only earn 30 credits a year and the modified program will allow students to earn 35 credits a year. This will allow them to graduate with the required 140 credits in 4 years. Dr. Figgs testified that to bring the program from where it currently is to what was previously approved would require an art teacher whose salaries and benefits will total $52,267, a full-time secretary whose salary and benefits will total $28,674 and a custodian whose salary and benefits will total $29,602. The total for these positions would be $110,543. Dr. Figgs further testified that modifying the Second Chance Program from an after-school program to a full-day program is most important for the students who need it the most. It will allow the disaffected students to assimilate into the student population, participate in extracurricular activities, remove them from being unsupervised until 2 p.m. and provide them with a matriculated program so that they can either enter the regular high school program or graduate in a timely manner or do both.

The Department takes the position that although these are worthy goals, the regulations do not provide that the program has to be in a separate facility or exist for any given number of hours. Nor does it say that it cannot be an after-school program. The Department takes the position that any increase in funding for this program is violative of the "maintenance" standard, in that it is an expansion of the existing program and not the same as the one that was previously provided.

I FIND that there is a substantial difference in value to the students affected and society in general between an alternative program that provides the bare minimum to its participants and one which is likely to make a substantial impact on the educational progress of those students. I further FIND that the aforesaid regulation implies that the implementation of a department-approved plan means an effective department-approved plan. In this case, the Department approved a full-day program and Vineland would have same but for the fact that the facility it proposed was not satisfactory to the Department. As an interim measure, Vineland then modified its program to an after-school program which has obvious disadvantages. Now Vineland is requesting that its Second Chance Program previously approved and provided be modified to a minor extent so that it become an effective department-approved plan to satisfy the needs of the disaffected and disruptive students within its district. I CONCLUDE that this minor adjustment in implementing the previously Department-approved plan does not violate the Supreme Court "maintenance" standard since providing an effective plan is mandated by regulation and there is no mandate that the "maintenance" standard required total inflexibility when implementing its provisions.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

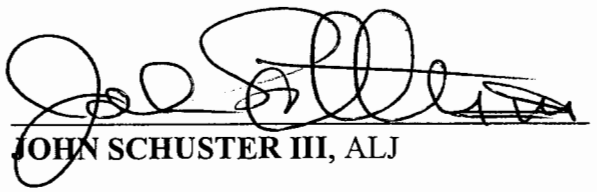
This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 25, 2003
DATE



JOHN SCHUSTER III, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9-25-03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9-25-03
DATE

jh

WITNESSES

For the petitioner:

Kevin J. Franchetta

Joseph P. Kirchon

Marie M. Adair

Joseph D. Callavini

Quinten J. Phillips, Jr.

Dr. Keith Figgs

Edward J. Rochetti

Dr. Clarence C. Hoover, III

For the respondent:

Joseph P. Kirchon

EXHIBITS

For the petitioner:

P-1 State of New Jersey, Determination Letter, August 27, 2003

P-2 DOE calculation of Supplemental Aid

P-3 Petitioner's calculations of Supplemental Aid

P-4 Auditors Schedule G 2003 Projected Surplus

P-5 Synopsis of petitioner's calculations for excess fund balance

P-6 No Child Left Behind packet

P-7 Statute 18A:33-9 and 18A:33-10

P-8 Summary of need for six new bus drivers

P-9 Summary of non-discretionary additions

P-10 Petitioner's adjusted 2003-2004 Supplemental Funding calculations

P-11 Resignations for 2002-2003 year

P-12 Retirements 2002-2003 year

P-13 Leave of Absence without Pay 2002-2003 year

P-14 Petitioner's summary of unexpended funds

P-15 N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.4

P-16 Department (Mr. Kirchon) Worksheet for CPI

For the respondent:

R-1 Revised 2003-2004 Budget for Vineland Board of Education, March 17, 2003

R-4 2002-2003 Approved Budget for Vineland Board of Education, July 31, 2002

R-13 Audit Report of Menzoni-Preziosi and Company, CPA, August 18, 2003

Joint exhibit:

J-1 Supporting documents 7B of District Budget

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4156-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 190-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department of Education's (Department) decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Both the Vineland School District's (District) exceptions and the Department's exceptions were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also,

[1]In its exceptions, the Department points out that the procedural history set forth in the Initial Decision does not include an essential component to this matter in that there is no reference to the August 27, 2003 determination letter in which the Department issued the District's preliminary maintenance discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the 2003-04 school year. (Department's Exceptions at 2-3) In its exceptions, the District also includes a copy of a letter to the ALJ in which it points out that the District is located in Cumberland County, rather than Gloucester County, and that the Initial Decision makes no mention of the District's appeal of the August 27, 2003 determination letter. (Letter of September 30, 2003 to ALJ Schuster submitted with the District's Exceptions)

Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). However, to the extent that he may appropriately do so in an administrative proceeding, the Commissioner opines that the regulation at issue is fully consistent with the language and intent of the Court. Thus, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds the regulatory definition controlling herein, with no conflict between it and the underlying Court order. Accordingly, the Department's application of such regulatory definition in its review and approval of the District's 2003-04 budget is appropriate.

Moreover, upon a thorough review of the record and the parties' exceptions, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination denying the District's request for funding to modify its No Child Left Behind Program (NCLB) in that the District's proposed NCLB improvement plan, which involves the addition of new materials and additional staffing, is beyond the "maintenance" standard set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. The Commissioner also concurs that the addition of six bus drivers at a cost of $74,349 is an allowable, nondiscretionary item in that the District is required to provide for the transportation of its students in accordance with regulations, union contracts and State civil service regulations. Additionally, the Commissioner points out that the parties stipulated at hearing that the sum of $1,370,581 is to be included in the District's proposed budget as a nondiscretionary addition for "out-of district tuition, residential placements and Bayada nurses." (Initial Decision at 6 and Letter on Behalf of the Department of September 22, 2003) With respect to these issues, therefore, the Commissioner accepts and adopts the ALJ's factual findings and determines that his analysis and legal conclusions are consistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, as well as the Department's regulatory amendments adopted on August 22, 2003.

However, the Commissioner does not concur with the ALJ's finding that the Department erred in calculating the District's projected general fund balance by including encumbered funds in the amount of $3,041,818. The Commissioner believes that the ALJ's analysis reflects a fundamental misunderstanding of the differentiation between the terms "encumbrances" and "accounts payable." In the context of close out procedures for the 2002-03 budget year, an encumbrance is an accounting tool that permits a school district to set aside funds for purchase orders that were issued during the 2002-03 school year for goods or services that were not received as of June 30, 2003. Unpaid purchase orders reserved as encumbrances on the June 30 general fund balance sheet, therefore, reflect liabilities to be honored in the next fiscal year for goods and services not received by June 30. For goods and services received and/or provided by June 30, 2003, the encumbrances become accounts payable on the general fund balance sheet. Thus, encumbrances should not be deducted from a district's fund balance as of June 30, 2003, because the underlying goods and services were not actually received in the 2002-03 school year. See N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, defining a maintenance budget as "a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions."

The Commissioner points out that, in the matter entitled Board of Education of the City of Burlington v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Commissioner Decision No. 581-03, decided October 20, 2003, Keith Costello, Budget Manager/Examiner for the Department of Education, Office of Abbott Implementation, testified that, by memo dated September 16, 2003 to all school districts, Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg addressed the procedures to be followed for open purchase orders and encumbrances on the school district's books as of June 30. The September 16, 2003 memo states, in pertinent part:

> Open purchase orders at June 30, 200X should be classified into the following two categories for review and reclassification:
>
> 1. Category one represents purchase orders for which the goods have been received or the services have been rendered at June 30th that have not been paid. These purchase orders must be expensed in the current audit period, the related encumbrances reversed, and a liability (accounts payable) established. If the invoice has not been received the amount must be estimated. In accordance with GAAP, an expenditure is recorded when goods are received or services are rendered.

2. Category two represents purchase orders which will be honored in the subsequent year. These purchase orders will be rolled over into the next fiscal year and will be shown in the June 30th general fund balance sheet as a reserve for encumbrances. Per NCGA Statement 1, paragraph 91 "encumbrances outstanding at year-end represent the estimated amount of the expenditures ultimately to result if unperformed contracts in process at year-end are completed. Encumbrances outstanding at year-end do not constitute expenditures or liabilities." (emphasis in text) (Exhibit R-1, in evidence) (Board of Education of the City of Burlington v. New Jersey State Department of Education, slip opinion at 17)

Accordingly, category one purchase orders and the related encumbrances are to be considered 2002-03 fiscal year expenditures in applying N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, but category two purchase orders are considered expenditures in the 2003-04 fiscal year and, thus, are not to be included in development of a "maintenance budget" for the 2003-04 school year pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

Assuming the District properly complied with the procedures set forth in the above-mentioned Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg's letter of September 16, 2003, encumbrances for goods and services received by June 30, 2003 were to be reversed and a liability (accounts payable) established. The District's encumbrances outstanding at year-end, therefore, represent the estimated amount of the expenditures ultimately to result if unperformed contracts in process at year-end are completed, and, thus, encumbrances outstanding at year-end do not constitute expenditures or liabilities. In its exceptions, the Department avers that:

> Petitioner's Assistant Superintendent for Business and Board Secretary, Kevin J. Franchetta, testified that the projected encumbrance amount is an estimate and that the true amount will not be determined until the [Comprehensive Annual Financial Report] CAFR is issued. In fact, Mr. Franchetta testified that it is likely that the projected encumbrance amount will be reduced once the CAFR is issued.[2] (Department's Exceptions at 4)

Although there is no dispute that expenditures for goods and/or services received by June 30, 2003 should be deducted from the District's fund balance, based on Mr. Franchetta's statement that the encumbrance amount is an estimate and the proofs brought to this record,[3] the Commissioner is unable to determine which, if any, of the District's encumbrances have become accounts payable by virtue of the receipt of the encumbered goods or services on or before June 30, 2003 so as to be considered 2002-03 expenditures. The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that it was entirely appropriate and consistent with general accounting practices, the procedures provided to school districts in Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg's letter of September 16, 2003 for the processing of year-end purchase orders, and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 to include the encumbered funds in the fund balance calculation. Any adjustments to be made will be based on updated information with respect to the June 30, 2003 encumbrances and accounts payable for the 2002-03 school budget year in the course of the review of the CAFR scheduled to begin in November 2003.

The Commissioner also finds that the District, which has the burden of proof in this matter, failed to demonstrate on the record that inventory reserves in the amount of $518,986 and $153,576 in the capital reserve account[4] represent actual District obligations. The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that the Department appropriately included these reserve funds in the fund balance calculation. As with the encumbrances, any adjustments to be made will be based on updated information in the course of reviewing the CAFR in November 2003.

---

[2] The Commissioner notes that the District did not file a reply to these exceptions and, thus, apparently does not dispute the Department's representation of Mr. Franchetta's testimony.

[3] The Commissioner acknowledges that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the CAFR until November 2003.

[4] Although districts are required to establish a capital reserve account, there is no fund balance requirement. See N.J.A.C. 6A:26-9.1.

As a result of the Commissioner's conclusions with respect to the appropriateness of the Department's inclusion of encumbrances and reserves in its fund balance calculation, the Department's determination that the District's excess fund balance is $8,817,650 remains unaltered, subject to adjustment following the CAFR.

The Commissioner also does not agree with the ALJ's conclusion that, since District positions affected by leaves of absences, retirements and resignations, as well as four unfilled positions, were approved positions and the services were provided in the 2002-03 budget year, although through the use of substitutes and temporary hires, those positions meet the maintenance standard so that the District's fund 11 and 15 accounts should be reduced by $1,863,652, which increases the District's base 2002-03 program budget from 132,392,778 to $134,256,430. (Initial Decision at 5-6) The Commissioner finds that the ALJ's conclusion is inconsistent with the Court's directive and the maintenance standard which required the Department to consider only actual expenditures stemming from goods and services provided in 2002-03 so as to establish a maintenance budget for 2003-04.

Notwithstanding the District's assertion at hearing that, in the 2002-03 school year there were an inordinate number of leaves of absences without pay, retirements, resignations and a higher than normal number of pregnancies which resulted in one-time costs savings in salaries and benefits, the Commissioner points out that teachers take leaves of absences for pregnancies or other reasons every year and that resignations and retirements[5] are also a common occurrence every year. Moreover, although the District provided a lengthy list of individuals who took leaves of absence, retired or resigned during the 2002-03 school year, the District did not bring information to the record to substantiate its claim that the numbers in these various categories and the cost savings resulting therefrom substantially differed from previous years, nor did it explain how it reached the conclusion that the number of pregnancies experienced by the District during 2002-03 could not be expected to continue into the 2003-04 school year. The ALJ states that his conclusions are based, in part, on the fact that "the Department presented no evidence to dispute the testimony of Mr. Phillips that this was an unusual event resulting in part from a higher than normal number of pregnancies." (Initial Decision at 5) However, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c), the District bears the burden of proving that the Department's calculations were unreasonable or otherwise improper and the Commissioner finds that the District failed to meet its burden.

[5] The Commissioner notes that, with the advent of the "baby boomers" reaching retirement age, the number of retirements may actually increase in the 2003-04 budget year.

In this regard, the Commissioner emphasizes that the Department's charge in this matter was to determine the level of 2003-04 funding that would enable the district to continue in a "maintenance" mode, that is, to implement in 2003-04 the programs, services and positions provided in 2002-03. While it is true that dollar amounts paid out prior to June 30, 2003 will not necessarily reflect the actual costs of the positions provided that year, nor can they perfectly predict the actual cost of providing them in the next, it is equally true that originally budgeted amounts and other similar projections are no less imprecise. Thus, in the Commissioner's view, a methodology which preliminarily establishes the 2003-04 cost of providing funding for positions by determining, as nearly as possible without benefit of audit, the actual approved cost of providing them in 2002-2003 and then allowing for reasonable, nondiscretionary adjustments, is a uniform, fair and rational method for estimating future expenditures, such as the costs associated with salaries and benefits, which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision. To the extent that results may be imperfect, even after adjustment following audit, N.J.A.C. 6A: 10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant. Thus, the Commissioner wholly endorses the Department's fundamental methodology and determines that the Department acted appropriately in deducting $1,863,652 from the 2002-03 base budget so as to establish the District's 2003-04 maintenance budget.

Finally, turning to the District's request for $110,543 in additional funding for its Second Chance Program, the Commissioner concludes that any increase for this program to expand its hours of operation, notwithstanding the merits of doing so, does not comport with the maintenance budget standard set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. In so determining, the Commissioner points out his disagreement with the ALJ's conclusion that "the implementation of a department-approved plan means an effective department-approved plan" (emphasis in text) (Initial Decision at 10), noting that the District, which has the burden in this matter, did not present any evidence that the existing Second Chance Program, which was approved by the Department as a standard education day of seven hours but has been in existence for some time as a five-hour program, has been ineffective. The District, instead, claims that the students in the program would be better served by an expanded program. The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that the Department was correct in rejecting the $110,543 request in additional funding for the Second Chance Program.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts in part and rejects in part the ALJ's findings and conclusions in the Initial Decision as set forth herein.[6]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[6] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

578-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court.

The ALJ found that the Department appropriately applied the duly promulgated rule implementing the Court's order for "maintenance," and that, accordingly, programs, services and positions must have been actually provided or filled in 2002-03 in order to be aided for 2003-04. On this basis, the ALJ rejected District claims for inclusion of approved and budgeted, but unfilled, 2002-03 positions, and textbook purchases approved as part of the District's long-range curriculum plan but eliminated from the 2002-03 budget. The ALJ also found, however, that, under the Court-ordered exception for "non-discretionary expenses," the Department erred in excluding certain expenses associated with salary increases and contractual bonuses.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's general conclusions, as well as his findings with respect to the unfilled staff positions and textbooks. However, the Commissioner rejected the Board's claims for salary increases over 5% and monies to cover employee/retiree bonuses for which no evidence of contractual or other obligation was brought to the record.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 05495-03

Agency Dkt. No. 192-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON,

Petitioners,

v.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY, DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent

Ronald C. Hunt, Esq., for petitioner
(Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)

Francine Kaplan, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 10, 2003 Decided: September 24, 2003

BEFORE BARRY N. FRANK, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Irvington Board of Education is one of the twenty-eight (28) "special needs" school districts. It serves children in financially disadvantaged communities and has been designated as Abbott districts. Accordingly, pursuant to an Order of the New Jersey Supreme Court and pursuant to Abbott v. Burke 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V), the State Department of Education ("DOE) has been ordered to increase funding to these districts so that the ability to achieve and adhere to the core curriculum contents standards.

On March 24, 2003, the Commissioner of Education moved before the New Jersey Supreme Court for relief from some of the mandates of Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). Essentially, the relief sought for the fiscal 2003-2004 school year which was processed was a request that a maintenance standard be adhered to for the coming year. Essentially, this maintenance standard means that state aid eliminate in the fiscal 2003-2004 school year support for the programs, positions, services and other items that were not in the district's approval budget for fiscal year 2002-2003.

The motion was responded to by the Education Law Center which also cross-moved requesting an expedited schedule with regard to the review and approval of the Abbott school district budgets and the appeals that arose from said budgetary process. Various parties were ordered into mediation before the Hon. Philips Carchman, J.A.D. All issues were resolved during this mediation with the exception of the issues revolving around the fiscal year 2003-2004 budgetary process.

On May 30, 2003, the Department of Education rendered decisions in all of the Abbott budgets using the maintenance standard and requested these decisions be approved by the court. Twenty-three districts including the petitioner, Irvington School District, filed appeals from those decisions and ultimately the appeals were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL").

An issue essential to all of the appeals was that of the proper standard for approving the 2003-2004 fiscal year budget.

The New Jersey Supreme Court on June 24, 2003, rendered an Order adopting the terms of the mediation agreement and scheduled oral argument for July 10, 2003 on the remaining issues as to whether or not the maintenance issue would be applied to the fiscal year 2003-2004 budget. On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court rendered a final Order served upon the Commissioner, granting the application for the Abbott file remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 fiscal year budgetary process. In that Order, the New Jersey Supreme Court stated:

> The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as maintenance year for purposes of calculating additional Abbott v. Burke state aide for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K through 12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to continuance and conditions set forth in this Order.
>
> (July 23 Order at p. 4)

The New Jersey Supreme Court Order went on to state:

> A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in nondiscretionary expenditures. Examples of nondiscretionary expenditures are increases in contracted in salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or any programs, positions, or services, except in respect of paragraph 2c of the court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision
>
> (July 23 Order at p. 5)

The New Jersey Supreme Court also ordered that:

> For purposes of calculating additional Abbott v. Burke state aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to relent administrative > controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the district's noninstructional programs.

>
> (July 23 Order at pp. 5-6)

In response to the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order, the Commissioner created regulations pursuant to an Order of August 22, 2003 and created N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 which states and defines the maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year as follows:

> For the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at levels such as the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services and positions and includes documented increases and nondiscretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of nondiscretionary expenditures or increases in contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's Order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v Burke. Maintenance also does not include nonrecurring 2002-2003 expenditures. (N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2)

Ultimately on August 27, 2003, the DOE forwarded a letter to the Irvington school district reducing its 2003-2004 budget from $137,639,687.00 to $118,292,283.36. The district appealed this determination and said appeal was before the trial court which reduced it to central issues, namely whether or not all instructional and noninstructional staff positions which had been budgeted and fully approved in the 2002-2003 school budget but not filled during that school year but should be rebudgeted into the 2003-2004 school year under the definition of a maintenance standard.

The secondary issue is that of whether or not the district's long range curriculum for 2003-2004 which essentially consists of funding for textbooks constitute part of the maintenance budget even though no textbooks were purchased during the 2002-2003 school year under this program.

Hearings on the above stated issues were conducted as a result of the appeal of the school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7f-3 and in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.1 et seq. on August 29, 2003 and September 3, 2003. Subsequent to these two hearing dates, the record was held open for post-hearing submissions and was ultimately closed with the receipt of these post-hearing submissions on September 10, 2003.

TESTIMONY

Respondent presented its case first putting on its witness, Mr. Michael Arizechi who is the budget manager for the DOE and is charged with reviewing among other district budgets those of the petitioner.

Mr. Arizechi went through the various numbers utilized in arriving at the $118,292,283.36 and presented various Exhibits explaining his calculations. Mr. Arizechi testified that he used certain set percentages to standardly reduce certain requests made by petitioner and that these percentages were applied to monies actually spent by petitioner's school board as opposed to monies that were actually budgeted and approved in the 2002-2003 school year. Mr. Arizechi further testified and cross-examination confirmed that if monies had been budgeted and not expended for 2002-2003 school year, as far as Mr. Arizechi was concerned, the position was taken that monies not spent constituted a surplus. Any monies not expended in the previous budgetary year including monies that had been budgeted and approved applicable to the positions that were not filled or only partially filled, then any funds not spent and allocated to these positions were seen as surplus and as far as Mr. Arizechi was concerned would not be deemed to be included in the maintenance budget for the following school year. Essentially, this witness testified that such numbers were reduced on unexpended funds deemed surplus and this would also include the five year textbook program which has been ongoing since 1999 but apparently showed no expenditures made in 2002-2003 and therefore he would not honor the request for full funding of same for the 2003-2004 budget as he deemed this not to be a maintenance item.

At the completion of respondent's case, petitioner pled his case and the first witness to testify was Victor R. Demming who was employed by the Irvington Board of Education as an assistant supervisor for business and was also the Board's secretary. This witness apparently handles all fiscal issues for the Board of Education and develops its budgets and so forth.

Mr. Demming testified as to the difficulties the school district was having due to the reduced budget provided for by the DOE. More specifically, Mr. Demming testified that administrative and teaching positions that had been fully funded and approved in the 2002-2003 school year were not provided for in the 2003-2004 school year. Mr. Demming testified that apparently the reason this was not done by the DOE was that certain positions could not be filled during the 2002-2003 school year because the appropriate individuals could not be found. Mr. Demming further testified certain individuals quit in the middle of the year mandating temporary replacements and that in those situations where a position had not been filled, certain temporary individuals were hired; part-time individuals were hired to take up the slack. In any event, Mr. Demming introduced into evidence Exhibits P-1A – E which list in detail the various professional and nonprofessional positions for the 2002-2003 school year and indicated those that had been filled during that year, the salary paid and any differential in said salary.

Mr. Demming testified that the need for the various positions that had been fully approved in 2002-2003 school year had not changed and indeed were more acute for the upcoming 2003-2004 school year. Mr. Demming testified that he felt that under the maintenance standard, since these positions had been fully funded for the 2002-2003 school year, they should once again be fully funded in the 2003-2004 school year. Therefore, he was requesting all funds that had been deducted as a result of monies not spent for these positions in the approved new budget be fully restored. Mr. Demming further testified that the reduction of the budget had directly impacted the school district's ability to hire for the coming school year and fill its vacancies as the money is not there.

Mr. Demming also testified with regard to the textbooks that needed to be purchased by the district. Mr. Demming testified that the district has a five year program or plan to put into effect to revise the curriculum and purchase textbooks. This plan began in 1999 and was to be completed by 2004. He indicated that the acquisition of textbooks was designed to meet the "curriculum" standards and that the Irvington school district is level II state monitoring district and in order to get out of this position, certain improvements had been made including upgrading the curriculum and of course included in that upgrading would be the purchase of new textbooks needed to replace outdated textbooks or needed to be used in appropriate upgrading of school programs for the benefit of the students. Mr. Demming testified that under this five year program purchases were not made in 2002-2003 because the budget approved during that year precluded such purchases but they have been budgeted by the school district before being reduced by the DOE and excluded. Mr. Demming asserted that in his opinion such purchases given the five year program that was in effect were covered by the maintenance budget and should be restored in the 2003-2004 school year.

I FIND the testimony of both witnesses involved to be fully credible and believable. The issue is not the credibility of the testimony of the witnesses but rather the monetary amounts requested by the school district and denied by the Department of Education. Appropriate funding according to the maintenance standards is defined by the New Jersey Supreme Court in which regulations promulgated by the DOE are set forth.

DISCUSSION

Petitioner is arguing essentially two issues. The Irvington school district submits that only instructional and noninstructional staff positions which were budgeted and approved in the 2002-2003 school budget, hence, fully funded should once again be fully funded under the maintenance standard for the 2003-2004 school year even if those positions were unfilled or were vacant or were somehow abandoned by individuals leaving the school district during the 2002-2003 school year. Petitioner quotes the language of the New Jersey Supreme Court in the Order dated July 23, 2003 relating to the Abbott cases which states in paragraph 2 as follows:

> The Statewide aggregate amount of additional Abbott v. Burke state aid shall be presumptively calculated as the total amount of additional Abbott v. Burke state aid approved for Abbott district for fiscal year 2002-2003, subject to adjustments as required for maintenance budget. The maintenance budget shall mean that the district will be funded at the level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services and positions and therefore includes documented increases in nondiscretionary expenditures or increases in contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition . . .(emphasis added)
>
> See Abbott Order of July 23, 2003, pp. 4-5. Also See pp. 4-5 of Briefs submitted by petitioner

Petitioner argues that the language set forth in the New Jersey Supreme Court's case is clear. Petitioner argues that the phrase "current approved programs" means all programs that were fully funded during the 2002-2003 school year. If that interpretation is accepted, then even though positions were not filled, those positions were provided for and fully budgeted and agreed upon, the same amount of money should be fully restored and reimplemented under a maintenance standard during the 2003-2004 school year.

This issue was addressed by the Hon. Joseph F. Martone in Neptune Twp. BOE v. State of New Jersey, Dep't. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4096-03 (decided September 11, 2003). In this case, Judge Martone wrestled with the issue of whether or not the New Jersey Supreme Court wrote a definition of maintenance standard which conflicted with the rules promulgated by the DOE under the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order, namely, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 et. seq. Judge Martone had to deal with how one interpreted the DOE regulations in the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order with regard to how the term "current" approved programs are defined. If petitioner's interpretation is accepted, then obviously any program, services, or positions that were fully funded and approved in 2002-2003 school year would be deemed maintenance programs and would have to be fully funded and approved for the 2003-2004 school year even though those positions were not filled. Judge Martone, however, in analyzing the New Jersey Supreme Court's language and the language set forth in the DOE regulation concluded that "use of the adjective 'current' rather than the adverb 'currently' implies that the program, services, and positions must be in existence in order to be funded." In other words, if as was the case in the 2002-2003 school budget, the positions were not filled or remained vacant in the 2003-2004 school year, these positions would effectively be no longer in existence as they are not being implemented. This being the case, then the DOE is quite correct in reducing the Irvington district's school budget by the unspent amount and then adding on their just percentage to arrive at the maintenance budget which is standard for the 2003-2004 school year.

Judge Martone in his decision at p. 9 also goes on to state:

> The language ultimately adopted by the Supreme Court to define "maintenance budget" is also reflected in the language contained in the DOE's proposal which is attached to the report of the Abbott mediation (April 29, 2003). The language proposed by the DOE is as follows: maintenance means that a district will be funded at a level that will enable it to continue implementing the current approved program, services and positions and therefore includes actual documenting increases and nondiscretionary expenditures. (emphasis added)

Judge Martone in reviewing the above cited language concludes that under the maintenance standard any programs that had been approved along with any services and positions that had been approved had to be currently in existence for their funding to be continued under the maintenance standard. I fully concur with Judge Martone and believe that based on that definition, petitioner's argument cannot stand. If positions were not filled during the 2002-2003 school year, any funds not expended do become surplus and were appropriately subtracted from the 2003-2004 school budget with a percentage then added on to make up for the increased funding that might be required. There are certainly mechanisms available to the school district for emergency funding should they deem it necessary with regard to staffing needs.

The school district also is seeking to recover monies that were deducted from its budget arguably for "negotiated contract and salary increases for several of the district's bargaining units as well as payments through retirees, contracts and bonuses for transportation employees." Specifically, funds which were earmarked for the district's paraprofessional and secretary's bargaining units representing salary increases for 2002-2003 were reduced by the Department's "adjustments" of budget. As per the court's order of July 23, 2003, maintenance budget included . . . "examples of nondiscretionary expenditures or increases in contract and salaries." (See p. 6 of petitioner's Brief).

The issues regarding contractual increases for ongoing employees as well as contracted bonuses to retirees and a contract bonus for transportation employees is a totally different issue. In this instance, the petitioner is seeking to recover monies needed for salary increases for paraprofessional and secretaries who are currently employed as well as contracted bonuses for members of the district's transportation unit. It is also the amount of monies that are contractually due retirees. These monies involve vacation, sick time and personal days. Petitioner submits that all of these payments are mandatory and protected by the maintenance budget standard and analysis. The sum of monies involved here is a total of $300,000.00 with regard to salary increases for the paraprofessionals and secretaries and $295,118.00 in outstanding payments for the retirees.

I totally concur with petitioner's analysis and find it 100% in line with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order. Under that Order and the maintenance standard defined by said Order, and under the DOE's emergency regulations, the total of $595,118.00 involved was improperly subtracted from the budget. Salary increases and outstanding essentially contracted payments due retirees is mandatory and not discretionary. The result is the figures and mandatory payments are applicable to petitioner's said existing budget for the 2002-2003 school year as well as outstanding obligations that were in existence in 2002-2003 school year. Consequently, these items under the maintenance standard analysis as payable in the new budget, namely, the 2003-2004 school year budget and should not have been deducted from that budget. Therefore, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the $300,000.00 representing salary increases for the paraprofessionals and secretaries concurrently employed by the school district must be returned to 2003-2004 school year budget under the maintenance standard analysis. I further CONCLUDE that the $295,118.00 in outstanding payments due to retirees is contractual in nature, existed during the 2002-2003 school year budget and must be fully restored to the 2003-2004 school year budget under the maintenance standard.

Petitioner argues that it has been managing money in the long range 5 year curriculum program which commenced in 1999 and stayed until 2004. Petitioner argues that the program itself should be viewed as a "current" program in 2002-2003 for purposes of the maintenance budget analysis. In accordance with Exhibit P-3, petitioner is seeking $637,000.00 for the textbooks that were purchased and included in the requested 2003-2004 school year budget.

Petitioner's witness testified that these textbooks are critical items and are needed for the school district to meet the state's core curriculum content standard. Petitioner also argues that in a disadvantaged community, the need for improved textbooks and replaced updated textbooks is fundamental to the operation of any school district, especially those school districts in the disadvantaged communities that are meant to be served and benefited by the Abbott decisions.

The issue is then whether or not these textbooks fall within the maintenance standard. Unfortunately, I must CONCLUDE that they do not. Petitioner admits in the testimony before me that the request for these items were eliminated from the 2002-2003 agreed upon school budget and was not provided for in that budget. Under any definition of maintenance standard, the fact that the textbooks were excluded from the 2002-2003 school year budget means that they cannot be included in the maintenance standard definition during the 2003-2004 school year. Clearly, there are other mechanisms that the school district can pursue and other applications that the school district can make should the need for these books be deemed critical for the operation of the school district itself. Therefore, I must CONCLUDE that funding for the textbooks do not fall within the maintenance standards as defined by the July 23, 2003 Order of the New Jersey Supreme Court and education regulations for $637,000.00 sought for textbooks in the 2003-2004 school year and the Department of Education properly removed them from the 2003-2004 proposed budget as not adhering to the maintenance standard. That is not to say that there might not be any other emergency programs or applications that can be made to recover this funding but this court has no authority to do so under maintenance standard and rules and definitions handed down to it by the New Jersey Supreme Court and the DOE regulations.

Based upon my review of the foregoing, I in summary CONCLUDE that the DOE's figures provided as the budgetary amounts for the Irvington school district are appropriate in all respects with the exception of the $300,000.00 which was deducted for salary increases for the paraprofessionals and secretaries which should be restored with the DOE district's budget together with the $295,118.00 in outstanding payments to retirees which also should be restored to the district's budget as both amounts are contractual and under the maintenance standard should be included in the 2003-2004 school year budget and were improperly subtracted from same.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the maintenance standard set forth in the July 23, 2003 Order of the New Jersey Supreme Court and as defined by the Department of Education regulations set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 et seq., to be properly followed mandates that the $300,000.00 pertaining to salary increases for paraprofessionals and secretaries as well as contracted bonuses for the districts be restored to the 2003-2004 budget and that in addition, it is further ORDERED that the $295,118.00 in outstanding payments contractually due retirees which was removed by the DOE and reduced pertaining to vacation and sick time which is also contractual in nature should be fully restored and placed back into the 2003-2004 school year budget as maintenance items included under the maintenance standard.

It is further ORDERED that the budget handed down and returned to the Irvington Board of Education school district should remain intact subject to the above described modifications.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 24, 2003
DATE

BARRY M. FRANK, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9/24/03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:
(and faxed to Ronald Hunt, Esq.)

9/24/03
DATE

APPENDIX

Witnesses:

For Petitioner

Victor R. Demming
Michael J. Steele

For Respondent

Michael Arizechi

Exhibits:

Petitioner

P-1 Irvington BOE Retail Appropriations Budget 2003-2004

P-1
a-b Irvington BOE Selected Salary Budget 2003-2004

P-1c Irving BOE Analysis of State Program Spending

P-1d Irvington BOE Analysis of State Program Spending

P-1e Irvington BOE Retail Appropriations Budget 2003-2004

P-2 Irvington BOE Current and Revised Renewal Rates Health Benefits 2003-2004

P-3 Rationale for Textbook Purchases

Respondent

R-1 Letter from Gordon MacInnes, dated August 27, 2003

R-2 Irvington BOE Abbott District Budget Review

R-3 Irvington BOE Budget 2002-2003

R-4 Irvington BOE School Budget Statement 2002-2003

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5495-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 192-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Department's exceptions with respect to salary increases and retiree/employee bonuses were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition, and no reply was filed by the Board.[1]

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the "maintenance" standard established by the Court, and embodied in implementing regulation, requires programs, services and positions to have been actually provided or filled in 2002-03 in order to be aided for 2003-04. Thus, the Commissioner agrees that amounts attributable to approved and budgeted, but unfilled, 2002-03 positions were properly deducted from the District's 2003-04 "maintenance" budget, as were funds for the purchase of textbooks approved as part of the District's long-range curriculum plan but eliminated from the 2002-03 school budget.

[1] The Board attempted to submit, on October 14, 2003, exceptions to the Initial Decision, briefly reiterating the Board's position and bearing a face date of October 10, 2003. However, pursuant to the ALJ's direction and a telefaxed notice from the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, exceptions in this matter were due on October 1, 2003; indeed, they would have been due on October 8, 2003 even under normal OAL rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Accordingly, they are not considered herein.

With respect to increases for salaries, however, the Commissioner does not agree with the ALJ's analysis. The Department's overall charge in this matter was to determine the level of 2003-04 funding that would enable the District to continue in a "maintenance" mode, that is, to implement in 2003-04 the programs, services and positions provided in 2002-03. While it is true that dollar amounts actually paid out for staffing prior to June 30, 2003 will not perfectly predict the cost of providing comparable staffing in the next, it is equally true that originally budgeted amounts and other similar projections are no less imprecise. Thus, in the Commissioner's view, a methodology which preliminarily establishes the 2003-04 cost of providing positions at "maintenance" levels by determining, as nearly as possible without benefit of audit, the actual approved cost of providing them in 2002-03 and then allowing for reasonable, nondiscretionary adjustments, is a uniform, fair and rational method for estimating future expenditures which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision.

In the present instance, the Commissioner finds that applying the District's highest currently contracted increase percentage of 5% to actual salary expenditures for 2002-03 was a reasonable method of projecting preliminary salary costs for 2003-04. The Commissioner is unpersuaded by the Board's argument that this method does not take into account vacancies, retirements, substitutes and positions filled for only part of the year, since variances of these types occur every year and a preliminary district-wide salary budget is appropriately based on the assumption that staffing is a flexible and continuous process, with ebbs and flows that, absent specific evidence to the contrary, generally permit the projection of one year's experience onto the next. To the extent that results may be imperfect, even after adjustment following audit, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant.

Additionally, although the record is not entirely clear on this point, to the extent that the Board is seeking funding levels allowing for increases greater than the currently contracted 5% in anticipation of upcoming collective negotiations, such increase cannot properly be considered a "non-discretionary" cost appropriate for State support in a "maintenance" year occasioned in significant part by the need for fiscal austerity.

Finally, the Commissioner cannot agree with the ALJ that additional amounts claimed by the Board to be contractually due for retirees and certain transportation employees must be included within the District's maintenance budget. As correctly noted by the Department, the record lacks "even a scintilla of documentary evidence" to support the Board's claims in this regard, for which it bears the burden of proof. (Department's Exceptions at 4) To the extent that such obligations do, in fact, exist and payment of them in 2003-04 may result in fiscal need, the Commissioner again notes that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism for the Board to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth herein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted except insofar as it recommends inclusion of salary increases and retiree/employee bonuses in the District's maintenance budget. The Petition of Appeal, therefore, is dismissed in its entirety.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

* Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

5 19-03

579-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court. The District further contended that the Department miscalculated its fund balance (surplus).

The ALJ found that the rule duly promulgated to implement the Court's order for "maintenance" controlled in this proceeding, and that the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) lacked jurisdiction to determine its validity. The ALJ ordered correction of the District's fund balance and adjustment of the District's "maintenance budget" to allow for salary and health benefit increases and funding for certain costs associated with Whole School Reform (WSR).

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision with respect to OAL jurisdiction and error in calculation of the Board's fund balance, but rejected the Board's claims for increases in salary and health benefit accounts, as well as its claims that the Department based its calculations on erroneous figures and improperly excluded the unpaid balance on the District's WSR contract.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5498-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 194-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION THE CITY OF ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY, Petitioner,

v.

THE NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Chandra L. Rainey Cole, Esq., for Petitioner
(Love and Randall, attorneys)

Deborah Gnatt, Deputy Attorney General, for Respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General State of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 17, 2003 Decided: September 24, 2003

BEFORE SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The City of Orange Board of Education (Petitioner/Orange), an urban special needs "Abbott" school district, appeals the Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abott v. Burke State Aid Award issued by the New Jersey State Department of Education (Respondent/DOE) via letter dated August 27, 2003. N.J.S.A. 18A: 7F-3; see also N.J.A.C. 6A: 10-1.1 et seq.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF FACTS

On March 24, 2003, the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) moved before the Supreme Court for an order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). See also Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX). The Commissioner requested that the discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) be limited in Abbott districts in 2003-2004 to provide an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center cross-moved for an order setting an expedited schedule for the Department of Education (DOE) decision on each district's budget, related appeals and requiring the DOE to conduct a formal evaluation of the implementation of Whole School Reform. On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court ordered the DOE and the Educational Law Center to participate in mediation before the Honorable Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D., in an attempt to resolve issues raised by their motions. During the mediation, the parties resolved all issues except the 2003-2004 budget process. The parties agreed to an expedited schedule for approvals and appeals, which started with a May 30, 2003 deadline for the DOE review and approval of school district budgets. Districts' appeals from the DOE's reviews were to be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, and administrative law judges were to issue initial decisions within 50 days of the appeal. The Commissioner was to issue final decisions within 25 days of the initial decisions. On May 20, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect until further order of the Court.

On May 30, 2003, the DOE issued decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets using the maintenance standard on which the DOE had requested court approval. Twenty-three Abbott districts filed appeals on the budget decisions and all appeals were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law. Each of the twenty-three appeals raised the issue of the proper standard for approving the budgets for 2003-2004.

The Orange school district, Petitioner in this case, received a May 30, 2003 letter from the DOE's Assistant Commissioner Division of Abbott Implementation, which provided notice that the DOE had completed its initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget dated April 5, 2003, that the expenditure budget was approved except as noted in the letter. On June 6, 2003, the Orange district's verified petition of appeal was filed with DOE. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The DOE transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on June 9, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On June 12, 2003, the Department's answer was filed in the Office of Administrative Law. The case was originally scheduled for August and mid-September hearing dates, and thereafter rescheduled for September 2, 3, 8, and 9 to comply with modified Supreme Court orders. Prehearing conferencing for the purpose of identifying issues and witnesses was completed on September 2 and 3, and hearings were held on September 8 and 9, 2003. The record was closed on September 17, 2003 upon receipt of the parties' posthearing briefs.

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument for July 10, 2003 on the remaining issue of the 2003 - 2004 budget process. On July 1, 2003, the DOE moved for an order amending the schedule for processing the appeals to allow the Court to rule on the standard in the appeals to the Office of Administrative Law before hearings and issuance of initial decisions. On July 10, 2003, the Supreme Court heard oral argument on the budget process. The Supreme Court granted the DOE's motion and relaxed Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order, stating the following:

> 1. The DOE's application to extend the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott V is granted as follows: The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order.
>
> 2. The Statewide aggregate amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid shall be presumptively calculated as the total amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid approved for the Abbott districts for Fiscal Year 2002-2003, subject to adjustment as required for a maintenance budget. A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.

3. For purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.) Insofar as any Abbott district has not been informed of its total amount of last year's approved Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid, the DOE shall provide written notice of that amount within two weeks of the date of this Order. The DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard in its review of a district's maintenance school budget may result in a reduction to a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

4. Within 30 days of the issuance of this Order, the DOE shall provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget. If the DOE deletes an expenditure from a district's 2002-2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs and based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must include in the written notice to the district the expenditure deleted along with a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient.

5. Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.

6. The Order of the Court dated July 7, 2003, modifying the Court's scheduling Order of May 20, 2003 in order to provide the [OAL] thirty days within which to determine and issue initial decisions in the twenty-three pending budget appeals, is hereby superseded by this Order. The [OAL] shall issue initial decisions on district appeals from the DOE's preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year within 30 days of the dates of those decisions as set forth in Paragraph 4 of this Order.

7. To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the districts' non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

Paragraph three of the July 23, 2003 Supreme Court order specifically sets forth that the DOE is to promulgate an emergency regulation for the purpose of setting the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs - office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school-based or directly serving students. In the same paragraph, the Supreme Court advises districts that the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard in its review of a district's maintenance school budget may result in a reduction to a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

On August 22, 2003, the DOE, relying on the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act and paragraph three of July 23, 2003 Supreme Court order, promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10, including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, -3.1, -4.2, and -4.7. The regulations became effective August 22, 2003, and will expire June 30, 2004. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 of the emergency regulation states:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

On August 27, 2003, the Commissioner issued decision letters establishing a preliminary maintenance budget figure and the amount of additional supplemental funding needed to support Petitioner's school district budget. In summary the Commissioner's letter advised Petitioner that instructional and non-instructional programs were approved, but reductions would be made in the general fund surplus and outstanding 2002-2003 Account Receivables in Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid to determine the new amount of the budgeted fund balance.

ISSUES

1. Does the Office of Administrative Law have jurisdiction to challenge the validity and applicability of the emergency regulation definition of Maintenance budget, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2?

2. Does the DOE's Maintenance budget definition for maintaining a funding level in 2003-2004 which will support approved and provided programs, services and positions from 2002-2003, disturb previously approved appropriations which cannot be disbursed until the completion of WSR Developer Contracts?

3. Was an error made by the independent auditor's use of the original budget number, instead of the revised budget number, when computing Petitioner's maintenance budget in preparation for issuance of the Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award?

4. Was there a miscalculation by the independent auditors of Petitioner's fund balance?

5. Are salary and health benefits increases subject to the conditions for non-discretionary expenditures, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2?

6. Is reinstatement of non-instructional positions for the purpose of complying with Whole School Reform subject to the Maintenance budget definition set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2?

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND FINDINGS

The DOE presented a global argument against Petitioner's pursuit of this contested case. The DOE contends that the August 27, 2003 letter contains figures which are preliminary and subject to review pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 23-1, et seq. which mandates the completion of a Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) for the period ending June 30, 2003. CAFR is an audit, performed by a registered municipal accountant or a certified public accountant who is licensed as a public school accountant for New Jersey. The DOE contends that the numerical discrepancies in calculations which ultimately was the cause for subsequent inaccuracies in budget surplus and supplemental fund figures should be left unresolved until November 2003 when the CAFR is scheduled for completion.

Petitioner argued the appropriateness of proceeding with a full hearing to protect all claims of the school district. Petitioner contends that the right to an appeal in the Office of Administrative Law is for the purpose of establishing a complete record of the facts and relevant evidence regarding inaccuracies in calculations in the district's Maintenance budget. Making the record is crucial for preserving claims of which budget categories are inaccurate and what impact the inaccuracies have on the fund budget. Petitioner refuted the DOE's "wait and see after the CAFR" approach and argued that the Office of Administrative Law must conduct a thorough hearing on all issues raised throughout the entire budget, both factual and legal. See 26 New Jersey Practices, Administrative Law and Practice, Section 3.8 (2d. ed. 2000), regarding the jurisdiction of the Office of Administrative Law to hear and determine constitutional questions when necessary to decide hearing issues.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JURISDICTION TO DETERMINE VALIDITY AND APPLICABILITY OF REGULATIONS

Petitioner contends that the N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 "maintenance budget" definition is contrary to the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order; that its maintenance budget should be considered its approved 2002-2003 budget; and that it is not limited to expenditures for programs, services and positions, approved and actually provided, and documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Petitioner contends that to the extent the regulation's definition is contrary to the Supreme Court's order, it is inapplicable in the Office of Administrative Law.

The Respondent contends that the N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 "maintenance budget" definition is consistent with the Supreme Court's order. It argues that the school district's contention is essentially a challenge to the regulation, and that, consistent with R. 2:2-3(a)(2), such a challenge must be brought in the Appellate Division of the Superior Court.

In Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. EDU 4095-03, the Honorable John R. Tassini, ALJ, entered an Order dated September 4, 2003, relative to the maintenance budget. Judge Tassini concluded that the school district's contention is essentially a challenge to the validity of the above-cited regulation, and based his finding on R. 2:2-3(a)(2). In Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. EDU 4096-03, the Honorable Joseph F. Martone, ALJ, entered an Order dated September 10, 2003 and concurred with Judge Tassini's findings on the maintenance budget. In Wendling v. New Jersey Racing Commission, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995), the court held that the Appellate Division and not the Office of Administrative Law has jurisdiction for a challenge to the validity of a rule; in In re 1999-2000 Abbott Implementing Regulations, N.J.A.C. 6:19A-1.1 et seq., 348 N.J. Super. 382 (App. Div. 2002), the Appellate Division heard a challenge to rules implementing Abbott decisions.

Prior to this hearing, Petitioner Orange school district had not challenged the regulation in the Superior Court Appellate Division to determine validity, as per R. 2:2-3 (a)(2). The Rule provides that an appeal to challenge the validity of any regulation promulgated by a state administrative agency should be brought in the Superior Court, Appellate Division. Therefore, I FIND that the Office of Administrative Law has no jurisdiction to rule on the issue of validity or applicability of a regulation and that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is the applicable standard in this case.

WHOLE SCHOOL REFORM DEVELOPER CONTRACTS

The Maintenance Definition in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 does not alter the exceptions in paragraph two of the July 23, 2003 Supreme Court order in regard to the continued implementation of paragraph 2c of the June 24, 2003 Supreme Court order which permits Whole School Reform contracts in certain circumstances, irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision. Petitioner's Whole School Reform contract was ongoing during the 2002–2003 school year and has not been completed. Petitioner's concern is that the encumbrance not be reduced by the amount of the outstanding contract balance. The balance of the contract cannot be paid until the work is complete. I FIND that the exception for Whole School Reform as set forth in the July 23, 2003 Supreme Court order and N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 provide a safeguard for the situation presented by Petitioner.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S ERROR

The testimony was uncontested regarding a mistake made by the independent auditors assigned to review Petitioner's records for the purpose of establishing the preliminary maintenance budget.

Adekunle James, Business Administrator and School Board Secretary for the City of Orange Board of Education, previously worked in the district for nine years as an accountant and fifteen months as the Assistant Business Administrator. He prepared Petitioner's budgets for 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 (Exhibits P-1, P-2, P-3). The Business Administrator testified that when the independent auditors prepared recalculations for the Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 they used several original budget numbers instead of the revised budget numbers. He presented a letter from the DOE dated February 24, 2003, which showed the previous years general fund surplus of $1,723,965 deducted from the district's Abbott Aid for that year (Exhibit P-7). The sum of $1,723,965 is the surplus amount which the DOE wants to reduce in 2003-2004. The Business Administrator spoke with the DOE's budget examiner regarding the use of the previous years figures and the budget examiner spoke with the independent auditors. The independent auditors acknowledged the error.

Michael Arizechi, the DOE Budget Examiner/Manager, is a CPA with an MBA in finance and a BA in accounting. He has served as senior accountant with the Newark Board of Education for three years, and as Budget Manager with the DOE for five years. He is responsible for reviewing the initial budgets of the school districts which are received February 25th of every year, for revision reviews, recommendation for approvals and line item change approvals. The Budget Examiner confirmed his awareness of an error made by the independent auditors and his discussions with them regarding their use of wrong budget figures. The Budget Examiner testified that the auditors acknowledged a $1,723,965 miscalculation, and the occurrence of "double-dipping", since the same surplus amount had been added twice. During the OAL hearing the auditors were contacted and they requested a copy of the February 24, 2003 letter to review before re-confirming the error (Exhibit P-7). Based on the evidence and testimony presented on the issue of error in fund surplus calculations due to the use of incorrect budget figures by the independent auditor, I FIND that the Petitioner's budgeted fund balance is inaccurate and therefore Petitioner's need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid should be reassessed.

SUBSTANTIATION OF NON-DISCRETIONARY EXPENDITURES FOR SALARY AND HEALTH BENEFITS

Adekunle James, Petitioner's Budget Administrator, testified that the DOE did not take into account Retirements, Vacant positions and Substitute teacher pay rates when determining the dollar amount to be used when calculating the contracted five-percent "across the board" salary increase. Petitioner argued that where positions were not held last year for the entire year, there will be no money to fund a full year's position in 2003-2004. Petitioner restated the argument for use of the Supreme Court definition of the "maintenance budget" when finding it apparent that the district's budget will be reduced if the DOE's Maintenance Budget definition in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, approved and provided service budget figure for the 2002-2003 year, is used to calculate the budget need for 2003-2004. Testimony disclosed Petitioner's violation of Whole School Reform requirements with second graders and teachers in Parker Avenue School, because of an inability to currently comply with the mandates for achieving a plan for class size reduction, as per N.J.A.C. 6A:24-4.1(j)9. Regarding health benefits, the Budget Administrator testified that the benefits have increased for the last three years, inclusive of 2002-2003 when a 21-percent increase was insufficient to cover employee benefits. A line item change was approved in 2002-2003 to enable the district's payment of health and dental benefits.

Health Benefit Increases
(Exhibits P-8, P-9, P-10)

Year	Budgeted Benefits	Approved/Provided (Actual Expenditure)	Percentage Increase From Actual Expenditure In Previous Year
2002-2003	4,692,232	5,665,147.47	15.4%
2001-2002	4,618,665	4,793,304.81	22.13%
2000-2001	2,904,300	3,732,155.93

Michael Arizechi, Respondent's Budget Examiner/Manager testified that the calculation for salary increases was accomplished by taking the actual expenditure from the previous year and increasing it by the 5% contracted percentage rate. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 "Maintenance budget" provides for a 2003-2004 school budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures (contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition) and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. In regard to health benefits, the Budget Examiner/Manager testified that 14.5% was used to calculate all health benefits.

Based on the requirements of the governing regulation N.J.A.C. 6A: 10-1.2, I FIND with respect to salary increases that Petitioner must specifically identify its right to an exception under paragraph 2c of the June 24, 2003 Supreme Court order, as well as explicitly document the inability to currently comply with the mandates of Whole School Reform in achieving a plan for class size reduction, as per N.J.A.C. 6A:24-4.1(j)9:

> A plan shall be in place to continue to reduce class size by September 2002 to 1:21 for grades K-three and 1:23 for grades four to eight, and 1:24 for grades nine through twelve.

I further, FIND, in regard to health benefits that based on the "Maintenance budget" definition of maintenance non-discretionary expenditure funding levels, at the same levels approved and provided in 2002-2003, as per N.J.A.C. 6A: 10-1.2, that an adjustment in Petitioner's health benefits budgetary increase, so as to reflect what was approved and provided in 2002-2003, is warranted.

REINSTATEMENT OF NON-INSTRUCTIONAL POSITIONS TO MEET WHOLE SCHOOL REFORM AS PER N.J.A.C. 6A: 10-1.2

The July 23 Supreme Court order requires in part, in paragraph three and paragraph seven:

> 3. For purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.) ... [Emphasis added.]
>
> 7. To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the districts' non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

The DOE promulgation is the emergency regulation set forth in N.J.S.A. 6A:10-1.2, and to the extent that paragraph 2c of the June 24, 2003 Supreme Court order requires reinstatements to comply with Whole School Reform, the necessary non-instructional programs, positions and services should be restored; also funding for non-instructional programs should be applied for by Petitioner and awarded by the DOE upon a showing of need, as instructed per Supreme Court order of July 23, 2003 at paragraph 7.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND that the issue of reinstatement of non-instructional positions to meet Whole School Reform is governed by the terms in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 and paragraph seven of the July 24, 2003 Supreme Court order and will be determined in accord with and upon Petitioner's showing of need to effectuate Whole School Reform or other needed programs and services.

CONCLUSIONS

Based on the evidence, testimony presented and the findings set forth hereon, I make the following CONCLUSIONS:

1. New Jersey Court Rules - R. 2:2-3(a)(2) provides that an appeal to challenge the validity of any regulation promulgated by a state administrative agency should be made in the Superior Court Appellate Division; and therefore the Office of Administrative Law does not have jurisdiction to challenge the validity and applicability of the emergency regulation definition of Maintenance budget, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

2. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 provides for the protection of previously approved appropriations which can not be disbursed until the completion of WSR Developer Contracts.

3. An error was made by the independent auditor's use of the original budget number, instead of the revised budget number when computing Petitioner's maintenance budget in preparation for issuance of the Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award.

4. There is a miscalculation made by the independent auditors' of Petitioner's discretionary fund balance.

5. Salary and health benefits increases are subject to the terms for non-discretionary expenditures, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

6. Reinstatement of non-instructional positions for the purpose of complying with Whole School Reform is subject to the definition set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED:

1. That the definition of "maintenance budget" set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is applicable in this matter.

2. That Petitioner's previous approved funding allocation for programs, positions and services provided under Whole School Reform contracts and pursuant to paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke (and as stated in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2) shall not be added, to determine fund surplus.

3. That Petitioner's budgeted fund balance error be corrected and a reassessment of Petitioner's need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid be made using the corrected fund balance.

4. That Petitioner's salary increases incident of Whole School Reform and non-discretionary salary expenditures be complied with insofar as the increases meet the exception requirements of paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke (and as stated in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2).

5. That Petitioner's health benefits budget be adjusted so as to reflect the amount, which was approved and provided in 2002-2003.

6. That Petitioner's request for reinstatement of non-instructional positions to meet Whole School Reform be complied with insofar as the reinstatements meet the exception requirements of paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke (and as stated in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 24, 2003
DATE

Sandra Ann Robinson
SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9/24/03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9/24/03
DATE
cml

APPENDIX

WITNESSES

For Petitioner:

Adekunle James, Business Administrator/School Board Secretary
Orange Board of Education

For Respondent:

Michael Arizechi, Budget Examiner
New Jersey Department of Education

EXHIBITS

For Petitioner:

P-1 Budget Orange Board of Education July 11, 2001

P-2 Budget Orange Board of Education March 20, 2002

P-3 Budget Orange Board of Education March 11, 2003

P-4 New Jersey Department of Education Budget Breakdown August 27, 2003

P-5 State Auditors Report Orange Township Public Schools Abbott District Budget Review

P-6 Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abott v. Burke State Aid Award August 27, 2003

P-7 Revision Letter from Assistant Commissioner to Orange Township Interim School Superintendent February 24, 2003

P-8 Total Benefits 2002-2003

P-9 Total Benefits 2001-2002

P-10 Total Benefits 2000-2001

P-11 Dental Benefits Invoices

P-12 State Health Benefits Plan Enrollment

P-13 Account Balances For Benefits

P-14 New Positions Re-installment Non-Instructional Positions May 20, 2002

P-15 Required Justification for2003-2004 Budgeted Instructional FTE May 5, 2003

P-16 Original approved Budget Orange Board of Education 2002-2003

For Respondent:

None

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5498-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 194-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by both the Board of Education (Board) and the Department of Education (Department), as was a reply by the Board to the Department's exceptions, and all were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision herein.

As a preliminary matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that hearing of this matter need not have awaited completion of the District's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR), as argued by the Department. Within the appeal framework established by the Court, the Board was clearly entitled to make, prior to the school year in question, the factual and legal record necessary to preserve the substance of its claims, with final adjustments made following audit.

The Commissioner also concurs with the ALJ that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, the regulation duly promulgated to implement the Court's July 23, 2003 order, must control in the instant proceeding, and that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine its validity, such determination being solely within the purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n., 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). However, even if the Commissioner were to accept, arguendo, the Board's contention that a "choice of law" may be made without passing on the validity of the rule itself, the Commissioner here opines, to the extent that he may do so in an administrative proceeding, that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, is entirely consistent with the language and intent of the Court, with no conflict between it and the underlying order.

The Commissioner rejects, however, the ALJ's apparent acceptance of the Board's contention that the Department erroneously used "original" rather than "revised" budget figures in calculating the District's maintenance budget. Although the ALJ appears to have confused and conflated this issue with a more specific error in surplus calculation, as discussed below, the Commissioner agrees with the Department's position that, in making the determination under appeal herein, in the absence of precise information of the type only available through the CAFR, it was appropriate to use the approved Revised School District Budget Statement for 2002-03, dated July 12, 2002, rather than the unapproved Revised School District Budget Statement for 2003-04, dated April 5, 2003.

In this regard, the Commissioner observes that the Department's charge in this matter was to determine the level of 2003-04 funding that would enable the District to continue in a "maintenance" mode, that is, to implement in 2003-04 the programs, services and positions provided in 2002-03. While it is true that dollar amounts paid out prior to June 30, 2003 will not necessarily reflect the actual costs of the programs, services and positions provided that year, nor can they perfectly predict the actual cost of providing them in the next, it is equally true that originally budgeted amounts and other similar projections are no less imprecise. Thus, in the Commissioner's view, a methodology which preliminarily establishes the 2003-04 cost of providing programs, services and positions by determining, as nearly as possible without benefit of audit, the actual approved cost of providing them in 2002-03 and then allowing for reasonable, non-discretionary adjustments, is a uniform, fair and rational method for estimating future expenditures which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision. To the extent that results may be imperfect, even after adjustment following audit, N.J.A.C. 6A: 10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant. Thus, the Commissioner wholly endorses the Department's fundamental methodology, subject to the correctness of its application based on the evidence presented in any particular instance where its results are disputed.

Turning, then, to the more specific issues raised by the Board, the Commissioner initially rejects the ALJ's conclusion that the Board is entitled to include the balance of its Whole School Reform (WSR) contract amount as part of its maintenance budget. Contrary to the ALJ's finding, the exception provided by the Court in Paragraph 2c of its June 24, 2003 order, which expressly refers to reinstatement of WSR in certain schools not having a WSR contract in 2002-03, cannot apply to the Board's claim herein, which is manifestly based on the existence of an ongoing WSR contract under which services were provided in 2002-03. Since no evidence was presented by the Board that any portion of that contract for services actually provided in 2002-03 remains unpaid so as to qualify as a 2002-03 expenditure, the Department correctly excluded the contract balance, as reflecting services not yet provided, from its maintenance budget calculation.

The Commissioner does concur, however, that an error in calculation of the District's surplus was made. It is clear on record and uncontested by the Department that $1,723,965 already deducted from the Board's 2002-03 additional State aid should not have been reflected in the Department's calculation of excess surplus for 2003-04, so that the fund balance to be appropriated in the District's 2003-04 revised budget should be adjusted downward from $5,813,312 to $4,089,347. However, this error in itself results in no entitlement to additional Abbott v. Burke State aid, since the Board's excess surplus is still well above the level that would entitle it to such aid.

With respect to increases for salaries and health benefits, the Commissioner does not agree with the ALJ that an increase should be granted to the Board. The Commissioner is unpersuaded by the fact that increases in the cost of health benefits in 2001-02 and 2002-03 were 22.13% and 15.4% respectively, since this alone is insufficient to warrant the conclusion that the 14.5% increase allowed by the Department will not maintain benefits at 2002-03 levels and that an increase of 21% is necessary for this purpose. Similarly, the Commissioner finds, for the reasons more generally set forth above, that applying the District's highest contracted teacher salary increase percentage of 5% to actual salary expenditures for 2002-03 was a reasonable method of projecting preliminary salary costs for 2003-04. The Commissioner is unpersuaded by the Board's argument that this method does not take into account vacancies, retirements, substitutes and positions filled for only part of the year, since variances of these types occur every year and a preliminary district-wide salary budget is appropriately based on the assumption that staffing is a flexible and continuous process, with ebbs and flows that, absent specific evidence to the contrary, generally permit the projection of one year's experience onto the next.[1]

Finally, with regard to the Board's contention that it requires a further percentage increase in salary amounts to accommodate addition of new positions or restoration of positions eliminated in 2002-03 based on WSR and other regulatory requirements, the Commissioner finds that the "maintenance" standard established by the Court, and embodied in the implementing regulation, requires programs, services and positions to have been actually provided or filled in 2002-03 in order to be included in the maintenance budget for 2003-04, and that, as indicated above, the exception provided by the Court in Paragraph 2c of its June 24, 2003 order does not apply to the Board herein. Additionally, the Commissioner finds that the Board has made no demonstration on the present record that the level of funding provided through the Department's calculations will not support the staff necessary to implement required programs and services. The fact that a particular position, such as a teacher added for reasons of class size, was not included in the maintenance budget does not mean that the position cannot exist; rather, the need for it is expected to be met within existing levels of resources, subject to the ability to seek additional funds under requisite circumstances.[2] [3]

---

[1] In this context, the Commissioner reiterates the above-noted availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address a need for additional resources pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

[2] See note 1 above.

[3] To the extent that the ALJ's discussion at pages 12-13 of the Initial Decision might suggest otherwise, the Commissioner notes that no reductions were made to the Board's budget on the basis of ineffectiveness or inefficiency.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth herein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected except insofar as it concludes that the present matter was appropriately heard prior to audit; that the OAL lacks jurisdiction to determine the validity of the rule promulgated to implement the order of the Court; and that an error occurred in calculation of the Board's surplus so as to reduce the amount applied by the Department to support the 2003-04 budget. However, in light of the Commissioner's determinations on the Board's specific claims above, no recalculation of additional Abbott v. Burke State aid is directed as a result of the incorrect allocation, since the error does not, in itself, alter the Board's eligibility for such aid.[4]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[4] The Board's claim to the contrary is based on its contention that, taken together, use of "revised" figures and proper calculation of salaries, health benefits, etc., as requested herein, will substantially reduce the Board's alleged "surplus" so as to render the Board eligible for additional Abbott v. Burke State aid. (Board's Reply to Department's Exceptions at 4)

[5] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

580-05

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF HARRISON, HUDSON COUNTY, PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 "maintenance budget," alleging that the regulatory definition of "maintenance budget" is invalid because it is inconsistent with the terms of the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order. The District further challenged the exclusion from its maintenance budget of the cost of two positions, approved but not filled in the 2002-03 school year, and the cost of providing health care coverage to 20 additional hourly paid cafeteria aides.

The ALJ initially determined that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. The ALJ next found the Department's quantitative method of implementing its regulatory definition of "maintenance budget" to be inconsistent with the literal language of the regulation and that in the Supreme Court's Order; he, therefore, denied Department adjustments reducing the District's 2002-03 budget. With respect to salaries for two positions budgeted in 2002-03 but not filled, the ALJ concluded that, pursuant to the "maintenance" standard, programs, services and positions must have been actually provided or filled in 2002-03 in order to be funded in 2003-04. The ALJ, likewise, denied the District's claim of funding for health care coverage for hourly cafeteria aides as the record did not contain documentation in support of such need.

The Commissioner adopted in part and rejected in part the Initial Decision. First, he concurred with the ALJ that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of the Department's regulation. Next, however, the Commissioner, specifically found that the Department's implementation of its regulation was proper. He recognized that, while it may be technically correct that merely looking at dollar amounts paid prior to June 30, 2003 may not necessarily reflect the actual costs of programs, etc., it is, likewise, true that budgeted amounts do not necessarily reflect the costs of programs, etc., provided. The Commissioner concluded that a methodology which begins by estimating the 2003-04 cost of providing the same programs, services and positions by looking at the actual cost of providing these for 2002-03 and then adds the projected costs of reasonable, nondiscretionary expenditures and adjustments is a reasonable method for estimating future costs which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision. The Commissioner, therefore, restored the Department's adjustments reducing the District's spending funds by $1,165,331 and $889,380, respectively. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that sums budgeted for positions not filled in 2002-03 and health care coverage for hourly cafeteria aides were properly deducted from the District's 2003-04 "maintenance" budget.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5494-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 195-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF HARRISON,
HUDSON COUNTY,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT
OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Michael R. Pichowicz, Esq., for petitioner

Pamela N. Ullman, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 23, 2003 Decided: September 24, 2003

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

The Board of Education of the Town of Harrison ("petitioner") has various responsibilities related to the Harrison School District ("District") including preparation and submission of a K-12 budget for the 2003-04 school year and an application for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid ("supplemental aid") for programs, positions and services needed for the District's students. The District is an Abbott district as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.2. After receipt of a decision dated May 30, 2003, by the New Jersey State Department of Education ("respondent") related to the District's 2003-04 K-12 budget and application for supplemental aid for the 2003-04 school year, petitioner filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education. As the result of additional proceedings as described below, respondent denied petitioner's request for supplemental aid. Petitioner now challenges that denial.

BACKGROUND AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 24, 2003, the Commissioner moved before the New Jersey Supreme Court for relief from some of the mandates of Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) ("Abbott V"). Specifically, the Commissioner requested that discretionary supplemental aid be limited in 2003-04 to providing support for those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-03.

On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center responded to that motion and also cross-moved for relief including a request for an expedited schedule for the review and approval of Abbott district budgets and appeals therefrom. As the result of mediation, the parties agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals. In accordance with the schedule, respondent was to issue its determinations in regard to district budgets by May 30, 2003. The agreement further provided for a review process with hearings before the Office of Administrative Law and final decision by the Commissioner. On May 20, 2003, the Court entered an order incorporating the agreement.

On May 30, 2003, respondent rendered decisions with respect to all of the Abbott districts using the maintenance standard for which it had requested approval from the Court. Twenty-three districts including petitioner filed appeals from those determinations. Petitioner's appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 9, 2003, for determination as a contested case.

Petitioner's appeal along with all of the others raised the issue of the proper standard for approving the budgets for the 2003-04 school year. On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order scheduling oral argument for July 10, 2003, concerning the standard to be used in the 2003-04 budget process. On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order approving a maintenance standard as set forth therein for the 2003-04 budget process. The Court also directed the promulgation of emergency regulations and established a schedule for further proceedings.

On August 22, 2003, the Commissioner promulgated emergency regulations as directed in the Court's Order. A key provision of the emergency regulations is a definition of "maintenance budget" as the standard for reviewing the applications of Abbott districts for supplemental aid for the 2003-04 school year.

On August 27, 2003, respondent issued decisions establishing a preliminary maintenance budget figure and the amount of additional supplemental funding needed to support that budget for each of the twenty-three appealing districts including petitioner. The determination with respect to petitioner was that it did not have a need for additional supplemental aid. By letter dated August 28, 2003, to the undersigned, petitioner requested a prehearing conference in effect indicating an intention to continue with the appeal.

After a prehearing conference on September 4, 2003, a hearing was conducted on September 10 and 11, 2003, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey. The briefs of the parties were received on September 15, 2003. On September 16, 2003, the Education Law Center filed a motion to participate as amici curiae. A brief was attached to the motion, which was unopposed and was granted by Order dated September 23, 2003.

ISSUES

The issues in this proceeding are whether petitioner should receive supplemental aid for 2003-04 school year and, if so, the amount thereof. Petitioner's main contention relates to the standard to be utilized to establish a maintenance budget in this proceeding. According to petitioner, the regulations adopted by the Commissioner on August 22, 2003, including in particular the definition of a "maintenance budget" are invalid because they are inconsistent with the terms of the Supreme Court's Order dated July 23, 2003. The parties also differ as to the inclusion of various expenditures in a maintenance budget for the 2003-04 school year.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Each party to this proceeding presented one witness. Business Administrator Peter Higgins testified for petitioner, while respondent called Stanley J. Ferdinand, whom it employs as a budget examiner, as its witness. While petitioner proceeded first at the hearing, the differences between the positions of the parties will be more readily understandable with respondent's evidence summarized first.

Mr. Ferdinand first explained the budget process as applied to the 2002-03 school year. During the prior school year, each school district submits its budget in two parts. The two parts include the district budget and the school-based budget. The latter is a component of the former. The budget was fully approved in May 2002. In November 2002, a Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) provided an analysis of the prior school year. The analysis did not show a need for additional supplemental aid.

The review of petitioner's budget for the 2003-04 school year began in March 2003. Respondent reviewed petitioner's budget applying the maintenance concept meaning that the same level would be allowed for the 2003-04 budget year as for the 2002-03 school year. A determination dated May 30, 2003, approved petitioner's budget with the following three exceptions: (1) requested new restored positions in the school-based budget and at the district level in the amount of $387,620, (2) health benefits, and (3) special education tuition. Petitioner appealed this determination.

Subsequent to the issuance of the Supreme Court's Order on July 23, 2003, the budgets were reviewed again applying a different standard. The key difference was that respondent looked at the actual spending level by the school district as the base line amount for the maintenance budget. This review led to a new determination which voided the letter dated May 30, 2003. The determination dated August 27, 2003, did not include any new positions which were not part of the expenditures for the 2002-03 school year.

The need for supplemental aid equals expenditures minus available revenues. Petitioner's adjusted 2002-03 budget was $25,434,867. This amount was reduced by $1,165,331 and $889,380 to reflect the actual level of expenditures in spending funds eleven and fifteen, respectively. The net effect is to reduce the base 2002-03 budget to $23,380,156. Various adjustments increasing the budget include $1,122,829 for contracted salaries, health benefits at $421,822, special education at $575,559, and the Consumer Price Index (CPI) at 2.1 percent for $134,967. The subtotal of the adjustments including various items not mentioned above was $2,620,739. Addition of the subtotal to the base 2002-03 budget produced a total maintenance budget of $26,000,895. In comparison, the total budgeted revenues available for the 2003-04 school year were $26,992,469. The difference indicates that the need for supplemental aid amounted to a negative $991,574.

The calculation of the maintenance budget does not limit petitioner's expenditures to that amount. However, petitioner's expenditures cannot exceed it revenues. Petitioner can achieve savings by means other than cutting positions, programs or services.

Mr. Higgins testified that the respondent's determination dated May 30, 2003, approved petitioner's budget for the 2003-04 school year with three exceptions. One of the exceptions related to the sum of $387,620 for several new positions which were approved by respondent but were not included in the budget for 2002-03 at the time of preparation of the budget for the 2003-

04 school year. Another major adjustment is necessary for health benefits. Respondent used $421,822 as the adjustment for health benefits. This figure must be increased by $213,756 to $635,578 to reflect health benefits for additional workers.

In terms of respondent's analysis, petitioner accepts the amount of $25,434,867 as the adjusted 2002-03 budget. However, petitioner strenuously opposes the reductions of $1,165,331 and $889,380 to reflect sums approved but not spent in funds eleven and fifteen, respectively.

Mr. Higgins explained that respondent relied on a document known as the Board Secretary's Report, which contains numerous line items from the budget. For each line, the Board Secretary's Report shows the amount of unspent funds, which is the difference between the figure approved in the budget and the actual expenditure. Respondent derived its adjustments by taking the total of these columns for funds eleven and fifteen.

The largest component of the reduction relates to contracted salaries for teachers who took leaves for various reasons. The teachers were not paid while on leave and were replaced by substitutes at a substantially lower cost. However, there were no reductions in positions, programs or services as a result of those leaves. Moreover, there is no assurance whatsoever that teachers will take the same number of leaves or that there will be equal savings during the 2003-04 school year.

Another major component of the unspent funds relates to grants. During the school year, the school district typically receives grants from various sources. To the greatest extent possible, expenditures are charged to grants rather than the school district budget. This practice results in unspent funds relative to the budgeted amounts. However, because the school district does not know whether it will receive any grants at the time that the budget is prepared, grants are not included therein. By reducing the 2003-04 budget to the level of actual expenditures in the 2002-03 school year, respondent assumes in effect that petitioner will receive grants in the same amounts during the 2003-04 school year. According to Mr. Higgins, this assumption is unsound since there is no assurance that petitioner will receive grants in the same amounts.

The Board Secretary's Report contains numerous lines with unspent funds. Mr. Higgins addressed only the larger amounts. Other unspent funds reflected utility costs which were lower than the budgeted amounts. Mr. Higgins could not explain the lower amounts and opined that it would be unsound to assume that the same savings would occur during the 2003-04 school year.

Mr. Higgins acknowledged that there was one position that was approved but not filled during the 2002-03 school year. That position was for an athletic trainer at a cost of $50,750. In addition, after the position went unfilled, petitioner budgeted $9,000 for a per-event athletic trainer. This position also was not filled by petitioner.

To summarize petitioner's position, the adjusted 2002-03 budget would be $25,434,867. Petitioner would not reduce this figure for unspent funds in the amounts of $1,165,331 and $899,380 in spending funds eleven and fifteen, respectively. With respect to the other adjustments for which respondent determined a subtotal of $2,620,739, petitioner would differ only with respect to health benefits. In addition to respondent's adjustment of $421,822, petitioner would add $213,756 to reflect coverage for twenty additional hourly-paid cafeteria aides. These are not new hires but rather existing employees who will begin to receive coverage. The total adjustment for health benefits would be $635,578. With this adjustment, the subtotal is $2,834,495, and the total expenditures under a maintenance budget for 2003-04 would be $28,269,362. Net of all revenues, petitioner's request supplemental aid is $436,265 for the 2003-04 school year.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

Supplemental aid is a component of the relief ordered by the Supreme Court in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480, 525-26 (1998) ("Abbott V"). Respondent obtained approval from the Court to provide Abbott districts with a maintenance budget for the 2002-03 school year. Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002). As noted above, respondent sought approval from the Court to extend the relaxation of remedies and to continue to provide a maintenance budget for the 2003-

04 school year. By Order dated July 23, 2003, the Court granted respondent's application. In the second numbered paragraph of that Order, the Court defined a maintenance budget as follows:

> A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.

On August 22, 2003, the Commissioner filed amendments to certain regulations pertaining to Abbott districts. As amended, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c) provides in part as follows:

> The Department shall review the district-wide budget to determine if all available resources, reallocations and other factors have been incorporated and that the budget is a maintenance budget that contains only those programs, positions and services approved and provided in 2002-2003. The Department shall review the maintenance budget to ensure that all non-instructional expenditures are effective and efficient.

An amended definition of "maintenance budget" states as follows:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet Paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures. [N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.]

