[1] Here, relying upon language set forth in Dennery v. Board of Education of the Passaic County Regional High School District #1, 131 N.J. 626 (1993), the Superior Court determined that Nelson, who held both principal and supervisory endorsements to his administrative certificate and who attained tenure under his supervisory endorsement while serving as Chairman of the Industrial Arts Department at the high school, must be appointed to a principal's position over a nontenured individual, notwithstanding that Nelson never served as a principal. (Nelson, supra, slip. op. at pp. 8, 9)

> for affirmance of the ALJ's decision. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 1)

Petitioner recognizes, however, that the Nelson decision is unnecessary to his case, since the initial decision may be affirmed for the reasons set forth by the ALJ. (Id.)

In response, the Board avers that the Nelson holding is inapposite to the instant matter. The Board urges the Commissioner to reject petitioner's contention that Nelson supports the initial decision in that the ALJ did not base her decision on Nelson, nor did she find that petitioner held a tenure entitlement to the new position on the basis of his tenure accrued as a supervisor. (Board's Reply at p. 2) The Board also contends that Nelson, as an unpublished decision, should not constitute binding precedent, in accordance with New Jersey Rules of Court, R. 1:36-3. (Id. at p. 3) In the alternative, the Board argues that the Appellate Division erred in Nelson and, as such, its decision should not influence the Commissioner's decision in the instant case. (Id. at p. 4) Here, the Board maintains that the Appellate Division > failed to abide by the governing standard of review and failed to accord due deference to the State Board. It is well established that an administrative agency's decision is not to be reversed by a court, unless " . . . (it) is arbitrary capricious, unsupported in the record, or in violation of express or implicit legislative policies." (emphasis in text) (citations omitted) (Id.)

> The State Board's decision in Nelson was neither unreasonable, unsupported by the record or violative of any legislative will. Indeed, it was entirely consistent with well-settled precedent. In contrast, the Appellate Division's holding is entirely based upon dictum contained in another case. (emphasis in text) (Id. at p. 5)

Finally, the Board argues that if the Commissioner finds that Nelson was properly decided by the Appellate Division, the holding therein should only be given prospective effect, and should not be applied to this or any other case pending at this time. (Id. at p. 8)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included a copy of the transcript from the hearing held on October 18, 1995, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings and conclusions.[2] The Commissioner agrees that the record supports the conclusion that the AD position "continues to exist intact," (Initial Decision at p. 13), notwithstanding the Board's contention as to the more expansive nature of the DAA position, which the Commissioner finds to be sufficiently addressed by the ALJ's analysis and concomitant calculations. (Id. at p. 14) In so holding, the Commissioner, like the ALJ, places no reliance upon the Appellate Division's decision in Nelson, supra.[3]

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the Board is directed to compensate petitioner in conformance with the final decision herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

ACTING COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[2] The Commissioner notes, however, that he specifically does not reach to the question of whether petitioner would have been warranted in claiming a tenure entitlement to the DAA position, as per the ALJ's footnote discussion at p. 13.

[3] In any event, the holding in Nelson, supra, was effectively negated by the enactment of P.L. 1996, c. 58, which amends applicable statute to provide that enumerated positions are separately tenurable.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CINNAMINSON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, July 18, 1996

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak (Richard A. Friedman, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler (Nathanya G. Simon, Esq., of Counsel)

The State Board of Education has reviewed the proposed settlement submitted by the parties in this appeal and finds it to be in accord with the principles expressed in Cardonick v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, decided by the State Board of Education, April 6, 1983. The State Board therefore approves the settlement in this matter.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents contended punishment imposed on their son, M.F., who was involved in a bomb hoax at a high school, was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Petitioners sought awards for damages, legal and professional fees and reprimands for school officials for excessive punishment against M.F.

ALJ dismissed requests for damages as there is no authority in law for the award requested. ALJ also dismissed that portion of the petition that involved actions that occurred prior to August 29, 1995 as untimely filed. ALJ found that the Board followed policy, provided due process throughout and considered all input from petitioners. ALJ found that petitioners did not prove that the Board's actions were beyond its powers or were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. ALJ found no evidence of bad faith. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred that the record was sufficient to establish that the Board's determination concerning M.F. was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Commissioner affirmed ALJ's determination to dismiss petitioners' claim for damages as the Commissioner is not legislatively authorized to award damages. With regard to the timeliness issue, Commissioner found it unnecessary to reach to the question of whether those allegations were deemed untimely filed. Petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: April 22, 1996 Decided: June 5, 1996

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Parents of a pupil who admitted taking part in a bomb hoax at Bridgewater-Raritan High School seek an order of the Commissioner of Education:

(1) reprimanding the high school principal for "poor judgment, vindictive behavior" and providing M.F. "with less than a full and thorough education;"

(2) reprimanding the superintendent of schools similarly;

(3) nullifying the Board's resolution in this matter;

(4) directing reimbursement of legal fees incurred in dealing with the school and district;

(5) reimbursement of fees paid to a consulting psychologist; and

(6) award of $90,000 per petitioner damages, "trebled as punitive if provided for by law," for severe mental anguish and emotional suffering.

The Board has answered the charges, to the extent they can be responded to, and asserts four affirmative defenses:

(1) failure to state a claim upon which the Commissioner can grant relief;

(2) many of the claims are untimely (N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c));

(3) the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to entertain damage claims, award of legal and professional fees and reprimands; and

(4) it did not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner or act contrary to law herein.

The matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. After notice, a prehearing conference was conducted by telephone on February 8, 1996. The Board was directed to move for dismissal of the fourth, fifth and sixth of petitioners' demands. The Board so moved for the reason that the Commissioner of Education does not have the authority to grant the requested relief. The Board also moved to dismiss all claims in the petition of appeal predating August 30, 1995, for the reason that they are time barred under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), which requires filing within ninety days of the action complained of.

The petitioners amended their pleading and filed papers responsive to the Board's motion. By order dated April 12, 1996, this judge ordered so much of the petition as requests damages

DISMISSED because there is no authority in law for the award requested. As to the 90-day rule question, the determination was similar. The petitioners presented no competent reason for failing to file in a timely manner. So much of the petition as speaks to actions that occurred prior to August 29, 1995 was DISMISSED.

The petitioners requested interlocutory review of the Commissioner of Education who declined by letter dated April 29, 1996.

Plenary hearing was held on April 22, 1996, in the Branchburg Municipal Court. Prior to taking testimony, the parties stipulated that no action was taken by the school against two other boys involved in the incidents that led to discipline of M.F.

Nancy Sobelson, a board member at the time certain bomb threats were communicated to the schools, testified. She described her reaction as a mixture of fright with some anger. There was considerable disruption of the schools. Articles appeared in a local newspaper. Although the incidents occurred at about the same time as bombing of the Federal building in Oklahoma City, the witness never connected M.F. with the accused perpetrator in that case.

Among other things, the witness stated that the Board received oral reports from the Superintendent concerning how the suspended pupils were progressing on home instruction. The witness believed that the F's were sincere and heard no other board member express any feeling to the contrary. Recommended punishments were increased. The Board very much wanted a letter of apology, but the family and their psychologist were against the idea. The Board's warning concerning further incidents came from genuine anxiety, not a desire to punish or hurt M.F.

Community service hours were increased from forty to sixty-six. M.F. was involved in two incidents, another pupil in one. A apology to the Board only, that is, not for publication, was received. The same recommendations as to both pupils were received before hearing. Some parents contacted board members. The witness received one or two telephone calls, but they were not an influence.

The Board's attorney raised an objection that the hearing was based on one issue, which was whether the punishment was appropriate. The Board has policies concerning the progress of discipline but does not have a list of offenses and punishments. The objection was sustained.

The witness stated that the Board's policy on suspension and expulsion were followed. In its final deliberations, the Board considered the fact that M.F. was a "first offender." The Board also considered reports from teachers and M.F.'s apparent lack of intent to cause harm. The witness believed the family to be truthful and sincere. At the time threats were made, the witness knew nothing of M.F.'s intent. In fact, she believed he had no intent to cause harm, but felt it was irrelevant. The absence of intent may have been discussed when considering if M.F. were a danger to himself or others.

The witness believed M.F. was truthful to police. She and the whole Board considered the criminal justice disposition of the case. No Board member said that the criminal disposition was enough.

The Board discussed the fact that M.F. had been out of school for the months of May and June 1995. The Board also discussed the fact that M.F. had done well academically while on home instruction. The Board also knew the family had told administrators several times that the family wanted M.F. back in school and were not concerned for his safety if he were to reenter the student body.

The Board relied on information and recommendations from administrators. The witness could recall no Board member saying that a two-month suspension was enough in these circumstances. The Board was aware of and did consider M.F.'s community service. Their concern was that there be a fair balance between the seriousness of the offense and the punishment, but that the punishment not be overreaching. The Board listened to guidance and teaching professionals. The witness expressed the idea that punishment is a part of caring.

The Board did not consider what other boards have done concerning bomb scares. The Board was aware that other pupils were charged, but did not conduct hearings concerning the others because the outcome of the legal process had not yet been reported to the school.

The high school principal testified that he did not know who sent the threat or the depth of the threat. He felt not anger but serious concern for pupils. He tried to find out who was responsible for the threat and then would focus on punishment. Later, punishments would be considered and if rehabilitation were needed, it would be recommended.

Because the threat was communicated by telephone facsimile, investigation was taken over by police. The witness personally wanted to see a full legal penalty invoked on the criminal side.

A meeting was arranged in May 1995 after M.F. was released by police authorities. The meeting was conducted at the Board building with the parents in attendance. At the meeting, the witness explained the information he had and the source of the information he had. He announced that M.F. was suspended pending Board hearing. The parents expressed concern about the loss of school time. The witness stated that, as part of the suspension procedure, the parents could pick up M.F.'s homework or could have it mailed to the home. He was asked if home study were an option and he indicated that it was. After S.F. complained of the arrangement, home study was provided.

The witness further testified that the administration and Board considered psychological evaluations and recommendations of other professionals in the school system. A series of proposals was made, including community service. All persons considering the question recognized that M.F. had a "clean" disciplinary record. None had any knowledge of his intent at the time, however.

The Board discussed the situation in closed session. The witness was not asked to comment. He knew M.F.'s age and that entered his considerations to come extent. He also knew M.F. had been out of school for a period and had been ordered not to enter upon school grounds while on home instruction.

The witness has received ten or twelve telephoned bomb threats over the years. These were single threats, with no follow up and the witness never learned who made the threats.

The witness also stated that pupils at the school were quite aware of the threat. There was no dramatic decline in attendance, however.

THE ARGUMENTS

The Petitioners

The petitioners allege that the Board did not make the reasoned, fair and just decision the petitioners are entitled to. The closeness in time to the Oklahoma City tragedy influenced the Board's reactions. According to the testimony, many factors were considered, but some were not.

The Board should have considered more what the petitioners say are the relevant factors and, if the Board had done so, it could not have come to the decision it did.

The principal said under oath that he wanted to see the most extreme criminal punishment possible. This is a malicious response because a boy "attacked" the principal's school.

At one point the petitioners asserted, "It seemed they really didn't care about us" and "we couldn't take it any more, we had to fight back." The petitioners see the Board holding an unfair position in that the victim was also the judge and jury. The petitioners stress that they are not trying to visit any negative effects on other pupils.

The Board

Board Policy 5125 and Rule 5125 are clear. If the principal believes a suspension of ten days or more is needed, the principal must refer the matter to the superintendent and Board. What the petitioners call an informal meeting was what the rules call an informal hearing. The full due process hearing is provided later. Mr. and Mrs. F. came to the informal meeting with their attorney. The process continued. Letters attached to the petition confirm discussions between the petitioners' counsel and the Board's counsel. In addition, the petitioner's counsel suggested that a bomb threat is not a suspension offense and that virtually no additional punishment should be necessary.

At M.F.'s hearing, the Board attorney made clear that he could not guarantee any particular Board vote. What happened after July 27, 1995 was arranged by the attorneys.

The Board did want a penalty phase hearing. Charges were prepared. See attachment B-1 in Exhibit R-1. In addition, there was a child study team evaluation, B-2 in R-1, a letter from M.F. to the Juvenile Judge, B-3 in R-1 and administrative recommendations concerning M.F., B-4 in R-1.

The petitioners seem to be concerned that the Board exceeded the recommendations of its administrators. This shows the process working as it should. Administrative recommendations are recommendations only. The Board would and did make the final decision.

The Board considered all that the petitioners submitted as well as the recommendations submitted by its staff. The transcript shows that the Board was careful, caring and interested, not vindictive and not absent good faith. The Board and administration followed policy, provided due process throughout and took and considered all input from the petitioners. The Board sat as a body and deliberated (R-2). The Board's action was reasonable under the circumstances, reasonable under the statutes, reasonable under administrative code and reasonable under case law.

DETERMINATION

It must first be observed that as the petitioner's point out, no Board disciplinary action has been taken against others. That is because the Board has not been advised of a criminal justice disposition in any case other than M.F.'s. And in M.F.'s case, there was no Board disciplinary action until after the Board was advised of the criminal justice disposition.

If the statements to the effect that the Board did not seem to care about the family are an attempt to portray the perpetrator as victim, they fail. And of course the Board enjoyed a superior position in the dealings. It is a political subdivision of the State and the Legislature has invested certain powers in it. Whether a traffic offense, a school-related matter or a capital crime, the person brought before authority can ask no more than due process. And it has long been established that the essential elements of due process of law are notice, an opportunity to be heard and to defend in an orderly proceeding adapted to the nature of the case. DiMaio v. Reid, 132 N.J.L. 17, 18 (Sup. Ct. 1944); Twining v. New Jersey, 211 U.S. 78, 53 L.Ed. 97 (1908). That is precisely was what afforded petitioners here. There was no unseemly haste. It is clear that matters proceeded in an orderly fashion. The Board did not consider its penalties until after the petitioners had been heard and until after the criminal justice procedure ran its course.

The petitioners do not like the outcome of the case below and undoubtedly will dislike the result here. Nevertheless, they have not carried the burden of showing that the Board's actions were either beyond its powers or were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Legislature clearly has invested in boards of education the power to invoke penalties for those who disrupt the good and order of the schools. Nothing in what was done by the Bridgewater-Raritan Board of Education shocks the conscience.

Every local board of education is required to enforce the rules of the state board of education; to make, amend and repeal rules for its own operations; to perform all acts and do all things consistent with law necessary to the proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, and to perform a wide range of permissive duties. Boards are responsible to the Commissioner of Education and the courts for the legality of their acts; they are responsible to their constituents for the wisdom of their acts. The mere allegation of arbitrary action is insufficient to overturn a board of education decision. A presumption of validity attaches to board actions taken within the compass of their authority and will no be overturned unless clearly arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd o.b. 46 N.J. 581 (1966); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960); Boult and Harris v. Board of Educ. of Passaic, 1939-49 SLD 7, 13, aff'd St. Bd. of Ed. 15, aff'd 135 NJL 329 (Sup. Ct. 1947), 136 NJL 521 (E&A 1948).

Despite the petitioners' emotional investment in this matter, I can find no evidence of an exercise of bad faith or a shocking abuse of discretion on the part of the Board. Absent such a showing, this judge and the Commissioner cannot interpose their judgment for that of the Board. The exercise of the Board's discretion in the performance of the duties imposed upon it is not subject to interference or reversal unless the Board violates the law or acts in bad faith. Kenney v. Board of Educ. of Montclair, 1939 SLD 647 (1935), aff'd St. Bd. of Ed. 649, 653 (1935).

Having carefully reviewed all documents and testimony in this matter, I FIND and CONCLUDE that, without more, the petitioners cannot prevail. I FIND the Board's actions herein within the clear compass of authority granted to boards of education by the Legislature. I FIND no evidence of bad faith. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the petition is without merit.

Accordingly, the petition of appeal is DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY, JAMES RICCOBONO AND JOSEPH MC GARRY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), again contending, inter alia, that the Board imposed an excessive punishment upon their minor child, M.F., for participation in a bomb hoax at the school. Petitioners further charge that their son's punishment compared to that imposed upon students in other New Jersey school districts for similar or worse incidents is more severe and, thus, not warranted. (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 3) Also, petitioners except to the ALJ's finding that the punishment imposed upon M.F. does not shock the conscience and object that the standard for Commissioner's review must reach to such a level. (Id. at p. 4) Lastly, petitioners request that the Commissioner review the subject of the Motion for Interlocutory Review concerning timeliness and damages.

In reply, the Board points out that while petitioners characterize M.F.'s punishment as excessive, "nowhere in the exceptions do petitioners state which one or more of the five conditions of the Board Resolution are excessive, unreasonable, arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law." (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 4) The Board attempts to illustrate this point by setting forth each punishment imposed by Board resolution and describing petitioners' reaction to each punishment, noting that not one met with strong objection of petitioners. (Id. at pp. 4-8)

The Board then renews its arguments concerning the subject of timeliness, averring that the ALJ was correct in dismissing from consideration on summary decision all matters which occurred prior to August 29, 1995, because such issues were untimely filed under the 90-day rule which is strictly construed and measured from the day the cause of action accrues citing, Bettencourt v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, 1988 S.L.D. 1787, 1790-91 and Riely v. Hunterdon Central High School Board of Education, 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980). (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 9) Davenport v. Butler Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 614, 616 (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 10) The Board argues that relaxation is only warranted in three instances:

> "where a substantial constitutional issue is presented, where judicial review is sought of an informal administrative determination and where a matter of significant public interest is involved." Valanzola v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Wood-Ridge, 1989 S.L.D. 1821, 1855 [citing the Commissioner's decision in *Miller v. Morris School District (Feb. 25, 1980)].
> (Board's Reply Exceptions at pp. 10-11)

However, the Board argues that petitioners did not present any reasons for relaxation of the 90-day rule. (Id. at p. 11)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge that respondent Board's determination concerning M.F.'s punishment may not be upset unless it can be demonstrated to be patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Kopera, supra, at 294. The Commissioner notes petitioners' objection to this standard but reiterates that a presumption of reasonableness attaches to a board's actions. See Boyle v. Riti, 175 N.J. Super. 158, 166 (App. Div. 1980). Moreover, it has long been held that the determination of a public entity is presumed to have been lawful, reasonable and in good faith. Van Itallie v. Franklin Lakes, 28 N.J. 258, 269 (1958). The Commissioner finds that the record herein is sufficient to establish that the Board's determination concerning M.F. was not arbitrary, capricious or otherwise improper.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j)2, the Commissioner is authorized to review the Order for Interlocutory Review issued by the ALJ at the conclusion of the contested case and, therefore, finds it appropriate to grant petitioners' request for such review at this time.

The Commissioner affirms the ALJ's determination to dismiss petitioners' claim for damages in this matter concurring that the Commissioner is not legislatively authorized to award damages. Balsley v. North Hunterdon Board of Education, 117 N.J. 434, 442 (1990). See also Poole v. Passaic County Regional School District No. 1 Board of Education, 1977 S.L.D. 1179; McLean v. Glen Ridge Borough Board of Education et al., 1977 S.L.D. 311.

With regard to the issue of timeliness, the Commissioner finds that even granting, arguendo, that petitioners' allegations arising from incidents dating prior to the 90th day before the filing of this petition were deemed as true, the outcome of this matter would remain unchanged. Therefore, the Commissioner finds it unnecessary to reach to the question of whether these allegations should be deemed untimely filed.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision and decision on motion, as modified herein, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the OAL and hereby dismisses the within matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured custodian who was dismissed for unbecoming conduct, sought back pay allegedly owed as a result of tenure proceedings. Petitioner sought back pay for the period from November 11, 1993, which was the 121st day subsequent to the date on which petitioner was suspended without pay (July 13, 1993), until July 17, 1995, the date of the Commissioner's decision on the tenure matter.

ALJ concluded that the 90-day period of limitations contained in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) was not applicable in this case and that laches, the entire controversy doctrine, res judicata, collateral estoppel, and waiver should not be applied. ALJ concluded that petitioner was entitled to back pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, subject to mitigation totaling $12,418.31 for the period from November 11, 1993 through July 16, 1995. ALJ also concluded that petitioner's motion for summary decision should be granted and the Board's motion should be denied.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and directed mitigated compensation for petitioner.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 3, 1995, Howard Efferen (Efferen or petitioner) filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) seeking back pay from the Bergenfield Board of Education (Board or respondent). The Board filed an answer on October 18, 1995, and the DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 27, 1995 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Telephone conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings. The parties determined that the matter could be resolved based upon stipulations and motion papers. A hearing scheduled for April 11, 1995 was adjourned at the request of the parties.

Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision on February 29, 1996. The Board filed a cross-motion for summary decision and a response in opposition to Efferen's motion on March 11, 1996. On March 28, 1996, Efferen filed a reply to the Board's cross-motion. The Board filed a response to petitioner's reply on April 8, 1996; and Efferen, a certification in opposition to respondent's certification, on April 11, 1996. The parties filed a joint stipulation of facts on April 12, 1996, on which date the record was closed.

NATURE OF THE CASE

The issues raised in the current matter must be considered in the context of prior disciplinary action by the Board against Efferen.

On June 19, 1993, respondent's superintendent filed tenure charges and a sworn statement of evidence against Efferen. Thereafter, the Board passed a resolution on July 13, 1993 certifying tenure charges and seeking dismissal of respondent. Efferen was suspended without pay. The DOE transmitted the matter to the OAL for determination. Bergenfield Bor. Bd. of Educ. v. Efferen, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 304, 305.

On August 23, 1993, the Board filed a petition for declaratory judgment with the DOE, which was also transmitted to the OAL. It was consolidated with the matter previously transmitted. Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision on February 10, 1994. Ibid.

The tenure charges consisted of two counts of unbecoming conduct. Count One alleged that on July 29, 1992, respondent had criminal sexual contact with his 25-year-old stepdaughter, who was alleged to be mentally handicapped, and that on January 25, 1993, he pled guilty to a charge of criminal sexual conduct, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:14:3(b). The Board's petition for declaratory judgment sought rulings that petitioner was disqualified for employment or service under Title 18A of the New Jersey Revised Statutes, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, by virtue of a judgment of conviction dated March 10, 1993, and that he forfeited his employment, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, by virtue of the judgment of conviction. Ibid.

This judge issued an initial decision (ID) on April 25, 1994, granting petitioner's motion for summary decision as it pertained to forfeiture and denying the motion as it pertained to disqualification. I also ordered that respondent be terminated from his position, but did not address the merits of the tenure charges. Id. at 308. The Commissioner issued a decision on June 24, 1994, remanding the matter for a hearing wherein respondent would be permitted to present proof relating to all of the relevant circumstances surrounding the crime for which he was convicted. Id. at 309.

I issued a decision on remand on June 5, 1995, determining that the offense to which respondent had pled guilty did not result in a forfeiture of his position, that the circumstances underlying the plea constituted unbecoming conduct, and that termination was an appropriate discipline. Bergenfield Bor. Bd. of Educ. v. Efferen, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d, (EDU) 457, 464. The Commissioner issued a final decision on July 17, 1995, affirming the initial decision and terminating petitioner, effective that date. Id. at 465.

Petitioner thereafter requested of the Board back pay for the period from November 11, 1993 until July 17, 1995. Efferen forwarded additional correspondence and documents regarding his request, on August 15, 1995, and filed a motion for summary decision on August 18, 1995 with this judge. I thereafter advised the parties that because an ID had been issued, I did not have jurisdiction over the matter. Petitioner thereafter filed a petition with the DOE seeking back pay. The issues currently pending are whether petitioner should be granted back pay, and if so, for what time period.

STIPULATIONS

The parties entered into the following stipulations:

1. On or about June 9, 1993,[1] the Board filed tenure charges against Efferen.

2. On or about July 13, 1993, respondent passed a resolution certifying charges to the Commissioner, and the said charges were deemed filed on July 21, 1993 (Agency Reference No. 275-5/93).

3. On or about August 2, 1993, Efferen filed an answer to the charges with the Commissioner, which answer was deemed filed August 3, 1993 (Agency Reference No. 275-7/93).

4. On or about August 23, 1993, respondent filed a petition for declaratory judgment (Agency Reference No. 308-8/93).

5. On or about September 7, 1993, Efferen filed an answer to the petition for declaratory judgment (Agency Reference No. 308-8/93).

6. On October 20, 1993, a telephone status conference was held among counsel for the Board and Efferen and the presiding judge.

[1]This date is in error.

7. On or about January 13, 1994, a notice of plenary hearing was forwarded by the OAL to the parties, listing April 7 and 8, 1994 as the dates for hearing. The nature of proceedings stated "Charges of unbecoming conduct against tenured custodian based on conviction for criminal sexual conduct." (Agency Reference No. 275-7/93; OAL Dkt. No. EDU 08099-93N).

8. On or about January 13, 1994, a Notice of Plenary Hearing was forwarded by the OAL to the parties, listing April 7 and 8, 1994 as the dates for hearing. The nature of proceedings stated "Board seeks Judgment of forfeiture based upon custodian's conviction for criminal sexual contact." (Agency Reference No. 308-8/93; OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8672-93N).

9. On or about February 7, 1994, respondent filed a motion for summary decision, in the consolidated matters, which motion was deemed filed February 9, 1994.

10. On or about March 1, 1994, Efferen filed an answer to the motion for summary decision.

11. On or about April 25, 1994, the Honorable Diana C. Sukovich issued summary decision in favor of the Board, holding that Efferen had forfeited his employment.

12. On or about June 24, 1994, the Commissioner remanded the matter for a full hearing enabling Efferen to present proof of relevant circumstances surrounding the crime for which he was convicted to reach a determination as to whether he had forfeited his public employment and for a hearing on the merits of the outstanding tenure charges if he did not forfeit his employment.

13. The remand was transmitted to the OAL for a determination as a contested case, as confirmed by notice of filing dated July 20, 1994.

14. On November 18, 1994, counsel to the Board wrote to Judge Sukovich, requesting a conference call to address the pending issues.

15. On December 1, 1994, a telephone status conference was held among the parties' counsel and ALJ Sukovich.

16. On December 2, 1994, Efferen's counsel sent a letter to the Board's counsel, advising of the Olek decision.[2] The correspondence speaks for itself.

17. The Notice of Plenary Hearing was forwarded to the parties on or about December 9, 1994, and a hearing on remand was conducted on or about March 16, 1995.

18. On or about June 5, 1995, Judge Sukovich issued her ID following the hearing, holding that Efferen did not forfeit his position, but affirming Count One of the tenure charges, thus warranting termination of employment.

19. On or about July 17, 1995, the Commissioner affirmed the ID of the administrative law judge.

20. On or about August 3, 1995, counsel for Efferen forwarded correspondence to the Board's counsel, seeking back pay for Efferen from November 11, 1993 until the date of the decision of the Commissioner of Education of July 17, 1995.

21. On or about August 15, 1995, counsel for Efferen forwarded additional correspondence and documents relative to the request for back pay.

22. On or about August 18, 1995, petitioner filed a motion for summary decision, seeking reimbursement for back pay.

23. On or about September 7, 1995, Judge Sukovich advised the parties that the OAL had no jurisdiction to review the motion.

24. On or about September 22, 1995, the DOE advised the parties that no action would be taken on the motion as the matter should be presented via petition of appeal.

25. On or about October 3, 1995, Efferen filed a petition seeking reimbursement of back pay.

26. On or about October 18, 1995, the Board filed an answer to the petition.

27. To date, the Board has not issued any back pay to Efferen in response to the request of counsel.

[2]The pertinent case is The Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert Olek, School District of the City of Garfield, Bergen County,- S.L.D. (December 23, 1994).

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the motion papers and the pleadings, I FIND the following to be additional facts.

The possibility that petitioner might be filing a motion regarding his salary status was discussed by his counsel during the December 1, 1994 telephone conference.

In his August 31, 1995 letter, Efferen's counsel referenced the Commissioner's July 17, 1995 decision, as well as the fact that tenure charges had been certified on July 13, 1993. Counsel advanced the positions that Efferen should have been restored to the payroll as of November 11, 1993 and that Efferen was entitled to one year, eight months, and six days' pay, less earnings, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. Counsel concluded by noting that documentation of earnings would be supplied and requested that the Board advise if it were its position that Efferen was not entitled to the funds in question, so that action could be taken before the Commissioner.

Petitioner's counsel provided documentation regarding Efferen's earnings during the period in question with the August 15, 1995 letter. More specifically, counsel stated that petitioner had earned $2,976.09 in 1993 and $9,442.22 in 1994, totaling $12,418.31, which should, counsel argued, be deducted from the amount petitioner should have received in payment of salary. Counsel concluded by requesting that the Board advise of its position. The documentation consisted of earnings statements from various employers of Efferen.

DISCUSSION

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and any discovery demonstrate that no genuine issue exists regarding any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Summary decision shall be granted if the adverse party fails to meet his/her burden in setting forth specific facts establishing a genuine issue of material facts, which can only be determined at an evidentiary hearing. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12-5. For the reasons hereinafter discussed, I am persuaded that petitioner's motion should be granted; and respondent's motion, denied.

The Commissioner generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. No individual shall be dismissed if he/she is under tenure of office, position, or employment in a public school system, except for certain specified reasons. Such action can only be taken after a hearing pursuant to applicable statutory provisions, subsequent to written charges of the cause of complaint. Id. at §6.10.

Upon certification of charges, a local board may suspend the person against whom such charges are made, with or without pay. If a determination is not made by the Commissioner within 120 days after certification thereof, the full salary of the individual in question shall be paid. The applicable statutory provision provides as follows:

> Upon certification of any charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay, but, if the determination of the charge by the Commissioner of Education is not made within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges, excluding all delays which are granted at the request of such person, then the full salary (except for said 120 days) of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made. Should the charge be dismissed, the person shall be reinstated immediately with full pay from the first day of such suspension. Should the charge be dismissed and the suspension be continued during an appeal therefrom, then the full pay or salary of such person shall continue until the determination of the appeal. However, the board of education shall deduct from said full pay or salary any sums received by such employee or officers by way of pay or salary from any substituted employment assumed during such period of suspension. Should the charge be sustained on the original hearing or an appeal therefrom, and should such person appeal from the same, then the suspension may be continued unless and until such determination is reversed, in which event he shall be reinstated immediately with full pay as of the time of such suspension. Id. at §14. (emphasis added).

Petitioner seeks back pay for the period from November 11, 1993, which is the 121st day subsequent to the date on which petitioner was suspended without pay, until July 13, 1993. Respondent argues that Efferen is not entitled to any remuneration because petitioner did not comply with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, which, the Board argues, is applicable in the current matter. Respondent also argues that petitioner cannot obtain the relief requested based on the applications of laches, the entire controversy doctrine, res judicata, collateral estoppel, and waiver. I am not persuaded by the Board's arguments.

To initiate a contested case for the Commissioner's determination, a copy of a petition shall be served on the respondent and proof of service and the petition and copies thereof shall thereafter be filed with the DOE. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(a). The petition shall be filed:

> . . . no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. Id. at §(c).

The 90-day rule applies if the action in question is not based on a statutory entitlement. North Plainfield Educ. Assn. v. Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984) (North Plainfield). West New York Bd. of Educ. v. Lydia Gilmartin, 1990 S.L.D. 619. The Court in North Plainfield held that teachers' petitions for salary credit for time spent on sabbaticals were barred by the 90-day rule. Interpreting applicable statutes, the Court concluded that the increments were not based on a statutory entitlement because they were subject to annual performance evaluations. In reaching this conclusion, the Court contrasted credits for military service, which credits were deemed to be statutory entitlements.[3]

[3]The applicable statute provides that individuals who served in the military unit or naval service of the United States or of New Jersey shall be entitled to receive equivalent years of employment credit. N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11. (emphasis added).

A suspended employee's right to his/her salary, subject to any mitigation, commencing the 121st day of suspension, where no determination has been made by the Commissioner, is a matter of statutory right. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 on its face has mandatory application, and there are no exceptions. This conclusion is also supported by the decision in The Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert Olek, School District of the City of Garfield, Bergen County - S.L.D. (December 23, 1994) (Olek). In that case, the Commissioner noted, in part, applying N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, that: ". . . . there is simply no basis on which to lawfully deny respondent's entitlement to salary while the charges against him are being heard pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. To the extent that such entitlement is perceived as inappropriate, remedy lies with the Legislature rather than with the Commissioner, who cannot grant a relief outside of the bounds of law." (Olek at 2).

I am persuaded that the 90-day period of limitations contained in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) does not apply in this case. It is therefore not necessary to consider the other issues raised in this respect.

Laches is a defense applicable when there is delay, unexplained and inexcusable, in enforcing a known right, and prejudice results to the other party because of that delay. Gladden v. Public Employees' Retirement System Trustee Bd., 171 N.J. Super. 363 (App. Div. 1979). Laches requires knowledge of a right and prejudice to the other party as a result of a delay in enforcing the right. The policy behind the doctrine of laches is the discouragement of stale claims. Ibid.

The determination of whether a claim is stale is based on whether a party had a reason to assert a claim at an earlier date but failed to do so. Berkeley Dev. Co. v. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., 214 N.J. Super. 227 (Law Div. 1986). The length of the delay, whether the delay was reasonable or unreasonable, and changing conditions of the parties during the delay are factors to be considered. Enfield v. FWL, Inc., 256 N.J. Super. 502 (Ch. Div. 1991) (Enfield). However, notwithstanding the amount of any delay, a primary factor is any prejudice resulting from such delay:

> The most important factor that must be established to support a finding of laches is prejudice to the defendant . . . Mere lapse of time is not enough to constitute laches, however, a 'long lapse of time, if unexplained, may create or justify a presumption against existence or validity of plaintiff's rights'. . . Laches depends on more than inexcusable delay in asserting a claim; it depends on inexcusable delay causing undue prejudice to the party against whom the claim is asserted . . . One who would invoke laches must show a delay which has subjected that party to a disadvantage in asserting and establishing their claimed right or defense caused by their detrimental reliance on their adversary's conduct. Enfield at 522-523 (citations omitted).

The party claiming laches bears the burden to show that he/she was prejudiced by the other party's delayed assertion of claims without excuse or explanation. Allstate Ins. Co. v. Howard Savings Inst., 127 N.J. Super. 479 (Ch. Div. 1974).

For the reasons discussed hereinabove regarding N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), I am persuaded that the Board's arguments for the application of laches are without merit. Efferen, as noted, had a statutory right to resumption of his salary; he did not have to advance claims in this respect. In fact, respondent was under an obligation to resume payment of salary. The Board, an entity subject to the jurisdiction of the DOE, should have known of its obligation. The fact that petitioner did not raise issues in this respect until the Commissioner's final determination on the merits of the charges did not constitute a delay. In addition, the Board has not established any resulting prejudice to it.

For similar reasons, I am not persuaded by the Board's arguments regarding application of the entire controversy doctrine, res judicata, and collateral estoppel. The entire controversy doctrine is a judicial policy seeking to compel litigants to consolidate their claims arising from a single controversy whenever possible. Thornton v. Potamkin Chevrolet, 94 N.J. 1 (1983). In determining whether the doctrine should apply, the crucial question is whether the claims asserted derive from a single transaction or a series of related transactions, a portion of which was disposed of by final judgment in an earlier law suit. The Malaker Corp. v. First Jersey Nat'l Bank, 163 N.J. Super. 463 (App. Div. 1978).

Res judicata is a principle of law barring a party from relitigating a second time that which was previously fairly litigated and determined finally. The general requirements for application of res judicata are a final judgment by a court or tribunal of competent jurisdiction and an identity of issues, parties, cause of action, and thing sued for. City of Hackensack v. Winter, 162 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1978), modified on other grounds, 82 N.J. 1 (1980). Collateral Estoppel is that branch of the broader law of res judicata which bars relitigation of any issue which was actually determined in a prior action, generally between the same parties, involving a different claim or cause of action.

A common theme among these three doctrines is that they seek to ensure that all claims arising from a controversy be asserted and resolved in the same cause of action. However, petitioner's claim for back pay was not a controversy in the prior administrative matters, which involved the question of whether petitioner had forfeited his position or could be terminated because of unbecoming conduct. Neither party raised, or litigated, issues pertinent to resumption of salary, and I am not persuaded that such should have been included in those proceedings. As discussed hereinabove, petitioner had a statutory right to reinstatement of salary, subject to any mitigation. The amount of salary in question, as well as of any income which he earned during the period in question, could not be known until a final determination on the merits was rendered. In fact, if the Board did not prevail on the substantive merits of the charges, petitioner arguably would have been reinstated, with back pay to the date of reinstatement. Respondent's assertion that it had a right to have the issue of back pay previously settled is not persuasive. In addition, respondent has shown no prejudice because of any argued delay.

For similar reasons, I am persuaded that waiver does not apply in this case. Waiver involves an intentional relinquishment of a known right. It must affirmatively appear that the party charged with a waiver knew his/her rights and deliberately intended to relinquish them. Allstate, supra. Respondent has not established that petitioner intentionally or voluntarily relinquished his statutory entitlement to back pay, and it is not clear that he could legally do so.

I am persuaded that Efferen is entitled to back pay, subject to mitigation, for the period from November 11, 1993 through July 16, 1995. Respondent does not dispute that petitioner earned a total of $12,418.31 during the time in question, and I am persuaded that such amount should be deducted from the total amount of back pay to which he would otherwise be entitled.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that the 90-day period of limitations contained in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is not applicable in the current matter, that laches, the entire controversy doctrine, res judicata, collateral estoppel, and waiver should not be applied in this case, and that petitioner is entitled to back pay, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, subject to mitigation totaling $12,418.31, for the period from November 11, 1993 through July 16, 1995. I also CONCLUDE that petitioner's motion for summary decision should be granted and that respondent's motion for summary decision should be denied.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision be and is hereby GRANTED, that respondent's motion for summary decision be and is hereby DENIED, and that respondent provide back pay to petitioner for the period from November 11, 1993 through July 16, 1995, subject to mitigation totaling $12,418.31.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

HOWARD EFFEREN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board initially challenges the ALJ's conclusion that the 90-day rule found at N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is inapplicable, as the within action is based on statutory entitlement. (Board's Exceptions at p. 2) Asserting that her conclusion is erroneous, the Board cites Amato v. Board of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School, 1986 S.L.D. 94 and Sasse v. Board of Education of the Borough of Point Pleasant, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 339 to buttress its claim that the Commissioner has applied the 90-day rule in cases "where the complained of action arises from a statutory entitlement." (Board's Exceptions at p. 2) Moreover, the Board recasts its argument, as set forth before the ALJ, that Olek, supra, is not dispositive in this matter, arguing that "[t]he Commissioner determined in Olek that the motion was strictly limited to resumption of Olek's salary as of December 1, 1994. The Commissioner did not rule on Olek's entitlement to full back pay, if any." (Id. at pp. 2, 3)

The Board further excepts to the ALJ's dismissal of its argument that summary decision is appropriate based upon the doctrines of entire controversy, res judicata, collateral estoppel, laches and waiver. (Id. at p. 3) Here, the Board argues, inter alia, that the instant matter "fits squarely" within the entire controversy doctrine, since petitioner's claim for back pay derives from the Board's action in bringing tenure charges against him and the Board's consequent suspension of pay. (Id.) The Board continues,

> Res judicata also precludes resolution of the pending Petition for back pay as Petitioner's entitlement to continued employment was at issue in the prior action. The companion entitlement is whether Petitioner should have received salary during that period of time within which the tenure proceedings were pending. Petitioner's rights regarding continued employment and continued compensation should have been litigated within the same action. (Id.)

Additionally, the Board reasserts its arguments as to the applicability of the doctrines of collateral estoppel, waiver and laches. (Id. at pp. 3, 4)

Finally, the Board maintains that the ALJ erred in determining that the Board has not established that it is prejudiced by its having to now litigate the back pay issue. (Id. at p. 4) Rather, the Board asserts > this conclusion is erroneous, particularly in light of the significant expenditure by the Board of Education relative to the prior proceeding, at the several levels of administrative and agency review. To be compelled, at this juncture, to devote substantial monies to litigate this matter, which should have been litigated previously, is an inappropriate outlay of public funds. (Id.)

In reply, petitioner maintains that the 90-day rule does not apply in this matter since "there was no final order, ruling or action by the respondent which triggered the 90 day limitation." (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at p. 1) Moreover, petitioner asserts that the Board's reliance upon Amato, supra, is misplaced, in that it was the Board in this matter which brought the previous action against petitioner; "[petitioner's] claim for back pay surfaced only when the Commissioner affirmed the tenure dismissal." (Id. at p. 2) Petitioner argues that to accept the Board's view that the back pay issue should have been raised in the course of the prior proceeding is to accept that "in every tenure dismissal case, testimony must be produced on what could be meaningless and irrelevant issues as to salary, offsets, and good faith efforts to seek employment, even though the employee is eventually dismissed." (Id.) Thus, contrary to the Board's assertion that he delayed filing for back pay for two years, petitioner contends he was not entitled to the back pay until the Commissioner issued a ruling on the tenure charges.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to adopt the initial decision of the ALJ, as he is not persuaded by the Board's arguments that either the 90-day rule or the doctrines raised as defenses to this claim, supra, should apply under the circumstances herein.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein and directs the Board to immediately compensate petitioner with back pay, subject to mitigation,* for the period from November 11, 1993 through July 16, 1995.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

ACTING COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* As noted in the initial decision, the Board does not dispute that petitioner earned a total of $12,418.31 during the period November 11, 1993 through July 16, 1995. (Initial Decision at p. 13)

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF HUGO VICARI, HUDSON	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL	:	DECISION
SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUDSON COUNTY.	:

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent principal for alleged sexual harassment of a teacher and a student during a summer program in 1994.

Having considered the evidence and the testimony of witnesses, the ALJ determined that the testimony of the witnesses charging harassment was credible. ALJ, thus, concluded respondent had engaged in conduct which was unbecoming of a school administrator. ALJ found that the appropriate penalty was dismissal from his employment.

Upon review of the record, including the hearing transcripts, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's credibility determinations and resultant conclusions. Commissioner concurred that the Board had established by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a school administrator. Moreover, Commissioner found that the incidents were sufficiently flagrant to warrant dismissal. (Redcay; In re Sammons) Commissioner ordered dismissal of respondent from his tenured position of school principal and directed matter to be forwarded to State Board of Examiners for further appropriate action.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT NO EDU 11977-94

AGENCY DKT NO. 466-11/94

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF HUGO VICARI, HUDSON COUNTY AREA VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUDSON COUNTY.

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for petitioner
(Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

Alexander W. Booth, Jr., Esq., for respondent
(Brownstein, Booth & Barry, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 4, 1995 Decided: June 3, 1996*

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-MC CLOUD, ALJ:

This matter concerns tenure charges brought against respondent, Hugo Vicari, which was certified by Frank Garguilo, superintendent of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School Board of Education on September 7, 1994. The matter was then presented by way of resolution by the Board of Education dated October 20, 1994 and certified to by the secretary of the Board, Carl Ferrigno. A certificate of determination was then submitted to the Commissioner of Education on October 26, 1994. An answer was filed by respondent and received at the Department of Education on November 10, 1994. On December 13, 1994, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The hearing was held on June 27, 28, and 30, 1995, as well as September 6, and 8, 1995. A final hearing date was scheduled to occur at the conclusion of October 1995. However, by way of letter dated October 20, 1995, it was determined that counsel jointly agreed that no further testimony would be necessary and that a conference would be scheduled by telephone on October 23, 1995. On that date, a stipulation of facts was received by the undersigned, concluding the testimonial and evidentiary portion of the case. The record, however, remained open for posthearing submission by the parties at their request until December 4, 1995, at which time the record closed.

The record having closed on December 4, 1995, would have given the undersigned a 45-day period in which to issue an initial decision with the Department of Education which would have expired on January 18, 1996. An order of extension was granted for good cause changing the date due for the initial decision in this matter to January 18, 1996. A second order of extension for good cause was also granted extending the time frame to March 4, 1996. A third request for an order of extension was ultimately granted due to the undersigned's extremely heavy case load as well as the need to review the transcripts in the matter and the undersigned's jury duty service, thereby extending the time file the initial decision until June 2, 1996.*

STIPULATION OF FACTS

At the onset of the hearing, both parties entered into a stipulation of facts. Those facts are as follows:

1. Hugo Vicari began working for petitioner Board of Education in 1974.

2. There have been no prior disciplinary proceedings against Hugo Vicari.

In addition to the stipulation of facts prior to the onset of the case, a subsequent stipulation of facts was entered into by the parties at the conclusion of the case and filed with the undersigned on October 23, 1995. Those facts read as follows:

1. If called to testify in this matter, Mary Robinson, Ann Gherardi, Doris Liguori, and Marie Zapulla would each state that she knows Hugo Vicari, has had dealings with him and, based on those dealings, find him to be truthful and to have an excellent character.

2. If called to testify in this matter, Lester Concannon, Donald Cicero, and Julie Sinatra would each testify that he/she knows Hugo Vicari and that Vicari's reputation in the community for truth and veracity is excellent.

As these facts have been stipulated to by the parties, I hereby FIND them to constitute operational facts in this case.

CHARGES

The charges certified by the school board are that Hugo Vicari, a principal at the Hudson County area vocational technical school and a principal of the summer program during 1994 sexually harassed a teacher and a 17-year-old student. It was additionally charged that he publicly and inappropriately reprimanded a maintenance employee. The Board of Education alleges that this conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a professional school administrator and seeks either dismissal or a reduction in salary pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

In addition to those facts stipulated to above I FIND the following to be undisputed facts in this case:

Respondent is certified in elementary education, biological science, health administration, principal, reading specialist, supervisor and school administrator. Since 1972 his educational background includes receipt of a bachelor of arts degree as well as a masters degree in reading in 1973 and a masters degree in health administration in 1974 as well as work in a doctoral program at Rutgers University and attendance at numerous seminars.

Respondent first began his employment by petitioner in 1974. He has regularly and continuously been employed by the board of education since that time and has been appointed to a number of positions since that date. Those positions include

1. Executive Assistant to the Superintendent
2. Chief Administrator of the Jersey City Career Institute
3. Director of Planning
4. Principal at Jersey City Center
5. Principal of the Adult School (North Hudson Center)
6. Principal assigned to the Bayonne Center
7. Principal assigned to the Central Office (1992 to the time of the hearing)

During the period discussed respondent also was on a sabbatical for one a half years.

In addition to responsibilities during the school year, respondent was also assigned to a summer program operated by the Board of Education during the summers of 1992, 1993 and 1994.

As these facts are uncontested I FIND them to also constitute operational facts in this case.

TESTIMONY

The testimony of Sharon O'Reilly was taken during this case. As of the time of the hearing Ms. O'Reilly was attending Columbia University full time in order to obtain her MSW. She had been, according to her testimony employed part time since the spring of 1993 with the Hudson County Vocational School. She stated that her first part time job was as a baking instructor evenings one evening per week for each semester with North Bergen.

The witness testified that in the summer of 1994 she got a job with the Board of Education subsequent to a letter written to the Superintendent, Frank Gargiulo. With respect to the summer program in 1994 she began work on July 6 of that year and that was the day upon which she met respondent, Vicari. He was introduced to her by Mr. Steiner and she testified that she asked if he were a teacher to which he responded "No, I'm the janitor" and laughed. After that he clarified that he was the principal.

The witness testified that there was interaction between the two of them regarding the fact that they were neighbors. To which respondent stated that he liked Irish girls and that they were his type. She also testified that he indicated that they should "get together" sometime.

Ms. O'Reilly testified that a day or two later she encountered Mr. Vicari on the school grounds and he once again initiated the idea that they should "go out." She stated that her response that she was not comfortable dating a supervisor and his answer was that they were "transient visitors in each other's lives and this was short period of time" and that she should look at it in that manner.

The summer program was scheduled to last for six weeks.

The witness testified that there was also a conversation between herself and the respondent as to whether or not she had an extra key to her apartment and needed someone to do her laundry which she initially dismissed as a lack of social skills.

The witness was teaching a class in measurements on July 12, 1994 and she heard respondent walk up. At that time she had a box with chalk and rulers and he walked into the room. According to the witness respondent said that he had heard she was doing measurements and he then said, "Do you want to measure me?" This comment was accompanied by a gesture with arms back and a pelvic tilt. According to the witness she said no and snapped a ruler which she had in her hands.

During the summer program there were also field trips every Friday in groups. On July 15, 1994 there was one scheduled and the witness's field trip was to be to Teterboro, New Jersey. Students had tee shirts for these specific trips which were kept in a guidance counselor's office. The witness stated that some showed up without their tee shirts for the field trip. She herself was in the office to photocopy something and Mrs. Reynolds was trying to get into the locked office to secure the tee shirts. The wall or partition did not reach the ceiling and as a result the witness climbed up on the file cabinet in order to climb over. Respondent came in and the witness came down from the file cabinet. The witness testified that she put her left hand down and respondent took the hand while alighting from the file cabinet. She had to lean into respondent because he took her right hand. She stated that her back was to the file cabinet and then both of respondent's hands were on her back "in an embrace." She stated that she put a hand between them but that they were close enough that she could feel his breath. She was unable to estimate the time that this took but was very surprised.

Ultimately somebody did secure the tee shirts and she went back to the cafeteria and went on the field trip after recovering her composure.

On that date she states that she and another individual went to a video store because the field trip concluded early due to the weather. She later saw the respondent and according to the witness he asked her if she was excited earlier. She walked away AND he came up to her and said, "You know I almost kissed your neck before." According to Ms. O'Reilly she ignored the comment and then the respondent stated, "Do you think you can handle an Italian stud like me?" He followed up by asking once again if she was excited earlier and she stated that she was not. According to the witness he said, "Well then you have to give me another chance because I know I can make you excited."

The witness acknowledged having been reprimanded for bringing cookies into the cafeteria and only giving the cookies to her students who had baked the cookies. She agreed that this was sloppy.

The witness also testified about an incident involving a janitor by the name of Mike who was in his late teens or early twenties and she believed to be a mongoloid or impaired individual. She stated he had a lack of social skills.

The witness testified that there was an incident on July 28, 1994 between the respondent and Mike. This incident was in the office of Mr. Meyers and he was present along respondent with herself. She stated that Mike came in and was told by the respondent that he was a disgusting human and was fat and that if he kept eating in that manner he would die. According to the witness she told Mike that he did not have to listen to this and that he was fine.

This witness also testified that she received a visit from Mr. Panepinto on August 2, 1994 at her home. He stated that this was due to a mix-up in a memo. According to the witness Mr. Panepinto pressured the witness into telling him about any meeting which she might have had regarding these incidents.

On cross-examination the witness denied ever asking coworkers about respondent's marital status or ever stating that she wished to "go out" with him. She did state that after certain comments were made she spoke with a friend, John Holoduke on July 20, 1994. She also indicated that she told Peter Flinchback in general terms that she may have been pressed up against a file cabinet but did not give specifics.

The witness acknowledged that respondent never directly evaluated her performance in her job.

Testimony was also given from Janet Reynolds who works as an attendant aide during the regular school year in the North Bergen office and has worked for six or seven consecutive summers. In 1994 she worked in Jersey City. Her location was in the area of the guidance offices. The witness is acquainted with Mr. Vicari and lives in the same town in which he lives.

Ms. Reynolds stated that up until the summer of 1994 she considered them to be friends as well as the principal with supervision for her at one time. They never had a social relationship of any kind.

In the summer of 1994 Mr. Vicari was the principal and the witness got a ride to work with Mr. Gonzalez. Then she met Sharon O'Reilly during the summer of 1994 school program and began getting rides with her.

The witness recalled an incident involving tee shirts for a field trip. The respondent came in and indicated that the tee shirts were needed and was told that they were locked. Respondent then left and Ms. O'Reilly came in and stated to the witness that she was going to get the tee shirts. Ms. O'Reilly stood on the file cabinet looking over and the witness indicated to her not to do that. The respondent walked in and at some point had his hands around Ms. O'Reilly's waist and according to this witness Ms. O'Reilly had her hands upon Mr. Vicari's shoulders. The witness remembered respondent saying something including the word "feel." She states that they did not immediately separate physically. She described Ms. O'Reilly as leaning back because it was a low filing cabinet. The situation made the witness uncomfortable. According to her there was no one else there that she recalled until someone else came in with a ladder. After that Mr. Gallagher also arrived. The witness describes the two as being in that position for somewhat in excess of a minute. The janitor came in at which time the two separated and Judy Didden also came in. In describing the contact after the attempt to obtain the tee shirts the witness stated that respondent walked over to help Ms. O'Reilly down. Ms. O'Reilly drove the witness home that night.

This witness states that on occasion she observed respondent in the parking lot in the vicinity of Ms. O'Reilly and would observe Ms. O'Reilly roll her eyes and "exhale." The witness did not recall being present at any time about a comment involving a ride home or carpooling.

Mary Katherine Karolis testified that as of the time of the hearing she was attending Monmouth University and had turned eighteen. She had previously worked the summer at the vocational technical school, while 17 years old, through a program by which she was paid $5.05 per hour. This began sometime after the July 4, 1994 weekend.

The witness testified that she first met respondent on the first meeting day and everyone was talking. According to her he introduced himself, touched her hand and possibly her hair and stated that she was very attractive. During the early part of the program she testified that he would state audibly in the halls where other people could hear, "You have to stop calling at night. I know you want me." According to Ms. Karolis these statements were made in front of other individuals. During this entire period of time she was seventeen years of age and a student working through a special program.

She also testified that he stated "One more year and you are mine." The witness denied every having called at night and stated that once while speaking with Mr. Vicari she asked him what was for lunch and his response was "Hmmmm" which she interpreted to be as if she were.

The witness also stated that there was an incident when she was walking with another individual and respondent came up and took her arm and said to the other individual "Can I borrow her for an hour and take her back in a room and give her back." According to the witness this also made her feel uncomfortable.

Later at home she told her mother, a neighbor and a neighbor's grandson who is either a police officer or a sheriff's officer. He then took her to the office at the vocational technical school to explain what had happened but she does not recall to whom it was explained. The witness acknowledged that she never told the respondent himself that his actions made her uncomfortable. She did state that after the visit of the family friend the behavior ceased.

Michael Pecklers also testified during the hearing. He is an employee of the Hudson County Vocational Technical schools and has worked there for 20 years. He stated that his office had received a call by Peter Flinchbaugh who was a teacher in the commercial foods area. He was also called into the Superintendent, Frank Gargulo's office regarding allegations that had been made against the respondent. He acknowledged that Mr. Flinchbaugh had told him that he had no firsthand knowledge of incidents.

Michael Symzak testified that he was an employee of the vocational technical school and had been so for fifteen years. As of the time of the hearing he was the vocational assessment manager. In 1994 he was the program coordinator for the summer program with the respondent. He worked five days a week between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. He stated that at the end of the day on one occasion a security person came to get him and said that someone from the "prosecutor's office" was present. He spoke with that individual and the individual stated that the matter was not official business. The person did say that it dealt with an "employment counselor" named "Kate."

Mr. Symzak testified that his response was that he did not know who if anyone was harassing her.

He stated that the individual returned on another day and informed him that respondent was the individual referred to. Respondent was not present at the time. The witness went to see "Kate" (Ms. Karolis) that respondent had been making comments to her and that if he would just stop it would be the end of the matter. The individual never returned to speak with him.

On cross-examination Mr. Symzak acknowledged that he spoke with respondent the day after his visit to Ms. Karolis and told respondent about the visit he had received as well as the fact that he had spoken Ms. Karolis and Ms. Karolis' mother. He also acknowledged having told respondent that if the conduct stopped everything would be resolved.

The witness also stated that he also spoke with the respondent about incidents involving Sharon O'Reilly. During these conversations the witness testified that respondent told him that Ms. O'Reilly came in and complained that students were throwing out food and she said that she was going to write a letter. He indicated that there is a regulation that they must get certain food.

During the second week of the program respondent came to the witness and talked to him. At that time respondent said that he had asked O'Reilly to perform either hall or bathroom duty and she had wanted to know why she was being "picked on." At that time respondent suggested that a list be prepared to show that these duties were done fairly and the witness did so.

At approximately the third week of the program respondent had indicated to him that by giving cookies to only some students and not all it could cause fights. The witness testified that he told respondent he had given permission that the cookies be given out. This matter was later discussed with Ms. O'Reilly by the witness who told her that respondent had a concern that not all students got cookies and she did not respond.

The witness did not recall any other conversations with respondent regarding Ms. O'Reilly.

The witness did acknowledge that he knows a Michael Ianico who worked for the school board. The only observations he made as the interactions between respondent and "Michael" were friendly and in the nature of a greeting.

The witness did acknowledge having a discussion with Katie and states that he had concerns about her. According to him she seemed lethargic and most times he went into the office and she had her head on the desk. He testified that he would go into the office approximately two to three times per week. He indicated that he spoke with Vicari and the respondent asked what their function was since they were under OET for the purposes of the CETA program in which she participated. The witness recounted that respondent stated he had concerns about "Katie" (Ms. Karolis) sleeping, playing cards and games. The witness stated that since the program is not actually part of the school they would have no ability to reprimand for perceived infractions.

The respondent called witnesses providing a different view of events including John C. Holoduck who is employed by the Hudson County Vocational Technical School as an instructor. He testified that a grant provided by the Department of Labor gives a stipend to the school and also provided breakfast and a lunch program. There were also Friday field trips to different locations. He first met Sharon O'Reilly on the first day meeting. According to him Ms. O'Reilly asked him about respondent's marital status and whether or not he was "seeing anybody." The next conversation he recalls was during the first half of the program in which he stated that she referred to any conduct by respondent as "nothing" and referred to it as "only what normally happens between men and women." According to him she did not take the matter further. During the last half of the program he testified that he had told her that if she felt aggrieved by any conduct he would go through the process with her. According to him she stated that she was taking care of the matter.

The witness acknowledged having discussions with respondent regarding Ms. O'Reilly in which he said that he (Vicari) thought that her performance had been less than standard.

The witness recounted what occurred on July 15, 1994 involving tee shirts for students. He states that he was present and walking down the hallway with Loretta Burnett and when he arrived at the area of the guidance office four people exited. These included Mr. Gallagher, Ms. O'Reilly, Judy Didden and respondent. According to the witness they "virtually ran over me." He stated that he stepped out of the way and that Mr. Gallagher had a box on one shoulder. He characterized them as smiling and joking and included Ms. O'Reilly in his characterization. He indicated that he did not hear Ms. O'Reilly say anything nor did he hear her speak about this event at a later time.

The witness testified that Ms. O'Reilly had been assigned to teach mathematics. He stated that a complaint had been made outside the cafeteria regarding Ms. O'Reilly having stopped two African-American students who asked if it was appropriate for a teacher to be "yelling" at them. He stated that respondent was present. He also indicated a second complaint made to him which he conveyed to the respondent. This involved students located in the parking lot in what he referred to as "the heat". He stated that he was confused as to why they were there, however, determined that the lessons included walking out measurements in the parking lot and measuring dimensions of the lot itself.

The witness was also familiar with Michael Ianico whom he states has Down's Syndrome and was a student who worked during the summer program. According to the witness Ianico seemed to "stuff his face." He saw him on a Friday with his mouth stuffed so that his cheeks were puffed out. He states, however, that he never discussed this with the respondent. This witness never observed any interaction between respondent and Michael Ianico other than in the nature of greetings

The witness acknowledged that he has known respondent since January 1989 which was the witness's first year of employment with the district and that the respondent was responsible for evaluating him for approximately three years. During that time period the witness received exceptional reviews from the respondent. During 1993 and 1994 he shared an office with respondent from January through summer school in Jersey City. He acknowledged a personal and professional relationship with respondent and states that he thinks highly of the respondent. The witness also wrote a letter which was marked for identification (P-2) dated May 17, 1995 to respondent's counsel. In that letter none of the conversations to which he testified were recounted. The letter also did not include any complaints regarding Ms. O'Reilly.

The witness also acknowledged that the four individuals, including respondent and Ms. O'Reilly whom he saw exit the office after the attempt to obtain tee shirts were seen only briefly by him. All returned and according to him all were smiling.

The witness also acknowledged that the two complaints he mentioned regarding Ms. O'Reilly had never been seen as troublesome to the extent that he might have to take some form of disciplinary action. He also never saw Ms. O'Reilly discipline students nor raise her voice to any students.

Samuel Casio who is a janitor at the Jersey City facility between 2:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m. testified that he knows Michael Ianico and has known him for at least six years. Mr. Ianico had been a student at the school and then graduated. At that point he became involved in maintenance and was working in that capacity in the summer of 1994. Mr. Casio was able to state that he had an awareness that Mr. Ianico enjoyed eating a lot.

Mr. Casio stated that he has never been present during any discussion between respondent and Mr. Ianico although he had seen respondent and Mr. Ianico "high five" in greeting and hug on occasion. Casio stated that Mr. Ianico at no time complained about respondent and that Mr. Ianico is "a likable kid."

Loborio Matrachia who is the building engineer in Jersey City and chief administrator for the non-instructional aspect of the schools also testified. As of the time of the hearing he had been in this position for two years which included the summer of 1994 during which time he worked between 7:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m.

He too knows Michael Ianico and stated that he was hired as a janitorial apprentice after graduation. As of the time of the hearing Mr. Ianico had been employed for two and one-half years by the school.

The witness testified that he has seen respondent and Mr. Ianico interact in a cordial manner. According to the witness respondent shook "everyone's" hand in the morning and Mr. Ianico was included. He did not observe respondent act inappropriately toward Mr. Ianico and at no time in the summer of 1994 did Mr. Ianico indicate that he had any problems with respondent. Mr. Ianico had come to him with a personal problem in 1993 having nothing to do with respondent and they discussed it.

In the summer of 1994 the witness neither talked to Mr. Ianico nor his family about any problems that were being experienced. This witness has monthly contact with Mr. Ianico's family or, more regularly, if Mr. Ianico should need something particular.

The witness did recall a conversation with respondent during the summer of 1994 regarding hot dogs. The witness testified that respondent came and told him that a tray had been left out in the cafeteria with hot dogs and that Mr. Ianico was eating them. According to the witness Mr. Ianico usually gives the lunch which he brings to work to him and then the witness then returns it to him at lunch time.

The witness did recall respondent coming up to Mr. Ianico and asking him not to eat any more hot dogs. He further stated "if you overeat you could die." According to the witness the tone of conversation was low and the respondent appeared concerned. The witness saw Mr. Ianico later that afternoon and his demeanor was as usual.

Matrachia stated that Mr. Ianico is considered "special" and has a difficult time communicating verbally. His difficulty is more pronounced with strangers and he is not talkative with people he does not know.

Judy K. Didden a bus attendant for the Hudson County Vocational Technical School testified. During the summer of 1994 she was working in the attendance office as a "Girl Friday" which included running errands. She indicated that she had first met Sharon O'Reilly in the summer of 1994 and had known the respondent in passing for approximately four years prior to the hearing.

The witness was able to recall the day involving the tee shirts which were locked in an office. She had tried to locate a key as had others. At some point Ms. O'Reilly volunteered to retrieve the tee shirts. She got on a desk and according to this witness and respondent told her not to do so and that he would get the shirts. She stated that he then helped Ms. O'Reilly off the desk. She could not recall exactly where his hands were while he was helping Ms. O'Reilly off the desk nor did she hear him say anything to Ms. O'Reilly nor she to him. Some time after that a ladder was produced. At that point respondent went over the partition and retrieved the shirts and according to the witness the entire group left the office area laughing.

The witness testified that she never saw respondent do anything inappropriate or put his arms around Ms. O'Reilly. She also stated that prior to leaving the room she observed nothing unusual about Ms. O'Reilly's demeanor.

The witness acknowledged on cross-examination that on that particular day she did leave the office area to collect attendance cards. She also recalls leaving the office and asking the security guard for a key. He was at the security desk which is in another part of the building. She estimates that she was gone for approximately ten minutes. When she was ultimately unable to find the key she returned and told respondent but does not recall where that conversation took place. It was after this that they began looking for a ladder by asking other individuals.

The witness acknowledged that she does not recall what sequence of events she saw first. She stated that Ms. O'Reilly was on a desk rather than on a file cabinet but then acknowledged that she was not sure which it was. She also did not recall if Janet Reynolds was present in the office at the time of the incident. The witness was also unable to recall whether respondent climbed a ladder to get the tee shirts or climbed over onto the desk or used a file cabinet. The witness did confirm that she saw respondent help Ms. O'Reilly to get down and then ultimately recalled that Ms. O'Reilly's hands were on respondent's shoulders and that respondent had both of his hands around her waist.

The witness also acknowledged having telephoned Ms. O'Reilly about being questioned regarding the case and being told "all you can do is answer honestly."

Robert Gallagher who has been a guidance counselor for the past five years was working as a counselor in 1994. He worked five days a week between 8:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. He testified that he has known the respondent for 20 years through school. He had met Ms. O'Reilly in the summer of 1994. It was his office that was used during the summer which contained tee shirts discussed. He testified that he was present during attempts to retrieve the tee shirts and observed the respondent help Ms. O'Reilly down from a desk. He stated that she had her hands on his shoulders and he had his hands on her waist. According to this witness respondent fell back a step or two and asked something like could she "feel the floor." According to him it appeared that she fell a little too close to him and the entire transaction took approximately ten or fifteen seconds. This witness testified that he did not see anything he deemed to be inappropriate. He did confirm that he was unable to see Ms. O'Reilly's face nor judge her demeanor afterwards.

Kevin Myers, Jr. testified that he was employed by the school district as a crisis teacher dealing with discipline problems as well as the Jersey City track coach and a history teacher. He also had a summer job with the Hudson County Vocational Technical School as disciplinarian.

The witness acknowledge that he knows Michael Ianico and had observed respondent and Ianico interact in the summer of 1994. He stated that one afternoon in he summer of 1994 the respondent and he were talking about discipline and guidance when Mr. Ianico came to the office. He recalls respondent telling Mr. Ianico that he should stop eating so much because he could die. This witness stated that he too had concerns about Ianico's eating habits because he would sit and "just eat." He indicated having seen Ianico eat four or five sandwiches on one occasion. The witness stated that during the conversation he was able to see Mr. Ianico's expression which did not change. Ms. O'Reilly was also in the room According to this witness she never said anything to the respondent at that time about the interaction. She did however indicate to the witness that she felt respondent should not speak to Mr. Ianico in that manner.

The witness said that he did not wish to get involved and did not see anything wrong in what had occurred.

On cross-examination the witness acknowledged that Ms. O'Reilly was upset at what had occurred. He characterized it as a different point of view.

Frances Bojar who is also an employee and was working in the summer of 1994 as a reading and writing teacher testified. Bojar met Ms. O'Reilly the first week of the summer program. According to Bojar Ms. O'Reilly asked if the witness knew if the respondent "was available" and that there were others at the table although Bojar does not recall whom.

Ms. Bojar indicated that she was present on one occasion during a conversation between Ms. O'Reilly and the respondent in the cafeteria. She stated that Ms. O'Reilly and the respondent were standing approximately one foot away at which time respondent asked if there was a carpool or if he could get a ride. According to this witness Ms. O'Reilly said there was a "reserved seat on her lap." The witness stated that she though this odd. On cross-examination the witness acknowledged that the statement regarding a reserved seat was not in an affidavit which was marked P-(ID) which she wrote about the events. She acknowledged that this is a significant fact. She also acknowledged that the statement about Mr. Vicari's "availability" was also not in the affidavit. She states that she just "forgot" about these things.

Joseph Panepinto who was the director of grants for the school district and director of the summer program also testified. He stated that prior to the summer of 1994 Ms. O'Reilly visited him and expressed an interest in the program and asked what she might be able to do. His conversations with Ms. O'Reilly took place between April and June 1994 and before the start of the program.

The witness has known the respondent for somewhere 25 and 30 years and states that he has total supervision over running the school. He testified to discussions with respondent regarding O'Reilly's job performance. The first was in the beginning of the program regarding the manner in which the program was being run, the second was the incident regarding cookies which has already been discussed. The third was about giving juice at field trips although he never spoke to Ms. O'Reilly about this.

This witness stated that respondent specifically told him he felt that Ms. O'Reilly had threatened him although he remembered no details during his testimony regarding any conversations regarding threats. He also confirmed going to speak to Ms. O'Reilly at her home about the concerns that had been voiced and testified that he told her that he hoped that the summer program would not be affected by whatever was going on. He also acknowledged that he told her he hoped "all troubles would go away". He explains this by stating that he was referring to the problems that he been brought forth by Ms. O'Reilly as well as his own mother's illness.

The witness testified that he is acquainted with Michael Ianico and the interactions observed between respondent and Ianico were cordial. He also stated that he knows Kate (Ms. Karolis).

This witness acknowledged that he is a close friend of the respondent although he stated that they never socialized. He is upset that respondent is in trouble and would want to "fairly" help respondent. He also acknowledged that he had a concern that the situation might have a negative impact on the summer program and was also concerned about his friend, Mr. Vicari. Beyond this he did acknowledge saying "I wish all troubles would go away." He stated that he had never told Ms. O'Reilly, prior to that statement or after, that the statement had anything to do with his ill mother. According to him it was an expression of personal feelings and not a message for Ms. O'Reilly although stated to her at her home.

He stated that during the summer program he had never been to the home of any other teacher for professional reasons. He denied that the purpose was that he wanted to speak with her and not be seen by others.

This witness reiterated several times that he was proud of the summer program and did not want anything to happen which would jeopardize it.

The respondent, Hugo Vicari also testified in this case. In addition to his credentials which have been indicated as undisputed facts above he discussed the factual scenario which gave rise to the charges in this case. He testified that his responsibility in the summer of 1994 was the day-to-day operation of the program. His daily routine consisted of shaking each student's hand and giving them a statement which he referred to as a morale booster. It was his impression that the students responded to this. He also gave an inspirational speech each morning and the students were seated in an auditorium. This took between six and fifteen minutes. The students then went to breakfast and it was his responsibility to see that this was carried out in an orderly fashion.

Respondent testified that he first met Ms. O'Reilly on the first day of the summer program when students were present. According to him she approached him angry with certain specifics of the program. He also stated that she said that nothing was running right at the school and wanted the name of a person to write to in order to close the program. He then spoke with Ms. O'Reilly during the lunch period.

Respondent testified that he met with Mr. Panepinto near the cafeteria later and told him that he had a teacher "fraught" with anger who wanted to close the program. He states that he never introduced himself as the janitor in a joking manner and spoke to her approximately eight times about her job. One of those was outside the cafeteria when she approached him and asked if he had read a write up on a student. According to him she stood directly in front of him with her right hand clenched and stated "He threatened me like I am threatening you." He mentioned this incident to Mr. Panepinto.

Respondent also brought the question of lavatory duty to the attention of Mr. Panepinto. He testified that he had asked Ms. O'Reilly to help during the second week of school. She indicated to him that she was being picked on and there were others. She walked away from him.

During the third week of the program respondent stated that there was a question of cookies at lunch time and he was in the rear of the cafeteria when he saw four or five tables becoming unruly. He later found out that students from other tables were going to a specific table and taking away their cookies. The respondent said that he told the students that if any student struck another student they would be expelled and thereby defused the situation. Approximately fifteen minutes later he spoke with Ms. O'Reilly in the corridor and told her that as a result of her distribution of cookies an "unruly situation" had been caused. He then testified that there were other events that gave him concern.

Respondent indicated that he spoke with Ms. O'Reilly during the second week in July with only the two present. This took place in the cafeteria during lunch time because several of the students had come to him complaining that she was "yelling" at them. He indicated that he was told she had said she would have them thrown out and they would lose their stipend. He testified that he told her that he would desist with any disciplinary matters and she said nothing.

According to the witness additional complaints came from two students that Ms. O'Reilly had been "berating" them. Although he states that he did not talk to her, he did bring to the attention of Mr. Panepinto the first "yelling incident" and said they should work with her to give her better techniques. He even stated that he would teach a class for her although he never did.

He stated that there was a complaint during the second week of the program from an instructor that Ms. O'Reilly should monitor her conversations around male employees. When this was discussed with her he indicated that her reply was "What's the harm." He states that nothing else was said.

At the end of the third week in July he received a complaint according to his testimony and had a conversation with Ms. O'Reilly. In that incident he had advised her that a teacher reported that she was making physical advances and touching. He informed her that he would have to bring this to the attention of the Superintendent to which she replied, "Your phone number is unlisted." He states that he subsequently found that her conduct was unacceptable and was going to notify the Superintendent. Although he tried to meet with the Superintendent on six to eight occasions he was unable to do so. According to him the Superintendent refused to meet with him. Respondent acknowledged that none of the concerns to which he has testified including this last allegation of physical advances and touching were ever put in writing. When asked why they were never put in writing the respondent answered "I didn't know if it was legal to actually put in writing a sexual advancement. I didn't know what the law was." He also indicated that there were no memos of any concerns and the reason given was that he was advised not to do so by Mr. Panepinto, Mr. Symzak and Mr. Holoduck.

Respondent denies ever suggesting that he and Ms. O'Reilly get together sometime nor having asked her out on a date. He did accuse Ms. O'Reilly of stating that, in the carpool situation, a reserved seat was located on her lap for him. He also denied using the phrase "transient visitor" with respect to Ms. O'Reilly although he did recall using the phrase with the whole school. His testified as follows:

> "I was giving my daily sermon in the morning and I was advising students that we are all transient visitors, but our results will be permanent."

Respondent denied ever discussing keys to any apartment or the doing of wash with Ms. O'Reilly. The only conversations beyond that which had been detailed so far respondent testified was cordial.

With respect to the incident involving the tee shirts respondent stated that he did observe Ms. O'Reilly on top of a desk looking over the partition and that he told her to get down. He states that she put her hand on his shoulder and the other hand on his other shoulder and got off the desk. He also acknowledges having put his hands around her waist and testified that he lost his footing for a few seconds and having asked her if she could feel the floor. She responded yes and he states that he immediately released her. He denies ever having put his arms around her back nor pressing her up against the file cabinet.

Vicari testified that he also knows Michael Ianico who is a pre-apprentice maintenance worker and worked in the summer of 1994. He states that he had concerns regarding Ianico and observed him gorging himself on hot dogs. in the cafeteria. He states that his concerns are because Ianico was "physically challenged" and the witness is afraid that he might choke to death.

Respondent also testified to a conversation in which Mr. Ianico, himself and Ms. O'Reilly were present along with Mr. Myers. At that time he stated that he was concerned with Mr. Ianico's eating habits and the possibility of choking. He testified that the did not recall anything said by Mr. Myers nor by Ms. O'Reilly. The respondent recounted other incidents of observing Mr. Ianico eating in a manner which he described as giving him concern but states that Ms. O'Reilly never spoke to him about the matter. The respondent testified that he spoke to Mr. Ianico's father by telephone about the problem and that the response on the part of the father was appreciative.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having listened to the testimony and observed the demeanor of the witnesses and having taken into account all of the evidence in this case I FIND that this case turns solely and exclusively on the credibility of the witnesses.

I FIND that Sharon O'Reilly's testimony about the manner in which she was spoken to and the harassing conduct was credible. This is reinforced by the fact that not until the time of the hearing and time of these charges were any incidents of poor performance or improper behavior on the part of Ms. O'Reilly documented. The only incident of performance which the administration believed to have been improper was what shall be termed "the cookie incident." This is not an incident which shows extreme bias on the part of O'Reilly toward respondent. Additionally any complaints about food and procedure were never discussed by respondent by his own admission with O'Reilly.

There is no question that Vicari, in his position, had supervisory control of the program of which O'Reilly was working. While he may not have been the individual to write specific evaluations for her he certainly had the ability to make known his feelings about her performance and generate any type of discipline since he was the individual in charge.

It is not credible that respondent did not write up any complaints about any of the incidents he alleges by O'Reilly because others told him not to do so. Respondent portrayed himself on the stand as very much the leader of the school, as giving inspirational speeches to all and being totally in charge. That does not square with the idea that he had to consult with numerous people and accede to their wishes.

The complaints by Ms. O'Reilly against respondent involved a series of incidents starting on the first week of the summer program and regard respondent expressing an interest in dating her while he was her supervisor. It is FOUND AS FACT that Ms. O'Reilly was a credible witness and communicated that she was not interested in doing so. It is also FOUND AS FACT that an inappropriate remark accompanied by a gesture inviting Ms. O'Reilly to measure respondent in his pelvic region also occurred.

Further, it is FOUND AS FACT that the incident described by O'Reilly regarding the file cabinet was inappropriate behavior on the part of respondent. The mere gesture of helping her down from the file cabinet would have entirely appropriate. The helping her down from the file cabinet and holding her in what was characterized as an embrace coupled with a subsequent conversation in which respondent said, "Do you think you can handle an Italian stud like me?" and having been asked if she was excited shows how clearly inappropriate the conduct was.

With respect to Katherine Karolis her testimony is also found to be credible and FOUND TO BE FACT. Ms. Karolis was a seventeen year old student entrusted to the school system. The fact that she was working through a federal CETA program is of no moment to this case. Respondent was the principal of the school in which she was working. The testimony of Ms. Katherine Karolis is hereby accepted as FACT. Respondent comported himself in an inappropriate and unbecoming way in regard to this young lady.

The only remaining question is that of the incident involving statements made to Mr. Ianico. I FIND AS FACT that statements were made by respondent regarding Mr. Ianico and his manner of eating. It has not been shown that those statements were demeaning but there exists evidence in equipoise that the statements were of health concerns toward Mr. Ianico. As a result the allegation that they were humiliating statements toward an employee, to wit , Mr. Ianico, has not been proved in the case.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing findings of fact I CONCLUDE that respondent, Hugo Vicari has engaged in conduct unbecoming a school administrator as charged by the school district. I further CONCLUDE that this case turns solely and exclusively upon the witnesses and their credibility at the time of the hearing. Having concluded that respondent has engaged in the conduct described above which was unbecoming of a school administrator, I further CONCLUDE that this conduct was in the form of sexual harassment toward both a teacher and a seventeen year old student. As a result, I CONCLUDE that dismissal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 is appropriate in this case.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent be dismissed for engaging in conduct unbecoming a professional school administrator and that he therefore be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF HUGO VICARI, HUDSON	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL	:	DECISION
SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUDSON COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. However, while the Board's time period in which to reply to petitioner's exceptions, as established by regulation, was authorized to be extended from June 26, 1996 until June 28, 1996, said reply was not received until July 2, 1996. Accordingly, the Board's reply is not considered herein.

Respondent asserts that the initial decision: fails to comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 52:14B; fails to examine the evidence relating to the motives of the Board's chief witnesses; fails to address credibility issues presented regarding the Board's witnesses; improperly upholds the tenure charge based on the allegations by Sharon O'Reilly; and improperly sustains the tenure charge based on the allegations of Mary Kathryn Karolis. Respondent additionally excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) barring of testimony which was beneficial to respondent and to the ALJ's conclusion that dismissal is the appropriate penalty in this matter. To the extent respondent's exceptions offer arguments which were not included in his post-hearing brief, such arguments are summarized below.

Respondent contends that the initial decision does not conform to the requirements set forth under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and (d) in that, while the initial decision contains a summary of testimony of the witnesses, "there is no real discussion of the evidence contrary to the recommended conclusions or any indication of the basis for rejecting this contrary evidence." (Respondent's Exceptions at pp. 1, 2) Citing State Dept. of Health v. Tegnazian, 194 N.J. Super. 435 (App. Div. 1984) for the proposition that an ALJ's recommendation and the agency's determination must be accompanied by basic findings of fact sufficient to support them (State Dept. at 442, 443), respondent argues that the initial decision, with insufficient discussion, essentially rejects the evidence adduced by his witnesses "merely by stating that it involves a credibility decision." (Id. at p. 3)

Respondent also asserts that the initial decision does not properly examine the hostile motives of the Board's chief witnesses. (Id.) Respondent continues,

> Many of the issues raised regarding the behavior of O'Reilly and Karolis are corroborated by other witnesses. Yet the initial decision does not take these matters into account when determining to accept the credibility of these witnesses. In short, Vicari has established that the witnesses against him had reasons to invent charges against him. After all, in the present age, allegations of sexual harassment against a male superior are a method for destroying a career. The prospect that the allegations were created to thwart disciplinary action because of poor performance should have been addressed in the initial decision. (Id. at p. 4)

Respondent sets forth a series of incidents which he maintains "call into question" the credibility of the Board's witnesses. (Id. at p. 5) He argues that the ALJ's conclusion should be rejected as "it is contrary to the weight of the evidence presented, is based on incorrect credibility determinations and fails to take into account the full picture in terms of the behavior of O'Reilly," or the numerous errors in Karolis' testimony. (Id. at pp. 7, 13)

Respondent reasons that, since all credibility determinations in the initial decision favor the Board, "a conclusion should be reached that the trial court improperly barred evidence regarding the behavior of O'Reilly." (Id. at p. 16) Here, respondent claims that he > spoke to O'Reilly about a complaint he received regarding physical advances made by O'Reilly toward a male staff member. However, the subject of these advances, who initiated the complaint to [him], was barred from testifying as to the specifics of O'Reilly's behavior. (Id. at pp. 16, 17)

Thus, respondent contends this matter should be remanded for purposes of admitting such evidence.

In the alternative, respondent argues that, even assuming the Board has established a basis for its charge, dismissal is not warranted and is, under the totality of circumstances, an inappropriate sanction. (Id. at p. 17) Respondent maintains that the initial decision contains no rationale for the imposition of the "ultimate sanction of termination ." (Id. at 18) Referring to his employment with the Board and to the variety of administrative positions he has enjoyed, respondent concludes that "[t]here is nothing in the initial decision to suggest that [his] spotless employment record and lengthy service were, in any way, considered when the recommended penalty was determined." (Id. at pp. 18, 19) Thus, respondent argues that the initial decision of the ALJ should be rejected and the within charges should be dismissed.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included the transcripts from the hearing at the OAL[1], the Commissioner finds no basis either in the transcripts or in the record as a whole to challenge the ALJ's credibility determinations and resultant conclusions and, therefore, concurs that the Board has established by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent has engaged in conduct unbecoming a school administrator.

[1] Hearing dates were June 27, 1995, June 28, 1995, June 30, 1995, September 6, 1995 and September 8, 1995.

(Initial Decision at p. 27) Moreover, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ's findings of fact, as set forth on pages 25 and 26 of the initial decision, are amply supported by the testimony, both as it appears in full in the transcripts and as it is thoroughly and accurately summarized in the initial decision, and that such findings support the ALJ's ultimate conclusion. Quite contrary to the circumstances present in the matter of State Dept. of Health v. Tegnazian, supra, where the ALJ's decision recommending dismissal of all but a single charge against a nursing home administrator was found to be "highly conclusory" in its form, and amounting "to judgments rather than statements of fact," State Dept. at 446, the Commissioner determines that the initial decision herein provides "the interested parties and any reviewing tribunal of the basis on which the final decision was reached so that it may be readily determined whether the result is sufficiently and soundly grounded or derives from arbitrary, capricious or extra-legal considerations." State Dept. at 443, citing Application of Howard Savings Institution of Newark, 32 N.J. 29, 52 (1960).

As to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner has considered respondent's apparently unblemished record and extended employment with the Board, but nonetheless determines that the incidents proven to have occurred, while seemingly few in number, are "sufficiently flagrant" to warrant dismissal. Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943); aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944) The Commissioner further finds that respondent's actions in this matter evidence a lack of self-restraint and controlled behavior which are compelled by his position as a professional employee in a public school system holding great influence over the lives of children. See In re Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. This is particularly so in that respondent, as a principal, has a higher responsibility as a building leader.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL, directing that respondent be dismissed from his tenured position as a school principal as the appropriate penalty in this matter, is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.[2] This matter shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for review in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

ACTING COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[2] It is herein noted that while the initial decision recounts the testimony of "Kevin Myers, Jr." the witness's actual name is "Eben Myers." (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 1) Additionally, the Commissioner notes that the initial decision erroneously identifies Gregory T. Syrek, Esq. as the attorney for petitioner, rather than respondent, and Alexander W. Booth, Jr., Esq. as the attorney for respondent, rather than for the petitioning Board. Thus, the initial decision is affirmed with appropriate modification.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF HUGO VICARI, HUDSON : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL : DECISION
SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUDSON COUNTY. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, July 22, 1996

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Bucceri & Pincus (Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Brownstein, Booth & Barry (Alexander W. Booth, Jr., Esq., of Counsel)

On October 20, 1994, the Board of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School (hereinafter "Board") certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against Hugo Vicari (hereinafter "respondent"), a tenured teaching staff member, alleging that respondent had sexually harassed a teacher in the district's summer program and a 17-year-old student-employee while he was serving as principal of the district's summer school program in 1994. The Board also charged that respondent had inappropriately reprimanded a maintenance employee.

On June 3, 1996, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") found that the Board had proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent had sexually harassed the teacher and the student-employee. Stressing that the case turned on the credibility of the witnesses, the ALJ found the testimony of both the teacher, Sharon

O'Reilly, and the student-employee, Mary Katherine Karolis, to be credible. The ALJ, however, concluded that the Board had not demonstrated that respondent had inappropriately reprimanded the maintenance worker, finding that the statements made by respondent had not been demeaning, but, rather, were in the nature of health concerns directed towards that employee. The ALJ concluded that respondent's conduct in sexually harassing the two women was sufficiently flagrant to warrant his dismissal from his tenured employment.

On July 22, 1996, the Commissioner adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. The Commissioner agreed that dismissal of respondent from his tenured position was the appropriate penalty under the circumstances.

Respondent filed the instant appeal to the State Board, claiming that the Board had not met its burden of proving the sexual harassment charges.[1]

After an exhaustive review of the record, including the transcripts of the hearing held in the Office of Administrative Law, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner on the points of appeal before us. Based on our review of the evidence, we conclude that the Board has not met its burden of demonstrating the truthfulness of the tenure charges alleging sexual harassment by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

The pivotal episode alleged by O'Reilly–and the only incident for which there are eyewitness accounts–occurred on July 15, 1994, prior to a field trip. According to O'Reilly, she had climbed onto a file cabinet in order to hoist herself over a wall partition to obtain access to a locked office in which tee shirts for the trip were stored.[2] Respondent informed O'Reilly that someone was getting a ladder, and he proceeded to help her down from the file cabinet. According to O'Reilly, "...I kind of bent down like in a squat position and Mr. Vicari grabbed my right hand, but instead of grabbing it with his right hand, he grabbed it with his left. So then when I went to hoist myself off the file cabinets, I kind of had to lean into him. He took a step forward and it took not even a second for me to touch the ground. And I put my toes out to touch and he pressed up against me. And he put his head right by my neck so I could kind of feel him breathing." Tr. 6/27/95, at 25-26.

[1] Since the Board has not filed a cross-appeal from that portion of the Commissioner's decision dismissing the tenure charge alleging that respondent had inappropriately reprimanded a maintenance worker, the appeal before us is limited to the Commissioner's determination that the Board had proven the sexual harassment charges.

O'Reilly testified that respondent pressed her against the file cabinet and put his hands around her back in an "embrace." She could not estimate the amount of time in which she was held in this position, except to indicate that she was surprised and that "it seemed like a very long time." Id. at 27. She indicated that she put her hands in between them in order to free herself.

According to O'Reilly, respondent then asked her to walk back to the cafeteria with him but that she had refused, thinking that "there was no way I wanted to walk back with him." Id. at 28. She related that respondent left the room without her and that Janet Reynolds, an attendance aide in the district who had witnessed the incident, then told O'Reilly that she "shouldn't let [respondent] do that to you." Id. at 29.

Reynolds, who was called as a witness by the Board, testified that after O'Reilly had jumped down from the file cabinet, she and respondent "didn't separate like, they were close together and [respondent] was talking to her." Id. at 94. She heard respondent say something to O'Reilly with the word "feel" in it. She testified that respondent and O'Reilly remained together with respondent's hands on O'Reilly's waist and O'Reilly's hands on respondent's shoulders. Reynolds indicated that the incident lasted "[a] little more than a minute," id. at 99, and that it made her feel uncomfortable. She stated that respondent and O'Reilly separated after a maintenance worker came in with a ladder. Although O'Reilly testified that Reynolds had told her immediately after the incident that she "shouldn't let [respondent] do that to you," id. at 29, Reynolds gave no indication of such a conversation. Instead, Reynolds indicated that she was not aware of what O'Reilly had done after the incident, stating only that O'Reilly had left with respondent and the others. Id. at 112.

Robert Gallagher, a counselor in the district's summer program, testified that respondent "was helping [O'Reilly] down from the desk and his hands were around [her] waist and she was holding him by the shoulders as she came down from the desk. And she was on the floor and he like fell backwards a little bit when I saw him, he like went back a step or two and he just says, are you okay? Are you okay or can you feel the floor? Something to that effect, when he was--when she was on the floor." Tr. 6/28/95, at 136. Gallagher indicated that O'Reilly's hands were on respondent's shoulders and "[i]t looked like she was just placed on the floor when he went back a little bit and he like--he was like releasing her when he kind of, you know, had his hands on her waist and he fell back. So she fell, you know, a little close to him, I guess, when he was trying to set her on the floor." Id. at 137. Gallagher stated that he had not seen respondent do anything inappropriate.

Judy Didden, who worked in the attendance office, also testified that she had not seen respondent do anything inappropriate.

John Holoduek, a teacher in the summer program, testified that respondent, O'Reilly, Gallagher and Didden had passed him in the hallway immediately after retrieving the tee shirts and that they all were smiling and joking. Holoduek stated that O'Reilly was "[s]miling. Acting like the rest." Id. at 24. He also indicated that O'Reilly had asked him during the first week of the summer program about respondent's "marital status, whether or not he was dating or seeing anyone." Id. at 12.

Frances Bojar, a teacher, testified that O'Reilly had asked her during the first week of the summer program whether respondent was "available." Id. at 176. She also indicated that she had overheard a conversation between respondent and O'Reilly in which respondent had asked O'Reilly "if there was a carpool or if he could have a ride to school" and that O'Reilly had responded that "there was a reserved seat on her lap." Id. at 179. Bojar acknowledged that those alleged incidents were not included in a sworn statement she had given to respondent's attorney in September 1994.

Respondent testified on his own behalf and denied any inappropriate behavior. According to respondent, O'Reilly "put her hand on my shoulder--one hand on my shoulder and she put the other hand on my other shoulder, she got off the desk. I put my hands around her waste [sic]. I lost my footing for a few seconds. I asked her if she could feel the floor. She said yes. And I immediately released her." Tr. 6/30/95, at 168. Respondent denied putting his hands around her back or pressing up against her. He acknowledged that they were "face to face, because when I stumbled, I turned my body and then I made sure she was firmly aground and then I released her." Id. at 169.

Although O'Reilly initially denied having asked anyone at the school about respondent's marital status, tr. 6/27/95, at 67, she was recalled as a witness by the Board towards the end of the hearing and acknowledged that she had asked Holoduek and also possibly Bojar "[b]ecause I figured if I knew then the next time [respondent] come [sic] onto me I could say, listen, I know you're married. And maybe he would stop coming onto me." Tr. 9/8/95, at 157-58.

While we recognize that there is evidence in the record which is inconsistent with the version of the tee shirt incident offered by respondent–notably Ms. Reynolds' testimony regarding the duration of that incident–it is the Board which has the burden of demonstrating the truthfulness of the tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence, see In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982), and we are unable to conclude on the basis of the record before us that the Board has met that burden. There is significant credible evidence in the record which contradicts and in other ways fails to corroborate the version of events related by O'Reilly. Although, for example, O'Reilly testified that she had refused respondent's offer to walk back to the cafeteria with him, Reynolds indicated that O'Reilly had left with respondent, and Holoduek testified that respondent and O'Reilly had passed him in the hallway immediately after retrieving the tee shirts and that they were smiling and joking.

Moreover, although Reynolds testified that respondent and O'Reilly had failed to separate after respondent had helped her down from the filing cabinet, her testimony did not verify that such situation had resulted from improper conduct by respondent, particularly in view of respondent's assertion, which was supported by Gallagher, that he had stumbled. Nor, as previously noted, did Reynolds corroborate O'Reilly's testimony that Reynolds had told her immediately after that incident that she "shouldn't let [respondent] do that to you." We note, in addition, that O'Reilly did not report any of the alleged incidents to district authorities at the time of the incidents.

While we are aware of our obligation to accord due consideration to the fact that the Administrative Law Judge had the opportunity to observe these witnesses, see Quinlan v. Board of Education of North Bergen Township 73 N.J. Super. 42, 50-54 (App. Div. 1962), we are not bound by the ALJ's assessments of the substance of the testimony or her evaluation of the factors bearing upon credibility. E.g., In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Barry Deetz, decided by the State Board of Education, November 7, 1984, aff'd, Docket #A-1264-84T5 (App. Div. 1985), certif. denied, 101 N.J. 321 (1986). Moreover, we recognize our responsibility as the ultimate administrative decision-maker in this case to determine the validity of the charges, and we reiterate that the Board had the burden of demonstrating their truthfulness. On the basis of the record before us, we are unable to conclude that it has done so.

O'Reilly further alleged in a sworn statement included in support of the Board's tenure charges that respondent "right from the beginning of school...made advances to me and asked if I would go out with him." She alleged, in addition, that respondent had made a bodily motion to her "implying that I should measure his genital area." She also averred in her statement that after the alleged tee shirt incident, respondent had approached her and "asked 'Were you excited before.' I ignored him. A short while later he approached me again and said 'I have to know if you were excited before.' I answered 'No, I wasn't.' He said 'then you have to give me another chance, I know I could get you excited.'" At hearing, respondent denied those allegations, and there is no independent evidence to corroborate these particular instances of alleged misconduct. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of David C. Borrelli, decided by the State Board of Education, June 1, 1994, aff'd, Docket #A-5627-93T3 (App. Div. 1995). Given our concerns regarding O'Reilly's version of the tee shirt incident, we are also unable to conclude that the Board has demonstrated the truthfulness of these particular charges.

In addition, we find that the Board has failed to demonstrate the truthfulness of the incidents alleged by Ms. Karolis. Karolis testified that she had initially met respondent at school on the first day of the summer program during a meeting for counselors and teachers. She stated that when respondent introduced himself to her, he touched her hand, and possibly her hair, told her she was attractive and then introduced her to the counselors. Karolis further testified that respondent would see her in the hallway and say, "you have to stop calling at night. I know you want me, but you have to stop calling me." Tr. 6/27/95, at 120. According to Ms. Karolis, these statements were made in front of other individuals, although none were produced during the hearing. She also testified that respondent told her, "...you're 17 one more year and your--you have no chance, you're mine, or whatever." Id. In addition, Karolis testified with respect to an alleged incident in which she was walking down the hallway with a counselor when respondent came up, took her arm and said to the counselor: "[C]an I borrow her for an hour and take her in the room and then I'll give her back." Id. at 125. She indicated that this made her feel uncomfortable.

We are unable to conclude on the basis of the record before us that the Board has proven the charge of unbecoming conduct with regard to Karolis. The Board did not produce any witnesses to corroborate Karolis' allegations, despite the fact that several of the alleged statements were made in front of others. See Borrelli, supra. Moreover, in the absence of proofs providing the context for respondent's alleged comments, we are unable to conclude that the Board has demonstrated that respondent intended to sexually harass Karolis.

Accordingly, we find that the Board has failed to satisfy its burden of proving the sexual harassment charges against respondent by a preponderance of the credible evidence. We therefore reverse the decision of the Commissioner on the points of appeal before us[3] and direct the Board to reinstate respondent to his tenured position with back pay and other emoluments, less mitigation.[4]

Attorney exceptions are noted.

Sam Podietz did not participate in deliberations in this matter.

Petitioner, part-time Teacher of Library Skills, alleged the Board improperly terminated her from her employment violating her tenure rights. Board contended petitioner was terminated for failure to obtain the required certification of Educational Media Specialist or Associate Educational Media Specialist despite notification by the Board. She subsequently acquired an emergency certificate in September 1995 and was rehired. Petitioner claimed she was entitled to a full-time teaching position under her Instructional Certificate with an Elementary Endorsement.

ALJ found the Board had no choice but to attempt to hire an individual holding the appropriate certificate for the library position. Although petitioner claimed the position consisted mainly of instructional duties, ALJ found the positions of teacher and media specialist are substantially distinct. (Wallen) Thus, petitioner was not entitled to a teaching position and petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with the findings and determination in initial decision that petitioner was not entitled to a teaching position. Commissioner concurred that summary judgment was appropriate and ordered petition dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HAMPTON, HUNTERDON COUNTY,

Respondent.

Robert J. Merryman, Esq., for respondent (Carroll & Weiss, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 17, 1996 Decided: June 3, 1996

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Sandra Bjerre, petitioner, alleges and the Hampton Board of Education, respondent, denies that the petitioner has achieved a tenure status and has been improperly terminated.

The matter was joined before the Commissioner of the Department of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. Following several conferences, the parties now stipulate all necessary facts and the Board moves for summary judgment. Moving and responsive papers were timely filed, the last being received on April 17, 1996.

The Board argues that the petitioner was hired in February 1991 as Teacher of Library Skills. This was a four-tenths-time position. Upon hire, the petitioner was advised, in writing, by the Superintendent that she was expected to pursue course work toward the required certificate for the position. Board's Exhibit A. When hired and at all pertinent times, the petitioner held an Instructional Certificate with an Elementary Endorsement.

The petitioner served as Teacher of Library Skills for the remainder of the 1990-91 school year and was renewed in the position for the 1991-92, 1992-93 and 1993-94 school years. For each of those years, the position remained a four-tenths-time position. At the time the petitioner was renewed for the 1994-95 school year, the position was changed to a five-tenths-time position.

Annual performance evaluations and professional improvement plans for 1991 and 1992 refer to the need for the petitioner to take the necessary course work to obtain the necessary certificate for the Teacher of Library Skills position. Board Exhibits B, C, D and E. It appears the petitioner did not take the courses and did not obtain the required certificate and/or endorsement. In September 1995, she acquired an emergency certificate.

The Hampton School District was monitored by the New Jersey Department of Education in early 1995. N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.1. School officials met with officials of the Hunterdon County Superintendent of Schools to review the process. The superintendent was informed that the Board was in violation of certain regulations because the individual providing library skills and services was not properly certified. The superintendent requested confirmation of this in writing which was supplied by letter dated June 30, 1995 from the County Superintendent. The letter states that, in order to provide library skills and services to pupils, the district must employ an individual with either an Educational Media Specialist or Associate Educational Media Specialist certificate. Board's Exhibit F.

The superintendent consulted officials from the County office about the status of the petitioner's employment. He was advised that the petitioner could continue in her position under an Emergency Associate Educational Media Specialist Certificate, only if the district advertised for the position and was unable to find a suitable candidate with a permanent credential.

Acting upon this information, the Board voted on July 11, 1995 to terminate the petitioner's contract on 60 days' notice The position of Library Skills Teacher was advertised in local newspapers. After no suitable certified candidate was found, the petitioner was offered the position on the condition that she obtain the required emergency certificate. The petitioner did so and returned to the same position for the 1995-96 school year at the same salary that she would have earned if she had not been terminated. The petitioner currently serves in this position.

The petitioner never held the required certificate for the position until she obtained an emergency certificate in September 1995. The petitioner does not claim a tenure right to the position she held for four and one-half years. Instead, she claims a tenure right to teaching positions in which she never served and which require a certificate different from the certificate required for the Teacher of Library Skills position.

As Teacher of Library Skills, the petitioner handled many instructional duties. She would have provided instruction to pupils in the library. This instruction was addressed directly to library skills. However, while instructional duties were part of her position, the petitioner also had other required duties involving the operation of the library. No formal job description exists covering these duties; however, the superintendent has prepared a summary of those duties. Board Exhibit I. The position requires much more than instructional duties. Among other things, the petitioner is responsible for operation of the library including the reviewing and selection of new materials, preparation of the library budget, supervising the media computer system, assisting teachers in the selection of books and other materials, and maintaining a cataloging system for the media center.

Summary decision is appropriate in this matter because there are no facts in dispute and the matter can be decided as a purely legal question. The petitioner was properly terminated for her failure to hold the required certificate for the position of Teacher of Library Skills. Petitioner has no tenure right to a teaching position because she never served as a full-time teacher.

Therefore, the Board's motion for summary decision should be granted and the motion should be dismissed.

The petitioner argues that the Board has impermissibly terminated her employment as a tenured teacher while at the same time retaining non-tenured teachers in violation of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 through -33. The petitioner has been employed by the Board since February 1991, as a teacher of library skills. She was required to hold and does hold an Instructional Certificate with Elementary Endorsement. As a result of her certification and employment, the petitioner acquired tenure with the Board under her Instructional Certificate which extended to the full scope of her Elementary Endorsement.

On July 11, 1995, the Board resolved to terminate the petitioner's employment. At that time, the Board retained teachers serving under Elementary Endorsements who were not tenured. The Board's stated reason for termination was that the petitioner did not hold the required certificate for the position of Teacher of Library Skills. Instead of reassigning her to another teaching position, and crediting her certification endorsement and the fact that her duties were primarily instructive in nature, the Board summarily terminated her employment. She presently serves in her former capacity as Teacher of Library Skills under an emergency certificate.

The petitioner began employment as a part-time teacher. Her employment contract, dated February 1, 1991, states she was employed as a Library Skills Teacher and that she holds an appropriate teaching certificate. Petitioner's Exhibit B. The petitioner holds an Instructional Certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners with an endorsement as an Elementary Teacher for grades K-8.

The petitioner's subsequent employment contracts each provided that she was employed to teach in the public schools. Petitioner's Exhibit C. Her contract was renewed each year up to and including the 1994-95 school year. In 1994-95, the position was increased to a five-tenths-time position.

By letter dated April 18, 1995, the Superintendent informed the petitioner she had achieved tenure and that on April 11, 1995, the Board acknowledged her tenure status. Petitioner's Exhibit D.

The district's teacher seniority list characterizes the petitioner as an elementary teacher. Petitioner's Exhibit E. Despite her tenure status, her certification and endorsement, on or about July 11, 1995, the Board resolved to terminate her employment. The Board gives as its reason that the petitioner was required, as a Teacher of Library Skills, to possess one of two particular media specialist certifications. The petitioner possessed neither. Therefore, according to the Board, she could not be retained. Petitioner asserts that there is no indication as to what, if any, documentation the Board provided to the County Superintendent with respect to the duties she actually performed as a teacher of library skills. It is not clear whether the Board indicated to the county office that the board had long considered the petitioner a teacher.

Aside from the Board's consistent categorizations and characterizations, an examination of the petitioner's duties reveals that she was engaged largely in the instruction and training of pupils. She asserts that much of the actual "library responsibilities" such as ordering materials and administering the budget were completed on her own time. In other respects, her day was similar to if not identical with that of other elementary teachers.

In addition, the petitioner was required to attend teacher meetings, workshops and training sessions, she was required to attend Back to School Night and was assigned a time for parent conferences. In 1993, along with other Hampton teachers, she attend a Whole Language Conference in Vermont. In the 1992-93 school year she instructed sixth, seventh, and eighth graders in mathematics and basic reading skills for five hours per week and she assisted in the preparation of the upper grades for the Iowa Tests with respect to the study skills and maps skills sections.

Finally, the petitioner denies that she was ever told by the Superintendent of any one else that she was required to obtain library certification. The Superintendent never indicated prior to May 1995 that a library certification was a required condition for continued employment.

This tribunal should deny the Board's motion because there are many disputed factual issues of a material and substantial nature. Therefore, summary decision is inappropriate. Because the petitioner's duties were instructive in nature, she was entitled to tenure as a teacher. Importantly, the Board never advised the petitioner that a library certification was a required condition of employment. Accordingly, this tribunal should reject the Board's arguments, to the extent that they are equitable arguments, and deny summary decision. At least, the failure to obtain the supposedly required certification is a debatable question that is more appropriately considered within the context of a plenary hearing.

The Board's reliance on the County Superintendent's findings is misplaced, because there is no evidence that the County Superintendent reviewed the factual circumstances surrounding the petitioner's position. Accordingly, summary decision should be denied and the matter should proceed to plenary hearing.

DETERMINATION

The Board's Exhibit I, a letter from the Superintendent to the petitioner dated February 3, 1991, states, among other things:

> I will be presenting your name to the Board of Education at our February 12th meeting for appointment to a 40% position as Library Skills teacher effective February 1, 1991 through June 30, 1991. . . .It is understood that you will pursue course work toward possibly an Associate Education Media Specialist, (School Librarian).

Thus, it is clear that the petitioner had notice of the requirement to work toward a Media Specialist certificate from the State Board of Examiners and no teaching staff member may acquire tenure in any position unless she or he is the holder of an appropriate certificate, N.J.S.A. 15A:28-4 and unless she or he is or becomes a citizen of the United States, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-3. Any teaching staff member who does not hold an appropriate certificate can be dismissed without charges or a hearing. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-14. Part-time teachers may acquire tenure if they otherwise meet statutory criteria for tenure acquisition. Certificated teaching staff members often are referred to by the all inclusive term "teachers". Simple reference to a person as a teacher is dispositive of nothing.

The petitioner was hired while she held an Elementary Endorsement. She knew she had to work towards the Media Specialist credential. She did not. She achieved tenure in the district in a part-time capacity upon serving three years and one day in position within a period of four calendar years. A calendar year is 12 months and need not commence on January 1.

The New Jersey Department of Education, through its Hunterdon County Office, monitored the district in early 1995. As part of a meeting to go over the results of the monitoring, the superintendent was informed that the individual providing library skills and services must hold a Media Specialist or Associate Media Specialist credential. By this time, the petitioner had had four years in which to work toward acquisition of that credential. It appears, however, that she had done nothing in that regard.

Inasmuch as the Department of Education is not a named party herein, I must presume that the petitioner challenges only the action of the Hampton Board of Education.

The Board did not merely rely upon the findings presented by State monitors, it properly believed itself bound by them. The Department of Education stated that the petitioner's position required the individual to hold a certificate as an Educational Media Specialist or Associate Educational Media Specialist. This was confirmed to the superintendent by the County Superintendent by letter dated July 30, 1995. Board's Exhibit F. When the Board terminated the petitioner, she did not hold the required certificate for the position, she had not made good faith efforts to acquire the certification for the position and she could not remain in the position. In Timko v. Bridgewater-Raritan Reg'l School Dist., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 483, decision on remand 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 484, aff'd St. Bd. of Ed. 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 12, the State Board of Education clearly said, "It is the county superintendent's determination that establishes the certification required for such assignments, rather than the district board." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-2 provides:

> Any contract or engagement of any teaching staff member, shall cease and determine whenever the employing board of education shall ascertain by written notice received from the county or city superintendent of schools, or in any other manner, that such person is not, or has ceased to be, the holder of an appropriate certificate required by this title for such employment, not withstanding that the term of such employment shall not then have expired.

When the County Superintendent sent notice that the petitioner was not properly certified for her position, her employment relationship ceased as a matter of law. Even if the Board had taken no official action, her contract with the Board was void. "A contract for the employment of a teacher who is not properly certified as required by statute is void." Delgado v. Union City Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 744.

The Board had no choice but to attempt to hire an individual holding the appropriate credential once it was advised that the position that the petitioner held must be filled by an individual with either an Educational Media Specialist or Associate Educational Media Specialist certificate. That the petitioner has acquired an emergency certificate and has been rehired to the position is not relevant to the determination of this matter. What remains to be addressed is whether she could have exercised a tenure right to a full-time teaching position. This question seems to have been put to rest by the Commissioner and the State Board in Wallen v. Rancocas Valley Reg'l High School Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 670, aff'd St. Bd. of Ed. 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 303. Wallen earned tenure as a librarian and media specialist. Her position was eliminated as a result of a reduction in force. Wallen then claimed a tenure right to an English teacher position held by a nontenured person. Wallen held both an instructional certificate with an English endorsement and an educational services certificate with a media specialist endorsement. Wallen claimed that, for tenure purposes, she was a teacher who taught in the library. The Commissioner rejected the argument and found that the only position in which Wallen had been employed was that of librarian and media specialist. The Commissioner held that she earned tenure only under her educational services certificate as media specialist. This was not affected in any way by the petitioner's contention that she was really a teacher for tenure purposes by virtue of her duties and the fact that the media specialist endorsement requires an instructional certificate. The Commissioner concluded that "[w]hile it is certainly true that both petitioner's position and her training included a significant instructional component, it is equally true that the positions of "teacher" and "media specialist" are substantially distinct." 92 N.J.A.R. at 674. The State Board affirmed.

So it is here. Wallen controls on the issue.

For the foregoing reasons I FIND and CONCLUDE that no essential facts are in dispute in this matter and that the legal issue must be decided in favor of the Board. Therefore, it is ORDERED that the present petition be and is here by DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SANDRA BJERRE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HAMPTON, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions incorporate arguments advanced before the ALJ, contending, inter alia, that petitioner is entitled to a teaching position within respondent's District as she has acquired tenure by virtue of her service as a teacher of library skills. (Petitioner's Exceptions at pp. 1-2) Petitioner excepts that the ALJ failed "to take into account the long held and now axiomatic principle that tenure may accrue in two categories simultaneously" and "since [petitioner's] duties were predominantly instructive (i.e. teaching), she simultaneously accrued tenure as a teacher while she performed her duties as teacher of library skills." (Id. at p. 2) Petitioner further avers that the ALJ failed to consider the nature of petitioner's duties but instead relied on facts "created by the Board of Education specifically for this litigation." (Id. at p. 3) While petitioner concedes that library duties are part of her position, she argues that her duties were "primarily" instructive in nature. (Id.) Petitioner avers the ALJ further erred in accepting the summary of duties as prepared by the Board in that she strongly disagrees with its content. (Id.) Petitioner also avers that "at no time did the Board specifically mandate that [petitioner] obtain the [associate media specialist] certificate." (Id.)

In sum, petitioner excepts to the ALJ's awarding of summary judgment averring that there remain issues of material fact to be determined and that the ALJ wrongly concluded that summary judgment was appropriate. (Id. at p. 4)

In reply, the Board argues that Wallen, supra makes it clear that even though a position requiring an educational media specialist endorsement or an assistant educational media specialist endorsement includes teaching duties, this fact will not make the position that of a teacher for tenure purposes. (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 1) Thus, an individual who holds such a position will have no right to a teaching position; nor will the fact that petitioner performed instructional duties make her a tenured elementary teacher. (Id.)

The Board further contends that the fact that petitioner may have handled instructional duties is not determinative of the tenure rights she acquired and that the position in Wallen, just as the position in the instant matter, included a significant instructional component. (at 674) The Board further avers that all media specialists are required to possess an instructional certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.18. Thus, following petitioner's logic, any individual who holds an assistant media specialist endorsement would automatically have a tenure right to a teaching position. The Board avers that this very argument was considered and rejected by the Commissioner and the State Board of Education in Wallen. (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 2)

Lastly, the Board rebuffed petitioner's argument that a question of whether petitioner was required to obtain a certificate remains an issue. The Board avers that whether petitioner was advised by the Board to obtain such endorsement (and maintains that she was so advised), she was required to obtain the necessary certificate for her position as a matter of law. See, e.g., Sydnor v. Board of Education of the City of Englewood, Bergen County, 1976 S.L.D. 113, 117. (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 2)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that petitioner is not entitled to a teaching position for the reasons expressed therein. The ALJ considered the claims presented in petitioner's briefs, including petitioner's assertions that she was primarily a teacher. (Initial Decision at p. 5) The ALJ next analyzed these claims against the applicable statutes and determined regardless of whether petitioner performed instructional duties, petitioner did not possess the requisite certification for her position and that without such certification, petitioner could not accrue tenure. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4 and N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-14

The Commissioner is further satisfied that the ALJ based such determination on applicable case law. The State Board decision in Wallen, supra, squarely addresses the issues presented in this case and stands for the proposition that the positions of teacher and media specialist are substantially distinct. 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 301. Thus, whether petitioner held an instructional certificate and performed instructional duties is not determinative of the petitioner's tenure rights where the county superintendent has duly determined that the position in question requires the educational services certificate.*

Lastly, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board's failure to "specifically mandate" that petitioner obtain appropriate certification as a media specialist does not justify an alternate finding. This argument was specifically rejected in McAneny v. Board of Education of the School District of the Chathams, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 208, aff'd State Board of Education 212 in that > the regulations requiring appropriate certification were in effect throughout the entire period of Appellant's employment by the Chatham Township Board of Education as was the regulation which clearly and unambiguously specifies the scope of authorization to teach under the home economics endorsement. In the face of these regulations, any reliance Appellant placed on the Board's ignorance can not be regarded as reasonable. (at 213)

In the present case, the regulations concerning media specialists and associate educational media specialists, set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.17, -11.8 and -11.19, were also in place when the present petitioner began her employment with the Board and these remain specific in their scope. Thus, the Commissioner is unpersuaded by petitioner's argument that the Board failed to provide her with notice that certification was necessary, as such notice, which, even assuming arguendo and contrary to the ALJ's findings, petitioner had not received, would not be determinative in the present matter.

* As correctly noted by the ALJ, petitioner may not herein challenge the County Superintendent's determination itself without having named him as a respondent.

Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs that Summary Judgment was appropriate in the instant matter and hereby orders that the within Petition of Appeal be dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

For the Respondent-Respondent, Parker, McCay & Criscuolo (John E. Collins, Esq., of Counsel)

Sandra Bjerre (hereinafter "petitioner") had been employed part-time since February 1991 by the Board of Education of the Borough of Hampton (hereinafter "Board") as a "Library Skills Teacher" under her instructional certification in elementary education. However, following monitoring by the Department of Education, the Board was notified by letter dated June 30, 1995 from the Hunterdon County Superintendent of Schools that, in order to offer library studies/services to students, it was required to employ an individual who possessed certification as either an educational media specialist or an associate educational media specialist. On July 11, 1995, the Board voted to terminate the petitioner's employment since she did not hold the appropriate certification for the position as determined by the County Superintendent.

The petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that she had achieved tenure as a teacher as a result of her employment in the district and that the Board had violated her tenure rights when it terminated her employment and failed to assign her to a full-time position within the scope of her teaching certificate.

The Board filed a motion for summary decision with the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"), contending that the petitioner's employment had properly been terminated and that she had no tenure rights to a teaching position.

On June 3, 1996, the ALJ, finding that there were no material facts in dispute, recommended granting the Board's motion and dismissing the petition. The ALJ found that the petitioner had been put on notice by the Board in 1991 that it was necessary for her to work towards acquiring an educational media specialist endorsement and that she had failed to do so. He asserted that "[w]hen the Board terminated the petitioner, she did not hold the required certificate for the position, she had not made good faith efforts to acquire the certification for the position and she could not remain in the position." Initial Decision, slip op. at 7. The ALJ stressed: "When the County Superintendent sent notice that the petitioner was not properly certified for her position, her employment relationship ceased as a matter of law. Even if the Board had taken no official action, her contract with the Board was void." Id. at 8.

In reliance upon Wallen v. Rancocas Valley Reg'l High School Board of Education, decided by the Commissioner of Education, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 670, aff'd, State Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 303, the ALJ further determined that the petitioner had no entitlement by virtue of tenure to reinstatement in a teaching position, observing that "the positions of 'teacher' and 'media specialist' are substantially distinct." Id. at 9.

On July 22, 1996, the Commissioner adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and dismissed the petition. The ALJ agreed that "regardless of whether petitioner performed instructional duties, petitioner did not possess the requisite certification for her position and that without such certification, petitioner could not accrue tenure....Thus, whether petitioner held an instructional certificate and performed instructional duties is not determinative of the petitioner's tenure rights where the county superintendent has duly determined that the position in question requires the educational services certificate." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 13-14. The Commissioner further agreed with the ALJ that "the Board's failure to 'specifically mandate' that petitioner obtain appropriate certification as a media specialist does not justify an alternate finding." Id. at 14. The Commissioner pointed out that the regulations governing educational media specialists were "specific in their scope," and he was "unpersuaded by petitioner's argument that the Board failed to provide her with notice that certification was necessary, as such notice, which, even assuming arguendo and contrary to the ALJ's findings, petitioner had not received, would not be determinative in the present matter." Id.

The petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board, arguing that the Commissioner had improperly granted summary decision to the Board.

After a thorough review of the record, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner as clarified herein.

Under the standard established In Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995), "a determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party....If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a 'genuine' issue of material fact....The import of our holding is that when the evidence 'is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,' [citation omitted] the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment." The Court emphasized that the thrust of its decision was "to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves." Id. at 541.

On the basis of the parties' submissions, we conclude that there exists a "single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact," warranting grant of the Board's motion. Even granting all favorable inferences to the petitioner, we find that she has not set forth a genuine issue of material fact under the standard articulated in Brill, and we agree that the Board was entitled to summary decision.

There is no dispute that a significant portion of the petitioner's duties was instructional in nature. However, Thomas S. Lubben, the Chief School Administrator in the district, averred in a certification filed with the Board's motion that he had directly supervised the petitioner and that, in addition to her instructional duties, the petitioner had also been responsible for the operation and supervision of the school library. In an attachment included with his certification, Lubben elaborated on the specific duties the petitioner had been required to perform, which included: maintaining a system for cataloging media center materials; routinely reviewing and culling the entire media collection; assisting teachers in the selection of books and other instructional materials; evaluating and selecting new media center materials; coordinating the program with the Hunterdon County public library; preparing and administering the library budget; and supervising the library aide.

