05/28/2021

*The Murphy Administration is recommending $317.2 million in awards for initial round of SOCFBA
The projects will now go to the Legislature for final approval*

TRENTON – Building on his commitment to ensuring a safe and high-quality educational experience for New Jersey's students, Governor Phil Murphy today joined with Acting Commissioner of Education Dr. Angelica Allen-McMillan and Secretary of Higher Education Dr. Brian Bridges to recommend projects for approval by the Legislature as part of the first round of funds released under the Securing Our Children's Future Bond Act (https://www.njleg.state.nj.us/2018/Bills/PL18/119_.PDF) (SOCFBA).

The grants—which will fund school security, water infrastructure improvements, and enhancement of career and technical education (CTE) in county vocational-technical school districts and county colleges—are supported by $500 million in bonds approved by New Jersey voters in November 2018. Round-one projects have been approved by the Murphy Administration and will now be transmitted to the Legislature for final approval.

"I have long believed that investments in our students and schools are investments in the future of our state," said Governor Murphy. "These projects will help our school districts and institutions of higher education keep students safe and healthy, while also ensuring that they are ready for the careers of future."

"The infrastructure improvements announced today will fund school security and water infrastructure projects, as well as expand career and technical education offerings in our county vocational-technical schools," said Acting Commissioner Allen-McMillan. "These are major investments that will provide students with greater opportunity, safety, and security."

"Building a stronger and fairer New Jersey means providing our students with equitable access to high-quality, career-relevant academic programs that translate into meaningful jobs and lifelong success," said Secretary Bridges. "These investments will enhance students' access to experiential learning opportunities required to launch their careers in the Garden State and compete in New Jersey's innovation economy."

"This is an investment in future opportunities for our children," said Senate President Steve Sweeney. "It will help provide them with job skills for the modern workforce, improve their safety and security in schoolrooms, and protect their health and well-being by ensuring clean water. It is an investment in their future and in the future of New Jersey, and I look forward to reviewing the proposed projects."

"The funding for school security systems, such as silent panic alarms and remote locking and unlocking doors, will put districts in compliance with the safety procedures established in Alyssa's Law. This is important for the safety of students and educators across the state," said Senator Ron Rice. "I look forward to reviewing the proposed projects and seeing the impact they have on our districts."

"The economic viability and competitiveness of New Jersey is inextricably linked to the strengths and skills of the state's current and future workforce," said Assemblyman Daniel Benson. "Making the necessary investments in career and technical education programs will help us maintain current and attract new high-demand industries that are the engine of economic growth."

"Our children deserve the chance to learn in peace," said Assemblyman Ralph Caputo. "It has taken many years to get to this day. Alyssa's family and community have been steadfast champions of the legislation that has brought us here and I commend them for that. Coupled with security measures already in place, this project funding can increase the chances of diffusing a bad situation without further harm to students and staff. I'm proud to see the project moving forward."