Petitioner's main argument is that the definition of "maintenance budget" in the new regulations is inconsistent with the Supreme Court's Order dated July 23, 2003, and therefore invalid. The key difference relates to a provision of the Court's Order which refers to "current approved programs, services, and positions." According to petitioner, the regulation modifies this language to read "2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions." [Emphasis supplied.]

Respondent contends that the Office of Administrative Law does not have jurisdiction to invalidate a regulation. According to respondent, jurisdiction is vested in the Appellate Division of Superior Court pursuant to New Jersey Court Rule 2:2-3(a), which provides in pertinent part as follows: "appeals may be taken to the Appellate Division as of right ... (2) to review the validity of any rule promulgated by an agency ...."

It is well established that the Appellate Division rather than the Office of Administrative Law is the proper forum in which to challenge the facial validity of an administrative regulation. E.g., Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Therefore, petitioner's challenge to the validity of the new regulations will not be considered in this proceeding.

Nonetheless, there are two related issues concerning the new regulations which must be considered in this proceeding. One issue involves the proper interpretation of the definition of "maintenance budget" in the new regulations. The other issue is whether the quantitative methodology employed by respondent in establishing maintenance budgets is consistent with the verbal standards contained the regulation and the Supreme Court Order. It seems evident that the language in the new regulation could readily be interpreted in a manner consistent with the Supreme Court's Order. The important questions are whether the new regulation will be interpreted to require or permit use of the quantitative methodology employed by respondent and, if so, whether that method is consistent with the verbal standard in the new regulation and in the Supreme Court Order.

As described above, respondent reduced the approved budget for the 2002-03 by the amount of unspent funds. This quantitative approach in effect means that the maintenance budget for the 2003-04 school year will be limited to funds approved and actually spent during the 2002-03 school year. Thus, the quantitative method differs from the verbal standards in two key respects. First, the expression "programs, services, and positions" contained in the Supreme Court Order and in the new definition of "maintenance budget" in the amended regulations is in effect replaced by "funds." Second, the expressions "current approved" from the Supreme Court Order and "approved and provided" from the regulations are in effect replaced with "approved and actually spent."

There are two main difficulties with a quantitative methodology which equates to standard which could be stated as "funds approved and actually spent during the 2002-2003 school year." First, there is no support for this standard in the language of the Supreme Court Order or in the definition of "maintenance budget" in the new regulation. Second, this quantitative approach provides no assurance that a school district will be able to implement its current approved programs, services, and positions. It follows that the quantitative methodology used by respondent in this proceeding is inconsistent with the applicable verbal standards, and therefore, its utilization in this proceeding is impermissible. With respect to the specific changes made by respondent to petitioner's maintenance budget for the 2003-04 school year, this conclusion means that the adjustments reducing spending funds eleven and fifteen by $1,165,331 and $889,380, respectively, should not be approved in this proceeding.

Before addressing the other issues raised by the parties, it is appropriate to summarize the proper interpretation of the definition of "maintenance budget" in the new regulation and the Supreme Court Order. The starting point is that the maintenance budget will include expenditures at a level such that the school district can implement current approved programs, services and positions in the 2002-03 budget. The base amount will be reduced by the costs of programs, positions and services that were not in fact provided during the 2002-03 school year. The base amount will be adjusted for documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures such as contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition. Further, any new programs, positions or services will be eliminated with limited exceptions not applicable to this proceeding. Finally, the base amount will be reduced by the costs of any non-instructional programs which lack effectiveness and efficiency.

The parties agree that the starting point for analysis is a budget in the amount of $25,434,867. As noted above, the adjustments reducing the 2002-03 budget by $1,165,331 and $889,380 should not be made in this proceeding.

The next step is to reduce this amount by the costs of programs, positions and services that were not in fact provided during the 2002-03 school year. In its budget for the 2002-03 school year, petitioner included the sum of $50,750 as the salary of an athletic trainer. This position was not filled by petitioner. Later in the school year, petitioner budgeted $9,000 for a per-event athletic trainer. This position also was not filled by petitioner. It follows that the sum of $59,750 should be excluded from petitioner's maintenance budget for the 2003-04 school year.

The next step is to increase the base amount by documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures such as contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition. The item in dispute concerns health benefits. Respondent increased health benefits by $421,822. Petitioner would increase health benefits by an additional $213,756 to reflect the cost of providing health coverage for hourly cafeteria aides. Petitioner maintains that it is required by federal law to provide this coverage.

The difficulty with this item is that petitioner has not provided any documentation. In fact, petitioner provided no citation to federal law, no determination by any authority that coverage was required or any analysis supporting its position. It follows that the additional increase of $213,756 in health benefits as proposed by petitioner cannot by approved due to a lack of documentation.

Petitioner originally proposed new restored positions at a total cost of $387,620. Those positions were not approved in respondent's letter dated May 30, 2003. These positions should not be approved under the standard for a maintenance budget. It is the undersigned's understanding that this amount is not included in the maintenance budget for the 2003-04 school year.

The final step involves a reduction by the costs of any non-instructional programs which lack effectiveness and efficiency. In order to implement this type of reduction, respondent must follow procedures set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1.

During the hearing, there was testimony concerning expense items which could be viewed as ineffective or inefficient. However, respondent did not follow the appropriate procedures or propose any specific adjustments. Under the circumstances, no adjustments will be made to petitioner's maintenance budget to eliminate ineffective or inefficient expenditures.

In this regard, it is noteworthy that the parties devoted a substantial portion of the limited time available for this proceeding to argument concerning the appropriate standard for a maintenance budget. It may well be that with additional time petitioner could document a need for additional health benefits or that respondent could demonstrate that petitioner has made expenditures on ineffective or inefficient non-instructional programs.

Petitioner requested supplemental aid in the amount of $436,265. Based on the above analysis, this amount must be reduced by $59,750 and $213,756, leaving a net amount of $162,759.

During the hearing, petitioner contended that it would have to cut programs, positions or services if it did not receive approval of the full amount of its request for supplemental aid. However, as the result of cross-examination, it became apparent that there are sources of potential savings such that a reduction in petitioner's request for supplemental aid will not require elimination of currently approved programs, positions or services.

Based upon the above, I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner should receive supplemental aid in the amount of $162,759 for the 2003-04 school year. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioner's application for supplemental aid is approved in a reduced amount of $162,759.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommendation decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Sept. 24, 2003
DATE

RICHARD McGILL, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9/24/03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9/24/03
DATE

cml

APPENDIX

WITNESS LIST

For petitioner:

Peter Higgins

For respondent:

Stanley J. Ferdinand

EXHIBIT LIST

P-1	Letter dated May 30, 2003, from Gordon MacInnes to O. John DiSalvo	Evidence
P-2	School District Budget Statement for School Year 2003-2004	Evidence
P-3	School District Budget Statement for School Year 2002-2003	Evidence
P-4	Letter dated August 27, 2003, from Gordon MacInnes to O. John DiSalvo	Evidence
P-5	Maintenance and Supplemental Aid Determination	Evidence
P-6	Board Secretary's Report for school year ended June 30, 2003	Evidence

P-7	Maintenance and Supplemental Aid Determination revised by Harrison Board of Education	Evidence
P-8	Schedule entitled "Salaries"	Evidence
P-9	Order of Supreme Court of New Jersey Dated July 23, 2003	Identification
P-10	Work papers	Identification
P-11	Work papers	Identification
P-12	School District Budget Statement for School Year 2003-2004 Revenues	Evidence
R-1	Letter dated February 24, 2003, from Gordon MacInnes to O. John DiSalvo	Evidence

OAL DKT. NO. EDU. 5494-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 195-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF HARRISON, HUDSON COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-2004 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of Harrison and those of the Department, along with the Department's reply exceptions were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner determines to adopt in part and reject in part the Initial Decision of the OAL. Initially, the Commissioner notes that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) correctly recognizes that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R.2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n., 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995).

The ALJ next undertakes to address the issue of whether the Department's quantitative method of implementing its regulatory definition of "maintenance budget" is inconsistent with the literal language contained in the regulation and in the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003. The ALJ concludes that the Department's methodology has, in effect, inappropriately substituted the phrase "funds approved and actually spent during the 2002-2003 school year" for the Supreme Court language authorizing funding for "current approved" programs, services and positions and for the regulatory language "approved and provided." The Commissioner observes that while it may be technically correct that merely looking at dollar amounts paid out prior to June 30, 2003 will not necessarily reflect actual costs of programs, services and positions provided, i.e., payment for items actually provided prior to June 30 may not actually have been made by June 30, it is also true that the budgeted amount, likewise, does not necessarily reflect actual costs of programs, etc., provided. Therefore, the ALJ's abrupt conclusion that the budgeted amounts for lines 11 and 15 must be reinstated does not follow from his analysis. Those services, programs and positions, which were provided and which are reflected on lines 11 and 15, were provided at an actual cost which was less than the budgeted cost. The Commissioner concludes that a methodology which begins by estimating the 2003-2004 cost of providing the same programs, services and positions by looking at the actual cost of providing these for 2002-2003 and then adds the projected costs of reasonable, nondiscretionary expenditures and adjustments is a reasonable method for estimating future costs which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision.

In light of the above, the Commissioner finds the Department's implementation methodology entirely consistent with both the verbal standards articulated in the regulation and the Court's order. The ALJ's interpretation of "maintenance budget" on pages 10-11 of his decision is hereby clarified to so reflect. It must also be remembered, that if funds provided pursuant to the Department's utilized methodology prove to be insufficient because of unforeseen circumstances arising during the budget year, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism for addressing the need for additional supplemental funding. The Commissioner, therefore, restores the Department's adjustments reducing spending funds for lines 11 and 15 by $1,165,331 and $889,380, respectively.

With respect to the sums budgeted in 2002-2003 for the salary of an athletic trainer ($50,750) and that of a per-event athletic trainer ($9,000), positions which were not filled in that year, the Commissioner concurs with the determination of the ALJ. Pursuant to the "maintenance" standard, programs, services and positions must have been actually provided or filled in 2002-2003 in order to be aided for 2003-2004, so that the $59,750 approved and budgeted for these unfilled positions was properly deducted from the District's 2003-2004 "maintenance" budget.

Turning to the last issue in dispute herein, health coverage for hourly cafeteria aides, the Commissioner is in agreement with the ALJ that this item must be denied for lack of documentation in the record to support the District's assertion that this represents a non-discretionary expenditure.[1]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted in part and rejected in part. The Commissioner directs that the District's need for supplemental aid be recalculated in accordance with the above determinations. The instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

[1] It is noted that the District, for the first time in its exceptions, attempted to submit supplementary documentation in support of this item. Submission of new evidence not presented at hearing in a party's exceptions is specifically prohibited by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and, consequently, the District's materials in this regard were not considered herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[2] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

573-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Abbott district claimed the Department erroneously calculated its presumptive supplemental funding award for the 2002-03 school year and wrongfully reduced aid by the amount of the district's surplus in excess of 2%, which the Department prevented it from expending for additional supplemental programs or services. District also sought aid above presumptive level based on claims that loss of unfunded programs and services impaired core elements and essential enhancements of whole school reform.

The ALJ found that, with one exception, the Department correctly calculated district's presumptive aid award in accordance with Court directives and that the district did not meet the burden necessary to establish on appeal that further funding was necessary. ALJ sustained the Department's actions with respect to excess surplus, but found that the Department erred in not providing additional aid for the district's actual and documented expenditures for the second half-day of kindergarten. The ALJ directed the parties to calculate this amount and ordered the Department to disburse the requisite aid.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision, with clarification, in all respects except funding for the second half-day of full-day kindergarten. Commissioner agreed with the Department that aid was to be calculated on the basis of an underlying budget which must provide for full-day kindergarten, not increased by the dollar amount of second half-day kindergarten expenditures. Petition was dismissed.

October 9, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 727-03 and
EDU 728-03
AGENCY DKT. NOS. 46-2/03 AND 122-4/02

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY, Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

James T. Hundley, Esq., co-counsel for petitioner (Hundley Parry, attorneys)

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: June 4, 2003 Decided: June 25, 2003

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In the first of these matters, assigned OAL Dkt. No. EDU 727-03, petitioner appeals the determination of respondent made by Assistant Commissioner MacInnes in his letter of January 6, 2003, which identifies a general fund surplus in excess of two percent in the amount of $817,018 and, in accordance with fiscal year 2002-2003 Appropriations Act, reduced petitioner's Abbott State Aid Award by that amount. Petitioner also challenges the action taken by respondent by Assistant Commissioner MacInnes in his letter of January 15, 2003, refusing to approve any additional expenditures of undesignated general fund balance exceeding two percent for use in supplemental programs and/or services, based on the fiscal year 2002-2003 Appropriations Act.

In the second of these matters, assigned OAL Dkt. No. EDU 728-03, petitioner appeals respondent's actions of March 26, 2002, which certifies petitioner's fiscal year 2002-2003 line 00284 Abbott v. Burke Budget fiscal year 2001-02 funding level of $6,518,318 and the action of Assistant Commissioner MacInnes in his letter of June 17, 2002, further reducing the funding to $5,844,432.

The matters were assigned to me on April 17, 2003, and after a number of telephone conferences and settlement conferences, the matter was scheduled for hearing and was heard on April 17, May 1 and May 5, 2003. At the conclusion of the hearings, the record remained open at the joint request of the parties in order to afford them the opportunity to provide post hearing briefs. After these were received following some brief extensions, the record was closed on June 4, 2003.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following is not intended to be a verbatim recitation of the testimony. It is intended to identify and summarize relevant portions of the testimony of the witness and the evidence presented in this matter.

Abbott ex rel. Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002)

By way of background, it is noted that on April 18, 2002, the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), with the consent of the Education Law Center, filed a motion for relaxation of the Abbott IV and Abbott V remedies for the 2002-2003 school year. By order dated June 11, 2002, the Supreme Court denied the DOE's request for authorization to preclude any district appeals seeking supplemental funding for 2002-2003 in excess of 2001-2002 funding,

> . . . subject to the DOE's authority presumptively and preliminarily to establish districts' supplemental funding for 2002-2003 at the level of expenditures contained in the 2001-2002 K-12 DOE approved district budget, as increased by actual and documented 2001-2002 expenditures for the second half of kindergarten, as modified by DOE to take into account 2001-2002 actual expenditures and available revenues based on the district annual audits; . . .
>
> Abbott ex rel. Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294, 297 (2002). (Abbott IX)

The Court did grant the DOE's request for one year to afford districts flexibility to eliminate, reduce or limit growth of certain specified whole school reform enhancements, and to eliminate, modify and make educationally appropriate decisions about staffing and positions subject to the Abbott districts "right of appeal based on educational need related to impairment of the core elements of whole school reform and essential enhancements thereof . . . " Id. at 298.

Testimony of David A. Mooij, School District Business Administrator

The first witness to testify for petitioner was David A. Mooij, Business Administrator for the Neptune Township School District (Neptune). Mr. Mooij testified that Neptune became an Abbott school district in 1999. He was involved in the preparation of the school district's 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 budgets. He identified a school district budget statement for the school year 2002-2003 which set forth the various categories of Abbott v. Burke Aid (P-1). He testified that in 2000-2001 there was no Abbott v. Burke supplemental aid because the school district was preparing whole school reform and, therefore, no request was made. He was involved in preparation of the application for supplemental aid for 2001-02 and he explained that the DOE established a minimum tax levy.

In the winter of 2001-02, Mooij was involved in the preparation of the 2002-2003 budget. He attended a meeting with an assistant commissioner in March 2002, and was told that nothing had been determined yet with respect to the level of Abbott v. Burke Aid. He identified a letter of March 11, 2002, which suggested that school district assume the same level of funding of the current school year for the 2002-03 school year (P-2, Exhibit 12). However, as of that date, the school district was about to finalize the budget containing additional Abbott v. Burke Aid in the amount of $8,402,328. This was approximately two million dollars more than the prior year. Neptune took no action to change its application because there had been nothing definite received from the DOE.

Neptune received correspondence from the DOE concerning Abbott preschool expansion aid funding (P-2, Exhibit 14). Neptune also received a memo of March 18, 2002 (P-2, Exhibit 15) setting forth emergency procedures to adjust the school district's budgets. In this memo, it was stated that the Department has determined that Abbott districts will receive additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (Supplemental Funding) capped up to 2001-2002 levels with the actual amount determined following Department review of district budgets in collaboration with districts. Because there is no specific funding level determined by this items of correspondence, no action was taken by Neptune on line 00284 of its budget until there were definitive amounts announced by the DOE.

A public hearing on the budget was held on March 26, 2002, and the school board approved the proposed budget for submission to the voters at the annual school election (P-1, Exhibit 17). This budget was submitted to the voters and was narrowly approved.

On March 27, 2002, Neptune received a faxed memo from the DOE (P-2, Exhibit 18) directing that Neptune submit a second and balanced budget by April 1, 2002. As a result of this, Neptune reduced funding to the 2001-2002 level and prepared a second budget. (P-3). This anticipated additional Abbott v. Burke aid on line 00284 in the amount of $6,518,318, is the same amount as provided in the prior school year. Based on the instructions by the DOE, Neptune's business division advised the superintendent to reduce programs commensurate with the reduction in appropriations. As a result of the school district revision, a reduction of 1.9 million dollars in Abbott v. Burke state aid was required and no procedures existed to make-up the loss of this aid. There were no additional opportunities for the board of education to meet.

It was only as a result of a letter of June 17, 2002 (P-4) that Neptune was placed on some type of official notification that not only was the funding level not the same as the prior year, but was further reduced by an additional $860,000 to $5,844,432. Mr. Mooij testified that there was no official communication from the DOE concerning this figure prior to June 17, 2002. There is also no understanding as to how this figure was arrived at. It was understood that there was a $250,000 fund balance carry-over which Neptune applied in both of its budget submissions (P-1 and P-3).

As a result of the June 17, 2002 letter (P-4), further reductions were made in the appropriations by Dr. Lake. This is contained in the August 13, 2002 revised school district budget (P-5) and this matches the letter of June 17, 2002 (P-4). This was approved by the DOE by letter dated September 30, 2002 (P-6).

Mr. Mooij reported a further reduction in Abbott funding as a result of the school district's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) or annual audit, which identified a general fund surplus of $817,018 in excess of two percent. Based on the fiscal year 2002-03 Appropriations Act, the Commissioner is permitted to reallocate a school district's undesignated general fund balances in excess of two percent. Thus, the Abbott v. Burke State Aid was reduced by this amount. Mr. Mooij explained that Abbott districts can only carry two percent and this two percent cap was started in fiscal year 2001-2002. As a result, the Abbott funding was reduced to $5,027,000. Mr. Mooij explained that the cause of this surplus was the result of having received notification in March 2002 of Abbott Parity Aid Payback of $862,000 which had been returned to Neptune. However, because Neptune was unaware of its receipt, the Parity Aid was not expended and was included in surplus. As a result, the DOE reduced Neptune's 2002-2003 Abbott funding. In March 2002, Neptune requested a hardship appeal seeking relief from this further reduction. There was no communication from the DOE as to this appeal and as a result, expenditures were stopped, and Neptune had a serious cash flow problem.

Mr. Mooij testified that the actual and documented costs of the half-day of kindergarten in 2001-2002 could have been readily determined by Neptune at the end of school in June 2002 without the need to wait for the CAFR in November 2002. Since the DOE never requested this information from Mr. Mooij, the DOE never determined the actual expenditures for the half day of Neptune's kindergarten program in the 2001-02 school year or increased 2002-2003 supplemental funding by that amount.

Testimony of Dr. Michael T. Lake, Neptune Superintendent of Schools

Dr. Michael T. Lake, Neptune's Superintendent of Schools, testified to the preparation of the 2002-2003 school year budget. Neptune has one early childhood center, five elementary schools, one middle school and one high school. It used a centralized approach to budget preparation as recommended by the DOE. It has an elaborate budgeting process with school-based budgets proposed by school management teams. As the Superintendent, Dr. Lake works closely with the school principals who generate a budget document from each school site. Neptune considers the needs of the children as sacrosanct. He coordinates these budgets with the DOE's Abbott advisers.

With respect to the budget in question, Dr. Lake indicated it was a very difficult time and he received mixed messages from the DOE. However, if budget guidance from the DOE was not in writing, Neptune would not follow that guidance, and the Superintendent would not be guided by rumor or hearsay. Thus, Neptune prepared an initial school budget calling for additional or supplemental Abbott v. Burke Aid of $8,400,000. He indicated that this was arrived at after he made significant cuts in the management team proposals. The DOE subsequently notified Neptune of the reduction of available funds to $6.5 million, and the school district was again required to reduce expenditures. There were extensive reductions in whole school reform budgets. There were reductions in personnel, computers, textbooks, parent training, etc. The cuts were from the trivial to the major. There was a wide range of cuts and Neptune ended up with a rather bare bones approach to the needs of the children. He noted that the DOE's letter of June 17, 2003 (P-4), also only gave estimated figures. When he received this, he could not believe that he would receive this letter giving estimated revenues and requiring reductions by June 24, 2002. It would take longer than the minimal number of days the district was provided to make these reductions, and he advised Assistant Commissioner MacInnes by letter dated June 21, 2002, that this could not be accomplished by June 24, 2002.

As a result of Dr. Lake's review of the budget and making significant reductions, Neptune's budget was brought into compliance with DOE's spending levels. He outlined the personnel reductions in a letter dated July 22, 2002 (P-10). The personnel reductions involved 17 paraprofessional positions, seven teaching positions, including one at the middle school, one at the high school, and five elementary, one career counselor in the middle school, one substance abuse counselor in the high school, two social workers and two special education teaching positions.

Dr. Lake testified that the impact of these reductions was disastrous. The school district had totally embraced whole school reform, but as a result of this, there was a quantum leap backwards. He was at wit's end to prepare this revised budget, and it reduced the educational mission of the school district

Dr. Lake testified to the specific reductions. Under the Comer Model, each school is required to have two paraprofessional positions. He explained that the classes are large. Neptune continues to employ paraprofessionals but there are 17 less than last year, even though the enrollment has increased by 200 pupils. The average class size has gone up, and Abbott requires an average class size of 18 in grades K through 2 and 21 in grades 3 through 5, but the school district has gone backwards. The seven teachers are Comer facilitators, but there are seven less teachers this year than last year. Career counselors in the middle schools are also required Abbott positions. Last year, there were two and this year there is only one. One social worker per school is required, but this was reduced to five in total. Substance abuse counselors are recommended to be one at the middle school and one at the high school, but this was reduced to a total of one. With regard to resource room and special education teachers, the school district was attempting to reduce class sizes, but had to cut back. Resource room class sizes now comply with the special education code requirements.

The effect on the education program was that the school district rolled back to pre-Abbott days. Classes are oversized and children are not getting services. Kindergarten through twelfth grade children have suffered.

Dr. Lake testified that as a result of the DOE's June 17, 2002 determination as to supplemental aid, Neptune was required to eliminate the following positions in the 2002-03 budget: 17 paraprofessionals; seven teaching positions; one career counselor; one substance abuse counselor; two social workers; and two special education teachers (P-10). Neptune also had to cancel orders for replacement science books for grades 7-8 and for a new K-5 spelling program in order to replace a 15-year old program that does not conform to the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards (CCCS) (P-11). Neptune also was not able to make the final payment on the lease/purchase of obsolete, seven-year-old computer hardware used for computer-assisted instruction . (P-11) Dr. Lake testified that the payoff of the lease/purchase agreement would have reduced the need for State funding.

Dr. Lake testified that Neptune did not become aware of the reduction in DOE funding until after the local tax share had been approved by the board of education and submitted for placement on the ballot. Thus, there was no opportunity to make up any shortfall.

Dr. Lake also testified concerning the specific reductions in the budget that resulted from the DOE's determination as to supplemental funding. He testified that Neptune determined that there was an educational need for those positions, programs and services, and they were all part of the 2001-2002 budget. However, Neptune was required to eliminate them in 2002-2003 because of the reduction in additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

Dr. Lake's testimony as to the effect of the reduction in additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid may be broken down into nine categories as follows:

Elimination of 17 Paraprofessionals. Dr. Lake testified that 10 of the 17 paraprofessionals are required by the Comer Model and were to assist with early literacy classes in grades 1-3. Neptune's early literacy program consisted of 90-minute blocks of time for reading instruction, and the paraprofessionals were to assist the teacher by providing small group and individualized instruction. Dr. Lake testified that the district and the Comer developer had determined that these positions were needed to deliver the educational services necessary to address literacy problems in Neptune's elementary schools. As a result of the unavailability of these aides, Neptune has abandoned the grades 1-3 reading groups in the 2002-03 school year. The other seven paraprofessionals were to be assigned to the full-day kindergarten program to provide individualized support with readiness skills and other individualized instruction. Dr. Lake stated that the principals at each of the elementary schools have reported the adverse impact on the development of kindergarten students as a result of the elimination of these positions, an increase in referrals to the child study teams and an increase in discipline problems because of the loss of paraprofessional assistance in kindergarten classes.

Apparently, when Dr. Lake was questioned about the facilitators by the DOE's representative, Ms. Fair-Davis, he responded to the effect that they had been retained by Neptune. Dr. Lake explained that he understood the question to be whether facilitators-teachers had been retained, not the distinct position of facilitators. He did not indicate to Ms. Fair-Davis that the retained facilitators/teachers were solely performing teaching functions. Ms. Fair Davis then noted in her checklist that facilitators/teachers had been maintained in each elementary school. (R-17).

Elimination of Seven Teaching Positions. Dr. Lake testified that five instructional facilitators at the elementary schools, one at the middle school and one at the high school were eliminated. Petitioner asserts that the elementary school facilitators are required by the Comer Model and, under the DOE's directives, are a core element of whole school reform (P-4 page 2). The facilitators receive special training to assist classroom teachers in the implementation of the Comer Model and work closely with the staff, parents and community to establish a climate for academics. They also provide early intervention for students with social, personal and academic difficulties. Dr. Lake stated that without these facilitators, a core element of the Comer Model is not being properly implemented in Neptune. Because of funding cuts, these individuals were assigned to classroom teaching responsibilities. Dr. Lake also testified about the need for facilitators in the middle school and high school. They worked closely with the social workers and guidance counselors on interventions for at risk students and with parents on problems that interfered with a student's educational progress. If the problems of these students are not addressed, the problems escalate and the students eventually spin out of control. Because these facilitators are no longer available, there is a reduction in staff to respond to students who are experiencing difficulties.

On cross-examination, Dr. Lake was asked why the August 13, 2002 budget (R-12) contains the same number of teaching positions for the 2002-2003 school year as the 2001-2002 school year. He indicated that while the positions may have remained in the budget there was no funding for the positions.

Career Counselor. Dr. Lake testified that this is also a required position under the Comer Model implemented in the middle school. Dr. Lake testified that only 56% of students in the school system advance to a two-four-year college. Most of the other students require early preparation for various workplace vocations. The career counselor would cycle through middle school classrooms to provide necessary vocational and career information, to assist students to explore career opportunities, and to help students develope job-seeking skills.

Substance Abuse Counselor. Dr. Lake testified that Neptune previously had full-time substance abuse counselors at both the middle school and the high school. This was a certificated staff member who is needed to deal with students who are substance abusers. Neptune has a large population of students that are medically and emotionally troubled and the substance abuse counselor meets with these students individually or in groups on a daily basis. There is now only one substance abuse counselor who must divide time between the middle school and the high school.

Two Social Workers. Dr. Lake testified that social workers are certificated staff members required under the Comer whole school reform model. One of their principal responsibilities is to work in the community after regular school hours to address student needs and to strengthen the connections between the community and the school. They also assist parents who need help and address student problems that impair student attendance and learning readiness.

Two Special Education Teaching Positions. Dr. Lake testified that although Neptune's resource room class sizes comply with applicable requirements, these positions were necessary to properly serve students with special education needs. There is a diminished level of individual services provided to special education students in the 2002-2003 school year which impedes Neptune's ability to implement properly the Individualized Educational Program (IEP) for all the high school students with special education needs and places Neptune at risk of violating special education laws.

Textbooks. Dr. Lake testified that Neptune is currently utilizing a fifteen-year-old spelling program for grades K-6 which does not conform to the CCCS. Neptune also requested funding for a new science program for grades 7-8, and the current science textbook does not conform to the requirements of the CCCS. Dr. Lake indicated that the replacement textbooks are needed for the proper instructional implementation of the CCCS in the district.

Lease-Purchase Payment. Dr. Lake testified that Neptune also requested funding to make the pay-out on a five-year lease purchase for computer hardware. He explained that by making this payment now, Neptune can not only save the State money and be more efficient, but also it will be able to initiate the necessary steps to replace out-dated computer equipment for classroom instructional purposes.

Reallocation of general fund surplus from 2001-2002 in excess of two percent. After the DOE received Neptune's CAFR, the DOE required the District to reallocate the general fund surplus from 2001-2002 which exceeded two percent, or $817,018 to the 2002-03 budget. The DOE correspondingly reduced the award of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for 2002-2003 by that amount. (P-7)

Neptune's annual audit or CAFR revealed $817,018 in general fund surplus in excess of two percent for the school year ending June 30, 2002. (R-10). By letter dated November 19, 2002, (P-11), Neptune requested approval to permit it to transfer $750,000 from its 2001-2002 free balance audit account to the school district's budget. (P-11). On January 6, 2003, the DOE notified Neptune that Neptune must appropriate the $817,018 in general fund surplus in excess of two percent into the 2002-2003 district budget, and the DOE would reduce Neptune's Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid by that same amount because Neptune's educational program contained in the August 13, 2002 budget "was evaluated to ensure all the core components required by the Court had been included." (Verified Petition of Appeal, dated February 3, 2003, Exhibit D). By separate letter dated January 6, 2003, the Department modified Neptune's estimated Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid, and directed Neptune to appropriate the $817,018 in General Fund surplus into the 2002-2003 district budget. (P-7). At the same time, the DOE notified Neptune that its Additional Abbott v Burke State aid would be reduced by $817,018. Thus, there would be no change to the overall amount of the August 13, 2002 budget approved by the DOE. On January 15, 2003, Assistant Commissioner MacInnes rejected Dr. Lake's proposal to use $750,000 of the general fund surplus for programs and services which Neptune claimed were needed in the school district for the 2002-2003 school year. (Verified Petition of Appeal, Exhibit D).

Testimony of Glenn Forney, former DOE Budget Manager to the Neptune School District

Glenn Forney testified for respondent DOE. Mr. Forney was previously assigned as a DOE Budget Manager to the Neptune School District, and now serves as Acting Assistant Director of Fiscal Review and Improvement for Abbott Implementation. He testified that, consistent with the Supreme Court's June 11th Order, the DOE accurately calculated Neptune's estimated Additional Abbott v Burke State aid for the 2002-2003 school year as reflected in the Department's June 17, 2002 letter (P-4).

Mr. Forney testified that the DOE's calculation (R-9) presumes that the revenues in Neptune's 2001-2002 K-12 budget must equal expenditures. The DOE used revenues rather than expenditures in its calculation because the calculation occurred before information on actual expenditures was available.

Mr. Forney calculated Neptune's 2001-2002 PreK-12 DOE approved budget based on the budgeted revenues derived from the August 13, 2002 budget (R-9). Based on the budgeted revenues, Neptune's PreK-12 DOE approved budget in 2001-2002 was $60,054,725 (R-9). Mr. Forney then factored out the costs of Neptune's preschool program for three- and four-year olds in order to determine Neptune's 2001-2002 K-12 DOE approved budget. Based on Neptune's DOE approved early childhood plan for 2001-2002, the cost of Neptune's preschool program was $5,852,885. Once this amount was factored out, Mr. Forney determined that Neptune's 2001-

2002 K-12 DOE approved budget was $54,201,840. (R-9) This amount became the targeted amount and Mr. Forney then determined the amount of Additional Abbott v Burke State aid necessary to reach Neptune's K-12 budget for 2002-2003 of $54,201,840. He totaled Neptune's budgeted revenues derived from the August 13, 2002 budget with the exception of Additional Abbott v Burke State aid, and factored out the costs of Neptune's preschool program for three- and four-year olds in order to determine Neptune's 2002-2003 K-12 DOE approved budget. Based on Neptune's DOE approved early childhood plan for 2002-2003, the cost of Neptune's preschool program was $6,408,810. Once this amount was factored out, the DOE determined that Neptune needed $5,844,432 in Additional Abbott v Burke State aid to establish 2002-2003 revenues at the level of expenditures contained in the 2001-2002 K-12 DOE approved district budget.

Mr. Forney testified that, because the DOE's calculation included the full amount of kindergarten costs in the 2001-2002 school year, it was unnecessary to increase the K-12 DOE approved budget for the second half-day of kindergarten.

In response, Neptune made reductions to the budget (P-10), and submitted a budget dated August 13, 2002, incorporating those reductions, that included Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid in the amount of $5,844,432 (P-5). The Department contends that the amount of reductions made by Neptune did not coincide with the amount of reductions necessary to be in compliance with DOE's letter of June 17, 2002 (P-4), and the Supreme Court's June 11, 2002 order. The DOE has taken the position that Neptune was required to make reductions in the amount of $673,886, but, according to the testimony of Dr. Lake, Neptune made reductions of approximately $1,209,000.

There is no provision in this calculation (R-9) for the increase in funding for the second half of kindergarten mentioned in Abbott IX. In response to questioning why there was no mention of the half-day of kindergarten in the calculation, and the absence of any line item for the second half of kindergarten in the 2002-03 revenue column, Mr. Forney testified that the funding was included in the 2002-2003 budget calculated by the DOE. He assumed that since Neptune had funded the half-day of kindergarten in 2001-2002 out of the revenues available to the school district in that year, the half-day of kindergarten could be funded with the same level of revenues in 2002-2003. Mr. Forney denied that the DOE was required under Abbott IX to increase the amount of supplemental funding in 2002-2003 to include funding from the DOE for the half day of kindergarten. Based on this interpretation, the DOE never requested that Neptune provide to the DOE the actual and documented costs of the half-day of kindergarten in 2001-2002.

Testimony of Jami Fair-Davis, Acting Manager, Program Improvement Regional Center – Central.

Ms. Jami Fair-Davis, Acting Manager, Program Improvement Regional Center – Central, testified to the process by which Neptune's proposed budget was reviewed. First she reviewed Neptune's August 13, 2002 budget to determine whether the budget contained sufficient funds to fully implement the approved early childhood preschool program and the core components of whole school reform (WSR) in compliance with the letter from Assistant Commissioner MacInnes (P-4). After she looked at Neptune's budget submissions, she corresponded with Dr. Lake with any questions and concerns that she had. She identified her first e-mail to Dr. Lake asking about any losses in staff (R-14). She received a response from Dr. Lake (R-15). There was additional correspondence which addressed her concerns but did not clarify the situation. She then contacted Dr. Lake by telephone and worked through the checklist with him on September 26, 2002 (R-16). His responses are in parenthesis on the checklist. As a result of her conversation with Dr. Lake she came away with no concerns about the program being implemented in accordance with the Abbott requirements.

Ms. Fair-Davis also testified that she was aware of the testimony of Dr. Lake, that Neptune had adopted and implemented the Comer Model in all of its schools. Dr. Lake also testified at length on the need for certain programs and services for Neptune students to avoid impairment of the core elements of the Comer Model and the essential enhancements thereof. She testified that she became familiar with the Comer Model and with the School Reform Handbook. She explained that the Comer Model does not require specific positions, but rather requires compliance with principles. For example, the Comer Model requires social services but does not require a social worker. The Comer Model suggests that a half-time district facilitator be provided for each school.

Ms. Fair-Davis testified that she understood from discussions with Dr. Lake that Neptune had in place the core elements and essential enhancements that the DOE determined should be funded in 2002-2003. She admitted that she never discussed with the Comer developer what components Comer considered to be the core elements and essential enhancements of their whole school reform models at the elementary, middle and high school levels. Ms. Fair-Davis testified that the DOE determined the components that would be funded in the 2002-2003 school year. She filled out a checklist to determine that the core elements and essential enhancements had been adequately funded in Neptune. She admitted that she did not inquire of Dr. Lake whether the Comer Model had been customized by the developer in Neptune to meet the school district's particular needs or whether other core elements and essential enhancements were part of the Comer Model adopted by the District. Ms. Fair-Davis also did not assess whether Neptune had an educational need under Abbott IX for any programs and services that were outside the components listed by the DOE in its directives to Neptune.

Ms. Fair-Davis' testimony is that after a careful review of Neptune's budget, which included several communications with Dr. Lake, she confirmed that each of the core components and essential enhancements of WSR set forth in P-4 were maintained (R-16). Based on this, the DOE conditionally approved Neptune's budget. (P-6).

Ms. Fair-Davis testified that when she questioned Dr. Lake as to whether the facilitators had been retained by Neptune, he responded in the affirmative. Ms. Fair Davis then noted in her checklist under "Maintain WSR Facilitators" that "facilitators/teachers maintained in each elementary school." (R-17). She admitted that she made no effort to follow-up on her inquiry to determine how the "facilitators/teachers" could function as facilitators, nor did she take any action after she was notified in writing that the facilitators were functioning solely as teachers. (R-5).

Yut'Se Thomas, the Director of the DOE's Office of School Funding, was also called as a witness. However, her brief testimony was not relevant to the issues before me in this matter.

ISSUES TO BE DECIDED

Based on the arguments of the parties at the hearing and their respective post-hearing submissions, I believe that the issues in this matter are:

1. As a preliminary matter, does Abbott ex rel. Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX) utilize a different legal standard in school district appeals from the denial of funding for positions, programs and services "related to" the core elements of whole school reform (WSR) and essential enhancements thereof, and that if the school district is able to demonstate that programs and services address social and personal problems that impair learning, those programs and services must be funded?

2. Did Neptune establish its entitlement to additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for or during the 2002-2003 school year?

3. Whether Abbott IX requires that districts receive funding from the DOE for the second half-day of kindergarten?

4. Whether the DOE's denial of Neptune's request to use its general fund surplus in excess of two percent for various purposes violated the legal standard established in Abbott IX, and is also arbitrary and capricious because it was based on a fundamental misreading of the fiscal year 2003 Appropriations Act.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

I will now attempt to address the issues raised by the parties in this matter.

Issue 1: Does Abbott IX extend the school district's appeal right so as to require the funding of programs or services whose elimination or reduction damages, weakens or diminishes the core elements and essential enhancements of the whole school reform model?

Attorney for petitioner argues that in Abbott ex rel. Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002), or Abbott IX, the Supreme Court established a new legal standard for consideration of supplemental funding appeals. He asserts that the Court ruling held that Abbott districts had the right to appeal K-12 supplemental funding decisions "based on educational need related to impairment of the core elements of whole school reform and essential enhancements thereof..." (Abbott IX at 298). He argues that in deciding the DOE's motion to stay further increases in Abbott v. Burke funding, the Court refused to accept the DOE's narrow formulation and it held that a district could appeal the denial of funding for positions, programs and services "related to" and not limited to the core elements of whole school reform and essential enhancements thereof. He additionally argues that by including "impairment" in the standard, the Court indicated that the appeal right extends to programs or services whose elimination or reduction damages, weakens or diminishes the core elements and essential enhancements of the whole school reform model. Therefore, he contends that a school district's appeals rights in such proceedings are significantly broader.

Attorney for the DOE argues that such a standard would be contrary to previous Abbott decisions as well as the regulations implementing the Abbott decisions. He argues that the Supreme Court has clearly stated that Abbott districts must be able to demonstrate a need for supplemental programs, relying on Abbott V, 153 N.J. at 517, and that this standard is articulated in the regulations implementing the Abbott decisions. He asserts that petitioner herein must provide evidence demonstrating that the programs and positions were effective and efficient in addressing the particularized needs of Neptune's students, and relies on the fiscal year 2003 Appropriations Act which requires the Commissioner to ensure that all Abbott funds are used in an effective and efficient manner. He contends that Neptune must demonstrate that any particularized needs cannot be addressed through existing programs and positions, referring to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.2(a)(6) and (7) which require Abbott districts to demonstrate that a supplemental program or service does not duplicate or overlap with existing programs and services. He also asserts that an Abbott district must also demonstrate that the positions and programs, in previous school years, effectively addressed any particularized needs of its students, referring to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.2(a)(4) which requires Abbott districts to demonstrate that a supplemental program or service is documented by evidence that the program or service for success in the school and/or in other schools with similar characteristics and is proven to address the identified need. Finally, respondent argues that an Abbott district must provide documentary evidence such as a "needs assessment" demonstrating that its students had particularized needs, referring to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.1 et seq. Respondent relies on Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. NO. EDU 5574-01, decided November 19, 2001, in support of its position

I agree with the position being taken by respondent DOE as to this issue. The purpose of the Supreme Court's decision in Abbott IX was to address fiscal concerns raised by the State of New Jersey, not to deal with the substance of Abbott appeal procedures. There is no discussion in Abbott IX which may be construed as changing the regulatory framework established by the DOE for dealing with Abbott appeals. To construe Abbott IX to change the focus or framework for Abbott appeals would be contrary to the entire purpose and intent of Abbott IX. Its clear intent was to deal with fiscal exigencies in a manner that would not only permit the Department to deal with those exigencies, but also provide to school districts the right to appeal in order to deal with their individual needs. I FIND that the Supreme Court's order in Abbott IX does not relieve the appealing school district of its obligation and responsibility to comply with the requirements of duly adopted regulations in order to establish its entitlement to additional funding. In such cases, the determinations of the school district as to the particularized needs of its students are entitled to deference as long as such determinations are supported by the data or assessments required by the regulations. See, Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth v. New Jersey Department of Education, supra., OAL Dkt. NO. EDU 5574-01, decided November 19, 2001.

Issue 2: Did Neptune establish its entitlement to additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the 2002-2003 school year?

Attorney for petitioner framed the issues related to funding as whether the DOE erroneously and unconstitutionally deprived Neptune of adequate Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid to address critical needs of Neptune's disadvantaged students during the 2002-2003 school year?

The only witness to testify in support of the educational need for the requests that are under consideration in this matter was Dr. Michael T. Lake, Neptune's Superintendent of Schools. He testified that the school district fully embraced whole school reform and that the school district prepared its initial budget through management team proposals. As a result of the DOE funding at a level equal to the prior year, the school district was required to make extensive reductions in WSR budgets in personnel, computers, textbooks, parent training and other related areas. Personnel reductions involved 17 paraprofessional positions, seven teaching positions, including one at the middle school, one at the high school and five elementary teachers, one career counselor in the middle school, one substance abuse counselor in the high school, two social workers, and two special education teachers.

Dr. Lake testified that the impact of these reductions on Neptune was disastrous and amounted to a step backwards. The paraprofessionals had been intended to assist regular education teachers with implementation of reading programs. The inability to hire special education teachers resulted in resource room class sizes increasing, but still being in compliance with regulations implementing the federal Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. The school district was also required to cancel orders for replacement science books for grades seven and eight, and a new K-5 spelling program to replace an existing 15-year-old program that he asserts does not conform to New Jersey's CCCS. The school district was also unable to make a final payment on the lease purchase of obsolete computer hardware and if such payment had been made, it would have reduced the need for State funding.

Dr. Lake testified that 10 of the 17 eliminated paraprofessionals are required by the Comer Model to address literacy problems in Neptune's elementary schools by providing small group and individualized instruction. As a result of the unavailability of these aides, Neptune has abandoned the grades 1-3 reading groups in the 2002-2003 school year. The other seven paraprofessionals were to be assigned to provide individualized support with readiness skills and other individualized instruction to the full-day kindergarten program, and that the principals at each of the elementary schools have reported the adverse impact on the development of kindergarten students as a result of the elimination of these positions, an increase in referrals to the Child Study Teams and an increase in discipline problems.

On cross-examination, Dr. Lake was questioned why the August 13, 2002 budget (R-12) contains the same number of teaching positions for the 2002-2003 school year as the 2001-2002 school year. He indicated that while the position may remain in the budget there was no funding for the positions.

Dr. Lake testified that Neptune was required to eliminate five instructional facilitators at the elementary schools, one at the middle school and one at the high school. He testified that the elementary school facilitators are required by the Comer Model and are a core element of whole school reform (P-4 page 2). They are specially trained to assist classroom teachers and work closely with the staff, parents, social workers, guidance counselors and community, and provide early intervention for students with social, personal and academic difficulties. Without these facilitators, a core element of the Comer Model is not being properly implemented in Neptune.

However, when Dr. Lake was questioned about the facilitators, he responded that they had been retained by Neptune. He later explained that he understood the question to be whether the individuals who were to be assigned the duties of facilitators had been retained, not the positions of facilitators. He did not explain to Ms. Fair-Davis that the retained facilitators/teachers were solely performing teaching functions. However, Ms. Fair Davis then noted in her checklist under "Maintain WSR Facilitators" that "facilitators/teachers maintained in each elementary school." (R-17).

Respondent contends that Ms. Fair-Davis made no effort to follow-up on her inquiry to determine how the "facilitators/teachers" could function as full-time facilitators, as required by the Comer Model and the DOE, nor did she take any action after she was notified in writing that the facilitators were functioning solely as teachers. (R-5). Dr. Lake testified that career counselor is a required position under the Comer model, to provide necessary vocational and career information, to assist students to explore career opportunities, and to help students develop job-seeking skills.

Dr. Lake testified that Neptune previously had full-time substance abuse counselors at both the middle school and the high school to deal with students who are troubled and are substance abusers. There is now only one substance abuse counselor who must divide time between the middle school and the high school.

Dr. Lake testified that social workers are required under the Comer Model to address student needs, strengthen the connections between the community and the school, assist parents who need help and address student problems that impair attendance and learning readiness.

Dr. Lake testified to the need for two special education teachers, even though Neptune's resource room class sizes comply with the applicable requirements of the regulations implementing the IDEA.

Dr. Lake testified that Neptune's fifteen-year-old spelling program for grades K-6 and the current science textbook does not conform to the requirements of the CCCS, and that replacement textbooks are needed to implement the CCCS.

Dr. Lake testified that Neptune also requested funding to pay off a five-year lease purchase for computer hardware. He explained that by making this payment now, Neptune can not only save the State money and be more efficient, but also it will be able to initiate the necessary steps to replace out-dated computer equipment for classroom instructional purposes.

Despite the extensive detail provided in the testimony of Dr. Lake, I FIND that his testimony, while credible, was anecdotal and conclusory, and that petitioner supplied no specific facts or documentary evidence as required by the applicable regulations.

N.J.A.C. 6A:24-7.1(b) provides that an application for additional Abbott v. Burke State aid is required to include a demonstration that resources are insufficient to support all programs required by Abbott V or Abbott VI, and further reallocation would weaken the district's foundational education programs; and/or the board has determined that resources are insufficient to support Department-approved supplemental program(s) or service(s) and further reallocation would weaken the district's foundational education programs.

N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.1(b) requires a determination whether a particularized need exists by first undertaking a needs assessment including:

1. An assessment of student achievement in meeting CCCS and identification of particular populations of students not meeting such standards;

2. Where the CCCS are not being met, a determination that failure of those students is caused by particularized needs which are not capable of being addressed by existing WSR or required secondary programs at the school level, and an explanation as to why the existing WSR or required secondary programs are insufficient to meet the identified need(s);

3. An inventory of currently used programs and services targeted to the area(s) of need, together with an assessment of their effectiveness and efficiency in meeting such need, and an explanation as to why they are insufficient to meet the identified need(s); and

4. A review of community resources which could be used to address the identified area(s) of need and an explanation as to how they are being used or why they are not being used.

N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.1(c) provides that if a particularized need is found, recommended appropriate supplemental programs and services are required to be documented by evidence that the programs and services have worked successfully in the school and/or in other schools with similar characteristics and proven to address the identified need, the proposed plan for the program is to be submitted to the Department for approval in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.2. If resources are insufficient to support the supplemental programs or services approved pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.2 after all possible reallocation at the school and district levels have been made, the board shall apply to the Department for additional State aid in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:24-7.

N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c) provides that in rendering decisions on such applications, the same standards shall apply as are set forth for Department review in the operative rules for the type of application in dispute. The burden of proof is on the petitioning party to demonstrate that these standards were met by the applicant notwithstanding the Department's determination to the contrary. The record on appeal consists of the documents and information submitted to the Department in support of the application and any additional information relied upon by the Department in making the determination at issue.

In this case, there is conflicting testimony as to the actual requirements of the Comer

Model which was adopted by Neptune. Dr. Lake testified that ten of the eliminated paraprofessionals are required by the Comer Model to address literacy issues. However, there is no indication that literacy issues cannot be addressed in some other manner. Both parties apparently agree that facilitators are required by the Comer Model, but it is entirely unclear to me whether the positions have been budgeted and funded, but not filled, or whether they have been eliminated. Dr. Lake testified that positions such as career counselors and substance counselors are required by the Comer Model, but Ms. Fair-Davis testified that what Comer requires is that social work and counseling be provided, but that specific positions are not required by the Comer Model. Dr. Lake testified that two additional special education teachers were necessary, but there is no justification for this alleged need.

In addition, there is no testimony or documentation of a needs assessment as specified as N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.1(b). There was no evidence of an assessment of student achievement or identification of students not meeting CCCS. There is no evidence that the failure of those students not meeting CCCS is caused by particularized needs which are not being addressed by existing WSR or required programs. There is no documentation that the supplemental programs and services requested by the school district are programs and services that have worked successfully in the district or in other schools as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.19(c). There is no demonstration that existing resources are insufficient to support all programs required by Abbott V or Abbott VI, and that further allocation would weaken the district's foundation education programs, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:24-7.1(b). As specified by N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c), the burden of proof is on the school district to demonstrate that the standards set forth in the regulations were met by the district notwithstanding the DOE's determination to the contrary. I FIND that the Neptune school district has failed to meet its required burden of proof in this matter so as to support its appeal.

ISSUE 3: Whether Abbott IX requires that Neptune receive funding from the DOE for the second half-day of kindergarten?

In Abbott IX, supra, 172 N.J. at 296, the Court stated that the DOE represented that full-day kindergarten and half-day pre-school programs for three and four-year-olds will be maintained and enhanced. The DOE requested the right to limit additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental funding) for 2002-2003 for each Abbott district to the expenditures contained in the 2001-2002 K-12 DOE-approved district budget as increased by actual and documented 2001-2002 expenditures for the second half of kindergarten, as modified by DOE to take into account 2001-2002 actual expenditures and available revenues based on the district's annual audits. The Court then ordered that the DOE's request for authorization to preclude any district appeals seeking supplemental funding for 2002-2003 in excess of 2001-2002 funding was > . . . denied subject to the DOE's authority presumptively and preliminarily to establish districts' supplemental funding for 2002-2003 at the level of expenditures contained in the 2001-2002 K-12 DOE-approved district budget, as increased by actual and documented 2001-2002 expenditures for the second half of kindergarten, as modified by DOE to take into account 2001-2002 actual expenditures and available revenues based on the district annual audits.

>
> [Id. at 297.]

The critical issue is whether this language requires the DOE to assume the entire cost of funding for the second half-day of kindergarten.

There is no question that the DOE did not increase Neptune's 2002-2003 supplemental funding with documented expenditures for the second half of kindergarten as the school district argues it was obligated to do. The school district relies on what it asserts is the clear intent of the language that the DOE is responsible for funding of the second half-day of kindergarten.

In its reply, the DOE takes the position that the purpose of this language was to ensure that all Abbott districts would receive sufficient funding for full-day kindergarten. It asserts that while this is not the case in Neptune, the DOE had a concern that other Abbott districts' K-12 budget would only contain the cost for a half-day of kindergarten. This was not the case with Neptune because Neptune's K-12 DOE approved budget included the cost of full-day kindergarten. It asserts that the language in the Supreme Court order would ensure that every Abbott district receives sufficient funding for full-day kindergarten. It also asserts that the DOE's calculation of Neptune's additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for 2002-2003 included the costs of full-day kindergarten.

The DOE argues that because of the method by which the DOE calculated Neptune's K-12 DOE approved budget, had the DOE increased the K-12 DOE approved budget by the costs of the second half-day of kindergarten, as suggested by petitioner, the DOE would have "double-counted" the costs of Neptune's second half-day of kindergarten. Accordingly, consistent with the Supreme Court's June 11th Order, the DOE accurately calculated Neptune's estimated Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid for the 2002-2003 school year as reflected in the Department's June 17, 2002 letter, P-47 Consistent with the Supreme Court's June 11, 2002 Order, the DOE modified Neptune's estimated Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid for 2002-2003 by Neptune's 2001-2002 actual expenditures and available revenues based on the district annual audits. See P-7.

It is not disputed that the Supreme Court's order of June 11, 2002, requires the DOE to establish districts' supplemental funding for 2002-2003 at the same level of expenditures contained in the 2001-2002 K-12 DOE approved district budget. However, the order also requires that districts' supplemental funding for 2002-2003 be increased by actual and documented 2001-2002 expenditures for the second half of kindergarten. This portion of the order, standing alone, requires that districts receive funding from the DOE for the second half-day of kindergarten, and makes no express or implied reference to the situation where a school district may have provided its own funding for this purpose in the prior school year.

The only question is what is the effect of the final clause of that sentence, ". . . as modified by DOE to take into account 2001-2002 actual expenditures and available revenues based on the district's annual audits; . . ." In my opinion, this additional language is inserted simply to make clear that if actual expenditures were less than the amounts budgeted or appropriated, and if available revenues exceeded the amounts anticipated based on the district's annual audits, the funding level would be reduced to reflect a reduction in actual expenditures or an increase in available revenues. To my mind, and in my interpretation, this additional clause has no effect of the directive of the Supreme Court to the DOE to increase the supplemental funding of school districts for 2002-2003 by an amount required to cover the cost of the second half of kindergarten. The fact that a school district may have budgeted and provided for the second half-day of kindergarten in the 2001-2002 school year is irrelevant. Therefore, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the respondent is obligated to pay to the petitioner herein supplemental funding for 2002-2003 in an amount reflecting the actual and documented 2001-2002 expenditures for the second half of kindergarten.

It is noted that neither the DOE nor Neptune supplied the actual and documented amount of expenditures for the second half of kindergarten. Thus, the parties should be required to calculate this amount in order to carry out the directive of the Supreme Court.

ISSUE 4: Whether the DOE's denial of Neptune's request to use its general fund surplus in excess of two percent for various purposes violated the legal standard established in Abbott IX and is also arbitrary and capricious because it was based on a fundamental misreading of the fiscal year 2003 Appropriations Act.

Neptune sought approval to use its general fund surplus in excess of two percent for science textbooks, the rehiring of ten paraprofessionals, the rehiring of two social workers, the purchase of new K-5 spelling programs, and for acceleration of the final payment of the lease/purchase agreement for computer hardware. This request was denied based on language in the Fiscal Year 2003 Appropriations Act.

Neptune argues that the plain language of the Act only requires that, in setting the final amount of Abbott v. Burke supplemental aid, the Commissioner "shall consider" among other things, "a reallocation of the district's undesignated general fund balances in excess of two percent." Neptune argues that the Legislature did not require the Commissioner to reallocate the undesignated fund balance if the district needed the funds for educationally needed programs and services under Abbott IX. Therefore, Neptune argues that it was not only appropriate, but mandated by Abbott IX for the DOE to authorize the district to utilize the general fund excess for the positions, programs, and services needed in Neptune. Thus, Neptune asserts that the DOE's refusal violated the legal standard established in Abbott IX and is also arbitrary and capricious because it was based on a fundamental misreading of the fiscal year 2003 Appropriations Act.

I have previously found that Abbott IX does not create a new legal standard, and that, as specified by N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c), the burden of proof is on the school district to demonstrate that the standards set forth in the regulations were met by the district's funding application, notwithstanding the Department's determination to the contrary. I also found that Neptune failed to meet its required burden of proof in this matter. These findings also applies to Neptune's request to utilize the general fund excess over two percent for the positions, programs, and services needed in Neptune.

With respect to Neptune's contention that the DOE's refusal is also arbitrary and capricious because it is based on a fundamental misreading of the fiscal year 2003 Appropriations Act, it is necessary to review that Act. The 2003 Appropriations Act provides:

> The Commissioner of Education shall not authorize the disbursement of funds to any "Abbott district" until the commissioner is satisfied that all educational expenditures in the district will be spent effectively and efficiently in order to enable those students to achieve the core curriculum content standards. The commissioner shall be authorized to take any necessary action to fulfill this responsibility, including but not limited to, the adoption of regulations pursuant to P.L.1968, c.410 (C.52:14B-1 et seq.), related to the receipt and/ or expenditure of State aid by the "Abbott districts" and the programs, services and positions supported thereby. * * * .
>
> The amount appropriated hereinabove for Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will provide additional resources to "Abbott districts" and will be distributed by district in an amount that shall not exceed the amount necessary for the district to maintain spending for its K-12 programs at the level authorized and expended by each district in 2001-2002. Before the Commissioner of Education establishes the final district award, he shall first review the budgets and any other financial statements, including the annual audit filed pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:23-1, of each "Abbott district" that has requested Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid. Any district that fails to submit the required documentation or fails to submit its annual audit by November 15, 2002 may have its State aid withheld upon the commissioner's request to the Director of the Division of Budget and Accounting. In establishing the final award amount, the commissioner shall consider all of the district's available resources and any appropriate reallocations, including, but not limited to, a reallocation of the district's undesignated general fund balances in excess of two percent.

The clear intent of the foregoing statutory language is to require the Commissioner to review all of the resources of Abbott districts and to be satisfied that all educational expenditures in such districts will be spent effectively and efficiently in order to enable students to achieve the CCCS. The Act authorizes the Commissioner to take any necessary action to fulfill this responsibility. This includes taking into consideration all of the district's available resources and making any appropriate reallocations, including a reallocation of the district's undesignated general fund balances in excess of two percent. In this case, I FIND that the actions of the DOE in reallocating Neptune's undesignated general fund balances in excess of two percent was entirely consistent with the intent and purpose of the 2003 Appropriations Act, and should be AFFIRMED.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing findings and conclusions, it is hereby ORDERED pursuant to Abbott ex rel. Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002), that respondent DOE is obligated to pay to the petitioner herein supplemental funding for the 2002-2003 school year in an amount reflecting the actual and documented 2001-2002 expenditures for the second half-day of kindergarten. In order to implement this determination, the parties are ORDERED to calculate the amount of petitioner's actual and documented 2001-2002 expenditures for the second half-day of kindergarten in order to carry out the directives of the Supreme Court. It is further ORDERED that, with the exception of the funding for the second half-day of kindergarten, petitioner has failed to meet its required burden of proof to establish its entitlement to additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the 2002-2003 school year, and its appeal as to this is hereby DENIED and DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that respondent's denial of petitioner's request to use its 2001-2002 general fund surplus in excess of two percent for various purposes did not violate either Abbott IX and is not arbitrary and capricious, but is consistent with the fiscal year 2003 Appropriations Act, and is hereby AFFIRMED, and petitioner's appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

June 25, 2003
DATE

JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

6/26/03
DATE

Mailed to Parties:

JUL 1 2003
DATE

ACTING DIRECTOR AND
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE,
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

mph

APPENDIX:

LIST OF WITNESSES:

For petitioner:

David A. Mooij
Dr. Michael T. Lake

For respondent:

Glenn Forney
Jami Fair-Davis
Yut'Se Thomas

LIST OF EXHIBITS:

For petitioner:

P-1 Proposed Neptune School District Budget for 2002-2003, page A2

P-2 The following exhibits attached to P-2 were marked in evidence:

Exhibit 12	DOE guidance memo dated March 11, 2002
Exhibit 14	DOE memo dated March 18 2002
Exhibit 15	DOE memo dated March 18, 2002
Exhibit 17	Neptune Board of Education Budget Resolution
Exhibit 18	Memo from Assistant Commissioner MacInnes dated March 26, 2002

P-3 Proposed Neptune School District Budget for 2002-2003, April 22, 2002, page A2

P-4 Letter from Assistant Commissioner MacInnes to Dr. Lake, dated June 17, 2002

P-5 Proposed Neptune School District Budget for 2002-2003, August 13, 2002, page A2

P-6 Letter from Assistant Commissioner MacInnes to Dr. Lake, dated September 30, 2002 – budget approval letter

P-7 Assistant Commissioner MacInnes' letter to Dr. Lake, dated January 6, 2003

P-9 Dr. Lake letter to Assistant Commissioner MacInnes, dated June 21, 2002

P-10 Dr. Lake letter to Assistant Commissioner MacInnes, dated July 22, 2002

P-11 Dr. Lake letter to Assistant Commissioner MacInnes, dated November 19, 2002

P-12 Report of the Secretary to the Board of Education for the period ending February 28, 2003

P-13 SDP Implementation Life Cycle (Comer Model)

P-14 Whole School Reform Budget documents

For respondent:

R-1 Department of Education Expenditure Report, dated April 16, 2003

R-2 Annual Audit, Schedule B3, page 1

R-3 Proposed Neptune School District Budget for 2002-2003, August 13, 2002, page A3

R-4 Supplemental Certification of Michael T. Lake, dated May 23, 2002

R-5 Dr. Lake letter to Ms. Fair-Davis, dated September 23, 2002

R-6 E-mail from Dr. Lake to Ms. Fair-Davis, dated September 13, 2002

R-7 Proposed Neptune School District Budget for 2002-2003, August 13, 2002, page A4

R-8 School District's Supporting Documentation for Technology Lease Purchase Obligation

R-9 Printout of Excel spreadsheet setting forth calculations by DOE implementing Abbott IX

R-10 Audit Questionnaire for 2001-02 for Neptune

R-11 Components of school district budget, dated August 13, 2002

R-12 Components of school district budget for 2002-2003

R-13 Face page of report of the secretary to the Board of Education for period ending February 28, 2003

R-14 E-mail from Ms. Fair-Davis to Glenn Forney, dated August 30, 2002

R-15 Letter from Dr. Lake to Ms. Fair-Davis, dated September 4, 2002

R-16 District Budget Review Checklist as of September 26, 2002

OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 727-03 AND EDU 728-03 (CONSOLIDATED)
AGENCY DKT. NOS. 46-2/03 AND 122-4/02

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and extensions duly requested and granted, exceptions were filed by both the Board of Education (Board) and the Department of Education (Department), as were replies by each to the other's exceptions.[1]

In its exceptions, the Board first contends that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in failing to recognize that the Department was required to "level fund" the district, that is, to establish presumptive and preliminary supplemental funding for 2002-03 at the amount of supplemental funding provided in 2001-02. Had the Department done so, the Board observes, its presumptive aid amount would have been $6,518,318 rather than $5,844,432. (Board's Exceptions/Reply at 6-7)

The Board further argues that the ALJ erred in concluding that Abbott IX, supra, did not establish a new legal standard for 2002-03 supplemental funding requests. The ALJ should not, the Board contends, have applied the "particularized need" standards of regulations expressly suspended for 2002-03 school year, since it is impossible both "to have a time-out from the Abbott K-12 regulatory requirements for one year and to assume that those very same requirements are still in place." Moreover, the Board continues, the ALJ failed to recognize that the Court imposed a more rigorous burden on Abbott districts for the 2002-03 school year, not less; under the Court's order, districts were not permitted to show student need for an unlimited breadth of supplemental programs and services, but were instead restricted to showing an educational need related to impairment of essential aspects of a district's whole school reform model. There is no basis, the Board avers, for the ALJ to have substituted the suspended regulatory framework of "particularized need" for the Court's clearly expressed standard, and the Commissioner should, with the exception of the Board's claim for grade 7-8 replacement science books and a new K-5 spelling program, which should be granted directly on the present record, remand this matter to the ALJ for findings under the correct standard. (Id. at 7-10, quotation at 7-8)[2]

[1] The Board, with the consent of the Department, incorporated its exceptions and reply into a single submission.

For its part, the Department agrees with most of the ALJ's findings and conclusions, but takes exception to that portion of the Initial Decision holding that the Department is required to provide supplemental funding to the Board in an amount reflecting actual and documented 2001-02 expenditures for the second half of full-day kindergarten. As it did before the ALJ, the Department argues that it based its preliminary supplemental aid calculation on a budget which included full-day kindergarten expenditures, so that it would amount to "double-counting" to give the Board additional aid based on such expenditures. The Department further notes that it modified its preliminary calculation based on the annual audit of the district's K-12 budget, so that actual and documented 2001-02 kindergarten expenses have, in fact, already been taken into account in the district's aid entitlement.

[2] The Board did not take exception to the conclusions of the Initial Decision with respect to the excess surplus question. (Issue 4, Initial Decision at 26-28)

Finally, the Department cites to Sloan v. Klagholz, 342 N.J. Super. 385, 395-96 (App. Div. 2001) for the proposition that retroactive monetary relief should not be granted where such relief would have no impact on the school year in question. (Department's Exceptions at 1-6)

In reply to the Board's exceptions, the Department first posits that the Supreme Court in Abbott IX, supra, explicitly authorized supplemental funding for 2002-03 at the level of expenditures contained in the 2001-02 approved K-12 district budget, not at the level of 2001-02 aid; therefore, "level funding" is not required in the sense claimed by the Board, and the Department's calculation was accurate. (Department's Reply at 1-2)

The Department next addresses the Board's contention that the ALJ used the wrong standard of proof in assessing the Board's claims for increased aid. While agreeing that the regulations incorporating "particularized need" requests were, in fact, suspended for the 2002-03 school year, the Department contends that the burden of proof set forth in those rules is nonetheless relevant to the instant appeal because the more rigorous standard established by the Court requires at least as great a showing as was required in prior years. Specifically, under applicable Court and legislative directives, programs and positions to be funded in 2002-03 must be demonstrated effective and efficient in addressing students' educational needs, a showing which requires at a minimum that the requested elements not duplicate or overlap with existing programs and services, N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.2(a) (6) and (7), and that they be shown to have been successful based on documented prior experience, N.J.A.C. 6A:24-5.2(a)(4). As found by the ALJ, the Department continues, the Board submitted no documentary evidence meeting this standard, offering instead anecdotal and conclusory testimony relying essentially on a belief that positions and programs should continue in 2002-03 because they existed in 2001-02. (Id. at 2-4)

The Department finally objects to the Board's request that this matter be remanded to the OAL, contending that such a remand would be a waste of time and resources because a complete factual record has already been developed. The Department then analyzes in turn, under the standard proposed by the Board, four major areas of claimed need--paraprofessionals, social workers, grade 7-8 science and K-5 spelling programs, and a lease purchase payment for computer hardware--and concludes in each case that the evidence presented fails to demonstrate impairment of core components and essential enhancements of whole school reform. Thus, the Department urges, even if the Commissioner were to adopt the Board's suggested standard, the Board cannot meet its burden of proof. (Id. at 4-11)

In reply to the Department's exceptions, the Board counters that the Court did not state that expenditures for the second half-day of kindergarten were merely to be included in a district's supplemental funding calculation; rather, it stated that the supplemental funding amount must be increased by actual and documented expenditures for this purpose. Additionally, the Board proffers, Sloan, supra, is inapposite in the present matter because the Court has established specific appeal processes for Abbott disputes, which nowhere restrict districts' entitlement to retroactive relief once disputes have been resolved; indeed, accepting the Department's argument would mean that an Abbott district's attempt to secure supplemental funding could be thwarted simply by the Department's extension of the appeal process into the following school year, thereby undermining the entire Abbott appeal framework. (Board's Exceptions/Reply at 10-12)

Upon his own review and consideration, the Commissioner first concurs with the ALJ that the Department correctly calculated the Board's level of presumptive aid. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds that the Court in Abbott IX, supra, specifically authorized preliminary supplemental funding for 2002-03 at the level of expenditures contained in the prior year's approved K-12 district budget, expressing neither a promise nor an expectation that districts would necessarily receive the same dollar amount of aid as in the preceding year.

The Commissioner further concurs that nothing in Abbott IX suggests that the Court intended, as part of its one-year suspension of the overall Abbott regulatory framework, to invalidate the established standard of proof for supplemental funding requests. Rather, as found by the ALJ, the Court agreed to allow a period of maintenance and re-assessment in light of State fiscal exigencies and questions about the efficacy of certain remedial measures embodied in the regulations, but was unwilling completely to foreclose Abbott districts from seeking to demonstrate a need for State funding above presumptive levels:

> And the DOE having further requested the ability to preserve the "core elements" of whole school reform as well as certain enhancements of the Success-for-All (SFA) model of whole school reform "tied directly to improving curriculum and instruction under the [Core Curriculum Content Standards] CCCS,"but to afford districts flexibility to reduce, eliminate or limit growth of other whole school reform enhancements such as technology coordinators and security coordinators,to authorize districts to eliminate positions and make staffing modifications in various programs such as technology programs, alternative schools, accountability programs, school-to-work and college transition, and to authorize districts to make educational judgments about retaining certain specified positions such as media/ technology coordinator, technology coordinator and drop-out prevention specialist;
>
> And the Court, although acknowledging the State's fiscal crisis and the motivation underlying defendants' proposal to strictly limit 2002-2003 supplemental funding to 2001-2002 adjusted levels, and although accepting for 2002-2003 budgetary purposes the discretion of the Commissioner of Education preliminarily to set Abbott Districts supplemental funding at such levels but being unwilling to prejudge the merits of an Abbott district's need-based appeal seeking a higher level of supplemental funding;
>
> It isORDERED that DOE's request for one year to afford districts flexibility to eliminate, reduce, or limit growth of certain whole school reform enhancements as specified, to eliminate positions and make staffing modifications in various needs-based programs as specified, and to make educationally appropriate decisions about retention of certain positions as specified be and the same hereby is granted subject to the districts' right of appeal based on educational need related to impairment of the core elements of whole school reform and essential enhancements thereof;

> And it is FURTHER ORDERED that the DOE is authorized to impose educationally-appropriate limits on the categories for which needs-based funding requests may be submitted;
>
> And it is FURTHER ORDERED that the DOE may suspend for one year the regulatory requirement for middle schools and high schools to implement whole school reform models, may permit voluntary implementation of models in such schools, and may suspend for one year formal evaluation of whole school reform.
>
> (Abbott IX at 296-98, citations omitted)

As the above passage demonstrates, contrary to the Board's contention, the Court did not disavow the principles embodied in the rules governing requests for supplemental funding, but, instead, acted to limit the context within which such requests could be made and granted. Within the framework constructed by the Court, then, the ALJ was correct in applying established standards of demonstrated need, effectiveness and efficiency in judging the proofs presented by the Board. For the reasons stated in the Initial Decision, and for the additional reasons stated in the Department's exceptions and post-hearing brief, the Commissioner finds those proofs insufficient to meet the Board's requisite burden, whether expressed specifically in terms of "particularized need" or recognized as inherent in the Court's requirement for "educational need related to impairment of the core elements of whole school reform and essential enhancements thereof."

The Commissioner also agrees with, and adopts in its entirety, the ALJ's discussion on allocation of surplus in excess of 2%. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds it entirely proper and appropriate for the Department to have directed reallocation of such funds to support core purposes, rather than permit the Board to seek additional aid for such purposes while using excess surplus for supplemental services not meeting requisite standards of demonstrated need, efficacy and efficiency.

In one area, however, the Commissioner does differ with the analysis and conclusion of the ALJ. On the question of additional State aid for the second-half of full-day kindergarten, so as to cover its entire cost, the Commissioner reads the controlling language of the Court to require not that a district's presumptive amount of aid will be increased by the dollar amount of prior-year expenditures, but that these expenditures must be included in the base budget on which aid is reckoned. The Court directed:

> [T]he DOE's request for authorization to preclude any district appeals seeking supplemental fundingis denied subject to the DOE's authority presumptively and preliminarily to establish districts' supplemental funding for 2002-2003 at the level of expenditures contained in the 2001-2002 K-12 DOE approved district budget, as increased by actual and documented 2001-2002 expenditures for the second half of kindergarten, as modified by DOE to take into account 2001-2002 actual expenditures and available revenues based on the district annual audits. (Abbott IX at 297)

To read this language in the manner suggested by the Board and the ALJ would, as claimed by the Department, result in "double-counting" full-day kindergarten costs for aid purposes, a result surely not intended by the Court. As the Commissioner has found elsewhere, the Court has not held that required Abbott programs must be funded exclusively by the State, but rather that the State must ensure that sufficient monies are available to fully fund required programs; thus, in the present context, the State's clear obligation is to provide additional funds so as to bring district revenues to the level necessary to support expenditures, including expenditures for full-day kindergarten, at 2001-02 levels as required by the Court. While the Commissioner, like the Court, recognizes adequate funding as critical to achievement of a thorough and efficient system of public education in Abbott districts, he also recognizes, as did the Court, that such funding is a shared responsibility between the State and the local district, and that he has an obligation to ensure that State and local resources are allocated as efficiently and effectively as possible in meeting that responsibility. Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg, Warren County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided September 25, 2003; Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton, Burlington County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided September 25, 2003; Board of Education of the Township of Neptune, Monmouth County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided September 25, 2003; Board of Education of the City of Millville, Cumberland County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided September 25, 2003; and Board of Education of the City of Passaic, Passaic County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided September 25, 2003.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted except insofar as it finds that additional aid is required to fund the second half-day of kindergarten. The Petition of Appeal, therefore, is dismissed in its entirety.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/09/03

Date of Mailing: 10/10/03

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2002, c. 38, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

574-03

C.J.N. AND D.W.N., on behalf of minor child, C.N.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents sought reversal of the NJSIAA's decision not to allow their son, who attends private school, to play on a high school tennis team in the Cherry Hill Public School District. Petitioners sought waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws.

The NJSIAA determined that petitioners' son, C.N., who has been diagnosed with Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD), was not eligible to play tennis at Cherry Hill West since petitioners, without involvement by the Cherry Hill Child Study Team, unilaterally determined to place their child in a private school that was neither a Department of Education approved school nor a member of NJSIAA.

The Commissioner found that petitioners were provided the due process to which they were entitled; that the NJSIAA made every effort to provide a full, fair and timely hearing by the Eligibility Appeals Committee; and that NJSIAA's rule was not applied in an inconsistent manner. Since no student, nonpublic or public, attending one school is permitted to play sports for another school, unless assigned by that school to a vocational/technical school, or as a result of the Child Study Team designation of Individualized Educational Plan, the exception requested could affect all NJSIAA member schools and, thus, create situations where proper oversight and administration of NJSIAA rules would be impossible. Moreover, the Greenberg Academy, where C.N. is enrolled, has no relationship whatsoever to the NJSIAA or the Cherry Hill Child Study Team or the Cherry Hill School District. The Commissioner found that the NJSIAA's decision to deny C.N.'s request for waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Petition was dismissed.

October 9, 2003

AGENCY DKT. NO. 210-6/03

C.J.N. AND D.W.N., on behalf of minor child, C.N.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioners, Frank P. Cavallo, Jr. (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, P.A.)

For Respondent, Michael J. Herbert, Esq. (Herbert, Van Ness, Cayci & Goodell)

This matter came before the Commissioner of Education on June 9, 2003, by way of a Petition of Appeal seeking reversal of the final decision of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) not to allow petitioners' son, who attends private school at the Center for Education, to play on a high school tennis team in the Cherry Hill public school district. Briefs and the underlying record of proceedings before the NJSIAA were duly submitted in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.1 et seq., and the record on appeal closed on August 1, 2003.