In a certification filed in response to the Board's motion, the petitioner countered only that: "I disagree that the purported duties set forth [in Lubben's certification] accurately reflect my responsibilities and assignments." Petitioner's Certification, at 5. She did not provide any specifics regarding which duties she alleged were not part of her job functions. Nor did she offer a counterstatement of her responsibilities, listing only those functions which she contended were instructional in nature. We note in that regard that "[b]are conclusions in the pleadings, without factual support in the tendered affidavits, will not defeat a meritorious application for summary judgment." Gherardi v. Trenton Board of Education, 53 N.J. Super. 349, 358 (App. Div. 1958). Indeed, the petitioner did not deny that a portion of her duties included responsibility for the operation of the library, averring that "[m]uch of the actual 'library responsibilities,' i.e., ordering materials, administering the budget, etc., was completed on my own time." Id. at 3. Moreover, in response to interrogatories expounded by the Board, the petitioner acknowledged that, in addition to her teaching duties, she had also performed functions "relating to the operation of the library," including "collection development, budgeting, interlibrary loans, ordering and arranging books and magazines, supervising aide, reviewing mail and correspondence, and responsibility for organization, procedures, and statistics." Answer to Interrogatories, at 4.

We reject the petitioner's contention that the Commissioner should not have considered the document filed with Lubben's certification in which he detailed the petitioner's duties. The petitioner argues that this document should have been disregarded since it was not prepared until after she had filed her petition in this matter. We find no merit to the petitioner's contention. There is no proscription to the preparation of such a document in support of the Board's motion for summary decision, and the petitioner, in filing her response to the Board's motion, had a full opportunity to refute the specific duties contained in that document and/or to provide her own version of her job responsibilities.

Nor is this result altered by the petitioner's contention that the Board had viewed her position as instructional in nature and had not required her to acquire certification as an educational media specialist.[1] As previously stated, the County Superintendent determined that the library skills position held by the petitioner required certification as an educational media specialist or an associate educational media specialist in order to be qualified to perform the functions thereof.[2] Thus, even if the Board had viewed the position as instructional and had not required the petitioner to acquire an educational media specialist endorsement, it is the County Superintendent's judgment as to the appropriate certification which is determinative.[3] As a result, once the County

[1] We note that the petitioner was advised by Chief School Administrator Lubben in a letter dated February 3, 1991 that: "It is understood that you will pursue course work toward possibly an Associate Education Media Specialist, (School Librarian)." In a performance evaluation of the petitioner prepared by Lubben in June 1991, he specified as an area needing improvement or development: "Begin to enroll in courses that will enable you to be certificated as a school librarian." In a Professional Improvement/Development Plan provided to the petitioner in June 1992, it was indicated that her attainment of library certification "was delayed and will be repeated in 1992-93."

[2] N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.17 provides that an educational media specialist endorsement is required "for any person who is assigned to develop and coordinate educational media services in the public schools. Educational media are defined as all print and nonprint resources and the equipment needed for their use."

[3] We correct the Commissioner's assertion that the petitioner was required to name the County Superintendent as a party to this matter if she wanted to challenge his certification determination. Although the county superintendent is charged with responsibility in the first instance for determining the appropriate certification for service in an unrecognized position title, N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b), the State Board of Education has the ultimate administrative authority for determining certification requirements, South

Superintendent determined that the position required educational media specialist certification, which the petitioner did not possess, her employment could properly be terminated. "The services of any teaching staff member who is not the holder of an appropriate certificate...may be terminated without charge or trial...." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-14. We stress, in addition, that "[n]o teaching staff member shall acquire tenure in any position in the public schools in any school district or under any board of education, who is not the holder of an appropriate certificate for such position...." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4.

Accordingly, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner as clarified herein.

Petitioner, temporary painter, contested Board's action denying him a permanent position due to its nepotism policy as petitioner's father-in-law supervises all painters.

ALJ found that Board's decision to enforce the policy was not to be invalidated even though it did not enforce the policy at the outset. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND FACTS

Petitioner, Daniel Carroll, worked as a temporary painter for the Trenton Board of Education (Board) from July 1992 to March 1994 (with a brief layoff in 1993). When a permanent position became available in August 1993, petitioner applied for the job. The Board, however, refused to interview petitioner because his employment would violate the Board's policy against nepotism. This issue arose when the Board discovered that petitioner's father-in-law supervised all painters. The Board's policy excluded any individuals whose employment would place them under the direct or indirect supervision of a family member. Since the nepotism policy, according to the Board, did not apply to temporary employees, petitioner remained in his position. Petitioner would not, however, be eligible for a permanent painter's position.

On August 31, 1994, the petitioner, as a pro se litigant, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education. The Board submitted its answer on August 31, 1994 and on September 13, 1994, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Following numerous, unsuccessful settlement conferences and resolution of issues of discovery, it was agreed that the Board would move for summary decision. It did so by motion submitted on or about July 18, 1995. On August 4, 1995, Mr. Carroll submitted his response opposing the motion and on August 24, 1995, the Board, through its counsel, advised me by letter that it would not submit any reply. Finally, on October 10, 1995, I issued an 8-page ruling denying the Board's motion for summary decision, concluding that issues of material fact remained. A plenary hearing was conducted in the matter at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, New Jersey on March 18 and 19, 1996, at which time petitioner was represented by counsel.

With the conclusion of the testimonial phrase of these proceedings, counsel were allowed to submit closing written argument. Mr. Hollingsworth submitted a letter brief on behalf of the respondent on April 16, 1996, and Mr. Popp, on behalf of the petitioner, made his written submission on April 25, 1996. On May 10, 1996, Mr. Hollingsworth advised my office that he would not be responding to Mr. Popp's submission. Accordingly, the record in the matter closed on the latter date, May 10, 1996.

At the hearing, petitioner claimed that he should not have been denied the opportunity to interview for the permanent position. In support of his argument, he maintained that the nepotism policy did not apply to him since he is related to his supervisor by marriage only. Additionally, petitioner argued that the policy has been applied in a discretionary manner by the Board. In fact, petitioner maintained that there are a number of Board employees under the direct or indirect supervision of family members. Finally, petitioner contended that the Board refused to consider him for subsequent temporary positions because of petitioner's challenge to the Board's action.

In response, the Board maintained that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to resolve this matter since the petitioner raises issues outside the scope of school law. Petitioner's only reliance, according to the Board, would be on the statutory tenure provisions, yet, they afford no protection because of petitioner's position and temporary status. The Board argued that petitioner merely raised a contractual issue; however, as decisional law indicates, such contests are beyond the reach of the Commissioner. Finally, the Board contended that the nepotism issues raised by the petitioner also fall outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction since they concern matters not contemplated in the School Ethics Act (N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq.)

Local Boards are bound by the School Ethics Act [hereinafter Act] (N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et. seq.). The goal of this Act, according to the Legislature, is to protect the public's trust in their elected and appointed officials. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a). Specifically it declared that in order "[t]o ensure and preserve public confidence, school board members and local school administrators should have the benefit of specific standards to guide their conduct and of some disciplinary mechanism to ensure the uniform maintenance of those standards among them." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(b). Thus, the Act precludes certain school administrators, Board officials and their immediate families and relatives from undertaking specified activities that might impinge upon this public confidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.

According to the Act, an "Administrator" means:

> ...any officer, other than a board member, or employee of a local school district who (i) holds a position which requires a certificate that authorizes the holder to serve as school administrator, principal, or school business administrator; or (ii) holds a position which does not require that the person hold any type of certificate but is responsible for making recommendations regarding hiring or the purchase or acquisition of any property or services by the local school district; or (iii) holds a position which requires a certificate > that authorizes the holder to serve as supervisor and who is responsible for making recommendations regarding hiring or the purchase or acquisition of any property or services by the local school district. [N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23].

Additionally, the Act defines a "Board member" as "...any person holding membership, whether by election or appointment, on any board of education other than the State Board of Education." Id. The Act also provides that "Member of immediate family" means "the spouse, or dependent child of a school official residing in the same household." Finally, it defines "Relative" as "the spouse, natural or adopted child, parent, or sibling of a school official." Thus, it is apparent that the Act imposes limitations only upon specified groups. If a local board wishes to expand upon these limitations, it must enact its own nepotism policy. Doing so, however, is a decision that must be made at the local level and is not mandated by state law.

The Trenton Board of Education recognized the importance of stemming nepotism. In fact, it declared that "in our representative form of government it is essential that the conduct of members of the Board of Education, local school administrators and each employee of the District, hold the respect of and confidence of the people." Trenton BOE School Ethics Policy, October 26, 1992 at 1. Thus, the Board enacted its School Ethics Policy [hereinafter "Policy"]. The Policy expands upon the School Ethics Act. Like the Act, the Board's policy includes school administrators, board members, and their family members. Unlike the Act, however, the Policy encompasses those family members related by marriage. Thus the Policy defines "immediate family" as the "spouse, child [natural or adopted or dependent], guardian, sibling, father, mother, sister, brother, son or daughter, or related by marriage." Trenton BOE School Ethics Policy, October 26, 1992 at 2.

It should be noted that the School Laws do not preclude the enactment of such policies. In fact, such policies are within the managerial prerogative of local boards. Dunellen Bd. of Ed. v. Dunellen Ed. Assn., 64 N.J. 17, 23 (1973). Further, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 provides that boards of education shall "make, amend, and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the state board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools...." Since the Board's policy is not inconsistent with the Act, it is a legitimate application of the Board's power.

Petitioner claims that the Board has had a nepotism policy in effect since 1987. [Petitioner's Brief of April 19, 1996 at 3]. The Board has not, however, enforced this policy until recently. Thus, certain employees, who clearly fall within the purview of the Policy, remain in their positions, while he has been refused full-time employment. In support of this contention, petitioner produced evidence in respect to several employees, all of whom were hired in the Summer of 1992. Petitioner claims that these employees fell under the Policy, even before its amendment in 1992 to include non-blood relatives. Therefore, petitioner maintains, such an inequitable application must invalidate the policy.

Respondent counters that it was unaware that the Policy had been violated in the past, until a Board employee directed the Board's attention to employees hired in contravention of the Policy. The Board did take steps, however, to ensure that any future hiring would not contravene the Policy. "...it is clear that the Board took reasonable steps after July, 1992, to ensure that the Policy would be strictly enforced in the future." [Respondent's Brief of April 15, 1996 at 10]. These changes were enacted prior to petitioner's application for full-time employment. Therefore when Petitioner applied for a full-time position in August 1993, he was denied because of the Policy. Those employees to whom petitioner alludes, were hired prior to the revised application procedures. As respondent noted "...the actions taken by the Board to correct the problem were prospective, and were not designed to penalize employees who were hired in permanent positions prior to August, 1992." [Respondent's Brief of April 15, 1996 at 10].

New Jersey courts recognize that a governing body's past failure to enforce an applicable policy does not preclude current enforcement, unless the party opposed to the policy can show a "studied policy not to enforce." Abrahams v. Civ. Serv. Comm., 65 N.J. 61 (1974); Communications Workers of America v. Treffinger, No. ESX-L-1980-96, slip op. at 30 (Law. Div., May 9, 1996). "A 'studied policy not to enforce' will be found where there is evidence of the government's official knowledge of violations of the ordinance in conjunction with the government's nonenforcement of the ordinance." Treffinger at 30. There is no evidence that the Board has evinced a "studied policy not to enforce." In fact, evidence suggests that the Board, once made aware of the nepotism violations, altered its policy to prevent any future infractions.

The Board "revised its employment applications [and] took steps to increase employee awareness of the Policy..." [Respondent's Brief of April 15, 1996 at 10]. Moreover, those Board members who actually violated the Policy were subjected to an investigation. Id. Thus the Board's policy is in no way invalid nor is its application arbitrary.

Petitioner also seeks compensatory damages arising from his dismissal if he prevailed. Such damages "...serve as recompense for the loss sustained. The essential purpose is to make plaintiff whole to the extent possible. This is true whether the wrong inflicted lies in tort or contract. The goal is to restore the plaintiff to the extent possible to the same position he or she was in prior to the occurrence of the wrong." Maul v. Kirkman, 270 N.J.Super. 596, 618 (App.Div. 1994). It is well-settled, however, that only certain damages are within the Commissioner's authority. Thus, the Commissioner cannot award punitive damages, North Bergen Fed. of Teachers v. Bd. of Educ. of Bergen, 1975 S.L.D. 461, 467; counsel fees, Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Ed., 117 N.J. 434, 442-443 (1990); or legal costs Lilenfield v. Bd. of Ed. of Watchung, 1977 S.L.D. 315, 323. Moreover, the payment of any damages other than lost earnings, McLean v. Bd. of Educ. of Glen Ridge, 1977 S.L.D. 311, 314, or restoring an increment improperly withheld, Smith v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamilton, OAL DKT. EDU 5468-87, adopted in part and rejected in part on other grounds, Comm. of Educ. (April 21, 1988), is not within the Commissioner's authority. Therefore, if petitioner is seeking lost earnings or improperly withheld increments, then this tribunal has the authority to award such damages, otherwise, other damages are outside the Commissioner's authority.

CONCLUSION

The Trenton Board of Education enacted a nepotism policy which expanded upon the School Ethics Act (N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et. seq.). The decision to do this was not mandated by any education law and, in fact, was done at the discretion of the Board.

Even though the Board had enacted a nepotism policy, it did not abide by it at the outset. Thus a number of Board employees were hired in contravention of the Policy. Once made aware of these infractions, the Board altered its practice to conform to the Policy. Since the Board did not evince a "studied policy not to enforce" its nepotism policy, the Board's decision to now enforce the policy is not and shall not be invalidated.

Finally, petitioner seeks certain damages from the Board. It should be noted that the Commissioner may not award compensatory damages except for lost salary increments or back wages resulting from unlawful suspensions or dismissals. Moreover, the Commissioner cannot award punitive damages, counsel fees or legal costs.

For all of the following reasons the petitioner's appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions submitted by petitioner were untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, having been filed on July 2, 1996, in response to an initial decision mailed to the parties on June 13, 1996, and are, therefore, not herein considered.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that the within Board's action in denying petitioner full-time employment pursuant to its nepotism policy was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable nor, under the circumstances existing in this matter, was the policy discriminatorily applied by the Board.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons articulated therein, and the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: May 3, 1996 Decided: June 5, 1996

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

On October 3, 1994 the petitioner, Board of Education of the Town of West Orange, Essex County, filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education, challenging the respondent's denial of courtesy busing from home to private school for the 1993-94 and 1994-95 school years, on behalf of the petitioner's two children, J.J. and R.J.

On October 19, 1994 the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

A prehearing conference was held at the OAL on March 10, 1995, and a prehearing order was entered, defining and limiting the issues to be decided, fixing hearing dates, providing for discovery and regulating other procedural aspects of the forthcoming hearing, which was scheduled for October 8 and 9, 1995.

By letter dated April 26, 1995, petitioner's attorney withdrew the petition as to J.J., one of the two children involved. The contested case relating to R.J. remained.

On the first hearing date, November 8, 1995, a stipulation of facts, exhibit J-1, was marked in evidence. However, the parties then conferred for purposes of settlement, and a mutually satisfactory agreement was reached. A written agreement was to await confirmation by the Police Department and the beginning of performance on behalf of the Board. After some delay, the Stipulation of Settlement, dated May 2, 1996, was signed by the parties and by their attorneys. A copy of the stipulation, filed in the OAL on May 3, 1996, is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

I therefore FIND as follows:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidence by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law; and I therefore ORDER that the parties comply with terms and conditions of the stipulation of settlement. These proceedings are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ELBERT SMITH,	:
HUDSON COUNTY AREA	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
VOCATIONAL TECHNICAL SCHOOL,	:	DECISION
HUDSON COUNTY.	:

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against vocational teacher for allegedly physically assaulting students and engaging in a pattern of verbal abuse.

ALJ concluded that in two of the seven incidents of alleged assault, the Board did prove that physical contact occurred but not in a manner intended to harm the students. Moreover, respondent did use language which constituted unbecoming conduct. ALJ found that while the incidents did lead to the conclusion that respondent was guilty of unbecoming conduct, mitigating circumstances existed and termination would have been unduly harsh. Thus, the ALJ ordered respondent reinstated at the same annual salary as he was paid at the time of his suspension without benefit of any employment and adjustment increments that he might have been entitled to during the intervening period of time. Respondent was also to forfeit the 120 days' pay withheld during his suspension and was not to be credited any benefits up to the time of reinstatement.

Citing In re Fulcomer, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ concerning the proof of unbecoming conduct and the penalty recommended. The Commissioner, however, modified the initial decision, noting that as respondent had no entitlement to an award of increment during his period of suspension, such employment and adjustment increment loss must be prospectively applied.

ELBERT SMITH,

Respondent.

Alexander W. Booth, Jr., Esq., for petitioner

Vickie A. Donaldson, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: April 18, 1996 Decided: June 6, 1996

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

This matter involves tenure charges filed by the petitioner, Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School, Hudson County, against respondent, a tenured teaching staff member, for dismissal or reduction in compensation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner, Board of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School, Hudson County, (Board) certified and filed tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education against the respondent, Elbert Smith, on March 17, 1994. The statement of charges alleges that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct, which, if true, would warrant dismissal or reduction in salary. An answer, denying the charges and asserting affirmative defenses, was filed by the respondent on May 4, 1994.

On May 13, 1994, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was held on September 20, 1994, resulting in the entry of a prehearing order, dated October 7, 1994, fixing hearing dates, providing for discovery, and regulating other procedural matters connected to the forthcoming hearing. A five-day hearing was held at the OAL in Newark, New Jersey, in May 1995. Many witnesses testified, including the respondent, Elbert Smith. Twelve documentary exhibits were marked in evidence for the respondent. An itemized list of the exhibits is contained in the Appendix attached hereto, as is a list of the witnesses. (At the conclusion of the hearing, respondent's attorney retained the exhibits, which were to be returned with her posthearing brief. The exhibits have not been sent to date, despite requests by letter and by telephone.) Posthearing briefs were requested of both parties. The petitioner's brief was filed at the end of December 1995. The respondent's attorney has not filed a brief to date, despite several extensions that were requested and granted. After waiting more than a reasonable time for the respondent's submission, the record was closed on April 18, 1996.

ISSUES

The issues, as set forth in the prehearing order, are:

a. Did the acts of the respondent, as alleged in the charges, constitute unbecoming conduct or other just cause for dismissal or reduction in pay, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.?

b. If the charges or any of them are proved, is the penalty of dismissal justified or should a different penalty be imposed?

The general tenure charge, sworn to by Frank Garguilo, superintendent of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School, as transmitted to the Commissioner of Education, is:

> 1. Elbert Smith has been employed as a teacher at Hudson County Area Vocational Technical School (HCAVTS) for the past thirteen (13) years.
> 2. He is properly certified and has acquired tenure.
>
> 3. According to information I have received, he has during the past year physically assaulted seven of his students and engaged in a pattern of verbal abuse.
> 4. This conduct is unbecoming of a professional teacher as that term is used in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and merits the teacher's dismissal.

The more specific charges are contained in the sworn statement of Anthony Ingenito, dean of students, who certified as follows:

> 1. I am employed as Dean of Students by the Hudson County Area Vocational Technical School and am assigned to the Earl Byrd Center in Jersey City, New Jersey.

2. On January 10, 1994 I conducted separate interviews with six classified special education students concerning behavior of their teacher Elbert Smith in the classroom.

3. J.P., a ninth grade student, advised me that on two occasions during this school year, Mr. Smith had punched him in the chest.

4. F.R., a twelfth grade student, advised me that in April of 1993 Mr. Smith had physically assaulted him.

5. E.J., a ninth grade student, advised that in October 1993 he was struck in the chest and cursed at by Mr. Smith.

6. M.C., a ninth grade student, advised that in September 1993 he was physically assaulted by Mr. Smith.

7. H.P., a ninth grade student, advised that in October 1993 he was physically assaulted by Mr. Smith.

8. L.O., a ninth grade student, advised that on January 7, 1994 he was physically assaulted by Mr. Smith.

9. On January 31, 1994, I interviewed K.C., a ninth grade student, who advised me that on three occasions during this school year he was physically assaulted by Mr. Smith.

10. I am attaching hereto and incorporating by reference my typewritten notes of these interviews as well as memoranda to Ms. Mendolla. I am excising the full names of the students from these documents and just leaving initials.

11. All of these students have advised me that Mr. Smith regularly engages in a pattern of verbal abuse including cursing at his students.

TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE

Michael J. Pecklers, assistant to the board secretary, testified about reports he had received from other administrators relating to problems that were reported to them by a series of students. Mr. Pecklers then interviewed the students who had complained about incidents in the school, the "Jersey City Center," involving Mr. Smith.

According to Mr. Pecklers, a student, L.O., told him that on January 7, 1994, he and another student were tossing a football around in Mr. Smith's homeroom. The respondent took the ball away and put it into an anteroom at the back of the classroom. According to the report, L.O. wanted to retrieve his ball at the end of the day. He went into the room, picked up the ball and held it behind him so that Mr. Smith, who had asked for it, could not reach it. According to the account given to Mr. Pecklers, the respondent then threw L.O. on the ground and closed the anteroom door on the hood of the student's sweatshirt. When Mr. Smith would not open the door, L.O. slid out of the shirt, spit at Mr. Smith and cursed at him. L.O. then went to see the principal and the school nurse.

Mr. Pecklers said that L.O. told him that the respondent often cursed at students, calling them "m..... f....." and saying that they would never make anything of their lives. In addition, he reported that Mr. Smith often called the principal, Barbara Mendolla, a "red-headed bitch" when he heard her voice on the intercom.

Mr. Pecklers testified that he interviewed another student, K.C., who told him that, in addition to cursing, the respondent once struck him in the chest when they were in the gym locker room.

A third student interviewed by Mr. Pecklers was M.C., who was in Mr. Smith's physical education class. M.C. told Mr. Pecklers that he once needed to see the nurse about a hand injury, and that the respondent struck him and refused to give him the pass to go to see the nurse.

A fourth student, E.J., told Mr. Pecklers that, on one occasion, he entered Mr. Smith's class to request a pencil, and the respondent told him never to come into his class again or he would "f... him up."

Another student, H.P., reported to Mr. Pecklers that he was once running in the gym while wearing new, slippery sneakers. He said that he did not stop running when

Mr. Smith told him to, and the respondent then "put him down" and put his knee into his chest.

When cross-examined, Mr. Pecklers acknowledged that his investigation involved speaking to the students in question, the principal, and three or four faculty members. He said he took notes and reported orally to the superintendent, not in writing. In addition, Mr. Pecklers admitted that he did not speak to Mr. Smith or include him in his investigation, and he did not review any of the students' records.

The hearsay testimony of Mr. Pecklers consisted solely of the accounts given to him by the students he interviewed. He did not interview Mr. Smith, and he did not have any personal knowledge of the incidents related to him by the students.

K.C., a student, was in Mr. Smith's gym class in 1994. Mr. Smith also taught him graphic arts and video production. He testified that the respondent called him, and other students, names such as "jackass," "bitch," and "m..... f....." in the classroom, and that the respondent would often tell him to "shut the f... up." K.C. also related one incident that he said occurred as he was entering the gym locker room. He said that he previously had grabbed, and held onto, a low basketball rim, and Mr. Smith followed him into the locker room and hit him in the chest, with his fist, twenty or more times. K.C. testified that he reported the incident to the dean and to Mr. Pecklers.

When cross-examined, K.C. said that he had been punched hard enough by Mr. Smith to affect his breathing, but he did not tell his parents about the incident until after the investigation by Mr. Pecklers. K.C. also said that the respondent once grabbed his neck and pinched it, and that on another occasion he pushed him onto the classroom floor. When asked about the cursing, K.C. said that he first heard Mr. Smith use profanity about three weeks after he entered the respondent's class in September 1993.

K.C. admitted that he has been in trouble several times at school, that he has been sent to the principal's office for fighting, and that he has incurred in-school suspensions. He also acknowledged that he was suspended once for bringing a knife to school.

L.O. was a ninth-grade student at the time of the incidents he testified about. Mr. Smith was his vocational teacher in December 1993 and January 1994. L.O. testified about the football incident, except that he denied having thrown the football in the classroom. (This was contrary to the account given by Mr. Pecklers.) He said that he put the football away when Mr. Smith asked him to, but another student took it and threw it hard against the door. According to L.O., Mr. Smith then took the ball away and kept it in the adjoining anteroom, or closet, for the balance of the school day. The day ended early because of a snowstorm, and L.O. acknowledged having taken the ball back at that time, against Mr. Smith's wishes. He said that he put the ball behind him and leaned on it against a wall, unwilling to return the ball when Mr. Smith asked for it.

Then, according to L.O., the respondent pushed him to the floor, took the ball and closed the door while L.O. was still on he floor. L.O.'s hood was stuck under the door, so he unzipped the jacket and slid out of it. He acknowledged that he spit, threw an eraser and cursed at Mr. Smith. He then went to the principal's office and reported the incident.

L.O. also testified that respondent often used profanity when he spoke to the students, for example, "stop that f..... playing."

H.P., a student in the respondent's gym class, testified that in October 1993 he was running in the gym, chasing a friend, and that the respondent put his foot and hand out and dropped him to the floor. H.P. said that Mr. Smith then put his knee into his chest and told him to "sit his ass down." He said that he was wearing new sneakers at the time of the incident, although he did not explain what connection that had to the incident. H.P. also said that the respondent often used "the F word" with students.

J.P., a student, also testified about the football incident involving L.O. His version differed from that of L.O., to some extent. J.P. said that he and L.O. were throwing the ball back and forth in the classroom when Mr. Smith took it and put it into the back room. Although he was present, he did not see the entire incident at the end of the school day, but he knew that L.O. took the ball and the respondent wanted it back. J.P. testified that he did not know how L.O. ended up on the floor, but he saw him there with the ball in his possession. That was when the respondent closed the door and L.O.'s hood was caught under it. He saw L.O. get out of his jacket and stand up. However, he did not see if Mr. Smith touched L.O. during the incident.

J.P. said that Mr. Smith once touched him aggressively. According to the witness, the respondent wanted him to sit down, and he poked him. J.P. stated that he said "don't touch me," whereupon Mr. Smith poked him again, then pushed him over three desks and onto the floor.

J.P. also testified that he has heard Mr. Smith use profanity and curse at students. He said that when the principal's voice came over the loudspeaker the respondent would refer to her as that "f..... red-headed bitch."

Another student, B.G., testified about an encounter he once had with Mr. Smith. He said that the respondent put his arms around his neck from behind and held him in a headlock, causing him to have trouble breathing. When cross-examined, B.G. acknowledged that he was "pretty bad" in Mr. Smith's classroom, but he said that he wasn't doing anything to have caused the teacher to grab him from behind. B.G. was not one of the students included in the charges against the respondent.

Another student, also not involved in the charges, J.G., testified that she saw Mr. Smith hold B.G. in a headlock. This was the incident referred to above. She indicated that she and B.G. were riding on and playing with a supply cart; Mr. Smith wanted B.G. to stop, and asked him to do so about three times. The teacher then touched B.G. (This account of the incident contradicts B.G.'s testimony that he wasn't doing anything and was surprised when Mr. Smith came up behind him.)

J.G. also testified that Mr. Smith would curse in front of the students, using the word "f..." often. She said that the respondent once said "I don't give a f... about the red-headed bitch. I have more degrees than her."

Barbara Mendolla, principal of the Jersey City Center at Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School, was Mr. Smith's supervisor at the time of the events in question. She testified that L.O. came to her on January 7, 1994, at the end of the shortened school day, and told her about an incident involving a football that had occurred with Mr. Smith. According to Ms. Mendolla, L.O. said that the respondent tried to get a football from him, but L.O. kept it away by putting it behind his back. L.O. told her that Mr. Smith then pushed him down, took the ball and put it in the closet. L.O.'s hood became caught in the door when Mr. Smith closed it, but when L.O. asked him to open the door so he could get his hood out, the respondent laughed at him. L.O. admitted to Ms. Mendolla that he was very angry, and that he spit, kicked the door and cursed.

Ms. Mendolla said that Mr. Smith denied the account given by L.O., and he wrote a report about the incident after the weekend. She then interviewed several other students who had been nearby, and they all confirmed L.O.'s version.

In order to follow up on the above, Ms. Mendolla turned the matter over to Anthony Ingenito, dean of students, since disciplinary action was his responsibility. Mr. Ingenito reported back to her, generally confirming L.O.'s version. Ms. Mendolla then went back to Mr. Smith with that information, and he replied, "Perhaps I pushed him too hard." Ms. Mendolla said that he had previously denied using any physical force.

Ms. Mendolla acknowledged that most of the classified students who were involved in the reported incidents are often difficult to manage, but she stated that teachers are advised that they should never put their hands on a student. She also knew specifically, from L.O.'s mother, that L.O. was a problem, but she felt that situations with difficult students could be handled without the use of physical force.

Ms. Mendolla indicated that until the investigation of the subject charges, she had never before received student complaints about any of her staff, including Mr. Smith.

Ms. Mendolla also testified about her own history with the respondent. She knew that Mr. Smith had applied unsuccessfully for her job more than once, and that he criticized her in writing, accusing her of using poor judgment and disparaging her administrative acuity. Even so, Ms. Mendolla denied having a tense relationship with the respondent.

Ms. Mendolla spoke about an earlier incident that happened when students had been fooling around in Mr. Smith's classes, and he sent a letter to their parents, with copies to her and to Mr. Ingenito. She thought that the respondent was insubordinate by sending the letters directly to the parents without clearing them first with the administration. Ms. Mendolla said that she was Mr. Smith's supervisor for only a little more than a year. She described the respondent as arrogant and self-confident, but said she does not dislike him.

The Board rested its case after Ms. Mendolla completed her testimony. Respondent then moved to dismiss the charges as to E.J. and M.C., because the only testimony relating to these two students was hearsay from Mr. Pecklers. A decision on the motion was reserved, pending completion of the entire case.

At that point, however, the petitioner withdrew the charges relating to F.R.

Irvin B. Herrick, a teacher who worked with the respondent in the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School for fifteen years, testified that he never heard the respondent use profanity, except for the words "damn" and "hell," during all of those fifteen years. In addition, Mr. Herrick stated that he never heard the respondent demean a student. On one occasion in the late 1980s, Mr. Herrick saw Mr. Smith become angry about something, but he nevertheless behaved professionally.

Mr. Herrick also said that he knew L.O., who was in his class in 1993-94. He described that student as disruptive in class and unwilling to take orders, in addition to causing other problems. Mr. Herrick stated that he often needed to send L.O. to Mr. Ingenito for disciplinary action, such as detention.

When cross-examined, Mr. Herrick was asked additional questions about some of the other students. He said that K.C. was "off the wall," and often behaved inappropriately. Mr. Herrick had him removed from the classroom many times, for being disruptive, erratic and hostile. Even so, he never touched him or cursed at him, and he described him as "a little upsetting, but a good kid."

Doreen Bryant, a physical education and health teacher, taught alongside of Mr. Smith in the gym in 1993-94. She was asked to describe some of the student complainants. Ms. Bryant characterized K.C. as having a quick temper and having engaged in many fights. She said that he was often in trouble and started many incidents. L.O. was described as smart, quick-tempered, prone to fighting and argumentative.

More importantly, Ms. Bryant testified that Mr. Smith was always professional, and that he took care of necessary business in a proper manner. She never heard him curse.

When cross-examined, Ms. Bryant acknowledged that she and Mr. Smith did not work together for a period of twenty weeks during the 1993-94 school year because they taught separate health classes. She knew from the beginning that the classified students were difficult, and she was trained to deal with them.

Lynn Fedele, an English teacher, used the same classroom as Mr. Smith. Although she did not see the L.O. incident involving the football, she noted that Mr. Smith looked frazzled when she went to the classroom to get her coat. He told her to be careful with the door because there was spit all over it. Ms. Fedele looked and saw a large quantity of spit on the door.

Ronald Courts is a teacher's aide who was assigned to Mr. Ingenito in 1993-94. His job was to monitor and screen students before Mr. Ingenito saw them for disciplinary purposes. Mr. Courts said that L.O. "was always there" (meaning in Mr. Ingenito's office). He recalled that, on the day of the football incident, Mr. Smith brought L.O. to him to wait for Mr. Ingenito. L.O. told him that he had previously gone to see the school nurse. Mr. Smith related what had happened and then went to see Mr. Ingenito about the incident, while L.O. waited. Mr. Courts also recalled that L.O. told him that Mr. Smith himself had first taken L.O. to see the nurse. The end result was that Mr. Ingenito suspended L.O. for three days, leaving him in Mr. Courts's custody.

When asked to describe Mr. Smith, Mr. Courts said that he was not the type of person who would curse or use violence against students. He said that Mr. Smith has a large vocabulary and uses it extensively. Mr. Courts acknowledged that he and Mr. Smith were friends at school.

Ronald Courts also spoke about K.C., whom he described as a chronic problem, someone who was sent to his office every other day. Mr. Courts said that K.C. was excitable and easily became violent. Although Mr. Courts had a lot of contact with K.C., the young man never told him that Mr. Smith hit him.

S.C., another student witness not involved in the charges, testified about some conversations he overheard while he was having lunch with several of the students involved in the charges, plus one other student who previously testified for the Board, but also is not involved in the charges. S.C.'s testimony was taken on Monday, May 22, 1995. The conversations he testified about took place during the previous week, after the first two hearing days and after the complaining students had testified.

According to S.C., while he was having lunch with L.O. and B.G., the latter said that he hated Mr. Smith and that he would "get Smith out." In addition, S.C. testified that B.G. said that Mr. Smith "didn't do anything to him." On another occasion soon thereafter, he heard M.C. say that he had been to court "to get Smith."

S.C. further testified that J.P. told him that B.G. had made his testimony up.

Another student witness not involved in the charges, J.P.-2, also testified. (J.P.-2 is a different student than J.P., who previously testified and is one of the students involved in the charges.) This witness testified to a conversation he overheard in the school lunchroom sometime during the week immediately preceding his testimony, and after the first two hearing days (which included the student testimony) had been completed. J.P.-2 said that both L.O. and one of the other students involved in the charges said that they were "trying to get Mr. Smith out."

Referring to a conversation he was involved in with a group of students during the same week, J.P.-2 testified that B.G. stated: "I just want to get him [Mr. Smith] out of here because I don't like him." Then, during the same conversation, when B.G. was asked by S.C. if Mr. Smith ever touched him, B.G. answered "no."

When cross-examined, J.P.-2 said that during the previous year B.G. told him that Mr. Smith did touch him, and he was surprised by B.G.'s recent denial

J.P.-2 also said that he likes Mr. Smith. Nevertheless, he indicated that he heard Mr. Smith curse a lot in gym class, when he was aggravated. When asked about the specific words he has heard Mr. Smith use when cursing, J.P.-2 related words such as "damn" and "shit," which were not the same words testified to by the students involved in the charges.

Norma Howard, another teacher, testified that she overheard a heated discussion on January 7, 1994, among Mr. Smith, L.O. and Anthony Ingenito. She said that L.O. was upset and emotional, constantly spewing a variety of obscenities, such as

"f... this and f... that." She said that it had something to do with a ball, and that the conversation continued for a while. It seemed to her that L.O. wanted to get back at Mr. Smith for something. Describing the situation further, Ms. Howard said that L.O. kept pacing back and forth and cursing. Mr. Ingenito was writing, and Mr. Smith was standing there, continually asking for a chance to speak.

When asked to describe Elbert Smith, Ms. Howard said that he was honorable, hardworking, and had the best interests of the students at heart. She never heard him use bad language. Describing L.O., Ms. Howard said that he is emotional and can be violent and aggressive. She indicated that L.O. creates problems and often places the blame on others. Ms. Howard said that on one occasion after January 7, 1994, she heard L.O. say to a group of students that he would try to get Mr. Smith fired. She also heard J.P. say that the respondent threw him over some chairs.

Francis J. Katusa, Jr., teaches video production at the school. He testified that sometime in January 1994 J.P. bragged that he and others "got Mr. Smith fired." When Mr. Katusa asked J.P. to explain, he said that the respondent threw him over chairs, punched him, kicked him and beat him up. Mr. Katusa replied that J.P. did not seem to be injured, and when J.P. was asked to explain that, he just hung his head.

Furnishing more details about the conversation, Mr. Katusa said that J.P. told him that Mr. Smith threw him over a couple of desks, kicked him in the ribs, kicked him in the side, and punched him in the face (not in the chest, as stated in the charges and in J.P.'s testimony). Mr. Katusa testified that he was incredulous and found the story hard to believe, because the conversation took place only a couple of days after the alleged incident. He did not think that J.P. was telling the truth, particularly after hearing J.P. brag that he and others were getting the respondent fired.

Mr. Katusa also testified about events involving F.R., which need not be discussed because the charges involving F.R. were withdrawn.

Wilfred Moyler, a teacher's aide who worked with Mr. Smith in the welding shop in 1989-90, testified that the respondent was even-tempered, and he never heard him use any profanity during the year they shared a classroom. Mr. Moyler also spent a period of time in the gym class with Mr. Smith.

The respondent, Elbert Smith, testified in his own behalf. He said that he had been teaching at the same school since 1980, approximately fourteen years prior to the events in question, and that his evaluations had always been satisfactory or exemplary. The respondent is a teacher of welding and industrial arts, and in 1993-94 he was assigned to teach predominately classified, neurologically impaired, perceptually impaired and emotionally disturbed students. At that time his assignments included teaching graphic arts, video production and gym.

The respondent testified at length about the January 7, 1994 incident with L.O. and the football he took away from him. Soon after class began that day, the respondent saw L.O. throwing the ball around with friends, and at one point L.O. threw it hard against the door. As a result, the respondent took the ball away and put it into his closet, or anteroom. When classes ended that day, L.O. returned with J.P. to retrieve the ball. Mr. Smith was anxious to avoid damage, and he wanted to return the ball to L.O. himself. However, J.P. took the ball without asking and gave it to L.O., who put it behind his back and leaned back against the wall, with his hands free. When the respondent asked for the ball, L.O. said that he didn't have it, and he showed his empty hands.

Mr. Smith said that he then went behind L.O. to get the ball, and in doing so he made physical contact with him. L.O. lunged away and the ball fell; Mr. Smith picked the ball up, carried it to his office and closed the door behind him, with his back to L.O. He knew that L.O. had tried to prevent him from getting the ball, at which point the student could have ended up on the floor. However, Mr. Smith denied having put him there. He testified that when he turned around he saw L.O. on the floor and was baffled by his position. L.O. was cursing at him, and he was trying to discover why he seemed to be stuck there. Mr. Smith then saw that the hood of L.O.'s jacket had become wedged under the door, and he saw L.O. wiggle out of his jacket. The respondent wrote a disciplinary report and gave it to his superiors. L.O. was suspended thereafter. When asked to compare his version of the event with that related by L.O., Mr. Smith said that the student's account was not the truth and was not accurate.

When asked about the students' testimony that he often used profane language, Mr. Smith acknowledged that he sometimes did curse when students were disruptive, but he insisted that the worst words he used were "damn," "hell" and "shit." He said that despite the students' testimony to the contrary, he never used curse words beginning with "F." The respondent admitted that, on occasion, he has become angry enough to shout at the students.

Mr. Smith also spoke about the incident that occurred with J.P., who he said seemed to want to be disruptive. According to the respondent, J.P. entered class one day and sat on top of a desk, along with three or four other students who were all sitting on top of their desks. L.O. and J.P.-2 were two of the other students. When he asked them to sit down, L.O. and J.P.-2 obeyed, but J.P. refused and remained sitting on the desk. The respondent said that when J.P. did not respond to further requests, he touched him gently, not aggressively, on his upper arms or shoulders with both hands. He was surprised to then see J.P. lean far back on the desk, sink down and fall down on the floor. Because the floor was slippery, some chairs and desks behind J.P. slid along the floor. Mr. Smith said that he helped J.P. up, but he never struck him. He opined that J.P. did not seem particularly bothered by the incident at the time, and said that the class was not disrupted.

The respondent testified further about the incident related by B.G., who is not included in the charges, but who testified as a separate witness. He said that B.G. jumped up on an empty hand truck that had been used to move chairs. B.G. was using the hand truck as a sort of skateboard. Mr. Smith repeatedly asked B.G. to stop and get off, but he did not. The respondent then approached B.G., put his arm across B.G.'s shoulder, and said "stop." B.G. stopped and got off. Respondent said that he did not grab him in a choke hold, but he came up behind him, put his right arm around him and grasped the top of his shoulder, not aggressively. His goal was to stop the motion of the truck, with B.G. on it. He said that the witness, J.G., who testified about what she saw, might have misperceived the encounter.

The next student incident that Mr. Smith testified about was the one involving H.P., who kept running in the gym on a slippery floor, after repeated requests to stop. The respondent said that H.P. fell over his own feet, and that he went over to him and pulled him up. In fact, respondent said that he was thirty or forty feet away when he saw H.P. fall. He denied having cursed at the student, and he had no idea why H.P. would say that Mr. Smith tripped him.

The respondent then testified about the difficult relationship he had with his principal, Ms. Mendolla. In previous years, both of them had sought appointments to the same positions, acting vice principal, assistant principal and principal. Ms. Mendolla received all of the appointments, and he was awarded none of them. As a result, Mr. Smith felt that he was being discriminated against, and he made his dissatisfaction known. He did not hide his feelings and he was assertive. The respondent filed two complaints with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Both complaints were investigated and subsequently dismissed. Nevertheless, Mr. Smith felt that he was more than qualified for the positions.

After Ms. Mendolla became his principal, several attempts by him to speak to her were rebuffed. She told him that that there was an in-house policy that required an appointment, scheduled three weeks in advance, to see the principal. Exhibit R-12 was introduced to confirm the policy regarding the need for such appointments. In addition, Ms. Mendolla chastised the respondent for communicating directly with parents about students' behavior. The respondent referred to a discipline policy (R-3) that specifically states that a teacher may contact a parent or guardian of a student. Nevertheless, Ms. Mendolla sent him stern memos on the subject, and he answered with his own memoranda. Eight of these memos (R-4 through R-11) were marked in evidence. The respondent said that he tried to stay away from Ms. Mendolla because he regarded her as an administrative pariah, and he felt that the competition between them was unhealthy.

The respondent testified about another student complainant, K.C., who claimed that Mr. Smith hit him in the chest at least twenty times. Mr. Smith denied the incident, and he asserted that K.C. was a discipline problem in class. He recalled one occasion when he asked K.C. to sit down and to stop being disruptive. The student descended to the floor on his own, without being touched. Nevertheless, respondent opined that K.C. was articulate, personable and had academic potential.

When asked directly about the accusations made by each of the complaining students, Mr. Smith denied all of them except for the accounts he gave. He specifically denied the charges leveled by J.P., M.C., H.P., L.O. and K.C. He also denied the accounts of his severe cursing, except as he related above.

The respondent was cross-examined extensively. First, he furnished more details about the incident with L.O. on January 7, 1994. He said that his account was not much different from that of L.O., except that the student said Mr. Smith grabbed him and threw him down. The respondent disagreed, saying he reached behind L.O. to get the ball and L.O. lunged away, enabling him to pick up the ball and take it into his office. The respondent said that L.O. must have fallen onto the floor at that point, when he had his back to him and was closing the door. Mr. Smith insisted that his back was turned and he was surprised that the student ended up on the floor. He said that he never saw the descent onto the floor happen because he was proceeding directly into his office with the ball. He had no idea how the jacket became caught in the door that he had partially closed behind him. Mr. Smith said that he just leaned into his office, put the ball in, turned and came back out into the classroom. He then saw that L.O.'s hood was caught in the hinge side of the door frame. He first saw and heard L.O. curse when he turned around.

The respondent said that L.O. then asked for a pass to see the school nurse, and he wrote it for him. According to Mr. Smith, L.O. left, came back quickly and then resumed cursing and spitting at him. In the midst of writing his report at the end of the day, the respondent brought the ball to Ms. Mendolla's office and gave it to her. That evidently occurred after L.O. had already conferred with Ms. Mendolla about the incident.

Mr. Smith said that he did not recall telling Ms. Mendolla that he might have pushed L.O. too hard. He only remembers that he used his hands trying to get the ball from the student. He did not think that he pushed him while doing so. Respondent acknowledged that he became angry with L.O. because of his resistance in giving up the ball, and because of his spitting and cursing.

When asked again about the incident involving B.G. and the hand truck, Mr. Smith said that some students would periodically crash the cart into walls, seemingly on purpose. He said that he had repeatedly asked B.G. to stop skating with the cart, but he did not. At the time he touched the student, the cart had momentarily stopped moving, but B.G. was trying to get it moving again by using his legs and body. He did not think that B.G. believed he was trying to hurt him or choke him when he put his arm around his upper chest and onto his shoulder.

Repeating his denial of involvement when H.P. fell while running in the gym, Mr. Smith again affirmed that he was thirty-five to forty feet away from H.P. at the time, and that he had nothing to do with the fall.

Discussing, on cross-examination, his difficulties with Ms. Mendolla, Mr. Smith said that he began applying for administrative positions in 1985, after he received his master's degree, but he was never offered those positions. The respondent said that although he applied over and over, others with less qualifications, skills and credentials succeeded, while he did not.

The respondent said that he when called Ms. Mendolla a pariah, he meant that she was someone to stay away from. When asked about their respective abilities, Mr. Smith said that he thought that Ms. Mendolla's administrative talents were inferior, and that he could do better. In Exhibit R-4, Mr. Smith directly accused Ms. Mendolla of having occluded vision. He acknowledged that this might have been unwise, tactless and very confrontational. He also accused her of abusing authority and sending inappropriate signals. In fact, he even had five students sign his memorandum severely criticizing the principal.

Asked again about his use of profanity, Mr. Smith repeated that he had, on occasion, used the words "hell," "damn" and "shit" in the classroom. He also said that he could recall telling a student to stop "acting like a jackass," but he denies ever having called anyone a "jackass" directly. As a final statement, Mr. Smith repeated that, in the fourteen years of his teaching career at the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School, he incurred no disciplinary actions of any kind and no complaints were filed against him, until the 1993-94 events involving the subject group of ninth-grade students.

The principal, Barbara Mendolla, was recalled as a rebuttal witness. She related more facts concerning the L.O. incident, and she confirmed that Mr. Smith had said "Perhaps I pushed him too hard," which she wrote on the bottom of the report. When asked about her investigation of the incident, Ms. Mendolla said that she spoke to L.O. first, and then asked someone to have Mr. Smith report to her.

J.P. was also recalled as a rebuttal witness. He indicated that he never said that Mr. Smith kicked him or hit him in the chest or face, only that he poked him and threw him over some chairs. In addition, J.P. denied bragging that he would get the respondent fired. It is noted that J.P. was obviously much bigger and much heavier than Mr. Smith.

A student, G.G., also called as a rebuttal witness, testified that he saw the incident involving J.P. He said that Mr. Smith told J.P. to sit down and J.P. refused. According to G.G., the respondent then poked at J.P., picked him up and threw him over a group of desks.

When cross-examined, G.G. acknowledged that he is a friend of J.P.'s and that the only people present at the time of the J.P. incident were Mr. Smith, J.P. and himself. G.G. acknowledged that J.P. is much bigger and heavier than Mr. Smith, but he said that even so, the respondent picked J.P. up and threw him over three desks.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The uncontested facts related in the foregoing discussion, such as the respondent's teaching position, class assignments and length of service, are incorporated herein by reference without the need for repetition.

There are six specific student charges (a seventh - F.R. - was withdrawn during the hearing), each of which emanates from a group of ninth-grade students in the respondent's class during the 1993-94 school year, up to the end of January 1994. The six charges are identified by the names (initials) of the students. Another charge involves verbal abuse - cursing at students.

Re J.P.: This charge alleges that respondent punched J.P. in the chest on two occasions. The testimony in support of these charges was that Mr. Smith wanted J.P. to sit down, which he refused to do, and that the respondent then poked him in the chest and threw him over three chairs or desks, after punching him, kicking him and beating him up.

It is found to be FACT that the above account was grossly exaggerated and unlikely. The respondent did touch or push J.P. on the shoulders with both hands, trying to get him down from a desk he was sitting on. J.P. leaned back and slid onto the floor, dislodging some nearby chairs. That fall onto the floor was J.P.'s own doing, and he was not propelled there by Mr. Smith. It is also found as fact that J.P. is much bigger and heavier than the respondent, and it is highly unlikely that Mr. Smith could pick him up, let alone throw him.

Re E.J.: This charge alleges that in October 1993 the respondent struck E.J. in the chest and cursed at him.

At the hearing E.J. did not testify, and the only evidence adduced regarding this charge was hearsay from Mr. Pecklers. See Conclusions, infra, where this charge will be dismissed for lack of proof.

Re M.C.: This charge alleges that in September 1993 M.C. was physically assaulted by Mr. Smith.

At the hearing M.C. did not testify, and no direct evidence of the charge was adduced, except for the hearsay testimony of Mr. Pecklers. See Conclusions, infra, where this charge will be dismissed for lack of proof.

Re H.P.: This charge alleges that H.P. was physically assaulted by Mr. Smith in October 1993.

The evidence indicates and it is found to be FACT that H.P. tripped and fell while running in the gym, after ignoring Mr. Smith's orders to stop. H.P. alleged that the respondent tripped him and held him down by placing his knee on his chest. Respondent testified that H.P. tripped over his own feet when he and H.P. were thirty to forty feet apart, and that he helped H.P. up. No report was made of the incident, and there was no corroborating testimony, even though the incident occurred in a gym class full of students.

Based on the above, it will be concluded, infra, that the petitioner did not carry its burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence as to this charge.

Re L.O.: This is the most extensive charge, and the incident on January 7, 1994, was more than adequately discussed above. L.O. claims that he was physically assaulted by the respondent.

The FACTS are: Mr. Smith took a football away from L.O. early in the day and held it in his anteroom. At the end of the day, L.O. took the ball away from respondent's custody without asking and then taunted the respondent by putting it behind his back and pretending he did not have it. Mr. Smith went behind L.O. to get the ball back from him. L.O. resisted, there was a struggle for the ball, and L.O. ended up on the floor. The respondent put the ball in the ante-room and closed the door behind him without looking back, and L.O.'s hood became caught under the door. L.O. was not injured, and his trip to the nurse was a mere distraction. No report was received from the nurse or from anyone else, including L.O., regarding an injury. L.O. kicked the door, threw an eraser, and cursed and spit at Mr. Smith after the incident.

L.O. was often disruptive, unduly aggressive, highly emotional and given to the free use of obscene language. He was a difficult student to deal with.

Several days after he testified at the hearing, but before the hearing ended, L.O. said that he and other students were "trying to get Smith out."

Re K.C.: This charge alleges that K.C. was physically assaulted by Mr. Smith on three occasions during the school year.

It is found to be FACT that K.C.'s testimony was that on one occasion the respondent hit him in the chest twenty times or more while in the entrance to the gym locker room. The respondent denies touching K.C., but recalls one incident when K.C. was disruptive and slithered to the floor on his own after being asked to sit down. No one else testified about the alleged incident, and no report was made to anyone by K.C. at or about the time of the occurrence. The evidence on this charge is in equipoise.

Respondent indicated that K.C. was a disciplinary problem, but also said that he was articulate, personable and had academic potential.

Re one additional charge not involving a particular student, but related to all or many of respondent's students: This charge alleges that Mr. Smith regularly engaged in a pattern of verbal abuse, including cursing at his students.

It is found to be FACT that Mr. Smith did, on occasions when he had difficulty controlling students and was provoked and defied by them, utter improper and unseemly words and remarks. He admitted to the use of such words, but, based on all the evidence, he did not use the extreme profanity attributed to him by some of the students. He did use some curses in relation to his principal, Ms. Mendolla, but that behavior is not included in the charges.

It is also found to be FACT that several of the involved students bragged, individually and as part of the group, that they were going to see to it that Mr. Smith lost his job. Some of these comments were made during and after the students testified at the hearing, as well as soon after the reported incidents. This is accepted as fact because it was heard and testified to by more than one witness, including a student.

The evidence relating to a student who is not involved in the charges, B.G., dealing with one occasion when the respondent allegedly stopped him forcibly from "skateboarding" on a hand cart, is not considered herein because the charges do not include that alleged incident.

It is further found to be an uncontested FACT that prior to the approximate five-month period involved in the charges, the respondent served in his position at the same school for approximately fourteen years with no disciplinary actions or complaints against him, and no evidence was submitted that indicates that his evaluations were anything but satisfactory or better.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In any case involving tenure charges, a board of education has the burden of proving the truth of the charge or charges by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence. In re Tenure Hearing of Dusel, Sayreville Sch. Dist., 1978 S.L.D. 526; In re Tenure Hearing of Ribacka, Sussex-Wantage Regional Sch. Dist., 1978 S.L.D. 929; In re Tenure Hearing of Brown, Bayonne Sch. Dist., 1970 S.L.D. 239.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, dealing with the tenure of teaching staff members, provides:

> The services of all teaching staff members including all teachers . . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member or other just cause . . . .
> [See also N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29.]

If it is determined that the charges or any of them are true, it then becomes necessary to address the question of the appropriate penalty. The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, speaks of dismissal or reduction in compensation. Factors to be taken into account in making a penalty determination include the nature and circumstances of the incidents or charges, the teacher's prior record and present attitude, the effect of such conduct on the maintenance of discipline among the students, and the likelihood of such behavior recurring. In re Tenure Hearing of Ostergren, Franklin Township Sch. Dist., 1966 S.L.D. 185, 187; In re Tenure Hearing of Kittell, Little Silver Sch. Dist., 1972 S.L.D. 535, 541; In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967).

Also, in determining the respondent's fitness to continue in the position, the pronouncement in Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944), serves as a concise guideline:

> Unfitness for a task is best shown by numerous incidents. Unfitness for a position under the school system is best evidenced by a series of incidents. Unfitness to hold a post might be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it might also be shown by many incidents. Fitness may be shown either way.

The subject of corporal punishment is embodied in the following statute:

> No person, employed or engaged in a school or educational institution, whether public or private, shall inflict or cause to be inflicted corporal punishment upon a pupil attending such school or institution; but any such person may, within the scope of his employment, use and apply such amounts of force as is reasonable and necessary:
> (1) to quell a disturbance, threatening physical injury to others;
>
> (2) to obtain possession of weapons or other dangerous objects upon the person or within the control of a pupil;
> (3) for the purpose of self-defense; and
>
> (4) for the protection of persons or property;
>
> and such acts, or any of them, shall not be construed to constitute corporal punishment . . . .

A statement by the Commissioner of Education in In re Tenure Hearing of Lomakin, 1971 S.L.D. 331, 334, is instructive:

> In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Thomas Appleby, decided by the Commissioner of Education November 25, 1969, the Commissioner said:
> > "'While the Commissioner understands the exasperations and frustrations that often accompany the teacher's functions, he cannot condone resort to force and fear as appropriate procedures in dealing > with pupils, even those whose recalcitrance appears to be open defiance. The Commissioner defines in the century-old statute prohibiting corporal punishment (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1) an underlying philosophy that an individual has a right not only to freedom from bodily harm but also freedom from offensive bodily touching even though there be no actual physical harm. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frederick L. Ostergren, 1966 S.L.D. 185, 186.'"

> "'that such a philosophy with its prohibition of the use of corporal punishment or physical enforcement does not leave a teacher helpless to control his pupils. Competent teachers never find it necessary to resort to physical force or violence to maintain discipline or compel obedience. If all other means fail there is always a resort to removal from the classroom or school through suspension or expulsion. The Commissioner cannot find any justification for, nor can he condone the use of physical force by a teacher to maintain discipline or to punish infractions.'" Ostergren, supra and, also:

> "Thus, when teachers resort 'to unnecessary and inappropriate physical contact with those in their charge (they) must expect to face dismissal or other severe penalty.'" Ostergren, supra.'"

[See also In re Tenure Hearing of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321.]

A review of the evidence in this matter indicates that the only direct evidence in support of the charges came from the students themselves, most of whom were in their early or mid teens. In assessing the testimony of young students, great caution must be exercised. In drawing conclusions under such circumstances, the hearer is particularly mindful of his responsibility to assure that the conclusions and resulting decisions are supported by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

As stated by the State Board of Education in In re Tenure Hearing of Deetz, Ridgewood School District, 1984 S.L.D. 1923, 1926, aff'd, No. A-1264-84T5 (App. Div. May 10, 1985), certif. denied, 101 N.J. 321 (1985):

> Although we recognize that corroboration of student testimony is not required, it has long been established that student testimony must be examined with great caution. See, e.g. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Portia Williams, decided by the Commissioner August 27, 1981, aff'd State Board March 24, 1982, aff'd Docket. No. A-4036-81T3 (App. Div. Dec. 15, 1982).

Based on all the foregoing, it is CONCLUDED that, as to J.P., the respondent did make physical contact, with his hands, on the young man's shoulders after he refused to get down from a desk that he was sitting on. That was the extent of the physical contact. However, J.P. then leaned back and slipped onto the floor, dislodging some other chairs. The fall most likely resulted from the student's own action, and he was not pushed over by Mr. Smith. The testimony indicating that the respondent threw J.P. over chairs or desks is not believable, particularly in view of the fact that J.P. is much bigger and heavier than Mr. Smith. The actual physical contact was not intended to harm the student, but rather to maintain order in the classroom.

As to E.J., it is CONCLUDED that the charge has not been proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence, and should be DISMISSED.

As to M.C., it is CONCLUDED that the charge has not been proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence, and should be DISMISSED.

As to H.P., it is CONCLUDED that the charge has not been proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence, and should be DISMISSED.

As to L.O., it is CONCLUDED that the respondent did use physical force to get the football away from him, which might have contributed to the student's fall onto the floor. Mr. Smith should have avoided the degree of physical contact that he engaged in with this student, even though L.O.'s conduct and physical disobedience deliberately provoked him. However, it is also CONCLUDED that Mr. Smith's action toward L.O. was not designed to harm him, but more to maintain order in the face of physical disobedience. Nevertheless, to the extent that the respondent's use of force was excessive, it was unbecoming conduct.

As to K.C., it is CONCLUDED that the charge has not been proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence, and should be DISMISSED.

The particular students involved in this matter were, for the most part, disorderly and difficult to control. Furthermore, their disobedience transcended mere refusal to obey and obscene argument. They often acted physically, such as throwing a football in class and striking the door. Some point was reached, on occasion, when it may have been necessary for the teacher to react physically, but not to initiate it, in order to maintain order and safety and to protect other students from harm, but only with enough restraint so that the degree of force used was not excessive.

Over the course of five days of hearing and observation, it was noted that Mr. Smith is a slight man, who uses pretentious language. Most of the involved students are larger and heavier. The evidence indicated that they taunted and provoked him with their behavior. The fact that he sometimes needed to react physically to the students' physical challenges does not excuse any excessive use of force, but the line is a fine one. The comment he made to his principal, "Perhaps I pushed him too hard," evidences the respondent's own understanding that he might have overreacted on that single occasion.

It is not necessarily concluded that the bragging of some of the students that they would "get Mr. Smith out" proved the existence of a well-knit conspiracy to fabricate testimony in order to cause the respondent's dismissal. However, a collective state of mind existed among the students which contributed to and encouraged Mr. Smith's behavior toward them, and illustrated their delight at the prospect of his removal as a teacher. These comments depreciated the quality of their testimony. In addition, there were often disquieting feelings during the students' testimony that their descriptions of incidents were too pat and seemingly rehearsed.

It became obvious that Mr. Smith's need to control difficult and unruly students must have often tried his patience, since he does not appear to be a "rough and ready" type of man. His rather diminutive stature and his tendency to speak precisely and with an air of intellectual pomposity would have exacerbated the contemptuous manner in which the students treated him and afforded them some delight at the prospect of "getting him out."

Nevertheless, Mr. Smith should have exercised more restraint, and he should have avoided physical contact in those instances related above, even though he was deliberately provoked and challenged. Unfortunately, he did not do so, and those intemperate instances constituted unbecoming conduct.

As for the profanity sometimes used by the respondent, which included unseemly remarks about his principal, again, Mr. Smith should have exercised greater restraint. His use of such language was unbecoming conduct.

Mr. Smith's relations with his principal, who continually bested him in securing promotions, were extremely unpolitic and harsh, almost self-destructive, considering the employment relationship. However, these difficulties were unrelated to the issues contained in the charges.

PENALTY

As indicated above, the applicable tenure laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29, do not necessarily require dismissal upon proof of unbecoming conduct, but allow a reduction in compensation as a lesser penalty. While the events related above have led to a conclusion that the respondent was guilty of unbecoming conduct, mitigating circumstances also exist. Mr. Smith enjoyed an unblemished record for fourteen years, prior to the five months involved in the charges. His students during those five months were obviously more than just difficult, and he had to deal with them alone, without a teacher's aide, and with no training in special education.

On the other hand, there is no question that a teacher's conduct must be held to very high standards. See In re Tenure Hearing of Talley, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 395, where it was held that teachers, as role models, are expected to exercise exemplary restraint and mature self-control. Nevertheless, there have been many instances when unbecoming conduct by a teacher, which includes inappropriate physical contact between a teacher and a student, has resulted in a lesser penalty than termination. See New Brunswick Bd. of Educ. v. Murphy, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 527; Randolph Township Bd. of Educ. v. DiPillo, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 13; In re Tenure Hearing of Boyd, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 445; In re Fulcomer, supra, 93 N.J. Super. 404.

In In re Fulcomer, a teacher laid hands on and restrained a student. When the boy ran toward the door to leave the classroom, the teacher pursued him and again restrained him physically, causing both of them to fall to the floor. In its decision, the court noted the teacher's age, the relatively short time he had left until retirement, and the fact that he enjoyed a long record of unblemished teaching experience. While finding the teacher's conduct to be hasty and misguided, the court found termination to be unduly harsh under the circumstances.

In the instant matter, it is ultimately CONCLUDED that, while the respondent's conduct in the instances related above was inappropriate and unbecoming a teaching staff member, termination is too severe a penalty. Instead, a reduction in salary is more appropriate.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the respondent should be reinstated to his position at the same annual salary that he was paid at the time of his suspension, without benefit of any employment and adjustment increments that he might have been entitled to during the intervening period of time. Respondent shall also forfeit the 120 days' pay withheld during his suspension. In addition, respondent shall not be credited with any sick leave, personal leave or other benefits that might have ordinarily accrued during the period of his suspension, up to the time of reinstatement.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ELBERT SMITH,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE HUDSON	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
COUNTY AREA VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL	:	DECISION
SCHOOLS, HUDSON COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board has not met its burden of proof with regard to the charges relating to the incidents involving E.J., M.C., H.P., or K.C. Although this matter turns to a great extent on the credibility of witnesses and the weighing of evidence, the Commissioner is satisfied, based upon his review of the record, that the ALJ considered all testimony and weighted it according to the credibility of the witnesses and the plausibility of its content. The Commissioner finds no basis in the record for overturning the credibility assessments of the ALJ who had the benefit of observing the witnesses firsthand.

The Commissioner also agrees with the ALJ's assessment concerning respondent's physical contact with L.O. and J.P., in those respective incidents, "Mr. Smith should have exercised more restraint, and he should have avoided physical contact in those instances related above, even though he was deliberately provoked and challenged. Unfortunately, he did not do so, and those intemperate instances constituted unbecoming conduct." (Initial Decision at p. 30) Likewise, the ALJ correctly observed "As for the profanity sometimes used by the respondent, which included unseemly remarks about his principal, again, Mr. Smith should have exercised greater restraint. His use of such language was unbecoming conduct." (Id.) In reaching his determinations herein, the Commissioner was particularly cognizant that it has long been recognized that there is a unique degree of self discipline demanded of a teaching staff member, notwithstanding deliberate provocation on the part of recalcitrant students

> While teachers are sensitive to the same emotional stresses as all other persons, their particular relationship to children imposes upon them a special responsibility for exemplary restraint and mature self-control. (1962 S.L.D. at 162)

With regard to the evaluation/determination of the appropriate penalty to be imposed in this matter, the Commissioner is mindful that he is required to consider respondent's prior record in the District, the nature and gravity of his offenses under all the circumstances involved, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation and must consider any harm or injurious effect which his conduct may have had in the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421-22 (App. Div. 1967). Having considered the proven charges and all of the remaining factors, the Commissioner concludes, as did the ALJ, that respondent's conduct, although serious and unprofessional, does not warrant his dismissal from his tenured position. Notwithstanding, he finds that it is necessary to impress upon respondent and others the seriousness of the conduct at issue herein and he, therefore, concurs with the ALJ's recommendation that respondent should suffer the loss of his employment and adjustment increments* and the loss of the 120 days' salary withheld pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 following certification of tenure charges.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed, as modified herein, for the reasons expressed therein. The Commissioner hereby directs that respondent forfeit the 120 days' salary withheld following certification of the instant tenure charges, as well as benefits accrued during the period of his suspension, and that he be denied his salary and adjustment increments for the 1996-97 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* It is, however, noted that as respondent had no entitlement to receive a salary amount that included an award of increments during his suspension following the Board's certification of tenure charges, (see In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Anthony Castaldo, decided by the State Board, 1986 S.L.D. 3026) such employment and adjustment increment loss must be prospectively applied.

ORDER DENYING APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

AGENCY DKT. NO. 207-6/96

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,

Respondent.

Charles P. Allen, Jr., Esq., for petitioner

John G. Dyer, III, Esq., for respondent

This matter commenced on June 10, 1996, when the Township Council of the Township of Ewing (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging, inter alia, that the Ewing Township Board of Education (hereinafter respondent) immediately upon learning of petitioner's resolution of May 13, 1996, reducing the amount to be raised by taxation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, "intentionally, and in bad faith, embarked on a spending plan which deviates significantly from that which it had proposed and published in an overt attempt to spend down the free balance so as to defeat" respondent's May 13, 1996 resolution.

Together with the petition, petitioner filed a notice of motion for emergent relief seeking an order enjoining respondent from entering into a contract for roof repairs to the Antheil School in the amount of $479,000 together with engineering costs, and from committing funds and or expending any funds beyond those already budgeted for necessary normal daily operations, etc. Petitioner also filed on June 10, 1996, a letter memorandum in support of the motion for an injunction. On June 14, 1996, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14-1 to -13. The file was transmitted without an answer or papers responding to the motion because unexpected hospitalization of respondent's attorney had prevented the filing of a response by that date. On June 19, 1996, respondent filed an answer to the petition, certifications of Leonard P. Kelpsh, Dennis Nettleton, Thomas N. Saltzgueber and Board Counsel, John G. Dyer, III. Also filed on that date was a letter memorandum opposing the motion for emergent relief. Oral argument on the motion for emergent relief was scheduled for June 20, 1996 at 1:30 p.m. At that time petitioner filed a certification of Charles P. Allen, Jr., Township attorney, in response to respondent's papers, together with a reply memorandum, dated June 20, 1996. Oral argument was conducted as scheduled. Petitioner's continued objections to the untimely submissions by respondent, even after it became aware of the medical conditions preventing respondent's attorney from filing earlier, were noted and overruled. Likewise overruled was petitioner's objection to the viewing of a video tape prepared by Roof Spec/Design, Inc., architects and roofing consultants employed by respondent to demonstrate the current condition of the roof at Antheil School. The video tape was viewed by all present and has been marked R-1 in evidence.

Based upon my review of the pleadings and papers on file, the responses of both counsel during oral argument and my review of the video tape, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not established that it is entitled to the relief which it seeks. Although petitioner alleges, in rather strong and sharp terms, that respondent has embarked on a plan to spend down the free balance in disregard of the jurisdiction of petitioner, when confronted with a direct question from the undersigned during oral argument, petitioner was forced to acknowledge that the "plan" consisted only of respondent's intention to proceed with performance of a contract for $479,000, plus $28,000 engineering costs, to repair the roof at Antheil School, with work commencing on June 24, 1996. There is absolutely no evidence to support petitioner's allegations of bad faith by respondent. The history of this contract as it appears from the documents on file is as follows: In November 1995, respondent received a report concerning the condition of the roofs on buildings in the district. After reviewing this report, respondent developed a five-year roof replacement/repair program. During one of the severe snow storms which occurred during the winter of 1995-1996, on February 25, 1996, the roof on the Ryan Administration Building literally blew off in large chunks; water had seeped between the roof and the roof deck making the roof susceptible to peeling during high winds. As a result of this dramatic incident, all the roofs were reinspected. An independent roofing consultant hired by respondent, Roof Spec/Design, Inc., advised respondent following this reinspection that the roof on Antheil School was as bad as the roof on the Ryan Administration Building. Thomas N. Saltzgueber, Executive Vice President of Roof Spec/Design, Inc., advised respondent that to avoid another potential catastrophic failure of the roofing system, such as the incident at the Ryan Administration Building, and to avoid potentially serious health concerns to the students in the building caused by the growth of mildew and other moisture-related bacteria between the water-saturated layers of the roof, that the Antheil roof should be replaced immediately rather than waiting for several years as previously planned. Thereafter, bid specifications for the Antheil roof were prepared and were received in the district on March 12, 1996. Respondent determined that the funds to pay for this project would be obtained from the expected proceeds from the sale of a building it no longer used or needed, Lanning School. An auction sale of the Lanning School occurred on the morning of March 29, 1996, and at that time the only bid, one for $525,000, was accepted. The Antheil roof project was advertised for bid the very next day, March 30, 1996. Bids were opened on April 10, 1996. All of the foregoing occurred before the Ewing Township Board of Education budget for 1996-97 was defeated at the annual school election on April 16, 1996. On May 6, 1996, respondent's superintendent, Leonard P. Kelpsh, specifically advised petitioner that the Antheil roof repairs were going to be made immediately rather than later and that the proceeds of the sale of Lanning School would be used to pay for the project.

On May 13, 1996, petitioner passed a resolution pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 reducing the amount to be raised by taxation by one million dollars. The reduction consisted of two items, first, reduction in line item expenditures for instructional salaries of $100,000 based upon savings to be realized by teacher attrition due to retirement and other personnel actions and, second, a reduction of $900,000 in the amount raised by taxation based upon petitioner's estimate of respondent's free balance available in June 1996. Petitioner apparently also calculated that the $525,000 from the sale of Lanning School would be available as part of the free balance in June 1996, notwithstanding that it had been advised of respondent's plans to use the proceeds to fund the Antheil roof. Respondent awarded the bid for the roof project on May 14, 1996. The work is scheduled to commence on Monday, June 24, 1996. The closing on the contract of sale for the Lanning School is also scheduled to take place on June 24, 1996.

Preliminarily, it should be noted that although petitioner is asking the Commissioner to enjoin the performance of the contract for roof repairs, it has not named or served the moving papers upon the contractor to whom the bid was awarded on May 14, 1996. Certainly the contractor has an interest in the subject of this action, and were the imposition of an injunction prohibiting performance of the contract to be seriously entertained, he would be required to have notice and an opportunity to be heard. The injunction can not issue, however, because there is no basis in fact or in law to support it.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.5(b) and Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) petitioner must show a substantial likelihood of success on the merits, likely irreparable harm in the absence of the relief requested and a balancing of the equities in its favor in terms of relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief. Petitioner cites Branchburg Bd. of Ed. v. Branchburg, 187 N.J. Super, 540 (App. Div. 1983), cert. den. 97 N.J. 506 (1983) and Board of Education of the Borough of Carteret, Middlesex County v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Carteret, Middlesex County, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 126 (1993) as the legal basis for its asserted right to prevent respondent from incurring contractual obligations and expending monies during the current budget year, a budget not subject to review by the council. In Branchburg, supra., the court found too restrictive the rulings of the Commissioner and State Board that actions of a township committee in reviewing a proposed budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 are limited to a consideration of the line items contained in the current expense budget which was rejected by the voters and that an increase in anticipated income or reduction in surplus by the township committee was outside the authority conferred by the statute. The court held that such a review must also involve a consideration of funds available from other sources to defray the necessary costs, including items of anticipated income and unappropriated free balance.* The fact that a township council may recalculate a board's anticipated income or surplus where the facts so warrant is not synonymous with the power to void contracts lawfully bid and awarded during a current school year. The facts as they appear in this matter do not support an inference that respondent entered into this contract after petitioner cut one million dollars from the school budget in an effort to make petitioner look bad. While in fact the bid was awarded the day after the council meeting; the award was simply the culmination of months of planning to address a problem which respondent had in good faith concluded was much more immediate than it had previously thought in November of 1995. The severe winter storms during the winter of 1995-96, the recommendations of an independent roofing expert, and the video tape of the deplorable, water-soaked conditions of the roof of the Antheil School prepared by the consultant, all support that good faith conclusion. In balancing the equities in this matter, they clearly preponderate in respondent's favor; there is not one shred of evidence that respondent acted in bad faith in awarding this contract. There is not an iota of proof that respondent exercised its authority in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. The roof contract appears to be a valid legal obligation for the current budget year 1995-96. An injunction or a voiding of the contract by the Commissioner would undoubtedly result in (justifiable) litigation by the contractor who has relied upon respondent's actions in preparing for performance commencing Monday, June 24, 1996. There is no hardship to petitioner. The budget appeal which has been filed by respondent with the Commissioner of Education will go forward; the school district audit will be completed, and a final budget will be determined in due course. The process should take place as intended by statute and all of the other issues raised in the within matter by petitioner will be addressed during the regular course of the budget appeal, with the exception of petitioner's request that respondent be required to provide courtesy bussing. Respondent moved for summary disposition of that issue at the oral argument in the within matter. Petitioner requested an opportunity to submit a legal memorandum before that motion is determined. Petitioner should have whatever it wishes to be considered on the issue filed with the undersigned no later than July 12, 1996. Petitioner's application for emergent relief is otherwise DENIED in its entirety.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING,	:
MOVANT,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON MOTION

The record of this matter, the audiotape of the hearing, and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Movant's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. No reply was filed by respondent.

Movant's exceptions primarily recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), contending, inter alia, that the respondent's commencement of roof repair at the Antheil School was in bad faith in that there was no immediate need to spend the entire fund balance that would arise from the sale of the Lanning School on this project. (Movant's Exceptions at pp. 1-2) Movant again avers that the Board contended the Antheil roof was to be repaired as part of a five-year plan, that there were other school roofs in the District more urgently in need of repair than the Antheil roof, and that the project at issue was at no time submitted to the voters for approval. (Id. at p. 2) In that these arguments were reviewed and addressed before the ALJ, they are not further summarized herein.

Movant also avers the ALJ incorrectly construed case law in denying Council the authority to effect spending in the 1995/96 fiscal year. It argues that the cases entitled, Branchburg Board of Education, supra, and Carteret Borough Board of Education, supra, require the Council to look to all sources of revenue and monies on hand which will impact the budget being reviewed. Thus, movant avers, the revenues from the sale of the school must necessarily be under the jurisdiction of the Council if the Board attempts to spend them subsequent to the Council's action. (Movant's Exceptions at pp. 2, 3) Lastly, movant argues that the contractor is not a necessary party to the question and is not entitled to participate in this matter as the dispute is between the public bodies concerning the use of proceeds from the sale of the Lanning School. Alternatively, it seeks that the contractor be joined and afforded "an opportunity to be heard as to whether injunction should issue as to the entire project and/or only as to a portion of the project, reducing its scope." (Id. at p. 3) A motion to effectuate such joining was subsequently filed with the Commissioner on June 26, 1996.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ denying emergent relief, as movant has failed on the record of the hearing to meet the standards for granting of such relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

It is well established that the granting of emergent relief is an extraordinary remedy which can only be awarded when the party seeking such relief demonstrates the existence of each of four separate conditions: 1) that in the absence of such emergent relief, the movant will suffer irreparable harm; 2) that there is a clear probability that the movant will prevail on the merits of the underlying controversy; 3) that the probability of harm to other persons will not be greater than the harm the movant will suffer in the absence of such stay; and 4) that the public interest will not be adversely affected by such a stay. Crowe, supra. The Commissioner finds that movant has failed to satisfy its burden in proving these elements.

While there is certainly merit to movant's claim of irreparable harm, in that permitting the Board to expend monies on which the Council relied as a revenue source in making its reductions pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 would effectively thwart the impact of Council's actions even if it prevailed before the Commissioner on the pending budget appeal, movant has failed in the record before the ALJ to substantiate its claims of bad faith with sufficient supporting evidence to demonstrate a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits. To the contrary, the record before the ALJ fully supports the findings and conclusions upon which she based her decision to deny emergent relief. In so holding, the Commissioner notes that movant appended unsworn documentation to its exceptions in support of its contention that the Board represented to Council, even as late as May 6, 1996, that the roof repair at issue was to be phased-in over a three-year period. However, this submission was not placed on record before the ALJ, so that the Commissioner may not consider it herein pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), which expressly precludes evidence not presented at hearing from being submitted in conjunction with exceptions.

Lastly, with regard to the weighing of interests, while the Council certainly has a legitimate interest in protecting its actions with respect to budget reductions made on behalf of the electorate which defeated the school budget, the Commissioner cannot ignore the competing interests of the Board, which must act to ensure provision of the safe school environment to which the students and employees of the District are entitled. In this context, the Commissioner notes that the Council in its moving papers made no allegation that the roof repair at issue was unnecessary for T&E and, accordingly, although this issue was alluded to during emergent proceedings herein, it was not squarely addressed.

With respect to this issue, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the question of T&E necessity is a matter properly addressed on its merits within the context of the budget appeal presently pending before the Commissioner. In so holding, the Commissioner denies the Council's Motion to join G&M Eastern, Inc., as a respondent in further proceedings, as, given the denial of emergent relief herein, the roofing contractor would be neither a necessary nor an appropriate party to budget appeal proceedings.

Finally, with regard to a board's ability to spend money during the current budget year subsequent to municipal action to reduce the subsequent year's budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Commissioner expressly rejects any contention that a municipality has "jurisdiction" over school district funds, that is, the independent authority to direct a board to spend funds in a particular way, or prevent their expenditure. He affirms, however, that a municipality may certainly apply to the Commissioner for an injunction, as the Council has done herein, if it believes that the board is deliberately spending down relied-upon surpluses and revenues or otherwise attempting to thwart municipal budget cuts prior to the Commissioner's determination on appeal.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's initial decision on motion for emergent relief as further explicated herein, denying extraordinary restraints and providing for no further proceedings at OAL on those counts of the emergent application regarding the disputed roof repair; he further denies as unnecessary the Council's motion to join the district's roofing contractor as a party to further proceedings. This matter shall now duly proceed at OAL on the courtesy busing issue in accordance with the ALJ's recommendation, and further argument on the merits of the parties' claims regarding use of the proceeds from the sale of Lanning School shall be made and addressed within the context of the budget appeal presently pending before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.1 et seq.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning aunt alleged that her nephew, S.S., was wrongfully denied access to school due to residency dispute.

Since petitioner did not file an answer to respondent's counterclaim, did not appear for the prehearing conference, and did not respond to the motion to enter default, each count in the counterclaim was deemed to be admitted and the matter was decided by way of summary judgment. Thus, the ALJ found that M.D. failed to satisfy the statutory criteria for affidavit pupil admission as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. ALJ concluded that M.D. had to be assessed tuition for the period of S.S.'s ineligible attendance in respondent's schools.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and ordered M.D. to pay the District the tuition owed. Petition filed by M.D. was dismissed.

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

This matter involves a petition by M.D. (petitioner) seeking relief from a determination of the Board of Education of the School District of South Orange and Maplewood (respondent) that her nephew, S.S., does not meet the requirements as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) for a free public education in respondent's schools. Respondent continues to deny that S.S. is eligible for a free public education and counterclaims against M.D. and against S.S.'s mother, M.S., for payment of tuition during the period of ineligible attendance.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed an amended petition with the Commissioner of Education on September 25, 1995 pursuant to the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies concerning the school laws under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Respondent filed an amended answer and counterclaim on October 13, 1995, naming M.D. and M.S. as counterclaim respondents. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 18, 1995 for determination as a contested case.

An in-person prehearing conference was scheduled for February 22, 1996 at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey. Prior to the prehearing conference, respondent filed a notice of motion to enter default against M.S. for failure to answer the amended counterclaim.

M.D. and M.S. did not appear for the prehearing conference on February 22, 1996. It may be noted that M.S. was not listed as a party on the transmittal sheet from the Department of Education and was not sent notice thereof. During a brief conversation, the undersigned advised counsel for respondent that the notice of motion to enter default pertained only to M.S. and did not mention M.D. On February 26, 1996, respondent filed a notice of motion to enter default against M.D. for failure to answer the amended counterclaim. M.S. and M.D. did not respond to respondent's motions.

From a review of the file, it was not apparent to the undersigned that M.S., who is a resident of Bermuda, is properly a party to this proceeding. As a result, the undersigned directed respondent to set forth the legal basis for the counterclaim against M.S. Respondent responded by letter dated May 16, 1996, requesting leave to amend the pleadings to include a third-party petition naming M.S. as a respondent or to file a separate petition, naming M.S. as respondent, to be consolidated with this matter. The record closed on June 6, 1996, when respondent was advised that its request to amend the pleadings in this matter was denied.

Respondent's amended counterclaim and motion to enter default against M.S. raise the question whether she is properly a party to this proceeding. For the following reasons, I conclude that M.S. is not properly a party to this proceeding.

Respondent's characterization of the claim against M.S. as a counterclaim is not accurate. In accordance with R. 4:7-1, a counterclaim is a claim against an opposing party. Here, M.S. is not an opposing party. Rather, the action against M.S. is a form of third party practice which is permitted in the courts pursuant to R. 4:8-1 to -2. However, third party practice is not permitted under the New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, unless there is a specific statutory authorization. N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a). The pertinent statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, does not expressly permit third party practice in administrative hearings. It follows that M.S. is not properly a party to this proceeding.

Additionally, a petition must be adequately served upon a respondent. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, and the petitioner must provide proof of service. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(b). In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(b)4, a receipt for certified mailing constitutes proof of service. Here, respondent sent the amended counterclaim and the motion to enter default to M.S. by certified mail. However, M.S. lives in Bermuda, which is a foreign country. In order to achieve service of process on a resident of a foreign country, a party must comply with international conventions. See, Gapanovich v. Komori Corp., 255 N.J.Super. 607 (App. Div. 1992). Here, respondent has not demonstrated that it has complied with international conventions with respect to the service of process upon M.S.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that M.S. is not properly a party to this proceeding. Therefore, the motion to enter default must be denied, and the amended counterclaim against M.S. must be dismissed.

M.D. did not file an answer to respondent's counterclaim, did not appear for the prehearing conference on February 22, 1996, and did not respond to the motion to enter default. Where a party fails to file an answer to a petition, each count therein is deemed to be admitted, and the matter is decided by way of summary judgment. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4(e). Here, M.D.'s petition and respondent's counterclaim, each count of which is deemed to be admitted, clearly indicate that S.S.'s mother is a resident of Bermuda, that M.D. is a resident within respondent's school district, that M.D. entered S.S. in respondent's schools, that S.S. attends school in respondent's district and that M.D. failed to satisfy the statutory criteria for affidavit pupil admission as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Where a resident enrolls a child who is ineligible as an affidavit student, the resident shall be assessed tuition for that student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that M.D. must be assessed tuition for the period of S.S.'s ineligible attendance in respondent's schools.

Where a party fails to appear at any proceeding, the judge may direct the Clerk to return the matter to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a). Here, M.D. failed to appear for the prehearing conference on February 22, 1996. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that M.D.'s petition should be returned to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Respondent's motion to enter default against M.S. is denied, and the amended counterclaim against M.S. is dismissed.

2. M.D. shall pay to respondent the amount of tuition for the period of S.S.'s ineligible attendance in respondent's schools.

3. M.D.'s petition in this matter will be returned to the Department of Education for appropriate disposition.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Dear Counselor Butler:

I am in receipt of your letter dated May 15, 1996, in which you request leave to amend the pleadings in the above-mentioned matter to include a third-party petition naming Maxine Simmons as respondent, or alternatively, to file a separate petition naming Maxine Simmons as respondent to be consolidated with this matter. Please be advised that I am denying your request for the following reasons.

First, third-party practice is generally not permitted in administrative hearings. N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a). Therefore, leave will not be granted to file a third-party petition against Maxine Simmons. Second, while you may file a petition against Maxine Simmons with the Commissioner of Education, consolidation with the pending matter would not be advisable, considering that Ms. Denson has already failed to answer the counterclaim, failed to appear for the prehearing conference and failed to respond to the motion to enter default. Accordingly, your request is denied.

Very truly yours,

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) advisement of M.S.'s failure to appear was transmitted to the Commissioner by the OAL pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, along with the record which supports the ALJ's finding that improper service was effectuated upon M.S. Accordingly, upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs that the amended counterclaim against M.S. must be hereby dismissed with prejudice.

Additionally, in that M.D. did not answer respondent's counterclaim, appear for the prehearing conference on February 22, 1996, or respond to the motion to enter default, in contravention of the directives of the ALJ, the Commissioner concurs that the entrance of a default judgment against M.D. is appropriate in the instant case.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4(e), each count of the Board's counterclaim charges against M.D. is deemed to be admitted and M.D. is hereby ordered to pay to the District tuition for the period of minor child S.S.'s illegal attendance in the public schools of the South Orange and Maplewood School District. The petition filed by M.D. is dismissed with prejudice due to her failure to appear or otherwise comply with the directives of the ALJ.

AGENCY DKT. NOS. 60-3/95 AND 179-5/95
(Consolidated)

STIPULATION DISMISSING CHARGES AND DISMISSING APPEAL FROM INCREMENT WITHHOLDING

THIS STIPULATION OF DISMISSAL is entered into by and between the Board of Education of the Borough of Paulsboro (hereinafter "Board") and its tenured employee Howard Massey (hereinafter "Massey"); and,

WHEREAS, Massey has been continuously employed by the Board as a teaching staff member since September, 1966; and,

WHEREAS, on March 14, 1995, the Board certified to the Commissioner of Education charges against Massey which it felt under the circumstances, if true, were sufficient to warrant a reduction in salary, captioned In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Howard Massey, Board of Education, Borough of Paulsboro, Gloucester County, OAL Docket No. EDUTH 04319-95S, Agency Ref. No.

60-3/95; and,

WHEREAS, Massey on April 6, 1995, filed an Answer to the charges denying the allegations as stated; and,

WHEREAS, on April 11, 1995, the Board acted to withhold Massey's salary adjustment for the 1995-96 year; and,

WHEREAS, on May 24, 1995, Massey filed a Petition of Appeal, alleging that the Board arbitrarily withheld his salary adjustment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, captioned Howard Massey v. Board of Education for the Borough of Paulsboro, Gloucester County, OAL Docket No. EDUOR 06-666-95S, Agency Ref. No. 179-5-95; and,

WHEREAS, on June 5, 1995, the Board filed its Answer to the Petition of Appeal denying the allegations; and,

WHEREAS, on January 23, 1996, the Honorable Lillard E. Law, A.L.J. entered an Order consolidating the Board's action seeking to reduce Massey's salary and the Petition of Appeal filed by Massey from the Board's action withholding his salary adjustment; and,

WHEREAS, the Board having instituted the charges based upon initial information received from others concerning Massey's interaction with students, having determined that if in the event the allegations were true that Massey's salary should be reduced; and subsequent to the placing of this matter into litigation, during the "discovery" phase and in preparation for hearing, having conducted a more detailed and full independent investigation into the allegations, having obtained all relevant information and documentation; and the Board's representatives having communicated with students and parents of students as to the alleged occurrences; and recognizing the fact that Massey's job of computer keyboarding instructor by its very nature involved close contact with students and at times individualized instruction; and having reached a determination that in light of this subsequent and full investigation that the allegations against Massey of improper contact as originally stated were not sustainable, but that as admitted by Massey on isolated occasion he would in a non-injurious, non-threatening, playful and friendly manner pat or tap a student on the head area to establish a mutual camaraderie with the student; and Massey recognizing that such contact would not continue or ever re-occur; and,

WHEREAS this full investigation of all the evidence that might be presented during the tenure hearing having provided the Board with the opportunity to explore a means of resolving this dispute in a manner consonant with the public interest; and in light of the commendable employment record of Massey and his long-standing tenure of some 29 years; his dedication and contributions to the youth of the Paulsboro community in the form of scholarships and activities in organizations promoting the betterment of youth; and the fact that no further incident has occurred subsequent to the initiation of charges during which time Massey has continued to teach; and the Board having concluded that it was in the best interest of the public, including students and the Paulsboro community that Massey continue in his long standing position as a teaching staff member for the Paulsboro School District uninterrupted; and being satisfied that no further incident would occur; and,

WHEREAS, the Board having determined that Massey's conduct did not warrant termination or permanent salary adjustment withholding, but rather that Massey's salary adjustment be withheld in the amount of $641.00 for the 1995-1996 year only, the remainder of his increment at his request to be deposited into the Massey Scholarship Fund established by Massey in or about 1977, currently funded by monies he has allotted from his salary, and which he awards to needy and deserving student(s) each year; and,

WHEREAS Massey and the Board have entered into this stipulation with a full understanding of their rights, recognizing that this stipulation and their agreement is subject to the review and approval of the Commissioner of Education, and with Massey's further understanding that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)1 any determination made by the Commissioner of Education resulting in a loss of tenure or dismissal may be referred to the State Board of Examiners for determination of possible revocation or suspension of teaching certificate;

NOW THEREFORE, the matter in difference having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties,

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED AS FOLLOWS:

1. Massey's salary adjustment in the amount of $641.00 for the 1995-1996 year only shall be withheld, the remainder of his increment for that year to be placed into the Massey Scholarship Fund;

2. The Board hereby withdraws the charge that it has filed against Massey seeking that his salary be reduced under OAL Docket No. EDUTH 04319-95S, Agency Ref. No. 60-3/95, with prejudice;

3. Massey hereby withdraws his Petition of Appeal that the Board arbitrarily withheld his salary adjustment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, under OAL Docket No. EDUOR 06-666-95S, Agency Ref. No. 179-5-95 with prejudice;

4. The Board's actions based upon the foregoing are in the best interests of the public including the citizens of Paulsboro and the students of the Paulsboro School District.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

In 1982, 14 individually named, bilingual, Title I teachers filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking pay and emolument parity with other teachers employed by the respondent. During the pendency of that case at the Office of Administrative Law, the following dialogue took place:

MR. FEINTUCH - I should like to say one thing further, your Honor, and the Board has agreed to be bound by the determinations made in this case as they may apply to others in the same or similar circumstances.

We are aware of the fact, that the Association is aware of the fact, that there may be a greater number of people who are in the same or similar circumstances as these fourteen, who have not yet made claim for any benefits . . . at least formally . . . through the Commissioner's office, but the Board has agreed to be bound by the determinations made in this case as those determinations would relate to these others who have not yet made claim. Is that correct, Mr. Massa*.

MR. MASSA - That is so, your Honor. We would afford the same benefits or whatever. The ruling is applied to all others similarly situated. We would not want to be discriminatory.

JUDGE SPRINGER -That is the ruling as it is ultimately reached by the highest authority? In other words, if it goes up to the Commissioner?

MR. MASSA - Right. The ultimate adjudication of the matter. Whatever that may be, we would apply the same ruling to others.

JUDGE SPRINGER -And similar circumstances?

MR. MASSA - Yes.

JUDGE SPRINGER -So, in other future cases that may come up, or if there is a dispute as to whether the circumstances are similar or not?

MR. MASSA - Right.

JUDGE SPRINGER - If they are similar, those cases would be disposed of by the parties in the same manner as this one?

MR. MASSA - I might add that our reason for doing that is not only out of a sense of faimess, but also, we would like to terminate all this litigation once and for all.

Notwithstanding the foregoing however, when the State Board of Education issued its Final Decision on April 3, 1987, it granted parity only to the 14 individually named petitioners. No appeal was filed by the Jersey City Education Association from this determination.

* Mr. Massa was the attorney for the Jersey City Board of Education at the time of this dialogue.

Then, in 1989, the JCEA filed another petition on behalf of approximately 140 to 150 other teachers, who in its view were similarly situated. This petition sought compliance with the State Board's Final Decision of April 3, 1987 vis-a-vis salary entitlements, back pay and other emoluments for the 140 to 150 or so new individuals named in the Petition.

After referral to the Office of Administrative Law, on August 22, 1989, Administrative Law Judge Ward R. Young issued a Prehearing Order which required petitioners' counsel to amend this petition "to incorporate individually named petitioners, including sworn verifications by individual petitioners, and to file same . . . no later than September 30, 1989."

This was not done, but the petitioners' attorney wrote two letters to Judge Young requesting extensions of the filing deadline. In his letter of September 21, 1989, petitioners' attorney acknowledged that he would "have to have all the petitioners sign appropriate Certifications", while in a letter dated November 8, 1989, he indicated that the "Petition runs some 240 pages without the Certifications", that "the document is presently at the printer," and that "I will need time to have the approximate 140 petitioners sign the appropriate Certification[s]". In a letter dated November 9, 1989, Judge Young responded as follows: "The amended petition with executed certifications shall be due no later than December 15, 1989. The Board's answer shall be due no later than January 4, 1990. You are advised that no further extensions will be granted to petitioners, since 11 weeks [have] already been added to a generous 6 weeks provided at the August 18, 1989 prehearing".

The amended Petition was then filed at OAL on December 5, 1989. However, petitioners' attorney now seeks to have 11 more names added to the Petition. He relies heavily on the dialogue involving Judge Springer back in 1982.

DISCUSSION

Having carefully considered the contents of the briefs submitted by counsel and the exhibits attached thereto, the undersigned is convinced that the amendment should not be permitted. There are a number of reasons which lead to this result:

1. JCEA never appealed from the Final Decision of the State Board of Education dated April 3, 1987;

2. Only the State Board - - and not the local Jersey City Board of Education - - had the authority to provide relief to "other petitioners in the same or similar circumstances" . . . but the State Board granted parity only to individually named petitioners and not to any others;

3. JCEA knew back in 1982 (13 years ago) that there were other teachers similarly situated to the original 14 petitioners, but apparently never identified them with any certainty until just recently;

4. When petitioners' attorney participated in the dialogue with Judge Springer in 1982, he acknowledged that "similarly situated" teachers had to formalize their claims . . . but the 11 teachers now seeking to join this 61/2 year old lawsuit have still not complied with N.J.A.C 6:24-1.3, which requires them to verify their allegations under oath;

5. Even if these 11 individuals were to presently comply with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.3, their claims should be barred by application of the doctrine of laches;

6. JCEA had more than sufficient time (7 years between 1982 and 1989) and opportunity to identify said 11 individuals, prior to filing the 1989 Petition, but did not do so.

7. When the parties appeared before Judge Young in 1982, JCEA was given 17 weeks to perfect the amendment of its Petition - - but did not do so; and

8. There is imputed to the law a need for finality and repose, prevention of needless litigation, avoidance of duplication and the reduction of unnecessary burdens of time and expenses (see City of Hackensack v. Winer, 82 N.J. 1 at page 32 (1980); otherwise, this litigation would be never-ending.

On the strength of the foregoing, I ORDER that petitioners' application for the addition of 11 more individuals to the Petition filed with Judge Young on December 5, 1989, BE (and is hereby) DENIED.

This Order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10, or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

Re: State Operated School District of Jersey City and Jersey City Education Association Docket No. EDU 4587-89 (Title I)
Our File No. 99,022A

Dear Judge Clancy:

This letter shall confirm the results of a conference with yourself, Philip Feintuch and the undersigned relative to outstanding issues in this case. The parties agreed with the following procedures for resolving this case.

Issue #1: Impact of the "arbitration award" (5 Petitioners)

The State Operated School District is to prepare a data sheet showing the salary adjustment awarded to those Petitioners covered under the 1982 arbitration and the date such award was implemented for each Petitioner. Further, for each Petitioner, the District is to compare the monies paid under the arbitration award with the monies to which each Petitioner might be entitled if they are to be considered in the instant case.

This data, in conjunction with the District's legal argument on the issue of whether the Petitioners, who were grievants in the 1982 arbitration, should be considered active Petitioners in the instant case, is due to be filed by October 20, 1995. Petitioners are to submit their reply brief by November 9, 1995.[1]

[1] The brief was originally due on October 10, 1995. However, the District requested an extension and was granted one to October 20th. All other due dates were extended by a like time period.

Issue #2: Petitioners who did not sign the Petition (11 Petitioners)

Petitioners and the District are to submit briefs, simultaneously, on the issue of whether Petitioners who did not sign the Petition are to be active Petitioners and thus included in the settlement terms of the case. The parties' briefs are due to be filed by November 30, 1995, with any responsive briefs due by December 20, 1995.

Issue #3: Petitioners with factual disputes (6 Petitioners)

The District is to submit, by January 29, 1996, all factual and legal positions on the six (6) Petitioners whom they claim are not entitled to any adjustment by reason of the relevant facts. Petitioners' reply to the District's brief shall be due by February 12, 1996.

The parties will proceed to a hearing in the event the relevant facts regarding any Petitioner addressed in any of the three (3) above-noted groups remain in dispute and cannot be stipulated to by the parties. Presently, the hearing is scheduled for February 14 & 15, 1996.

I trust that the above accurately reflects the parties' briefing schedule, as modified by the extension. Should you have any questions, please contact me. This letter is being faxed and mailed, this date, to Petitioners' attorney, Mr. Feintuch.

Very truly yours,

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning grandparents alleged that their grandchild, C.N., was wrongfully denied access to school due to residency dispute.

ALJ found that C.N. was not residing with her grandparents in order to receive a free education in New Jersey; instead, petitioners, who have cared for C.N. from age 20 months, were attempting to provide C.N. with a positive family setting since her parents were not capable of doing it themselves. ALJ concluded the statutory purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a and b were being effectuated. Petitioners' motion for summary decision was granted. ALJ ordered that C.N. was entitled to a free public education in the District.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioners met their burden under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1) and that C.N. was entitled to a free public education in the District. Commissioner rejected as inapplicable that portion of the initial decision which analyzed the facts of the matter under the domicile provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners, C.N., Sr. and M.N.,[1] filed a petition for declaratory judgment on behalf of their minor grandchild C.N. on May 22, 1995. Petitioners asserted that C.N. is domiciled in South Orange as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 and as such is entitled to a free public education in the South Orange-Maplewood school district (respondent). Petitioners alleged that the board of education's decision was not in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Further, petitioners asserted that the exclusion of their granddaughter, C.N., from Marshall Elementary School constitutes an unconstitutional application of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

By letter dated May 22, 1995, the Commissioner of Education determined to entertain the petition for declaratory judgment as a petition of appeal under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1 et seq. On June 2, 1995, respondents filed an answer requesting that the petition be dismissed. In addition, respondents filed a counterclaim, alleging that petitioners are responsible pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 for the tuition cost of the period of ineligible attendance of the pupil, C.N. On June 21, 1995, petitioners filed an answer to the counterclaim contending that it failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted. On June 23, 1995, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on August 9, 1995, and a prehearing conference scheduled for October 25, 1995. On October 11, 1995, petitioners moved for summary decision as to all the issues raised herein, dismissing the counterclaim and ordering respondent to provide an education for C.N. At the prehearing conference held on October 25, 1995, the issues were isolated, and a hearing scheduled for June 3 and 7, 1996. Dates were also set for respondent's response to the motion and petitioners' reply thereto. It was also determined that a joint stipulation of facts would be filed with the undersigned on or before December 29, 1995.

On November 22, 1995, respondents filed a brief in opposition to petitioners' motion for summary decision, and petitioners filed a reply on December 12, 1995. An extension of time in which to file the joint stipulation of facts was granted until January 22, 1996, and the parties were advised that a determination on the motion would await that filing. On February 5, 1996, the parties filed a joint stipulation of facts, indicating however that there were additional facts which the parties could not stipulate to and which petitioners believed were necessary for a full factual record. As a result, and in order to determine the import of this on the motion for summary decision, a conference call was held with counsel; the parties were advised that oral argument on the motion would be held on March 19, 1996 at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. Oral argument was held on that date, and it was determined that petitioners would amend their motion to allege that they are entitled to summary decision pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

Petitioners supplemented their motion for summary decision by letter brief and certification of M.N., dated April 17, 1996, and on May 9, 1996, respondent filed its brief in opposition to petitioners' supplemental motion and in support of its cross motion for summary decision, seeking a determination that C.N. is not entitled to a free public education in the district's school as petitioners had failed to satisfy N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. Respondent relied on the certification of Dr. Jacqueline L. Cusack, assistant superintendent.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The facts necessary to a determination on the issues here are essentially undisputed. The joint stipulations filed by petitioners are incorporated herein. Of import the facts may be summarized as follows:

C.N. is a seven year old female student who has been living with her grandparents (petitioners), since she was twenty months old. Her father currently resides in New Hampshire, and the whereabouts of her mother are unknown. Currently, C.N. is enrolled in the second grade at the Marshall School, which is part of the School District of South Orange and Maplewood (respondent). She has attended schools in the respondent's district since kindergarten.

In March of 1995, respondent challenged C.N.'s right to continue attending her local school because her father resided outside of the school district. At issue was whether the petitioner was entitled to receive a free public education as an individual who is "domiciled in the school district," pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a. Respondent eventually decided that C.N. was not eligible to attend school in the district without paying tuition.

Prior to the respondent's decision to remove C.N. from school, a hearing was conducted on March 14, 1995 in order to afford petitioners an opportunity to establish that the child was entitled to a free public education in respondent's schools. Affidavits were submitted in January, 1995 by petitioners which asserted that the child's father, C.N., Jr., works long hours, cannot supervise C.N., and cannot obtain adequate, affordable child care. (See, Affidavit of Petitioners, at Exh. A. of Respondent's Brief). In addition, following the March 14, 1995 hearing, a notarized statement was received from C.N.'s father indicating that the child cannot live with him because he does not have a bedroom for her, that he has very little income, that he is out of the home frequently due to work, and that he cannot adequately care for her.[2] (See, Affidavit of Child's Father dated April 3, 1995, at Exh. B of Respondent's Brief). Finally, C.N.'s father maintains contact with her and generally attempts to visit her at Christmas and during other family celebrations. Moreover, he apparently visits C.N. each year on her birthday and she visited with him for two weeks each summer in 1993 and 1994. (Petitioners' Answers to Interrogatories, at p. 6, attached to Petitioners' Initial Brief.)

Petitioner M.N. filed a certification dated April 4, 1996 as an update on her son's circumstances since April 4, 1995. She certified as follows:

> "My son C., his companion J.G. and their son have moved to a smaller, one-bedroom apartment located at -W. Street, Concord, New Hampshire. My son resides with Ms. G. and their son on weekends only. During the work week, he now lives in a rented room located at -B. Street, #2, Lowell, Massachusetts. Upon information and belief, my son made this move for business and personal reasons. He rented the room in Lowell to eliminate the daily hour and a half car ride to Boston, where his work is located. Upon renting the room, he and Ms. G. could no longer afford the two-bedroom apartment they were renting, and had to find a smaller less expensive apartment."[3]

DISCUSSION

Summary Decision Standard

In considering petitioners' motion for summary decision, this tribunal must determine whether the pleadings, answers to interrogatories, admissions, and affidavits demonstrate that no genuine issue of material fact exists, and that the moving party is entitled to an order as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b); R. 4:46-2. Additionally, "[i]t is the movant's burden to exclude any reasonable doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact." Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). However, in order for the non-movant to prevail, a responding affidavit must be offered setting forth specific facts which indicate that there is a genuine issue that can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Therefore, if the non-moving party fails to respond, an absence of material factual dispute may be presumed and the movant will prevail if the law supports the movant's position. 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 194, at 202 (Steven L. Lefelt) (1988).

[3] Initials have been utilized in the affidavit in place of identifying names.

Recently, our Supreme Court modified the analysis required when considering a motion for summary decision/judgment. In Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995), the Court adopted the summary judgment standard currently utilized by the federal courts. In particular, the Court stated the following:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a `genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The `judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial.' [Anderson v.] Liberty Lobby 477 U.S. [242, 249], 106 S.Ct. [2505, 2511], 91 *L.Ed.*2d [202, 212 (1986)]. Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not the judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a `genuine' issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 250, 106 S.Ct. at 2511, 91 *L.Ed.*2d at 213. The import of our holding is that when the evidence `is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,' Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S.Ct. at 2512, 91 *L.Ed.*2d at 214, the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment.

Thus, the non-movant essentially must raise a factual issue which is sufficient to lead a rational factfinder to rule in the non-movant's favor if a trial were held. Otherwise, summary judgment/decision is appropriate.

Analysis

Petitioners claim that C.N. is entitled to a free public education because she is domiciled in the respondent's school district. As such, petitioners assert that summary decision is appropriate by relying upon N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, which provides that public schools shall be free to those persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled within the school district."

Respondents counter by asserting that the instant controversy should not be determined pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, i.e. "the domicile provision," but instead must be analyzed according to the affidavit pupils provision, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. That statute provides in relevant part:

> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, . . . and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the Board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child.

Thus, respondents aver that the threshold criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b must be satisfied before C.N. is entitled to a free education in its schools.

In order for a pupil to be entitled to a free education in New Jersey, the student must be a local domicile of the particular school district where admission is sought. See, V.R. on Behalf of A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Ed., 2 N.J.A.R., 283, 287 (Educ. 1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1553, rev'd on other grounds, Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Ed., 550 F.Supp. 481 (D. N.J. 1982) (indicating that New Jersey requires a local domiciliary, as opposed to mere residence, to receive a free education). As such, at issue in this matter is whether C.N. is entitled to a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 as a local domiciliary within respondents' school district. In other words, a determination of the child's domicile is necessary in order to resolve the instant dispute. In addition, at issue is whether the criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b have been satisfied.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a provides that public schools shall be free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled in the school district." Petitioners claim that C.N. is domiciled within respondents' school district thus requiring this tribunal's grant of summary decision.[4] Respondent counters by arguing that C.N.'s domicile tracks her father's, i.e., New Hampshire, thereby precluding the child from receiving a free education in the State of New Jersey. Instead, as respondent asserts, the child must comply with the "affidavit student" law, i.e., N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, in order to receive a free education within the district.

In the current matter, the question under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a involves the domicile of a minor child who does not live with either of her parents. As a result, a determination of the child's domicile is not entirely straightforward. Generally speaking, domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercandante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). A person may have multiple residences, but may have only one domicile at a time; as such, the residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955).

[4] As a preliminary matter, petitioners assert that they are entitled to summary decision as a matter of law because the respondent initially stated in its answers to interrogatories that the child was domiciled within the school district. (See, petitioners' Initial Brief, at p.3). However, respondent contends that its answer was nonresponsive to the question asked and therefore submitted amended answers to petitioners' interrogatories which aver that the child is domiciled in New Hampshire. (See, Amended Answers to Interrogatories, at Exh. C of Respondent's Brief.) Since this tribunal is to consider the pleadings, answers to interrogatories, admissions, and affidavits when deciding a motion for summary decision, summary disposition on the ground that the respondent initially indicated that the child is domiciled in New Jersey is not a sufficient basis for granting petitioners' motion.

"In a strict legal sense, the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving." Matter of Unanue 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (1991) (citing Kurilla v. Roth, 132 N.J.L. 213, 215 (Sup. Ct. 1944)). See also, Mercandante, 111 N.J. Super. at 39. Thus, domicile is what is regarded as an individual's true and permanent home. In re Jaffe, 74 N.J. 86, 90-91 (1977). Intent is the touchstone of domicile, and the manifestation of a person's intent converts residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile. Benny, 20 N.J. at 251.

The question of domicile is one of fact and must be determined on a case by case basis. Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, 7 (1955). Thus, "the concept of 'domicile' may have different content and shades of meaning depending upon the context in which is used." In re estate of Gillmore, 101 N.J. Super. 77, 86-87 (App. Div.), certif. den., 52 N.J. 175 (1968). Nonetheless, "[e]very person has a domicile at all times, and no person has more than one domicile at any one time." Id. at 87 (citation omitted). There are three possible ways by which an individual may acquire a domicile: (1) by birth or place of origin; (2) through the choice of a person legally capable of choosing his or her domicile; or (3) by operation of law in the case of a person who lacks capacity to acquire a new domicile by choice. Ibid.

Since the instant case involves a child who lacks the capacity to choose her own domicile, this tribunal must look to the operation of law. Traditionally speaking, the domicile of a child for school purposes under Title 18A is that of the natural father. Bd. of Ed. Little Egg Harbor v. Bds. of Ed., etc., 145 N.J. Super. 1, 12 (App. Div. 1975) (Morgan, J.A.D., dissenting), rev'd per curium, based on dissent below, 71 N.J. 537 (1976) (citing Mansfield Tp. Bd. of Ed. v. State Bd. of Ed., 101 N.J.L. 474 (Sup. Ct. 1925)); V.R. on Behalf of A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Ed., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286 (Educ. 1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1553, rev'd sub nom on other grounds, Rabinowitz

v. N.J. State Bd. of Ed., 550 F.Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982). The policy underlying the "traditional domicile concept" was discussed by Administrative Law Judge Lefelt in V.R., supra. In that case, petitioner V.R. was a New York resident who alleged that the board of education of Hamburg improperly denied his nine year old handicapped daughter, A.R., admission as a student in the respondent's school district. Prior to the litigation, which occurred in 1980, A.R. had neither attended nor been enrolled in any educational program. A.R. had lived in the respondent's school district since 1975 with an unrelated resident who was paid by the child's father for looking after A.R.

In concluding that the child's domicile was that of her father's, namely New York, thereby precluding the child from receiving a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, Judge Lefelt discussed the traditional domicile rule:

> The law establishing an infant's domicile seems based on the rationale that an unemancipated person receives his or her custody, support and maintenance from the father, regardless of the child's physical location. Changing times should, therefore, affect the domicile law only when the factual situation presented undercuts this rationale.

Thus, Judge Lefelt acknowledged that the traditional rule was not absolute. Nevertheless, he chose not to depart from the principle due to the special facts presented in the case:

> The fact that a third person provides the day-to-day care and control of A.R. at the request of A.R.'s parents seems insufficient to overturn normal domicile principles. Thus, in the absence of a legal termination of parental responsibility, a finding that A.R.'s domicile is in New York would not be mechanical, but rather would be a reasonable application of the general rule. Wherever A.R. is placed by her parents, until emancipation, her domicile must remain in New York, as long as her parents live there. Control, in a legal sense, over A.R.'s life clearly rests with her parents. Mansfield Twp. and C. v. State Bd. of Education, 101 N.J.L. 474, 480 (Sup. Ct. 1925).

The current dispute is readily distinguishable from the facts presented in V.R., thereby warranting a departure from the traditional domicile rule that an unemancipated infant cannot acquire a new domicile other than its father's, which is obtained at birth. In V.R., it was clear that the parents were still exercising control over the child's life. Here, there is no such evidence. Not only has C.N. been living with the petitioners since she was twenty months of age, but the record is also devoid of any evidence which indicates that her father provides any support or maintenance whatsoever. In short, the child has been separated from her natural parents for over six years. The only contention that the respondent makes in an attempt to refute the conclusion that the child has been detached to such an extent so as to require an application of the traditional domicile rule is that the father visits the child periodically. Under the circumstances presented here, however, such visits are hardly sufficient to raise a genuine issue of material fact regarding the child's domicile for the purposes of the public school law.[5]

Judge Lefelt chose to follow the traditional rule because the facts in V.R. clearly indicated that the child received support and maintenance from the father, even though he was physically located in New York. In the instant matter, however, the record is clear that the child's support and maintenance are entirely derived from her grandparents, who themselves are domiciled within respondent's school district. Indeed, although parental responsibility has not been terminated legally, the child in this case is separated from her father to such an extent that this tribunal may conclude that her domicile rests in New Jersey.

"The concept of domicile is not constant. It is designed to assure fairness to the individual or the State or both in a given setting. Its ingredients therefore will vary, depending upon what is just and useful in a given context." Worden, et al. v. Mercer

[5] The fact that the child periodically visits, and is visited by, her father in New Hampshire, if anything, may tend to support the notion that her "true and permanent establishment" is in New Jersey as she continues to return to live in her grandparents' home.

County Board of Elections, 61 N.J. 325, 349 (1972) (Weintraub, C.J., concurring). Fairness to the individual in this case requires a departure from the original rule which states that a child's domicile tracks the father's. The concept of the traditional rule is grounded upon the rationale that an unemancipated person receives his or her custody, support and maintenance from the father, regardless of the child's physical location. Such a blanket presumption, however, is no longer applicable in today's society.[6] Under the facts of this case, it is apparent that C.N. has been in the de facto care and custody of her grandparents for virtually her entire life, and, as such, she should be considered as domiciled in New Jersey for the purpose of receiving a free public education. See generally, Donlon v. Miller, 355 *N.E.*2d 195 (Ill. App. 3d 1976)(child deemed to have acquired domicile of non-parent petitioner who had "de facto custody" since the child was in the de facto care of the petitioner for approximately the first six years of the child's life).

In this matter, a finding that C.N.'s domicile is in New Hampshire would be an unreasonable application of the traditional presumption, since such an approach would endorse a mechanical rather than a substantive application. The interrogatories and affidavits submitted by both parties support a finding that the child's domicile is in New Jersey. First, petitioners have indicated that they have acted as the child's parent since she was twenty months old. Second, as petitioners submit via interrogatories, they are responsible for all of C.N.'s expenses and needs. Third, information submitted by respondent fails to refute the petitioners' contentions; in fact, sworn affidavits from the petitioners and the child's father, which were submitted by the respondent, support the proposition that for all intents and purposes, petitioners are and have been functioning in a parental capacity.

[6] Indeed, our Supreme Court has recognized that changing times have necessitated the abrogation of so-called "traditional" presumptions in other related areas of the law. E.g., Gubernat v. Deremer, 140 N.J. 120, 139 (1995) (noting that sex based presumptions in the area of family law which had survived as a matter of custom for decades, have been replaced by an inquiry focused on the happiness and welfare of the child).

The purpose underlying the law which requires domicile, as opposed to residence, for free education is to prevent pupils from living with a person other than the parent or guardian in order to obtain the benefit of a free public education in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile. See, Sponsor's Statement, Senate Education Committee Statement and Governor's Conditional Veto Message to Senate Bill No. 1447 of 1993, enacted as C. 380. Respondent claims, however, that a finding of New Jersey domicile in this matter would have grave consequences on local school boards.

> . . . This [tribunal's] finding of domicile with the grandparents, however, would create a dangerous precedent which must be overcome by each and every school district in this State. It is well established that, in recent months, many New Jersey school districts have taken action to combat the ever increasing attendance at district schools of children who are not eligible for same pursuant to law. This necessarily includes circumstances in which children are placed with relatives for extended periods of time. Sanctioning such placement, by bestowing upon such individuals the benefits of domicile, will send a powerful message to parents that they can and should leave their children in the care of relatives and reap the benefits of an education in the relatives' district of residence. This, unfortunately, places an excruciating burden on school district taxpayers, striving year after year to provide qualify education in the face of fiscal limitations. . .

Although the concerns raised by the respondents are valid, they are nonetheless inapplicable in the instant matter. This is not a case which involves parents placing a child with relatives for an extended period of time in order to reap the educational benefits provided by a particular school district. The child in this case is separated from her father and natural mother by a long distance, and to merely conclude that such a separation has manifested for the sole purpose of bestowing upon the child a free education from the respondent school district simply is not believable, as the child began living with the petitioners long before attaining the requisite age for attending school.

The papers presented make clear that the petitioners, who are residents of the school district, are the sole caretakers and supporters of the child. Furthermore, the respondent board has failed to show otherwise, or even present information which raises a genuine issue of material fact with respect to that issue. To prevent C.N. from receiving a free education in the respondent school district simply because her biological father lives in New Hampshire would harm a party the Legislature never intended to penalize by unreasonably placing form over substance and effectively subverting the substantial State interest in ensuring the education of all its children. Sabella v. Lacey Tp., 204 N.J. Super. 55, 60 (App. Div. 1985); Restaurant Enterprises, Inc. v. Sussex Mutual Ins. Co., 52 N.J. 73, 77 (1968). Certainly, a finding that the child's domicile is that of her grandparents is in line with this paramount state interest, and in no way does it create a precedent which encourages parents to leave their children in the care of relatives in order to obtain the benefits of an education in the relatives' district of residence. C.N. is not residing with her grandparents in order to receive a free education in New Jersey. Instead, the petitioners are attempting to provide a positive family setting to a child who has already confronted difficult obstacles in her young life.[7]

Once again, the question of domicile is one of fact and must be determined on a case by case basis. Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, 7 (1955). The concept of domicile is not rigid, but instead it is designed to assure fairness to the individual or the State or both in any setting. Worden, 61 N.J. at 349. As such, a finding of New Jersey domicile here is limited to the facts presented and in no way establishes precedent which will place an unreasonable burden on local school districts. Cases involving domicile must still be scrutinized carefully according to the spirit and letter of the public school law.

[7] In fact, the petitioners' sworn affidavit reveals that they have provided the child with nursery school and other prekindergarten training, as well as affording the child opportunities to engage in swimming and tennis classes, ballet lessons and religious education. (See, Affidavit of Petitioners, question D5, at Exh. A. of Respondent's Brief).

