Naloxone

This training video is for those who want to assist others experiencing an opioid overdose by providing emergency assistance to them and by giving them intranasal naloxone, the overdose antidote. After viewing the video and other information, individuals may ask their physicians/advance practice nurses about getting a prescription for naloxone (they can also be referred to this website for information about prescribing the drug and the intranasal applicator. NOTE: The live training for overdose responders that is mentioned in this webinar is not yet available. Information about the live training will be posted on this site when it is announced shortly.