The material facts and procedural history of this matter are as follows: C.N. is domiciled in the Cherry Hill School District and attended the public schools of the district from Kindergarten through grade nine. By his parents' account, his attendance and interest began to deteriorate in eighth grade, and worsened through ninth grade. C.N.'s pediatrician and a Neuro-Cognitive Learning Consultant referred by the pediatrician concluded that C.N. suffered from Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD)[1] and recommended that C.N. be provided with modifications and accommodations under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504). Petitioners met with school district officials to discuss C.N.'s situation, but were dissatisfied with the results, which petitioners state were limited to seating C.N. in the front row of class when he did attend school and suspending him when he did not. Accordingly, at the beginning of tenth grade, in the fall of 2002, petitioners unilaterally decided to place C.N. at the Center for Education (Center), where the ADHD students were being educated in a small-class, individualized environment and the Section 504 accommodations recommended for C.N. were available, and where C.N. has completed eleventh grade and reportedly improved substantially in both attendance and attainment; at no time did petitioners seek to have C.N. placed by the school district, in the Center or elsewhere, since they believed C.N.'s situation required immediate resolution. When C.N. then sought to participate on the Cherry Hill High School West Tennis Team during the 2002-03 school year, his request was denied by the local school district based on its obligation to abide by operative rules of the NJSIAA. On or about March 3, 2003, a request for eligibility waiver was made to NJSIAA, supported by a letter from the principal of Cherry Hill High School West, and its denial was unsuccessfully appealed to the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee. The Committee ruled at its meeting of March 5, 2003 and memorialized its decision in a written document on March 13, 2003, which constitutes the final decision now before the Commissioner on appeal.

[1] The record is not entirely clear as to whether C.N.'s diagnosis was Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) or Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), but that distinction is immaterial to the determination herein.

PETITIONERS' POSITION

Initially, petitioners assert that the NJSIAA acted arbitrarily and capriciously when it denied C.N.'s request to participate on the tennis team at Cherry Hill West High School. (Petitioners' Brief in Support of Appeal at 6-7) Citing Florence County School District Four v. Carter, 510 U.S. 7, 12 (1993); Bernardsville Board of Education v. J.H., 42 *F.*3d 149 (3rd Cir. 1994); and School Comm. of Burlington Mass. v. Department of Education, 471 U.S. 359 (1985), and pointing to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.10 and the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C.S., 1400 et seq., petitioners argue that parents have the right to place their child in a private school without the consent of their local board of education. (Id. at 7) Petitioners point out that a student placed in a private school setting by the Cherry Hill West Child Study Team, or through assignment to a vocational school program, would be permitted to participate in interscholastic sports for Cherry Hill West even where the private school placement resulted in enrollment in a school that is not a member of NJSIAA, because the student remains under the jurisdiction of the assigning school. (Ibid.) Thus, petitioners argue, NJSIAA's decision denying petitioners' request effectively acted to punish petitioners for electing not to request public school payment for their son's education or to wait over three months for him to be placed in an institution which may not have achieved success comparable to what has occurred at the Center for Education. (Id. at 8)

Secondly, petitioners submit that the NJSIAA violated the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which provides that no otherwise qualified individual with a disability shall be excluded solely by reasons of his or her disability from participation in, or be denied the benefits of, any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance. (Id. at 9)

Citing numerous federal court cases, petitioners maintain that NJSIAA is subject to the Rehabilitation Act and, therefore, required to provide a handicapped individual the opportunity to participate in its programs. (Id. at 11) Petitioners contend that C.N. is excluded form participation in the Cherry Hill West High School program solely because of his handicap, since, if C.N. were not handicapped, he would remain a student at Cherry Hill West High School and be entitled to participate in the tennis program. (Id. at 12) Therefore, petitioners conclude, the NJSIAA decision must be reversed as violative of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

NJSIAA'S POSITION

In presenting its "Statement of Facts," the NJSIAA avers that, contrary to petitioners' assertions that they were required to place C.N. themselves because the Child Study Team was not dealing productively with C.N.'s disability, the hearing before NJSIAA showed otherwise. Citing to testimony and exhibits, NJSIAA contends the school, in fact, carefully developed a plan under Section 504 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act to provide special assistance to C.N., and that the school principal opined that C.N.'s problems were "not so much what was occurring in the classroom, but the travel time which C.N. was experiencing in going from various buildings in a complex housing 1,600 students." NSJIAA further notes that petitioners complained of class sizes, but rejected the district's suggestion of an alternative school having an enrollment of 49 students; and that petitioners' testimony at hearing clearly established the desire not to have their son "stigmatized" by classification as the basis for their reluctance to work with the district child study team to develop an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) for C.N. Finally, NJSIAA notes that the school, through its Principal, recognizes full well that it can have nothing to do with students not enrolled in the system, yet it somehow believes that participation on the school tennis team should nonetheless be allowed. (NJSIAA Brief at 1-3, quotation at 1)

Citing Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259, Brady v. NJSIAA, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 980, and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4, the NJSIAA points out that the Commissioner's scope of review in NJSIAA determinations is an appellate one; thus, the Commissioner may not overturn an eligibility decision of the NJSIAA absent a finding that it applied its rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. (Id. at 5) The NJSIAA asserts that petitioners cannot meet their burden of demonstrating that the NJSIAA Bylaws, Article V, Section 1, or its application violated any federal or state laws or was arbitrary or unreasonable. (Ibid.)

Initially, the NJSIAA maintains that this appeal does not implicate any rights under federal law. The Association avers that the federal court decisions cited by petitioners have absolutely no application to the facts of this case, where the challenge is to the requirement that a child, whether disabled or not, be enrolled in a member school to participate in interscholastic sports, since none of the cited decisions supports the right of parents to forsake a school's academic program, while at the same time requiring that school to include their child in its athletic program. (Id. at 5-6) The NJSIAA maintains that it has adopted rules, as set forth in its 2002-2003 NJSIAA Handbook, to assure that disabled students are fully accommodated to participate in four seasons in any sport, as demonstrated by: 1) the provision that any handicapped or classified student is not required to comply with the Academic Credit Rule and 2) the provision permitting disabled students to participate in interscholastic sports in the seventh and eighth grades to make certain that they involve themselves in four seasons of a sport before turning 19. (Id. at 6-7) The NJSIAA also points out that, although home-schooled students are not eligible to participate in interscholastic sports, a student placed on home instruction under the auspices of the school district is eligible to participate in that district's sports program. (Id. at 7)

Secondly, the NJSIAA contends that C.N. participated on the Cherry Hill West tennis team while attending that school and there is no allegation that his disability in any way impeded his participation in interscholastic sports at this member school. (Ibid.) The NJSIAA maintains that, if C.N. had remained a student at Cherry Hill West, or if he had been placed by the Cherry Hill School District in an education setting under the district's jurisdiction, then C.N. could have continued to participate in the Cherry Hill School District's interscholastic program; but, instead, his parents decided to place him in a private school outside the Cherry Hill School district's jurisdiction. (Ibid.) Thus, C.N.'s inability to participate in interscholastic sports has not been caused by his disability, but, rather, was due solely to a parental decision, made "without any pressure or compulsion from Cherry Hill West or from the NJSIAA," to educate C.N. in a private school. (Id. at 7-8)

Additionally, the NJSIAA points out that the Greenberg Academy has no relationship whatsoever to the NJSIAA or the Cherry Hill School District, since the Greenberg Academy has no sports program, is not a member of the NJSIAA, and C.N. was placed at the Greenberg Academy without involvement by the Cherry Hill Child Study Team or the Cherry Hill School District. (Id. at 8) The NJSIAA also notes that the NJSIAA is a voluntary association of schools subject to an internal governance structure established by the member schools themselves. (Ibid.) Thus, the NJSIAA posits, the NJSIAA can only function through its member schools who are obligated to administer interscholastic sports at the local level and are responsible for assuring that students are given a physical examination, are under the supervision of certified coaches and adhere to the eligibility standards of the NJSIAA. (Id. at 9) The NJSIAA also sets forth the position that Article V, Section 1, of the Bylaws of the NJSIAA, which was adopted in 1978 and requires that a student must be enrolled in a NJSIAA member school to participate in the school's interscholastic athletic program, serves several legitimate interests of the NJSIAA and its member schools, as follows:

1. Each member school is responsible for properly administering and enforcing all NJSIAA rules and regulations, including eligibility rules, to its own students; allowing students to attend one school and compete athletically for another would make proper oversight and administration of rules and regulations impossible.

2. Sports offered by member schools are an integral part of the overall academic and extracurricular program provided for each student enrolled in that school.

3. Allowing students to participate on the athletic teams of other schools would discourage the initiation of appropriate athletic programs by the schools attended by the students and may even encourage schools in difficult financial situations to eliminate programs as a cost saving measure if their students are free to participate in that activity at another school.

4. Allowing a non-enrolled student to participate in a member school's athletic program would wrongfully deny an enrolled student the opportunity to participate in that athletic program at his or her own school. (Id. at 10-11)

Moreover, the NJSIAA asserts that E.L. and N.L., on behalf of R.L. v. NJSIAA, decided by the Commissioner, August 31, 1998, is controlling; there, as here, petitioning parents voluntarily placed their children in a private school and claimed that provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws infringed on parental choice. (Id. at 11-12) In E.L., the Commissioner found that the four above-enumerated reasons were "sound reasons for the rule as it stands" and the Commissioner further determined that NJSIAA's application of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws to deny petitioners' request to allow their son to play ice hockey for the Cranford public high school while enrolled in the Oratory Catholic Preparatory School was neither arbitrary nor unjust since the parental choice had been made by petitioners to enroll their son in a school which did not provide ice hockey. (Id. at 12) The Commissioner held that:

> ...That petitioners argue the rule compels them to make a choice with respect to their son's education does not elevate their claim to one of prejudicial or unjust treatment; indeed many parents are similarly faced with having to weigh the varied components of a private or parochial education against those of the public school education. (Id. at 12, citing E.L., supra, at 7)

Citing cases from court decisions in Maryland, Oklahoma, Montana and Maine, the NJSIAA submits that "courts in other jurisdictions have held that school district policies and requirements which forbid non-enrolled students from participating in pubic school classes or extracurricular programs are permissible if they are rationally related to the school's objectives and interests." (Ibid.) In particular, the NJSIAA points out that, in Kapstein v. Conrad School District, 931 *P.*2d 1311 (1997), the Montana Supreme Court held that that, in balancing a student's right to participate in public school sports programs with the school district's right to organize and administer its academic and athletic programs, the school district's interest in integrating its academic and extracurricular activities outweighed the private school student's interest in participating in extracurricular activities. (Id. at 13-14) Similarly, in Pelletier v. Maine Principals' Association, 261 F. Supp. 2d 10 (Me. D.C. 2003), the United States District Court upheld the Maine Principals' Association rule permitting home schooled students to participate in interscholastic athletics, but only at their local public high school, reasoning that "Maine's decision to open the public school athletic programs to home-schooled students without at the same time opening the private school programs does not create a burden on parental choice." (Id. at 14-15, citing Pelletier at 14)

In conclusion, the NJSIAA readily acknowledges that petitioners have the freedom to choose where their son will be educated, but asserts that petitioners do not have the right, under either state laws or their federal counterparts, to select only the portions of the offered public education which best serve their interests. (Id. at 15) The NJSIAA, therefore, contends that its decision in the instant matter must be upheld because it is consistent with the Commissioner's decision in E.L., supra, and because the rule in question is rationally related to the legitimate interests of the NJSIAA and its member schools and does not infringe upon petitioners' rights. (Ibid.)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association of public and nonpublic schools, organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, to oversee athletics for its member schools in accordance with its Constitution, Bylaws, rules and regulations, which are approved by the Commissioner of Education and adopted annually by the member schools. Upon adoption by the member schools, the said rules and regulations are deemed school policy and are enforced first by the internal procedures of the NJSIAA.

The Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving the NJSIAA is appellate. See N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 182, 183. The Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying eligibility rules absent a finding that the rules were applied in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Nor may the Commissioner substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if he would decide differently in a de novo hearing, where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee. Dam Jin Koh, supra. As codified to provide notice of this standard to the public and regulated parties:[2]

1. If the NJSIAA has granted a petitioner due process and its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole, the Commissioner shall not substitute his  judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge otherwise in a de novo review.

2. The Commissioner shall not overturn NJSIAA's application of its own rules absent a demonstration by the petitioner that such rules were applied in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4(a).

The burden of proof that an action was thus deficient rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). It is well-established that:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis.  Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. (citations omitted) Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't. of Env., N.J., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

[2] See, 31 N.J.R. 4173(a) and 32 N.J.R. 1177(a).

Upon careful consideration of this matter, and mindful of the applicable standard of review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the NJSIAA's decision denying petitioners' request for a waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws for the reasons set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner finds that petitioners were provided the due process to which they were entitled and that the NJSIAA made every effort to provide a full, fair and timely hearing by the Eligibility Appeals Committee. Upon review of the testimony and the documentation provided by petitioners and the Cherry Hill School District, it is noted that the Committee voted unanimously to deny petitioners' request for a waiver of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws, which states:

> A student, to be eligible for participation in the interscholastic athletic program of a member school, must be enrolled in that school and must meet all the eligibility requirements of the Constitution, Bylaws, and Rules and Regulations, of the NJSIAA. (NJSIAA Handbook at 42)

The Committee's decision, memorialized in a written document on March 13, 2003, explains the Committee's reasoning, as follows:

> [1.] There are many students who are not enrolled in a NJSIAA member school, but who are eligible to participate in interscholastic sports, where they have been assigned by that school to a vocational/technical school or as a result of the Child Study Team designation or Individualized Educational Plan. However, these students remain under the jurisdiction of the assigning school. Students who have left the jurisdiction of the member school cannot be eligible to participate on that school's athletic teams.
>
> [2.] To allow any other arrangement would permit parents to enroll in any school of their choice without any oversight by a member school and then participate in that school's team in the unbridled discretion of the student's parents.
>
> [3.] In this case, the student's parents had the ability to have their son assigned to an appropriate placement to deal with his disability. Instead of utilizing the opportunities available through the member school's system, > including the placement in an alternative school, the parents voluntarily decided to place their son outside of the Cherry Hill School District's jurisdiction, in the Center for Education in Marlton, New Jersey.

>
> [4.] By removing their son from the Cherry Hill West system without any assignment by the District to the private school, the parents made a voluntary determination to remove their son from the ability to participate in interscholastic sports at Cherry Hill West.
>
> [5.] The Committee believes that the parent's motives were certainly laudable and does not in any way question that determination. However, since the choice was totally voluntary and outside the jurisdiction of a member school, there is no basis for granting a waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1 of the NJSIAA Bylaws. Accordingly, this student will not be eligible to participate on the Cherry Hill High School West tennis team or any other athletic program at that member school. (NJSIAA's March 13, 2003 Letter memorializing the Committee's decision of March 5, 2003)

Given the explicitness of Article V, Section 1, of the Bylaws and the NJSIAA's articulation of sound reasons for its decision, the Commissioner cannot find that the application of Article V, Section 1, is arbitrary or unjust, as applied to petitioners' son. In so determining, the Commissioner observes that the record is devoid of any allegation that the NJSIAA's rule is being applied in an inconsistent manner. Moreover, since no student, nonpublic or public, attending one school is permitted to play sports for another school,[3] the exception requested here could affect all NJSIAA member schools and, thus, create a situation that would make the proper oversight and administration of NJSIAA rules impossible.

Although the Commissioner completely agrees with petitioners' assertion that they have the right to place their son in a private school at their own expense without the consent of the local board of education, the fact that petitioners have that right does not mean that they concomitantly have the right to participate in interscholastic athletics at their local public school while attending a private school that has no relationship to it. As set forth by the Commissioner in E.L., supra, at 7, "[t]hat petitioners argue the rule compels them to make a choice with respect to their son's education does not elevate their claim to one of prejudicial or unjust treatment; indeed, many parents are similarly faced with having to weigh the varied components of a private and parochial education against those of the public school education." Moreover, the NJSIAA's determination that non-enrolled students are to be excluded from participating in interscholastic sports in member schools' sports programs is consistent with the findings of courts in other jurisdictions.

[3]Article V, Section 1 of the Bylaws has been interpreted to permit students to participate in a school's interscholastic program where students have been assigned by that school to a vocational/technical school or as a result of the Child Study Team designation of Individualized Educational Plan, which did not occur in the instant matter.

Additionally, the Commissioner finds petitioners' argument that C.N. is excluded from participation on the Cherry Hill West tennis team by virtue of his handicap because, absent the handicap, he would remain at Cherry Hill West High School, to be without merit. In so determining, the Commissioner observes that there is no allegation of C.N.'s disability having in any way impeded his participation on Cherry Hill West's tennis team while attending that school; that NJSIAA Bylaws and the Interpretative Guidelines to the NJSIAA Handbook support the NJSIAA's contentions that it has adopted rules to accommodate disabled students to ensure their full participation in interscholastic sports in member schools; and that C.N.'s situation arises not from his disability, but from parental choice freely exercised.

In the instant matter, the Greenberg Academy where C.N. is enrolled has no relationship whatsoever to the NJSIAA or the Cherry Hill School District, and C.N. was enrolled at the Greenberg Academy without any involvement by the Cherry Hill

Child Study Team or the Cherry Hill School District. Under these circumstances, therefore, and for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner cannot find that the NJSIAA's decision to deny C.N.'s request for waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Accordingly, the decision of the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee is sustained and the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/09/03

Date of Mailing: 10/10/03

[4] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3.

575-03

B.R.I., on behalf of minor child, E.I.,

PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent sought reversal of the NJSIAA's decision not to allow his son, who attends private school, to play on a high school tennis team in the Cherry Hill Public School District. Petitioner sought waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws.

The NJSIAA determined that petitioner's son, E.I., a classified student with Tourette Syndrome, was not eligible to play tennis at Cherry Hill West since petitioner, without involvement by the Cherry Hill Child Study Team, unilaterally determined to place his child in a private school that was not a Department of Education approved school nor a member of NJSIAA.

The Commissioner found that petitioner was provided the due process to which he was entitled; that the NJSIAA made every effort to provide a full, fair and timely hearing by the Eligibility Appeals Committee; and that NJSIAA's rule was not applied in an inconsistent manner. Since no student, nonpublic or public, attending one school is permitted to play sports for another school, unless assigned by that school to a vocational/technical school, or as a result of the Child Study Team designation of Individualized Educational Plan, the exception requested could affect all NJSIAA member schools and, thus, create situations where proper oversight and administration of NJSIAA rules would be impossible. Moreover, the Greenberg Academy, where E.I. is enrolled, has no relationship whatsoever to the NJSIAA or the Cherry Hill Child Study Team or the Cherry Hill School District. The Commissioner found that the NJSIAA's decision to deny E.I.'s request for waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Petition was dismissed.

10/09/03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 209-6/03

B.R.I.,[1] on behalf of minor child, E.I.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Frank P. Cavallo, Jr. (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, P.A.)

For Respondent, Michael J. Herbert, Esq. (Herbert, Van Ness, Cayci & Goodell)

This matter came before the Commissioner of Education on June 9, 2003, by way of a Petition of Appeal seeking reversal of the final decision of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) not to allow petitioner's son, who attends private school at the Center for Education, to play on a high school tennis team in the Cherry Hill Public School District. Briefs and the underlying record of proceedings before the NJSIAA were duly submitted in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.1 et seq., and the record on appeal closed on August 1, 2003.

The material facts and procedural history of this matter are as follows: E.I. is domiciled in the Cherry Hill School District and attended the public schools of the District from [1]Although the Petition of Appeal, when filed, was captioned, B.R.I. and R.S.I., on behalf of minor child, E.I. v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Petitioner R.S.I., E.I.'s mother, did not provide a notarized statement of verification as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4. By letter of June 10, 2003, Petitioner B.R.I., who was acting pro se at the time, was advised that "no verification has been filed by petitioner R.S.I., so that, if she wishes to continue as a petitioner in this matter, such verification must be filed within 10 days of receipt of this notice." In that neither B.R.I. nor R.S.I. responded to this notification nor provided the requested verification, B.R.I. is deemed the sole petitioner in this matter.

grade one through grade ten. By his parent's account, E.I. was put on home instruction by the third marking period in tenth grade as he exhibited clinical depression and school phobia due in part to symptoms of Tourette Syndrome and Auditory Processing Delays which affected his performance and social interactions with other students. In consultation with E.I.'s Neuropsychiatrist and the Cherry Hill High School West Child Study Team, E.I.'s medications were altered and additional medications were administered for the depression and E.I. received counseling to address his school phobia. Thereafter, the medications decreased E.I.'s rage episodes and his depression so that he was able to return to Cherry Hill West in the Fall of his junior year. His tics, however, worsened and, according to petitioner, E.I. was tormented by students at the high school. Additionally, according to petitioner, E.I.'s medications were not being followed as required by E.I.'s Individual Education Program (IEP) and E.I. was becoming more and more anxious at the thought of facing another school day. As a result, at the beginning of November 2002, petitioner unilaterally decided to place E.I. at the Greenberg Academy, sometimes referred to as the Center for Education, where Tourette Syndrome students are educated in an individualized environment. Petitioner claims that E.I.'s tics have lessened; he has been accepted by his classmates without ridicule; he has attended almost every day during the 2002-2003 school year; and he has completed eleventh grade.

It is undisputed that at no time did petitioner seek to have E.I. placed by the school district, in the Center or elsewhere, since he believed E.I.'s situation required immediate resolution. When E.I. then sought to participate on the Cherry Hill High School West Tennis Team during the 2002-03 school year,[2] his request was denied by the local school district based on its obligation to abide by operative rules of the NJSIAA. On or about March 3, 2003, a request for eligibility waiver was made to NJSIAA, supported by a letter from the principal of Cherry Hill West High School, and its denial was unsuccessfully appealed to the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee (Committee), where, on March 5, 2003, the Committee conducted a hearing and denied petitioner's appeal. The denial of petitioner's request for an eligibility waiver for E.I. to play tennis for Cherry Hill West High School was memorialized in a written document on March 13, 2003, which constitutes the final decision now before the Commissioner on appeal.

[2] E.I. played tennis on the Cherry Hill West High School tennis team during his freshman and sophomore years while attending high school at Cherry Hill West.

PETITIONER'S POSITION

Initially, petitioner asserts that the NJSIAA acted arbitrarily and capriciously when it denied petitioner's request to participate on the tennis team at Cherry Hill West High School. (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Appeal at 6-7) Citing Florence County School District Four v. Carter, 510 U.S. 7, 12 (1993); Bernardsville Board of Education v. J.H., 42 *F.*3d 149 (3rd Cir. 1994); School Comm. of Burlington Mass. v. Department of Education, 471 U.S. 359 (1985) and pointing to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.10 and the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C.S., 1400 et seq., petitioner argues that a parent has the right to place his child in a private school without the consent of their local board of education. (Id. at 7) Petitioner points out that a student placed in a private school setting by the Cherry Hill West Child Study Team or by an Individualized Placement Program or through assignment to a vocational school program, would be permitted to participate in interscholastic sports for Cherry Hill West even where the private school placement resulted in enrollment in a school that is not a member of NJSIAA because the student remains under the jurisdiction of the assigning school. (Ibid.) Thus, petitioner argues, NJSIAA's decision denying petitioner's request was based on petitioner's decision not to request payment for his son's education or to wait over three months to be placed in an institution which may not have achieved the success that his placement with the Center for Education has achieved with his son. (Id. at 8)

Secondly, petitioner submits that the NJSIAA violated the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which provides that no otherwise qualified individual with a disability shall be excluded solely by reasons of his or her disability from participation in, or be denied the benefits of, any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance. (Id. at 9) Citing numerous federal court cases, petitioner maintains that NJSIAA is subject to the Rehabilitation Act and, therefore, required to provide a handicapped individual the opportunity to participate in its programs. (Id. at 11) Thus, petitioner contends, E.I. is excluded form participation in the Cherry Hill West High School program solely because of his handicap. (Id. at 12) If E.I. were not handicapped, petitioner contends, he would remain a student at Cherry Hill West High School and, thus, be entitled to participate in the tennis program. (Ibid.) Therefore, petitioner concludes, the NJSIAA decision must be reversed as violative of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

NJSIAA'S POSITION

In presenting its "Statement of Facts," the NJSIAA avers that E.I. received excellent grades during his attendance at Cherry Hill West High School, maintaining an academic average of all "A's" and "B's," except for one "C" in physical education. (NJSIAA Brief at 3) NJSIAA also avers that, contrary to petitioner's assertions that the Child Study Team was not instituting appropriate modifications to deal with E.I.'s disability, the testimony at hearing was otherwise. (Ibid.) Citing to psychologist and Child Study Team member Dr. Gloria Wuhl's testimony, NJSIAA contends that a specific plan had been developed to deal with E.I.'s medical problems; that E.I. had been placed in an appropriate setting; and that E.I. had been abruptly removed from Cherry Hill West by his parents while the plan for an appropriate placement was being implemented. (Id. at 3-4) NSJIAA also points out that Dr. Wuhl testified that the Greenberg Academy has not been approved as an acceptable school by the Department of Education and that E.I.'s transfer to that school came as a surprise. (Id. at 4) NJSIAA also points out that the Greenberg Academy does not have a sports program, is not a member of NJSIAA and that the Cherry Hill School District had nothing to do with E.I.'s enrollment in the Greenberg Academy, which is not approved by the Department of Education as a school for the disabled. (Ibid.) The NJSIAA asserts that this case, therefore, centers on the question of whether petitioner may compel the NJSIAA to render his son eligible to play on Cherry Hill West's tennis team after petitioner made the voluntary decision to withdraw his son from Cherry Hill West High School and place him in a school having no connection with Cherry Hill West High School. (Ibid.)

Citing Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259, Brady v. NJSIAA, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 980 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4, the NJSIAA points out that the Commissioner's scope of review in NJSIAA determinations is an appellate one; thus, the Commissioner may not overturn an eligibility decision of the NJSIAA absent a finding that it applied its rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. (Id. at 5) The NJSIAA asserts that petitioner cannot meet his burden of demonstrating that the NJSIAA Bylaws, Article V, Section 1, or its application violated any federal or state laws or was arbitrary or unreasonable. (Ibid.)

Initially, the NJSIAA maintains that this appeal does not implicate any rights under federal law, averring that the federal court decisions cited by petitioner have absolutely no application to the facts of this case, where the challenge is to the requirement that a child, whether disabled or not, be enrolled in a member school to participate in interscholastic sports, because none of the cited decisions supports the right of a parent to forsake a school's academic program, while at the same time requiring that school to include his child in its athletic program. (Id. at 5-6) The NJSIAA maintains that it has adopted rules, as set forth in its 2002-2003 NJSIAA Handbook, to assure that disabled students are fully accommodated to participate in four seasons in any sport, as demonstrated by: 1) the provision that any handicapped or classified student is not required to comply with the Academic Credit Rule and 2) the provision permitting disabled students to participate in interscholastic sports in the seventh and eighth grades to make certain that they involve themselves in four seasons of a sport before turning 19. (Id. at 6-7) The NJSIAA also points out that, although home-schooled students are not eligible to participate in interscholastic sports, a student placed on home instruction under the auspices of the school district is eligible to participate in that district's sports program. (Id. at 7)

Secondly, the NJSIAA contends that E.I. participated on the Cherry Hill West tennis team for two years while attending that school and there is no allegation that his disability in any way impeded his participation in interscholastic sports at this member school. (Ibid.) The NJSIAA maintains that, if E.I. had remained a student at Cherry Hill West, or if he had been placed by the Cherry Hill School District in an education setting under the district's jurisdiction, then E.I. could have continued to participate in the Cherry Hill School District's interscholastic program but, instead, the parent decided to place his son in a private school outside the Cherry Hill School district's jurisdiction. (Ibid.) Thus, the cause of E.I.'s inability to participate in interscholastic sports is not his disability but, rather, was due solely to a parental decision made

"without any pressure or compulsion from Cherry Hill West or from the NJSIAA." to educate E.I. in a private school. (Id. at 7-8)

Additionally, the NJSIAA points out that the Greenberg Academy has no relationship whatsoever to the NJSIAA or the Cherry Hill School District as the Greenberg Academy has no sports program, is not a member of the NJSIAA and E.I. was placed at the Greenberg Academy without involvement by the Cherry Hill Child Study Team or the Cherry Hill School District. (Id. at 8) The NJSIAA also notes that the NJSIAA is a voluntary association of schools subject to an internal governance structure established by the member schools themselves. (Ibid.) Thus, the NJSIAA posits, the NJSIAA can only function through its member schools who are obligated to administer interscholastic sports at the local level and are responsible for assuring that students are given a physical examination, are under the supervision of certified coaches and adhere to the eligibility standards of the NJSIAA. (Id. at 9) The NJSIAA also sets forth the position that Article V, Section 1, of the Bylaws of the NJSIAA, which was adopted in 1978 and requires that a student must be enrolled in a NJSIAA member school to participate in the school's interscholastic athletic program of that school, serves several legitimate interests of the NJSIAA and its member schools, as follows:

> 1. Each member school is responsible for properly administering and enforcing all NJSIAA rules and regulations, including eligibility rules, to its own students; allowing students to attend one school and compete athletically for another would make proper oversight and administration of rules and regulations impossible.
>
> 2. Sports offered by member schools are an integral part of the overall academic and extracurricular program provided for each student enrolled in that school.
>
> 3. Allowing students to participate on the athletic teams of other schools would discourage the initiation of appropriate athletic programs by the schools attended by the students and may even encourage schools in difficult financial situations to eliminate programs as a cost saving measure if their students are free to participate in that activity at another school.

4. Allowing a non-enrolled student to participate in a member school's athletic program would wrongfully deny an enrolled student the opportunity to participate in that athletic program at his or her own school. (Id. at 10-11)

Moreover, the NJSIAA asserts that E.L. and N.L., on behalf of R.L. v. NJSIAA, decided by the Commissioner, August 31, 1998, where, as in this case, petitioning parents voluntarily placed their children in a private school and claimed that provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws infringed on parental choice, is controlling. (Id. at 11-12) In E.L., the Commissioner found that the four above-enumerated reasons were "sound reasons for the rule as it stands" and the Commissioner further determined that NJSIAA's application of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws to deny petitioners' request to allow their son to play ice hockey for the Cranford public high school when he was enrolled in the Oratory Catholic Preparatory School was neither arbitrary nor unjust since the parental choice had been made by petitioners to enroll their son in a school which did not provide ice hockey. (Id. at 12) The Commissioner held that:

> ...That petitioners argue the rule compels them to make a choice with respect to their son's education does not elevate their claim to one of prejudicial or unjust treatment; indeed many parents are similarly faced with having to weigh the varied components of a private or parochial education against those of the public school education. (Id. at 12, citing E.L., supra, at 7)

Citing cases from court decisions in Maryland, Oklahoma, Montana and Maine, the NJSIAA submits that "courts in other jurisdictions have held that school district policies and requirements which forbid non-enrolled students from participating in pubic school classes or extracurricular programs are permissible if they are rationally related to the school's objectives and interests." (Ibid.) In particular, the NJSIAA points out that, in Kapstein v. Conrad School District, 931 *P.*2d 1311 (1997), the Montana Supreme Court held that that, in balancing the students' right to participate in public school sports programs with the school district's right to organize and administer its academic and athletic programs, the school district's interest in integrating its academic and extracurricular activities outweighed the private school students' interest in participating in extracurricular activities. (Id. at 13-14) Similarly, in Pelletier v. Maine Principals' Association, 261 F. Supp. 2d 10 (Me. D.C. 2003), the United States District Court upheld the Maine Principals' Association rule that permitted home schooled students to participate in interscholastic athletics, but only at their local public high school, reasoning that "Maine's decision to open the public school athletic programs to home-schooled students without at the same time opening the private school programs does not create a burden on parental choice." (Id. at 14-15, citing Pelletier at 14)

In conclusion, the NJSIAA acknowledges that petitioner has the freedom to choose where his son will be educated, but asserts that petitioner does not have the right, under either state laws or constitution or their federal counterparts, to select only the portions of the offered public education which best serve his interests. (Id. at 15) The NJSIAA, therefore, contends that its decision in the instant matter must be upheld in that it is consistent with the Commissioner's decision in E.L., supra.; the rule in question is rationally related to the legitimate interests of the NJSIAA and its member schools, and the eligibility rule does not infringe upon petitioner's rights. (Ibid.)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association of public and nonpublic schools, organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, to oversee athletics for its member schools in accordance with its Constitution, Bylaws, rules and regulations, which are approved by the Commissioner of Education and adopted annually by the member schools. Upon adoption by the member schools, the said rules and regulations are deemed school policy and are enforced first by the internal procedures of the NJSIAA.

The Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving the NJSIAA is appellate. See N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 182, 183. The Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying eligibility rules absent a finding that the rules were applied in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Nor may the Commissioner substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if he would decide differently in a de novo hearing, where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee. Dam Jin Koh, supra. As codified to provide notice of this standard to the public and regulated parties:[3]

> 1. If the NJSIAA has granted a petitioner due process and its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole, the Commissioner shall not substitute his  judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge otherwise in a de novo review.
>
> 2. The Commissioner shall not overturn NJSIAA's application of its own rules absent a demonstration by the petitioner that such rules were applied in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4(a).

[3] See, 31 N.J.R. 4173(a) and 32 N.J.R. 1177(a).

The burden of proof that an action was thus deficient rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). It is well-established that:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis.  Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. (citations omitted) Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't. of Env., N.J., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

Upon careful consideration of this matter, and mindful of the applicable standard of review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the NJSIAA's decision denying petitioner's request for a waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws for the reasons set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner finds that petitioner was provided the due process to which he was entitled and that the NJSIAA made every effort to provide a full, fair and timely hearing by the Eligibility Appeals Committee. Upon review of the testimony and the documentation provided by petitioner and the Cherry Hill School District, it is noted that the Committee voted unanimously to deny petitioner's request for a waiver of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws, which states:

> A student, to be eligible for participation in the interscholastic athletic program of a member school, must be enrolled in that school and must meet all the eligibility requirements of the Constitution, Bylaws, and Rules and Regulations, of the NJSIAA. (NJSIAA Handbook at 42)

The Committee's decision, memorialized in a written document on March 13, 2003, explains the Committee's reasoning, as follows:

> [1.] There are many students who are not enrolled in a NJSIAA member school, but who are eligible to participate in interscholastic sports, where they have been assigned by that school to a vocational/technical school or as a result of the Child Study Team designation or Individualized Educational Plan. However, these students remain under the jurisdiction of the assigning school. Students who have left the jurisdiction of the member school cannot be eligible to participate on that school's athletic teams.
>
> [2.] To allow any other arrangement would permit parents to enroll in any school of their choice without any oversight by a member school and then participate in that school's team in the unbridled discretion of the student's parents.
>
> [3.] In this case, the student's parents had the ability to have their son assigned to an appropriate placement to deal with his disability. Instead of utilizing the opportunities available through the member school's system, including the placement in an alternative school, the parents voluntarily decided to place their son outside of the Cherry Hill School District's jurisdiction, in the Center for Education in Marlton, New Jersey.
>
> [4.] By removing their son from the Cherry Hill West system without any assignment by the District to the private school, the parents made a voluntary determination to remove their son from the ability to participate in interscholastic sports at Cherry Hill West.
>
> [5.] The Committee believes that the parent's motives were certainly laudable and does not in any way question that determination. However, since the choice was totally voluntary and outside the jurisdiction of a member school, there is no basis for granting a waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1 of the NJSIAA Bylaws. Accordingly, this student will not be eligible to participate on the Cherry Hill High School West tennis team or any other athletic program at that member school. (NJSIAA's March 13, 2003 Letter memorializing the Committee's decision of March 5, 2003)

Given the explicitness of Article V, Section 1, of the Bylaws and the NJSIAA's articulation of sound reasons for its decision, the Commissioner cannot find that the application of Article V, Section 1, is arbitrary or unjust, as applied to petitioner's son. In so determining, the Commissioner observes that the record is devoid of any allegation that the NJSIAA's rule is being applied in an inconsistent manner. Moreover, since no student, nonpublic or public, attending one school is permitted to play sports for another school,[4] the exception requested here could affect all NJSIAA member schools and, thus, create a situation that would make the proper oversight and administration of NJSIAA rules impossible.

Although the Commissioner completely agrees with petitioner's assertion that he has the right to place his son in a private school at his own expense without the consent of the local board of education, the fact that petitioner has that right does not mean that he concomitantly has the right to participate in interscholastic athletics in his local public school while attending a private school that has no relationship to the local public school. As set forth by the Commissioner in E.L., supra, at 7, "[t]hat petitioners argue the rule compels them to make a choice with respect to their son's education does not elevate their claim to one of prejudicial or unjust treatment; indeed, many parents are similarly faced with having to weigh the varied components of a private and parochial education against those of the public school education." Moreover, the NJSIAA's determination that non-enrolled students are to be excluded from participating in interscholastic sports in member schools' sports programs is consistent with the findings of courts in other jurisdictions.

Additionally, the Commissioner finds petitioner's argument that E.I. is excluded from participation on the Cherry Hill West tennis team by virtue of his handicap because, absent the handicap, he would remain at Cherry Hill West High School, to be without merit. In so determining, the Commissioner observes that there is no allegation that E.I.'s disability in any way impeded his participation on the tennis team for the two years he was on Cherry Hill West's team while attending that school. Additionally, as the NJSIAA points out, the NJSIAA Bylaws and the Interpretative Guidelines to the NJSIAA Handbook support the NJSIAA's contentions that it has adopted rules to accommodate disabled students to ensure their full participation in interscholastic sports in their member schools' sports programs and that E.I.'s situation arises not from disability, but from parental choice.

[4]Article V, Section 1 of the Bylaws has been interpreted to permit students to participate in a school's interscholastic program where students have been assigned by that school to a vocational/technical school or as a result of the Child Study Team designation of Individualized Educational Plan, which did not occur in the instant matter.

In the instant matter, the Greenberg Academy where E.I. is enrolled has no relationship whatsoever to the NJSIAA or the Cherry Hill School District and E.I. was enrolled at the Greenberg Academy without any involvement by the Cherry Hill Child Study Team or the Cherry Hill School District. Under these circumstances, therefore, and for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner cannot find that the NJSIAA's decision to deny E.I.'s request for waiver of the provisions of Article V, Section 1, of the NJSIAA Bylaws was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Accordingly, the decision of the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee is sustained and the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/09/03

Date of Mailing: 10/10/03

[5] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination in this matter, may be appealed to the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3.

581-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BURLINGTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court. The District also asserted that the Department inappropriately excluded the District's encumbrance figure of $78,890 on the maintenance budget worksheet and that the Department must recalculate the District's excess surplus based on the District's revised calculations, until the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) established otherwise. The District also maintained that the Department must issue a revised preliminary maintenance budget and estimated Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award based on adjustments to the reserve and fund balances made after the filed June 30, 2003 Board Secretary's Report.

The ALJ found that the Department appropriately applied the duly promulgated rule implementing the Court's order for "maintenance," and determined that any adjustments to the encumbrances and excess fund balance for the 2002-03 budget based on the District's recalculations and revised information be effectuated within the context of the audit in preparation for the CAFR and the CAFR review.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision, clarifying that the District's encumbrances were properly excluded as a budget expense for 2002-03 by the Department and concurring that any adjustments to the District's maintenance budget be made based on the CAFR review.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4094-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 185-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF BURLINGTON,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Dianna Rosenheim, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 25, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE JOSEPH F. FIDLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The City of Burlington School District is an Abbott District, as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.2. Petitioner Board of Education appeals from respondent Department of Education's Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award, dated August 27, 2003.

The issues raised by the district primarily concern the manner of accounting for encumbrances payable as of June 30, 2002, and calculating the amount of excess surplus. The district also contends that the Department has not properly defined maintenance budget, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, but the district has simply asked, without objection, that this legal issue be preserved for appeal.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Department moved before the Supreme Court on March 24, 2003, for an order modifying the remedies in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). See also Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX). The Department requested that the discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) that it would be required to provide to Abbott districts in 2003-2004 be limited to an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center cross-moved in part for an order setting an expedited schedule for the Department's decisions on districts' budgets. On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court ordered the Department and the Education Law Center to participate in mediation before the Hon. Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D., to attempt to resolve issues raised by their motions.

Mediation resolved all issues except the 2003-2004 budget process, so the Department's motion for an order extending by an additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX remained outstanding. The parties agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals, beginning with the Department's reviews and approvals of districts' budgets by May 30, 2003. Districts' appeals from the Department's reviews were to be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, where administrative law judges were to issue initial decisions within 50 days of the appeal. The Commissioner of Education was to issue final decisions within 25 days of the initial decisions. On May 20, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect until further order of the Court.

On May 30, 2003, the Department issued decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets. In this matter, Assistant Commissioner Gordon MacInnes, Division of Abbott Implementation, notified the district that the Department had completed its initial review of the district's 2003-

2004 expenditure budget dated April 15, 2003. The district was further notified that the expenditure budget conformed with the maintenance standard set forth in the Department's guidance of February 14, 2003, and was approved except as noted in the letter:

> The following items could not be approved because the DOE does not have sufficient information at this time to determine actual need:
>
> Health benefits will be approved when the actual amount of the cost from January 2004 to June 2004 is known.
>
> Since special education tuition costs cannot be precisely projected, the district should base its estimate on 2002-2003 actual expenditures with the understanding that these expenditures will be adjusted based upon actual enrollment/costs.

Assistant Commissioner MacInnes' letter further advised the district that

> The amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid necessary to support your approved budget cannot be determined with precision at this time due to a variety of factors including the inability to determine the exact amount of the school district's available revenues for 2003-2004 such as unbudgeted surplus which will be informed by an ongoing comprehensive analysis of expenditures being done by the Treasurer, the potential savings identified by the Treasurer that may be forthcoming from areas such as debt refinancing for early retirement and school construction and the outcome of any appeal. A payment schedule for Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid will be provided to your district once the Commissioner has issued final decisions on the budget appeals and, as in past years, that payment schedule will be subject to adjustment based on the annual audit filed pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:23-1.

On June 5, 2003, the district's verified petition of appeal was filed with the Department. The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law on June 9, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On June 12, 2003, the Department's answer was filed in the OAL. By letter Order dated June 18, 2003, I directed the parties to prepare for a hearing to commence on July 14, 2003.

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument on the Department's motion for an order extending the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. On July 1, 2003, the Department moved for an order amending the schedule for processing appeals to allow the Court to rule on the applicable standard before hearings and issuance of initial decisions. On July 10, 2003, the Supreme Court heard oral argument on the budget process. On that date, the Department requested an adjournment of the scheduled hearing to await the Supreme Court's ruling on the maintenance standard. I held a telephone conference with counsel and the adjournment was granted.

By Order dated July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court granted the Department's application to extend the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). The Department was authorized to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. The Court defined a maintenance budget and directed that the Department promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. Among other conditions, the Court's Order established a schedule for the Department to provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding needed to support the currently approved budget. The Order also superseded its earlier modified scheduling Order to require that the Office of Administrative Law issue initial decisions on district appeals from the Department's preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year within 30 days of the date of the Department's Notices.

The Department of Education's Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award (Exhibit J-1) is dated August 27, 2003. The possible issues on appeal were discussed in a telephone conference on September 3, 2003, and the matter was scheduled to be heard on September 16, 2003. After evaluating discovery, counsel for petitioner district provided a more specific list of issues by letter dated September 8, 2003.

By letter dated September 14, 2003, counsel for petitioner advised that he had mistakenly scheduled himself for the September 16, 2003, hearing when he had a hearing in Newark on another Abbott appeal the same day. At his request, the matter was rescheduled for September 18, 2003, at 2:00 p.m. On the new hearing date, petitioner's witnesses were not available. Counsel then agreed that the hearing would be held on the afternoon of September 24, 2003, after they completed another hearing that day in Newark. The hearing was commenced in the afternoon and completed on the evening of September 24, 2003, and the record remained open for submission of letter briefs by the close of business the following day.

DISCUSSION

The Department's Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award (Exhibit J-1), dated August 27, 2003, provides:

> Pursuant to the July 23, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court of New Jersey in Abbott v. Burke, the Department has determined that your district's preliminary maintenance budget figure for the 2003-2004 school year is $23,571,893.00, inclusive of the district's General Fund Budget and restricted ECPA and DEPA revenue accounts. This number reflects the instructional and non-instructional programs approved and provided in the 2002-2003 school year and includes increases to the 2002-2003 budget to reflect non-discretionary costs and adjustments to the 2002-2003 budget based on actual 2002-2003 expenditures as informed by information provided the accounting firm retained by the Treasurer to review you district's financial information. A copy of the information provided by that accounting firm is available upon request.
>
> The Department has further reviewed the revenues available to your district for the 2003-2004 school year. The Department has identified an additional $500,488 in fund balance that must be appropriated in the district's 2003-2004 revised budget. Initially, the Department of Education identified a projected excess surplus balance of $1,379,846 based on information contained in the district's June 30, 2003 Board Secretary's report. This amount is reduced by $440,000, which is 2% of the undesignated fund surplus. This amount was further reduced by the amount currently budgeted for fund balance in the district's 2003-2004 budget ($200,000). Additionally, this amount is reduced by the outstanding 2002-2003 Account Receivable in Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid ($239,358). Accordingly, the district should revise line 121 in their 2003-2004 budget to reflect the new amount of budgeted fund balance of $700,488 (increase of $500,488).

Projected Surplus balance at June 30, 2003	$1,379,846
2% required Surplus	440,000
Potential excess surplus	939,846
Budgeted fund balance recap	200,000
Fund balance to be budgeted	739,846
Less: Receivable A v B	(239,358)
Line 121 – additional	500,488
New Line 121	$700,488

Based on the revenues available to your district for 2003-2004, your district's estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid is determined to be $1,215,216.00. A revised 2003-2004 budget, consistent with this letter, must be provided to the Department no later than September 26, 2003. It should be noted that the preliminary maintenance budget and the estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid will be subject to further adjustment after submission by your district of the 2002-2003 CAFR.

The parties agreed that petitioner district would proceed with its proofs first. Assistant School Business Administrator Ingrid Walsh testified that she has held that position with the district for three years. Previously, she served as an auditor with professional accounting firms, specializing in municipal and school district audits. Ms. Walsh is familiar with the Notice of August 27, 2003, and also with the revised Maintenance Budget Worksheet admitted into evidence as Exhibit J-2. According to Ms. Walsh, the Worksheet shows revisions made after conversations with Keith Costello, the Department's Budget Manager for petitioner school district.

Ms. Walsh testified that she prepared the Board Secretary's report to the Board of Education for the 12 month period ending June 30, 2003. The version of the report admitted into evidence as Exhibit P-1 is not the first version. According to Ms. Walsh, she did a "soft close" in July 2003, and then did adjustments after doing an internal audit for errors. She reviewed all relevant data and input changes as needed for a year-end closing. On page two of the report, in the Liabilities and Fund Equity portion, there is an entry for $78,890 appropriated as a reserve for encumbrances. Ms. Walsh testified that this amount was found in the initial "soft close" and she reviewed all the bills, no change was needed.

Exhibit P-2 is the district's Open Purchase Order Report by Vendor Name. It was Ms. Walsh's testimony that items or services received by the district are included in accounts payable, but items not received or partially received, or services not completed, are reflected as open orders or encumbrances in the Open Purchase Order Report. The total of $78,890 for open encumbrances is found on the last page of the document. Ms. Walsh itemized the open encumbrances in a Schedule of Encumbrances Payable for the Year Ended June 30, 2003 (Exhibit P-3). She acknowledged that the entry for $40,000 represented her estimate that an $80,000 contract was half completed; it is a two-year project. Ms. Walsh testified sincerely that she used the Department's audit guidelines to determine the open encumbrances.

Ms. Walsh does not agree with the Department's calculation of excess surplus. In her opinion, the Department's figure of $500,488 is too high. The district's Excess Surplus Calculation (Unaudited) for the Fiscal Year Ended June 30, 2003, was admitted into evidence as Exhibit P-4. Ms. Walsh calculated 2% of an Adjusted 2003-2003 General Fund Expenditures figure of $20,633.925, or $412,679. To this was added an Extraordinary Aid Allowable Adjustment of $9,263, for a total of $421,942. This amount was subtracted from the Total Unreserved/Undesignated Fund Balance of $758,617, to obtain a figure for Excess Surplus of $336,676. This is $163,812 less than the Department's calculation of excess surplus.

Craig Wilkie has been petitioner district's School Business Administrator since September 2002, and he oversees the Assistant Business Administrator's work. He testified that he is aware of a letter dated September 16, 2003, from Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner, Division of Finance, Department of Education, to Chief School Administrators, School Business Administrators/Board Secretaries, and Public School Accountants, regarding year-end encumbrances (Exhibit R-1). According to Mr. Wilkie, this letter was issued at some point after Ms. Walsh had completed her work on the Open Purchase Order Report by Vendor Name (Exhibit P-2) and the Schedule of Encumbrances Payable for the Year Ended June 30, 2003 (Exhibit P-3). In his opinion, her work was consistent with the guidelines set forth in Assistant Commissioner Rosenberg's letter, which provides in part that

For the current 2002-03 fiscal year audit as well as future audits, all public school accountants are asked to give utmost consideration to encumbrances on the school district's books at June 30, 200X through a thorough review and analysis of open purchase orders.

Open purchase orders at June 30, 200X should be classified into the following two categories for review and classification:

1. Category one represents purchase orders for which the goods have been received or the services have been rendered at June 30th that have not been paid. These purchase orders must be expensed in the current audit period, the related encumbrances reversed, and a liability (accounts payable) established. If the invoice has not been received the amount must be estimated. In accordance with GAAP, an expenditure is recorded when goods are received or services rendered.
2. Category two represents purchase orders which will be honored in the subsequent year. These purchase orders will be rolled over into the next fiscal year and will be shown in the June 30th general fund balance sheet as a reserve for encumbrances. Per NCGA Statement 1, paragraph 91 "encumbrances outstanding at year-end represent the estimated amount of the expenditures ultimately to result if unperformed contracts in process at year-end are completed. Encumbrances outstanding at year-end do not constitute expenditures or liabilities."

These purchase orders must be checked for validity, which means, the purchase orders must have a valid contractual agreement (i.e., contain an actual order of goods or services) in place at June 30, 200X. Blanket purchase orders do not constitute valid purchase orders. As a general rule, for other than construction contracts, the liquidation of these orders should be within 60-90 days of the year-end.

In reviewing the 90-day cut-off period during the year-end audit, purchase orders that existed at June 30, 200X but were not liquidated by September 30 should be canceled and not included in the June 30 reservation of fund balance, with the exception of capital or other long term projects. Open purchase orders for items that are: 1) no longer considered necessary; 2) not substantiated with a valid contract; or 3) aged (regardless of materiality) and have been on the books for over 90 days should also be canceled and not included in June 30 reservation of fund balance.

> In addition, per review of the agreed upon procedures performed by several accounting firms for the Abbott school districts that were recently concluded, on several occasions it was noted that expenditures for 2003-04 were being improperly encumbered in the 2002-03 fiscal year. Districts may not have open encumbrances for items related to the next year such as salaries, insurance premiums, etc.
>
> District's account payable, accruals and year-end expenditure cut-off should be thoroughly reviewed with attention given to ensure that valid expenditures for the current year are captured and expenditures for the subsequent year are recorded in the proper accounting period.
>
> For further guidance on year-end reporting and encumbrances please review, Section I – General Compliance, Chapter 5, "Bids & Contracts/Purchasing" and Chapter 8, "Year-End Procedures" of the 2002-03 Audit Program.
> [Emphasis in original].

Keith Costello is a Budget Manager/Examiner for the Department of Education, Office of Abbott Implementation. He is licensed in New Jersey as a Certified Public Accountant, and he previously served approximately 18 years in the Office of State Auditor. Mr. Costello testified that he is aware of Assistant Commissioner Rosenberg's letter regarding year-end encumbrances. It is his surmise that the letter was sent to all school districts.

Mr. Costello acknowledged that the Department's calculation for excess surplus was almost $164,000 more than petitioner district's calculation. Part of this difference is attributable to the $78,890 that the district reserved for encumbrances. That amount was not included in the Department's calculation because the information was not available. In addition, the Department used a different figure to calculate 2% of the fund balance. Mr. Costello did not think that the resulting difference here, between $440,000 and $412,942, was a significant difference between figures that are estimates. He candidly acknowledged that he had no reason to question the district's numbers and they may be accurate. However, he testified that is the Department's position that it should wait until the district's audit and Comprehensive Annual Financial Report to make adjustments.

Mr. Costello testified that the remainder of the difference in the calculations for excess surplus has not been accounted for yet. He explained that at the time the Department did its calculations, it was not aware of the decreases Ms. Walsh had taken on her Excess Surplus Calculation (Unaudited) for the Fiscal Year Ended June 30, 2003 (Exhibit P-4), such as Capital Reserve in the amount of $949,664. Mr. Costello testified that the revised Maintenance Budget Worksheet, admitted into evidence as Exhibit J-2, is consistent in method with how the Department handled all the other Abbott districts this year. The revisions were worked out with petitioner district, and they reflect decreases in non-recurring federal revenues and salary increases for a couple of positions. These changes are shown under the heading "Adjust," and they total $381,800. When this number is added to the preliminary maintenance budget figure for the 2003-2004 school year set forth in the Notice of August 27, 2003, $23,571,893, the revised preliminary maintenance budget figure is $23,953,693. The new estimated need for supplemental aid is $1,597,016 (Exhibit J-2).

Mr. Costello acknowledged that in past years, the Department has waited for the CAFR to make revenue adjustments. This year, rather than advancing the funds first and then subsequently adjusting downward if necessary, the Department has based the maintenance budget on estimates that it was thought would be agreeable to the districts. He reiterated that he had no reason to question Ms. Walsh's calculations, but he has not had a chance to analyze them. To Mr. Costello's knowledge, the independent accounting firm did not question the district's encumbrance calculations.

The forgoing represents the sum of the evidential record, which is essentially undisputed.

The parties make several legal arguments. Petitioner district contends that the Department must make changes in the maintenance budget worksheet based upon supplemental documentation from the district. The district should not have to wait until the Comprehensive Annual Financial Review for the year ending June 30, 2003, is submitted to the Department and reviewed. Petitioner argues that to delay the determination until the CAFR would directly thwart the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order and prior Abbott decisions. Pursuant to the Court's Order, the Department must establish a preliminary maintenance budget figure "consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support the currently approved budget." Included are any documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures, less any claimed inefficiencies (in this case, there are none). The Department then calculates the revenues available to the district in 2003-2004 and the difference between the available revenues and the adjusted maintenance budget for 2003-2004 must be filled by Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

The changes petitioner district seeks from the Department are inclusion of the district's encumbrance figures on the maintenance budget worksheet; recalculation by the Department of the district's excess surplus based on the district's calculations, until the CAFR establishes otherwise; and provision of a revised preliminary maintenance budget and estimated Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award. The district contends that this request is supported by the Supreme Court's decision in Abbott v. Burke, 170 N.J. 537, 544 (2002). Addressing the Department's obligation to consider supplemental documentation and to make appropriate plan and budget adjustments in the preschool context, the Court stated: "That cooperative effort is only possible if the DOE staff works with the Abbott districts in the preparation of their plans, and continues through the administrative process to accept supplemental documentation and to assist the districts in curing any deficiencies that have caused the Department to reject any plan." Id. Petitioner district has provided supplemental documentation with respect to actual expenditures and encumbrances, and with respect to the excess fund balance. It contends that the Department must now incorporate those revised figures in the maintenance budget worksheet and provide the district with adjusted numbers and revised Abbott v. Burke State Aid based on those numbers.

The Department first asserts that petitioner district bears the burden of proof in this matter and must demonstrate its compliance with the Department's duly adopted regulations in order to establish any entitlement to additional aid. While the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, provides that the Department shall bear the initial burden of establishing the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the Department's emergency regulations, the Department's Notice of August 27, 2003, reveals that the Department did not reduce petitioner district's maintenance budget based on ineffectiveness or inefficiency. Thus, petitioner bears the burden of proof, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c).

The Department further contends that it properly calculated petitioner's 2003-2004 maintenance budget and Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1 sets forth the requirements for Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid, and specifically provides that a district's budget shall only contain "those programs, positions and services approved and provided in 2002-2003." The regulation also provides that the maintenance budget "shall include any documented increase in non-discretionary expenditures including, but not limited to, contracted salary increases, increases in health benefits, and increases in special education." N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(d)(4).

With regard to the district's position that $78,890 in encumbrances should be counted now for the 2002-2003 school year expenses, and that the excess fund balance should be $163,812 less, the Department notes that the $163,812 figure includes the $78,890. The encumbrance figure had not been included in the data available to the Department when it issued its Notice of August 27, 2003. The Department further notes that the $163,812 figure also includes the difference in the parties' calculation of the 2% of the fund balance ($440,000 v. $412,942). However, the remaining difference of about $57,000 was not specifically explained and may be attributable to various reserves the district took subsequent to the June 30, 2003 Board Secretary's Report. It is the Department's position that these new numbers, including the district's encumbrance amount that includes estimates, must be audited in preparation of the CAFR, and if correct for the 2002-2003 school year, the budget will be adjusted at that time.

Having considered the evidential record and the parties' contentions, it is my view that petitioner district has failed to establish that it is entitled to the relief that it seeks. While it is clear that the Department was obligated by the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, to provide in a Notice to the district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year, it is likewise clear that the Department complied with this obligation. The district has subsequently provided revised information. Since the district will soon have an audit and Comprehensive Annual Financial Report completed, it is reasonable that any adjustments to the encumbrances and excess fund balance for the 2002-2003 budget be based upon this review. I so CONCLUDE. Thus, I further CONCLUDE that this appeal should be DISMISSED.

It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 26, 2003
DATE

Joseph F. Fidler
JOSEPH F. FIDLER, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9/26/03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9/26/03
DATE

EXHIBITS

Joint Exhibits:

J-1 Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award, dated August 27, 2003

J-2 Maintenance Budget Worksheet

For Petitioner:

P-1 Revised Board Secretary's Report

P-2 Open Purchase Order Report, By Vendor Name

P-3 Schedule of Encumbrances Payable for the Year Ended June 30, 2003

P-4 Excess Surplus Calculation (Unaudited) for the Fiscal Year ended June 30, 2003

For Respondent:

R-1 Year-End Encumbrances letter dated September 16, 2003, from Department to Chief School Administrators, School Business Administrators/Board Secretaries, and Public School Accountants

WITNESSES

For Petitioner:

Ingrid Walsh

Craig Wilkie

For Respondent:

Keith Costello

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4094-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 185-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BURLINGTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department of Education's (Department) decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-2004 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board of Education of the Burlington School District's (District) exceptions and the Department's reply thereto were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Initially, with respect to the District's claim in its exceptions that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to follow the Supreme Court's definition of "maintenance budget," but, instead, used the "inconsistent definition of 'maintenance budget' in the Department of Education's emergency regulations" (District's Exceptions at 1-2), the Commissioner finds that the Department's application of the regulatory definition of "maintenance budget" set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 in its review and approval of the District's 2003-2004 budget, and the ALJ's utilization of such definition in its consideration of the District's appeal is entirely appropriate. With respect to this issue, the ALJ in this matter states solely that:

> The district also contends that the Department has not properly defined maintenance budget, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, but the district has simply asked, without objection, that this legal issue be preserved for appeal. (Initial Decision at 2)

The ALJ does not, therefore, directly address the appropriateness of applying the Department's "maintenance definition." Upon review of the record in this matter and upon consideration of the arguments set forth by the District in its exceptions, however, the Commissioner finds that neither the OAL nor the Commissioner have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n., 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Moreover, even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL and the Commissioner have jurisdiction to determine the validity of the regulation, as argued by the District, the Commissioner finds that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003. Consequently, the Department's application of such regulatory definition in its review and approval of the District's 2003-2004 budget is wholly appropriate.

The remaining issues in this appeal are: 1) whether the Department appropriately excluded the District's encumbrance figure of $78,890 on the maintenance budget worksheet; 2) whether the Department should recalculate the District's excess surplus based on the District's revised calculations, until the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) establishes otherwise; and 3) whether the Department must issue a revised preliminary maintenance budget and estimated Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award based on adjustments to the reserve and fund balances made after the filed June 30, 2003 Board Secretary's Report.

Turning first to whether the Department appropriately excluded the District's encumbrance figure of $78,890 on the maintenance budget worksheet, the Commissioner points out that Keith Costello, Budget Manager/Examiner for the Department of Education, Office of Abbott Implementation, testified that, by memo dated September 16, 2003 to all school districts, Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg addressed the procedures to be followed for open purchase orders and encumbrances on the school district's books as of June 30. The September 16, 2003 memo states, in pertinent part:

> Open purchase orders at June 30, 200X should be classified into the following two categories for review and reclassification:
>
> 1. Category one represents purchase orders for which the goods have been received or the services have been rendered at June 30th that have not been paid. These purchase orders must be expensed in the current audit period, the related encumbrances reversed, and a liability (accounts payable) established. If the invoice has not been received the amount must be estimated. In accordance with GAAP, an expenditure is recorded when goods are received or services are rendered.
>
> 2. Category two represents purchase orders which will be honored in the subsequent year. These purchase orders will be rolled over into the next fiscal year and will be shown in the June 30th general fund balance sheet as a reserve for encumbrances. Per NCGA Statement 1, paragraph 91 "encumbrances outstanding at year-end represent the estimated amount of the expenditures ultimately to result if unperformed contracts in process at year-end are completed. Encumbrances outstanding at year-end do not constitute expenditures or liabilities." (emphasis in text) (Exhibit R-1, in evidence)

Accordingly, category one purchase orders and the related encumbrances are to be considered 2002-2003 fiscal year expenditures, but category two purchase orders are considered expenditures in the 2003-2004 fiscal year and, thus, are not to be included in the development of a "maintenance budget" for the 2003-2004 school year pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. The

Commissioner, therefore, concludes that it was entirely appropriate and consistent with Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg's letter of September 16, 2003, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 for the Department to exclude $78,890 in encumbrances from the District's 2003-2004 maintenance budget. As the Department points out:

> Assistant Business Administrator Walsh testified that her encumbrance figure of $78,890 included items not yet received, services not yet performed, and contract estimates.[1] Also included in the encumbrances is an estimate for the legal cost of the ongoing 2003-2004 budget appeal. Some of these are costs for which the correct 2002-2003 amounts were not yet known as of September 24, 2003, the date of the hearing. Thus, it is appropriate to wait for the annual audit of the encumbrances, consistent with the Department's letter of September 16, 2003 to the auditors and business administrators (R-1), before any adjustments are made to include them as prior year expenditures. (Department's Exceptions at 5-6)

In light of the Assistant Business Administrator's testimony that the encumbrance figure of $78,890 includes items not yet received or partially received, services not yet performed, and contract estimates, based on the proofs brought to this record, the Commissioner is unable to determine which, if any, of the District's encumbrances totaling $78,890 have become accounts payable by virtue of the receipt of the encumbered goods or services on or before June 30, 2003 so as to be considered 2002-2003 expenditures. The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that the District's encumbrances were properly excluded as a budget expense for 2002-2003 by the Department, and directs that any adjustments to be made will be based on updated information with respect to the June 30, 2003 encumbrances for the 2002-2003 school budget year in the course of the CAFR review scheduled to begin in November 2003.

Turning to the two remaining questions, whether the Department should recalculate the District's excess surplus based on the District's revised calculations and whether the Department must issue a revised preliminary maintenance budget and estimated Additional

[1] Assistant School Business Administrator Ingrid Walsh testified that $40,000 of this amount represented her estimate that an $80,000 contract was half completed. (Initial Decision at 7)

Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award based on adjustments to the reserve and fund balances made after the filed June 30, 2003 Board Secretary's Report, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that any adjustments to the District's maintenance budget be made based on the CAFR review. In so determining, the Commissioner points out that any adjustment with respect to a change of encumbrances to accounts payable as a result of the CAFR review, as directed above, will affect the excess surplus figure, the fund balance[2] and the Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award. Moreover, the unresolved discrepancy in the District's excess budget surplus figures and the Department's excess budget surplus figures, i.e., the Department's excess surplus figure is $163,812 higher than the District's calculation, is best resolved within the context of the upcoming CAFR review as the $78,890 that the District reserved for encumbrances and the difference in the parties' calculation of the 2% of the fund balance ($440,000 v. $412,942) account for part of this difference, but the District, who has the burden in this matter, failed to adequately explain the additional difference of about $57,000 or to establish the accuracy of the District's excess surplus figure.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as clarified above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[2] In that the Commissioner has determined that the Department properly excluded the District's encumbrances as an expense for 2002-2003 and, thus, the Department's calculation of fund balance remains unchanged, it is unnecessary to address the District's request that "the DOE should be required to disburse immediately the Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid receivable that was eliminated based on the erroneous calculation of fund balance." (District's Exceptions at 21)

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

582-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF NEW BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Abbott District challenged the Department of Education's determination of excess fund balance as of June 30, 2003, as well as the Department's determination of certain maintenance calculations.

The ALJ recommended adjusting the Department's excess surplus figure by $3.6 million; found that the salaried contracted raises should be calculated in accordance with the District's figures, including a 6.81% increase; the preliminary budget should be adjusted to include the figures for special education for existing and new students, per the District's testimony; the adjustment for Consumer Price Index (CPI) should be adjusted to reflect an additional $122,554; the preliminary budget should include $400,000 for the Special Technical High School and $503,014 for transportation costs and an increase of $24,241 for utilities. The ALJ also found that IDEA funds may be included as revenue.

The Commissioner modified the Initial Decision, finding the Department's determination regarding excess fund balance should be undisturbed, pending receipt of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR); the Department's determination regarding increases for contracted salaries is upheld; the District's maintenance budget should be modified to include a nondiscretionary increase of $859,282, rather than $462,905; the Department's determinations regarding CPI adjustment, the special technical high school and transportation costs should be upheld; and that the ALJ properly determined that revenue adjustments may include IDEA funds and the District's maintenance budget should include an increase of $24,241 for utilities.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4161-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 198-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF NEW BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

George F. Hendricks, Esq., for petitioner (Hendricks and Hendricks, attorneys)

Michael Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 24, 2003 Decided: September 25, 2003

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is an appeal by the petitioner, the Board of Education of the City of New Brunswick, Middlesex County (hereinafter "the Board" or "New Brunswick"), from a "Notice of a Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for the school year 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aide Award," memorialized by letter of the Department of Education to the Superintendent of the New Brunswick School District on August 27, 2003. The letter advises that based upon preliminary audits conducted in July of 2003, the respondent (hereinafter "the Department" or "State" or "DOE") has determined that for the 2003-2004 school year New Brunswick is entitled to a maintenance budget of $104,596,723 inclusive of the District's General Fund Budget and restricted by ECPA and DEPA revenue accounts. The State notes that the number, in its view, accurately reflects the instructional and non-instructional programs approved and provided in the 2002-2003 school year including increases to the 2002-2003 budget to reflect non-discretionary costs and adjustments to the 2002-2003 budget based on actual 2002-2003 expenditures. These expenditures were based upon information provided by the accounting firm retained by the Treasurer of the State of New Jersey to review New Brunswick's financial information.

New Brunswick argues that the maintenance budget amount erroneously and insufficiently reflects the actual maintenance budget required for the 2003-2004 school year. The assertion in dollar amount substantially involves the calculation by the Department of a $12,844,173 surplus which it contends was reflected as unspent revenues in the budget for 2002-2003. Although the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (hereinafter "CAFR") may and probably will subject the maintenance budget to further adjustments, see N.J.S.A. 18A:23-1 et seq., this proceeding is mandated at this time by order of the New Jersey Supreme Court. Neither counsel nor I, without having done any additional research, given the exigencies of issuing this decision, was unable to answer the question for ourselves as to the impact of the decision sub judice on the CAFR audit and vice versa. The CAFR audit and budget have yet to be finalized and are estimated to be complete within the next few months, thus to some extent making the numbers on the preliminary budget questionable; for purposes of these proceedings, however, the Board and the Department accept these numbers and based upon those calculations, it is the Board's view that the $10,411,708 surplus alleged to have been accrued by New Brunswick for the previous school is incorrect. That for reasons which will be expanded upon later in this decision, much of that alleged "surplus" had been diminished by various encumbrances and accounts payable which were or will be paid by the District to various vendors not later than September 30, 2003. Thus, while the issue is not before me, New Brunswick would argue that the surplus reflected by the audits of the 2002-2003 school year were also erroneous, thus depriving the District of funds for that year and the error is compounded by reiterating the erroneous surplus for the current school year. I shall not address the issue of the surplus for the 2002-2003 school year unless it relates directly to the 2003-2004 budget.[1]

In addition to arguing that the surplus is inaccurate, New Brunswick also argues various inaccuracies contained in the State budget at various line items, i.e. salaries, special education programs, the consumer price index adjustment and other aspects of the budget that will be addressed specifically. The bottom line, from New Brunswick's perspective, is that based upon these alleged erroneous figures, the true maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year should be $116,094,000, not the projected maintenance budget of $104,596,723 projected by the State. It should also be noted that based upon the audit, no inefficiency or lack of thoroughness was reflected in New Brunswick's program and thus no penalties are associated with the requested budget.

The Department of Education relies primarily if not exclusively on the two audits which had been conducted in July of 2003 and the expertise of the Acting Director of Fiscal Review and Improvement for Abbott Implementation, Mr. Glen Forney, an accountant who was personally responsible for devising much, if not all, of the preliminary budget offered by the Department. The State argues that based upon Mr. Forney's testimony and calculations and general accounting practices, the adjustments and figures arrived at were proper, reasonable and fair and should not be altered in any fashion to the benefit New Brunswick; however, the Department does acknowledge the caveat that the preliminary budget will be impacted by changes, if any, resulting from the CAFR audit mentioned earlier. So, for purposes of this hearing and this decision, the only numbers that reasonably are available to work with are those set forth by the Board in its preliminary budget and the testimony and evidence provided by the District which may have been unavailable to the State when the preliminary budget was calculated.

The various key budgetary financial figures are shrouded with ambiguity. On various documents and through various aspects of the testimony, different figures had been used to ascertain, for example, the estimated surplus for the 2002-2003 year, and the actual budget the District allegedly requires. As a result of this ambiguity for me as well as for the reader, it should be noted that two significant numbers were arrived at through stipulation. It had been agreed to by the parties that irrespective of other numbers reflected in the documents, the surplus alleged as of the date of the hearing is $9,911,707. New Brunswick asserts that the appropriate maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year should be $116,094,000.

[1] It was stipulated that New Brunswick's adjusted 2002-2003 budget is $110,785,600.

As noted previously, the matter was initiated by an informal pleading which I deem to be the letter of August 27, 2003 issued by the Department of Education through its Assistant Commissioner, Mr. Gordon MacInnes. The responsive pleading was accepted by both parties to be the letter written not by counsel for New Brunswick, but rather to counsel from the business administrator/board secretary of the District, dated September 4, 2003.

By way of background, on or about July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court of New Jersey granted the State's motion to relax the Abbott v. Burke remedies and standard as applied to Abbott districts for the 2003-2004 school year budget. Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 48, 80 (1998) (hereinafter "Abbott V"). In its order of July 23, the Supreme Court states that "The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts." July 23, 2003 Order at 4. Further, the order provides that "During 2003-2004, K through 12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued subject to the conditions set forth in the order." The order than provides a negative definition of a "maintenance budget" indicating that such budget "does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services, that were reduced in the 2002-2003 program or new programs, positions or services accept in respect to Paragraph 2E of the Court's order of June 24, 2003." Id. at 4, 5.

As part of its order, the Department of Education was directed by the Supreme Court to promulgate emergency rules governing the entire Abbott v. Burke budgeting process for the 2003-2004 school year. Pursuant to that order, the Department of Education promulgated N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 in which the phrase "maintenance budget" is defined as follows:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the > restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

Following a rather protracted and expedited procedural history of this matter as it wended its way through the New Jersey Supreme Court's rulings, the Court finally issued its last order concerning the procedure to be employed and various other aspects of arriving at a maintenance budget on July 23, 2003. Following that Order, the matter was preheard by telephone on August 28, 2003 at which time it was agreed that the earliest possible date for commencement of the hearing was September 9, 2003. Following a half-day discussion with the parties concerning possible resolution of all or part of the matter, the case went forward to hearing and was continued at the earliest time possible for all parties and this judge, Monday, September 15, 2003 and Tuesday, September 16, 2003 at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, New Jersey.

Pursuant to the agreement of the parties, on September 17, 2003, my office received a short stipulation of fact incorporated in a letter submitted by Mr. Hendricks. In addition, by Monday, September 22, 2003, counsel submitted briefs and written argument in support of their respective positions. On September 24, 2003, my office received a brief letter reply to Mr. Michael's submission from Mr. Hendricks. The reply essentially goes to the general assertion raised by the State that the District did not submit proof of the various errors it asserts are contained in the preliminary maintenance budget. Where that assertion has been made by the Deputy Attorney General in respect to specific aspects of the budget, I will address the particulars of the proofs provided.

It should also be noted that on August 22, 2003, the Department of Education sought leave from the Supreme Court for a three-day extension of time to issue decisions on Abbott districts' applications for supplemental funding, and on August 26, the Court issued such order granting the Department's request for an extension and thus setting a deadline for the issuance of initial decisions to on or before September 26, 2003.

FACTUAL AND HISTORIC BACKGROUND

To place the case in context, some history of the "Abbott" rulings is appropriate. I shall not go back to the original Abbott I decision, Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269 (1985), nor to its related predecessor, the seminal case of Robinson v. Cahill, 118 N.J. Super. 223 (Law Div. 1972), other than to say that as a result of these holdings, the State of New Jersey was ordered to set forth remedial measures it determined that must be implemented to ensure that public school children from the poorest (i.e. "Abbott") urban communities receive the educational entitlements that the Constitution of New Jersey guarantees them. More specifically, the Court refers to that provision within the New Jersey Constitution which states that:

> [t]he Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of 5 and 18 years.

In passing, of course, the Court ruled as unconstitutional all prior public school funding that had then been in place. Recognizing that educational funding is directly correlated to quality of education and that funding is in most districts primarily generated through real estate tax assessments, the Court concluded that in order to have an even playing field and provide the children of the State with equal protection under the law, State funding must reflect the disparities existing in various urban neighborhoods in terms of available real estate tax assessment funding as compared with those more affluent suburban neighborhoods and that the State, particularly the Legislature, had an unequivocal positive obligation to provide remedial funding to those Abbott districts so that a parity of sorts could be achieved, at least through finances, between inner city school systems and those of the generally more affluent school systems in surrounding suburban areas within the State.