(b) N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

Respondent asserts that the instant controversy cannot be determined pursuant to the domicile provision listed in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, but instead must be decided pursuant to the "affidavit student" law set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. That provision authorizes boards of education to challenge the validity of affidavits submitted by parents and relatives or friends to determine if the pupil is entitled to a free education in the particular school district. The statute was amended in 1977 to prevent the problem described as follows:

> Parents sometimes attempt to send their children to schools in districts other than their own without actually changing their residences. It is a very simple matter for a parent to request a relative or friend who resides within the district to provide the child with an official address within the district for purposes of school attendance. Further, if the friend or relative agrees to sign an affidavit, the school district must accept the child as a student within the system.
> [Statement to Senate Bill No. 1464-L.1977 c.373.]

Nonetheless, the current dispute does not present the type of situation the Legislature intended to prevent by enacting the "affidavit student" law. However, an analysis of the facts presented pursuant to the relevant statute is helpful in resolving the instant dispute.

Essentially, the proofs required to satisfy the "affidavit student" law must demonstrate that (1) petitioners are domiciled within respondent's school district, (2) petitioners are supporting C.N. gratis, (3) C.N.'s father is not capable of supporting or providing care for her due to family or economic hardship, and (4) C.N. is not residing with her grandparents solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in respondent's school district. The burden of proof is on the petitioners to demonstrate each and every element. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

The first requirement is not at issue in this dispute, as the record is clear that petitioners reside within respondent's school district. Therefore, an analysis of the remaining proofs is necessary. When interpreting a statute, this tribunal looks to the fundamental purpose for which the legislation was enacted, and where a literal reading of the law will not accord with that underlying purpose, the spirit of the law will control over its letter. N.J. Builders, Owners & Managers Association v. Blair, 60 N.J. 330, 333 (1972). Furthermore, the meaning of a statute is to be gathered from the mischief sought to be eliminated as well as the proposed remedy. Brewer v. Porch, 53 N.J. 167, 174 (1969); San-Lan Builders, Inc. v. Baxendale, 28 N.J. 148, 155 (1958).

The requirements set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b are not inflexible concrete standards. Instead, the proofs required by that statute are simply a means permitted by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 to aid local boards of education in accomplishing the statute's goal of preventing pupils from reaping the educational benefits from schools in districts other than their own without actually changing their residences. Gunderson v. City of Brigantine Board of Education, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 39, 42, aff'd State Bd. of Ed., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 132. As a result, this tribunal is empowered to "look to other indicia to see that the statutory purpose is being effectuated and accept such indicia in lieu of [information] required by the Board." Ibid.

In Gunderson, the Commissioner of Education upheld an ALJ's decision which allowed a student to enter a school district, even though the pupil could not completely comply with the "affidavit student" law because his out-of-state mentally incompetent father refused to sign the required affidavit indicating that custody of the child had been relinquished. In so holding, the Commissioner indicated:

> The intent of the "affidavit student" law is not now, and never has been, to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be as contemplated by the statutory scheme when it is clear that the child has no home, or possibility of school attendance, other than with the non-parent district resident and that such resident is for all intents and purposes the sole caretaker and supporter of the child. Neither is its parental affidavit provision meant to act as a bar to a child who, do [sic] to particular > circumstances, cannot produce such an affidavit but provides evidence that the underlying requirements of the law are being met. To hold otherwise harms a party the Legislature never meant to penalize, unreasonably places form over substance and overlooks the substantial State interest in ensuring the education of all its children. Sabella v. Lacey Tp., 204 N.J. Super. 55, 60 (App. Div. 1985); Restaurant Enterprises, Inc. v. Sussex Mutual Ins. Co., 52 N.J. 73, 77 (1968).

> [Gunderson, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 42].

Here, the record not only makes clear that petitioners are for "all intents and purposes the sole caretakers and supporters of the child," but also provides evidence that the underlying requirements of the "affidavit student" law are being met. First, the record shows that petitioners are domiciled within respondent's school district. Second, the petitioners and the child's father have submitted answers to interrogatories, along with sworn affidavits, which demonstrate that the petitioners are supporting C.N. gratis.[8] Third, the record contains an affidavit from C.N.' s father indicating that he is unable to care for the child due to financial and personal hardships. (See, Exh. B of Respondent's Brief). Although such a bare assertion is not by itself dispositive of the statutory requirement regarding family or economic hardship, the fact that the father's adjusted gross income for 1994 was only $7,496.00[9] is sufficient to corroborate the sworn affidavit claiming financial hardship on behalf of the child's father. Additionally, the natural father has not declared the pupil as a dependent for federal income tax purposes, and has indicated that he will not declare the child as a dependent during the time she resides with her grandparents. (See, Affidavit of Child's Father, question G., at Exh. A. of Respondent's Brief).

[8] For instance, the petitioners state that they are, and have been, responsible for the child's maintenance, emotional support, and well-being since she was twenty months old. (See, Affidavit of Petitioners, question D5, at Exh. A. of Respondent's Brief). In addition, there are affidavits present from the child's father which indicate that he does not provide maintenance for the child. (See, Affidavit of child's Father, question D-2, at Exh. A. of Respondent's Brief; see also, Affidavit of Child's Father dated April 3, 1995, at Exh. B of Respondent's Brief).

[9] See, Father's Federal Income Tax Return (1994), at Exh. D. of Respondent's Brief.

In addition, and of import, (this is from petitioners' brief) the affidavits establish that at the time respondent decided to deny admission to C.N., C.N., Jr. was living with his girlfriend and their toddler son in a two-bedroom apartment. His income was extremely limited, and while his name was on a waiting list for a larger, federally subsidized apartment, he anticipated that it would be years before he would be given such an apartment. Given his limited income, small living quarters, long work hours and inability to obtain adequate child care, C.N., Jr. attested to respondent that he was incapable of supporting or providing care for C.N. due to family and economic hardship. As is set forth in the certification of M.N. (Exh. A), C.N., Jr.'s situation has changed somewhat since he last submitted an affidavit to respondent in that he now lives in a rented room during the work week in order to be close to his work, and he and his partner and son have moved to a one-bedroom apartment.

Other than to assert that it "lacks the ability to specifically confirm the veracity of [statements made by petitioners] or to predict what will happen in the future," respondent does not dispute the underlying facts offered by petitioners and C.N., Jr. Rather, respondent argues that C.N., Jr. cannot establish that he is incapable of supporting or providing care for his daughter because he lives with a woman on weekends only, who is apparently caring for their toddler son. Implicit in respondent's argument is the assumption that C.N., Jr.'s girlfriend is willing and able to act as a parent to C.N., C.N., Jr.'s seven-year-old daughter from another relationship, on weekends. Respondent offers no facts to support this assumption. Because it is well settled that a party resisting summary judgment must respond with specific facts demonstrating a genuine factual dispute for trial and can not merely rely on conclusionary allegations and speculations. see, e.g., Robbins v. J.C., 23 N.J. 229, 241 (1957); James Talcott, Inc. v. Schulman, 82 N.J. Super., 438 (App. Div. 1964), this tribunal must conclude that there are no genuine issues or material fact, and must consider the issue of C.N.'s entitlement to admission to school under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b ripe for disposition on legal grounds. Fourth, there is not one scintilla of evidence present in the record which may plausibly lead this tribunal to conclude that C.N. was brought into New Jersey to obtain a free education. Indeed, the record is devoid of any proof whatsoever which intimates in any form that possible special or attractive features of the schools in respondent's district have caused this child to be separated from her natural father for virtually her entire life.

The purpose of the "affidavit student" law is to prevent individuals from abusing the entitlement of free public education by attending schools in districts where the pupils do not belong. As to the Commissioner in Gunderson observed, the intent of the law is not to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be as contemplated by the statutory scheme. In this case, it is evident that the child's home is, and has been, that of her grandparents. The child has continually lived with her grandparents since the age of twenty months, and the petitioners indicated that they "have in the past and will continue in the future to provide a decent home and environment for [their] granddaughter."[10] (See, affidavit of petitioners, question D5 at Exh. A of Respondent's Brief.) In addition, the petitioners "have made it a priority to provide [their] granddaughter with a normal enriching life, since her parents are not capable of doing it themselves." Ibid.

C.N. is not residing with her grandparents in order to receive a free education in New Jersey. Instead, the petitioners are attempting to provide a positive family setting to a child who has already confronted difficult obstacles in her young life, and I have already cited the sworn affidavit as to what they have been providing for C.N. To deny this child a free education in the respondent's school district would harm a party the Legislature never meant to penalize by unreasonably placing form over substance and evading our substantial State interest in ensuring the education of this child.

[10] Respondent asserts that summary decision is not appropriate because it "lacks the ability to specifically confirm the veracity of these statements or to predict what will happen in the future." (See, Respondent's Brief at 9.) Such a contention, however, is not a valid basis for denying summary disposition of this matter, as respondents have failed to come forward with any information that rebuts or at least raises a genuine issue of material fact in regard to the contentions put forth by the petitioners.

CONCLUSION

This matter is ripe for summary decision, as the record presents sufficient indicia to conclude that the statutory purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a. and b. are being effectuated. As a result, I CONCLUDE that C.N. is entitled to a free public education in the school district of South Orange and Maplewood.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioners' motion for summary decision is granted and C.N. is entitled to a free public education in the South Orange and Maplewood school district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended oral decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended oral decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

END OF TRANSCRIPT

I, Anna M. Leggett, certify that the foregoing is a true and accurate transcript, to the best of my ability, of Judge Elinor R. Reiner's oral decision as edited by the ALJ for form but not substance, rendered in the above matter on June 3, 1996.

C.N., SR. AND M.N., on behalf of their minor grandchild, C.N.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTH ORANGE AND MAPLEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board initially objects to the ALJ's conclusion that "[t]he facts necessary to a determination on the issues here are essentially undisputed." (Board's Exceptions at p. 1, citing Initial Decision at p. 3) Rather, the Board underscores that not all relevant facts have been stipulated; in particular, the Board asserts that it did not stipulate to the contents or the veracity of the April 4, 1996 certification filed by Petitioner M.N. (Board's Exceptions at p. 2) The Board continues,

> Regarding the remaining facts to which the Board could not stipulate, the Board merely acknowledged a willingness to assume the veracity of certain facts for the purpose of the analysis under the affidavit pupils statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

> Throughout her Initial Decision, Judge Reiner has repeatedly asserted that the Board of Education did not meet its burden in presenting to the Court any genuine issues of material fact which preclude summary decision in favor of Petitioners. The Board respectfully submits that said conclusion is erroneous. The Board further submits that, in her analysis, Judge Reiner has ignored the Board's willingness to accept all facts as true for the purposes of the affidavit pupils analysis, in order to establish that summary decision is appropriate in favor of the Respondent Board ***."

While the Board asserts that the ALJ incorrectly concluded that C.N.'s domicile lies with her grandparents (id. at p. 3), it further contends that the within matter is not one of domicile, but should be analyzed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the "affidavit student" provision. (Id. at p. 4) Here, the Board again indicates its willingness to "assume the veracity of the facts as alleged by Petitioners, for the purposes of the summary decision motion." (Id.) Nevertheless, the Board maintains that these facts are insufficient to establish C.N.'s entitlement to a free public education in its school system as an affidavit pupil. The Board argues,

> In her decision, Judge Reiner ignored the very real existence of choices made by Mr. [N.] which Petitioners assert have created a sufficient family or economic hardship which establishes compliance with the affidavit pupils requirements. Mr. [N.] has a legal and moral obligation to care [for] and support his child. At no time has the Board attempted to transfer this obligation to Mr. [N's] partner. Mr. [N.], as all parents, must make decisions which necessarily impact upon his children. Those choices, including remaining in New Hampshire with his partner and their child, raising that child, maintaining a primary residence more than 1 and 1/2 hours from his workplace, and paying for a secondary residence to avoid weekday commuting, cannot be deemed sufficient to require taxpayer responsibility for his child's education in another State.

Accordingly, the Board reasons that summary decision must be issued in its favor. (Id. at p. 4)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines to affirm, in part, the initial decision of the ALJ. Initially, the Commissioner agrees with the Board that the within matter is controlled by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), the "affidavit student" provision. The statute requires that the student be kept in the home of another person who is domiciled within the district, and that the child be supported gratis by such domiciliary, as if the child were his/her own. If so required by the board, the resident must provide a sworn statement that he/she is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements, and that he/she intends to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term. N.J.S.A 18A:38-1b(1). Additionally, the child's parent or guardian must provide a sworn statement that he/she is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the district. This sworn statement shall be accompanied by confirming documentation, to the extent such documentation pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1)[1]. As the Board properly indicates, it is petitioners' burden to establish that they meet the requirements set forth in the statute.

Inasmuch as the initial decision does not set forth the stipulated facts, and the Board has raised an objection as to the appropriateness of issuing a summary decision in favor of petitioners in this matter, the Commissioner herein restates the facts which have been jointly stipulated:

> 1. [C.N., Sr. and M.N.] reside at  South Orange, Essex County, New Jersey. The [N's] own the home in which they live and have resided there for the past fifteen years.

[1] The statutory requirements as to residents who lease property are omitted as they are inapplicable here.

2. The [N's] granddaughter, C.N., is eight years old.

3. Since 1989, [C.N.] stays in close contact with his daughter by telephones and he visits her on her birthday, holidays and other family occasions.

4. On September 12, 1993, the [N's] including [C.N.], completed an affidavit for admission to the South Orange/Maplewood School District (School District). The [N's] were permitted to register C.N. at the Marshall Elementary School to attend kindergarten.  C.N. attended kindergarten at the Marshall School during the 1993-94 school year.

5. In May 1994, the [N's], including [C.N.], filled out and filed another affidavit for admission so that C.N. could attend first grade at the Marshall School. This affidavit was accepted by the School District and on or about September 1, 1994, C.N. began attending first grade at the Marshall School.

6. In December 1994, while C.N. was attending the Marshall School in the first grade, the School District requested that the [N's] complete another application for admission of C.N. The [N's] completed their affidavit, attesting to their residency and responsibility for C.N., and submitted it to the School District on or about December 7, 1994.

7. An affidavit from [father, C.N.], dated February 9, 1995, was submitted to the School District on or about February 12, 1995 on C.N.'s behalf.

8. On or about March 10, 1995, the [N's] received a letter dated March 9, 1995 from Jacqueline L. Cusack, Assistant Superintendent, informing the [N's] that the Superintendent of the School District would seek removal of C.N. from the Marshall School under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and that a hearing on removal of C.N. would take place before the Board of Education of the School District on March 15, 1995.

9. A hearing before the School Board was held on March 15, 1995. At this hearing the board requested additional documentation from the [N's].

10. On or about April 7, 1995, [C.N.], who at the time resided at  Concord, New Hampshire, submitted to the School District, through his parents, an affidavit, a power of attorney, a statement > regarding support and a copy of his 1993 Income Tax return. In addition, Mr. [N.] included an eligibility letter from the New Hampshire Housing Authority.

> 11. At the request of the School District, the [N's] also provided written permission from the School District to obtain their tax records from the Internal Revenue Service.
> 12. In a letter dated May 2, 1995, the Superintendent of the School District Ralph Lieber informed the [N's] that the School District had determined to exclude C.N. from receiving a free public education in the School District. (Joint Stipulation of Facts, February 2, 1996)

Recognizing the Board's willingness "to accept all facts as true for the purposes of the affidavit pupils analysis " (Board's Exceptions at p. 2), the Commissioner finds the following: (1) C.N. has been living with her grandparents, C.N., Sr. and M.N. since she was 20 months old. (Affidavit of Petitioners, question D1, Exhibit A, Respondent's Brief) (2) C.N.'s mother has had no responsibility for C.N. and has provided no care for C.N. since she was 18 months old, and C.N.'s father is unable to care for his daughter. Regarding his son, C.N., Sr., states, "He delt [sic] with late hours weekend work and constant trave[l] thru [sic] out New England. He could not afford to pay for child care on his income even if he were able to locate safe, capable care at odd hours, which he was not." (Id., question D5) (3) Petitioners have financially supported C.N. and have guided her participation in athletic activities, ballet lessons and religious education. They have volunteered for PTA-sponsored events, attended educational meetings and school conferences. (Id.) (4) C.N. is not residing with her grandparents for the purpose of obtaining a free education in the District. (Id. at question D6) (5) Petitioners have declared, and will declare, C.N. as a dependent for income tax purposes. (Id. at question H) (6) C.N.'s father attests that C.N. cannot live with him due to financial and personal hardships.

Neither his living arrangements, nor his work schedule currently permit him to provide for C.N. (Affidavit of C.N., Exhibit B, Respondent's Brief) (7) C.N.'s father substantiates an adjusted gross income of $7,496 for 1994. (Exhibit D, Respondent's Brief)

Based on the facts as jointly stipulated, together with the factual findings as stated, supra, the Commissioner finds that summary judgment in favor of petitioners is appropriate, in that petitioners have met the statutory requirements set forth under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), notwithstanding the Board's objections as to the "choices" C.N.'s father has made in this matter. As the ALJ aptly noted, "there is not one scintilla of evidence present in the record which may plausibly lead this tribunal to conclude that C.N. was brought into New Jersey to obtain a free education." (Initial Decision at p. 18)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is affirmed to the extent necessary to find petitioners have met their burden under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1).[2] The Board is hereby ordered to admit C.N. into its public school system, free of charge, so long as there is no change in petitioners' circumstances that would alter C.N.'s entitlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[2] The Commissioner herein notes that he rejects as inapplicable that portion of the initial decision which analyzes the facts of this matter under the domicile provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a.

Petitioning principal claimed tenure status and contended that Board's actions not renewing his employment were arbitrary, capricious and ultra vires.

ALJ concluded petitioner did not acquire a tenure status as principal in that petitioner did not serve the full two-year probationary period under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 to acquire tenure as a principal. Nor did the Board grant him early tenure. Moreover, the Board's action to remove petitioner from the principal's position was not arbitrary, capricious or in violation of his constitutionally protected rights. The Board evaluated petitioner's performance and determined not to grant him tenure on reasonable grounds. (Donaldson) Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Myron Plotkin, claims a tenure status as principal in the employ of the Brigantine City Board of Education (Board). Petitioner contends that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious and ultra vires when it failed to renew his contract.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing was held on October 16 and 17, 1995, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The parties requested, and were granted leave, to submit post hearing briefs and memoranda. The last submission was received by the undersigned on March 27, 1996, which closed the hearing record.

The parties stipulate to the following facts:

17. Respondent is unaware of any District employee who at any time since February 1990 requested permission to use district property or facilities in connection with their outside employment. [Source: Petitioner's Interrogatory 6 and Respondent's Supplemental Response thereto]

18. Respondent is unaware of any District employee who at any time since February 1990 was reprimanded or disciplined for receiving personal calls at work. [Source: Petitioner's Interrogatory 14 and Respondent's Supplemental Response thereto]

19. Petitioner's last day of employment as principal of the North Middle School was June 26, 1994.

20. Petitioner acted as a consultant to the New Jersey Education Association, and included on his business letterhead his in school telephone number in the past.

21. On May 16, 1994, petitioner was afforded an informal appearance before the Board, at which time the Board resolved not to reconsider its decision of March 1, 1994 regarding petitioner's employment as principal of the North Middle School.

SUMMARY OF THE TESTIMONY

Nancy Rhodes, David Cunningham and William Schoppy, retired or present teaching staff members in the Board's employ, testified on behalf of petitioner. Each of the witnesses testified that there was always a regular, non-pay telephone available for teaching staff members located in the school's copy room and teachers room. The telephones were available to receive calls from outside of the school and also for teachers to make calls to the outside. Many teachers were engaged in businesses outside of school houses and during the summer months. The telephones were used by the teaching staff members for the conduct of their respective outside businesses. None of the three witnesses were aware of any teacher or other employee being disciplined for using the telephones for outside calls or for the conduct of their outside businesses.

Ms. Rhodes testified she was a teaching staff member under petitioner's supervision when petitioner served as assistant principal and principal. She had served under six or seven administrators, other that petitioner. She opined that petitioner was an outstanding administrator.

Ms. Rhodes served as a member of the Board of Education of the City of Absecon for one and one-half years. She also served as president of the local teacher's union when employed by the Brigantine Board. She also served on the teacher's union negotiating team and was instrumental in negotiating the first contract between the union and the Board in 1968, under P.L. 303. She asserted that petitioner facilitated the union in its negotiations with the Board.

Ms. Rhodes admitted that as president of the teacher's union, she was provided with a copy of the Board's policy manual. She further admitted that the union reviewed every single item in the Board's policy manual with the Board and reached agreement on every issue in the policy manual. Ms. Rhodes recalls reviewing Policy No. 6145, dealing with pupil extracurricular activities. She asserted there was a great deal of discussion concerning Policy No. 6145, because certain people wanted the pupils to participate in extracurricular activities and objected to the grading standards which had to be met under the policy.

David Cunningham testified, among other things, that Board employees would receive telephone messages in their mailboxes, with a request to return the call. These calls were for Board employees who had outside businesses as well as other personal calls.

Mr. Cunningham, who served as President of the Brigantine Education Association (BEA) would receive incoming telephone calls at school from the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA). He asserted that the school secretary would receive the telephone calls at North School and leave a message for Cunningham. He also testified that he used the School's telephone number on his NJEA business card as the daytime number where he could be reached. He admitted he did not seek permission from anyone in the Board's employ to use the school telephone number on his business card.

William Schoppy was employed by the Board for 27 years as a health & physical education teacher and also served as basketball coach. He retired in June 1994. During the 27 years Mr. Schoppy was employed by the Board, he also owned and maintained a twelve month business outside of school known as the William Schoppy Trophy Company. During the school day, he would contact the business more that once per day. He also observed other teaching staff members use the telephones for personal business and to make personal calls. One teacher used the telephones to call his stockbroker on a regular basis.

As a basketball coach, Mr. Schoppy understood that a Board policy was adopted in or about 1983 or 1984, dealing with pupil eligibility for extracurricular activities. It was his understanding that the policy was adopted by the Board without any input from the teachers or school principals. He recalled approaching Mrs. Raye, the principal at the time because Schoppy was involved in intramural basketball to inquire about the policy. He recalled that Mrs. Raye observed that it was near the end of the intramural basketball season, therefore, there was no need to deal with the issue at that time. Schoppy was a teacher concerned with pupil discipline and concerned with following the rules. He asserted that the issue was never brought up again, either by petitioner, who served as Schoppy's principal, or any Superintendent of Schools.

Petitioner testified on his own behalf asserting, among other things, that he had been employed by the Board since September 1972 and had acquired a tenure status as a teaching staff member and as an assistant principal, as stipulated by the parties. Prior to acquiring tenure, petitioner was issued a series of contracts of appointments with the Board. After he had acquired tenure, he was issued a form letter from the Board giving him notice of his salary for the subsequent school year. Petitioner asserted he never received any individual employment contracts from the Board after he had acquired tenure in a position.

Petitioner testified that effective July 1, 1992, his appointment as principal of Brigantine North Middle School, grades five through eight, began. He testified that prior to his appointment as principal, there was one school serving grades kindergarten (K) through eight. Upon principal Raye's retirement, the Board restructured the school district and moved from one single school to two separate schools; i.e., an elementary school and a middle school. The Board also restructured its administrative staff, moving from one principal and two vice-principals to two principals with no vice-principals. Mr. Marrindino served as the elementary school principal while petitioner served as the Board's Middle School principal.

Petitioner asserts that between May 26, 1992 to immediately prior to the Board's action to remove him from the position of principal, no one from the Board or its administration ever advised him that his appointment as principal was for a fixed term. Petitioner's initial appointment was for the 1992-93 school year.

Petitioner was appointed again for the 1993-94 school year. However, he testified, no employment contract was issued to him by the Board. Rather, he received the normal form letter which was issued to the staff members advising him of his reappointment and his salary for the coming year. Petitioner believed he was under tenure as principal because he had not been issued an individual employment contract with an ending date. And, he believed, he had been appointed principal without a fixed term.

Petitioner testified that while he served as the Board's principal of its Middle School, he was also employed by the NJEA as a negotiations consultant assigned to the Hammonton office which served Atlantic County and Gloucester County. He represented the various bargaining units in the local school districts with regard to their respective local boards of education. He assisted the local unions in processing grievances, processing unfair labor practices before the Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC), among other things, against the local boards of education. He is also a partner in the firm of Schaffer, Plotkin and Waldman, a labor relations consulting firm which represents only public employees; i.e., police officers, corrections officers, Sheriff's departments, firefighter employees, social service workers, among others. The partnership represents the public employees in labor relations matters with various municipalities and county governments. His duties with the partnership is comparable with those duties petitioner performs for the NJEA as a consultant.

On March 21, 1994, Superintendent Daniel G. Loggi sent a letter to petitioner which stated as follows:

> As you know, the Board was quite dismayed when it was informed that you were utilizing the school phone number on the letterhead of your non-school employment.
> You are to stop this practice immediately; I would appreciate your advising me exactly what steps you will take to do so. (P-12)

On April 19, 1994, petitioner answered Superintendent Loggi, as follows:

> As per your letter of March 21, 1994, this is to formally advise you that immediately upon being advised of the concern of the Board regarding the use of the work phone number on my letterhead, new stationary and business cards were ordered and any letters that went out subsequent to that during the tendency that the stationary was being printed had the school member blacked out.
> For clarification purposes, I want you to know that the stationary in question has been in use by me since 1977 when I was appointed as a part time consultant to the New Jersey Education Association. This letterhead had been utilized with all school districts within Atlantic County, but most importantly had been used with the Brigantine Board of Education. On numerous occasions letters were sent to the Superintendent of Schools of Brigantine with copies to the Board or directly to the Board of Education with that number on the top of the stationary. At no time in seventeen (17) years has anybody ever requested that the number be removed from my stationary. Had that request been made, it would have been done immediately. Utilizing the school phone number on my letterhead was not an attempt to run a business out of the school but was more of a convenience for people to call and leave messages if needed at which I would return their phone calls during my free time. I hope this answers the concern of the Board and clarifies the use of the phone number. Again I am only sorry that the Board instead of having the courtesy to advise me of their concern and allowing me the opportunity to remove the phone number, decided to utilize this as a reason for my non re-employment. (P-13)

Petitioner produced several documents to demonstrate he had used the school's telephone number on his letterhead for outside employment for a number of years. Some of the letters had been addressed to former superintendents in the Board's employ.

Exhibit P-11 in evidence, a letter to petitioner from the Board Secretary, dated March 17, 1994, sets forth the Board's reasons for its nonrenewal of petitioner's position of principal as follows:

> 1. Your failure to follow Board Policy No. 6145 regarding Extracurricular Activities, and your failure to advise your staff of the policy;
>
> 2. Your lack of judgment in designating the school telephone number on your non-school business letterhead;
>
> 3. Your violation of Board Policy No. 4138 regarding Non-school Employment, in that you have taken telephone calls at school pertaining to your outside employment, and have thus engaged in outside activities and/or performed services other that those assigned by the district during the hours of the prescribed school day;
> 4. Your violation of Board Policy No. 3514, in that you have utilized district equipment and personnel for personal use. (P-11)

Petitioner repeated that he was not aware there was a problem with the use of the school's telephone number on his outside employment (NJEA) letterhead until he was advised by the Superintendent's letter dated March 21, 1994. Nor was he advised that his receipt of outside business calls at the school interfered with his school duties. He asserted he would return telephone calls if he had a break in the school day. Otherwise, he would return the calls when he arrived home at the end of the school day.

Petitioner observed several staff members use the school telephone for personal and outside business purposes. Teachers who used the telephones were engaged in businesses which included; roofing, antiques, artificial flowers, crafts, child care, Avon products, Christmas trees, men's clothing, summer classes at home, jewelry, among others. Some of the products and services were offered for sale to teaching staff members on school time. Petitioner testified that Superintendent Loggi received telephone calls at school regarding Loggi's tutorial program for students preparing to take the SAT's. The telephones were used for a wide variety of activities which were not for school business or for school purposes.

Petitioner testified that there were many telephones available to teachers throughout the building including the one located in the teacher's room. The other telephones available for teachers use were located in the main office, the nurses' office and the Child Study Team (CST) office.

Petitioner testified that in 1986 or 1987, the Board attempted to remove the regular free telephone from the teachers room and install a pay telephone. The BEA reminded the Board of the "past practices" provision in the collective bargaining agreement between the BEA and the Board which included, among other things, continued benefits. The Board did not install pay telephones in the teachers room.

Petitioner testified that no member of the Board or its administration ever advised him that he was in violation of Board Policy 4138 or 3514. He asserted that no one had ever explained the policies to him. Nor, prior to March 17, 1994, had anyone ever indicated to petitioner that there was anything wrong or that Policy 4138 and 3514 included the use of the school telephone as he had used it. Subsequent to his receipt of Superintendent Loggi's letter dated March 17, 1994, petitioner ceased making telephone calls related to NJEA and his private consulting business. He admitted, however, that it was difficult to control calls coming into the school for these purposes.

Prior to petitioner's appointment as principal, Mr. Marrandino was principal of the entire K-8 school and responsible for enforcing all Board policies including the policy related to extracurricular activities. Petitioner served as assistant principal under Marrandino's supervision at the time. When petitioner became principal of the Middle School it was his understanding that when a teacher complained about the eligibility of a pupil participating on the school's basketball team where grades were low, tutoring could be afforded the pupil by one of the two basketball coaches in order that the pupil remain eligible for the sport. He asserted the extracurricular activity eligibility practice was informal. Petitioner was never advised that policy had changed. Nor was he advised by the Board or its administration as to how the policy was to be applied and enforced.

Petitioner testified the extracurricular controversy arose at a meeting of the Board on October 28, 1993. Prior to the October 28, 1993, Board meeting, the BEA and the Board had been engaged in collective bargaining, therefore, there was no agreement between the parties. Consequently, the Board had not officially approved any of the 20 or so extracurricular activities usually offered to the pupils. Parents made comments concerning pupil discipline at the October 28, 1993, Board meeting. Petitioner testified that Board member Carol J. Callowhill responded to the parents concerns by asserting that the Board had a very strict policy whereby a pupil who received one or more grades of "D" in subject matter courses was ineligible to participate in school extracurricular activities. Petitioner asserted that the extracurricular policy announced in public by Ms. Callowhill was not the policy followed by the school district's administration.

Subsequent to the October 28, 1993, Board meeting, the petitioner and Marrandino located the policy Ms. Callowhill had made reference to at the Board meeting. Petitioner prepared a memorandum and the two administrators then met with Superintendent Loggi to review and discuss Board Policy 6145. Petitioner's memorandum, dated October 29, 1993, in reference to extracurricular activities states as follows:

> As you recall, last night comment was made by Mrs. Callowhill regarding the Board policy of not allowing students to participate in extracurricular activities if they have more than one (1) "D" in a subject. This policy is indeed the actual policy in the Board Policy Book. I had attached a copy of this for your review. My question is do we in fact enforce this policy to the letter as this will preclude any student who has received more than 1 "D" or any "F's" for participation in not only sports activities but also any extra-curricular activities including band, choir, newspaper, student council, etc.
> We must have a decision on this as soon as possible as Mr. Morey had come to me and has asked about the basketball team which is to begin practicing next week as well as all of the other activities that are currently in progress... (P-23)

Petitioner asserted he advised all of the staff members of Board Policy 6145 and implement it immediately. Subsequently, on November 2, 1993, Superintendent Loggi sent Board President Steve Van Note and Ms. Callowhill the list of pupils ineligible to participate in extracurricular activities at the end of the school's first marking period, November 1, 1993. Grade four excluded ten pupils while the remaining exclusions were enforced: Grade five - 40 pupils; Grade six - 18; Grade seven - 34; and Grade eight - 38; for a total of 140 pupils.

Thereafter, an Extracurricular Committee was formed and recommended that rather than the "D" grade criteria for ineligibility, a Good Academic Standing of a grade average of 3.0 on a 5.0 scale be implemented. A grade of "A" would equal 1 point while a grade of "F" would equal 5 points. Pupils found to be ineligible at the conclusion of one marking period would not be permitted to participate in the subsequent marking period or until they achieved a grade point average of 3.0.

On November 18, 1993, the Board took formal action to temporarily rescind Policy 6145, in favor of the recommended good academic standing criteria. The staff members were advised of the Board's action on November 23, 1993, in petitioner's absence. On December 9, 1993, the Board rescinded its Policy No. 6145, which effectively changed the one "D" ineligibility to the grade point average (GPA) of 3.0.

Petitioner admitted, on cross-examination, that he had never received a letter from Superintendent Loggi or the Board advising him he had acquired tenure in the position of principal. He further admitted that the contract between him and the Board for the 1993-94 school year specifically set forth a term of one year. Petitioner never saw a resolution which granted tenure to a class of employees. Nor did he see a resolution adopted by the Board granting petitioner tenure. Petitioner testified that he believed his appointment without a term granted him tenure. However, he had no knowledge of any employee having been granted tenure upon the employee's original employment. Petitioner did not discuss nor put in writing his belief that he had acquired tenure with the Board. It was only after the Board took official action not to reemploy petitioner as principal that he discussed his belief with Superintendent Loggi. Petitioner subsequently contacted the NJEA regional office for advise and then asked the Board for a statement of reasons for his nonremployment in writing. Petitioner appeared before the Board on May 16, 1994. Although petitioner asked that his nonreemployment be kept confidential, he went public following his private appearance before the Board on May 16, 1994.

Petitioner admitted that when he served as coordinator of School Operations he reviewed the Board's then existing policies and directed a memorandum to the then Superintendent of Schools (R-10). In his memorandum (R-10) petitioner specifically refers to Board Policy No. 6145 and opines that the policy needs more review, among other things. Therefore, petitioner was aware of the existence of Policy 6145, when he assumed the position of principal.

Petitioner asserted that several petitions in support for his reemployment as principal were presented to the Board at its regular monthly meeting held on May 16, 1994. Petitioner admitted that he actually crafted the petitions signed by 75 of the approximately 100 teachers on staff at the time.

Superintendent Loggi testified, among other things, that the present Board Secretary, Charles Brewin, commenced his duties in June 1992, replacing the Board Secretary who was not reemployed by the Board. Mr. Brewin was not fully certificated when he began in the position as Board Secretary and had never occupied a similar position prior to his employment with the Board. Mr. Brewin began in his position at about the same time as petitioner began as principal of the middle school. It was the Board's practice to have the Board Secretary assist in the preparation of personnel contracts and salary notice letters.

Superintendent Loggi recommended a restructuring of the school organization to the Board which, among other things, recommended petitioner's appointment as principal of the newly established middle school. The Board accepted Loggi's recommendations and, among other things, appointed petitioner to the principal's position. After the Board meeting at which the Board appointed petitioner, and which petitioner attended, Loggi wrote petitioner a letter. The Superintendent did not, however, set forth a term of petitioner's appointment nor did he include a contract for petitioner to execute.

In April 1993, the Board executed a second appointment for petitioner in the principal's position with a specific term for the 1993-94 school year. Superintendent Loggi advised petitioner of his second appointment by letter. Petitioner raised no objection to the letter or the terms set forth therein. Loggi asserted that there was no contract issued to petitioner for the 1993-94 term. The Superintendent did not know why there was no contract issued to petitioner. However, he recalled that there was no discussion of petitioner having acquired tenure by the Board at its meeting where petitioner was reappointed.

Superintendent Loggi testified extensively about the extracurricular activity incident raised by Board member Callowhill at the October 1993, Board meeting. Loggi asserted that the school principal was responsible for the day-to-day operation of the school. And, as a consequence of their failure to carry out the Board's policies, in particular Policy 6145 dealing with pupil grades and participation in school extracurricular activities, the Board voted to withhold the salary increments for Marrandino and petitioner.

The Superintendent testified, among other things, that he was aware petitioner had outside businesses when Loggi became Superintendent of the Brigantine Schools. Loggi first became aware that petitioner used the school telephone numbers on his outside business letterhead at a meeting of the Board in January 1993. Loggi did not recognize the school telephone number on petitioner's letterhead when he had occasion to receive letters from petitioner. When he did become aware that petitioner was using the school telephone number on his outside business letterhead, Loggi requested petitioner to cease the practice.

Superintendent Loggi testified that the Board's use of school equipment for outside activities was not strictly enforced. He recalled that Mr. Marrandino wrote a sports column for a local weekly newspaper and used the schools facsimile (fax) machine to transmit his stories to the newspaper. Loggi was advised of Marrandino's practice by Board member Callowhill and directed Marrandino to stop the practice.

Superintendent Loggi opined that the school principal should be held to a higher standard of conduct that the standard for teachers. He asserted that the principal should serve as a role model for those he supervises and, therefore, a higher standard of conduct is expected.

Superintendent Loggi, recommended petitioner for a third year contract, which would have granted petitioner tenure. Loggi made the recommendation to the Board notwithstanding Loggi's knowledge that petitioner had used the school telephone number on his outside business letterhead and, that petitioner had not enforced the Board's extracurricular activities policy. Loggi had the opportunity to observe and evaluate petitioner's performance and believed petitioner had done a good job. Loggi recommended petitioner's appointment at the Board meeting held in March 1993, where he attempted to convince the Board to adopt his recommendation.

A subsequent Board meeting was held in May 16, 1993. Superintendent Loggi was unable to attend the Board meeting due to back surgery he had undergone on May 12, 1993. However, Loggi wrote two letters in support of his recommendation to reappoint petitioner. One letter to Mrs. Callowhill and the other letter, through the Board Secretary, to be read in the open public session of the Board. The Board rejected Superintendent Loggi's recommendation.

The Superintendent admitted he prepared pupils for the SAT examination. He conducts two tutorial programs per year; one in the spring and one in the fall. He does not advertise nor does he use the school's telephone number on personal letterhead or business cards. Because he maintains an unlisted home telephone number, he receives telephone calls at the school concerning the SAT tutorial program. He also provides Brigantine pupils with the SAT tutorial program, at school, without pay.

When it came to Loggi's attention that Avon products and other items were offered for sale at school during school hours, he ordered Marrandino and petitioner to immediately stop the practice.

The Superintendent asserted that certain Board policies are viewed differently by different people. Although he believed the extracurricular policy was restrictive, Loggi believed that petitioner was implementing the policy. Loggi was embarrassed when he learned at the October 1993 public meeting of the Board that petitioner was not following the policy. Loggi asserted that the principal may not ignore a policy adopted by the Board.

Board member Carol Callowhill testified, among other things, concerning Superintendent Loggi's proposal to reorganize the school into an elementary unit and Middle School unit, together with Loggi's recommendation to appoint petitioner principal of the Middle School. She asserted that the proposal was discussed at the May 1992 Board meeting and petitioner was appointed principal, effective July 1, 1992. She asserted the Board did not discuss tenure for petitioner, and petitioner's appointment to the administrative position was for one year.

Ms. Callowhill stated that petitioner had applied for the Board Secretary position. She was certain that the Board did not discuss early tenure for petitioner because the subject of early tenure for Superintendent Loggi had been discussed and rejected by the Board just one year prior to petitioner's appointment as principal. She asserted she is opposed to tenure in any form and voted for petitioner's reappointment for one year.

Ms. Callowhill was appointed to the Board by Mayor J. Edward Kline in August 1988. During the 1988-89 school year, all of the Board's policies were reviewed. The extracurricular policy was reviewed and made stricter than the former policy by excluding pupil participation in extracurricular activities where the pupil received one "F" or failing grade, or one "D" grade for a marking period. Despite Mr. Schoppy's testimony that he did not know of the extracurricular policy, Ms. Callowhill asserted that he was very vocal and opposed to its adoption. The issue of the policy was again raised at a Board meeting in October 1993, where pupil test scores were discussed and a parent inquired as to why pupils were allowed to participate in basketball and other sports when the pupils were receiving failing grades. Ms. Callowhill brought to the Board's attention the existence of the extracurricular activity policy and that the former Boards had placed pupil academics first, before extracurricular activities. Ms. Callowhill was under the impression the policy was being implemented and enforced.

A member of the public advised the Board that the policy was not enforced because certain pupils that had failed subject matter courses were participating in athletic events. Ms. Callowhill and other Board members were embarrassed by this revelation. Superintendent Loggi was directed by the Board to investigate the matter and return to the Board with his findings and recommendations.

Loggi subsequently reported to the Board that the policy had not been enforced. Loggi also reported that if the policy were enforced, almost one-half of the pupil population would be ineligible to participate in extracurricular activities. This report was most disturbing to Ms. Callowhill, and also annoying, because her telephone was constantly busy with calls from parents complaining about the policy, asserting that they were unaware of the policy and that it was unfair to their children. The Board subsequently rescinded the extracurricular activity policy and adopted a new policy which has been discussed hereinbefore.

Ms. Callowhill testified that in or about January 1994, she became aware that petitioner's NJEA letterhead contained the school telephone number. Ms. Callowhill received petitioner's NJEA letterhead from a Board member who had received it from a member of the Absecon City Board of Education. The Brigantine Board member was quite embarrassed to see the school telephone number on petitioner's NJEA letterhead.

Ms. Callowhill was Vice President of the Board in January 1994, and served on a number of the Board's standing committees; the Personnel Committee among them. The Personnel Committee invited Superintendent Loggi to attend a meeting subsequent to Ms. Callowhill's learning of petitioner's use of the school telephone number on his NJEA letterhead. Loggi was not aware petitioner was using the school telephone number on the NJEA letterhead and recommended that petitioner's salary increment be withheld. The Personnel Committee also discussed the extracurricular policy at its meeting. Petitioner's employment was also discussed. Ms. Callowhill was not aware that petitioner would acquire tenure as principal if the Board employed him for the third year. She was under the impression that petitioner would have to serve three, rather than two, years in position to acquire tenure. The Personnel Committee recommended that petitioner's salary increment be withheld and that he not be granted tenure. At the March 1994 Board meeting, it adopted the Personnel Committee's recommendation that petitioner had used extremely poor judgment in his job performance by placing the school telephone number on his outside employment letterhead and, further, he failed to enforce an existing (extracurricular) policy of the Board.

SUMMARY OF THE LEGAL ARGUMENTS

PETITIONER'S POSITION

Petitioner argues, among other things, that although the resolution appointing petitioner principal of the Brigantine North Middle School designated July 1, 1992, as his commencement date, the Board placed no limitation on the term of petitioner's appointment. See Exhibit P-5 (Certified minutes of special Board meeting of 5/26/92). Neither did the Superintendent's letter confirming petitioner's appointment. Ex. P-6; see TR I-75 line 20 to -76 line 13. The Board produced no evidence that any other educational staff member who did not have tenure was ever appointed for an unfixed term. Indeed, Board Policy 4112.1 required that all non-tenured staff, including administrators, be given written contracts in a form prescribed by the state, including a fixed term and termination's on 60 days notice. Ex. P-1, Board Policy 4112.1.

Although the Board's resolution appointing petitioner principal without a fixed term did not specifically grant tenure to principals as a class, Don Marrandino, the only other principal in the district, already had tenure. TR II-8 line 23 to -9 line 1; TR ii-46 line 19 to -47 line 5. Petitioner contends that his unrestricted appointment together with the Board's consistent subsequent treatment of him as tenured establish that the Board provided him early tenure as a principal in the reorganized district.

Petitioner further argues that the Board considered him to be a tenured principal and was consistent with its intent to confer early tenure upon him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 (a), which provides that:

> Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter on or after July 1, 1992, shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:

> (a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period is fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or

The subject of early tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 or 18A:28-5, the analogous provision applicable to initial employment rather that promotion, has been considered by the Commissioner and the courts. See e.g. Rall v. Board of Education v. Bayonne, 104 373 (1969); Contardo v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, 78 S.L.D. 633, 637 (Comm. Ed. 7/18/78), aff'd, Dkt. No. 161-78 (St. Bd. 4/5/79); Spadoro v. Coyle, 1965 S.L.D. 134 (Comm. Ed. 9/29/65). None of the impediments to early tenure discussed in these cases is present here.

For example, Rall and Spadoro hold that if a board grants early tenure to one member of a class, it must do so for all members of the class, and any attempt to limit tenure to one individual is void ab initio. Pickering v. Board of Education of the Borough of North Plainfield, 88 S.L.D. 65, 69 (Comm. Ed. 6/1/88) aff'd Dkt. No. 10-88 (St. Bd. 6/3/88); aff'd Dkt No. A-5087-87T2 (App. Div. 5/8/89). There is no evidence here that respondent intended that early tenure benefit petitioner alone. Because the district's only other principal, Donald Marrandino, already had tenure, allowing petitioner early tenure does not establish any intent to limit its effect to him. In the absence of any evidence that the Board acted irregularly, its decision concerning early tenure as evidenced by its treatment of petitioner should be presumed correct.

In the alternative, petitioner argues that the Board's action to remove him from the principal's position was arbitrary, capricious and for reasons which the Board has not yet identified truthfully, all in violation of constitutionally protected rights. Petitioner asserts that the Board's discretionary authority not to renew the employment of a nontenured staff member is not unlimited. Its action can be set aside if it is "arbitrary, unreasonable, capricious, or arbitrary considerations which have no relationship to the purpose to be served." Donaldson v. Board of Education of North Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236, 247 (1974); quoting Ruch v. Board of Education of the Greater Egg Harbor Regional High School District, 68 S.L.D. 7, 10 (Comm. Ed. 1968). The retaliatory nonrenewal of a public employee for engaging in constitutionally protected expression or petitions to the government for redress of grievances is an arbitrary and capricious act which violates constitutional protections. "While a board has broad discretion with respect to the appointment, transfer, dismissal or nonrenewal of these employees, its actions are limited by First and Fourteenth Amendment protections." Parente v. Board of Education of the Borough of Metuchen, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d 352, 355 (Comm. Ed. 3/17/94), aff'd 94 N.J.A.R. 2d 500 (St. Bd. 7/6/94) (Board's reprimand and nonrenewal of nontenured lunch aid for exercise of permissible free speech declared null and void); see Winston v. Board of Education of South Plainfield, 125 N.J. Super. 131 (App. Div. 1973), aff'd 64 N.J. 582 (1974).

Petitioner's criticism of the Board's extracurricular policy and his recommendations for change were constitutionally protected expressions similar to those considered by the Third Circuit in Zamboni v. Stamler, 847 F. 2d 73 (3d. Cir. 1988), cert. denied 488 U.S. 899 (1988). There an employee of Union County, New Jersey alleged that he was subject to arbitrary disciplinary actions in reprisal against his criticism of a departmental reorganization, all in violation of the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, Article 1, ¶¶6, 18. The Third Circuit held that the state could not condition public employment on a basis which infringed upon an employee's constitutionally protected interest in free expression on matters of public concern, at least where that expression did not interface with the efficiency of the public services performed through its employees. Id. 857 F. 2d at 76, citing Pickering v. Board of Education, 391 U.S. 563, 568 (1968) ("the free speech rights of public employees may be limited only where absolutely required by the interest of the State, as an employer, in promoting the efficiency of the public services it performs through its employees"). It therefore reversed the district court's order granting summary judgment to the public employer, and remanded the case for trial on the factual issues, including the causal connection between the plaintiff's protest and the alleged reprisal. It must be concluded that the Board's extracurricular policy and its academic standards were matters of public concern, and that petitioners engaged in protective speech concerning these issues.

Petitioner finally argues, alternatively, that the Board's reasons for removing him from the principal's position were so arbitrary and capricious that they must be removed from his personnel record. The requirement that even a nontenured staff member be given the reasons for nonrenewal of employment "may serve as a significant discipline on the board itself against arbitrary or abusive exercise of discretionary powers" by the Board. Donaldson supra, 65 N.J. at 245. Where the reason given for a nonrenewal is arbitrary and without a sufficient basis in fact to be considered a reason for nonrenewal, the liberty interest in future professional employment is compromised.

Petitioner argues that because there is no reasonable basis for holding petitioner responsible for the non-enforcement of an extracurricular policy which was unworkable and modified by the Board to encompass the very changes suggested by the petitioner and other district administrators, the Commissioner should require that of the extracurricular policy be removed from his personnel file as a reason for his nonrenewal.

The evidence similarly demonstrates that there was no written policy specifically prohibiting the use of school telephones for non-school business, and no established practice of applying to school telephones the general prohibition on using school equipment for non-school purposes. Moreover, there was absolutely no evidence that Mr. Plotkin's telephone calls or out-of-school activities interfered in any way with his performance as principal. In fact, the Superintendent had only praise for petitioner's performance and recommended to the Board that he be retained as principal. Under these circumstances it can only be concluded that petitioner's use of school telephones and publication of his school telephone number was not a sufficient justification for nonrenewal. These reasons should also be deleted from his personnel file.

THE BOARD'S POSITION

The Board argues, among other things, that petitioner did not acquire a tenure status as principal, therefore, it was not in violation of the Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18 (Act). The Board recognizes that petitioner had acquired a tenure status in its employ as a teacher and as an assistant principal. However, it is axiomatic that the right of tenure, and with it the consequent security of permanent employment, does not exist "until the precise condition[s] laid down in the statute ha[ve] been met." Zimmerman v. Newark Board of Ed., 38 N.J. 65, 75 (1962), cert. Denied, 371 U.S. 956 (1963). See also Ahrensfield v. State Board of Educ., 126 N.J.L. 543 (E. & A. 19941); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Carmine Pellechio, 83 S.L.D. 1616, 1622 (St. Bd. 5/4/83), aff'd, 84 S.L.D. 2003 (App. Div. 2/28/84) ("courts have consistently held that tenure accrues to teaching staff members who meet the precise conditions of the tenure statute"). Here, such precise conditions require, at a minimum, two successful calendar or school years of employment in the position for which petitioner is claiming tenure. Petitioner's employment with the Board in the principal's position does not meet that basic requirement.

The Board observes that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 allows an employing Board to fix a shortened tenure period. However, such action can only be taken by means of a resolution which is formally adopted by the board and which shows unequivocally the board's intent to fix a shortened tenure period for an entire class of employees. See, e.g., Procopio v. Wildwood Bd. Of Educ., 75 S.L.D. 807, 813 (Com. Ed. 12/15/75) (Absent evidence that policy was established by the Board to shorten tenure requirements generally for superintendents in the district, and absent specific language in the Boards' minutes showing the clear intent of the Board to grant early tenure to petitioner..., petitioner's claim to early tenure must fall.") (emphasis added); Knipple v. Egg Harbor Bd. Of Educ., 71 S.L.D. 210, 213 ("Absent any specific provision made by the Board to deliberately shorten the time to be served by [the employee] before the acquisition of tenure, the governing statute is ... N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5).

Petitioner does not even allege, must less had he proven, that the Board formally adopted a resolution which "unequivocally" evidences its intent to grant a shortened tenure period to all principals in the district.

Significantly, only where a grant of early tenure had been adopted pursuant to a formal resolution of the Board which indicates a clear intent to grant early tenure to a class of employees has it been upheld. See, in Rall v. Board of Educ. Of the City of Bayonne, 54 N.J. 373, 375 (1969). On the other hand, where a Board resolution had not been clear and unequivocal, employees' claim to early tenure have consistently been denied. See, in King v. Atlantic County Vocational Bd. Of Educ., 75 S.L.D. 547 (Comm. Ed. 8/5/75).

In sum, the Board argues, there are only two ways that petitioner could have earned tenure as a principal: (1) by serving the requisite statutory probationary period (which it is undisputed he did not); or (2) if the board fixed a shorter probationary period for all principals in the district. Petitioner has not cited any statutory or decisional authority to support his position that a Board's inadvertent failure to confer a certain type of contract upon a single non-tenured employee evidences a "clear intent" by the Board to shorten the tenure period for the entire class of employees. The reason for petitioner's failure to cite any authority for this proposition is obvious: there is none.

The Board further argues that its decision not to reappoint petitioner as principal was justified and should not be disturbed. The Board grounded its decision not to reemploy petitioner for: (1) his failure to enforce Board Policy 6145; (2) utilizing a non-school business letterhead in conjunction with his NJEA consulting business on which he listed his school telephone number; (3 and 4) receiving and returning non-school business telephone calls on school time. The Board contends that in light of the uncontroverted and overwhelming evidence of petitioner's misconduct, it is clear that the Board's decision not to reemploy him was justified. Indeed, reasons far less credible than those cited by the Board for its decision here have been upheld. See, e.g., Goldstein v. Board of Educ. Of the Tp. of Wyckoff, 82 S.L.D. 837 (Comm. Ed. 9/2/82). Hanson v. Red Bank Borough Bd. Of Educ., 85 S.L.D. 513 (Comm. Ed. 4/26/85) aff'd 85 S.L.D. 523 (St. Bd. 8/7/85).

In sum, there simply is no evidence to sustain a finding that the Board abused its discretion when it chose not to reemploy Plotkin. It has been held that "school administrators and the Board have the right to make subjective judgments so long as they do so in good faith." Bringhurst v. Board of Educ. of the City of Cape May, 81 S.L.D. 564, 565 (St. Bd. 10/7/81). Because there is no indication here that the Board acted other than in good faith, its decision must not be disturbed.

In addition, to his contention that the Board's decision not to reappoint him was arbitrary, petitioner also claims that the Board's decision violated his First Amendment rights. More specifically, petitioner argues that the Board's decision not to reemploy him was motivated, in part, by his criticism of the Board's extracurricular policy in October of 1993, which petitioner claims was constitutionally protected activity. Petitioner has failed to produce any evidence to sustain this claim. Even if petitioner's suggestions or criticism concerning Board Policy 6145 constitutes constitutionally protected expression, he has failed to produce any evidence which would establish that his criticism was a 'substantial motivating factor" in the Board's decision not to reemploy him as principal. Zamboni v. Stamler, 847 F. 2d 73, 79 n.b. (3rd Cir. 1988).

Finally, the Board argues that because its decision not to reappoint petitioner as principal was not arbitrary or capricious, there is no need to remove the reasons for the decision from petitioner's personnel record. It contends, among other things, that its action constituted sufficient justification for petitioner's removal and, therefore, his request that the Board's reasons be expunged from his personnel record must be denied.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner did not acquire a tenure status as principal with the Board. The uncontroverted facts clearly demonstrate that petitioner did not serve the full two year probationary period under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 to acquire tenure as a principal. Nor is there any showing by petitioner that the Board intended or did, in fact, grant him early tenure. Petitioner is unable to show, in any fashion, that the Board took any affirmative action to grant him tenure as a principal at any time. As the Board appropriately observes, "it is axiomatic that the right of tenure does not come into being until the precise condition laid down in the statute has been met," our Supreme Court in Zimmerman, supra. at 38 N.J. 75, quoting with approval from Ahrensfield, supra. 126 N.J.L. at 544. Thus, the precise statutory conditions having not been met by petitioner preclude him from a tenure status as principal in the Board's employ.

Nor were the Board's action to remove petitioner from the principal's position arbitrary and/or capricious, or in violation of his constitutionally protected rights. Rather, the Board evaluated petitioner's performance and determined not to grant him tenure upon reasonable and justicable grounds. First, the Board determined that petitioner lacked good judgment when he had his school telephone number imprinted on his out of school business letterhead. The Board was paying petitioner's substantial salary to administer its school, not to use school time and equipment to engage in outside business activities. He was being compensated by the board to attend to school problems and issues rather than use the school to enhance his outside compensation. Such grounds for not renewing his contract, and thus not granting him tenure, was sufficient under the law. Donaldson, supra.

Petitioner's argument that the Board violated his constitutionally protected rights for criticizing the Board's extracurricular activities policy is without merit. Petitioner was not disciplined for criticizing Policy 6145. Rather, he was not reemployed as principal for not enforcing the policy. Petitioner admits, that as an administrator in the board's employ, he is responsible for knowing the Board's policies. In fact, petitioner had engaged in an exhaustive review of the policies and made specific comments concerning Policy 6145. He cannot claim ignorance of the policy. To the contrary, petitioner was negligent in carrying out a known and understood policy of the Board; sufficient grounds not to renew his appointment and grant him tenure.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the action by the Board to deny petitioner tenure under the facts and circumstances of this matter was appropriate and in accordance with the law.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the herein Petition of Appeal be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.*

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) for the reasons expressed therein. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner's claim to the position in question fails pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the ALJ and dismisses the Petition of Appeal in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

ACTING COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* By letter dated May 21, 1996, the parties were notified that the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, had reversed the holding in G. Michael Nelson v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 257, thereby abandoning the long-standing administrative practice of recognizing the positions specifically enumerated in *N.J.S.A.*18A:28-5 as "separately tenurable." See Nelson, decided by the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, April 29, 1996, A-6441-94T5. The parties were therein provided five days from receipt of said notice to submit arguments to the Commissioner as to the relevancy of the Nelson holding on the instant matter. Upon request, the parties received extensions to file these arguments, and petitioner and the Board filed timely arguments. These submissions were carefully reviewed. Subsequently, however, on June 10, 1996, Bill A-2153 was introduced to the Legislature, amending N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, to clarify that tenure in the enumerated positions shall accrue only by employment in the particular position, effectively negating the Court's ruling in Nelson. The Bill was signed into law by Governor Whitman on June 28, 1996. (P.L. 1996, c. 58)

Petitioner, a certified teaching staff member in the District, alleged he should have been given preference over the person appointed to the position of head coach of girls' basketball at one of the District's high schools for the 1990-91 school year.

ALJ determined that petitioner failed to demonstrate by a preponderance of credible evidence that the Board's decision to reject his application to be the head girls' basketball coach was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, taken in bad faith or otherwise legally tainted. Thus, the ALJ concluded that the petition to set that decision aside and for an award of back pay must be rejected.

Commissioner concurred with findings and determination in initial decision. Petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: May 6, 1996 Decided: June 14, 1996

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter is on remand from the June 7, 1995 decision by the State Board of Education which followed a reversal by the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, on December 6, 1994, of State Board and Commissioner affirmances of an initial decision which I rendered in 1993. See 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 446, rev'd, 278 N.J. Super. 31 (App. Div. 1994), certif. denied, 140 N.J. 277 (1995). In its decision the Appellate Division held that the administrative determinations failed to properly apply the amended provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3(a) and (b) respecting the appointment of coaches not already employed in the school district. In particular, the court interpreted the cited regulation to impose no obligation on local boards of education, when hiring candidates for coaching positions, to give any preference to qualified, certified teaching staff members already employed within the school district itself. My initial decision, later affirmed both by the Commissioner and the State Board of Education, was based in large part upon my finding that since Krupp was a certified teacher already employed by the respondent regional school district, he should have been given preference over the person who was appointed in his stead - Walter Hennessey - to the position of head coach of girls' basketball at one of the district's high schools for the 1990-91 school year. The Appellate Division, as noted, disagreed with that decision, but determined, nevertheless, to remand the case to the agency in order to permit it to explore whether, in any event, the respondent's determination to deny Krupp the appointment reflected an exercise of sound educational judgment since the record did not adequately reveal whether there was a proper basis for the determination to reject Krupp in favor Hennessey, a non-Board employee. Following the remand, the State Board itself remanded the matter to the Commissioner in order to provide respondent the opportunity to argue that its decision constituted a valid exercise of sound educational judgment.

The Commissioner then transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law, the matter was assigned to the undersigned administrative law judge, and a plenary hearing was conducted on April 1, 1996. Post-hearing briefs were submitted, and the record closed on May 6, 1996.

TESTIMONY

For the Board:

The Board's sole additional witness at the April 1, 1996 hearing was its superintendent of schools, Donald Merachnik, who has served in that capacity for about twenty-five years. The regional district, he explained, operated three separate high schools (grades 9-12) with an enrollment of approximately 2,174 students. There are also 450 staffpersons, about half of whom are teachers. The students are from the following six municipalities: Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield.*

In response to Krupp's claim that the Board unlawfully rejected his application to be appointed head girls' basketball coach at Arthur L. Johnson High School (hereinafter "Johnson") for 1990-91, Merachnik amplified upon testimony which had been offered at the original hearing by Charles Bauman, assistant superintendent of schools, Peter Falzarano, director of athletics, and David Carl, principal of Johnson. The testimony of those individuals is contained in the transcript of the March 2, 1993 proceedings, which is a part of the record in this case and which I will mark as "Court Exhibit 1."

Merachnik explained that following receipt of Krupp's application to coach girls' basketball at Johnson for 1990-91 he spoke to Bauman and Falzarano regarding the application and explored its propriety in light of district policy. Although, according to the witness, he was not "involved directly" in the selection process, as superintendent it was his task ultimately to make recommendations to the Board for all coaching appointments and it therefore was necessary for him to be kept informed of the rationale for his senior administrative staff's recommendations. Accordingly, Merachnik explained that Bauman and Falzarano were strongly of the opinion that Krupp's application to coach at Johnson in 1990-91 was inappropriate for the following reasons: (1) an individual seeking appointment to a coaching position ought to be a teacher in the same high school where he or she would be coaching in light of the need for an ongoing relationship with students; (2) coaches also should be assigned to the same high school where they already teach since there is a "coaching collegiality" to be fostered and it is desirable to have "an athletic family" of coach-teachers, particularly in view of the fact that some students participate in more than one sport; (3) in order to maintain "consistency" it is important for coaches to have the opportunity to build a program within a high school, and this takes time to achieve; and (4) each of the district's three high schools receives pupils from only one or two of the constituent communities, and a person who teaches in the same school where he or she also coaches can form a more lasting relationship with parents, local "boosters" and community leagues from which the student athletic population is derived. Thus, since Krupp was a teacher at Jonathan Dayton High School, and had coached there for several years, appointing him to coach at Johnson met none of those objectives.

Although implementation of the above factors was described by Merachnik to represent the "ideal" situation, he candidly conceded that given the practical realities of the coaching assignment situation many coaches, by necessity, although certified teachers, regrettably are not also employed in the school district itself. Although Krupp, of course, was a long time employee of the district, his determination to resign his coaching position at Dayton, where he taught and where he had coached girls' basketball for ten years, just to seek a similar coaching position at another school (Johnson), was seriously at odds with the spirit of those salutary policy considerations. Thus, to have appointed Krupp to coach at Johnson potentially would have created a bad precedent for the system at large and might also have served as a poor role model for other coaches who, although also employed within the district, might be prompted, as well, to move to another school either to improve their win-loss records or for some other unsound reason.

For Petitioner:

Krupp, who also had testified at the original hearing in March 1993, insisted that his application to coach girls' basketball at Johnson for 1990-91 should not have been considered "unusual," since the municipality feeding pupils into Johnson, Clark, was the town where he had been raised, and Johnson was the high school from which he had graduated. Thus, he would be returning to coach at his "alma mater." Indeed, even while at college Krupp worked for the Clark Recreation Department and officiated at league games there. In short, as he put it, he had strong ties both to the municipality (Clark) and to the high school (Johnson), and the appointment of Hennessey, who didn't even teach in the district or live in Clark, made no sense at all.

Also, with respect to Merachnik's claim that interaction with other coaches is important, Krupp observed that he often sought the assistance and advice of other coaches within the district, and all willingly shared their experiences and their expertise regardless of the particular school in which they taught.

DISCUSSION

The issue, as noted in the Procedural History section of this initial decision, is to determine whether Krupp has shown by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the Board's action in rejecting his application to coach girls' basketball at Johnson for 1990-91, and its appointment of Hennessey, instead, represented the improper exercise of educational judgment and was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Having heard Merachnik reiterate the criteria which he and his senior staff felt to be important with respect to coaching assignments, I am convinced, measured by that standard, that the respondent's determination to reject Krupp's application and appoint Hennessey must be upheld, even though some of the factors mentioned by the superintendent arguably could be cited to support Krupp's own entitlement to the position.

As the respondent correctly notes in its post-hearing submissions, the settled case law establishes that decisions by boards of education in matters committed by law to their discretion must be upheld unless they are so arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable to fall, as a matter of law, into some prohibited category. To put it another way, boards even are free to make "poor" decisions, and to exercise "poor" judgment. In such instances, however, that conduct alone does not make their decisions subject to reversal by an administrative law judge or by the reviewing agencies, as the proper remedy for the exercise of poor judgment in respect to an area committed by law to the discretion of a board rests with the electorate. Thus, the proofs reveal that Merachnik and his senior administrative staff legitimately were concerned that adverse consequences might flow if Krupp were allowed to "desert" Dayton in order to coach at Johnson. While I, personally, might disagree with some of the reasons advanced by the Board's witnesses in this regard, it is not legally within my purview to reject their judgment solely on the basis of my own predilections concerning the persuasiveness of their rationale. The upshot, of course, of the Board's decision to appoint Hennessey and to reject Krupp was that neither of the head girls' basketball coaches at Dayton or Johnson were teaching staff members employed by the Board. Obviously, the Board was aware of that consequence, but did not believe it militated against the action it took.

As the Board noted in its initial brief, a decision is arbitrary or capricious only if it is exercised in "bad faith" or without any conceivable regard to reason. Accordingly, even if I disagree with the decision and believe that the determination was erroneous, that view, standing alone, is not legally adequate to permit me to substitute my judgment for that of the board. Our case law is replete with authority for that settled proposition. See, e.g., Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The Board, through its senior administrative staff, sincerely was convinced that permitting Krupp to give up his coaching position at Dayton, where he had taught and coached for years, and then to apply for a like coaching position at Johnson, might result in potentially serious adverse effects upon Dayton's athletic program and upon the sensibilities of its student population, especially its girls' basketball team members. While I personally question whether any adverse effects would have occurred (as I mentioned in the 1993 initial decision), I cannot say it was unfair or unreasonable for the Board to take that view. True, the Board seems to have assumed that Krupp "belonged" to Dayton and that his precipitous departure was "disloyal" and perhaps predicated upon his desire to "jump ship" in order to coach a different team, which he felt had a "better" chance of winning. Again, while that belief may be subject to criticism, and may in fact have been quite wrong, that does not make it subject to reversal by me. Although, as noted, the determination to reject Krupp's application to coach at Johnson resulted in a situation where neither of the head girls' basketball coaches at Dayton or Johnson in 1990-91 were employed within the school district, and therefore neither had the attributes of continuity, collegiality and/or coordination with staff and pupils that the Board desired, that is not the legal test. While I do not believe the Board could have forced Krupp, over his objection, to coach at Dayton in 1990-91 if he no longer wished to do so, by the same token it was under no obligation to appoint him to the Johnson position, since Hennessey too was a qualified certified teacher. The respondent had the discretion to conclude that permitting Krupp to take the Johnson position potentially would have interfered, if only theoretically, with the Board's goals of continuity, collegiality and rapport with students at a particular school. Although, in hindsight, the upshot of its determination might have been that those considerations were not advanced, that merely goes to the "quality" of the judgment, not its legal validity.

Finally, I agree with the Board that there is no proof in the record that its decision was the product of "bad faith." Indeed, as the Board has not let me forget, its determination to appoint Hennessey over Krupp does have some "intrinsic merit," and the fact that the eventual coaching assignments did not turn out the way the Board had hoped does not make its decision susceptible to reversal.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above I have determined that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the Board's decision to reject his application to be the head girls' basketball coach at Johnson for 1990-91 was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, taken in bad faith or otherwise legally tainted. Thus, I CONCLUDE that his petition to set that decision aside and for an award of back pay must be rejected.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that the Board's decision not to appoint petitioner to the sought-after coaching position did not constitute an abuse of discretion, as the Board's actions were not arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, or otherwise taken in bad faith.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and the within petition is dismissed.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed General Fund cap waiver in the amount of $43,589 rejected by voters on April 16, 1996. Appeal was uncontested by the governing body.

Upon review of the record, Commissioner determined to order the increase of $43,589 in cap waiver monies for a total General Fund tax levy of $1,208,475 for 1996-97 school year.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER	:
APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE BOROUGH OF GLEN GARDNER,	:	DECISION
HUNTERDON COUNTY.	:

For the Board of Education, Michael K. Ligorano, Esq.
(Ligorano & Sozansky)

For the Borough of Glen Gardner, J. Peter Jost, Esq.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 5, 1996, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Glen Gardner Board of Education (Board), seeking to appeal the defeat of the Board's cap waiver proposal at the annual school election.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In March 1996, the Board advised the County Superintendent that the Board would need a "voter cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28f in order to be able to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E) in the District. The County Superintendent ultimately determined, by way of communication dated April 3, 1996, that all of the Board's proposed $43,589 voter cap waiver was necessary for T & E, and, therefore, appealable in the event of voter defeat.

At the annual school election on April 16, 1996, the Board submitted a proposed general fund tax levy question of $1,164,886, as well as its proposed cap waiver question of $43,589, to the voters of Glen Gardner; both questions were defeated by the voters. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Mayor and Council reviewed the defeated budget, but determined to certify the full amount of tax levy proposed by the Board. In addition, the governing body certified the entire amount of the cap waiver, notwithstanding that it did not have the authority to do so. Accordingly, there being no governing body reductions at issue so as to necessitate a budget appeal and in that only the Commissioner can restore monies in a cap waiver rejected by the voters, the Board filed the within appeal of the voters' action on its cap waiver question on June 5, 1996.

On June 7, 1996, the County Superintendent submitted his affidavit and supporting documents attesting to the process that led to his conclusion, and that of the Department of Education's Cap Waiver Review Panel, that the cap waiver funds approved were both necessary for T & E and unable to be reallocated from within the base budget. No replies to this filing were made by the parties.

The appeal was deemed uncontested with the receipt of a letter from the Borough on June 10, 1996, stating that the governing body of the Borough is in favor of this appeal, at which time the record was closed pending receipt of the June 30 report below.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated March 13, 1996, and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1996-97 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by Township
General Fund	$1,164,886	General Fund	$ 1,164,886
		Cap Waiver	$ 43,589

Amount of Reduction by Township		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$ -0-	General Fund	$ - 0-

Amount of Cap Waiver Approved as T & E and Appealed Herein
TOTAL AMOUNT ON APPEAL	$ 43,589

The cap waiver requested by the Board was composed of only one line item, which was determined by the County Superintendent to be necessary for T & E as set forth below:

Necessary for T & E

Account Title	Account Number	Dollar Amount
Tuition to Other LEAs - Regular	11-000-100-561	$ 43,589
TOTAL WAIVER REQUEST		$ 43,589

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for T & E. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such T & E to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). With respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is both fully necessary for purposes of T & E and unable to be derived from further reallocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993; Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board Decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standards to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

The Commissioner notes that the Board's appeal papers state that the Glen Gardner School District is a nonoperating district, which sends most students, including those with special education needs, to the Town of Clinton school. The entire amount of cap waiver funds herein, $43,589, is dedicated for tuition which is contractually owed to the Town of Clinton school.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner approves this amount as necessary for T & E.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board appropriated $132,284 of a projected fund balance of $183,619 as revenue, leaving $51,335 as undesignated unreserved surplus which is less than 3% of its proposed 1996-97 budget. The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board Secretary's report) reveals that this projection was essentially accurate.

Based on the above, subject to verification through the Board's 1995-96 annual year-end audit report, the Commissioner determines that no allocation from surplus is possible to fund the line-item appropriation approved herein as necessary for T & E.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner finds that the $43,589 appealed by the Board herein is necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the District and, further, that the monies in question cannot be derived from reallocation within the general fund budget. The Commissioner additionally notes that the line-item waiver to expenditure limitations granted herein, and outlined below, represents a restricted appropriation in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

Account Title	Account Number	Amount Necessary	Not Necessary
Tuition to Other LEAs - Regular	11-000-100-561	$43,589	$ -0-
Total Line-Item Determinations		$43,589	$ -0-

Tax Levy Certified by Governing Body	$ 1,208,475

Amount of Cap Waiver to be Funded by Surplus	(-0-)
Cap Waiver Amount Already Certified by Governing Body	(43,589)
Total Tax Levy for 1996-97	$ 1,208,475

Accordingly, the tax levy certified by the Council of the Borough of Glen Gardner, which already included the amount herein appealed as indicated above, shall stand as certified.

LINDA PETERS, PETITIONER-APPELLANT, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE PINE-LANDS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY, RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT, AND LEO F. KLAGHOLZ, COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 1, 1996

Reconsidered by the Commissioner of Education, September 20, 1996

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak (Aileen M. O'Driscoll, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent Board of Education of the Pinelands Regional School District, Murray & Carr (Paul J. Carr, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent Leo F. Klagholz, Michelle L. Miller, Deputy Attorney General (Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The genesis of this appeal lies in two letter decisions issued by the Commissioner of Education which, together, resulted in the complete dismissal of a two-count petition filed by a tenured speech correctionist (hereinafter "petitioner") pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1 et seq. By this petition, petitioner essentially sought to challenge the action taken by the Board of Education of the Pinelands Regional School District (hereinafter "Board") to reduce her full-time position to part-time, twenty hours per week, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

In Count One of her petition, petitioner claimed that the reduction of her position on April 24, 1996 was in violation of her tenure and seniority rights. Petitioner alleged that the Board's action was based on an invalid waiver granted by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq. of the requirements of the administrative code pertaining to the provision of special education.[1] Petitioner also alleged in Count One that the Board had acted improperly in requesting that waiver and that the Commissioner had improperly granted it. Petitioner sought relief in the form of reinstatement to a full-time position with back pay and emoluments from the date of the reduction in her employment.

Count Two of the petition focused on the underlying waiver granted to the Board by the Commissioner. Petitioner alleged in Count Two that the Board had not requested the waiver for the purposes authorized by N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq. and, further, that the Commissioner did not grant the waiver for any of these purposes. Petitioner therefore sought, in addition to reinstatement to a full-time position, a declaration from the Commissioner that the waiver was null and void.

[1] On November 1, 1995, the Board applied to the Commissioner for a waiver pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.5 of the program criteria set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:28-4.3 et seq. That regulation requires that speech language services for classified pupils must be provided either individually or in groups not exceeding three, N.J.A.C. 6:28-4.3(a)(1), and that supplementary instruction may not be provided in groups exceeding five pupils. N.J.A.C. 6:28-4.3(a)(2). That waiver request was approved by the Commissioner on March 4, 1996.

By letter decision dated August 1, 1996, the Commissioner determined that Count Two constituted an appeal from a final determination of the Commissioner which should have been made to the State Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1 et seq. rather than to the Commissioner under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1 et seq. He therefore dismissed Count Two. In addition, while he found that Count One of the petition was "inextricably linked to Count Two," the Commissioner asked petitioner to advise the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes whether she wished to proceed with Count One.

In response to this decision, petitioner advised the Commissioner that she wished to proceed with Count One, and also requested reconsideration of his dismissal of Count Two.

By letter dated September 20, 1996, the Commissioner reaffirmed his prior determination to dismiss Count Two. In addition, the Commissioner dismissed Count One, finding that because Count One was contingent on a ruling on Count Two, Count One was not yet "ripe for adjudication."

Petitioner appealed to the State Board, seeking reversal of the Commissioner's dismissal of her petition and a remand of the matter for a determination of the merits of her claim. Petitioner argued that dismissal of her petition was contrary to the applicable regulations and, further, that approval of the waiver in question constituted an administrative decision reviewable by the Commissioner.

In response to petitioner's appeal, a Deputy Attorney General representing the Commissioner filed a brief on his behalf urging affirmance of the Commissioner's determination. In her letter brief, the Deputy argued that waiver determinations made under N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq. are "final determinations" which are appealable to the State Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1(a)(1). In support of her position, the Deputy relied on comments and responses made concerning N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq. during the regulation adoption process. Relying on the same responses, she further argued that the Commissioner's original determination to hold Count One in abeyance until an adjudication by the State Board of Count Two was reasonable, and hence, that his subsequent decision to dismiss Count One without prejudice was appropriate.

Counsel for the Board then filed a letter response on behalf of the school district indicating that it supported the position taken by the Commissioner.[2]

In her reply brief, petitioner once more argued that her claim centered on alleged violations of her tenure and seniority rights and that the regulations governing appeals to the State Board are controlling of her right to appeal such tenure violations. Petitioner points out that, under the State Board's rules, such tenure and seniority claims must first be litigated before the Commissioner as provided by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1 et seq. before being appealed to the State Board, notwithstanding the fact that underlying claims might concern, as in this case, the application of other regulations.

Petitioner subsequently requested to supplement the record with a Complaint Investigation Report issued by the Department of Education's Office of Special Education Programs concerning the Board's use of the waiver underlying this litigation.

The Deputy Attorney General representing the Commissioner opposed supplementation, arguing that only the dismissal of petitioner's claim is before the State Board and that the Complaint Investigation Report is immaterial to this issue. In this respect, she argued that the lawfulness of the waiver was not before the State Board because "pertinent facts and allegations have not been pled or briefed." She further asserted that petitioner in any event "appears to be out of time to appeal the Commissioner's waiver grant."[3]

[2] The Board also stressed that because petitioner's appeal was directed at action taken by the Commissioner sua sponte, it had not had the opportunity to establish a record below on Count One.

On May 19, 1997, petitioner formalized her request to supplement the record on appeal by filing a motion pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.9. In her motion, petitioner additionally sought to supplement the record with correspondence dated April 28, 1997 from Dr. Richard A. DiPatri, who was then Deputy Commissioner of Education.

As follows, we reverse the Commissioner's determination to dismiss the petition in this case. We also grant petitioner's motion to supplement the record and remand this matter to the Commissioner with direction that it be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for initial determination of petitioner's claims.

Based on our review of the record developed thus far, it is clear that petitioner's claim that her tenure and seniority rights were violated when the Board reduced her position to part-time presents a controversy arising under the school laws over which the Commissioner has primary jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Accordingly, before the State Board of Education can properly consider the substance of petitioner's claim pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, it must first be decided by the Commissioner.

Our jurisdiction over this matter emanates from N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27, which provides that any party aggrieved by any determination of the Commissioner can appeal to the State Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 provides that such appeal must be taken within thirty days in the "manner prescribed by the rules of the board." The rules implementing this statutory right of appeal are codified at N.J.A.C. 6:2-1 et seq. As petitioner correctly points out, those rules are controlling of appeals to the State Board.

[3] From this perspective, petitioner's cause of action arose on March 4, 1996, the date on which the waiver was approved, rather than April 24, 1996, the date on which the Board acted to reduce her employment.

Petitioner in this instance was not aggrieved by the Commissioner's approval of the waiver involved in this case, but rather by the Board's subsequent action in reducing her position. There is no question that such actions must be challenged by a petition of appeal to the Commissioner and litigated as provided by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1 et seq.[4] before the matter may be brought to the State Board through an appeal made pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1 et seq. It is equally clear that the Commissioner may not dispose of such petitions without deciding the matter merely because the claim involves the application of a regulation, even when the regulation, as here, provides authority to a district board to seek a waiver of another regulation and to the Commissioner to grant such a request.

Such a construction of N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq. would permit a district board in cases like this to avoid administrative and judicial scrutiny of the legal propriety of actions it has taken under the authority conferred by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 to abolish or reduce positions held by tenured teaching staff members. Whatever discussion occurred while we were in the process of adopting N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq., the State Board never intended this result.

In addition, as this case well illustrates, such a result would circumvent our ability to review the exercise by the Department of Education of the authority which we have delegated to the Commissioner as administrative officer of the Department, see N.J.S.A. 18A:4-22, to grant administrative waivers pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 and [4] We note that N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(d) provides that a petition of appeal may name the Department of Education or its agents as parties to disputes falling within the jurisdiction of our agency.

N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.5. In this respect, we recognize that the waiver process set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.5 does not and cannot guarantee that the effect of individual waivers will be readily ascertainable in all cases from the documentation generated by the waiver application process. See N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.5(a)(1) through N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.5(a)(4).

Further, although N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.5(a)(4) requires that an application for a waiver "demonstrate that the school district's educational community, including the district board of education, parents, administration and staff, have been informed of the proposed waiver to the specific rule through public comment and input," we would not impose a general bar to substantive challenges to the application of the education laws on the basis of such a general notice provision. Rather, as head of the Department of Education, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-1, and given our responsibility for the general supervision of public education in New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-10, as well as our obligation to insure that our procedures operate fairly and in conformity with the requirements of due process principles, e.g., In re Masiello, 25 N.J. 590, 601 (1958); Laba v. Board of Education of Newark, 23 N.J. 364, 382 (1957), we must judge the propriety of each substantive appeal under the particular circumstances presented to us in that case.

Again, the appeal in this case is based on the substantive claim that petitioner's statutory rights were violated when the Board reduced her full-time position to part-time. This agency would be abrogating its responsibility were we to avoid hearing this claim on the grounds that such alleged violation of petitioner's statutory rights was based on the application of a rule adopted by the State Board to implement the education laws.

Our responsibility in this context is to assure that petitioner's claims are properly considered. To accomplish this, we remand this matter to the Commissioner with the direction that he transmit it to the Office of Administrative Law for initial determination of both Count One and Count Two of the petition.[5] Finally, as previously stated, we grant petitioner's motion to supplement the record with documents relating to the underlying waiver so that they will be considered in the proceedings in the Office of Administrative Law. We have not, however, considered the substance of those documents in arriving at our determination herein.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

[5] We note that while the Rules Governing Appellate Practice provide for an appeal as of right to the Appellate Division to review the validity of any rule promulgated by an administrative agency where there is no right of review available before any administrative agency, R. 2:2-3(a)(2), there is no similar provision in the State Board's rules relating to any actions by the Commissioner. See N.J.A.C. 6:2-1 et seq. In any event, while petitioner's claim implicates the validity of the underlying waiver, it arises from the application of N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq. and does not appear to be a challenge to the facial validity of that regulation.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF CHARLOTTE GALLA,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON,	:	DECISION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against respondent English as a second language teacher due to her alleged inappropriate, nonprofessional and personal relationship with a male student.

Citing Redcay, In re Tyler and In re Tordo, the ALJ determined that the Board demonstrated that the acts charged against respondent were examples of unbecoming conduct. ALJ concluded that respondent engaged in a pattern of improper interaction and sexual contact over several years with a minor student whose interest she was mandated to safeguard. ALJ concluded respondent should be dismissed from her tenured position and her certifications revoked.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from her position as of the date of this decision and, noting that certification revocation is within the jurisdictional purview of the State Board of Examiners, rather than that of the Commissioner, he directed matter be transmitted to that body for action as it deems appropriate with respect to respondent's certifications.

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Board of Education of the Township of Irvington ("Board"), certified tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher and other just cause against respondent, Charlotte Galla, a tenured teacher. The Board submits that Galla's conduct warrants her dismissal from employment. Respondent denies any charges of wrongdoing.

The Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 23, 1995 for a determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14b-1 to-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1 to-13. Hearings were held on September 25, 26, 1995; January 16, 25, and February 1, 1996. On or about October 11, 1995, respondent's counsel, Harold N. Springstead, Esq., informed the Board that respondent had terminated his services. On November 29, 1995, James M. Weinberg, Esq., filed a substitution of attorney for respondent. The parties filed posthearing briefs and the records closed on May 3, 1996.

SUMMARY OF THE CHARGES

The Board filed six charges of unbecoming conduct and insubordination against Galla. The charges are summarized as follows:

CHARGE ONE:

> During the spring of the 1992-93 school year, continuing with the summer of 1993, Charlotte Galla initiated and cultivated an inappropriate, nonprofessional and personal relationship with R.D., a male student, approximately 15 years of age at the time, who was assigned to Ms. Galla's English as a Second Language Class (ESL) at the Florence Avenue School. This relationship was conducted inside and outside the confines of the school, and included the purchasing of gifts for the minor student, as well as driving the minor student around in Galla's automobile. Ms. Galla's actions in engaging in such an inappropriate, nonprofessional and personal relationship with a minor student under her supervision, as set forth above, constitutes conduct unbecoming of a teaching staff member.

CHARGE TWO:

> During the 1993-94 school year, Charlotte Galla continued to cultivate in an inappropriate, nonprofessional and personal relationship with the aforesaid R.D. This relationship included the purchasing of gifts for the student as well as driving the student around in Galla's automobile. The continuance of such an inappropriate, nonprofessional and personal relationship with a minor student, as set forth above, constitutes conduct unbecoming of a teaching staff member.

CHARGE THREE:

During the 1993-94 school year, Charlotte Galla knowingly permitted, caused and/or attempted to permit the aforesaid R.D. to attend at least one school designated field trip, including a trip to Liberty Science Center, without notifying or seeking approval of the School Building Principal, although R.D. was no longer a student in the school. Moreover, as a result of Ms. Galla's actions on the Liberty Science Center trip, R.D. was involved in a verbal and physical altercation with other minor students in Galla's class who were under her supervision. The foregoing conduct of Ms. Galla constitutes conduct unbecoming of a teaching staff member and insubordination.

CHARGE FOUR:

During the aforesaid Liberty Science Center field trip cited in Charge Three herein, Ms. Galla physically and verbally assaulted, in a sexually derisive manner, E.M., V.A. and A.Z., minor female students under her supervision, as a result of their involvement in an altercation with R.D. Specifically, Galla angrily stated to the above students, with specific reference to R.D., that they should "go ahead and be together," "do you want him," and "the only thing we (girls) want is sex, sex, sex." These actions by Ms. Galla constitute conduct unbecoming of a teaching staff member.

CHARGE FIVE:

During the 1994-95 school year, Charlotte Galla, continued to cultivate an inappropriate, nonprofessional, and personal relationship with the aforesaid R.D. This relationship was conducted inside and outside the confines of the Florence Avenue School, and included the purchasing of gifts for the minor student as well as driving him around in Galla's automobile. These actions by Ms. Galla constitute conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

CHARGE SIX:

On or about February 11, 1995, respondent Charlotte Galla engaged in sexual intimate acts with the aforesaid R.D. in a small and darkened classroom at the Florence Avenue School during which she kissed and/or intimately touched R.D. while he was partially undressed (pants around his ankles). These actions by Ms. Galla constitute conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

STIPULATED FACTS

The following stipulation of relevant facts are adopted as FACT:

1. The Irvington Board of Education ("Board") is a body politic and corporate organized and existing and by virtue of the laws in the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, and entrusted with maintaining and conducting the schools of the Irvington School District.
2. On or about September 1, 1974, Charlotte Galla, was employed by the Board as an elementary school teacher.
3. Galla is certified as a Teacher of English as a Second Language ("ESL"), Teacher of Spanish, and as a Principal/Supervisor.
4. Galla has been employed as a tenured ESL teacher at the Florence Avenue School since the 1983-84 school year.
5. R.D. was a student in Galla's 8th grade ESL class at the Florence Avenue School during the 1993-94 school year at the time that he was a student in Galla's class.
6. On or about February 25, 1995, Galla was administratively suspended with pay pending further investigation of an incident which allegedly occurred at the Florence Avenue School with R.D. on February 11, 1995.
7. Also, as a result of the February 11, 1995 incident, the Division of Youth and Family Services ("DYFS") Institutional Investigation Unit was called to investigate the matter.
8. On or about April 26, 1995, then Superintendent of Schools Dr. Rodgers M. Lewis filed sworn tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, insubordination, and other just cause together with a sworn statement of evidence in support of the charges against Galla with Victor Demming, Board Secretary of the Irvington Board of Education. A copy of the charges were also served upon Galla.

9. On or about May 17, 1995, after consideration of charges and evidence against Galla, together with her attorney's written submissions, the Board determined to proceed to certify the charges to the Commissioner for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.

10 Further, at that meeting, the Board determined to suspend Galla with pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

11. Thereafter, on May 18, 1994, the above charges, together with the sworn statement of evidence and a certificate of determination, were filed by the Board with the Commissioner.

12. On or about June 6, 1995, an answer was filed on behalf of Galla.

13. The matter was thereafter transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Mumtaz Bari-Brown. The matter was set for hearing on September 25 and 26, 1995.

14. On or about June 20, 1995, the Board moved before the Hon. Phillip Freedman, J.S.C., for an Order permitting for hearing: 1) the release of the Division of Youth and Family Services investigative file concerning the February 11, 1995 incident as well as; 2) permission for all DYFS employees who conducted the investigation to testify.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Based on the evidence, I FIND the following as FACT:

1. R.D. was born on May 19, 1977. In September 1972, R.D. moved from Brazil to Irvington, New Jersey, to live with his father, stepmother and brothers.

2. During school year 1992, Charlotte Galla was employed as a certified English as a Second Language teacher ("ESL") at the Florence Avenue School.

3. In September 1992, R.D. Jr., 15 years old, was enrolled in the Florence Avenue School in the Irvington School District and was placed into Galla's 8th grade ESL class.

4. In the school year 1992-93, R.D.'s father, R.D., Sr., observed Galla driving his son to and from school. R.D. brought home gifts of clothing, toys, small television and radios from school.

5. R.D., Sr., asked his son where the gifts came from and was told that Galla had given them to him.

6. R.D., Sr., went to the Florence Avenue School and told Galla to stop giving his son gifts.

7. During the school year 1993-94 and 1994-95, Galla continued to send gifts to R.D. including magazines, sweat pants, shoes, checkers, playing cards, toy cars, a watch, hockey items and air hockey games.

8. Galla purchased these gifts with her money.

9. R.D. graduated from the Florence Avenue School in June 1993 and with assistance from Galla secured a position as a summer employee in the Irvington Job Program.

10. During the summer of 1993, Vincent Mays, Assistant Principal of Chancellor Avenue School, was informed that Galla allowed R.D. to work as an aide in her basic skills summer class although he was assigned to assist the custodial crew.

11. Galla informed Mays that she needed R.D. to "do translations" for her and that he also served as a role model her other students in the classroom. Galla also explained that she wanted to keep R.D. close to her because she believed that he was being abused at home.

12. Mays advised Galla that she should report any alleged child abuse to DYFS.

13. Mays informed Rev. James Deas, a certified school guidance counselor for the Irvington High School At Risk Program and an ordained minister, that Galla was concerned that R.D. was a victim of abuse.

14. Rev. Deas, interviewed R.D. and Galla to determine if R.D. Jr., was a victim of abuse. R.D. talked about his relationship with his father and stated that he loved his father, and that his father did not hit him.

15. Rev. Deas then spoke with Galla about the reasons she believed that R.D. Jr., was abused by his father. Galla responded that during the past several months R.D. Jr., did not respond to her as he once did and that he appeared to be withdrawn. She also believed that R.D. Sr., was against her although she had "moved mountains" for R.D. Jr.. For example, she got R.D. Jr., a job a the summer program and now he was not responding to her; she felt as if she was being used by R.D. Jr.

16. Rev. Deas concluded that R.D. was not a victim of abuse by his father. Rather, he believed that there was an inappropriate teacher/student relationship between R.D. and Galla. Moreover, Galla appeared to be concerned about R.D.'s response to her, not whether he was being abused at home.

17. R.D. left the summer job program in August after Mays and Alfred Cummings, the school principal, discussed the issue with him and Galla.

18. In September 1993, with Galla's assistance, R.D. enrolled in Essex County Vocational Technical School (Vo-Tech).

19. During the school year, the Vo-Tech guidance counselor, Ms. Claire Major, contacted R.D., Sr., and informed him that Galla would frequently appear at Vo-Tech and attempt to switch R.D.'s teachers.

20. On December 23, 1993, Galla permitted R.D. to attend a school trip to the Liberty Science Center with the seventh and eighth grade students who attended Florence Avenue School although R.D. was not enrolled in the school.

21. An incident occurred during the trip involving Galla and three female students, A.Z., E.Z. and Y.A. A.Z. alleged that Galla pushed her into R.D. and stated, "Do you want him? Do you want her? The only thing that you want is sex, sex, sex, sex."

22. The three students reported the incident to Mays. Cummings and Mays separated the students and listened to their stories.

23. Cummings discussed the matter with Galla. He determined that Galla had no authority to invite R.D. on a trip because he was not a student at the school and issued a letter of reprimand.

24. Cummings also determined that Galla inappropriately used physical contact to handle the incident involving the three female students

25. Between October 1994 to February 1995, Galla purchased a cellular telephone for R.D.'s use. He used the telephone to contact Galla at her residence and also called her and requested that she pick him up and drop him off at his school.

26. In February 1995, Samuel Corollo, Vo-Tech principal, informed Cummings that he had taken the cellular telephone from R.D. who revealed that he had received the phone from Galla.

27. Galla also gave R.D. access to her MCI long distance calling card number and permitted him to make international telephone calls to his mother, aunt and other relatives in Brazil. Galla paid the telephone bills.

28. In spring 1994, Galla invited R.D. Jr. on another school sponsored trip to Sandy Hook. The security monitor at Florence Avenue School, Betty Hunter, saw him boarding the bus and notified Principal Cummings. After Cummings discussed the matter with Galla Hunter saw Galla board the bus, escort R.D. Jr. off of the bus, and then put her arms around him as she spoke to him.

29. Joanne Giunta also attended the field trip with her third grade class. Giunta observed Galla exit the school building and kiss R.D. Jr., on the cheek while he stood in front of the school.

30. In August 1994, R.D. joined the "Soccer in the Streets" program, an out of school soccer program which was started by Galla at the urging of R.D.

31. Galla was granted permission to use the Florence Avenue School gymnasium for practice during inclement weather during the 1994-95 school year. Soccer practices were held almost daily and games were played on Sunday.

32. On several occasions Galla drove R.D. to soccer practice and to the games.

33. Also on many occasions, Galla drove R.D. to and from the Essex Vo-Tech school.

34. During the 1993-94 school year on approximately three or four Saturdays, Ms. Hunter, the security guard at Florence Avenue School, observed R.D. and Galla sitting in Galla's car.

35. On Saturday, February 11, 1995, an incident occurred involving Galla and R.D. Galla scheduled a soccer practice at the Florence Avenue School. She entered the school and requested the keys to her second floor from a custodian, Paul Gaynor. Approximately 15 minutes after Gaynor gave Galla the keys to her classroom, he observed several students outside of the building waiting for her and banging on the door to get in. Gaynor told the students to wait while he went to find Galla. Galla was not in the gym. Gaynor then proceeded to Galla's classroom. The lights in the hallway were on but he did not hear any sounds as he approached the classroom. He called Galla's name but she did not respond. Gaynor entered the darkened classroom and he observed Galla lying on the floor on her back with her head on the floor and her feet up on the table. Galla was clothed and her legs were spread wide open. Gaynor also saw R.D. who had his pants down around his ankles. He also observed a bulge in R.D.'s white boxer shorts. When Gaynor entered into the room, R.D. immediately jumped up and down as he in an effort to pull up his pants. R.D. then walked out of the room. Gaynor told Galla that her students were waiting for her downstairs. Galla responded that she would be right down.

36. The following Monday morning, Gaynor informed the school principal what he had observed on Saturday in Galla's classroom. The matter was referred to DYFS. Tracy Wilson, Family Service Specialist/Investigator, was assigned to investigate the matter.

37. Wilson reported the incident to Detective Gene Nigro from the Irvington Police Department. Wilson and Nigro frequently work together on sexual abuse assignments. They investigated the matter for their respective offices.

38. Wilson and Nigro interviewed R.D., Sr., R.D., and Galla.

39. R.D., Sr., told Nigro about the gifts that Galla had given to his son.

40. R.D. initially denied that he was with Galla in the classroom on February 11, and was uncooperative and refused to talk.

41. At a second meeting with R.D., Sr. and Dr. Lewis, the superintendent of school present, R.D. admitted that an incident had occurred between him and Galla at the Florence Avenue School.

42. R.D. told Detective Nigro that Galla had given him gifts and that she had taken him to the classroom on February 11, 1996 during soccer practice. R.D. also admitted that he was lying on the floor and was kissed on the mouth by Galla when Gaynor entered the room.

43. R.D. then gave a written statement to Detective Nigro. When asked whether he had any sexual contact with Galla, R.D. responded, "no, just once by accident." (P-8).

44. Nigro and Wilson then interviewed Galla on February 22, 1996.. She stated that she gave R.D. the gifts which he asked for but believed that she did nothing wrong.

45. Galla also stated that on Valentine's Day, February 14, 1995, she told R.D. that she no longer wanted to see him.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

I

THE CHARGES:

Tenured employees are protected "in their employment when they are subject to unfair and improper attacks, when they are unable to perform efficiently because of conditions not of their own making or beyond their control." In re Tenure Hearing of Joseph A Maraeta, Township of Riverside, 1966 S.L.D. 77, aff'd State Board of Education 1966 S.L.D. 106. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 further provides that no tenured teacher shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. Additional procedural safeguards, including the right to a list of charges, a sworn statement of evidence and an impartial hearing are required under the law to protect tenured teachers from arbitrary dismissal or "unfounded or flimsy reasons." Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1968). Moreover, charges against a tenured employee may not be examined in a vacuum, but must be considered in any events leading up to the allegations made against the employee which may help to explain the situation. In re Tenure Hearing of Romaroli, School District of Willingborough, 1975 S.L.D. 352.

Petitioner has the burden of proof to establish claims against the tenured teacher by a fair preponderance of the evidence. In Re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982). The term "burden of proof" refers to the "burden of persuasion". The burden of persuasion entails more than merely producing evidence to establish a state of equilibrium with respect to whether a certain fact exists. This tribunal must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of the truth." Jackson v D.L. & W.R.R., 111

N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). Preponderance is the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonable cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Where the standard is reasonable probability, that is, preponderance of the evidence, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Loew v Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div 1959).

One factor to consider to determine which party's version of the incident has the "reasonable probability of truth" is that the "interest, motive, biases or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify [the trier of fact], whose providence it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952). Further, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

With regard to charges one, two and five, Galla conceded that she gave R.D. and his family numerous gifts and drove R.D. around in her car. She believed that there was nothing improper about her conduct. I disagree. The act of gift giving has inherent connotations. For example, teachers give token gifts to reward students for good behavior or academic achievement. Thus, it was not inappropriate for Galla to give a nominal gift to a student who showed progress or needed encouragement. Indeed, she gave trophies valued at $2.95 to the Soccer in the Streets students for their perfect attendance. On the other hand, clothing, watches, televisions and radios, the personal use of a cellular phone and a long distance telephone credit card are inappropriate gifts to students. Implicit in these gifts is an intent to be more than a teacher in a student's life.

The cumulative evidence also supports charges three and four that Galla knowingly permitted R. D. to attend a field trip without authority and then verbally abused three female students on the trip whom she believed was interested in R.D. Mr. Cummings, school principal, testified about the incident according to discussions with the students. He sent Galla a memorandum recounting the facts he learned and issued a reprimand for inappropriate unprofessional behavior. (P-32). Hearsay evidence regarding the incident at Liberty Science Center support a finding of conduct unbecoming and need not be ignored under the residuum rule. Matter of Tenure Hearing of Cowan, 224 N.J. Super 737 (App. Div. 1988).

I also reject Galla's version of the incident which occurred in her classroom on February 11, 1995, charge six. Statements in the police report, P-8 and the DYFS report, P-16, differ from the testimony. Her prior statements were that R.D. asked for his trophy. She testified, however, that another student, B., asked about receiving a trophy for attendance. She also provided several explanations as to why she was on the floor when Gaynor walked into the room. Galla told the DYFS investigator that she fell over a chair and landed on her knees. P-16. She testified that she was wearing high heel shoes, tripped, hit her shoulder and landed on her side/back. After this incident, Galla told R.D. on Valentine's Day that she did not want to see him any more.

Proof of the charges filed against Galla depend largely on the credibility of the witnesses. In an administrative proceeding, testimony may be disbelieved, but it may not be disregarded. Middletown Tp. v Murdoch, 73 N.J. Super. 511 (App. Div. 1962). Moreover, the trier of fact is not bound to believe the testimony of any witness and may accept or reject, in whole or in part, the testimony. Application of Howard Sav. Bank, 143 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1976). The existence of some inconsistencies in a witness's testimony does not warrant an automatic discounting of that testimony as incredible. However:

> Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as a > common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable under the circumstances.

> Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954); In re Perone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950).

Galla's demeanor under cross-examination about the classroom incident which occurred on February 11, 1996, rendered her testimony unworthy of belief. She had difficulty answering questions and spoke in a fast pace, rambling manner. She was directed to answer the questions in a coherent manner.

I am persuaded, however, by the straightforward and detailed account by Gaynor that he saw Galla lying on the floor on her back with her head on the floor and her legs spread wide open and her feet up on the table. Gaynor also observed R.D. with his pants down around his ankles and a "bulge" similar to an erection beneath his boxer shorts.

Based on the preponderance of the credible evidence, I CONCLUDE that the Board has demonstrated that acts charged against respondent were examples of unbecoming conduct.

II

THE PENALTY:

Unfitness to remain a teacher may be shown by a single incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it is best evidenced by a series of incidents. See Redclay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944) I have carefully considered Galla's testimony regarding the charges and observed her demeanor. Galla has been employed by the Irvington School District since 1974. She earned her BA degree from Newark State College and her Masters Degree from Seton Hall University. She is certified to teach elementary grades K through Eight and also holds a certificate for Principal/Supervisor. She has taught ESL for many years and was responsive to the diversity of her students. She was involved in various civic activities and urged her students to become involved in community programs. Except for the pending charges, Galla's record is unblemished. Indeed, various commendations, evaluations and letters of recognition acknowledge Galla as a dedicated and attentive teacher who genuinely cared about her students. For example, she organized an out of school soccer program for students who were not eligible to play for the high school soccer program. When R.D. expressed that he did not like school and exhibited low self-esteem because he was older than the other students in the class, Galla encouraged him to stay in school. She also encouraged him to enroll in Vo-Tech to learn a trade and supported his interest in sports by coaching the Soccer In The Streets program.

These mitigating factors do not negate conduct which is improper or might be viewed improper by the ordinary person. Galla exercised poor judgment by driving R.D. in her car and giving him gifts such as her cellar phone, access to her MCI calling card, magazines subscriptions, and a watch. Galla also gave birthday gifts of fruit baskets to R.D.'s parents and toys to the other family members. The gifts to R.D. and his family were neither de minimis or inconsequential. She ignored the parent's request that she stop giving gifts to R.D. and instead sent him gifts through the mail. Moreover, Galla's voluntary contact with Vo-Tech about R.D.'s class assignments was inappropriate and she had to be told to stop interfering in his life. Galla's affection toward R.D. was open and observed by the Board personnel on several occasions. For instance, during the Sandy Hook field trip incident, the school security guard watched Galla and R.D. walk from the bus side by side and touching at the hip with her arm around him. Another teacher saw Galla give R.D. a short kiss on the cheek. R.D. was also seen sitting with Galla in her car on several occasions.

I have also considered the results of the DYFS investigation. In re the Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478 (App. Div. 1989). DYFS concluded that sexual abuse was substantiated and also determined that Galla's interaction and behavior was unjustified, inappropriate and placed R.D. at risk. The police and DYFS investigation disclosed that R.D. admitted having a sexual encounter with Galla and that she kissed him when they were in her classroom on February 11, 1995. Galla's feelings toward R.D. must be viewed as more than a teacher who was merely interested in the welfare of her student; Galla had become enamored with her student.

I also have considered, carefully, the important role served by members of the teaching profession. Teachers hold a sacred position in our society. They are entrusted with the care and custody of school children and thus, they play important roles in the community. They have daily contact with their students, molding habits and nurturing young minds. Thus, teachers must be held to a high standard of conduct. Parents, law enforcement officials and the general public expect teachers not only to provide students with book learning, but also to impart social and moral values appropriate to the setting. Clearly, teachers play a direct role in influencing the opinions of their pupils and, indeed, teachers are role models. Also, teachers encourage students to set goals and then help to steer the path students take to achieve those goals. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ernest Tordo, School District of the Township of Jackson, Ocean County, 1974 S.L..D. 97, 98, the Commissioner recognized that:

> Teachers . . . are public employees to who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinion of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher. When a teacher deliberately and willfully . . . violates the public trust placed in him, he must expect dismissal or other severe penalty as set by the Commissioner.

Thus, it is essential that teachers avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated. Teachers are expected to exercise exemplary restraint and mature self-control. Consequently, it is appropriate to sanction teachers who behave with impropriety or the appearance of impropriety. Indeed, the Commissioner has not hesitated to dismiss an employee whose behavior involved sexually intimate contact with a student. See Petitioner's Brief at 14-15. The Board's request that the Commissioner order similar relief in this matter is justified.

Based on the whole of the record, I CONCLUDE that Galla, a tenured teacher with many years of experience, engaged in a pattern of improper interaction and sexual contact over several years with a minor student whose interest she is mandated to safeguard. I further CONCLUDE that Galla violated the public and private trust. I also CONCLUDE that there are no mitigating factors to support continued employment with the Irvington Public Schools. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that respondent should be dismissed from her position as a teaching staff member in the Irvington Public Schools and that her certifications be revoked.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that respondent be dismissed from her position as a teaching staff member in the Irvington Public Schools

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF CHARLOTTE GALLA,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON,	:	DECISION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter,[1] the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board has sustained its burden of proof with respect to its tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent. The Commissioner further agrees that the appropriate penalty in this matter is respondent's dismissal from her tenured teaching position.[2]

[1] It is noted that the record contains correspondence, dated June 19, 1996, from counsel for respondent to the ALJ in this matter, apparently in response to the ALJ's request to resubmit certain trial exhibits entered during the course of this matter on behalf of respondent. Such letter states that, as a result of a recent relocation of his offices, counsel was having difficulty locating the file in this matter and he requests additional time to comply with the ALJ's request. The record also contains a responding letter from the ALJ, dated June 20, 1996, advising counsel that the initial decision in this matter was issued on June 17, 1996 and that, although the record transmitted to the Commissioner does not contain respondent exhibits R-1 through R-9, such exhibits, along with all transcripts and notes, were "thoroughly reviewed and considered in preparing the initial decision." The ALJ's June 20 letter further directs counsel to submit the requested exhibits to the Commissioner upon their location. The Commissioner observes that during the course of his review of this matter no submission or communication of any kind was received from respondent's counsel.

[2] The ALJ's decision additionally recommended revocation of respondent's certifications as part of the penalty herein. In that such determination is within the jurisdictional purview of the State Board of Examiners rather than that of the Commissioner, this matter will be forwarded to that body for its consideration.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons well expressed therein. Respondent is hereby dismissed from her teaching position in the Irvington public school district as of the date of this decision. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE - OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON ORDER
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured high school teacher, appealed withholding of his increment and charging of sick days for allegedly work-related injury. Petitioner also sought continuation of his salary subsequent to January 2, 1995. District contended he had not filed a new leave request.

Citing the State Board's decision in Verneret, the ALJ determined that a petitioner is not to be excused from complying with the 90-day rule, even in those instances where the Commissioner chooses to defer exercising his jurisdiction to hear the claim until the issue of the work-related nature of any injury has been decided by the Division of Workers' Compensation. ALJ found that petitioner filed his petition well beyond District's notification of denial of his claim for reinstatement of sick days and continuation of salary. ALJ granted District's motion for partial summary decision. Petitioner's claims pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 were dismissed as untimely and ALJ found no cause to relax the 90-day rule pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and directed matter to go forward to OAL on the remaining issue of the withholding of petitioner's 1995-96 increment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This contested case was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law on July 21, 1995, a telephone prehearing conference was conducted by the undersigned on November 21, 1995, and plenary hearings were scheduled for May 20, 1996, through May 22, 1996. A number of issues were identified in the prehearing order, including whether petitioner Medeiros's claims (other than his challenge to a proposed withholding of his 1995-96 increment) should be barred as untimely pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Thus, paragraph thirteen of the prehearing order provided that respondent State Operated School District of Jersey City (the Board) could move prior to February 1, 1996, for partial summary decision on the timeliness issue. Thereafter, a motion for partial summary decision on that ground was made by respondent, supported by a brief and several exhibits. Supplemental and reply memoranda then were filed, oral argument was conducted on May 20, 1996, and the matter is now ready for determination.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The material facts essential to a determination of the Board's motion are not in dispute and substantially are set forth in the certification (with attached exhibits) of Judith N. Granick, the Board's executive assistant in charge of human resources, which was filed in support of the motion.

On June 19, 1995, Paul Medeiros, a tenured employee of the Board, filed a petition of appeal seeking, inter alia, reinstatement of sick days charged against his accumulated sick time for his absences from work from May 18, 1994, through June 30, 1995. All of the absences were alleged to be the product of a "work-related injury" which petitioner received as a result of an incident occurring at Ferris High School on May 18, 1994.

Although not cited in his petition, Medeiros's claims for reinstatement of his sick days and for the continuation of his salary since January 2, 1995,[1] are made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. That statute provides that a school district shall pay full salary for up to one calendar year to an employee who is absent from duty as a result of an injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, and that such absence shall not be charged to accumulated sick leave. It is the Board's position that Medeiros's claim for reinstatement of his sick days from May 19, 1994, regardless of its "merits," should be dismissed for his failure to file his petition within the 90-day time period prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Further, to the extent that Medeiros also seeks to confirm the propriety of the Board's allegedly mistaken continuation of his salary from January 3, 1995, to March 15, 1995, that claim, too, is alleged by the Board to be out of time.

In his petition Medeiros alleged that on May 18, 1994, he was teaching a class at Ferris and was injured when a student threw a pencil at him. Medeiros was treated that day at a medical facility in Jersey City by a Dr. R. I. Shah, who reported that although petitioner had a "small abrasion mid forehead between eyebrows," he was cleared to return to work the following day. However, Medeiros remained out of work and applied for a leave of absence, which was approved for the period May 19, 1994, to June 21, 1994.

Beginning in September 1994, Medeiros stayed out of work and filed another application for a leave of absence. This request was approved for the period September 6, 1994, to January 2, 1995. However, the last section of his application bore the following handwritten notation by the school district's medical director: "Approved as Personal Illness not Job-related."

In a letter dated October 19, 1994, Dennis L. McGill, Esq., wrote to advise Granick that he was the attorney for Medeiros in connection with an assault committed by a student at Ferris the previous May. McGill maintained that since his client's absences were due to a work-related incident, and were not personal sick leave, there should be no reduction in his client's accumulated sick days.

[1] The claim with respect to the period of time since January 2, 1995, relates to a situation whereby even though he was absent the Board paid Medeiros his full salary for the period between January 3, 1995, and March 15, 1995. The Board demanded reimbursement of $17,004 and Medeiros failed to comply. As a result, the Board informed him that beginning in the 1995-96 school year it would make deductions from his pay in order to reimburse itself for that amount for the period in question.

In a letter dated November 7, 1994, Granick responded that since Medeiros had been medically cleared to return to work on May 19, 1994, all of his subsequent days of absence were considered by the Board to be related to personal illness only. In addition, the Ferris High School principal, Terence Matthews, also sent a letter to McGill drawing counsel's attention to the "personal illness" notation contained at the bottom of the leave of absence form submitted in September.

In March 1995 Matthews wrote to advise Medeiros that since the school district had never received any request for an extension of approved leave beyond January 2, 1995, and Medeiros had remained absent from his employment, he would be considered "absent without leave" after that date. Matthews directed the petitioner to forward a new leave request immediately. In May 1995, Granick wrote to advise Medeiros that despite Matthews's letter, by error he had been paid full salary between January 3, 1995, and March 15, 1995, even though during that time he was neither at work nor absent on an approved leave. Granick calculated the overpayment to amount to slightly more than $17,000 and requested that Medeiros make necessary arrangements for its repayment. She further indicated that when petitioner returned to work the Board would hold his salary at the 1994-95 level until the "overpayment" issue had been resolved. Thereafter, in response to a letter from McGill disputing the alleged "overpayment," Granick reiterated that since Medeiros had never filed any request for an extension of his leave beyond January 2, 1995, the Board had no option other than to consider him to be "absent without leave" since then.

In September 1995 Medeiros returned to work, but the Board began to withhold his salary increment because of his absences since May 18, 1994. In his petition of appeal (filed June 19, 1995) Medeiros had challenged that anticipated withholding action. Thus, as noted above, this count is not subject to the Board's motion to dismiss since it was timely filed.[2]

DISCUSSION

This case revisits a subject which has been addressed by the Commissioner, the State Board and the courts on previous occasions, namely, the inter-relationship between work-related injury claims under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 and the workers' compensation laws, and the timing of those claims vis-à-vis the 90-day rule contained in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Thus, in its decision in Verneret v. Board of Education of Elizabeth, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 191, modified and aff'd, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 134, the State Board "clarified" what it believed to have been some existing confusion in this area by holding that even if an alleged work-related injury also is the subject of a workers' compensation petition, a school law claim under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 still must be filed within 90 days under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Previous Commissioner and State Board decisions apparently were not clear in that respect and were construed by some to mean that a school law claim need not be filed until after the workers' compensation case was decided. See, e.g., Tompkins v. Hamilton Bd. of Educ., 11 N.J.A.R. 520 (1986). The Verneret decision flatly rejected that view and held that although the school law claim could be deferred pending the outcome of the workers' compensation case, the petition of appeal still had to be timely filed in accordance with the education regulations. See also Sweet v. Jackson Bd. of Educ., Comm'r. of Educ. (May 26, 1995), aff'd and modified, State Bd. of Educ. (Nov. 1, 1995).

In the instant case, Medeiros's petition of appeal was filed with the Commissioner on June 19, 1995, which was 223 days after he was notified of the Board's denial of his claim and 164 days after the State Board's decision in the Verneret case. Thus, the two questions originally before me as a result of the Board's motion were as follows: (1) Does the ruling in Verneret apply prospectively as of the date of its decision (1/4/95) to Medeiros; and (2) If so, should the filing of Medeiros's petition on June 19, 1995 (164 days after 1/4/95) be excused by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15?

[2] Since the improper-withholding-of-increment claim made by Medeiros is to be tried, the instant motion is for partial summary decision only. Both counsel agree that the hearing should await the outcome of the Commissioner's decision on the motion.

Before I address these two issues it is necessary for me first to discuss a third issue which I raised, sua sponte, after the Board's motion for partial summary decision was filed, to wit, whether the State Board decision in Verneret constituted adjudicative "rulemaking" in violation of the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) and the principles set forth by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Metromedia, Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313 (1984). In other words, did the State Board fail to comply with the public notice, comment and other salutary provisions of the APA? I will address this issue first.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, prior to the adoption of a rule an agency first must provide public notice of its intent to issue the rule and afford interested parties a reasonable opportunity to submit data, views or arguments respecting the proposal. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-4. Although administrative rules are defined as agency statements of general applicability and continuing effect that implement or interpret law or policy (see N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(e)), as a general proposition agency decisions in contested cases flowing from the quasi-judicial exercise of administrative agency authority specifically are excluded from the definition. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(e)(3). Since the State Board decision in Verneret falls into that excluded category, conceivably there is no further need to address this issue. However, our courts have held that in some cases agency decisions are so closely related to rulemaking that if the agency fails to acknowledge the rulemaking aspect of the case by seeking to apply its decision and findings beyond the parties to the litigation itself, the agency's action may have to be evaluated under the principles laid down in the Metromedia case. See 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice, §§ 34, 80 and 81 (Steven L. LeFelt) (1995 Supplement). That is the issue which I asked the parties to address in supplemental briefs.

In Metromedia the Supreme Court prescribed six factors to be applied when determining whether agency action constitutes rulemaking which must conform to the requirements of the APA. These factors are whether the agency action:

> (1) is intended to have wide coverage encompassing a large segment of the regulated or general public, rather than an individual or a narrow select group; (2) is intended to be applied generally and uniformly to all similarly situated persons; (3) is designed to operate only in future cases, that is, prospectively; (4) prescribes a legal standard or directive that is not otherwise expressly provided by or clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization; (5) reflects an administrative policy that (i) was not previously expressed in any official and explicit agency determination, adjudication or rule, or (ii) constitutes a material and significant change from a clear, past agency position on the identical subject matter; and (6) reflects a decision on administrative regulatory policy in the nature of the interpretation of law or general policy.

These six factors are implicated whenever an agency's authority to act without conforming to the formal rulemaking requirements is questioned. See John Doe v. Poritz, 142 N.J. 1, 97 (1995) (citing Woodland Private Study Group v. Department of Envtl. Protection, 109 N.J. 62, 67 (1987)). Although not all of the Metromedia factors need be present to characterize agency action as rulemaking, the factors should not merely be tabulated, but weighed. See In re Solid Waste Util. Customer Lists, 106 N.J. 508, 518 (1987). In addition, "[t]hese relevant factors can, either singly or in combination, determine in a given case whether the essential agency action must be rendered through rule-making . . . ." Metromedia, supra, 97 N.J. at 332.

In this matter, it is evident that the State Board's holding in Verneret, which requires any petitioner claiming benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 to file a petition with the Commissioner within 90 days of the district board's action denying such benefits, is intended: (1) to have wide coverage; (2) to be applied uniformly; and (3) to operate prospectively. However, the remaining Metromedia factors seem to weigh in favor of the view that Verneret does not constitute adjudicative rulemaking.

The fourth Metromedia factor is whether Verneret "prescribes a legal standard or directive that is not otherwise expressly provided by or clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization." Metromedia, supra, 97 N.J. at 331. The ruling announced in Verneret regarding the 90-day rule is explicitly contained at N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Since the Commissioner and the State Board were empowered by the Legislature to adopt a regulation establishing a 90-day limitation period for school personnel to file disputes under the school laws, the holding of Verneret cannot be regarded as outside the scope of the State Board's power. See Kaprow v. Berkeley Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993) ("The Legislature's broad delegation of power to the Commissioner and the State Board, particularly N.J.S.A. 18A:6-26, encompasses the authority to establish a time limitation for the resolution of disputes under the school laws"). In addition, Verneret does not deviate from the explicit language of the regulation itself; instead, it merely represents a restatement of the limitations period contained at N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Therefore, the fourth Metromedia factor is not satisfied.

The fifth factor requires consideration as to whether Verneret "reflects an administrative policy that (i) was not previously expressed in any official and explicit agency determination, adjudication or rule, or (ii) constitutes a material and significant change from a clear, past agency position on the identical subject matter . . . ." Metromedia, supra, 97 N.J. at 331. The holding in Verneret fails to satisfy either of these two component factors.