Thus, the whole notion of a "maintenance budget" is truly an aberration from the principles that were originally set forth in Abbott I following the general seminal holding of Robinson v. Cahill. In 2002, four years after the Abbott V ruling, the Department of Education, filed a motion seeking a one-year relaxation of the Abbott V remedies, "based on concerns about the implementation of the Abbott IV and Abbott V remedial measures, in combination with the State's current budget crisis." Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294, 295 (2002) ("Abbott IX"). Seeking a one-year cessation of further growth of certain of the Abbott remedial measures, the DOE requested: 1) the right to limit additional supplemental funding for 2002-2003 for each Abbott district to the expenditures contained in the 2001-2002 K-12 DOE-approved district budget; 2) the authorization to preclude any district appeals seeking funding at a level in excess of that limit; 3) the authority to suspend school-based budgets, school-based need requests and zero-based budgeting; 4) the ability to afford districts flexibility to reduce, eliminate or limit growth of certain whole school reform enhancements such as technology coordinators and security coordinators; 5) the ability to authorize districts to eliminate positions and make staffing modifications in various programs such as technology programs, alternative schools, accountability programs, school-to-work and college transition; and 6) the ability to authorize districts to make educational judgments about retaining certain specified position such as media/technology coordinator, technology coordinator and drop-out prevention specialist. Id. at 296-97.

Acknowledging the State's fiscal crisis and the motivation underlying the DOE's proposal to strictly limit 2002-2003 supplemental funding to 2001-2002 adjusted levels, the Court held the Commissioner had the authority preliminarily to establish districts' supplemental funding for 2002-2003 at the level of expenditures contained in the 2001-2002 K-12 DOE approved district budget. Id. at 297. However, the Court ruled, the Commissioner did not have the authority to preclude any district appeals seeking supplemental funding for 2002-2003 in excess of the funding, as adjusted, for fiscal year 2001-2002. Ibid.

In addition, the Court granted the "DOE's request for one year to afford districts flexibility to eliminate, reduce, or limit growth of certain whole school reform enhancements as specified, to eliminate positions and make staffing modifications in various needs-based programs as specified, and to make educationally appropriate decisions about retention of certain positions as specified ... subject to the districts' right of appeal based on educational need related to impairment of the core elements of whole school reform and essential enhancements thereof." Id. at 297-98.

In 2003, the DOE again moved for modification of the Court's Abbott V decision. Abbott v. Burke, ____ N.J. ____, (2003)(slip op. at 2)("Abbott X"). After cross-motions were filed by the Education Law Center (hereinafter "ELC"), the Court ordered on April 29, 2003, "that the ELC and the DOE participate in mediation for the purpose of resolving the issues raised by the parties in their motion and cross-motion." Ibid. The mediation resulted in the parties reaching an agreement on all issues except the DOE's application to extend by one additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. Id. at 4. The mediated agreement approved by the Court provided in part:

> 4. Supplemental Programs
>
> a. Every Abbott school shall continue to implement supplemental programs as set forth in the chart entitled "Supplemental Programs in Abbott Schools."[2] attached hereto. Although the DOE has not agreed that all of the programs listed on the chart are supplemental or are required by Abbott V, the Department has agreed to the inclusion of the contents of the chart in regulations to be adopted;
>
> b. Regulations shall be developed to guide school and district assessment, planning and implementation of needs-driven supplemental programs as set forth in the chart entitled "Supplemental Programs in Abbott Schools";
>
> 5. Supplemental Funding
>
> a. The DOE 2003-2004 proposed regulations notwithstanding, the DOE represents that its funding proposal relates only to the 2003-2004 school year, and that it does not otherwise seek to modify or limit the right of Abbott districts to request supplemental funding for all demonstrably needed programs, services and positions and to appeal the denial of such requests, as provided for in Abbott V, 153 N.J. at 517-19, 525-27;
>
> b. Regulations shall be developed to implement the provisions of paragraph 5(a);
>
> [Id. at 10. Footnote added.]

The Court also ordered the sole remaining issue in dispute – the DOE's application to extend by one additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies previously granted in Abbott IX – be set down for oral argument. Id. at 13.

[2] See Memorandum Appendix I for chart.

Following oral argument, the Court issued its Order, Abbott v. Burke, ____ N.J. ____, (2003)("Abbott XI"), dated July 23, 2003. Noting that the DOE has the responsibility to implement firm administrative controls accompanying increased funding to Abbott districts to ensure money is spent effectively and efficiently, the Court held the DOE had "the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts." Id. at 4.

The Court explained that K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year would be continued during 2003-2004; and that the Statewide aggregate amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for 2003-2004 would be calculated as the total amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid approved for the Abbott districts for Fiscal Year 2002-2003, subject to adjustment as required for a maintenance budget. Id. at 4-5. "A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services." Id. at 5.

Moreover, the Court authorized the DOE to reduce a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid if a districts' "non-instructional programs" were not "effective and efficient." Id. at 6. The Court stated, "[f]or purposes of calculating the Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs." Id. at 5-6. Non-instructional programs were defined as "office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students." Id. at 6.

The Court ordered the DOE to provide each district notification of its preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year, consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding needed to support that currently approved budget, within thirty days of the issuance of its Order. Ibid Moreover, for any expenditure deleted from a district's 2002-2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE was directed to include in the written notice a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient. Id. at 6-7.

In addition, the Supreme Court also provided that Abbott districts could appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard. Id. at 7. It is within the context of this background that New Brunswick has appealed the preliminary maintenance budget provided to it by the Department.

BURDEN OF PROOF

In cases heard by the OAL, the Supreme Court indicated that the Department of Education has the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the District's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standards set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the District shall then bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard. It is within this framework that we shall examine New Brunswick's appeal.

THE FACTS

Unless otherwise noted, the following is a substantially uncontradicted narrative of the operative facts in these proceedings. If a factual dispute has been presented, I shall set forth its adversarial basis, arrive at an explicit finding of fact and give reasons in support of it.

Accordingly, I FIND:

A few caveats to begin: While in no way addressing any issues of bad faith of either party, it must be noted that many of the budgetary determinations are based upon broad projections into the future. The words "crystal ball" were occasionally used during the course of the testimony. A budget is a fluid instrument. It in reality can never be fully determined to be accurate until after the completion of the budget year when revenues and costs can be fully ascertained. Thus, while the assumption is that both parties acted in good faith, as a non-accountant, the approach that I have taken in assessing the propriety of the maintenance budget offered and that which is disputed by New Brunswick and is to view the entire matter within the context of reasonableness and fairness. Moreover, I have adopted the view that the factual accuracy of the budgetary calculations and formulae are to a great extent based upon which of the parties has a more intimate day-to-day responsibility for those numbers.

In this instance, without casting any aspersions on the gentlemen testifying on behalf of the Department in their capacities of fiscal reviewers of this Abbott district, it is clearly my view that the person possessed with the most intimate knowledge of the numbers is Mr. Richard Jannarone, the Business Administrator of the District. Mr. Jannarone convinced me by his spontaneity, almost immediate recollection of detailed numbers, and his passion, that great weight should be accorded to his testimony, and this I have done. Mr. Jannarone lives with the New Brunswick budget, day to day, week to week, month to month, year to year. He appears almost possessed with the need to provide the most accurate and efficient budget that is available within the District. Many of the numbers arrived at by Mr. Jannarone were generated on the night preceding the hearing date. Moreover, I found Jannarone to be a very credible witness. His spontaneity, his direct answers to questions, his willingness to acknowledge ignorance of certain facts when that occurred, his ability to recollect information that had been passed on to the Department months ago through his memory only and accurately setting forth the dates that various reports and information asked for or not was provided to the State was very impressive. In addition, I think that Mr. Jannarone treats his job not merely as a public employee, but as a "calling." He is the third generation school business administrator in his family, two generations before him also reached the level of superintendent. Thus, my reliance on Mr. Jannarone's expertise and knowledge as well as the accuracy of his testimony outweighs much of what was provided by the State – not because the State witnesses were not found to be credible, but because Jannarone was, and continues to be, literally on top of every number that is the basis of this appeal, whereas the State's witnesses were distanced by geography as well as by lack of on the ground experience within the business office and the District itself. Having made these remarks, we shall now address the specifics. It should be reiterated that there has never been a finding that New Brunswick was in any way inefficient or ineffective in the conduct of its non-instructional programs.

As was noted in the earlier discussion of the history of this matter, pursuant to the August 27, 2003 letter from Assistant Commissioner MacInnes, the District was advised that the preliminary maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year would be $104,596,723 inclusive of the District's general fund budget and restricted by ECPA and DEPA revenue accounts. The Department maintains in the letter (R-1) that the number accurately reflects the instructional and non-instructional programs approved and provided in the 2002-2003 school year and includes as well increases to the 2002-2003 budget reflecting nondiscretionary costs and adjustments to the previous year's budget based upon actual 2002-2003 expenditures which was provided to the State Treasurer by information provided to the latter by the accounting firm retained by the State to review New Brunswick's financial information. It is New Brunswick's position that the budget inaccurately reflects a proper maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year by approximately $12.5 million. That purported deficit has resulted, in New Brunswick's view, from miscalculation of various line item budgetary matters, as well as by a significant discrepancy by the accountants acting on behalf of the District in conjunction with the Board's experts in ascertaining the purported budgetary surplus which was carried over from the 2002-2003 school year, which amounts to approximately $9,911,707. While the Board argues that much of that surplus may have been accounted for when the initial budgetary calculations were done by the accountants in early July, that they do not accurately reflect the purported surplus today. Much of this discussion surrounds the issue of defining and ascertaining what has either been described as "encumbrances" and "accounts payable." Both are technical accounting theories and concepts which I will make an effort to define for the laymen as best I can later in this decision.

The preliminary and maintenance budget which is the subject matter of New Brunswick's appeal has been entered into evidence as respondent's Exhibit 1. For purposes of ease of discussion, the preliminary budget shall be set forth at this time. It is as follows:[3]

[3] Because of the small font size, my secretary had difficulty in replicating R-1 into the text of the decision. Of course, if any disparity exists between the text and R-1, the latter prevails.

Budget 2002-2003

Line #
9470	Approved General fund budget 02-03		99,255,989
Less	Local Contribution to Special Revenue		(2,980,494)
2511
	Add:
13300	Early Childhood aid		11,768,014
13690	DEPA Aid		2,471,552
13900	Distance Learning network aid		270,539
	Adjusted 02-03 State program budget		110,785,600
	Less:
Trenton to	Adjust for actual state program spending fund 11, 12, 13		(10,963,245)
do	Adjust for actual state program spending fund 15		(1,880,928)
			(12,844,173)
	Base 02-03 state program budget		97,941,427
	Add/(Subtract) Difference between 02-03/03-04 Plan
	Less:
	EC Plan 03-04 as of May 16, 2003	12,900,026
	EC Plan 02-03	(11,768,014)
			1,132,012
	Add or deduct: Non-discretionary items:
	Salaries – Contracted Rate	2,635,526
	Health Benefits	2,352,640
	Charter School Tuition	(119,392)
	Special Education	462,905
	CPI at 2.11% non-sal net of Util	191,605
	Utilities rate increases	0
	Subtotal		5,523,284
If applicable	Adjust For non-recurring items	0
	non-cash items	0
	Other	0
	Decrease in Federal aids	0
			0
	Subtotal adjustments		6,655,296

	Less:
	Ineffective/Inefficiencies for items that are applicable in 0203 Irosenfarb Winters) or Budget Managers		0
	FY 03-04 Total State program Budget @ Maint.		104,596,723

Budget: 2003-2004

410	Total Gen'l fund Revenues	113,481,748
	SD8 Adjustment for PSEA recorded incorrectly by district (PSEA at Feb 2003 should be $6,886,524 and district recorded
360	$4,638,935	2,247,589
425	ECPA	8,225,520
BS Report	ECPA Carryforward	142,900
426	DEPA	2,471,552
	Subtotal state program aid	126,569,309
		(31,293,750)
	Base GF revenue 03-04		95,275,559
	Add/(Subtract): Revenue Adjustments:
	PSEA adjustment	35,571
	IDEA	712,780
	Other: MISC unbudgeted rev	0
	Excess Fund Balance ($2,673,318 used to offset receivable)	9,911,707
			10,660,058
	FY 03-04 GF Total Budgeted Revenues Available		105,935,617
	Difference: Need for Supplemental aid		(1,338,894)

Bold items are what must be disclosed per the court.
Ineffective an inefficient terms must be in written form in the final letter to the districts.

[R-1]

The parties have stipulated to the accuracy of the following: Line 9470, Approved General Budget 2002-2003, $99,255,989. They have also stipulated to line items 13300, 13690 and 13900, totaling $110,785,600. The parties have also stipulated as to the amounts apportioned for health benefits and charter schools, which are $2,352,640 and $119,392, respectively. Finally, the parties have also agreed to the revenues available to the District for the 2003-2004 school year which totals $31,293,750.

I shall first address the issue involving the most significant sum that was excluded from the District's 2003-2004 preliminary budget: the Department concluded that there was an actual surplus of $9,911,707 that the District retained from the 2002-2003 school year. That amount, as such, was deemed to be a surplus and depending upon how one assesses it, reduced the maintenance needs of the District or was already available to the District so that the State could offset State funds by that amount in reaching the appropriate maintenance level for the 2003-2004 school year. It is New Brunswick's position that based upon an erroneous surplus, the actual maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year should be $116,094,000.

The individual primarily responsible for testifying in support of the Department's preliminary budget is Mr. Glen Forney. He currently serves as the acting director of the Department's fiscal revenue and improvement section with special emphasis on Abbott implementation. He is and has been a State auditor since the early 1980's and holds a bachelor's degree in accounting from Rutgers University. Mr. Forney became more intimately involved with the calculations of the budget when one of his colleagues, Mr. Vincent Mastrocola, a budget manager for two years with the Department and directly assigned to the New Brunswick District since November 2002, was, pursuant to Mr. Forney's testimony, originally assigned to the on-hands calculations but became "unavailable" during certain critical times when the process was conducted. Consequently, Mr. Forney assumed primary responsibility both for the preparation of the actual preliminary budget as well as the substance of the Assistant Commissioner's letter to Dr. Larkin, dated August 27, 2003, which essentially serves as the pleadings in this case and provides bottom line numbers. Forney testified that the budget was prepared in the latter part of August.

ADJUSTMENT FOR 2002-2003 EXCESS SURPLUS

Mr. Forney and the Department assert that approximately $9,911,707 was deemed to be an "adjustment" for purposes of calculating New Brunswick's 2003-2004 budget. The word "adjustment" is ambiguous to the layperson because it doesn't tell you whether the adjustment is a plus or a minus. It is just referred to as an "adjustment." In this instance, the approximately $10.9 million "adjustment" for excess revenues resulted in a deduction of New Brunswick's 2003-2004 proposed maintenance budget because it is the Department's view that that amount represents money that remained unspent for the 2002-2003 school year and should thus be carried over and utilized by New Brunswick for the current school year budget. Calculations for these alleged unspent revenues are found at Exhibit R-8.

Mr. Forney indicated that the numbers in terms of the adjustment for unspent appropriations were derived from the CPA firm retained by the State to review New Brunswick's budget and from other sources as well. Thus, the 2003-2004 preliminary maintenance budget reflects what the State asserts were the actual expenditures in the 2002-2003 maintenance budget. This hotly contested issue was aggressively and, in my view, successfully disputed by the testimony of New Brunswick's business administrator, Richard Jannarone. Mr. Jannarone, with the District since 1999, has served as the School Administrator and Board Secretary since May of this year and previously served as Assistant Board Secretary and Business Administrator. His role is central in the preparation, creation and the formulation of the District's school budget. He was responsible for constructing the proposed budget for 2003-2004, initially submitted to the Department in December of 2002. The final budget was prepared in late February, early March of 2003. It was without dispute that Mr. Jannarone conducted numerous and on occasion all day meetings following that submission with representatives of the Department, clarifying information where requested, supplementing other information and, pursuant to his testimony, which was not rebutted, answering all questions and making all documents available to anyone from the Department or its authorized subcontractors to examine the finances of New Brunswick. The approximate $10 million surplus was addressed by Mr. Jannarone in a knowledgeable, forthright, intelligent manner.

In order to understand the position of both parties concerning this surplus, it is necessary to have a very fundamental understanding of two accounting concepts. One is "encumbrances" and the other is "accounts payable." The basic definitions of these terms was generally agreed to by the parties off the record. For purposes of accounting, the term "encumbrance" is defined as the receipt of goods or services yet to be paid for. In the instant case, those goods or services must have been provided New Brunswick by June 30, 2003 in order to eliminate them as part of any excess surplus. "Accounts payable" refers to those goods or services received, in this instance, by New Brunswick prior to June 30, 2003 and paid for by not later than September 30, 2003. In both instances, the encumbrance, if the definition is satisfied, as well as the accounts payable are considered to be part and parcel of the 2002-2003 budget and should be reflected in the maintenance budget for the following year.

Mr. Jannarone essentially testified that a significant number of items which were deemed to be a surplus for the 2002-2003 school year and thus added to what was described as excess surplus was in reality accounts payable or encumbrances both of which are in compliance with the requirements that they be included within the 2002-2003 budget and, therefore, excluded as excess surplus for the forthcoming school year. Jannarone explained that it is his practice, as is the practice of most school districts, to submit all outstanding purchase orders in March. In order for those orders to be placed and paid, the business administrator requires an invoice, a voucher accompanied by an affidavit and a receiving report attesting to the fact that whatever had been purchased was indeed received by the district, whether that be goods or services. The bills for these various goods and services are then paid by New Brunswick on a monthly basis following monthly Board approval. He testified further that in March and April of 2003, New Brunswick had experienced significant difficulties in confirming the validity of various bills primarily because of lack of staffing. As a result, some of those bills for goods and services which had been received prior to June 30, 2003 (and thus should have been a part of the actual budget of 2002-2003) were treated as accounts payable. Others which could not be readily verified were treated as encumbrances. Jannarone unequivocally stated that the Schedule G of the initial order by the Board CPAs and which contains the $9.9 million surplus is in error. (See Exhibit R-8).

On or about July 31, 2003, the New Brunswick Board of Education provided a lengthy document to the Department setting forth all of those goods and services which were either accounts payable and/or encumbered as of that date. It should be reiterated at this time that budgetary computations are fluid. Thus, there are many other encumbrances and accounts payable that reflect goods and services actually received and utilized by the District in 2002-2003 which have yet to be paid and which may be paid by not later than September 30, 2003 and still be attributed to the 2002-2003 budget year. Based upon Mr. Jannarone's testimony, in conjunction with R-83, as well as his calculations up through to the date of the actual hearing resulting from his obtaining more contemporaneous numbers from the New Jersey Department of Education's website, it was the District's determination that $10,307,496.67[4] represented either reported encumbrances and/or accounts payable such that that sum must be deemed to be monies spent in the 2002-2003 school year, not deemed to be an excess surplus which is carried over to the current school year and, therefore, should be added to the original preliminary budget determinations arrived at by the Board and memorialized in its letter of January 6, 2003. Based upon the actual numbers as they exist at this time (by this time I refer to the date of the last testimonial phase of these proceedings), the encumbrances and account payables which Jannarone asserts were erroneously deemed to be surplus totaled approximately $10,307,496.67. (R-83).

In my judgment, there was no competent evidence that refuted Mr. Jannarone's numbers. His testimony was that he provided all the data and information that was available to him either gratuitously or at the request of the Department concerning every aspect of the budget including the alleged excess surplus, early on during the budgeting process. Moreover, he testified under oath that he had documents and records available (although not produced for evidence) to prove and establish his assertions concerning the excess surplus and to justify the determination of how much of that was really deemed to be accounts payable and encumbrances that should have been deemed part of the actual and approved budget of 2002-2003. Therefore, while I indeed recognize that this figure is a fluid figure subject to change and that CAFR may indeed come to a contrary or disparate result, I FIND that the determination by the State Department of Education determining that the District of New Brunswick has an excess surplus of approximately $9,911,707, which therefore must be negatively adjusted to New Brunswick's 2003-2004 revised budget is incorrect. I further FIND that the New Brunswick Board of Education has established by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence that as of the date of the hearing, there was a significantly smaller surplus and that as a consequence the purposed budget provided by the Department to the Board be adjusted to reflect an increase for the 2003-2004 school year, which is reflected by the elimination of the purported excess surplus. The circumstances as I can best ascertain is that of the $9,911,707 which was earmarked by the State as surplus for the 2002-2003 school year, as of the date of the hearing, the evidence demonstrated that New Brunswick had actually paid $3.6 million of those outstanding encumbrances and/or accounts payable. So, while it is represented, and I have no reason to question it, that by September 30, 2003, there will be no further accounts payable and encumbrances and therefore no surplus, it is my understanding that in this rather triangulated and distorted time line during which these issues are being resolved that I ascertain from the record what the actual numbers are now, not in two weeks. Thus, based upon the evidence and testimony, I CONCLUDE that New Brunswick has diminished its purported surplus by $3.6 million (remembering again that it is the position of New Brunswick that it will eliminate the entire surplus within the time frame allotted).

[4] It is my understanding, as previously mentioned, that the actual amount of excess surplus is alleged by the Department to be $9,911,707.

During the course of the proceedings, some mention was made of a concept referred to as "backloading" or something to that effect. Since I do not have a transcript of the proceedings, I am unable to specify the particulars of the phrase. Nevertheless, what apparently is meant by this pejorative phrase is to accuse a vendee of waiting until the very end of the fiscal year to create encumbrances. No one directly asserted that New Brunswick was guilty of this practice but, nevertheless, it does appear that many of the encumbrances and accounts payable did result in actions taken close to the end of the school year. For purposes of the issues before me, however, I see no relevance whatever to when those encumbrances were created just as long as the goods and/or services were received before June 30, 2003 and that all encumbrances and/or accounts payable are paid for by September 30, 2003. Therefore, whether there is or is not "backloading" by a school district, in my view and based upon my very limited accounting background, has no relevance at all when it comes to ascertaining the appropriate maintenance budget. Whether it has relevance in other aspects of accounting practice and budgeting is not for me to decide. Therefore, I am ORDERING that the $3.6 million figure be used as an adjustment to reduce the purported excess surplus set forth by the Department and shall be added to the projected 2003-2004 budget. Again, I must indicate that there is a certain sense of the bizarre here because we are dealing with numbers that will not be the numbers that are actually ascertained or utilized and will not be the numbers necessarily reflected by the CAFR audit. To that extent, the caveat remains. I shall next address the various other disputes concerning individual budgetary items.

SALARIED CONTRACTED RAISES

The Department's preliminary budget allocates an additional $2,635,526 to the 2002-2003 maintenance budget representing salaries of both teaching staff and non-teaching staff contracted employees of the District for 2003-2004. The representatives of the Department candidly acknowledged that this number was arrived at not through factual examination of the actual salaries of all of the approximately 1,100 employees of the District, but rather by imposing what it deemed to be a reasonable increase of 5% over last year's budgeted salaries.

The Business Administrator of New Brunswick did not base his figures on projections or formulae, but on the actual numbers that he "crunched." It was his unrebutted testimony that for the school year 2003-2004, the actual increase of salaried contracted raises is 6.81%. Based upon that number and his calculations, the District was "shortchanged, by $5,565,193." During the course of his testimony, particularly in respect to this item, Mr. Jannarone made an interesting point. He noted that it was his view that when the numbers suited the Department, it used actual data; when the numbers did not suit the Department, it used general policies and formula. While he characterized the Department as acting in "bad faith" by using this selective process, as well as by its conduct in other areas of the computation process, I make no finding in regard to this assertion. In his brief, the DAG argues that the calculations by the District are unreliable and subject to change. See, brief, DAG Walters at 8-9. This, of course, can be said of most of the calculations. Nevertheless, the soundness of the Board's analysis in my view provides me with sufficient proof to accept its calculations subject to the CAFR audit.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The proposed preliminary budget offered by the Department to New Brunswick for the increased costs for 2003-2004 related to classified students was indicated in R-1 to be $462,905. This number, as best as I can ascertain, does not only account for the needs of existing special education students in New Brunswick but the needs of new enrollments commencing 2003-2004 as well. The figure was arrived at by the accountants contracted with the Department based upon average costs of tuition per student which was arrived at through a reasonable projection and the assumption that 17% of the special education students in the District would be required to be referred for out of district for placement.[5] Reliance was also placed on figures derived from the 2002-2003 budget.

Rather than rely on projections and rather than lumping both existing special education students and new enrollments of special education students together, the District provided calculated figures representing both. These were based upon actual numbers arrived at and crunched by Mr. Jannarone and presumably members of his staff. In commenting upon the documentation provided by the Department in support of its special education maintenance budget (see Exhibits R-35 through R-48), Mr. Jannarone testified that in order to reasonably ascertain those increases, it is absolutely essential that there be supportive documents provided which indeed was provided to the Department by New Brunswick. Nevertheless, Jannarone asserts that the State did not calculate existing costs but provided statistical data for new placements only and did not account for tuition increases of those students who have already been classified the District and in need of additional funding, which he estimated to be $859,282. He arrived at this figure by actually sitting down and counting those students who are already in the District and classified and ascertaining as best as he reasonably could the actual cost increase for the school year 2003-2004. He also notes that while the State projected new enrollments of classified children to be 13 based upon prior years, as of the date of the hearing, 400 students actually were required to be evaluated by the District's child study team of which approximately 200 would be classified. This reflects an additional group of classified kids numbering 34 and it is based upon this additional figure plus an estimate of 17% of an increase that resulted in Mr. Jannarone's generating the approximately $860,000 figure for existing enrollments. In addition, with respect to new enrollments, the figure that was based upon actual on-hand numbers was arrived at to be $1,234,415. Again, as in previous discussions, when one is confronted with the actual number cruncher and is aware that he has intimate knowledge – perhaps more knowledge than any other human being – of the needs of the District and he is entirely credible, then absent evidence to the contrary, one must accept that evidence over the projected evidence arrived at by auditors who might not even have had a close much less intimate knowledge of what the actual number of classified students and their related costs are. DAG Walters argues that calculation of special education tuition increases "raised new issues." DAG Walters' brief at 11. But that can be asserted with respect to many line items. It does not address the merits of the claim and, therefore, I reject it for that reason. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the preliminary budget be adjusted in favor of New Brunswick to include the figures for special education existing students and new enrollments as set forth by Mr. Jannarone's testimony and memorialized in Exhibit P-9.

[5] The Department has acknowledged that at Page 48 of respondent's Exhibit 36, which reflects special education calculations, there was a minor error resulting in a small increase to the District.

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX ADJUSTMENT

There is provision in the law – and this is without dispute – that for purposes of ascertaining a maintenance budget in Abbott districts, the consumer price index should be reflected in various line items of the budget. Pursuant to the State's preliminary budget determinations (see R-1), it utilized a consumer price index adjustment of 2.11% and applied that to non-salaried accounts in the amount of $191,605. Mr. Jannarone took issue with this particular number and provided testimony and supportive documents which either are evidential or would be made available to the Department or has already been provided to the Department concerning this CPI increase. His testimony, which I believe was not significantly impeached, demonstrates that of the CPI increases calculated by the Department, an omission of $122,554 was made by the auditors, and those calculated omissions may be found on Exhibit P-17 for identification. Those documents support Mr. Jannarone's and the Board's determination that the budgeting for the consumer price index increase was incorrect. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the proposed 2003-2004 budget offered by the Department shall be adjusted to reflect an additional CPI increase totaling $122,554. Mr. Walters made the same argument of "surprise" here as he did with respect special education tuition. It is rejected here for the same reason.

SPECIAL TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL

The District of New Brunswick has a special relationship with the Robert Wood Johnson Hospital and Medical School that has lasted for approximately ten years. That relationship has resulted in the construction and operation of what has been described as a special technical high school located within the District. While this high school was significantly funded by other than District funds by contract for the year 2002-2003, the District contributed $2 million to the special technical high school representing their obligation (perhaps in terms of rental) to the school's ongoing existence. My understanding based upon the testimony was that this is a special school, if not for gifted children, than for those who might greatly benefit from course offerings not otherwise available in the typical schools in the District. For the school year 2003-2004, Mr. Jannarone noted that the contractual obligation of the District is to pay $2.4 million towards the upkeep of the technical high school.

This cost is reflected nowhere in the Department's preliminary budget; it simply was omitted. Given that there were utterly no proofs offered to contradict the District's position regarding this expenditure, I CONCLUDE that the additional $400,000 utilized by the District for the school year 2003-2004 be added to the preliminary budget offered by the Department.

TRANSPORTATION COSTS

Increase in transportation costs, to the best of my knowledge, is not reflected anywhere in the Department's proposed preliminary budget. (R-1). The testimony indicated that while the District utilizes transportation in the same fashion as do most other districts, because of the unusual demographics of New Brunswick, special and bilingual education students have significantly increased over the years. The relevance of this increase is that more transportation requirements are utilized intra-District to transport students from various schools to other schools so as to allow them to take advantage of programs not otherwise available in their assigned school. No evidence was offered by the Department, in my view, to in any way contradict this determination, and based upon the calculations arrived at by the District, it has determined that based upon an increase per educational services and commission on costs of over $5.5 million results in a 9% increase resulting in a dollar amount adjustment in favor of New Brunswick of $503,014 for transportation costs. I CONCLUDE that the calculation arrived at for increased transportation costs is reasonable and valid and should be adjusted in favor of New Brunswick in the Department's preliminary budget.

REVENUE ADJUSTMENTS

In its preliminary maintenance budget, the Department calculated that monies specifically earmarked for classified students (IDEA) was received totaling $712,780. The Board disagrees with that calculation and actually indicates that the increase in revenues for IDEA students totaled approximately $280,000. It acknowledges its error. Irrespective of this mistake, however, the Board argues that based upon the guidelines for fiscal year 2004 respecting budgeting IDEA students (R-10), no monies that are earmarked for the IDEA budget can, pursuant to the Department's own policy, be counted as general revenues. The policies are encompassed in Exhibit R-10, the Department's own statements of what can and what cannot be utilized for revenue. It is provided at Page 9 of the exhibit that funds provided for (IDEA) "may not be used to reduce the level of expenditures for the education of students with disabilities made by ... local funds below the level of those expenditures for the preceding fiscal year." On the following page, it is further provided that IDEA monies may not be used as "flow-through funds" to take the place of [...] State and local funds which had been previously utilized to provide FAPE or meet the goal of full educational opportunity. IDEA-B funds are to supplement State and local efforts. (R-10 at 10 [emphasis in original]).

It was Mr. Jannarone's testimony that by utilizing the Department's own policies, he and the District ascertained without hesitancy that funds earmarked for IDEA increases which in the proposed budget (R-1) were set at $712,780 cannot be deemed revenue.

The Department argues, both in the course of its testimony and in its post-hearing legal brief, that the position of New Brunswick which asserts that the IDEA Part B revenues must be used for special education purposes only is based upon a misunderstanding of the Department's maintenance calculation. The cost of providing special education programs and services in 2002-2003 is included in the adjusted 2002-2003 State Program Budget, set forth in R-1, in the amount of $110,785,600. The Department increased this amount by $462,905, the estimated increase in special education cost for the 2003-2004 school year. Since, the Department asserts, it included those costs of special education programs and services in the calculation of the maintenance budget, it properly and appropriately included the revenues received to those programs and services. Thus, the Department argues it is not requiring the District to use the IDEA Part B revenues to fund general education programs; rather, the IDEA Part B revenues should be used to fund the special education programs and services included in the maintenance calculation.

In my view, the issue of the application of the policies expressed by New Brunswick which were set forth by the Department must be interpreted in a fashion consistent with the Department's position. Deference must be accorded the agency with respect to the interpretation of its own policies and/or promulgated rules. Mr. Walters' argument is accepted and, as a result, I CONCLUDE that the determination of the Department including IDEA Part B revenue in the calculation of New Brunswick 2003-2004 total budget revenues available be and is hereby SUSTAINED.

UTILITIES

As will be noted, the preliminary maintenance budget proposed by the State leaves room for no additional expenditures for the District's utilities. Why no adjustment was made for utilities is unclear; however, it may very well be the case that the District was responsible for failing to provide documentation in that regard to the Department during the course of its audit. In any event, there is no question but that the cost of the utility rate increases – which are significant in the District given its size and numbers of students – was not reflected in the budget and has been increased pursuant to the CPI for the 2003-2004 year in the amount of $24,241. No evidence was offered by the State to contradict these determinations and, accordingly, I FIND that the preliminary budget should be adjusted in favor of New Brunswick to reflect the increased cost of utilities pursuant to the CPI.

Based upon a review of the records within these constrained time frames, the analysis of the disputes concerning the preliminary budget has been completed.

It should also be noted in the decision that not only was Mr. Jannarone an impressive witness but so to was Dr. Ronald Larkin, the Superintendent of the New Brunswick School District for the past 23 years. He unequivocally stated – and he seemed entirely candid and forthright – that the District simply cannot run based upon the maintenance budget provided to it by the State of New Jersey. He has already instructed Mr. Jannarone to fix the budget which has already begun to cut back on various summer programs and indicated as well that should that budget (R-1) be approved, the District would come to a halt because it would be unable to fund many of the services and would be required to layoff significant numbers of the approximately 1,100 employees of the District. At one point, while I believe he was exaggerating, he indicated that to live with the budget proposed by the State would leave perhaps Superintendent Larkin and

"maybe" Mr. Jannarone available as the only employees of the District. Mr. Jannarone too struck me as a man who has devoted his life with passion to quality education of the students in his district. And having been "around the block" on budget issues for many, many years, his testimony was striking in its candor and the sad confidence underlying the scenario that would result in Superintendent Larkin's opinion were the budget to remain as it was originally proposed by the Department.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

9/25/03
DATE

STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9/25/03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9/25/03
DATE

cmo

WITNESSES

For Petitioner:

Richard Jannarone
Dr. Ronald Larkin
Craig Yetman

For Respondent:

Glen Forney
Vincent Mastrocola

EXHIBITS

For Petitioner:

P-1	Portions of a document published by the Department of Education entitled Abbott Addendum to the Audit Program 2002-2003 (Pages 47 through 76 inclusive)
P-2	Letter from Assistant Commissioner of Education, Gordon MacInnes to Superintendent Dr. Ronald F. Larkin, January 6, 2003
P-3	Report of the Secretary to the Board of Education of the City of New Brunswick regarding general funding as of June 30, 2003
P-4	Memorandum to Abbott Districts from Assistant Commissioner Gordon MacInnes requesting supporting documentation for the FY 2003-2004 budget, March 11, 2003 (2 pages)
P-6	Personnel list of employees within the New Brunswick School District, March 11, 2003 (47 pages)
P-9	Proposed Maintenance Budget for 2003-2004 prepared by the Board of Education of the City of New Brunswick (2 pages) disregard handwritten notations

P-10	Pages 9 and 10 and coversheet of document entitled, Individuals With Disabilities Education Act, Part B, Amendments of 1997, Combined Application for Grants, Guidelines and Forms, Fiscal Year 2004
P-11	Letter from then School Business Administrator/Board Secretary to New Brunswick, Mr. Edward D. Kent, from Gordon MacInnes, Assistant Commissioner, April 9, 2003 (2 pages)
P-12	Salary Guide for teaching staff pursuant to contract for the school years 2001-2002, 2002-2003 and projected 2003-2004 (2 pages) (undated)
P-13	Document essentially identical to P-16 with different handwritten corrections
P-14	Pages 1-8.1 and 1-8.2 of document (the specific pages referred to as Section 1 – General Compliance, Chapter 8, Yearend Procedures), June 3, presumably issued by the State Department of Education
P-16	Preliminary worksheet document referred to as New Brunswick 2003 Schedule A (2 pages) (undated) with handwritten changes

For Respondent:

R-1	What has been deemed by the parties to represent the proposed Preliminary Maintenance Budget for New Brunswick for the 2003-2004 School Year
R-8	Worksheet reflecting adjustment for actual spending of the District, presumably for School Year 2002-2003
R-27	New Brunswick District Budget Review for Fiscal Year 2003-2004 (2 pages)
R-35 through R-48	Calculations provided to the Department from the District concerning special education budgetary items
R-49 through R-70	Accountant's audit requested at the behest of the State Department (24 pages) (undated)

R-75 and R-76	Calculations of the Department and its auditors in respect to increase revenues resulting from monies provided for IDEA and preschool expenses and adjustments
R-81	Scheduled G of New Brunswick's 2003 Projected Surplus (undated)
R-82	Comparison of Revenue Budget versus Actual Budget of New Brunswick as of June 30, 2003 (4 pages) (undated)
R-83	New Brunswick Board of Education's inventory of encumbered and accounts receivables, July 31, 2003 (21 pages)
R-84	Preliminary draft of P-9 (2 pages) (undated)

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4161-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 198-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF NEW BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-2004 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties' exceptions and replies were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner determines to modify the Initial Decision, as set forth below.

BURDEN OF PROOF

Initially, the Commissioner recognizes that the Supreme Court's Order provides that the Department "shall bear the [initial] burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the [Abbott] district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations." Abbott v. Burke, M-976 September Term 2002, at 7. However, as indicated in the preliminary maintenance decision letter dated August 27, 2003, the Department did not reduce the District's maintenance budget based on ineffectiveness or inefficiency. Therefore, the Commissioner notes, and the District so acknowledges, that the District bears the burden of proving that the Department's calculations were unreasonable or otherwise improper. N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c). See, also, Letter from Peter J. Hendricks to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), September 23, 2003; see, also, Petitioner's Reply at 1.

SURPLUS

In its exceptions, the Department maintains its position that the District's excess funding balance as of June 30, 2003 is reasonably estimated at $9,911,707. (Respondent's Exceptions at 5-6) In this connection, respondent contends that the Initial Decision is based on a misunderstanding of its position with respect to encumbrances and accounts payable. Respondent explains:

> An encumbrance is an accounting tool that permits the district to reserve funding for purchase orders that were issued during the 2002-2003 school year, but the goods or services were not received by the district as of June 30, 2003. An encumbrance is not an expenditure in the 2002-2003 school year, but rather merely a reservation of fund balance, which may be expended in the 2003-2004 school year if the goods and services are received. By contrast, an account payable is an expenditure which is incurred in the 2002-2003 school year for goods and services actually received or provided prior to June 30, 2003.
>
> ***
>
> With regards to those purchase orders for goods and services that have not been received or provided before June 30, 2003, they would be rolled over as encumbrances into [the] 2003-2004 school year. As such these purchase orders are properly excluded from the 2003-2004 maintenance calculation, i.e., approved goods and services actually provided in the 2002-2003 [school year]. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 2, 3)

The Commissioner finds that the above explanation is consistent with the record in the matter entitled Board of Education of the City of Burlington v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Commissioner Decision No. 581-03, decided October 20, 2003. Therein, Keith Costello, Budget Manager/Examiner for the Department of Education, Office of Abbott Implementation, testified that, by memo dated September 16, 2003 to all school districts, Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg addressed the procedures to be followed for open purchase orders and encumbrances on the school district's books as of June 30. The September 16, 2003 memo states, in pertinent part:

> Open purchase orders at June 30, 200X should be classified into the following two categories for review and reclassification:
>
> 1. Category one represents purchase orders for which the goods have been received or the services have been rendered at June 30th that have not been paid. These purchase orders must be expensed in the current audit period, the related encumbrances reversed, and a liability (accounts payable) established. If the invoice has not been received the amount must be estimated. In accordance with GAAP, an expenditure is recorded when goods are received or services are rendered.
>
> 2. Category two represents purchase orders which will be honored in the subsequent year. These purchase orders will be rolled over into the next fiscal year and will be shown in the June 30th general fund balance sheet as a reserve for encumbrances. Per NCGA Statement 1, paragraph 91 "encumbrances outstanding at year-end represent the estimated amount of the expenditures ultimately to result if unperformed contracts in process at year-end are completed. Encumbrances outstanding at year-end do not constitute expenditures or liabilities." (emphasis in text)

Therefore, the Commissioner finds that "category one" purchase orders and the related encumbrances are to be considered 2002-2003 fiscal year expenditures in applying N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, but "category two" purchase orders are considered expenditures in the 2003-2004 fiscal year and, thus, are not to be included in development of a "maintenance budget" for the 2003-2004 school year.

Notably, although there remains a dispute about the estimated amount of excess surplus available, if any, the parties herein do not appear to offer opposing methodologies for calculating that figure. Moreover, in its exceptions, the Commissioner notes that the District respectfully suggests "that the exact surplus, in addition to the $3.6M calculated by the Administrative Law Judge, abide a [Comprehensive Annual Financial Report] CAFR audit as originally suggested by the New Jersey Department of Education." (New Brunswick's Exceptions at 1) Consequently, mindful of the District's burden in this matter, the Commissioner determines not to disturb respondent's preliminary calculations at this juncture, subject to receipt of the CAFR in November 2003, whereupon the methodology promulgated by Assistant Commissioner Rosenberg shall be applied.

CONTRACTED SALARIES

The Department reiterates in its exceptions that its salary calculations, contrary to the ALJ's finding, were based on actual expenditures for salaries in the 2002-2003 school year, whereas, New Brunswick's calculations were erroneously based on the budgeted salaries of individuals on its payroll on March 11, 2003. (Department's Exceptions at 7-8, referencing Exhibits R-27 through R-29, P-9) Respondent continues:

> In fact, after hearing testimony pertaining to the methodology employed by the Department, petitioner changed its proposed methodology and based it on the amount of actual expenditures of salary in 2002-2003 as calculated by the Department. R-84 and P-6 demonstrate that petitioner initially sought an increase for contracted salaries in the amount of $3,746,973.  However, after the Department testified that actual expenditures on salaries in 2002-2003 were used to determine the increase for the non-discretionary contracted salary increase, petitioner changed its calculation, as demonstrated by P-9, by abandoning its request for a 6.81% increase. At that point, petitioner sought an increase of $5,565,193, or a 10.47% increase over 2002-03 actual expenditures on salaries.  Petitioner arrived at this amount by comparing actual expenditures on salaries in 2002-2003 to the amount of > salaries budgeted in 2003-2004 for all individuals employed by petitioner on March 11, 2003. Thus, the 6.81% increase, as initially asserted [by] petitioner, is irrelevant to the methodology. (emphasis in test) (Department's Exceptions at 8-9)

The Department, however, maintains that the District's amended methodology is flawed, in that it takes into account actual expenditures in salaries for 2002-2003, but uses amounts budgeted in 2003-2004 for individuals employed in the District as of March 11, 2003. Moreover, the Department asserts that "Mr. [Richard] Jannarone agreed that, under the methodology proposed by petitioner, the district could receive such a benefit twice because petitioner's methodology uses budgeted salaries for 2003-2004. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 9) Furthermore, the Department notes that, using its calculations of actual salary expenditures, and based upon prior conversations with the District, it used 5% as the average contracted rate of increase. (Id. at 9-10)

In its replies, petitioner does not specifically refute the Department's exception arguments on this issue, but, merely states, "The New Brunswick Board of Education offered detailed proofs on the costs of the contractual maintenance budget. The DOE simply used flat figures and 'estimates.'" (Petitioner's Reply at 1)

Thus, upon consideration of the parties' arguments, particularly those summarized herein, and mindful of the burden of proof, the Commissioner is compelled to conclude that, notwithstanding the credible testimony offered by Mr. Jannarone on this issue, petitioner has not met its burden of demonstrating that the Department's calculation of nondiscretionary salary increase for the 2003-2004 school year, is unreasonable or inconsistent with a maintenance budget, as defined by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. In so finding, the Commissioner recognizes that the Department's overall charge in this matter was to determine the level of 2003-2004 funding that would enable the District to continue in a "maintenance" mode, that is, to implement in 2003-

2004 the programs, services and positions provided in 2002-2003. While it is true that dollar amounts actually paid out for staffing prior to June 30, 2003 will not perfectly predict the cost of providing comparable staffing in the next, it is equally true that originally budgeted amounts and other similar projections are no less imprecise. Thus, in the Commissioner's view, a methodology which preliminarily establishes the 2003-2004 cost of providing positions at "maintenance" levels by determining, as nearly as possible without benefit of audit, the actual approved cost of providing them in 2002-2003 and then allowing for reasonable, non-discretionary adjustments, is a uniform, fair and rational method for estimating future expenditures which cannot otherwise be determined with any degree of precision. The ALJ's determination in this regard, is, therefore, set aside.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The Department takes exception to the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner's preliminary maintenance budget should include a nondiscretionary increase in special education tuition in the amount of $2,093,697. The ALJ arrives at this conclusion, the Department contends, based upon a misunderstanding of the methodology used by the Department to calculate petitioner's nondiscretionary increases for special education tuition. (Department's Exceptions at 11)

The Department explains that its methodology begins with a trend analysis of the percentage of students that districts send out of district. Based on this trend analysis, the Department determined that 17% of New Brunswick's students are sent out of district. The Department then compared enrollment of special education students in October 2002 (1,121) to the projected enrollment of special education students for October 2003 (1,196) and determined that New Brunswick would have approximately 75 new special education students in the 2003-

2004 school year. (Id. at 11-12) Of the 75 new students, it is estimated that 17%, or 13 students, will be sent out of district in the 2003-2004 school year. Multiplying the number of out-of-district placements, 13, by $36,306, the Department estimates that the District will need an additional $462,905 [sic].

The Department reasons that by basing its calculation on the number of special education students in New Brunswick in previous years, its determination is reasonable and should not be disturbed. (Id. at 12) By contrast, the Department asserts that New Brunswick has provided no documentation, but merely uncorroborated testimony, to substantiate its projected increase of 200 students in special education for 2003-2004. As such, the Department contends that petitioner has failed to prove a "documented increase in non-discretionary expenditures," as provided by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(d)(4). (emphasis in text) (Department's Exceptions at 13)

In reply, New Brunswick merely insists that it "offered detailed proofs on the costs of special education and Judge Reback's Findings of Fact should be sustained." (Petitioner's Reply at 2)

Upon review, the Commissioner is not persuaded that petitioner has met its burden of documenting a need for special education tuition beyond that which was determined by the Department. In this connection, the Commissioner finds that, indeed, there is nothing on this record to substantiate Mr. Jannarone's testimony that there are likely to be 200 new special education students in New Brunswick in the 2003-2004 school year, as shown in Exhibit P-9, so as to competently challenge the Department's projected new enrollment figure. Neither is the record clear with respect to the basis for the tuition increases which petitioner alleges are necessary for those students who are currently classified. This lack of clarity notwithstanding, however, the Commissioner acknowledges that the Department concedes, in its exceptions, that petitioner's preliminary maintenance budget should include a nondiscretionary increase for special education tuition in the amount of $859,282, rather than $462,905. (Department's Exceptions at 13) The Commissioner, therefore, modifies the ALJ's finding accordingly.

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX ADJUSTMENT

The Department takes exception to the ALJ's conclusion that the preliminary maintenance budget should be adjusted to reflect an additional Consumer Price Index (CPI) increase in the amount of $122,554, beyond the Department's increase of $191,605. (Department's Exceptions at 14)[1] In this connection, the Department argues that:

> [The] Initial Decision states that petitioner provided "supportive documents which are either evidential or would be made available to the Department or has already been provided to the Department concerning the CPI increase." Initial Decision, p. 24. The only document submitted as evidence by petitioner in support of the CPI increase was P-13 which does not provide any demonstration that petitioner will incur a non-discretionary increase in these specific amounts. For example, the record contains no documentary evidence demonstrating that during 2003-04 petitioner will incur a non-discretionary increase in the following budget accounts: legal services; judgments against the school district; cleaning; repair and maintenance services; rental of land and buildings; insurance; energy; general administration related to capital outlay; and school administration related to capital outlay. (Id. at 14-15)

Thus, the Department reasons that petitioner has failed to document an increase, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(d)(4). Additionally, the Department asserts that "on cross-examination, Mr. Jannarone conceded that he did not provide any documentation demonstrating that petitioner will incur a non-discretionary increase in these specific accounts." (Id. at 15) Notably, New Brunswick does not challenge the Department's recitation of the facts, but merely states, that it "offered [a] detailed analysis of its calculated CPI increases. Judge Rebeck's [sic] Findings of Fact should be sustained." (Petitioner's Reply at 2)

[1] The Department arrived at its CPI adjustment figure of $191, 605 by multiplying certain non-salary accounts by 2.11%. (Department's Post-hearing Brief at 10)

Upon review, the Commissioner is compelled to conclude that the record herein does not confirm the validity of the claimed "omission" in CPI adjustment. Here, the ALJ found that Mr. Jannarones's testimony "demonstrates that of the CPI increases calculated by the Department, an omission of $122, 554 was made by the auditors, and those calculated omissions may be found on Exhibit P-17 for identification." (Initial Decision at 22) However, because P-17 was merely marked for identification and not placed into evidence, it is not available for the Commissioner's review. Moreover, Exhibit P-13, which was submitted as evidence, does not, alone, sufficiently document that petitioner will incur nondiscretionary increases in the specified budget accounts. Therefore, the Department's CPI adjustment is upheld.

SPECIAL TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL

It is undisputed that petitioner's maintenance budget did not include a non-discretionary increase in the amount of $400,000 for what is apparently a joint venture with the Robert Wood Johnson Hospital and Medical School which has resulted in the construction of a special technical high school within the District. (Initial Decision at 22) Petitioner describes this as a "contractual agreement with the Science and Technology High School testified to by Richard Jannarone as a contractual obligation that would increase $400,000 in the school year 2003-2004." (Petitioner's Post-hearing Brief at 6) Respondent, however, asserts that the record is unclear as to whether this service is nondiscretionary or, indeed, what type of service is provided. (Department's Exceptions at 15-16)

The Commissioner determines that the record herein simply does not substantiate that the Department erred in excluding the $400,000 from petitioner's maintenance budget. In so finding, the Commissioner notes that, despite petitioner's assertions that "[t]his is an ongoing contractual obligation" (Respondent's Reply at 2), this record does not include a copy of the contract and is, in fact, devoid of any explanation of the services which are anticipated to be provided pursuant to the contract. Indeed, the ALJ only speculates that the District's contribution to the special high school was "perhaps in terms of rental." (Initial Decision at 22) Moreover, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ appears to have improperly shifted the burden of proof in this regard, as he determined, "there were utterly no proofs offered to contradict the District's position regarding this expenditure." (Initial Decision at 23) Rather, it was the District's burden, as it so concedes, to prove that the Department's calculation were improper. Given the lack of petitioner's documentation pursuant to this disputed calculation, the Commissioner is simply not persuaded that it has met its burden.

TRANSPORTATION COSTS

It is undisputed that petitioner's preliminary maintenance budget does not include a nondiscretionary increase in the amount of $503,014 for transportation. Once again, however, the Department asserts that petitioner failed to submit any documentary evidence demonstrating a contractual increase for transportation. (Department's Exceptions at 16) Indeed, the Department contends that "Mr. Jannarone acknowledged that he had not yet received documentation indicating an increase in transportation costs." (Id. at 16) Notably, petitioner does not dispute the Department's exceptions on this issue, but merely states that "[t]ransportation cost increases must be included in the Maintenance Budget." (Petitioner's Reply at 2)

The Commissioner again determines that the record herein simply does not demonstrate that the Department erred in not including a nondiscretionary increase in the amount of $503,014 for transportation. In so concluding, the Commissioner finds no evidence to substantiate Mr. Jannarone's testimony, however plausible it may be. In this regard, the Commissioner finds that, again, the ALJ appears to have improperly shifted the burden of proof in this regard, as he determined, "No evidence was offered by the Department  to in any way contradict" the testimony offered with respect to the district's transportation requirements. (Initial Decision at 23) As noted, it was the District's burden to prove that the Department's omission was improper and, given the absence of documentation on this issue, the Commissioner is not persuaded that petitioner has met its burden.

REVENUE ADJUSTMENTS

Petitioner takes exception to the ALJ's finding that an IDEA grant may be included as revenue, adding that "It is clear that regulations preclude the use of such a grant to replace or supplant State or local revenues." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) The Department, however, reiterates that because it included the costs of special education programs an services in the calculation of its maintenance budget, it appropriately included revenues received to fund these services. (Department's Reply at 2) The Department clarifies, however, that it is not requiring the District to use IDEA Part B revenue to fund general education programs, but rather to fund the special education programs and services included in the maintenance calculation. (Ibid.)

The Commissioner finds, for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, that the Department properly included IDEA Part B revenue in the calculation of the District's 2003-2004 total budget revenues available.

UTILITIES

The Department argues that it did not include a nondiscretionary increase for utilities, > since the amount that petitioner spent on utilities in 2002-03 exceeded the amount budgeted by petitioner in the 2003-04 budget submitted to the Department. In essence the Department accepted the amount budgeted by petitioner for utilities for the 2003-04 school year. At hearing, however, petitioner argued that in 2003-04, it would incur an increase in utilities in the amount of $24,241 above actual expenditures on utilities in 2002-03. (Department's Exceptions at 17)

Additionally, the Department notes that, to the extent the District experiences an unforeseen increase in utility during the 2003-04 school year, it may apply for an increase in supplemental funding. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

Moreover, the Department asserts that the Initial Decision "double counts" the increase for utilities, in that the ALJ concluded that the preliminary maintenance budget should be adjusted to reflect an additional CPI increase in the amount of $122,554, which amount already includes an increase for "Energy (Energy and Electricity)" in the amount of $24,241. (P-13) Then, the ALJ again increases the preliminary budget for a nondiscretionary increase of $24,241 for utilities at page 25 of the Initial Decision. Petitioner does not address the issue of the "double count" in its replies, but merely affirms that "[u]tility cost increases must be included in the Maintenance Budget." (Petitioner's Reply at 2)

The Commissioner finds that, given his previous conclusions hereinabove which would eliminate the problem of "double counting" raised by the Department and further noting the Department's failure to dispute the likelihood of increased utilities costs, for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, the District's preliminary budget should be adjusted to reflect an increase in the amount of $24,241 for utilities.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is modified as set forth above.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[2] The Commissioner so determines, based upon the proofs brought to this record, while acknowledging that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the CAFR until November 2003, which will reveal the District's true audited find balance and available revenue, if any, as of June 30, 2003. In any event, beyond his determination herein, the Commissioner underscores the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

583-02

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court.

The ALJ determined that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions and adopted the Initial Decision.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4163-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 183-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF

CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE

Petitioner,

v.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Damon Tyner, Esq., for petitioner (Fox Rothschild, LLP, attorneys)

Jennifer Cordes, Deputy Attorney General and Brendan Ruane, Deputy Attorney General for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 24, 2003 Decided: September 25, 2003

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this matter, the Board of Education of the City of Pleasantville, Atlantic County, the operator of an urban special needs "Abbott" school district, appeals from the Department of Education's (DOE's) initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3; see also N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.1 et seq.

On March 24, 2003, the DOE moved before the Supreme Court for an order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). See also Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX). The DOE requested that the discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) that it would be required to provide to Abbott districts in 2003-2004 be limited to an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center (ELC) cross-moved for an order setting an expedited schedule for the DOE's decisions on districts' budgets and requiring the DOE to conduct a formal evaluation of the implementation of Whole School Reform (WSR), etc. On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court ordered the DOE and the ELC to participate in mediation before the Hon. Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D., to attempt to resolve issues raised by their motions.

Mediation resolved all issues except the 2003-2004 budget process, so the DOE's motion for an order extending by an additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX remained outstanding. However, the parties agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals, beginning with the DOE's reviews and approvals of districts' budgets by May 30, 2003. Districts' appeals from the DOE's reviews were to be transmitted to the OAL, where administrative law judges (ALJs) were to issue initial decisions (IDs) within 50 days of the appeal. The DOE's Commissioner was to issue final decisions within 25 days of the IDs. On May 20, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect until further order of the Court.

On May 30, 2003, the DOE issued decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets. In this case, by letter of that date, the DOE's Assistant Commissioner, Division of Abbott Implementation notified the district that the DOE had completed its initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget dated February 27, 2003, that the expenditure budget was approved except as noted in the letter. On June 6, 2003, the district's verified petition of appeal was filed with the Department. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The DOE transmitted the contested case to the OAL, where it was filed on June 9, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On June 12, 2003, the Department's answer was filed in the OAL.

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument on the DOE's motion for an order extending the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. On July 1, 2003, the DOE moved for an order amending the schedule for processing the appeals to allow the Court to rule on the standard in the appeals to the OAL before hearings and issuance of initial decisions. On July 10, 2003, the Supreme Court heard oral argument on the budget process. The Supreme Court granted the DOE's motion and relaxed Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. The Court's July 23, 2003, Order states the following:

1. The DOE's application to extend the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott V is granted as follows: The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order.

2. The Statewide aggregate amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid shall be presumptively calculated as the total amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid approved for the Abbott districts for Fiscal Year 2002-2003, subject to adjustment as required for a maintenance budget. A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.

3. For purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.) Insofar as any Abbott district has not been informed of its total amount of last year's approved Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid, the DOE shall provide written notice of that amount within two weeks of the date of this Order. The DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard in its review of a district's maintenance school budget may result in a reduction to a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

4. Within 30 days of the issuance of this Order, the DOE shall provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget. If the DOE deletes an expenditure from a district's 2002-2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs and based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must include in the written notice to the district the expenditure deleted along with a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient.

5. Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.

6. The Order of the Court dated July 7, 2003, modifying the Court's scheduling Order of May 20, 2003 in order to provide the [OAL] thirty days within which to determine and issue initial decisions in the twenty-three pending budget appeals, is hereby superseded by this Order. The [OAL] shall issue initial decisions on district appeals from the DOE's preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year within 30 days of the dates of those decisions as set forth in Paragraph 4 of this Order.

> 7. To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the districts' non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

The Supreme Court also set a schedule for new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and the administrative appeal and hearing process and ordered the DOE to promulgate emergency regulations governing the process. The DOE, relying on the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act and the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order, promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10, including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, 3.1, -4.2, and -4.7. The regulations are effective August 22, 2003, and expire June 30, 2004. Among these emergency regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 states:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

During the September 10, 2003[1] telephone prehearing conference, the school district advised that it had two issues for consideration. The district was given until September 12, 2003 to identify, in writing, the specific issues to be considered by the OAL. The parties were ordered to submit briefs on the issues by September 19, 2003. The specific issues identified by the district were:

[1] There were several telephone conferences with the parties prior to September 10, 2003, but due procedural history of the Abbott cases the precise issues for consideration could not articulated until September 10, 2003.

1) Whether the emergency regulation promulgated by the DOE regarding the definition of a maintenance budget is inconsistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003?

2) Whether the budget determination worksheet issued to petitioner by DOE was properly computed, where petitioner has unveiled several mathematical miscalculations, which improperly reduced the total budget?

On September 19, 2003, the parties file their respective legal arguments with this ALJ. Oral argument was heard on September 24, 2003 at the OAL office in Atlantic City. The parties resolved issue number 2. An executed settlement agreement, relating exclusively to issue number 2, was received on September 25, 2003. Accordingly, the record closed on September 25, 2003.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS

DISTRICT'S ISSUE # 1 "Maintenance Budget"

The school district asserts that it is not seeking to overturn the adopted regulation, but that in this matter the OAL is confronted with a choice of law as follows: whether to apply the Supreme Court's explicit definition of "maintenance budget" or the different regulatory definition adopted by the DOE? The school district contends that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition is contrary to the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order. The district argues that the OAL has jurisdiction to determine whether DOE's emergency regulation (N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2) defining "maintenance budget" or the Supreme Court "maintenance budget" definition is applicable to the 2003-2004 funding question. The district further suggests that Supreme Court mandates that the OAL determine this issue pursuant to prior Abbott rulings. Abbott, 153 N.J. 480, 526-527 (1998). Thus, under those decisions, it is the responsibility of the OAL, in the first instance, to assess in these disputes whether the DOE has properly implemented the Abbott educational remedies and mandates, and that the legal authority set forth in the Supreme Court's Order is binding on the OAL and should be applied herein.

During oral argument counsel for the district suggested that the "approved and provided for" language contained in the Order means programs that were approved in 2002-2003, even if not funded, must be funded this year. Any other interpretation would undermine the overriding purpose of the Abbott decisions. To bolster its interpretation, the district referred to the Supreme Court's Order, paragraph 2, and emphasized that maintenance budget does not include restoration of programs that were eliminated in 2002-2003 nor does it include funding for new programs. Hence, the district argues that the Supreme Court purposely did not fund new, reduced or eliminated programs. Therefore, by implication, the Supreme Court must have intended to fund "approved" programs that were not new, reduced or eliminated in 2002-2003. For example, if an approved program commenced in 2002-2003 but for some reason was temporarily suspended or altered, say by using a substitute teacher rather than a full time teacher, it should be fully funded in 2003-2004. Or if an approved program in 2002-2003 was part of the effective and efficient standard but, it did not get started until the end of the school year, under the DOE interpretation, it would not be funded in 2003-2004 since, it commenced towards the end of the year. This would in effect terminate a valid, approved program from 2002-2003 and, defeat the spirit of the Abbott decisions.

On the contrary, DOE argues that the OAL is without jurisdiction to consider the validity of an agency rule. DOE urges that any challenge to the emergency rule must be brought in the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); See also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976). DOE urged that the OAL generally derives its jurisdiction over a controversy involving contested issues of fact and not over a language dispute between the Supreme Court and a State Agency. Even if the Supreme Court directed that the OAL resolve Abbott cases and controversies, as indicated in other Abbott matters, the meaning of "maintenance budget" was not the type of controversy contemplated, by the Court, to be heard at the OAL level. Abbott, 153 N.J. 480, 526 (1998).

DOE also urged that an agency regulation is presumptively valid and its interpretation of its own regulation is entitled to great weight. DOE promulgated the maintenance budget definition, through its rule making procedure. The emergency regulation is reasonably within specifications of the Supreme Court Order. Therefore, it is not for the OAL to determine the applicability of a language dispute in a properly promulgated regulation. For instance, the OAL did not receive the case from DOE to decide a factual dispute. This distinction is vital to the OAL statutory jurisdiction.

If certain programs were not in full operation in 2002-2003, and thus not fully funded in the 2003-2004, this would represent an insignificant amount relative to the budget issues at hand. The concept of a maintenance budget was to provide a stable amount, equal to the 2002-2003 funding, so the same programs could be offered in 2003-2004. The process is not perfect.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Notably, if the emergency regulation were determined to be inconsistent with the Supreme Court Order, it would render the regulation meaningless and effectively invalidate it. Therefore, if the district is successful in its position before the OAL, it is a challenge to the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. If the district were successful, an ALJ would have to find that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 was invalid because it was contrary to an Order of the Supreme Court. The district analogizes this to a determination regarding a choice of law rather than an attack on the validity of a regulation. I disagree. The OAL cannot or should not obtain jurisdiction over an agency regulation through the "back door". The OAL falls within in the executive branch. It is not a court and has no jurisdiction to determine the validity of a rule. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1; Wendling v. New Jersey Racing Comm'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995) (holding that the Appellate Division and not the OAL has jurisdiction for a challenge to the validity of a rule); In re 1999-2000 Abbott Implementing Regulations, N.J.A.C. 6:19A-1.1 et seq., 348 N.J. Super. 382 (App. Div. 2002) (a previous challenge to rules implementing Abbott decisions brought in the Appellate Division.). Any attempt by the OAL to determine the validity of an agency regulation would be contrary to the Administrative Procedures Act. (N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq.) and R. 2:2-3(a). In short, the OAL does not have jurisdiction to, directly or indirectly, determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 because there it is not permitted to by statute or court rule. I therefore CONCLUDE that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to invalidate the DOE's definition of "maintenance budget" (N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2). Likewise, in Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4095-03, Hon. John R. Tassini, ALJ, entered an Order relative to Maintenance Budget (September 4, 2003). In that Order, Judge Tassini stated that the school district's contention is essentially a challenge to the validity of the above-cited regulation. Judge Tassini concluded that the district's challenge to the " 'maintenance budget' may not be heard in the OAL and that the regulation must be applied in the OAL."

Assuming for the moment that the OAL does have jurisdiction determine a choice of law as suggested by the district, I CONCLUDE that the definition of maintenance budget as determined in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is consistent with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order. The district does not seek a decision invalidating N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. Rather, they argue that, based on the Abbott decisions, the OAL must determine whether the DOE regulation is consistent with the Supreme Court's Budget Order of July 23, 2003. The Hon. Joseph F. Martone, ALJ addressed this issue in Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4096-03. In reaching his conclusions on the meaning of "maintenance budget" Judge Martone observed that:

> In its Order of July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court states, "During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order," and "Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003." July 23, 2003 Order, at 4, 5. [Emphasis added.] The foregoing language requires that programs, positions, or services be in existence in order to be included in the maintenance budget.
>
> In its Order, the Supreme Court also stated:
>
> A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. [Emphasis added.]

If the interpretation of the school district and amicus is accepted, the word "current" in the above passage should be viewed as referring to, describing and modifying the word "approved". Thus, under their interpretation, any programs, services, and positions that are currently approved are to be funded. However, the word "current" is more properly viewed as referring to, describing and modifying the words "programs, services, and positions". That is, the Supreme Court intended that the programs, services, and positions are to be current, that is, currently in existence. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the use of the adjective "current" rather than the adverb "currently" implies that the programs, services, and positions must be in existence in order to be funded.[3]

The language ultimately adopted by the Supreme Court to define "maintenance budget" is also reflective of the language contained in the DOE's proposal, which is attached to the Report of The Abbott Mediation (Order of April 29, 2003). The language proposed by the DOE is as follows:

> Maintenance means that a district will be funded at a level that will enable it to continue implementing the current approved programs, services and positions and therefore includes actual documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures.
> [Emphasis added.]

The above language as proposed by the DOE requires that the approved programs, services and positions to be maintained should be currently in existence in order that their continued implementation may be enabled through funding. I CONCLUDE that the language ultimately used by the Supreme Court to define "maintenance" is entirely consistent with the DOE's proposal.

Judge Martone concluded that:

> Given the foregoing language contained in the Supreme Court's Budget Order of July 23, 2003, I do not see that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition is inconsistent with the Supreme Court's Budget Order of July 23, 2003. I CONCLUDE that the foregoing Order provides a reasonable basis for N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition. Therefore, I also CONCLUDE that it is unnecessary to disregard the "maintenance budget" definition contained in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 in deciding the present matter.

[2] It is noted that the words "current" and "approved" are both adjectives in form, and that adjectives are used to modify nouns. Adverbs such as the word "currently" are used to modify verbs, adjectives or other adverbs. Thus, under rules of grammar, the adjective "current" cannot be considered to be a modification of the word "approved" but can only be considered a modification of the terms "programs, services, and positions".

On the issue of defining "maintenance budget" for the school year 2003-2004, I fully agree with the well-reasoned analysis by Judge Martone. Therefore, I incorporate legal reasoning of Judge Martone as part of this Initial Decision. In addition to concurring with Judge Martone's reasoning, I offer the following additional observations. The interplay between the words "approved" and "provided for" in relation to the concept of "maintenance budget" must derive their meaning from all the circumstances that gives rise to the Department of Education motion. The New Jersey Attorney Generals Office initiated the present matter on behalf of the Department of Education on motion before the Supreme Court for modification of the decision in Abbott V. The background is that the state has been visited with a serious budget crisis[2]. DOE in its Reply Brief in Abbott V stated:

> This Court, acknowledging the fiscal crisis and the motivation underlying the State's proposal to contain ineffective spending in the Abbott districts for the 2002-2003 school year, granted the Department flexibility to eliminate, reduce or limit growth of certain programs, positions and services as long as the core instructional program was not negatively affected. Abbott IX, 172 N.J. 294, 297-298
>
> In addition, the fiscal situation in the State has not improved and, in fact, has become graver.
>
> See, DOE's April 21, 2003, Reply Brief filed in Abbott v. Burke, Sup Ct. Dkt No. 42,170 at page 21-22.

The Abbott V motion sought to strike a balance between urban special needs districts (Abbott districts) and state budget crisis. Mindful of the budget problems, DOE promulgated an emergency regulation, which continued to address the needs of the Abbott districts but was within its financial means. Simply stated, DOE sought to fund Abbott districts at the 2002-2003 amounts, subject to certain mandatory adjustments or increases. DOE was mindful of the Supreme Court Order that stated a "maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures." Consistent with the Supreme Court's Order, DOE promulgated N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 which provides in part ' "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures.'

[2] In the Governor 2003 budget address he stated, "let me repeat that – the state of New Jersey starts out this budget year $5 billion in the red. www.state.nj.us/budget03/speech_text.html. Similarly the Commissioner of Education stated "As the Governor has stated repeatedly, this is not a budget we wanted to submit, but we are confident that this budget will enable the school districts to weather the year with some belt tightening, creative solutions, innovative programs and cooperative agreements. www.state.nj.us/njded/news/0410bud.html

The issue at hand is about funding last year's programs so the Abbott districts are not deprived of those programs while the state resolves its budget crisis. The emergency regulation addresses this situation by fully funding last year's programs and allowing certain adjustments or increases, if warranted. Generally, on a global basis, the existing 2002-2003 programs should not receive less funding. Funding for those programs (funding meaning "approved and provided for") in 2002-2003 budgets represent the floor and the ceiling amount to be funded in the 2003-2004 budget. This, I believe, was the intent of DOE's original motion and it is consistent with corresponding emergency regulation Ordered by the Supreme Court. Moreover, it is consistent with the Supreme Court's definition of maintenance budget. The Supreme Court did not Order DOE to increase the 2003-2004 budget to include "the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services." A "current" program that was not funded in 2002-2003 is a new program for the purposes of a budget analysis. It is not a current program that is required to be funded. In interpreting a rule, a court may look to the policy sought to be achieved. Matter of Gastman, 147 N.J. Super. 101, 109 (App. Div. 1977). In the present matter, the policy sought to be achieved was to balance the DOE budget crisis against the needs of the Abbott districts. DOE was charged with developing a regulation for that purpose. I further CONCLUDED that confining the 2003-2004 budget amounts to "current programs in existence" and funded in 2002-2003 budget make sense when viewed against the backdrop of this motion.

To the extent the OAL has jurisdiction, as mandated by the Supreme Court in Abbott, 153 N.J. 480, 526-527 (1998) and that petitioner asked for a determination regarding the choice of law, I make the following conclusions. For the reasons set forth in Judge Martone's Order and independently, I CONCLUDE that the amount to be funded for 2003-2004 budget year is limited to only those programs that were in existence and funded in 2002-2003. Any such conclusion to the contrary would ignore the circumstances upon which DOE filed its motion. If additional programs that were not funded in 2002-2003 were funded in the present budget, it would defeat the intent of the emergency regulation. It would not represent a maintenance budget but rather a budget increase over the prior years budget. It is the funding in the 2002-2003 budget that is the starting point for analysis. DOE sought to restrict the 2003-2004 budget to only that amount that it funded in the prior year. DOE promulgated a regulation to meet that need and that is not inconsistent with the Supreme Court Order. Moreover, the interpretation of a regulation, as offered by DOE, is entitled to great weight and is presumptively valid. Medical Society of New Jersey v. New Jersey Department of Law and Public Safety, 120 N.J. 18 (1990). Agencies are permitted significant discretion when applying criteria contained in regulations to ensure flexibility in dealing with varying circumstances. Matter of Crown/Vista Energy Project, 279 N.J. Super. 74 (App. Div. 1995).

DISTRICT'S ISSUE # 2 Budget Miscalculations

Prior to and during the hearing, the parties and their professionals agreed to Stipulation a regarding the controversy over the budget miscalculations (issue # 2). The parties have prepared a Stipulation, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. I have reviewed the record and terms of the Stipulation and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the Stipulation as evidenced by their signatures and as stated on the record on September 24, 2003.

2. The Stipulation disposes of all issues in controversy at this time. The Stipulation is an interim measure to bridge the current dispute regarding the budget calculations but, the budget remains subject to an annual audit. Each party specifically reserves their right to assert a claim after the audit is completed. This would include seeking additional Abbott funding by the district or seeking a refund by the DOE. This Stipulation is intended to provide the district with adequate Abbott funding prior to the conclusion of the audit but also preserve the rights of all parties to challenge or appeal the funding or the outcome of the final audit. N.J.S.A. 18A:23-1 et seq.

I CONCLUDE that the budget miscalculation issue # 2 is no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the definition of "maintenance budget" set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is applicable in this matter. It is further ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms in connection with issue # 2 (budget miscalculations).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

9-25-03
DATE

W. TODD MILLER, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9.25.03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9/25/03
DATE

/lam

Documents Relied Upon

P-1 Binder provided by the District During Oral Argument

District's September 19, 2003 Letter Memorandum

DOE's September 19, 2003 Letter Memorandum

Reply Brief of the Commissioner in Supreme Court Docket No. 42,170

District's Letter of September 12, 2003 Setting Forth the Issues

PETER C. HARVEY
Attorney General of New Jersey
R.J. Hughes Justice Complex
25 Market Street
Post Office Box 093
Trenton, New Jersey 08625

By: Jennifer L. Cordes
Deputy Attorney General
(609) 984-4987

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
DOCKET NO.: EDU 04163-03S
AGENCY REF. NO.: 183-6/03

CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Administrative Action

STIPULATION OF FACTS

Petitioner, having requested an administrative hearing to contest the amount of supplemental Abbott v. Burke State Aid it was awarded and the budget process under which that award was calculated, and the parties having discussed the matter, and upon presentation of new documentation to the Department of Education, the parties hereby stipulate to the following facts:

Attachment 16 ED
16a

1. $98,372.86 shall be added to the line item entitled, "Salaries - Contracted Rate," reflected in the amended budget worksheet attached to this Stipulation as Exhibit A.

2. $479,037.36 shall be added to the line item entitled, "Special Education," reflected in the amended budget worksheet attached as Exhibit A.

3. $177,197.76, plus $94,371.00, shall be added to the line item entitled, "CPI at 2.1% non-sal net of Util." reflected in the amended budget worksheet attached as Exhibit A.

4. $948,068.00 shall be deducted from the line item entitled, "FY 03-04 GF Total Budgeted Revenues Available," reflected in the amended budget worksheet attached as Exhibit A.

5. The estimated amount of supplemental aid that petitioner will be receiving totals $12,010,822.56, reflected in the amended budget worksheet attached as Exhibit A.

6. The parties agree that the estimated award of supplemental Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Petitioner may be revised pending the audit process that will be completed on or about November 5, 2003. Accordingly, petitioner reserves any right to appeal the results of that process at the time the final supplemental Abbott v. Burke State Aid award is provided. Respondent reserves any right to contest that appeal.

7. The parties acknowledge that there is an outstanding issue regarding the definition of the "maintenance budget" standard that is being decided simultaneously by William Todd Miller, ALJ.

8. This document, in connection with the Initial Decision being issued by ALJ Miller, referred to in Paragraph 9 of this Stipulation, resolves all issues raised in petitioner's appeal, subject to any further rights to file exceptions to, or appeals from, the Initial Decision concerning the "maintenance budget" definition.

9. This Stipulation shall be construed as if it were drafted by both parties and both parties waive all statutory and common law presumptions which would serve to have the document construed in favor, or against, any party as the drafter hereof.

10. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts.

Damon G. Tyner, Esq.
Attorney for Petitioner

Dated:

Jennifer L. Cordes
Deputy Attorney General
Attorney for Respondent

Dated: 9.25.03

Exhibit A

District: Pleasantville Maintenance Calculation - Final Revision

Budget: 2002-2003

Line #:
9470	Approved General fund budget 02-03	$54,061,114.00
2511	Less: EC Transfer	($574,605.00)
			$53,486,509.00
	Add:
13300	Early Childhood aid		$4,103,462.00
13690	DEPA Aid		$1,991,500.00
13900	Distance Learning network aid		$184,990.00
	Adjusted 02-03 State program budget		$59,766,461.00
	Adjust for actual state program spending fund 11
7580	General Current Expense	$20,648,901.00
8340	Capital Outlay	$2,063,531.00
9460	Special Schools	$0.00
9465	GF Transfer to Charter Schools	$3,751,279.00
	Less: Actual from Bd Sec Rpt	($26,328,339.44)
			$135,371.56
	Adjust for actual state program spending fund15 - 94%
9466	GF Contribution to WSR	$25,941,568.82
	Less: Actual from Bd Sec Rpt	($26,138,169.82)
			($196,601.00)
			($61,229.44)
	Base 02-03 state program budget		$59,705,231.56
	Add/(Subtract) Difference between 02-03/03-04 Plan
	EC Plan 03-04	$4,822,327.00
	EC Plan 02-03	($4,103,462.00)
			$718,865.00
	Add or deduct Non-discretionary items:
	Salaries - Contracted Rate	$1,630,730.00
	Health Benefits	$1,428,598.00
	Charter School Tuition	$750,427.00
	Special Education - Tuition	$727,161.00
	CPI at 2.11% non-sal net of Util	$363,811.00
	Utilities rate increases @ 8.1%	$88,549.00
	Subtotal		$4,989,276.00
	If applical Adjust. For non-recurring items	$0.00
	non-cash items	$0.00
	Other - KC Provider Budget not in Plan 03-04	$183,469.00
	Decrease in Federal aids	$0.00
			$183,469.00
	Subtotal adjustments		$5,691,610.00
	FY 03-04 Total State budget @ Maintenance		$65,396,841.56

Budget: 2003-2004

00410	Total Gen'l fund Revenues	$60,620,492.00
00421	ECPA carryover calc by state	$118,989.00
00422	DEPA carryover calc by state	$90,675.00
00425	ECPA	$3,469,509.00
00426	DEPA	$1,292,724.00
	Subtotal state program aid	$66,592,589.00
00284	Less Request for AAv8A for 03-04	($12,045,173.00)
	Base GF revenue 03-04		$53,547,416.00
	Add/(Subtract): Revenue Adjustments:
	IDEA Increase/(Decrease)	$38,603.00
	Extraordinary Aid Increase/(Decrease)	$0.00
	Other: MISC unbudgeted rev	$0.00
	Excess Fund Balance	$0.00
	Subtotal		$38,603.00
	FY 03-04 GF Total Budgeted Revenues Available		$53,586,019.00
	Difference: Need for Supplemental aid		$12,010,822.56

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4163-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 183-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-2004 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Pleasantville's exceptions and the Department's reply thereto were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine, directly or indirectly, the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n., 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to determine "a choice of law" as argued by the District, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003. Consequently, the Department's application of such regulatory definition in its review and approval of the District's 2003-2004 budget is wholly appropriate.

The Commissioner notes that with respect to the second issue in controversy in this matter, i.e., budget miscalculations, the parties have entered into a Stipulation of Settlement which, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(c) and (d), is deemed to be the final decision at this time on this issue.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

* Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

584-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court and challenging the Department's reduction, as part of its review of noninstructional expenditures for effectiveness and efficiency, of certain noninstructional supervisory positions. The District also sought to continue its appeal of certain issues arising from the budget determination made by the Department prior to the Court's order.

The ALJ found that the Department appropriately applied the duly promulgated rule implementing the Court's order for "maintenance," and further found that the Board could continue its appeal of prior budget issues. The ALJ upheld the Department's determinations with respect to restoration of programs, capital project and non-instructional salary expenditures, and other items not meeting the definition of "maintenance" or standards of effectiveness and efficiency, but also found that additional funding must be provided to support fully two positions only partly filled in 2002-03.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's conclusions regarding "maintenance" and most specific issues, notwithstanding that the Commissioner did not find issues arising from the Department's prior determination pertinent to the appeal herein. However, the Commissioner rejected the conclusion that additional funding must be provided for two previously part-year positions, finding that the Department's method of calculation provided sufficient salary amounts to cover variances in year-to-year staffing needs.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4157-03
Agency Ref. No. 187-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Harvey C. Johnson, Esq., P.C., for petitioner

Michael Walters, Deputy Attorney General, Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General and Allison Eck, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 24, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE ANA C. VISCOMI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the City of Camden (hereinafter "school district" or "district"), the operator of an urban special needs "Abbott" school district, appeals from the Department of Education's (hereinafter "DOE") initial and revised preliminary review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget. N.J.S.A 18A:7F-3; see also N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1 et seq.

The following procedural history has been gleaned from the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003. On March 24, 2003, the DOE moved before the Supreme Court for an order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153, N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). See also Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX). The DOE requested that the discretionary additional Abbot v. Burke state aid (supplemental aid) that it would be required to provide to Abbott districts in 2003-2004 be limited to an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center (ELC) cross-moved for an order setting an expedited schedule for the DOE's decisions on districts' budgets and requiring the DOE to conduct a formal evaluation of the implementation of Whole School Reform (WSR), etc. On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court ordered the DOE and the ELC to participate in mediation before the Hon. Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D, to attempt to resolve issues raised by their motions.

Mediation resolved all issues except the 2003-2004 budget process, so the DOE's motion for an order extending by an additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX remained outstanding. However, the parties agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals, beginning with the DOE's reviews and approvals of districts' budgets by May 30, 2003. Districts' appeals from the DOE's reviews were to be transmitted to the OAL, where administrative law judges (ALJs) were to issue initial decisions within 50 days of the appeal. The DOE's Commissioner was to issue final decisions within 25 days of the initial decisions. On May 30, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect until further order of the Court.

On May 30, the DOE issued decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets. In this case, by letter of that date, the DOE's Assistant Commissioner, Division of Abbott

Implementation notified the district that the DOE had completed its initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget March 28, 2003 and that the expenditure budget was approved except as follows:

- Restorations – the March 28 budget submitted by the district added or restored a total of $17.3 million that was not included in the March 18 budget. Of this amount we cannot approve $12,570,164 with the balance explained by contractual salary increases that were not included in the March 18 budget;

- Capital Outlay – There is a number of items in the capital budget that can or will be financed by the School Construction Corporation and cannot be approved;

- Vacancies – The district failed to provide complete and accurate information on position status for the Department to make an accurate projection. Based on the information provided to date, we cannot approve $1,603,000 in the position account, but the final amount will be based on actual vacancies;

- Health benefits – Since the increases for the State Health Benefits Plan for the period January-June 2004 cannot be precisely projected, the district should use 12% as the projected increase with the understanding that the actual increase will be approved;

- Since charter school and special education tuition costs cannot be precisely projected, the district should base its estimate on 2002-2003 actual expenditures with the understanding that these expenditure (sic) will be adjusted based upon actual enrollment/costs;

- Excessive legal fees- $250,000;

- Excessive supervisory staff -- $725,000;

- Various fund 11 accounts – technology, school-based non-salary accounts, tuition and aid-in-lieu of transportation are not approved above the 02-03 level.

On June 6, 2003, the district's verified petition of appeal was filed with the DOE. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The DOE transmitted the contested case to the OAL, where it was filed on June 9, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On June 12, 2003, the DOE's answer was filed in the OAL. This matter was assigned to be heard before Jeff S. Masin, Acting Director and Chief ALJ.

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument on the DOE's motion for an order extending the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. On July 1, 2003, the DOE moved for an order amending the schedule for processing the appeals to allow the Court to rule on the standard in the appeals to the OAL before hearings and issuance of initial decisions. On July 10, 2003, the Supreme Court heard oral argument on the budget process. The Supreme Court granted the DOE's motion and relaxed Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. The Court's July 23, 2003, Order provides:

> 1. The DOE's application to extend the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott V is granted as follows: The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order.
>
> 2. The Statewide aggregate amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid shall be presumptively calculated as the total amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid approved for the Abbott districts for Fiscal Year

2002-2003, subject to adjustment as required for a maintenance budget. A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.

3. For purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.) Insofar as any Abbott district has not been informed of its total amount of last year's approved Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid, the DOE shall provide written notice of that amount within two weeks of the date of this Order. The DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard in its review of a district's maintenance school budget may result in a reduction to a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

4. Within 30 days of the issuance of this Order, the DOE shall provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget. If the DOE deletes an expenditure from a district's 2002-

2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs and based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must include in the written notice to the district the expenditure deleted along with a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient.

5. Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.

6. The Order of the Court dated July 7, 2003, modifying the Court's scheduling Order of May 20, 2003 in order to provide the [OAL] thirty days within which to determine and issue initial decisions in the twenty-three pending budget appeals, is hereby superseded by this Order. The [OAL] shall issue initial decisions on district appeals from the DOE's preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year within 30 days of the dates of those decisions as set forth in Paragraph 4 of this Order.

7. To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the districts' non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

The Supreme Court also set a schedule for new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and the administrative appeal and hearing process and ordered the DOE to promulgate emergency regulations governing the process. The DOE, relying on the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act and the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order, promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10, including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, 3.1, -4.2, and -4.7. The regulations are effective August 22, 2003, and expire June 30, 2004. Among these emergency regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 states:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

This matter was subsequently reassigned to this ALJ.

Pursuant to Provision 4 of the Supreme Court's Order dated July 23, 2003, the DOE was required to issue to each district "preliminary maintenance budget" figures for the 2003-2004 school year by August 22, 2003. On that date, the DOE sought leave before the Supreme Court for a three (3) day extension of time – until August 27, 2003— to issue notices to each respective district. The Supreme Court granted this extension by order of August 26, 2003.

Prior thereto, a telephone pre-hearing conference was conducted in this matter. The pre-hearing letter order limited discovery and set peremptory hearing dates for September 4, 5 and 8, 2003.

On August 27, 2003 a Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbot v. Burke State Aid Award was forwarded to Annette Knox, the school district's superintendent. A supplemental letter order issued by this ALJ provided, in relevant part, a reminder to district's counsel that pursuant to the special adopted amendments, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.7(a) required counsel to contact the assigned ALJ within one business day of receipt of the preliminary notice to seek a pre-hearing conference in which the issues on appeal could be identified by the district. Since that supplemental order scheduled a continued pre-hearing conference on August 29, 2003, counsel agreed to await that conference rather than schedule it on August 28, 2003.

By letter of September 3, 2003, district's counsel advised, the district:

> continues the appeal of the issues stated in its Petition dated June 5, 2003 with the following two exceptions: 1) the appeals of legal fees is deleted; and 2) the appeal regarding excessive Supervisory Staff remains, but is amended from $725,000 to $867,564 contained in the DOE letter dated August 27, 2003. ...
>
> In its order of June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court required the restoration of Whole School Reform Models to elementary schools that did not have them in the 2002-2003 school year. The Camden Board of Education has such schools. At $75,000 per school this amounts to $1,800,000. The Camden City Board of Education requests that its Petition be amended to include the funds necessary for restoration of Whole School Reform Models in schools that did not have them in the 2002-2003 school year.[1]

[1] The language of the district letter indicating that the appeal is based in part on the issues defined in the DOE May 30, 2003 letter is relevant because DAG Walters participated in all pre-hearing matters through September 10, 2003. Prior to the actual commencement of the hearing on September 14, 2003, when DAG Walters was replaced by DAG Eck and Asher, due to his appearance in another Abbott matter subject to a peremptory schedule, the DOE never contended the school district could no longer base its appeal, in part, on the May 30, 2003 letter. The first time the DOE sought to bar any appeal based on the issues set forth in the May 30, 2003 letter was on September 14, 2003. DOE requested a written order in that regard so that it may move forward on interlocutory appeal. However, prior to the issuance of such an order and on the same date, DAG Walters briefly appeared during the hearing and advised the DOE did not contest the district's right to pursue the issues set forth in the May 30, 2003 which set the basis for the Petition filed on June 6, 2003. This ALJ explained during the course of argument on this issue on September 14, 2003 that since the matter had not previously been objected to by DOE counsel and certainly to the extent the August 27, 2003 Notice letter did not specifically address a particular issue on appeal, it could not be deemed to supercede the May 30, 2003 letter in its entirety. It is also interesting to note that the September 3, 2003 letter by the district memorializing the issues on appeal was previously discussed with DOE counsel also

On the basis of this mutual request, the peremptory hearing date of September 4, 2003 was adjourned in order to allow the parties to engage in meaningful settlement discussions. Due to the mutual request of the parties and based on the progress of their discussions, on September 4, 2003 I adjourned the peremptory hearing date of September 5, 2003 but scheduled a conference call on the afternoon of September 5, 2003 in order to ascertain the status of the discussions and because a final peremptory hearing date was scheduled for September 8, 2003. Based on the results of that conference call, counsel were advised to contact the undersigned ALJ over the weekend so that I could make an informed decision on whether to proceed with the hearing for September 8, 2003. As a result of that call and due to further reasonable time necessitated by the district in convening an emergent board meeting and meeting with the School Construction Corp (SCC), I adjourned the final peremptory hearing date of September 8, 2003. A conference call was scheduled for September 10, 2003 in order to ascertain the status of this matter. As a result, the matter was scheduled for new peremptory hearing dates of September 16, 17 and 18, 2003 and a final pre-hearing order was entered.

During the course of the September 10, 2003 conference call, district's counsel advised petitioner was seeking a ruling with regard to the issue of the "maintenance budget definition" as set forth in the Supreme Court Order of July 23, 2003 vis-à-vis that set forth in the Special Adopted Amendments, effective August 22, 2003 at N.J.A.C. 10:6A:10-1.2. In the interest of efficiency and economy, the parties were advised this ALJ concurred with the ruling on this issue as set forth by John Tassini, ALAJ on September 4, 2003 in connection with the Asbury Park Abbott school district appeal. Judge Tassini's order relative to the maintenance budget issue was provided to the parties. Nonetheless, district counsel was permitted to raise that issue with regard to this matter and counsel were advised briefs were due on September 12, 2003. The final briefs were received on September 17, 2003. The Education Law Center (hereinafter "ELC") sought and was granted intervenor status, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-16.1 et seq. for purpose of an amicus curiae filing only. The submissions were considered during an indicated that the District and DOE were seeking to adjourn the first scheduled hearing date in order to attempt to resolve this matter. Presumably then, the DOE was on notice on all issues on appeal.

---

extended break in the context of the September 17, 2003 hearing and the parties were verbally advised on the record that in consideration of the briefs submitted, I concurred with the ruling set forth by both ALJs Tassini and Martone, respectively.[2]

This matter was heard peremptorily on September 16-18, 2003 inclusive. The parties were permitted to submit initial post hearing briefs no later than 10:00 a.m. September 22, 2003 and reply briefs no later than September 23, 2003 at 10:00 a.m. Due to a local power outage that affected the Trenton OAL offices, final submissions were received on September 24, 2003 and the record closed on that date. Pursuant to Supreme Court Order of July 23, 2003, as modified on August 26, 2003, this initial decision is due on September 26, 2003.

ISSUES PRESENTED

Based on the June 6, 2003 petition as amended by letter of September 3, 2003 and joint stipulation of the parties (J-1), the following represents the issues on appeal:

1. Restorations not approved in the amount of $12,570,164;
2. Capital outlay;
3. Vacancies in the amount of $1,603,000;
4. Health benefits (in part);

[2] Although the parties were advised that a written order memorializing this order would be provided to the parties, due to time constraints and in consideration of when the briefs were submitted, that ruling is memorialized herein. Petitioner school district contends that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's maintenance budget definition is contrary to the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, provision 4. Petitioner asserts that as such, an ALJ may disregard the regulation and apply the Supreme Court's Order which defined "maintenance budget" at provision 4. In its amicus filing, ELC contends that the Supreme Court in the "Abbott V" and "Abbot I" respective rulings vested in the OAL, the responsibility to "initially adjudicate" all disputes between the DOE and the Abbott districts. ELC asserts the Supreme Court did not specifically "limit or restrict the scope of the factual or legal issues to be determined." Thus, ELC contends an ALJ may disregard the definition as promulgated through the adoption of emergency regulations since the ALJ is charged with an "initial review" on "all issues." DOE asserts any challenge to the validity of the "maintenance budget" definition as promulgated through the Special Adopted Amendments, specifically at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, is not appropriately heard before the OAL. My order with regard to this motion heard during the course of the hearing was that respondent DOE is correct. R. 2:2-3(a)(2) provides that an appeal to challenge the validity of any regulation promulgated by a state administrative agency should be brought in the Superior Court, Appellate Division. Thus, the "maintenance budget" definition set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 shall apply in this case.

5. Vocation program funds in the amount of $334,455;
6. Supervisory staff in the amount of $867,564; and
7. Various fund 11 accounts -- technology, school-based non-salary accounts and aid in lieu of transportation which were not approved above the 02-03 level.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following discussion of testimony is not intended to represent a verbatim transcription of the testimony presented at the hearing but a synopsis of relevant testimony. Although respondent DOE contended much of the testimony presented by petitioner school district was not relevant and beyond the scope of the issues to be decided pursuant to the Order of the Supreme Court, all such testimony has been summarized in order to fully set forth the record before me.[3]

Respondent's witnesses included Allen Tyrone Dupree, Beth Ann Coleman and Keith S. Balla.

Dupree is employed by the DOE as the Division of Finance, Manager in charge of Finance Analysis. His responsibilities include developing research and finance analysis on school financing issues. He attained a Bachelor's degree in Political Science from Swathmore and a Master's in Public Affairs from Princeton University. He has worked with the DOE for two years. He was previously employed for a non-profit agency in Washington DC evaluating income security issues associated with such welfare programs as TANF (Temporary Aid to Needy Families). Prior to that he was a Research Assistant while a graduate student. His background in statistics is in research and quantitative analysis.

[3] Although the Findings of Fact support, in part, the DOE's contention with regard to this testimony, as relevant yet ancillary issues not part of the Supreme Court's dictate were presented, I deemed them noteworthy to set forth insofar as the some of the district's concerns with regard to its "ability" to create its budget.

With regard to projecting enrollment for the Camden school district, Dupree testified that each school district receiving state aid is required to provide Kindergarten through twelfth grade enrollment data each year in November and this is the only way that the DOE can determine how to allocate financing.

As part of the appeal process, analysis was conducted by an outside firm, Rosenfarb Winters. Each Abbott school district provided information to the audited firm contracted with the state to determine inefficiencies.

He is familiar with the calculations for Camden.

Dupree testified with regard to the projected growth calculation formula he developed. Referring to R-1, the K-12 enrollment for years 1997-2002 inclusive was considered. The enrollment for those years is:

October 2002	17,258.0
October 2001	17,530.0
October 2000	17,974.0
October 1999	18,722.5
October 1998	19,193.5
October 1997	19,773.5

To arrive at the projected enrollment for academic year 2003-2004, a figure that will be known in November, Dupree's growth rate calculation formula involved:

> Adding the totals for October 2002, 2001 and 2000 respectively (52,762.0). The totals for October 1999, 1998 and 1997 respectively are then separately added (57,689.5). 52,762 is then divided by the number 3 (17,587.3) and 57,689.5 is separately divided by the number 3 (19,229.8). 17,587.3 are then divided by 19,229.8 for a total of .9146. The cube root of this number is then calculated (.970677) > and "one" is subtracted from this number -.029323. This number is then calculated as a percentage -2.9323%. This number represents the total decline in students over the past six years in the Camden City school district for grades K-12. The October 2002 modified district enrollment for pupils "on roll full time" is 16,551.0. That number is multiplied by –2.93% and yields a total of 484.94 which is then deducted from the October 2002 modified district enrollment and yields a total of 16,066 which represents the projected 2003-2004 enrollment for the Camden City School District. (R-1)

This growth rate formula was utilized for all Abbott school districts.

On cross-examination Dupree testified the October 2002 data reflecting a resident enrollment of 17,258 reflects resident enrollment K-12 for school age students that live in Camden but may not go to Camden schools. They are however, all under the supervision of the Camden Board of Education. (R-2)

He testified that it is a fair assumption that the declining rate of enrollment is lessening.

The growth rate calculation he utilized is an established formula. When CEIFA (Comprehensive Education Improvement and Financing Act) was passed, the Commissioner was given the authority to determine the growth rate calculation formula.

He also testified that the cube root was included as part of the equation to "smooth the growth rate" so that a "spike" in one year would not significantly impact the district in projecting future enrollment.

With regard to the distinction between "on roll" students and "enrolled students", Dupree testified that 16,066 represents the 2003-2004 projected on roll students while 16,752 represents the 2003-2004 projected enrolled students which includes students living in the district but not attending in district schools. While the DOE had access to the total "enrolled" students data, the "on roll" students' data was utilized uniformly in the growth rate calculation. But there is no reason to believe that both numbers would not run in tandem and that the projection would be substantially different.

DOE Budget Examiner Beth Ann Coleman testified next. She has worked with the Department for 8 years. She is a member on the Camden and Asbury respective school district task forces serving in the capacity of fiscal specialist/internal auditor. Prior to her employment with the DOE, she worked for 2½ years as an auditor for Thomas Havey & Co. and 2½ years as an auditor for Coopers & Lybrand. He has a Bachelor's degree in Accounting and a Masters in Public Administration from Rutgers.

She drafted the August 27, 2003 DOE correspondence to the Camden Abbott schools district which is the subject of this appeal. (R-2) Prior to drafting this letter, she performed the maintenance calculation pursuant to the Supreme Court's Order and also considered the district's surplus funds. The preliminary maintenance budget figure for 2003-2004 school year is $253,811,577. Abbott school districts are permitted to retain 2% fund balance. A fund balance represents which each district may have left over at the end of the school year. The DOE identified an additional $13,836,606 in fund balance that must be appropriated in the 2003-2004 revised budget. (R-2) The 2% ($5M) the district is permitted to retain does not have to be budgeted. Any excess surplus above the 2% must be budgeted as revenue for the next school year. Camden identified $4M fund balance that they would have to budget. Further, due to the delayed June payment of $3.9M in accounts receivable, the revenue is reduced. (R-2) The new budget fund balance is then $17,836,606.

With regard to supervisors, and specifically the salary expenditures for non-instructional supervisors, the revised Comparative Spending Guide for Abbott Districts indicates Camden is inefficient in the area of administrative costs. Out of 30 Abbott school districts, Camden was ranked 23. The schools are ranked lowest to highest. Upon receipt of this information, known as FTE (Full Time Equivalents) from the CPA firm retained by each respective Abbott district, payroll was reviewed and non-instructional supervisors was identified as an area to be addressed with the Camden City Abbott district. Once the auditor's reports are received in November more precise figures will be known.

R-3 represents the calculations performed in order to draft the August 27, 2003 letter addressing the preliminary revised budget for 2003-2004. Coleman testified all Abbott school districts were subject to review by this formula after the Supreme Court's Order requiring the utilization of a maintenance standard. Thus, in arriving at the preliminary revised budget, the school district's budget for 2002-2003 was reviewed and provided the supporting data to create same. (R – 4) Thus, the following calculation was performed:

> The following are added: line 9470 (General fund), line 13300 (Early Childhood Program Aid), the Demonstrably Effective Program Aid and line 13900 (Total Distance Learning Network Aid). The total of $255,973,307 is the total state and local program budget.
>
> Adjustments are then made. Camden receives Title 1 aid from the federal government. This is blended into Fund 15. Federal aid for Camden is calculated at approximately 9%. Once this reduction is made, the 2002-2003 state program budget is determined to be $234,775,926.71. But Early Childhood Program Aid was increased from 2002-2003 to 2003-2004 by $1,977,219 so this was added back to the budget.

Other considerations in arriving at the preliminary revised budget included the following. Salaries of instructional staff were included at the contracted rate with the additional 4.5% rate increase that was the subject of bargaining. She had been advised in March 2003 that this was the rate increase agreed upon. Consumer Price Index (CPI) of 2.11% was added to the base on such non-salary items as textbooks, etc. Health benefits were subject to a 14.5% increase and she was advised of this by telephone conference with the State Health Benefit Plan (SHBP). Based on information provided her by the DOE Director of Finance, she increased the base of $9M for the Charter Schools to $11M. (R-4, line 9465) With regard to Special Education, a five-year trend analysis had been performed on Abbott school districts. (R-5) The purpose of this analysis was to show increases or decreases in enrollment and she wanted to make sure she factored the appropriate amount of IDEA dollars. Based on this analysis, Camden showed an increase of 19 additional children classified under IDEA. So she applied $40,000 for each respective child and netted $1.3M. (R-3) With regard to utilities, Camden had overspent their 2002-2003 budget by $115,081 and so she added that increase to the 2003-2004 budget. A decrease in Title 1 funding for the No Child Left Behind Act caused a decrease in federal funding to the district in the amount of $577,723, so in order to keep the district whole, state aid was increased in at amount. The total of adjustments made in non-discretionary items is $19,035,650 and this was added to the base reflecting a total 2003-2004 maintenance budget of $253,811,576.71.

With regard to the 2003-2004 budget and the advertised revenues (R-6), Coleman testified that line 410(total general fund) is anticipated to be $278,674,814. To this, line 425 (Early Childhood Program Aid (ECPA)) $13,699,807 is added. The amount in line 421 (Early Childhood Program Aid – Prior Year Carryover) of $76,321 is considered revenue based on the figures provided by Camden. In addition, the amount in line 422 (Demonstrably Effect Program Aid (DEPA) Prior Year Carryover) of $419,516 is considered revenue. The subtotal is $301,785,740. This is further reduced by Camden's request for additional Abbott v. Burke aid in the amount of $71,764,004. This reduction is made because the amount is already included in the General Fund Revenue in line 284. (R-6) The amount available then becomes $230, 021, 736.

Other adjustments made include the "extraordinary aid" to support Special Education. Camden was entitled to $59,518. In addition, the excess fund balance of $13,836,606 (R-2) must be considered as revenue. The total budgeted revenue available is then $243,917,860. The difference then is $8,776,153 representing the district's estimated need for discretionary additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid based on the revenues available to the district for 2003-2004 and the reductions to the maintenance budget as indicated.

With regard to the 2003-2004 maintenance calculation, maintenance of facilities was included as it had been in the 2002-2003 budget. In the 2003-2004 budget, an additional 2.11% was provided, representing the CPI. This is represented on line 7625 in the amount of $4,975,262. (R-7) In March 2003 the Camden City BOE requested the ability to spend $13M in projected surplus on maintenance ($10.5M) and ($2.5M). The DOE intervention team refused to allow Camden to amend the budget.

On cross-examination, Coleman testified that she worked directly with the Camden BOE as part of the Commissioner's Intervention Team. The DOE interceded after Camden's estimated a budget deficit of $14M in 2001-2002 school year. Wayne Thomas, a then state DOE employee was assigned to work with the Camden City school district. Spending was frozen and at the end of the year, Camden had a surplus of approximately $9M. She has worked with the Camden district for three years. To her knowledge, Camden did not have a projected deficit in 2002-2003. She met with Wayne Thomas on a bi-weekly basis in 2002-2003 and met quite often during the last six to seven months of his tenure.

She was directly involved in meetings with Camden District Superintendent Annette Knox, County Supervisor Dr. Mastrobuono and Wayne Thomas in the Spring of 2003. For example, she recalls the "Immediate Needs" itemization of the School District being discussed at the March 27, 2003 meeting. (P2a) Camden sought to utilize a projected surplus to fund various district-wide "immediate needs" in the amount of $7.66M. At the conclusion of the meeting it was determined Camden did not follow the appropriate procedure as an Abbott school district and had to apply to the state School Construction Corporation (SCC) to order to have these items addressed. The Camden Division of Plant Services Revised March 26, 2003 request to spend $10.615M on capital projects throughout the district was also reviewed many times during the meeting. (P2c) Some of the items were approved by SCC. She was involved in the meeting with SCC. She recalled some specific items that were approved by SCC such as HVAC and gym floors in both high schools. She also recalled that Camden Plant Services Manager Robert Banscher was to continue working with DOE facilities person Mr. Gonzalez in order to fast track getting to SCC so it would expedite the decision of what SCC would fund. Knox requested that she be allowed to spend down the surplus for the items listed as immediate needs by the district. (P2a) That request was denied because many of those items could be funded by SCC had Camden followed proper procedure. Of the capital improvement projects totaling $10.6M (P2c), she never received a list from SCC indicating what projects it would fund. With regard to the Abbott school districts, if SCC does not fund a project, additional funding mechanisms are looked at; Abbotts get a second tier review.

Knox requested that the 2002-2003 approximate $10.6M projected surplus be utilized for maintenance/capital projects and the purchase of textbooks. (P2b) Coleman testified that you don't increase the level of spending at the end of the fiscal year. However, when asked if this practice is allowable, she responded she did not know. When Knox requested $2.3M in order to purchase textbooks (P2b), it was recommended that they would need to review the budget textbook line in order to determine if she could make this purchase.

With regard to the Commissioner's intervention team, County Superintendent Dr. Mastrobuono conducted the meetings and she was involved to the extent there would have been a budgetary impact on the city.

The DOE required Camden BOE to hire additional employees. (P-8) (The parties have stipulated to all the DOE directed positions listed on P-8 as part of J-1 with the exception of two assistant superintendents.) When asked if the two assistant superintendents salaries' were funded in full for 2003-2004, Coleman responded that to the extent they were included in the 2002-2003 budget, they were included in the 2003-2004 maintenance budget. The problem, however, is that these employees were hired in January 2003.

When asked if R-3 incorporates salary increases for non-union employees, Coleman responded that it did not because she was not provided any information with regard to this. However she explained she counted everyone in the district regardless of whether a union member or not and provided for the contracted union agreement salary increase of 4.5% for each district employee.

With regard to health benefits, Coleman testified at the time she drafted the May 30, 2003 letter to the district (P-14), she did not know what rate increase to apply. However, she had this information when she drafted the August 27, 2003 letter (R-2) as SHBP communicated the information to her and so the increase was included in the revised preliminary budget for 2003-2004.

Further, with regard to the issue of the inefficiency of salary expenditures for non-instructional staff in the amount of $867,564, Coleman testified that although the salary guide for these individuals lists them by heading as "instruct/directors" (R-11), a review of the account numbers to the left of that listing proves that those employees are actually "non-instructional" staff. Coleman explained that after the May 30, 2003 letter (P-14) was forwarded to the district, Camden requested an explanation with regard to the alleged inefficiency. By referring to the columns on the left of the document, Coleman explained that "11" meant these employees were listed in the General Fund 11 account, "000" meant these employees were non-instructional staff and "221-102" meant these employees were supervisors. Camden BOE originally provided this document to the DOE so Coleman essentially provided the district information it had originated and forwarded to the DOE. After the Supreme Court order of July 2003, the DOE reviewed the issue again and that explained the change from the alleged inefficiency in this category increasing from $725,000 to $867,564. When the May 30, 2003 letter was sent to the district, the Rosenfarb Winters report (R-8, R-9) was not available and the information included in its report provided further back-up to explain the increase in the inefficiency. In addition, she testified that when the May 30,2003 letter was forwarded, she did not have the FTE (full time equivalents) available to her. These were available prior to the issuance of the August 27, 2003 correspondence.

On cross-examination on this specific issue, Coleman was asked to refer to Rosenfarb Winters report (R-8, R-9) and specifically lines 221 and 223. Line 221-102 (Personal Salaries of Supervisors of Instruction) shows a total unfavorable variance of $983,837.19. Line 223-102 (Personal Salaries of Supervisors of Instruction) shows a total favorable variance of $747,648.84. While Coleman agreed that if these figures were netted, it would yield a negative total variance of approximately $200,000, she testified that the DOE distinguished between line 221 and 223. She also explained that Camden had no one budgeted in 2002-2003 in the "223" supervisory category and therefore, the two lines cannot be appropriately compared or netted. The $747,648 positive variance in this category, for which Camden did not have any employees budgeted, was derived from multiplying Camden's enrollment by the average spending per Abbott school district student (46.54) and thus, line 223 represents what other Abbott benchmarks budgeted in this category. She further testified that Wayne Thomas, a former state DOE employee, helped develop the 2002-2003 Camden budget. Any reclassification of employees would have to meet GAAP (Generally Accepted Accounting Principles). The assignment of a supervisor to a specific line, 221 or 223, would depend on the description of that person's function. If a district erroneously classifies someone as a supervisor, this would be considered an inefficiency.

On re-direct, Coleman testified that if a BOE wished to use available funds for small maintenance issues and the purchase of textbooks and wished to transfer funds from one fund to another in order to accomplish this, the district BOE would fill out a request form and forward it to the DOE for approval. To her knowledge, the DOE never received such a request from Camden with regard to the purchases of textbooks Knox wished to make.

She distinguished her role on the Fiscal Intervention Team from that of Wayne Thomas. She was responsible for reviewing the Camden City budget to make sure it was complete and accurate. Thomas would have helped to prepare the budget. Further, on rebuttal, Coleman testified that the purchases of textbooks was not permitted under guidance of the DOE and pursuant to instructions received at the end of the school year in April/May 2003, none of the Abbott districts were permitted to increase spending. They were to build these proposed expenditures into the 2003-2004 budget.

With regard to the personnel listed on R-11, she testified that based on her discussion with Camden Program staff that reviewed the lists with her, to her knowledge none of the positions are instructional. The payroll information provided that none of these supervisors are instructional.

With regard to the carry over issue reflected on page 2 of R-3, specifically line 421 (ECPA carry over calc. by state) and line 422 (DEPA carry over calc. by state), the overall net effect of these adjustments is a net increase in Abbott state aid to Camden.

Respondent's final witness was Keith S. Balla, a partner with Rosenfarb Winters, a forensic accounting firm. He is the managing director of the Public Trust Group and works with municipalities and school boards. He is a CPA licensed in both New Jersey and New York. He holds a Bachelor's degree in Accounting and Finance from Rutgers University and has been employed at Rosenfarb Winters for 22 years. As managing director, he supervises managers and partners in conducting operational reviews and deficiencies as well as fraud investigations. He has worked with a variety of school districts in New Jersey including Princeton, Newark, Jersey City and Union. The projects he has worked on with these school districts has varied from evaluation of teachers' salaries to litigation regarding accounting of funds.

The DOE recently retained his firm to assist in litigation with the Abbott districts by developing standards that would flesh out operational deficiencies. The audited financial information provided by each district was reviewed in addition to enrollment and test score data. Based upon information provided, the firm developed what was considered "benchmark Abbott districts" i.e., those falling in the middle range in consideration of students' scores and dollars spent. Typically, the most efficient schools are those having the highest scores and spending the least money.

The methodology applied for each review conducted was the same for each district.

He testified that Camden's inefficient spending on "object code 100 – personal services salaries total" did not exceed that of the benchmark districts. (R-8, exhibit 1, page 3 of 23.) Code 100 covers the salaries for all employees regardless of specific assigned function. (R-9) Specifically with regard to account 221-102 (which is one of the issues on appeal), it was determined that Camden had an unfavorable variance of $61.24 per pupil; Camden's 2003 budget per pupil is $254.01 compared with the standard for Abbott Districts 2003 budget of $192.77. Camden's total 2003 budget for salaries in this category is $4,080,846.51 compared with the standard for the Abbott school districts in the 2003 budget of $3,097,009.32 producing a total unfavorable variance for Camden in the amount of $983,837.19. (R-9)

On cross-examination, Balla testified the benchmark districts were considered Elizabeth, Long Branch, Gloucester and Phillipsburg. In determining benchmarks, the firm considered non-instructional spending per pupil and correlated it with educational test scores. (R-8a) No other factors, including level of impoverishment, nationalities, racial make-up, diversity, or quantity of languages spoken were considered.

On re-direct, Balla testified that the information gleaned in developing the benchmarks was then plotted on a graph. (R-8a) Those schools falling in the lower right of the graph represent the most efficient schools. The benchmarks consistently fell in the middle quadrant.

On all three charts comprising R-8a, representing 2000-2001, 2001-2002 and 2002-2003, Camden fell almost on the same line each time as a high cost, low performance Abbott school district.

Petitioner's witnesses included: Superintendent of Camden City BOE Annette Knox, Robert Banscher and Dr. Fred Reiss.

Knox has been the superintendent for two years, seven months. When she arrived in Camden, the state intervention team was already working at the central office. Initially, its role could be categorized as advisory with respect to the budget. Four people from the state team were assigned to work in the central district BOE office. They could give advice but the district did not have to follow it. Approximately six to nine months later, their role changed in that they could approve or disapprove of budgetary issues. A change occurred in January 2001 and then a "drastic" change with the new administration.

The Commissioner's report of July 2002 was based on an extensive review by the intervention team. (P-1a) At the time this report was rendered, the intervention team's role had already changed and it had developed the budget for the district and had authority to approve or disapprove of requests. Wayne Thomas had a lead role in the team and also made decisions regarding expenditures including as it related to learning. For example, he would make decisions with regard to programs and textbooks.

This past Spring the district wanted to use funds that it knew would be surplus. She presented a plan to purchase textbooks (P-2b) and Mr. Banscher prepared the plans regarding proposed capital improvements. (P-2c, P-3a) Wayne Thomas told her they could not go forward with these plans; she was told the purchase of textbooks had to be made from the 2003-2004 budget. However, when she met with Thomas and Mastrobuono in March of 2003, there was a $12M surplus. She was also told to apply for 13a funding for the capital projects reflected in P-2a and P-2c. Thomas did not approve the adjustment of the budget to allow for the expenditure of the surplus. With regard to the expenditure of the AGS textbooks, she testified this was important because there were approximately 175 students who have been in the 9th grade for two years and the textbooks were needed for their "readability" level.

On cross-examination, she testified that the textbooks she requested during the course of the March 2003 meeting with Thomas and Mastrobuono were for the 2003-2004 school year.

With regard to the list of "Immediate Needs" she prepared in advance of the March 2, 2003 meeting, the costs listed for each respective item was derived either through a bid or a contract estimate. No supporting documentation for these amounts was attached to this document. (P-2a)

The district did apply for 13A funding for some of the projects and funding was approved for some of the projects. She did not have the supporting documentation at the hearing with regard to what had been approved.

Thomas left the district in June 2003.

On re-direct, she testified that Wayne Thomas directed that certain positions be created. (P-19) In addition, this document reflects that a series of positions were to be transferred or subject to RIF (Reduction in Force) for a net estimated savings of $1,125, 264. With regard to the position of Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction, Thomas directed that a second position be created. As a result, both individuals were hired in January 2003. They were both on the payroll for the last six months of the 2002-2003 school year so only part of their salary would be included in the 2003-2004 maintenance budget as prepared by the DOE.

Robert Banscher, an in-house BOE architect testified next on behalf of petitioner. He worked with the schools in requesting funds to be included in the budget for maintenance of facilities and capital projects. He also worked with construction consultants.

He assisted in preparing the list of "Immediate Needs (P-2a) in preparation for the March 27, 2003 meeting. This was submitted to Superintendent Knox in preparation for the meeting with the state EDA (Economic Developmental Authority) and SCC and Dr. Mastrobuono. During the meeting, Mastrobuono suggested applying for 13A funding on projects under $500,000. The Proposed Budget Expenditures for school year 2003-2004 requesting $10.6M in funds was discussed during this meeting. (P-2c) This was revised after the meeting with a reduced request of $7.4M as some of the projects were submitted and granted 13A approval. (P-3a) Some of the 13A requests were denied because they were maintenance issues rather than capital projects. Banscher testified at length with regard to each specific school within the district and with regard to each specific project description and the budget estimate. (P-3a) No documentation supporting the budget estimate for each respective project was provided, nor was any supporting documentation made available at the hearing as to project items that were labeled "in house" or "state." Banscher testified from memory with regard to his recollection as to what he was told by the DOE representatives or Mastrobuono should be handled "in house" as part of the regular facilities maintenance budget, what should be or was granted as approved 13A funding and what should be part of the long range plan with SCC capital projects. But no supporting documentation was presented at the hearing to support Mr. Banscher's recollection. Some of the items Banscher characterized as "critical." For example, he cited to intercoms at schools that did not work properly and stressed that post-Columbine, intercoms should work properly so that announcements can be heard in all classrooms. He was advised that those matters that could be handled in-house should be taken care of through the 2003-2004 budget.

On cross-examination, he testified that the "in house" items were then deleted from the budget submission as these were to be factored in as part of the "regular maintenance budget" which was factored in the DOE's 2003-2004 preliminary revised budget. (R-7)

Further, the SCC has approved 2003-2004 projects, 13 of which have been approved for the Camden BOE but he does not know which ones they are.

He is not sure whether Camden sought emergent appropriation funds for such issues as heating problems. He was told at the March meeting to prioritize health and safety issues. Thomas left the district after that meeting and Banscher has not been involved in any subsequent meetings.

He recalls that there exists a letter from the state indicating what SCC projects had been approved but he did not have it with him at the hearing.

Petitioner's final witness was Fred Reiss, Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Support Services. He is responsible for day-to-day operations and other ancillary functions including supervising the department that collects data and provides it to the BOE. He holds a Bachelor's degree in Physics from Rutgers, two Master's degrees including one in Computer Science from NJIT and a Ph.D. in Education Administration from Rutgers. He utilized statistics extensively in the Ph.D. program.

He prepared a logarithmic analysis of the enrollment trend of Camden schools because he was concerned when he reviewed the August 27, 2003 DOE letter that the conclusions of inefficiencies was based on erroneous enrollment information. (P-4a – P-4d, P-4f-P-4g) His major concern was how the enrollment figure was determined.

He reviewed the DOE's method of calculation as conducted and testified to by Mr. Dupree. (R-1) According to Reiss, Dupree used a linear method but in his growth rate calculation formula, all the data disappeared when the average of three years and the second set of three years left only two dots to form a line. Dupree testified that the "cube root" was taken in order to "smooth the line" and it appeared to Reiss to have been done to the detriment of Camden. So he created his graph (P-4a et seq.) which he described as the "method of least squares." By drawing a straight line through all six points (representing 1997-2002 enrollment), a projected enrollment for 2003-2004 of 16,576.19 is established. (Dupree conceded during cross-examination that drawing a straight line through six points would represent a better projection of 2003-2004 enrollment.) Reiss also plotted out projected enrollment to reflect a three year trend through a five-year trend, respectively. The DOE in contrast, used a straight line through two points to predict a trend. So the DOE's projected 2003-2004 enrollment of 16,066 will be wrong and this impacts Camden because that was the projected enrollment figure used to project inefficiencies and determine the budget. Reiss then looked at a three-year trend by logarithmic analysis and projected 2003-2004 enrollment at 17,074.2. (P-4d) He then projected pupils on roll for October 2003 at 16,407 yet indicated the actual enrollment will be neither 16,066 (DOE projection) nor 16,407 but it will be a lot closer to the latter number. He noted that the district is responsible for other students "on roll" that the DOE did not factor in its growth rate calculation, i.e., pre-school students (approximately 1,300), Adult Education (approximately 200) and out-of-district Special Education placements (approximately 300).

He also testified with regard to his concern that numerous other factors were not taken into consideration to determine inefficiencies or benchmark districts so he prepared a monthly summary for secondary schools reflecting the languages spoken at those schools. (P-16) By law, if ten students speak the same foreign language, the school is required to provide an instructor in that language. This places a burden on the district. In addition, he noted the diverse community represented at the Camden city schools (P-5) and indicated that as a result there are numerous cultural and language issues that require a great deal of in-service programs requiring more supervisors than a homogenous community. These supervisors are required in different languages as reflected in the numerous languages spoken at the Camden city school district. (P-16) There are 34 schools in Camden and several thousand students that are participating in English as a Second Language (ESL) programs. In addition, there are 12,000 middle and high school students that qualify for free lunch based on income and family size. His experience is that the impoverished need more support.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND FINDINGS OF FACT

In its July 23, 2003 Order, the Supreme Court limited petitioner Abbott districts respective appeals to "any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard." Pursuant to that Order, the DOE was required to promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. In addition, the Order and subsequent emergency regulations, set forth the burden of proof in any such appeal as follows: the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establishing the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.7.

In furtherance of the Supreme Court's Order, the DOE promulgated a regulation setting forth the methodology in application of the effective and efficient standard.

> The effectiveness and efficiency of non-instructional expenditures in the 2002-2003 budget shall be determined by: i. A comparative analysis on non-instructional expenditures to those of other school districts and/or historical spending patterns in the district; ii. An analysis of staffing needs including but not limited to comparative data of ratios of non-instructional/administrative staff to instructional staff as well as district-specific information regarding staffing needs; iii. A review of non-instructional programs to identify expenditures that are included that may be funded through other funding sources or that alternative funding is not available because the expenditure is not essential to the provision of a thorough and efficient education. Such expenditures include, but are not limited to, capital costs that could be funded pursuant to the Education Facilities Construction and Financing Act or that > exceed the facilities efficiencies standards established pursuant to that Act; and iv. Cost savings and/or inefficiencies identified or proposed by the district or by the State Auditor or Office of Legislative Services Audit. (N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c)(1).

As previously indicated, the maintenance budget definition as promulgated by the Commissioner's emergency regulations shall be the basis of my initial decision.

> Maintenance budget means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's Order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures. (N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2)

The Camden City school district is subject to the Municipal Rehabilitation and Economic Recovery Act. N.J.S.A. 52:27BBB-1 et seq. As such, the state exercises significant control over the Camden City School Board. The statute authorized the governor to directly appoint three members to the nine member school board. N.J.S.A. 52:27BBB-63(h) and the governor has unconditional veto over any action taken by the school board. N.J.S.A. 52:27BBB-64(b). As part of the control, the DOE caused an intervention team to work with Camden in an advisory capacity which later increased to the creation of budgets and decision making authority over the budget and proposed expenditures. Former DOE employee Wayne Thomas was a pivotal point person for the DOE in relation to the operation of the Camden City school district including budgetary, personnel and program issues.

As indicated previously, the following issues are the subject of this appeal in consideration of the original petition filed appealing from the May 30, 2003 letter, petitioner's September 3, 2003 amendment to the original petition as required by the emergency regulations and stipulation by the parties (J-1):

1. Restorations not approved in the amount of $12,570,164;
2. Capital outlay;
3. Vacancies in the amount of $1,603,000;
4. Health benefits (in part);
5. Vocation program funds in the amount of $334,455;
6. Supervisory staff in the amount of $867,564; and
7. Various fund 11 accounts -- technology, school-based non-salary accounts and aid in lieu of transportation which were not approved above the 02-03 level.

With regard to the first issue on appeal, restorations in the amount of $12, 570,164, petitioner's appeal is DENIED. The maintenance standard as ordered by the Supreme Court and defined at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 clearly indicates that the restoration of programs is excluded. (Petitioner did not define the nature of this restoration. What is clear is that the denial of this restoration in the amount of $12,570,164 does not pertain to the restoration of Whole School Reform programs as set forth in the Supreme Court's Order of June 24, 2003 and as stipulated to by the parties in J-1.)

With regard to the issue of capital outlay, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c) iii provides that in applying the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must > review non-instructional programs to identify expenditures that may be funded through other funding sources.... Such expenditures include, but are not limited to, capital costs that could be funded pursuant to the Education Facilities Construction and Financing Act or that exceed the facilities efficiencies standards established pursuant to the Act....

Significant testimony was presented at the hearing with regard to Camden BOE's desire in the Spring of 2003 to use a then projected $12M surplus to purchase textbooks and for capital expenditures. The ability of Camden to use those funds and the denial by the Risk Intervention Team is not an appropriate issue before me. Both Ms. Coleman and Ms. Knox indicated that Wayne Thomas and other member of the state's Risk and Fiscal Intervention Team did not approve this expenditure in the Spring of 2003. Camden was directed to pursue other means of funding for the capital projects, e.g applying for emergent funds for maintenance issues relating to heat, applying for 13A grants for projects estimated at less than $500,000 and applying to the School Construction Corporation for other capital projects. Maintenance funding was awarded to the school district and CPI was applied. I FIND the DOE has met its initial burden with regard to this issue on appeal. However, the district has not demonstrated sufficiently that any reduction is not justified under the effective and efficient standard of a maintenance budget. The district seeks to rely on lists of projects for each respective school, initially seeking approximately $10M and later $7M. No supporting documentation for the estimates was provided at the hearing. The district was advised in the Spring that other funding sources should be considered. No credible, competent evidence was presented at the hearing which would indicate the results of those efforts. It should be noted that the district did submit some information as part of post hearing submissions to document some 13A grants that were approved. This should not be construed to indicate that Mr. Banscher's testimony was not credible. He in fact was a credible and compelling witness. His testimony regarding inoperable intercoms in a post-Columbine era is a frightening reality. The district should certainly consider applying for aid in accordance with provision 7 of the July 23, 2003 Supreme Court Order. The district's appeal on the issue of capital outlay is DENIED.

With regard to the issue of vacancies, the parties have stipulated to certain positions being funded.(J-1). As part of the Risk and Fiscal Intervention Team and under the auspices of the Municipal Rehabilitation and Economic Recovery Act, Wayne Thomas directed certain positions be the subject of Reduction in Force (RIF) or transferred. However, he directed the BOE to hire two Assistant Supervisors of Curriculum and Instruction. Those individuals were hired in January 2003. According to the testimony of Ms. Coleman, all positions funded in the 2002-2003 budget were maintained at the same level plus the contracted salary increase of 4.5% regardless if the employee was union or non-union (and not subject to that negotiated salary increase.) These were entirely new positions and not the filling of any vacancy. Thus a clear application of a "maintenance" standard would operate to not fully fund these specific two positions. I FIND that the district has demonstrated that any budgetary reduction that would operate to partially fund these two positions created at the direction of the DOE is not justified under the maintenance standard and GRANT petitioner's appeal with regard to the full funding of these two specific positions.

Petitioner indicated at the hearing that the issue of health benefits had been resolved in part but did not present any proofs with regard to any remaining outstanding issue. Ms. Coleman testified that when she drafted the May 30, 2003 letter to the district, she did not have access to any increase from the State Health Benefits Plan (SHBP). She also testified she obtained this information prior to the issuance of the August 27,2003 letter to the district and that the preliminary revised 2003-2004 budget incorporated this increase in health benefits. Therefore I FIND the DOE has met the burden with regard to this issue and DENY petitioner any further relief in this regard.

The issue of vocation program funds in the amount of $334,455 was based on the May 30,2003 letter to the district and petitioner indicated at the hearing that this "might" still be an issue. No specific proofs were presented however by petitioner and the appeal on this issue is therefore DISMISSED.

The August 27, 2003 letter to the District indicated that a review of salary expenditures for non-instructional supervisors (11-000-221-102) for fiscal year 2002-2003 found inefficient expenditures in the amount of $867,564. The determination was made based on the district's total administrative cost per pupil as reported in the March 2003 Comparative Spending Guide for the Abbott Districts. In addition, the analysis of the forensic accounting firm, Rosenfarb Winters was considered. Ms. Coleman testified that although the document listing those supervisors indicated "salary/supv of instruct/directors" (R-11), the fact that they are listed in this account code is proof that they are "non-instructional supervisors." Based on a review of these individuals' respective functions, they were each placed in this category. Ms. Coleman was a competent and very credible witness. I FIND that these employees are non-instructional supervisors. I FURTHER FIND that as such, the negative variance indicating an inefficiency of $983,837 cannot be adjusted by the favorable variance of instructional supervisor in the 223-102 account number because these positions cannot be compared and because the favorable variance in that category represents the standard for Abbott Districts and not a true number for Camden as Camden did not have any employees serving in the job functions comprising that account code. In determining the inefficiency, cost per pupil was also considered. I FIND that the conclusions reached by Rosenfarb Winters were not arbitrary or capricious and each Abbott District was evaluated based on the same criteria. Although I found Dr. Reiss to have been a sincere and credible witness, the mandate from the Supreme Court does not permit me to consider any evidence of whether Camden might be a "needier" district than other Abbott districts based on any factors, including those cited by Dr. Reiss. The growth rate calculation formula in order to calculate projected enrollment for 2003-2004 utilized by the DOE is of concern. While I FIND that Dr. Reiss' logarithmic analysis to have been based on a better statistical formula, that finding is of no import. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5(a) provides in pertinent part:

> ...Beginning in the 1998-99 school year, unless otherwise specified within this act, aid amounts payable for the budget year shall be based on budget year pupil counts, which shall be projected by the Commissioner using data from prior years. Adjustments for the actual pupil counts of the budget year shall be to State Aid amounts payable during the school year succeeding the budget year.

The statute specifically authorizes the Commissioner to project pupil counts and does not require the Commissioner to promulgate regulations regarding the creation of a growth rate calculation formula and as such, the statistical model utilized by the DOE was not required to be the subject of rulemaking. While I agree with Dr. Reiss that the DOE formula dilutes six years of enrollment figures to two points and then allows a "smoothing" so as to not penalize Camden for a year that showed a downward spike in enrollment, I may not disturb it.

As a result, I FIND the DOE has met the initial burden in this regard but the District has not demonstrated an unjustifiable budgetary reduction despite a more sound projection formula and petitioner's appeal with regard to this issue is DENIED.

Finally, with regard to the "various fund 11" accounts issue as presented in petitioner's initial petition based on the May 30, 2003, letter, I FIND that the May 30, 2003 letter specifically indicated that these accounts were not approved above the 2002-2003 level. Therefore, I FIND their provision in the preliminary revised 2003-2004 budget meets the maintenance standard and therefore petitioner's appeal on this issue is DENIED.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby GRANT petitioner's appeal seeking full funding for the two Assistant Supervisors of Curriculum and Instruction and hereby DENY the remainder of petitioner's appeal as more fully set forth above as to: restorations (not including Whole School Reform pursuant to the June 23, 2003 Supreme Court Order and the parties stipulation); capital outlay, vacancies, supervisory staff and various Fund 11 accounts. I hereby DISMISS petitioner's appeal with regard to health benefits "in part" and vocation program funds as no proofs were advanced by petitioner on those issues.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 26, 2003
DATE

Ana C. Viscomi
ANA C. VISCOMI, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

APPENDIX

Witnesses:

For Petitioner:

Annette Knox

Robert J. Banscher

Fred Reiss, PhD

For Respondent:

Allen Tyrone Dupree

Beth Ann Coleman

Keith S. Balla

Exhibits

For Petitioner:

P-1a Camden Public Schools Fiscal and Intervention Report dated July 2002 attached to Commissioner Librera's press release

P-1b December 11, 2002 status report -- Fiscal and Educational Intervention Team report

P-2a Superintendent Knox March 27, 2003 list of "Immediate Needs" for Camden schools

P-2b Knox's list of Text Books to be purchased in 2002-2003 budget

P-2c March 26, 2003 Division of Plant Services request of $10.615M to be spent from 2002-2003 budget

P-3a June 19, 2003 revision of document 2c

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4157-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 187-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Department's exception to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) recommendation with respect to inclusion of full salaries for certain positions filled part-year in 2002-03[1] was duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition. The Board filed neither exceptions nor a reply to the Department's submission.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Department's methodology in reviewing the District's budget fully comports with the "maintenance" standard, as established by the Court and implemented by regulations promulgated in accordance with P.L. 2003, c. 122. The Commissioner concurs that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2,

[1] The Department also seeks, parenthetically, to clarify its position as mentioned in the Initial Decision, page 8, footnote 1. The Department's actual position is that the Board may pursue issues related to the Department's May 30, 2003 letter, but the subject of the instant appeal is the August 27, 2003 letter determining the Board's preliminary maintenance budget and additional Abbott v. Burke State aid. (Department's Exceptions at 1, footnote) such determination being solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). However, to the extent that he may appropriately do so in an administrative proceeding, the Commissioner also opines that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, is fully consistent with the language and intent of the Court. Thus, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds the regulatory definition controlling herein, with no conflict between it and the underlying Court order.

The Commissioner further concurs, for the reasons fully set forth in the Initial Decision, that programs not provided in 2002-03, proposed capital outlay expenditures, health benefits, unspecified vocational programs, salary expenditures for noninstructional supervisors, and various "fund 11" accounts (technology, school-based non-salary accounts and aid in lieu of transportation) above 2002-03 levels, were properly excluded from the 2003-04 maintenance budget or reduced under regulatory standards of effectiveness and efficiency.[2]

However, with respect to increasing salary accounts to accommodate the filling of vacancies, the Commissioner cannot agree with the Initial Decision to the extent that it recommends, based on a "maintenance" analysis, additional funding to fill two specific all-year positions that were filled for only part of the year in 2002-03. Rather, the Commissioner notes that the Department preliminarily established the District's

[2] The Commissioner does not find issues arising from the Department's May 30, 2003 budget determination germane to the instant appeal, since the August 27, 2003 maintenance budget was developed through a superseding methodology, based on an explicit regulatory standard not in existence during the prior determination, and additionally took account of previously unavailable information. (See, for example, Initial Decision at 19-20.) However, to the extent that the ALJ permitted issues arising from the May 30 determination to be litigated in the present context, the Commissioner concurs with the Initial Decision's specific recommendations as set forth herein.

2003-04 cost of providing positions at maintenance level in a more global fashion, by determining, as nearly as possible without benefit of audit, the actual approved cost of providing positions in 2002-03 and then adjusting for the 4.5% salary increase of the current union contract. While it is true that dollar amounts actually paid out for staffing prior to June 30, 2003 will not perfectly predict the cost of providing comparable staffing in the next, it is equally true that vacancies, retirements, resignations, substitutes, part-year positions and the like occur every year, so that the Commissioner finds it entirely appropriate for a preliminary district-wide salary budget to be based on the assumption that staffing is a flexible and continuous process, with ebbs and flows that generally permit the projection of one year's overall experience onto the next. Thus, the Commissioner holds that no special consideration is warranted for two positions in particular, and he rejects the ALJ's recommendation to the contrary.[3]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted, for the reasons expressed therein, in all respects except as to its recommendation for additional salary amounts, which is rejected as set forth above. The Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[3] In this context, the Commissioner also notes the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

[4] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

584-04

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" district appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court. The District also challenged the Department's reduction, as part of its review of noninstructional expenditures for ineffectiveness or inefficiency, of 53 custodial positions.

The ALJ found that the Department appropriately applied the duly promulgated rule implementing the Court's order for "maintenance." The ALJ further upheld the Department's methodology and determination with respect to custodial positions, but suggested that, because the determination was based on older data, it be considered for adjustment based on more current figures.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision in most respects, but directed the Department to increase the number of allowed custodial positions based on the District's current, verified square footage exclusive of certain leased preschool spaces, making, however, no special allowance for "satellite" locations as requested by the District.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO.EDU 5496-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 196-6/03

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF
THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Charlotte Kitler, General Counsel, for petitioner

Allison Colsey-Eck, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 22, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

In this matter, the petitioner, the State-Operated School District of Jersey City (hereinafter the "Jersey City Board" or "Jersey City"), has appealed the August 27, 2003, letter determination of the respondent, New Jersey State Department of Education (hereinafter "DOE"), establishing the amount fixed by the DOE as Jersey City's "preliminary maintenance budget" for the 2003-2004 school year (Ex. J-5). The events leading up to that letter had their most recent genesis in March 2003 when the DOE moved before the New Jersey Supreme Court for an order modifying its decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) to limit the amount of discretionary additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) that it would be required to provide to Abbott districts in 2003-2004 in an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the district's approved budget for 2002-2003. In essence, DOE's motion sought a one year extension of the one year relaxation of remedies which the New Jersey Supreme Court granted in its ruling in "Abbott IX" (Abbot v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002)).

Subsequently, in a letter dated March 30, 2003, the DOE, applying the maintenance standard for which it was seeking approval, issued a letter to Jersey City advising the District that its expenditure budget for 2003-2004 was approved, except for certain designated areas that either did not comply with the DOE's version of "maintenance", or for which there was insufficient information for that determination to be made (Exh.J-3). In early June 2003, Jersey City appealed that determination and the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearings which, in Jersey City's case, originally were conducted by the undersigned on July 2, 3 and10, 2003. Those hearings took place, of course, while the DOE's motion for Supreme Court approval of its use of the maintenance standard it had adopted for 2003-2004 was still pending before the Court.

On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order granting the Department's application to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid for the Abbott districts and stated that the Statewide aggregate amount of "Additional" Abbott State aid was to be presumptively calculated at the total amount of Additional Abbott State aid approved for the Abbott districts for 2002-3003, as adjusted.

The Order of July 23, 2003, further provided that the DOE also could review an Abbott district's non-instructional programs to evaluate their effectiveness and efficiency, but the agency must first promulgate an emergency regulation defining the standard for evaluation. "Non-instructional" programs were defined by the Court as, "office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students".

The DOE also was directed by the July 23, 2003 Order to notify each Abbott District of its preliminary maintenance budget figures and estimated supplemental funding within 30 days. The Order further noted that if DOE's application of the "effective and efficient" standard for non-instructional programs resulted in a reduction in an Abbott district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott State aid, the DOE must include in its notification to any affected Abbott district the expenditure which the DOE was deleting and provide a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof no longer was effective and/or efficient.

The Order then went on to provide for appeals by Abbott districts and held that DOE would have the burden of "moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to a district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations." It stated that, "If that initial burden is met, the District shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard." The Order also indicated that if monies for a district's non-instructional programs were deleted under the effective and efficient standard, it could still apply for State aid "for demonstrably needed programs or services."

The OAL was allowed thirty days from the date of the DOE's revised determinations to issue initial decisions in any pending Abbott appeals. Although these determinations initially were due on August 22, 2003, the DOE received an extension of time, until August 27, 2003, to issue its determination so that the thirty days for initial decisions by the OAL began to run on that date and will terminate on September 26, 2003, unless further extended.

On August 22, 2003, consistent with the authority granted in the FY 2003 Appropriations Act, the Commissioner promulgated emergency regulations. See FY 2003 Appropriations Act, L. 2003, c. 122. In them, DOE defined "maintenance budget" as a standard for reviewing the Abbott Districts' 2003-2004 applications for additional supplemental funding as follows:

> For the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that a district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

The DOE then issued a decision on August 27, 2003, establishing a preliminary maintenance budget for Jersey City in the amount of $487,961,547 (Exs. J-1; R-2). The letter advised that the DOE had found approximately $2.1 million in "inefficient" expenditures in the employment of an excessive number (53) of custodians. Jersey City continued to pursue its appeal and an additional hearing was held on September 18, 2003. Testimony was received that day on the State's behalf from Mary Byrne, a CPA employed by the Office of Management and Budget in the Department of Treasury primarily concerned with DOE, and from Benjamin D. Rarick, DOE's Director of State-Operated School Districts, who was the person primarily involved in the review of Jersey City's 2003-2004 budget and who had testified previously in July 2003 prior to the DOE's adoption of emergent regulations. The District's sole witness on September18, 2003 was Joanne Gilman, its Business Administrator who, like Rarick, previously testified in July.

As noted, the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order, and the emergency regulations implemented pursuant to it, permitted DOE to reduce Jersey City's 2003-2004 budget by those amounts deemed to be ineffective or inefficient. Thus, in his testimony, Rarick addressed the sum of $2.1 million dollars for 53 fulltime equivalent ("FTE") positions for custodians which was deemed to be an "ineffective" expenditure for such services. Rarick explained that a guide which listed comparatively sized urban school districts ranked Jersey City 99th out of 101, making it the school district with the third highest costs in the maintenance, custodians and security category – a marker which he believed was significant. Rarick noted that a forensic accounting firm (Rosenfarb and Winters) hired by DOE to measure inefficiencies among the Abbott districts concluded that Jersey City also spent approximately $4 million more than certain "benchmark" Abbott districts, which he defined as districts which are the "median spending" and "median performing" districts. As he pointed out, while the benchmarks may not the best or most efficient districts, they represent a "middle performing group" that reasonably could be identified as representing a standard every Abbott district could meet.

Rarick also compared three reports of "industry standards" dealing with the amount of square footage a custodian should be able to maintain in a school building. He concluded from the data that a ratio of 16,100 square feet/per custodian represented the square footage per day a custodian in Jersey City should be able to maintain. Indeed, he explained he actually modified the figure slightly to account for whole numbers rather than fractions of custodians, which resulted in a slight benefit to the District. This methodology was based, in part, on a Deloitte Touche report prepared by Newark for the New York/New Jersey Zone (Ex. P-23). Rarick also compared Jersey City's costs for custodians with other large Abbott districts. He primarily compared Jersey City to Newark, and determined Jersey City was spending more per square foot on custodians than Newark ($3.22 v. $3.14). He agreed that the total square footage he used in making his calculation was based on 1999 data and did not take into account any changes or additions since then.

Another area about which Rarick testified, mainly at the July 2003 hearings, had to do with the proposed expenditure of $300,000 for radon testing. The District estimated that since the total cost of such testing would be about $600,000 ($35 per classroom), it determined to complete one-half the testing in 2003-2004, and the balance in 2004-2005. According to Rarick, he could not give a separate approval for $300,000 even though the testing was mandated to be completed by 2005 (N.J.S.A. 18A:20-40) because the funds estimated to be needed were too high in terms of cost per classroom and numbers of rooms and/or areas to be tested, and the District could request an exemption to allow its own employees to be trained to perform the testing. In any case, the monies could be found in other accounts that could be reallocated to this item and, moreover, some if not all the funds could be taken from a 2.11% CPI allowance provided by DOE for 2003-2004 which, in Jersey City's case, totaled over $712,000 (Ex. R-2).

Another area about which Rarick testified in July 2003, and which remained in issue, had to do with Jersey City's having budgeted almost a $515,000 increase for "medical provider" costs consisting of contracted increases for providers of physical examinations of students and staff and for rendering medical care for injuries. Here, too, Rarick testified that it was an amount that was capable of being funded from reallocation from other accounts and, like the radon testing expenditure, was not a "substantial built-in cost driver," such as professional salaries, health benefit premiums, utilities and the like which essentially were beyond the ability of the District to control.

Finally, both in July 2003, and to a lesser extent in September 2003, Rarick opined that his approach as the primary reviewer of Jersey City's 2003-2004 budget included a belief that the District appeared to be experiencing unwarranted increases in administrative and non-instructional areas which were beyond those for instructional purposes. As he put it, this situation was the opposite of what the DOE was hoping to achieve.

Testimony on behalf of Jersey City was offered in both July 2003 and September 2003 by its Business Administrator, Ms. Gilman, Michael Littlejohn, Director of Whole School Reform and Testing (July 2003 only), and Adele Macula, Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Development (July 2003 only). The latter two witnesses primarily had addressed what they viewed as the devastating impact that the DOE's budget limitations have on Jersey City's ability to carry out its mandate to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students.

Gilman's testimony was specific to the budget items in issue, both in July 2003 and September 2003. As to the 53 custodial reductions proposed by the DOE, she had several points to make. First, the square footage component used by Rarick is five years old. Since 1998 here have been school additions and rental of trailers and other facilities, all of which require custodial and maintenance attention. She calculated there is about 400,000 more square feet which, even using DOE's own formula, would require 320 custodians, not the 298 proposed. Moreover, the use of 16,100 square feet per custodian is too high – Jersey City uses 14,000 square feet as a standard. Thus, since Rarick used 16,100 derived from data which may or may not include public school buildings, she believed the District's square footage per custodian at least should be the same as Newark's (Exh. P-23).

Finally, Gilman stressed that Jersey City has special requirements impacting custodial services – very aged buildings (Ex. P-15) and many pre-school age children.

As to radon testing, Jersey City, she said, is mandated to complete it by 2005 (Exh. P21, P-22) and the $300,000 estimate ($35 per classroom) is within the DOE's own estimate of $20-$50. Therefore, it is not reasonable to expect the $300,000 to be taken from other accounts and/or the 2.11% CPI allowance.

Although Gilman did not directly address the "medical provider" issue at the September 2003 hearing, she did testify in July 2003 that the $515,000 represented increased costs over which the District had no control, and without the funds the District could not continue to provide the full panoply of health services needed.

The foregoing covers, I believe, the essential testimony offered at the hearings, exclusive of the philosophic points urged by the State in terms of the need to intelligently marshal available resources to first provide for critical school-based needs, and the counterpoints urged by Jersey City vis-à-vis its inability to deliver even these minimally adequate services without the full amount of funds it requested.

The threshold issue in this case is whether DOE's implementation of the emergency regulations adopted on August 22, 2003, insofar as its definition of a "maintenance budget" is concerned, was appropriate. Two administrative law judges previously have addressed the issue and both determined that any challenge to a duly adopted regulation such as N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 must be brought in the Superior Court, Appellate Division, pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2) and that no jurisdiction exists to do so at the OAL. See Board of Educ. of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. EDU 4095-03, Decision by Hon. John R. Tassini, ALJ, on Order

Relative to "Maintenance Budget" (Sept. 4, 2003); Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. State of New Jersey, Department of Education, OAL Dkt. EDU 4096-03, Decision by Hon. Joseph F. Martone, ALJ, on Order Relative to "Maintenance Budget" (Sept. 10, 2003). I agree with my colleagues for, as Judge Tassini noted:

> The OAL, created by statute, is an administrative forum for hearings on contested cases transmitted to it by administrative agencies and for issuance of IDs, containing recommended findings of fact and conclusions of law, by administrative law judges. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b),-10(c). Administrative adjudication in the OAL is governed by principles of notice, due process and fundamental fairness. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-9, -10; Juzek v. Hackensack Water Co., 48 N.J. 302, 314-315 (1966); Department of Envtl. Protection v. Stavola, 103 N.J. 425, 436 n.2 (1986). In administrative adjudication in the OAL, in the interest of equity, judicial principles such as the estoppel doctrine are applicable and safeguards include the opportunity to be heard and an opportunity for cross-examination, defense and rebuttal, which a re essential for reliable fact finding. City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1, 16-24 (1980). However, the OAL, established in the executive branch, is not a court and has no jurisdiction to determine the validity of a rule. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1; Wendling v. New Jersey Racing Comm'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 495 (App. Div. 1995) (holding that the Appellate Division and not the OAL has jurisdiction for a challenge to the validity of a rule); In re 1999-2000 Abbott Implementing Regulations, N.J.A.C. 6:19A-1.1 et seq., 348 N.J. Super. 382 (App. Div. 2002) (a previous challenge to rules implementing Abbott decisions brought in the Appellate Division). Board of Educ. of the City of Asbury Park, supra at pp. 8-9. [Emphasis added.]

Jersey City also argues that the implementing regulation's definition of "maintenance budget" is inconsistent with the July 23, 2003 New Jersey Supreme Court Order upon which it presumably is based, and to that extent it is within the province of an ALJ to make findings and recommendations as to the definition. I disagree. On its face, the DOE's methodology reasonably comports with the New Jersey Supreme Court's guidance and will not be second-guessed in this forum.

A second "legal" issue involves Jersey City's challenge to the DOE's determination that $2.1 million dollars in expenses for custodians should be deleted as being inefficient, resulting in the elimination of 53 full-time equivalent positions. Jersey City argues that reductions for "ineffective" and "inefficient" non-instructional programs means only those programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or not directly serving students in the attainment of the core curriculum content standards (N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.1). Thus, since custodians are assigned to work in or at the District's schools, they fall outside the scope of the regulation.

I disagree with this notion as well. Working in or at a school building surely is not what the Court or the DOE had in mind within the language set forth above.

Regarding the methodology used by Rarick to arrive at the $2.1 million reduction, while I might disagree with some of the source data upon which he chose to rely (industry publications vaguely described), and outdated square footage (1998 v. 2003), I cannot say that his approach was unreasonable or illogical. Although I was somewhat disturbed by the subjectivity of the system whereby different reviewers could bring different ideas to the equation, thereby possibly introducing elements inconsistent with uniformity,[1] I believe that he did the best he could given the time frame and the circumstances. Perhaps in the future uniform standards can be developed to eliminate the risk different reviewers may come to different results based on the same data.

The fact that Rarick used a 16,100 square foot average for Jersey City, whereas Newark's average is 14,000 feet, and Jersey City claimed it always used that lower figure as well, is not critical. Simply put, Jersey City was spending millions of dollars more for custodians than "benchmark" Abbott districts and a reduction on the basis of inefficiency is perfectly proper. I would suggest, however, that if time and circumstances permit, and if updated square footage figures can be verified, that the DOE consider an adjustment in that regard.

The next issue, the expenditure of $300,000 for radon testing, may be disposed of with dispatch. On its face, since no money was spent on that item in 2002-2003, none qualify for 2003-2004 approval. The testing can fully take place in 2004-2005 in compliance with statutory mandate, the District can scale back the cost (less per classroom, perhaps less classrooms since upper floors and other areas may not be implicated) and training the District's own personnel can save further funds. Finally, the CPI allowance of $712,000 also can serve as a source for partial, if not full, funding for this item.

[1] Rarick was the DOE person reviewing the Newark, Jersey City and Paterson school budgets. He conceded he did not know if other reviewers always used the same methodology he did.

The final issue has to do with the DOE's reduction of $515,000 for medical provider costs attendant to physical examinations, treating injuries, etc. Again, this is an area which the DOE's representative described as a "cost driver" which was not "so substantial" as to warrant approval of any increase. The DOE believes monies for these services can be found in other areas and reallocated if really needed. While I personally might disagree with that notion, it is not my province to second-guess the DOE's view, so long as it has a degree of reasonableness. Here, as the DOE points out, no affirmative proof to support the claim of contracted increases was provided, other physicians perhaps could be found whose rates are lower, the potential need is highly variable, and the CPI allowance can be used as a source of payment.

In reaching the decision I do in this case, which essentially is to reject Jersey City's appeal for restoration of funds beyond those the DOE concluded is adequate to support a maintenance budget for 2003-2004, I am not unmindful of the nature and extent of the special needs that school districts like Jersey City have. On the other hand, the thrust of the Abbott cases, the message they deliver, is that allocation of a possibly shrinking resource base in the area of public education funding requires a determined effort to make sure that available resources are devoted with utmost care to those needs which command primary attention – the effective delivery of educational services to the students. In that respect, Rarick made several pertinent observations during the July 2003 hearings, albeit before the new "maintenance" standard was promulgated. However, he articulated the DOE's approach to Abbott district budgets during the last few years in particular and which I believe to be instructive regardless of the standard to be used. They are (A) through (J) as follows:

(A) In developing the maintenance standard, we talked about a few things. We talked about, first of all, whether or not a cost is beyond a District's control, but secondly, also whether or not a cost is substantial enough that the districts cannot be reasonably be expected to reallocate from it.

There are, indeed - - I mean, it's a matter of degree here. There are certainly increases in the District's budget that are beyond their control, but somewhat nominal, maybe – take an example, 50,000 dollars here or there. That is not something that maintenance addressed.

What maintenance addressed are those factors that were believed to impact on the District substantially enough that we really couldn't expect the District to reallocate, given the size of the increase, and certainly the things that we've discussed that fall into that category are salary and benefits and insurance and, indeed, Special Ed, and some of those issues were part of maintenance.

Physical exams were not. So therefore, I don't feel that I can approve that amount at this time. (Tr. July 3, 2003, pp. 83-3 to 84-19).

(B) THE COURT: So, there are some cost drivers that are more substantial.