First, Verneret arguably reflects a policy that was clearly expressed in an official and explicit manner for many years, as evidenced by the language contained in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), i.e., that a petition must be filed within 90 days of the district board's action denying benefits.[3] Second, the case law relied upon by the petitioner did not adequately represent a clear and definitive past agency position on the subject of filing requirements for a claim pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.

[3] Indeed, Judge Ospenson, the administrative law judge who heard Verneret in 1991, presciently decided that the 90-day rule did apply and perceived no reason to excuse the late filing there. Apparently, he was not at all "confused" by the prior decisions.

Nevertheless, Medeiros contends that Verneret does represent a material and significant change from a clear, past agency view of the identical subject matter and relies upon Tompkins, supra, for the proposition that the Commissioner generally would refrain from ruling on a claim filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 until a determination was rendered by the Division of Workers' Compensation. As a result, Medeiros claims that the prior case law did not require him to file a claim until the Division rendered its decision. However, as noted, Tompkins was not clear on the issue of filing requirements for petitions claiming benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Indeed, Tompkins only added to the alleged confusion surrounding filing requirements for claims under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. See Verneret, supra, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 135.

Nor did Tompkins directly address the filing requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Instead it dealt with a jurisdictional question regarding the Commissioner's role in determining the validity of a claim under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. The 90-day rule was not directly at issue in that case. Thus, even though Tompkins, along with other cases, can be read to imply that a petition need not be filed until after the Division rendered a decision, the filing requirements pertaining to a claim for benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 were not definitively settled until Verneret was decided. See also Airwork Serv. Div. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 290, 301 (1984).

Finally, the sixth Metromedia factor is inapplicable because Verneret does not "reflect a decision on administrative regulatory policy in the nature of the interpretation of law or general policy." Metromedia, supra, 97 N.J. at 331-32. Verneret is not an administrative policy on how best to apply a broad statutory grant of authority. In addition, the State Board's decision clearly was not an announcement of a policy that was adopted without statutory authorization. Instead, Verneret may be characterized essentially as a reaffirmation of the regulatory requirements already in an existing regulation, as well as an expression of intent on the part of the State Board fully to comply with the plain meaning contained in that provision. See, e.g., Radiological Soc. v. N.J. State Dep't of Health, 208 N.J. Super. 548, 559 (App. Div. 1986) (indicating that a policy statement by the Department of Health was not rulemaking, but instead, "was simply a re-affirmation of the certificate of need requirements already enunciated in existing regulations . . . , and an announcement giving notice and fair warning that the [Hospital Rate Setting] Commission intended to fully enforce the law"). In sum, Verneret represents a clarification and reiteration of the plain meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), and therefore its holding is not an administrative rule that must conform to the requirements of the APA.

THE 90-DAY RULE ISSUES

Medeiros's petition seeks reinstatement of his accumulated sick days for absences from work beginning May 19, 1994, together with continuation of his salary subsequent to January 2, 1995. As noted, the Board contends that his claims for reinstatement and continuation of his salary should be dismissed as untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) and that no compelling circumstances exist pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15 to relax the rule.

I believe for the reasons which follow that the filing of the petition of appeal in this case on June 19, 1995, was untimely under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), even though I agree with petitioner that at the time he was injured at work in May 1994 the existing case law seemed to indicate that in situations where entitlement to relief under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 might exist, the Commissioner should defer exercising his school law jurisdiction pending a determination of the work-related nature of the injury by the Division of Workers' Compensation. Thus, Medeiros is entitled to claim that until the State Board's modification in Verneret he reasonably could rely upon the prior case law to support his belief that no claim had to be filed until after the Division of Workers' Compensation acted.

However, Verneret was decided by the State Board of Education on January 4, 1995, and squarely held that a petitioner is not to be excused from complying with the 90-day rule, even in those instances where the Commissioner chooses to defer exercising his jurisdiction to hear the claim until the issue of the work-related nature of any injury has been decided by the Division of Workers' Compensation. Indeed, in the Verneret decision itself, the State Board directed the Commissioner to apply the decision on a prospective basis only to the litigants.

Unfortunately, the State Board did not elaborate further on what it meant by directing application of its holding on a "prospective" basis. Thus, Verneret arguably can be read to apply to all causes of action which like Medeiros's claim arose before the date of the decision. In other words, although Medeiros's cause of action arose on November 7, 1994, when he was informed of the Board's rejection of his position, since Verneret was not decided until January 4, 1995, and 90 days had not yet elapsed, arguably one view could be that he still had almost one month, until February 5, 1995, to file his claim. On the other hand, if Verneret does not apply to injuries which arose before the date of the decision, any petition filed within 90 days of the decision (April 2, 1995) could be deemed to be timely. Of course, even if this approach were taken in this case, unless the 90-day rule is relaxed the claim still would be barred since the petition was not filed until June 19, 1995, which was well beyond the expiration of the 90-day period.

Generally, the New Jersey Supreme Court has followed the traditional rule that the overruling of past precedent is retrospective in nature. See Fischer v. Canario, 143 N.J. 235, 243 (1996); Darrow v. Hanover Tp., 58 N.J. 410, 412-13 (1971). Whether a decision applies retroactively requires a consideration of three questions: (a) does the decision constitute a new principle of law; (b) what is the purpose of the newly announced rule and would retroactive application further that purpose; and (c) would retroactive application be unfair to those who reasonably relied upon the old rule? See, e.g., Frazier v. New Jersey Mfrs. Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 590, 606 (1995); Rutherford Educ. Ass'n v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 99 N.J. 8, 23 (1985). The controlling factor in determining whether Verneret should be applied prospectively to Medeiros is whether reasonable reliance had been placed upon the past precedent. See, e.g., Manturi v. V. J. V., Inc., 179 N.J. Super. 300 (App. Div. 1981).

A particularly instructive case regarding prospective application of a judicial decision because of reasonable reliance involved the impact of the decision upon a statute of limitations. See Chevron Oil Co. v. Huson, 404 U.S. 97, 92 S. Ct. 349, 30 L. Ed. 2d 296 (1971). In that case a new interpretation of a period of limitations was restricted to a prospective application because a long line of precedents supported a prior view of the law. The plaintiff filed an action in 1968 for personal injuries he sustained about two years earlier on the defendant's off-shore oil rig. While his case was pending, the United States Supreme Court ruled that state law remedies, rather than admiralty law, were to be applied to such actions. See Rodrigue v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co., 395 U.S. 352, 89 S. Ct. 1835, 23 L. Ed. 2d 360 (1969). As such, the limitations period was changed from the admiralty law principle of laches to any specific period defined by applicable state law. Thus, in the Huson case, the change effectuated by the decision in Rodrigue resulted in the application of a one-year statute of limitations and plaintiff was determined by the lower courts to have filed out of time. However, on appeal, the U.S. Supreme Court determined that the one-year statute should not be applied retroactively because Rodrigue overruled a long line of precedent, and at the time plaintiff was injured and for the next two years until he filed his lawsuit, not to mention the ensuing year of pretrial proceedings, prior judicial decisions continued to represent the law governing the case. Thus, the Supreme Court reasoned that it could not be assured that the plaintiff could foresee that the consistent interpretations which held that the laches doctrine governed would be overturned. In addition, the Supreme Court observed that termination of the cause of action on the basis of the one-year statute of limitations, if applied retroactively, would frustrate the salutary purposes of the federal law governing compensation for injury suffered on off-shore oil rigs.

Similarly, in the instant case, Verneret may be applied prospectively to Medeiros since, at the time he received a denial of his claim (November 7, 1994), the decision in Tompkins and other cases arguably represented the law governing matters of this sort. Although the Board argues that Medeiros should have recognized that the prior law dealt with petitions filed in timely fashion, I have determined to give petitioner the benefit of the doubt in this respect and use the date of January 4, 1995, as the "trigger" for the 90-day rule.

Nevertheless, while I somewhat reluctantly agree that Medeiros was entitled to interpret prior case law to the effect that he did not have to file his claim until after the Division of Workers' Compensation made a determination, once the State Board decided Verneret the basis for that reliance entirely disappeared. See, e.g., Manturi, supra, 179 N.J. Super. at 306. Thus, unless the 90-day rule is waived or relaxed, the filing by Medeiros of his petition on June 19, 1995, was substantially out of time.

Medeiros claims that even if I determine, as I have, that he should have filed with the Commissioner in early April 1995, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15 the rule should be relaxed because of the particular circumstances that exist here. In particular, his counsel argues that distribution of the State Board decision, insofar as availability to the general bar is concerned, did not occur until "late March 1995" and it is not until then that the 90 days should begin.[4]

Medeiros's insistence that the rule should be relaxed because of the delayed timing of the publication of the State Board decision must be rejected. First, where the courts have given a prior decision prospective effect, the relevant date for beginning to apply the decision invariably has been the date it was rendered - not the date it was published. See, e.g., Coons v. American Honda Motor Co., Inc., 96 N.J. 419 (1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 1123, 105 S. Ct. 808, 83 L. Ed. 2d 800 (1985); DiFalco v. Subaru of America, Inc., 244 N.J. Super. 530 (App. Div. 1990), appeal dismissed, 130 N.J. 585 (1992). So, too, in Smith v. New Brunswick Board of Education, 1978 S.L.D. 214, the Commissioner held that the operative date of a regulation was the date it was promulgated and filed, not the date it was published.

Secondly, case law has established that application of the relaxation rule is very sparingly granted and occurs only where compelling circumstances to do so exist. See, e.g., Boles v. Bergen County Vocational Sch. Bd., 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 554, 556. In my view the facts of the instant case do not qualify for the exceptional application of the relaxation rule. For example, as noted by the administrative law judge (ALJ) in [4] No specific identification was made by counsel with respect to when, in fact, the Verneret decision actually became available during March. Indeed, since the petition was not filed until June 19, 1995, public distribution and availability of the decision prior to March 19, 1995, would have required a filing before June 19, 1995.

Raymond v. River Edge Board of Education, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 203, at 206-07, aff'd, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 431, "Clearly, the Commissioner can relax N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 if a strict application of the rule is inappropriate, unnecessary, or causes injustice, and has done so in the past. However, the Commissioner has found such 'unusual and compelling circumstances to warrant such relief' in only a limited number of cases" (citations omitted).

Similarly, in his decision in Portee v. Newark Board of Education, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 381, at 383-84, the ALJ noted that the 90-day requirement "has been strictly construed by the Commissioner of Education, the State Board of Education and the Courts. . . . This [relaxation] rule gives the Commissioner broad discretion. Even so, since the holding in Riely [v. Board of Education of Hunterdon County Regional School District, 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980)], the Commissioner, the State Board of Education, and the courts have read N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 very strictly and have applied it almost without exception. The Commissioner has indicated that the relaxation authorized in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15 is reserved for limited situations wherein a compelling reason can be demonstrated for expanding the limitation period."

The ALJ in Portee went on to observe that in Dreher v. Jersey City Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2777-87 (Dec. 18, 1987), aff'd, Comm'r of Educ. (Feb. 2), aff'd, State Board of Educ. (July 8, 1988), the filing of a petition just two days after the time expired was determined to be out of time and relaxation was not necessary. See also Bogart v. East Orange Board of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6245-82 (Jan. 26), aff'd, Comm'r of Educ. (March 14, 1983); Weir v. Board of Educ. of Northern Valley Reg. High Sch. Dist., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8609-83 (June 7), aff'd, Comm'r of Educ. (July 20, 1984), aff'd, State Board of Educ. (March 6, 1985), aff'd, No. A-3520-84T6 (App. Div. April 9, 1986).

As noted in cases like Dreher, Bogart and Weir, the instances wherein the Commissioner has relaxed the rule have been limited strictly to situations where a particularly compelling reason is advanced for expansion of the time limit, such as the existence of a genuine constitutional issue or the presence of a matter of significant public interest beyond that of only the parties themselves. No such reasons exist in this case. Thus, even if I give petitioner the benefit of several doubts (which I have), since the 90-day time period arose on January 4, 1995, I see no basis to validate the filing of a petition of appeal on June 19, 1995, 164 days later.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Accordingly, there being no reason for me to recommend to the Commissioner that the requirements of the 90-day rule be relaxed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15, the Board's motion for partial summary decision as to the two claims subject to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is GRANTED.

In light of my determination, and subject to the Commissioner's review, I shortly will be in touch with counsel in order to schedule potential hearing dates for the remaining issue in the case, the withholding of Medeiros's 1995-96 increment.

This order granting partial summary decision is being submitted under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) for immediate review. This recommended order may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who, by law, is authorized to make the final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days and unless such time is otherwise extended, this recommended order shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton,

New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner's claims pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 are properly dismissed as untimely, and that petitioner provides no cause to relax the 90-day rule pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and partial summary judgment is granted to the District as to the two claims subject to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. This matter will go forward at the OAL on the remaining issue of the withholding of petitioner's 1995-96 increment.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF WEST NEW YORK, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member, alleged Board was wrongfully deducting her time absent from employment from her accumulated sick leave, contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Petitioner contended she was absent due to the allegedly unsafe environment caused by the installation of a heating, ventilation and air conditioning system at the school at which she was assigned. Board contended petitioner failed to comply with Judge's orders to submit to medical examination.

ALJ determined that petitioner willfully and deliberately disregarded discovery orders. ALJ noted N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 clearly states that a board may require an employee to submit to a medical examination and that such examination may include flouroscopic or x-ray procedures. Petitioner disregarded two orders for examination. Thus, ALJ granted Board's motion to dismiss. ALJ denied motion for the imposition of costs on petitioner. ALJ dismissed petition with prejudice.

Commissioner determined that petitioner did not meet her burden of proof with regard to the claims she brought against the Board and consistently failed to follow reasonable and necessary discovery orders. Commissioner adopted initial decision as his own. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE: DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

NATURE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 3, 1995, Angela Rotella-Suarez (Suarez or petitioner) filed a petition with the Department of Education (DOE). Suarez, a tenured teaching staff member employed by the Board of Education of the Town of West New York (Board or respondent), alleged that, commencing October 1994, she began experiencing ill health resulting from the installation of a heating, ventilation, and air conditioning system at the school at which she was assigned, School No. 5. Petitioner also alleged that the situation worsened until on or about January 4, 1995 and that she was unable to report to work due to her argued medical conditions, which, she claimed, included breathing difficulties, headaches, nausea, laryngitis, dizziness, difficulty swallowing, sinus pain, and a dry skin rash. Finally, Suarez claimed that respondent had been deducting her time absent from employment from her accumulated sick leave, contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Petitioner requested that the Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) order that respondent provide Suarez with her full salary for one year or until such time as she was medically able to return to work, restore to her accumulated leave sick time that time deducted therefrom by the Board on account of the alleged illness, and transfer petitioner ". . . to a school that will provide her with a safe environment." (Petition, page 2). The Board filed an answer on October 31, 1995, essentially denying that petitioner was absent as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of her employment.

On April 26, 1995, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. It was subsequently assigned to the Honorable Ken R. Springer.

On September 18, 1995, the Board filed a motion to compel petitioner to submit to a medical examination. Conferences were conducted before Judge Springer in September 1995, and he issued a prehearing order on September 28, 1995, referencing, in part, respondent's September 18, 1995 motion.

Petitioner filed an amended complaint with the Commissioner on September 28, 1995. She included a second count, alleging that her argued condition constituted a handicap pursuant to the New Jersey Law against discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq., and that she requested, but was denied, a reasonable accommodation due to the argued handicap. Respondent filed an answer to the amended complaint on October 31, 1995, denying Suarez's allegations.

On September 29, 1995, Judge Springer issued an order granting respondent's motion for a medical examination of petitioner. Judge Springer ordered that Suarez appear for an independent medical examination (IME) before a physician selected by respondent, within thirty days from the date of his order, and that upon a failure by petitioner to comply with the order, respondent could move for appropriate sanctions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.5 and 14.14.

Petitioner did not appear for an IME before a physician selected by respondent within thirty days of Judge Springer's order, and the Board filed a motion for sanctions on November 8, 1995. The Board sought dismissal of the petition or, alternatively, an order suppressing petitioner's claims, excluding evidence of her alleged medical conditions, and awarding costs. Petitioner filed a reply on November 15, 1995.

Judge Springer subsequently notified the parties of his recusal, on November 13, 1995, and the case was thereafter reassigned to this judge in December 1995. I requested that the parties clarify certain portions of their briefs. Respondent did so on January 5 and 26, 1996.

I issued an order on respondent's motion on March 18, 1996, directing that petitioner appear for a medical examination with Dr. Leonard-Hudgins (Leonard-Hudgins), or another physician selected by respondent, no later than April 22, 1996, that upon a failure by petitioner to comply with the order, her petition would be dismissed with prejudice, and scheduling hearings for September 24 and 25, 1996.

On April 18, 1996, the Board filed a motion for dismissal of Suarez's petition and the imposition of costs on her. Petitioner filed a reply to the motion on May 1, 1996; and the Board, a response thereto, on May 6, 1996, on which date the record was closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

My March 18, 1996 order set forth findings of fact, based upon a review of the documents which had been filed in reference to the Board's November 8, 1995 motion. Those findings are incorporated herein and will be restated in this decision. I also make findings based upon the documents filed pertinent to the Board's April 18, 1996 motion.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be facts.

An appointment was scheduled for petitioner to be examined by Leonard-Hudgins at 9:00 a.m. on October 26, 1995. On October 23, 1995, Frank A. Blandino (Blandino), counsel for the Board, spoke by telephone with Sanford Oxfeld (Oxfeld), petitioner's counsel, to confirm that Suarez would submit to the medical examination ordered by Judge Springer. During this conversation, Blandino learned that petitioner, against Oxfeld's direction, was intending to cancel the scheduled examination with Leonard-Hudgins. Blandino spoke with individuals in the physician's office on October 25, 1995, ascertaining that petitioner had, in fact, canceled the appointment which had been scheduled for October 26, 1995. On the latter date, Blandino again spoke with an individual in Leonard-Hudgins's office and reconfirmed that petitioner had canceled the appointment and did not reschedule another one.

By letter dated October 20, 1995, to Oxfeld, regarding the October 26, 1995 scheduled appointment, petitioner stated reasons why she opposed any examination and, specifically, one by Leonard-Hudgins. Petitioner stated that she believed an examination was unnecessary and redundant, questioning the purpose of the examination, in light of the fact that she was previously absent from her employment with respondent from approximately late December 1994. Petitioner also noted that she was "briefly examined" by Leonard-Hudgins in January 1995, asserting concerns regarding the fact that he apparently is the worker's compensation attorney for respondent. (Petitioner's letter, page 1). Petitioner also raised argued concerns regarding Leonard-Hudgins's competency, allegedly based on Suarez's experience with the physician on January 19, 1995, and petitioner's argued strained relationship with the physician and his office staff. Petitioner also stated that she canceled a scheduled October 20, 1995 examination because she was 'advised by my attorney to cancel until the attorneys could work things out." (Id. at p. 2). Petitioner concluded: "I have not changed my mind about taking that test, so lets not waste anyone's time. She got all the information in January.' (Id. at p. 3).

On March 28, 1996, Blandino scheduled an appointment for Suarez with Leonard-Hudgins for Monday, April 8, 1996, at 9:00 a.m. Blandino confirmed the appointment with Oxfeld by telephone conference and correspondence that same day.

On April 8, 1996, Blandino spoke by telephone with personnel in the office of Leonard-Hudgins, learning that Suarez had appeared for the scheduled IME but refused to undergo certain testing. Specifically, Blandino was informed by an employee of Leonard-Hudgins, referred to as "Nancy," that as Nancy brought petitioner in for testing, she (Nancy) informed Suarez that petitioner would first undergo what was referred to as pulmonary testing and, then, a chest X-ray. Suarez was advised that the pulmonary test would involve petitioner inhaling and blowing out into a tube and mouthpiece and that the mouthpiece would be changed. Suarez refused to do so and left the physician's office. Suarez refused to take the pulmonary test, viewing it as being "intrusive," and refused to take the X-ray because she felt it would subject her to unnecessary radiation.

On April 8, 1996, Blandino left a telephone message with Oxfeld's office regarding petitioner's failure to undergo a medical examination. On April 10, 1996, Blandino, by facsimile transmission, requested of Oxfeld that petitioner withdraw her petition. Blandino spoke by telephone with Oxfeld on April 11, 1996 regarding the matter and a request by Oxfeld to have petitioner provide an affidavit. Blandino agreed to not file a motion seeking relief for one week. Blandino received an affidavit executed by petitioner on April 17, 1996.

DISCUSSION

A board of education is mandated to require all of its employees to undergo a physical examination at least annually and may require psychiatric or physical examinations of any employee whenever, in the judgment of the board of education, an employee shows evidence of deviation from normal physical or mental health. Any examination may, if the board approves, include laboratory tests or fluroscopic or X-ray procedures. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2.

The purpose of discovery is to facilitate the disposition of cases. Regulations applicable to discovery in administrative proceedings are designed to achieve such purpose by giving litigants access to facts which tend to support or undermine their position or that of their adversary. N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1(a).

The presiding judge may impose sanctions for a failure to comply with requirements regarding discovery. Id. at §10.5. In general, for an unreasonable failure to comply with any order of a judge, the judge may dismiss or grant a motion or application, suppress a defense or claim, exclude evidence, order costs or reasonable expenses, or take other appropriate case-related action. Id. at §14.14. Dismissal is an extreme sanction which should be imposed when discovery misconduct is deliberate and contumacious, evidencing a willful, deliberate disregard of discovery orders. Abtrax Pharmaceuticals, Inc. v. Elkins-Sinn, Inc., 139 N.J. 499 (1995) (Abtrax). An order or ruling of a presiding judge may generally be reviewed interlocutorily by the agency head at the request of a party. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10.

As discussed in my order of March 18, 1996, petitioner's October 20, 1995 letter contained bald assertions which were not supported by certifications. In addition, petitioner raised no issues which should not have been known by her as of September 1995, when respondent filed its initial motion to compel a medical examination. Such arguments should have been raised before Judge Springer. Petitioner did not thereafter seek relief from Judge Springer's order of September 29, 1995 by requesting interlocutory review thereof. Suarez was therefore bound by the terms of that order. Petitioner's action at that time indicated a willful disregard of Judge Springer's discovery order.

The Board has the statutory authority, whether or not a contested case was initiated by either party, and irrespective of pertinent discovery regulations, to require petitioner to undergo a physical examination in this instance, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2. In addition, a physical examination, on its face, is a reasonable means of discovery in the current matter in light of the nature of Suarez's claims. In light of those claims, a pulmonary test and chest X-ray are reasonable, on their face. Petitioner's characterization of the pulmonary test as "intrusive" is not supported by her certification. In any event, respondent has the authority to require such testing, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2. Suarez's certification to the effect that she complied with this judge's order to submit to a medical examination, but not to any specific tests, is without merit. An examination includes tests deemed to be necessary by the physician in question.

Petitioner's counsel again advances on her behalf arguments regarding the necessity of any examination whatsoever. That issue was previously addressed by Judge Springer and by me and for the reasons indicated, I am persuaded that such is reasonable. Suarez's actions subsequent to the issuance of Judge Springer's order evidence a willful, deliberate disregard of discovery orders, thereby justifying the extreme penalty of dismissal of her claims. Abtrax, supra. The discovery sought by the Board is resonable and would, on its face, facilitate the disposition of the current matter.

I am persuaded, for the foregoing reasons, that the Board's motion to dismiss should be granted. However, after considering the matter, I am also persuaded that costs should not be imposed. Dismissal of the petition, with prejudice, provides a sufficient remedy to the Board.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has evidenced a willful, deliberate disregard of discovery orders, that her petition, filed with the DOE on April 3, 1995, should be dismissed with prejudice, that the Board's motion to dismiss the petition should be granted, and that respondent's motion for the imposition of costs on petitioner should be denied.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's motion for dismissal be and is hereby GRANTED, that respondent's motion for the imposition of costs on petitioner be and is hereby DENIED, and that the petition filed by Suarez with the DOE on April 3, 1995 be and is here hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE. Finally, it is hereby ORDERED that the hearings previously scheduled for September 24 and 25, 1996 be and are hereby adjourned.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ANGELA ROTELLA-SUAREZ,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF WEST NEW YORK, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Petitioner then filed supplemental exceptions on July 12, 1996. In that these were filed outside of the above-cited regulatory time frame, they are not considered herein. Reply exceptions were timely filed by the Board. *

Petitioner's exceptions state that petitioner did not willfully disregard discovery orders and, therefore, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in dismissing the within case. Petitioner avers that > pursuant to the ALJ's Order [she] did see Dr. Hudgins. Quite to the contrary to Petitioner's expectations, Petitioner never in fact met with Dr. Hudgins on the date in question. Rather, she was informed that she would have to take a pulmonary test and have a chest x-ray. As the [ALJ's] prior Order did not direct that Petitioner have what Petitioner considered to be intrusive tests,

* Although the Board's reply exceptions were received by the Commissioner on July 23, 1996, the Commissioner has accepted them as timely filed, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(d), based upon the Board attorney's certification submitted therewith which contends that petitioner's exceptions were received by him on July 18, 1996. The certification explains that his receipt was delayed after exceptions were forwarded to him following a substitution of attorney.

Petitioner declined to participate in these tests. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 2)

Further, petitioner avers that the ALJ did not direct petitioner to undergo flouroscopic or x-ray procedures although N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 authorizes a board of education to include such tests in medical examinations. Had the Judge's Order so required, she avers, "then Petitioner would have been aware that her refusal to undergo the requested procedures could have dire consequences." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 3)

Lastly, petitioner excepts that because an Order of Dismissal is "the most severe sanction that can be imposed, it is irregular at the very best for Petitioner's case to be dismissed when Petitioner did not violate or refuse to follow the ALJ's Order and, further, that the ALJ "has not been sympathetic to Petitioner's position from the very outset." (Id. at p. 4) Thus, petitioner contends that the Board should be given an opportunity to have the court sign an order directing petitioner to undertake the specific procedures in question, reserving dismissal for the juncture when and if petitioner refuses the procedures after being ordered to take them. (Id. at p. 5)

In reply, the Board avers that the ALJ was correct when she determined this matter was ripe for dismissal in that, "Petitioner flagrantly disobeyed not one judge's order, but two such orders" and "Petitioner's actions are at the least deliberate." (Reply Exceptions at p. 3) The Board also discounts petitioner's argument that a medical evaluation would be fruitless because the exam results would fail to show petitioner's condition when she first instituted this action as "clearly without merit" (Id. at p. 4) The Board avers that had petitioner submitted to one of the three examinations requested by the Board as ordered in September 1995, petitioner's condition certainly would have been ascertained. (emphasis in text) (Id.) The Board further avers that petitioner's supplemental exceptions should not be admitted into this record as regulation does not provide for the admission of evidence outside of the 13-day deadline. (Id.)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that the within petition must be dismissed. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 clearly states that a board may require an employee to submit to a medical examination and that such examination may include fluoroscopic or x-ray procedures. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ, for the reasons stated, that petitioner's claim of compliance with the Judge's Order to submit to a medical examination, but not to any specific tests, is without merit.

Accordingly, in accepting the factual findings of the ALJ, the Commissioner determines that petitioner did not meet her burden of proof with regard to the claims she brought against the Board and consistently failed to follow reasonable and necessary discovery orders. As such, the Commissioner finds dismissal is fully warranted in the instant matter.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the OAL dismissing the within Petition of Appeal with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,	:
V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF WEST NEW YORK, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 5, 1996

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Balk, Oxfeld, Mandell & Cohen (Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Allan C. Roth, Esq.

In April 1995, Angela Rotella-Suarez (hereinafter "petitioner"), a teaching staff member, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board of Education of the Town of West New York (hereinafter "Board") had failed to provide her with sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 for a medical condition which she claimed was caused by a new heating, ventilation and air conditioning system at the school to which she had been assigned.[1] Petitioner claimed that her symptoms

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, "Payment of sick leave for service connected disability," provides, in pertinent part:

> A. Whenever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall pay to such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such included breathing difficulties, headaches, nausea, laryngitis, dizziness, difficulty swallowing, sinus pains and a dry rash, and that she was unable to report to work as a result of such condition. Petitioner subsequently filed an amended petition in which she also alleged that her condition constituted a handicap under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq., and that the Board had failed to provide her with a reasonable accommodation by transferring her to another school.

On September 29, 1995, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") issued an order granting the Board's motion for a medical examination of petitioner. The ALJ directed petitioner to appear for an independent examination by a physician selected by the Board within 30 days of his order. The Board thereafter arranged for petitioner to be examined by Dr. Joan Leonard-Hudgins on October 26, 1995. Petitioner, however, did not appear for that examination, indicating in a letter to her attorney dated October 20 that she had previously been examined by Dr. Leonard-Hudgins as part of her workers' compensation claim and that she had been unwilling to submit to a pulmonary test. Petitioner expressed concern about the safety of such a procedure.

As a result of petitioner's failure to appear for the medical examination, the Board filed a motion for sanctions, seeking dismissal of the petition or, in the alternative, an order suppressing petitioner's claims and excluding evidence of her alleged medical condition. On March 18, 1996, a second ALJ assigned to the case after the first judge recused himself denied the Board's request to dismiss the petition, absence charged to the annual sick leave or the accumulated sick leave provided in N.J.S. 18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3. Salary or wage payments provided in this section shall be made for absence during the waiting period and during the period the employee received or was eligible to receive a temporary disability benefit under chapter 15 of Title 34, Labor and Workmen's Compensation, of the Revised Statutes. Any amount of salary or wages paid or payable to the employee pursuant to this section shall be reduced by the amount of any workmen's compensation award made for temporary disability.

stating that she was not persuaded that the petitioner had demonstrated a willful, deliberate disregard of discovery orders. However, the ALJ did issue an order directing petitioner to appear for a medical examination with Dr. Leonard-Hudgins or another physician selected by the Board by April 22, 1996. The ALJ indicated that the petition would be dismissed with prejudice if petitioner failed to comply with that order.

Petitioner thereafter submitted an affidavit in which she related that she had appeared at Dr. Leonard-Hudgins' office on April 8 for an examination as scheduled by the Board, but that she had been unwilling to submit to the pulmonary test or to be exposed to the "unnecessary radiation" of a chest x-ray. She indicated that her avoidance of such procedures was at the recommendation of her chiropractor. She also questioned the necessity for such "intrusive" procedures when she had not been exposed to the conditions which allegedly had caused her medical problems for over a year. As a result of petitioner's refusal to submit to medical tests, the Board filed a motion to dismiss the petition.

On June 19, 1996, the ALJ recommended granting the Board's motion, finding that petitioner had evidenced a willful, deliberate disregard of the discovery orders. The ALJ indicated that a physical examination was a reasonable means of discovery in light of the nature of petitioner's claims, and that a pulmonary test and chest x-ray were also reasonable procedures. She observed that the discovery sought by the Board would facilitate the disposition of this matter.

On August 5, 1996, the Commissioner adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and dismissed the petition.

Petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

After a careful review of the record, we dismiss the appeal for the reasons stated herein.

The threshold question under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is whether a claimant's injury arose "out of and in the course of his employment." As we explained in Verneret v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, decided by the State Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 134, 134-35, that question:

> ...is controlled by the standards established under the Workers' Compensation Act. See Theodore v. Dover Bd. of Ed., 183 N.J. Super. 407 (App. Div. 1982). In those instances where entitlement to relief under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is dependent upon whether the injury arose out of and in the course of employment within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 34:15-7 of that Act, the State Board has held that the Commissioner of Education should refrain from exercising his jurisdiction pending a determination of that issue by the Division of Workers' Compensation. Amos v. Board of Education of the Borough of Red Bank, decided by the State Board of Education, February 3, 1988; Tomkins v. Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, decided by the State Board of Education, December 2, 1987. See City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1 (1980); Forgash v. Lower Camden County School, 208 N.J. Super. 461 (App. Div. 1985).

Thus, although the Commissioner has jurisdiction over all disputes arising under the school laws, the exercise of his jurisdiction over claims arising under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 should be deferred pending a determination by the Division of Workers' Compensation of whether the claimant's injury was work-related. In this case, there is nothing in the record to confirm that the Division of Workers' Compensation has rendered such a determination.

The record indicates that petitioner had requested the ALJ to place her claim for benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 in abeyance pending a determination by the Division of Workers' Compensation. As related by the counsel for the West New York Board in a letter dated December 4, 1995 to the Office of Administrative Law, the ALJ had indicated in a telephone conference on September 20, 1995 that the case would be placed on inactive status pending the outcome of petitioner's workers' compensation claim but that he would grant the Board's motion to compel petitioner to submit to a medical examination. That order was subsequently issued by the ALJ on September 29, 1995. In its answer brief, the Board states that petitioner's workers' compensation claim was denied "[b]ased upon her refusal to attend the medical examination." Answer brief, at 2.

While we would be hesitant to dismiss the appeal on the basis of this statement alone,[2] petitioner does not dispute the Board's contention or offer any indication that the Division of Workers' Compensation rendered a determination that her injury was work-related. Under these circumstances, the appropriate course for this agency is to refrain from exercising its jurisdiction over petitioner's claim, including any discovery matters, and to dismiss the instant appeal.

Our determination is not altered by the fact that petitioner also raised a claim under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination. The Commissioner has "jurisdiction to hear and determine...all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws...." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. "Where the controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction even though it may pertain to school personnel." Board of Ed., E. Brunswick Tp. v. Township Council, E. Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966). Thus, petitioner's Law Against Discrimination claim, which does not arise under the school laws, does not alone provide this agency with jurisdiction over this matter.

[2] We note that the Board has provided no corroboration for its assertion that petitioner's workers' compensation claim was denied.

We therefore dismiss the appeal in this matter for the reasons stated herein.

Arsen Zartarian, Esq., for petitioner (McOmber & McOmber, attorneys)

James E. Collins, Esq., for respondent (Cerrato, Dawes, Collins, Saker & Brown, attorneys)

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

On motion for emergent relief, a parent challenges expulsion of a minor pupil and seeks an order directing that the pupil be placed in a summer academic program pending decision on the expulsion challenge.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. Oral argument on the motion for emergent relief was held on July 16, 1996, at the Office of Administrative Law, Trenton.

The factual background is uncontested. S.R. telephoned a bomb threat to Freehold Township High School on March 12, 1996. On March 13, 1996 the school principal spoke with S.R. and S.R. admitted making the threat. Following a conference with the principal and a Freehold Township police detective, S.R. was suspended by the principal, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1. At some point before the hearing, Mrs. R. and the principal spoke. Among other things, the principal stated that, in the past, parents facing similar situations had withdrawn their children from the public school and placed them elsewhere. Mrs. R. withdrew S.R. on March 25, 1996 and the scheduled hearing was canceled. Mrs. R. tried for some time, without success, to gain admission of S.R. to another school. She declined the offer of a child study team evaluation and attendance in the accredited evening high school program. An assistant superintendent spoke with Mr. and Mrs. R. and offered to assist them in obtaining alternate placements, including but not limited to the Monmouth County Vocational system. Assistance was refused.

Mr. and Mrs. R. retained counsel in late April. The parents' and the Board's attorneys worked out an arrangement under which S.R. was allowed to reenroll and was placed on home instruction. His expulsion hearing was reset for May 20, 1996.

On May 20, following the regularly scheduled Board meeting, the board conducted the expulsion hearing. Counsel stipulated the facts and S.R. apologized. S.R. submitted the assessment of a psychologist. The Board resolved to expel S.R. permanently from the regular high school program, to offer placement in the evening high school program, to discontinue home instruction and to ban S.R. from attendance at any school functions related to the regular high school program. The Board also resolved to have its staff cooperate and coordinate with the Monmouth County Vocational School in any way to facilitate S.R.'s enrollment there.

It became apparent at hearing that placement in the summer school, even if ordered, is impracticable. The session had been under way since July 8. It is concededly a concentrated experience. The program runs for six weeks. Instruction is so concentrated that pupils with two or more unexcused absences are not permitted to continue. The instruction is so intense and the time so limited that attendance is an absolute requirement. For S.R. to attempt to catch up at this late date would be foolhardy and could not produce a positive educational result.

The petitioner's arguments are that the incident was an isolated lapse of judgment, expulsion is too extreme as a remedy, expulsion was undertaken without the benefit of competent advice, the pupil's interests cannot be met through the evening or vocational programs, the pupil will suffer immediate and irreparable damage to his academic and social maturation and that no harm would accrue to the Board if S.R. were admitted to the summer program immediately.

The Board asserts there is no immediate and irreparable harm at least until September, summer school is a privilege and not a right, the parents' rejection of all alternative placements is unreasonable, an incident of the magnitude of a bomb threat cannot be ignored, the principal had a duty to act when the threat occurred, the principal acted appropriately, the Board carefully reviewed and carefully reacted to the threat, the Board has a duty to protect the pupils in its charge and, here, the Board offered sound alternative school placements.

Both parties have referred to Scher v. Board of Education of West Orange, 1968 S.L.D. 92 and H.A. v. Board of Education of Warren Hills Regional School District, 1976 S.L.D. 336. Scher does, as petitioner points out, refer to expulsion as "a drastic and desperate remedy" and it does say the board's decision should be based on competent advice, while suggesting a variety of sources of the advice. 1968 S.L.D. at 96. The usual source has been the Child Study Team. In the present case, Mrs. R. expressly refused a child study team evaluation. As counsel are aware, N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.8(g) formerly required a child study team evaluation before a noneducationally handicapped pupil could be considered for expulsion. That rule has been repealed. 22 N.J.R. 2683(b). In this regard, the Board seems to have elevated concern for the pupil over simple reliance on the administrative code and offered the evaluation. The petitioner may not now argue that the Board lacked competent advice when it expelled S.R. for two reasons. First, the Board had and used the advice of its staff. These persons know the day-to-day operation of the school and they know S.R. Second, the traditional source of competent advice, a child study team workup, was offered even though the Board was not required to offer it and was refused.

H.A. rejected arguments based on standard of proof and alleged procedural deficiencies. More importantly, it found that H.A. was subjected to a long-term suspension, not expulsion. It ordered "an offer of an alternate form of education to petitioner . . . ." 1976 S.L.D. at 341-342.

Expulsion is an extreme remedy. It is so extreme that a body of law has created a panoply of safeguards for the pupil. The procedural due process rights guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment attach. A preliminary hearing, however informal, must be provided. This provides an opportunity for the pupil to learn the precise infractions alleged and an opportunity to present her or his side. A hearing before the board must be provided. It is often referred to as a full hearing and may approach trial-like formality. All of these things inure to the pupil's benefit. None of them takes expulsion out of the authority of a district board of education. Where, as here, the procedural safeguards have been provided, it remains within the discretion of a board of education to invoke expulsion.

Potential damage to the pupil's academic and social maturation appear to have been included in the Board's considerations, but not in the pupil's. That S.R.'s interests cannot be met in evening high school or vocational school programs is not inconsequential, but neither is it controlling. And the fact that the vocational school does not offer a horticultural program - - in which S.R. apparently is interested - - would be a fact if S.R. had not been expelled.

Applying the traditional criteria to a motion for emergent relief, I FIND that some immediate harm will befall S.R. if an educational placement is not decided upon by the start of the 1996-97 school year. I have not been given enough in this brief record to find that the harm is yet irreparable. Balancing the hardships that would be visited on the parties by the grant, or not, of the requested relief, they seem to fall more heavily, but not exclusively, on the pupil.

Most tellingly, I FIND that the petitioner's likelihood of prevailing on the merits is slight. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that an order directing emergent relief may not issue at this time. Accordingly, the motion is DENIED. It is so ORDERED. It is further ORDERED that this matter proceed to plenary hearing as soon as practicable.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

The record of this matter, audiotape of the proceedings, and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) denying emergent relief as petitioner failed to meet the standards for such relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Petitioning tenured teaching staff member alleged the Board unilaterally and wrongfully deducted monies from her salary and sought reimbursement. Board contended petitioner's request to be laterally moved to the doctor's column of the 1995-96 salary guide was denied because the institution petitioner attended was not recognized by the State of New Jersey. Salary reduction was to correct the erroneous salary increase.

ALJ concluded petition was time-barred. (Petitioner filed her petition before the Commissioner following arbitrator's decision against her in a contractual grievance procedure.) ALJ determined it was not necessary to address the remaining points argued by the parties. Moreover, the ALJ pointed out that since the Commissioner may not tread in matters concerning labor contracts, the arbitrator's award stood as the final judgment in this case. ALJ found that petitioner should be precluded from relitigating the issues addressed at the arbitration hearing under the entire controversy doctrine, which provides that the adjudication of a legal controversy should occur in one litigation in only one court. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ with modification. Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the petition was filed untimely and concurred that no relaxation of the 90-day rule was warranted. Petitioner should have filed her two claims simultaneously. Commissioner modified the initial decision to note that while the Commissioner does not tread in labor contract matters, petitioner was not precluded from filing this appeal before the Commissioner under the entire controversy doctrine in that the issue raised by petitioner, i.e., improper reduction of a tenured staff person's salary pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, is separate from the contractual issues previously considered in arbitration. Commissioner concurred that a board may not act to unilaterally recoup monies erroneously paid to a tenured teaching staff member. Petition was dismissed as untimely.

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HILLSBOROUGH,

Respondent.

Arnold M. Mellk, Esq., for petitioner (Wills, O'Neill & Mellk, attorneys)

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., for respondent (Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 16, 1996 Decided: June 24, 1996

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Karen Hoffman, petitioner, alleges that the Hillsborough Township Board of Education (Board or respondent) unilaterally and wrongfully deducted monies from her salary and seeks reimbursement.

The matter was opened and joined before the Commissioner of Education. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. The Board's answer set forth an affirmative defense contending that the case should be dismissed based on sound precedent. The Board so moved before the judge then assigned. The petitioner timely filed responsive papers. All issues in the case being addressed by the moving and responsive papers, the matter proceeds to summary disposition.

Certain facts are not disputed and outline the case. In November 1994, the petitioner requested approval to take a six-credit graduate course offered by LaSalle University located in Mandeville, Louisiana. On or about November 22, 1994, the Superintendent of Schools approved the course for tuition reimbursement. LaSalle conferred the Doctor of Education degree on the petitioner shortly thereafter. During the summer of 1995, the petitioner submitted for Board review the diploma issued by LaSalle. She requested that the Board advance her on the 1995-96 salary guide from step 12 on the master's plus fifteen credits column ($48,187) to step 12 on the doctor's column ($53,978).

The Board was to review and approve all applications for salary advancement for the 1995-96 school year at its regular meeting of September 18, 1995. Upon reviewing the petitioner's transcript, the assistant superintendent noticed that nine of the thirty-six credits required by LaSalle for the doctoral degree had been taken at or through LaSalle. A total of 150 credits was given for prior educational credits earned, including graduate and continuing education unit credits, and for work and life experience. The assistant superintendent noted, for the first time, that LaSalle was located in Mandeville, Louisiana, not in Philadelphia. She discussed the matter with the Superintendent and then called the New Jersey Commission on Higher Education. The Commission advised her that LaSalle of Louisiana was not accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, was not a candidate for accreditation and, therefore, was not recognized by the State of New Jersey as an authorized institution of higher education.

The superintendent directed the assistant superintendent to strike the petitioner's name from the board's list to be reviewed at the September 18 meeting. By memorandum dated September 27, 1995, the superintendent advised the petitioner that her request to be laterally moved to the doctor's column of the 1995-96 salary guide was denied because the institution was not recognized by the State of New Jersey.

The practice of the Board has been to pay teachers their new salaries prior to the first Board meeting in September. Based on this practice, the petitioner already had been paid for her anticipated lateral movement to the doctor's column, although her request for advancement was later denied. To correct the overpayment, the petitioner requested that her salary be reduced evenly over the remainder of the school year. On or about October 6, 1995, the Hillsborough Education Association filed a grievance alleging that the Board's refusal to recognize the petitioner's degree from LaSalle and its subsequent denial of her request for salary advancement violated the negotiated labor agreement between the Association and the Board. The Board denied the grievance. The association filed a request for arbitration before the American Arbitration Association on or about November 28, 1995. The petitioner also filed the present petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education on January 19, 1996. The Board filed its answer on February 6, 1996. On February 15, 1996, an arbitration hearing was held. On April 15, 1996, the arbitrator denied the grievance.

THE ARGUMENTS

The Board

The Board argues that the petitioner's claim for salary guide advancement rests on the interpretation of the Collective Bargaining Agreement and examination of the parties' past practice. Therefore, the Commissioner has no jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action. Further, the petitioner is barred from bringing this action for failure to file a timely petition in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.2(c), the 90-day rule.

In addition, because the contractual issues alleged in the petition have already been addressed by the arbitrator, the fundamental principle of the entire controversy doctrine acts as a bar. The petitioner may not seek a determination by the Commissioner.

The Petitioner

The petitioner asserts that the controversy here is within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. The Commissioner has heard controversies of this type and has held that, even where a tenured employee's annual salary is erroneously inflated or mistakenly scheduled, it cannot peremptorily be corrected. Here, the petitioner is contesting the unilateral reduction of her salary and the position taken by the Board that her doctoral degree is not to be recognized for salary purposes. The Board's own affidavits establish that the assistant superintendent initially approved the petitioner's courses for tuition reimbursement and the Board had begun payment to petitioner on the doctoral degree level for the 1995-96 school year. These facts mandate the petitioner's continuation, at the least, upon her step of the doctoral guide for the 1995-96 school year.

The petitioner maintains she informed the assistant superintendent well in advance of the program, the institution offering it and her involvement in it.

DETERMINATION

Certain facts are not in dispute. In November 1994, the petitioner sought and received approval for tuition assistance to take a six-credit graduate course. In the following summer, the petitioner submitted a diploma conferring the doctor of education degree upon her from LaSalle University in Mandeville, Louisiana. She asked for advancement on the salary guide from step 12 on the master's plus fifteen credits scale to the same step on the doctoral scale. That salary was put into effect beginning September 1, 1995, although official Board action was scheduled to be taken on September 18, 1995. At some point in the interim, an assistant superintendent noted that the petitioner had completed only nine credits of course work at or through LaSalle University. LaSalle granted one hundred fifty credits for prior education, graduate education and work and life experience. The assistant superintendent also noticed, apparently for the first time, that LaSalle was located in Louisiana, not in Philadelphia. The assistant superintendent spoke with the superintendent and this led to a contact with the New Jersey Commission on Higher Education. The Commission reported that LaSalle was not recognized by New Jersey as a institution of higher education and that it was neither accredited nor a candidate for accreditation by a recognized agency.

The superintendent then directed that the petitioner's name be stricken from the list of persons whose salaries were to be acted upon on September 18. On or about September 27, the superintendent sent a memorandum to the petitioner informing her that the move on the salary guide was denied because LaSalle was not an institution recognized by the State of New Jersey.

The petitioner had already received at least one paycheck reflecting the higher rate of pay. When she became aware that a correction might be made, she asked for even deductions over the balance of 1995-96 school year. In early October, the local education association filed a grievance on her behalf stating that the refusal to recognize the degree followed by denial of the higher salary constituted a contract violation.

This decision was grieved. A petition was filed before the Commissioner of Education on January 19, 1996 and answered by the Board on February 6, 1996. Later that month, the arbitration hearing was held and on April 15, 1996, the arbitrator denied the education association grievance. I adopt the foregoing as FINDINGS OF FACT in this matter.

The petitioner knew on or about September 27, 1995, that her request for salary adjustment was denied based on the fact that LaSalle was not a New Jersey recognized institution of higher education. She filed the present appeal on January 19, 1996, 124 days after receiving the superintendent's memorandum. In mitigation of this circumstance, the petitioner argues that where there have been discussions for the purpose of reasoning out a problem, the 90-day rule should be relaxed. However, the education association filed a grievance on the petitioner's behalf on October 6, 1995. If it is argued that this was done simply to protect her right to invoke the arbitration clause in her union contract, then it must equally be true that she could have and should have filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education to keep that right alive. Riely v. Hunterdon Central High School Bd. of Educ., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980).

In Riely, an untenured teacher whose contract was not renewed filed a petition of appeal before the Commissioner to obtain reinstatement and back pay. The board of education moved to dismiss the petition as untimely and as barred by reason of an adverse decision in an arbitration proceeding. The Commissioner denied the motion to dismiss. The Board of Education appealed to the State Board of Education and that appeal was dismissed. However, the Appellate Division of Superior Court held that the petition was filed out of time and should have been dismissed.

In Riely, as in this case, the petitioner availed herself of a contractual grievance procedure. Binding arbitration was invoked and considerable time elapsed before the arbitrator decided against the petitioner. She then filed her petition before the Commissioner. Although the petitioner in this case was not as lax as Riely, she nevertheless waited too long. Even if this tribunal accepts October 6, 1995, the date the grievance was filed, as the date upon which the parties stopped "reasoning together," the petitioner still is out of time by at least six days. And, as in Riely, although the issue was properly within the scope of mandatory arbitration under the petitioner's collective bargaining agreement, those issues were properly raised before the Public Employment Relations Commission, not the Commissioner. Further, the arbitrator's award was final as to the matters within the scope of the issues framed by the parties for arbitration. They may not be relitigated before the Commissioner. Riely at 113.

If the petitioner now argues that her appeal before the Commissioner involves matters that were not or could not have been submitted for arbitration, she comes too late. There was no reason to withhold the appeal to the commissioner of any issue or issues not included in the arbitration under the contract. The petitioner had ample time to file her petition of appeal. She did not and, thus, is time-barred. There is no reason why she could not have timely filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education even while pursuing other avenues. There is nothing in the record that calls for equitable relief of the 90-day rule. The petitioner could have and should have filed sooner, but did not. I CONCLUDE, for the reasons stated, that the present petition is time-barred and, therefore, must be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

It is not necessary to address the remaining points argued by the parties. Nevertheless, it must be pointed out that the Commissioner may not tread in matters concerning labor contracts. Thus, the arbitrator's award, over which this tribunal has no jurisdiction whatsoever, stands as the final judgment in the case.

Finally, although the Board has prevailed, it is clear that the Commissioner, the State Board and the courts have taken a dim view of unilateral salary reduction action taken during the school year, even where error is present. In those cases, corrective formal action of the Board upon notice to the employee is required. Stockton v. Bd. of Educ. of Trenton, 1987 S.L.D. 512, 518.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

KAREN HOFFMAN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HILLSBOROUGH, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions contend that the determination of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) should be overturned for three reasons. Initially, petitioner cites Stockton, supra, for the proposition that the proper date for the running of the 90-day rule is November 13, 1995, in that "the parties in an erroneous salary case should be given ample time for a discussion 'in order to reason together' in order to attempt to arrive at a solution without litigation." (Petitioner's Exceptions at pp. 1-2) Petitioner next excepts that assuming the ALJ's selection of October 6, 1995 is deemed the cut-off date for the 90-day limitation period, "certainly six days is not of such moment, in the context of this case, so as to preclude equity from providing a six day extension of time for the filing of a petition." (Id. at p. 1)

Petitioner also states that the ALJ recognized that the Commissioner, State Board and the Courts have consistently rejected the preemptory correction of an erroneous salary increase and incorporates by reference her May 15, 1996 letter brief which cites case law to support this proposition. (Id. at p. 2)

In summation, petitioner characterizes the ALJ's application of the 90-day rule in this matter as a "hyper-technical approach" which "frustrates the purpose for the petitioner's controversy, i.e., to interpret the school laws when a dispute arises." (Id.)

In reply, the Board reiterates its arguments that petitioner filed her appeal beyond the 90-day limitation period. The Board avers that the ALJ correctly determined that petitioner received notice via memorandum that her request for salary guide advancement was denied on September 27, 1995, triggering the 90-day limitation period. It further argues that petitioner acknowledged that she had notice in the filing of her grievance wherein she claimed the alleged violation occurred on September 18, 1995, when the superintendent advised her in person that her request was denied. (Board's Exceptions at pp. 1-2) "Thus, petitioner is estopped by her own actions from asserting that November 13, 1995 was the operative date which triggered the 90-day period." (Id. at p. 3) The Board next argues that contrary to petitioner's assertions, no negotiations took place in an effort to reason things out in accordance with Stockton, supra. The Board next rejects as without merit petitioner's argument that she should have been granted a six-day extension of time in which to file her petition in that she has not advanced any compelling reason to excuse her failure to file her appeal within the 90-day limitation period. (Board's Exceptions at pp. 4-5)

The Board avers that although the ALJ's decision ultimately rested on the timeliness issue, the ALJ correctly found that petitioner should be precluded from relitigating the issues addressed at the February 15, 1996 arbitration hearing under the entire controversy doctrine, which provides that the adjudication of a legal controversy should occur in one litigation in only one court. Cogdell v. Hospital Center, 116 N.J. 7, 15 (1989). In support of its contention, the Board cites Board of Education of the River Dell Regional School District v. Canal, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 784 (Comm. Ed. September 24, 1993, aff'd 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 327 (St. Bd. May 4, 1994) wherein the Board's action was unrelated to a teacher's job performance and the Commissioner held that the matter did not implicate genuine questions of school law or educational policy and should have been determined by general contract principles. Further, the Commissioner determined such issues are "beyond the scope of his jurisdiction and, thus, were better left to 'the dispute resolution mechanism set forth in the parties' negotiated agreement.'" (Board's Exceptions at pp. 5-6) The Board avers petitioner is seeking an identical remedy to that previously sought before the arbitrator and this must be regarded as nothing more than an attempt to obtain a second opportunity to seek a favorable determination in this matter. Therefore, it avers, "should the Commissioner find petitioner's appeal to have been timely filed or compelling reasons to relax the limitations period, the Commissioner should accept [the ALJ's] position in this regard and dismiss petitioner's appeal under the entire controversy doctrine." (Id. at p. 7)

To the extent that the ALJ implied that petitioner's salary was improperly reduced, the Board disagrees and excepts that the ALJ's reliance on Stockton, supra, was misplaced. The Board avers its corrective action plan with respect to the erroneous salary payment was proper and cites in its support Sklute v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 264, 266 (Comm. Ed. December 1, 1995) and Trenton Education Association v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, 1986 S.L.D. 2434 (Comm. Ed. October 6, 1986) as the monies paid, > were public monies to which petitioner had no lawful claim as the Board never formally advanced petitioner to the Ph.D. column of the salary guide. The Board therefore, had not only the right but the responsibility to correct the error made by payroll personnel and recoup the monies. (Board's Exceptions at p. 8)

The Board then avers Trenton, supra, carved an exception to permit a Board of Education to correct a salary overpayment and to recoup overpaid monies under certain specified conditions with which, the Board avers, it acted consistently. (Board's Exceptions at pp. 8-9)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ as modified herein. The Commissioner affirms the ALJ's finding that petitioner's appeal was untimely filed and adds that the language of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) requires that actions brought before the Commissioner of Education be filed "no later than the 90th day from the day of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." This rule, which was promulgated by the State Board of Education, "represents a fair and reasonably-necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws." Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township,

131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993). "In addition, the ninety-day limitation period represents a reasonable procedural requirement." (emphasis in text) (Kaprow at 583)

The ALJ finds that petitioner should have filed her claim for reimbursement within 90 days of notice of the Board's intentions to reduce her salary, which notice she clearly possessed on September 27, 1995, when she received a letter from the superintendent to this effect. Moreover, even accepting October 6, 1995, as the date the parties stopped "reasoning together" as per Stockton, s*upra,* and petitioner filed her grievance, the ALJ finds the petition would still be six days out of time. (Initial Decision at p. 6)

Moreover, the Commissioner concurs that no relaxation of the 90-day rule is warranted in this instance. As noted by the Board, case law suggests that the applicable regulation must be construed strictly. See, e.g. North Plainfield Education Association v. Board of Education, 96 N.J. 587 (1984) and J.R. Transportation Company, Inc. and A & A Charter Service, Inc. v. Board of Education of the State-operated School District of Jersey City, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner March 8, 1996. The Commissioner has held that, "[e]xceptions to the 90-day rule should be granted sparingly, and only where there exists compelling circumstances to justify enlargement or relaxation of the time limit." Morris-Union Jointure Commission v. Board of Education of the Borough of South River, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 453, 455, quoting Riely, supra. The Commissioner has described these circumstances as follows:

> Where a substantial constitutional issue is presented, where judicial review is sought of an informal administrative determination, and where a matter of significant public interest is involved. Miller v. Morris School District. (February 25, 1980) (at 455)

This present case involves a monetary dispute with facts decidedly not compelling enough to warrant the relaxation of this rule. Moreover, in order to preserve her right to file before the Commissioner in a timely manner pursuant to Riely, supra, there was nothing to prevent petitioner from filing her two claims simultaneously.

The Commissioner further modifies the initial decision to note that while the Commissioner does not "tread in matters concerning labor contracts," petitioner was not precluded from filing this appeal before the Commissioner under the entire controversy doctrine in that the issue raised by petitioner, i.e., improper reduction of a tenured staff person's salary pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, is separate from the contractual issues previously considered in arbitration.

Lastly, the Commissioner concurs that a board may not act to unilaterally recoup monies erroneously paid to a tenured teaching staff member as numerous Commissioner and State Board of Education decisions so aptly point out and, thus, dismisses the Board's exceptions in this regard as without merit. See Trenton, supra; Stockton, supra; Rivers v. Board of Education of the Mercer County Area Vocational-Technical Schools, Mercer County, 1984 S.L.D. 102*; and Tripp v. Board of Education of the South Orange-Maplewood School District, Essex County,* decided by the Commissioner, February 6, 1984.

Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein, as modified, and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF RALPH DENNIS, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., attorney for petitioner

Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., attorney for respondent (Bucceri & Pincus, Esqs., attorneys)

Record Closed: June 14, 1996 Decided: June 19, 1996

BEFORE MARIE P. SIMONELLI, A.L.J.

Petitioner sought to dismiss respondent from his position as a tenured custodian on charges of neglect of duty, excessive absenteeism and insubordination.

The Department of Education transferred this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (the OAL) on August 15, 1995. The OAL scheduled a hearing for June 17, 1996.

Prior to the scheduled hearing date, the parties agreed to settle this matter. On June 14, 1996, they submitted the attached Stipulation of Settlement which sets forth the terms of the settlement.

I have reviewed the record and settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON.	:	AGENCY REF. NO. 288-7/95 O.A.L. DOCKET NO. EDU 9260-95N STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The petitioner, State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (hereinafter the "District"), and the respondent, Ralph Dennis, residing at 150 Harrison Street, Passaic, New Jersey 07055, hereby stipulate and agree as follows:

WHEREAS tenure charges are pending against Mr. Dennis seeking his termination from employment as a custodian due to allegations of neglect of assignments, absenteeism and insubordination; and

WHEREAS Mr. Dennis has denied said charges; and

WHEREAS on or about May 14, 1996, the State Superintendent of Schools of Paterson determined to subcontract the District's custodial services and abolish all custodial positions in the District, effective June 30, 1996; and

WHEREAS respondent's position was among those abolished; and

WHEREAS said decision to subcontract was made for reasons unrelated to this proceeding, but results in there being no position for respondent to return to if he were to prevail in this case; and

WHEREAS said decision, therefore, renders this proceeding moot except for the issue of back salary related to respondent's 120 day suspension without pay;

It is on this 31ST day of MAY, 1996, agreed that:

1. The District shall and hereby does withdraw and dismiss its tenure charges against Mr. Dennis because they are now moot.

2. The District will include Mr. Dennis and his position in, and as part of, its reduction in force, effective June 30, 1996, thereby terminating Mr. Dennis' employment in the same manner as that of all other custodians, except as otherwise provided herein.

3. The District will continue Mr. Dennis' salary, health insurance benefits and pension contributions through August 31, 1996 in compromise of Mr. Dennis' claim regarding his 120 days suspension without pay. Mr. Dennis agrees not to apply for work with the Paterson School District or any contractor providing custodial services to the District.

4. No further salary, benefits or any other contractual term or condition of employment shall be due or owing to Mr. Dennis beyond the entitlements specified herein.

5. Mr. Dennis hereby permanently waives and releases any and all claims to back salary and/or any other payment, in return for the District's compliance with this Agreement. Mr. Dennis retains the right to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

6. This Agreement is in the public interest since it achieves a reduction in the costs of litigation which would be an unnecessary expenditure under these circumstances.

7. Mr. Dennis acknowledges that he has hereby been advised in writing that he has the right to consult with an attorney or a representative of his own choosing prior to signing this Agreement and that he signs this Agreement as his own voluntary act and deed, and that he fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

8. The undersigned representatives of the District hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the District to sign this Agreement and bind the District to its terms.

9. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

10. In the event that the District is prevented from, unable, or unwilling to fulfill the terms of this Agreement, for any reasons, the rights of the parties shall return to the status quo prevailing prior to the signing of this Agreement.

11. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to constitute precedent, past practice or policy as to the rights of any employee, now or in the future, other than Mr. Dennis.

12. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement must be approved by the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education before it becomes effective. This Agreement shall be null and void if not so approved.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9279-95

AGENCY DKT. NO. 283-7/95

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF PASQUALE LAPADURA, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., attorney for petitioner

Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., attorney for respondent (Bucceri & Pincus, Esqs., attorneys)

Record Closed: June 14, 1996 Decided: June 19, 1996

BEFORE MARIE P. SIMONELLI, A.L.J.

Petitioner sought to dismiss respondent from his position as a tenured custodian on charges of neglect of duty, excessive absenteeism, leaving the school building during work hours without authorization and insubordination.

The Department of Education transferred this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (the OAL) on August 16, 1995. The OAL scheduled a hearing for June 24, 1996.

Prior to the scheduled hearing date, the parties agreed to settle this matter. On June 14, 1996, they submitted the attached Stipulation of Settlement which sets forth the terms of the settlement.

I have reviewed the record and settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF PASQUALE LAPADURA,	:	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	AGENCY REF. NO. 283-7/95 O.A.L. DOCKET NO. EDU 9279-95N
OF PATERSON.	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The petitioner, State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (hereinafter the "District"), and the respondent, Pasquale Lapadura, residing at 370 Union Avenue, Paterson, New Jersey 07502, hereby stipulate and agree as follows:

WHEREAS tenure charges are pending against Mr. Lapadura seeking his termination from employment as a custodian due to allegations of neglect of assignments, absenteeism and insubordination; and

WHEREAS Mr. Lapadura has denied said charges; and

WHEREAS on or about May 14, 1996, the State Superintendent of Schools of Paterson determined to subcontract the District's custodial services and abolish all custodial positions in the District, effective June 30, 1996; and

WHEREAS respondent's position was among those abolished; and

WHEREAS said decision to subcontract was made for reasons unrelated to this proceeding, but results in there being no position for respondent to return to if he were to prevail in this case; and

WHEREAS said decision, therefore, renders this proceeding moot except for the issue of back salary related to respondent's 120 day suspension without pay;

It is on this 4TH day of JUNE, 1996, agreed that:

1. The District shall and hereby does withdraw and dismiss its tenure charges against Mr. Lapadura because they are now moot.

2. The District will include Mr. Lapadura and his position in, and as part of, its reduction in force, effective June 30, 1996, thereby terminating Mr. Lapadura's employment in the same manner as that of all other custodians, except as otherwise provided herein.

3. The District will continue Mr. Lapadura's salary, health insurance benefits and pension contributions through August 31, 1996 in compromise of Mr. Lapadura's claim regarding his 120 days suspension without pay. Mr. Lapadura agrees not to apply for work with the Paterson School District or any contractor providing custodial services to the District.

4. No further salary, benefits or any other contractual term or condition of employment shall be due or owing to Mr. Lapadura beyond the entitlements specified herein.

5. Mr. Lapadura hereby permanently waives and releases any and all claims to back salary and/or any other payment, in return for the District's compliance with this Agreement. Mr. Lapadura retains the right to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

6. This Agreement is in the public interest since it achieves a reduction in the costs of litigation which would be an unnecessary expenditure under these circumstances.

7. Mr. Lapadura acknowledges that he has hereby been advised in writing that he has the right to consult with an attorney or a representative of his own choosing prior to signing this Agreement and that he signs this Agreement as his own voluntary act and deed, and that he fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

8. The undersigned representatives of the District hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the District to sign this Agreement and bind the District to its terms.

9. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

10. In the event that the District is prevented from, unable, or unwilling to fulfill the terms of this Agreement, for any reasons, the rights of the parties shall return to the status quo prevailing prior to the signing of this Agreement.

11. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to constitute precedent, past practice or policy as to the rights of any employee, now or in the future, other than Mr. Lapadura.

12. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement must be approved by the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education before it becomes effective. This Agreement shall be null and void if not so approved.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SADDLE BROOK, BERGEN COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured physical education teacher who was riffed and awarded compensation by the Commissioner in June 1994 when it was found that he was entitled to 1992-93 employment, claimed entitlement to 1993-94 employment based on endorsement as an elementary school teacher acquired in June 1992, after the date of the RIF. Petitioner contended that if the Board had properly employed him for 1992-93, he would have been protected by his elementary endorsement issued prior to the commencement of that academic year. Respondent Board sought motion seeking dismissal on two grounds: that the petition was untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) and that any tenure rights were fixed as of the date when the Board abolished his position on April 4, 1992.

ALJ concluded that petitioner's tenure rights were fixed as of the date of the reduction in force and, therefore, his elementary endorsement acquired after that date did not expand his tenure rights. (Francey) As to the issue of untimeliness, the ALJ found that the existing record was inadequate to make a determination. ALJ granted Board's motion to dismiss the petition.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Record Closed: October 30, 1995 Decided: June 24, 1996

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is the third in a series of related appeals by a physical education teacher challenging various employment actions taken by the Saddle Brook Board of Education ("Board"). Petitioner Darren Ressler ("Ressler") alleges that he has tenure as an elementary teacher by virtue of an endorsement acquired in June 1992 and that the Board violated his tenure rights by employing nontenured teachers in a position for which he was qualified in 1993-94. As a result of the prior litigation, the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") determined that the Board had violated Ressler's seniority rights by failing to offer him part-time employment in 1992-93. Basically, Ressler argues that if the Board had properly employed him for 1992-93, he would have been protected by his elementary endorsement issued prior to the commencement of that academic year.

Respondent Board brings a motion seeking dismissal of the petition on two separate grounds: (1) that the petition is untimely under the 90-day rule, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c); and (2) that any tenure rights were fixed as of the date when the Board abolished his position on April 4, 1992. For the reasons which follow, the motion must be granted.

Procedural History

Two prior adjudications set the backdrop for the present proceeding. On January 16, 1992, Ressler brought his first appeal, OAL Docket No. EDU 0705-92, contending that the Board had violated his seniority rights by reducing his employment from full to part-time during the 1991-92 academic year. Shortly thereafter, on June 10, 1992, Ressler filed a second appeal, OAL Docket No. EDU 5018-92, contending that the Board had violated his seniority rights by abolishing his position for the 1992-93 academic year. The two earlier cases were consolidated for disposition. On June 27, 1994, the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") rendered a final decision sustaining Ressler's seniority claim for both years and awarding him back pay for classes taught by teachers with less seniority.

After issuance of the Commissioner's decision, Ressler filed this third appeal on September 9, 1994, claiming that his tenure rights had been violated in 1993-94. The Board filed its answer on October 14, 1994. Subsequently, on October 19, 1994, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. Meanwhile, on October 14, 1994, the Board filed a notice of motion to dismiss, together with supporting affidavits and legal brief. Ressler filed an opposing certification and legal brief on November 9, 1994. The Board filed a reply brief on November 22, 1994. Both parties agree that all facts necessary to resolve the Board's motion are undisputed, although Ressler reserves the right to develop a more complete record in the event that this motion is denied.[1] The motion was submitted for disposition on the papers.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts are stipulated.[2] For purposes of this motion, the parties have entered into the following stipulation:

> At the beginning of the 1991-92 school year, Ressler initially had a full-time teaching assignment of students in grades four to ten. On December 11, 1991, the Board adopted a formal resolution reducing Ressler's employment to a .6 position effective February 12, 1992. On April 4, 1992, the Board abolished Ressler's position pursuant to a reduction in force and placed him on a preferred eligibility list "for recall in the event a vacancy develops."
>
> At the time of the reduction in force on April 4, 1992, Ressler held an instructional certificate with endorsements as teacher of health and physical education. Ressler obtained an endorsement as an elementary school teacher . . . in or about June of 1992.

[1] Specifically, the parties are unable to stipulate the full circumstances concerning the Board's employment of nontenured elementary-level teachers in 1993-94.

[2] In addition to the facts highlighted by the parties, this decision incorporates by reference the detailed factual findings set forth in the administrative decision entitled Ressler v. Saddle Brook Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 0705-92 & EDU 5018-92, slip op. at 4 to 8 (Comm'r June 28, 1994), appeal docketed, No. 35-94 (State Bd. July 27, 1994).

The Petitioner's appeal in this matter was filed with the Commissioner of Education on [September 9, 1994] and received by Respondent on September 12, 1994.[3]

Petitioner was not employed by Respondent for the 1993-94 school year.

There was no correspondence between Respondent and Petitioner with regard to his employment for the 1993-94 school year.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Ressler's tenure rights were fixed as of the date of the reduction in force and, therefore, that his after-acquired elementary endorsement does not expand his tenure rights.

Before addressing the timeliness issue, the underlying merits of petitioner's complaint will be considered. Tenure is a statutory status accrued by service for the requisite number of years in a position requiring an appropriate teaching certificate. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 73-74 (1982). Generally, an educator with tenure in any endorsement that he or she possesses can, in effect, extend or transfer that tenure to other endorsements that are subsumed under the same certificate. Dennery v. Passaic Cty. Reg. High Sch. Dist., 131 N.J. 626, 634 (1993). In the prior litigation between the same parties, the Commissioner held that the elementary endorsement which Ressler acquired after the abolition of his position on April 4, 1992 did not confer additional tenure rights for the 1992-93 academic year. Instead, "teachers have tenure entitlement only to those positions for which they were properly certified on the date of the reduction in force." Ressler v. Saddle Brook Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 0705-92 & EDU 5018-92, slip op. at 4 to 8 (Comm'r June 28, 1994), appeal docketed, No. 35-94, (State Bd. July 27, 1994).

[3] Although the parties stipulated that the date of filing was September 8, 1994, the original petition is date-stamped as having been received by the Division of Controversies and Disputes on September 9, 1994.

Support for this result came from Francey v. Salem Bd. of Educ. 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 449 (Comm'r July 22, 1992), aff'd ___ N.J.A.R. 2d __ (St. Bd. Aug. 3, 1994), where the Commissioner expressed concern that the administrative burden of requiring local school districts to look beyond existing endorsements "would likely lead to amassing of endorsements following [a reduction in force], reduce to chaos any attempt by a district to ascertain its legal responsibilities upon the arising of a vacancy, and unduly restrict boards in their efforts to provide a thorough and efficient education by choosing the most qualified staff for open positions. 92 N.J.A.R. 2d at 452. In Francey, the Commissioner ruled that a home economics teacher was not entitled to preferred reemployment rights arising from an elementary endorsement obtained after the date of her layoff. See also, Johnstone v. Cinnaminson Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 506 (Comm'r Aug. 12, 1992). Recently, the Appellate Division upheld the Commissioner's ruling in Francey and declared that the determination is "plainly a matter of [educational] policy" within the Commissioner's acknowledged area of expertise. Francey v. Salem Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1996).

Notwithstanding denial of his tenure claim for 1992-93, Ressler still seeks tenure under his elementary endorsement for 1993-94 on the theory that the Commissioner has since awarded monetary damages for wrongful termination of his employment and that, if he had been employed during 1992-93, he would have possessed an elementary endorsement prior to the 1993-94 academic year. Ressler cites no legal authority for his novel argument that a "de facto" reduction occurred in 1993-94 while he was no longer employed in the district. If there exist "cogent educational policy considerations" for denying tenure to an elementary position in the year following a teacher's termination (see Francey, 286 N.J. Super. at 357), those same considerations apply with equal or greater force to succeeding years. What petitioner may have done after the reduction took place should not give him any greater rights than he had on the initial date of the Board's wrongful action. When drawing a bright line in the Francey case, the Appellate Division sought to foster clarity and certainty in school employment relationships. Unless clearly required by statute, it would be unwise to muddy the waters by inventing a different rule for cases involving ongoing litigation.

Alternately, the Board contends that the petition was untimely under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), which requires that an appeal be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." Petitioner maintains that his cause of action did not arise until June 27, 1994, the date on which the Commissioner rendered his decision on Ressler's seniority rights for 1991-92 and 1992-93. The Board maintains that petitioner's cause of action arose on the date that the district appointed the last nontenured elementary-level teacher for 1993-94.[4]

Ressler confuses the ultimate adjudication of his prior claim with the possession of sufficient underlying facts to put him on adequate notice of his potential rights. Courts sometimes apply a "discovery rule," which tolls the statute of limitations until an injured party knows, or should have known by reasonable diligence, that he may have a basis for an actionable claim. But the discovery rule is pertinent only in those circumstances in which a plaintiff was not, and could not be, aware of the underlying factual basis for a cause of action. Tevis v. Tevis, 79 N.J. 422, 432 (1979). Injured parties are not justified in delaying suit until they are ready to prove every aspect of their claim. Cf. Brizak v. Needle, 239 N.J. Super. 415, 427 (App. Div. 1990), certif. den. 122 N.J. 164 (1990). An injured party does not need "impeccable" knowledge or definitive evidence establishing the exact cause of the injury before the statute of limitations starts to run against him. It is enough that the fact of the injury and the identity of the party causing the injury be known. Torcon, Inc. v. Alexian Bros. Hosp., 205 N.J. Super. 428, 435 (Ch. Div. 1985), aff'd 209 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1986), certif. den. 104 N.J. 440 (1986). Here Ressler knew that his teaching position had been abolished and that the Board refused to recognize any tenure entitlement based on his elementary endorsement. He did not need to wait for the Commissioner's seniority determination.

On the other hand, the Board also focuses on the wrong date. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), the limitations-period for filing an appeal with the Commissioner commences when the person whose rights are affected receives "adequate notice" of the school district's action. Accordingly, the limitation period is not triggered "until tenured teachers have been alerted to the existence of facts that may equate in law with a post-RIF cause of action." Kaprow v. Berkeley Twp. Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 572, 586-589 (1993). For example, in Kaprow, the ninety-days did not begin to run until Kaprow had learned from the local board "that it had created and filled two positions in which he claimed tenure rights." Kaprow, at 588. Applied to our case, the crucial date is when Ressler first learned that nontenured teachers were performing duties for which he has a tenure claim, not when the Board happened to have filled those positions. Insofar as the record reflects, "[t]here was no correspondence between Respondent and Petitioner with regard to his employment for the 1993-94 school year." Likewise, the affidavits filed in connection with this motion are silent with respect to when Ressler became aware that nontenured teachers in the district held elementary positions. Consequently, the existing record is inadequate to determine whether or not Ressler's petition is untimely.

Order

It is ORDERED that the Board's motion to dismiss the petition on its merits is granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DARREN RESSLER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SADDLE BROOK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were timely filed by both parties.

Petitioner's exceptions reiterate his argument that, had the prior decision rendered in the matter of Ressler v. Saddle Brook Board of Education, supra, ("Ressler I") been issued in time to reinstate petitioner for the 1992-93 school year, "then the Board would have been forced to vote to rif him to prevent his hiring in 1993-94. That rif would have been after his June, 1992 K-8 endorsement [was] issued." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 2) Petitioner reasons that, since the decision followed the 1992-93 school year, no reduction in force (RIF) was needed. However, as argued before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), petitioner contends a de facto RIF took place, and his retroactive reinstatement for the 1992-93 school year created a right to assert a claim for 1993-94 based on his previously acquired endorsement. (Id.)

Additionally, petitioner recasts his argument as to the timeliness of the Petition of Appeal filed in this matter. As argued before the ALJ, petitioner maintains that his cause of action in this matter did not arise until June 27, 1994, the date the Commissioner issued his decision in Ressler I. Prior to this date, petitioner reasons that he had no legal right to assert a claim for the 1993-94 school year. (Id.) Petitioner contends that the cases cited in the initial decision "relate to the discovery of the fact of an injury." Whereas, petitioner argues, "[t]his case deals  with the inability to claim fault on the part of the Board until the Commissioner ruled. Until the legal issue of fault could be determined, the limitation period of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) did not begin to run." (emphasis in text) (Id. at p. 3) Thus, petitioner asserts that the initial decision should be reversed.

The Board takes exception to the ALJ's factual finding on page six, footnote four, of the initial decision stating that it is petitioner's position that he needs discovery to ascertain relevant information, including the dates of hire of the District's nontenured elementary school teachers. (Board's Exceptions at p. 1) The Board counters that "[p]etitioner conceded that for purposes of the Board's motion, there [were] sufficient undisputed facts." (Id.)

The Board further excepts to the ALJ's conclusion that the current record is inadequate to support a determination as to the timeliness of petitioner's Petition of Appeal. (Id.) Here, the Board asserts, > Petitioner does not [argue] that he was unaware or lacked notice that non-tenured teachers were appointed by the Respondent for the 1993-1994 school year. Petitioner simply argues that until the Commissioner ruled on the 1992-1993 claim, there was no "fault" attributable to the Board.

> Petitioner further admits that at the beginning of the 1993-94 school year, he learned that the tenured physical education teachers who were assigned to elementary physical education for the 1993-94 [school year] were all individuals with more elementary physical education seniority [than] himself. ***

> Accordingly, Petitioner acknowledges he was aware of the employment status of the tenured physical education teachers at the beginning of the 1993-1994 school year and does not deny that he was [aware] of the appointment of non-tenured teachers which is done at a public meeting of the Board. (Id. at p. 2, citations omitted)

Thus, the Board urges the Commissioner to recognize that "the record in this matter is adequate and complete" with respect to the issue of the timeliness of the Petition of Appeal. The Board further urges the Commissioner to dismiss the petition, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) for untimeliness. (Id.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner determines to affirm the initial decision of the ALJ, as he concurs with the ALJ that petitioner's claim herein is properly dismissed on its merits. The Commissioner agrees that petitioner's tenure rights were fixed as of the date of the Board's RIF on April 4, 1992, and, as his decision in Ressler I established, the acquisition of petitioner's elementary endorsement in June of 1992 did not confer upon him additional tenure rights for the 1992-93 school year. (Initial Decision at p. 4) As the Commissioner further determined in Ressler I, after the April 4, 1992 RIF, petitioner was entitled to be offered the opportunity to teach the elementary level physical education classes assigned, for the 1992-93 school year, to physical education teachers with less seniority in the elementary category.

Notwithstanding this determination, petitioner now contends that the Board violated his tenure rights by employing nontenured elementary teachers in positions for which he was qualified for the 1993-94 school year. However, the Commissioner is not persuaded by petitioner's "novel argument" (Initial Decision at p. 5) that a de facto RIF occurred for the 1993-94 school year which permits him to assert a claim to any or all of the elementary teaching positions filled that year by virtue of his newly acquired elementary endorsement.

Further, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner knew, or should have known, of his current cause of action prior to the issuance of the Commissioner's decision of June 27, 1994, and that petitioner is confusing "the ultimate adjudication of his prior claim with the possession of sufficient underlying facts to put him on adequate notice of his potential rights," as is necessary to file a petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). (Initial Decision at pp. 6, 7) However, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds insufficient support in the record to conclude that petitioner's claim herein is untimely, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and the within matter is dismissed on its merits.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Bucceri & Pincus (Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Cross/Appellant, Anthony N. Gallina, Esq.

Darren Ressler (hereinafter "petitioner"), a tenured teaching staff member, alleged that the Board of Education of the Township of Saddle Brook (hereinafter "Board") had violated his tenure and seniority rights when it reduced his employment to part-time during the 1991-92 school year. Petitioner further alleged that the Board had violated his tenure and seniority rights when it thereafter abolished his position in April 1992, effective June 30, 1992, and failed to reemploy him within the scope of his certificate in 1992-93. ("Ressler I.")

Petitioner subsequently filed another petition in September 1994, alleging that his tenure rights had been violated when the Board failed to reemploy him within the scope of his certificate in the 1993-94 school year. ("Ressler II.") It is this petition that forms the basis for the instant appeal.[1]

On June 27, 1994, the Commissioner of Education rendered his determination in Ressler I. The Commissioner rejected petitioner's contention that the Board had violated his tenure rights when it reduced him to part-time status during the 1991-92 school year. However, the Commissioner concluded that the Board had violated petitioner's seniority rights when it failed to reemploy him as an elementary physical education teacher in 1992-93 after his position was abolished at the end of the 1991-92 school year. The Commissioner rejected petitioner's claim to reinstatement as an elementary school teacher in 1992-93 on the basis of an elementary education endorsement he had received subsequent to the Board's action abolishing his position.

On August 12, 1996, the Commissioner granted the Board's motion to dismiss the petition filed in Ressler II.

Petitioner filed an appeal to the State Board from the decisions of the Commissioner in both Ressler I and Ressler II. We placed petitioner's appeal in Ressler II in abeyance pending our determination of his appeal in Ressler I.

On October 1, 1997, we rendered our decision in Ressler I, concluding that the Board had violated petitioner's tenure rights when it reduced him to part-time status during the 1991-92 school year. We further found that, by virtue of his superior seniority, petitioner had been entitled to an assignment teaching elementary physical education in 1992-93 following the abolishment of his position at the end of the 1991-92 school year. However, we rejected petitioner's contention that he had been entitled to reinstatement in [1] We note that the Board reemployed petitioner as a full-time physical education teacher in the 1994-95 school year. Petitioner's Certification, at 3. Thus, his claim in this case is limited to 1993-94.

1992-93 as an elementary school teacher. We stressed that the scope of petitioner's tenured position was determined in April 1992 when the Board acted under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 to reduce its staff, thereby triggering petitioner's rights, and that his subsequent acquisition of an elementary education endorsement in June 1992 did not operate to enlarge the tenure rights he had achieved during and as a result of his employment in the district. Francey v. Board of Education of the City of Salem, decided by the State Board, August 3, 1994, aff'd, Docket #A-0625-94T2 (App. Div. 1996).

In the instant appeal, petitioner claims that as a result of the decision in Ressler I, he was entitled to reemployment within the scope of his elementary education endorsement in 1993-94 as against non-tenured teachers.

After a careful review of the record, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner dismissing the petition in Ressler II and remand this matter to him for further proceedings in accordance with our decision herein.

In Ressler I, we determined that petitioner had been entitled to reemployment as a physical education teacher in 1992-93. Had petitioner been so employed, the tenure rights ensuing from such employment would have encompassed the elementary education certification he had obtained in June 1992. Thus, while petitioner's receipt of an elementary education endorsement in June 1992 did not alter the tenure rights which were triggered when the Board abolished his position in April 1992–prior to his receipt of such certification–the scope of his tenure protection in any subsequent reduction in force would encompass elementary education.[2]

[2] Indeed, we note that if petitioner had properly been reemployed as a physical education teacher in 1992-93, the Board could have reassigned him without his consent to any assignment within the scope of his elementary education certification. See Howley v. Bd. of Ed. of Ewing Township, decided by the Commissioner of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 1328, aff'd by the State Board of Education, 1983 S.L.D. 1554.

In the matter now before us, in which petitioner claims entitlement to any assignments within the scope of his elementary education certification held by non-tenured individuals in 1993-94, petitioner represents without contradiction that all teachers assigned to teach elementary physical education in 1993-94 had more seniority than he in the applicable category. Petitioner's Certification, at 2. Thus, if petitioner had properly been reemployed as an elementary physical education teacher in 1992-93, he apparently would not have been retained in such capacity in 1993-94, and his tenure rights would once again have been implicated. Since petitioner's tenure rights in 1992-93 encompassed elementary education, his entitlement to reemployment in 1993-94 would have included any assignment within the scope of his elementary education certification held by a non-tenured teacher. See Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Ed., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987), certif. denied, 110 N.J. 512 (1988).

Consequently, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner to dismiss the petition in this matter. However, since the parties were "unable to stipulate the full circumstances concerning the Board's employment of nontenured elementary-level teachers in 1993-94," initial decision, slip. op. at 3, n.1, we remand this matter to the Commissioner for further proceedings in order to determine whether the Board had employed any non-tenured individuals within the scope of petitioner's elementary education certification in the 1993-94 school year and for a resultant determination of petitioner's claim in accordance with the terms of our decision herein.

In so doing, we reject the Board's contention that petitioner failed to file the instant petition in a timely manner. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Until it was determined in Ressler I that petitioner had been entitled to reemployment in 1992-93, he had no claim to employment in 1993-94 on the basis of an endorsement he had received subsequent to the Board's action in April 1992 reducing its staff.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents alleged various violations of due process when their daughter, P.W., was suspended for one day for writing stories on the computer that ridiculed her mathematics teacher. P.W. was not allowed back into the classroom for a time; she was taught on a one-to-one basis from February 9 through March 13, 1995. Petitioners sought expungement of the record.

ALJ found that there was no relief to be granted to petitioners. ALJ concluded that issues raised in this matter were moot and petitioners failed to state claims upon which relief might be granted. Board's motion to dismiss the petition was granted.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Joanne L. Butler, Esq., for respondent (Young, Dimiero & Sayovitz, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 12, 1996 Decided: June 24, 1996

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

Petitioners, E.W. and B.W., attempted to file a petition in this matter in April 1995. The petition was rejected by the Department of Education because it failed to conform to the requirements of the regulations for the filing of petitions. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.3. No copy of that petition was served upon the respondent Board. On September 5, 1995, the Department accepted a subsequent petition for filing which it designated as an "amended petition." Because the petitioners were appearing pro se, the petition was accepted in spite of the fact that it was seriously deficient in certain respects. This amended petition was served upon the respondent, which filed its answer with the Department on October 4, 1995. The most striking deficiency in the petition is that the petitioners do not state the relief which they are seeking.

On November 1, 1995, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A plenary hearing was scheduled for June 12, 1996.

The Board moved for summary decision to dismiss the petition. A hearing on the motion was held on the day scheduled for the plenary hearing, and the record closed at that time.

The motion for summary decision was brought on the grounds that the petition was not filed in a timely manner; that petitioners failed to comply with the regulations with respect to the service of petitions; that the petition is moot; and that there is no relief to which the petitioners are entitled.

The motion to dismiss on the grounds of petitioners' untimely filing was not considered. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) requires that the petition had to be filed no later than the 90th day after notice of the Board's action was received. The action which is the subject of the petition occurred in February 1995, and petitioners' first attempt to file was made in April 1995. Even though no adequate petition was filed until September 1995, not within 90 days of the Board's action, the one finally accepted was designated an amendment to the earlier one rejected by the Department and arguably relates back to it. No determination as to whether or not it should be allowed to relate back will be made here.

The motion to dismiss the petition or petitions because E.W. and B.W. failed to serve them as required by the regulations is DENIED. See N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(a). The "amended" petition as finally accepted in September 1995 was served by petitioners within a reasonable time. From documents in the record and statements of counsel, it appears that respondent was aware in the spring of 1995 that a petition was in the process of being filed, and the Board would have been in no better position had it received earlier versions of the petition. Therefore, the effect upon respondent of petitioners' failure to comply was minimal.

Not all of the facts in this matter are agreed to by the parties. I FIND, however, that there is no dispute as to those facts necessary to decide the motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted or the motion to dismiss the matter as moot. The version of the facts recited below is taken from a written chronology of events prepared and submitted by E.W. and B.W and from the two stories written by their daughter, P.W., which were provided by the Board and not disputed by the petitioners. Some additional facts come from a certification submitted by the superintendent of the school district, Dr. John Galish, in support of the motions. These statements were not relied upon where they are inconsistent with the facts as stated by petitioners, and the inconsistencies are noted in the recitation below.

On February 7, 1995, P.W., then an eighth-grade student at the Roy W. Brown Middle School in Bergenfield, was in her computer class practicing her use of the keyboard. When the teacher stepped out of the room for a moment, he asked another teacher, Mrs. Brendel, to supervise the class. Brendel noticed that P.W. did not have the same information on her computer screen as the rest of the class did. She went over to look at it and printed it out. The document turned out to be a story, written by P.W., with sexual overtones which ridiculed P.W.'s mathematics teacher, Sigrid Phelan, who is legally blind. Another story of the same type was discovered in the computer's memory and also printed out. Brendel took the two stories to Phelan.

E.W. and B.W. claim that their daughter's right to privacy was invaded by Brendel when she printed out P.W.'s stories from the school computer. There is no merit to this argument since it was the school's computer that P.W. was misusing during class time.

E.W. and B.W. also claim that their rights were violated because Brendel took P.W.'s stories directly to Phelan without going through "proper channels" in the school. There is no merit to this claim because it appears that P.W.'s infractions were made known to the principal's office within a short time, and there is no reason why they should not have been made known to Phelan also.

P.W. was sent to the principal's office. The principal, Rita Eberhard, called E.W., and P.W. was directed to tell her father what she had done. No one in the principal's office spoke to E.W. at that time.

P.W. received a one-day, in-school suspension on February 8, 1995. Her parents deny that they were informed of this suspension. The parents further claim that they did not learn that P.W. was being kept out of her regular mathematics classroom until February 18, 1995. The certification from Galish states that they were notified on the telephone by the assistant principal, Robert Cancro, on February 8 and in writing shortly thereafter.

From February 9 through March 13, 1995, P.W. was not allowed back into Phelan's class. E.W. and B.W. characterize this as harassment. Galish states that P.W. was taught on a one-to-one basis by Mrs. Stein, a certified mathematics teacher, during this period based upon lesson plans provided by Phelan. P.W.'s parents deny that this happened.

E.W. and B.W. claim that their rights were violated because they tried to apologize to Phelan and she would not speak to them. Phelan ultimately allowed the child back into her classroom, but apparently she did not accept the apology quickly enough for petitioners, who feel that this also amounted to harassment. There is no merit to this contention either.

P.W. was allowed to return to the computer class on March 1, 1995. When she was allowed to return to Phelan's class on March 13, 1995, she discovered that there was an additional "teacher" in the room. Her parents claim that it was announced by someone, they did not know whom, that the second "teacher" was to act as a bodyguard for Phelan to protect her from P.W. They believed that the additional "teacher" was not present unless their daughter was in the classroom. Galish states that the other person in the classroom was an instructional aide placed there to assist the handicapped Phelan, not to protect her from P.W.

In any event, P.W. passed her Early Warning Test in mathematics, passed the course and successfully completed the school year. She transitioned to Bergenfield High School for the 1995-96 school year. When her parents moved from Bergenfield in the middle of the year, she was allowed to finish the ninth grade at Bergenfield High School. She will transfer to Northern Valley High School for the 1996-97 school year, but her records relating to this incident will not follow her there.

At the hearing, E.W. and B.W., who did not submit papers responding to the Board's motions until that morning, were asked to explain how they were injured by the actions of the Board and what relief they expected to obtain through their appeal. They stated that their rights and their daughter's rights were violated because they were not told she was suspended. They were angry that they did not receive the prompt responses they expected from the school administration and the Board. They were offended that the injured teacher refused to allow their daughter back in the math class and refused to discuss the matter with them, even though they tried to apologize to her.

E.W. and B.W. claim that their daughter was humiliated by the presence of the aide in Phelan's classroom because it implied that she was a dangerous person. They said that she has been having emotional problems since the incident and her self-esteem has been severely affected.

P.W. has apparently had emotional problems since before she entered the district in 1992. Her parents stated that she had been seeing a psychologist for therapy at that time. According to them, they have been trying to have their child evaluated for special education since 1992, but the school has refused to do it. They have never tried to appeal the refusal, and now raise it as a defense to their daughter's actions.

As their remedy for these perceived wrongs, E.W. and B.W. are demanding a written apology from the Board. The transmittal from the Department also indicates that they seek an expungement of this incident from their daughter's school record, although they did not request this at the time of the hearing.

Taking the version of the facts most favorable to the petitioners, I FIND that under no circumstances are they or P.W. entitled to a written apology from the Board or any of its employees. P.W. committed a hurtful act toward a teacher and suffered the consequences.

Whether or not her parents received notice of her one-day suspension, P.W. suffered no injury which can be remedied at this time. Likewise, there is no presently available remedy for her being taught, or not taught, on a one-to-one basis outside of her regular mathematics classroom between February 8, 1995, and March 13, 1995. She passed the course and the required tests.

The Board did not retaliate against P.W. in any way following the incident and the record of the incident will not follow her to her new school. She is not, however, entitled to have the matter expunged from her record. Petitioners could request that the school permit them to add their version of the events to P.W.'s file, but they apparently have not done so.

Based upon the facts as presented by petitioners, I FIND that there is no relief to which they are entitled. I CONCLUDE that the issues raised in this matter are moot. I further CONCLUDE that petitioners have failed to state claims upon which relief may be granted.

I FIND that the issues of fact raised by petitioners, considered in their most favorable light, are not sufficient to lead a rational fact finder to rule in the petitioners' favor if a plenary hearing were held. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that summary decision for the Board is appropriate. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

In J.B. and P.B. v. Board of Education of Asbury Park, 1988 S.L.D. 2303, and Weehawken Education Association v. Board of Education of Weehawken, 1978 S.L.D. 924, the Commissioner of Education approved the dismissal of appeals where no effective relief could be granted even if the petitioners prevailed upon the merits. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the motion of the Board to dismiss this matter as moot should be GRANTED. I CONCLUDE that the petitioners have failed to state any claims upon which relief may be granted and, therefore, respondent's motion to dismiss the petition on this ground should be GRANTED also.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition of E.W. and B.W. is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON REMAND

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning citizen sought to set aside results of a bond referendum conducted by the Board on December 19, 1995. Initially, the Commissioner dismissed the petition as untimely in that it was filed beyond the required 20 days set forth in statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65. State Board remanded matter to Commissioner, noting that in light of major snowstorm and failure of mail delivery at that time, petition should have been considered timely.

On remand, ALJ addressed three issues. First, since petitioner actually voted in the December 19, 1995 school bond referendum, did he have any standing to challenge the conduct or the results of that election?; Second, was petitioner's petition invalid by virtue of its failure to contain the signatures of ten qualified voters as required by the statute?; and Third, did petitioner establish by a preponderance of the credible evidence that by virtue of inclement weather conditions on December 19, the free will of the electorate was thwarted thereby warranting the setting aside of the election? ALJ found that petitioner did not lack standing to challenge the results of the referendum by virtue of the fact that he voted in said election. ALJ found failure to meet the ten qualified voter signatures required by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 was fatal to petitioner's viability. Finally, ALJ determined petitioner failed to establish that a decision by school election officials to conduct an election despite a snowstorm thwarted the free will of the electorate.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision with modification. Commissioner concurred with the conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner's failure to submit the required signatures with his petition challenging the election warranted dismissal of his appeal. Commissioner further concurred with the ALJ that petitioner had not met his burden of establishing that the Board's decision to hold the bond referendum during inclement weather constituted an irregularity of election procedures, thwarted the free will of the electorate, or changed the outcome of the election. In light of the applicable education statutes in place at the time petition was initiated, Commissioner found it unnecessary to consider the question of petitioner's standing by virtue of his having voted in the December 19, 1995 election. Petition was dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral initial decision rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2 on June 17, 1996.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Department of Education on May 9, 1996 as a result of a decision rendered on May 1, 1996 by the State Board of Education which remanded to the Commissioner the instant case for further proceedings. Following that remand the case was transmitted by the Commissioner to the OAL and an expedited hearing was scheduled for, and was conducted today, June 17, 1996. The following constitutes my oral initial decision in the case.

With respect to the underlying circumstances I first would note that in its May 1, 1996 decision the State Board determined that a challenge lodged by the petitioner, Mr. McVeigh, in January 1996 to a special school bond referendum held on December 19, 1995 in the respondent school district should have been heard by the Commissioner since although the filing was beyond the twenty days set forth in the applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65, as amended, the actual date of the filing was excusable because a major winter snowstorm occurred over the weekend of January 6-7, 1996 and the State offices were closed on Monday, January 8, 1996 which was the twentieth day. Beyond that, there was not even any regular mail delivery the following day, January 9, 1996. Therefore, the State Board took the view that in light of the inability to have mail delivered the receipt of the petition by the Commissioner on January 10, 1996 should be considered timely despite the statutory provision. The Commissioner earlier had determined that the twenty day time period applied and therefore he did not entertain Mr. McVeigh's petition in January.

The State Board also noted in its May 1, 1996 decision that even though the Commissioner had referred to the fact that the petition also failed to contain the signatures of ten qualified voters contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, the Commissioner had based his decision to reject the petition only upon the alleged failure to meet the twenty day time limit. The remand, therefore, deliberately left open that issue for further determination by the Commissioner. By the way, I would note at this juncture that the vast majority of the provisions of the school elections laws have now been repealed, effective as of March 15, 1996, and that challenges to school election matters generally now would have to be lodged in the Superior Court. I would refer you to the provisions of Laws 1995, Chapter 278, generally. In any event, as a result of the May 1, 1996 remand by the State Board to the Commissioner, and the Commissioner's transmittal to the Office of Administrative Law, I conducted a hearing today at which time testimony was received from the petitioner on his own behalf and from witnesses on behalf of the Board of Education; Mr. Angelo Raimondi, the school district's Business Administrator - Board Secretary and Dr. Joseph Fisler, the Superintendent of Schools.

Previously, I had conducted a telephone conference with Mr. McVeigh and Mr. Hara, Board counsel, earlier this month at which time it was agreed that three issues would be addressed by me following the hearing. First, since petitioner actually voted in the December 19, 1995 school bond referendum did he have any standing to challenge the conduct or the results of that school election?; Second, even assuming petitioner had the standing to file his challenge; nevertheless, was his petition invalid by virtue of its failure to obtain the signatures of ten qualified voters as required by the statute; and, third, even assuming petitioner has the standing to challenge the outcome of the referendum and is not disqualified by virtue of the failure to obtain ten signatures on his petition, should it be dismissed because of his failure to establish by a preponderance of the credible evidence that by virtue of inclement weather conditions on December 19, 1995 the free will of the electorate was thwarted in that persons wishing to get to the polls could not do so in a safe fashion on account of the weather? It is my intention to deal with and dispose of all three of those issues today.

TESTIMONY

Testimony, as I indicated, was received from three witness and I will briefly try and summarize what each had to say. First to testify, since the burden of proof is upon him, was Mr. McVeigh who with respect to the standing issue stated that was never raised as an issue as far as he knew either before the Commissioner or the State Board and that the Board of Education should not be permitted to raise it now. Beyond that, he had been in communication with the Office of the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools and had never been informed concerning that issue either.

With respect to the absence of ten signatures; again, even though he had received information from the County Superintendent's Office, none of it alerted him, nor was he told, that his petition had to be accompanied by the signatures of ten qualified voters. In fact, he pointed out that what he did receive were the regulations concerning petitions generally, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 et seq., and a petition with respect to the bond referendum is not even particularly covered by that provision since that deals generally with the filing of a school law controversy petition. He claims, therefore, that he had the right to rely upon the information received and not having been informed of the special requirement of the statute, and not being attorney, in all fairness he should not be held to it. Beyond that, he points out that since it was brought to his attention as a defect before the Commissioner, and the Commissioner made reference to it in his January 17, 1996 determination, before the State Board of Education that defect was cured since essentially he refiled the petition with the requisite number of signatures.

With respect to the third issue, the merits of the case so to speak, the snow storm, it was Mr. McVeigh's testimony that the nature of the inclement weather on the 19th of December, 1995 was of such a serious nature as to preclude many voters from getting to the polls and casting their ballots. To that end, he noted that on the morning of the 19th of December the snow started about 9:00 a.m. and essentially became heavier and heavier as the day went on. In fact, at approximately 11:00 a.m. that morning his wife received a telephone call from a class mother informing her that indeed the school system was going to close early that day at 12:45. According to Mr. McVeigh, he drove to school to pick up his daughters at the early closing and snow was falling heavily at that time. He did go out at about 2:00 p.m. or so when he said there was a slight break in the snow to go to the bank. When he got to the branch drive-up there was a note there, he said, indicating that the bank had closed. Normally, the drive-up would have been open at that point.

Mr. McVeigh indicated that at about 6:30 or so he went to vote at his designated polling place and that to get there he had to traverse local streets which as far as he could determine had not been plowed and seemed to him to contain anywhere from 6" to 8" of snow. He described the driving conditions as "semi-treacherous". In fact, when he informed his wife that he was going to go to the polls she absolutely refused to accompany him because of what she indicated to him was the dangerous situation of the driving conditions. Mr. McVeigh did go to the polls, did vote and returned home. The snow, he said, was sufficient enough so that between around 7:30 and 8:00 he went out and did some cross-country skiing on his local street. He continued to indicate that snow was falling heavily. It was his judgment that by about 7:30 or 8:00 there was perhaps 7 to 8" of snow on the ground and it was still snowing heavily at that point. The polls by the way were open that day from 2:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. At about 10:00 p.m. that evening he received a telephone call indicating that the school system had determined not to open the following day and that classes were canceled - that would be December 20. He concluded his observations regarding the weather by indicating that as far as he was concerned the conditions of travel obviously were extremely dangerous and they were particularly intimidating to elderly potential voters and because of that situation it was inappropriate, unfair and improper for the Board to have gone forward with its bond referendum that day. He also indicated that he had polled some of his neighbors who indicated they did not go to the polls because of the weather conditions.

The Board's testimony, as I indicated, consisted of testimony from Mr. Raimondi and from the superintendent, Dr. Fisler. Basically, with regard to the weather, which was what concerned me the most as far as testimony was concerned, Mr. Raimondi indicated that he was responsible for the building and grounds and also to see to it that the polling places were kept as reasonably clear from snow as possible on the day in question. In fact, there was a special effort made to keep the walkways and the parking lots open in that regard. He personally visited each of the polling places twice on the day in question. First, at about 2:00 - 3:30 p.m. and then about 6:00 - 7:30 p.m. He noted what he characterized as a heavy turn-out of senior citizens on the earlier occasions between 2:00 and 3:30 p.m. and at that point he estimated there was only about 1" of snow on the ground. The second time he visited the polls was about 6:00 or 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. and he agreed there was more snow, about 3" the way he put it, and that the voting seemed to him to be rather light at that time which was typical since it was the supper hour. He insisted that the Board made every reasonable effort and did successfully keep open its own roadways and sidewalks and parking lots and he had no trouble getting to and from the various polling places at the schools. He also opined that as far as he could see the local streets had been plowed. He remained at one of the schools, which I think was Brookside, until the polls closed and the tallies were received and by about 10:30 p.m. in his estimation, while the snow had been heavier, nevertheless it was not so bad that the ability of persons to get to and from the polls was substantially impaired.

He also identified various excerpts from the minutes of several Board meetings dealing with the proposal on the bond issue, about a $6.9 million bond issue, and also excerpts of minutes reflecting the results of previous school elections over the past twelve years or so regarding the numbers of persons who had voted and the percentage of those persons voting favorably on the budgets. The school bond referendum held on December 19, 1995 was the first one in many, many years in the district so there was no comparative statistics with regard to school bond referenda as such. By the way, it was stipulated that at the April 19, 1996 school election there was a total of, I think, approximately 1860 votes cast, whereas at the December school bond referendum in issue the total number of votes cast was 1249; 793 in favor and 456 in opposition. Generally then, Mr. Raimondi's testimony with regard to the travel conditions on the day in question was that although it was snowing all day, it was not so bad as to justify not having the election held. He also indicated that he would not have had the authority, nor as far as he knew would anybody have the authority, to cancel the bond referendum.

The last witness was Dr. Fisler, Superintendent of Schools, who first testified regarding the planning for the bond proposal. He noted that the Board had not had a school bond referendum in many years. In fact, it has no bonded indebtedness and because of the nature of school budgeting in recent years there was a growing need for the repair of various and sundry facilities. As a result, the Board authorized the issuance of school bonds in the total amount of about $6.9 million and the proposal and the specifics were set forth in the October 30, 1995 and also the December 4, 1995 minutes of the Board meeting - the breakdown of the expenditures. He noted that the Board had considered holding the bond referendum on dates other than December 19, particularly waiting until April 1996, but it was felt that because of the need to do the work, particularly during the summer months when students were not in the schools, to wait until April and then have to go through the bid award and contract negotiation process and so forth would perhaps not have left enough time for the Board to move forward with these needed projects.

With regard to the specifics of the day in question, he agreed that in fact school was dismissed early that day - 12:45 p.m. for the elementary schools and 1:15 p.m. for the high school. Normally, the elementary schools closed at 3:15 p.m. and the high school at 2:58 p.m. The decision to close early that day concededly was made because of the impending weather problems and it was made, he said, in collaboration with other neighboring school districts with whom he often conferred in matters of that sort. Also, the decision had to be made by 10:30 or 10:45 a.m. in order to make sure that the school bus people had transportation available to pick up the students at the early closing time. So, logistics drove the timing of the decisions. He also noted that closing early that probably interfered with the ability of some people to actually vote on the referendum since had there been no particular weather problem that day parents coming to pick up their children at the normal closing hours could essentially have "killed two birds with one stone" and voted while they were at the school. Having to pick their children up before the polls opened would therefore require them to return a second time and he speculated that perhaps some people were unable or unwilling to do so because of the nature of the snow conditions.

Dr. Fisler personally visited three of the schools on the day in question - the George School around 2:30 or 3:00 p.m., the Berkeley School at about 4:00 to 4:30 p.m., and Brookside School at about 8:30 p.m. When he went to the George School at about 2:30 - 3:00 p.m., he indicated that there was only a "dusting" up to perhaps an inch of snow on the ground and access was relatively easy. It was his recollection that the storm came later than had been predicted. The sidewalks and the parking lots were clear and the roads, as he put it, "were not very bad" because there was no significant accumulation. He also noted the presence at that early time of a number of senior citizens. At the 4:30 time when he was at the Berkeley School he said there were "a couple of inches" on the ground; nevertheless, the lots were clear and he saw quite a few people at the school voting. The roads were all passable and as far as he could tell had been plowed. He went home to Oradell thereafter and then returned to the district to go the to Brookside School at about 8:30 p.m. At that time, he said, there were about 6" to 7" of snow and it was coming down heavily. The roads he conceded now were more dangerous than they had been during the earlier hours and snow plows were busily at work to try and keep the roads clear as possible. It was his conclusion, overall, that despite the fact that it certainly did snow, that it was not a state of emergency or any such problem requiring him (even if he had the authority to do so which he did not think he did) to cancel the school bond referendum. He explained that he did decide to close schools early because that was his judgment based upon what he considered at the time. In his judgment the conditions warranted closing down the schools and he made that decision.

In light of my consideration of the testimony I would now recite the following findings of fact. In my view, the material facts necessary to a decision in this case are not essentially in dispute and may be set forth as follows:

STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. Petitioner, Paul B. McVeigh, is a resident of Washington Township and a qualified voter in the Westwood Regional School District, Bergen County, New Jersey, which is operated by the respondent Board of Education.

2. The regional school district is comprised of schools grades K through 6 in the Borough of Westwood and Township of Washington and grades 7 through 12 in a junior-senior high school shared by both municipalities.

3. At a meeting of December 4, 1995 the respondent adopted a resolution calling for a special school election to be held on December 19, 1995 with respect to a proposal that the voters approve the issuance of school district bonds in the total amount of $6.9 million.

4. On Tuesday, December 19, 1995, the school bond referendum was conducted in the regional school district and a total of 1249 votes were cast on that date. Of that total, 793 voted in favor of the proposed bond issue and 456 in opposition to it.

5. Petitioner, Paul B. McVeigh, was one of the qualified voters who cast their votes at the election on that date.

6. On December 19, 1995, a winter storm struck the northern New Jersey area and a total of at least 6" to 8" of snow fell during that day. As a result of the snowfall, travel by the voting public to and from the polls was affected. In some respects the travel was hampered.

7. Because of the storm the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Fisler, determined to close the schools early on December 19, 1995, namely, at 12:45 p.m. for the elementary schools and at 1:15 p.m. for the high schools which was approximately one and a half hours, at least, earlier than normal. This was done in light of the fact that there had been a predicted snow storm and even though it was not snowing heavily at all during the early morning hours, logistical steps had to be taken to arrange for school bus transportation for students and enough advance notice given to parents and others that the students would be coming home early that day.

8. During the twelve year period between 1984 and 1995 the average annual voter turnout at the April school elections in the school district was 1573 persons. The average approval rate for the school budgets at those elections was approximately 55.1%. By comparison, the percentage of voters voting to approve the proposed school bonds on December 19, 1995 was approximately 63.5%.

9. Although the precise amount of snow that fell during the hours between approximately 9:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. on December 19, 1996 was not firmly fixed, by virtue of the testimony and documentary evidence in this case there were at least 6" to 8" of snowfall total during the day, and perhaps more.

10. On January 10, 1996 petitioner filed a challenge to the results of the school bond referendum with the Commissioner of Education. Contrary to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 his petition was neither signed by nor or accompanied by the signatures of ten qualified voters of the school district. Indeed, the only signature appearing on the petition was that of Mr. McVeigh himself.

11. In his petition to the Commissioner filed on January 10, 1996, Mr. McVeigh challenged the results of the bond referendum on the basis that a number of citizens qualified to vote in the school district, especially senior citizens, were denied equal access to the polling places in light of the inclement weather conditions on that date and this was particularly evidenced by the fact that the school system was shut down at 12:45 p.m. and students and staff were permitted to leave to go home at that time rather than at the normal closing hours about one and one half hours later.

12. In a letter dated January 17, 1996 to the petitioner, Commissioner Leo Klagholtz acknowledged receipt of the petition but determined to reject the challenge on the basis that it was filed beyond the twenty day time limit set forth in *N.J.S.A. 18A:*24-65. In that same rejection letter the Commissioner also noted that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 all inquiries with respect to the conduct of a school election had to be filed (a) no later than five calendar days following the announcement of the election results and, (b) in the case of public questions, had to be accompanied by the signatures of ten qualified voters.

13. In light of the Commissioner's rejection of the petition under the twenty day provision of the statute, McVeigh appealed to the State Board of Education. In a decision dated May 1, 1996, the State Board reversed Commissioner Klagholtz and remanded the matter for further proceedings. The State Board determined that the filing of the petition on January 10, 1996, which was on the twenty second day following the December 19, 1995 bond referendum, was excusable since a major blizzard had occurred in New Jersey over the weekend of January 6-7, 1996, and on Monday, January 8, the Governor had declared a Statewide snow emergency. Beyond that, there was no regular mail delivery to the Department of Education on January 9, 1996 so that the earliest possible time for delivery of the petition to the Department was not until Wednesday, January 10, 1996 and under those circumstances, according to the State Board of Education, in all fairness, the petition should be deemed to have been filed in a timely fashion.

14. In a footnote to its decision the State Board acknowledged that the Commissioner had referred in his January 17, 1996 letter to the alleged violation of the signature requirement of the statute and went on to note that since the Commissioner did not dismiss the petition on that ground, it, the State Board, would not pass upon the applicability of the provision to the matter or to the possible effect of that failure on the consideration of the case.

That concludes my statement as to the findings with respect to the factual issues in the case. As I noted, most of the facts essentially are not in dispute. The only real dispute stems really about the number of inches of snow which fell, when it fell and how severely it may have impacted upon the ability of voters to get to the polls which I will address shortly.

DISCUSSION

Based upon my review and consideration of the testimony and the other evidence, the following is my discussion of the issues. As I noted, three issues have been identified by the parties. The first is McVeigh's very standing even to challenge the results of the December 19, 1995 referendum in light of the fact that despite his complaint concerning the impact of inclement weather on the electorate he, himself, managed to get to the polls on that date and actually cast his ballot. The Board argues that because he engaged in that conduct, and cites some cases in support, he cannot challenge the election. I think this issue can be disposed of favorably to Mr. McVeigh. First, there is no provision in the school laws setting forth any specific requirement that in order to challenge the results of an election because of inclement weather or other such reason, a party must demonstrate that he or she was unable to get to the polling place because of that fact. Second, I take from the State Board decision in this case a "message", so to speak, that militates against my finding in the Board's favor on this issue for the following reason. The remand by the State Board, despite the clear violation of the twenty day rule, seems to have been predicated on "fairness" considerations and the Board did not raise the standing issue, as far as I know, before the State Board, as Mr. McVeigh pointed out. To now preclude him from pursuing his claim because of his alleged lack of standing, having cast a ballot himself, cannot be reconciled with the way the State Board has approached this case. This is not to say that there is always some sort of overriding fairness doctrine which would permit potentially viable standing claims to be ignored under all circumstances. I am merely determining that based upon the particular and unique circumstances of this case only, I do not believe it would be appropriate for me to reject the petition on the standing ground raised by the Board. So, I am going to hold in Mr. McVeigh's favor and proceed to the other issues. I would finally note, by the way, that I did read the cases cited by the Board - In re D'Amore which was attached to Mr. Hara's affidavit, and the Brown case, the 1903 decision [69 N.J.L. 45 (Sup. Ct. 1903), aff'd 70 N.J.L. 762 (E&A 1904)] and in my view the circumstances in those cases are distinguishable from the instant situation and therefore do not require me to dismiss the petition.

The second issue, the ten signature issue, raises a much more serious problem for Mr. McVeigh. The statute, now repealed, but in existence at the time of this school bond referendum, clearly and unequivocally required that a petition challenging a school election because of alleged violations had to have ten qualified voter signatures and that did not take place here. As Board counsel observes, that requirement is obviously designed to discourage frivolous challenges and is reasonably calculated toward that end. He cites, appropriately so, the decision in the case of In re Annual School Election of the School District of Lacey Tp, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d, p3 (EDU) (Sept. 12, 1991), where, similar to this case, a petition failed to meet the ten signature requirement and the Commissioner rejected an effort by the petitioner to amend the appeal to comply with the requirement.

In this case, as I previously indicated, Mr. McVeigh attempted to cure the defect at the State Board level and under the Lacey Tp. decision, to be consistent, I would have to hold that came too late. Simply put, in my view, a condition precedent to filing a challenge capable of being heard by the Commissioner pursuant to the statute is that ten signatures be contained on the petition. Unfortunately, although the Commissioner did refer to this defect in his letter decision of January 17, 1996, he did not clearly indicate that that was a separate basis for rejecting the challenge and in light of that uncertainty the State Board, quite properly, simply made note that the issue had been raised but did not decide it. However, that issue was squarely and appropriately placed before me and in light of the Lacey Tp. decision and in light of the wisdom of the legislative requirement in the first place, I frankly do not perceive any basis that would allow me to waive, relax or otherwise ignore the statutory provisions, even if I had the authority to do so. While this, too, may be and, in fact, has been claimed by Mr. McVeigh to be somewhat "unfair" there is a point at which statutory requirements have to be honored and claims of unfairness rejected. That point, in my view, was reached here. While I appreciate that the petitioner was acting pro se on his own behalf, and purportedly relied upon information given to him by the county superintendent, that does not and should not be allowed to override the clear, unambiguous statutory language. Ten qualified voters' names did not appear on the petition he filed on January 10, 1996 challenging the election. That made the petition defective and I do not believe the Commissioner should have considered it. While some procedural irregularities in elections may be waived, and there is case law to that effect, this is not usually done unless a failure to do so unfairly would disenfranchise voters. This is not the case here. In fact, if I did not do this and permitted the petition, and then went on the "merits" to find favorably for Mr. McVeigh, assuming I rejected the Board's ten signature argument, that would result in disenfranchisement, just the opposite of what the cases indicate would form an appropriate basis to overlook arguably technical irregularities. I am not saying that this is a technical irregularity, I think it is a substantial, well-reasoned requirement and while I appreciate, as I said, that Mr.

McVeigh may not have been expected to know of its existence and arguably may have been misled by not getting the specific statute from the county superintendent, that is not reason enough to ignore what the legislature has clearly required in matters of this sort. So, I will dismiss the petition on that basis alone.

Since it is possible that my determination with respect to the ten signature violation could be rejected by the Commissioner of Education, it is incumbent upon me to address the third issue - the "merits" of the case, i.e., that in light of the nature of the inclement weather on the date of the school bond referendum and its potential impact, if not actual impact on the ability of persons safely to travel to and from the polls, the free will of the electorate was so severely curtailed as to require that the election be set aside. My review of the facts in this case, together with the case law, leads me to conclude that this argument, too, must be rejected. Decisions both by the Commissioner and by the courts are replete with cases establishing the very clear principle that elections are to be given effect wherever possible, even where gross irregularities are to be found. In this regard I would cite to two decisions which pop up all the time in matters of this sort: Wene v. Meyner, 13 N.J. 185, 197-198 (1953); and Sharrock v. Keansburg, 15 N.J. Super. 11, 19-20 (App. Div. 1951). See also, In re Livingston, 83 N.J. Super. 98, 107 (App. Div. 1964). Furthermore, the burden of proof to demonstrate that the free will of the people has been thwarted rests upon the person challenging the outcome and it is not enough merely to speculate had the challenged state of facts not occurred the result would have been different. Authority for that proposition may be found in two decisions by the Commissioner which the Board cited, namely, In the Matter of the Annual School Board Election in Newark, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 645 and In the Matter of the Annual School Election in Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, 1987 S.L.D 1140, aff'd State Board of Education 1987 S.L.D. 1146.