THE WITNESS: Indeed.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: And I guess - -

THE COURT: So not every - - not every built in fixed increase entitle the District to have that approved.

THE WITNESS: I believe that what it means is that there are certain cost increases that the District reasonably can't be expected to be allocated from.

You know, there - - the ones that are big enough, that are substantial enough, that are true for in conversation today, insurance, health benefits, things of this nature.

I also will say, I hasten to add, that during this process, I left myself open to consideration at any cost effort. I said, "if you bring it before me, I will consider it."

There was only - - to my knowledge, to the best of my knowledge at this point, there was only really one that I did not consider that was brought to me, and that was the argument that there were increased costs associated with the evening school program, I believe it was, that they were arguing was a cost driver, and I could not accept the argument.

I collected information on all the various areas that we talked about through the cost drivers. Physical exams did not come up, perhaps because it's such a normal cost, relatively speaking. (Tr. July 3, 2003, pp. 86-13 to 87-18.)

(C) THE COURT: Okay. So there was a - - seems to me, a lot of discretion going on here.

THE WITNESS: Discretion in terms of what's considered as part of maintenance?

THE COURT: What's considered a substantial cost driver.

THE WITNESS: Well, individually, I would argue, no, that there was not. I mean, these were not conversations I was having with myself. These were conversations that were had at the State level in terms of all right, put this on the table, insurance. How do we feel about insurance? Is it – is this something that's going to materially impact out-of-districts? We discuss it. We say, "yeah."

We're keeping – you know, keeping an informal list of those, and like I said - - you know.

THE COURT: So every district is treated the same in that regard.

THE WITNESS: Well, I can't respond. I'm going to have 27 other districts.

THE COURT: Yeah, but you just said, we'll look at, you know, what do [Abbott] districts need or what need. I mean, but Jersey City is not Paterson, is not Camden, is not Plainfield, is not Elizabeth, is not East Orange, and they are different.

THE WITNESS: They are indeed.

THE COURT: They have different needs, right?

THE WITNESS: They do.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm not trying to beat you up here, because I know, you know, you have to have some flexibility to deal with this situation. I'm just trying to understand your thinking of the concept.

THE WITNESS: And those are certainly the same questions that we entertain. You know, what's the best way to do this, and I guess, for purposes of my testimony today, I can't respond on behalf of 20 other budget managers.

I employ the maintenance standard as it was explained to me at those hearings. I can't testify as to what the other budget managers did, although I have some familiarity with it, but all I can say is I - - you know, have to apply the standard as I - -

THE COURT: Okay. (Tr., July 3, 2003, pp. 93-9 to 95-1).

(D) THE WITNESS: Okay. Again, it's the same standard that comes up over and over again. As a Budget Manager, I was not - - as your Honor pointed out, I didn't interpret this as something where I'm out these using a lot of discretion about what things were part of maintenance and what things were not.

I was confining myself to the standard that was set at the higher policy level, and increases of this nature were not part of that, for the same reasons I discussed.

The were not - - they were not something that was believed to be substantial enough that a District cannot reasonably be expected to reallocate from them. (Tr., July 7, 2003, pp. 95-20 to 96-7.)

(E) Q. (by Ms. Eck): All right. What is - - I guess, you identified in the letter "approximately 3 million for Administrative Excess."

What does that mean in your report? Or what were you disallowing?

A. Well, it's based on a determination, based on some research and some discussions with the District that based on some findings that were of significant concern to me as a Budget Manager and something that I'm – you know, it's my job to be concerned about, and that is a significant increase in administrative costs compared to instructional costs over the last two years.

During the time when we are trying to do, essentially, the exact opposite, which is that, you know, in ramping up funding, we are trying to direct more dollars to the classroom and direct less to administrative costs.

My general concern, obviously, is that if we see an increase that is substantial, that it sends - - it sends a difficult message. It sends the wrong message, and it's something that we need to take to be very vigilant about.

Given all of the concerns about the budget and given that this is a public issue, we need to be able to demonstrate that the increases in money that we're awarding are going to classroom expenses. (Tr. July 3, 2003, pp. 110-8 to 111-4).

(F) THE WITNESS: And the concern there is that indeed you heard testimony yesterday about the increases in this budget, administrative to instructional, which are not significantly overlapped.

The concern here is that there was a very substantial increase in the prior year, and we see, not necessarily – we see some leveling out, but still yet another increase.

My concern is that we just obviously were in very difficult economic times this year, but we also were last year. And we went through a budgetary cycle in which we sent out guidance to [Abbott] districts which would be, I think, R-19 and R - - I'm sorry. They're numbered sequentially here, so it's actually R-21, and this is a copy of the guidance that went out last year.

The guidance that went out to districts was "you need to be cutting and priority – cutting central office first, and cut school level stuff second."

The concern that arises when you see these administrative increases at times like this is that well, if it's true that we had testimony that the District cut in excess of 200 positions last year at the school level, and yet we saw a substantial increase in administrative costs, that's a real concern for me, because it appears to me, that that's essentially a violation of that guidance.

Now, at the time that the budget was reviewed last year, I did raise this concern. But it's important for your Honor to understand that the review that occurred last year is different than the review that is occurring this year.

Last year, because of the agreement that was sought by apparently the Law Center and all the interested parties, we used a level spending formula. Districts got the money that was entitled to them via level spending.

It did not entail the same kinds of reviews we're doing here, which is more of a line by line review.

Now, we were obviously faced with a very difficult decision last year, and it was - - I remember having this conversation. I remember having it with the District, and I remember having it with my boss, which is that we're - - here's a District that's showing a significant administrative increase, but on the other side, they've been very compliant in a sense that, in fairness to the District, they were one of the first districts to submit their budget, and they came in under level spending.

Again, as long as a district came under level spending, you know, that budget was essentially approved, okay?

So I looked at this year's budget, and I told the District – I said, "this is a concern of mine, that we would be showing these kinds of administrative increases during these difficult times, and that these are times during which we've also had classroom reduction." And that - - that doesn't necessarily jibe with the guidance that I'm aware of . . . . (Tr., July 7, 2003, pp. 111-8 to 114-9).

(G) . . . . So I took a look at the spreadsheet and, you know, I said, all right, well, I'm very - - I'm concerned about these increases. I want to - - I want to put those administrative increases back on a course that's similar to the instructional increases. (Tr., July 3, 2003, pp. 114-22 to 115-1).

(H) THE COURT: That's [Administration] 31 percent?

THE WITNESS: Right. Right. Instruction had increased only 19%. Now, again, these are years during which the guidance to the [Abbott] districts was major cuts in central and in administration before the classroom.

As I said previously, your Honor, you've heard testimony yesterday about a loss of 200 - - of more than 200 positions in the schools last year, and yet we saw these increases in administration. So that's a concern of mine. (Tr., July 3, 2003, pp. 115-18 to 116-3).

(I) THE WITNESS: So, to summarize the point, your Honor - - I mean, this only shows that I took the extra step to look at this year. It really doesn't change the argument. Really, the argument here, your Honor, is that this is certainly no reflection on anybody in the District, and I want to make that perfectly clear. But as a professional Budget Manager, working in an [Abbott] district, one of the largest [Abbott] districts, this is something we have to be concerned about.

We can't not raise this issue, as far as I'm concerned, because not to raise the issue implies that despite whatever rhetoric we raise about cutting from administration and not schools, that we're not willing to follow up on it, that we're not willing to do the extra work, and that ultimately, I think the success or failure of this - - this movement will depend on our ability to enforce rules like this, so there is.

THE COURT: Except it seems to me that, in effect, you're sort of punishing them for their past sins. You're not rewarding them for the leveling off that appeared. Is that fair to say?

When you're talking about a pattern going back, you're - - and it's true. I mean, there was a 30 percent plus increase, and I don't want to revisit that, and your explanation to that is well, that's the way we looked at it then, and we wouldn't do it there now. That's for sure. But that shows us something and so forth and so on. But they shaped up, didn't they?

THE WITNESS: That's true in part. And there's a part that I think that you need to factor in, which is that we now have information that we didn't have then, in the form of the CAFR for the fiscal year, and that tells you something, I think, material, and it tells you that there were amounts in those accounts that went unspent.

Now, is that unusual? No. It's not unusual. It happens in all [Abbott] districts, maybe not to this extent. I'm not trying to portray that there's these large sums of money in Jersey City that go unspent, but if we're going to have an administrative increase and a year in which it's made, as far as I'm concerned, plainly clear that cuts should be coming from administration and you have evidence that in a prior fiscal year, there were amounts in those accounts that went unspent, that seems to me to be a problem. (Tr., July 3, 2003, pp. 127-29 to 129-14).

(J) THE WITNESS: Okay? And these are non-salary costs above and beyond just the normal [cost] of living adjustment

THE COURT: That's where that 5 percent, that 2.11 came in before, is that it?

THE WITNESS: Exactly. So, I'm trying to distinguish – I mean, the most important thing to me is the distinguished, but this is not a dissatisfaction with the way the District does business, because I have a lot of confidence in the District.

> This is what I feel is a fulfillment of my professional responsibilities that to hold the standards that are employed and to be vigilant about administrative increases in years where we're going through very difficult times and every dollar that we get presumably needs to be directed towards those. (Tr., July 3, 2000, pp. 133-17 to 133-22).

Although, as noted, those comments by Rarick were made prior to both the Court's July 23, 2003 Order and its subsequent ruling in August 2003, as well as the DOE's adoption of the new emergency regulations, they reflect the DOE's consistent approach to what Abbott districts should be doing in terms of managing their budgets in such a way as to emphasize classroom needs. Thus, if too many instructional positions had to be eliminated, perhaps closer attention could and should be given to finding funds in other accounts which could be reallocated to save those jobs. Hopefully, the somewhat Draconian maintenance standard to be used for 2003-2004 is not fixed in stone, and when and if the strictures are relaxed it is expected that funds made available to Abbott districts will be spent in areas where they can do the most good even though the process may be fiscally if not politically painful. That, however, is Rarick's (and DOE's) message to Jersey City, a call for fiscal prudence and an emphasis on school based needs that must be honored to the greatest possible extent regardless of the funding mechanism employed and regardless of finely tuned definitions. If that is the price to be paid for effectively implementing the State Constitution's imperative, so be it.

Thus, for the reasons set forth above, I ORDER that the determination made by the DOE with respect to Jersey City's 2003-2004 budget, as set forth in Assistant Commissioner MacInnes' letter of August 27, 2003, be AFFIRMED and the appeal be DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 26, 2003
DATE

STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

September 26, 2003
DATE
mvh

APPENDIX

Witness List:

For Petitioner

Joanne Gilman
Michael Littlejohn
Adele Macula

For Respondent

Benjamin D. Rarick
Mary Byrne

Exhibit List:

J-1	Proposed 2003-2004 Jersey City School District budget
J-2	Jersey City Public Schools' application for Additional Supplemental Aid for 2003-2004, dated March 4, 2003
J-3	Letter dated May 30, 2003 from Gordon MacInnes, Assistant Commissioner to Dr. Charles T. Epps, State District Superintendent of Schools
J-4	Department of Education answers to interrogatories, June 30, 2003
J-5	Letter dated August 27, 2003 from Gordon MacInnes, Assistant Commissioner to Dr. Charles T. Epps, State District Superintendent
P-1	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools Student Statistics
P-2	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools 2003-2004 Budget
P-3	Jersey City Public Schools Budget Comparison
P-4	Jersey City Public Schools Vacancy Report, May 1, 2003

P-5	Chart of Effect of Funding on Academic Performance and PS-30 ESPA Language Arts Proficiency (1999-2002)
P-6	Chart of PS-30 Effect of Funding on Academic Performance ESPA Mathematics, (1999-2002)
P-7	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools PS-30 ESPA Language Arts Proficiency, etc. (1999-2002)
P-8	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools P-30 ESPA Mathematics Proficiency (1999-2000)
P-9	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools ESPA Language Arts Proficiency (1999-2002)
P-10	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools ESPA Mathematics Proficiency (1999-2002)
P-11	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools GEPA Language Arts Proficiency (1999-2003)
P-12	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools GEPA Mathematics Proficiency (1999-2003)
P-13	New Jersey DOE Core Curriculum Content Standards, adopted July 2, 2002
P-14	New Jersey Assessment of Skills and Knowledge Parent, Student and Teacher Information Manual, Spring 2003
P-15	Five Year Elementary/Middle School/High School Curriculum Cycle with Approved Text Book/Curriculum Detail Charts
P-16	Chart of Proposed Text Book/Technology District Adoptions (2003-2004)
P-17	Letter dated July 2, 2003 from Senior Deputy Attorney General Michelle Lyn Miller to Acting Director and Chief ALJ Jeff S. Masin, with attachment
P-18	Chart of Jersey City Public Schools 2002-2003 Budget, Central Office Reductions
P-19	Chart re selected accounts in Administrative Cost Analysis(2001-2002 through 2003-2004)
P-20	Calculation by Ms. Gilman of Maintenance Budget
P-21	Memorandum dated January 29, 2003 from Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner to Chief School Administrators and Business Administrators

P-22	Memorandum dated September 5, 2003 from Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner to Chief School Administrators and Business Administrators
P-23	Extract from DeLoitte Study re Industry Standards for Custodians
P-24	(For Identification) Jersey City Public Schools Custodian/square foot comparison
P-25	Chart of age of Jersey City Public School buildings
R-1	Extract from Jersey City Public Schools Professional Development Plan, 2003-2004, p. 66
R-2	OMB budget calculation used for August 27, 2003 letter

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5496-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 196-6/03

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The District's exception to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) recommendation with respect to custodial positions,[1] and the Department's reply, were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Department's methodology in reviewing the District's budget fully comports with the "maintenance" standard, as established by the Court and implemented by regulations promulgated in accordance with P.L. 2003, c. 122. The Commissioner concurs that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, such determination being solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976);

[1] The District reserves its objections to the Department's definition of "maintenance budget" and "school-based positions," but concedes that these "will not be resolved in the District's favor unless and until court action is taken on appeal." (District's Exceptions at 1-2)

Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n., 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). However, to the extent that he may appropriately do so in an administrative proceeding, the Commissioner also opines that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, is fully consistent with the language and intent of the Court. Thus, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds the regulatory definition controlling herein, with no conflict between it and the underlying Court order.

The Commissioner further concurs that the Department used an entirely lawful and reasonable approach in concluding that the District's custodial costs were excessive under standards of inefficiency and ineffectiveness. Notwithstanding that concurrence, however, the Commissioner is also persuaded that some adjustment to the Department's calculation is warranted based on the availability on record (Exhibits P-24 and P-25) of significantly updated and, apparently, undisputed square footage figures. In its exceptions, the District urges the Commissioner to make the adjustment suggested by the ALJ by applying the Department's methodology to current square footage and building configuration figures (Exhibit P-24, page 5), so as to restore 22 of the 53 custodial positions eliminated by the Department for a total budget increase of $871,706. (District's Exceptions at 3-4) This calculation, however, takes special account of custodians assigned to cover "satellite" locations ("extra sites" in P-24), a circumstance which the District believes to warrant positions over and above those generated by the District's square footage figure. Because the Commissioner does not find adequate support in the record for this contention, he finds, instead, that the appropriate resolution is to have the Department apply its formula to the District's current, verified square footage exclusive of leased preschool space receiving custodial funding through Early Childhood, taking account of partial positions with the requisite increase in fulltime equivalent positions (FTEs) but with no additional allowance for "satellite" coverage. Based on the information provided in Exhibit P-24, this would appear, subject to the requisite deduction of the aforementioned preschool space and verification of square footage figures, to generate approximately 318 positions, or 20 more than allowed by the Department. Such adjustment, in the Commissioner's view, should amply enable the District to meet its legitimate custodial needs in accordance with appropriate Department standards of effectiveness and efficiency.[2]

Finally, the Commissioner concurs with, and the District appears to accept, the ALJ's analysis and conclusion upholding the Department's exclusion of costs for radon testing, which may be deferred until 2004-05 and scrutinized for greater savings, and for a medical provider, for which the potential need is variable and costs may be absorbed by efficiencies and the increase in the District's budget attributable to Consumer Price Index (CPI) allowances.[3]

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law is modified with respect to its recommended upholding of the Department's full reduction in custodial positions, but adopted in all other respects. The Petition of Appeal is dismissed, except as to the Department's restoration of 20

[2] In so holding, the Commissioner is unpersuaded by the Department's Reply submission, which urges the Commissioner to uphold the full amount of the Department's reduction, reasoning that, regardless of the square footage used, it is clear that the District's "custodial cost center" reflects inefficiency. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 1-3) Indeed, the Commissioner notes that his determination herein appears consistent with the position taken by the Department in its Post-hearing Brief at 17.

[3] In this context, the Commissioner also notes the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

custodial positions, subject to preschool adjustment and verification of square footage, as set forth above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[4] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

586-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court.

ALJ determined that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions and adopted the Initial Decision.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4093-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 197-6/03

TRENTON BOARD OF EDUCATION,

MERCER COUNTY

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., (Richard E. Shapiro, L.L.C.) for Petitioner, Trenton Board of Education

Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for Respondent, New Jersey Department of Education (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 25, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter involves an appeal by the Trenton Board of Education, the operator of an urban special needs "Abbott" school district, from the New Jersey State Department of Education's initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget. N.J.S.S. 18A:7F-3; N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.1 et seq.

On March 24, 2003, the Department moved before the Supreme Court for an order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). See also Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX). The Department requested that the discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) that it would otherwise be required to provide to Abbott districts in 2003-2004 be limited to an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003.

On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center (ELC) cross-moved for an order setting an expedited schedule for the Department's decisions on the respective districts' budgets and requiring the DOE to conduct a formal evaluation of the implementation of Whole School Reform (WSR), etc. On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court ordered the Department and the ELC to participate in mediation before the Hon. Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D., to attempt to resolve the issues raised by their motions.

With the exception of the 2003-2004-budget process, the mediation before Judge Carchman resolved all of the issues raised. Therefore, the Department's motion for an order extending by an additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX remained outstanding. The parties then agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals, beginning with the Department's reviews and approvals of districts' budgets by May 30, 2003. The Districts' appeals from the Department's reviews were to be transmitted to the OAL, where administrative law judges (ALJs) were to issue initial decisions (IDs) within 50 days of the appeals. The Commissioner of Education was to issue final decisions within 25 days of the IDs. On May 20, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect until further order of the Court.

On May 30, 2003, the Department issued its decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets. In this particular case, a letter from Gordon MacInnes, Assistant Commissioner, Division of Abbott Implementation, notified Dr. James H. Lytle, Superintendent of the Trenton School District, that the Department had completed its initial review and, with certain exceptions specified in the letter, approved the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget. On June 5, 2003, the district filed its Verified Petition of Appeal with the Department. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department, in turn, transmitted the contested case to the OAL, where it was filed on June 9, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). The Department filed its Answer directly with the OAL on June 12, 2003.

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument on the Department's motion for an order extending the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. On July 1, 2003, the Department filed an additional motion seeking an order amending the schedule for processing the appeals to allow the Court to rule on the standard to be applied in the appeals before hearings were commenced and initial decisions were issued. On July 10, 2003, the Supreme Court heard oral argument on the budget process and on July 23, 2003, issued an Order granting the Department's motion and relaxing Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) remedies as they applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. In so doing, the Court ordered the following:

> 1. The DOE's application to extend the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott V is granted as follows: The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order.
>
> 2. The Statewide aggregate amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid shall be presumptively calculated as the total amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid approved for the Abbott districts for Fiscal Year 2002-2003, subject to adjustment as required for a maintenance budget. A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.

3. For purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.) Insofar as any Abbott district has not been informed of its total amount of last year's approved Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid, the DOE shall provide written notice of that amount within two weeks of the date of this Order. The DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard in its review of a district's maintenance school budget may result in a reduction to a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

4. Within 30 days of the issuance of this Order, the DOE shall provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget. If the DOE deletes an expenditure from a district's 2002-2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs and based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must include in the written notice to the district the expenditure deleted along with a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient.

5. Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.

6. The Order of the Court dated July 7, 2003, modifying the Court's scheduling Order of May 20, 2003 in order to provide the [OAL] thirty days within which to determine and issue initial decisions in the twenty-three pending budget appeals, is hereby superseded by this Order. The [OAL] shall issue initial decisions on district appeals from the DOE's preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year within 30 days of the dates of those decisions as set forth in Paragraph 4 of this Order.

7. To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the districts' non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott > district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

The Supreme Court also set a schedule for new departmental decisions on supplemental funding and the administrative appeal and hearing process and ordered the Department to promulgate emergency regulations governing the process. Relying on the Court's Order and the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act, the Department then promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1 et seq., including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, -3.1, -4.2, and -4.7. Among these emergency regulations that became effective August 22, 2003, and expire June 30, 2004, is N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, which defines a "maintenance budget" as follows:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

The school district contends that the definition of "maintenance budget" found in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is contrary to the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order; that its maintenance budget should be considered its approved 2002-2003 budget; and that it is not limited to expenditures for actually provided programs, positions, or services, plus non-discretionary expenditures. In other words, the district contends that to the extent the definition of the rule is contrary to the Supreme Court's order, it is inapplicable in the proceedings in the Office of Administrative Law, where the appeal will be heard.

The Department's position is that the regulation's definition of "maintenance budget" is consistent with the Supreme Court's order. It also argues that the district's contention is essentially a challenge to the regulation and that, consistent with R. 2:2-3(a)(2), such a challenge must be brought in the Appellate Division. Since their adoption, no challenges to the regulations have been appropriately filed and the regulations have not been held invalid. Consequently, the OAL lacks jurisdiction to consider the issue and the emergency regulation is the applicable standard in this and any other Abbott cases presently pending in the OAL.

FINDINGS OF FACT

By letter dated September 22, 2003, Mr. Shapiro stated that he agreed with Senior Deputy Attorney General Miller that the factual issues in this matter had been resolved. Therefore, "the only remaining issue in this case is Trenton's claim that Your Honor should follow the Supreme Court's definition of maintenance budget instead of the contrary definition in the DOE regulations." He also asked that the DOE's revised letter of September 22, 2003, and the attached budget maintenance worksheet be appended to the initial decision. No objection having been raised, the request has been granted and the letter and worksheet are appended as Exhibits P-1 and P-2, respectively.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

In Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU 4095-03, the Hon. John R. Tassini, ALAJ, entered an Order Relative to Maintenance Budget (September 4, 2003). In that Order, Judge Tassini found that the school district's contention concerning the definition of "maintenance budget" found in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 was essentially a challenge to the validity of the emergency regulation itself. Relying on R. 2:2-3(a)(2), he further found that any such challenge of an administrative agency's regulation should have been and could only be brought in the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

Judge Tassini went on to explain that the OAL is an administrative forum for hearings on contested cases transmitted by administrative agencies. ALJs, in turn, are called upon to hear these cases and issue Initial Decisions containing recommended findings of fact and conclusions of law. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b), -10(c). However, since the OAL was created by statute and placed in the executive branch, it is not technically a court and has no jurisdiction to determine the validity of a rule. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1; Wendling v. New Jersey Racing Comm'n, 279 N.J. Super.

477, 485 (App. Div. 1995) (it is the Appellate Division and not the OAL that has jurisdiction to hear a challenge to the validity of a rule). See also In re 1999-2000 Abbott Implementing Regulations, N.J.A.C. 6:19A-1.1 et seq., 348 N.J. Super. 382 (App. Div. 2002) (previous challenge to rules implementing Abbott decisions brought in the Appellate Division). He therefore concluded that the school district's challenge to the validity and applicability of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 could not be heard in the OAL and that the regulation as promulgated had to be applied in these cases.

While acknowledging that his opinion was not dispositive of the issue, Judge Tassini further opined that the Court's Order of July 23, 2003 "appears to provide a reasonable basis for N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's 'maintenance budget' definition" and did not see "a basis for invalidating the regulation." It therefore followed that "application of the regulation appears to be consistent with the Order."

Having had an opportunity to review Judge Tassini's Order Relative to "Maintenance Budget" and the legal authorities cited therein, I am in full agreement with his analysis and do not believe it necessary, nor do I intend, to reexamine that issue. I therefore CONCLUDE that the legal principles enunciated by Judge Tassini in Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, supra, OAL Docket No. EDU 4095-03, are applicable to this matter and adopted in this Initial Decision.

Nevertheless, the district asserts that it is not seeking to have the OAL overturn the emergency regulation. Rather, it characterizes this matter as one involving a choice of law, that is, whether to apply the Supreme Court's explicit definition of "maintenance budget" or the different regulatory definition adopted by the Department in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. It is the district's contention that the Supreme Court has, in its many Abbott decisions, been quite clear that all budget disputes related to the implementation of its Abbott remedies should be initially adjudicated by the OAL. Therefore, it is the responsibility of the OAL to assess whether the Department has properly implemented the Abbott educational remedies and mandates, and that the legal authority set forth in the Supreme Court's Order is binding on the OAL in carrying out its duty.

The district's argument would be more persuasive were it not for the fact that the regulatory definition of "maintenance budget" adopted by the DOE does not differ in any significant way from the definition of "maintenance budget" set forth in the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, and I so FIND. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that I need not determine whether to follow the dictates of the Supreme Court on the one hand, or the direction of the DOE on the other, as the district would have me do.

In its Order of July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court states, "During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order." The Court then expressly states that "Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003." Read together, these provisions make it abundantly clear that programs, positions, or services must already be in existence if they are to be included in the maintenance budget.

The Supreme Court also stated:

> A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures.

If the district's interpretation of this language is correct, the word "current" must be viewed as referring to, describing and modifying the word "approved." Therefore, any programs, services, and positions that are currently approved, even if not yet in existence, are to be funded. However, as the Hon. Joseph Martone stated in his Order Relative to "Maintenance Budget" in Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Docket No. 4096-03, (September 10, 2003), "the word 'current' is more properly viewed as referring to, describing and modifying the words 'programs, services, and positions.'" Judge Martone therefore found that the Supreme Court intended that the programs, services, and positions are to be current, that is, currently in existence. I totally agree and therefore CONCLUDE as did he that the use of the adjective "current" rather than the adverb "currently" implies that the programs, services, and positions must be in existence in order to be funded.[1]

Still, the district argues that in describing the Department's required notice to the districts, the Supreme Court stated that the notice must contain "preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget." In other words, it was the Court's intention that the preliminary maintenance budget figures would encompass funding for the "currently approved" programs, services and positions in the 2002-2003 school year.

However, that provision is but one small part of a much larger whole. The focus of that provision appears to be on the "supplemental funding" necessary to support and maintain those programs, services and positions already in place under the 2002-2003 budget. Stated another way, "supplemental funding" relates to the non-discretionary expenses such as raises or escalator clauses associated with currently existing programs, services and positions for which the district is contractually obligated. I therefore once again CONCLUDE that the programs must already be implemented, the services provided, and positions filled in order to be funded.

The language ultimately adopted by the Supreme Court to define "maintenance budget" is also reflective of the language contained in the Department's proposal attached to the Report of The Abbott Mediation (Order of April 29, 2003). The language proposed by the Department is as follows:

> Maintenance means that a district will be funded at a level that will enable it to continue implementing the current approved programs, services and positions and therefore includes actual documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures.
>
> [Emphasis added.]

[1] As Judge Martone explained, the words "current" and "approved" are both adjectives in form, and adjectives are used to modify nouns. Adverbs such as the word "currently" are used to modify verbs, adjectives or other adverbs. Thus, under the generally accepted rules of grammar, the adjective "current" cannot be considered to be a modification of the word "approved," but can only be considered a modification of the terms "programs, services, and positions".

The Department's proposed language expressly provides that if the approved programs, services and positions are to be continued, they must be currently in existence in order that their continued implementation may be enabled through funding. I CONCLUDE that the language ultimately used by the Supreme Court to define "maintenance" is entirely consistent with the DOE's proposal.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I CANNOT FIND that the definition of "maintenance budget" found in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is inconsistent with the definition established by the Supreme Court in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003. Having made that finding, I CONCLUDE that the Supreme Court's Order provided a reasonable basis for the Department's definition. I therefore further CONCLUDE that the Department's application of the definition of "maintenance budget" found in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 was appropriate.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Department of Education's action in applying the definition of "maintenance budget" found in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 in its review and approval of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget be and is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 26, 2003 — DATE

ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9-26-03

DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9-26-03

DATE

/lam

APPENDIX

WITNESSES

For Petitioner:

None

For Respondent:

None

EXHIBITS

For Petitioner:

P-1 Letter from Gordon MacInnes to Dr. James H. Lytle dated September 22, 2003

P-2 Budget Maintenance Worksheet

For Respondent:

None

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4093-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 197-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-2004 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Trenton's exceptions and the Department's reply thereto were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine, directly or indirectly, the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n., 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to determine "a choice of law" as argued by the District, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C.

6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003. Consequently, the Department's application of such regulatory definition in its review and approval of the District's 2003-2004 budget is wholly appropriate.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

* Pursuant to P.L. 2003, *c.*122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

587-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ASBURY PARK, MONMOUTH COUNTY, PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court. The District challenged the inefficiencies identified by the respondent; namely, supervisors of instruction, legal fees and noncertificated staff.

The ALJ determined, by interim Order dated September 4, 2003, that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. In these proceedings, the ALJ found: (1) costs relative to legal expenses should be deleted from the District's budget, as proposed by respondent; and (2) the costs relative to noncertificated staff should not be deleted from the District's budget. The District withdrew its appeal relative to supervisors of instruction. ALJ also determined that a 3.00 percent Consumer Price Index (CPI) is applicable to the District's budget.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions with respect to the inefficiencies identified by respondent. However, the Commissioner determined that a CPI adjustment of 2.11 percent was properly applied and that petitioner did not demonstrate that the adjustment for preschool expansion aid was "double counted" on the Department's 2003-04 calculations.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4095-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 199-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION

OF THE CITY OF ASBURY PARK,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record closed: September 25, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park (school district or district), operator of an urban special needs "Abbott district" school system, applies to the Department of Education (DOE) for aid for the 2003-2004 school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 "Abbott district."

The New Jersey Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order states, "The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts." Abbott v. Burke, __ N.J. __, 2003 WL 21700375, at *1 (July 23, 2003) (emphasis added). That is, during 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in the Order and in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.1 to -4.7, the regulations promulgated pursuant to the Order and the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act. The "maintenance budget" is to fund a district sufficiently to implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore the maintenance budget includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 "maintenance budget." "Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003." Abbott v. Burke, __ N.J. __, 2003 WL 21700375, at *2 (July 23, 2003). Abbott districts may appeal from the DOE's notices of preliminary reductions to budgets, etc., and such appeals are heard here in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.7. In such appeals, the DOE bears the burden of moving forward "to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard" set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c), and, if that initial burden is met, the district bears the "burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard." N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.7(a)(3).

The DOE issued a "Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award," stating that it reduced or deleted some of the school district's proposed expenditures related to (1) "Supervisors of Instruction," (2) "Legal Fees," and (3) "Non-Certificated Staff." R-1. The school district appealed, identifying issues. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.7. Each of the parties contends that it has met its respective burden.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 24, 2003, the DOE moved before the Supreme Court for an order modifying the remedies ordered in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). The DOE requested that the discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) that it would be required to provide to Abbott districts in 2003-2004 be limited to providing support for those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center (ELC) cross-moved for an order setting an expedited schedule for the DOE's decisions on districts' budgets and requiring the DOE to conduct a formal evaluation of the implementation of Whole School Reform (WSR), etc. On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court ordered the DOE and the ELC to participate in mediation before the Hon. Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D., to attempt to resolve issues raised by their motions.

Mediation resolved all issues except the 2003-2004 budget process, so the DOE's motion for an order extending by an additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX), remained outstanding. However, the parties agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals, beginning with the DOE's reviews and approvals of districts' budgets by May 30, 2003. Districts' appeals from the DOE's reviews were to be transmitted to the OAL, where administrative law judges (ALJs) were to expeditiously issue initial decisions (IDs), and, thereafter, the DOE's Commissioner was to expeditiously issue final decisions. On May 20, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect under further order of the Court.

The districts submitted their budgets and the DOE issued initial reviews on them. In this case, by letter dated May 30, 2003, the DOE's Assistant Commissioner for Abbott Implementation notified the district that the DOE had completed its initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget dated May 5, 2003, that the expenditure budget had passed all required edit checks with no errors, and that the budget was approved except as noted in the letter. On June 5, 2003, the district's verified petition of appeal was filed with the Department. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The DOE transmitted the contested case to the OAL, where it was filed on June 9, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On June 12, 2003, the Department's answer was filed in the OAL. The attorneys and I held several conferences on issues and schedules, including schedules for discovery. (Based on the Supreme Court's orders, the schedules for discovery were adjusted.)

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument on the DOE's motion for an order extending the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. On July 1, 2003, the DOE moved for an order amending the schedule for processing the appeals to allow the Court to rule on the standard in the appeals to the OAL before hearings and issuance of IDs.

On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court issued the above-quoted Order, granting the DOE authority to treat the 2003-2004 school year as a maintenance year; requiring the DOE to promulgate regulations for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid; and setting an expedited schedule for new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and governing the administrative appeal and hearing process, etc.

On August 22, 2003, the DOE promulgated the regulations governing processing of the Abbott cases relating to the 2003-2004 budgets and issued notices to the districts relative to their budgets. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.1 to -4.7.

On August 27, 2003, the DOE issued the "Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid." R-1. By letter dated August 28, 2003, the district identified the issues that it was appealing: (1) Did the DOE properly calculate the district's maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year? (2) Did the DOE properly reduce or delete funding for supervisors of instruction? (3) Did the DOE properly reduce or delete funding legal services? (4) Did the DOE properly reduce or delete funding for non-certificated staff in the district? (5) Did the DOE properly determine the district's estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid? N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.7.

During the case's August 28, 2003, prehearing conference, the district contended that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition is inconsistent with the Supreme Court's June 23, 2003, Order, so that the regulation should not be applied. In response to my question, the district advised me that it had not challenged the regulation in court pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2), and it did not know of any other party that had challenged the regulation in court.

The parties submitted briefs, and on September 4, 2003, I issued an order with the following conclusions. The district's contention was essentially a challenge to the regulation. Pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2), a challenge to a regulation should be filed in the Superior Court, Appellate Division. The OAL is part of the executive branch and not a court and I do not have jurisdiction to ignore and essentially invalidate a rule. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1; see Wendling v. New Jersey Racing Comm'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995); see also In re 1999-2000 Abbott Implementing Regulations, N.J.A.C. 6:19A-1.1 et seq., 348 N.J. Super. 382 (App. Div. 2002), where a previous challenge to rules implementing an Abbott decision was brought in the Appellate Division. Although my determination was not dispositive, it appeared to me that the June 23, 2003, Order did provide a basis for N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition. I would apply the regulation in this case.

On September 15, 2003, the case was heard and, as detailed below, on the hearing record, the school district withdrew from its appeal the issue related to "Supervisors of Instruction" and agreed that $127,534 was eliminated from its maintenance budget. R-1. The hearing was to continue to allow the DOE to present its witness to support admission into evidence of the Rosenfarb Winters, LLC, report. R-21. However, the district withdrew its objection to admission of the report and the district submitted an exhibit in support of its contention that the consumer price index (CPI) for Northern New Jersey is applicable to the district's budget. P-9. I submitted my draft findings of fact and conclusions of law to the attorneys and invited them, as part of their written summations, to notify me of any mistake or omission in the draft, and, thereafter, I received the written summations with suggested corrections, etc. I then notified the parties of my findings of fact and requested that the DOE submit calculations consistent with my findings and conclusions. With the submission of the calculations, the record was closed and I show the calculations in the "Conclusions of Law" below. I thank the DOE staff for this submission and note that its submission does not constitute any admission or waiver.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Evaluation of Operational Efficiency and Effectiveness of Abbott School Districts

The DOE engaged Rosenfarb Winters, LLC (Rosenfarb) to assist in evaluation of the operational efficiency and effectiveness of the Abbott school districts (Abbotts) related to non-instructional expenses and Rosenfarb prepared a report in that regard.

The Rosenfarb report noted that the July 23, 2003 Order required that DOE promulgate regulations establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the Abbotts' non-instructional programs. Rosenfarb analyzed information and data supplied by the DOE for the 2001 to 2003 fiscal years. Rosenfarb prepared a report with a model of generally efficient spending districts as "Standards" or "Benchmarks." R-21. On the basis of the Benchmarks, Rosenfarb identified inefficient and ineffective non-instructional spending for the 2002-2003 school year budgets.

The Rosenfarb report for the Asbury Park district includes the following exhibits: (1) "Asbury Park District Inefficient Spending on Non-Instructional Expenses by Object Code in Total Dollars"; (2) "Appealing Abbott School Districts Non-Instructional Spending Inefficiencies, 2002-2003 Budgeted Average Cost per Pupil by Object Code"; (3) "Appealing Abbott School Districts Non-Instructional Spending Inefficiencies Comparison of 2003 Budget to 2003 Anticipated Actual for Non-Instructional Costs"; (4) "Appealing Abbott School Districts Non-Instructional Spending Inefficiencies Calculation of Benchmark Cost per Pupil by Object Code"; (5A) "2000-01 ESPA LA General Student Proficiency Rates by Total Annual Non-Instructional Spending Per Pupil"; (5B) "2001-02 ESPA LA General Student Proficiency Rates by Total Annual Non-Instructional Spending Per Pupil"; (5C) "2001-02 ESPA LA Total Student Proficiency Rates by Annual Non-Instructional Spending Per Pupil"; (A) a statement that the report was prepared under the direction of Keith S. Balla, CPA and PSA, Sam Rosenfarb, CPA, CFE, CVA, CBA, ABV, and others; (B) the résumé of Mr. Balla; (C) the July 23, 2003, Order; and (D) the Uniform Minimum Chart of Accounts (Handbook 2R2) for New Jersey Public Schools, effective July 1, 1993. R-21.

Mr. Balla received a bachelor of science degree in accounting from Rutgers University and is a certified public accountant (CPA). He has more than twenty years' experience in private industry and public accounting and is a partner in Rosenfarb. He has mastered auditing and investigative accounting and he has been extremely successful in utilizing those skills for state, county and numerous local public entities. R-21.

The Rosenfarb report states:

> The Benchmark Abbotts were developed based upon our analysis of two criteria, i.e., their non-instructional spending, and the results of their Elementary School Proficiency Assessment – Language Arts ("ESPA LA") fourth grade reading tests. The most efficient Abbott districts were those that incurred the lowest level on non-instructional expense while achieving the highest test results. Rather than selecting the most efficient districts as representative of "generally efficient spending," we selected those four districts that were consistently in the middle of the range for all Abbott districts – Elizabeth, Gloucester, Long Branch and the Phillipsburg school districts. Therefore, the spending efficiency of all of the Abbotts is compared to a mid-range level of spending of an Abbott district, making the Benchmark Abbotts a fair and reasonable indication of generally efficient spending.
>
> Based on the report herewith, our education, skill, expertise, training, experience and knowledge, the 2002-2003 school year budgets for each of the Abbotts include inefficient and ineffective non-instructional spending as identified in the accompanying Exhibits.
>
> The accompanying Exhibits include the results of our calculation and application of the Standards. We recognize that each Abbott district is unique, however, their individual characteristics were not taken into account in the development of the Standards. We recommend that further investigation and review be conducted to determine the causes of ineffectiveness and inefficiencies and to determine the appropriateness of additional reductions in order to limit waste, conserve assets and eliminate inefficiency and ineffectiveness.
>
> [R-21.]

The "Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke Aid"

The DOE's August 27, 2003, "Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award" for the Asbury Park school district states:

Pursuant to the July 23, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court of New Jersey in Abbott v. Burke, the Department has determined that your district's preliminary maintenance budget figure for the 2003-2004 school year is $65,045,366 inclusive of the district's General Fund Budget and restricted ECPA and DEPA revenue accounts. This number reflects the instructional and non-instructional programs approved and provided in the 2002-2003 school year and includes increases to the 2002-2003 budget to reflect non-discretionary costs and adjustments to the 2002-2003 budget based on actual 2002-2003 expenditures as informed by information provided by the accounting firm retained by the Treasurer to review your district's financial information. A copy of the information provided by that accounting firm is available upon request.

In addition, the Department has reviewed the expenditures in your 2002-2003 budge related to your district's non-instructional programs in light of the effective and efficient standard established by the Commissioner in emergency regulations. These regulations can be accessed at www.nj.gov/njded/code/title6a/chap10/. Listed below are the expenditures reduced or deleted and a statement explaining why the reduction or deletion was made:

[1] Supervisors of Instruction – The Department of Education reviewed expenditures for administrative salaries in the district for the fiscal year 2002-2003 and found inefficient expenditures for supervisors of instruction in an amount equal to $127,534. This finding is consistent with an independent analysis performed by a forensic accounting firm in which Abbott district "benchmarks" were established that represent a reasonable expenditure for various types of school district costs. The "benchmark" per pupil expenditure for supervisors of instruction is $193 per pupil, while the accounting firm determined that Asbury Park spent $341 per pupil, an amount that exceeded the "benchmark" amount by $149. Asbury Park's total spending for supervisors of instruction in 2002-2003 was determined to be $1,154,936. This amount exceeds total "benchmark" spending (enrollment multiplied by $149) by $502,802. After reducing spending for supervisors of instruction by $127,534, the amount for supervisors of instruction is $1,004,936, an amount that exceeds 'benchmark" spending by $352,802. This amount is still significantly higher than the average pupil spending for supervisors of instruction in "benchmark" Abbott districts.

[2] Legal Fees – The Department of Education reviewed legal fee expenditures for the district for the fiscal year 2002-2003 and found inefficient expenditures for Legal Services in an amount equal to $350,000. This finding is partially based on actual expenditures at June 30, 2003 compared with the amount of legal fees appropriated in the district's 2003-2004 budget. This finding is also consistent with an August 2003 report by the Department of Education in which DOE auditors from the Division of School Finance and the Office of Compliance found the district's legal counsel using billing practices that failed to identify specific legal services for which they were being paid. Further, this finding is also based on an independent analysis performed by the forensic accounting firm that determined $34 per pupil to be a reasonable, "benchmark" expenditure for legal services. By reducing the district's approved expenditures for legal fees by $350,000, the Department has decreased the approved amount for legal services expenditures from $755, 986 ($223 per pupil) to $405,986 ($120 per pupil), an amount of which is still significantly higher than the average "benchmark" spending of $34 per pupil. Based on Department of Education budget data, a comparison of per pupil expenditures for Legal Services among Abbott districts indicates that Asbury Park is the highest spending district.

[3] Non-Certificated Staff – The Department of Education reviewed expenditures for on-certificated staff for the fiscal year 2002-2003 and found inefficient expenditures for the salaries for such staff in an amount equal to $1,591,000. The low student-teacher ratio in Asbury Park indicates that there is a sufficient number of teachers to perform the on-instructional classroom tasks, that are typically performed by non-certified staff in districts with large class sizes. In Asbury Park the class sizes are low and there is no basis for maintaining the high level of spending for non-certified staff who are not directly involved with instruction. Spending for non-certificated staff throughout the Asbury Park School District was approximately $5,000,000 in 2002-2003. A comparison of Abbott district expenditures for non-certificated staff indicates that Asbury Park is among the highest spending Abbott districts.

Based on the revenues available to your district for 2003-2004 and the reductions to the maintenance budget identified above, your district's estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbot v. Burke State Aid is determined to be $8,742,709. A revised 2003-2004 budget, consistent with this letter, must be provided to the Department no later than September 26, 2003. It should be noted that the preliminary maintenance budget and the estimated need for discretional Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid will be subject to further adjustment after submission by your district of the 2002-2003 CAFR.

[R-1.]

As detailed below, the district has withdrawn its appeal relative to "Supervisors of Instruction." R-1.

The DOE's and the District's Spreadsheets and Calculations Compared

The DOE's initial budget spreadsheet calculations, dated August 27, 2003, are shown below on the left and the district's initial budget spreadsheet calculations are shown below on the right. See R-2; P-7. Note that Pre-School Expansion Aid is identified as "PSEA."

Budget: 2002-2003

Line #:		DOE's Calculations	District's Calculations
9470	Approved General fund budget 02-03	55,359,679.00	55,359,679.00
2511	Less: Transfers	(4,063,582.00)	(4,063,582.00)
	Add:
13300	Early Childhood aid	7,723,902.00	7,723,902.00
13690	DEPA Aid	2,219,068.00	2,219,068.00
13900	Distance Learning network aid	171,071.00	171,071.00
	Adjusted 02-03 State program budget	61,410,138.00	61,410,138.00
	Less:
Trenton to	Adjust for actual state program spending fund 11	(753,677.74)	(753,677.74)
9466 & JD1	Adjust for actual state program spending fund 15	(221,644.00)	(221,644.00)
		(975,321.74)	(975,321.74)
	Base 02-03 state program budget	60,434,816.26	60,434,816.26
	(Add/(Subtract) Difference between 02-03/03-04 Plan
	Less:
	EC Plan 03-04	7,115,982.00	7,115,982.00
	EC Plan 02-03	(7,762,087.00)	(7,762,087.00)
		(646,105.00)	(646,105.00)
	Add or deduct: Non-discretionary Items:
	Salaries – Contracted Rate	1,841,985.00	1,841,985.00
	FICA	105,000.00	105,000.00
	Health Benefits	1,250,000.00	1,250,000.00
	Charter School Tuition	786,224.00	786,224.00
	Other utilities	61,770.00	61,770.00
	Special Education	1,075,184.00	1,075,184.00
	Transportation	69,700.00	69,700.00
	CPI at 2.11%/3.00% non-sal net of Util.	66,972.00	827,283.00
	Subtotal	5,256,655.00	6,017,146.00

If applicable	Adjust. For non-recurring items	0.00		0.00
	Non-cash items	0.00		0.00
	Other	0.00		0.00
	Decrease in Federal aids	0.00		0.00
	Subtotal adjustments		4,610,550.00		5,371,041.00
	FY 03-04 Total State program Budget @ Maint.		65,045,366.26		65,805,857.26
	Less:
	Supervisors of Instruction		(127,534.00)		0.00
	Legal Services		(350,000.00)		0.00
	Non-Certificated Staff		(1,591,000.00)		(1,591,000.00)
	Ineffective/Inefficiencies for items that are applicable in 02-03 (Rosenfarb Winters) or Budget Managers
			(2,068,534.00)		(1,591,000.00)
	FY 03-04 Total State Program Budget @ Maint & Ineff.		62,976,832.26		64,214,857.28

Budget: 2003-2004

410	Total Gen'l fund reserves	63,343,572.00		63,343,572.00
425	ECPA	3,160,320.00		3,160,320.00
426	DEPA	1,644,068.00		1,644,068.00
421	ECPA carryover	500,000.00		500,000.00
	DLNA Aid carryover	41,195.00		41,195.00
422	DEPA carryover	69,780.00		69,780.00
	Subtotal state program aid	68,758,935.00		68,758,935.00
00284	Less Request for AAvBA for 03-04	(15,024,160.00)		(15,024,160.00)
	Base GF revenue 03-04		53,734,775.00		53,734,775.00
	Add/(Subtract): Revenue Adjustments:
	Other: Ext. aid	29,686.00	29,686.00
	PSEA Adjustment	469,662.00	0.00
	Excess Fund Balance	0.00
	Subtotal		$499,348.00		29,686.00
	FY 03-04 GF Total Budgeted Revenues Available		54,234,123.00		53,764,461.00
	Difference: Need for Supplemental aid		8,742,709.26		10,450,396.26
	ECPA Carryover differential		0.00		0.00
	Need with differential		8,742,709.26		10,450,396.26

*lines 7580, 8340, 9460 (in budget) less actual exp's from sch. A CPA reports

Scott Henry

The district called Scott Henry as a witness.

Mr. Henry received a bachelor of science degree in accounting from Rider University. He is a CPA and certified as a school business administrator (BA). Until September 14, 2003, he worked as the district's BA and he prepared the district's 2002-2003 and 2003-2004 budgets. Since September 14, 2003, he has worked as the assistant director of the DOE's Office of Budget and Accounting.

As a CPA and BA, Mr. Henry has utilized the consumer price index (CPI) in preparing the district's budgets. See N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 "CPI." The United States Department of Labor, Bureau of Statistics' "Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers (CPI-U)" lists CPIs for selected areas, e.g., "U.S. city average," "Northeast urban," "Midwest urban," "South urban," and "West urban." P-1. Among "selected local areas," for "New York-Northern N.J.-Long Island, NY-NJ-CT-PA," the CPI percent change is 3.00% from July 2002 to July 2003. Ibid., emphasis added. The CPI-U shows no CPI for the central New Jersey area and, between northern and southern New Jersey, Asbury Park is closer to northern New Jersey and more influenced by New York than "Philadelphia-Wilmington-Atlantic City," which is among the "selected local areas." Ibid. Among the Bureau of Labor Statistics' definitions are two New Jersey areas: one area lists Monmouth County (in which Asbury Park is located) with New Jersey's northern counties and another area lists New Jersey's southern counties (and does not include Monmouth County). P-9.

Mr. Henry has utilized the CPI for northern New Jersey in preparing the district's budgets, and in preparation of the district's 2003-2004 budget, he utilized the 3.00% CPI. That is, he disagreed with the DOE's preliminary calculations (printed above) utilizing a CPI factor of only 2.11%. R-2.

The district's Reduction in Force (RIF) list shows the names, 2003-2004 salaries and benefits of non-certificated staff members whose positions the district has eliminated. By way of the RIF, the district has already eliminated $2,304,456 in non-certificated staff. The total for teachers' aides is $1,260,373 and the total dollar amount is $2,304,456. P-5.

Mr. Henry testified that, consistent with the DOE budget instruction, he included the PSEA in other State aids income, and other State aids income is included in the Total General Fund. Consequently, the district's budget spreadsheet above, line 410, the Total General Fund Revenues, includes the PSEA adjustment. However, the DOE's budget spreadsheet mistakenly shows the PSEA adjustment of $469,662.00 as revenue in the district's 2003-2004 budget. See P-7; P-8A. That is, the DOE has counted the PSEA adjustment of $469,662.00 twice and the PSEA adjustment should be deleted from the DOE's budget spreadsheet under "Budget: 2003-2004."

John A. White

The DOE called John A. White as a witness.

Mr. White received a bachelor of arts degree in history from Rutgers College. He completed coursework to qualify for a certificate of eligibility as a school business administrator and completed doctoral examinations in educational theory, policy and administration at Rutgers University's Graduate School of Education. "New Jersey's System of Financing Elementary and Secondary Education," which he and others wrote, appears in Public School Finance Programs of the United States and Canada, published by the National Center of Educational Statistics, 4th Edition. He has taught school finance to doctoral candidates in Rutgers University's Graduate School of Education. He has served as secretary to the Joint Committee on the Public Schools, senior fiscal analyst in the Local Government Section of the Office of Legislative Services, and senior fiscal analyst for education in the Office of Legislative Services. Since the 1980s he has examined state trends in districts' spending. Since 1999 he has served as budget manager for Abbott districts in the DOE, responsible for the Asbury Park, Keansburg and Neptune school districts. R-18.

Mr. White reviews local districts' budgets and determines whether funding is sufficient to provide programs and services required by Abbott law with "program drives budget" as the rule.

Mr. White reviewed the district budget for inefficiency and ineffectiveness with reference to the above-described Benchmarks, e.g., for per-pupil expenditures. It was noted that the Rosenfarb report states:

> We defined those districts that clustered within the middle range of these charts as representative of "generally efficient spending" Abbott districts, ("Benchmark Abbotts"). We selected Benchmark Abbotts as those districts that were consistently in the middle-range of all Abbott districts – Elizabeth, Gloucester, Long Branch and Phillipsburg. We then developed an average cost per pupil for non-instructional expenses for the Benchmark Abbotts (see Exhibit 4).
>
> [R-21.]

Mr. White, a resident of Monmouth County, is familiar with the Asbury Park school district. Its number of supervisors exceeds that of similar districts. Its total spending divided by its number of pupils is very high.

(1) Relative to Supervisors of Instruction, the DOE created tables comparing the Asbury Park school district's spending with that of other Abbott districts. "Administrative Staff Costs in Abbott Districts, Table 1, '02 Audited Salary Expenditures: Supervisor of Instruction, Salary Amount Per Pupil in Abbott Districts for Funds 11, 13, 15 and 20 (Ranked Highest to Lowest)," lists twenty-six districts and their respective "Audited Salary Expenditures in '02: Supervisors of Instruction, Res Enrol Oct-01, Amt. Spent Per Pupil." R-26. The Asbury Park district's $317 spent per pupil is by far the highest. For example, the nearby Neptune Township district's amount spent per pupil is only $93, and Long Branch City's amount spent per pupil is only $24. Mr. White noted that Ernest Bio, Ed.D., a supervisor, has retired, and Mr. White stated that, based on other districts, the Asbury Park school district's other supervisors should easily manage his duties. Consequently, Mr. White reduced the district's budget by $127,534, the amount of the retired supervisor's salary and benefits. Hearing this explanation, on the hearing record the district stated that it withdrew the issue from its appeal and agreed that $127,534 was eliminated from its maintenance budget.

(2) Relative to Legal Fees, the DOE's "Table 1, Reporting of Hunt Legal Costs by Category from Dec '02 thru April '03," lists categories of legal expenditures, hours billed by Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, the district's law firm, and cost. R-13. "Table 2, Reporting of Hunt Legal Costs from Dec '02 thru April '03," lists dates, descriptions of services, hours, attorneys' names, costs, etc. R-14. The DOE also prepared "Legal Costs in Abbott Districts: '02, '03, and '04 (Sorted by highest to lowest per pupil cost for '04)." R-15. Mr. White testified that the DOE accepts that the Asbury Park school district has had legal costs in excess of the amount that it has approved and he had no evidence that the Hunt law firm had litigated inefficiently on behalf of the district. However, the Hunt firm's bills showed that district employees called upon the firm frequently. Also, the district's legal costs per pupil are grossly higher than those of any other district compared. In '02, the average district's legal cost per pupil was $30; the nearby Neptune Township district's legal cost per pupil was $29; and the Asbury Park district's legal cost per pupil was $205. In '03, the average district's legal cost per pupil was $29; the nearby Neptune Township district's legal cost per pupil was $37; and the Asbury Park district's legal cost per pupil was $146. In '04, the average district's cost per pupil is expected to be $29; the nearby Neptune Township district's legal cost per pupil is expected to be $33; and the Asbury Park district's legal cost per pupil is expected to be $143. R-15. Also, the Hunt firm submitted bills of $30,000 for each of four months, from December 2002 to April 2003, a total of $120,000, for which it itemized (identified) no particular services and relative to which it stated only "Board Office." R-13. On May 15, 2003, the district and the Hunt firm entered an "Agreement to Provide Legal Services," pursuant to which the district would pay $500,000 per year:

> WHEREAS the BOARD requires attorneys to provide general legal services, including litigation and labor services . . .
>
> . . . .
>
> 3. Compensation: For all services rendered by the ATTORNEYS as General Counsel/Litigation Counsel/Employment Counsel/Labor Counsel, the ATTORNEYS shall be paid in an amount not to exceed Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000), payable in twelve monthly installments of $41,666.66 beginning July 1, 2003. Said payment no later than the last day of each month thereafter. It is expressly understood that counsel's monthly fee is based upon appearance in all litigation matters, appearance at committee meetings as requested, negotiations, arbitrations, unfair labor practice charges and any other matter involving the need for counsel. The firm shall provide > summaries of matters handled, if same is requested by the board of education.

>
> [P-3.]

Ronald Hamlin, a partner in the Hunt firm, is a longtime friend of Raymond Palmer, president of the Asbury Park Board of Education, and the DOE's Office of Compliance Investigation (OCI) prepared a report, dated August 21, 2003, relative to the BOE's legal fees. The report stated that Asbury Park Board of Education members generally believed that "the current district administration has failed to adequately address matters that directly impact on the health and safety of the staff and students." P-4. The OCI also reported,

> . . . [The Agreement's above-quoted "Compensation" provision] is problematic because it initially suggests that the Board may pay less than but no more than $500,000.00. However, the second half of the sentence eliminates that possibility by mandating that the Board pay $500,000.00 in equal payments. Following this logic leads inexorably to the conclusion that the Board is responsible for the monthly payment of $41,666.66 regardless of whether the firm performed services commensurate with that amount.
>
> Discussions between the DOE and DAG have determined that the current legal contract is being executed properly. There is provision for the board requesting appropriate documentation of services. Services have been documented in the business office since the start date of the contract.
>
> [P-4.]

The district's legal fee cost of $120 per pupil grossly exceeds the Benchmark of $34. Mr. White believed that the Agreement did not sufficiently detail the services the law firm would provide. (Although, he is not an attorney and he did not know whether the law firm was itemizing its bills.) Given these circumstances, Mr. White reduced the district's legal fee for '02-'03 by $350,000 (to $405,986), which he noted is still substantially more than the legal costs of most of the districts.

(3) Relative to Non-Certificated Staff, Mr. White testified that the DOE hopes to increase the district's certified teachers and thereby decrease the student/teacher ratio. In 1999, when the district went through the Abbott reforms, the DOE requested that it reduce its non-instructional aides, but it never did so. The DOE prepared "Table 8a Salaries & Benefits for Non-Certified Positions Not Approved in '04 Budget: Budget: Asbury Park," listing names, titles, and estimated '04 salaries and '04 benefits. R-25. Mr. White considered efficiencies of the non-certificated staff by category and not by individual employee's performance. Mr. White believes that the district's principals could perform "Dropout Prevention" duties, so he eliminated as inefficient costs for the district's 7 "Dropout Prevention" employees. R-25. Mr. White believes that the district is well staffed with secretaries and custodial staff who can perform parent-community coordination duties, so he also eliminated as inefficient costs for teacher aides/community associates and youth services advocate. Mr. White believes that the district has sufficient staff for custodial tasks, so he eliminated as inefficient costs for the district's twelve teacher aides. R-25. Special Education laws and individualized education programs (IEPs) determine what aides will be provided for classified students, so this Abbott budgetary process does not eliminate any aide required by an IEP. See 20 U.S.C.A. § 1400 et seq.; N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1 et seq. As a result, the DOE's spreadsheet and calculations (see above) relative to salaries, stipends, etc., for non-certificated staff deleted $1,591,000 from the district's 2003-2004 budget, which Mr. White testified is not over and above the RIF of the 2003 summer. R-2; P-7.

Mr. White agreed that the CPI most relevant to the district should be utilized to calculate the district's budget. He could not give a basis for the DOE's use of the 2.11% CPI. He did not contradict Mr. Henry's testimony that 3.00% was the appropriate CPI and he also did not contradict Mr. Henry's testimony that the DOE had double-counted PSEA and that, therefore, the PDEA should not be considered revenue in the district's 2003-2004 budget.

Antonio Lewis

The district called Antonio Lewis as a witness.

Dr. Lewis received a bachelor of science degree in health and physical education from East Stroudsburg University. He received a master's degree in education from Trenton State College (now The College of New Jersey). He received a doctorate from Rutgers University. He participated in a post master's program at Kean University. He is certified as a teacher, supervisor, principal, school administrator, and superintendent. He has worked as a teacher, middle school principal, and, since the 1990s, as the district's superintendent.

Dr. Lewis testified that, although the district has had "problems," there has also been "movement . . . in many, many areas" improving the quality of life for students and their families. Dr. Lewis has implemented Abbott remedies for a number of years. This has involved his participation in planning programs, discussions and verification that programs are provided pursuant to Abbott regulations.

Dr. Lewis testified that, under the budget as calculated by the DOE, the district could not fund and continue to provide more than twenty programs, among which are the following: (1) The district could not provide its "Summer Enrichment" program, a summer program for regular students (not classified for Special Education) that provides ninety minutes of reading, integrated reading, mathematics and technology, breakfast and lunch, and recreation with field trips. (2) The district could not provide its "Extended Day" program for K to 12 students, which emphasizes the core curriculum with goals of improving academic achievement and test scores. Dr. Lewis explained that this program is especially important because the district is multi-cultural and many students' parents do not read or write English. (3) The district could not provide its "Enrichment and Advancement" program for high school students who failed and must make up academic courses. (4) The district could not provide its "Visual and Performing Arts" program for K to 12 students. (5) The district could not provide the "Professional Development" program for teachers, involving workshops and in-service.

Dr. Lewis testified that the failure to provide the above-described programs would result in a "major disaster" for the district.

Summary of Findings of Fact Relative to

(1) Supervisors of Instruction, (2) Legal Fees and (3) Non-Certificated Staff and CPI

(1) The school district withdrew from its appeal the issue related to Supervisors of Instruction and agreed that $127,534 was eliminated from its maintenance budget. R-1.

(2) Relative to Legal Expenses, the DOE has shown that the district's costs have been grossly more than those of comparable districts. For example, the Asbury Park district's legal cost is several times more than the Benchmark cost and several times more than the nearby Neptune Township district's cost. Also, as pointed out by the OCI report, the district's Agreement requires it to pay $41,666.66 monthly regardless of whether the law firm performs services commensurate with that amount. That is, the DOE established a basis for the proposed reduction of the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard. Further, the district has not demonstrated, e.g., by way of detailed and identifiable services, cases, etc., that the budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.

(3) Relative to Non-Certificated Staff, Mr. White is familiar with the district, he characterized it as well staffed, and he gave the opinion that its principals and other staff could perform duties previously performed by non-certificated staff. Therefore, the DOE established a basis for the proposed reduction of the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard. However, Dr. Lewis is more familiar with the district. The public school system has always been essential to the foundation of our society. In recent decades, old urban centers, now designated as Abbott districts, have suffered from a range of social problems, including reduced opportunity for employment, alcohol and substance abuse, disintegrating families, substandard housing, and violence. In response, the Supreme Court has written that the law requires schools to provide social services as essential to their mission of providing a thorough and efficient education. See, e.g., Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480, 510 (1998) (Abbott V). Dr. Lewis described programs that hang in the balance here and they provide the services prescribed by the Supreme Court for districts such as Asbury Park's. Further, he testified that the reduction of funding would result in an inability to provide such programs and a "major disaster" for the district. I find Dr. Lewis more credible than Mr. White on this issue and I find that he demonstrated that the budgetary reductions are not justified.

Relative to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' CPI, between the northern New Jersey and the southern New Jersey areas, Asbury Park is closer to New York and northern New Jersey than to Philadelphia and southern New Jersey and, consistent with the testimony of Mr. Henry, who was credible, the 3.00% CPI is applicable in calculating the district's 2003-2004 budget.

Relative to the PSEA, consistent with the testimony of Mr. Henry, the district included that money in the Total General Fund. Consequently, the district's budget spreadsheet, line 410, the Total General Fund Revenues, includes the PSEA adjustment and the DOE's budget spreadsheet mistakenly shows the PSEA adjustment of $469,662.00 as revenue in the district's "Budget: 2003-2004." See P-7; P-8A. That is, the DOE counted the PSEA adjustment of $469,662.00 twice and the PSEA adjustment should be deleted from the DOE's budget spreadsheet.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

New Jersey's Constitution requires the Legislature to "provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all children in the state between the ages of five and eighteen years." N.J. Const. art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1.

The Legislature provided for school districts, operated by boards of education, and provided statutory systems of financing districts. See, e.g., N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1. In the Abbott cases, students from poor urban districts challenged the system of school financing and New Jersey's Supreme Court concluded that the quality of education in the poor urban districts was significantly inferior to the quality of education in other school districts and ordered the Legislature to assure that poorer districts' funding would be substantially equal to that of property-rich districts in a way that the funding would not depend on the budgeting and taxing decisions of local school boards. See, e.g., Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269 (1985) (Abbott I); Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990) (Abbott II), relating to the Public School Education Act of 1975, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-1 to -52. The Legislature responded with further legislation, but the Abbott plaintiffs contended that disparities in financial resources continued to cause constitutional disparities. See, e.g., Abbott v. Burke, 149 N.J. 145 (1997) (Abbott IV), relating to the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act (CEIFA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 to -36.

In Abbott V, the Supreme Court found the State's plan for funding districts facially constitutional, but unconstitutional as applied to special needs districts. The Court ordered the DOE to assure funding for and implementation of programs including those related to school reform; preschool; full-day kindergarten; health and social services; dropout reduction; summer school, after school, and school nutrition; art, music and special education; and facilities standards and management.

As written above, the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order granted the DOE's motion and relaxed Abbott V remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. The Order states:

> 1. The DOE's application to extend the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott V is granted as follows: The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order.
>
> 2. The Statewide aggregate amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid shall be presumptively calculated as the total amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid approved for the Abbott districts for Fiscal Year 2002-2003, subject to adjustment as required for a maintenance budget. A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.
>
> 3. For purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid and in furtherance of its pre-existing duty to implement administrative controls, the DOE shall promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the districts' non-instructional programs. (Non-instructional programs are defined as office/administrative expenditures and programs, positions, services and/or expenditures that are not school based or directly serving students.) Insofar as any Abbott district has not been informed of its total amount of last year's approved Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid, the DOE shall provide written notice of that amount within two weeks of the date of this Order. The DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard in its review of a district's maintenance school budget may result in a reduction to a district's presumptive amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

4. Within 30 days of the issuance of this Order, the DOE shall provide in a Notice to each district preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support that currently approved budget. If the DOE deletes an expenditure from a district's 2002-2003 budget related to the district's non-instructional programs and based on the effective and efficient standard, the DOE must include in the written notice to the district the expenditure deleted along with a specific statement explaining why the program or part thereof is no longer effective and efficient.

5. Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.

6. The Order of the Court dated July 7, 2003, modifying the Court's scheduling Order of May 20, 2003 in order to provide the [OAL] thirty days within which to determine and issue initial decisions in the twenty-three pending budget appeals, is hereby superseded by this Order. The [OAL] shall issue initial decisions on district appeals from the DOE's preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year within 30 days of the dates of those decisions as set forth in Paragraph 4 of this Order.

7. To the extent that monies are deleted by the DOE in the districts' non-instructional programs based on the effective and efficient standard, those monies shall be made available to the districts as follows: an Abbott district may apply for and the State may award such aid for demonstrably needed programs or services. The allocation of such available funds shall not be viewed as inconsistent with this Court's approval of use of a maintenance budget for Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

> [Abbott v. Burke, __ N.J. __, 2003 WL 21700375, at *1-3 (July 23, 2003) (emphasis added).]

The DOE, citing the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act and the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003, Order, promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10, including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, 3.1, -4.2, and -4.7. The regulations are effective August 22, 2003, and expire June 30, 2004.

N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 states:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.
>
> [Emphasis added.]

(1) Consistent with the findings of fact and the school district's withdrawal of the appeal relative to Supervisors of Instruction, no conclusion of law is required.

(2) Consistent with the findings of fact, costs relative to Legal Expenses should be deleted from the district's budget as proposed by the DOE.

(3) Consistent with the findings of fact, the costs relative to Non-Certificated Staff should not be deleted from the district's budget.

The Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996 includes among its definitions:

> "CPI" means the average annual increase, expressed as a decimal, in the consumer price index for the New York City and Philadelphia areas during the fiscal year preceding the prebudget year as reported by the United States Department of Labor.
>
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3.]

Consistent with the findings of fact, a 3.00% CPI is applicable in the district's budget.

Consistent with the findings of fact, the district included the PSEA of $469,662.00 in the Total General Fund. Consequently, the district's budget spreadsheet, line 410, the Total General Fund Revenues, includes the PSEA adjustment and the DOE's budget spreadsheet mistakenly shows the PSEA adjustment as revenue in the district's "Budget: 2003-2004." See P-7; P-8A. That is, the DOE has counted the PSEA adjustment of $469,662.00 twice and the PSEA adjustment should be deleted from the DOE's budget spreadsheet.

Consistent with the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, the district's 2003-2004 budget is amended as set forth below (according to the DOE's calculations submitted at ALJ's request.)

CPI at 3.00% non-sal net of Util.	$424,017.00
Subtotal	$5,613,880.00
Subtotal Adjustments	$4,967,775.00
FY-03-04 Total State Budget at Maintenance	$65,402,591.26

Less:

Supervisors of Instruction	($127,534.00)
Legal Services	($350,000.00)

Non-Certificated Staff	$0.00
Subtotal for Ineffective/Inefficiencies	($477,534.00)
FY2003-04 Total State Program Budget at Maintenance and Inefficiencies	$64,925,057.26

Revenue Adjustments:

PSEA Adjustment	$0.00
Subtotal Adjustments	$29,686.00
FY 03-04 GF Total Budget Revenues Available	$53,764,461.00
Difference: Need for Supplemental Aid	$11,160,596.26

ORDER

I ORDER the DOE to assure funding and provide supplemental aid for the district's budget for 2003-2004 as described above.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott district budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Sept. 26, 2003
DATE

JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9-26-03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9-26-03
DATE

EXHIBITS

For petitioner:

P-1 United States Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Table 3, Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers (CPI-U): Selected Areas, all items index, September 13, 2003 EV

P-2 Asbury Park Board of Education CPI Calculations

P-3 Agreement to Provide Legal Services between Asbury Park Board of Education and Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, May 15, 2003 EV

P-4 DOE's Office of Compliance Investigation (OCI) portion of report (review of actions of the members of the Asbury Park Board of Education fulfilling assigned governance tasks in 2002-03 school year), August 21, 2003

P-5 RIF List, Asbury Park Board of Education RIF of Non-certificated Staff, September 13, 2003

P-6 Asbury Park Board of Education, Board Secretary Report, General Fund – Fund 10, Schedule of Revenues, June 2003 EV

P-7 Spreadsheet: Comparison of DOE Budget to Asbury Park Board of Education Budget calculations

P-8 School District Budget Statement for the School Year 2003-2004, Monmouth – Asbury Park City, September 4, 2003

P-8A Revenue Section of Asbury Park Board of Education's 2003-2004 Budget

P-9 U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Changes in Area Definitions for Published Metropolitan Areas in the 1998 CPI Revision, November 1997 EV

For respondent:

R-1 Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award to Asbury Park School District, August 27, 2003 EV

R-2 DOE's Budget Worksheet, Asbury Park School District, August 27, 2003 EV

R-3 DOE's General Fund Comparative Balance Sheet, Asbury Park School District, as of June 30, 2003 and 2002

R-4 Analysis of Abbott School Districts – 2004, Asbury Park School District, Schedule A – 2003 Total Projected Spending with 2004 Budget

R-5 Analysis of Abbott School Districts –2004, Asbury Park School District, Schedule B – Audited Spending 2000-2002

R-6 Analysis of Abbott School Districts – 2004, Asbury Park School District, Schedule C – Four Year Summary of Budget Appropriations Compared to 2004 Budget

R-7 Analysis of Abbott School Districts – 2004 – Asbury Park School District, Schedule D – 2003 Total Projected Revenue Compared to 2004 Budget

R-8 Analysis of Abbott School Districts – 2004 – Asbury Park School District, Schedule E-2000/02 Revenues Budgeted with Audited Balances

R-9 Analysis of Abbott School Districts – 2004, Asbury Park School District, Schedule F – Four Year Summary of Revenues Compared to 2004 Budget

R-10 Analysis of Abbott School Districts – 2004, Asbury Park School District, Schedule I – Enrollments

R-11 Analysis of Abbott School Districts – 2004, Asbury Park School District, Schedule J

R-12 Analysis of Abbott School Districts – 2004, Asbury Park School District, Schedule G & H – Four Year Summary of Surplus – General Fund with 2004 Projection

R-13 Table 1 – Reporting of Hunt Legal Costs by Category from December 2002 through April 2003 EV

R-14 Table 2 – Reporting of Hunt Legal Costs by Category from December 2002 through April 2003 EV

R-15 Legal Costs in Abbott Districts: '02, '03, and '04 (Sorted by highest to lowest per pupil cost for '04) EV

R-16 Legal Costs Per Pupil in Abbott Districts: 2001-02 (Sorted highest to lowest cost per pupil cost for '02) EV

R-17 School District Budget Statement for the School Year 2003-2004, Monmouth - Asbury Park (detailed appropriations)

R-18 Résumé of John Anderson White, DOE Budget Manager for Abbott Districts

R-19 Non-Certificated Staff Costs in Abbott Districts, Table 7, Asbury Park Student to Staff Ratios

R-20 Asbury Park Board of Education, Board Secretary Report, General Fund – Fund 10, Interim Balance Sheet, June 2003 (upon which the DOE's August 27, 2003, notice was based

R-21 State of New Jersey, DOE, Appealing Abbott School Districts, Non-instructional Spending Inefficiencies, Rosenfarb Winters, LLC, (forensic accounting firm report), August 19, 2003 EV

R-22 Non-Certificated Staff Costs in Abbott Districts, Table 1, Audited Salary Expenditures for Aides: '02, etc., June 29, 2003

R-23 Non-Certificated Staff Costs in Abbott Districts, Table 3, '02 Audited Salary Expenditures: Secretaries, etc., June 29, 2003

R-24 Non-Certificated Staff Costs in Abbott Districts, Table 5, '02 Audited Salary Costs: All Non-Certificated Staff, etc., June 29, 2003

R-25 Table 8a, Salaries & Benefits for Non-Certificated Positions Not Approved in '04 Budget: Asbury Park, September 11, 2003 EV

R-26 Administrative Staff Costs in Abbott Districts, Table 1, '02 Audited Salary Expenditures: Supervisor of Instruction, etc., June 30, 2003

WITNESSES

For petitioner:

Scott Henry
Antonia Lewis

For respondent:

John A. White

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4095-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 199-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ASBURY PARK, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties' exceptions and replies were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner initially concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); See also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n., 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to determine the validity and applicability of the regulation at issue, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003.[1]

With respect to the identified inefficiencies in petitioner's noninstructional expenditures, including the supervisors of instruction,[2] legal fees and the employment of non-certificated staff, based upon the credibility assessments of the ALJ, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's factual findings and determines that his analysis and legal conclusions are consistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, as well as the Department's regulatory amendments adopted on August 22, 2003.

However, the Commissioner does not concur with the ALJ that a Consumer Price Index (CPI) adjustment of 3 percent, rather than 2.11 percent, should be applied to petitioner's 2003-04 budget because "Asbury Park is closer to New York and northern New Jersey than to Philadelphia and southern New Jersey " (Initial Decision at 19), where N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 specifically defines CPI as:

> the average annual increase, expressed as a decimal, in the consumer price index for the New York City and Philadelphia areas during the fiscal year preceding the prebudget year as reported by the United States Department of Labor.

Thus, in accordance with statute, the CPI calculation in the maintenance budget is an average of the CPI rate for the New York/Northern New Jersey area and the Philadelphia/Southern New Jersey area. Therefore, notwithstanding any testimony to the contrary, the Commissioner finds that the Department properly relied upon the 2.11 percent CPI rate calculated pursuant to statute.

---

[1] Consequently, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j), the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's Interim Order of September 4, 2003.

[2] It is noted that petitioner has withdrawn its appeal relative to this inefficiency.