It is equally clear to me in this case that there was neither fraud nor the kind of overriding irregularity which reasonably can be said to have interfered with the ability of the electorate freely to express their will. Cases which have determined the existence of such misconduct include obstruction of voters, improper campaign practices, improper use of or tampering with voting machines, directly assisting voters inside polling places, and so forth. In my view, a decision by school election officials to conduct an election despite a snowstorm does not constitute fraud or the kind of irregularity warranting the setting aside of the election at all. While there may have been a snowstorm, and there clearly was a rather substantial one on December 19, 1995, which involved eventually the deposit of perhaps 6", 8" or 10" of snow, it did not lead (as did occur the following month) to a declaration by the Governor of a state of emergency so severe as to close down all State functions, nor the cessation of mail delivery the following day. I think it would be a dangerous precedent to set aside an election based upon a storm without any substantial guidelines as to what standards one follows. How many inches? Was it icy? Were there "blizzard" conditions which I think technically requires certain winds of 50 miles per hour and so forth. It would be much too difficult in my view to set aside elections on that kind of ground merely speculating that persons could not get to the polls. In fact, as noted in the statement of facts, a fairly large number of persons did vote that day on the school bond referendum and to set aside the election based upon the speculation advanced by Mr. McVeigh to me would be an intolerable interference with their activities on that date. I would also quote from the legal treatise, Corpus Juris Secundum, Vol. 29, Elections, ¶213, where the editors note as follows. ". . .

> Where the general public knows or should know that an election is taking place for a particular purpose, such election will be held valid even though only a small minority of the voters cast their ballots in such election. So where an election has been held despite interference by the elements, the vote may be reduced thereby, or the outcome changed, but qualified voters who fail to go to the polls to vote under the circumstances will be bound by the express will of those who do.

Cited in that regard is a decision by a court in Minnesota, State ex rel. School Dist. No. 56 v. Schmeising, 66 N.W. 2d. p. 20.

Furthermore, as observed by Board counsel in his prehearing memoranda, there are least two Commissioner decisions which tend to support this view. See, In re Annual School Election held in Cherry Hill, 1978 S.L.D. 377 (dec. by Comm'n April 14, 1978); and In re Annual School Election held in East Amwell, 1976 S.L.D. 460 (dec. by Comm'n. April 29, 1976). I do not exactly recall the facts in the Cherry Hill case but I think East Amwell directly involved the claim that a certain number of voters on a certain street could not get to the polls because of snow and while that issue perhaps got lost in the shuffle a little bit with other claims, clearly the Commissioner rejected that as a basis for setting aside an election.

Thus, I cannot nor will I engage in the sort of conjecture and speculation that I would have to do if I bought into Mr. McVeigh's argument with regard to his claim that many potential voters may have been, or were in fact, frustrated by the weather to such an extent that they determined not to exercise their voting privileges. It may very well be, and the statistics I cited do, in fact, tend to support the view, that although a number of persons did turn out it was less than maybe two-thirds of the amount of persons who have been casting their votes, at least most recently, in the April regular school elections. However, it is difficult to make such comparisons because of issues as to candidate personalities, and the annual school election is also a budget election which has different aspects and attributes than a school bond referendum. I cited the statistics provided by the Board in my findings of fact only to demonstrate that this was not a situation where hardly anybody managed to get to the polls. A goodly number of people did get to the polls and to that extent the statistical data was helpful. At bottom, the burden of proof in this sort of case rests upon the petitioner and more than mere speculation is required. This Mr. McVeigh failed to do.

Therefore, in light of the findings of fact, I CONCLUDE and hereby ORDER for the reasons set forth in this oral initial decision, that the petition of appeal should be DISMISSED.

This concludes my oral decision. There is a tape which will be available within a day or two for whoever wants to order it. In addition, even though it is an oral decision, under our regulations I must have it transcribed and there will be a written transcription of my oral decision prepared by my secretary and will be mailed to the parties within, I think I have two weeks under the regulations but I will try and do it more quickly than that. So that concludes my determination and let me again express my appreciation to both Mr. Hara and also Mr. McVeigh in bringing this matter in an expeditious fashion for a hearing.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PAUL B. MC VEIGH,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE WESTWOOD REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Primary exceptions of the Board and those of petitioner were timely filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as were reply exceptions of the Board.

The Board excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion with respect to the first issue in this matter, i.e., the question of whether petitioner had standing to challenge the December 19, 1995 school bond referendum in that he actually voted in that election. It avers that in finding in favor of petitioner on this issue, the ALJ ignored the principles of standing established by the Supreme Court. The Board argues that it is well-settled that to have standing to assert a claim an individual "must have a sufficient stake and real adverseness with respect to the subject matter of the litigation. New Jersey Chamber of Commerce v. New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission, 82 N.J. 57, 67 (1980)."

(Board's Exceptions at p. 2) The Board asserts that to satisfy this standard "a petitioner must show that there is a substantial likelihood of some harm to be visited upon him in the event of an unfavorable decision" (id.), and it argues that because the within petitioner voted at the election he neither suffered harm nor did he have a stake in the outcome of this matter. The Board further advances that the ALJ erred in discounting the applicability of In re D'Amore, Docket No. SOM-L-729-96 (Law Div. May 29, 1996), and Brown v. Street Lighting Dist. Number One of the Township of Woodbridge, 69 N.J.L. 485 (Sup. Ct. 1903), aff'd 70 N.J.L. 762 (E. & A. 1904), discussed at length in its pre-hearing brief, to this matter. It maintains that these decisions are directly on point and serve to establish that petitioner's appeal should have been dismissed for lack of standing.

The Board further urges that, notwithstanding clear case law, the ALJ mistakenly reasoned that the State Board's remand of this matter was predicated on a finding that "fairness considerations" and the Board's failure to raise the standing issue before the Commissioner dictated such remand and, as such, the State Board was sending "a 'message' to the Office of Administrative Law that the matter should, in fairness, proceed on the underlying merits of the appeal, regardless of whether petitioner has standing." (Board's Exceptions at p. 4) In this regard, the Board asserts that the State Board's remand sent no such "message". Rather, it contends

> The State Board simply held that, in fairness, petitioner's appeal should be deemed timely filed due to the inclement weather. Principles of fairness, however, play no part in the determination of a petitioner's standing to pursue a claim. This is a legal issue which should be decided on the basis of existing legal precedent. As such, the administrative law judge should have independently addressed this issue, by applying the principles set forth in New Jersey Chamber of Commerce, supra, D'Amore, supra, and Brown, supra, to the instant situation, without looking for guidance from the State Board which remanded the matter on an entirely different issue. (Board's Exceptions at p. 4)

The Board further argues that the fact that it had not previously raised the issue of petitioner's standing has no bearing on its ability to do so herein. In this regard, the Board observes that the dismissal of petitioner's appeal by the Commissioner was based solely on the determination that such appeal was untimely filed and, as such, "the Board was precluded from raising any other issues, including that of petitioner's standing, before the State Board." (Id. at p. 3)

With respect to the standing issue, petitioner's exceptions urge that, as correctly noted by the ALJ in his decision, "there is no provision in the school laws setting forth any specific requirement that in order to challenge the results of an election because of inclement weather or other such reason, a party must demonstrate that he or she was unable to get to the polling place because of that fact." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 1)

With regard to the second issue, that of the missing ten signatures, petitioner argues that the particular statute imposing such a requirement, intended to discourage frivolous challenges to an election, has now been repealed. Petitioner proffers that "[w]hile my violation was previous to its repeal the workings toward that end certainly occurred many months before the actual repeal." (Id. at p. 2) He urges that the Commissioner relax this particular requirement to prevent an injustice from occurring, arguing in that his petition is neither frivolous nor capricious, and that he acted in good faith relying on the completeness of information provided to him on how to bring his petition, "[i]t would be entirely fair not to hold me to [a] statute which has now become extinct." (Id.)

In response, the Board contends that relaxation of the ten signature requirement set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 is entirely inconsistent with the intent of the Legislature and that of the Commissioner to require strict enforcement of this requirement as evidenced in In re Annual School Election of the School District of Lacey Township, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 3. Further, it posits that the fact that the statutory provision at issue was subsequently repealed has no bearing on its applicability to this matter arguing

> The bond referendum was held and the petition was filed prior to March 15, 1995--the effective date for when the conduct of school elections became subject to Title 19 of the Revised Statutes. L.1995, c.278. Therefore, this lawsuit is governed by the school election statutes set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:14-1 et seq. and is subject to the jurisdiction of the State Department of Education. Petitioner's failure to comply with the strict requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 is in no way lessened by the statute's subsequent repeal. (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 3)

The Board further contends that notwithstanding that the within petitioner is representing himself in this matter and claims reliance on information provided to him on how to file an appeal, the procedural deficiencies of his petition cannot be excused nor does such situation justify the relaxation of the signature requirement. The Board cites Tuckey v. Harleysville Ins. Co., 236 N.J. Super. 221, 224 (App. Div. 1989) for the proposition that "pro se litigants are presumed to know, and are required to follow, state statutes." (Id.)

Lastly, with regard to the third issue in this matter, whether the inclement weather on December 19, 1995 was severe enough that voters were prevented from getting to the polls, thereby thwarting the will of the electorate, petitioner's exceptions argue that, as reported by various media sources, there was a significant snowfall on December 19, 1995. He asserts that although the Board cites cases where elections were upheld despite snowstorms,

> This snow was such as to close the schools early on that day and then order the schools closed the following day December 20, 1995 because of the heavy accumulation. While logistics played a role in the closing the primary reason was the snow. The news reports had predict[ed] up to two feet of snow would fall on December 19, 1995. The sirens sounded signaling the closings in the two towns and the entire school system was shut down.

Petitioner argues that the severity of this situation distinguishes this matter from those cases cited by the Board in that here "the host system sen[t] everyone home because of the hazardous conditions and impending doom and then expect[ed] the electorate whe[n] the conditions are far worse to risk their lives." (Id. at p. 3) Petitioner further maintains that the voter numbers for the last twelve years presented by the Board are misleading. He states that, instead, the focus should be on voter numbers for the last five to seven years, which evidenced a much more active participation in the election process, and present a much more accurate picture. Petitioner argues > Totaling the votes cast from the years 1990 through 1996 budget votes we get an average annual turnout of 1961 voters. The turnout on the day of the referendum was 1249. A difference of 712 votes on the average which is more than twice the votes needed to defeat the measure which won by 337 votes. It can now be clearly seen there were a significant number of voters who did not cast their ballots. The snowfall on this day did in fact significantly interfer (sic) with the ability of the electorate to get to the polls not because they did not want to but because it was dangerous and hazardous to human life.

In response, the Board avers that the Commissioner has consistently held that the conducting of a school election in a snowstorm "does not constitute an irregularity of school election laws warranting the voiding of the election," again citing In re Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Township of Cherry Hill, 1978 S.L.D. 377, 378 and In re Annual School Election Held in the School District of East Amwell, 1976 S.L.D. 460, 462 as its support for this proposition. (Board's Reply Exception at p. 4) As such, it argues that petitioner's attempt to distinguish these cases based upon the severity of those storms vis-à-vis the one involved here, is of no consequence. It maintains that, as indicated by the ALJ, until standards or guidelines are established which definitively address the circumstances under which an election must be canceled, such as a specific amount of snow accumulation, "the severity of inclement weather plays no part in the determination of the propriety of a board's decision to hold an election during a snowstorm." (Id. at p. 5)

With regard to petitioner's challenge of its statistical data concerning prior voter turnout which was presented at the hearing, the Board advances that such challenge is without merit in that petitioner ignores the fact that the data submitted by the Board "represents the voter turnout at annual school elections, which historically receive greater voter turnouts than special elections." (Id.) It argues that even if the ALJ considered only the voter turnout at the annual school elections for the last seven years, "the statistics clearly demonstrate that the electorate was adequately represented at the referendum." (Id.) The Board further proffers that, in any event, petitioner has not satisfied his burden of establishing that "the free will of the people was thwarted. In re Annual School Board Election in Newark, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 645, 648" arguing that mere speculation that the snowstorm impacted the outcome of the bond referendum is insufficient to satisfy such burden of proof. (Id.)

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, including the exception arguments advanced by the parties, the Commissioner agrees with the conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner's failure to submit the required signatures with his petition challenging the election warrants dismissal of his appeal. (In re Annual School Election of the School District of Lacey Township, supra. As correctly noted by the ALJ, "a condition precedent to filing a challenge capable of being heard by the Commissioner pursuant to the statute [N.J.S.A 18A:14-63.12] is that ten signatures be contained on the petition." (Initial Decision at p. 15) The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons articulated in his decision, that petitioner has not met his burden of establishing that the Board's decision to hold the bond referendum at issue in this matter during inclement weather constituted an irregularity of election procedures, thwarted the free will of the electorate, or changed the outcome of the election. In the Matter of the Annual School Board Election in Newark, supra; In the Matter of the Annual School Election in Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, supra.

With respect to the standing issue raised herein, as was mentioned in the initial decision and the exception submissions of the parties, Chapter 278 of the Public Laws of 1995 repealed N.J.S.A. 18A:14-1 through 104 inclusive, and amended Title 19 of the Revised Statutes and N.J.S.A 18A:6-9, effective March 14, 1996, thereby placing all school elections under the provisions of Title 19 (N.J.S.A. 19:60-1 et seq.). However, the bond referendum in this matter was held and the subsequent petition was filed prior to the effective date of the new legislation. Therefore, this matter is governed by the school election statutes set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:14-1 et eq. and is subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. Those controlling education statutes impose no requirement that to challenge an election on a public question, an individual have a stake and real adverseness to the subject matter at issue, nor do they require that he must show the existence of a substantial likelihood of some harm to be visited upon him in the event of an unfavorable decision in order to petition for an inquiry into a school election before the Commissioner of Education.* Thus, the Commissioner finds it unnecessary to address petitioner's standing in terms of his having voted in the December 19, 1995 election.

Accordingly, the Commissioner accepts the recommendation of the OAL, as modified herein, dismissing the Petition of Appeal and adopts it as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated in the initial decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) recommending dismissal based on petitioners' withdrawal of this matter, transmitted to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2, have been reviewed. Respondents' exceptions and petitioners' reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondents filed an exception in this matter solely on the issue that the dismissal in this case should be "with prejudice" rather than without prejudice as determined by the ALJ. In support of this position, respondents argue "[a]fter almost three years of litigation, the respondents should be entitled to a definitive repose on these claims." (Respondents' Exceptions at p. 1)

In response, petitioners assert that it is not their desire to reopen this case for any reason but, to protect themselves from possible retributive actions by respondents, they "wish to reserve the right to reopen in that event." (Petitioners' Reply Exceptions at p. 2)

The Commissioner initially notes that the issue raised in respondents' exceptions was presented to the ALJ shortly before his decision in this matter was issued. By letter dated June 25, 1996, the ALJ denied respondents' request for a dismissal with prejudice stating that it was his opinion that "[petitioner] has the right, even at this stage of the litigation, to withdraw both of his petitions without prejudice," noting that under New Jersey Court Rules, R.4:37-1, "dismissals are generally without prejudice unless otherwise specified." (emphasis in text) (ALJ's June 25, 1996 Letter, at p. 1) The ALJ further opined "I remind counsel of the strong public policy encouraging settlements and dismissals so as to avoid the continuation of unnecessary litigation. In this regard, I venture the opinion that any attempts to reinstitute these petitions in the future would be unlikely to succeed because of the pecuniary prejudice to respondents and the application of the doctrine of laches and mootness, among other possible defenses." (Id. at p. 2)

After his review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's analysis with respect to this issue, particularly in light of the fact that respondents have neither advanced any persuasive basis for overruling this determination nor made any showing that they will, under the circumstances existing here, be unduly disadvantaged by a dismissal without prejudice.

The Commissioner approves the dismissal of this matter, based on the petitioners' withdrawal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2 and, accordingly, such matter is hereby dismissed without prejudice.

Record Closed: June 26, 1996 Decided: June 28, 1996

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ

In this matter, petitioner appealed to the Commissioner of Education challenging the Board of Education of the City of Bayonne's residency determination.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 18, 1996, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

During the pendency of the case at the Office of Administrative Law, the petitioner withdrew from the Bayonne school system (see attached documents).

Having reviewed the contents of the attached documents, I FIND petitioner withdrew his application for a hearing.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the attached documents meet the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.1 and I hereby APPROVE same. In conjunction therewith, I ORDER that these proceedings be (and are hereby) DISMISSED.

Dear Judge Gerson:

Re: Joseph Montesano
vs. Board of Education of the City of Bayonne
OAL Docket No. EDUOS 03302-9GN
Agency Reference No. 53-2/96

As I advised you on Wednesday, June 19, 1996, the Petitioner withdrew from Bayonne High School on April 25, 1996. When we attempted to contact him before the hearing, we were told by the owner of the property at 56 Avenue B, Bayonne, New Jersey that Mr. Montesano had moved out of Bayonne. A copy of that withdrawal slip is enclosed.

I respectfully request that the dismissal of the matter be done in such a way so as not to preclude the Bayonne Board of Education filing a Petition for tuition in the future, and of course Mr. Montesano being allowed to defend on the basis of his allegation that he was a resident from September 1, 1995 through January 26, 1996.

Respectfully submitted,

v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD, UNION COUNTY,
Respondent.

Richard J. Kaplow, Esq., for Petitioner

Victor E.D. King, Esq., for respondent
(King, King and Goldsack, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 19, 1996 Decided: June 28, 1996

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

The Petitioner, Myrna Yablonsky, filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that the respondent acted arbitrarily and capriciously in refusing to accept the recession of her letter of resignation. The petitioner sought reinstatement.

On June 26, 1995, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. A prehearing conference was held on November 16, 1995, and a Prehearing Order was entered, defining and limiting the issues to be decided, fixing hearing dates, providing for discovery and regulating other procedural aspects of the forthcoming hearing, which was scheduled to be held in May, 1996.

The parties conferred for purposes of settlement prior to the hearing dates, and an agreement was reached. The terms of the settlement were placed on the record by counsel, in the presence of the petitioner and an authorized representative of respondent on June 19, 1996. The petitioner acknowledged, on the record and under oath, that she fully understood and agreed to each term and condition of the settlement, and that her agreement was voluntary. The substantive terms of the settlement consisted of a withdrawal of all claims and withdrawal of the petition by the petitioner, in exchange for a payment to her by the respondent of $5,000. A stipulation of dismissal with prejudice, was signed by the petitioner and by counsel for both parties, and petitioner executed a conforming release.

Copies of the foregoing documents are attached hereto and made a part hereof.

Having reviewed and considered the issues involved in this dispute, it is CONCLUDED that the parties have voluntarily and knowingly agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by the attached documents. It is further CONCLUDED that the settlement is fair and fully dispositive of all issues in controversy.

It is therefore ORDERED that the settlement be approved and that this matter DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

(The Jersey City Public Schools)

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 23, 1995 determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 5214B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a stipulation indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

HEARING OF MARY CATLIN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL	:	DECISION
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:
JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement have been reviewed.

Upon careful and independent review of the full record of this matter and the terms of the proposed settlement agreement, the Commissioner is compelled to reject such agreement as it is currently structured since he cannot be satisfied by the present record that the proposed settlement meets the Cardonick standards for settlement of tenure matters. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, affirmed State Board of Education April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

Although the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation to the school and children of this state, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

It is well established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, a board may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges can no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth S. Smith, School District of the City of Orange, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 1982, decision on remand June 16, 1983, affirmed with modification by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, affirmed Superior Court, Appellate Division, January 30, 1986. The present record contains no such explanation.

Additionally, there is no indication that the within teaching staff member was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for review and possible revocation of certificate.

It further appears that the terms of the settlement have already been effectuated through respondent's resignation. The parties are, therefore, admonished that settlement agreements of controverted matters are of no force and effect and may not be implemented absent the Commissioner's approval pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Accordingly, the proposed settlement is rejected for the reasons expressed herein. The Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of settlement terms consistent with the concerns herein expressed. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to a plenary hearing on the merits.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: June 12, 1996 Decided: June 28, 1996

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

This matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law by the Commissioner of Education for revision of the terms of a settlement. The difficulty with the settlement was that the language on its face did not appear to contemplate that the settlement document would become a matter of public record as normally occurs in contested cases.

The underlying dispute involves a petition by Ulysses Green, alleging violations of various provisions of the education laws by the Board of Education of the Township of Union (respondent) and requesting relief which included reinstatement to the position of JROTC instructor, back pay, emoluments, attorney's fees and damages. A portion of the petition is based upon a request for reimbursement of attorney's fees and other costs and expenses related to the defense of criminal charges pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

Ulysses Green and Elnora Green filed a related complaint and an amended complaint in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Union County, bearing Civil Action No. UNN-L-007448-93 (the "lawsuit"). The lawsuit makes claims against various defendants including the respondent in this proceeding.

Prior to hearing, the parties agreed to a settlement, which was intended to resolve both this proceeding and the lawsuit in Superior Court. The parties submitted settlement papers which included a stipulation of dismissal with prejudice, correspondence dated September 3, 1995 from petitioner's attorney, a release and a confidential settlement agreement. The settlement agreement contains provisions related to confidentiality as to the terms thereof. These provisions led to the remand for the reason stated above.

Subsequent to transmittal of the remand to the Office of Administrative Law, the parties submitted an Addendum to Release and Confidential Settlement Agreement (Addendum). The Addendum provides that the confidentiality provisions of the confidential settlement agreement are only binding on Ulysses and Elnora Green, that the confidentiality provisions of the confidential settlement agreement are not binding on respondent or any of its officials, officers or employees, and that the release and confidential settlement agreement is a public record available to the public in accordance with the requirements of federal and state laws and regulations. Thus, it is clear that the release and confidential settlement agreement will become a matter of public record.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms in their entirety, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

James J. Ross, Esq., for petitioner (Wolff & Samson, attorneys)

Honora O'Brien Kilgallen, Esq., for respondent Ocean Township School (Kramer, Kramer & Kilgallen, attorneys)

Leonard Needle, Esq., for respondent Patock Construction Company

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Respondent Ocean Township Board of Education (BOE) decided to undertake construction on several of its schools and Thomas Associates Architects + Engineers, P.C., (Thomas) prepared bidding documents, including specifications and drawings, so that the BOE could advertise for bids. N.J.S.A. 18:18A-21 et seq. The specifications provided for separate bids for prime contracts, including "Bid Package G," for "Casework and Equipment," which related to the BOE's high school construction project. P-2D, RP-1D. The specifications referred to drawings for "Bid Package G" and, among the items to be provided by the bidder, the drawings included numbered symbols and the drawings referred to "Equipment Schedules." On the "Equipment Schedules," the "Casework & Equipment Schedule" listed "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]," with identification numbers that coordinated with the drawings' numbered symbols. P-2E, P-2F, RBOE-1C.

Petitioner Dean Equipment and Furniture Company, Inc., (Dean) submitted a bid for "Bid Package G;" however, Dean excluded "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]" from its bid. Respondent Patock Construction Company (Patock) also submitted a bid for "Bid Package G;" and Patock included "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]" in its bid. Dean was the lowest bidder; however, the BOE determined that Dean was "non-responsive," the BOE determined that Patock was the "lowest responsible bidder" and the BOE entered into a contract with Patock. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-37. Dean contends that the bidding documents did not include "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]" among the items to be provided as part of the "Bid Package G" "Casework & Equipment." Consequently, Dean contends that it is the "lowest responsible bidder," the contract with Patock should be rescinded and the BOE should be ordered to enter into a contract with it (Dean) for "Bid Package G."

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 2, 1996, Dean's verified petition with exhibits, notice of motion for temporary restraints, affidavit of Aaron Kemble, etc., were filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on August 6, 1996, it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On August 7, 1996, the BOE's answer to the petition and defenses, letter memorandum and exhibit were filed with the OAL. On August 8, 1996, additional exhibits were filed on behalf of Dean, the BOE and Patock and the motion was heard in the OAL in Trenton (Hamilton Township).

FINDINGS OF FACT

The BOE, which operates the Ocean Township (Monmouth County) school district, determined that it should engage in construction, including construction of new science rooms in its Ocean Township High School.

Consistent with the BOE's determination, Thomas prepared bidding documents, including technical specifications and drawings, so that the BOE could advertise for bids. N.J.S.A. 18:18A-21 et seq. Bidding was for "Prime Contracts," each of which had a "Bid Package." P-2D.

The specifications entitled "Section 01010 - Summary of Project" list the "Prime Contracts" and "Bid Package[s]" and, relative to "Bid Package G," stated:

> G. Bid Package G - Ocean Township High School (3838.2):
> The Work included I Bid Package G shall be done under the following separate Prime Contracts as indicated in the Contract Documents.
>
> 1. Prime Contract GEQ - Equipment Work: Includes (but not limited to) casework and equipment in new Science Rooms at Ocean Township High School. Refer to Drawings A51 & A52.

"Drawing A51," entitled "Laboratory Plans & Details, Physics, Biology, Gen. Science Rms.," showed two room floorplans with detailed drawings of, e.g., benches, tables and sinks with features noted by way of symbols, including numerous squares containing the number "46" and numerous squares containing the number "50." P-2E. "Drawing A52," entitled "Laboratory Plans & Details, Chemistry Rooms," showed one room floorplan with detailed drawings of, e.g.,

"Prep Room[s]" and "Storage," with features also noted by way of symbols, including numerous squares containing the number "46" and numerous squares containing the number "50." P-2F. "Drawing A51" and "Drawing A52" both included "General Notes, Laboratory Casework," wherein the potential bidder was directed to "See schedule on sheet 55." P-2E, P-2F. Sheet "55," entitled "Science & Library Equipment Schedules," included a "Chalk and Tack Board Schedule" and "Casework & Equipment Schedule" and listed "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]," with identification numbers that coordinated with the drawings. That is to say, e.g., on "Drawing 52," above the drawing of a "demonstration table," was drawing of a rectangular area with the word "Tack" written on it and a square containing the number "50" from which an arrow points to the rectangular area and, on sheet 55, under "Chalk and Tack Board Schedule," "number" "50" is described as a marker/tack board. Similarly, "number" "46" is described as a "Tackboard." P-2E, P-2F, RBOE-1C.

Dean did not understand the above-described bidding materials to require that a "Bid Package G" bidder was required to provide, among the equipment, the "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]" and it excluded them from its $555,330.00 base bid. P-2, P-3. Dean then inquired of Scott J. Duell, Thomas' project manager, as to whether the "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]" were required; however, Dean did not change its bid. RBOE-4. See also in this regard RBOE-1. (During argument of the motion, Dean alleged that, because Thomas was slow in reacting to its inquiry, it was unable to change its bid and include the "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s.]") Patock understood the above-described bidding materials to require that a "Bid Package G" bidder was required to provide the "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]" and included them in its $567,720.00. RP-1A.

The BOE opened the bids and, during its July 16, 1996 meeting, determined that, relative to "Bid Package G," Dean's (the lowest) bid was non-responsive and Patock's (the next lowest) bid was the "lowest responsible bidder" and the BOE determined that the contract should be awarded to Patock. P-2C, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-37.

On July 16, 1996, the BOE and Patock entered into a written agreement relative to "Bid Package G." RP-1E. During the argument of the motion, Patock alleged that it was well underway with performance pursuant to the agreement and that it needed to continue its performance uninterrupted by, e.g., the orders sought here by Dean, in order to enclose the building before the winter, so that construction progress could continue uninterrupted by the cold weather.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Public School Contracts Law governs the BOE's bidding and contract award processes. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 et seq. Public contracts laws are intended to encourage competition and to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance or corruption, i.e., to benefit the taxpayer. Pied Piper Ice Cream v. Essex Cty. Park Comm., 132 N.J.Super. 480 (App. Div. 1975).

Generally, public entities, such as the BOE, are presumed to have acted lawfully and in good faith. Van Itallie v. Franklin Lakes, 28 N.J. 258, 269 (1958); Fitzpatrick v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 91 N.J. Super. 535, 539 (App. Div. 1966). Consequently, that the petitioner bears the burden of proof that the BOE acted unlawfully and/or that its award of the contract was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Standards for the granting of a motion for emergent relief are well-established. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6; R. 4:52-1; Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982).

Given the above-described bidding materials, it cannot be said that Dean will probably prevail in its contention that the "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]" were excluded from the work to be performed consistent with "Bid Package G." To the contrary, given the specifications and drawings, especially the "Casework & Equipment Schedule," specifically listing "Tack" and "Chalk" "Board[s]," among equipment to be provided, Dean faces a genuine issue of material fact or an improbability of prevailing. That is to say, Dean fails to satisfy the above-cited standards. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(f)3.

ORDER

Consistent with the above, I DENY the motion for emergent relief.

I ORDER the following: (1) By August 30, 1996, the parties may serve discovery requests. (2) By October 31, 1996, the parties will serve answers to the discovery requests. (3) A telephone conference to discuss the progress of the case and hearing dates will be set.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter and the Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful review of the record in this matter, including the audiocassette tape of the hearing conducted on August 7, 1996, and in consideration of the standard for granting emergent relief as established by Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), the Commissioner determines to affirm the ALJ's Order denying petitioner's request for emergent relief in this matter, in that petitioner has failed to demonstrate a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits, given the genuine issue of material fact which is in dispute. Crowe at 133.

Accordingly, petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief is denied for the reasons expressed in the recommended Order, and the matter on the merits will proceed at the OAL, consistent with the recommendation of the ALJ.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning senior high school student, who had been twice retained in elementary school and turned 19 years of age prior to September 1, 1996, sought reversal of NJSIAA's decision precluding petitioner from participating as a member of the Ridgefield Park High School football team during the 1996-97 school year and further sought a declaration that he was eligible to so participate. Petitioner's request for a waiver of the age rule was denied on February 14, 1996 by the NJSIAA's Eligibility Committee and on March 22, 1996 by the Eligibility Appeals Committee. Petitioner contended his learning disabilities were organically based and, thus, his retentions were not his fault.

Commissioner may not overturn an action by NJSIAA in applying eligibility rules absent a finding that the Association applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. Commissioner concluded that petitioner failed to demonstrate that the NJSIAA's decision was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even when he might judge otherwise in a de novo review. Commissioner was satisfied that the NJSIAA fairly examined the purpose of the age requirement and the result of waiving that requirement. (Johnson) NJSIAA had health and safety concerns inasmuch as football is a contact sport and petitioner's size was much larger than the average student his age. Commissioner adopted findings and conclusions of the NJSIAA as his own and dismissed the petition.

For Petitioner: Robert F. Binetti, Esq.

For Respondent: Michael J. Herbert, Esq. (Picco, Herbert, Kennedy)

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on June 7, 1996 seeking a reversal of the decision of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) to preclude petitioner from participating as a member of the Ridgefield Park High School football team during the 1996-97 school year and further seeking a declaration that petitioner is eligible to so participate. Respondent's Answer was filed on June 14, 1996, together with a complete record of the proceedings before the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC). A briefing schedule was established and both parties filed timely briefs, as well as reply briefs.

Petitioner William Salvatori will be a senior in the 1996-97 school year. On January 4, 1996, Ridgefield Park Jr.-Sr. High School requested that the NJSIAA review the

ADDENDUM TO RELEASE AND CONFIDENTIAL SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, the plaintiffs, Ulysses Green and Elnora Green, and the defendant, Union Township Board of Education, and all officials, officers and employees of the Union Township Board of Education in their capacities as public officials, public servants, and individually, have executed a release and confidential settlement agreement.

WHEREAS, the executed release and confidential settlement agreement, a stipulation of dismissal with prejudice as to petition of appeal on case #412-12/93 and correspondence dated September 3, 1995 from plaintiff's counsel redacting paragraphs 22 and 23 in the confidential settlement agreement were forwarded and received by the Office of Administrative Law on or about September 19, 1995.

WHEREAS, the Hon. Richard McGill, A.L.J., issued his decision on December 19, 1995, recommending settlement to the Commissioner of the Department of Education and filing said decision with the Commissioner of the Department of Education;

WHEREAS, the Commissioner of Education remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for revision of the settlement terms as set forth in his by decision dated November 6, 1995.

WHEREAS, the parties seek to clarify and modify the terms of the confidential settlement agreement in accordance with the decision of the Commissioner of Education dated November 6, 1995, the parties hereby agree to the following terms as clarification and modifications to the confidential settlement agreement:

1. The confidentiality provisions of the confidential settlement agreement are only binding upon plaintiffs Ulysses and Elnora Green;

2. The confidentiality provisions of the confidential settlement agreement is not binding upon the defendants, Union Township Board of Education or any of its officials, officers, or employees in their capacities as public officials, public servants or individually.

3. The release and confidential settlement agreement is a public record available to the public in accordance with the requirements of federal and state laws and regulations.

4. All other terms and conditions of the confidential settlement agreement remain in full force and effect.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties intending to be legally bound hereby, have entered into this amendment to the release and confidential settlement agreement.

THOMAS BRUGGER T/A
C & A WINDOW SERVICE,
Petitioner,

v.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF NEWARK,
Respondent.

Thomas Brugger, pro se

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

Thomas Brugger t/a C & A Window Service (petitioner) submitted the low bid for window repairs at the Oliver Street School in Newark. After the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (respondent) advised petitioner that all bids for the project would be rejected, petitioner filed the petition in this matter seeking to overturn respondent's determination. Petitioner now seeks emergent relief to prevent respondent from rebidding the project.

Petitioner filed the petition with the Commissioner of Education on July 9, 1996 pursuant to the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. By letter received on July 15, 1996, petitioner made the request for emergent relief. Respondent filed an answer on July 25, 1996, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on July 30, 1996 for determination as a contested case. An oral argument in regard to the motion for emergent relief was held on August 5, 1996 at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey.

Thomas Brugger testified that C & A Window Service is a sole proprietorship. Petitioner submitted a bid for window repairs at Oliver Street School in Newark on April 30, 1996 and was the low bidder. Brugger spoke with respondent's employee, Mr. Burroughs, and was told that everything was in order. In mid-June, Burroughs advised Brugger that another bidder had protested the bid because he misunderstood a section pertaining to a contingency factor. Brugger states that the bid papers contain a section requiring a prospective bidder to request an explanation or interpretation prior to the date scheduled for opening the bids. Brugger also spoke with another employee, Linda Armenio, who is Burrough's supervisor. Burroughs and Armenio confirmed that papers were being processed in regard to his bid. Finally, Brugger spoke with Robert Hardy, who is head of petitioner's purchasing department. Hardy informed Brugger that petitioner would reject all bids on the project. Brugger acknowledges that the bid papers contain a provision, Paragraph D3.3, in which respondent reserves the right to reject all proposals.

Brugger had already ordered parts for the project. The parts were delivered with a cost of approximately $4,000. Additionally, if the project is rebid, other bidders will know his prior bid, thereby forcing him to make a lower bid.

Brugger states that rejection of all bids is normally done in situations where all bids exceed the budget or none of the bidders is qualified. Brugger maintains that the bids were rejected in this instance because petitioner received a protest. However, Brugger could not cite any legal authority for the proposition that petitioner could not reject all bids under these circumstances.

Brugger acknowledged that he received a letter dated July 1, 1996 from Robert Harding. According to the letter, the District rejected all bids because it realized that "it will be more cost effective to bid all its window repair requirements at one time rather than to bid each school individually."

Petitioner seeks emergent relief equivalent to a preliminary injunction. In order to prevail on such a motion, a party must show that: (1) emergent relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, (2) the claim is based upon settled law, (3) the material facts are uncontroverted, and (4) the relative hardship to the parties favors granting emergent relief to the applicant. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982).

The first factor to consider is irreparable harm. Harm is considered to be irreparable if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages. Id. at 132-133. Here, petitioner has not shown that any harm that he may suffer cannot be redressed by monetary damages. It follows that petitioner has not shown that he will suffer irreparable harm if emergent relief is denied.

The second requirement is that the pertinent law must be settled. Id. at 133. Here, the law is settled, but it does not support petitioner's position. Paragraph D3.3 of the bid papers expressly provides that respondent reserves the right to reject any and all proposals. This reservation of rights evidently is based upon N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22, which expressly provides that the school district has the right to reject all bids. Therefore, the settled law does not support petitioner's position.

The third requirement is that the material facts are uncontroverted. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. at 133. Here, petitioner maintains that respondent rejected all bids solely because it received a protest from another bidder. In contrast, respondent asserts that it rejected all bids because it would be more cost effective to bid all its window repair requirements at one time. A material fact is one that may affect the outcome of the case. Putting aside the possibility that petitioner may not prevail on either version of the facts, it is evident that respondent controverts petitioner's version of the facts. It follows that petitioner has not established that his version of the facts are uncontroverted.

The last factor to consider is the relative hardship to the parties. Id. at 334. Here, it is fair to say that the expenditures to date would be a greater burden to petitioner than to respondent, but petitioner has not established that he will experience any real hardship. In any event, considering all the factors, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that emergent relief is warranted under the circumstances of this case.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the motion for emergency relief is denied.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision on this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RUMSON, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION

Petitioner, tenured middle school teacher, alleged his seniority and tenure rights were violated when his position as social studies teacher was abolished and the Board failed to establish a preferred eligibility list. Subsequently, the Board created a new 7th grade social studies position and employed a nontenured staff member to fill it.

ALJ concluded that Board's action abolishing petitioner's position of 7th grade social studies teacher effectively constituted a RIF pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and the Board failed to execute and comply with a preferred eligibility list and establish petitioner's seniority status pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. Board was ordered to reinstate petitioner and assign him to the position of 7th grade social studies teacher.

Commissioner reversed the initial decision. Commissioner determined that since petitioner was not terminated from employment with the District, did not suffer a reduction in salary, and was transferred to a teaching position for which he was properly certificated, he was not subject to a RIF. Thus, the Board acted pursuant to its managerial prerogative to transfer teaching staff members. Because seniority regulations were not implicated in this matter, the Commissioner did not reach to petitioner's allegations that his seniority rights were violated during the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years. Petition was dismissed.

J. Peter Sokol, Esq., for respondent (McOmber & McOmber, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 12, 1996 Decided: April 19, 1996

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Edward Carpenito, alleges that his seniority and/or tenure rights were violated when the Board of Education of the Borough of Rumson (Board) abolished his teaching position and failed to assign him to a newly created position.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was held on December 13, 1995, at which, among other things, the parties agreed upon the issues to be resolved by this tribunal and the parties were granted leave to file cross-motions for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

ISSUE

The sole issue for determination, as agreed upon by the parties, is this:

> Whether the Board violated petitioner's tenure and/or seniority rights when it failed to establish a preferred eligible list, subsequent to its action to abolish petitioner's social studies teaching position and, thereafter, created the position of 7th grade social studies and employed a non-tenure staff member to fill the new position?

The parties submitted their respective motions and briefs in support and opposition to petitioner's application for summary disposition. In evaluating whether a matter is ripe for summary decision, we must first turn to New Jersey Court Rule 4:46, which sets forth the procedures for bringing a motion for summary judgment. The rule allows "[a] party seeking any affirmative relief, ... [to] move for a summary judgment or order in his favor upon all or any part thereof or as to any defense."

This procedure, which is incorporated into N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method of disposing of any cause, which a discriminating search of the merits in the pleadings, depositions and admissions on file, together with the affidavits submitted on the motion, clearly show not to present any genuine issues of material fact requiring disposition at trial. Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The standard applied in determining whether a summary judgment should be granted was set forth by Justice Brennan in Judson, at 74:

> The standard of decision governing the grant or denial of a summary judgment emphasize that a party opposing a motion is not to be denied a trial unless the moving party sustains the burden of showing clearly the absence of genuine issues of material fact. At the same time, the standards are to be applied with a discriminating care so as not to defeat a summary judgment if the movant is justly entitled to one.

Having carefully considered and evaluated the record before me, I CONCLUDE, pursuant to the Judson, supra. criteria, that the instant matter is ripe for summary disposition.

II. ADDITIONAL FACTS

1. Prior to the commencement of the 1993-94 academic year, the petitioner's 7th grade social studies position was abolished due to declining enrollment. As a result of the abolishment of that position, the petitioner was assigned to full time employment teaching computer applications to 7th and 8th grade students, as well as Health and Basic Skills courses during 1993 and 1994.

2. During the 1994-95 and the 1995-96 school years, the petitioner was assigned to teach computer applications to grades 5 through 8, as well as a Basic Skills course.

3. Grades 7 and 8 in the respondent district are departmentalized, where as grades 4, 5, and 6 are not.

4. In or about April of 1995, the respondent school district posted a number of positions, the same designation previously taught by the petitioner. The petitioner submitted an application for this position and during May of 1995, a non-tenured teacher from outside the Rumson School District was appointed to the 7th grade social studies position, despite the application of the petitioner. (A copy of the Posting is attached hereto as Exhibit A.)

Respondent does not object to the Stipulation of Facts as set forth above. However, it is respondent's position that certain facts need elaboration based upon information supplied to the Board's counsel. First, the social studies position formerly held by petitioner was abolished, however, the Board's counsel had no information to suggest that the reason given was because of "declining enrollment." Second, counsel has been advised that grades 7 and 8 are not departmentalized in the conventional sense, rather, the Board uses the "middle school concept."

PETITIONER'S ARGUMENT

Initially, it is the position of the petitioner that the 7th grade social studies position which he had established seniority and which was abolished prior to the 1992-93 school year, was a position which he was entitled to reclaim, when same was reestablished in the District last spring. The Board's apparent defense to this initial argument would appear to be that a reduction in force did not take place due to the reassignment of the petitioner to another full time position. Therefore, any seniority or other rights he may have acquired in the position would not be manifest when the position was re-established several years later. In order for the Administrative Law Judge to accept that defense, two essential facts must be established in relation thereto.

The Board must demonstrate that the absence of a classic reduction in force regarding the petitioner obviates his rights in connection therewith. While the petitioner concedes that he was not severed from the school district, he strenuously contends that the abolishment of the position acted in a similar fashion to a reduction in force and triggered the same type of responsibility on behalf of the Board. See, for example, Fallis v. Plainfield Bd. of Ed., 1985 S.L.D. 264. Certainly, N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 establishes his rights when a position is either abolished or a teacher is riffed. When a vacancy occurs in the same category, the teacher is entitled to claim it. See N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(I).

In addition to the abstract evaluation of the argument set forth above, the Administrative Law Judge is presented with a second problem in considering the Board's defense that the reassignment prevents activation of the rights set forth above. Although the petitioner was originally assigned to teach computer applications in the 7th and 8th grade departmentalized areas, beginning in 1994, he was reassigned to a similar computer teaching position involving grades 4 through 8, and that assignment persists up to the present. Teachers acquire seniority either in elementary, secondary or district wide categories. Since grades 4, 5, and 6 are apparently self contained, they fall under the elementary category. In light of the Commissioner's decision in Taxman v. Bd. of Ed. of Piscataway Twp., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (Edu) 189, aff'd. State Bd. of Ed. (Sept. 1, 1993), teachers with any relevant endorsement can be assigned to teach computer related courses in they are not particularly sophisticated courses. Therefore, it can be reasonably argued that the initial reassignment probably did not violate Mr. Carpenito's seniority rights.

However, the current assignment involves teaching 4th, 5th and 6th grade computer applications, thereby involving the elementary area where he is not certified. The sum and substance of this concept is quite straight forward. The abolishment of his position has now resulted in his assignment to an elementary category, and he appears to have a clear entitlement to assert his right to the social studies position, as a result of his current assignment. Clearly, that argument is in line with the intent and motivation of the seniority regulations.

While it is conceded that there is no specific requirement that a particularized endorsement is necessary to instruct in computer applications, it is obvious that such an assignment cannot be utilized to frustrate tenure rights or seniority rights which arise as a result of a reduction in force or the abolishment of a position. See, for example, L.C. Morgan v. Bd. of Ed. of the Twp. of Wayne, 1991 S.L.D. 2578, State Bd. of Ed. Dec. (Nov. 6, 1991). While the original assignment may have survived scrutiny under this type of application, the current assignment clearly does not. The petitioner was entitled to claim the vacancy which existed last spring and this entitlement cannot be avoided by the Board by placing him in an elementary designation which is not in accordance with the endorsements that he holds.

THE BOARD'S POSITION

SUMMARY OF PETITIONER'S ARGUMENT

Petitioner, a tenured teacher teaching computer and basic skills, claims an entitlement to a 7th grade social studies position presently occupied by a non-tenured employee.

Petitioner argues a three-step analysis. First, petitioner argues that he does not have the proper endorsements to his teaching certificate to teach computer applications to elementary school children even though petitioner is also teaching computer applications to 7th and 8th grades and English in a basic skills format. Secondly, petitioner argues that such an assignment translates into a de facto reduction in force, entitling him to be placed on a preferred eligibility list for the social studies position. Lastly, since the position is occupied by a non-tenured teaching staff member, petitioner, as a tenured teaching staff member, claims an entitlement to the "vacant" position since it is currently occupied by the non-tenured staff member. Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Ed., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987) and Capodilupo v. West Orange Bd Ed., 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987).

SUMMARY OF RESPONDENT'S ARGUMENT

In essence, petitioner attempts to dictate his position of employment in spite of N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1, which permits a board of education to transfer teaching staff members. Admittedly, a teaching staff member may only be transferred to appropriate assignments, that is, where the position's description matches the teaching staff member's certification and endorsements, but even where such assignments may be inappropriate, the teaching staff member may not dictate his position of employment to a board of education.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

POINT I

THE PETITIONER'S PRESENT POSITION TEACHING COMPUTER SKILLS TO FOURTH, FIFTH, SIXTH, SEVENTH AND EIGHTH GRADERS, AS WELL AS TEACHING THE ENGLISH PORTION OF BASIC SKILLS, ARE APPROPRIATE ASSIGNMENTS, GIVEN PETITIONER'S CERTIFICATIONS AND ENDORSEMENTS.

Presently, petitioner holds an instructional certificate with endorsements to teach English, social studies and science to K-12 students and teaches computer skills to 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th graders. As petitioner concedes in its moving brief, the instruction of computer applications does not require a particular endorsement to the teaching certificate, citing, Taxman v. Bd. of Ed. of Piscataway Twp., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (Edu) 189, 191, but petitioner then asserts that his teaching an elementary school class[10] even though he is not teaching the subjects of reading, writing arithmetic and spelling.

Petitioner's argument stems from his instructional certificate. As a general rule, all instructional endorsements are valid at every grade level and as the Stipulation of Facts disclose, petitioner holds a K-12 certificate. Of the three exceptions to the general rule only one exception may have some application here, which is that elementary endorsements are valid only for teaching nursery through 8th grade students. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.1. The converse of the exception, which is petitioner's argument, is not the standard. Teachers with any endorsement to the teaching certificate may teach specific areas, such as computer applications, to elementary students. In Morgan v. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Wayne, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (Edu) 122, the State Board of Education, in remanding there, distinguished a decision relied upon by the Commissioner of Education, writing:

> Petitioners in South River, dismissed teachers on a preferred eligibility list, challenged the district board's requirement that individual teaching a K-5 computer literacy course hold an elementary certification and also possess nine academic credits in computer science. The Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's determination that the district board did not have the prerogative to impose such an additional requirement so as to preclude claims to the assignment based on seniority. In annalyzing the appropriate certification for the specific assignment at issue therein, the State Board concurred with the Administrative Law Judge's finding that the certification regulations contained no endorsement specifically authorizing the teaching of computer literacy in the elementary schools. (Emphasis Added)

Thus, petitioner's argument here has been addressed and rejected. The South River Board of Education was not permitted to impose upon teaching candidates the requirement of an elementary endorsement to teach computer literacy to elementary students because no endorsement, such as an elementary endorsement, is specifically required to teach computer literacy to elementary school students. If it was clear such an elementary endorsement was necessary to teach computer literacy to elementary school students, the South River Board's requirement would have upheld.

Since no particular endorsement is required for the teaching of computer related courses, then any endorsement to the instructional certificate may serve as a basis for teaching computer applications to all students. To argue that petitioner's teaching of computer skills cannot be provided to elementary school children, unless he holds an elementary endorsement, is directly counter to his K-12 endorsements and the general principal espoused in Taxman. Moreover, it had been rejected. Morgan, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d 122. Lastly, no policy, practice or logic supports insisting that a teacher, teaching specific computer skills to elementary school children, hold an elementary endorsement because the elementary subjects of reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling are not being taught or are relevant to computer skills.

POINT II

ASSUMING, ARGUENDO, PETITIONER'S ENDORSEMENT ARGUMENT, PETITIONER IS NOT ENTITLED TO DICTATE POSITION TO RESPONDENT

Petitioner is tenured in the district and in the specific position of teacher. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 6. Being tenured as a teacher, the teaching staff member can neither be dismissed nor reduced in compensation without recourse to the Tenure Employees Hearing Act at N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et. seq. Since petitioner is a tenured teacher in the district, petitioner is entitled to such protections against losing his position to a non-tenured employee. See, Grosso v. New Providence Bd. of Ed., St. Bd. of Ed. 90 S.L.D. 1750.

SUBPOINT A.

THE BOARD MAY TRANSFER TEACHERS TO TEACHING POSITIONS

Yet, the Board of Education may transfer teaching staff members. N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1. Here, petitioner was transferred within his tenure position of teacher. Although petitioner probably did not consent to the transfer, tenure does not accord him any protection if the transfer is within his tenure position, which in this case, is teacher. See, Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Ed., 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), cert. denied, 87 N.J. 300 (1981). In a reduction of force, a tenured employee's seniority may act to prevent a transfer from his or her tenure positions unless consent is given. See, Mustil v. North Bergen Bd. of Ed., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (Edu) 167, Farley v. North Bergen Twp. of Ed., 705 F. Supp. 223 (D.N.J. 1989) and Ayoub v. South Plainfield Bd. of Ed., 88 S.L.D. 941.

In this case, no reduction in force took place and petitioner was transferred from one teaching position to another teaching position, the same tenure position.

SUBPOINT B.

TENURED TEACHERS WHO CONTINUE IN THEIR TENURE POSITIONS HAVE NO TENURE ENTITLEMENTS OR SENIORITY RIGHTS OVER OTHER TEACHERS

Since the petitioner has never lost his teaching position, he has no tenure entitlement to a particular assignment over a non-tenured teacher. See Bednar, supra and Capodilupo, supra. In addition, petitioner has no seniority entitlement to any particular assignment over fellow tenured teachers unless there has been a reduction in force, causing the abolishment of his position. N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1. Without a reduction in force, tenure and seniority entitlements are inapplicable because seniority governs the relationship between tenured persons and tenure protects a teacher's position. Grosso v. New Providence Bd. of Ed., 90 S.L.D. 1750.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The facts of this matter clearly demonstrates tht the 7th grade social studies position held by petitioner was abolished by Board action prior to the 1992-93 school year. The Board's position that it is not certian that the abolitiion of the position was due to a decrease in pupil enrollment, as alleged by petitioner, is of no moment. The fact remains that the position held by petitioner and to which he had acquired a tenure status was abolished by Board action, giving the effect of a reduction in force (R.F) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. The Board's subsequent action to transfer and assign petitioner to another employment position under N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1, was clearly within the authority and discretion of the Board. Fallis, supra. 1985 S.L.D. at 272-273. Given the facts in this matter, however, the Board's transfer of petitioner to another position acted as an accomendation to a tenured teaching staff member, for the advantage of the Board, to fill an available postition.

The facts further demonstrate that in or about April 1995, the Board acted to reinstate the 7th grade social studies position for the 1995096 school year, the position from which petitioner had effectively been the subject of a RIF prior to the 1992-93 school year. Although petitioner was not dismissed from the Board's employ, he was dismissed from a position to which he had acquired a tenure status and transferred to another position. The Board elected not to place respondent in the reinstated position even after he requested that it do so. Rather, the Board placed a non-tenured teaching staff member in the position formerly held by petitioner. There has been no showing that petitioner has in any manner, attempted to dictate to the Board his employment position as alleged by the Board. Rather, he merely attempts to assert his tenure/seniority rights.

The Court, in Bednar, supra. summarizes the tenure and seniority statutes and the rights attendant thereto as follows:

> The tenure statute authorizes the creation of seniority regulations to rank the job rights of tenured teaching staff in a RIF. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-13. Lichtman v. Ridgewood Bd. of Ed., 93 N.J. 362, 368 n. 4 (1983); Capodilupo v. West Orange Tp. Ed. Bd., 218 N.J. Super. 510, 514 (App. Div. 1987). The statute does not create or authorize the Commissioner to create competing rights for non-tenured teachers. Under current regulations, seniority is measured by years of employment in specific job categories which are normally narrower than the subject fields which are endorsed on teachers' certificates. See N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(b).
> Seniority is a statutory concept created by Chapter 28 of Title 18A, a chapter which deals only with the various aspects of tenure. Old Bridge Tp. Bd. of Educ. v. Old Bridge Educ. Ass'n., 98 N.J. 523, 531 (1985). It does not purport to create employment rights for non-tenured employees. This court has thus held that non-tenured teachers whose contracts are not renewed by reason of a RIF are not entitled to the reemployment rights conferred by Chapter 28. Union City Bd. of Ed. v. Union

> City Teach. Assn., 145 N.J. Super. 435 (App. Div. 1976), certif. den. 74 N.J. 248 (1977). Chapter 28 surely does not contemplate use of the concept of seniority to justify retaining a non-tenured teacher in a position within the certificate of a dismissed tenured teacher. Capodilupo v. West Orange Tp. Ed., Bd. supra. 221 N.J. Super. at 242.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the Board's action to abolish petitioner's position of 7th grade social studies teacher acted as a RIF, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. I CONCLUDE that the Board failed to execute and comply with a preferred eligible list and establish petitioner's seniority status pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner is entitled to claim the 7th grade social studies teaching position which he held and for which he was certified prior to the RIF. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that petitioner should be returned to the position he formerly held before the Board acted to abolish it.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Board of Education at the Borough of Rumson, reinstate petitioner and assign him to the position of 7th grade social studies teacher.

Summary decision is, therefore, entered on behalf of petitioner, Edward E. Carpenito, and the Board's motion in opposition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8576-95

EDWARD CARPENITO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RUMSON, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a), in that the initial decision was mailed to the parties on May 3, 1993 and the exceptions were filed on May 17, 1996. Accordingly, neither the exceptions nor the reply thereto is considered herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to reverse the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), for the reasons set forth below, inasmuch as he is not persuaded that the circumstances herein support the conclusion that petitioner was subject to a reduction in force (RIF), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

Initially, the Commissioner observes that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 provides:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district

> whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article. (emphasis added)

The Commissioner is further mindful that the meaning of a statute is first derived by looking at its plain language. Chase Manhattan Bank v. Josephson, 135 N.J. 209 (1994). Where that language is clear and unambiguous, "it will be given effect 'absent any specific indication of legislative intent to the contrary.'" (emphasis in text) Chase Manhattan Bank at 225. Clearly, the above statute, as well as N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10 and 28-11, contemplates a reduction in the number of staff employed in the district.

In the instant matter, although the record supports the conclusion that petitioner's social studies position was "abolished" prior to the commencement of the 1993-94 school year, the reason for such elimination is not clear. Petitioner's employment with the District was not terminated. Indeed, there is no indication that any staff member's employment was terminated. Nor does petitioner allege that he suffered a reduction in salary as a result of his transfer to the position of teacher of computer applications so as to implicate his tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. Essentially, there was no consequence for petitioner which flowed from the transfer, other than his claim that he now occupies a different seniority category, since he teaches computer applications to the elementary grades and his position as a social studies teacher was, for seniority purposes, in a secondary category.

Moreover, the Commissioner is not persuaded that the circumstances in Fallis, supra, lend support to petitioner's claim that he was subjected to a RIF. In Fallis, that the ALJ and the Commissioner concluded petitioner was subjected to a reduction in force was based on the unanticipated budget constraints and administrative reorganization which accompanied the abolishment of Fallis' position. Fallis, supra, at 275. By contrast, in the instant matter, there is no evidence that the elimination of petitioner's position was driven by anything other than the Board's decision to exercise its managerial prerogative to determine appropriate staff assignments for its school system. In any event, to the extent the holding in Fallis, supra, is inconsistent with the Commissioner's holding in the instant matter, Fallis is rejected as determinative case law under these circumstances.

Where there is no reduction in force or loss of employment and where tenure rights have not been impacted by a transfer, as the Commissioner so finds, the seniority regulations which were established to effectuate N.J.S.A 18A:28-9 et seq. do not attach:[1]

> It is basic education law that seniority is a concept which applies to certain rights of tenured personnel and the concept only has meaning where a reduction in force is necessary in the judgment of the Board under its authority at N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and then when the Board takes action to reduce the number of teaching staff members employed in the district.
> The language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, from which the seniority rights conferred by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 explicitly flow, plainly speaks to "the number of teaching staff members employed in the district" and, thus, has no applicability to a situation where the total number of teachers was not reduced. Guy Ciarcia v. Bd. of Education of the City of Trenton, 1991 S.L.D. 1422, 1425, 1426, 1429.

Notwithstanding that the Board does not dispute that petitioner's social studies position was "abolished," under the particular circumstances in this matter, to accept petitioner's argument that such elimination, absent attendant tenure violation(s), supra, nevertheless compels

[1] While the language of the regulations governing seniority found at N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 et seq. appears to be quite broad, such regulations were promulgated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 et seq., and must be read consistent with that statute.

the application of the seniority regulations, would constitute a capitulation to semantics at the expense of sound educational policy. To so permit would unnecessarily restrict the Board in the exercise of its broad powers to govern and manage its schools, including the power to transfer teachers to alternative teaching assignments, either voluntarily or involuntarily, within the scope of their certificates, thereby establishing an optimal staffing configuration. The Commissioner recognizes that "[a] tenured teacher may be 'transferred' or reassigned within the scope of the endorsements on his or her Instructional Certificate  but may not be transferred involuntarily from one position to another." Howley v. Ewing Township Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 1328, at 1340, aff'd State Board June 1, 1983. Here, petitioner was not transferred to a different position, in that he remained a teacher. As the Board correctly notes, petitioner's argument that he is not properly certified to teach the fourth, fifth and sixth grades must also fail in light of Taxman, supra, which established that a teacher of computers need only possess an instructional certificate; there is no requirement for a specific endorsement. Taxman, supra, at 191.

Inasmuch as petitioner was not terminated from employment with the District, did not suffer a reduction in salary, and was transferred from one teaching position to another teaching position for which he is properly certificated, the Commissioner must reject petitioner's contention that the abolishment of his social studies position "acted in a similar fashion to a reduction in force and triggered the same type of responsibility on behalf of the Board." (Initial Decision at p. 6) Instead, the Commissioner finds that the Board acted pursuant to its managerial prerogative to transfer teaching staff members, and that petitioner has failed to establish that said transfer was improper. Since seniority regulations are not implicated in this matter, the Commissioner does not reach to petitioner's allegations that his seniority rights were violated during the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is reversed, as set forth herein, and the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

EDWARD CARPENITO,	:
PETITIONER-APPELLANT,	:
V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RUMSON, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 21, 1996

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Chamlin, Rosen, Cavanagh & Uliano (Thomas W. Cavanagh, Jr., Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, McOmber & McOmber (J. Peter Sokol, Esq., of Counsel)

Edward Carpenito (hereinafter "petitioner"), a tenured teaching staff member, had been employed by the Board of Education of the Borough of Rumson (hereinafter "Board") as a teacher of seventh-grade social studies when the Board acted pursuant to its authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 to reduce the number of teachers in the district by eliminating one social studies position prior to the commencement of the 1993-94 school year.[1] Petitioner was serving in the position so abolished. The Board thereupon employed petitioner on a full-time basis as a teacher of health, basic skills and computer applications. In May 1995, the Board appointed a non-tenured individual to a newly-established position teaching seventh-grade social studies.

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 provides:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of

Petitioner filed the instant petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board had violated his tenure and seniority rights in failing to reinstate him to that newly-created position. Petitioner also claimed that the Board had violated his rights in assigning a non-tenured teacher to teach eighth-grade social studies in 1994-95.[2] During proceedings in the Office of Administrative Law, the parties filed cross-motions for summary decision.

On April 19, 1996, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") recommended granting petitioner's motion for summary decision. The ALJ concluded that the Board's action in abolishing petitioner's position had acted as a reduction in force ("RIF"). He found that "[t]he Board's subsequent action to transfer and assign petitioner to another employment position...was clearly within the authority and discretion of the Board. [Citation omitted.] Given the facts in this matter, however, the transfer of petitioner to another position acted as an accommendation [sic] to a tenured staff member, for the advantage of the Board, to fill an available position." Initial Decision, slip op. at 12-13. The ALJ noted that although petitioner had not been dismissed from the Board's employ, he had been "dismissed from a position to which he had acquired a tenure status and transferred to another position." Id. at 13. Consequently, the ALJ concluded pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

[2] We note that petitioner did not pursue his claim to the eighth-grade social studies assignment.

that petitioner was entitled to the newly-created position teaching seventh-grade social studies as against a non-tenured teacher.

On August 21, 1996, the Commissioner rejected the ALJ's recommendation and dismissed the petition. The Commissioner was not persuaded that petitioner had been subject to a RIF, noting that although the record supported the conclusion that petitioner's position had been abolished, there had been no consequences to petitioner of such action since his employment had not been terminated and he had not suffered a reduction in his salary. Instead, the Commissioner found that the Board had acted pursuant to its managerial prerogative to transfer teaching staff members, and that petitioner had failed to establish that such transfer was improper.

Petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

On October 15, 1997, our Legal Committee issued its initial report in this matter, in which it recommended reversing the Commissioner's determination that petitioner had not been subject to a reduction in force but affirming his ultimate determination to dismiss the petition. Upon further reflection in light of exceptions filed to that report by the parties, the Legal Committee found it necessary to issue a revised report on December 17, 1997. After a careful review of the record, including the exceptions filed in response to the revised report of the Legal Committee, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner.

Initially, we find that, as the ALJ correctly determined, petitioner was affected by a reduction in force when the Board acted to abolish his position teaching seventh-grade social studies prior to the 1993-94 school year. This is not a case in which the Board, as it now urges, simply "transferred [petitioner] from one teaching position to another teaching position." Answer brief, at 4. Rather, the Board acted to eliminate one social studies teacher pursuant to the authority granted it by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 prior to the commencement of that school year. The fact that petitioner's employment was ultimately continued in another full-time assignment without any reduction in his compensation does not nullify such action, although it may affect the relief to which he is entitled. Sheffield v. New Jersey State Department of Human Services, decided by the State Board of Education, November 2, 1994; Parker and Pellegrino v. Board of Education of the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, decided by the State Board of Education, May 2, 1990.[3]

We note, moreover, that although the specific reason for the elimination of petitioner's position is not established in the record, petitioner has not challenged its validity. In addition, we agree with petitioner that this case is analogous to Fallis v. Board of Education of the Borough of Plainfield, decided by the Commissioner, 1985 S.L.D. 264, aff'd by the State Board, 1985 S.L.D. 281, in which a tenured assistant principal serving at the high school level was reassigned to a middle school assistant principalship with no reduction in compensation after his high school position was abolished. The Commissioner stressed in that case that the assistant principal's seniority rights were triggered "irrespective of the fact he was neither dismissed nor reduced in salary." Fallis, supra, at 279. Thus, notwithstanding the Commissioner's concern that recognizing petitioner's tenure and seniority rights in this case would "unnecessarily restrict the Board in the exercise of its broad powers to govern and manage its schools," Commissioner's decision, slip op. at 19, the law is clear that petitioner was subject to a reduction in force when the Board eliminated his social studies position prior to the 1993-94 school year.

We turn, therefore, to consideration of petitioner's claim that, as a result of such RIF, he was entitled by virtue of his tenure status to the seventh-grade social studies position when it was reestablished by the Board in 1995. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 requires that a tenured teaching staff member affected by a reduction in force "shall be and remain upon a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified and he shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs...." N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(i) provides that:

> (i) Whenever any person's particular employment shall be abolished in a category, he or she shall be given that employment in the same category to which he or she is entitled by seniority. If he or she shall have insufficient seniority for employment in the same category, he or she shall revert to the category in which he or she held employment prior to his or her employment in the same category and shall be placed and remain upon the preferred eligible list of the category from which he or she reverted until a vacancy shall occur in such category to which his or her seniority entitles him or her.

Moreover, it is now well established that a staff member dismissed as the result of a reduction in force has tenure protection in all assignments within the scope of his certificate as against a non-tenured individual. Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Ed., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987), certif. denied, 110 N.J. 512 (1988).

In this instance, petitioner, who had achieved tenure under his instructional certificate, was employed in another full-time teaching assignment with no reduction in compensation after his position teaching social studies was abolished prior to the 1993-94 school year. Thereafter, in May 1995, the Board appointed a non-tenured individual to a vacancy in a newly-established position teaching seventh-grade social studies. The Board could not appoint a tenured teacher to that position who had less seniority than petitioner in the applicable category. Fallis, supra. Nor could the Board dilute petitioner's tenure rights by affording a non-tenured teacher "seniority" in that position. Bednar, supra. Consequently, we conclude that petitioner was entitled to the newly-created seventh-grade social studies position as against a non-tenured individual.

We therefore reverse the decision of the Commissioner and direct the Board to reassign petitioner to the position teaching seventh-grade social studies.[4]

Attorney exceptions are noted.

[4] We note that our decision herein does not alter the ability of a district board to exercise its prerogative to reassign its teaching staff members within the scope of their instructional certificates. See supra note 3. We note, in addition, that the transfer of employees between work sites is not mandatorily negotiable and that "no employer shall transfer an employee for disciplinary reasons." Record Closed: July 2, 1996 Decided: July 3, 1996

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 28, 1996, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared an agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

eligibility of petitioner, who turned 19 years of age prior to September 1, 1996, and would, therefore, be ineligible to participate in sports for the 1996-97 school year pursuant to Article V, Section 4C of the NJSIAA Bylaws (NJSIAA Handbook, 1995-96, at 37). On February 14, 1996, petitioner's request for a waiver of the age requirement was considered by the Association's Eligibility Committee, which denied the request by a vote of 5-0. On March 13, 1996, an appeal hearing was conducted by NJSIAA's EAC. After considering the evidence, the EAC, by a vote of 3-2, denied petitioner's request to obtain a waiver of the age rule so that he could participate on the football team. However, a waiver was granted to permit petitioner to permit him to participate in track and other non-contact sports. The EAC issued a written decision on March 22, 1996.

The undisputed facts are as follows: William Salvatori turned 19 on August 24, 1996, seven days prior to the September 1, 1996 eligibility cutoff date imposed by NJSIAA's rules. He attended public schools in the Secaucus School District through seventh grade. William was retained in fourth grade and again in seventh grade due to learning disabilities. Since 1991, he has been classified as perceptually impaired. After his family moved, William completed the eighth grade in the Little Ferry School District, and, in 1993, entered Ridgefield Park High School, a receiving district to Little Ferry, as a ninth grader. William played football in high school during his freshman, sophomore and junior years.

PETITIONER'S POSITION

Petitioner argues that his learning disabilities are organically based and his retentions in elementary school were not, therefore, his fault.[1] Had he not been left back on two

[1] In his reply brief, petitioner strongly objects to NJSIAA's statement, infra, that "the record in this case demonstrates that the Petitioner was actually capable of performing academically at a much higher level than his peers." (Petitioner's Reply Brief at p. 13) Petitioner views this statement as an effort to cast blame on him for being a learning disabled student. He maintains that the testimony established that, notwithstanding that a student occasions, he would have completed his senior year prior to his 19th birthday and would have been eligible to participate in interscholastic sports for four years. (Petition of Appeal, Exhibit B at p. 2) Petitioner further asserts that the Child Study Team recognizes that his participation in interscholastic sports, particularly football, has been a significant motivation to assist him in overcoming his disability. He contends, that, as result of such participation, his grades and attitude in school have improved. (Id.)

Petitioner argues that the NJSIAA's failure to permit a waiver of the eligibility rule constitutes a violation of Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), 42 U.S.C. Section 12132, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, 29 U.S.C. Section 794, and 42 U.S.C. Section 1983. (Petition of Appeal at p. 3; Exhibit B at p. 3)

Asserting that the NJSIAA is an "instrumentality of a State or Local Government and is thus a 'public entity' subject to the provisions of ADA," (Id. at p. 3) petitioner, observes that the ADA provides that > no qualified individual with a disability shall, by reason of such disability, be excluded from participation in or be denied the benefits of the services, programs, or activities of a public entity, or be subject to discrimination by such entity. (42 U.S.C. Section 12132)

The ADA defines a "qualified individual with a disability" as > an individual with a disability who, with or without reasonable modifications to rules, policies or practices  meets the essential eligibility requirements for the receipt of services or the participation in programs or activities provided by a public entity. (42 U.S.C. 12131 (2))

may, in an aptitude test, demonstrate an aptitude above grade level in certain subject areas, the results are not necessarily significant where the student, because of his learning disabilities, is unable to reach that level of ability in a classroom. (Id.)

Petitioner affirms that he is a "qualified individual with a disability," as defined by the ADA, and as such, the NJSIAA is required to make "reasonable modifications" and to waive the eligibility requirements. (Petition of Appeal, Exhibit B at p. 4) He contends that, but for the age requirement, he meets all of the NJSIAA's eligibility requirements. That NJSIAA should modify the age standard would not, according to petitioner, "fundamentally alter the nature of NJSIAA's services, programs or activities. " (Id. at p. 5) Thus, petitioner concludes, modifying the age requirement would be a "reasonable accommodation" compelled by the ADA.

Further, petitioner argues that Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 supports his right to participate in interscholastic sports. That is, the Act provides

> No otherwise qualified individual with handicaps  shall, solely by reason of her or his handicap, be excluded from the participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance . (29 U.S.C. Section 794 (a))

Again claiming that the NJSIAA is subject to the rules and provisions of the Act as a federally assisted program[2], petitioner maintains that he is an individual with a handicap who is "otherwise qualified," and has been excluded from participation in a federally assisted program "solely" because of his handicap. (Petition of Appeal, Exhibit B at p. 6) Petitioner contends that the issue is not whether he meets all the eligibility criteria, but to what extent the NJSIAA is required to make reasonable accommodations to meet his disabilities. (Id.)

Petitioner further argues that if there is wrongful discrimination under the Rehabilitation Act or the ADA, such discrimination would also be wrongful under 42 U.S.C. Section 1983, which "provides that any person who, under color of State law, subjects any citizen of the United States to deprivation of any rights secured by the Constitution or laws of the

[2] Petitioner states, "Although not a direct recipient of federal funding, NJSIAA receives funding from its member schools, most of which are direct recipients of federal funding." (Petition of Appeal, Exhibit B at p. 5)

United States, shall be liable to the party injured in an action at law or equity." (Id. at p. 7) Petitioner argues that to preclude him from participating in interscholastic sports would cause him irreparable harm and "would cause a regression or perhaps retrogression of [his] improved performance academically, emotionally and socially." (Id. at p. 8)

Petitioner finds support for his position in, inter alia, Johnson v. Florida High School Activities Association, Inc., 899 F. Supp. 579 (M.D. Fla. 1995). There, a handicapped student brought action against a state high school activities association for enforcing its age requirement, thus prohibiting the student's participation in high school sports. Here, the Court examined the purposes of the age requirement (i.e., safety and fairness) and found that these purposes were not undermined by the plaintiff's participation in interscholastic activities.[3] (Id. at 585) Similarly, petitioner argues that although he is larger than the average football player, he is not larger than the average nose guard. (Petitioner's Reply Brief at p. 10) Moreover, petitioner strongly objects to NJSIAA's "efforts to try to state that [he] was being 'red-shirted' for an additional year." (Id. at p. 11)

Additionally, petitioner cites to Dennin v. Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference, 913 F. Supp. 663 (D. Conn. 1996), where the Court ordered the Athletic Conference to waive its eligibility rule and permit a student who turned 19 prior to September 1 to participate on the high school's swim team. (Petitioner's Supplemental Brief at p. 5) Petitioner states

> As in the present case, the Connecticut student's participation in athletics increased his self esteem and social skills and was considered sufficiently important to his development. The Court held that waiving the age eligibility rule was a "reasonable accommodation" and should be granted. (Id. at pp. 5, 6)

Petitioner further argues that the Dennin Court fairly addresses many of the arguments raised by respondent, infra, particularly with respect to respondent's concerns about the potential for abuses of the rules, were a waiver to be granted. (Petitioner's Reply Brief at p. 7) Petitioner underscores that Dennin does not require NJSIAA to grant waivers to all individuals who fail to meet the age eligibility requirement but, rather, to those who are disabled individuals, under the Rehabilitation Act. (Id.)

Additionally, petitioner asserts that the age rule considered by the Court in University Interscholastic League v. Buchanan, 848 *S.W.*2d 298 (Tex. App. Austin 1993) was essentially the same as that in the NJSIAA rules. (Petitioner's Reply Brief at p. 4) Notwithstanding respondent's attempts to distinguish this case, petitioner argues that the Texas case "closely parallels" the instant matter. There, the Court found that the trial court did not err in enjoining the enforcement of the over-19 rule imposed by the University Interscholastic League against learning disabled high school athletes. University Interscholastic League v. Buchanan, supra, at 303.

Acknowledging that there is contrary case law, petitioner points out that there are no Third Circuit cases involving the issues in this matter. Therefore, there is no precedent by which New Jersey must be bound, and the reasoning and holdings of other District Courts may be "equitably applied in other judicial circuits." (Petitioner's Reply Brief at p. 6)

Petitioner reviews the testimony presented at the hearing before the EAC which, he argues, established that his improvements in school occurred as a direct result of his participation in high school football. (Petitioner's Supplemental Brief at p. 6)

Finally, petitioner argues that the NJSIAA's claim that he should have participated as an eighth grader is without merit and not applicable in this case. (Id. at p. 13) Petitioner argues

> Respondent has stated that the By-laws of the NJSIAA permit a student to play four years, by participating as an eighth grader if he would not be eligible to participate as a twelfth grader. They have taken the position that the Ridgefield Park Athletic Department should have notified all seventh grade students in Little Ferry of this rule ***.
> There does not appear to be anything in the Respondent's By-Laws or regulations that would compel a school district, such as Ridgefield Park, to be obligated to go to another school district because of a sending-receiving relationship and inform their seventh grade students of this right to play high school athletics in the eighth grade ***.
> Even if Ridgefield Park spoke to each and every seventh grader who attended school in Little Ferry prior to the end of the seventh grade,  [petitioner] would never have been notified, as he did not attend seventh grade in Little Ferry. He attended seventh grade in Secaucus." (Id. at pp. 13, 14)

Moreover, petitioner argues that the NJSIAA's Bylaws with respect to eighth grade student players, infra, are inapplicable in the present matter since petitioner, as an eighth grader, was not enrolled in a member school. (Petitioner's Reply Brief at p. 12) Thus, under these circumstances, petitioner maintains that it would be "patently unfair" to penalize him.

RESPONDENT'S POSITION

Respondent NJSIAA underscores that the purpose of the age rule is to help "reduce the competitive advantage flowing to teams using older athletes and discourages student-athletes from delaying their education to gain athletic maturity." (Respondent's Letter Brief at p. 4) Respondent further cites to the NJSIAA's Bylaws which allow a student who may become 19 years old prior to September 1 to play four years of high school sports by requesting a waiver of the Bylaws, Article V, Section 4.I while in either sixth, seventh or eighth grade at a member school. (Id. at pp. 4, 5) NJSIAA claims that petitioner could have played on the Ridgefield Park team in the eighth grade. However, he was never advised by the school district that he had this option. (Id. at p. 9)

Respondent argues that it is uncontraverted that petitioner is an outstanding football player on an excellent team. He is 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighs 250 pounds, and has played varsity football for three years. (Id. at pp. 5, 6) Respondent notes petitioner's achievements and honors as a football player, track athlete and wrestler. Further, NJSIAA asserts that petitioner "is much larger than the average high school football player. He aspires to be a professional athlete." (Id. at p. 23) The Association notes that "[f]ootball is a contact sport and [petitioner's] substantial size clearly implicates the health and safety concerns behind the rule." (Id.)

Respondent reviews petitioner's academic strengths and weaknesses, as contained in his Individual Education Plan (IEP), the results of petitioner's 1991 Learning Evaluation, 1993 Educational Evaluation, 1993 Psychological Evaluation, and 1993 Social History. (Respondent's Letter Brief at pp. 6-8) The NJSIAA concludes that "the record in this case demonstrates that the petitioner was actually capable of performing academically at a much higher level than his peers. His reading and comprehension skills were 2 or 3 years ahead of his classmates." (Id. at p. 23)

NJSIAA maintains that the 19-year-old rule does not violate Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act or the ADA.[4] Noting that the Commissioner has consistently upheld the rule, NJSIAA cites Pottgen v. Missouri State High School Activities Association, 40 *F.*2d 926 (8th Circuit 1994) wherein the Court determined that the handicapped student barred from eligibility by the 19-year-old rule was not an "'otherwise qualified' individual" entitling him to relief under Section 504. "In so holding, the Circuit Court found the reasons for the age rule to be of 'immense importance in any interscholastic program.'" (Id. at p. 12, citing Pottgen, supra, at 929) Citing the Court's rationale for the age rule, respondent continues

[4] It is herein noted that the NJSIAA does not dispute that it is a "public entity" or a recipient of federal funding.

> The rationale supporting the age rule is virtually identical to the reasons set forth by the NJSIAA in maintaining a similar eligibility provision. That rationale, which was sustained by the Commissioner in both Marco Leyton [v. NJSIAA and Carteret Board of Education, Middlesex County, 84 S.L.D. 90] and Benny Mars [v. NJSIAA, decided February 9, 1995], is set forth in the NJSIAA Handbook [at] page 61.[5] (Respondent's Letter Brief at pp. 12-13)

The Pottgen Court further found that, even if the student could not meet the essential eligibility requirement, he would be "otherwise qualified" if the Association could make reasonable accommodations to enable him to meet the age limit. (Respondent's Letter Brief at pp. 13, 14) However, NJSIAA continues,

> The Pottgen Court then held that reasonable accommodations did not require an Association to "lower or to effect substantial modifications of standards to accommodate a handicapped person" . The Circuit Court then went on to observe that accommodations are not reasonable if they impose "undue financial and administrative burdens" or if they require a "fundamental alteration in the nature of (the) program" . (Id. at p. 14)

Thus, NJSIAA observes, the Pottgen Court concluded that the only possible accommodation the Association could make was a waiver of its age limit, which was not, the Court held, a reasonable accommodation. Rather, the Court maintained that waiving an essential eligibility standard constituted a fundamental alteration in the nature of the baseball program. (Id. at p. 14) Thus, since Pottgen could not meet the essential eligibility requirement (of age), he was not an "'otherwise qualified' individual." (Id.) Under a similar analysis, the 8th Circuit rejected Pottgen's ADA claim.

[5] The rule states, in pertinent part: "This rule is not only aimed at preventing 'red-shirting' but is also aimed at encouraging students to satisfactorily complete their academic studies starting with the elementary school level. It is also a safety measure to assure that 13- and 14-year-old students are not expected to compete against adults who are six or more years older, with substantially greater physical size, strength and skills. In view of this paramount safety factor, waivers of this rule will be granted by the NJSIAA in only truly extraordinary circumstances." (emphasis added) (NJSIAA Handbook, Article V, Section 4.C, Interpretive Guidelines at 61)

NJSIAA further finds support for its position in Sandison v. Michigan High School Athletic Association, 64 *F.*3d 1026 (6th Cir. 1995), wherein the 6th Circuit reversed a District Court's grant of preliminary injunction allowing two 19-year-old students to participate in track and cross country. The Sandison Court similarly found that the "students were not 'otherwise qualified' to participate and that a waiver would constitute an unreasonable modification of an essential rule of the Association." (Id. at p. 15) Again, the Sandison Court, like the Pottgen Court, found that the 19-year-old rule did not violate the ADA. (Id. at p. 16) The Court reasoned "the basis for the exclusion was not because of any disability, but by the application of a neutrally applied age restriction." (Id., citing Sandison at 1036)

Respondent underscores that its age rule is also a neutral one. "Students who are not able to play are not precluded because of a disability, but because of their age." (Id. at p. 17) Moreover, granting waivers "would fundamentally alter the nature of this competitive activity," the Association argues. (Id.) Here, NJSIAA cites statistics showing that 14.9% of all students attending public schools in New Jersey are classified in various educational disability categories, resulting in almost 50,000 public high school students classified as disabled in 1994.[6]

> To accept the petitioner's argument, each one of these students would be exempted from the NJSIAA eligibility rules, even when these classifications had nothing to do with their retention. Taken to the logical extreme, the petitioner's position would immunize approximately 15% of the student/athletes in New Jersey from the application of the NJSIAA eligibility rule. Such a wholesale exception would encourage the very abuses the rules intended to > prevent, namely, zealous parents and coaches seeking an advantage by encouraging school districts to classify promising athletes so they could be red-shirted. (Id. at p. 18)

Distinguishing the facts in the Johnson case, supra, from those in the within matter, the NJSIAA observes that in Johnson, the student was totally deaf. (NJSIAA's Reply Brief at p. 5) In that case, "[h]is disability reached the point where he was provided with an interpreter, note-taker and itinerant teacher.  Here the petitioner has no physical disabilities whatsoever and, in fact, has an intellectual ability two or three years higher than his classmates." (Id.) Moreover, NJSIAA observes that the Johnson Court relied heavily upon the later-reversed District Court decision in Sandison, supra. (Id.) NJSIAA also asserts that the facts in Dennin are distinguishable, in that Dennin was a student with Down's Syndrome seeking a waiver so that he could participate in swimming, a non-contact sport, whereas, petitioner herein, although classified as "perceptually impaired," is "a bright young man whose intellectual ability is considerably above those of his classmates" seeking a waiver "to permit a superior athlete to compete in a contact sport where injuries are more likely to occur as a result of disproportionate size and strength of competitors, which in turn, is correlated to age." (Id. at pp. 6, 8)

The NJSIAA points to its policy of granting waivers to classified students in the case of academic credit requirements, of permitting seventh and eighth grade students to participate in interscholastic sports, supra[7], of permitting 19-year-old students to play non-contact sports, under certain circumstances, and of providing for due process hearings which allow the opportunity to demonstrate grounds for an eligibility waiver. (NJSIAA's Letter Brief at pp. 18, 19) In the instant matter, the NJSIAA granted petitioner a waiver to participate in track or other non-contact sports. The Association argues that its decision preserves the "essential health and safety purposes underlying the age rule." (Id. at p. 24)

[7] The NJSIAA argues that its guidelines provide that the failure of the school's staff to advise a student-athlete of the rule will not be considered grounds for a waiver of the eligibility regulations. (NJSIAA's Reply Brief at p. 12) Moreover, NJSIAA contends that "the fact that the petitioner attended a school in the 7th grade, which is not a sending district , is frankly, irrelevant. As a member of the NJSIAA, Secaucus High School could have advised the student in the 7th grade, just as the personnel from Ridgefield Park could have done so prior to the 8th grade." (Id.)

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Initially, it is noted that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33, the Deputy Commissioner has been delegated to hear and decide this matter.

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association. The Commissioner's scope of review in NJSIAA determinations is an appellate one. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 183. The Commissioner may not overturn an action by NJSIAA in applying eligibility rules absent a finding that the Association applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Further, the burden of proof that an action was so deficient rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Education, 60 N.J.Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). In such cases, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even when he might judge otherwise in a de novo review. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259.

Having carefully reviewed the record of proceedings before the NJSIAA[8], as well as the legal arguments presented by the parties, the Deputy Commissioner concludes that, notwithstanding that NJSIAA's written decision of March 22, 1996 fails to explicate its reasons for rejecting petitioner's claims pursuant to Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the ADA, which claims were before the EAC, there is sufficient legal support for the NJSIAA's decision to apply the age rule to petitioner in the instant matter, and there is no indication that the NJSIAA's action was in any way arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Deputy Commissioner is satisfied that the NJSIAA has fairly examined the purpose of the age requirement and whether that purpose would be undermined if it were to be waived for this particular petitioner. Johnson, supra, at 585. In determining that the age requirement could not be waived, the NJSIAA notes, inter alia, that petitioner " is much larger than the average student his age." (EAC Decision, March 22, 1996 at p. 5) Inasmuch as football is a contact sport, petitioner's size and superior ability, according to the NJSIAA, "clearly implicate the health and safety concerns behind the age rule." (Id.)

Accordingly, the Deputy Commissioner concludes that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the determination by the NJSIAA was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Thus, the Deputy Commissioner adopts as his own the findings and conclusions of the NJSIAA and dismisses this Petition of Appeal.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BELVIDERE, Petitioner,	:	OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL DOCKET NO.: EDU 11557-94 AGENCY DKT. NO. 347-8/94
v.	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT
BUREAU OF FISCAL POLICY AND AND AUDIT, NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION AND THE BOARDS OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIPS OF HOPE, HARMONY AND WHITE, Respondents.	:

WHEREAS, the Board of Education of the Town of Belvidere (hereinafter Belvidere or Petitioner) has engaged in a long standing sending-receiving relationship with the Boards of Education of the Township of Hope, Harmony and White (hereinafter Respondent Boards) for the students in Grades 9 through 12 including special education students; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-19 and N.J.A.C. 6:20-3.1 the Bureau of Fiscal Policy and Audit of New Jersey State Department of Education (now known as the Bureau of School Finance, hereinafter the Bureau) has the responsibility to certify the Petitioner's per pupil costs; and

WHEREAS, as the result of a dispute as to the per pupil costs for the years 1991-92 through 1993-94 school years the subject Petition was filed by the Petitioner alleging that the certified costs per student were erroneous; and

WHEREAS, the Respondent Boards of Education did file a Cross-Petition which alleges that the Petitioner had overcharged the Respondents for all the school years prior and subsequent to the 1991-92 school year; and

WHEREAS, the parties hereto have had an opportunity to conduct such due diligence as they deemed necessary and have entered into extensive negotiations through their respective counsel; and

WHEREAS, the parties have agreed to resolve all of the matters contained in the Petition and the Cross-Petition, including, but not limited to the amounts that are due for the school years 1988-89 through 1993-94 inclusive; and

WHEREAS, the parties have agreed upon the amount of liability that the Petitioner has to the Respondent sending Boards of Education for the years 1988-89 through 1993-94 inclusive; and

WHEREAS, the parties have agreed as to the manner in which the Petitioner's monetary obligations for overcharges for tuition to the Respondent Boards of Education shall be repaid.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of $1.00 and Other Good and Valuable Consideration the parties hereto do hereby agree as follows:

1. The balance due by Petitioner to the Respondent Boards for the school years 1988-89 through 1993-94, both inclusive, is $1,587,536.00 as more particularly set forth on Exhibits A and B. Of the said $1,587,536.00, the Respondents' respective interests therein is:

a. Due to Harmony Township Board of Education $538,067.00

b. Due to White Township Board of Education $766,622.00

c. Due to Hope Township Board of Education $282,847.00

2. In addition, the parties do hereby stipulate and agree for the purposes of this agreement and for the years at issue in the Petition and Cross-Petition that the Bureau's methods of calculating the actual costs per student are accurate.

3. The payments due hereunder shall be funded through tuition credits; that is to say, as credits against future tuition payments that the Respondent Sending Districts owe to the Petitioner as a receiving district, as set forth in paragraph 5 below. In the event that the sending-receiving relationship is terminated with any or all of the Respondents, the balance of any funds to be repaid to that Respondent(s) shall be repaid in accordance with a schedule approved by the Commissioner of Education.

4. The parties do hereby anticipate that the amount that the Petitioner owes to the Respondents and which have as of this date not yet been certified by the Bureau for the school years 1994-95 and 1995-96 will be in the approximate total additional amount of $680,000.00 of this amount the Respondents' respective interests therein is:

a. Due to Harmony $260,000.00

b. Due to White $170,000.00

c. Due to Hope $250,000.00

The parties acknowledge that exact amount cannot be accurately determined as of this date, but the parties hereto do hereby agree that upon receipt of the certified amounts from the Bureau that the total amount due by the Petitioner, the Belvidere Board of Education to the Respondent Boards of Education will be adjusted pursuant to paragraph 5 b.

5. It is further understood and agreed that the total amount due to the Respondent Boards of Education from 1988-89 through 1995-96 shall be paid by the Petitioner with an 11 year pay out, as follows:

a. During the first year (1996-97 School Year) the sum of $88,000.00 which shall be paid as follows:

(1) to Harmony Township Board of Education $36,000.00

(2) to White Township Board of Education $32.000.00

(3) to Hope Township Board of Education $20,000.00

b. During the years two (1997-98) through 11 (2006-07) inclusive, the balance, including the estimated amount for the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years set forth in paragraph 4 above, shall be amortized in ten equal payments which remaining amortized balance is to be amended and modified based upon the certified amounts for the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years when the same are determined by the Bureau. Upon receipt of the said certified amounts for 1994-95 and 1995-96 the then balance will be recomputed and shall be amortized over the remaining number of years within the aforesaid remaining period.

As a guide to the parties, it is calculated that the tuition credits due to the sending districts (with the estimated certified amounts for 1994-95 and 1995-96 being included) are as follows:

Year	Harmony	Hope	White
1996-97	$36,000.00	$20,000.00	$32,000.00
1997-98 through 2006-2007 per year	$76,207.00	$51,285.00	$90,462.00

Once the 1994-95 tuition figures are certified the business administrator and/or chief school administrator shall promptly meet and mutually agree upon the exact amount of the tuition credit due the sending districts. The remaining balance shall be calculated accordingly and amortized over the remaining portion of the ten year period.

Once the 1995-96 tuition figures are certified, the parties shall follow the procedure as set forth above.

The parties expressly agree that the above adjustments are not necessarily exclusive, as there could be other adjustments to the tuition figures in the normal course of business.

6. All pre and post judgment interest claims are specifically waived by the Respondent Boards of Education.

7. The parties agree that the funding for this settlement must come strictly from the taxpayers of Belvidere and that the taxpayers of the Respondent Sending Districts shall not be directly or indirectly responsible to pay the same.

8. The Petitioner, Belvidere Board of Education, agrees to annually make a full and complete disclosure of all financial reports and records to the Respondents. The Respondents shall have the right to have reasonable and continuous access to pertinent financial records; and an independent audit of the Belvidere system conducted at the sole cost and expense of the Respondent Boards of Education.

9. It is expressly understood and agreed that it is in the best interests of both the Petitioner and the Respondents and of the students who attend Belvidere High School that the programs offered by Belvidere High School not be reduced as a result of this settlement unless required by law or sound educational policy.

10. Petitioner, Belvidere Board of Education, during the terms of this agreement, shall not take nor permit any of its officers, agents or employees to take or fail to take any action with respect to the agreement which would cause the agreement to be unfunded or under-funded. Belvidere shall take all actions necessary to insure that this agreement is continued until all payments due to the Respondent Boards of Education are paid in full.

11. The Parties agree that should any dispute arise as to the interpretation and/or implementation of this Agreement that the parties shall first use their best efforts to resolve the same by and between themselves, and if such efforts are not successful then the Commissioner of Education shall have jurisdiction to resolve any issue after first submitting the disputes to the County Superintendent.

12. This Agreement shall be binding upon the parties hereto, their successors and assigns.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto set their hands and seals this 21ST day of JUNE 1996.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning senior high student, who repeated ninth grade and who has a pending complaint before the United States District Court, sought emergent relief enjoining NJSIAA from not allowing him to play football during his senior year at New Milford High School. He contended NJSIAA violated his rights under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and other federal and state law by refusing to grant a waiver of the eight semester rule. District Court denied petitioner's request for preliminary injunction, finding that petitioner's request was not ripe until the Commissioner of Education had had an opportunity to address the issue of whether NJSIAA should have granted petitioner a waiver in an application for emergent relief.

Upon review of the papers, Commissioner determined to rule directly on the merits rather than address the application for emergent relief and the case in chief in two separate rulings. Commissioner may not overturn an action by NJSIAA absent a finding that the Association applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. Commissioner concluded that petitioner herein failed to demonstrate that the NJSIAA's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable when it concluded, on the basis of the record before it, that petitioner's retention in ninth grade and early departure from the sports program in 1993-94 were not due to circumstances beyond his control or to handicap but, rather, were the result of his own voluntary actions, thus, rendering him ineligible for a waiver of the eight semester rule. Having found that NJSIAA's action was reasonable and that petitioner was not prevented from participation in sports by his handicapping condition so as to violate ADA or other cited law, Commissioner upheld findings and conclusions of the NJSIAA and dismissed the petition.

JASON BRADY, :

PETITIONER, :

V. DECISION

NEW JERSEY INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, :

RESPONDENT. :

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief filed by petitioner on August 13, 1996, seeking a stay of the determination of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) that petitioner is ineligible to participate in interscholastic athletic contests by application of Article V, Section 4J of the NJSIAA Bylaws, the eight semester rule which precludes eligibility of a student for high school athletics after the expiration of eight consecutive semesters following his entrance into ninth grade. (NJSIAA Handbook at pp. 43-44)

Respondent NJSIAA submitted its Answer and Reply Brief on August 19, 1996, together with the record of proceedings before NJSIAA.

The Commissioner has designated the Deputy Commissioner to decide this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33 which authorizes the Commissioner of Education to "designate an assistant commissioner as deputy commissioner with full power to act in his place and stead during any absence or inability of the commissioner and at such other times as the commissioner may designate." Such authority expressly includes assignment by the Commissioner of "[t]he hearing and determination of controversies and disputes which may arise under the school laws." (N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34)

Petitioner Jason Brady will be entering his fifth year of high school at New Milford High School as he was held back in the ninth grade. Petitioner is a running back on the football team and has been characterized as "an exceptionally outstanding player." (NJSIAA's Brief Opposing Emergent Relief at p. 1) Petitioner was eligible to participate in football for his first two years of high school (while in ninth grade) through special accommodations for classified students at Lodi High School. He played football in his first ninth grade year (1992-93). During the 1993-94 season, his second ninth grade year, he participated in four to five preseason practice sessions. He then played football in his sophomore and junior years and now seeks to play football in his upcoming senior year. Petitioner was advised by school officials in New Milford that he could not play football in September 1996 unless NJSIAA granted him a waiver from its eight semester rule.

NJSIAA denied New Milford's request for a waiver of the eight semester rule following a hearing on June 5, 1996 before the Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) under the provisions set forth in the NJSIAA Handbook. In its determination letter of June 11, 1996, NJSIAA denied the waiver finding that petitioner had participated for four years, including 1993, by attending several practice sessions and then leaving the team because of an injury to his knee.

Procedurally, this matter commenced before the Deputy Commissioner after petitioner filed an application for preliminary injunction with the United States District Court, which was denied without prejudice in that it was not ripe until the Commissioner of Education had had an opportunity to address the issue of emergent relief.

Upon review, the Deputy Commissioner finds that the record herein is sufficient to establish, independent of the issue of emergent relief, that the NJSIAA's determination was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Therefore, the Deputy Commissioner has determined to decide this matter on its merits and uphold the June 11, 1996 decision of the NJSIAA.

In his moving papers, petitioner seeks emergent relief to allow him to participate in interscholastic athletic competition, a reversal of the NJSIAA's June 11, 1996 decision and an order which would allow petitioner to participate in competitive sports in his senior year. Petitioner claims that NJSIAA's denial of waiver has violated his rights under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, 29 U.S.C. Section 701 et seq., the Americans with Disabilities Act ("ADA"), 42 U.S.C. Section 12101 et seq., the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, 20 U.S.C. Section 1400 et seq. ("IDEA") and its equivalent State Statute, the Civil Rights Act of 1871, 42 U.S.C. Section 1983 and New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq.

Petitioner affirms that he is a "qualified individual with a disability" as defined by the ADA in that he has been diagnosed with Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD), a learning disability, and during the 1992-94 school years was diagnosed as emotionally disturbed (Petition at p. 6), which classification was changed at New Milford to perceptually impaired (Id. at p. 7).

Petitioner receives special education pursuant to the IDEA. As such, he contends NJSIAA must waive its eligibility requirements. Petitioner claims that under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, he is an individual with a handicap who is otherwise qualified and has been excluded from participation in athletics.

Petitioner further contends that there is wrongful discrimination under the Rehabilitation Act and the ADA and such discrimination would also be wrongful under 42 U.S.C. Section 1983. Petitioner cites several cases in support of his position.

Petitioner further asserts that his participation in interscholastic sports, particularly football, has significantly contributed to his progress in overcoming his disabilities. He contends that as a result of such participation, his grades and attitude have improved.

Additionally, petitioner contends that the NJSIAA's finding that he has already participated in football for four years is without merit. Petitioner avers that his attendance at four to five preseason practice sessions and his attendance record of only 50 days during the 1993-94 school year were "due to his disabilities, including the emotional problems he was experiencing as well as his ADD." (Petition at p. 6) By refusing to allow petitioner to play sports during his senior year, he avers, the NJSIAA has acted contrary to its own Interpretive Guidelines which provide that waivers may be granted for circumstances beyond the student's control. Petitioner continues stating, "the uncontroverted evidence, in particular the opinion of Dr. Fidel, was that [petitioner's] need for a waiver was due to his disabilities which are clearly circumstances ``beyond his control." (Petition at p. 11)

In its response papers, the NJSIAA explains the eight semester rule is aimed at prohibiting "redshirting," a practice of holding a student back to allow him an extra year to mature or to save a talented athlete for another season, and at preventing students who are not meeting academic standards from replacing students who are maintaining their academic standards. "Waivers of the eight semester rule are only granted when a student has had to continue schooling beyond the eighth semester because of circumstances beyond his or her control. Waivers are never granted to allow an athlete more than four years of participation in any single sport." (NJSIAA's Brief at p. 3, quoting Handbook at p. 69)

NJSIAA states that petitioner played football for four years, as NJSIAA rules state that participation in a sport begins with the very first day of practice and, therefore, petitioner participated in football during the 1993-94 season, even though he did not complete the season. Like all other students, it affirms, petitioner has had the opportunity to participate in four full years of football: two at Lodi and two at New Milford.

Further, it argues that, in 1993, petitioner was out over 50 days of school of his own accord, pointing to his annual review which notes that, "unfortunately, [petitioner] chose not to attend for over one-third of the school year, disallowing the formal therapeutic interaction." (NJSIAA's Brief at p. 5, quoting Exhibit B-21) NJSIAA further objects to the notion that petitioner quit the football team as a result of a handicap, averring that the evidence before the NJSIAA showed that he quit the team because he "lost interest." (NJSIAA's Answer at p. 4, quoting Transcript at pp. 62-63) It further states "[t]here was never any sworn testimony presented to the Committee that petitioner's 50 days of truancy from school, [which resulted in his retention]  was even remotely related to any learning disability." (NJSIAA's Brief at pp. 5-6)

In this regard, the NJSIAA contends that petitioner is attempting to bring material before the Commissioner which contradicts evidence presented at the hearing that petitioner had been classified as emotionally disturbed before entering high school. The NJSIAA denies that the Certification of Dr. Bernard Fidel and the Certification of Jason Brady, both relied upon for facts alleged in paragraph 16 of the petition, are part of the record. It contends, without dispute, that each was prepared after the NJSIAA issued its decision. (NJSIAA's Answer at pp. 3-4)

The NJSIAA argues that the school was advised prior to hearing that it may invite any and all parties to the hearing, including counsel, and that it may submit any additional materials. It argues,

> Now, after hearing of, and disagreeing with, the EAC's decision, petitioner has attempted to supplement and change the record with a series of ex post facto affidavits and certifications, in an effort to create a different and more favorable record. These submissions were not presented to the NJSIAA, are not part of the record, and should not be considered by the Commissioner. (NJSIAA's Brief at pp. 10-11)

In support of its contention that the Commissioner must base his opinion on the record before him, NJSIAA cites case law to emphasize that "[e]xclusiveness of the record is a bedrock principle" and cites Mazza v. Cavichia for the proposition that > where a hearing is prescribed by statute, nothing must be taken into account by the administrative tribunal in arriving at its determination that has not been introduced in some manner into the record of the hearing. 15 N.J. 498, 514 (1954) (NJSIAA's Brief at p. 11)

In its Brief, NJSIAA explains that Dr. Fidel's certification was presented five weeks after the EAC hearing; however, NJSIAA did have before it a letter from Dr. Fidel opining that petitioner had been unable to attend school on a regular basis during 1992-93 due to his handicap. NJSIAA avers it discounted petitioner's expert opinion relating to his handicap because it had been rendered three years after the event in question and because it contradicted a child study team report written at the time of the event -- which contemporaneous report noted that petitioner failed ninth grade and did not receive attendant therapy because he chose not to attend for over one third of the school year. (Id. at p. 14)

In response to petitioner's claims of discrimination, NJSIAA asserts in its Brief that petitioner is not likely to succeed on his claims under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the ADA in that he > cannot prove that he has been prevented from playing football solely by reason of his handicap because he is responsible for the fact that he is a fifth year senior in high school. Petitioner rejected the special school which his Child-Study Team advised that he attend (and which Lodi High School paid for), and he quit the football team the following year because he lost interest.

> (NJSIAA's Brief at pp. 26-27)

Additionally, NJSIAA avers that petitioner cannot prove under these statutes that he is "otherwise qualified" to participate in NJSIAA programs because "he cannot comply with the eight-semester rule and there is no reasonable accommodation which would allow him to meet it." (Id. at p.27) NJSIAA continues emphasizing that, "[t]he only accommodation petitioner seeks -- an extra year of participation -- would fundamentally alter the rules of athletic competition and give him an advantage no other student, [able] or disabled has ever received." (Id. at p. 28) In further arguing inapplicability of these statutes to the present matter, NJSIAA avers that the ADA and Rehabilitation Act provide for equality of opportunity but do not guarantee equality of results. See e.g. ADA Title II Technical Assistance Manual Section 11-3.3000, USDOJ and D'Amico v. New York State Board of Law Examiners, 813 F.Supp. 217, 221 (W.D.N.Y. 1993). The statutes require evenhandedness, but neither the language, purpose or history of Section 504 reveals an intent to impose an affirmative-action obligation on service providers. Southeastern Community College v. Davis, 442 U.S. 398, 410-411 (1979). NJSIAA asserts that petitioner has been afforded the same opportunity to play football that his peers have been provided. He has had the opportunity to play football in each of the four years he has been a high school student. He now seeks, contends NJSIAA, an additional benefit -- a fifth year of football. (NJSIAA's Brief at p. 31) NJSIAA explains that while it is aware that handicapped students must be provided with reasonable accommodation, it does make special allowances for classified students to play and that petitioner has benefited from such accommodation. NJSIAA avers, however, that allowing for a fifth year of participation is not a reasonable accommodation. (Id. at pp. 32-34)

NJSIAA addressees petitioner's IDEA claim which requires a school district to provide a student with a free appropriate education and related services. It reviews petitioner's Individual Education Plan (IEP) and writes that petitioner is unlikely to succeed on his IDEA claim because there is no evidence that participation on the New Milford Football Team is mandated by petitioner's IEP. Moreover, football cannot be considered a "related service" which the school district must provide. (Id. at p. 34)

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association. The Commissioner's scope of review in NJSIAA determinations is an appellate one. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. The Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying eligibility rules absent a finding that the Association applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Reg. School District,, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Further, the burden of proof that an action was so deficient rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). In such cases, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the Association, even when he might judge otherwise in a de novo review. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259.

In the instant matter, the Deputy Commissioner is satisfied that NJSIAA did not act arbitrarily or unreasonably when it concluded, on the basis of the record before it, that petitioner's retention in ninth grade and early departure from the sports program in 1993-94 were not due to circumstances beyond his control or to handicap but, rather, were the result of his own voluntary actions, thus, rendering him ineligible for a waiver of the eight semester rule.* The Deputy Commissioner further finds that, inasmuch as petitioner's having been prevented from participating in an additional year of sports is in no way related to his handicapping position, the NJSIAA did not rule in a manner which violates the federal law cited by petitioner. Finally, while not unmindful of the value of athletic participation to petitioner, the Deputy Commissioner recognizes the legitimate interest of the NJSIAA in upholding its regulations designed to prevent athletic advantage for older, larger students and displacement of otherwise eligible students by those who have already had a full opportunity to participate in interscholastic athletics.

Accordingly, petitioner not having met his burden of establishing that in denying its request for waiver the NJSIAA acted arbitrarily, unreasonably, in bad faith or contrary to law, the Deputy Commissioner upholds the NJSIAA's decision and dismisses the Petition of Appeal.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DEPUTY COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* In so holding, the Deputy Commissioner notes that, notwithstanding that NJSIAA did not then have Dr. Fidel's certification, it did have his opinion which it duly weighed against other evidence and concluded was less credible.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board Ho-Ho-Kus sought termination of its current sending-receiving relationship with Respondent Board Midland Park pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 and sought authorization to enter into a new sending-receiving relationship with Respondent Board Northern Highlands Regional High School District (NHRHS). NHRHS did not oppose petitioner.

Following nine days of hearing, the ALJ found that Ho-Ho-Kus had cogent reasons for wanting to terminate its sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park and would derive benefits from entering into a relationship with NHRHS. ALJ concluded that the termination would not result in any substantial negative racial, educational, or financial impact on any of the three districts and, therefore, severance must be granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. (Boonton Twp. v. Boonton; Washington Township v. Upper Freehold Regional; Englewood Cliffs v. Englewood; Merchantville v. Pennsauken) ALJ ordered that Ho-Ho-Kus be authorized to terminate its sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park and enter into a new sending-receiving relationship with NHRHS subject to the following conditions: 1) Ho-Ho-Kus must enter into a contract for a new sending-receiving relationship with NHRHS for a minimum of five years; and 2) Withdrawal shall be phased out over a four-year period, starting with the incoming 9th grade class in September 1996.

Commissioner after a full examination of the record concurred with the ALJ's determination that no substantial racial, educational or financial negative impact would inure to any of the Districts if severance of the Ho-Ho-Kus/Midland Park sending-receiving relationship were to be granted. Absent such a showing of substantial racial, educational or financial negative impact, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, the Commissioner was required to grant the requested severance.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Board of Education of the Borough of Ho-Ho-Kus, Bergen County (Ho-Ho-Kus), seeks a judgment from the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) permitting it to terminate its sending-receiving relationship with respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Midland Park, Bergen County (Midland Park), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. Ho-Ho-Kus also seeks authorization to enter into a new sending-receiving relationship with respondent, Board of Education of Northern Highlands School District, Bergen County (Northern Highlands), and the Commissioner's approval of a contract between Ho-Ho-Kus and Northern Highlands.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 9, 1995, Ho-Ho-Kus filed a Petition with the Commissioner. On March 29, 1995, Northern Highlands filed an Answer and on April 12, 1995, Midland Park filed an Answer. On April 26, 1995, the Department of Education transferred this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing.

On July 12, 1995, the parties appeared at a Prehearing Conference. A Prehearing Order was entered on July 14, 1995. On July 26, 1995, Ho-Ho-Kus filed a Notice of Motion to Amend Petition. On September 7, 1995, an Order was entered granting that motion. On January 19, 1996, Ho-Ho-Kus filed a motion for an Order permitting it to depose certain witnesses. An Order was entered on January 30, 1996, granting that motion.

The hearing was held on February 16 and 20, 1996, and March 20, 21, 22, 25, 26, 27 and 28, 1996. The record closed on May 10, 1996, after the submission of all post-hearing Briefs.

DISCUSSION OF TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE

A. Background

Located in northwest Bergen County, Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland Park are small, residential professional, suburban communities with a small percentage of minority residents. Ho-Ho-Kus is 1.8 square miles in area and has a population of 3,935 reported in the 1990 Census. Ho-Ho-Kus operates a K-8 elementary school of approximately 381 students. Midland Park is 1.7 miles in area and has a population of 7,047 reported in a 1990 Census. Midland Park operates two elementary schools: a Kindergarten to 2nd grade elementary school and a 3rd to 6th grade elementary school. Midland Park also operates Midland Park High School (MPHS) which serves 7th to 12th grade students from Midland Park and 9th to 12th grade students from Ho-Ho-Kus. MPHS also rents space to the Bergen County Special Services School District which conducts a Secondary Hearing Impaired Program (SHIP) for 7th to 12th grade hearing-impaired students who reside in other counties.

During the 1995-96 school year, 348 students in the 9th to 12th grades attended MPHS. This figure does not include the 7th and 8th grade Midland Park students who also are enrolled at MPHS. Class size was between 22 and 24 students. Of the 348 students in the 9th to 12th grades, 78 were from Ho-Ho-Kus and 270 were from Midland Park. MPHS also housed 46 SHIP students in the 9th to 12th grades and 17 in the 7th and 8th grades.

MPHS is a 136,000 square foot facility located on a 23 acre campus. The building was built in 1957. Additions and modifications were made in 1975. MPHS is a comprehensive high school with provisions for students to study part-time at Bergen County Vocational-Technical High School. The outdoor facility consists of a football field, 4 baseball fields, 4 soccer fields, 4 tennis courts, a track and field site and 2 general practice fields. The indoor facility consists of a gymnasium, a weight training room, 5 science labs, 2 art studios, an auditorium, a 15,000 volume library, a media center, 33 classrooms, a cafeteria, a senior lounge, a cable TV studio, 4 computer labs, a band room and a portable computer laboratory. One-half of the building also is wired for computer networking and using external network services. MPHS is implementing a 5 year expansion of their computer program which will provide 2 new IBM 486 labs.

MPHS has a Principal, an Assistant Principal, a Director of Curriculum and Instruction, a Director of Athletics, 49 full-time and part-time teachers, a district-wide Child Study Team, 3 full-time guidance counselors and a nurse. There also are 20 staff members who work solely with SHIP and are employed and paid by the Bergen County Special Services School District.

MPHS offers primarily a college preparatory curriculum of 109 courses, excluding Special Programs and Additional Special Education. It offers Basis and Honors courses in English, Mathematics, Science, Social Studies, Spanish and French and Advanced Placement courses in English, Computer Science, Calculus, U.S. History, Government and Politics, Spanish and French. MPHS also offers its students independent study and vocational training at the Central Bergen Technical Center and it offers to its seniors externships in community service, college courses or a practical experience outside the school setting.

MPHS offers 39 co-curricular activities for 9th to 12th grade students consisting of 7 Academic Teams, 24 Clubs, 3 Publications, 2 Drama Activities, 2 Musical Activities and Student Government. MPHS also offers athletics consisting of Football, Volleyball, Wrestling, Bowling, Fall and Winter Cheerleading, Golf, Baseball, Softball and Boys and Girls Basketball, Soccer, Winter and Spring Track, Girls Cross Country, Winter Track and Tennis. MPHS has a no-cut policy for participation in co-curricular activities and athletics.

Northern Highlands Regional High School (NHRHS) is a 230,000 square foot facility located in northwest Bergen County on a 5.5 acre campus. The building was built in 1964 with a major addition made in 1971. The outdoor facility consists of a football field, 2 baseball fields, 3 soccer fields, a softball field, a field hockey field and 4 tennis courts. The indoor facility consists of a 20,000 volume library, a planetarium, a TV production studio, a performing arts theater, a computer assisted drawing room, a child care learning lab, student learning labs for reading, writing, language and mathematics, a science lecture hall, a weight and exercise room, a fitness lab, a gymnasium, a wrestling gymnasium, a back gymnasium, a cafeteria, a teacher's cafeteria, a senior's cafeteria, a band cafeteria, a band room, a choral room, a trainer's room, a store, a senior courtyard, an audio-visual room and about seventy classrooms. NHRHS also houses the District Office of the Region I's Special Education Group's administrative office and "Project Impact," New Jersey's oldest presenter of visual and performing arts education programs.

NHRHS serves the communities of Allendale and Upper Saddle River. Although NHRHS can accomodate 1923 students, only 754 students in the 9th to 12th grades attended NHRHS during the 1995-96 school year. The average class size is about 18.5 students. NHRHS has a Principal, a Director of Educational Services, a Director of Pupil Personnel Services, a Dean of Student Affairs, 4 part-time content area supervisors, a part-time content area coordinator, 68.5 full-time teachers, a librarian, a nurse, 2 full-time and 2 part-time guidance counselors, a part-time G&T facilitator, a Child Study team and an athletic trainer.

NHRHS also offers primarily a college preparatory curriculum of 134 courses. It offers Basis and Honors courses and Advanced Placement courses in English, American History, Calculus (BC), Physics, Chemistry, Biology, French, Spanish and Economics. NHRHS also offers its students a non-credit independent study, college level courses and early graduation.

NHRHS offers 29 co-curricular activities consisting of a Student Government, 4 Class Organizations, 3 Publications, 6 Music and Theater and 15 other Clubs and Activities. NHRHS also offers athletics consisting of Fall and Winter Cheerleading, Field Hockey, Football, Volleyball, Winter Track, Wrestling, Baseball and Softball and consisting of Boys and Girls Cross Country, Track, Soccer, Tennis, Basketball and Swimming. NHRHS has a cut policy for its athletics.

B. History of the Sending-Receiving Relationship

Prior to September 1973, 9th to 12th grade students from Ho-Ho-Kus attended Ridgewood High School pursuant to a sending-receiving relationship with the Ridgewood School District. In 1972, the Ridgewood Board of Education sought to terminate that relationship and the State Board of Education permitted the termination. Although Ho-Ho-Kus had wanted to enter into a new sending-receiving relationship with Northern Highlands at that time, the State Board of Education mandated that Ho-Ho-Kus enter into a sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park.

On June 8, 1973, Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland Park entered into a sending-receiving Agreement which commenced in September 1973. On September 30, 1975, Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland park entered into another Agreement which extended the first Agreement. Thereafter, the sending-receiving relationship between the parties continued without written agreements. In accordance with the Agreements, from September 1973 to the present, Ho-Ho-Kus has been sending its 9th to12th grade students to MPHS and has been paying an annual tuition per student. Midland Park sets the base amount of the tuition annually. The base tuition for the 1995-96 school year was $9,300 per student and it will increase to $9,800 for the 1996-97 school year. MPHS also may add additional tuition charges which Ho-Ho-Kus must pay.

C. Reasons for Terminating the Existing Sending-Receiving Relationship

Ho-Ho-Kus has become dissatisfied with its relationship with Midland Park for a number of reasons. According to Ho-Ho-Kus, parents of its students are concerned about MPHS not providing the best educational fit for their children. Fewer Ho-Ho-Kus students have chosen to go to MPHS and it is estimated that only 14 of 33 Ho-Ho-Kus's 8th grade students will attend MPHS in the 1996-97 school year. Some Ho-Ho-Kus parents send their children to private or other high schools at their own cost while other families have moved from Ho-Ho-Kus to avoid sending their children to MPHS. Parents desire to change to a high school that offers their children a broader curriculum and has a record of higher achievement.

According to Ho-Ho-Kus, there also is a lack of input into the decision-making process at MPHS. Of primary concern to Ho-Ho-Kus is that there is a lack of effective articulation between it and Midland Park with respect to some areas of the curriculum and to coordination of staff development. There are incongruent philosophies regarding special education and there are concerns about the special education program at MPHS. There also are concerns about the college selection process of the MPHS Guidance Department and the lack of input of Ho-Ho-Kus in that process.

Ho-Ho-Kus also is dissatisfied with the tuition charged by Midland Park. Midland Park charges Ho-Ho-Kus a base tuition which is set at the maximum rate permitted by the State. Midland Park later makes adjustments to the base tuition to reflect the actual per pupil cost and Ho-Ho-Kus must pay the difference. On many occasions, Midland Park has miscalculated the tuition rate and has overcharged Ho-Ho-Kus. Ho-Ho-Kus has requested that Midland Park fix the tuition rate at the minimum permitted by the State, but Midland Park has refused. In addition, Midland Park is a Kindergaten to12th grade district and has one budget. Ho-Ho-Kus wants only to be charged for the costs of the 9th to12th grades at MPHS.

As a result of its dissatisfaction, in the fall of 1993, Ho-Ho-Kus, along with Northern Highlands and the Boards of Education of Allendale, Saddle River and Upper Saddle River, engaged Guidelines, Inc. to conduct an informal feasibility study on regionalization. In addition to this informal study, Ho-Ho-Kus appointed an ad hoc Citizens Committee on the High School to gather information concerning MPHS's facility, faculty, curriculum, guidance department and other components. The Committee also gathered information on student performance statistics at MPHS, at NHRHS and at 4 other local high schools. In May 1994, the Committee issued a report entitled, "Report to the Ho-Ho-Kus Board of Education." The Committee found that NHRHS had substantially better college acceptance figures than MPHS, that NHRHS students were accepted into more competitive colleges than MPHS students, that NHRHS students scored significantly higher than MPHS students on the SAT and Achievement Test, that NHRHS offered a broader range of Advanced Placement courses than MPHS and that NHRHS had extraordinary facilities.

In January 1994, Ho-Ho-Kus engaged Educate America, Inc. to conduct a pre-feasibility study on terminating the sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park. In September 1995, Educate America, Inc. issued a report entitled, "Pre-Feasibility Impact Study on Terminating a Sending-Receiving Relationship between HoHoKus and Midland Park School Districts. In that report, although Educate America, Inc. identified some adverse educational impacts on Midland Park if Ho-Ho-Kus terminated their sending-receiving relationship, it recommended that Ho-Ho-Kus consider proceeding with a formal feasibility study.