Finally, it is not clear on this record that the Department, in fact, "double counted" the District's preschool expansion aid adjustment of $469,662, as found by the ALJ at page 17 of the Initial Decision. In this connection, the Department argues that:

> [N]o documentation was provided to show that this amount was included in any other portion of the revenue section of Asbury Park's budget nor was any calculation performed on the record to demonstrate that this was the case. There simply is no basis for this proposition on the record beyond Mr. Henry's belief that the adjustment had been duplicated, thus, overstating the district's revenue and lowering its overall "Need for Supplemental Aid." (Department's Exceptions at 6-7)

Therefore, mindful of the District's burden on this issue, and without any evidence to the contrary, the ALJ's finding in this regard is rejected.[3]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted with modification, as set forth herein.[4]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[3] The Department also notes, by way of correction to the Initial Decision's Exhibit List that it did not enter into evidence Exhibits R-3 through and including R-12, or R-26. The decision is so modified.

[4] The Commissioner so determines, based upon the proofs brought to this record, while acknowledging that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report until November 2003, which will reveal the District's true audited fund balance and available revenue, if any, as of June 30, 2003. In any event, beyond his determination herein, the Commissioner underscores the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

[5] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 22, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

588-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF KEANSBURG, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget" and supplemental aid, alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court.

The ALJ found that the rule duly promulgated to implement the Court's order for "maintenance" controlled in this proceeding, and that the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) lacked jurisdiction to determine its validity. However, the ALJ further found that, within the framework of that rule, the Department did not offer any factual basis for its calculations and did not dispute the documentation and testimony advanced in support of the Board's claim. The ALJ directed adjustment of supplemental aid.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision with respect to OAL jurisdiction and application of the "maintenance" rule, as well as certain adjustments in nondiscretionary costs and IDEA revenues. However, the Commissioner rejected the decision in all other respects, dismissing the Petition of Appeal except to direct modification of the Board's preliminary maintenance budget and estimated aid calculation to reflect the specified adjustments.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4159-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 200-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF KEANSBURG,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Deborah L. Gnatt, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 22, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner ("BOE") appeals the determination by respondent ("DOE") of the BOE's maintenance budget for the 2003-2004 school year, including the BOE's estimated need for discretionary additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (Exhibit P-10)

On March 24, 2003, the DOE moved before the Supreme Court for an order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). See also Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX). The DOE requested that the discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) that it would be required to provide to Abbott districts in 2003-2004 be limited to an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center (ELC) cross-moved for an order setting an expedited schedule for the DOE's decisions on districts' budgets and requiring the DOE to conduct a formal evaluation of the implementation of Whole School Reform (WSR), and other relief. On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court ordered the DOE and the ELC to participate in mediation before the Hon. Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D., to attempt to resolve issues raised by their motions. Mediation resolved all issues except the 2003-2004 budget process, and the DOE's motion for an order extending by an additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX which remained outstanding. However, the parties agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals beginning with the DOE's reviews and approvals of districts' budgets by May 30, 2003. Districts' appeals from the DOE's reviews were to be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where administrative law judges (ALJs) were to issue initial decisions (IDs) within 50 days of the appeal. The Commissioner was to issue final decisions within 25 days of the IDs. On May 20, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect until further order of the Court.

On May 30, 2003, the DOE issued decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets. In this case, by letter of that date, the DOE's Assistant Commissioner, Division of Abbott Implementation notified the district that the DOE had completed its initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget dated May 5, 2003, that the expenditure budget was approved except as noted in the letter. On June 5, 2003, the district's verified petition of appeal was filed with the Department. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The DOE transmitted the contested case to the OAL, where it was filed on June 9, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On June 12, 2003, the Department's answer was filed in the OAL.

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument on the DOE's motion for an order extending the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court granted the DOE's motion and relaxed Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. In its Order, the Court gave the DOE the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year were to be continued, subject to conditions set forth in the Order. The Court's July 23, 2003 Order also defined the term "maintenance budget" as follows:

> A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.

With respect to appeals of the DOE's determinations, the Court's Order provided:

> Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.

Finally, by its Order, the Supreme Court also set a schedule for new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and the administrative appeal and hearing process. The Court fixed a schedule requiring the OAL to issue initial decisions on district appeals from the DOE's preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year within 30 days of the dates of those decisions as set forth in Paragraph 4 of the Order. It ordered the DOE to promulgate emergency regulations governing the process.

The DOE, relying on the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act and the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order, promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10, including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, -3.1, -4.2, and -4.7. The regulations are effective August 22, 2003, and expire June 30, 2004. Among these emergency regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 states:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

Prior to the hearing of this matter, ALJ Tassini entered an Order Relative to Maintenance Budget in Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4095-03, concluding that the school district's challenge to the validity and applicability of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" may not be heard by the OAL, but must be applied by the OAL in the pending matters. The parties were advised during the prehearing conference that my ruling on the validity and applicability of the DOE regulation would be the same as Judge Tassini's. Counsel for the BOE reserved the right to challenge the ruling in further proceedings in this matter.

The hearing in this matter was held on September 5, 2003 at Mercerville, New Jersey. Witnesses who testified and exhibits admitted into evidence are listed in the Appendix. Leave was granted to the parties to submit post hearing memorandum by September 22, 2003. Memorandum was received and the hearing record closed September 22, 2003.

ISSUES

Counsel for the BOE submitted the following as the issues on appeal:

1. Whether the Department properly determined the District's maintenance budget for the 2003-04 school year on the basis of programs, services and positions approved and provided.

2. Whether the Department properly calculated the maintenance budget for Keansburg.

3. Whether the Department properly calculated the non-discretionary cost adjustments for the 2003-04 school year. (Petitioner will focus on the special education and the CPI cost adjustments).

4. Whether the Department properly determined the increase in IDEA revenues for 2003-04.

5. Whether the Department properly determined the District's estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

For the reasons enunciated in Judge Tassini's Order entered in board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4095-03, and subsequented followed by ALJ Martone in Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. State of New Jersey, Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4096-03, I CONCLUDE that the Office of Administrative Law does not have the authority to review the DOE's emergency regulation set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

Consideration of BOE's Estimated Need For Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid

The testimony received into the record during the course of the hearing was directed to the 8 highlighted items of dispute between the calculations of the BOE and the DOE. (Exhibit P-1). The line items in controversy and the contending amounts are:

	BOE Calculation	DOE Calculation
Local Contribution to Special Revenue	$(1,217,210)	$(1,684,267)
Early Childhood aid [ECA]	$ 2,990,025	$ 3,582,082
DEPA Aid [Demonstrably Effected Program Aid]	$ 999,106	$ 1,009,452
EC [Early Childhood] Plan 03-04	$ 3,083,839	$ 2,723,762
EC Plan 02-03	$(2,990,025)	$(3,565,190)
Special Education	$ 426,013	$ 388,375
CPI at 2.11% non-salary other items	$ 132,612	$ 80,298
Increase in IDEA	$ 75,171	$ 89,229

The ultimate difference is the calculated need for Supplemental Aid. The BOE contends that its need is $5,798,227 and the DOE fixed the need at $4,894,321. The difference is $903,906. The BOE, in its post hearing memorandum, submits that the supplemental funding awards should be increased to $8,463,033 in accordance with the maintenance budget definition issued by the Supreme Court.

This Initial Decision is limited to the $903,906 difference.

Robert Finger, Business Administrator/Board Secretary of the Keansburg Public Schools, testified about each of the aforesaid 8 items. He prepared Exhibit P-1, using the number provided by the DOE for the "DOE Calculations" and BOE records, "approved and provided" in the BOE's Budget, for the "District Calculation." Finger corroborated the disputed items with documentation admitted into evidence.

Finger testified that the Local Contribution to Special Revenue was reduced when the BOE did not receive the promised pre-school expansion aid from the DOE. The failure of the DOE to consider the elimination of $467,057 for pre-school expansion aid, together with the reduction of $125,000 carryover accounts for the $592,057 difference at the Early Childhood Aid line item.

The $10,346 difference at the DEPA Aid line item occurred because the DOE did not correctly consider 2002-2003 school year funding of $817,736 and a DEPA carryover of $181,370.

The largest disparity in the comparable calculations occurred at the Early Childhood "EC" Plan adjustments for school years 2003-2004 and 2002-2003. The total variation is $935,242; $31,336 more than the "Difference" in the respective calculations. Finger testified that the BOE's budget for early childhood program aid for school year 2003-2004 was $3,083,839, and the correct revised amount of approved early childhood plan for school years 2002-2003 was $2,990,025. Both of the BOE's calculations include early childhood program carryover funds; the DOE's calculations do not.

The BOE referred to its Budget for school year 2003-2004 to demonstrate that the Special Education line item should be $426,013. At line 06360 of the Budget (Exhibit P-7) the difference between the 2003-2004 Appropriations ($5,042,641) and the 2002-2003 Revised Appropriations ($4,616,628) is $426,013.

The final 2 items, Special Education and Increase in IDEA, are tabulated on page 2 of Exhibit P-1. Finger deducted salaries, health benefits, special education tuition, transportation and utilities from the approved general fund budget of $31,648,524 to reach a net discretionary cost total of $6,284,943. Multiplying $6,284,943 by a 2.11% CPI, Finger arrived at a product of $132,612. The $75,171 IDEA Revenue increase was the difference between the 2003-2004 IDEA flow through and preschool and the 2002-2003 IDEA flow through and preschool amounts.

Finger also testified that the BOE's 2003-2004 salary rolls show a net loss of 9 teaching positions from 2002-2003. The DOE should provide additional money to maintain the faculty at 405. Finger also presented the results he received on August 15, 2003, of the exit conference with State retained auditors. Finger understood from the auditors that Keansburg should receive $6,436,753 in supplemental funding.

John White has been a DOE Budget Manager since 1999. Before entering this position, White spent 27 years in private business. His present assignment is to ensure that the "Abbott" program is properly funded and properly used. White testified that the DOE used several sources to arrive at its estimated need for supplemental aid for the BOE. Among those sources were the BOE's approved general budget as of May 30, 2003, EC numbers from the Office of Early Childhood, reported revenue figures from the pre-May 30 budget, increases in Extraordinary Aid, the IDEA formula, EC expenditures as approved only, and his estimates of non-discretionary items. White presented a "spread sheet" (Exhibit R-2) which included the same numbers used by Finger in Exhibit P-1.

White testified that the BOE's approved Early Childhood Plan for 2003-2004 totaled $2,700,000. The BOE cannot spend any more than that amount without further approval. May 30, 2003 was the cut off date for reporting all numbers to DOE, and the Early Childhood Program expenditures as of May 30 were reported at $2.7 million.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

During the consideration of this matter, I am most disturbed by the attitude conveyed by the DOE. Missing completely from the DOE's position is the underlying constitutional mandate that the school children of New Jersey are entitled to a thorough and efficient education The jurisprudential foundation Abbott is that too many communities cannot afford to provide the required level of education and therefore everyone must contribute in order for the goal to be attained. The DOE purports to speak to that end through its promise that upon the statutory audit the DOE will eventually satisfy its financial obligations. What is ignored in this lip-service is the question of how the Abbott districts can fulfill their duties without the money they are entitled – or may eventually be entitled to receive. Do Abbott district students go without a thorough and efficient education until the DOE releases the money owed to those districts? Or do the districts postpone the continuation of programs until the funds are forthcoming?

I CONCLUDE that the Supreme Court, recognizing every student's right to a continuing thorough and efficient education, ordered the Abbott cases proceed expeditiously with final decisions issued in advance of eventual audits.

The presentation of the DOE leaves me with an emotion similar to that of the lady in the television commercial of several years ago – "Where's the beef?" In order for a trier of fact to make findings of fact, the hearing record must contain legally competent evidence of the material facts in dispute. I FIND that not only has the DOE not disputed the documentation and testimony entered into the hearing record on behalf of the BOE, the DOE also did not offer any factual basis for its calculation of the BOE's need for supplemental aid. The hearing record established by the DOE to this point consists of White's testimony that he, or someone at DOE, used numbers supplied by others, estimates, and preliminary budgets to devine the $4,894,321 need for supplemental aid. None of the corroborating documentation is furnished. Even if White's opinion were entitled to some elite status (and I do not accept his opinion as that of an expert), no foundation exists in the hearing record for his opinion.

I therefore give no weight to White's testimony nor to the DOE's calculation of the BOE's need for supplementary aid. I Find as a Fact that calculations prepared by Finger as contained in Exhibit P-1 to be accurate and applicable in this matter. This finding of fact is not made because the DOE did not refute the numbers, but because the corroborating documentation established the figures which Finger ably explained.

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that the preliminary maintenance budget prepared by respondent for petitioner is not accurate, and that the Need for Supplemental Aid for petitioner is $5,798,227.

As stated above, because no action can be taken on issues controlled by the definition of "maintenance budget," no findings are made on petitioner's claims for additional funding for teaching positions.

ORDER

Accordingly it is ORDERED that petitioner's estimated need for discretionary additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid is determined to be $5,798,227.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

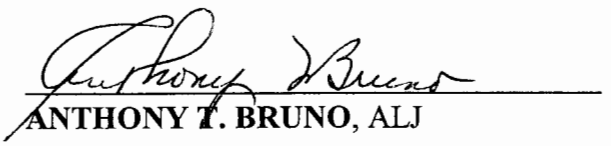
This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 26, 2003
DATE



ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

/tmp

APPENDIX

WITNESSES

For petitioner:

Robert Finger, Board Secretary/Business Administrator

For respondent:

John White, DOE Budget Examiner

EXHIBITS

For petitioner:

P-1 Calculations of Budgets – SY 2002-03 and SY 2003-04

P-2 Memorandum and attachments from Richard Rosenberg (2/25/03)

P-3 Keansburg BOE Revenue Report

P-4 Correspondence from Assistant to Commissioner (2/19/03)

P-5 Correspondence and attachments from BOE Business Administrator/Board Secretary

P-6 Keansburg BOE Budget Report for Early Childhood Program

P-7 Keansburg BOE Budget Year Statement

P-8 Allocation Notices (2) (4/17/03 and 4/5/03)

P-9 Notice of Final FY 2002-2003 Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award

P-10 Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award

P-11 Documents provided BOE upon exit conference with independent auditors (8/15/03

For respondent:

R-1 Chart of Abbott comparisons

R-2 Spread sheet to input need for supplemental aid

OAL DKT. NO. EDU. 4159-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 200-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF KEANSBURG, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions by the Department of Education (Department) and a reply by the Board of Education (Board) were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition, and both were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

As a preliminary matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that hearing of this matter need not have awaited completion of the District's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR), as argued by the Department. Within the appeal framework established by the Court, the Board was clearly entitled to make, prior to the school year in question, the factual and legal record necessary to resolve the substance of its claims, subject to final adjustment of calculations following audit.

The Commissioner also concurs with the ALJ that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, the regulation duly promulgated to implement the Court's July 23, 2003 order, must control in the instant proceeding, and that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine its validity, such determination being solely within the purview of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); s*ee, also, Pascucci v. Vagott,* 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). However, even if the Commissioner were to accept, arguendo, the Board's contention that a "choice of law" may be made without passing on the validity of the rule itself, the Commissioner here opines, to the extent that he may do so in an administrative proceeding, that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, is entirely consistent with the language and intent of the Court, with no conflict between it and the underlying order.

The Commissioner rejects, however, the ALJ's stance that, within the framework established by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, this matter is appropriately resolved by wholesale acceptance of the Board's claims because the calculations underlying them were explained on record, whereas the Department's purportedly were not. To the contrary, the Commissioner finds that the record does, in fact, reveal the basis for the Department's calculations and, thus, permits more specific determinations as set forth below.

With respect to the Board's claims regarding IDEA revenues and non-discretionary cost adjustments for special education and CPI, the Commissioner finds that the Board's exhibits (P-1, page 2; P-7; and P-8) fully support its proposed revisions to the Department's calculations, so that the ALJ's recommended adjustments in these areas are adopted as set forth at page 6 of the Initial Decision.[1]

However, with respect to the Board's claims regarding its Local Contribution to Special Revenue, Early Childhood Program Aid (ECPA), Demonstrably Effective Program Aid (DEPA) and Early Childhood Plan budgets, the Commissioner cannot agree with the ALJ's adoption of the Board's position. The ALJ finds the Board's "bottom-line" calculations to be fully supported, and, indeed, they are, in the sense that the underlying numbers on which they are based are plainly set forth in testimony and documentation on record. The parties' arguments and exhibits, however, are equally revelatory with regard to the bases for the Department's calculations, showing the disparity between the Department's figures and the Board's, for the areas in dispute, to be attributable to the use of numbers from the approved 2002-03 General Fund Budget and approved Early Childhood Plan in the Department's case, and later numbers, reflecting transfers, alterations and mid-year adjustments, in the Board's. (See Exhibit P-1, page 1; Exhibit P-2, page 3; and Exhibit R-2.) This points not, as found by the ALJ, to unsubstantiated conclusions on the part of the Department, but rather to a fundamental difference in methodology and approach between the Department and the Board.

In the matter on appeal, the Department's underlying task was to determine for preliminary purposes the 2003-04 budget that would enable the District to continue in a "maintenance" mode, that is, to implement in 2003-04 the programs, services and positions provided in 2002-03, and concomitantly to determine the estimated amount of supplemental aid necessary for it to do so. To accomplish its first goal of identifying and determining the cost of providing 2002-03 programs and services so as to continue them in 2003-04, the Department began with the approved General Fund Budget for 2002-03, deducting the amount provided by local taxation (Contribution to Special Revenue) and adding dedicated State-aided program amounts (ECPA,[2] DEPA and Distance Learning Network), all as indicated in that budget, to create the total adjusted 2002-03 State program budget; it then made finer adjustments to reflect true spending in key accounts, looking to actual expenditures using the best documentation available in the absence of the CAFR in order to estimate the cost of maintaining programs, services and positions, with reasonable allowance for nondiscretionary cost increases. Had it been necessary to do so, additional adjustments would have been made for items such as nonrecurring expenditures and areas found ineffective or inefficient on review. To project the increase or decrease in costs for Early Childhood Education, the Department compared the 2002-03 approved plan to the 2003-04, then adjusted the base budget for the difference. The end result of this process, fully reflected in the above-noted exhibits, is the Total State Program Maintenance Budget, or the budget preliminarily deemed necessary and sufficient to support programs, services and positions at 2002-03 levels, with the difference between it and 2003-04 budgeted revenues equaling the District's estimated supplemental aid calculation.

[1] It is noted that the Department does not take exception to these recommendations.

In the Commissioner's view, the process used by the Department fully allows for reasonable, fair and consistent preliminary determinations under circumstances where precise calculations must necessarily await the results of the CAFR.[3] That

---

[2] It is noted that the District's 2002-03 Early Childhood Aid (Line 13300), stated as $3,582,082, should actually be the same amount as later stated for the approved plan budget ($3,565,190). (See Exhibits P-1, R-2; Department's Exceptions at 6.)

[3] There is absolutely no evidence to support the Board's contention, and the ALJ's speculation, that if the District does not immediately receive the approximately $800,000 still in dispute, the District's children will be deprived of a thorough and efficient education while CAFR adjustment is pending.

original 2002-03 local revenue amounts and amounts supporting restricted programs, such as the ECPA and DEPA disputed herein, may prove different by the year's end does not, in itself, invalidate the Department's method, which is by its very nature based on reasonable assumptions subject to final adjustment by audit. Similarly appropriate, and reasonably based on the only available "like" components for comparison, is the Department's use of approved 2002-03 and 2003-04 Early Childhood Plans in order to determine the change in district need from one year to the next. As well stated by the Administrative Law Judge in the September 26, 2003 Initial Decision in Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, Union County, v. New Jersey State Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5502-03, Agency Dkt. No. 206-6/03: [4]

> I have considered the arguments of counsel and must agree with the position espoused by the DOE. (footnote omitted) Although I agree with the District that the consistent use of the DOE's methodology does not in itself make it correct, I do not agree that simply because it does not work to the District's advantage makes it incorrect. The methodology utilized by the Department has been applied to all "Abbott Districts" uniformly and has served to increase maintenance budgets in over half of the Districts. The District has not established that the use of this methodology is per se improper, illegal, inconsistent with the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003 or violative of any of its constitutional rights. The DOE is obligated only to use an approach that is reasonable and uniformly applied. Here they have done so. If the methodology is to be changed in each area in which an Abbott District is not advantaged, there will be no uniformity or equity to the provision of Abbott funds. Thus, I reject the District's argument and CONCLUDE that the DOE's methodology is reasonable and will not be second-guessed. (Id. at 8)

In holding thus, the Commissioner is also mindful that, to the extent that the results of the Department's reasonable approach may be imperfect, even after adjustment following audit, N.J.A.C. 6A: 10-3.1(g) provides a mechanism for the District to obtain additional supplemental funding where unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances warrant. The Commissioner, therefore, wholly endorses the Department's methodology, subject to the correctness of its application based on the evidence presented in any particular instance, as occurred herein with respect to special education, CPI and IDEA calculations.

[4] Final Commissioner decision issued on October 20, 2003.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted insofar as it concludes that the present matter was appropriately heard prior to audit, that the OAL lacks jurisdiction to determine the validity of the rule promulgated to implement the order of the Court, and that specified adjustments to nondiscretionary costs and IDEA revenue are warranted. However, it is rejected in all other respects, so that the Petition of Appeal is dismissed except insofar as the Board's preliminary maintenance budget, and its concomitant aid calculation, are to be modified to reflect the adjustments ordered herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[5] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

589-05

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court.

The ALJ determined, by interim Order dated September 10, 2003, that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. In these proceedings, the ALJ found: 1) the Department correctly excluded tuition and maintenance reserves in its calculation of the District's projected fund balance; 2) the District's additional $2 million tax levy is an "available resource" to the District and the Department properly allocated and reduced the District's discretionary aid by the amount of this tax revenue; 3) the District is not entitled to the initial preschool expansion aid award of $204,210; 4) the action of the Department in adding to the District's fund balance a receivable in the amount of $594,001, representing the last payment of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the 2002-2003 school year is correct; and 5) the Department's method of calculating the District's projected fund balance by including encumbered funds is incorrect.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions with respect to the disputed issues with the exception that the Commissioner concluded that the Department correctly included the District's encumbered funds in projecting the District's fund balance consistent with the Department's accounting manual and instructions to the school districts with respect to the processing of year-end purchase orders, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4096-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 202-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF
THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Ray Lamboy, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 24, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

By letter of its counsel dated August 28, 2003, the Board of Education of the Township of Neptune, one of 28 urban special needs "Abbott" school districts, notified the OAL of its intention to pursue its pending appeal from the Department of Education's (DOE's) August 27, 2003 Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award.

By way of background, on March 24, 2003, the DOE moved before the Supreme Court for an order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). See also Abbott v. Burke, 172 N.J. 294 (2002) (Abbott IX). The DOE requested that the discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) that it would be required to provide to Abbott districts in 2003-2004 be limited to an amount sufficient to support those programs, positions and services in the districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003. On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center (ELC) cross-moved for an order setting an expedited schedule for the DOE's decisions on districts' budgets and requiring the DOE to conduct a formal evaluation of the implementation of Whole School Reform (WSR), and other relief.

On April 29, 2003, the Supreme Court ordered the DOE and the ELC to participate in mediation before the Hon. Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D., to attempt to resolve issues raised by their motions. Mediation resolved all issues except the 2003-2004 budget process, and the DOE's motion for an order extending by an additional year the one-year relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX which remained outstanding. However, the parties agreed to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals beginning with the DOE's reviews and approvals of districts' budgets by May 30, 2003. Districts' appeals from the DOE's reviews were to be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where administrative law judges (ALJs) were to issue initial decisions (IDs) within 50 days of the appeal. The Commissioner was to issue final decisions within 25 days of the IDs. On May 20, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an order incorporating the parties' mediation agreement and providing that the schedule would remain in effect until further order of the Court.

On May 30, 2003, the DOE issued decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets. In this case, by letter of that date, the DOE's Assistant Commissioner, Division of Abbott Implementation notified the district that the DOE had completed its initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget dated May 5, 2003, that the expenditure budget was approved except as noted in the letter. On June 5, 2003, the district's verified petition of appeal was filed with the Department. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The DOE transmitted the contested case to the OAL, where it was filed on June 9, 2003, for hearing as a contested case. On June 20, 2003, the Department's answer was filed in the OAL.

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order approving the mediated agreement and scheduling argument on the DOE's motion for an order extending the relaxation of remedies granted in Abbott IX. On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court granted the DOE's motion and relaxed Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process. In its Order, the Court gave the DOE the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school fiscal year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year were to be continued, subject to conditions set forth in the Order. The Court's July 23, 2003 Order also defined the term "maintenance budget" as follows:

> A maintenance budget shall mean that a district will be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services, and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were reduced in 2002-2003, or new programs, positions, or services, except in respect of Paragraph 2c. of the Court's Order of June 24, 2003 (pertaining to those elementary schools without a whole school reform developer in place in 2002-2003 and permitting whole school reform contracts in certain circumstances), irrespective of the timing for the promulgation of regulations governing that provision.

With respect to appeals of the DOE's determinations, the Court's Order provided:

> Abbott districts may appeal any reductions to their maintenance budgets by the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard, which appeals shall be heard by the [OAL]. In those appeals, the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard.

Finally, by its Order, the Supreme Court set a schedule for new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and the administrative appeal and hearing process. The Court fixed a schedule requiring the OAL to issue initial decisions on district appeals from the DOE's preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year within 30 days of the dates of those decisions as set forth in Paragraph 4 of the Order. It ordered the DOE to promulgate emergency regulations governing the process.

The DOE, relying on the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations Act and the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order, promulgated emergency regulations amending N.J.A.C. 6A:10, including N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, -3.1, -4.2, and -4.7. The regulations are effective August 22, 2003, and expire June 30, 2004. Among these emergency regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 states:

> "Maintenance budget" means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services, and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits, and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions, or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions, or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's order of June 24, 2003 in Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.

On August 27, 2003, the DOE issued to Neptune its Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget Figure for 2003-2004 and Estimate of Discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award. On August 28, 2003, the Board of Education of the Township of Neptune notified the OAL of its intention to pursue its pending appeal.

A telephone prehearing conference was held on September 3, 2003, and during that conference the school district argued that the emergency regulation promulgated by the DOE defining "maintenance budget" is inconsistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, and should be disregarded. I asked the parties to submit legal argument on the issue whether the OAL has the authority to disregard the provisions of a duly adopted regulation. David G. Sciarra, Esq., also submitted legal argument on this issue on behalf of Amicus Curiae, Abbott Plaintiffs. By an Order entered in this matter on September 10, 2003, I adopted a prior ruling by ALJ

Tassini in Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4095-03, that the school district's challenge to the validity and applicability of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" may not be heard in the OAL and the regulation must be applied in the OAL. In addition, I concluded that the language used in the DOE regulation is consistent with the definition of "maintenance budget" established by the Supreme Court.

A hearing in this matter was scheduled for September 4, 9, 10 and 15, 2003. Through the efforts of the parties, the issues were substantially narrowed in scope, and all but one hearing date was adjourned. A hearing was held on September 15, 2003. At the conclusion of the hearing, the record remained open to permit the submission of written closing arguments. When these were received, the record was closed on September 24, 2003.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The first witness to testify at the hearing of this matter was Dr. Michael Lake, Superintendent of Schools for petitioner. Dr. Lake testified that for the 2002-2003 school year, the Department of Education declined to fund a number of paraprofessional positions, school security and security personnel, and the cost of programs for the technology department, including an additional position. These items were previously reduced from the budget and were required to be eliminated.

Dr. Lake explained that the school district felt so strongly that these positions and programs were essential for the benefit and proper education of its students that a campaign was mounted and taxpayers were urged to approve the proposed school district budget which included these additional items (P-1). As a result, the budget was approved by a narrow margin and this additional funding was included in the school district's budget for the 2003-2004 school year. However, the DOE has taken the position that these additional funding amounts are to be included in surplus and are available to reduce State aid.

David A. Mooij, the School Business Administrator and Board Secretary, also testified concerning this funding. The Board of Education is required to develop a budget and to establish local taxes for the 2003-2004 school year. In order to include any additional items in the school district budget it was believed necessary to raise the local tax levy, and the Board decided to go ahead with this plan. The intent was to include in the school budget funding for unfunded and non-approved programs, including services and personnel, in order to return the school district to the same level as in the 2001-2002 school district budget. A publicity campaign was undertaken in order to obtain taxpayers' support for this proposal (P-1). The voters eventually approved the school district's budget by 13 votes. He identified the Board of Education proposed budget resolution (P-2) and the certificate and report of school taxes, which established the tax levy for the 2003-2004 school year (P-3).

Mr. Mooij testified that there was no direction by the DOE as to how the additional tax levy may be used, and the school district put the two million dollars into play in this budget. However, the DOE has now reduced additional Abbott Aid by the two million dollars raised by the school district and intended to be utilized for these programs. Thus, the school district is not being permitted to use these funds in order to fund non-approved programs. The net effect is to reduce the burden of the DOE, contrary to the intent of the voters.

Mr. Mooij also testified concerning the issue of preschool expansion aid. By memorandum dated February 26, 2003, Richard Rosenberg of the Division of School Finance indicated that the 2003-2004 initial award of preschool expansion aid was the amount of $204,210 (P-5). However, the $204,210 amount is not in State aid (P-4). If this amount is not funded, the school district will have to make it up out of its fund balance.

Peter J. Leonard, Assistant Business Administrator and Assistant Board Secretary for the school district, and a Certified Public Accountant, also testified in this matter. He testified that he could not tie in the numbers contained in the DOE's August 23, 2003, final estimate worksheet (P-4) with many of the numbers in the school district's budget. In addition, with respect to the DOE Notice from Gordon MacInnes, Assistant Commissioner, dated August 27, 2003, specifying Abbott funding, he does not know where the projected surplus (fund) balance came from or how the two percent surplus was calculated.

Mr. Leonard testified that the amount not being provided by the State for Abbott funding is $555,925. His estimate of the two percent required surplus is based on a total budget of $56,022,058.90 and two percent would be approximately 1.1 or 1.2 million dollars. His calculation shows the school district's surplus to be under two percent (P-7).

John White, DOE Budget Manager, testified that he has been employed by the Department of Education for four years. He testified that he was previously employed at the Office of Legislative Services for 27 years as an in-house school aid expert. He was assigned to the Neptune Township school district budget in the Fall of 2002. He was involved with the calculation of the Neptune Township school district budget for 2003-2004, including the Abbott v. Burke State Aid.

Mr. White identified the DOE's estimate of projected fund balances (P-6 and R-3). This was prepared using projected figures with unaudited numbers. However, the numbers used were not the same as those contained in the report of the school district's board secretary (P-7). He testified that the DOE used the 2002 audit as the starting point. He also emphasized that the amounts contained in the letter of August 27, 2003 (P-6) are not the final maintenance budget figures. In order to determine the final maintenance budget figures the DOE requires the true audited numbers, and these will not be available until November 2003 when the school district's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) is issued.

Mr. White testified that in calculating the surplus, all available revenues were included and surplus was calculated based on unspent funds from the prior year. The calculations in the Department's spreadsheet (P-4) only include actual expenditures based on the best available figures. He explained that these figures do not take into account unspent funds, or amounts which have been encumbered, but have not yet been expended. This is based on the best available figures, but these figures will be changed by the November 2003 final audit. He emphasized that encumbered amounts are included in calculating the total amount of surplus.

Mr. White acknowledged that the $8,843,176 amount set forth in Line 00284, is incorrect (P-4). He stated that this occurred because the school district failed to provide the revised actual budget. He also indicated that the error was on the revenue side and that this has no effect on the final aid amounts.

With respect to the local tax levy, Mr. White testified that the position of the DOE is that all spending in an Abbott district is Abbott-funded. An Abbott school district cannot set aside any portion of the local tax levy for unapproved programs and cannot fund unapproved programs.

On cross-examination, Mr. White testified that once the audited figures are made available, that there would probably be an additional amount of Abbott funding based on encumbered amounts that are found to have been actually expended. He admitted that he did not independently verify the open encumbrances set forth in the board secretary's report and did not include them in the August 27, 2003 letter. He also testified that with respect to tuition and maintenance reserves, an Abbott school district can come to the Department and get the actual amounts needed, so no amounts need be reserved. Finally, he testified that the school district will receive the preschool expansion aid, less an adjustment for what was actually spent.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In its Abbott decisions, the Supreme Court has made it clear that all budget disputes related to the implementation of the Court's Abbott remedies should be first adjudicated by the OAL. Under those decisions, it is the responsibility of the OAL, in the first instance, to assess in these disputes whether the DOE has properly implemented the Abbott educational remedies and mandates.

An important function of the OAL is to conduct a thorough hearing and establish a complete record by allowing the parties to present all of their evidence relevant to the contested case, including evidence related to constitutional claims and defenses. The OAL's authority to hear and initially determine all factual and legal issues in Abbott cases has its genesis in the Abbott I decision, Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269 (1985), where it was stated,

> We anticipate that the OAL will conduct a thorough hearing, where the parties shall present all their evidence relevant to the constitutional claims and defenses. This will serve to consolidate all fact-findings in a single proceeding. We intend that the proceedings will promote development of a complete and informed record, which will reflect determinations of appropriate > administrative issues as well as the resolution of factual matters material to the ultimate constitutional issues.

>
> [100 N.J. at 303.]

The Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order states that the Department bears the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulations. See, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.7(a)(3). In this matter, since the DOE made no reductions to Neptune's budget based on the effective and efficient standard (P-4), the burden of proof remains on Neptune. See, my discussion of this issue in Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Neptune v. Dep't. of Educ., OAL Dkt. EDU 727-03, EDU 728-03 (June 25, 2003).

Neptune' s Preliminary Maintenance Budget

On August 27, 2003, the Department issued notices of preliminary maintenance budget figures for 2003-2004 and estimates of discretionary additional Abbott v. Burke aid (supplemental aid) to the Abbott districts, including Neptune. According to DOE's Notice to Neptune, its preliminary maintenance budget figure was $61,934,548. (P-6). Department Budget Examiner John White testified that a uniform method was used to calculate the Abbott districts' preliminary maintenance budget figures and supplemental aid, as itemized and broken down on the Department's worksheet for Neptune. (P-4). Counsel for Neptune stipulated to the methodology used to calculate Neptune's maintenance budget figure.

Neptune's challenge to the maintenance budget figure is primarily a legal challenge in that it contends the DOE's regulatory definition of a maintenance budget is inconsistent with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order and should be disregarded. I have previously ruled in this matter that the DOE's definition of a maintenance budget is consistent with the Supreme Court's Order.

The DOE's August 27, 2003 notice to Neptune also provided the district with an estimate of discretionary aid of $5,236,824, based in part on a projected fund balance for Neptune of $2,274,763 as of June 30, 2003. (P-6). Budget Manager John White testified that the DOE calculated this balance by adding Neptune's audited unreserved fund balance at June 30, 2002 based on last year's CAFR and Neptune's unspent appropriations as of June 30, 2003 (R-3). The DOE reduced the balance by the two-percent required surplus pursuant to the Appropriations Act, and by an outstanding 2002-2003 account receivable in State supplemental aid of $594,001, leaving Neptune with an excess surplus or excess fund balance of $322,762. (P-6). Mr. White testified that the DOE did not adjust Neptune's fund balance for encumbrances because they could not be accurately determined when the balance was calculated. He explained that the DOE takes the position that Neptune's documented encumbrances and actual costs for goods and services that were received for 2002-2003 will be accurately determined, independently verified and ultimately factored into Neptune's fund balance when the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report is issued in November 2003.

Neptune Assistant Business Administrator Peter Leonard testified to his calculations of Neptune's projected fund balance as of June 30, 2003. (P-7). Mr. Leonard testified that Neptune's Final (Unaudited) Fund Balance for June 30, 2003 was only $1,024,895, leaving Neptune with no surplus over two percent and the DOE owing it the $594,001 account receivable. (P-7).

The major difference between the DOE's projected fund balance and Neptune's projected fund balance is that Neptune subtracted 2002-2003 encumbrances and reserve items from its projected fund balance, and the DOE did not.

The DOE takes the position that both the DOE's projected fund balance of $2,274,763 and Neptune's projected fund balance of $1,024,895 are based on the unaudited June 30, 2003 Board Secretary's Report. (P-6 and P-7). Both balances are based on estimated projections and estimated expenditures that did not undergo a detailed audit examination by an independent certified public accountant. The only common figure in the DOE's balance calculation (R-3) and Neptune's balance calculation (P-7) is Neptune's audited unreserved fund balance at June 30, 2002 of $1,081,826 determined in the prior year's CAFR. The DOE takes the position that this demonstrates why the CAFR is so important.

The DOE points out that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-14, the State Board of Education has prescribed a uniform system of bookkeeping consistent with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) established by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board for use in all school districts. Each school district must ensure that its uniform system is fully consistent with GAAP. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.1(b). The financial reporting requirements of GAAP require the issuance of a Comprehensive Annual Financial Report by every school district. The CAFR is a school district's official annual report, prepared in part by independent auditors, due this year by November 5, 2003. The DOE accepts the costs and calculations in the CAFR because they have been independently audited and verified as accurate.

The DOE asserts that the 2003-2004 preliminary maintenance budget figure for Neptune is just that, preliminary and subject to the CAFR, which will reveal Neptune's actual audited expenditures for the 2002-2003 school year. Similarly, the DOE contends that its estimate of discretionary Abbott v. Burke State Aid is only an estimate and is also subject to the CAFR, which will reveal Neptune's true audited fund balance and available revenue, if any, as of June 30, 2003. The DOE takes the position that it would be fiscally irresponsible for it to award supplemental State aid based on Neptune's best-guess projections, unaudited financial statements, and undocumented encumbrances, especially in light of the fact that Neptune's CAFR will be available in less than two months. The DOE thus asks that I reject Neptune's unaudited balance calculation and that I rule that the DOE should calculate Neptune's true balance based on the 2002-2003 CAFR when it is issued.

However, in making the fund balance or surplus calculation, the DOE has disregarded the mandate of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2(c)3 requiring that each local district board of education use the accrual basis of accounting in measuring its financial position and operating results. As I understand it, there are two basic accounting methods, the cash method and the accrual method. If the cash method of accounting is used, the business or governmental entity records revenues only when they are received as cash, and expenses only when they are actually paid out. However, this method can distort income and expenses, and does not give a true picture of the financial state of the entity. With the accrual method, the entity records income when the legal obligation to receive the income "accrues" regardless when it gets paid, and records expenses when it is legally obligated to pay them, even though they may not be paid until a later date. The accrual method recognizes economic events regardless of when cash transactions happen and gives a more accurate picture of the entity's financial position.

The purpose of the encumbrance system utilized by school districts is to comply with the accrual method of accounting by recording expenses when the school district is legally obligated to pay them, even though they may not yet be paid, that is, the cash transaction may not yet have occurred. Thus, these encumbered amounts are not merely "estimates" of the amounts the school district might be obligated to pay in the future, but are required to represent actual legal obligations of the school district. I FIND that these encumbered amounts are not "best-guess projections, unaudited financial statements, and undocumented encumbrances" as asserted by the DOE, but have been identified by the school district as amounts which it is legally obligated to pay.

In addition, the Annual Appropriations Act of Fiscal Year 2004, P.L. 2003 c. 122, authorizes the Commissioner to ". . . consider all of the district's available resources and any appropriate reallocations, including, but not limited to, a reallocation of the district's undesignated general fund balances in excess of two percent." My interpretation of the words "undesignated general fund balances" is that they refer to general fund balances that are not set apart for some specific purpose. That is clearly not the case with respect to encumbered funds since they have been set aside for a specific purpose. Therefore, I FIND that amounts that are set apart for the purpose of paying the legal obligations of the school district cannot be considered as "undesignated" fund balances. Under these circumstances, and based upon the provisions of the Appropriations Act and of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2(c)3, I FIND that the DOE's method of calculating Neptune's projected fund balance of $2,274,763 by including encumbered funds therein is incorrect.

With respect to tuition and maintenance reserves, the argument can be made that the amounts set by the school district are clearly designated for particular purposes. However, there is no evidence in the record that these amounts have been the subject of encumbrances, or that they are anything more than estimates of future obligations. The DOE's position is that an Abbott school district can come to the DOE and obtain the actual amounts needed when they become due. Therefore, under these circumstances, I FIND that the DOE was correct in excluding tuition and maintenance reserves in its calculation of Neptune's projected fund balance. This finding may have differed if there had been a documentation establishing these reserves as legal obligations of the school district.

The final and most troubling issue relating to the calculation of the projected fund balance involves the action of the DOE in adding to Neptune's projected fund balance a receivable in the amount of $594,001.00. This receivable represents the last payment of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the 2002-2003 school year ending June 30, 2003. The school district argues that it has lost the benefits of the final State aid payment for its needs that had not been met by State funding in the 2002-2003 school year. The school district's argument appears to have merit on its face, and it appears unfair and troubling for the DOE to take a credit for an amount it should have paid to the school district, but did not. However, the reality is that if this receivable is actually paid to the school district, this payment will simply have the effect of increasing the school district's projected fund balance. This is so because the 2002-2003 school year is completed and the school district will not be permitted to incur any new or additional expenses for that year. Therefore, I FIND that the action of the DOE in adding to the Neptune projected fund balance a receivable in the amount of $594,001.00 representing the last payment of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the 2002-2003 school year is correct.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND that the correct amount of Neptune's projected fund balance is $1,388,864. Since this exceeds the 2% required surplus by $30,864, I CONCLUDE that the additional amount available to be added to the fund balance net of the receivable of $594,001.00 in New Line 121 – in the revised budget is $30,864.00.

School district proposed use of taxpayer-approved tax revenues for non-approved purposes

During the hearing, Neptune's witnesses testified that Neptune voters approved a local $2 million tax levy to pay for non-approved positions, services and programs, but the DOE subsequently reduced Neptune's supplemental aid by a corresponding amount. The DOE points out that in the Annual Appropriations Act of Fiscal Year 2004, the Legislature required the Commissioner to "consider all of the [Abbott] district's available resources and any appropriate reallocations" in adjusting the district's discretionary aid. The DOE argues that local tax revenue is an available resource to Neptune, and such a reduction is mandated by law because the Legislature expressly required the Commissioner to consider all of Neptune's available resources and make appropriate reallocations before awarding it discretionary aid.

In response, Neptune contends that the DOE's authority to consider all available resources is limited by the Appropriations Act to the time after the receipt and review of the CAFR. It also argues that the DOE is seizing "unavailable" funds because these funds have been voter-approved for specific purposes and are being utilized for these purposes. Finally, Neptune argues that the underlying premise in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V), is that if the DOE did not approve programs, services and positions, the school district has the ability to seek funding for those non-approved items from the local taxpayers. It contends that in the absence of clear legal authority local taxpayers should not be divested of their right to fund non-approved educational programs, services and positions.

I have not been able to find any language in Abbott V which supports Neptune's position that it has the ability to seek funding from local taxpayers for non-approved items. In fact, the opposite appears to be the case since the Supreme Court states:

> If a school demonstrates the need for programs beyond those recommended by the Commissioner . . . , then the Commissioner shall approve such requests and, when necessary, shall seek appropriations to ensure the funding and resources necessary for their implementation.
>
> [Id. 153 N.J. at 518.]

The DOE argues that pursuant to the Annual Appropriations Acts of Fiscal Year 2003, the Legislature required the Commissioner of Education to consider "all of the [Abbott] district's available resources and any appropriate reallocations" in determining the district's discretionary aid. It asserts that in the Annual Appropriations Act of Fiscal Year 2004, the Legislature again required the Commissioner to "consider all of the [Abbott] district's available resources and any appropriate reallocations" in adjusting the district's discretionary aid.

The exact language of the Appropriations Act, P.L. 2003 c. 122, is as follows:

> In making any adjustment to the discretionary award, the commissioner shall consider all of the district's available resources > and any appropriate reallocations, including, but not limited to, a reallocation of the district's undesignated general fund balances in excess of two percent.

Based on the foregoing language, it is clear that an Abbott district must consider all of its available resources before submitting an application for discretionary aid. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(b). The DOE is required to review an Abbott district's budget to determine that all available resources and reallocations have been incorporated therein. P.L. 2003 c. 122; N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(c). I FIND that Neptune cannot set aside tax revenue for non-approved programs while requesting that the State provide supplemental aid for approved programs as if the tax revenue was not an available resource to it. I agree with the DOE that such a scheme would effectively result in a windfall for Neptune. An Abbott district that seeks the benefit of supplemental State aid must also bear the burden of considering all of its available resources before receiving that aid, pursuant to statute and regulation.

Accordingly, I FIND that Neptune's additional $2 million tax levy is an "available resource" to Neptune and that the DOE properly reallocated and reduced Neptune's discretionary aid by the amount of this tax revenue.

Preschool Expansion Aid

In his post-hearing submission, attorney for petitioner states that petitioner will not pursue the preschool expansion aid issue at the present time. I am uncertain, based on this statement, whether petitioner is withdrawing the claim it pursued at the hearing or has simply chosen not to pursue argument on the issue. Since the issue of preschool expansion aid was dealt with at the hearing, I feel constrained to address the issue in this initial decision.

By a memorandum dated February 26, 2003 (P-5), Richard Rosenberg of the DOE's Division of School Finance, advised Neptune that its approved early childhood plan for 2003-2004 was $6,057,095, and its initial award for preschool expansion aid was $204,210. During the hearing, Neptune's Business Administrator David Mooij testified that this preschool expansion aid was not included anywhere in the DOE's calculations. However, Budget Examiner John White testified that the correct amount is included on the worksheet (P-4) under the item heading "EC [early childhood] Plan 03-04 $5,967,430". Mr. White also testified that the early childhood plan ultimately determines the amount of preschool expansion aid. (P-4).

The DOE asserts that the Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2003 provides that Abbott preschool expansion aid "shall be based on documented expansion of the preschool program" and that the Act authorizes the Commissioner to require Abbott districts to provide supporting documentation to verify that the actual expansion in the preschool program had occurred in 2002-2003. It further asserts that the Act additionally authorizes the Commissioner to make appropriate adjustments to this aid based on actual need. It contends that the Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2004 continues this statutory scheme, and that preschool expansion aid is funded based on actual expansion, actual costs and actual need.

The specific language of the 2003-2004 Appropriations Act, P.L. 2003 c. 122, is as follows:

> The amount appropriated hereinabove as Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid is for the purpose of funding the increase in the approved budgeted costs from 2001-2002 to 2003-2004 for the projected expansion of preschool programs in "Abbott districts." Payments of Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid shall be based on documented expansion of the preschool program. Upon the Commissioner of Education's request, "Abbott districts" will be required to provide such supporting documentation as deemed necessary to verify that the actual expansion in the preschool program has occurred in the 2003-2004 fiscal year. Such documentation may include expenditure, enrollment and attendance data that may be subject to an audit. Appropriate adjustments to a district's Abbott Preschool Expansion Aid amount may be made by the commissioner based on actual need.

I agree with the DOE that Neptune's initial 2003-2004 preschool expansion aid award of $204,210 in February 2003 was initial only, based on an approved 2003-2004 early childhood plan of $6,057,095 and an expectation of a certain level of enrollment and corresponding costs. It is also clear that such award is subject to change based on any change to the early childhood plan. (P-5). Neptune's approved early childhood plan for 2003-2004 was subsequently amended and reduced after the date of the Rosenburg memorandum, February 26, 2003.

As the Rosenberg memorandum shows, the initial preschool expansion aid award of $204,210 was calculated by subtracting the 2001-2002 approved, early childhood plan of $5,852,885 (the baseline plan) from the 2003-2004 approved early childhood plan of $6,057,095. (P-5). Any subsequent reduction to the 2003-2004 approved plan would necessarily result in a corresponding reduction to preschool expansion aid. In fact, Neptune's preschool expansion aid was amended and reduced after the Rosenberg memorandum was issued in February 2003. As pointed out by attorney for respondent, in Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Neptune v. New Jersey Dep't. of Educ., OAL Dkt. EDU 2202-03 (July 2, 2003) it is stated:

> It has been stipulated and agreed by and between the parties that the Department has approved Neptune's Early Childhood Plan for the 2003-2004 school year in the amount of $5,967,430.

This stipulated amount is reflected on the Department's worksheet. (P-4) Based upon the foregoing discussion, I FIND that the initial award of $204,210 is based on a previously approved early childhood plan funded at a higher level than the subsequent approved plan. I FIND that Neptune is not entitled to the initial preschool expansion aid award of $204,210, because that award was based on an early childhood plan that was subsequently amended and reduced, as stipulated by Neptune.

DECISION AND ORDER

For the reasons stated above, it is hereby ORDERED that the DOE's method of calculating Neptune's projected fund balance by including encumbered funds therein is incorrect and is hereby REVERSED. It is further ORDERED that the DOE was correct in excluding tuition and maintenance reserves in its calculation of Neptune's projected fund balance and in adding thereto a receivable in the amount of $594,001.00 representing the last payment of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the 2002-2003 school year, and these actions are hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED, based on the foregoing, that the correct amount of Neptune's projected fund balance is $1,388,864 and that since this exceeds the 2% required surplus by $30,864.00, the additional amount of $30,864.00 is available and is to be added to the fund balance net of the receivable of $594,001.00 in New Line 121 in the revised budget.

It is further ORDERED that the $2 million tax levy approved by the voters of Neptune is an "available resource" to Neptune, and the action of the DOE reallocating and reducing Neptune's discretionary aid by the amount of this tax revenue is correct and is hereby AFFIRMED.

It is further ORDERED that Neptune is not entitled to the initial preschool expansion aid award of $204,210, because that award was based on an early childhood plan that was subsequently amended and reduced, as previously stipulated by Neptune, and the action of the DOE in this regard is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 26, 2003
DATE

JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

9-26-03
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

9-26-03

mph

APPENDIX

WITNESSES:

For petitioner:

Dr. Michael Lake

David A. Mooij

Peter J. Leonard

For respondent:

John White

EXHIBITS:

For petitioner:

P-1 Neptune Township Board of Education 2003-2004 Budget Proposal

P-2 Board of Education Budge Resolution, dated March 28, 2003

P-3 Board of Education Tax Levy for 2003-2004 School Year

P-4 Department of Education Budget Worksheet of August 23, 2003

P-5 Richard Rosenberg memo, dated February 26, 2003

P-6 Department of Education Notice of Preliminary Maintenance Budget, etc., dated August 27, 2003

P-7 June 30, 2003 Board of Education Secretary Report

For respondent:

R-3 Department of Education Calculation of Excess Surplus

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4096-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 202-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department of Education's (Department) decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-2004 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions and replies thereto were filed by both the Board of Education of the Neptune School District (District) and the Department in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Initially, upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) September 10, 2003 Order Relative to "Maintenance Budget,"[1] that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); s*ee, also,*

[1] The District did not file a request to the Commissioner for interlocutory review of this Order, but its exceptions to the Initial Decision urge the Commissioner to "reject the ALJ's determination of the 'maintenance budget' issue." (District's Exceptions at 5)

Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Moreover, even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to determine "a choice of law" as argued by the District, the Commissioner finds that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003. Consequently, the Department's application of such regulatory definition in its review and approval of the District's 2003-2004 budget is wholly appropriate.[2]

Upon a thorough and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determinations that: 1) the Department correctly excluded tuition and maintenance reserves in its calculation of the District's projected fund balance; 2) the District's additional $2 million tax levy is an "available resource" to the District and the Department properly allocated and reduced the District's discretionary aid by the amount of this tax revenue; 3) the District is not entitled to the initial preschool expansion aid award of $204,210[3]; and 4) the action of the Department in adding to the District's fund balance a receivable in the amount of $594,001, representing the last payment of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the 2002-2003 school year is correct. With respect to these issues, therefore, the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's factual findings and determines that his analysis and legal conclusions are consistent

[2] Consequently, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j), the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's interim Order of September 10, 2003.

[3] The ALJ points out that the District indicated in its post-hearing brief that it will not pursue its preschool expansion aid claim at the present time. (Initial Decision at 15) However, stating that he is uncertain whether the District's intention is to withdraw its claim or whether it has chosen not to present arguments on this issue, the ALJ made findings on this issue and concluded that the District was not entitled to the $204,210 preschool expansion aid "because that award was based on an early childhood plan that was subsequently amended and reduced, as stipulated by Neptune." (Id. at 17) The sole mention of this claim in the District's exceptions to the Initial Decision appears in the District's conclusion:

> (3) require the DOE to provide the District with the pre-school expansion aid. (District's Exceptions at 13) with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, as well as the Department's regulatory amendments adopted on August 22, 2003.

However, the Commissioner does not concur with the ALJ's finding that the Department erred in calculating the District's projected general fund balance by including encumbered funds in the amount of $2,274,763 because "amounts that are set apart for the purpose of paying the legal obligations of the school district cannot be considered as 'undesignated' fund balances." (Initial Decision at 12) The Commissioner believes that the ALJ's analysis reflects a fundamental misunderstanding of the differentiation between the terms "encumbrances" and "accounts payable," and how these terms are used in conjunction with an accrual or modified accrual basis of accounting. As correctly explained by the Department in its exceptions:

> An encumbrance is an accounting tool that permits a school district to set aside funds for purchase orders that were issued during the 2002-2003 school year for goods or services that were not received as of June 30, 2003. In the Department's manual, Financial Accounting for New Jersey Public School Districts (web site omitted), school districts were directed to account for unpaid purchase orders in which goods or services were received by June 30th as accounts payable liabilities, and account for purchase orders to be honored in the subsequent fiscal year by reserving them as encumbrances on their June 30th general fund balance sheets.  If a school district complied with the manual, then the encumbrances on its June 30th balance sheet reflect liabilities for goods and services that were not received by June 30th. Encumbrances should not be deducted from a district's fund balance as of June 30, 2003, because the underlying goods and services were not actually received in the 2002-2003 school year. See N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 (a maintenance budget is funded at a level so a district can implement 2002-2003 approved and "provided" programs, services, and positions, with adjustments for "actual" 2002-2003 expenditures).
>
> The Department's inclusion of encumbered funds in Neptune's fund balance calculation does not conflict with the accrual method of accounting. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2, school districts are required to use an accrual or modified accrual basis of accounting.

Accrual is a method of accounting > that records the financial effects on a district board of education of transactions...that have cash consequences for the district in the periods in which those transactions...occur, rather than only in the periods in which cash is received or paid by the district. [N.J.A.C. 6A:23-1.2.]

An accrual reflects the fact that an obligation has been incurred or a revenue has been earned. Under the modified accrual method, an obligation is incurred when a school district has received a good or service and thus is obligated to pay for it, regardless of when the payment is made. For example, if the district received textbooks on June 2, 2003, but did not receive the invoice nor make the payment for the textbooks, the district has still incurred the legal obligation to make payment. Encumbrances are not "accrued" because the underlying obligations have not occurred yet. Those obligations will occur when the goods or services are provided. (Department's Exceptions at 3-5)

The Commissioner finds that the above explanation is consistent with the record in the matter entitled Board of Education of the City of Burlington v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Commissioner Decision No. 581-03, decided October 20, 2003. Therein, Keith Costello, Budget Manager/Examiner for the Department of Education, Office of Abbott Implementation, testified that, by memo dated September 16, 2003 to all school districts, Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg addressed the procedures to be followed for open purchase orders and encumbrances on the school district's books as of June 30. The September 16, 2003 memo states, in pertinent part:

> Open purchase orders at June 30, 200X should be classified into the following two categories for review and reclassification:

1. Category one represents purchase orders for which the goods have been received or the services have been rendered at June 30th that have not been paid. These purchase orders must be expensed in the current audit period, the related encumbrances reversed, and a liability (accounts payable) established. If the invoice has not been received the amount must be estimated. In accordance with GAAP, an expenditure is recorded when goods are received or services are rendered.

2. Category two represents purchase orders which will be honored in the subsequent year. These purchase orders will be rolled over into the next fiscal year and will be shown in the June 30th general fund balance sheet as a reserve for encumbrances. Per NCGA Statement 1, paragraph 91 "encumbrances outstanding at year-end represent the estimated amount of the expenditures ultimately to result if unperformed contracts in process at year-end are completed. Encumbrances outstanding at year-end do not constitute expenditures or liabilities." (emphasis in text) (Exhibit R-1, in evidence) (Board of Education of the City of Burlington v. New Jersey State Department of Education, slip opinion at 17)

Accordingly, category one purchase orders and the related encumbrances are to be considered 2002-2003 fiscal year expenditures in applying N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, but category two purchase orders are considered expenditures in the 2003-2004 fiscal year and, thus, are not to be included in development of a "maintenance budget" for the 2003-2004 school year pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

The District insists that the Commissioner should accept the ALJ's conclusions with respect to encumbrances because: 1) "the ALJ had the opportunity to evaluate all of the testimony and documentary information before him at the hearing in reaching his conclusion that the DOE erred in increasing the District's fund balance by improperly excluding valid encumbrances" (District's Reply Exceptions at 3); 2) "the ALJ heard the District's testimony on how the list of encumbrances was developed and what the encumbrances represented" (Ibid.); and 3) the Department bases its exceptions to the ALJ's conclusions "on a document that was not introduced into evidence and on factual assertions that are not part of the record." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 2) Notwithstanding these assertions by the District, the Commissioner finds that the resolution of whether it was appropriate for the Department to include encumbered funds in the fund balance calculation does not turn on credibility determinations or documents "not introduced into evidence," but, instead, on whether the encumbered goods and/or services were received by June 30, 2003. Assuming the District properly complied with the procedures set forth in the Department's accounting manual and Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg's letter of September 16, 2003, as set forth above, encumbrances for goods and services received by June 30, 2003 were to be reversed and a liability (accounts payable) established. The District's encumbrances outstanding at year-end, therefore, represent the estimated amount of the expenditures ultimately to result if unperformed contracts in process at year-end are completed, and, thus, encumbrances outstanding at year-end do not constitute expenditures or liabilities. Although there is no dispute that expenditures for goods and/or services received by June 30, 2003 should be deducted from the District's fund balance, based on the proofs brought to this record, the Commissioner is unable to determine which, if any, of the District's encumbrances have become accounts payable by virtue of the receipt of the encumbered goods or services on or before June 30, 2003 so as to be considered 2002-2003 expenditures.

The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that it was entirely appropriate and consistent with the Department's accounting manual, Financial Accounting for New Jersey Public School Districts, the instructions with respect to the processing of year-end purchase orders provided to school districts in Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg's letter of September 16, 2003, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 to include the encumbered funds in the fund balance calculation. Any adjustments to be made will be based on updated information with respect to the June 30, 2003 encumbrances and accounts payable for the 2002-2003 school budget year in the course of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) review scheduled to begin in November 2003.

Finally, in its exceptions, the Department seeks what it terms a "correction of a factual error" regarding the District's request for State supplemental aid, stating:

> [D]uring the hearing, Neptune Business Administrator David Mooij pointed out that line item 00284 on the Department's worksheet (Ex. P-4) incorrectly indicates that the district requested $8,843,176 in Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid. In fact, Neptune requested $7,651,967 in additional aid, a difference of $1,191,209. (Ex. P-2) In order to properly account for this factual error, Neptune's estimated discretionary aid must be reduced by an additional $1,191,209, to $4,045,615. (Department's Exceptions at 2)

In response, the District vigorously objects to this "correction," averring that this "alleged" error was fully discussed at hearing and that "the DOE budget manager testified 'that the error was on the revenue side and that this has no effect on the final aid amounts.'" (District's Reply at 2) The District further claims that this is a disingenuous attempt by the Department to further reduce the District's discretionary aid.

In reviewing the Initial Decision, with respect to the Department's budget manager's testimony, the ALJ states that:

> Mr. White acknowledged that the $8,843,176 amount set forth in Line 00284, is incorrect (P-4). He stated that this occurred because the school district failed to provide the revised actual budget. He also indicated that the error was on the revenue side and that this has no effect on the final aid amounts. (Initial Decision at 7)

Given the lack of specificity or any analysis of the effect of this "alleged" error in the Initial Decision, the absence of a transcript of the proceedings, and the silence of the record on this issue, the Commissioner cannot, based on the record before him, resolve this dispute.

Ordinarily, this matter would be remanded for an evidentiary hearing to fully develop the record so that a determination could be made, but, in light of the Supreme Court Order to expedite proceedings in this matter, the Commissioner concludes that the most effective approach to resolve this matter is to direct that the effect on discretionary aid, if any, of the "alleged" error be reviewed as a part of the November CAFR. In the event that a dispute remains after the CAFR, either party may subsequently seek relief by filing a Petition of Appeal to the Commissioner.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted with modification, as set forth herein.[4]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[4] The Commissioner so determines, based upon the proofs brought to this record, while acknowledging that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) until November 2003, which will reveal the District's true audited fund balance and available revenue, if any, as of June 30, 2003. In any event, beyond his determination herein, the Commissioner underscores the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

[5] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court. The District challenged the inefficiencies identified by the respondent in noninstructional expenditures, including a grant writer's position, the business cost center and purchased professional services for special education. The District also challenged the Department's determination of certain maintenance calculations.

The ALJ found that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. The ALJ also concluded that the Department properly determined inefficiencies with the grant writer's position and the business cost center, noting that the latter reduction must take into account any superceding constraints of contractual and tenure rights. Finally, the ALJ found that respondent's maintenance calculations which incorporate Consumer Price Index (CPI) adjustments of 2.11 % and an anticipated cost increase of 7 % for utilities should be upheld.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions and adopted the Initial Decision.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5499-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 203-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY, Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Deryls Maria Gutierrez, Esq., appearing for Petitioner

Allison Colsey Eck, Deputy Attorney General, appearing for Respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 24, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Passaic or District, an "Abbott" special needs school district, is appealing Respondent's Department of Education (DOE or Department) review of the District's 2003-2004 expenditure budget bearing the date of May 5, 2003. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 "Abbott District;" see also N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.1 et seq. Subsequent to filing of the initial appeal, there were several orders of the Supreme Court, as set forth more fully below: ultimately the issues on appeal were those arising out of the amended DOE budget letters issued on August 27, 2003. (J-1)

Although Petitioner set forth ten specific items to be resolved through litigation, as a result of the settlement conference held on August 29 and subsequent negotiation, all but three of the items were settled or withdrawn. (Appendix I). The issues to be determined herein are, first, to determine which definition of the term "maintenance budget" should be applied; however, the threshold question of whether the Office of Administrative Law has jurisdiction to make such a determination must first be resolved. The second issue which must be addressed is whether DOE has made a prima facie case of three specifically identified inefficiencies in the non-instructional programs including the business center, the grant writer position and purchased professional services for special education. Finally, if DOE has made a prima facie showing identifying the inefficiencies, Petitioner must demonstrate any budgetary reductions are not justified under the effective and efficient standard. (July 23 Order at 5.]

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 24, 2003, the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) moved before the Supreme Court for relief from some of the mandates of Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1999) (Abbott V). Specifically, the Commissioner requested that discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid (supplemental aid) be limited in 2003-2004 to providing support for those programs, positions and services in the Abbott districts' approved budgets for 2002-2003.

On April 8, 2003, the Education Law Center responded to that motion and made a cross motion for relief, requesting an expedited schedule for the review and approval of Abbott district budgets and the appeals arising therefrom. On April 29, 2003, the Court ordered the parties into mediation before the Honorable Philip S. Carchman, J.A.D.

During the mediation, the parties resolved all of the issues except that of the 2003-2004 budget process. The parties, however, did agree to an expedited schedule for budget approvals and appeals which commenced with the DOE review and approval of district budgets by May 30, 2003. In that expedited schedule, the OAL would render an Initial Decision within 50 days of the appeal, and the Commissioner would render final decisions within 25 days of the Initial Decision. On May 20, 2003, the Court entered an order incorporating that agreement. The Order provided that the schedule would "remain in effect until the further Order of the Court."

On May 30, 2003, the DOE rendered decisions on all of the Abbott budgets using the maintenance standard that it had requested that the Court approve. Twenty-three districts (including Passaic) filed appeals from the decisions and those appeals were transmitted to the OAL. All 23 appeals challenged the standard employed by DOE in approving the budgets for 2003-2004.

On June 24, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order in Abbott v. Burke incorporating the terms of the mediation agreement and scheduling oral argument for July 10, 2003 on the remaining issue of the 2003-2004 budget process.

On July 23, 2003, the Supreme Court issued an Order (July 23 Order) in favor of the Commissioner, granting the application for relaxation of the Abbott V remedies as applied to the 2003-2004 budget process:

> The DOE shall have the authority to treat the 2003-2004 school year as a maintenance year for purposes of calculating Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid for the Abbott districts. During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to conditions set forth in this Order.

[July 23 Order at 4].

The Court went on to establish a schedule for the provision of new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and the administrative hearing process to follow on "the DOE's application of the effective and efficient standard." Id. at 7. The Court also directed the promulgation of emergency regulations on the standard. Id. at 5-6.

On August 22, 2003, consistent with the authority granted in the FY2003 Appropriations Act, the Commissioner promulgated emergency regulations as directed by the July 23 Order.[1] The DOE defined "maintenance budget" as the standard for reviewing the Abbott Districts' 2003-2004 applications for additional supplemental funding as follows:

> for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that a district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services and positions and includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures and adjustments for actual 2002-2003 expenditures. Examples of non-discretionary expenditures are increases in contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition. Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions or services that were provided in previous years or new programs, positions or services unless necessary to meet paragraph 2c of the Supreme Court's Order of June 24,2003 Abbott v. Burke. Maintenance also does not include non-recurring 2002-2003 expenditures.
>
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2].

[1] The FY2003 Appropriations Act, L. 2003, c. 122, provides in pertinent part:

> The Commissioner of Education shall not authorize the disbursement of funds to any "Abbott district" until the Commissioner is satisfied that all educational expenditures in the district will be spent effectively and efficiently in order to enable those students to achieve the core curriculum content standards. The Commissioner shall be authorized to take any necessary action to fulfill this responsibility, including but not limited to, the adoption of regulations related to the receipt and/or expenditure of State aid by the "Abbott districts" and the programs, services and positions supported thereby. Notwithstanding and provision of P.L. 1968, C. 410 (C.52:14B-1 et seq.), any such regulations adopted by the Commissioner shall be deemed adopted immediately upon filing with the OAL.

On August 27, 2003, the DOE issued decisions establishing a preliminary maintenance budget figure and the amount of additional supplemental funding needed to support that budget for each of the 23 "appealing" Abbott districts, including Passaic. Pursuant to the regulatory definition of a maintenance budget in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, the DOE used the 2002-2003 school year as a baseline to determine Passaic's preliminary maintenance budget figure for 2003-2004.

The preliminary maintenance budget figure reflects instructional and non-instructional programs that were approved and provided for in the 2002-2003 school year, including increases for non-discretionary costs, as well as adjustments based on Passaic's actual 2002-2003 expenditures.[2]

During a telephone prehearing conference in one of the other "Abbott" cases, Petitioner asserted DOE's regulatory definition of a maintenance budget was inconsistent with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order.

Subsequently, Passaic notified me that it joined in that contention. I requested and received legal argument from both sides on the issue

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

I. Definition of Maintenance Budget

This matter was scheduled for hearing to commence on August 29, 2003 and to continue on September 8, 12 and 15, 2003. Because DOE issued new budget review letters late in the day on August 27, 2003, these parties requested the August 29 hearing date be converted to a settlement conference. I granted this request and, during a status conference call on Thursday, September 4, 2003, the parties indicated that three inefficiencies, out of ten set forth in the August 27, 2003 letter, remained in contention. (See Appendix I). The representatives requested a determination of whether the definition of maintenance budget promulgated in the emergency regulations is inconsistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003 and, therefore, should be disregarded.

[2] "Actual 2002-2003 expenditure" is defined by regulation as a cash or accrued expense in the 2002-2003 school year for goods and/or services received in the 2002-2003 school year. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

I have reviewed the submissions of both parties as well as the orders issued in Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL DKT NO. EDU 4095-03, Order Relative to maintenance Budget," September 4, 2003 and Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4096-03, "Order Relative to "Maintenance Budget," September 10, 2003. I agree with the conclusions of my colleagues who have determined in the first instance that since Petitioner's contention is essentially a challenge in the validity of the regulation, OAL lacks jurisdiction to determine issue and, in the second instance, concluding the definition of "maintenance budget" in the regulation does not differ in any significant way from the definition in the Supreme Court's definition.[3]

I CONCLUDE that the legal principles enunciated in Asbury Park and in Neptune are fully applicable to this matter and incorporate them herein as if set forth in full. Both are attached as Appendix II and III. Based upon those legal principles, I CONCLUDE the appropriate definition of "maintenance budget" is that which is set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2.

II. Effectiveness and efficiency of non-instructional expenditures

The emergency regulation governing application for additional supplemental funding for the 2003-2004 school year requires Respondent to review the non-instructional expenditures in the 2002-2003 budget, on which the 2003-2004 school year is based, to ensure that they are effective and efficient. The regulation then sets forth the mechanisms by which the determination of effectiveness and efficiency of non-instructional expenditures shall be measured. These mechanisms include a comparative analysis of non-instructional expenditures to those of other school districts and/or historical data in the district, an analysis of staffing needs, and a review of non-instructional programs which may be funded through other sources or, in the alternative, that funding is not available because the expenditure is not essential to the provision of a thorough and efficient education. For those inefficiencies which are sustained by the Commissioner, a reduction in Petitioner's budget shall be made. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1.

[3] See Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4096-03, Order Relative to "Maintenance Budget," September 10, 2003 (recognizing Petitioner's assertion that he issue is not a facial challenge to the regulation, but presents a choice of law questions, i.e., whether to apply the Supreme Court's definition of "Maintenance Budget: or the different regulatory definition adopted by DOE; concluding that the language in each definition is consistent with the language in the other). (Attached hereto as Appendix I & II respectively).

In this case, when Respondent's letter dated August 27, 2003 was issued, Petitioner identified ten "inefficiencies" which the District intended to appeal. The first scheduled date of hearing, September 29, was converted to a settlement conference[4] and, by the day of hearing, the ten issues had been reduced to three.[5] There were, however, six last minute "maintenance issues" raised for the very first time at a late afternoon conference with the attorneys on the Friday before the hearing.

The first inefficiency identified by Respondent is the grant writer's position. While the DOE representative was explicit and strenuous in his support of maintaining this position, he testified that, after completing the analysis of this position, currently funded at 67% from the General Revenue fund and 33% from Special Revenue fund, he came to the conclusion the position could be funded through sources other than through Petitioner's budget and made a $30,000 reduction in the District's budget for this position. He made this determination by comparing Passaic with other districts as well as examining alternative funding sources. For example, some grants permit a district to charge for indirect costs which could be used to capture a portion of the grant

[4] The cooperation between the District and DOE representatives in attempting a resolution in this matter has been exemplary. The parties spent many hours here at OAL negotiating their differences. I commend them for the time and effort they expended.

[5] Attached as Appendix I is Petitioner's letter indicating the ten issues and which had been withdrawn and which remained to be heard on the date of hearing.

writer's salary. Moreover, he recommended that the District investigate the viability of using so called "carry-over" grant funds to fund a portion of the grant writer's salary. The witness further testified that he, as the Coordinator of the Northern Region and Budget Manager for Passaic, has seen "carry-over" grant money revert to the grantor because Passaic failed to monitor the grants to prevent this from happening. This testimony was unrebutted.

The language of the regulation requires Respondent to identify expenditures which may be funded through other funding sources. Based on DOE'S analysis, I FIND Respondent has identified this expenditure as an inefficiency. I further FIND, based on the witness' testimony of the comparison to other districts as well as his analysis of alternative funding sources, Respondent has made a prima facie case for the reduction of the budget item relating to the grant writer's position.

Petitioner's witness, the grant writer, replied that the amount of grant money which the writer has brought in over the period of her tenure more than justifies her salary. In addition, the District asserts that many Abbott districts have grant writing positions whose entire salary is paid by the District. While the record is clear that the position is essential to the District, such conclusory statements are not sufficient to support elimination of recommended reduction. The grant writer herself testified that if more of her salary was attributed to "carry over" funds, she would have to allocate a greater percentage of her time to grant management, which has to do with implementing the programs for which the grant is provided, rather than grant development, which is concerned with the researching of ideas and the writing of grant proposals. Given the unrebutted testimony regarding the reversion of carry over funds to the grantors, I FIND there is clearly a need for better grant management in the District.

With respect to the suggestion that a portion of the grant writer's salary be funded through indirect costs, the grant writer testified that this could not be done because Passaic did not have an indirect cost rate, which is required in order to apply for salary funding through indirect costs, which are certain administrative costs involved in the programs for which the funds are granted.

Moreover, according to the Business Administrator, indirect costs are only applicable to Title I grants. There was, however, no explanation of what Title I grants are and how much of the total grant funding is attributable to Title I nor was there an explanation of why Passaic has not applied for the rate. Finally, Petitioner has not demonstrated other funding sources are not available.

Based on the totality of the testimony, I FIND that Petitioner did not sustain the shifted burden of demonstrating that this budgetary reduction is not justified under the effective and efficient standard. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that DOE properly determined that there is an inefficiency in this position and that the reduction in the budget of $30,000 was proper and is affirmed.

Turning now to the issue of the efficiency and effectiveness of the Business Cost Center, DOE determined that $150,000 in the business cost center should be reduced as inefficient. DOE's representative, the Budget Manager for the District who is also the Coordinator of the Northern Region, evaluated this cost center by reviewing the number of business office personnel in other Abbott districts. (R-1). Although this Cost Center includes business office personnel as well as other administrative personnel, Respondent's focus was on the business office. In its relevant submissions to DOE, Passaic represented that it had 31 positions in this cost center.

Respondent's witness testified that in coming to this determination, he took the following factors into consideration:

a) the large number of non-degree (uncertified) individuals earning extremely high salaries, in excess of $50,000, in comparison to other districts;
b) the Business Administrator is the highest paid in the State of New Jersey; and

c) the Assistant Business Administrator is paid a "significant" salary.

Respondent's representative noted other Abbott school districts operate without an Assistant Business Administrator; in addition, Passaic is presently operating without two FTE's.[6] A proposed budget manager has not been hired and one vacancy exists in the position of assistant payroll coordinator.

Based on the testimony that the Business Administrator is the highest paid in the State and the Assistant Business Administrator receives a significant salary, as well as the fact that the two vacancies exist and there has been no testimony that keeping these positions vacant has had a deleterious effect on the operation of the business office, I FIND, to the extent of the salaries and benefits related to the two vacancies, Petitioner has failed to rebut Respondent's prima facie showing of inefficiency in the business office. The record is devoid of any testimony or documentation of specific need for an Assistant School Business Administrator.

In addition to keeping the two positions vacant, Respondent testified since the salaries of the Business Administrator and his assistant, as well as those of other high level administrative personnel not covered by a collective bargaining agreement are among the highest in the State, he suggested that an efficiency in the business office might be accomplished by a salary freeze. The record is clear that the witness was aware that at least one of the employees in this category is tenured, and, therefore, enjoys the protection of the tenure statute.[7]

Because Respondent identified the salaries of these administrators as a possible source of inefficiency, Petitioner must demonstrate reductions based on these salaries are not justified, which Petitioner has failed to do. Although these are individuals not covered by collective bargaining agreements, there are issues of contractual rights, and, perhaps, protection of the tenure law. There is nothing in the record to demonstrate which of these administrators may be protected by the tenure statute or may have contractual rights which would be affected by a wage freeze. I FIND, therefore, to the extent that these top administrators are protected by contractual rights and/or the tenure statute, the payment of a salary increase is non-discretionary; I further FIND, however, Petitioner has failed to demonstrate any budgetary reduction in the business office account is not justified. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE the determination an inefficiency exists in the business office was appropriate; I further CONCLUDE an appropriate deduction from Petitioner's budget in accord with the superceding constraints of contractual rights and the tenure statute is appropriate.

[6] Full Time Employee
[7] N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10

The third inefficiency identified by Respondent is in the area of purchased professional services in Special Education. The record is clear Passaic has historically had difficulty in budgeting in this area and there is significant variation in the spending per special education student in Passaic in comparison with that of other Abbott Districts. In comparison to the other districts, Passaic's per pupil amount is considerably higher than the average and significantly higher than the next closest school district by more than $700 per pupil, according to DOE's testimony. Moreover, the average cost for purchased professional services in Passaic is $1484, the highest of all the Abbott districts, in which the average is $210. These numbers were not disputed.

Accordingly, one of the economies suggested by Respondent was for the District to consider employing "in house" providers of related or purchased services rather than paying consultant a "per hour" fee for services. The testimony of Petitioner's two witnesses on this point, however, was consistent and persuasively credible. Both testified that the District has been unable to hire staff consultants, such as speech therapists; therefore, there is a need to purchase the services on a "per hour basis". The requirements are driven by the IEP[8] in each individual student's case and they fluctuate throughout the year. In addition, although Respondent asserted purchasing the required services on a "per hour basis" could result in higher costs, this testimony was couched in general, non-specific terms.

[8] Individual Education Plan

Based on the testimony of Petitioner's witnesses regarding the difficulty they have encountered in employing such consultants "in house" well as Respondent's recognition increased spending in new IEP's depends on the composition of the district and the requirements of each district's special education population, I FIND Petitioner has successfully rebutted the prima facie case on this issue. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that a reduction in Petitioner's budget based on this inefficiency is inappropriate.

III. Determination of Certain Maintenance Calculations

Literally on the eve of hearing, the District raised the issue of whether six maintenance calculations had been properly determined. The parties reached an agreement with respect to four of those calculations. (See Appendix IV). Only the propriety of the calculations of the CPI and the utilities adjustments remain to be determined.

The Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order and the Department's regulations require the Department to provide increases for non-discretionary costs in the 2003-2004 maintenance budget; neither the Court nor the Department require adjustments for discretionary costs. Although not required to provide an adjustment for discretionary increases, the Department decided to provide an across the board cost of living increase to all of the non-salary cost centers not otherwise specifically provided for in the list of non-discretionary increases. The Department also provided an increase for utility costs, which could be considered both discretionary and non-discretionary. Utilities are non-discretionary since electricity and heat need to be provided, but utility costs are also discretionary since the school district can seek to control the usage and costs through other providers and engaging in conservation measures.

Petitioner challenges both of these calculations.

A. Consumer Price Index – 2.11% Non-Salaried Increase

Respondent's witness testified the CPI[9] adjustment was a catch-all adjustment which was intended to provide the districts with a little extra funding to cover unforeseen increases in their budget. The CPI calculation in the maintenance budget is an average of the CPI rate for the New York/Northern New Jersey area and the Philadelphia/Southern New Jersey, in accordance with the statutory provision set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 which states:

> CPI means the average annual increase, expressed as a decimal, in the CPI for the New York City and Philadelphia areas during the fiscal year preceding the prebudget year as reported by the United States Department of Labor.

Although the Northern New Jersey CPI may be higher, the Department relied upon the CPI rate calculated pursuant to statute for all of the state aid figures in the state, and used the CPI figure provided by the Department of Finance when it calculated the CPI adjustment to the maintenance calculation. Although I agree with Petitioner's assertion that this calculation does not take into consideration the rising cost of non-salaried items that a school district must necessarily purchase in order to provide a thorough and efficient education to its pupils, especially when that district is located in an area with a higher CPI, I FIND that there is a reasonable basis for Respondent's calculation; furthermore, the methodology, i.e., the averaging of New York and Philadelphia areas, is required by statute. I am, therefore, constrained to CONCLUDE Respondent's determination concerning the rate of 2.11% must be upheld since it was calculated pursuant to Department procedures for all school districts and in accordance with statutory requirements.

In addition to the rate of the CPI adjustment, Passaic also challenges the total number of accounts to be included in the calculation of the CPI adjustment. Respondent's witness testified he looked at the total expenditure in the 2002-2003 year for the non-salary accounts. He then deducted the amounts included in separate cost driver adjustments, specifically, salaries, health benefits, charter school tuition, special education, transportation for special education, social security FICA and utilities, as well as the amount for compensated absences, which was an area of inefficiency that the parties are attempting to eliminate. After he made these deductions from the sum of non-salary accounts, the witness testified he arrived at a figure of approximately ten million dollars. He then multiplied that amount by the 2.11% average to determine that the district should receive a CPI adjustment in the amount of $215,877.

[9] Consumer Price Index

Passaic did not provide any evidence to challenge the Department's total expenditures sum nor did they challenge the number of the accounts that were deducted. Mr. Lee, Petitioner's representative, and Mr. Turek, Respondent's representative, could not explain the difference between the Department's and Passaic's numbers for the sum on non-salary accounts. Each witness testified to the method he employed; however, Passaic did not provide any evidence which demonstrates that the Department's determination is unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious. Accordingly, I FIND DOE's calculation to be reasonable; I further FIND the Department's calculation of the total number of non-salary accounts, exclusive of the items otherwise provided for, and the $215,877 provided as the CPI adjustment are reasonable. I CONCLUDE these determinations should be upheld.

B. Utilities

Respondent recognized districts could be faced with significant utility increases. Accordingly, the Department decided to include a cost driver for utilities to provide funding for anticipated cost increases. Respondent's witness testified that he reviewed the rates of increase for a number of utility providers and determined that a seven percent increase appeared to be an average increase based upon the information he had available.

Passaic claims that its rates for utilities will increase by close to 30% for the 2003-2004 school year. Petitioner's witness testified that he called four other utility companies, all of whom declined to bid, because PSE&G rates were competitive; Petitioner's witness also testified to a conversation he had with a PSE&G representative, who, according to the witness, told him the increase in rates in the coming year would be approximately 30%. This testimony is unsupported hearsay; thus, I accord it no weight.

Moreover, Passaic's reliance on the PSE&G bulletin (P-15) is misplaced. In the first instance, that bulletin also is clearly hearsay which was uncorroborated and unsubstantiated during the hearing. Secondly, the bulletin, which is ambiguous, at best, does not state that energy bills will increase by 30%. The narrative on the two pages describes the elimination of the 14% rate freeze and the increased costs of providing service to customers, and nothing in the language states that rates will increase 30%. The only reference to anticipated increases is set forth in a side box of information on the second page which states that "PSE&G's residential customer bills will increase an average 15.1 percent beginning this month." (Emphasis added).

DOE's representative testified if the cost of utilities increases throughout the year, the District has the right to apply to DOE for additional funding. Although Petitioner contends this method of delaying the District's entitlement to an increase can be interpreted as nothing more than an attempt to prolong the budget appeal process, it is because of the nature of the particular circumstances surrounding energy issues, such as the recent expiration of the rate freeze and the announced increase, as well as the changing patterns of usage in the districts, that such a budget process is required. If Passaic incurs an unexpected cost increase in utilities mid-year, it can apply for additional supplemental Abbott v. Burke State Aid. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g). I FIND the determination of Respondent regarding the calculation of utility increase, which is an increase granted in the discretion of DOE, i.e., it is outside the parameters of the Abbott order, to be reasonable. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that Respondent's calculation should be upheld.

ORDER

Consonant with the preceding findings of fact and conclusions, I hereby ORDER:

Respondent's determination with respect to the grant writer position be and hereby is AFFIRMED;

Respondent's determination with respect to the business office be and hereby is MODIFIED in accordance with the conclusions set forth herein;

Respondent's determination with respect to purchased professional services for special education be and hereby is REVERSED; and Respondent's determination with respect to calculation of the CPI utility adjustments be and hereby are AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 26, 2003
DATE

Maria M. La Fiandra
MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

jb

APPENDIX V

Witnesses

James Turek

Henry Lee

Ellen Ziff

Frank D'Ambra

Angela Gomez

Exhibits

Joint:

J-1 DOE Letter, August 27, 2003

J-2 DOE Maintenance Items, August 23, 2003

Petitioner:

P-1 Excerpt from Annual District Budget Statement Supporting Documentation (pg. F 2)

P-2 Grants Development to Date (2 pgs)

P-3 Director of Grant Management List

P-4 Districts with Grants Offices Funded Through District Funding

P-5 Final Report - Passaic Public School System Management Study, June 13, 1997

P-6 Fiscal Function, September 11, 2003

P-7 Business Office Staffing Summary

P-8 Total Administrative Cost – Indicator 8

P-9 Salaries & Benefits for Administration – Indicator 9

P-10 Contractual Salaries & FICA

P-11 Health Benefits Calculation

P-12 US Dept. of Labor CPI

P-13 CPI Adjustment by District

P-14 Statement of Energy Costs

P-15 PSE&G New Rates effective August 1, 2003

P-16 Calculation of Electric Energy Costs for LPLS Users

P-17 Calculation of Electric Energy Costs for GLP Users

P-18 Positions Transferred from General Funds Early Childhood Education

Respondent:

R-1 Business Office FTE Analysis

R-2 Rosenfarb Waters Report (pg. 16 only)

R-3 Special Education Related Costs

R-4 Student/Administrator Ration – Indicator 18

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PASSAIC, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties' exceptions and replies were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner initially concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). Even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to consider petitioner's argument regarding the validity and applicability of the regulation at issue, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003.

Further, with respect to the identified inefficiencies in petitioner's non-instructional expenditures, including the grant writer position, the business cost center and purchased professional services for special education, based on the record before him and the credibility assessments of the ALJ, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's factual findings and determines that her analysis and legal conclusions are consistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, as well as the Department's regulatory amendments adopted on August 22, 2003.[1] The Commissioner additionally concurs with the ALJ that respondent's maintenance calculations incorporating Consumer Price Index (CPI) adjustments of 2.11 % and an anticipated cost increase of 7 % for utilities should be upheld.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[1] The Commissioner notes that the individuals involved in this business cost center are not covered by a collective bargaining agreement. (Initial Decision at 10) To the extent there is a contractual obligation to pay these individual administrators' salaries, the Commissioner clarifies that the Department is not necessarily obligated to provide funding for the increase where it has been determined to be inefficient, as it has herein. (Ibid.)

[2] The Commissioner so determines, based upon the proofs brought to this record, while acknowledging that the presentation of such evidence may have been disadvantaged by both a Court Order to expedite proceedings and the unavailability of the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) until November 2003. In any event, beyond his determination herein, the Commissioner underscores the availability of a mechanism for Abbott districts to address needs, arising during the year due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances, for additional resources to implement Department-approved programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 22, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

591-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court.

The ALJ found that the duly promulgated rule implementing the Court's order for "maintenance" controlled in this proceeding, and that the Office of Administrative Law lacked jurisdiction to determine its validity.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, adopted the Initial Decision for the reasons expressed therein and dismissed the District's petition.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5493-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 205-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., appearing for petitioner

Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General, appearing for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 22, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (district), the operator of an urban special needs Abbott school district, appealed from the Department of Education's (DOE) initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3.

On March 24, 2003, the DOE moved before the New Jersey Supreme Court for an order modifying the decision in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V) to limit the budgetary expenditures for the 2003-2004 years to those approved for 2002-2003. A subsequent Court-ordered mediation resolved most issues between the parties but the issue of the maintenance budget remained. On May 30, 2003, the DOE issued decisions on the Abbott districts' budgets.

In this case the DOE Assistant Commissioner, Division of Abbott Implementation, by letter dated May 30, 2003, notified the district that the DOE had completed its initial review of the district's 2003-2004 expenditure budget. On June 3, 2003, the district filed a verified petition of appeal with the department challenging parts of the budget. The DOE transmitted the matter on June 9, 2003 for a hearing as a contested case to the Office of Administrative Law. On June 12, 2003, the DOE filed its answer.

On July 10, 2003, the New Jersey Supreme Court heard oral argument on the budget process. The Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order (the Order) gave DOE the authority to treat the 2003-2004 fiscal school year as a maintenance year for calculating additional Abbott aid. The Order set a deadline for DOE to provide notice to each district of the preliminary maintenance budget figures and set a schedule for new DOE decisions on supplemental funding and for the administrative appeal and hearing process. The Court also ordered DOE to promulgate emergency regulations for evaluating the efficiency of non-instructural programs.

The DOE promulgated emergency regulations, effective August 22, 2003, including amending N.J.S.A. 6A:10 to include a definition of the term "maintenance budget". *N.J.A.C.*6A:10-1.2 states in pertinent part: "'Maintenance budget' means, for the 2003-2004 school year, a budget funded at a level such that a district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services and positions . . . . Maintenance does not include the restoration of programs, positions or services that were provided in previous years . . . ."

On August 27, 2003, the DOE sent to the district superintendent preliminary maintenance budget figures, setting the school district's budget at $288,116,672, inclusive of the district's general fund budget and restricted revenue accounts. The DOE's review determined that the district's need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid was $7,413,285. The DOE noted that the preliminary maintenance budget and the estimated supplemental aid was subject to further adjustments after submission by the district of the 2002-2003 CAFR.

In early September 2003, the district and the DOE engaged in informal discussion over the course of several days. As a result counsel for the district notified the undersigned by letter dated September 16, 2003, that the district "does not contest any of the specific maintenance budget calculations of the department in its August 27, 2003 letter." The district further advised that there was no need for a factual hearing. As the only remaining issue was the definition of "maintenance budget," the undersigned directed the parties to file briefs on the subject on or before September 22, 2003. On September 19, 2003, DOE filed its brief. On September 22, 2003, the district filed its brief and the record closed. In its brief the district stated that it was negotiating with the DOE for stipulations but none have been received.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The issue here is the applicable definition of the term "maintenance budget" in these administrative proceedings. The school district argued that the Order clearly and unambiguously provided that a maintenance budget is the amount approved for 2002-2003 school fiscal year, whether or not the funds were actually spent for the approved purposes. In ordering that DOE treat the 2002-2003 school fiscal year as a maintenance year, the Court stated, "During 2003-2004, K-12 programs provided for in the 2002-2003 school year will be continued, subject to the conditions set forth in this Order." Order, para 1. Next the Court explicitly defined maintenance budget as a budget in which "a district would be funded at a level such that the district can implement current approved programs, services and positions and therefore includes documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures." Order, para. 2. The district argued that, contrary to the DOE's emergency regulation definition, the Supreme Court's use of the terms "provided for" and "current approved" plainly denote that the maintenance budget means the approved, not the actual, expenditures.

Additionally, the district argued that the Supreme Court ordered the DOE to promulgate an emergency regulation concerning the standard for evaluating non-instructional programs, but neither required or authorized the DOE to promulgate a regulation relating to the definition of maintenance budget. Hence, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, the DOE's emergency regulation defining maintenance budget as "a budget funded at a level such that the district can implement 2002-2003 approved and provided programs, services and positions . . ." is not keeping with the Court's own Order. The district further argued that the term "provided for" has a completely different meaning than "provided": "provided for" being synonymous with "approved" and "provided" being "actually supplied." The district also argued that the definition in DOE's emergency regulation was contrary to the definition DOE had offered previously to the Supreme Court. "Maintenance means that a district will be funded at the level that will enable it to continue implementing the current approved programs, services and positions . . . ." (Report of the Abbott mediation (Order of April 28, 2003) attachment 4).

The DOE argued that the N.J.S.A. 6A:10-1.2 maintenance budget definition is consistent with the Supreme Court Order. Further, DOE submitted that the school district's objection to the definition is essentially a facial challenge to the regulation. As such, the challenge must be brought in the Appellate Division under R. 2:2-3(a)(2), as the OAL has no jurisdiction to determine the validity of rules. It is undisputed that no challenge to the regulation has been filed in the Appellate Division. Consequently, the current regulation is the applicable standard in all cases pending at the OAL.

The school district disagreed with the need to challenge the validity of the rule in the Appellate Division. Rather the district argued that Abbott V directed that all disputes concerning the Abbott issues must be heard at the OAL, then go to the Commissioner, with the final agency determination appealable to the Appellate Division. Abbott V at 526-27. Moreover, the ALJ is merely faced with a choice of law and must choose the wording of the Supreme Court over the regulation.

An administrative regulation carries a presumption of validity so that any party attacking it bears the burden of proving it is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable or otherwise unlawful. New Jersey Guild of Hearing Aid Dispensers v. Long, 75 N.J. 544, 561-62 (1978). If an administrative regulation is within the fair contemplation of the enabling statute and is neither arbitrary nor capricious, a court will not invalidate the regulation. Marsh v. Dept. of Environmental Protection, 152 N.J. 147, 149 (1997). In creating the OAL, the Legislature provided an administrative forum for hearings on contested case of administrative agencies and for issuance of initial decisions by an administrative law judges containing recommended findings of fact and conclusions of law. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b)-10(c). The OAL is part of the executive branch and has no jurisdiction to determine the validity of a rule. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1; Wendling v. New Jersey Racing Comm'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 475 (App. Div. 1995). In fact, a previous challenge to the rules implementing Abbott funding was brought in the Appellate Division. In re 1999-2000 Abbott Implementing Regulations, N.J.A.C. 6:19A-1.1 et seq., 348 N.J. Super. 382 (App. Div. 2002).

The crux of the school district's contention is that the regulation adds an impermissible limitation to the maintenance budget definition in the Order, which on its face is arbitrary and unreasonable. R. 2:2-3(a)(2) provides that an appeal challenging the validity of any state administrative agency regulation must be brought in the Superior Court Appellate Division. See also Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40 (1976). It is undisputed that no such appeal has been brought. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the district's challenge to the validity and applicability to the N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 definition of "maintenance budget" is a facial challenge to the regulation, which cannot be heard at the OAL. Unless determined otherwise by the Appellate Division, the disputed definition is part of a valid regulation that must be applied at the OAL. The district's argument that this is a choice of law case and that the OAL may choose to follow the Order rather than the valid regulation gives the OAL more power than the legislature and the Supreme Court has. Plainly the Abbott districts would not have previously challenged the 1999-2000 regulation in the Appellate Division if the OAL were the correct forum to make the facial attack. Hence, I CONCLUDE that the regulation's maintenance budget definition must be applied here.

ORDER

Consistent with the above, it is hereby ORDERED that the N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 definition of maintenance budget is applicable here.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Sept 26, 2003
DATE

MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

Sept. 26, 2003
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

Sept. 26, 2003
DATE

jb

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5493-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 205-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department's decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-2004 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The District's exceptions and the Department's reply thereto were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record and the District's exceptions, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that the District's challenge to the definition of "maintenance budget" in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is a facial challenge to the regulation and that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n., 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485

(App. Div. 1995). Moreover, even if it were to be assumed, arguendo, that the OAL has jurisdiction to determine "a choice of law" as argued by the District, the Commissioner finds that the Department's definition of "maintenance budget," as detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, does not differ in any appreciable way from the Supreme Court's definition of that term contained in its Budget Order of July 23, 2003. Consequently, the Department's application of such regulatory definition in its review and approval of the District's 2003-2004 budget is wholly appropriate.[1]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The District's petition is, therefore, dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

[1] In that counsel for petitioner notified Judge Hayden by letter of September 16, 2003 that the District "does not contest any of the specific maintenance budget calculations of the Department of Education in the August 27, 2003 letter," the validity of the definition of the "maintenance budget" set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is the only remaining issue in this matter.

[2] Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

592-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court.

The ALJ found that the duly promulgated rule implementing the Court's order for "maintenance" controlled in this proceeding, and that the Office of Administrative Law lacked jurisdiction to determine its validity. The ALJ also concluded that: 1) the Department correctly adjusted the maintenance calculation for Funds 11 and 15 and the excess fund balance, and that any adjustments for new information will be audited and adjusted with the 2002-03 CAFR and 2) the Department's methodology for calculating the maintenance budget for the Early Childhood Plan is reasonable. The ALJ further ordered that, as set forth in Joint Exhibit No. 1, the parties will review the PSEA revenue adjustment to determine if this amount was counted twice, the Department will calculate the District's CPI adjustment based on the June 30, 2003 Board Secretaries Report at 2.1% and the maintenance budget worksheet will be revised accordingly, and that, in all other respects, the Department's determination was affirmed with respect to Plainfield's 2003-04 budget, as set forth in the determination letter of August 27, 2003.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions and adopted the Initial Decision for the reasons expressed therein.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5502-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 206-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE
CITY OF PLAINFIELD, UNION COUNTY,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Diana Rosenheim, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 25, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

The Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, operator of an urban special needs "Abbott District" school system appeals from the Department of Education's (DOE's) May 30, 2003 review of the District's 2003-2004 expenditure budget. More particularly, the District appeals from DOE's preliminary maintenance budget figure for the 2003-2004 school year consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that will be needed to support the 2003-2004 approved budget, as set forth in DOE's letter of August 27, 2003 by Assistant Commissioner Gordon MacInnes (J-2 and J-3).

After numerous conferences with counsel, this matter was scheduled for hearing on September 24, 2003 at the Office of Administrative Law. Witnesses who testified and exhibits considered in deciding this case are listed in the attached appendix.

Issues

Prior to the hearing, it became clear that there were essentially three issues in dispute. First, the District contends that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition conflicts with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order and should not govern this case. Second, the District argues that the DOE's calculation for funds 11, 15 and, therefore, the excess surplus fund balance does not appropriately take into account the District's actual expenditures and encumbrances as of June 30, 2003. Third, the District asserts that the DOE's "maintenance budget" worksheet improperly compared the difference between the budgeted early childhood plan for 2003-2004 and the budgeted early childhood plan for 2002-2003 rather than the actual (revised) plan of the District for 2002-2003, which was based on the District's actual enrollment in 2002-2003.

Stipulated Facts

At the hearing it became clear that the facts were essentially undisputed. The parties signed a stipulation of facts (J-1), incorporated by reference, which sets forth the relevant facts essential to a determination, as well as those issues, which have been resolved by the parties.

Testimony

In addition to the stipulated facts, the DOE relied on the testimony of Keith Costello, budget manager for the DOE, responsible for aiding the District in formulating a "maintenance budget," consistent with DOE guidelines. His testimony related solely to whether the DOE properly compared the budgeted early childhood plan for 2002-2003 to the budgeted early childhood plan for 2003-2004. Although he agreed that this comparison resulted in a decrease in the amount of money received by Plainfield for 2003-2004, he indicated that since the actual amount for 2003-2004 could not be known, the budgeted amounts for the two years were compared. This was the approach utilized in each "Abbott District." He contended that most "maintenance numbers" are based on 2002-2003 budgeted amounts.

On cross-examination, Costello agreed that the District received aid based on the actual enrollments for 2002-2003. In fact, the District received approximately $2 million less than its budgeted amount. He agreed that a budgeted plan is based on the projection of the number of children and the actual plan based on actual enrollments, which was less in this case. He further agreed that the DOE looked at the actual numbers in determining the budget for funds 11 and 15 and knew the District's actual numbers for early childhood for 2002-2003. [1]

Discussion

First to be addressed is the District's contention that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition conflicts with the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order and should not govern this matter. In reaching a determination on this issue, I am persuaded by the decision of Administrative Law Judge John R. Tassini, dated September 4, 2003 in which Judge Tassini considered an "Abbott district's" challenge to [1] Although Costello claimed that he received conflicting information as to the actual amount of money received by the District in early childhood for 2002-2003, the District agreed to stipulate to the DOE's actual numbers for 2002-2003.

the validity and applicability of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition. See, Board of Educ. of the City of Asbury Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4095-03, Decision by Hon. John R. Tassini, ALJ on Order Relative to "Maintenance Budget" (Sept. 4, 2003). Judge Tassini determined that any challenge to a duly adopted regulation, such as N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 must be brought in the Superior Court, Appellate Division, pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2) and no jurisdiction exists at OAL to address that issues. He thus concluded that the regulation must be applied in the OAL.

I am further persuaded by the order of Administrative Law Judge Joseph F. Martone dated September 10, 2003, in which he agreed with Judge Tassini's determination. See, Board of Educ. of the Township of Neptune v. State of New Jersey, Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4096-03, Decision by Hon. Joseph F. Martone, ALJ on Order Relative to "Maintenance Budget" (September 10, 2003). Of import, Judge Martone also found that the language contained in the Supreme Court's Budget Order of July 23, 2003 was consistent with N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition. He concluded that the Supreme Court's Order provided a reasonable basis for N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2's "maintenance budget" definition and refused to disregard the "maintenance budget" definition contained in that regulation in deciding a matter involving a particular Abbott school district.

Since I am in agreement with the conclusions reached by Judges Tassini and Martone, regarding the proper definition of "maintenance budget," I incorporate them here. Inasmuch as I agree with my colleagues, I see no reason to reiterate the arguments of counsel or further discuss their conclusions. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the definition of "maintenance budget" as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 is applicable to this matter.

The next issue to be addressed is the District's contention that the DOE must consider the actual figures in the June 30, 2003 Board Secretary's Report rather than the figures supplied by the District by August 26, 2003. The District does not dispute that the Board Secretary's Report was supplied to the DOE on or about September 18, 2003, but argues that in any event the DOE must use that updated information rather than wait for the Comprehensive Annual Financial Review (CAFR) to make the necessary adjustments. The District contends that if the June 30, 2003 Board Secretary's Report had been available to the DOE prior to August 27, 2003, the DOE would have utilized the figures contained in that report. The District asserts that resolution of this issue should not be based on an assessment of "fault" because the District turned in the report late, but rather on what the District's 2003-2004 maintenance budget properly should be so that the children impacted by the budget are not harmed. The District argues that the DOE has the legal obligation "through the administrative process to accept supplemental documentation" and to cure any deficiencies in the District's budget resulting from the DOE's consideration of outdated and inaccurate information. Thus, the adjustments should be made based on what it has now given to the DOE and should not await the CAFR for the 2002-2003 school year, required to be submitted to the DOE by the District mid-November 2003. The District asserts that the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003 requires that the District's budget issues be resolved now, not after receipt of the CAFR, which properly allows the District to plan for the school year. Moreover, there is no indication as to when the DOE will make any adjustments based on the CAFR, nor is it clear that the District would receive actual cash funding if there is an upward adjustment in favor of the District rather than an account receivable in the 2004-2005 school year. The District further points out that the DOE improperly reduced the excess fund balance over 2% on the basis of predictions in advance of the CAFR.

DOE argues that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-9.6(c), the District bears the burden of proof in this case and must comply with the requirements of the DOE's duly adopted regulations in order to establish any entitlement to additional aid. The DOE argues that it used the numbers for funds 11 and 15 that were provided to it from the District by August 26, 2003. These were the most up-to-date numbers that the District had provided to the DOE prior to the issuance of the August 27, 2003 budget letter. It contends that further adjustments for actual spending and final 2002-2003 amounts should await receipt of the CAFR. More particularly, the DOE argues that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 the Board Secretary is required to file the Board Secretary's Report with the Commissioner on or before August 1 of each year. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:23-1, the school district is to have an annual audit completed not later than four months after the end of the school fiscal year. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-1.2 defines the CAFR to be the official annual report of a governmental unit that includes all funds and accounts groups summarizing the activities and operations performed by all units. According to the DOE, if the District's new information is, after audit, included in the CAFR, then the adjustment will be made to the District's aid award pursuant to the Appropriations Act (New Jersey Fiscal FY 04 Appropriations Act, P.L. 2003 c. 122).

I have considered the arguments of counsel and must agree with DOE's contentions. It is clear that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 the Board Secretary is required to file the Board Secretary's Report with the Commissioner on or before August 1 of each year. In this case, the District simply did not do so. Moreover, the Supreme Court's July 23, 2003 Order set forth particular time frames for the DOE to provide notice to each district of its preliminary maintenance budget figures for the 2003-2004 school year, consisting of the 2002-2003 approved budget and an estimate of the supplemental funding that would be needed to support the currently approved budget. In actuality, these scheduling orders gave the DOE until August 27, 2003 to issue its budget decision letter to the District.

It must be pointed out here that not only did the District fail to get the Board Secretary Report to the DOE as required on August 1, 2003 but it did not get its updated figures to the DOE prior to the DOE's August 27, 2003 letter. In fact, the Board Secretary Report was not given to the DOE until September 18, 2003.

In light of this, I CONCLUDE that the District failed to comply with the requisite statutory requirements, as well as the scheduling requirements, essentially established by the New Jersey Supreme Court. As such, it is not only reasonable but appropriate that the District's Abbott v. Burke State Aid Award be adjusted based on the annual audit filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:23-1, if the District's new information is, after the requisite audit, included in the CAFR. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the DOE correctly adjusted the maintenance calculation for Funds 11, 15 and the excess fund balance and that any further adjustments for new information will be audited and adjusted with the 2002-2003 CAFR.

A third legal issue concerns the District's contention that in the case of early childhood, the DOE improperly used the approved 2002-2003 EC plan rather than the actual revised 2002-2003 plan after the elimination of preschool expansion aid. The District points out that since the elimination of preschool expansion aid required a reduction in the scope of the approved plan for the 2002-2003 school year, the District's revised approved EC plan had to be adjusted downward to account for the revised scope of the plan. Thus, the accurate calculation of the differences between 2002-2003 and 2003-2004 should take into account the revised, approved plan because that is all the District was able to provide in 2002-2003. The District argues that simply because the DOE consistently used this methodology, does not make it correct. The District contends that since the budgeted 2003-2004 EC plan is, until otherwise revised, the actual EC plan for 2003-2004, DOE's comparison of the 2003-2004 EC plan with the 2002-2003 EC plan should have similarly accounted for the actual revised 2002-2003 EC plan.

The DOE argues that it properly adjusted the maintenance calculation for the difference in the EC plan by comparing EC Plan Year Budget to EC Plan Year Budget. The DOE argues that it did this consistently throughout all the districts resulting in more favorable outcomes for the districts than unfavorable outcomes. The DOE contends that the negative result here should not invalidate the consistent and reasonable approach that the DOE took in dealing with this adjustment. It further asserts that even if the DOE had compared the EC Plan Budget for 2002-2003 to 2002-2003 EC Plan actual expenditures, the District would have incurred the same decrease and thus no adjustment is necessary based on the available numbers.

I have considered the arguments of counsel and must agree with the position espoused by the DOE.[2] Although I agree with the District that the consistent use of the DOE's methodology does not in itself make it correct, I do not agree that simply because it does not work to the District's advantage makes it incorrect. The methodology utilized by the DOE has been applied to all "Abbott Districts" uniformly and has served to increase maintenance budgets in over half of the Districts. The District has not established that the use of this methodology is per se improper, illegal, inconsistent with the New Jersey Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003 or violative of any of its constitutional rights. The DOE is obligated only to utilize an approach that is reasonable and uniformly applied. Here they have done so. If the methodology is to be changed in each area in which an Abbott District is not advantaged, there will be no uniformity or equity to the provision of Abbott funds. Thus, I reject the District's argument and CONCLUDE that the DOE's methodology is reasonable and will not be second-guessed.

Order

I ORDER that as set forth in J-1 (#1) the parties will review the PSEA revenue adjustment to determine if this amount was counted twice. Further, pursuant to J-1 (#2), The DOE will calculate the District's CPI adjustment based on the District's June 30, 2003 Board Securities Report at 2.1%. The maintenance budget worksheet will be revised accordingly. I further ORDER, for the reasons set forth above, that in all other respects, the determination by the DOE with respect to Plainfield's 2003-2004 budget, as set forth in Assistant Commissioner MacInnes' letter of August 27, 2003, be affirmed and that the appeal be DENIED.

[2] Although the DOE argues that the calculation on the maintenance budget worksheet, J-3, would be unchanged no matter how the actual plan decrease was handled, I make no finding on that assertion, inasmuch as no testimony has been adduced in regard to that calculation nor is the undersigned clear that this would be the result.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within the time allowed under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any rule to the contrary, exceptions to Initial Decisions of the Office of Administrative Law in Abbott District budget appeal matters shall be filed within five (5) days of the date of mailing of the Initial Decision, and reply exceptions shall be filed within two (2) days of receipt of exceptions. File written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

September 26, 2003
DATE

Elinor R. Reiner
ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ

E-mail Receipt of Initial Decision Confirmed by the Department of Education on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

E-mailed Initial Decision to the parties on:

September 26, 2003
DATE

al

APPENDIX

List of Witnesses

For Respondent:

Keith Costello

List of Exhibits

J-1 Stipulation of Facts, dated September 24, 2003 (three pages)

J-2 Letter to Dr. Linnea Weiland, Acting Superintendent, from Gordon MacInnes, Assistant Commissioner, dated August 27, 2003 (two pages)

J-3 Maintenance Budget Worksheet for Plainfield, dated August 19, 2003 (two pages)

J-1 1 rev'd 9/0

Stipulated Facts

1. If the total general fund revenue of $106,916,490. includes the PSEA revenue adjustment of 389,157. then the PSEA revenue adjustment will be zero.

2. The CPI adjustment will be calculated based on the District's June 30, 2003 Bd. Sec. report. at 2.1.%.

3. The ~~the~~ District agrees with the utilization rate increase determined by the Dept on the maintenance budget worksheet

4. The Department's calculation for funds 11 + 15 on the maintenance budget worksheet is based on information provided to the Dept by the District on August 26, 2003. This information was based on preliminary June 30, 03 figures provided by the District

Excess Surplus Fund Balance - To be adjus accordingly, based on the ab adjusted figures.

5. The Department's maintenance budget wor compared the difference between the budg
Early childhood Plan for 2003-04 a the budgeted Early childhood Plan for 2002-03 to determine the amount to be added subtracted from the ~~or~~ base 2002 program budget. This resulted in a deduction of $1,585,682.00 to the District in ~~the~~ determining the amount f
2003-2004 maintenance budget.

The Department did not utilize the actual (revised) plan of the District 2002-2003. This was based on the enrollment in 2002-2003. If these numbers were utilized the difference bet the 2002-

the Dept's approach resulted in an increase in its maintenance budget for 2003-2004.

Dated: 9/24/03

Counsel for Plainfield School District

9-24-03

Dianna Rosenbaum, DAG

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5502-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 206-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this local "Abbott" District's appeal of the Department of Education's (Department) decision on its supplemental funding request for the 2003-04 school year, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board of Education of the Plainfield School District's (District) exceptions and the Department's reply thereto were duly submitted in accordance with the schedule established in response to the Court's order for expedition and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching this decision.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine directly or indirectly the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2, as such determination is solely within the jurisdictional purview of the Appellate Division or the Supreme Court. R. 2:2-3(a); see, also, Pascucci v. Vagott, 71 N.J. 40, 51-52 (1976); Wendling v. N.J. Racing Com'n, 279 N.J. Super. 477, 485 (App. Div. 1995). However, to the extent that he may appropriately do so in an administrative proceeding, the Commissioner opines that the regulation at issue is fully consistent with the language and intent of the Court. Thus, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds the regulatory definition controlling herein, with no conflict between it and the underlying Court order. Accordingly, the Department's application of such regulatory definition in its review and approval of the District's 2003-04 budget is appropriate.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, and based upon the credibility assessments of the ALJ, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's factual findings and determines that her analysis and legal conclusions are consistent with the Supreme Court's Order of July 23, 2003, as well as the Department's regulatory amendments adopted on August 22, 2003.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/20/03

Date of Mailing: N/A

* Pursuant to P.L. 2003, c. 122, "Abbott" determinations are final agency actions appealable directly to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

593-03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF PHILLIPSBURG, WARREN COUNTY, PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning "Abbott" District appealed the Department's determination of its 2003-04 preliminary "maintenance budget," alleging that the Department's review was not in accordance with the July 23, 2003 order of the Supreme Court. The District challenged the inefficiencies identified by the respondent.

The ALJ determined that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to determine the validity of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2. The ALJ also concluded that the Department properly determined inefficiencies in the following areas: contracted salaries, health benefits, special education tuition, 8 new high school teachers, non-recurring expenses, miscellaneous unbudgeted revenue, courtesy busing, 3 full-time supervisory positions, one full-time central office position, one full-time assistant principal, one full-time central office technology position, and 5 of the 7 identified full-time custodial and security staff. The ALJ restored the following: 2 in-class support teachers, 3 preschool-handicapped teachers, part-time instructional aides, one full-time athletic trainer, legal fees, 2 custodial/security services positions, armory rental costs, supplies and materials and a part-time substitute caller.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions and adopted the Initial Decision.

October 20, 2003

State of New Jersey
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5501-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 207-6/03

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF OF PHILLIPSBURG SCHOOL DISTRICT, Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., for petitioner

Allison Colsey Eck, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 22, 2003 Decided: September 26, 2003

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by the Phillipsburg Board of Education ("Phillipsburg" or "Board") from its amount of Additional Abbott v. Burke State Aid ("supplemental aid") for the 2003-2004 fiscal year ("FY '04"). In accordance with the recent ruling by the New Jersey Supreme Court issued on July 23, 2003, the amount of supplemental aid granted for 2003-2004 is to be determined under a "maintenance budget" standard.

Adoption of this standard allows a school district to continue implementing the approved programs, services and positions from the 2002-2003 fiscal year ("FY '03"), subject to an adjustment for "non-discretionary expenditures," such as increases in contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition. Additionally, the Supreme Court directed the New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE") to "promulgate an emergency regulation establishing the standard for evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of the district's non-instructional program." In compliance with this directive, the DOE adopted emergency regulations on August 22, 2003 clarifying the meaning of "maintenance budget" and establishing standards for determining whether administrative and central office expenditures are "ineffective and inefficient." Applying its newly adopted standard, the Department has identified various administrative costs said to be "ineffective or inefficient" and has reduced Phillipsburg's FY '04 supplemental aid by such amounts.

Phillipsburg argues that the definition of "maintenance budget" set forth in the Department's new regulations contravenes the New Jersey Supreme Court's ruling and deprives it of maintenance funds to which it is entitled. Moreover, Phillipsburg contends that the budgetary reductions are improper under the effective and efficient standard. Additionally, Phillipsburg contends that the DOE failed to apply its regulations uniformly and consistently among the thirty Abbott districts.

Under the Supreme Court order, "the DOE shall bear the burden of moving forward to establish the basis for any proposed reductions to the district's maintenance budget based on the effective and efficient standard set forth in the DOE's emergency regulation. If that initial burden is met, the district shall bear the burden of demonstrating that any budgetary reductions are not justified under that standard."

Procedural History

By letter dated May 30, 2003, the Department notified the Board of the results of its initial review of Phillipsburg's budget submission. On June 5, 2003, the Board filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner").

Thereafter, the Department filed an answer on June 13, 2003. Meanwhile, on June 9, 2003, the Commissioner had already forwarded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

Initially, the OAL held hearings on July 7, and 8, 2003. After the New Jersey Supreme Court issued its most recent ruling, the OAL held additional hearings on September 9, 10, 12 and 22, 2003. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix.

Findings of Fact

General Background Information

Most of the general background facts are undisputed. Located in Warren County, New Jersey across the Delaware River from Pennsylvania, the Town of Phillipsburg has a population of 15,000 to 16,000. Phillipsburg School District, one of thirty so-called "Abbott" Districts, has a total enrollment of roughly 3,500 students.[1] It is a K-to-12 district serving the children of town residents. Phillipsburg operates four elementary school buildings (two for grades 1 and 2 and two for grades 3, 4 and 5), a middle school building (grades 6, 7 and 8) and a high school building (grades 9, 10, 11, and 12). Kindergarten classes are conducted at an armory and at one of the elementary schools. Phillipsburg also leases facilities for use of its preschool program.

Phillipsburg is the receiving district for high school students from the neighboring municipalities of Alpha, Bloomsbury, Greenwich, Lopatcong and Pohatcong. None of these comparatively wealthier sending districts qualify as "Abbott" Districts. In contrast, Phillipsburg has "a lot of needy children," many of whom come from single parent households. Over half of the children at the elementary and middle school level receive subsidized meals under the federal free or reduced lunch program. Economic

[1] "Abbott district" means one of the 28 urban districts in district factor groups A and B specifically identified in the appendix to Abbott v. Burke, 119 *N.J.*287, 394 (1990) ("Abbott II") or any other district classified as a special needs district by legislation. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3. Phillipsburg falls within district factor group B. http://www.state.nj.us/njded/finance/sf/dfgdesc.shtml conditions in the community have deteriorated following the closing of the Ingersol Rand plant and other nearby factories. A majority of its students are Caucasian. African-American students comprise nine to ten percent of the enrollment and Hispanic students one to two percent.

Pursuant to the direction of the New Jersey Supreme Court in Abbot v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) ("Abbott V"), every Abbott school must adopt one of several whole-school reform models designed to raise educational standards for disadvantaged children. Unique among Abbott Districts, Phillipsburg received state approval to select an alternate model whose use in the District predated whole school reform. At the elementary level, Phillipsburg employs the "standard bearer model" developed by Phil Schlechtey of the Center for Leadership and School Reform in Louisville, Kentucky. Essentially, this model requires educators to align curriculum, instructional activities and assessment so that children are tested on what they are taught. At the high-school level, Phillipsburg applies the "Coalition of Essential Schools model," derived from the research of Ted Sizer of Brown University, which focuses on the work product of the child as the measure of success.

What originally drew the Department's attention to Phillipsburg is that its budget for FY '04 is 14% higher than base year '03, far outstripping the annual rise in the cost of living. At a time when the Department sought to hold educational spending level in Abbott districts, Phillipsburg's request for state aid rose from $4.2 million in 2002-2003 to $11.3 in 2003-2004, an increase of 275%.

When reviewing Phillipsburg's budget requests, James Turek, DOE's budget manager assigned to review the Phillipsburg budget, concentrated on economic "inefficiencies" and did not conduct his own evaluation of programmatic "effectiveness."[2] Turek is a certified public accountant with special expertise in school finance and has eleven years of experience examining school budgets. Having been assigned to work with Phillipsburg for several years, Turek is thoroughly familiar with local conditions. He defines "efficiency" in terms of "achieving positive results and spending low amounts of money." Thus, he looks for ways to save money without compromising academic achievement in a school district. Generally, Turek commenced his review by comparing budgeted amounts in FY '04 with FY '03, looking for increases. Then he referred to DOE's comparative spending guide for 2003, which ranks all Abbott districts in terms of spending for a particular function or service. Overall, Turek found that Phillipsburg was consistently among the top spenders in nearly every category.

[2] Eleanor Jaick, a Department official with expertise in program development, performed a programmatic review of the District, but she did not testify at the hearing.

Next, Turek utilized a report prepared for DOE by the independent forensic accounting firm of RosenfarbWinters as an additional measure of excessive spending. RosenfarbWinters took audited financial expenditures for FYs '01 and '02, adjusted for inflation, and converted the data to cost per pupil for various categories contained in the uniform chart of accounts.[3] As a proxy of academic success, RosenfarbWinters used test scores on a statewide reading test administered in fourth grade. Plotting non-instructional expenses against reading scores, RosenfarbWinters selected four districts falling within the middle range of all Abbott districts as "benchmarks. Lastly, Turek applied his own professional judgment and experience in identifying which cost centers were overly expensive. For the most part, Turek did not single out individual employees as performing poorly, but rather compared total costs for delivery of particular packages of goods or services.

Disputed Cost Items

For convenience, each disputed cost item will be discussed under an appropriate heading. Items No. 1(A) through 1(F) involve "non-discretionary" cost increases necessary to maintain programs and services existing in 2002-2003. Item 2 deals with non-recurring expenses. Item No. 3 relates to determination of miscellaneous unbudgeted revenue. Items No. 4 to 15 pertain to non-instructional expenses that the Department has identified as "inefficient or ineffective," and, therefore, ineligible for state funding.

[3] RosenfarbWinters derived its data from the Comprehensive Audited Financial Reports ("CAFRs") that school districts are required to file annually. Actual expenditures for FY '03 are not yet available since the CAFRs are not due until November 5, 2003.

Calculation of Non-Discretionary Expenses

Abbott districts are entitled under the latest New Jersey Supreme Court order to "documented increases in non-discretionary expenditures" including, e.g., increases in contracted salaries, health benefits and special education tuition. A common theme running throughout discussion of this issue is the difference in methodology used by the parties to calculate this amount. DOE started with projected total spending in FY '03 taken from a report prepared by accounting firm of KPMG.[4] After adjusting for the effect of staff turnover, Turek applied a factor designed to represent a reasonable increase in non-discretionary expenses, such as the consumer price index or movement on a negotiated salary guide. Phillipsburg started with the number of employees on the district roster as of June 30, 2003 (or the number of students enrolled in the district as of September 2003) and multiplied that amount by contracted increases. Basically, DOE bases its calculation on spending in FY '03, whereas Phillipsburg bases its calculation on contracted increases per employee or student. Both methods have their relative strengths and weaknesses. DOE's reliance on actual spending does not fully mirror that some employees may start or leave midyear, although the DOE contends that such minor variances should not materially affect the total amount that Phillipsburg spent in the 2002-2003 school year. Phillipsburg's reliance on the number of persons on its payroll at the end of a particular school year fails to consider that these same persons may not be employed during the next school year.

[4] Because final audited financial data for FY '03 will not be available until November 5, 2003, DOE retained KPMG to project Phillipsburg's spending in FY '03 based on "agreed-on procedures." DOE has stipulated that it is willing to adjust the numbers up or down when the final audited figures are filed.

1(A) Increases in Contracted Salaries

Negotiations for teacher salary increases were ongoing during FY '03 and were not concluded until shortly before the closing of the record in this case. Therefore, the salary increases are not really "non-discretionary," in the sense that, until recently, they were still within Phillipsburg's ability to control. Aware of the High Court's directive for continuation of a maintenance standard, Phillipsburg nevertheless saw fit to award its teachers a generous salary increase well above the statewide average.[5] Since Phillipsburg was not raising its local tax share, the Board had little incentive to hold the line. On September 13, 2003, Phillipsburg entered into a memorandum of agreement granting teachers a 7% increase for FY '04.[6] In exchange, Phillipsburg obtained the teachers' consent to lengthen the school day by 60 minutes at the elementary and middle schools and by 10 minutes at the high school. Significantly, Phillipsburg made no attempt to justify its high salary increase by claiming that its teaching staff historically earned less than teachers in comparable school districts.

Following the DOE's methodology, Turek increased the total spending in FY '03 by the amount necessary for step increases on existing salary guides and arrived at a total salary increase of $774,931.[7] While the DOE acknowledged a willingness to approve a reasonable salary increase for teachers once contract negotiations were complete, it is unprepared to fund such a large salary jump in an austerity year. On the other hand, Poch applied the 7% increase to the salaries of teachers on the payroll and came to a total salary increase of $1,776,990, or about $1 million more than DOE's estimate.

---

[5] A news release from the New Jersey School Boards Association, dated September 4, 2003, reports that the average salary increase for teachers' contracts covering the 2003-2004 school year is 4.63%

[6] In addition, the Board made other substantial concessions, including deleting the deductible on the district's prescription drug plan, increasing coaches' salaries and agreeing to submit future disputes to binding arbitration.

[7] Turek's approach also took into consideration a 4% contractual increase for other school-based personnel and 4.25% contractual increase for custodians and maintenance workers. Their contracts did not expire in FY '03, so the amounts were already fixed.

I FIND that the Department's methodology provides a reasonable gauge of the total increase that Phillipsburg will spend for salaries in FY '04. No system is perfect and each necessarily depends on a snapshot of available data at a particular point in time. Regardless of the merits of Phillipburg's preferred methodology, the DOE has chosen a rational approach that must be upheld. Phillipsburg acted imprudently by expanding the workload in a maintenance year and demanding state subsidy of a large salary increase to pay for what is clearly a new service. Understandably, the DOE is reluctant to intervene in the collective bargaining process or to establish an inflexible cap on salary increases. Surely, teachers are entitled to receive a reasonable cost-of-living adjustment. Absent special circumstances, however, the Commissioner should not approve funding for a salary increase greatly in excess of the average increase resulting from competitive market forces.

1(B) Increased Cost of Health Benefits

Disagreement on the health benefit issue again turns on the parties' differing methodologies for calculating increased costs. Both sides accepted the FY '04 rate increases for Phillipsburg's major medical, dental and prescription drug programs, amounting to roughly 11%, 9% and 17% respectively. Once more, Turek multiplied the composite rate times actual spending in FY '03 and determined a total cost increase of $596,672. Poch used the same rates, but took the number of employees on its payroll on June 20, 2003, and projected a total cost increase of $740,126.

I FIND that that DOE applied an appropriate methodology, based on actual spending in FY '03, and granted Phillipsburg a reasonable increase for higher health benefit costs in FY '04.

1(C) Increase in Special Education Tuition

Phillipsburg incurs tuition costs for placement of students with severe disabilities in various types of out-of-district settings, including other public school districts, state facilities, day training centers and private schools.[8] Expected percentage increases in tuition rates are largely known, stemming from fees charged by the schools in question. However, the need for outside placement changes from year to year, depending on a set of complex factors, including the severity of the handicapping condition, the kinds of classes and related services available in-district, the progress made by individual children, graduation of those eligible for service, and families moving into and out of the district.

In light of the potential for wide fluctuations, the DOE did not merely take last year's actual spending to calculate the anticipated increase the current fiscal year. Instead, Turek reviewed the number of individual educational programs from 1998-1999 through 2002-2003 and created a five-year historical trend for each Abbott school district. The underlying source for such data is the annual Application for State School Aid ("ASSA"), containing audited enrollment figures as of October 15th of each year[9].

On the five year historical trend, Phillipsburg had a projected decrease in special education tuition of -.267%. By comparison, East Orange had a projected increase of 11.79% and City of Newark of 8.87%. Rather than subject Phillipsburg to a loss of special education tuition, Turek extrapolated a likely out-of-district enrollment of 51 children and granted a special education tuition increase of $205,000. Should actual enrollment happen to turn out differently, Turek is willing to adjust the aid figure once actual enrollment and audited spending amounts are known.[10] [8] Under federal and state law, public school districts in New Jersey are obligated to provide eligible handicapped children with a free and appropriate public education, which sometimes requires placement in a more restrictive environment than the local public school. Lascari v. Board of Educ. of Ramapo-Indian Hills Reg. Sch. Dist., 116 N.J. 30 (1989).

---

[9] See N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-33.

[10] Assistant Education Commissioner Gordon MacInnes' letter of August 27, 2003 promises "that the preliminary maintenance budget and estimated need for discretionary Additional Abbott v. Burke State aid will be subject to further adjustment after submission by your district of the 2002-2003 CAFR."

Since official enrollment figures for the current year will not be compiled until October 15, 2003, Phillipsburg does not yet have reliable enrollment date for FY '03.[11] Using less accurate information available as of September 2003, however, Poch calculated that Phillipsburg's special education tuition increase for the current year should be $399,226 or $194,226 more than DOE's allowance. Apart from its questionable accuracy, Phillipsburg's reliance on opening-day enrollment figures conflicts with DOE's established procedures for predicting Abbott district's future needs. Although this year the state's determination of the preliminary maintenance budget happened to be delayed, ordinarily the DOE would expect to release its preliminary aid figures in ample time for Abbott districts to plan for the upcoming school year. Of necessity, the preliminary figures would have to be based on reasonable projection techniques, since actual numbers would not be available until after the start of classes.

Equally important, Phillipsburg failed to present a satisfactory explanation for any sudden and unexpected increase in tuition costs. Adequate inquiry into such changed circumstances would best be accomplished by a thorough programmatic review conducted by the Division of Special Education rather than a financial audit by persons less acquainted with special education considerations. Completion of such programmatic review will take additional time and cannot be accomplished within the short timeframe for determination of the district's immediate budgetary needs.

I FIND that DOE used the best available data to foresee likely tuition increases in the school year about to begin. When audited figures become known in November, Phillipsburg will have an opportunity to reconcile any differences. If Phillipsburg remains dissatisfied with the amount of tuition costs reimbursed by state aid, it can always file a mid-year emergency application for additional resources.[12]

---

[11] In its report, RosenfarbWinters did not use Average Daily Enrollment ("ADE"), as opposed to ASSA numbers, because "budgeted ADE numbers may be inaccurate." (at 20).

[12] An Abbott district may file a separate application for supplemental funding during a school year if it has a " need for additional resources to implement Department-approved program, services and other services due to unanticipated expenditures or unforeseen circumstances." N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.1(g).

1(D) 2 "In-Class Support" Teachers Costing $94,049

Responsive to the strong statutory preference for educating handicapped children together with their non-handicapped peers in the mainstream, Phillipsburg has several third and fourth grade classes with a mixed enrollment of classified and non-classified students.[13] Such "in-class support" settings require two teachers, an elementary-school teacher who teaches the regular curriculum to everyone and a teacher of the handicapped who provides extra support to handicapped students. Last year, Phillipsburg provided in-class support services to five classes at Andover Morris Elementary School with a total enrollment of 47 students. Enrollment has increased to 56 this year. Accordingly, Phillipsburg is extending in-class support services to two additional classrooms in FY '03 and has requested two additional special-education teachers to provide these services. John Consentino, Phillipsburg's director of special services, testified that Phillipsburg would be unable to furnish the services mandated by the children's individual educational programs without the two new teachers.

At first blush, this cost center would appear to be governed by the same principles as the preceding one, in which Phillipsburg had relied on unaudited enrollment data from September 2003. Turek, however, adopted a much more conciliatory approach and appeared to agree with Consentino that the increase was probably necessary. Turek's only hesitation in approving this expense was that he had not been provided with sufficient information that existing classes had reached maximum capacity.

Consentino explained that the Division of Special Education will rarely grant a waiver to increase class size. Lacking expertise in the field of special education, Turek mistakenly thought that one teacher with dual certification might be able to perform the services of both teachers. That proposal, however, would defeat the purpose of adding a second teacher to provide additional support and assistance to children in need of more individualized attention.

I FIND that Phillipsburg must employ two additional special education teachers to comply with federal mainstreaming requirements and provide learning-disabled students with the assistance necessary to succeed in a regular classroom environment.

1(E) 3 Preschool-Handicapped Teachers Totaling $160,749

While this item was analyzed as a "non-discretionary increase," it is not a new or more costly service in the district. During 2002-2003, Phillipsburg already provided in-class support services to handicapped children enrolled in mainstream preschool classes. Phillipsburg actually had four special-education teachers providing in-school support to handicapped preschool-aged children last year, but one of the teachers has been transferred to a third-grade class for 2003-2004. Therefore, Phillipsburg is seeking Abbott funding to maintain three teaching positions that had already existed in the base budget year.

Phillipsburg's inclusive preschool classes have a maximum class size of 15 children, no more than 6 of whom can be handicapped.[14] Staffing consists of three adults: a preschool teacher; a special-education teacher; and an aide. Prior to FY '04, the Division of Early Childhood Education funded all three positions out of Early Childhood Program Aid. Beginning in 2003-2004, the Division of Early Childhood Education will no longer pay for the special education teacher, which position must now be funded out of the general account. Turek's objection to this expense relates not so much to the efficacy of the program as to the change in funding source. Nevertheless, he expressed lingering doubts regarding whether such intensity of service is really desirable or necessary.

I FIND that this program was included in last year's spending and, regardless of funding source, is more fittingly part of the maintenance budget than a new expense. In-class support is a school-based instructional service that directly benefits the [13] 20 U.S.C.A. §1412(5)(B). Oberti v. Board of Educ. of Clementon Sch. Dist., 995 F. 2d 1204 (3rd Cir. 1993).

---

[14] Mainstream preschool programs must have "a certified teacher and an assistant for each class" and "a maximum class size of 15 students." N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.1.

youngest and most vulnerable members of our society. Phillipsburg is entitled to receive Abbott funding in order to continue this valuable program.

1(F) 8 New High School Teachers Totaling $334,026

Not only did these positions not exist in FY '03, but also the September 2003 high-school enrollment was unknown at the time that the DOE determined Phillipsburg's preliminary maintenance budget. Comparing official high school enrollment on October 15, 2002 with unofficial figures on September 8, 2003, Phillipsburg calculated an increase of 164 students. Without explaining the intervening steps, Phillipsburg equated this increased secondary enrollment to a need for two social studies teachers, an English teacher, a home economics teacher, a French teacher, a special education teacher, a health and physical education teacher and a mathematics teacher.

As discussed in the general background section, Phillipsburg is the receiving high-school district for several surrounding communities, many of which are relatively prosperous and do not qualify as Abbott districts. Since public records show that the growth rate for enrollment at Phillipsburg's elementary and middle schools is less than 1%, it is reasonable to infer that the bulk of the increased enrollment at the high school comes from the sending districts. Turek was dismayed at the prospect that Abbott funds might be "diverted" to pay the fair share of sending districts that can afford to pay their own way. Phillipsburg received $7.9 million from the sending districts for FY '04, an increase of $600,000 to $700,000 over the prior year.

In advocating the need for additional high school teachers, Phillipsburg witness George Chando referred to a "prescribed" classroom size of 24 students at the high school level, but did not cite any authority for this limit. Turek clarified that 24 students per high-school class was intended by DOE as a target goal and that DOE has no immediate plans to sanction any Abbott district for failing to reach that goal.[16] Class sizes in non-Abbott high schools in New Jersey range from a low of 15 to a high of 35.

---

[16] *N.J.A.C.*6A:24-4.1(j) requires that, by September 2002, Abbott districts have a plan in place to continue to reduce class size by 1:24 for grades 9 through 12.

I FIND that the increase in high school enrollment is largely attributable to population trends in the sending districts and that Phillipsburg has the option of increasing its tuition fees to defray any increased costs. In the worst-case scenario, a modest increase in high-school class size will not substantially impede the ability of Phillipsburg students to master the core curriculum content.

2. Non-Recurring Expenses Totaling $142,825

One-time costs incurred in the base year must be deducted from the maintenance budget because they will not recur in the current year. Phillipsburg stipulates that the acquisition costs for the site of its proposed new high-school building is a non-recurring cost because the School Construction Corporation ("SCC") has purchased the property and assumed financial responsibility. Henceforth, Phillipsburg will no longer be required to make principal and interest payments on the lease-purchase agreement. However, Poch testified that, on September 15, 2003, Phillipsburg had to make a last payment to the bank of $120,000 in principal and $11,667 in interest. Another interest payment of $11,158 is due by March 15, 2004.

Phillipsburg concedes that the SCC will ultimately refund its full principal and interest payments. Before that can happen, however, the Board must successfully bring a "defeasance" action in court. Phillipsburg encountered delay in instituting the defeasance proceeding because its bond counsel has been ill or otherwise unavailable for the past four months. In essence, Phillipsburg is asking the DOE to "front" the money, which Phillipsburg knows will soon be reimbursed to it.

Turek countered that DOE has been encouraging Phillipsburg to commence a defeasance action "since March or April 2003," but that Phillipsburg has ignored its entreaties. DOE is unwilling to fund amounts now payable by the SCC.

I FIND that the continuing obligation for Phillipsburg to pay these costs in FY '04 is due to its own inaction and failure to protect its rights. DOE should not use Abbott funding to pay for a cost that was avoidable and for which Phillipsburg will be receiving full reimbursement.

3. Miscellaneous Unbudgeted Revenue Totaling $350,000

Miscellaneous revenue includes income from various sources, such as interest earnings, athletic gate receipts, and income from rental of district-owned facilities. While Phillipsburg budgeted miscellaneous revenues of $175,000 for FY '04, DOE wants to double that amount to $350,000.

Poch introduced a worksheet showing that Phillipsburg had received total miscellaneous revenue of more than $300,000 each year since FY '00. In FY '02 alone, miscellaneous revenue totaled $529,257. Despite that rosy record, Poch anticipates that this number will drop to $175,000 next year because one of the major sources of miscellaneous revenue last year will not be repeated in 2003-2004. Furthermore, Poch noted that interest rates have fallen dramatically. Taken in conjunction with Phillipsburg's declining free balance, Poch predicted that future interest earnings would be less than past performance.

Data from the KPMG report confirms that Phillipsburg had miscellaneous revenues well in excess of $300,00 each year for the past four years. Moreover, the KPMG report discloses that Phillipsburg engaged in a pattern of underestimating its miscellaneous receipts by half in the years for which audited data is available. Turek disagreed with Poch that interest earnings will continue to erode, since the effect of lower interest rates has already been felt in FY '03. Additionally, Phillipsburg has some ability to increase future returns by raising the cost of tickets to athletic events and by charging more for rental of its facilities.

I FIND that DOE's calculation, based on historical performance and the district's demonstrated tendency to understate its revenues by half, is an acceptable approach to projecting miscellaneous revenue in FY '04.

4. Courtesy Busing Totaling $50,000

State statutes and regulations require public school districts to furnish transportation for elementary-school students residing more than two miles from their school of attendance and for high-school students residing more than two and-a-half miles from their school of attendance.[17] Above the amount necessary to comply with the law, Phillipsburg seeks additional money to provide transportation for students alleged to reside along hazardous routes. Although the Department approved about half of this request, it deducted $50,000 from Phillipsburg's appropriation.

School business administrator William Poch described several heavily traveled thoroughfares running through the District, such as Route 22 and Belvidere Road, and other streets that are "narrow" or "do not have sidewalks." Crossing guards supplied by the town are stationed at some of the more dangerous intersections during hours when children walk to and from school.[18] Despite his personal views on safety conditions, Poch acknowledged that the Board had never adopted a formal policy designating certain routes as hazardous.[19] Moreover, Phillipsburg did not produce any government reports showing a high number of accidents at any particular location or present any testimony by law enforcement officials trained in traffic safety. In response to questioning, Poch admitted that the Board has never explored other available options, such as asking the town to pay for courtesy busing, requesting additional crossing

---

[17] N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1; N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.2.

[18] Traffic safety hazards are the responsibility of municipal or county government and not the school district. Melick v. Lopatcong Twp. Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2280-85 (Oct. 28, 1985), adopted Comm'r (Dec. 4, 1985). The Commissioner has ruled that a school board lacks the "authority to enforce traffic laws, to provide sidewalks, traffic lights, crossing guards, police patrols, overpasses, etc. to meet the requirements of safe travel for school children." Schrenk v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 1961 S.L.D. 185, 187.

[19] N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.1 expressly requires that school districts providing courtesy busing must adopt a policy listing hazardous routes requiring courtesy busing of students and setting forth "the criteria used in designating the hazardous routes."

guards, or charging subscription fees to parents who can afford to pay.[20] As Turek pointed out, nearly half of the families in the district are not financially disadvantaged and could contribute toward courtesy busing if they want the extra service.

I FIND that $50,000 for remote busing could be eliminated from Phillipsburg's budget without negative impact on the quality of education in the district. Phillipsburg has voluntarily chosen to provide free transportation to children who live within reasonable walking distance of school. Proofs are inadequate to establish that these routes pose an unacceptable threat to children's safety. Furthermore, the Board has not exhausted other methods of shifting these costs to families who directly benefit from the service or to town authorities who are responsible for local safety conditions.

5. Part-Time Instructional Aides Totaling $60,000

Phillipsburg has employed instructional aides or "tutors" to assist classroom teachers at the primary-grade level since long before the advent of whole school reform. Last year, Phillipsburg employed twelve full-time equivalent ("FTE") aides in its elementary classrooms, including three FTE's that the Department proposes not to fund. Typically, an aide works only part-time, so that six or more people fill three full-time positions Most of these aides are assigned to grades 1 and 2 and only a few to grades 3 and 4. Pat Cawley, Phillipsburg's director of elementary education, explained that aides work intensively with at-risk students entitled to remedial educational services.[21] Much of the aides' time is devoted to reinforcing the lessons in an instructional setting. The District uses a "balanced literacy program," in which students are exposed to a variety of instructional approaches, including phonics, guided reading and written exercises. Groups of three or four children gather at workstations to practice their reading, writing and mathematics skills. Since a classroom teacher

---

[20] The Town of Phillipsburg or the Board itself may provide busing to non-remote children and pass all or some of the cost along to parents or guardians, provided that it does not impose such charges on households who qualify for the free and reduced lunch program. *N.J.S.*A. 18A:39-1.2, -1-3; See also, N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.3.

[21] Initially, Phillipsburg's classroom aides had been partially supported by Title I funds, but eventually the local district assumed the full costs.

cannot be everywhere at once, the teacher relies on the instructional aide to circulate among these smaller groups.

Use of paraprofessionals to assist teachers is a time-honored practice in the field of education.[22] Aides do not possess teaching certificates and can only work under the direction of a certified professional.[23] Cawley, who personally evaluated classroom aides in his previous position of elementary school principal, noted that elementary school aides had become "part of the fabric" of the District's homegrown model for whole school reform. Teachers and aides "co-plan together" and "meet at various times to coordinate their efforts."

Indeed, the Department's representative recognizes that classroom aides in Phillipsburg perform "a wide gambit" of activities, including assisting students with their studies and helping control misbehaving students. Turek targeted this area for a cut not for any perceived lack of educational usefulness, but largely because state code only requires classroom aides in kindergarten and preschool. Conceding that Phillipsburg has not proposed any increase in the number of elementary school aides from the prior year, Turek nevertheless suggested that the money "could be put to a better use." Not having academic credentials, however, Turek was unable to contradict Cawley's assertion that classroom aides make a valuable contribution to the success of Phillipsburg's academic program. Cawley noted that fourth graders' test scores on state-mandated achievement tests have improved, which he attributes to greater academic preparation in the lower grades.

I FIND that Phillipsburg has made effective use of school-based aides to assist small groups of at-risk students in developing basic academic skills. Unrefuted proofs

---

[22] As the name implies, an aide's main function is to aid professionals by relieving them of easy or repetitive tasks that do not require extensive training or expertise. Roach v. Sch. Dist. of South Orange-Maplewood, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 370, 1995 W.L. 869230 (N.J. Admin.)

[23] N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6 authorizes the County Superintendent of Schools to approve the appointment of school or classroom aides who assist in the supervision of pupil activities "under the direction of a principal, teacher, or other designated certified professional personnel."

show that primary grade students have benefited from the extra attention and that their basic skills have measurably improved. Over the years, these aides have been integrated into the design of Phillipsburg's whole school reform and it would be difficult to eliminate them now without adversely affecting the comprehensive model. None of the evidence indicates that the aides are wasteful or nonproductive in achieving academic gains.

6. 1 Full-Time Athletic Trainer Costing $40,000

Turek targeted this cost center for reduction of one athletic trainer because he "had the suspicion that Phillipsburg was spending at the upper range of the scale." Unlike some larger school districts that employ only one athletic trainer, Phillipsburg budgeted for two trainers, one male and one female, so that female students would be serviced by a female trainer. If the district eliminated the female trainer, who has less seniority, the remaining male trainer would treat at least 150 female students. Indicator 13 of the 2003 comparative spending guide confirmed that Phillipsburg ranks as third highest in spending among the Abbott districts for all extracurricular activities, including sports as well as other pursuits. Statistics gathered internally by the DOE suggest that Phillipsburg had budgeted $76 per pupil for athletic costs in FY '04, compared to an average of $22 per pupil for twenty-seven other Abbott districts. On cross-examination, however, Turek conceded that the statistical analysis "appeared to have some flaws in it" and that the Department "could probably get better data."[24] In the absence of a female trainer, Turek suggested that a school nurse, the school physician, or female coaches might assume her duties. Turek consulted with coaches "outside the district," but did not speak to Phillipsburg's athletic trainers to find out exactly what they do.

Athletic trainers in Phillipsburg perform personal services requiring physical contact with students, such as wrapping ankles. William Poch, the school business administrator, explained that Phillipsburg wanted to retain a female athletic trainer to treat sports injuries incurred by female athletes. Parents in the district have expressed concern about having male staff touching the bodies of adolescent girls. Approximately three hundred-fifty to four hundred girls presently participate in interscholastic athletic programs in Phillipsburg, a marked increase over female participation in past years. During the last five years, Phillipsburg has added a girls' lacrosse team and girls' soccer team to its sports program. Often the boys' team will play at one site at the same time that the girls' team is playing at a different site, making it impossible for the same person to cover both events.

[24] Several school districts are portrayed in the DOE's data as having spent nothing for their entire athletic program in FY '03, which appears highly unlikely.

I FIND that Turek relied on an admittedly unreliable statistical analysis and that he failed to give adequate consideration to local sensibilities. Phillipsburg's hiring of same-sex trainers was a reasonable accommodation to parental concerns for the welfare of their children. Because scheduling conflicts prevent the male athletic trainer from regularly attending girls' sporting events, someone else would have to cover these events anyway. DOE has not shown that it would be more cost-effective to hire a more qualified nurse or doctor to perform services that could be handled by an athletic trainer or that female coaches are properly trained to serve as a substitute.

7. Legal Fees Totaling $100,000

Phillipsburg spent $241,259 for legal services in FY '03. DOE proposed to reduce state aid relating to legal expenses by $100,000 for FY '04. Adjusting the difference of $141,259 by an inflation factor of 2.11%, DOE approved legal fees of $144,240. In conducting his review, Turek did not prepare a detailed analysis of what was driving legal costs in the district. Instead, he compared Phillipsburg's legal expenses to the RosenfarbWinter's benchmark standard of $115,791. Nevertheless, Turek criticized certain legal expenditures as being extravagant or unnecessary. Specifically, Turek faulted Phillipsburg for increasing legal fees by entering into a one-year contract with its teachers, thereby necessitating that the contract be renegotiated in the upcoming year. Similarly, he questioned whether it was necessary for Phillipsburg to retain outside counsel to pursue its Abbott appeal and sue to switch to a different interscholastic athletic league.

Phillipsburg countered with evidence that its legal expenses were reasonable and justified by the needs of the district. Some of Phillipsburg's legal expenses were appropriately incurred in connection with disciplinary action taken to suspend disruptive students and in the defense of a slip-and-fall case. Originally, the Board had entered into a one-year labor contract due to the uncertainty surrounding state funding, but Phillipsburg has recently concluded negotiations resulting in a new three-year contract. Phillipsburg hired outside counsel to handle the Abbott appeal because its regular board counsel lacked special expertise in this field. Changing to a different athletic league is designed to reduce significantly the travel time of students participating in interscholastic sports.

I FIND that the amount incurred by Phillipsburg for legal expenses last year was reasonable and should not be reduced by $100,000 below the maintenance budget. Legal costs are one of the most difficult types of expenses to compare meaningfully, since the amount varies greatly with type of litigation and, to the extent that a district is forced to defend itself, may be beyond its ability to control. Fees for labor counsel and for legal advice about switching athletic leagues are related to legitimate district business and cannot be regarded as extravagant or unnecessary. Certainly the Board should be able to obtain adequate legal representation in order to challenge the amount of state aid allocated to it under the Abbott formula. Nothing suggests that the hourly rates charged or the amount of time spent by the attorneys were excessive.

8. 3 Full-Time Supervisory Positions Totaling $200,000

Compared to other Abbott districts, Phillipsburg devotes a larger portion of its limited revenues to administration and supervision of teachers. On the 2003 comparative spending guide, Indicators 18 and 19, which reflect administrative deployment, illustrate that Phillipsburg ranks 28 out of 30 Abbott districts, with a student-administrator ratio of 79.1 to 1 and a faculty-administrator ratio of 8.9 to 1. Garfield City, a comparable school district in size and population, manages to perform the same function with a more efficient student-administrator ratio of 168.5 to 1 and an administrator–faculty ratio of 14.9 to 1. RosenfarbWinters' study of Phillipsburg's budget confirms abnormally high spending in this cost center. Scrutinizing total salary expense for non-instructional services (which lumps together school administrators and supervisors with other non-instructional services), RosenfarbWinters quantified Phillipsburg's inefficient spending in this general category to be in excess of $1.45 million.

Testimony of Phillipburg's own witnesses lends support to the finding that the district has too many supervisors. Until recently, Phillipsburg functioned without a supervisor of curriculum and instruction, let alone two such positions. Pat Cawley, director of elementary education, recalled that these two new positions were added in 2001 because Phillipsburg's curricula were not aligned to the state's core curriculum content standards and the task was too large for one person alone. One of the new supervisors updated the curricula for science, social studies and world language, while the other updated the curricula for language arts, reading and math. Significantly, Phillipsburg concedes that the task is now complete, so it would appear that one or both positions are no longer necessary. With their main job done, the two supervisors are largely reduced to responding to future core curriculum changes, introducing new teaching materials to teachers, attending meetings and assisting other administrators. Written descriptions of the tasks assigned to these two supervisors disclose numerous overlapping duties and responsibilities.

Unlike many other Abbott districts, Phillipsburg's supervisors do "little or no teaching" and "have no regular classes." Phillipsburg employs nine supervisors, who serve as department heads. Their time is exclusively spent on administrative tasks, such as developing new courses, making in-service presentations, supervising other teachers, and conducting performance evaluations. The closest any of these supervisors get to the classroom is when they occasionally demonstrate a model lesson to inexperienced or ineffectual teachers. In addition to the nine subject-matter supervisors, Phillipsburg also has building principals and various assistant principals (four at the high school and one at the middle school) who serve the duplicative function of evaluating teacher performance. Review of Phillipsburg's organizational hierarchy reveals that the administrative structure is highly redundant. For example, in special education, this relatively small district maintains three separate layers of supervision: a director of special services; a supervisor of special education; and a supervisor of child study teams.

Without presuming to tell Phillipsburg which particular supervisory positions are dispensable, Turek expressed his view that Phillipsburg could eliminate three intermediate-level supervisors at a salary savings of $200,000. State law requires school districts to employ a chief school administrator and building principal (and most, if not all, districts have an assistant superintendent), but, once you get below cabinet level, other supervisory duties "are ripe for reallocation." It is important to emphasize that Turek did not attempt to assess the job performance of individual supervisors. Far from accusing Phillipsburg's supervisors of incompetence, Turek believed that their talents were underutilized and that a fewer number of administrators could accomplish more work. According to Turek, Phillipsburg's high administrative costs "created a drag on this cost center in comparison to other Abbott districts."

I FIND that Phillipsburg is top heavy in administration and could realize a savings of $200,000 in this cost center without any adverse impact on learning. Contrary to the format in other districts, supervisors in Phillipsburg do not carry a teaching load and have no direct interaction with students. Phillipsburg consistently rates near the bottom of the list on all objective measures of administrative efficiency, including ratio of administrators to faculty or students and total administrative costs.

9. 1 Full-Time Central Office Position Totaling $50,000

Again, Turek proposed that one central office position could be safely abolished due to Phillipsburg's excessive administrative ratios on Indicators 18 and 19 and the RosenfarbWinters study of inefficient non-instructional costs.[25] About three and-a-half years ago, Superintendent Pethick undertook an administrative reshuffling, which [25] RosenfarbWinters commented that, while Abbott districts have greater needs than the wealthiest districts, "special needs do not drive all costs." In some areas, one would expect same or similar cost structures. For example, central office costs "should not vary significantly between school districts." (cf. p. 17).