In July 1994, Ho-Ho-Kus engaged Patricia M. Horton, Ph.D. (Dr. Horton) of the Educational Information and Resource Center (EIRC) to conduct a formal feasibility study in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. In that study, Dr. Horton investigated the educational, financial and racial impact of severing the sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park and of entering into a new sending-receiving relationship with another School District. In December 1994, Dr. Horton issued a report entitled, "A Feasibility Study to Determine the Impact of Severing the Sending-Receiving Relationship Between Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland Park School Districts, December 1994." Dr. Horton concluded that there would be no educational, financial or racial impact on any of the Districts involved in this litigation. Based upon Dr. Horton's conclusion, Ho-Ho-Kus decided to file a Petition to sever its sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park and to enter into a new sending-receiving relationship with Northern Highlands.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that Ho-Ho-Kus has cogent reasons for wanting to terminate its sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park.

D. Reasons for Entering Into a New Relationship with Northern Highlands

Ho-Ho-Kus does not claim that MPHS provides an inadequate education for its students. Rather, Ho-Ho-Kus prefers to send its students to NHRHS for many reasons. NHRHS is an exceptional school and Ho-Ho-Kus believes that the package it offers exceeds that offered at MPHS. According to Ho-Ho-Kus, NHRHS will provide a better education for Ho-Ho-Kus students, NHRHS has a more diversified educational offering, the facilities are more updated and provide a superior variety of educational opportunities and tuition will be fixed for the 1996-97 school year at $8,000 per student with no additional charges. This is a minimum savings of $1,800 per student. Ho-Ho-Kus also presently is sending some of its special education students to NHRHS because MPHS does not have an appropriate program for those students. NHRHS could educate more of Ho-Ho-Kus's special education students because it has a broader, in-house special education program.

Ho-Ho-Kus also was impressed with the student performance at NHRHS. While many of the performance statistics of MPHS students exceeded State averages to some degree, the performance statistics for NHRHS students were exceptional. For example, in May 1995, NHRHS students took 148 advanced placement tests in about 18 subjects and 88% of those students scored three or above. About 99% of all NHRHS students pass the High School Proficiency Test and they regularly score higher than the national average. About 90% of NHRHS 1995 graduates went to a four year college and 8% went to a two year college. Only 62% percent of MPHS 1995 graduates went to a four year college and 25% went to a two year college. With respect to students not going to college, NHRHS offers several vocational courses which are not offered at MPHS.

As of a January 1996 survey, 81% of NHRHS students participate in co-curricular and athletic activities. NHRHS also offers many unique facilities and programs such as an Early Learning Center and it is developing a Business Resources in Today's Education (BRITE) Alliance. It also offers several unique Advanced Placement courses not offered at MPHS. NHRHS also has been described as one of the best overall high schools in the State by New Jersey Monthly magazine.

There are many more aspects of the program and facilities at NHRHS which make it an exceptional high school. While all of these factors are important to Ho-Ho-Kus, of significant importance is the fact that there will be a detailed Articulation Agreement between Ho-Ho-Kus and Northern Highlands. This Articulation Agreement contains 21 provisions which give Ho-Ho-Kus substantial input into the decision making process at NHRHS, something it lacks at MPHS. In addition, Northern Highlands will keep Ho-Ho-Kus's Superintendent informed of studies and special committees which may be established concerning NHRHS and the Ho-Ho-Kus Board can designate a Ho-Ho-Kus Board member as a liaison representative thereto. The Ho-Ho-Kus Board also will be involved in the activities of the Northern Highlands Board to the extent provided by statute, the Ho-Ho-Kus Superintendent will participate in selecting a new Principal for NHRHS if a vacancy occurs and a representative of the Ho-Ho-Kus Board will be involved in the interview process for a new Principal, and the Ho-Ho-Kus Superintendent will be informed of any proposed administrative changes at NHRHS. Northern Highlands also will provide various pupil progress reports on a monthly, quarterly and/or annual basis and information on school programs.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that Ho-Ho-Kus would derive many benefits from entering into a sending-receiving relationship with Northern Highlands.

E. Projections of Future Enrollment

Daniel R. Mastrobuono, D.Ed. (Dr. Mastrobuono) testified as Ho-Ho-Kus's expert in demographics and student enrollment projections. He has prepared numerous enrollment projections throughout his career and has used a 7 year Cohort Survival Rate in those projections. He uses a 7 year Cohort Survival Rate because it provides longer periods of enrollment history that takes into account the most happenings that would impact enrollment. He also uses a 7 year Cohort survival rate because it provides a stable and more accurate and valid base for projecting future enrollment.

To allow for a more accurate picture of the impact of the withdrawal of Ho-Ho-Kus students from MPHS, Dr. Mastrobuono also did not include students in the special education program in his study because none of these students are from Ho-Ho-Kus. He also did not include the SHIP students because those are students of the Bergen County Special Services School District and they reside in counties other than Bergen County.

The withdrawal of the Ho-Ho-Kus students would take place over a 4 year period beginning with the September 1996 9th grade class. Using the 7 year Cohort Survival Rate, Dr. Mastrobuono concluded that the following would be the number of Ho-Ho-Kus students lost to MPHS beginning in 1996 with projected loss of 9th grade students:

Year	MPHS Enrollment Minus Ho-Ho-Kus Students	Students Remaining
1996	339 minus 16 projected Ho-Ho-Kus students	323
1997	336 minus 34 projected Ho-Ho-Kus students	302

Dr. Mastrobuono also stated that since 1983, the percentage of Ho-Ho-Kus's 8th grade students attending MPHS has decreased from 56.4% to 49.2% and that it is likely that this consistent deterioration will continue. Dr. Mastrobuono opined that this decrease shows that the potential loss of Ho-Ho-Kus students is projected to be less that half of the Ho-Ho-Kus students who would be eligible to attend MPHS in the years ahead. Dr. Mastrobuono also stated that enrollment at MPHS will rise in the years 2001 and 2002 due to a projected increase of Midland Park students and special education students. This will ameliorate the loss of the Ho-Ho-Kus students.

Emanuel Averbach, Ph.D. (Dr. Averbach) qualified to testified as Midland Park's expert in demographics analysis and planning. Dr. Averbach found that Ho-Ho-Kus's Kindergarten to 8th grade enrollment has been rising while Midland Park's has been flat. He also found that Ho-Ho-Kus's enrollment for the 9th to 12th grades has been declining while Midland Park's has been rising slowly.

Dr. Averbach used a 2 year Cohort Survival Rate because he found it to provide the best estimates of future enrollment at MPHS. He used the 2 year period despite the fact that he acknowledged in his report that the standard procedures for preparing cohort survival enrollment projections rely on 5 or 6 years of recent enrollment history in order to provide a stable platform of conditions for projecting future enrollment. He did so because, in his opinion, the last 5 or 6 years of enrollment at MPHS did not provide a stable platform for such projections.

Using the 2 year Cohort Survival Rate, Dr. Averbach concluded that the following would be the number of Ho-Ho-Kus students lost to MPHS beginning in 1996:

Year	MPHS Enrollment Minus Ho-Ho-Kus Students	Total Enrollment
1996	389 minus 19 projected Ho-Ho-Kus students	370
1998	379 minus 64 projected Ho-Ho-Kus students	315
1999	363 minus 86 projected Ho-Ho-Kus students	277
2000	390 minus 94 projected Ho-Ho-Kus students	296

Dr. Averbach's total enrollment numbers are higher than Dr. Mastrobuono's because Dr. Averbach used the SHIP students in his calculations, whereas Dr. Mastrobuono used only Midland Park and Ho-Ho-Kus students. The SHIP students are students of the Bergen County Special Services School District. They are not residents of Bergen County and they are not included in any of Midland Park's student statistics. The SHIP staff is employed and paid by the Bergen County Special Services School District. SHIP is separate and distinct from the rest of MPHS and the majority of SHIP students are not in any mainstream classes. SHIP is essentially a school within a school. Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that the SHIP students should not be included in the calculation of projected future enrollment.

Even if the SHIP students are included, Dr. Mastrobuono's and Dr. Averbach's enrollment projections are substantially similar. They both show that MPHS will reach its lowest enrollment in 1999 and that enrollment at MPHS will begin to increase in 2000. Using Dr. Averbach's projections, MPHS will still have 277 students in the 9th to 12th grades in 1999. This figure does not include Midland Park's 7th and 8th grade students, nor does it take into consideration the fact that both Dr. Averbach and Dr. Mastrobuono agree that there will be an increase in the enrollment in Midland Park's 7th and 8th grades in the future.

In addition, the use of a 2 year Cohort Survival Rate does not give an accurate projection of future enrollment because it relies on the limited information provided by only 3 years of enrollment history. Overall trends over a longer period of time provide a better view of projected enrollment. Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that Dr. Mastrobuono's approach of using the 7 year Cohort Survival Rates most accurately projects future enrollment, that by 1999, MPHS will lose 76 Ho-Ho-Kus students over a 4 year period as a result of the termination of the sending-receiving relationship and that MPHS will still have a 9th to 12th grade population of at least 239 students, plus Midland Park's 7th and 8th grade students.

F. Substantial Negative Impacts

(1) Impact on Racial Composition:

It was clear from the testimony and evidence presented at the hearing that race is not a factor in this matter. Midland Park did not even address this issue in its post-hearing Brief. This probably is because its own expert on this issue, Adam F. Scrupski, Ed.D. (Dr. Scrupski), admitted that there would be no substantial negative impact on the racial composition at MPHS from the termination of the sending-receiving relationship.

In addition to Dr. Scrupski's admission, other evidence shows that during the 1993-94 school year, Midland Park was made up of 92% white students, 1% African-American students and 7% of another national origin. If the sending-receiving relationship is terminated, MPHS will be made up of 93% white students, 1% African-American students and 6% of another national origin. The statistics are essentially the same.

By reason of the foregoing, I FIND that race is not a factor in whether or not to allow the termination of the sending-receiving relationship between Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland Park. I further FIND that there would be no substantial negative impact on the racial composition at MPHS if the termination of that relationship is permitted.

(2) Impact on Financial Conditions:

Midland Park's Business Administrator, Louis Roer (Mr. Roer), and William S. Barnett, Ph.D. (Dr. Barnett), who qualified as an expert in educational economics and finance, testified with respect to the negative financial impact Midland Park will suffer as a result of the termination of the sending-receiving relationship. Mr. Roer testified that Midland Park's revenue comes from five sources: tuition income, State aid, local taxes, miscellaneous income (i.e. tuition for SHIP students and Adult School fees) and free balance income.

Mr. Roer estimated that 15 Ho-Ho-Kus 9th grade students would not attend MPHS in the 1996-97 school year. Mr. Roer calculated that at $9,800 per student, there would be a 1996-97 tuition income loss of $147,000. This figure is inflated for two reasons: less than 15 Ho-Ho-Kus students are projected to attend MPHS that year and the per pupil tuition figure of $9,800 is higher than that quoted to Ho-Ho-Kus. In addition, Mr. Roer admitted that if the 15 Ho-Ho-Kus students did not attend MPHS, Midland Park would raise the tuition for the remaining Ho-Ho-Kus students. He also admitted that the figure of $147,000 will be affected if more Midland Park students go to MPHS. Both Dr. Averbach and Dr. Mastrobuono agreed that Midland Park will have more 7th and 8th grade students in the future. Thus, the actual loss of tuition income cannot be calculated.

With respect to State aid, in 1995-96, Midland Park received $722,485. Mr. Roer testified that Midland Park will receive $88,168 less ($634,317) for 1996-97. He admitted, however, that $30,000 of this loss comes from a reward that Midland Park received from the State in 1995-96 and would not receive in the future. The $30,000 has nothing to do with the termination of the sending-receiving relationship. Since Midland Park knew that it would not receive this reward beyond 1995-96, it should have anticipated this loss and planned for replacement of those funds from other sources.

The State requires Midland Park to keep a balance of 3% of its budget in a free balance. Midland Park has an annual budget of $11 million. The money from the free balance is to be used as a contingency fund to offset shortfalls in the budget. For the 1994-95 school year, Midland Park had $150,000 left over from its budget. Midland Park placed that money into the free balance. As of July 1, 1995, Midland Park had $522,888 in its free balance. It has budgeted $100,000 of the free balance for the 1996-97 school year. Thus, as of June 30, 1996, Midland Park's free balance will be $422,888. This balance may be higher because, as Mr. Roer admitted, Midland Park expects to add unexpended funds from the 1995-96 budget to the free balance. Even without the addition of these unexpended funds, Midland Park will have about $422,888 in its free balance and this amount exceeds the 3% required by the State.

Mr. Roer also testified that the State imposes a CAP on the amount of taxes Midland Park can raise for the school budget. As long as Midland Park's free balance is at 3%, it could ask the State for a CAP waiver to raise additional taxes to offset any shortfall in its revenues. It also could cut certain expenditures without affecting educational services. For example, Mr. Roer testified that Midland Park is considering changing to a less expensive health benefits plan and that it could negotiate employee contributions to the health benefits plan. All of these measures would also help offset any shortfall in revenues resulting from the termination of the sending-receiving relationship.

Dr. Barnett concluded that the following substantial negative financial impacts will result from the termination of the sending-receiving relationship:

1. Cost per pupil for high school education in Midland Park will increase, and this will result in increased property taxes in Midland Park;

2. Capitalization of tax increases and damage to the reputation of the Midland Park schools will decrease property values in Midland Park; and

3. Property taxes in Ho-Ho-Kus will increase.

In coming to his conclusion, Dr. Barnett assumed that the decline in enrollment at MPHS would be that projected by Dr. Averbach. Based on Dr. Averbach's projections, Dr. Barnett projected a rise in per pupil costs even if MPHS cuts expenditures. Dr. Barnett also assumed inflation-adjusted increases in the costs per pupil at the rate of 5% per year. He then determined the effects of the termination of the sending-receiving realtionship on the costs to Midland Park residents over the 9 year period for which Dr. Averbach had prepared enrollment projections. From those costs, Dr. Barnett determined that by 2005, property taxes in Midland Park would increase by $544.02 in 1995 dollars.

Dr. Barnett described the effect of the rise in property taxes on property values, known in ecomonic terminology as "capitalization." Dr. Barnett concluded that the value of a median home in Midland Park would decline by about $6,500 in 1995 dollars. Dr. Barnett also stated, however, that the average value of a home in Midland Park is $214,500 as of the 1990 Census. If the value of a Midland Park home did decrease by $6,500 by 2005, as against today's present value, this would only be a 3% decline in a home valued at $214,500.

Vincent Calabrese (Mr. Calabrese) testified on behalf of Ho-Ho-Kus and qualified as an expert in school finance. Mr. Calabrese examined 2 scenarios to determine the financial impact on Midland Park: Ho-Ho-Kus students withdraw over a 4 year period, and Ho-Ho-Kus students do not withdraw. In both of these scenarios, Mr. Calabrese assumed that Midland Park's budget was at a projected 3.75% CAP limit. Mr. Calabrese examined a third scenario to determine the financial impact on Ho-Ho-Kus: he compared tuition costs at MPHS and NHRHS. He also examined a fourth scenario to determine the financial impact on Northern Highlands: Ho-Ho-Kus students transfer to NHRHS over 4 years. In this scenario, Mr. Calabrese assumed that Northern Highlands would use 50% of the tuition from the Ho-Ho-Kus students for tax relief.

Mr. Calabrese concluded that, during the transition period of the 4-year phased withdrawal, the increased tuition rate that Ho-Ho-Kus will pay for the students still at MPHS will mitigate the financial impact on Midland Park. This is consistent with Mr. Roer's testimony that Midland Park will raise the tuition for the remaining Ho-Ho-Kus students. In addition, other testimony indicated that the tuition for the SHIP students is tied to the same average cost per pupil and would adjust to the per pupil increase as a result of the withdrawal of the Ho-Ho-Kus students. Thus, tuition for the SHIP students also will increase and this would further mitigate the financial impact on Midland Park.

Mr. Calabrese also concluded that, after the transition years in 2000-2001, Midland Park's cost per pupil will be $14,270. In his opinion, this is not a significant increase given the history of the cost per pupil and the historical percentage increase from year to year. This increase will cause a tax increase of about 4.4% or $613 over a 5 year period for a house assessed at $188,000. Mr. Calabrese viewed this as a modest increase that would not constitute a substantial negative financial impact on Midland Park. In addition, this increase could be mitigated by having to spend less for supplies for the 76 less Ho-Ho-Kus students that will attend MPHS, by an increase in 7th and 8th grade Midland Park students, by increasing the tutition for the SHIP students and by the other cost-saving mechanisms mentioned by Mr. Roer.

With respect to Ho-Ho-Kus and Northern Highlands, Mr. Calabrese concluded that both will experience a positive financial impact. For example, NHRHS is highly under-utilized. It could add students without adding funds to cover the costs for those students. While Northern Highlands will use some of the Ho-Ho-Kus tuition income to cover new costs incurred to educate those new students, Mr. Calabrese determined that it will use most of the tuition income for tax relief. In additon, since Northern Highlands is able to charge a below cost tuition to Ho-Ho-Kus, Ho-Ho-Kus taxes will decrease an average of $209 on a home assessed at $350,000 over the period covered by his analysis.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that there will be no substantial negative financial impact on any of the Districts. There will be a tax increase in Midland Park as a result of the termination of the sending-receiving relationship, but that tax increase will not be substanital. In addition, the per pupil tuition for Ho-Ho-Kus students will be less at NHRHS and Ho-Ho-Kus will receive more value for each educational dollar spent to send its students to NHRHS.

(3) Impact on Quality of Education:

Ronald T. Hyman Ed.D. (Dr. Hyman), who qualified as a expert in educational curriculum and administration, and August C. DePreker (Mr. DePreker), Midland Park's Superintendent, testified for Midland Park. Midland Park also offered the testimony of the Principal of MPHS, a teacher who teaches Advanced Placement Calculus, Alegbra II, Math 7 Honors and Honors Pre-Calculus, an Art and English teacher, a teacher of elective courses in the Art and English Departments, the Director of Athletics and the Director of Special Services. These witnesses testified about the effects of the termination of the sending-receiving realtionship on the quality of education at MPHS.

Midland Park views quality of education as more than a quantification or listing of courses and activities offered, student performance on standardized tests, graduation rates or college acceptance rates. To Midland Park, quality of education includes and stems from the "silent curriculum." The "silent curriculum" is what MPHS teaches its students by the way it is organized and operated. It is the character, ethos, spirit or feel of the school and it involves an understanding of how and what a school provides to meet the needs of its students, including social interaction and behavior, pupil environment and relationships between students and staff. Midland Park claims that the termination of the sending-receiving relationship would change the "silent curriculum" and that this, in turn, would upset the delicate balance in MPHS among the 3 main groups of students (Midland Park students, Ho-Ho-Kus students and SHIP students). The termination also would negatively affect the character of MPHS and it would negatively impact individual students.

Midland Park also claims that Midland Park and SHIP students rely on Ho-Ho-Kus students for their contribution to leadership and for their prospective on school achievement, future goals, and participation in school athletics and co-curricular activities. According to Dr. Hyman's data, however, out of all of the co-curricular activities offered at MPHS during the 1994-95 school year, Ho-Ho-Kus students only participated in 19 clubs, 6 academic teams, 5 music activities, 2 theater productions and 3 publication activities. Ho-Ho-Kus students comprised at least 50% of the students participating in only 6 clubs and 3 academic teams. Out of 55 participants in student government, only 11 were from Ho-Ho-Kus.

With respect to leadership, Midland Park students led 9 clubs, Ho-Ho-Kus students led 2 clubs, Midland Park and Ho-Ho-Kus students jointly led 3 clubs, no Ho-Ho-Kus student led an academic team and only 14 out of 36 captains of athletic teams were Ho-Ho-Kus students. Only 4 out of 42 students participating in the Fall Drama were Ho-Ho-Ku students and only 12 out of 57 students participating in the Spring Musical were Ho-Ho-Kus students. In addition, out of 20 students who won Awards for General School Activities and Clubs in 1994, only 8 were from Ho-Ho-Kus.

Midland Park further claims that its athletic programs will be negatively affected. According to Dr. Hyman, student participation in athletics in 1994-95 was as follows:

Team	Ho-Ho-Kus	Midland Park	SHIP	Total
Football	2	37	3	42
Boys Soccer	8	30	1	39
Boys Cross Country	1	4	0	5
Girls Soccer	10	22	0	32
Girls Cross Country	3	4	0	7
Girls Tennis	6	8	0	14
Girls Volleyball	7	28	0	35
Co-ed Cheerleading, Fall	1	10	2	13
Boys Basketball	5	17	5	27
Boys Wrestling	4	14	0	18
Boys Track	0	8	0	8
Girls Basketball	5	14	0	19
Girls Track	3	9	0	12
Co-ed Bowling	3	13	0	16
Co-ed Cheerleading, Winter	6	12	1	19
Baseball	2	19	2	23
Boys Track	5	16	0	21
Boys Tennis	2	9	0	11
Softball	5	22	5	32
Girls Track	10	13	4	27
Co-ed Golf	1	8	0	9

Based upon the above, Ho-Ho-Kus students comprise about 50% of the students participating in only 4 athletic activities, Girls Cross Country, Girls Tennis, Winter Co-ed Cheerleading and Girls Spring Track. Midland Park argues that the loss of the Ho-Ho-Kus students would devastate the Girls Basketball and Tennis teams and would affect the SHIP students. Out of the 7 starting players on the Girls Basketball team, 4 were Ho-Ho-Kus students. The majority of thoses students, however, are seniors who will graduate in June 1995. The same is true for the Girls Tennis team, which has 6 Ho-Ho-Kus students, the majority of which are seniors. In addition, the SHIP students participate primarily in Football and Basketball. According to Dr. Hyman's data, only 2 out of 42 football players and only 5 out of 27 basketball players were Ho-Ho-Kus students.

Although Midland Park has claimed that the number of Ho-Ho-Kus students was often essential for the viability of a club, activity or athletic or team, Midland Park produced no evidence that a club, activity or athletic team actually would be eliminated as a result of the termination of the sending-receiving relationship. It must be remembered that MPHS would lose the Ho-Ho-Kus 12th grade students to graduation anyway and the Ho-Ho-Kus 9th, 10th and 11th grade students will remain to continue participating in clubs, activities and athletic teams. MPHS will only lose the incoming Ho-Ho-Kus students and there is no evidence whatsoever that any of these students would participate in any clubs, activities or athletic teams at MPHS.

Although Midland Park also claims that the termination of the sending-receiving relationship will negatively impact the academic curriculum at MPHS, it focused primarily on the effect of the termination on the Advanced Placement (AP) and Honors courses offered at MPHS. MPHS offers AP courses in Calculus, Computer Programming, English, French, Music Theory, Spanish and U.S. History. According to Dr. Hyman, student participation in these AP courses in 1994-95 was as follows:

AP Course	Ho-Ho-Kus	Midland Park	SHIP
Calculus	5	5	0
Computer Programming	1	11	0
English	6	8	0
French	3	0	0
Music Theory	3	17	0
Spanish	0	1	0
U.S. History	10	16	0

According to Dr. Hyman, student participation in Honors courses in 1994-95 was as follows:

Honors Course	Ho-Ho-Kus	Midland Park	SHIP
Advanced Computer Programming	2	10	1
Alegbra II	9	25	0
Biology	10	23	0
Calculus	4	10	0
Chemistry	10	19	0
English (10th grade)	5	4	0
English (11th grade)	9	15	0
French IV	6	6	0
Geometry	10	14	0
Physical Science	5	20	0
Physics	5	6	0
Pre-Calculus	13	20	0
Spanish IV	3	6	0

The testimony of Midland Park's witnesses shows that only 3 courses at MPHS that would be negatively affected by the termination of the sending-receiving realtionship. These are AP Calculus, AP French and Honors Biology. Dr. Hyman's data shows that in 1994-95, no SHIP students participated in any of these courses and no Midland Park students participated in AP French. Even assuming that those courses would be cancelled as a result of the termination of the sending-receiving relationship, there will be no impact on the SHIP students because they did not participate in any of those courses. Assuming that the AP French course would be cancelled, there would be no impact on Midland Park students because they did not participate in that course.

With respect to AP Calculus, Midland Park has set a limit of 10 students for that course. Midland Park has the discretion to permit more than 10 students to participate in that course. Midland Park could use that discretion to permit less than 10 students to participate in that course. In addition, testimony showed that Midland Park can utilize the Waldwick Consortium for those students who are interested in AP Calculus, it can offer those students an independent study or it can combine AP Calculus with Honors Calculus. Alternatives are, therefore, available for students interested in AP Calculus in the event that the course is cancelled as a result of the termination of the sending-receiving relationship.

With respect to Honors Biology, Dr. Hyman's data shows that 33 students participated in that course in 1994-95, 10 of which were Ho-Ho-Kus students. Even if all of Ho-Ho-Kus's students left MPHS in 1996-97, which is not the case, MPHS still would have more than the requisite 10 students to continue offering this course. Again, Midland Park has produced no evidence that Honors Biology or any other AP, Honors or regular course actually will be cancelled if the sending-receiving relationship is terminated. Even Dr. Hyman could not name any course that actually would be cancelled. It also must be remembered that 9th to 11th grade Ho-Ho-Kus students will remain at MPHS after the termination. If any of those students participate in AP or Honors courses, they will continue to do so until they graduate.

Midland Park also claims that the curriculum of the SHIP students would be negatively affected by the termination because some SHIP students are mainstreamed. According to Dr. Hyman, of the 63 SHIP students at MPHS in 1994-95, some were mainstreamed as follows:

Course	Number of SHIP Students
Accounting	3
Art	9
Computer Programming	8
Electives (Music, Art, Computers)	11
English	5
Graphic Arts	3
Health (First Aid, Driver Education CPR)	25
Independent Living	1
Journalism I	1
Marketing I	1
Mathematics	1
Physical Education	63
Science	8
Social Studies	4

This data shows that only a small number of SHIP students are mainstreamed in classes other than Health and Physical Education. With such a small number, there cannot be a substantial negative educational impact on SHIP students.

Dr. Hyman testified that MPHS will have difficulty functioning because it will be a smaller school (about 320 students) after the 4 year withdrawal period. His testimony contradicts the expert opinion he gave for the Mountain Lakes School District in Board of Education of the Township of Boonton v. Board of Education of the Town of Boonton, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 235. In that case, Dr. Hyman concluded that despite its size (314 students), Mountain Lakes High School was an excellent High School. He stated that "students like and prefer the atmosphere of the small school" and the "staff attributed Mountain Lakes's success to the committment to excellence and to the insistence on providing a rich program despite the size of the student body." Dr. Hyman also concluded that Mountain Lakes High School could accomodate its students' course selections despite limited enrollment and that Mountain Lakes was willing to find alternative avenues.

Midland Park has not investigated alternative avenues to lessen the impact of the termination of the sending-receiving relationship. It also rejected, without valid reasoning, some of the alternatives suggested by Ho-Ho-Kus's experts. Many of these alternatives have been implemented in smaller schools such as Mountain Lakes High School and Glen Ridge High School, which has 290 students in the 9th to 12th grades. Both Mountain Lakes High School and Glen Ridge High School are excellent schools and have been ranked as one of the top 10 schools in New Jersey by New Jersey Monthly.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that there will be no substantial negative educational impact on any of the Districts as a result of the termination of the sending-receiving realtionship.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

"Absent unusual circumstances or overriding social policy, it is preferable in a democratic society to let local people decide for themselves how their children should be educated and how their tax money should be spent." Board of Education of the Township of Boonton v. Board of Education of the Town of Boonton, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 235, 244. The State Board of Education "is obligated to effectuate the desire of a sending district to educate its students in another district so long as its preference is educationally based and the termination of an existing agreement does not create unwarranted instability." Washington Township Board of Education v. Upper Freehold Regional Board of Education, S.L.D. 89:2010, 2017; aff'd, S.L.D. 89:2038.

The Legislature recognized that a district can best decide how and where its students should be educated and it gave districts the power to make that decision. Once a sending district makes the decision to educate its students in another district, it must make an application to and receive the approval of the Commissioner to terminate or change an existing sending-receiving relationship. The Commissioner shall grant the change or termination if there is no substantial negative educational or financial impact or no substantial negative impact on the racial composition of the pupil population of the districts involved. N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-13. Englewood Cliffs v. Englewood, 257 N. J. Super. 413 (App. Div. 1992).

As a prerequisite to applying for termination, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 requires a petitioning district to prepare and submit a feasibility study addressing all of the areas specifically set forth in the statute. The petitioning district also must establish the factual basis underlying the study so as to withstand a challenge by a district contesting termination. Once the petitioning district does so, the burden shifts to the contesting district to produce evidence that termination will result in a substantial negative financial, racial or educational impact. Board of Education of the Borough of Merchantville v. Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, (State Board) 9/5/90), slip op. at 3.

It is acknowledged that any termination of a sending-receiving relationship will have some negative impact. Any receiving district losing students from a sending district will suffer some negative financial and/or educational impact. Although not an issue in this case, a receiving district also may suffer some negative racial impact. The question is whether or not the negative impact is "substantial" in that it will fundamentally affect the receiving high school and nearly destroy it.

In this case, Ho-Ho-Kus has made the decision to educate its students at NHRHS. Its decision clearly was educationally based. Ho-Ho-Kus then conducted the required feasibility study and applied to the Commissioner for approval of the termination of the existing sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park. At the hearing, Ho-Ho-Kus established the factual basis underlying the feasibility study. It, therefore, became Midland Park's burden to produce evidence that the termination will result in a substanial negative, financial, racial or educational impact.

Although Midland Park showed some negative financial and educational impact, those impacts are not substantial. MPHS is losing only 76 Ho-Ho-Kus students over a 4 year period. After that 4 year period, MPHS will have a minimum enrollment of 239 students, not including the 7th and 8th grade and SHIP students. Midland Park produced no evidence that it would not be able to continue operating MPHS with this number of students and continue offering its students the quality of education they currently are receiving. Midland Park only was able to speculate that it might have to cancel some courses or eliminate some clubs, activities or athletic teams. This does not constitute a substantial negative educational impact.

With respect to financial impact, Midland Park is concerned about potential tax increases resulting from the termination. Although there may be some tax increase in Midland Park, that increase will not be substantial. Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 "was never intended to create a revenue source for receiving districts or protect them from tax increases." Boonton, S.L.D. 89 at 2036.

The situation in this case is not like that in Bloomingdale Borough Board of Education v. Butler Borough Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 553; aff'd, St. Bd. 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 151. In Butler, the withdrawal of the students from the sending district would have reduced the enrollment at Butler High School (BHS) by 50%. This would have distorted and shrunk the range of courses offered and would have severly impacted the extracurricular program at BHS. In order for the district to continue operating BHS, a complete and unlikely overhaul of the school system would have to occur. Thus, it was concluded in Butler that a termination of the sending-receiving relationship with Bloomingdale would result in a substantial negative impact on BHS because the district could no longer provide its students with adequate courses and activities unless the district conducted a complete overhaul.

The termination of the sending-receiving relationship between Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland Park will not cause a substantial negative educational impact on MPHS. MPHS may be a somewhat different and smaller high school, but it will still exist after all of the Ho-Ho-Kus students have withdrawn and it still will be able to provide an appropriate education to its students.

ORDER

It, therefore, is ORDERED that Ho-Ho-Kus be and hereby is authorized to terminate its existing sending-receiving relationship with Midland Park and to enter into a new sending-receiving realtionship with Northern Highlands, subject to the following conditions:

1. Ho-Ho-Kus must enter into a contract for a new sending-receiving relationship with Northern Highlands for a minimum duration of 5 years; and

2. Withdrawal shall be phased-out over a 4 year period, starting with the incoming 9th grade class in September 1996, the 10th grade class in September 1997, the 11th grade class in September 1998, and the 12th grade class in September 1999.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HO-HO-KUS, BERGEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MIDLAND PARK, BERGEN COUNTY, AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE NORTHERN HIGHLANDS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board of Education of the Borough of Midland Park (hereinafter Midland) filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Borough of Ho-Ho-Kus (hereinafter Ho-Ho-Kus) and Northern Highlands Regional High School Board of Education (hereinafter NHRHS) filed timely reply exceptions.

Midland's submission cites five exceptions to the initial decision summarized in pertinent part below. Its first exception contends that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in concluding that a substantial negative financial and educational impact as result of severance has not been established. It avers that in so finding, the ALJ chose to arbitrarily measure such impact only as of the commencement of the phase-out process which would follow severance, or, at most, one year, rather than measuring impact when severance is complete and total, i.e., at the end of the phase-out period and thereafter as required by the applicable statute and existing case law. Midland avers that the ALJ simply assumed the loss of 9th graders in the 1996-97 school year and judged the resultant negative impact solely on this factor. As substantiation of this assertion, it posits that in her discussion of educational impacts the ALJ > discounts and ultimately rejects all of the evidence which was presented by Midland Park with respect to both course offerings (particularly with respect to AP and Honors courses) and the effects upon clubs, activities and athletic teams by suggesting that "[I]t also must be remembered that 9th to 11th grade HoHoKus students will remain at [Midland Park High School] MPHS after the termination" (Initial Decision at page 22), and that "[I]t must be remembered that MPHS would lose the HoHoKus 12th grade students to graduation anyway and the HoHoKus 9th, 10th and 11th grade students will remain to continue participating in clubs, activities and athletic teams." (Initial Decision at page 20). It is clear from such statements, and from the conclusions reached by Administrative Law Judge Simonelli based upon such statements, that the Court failed or refused to consider the effects and impacts beyond the 1996-1997 school year (the first year of the phase-out recommended in the Initial Decision) since, had the Court properly focused upon effects and impacts at the end of the phase-out period, when severance and termination was full and complete, the Court would have, of necessity, acknowledged the loss of a substantially greater number of additional students who would no longer remain to continue to participate in such activities and to enroll in such courses. (Midland's Exceptions at pp. 3-4)

Midland further proffers that compounding this narrow view of the effects of severance, the ALJ proceeded to impose an impossible standard of proof upon it when she stated, with respect to the loss of incoming Ho-Ho-Kus 9th grade students, "that there is 'no evidence whatsoever that any of these students would participate in clubs, activities or athletic teams at MPHS.'" (Midland's Exceptions at p. 4, quoting Initial Decision at p. 20) Midland asserts that there is no conceivable way it, or any other receiving district facing the prospect of the termination of a sending-receiving relationship, could present testimony which would establish, with any degree of certainty, that specific incoming students would participate in identified clubs, activities, athletic teams or educational offerings during the course of their four-year high school experience sufficient enough to establish, with an absolute certainty, which activities would be terminated or eliminated as a result of severance.

Next, Midland asserts that the Court imposes an arbitrary requirement that negative impact can be established only by viewing those activities in which Ho-Ho-Kus students currently comprise not less than 50% of total participation in a particular activity. It posits that this invalid analytical approach is evidenced by the ALJ's conclusion that "there was no evidence that any club, activity or athletic team actually would be eliminated as a result of the termination of the sending-receiving relationship" (emphasis in text) (Midland's Exceptions at p. 5), which, it contends, was predicated on the ALJ's finding that "HoHoKus students comprise about 50% of the students participating in only 4 athletic activities, Girl's Cross-Country, Girl's Tennis, Winter Co-Ed Cheerleading and Girl's Spring Track." (Id., quoting Initial Decision at p. 19) Midland avers that in utilizing such arbitrary 50% participation cutoff point, the ALJ fully ignored the testimony offered by Midland's athletic director which concluded, based on sound, accurate data, such as past student participation trends, and guidelines and requirements as to the minimum number of students necessary to field specific teams, that a significant deterioration in Midland's athletic programs would ensue from severance.

Additionally, with respect to the effects on Midland's academic curriculum, in concluding that only three courses (AP Calculus, AP French and Honors Biology) would be negatively impacted by severance, Midland contends that the ALJ totally ignored extensive testimony of its high school principal with regard "to the likely impacts, not only upon specific course offerings which encompassed courses far beyond the three which [the ALJ] indicated would be at risk, but also upon the already difficult course scheduling process and its effect upon the district's staffing needs and decisions." (Id. at p. 7) Again, Midland asserts that the ALJ found that there was no negative educational impact based upon "the inappropriate utilization of an overly constricted relevant time period for measuring such impact and without any consideration whatsoever of future impacts, either during the balance of, or following, the completion of the phase-out period." (emphasis in text) (Id.)

Midland contends that the ALJ similarly erred in measuring the financial impact of severance during only the first year of the proposed phase-out rather than at the point where severance was complete. In this connection, Midland cites what it avers were a number of erroneous and inappropriate conclusions reached by the ALJ. Initially, it asserts that its business administrator offered unrefuted testimony that the total tuition loss from the initial phase-out would be approximately $147,000 (15 prospective students @ $9,800 each). The ALJ concluded that such figure was "inflated," a conclusion which Midland posits is "both unfounded and not supported by the record." (Midland's Exceptions at p. 10) Further, because the ALJ concluded that Midland might have an increased enrollment of 7th and 8th graders in the future, she determined that "actual" tuition loss cannot be calculated with mathematical certainty and, as such, no further consideration need be given to tuition loss as an element of negative financial impact, a conclusion Midland contends is without foundation or legal precedent. Midland observes that "[w]hile acknowledging that the State requires [all districts] to keep a minimum of three percent of its overall budget in free balance for its contingency needs , the ALJ inappropriately chooses to arbitrarily terminate her analysis and consideration of the impact of the loss of tuition income from HoHoKus upon the State's free balance requirement as of June 30, 1996," because she determined that, at that point in time, Midland would have a free balance of $422,888 which exceeds the 3% required by the State. (emphasis in text) (Id. at p. 11) Midland argues that in so determining, the ALJ again confined her impact analysis to an overly constricted period of time. It contends that the ALJ arbitrarily refused to recognize the testimony of its business administrator stating that the loss of $147,000 in the first year of the phase-out would necessitate an appropriation from this free balance, causing Midland to fall well below the State requirement, and further refused to allow him to testify as to the continuing impacts and consequences of the tuition loss of Midland's ability to comply with the State's free balance requirement in subsequent years.

In response, Ho-Ho-Kus asserts that Midland's claim that the ALJ erred by measuring the effects of severance only as of the commencement of phase-out, which, it posits, was totally based on one comment made by the ALJ, is clearly illogical. It maintains that the initial decision is replete with statements substantiating that the ALJ viewed impact based on the completion of severance. As examples, it advances "The ALJ specifically stated that, 'MPHS is losing only 76 Ho-Ho-Kus students over a 4 year period...Midland Park produced no evidence that it would not be able to continue operating MPHS with this number of students and continue offering the students the quality of education they currently are receiving." (emphasis in text) (Ho-Ho-Kus' Reply Exceptions at p. 23, quoting Initial Decision at p. 25) "Furthermore, the ALJ makes several references to the enrollment figures after the phase-out (Initial Decision at 12); she also discusses the ability of MPHS to properly educate its students after the phase-out as compared to other public high school[s] with small enrollment figures (Initial Decision at 23); and she discusses the financial impact of severance to the year 2001. (Initial Decision at 16-17)." (Ho-Ho-Kus' Reply Exceptions at p. 23)

Ho-Ho-Kus further maintains that Midland's contention with respect to an "unreasonable standard" being imposed in connection with establishing impact on extracurricular activities in that the ALJ imposed a floor of a 50% participation rate by Ho-Ho-Kus students, is similarly meritless as it is clearly evident from the full context of the initial decision that the ALJ imposed no such arbitrary requirements, but rather just expressed her determination "that loss of Ho-Ho-Kus students would not have a negative impact on MPHS extracurricular activities by pointing out that the Ho-Ho-Kus participation rate in most sports is relatively low." (Id. at p. 25)

Likewise, Ho-Ho-Kus advances that Midland's assertion regarding the ALJ's use of an inappropriately short period of time within which financial impact on the District was measured, is totally without support. It contends that in her initial decision at pages 15-17, the ALJ clearly addressed the financial projections of Dr. Barnett, which extended until the year 2005, and those proffered by Mr. Calabrese which spanned until the year 2001. (Ho-Ho-Kus' Reply Exceptions at p. 38) Further, the ALJ's determination that the $147,000 tuition loss for the 1996-97 school year was an inflated figure is fully supported in light of testimony offered by Mr. Haldeman and Dr. Jackson that only 14 Ho-Ho-Kus 9th grade students were expected to attend Midland at a rate which had not yet been agreed upon but which would probably be between $9,200 and $9,300. (Id. at p. 44) Ho-Ho-Kus additionally posits that in arriving at the $147,000 figure, Mr. Roer neglected to consider cost savings which would result from withdrawal and the portion of this small revenue reduction which would be picked up by Ho-Ho-Kus and Bergen County Special Services District through increased tuition costs for remaining students. (Id.) Moreover, it argues, that even if the $147,000 figure truly approximated Midland's first-year tuition loss, this amount represents but a fraction of its overall budget of $11 million. (Id. at p. 46)

In its second exception, Midland asserts that the ALJ erroneously concluded that the use of a seven-year cohort rate most accurately projects future enrollment at Midland "because it provides longer periods of enrollment history that [take] into account most happenings that would impact enrollment." (Midland's Exceptions at p. 14, quoting Initial Decision at p. 10) Midlands contends that "this approach is, in fact, nothing but the utilization of arbitrarily chosen assumptions motivated by the blind acceptance of the notion that longer periods of enrollment history provide a more stable base for projections." (Id.) Rather, Midland asserts that the choice of the enrollment period history to be utilized must be made on a case-by-case basis to most accurately reflect and gauge the relevant data, such as housing patterns and other vital statistics, along with their changes over time, for the particular community(ies) involved. Midland asserts that the "'longer is always better' approach" (Id. at p. 16) utilized by the ALJ was specifically rejected by the Commissioner in Boonton Township Board of Education v. Boonton Town Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d EDU 235, 249 (1992), and maintains that the two-year trend utilized by Dr. Averback was superior to Dr. Mastrobuono's "longer is always better" approach in this particular case and should have been accepted by the ALJ. Further, Midland contends that Dr. Mastrobuono's exclusion of Secondary Hearing Impaired Program (SHIP) students from his calculations "totally distorts the analysis of the impact of such withdrawal" (Midland's Exceptions at p. 18) as the testimony of Midland's Superintendent of Schools clearly established that "there are a considerable number of HoHoKus special education students attending Midland Park High School, including eleven students in the Resource Center and one

HoHoKus student attending the neurologically impaired program at Midland Park High School." (Id. at pp. 17-18)

In response, Ho-Ho-Kus asserts that, although Midland vigorously opposes the ALJ's adoption of the seven-year cohort survival rate of Dr. Mastrobuono as opposed to the two-year rate utilized by Dr. Averback, as the ALJ and both experts have recognized > the variance between the use of a two year cohort and a seven year cohort is very slight. In other words, despite the fact that the Ho-Ho-Kus and the Midland Park demographic experts used different cohort survivals, they produced similar projections. Thus, either projection supports the decision in this matter -- the numbers are essentially the same. (Ho-Ho-Kus' Reply Exceptions at p. 18)

It argues that Midland's claim that Dr. Mastrobuono's projections were "self-serving statistical conclusions" (id. at p. 19), is unsupportable in that, as indicated in his report, if Dr. Mastrobuono wished to use the cohort which would produce the highest enrollment figures, he would have chosen the five-year cohort survival. Rather, Ho-Ho-Kus posits that his demographical experience "has found that the use of a longer cohort rate proves to more accurately project future enrollment." (Id.)

Ho-Ho-Kus further advances that Midland's argument with respect to the exclusion of special education students, pointing to 11 such Ho-Ho-Kus students currently attending Midland, is misguided in that > While eleven Ho-Ho-Kus students do participate in the Resource Center, those children are counted as mainstream pupils as a matter of law and regulation in the ASSA reports from which Dr. Mastrobuono obtained his enrollment figures. In other words, those eleven children were included in Dr. Mastrobuono's report because, for purposes of the ASSA reports, those students are considered mainstream students, not Special Education students.

> (Id. at p. 20)

Ho-Ho-Kus points out that, notwithstanding which cohort the ALJ chose to adopt, both experts' reports demonstrate an ascension in Midland enrollment in the year 2000 and, even if Dr. Averbach's projections were utilized, these conclude that Midland "will reach its lowest level in 1999 and will still have 277 pupils enrolled; a population [which Ho-Ho-Kus contends is] comparable to some of the best high schools in New Jersey." (Id. at pp. 21-22)

Midland's third exception maintains that in concluding that severance would impose no substantial negative financial impact on Midland, the ALJ specifically rejected the testimony and evidence presented by William S. Barnet, Ph.D., an expert in Educational Economics and Finance which > established that by the year 2004-05, there would be an increase in the annual average tax payment by the typical Midland Park homeowner of $544.02 in 1995 dollars, over the annual amount which would have been paid had HoHoKus not withdrawn. This amount is not a cumulative amount, as would appear to be the inference of [the ALJ's] statement that "Dr. Barnett determined that by 2005, property taxes in Midland Park would increase by $544.02 in 1995 dollars" (Initial Decision at page 15), but rather only one year's increase, with increases in each year between 1996-97 and 2004-2005 and, of course, in each year thereafter, in perpetuity. (See MP-25 in evidence, Table 45, page 127.) (emphasis in text)(Midland's Exceptions at p. 21)

Midland further asserts that the ALJ, likewise, failed to give credence to Dr. Barnett's testimony with respect to the full extent and significance of the capitalization "(i.e. the decrease in property values based upon increases in property taxes and potential buyers' evaluations of the taxes and services offered by a locality)" impact of the property tax increase. (Id. at p. 22) Midland argues that inherent in this examination is a recognition, posited by Dr. Barnett, that given most homeowners have borrowed the majority of the money for purchasing their homes, their actual equity is far lower than the value of their home. Consequently, homeowners bear all of the risk of a decline in their home's value, resulting, even with a most conservative estimate of the effects of the capitalization effect of projected property tax increases, in such increases representing a substantial percentage of their actual equity, which equates to a serious economic loss. Midland contends that the ALJ ignored using this sound measure of economic impact and, instead, "inaccurately and incorrectly determined to measure the impact of the capitalization of the property tax increases against either the average value of a home in Midland Park, or the average assessment of such a home, rather than against the property owner's much smaller equity interest therein." (Id.) As such, Midland posits that the ALJ's reasoning and resultant conclusions with respect to the negative effects on home values as a result of the capitalization of tax increases necessitated by severance and the negative financial impacts on Midland as a consequence, are fundamentally flawed and should be rejected.

In reply, Ho-Ho-Kus advances that Midland's assertions with regard to the potential tax impacts of severance and, thus, resultant home values, for Midland homeowners is clearly incorrect. Rather, it offers, "As Mr. Calabrese testified and as his report indicates (HHK12, Scenario 1, Table 4), Midland Park will only experience an average yearly tax increase of $122.58 which is equivalent to $613 over 5 years." (Ho-Ho-Kus' Reply Exceptions at p. 39) Also, as testified to by Mr. Calabrese, home values are influenced by a myriad of factors, local taxes are but one of these factors. (Id. at p. 42) Further, it posits that Midland's statements with regard to the average homeowner's equity are merely assumptions rather than being rationally based on an examination of actual equity maintained by Midland homeowners. It reasons, such an assumption, likewise, presupposes that an "[individual's] wealth is automatically linked exclusively to and limited by the equity in one's home" (id. at p. 43), a presumption which fails to adequately recognize that "homeowners' net worth may also be tied to their securities, personal property, retirement plans and other assets." (Id.)

In its fourth exception, Midland avers that the ALJ erred in finding that Ho-Ho-Kus has cogent reasons for wanting to terminate its sending-receiving relationship with Midland. In this regard, it contends that the ALJ simply accepted at face value those reasons offered by Ho-Ho-Kus without considering the perspectives and responses offered by Midland in its reply post-hearing brief at pages 2-7. As such, Midland maintains that the ALJ's consideration of the withdrawal rationales was fundamentally arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable and should be discounted by the Commissioner, citing Washington Township Board of Education v. Upper Freehold Regional Board of Education et al., Commissioner of Education decision dated June 27, 1989, 1989 S.L.D. 2010, in support of this assertion. (Midland's Exceptions at pp. 25-26)

In response, Ho-Ho-Kus argues that Midland's only support for its claim that the ALJ's finding of cogent reasons for withdrawal was arbitrary and unreasonable "is the fact that the ALJ accepted Ho-Ho-Kus' rationale rather than theirs." (Ho-Ho-Kus' Reply Exceptions at p. 9) It alleges that the ALJ is charged with making credibility and judgment decisions in her evaluation of the parties respective arguments and such decisions cannot be termed arbitrary and capricious simply because they did not comport with the position advanced by Midland. Ho-Ho-Kus maintains that the record is replete with examples that lack of effective articulation with Midland is a primary Ho-Ho-Kus concern with respect to its severance application, pointing to testimony advanced by the President of Ho-Ho-Kus' Board of Education and its Superintendent of Schools which detailed specific problem areas in this regard. It also advances differences in philosophies with respect to special education students as another area of dissatisfaction along with the desire for a fixed rate of tuition charged "in order to avoid miscalculations and unpredictable adjustments [as in] the present situation in which tuition is determined on a year to year basis." (Id. at p. 11) Ho-Ho Kus additionally asserts that its parents and community members are also dissatisfied with the current relationship and many are choosing to either move or send their children to private schools. (Id. at p. 12) Ho-Ho-Kus argues that these established concerns will be eliminated if it is permitted to have NHRHS as its receiving District, in that the proposed arrangement involves a specific articulation agreement, an identifiable under-cost per pupil tuition for ten years, and attendance for Ho-Ho-Kus children at an institution which is recognized as offering an exceptional educational package. It contends that "[f]or these reasons alone, the ALJ's findings that Ho-Ho-Kus' reasons for wanting to alter its sending-receiving situation are educationally based, and cannot be considered 'arbitrary and unreasonable.'" (Id. at p.17)

Lastly, Midland's fifth exception urges that if termination of the sending-receiving relationship should be ordered by the Commissioner, that "the implementation of any withdrawal which may ultimately be ordered should commence, at the earliest, with the HoHoKus ninth grade class which would otherwise enter Midland Park High School in September, 1997." (emphasis in text) (Midland's Exceptions at p. 27) It avers that the Board's budget for the 1996-97 school year, which included anticipated tuition income from Ho-Ho-Kus as one of its five sources of income, integral to the establishment of a balanced budget, has been prepared, submitted and approved in accordance with Department of Education timeline mandates and cannot, as a matter of law, be altered at this time. It argues that

> "[W]hile Administrative Law Judge Simonelli has concluded that Midland Park would have available to it a free balance as of June 30, 1996 of $422,888.00, the Court's conclusion that this amount would exceed the 3% required by the State is inaccurate, since the Court's reasoning stopped short of even acknowledging the consequences of the appropriation from free balance of the amount necessary to make up for the loss of tuition which would result from the first step of phase-out, namely, that Midland's free > balance will immediately fall below the State required 3%. There simply are no other sources of revenue, or mechanisms for increasing the amounts available from the existing sources of revenue, which are available to the Midland Park District to enable the Midland Park School District to immediately and adequately compensate for the tuition income losses were phase-out to commence as of September, 1996. (Id. at p. 29)

Further, Midland contends that the suggestions offered by the ALJ, i.e., to immediately request a cap waiver from the State or to cut certain expenditures which wouldn't impact educational services, are, as a legal and practical matter, options which are unavailable to it at this late date to mitigate the effects of the immediate loss of tuition for the 1996-97 school year. (Id. at p. 30)

In response, Ho-Ho-Kus posits that Midland has been aware of Ho-Ho-Kus' desire to terminate their sending-receiving relationship beginning with the 1996-97 school year since early 1994 "and has been repeatedly reminded of this during the 1995-96 school year, including as part of the budget procedure for the 1996-97 budget." (Ho-Ho-Kus' Reply Exceptions at p. 51) It asserts that, notwithstanding the long-term clear notice, Midland has been unwilling to make any type of contingent plans to mitigate the minimal loss which may result from the loss of 14 Ho-Ho-Kus students in the 1996-97 school year. Ho-Ho-Kus advances that its 8th graders at issue have been fully prepared to enter NHRHS in September and should not be deprived of their expectations merely because Midland has not prepared for a potential situation of which it has been fully aware for some time.

With respect to Midland's free balance argument, Ho-Ho-Kus points out that a 3% level is merely recommended, not required, by the State. Notwithstanding this, it posits that even if use of Midland's free balance is necessary to compensate for the loss of tuition of 14 Ho-Ho-Kus students in 1996-97, the facts that surplus funds from 1995-96 will be added to Midland's free balance in June 1996 (as confirmed by the testimony of Midland's business manager), fewer supplies will be required as a result of decreased enrollment, and the proportionate increase in tuition for remaining 10th, 11th and 12th grade Ho-Ho-Kus students and SHIP students, will render the "lost" money truly irrelevant. (Id. at p. 52)

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, including the exception submissions of the parties, the Commissioner concurs with the conclusion of the ALJ that the termination of the sending-receiving relationship between Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland Park will not result in any substantial negative racial,* educational, or financial impact and, therefore, severance must be granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. His examination of the within matter leads the Commissioner to concur with the ALJ's assessment that no substantial educational or financial impact will inure to Midland as a result of the severance. With regard to educational impacts, notwithstanding Midland's arguments to the contrary, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ correctly observes that Midland has established that three courses would be negatively impacted by severance. (Initial Decision at p. 21) He is, likewise, persuaded that Midland's arguments regarding the impact of severance on other course offerings is purely speculative. Considering financial impact, the Commissioner recognizes that any termination of a sending-receiving relationship will result in some financial impact, but such impact must be significant in order to be categorized as "substantial[ly] negative." See Board of Education of the Borough of Englewood Cliffs, Bergen County v. Board of Education of the City of Englewood, Bergen County v. Board of Education of the Borough of Tenafly, Bergen County, 1988 S.L.D. 1501, 1546, aff'd State Board 1990 S.L.D. 1720, aff'd 257 N.J. Super. 413 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd 132 N.J. 327 (1993). The Commissioner's review leads him to conclude that severance will not result in substantial negative financial impacts to any of the three Districts involved herein. Although Midland Park will be denied revenue and incur tax increases as a consequence of severance, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's assessment that such outcomes have not been established to be "substantial" while, at the same time, the record demonstrates that positive financial benefits will inure to NHRHS and Ho-Ho-Kus as a result of severance.

The Commissioner finds that Midland's exceptions, in large measure, refashion and restate arguments advanced in its post-hearing submissions which the Commissioner determines were considered and addressed by the ALJ in the initial decision, or that such exceptions attempt to draw assumptions and conclusions from the initial decision which are clearly belied by a "reasoned reading" of such decision. Particularly unpersuasive are its assertions that the ALJ's educational and financial impact assessments were predicated only on an examination of such impacts at commencement of, or shortly after, severance. Rather, as argued in Ho-Ho-Kus' reply exceptions, the Commissioner concludes that a comprehensive reading of the initial decision establishes that the ALJ's evaluation spanned the entire period of the contemplated withdrawal. Likewise unpersuasive are Midland's assertions that the two-year cohort rate of Dr. Averbach should have been utilized to project future enrollment rather than the seven-year cohort rate adopted by the ALJ. For the reasons outlined by the ALJ on pages 10-13 of the initial decision, the Commissioner concurs with her determination that the utilization of the seven-year cohort rate was most appropriate in this particular matter. Further, as correctly asserted by both the ALJ and the petitioner, notwithstanding which rate is utilized, the resultant projections are similar and establish that the resultant impact of severance is not substantial.

It is noted that Midland raises extensive exceptions regarding disputed and undisputed facts determined by the ALJ based on testimony of its witnesses and the credence and weight ascribed to such testimony by the ALJ. However, the record before the Commissioner does not include transcripts of the nine days of OAL hearings in this matter. Challenges to the factual findings predicated upon credibility determinations made by an administrative law judge require the party to supply the agency head with the relevant and necessary portion of the transcript. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158 (App. Div. 1987). Thus, without pertinent transcript citations from which to draw his own conclusions, the Commissioner defers to those credibility determinations reached by the ALJ who was in a position to hear and adjudge the credibility of witnesses. See Parker v. Dornbierer, 140 N.J. Super. 185, 188 (App. Div. 1976). Further, the Commissioner determines that such findings and conclusions of the ALJ are well grounded in the record before him, and such record, additionally, does not provide any cause to challenge the weight ascribed to evidence or credibility assessments made by her. Consequently, Midland's exceptions challenging the ALJ's credibility determinations and the factual findings predicated thereon, are hereby rejected as being without merit.

The Commissioner further opines that, although the applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, does not require Ho-Ho-Kus to demonstrate good and sufficient justifications for wanting to terminate its sending-receiving relationship, Midland correctly notes in its exception arguments that such justifications are subject to challenge as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. See Washington Township Board of Education v. Upper Freehold Regional Board of Education et al., 1989 S.L.D. 2010. In this regard, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ's consideration of the rationales which compelled Ho-Ho-Kus to seek withdrawal was entirely reasonable and justified as the record fully substantiates the existence of such reasons, including poor communication, financial disagreements, and educational quality. Further, the Commissioner finds that both Ho-Ho-Kus and NHRHS would derive many genuine benefits, both academic and fiscal, from their proposed relationship.

Finally, the Commissioner concludes that, as noted by the ALJ, there are mitigating strategies available to Midland to alleviate any impact which may be experienced. As found by the State Board in Board of Education of the Township of Cranbury, Middlesex County v. Board of Education of the Township of Lawrence, Mercer County, > approval for withdrawal will be granted unless the receiving district can show that withdrawal will result in negative impact beyond the fact of the loss of tuition. We further conclude,that such impact must be definite and tangible. Specifically, we will not find negative impact based on speculation regarding the future of the receiving district's programs where the future direction of such programs will be determined by decisions, both financial and educational, made by that district and the continued ability to achieve its educational goals is within the control of the receiving district. (1987 S.L.D. 2580, 2587)

As such, absent a showing of substantial racial, educational or financial negative impact herein, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, the Commissioner is required to grant the requested severance. Further, he is persuaded that no undue hardship for Midland would result from such severance commencing with the 1996-97 school year, in that Midland had ample prior notice of the possibility of impending severance during this time period, and he concludes that impacts occasioned by such commencement will be minimized by Midland's addition of surplus from 1995-96 to its free balance and the proportionate increases in tuition it will receive for SHIP and remaining Ho-Ho-Kus students.

Accordingly, the initial decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons expressed therein. Ho-Ho-Kus' application for severance from its sending-receiving relationship with Midland is hereby granted, subject to its entering into a new sending-receiving relationship with NHRHS for a minimum duration of five years, and that withdrawal shall be phased out over a four-year period, beginning with the incoming 9th grade class in September 1996.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

HEARING OF NICHOLAS CIUFI,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON,	:	DECISION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent assistant principal for incident of alleged sexual touching. Respondent was suspended with pay.

In light of testimony of witnesses and evidence in the record, the ALJ determined that respondent did engage in unbecoming conduct and that the egregious nature of his conduct showed that a single instance of misconduct can be sufficient to remove him. ALJ ordered respondent removed from his tenured position.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's credibility determinations and resultant conclusion that respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct. Citing Redcay, In re Campbell and In re Sammons, the Commissioner found that dismissal was warranted. (Even a single act of misconduct may be sufficient to terminate a tenured teacher.) Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from his position as an assistant school principal and matter was forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for review.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6022-94
AGENCY REF. NO. 165-5/94

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF NICHOLAS CIUFI, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.

Nicholas Celso, III, Esq. and Joseph R. Morano, Esq., for petitioner
(Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Wayne Oppito, Esq. for respondent

Record Closed: June 3, 1996 Decided: July 18, 1996

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

This matter concerns the tenure charges brought against respondent, Nicholas Ciufi, which were certified by Rodgers M. Lewis, superintendent of schools on April 29, 1994 and served upon respondent. On May 24,1994 the charges were transmitted to the Department of Education an answer was filed on June 7, 1994.

On June 21, 1994 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

An in-person prehearing was held on October 26, 1994 and hearing dates were assigned in December 1994. Those hearing dates were adjourned due to discovery problems and new hearing dates were set beginning October 10, 1995. On that date testimony was taken and the matter continued on October 11, 1995, October 13, 1995 as well as October 18, 1995 and December 13, 1995. At the conclusion of testimony in this matter the hearing record remained open until June 3, 1996 to allow the parties to obtain transcripts of the matter and file posthearing submissions.

It should be noted that during the course of this hearing a protective order for a closed hearing was signed at the request of both parties so that the identity of individuals who were minors at the time of the December 2, 1992 incident would be protected by the use of their initials or similar designation and as such initials will be used throughout this initial decision.

JOINT STIPULATION OF FACTS

The parties in this matter by way of stipulation of facts agree that the following facts are in evidence (J-1):

1. The Irvington Board of Education (Board) is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the schools of the Irvington school district.

2. Or on about January 21, 1996, Nicholas Ciufi, was employed by the Board as an interim class supervisor at the Frank Morell (Irvington) High School.

3. Mr. Ciufi is certified as a principal/supervisor.

4. At all times relevant to the charges herein, Mr. Ciufi had been employed as a tenured assistant principal at Irvington High School since the 1982-83 school year. A copy of the job description of the position principal is attached to J-1 as Exhibit A.

5. During the 1992-93 school year, N.M. was a student at Irvington High School, date of birth February 13, 1976.

6. On or about April 29, 1994 Mr. Ciufi was administratively suspended with pay, pending further investigation of an incident which allegedly occurred at the high school with N.M. on December 2, 1992. (Exhibit B- of J-1).

7. Also, as a result of the December 2, 1992 incident, the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) institutional investigation unit was called to investigate the matter.

8. On or about April 29, 1994, then Superintendent of Schools Dr. Rodgers M. Lewis filed sworn tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, and other just cause together with a sworn statement of evidence in support of the charges against Mr. Ciufi, with John D'Angelo, then the Board secretary of the Irvington Board of Education. A copy of the charges were also served upon Mr. Ciufi (Exhibit C of J-1).

9. On or about May 18, 1994, after consideration of the charges and evidence against Mr. Ciufi, together with the attorney's written submissions, the Board determined to proceed to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. (Exhibit E of J-1).

10. Further, at that meeting, the Board determined to suspend Mr. Ciufi with pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

11. Thereafter on May 20, 1994, the above charges, together with the sworn statement of evidence, and a certificate of determination were filed by the Board with the Commissioner of Education and served upon Mr. Ciufi in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1.

12. On or about June 3, 1994, an answer was filed on behalf of Mr. Ciufi. (Exhibit E of J-1).

13. The matter was thereafter transmitted by the Commissioner to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was assigned to administrative law judge Marylouise Lucchi-McCloud.

14. Finally, on or about December 19, 1994 the Board moved before the Honorable Philip Freedman, J.S.C., for an order permitting for a hearing;

    1) The release of the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) investigative file concerning the December 2, 1992 incident, as well as;

    2) permission for all DYFS employees who conducted the investigation to testify. A copy of Judge Freedman's order releasing the file is provided herein. (Exhibit F of J-1).

15. Also, on or about September 9, 1994, the Board moved before the Honorable Donald S. Coburn, J.S.C. for an order releasing the prosecutor's file in the above matter. A copy of Judge Coburn's order releasing the prosecutor's file is provided herein. (Exhibit G).

As these facts are stipulated to by the parties I FIND them to form operational facts in this case.

TESTIMONY

This case deals with charges against Nicholas Ciufi regarding a student in the school in which he taught named N.M. who was a minor at the time. N.M. testified during the hearing that she had gone to the high school although changed schools before graduating.

On December 2, 1992 she stated that the bell had rung and she and R.M. went to get a pass from respondent Ciufi. At that time he was dealing with five or six other people. She stated that they went to a holding room and he told her to wait. He then gave R.M. a pass while she was writing a letter. He then looked over and stated to her that he gets jealous. She testified that he began rubbing her hand and that he then took her hand and made her touch his penis.

N.M. stated that right after that she left and told R.M. When she left Ciufi's office she did remain in school for the remainder of the day. That evening she went to an ROTC program as she was a participant and they were to escort parents around the building. Among those chosen for this detail were R.M.; C.B. and C.J. The witness stated that R.M. had told C.B. what had happened. N.M. also spoke with C.B. and asked him to stay with her during that evening detail because Ciufi was there in the school. She stated that when she saw Ciufi he merely smiled and laughed.

The witness stated that her sister told her not to tell her mother and that on the following day she spoke with Sergeant Zeigler who was her ROTC teacher. Sergeant Zeigler then went to see Mr. Joy and came back and told her that Mr. Joy could not do anything without a written statement. She then wrote a statement (P-1) for Mr. Joy. A meeting took place between herself, Zeigler, Joy, and Mr. Pilone. Her mother was then called and she said she had to be picked up. She was questioned by Mr. Joy and Mr. Pilone before her mother came. Sergeant Zeigler was present with her during this.

N.M. states that Mr. Pilone who was the principal and Mr. Joy who was the vice principal kept asking her if she was telling the truth.

Additionally the witness testified that she had been asked on the day of the incident to purchase a videotape for Ciufi. He had given her ten dollars and that on the day after the incident she was asked where the money was. She gave the change to her mother and her mother gave the money to the police. The amount was seven dollars. N.M. also indicated that she was interviewed by Ms. Williamson from DYFS and gave a statement. She also gave a statement to the police which she signed.

N.M. testified that she had no prior dealings with Ciufi although he had told her that she was pretty several times in his office. She stated that C.A. was present. The witness testified that she felt that this was said in a joking way and she never thought anything of it.

The witness testified that during the incident in which Ciufi had her hand and was trying to place it on his penis she was trying to open the door and he kept shutting it. He also kissed her and she just froze. She stated that he put his tongue in her mouth and it was after that he took her hand and put it on his penis forcing her to feel his penis. She stated that she was crying afterward.

The witness testified that after the incident some people started to say that she was lying and teachers started to treat her differently. As a result she left the district because of the treatment she received. She stated that she had nothing personal against the respondent in this case.

The witness acknowledged that prior to the December 2, 1992 incident she knew Ciufi only since the tenth grade and that he was never her class administrator. She knew him through M.H. whom she used to date. M.H. was two grades ahead of her. It was for him that Ciufi was obtaining the videotape to tape one of his games as he was now in college.

The witness testified that she had a somewhat strained relationship with her mother and would not confide everything to her mother. She was however close to her grandmother. She would also tell things to her friend, C.A. who was her best friend. R.M. was one year behind her and C.A. was in the same grade.

The witness acknowledged that sometimes she would also speak with the guidance counselor she had from ninth grade on named Janet West. She also indicated she felt comfortable with Michelle Evelyn who also was a counselor with the school.

N.M. admitted that she never bought the tape for which she was given the ten dollars and was told to keep the change. Instead she used three dollars to buy something to eat and gave her mother back seven dollars which was ultimately turned over to the police. When she saw Ciufi at "back to school night" he never asked if she had purchased the tape or not. He also never asked for change.

The witness stated that she spoke with school officials, with the Irvington Police Department, with the Division of Youth and Family Services as well as the prosecutor's office.

The witness also acknowledged having filled out a victim impact statement in which most of the answers had been hers although she said that her mother supplied the answers to number six and number eight which indicated the amount and type of restitution the defendant should be ordered to pay as no less than $100,000 as well as a recommendation to the court regarding any sentence to be imposed on the defendant which was listed as no less than twenty years. (R-1). She also acknowledged that prior to December 2, 1994 Ciufi never made any comments to her of a sexual nature other than comments that she was pretty. She stated that he was friendly to students and he did ask how they were doing.

The witness stated that she did not tell her mother or her grandmother what had happened initially because she was afraid as well as scared and she wanted to forget what had occurred. According to her it was R.M.'s idea to speak with Sergeant Zeigler.

Testimony was also taken from Ethel Davion who, at the time of the hearing was employed as acting principal in Irvington. Prior to that she had spent three years as a vice principal.

Davion testified that Mr. Pilone was the principal and Mr. Joy was the vice principal in 1992. She came on as acting vice principal. There were four assistant principals, Ciufi; Smith; Crespo and Grant. The witness testified that in the 1992-93 school year Ciufi was the assistant principal for the ninth grade. The assistant principals were responsible for discipline in the school. The assistant principals then reported to the vice principals and the vice principals then reported to the principals. Guidance counselors were also assigned to a grade group that followed them through their school years. Assistant principals also moved with the class.

The witness recalled the December 2, 1992 incident involving N.M. She stated that she walked into the building and was immediately called into Mr. Joy's office and was told there was a problem. He stated that N.M. reported an incident. Mr. Zeigler and Mr. Joy were present. N.M. then came in with a statement in her hand. The witness also spoke with Ms. West who was the guidance counselor.

This witness called N.M.'s mother who seemed annoyed at receiving the phone call. She acknowledged that the mother was not told any of the specifics of why she was being called to the school. The mother arrived later.

In Mr. Joy's office was Sergeant Zeigler, herself and the student N.M. seemed to be "distant." When Davion was first called in she was informed as to why she was there. Then she spoke with N.M. in her office and Ms. West came in with a folder. She was asked for all of the information on N.M. She was not asked for any information about Ciufi.

The witness stated that N.M. told her that she was in Ciufi's office and he gave her ten dollars and also put her hand on his penis. It took approximately one and one-half hours for N.M.'s mother to arrive. At some point Ms. Evelyn also arrived and spoke with N.M.

Mary Williamson of the Division of Youth and Family Services also came to Davion's office but was not present during this interview. The witness had known Ciufi when she was first the supervisor. She did not know N.M. until the meeting that occurred on December 3, 1992, the day after the incident. She stated that her demeanor at that time was distant and seemingly aloof. According to the witness something had happened but it was not apparent immediately what it was. N.M. was not crying.

The witness stated that doors to assistant principal's offices were ordinarily left open however sometimes they were closed. She also indicated that there was some question regarding N.M.'s residency status and her attending the school and that had been brought to the attention of the school one or two weeks before the events happened.

Michelle Evelyn also testified that she is a student assistance counselor and was summoned by Ms. West to the location where N.M. and Sergeant Zeigler were located. She observed Sergeant Zeigler consoling N.M. and overheard him say, "You didn't do anything wrong." She observed N.M. crying, hunched over and shaking. This was in Mr. Joy's office. She stated that N.M. was sitting while all of the adults in the room which she approximated to be fifteen to sixteen feet long and approximately ten feet wide were standing.

Ms. Evelyn took N.M. back to her office and she asked N.M. to tell her what had happened. At that time she was told that N.M. was in Ciufi's office and that others had left. He asked to buy a tape for him and would not let her leave. She told Evelyn that he took her hand and had her touch him on his "private parts." The witness stated that she just listened and employed a technique she referred to as "active listening." She stated that she observed N.M.'s eyes as being still teary, red-rimmed and she was shaking during this conversation. After speaking with N.M. she sought out the principal, Mr. Pilone and was aware of the mandate to report the matter to the Division of Youth and Family Services. Joyce Witney was her immediate supervisor and had trained her. Information was given to the building supervisor who would then make the call. She told Pilon what had happened who designated her to make the call. She made the call at approximately 11:00 a.m. on December 3, 1992 and told DYFS the information that she had received. They then screened the information and told her that a worker would be sent out. That worker was Mary Williamson.

At some point the mother came to the principal's office and was upset because her daughter had been spoken to without her being present.

The witness acknowledged that she had known N.M. prior to December 3, 1992 and had been a counselor of hers. She also acknowledged that N.M. did not speak with her on December 2, 1992 although she was in her office.

The testimony of Sergeant Anthony Zeigler was given by way of videotape deposition due to the fact that he had been a resident of Georgia for the past year. He had been in the Army for twenty years and then subsequently became involved with the ROTC program. He then also became involved in the junior ROTC program.

Zeigler stated that he was familiar with N.M. because she was involved in his program. According to him she was an excellent student and was both reserved and self-assured. She acted as a squad leader.

The witness testified that R.M. came to his office and stated that N.M. had experienced a problem. He informed her that she should bring N.M. in. She did in fact come in and inform him that she had been sexually touched in Mr. Ciufi's office. She also told him that she had been given ten dollars to purchase a cassette. R.M. was then told to leave and she stated that Ciufi had her hand and would not let N.M. leave. He then went to the principal's office and he was not in but he subsequently found Mr. Joy. At this point N.M. was still crying and sobbing. She relayed the same story that he received. Mr. Pilone passed by and Mr. Joy then excused himself and went and spoke with Mr. Pilone. He was then asked to go back to Pilone's office with N.M. and Ethel Davion was also present. N.M. was then asked to explain what had happened. She was also asked if she understood the seriousness of this matter. According to Sergeant Zeigler she was still crying at this time. Sergeant Zeigler testified that he had found N.M. to be a very truthful individual and described her demeanor as sobbing during the encounter.

Zeigler stated that someone from the Division of Youth and Family Services came and asked for a statement. He did recall that Mr. Joy also asked for a statement from him. He went down and wrote the statement on that same day. He stated that he was not present when N.M. wrote any statement.

C.B. testified that at the time of the hearing he was working and about to go into the Army full time. He had graduated through summer school in 1995. He was acquainted with N.M. and the night of the parent escorts by the junior ROTC he was also a member. Four individuals were stationed on the second floor and they consisted of himself, N.M.; R.M. and another individual. They would escort someone and come back. According to him N.M. was upset that night. She spoke with him and said that a teacher tried to "take her hand and make her touch him." This was in response to him asking what was the matter with her because she had started to cry. Earlier she had been "sort of cheery" and all four were upstairs. When he came back she was upset and started crying. He stated that's when he became concerned and asked him what the problem was. She told him only that a teacher had tried to make her touch him and he said that she should report it to somebody. According to him she was "sort of scared because she wasn't sure how she was going to come out and tell somebody like that."

Mary Williamson from the Division of Youth and Family Services testified that she was called in as an investigator regarding this incident. After giving her credentials and explaining the positions that she has held she stated that in the early 1990s she went to the institutional abuse unit as an investigator and then in 1993 became a senior investigator. She stated that she has been involved in more than 250 cases which she has investigated.

On December 3, 1992 she received information from Irvington High School by way of a referral (P-3). A screener took the information and it was encoded for immediate response because it involved sexual abuse as well as institutional abuse in cases where children could be in imminent danger.

On December 3, 1992 she went to the school and spoke with a Mr. "Pallante." (Both sides stipulated during the course of the hearing that this reference was to Anthony Pilone.)

The witness also propounded a report. (P-10).

On December 3, 1993 she spoke with Mr. Joy in his office and he indicated that he had been informed by Sergeant Zeigler that Mr. Ciufi had kissed N.M. and had cause her to touch his private parts. He said that he had written statements. He also said that he heard that Ciufi gave students money for lunch occasionally and also helped with money for prom dresses. He had counseled Ciufi several times about being too friendly with students. He recounted that he once gave twenty dollars to a student for a sub sandwich. Mr. Joy told her that he had warned him about lending money and that it could be misinterpreted. He stated to Ms. Williamson that this was a prime example.

N.M. on December 2, 1993 had a free period and she and R.M. were in Ciufi's office. R.M. left and the witness stated that N.M. recounted that Ciufi said he was jealous. She had been writing a letter and he kissed her and took her hand and had her touch his private parts. He then gave her ten dollars for a tape. She indicated that the mouth was open when he kissed her. Williamson described N.M. as visibly upset and crying but that she spoke with great confidence.

The witness was qualified as an expert on investigations regarding sexual cases involving adults and minors as well as child abuse cases. As a result she determined in her investigation that the allegations should be at least substantiated to the point that her investigation took them.

The witness acknowledged that she is not written for publication nor has she done research or surveys but has had ongoing training in the area. She has more than 50 hours of in-service training since she has been with institutional abuse.

The witness stated that N.M. presented with nervous behavior and was sometimes a bit out of control and sometimes in control. Her mother was present along with Detective Dougherty from the Irvington Police Department as well as a counselor, Michelle Evelyn. According to her, the mother was visibly and very supportive of her daughter. The mother was also very angry at times. N.M. said that she did not immediately tell anyone. Interviews were then conducted with administrators such as vice principal Joy and principal Pilone.

The witness indicated that this situation was unusual because the school had essentially done an internal investigation first and had N.M. write out a statement and had asked her whether she was telling the truth before ever reporting this either to the Division of Youth and Family Services or the police department. The witness expressed concern to Mr. Pilone about Mr. Joy doing an investigation and having the victim do a report before this matter was reported to the institutional abuse unit. She stated that N.M. said that she felt Mr. Joy did not believe her and that her mother was very concerned that she was questioned without the mother's presence.

The witness also requested a statement (P-6) from Ciufi. An attorney called her and both Ciufi and the attorney, Sanford Amdur came to see her. Ciufi denied that anything had occurred and the interview took approximately thirty minutes.

The witness was asked about her report dated May 1993 when the incident had occurred in December 1992. In that interim period she stated that she had investigated at least 35 other cases. She stated absolutely and credibly that she was not confusing this case with any other incident at that school or any other school.

The witness described what N.M. had told her which was that this had occurred after an assembly and that she asked N.M. what had happened. N.M. also indicated that she had told R.M. as well as C.B. The witness stated that she interviewed C.B. on December 4, 1992.

Testimony was also taken from Detective Gene Nigro a detective with the Irvington Police Department who had been with the department for just under twenty years. He stated that he worked on cases involving child abuse and neglect and worked on a team concept with the State institutional abuse unit. He recalled the incident of December 1992 and was advised that the allegation regarding a sexual contact between Ciufi and N.M. He filed an initial report (P-11) and a follow-up report. He also executed a Miranda warning statement (P-12) and Ciufi gave a statement while there was no attorney with him and did so voluntarily. (P-14).

Detective Nigro described Mrs. M.'s demeanor as both concerned and angry.

The defendant called Albert Joy to the stand who was a vice principal from 1991 until the time of the hearing. He testified that he had met Ciufi in 1981.

In December 1992 the witness received information regarding allegations from N.M. around 7:40 a.m. or 7:45 a.m. on either December 3 or 4, 1992. Sergeant Zeigler told him that he had a young lady downstairs who alleged a touching by a teacher. When asked if it was sexual Sergeant Zeigler responded that it was. He asked if this was in writing and was told that it was not and therefore Mr. Joy asked for it in writing and also, after receiving the statement asked N.M. if it was true. He also called for Michelle Evelyn as a counselor. After this he went to Mr. Pilone and stated that he told him to call the Division of Youth and Family Services.

The witness was not acquainted with N.M. and found out her name while learning about the incident.

Mr. Joy was also interviewed either on December 3 or 4, 1992 by Ms. Williamson from DYFS. He was asked questions about the length of time that he had known Ciufi, Ciufi's character and whether or not he believed the incident had occurred.

According to the witness Williamson asked if Ciufi was "a generous-type person" and he told her that he was and that Ciufi had "loaned" money as did Mr. Joy. She asked if Joy had ever warned him about doing such a thing. He replied that he did tell him that at some point it could come back to haunt him. He does not recall telling Williamson about giving twenty dollars and saying to keep the change. He does recall discussing loaning money for the prom.

The witness stated that all assemblies occur between 9:45 and 10:45 in the morning and that there are three lunches consisting of five (a); five (b) and five (c). All periods are 42 minutes including fifth and sixth period in which students receive one period free and the other period of instruction. He did acknowledge telling Williamson that he had overheard Ciufi saying at one point in the school "Hey baby you're looking fine." According to him the witness' style was more dry and Ciufi was more animated. He indicated that he had a second conversation with Williamson two or three months later.

The witness acknowledged that he had known Ciufi for 14 or 15 years and they worked closely. He stated that he has not seen much of him since the incident. Before that he saw him several times a week. He worked with him and saw him daily. He never saw him outside of the school however and never went to his home other than one occasion for dinner. When Sergeant Zeigler met with the witness he stated that he told Zeigler to go back and get statements from the individuals involved. According to this witness standard operating procedure was to do this. He stated that this was based upon DYFS training sessions. He also confirmed that Pilone instructed him to contact DYFS and that he made the original call between 8:10 a.m. and 8:15 a.m. on the day after the incident. He called and advised DYFS that there were allegations of a sexual contact although he did not specifically ask anyone to investigate N.M.

Janice West also testified that she was a counselor at Frank H. Morell High School. She stated that she became aware of a situation involving N.M. in December 1992 and was met by Ms. Evelyn who asked for her file on N.M. Upon accompanying Ms. Evelyn she found N.M.; Mr. Joy, Mr. Pilone and Sergeant Zeigler. Upon arrival she was told that she was not needed. Later she stated that N.M.'s mother called the witness and asked if it was worthwhile taking time off from work or if this was just some of "N.'s, mess." She stated that N.M. and her mother had "personal issues." She stated that she never met with N.M. on December 2, 1992 or December 3, 1992. The witness stated that she did not have any part in the incident and that she met Ms.

Williamson from DYFS for about five minutes. She never spoke with N.M.'s mother after the incident and N.M. never indicated directly to her that Ciufi had made any inappropriate comments to her nor did she discuss the alleged incident. The witness stated that she was in her office on December 2, 1992. She did not recall if N.M. or her friend C.A. cut class on December 2, 1992. The witness stated that she was contacted by the Irvington Police Department as well as the Essex County prosecutor's office.

The witness confirmed that she was present in the group when Mr. Joy asked N.M. to give a statement in writing to Sergeant Zeigler. According to the witness N.M. appeared very muted and very confused as well as withdrawn. It was not until approximately two hours later that she was informed about the alleged incident by Mr. Pilone who said it was being handled and that they were contacting DYFS.

The witness confirmed that when she spoke with the mother she was working for a major pharmaceutical company. The mother was mad and upset. The witness confirmed however that she did not tell the mother what the allegations were or the nature of the allegations. As a result the mother had no knowledge as to why she was being asked to come all the way to the school and the witness stated that she could not tell her.

Anthony Pilone who was the principal at the high school in 1992 testified that Albert Joy informed him that N.M. had lodged a complaint against Ciufi that he had kissed her and that he had caused her to put her hand on his private parts. He was advised of this one morning between 7:45 and 8:15 a.m. He told Mr. Joy to bring the young lady in and give a statement. He then asked that the mother be called and she indicated she was on a job assignment and therefore sent the grandmother. He also spoke with the young lady who stated that it happened on Wednesday, the day before, between 12:30 and 12:55 p.m. When asked where she had belonged she indicated that she had a study hall with Ms. Schilling. The witness testified that this could not be.

Mr. Joy and he left the room so that Ms. Evelyn and N.M. could speak together. Later the mother came in and was upset that the school had talked to her daughter without her bring present. He also confirmed being interviewed by Ms. Williamson The witness stated that he recalled clearly that on December 2, 1992 there was an assembly and that Joe Clark a former school principal of renown was the speaker. This occurred between period two and period four although he does not recall the exact time. He stated that on that day the sophomore class would have actually gone to the assembly and that N.M. who was an eleventh grader would have seen it on TV at another location. She would not have been out of the classroom for the assembly.

The witness acknowledges initially doing an investigation but after that Friday, two days after the incident, he was told not to do any further investigation.

This witness had no firsthand knowledge as to whether or not Mr. Ciufi had been at his designated lunch duty on the day in question. The witness also stated that Ciufi presented him with a handwritten statement although he does not recall asking for it. According to him the statement was turned over to Ms. Williamson the next day. he agreed that it was a very important statement. This statement was not given to Dr. Lewis.

At the time this witness was under redirect examination a statement was produced in Court by Ciufi which was a photocopy of a statement purportedly by him, although this had never been seen by either side's attorneys nor did either side have a copy. The statement was produced in the midst of the hearing (R-7). The witness identified the statement but did not recall whether he first saw it on Thursday or Friday of the week during which the incident took place.

The witness stated that he has never been informed of a Board policy regarding lending money to students or not lending it to them. He also stated that he was informed in person by Ms. Williamson that he should not have investigated and should not do so in the future. He also had a conversation with Dr. Lewis and was told not to be in contact with the students and that a letter would be forthcoming.

This witness also acknowledged that at some time in either 1978 or 1979 he had paid the respondent's mother $40 or $50 to do his tax returns.

The respondent also testified in this case that he had been employed by the Irvington Board of Education since February 16, 1976. He was originally hired as an interim school suspension teacher in 1976. Prior to that he had been a teacher in a self-contained classroom situation in Newark. He remained a teacher with the Irvington Board of Education from 1976 through 1979 as an interim and then went from 1979 to 1980 as an interim at the Myrtle Avenue School. In September 1980 he functioned as a fifth grade teacher at the Myrtle Avenue School and continued in that capacity until October 1980. From October 16, 1980 he was made administrative assistant in the high school which was a non-tenured position as an aide to the principal. In 1981 he became an assistant principal which was a title change and remained in that position from that point on. He has a bachelor of arts degree from Bloomfield College which he received in 1968 and a teaching certificate which he received in 1975. He also has a masters degree received in 1980 from Seton Hall.

The respondent testified that he knows N.M. He stated that he was senior class administrator for the class of 1992 in which N.M. was a student. N.M. was introduced to him by M.H. as his girlfriend. He knew M.H. because he was a basketball player and the respondent was involved with the basketball team. He stated that in the 1992-93 school year he had two offices. First he was acting principal then in mid-November he moved back to his original office. Prior to December 1992 he did not recall N.M. was ever in his first school office. He stated that she may have been in his office one or two times. On the ordinary school day in 1992-93 the respondent testified that he usually arrived at school at 7:45 a.m. He was involved in a number of different programs including the prom, senior class night, awards and graduation. During the 1991-92 school year he was also involved in the senior fashion show. He stated that he knew M.S. who was in the ninth grade and was a student in a group of girls who performed in the 1992-93 fashion show doing Jamaican dances. G.S. also performed in the fashion show. He did not know them in any other way and stated that he never spoke to M.S. except in the context of the fashion show. He did speak with T.S. during the year in passing. He testified that he never asked either of them on a date or inquired about their personal life. Other than school administration he and both students had no relationship.

On December 2, 1992 he testified that he arrived at 7:45 a.m. In the morning he got a call at approximately 8:30 a.m. from M.H. who had now graduated from high school and was away. He was asked by M.H. to do him a favor in that he needed a tape of a game to show to a basketball recruiter. The witness stated that Mr. Torturo told him that if he provided a blank tape a copy of it could be made by the audiovisual unit. His conversation with Mr. Torturo took place at approximately 9:00 a.m.

On that date period two had a special class lecturer of Joe Clark who was the former principal at East Side High School. It was a tenth grade assembly and other students would have to report to their homeroom to watch the assembly via TV feed. He also indicated that he had a group of 12 to 16 students in his office. According to him N.M. was one of those students. She was there with C.A., another student. The respondent stated that he did not know R.M. but did know C.A. He stated that he said nothing to N.M. during the period two assembly program which finished at approximately 10:30. At that time all the students left his office.

On that date he had a duty assignment until 11:55. From 11:55 which was the end of 5B to 12:26 which was the end of 5C he was to remain in his office for school-wide discipline. This was during junior and senior lunch. At 12:30 he was then scheduled to be in the cafeteria with Ms. Crespo. He did not arrive at that time and at approximately 12:30 he left his office and took a few steps at which point he was met by

Mr. Coburn and three young ladies whom Mr. Coburn said were involved in a verbal confrontation in the gym. Coburn informed him that one was also "running amok" in the building. None of these four individuals were C.A.; R.M. or N.M. The witness stated three more students came in with hats and coats making a total of six students in his office, again none being the three individuals listed above. There were there for approximately 25 to 28 minutes in his estimation and he was trying to mediate a dispute. These were ninth and tenth grade students. At some point N.M. came in during period 6A but he did not send for her. He did not know why she was there and she came in and sat on a table for a minute. She did not say anything and neither did he. He stated that she might have left because he was dealing with six other students and two ringing phones. When he was finalizing the other matter he asked N.M. to wait while he was writing passes. He stated that he thought he could get her to help M.H. and he gave her ten dollars and said she should keep the change. She would bring the tape back at 3:30. She stated that she needed a pass and he also gave her a pass to Ms. Jacobs. He left the office and went to his right and she exited and went to the left. According to him the door was open the entire time. He stated that his personal policy is that his door is always open except in extraordinary circumstances. He stated that sometimes it is necessary to "drag" fighting students into the office. That might be an extraordinary circumstance or if there was a loud parent.

During period 6A N.M. was not with any other student but was by herself. He stated that when he left the office the door shuts but it is only locked to the outside.

Respondent denied ever touching N.M.'s hand, denied having kissed her or having had her touch his penis or as he put it his "private parts."

It was not until September 28, 1995 that he ever saw her again other than that day, and that was in Superior Court. He did see her later on December 2, 1992 and gave her a thumbs up sign from approximately 30 feet away in the evening at the parent night. She was wearing her ROTC uniform. He stated that he did not know C.B.

or R.M. although he does believe that N.M. was with a male student but there were other cadets in the vicinity.

On December 3, 1992, the day after the incident, he arrived at school at 7:45 a.m. and was handling a matter with a student and her father. He was called by Mr. Pilone via a walkie-talkie radio and asked to go to Mr. Pilone's office. He stated that only Mr. Pilone was there and that Mr. Pilone first went and closed the shades, the door, as well as the sliding door and looked around him. He stated that Pilone told him that there had been an allegation that a student said he had "French kissed" her and tried to force her to touch his "privates." He indicates that he denied it and was told to write a statement. He was then told that they would check the time frame. He stated that Pilone told him the student was an illegal attendee in Irvington and was told that they were awaiting the student's mother's arrival. He indicated he then resumed his normal duties. He did say that he spoke with Ms. Crespo and asked her what time he was back on duty on December 2, 1992 and that she told him that it was around 1:00 p.m.

Respondent indicated that on December 3, 1992 he did not speak to the Irvington police, the prosecutor's office or the Division of Youth and Family Services. He did write a letter in Mr. Pilone's office (R-7) which only surfaced in the middle of the trial and had not been seen by either side's attorneys but was provided suddenly by the respondent. On December 3, 1992 he was told by Mr. Pilone at approximately 2:00 p.m. to remain after 3:30 for a letter from Dr. Lewis. The letter said to report to school and avoid contact with female students and that there would be a DYFS investigation.

On December 5, 1992 which was a Saturday he received a certified letter of suspension and was suspended from that point until February 4, 1994 at which time he was reinstated. The letter reinstating him (R-3) was by way of vote of the Board of Education as the result of official documentation showing that no indictment was returned by the grand jury.

Respondent stated that on December 4, 1992 he did respond to the Irvington Police Department and spoke with Detective Nigro, Captain Lombardo and two or three other detectives. He gave a statement to Detective Nigro and that statement (P-14) accurately reflects what he said at the time.

Respondent also met with Ms. Williamson from DYFS along with his attorney Mr. Amdur. The meeting took approximately 45 minutes and Ms. Williamson was writing notes during the meeting. She interviewed him and asked about his educational background, the alleged incident and his interaction with administrators. He told her that other than asking N.M. to purchase a tape for M.H. he had no other conversation with N.M.

Respondent stated that he did tell her that he loaned money to students for lunch sometimes and that he considers it "an act of charity". He denied doing anything of which he was accused in this matter.

On cross-examination Ciufi stated that he did not recall contact with N.M. other than perhaps "hello" being said on occasion prior to her being in his office on December 2, 1992. He did agree that she may have been in his office more than once. He states that N.M. was with a friend, C.A. when she came in and not with R.M. and that there were other students in his office initially. During cross-examination he stated that the number of students was approximately fifteen plus N.M. and C.A. making a total of seventeen.

He states that he told Detective Nigro that he had approximately fifteen students in his office during the assembly. It was earlier that he had fewer students. His statement to the principal, however, (R-7) does not indicate any particular number of students. On October 18, 1995 which was the preceding day of testimony he testified that there were twelve to sixteen people in his office, "maybe to use a phone". Some of the individuals were for telephone calls according to him and some were not. Each individual had a pass or they would not be let into his office. He stated that he would normally go to cafeteria duty at 12:30 p.m. but for the fact that he was approached by Mr. Coburn due to the problem involving the other young ladies.

According to respondent, on N.M.'s first visit she was accompanied by her friend and he observed this. He acknowledged that he had never said this before. He said this is because no one had asked the question and that he did not feel that it was important. In his statement to Ms. Williamson he said that N.M. came to his office because she had no place to go. In cross-examination he stated that he simply does not remember making the statement.

After 12:30 p.m. he was approached by Mr. Coburn who was what is referred to as a "T.S.A." which in his terminology is "bouncers with degrees", who said he had three young ladies involved in an altercation. Instead of going to lunch duty he decided to reopen his office and it was open until approximately 1:00 p.m. N.M. returned to his office during this period of time. He was behind the desk and N.M. was in the doorway and approximately seven students were between him and N.M. On cross-examination he stated that she was in and out "floating" and he was trying to deal with disciplinary matters. He states that he told her to stay because she would need a pass. He knew that she was supposed to be in gym because he states that she told him that. He had originally testified that he just told her to wait and did not say anything else. Now he testified that he asked where she needed a pass to, which was the gym. He gave her a pass for Ms. Jacobs, the Phys. Ed. teacher, because she told him that was the teacher to whom she had to go. She was by the door and he remained at the desk with the others walking out. She was the last pass that he wrote out.

The respondent was confronted with N.M.'s report card for the 1992-93 school year which listed her teachers and listed a different gym teacher, Ms. Engle, other than Ms. Jacobs.

On cross-examination he was shown the report of Ms. Williamson which quoted him as saying that there had been no conversation and he testified that there was talk about a pass "if that is a conversation." Predicated upon that he stated that there was a conversation and that he gestured to her and asked her to wait at which time he got up from the chair and walked out and asked if she would get the blank tape and gave her the ten dollars. He did not recall the names of any of the students that had been present at approximately the time N.M. was at his office. He testified that it came to him in the middle of dealing with the altercation that she was a friend of M.H. and she would be perfect to get the tape.

Respondent was not actually a part of the program in the school that evening although he was present. It began at approximately 6:00 p.m. and he states that his duties ended at 8:00 or 9:00 p.m. that day. He had arranged for N.M. to purchase the tape and she stated that she would return with the tape at around 3:30 p.m. According to him she did not show up. He was aware that she was part of the R.O.T.C. Program and knew that she had to be there for the evening program. He states that it did not strike him in any way odd that she did not come back at 3:30 p.m.

Respondent stated that he had to get the tape for M.H. but it did not have to be the same day. He acknowledged that he could have made the purchase personally.

After issuing the pass he states that he departed and she made a left which struck him as odd since it was the wrong way to the gym. He indicated that it could have been that she went the wrong way. He then went to lunch duty. He denies ever having told DYFS investigator that R.M. was with N.M.

He describes that when he asked her to stay at his office he did not encourage her to stay. In his terminology during testimony she was never really "in" his office. Her head was "bopping in and out".

Respondent acknowledged that when he wrote the statement for Mr. Pilone (P-7) he indicated that he never asked or told N.M. to come to his office or encouraged her. He also acknowledged that as of that point no one had ever accused him of doing so.

Respondent also acknowledged that the ten dollars given to N.M. to buy the tape were with the understanding that she should keep the change. He further acknowledged that in the DYFS interview he spoke of "lending" money to students but this sum was not a loan.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having listened to the testimony of the witnesses and having observed their demeanor and having taken into account all of the evidence presented in this case, I FIND that this case turns solely and exclusively on the credibility of the witnesses. I FIND the following to be FACT:

1. Nicholas A. Ciufi, III, is a tenured teaching staff member in the Irvington School District.

2. Mr. Ciufi was initially employed in the Irvington School District on or about February 16, 1976.

3. As of 1980 Mr. Ciufi became an administrative assistant followed by the position of assistant principal which he continues to hold as of the date of the hearing and held in December 1992. He is a tenured staff member.

4. At Irvington High School, assistant principals are assigned as class administrators and Mr. Ciufi was the administrator for the senior class in 1991-92. During the 1992-93 school year Mr. Ciufi was the administrator for the freshman class.

5. Anthony Pilone is a tenured teaching staff member at the Irvington School District. During the 1992-93 school year Mr. Pilone was the principal at Irvington High School.

6. Ethel Davion is a tenured teaching staff member in the Irvington School District and during the 1992-93 school year she was assigned as a vice-principal.

7. Janice West is a tenured teaching staff member in the Irvington School District and in the 1992-93 school year Ms. West was a guidance counselor for N.M., a student at the school.

8. Albert Joy is a tenured teaching staff member at the Irvington School District and was assistant principal in the 1992-93 school year.

9. Michele Evelyn is a tenured teaching staff member in the Irvington School District as a student assistance counselor and has held that position from 1991 until the time of the hearing.

10. During the 1991-92 school year N.M. was enrolled at Irvington High School and was in the 11th grade. She was also a member of the R.O.T.C. Program.

11. N.M. was characterized credibly by Sgt. Zeigler as an excellent student who showed a lot of discipline.

12. N.M. also attained a leadership position in the R.O.T.C. Program and achieved the rank of squad leader.

13. Respondent Ciufi was characterized as friendly with the students of Irvington High School and allowed them to use his office to make phone calls or to "hang out".

14. Ciufi also had a practice of lending or giving money to students for various items, including lunch money, and considered it "an act of charity".

15. N.M. had known Ciufi since sometime when she was introduced to him by N.H., who was a prior student at the school and whom N.M. dated.

16. N.M. had been to Ciufi's office on previous occasions and on occasion had heard Ciufi tell her how pretty she was.

17. On or about December 2, 1992 an incident occurred involving N.M. and Ciufi at Ciufi's office in Irvington High School.

18. On the date of the incident Ciufi was responsible, as customary, for school-wide discipline and was scheduled to provided sixth period cafeteria coverage at 12:30 p.m. On that date he was in his office at 12:30 p.m. rather than in the cafeteria.

19. At approximately 12:30 p.m. during the sixth period, N.M. and her friend, R.M. proceeded to Ciufi's office to obtain a pass to return them to their sixth period class.

20. N.M. was scheduled to attend physical education during sixth period with Ms. Engle, a physical education teacher.

21. When N.M. first entered Ciufi's office he was dealing with approximately six students who had been involved in a verbal altercation in the gym.

22. After N.M. and R.M. appeared Ciufi sent some of the students back to their classrooms and directed that the remaining students be escorted to the holding room in the school.

23. Once N.M. and R.M. were alone with Ciufi, N.M. requested a pass to return to her classroom. She was instructed to wait and Ciufi asked her to remain.

24. Ciufi confirmed that N.M. was the last pass that he wrote during this particular transaction on that day.

25. Ciufi issued R.M. a pass and that student was escorted to her classroom leaving N.M. at Ciufi's office.

26. While alone in Ciufi's office and awaiting the pass N.M. began to write a letter and while writing the letter Ciufi told N.M. that he gets jealous when he "sees her with other guys."

N.M. attempted to leave, however, Ciufi took her left hand and began to rub it repeatedly. At this point, N.M. became apprehensive and attempted to leave. Ciufi explained to N.M. that he wished to purchase a video tape for M.H. and gave her ten dollars to do so telling her she could keep the change. N.M. attempted to leave the room. However, upon opening the door on several occasions, Ciufi closed it.

27. Ciufi took N.M.'s hand and kissed N.M. placing his tongue in her mouth.

28. Ciufi then took N.M.'s hand and forced her to feel his penis. At this point in time N.M. panicked and froze.

29. N.M. ultimately exited the office and was crying.

30. Subsequent to the incident N.M. proceeded to the R.O.T.C. room where she was observed crying and asked by another R.O.T.C. what was wrong. She then told R.M. what had occurred.

31. N.M. remained in school that evening because the R.O.T.C. students were escorting parents to classrooms at Back-to-School Night and was dressed in R.O.T.C. uniform.

32. Along with N.M. and R.M. as R.O.T.C. cadets participating were C.B., and K.J.

33. On that evening, after viewing N.M. as being upset C.B. asked why she was upset and she asked C.B. to stay with her because she was apprehensive of Ciufioif.

34. After the incident N.M. did not immediately tell her mother or her sister because she was scared and just wanted to forget what had occurred.

35. On December 3, 1992 was advised by R.M. that she should go to Sgt. Zeigler's office whom R.M. had told that N.M. had a problem to discuss.

36. N.M. shared the information regarding the incident with Ciufioif with Sgt. Zeigler.

37. During the discussion, Sgt. Zeigler observed N.M. crying and sobbing heavily.

38. After this meeting Sgt. Zeigler went to Mr. Joy's office who was the vice principal and met with him.

39. After being informed of the incident Joy told Zeigler that the student, N.M. should put the allegations in writing.

40. Zeigler returned to his office where N.M. was located and stated that Mr. Joy would not be able to do anything about the incident unless she prepared a signed written statement.

41. A signed written statement was presented describing the incident with Ciufioif.

42. Zeigler and N.M. then responded to Mr. Joy's office and were met by Anthony Pilone.

43. N.M.'s mother was asked to report to the school by Pilone by a telephone and Mr. Joy and Mr. Pilone questioned N.M. regarding the incident with Zeigler present. During this N.M. became upset and began to cry and Zeigler consoled N.M.

44. On several occasions both Pilone and Joy asked N.M. whether her statement was accurate and whether she was telling the truth. On both occasions N.M. responded that she was.

45. Ultimately, N.M.'s mother along with an Irvington police officer responded to the high school.

46. On different occasions Ms. Evelyn and Ms. Davion were present in the office. Davion discussed the information with N.M. and stated that it was apparent that something had happened.

47. West, who had been a counselor, responded but was told she was not needed.

48. Evelyn also noted that N.M. was visibly upset, crying and shaking during their discussion both subsequent to and while she was in Joy's office. In addition to that she noted N.M. to be withdrawn.

49. The matter was ultimately assigned to a DYFS investigator, Mary Carol Williamson.

50. Statements were ultimately taken, reports generated and a criminal complaint signed.

51. Subsequent to the incident N.M. noted a change in behavior of her friends as well as the manner in which teachers treated her and as a result felt the need to transfer to another school because she felt uncomfortable.

52. The criminal complaint in this case was ultimately presented to a grand jury who made a determination not to indict Ciufi for criminal conduct.

In addition to those facts which have been stipulated to above and form the operational facts in this case, I FIND the above recitation to be the operational facts in this case.

DISCUSSION

In this case the matter turns solely and exclusively on the credibility of the witnesses as observed in the hearing along with the other evidence presented. The burden upon the Board of Education is to prove the tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. (School District of the City of Paterson v. Eddie Lee Harrell, 186 S.L.D. 356, 358)

In this case the school district has, as demonstrated by the Findings of Fact above, proved the tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. It should be noted that the undersigned has had the opportunity to observe the witnesses in this case. Not only the testimony of N.M., who was a reluctant witness, but that of Ciufi himself. Not only was Ciufi's testimony not credible, as shown in the above findings, but his very demeanor added greatly to this determination. Ciufi fidgeted, perspired and was evasive in his answers and the totality of the circumstances regarding his demeanor as well as contradictory answers given by him led the undersigned to determine that he did not make a credible witness.

In addition to this discussion of credibility it should be noted that the undersigned was, at best surprised, and at worse appalled at the idea that an allegation of institutional abuse would be internally investigated by the school without referral either to the Division of Youth and Family Services or the local police department. While it is true that the matter was subsequently referred, individuals with no training in investigation or in the manner in which occurrences such as these should be treated, dealt with each of the individuals and conducted an "investigation." These actions may also be considered intimidating to students when individuals who are not outside parties act in an investigative capacity and may also have a chilling affect upon the reporting of actions such as this. Having said this the undersigned does not attribute any adverse or improper motive to what occurred but comments merely upon the fact that this "internal investigation" did occur.

Having found that the tenure charges in this case have been sustained by the burden applicable in an administrative hearing, this matter is not swayed in any way by the fact that the grand jury chose not to indict the respondent in this case. Grand jury proceedings are secret in nature and there is no indication as to what information was presented to them for them to reach that conclusion. The return of a no bill or a lack of indictment by the grand jury is not synonymous with a finding that events did not occur when testimony is taken in an administrative proceeding.

There is no question that respondent, in his position, had supervisory control of N.M. by virtue of his employment and, although not directly the advisor for her class still stood in a position in which that supervisory control existed. This is reinforced by the fact that N.M. had to request a pass from him to return to her class.

The conduct which has been sustained in this case and the facts that have been found constitute conduct unbecoming. The remaining question is whether or not the conduct which has been found to be unbecoming and substantiated as to the specifics of the charge is sufficient to require Ciufi's dismissal.

Teachers are in a position of trust with respect to students in schools in which they serve. Contact of a sexual nature between a teacher and a student is a violation of the pupil-teacher relationship which is traditionally regarded as a very special bond. Such contact cannot and will not be tolerated. Additionally the egregious nature of this conduct shows that a single instance of misconduct as alleged here is sufficient to remove a teacher. It shows unfitness to hold that position and to deal with students.

CONCLUSION

Taking the totality of the circumstances and weighing the aggravating and mitigating circumstances as well as the teacher and his prior record I CONCLUDE that dismissal and removal of respondent's tenure is the only appropriate remedy in this case.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the tenure charges have been sustained and that respondent be DISMISSED and his tenure be forfeited for engaging in conduct unbecoming a teacher.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision on this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF NICHOLAS CIUFI,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON,	:	DECISION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. To the extent the parties' submissions constitute what is essentially a verbatim recitation of those arguments raised before the ALJ, said arguments are not summarized below.

Respondent excepts to the ALJ's finding that he was not a credible witness. He further challenges the ALJ's characterization of his demeanor at the hearing asserting that, since his 25-year career was at stake, "[a]nyone in his position would appear nervous." (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 2) As to his perspiring during the hearing, petitioner asserts that the hearing room was extremely warm. That the ALJ implies respondent's answers to have been contradictory and evasive with respect to the events of December 2, 1992, is also, according to respondent, incorrect. Respondent emphasizes that the events took place three years prior to the hearing, and remembering specific details was difficult. (Id. at p. 3) Moreover, respondent affirms that the ALJ made "an issue" of his statement that he gave N.M. a pass to return to gym class taught by Ms. Jacobs, rather than Ms. Engle, the teacher noted on N.M.'s report card. Respondent contends, "There was nothing in the record as to who the actual teacher was. Both were teachers of physical education. Who the teacher was is not a material fact." (Id.) Lastly, respondent asserts that the ALJ's finding on page 24 of the initial decision that he acknowledged on cross-examination that he had not before noted that N.M. was accompanied by her friend on the first visit to his office is an inaccurate statement, which is unsupported by the record. (Id. at pp. 3, 4)

Respondent next excepts to the ALJ's finding that N.M. is a credible witness. Respondent contends that this finding is not supported by the record and argues that the ALJ does not heed the words of the Commissioner in Palmer v. Audubon Bd. of Ed., 1939-49 S.L.D. 183, 188, stating that the testimony of children must be used with extreme care. (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 7) Here, respondent attests that the testimony of N.M. should not be the basis for destroying his professional career marked, heretofore, by an unblemished record. Respondent recounts the testimony of Ethel Davion who, upon knowing respondent, avers that she finds it difficult to believe the charges, as stated, actually occurred. (Id.)

Finally, respondent excepts to the ALJ's reliance upon the DYFS report which, he contends is "too flawed to be the basis for dismissing Mr. Ciufi from his tenured position." (Id.)

In reply, the Board counters that the ALJ properly determined that N.M. was a credible witness, but that respondent was not. The Board also asserts that the ALJ properly relied upon the DYFS report in this matter.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included the transcripts from the hearing at the OAL,[1] the Commissioner finds no basis either in the transcripts or in the record as a whole to challenge the ALJ's credibility determinations and resultant conclusions and, therefore, concurs that the Board has established by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent has engaged in unbecoming conduct. (Initial Decision at p. 33) In this regard, the Commissioner finds respondent's exception arguments to be unpersuasive.

As to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner has considered respondent's apparently unblemished record with the Board, but nonetheless determines that the charges established against him are "sufficiently flagrant" to warrant dismissal. Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943); aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944). See also, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ward Campbell and Ward Campbell v. Board of Education of the Princeton Regional School District, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, A-6280-92T3, decided May 17, 1995. (Even a single act of misconduct may be sufficient to terminate a tenured teacher.) The Commissioner further finds that respondent's actions in this matter evidence a lack of self-restraint and controlled behavior which are compelled by his position as a professional employee in a public school system holding great influence over the lives of children. See In re Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. This is particularly so in that respondent, as an assistant principal, has a higher responsibility as a building leader.

Notwithstanding the decision herein, the Commissioner is nevertheless concerned by the manner in which the Board initially handled the allegation of sexual assault in this case.

[1] Hearing dates were October 10, 11, 13, 18, and December 13, 1995.

Therefore, the Board is directed to review and update, where necessary, its policy and procedures concerning allegations of child abuse and neglect, adopted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:29-9.1 et seq., and to submit the policy and procedures to the Office of the Essex County Superintendent for review within 120 days of the date of this decision.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL, directing that respondent be dismissed from his tenured position as an assistant school principal is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This matter shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for review in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6. A copy of this decision shall also be forwarded to the Office of the Essex County Superintendent, who shall ensure compliance with the Commissioner's direction regarding revision of policies and procedures.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF NICOLAS CIUFI, SCHOOL : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF : DECISION
IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 3, 1996

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler (Nicholas Celso, III, Esq., and Joseph R. Morano, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, New Jersey Principals & Supervisors Association (Wayne J. Oppito, Esq., of Counsel)

On April 29, 1994, the Board of Education of the Township of Irvington (hereinafter "Board") certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against Nicholas Ciufi (hereinafter "respondent"), a tenured teaching staff member serving as an assistant principal. Those charges alleged that respondent had kissed a student, N.M., in his office and placed her hand on his genitals.

On July 18, 1996, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") found that the Board had demonstrated the charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. The ALJ concluded that respondent's conduct was sufficiently flagrant to warrant his dismissal from his tenured employment.

On September 3, 1996, the Commissioner of Education adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and directed that respondent be dismissed from his tenured position. The Commissioner also directed the Board to review and update, where necessary, its policy and procedures concerning allegations of child abuse and neglect.

Respondent filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

After an exhaustive review of the record, including the transcripts of the hearing held in the Office of Administrative Law in this matter, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner for the reasons expressed therein. In so doing, we concur fully with the ALJ that the student, N.M., was a credible witness and note, in addition, that there was testimony from both a student and members of the school's staff that N.M. was visibly upset, shaking and crying after the incident. Tr. 10/11/95, at 45, 85; exhibit P-15, in evidence, at 23.

Consequently, we agree with the Commissioner that the Board met its burden of demonstrating the tenure charges against respondent by a preponderance of the credible evidence, and, under the circumstances, we affirm the Commissioner's determination to dismiss respondent from his tenured employment.

Sam Podietz did not participate in deliberations in this matter.

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 2, 1993, Julia A. Fuller (Fuller or petitioner) filed a petition with the Department of Education (DOE) naming the City of Orange (Orange) Board of Education (Board or respondent), as well as Bernice Davis (Davis) and Thomas Beese (Beese), respondent's Superintendent Of Schools and Director of Student Services, respectively, as respondents and contesting her termination of employment by the Board. Respondent filed an answer on January 18, 1994. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 31, 1994 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings. Several hearing dates were adjourned at the request of the parties for various reasons. Peremptory hearing dates were thereafter scheduled for February 16 and 17, 1995. In the interim, respondent filed a motion for summary decision, which was subsequently denied, and petitioner's counsel filed a letter stating an intention to file a motion to be relieved. Oral argument on the latter request was scheduled for February 16, 1995. The parties appeared on that date and conferred. As a result, Fuller's counsel withdrew the request to be relieved, and the parties reached a tentative resolution of the matter. The hearing scheduled for February 17, 1995 was adjourned.

The Board subsequently rejected the proposed settlement agreement, and a hearing was scheduled for July 14, 1995. The parties appeared on that date, conferred, and agreed that the matter could be decided on the basis of stipulations. The parties agreed on the record as to the stipulated facts. In addition, petitioner moved to remove Beese and Davis as respondents, which motion was granted.

A briefing schedule was established, which schedule was subsequently extended at the request of the parties. Respondent and petitioner filed initial briefs on August 11, and August 23, 1995, respectively. The Board filed a supplement to its initial brief on August 14, 1995. The briefing schedule was extended to allow respondent to file a reply to Fuller's initial brief, which was submitted subsequent to the scheduled deadline. The Board subsequently requested and received extensions for the filing of its reply brief. The Board filed a reply on October 19, 1995, on which date the record was closed.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Fuller was employed as a social worker by respondent for several years. In July 1993, the Board acted to terminate her employment. Fuller initially raised several arguments in support of her position that the Board's action should be reversed, that she should be reinstated, and that she should be deemed to have tenure with respondent. Fuller's petition contained three counts: Count 1 alleged violations by respondent of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to -21, relevant to proceedings conducted by respondent pertaining to Fuller's status. Count 2 alleged that respondent acted to terminate Fuller's employment even though petitioner had never received unsatisfactory evaluations and that respondent acted to terminate Fuller, on approximately July 13, 1993, without the benefit of notice to petitioner nor a hearing. Fuller argued in this respect that the Board's action violated her due process rights under the United States Constitution. Count 3 of the petition argued procedural irregularities, with emphasis on a proceeding conducted by the Board on September 28, 1993, in violation of statutes and regulations applicable to nontenured school employees. Respondent in its answer generally denied all of the allegations.

On July 14, 1995, the parties agreed that resolution of the issues turned on what is deemed to be the effective date of termination of petitioner and the date of any notice of such termination given to Fuller by the Board. More specifically, the dispute focuses on whether she had gained tenure prior to her actual termination. If she did, it is clear that the Board did not adhere to statutory provisions regarding the procedures for termination of tenured employees and that Fuller would have to be reinstated.

In her briefs, petitioner does not pursue her claims regarding argued OPMA violations. These claims are therefore not addressed herein.

STIPULATIONS

The parties stipulated to the following facts:

1. Fuller was hired by the Board on or about September 1, 1990 as a nontenured social worker.

2. On or about July 8, 1993, respondent sent petitioner a "60-day notice" letter advising her of the Board's intent to include petitioner on its agenda for Tuesday, July 13, 1993.

3. At the July 13, 1993 meeting, the Board terminated Fuller from employment, effective October 31, 1993.[1]

4. By letter dated July 15, 1993, the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) representative for Fuller sent a letter to the Board requesting reasons for petitioner's termination.

5. At its July 27, 1993 meeting, the Board first rescinded its July 13, 1993 action which terminated petitioner, and secondly, terminated Fuller, effective immediately.

6. By letter dated July 28, 1993, the Board informed Fuller that they would be sending a check in the amount of $7,054.50 to compensate for sixty days' pay, consistent with the contract.

7. By letter dated August 6, 1993, Fuller wrote the Board and requested a hearing regarding her termination.

8. By letter dated August 19, 1993, Fuller acknowledged receipt of sixty days' pay and requested the social worker stipend of $1,895. A social worker stipend is an amount over and above the regular rate of pay given to social workers because they normally work a later day than teachers, until 4:00 p.m. It is an extended day of pay for all child study team workers.[2]

9. By letter dated August 24, 1993, Assistant Superintendent Michael Cohn indicated that a stipend would not be paid to Fuller. This letter was sent to petitioner.

[1]Petitioner's statement of the stipulations in her initial brief reflects an effective date of October 1993, while respondent's articulation of the stipulations in the Board's initial brief states an effective date of October 31, 1993. This judge's notes are consistent with the latter date.

[2] The parties stipulated that the date of Fuller's letter was August 19, 1993. However, the documentary evidence indicates that the actual date was August 16, 1993. (Ex. R-10).

10. By letter dated September 9, 1993, the NJEA representative requested that the social worker stipend be paid to Fuller, consistent with the union contract.

11. By letter dated September 22, 1993, Board counsel sent a letter to Fuller, indicating that petitioner could have a termination hearing before the Board on September 28, 1993.

12. On September 28, 1993, at a meeting of the Board, respondent awarded Fuller her social worker stipend in the amount of $397, prorated for 60 days. The period used to calculate the stipend was September 1, 1993 through October 31, 1993. During this period, it was agreed, Fuller did not work or perform any services for the Board.

13. Fuller did not work during September 1, 1993 through October 3, 1993. She was not required to work 60 days until her termination date by the Board. Petitioner was paid by respondent through September 27, 1993, under the 60-day notice provision issued July 27, 1993. Fuller received regular pay, i.e., pay other than the stipend, through September 27, 1993.

14. By letter dated September 29, 1993 to Fuller, the Board agreed to pay petitioner the stipend.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the documentary evidence, I FIND the following to be additional facts.

The July 8, 1993 letter from Davis, respondent's Superintendent of Schools, to petitioner specifically advised Fuller that the Board would discuss matters pertaining to petitioner which "could adversely affect your employment with the Orange Board" and that the discussion would take place in closed, executive session, during a special meeting of the Board to be held at a designated location, commencing at 6:30 p.m., on July 13, 1993. The letter also indicated that if petitioner wished matters pertaining to her employment to be publicly discussed, she had to notify Davis, in writing, no later than Monday, July 12, 1993 and if she did not, petitioner was deemed to have waived her right to compel public discussion. (Ex. R-7).

Board members did not discuss Fuller during the public session held on July 13, 1993. The minutes of the closed session state that public notice of the July 13, 1993 public session had been given to the public by adoption of a resolution at a public meeting held on June 22, 1993, that the closed session would be held to discuss personnel items, legal matters, negotiations-contracts, and evaluations, and that at the appropriate time, the general public would be informed as to the matters under discussion. The minutes of the closed session indicate that Fuller had been given what was referred to as a "Rice Letter," with an option to have her case heard by the Board in closed or public session; that petitioner had informed the Board that she wanted her case heard in closed session; that Beese, respondent's Director of Special Services, informed the Board of poor performance and lack of follow-up in evaluating and placing students by petitioner; that Mary Mitchell (Mitchell), an NJEA representative, and Robert Fields (Fields), an Orange Education Association representative, were present at the meeting and addressed the Board regarding the matter; and that Fuller addressed the Board, informing them of the procedures utilized to evaluate and place students; and that the Board discussed the specifics of the case. The minutes of the public session, in a section regarding terminations, stated that Fuller was terminated, effective October 31, 1993, for reasons pertaining to her performance.

The July 15, 1993 letter on behalf of petitioner was sent by Mitchell to Lee, the Board's Secretary.

The minutes of both the closed and public portions of the Board meeting conducted on July 13, 1993 were approved by respondent at the meeting held on July 27, 1993. The minutes of the latter meeting reference a "RESCINDED TERMINATION" pertaining to Fuller, which had been effective October 31, 1993, as well as a "TERMINATION" of petitioner effective July 28, 1993. The latter notation contains the following comment: "(60 DAYS 9/27/93)" (Ex. R-3, p. 21). A closed session was also conducted on July 27, 1993. Notice of the closed session had been given by adoption of a resolution at the public meeting held on July 13, 1993. The minutes of the closed session of July 27, 1993 state that the closed session was held to discuss personnel matters, legal matters, negotiations-contracts, and evaluations. The minutes also indicate that petitioner's request for a statement of the reasons for her termination was discussed.

The July 28, 1993 letter to Fuller, which was sent by Davis, advised petitioner that the Board, on July 27, 1993, voted to terminate petitioner's employment "due to performance, effective immediately." (Ex. R-9A).

By letter dated August 18, 1993, counsel for the Board provided Mitchell with a statement of the reasons for petitioner's termination, referencing an alleged failure by Fuller to complete a social history for classified students and concluding that the Board had approved a recommendation to terminate petitioner.

By letter dated August 30, 1993, respondent's counsel responded to Fuller's letter of August 6, 1993, advising that the Board was then considering dates on which to hold a hearing and concluding "Your continued patience in this matter is greatly appreciated." (Ex. P-3)

The minutes of the closed session conducted by respondent on September 28, 1993 indicate that public notice of that session was given by adoption of a resolution at a public meeting held on September 14, 1993, that the closed session would be held to discuss personnel items, legal matters, negotiations-contracts, and evaluations, and that at the appropriate time, the general public would be informed of the matters discussed. The minutes also reflect that petitioner was invited to attend "for an informal hearing" in response to her request for the reasons for her termination; that petitioner and Mitchell addressed the Board regarding petitioner's opposition to her termination; that the Board discussed their presentations; and that respondent sustained its previous action terminating petitioner. (Ex. R-6, p.1). The minutes of the public session of the meeting conducted on September 28, 1993 reflect that the Board approved a "TERMINAL PAY ADJUSTMENT" for petitioner and referenced petitioner as a "Social Worker": Student Services (Term). (Board Agenda 7/27/93) (Ex. R-5, p. 52).

The September 29, 1993 letter to petitioner, which was sent by Davis, advised Fuller of respondent's action on September 28, 1993 approving a "Terminal Pay Adjustment," effective September 1, 1993 through October 31, 1993. (Ex. R-13).

Fuller was evaluated on April 27, 1993, which evaluation was a final one for the 1992-93 school year. Her performance was rated as either strong or effective in all areas evaluated. The written comments were complimentary. Recommendations were to continue petitioner's employment and to grant tenure.

Petitioner was observed on April 29, 1993. Her performance in all areas indicated were rated as strong or effective.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the local school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Tenure attaches after employment in a district by a local board for three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive years. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (Supp. 1995). Tenured employees shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or unbecoming conduct and then only in a prescribed manner. Ibid. Specified procedural requirements are applicable to the discipline of tenured individuals. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1.

Applicable statutory provisions address the status of nontenured school employees. On or before May 15 of every year, a local board of education is required to give each nontenured teaching staff member continuously employed by it since the preceding September 30 either a written offer of a contract for employment for the next succeeding year, providing for at least the same terms and conditions of employment, but with such increases in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education, or a written notice that such employment will not be offered. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 (Supp. 1995).

If a board of education does not give a nontenured teaching staff member either an offer of employment contract for the next succeeding year or a notice that such employment will not be offered within the required time, the board of education is deemed to have offered to that individual continued employment for the next succeeding school year upon the same terms and conditions, but with such increases in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11.[3] However, if a nontenured teaching staff member desires to accept employment, he/she shall notify the board of education of such acceptance, in writing, on or before June 1 of any given year, in which event such employment shall continue. In the absence of such notice of acceptance, the applicable statutory provisions regarding the employment status of nontenured employees do not apply. Id. at §12. In general, if the employment of a teaching staff member is terminated on notice, pursuant to a contract entered into with a board of education, it is within the board's option whether or not the individual in question shall continue to perform his/her duties, during the period between the giving of the notice and the date of termination of employment thereunder. Id. at §27-9.

Respondent did not provide Fuller with a written notice that her employment would not be offered for the 1993-94 school year prior to May 15, 1993, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. Arguably, petitioner therefore had continued employment status, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11. However, petitioner cannot obtain the benefits of such

[3] "Teaching staff members" is defined broadly to include employees in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (Supp. 1995). N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.1(g). A school social worker endorsement is required for service as a school social worker in any school district in this State. N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.8(a). Petitioner is therefore a "teaching staff member" pursuant to the applicable statutory provisions, including those relevant to the status of nontenured individuals.

status because she did not provide written notice of an intent to continue employment, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:27-12.

A nontenured teaching staff member shall be observed and evaluated at least three times during each school year but not less than once during each semester. Evaluations must occur before April 30 of each year and cover the period between April 30 of one year and April 30 of the succeeding year, except in the first year of employment. Each evaluation shall be followed by a conference, the purpose of which is to make recommendations regarding reemployment, identify any deficiencies, extend assistance for correction, and improve professional competence. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 (Supp. 1995). See also, N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.1. In addition, every nontenured staff member shall be subject to a written annual evaluation. N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.1(d).

Any teaching staff member who receives notice that a contract for the succeeding year will not be offered may, within 15 days thereafter, request in writing a statement of the reasons for such nonemployment, which statement shall be provided in writing within 30 days after the receipt of such request. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2. Whenever a nontenured teaching staff member has requested and received such a statement, he/she may request, in writing, "an informal appearance" before the board of education, which request must be submitted within ten calendar days of receipt of the board's statement of reasons. N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2(a). Such "informal appearance" shall be scheduled within 30 days from receipt of the board's statement of reasons. Id. at §(b). A nontenured teaching staff member's appearance before a board "shall not be an adversary proceeding." The purpose is to allow the staff member to convince board members to offer reemployment. Id. at §(c). The local board of education has discretion to determine a reasonable length of time of such proceeding, depending on the specific circumstances. Id. at §(d). The board shall provide "adequate" written notice to the employee regarding the date and time of the appearance. Id. at §(e). The nontenured teaching staff member may be represented by counsel. Id. at §(f). He/she may present witnesses, but such witnesses need not present testimony under oath and shall not be cross-examined. Witnesses shall be called into the meeting to address the board one at a time and shall be excused after making their statements. Id. at §(g).

The proceeding may be closed to the public pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)(8). Id. at §(h). Within three days following the informal appearance, the local board of education shall notify the affected staff member, in writing, of its final determination. Notification may be delegated to the superintendent of schools or board secretary. Id. at §(i).

The July 15, 1993 letter requesting reasons for Fuller's termination was timely submitted, whether measured from the July 8, 1993 board letter or the July 13, 1993 board meeting. The August 18, 1993 response was late by several days. The termination hearing was held on September 28, 1993. The September 28, 1993 meeting was not timely scheduled, whether the operative date is August 6, 1993 or August 18, 1993.

"[A]bsent constitutional constraints or legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers, local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board." Dore v. Bedminster Tp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 456 (App. Div. 1982) (Dore). In light of its "virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing nontenured teachers," a local board of education can base a decision not to reemploy on matters outside of the employee's evaluations. Id. at 453. A statement of reasons for such non-reemployment does not have to be supported by evaluations of the individual in question. Dore at 456. In addition, a failure by a local board to evaluate an employee in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 is not a sufficient reason to afford the employee reinstatement or financial reward. Dore at 455.

Boards of education have broad discretionary authority in the granting of tenure. Donaldson v. Bd. of Ed. of No. Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236, 241 (1974) (Donaldson). A local board's decision not to grant tenure does not have to be based on unsatisfactory classroom or professional performance; there are many unrelated valid reasons why a board may conclude that tenure should not be granted. Donaldson at 241. However, a local board of education may not refuse to hire an individual because of his/her membership in a labor union or his/her exercise of constitutional rights. Donaldson at 242. Constitutionally impermissible grounds for non-reappointment include determinations based on race or participation in "protest movements." Ibid. However, the requirement that reasons for non-reemployment be provided does not "in nowise curb the breadth of the board's discretionary authority to decide whether any particular teacher should or should not be reengaged." Donaldson at 245-46.

The Court in Donaldson noted with approval a prior determination by the Commissioner that action by a local board to not reemploy a nontenured individual could be set aside if it were 'arbitrary, unreasonable, capricious or otherwise improper' or based on "'statutorily proscribed discriminatory practices, i.e., race, religion, color, etc.,'" or on "'frivolous, capricious, or arbitrary considerations which have no relationship to the purpose to be served'" and that the burden of sustaining an appeal was on the teacher. A "'bare'" allegation of arbitrariness is "'insufficient to establish grounds for action.'" Donaldson at 247. The Court also noted with approval a prior determination of the Commissioner to not enter into a reevaluation of the teacher's classroom performance and teaching competence. Donaldson at 249.

A request for damages for non-reappointment, for whatever reason except the denial of due process, must be based on a claim to the right of reappointment. Bd. of Ed., Tp. of Wyckoff v. Wyckoff Ed. Ass., 168 N.J. Super. 497, 500 (App. Div. 1979), certif. den. 81 N.J. 349 (1979) (Wyckoff). A hearing conducted subsequent to a request for such by the individual in question, after the employee has been given a statement of the reasons for non-reappointment, which hearing even allowed the employees to be heard in order to convince the board to offer reemployment comports with due process requirements. Wyckoff at 500-501. The right not to renew the contracts of nontenured employees is a "management prerogative" of the local board of education, and a board is not obligated to renew the contracts of all nontenured teachers "who do a 'good job.'" Wyckoff at 501.

As respondent argues, the facts in the current case are substantially similar to those in Winston v. Jersey City School District, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d. 41 (Dept. of Ed.) (Winston). Winston sought a determination that he had tenure as a school psychologist with the State-operated school district of the City of Jersey City and that this termination, effective January 13, 1992, violated his tenure rights. By letter dated January 10, 1992, petitioner, who was initially hired effective February 27, 1989 and entered into subsequent reemployment contracts for the following school years, was advised that his employment would be terminated effective at the conclusion of January 13, 1992. He received 60 days' termination pay, in accordance with a contract which required 60 days' notice. Petitioner would have gained tenure during the 60-day period following the notification that he was to be terminated. (Id. ar 42). The presiding administrative law judge (ALJ) determined that Winston did not achieve tenure in the position of school psychologist. In doing so, in an extensive discussion, he did not find persuasive arguments of due process violations pursuant to the Fourteenth Amendment, referencing Board of Regents v. Roth, 408 U.S. 514, 92 S. Ct. 2701, 33 L.Ed. 2d. 548 (1972) (Roth) and Perry v. Sindermann, 408 U.S. 593, 92 S. Ct. 2694, 33 L.Ed. 2d. 570 (1972) (Sindermann). The Commissioner, concurring with the ALJ's analysis, adopted the initial decision. (Id. at 44).

The ALJ as well as the Commissioner, relied in Winston on Canfield v. Bd. of Ed. of Pine Hill Boro, 97 N.J. Super. 483 (App. Div. 1967), rev'g on dissent, 51 N.J. 400 (1968) (Canfield). The board of education appealed from a final decision of the State Board of Education, affirming a decision of the Acting Commissioner that petitioner Canfield had tenure as a teacher and was entitled to immediate reinstatement. Four written contracts of employment were entered into between the board and Canfield, commencing with one dated December 12, 1962. The fourth contract, dated April 20, 1965, provided for Canfield's employment from September 1, 1965 to June 30, 1966 and contained a clause pursuant to which the parties were required to give 60 days' written notice of an intent to terminate. Prior contracts contained similar provisions, except they provided for 30 days' notice. On November 15, 1965, the board sent Canfield a letter, notifying her that as of November 15, 1965, the Board was terminating her teaching contract, effective immediately, with a provision of two months' pay. Canfield returned the check, asserting she had tenure. The Commissioner and the State Board, ruled that petitioner had tenure. The board disputed the Commissioner's ruling that Canfield's employment did not terminate on November 15, 1995 but 60 days thereafter. The majority of the appellant division affirmed. Canfield, 97 N.J. Super. at 485-487. The New Jersey Supreme Court reversed for reasons expressed in the dissenting opinion of Judge Gaulkin, Canfield at 51 N.J. 401. He stated in part:

> It seems to me that tenure and contract are two different concepts; tenure is statutory and arises only by passage of the time fixed by the statute, and the discharge of an employee before the passage of the required time bars tenure, even if the discharge is a breach of an employment contact, which, if not breached, would have extended to a date which would have given tenure. [citation omitted]
>
> Finally, I find nothing in the contact which justifies the conclusion reached by my Brothers that the dismissal was not effective on the date the notice of dismissal was given. If this were a dispute arising out of the breach of the contract itself in which the question of the date of termination of the contract became important, it might be held that the termination was not effective until 60 days after the notice of dismissal was given. Examples of such cases are those involving cancellation of insurance policies or similar contacts, . . . [citation omitted] [b]ut here we are concerned not with the contract which was breached, but with its status of the plaintiff -- i.e., tenure. It seems to me that the dismissal immediately stopped the running of the time to tenure. The burden of proving the right of tenure is upon plaintiff and ordinarily that right must be clearly proved. I do not think a municipality should be trapped into tenure by the construction of words which neither party expected to have that meaning. Canfield, 97 N.J. Super. at 490-493.

Judge Gaulkin in his analysis referenced N.J.S.A. 18:13-11. Id. at 491.

The burden of proof in the instant case is on petitioner. Donaldson, supra. I am persuaded that she has not met her burden.

Although the reasons for the Board's action rescinding the July 13, 1993 termination are not clear from the record, it is apparent that the Board acted to terminate Fuller at its July 27, 1993 meeting, effective immediately, with the provision of 60 days' notice. As respondent argues, petitioner received 60 days' termination pay. I am persuaded in this respect by the reasoning of Canfield and Winston that she was terminated effective July 28, 1993, and the fact that she subsequently received termination pay for the following 60-day period is not determinative. Nor is the fact that Fuller would have gained tenure during the 60-day period following notification of termination if the Board action in question had not been taken. Fuller, in fact, acknowledged her termination by letter dated August 16, 1993, at which time she requested the social worker's stipend. The fact that the Board, for whatever reason, subsequently agreed to pay petitioner a social worker stipend, which was calculated to pay Fuller for the 60-day termination notice period, does not change the fact that she was terminated by Board action on July 27, 1993. This conclusion is supported by the fact that it is within a local board's discretion whether to continue the provision of services subsequent to notice of termination, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9, which provision, as noted hereinabove, was referenced by Judge Gaulkin in Canfield, supra.

I am also persuaded that the Board complied with the requirements to provide a statement of reasons, as well as the provision of a hearing, which proceeding, as discussed hereinabove, was not required to be an adversarial one. As found, the Board allowed petitioner and union representatives to make presentations, in efforts to reverse the Board's determination. The proceedings satisfied due process requirements. I am not persuaded, in this respect, by Fuller's reliance on Roth and Sindermann, for the reasons stated in Winston, supra. Dore supports a conclusion that the fact that the statement of reasons and the September meeting were not timely should not result in reinstatement.

In addition, I am persuaded that petitioner has not demonstrated that the Board's decision to terminate her employment was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable nor based on prohibited rationales. As discussed hereinabove, local boards of education have broad discretion in making determinations on retention of nontenured employees, such determinations do not have to be directly based on the evaluation of such individuals, and even a failure to not strictly comply with provisions regarding evaluations or observations will not result in reinstatement. Donaldson, supra; Dore, supra; Wyckoff, supra. The record is devoid of any inference that the Board terminated Fuller for prohibited reasons. In addition, the record, as evidenced in the above findings of fact, reflects consideration by the Board of Fuller's performance of her duties vis-à-vis classified students. I am persuaded that the Board's rationale for its determination was not unreasonable.

The fact that the Board subsequently conducted an informal proceeding in September 1993 did not nullify its action of July 27, 1993 terminating petitioner. If Fuller had not requested an opportunity to appear before the Board, a subsequent proceeding would not have been required. The purpose of the September proceeding was to give Fuller an opportunity to try to persuade the Board to reverse its prior action, which efforts were not successful. Subsequent reimbursement to Fuller was for the 60-day period subsequent to the Board action terminating her, not reimbursement for services provided subsequent to termination. The September proceeding comported with regulatory requirements. Petitioner and her representatives were allowed to make presentations to the Board. Cross-examination and the other characteristics of an adversarial proceeding were not required.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that the Board terminated petitioner on July 27, 1993, providing Fuller with 60 days' notice of such termination; that termination of Fuller by respondent was not arbitrary, capricious, nor unreasonable nor based on any prohibited rationales; that the Board's action terminating Fuller, and the proceeding conducted on September 28, 1993, comported with applicable statutory and regulatory provisions; and that Fuller did not achieve tenure in the position of social worker with respondent.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Fuller's petition filed with the DOE on December 2, 1993, be and his hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in this matter has been reviewed, however, the record has not yet been received. In that the Commissioner is unable to render a final determination in this matter absent a careful and independent review of the record, which has apparently been lost, the Commissioner is constrained to remand this matter for reconstruction of the record.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to OAL for further proceedings consistent with the above.

Record Closed: June 18, 1996 Decided: July 17, 1996

BEFORE NAOMI DOWER-LABASTILLE, ALJ, t/a:

This matter concerns the tenure charges filed against Priscilla Collins, a teaching staff member, for allegedly excessive absences and tardiness. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 29, 1995 for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On October 17, 1995, Collins filed a petition contesting the Board's withholding of her increment, which was transmitted to OAL on November 17, 1995 and consolidated with the tenure case on December 21, 1995.

Five days of hearings were held over a period of five months following delay for resolution of a recusal motion filed by Collins and suspension of hearings to resolve a subsequent recusal motion filed by the Board. Collins testified for hours on June 14, 1996, revealing her personal history which included over 20 years teaching in Camden until she experienced a divorce, depression, substance abuse, attendance problems, suspension, treatment, recovery and rehabilitation.

Evidence demonstrated that Collins was a fine teacher for many, many years and until her recent problems. Collins was present at each hearing over a five month period, affording me an opportunity for close observation. It is clear that she has successfully rehabilitated herself. Because I FIND the above to be true, I do not recommend that action to be taken against Collins' teacher certification.

On June 18, 1996, the parties placed a stipulation setting forth the terms of settlement on the record. The signed stipulation is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded. Both parties have waived an exceptions period.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, COUNTY OF CAMDEN,

Respondent.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

THIS STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT is entered into by and between the Board of Education of the City of Camden (hereinafter "Board") and its tenured employee Priscilla Collins (hereinafter "Collins")(the Board and Collins are hereinafter jointly referred to as the "Parties");

WHEREAS, Collins has been continuously employed by the Board as a teaching staff member since April 1, 1972;

WHEREAS, on May 8, 1995, the Board certified to the Commissioner of Education charges against Collins which it felt under the circumstances, if true, were sufficient to warrant her dismissal;

WHEREAS, on June 22, 1995, Collins filed an Answer to the charges denying the allegations as stated;

WHEREAS, on June 26, 1995, the Board acted to withhold Collins's salary adjustment for the 1995-96 year, giving her notice of the Board's action on August 1, 1995;

WHEREAS, on October 18, 1995, Collins filed a Petition of Appeal, alleging that the Board arbitrarily withheld her salary adjustment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, captioned Priscilla Collins v. Board of Education of the City of Camden, Camden County, OAL Docket No. EDUOR 10690-95S;

WHEREAS, on or about November 13, 1995, the Board filed its Answer to the Petition of Appeal denying the allegations;

WHEREAS, on December 21, 1995, the Honorable Naomi Dower-LaBastille, A.L.J. t/a, entered an Order consolidating the Board's action seeking Collins's dismissal and Collins's Petition of Appeal from the Board's action withholding her salary adjustment;

WHEREAS, this matter was heard in part by ALJ Dower-LaBastille and the Parties having agreed to a means of resolving this dispute in a manner consonant with the public interest; and

WHEREAS Collins and the Board have entered into this stipulation with a full understanding of their rights, recognizing that this stipulation and their agreement is subject to the review and approval of the Commissioner of Education, and with Collins's further understanding that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)1 any determination made by the Commissioner of Education resulting in a loss of tenure or dismissal may be referred to the State Board of Examiners for determination of possible revocation or suspension of teaching certificate;

NOW THEREFORE, the matter in difference having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties,

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED AS FOLLOWS:

1. Collins tenders her resignation effective June 30, 1996. A copy of the letter of resignation is attached as Exhibit A to this Stipulation. The Board accepts Collins's resignation and hereby agrees that all of its official records shall reflect that the reason for Collins's leaving the Board's employ was that she resigned "in good standing." The Board will pay Collins her salary and all customary benefits and emoluments of employment until June 30, 1996. The Board hereby withdraws with prejudice the tenure charges that it has filed against Collins.

2. Collins hereby withdraws with prejudice her Petition of Appeal alleging that the Board arbitrarily withheld her salary adjustment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

3. The Parties enter into this agreement with the mutual understanding that the Order adopting this Stipulation will: (a) contain the findings set forth by Collins's counsel on the record on June 18, 1996 or similar findings and (b) will provide that the Board will not refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for revocation of Collins's teaching certificate and the OAL will not take any action to initiate proceedings before the State Board. This agreement is expressly conditioned on these or similar findings being made. Provided, however, that nothing in this agreement is intended to restrict the State Board of Examiners from taking any action it deems appropriate.

4. The Board will immediately provide Collins with a neutral letter of reference setting forth her dates of employment, the job titles held by her, her last salary and noting that Collins resigned from the Camden schools in good standing. The Board agrees that all inquiries it receives regarding Collins will be directed to the Board's current Director of Personnel, D. Parthenia Cogdell, or her successor.

5. In consideration of the savings of time, effort and legal expense that this settlement will create, the Board agrees to immediately take all steps necessary to convert Collins's suspension from May 9, 1995 to September 6, 1995 to a Board-approved leave of absence without pay. The Board will not be responsible for making any contribution into the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund ("TPAF") for this leave period, but Collins is free to do so should TPAF permit her to.

6. Collins agrees that she will not hereafter apply to the Board for employment.

7. This Stipulation constitutes a full release of any and all claims of either party against the other. Specifically, Collins forever releases the Board from any and all complaints, charges, liabilities, demands, debts, accounts, obligations, promises, suits, actions, causes of action, demands in law or equity, including claims for damages (including but not limited to back pay and front pay), equitable relief, and attorney fees or costs, which Collins now has, or claims to have, or which Collins at any time may have had or claimed to have had, or which Collins at any time hereafter may have, or claim to have, whether presently known or unknown, arising at any time, up to and including the date on which she signs the document.

Nothing in this paragraph is intended to operate as a release, waiver, or forfeiture of Collins's rights, and the Board's obligations under:

(a) Any state worker's compensation act or statute, or

(b) any State of New Jersey retirement, pension, savings, or 401(k) plan in which Collins is a participant;

8. The Board forever releases Collins from any and all complaints charges, liabilities, demands, debts, accounts, obligations, promises, suits, actions, causes of action, demands in law or equity, including, but not limited to, claims for damages, equitable relief, attorney fees or costs, which the Board now has, or claims to have, or which the Board at any time may have had or claimed to have had, or which the Board at any time hereafter may have, or claim to have, whether presently known or unknown, arising at any time, up to and including the date on which this document is signed on its behalf.

9. The parties agree to waive exceptions.

10. The Parties agree that this document constitutes their full understanding. It is agreed that there are no other understandings or agreements (either written or oral) which would have any impact upon the present action.

11. By signing this agreement, Collins certifies that she has had the opportunity to discuss this stipulation with counsel. She is fully satisfied with the services of her counsel with respect to both this Stipulation and all other aspects of this case and she enters into this Stipulation knowingly, willingly and without any coercion or improper inducements.

12. The Parties further agree that this agreement is contingent upon approval by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. Neither party will take any legal action whatsoever that is inconsistent with this Agreement before the Office of Administrative Law or any other forum.

13. The parties agree that this Stipulation may be signed in counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.

The Commissioner approves the settlement terms, but cautions that such approval is contingent upon the understanding that the parties' agreement does not prevent the Commissioner from forwarding this matter to the State Board of Examiners and may not be construed to relieve the Board of its obligation to cooperate with the State Board of Examiners in any action that body may decide to take with regard to this matter. With these attendant contingencies, the Commissioner is satisfied that the settlement terms comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.*

Philip Feintuch, Esq., for respondent Michele LaMonica (Feintuch, Porwich & Feintuch, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 22, 1996 Decided: July 22, 1996

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 7, 1995, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Hearings scheduled on April 24, 26 and 29, 1996 were adjourned because the matter was settled. When no settlement was received, the matter was rescheduled for hearing on October 18, 1996.

On July 22, 1996, the parties submitted the attached agreement indicating the terms of agreement which are incorporated herein by reference.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement on the record.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

3. The agreement conforms with the Cardonick standards and with the concerns of the Commissioner of Education as set forth in his decision. In re Cardonick, decided by Commissioner, April 7, 1982, affirmed, State Bd. of Ed., 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846 (April 6, 1983).

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE :
TENURE HEARING OF :
MICHELE LA MONICA :
STATE OPERATED SCHOOL : OF JERSEY CITY, :
HUDSON COUNTY. :

This agreement is made this 16th day of July, 1996, by and between the State Operated School District of Jersey City, New Jersey 07305, hereinafter referred to as the "District,"

AND

Michele LaMonica, whose home address is 102 Cottage Street, Jersey City, New Jersey 07306, hereinafter referred to as "Ms. LaMonica."

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Ms. LaMonica has been employed by the District for a sufficient number of years to have obtained tenure, and

WHEREAS, Ms. LaMonica's employment continued in said district when it became the State-Operated School District of Jersey City on October 4, 1989; and

WHEREAS, tenure charges of unbecoming conduct were certified against Ms. LaMonica by Frank M. Sinatra, Interim State District Superintendent, on February 15, 1995; and

WHEREAS, the tenure charges were certified to the Commissioner of Education on June 30, 1995; and

WHEREAS, Ms. LaMonica's attorney filed an Answer and Cross-Petition denying said charges on August 17, 1995; and

WHEREAS, in lieu of proceeding with the tenure charges in accordance with the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, the District and Ms. LaMonica desire to resolve the matter without resort to full litigation, which would require substantial expense to the time and resources of both parties; and

WHEREAS, Ms. LaMonica feels that her current teaching assignment as a teacher of Special Education is incompatible with her medical needs, which include a condition easily aggravated by stress; and

WHEREAS, Ms. LaMonica has expressed a desire and intention to resign from said assignment and from her tenured employment with the school district; and

WHEREAS, the public interest would best be served by resolving the present controversy;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties and in exchange for the consideration more particularly noted below, it is hereby agreed:

1. The District agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, the tenure charges of Inefficiency and Incompetence/Incapacity bearing Agency Docket No. 242-6/96 and OAL Docket No. EDU 09788-95N

2. Ms. LaMonica agrees to resign from her tenured employment with the school district.

3. Ms. LaMonica agrees to forfeit any monies withheld as a result of her suspension without pay from the date of certification of the tenure charges, June 30, 1995.

4. The school District will continue to pay Ms. LaMonica's regular salary through June 30, 1996.

5. The school District will maintain Ms. LaMonica's current level of medical benefits through September 1, 1996.

6. The District and Ms. LaMonica agree that the withdrawal of the tenure charges will serve as full and final settlement of the tenure matter.

7. Ms. LaMonica has been advised by her attorney of the Commissioner of Education's duty pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Education for possible revocation of certificates.

8. The District and Ms. LaMonica acknowledge that the terms of this Agreement are contingent upon the review and approval of both the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. In the event that either agency disapproves the terms of the settlement, this Agreement shall be null and void and the parties shall return to the same positions which they held prior to this settlement.

9. The parties recognize that each has been represented by legal counsel of her or its own choosing and that each signs this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

10. This Agreement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

11. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not

PATRICIA FAUGHNAN,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Patricia Faughnan, pro se

State Board of Education, appearing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.6

Record Closed: May 22, 1996 Decided: June 14, 1996

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner had been employed with the Linden Board of Education as a bus driver since Fall 1995. On January 11, 1996, the respondent New Jersey Department of Education (the Department) notified the petitioner that a fingerprint search conducted in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 revealed that petitioner had been convicted of a disqualifying crime occurring on August 5, 1988. Accordingly, she was disqualified from continued employment for any school or institution under the supervision of the Department. On or about February 13, 1996 petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal from the disqualification. On March 15, the Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 13. A hearing was held at the OAL on May 22, 1996.

The issue to be resolved is whether the petitioner has demonstrated by clear and convincing evidence that she is rehabilitated.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner presented the following undisputed evidence:

In July, 1988, petitioner was ironing clothing while having an argument with her 9-year-old son. In exasperation at his rebelliousness, when her son walked by her she struck him in the arm with the hot iron, causing a third degree burn. Petitioner immediately regretted the act, and she dressed the burn for her son which healed without leaving a scar. Three weeks later petitioner was arrested and charged with a violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4(a) (endangering the welfare of a child).

Petitioner, who was not represented by an attorney, plead guilty to the indictment and received a sentence of three years probation. The Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) removed her 9-year-old son as well as her 12-year-old son from the home. The petitioner successfully completed psychological counseling as well as family counseling. By the end of the year her older son returned to live with her and soon thereafter her younger son also returned.

Other than the crime in question, the petitioner has never had any trouble with the law or DYFS. During the period before she was arrested, petitioner was under a great deal of stress in her home. After going through a divorce, she had difficulty getting support payments and had to attend many court sessions. Petitioner had to move back to her mother's home to live and worked as a secretary to support the family. Petitioner had been taking diet pills for about two years and now realizes that this made her short tempered. Petitioner's younger sister was also living in the home and she was a drug addict who caused chaos in the house.

Petitioner has also been helping raise her sister's child. Due to petitioner's younger sister's addictive behavior, the petitioner's mother had custody of the sister's child. In August 1994, after the petitioner's mother's death, the petitioner was awarded custody of her 9-year-old nephew on the recommendation of DYFS with a finding that such custody was in the best interest of the child.

Petitioner worked for a private school bus company transporting Catholic school children for about two years. Petitioner did very well on this job and had no trouble with children. Indeed the parents of the children gave her gifts and thank you cards for being so helpful and kind. Petitioner only left that job for the Linden Board of Education job because the Linden job had health benefits.

Petitioner's treating doctor, Felicia Oliver-Smith, M.D., re-evaluated her in 1996 and found that "[t]here are no indications at this time that Mrs. Faughnan would endanger a child. "Neighbors also described petitioner as "very kind" and "hard-working" and beloved by their own children. Her older sister testified that petitioner, the "good kid" of the family, had never had a problem hitting her children or other children before or after the incident. Petitioner deeply regrets striking her son and believes she would never strike any child again.

Having observed the demeanor of the witness and read the documents presented, I FIND the above to be FACTS.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

In determining whether an individual had affirmatively demonstrated rehabilitation, the following factors, contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1e, shall be considered:

(1) The nature and responsibility of the position which the convicted individual would hold;
(2) The nature and seriousness of the offense;
(3) The circumstances under which the offense occurred;
(4) The date of the offense;
(5) The age of the individual when the offense was committed;
(6) Whether the offense was an isolated or repeated incident;
(7) Any social conditions which may have contributed to the offense;
(8) Any evidence of rehabilitation, including good conduct in prison or in the community, counseling or psychiatric treatment received, acquisition of additional academic or vocational schooling, successful participation in correctional work-release programs, or the recommendations of persons who have had the individual under their supervision.

I now must apply the above factors to the facts presented in this hearing. The position of school bus driver involves direct and regular contact with school children. The offense, while plainly unacceptable behavior, was not of such a serious degree as to merit incarceration. The circumstances of the offense, which happened almost eight years ago and was a one time complete aberration of petitioner's behavior, involved an extreme overreaction of a parent to her child's misbehavior. The stressful conditions in petitioner's life greatly contributed to this one time criminal act, included financial difficulties due to lack of child support, inappropriate taking of prescribed diet pills, and chaos in the home due to a drug-addicted sister.

Petitioner presented strong evidence that she has been successfully rehabilitated. Both before and since the crime the petitioner has been a model citizen. Petitioner received mental health therapy and family counseling which has enabled her to cope with stressful situations in a more rational manner. Petitioner was released from probation early due to her complete fulfillment of all the conditions of probation. DYFS returned the children to her and recommended the petitioner for custody of her nephew in 1994. Petitioner has truly paid her debt to society for her criminal behavior and now is contributing in possible ways to her family and community.

Based on the whole record, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has demonstrated her rehabilitation by clear and convincing evidence within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Department's action disqualifying petitioner as a school bus driver is REVERSED. Petitioner has affirmatively demonstrated rehabilitation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER

OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE	:
DISQUALIFICATION FROM	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL EMPLOYMENT OF P.F.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner reverses the conclusions in the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and finds that the within petitioner has not demonstrated rehabilitation by clear and convincing evidence in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and is, therefore, not qualified for school employment within the intent of the criminal history record check laws.

In reaching this determination, the Commissioner of Education is mindful of his obligation to review appeals of disqualification from school employment to determine whether an appellant has affirmatively demonstrated rehabilitation by clear and convincing evidence. The burden of proving rehabilitation is, therefore, on the appellant and the following factors must be considered:

(1) The nature and responsibility of the position which the convicted individual would hold;

(2) The nature and seriousness of the offense;

(3) The circumstances under which the offense occurred;

(4) The date of the offense;

(5) The age of the individual when the offense was committed;

(6) Whether the offense was an isolated or repeated incident;

(7) Any social conditions which may have contributed to the offense; and

(8) Any evidence of rehabilitation, including good conduct in prison or in the community, counseling or psychiatric treatment received, acquisition of additional academic or vocational schooling, successful participation in correctional work-release programs, or the recommendation of persons who have had the individual under their supervision. (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1)

The Commissioner has considered the above factors, as well as the circumstances surrounding the offense as explained in the initial decision and the ALJ's determinations regarding rehabilitation in reaching this decision. The ALJ classified petitioner's offense as an "extreme overreaction" caused by "stressful conditions in petitioner's life [which] greatly contributed to this one time criminal act" but that she presented strong evidence of rehabilitation. (Initial Decision at p. 4) The Commissioner finds, however, that so recent and serious a conviction for Endangering the Welfare of a Child cannot be reconciled with petitioner's desire to work for the schools as a bus driver, a position laden with great responsibility wherein one is entrusted, often on a sole basis, with the care and safety of children as they are transported to and from school.

The Commissioner further finds that notwithstanding that petitioner may be making progress toward rehabilitation, he cannot subject children to the possibility of another violent overreaction by petitioner, as there is little doubt that stressful conditions exist on school buses as a result of both traffic conditions and the presence of large numbers of children who may be generally unruly or more seriously disruptive. Also disturbing to the Commissioner is the fact that the incident leading to petitioner's conviction occurred when she was 31 years of age and presumably mature enough to understand the consequences of her actions.

As such, the Commissioner cannot be persuaded by clear and convincing evidence, as required by statute, that petitioner is rehabilitated sufficiently to work in such a capacity.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Commissioner reverses the initial decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter and petitioner is deemed disqualified from school employment as a bus driver.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, monitor who was not reappointed, contended respondents (Board and Department officials) acted improperly in setting a substitute teaching certificate requirement for the position of Student Enrichment Program Site Monitor.

ALJ found that petitioner filed his petition untimely, waiting well beyond the 90-day filing period before filing his petition. Moreover, ALJ found no violation of state or federal regulations and statutes by respondents. Respondents' motions for summary decision and to dismiss the petition were granted.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the matter was untimely filed and that, even if the matter had been timely filed, petitioner had not established that any violation of law occurred or that the County Superintendent acted in an improper manner. Petition was dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter petitioner seeks to declare invalid the actions of respondents creating the position of site monitor in the Cherry Hill School District and establishing the requirements therefor.

On April 8, 1996, the matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to the New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act. A telephone prehearing conference was held on May 30, 1996 scheduling the case for hearing on November 6, 1996.

A series of motions followed. By letter dated June 22, 1996, petitioner mailed what he called a "motion" to compel compliance with his discovery requests. On June 28, 1996 respondent Cherry Hill School District filed a motion for summary decision returnable on July 19, 1996. A second motion for summary decision was filed by Deputy Attorney General Lutz on behalf of respondents Tillery and Contini; this was received in the Office of Administrative Law on July 8, 1996. The latter two motions were supported by the certifications of Leslie Koller (Student Enrichment Program Coordinator), Jack McGee (Director of Human Resources for the Board of Education), Dr. Win L. Tillery (Camden County Superintendent of Schools), and Mark C. Singer, Esquire, which certifications include copies of various letters, memoranda, and other written material.

On July 8, 1996, petitioner filed an answering letter with attached "affidavit" dated July 4, 1996. The "affidavit" is neither acknowledged nor notarized by any official. Nevertheless, I will consider it as if it were an affidavit since petitioner is pro se and I am required to treat his papers indulgently. Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Company, 17 N.J. 67, 74-5 (1954).

I have read and reviewed all of the papers, and, viewing them in a light most favorable to the non-moving party (petitioner), have determined that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, and that the moving party (respondents) are entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

See, N.J.A.C. 1:12.5(b) and R. 4:46-2. See also, Brill v. the Guardian Life Insurance of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1950).

The undisputed facts are as follows.

FACTS

In April 1995 the Cherry Hill Board of Education ("Board") decided to create the Student Enrichment Program ("STEP") for after-school supervision of students for the 1995-96 school year.

On June 26, 1995 the Board approved the appointment of a number of new employees in order to help implement STEP. These employees were to be given the title of "Student Enrichment Program Site Monitors" ("Site Monitors").

By letter dated July 6, 1995, Patricia Lucas, Former Assistant Superintendent for Personnel, sought approval from Dr. Winifred Tillery, Camden County Schools Superintendent, for this job title. A proposed job description was included in the letter. Among the qualifications for the job was the possession of a substitute instructional certificate. Among the duties and responsibilities were the following: assists in monitoring the Student Enrichment Program; assist with student registrations, course assignments, and collection of tuition monies for the site: maintains an accurate schedule of course offerings and student registration; coordinates with course instructors and building personnel the acquisition of necessary equipment and/or supplies; communicates course cancellations and student absences to all involved parties; prepares attendance and other clerical reports; and escorts children to front door for dismissal.

Within a few weeks thereafter, Dr. Tillery reviewed the Job Description, had discussions with representatives of the Board, and noted that the position involved personal interaction with students. He then determined that the "minimum of level of certifications for the position should be a country substitute certificate.... (which) may be issued to individuals who have a minimum of 60 semesters hours completed in an accredited college."

During this period of time the Board sought to employ persons as Enrichment Instructors and Site Monitors for STEP for the 1995-1996 school year. Advertisements were placed in a local newspaper and notices posted at various facilities in the township. The initial advertisement stated that a minimum of 60 college credits were required for the Site Monitor position, that it was a part-time position, and that it paid $8.00 per hour, but it made no mention of a substitute teaching certificate.

On or about July 15, petitioner submitted an application for a Site Monitor position. Three days later Ms. Leslie Koller (STEP Coordinator) circulated a memorandum addressed to "All Cherry Hill School District teachers, teaching assistant and substitute teachers." The memorandum included the following sentence: "The Site Monitor position does require 60 college credits, and if employed, a Camden County Substitute Teaching Certificate must be obtained."

In late July or early August petitioner was interviewed by Ms. Koller for the position of Site Monitor. At the interview petitioner was given a copy of the Job Description, which at this time contained the substitute teaching certificate requirement. (Whether or not Ms. Koller personally informed him of the substitute teaching requirement is in dispute - - she says she did; he says she didn't).

On August 24, 1995 Ms. Koller wrote to petitioner advising him that he was appointed as a Site Monitor for the Fall semester, subject to Board approval, and that he should bring to the Personnel Office a copy of his substitute teaching certificate if he already had one, or a copy of his college transcript plus a $50 application fee (for the certificate), if he did not.

On September 6, 1995 Anthony Cost, the former Assistant Superintendent for Personnel and former interim Director of Human Resources, appointed petitioner as STEP Site Monitor for the Fall semester from September 27, 1995 through December 14, 1995. Fourteen other persons were also appointed as Site Monitors for the Fall semester. Prior to December 14, 1995 all of the appointees, with the exception of petitioner, who did not already have a teaching or substitute teaching certificate, obtained one. Petitioner is a graduate of an accredited college and is eligible for a substitute teaching certificate.

On or about December 20, 1995, all of the previously appointed Site Monitors except for petitioner were re-appointed for the Spring Semester. Petitioner was not reappointed for the Spring Semester. Petitioner was not reappointed because he had neither obtained nor applied for a substitute teaching certificate. The re-appointed Site Monitors were, in petitioner's words, all "middle-class white females."

An exchange of correspondence between petitioner and respondents Tillery and McGee ensued. The present Petition was filed in the Department of Education on February 14, 1996.

ISSUES AND ANALYSIS

As far as I can determine, the crux of petitioner's case is that there is no reasonable basis for requiring a substitute teaching certificate for the position of Site Monitor.

Petitioner relies on a November 1995 Department of Education publication entitled "Comprehensive Plan for Education Improvement and Financing," wherein the phrase "certificated staff" is defined as: "Professional staff such as teachers, nurse practitioners, counselors, social workers, program facilitators, and collaborations facilitators." In the same publication, "non-certificated staff" means: "Non-professional staff such as teachers' aides, clinical receptionist, school and family liaisons, attendance monitors, and school-community liaisons."

He alleges that most, or all, of the Site Monitor duties fall within the "non-certificated" category and that few, if any, of the duties are "professional." He contends that the making of the Site Monitor position dependent upon obtaining a substitute teaching certificate violates N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1, 6:11-2.2, 6:11-4.6, 6:56-1.1(d), 6:4-1.2, and 6:4-1.6(b); that it results in employment discrimination; and that it violates the 1964 and 1991 Civil Rights Laws, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and the Federal Uniform Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures.

By way of relief, petitioner requests that: the Commissioner review and analyze the essential job functions of the Site Monitor position and determine whether certification is appropriate or not; "the Department clarify," "explain" and "indicate the need for" such matters as "whether the County Superintendent must comply with State certification law or can expand it;" reimburse him "for lost income for the Spring Semester" and "costs of pursuing this complaint;" he be awarded punitive damages; and he be employed as an "expert job analyst" and evaluator of the school district's human resources, equal employment opportunity, and related programs.

There are several reasons for granting respondents' motions for summary decision.

N.J.A.C. 6:24-12(c) provides that:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

No later than late August 1995, petitioner knew of the need to obtain a substitute certificate. Nevertheless, he did not file his petition until February 4, 1996, at least 5 months after being put on notice of that requirement.

The standard for determining if a party has notice of an order, ruling, or other action triggering the 90-day provision of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 is whether the notice provided by the action is specific and definite, so that the petitioner is informed both of the action and of the fact that he is affected thereby. See, e.g. Stockton v. Trenton Board of Education, 210 N.J. Super. 150, 157-58 (App. Div. 1986). Adequate notice must be sufficient to inform a person of some fact that he or she has the right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. Kaprow v. Berkley Township Board of Education, 131 N.J. 592(1993). Petitioner admits that on or a few days after August 24, 1995, he had notice, by reason of the job description, of the requirement of a substitute teaching certificate and of the fact that he was affected by that action. Thus, the 90 days in which the petitioner was required to file his appeal began to run no later than September 1, 1995. Any appeal by him had to be filed by November 30, 1995. It was not filed until February 4, 1996, which was clearly out of time.

Our courts have consistently affirmed the Commissioner's right to dismiss petitions filed after the expiration of the 90-day period. See, e.g., North Plainfield v. Board of Education of the Borough of North Plainfield, 96 N.J. 587 (1984). When a plaintiff or petitioner knows, or has reason to know, that he has a cause of action against an identifiable defendant and voluntarily sleeps on his rights so long as to permit the customary period of limitations to expire, the pertinent considerations of individual justice, as well as broader considerations of repose, coincide to bar his action. Farrell v. Votator, 62 N.J. 111, 115 (1973). See also, Weir v. Board of Education of Northern Valley Regional High School District, 1984 S.L.D. (dec. June 7, 1984) (pointing out that the 90-day rule should be applied even if the result - - the barring of a possible valid claim - - seems harsh).

N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b) provides as follows:

> If a district board of education determines that the use of an unrecognized position title is desirable, or if a previously established unrecognized title exists, such district board of education shall submit a written request for permission to use the proposed title to the county superintendent of schools, prior to making such a detailed Job Description. The county superintendent shall exercise his or her discretion regarding approval of such request, and make a determination of the appropriate certification and title for the position. (emphasis added)

Within the scope of legislatively delegated authority, the actions of administrative agencies are presumptively valid, and where that authority confers discretion upon those agents, their actions will ordinarily not be overturned by the courts unless they are manifestly corrupt, arbitrary or misleading. Gormley v. Lan, 88 N.J. 26 (1981). Courts are not free to substitute their judgment as to the wisdom of a particular administrative action or that of the agency so long as the action is statutorily authorized and not otherwise defective because it is arbitrary or unreasonable. City of Newark v. Natural Resource Council, 82 N.J. 530 (1980), cert. den., 449 U.S. 983 (1980). Arbitrary and capricious means willful and unreasoned action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Worthington v. Fauver, 88 N.J. 123 (1982). Abuse of discretion is a finding that is so wide of the mark that a manifest denial of justice results. State v. Kelly, 97 N.J. 178 (1984). Only if an act of an administrative agency is so clearly against the logic and effect of the facts as to demonstrate it is unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious, will the court reverse. Elizabeth Lodge No. 289, B.P.O.E. v. Legalized Games of Chance Control Commission, 67 N.J. Super. 240, 246 (App. Div. 1961).

Public officials, because of their peculiar knowledge of local conditions, must be allowed wide latitude in their delegated discretion. Bove v. Board of Adjustment of Emerson, 100 N.J. Super. 95 (App. Div. 1968). Accordingly, courts should be extremely cautious in interfering with administrative procedures. Ferrari v. Melleby, 134 N.J. Super. 83 (App. Div. 1975).

Petitioner does not deny that Dr. Tillery carefully reviewed the Job Description submitted by the Board of Education and that he had considerable discussion with Board representatives. Because the position included substantial contact with students, he approved the Board's request to include a substitute teaching certificate as one of the job requirements. On its face that decision was not unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

Petitioner admits that he is qualified and eligible to obtain the required substitute teaching certificate. All he had to do was present his college transcript and pay a minimal fee. He chose not to do so. Any harm he suffered therefore was self-inflicted.

It bears repeating that judicial and quasi-judicial forums are established to deal with real and substantial cases and controversies. They are not created in order to render advisory opinions, nor to act as a super legislature or super administrator.

In order to have "standing" to begin any civil action, an individual must ordinarily sustain some real harm, economic or otherwise. Davis, Administrative Law Treatise (2d ed.), p. 240. An abstract injury, i.e., a broad and general injury that allegedly affects the entire public, does not ordinarily suffice. Id., p. 245. Under the Administrative Procedure Act the right to litigate depends on the petitioner being able to demonstrate a particularized property right or other special interest. Spalt v. New Jersey Dept. of Env. Protection, 237 N.J Super. 206, 212 (App. Div. 1989). Semble: Limongelli v. N.J. St. Bd. of Dentistry, 137 N.J. 317 (1993); Application of County of Bergen, 268 N.J. Super. 403 (App. Div. 1993).

Petitioner has suffered no real harm, at least none that he himself could not have easily avoided. His disagreement with the decision of the Board of Education and of the county superintendent to require a substitute teaching certificate for the Site Monitor position is not enough to sustain this action.

Petitioner's assertions that respondents have violated various state and federal regulations and statutes is without merit. He has presented a wholly insufficient factual basis for this claim and cites not a single case or other pertinent authority. Bare-bones assertions of arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious action, of illegal discrimination, and of abuse of authority will simply not do. As for respondent Contini, petitioner has alleged nothing at all regarding his conduct that constitutes a cause of action.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons expressed above, I CONCLUDE that respondents' motions for summary decision and to dismiss the petition should be GRANTED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DR. WIN L. TILLERY, CAMDEN COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, PETER B. CONTINI, ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CHERRY HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by petitioner and by respondents, Drs. Tillery and Contini, and also by the Board in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. An additional submission was filed by petitioner on August 21, 1996. In that N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 makes no provision for such submission beyond exceptions, it was not considered herein.

Petitioner initially sets forth objections pertaining to the procedures established by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) at hearing. He further objects to the ALJ's statement that petitioner did not provide case law in that he was pro se and was not required to submit briefs. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 2) Next, petitioner asserts that the ALJ did not analyze the germane provisions to this action, specifically N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a)i and 6:11-4.5(c), or the Board's implementation of such provisions. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 2) Further, petitioner excepts to the ALJ's factual findings objecting that respondents did not provide answers regarding certification requirements and, further, contends that the ALJ failed to note several facts in the initial decision. (Id. at pp. 3-4)

Petitioner next excepts to the Issues and Analysis section of the initial decision by exhaustively reviewing the hearing record. He explains that he did not comply with requirements "since the certification decision was arbitrary capricious and unreasonable." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 6) Petitioner excepts that he has suffered harm and that economic discrimination would befall him if he were compelled to pay a fee in order to become employed, asking if New Jersey wishes to operate its education human resources program by requiring applicants to buy jobs. (Id.) Petitioner then presents his own findings of facts and re-argues the substantive issues of his case. (Id. at pp. 8-23) Petitioner also avers that the "[le]gal arguments provided carefully circumvent discussion of those requirements that apply but were not followed." (Id. at p. 19)

In reply, Drs. Tillery and Contini aver that petitioner's exceptions, while verbose, contain "very little that is relevant." (Department's Exceptions at p. 1) Further, they contend that petitioner fails to provide sufficient reasons to prove that the ALJ was wrong when he dismissed the petition, stating that "petitioner's exceptions emphasize nonmaterial facts, cite regulations and statutes that do not govern this matter, and even find fault with respondents' answers to the petition." (Id.) Lastly, these respondents incorporate the brief and reply letter submitted to the ALJ in support of their motion to dismiss. (Id.)

Respondent Board of Education submits reply exceptions, as well, which encourage adoption of the initial decision. The Board avers that the ALJ's conclusion > is amply supported by the following findings of fact and conclusions of law: (1) petitioner failed to file his petition within the 90 day time period prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6:24-12(c); (2) Dr. Win Tillery's decision to require a substitute teaching certificate was not "unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b); (3) petitioner suffered no harm for which relief could be granted; and (4) petitioner's assertions of violations of various state and federal regulation and statutes are without merit. (Board's Exceptions at p. 1)

The Board then illustrates why each of these points was correct. With regard to timeliness, the Board points out that in petitioner's exceptions he confirms he was notified of the substitute teaching certificate requirement "no later than September 1, 1995" and, therefore, the ALJ's determination that the petition was time barred was appropriate. (Id. at p. 2)

The Board also avers that Dr. Tillery's finding must stand and that petitioner suffered no economic harm for which relief could be granted. (Id. at p. 3)

Additionally, the Board avers that, "[p]etitioner failed to produce any factual or legal support to carry his burden of proof for the alleged violations" and that "[h]is assertions are conclusory and in no way support claims of discrimination or arbitrary and capricious action by any of the respondents." (Id.) Lastly, he argues that "[p]etitoner cannot now attempt to include additional facts or legal arguments in his exceptions to the Initial Decision to support his claims." (Id. at p. 3)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that the present matter was untimely filed, and even assuming, arguendo, that the matter was filed on a timely basis, petitioner has not established that any violation of law occurred or that the County Superintendent acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. See Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

Additionally, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ in his assessment of the role of this agency's review that, > judicial and quasi-judicial forums are established to deal with real and substantial cases and controversies. They are not created in order to render advisory opinions, nor to act as a super legislature or super administrator. (Initial Decision at pp. 8-9)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 11, 1996

For the Petitioner-Appellant, David J. Wynne, pro se

For the Respondents-Respondents Win L. Tillery and Peter B. Contini, Arlene G. Lutz, Deputy Attorney General (Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The decision of the Commissioner of Education dismissing the petition in this matter as untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is affirmed substantially for the reasons expressed therein. We note that petitioner acknowledges receiving notification in August 1995, more than five months before he filed his petition, that he was required

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board President alleged respondent Board member had a conflict of interest under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 and sought to have him removed from the Board and to void the vote he had cast for the Board attorney.

ALJ found that as a result of a residency dispute, i.e., S.C., on behalf of T.P. v. Point Pleasant, respondent was "interested directly or indirectly in [a] ... claim against the [BOE]." Further, the Board had a claim for tuition against respondent. ALJ found that, as such, respondent had to be removed from office by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 and ordered respondent removed from office, thus, barring him from voting and/or otherwise acting as a Board member.

Commissioner concurred with the determination of the ALJ that respondent had a disqualifying conflict of interest, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, so as to warrant his immediate removal from the Board for the reasons set forth by the Commissioner. However, actions taken by him prior to such removal, pursuant to long-standing case law, could not be deemed invalidated on the basis of the conflict of interest established herein as respondent acted as a "de facto" board of education member when he voted, in that he "held office under color of a known election or appointment and [his] ineligibility was unknown to the public at the time [he] [voted]." (Pijeaux) Commissioner ordered respondent removed from the Board as of the date of this decision.

Francis J. Campbell, Esq., for respondent (Kalac, Newman, Lavender & Campbell, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 29, 1996 Decided: August 1, 1996

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In his petition, Lawrence Williams, president of the Board of Education of the Borough of Point Pleasant (BOE), submits that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, Steven Ciliberto, a member of the BOE, is disqualified from holding that office and Mr. Williams seeks an order "barring [Mr. Ciliberto] from taking part in any actions as a school board member." Essentially, Mr. Williams claims that Mr. Ciliberto must be immediately removed from office. I agree.

More particularly, the case is summarized as follows: In a case captioned as S.C., on behalf of T.P., a Minor v. BOE of the Borough of Point Pleasant, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8928-95 (April 6, 1996), aff'd, Commissioner of Education, (June 6, 1996), Mr. Ciliberto claims that the BOE should be ordered to allow his granddaughter to continue to attend school in the BOE's school system (without payment of tuition.) In my initial decision, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, I ordered Mr. Ciliberto's claim dismissed and the BOE was allowed to assess Mr. Ciliberto for tuition for his granddaughter's past attendance in its school system. My initial decision was affirmed by the Commissioner and Mr. Ciliberto has appealed his claim against the BOE to the State Board of Education (and, thereby continued the claim.) N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27, N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq. However, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 states, "No member of any board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any . . . claim against the board." Consequently, by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, Mr. Ciliberto must be removed from office.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 3, 1996, Mr. Williams' petition and notice of motion for emergent relief were filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on June 12, 1996, it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). The case was assigned to me and, by letter dated June 19, 1996, I notified the parties that I had adjourned the hearing on Mr. Williams' motion, in order to confirm that all persons whose interests might be affected had received copies of the petition and notice of motion. Wilbert & Montenegro's letter and a certification (BOE-1) in response to the motion for emergent relief were filed on July 2, 1996. Mr. Campbell entered the case and, in a letter filed on July 8, 1996, he confirmed that, based upon his recent entry, etc., the argument on the motion for emergent relief was (again) adjourned. In Mr. Campbell's letter, filed on July 15, 1996, he argued that, given the appeal of Mr. Ciliberto's claim to the State Board of Education, this case is not ripe for disposition. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27, N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq. In Mr. Williams' letter, filed on July 16, 1996, he restated his contention that, given Mr. Ciliberto's claim against the BOE and the decision in S.C., on behalf of T.P., supra, by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, Mr. Ciliberto must be removed from the BOE. On July 24, 1996, the parties and I engaged in a telephone conference relative to the petition and motion for emergent relief. In Mr. Campbell's and Mr. Williams' letters, filed on July 26 and 29, 1996, they restated their arguments made during the conference.

In Mr. Williams' petition, in addition to seeking an order "barring [Mr. Ciliberto] from taking part in any actions as a school board member," he sought an order "declaring the vote by Mr. Ciliberto for the [BOE] attorney to be void and of no effect." In this regard, I note the following:

As set forth in S.C., on behalf of T.P., supra, at 5: By memorandum dated April 7, 1995, George Kane, superintendent of the BOE's school system, notified Mr. Ciliberto of the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and notified Mr. Ciliberto that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, he and his daughter (the mother of the child in the BOE's school system) were required to submit sworn statements and documentation supporting their contention that Mr. Ciliberto's granddaughter was domiciled with him. Later, Mr. Ciliberto presented to Scott D. Thompson, an attorney with the law firm of Wilbert & Montenegro, a number of allegations which, at Mr. Ciliberto's request, Mr. Thompson arranged in affidavit form. In the affidavit, which Mr. Ciliberto executed on June 1, 1995, Mr. Ciliberto stated falsely that, in 1983, his daughter "came to reside" with him and his wife in the school district. In the affidavit, Mr. Ciliberto also stated falsely that, since 1983, his granddaughter had "continued to reside with" him and his wife. In the affidavit, Mr. Ciliberto also falsely stated that he and his wife "provide[d] for all of [his granddaughter's] expenses, including food, clothing and any incidental expenses." Emphasis added. Mr. Ciliberto submitted the misleading affidavit to the BOE. And Mr. Ciliberto's daughter, in a June 1, 1995 letter to the BOE, falsely stated that her ex-husband had failed to pay child support for "many years."

However, there is no evidence that the law firm knew that the statements made by Mr. Ciliberto (in his affidavit) and by his daughter (in her letter) were false. The false statements are attributable solely to Mr. Ciliberto and his daughter and there was no bad faith and/or misrepresentation on the part of the law firm. BOE-1. Also, the law firm did not provide to Mr. Ciliberto and/or his daughter any legal advice, e.g., whether the affidavit and letter satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. (They did not.) And the law firm never appeared for Mr. Ciliberto and/or his daughter before the BOE. Given the above, it has been represented to me that Mr. Williams has withdrawn his claim relative to Mr. Ciliberto's vote for appointment of Mr. Montenegro, of the law firm, as the BOE's attorney.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The "Findings of Fact" set forth in S.C., on behalf of T.P., supra, are adopted and incorporated into this decision.

The above facts are supplemented as follows: Mr. Ciliberto remains a member of the BOE. Mr. Ciliberto is appealing his claim against the BOE brought in S.C., on behalf of T.P., supra, to the State Board of Education. Mr. Ciliberto has not paid to the BOE the (two and one-half years') tuition assessed, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), for his granddaughter's attendance in its school system.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The "Conclusions of Law" set forth in S.C., on behalf of T.P., supra, are adopted and incorporated into this decision.

A public official is a fiduciary and trustee of the public and must serve the public interest with exclusive loyalty and the highest fidelity. Such a public official must exercise his judgment unaffected and undiluted by any interest that might inure to him individually. When a public official's personal or private interest is different from that of the public, he is thereby disqualified from acting in that regard and even an indirect such interest will so disqualify him. Aldom v. Borough of Roseland, 42 N.J. Super. 495 (App. Div. 1956).

Consistent with the above principles, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 states, "No member of any board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any . . . claim against the board."

The relationship between Mr. Ciliberto and the BOE is illustrated by the following, set forth in S.C., on behalf of T.P., supra, at 10:

> For almost two months (from Mr. Kane's April 7, 1995 memorandum notifying [Mr. Ciliberto] of the requirement of the sworn statements, etc., until the submission of [Mr. Ciliberto's] affidavit and [his daughter's] letter in June 1995), [Mr. Ciliberto] and [his daughter] refused and/or failed to submit "sworn statement[s]" and "documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements" as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). When [Mr. Ciliberto] did submit his affidavit ("sworn statement") to the BOE, he refused to submit supporting "documentation," and [his daughter] continued to refuse and/or fail to submit a sworn statement and documentation as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). Consequently, [Mr. Ciliberto] knowingly failed the requirements of submission to the BOE of the "sworn statement[s]" and "documentation" supporting the claim that [his granddaughter] was domiciled with him. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1).

This is the kind of problematic relationship that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 is intended to prevent. And, contrary to Mr. Ciliberto's argument, in S.C., on behalf of T.P., supra, now before the State Board of Education, he is "interested directly or indirectly in [a] . . . claim against the [BOE]." (Further, the BOE has a claim for tuition against Mr. Ciliberto.)

By operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, Mr. Ciliberto must be removed from office and there is no issue in fact or in law that requires a delay in an order to that effect. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, -12.6

ORDER

I GRANT the motion for emergent relief and ORDER Mr. Ciliberto removed from office.

Removal of Mr. Ciliberto from office effectively grants the relief claimed by Mr. Williams, e.g., "barring" Mr. Ciliberto from voting and/or otherwise acting as a BOE member. Consequently, this case is ended.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

LAWRENCE WILLIAMS, PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STEVEN CILIBERTO,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of respondent and those of petitioner, along with replies to petitioner's exceptions from participant, Wilbert & Montenegro,[1] (hereinafter "participant") were timely filed pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent initially excepts to what he contends were serious deficiencies in the procedures followed by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in the handling of this matter and in

[1] It is noted that Wilbert & Montenegro was accorded participant status in this matter pursuant to a letter of the ALJ, dated June 19, 1996, which, in pertinent part, stated

> The petition (in its "First Count") alludes to Mr. Ciliberto's providing information to Wilbert & Montenegro; Wilbert & Montenegro's preparation of an affidavit, based upon that information; Mr. Ciliberto's execution of that affidavit; and Mr. Ciliberto's submission of that affidavit to the BOE in his unsuccessful attempt to appear that he had satisfied the "sworn statement" requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). The petition also alludes to the BOE's May 3, 1996 vote to appoint Wilbert & Montenegro as BOE attorney and Mr. Ciliberto's vote in favor of that appointment. On those bases, the petition claims that the vote and appointment should be voided.
>
> Given the above, Wilbert & Montenegro should have notice and an opportunity to protect their interests which may be affected by the disposition of this case.

the initial decision. He asserts that in conducting the telephonic oral argument on July 24, 1996, the ALJ failed to tape-record such proceedings, thereby precluding compliance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(i) which specifies

> The Clerk shall file with the agency head any papers in support of or opposition to the application which were not previously filled with the agency and a sound recording of the oral argument on the application, if any oral argument has occurred. (emphasis in text)

Respondent argues that this procedural error is exacerbated by the insufficiency of the ALJ's initial decision in that he failed to appropriately address the legal arguments made at the telephonic hearing and in respondent's July 12, 1996 and July 25, 1996 submitted letters with respect to the central issues of this matter, i.e., irreparable harm and the "ripeness" of the instant case for adjudication at this point in time (id. at p. 4), thereby precluding the Commissioner from reviewing proffered arguments on these critical issues. In this connection, respondent asserts that, as was stressed in his oral argument and in his filed letter briefs, a foundational requirement necessary for the granting of emergent relief, irreparable harm, has not been established herein. (Id. at p. 3) Rather, he asserts, the ALJ "once again focused on his findings in the previous case of S.C. on behalf of T.P. v. Point Pleasant Borough Board of Education." (Id. at p. 2) Further, respondent alleges that his arguments regarding the "ripeness" of this matter for adjudication, advanced at the oral hearing and in "letters filed with the ALJ on July 15, 1996 and July 26, 1996,[2] [along with] [t]he authorities cited by respondent's counsel on this issue are also totally avoided or ignored by the ALJ." (Id. at p. 4)[3]

[2] To preclude any confusion as to referenced dates of respondent's letter submissions, it is noted that such submissions were dated July 12, 1996 and July 25, 1996 and were filed with the OAL on July 15, 1996 and July 26, 1996, respectively.

[3] Respondent's argument on this issue, fully developed in the above-referenced letters, is that because the matter of S.C. v. Point Pleasant Board of Education, decided by the Commissioner on June 6, 1996, has been appealed to the State Board of Education, it cannot be considered a final agency action and, therefore, the instant case cannot be ripe for action until S.C. is decided by the State Board. Respondent cites N.J.S.A. 18A:4-1 and the State Board's citation

Finally, respondent proffers that, in addition to the clear procedural deficiencies of the ALJ's decision, he also failed to address the "substantive issue of the nature of respondent's 'claim' in the underlying case"(id. at p. 5), which respondent maintains could be dispositive of this case. He references arguments raised in his July 25, 1996 letter, wherein he distinguishes the type of claim filed by the respondent Board member in this case, from the pecuniary claims for damages involved in the decisional precedent cases cited by the parties in letter briefs filed below (id. at p. 5)[4] and, therefore, argues that the instant claim does not fall within the intended proscription of the statute as developed in such cases.

Respondent contends that, due to these egregious deficiencies, the Commissioner should deny the requested relief or, in the alternative, remand the matter for reargument before a different ALJ.

Petitioner excepts to the ALJ's statement, on page 4 of the initial decision, indicating that petitioner had withdrawn his claim in this matter with respect to the voiding of respondent's vote for the appointment of participant as the Board's attorney. Rather, petitioner asserts "I did advise the court that I would agree that there was not a conflict simply because of same in Matter of Lyndhurst School District, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 621, at 627 as his authority for such position. (See Respondent's letter to the ALJ dated July 25, 1996 at p. 2)

[4] Respondent's argument in this regard, presented in his letter to the ALJ dated July 25, 1996, seeks to distinguish the "claim" in this matter from those existing in Board of Education of Education of the Township of Holmdel v. O'Connell, 1990 S.L.D. 674 and Board of Education of the Township of Jackson v. Acevedo, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d 163, cited by petitioner in his July 15, 1996 letter to the Court. Respondent proffers

> In those cases, the Board Members had each filed lawsuits seeking compensatory damages against the Boards on which they were trustees. In contrast, Mr. Ciliberto's claim was procedurally dictated by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, in order to prevent his granddaughter's removal from the school system that she has attended from kindergarten through eighth grade.
> No personal enrichment was sought by Ciliberto in his action filed in this case. In the case of Hogan v. Kearny Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 329, at 344, the Commissioner defines the word claim as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 citing the case of Famette v. Board of Education of the Borough of Wood-Ridge, 1964 S.L.D. 42, as "To demand as one's own...cause of suit or cause of action...a demand for compensation or for payment...". (Respondent's letter to the ALJ dated July 25, 1996 at p. 1)

[participant's] office prepared the Affidavit that was used by [respondent] in his action against the Board." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 1) He, however, maintains that he continues to contend that respondent's vote for the Board attorney was in conflict in that such attorney is the individual who would eventually be required to take the necessary actions to collect tuition from respondent. Further, petitioner advances, if respondent were not eligible to function as a Board member by virtue of his action against the Board, such ineligibility should have precluded him from voting for the Board attorney.

In response, participant advances that should the within respondent lose his claim against the Board, "the former Board attorney who commenced the investigation and is representing the Board in obtaining tuition reimbursement from [respondent] on behalf of the Board, continues to this day to represent the Board in that action" rather than participant as is indicated by petitioner. (Participant's Reply Exceptions at p. 1) As such, participant urges that petitioner's within claims against it be dismissed.

Upon a careful and independent review of the within record, the Commissioner fully concurs, for the reasons which follow, with the conclusions of the ALJ that the facts of this matter are sufficient to make a finding on the merits of this case that respondent has a disqualifying conflict of interest, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, so as to warrant his immediate removal from the Board of Education of the Borough of Point Pleasant.

Initially, the Commissioner observes that respondent's exception contention that the ALJ's failure to tape-record the oral argument of this matter or to fully address all of his legal arguments in the initial decision constitutes prejudicial error warranting reversal or remand of the decision is without merit. As is observed in the initial decision, and repeatedly acknowledged by respondent in his exceptions, "In Mr. Campbell's and Mr. Williams' letters filed on July 26 and July 29, 1996, they restated their arguments made during the conference." (Initial Decision at p. 3) As such, the Commissioner finds that the within record, which included these letters and all other submissions made by the parties in this regard, provided ample opportunity for him to properly and completely consider all proffered arguments and the basis for the initial decision below.

The Commissioner finds, simply stated, that at issue herein is whether the facts in this matter, which are essentially undisputed, constitute a situation wherein, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, the respondent can be said to have a disqualifying direct or indirect interest in any claim against the Board. If such interest is found to exist, then by operation of law, he must be disqualified from Board membership. The Commissioner's examination of the circumstances existing in this matter and applicable case law in this area leads him to the conclusion that such disqualifying interest is, indeed, present in the within case and he finds respondent's protestations to the contrary clearly unfounded.

Initially, as noted by the Court in Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel v. O'Connell, 1990 S.L.D. 674

> On its face, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 mandates that no board member may serve who has filed a claim against the board of education on which he sits. Case law has further established that any such claim must be examined on a case-by-case basis in arriving at a determination as to whether the circumstances in the matter demonstrate that the board member would benefit in a substantial and material way from said claim. If so, the statute should be applied and the board member disqualified from serving on said board. See Board of Education of the City of Newark, Essex County v. Edgar Brown and Oliver Brown, [1984 S.L.D. 671, aff'd State Board, 1984 S.L.D. 683] See Thomas D. Hogan et al. v. Kearny Board of Education and Kearny Board of Education v. Thomas D. Hogan, decided April 12, 1982, aff'd State Board of Education August 4, 1982. (Holmdel, supra, at 680)

Further, as stated by the State Board in Woodstown-Pilesgrove Regional Board of Education, Salem County v. John J. Ketas, 1980 S.L.D. 1563, and contrary to the argument advanced by respondent, a conflicting interest does not have to confer a pecuniary benefit to be disqualifying, but can also be one which is psychological or personal in nature. See Aldom v. Borough of Roseland, 42 N.J. Super. 495, 502 (App. Div. 1956). The Commissioner further observes that "in making a determination as to whether a particular interest is sufficient to disqualify "[t]he question will always be whether the circumstances could reasonably be interpreted to show that they had the likely capacity to tempt the official to depart from his sworn public duty." Van Itallie v. Franklin Lakes, 28 N.J. 258, 268 (1958).

In the instant matter, respondent is patently interested in a claim against the Board by reason of his Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner, and his subsequent appeal of the Commissioner's decision to the State Board, wherein he opposes the determination of the Board, that he has not satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), which would entitle his granddaughter to a free public education in the Board's school system. Moreover, respondent faces a substantial future pecuniary loss should he lose his action against the Board in that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), he would be responsible for payment of tuition to the Board for the total period of his granddaughter's ineligible attendance in the school district. As such, his conflict with the Board is strong and persistent. The Commissioner further finds that respondent's pronouncements regarding the "ripeness" of this matter for adjudication at this time in that State Board has not yet made a finding on the S.C. matter, are directly antithetical to the position he is advocating, in that rather than serving as a basis for the dismissal of this matter, these, instead, conclusively establish the continuing conflicting nature of respondent's personal interests and those of the Board. Respondent's contention that the ultimate outcome of the S.C.

matter is relevant to the within proceedings is totally misguided. It is respondent's act of conducting and continuing his litigation against the Board, irrespective of the outcome of such litigation, which constitutes the conflict situation prohibited by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.

Notwithstanding the within finding that respondent has a disqualifying interest in a claim which precludes him from being a Board member, the Commissioner cannot grant petitioner's requested relief of voiding this Board member's vote for participant as the Board attorney, as such would be contrary to long-established law in this area. When respondent voted to employ participant, he did so as a "de facto" Board of Education member in that he "held office under color of a known election or appointment and [his] ineligibility was unknown to the public at the time [he] [voted]." (Maxine J. Pijeaux v. Board of Education of the City of Orange, Essex County, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 345, 346) As such,

> Its members had certainly a color of title, and their actual incumbency was complete....Under these circumstances the acts of the board, in which third persons are interested, cannot be impugned on the ground that the title of the members is defective. (Pijeaux, supra, at 346, quoting Kimball v. Hendee, 57 N.J.L. 307, 309 (S. Ct. 1894))

More specifically, as found by the Commissioner in Monsees et al. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Bloomingdale, and Theodore Lovell, 1982 S.L.D. 1409, this issue has long been decided. See Claire M. Egan and Basil H. Blair v. Joseph G. Brody et al., 1970 S.L.D. 153, wherein it was stated

> It is well established that the acts of a de facto officer are valid and may not be challenged and set aside on the grounds that he did not hold title de jure.
>
> > "The official acts of a de facto school officer, which a de jure officer would be authorized to do, are, if performed in the prescribed manner, as valid and binding on the public and third persons as the acts of de jure officers, and authority to act cannot be questioned collaterally. This is true even though the acts are performed pending a contest or quo warranto proceeding that subsequently terminates in > the ouster of the de facto officer from office." 78 Corpus Juris Secundum section 133, p. 877

> See also Oliver v. Jersey City, 63 N.J.L. 634 (E. & A. 1899). There can be no question, therefore, that, in general the acts in which [the member] participated while he occupied a seat on the Board, were validly performed and are not subject to challenge by reason of the fact that he was de facto and not de jure. (Monsees, supra, at 1409-10 quoting Egan et al., supra, at 154, 155)

The Commissioner, thus, concludes that respondent was acting within the scope of his authority as a de facto Board member when he voted for the employment of participant as Board attorney, and, as such, there is no basis upon which to invalidate respondent's vote.

Accordingly, based on the foregoing analysis, respondent is deemed removed from the Point Pleasant Board of Education as of the date of this decision; however, actions taken by him prior to such removal shall not be deemed invalidated solely on the basis of the conflict of interest established herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent alleged that minor child, B.C., was wrongfully denied admission to school due to residency dispute. Petitioner contended she and B.C. were homeless pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.1 et seq. after losing their rented home in Branchburg.

Citing Maurice River, ALJ concluded that petitioner was neither domiciled in Branchburg nor homeless since she had a "fixed, regular and adequate residence" in Somerville with a relative. ALJ ordered that the Board's decision to remove B.C. from the Branchburg schools be affirmed.

While clarifying the significance of the holding in Maurice River, Commissioner adopted findings of ALJ as his own and directed petitioner to remit to the Board tuition for B.C., prorated to the time of her ineligible attendance in Branchburg.

L.C., petitioner, appearing pro se

Record Closed: June 7, 1996 Decided: July 31, 1996

BEFORE BARBARA A. HARNED ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

L.C., on behalf of her minor child, B.C., filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on February 26, 1996. The petition seeks to reverse the determination by the Board of Education of the Township of Branchburg, Somerset County (Board), that B.C. be removed from the Branchburg Township school system because she is not domiciled in Branchburg. On March 28, 1996, the Commissioner transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was held in the OAL in Trenton, New Jersey, on June 7, 1996, and the record closed on that date.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

Unless otherwise noted, the facts set forth below are undisputed and I adopt them as findings of fact. Disputed facts are noted, followed by findings as to those disputes.

Until September, 1995 L.C. and her daughter, B.C., rented a house in Branchburg, New Jersey for ten years. B.C. attended a private, parochial school in Somerville through the fourth grade when she began having emotional problems aggravated by chronic respiratory problems. L.C. decided to enroll her daughter in the Branchburg public school system and B.C. entered the fifth grade in the public school system in September, 1994 (R-1). L.C. drove B.C. to and from school because fumes from and the motion of the school bus aggravated B.C.'s respiratory ailment. B.C. did very well in the fifth grade in the Branchburg school system.

Prior to 1993, L.C. was employed. Since that time, however, she has become permanently disabled as a result of a disc problem. Currently, disability payments are her only income although L.C. is taking classes and hopes in the future to find employment compatible with her disability. As a result of her disability and loss of employment, L.C. encountered financial problems and fell behind on her rent. A Warrant of Removal from the Branchburg premises was issued on August 28, 1995, and served on September 7, 1995 (R-2, R-3). L.C. tried to find another rental in Branchburg but was unsuccessful. L.C.'s brother, N.A., has an apartment in Somerville and told L.C. they could move in with him. L.C. and B.C. moved to the Somerville apartment gradually during the last week of August and first week or so of September, 1995. While the Notice of Eviction required L.C. to vacate the premises by September 7, 1995, they did not completely move out until September 10, 1995.

L.C. views the move as a temporary one. She intends to return to Branchburg when she locates affordable housing. The Somerville apartment is small and contains her brother's possessions. Since there is no room for L.C.'s possessions they are in storage. As of the date of the hearing, June 7, 1996, L.C. and B.C. were still living in the Somerville apartment. L.C. pays half the rent in the apartment although the lease is in her brother's name. In February, 1996, her brother signed a new lease which expires in February, 1997. Her brother lives in the apartment only part of the time, staying with friends at other times. L.C. did not change the address on her driver's license to the Somerville address. At first her mail was delivered to a post office box at the Somerville post office (R-13) and she told Somerville post office employees that it was a temporary situation. In March, 1996, however, the post office advised the Board that mail to L.C. was delivered to the Somerville apartment address (R-11, R-12).

It is undisputed that B.C. entered the sixth grade in the Branchburg school in September, 1995, and that L.C. did not advise Branchburg school officials that she no longer lived in Branchburg at that time. L.C. did not try to enroll B.C. in the Somerville school system because she intended to return to Branchburg. In November, 1995, school officials began to suspect that L.C. and B.C. were no longer living in Branchburg because they had noticed B.C. being driven to and from school by L.C. rather than taking the school bus. No inquiry was made as to whether B.C. had ever taken the bus. James P. Butler, Attendance Officer, was asked to investigate. On November 7, 1995, he visited L.C.'s prior Branchburg address and found the premises vacant. Mr. Butler contacted the owner who advised him that L.C. had been evicted. The owner was not sure where L.C. could be located but did advise Mr. Butler that she had a brother in Somerville.

Mr. Butler called L.C.'s brother who declined to tell him where L.C. could be located. Mr. Butler then gave his beeper number to L.C.'s brother and asked that she contact him. Mr. Butler called the Somerville apartment five more times, leaving his beeper number. He received only one response, when L.C.'s brother called him and told him that L.C. had gone out. Mr. Butler testified that prior to a January 29, 1996, Board hearing, L.C. had given the school no information as to where she was living and he had been unable to ascertain where she was living. In contrast, L.C. testified that she did try to call Mr. Butler back but did not use his beeper number. Instead she would call the Board number and when she could not reach Mr. Butler, she spoke with the principal of B.C.'s school and Acting Superintendent of Schools George T. Resavy. She further testified she told Acting Superintendent Resavy she was no longer living in Branchburg; that she was homeless and living in temporary shelter in Somerville and that she gave Mr. Resavy a telephone number where she could be reached but refused to give him her address. I found both Mr. Butler and L.C. to be credible witnesses in this regard. Therefore, I FIND that while L.C. did not respond directly to Mr. Butler's telephone calls, she did speak with Acting Superintendent Resavy and told him she was no longer living in Branchburg; was living in temporary shelter in Somerville; gave him a telephone number where she could be reached but refused to tell him her address in Somerville.

By letter dated November 28, 1995, Acting Superintendent Resavy notified L.C. that as she had not resided in Branchburg Township since the beginning of the school year, she would be charged tuition for B.C.'s attendance from September 6 through November 22, 1995, at a per diem rate of $56.91, resulting in a total charge to date of $2,959.32 (R-4). L.C. was further advised that for each day beyond November 22, 1995, she would be charged an additional $56.91 (R-4). By letter dated December 5, 1995, Acting Superintendent Resavy notified L.C. that the tuition charges through December 1, 1995 were $3,300.78 (R-5).

On December 21, 1995, counsel for the school district wrote L.C. and advised her that the school administration planned to apply to the Board for removal of B.C. from the school district and to seek tuition reimbursement in the amount of $4,039 as of that date (R-6). This letter further advised L.C. that she had a right to a hearing prior to the removal of B.C. and that the hearing would be held before the Board on January 8, 1996 (R-6). By letter dated January 18, 1996, counsel for the school district advised L.C. that the hearing had been rescheduled for January 29, 1996 (R-7).

L.C. testified that she found the atmosphere at the hearing hostile and intimidating. Instead of being sensitive to B.C.'s need for stability, she testified the Board seemed interested only in "hurrying" B.C. out of Branchburg. L.C. made a point of testifying that all members of the Board are white, perhaps trying to suggest some racial bias since she and B.C. are black. L.C. offered no specific examples of intimidation, hostility or bias other than a statement that without a permanent address in Branchburg, B.C. could remain in the Branchburg school only if L.C. paid approximately $10,000 in tuition for the school year. Such a statement constitutes no more than a statement of the Board's position. Lacking any specificity, I cannot render any finding supportive of L.C.'s conclusory allegation of hostility, bias or intimidation.

Following the hearing, the Board voted unanimously that B.C. is not domiciled in Branchburg and thus is not entitled to a free education in the Branchburg school system (R-9). The Board directed that B.C. be removed from the Branchburg school district as of February 23, 1996 and that L.C. be notified of the decision and her right to appeal prior to February 2, 1996 (R-9). By letter dated January 30, 1996, L.C. was provided a copy of the Board resolution; advised that B.C. would not be allowed to attend Branchburg Township schools after February 23, 1996 and advised that she had the right to appeal the decision to the Commissioner (R-8). The letter did not advise L.C. that B.C. could remain in the Branchburg school pending the outcome of an appeal. L.C. found this out later from the new Superintendent of Schools. In the meantime, school officials from B.C.'s school continued to tell her that B.C. would have to leave the school by February 23, 1996. When L.C. spoke with Principal Resavy (no longer Acting Superintendent) about the statutory requirement, he did acknowledge that B.C. had a right to stay in the Branchburg school pending the outcome of L.C.'s appeal.

All of the above described letters and the Board Resolution (R-4 through R-9) were hand delivered by Attendance Officer Butler when L.C. came to the school to pick up B.C. Then Acting Superintendent Resavy asked Mr. Butler to hand deliver the documents because L.C. had refused to give them her address in Somerville. L.C. considered delivery of the papers in this manner as harassment. She testified that Mr. Butler intimidated B.C. by stopping her outside school and giving some of the documents to B.C. rather than L.C. However, I credit Mr. Butler's testimony that he never gave any of the documents to B.C. and, in fact, never got closer than 10 or 15 feet from B.C. Mr. Butler's testimony that he was sensitive to B.C.'s situation, felt sorry for her and, with over twenty years as a counselor, was very careful not to intimidate B.C., was convincing. In addition, while Mr. Butler is a tall man, he is also quite soft-spoken. Moreover, I do not find L.C.'s other contentions of harassment by Mr. Butler plausible. While L.C. testified that Mr. Butler could have called her and asked her to pick up the documents rather than giving them to her in front of B.C. and other children, I credit Mr. Butler's testimony that while Acting Superintendent Resavy may have had L.C.'s telephone number, Mr. Butler did not. In addition, since L.C. admittedly did not return Mr. Butler's calls by paging his beeper but rather chose to call Acting Superintendent Resavy directly, it was reasonable for Mr. Butler to decide to deliver the papers to L.C. when he knew she would be coming to the school. Nor do I find that bringing documents to L.C.'s car and asking her to sign a receipt for at least one of the documents can be viewed as harassment. Mr. Butler was merely trying to deliver papers to someone who had refused to give the school her address in the most efficient manner he could devise.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, free public education shall be provided to any person over five and under twenty years of age who is domiciled within the school district. The terms "residence" and "domicile" are not synonymous since a person may have several residences but only one domicile at a time. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955). As stated in Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991)

> [i]n a strict legal sense, the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving.

Under this definition it is clear that L.C. and B.C. are not domiciled in Branchburg. While L.C. may have every intention of returning to Branchburg, at the current time she has no "true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment" in that township.

L.C. contends, however, that she and B.C. are homeless and therefore B.C. is entitled to continued enrollment in the Branchburg school system pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1f. That portion of the statute requires that free public education be provided to "[a]ny person whose parent or guardian moves from one school district to another school district as a result of being homeless and whose district of residence is determined pursuant to section 19 of P.L. 1979, c. 207 (C. 18A:7B-12)." The relevant portion of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 states that > [t]he district of residence for children whose parent or guardian temporarily moves from one school district to another as the result of being homeless shall be the district in which the parent or guardian last resided prior to becoming homeless. For the purpose of this amendatory and supplementary act, "homeless" shall mean an individual who temporarily lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence.

Applying this statutory definition I CONCLUDE that L.C. is not "homeless" since she has "a fixed, regular and adequate residence." She has been living continuously in the Somerville apartment since September, 1995; receives her mail there and pays one-half of the rent; making that apartment both "fixed and regular." Moreover, there was no testimony presented that the apartment is inadequate in the sense that it lacks any essentials of a residence such as heat, electricity or cooking facilities. L.C. contends that her situation satisfies the statutory criteria because she does not intend to make the Somerville apartment her permanent residence but rather intends to return to Branchburg. However, the statute does not require that the "fixed, regular and adequate residence" be permanent. Rather, the statute is intended to address situations, for example, of a parent who has no place to live, or moves frequently from place to place or is temporarily living in a motel. While the Somerville apartment may not be L.C.'s permanent address in the sense that she will never move again, it is sufficiently permanent to be considered her domicile for purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

This conclusion is further supported by regulations adopted by the Department of Education pursuant to the above quoted statutes. N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.1 et seq. The purpose of the regulations is "to establish uniform Statewide policies and procedures for ensuring that homeless children and youth have access to a free and appropriate public education." N.J.A.C.. 6-3-8.1. The regulation defines a "homeless" child using identical language as that used in N.J.S.A. 18A:7b-12c to define a "homeless" parent. That is, a "homeless" child is "one who lacks a fixed, regular, and adequate residence." N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.2. The regulation further establishes criteria for when a child shall be considered homeless. N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.3(a), (b). The only criteria arguably applicable to B.C.'s situation is the provision that a child shall be considered homeless if he or she is "[t]he child of a homeless family which is out of necessity living with relatives or friends." N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.3(b)6. In an analogous situation the Commissioner of Education and the state Board of Education affirmed Administrative Law Judge Holmes' conclusion that a child was not homeless under the regulation when the child lived with his mother in his grandmother's house following a divorce. Board of Education of the Township of Maurice River, Cumberland County v. Board of Education of the City of Wildwood, Cape May County, 93 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 895. As Judge Holmes reasoned

> [m]erely living with relatives or friends, even out of necessity does not render a person homeless. [The regulation] covers a typical situation in which a family, already homeless, places one or more of its children with relations or friends. It is not > intended to make all children who reside with relations and friends out of necessity, homeless. Especially when they are living with their mother. Id. at 897.

Similarly, I CONCLUDE that B.C. is not homeless because she does not "lac[k] a fixed, regular, and adequate residence."

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the decision of the Board to remove B.C. from the Branchburg Township school district be AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRANCHBURG, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner asserts that the ALJ did not properly consider the evidence in this matter. Specifically, petitioner contends that the ALJ failed to recognize that, at the point she was evicted from her home in Branchburg, she and her daughter became homeless, and were without a "fixed, regular or adequate residence." (emphasis in text) (Petitioner's Exceptions at pp. 1, 2) Petitioner maintains that she and her daughter remain homeless, notwithstanding that they live with her brother in his apartment, and argues, "Parent and child can still be homeless where both are living with relatives out of necessity." (emphasis in text) (Id. at p. 2) Thus, petitioner urges the Commissioner to consider all the evidence in this matter and to rule in her behalf.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner is neither domiciled in Branchburg, where she no longer maintains a permanent home or principal establishment, nor "homeless," as per N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.1 et seq., in that, while her living arrangements with her brother may not be permanent in the sense that she may wish to eventually return to Branchburg, the evidence shows them to have become sufficiently fixed, regular, and adequate so as to preclude a finding of homelessness. Indeed, petitioner's circumstances are more analagous to temporary residency and eventual domicile (in Somerville) as envisioned by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1d. Thus, petitioner has failed to establish that B.C. is entitled to a free public education in the Branchburg school district pursuant to either N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a or N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1f.

The Commissioner notes, however, that while agreeing with the ALJ's conclusions and basic analysis as clarified above, and agreeing that the case of Maurice River, supra, is applicable herein, it is necessary to clarify that the outcome in that matter did not hinge on the mother and child's approximately two-week period of residency with the child's grandmother, but on the fact that the mother subsequently obtained a regular, fixed and adequate apartment, which removed her from homeless status, notwithstanding that her initial months of rental were subsidized by a social service agency. The situation addressed in Maurice River is germane to the one at issue herein, in that a family initially forced to relocate with family members on a temporary basis subsequently became residents of the district, in Maurice River by obtaining an apartment, and here by petitioner's brother's home having, in the months since September 1995, effectively become petitioner's regular and fixed residence.

Accordingly, the determination of the ALJ to dismiss the Petition of Appeal is, for the reasons expressed therein as clarified above, hereby adopted as the final decision in the matter and the decision of the Board to remove B.C. from its school system is affirmed. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq., petitioner is directed to remit to the Board tuition for B.C., prorated to the time of her ineligible attendance in the District.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: July 22, 1996 Decided: July 22, 1996

BEFORE MARIE P. SIMONELLI, A.L.J.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner alleges that respondent, Board of Education of the City of Secaucus, Hudson County (the Board), acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner in retaining her daughter in the first grade.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 14, 1995, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal. She filed an Amended Petition of Appeal on September 18, 1995. On October 27, 1995, the Commissioner of Education transferred this matter for a hearing. A hearing was scheduled for July 22, 1996. Prior to the start of the hearing, the Board moved for summary disposition.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Petitioner claimed that the Board acted arbitrarily and capriciously in retaining her daughter in the first grade. Petitioner sought an Order compelling the Board to place her daughter into the second grade. By the time this matter came on for a hearing, however, petitioner's daughter had transferred to the Township of North Bergen School District and had repeated the first grade in that District. Petitioner admitted that her daughter would continue attending school in the Township of North Bergen and would not return to Secaucus.

Based upon petitioner's admissions, the Board moved to dismiss the matter.

By reason of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's daughter no longer attends school in the City of Secaucus School District.

ORDER

I, therefore, ORDER that the Board's motion be and hereby is GRANTED and this matter be and hereby is DISMISSED

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case by the Department of Education on October 24, 1995. In his petition of appeal Staub maintained that the respondent's determination to withhold his increment was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Thereafter, a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled to be conducted by the undersigned administrative law judge but was adjourned when counsel jointly advised that the matter was the subject of serious settlement negotiations.

Subsequently, a stipulation of settlement was prepared and submitted to the undersigned administrative law judge. That document, which is attached hereto and made part hereof, contains the terms and conditions of the parties' amicable resolution of the case and is signed by the petitioner, Joseph Staub, and also by a representative on behalf of the respondent Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood.

I have reviewed the terms and conditions of the proposed settlement as set forth in the stipulation attached hereto and FIND as follows:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of counsel which appear on the amended settlement agreement;

2. The settlement as set forth in the amended settlement agreement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

It is hereby stipulated and agreed by the undersigned parties that the above-captioned matter is fully and finally resolved on the following terms:

1. Petitioner, Joseph Staub, shall continue to perform full-time teaching duties for the Respondent Ridgewood Board of Education for the balance of the 1995-96 school year;

2. Petitioner has notified the Respondent Board of Education of his intention to retire effective June 30, 1996 and simultaneous with the execution of this Agreement is submitting his irrevocable resignation from employment in the Ridgewood School District effective June 30, 1996;

3. In light of the uncertainty and cost of litigation, and in consideration of the withdrawal with prejudice of the above-captioned matter and his performance during the 1995-96 school year, the Respondent Board of Education shall restore Petitioner's increment retroactive to July 1, 1995, in accordance with the demands of the Petition of Appeal. Petitioner's salary for the 1995-96 school year shall be $73,920.00 (Step Fifteen) plus the appropriate professional growth pathway ($300.00) and applicable longevity ($1,150.00), representing a total payment of $75,370.00 for the full academic year;

4. Upon retirement, Petitioner shall be entitled to payment for unused accumulated sick days in the total amount of $28,000.00;

5. The parties hereby release and relinquish any and all claims which either party may have against the other up to the present date;

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, candidate for certification, contended Board arbitrarily refused to issue her permanent certification for Student Personnel Services.

ALJ concluded that the State Board of Examiners correctly determined that the applicant had failed to prove acceptable teaching experience and the application was, therefore, properly denied.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board's denial of permanent certification because petitioner failed to establish that she had served one year of successful full-time teaching, pursuant to a proper teaching certificate, must be sustained. Petition was dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 12474-94S

ARLINE R. PHILLIPS,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,
Respondent.

Michael T. Barrett, Esq., for petitioner (Bergman & Barrett, attorneys)

Arlene Goldfus Lutz, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: June 14, 1996 Decided: July 31, 1996

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

Arline R. Phillips applied to the respondent Board of Examiners ("Board") for permanent certification for Student Personnel Services. This certification is issued by the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38 and N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11. The Board rejected the application, based upon its determination that she had failed to establish that she had one year of successful full-time teaching experience pursuant to a proper teaching certificate, as required by subpart (b) 3 of the regulation. Ms. Phillips appealed, and the Commissioner of Education transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -21 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13. A hearing was held before this judge on June 14, 1996, at the OAL in Mercerville. The record closed following the presentation of witnesses and exhibits and oral summations by counsel.

Ms. Phillips testified that she graduated from Northeastern University in 1979 with a Bachelor's Degree in Education and obtained a teaching certificate from Trenton State College in 1986. In the summer of 1985 she was attending class at Trenton State College to get a vocational instruction certificate. She learned of a job opportunity at Mercer County Vocational-Technical School ("Vo-Tech") and applied for it and was hired. She was aware that she had to apply for an emergency certification. She knew that she had to get a certified check and obtain necessary paperwork and that after she completed her portion of the paperwork she had to give it to the school district, which would then present the paperwork to the State. She obtained the check and the paperwork, filled in her portion and then gave it to the Board of Education's representatives so that they could fill in their part. She "never gave it another thought." From September to November of 1985, Ms. Phillips served as a practical aide instructor for the J.T.P.A. Program, teaching disadvantaged adults marketable skills in a "twilight program" at the Vo-Tech. She also began to work as a substitute teacher when an instructor suddenly left. She performed both of these jobs until Thanksgiving and was then appointed to a full-time position from December through the end of the school year in June 1986. She was rehired for the 1986-87 school year, but she decided to pursue a business opportunity with her then husband and left the education field. She never received a document representing the certification.

Ms. Phillips reentered the education field in 1994. She had a regular teaching certificate by that time. She was hired as a school counselor in Hamilton Township, Mercer County. In this position she had to follow a curriculum which included an educational component, including drug addiction and self-awareness. She spent 50% of her time in group settings with students and no other teacher present. She was rehired, but had applied for and obtained a position as a counselor at Ewing High School. This position involved no teaching duties. She performed successfully. In 1995-96 she worked at the Alternative High School. She spent 50% of her time as a counselor, 50% as a life skills teacher.

Ms. Phillips has been unable to locate any copy of the check which she recalls having drawn to pay for the fee for the certificate in 1985. She has no doubt that she prepared her portion of the necessary paperwork. She acknowledged that subsequent to 1985 when she applied for certificates they arrived at her house.

Dr. Elrich A. Cicchetti, Superintendent of the Mercer County Vocational-Technical School District, was the Superintendent when Ms. Phillips taught at that school in 1985-86. He confirmed her recitation of the facts regarding her employment in the district. She worked as an instructor in personal life services under an emergency services certificate. He was "absolutely" familiar with the procedures for obtaining certificates and explained that most of the teachers hired at the Vo-Tech had to go through the emergency process. He would look at the prospective employees work experience at the interview, and if he felt that the work experience paralleled what was needed he would get information from the person's prior employer(s) and then send out a form to the employer regarding the person's job duties. This form usually took some time to get back. Then the form was sent to the Division of Vocational Education ("Division"), who might ask for further information from the prior employer. Once the Division advised that the work experience was satisfactory, the paperwork would then be submitted to the Division for the issuance of an emergency certification. When the certificate was received at the school it would be submitted to the County Superintendent for an endorsement process and the teacher would sign the certificate. It was not at all uncommon for the process to take quite a bit of time and for the certificate to arrive late in the school year. Emergency certificates were always sent to the district by the State and it was necessary to let the employee know that the certificate had been received.

While the witness did not suggest that he had any personal recollection of seeing Ms. Phillip's paperwork in 1985, he was certain that the proper application was forwarded to the State, as the process within the district was "automatic." His secretary at the time would see that the necessary work was accomplished. He has no recollection of whether he ever checked on the status of Ms. Phillips' application. Although he does not recall if the district was monitored that year, the monitoring process included an examination to assure that all teachers were properly certificated and therefore he is sure that the matter was taken care of. However, except for payroll records, the district has destroyed all of the records from the mid-1980's.

Dr. Cicchetti denied that he was confusing the emergency certificate process with the vocational-technical certificate process.

Elizabeth Ann Strother, employed by the Office of Licensing since September 1980, testified that the reason for denial of the student personnel services certificate was the lack of a full year of teaching experience. She explained that the process for obtaining an emergency teaching certificate has not changed since 1985-86. The school district is really the applicant for an emergency certificate. The process does not require that candidate's vocational experience be examined. Applications for such certificates are handled as a priority, since the candidate must be filling a vacancy in order to even qualify for the certificate.

Ms. Strother advised that an extensive search by four staff members for a little over a day failed to turn up any evidence that an application for an emergency certificate had been made on behalf of Ms. Phillips in 1985-86. If it had, the old fee logs would have shown an entry, and these were checked without success. The County Superintendent's Office would also have a file, and a check with that office was also unsuccessful in locating any evidence of an application.

The witness explained that no credit toward the experience requirement can be given for Ms. Phillips' teaching in the J.T.P.A. program as it involved a class of adults, and no credit is given for substitute teaching either. When Ms. Phillips worked in Ewing Township and then in Hamilton Township, she was evaluated as a guidance counselor, not as a teacher, and as such that experience cannot be counted either. However, her teaching experience in 1995-96 will count toward the experience requirement.

DISCUSSION

The Board of Examiners determined that Ms. Phillips had not demonstrated that she had the one year of teaching experience required by regulation. It does not dispute that she taught from December 1985 through June 1986, but argues that in the absence of any evidence that that experience was obtained while Ms. Phillips was properly certificated, she cannot be given any credit for the time toward the necessary one year.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26.2 "no teaching staff member shall be employed . . . unless he is the holder of a valid certificate to teach, ..." While it is clear that a teacher may be employed and may continue to teach while the process for obtaining an emergency certificate is completed, in the Board's view, where the evidence is lacking that the process was actually completed and the proper certificate issued, the proof that the teaching experience was performed pursuant to the law is also lacking, and it would therefore be inappropriate to accept the experience. To do so would reward work performed in a manner which is not permitted by the applicable statutes and regulations.

The only evidence which Ms. Phillips has to support that she sought to obtain an emergency certificate is her own testimony that she prepared the necessary paperwork and obtained the proper check and turned these in to the district, assuming that it would then prepare its portion of the paperwork and forward the material to the proper state authority. Neither she nor the district's superintendent have any documentation of their own to prove that all of this occurred. I found Ms. Phillips' belief that she in fact started the process to be sincere, and while the Superintendent may have mixed up parts of the emergency certificate and the vocational-technical certificate processes, nevertheless, I FIND that there is every reason to believe that both Ms. Phillips and the Board were fully aware of the need for her to obtain the certificate, and for the Board to do its part to obtain it, both for the protection of the teacher and the Board. Dr. Cicchetti's description of the regularity with which the district had to deal with the need for its employees to obtain emergency certificates and the automaticity of the process within the district also support the likelihood that the process was at least started, albeit never completed. However, nothing else offered here demonstrates that what Phillips and Cicchetti believe occurred did in fact happen.

Assuming that Ms. Phillips' belief that she turned in the paperwork accurately reflects what happened, the unanswerable question is what happened to the paperwork after Ms. Phillips turned it over to the Board? Neither Ms. Phillips nor Dr. Cicchetti can tell us. I FIND that there is currently no documentary evidence of an application for the emergency certificate, no check or other bank record to show that a check was cut, that it was ever presented for payment, etc. Further, I FIND that a thorough search of the available records of the Department of Education has failed to uncover any evidence that the application and accompanying check were received, or that the emergency certification was ever issued. Thus, based upon the now available evidence, I FIND that if Ms. Phillips initiated the process for applying for the emergency certification, somewhere between her obtaining and completing her portion of the paperwork and the receipt of the certificate by either the Board or Ms. Phillips, the process broke down, papers were lost or mislaid, and the certificate was never received, and quite probably was never actually issued by the Board of Examiners.

The Board of Examiners argues that despite the fact that Ms. Phillips actually taught, its position denying any credit for that experience is a reasonable one. Its conclusion that the experience cannot be credited unless supported by a proper certificate is one which is rooted in the demands of the statute and regulations. Teaching in this state must be performed in accordance with rather stringent certification requirements. While the requirements needed to qualify for an emergency certificate may themselves be limited, the need to obtain such a certificate is unquestioned, and Boards of Education are, as Dr. Cicchetti testified, monitored in regard to their compliance with certification requirements. Since the Board's position is not arbitrary, it argues that it should be upheld.

Certainly, it is reasonable for the Board to expect that teaching experience which occurs in New Jersey be performed in accordance with the regulations which govern who may teach and under what conditions. While there have been cases where the Commissioner has recognized that form should not prevail over substance and that someone who was eligible for and/or initiated the process to obtain a certificate, but could not produce it in hand at a later date, should nevertheless be given credit for having it, Kane v. Hoboken Bd. of Ed., 1975 S.L.D. 12, 17; Givens v. Newark Bd. of Ed., 1974 S.L.D. 906, 908, these cases have involved situations where the proofs regarding the initiation of an actual application to the State have been more conclusive than the proof herein, which involves only the unsupported testimony at hearing of the teacher that she gave the district the initial paperwork. While it appears that if her recollection is accurate, then the failure of Ms. Phillips to actually receive the document was not "of [her] own doing," Givens, supra., the Board's unwillingness to credit teaching performed without any substantial proof that it was performed under color of an attempt to bring it into conformity with State law is understandable and should be honored. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Board correctly determined that the applicant had failed to prove acceptable teaching experience and the application was therefore properly denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a), in that the initial decision was mailed to the parties on August 6, 1996 and the exceptions were filed on August 20, 1996. Accordingly, the exceptions are not considered herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings, as well as his ultimate conclusion, that the decision of the New Jersey State Board of Examiners denying the issuance of permanent certification for Student Personnel Services to petitioner because she failed to establish that she had served one year of successful full-time teaching, pursuant to a proper teaching certificate, must be sustained. The Commissioner is unable to find that the Board's refusal "to credit teaching performed without any substantial proof that it was performed under color of an attempt to bring it into conformity with State law " (Initial Decision at p. 6) is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Accordingly, as the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the Board as lawfully applied, the recommendation of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed in the initial decision.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SCOTCH PLAINS-FANWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT, UNION COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged Board's residency determination that her child, C.J., was a nonresident of the District and, thus, not entitled to a free public education. Board alleged that as of November 19, 1995, and for at least two school years prior thereto (1993-94 and 1994-95), petitioner had not been a legal resident of the District, and, therefore, her daughter's attendance was improper.

ALJ determined that petitioner did not prove by a preponderance of credible evidence that she was domiciled in the District during the school years in question. Petition was dismissed and the Board's claim for reimbursement of tuition in the amount of $19,682 (February 1992 to October 1995) was granted.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ with modification. Commissioner directed petitioner to remit to the Board the $19,682 owed, plus a prorated amount of tuition for the period from November 1995 to June 1996, while this action was pending, representing out-of-district tuition for C.J.'s full period of ineligible attendance.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This school residence case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education on February 20, 1996 as the result of the filing of a petition of appeal by H.C.J., the mother of C.J., a minor, who disputed the respondent school district's claim that as of November 19, 1995, and for at least two school years prior thereto (1993-94 and 1994-95), H.C.J. had not been a legal resident of Scotch Plains and, therefore, her daughter's attendance in the district's public schools without payment of tuition during that period was improper. As a result, although C.J. is permitted to continue to attend Scotch Plains High School pending a decision, tuition reimbursement is sought from petitioner. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

A plenary hearing was scheduled in an expedited fashion and was conducted by the undersigned administrative law judge on June 13, 1996. Post-hearing proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law then were submitted and the record closed on July 16, 1996. The following constitutes my initial decision.

TESTIMONY

A. FOR PETITIONER

H.C.J. was the sole witness on her own behalf. She is the mother of C.J. who, at the time of the hearing on June 13, 1996, was about to complete 10th grade at Scotch Plains High School. H.C.J. maintained that since February 1992, at least, she has resided permanently with her daughter, C.J. (as well as with her other older children from time-to-time) at the premises located at 2682 Plainfield Avenue, Scotch Plains. That residence, she said, is a one family house owned by one Mary Crawford who now lives in Hollywood, Florida. H.C.J. said she originally moved there as Crawford's tenant in February 1992 and signed a one year lease (Exhibit P-1) which she renewed last October (Exhibit P-2). According to H.C.J. she always paid rent either by mail to Crawford, or directly to Crawford's boyfriend, in the amount of $750 per month.

In October 1995, H.C.J. signed the second lease with Crawford (Exhibit P-2) and said she also became responsible for the utility bills herself (Exhibits P-4(a), P-4(b), P-5). In June 1995, H.C.J. and her daughter temporarily had moved to Linden since H.C.J. was doing carpentry work for a Mr. Carter who owned property there. Thus, H.C.J. insisted that except for that period (June to September 1995) she and her daughter, C.J. continuously resided in Scotch Plains.

Also, although prior to October 1995 H.C.J. did not have a telephone in her own name (she said it was in the name of her older daughter), she has had a telephone in her name since that time (Exhibit P-6). Moreover, H.C.J. also produced three other documents to attempt to prove her Scotch Plains residence. They included: (1) a receipt for cleaning a septic tank, dated January 19, 1996 (Exhibit P-8); (2) a summons issued in December 1995 for maintaining a nuisance (Exhibit P-10); and (3) a court appearance rescheduling notice pertaining to the septic problem (Exhibit P-9).

On cross-examination, H.C.J. insisted that she lived continuously at the Plainfield Avenue property since 1992, and although she did own a motor vehicle it was stolen from her last year. She also conceded that she has filed no federal or state income tax returns for the past three years. With respect to the February 1992 lease (Exhibit P-1), H.C.J. claimed that Crawford prepared and mailed it to her, already signed. With respect to the 1995 lease (Exhibit P-2), H.C.J. could not recall who actually prepared it, but she did say it was she who filled in the blanks and admitted that she signed Crawford's name.

Sometime during November 1995, after being notified there was a problem with her daughter's right to attend Scotch Plains High School, H.C.J. spoke to someone in the school guidance office and was told a school attendance officer would call to come to see her. This officer (Mr. Carl Sicola) called her and she asked him to wait about fifteen minutes since she had to get dressed. When Sicola arrived she proceeded to let him in to the house by unlocking a door from the sun porch to the interior of the house.

On redirect examination H.C.J. explained that although she had signed Crawford's name to the October 1995 lease (Exhibit P-2), Crawford had given her authority to do so. She also insisted that all of her belongings, including clothing and furniture, were at all times located in the house in Scotch Plains.[1]

B. FOR RESPONDENT

Two witnesses testified on behalf of the respondent school district, Carl Sicola, the attendance officer, and Susan Tillis, Director of Special Services who also coordinates residency verification matters.

Prior to September 1995, Sicola had been employed as a detective with the Scotch Plains Police Department. Upon his retirement from police service he became employed as attendance-residency officer for the respondent. Sicola personally was familiar with the premises located at 2682 Plainfield Avenue and recalled that during the Spring of 1995, while he was still a member of the local police force, information was received that the house was being used by juveniles for drug and alcohol related activities. Periodically, he would check the property, as would other police officers, and crack vials often were found there. At no time during this entire period did he or other police officers find any evidence that persons actually lived in the house on a permanent basis.

During the summer of 1995 the property, according to Sicola, remained abandoned and he also learned from the Township that no one was to be permitted to live there since it was the subject of a tax delinquency foreclosure action.

In September 1995, the school district's residency verification officer, Tillis, showed Sicola several letters which had been sent to H.C.J. at the 2682 Plainfield Avenue address. All had been returned with notations on the envelopes that the addressee (H.C.J.) had "moved, left no address" (Exhibit R-1). All nine envelopes were postmarked between June 2, 1995 and September 27, 1995.

[1] Prior to closing the record I asked H.C.J's counsel to submit a photocopy of H.C.J.'s New Jersey driver's license for 1993-95. This was never done even though Exhibit P-7 purports to show that her license privileges had been restored to her in March 1996 following her payment of a restoration fee. My follow up letter of July 11, 1996 again requesting submission of the photocopy was never answered.

Periodically throughout September and October 1995, Sicola visited the subject premises at various hours during both the day and night and he never observed any signs that persons actually were living there. Whenever he knocked on the door there was no response and the municipal tax officials advised him that as far as they knew no one was living at the house.

After school began, Sicola learned that electricity and water services to the premises had been turned on, and that persons now were living in the house. Sicola then spoke to C.J. and at his request she brought in the 1995 lease (Exhibit P-2), which H.C.J. has admitted signing both her own name and that of Mary Crawford. Sicola also called Crawford in Florida and was told that H.C.J. was intending to purchase the house from her.

On November 20, 1995, Sicola learned that H.C.J. had called Tillis and that Tillis told her she would send Sicola to see her. At approximately 10:30 a.m. that day Sicola drove to the property, went up the front steps to a sun porch and knocked on an inside door. He received no response. He then went back across the street to a telephone booth and called the telephone number which had been provided him. H.C.J. answered the call and asked Sicola to give her fifteen minutes to come to open the door for him. Sicola waited and watched the premises. About fifteen minutes later a car drove up to the house and a black female, with blond hair, exited the vehicle and proceeded to enter the rear of the house. Sicola could not identify if the person was H.C.J.

Sicola then proceeded to cross the street, walk back up the steps and through the unlocked door to the sun porch. He then knocked on the interior door and was admitted by H.C.J. When Sicola went in to the house he saw dining room furniture and numerous extension cords. He did not mention seeing any other persons.

On cross-examination, Sicola agreed that his visit on November 20, 1995 was the first time he had actually been inside the house. Also, he repeated that he could not identify the person whom he saw drive up shortly before H.C.J. let him into the house, except she was a black female.

Finally, in response to a question posed by the undersigned, Sicola estimated that during the period September-October-November 1995, he visited the subject property several times between 6:00 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. and at no time did he ever observe anyone living there - certainly he never saw C.J. leave the house to go to school.

The last Board witness was Susan Tillis, Director of Special Services who, as noted, also coordinates residency verification matters. During June, July and August 1995, nine letters sent to H.C.J. at 2682 Plainfield Avenue were returned to the school district unclaimed. Thus, she decided that an inquiry ought to be made and she asked Sicola to contact C.J. to have her mother complete a residency form. Tillis did not believe that the October 1995 lease (Exhibit P-2) had any probative value since it contained various omissions and the signatures did not appear to be proper.

According to Tillis, even though the last day of school in the 1994-95 school year was June 20, 1995, four of the returned letters were postmarked between June 2 and June 16, 1995, when school was still in session. She also noted that the first day of school for the 1995-96 school year was either September 6 or September 7, 1995, and that one of the returned letters was mailed on September 6, and another on September 27.

With respect to tuition costs allegedly owed by H.C.J. for C.J.'s attendance in Scotch Plains, Tillis noted that the latest "official" figures were calculated for the 1993-94 school year. The annual tuition charged to a student sent to the district that school year was approximately $8692. The business office has estimated that the tuition costs for 1994-95 were approximately $9127, and for 1995-96 were approximately $9583.

DISCUSSION

If, as petitioner claims, she actually resided with her daughter, C.J., at the Scotch Plains residence since February 1992 to date, and was temporarily absent during the summer of 1995 only in order to assist in carpentry work in Linden, then her daughter was entitled to attend the Scotch Plains public schools and no tuition reimbursement would be owed to the Board. However, from my review and consideration of the evidence in this case, including the credible testimony offered by the respondents and the serious discrepancies and gaps in the version offered by the petitioner, I am led inexorably to the conclusion that prior to November 1995 petitioner was not a legal resident of Scotch Plains. Thus, her daughter C.J.'s attendance at the school in Scotch Plains without payment of tuition during 1993-94, 1994-95 and the first two months of 1995-96 therefore was improper under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

As noted, petitioner's credibility was extremely suspect. Her claim that she and her daughter lived at the Plainfield Avenue premises beginning in February 1992, and continuously thereafter except for a portion of the summer of 1995, was unworthy of belief. To begin with, the lease dated February 1992 (Exhibit P-1) must be rejected on its face since it is on a form which shows a 1993 copyright date. Also, there are critical omissions, including a description of the leased premises, the term and whom the occupants shall be. The second lease purportedly signed on October 2, 1995 (Exhibit P-2) is even less credible since petitioner admitted that she signed Mary Crawford's name to it. Whether or not Crawford authorized this to be done essentially is irrelevant. The documents, on their face, are so suspect as to provide no reliable basis to corroborate petitioner's contention.

There are a host of other difficulties with H.C.J.'s credibility. Although she claimed to be living at the premises since February 1992, the earliest utility bill which she produced was for October 1995 (Exhibit P-4(a)). Even if, as petitioner claimed, Crawford paid the utility bills before then, petitioner easily could have produced records from the utility to prove that they were sent to Crawford. Moreover, it was undisputed that real estate taxes were not paid and the property is the subject of a pending tax foreclosure action.

Thus, the documentary evidence produced by petitioner (the Public Service bills, the overdue phone bill notice, the septic tank cleaning bill, the summons and complaint, etc.) prove nothing with respect to whether H.C.J. actually resided at the premises prior to November 1995. Having admitted that she signed Crawford's name to the October 1995 lease, having produced a 1992 lease on a form that was not even in existence until 1993, and further having admitted filing no state or federal income tax returns with respect to her earnings, petitioner presented herself, quite simply, as an incredible witness.[2]

By contrast, the solid testimony of Sicola was most persuasive. For example, he related without contradiction that during the Spring of 1995, when he was still a detective on the Scotch Plains police force, the property was a known hang-out for drug and alcohol users and that no one lived there. So too, his testimony that he often visited the property during 1995 and observed no one living there also was free of dispute. The "icing on the cake" seems to me to be the nine letters sent to H.C.J. at the Scotch Plains address between early June and late September 1995 (Exhibit R-1). All were returned unclaimed with the notation, "moved, left no address". Although H.C.J. attempted to explain that situation by claiming she and her daughter lived in Linden during that summer, this does not explain why several of the letters sent to the house while school was still in session in June 1995, and after school opened again in September 1995, also were returned.

Yet another undisputed fact militating against petitioner's credibility is Sicola's testimony concerning his surveillance of the property on November 20, 1995. Only after some unknown black female drove up to the house and went inside was there any sign of life within the premises. Just prior to that time Sicola attempted, without success, to rouse any persons inside and it is reasonable to assume that no one was

[2] Even the alleged "rent receipts" (Exhibits P-3(a), 3(b), 3(c)) were deficient. First, they were for $500 each, not $750, and have no intrinsic value as to whether they related to "rent" at all. Moreover, two of them give a Westfield, N.J. address for H.C.J. (Exhibits P-3(a) and P-3(b) and all are dated in 1993

there. The person who then drove up to the house and entered in the rear, in all reasonable likelihood, was petitioner herself since she soon emerged to let Sicola into the house and he observed no one else there.

The terms "domicile' essentially refers to that place where the responsible custodial parent has his or her true and fixed permanent home and to which, whenever he or she is absent, he or she has the intention to return. None of the school laws cited by petitioner in the area of residence and domicile support her claim. Petitioner did not own the house and her claim to have been a tenant living there since 1992 was incredible. No telephone, water, electric or other utility bills were produced to show that during the period between February 1992 and October 1995 she paid for any of those services, no less used them, and the unequivocal and undisputed testimony by Sicola that he often personally observed no one living at the property when petitioner claimed she was there clearly call for a determination in favor of the respondent. As Board counsel pointed out in his post-hearing memorandum, petitioner simply was unable or unwilling to produce any solid, reliable evidence of a permanent record concerning her living in Scotch Plains during the critical period in question. There were no voting records, no tax returns, no time relevant utility or other bills and no reliable rent receipts. Moreover, despite her counsel's representation that his client would comply, H.C.J. also failed to produce a photocopy of her driver's license.

In short, petitioner woefully has failed to carry her statutory burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence that she was a legal resident or domiciliary of Scotch Plains between February 1992 and November 1995. Accordingly, she owes tuition to the Scotch Plains-Fanwood school district for the attendance of her daughter in that period, and in the amount set forth below:

a) September 1993-June 1994 ($8,692)

b) September 1994-June 1995 ($9,127)

c) September 1995 to November 1995 (est. 35 school days) - $1863)[3]

[3] The figure of $1863 is calculated as follows: $9583÷180 x 35. I have not assessed any cost for November although it is likely that the non-residence status existed until on or about November 20, 1996.

Therefore, the total owed to respondent is $19,682

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons set forth above, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner, H.C.J., has failed to demonstrate by a preponderance of the credible evidence that during the period between February 1992 and November 1995 she was a legal resident or domiciliary of Scotch Plains. Therefore, her daughter's attendance in the Scotch Plains Public Schools during this period without payment of tuition was unlawful and in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that her petition of appeal be DISMISSED and that the Board's claim for reimbursement of tuition in the amount of $19,682 be GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton,

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by respondent in accordance with N.J.A.C 1:1-18.4.

Respondent agrees with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner was not domiciled within the School District. (Exceptions at p. 1) Respondent suggests, however, that the ALJ failed to assess tuition for the period of November 1995 through June 1996, during which respondent was under legal obligation, pursuant to statute, to continue the education of petitioner's child while the matter was pending before the Commissioner of Education. Respondent, therefore, seeks modification of the Commissioner's decision to expand the period of time through June 1996 for the payment of tuition and to state that C.J. is not presently entitled to be enrolled in the respondent District. (Exceptions at p. 2)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings of the ALJ but modifies the decision as follows. Commissioner concurs that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, C.J. is not, and was not during the period at issue, entitled to a free public education in the Scotch Plains-Fanwood School District. It is observed that in reaching this decision, the Commissioner had no cause to question the ALJ's assessment of petitioner's credibility as such assessment is not belied by the record. However, the Commissioner modifies the determination to assess tuition against petitioner for the period of November 1995 through June 1996 for C.J.'s ineligible attendance in the District in that the ALJ did not find petitioner's circumstances with regard to domicile to have changed after November 1995, and controlling statute provides that, if in the determination of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the claim that the child is eligible for a free education in the District, the resident shall be assessed tuition for the student.

Accordingly, petitioner is directed to remit to the Board $19,682, plus a prorated amount of tuition for the period of November 1995 to June 1996, representing out-of-district tuition for C.J.'s full period of ineligible attendance, and the within appeal is hereby dismissed.

PETITIONER,

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOMERVILLE, SOMERSET COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged Board's residency determination that her brothers and sisters were nonresidents of the District and, thus, not entitled to a free public education.

ALJ determined that petitioner did prove by a preponderance of credible evidence that each of the five minors herein were domiciliaries of Somerville and no tuition moneys were owed to the Board. Although guardianship is not required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, G.A. had proven that each minor child, as he or she arrived in Somerville from the Philippines, came under the de facto guardianship of G.A. Petition was granted and the Board's resolution to disenroll the pupils was set aside.

Commissioner concurred with the findings of the ALJ in the initial decision. Commissioner found petitioner satisfied requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1) and established that her siblings were eligible to attend respondent's schools.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOMERVILLE,

Respondent.

James F. Ryan, Jr., for petitioner (Bogart, Ryan & Campisano, attorneys)

Michael J. Rogers, Esq., for respondent (McDonald, Rogers & Rizzolo, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 19, 1996 Decided: August 1, 1996

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

This matter is a residency dispute. The petitioner claims that a minor in her care and custody was wrongfully denied admission to the public schools operated by the Somerville Board of Education, respondent. N.J.S.A. 18:38-1.

The Board generally denies the allegations and asserts a counterclaim for costs of tuition.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. After notice, a prehearing conference was held on February 1, 1996. The conference was continued to February 15, 1996 because the parties were discussing settlement. When it became apparent that settlement would not be achieved, I set the matter down for hearing on May 24 and June 5, 1996. Because of scheduling difficulties that were not the fault of either party, the first date was adjourned, and the matter was heard on June 5, 1996, in the Montgomery Municipal Court. Counsel timely filed written summations and the record closed on June 19, 1996.

PAROL AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

The Somerville Superintendent of Schools testified. The district's Director of Special Services received a letter and telephone call in September 1995 advising that Alphaeus A., a handicapped child, was coming from the Philippines. The district learned from the mother's letter several other siblings were enrolled. The children's files were collected. Ms. G.A. was asked to come in. The district had received documents from the children's father who lives or lived in Jersey City.

The superintendent informed G.A. that because the father was in Jersey City, the children should be in school there. In late September, Mr. A. claimed a Somerville address. He presented a driver license and voter registration card, both issued September 25, 1995.

The witness took this information to the Board which passed a resolution excluding the children pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). This appealed followed.

The district prepared a tuition analysis, not including Alphaeus A., showing a total of $29,410.76 in tuition the district says the family owes (R-1). The superintendent met with G.A. in September to discuss Alphaeus. Residency and domicile are the only issues the Board sees in the case.

G.A. testified. She is 26 years old and lives with eight brothers and sisters. Four persons in the household, including herself, are over 18 years of age. Five are minors. Alphaeus A. presently is in a special education placement.

The witness has lived in Somerville since 1993. Her brothers and sisters attending school are supported by the older siblings. The parents contribute nothing; the older siblings are the sole means of support.

There are five wage earners in the household, one of them still attending school. Five siblings are attending school. None have left the United States since 1993. It is their intent to remain in the United States and none of them has the present intent to return to the Philippines. The witness has a lease on a house at 113 [S.] Street, Somerville (J-21).

The witness learned after the fact that her father had presented documents (driver license and voter registration) to the district. Her siblings have never lived with her father. He is remarried and has a child by the second marriage.

When the siblings arrived in 1993, they all came to her Somerville apartment. In 1994, Aristides A. arrived. In 1995 Achilles A., Jr., Alexis A. and Alphaeus A. arrived.

The witness provided a consent to guardianship (J-16) because she was told when she enrolled Z.G.A. in 1993 that she needed documentation. Exhibit J-17 similarly applies to Aristides A.

G.A. wrote to the Somerset County Director of Special Services upon the advice of a person in the Middlesex County Office of Special Education. The witness also provided income tax returns for the year 1995 showing that she and her adult siblings "divided" the minor siblings for tax purposes. She did not individually claim all siblings as dependents. All adult siblings contributed to the household and each adult sibling claimed one or more deductions.

The witness stated she never said to any Somerville Board of Education employee that the father makes any contribution whatsoever to the maintenance of her minor siblings.

The witness also testified as to the take-home pay of her siblings and herself and their monthly expenses.

THE ARGUMENTS

The Petitioner

This matter was opened as a petition appealing the Somerville Board of Education's decision to remove four of G.A.'s brothers and sisters from the public school system and to deny a fifth sibling the right to register. The appeal had the effect of preventing the Board from dismissing the first four children. An application for formal guardianship was granted by the Somerset County Surrogate on November 20, 1995. As a result of the Surrogate's action, the fifth child was admitted and the Board ceased its efforts to disenroll the children.

The petitioner maintains there is no need to continue the original petition. The only issue is the counterclaim in which the Board contends that G.A. is responsible for back tuition for her siblings because of a deliberate misrepresentation and a violation of school laws. The only proofs submitted were the documents agreed to, R-1 and R-2, and the superintendent's testimony.

G.A. testified that she has resided in Somerville for the past three years and that she and her eight other brothers and sisters lived together in a setting where the five working siblings (one works part-time as well as attending school) all contribute to support of the household. G.A. testified that she made the decisions relating to her school-age siblings. She stated that all of the siblings were permanent residents of Somerville, that at no time have they ever been sent back to the Philippines, and that the parents do not contribute to their support. She submitted 1995 tax returns showing that the working siblings divided the tax deductions for the siblings in school.

The controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), states:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons under five and under 20 years of age:
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district; . . . .

The statute was amended in 1977 because of a concern that parents sometimes attempted to send their children to schools in districts other than their own, without actually changing residence. This is not the case in this matter. The children live in Somerville permanently. They are being supported by their siblings in Somerville and not by either parent. They are domiciled in Somerville. Moreover, G.A. is another person domiciled within the school district and is supporting the children as if they were her own. Part (b) of the statute provides, among other things, that the public schools shall be free to persons over five and under 20, if those persons are kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and are supported by the other person gratis as if they were such other person's own children. Not only are the children domiciled in Somerville, but G.A. could run afoul of compulsory attendance laws if she did not send the children to school.

The process of becoming guardian involved application to the Surrogate, obtaining affidavits from the parents and an order of the Surrogate. Until the Guardian Certificates issued, G.A. was the de facto guardian as the affidavits from the parents indicate.

As soon as G.A. received Mr. Rogers' September 21, 1995 letter, she went ahead with the guardianship applications. In all respects, she had been complying with Somerville requirements. When they added an additional requirement of guardianship, which the statute does not seem to require, G.A. nevertheless complied.

The Respondent

The Board resolved to exclude the children in this matter because the school district learned that G.A.'s siblings were living with her and not their father. G.A. was not their legal guardian when the Board learned of the situation. The father fraudulently represented to the district that he was a resident of Somerville when in fact he lived in Jersey City. The Board voted to exclude the children and to not permit the arriving sibling from the Philippines to register.

The petitioner took advantage of the residency statute by filing a petition with the Commission which had the effect of permitting the children to remain in school while she rushed to the Surrogate's office for guardianship papers.

The school district filed a counterclaim for back tuition for the period in which the children were improperly enrolled in the school system. The proofs demonstrate that G.A.'s siblings have arrived in the United States from the Philippines periodically over the past several years and have come to live with her in Somerville. There is no dispute that G.A. is a Somerville resident. There is also no dispute that the mother of the children lives in the Philippines and the father in Jersey City. G.A. was not the guardian of her siblings until November 20, 1995. Her guardianship application was prompted solely by the district's challenge to the children's eligibility to attend the Somerville Public Schools.

The relevant statute subsection in this matter is N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). Prior to January 11, 1994, a child could live in the home of another person and attend the local public school if the child were supported gratis as if he were such person's own child, if the person would assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and if the person intended to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely the school year. The statute was significantly amended effective January 11, 1994. In addition to the existing requirements, a mandate was added to the statute that the child's parent or guardian not be capable of supporting or providing care for the child because of a family or economic hardship and that the child not be residing with the resident for the sole purpose of receiving a free public education. The resident has the burden of proof, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the child is eligible for a free education under the statutory criteria. If the resident's claim is not established, the Commissioner must assess tuition against the resident for the time of ineligible attendance. These recent statutory amendments compel the assessment of tuition for the amount claimed by the school district.

The petitioner has failed to offer any proof that the father of these children is incapable of supporting them due to a family or economic hardship. In fact, the father owns a tax service business in Jersey City.

The statute was amended in 1994 to strengthen the requirements for public school eligibility and not to have parents and students "shopping" for the school of their choice. The burden is now on the resident to demonstrate compliance with the statutory criterion. It is now mandatory that tuition be assessed for any period that a student is deemed ineligible.

Parents or guardians are not permitted under the statute to deposit children with relatives without proving that they satisfy the statutory criteria. The Legislature has spoken and prohibits a parent from simply given guardianship to another and washing his or her hands of responsibility. What makes matters worse here is that the father fraudulently attempted to convince the school district that he was a Somerville resident. There is no evidence or documentation that the father was incapable of supporting or providing care for the children due to a family or economic hardship and that the children were not residing with the petitioner for the sole purpose of receiving a free public education.

DETERMINATION

From the evidence adduced at hearing, I FIND:

1. G.A. has resided in Somerville for at least three years;

2. Three adult siblings reside with G.A. and all four are gainfully employed;

3. All four adults are domiciled in Somerville;

4. Five school age siblings also reside with G.A.;

5. The four adult siblings, with a contribution from a younger sibling who works part-time while attending school, support the household;

6. The natural mother of all nine persons resides in the Philippines;

7. She makes no contribution to the support of the unemancipated siblings;

8. The natural father of all nine persons resides in Jersey City, has remarried, has a child by the second marriage and makes no contribution to the support of the unemancipated siblings;

9. G.A. and her siblings intend to remain in the United States and have no present intention to leave the United States;

10. G.A. became the legal guardian of Aristides A., Alexis D.A., Z.G.A., Achilles A., Jr., and Alphaeus A. on November 20, 1995;

11. G.A. has been the de facto guardian of each minor sibling since each arrived in the United States.

Two subsidiary issues must be addressed. First, the natural father's attempt to show he resided in and was domiciled in Somerville. This judge is convinced that he is and was neither. This appears to have been a misguided attempt to satisfy school authorities' legitimate questions concerning the true legal status of the five minor siblings. It is likely the natural father knew he was misrepresenting. Whether he was attempting to avoid a possible tuition liability or trying to help his children settle a controversy with school authorities or both remains unknown. In any event, it is beyond the compass of this case.

The second and related issue is the status of the minor siblings between their arrival in the United States and November 20, 1995 when Guardian Certificates issued. G.A.'s testimony in this regard was credible. I FIND that each minor child, as he or she arrived in Somerville, came under the de facto guardianship of G.A. She and her emancipated siblings assumed complete responsibility for each minor child. And guardianship is not required by the statute.

This tribunal must decided in favor of the party on whose side the evidence preponderates and according to the reasonable probability of truth. Jackson v. D.L. and W.R.R., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). Because a trier of fact may reject testimony that is inherently incredible or inconsistent with common experience, the trier of fact should accept that which is credible and consistent with experience. See, Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

I CONCLUDE that each of the five minors who are the subject of this case were domiciliaries of Somerville at all times pertinent to this matter and that no tuition moneys are owed to the respondent Board. The counterclaim, therefore, is DISMISSED.

No ill motive should be ascribed to the Board in this matter. At a time when resources are straitened as perhaps never before, the Board had both a right and a duty to examine the circumstances present here. It is undisputed that one of the minor children is in a special education placement. It is common knowledge and common experience that the costs associated with such placements are increasing as State aid for special education is static at best and may, in terms of purchasing power if not real dollars, actually shrink. The Somerville Board of Education and its administrators have demonstrated vigilance, not ill will.

The petitioner having shown by a preponderance of the credible evidence in the record that her minor siblings are and were at all pertinent times domiciled in Somerville, her petition of appeal is GRANTED and the Board's resolution to disenroll those pupils is SET ASIDE. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in the initial decision, and further agrees that petitioner, satisfying the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), has established that her siblings were, at all times pertinent to this matter eligible to attend respondent's school district.[1]

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL granting petitioner's appeal to set aside the Board's decision to disenroll her siblings is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The counterclaim by the Board is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged Board's residency determination that her child, C.J., was a nonresident of the District and, thus, not entitled to a free public education.

ALJ determined that petitioner did not prove by a preponderance of credible evidence that C.J. was domiciled in North Arlington during the 1995-96 school year. Board, therefore, was not required to provide him a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ and directed petitioner to remit to the Board the $7,500 representing out-of-district tuition for the 1995-96 school year.

Linda Cebula, petitioner, pro se

Glenn T. Leonard, Esq., for North Arlington Board of Education, respondent

Record Closed: June 12, 1996 Decided: July 26, 1996

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

NATURE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

By letter dated September 6, 1995, Dr. Jerilyn Caprio (Caprio), the Acting Superintendent of Schools for the North Arlington school district, formally advised Linda Cebula (Cebula or petitioner) of a determination by the North Arlington Board of Education (Board or respondent) to deny petitioner's application to enroll Cebula's son as a student in the district. Cebula filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE), contesting the denial. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 20, 1995 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

OAL personnel attempted to reach petitioner on December 4, 5, and 6, 1995 in order to schedule a hearing during that week. These efforts were unsuccessful, and a hearing was subsequently conducted on May 30, 1996. Petitioner thereafter filed copies of Exhibits P-1 and P-2, which documents were not available at the hearing, and the record was closed on June 12, 1996.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Based upon a review of the entire record, including credibility determinations, I FIND the following to be facts.

In the fall of 1994, petitioner's mother had executed an affidavit stating that petitioner and petitioner's son, C.J., were then living in her (the mother's) residence, which is located in North Arlington. C.J. was enrolled in a district school during the 1994-95 school year. He left during that school year and subsequently returned in April 1995.

As of June 1995, Caprio was respondent's Acting Superintendent. She assumed the position of Superintendent in December 1995.

Caprio met with petitioner, in the then superintendent's office, in August 1995. At Cebula's request, the principal of North Arlington High School was also present. Cebula requested that her son, C.J., be enrolled in the district's schools. Petitioner had previously been informed by Board personnel that she had not filed the necessary paperwork for enrollment and had requested that Caprio meet with her.

At the August 1995 meeting, Caprio reviewed with petitioner respondent's pertinent policy, which requires that a student establish his/her residency in North Arlington.

The Board's admission policy in this respect is as stated in paragraph 1 of Exhibit R-1. That policy provides that proof of residency may be in the form of a sales contract for a housing unit or a copy of a lease or rental agreement. If a parent and child reside with a relative who is a bona fide resident of the school district, that relative is required to sign an affidavit attesting to the residency.

Caprio discussed this policy in detail with Cebula, indicating that a sales contract or a lease pertinent to a rental situation should be provided. Cebula stated that she had no such documents. They then discussed the question of what other documents might be sufficient to establish C.J.'s residency, including an affidavit from an individual with whom Cebula and C.J. resided. Caprio reviewed with petitioner the standard affidavit form utilized by the Board. The content of such form is as stated in Exhibit R-2. Petitioner, in turn, told Caprio that she was familiar with the form.

Petitioner also indicated that she and her son were living with Cebula's mother since April of 1995 and that the mother refused to sign an affidavit. Cebula stated that she and her son lived in the mother's house, on Madison Avenue, in North Arlington, and that petitioner paid some expenses. Cebula asked if the Board would make an exception to allow C.J. to enter a district school without execution of an affidavit. They did not discuss other financial matters, including who provided support for C.J. The focus of the discussion was on petitioner's and C.J.'s domicile.

Subsequent to the meeting, Caprio contacted petitioner by telephone, some time in August 1995, advising that Board personnel had informally met and determined that there would be no exception to their admissions policy. Petitioner insisted that C.J. be enrolled in a district school, indicating that it was a high priority that he be in class the first day of school. Petitioner again discussed with Caprio difficulties she would have in providing documentation consistent with the Board's policy. Caprio advised Cebula that an appeal could be made to the DOE and subsequently provided her with the necessary paperwork. Board personnel assisted Cebula in completing the appeal documents and filing them with the DOE to ensure that C.J. was enrolled in school on the first school day in September 1995.

C.J., in fact, was enrolled in respondent's middle school from September 1995 until at least May 30, 1996. Caprio never received an affidavit from petitioner's mother, and it was clear to her, based on communications with Cebula, that such would not be forthcoming. Petitioner never paid tuition to respondent. Annual tuition for the 1995-96 school year was $7,500.

Petitioner's W-2 form for 1995 stated her address as 101 Orient Lane, Lyndhurst, New Jersey. In April 1996, Cebula received a federal income tax refund. The refund check was sent to her at the address of 5 Madison Street, North Arlington. The State Division of Taxation also sent her a 1995 tax refund check to that address. When petitioner filed her State tax return forms for 1995, she executed an application for a homestead rebate property tax refund, indicating that her primary residence in 1995 was 101 Orient Lane, Lyndhurst. The form contained a statement to the effect that providing false information would result in the imposition of a penalty. Cebula understood, when she executed the document, that she was providing information under possible penalties for perjury. Petitioner established a savings account in April 1996 and never provided Board personnel with copies of bank statements indicating her address.

Petitioner does not own an automobile. She works at a business entity located in Hasbrouck Heights, New Jersey. Petitioner previously had a drivers' license, which was suspended more than one year ago. The address on that license was 101 Orient Way, Lyndhurst, New Jersey. Petitioner does not have a current driver's license. Cebula last owned an automobile during June 1995. It was registered to petitioner at 101 Orient Way, Lyndhurst, New Jersey. Cebula does not have any credit cards, and she never registered to vote. Petitioner previously had a checking account, which has since been closed. The referenced address for the account was 101 Orient Way, Lyndhurst, New Jersey. Cebula never provided Board personnel with copies of the deed to the house located at 5 Madison Avenue in North Arlington.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. (Supp. 1996). Pertinent statutory provisions address residence requirements relevant to attendance at local district schools.

Public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals between the ages of five and twenty years in certain circumstances, including to individuals who are domiciled within the school district. Id. at §38-1(b).

Local school districts are also required to provide a free education to individuals who are kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district, and supported by such other person gratis, as if he/she were such other person's own child, upon the filing by that person with the board of education of a sworn statement. Such statement shall, if so required by the board, state that he/she is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements. The sworn statement also must state that he/she intends to keep and support the child gratuitously through the school term. A copy of the lease, if a tenant, or a sworn statement by a landlord acknowledging tenancy, if residing as a tenant without a written lease, shall also be filed. The child's parent or guardian shall file with the local board of education a sworn statement that he/she is incapable of supporting or providing care for the child because of a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education therein. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation supporting the validity of the sworn statements. If in the board's judgment the evidence does not support the validity of the residence claim, the board may deny admission to the child. Id. at §(b)(1).

Pertinent statutory provisions also address procedures if a local board denies admission. The resident may contest a decision to the Commissioner and shall be entitled to a hearing on the validity of the claim. The resident shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the statutory criteria. No child shall be denied admission during the pendency of such proceedings. If the child in question is then currently enrolled in the district, he/she shall not be removed during the period in which the resident may contest the board's decision nor during the pendency of the proceedings before the Commissioner. (Ibid.)

If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the residence claim, the Commissioner shall assess tuition for the student, prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the district. (I*bid.*)

It is respondent's position that C.J. was not properly enrolled as a tuition-free student, that Cebula should be required to pay tuition for the 1995-96 school year, which tuition was $7,500, and that an affidavit addressing residency executed by petitioner would not be sufficient to establish the domicile of C.J. Cebula maintains that she and C.J. resided in North Arlington during the 1995-96 school year.

I am persuaded that petitioner has not met her burden of proof. Cebula did not demonstrate by a preponderance of the credible evidence that she and C.J. were domiciled in North Arlington. Her testimony in this respect was not credible.

Petitioner testified that, between 1991 and through 1995, she moved among North Arlington, Kearny, Lyndhurst, and Rutherford, New Jersey. However, her testimony in this respect was ambiguous and contrary on direct and cross-examination. In addition, Cebula testified that she did not live in Lyndhurst during 1995, even though she filed an application for a State homestead rebate, indicating therein that her primary residence was in Lyndhurst and she was aware that the provision of incorrect information could result in penalties for perjury. Petitioner's testimony regarding the reasons for her actions in that respect was not believable. The fact that income tax refund checks were mailed to petitioner at an address in North Arlington is not sufficient to establish C.J.'s or petitioner's domicile.

Petitioner's testimony in other respects was also ambiguous. Cebula testified that her mother has resided at the address in question in North Arlington for at least 35 years, the family initially moving there when petitioner's parents were married. She stated that at some point, petitioner's father left the home, the parents divorced, and the father, who is now deceased, "left his half of the house to the four kids," including petitioner. (Petitioner's testimony on cross-examination.) However, as found, petitioner never provided Board personnel with a copy of the deed. When queried regarding whether or not her name was on the deed, petitioner stated that she "thinks she saw the deed approximately ten years ago." (Ibid.) Cebula also testified that her mother told her, sometime in 1980, that her parents had divorced. However, she also testified that she never saw any documents pertinent to the divorce and did not discuss the matter with her mother. In light of the entire record, her testimony in this respect, as well as petitioner's testimony that her brother drives her to work on a daily basis, did not have the ring of truth.

For the above reasons, I am persuaded that petitioner has not proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that C.J. was domiciled in North Arlington during the 1995-96 school year. Respondent was therefore not required to provide him a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a.

Respondent's actions requesting affidavits from petitioner's mother were consistent with the applicable statutory provisions. Petitioner did not provide documentation required pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, nor any other documentation establishing that she and/or C.J. were domiciled in North Arlington. Respondent therefore was not required to provide C.J. with a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. The Board's actions in initially denying petitioner's request that he be enrolled, commencing September 1995, assisting her in completing and filing an appeal to the Commissioner, and maintaining him in a district school pending resolution of the matter were consistent with the pertinent statutory provisions.

However, Cebula is responsible at this time for payment of tuition, in the amount of $7,500 on an annual basis, to respondent, pursuant to those provisions, for the 1995-96 school year. As found, C.J. was a student in a public school of North Arlington as of May 30, 1996. The parties did not subsequently advise this judge that he did not complete the school year in the district. I am therefore persuaded that Cebula should be required to reimburse respondent in the amount of $7,500, representing tuition for the 1995-96 school year.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that C.J. was domiciled in North Arlington during the 1995-96 school year and that he therefore was not entitled to a free public education in North Arlington for the time in question pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a; that petitioner did not demonstrate by a preponderance of the credible evidence that C.J. was maintained in the home of any other individual, during the school year in question, within the school district and was supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child; and that C.J. therefore was not entitled to a free public education in North Arlington for the school year in question pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. Finally, I CONCLUDE that Cebula should be required to reimburse respondent for tuition for the 1995-96 school year in the amount of $7,500.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner reimburse respondent in the amount of $7,500 for tuition for C.J. for the 1995-96 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) for the reasons well-expressed therein. In so finding, the Commissioner concurs that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, C.J. is not entitled to a free public education in the North Arlington School District. It is observed that in reaching this decision, the Commissioner had no cause to question the ALJ's assessment of petitioner's credibility as such assessment is not belied by the record. Moreover, it was the ALJ who had the opportunity to hear petitioner's sworn testimony so that she was in the optimum position to make such determination.

Accordingly, petitioner is directed to remit to the Board $7,500 representing out-of-district tuition for the 1995-96 school year in accordance with the ALJ's instructions, and the within appeal is hereby dismissed.

The record in this matter, along with the decision of the State Board of Education granting the parties' request for a remand, have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner finds it necessary to remand this matter to the School Ethics Commission for a determination by that body as to whether the alleged conduct constitutes a violation of the School Ethics Act, inasmuch as Mr. Speziali, by submissions received subsequent to the Commissioner's decision of April 18, 1996, avers that he did not begin serving his first full term until April 1995, and he obtained the requisite training on March 16, 1996, so as to comply with the regulations implementing the Act.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the School Ethics Commission for determination consistent with the above.

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. authorizes the School Ethics Commission to recommend removal of any board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Rice was elected to the school board in April 1995 and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA)advises prospective school board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit" and advises new board members of the requirement in a letter congratulating them on their achievement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence in December to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend board member training and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 15, 1995, advising that they have only three more programs to attend without being in violation of the Act; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the School Ethics Commission, the New Jersey School Boards Association published a notice entitled, "Last Chance to Meet Training Requirements" in the February 23, 1996 edition of School Board Notes advising that the March 16, 1996, session was the last that board members elected or appointed before June 1995 could attend without penalty; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association conducted eight training sessions on the following dates:

June 2-4, 1995
June 16-18, 1995
September 8-10, 1995
September 22-24, 1995
October 24, 1995
January 6, 1996
January 20, 1996
March 16, 1996; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association continuously published the dates and locations of the training sessions and indicated that training was a state mandate; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirements was March 16, 1996, yet the Commission allowed the June 1996 sessions to fulfill the requirement without setting precedent for future violations; and

WHEREAS, the above-captioned board member failed to attend training for well over the one-year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission issued an Order on April 25, 1996, directing the board member to Show Cause why he or she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, said board member failed to respond; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated June 4, 1996, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), the Commission notified said board member of the opportunity to appear before the Commission, be represented by counsel, and present witnesses on his or her behalf; and

WHEREAS, said board member chose not to appear, and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commissions finds that the failure to attend board member training from April 1995 to June 1996, constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-33 and warrants removal from the board,

NOW THEREFORE IT IS RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that despite adequate opportunities, the above-named board member has failed to attend the training program as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and thus violated that provision. The Commission therefore, recommends to the Commissioner of Education that said board member be removed from office. The Commission further recommends to the Commissioner that a copy of his decision removing the board member be transmitted to the board secretary of the district in which said board member serves and the county superintendent for the district.

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association continuously published the dates and locations of the training sessions and indicated that training was a state mandate; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirements was March 16, 1996, yet the Commission allowed the June 1996 sessions to fulfill the requirement without setting precedent for future violations; and

WHEREAS, the above-captioned board member failed to attend training for well over the one-year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission issued an Order on April 25, 1996, directing the board member to Show Cause why he or she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, said board member failed to respond; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated June 4, 1996, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), the Commission notified said board member of the opportunity to appear before the Commission, be represented by counsel, and present witnesses on his or her behalf; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commissions finds that the failure to attend board member training from April 1995 to June 1996, constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-33 and warrants removal from the board,

NOW THEREFORE IT IS RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that despite adequate opportunities, the above-named board member has failed to attend the training program as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and thus violated that provision. The Commission therefore, recommends to the Commissioner of Education that said board member be removed from office. The Commission further recommends to the Commissioner that a copy of his decision removing the board member be transmitted to the board secretary of the district in which said board member serves and the county superintendent for the district.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member who was riffed from her Reading Specialist position, claimed entitlement to Learning Disability Teacher-Consultant (LDTC) positions subsequently filled by the Board with nontenured individuals. Board contended petition was untimely filed.

ALJ found that petitioner did not receive "adequate notice" of the fact that the Board had hired two nontenured individuals for the previously vacant LDTC positions until her attorney was notified by the Board via letter dated May 24, 1995. Thus, petition was timely filed. ALJ concluded that petitioner should have been reemployed by the Board in one of the two new LDTC positions on September 1, 1994 and that her petition seeking instatement to the position of LDTC, retroactive to September 1, 1994, should be granted.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the knowledge which petitioner acquired in April 1995 of the hiring of the LDTC's was insufficient to constitute adequate notice of a potential claim against the Board where said knowledge was reached pursuant to a casual conversation in the faculty room. Moreover, the Commissioner concurred that petitioner was entitled, by virtue of her tenure rights, to be reemployed subsequent to her RIF, in one of the two LDTC positions which became available in June 1994, and which were subsequently filled by nontenured teachers, effective September 1, 1994. Commissioner directed Board to place petitioner in one of the aforementioned positions with compensation.

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is an appeal by Myrna Arnold (petitioner) from a decision of the Board of Education of the Bridgewater Raritan Regional School District, Somerset County (respondent or the Board) denying her claim to a Learning Disability Teacher Consultant (LDTC) position after she had been laid-off from her Reading Specialist position due to a reduction in force (RIF).

On September 8, 1995, the instant matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to the New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act. A telephone prehearing conference was held on December 11, 1995. The hearing itself was held on April 10, 1996. The record closed upon the filing of reply briefs by the parties.

The essential facts in this matter are not in dispute, having been established by a stipulation of facts (Exhibit J-1) made by the parties at the outset of the hearing, by the admission without objection of 3 pieces of correspondence, and by the credible testimony of petitioner herself.

FACTS

Petitioner possesses an instructional certificate with an elementary classroom teacher endorsement, along with an educational services certificate with a reading specialist endorsement and a learning disabilities teacher-consultant endorsement ("LDTC"). Petitioner also holds an administrative certificate with supervisor and principal endorsements.

She has acquired tenure under her educational services certificate, with more than twenty-one years of seniority credit as a reading specialist. However, she has no seniority credit as an LDTC. With regard to her instructional certificate, she has acquired tenure and has accrued over ten years of seniority credit as an elementary classroom teacher.

Petitioner has been employed by respondent for over twenty years. Commencing on September 1, 1974 and continuing through June 30, 1984, she was assigned as a reading specialist. During the 1985-1986 school year, she was then reassigned as a half-time reading specialist and a half-time kindergarten teacher. Subsequently, she was reassigned as a full-time reading specialist from September 1, 1986 through June 30, 1993. During the summers of 1985, 1986, and 1987, she was employed by the Board for fourteen (14) days as an LDTC specialist.

On April 27, 1993, respondent abolished petitioner's reading specialist position, effective June 30, 1993. As a result, petitioner was reassigned as a full-time elementary classroom teacher on September 1, 1993. During this school year, i.e., 1993-1994, respondent did not employ any non-tenured LDTCs, either at the time petitioner's reading specialist position was abolished on April 27, 1993 or at any other time throughout the 1993-1994 school year. However, because two LDTC positions became available on June 30, 1994 due to retirements, respondent proceeded to hire two persons, effective September 1, 1994, from outside the school district to fill the vacancies. Petitioner did not apply for either LDTC position.

Sometime during April of 1995, petitioner overheard a conversation between teachers in the faculty room at the school where she was employed. In particular, she heard a teacher say that the school's long-time LDTC was being transferred to another school and would be replaced by a new LDTC. As a result she notified her attorney, who then proceeded to contact the Assistant Superintendent of the board by letter dated May 24, 1995. The Board responded to this correspondence by letter of the same date, confirming the hiring of two LDTCs.

In a petition filed on August 10, 1995 with the Commissioner of Education, petitioner alleged that respondent had violated her tenure and recall rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. In particular, the petitioner claimed that the Board failed to appoint her to one of the two LDTC positions which became available on September 1, 1995. Respondent denied petitioner's allegations and raised affirmative defenses in an answer which was filed on August 29, 1995. The matter was then transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case.

ISSUES AND ANALYSIS

The threshold issue in this case is whether the petition of appeal should be dismissed because it was filed beyond the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). In other words, the question to be decided first is whether a conversation overheard by petitioner between teachers in a school faculty room constitutes adequate notice to her that she had a claim against the Board under the applicable tenure laws.

N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) provides:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

This provision, commonly referred to as "the ninety-day rule," has been strictly applied, and generally requires that a petition be dismissed as untimely when an action is commenced beyond the ninety day period. See, Boles v. Bergen County Voc. Schools Bd. of Ed., 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 554, 556; Riley v. Bd. of Ed. of Hunterdon Central Regional High School District, 173 N.J. Super. 109, 113 (App. Div. 1980); Bernards Tp. Bd. of Ed. v. Bernards Tp. Ed. Assn., 79 N.J. 311, 326-327 (1979). In cases involving tenure claims, the ninety day limitation period begins to toll on the date that the petitioner first becomes aware that a non-tenured person was hired to fill a position for which the petitioner has tenure. Cahn v. Borough of Deal Bd. of Ed., 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 330, 331; Davenport v. Butler Bd. of Ed., 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 614, 616.

Here, petitioner claims that she received "adequate notice" of her right to pursue a claim on or about May, 24, 1995, i.e., the date the Board's attorney confirmed that two persons from outside the school district were previously hired to fill vacant LDTC positions. Respondent contends that adequate notice was obtained by petitioner in early April of 1995 when she overheard a colleague indicate that a new LDTC position had been created.

"Adequate notice" for purposes of the ninety-day rule was addressed by the Supreme Court in Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). In Kaprow, the Court held that an unofficial and informal notice from the local board secretary to the petitioner, stating that two positions were created and filled by other persons, sufficed to trigger the ninety day period against the petitioner's tenure claim.

The Supreme Court declared that adequate notice under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) > should [(1)] effectuate concerns for individual justice by not triggering the limitations period until the tenured teachers have been alerted to the > existence of facts that may equate in law with the post-RIF cause of action . . . [and (2)] further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order `to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government.'

> [Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 587 (citations omitted)].

Although the notice afforded to Kaprow was unofficial and informal, the Court determined that, under the circumstances presented, additional or more specific notice would not have furthered the above objectives, but instead would have defeated the considerations of repose and interfered with the efficient administration of the school laws. Id. at 589. The Court, however, did express a preference for official notice by stating, "[i]n the future, it would be better if such information and notice is officially authorized and communicated by the local board." Id. at 588. Nonetheless, the Court determined that Kaprow had received sufficient notice which permitted him to make a judgment that the board had in fact taken "final and formal action." Id. at 588. As such, Kaprow's petition was dismissed as untimely.

In the instant matter, I am of the opinion that petitioner did not receive "adequate notice" of the fact that respondent had hired two individuals for the previously vacant LDTC positions until her attorney was notified by respondent via letter dated May 24, 1995.

The key concept in reaching this determination is reasonable reliance. The notice afforded in Kaprow, namely an unofficial letter from the board secretary, was sufficient to trigger the ninety day limitation period because petitioner could have reasonably relied upon the secretary's statements, the secretary being connected with the board in a businesslike capacity. It would thus not have been unreasonable for Kaprow to believe that the secretary's representations were truthful. Conversely, in the instant situation, casual conversation, especially when it originates from those who have no direct and apparent connection with the decision-makers on the board, is not the type of information that would generally lead to a reasonable belief in the accuracy and truthfulness of the statements made therein. Here, petitioner overheard certain statements and made diligent inquiry as to their validity by consulting her attorney. Her attorney also acted diligently by writing to the board on or about April 19th of that same month. Within 90 days of receiving confirmation from the Board of the factual accuracy of the statements she had overheard the previous month, she proceeded to file her petition. Clearly, she did not "sleep on her rights."

It is important to note that the purpose of the ninety day-rule is to encourage timely filing of viable claims, not to encourage the litigation of possible claims. Just as the failure to file a timely claim can interfere "with the efficient administration of the school laws," Kaprow, supra 131 N.J. at 589, so too can premature filing by opening the floodgates to petitions before a disagreement actually evolves into a controversy. See, Stockton v. Trenton Bd. of Ed., 210 N.J. Super. 150, 157-158 (App. Div. 1986).

The second objective underlying N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is to "further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order 'to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government.'" Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 587 (citation omitted). Here, the conversation overhead by petitioner is not the type of information which she could have reasonably relied upon to determine whether she had a valid claim.

In short, I CONCLUDE that the limitation period for petitioner's cause of action began running on May 24, 1995. Since her petition was filed on August 10, 1995, her petition is timely.

The substantive issue in this matter is whether petitioner had a statutory right to be appointed to one of the two LDTC positions which the Board created in September 1994. This issue turns on an interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12, which, in pertinent part, provides:

> If any teaching staff member shall be dismissed as a result of [a RIF], such person shall be and remain upon a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified and he shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs, and in determining seniority, and in computing length of service for reemployment, full recognition shall be given to previous years of service, ...

Petitioner claims that the LDTC endorsement on her educational services certificate qualified her for the LDTC position when and after she was "RIFFED" in 1993. As a result, she avers, the Board had a duty under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 to place her on a preferred eligible list and consequently offer her the position of LDTC. She asserts that the Board's failure to do so violated her tenure, seniority and recall rights under the applicable school laws.

The respondent counters by arguing that petitioner's appeal should be dismissed because she had no statutory right to be included on the preferred eligible list since she had no seniority credit for the position of LDTC. The Board essentially claims that a teaching staff member is required to acquire seniority in the position prior to the RIF in order to be placed on a preferred eligible list. Since petitioner did not possess any seniority rights as an LDTC at the time of the 1993 RIF, the Board contends, she had no statutory entitlement to be included on the preferred eligible list.

In support of its position, the Board cites Ellicott v. Board of Educ. of Frankford, Sussex County, 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991), where the court upheld a State Board determination that a teaching staff member had a tenure right to a newly created full-time LDTC position which was filled by a non-tenured teaching staff member. Id. at 345.

Ellicott involved a petitioner who held an educational services certificate with speech correctionist and LDTC endorsements. Id. at 345-346. In particular, she served as both a speech correctionist and LDTC for approximately one year during various periods between March 1981 and June 1982. Subsequently, she worked as a speech correctionist for four days per week until the 1986-87 term, at which time her employment was reduced to two days per week. Id. at 346. In June of 1988, the respondent board created a full-time LDTC position for the 1988-89 school year. Although the petitioner claimed an entitlement to the position by virtue of her tenure status, the respondent nevertheless hired a non-tenured teacher to fill the position. On appeal, the Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's determination that the petitioner was entitled to the LDTC position "following a RIF as against a non-tenured teaching staff member," stating that the petitioner's tenure extended to all endorsements held by her under her educational services certificate. Id. at 346-347.

Respondent attempts to utilize Ellicott for the proposition that a legal entitlement to employment under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 is predicated upon, among other things, seniority which was attained up and until the time the RIF occurred. Although this proposition is true to some extent,* Ellicott does not extend so far. Instead, that case merely stands for the proposition that "a [RIFFED] tenured teacher, at the time of her RIF, has tenure rights to a vacancy in a position that is within the scope of the teacher's certificate and endorsements thereon as of the date of the RIF." Francey v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Salem, Salem County, 286 N.J. Super. 354, 364 (App. Div. 1996). In sum, Ellicott does not hold, or even imply, that seniority rights must be attained at the time of the RIF in order to entitle a qualified individual to a position on the preferred eligible list.

Tenure and seniority are different concepts. Tenure is created by statute and is to be liberally construed to further its beneficial purpose of affording security to teaching staff who meet its standard of length of service. Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 221 N.J. Super. 239, 241 (App. Div. 1987) (citing Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982)). Tenure rights essentially define an individual's entitlements to a position or positions against non-tenured persons in the event that the tenured person's position is eliminated in a RIF. Seniority, on the other hand, is a statutory concept which applies to certain rights of tenured personnel and only has meaning when a reduction in force occurs. Thus, the concept of seniority applies to effectuate the order of preference of dismissal in a RIF as to tenured individuals. "It does not purport to create employment rights for non-tenured employees." Bednar, supra, 221 N.J. Super. at 242. Indeed, tenure may not be defeated by a seniority claim, as a tenured teacher is entitled to retention as against a non-tenured individual regardless of seniority, in the event of a RIF. Ibid.; Capodilupo v. West Orange Tp. Ed. Bd. 218 N.J. Super 510, 514 (App. Div. 1987).

The instant matter concerns a tenured employee and a non-tenured employee. The applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12, mandates that an individual who is dismissed as a result of a RIF is to be placed upon a preferred eligible list for reemployment in a position for which that person is qualified. The preferred eligible list will then be determined according to seniority. Here, petitioner was in effect dismissed from her job as a reading specialist and then transferred to another position under her instructional certificate. As a result, she was entitled to be placed upon a preferred eligibility list for reemployment under her educational services certificate, either as a reading specialist or an LDTC.

* Such a proposition is correct in the situation where two qualified teachers are competing for a position on the preferred eligible list because seniority will increase the preferential status of a tenured employee by establishing rights as against other tenured people. However, as is discussed below, seniority does not come into play unless tenured individuals are competing for the same position.

In sum, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 is a reemployment statute designed to reestablish a prior employment relationship. Francey v. Board of Educ. of Salem, Salem County, 286 N.J. Super. 354, 359 (App. Div. 1996). The petitioner in this case transferred from an employment position under her educational services certificate to another position under her instructional certificate. Assuming that this transfer constitutes a "dismissal" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12, petitioner was entitled to be placed upon a preferred eligible list for positions under her educational services certificate for which she was "qualified." Since it is "clear that 'qualified' within the scope of tenure rights means qualified as to the particular position in which a teacher has attained tenure and all other positions within the scope of the teacher's teaching certificate and endorsements thereto, . . . regardless of whether one has actual experience in that area . . .," id. at 358 (citations omitted), there is no dispute that petitioner was qualified for the LDTC position at the time of the RIF. Thus, the only relevance seniority has in regard to petitioner's presence on a preferred eligible list is where on that list she should be placed. Nonetheless, by virtue of her attaining tenure for that position, her right to it is superior to that of individuals with no tenure.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons expressed above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner should have been re-employed by the Board in one of the two new LDTC positions on September 1, 1994 and that her petition seeking instatement to the position of LDTC, retroactive to September 1, 1994, should be GRANTED.

It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

MYRNA ARNOLD,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions and the replies thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Initially, the Board takes exception to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) findings of fact on the issue of the timeliness of the Petition of Appeal in this matter. Here, the Board asserts that "[t]he ALJ erroneously found that Petitioner's knowledge was limited to an overheard conversation." (Board's Exceptions at p. 2) However, the Board urges the Commissioner to recognize the language in the Petition of Appeal[1], and to "find as fact that Petitioner knew early in April of 1995 that the Board was employing two non-tenured LDTCs [Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant]." (Id.)

[1] The Petition of Appeal states, in pertinent part, "In April, 1995, after Petitioner discovered that Respondent had hired two (2) non-tenured L.D.T./C.'s, effective September 1, 1994, Petitioner, by her attorney, wrote to Respondent to exercise her tenure and seniority rights." (Petition of Appeal at paragraph 7, cited in the Board's Exceptions at p. 2)

The Board further argues that, inasmuch as the ALJ erroneously found that petitioner's knowledge was limited to an overheard conversation, the ALJ, on page three of the initial decision, incorrectly framed the relevant issue as to the timeliness of the petition. The Board posits that "the relevant question is whether this knowledge constituted adequate notice to Petitioner that she had a tenure claim against the Board." (Id. at p. 3) The Board maintains that petitioner, in early April of 1995, knew that the Board had hired the nontenured LDTC's and the letter from her attorney to the Board, dated May 24, 1995, "was not a request for information but was an attempt to negotiate a settlement." (Id.) Thus, the Board urges the Commissioner to conclude that petitioner had adequate notice in early April 1995, so as to constitute the start of the 90-day limitations period.

As to the substantive issue in this matter, the Board again argues, as it did before the ALJ, that "since Petitioner has no seniority as an LDTC, her name should not have been on the preferred eligible list for the position of LDTC." (Id. at p. 5) The Board adds, that it > must concede that the [s]eniority evolution appears to have emasculated the circumscribed tenure right recognized by the State Board in Capodilupo and commented upon in Geiling-Hurley and has created a new and expanded preferred eligible concept. In light of dicta appearing in Dennery v. Board of Educ., 131 N.J. 626 (1993) and the Appellate Division's use of this dicta in recent decisions, it is difficult for the Board to criticize the ALJ's reliance on the concepts of tenure contained in Francey v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Salem, 286 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1996). (Id. at p. 6)

In reply, petitioner argues that the Board has "totally ignored" her testimony, subject to cross-examination, which established that "she overheard a special education teacher talking to others in the room that the long-time building LDT/C was being replaced by a new LDT/C as a result of a district reorganization." (Petitioner's Reply at p. 2) Petitioner further contends that her testimony showed that, but for the gossip she overheard, "she would not have had the slightest hint that the Board had hired the two non-tenured LDT/C's." (Id.) Petitioner affirms that neither her principal nor any central office administrator informed her of the hirings. Her first communication from anyone in authority, petitioner attests, was the letter her counsel received from the Board's counsel. (Id.) Moreover, petitioner observes that the Board offered no rebuttal witness to her testimony, and the ALJ found her to be a credible witness.

Further, as for the language set forth in the Petition of Appeal, petitioner argues that pleadings are not evidence. (Id.) Petitioner adds, "Counsel's letter to the Board's Assistant Superintendent may be evidential but must fail in [the] face of unrebutted testimony that amplifies or clarifies counsel's statements." (Id.) Petitioner reasons that the ALJ's analysis and consideration of the Court's guidance in Kaprow, supra, was thorough and thoughtful. (Id. at p. 3) Thus, petitioner argues that the ALJ's conclusion as to the timeliness of this petition should be affirmed. (Id. at p. 5)

With respect to the substantive issue herein, petitioner observes that the Board "all but concedes that the Administrative Law Judge's decision on the merits is correct." (Id.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, including a transcript of the hearing conducted on April 10, 1996, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. With respect to the timeliness of the petition, the Commissioner finds that the outcome in this matter would not be altered by the Board's proposed change in the issue as framed. That is, even under the facts as asserted by the Board, the knowledge which petitioner acquired in April of 1995 of the hiring of the LDTC's was insufficient to constitute adequate notice of a potential claim against the Board, where said knowledge was reached pursuant to a casual conversation in the faculty room, and where it originated from persons "who have no direct and apparent connection with the decision-makers on the board ." (Initial Decision at p. 5)

The Commissioner further agrees that petitioner was entitled, by virtue of having acquired tenure under her educational services certificate, to be reemployed subsequent to her RIF, in one of the two LDTC positions which became available in June of 1994, and which were subsequently filled by teachers with no tenure in the District, effective September 1, 1994.[2]

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the Board is directed to place petitioner in one of the aforementioned positions, and to reimburse petitioner for lost pay and benefits, as appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Date of Mailing, September 17, 1996

[2] While page 3 of the initial decision indicates that the positions in question became available on September 1, 1995, the record supports the conclusion that respondent hired the two persons to fill the LDTC positions effective September 1, 1994. (Stipulation of Facts, J-1)

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE ("Agreement") is made on this day of , 1996, by and between respondent, the Livingston Township Board of Education (the "Board") and Petitioner, Anthony Neale ("Petitioner"), in a matter before the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey, known as Neale v. Livingston Board of Education.

WHEREAS Petitioner alleged that he was due certain monies from the Board in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1; and

WHEREAS the Board denied Petitioner's request and determined that Neale was not entitled to such payment; and

WHEREAS this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing on the matter before Administrative Law Judge Thomas Clancy; and

WHEREAS the parties desire to amicably resolve this dispute in order to avoid the risk, cost and inconvenience of litigation;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises set forth below, the Board and Petitioner agree to the following terms and conditions:

1. The Board agrees to pay Petitioner the total sum of fourteen thousand dollars and no cents ($14,000.00).

2. By this Agreement, Petitioner withdraws his request for a hearing with prejudice in the above matter, and further stipulates that he is abandoning and dismissing with prejudice all claims brought against the Board in this matter. Counsel for Petitioner agrees that he will draft and file all papers necessary to withdraw the request for a hearing on notice to the Board.

3. This Agreement is made without any admissions of liability or responsibility by any party hereto and shall not be admissible in any legal proceeding except to enforce its terms.

4. The actions of the parties in the compromise and settlement of the subject claim do not constitute past practice or precedent and may not be used in any future hearing or judicial proceeding.

5. The above is subject to the approval of the Board by way of Resolution.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this Agreement.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EDISON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, Petitioner, v. ROBERT A. LILLO, Respondent.	On Referral from the Commissioner of Education, New Jersey Department of Education REVISED STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND DISMISSAL WITHOUT PREJUDICE

WHEREAS, on November 22, 1995, petitioner, the Board of Education of the Township of Edison (the "Board"), filed certified tenure charges against respondent, Robert A. Lillo ("Lillo"), with the Commissioner of Education alleging that as a tenured maintenance tool person in the employ of the Board, Lillo had exhibited conduct unbecoming of such an employee as described in the said tenure charges and seeking the termination of Lillo's employment by the Board; and

WHEREAS, on December 26, 1995, Lillo filed an answer to the said tenure charges with the Commissioner and the Commissioner thereafter referred the matter to the Office of administrative Law as a contested case; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Lillo have conferred with respect to this matter and have mutually agreed upon certain terms by which this matter may be settled, such terms being set forth herein; and

WHEREAS, the settlement of this matter is reasonable and in the public interest because the settlement involves Lillo's retirement from the Board's employ and the payment to Lillo of retroactive salary to which Lillo is entitled as well as unused vacation days, and the settlement will avoid the cost and expense and risk of having this matter proceed through the formal hearing process;

IT IS hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the Board and Lillo as follows:

1. Lillo shall retire from the employ of the Board effective as of November 16, 1995. Within 10 days of the date of this Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal Without Prejudice by the parties, Lillo shall (1) formally notify the Board in writing of his retirement from its employ as of November 16, 1995 and (2) if he has not already done so, file an application with the Public Employee Retirement System ("PERS") for disability retirement as of November 16, 1995, which may include such other retirement benefits as may be available to Lillo from PERS. The Board shall cooperate in Lillo's application for disability retirement to PERS.

2. Within 15 days of the Board's receipt of the notice of retirement and a copy of the completed and executed retirement application filed with PERS required by Paragraph 1, the Board shall, consistent with law and the terms of the collective bargaining agreement which pertains to Lillo's employment by the Board, pay to Lillo (a) the sum of $20,543.60, less the usual tax and other salary deductions, which the parties agree represents the value of retroactive salary due to Lillo for the period from May 26, 1995 to November 16, 1995, and (b) the sum of $1,281.06, less the usual tax and other salary deductions, which the parties agree represents the value of Lillo's accumulated and unused vacation days as of November 16, 1995.

3. Lillo hereby waives all rights to continued employment or reemployment by the Board, including but not limited to any and all rights based on tenure and/or seniority and any and all rights to be recalled to employment by the Board or appear on any recall or other list of employees eligible for employment or reemployment by the Board. Lillo also hereby waives and releases any and all claims, whether known or unknown, against the Board which arise out of or relate to his employment by the Board, including but not limited to claims for unpaid salary or other employment benefits. Similarly, the Board hereby waives and releases any and all claims, whether known or unknown, against Lillo which arise out of or relate to his employment by the Board.

4. This matter is hereby dismissed without prejudice. Notwithstanding the foregoing and any provision in this Stipulation of Settlement to the contrary, should PERS deny Lillo's application for retirement, then (a) Lillo's retirement and notice thereof referred to in Paragraph 1 above shall be of no force nor effect, (b) the Board shall have the right to reinstate tenure charges against Lillo seeking the termination of his employment with the Board and/or such other relief as may be appropriate, including, but not limited to the recovery of the payment referred to in Paragraph 2 above, and (c) the waivers and releases referred to in Paragraph 3 above shall be of no force nor effect and shall not be binding upon Lillo or the Board.

IN THE MATTER OF THE DISQUALIFICATION FROM SCHOOL EMPLOYMENT OF VINCENT L. LINDSEY

Vincent L. Lindsey, pro se

New Jersey Department of Education, appearing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.6(a), for respondent

Record Closed: July 16, 1996 Decided: July 31, 1996

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant, Vincent L. Lindsey, was employed as a custodian by the Teaneck Board of Education (BOE). On January 29, 1996, the New Jersey Department of Education (Department) notified appellant that a fingerprint search conducted by the New Jersey State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) had revealed that he was convicted in the state of New Jersey on November 20, 1987 for the possession of cocaine and sentenced to four years of imprisonment. Also, appellant was convicted on January 22, 1993 for possession of marijuana and sentenced to five years probation, 150 hours of community service, one year suspension of his driver's license and $1,100 fine. The convictions disqualified appellant from continuing employment with any school or other institution under the supervision of the Department. N.J.S.A. 18a:6-7.1. Appellant's criminal history check also revealed two disqualifying convictions for possession of a weapon in 1989 and 1993.

Appellant appealed the decision of the Department to disqualify him from continued employment based on the grounds of rehabilitation. The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 9, 1996, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14b-12-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1-13.

The issue is whether appellant can demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that the is rehabilitated.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

Appellant does not dispute his criminal record. Thus, I FIND the following as FACT:

1. On November 20, 1987, appellant was convicted of possession of cocaine and sentenced to four years imprisonment.
2. On January 22, 1993, appellant was convicted for possession of marijuana and sentenced to five years of probation, 150 hours of community service, one suspension of his driver's license and $1,100 fine.
3. On May 18, 1989 and January 22, 1993, appellant was convicted for possession of a weapon.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Lindsey was born in New York City's Harlem on July 22, 1965. He lived with his parents and seven siblings. His father was a police officer with the New York City Housing Authority. Lindsey's father was also an alcoholic and an abusive husband and parent. Lindsey's rebellion against his father's abusive behavior caused constant confrontations between father and son. By the age of 13, Lindsey's home was the streets of Teaneck where the family had moved in 1970. He had a "rep" in the community as a "juvenile delinquent" and a "bad boy."

In December 1986, Lindsey was arrested for possession of cocaine and sentenced to four years imprisonment. He served three years of the sentence in Bergen County Jail, Yardsville Correctional Facility and the Wagoner Youth Correction Facility, a/k/a Bordentown. While at Bordentown, Lindsey joined Narcotics Anonymous (NA) and has remained drug free. He also joined Alcoholics Anonymous (AA). He was on parole during the last year of his sentence and was placed at the Pyramid Halfway House in Newark, New Jersey. He continued to attend NA and enrolled in Essex County College.

Lindsey explained the circumstances surrounding his conviction in May 1991. He and his brother attended a party in Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. Lindsey's brother-in-law offered him a ride home to Teaneck. They were stopped by the Englewood Cliffs police who searched the vehicle and found 3 ounces of marijuana and cocaine in the trunk. The police also found a gun three or four feet from the car. Lindsey pled guilty and was sentenced to five years probation.

After the second incident, Lindsey vowed to stay away from his old associates and negative influences. In 1992, Lindsey earned his GED from Essex County College and completed three semesters in the radiology program. In 1993 Lindsey married. He and his wife, Sherri, have two children, ages 2 years old and 16 months old. They are expecting their third child in December 1996. Lindsey and his family live in Teaneck.

Lindsey is involved in numerous community activities. The most notable is a program started by Lindsey in 1995, "Box Team for Kids" a/k/a "Teaneck School of Hard Knocks." Lindsey established the boxing program for 12 to 17 years old boys and girls to develop their self-confidence, pride, and physical skills. His boxing program has gained wide support and encouragement from the City of Hackensack, PAL, and Teaneck Recreation Department. The prior administration of the Bergen County Prosecutor's office helped to fund the program.

Lindsey also explained his personal reasons for creating the program. Having overcome a lifestyle of drug use, crime and "street life," Lindsey believes that adolescents who are in a similar position today as he was 25 years ago need a mentor and a means to turn their lives around. Lindsey is their mentor. Walking through public housing projects, he observed no children playing outside and youngsters wearing tee shirts with negative messages. Looking back on his own life, the connection had been made; these kids were heading down the same path that he had been. Thus, he has taken under his wing a group of students, ages 12 to 18, whom he describes as "at risk youths," He leads them through activities such as calisthenics, jogging and swimming. Parents also participate in the exercises with their children.

Lindsey is also active in his church and works with youth groups and senior citizens. Lindsey's community activism and his rapport with teenagers have been recognized by people who interact with him on a daily basis. Their attestation to his rehabilitation and good character are summarized herein:

> Over the past several years, Mr. Lindsey has worked successfully on a volunteer basis with high school students and young adults in Teaneck and the surrounding community. Please be aware that his efforts have not gone unnoticed by the Teaneck School District and the community. I urge you to review his application at your earliest convenience. . . .

> I am writing this letter in support of Vincent Lindsey who is a candidate for employment with the Teaneck Board of Education (BOE). I have known Mr. Lindsey for over 20 years. Although Mr. Lindsey has used poor judgment in past years, it is evident that he has been able to turn his life around in a positive direction.

Recently, I have had the pleasure to work with Mr. Lindsey in a community boxing program to help troubled youth. Mr. Lindsey has served as a positive role model an influence in the lives of these youths.

I feel the employment of Mr. Lindsey by the Teaneck Board of Education would benefit our school system and allow him to continue to serve as a role model to our youth.

Sincerely yours,

William Brogdan, Lieutenant, Detective Bureau Commander, Township of Teaneck

On January 22, 1993, Mr. Lindsey was sentenced on a charge of possession of a weapon/pistol without permit and possession of marijuana with intent to distribute. Since January 1993, Mr. Lindsey has been under the immediate suppression of the undersigned senior probation office. . . Lindsey has reported as scheduled and has shown a very positive attitude to his adjustment to the rules and condition of probation. Mr. Lindsey has been tested for drug use and all random samples have been returned as negative.

During the past three years Mr. Lindsey has always demonstrated the positive attitude and motivation towards bettering himself and his family.

At the present time, Mr. Lindsey is responsible for reporting to our office on a once a month basis. Initially, Vincent was responsible for reporting on a weekly basis and adhered to that schedule. However, due to Mr. Lindsey's positive adjustment to the rules of probation, he is now classified as a minimum probation case and his supervision requires him to report monthly. Therefore, the undersigned officer is glad to report that Mr. Lindsey is making a very serious effort in rehabilitating himself and it appears that this time that the goals that Mr. Lindsey has set for himself, demonstrates the positive direction which should lead to a favorable outcome for Mr. Lindsey as well as the community.

Very truly yours,

Frank Peco, Senior Probation Officer,
Superior Court of New Jersey, Bergen County

This letter is written in support of an appeal for Vincent Lindsey, a candidate for employment with the Teaneck Board of Education, . . . I have worked closely with Vincent Lindsey over the past 8 months and have found him to be a positive influence in a variety of voluntary efforts to assist students who might otherwise come in contact with the criminal justice system or become school dropouts. I believe that Vincent Lindsey has rehabilitated himself to the point where he can be approved for regular employment and contact with students. He has been a positive influence in our community and has worked hard to develop creative and effective programs to involve students.

There are weeks when I see him three or four times a week. These contacts are always positive, focused and with purpose. He has not displayed any characteristics which are abnormal, problematic or unusual that would lead me to question his motivation, interest or that would make me have concern that his rehabilitation has not been complete. He has a mature outlook on his situation and real concern for the future. I believe he deserves action on his appeal.

Sincerely yours,

James R. Delaney, Principal,
Teaneck High School

On behalf of Vincent Lindsey, former student in Teaneck Public Schools, I would like to make reference to the outstanding leadership he has assumed with many of our male students at Teaneck High School. Vincent has been very open regarding his personal experiences and previous record, attempting to make a positive impact on our at risk students. He has single-handedly organized a boxing unit with very positive guidelines, chaperoned many of our after school functions, and worked in cooperation with our recreation department. Vincent needs to be commended for his efforts in instituting positive programs.

Very truly yours,

Cheryl Miller-Porter, Teacher/Dean,

Please accept this letter as a character reference for Vincent Lindsey. For the past few years, I have witnessed Vincent in various roles attempting to work with and reclaim "troubled youths." He is a mature, hardworking individual who has demonstrated a talent for communicating with young people in a way they can understand.

Sincerely,

Richard McClean, Teacher/Dean,
Teaneck High School

It is my pleasure to write this character reference on behalf of Vincent Lindsey. . . . I have known Vincent Lindsey for several years and found him to be a kind, decent and respected young man who cares about the positive development of our Teaneck Youth. Vincent establishes and supervises the Teaneck Ring Aerobics program here at Thomas Jefferson Middle School which is an afternoon conditioning program for adolescents. The program is co-sponsored by the Teaneck Recreation Department and the Teaneck High School forum.

As the principal of Thomas Jefferson, I can truly say that he is always cooperative, dependable and responsible in running this program and makes sure that the participants do what is expected of them. They seem to like him, and they work well with him. I am proud of what Vincent is attempting to do and like interacting with him. He always seem so positive and energetic. Simply put, Vincent Lindsey has much to offer as a responsible citizen and I am convinced that he will continued to do so.

Sincerely,

Joseph O. White, Principal,
Thomas Jefferson Middle School

I have known Vincent Lindsey for at least ten (10) years in my position as guidance counselor and presently as Associate Principal at Teaneck High School. During that time, I have watched him grow from an outgoing directionless adolescent to a young man who has acquired serious respect for himself and his community. One of Vincent's greatest assets has been his ability to have empathy for and a sincere understanding of young people. We have utilized and depended on him in countless crisis situations where other forms of communication were closed. We have truly benefited from his efforts.

For the past several years, Vincent has spearheaded a boxing program in our community, virtually single-handedly. He has lobbied for funds, counseled students and coached on a less than shoestring budget experiencing considerable success.

Vincent's action and his involvement in positive activities indicate to me that he has reached a high level of maturity. It is my pleasure to recommend him with confidence and my complete endorsement.

Yours truly,

Charles A. Cob, Teaneck High School

Mr. Lindsey was baptized and has been a faithful member of the Genesis Community Baptist Church for the past three years. He has been working with the Youth Ministry of the church as well as attending Bible Study and church worship services. Mr. Lindsey has proven himself to be biblically sound and spiritually filled.

Although Mr. Lindsey made inappropriate choices in his earlier years, he now focuses on positive ventures and wants to help other young people to make positive choices in their lives. He is always available to work with our young people and enjoys sharing the Bible with them.

> Mr. Lindsey is moving in the right direction now and we support him in his effort to continue to make positive advances in his life. The entire Genesis Church family believes that Mr. Lindsey should be granted the opportunity to continue his work with the Teaneck Board of Education.

Lindsey candidly testified about his past lifestyle and his rehabilitation. He believes that time has allowed him to mature and reform his old habits. Family and church are important to him. Lindsey's abiding faith in God and a self-made promise to live a moral and straight life under the teachings of his church have been a strong influence. Lindsey and his wife enjoy a close marital relationship of mutual respect, love and emotional support for each other. Further, they are committed to rearing their children in a home guided by their religious beliefs and values. Lindsey believes that his determination to turn his life around has enabled him to become a positive role model for teenagers at risk. He sums up his appeal for employment with straightforward conviction:

> My past and the mistakes I made. . . serve as a learning experiences that made me want to better myself to secure a stable future for me and my family. Having fathered three children of my own, their upbringing and futures mean everything to me, endangering the welfare of a child would be an unthinkable well beyond my train of thought. My only hope in terms of your considering my appeal is that you read each of the letters enclosed with a clear mind and an objective heart. The time and energy that I have put into rehabilitating myself is something that I hope will not be in vain. Regardless of the results of my appeal, I will remain committed to my goals which by the will of God will be to better myself and all of mankind. . .

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 18A:6-7.1 prohibits the employment by the Department of Education and Boards of Education of persons who have been convicted of certain crimes and offenses. However, if the individual has affirmatively demonstrated to the Commissioner clear and convincing evidence of his or her rehabilitation, the individual shall not be disqualified from employment. In determining whether an individual has affirmatively demonstrated rehabilitation, the following factors shall be considered:

1. The nature and responsibility of the position in which the convicted individual would hold;

2. The nature and seriousness of the offense;

3. The circumstances under which the offense occurred;

4. The date of the offense;

5. The age of the individual when the offense was committed;

6. Whether the offense was an isolated or repeated incident;

7. Any social condition which may have contributed to the offense;

8. Any evidence of rehabilitation, including good conduct in prison or in the community, counseling or psychiatric treatment received, acquisition of additional academic or vocational schooling, participation in correctional work release programs, or the recommendations of person who have had the individual under their supervision.

Lindsey seeks a position with the Teaneck Board of Education as a custodian. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Joseph McDougall, 1974, S.L.D. 178, the Commissioner stated that:

> A school janitor occupies a position of trust and responsibility necessitating high standards of dependability and morality. Its function far exceeds opening and closing the school house and keeping it clean and tidy. The safety and welfare of the children may depend on the proper discharge of his duties.

Because Lindsey has developed a rapport with teenagers through his boxing program and other community activities, he will be called upon to interact with students in crisis situations. The students and staff have confidence in his ability to reach out and communicate with them. Students trust him and their parents welcome him into their children's lives. Consequently, Lindsey will be more than a custodian at the high school. He will be entrusted, to some extent, with the care and custody of school children. He will mold habits and attitudes and influence the opinion of students who come into his presence. Indeed, he will hold a position demanding public trust.

Lindsey spent four years in prison for possession of drugs and is currently serving a five year probation for possession of marijuana and a weapon without a permit. In addition to his drug addiction, he had a reputation of being the neighborhood "hoodlum." I am persuaded by his candid and straightforward testimony that he has been rehabilitated. Indeed, he joined NA and AA programs to combat his addiction to drugs and has been successful in remaining drug-free. As attested to by his parole officer, Lindsey has not broken his vow to stay away from his former associates and other negative influences. The evidence supports a conclusion that Lindsey is no longer the person that he used to be. His community work and his commitment to his family and church manifest a changed man. Indeed, it has been 10 years since the first conviction which resulted in imprisonment. Lindsey's parole officer has seen a serious effort to reform and he is confident that Lindsey will make it.

Public officials and educators who have observed Lindsey in the community and the school setting believe that he will be a positive and necessary role model to the students in Teaneck High School. They have attested to his ability to communicate with the students and will continue to work closely with him. Their comments, praises, and recommendations are testimony to Lindsey's good character. Lindsey's efforts and his commitment to the neighborhood boxing program speak for itself. He is applauded by town officials, law enforcement officers and parents.

Lindsey has lived on both sides of the fence and chose to reform his unacceptable lifestyle. He is, perhaps, more capable than others to guide children who are at risk towards the right direction. From a societal point of view, to disqualify Lindsey from employment by the Board of Education would be a detrimental loss to the students. He has demonstrated through his personal accomplishments that he is not the same person today as he was ten years ago or even five years ago. He has earned the respect and confidence of his superiors, peers, students and their parents. Lindsey is a person worthy of employment by the Teaneck Board of Education.

Based on the whole of the record, I CONCLUDE that appellant has affirmatively demonstrated his rehabilitation by clear and convincing evidence within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18a:6-7.1(e).

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Department's action to disqualify appellant from employment with the Teaneck Board of Education is REVERSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE	:
DISQUALIFICATION FROM	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL EMPLOYMENT OF	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner cannot concur with the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that Mr. Lindsey has demonstrated rehabilitation by clear and convincing evidence in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 and is, therefore, qualified for school employment within the intent of the criminal history record check laws. Rather, in examining the evidence presented in the record and at the hearing against the statutory factors which must be considered in reviewing an individual's assertion of rehabilitation, the Commissioner is unable to find Mr. Lindsey qualified within the intent of the statute at this time.

Initially, the Commissioner observes that Mr. Lindsey's first disqualifying offense was in December 1986, when he was 21 years old, for Possession of Cocaine. Court records indicate that Mr. Lindsey was sentenced on November 20, 1987 to serve five years probation. Although apparently not explicated at the hearing, the record further shows that Mr. Lindsey was charged with violating the terms of his probation by leaving an in-patient treatment facility on April 12, 1988 and by failing to pay requisite court-ordered fines. (New Jersey Superior Court, Bergen County, State of New Jersey v. Vincent L. Lindsey, a.k.a. Delroy Banton, Judgment of Conviction and Order for Commitment, S.B.I. No. 331-900-B) Additionally, on August 20, 1988, Mr. Lindsey was charged with two nondisqualifying crimes, Felony Resisting an Officer and Felony Possession of a Weapon, for which he was sentenced to serve four years in confinement. Mr. Lindsey testified that he served three of the four years of his sentence. (Initial Decision at p. 3)* In 1991, Mr. Lindsey was charged with, and later convicted of, Possession of Marijuana with Intent to Distribute, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-5b(1). On January 22, 1993, he was sentenced, inter alia, to serve five years on probation. Notwithstanding his explanation of the circumstances surrounding this offense, the Commissioner finds extremely disturbing Mr. Lindsey's pattern of finding himself on the wrong side of the law, while apparently still on probation and under the supervision of the Court.

With respect to the nature and responsibility of the position Mr. Lindsey wishes to occupy, although a custodial position is not generally one where the incumbent has direct involvement with students in that he is responsible for their care, supervision or instruction, the Commissioner has been consistently mindful that such a position nevertheless affords an individual significant and otherwise unsupervised access to children, a consideration which must not be minimized when examining rehabilitation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. In the Matter of the Disqualification from School Employment of Gregory Campbell, decided by the Commissioner January 30, 1996, affirmed by the State Board of Education July 10, 1996. That

* It is herein noted that both the initial decision and the personal statements of Mr. Lindsey, suggest that the four-year sentence was imposed upon conviction for the first charge, Possession of Cocaine. The Court records, however, do not substantiate this view.

Mr. Lindsey has assumed a direct role in working with children via his boxing program serves to underscore the Commissioner's concerns in this regard. Finally, the Commissioner is continually mindful of his responsibility to ensure that the students in this state are provided with environments which are safe and free of alcohol and other drugs.

Based on the above considerations, the Commissioner cannot be persuaded, as he must by law, that Mr. Lindsey has, at this time, demonstrated rehabilitation by clear and convincing evidence, notwithstanding his evidence of progress in this regard. This decision does not, however, preclude Mr. Lindsey from later seeking a determination of rehabilitation after a passage of sufficient time to demonstrate that he has ultimately removed himself from all involvement in criminal activity.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is reversed and Mr. Lindsey's disqualification from school employment is sustained.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, nontenured Director of Education, alleged Board's nonrenewal of her contract was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable and procedurally deficient.

ALJ found that although Board was not in full compliance with the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), it would serve no productive end for the Board to re-conduct the hearing and to then deliberate in public as the deliberations conducted in private are available for public review. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11 and the facts relevant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-12 did not operate in the within matter to grant petitioner a contract of employment for the next succeeding school year. ALJ found that the Board's reasons given for nonreemployment were advanced in good faith. Respondent's motion for summary decision dismissing the petition was granted.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and directed Board to conduct any nonreemployment hearings it may hereafter hold in full compliance with the OPMA.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY,

Respondent.

Melissa Vance Kirsch, Esq., for petitioner

James P. Granello, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: May 7, 1996 Decided: August 5, 1996*

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on September 21, 1995, when J. Joyce C. Payne (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order

---

* An extension of time for issuing the initial decision was requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10c.

determining that the actions of the Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro (hereinafter respondent) in failing to continue her employment were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable and procedurally deficient. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on September 26, 1995, and on September 29, 1995, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F- 1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on December 5, 1995, at which time the following were identified as issues for determination at hearing:

1. Did respondent violate petitioner's contractual or statutory rights in failing to renew her contract as specifically alleged in the petition of appeal?

2. If the answer to the previous question is yes, what are the appropriate remedies?

On February 2, 1996 respondent filed a notice of motion for summary decision with supporting papers. A response and cross-motion for summary decision on behalf of petitioner were filed on March 11, 1996, and petitioner's supplemental certification was received on March 13, 1996. Respondent replied by letter memorandum, dated March 14, 1996 and received on March 18, 1996. Thereafter, oral argument on the cross-motions for summary decision took place by telephone conference call on May 7, 1996, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to a determination of this matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Petitioner became employed by respondent in the position Director of Education pursuant to an individualized employment contract which provided, inter alia, for a term of employment to run from the first day of September 1992 to the thirtieth day of June 1995, a salary of $73,800 per annum, and termination of the contract without cause upon sixty days written notice and the payment of one year's salary. Petitioner performed her duties for the entire contract period. At the end of her third year of employment, respondent did not provide to petitioner either of the notices required in N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, i.e., respondent did not advise petitioner on or before May 15, 1995, either that she was being offered a contract of employment for the next succeeding school year or that such employment would not be offered. Petitioner and respondent's superintendent of schools thereafter proceeded to function under the apparent assumption that petitioner's employment would continue. On April 27, 1995, petitioner advised the district of her intention to take vacation days in July and August 1995. On May 16, 1995, petitioner received a letter from the superintendent recommending her for a trip to South Africa to take place during the summer. On June 6, 1995, petitioner received a memo from the superintendent assigning her to projects, some of which were due in July of 1995.

On June 14, 1995, petitioner received a notice from respondent that her reappointment might be discussed by the Board of Education at its conference meeting of June 20, 1995 and/or its public meeting of June 26, 1995. Petitioner appeared at the June 20, 1995 work shop meeting and answered questions concerning a program that a principal under her supervision had placed into operation without the knowledge or consent of the administration. At this meeting petitioner advised respondent that she had advised the principal in question that it was necessary for her to obtain Board approval before instituting the program and that it was not until April 24, 1995 that petitioner discovered that the program had in fact been put into place in January 1995. Petitioner acknowledged that she had not instructed the principal in writing concerning the necessity for obtaining Board approval. She also advised the Board members that she had no idea that the program had been put in place. It was also revealed during this meeting that although petitioner was aware that the principal had written letters directly to the County Superintendent and the Commissioner of Education concerning the accelerated program and petitioner had received copies, petitioner had not reprimanded the principal in writing for contacting the County Superintendent or the Commissioner without Board approval. Petitioner advised that as of the date of the meeting she had received no reply from the principal to a written memorandum, dated May 15, 1995, requesting a written report by May 17, 1995, concerning the resolution of meetings with parents to notify them of their students' non-accelerated status or to one she had sent her on May 19, 1995, criticizing the inappropriate nature of a letter the principal had sent to parents who thought their students had been enrolled in an accelerated program. "She did not respond to my letter, but I will be meeting with her on Thursday morning," petitioner replied.

At the regular public Board of Education meeting on June 26, 1995, petitioner's name appeared on the list of non-tenured personnel recommended by the superintendent for reappointment and, therefore, tenure. Petitioner's name was separated from the group and the recorded roll call vote on the motion to reappoint her failed with four Board members voting yes and five board members abstaining.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18:27-3.2, by letter dated July 11, 1995, petitioner's counsel requested "a written statement of reasons for her non-employment within the timeframe prescribed by law." By letter dated August 2, 1995, respondent's counsel provided those reasons as follows:

> As Board negotiator/special labor counsel, I have been asked to respond to your letter dated July 11, 1995 in which you requested that your client, Ms. Payne, be provided with a written statement of reasons for her non-reemployment with the Willingboro Board of Education.
>
> Please be advised that on Tuesday, August 1, 1995 those members of the Board of Education who abstained from voting on Ms. Payne's employment at the Board meeting held on June 26, 1995 issued their statement during the public portion of the meeting as was requested by your client pursuant to her letter dated July 31, 1995 directed to the Board Secretary.
>
> The reasons given last evening were as follows:
>
> 1. Mrs. Payne would have received tenure within the district had she been reappointed. Tenure must be considered as giving someone permanent employment. A reappointment vote which will result in an administrator receiving tenure demands the highest level of scrutiny of the individual employee's entire employment history > by an responsible board member. They would not grant tenure to anyone that they had concerns about.

> 2. Mrs. Payne did not adequately manage or oversee the Alternate School and its principal, as were her responsibilities as Director of Education. The board discovered in Spring 1995 that an illegal, unapproved accelerated grade-skipping program had been set up in the Alternate School. Such a program needs board and state approvals which had not been received. The district could have failed state monitoring for this serious infraction. In addition, once discovered, Mrs. Payne did not take adequate steps to make sure this mistake was honestly communicated to parents and students, resulting in a situation that further damaged the credibility of the district, the superintendent, and the board. Mrs. Payne met with the board of education on June 20, 1995 and reviewed these matters with the board of education in executive session.

By letter dated August 11, 1995, petitioner's counsel requested that petitioner be granted an informal appearance before the Willingboro Board of Education. She also advised that petitioner wished to exercise her rights under the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)(8), to have her informal appearance before the respondent held in public. Respondent's letter advising that the informal appearance had been scheduled for August 31, 1995 at 8:00 p.m. concluded, "Furthermore, you are advised that the Board has reserved its right to deliberate on this matter in closed session on the date in question." Petitioner's counsel responded by letter dated August 29, 1995, providing in pertinent:

> First, Mrs. Payne desires to have any discussion of this matter by the Board of Education done in public in accordance with the Open Public Meetings Act. That decision rests with Mrs. Payne, not the Board, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2(h) which specifically references N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)(8).

At the special meeting held on August 31, 1995, petitioner and several witnesses testified on her behalf before the Board. At the conclusion of the presentation, the Board went into executive session where it discussed with its attorney the procedural merits of petitioner's request to observe their deliberations. They also discussed the merits of petitioner's presentation and thereafter voted 5-4 to stand by its previous decision not to continue petitioner's employment. Petitioner was notified in writing on September 1, 1995, that respondent determined to stand by its previous decision not to renew her employment for the 1995-96 school year. The within matter followed.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was recently modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, and KRA Insurance Agency, Inc., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R. 4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exits a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter both parties agree that if respondent's actions in failing to continue petitioner's employment constitute a termination of petitioner's contractual or statutory employment rights, as opposed to non-reappointment of a non-tenured employee, then a hearing must be conducted to determine whether the termination was with or without cause. Because the discussion which follows concludes that respondent's actions simply constituted a non-reappointment of a non-tenured employee, however, whatever factual disputes exist with respect to cause or no cause for termination are not relevant to a determination of this matter. During oral argument of this matter on May 7, 1996, petitioner took the position that even if the discontinuation of petitioner's employment constituted non-reappointment, as opposed to termination, nevertheless a hearing would be necessary to explore the factual circumstances giving rise respondent's conclusion that petitioner failed to supervise the principal of the alternative school. As a matter of law, those facts, whatever they may be, are not material to a determination of petitioner's rights in a non-reemployment situation. In Donaldson v. Board of Ed. of No. Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236 (1974), when the Supreme Court determined that a local board of education should be required to provide a statement of reasons for non-renewal of non-tenured staff members, it did so with the explicit recognition of the local board's broad discretionary authority in the granting of tenure. Subsequent to Donaldson, the court in Dore v. Bedminster Tp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 456 (App. Div. 1982), emphasized the broad nature of the board's discretion: "Implicit in this language (Donaldson's) is the recognition by the court that absent constitutional constraints or legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers, local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board." N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2 provides a procedure for non-tenured teaching staff members to appear before a district board of education upon receiving notice of non-reemployment. Once that procedure is completed, there is no right to a hearing before the Commissioner of Education under the school laws, unless of course a petitioner provides adequately-detailed allegations of proscribed conduct, i.e., unlawful discrimination, deprivation of constitutional rights, etc. See Nasuti v. Bd. of Ed. of West Amwell, 1979 S.L.D. 11, 18. There have been no such allegations set forth in the petition in this matter. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision.

Petitioner bases her allegations that respondent wrongfully terminated her employment upon the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, which reads:

> On or before May 15 in each year, each nontenured teaching staff member continuously employed by a board of education since the preceding September 30 shall receive either > a. A written offer of a contract for employment from the board of education for the next succeeding year providing for at least the same terms and conditions of employment but with such increase in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education, or > b. A written notice from the chief school administrator that such employment will not be offered.
>

It is undisputed that respondent failed to provide either a notice of non-reemployment or an offer of employment by May 15, 1995, either to petitioner or apparently to anyone else. All reappointment issues were dealt with at the June 26, 1995 Board meeting. Petitioner notes in her motion papers that this is not the first time that respondent has missed the statutory deadline. In 1993, at the end of petitioner's first year of employment, respondent did not act to renew her contract until June 14, 1993, she says.

The consequences of failing to provide notice to non-tenured employees prior to May 15, of any year are established in N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11, which provides:

> Should any board of education fail to give to any nontenure teaching staff member either an offer of contract for employment for the next succeeding year or a notice that such employment will not be offered, all within the time and in the manner provided by this act, then said board of education shall be deemed to have offered to that teaching staff member continued employment for the next succeeding school year upon the same terms and conditions but with such increases in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education.

While respondent's lack of diligence in this regard must be deplored, in the present matter it cannot provide the basis for the relief which petitioner seeks because petitioner herself failed to comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-12, which provides:

> If the teaching staff member desires to accept such employment he shall notify the board of education of such acceptance, in writing, on or before June 1 in which event such employment shall continue as provided for herein. In the absence of such notice of acceptance the provisions of this article shall no longer be applicable.

Petitioner argues that she should be deemed to have substantially complied with the acceptance requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-12 because from all of the surrounding circumstances respondent was certainly aware of the fact that she intended to continue her employment in the district. Where, as here, however a statutory remedy provides the means to eliminate the Board's exercise of its discretion with respect to reemployment of a non-tenured employee, the statute should be strictly construed. The statute creates an offer of employment which exists only between May 15 and June 1 of any particular year. If " the offer" is not explicitly accepted in writing after May 15 and on or before June 1, the offer expires. Petitioner's April 27, 1995 written vacation request addressed not to respondent but rather to the Assistant Superintendent, her immediate supervisor, says nothing about accepting any offer of employment; furthermore, the written communication precedes the May 15, 1995 deadline for respondent to issue its notice concerning employment intentions and accordingly on April 27, 1995 there was no "offer" to accept. The other communications cited by petitioner are communications from respondent or respondent's representatives to petitioner and at most evidenced the superintendent's understanding that petitioner would be continuing her employment. Respondent is not required to conclude from the circumstances that an employee wishes to accept the statutory contract offered between May 15 and June 1 in any year where the Board fails to comply with the notice requirements. An employee's written acceptance of the offer must be clear and a matter of record. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11 and the facts relevant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-12 did not operate in the within matter to grant petitioner a contract of employment for the next succeeding school year.

Based upon the foregoing conclusions, when respondent voted on petitioner's employment status on June 26, 1995, it was voting on a motion to renew the employment contract of petitioner, a non-tenured employee, but one who would gain tenure with the first day of a new contract. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1b provides in pertinent part in this regard:

> A board of education shall renew the employment contract of a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons.

Respondent articulated two reasons for its failure to reappoint petitioner: 1) this was petitioner's tenure year and it did not wish to grant tenure to a staff member about whose performance it had concerns and 2) it had serious concerns about petitioner's failure to supervise the principal of the alternative school and to thereby prevent unauthorized implementation of an accelerated program.

There is nothing in respondent's meeting minutes to indicate that their actual reasons for non-reappointment differed in any way from those articulated in the written notification. The function of the Commissioner of Education reviewing the reasons articulated by a board of education in support of its discretionary decision is not to assess whether respondent's decision was wise or whether the reasons were good or even adequate. The Commissioner need determine only whether the reasons given were advanced in good faith, i.e., that they were not willfully false or a pretext for some unlawful, arbitrary or capricious motivation. Brenner v. Board of Education of the Township of Middlesex, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 81. As previously noted, petitioner has advanced no specifically articulated proscribed motivation on respondent's part and none appears from any of the exhibits attached to the briefs or certifications of either party. Neither reason is arbitrary; uncontested facts exist to support respondent's conclusions, and whether the facts might also support a different conclusion is not a matter properly reviewed by the Commissioner.

Petitioner's final argument, that respondent violated her rights pursuant to the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(8), when it declined to honor her request to discuss her employment in public at the meeting on August 31, 1995, is not without merit.

N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(a) requires all meetings of public bodies to be open to the public at all times, subject to certain exceptions. Among those exceptions is the so-called "personnel" exception of N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)(8), which reads as follows:

> b. A public body may exclude the public only from that portion of a meeting at which the public body discusses:
> (8) Any matter involving the employment, appointment, termination of employment, terms and conditions of employment, evaluation of the performance of, promotion or disciplining of any specific prospective public officer or employee or current public officer or employee employed or appointed by the public body, unless all the individual employees or appointees whose rights could be adversely affected request in writing that such matter or matters be discussed at a public meeting.

The personnel exception of the Open Public Meetings Act is intended to protect the privacy of the employee. "The right belongs to the individual, not the public body." Plainfield Ed. Assoc. v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Plainfield, 1985 S.L.D. 1578. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2(h) and N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)(8), incorporated therein, the affected employee has the right to require public discussion at any open meeting upon his request in writing. Jamison v. Morris Sch. Dist. Bd. of Ed., 198 N.J. Super. 411 App. Div. 1985). Petitioner exercised her right to have this matter discussed in public by sending two letters through her attorney and again renewing her request the evening of the meeting. Although the Board repeatedly stated that it reserved its right to deliberate in private, it had no such legal right to reserve. The legal right was petitioner's. Although that portion of the executive session wherein the Board discussed with its attorney whether the Open Public Meetings Act permitted them to deliberate in private notwithstanding petitioner's request to the contrary might come within the attorney/client exception to the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(7), the discussion concerning whether petitioner should be retained was required to be done in public. The regulations governing the appearance process for nonrenewals, N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2, do not state that a board may deliberate in private. Furthermore, although the informal appearance must be in public at the employee's written request, a number of the specific regulatory provisions contain language which applies only when there has been no such request and the appearance is conducted in private. See e.g., subsection (g), which provides that witnesses shall be called into the meeting to address the Board one at a time and shall be excused from the meeting after making their statements. While respondent maintains that the portions of the regulation permitting it three days to respond, subsection (i) implies that the deliberation may be done in private, petitioner accurately points out that these provisions were undoubtedly designed to accommodate the situation where the hearing is done in private and therefore the deliberations would be private. In a case such a this one where the employee has chosen to have everything in public, respondent has no right to keep its deliberations from the public.

Although I CONCLUDE that petitioner has established a violation of the Open Public Meeting Act, a remedy for the violation is a different issue. Petitioner suggests that the respondent should be required to re-conduct the "Donaldson hearing" and deliberate in public. If respondent had taken any action at the meeting which did not conform to the provisions of the Act, the action would be voidable and respondent would be required to take remedial action by acting de novo at a public meeting held in conformity with the provisions. To require respondent to expend additional public monies in this matter to re-conduct the hearing (which apparently was done in public) and then to deliberate in public would not accomplish any productive end. The deliberations which respondent conducted in private in violation of the Open Public Meetings Act have been recorded and transcribed verbatim in minutes of the meeting which are available to petitioner and which can be made available to any member of the public so wishing. It should also be noted that, in conducting their deliberations in private, respondent was relying upon the legal advice of counsel with which the within opinion simply disagrees.

For all of the foregoing reasons, respondent's motion for summary decision dismissing the within petition of appeal is hereby GRANTED and the within proceedings are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

J. JOYCE C. PAYNE, PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Both the Board and petitioner filed timely exceptions; the Board also filed a timely reply to petitioner's exceptions, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board's exceptions offer no new arguments. Rather, the Board merely asserts that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) "appears to have ignored" its arguments set forth in its prior brief contending that petitioner's request for an informal appearance before the Board, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2, did not give petitioner the right to witness the Board's deliberations after such an appearance. (Board's Exceptions at p. 1) Thus, the Board requests that the Commissioner reject the ALJ's conclusion that it violated the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA).

Although she agrees with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board violated the OPMA, petitioner urges the Commissioner "to fashion some remedy to punish the Board for its wrongdoing." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 1) Petitioner rejects the ALJ's remedy that interested people can review the transcripts of the Board's informal hearing in this matter, arguing

> At the Donaldson hearing, many members of the public were present. The public had a right to witness the deliberations and react as it wished. To permit the Board to hide between legal opinion only encourages further violations of the OPMA. (Id. at p. 2)

Petitioner further contends that the ALJ failed to address her arguments concerning the provisions of her contract which required that she be given notice of her deficiencies, and an opportunity to correct them. Petitioner requests that the Commissioner rule on this issue.

In reply to petitioner's exceptions, the Board directs the Commissioner's attention to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-12 which establish a date beyond which a board will not be subject to the statutory imposition of an employment contract. The Board continues,

> If the Legislature saw fit to limit the exposure of a board of education to the statutory provisions under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, et seq., the Commissioner of Education should construe that as a clear indication that there should be no other penalty if the employee fails to meet [his/her] responsibility under the law. The Administrative Law Judge found no evidence of an explicit acceptance of this statutory offer by the petitioner. (Board's Reply at pp. 1-2)

As to petitioner's arguments with respect to her contract, the Board counters that the Commissioner is without jurisdiction to interpret contractual provisions, and the ALJ properly avoided engaging in such interpretation. (Id.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings and conclusions with respect to petitioner's N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 et seq. and OPMA claims. The Commissioner herein determines it unnecessary to reach to petitioner's contractual claim, inasmuch as the ALJ clearly established that the Board's actions in the present matter constituted a nonreappointment of a nontenured employee, rather than the termination of a contract. (Initial Decision at p. 7) The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's opinion that the Board's lack of diligence with regard to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11 is to be deplored (id. at p. 9), but finds that the ALJ properly determined that it would serve no productive end for the Board to reconduct the hearing, and to then deliberate in public, inasmuch as the deliberations conducted in private were recorded and transcribed and are available for public review. (Id. at p. 13)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ granting the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Additionally, the Board is hereby directed to conduct any nonreemployment hearings it may hereafter hold in full compliance with OPMA.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed General Fund tax levy reductions in the amount of $117,000 made by governing body following voter rejection of proposed budget on April 16, 1996.

Upon review of the appeal herein to determine whether Board demonstrated that restoration of specific line-item reductions was necessary in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education in the District, Commissioner determined to restore $83,000. However, in view of the fact that additional budgeted state aid sufficient to cover this amount is available to the District, the Commissioner let stand the General Fund tax levy of $11,601,093 as certified by the Borough for 1996-97 school purposes.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on May 29, 1996, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Pompton Lakes Board of Education (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Borough Council of the Borough of Pompton Lakes (Borough) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election held on April 16, 1996.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $11,718,093 for the 1996-97 school year. The 1996-97 budget submitted to the voters included an approved Commissioner's cap waiver of $301,400, deemed necessary due to increased special education costs. On May 16, 1996, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Borough adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $11,601,093 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E) in the District. This amount represented a reduction of $117,000 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in four line items, for the reasons given in Schedule A attached to the implementing Borough's resolution. By resolution, dated May 22, 1996, the Board determined to appeal these reductions and duly filed the within petition.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by Borough
General Fund	$11,718,093	General Fund	$11,601,093

Amount of Reduction by Borough		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$ 117,000	General Fund	$ 117,000

The Borough declined to submit an answer or position papers in this matter. The Board filed its Position Statement on June 18, 1996. On August 7, 1996, the parties were advised that official notice would be taken of documentation filed in conjunction with the Board's requested Commissioner's cap waiver, as noted above. Although provided an opportunity to submit comment, neither party responded to the notice.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner, dated March 13, 1996, and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1996-97 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such T & E to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of T & E. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). With respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is both fully necessary for purposes of T & E and unable to be derived from further allocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993; Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board Decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Disputed Line-Item Number 1

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
07010	11-000-240-103	Undist. Supp. Svcs. Sch. Admin./Sal. of Principals/Asst. Principal	$527,002	$76,000

The Borough's rationale for the reduction is that the person in this position has resigned; it argues that leaving this nonmandated position vacant will not impact on T & E.

The Board argues that this position is essential to its ability to provide T & E, and that the need for the position has been acknowledged through the Commissioner's cap waiver process. In the review process, the Board contends, there was no reallocation made and no suggestion that the position be eliminated. The Board asserts that the vice principal at the high school serves a vital role in the District in that he/she has primary responsibility for disciplinary matters and for implementation of the attendance policy*, in addition to a wide range of duties under the direction of the principal. The Board further contends that the vice principal serves as a key individual in the area of school-community relations and in the ongoing interaction between staff, parents and students. The vice principal is responsible for orientation of new staff and for staff development, as well as oversight and troubleshooting of the administration's computer network, processing of report cards, progress reports, etc. Further, he/she takes an active role in scheduling and is the immediate supervisor of teachers of foreign language, home economics and music. The Board additionally observes that its high school has an enrollment of 600 students which clearly requires one vice principal to maintain discipline and order and to provide necessary assistance in the supervision of instruction. Finally, the Board notes that it has made efficient use of its administrative staff; it was recognized this year with a reward of $25,000 for low administrative costs under the School Efficiency Program Act and was cited by Governor Whitman in her State of the State Address for keeping administrative costs down.

Upon review, while noting that he is not bound in the present context by cap waiver review panel acceptance of a district's overall staffing patterns, the Commissioner determines that the Board has demonstrated the necessity of the vice principal's position, while the Borough has failed to show how current vice principal functions may be feasibly distributed among existing administrators, in the absence of a vice principal, so as not to impact upon the provision of T & E. Accordingly, the reduction of $76,000 is restored.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
07420	11-000-290-290	Undist. Expenditures Busn. & Other Supp. Svcs./Other Empl. Benefits	$1,803,472	$24,000

The Borough's contention is that, since the position of vice principal is vacant, associated costs within the Other Employee Benefits account will not be needed. Further, it argues that the 1995-96 budget had no appropriations for unused sick days, so that none are needed this year either. If such appropriations are needed, however, the Borough asserts that the maximum allowable amount per employee is $9,000, but a lesser amount may be allocated depending on the amount of unused sick days. The Borough affirms that the Board is aware of only one employee who may retire.

The Board underscores that the vice-principal's position is essential to the provision of T & E and, accordingly, the contractual benefits corresponding to such an essential position must be funded. Further, with respect to appropriating funds for unused sick days, the Board contends that this is a contractual obligation and a liability which the auditor has noted should be funded.

As part of the required materials for a 1996-97 cap waiver request, districts were instructed to complete and submit the "1996-1997 Cap Waiver Request Additional Supporting Documentation Package." This document provided additional information regarding the 1996-97 proposed budget in comparison to prior year budgeted and actual amounts, including district explanations for fluctuations. It was used by the county superintendent and cap panel in their review of the cap waiver request. In that document, the District reflects inclusion of $36,980 for "misc./unused sick days" in the $1,803,472 budgeted for Other Employee Benefits.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that in view of the Board's failure to take exception to the Borough's statement that one employee is anticipated to retire during the 1996-97 year with a potential maximum payment of $9,000 to the employee for unused sick days under contract, it appears that the District has budgeted funds well in excess of that needed for the payment of unused sick days. Under generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP), although a contractual obligation may exist for the payment of unused sick time, funds are not appropriated until the year that payment is anticipated. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $24,000 in this line item.

Disputed Line-Item Number 3

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
06930	11-000-230-339	Undist.Expenditures Support Svcs./Gen'l Admin. Other Purch. Prof'l Svcs.	$43,769	$7,000

The Borough maintains that there is $22,739 budgeted for accountant's fees. The current contract, however, is for $14,100.

The Board argues that its budgeted amount of $22,739 is to cover the cost of the annual audit and additional financial advice throughout the year. The Board estimates that the audit, as mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:23-1, will cost $14,100, per last year's cost. Thus, the Board reasons, implementation of the Borough's reduction in this area would leave insufficient monies for financial services throughout the year and would cause this line item to be underbudgeted.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the 1996-97 proposed appropriation of $43,769 reflects a 16% reduction from the 1994-95 actual expenditures and a 25% reduction from the 1995-96 budgeted amount. Based on the prior year's spending patterns, the Board's claim with respect to the need for appropriations for further financial services appears substantiated. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $7,000 in this line item.

Disputed Line-Item Number 4

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
07170	11-000-260-610	Undist. Expenditures Op. of Maintenance of Plant Svcs./Gen'l Supplies	$299,415	$10,000

The Borough contends that, with the elimination of freshman sports and the music program, there will be less wear on the building and, consequently, the need for supplies and building repairs will be reduced.

The Board contends that this reduction is entirely without foundation. It argues that, regardless of whether there is a music program or freshman sports, the number of students within the District remains the same, as does the length of time the students are in school and the number of classrooms in use. Thus, the Board reasons, there will be no reduction in the need for upkeep and repair; in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-43 and 18A:21-1, it is responsible for providing clean schools which are safe from hazards.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that neither the Board's supporting documentation nor its prior year's expenditures and appropriations justify the increase proposed in this category from a 1995-96 appropriation of $210,040 to a 1996-97 proposed appropriation of $299,415. The Commissioner concurs with the Borough that reduction of this line item will not impact upon the Board's ability to offer a T & E system of education. Accordingly, the $10,000 reduction is sustained.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $162,854 and allocated $0 as revenue, leaving $162,854 as undesignated unreserved surplus, which was well below 3% of its proposed 1996-97 budget.

The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board Secretary's report) reveals that the projected balance was understated. Based on the above, the Commissioner determines, subject to verification through the Board's 1995-96 annual year-end audit report, that no excess surplus funds are available to offset the restorations ordered herein.

ADDITIONAL STATE AID

Additionally, the Commissioner notes that on August 7, 1996, the Board was notified that the recently approved appropriations act for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1997, contained, from the QEA Formula Correction Aid account, an appropriation of $180,000 in additional school aid for the Pompton Lakes School District. By letter dated August 21, 1996, the parties were provided an opportunity to submit written comment with regard to the Commissioner's use, within the context of this budget appeal, of such additional funds.

The Board filed a comment on August 28, 1996, essentially contending that this one-time revenue should not affect the Commissioner's decision with respect to the instant appeal. The Board observes that a Commissioner's cap waiver of $301,400 was approved, together with a non-T & E Voter Cap Waiver of $499,028 approved for presentation to the voters. The Board maintains that the non-T & E cap waiver was primarily intended to fund the continuation of the music program, the basic skills supervisor, media aides, freshman athletic programs and the outdoor education program in the District. In that the cap waiver was defeated, the Board was unable to fund these programs for the 1996-97 school year. Thus, the Board argues that this additional state aid is but a one-time revenue which is not a part of its regular budget, yet is needed for the continuation of vital educational programming, and should, therefore, not affect the Commissioner's decision with regard to the within appeal.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that, upon application for a Commissioner's cap waiver, the budget is subjected to the scrutiny of both the county superintendent of schools and a panel of department employees for possible reallocations of appropriations budgeted for nonmandated and non-T & E items. Such items may be presented to the voters in a separate ballot questions as a non-T & E Voter Cap waiver. As a result of the reallocation analysis, the base budget waiver, approved by the Commissioner, contains only those items deemed necessary for the provision of T & E in the district. Since the non-T & E waiver items have been identified as nonmandated or unnecessary for T & E, and inasmuch as the Board's voter cap question, as well as its base budget containing the Commissioner cap waiver were defeated at the polls, the Commissioner must reject the Board's contention that the additional state aid of $180,000 should be applied to restore non-T & E items. Having received approval for a Commissioner's cap waiver, the Board cannot now apply these unanticipated funds to restore non-T & E items; rather, the funds may be used only to restore T & E items or to reduce the tax levy required to fund a T & E system of education. Accordingly, the additional funds will be considered by the Commissioner as revenues available to offset the restorations directed herein.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the Borough's line-item reductions to appropriations as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

Description	Account Number	Sustained	Restored

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought reimbursement for the academic costs of special education pupil J.G. Subsequent to signing of an agreement between J.G.'s father and petitioner assigning petitioner the responsibility of paying for J.G.'s out-of-district placement for two years, the father purchased and occupied a residential property in respondent's district. Petitioner claimed respondent was, therefore, responsible for J.G.'s education.

ALJ concluded that the Commissioner of Education lacked subject matter jurisdiction to hear this dispute because it did not arise under the school laws and it involved issues of contractual and quasi-contractual law. (Middletown Twp. Ed. Assoc.) ALJ dismissed petition for lack of jurisdiction.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own, concurring that matter is contractually based. Commissioner noted that the question as to which party was responsible for J.G.'s tuition assignment had to be based on the validity of the contract between the father and petitioner, a question of contract interpretation not a question of school law within Commissioner's jurisdiction.

Record Closed: July 11, 1996 Decided: August 2, 1996

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Two Boards of Education dispute responsibility for the academic costs of a special education pupil placement.

The Cherry Hill Board of Education (Cherry Hill) filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education alleging that during the 1993-94 school year, J.G., a classified pupil who resided with his father, L.G., was legally domiciled in Cherry Hill and was eligible for educational services from Cherry Hill. J.G. was classified and placed in the Elan School in Poland Springs, Maine as a residential pupil in June 1993. In April 1994, Cherry Hill began to pay for J.G.'s residential education at Elan based upon its belief that he was domiciled in Cherry Hill and pursuant to a settlement reached between Cherry Hill and L.G.

Cherry Hill asserts that L.G. sold his residence in Cherry Hill on or about April 29, 1994. On or about June 28, 1994, L.G. purchased and occupied a residential property in Haddonfield. Cherry Hill further asserts that from on or about April 29, 1994, J.G. has been legally domiciled in Haddonfield. Thus, it was Haddonfield's responsibility to provide J.G. with a free appropriate public education effective on or about that day and to the present. The Haddonfield Board of Education (Haddonfield) is liable for reimbursement to Cherry Hill for the tuition, room and board and all related educational costs for J.G.'s attendance at Elan from April 29, 1994 through June 30, 1995. The amount of money in dispute is in excess of $51,000.

The Haddonfield Board of Education (Haddonfield) generally denies all allegations and demands that the petition of appeal be dismissed.

The matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

Following a series of conferences and the taking of L.G.'s deposition, the matter proceeds to summary judgment on stipulated facts and supporting papers.

Cherry Hill argues that the obligation to pay the costs of a special education program is statutorily allocated to the pupil's district of residence and any agreement to the contrary is ultra vires. Haddonfield is responsible for payment of tuition and interest for the costs Cherry Hill incurred in connection with J.G.'s education at Elan from April 29, 1994 until the obligation was satisfied.

Haddonfield asserts that the agreement reached between Cherry Hill and L.G. is binding. Those two parties entered into an agreement in which Cherry Hill agreed to fund a two-year, out-of-state residential placement at a time when Dr. Gooberman had his home in Cherry Hill under contract for sale and also had a contract to purchase a home in Haddonfield. Within weeks of executing the agreement to fund the residential placement, L.G. moved to Haddonfield and then waited more than a year to inform Haddonfield of his residence and J.G.'s existence. He also requested Haddonfield to continue the placement.

Haddonfield further argues that L.G. had already signed contracts to sell his house in Cherry Hill and to purchase a house in Haddonfield at the time of the settlement agreement. L.G. testified at his deposition that he believed Cherry Hill would pay J.G.'s tuition costs for two years pursuant to the agreement. He further stated he was not aware of any requirement that he remain a resident of Cherry Hill for the agreement to be valid.

Approximately thirteen months later, L.G. contacted the Haddonfield Child Study Team (CST) for the first time. This was Haddonfield's first knowledge that L.G. and J.G. were resident in Haddonfield.

The settlement agreement is a valid contract and requires Cherry Hill to pay for J.G.'s residential placement at Elan. Cherry Hill waived all claims it may have had for reimbursement when it signed the settlement agreement with L.G. Haddonfield cannot be held liable for J.G.'s placement because it had no knowledge of the placement. Because Haddonfield is not liable to L.G., Cherry Hill's claim against Haddonfield also must fail. Haddonfield could not be held liable for J.G.'s placement under the equitable doctrine of laches. L.G. failed to assert a claim for more than thirteen months. Such delay is inexcusable. The equitable doctrine of unclean hands also applies against L.G. L.G. entered into a settlement agreement with Cherry Hill when he knew he was moving from the district in a very short time. L.G. should be responsible for J.G.'s tuition at Elan from the time of the settlement agreement to the time of contacting the Haddonfield CST.

DETERMINATION

Counsel have discovered and provided to this judge a memorandum of understanding between L.G.'s attorney and Cherry Hill's attorney dated April 12, 1994:

> In order to bring the above matter to a conclusion, the Cherry Hill Board of Education will pay for J.G.'s residential placement at ELAN SCHOOL, POLAND SPRINGS, MAINE 04274-9711. J.G. was admitted to ELAN on June 3, 1993. It is our understanding that the ELAN program is close to two years in length.
>
> The cost of ELAN is broken down into three categories; room and board, education and support services. The total yearly cost is currently $38,765 payable $3,230.42 per month.
>
> The Board will reimburse the individual or individuals who have made payment to date upon presentation of appropriate paid bills and provide for future payments.
>
> In consideration of the above, the parents will pay for all other costs in connection with this matter, including but not limited to, transportation, your attorney's fees and costs and any other costs that may have been incurred by them.

The State has a strong public policy in favor of settlements. Department of Public Advocate v. N.J. Board of Public Utilities, 206 N.J. Super. 523, 528 (App. Div. 1985); Pascarella v. Bruck, 190 N.J. Super. 118, 125 (App. Div. 1983), certif. den., 94 N.J. 600 (1983); Jannarone v. W.T. Co., 65 N.J. Super. 427, 476 (App. Div. 1961), certif. den., 35 N.J. 61 (1961); Honeywell v. Bubb, 130 N.J. Super. 130 (App. Div. 1974). Courts will therefore "strain to give effect to the terms of a settlement wherever possible." Dept. Pub. Adv., 206 N.J. Super. at 528.

An agreement to settle a lawsuit is a contract which, like all contracts, may be freely entered into, and which a court, absent a demonstration of "fraud or other compelling circumstances" shall honor and enforce as it does other contracts. Pascarella v. Bruck, above, 190 N.J. Super. at 124-125.

It is black letter law that the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction to decided issues of contractual and quasi-contractual law. See, e.g., Middletown Township Education Association v. Middletown Township Board of Education, OAL DKT. EDU 7429-86 (May 13, 1987), adopted in part and reversed in part, Comm'r of Ed., July 14, 1987. In Middletown, the Commissioner's last statement was, "Those portions of the ALJ's determination which rely upon contract interpretation and exposition are rejected as not being within the Commissioner's jurisdiction."

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the Commissioner of Education lacks subject matter jurisdiction to hear this dispute because it does not arise under the school laws and does not even tangentially require educational expertise to be brought to bear. The Commissioner's jurisdiction arises strictly from law.

In this case, a contract existed between L.G. and Cherry Hill. Whether there was fraud in the inducement or any other void or voidable element of that contract is a question for the Superior Court. Ordinarily, courts will enforce a settlement agreement without reviewing the reasonableness of its terms. Chattin v. Cape May Greene, Inc., 216 N.J. Super. 618, 626 (App. Div. (1987), aff'd in pertinent part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 243 N.J. Super. 590 (App. Div. 1990). But, "where fraud, mutual mistake, or other compelling circumstances are shown, a court has the discretion to deny enforcement of a settlement agreement." Chattim, 216 N.J. Super. at 626. A court may refuse to enforce a settlement if the moving party can demonstrate, by clear and convincing proof, fraud or other compelling circumstances. DeCaro v. DeCaro, 13 N.J. 36 (1953).

The important word in each of these holdings is court. There is no jurisdiction in an administrative tribunal to address the matter of a settlement qua contract. Jurisdiction over the subject matter lies exclusively in the Superior Court.

Accordingly, I ORDER this petition of appeal DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10065-95

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CHERRY HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HADDONFIELD, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, including the Agreement at issue, and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner excepts to the initial decision in its entirety. Specifically, petitioner objects to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) decision for three general reasons. Initially, petitioner contends that the Commissioner of Education is not being asked to enforce or interpret an agreement. It avers that the issues presented herein strictly involve the application of the school laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 et seq., which are clearly within the jurisdiction of the "Commissioner of Education [who] has 'fundamental and indispensable jurisdiction over all disputes arising under the school laws...' Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Bd. of Educ., 77 N.J. 514, 525 (1978)." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 3) It elaborates by asserting that the obligation to provide a special education program and the authority to do so by agreement are governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:46-1 et seq., N.J.A.C. 6:28-1 et seq. and 20 U.S.C. Section 1401 et seq. Furthermore, the prerequisite of the residency obligation flows from school law, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Thus, since these issues involve application and interpretation of school law, they are within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. (Petitioner's Exceptions at pp. 2-3) Petitioner then cites case law to buttress its position that the instant matter is within the Commissioner's jurisdiction in that the Commissioner has ruled on contracts where school law is implicated and integral to the determination. Specifically, it cites New Jersey Educ. Assn. et al. v. Trenton Bd. of Educ. and Whittle Communications, L.P., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 481; 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 90; aff'd Appellate Division, Dkt. No. A-2165-92, August 2, 1994; and Middletown Twp. Educ. Assn. v. Middletown Twp. Bd. of Educ. 1987 S.L.D. 1548. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 6)

Second, petitioner objects that the issue of subject matter jurisdiction was never raised by a party, the Commissioner, or the Administrative Court. It avers that the ALJ's sua sponte determination that subject matter jurisdiction was lacking was not in accord with N.J.A.C. 1.1-3.2 and that if the ALJ was concerned that subject matter jurisdiction did not lie in the Administrative Court, it was incumbent upon the ALJ to raise the issue and have both parties brief the matter, prior to conclusion. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 13)

Third, petitioner avers that the Settlement Agreement, negotiated between Dr. Gooberman (Dr. G.) and Cherry Hill, cannot operate to nullify the statutory allocation of fiscal responsibility for the provision of a program of special education for students who are residents within the school district citing N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 15)

Lastly, petitioner avers that the ALJ's determination vitiates the statutory allocation of fiscal responsibility for special education programs under the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C. Section 1401 et seq. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 16)

In its reply, respondent asserts that the ALJ's initial decision was proper and should be affirmed. (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at p. 12) Respondent avers that this case is not a residency matter in that the residency of Dr. G. is not disputed and respondent readily concurs that Dr. G lives in Haddonfield. Respondent avers, however, that petitioner is seeking to "pass along its responsibility of enforcing the terms of the settlement agreement to a nonparty to the agreement under the guise of a residency dispute, hoping that its various and meaningless citations to education statutes would hide its true motives." (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at p. 3) Respondent contends that the subject of this dispute is the contract entered into between Cherry Hill and Dr. G. at the time Dr. G was a resident of the petitioning district. Respondent asserts that "Again, this is an issue of contract law, not education law." (Id.. at p. 4) It further cites case law for the proposition that contract disputes are exclusively within the jurisdiction of the Superior Court, specifically, Middletown Twp. Educ. Assn., supra.

Next, respondent specifically distinguishes the cases cited by petitioner noting that in Whittle Communications, supra, the claim was based on a violation of statutory educational mandates. It avers that incidental interpretation of the contract was necessary to resolve the education claims and, therefore, agency jurisdiction was proper in that instance. However, respondent contends, this matter does not involve incidental interpretation of a contract. Rather, "[p]ure contractual interpretation is at the core of this controversy" and "there is no concurrent jurisdiction." (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at pp. 5-7) It avers that since discovery revealed J.G.'s residency, the only thing left to decide is the validity of the contract between Cherry Hill and Dr. G.

Lastly, respondent disagrees that petitioner's contract with Dr. G was ultra vires and, therefore, unenforceable. But, even assuming that the agreement is ultra vires, respondent avers that petitioner's claim lies against Dr. G. not Haddonfield.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that this matter is contractually based. The law is clear that a school board may enter into contractual agreements. See, eg., Remedial Educ. & Diag. Serv. v. Essex County Educ. Serv., 191 N.J. Super. 524, 527 (App. Div. 1983) (public body may enter into contracts within its express or implied authority). Logically, this would include the ability to enter into agreements with a parent or guardian to undertake educational responsibility for his/her child. This proposition is clearly set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3a which states:

> Any person not resident in a school district, if eligible except for residence, may be admitted to the schools of the district with the consent of the board of education upon such terms, and with or without payment of tuition, as the board may prescribe.

Furthermore, the residency claims of J.G. are not at issue in this matter in that Dr. G. and J.G. admittedly live in Haddonfield. Therefore, the question as to which party is responsible for J.G's tuition assignment must be based on the validity of the contract between Dr. G. and petitioner. If the contract is valid, despite the defenses raised, petitioner would then be responsible for J.G.'s tuition. However, the Commissioner will not make such determination on the enforceability of this contract nor will he assign responsibility for J.G.'s tuition absent a finding as to whether this contract is enforceable, in light of the claims that it is not, in that the interpretation of this contract is the primary issue at hand and not merely implicated in a question of the school laws.

Lastly, in considering petitioner's contentions of impropriety with regard to the ALJ's finding that subject matter jurisdiction was lacking, the Commissioner finds that, even accepting petitioner's contentions arguendo, no harm inured to petitioner in that this issue was addressed and briefed in exceptions prior to the Commissioner's final determination. Therefore, any error or claim of lack of due process in this regard has been corrected and petitioner's arguments have been duly considered and rejected.

Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings as further explicated herein and hereby orders that the within Petition of Appeal be dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HADDONFIELD, CAMDEN COUNTY,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 23, 1996

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso, & Kessler (Nathanya G. Simon, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Capehart & Scatchard (Joseph F. Betley, Esq., of Counsel)

This matter was initiated when the Board of Education of the Township of Cherry Hill (hereinafter "Cherry Hill" or "Cherry Hill Board") filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking to invoke the Commissioner's jurisdiction under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9[1] in order to obtain reimbursement from the Board of Education of the Borough of Haddonfield (hereinafter "Haddonfield" or "Haddonfield Board") for the costs of a residential placement for a special education student.

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 provides that:

> The Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the state board or of the commissioner.

The Cherry Hill Board had paid such costs for the period from June 3, 1993 through May 15, 1995 pursuant to a memorandum of understanding dated April 12, 1994 between the Cherry Hill Board and an attorney representing Dr. Lance Gooberman, the student's father. This memorandum terminated due process proceedings before the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") which had been initiated by Dr. Gooberman pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.7.[2] Dr. Gooberman had initiated such proceedings in order to contest a determination by Cherry Hill's child study team that an in-district placement, rather than the residential placement he had requested, was appropriate for his son and to challenge Cherry Hill's refusal to reimburse him for the costs he had incurred since June 1993 when he unilaterally placed his son in the residential treatment program.

Pursuant to the memorandum, Cherry Hill paid the costs for the residential placement through June 1995, at which time it was notified by the Haddonfield Board that Dr. Gooberman was domiciled in Haddonfield. The Haddonfield Board indicated that, as a result, it was assuming responsibility for payment.

Upon investigation, Cherry Hill discovered that Dr. Gooberman had actually moved to Haddonfield on April 29, 1994. The Cherry Hill Board concluded that it had therefore not been responsible for the payments it had made for the costs of the residential placement after that date. Consequently, the Cherry Hill Board sought relief in the form of reimbursement from the Haddonfield Board by filing a petition with the Commissioner pursuant to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA"), 20 U.S.C.A. §1401 et seq., and New Jersey special education law, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-1 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14 and N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(d).

[2] N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.7 ensures that all pupils with educational disabilities are provided with an appropriate free education under the standards of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, see N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1, by providing, in pertinent part, for a due process hearing at the parent's request with regard to the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of their child or after notice of a proposed or denied action. N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.7(a) and (b). The regulation further specifies the manner in which such hearings shall be conducted. N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.7(d) through (h). According to those procedures, if a conference conducted by the Department of Education does not result in a settlement, the matter is transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, which then has jurisdiction to issue a final binding decision. N.J.A.C. 1:6A-5.4.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case. Hence, in contrast to the due process proceedings that had resulted in the memorandum between Dr. Gooberman and the Cherry Hill Board, the Commissioner, rather than an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"), was responsible for making the final decision in the instant matter. Compare N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6 (agency head makes final decisions in contested cases) with N.J.A.C. 1:6A-18.3 (decision of an ALJ in a special education matter is appealable directly to either Superior Court or Federal District Court).[3]

The ALJ issued an initial decision in the matter and transmitted it to the Commissioner for a final decision. The ALJ concluded that the matter was contractual in nature and recommended that the Commissioner dismiss it for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.

After considering the exceptions filed by the parties, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's recommendation, finding that the Cherry Hill Board's claim involved primarily the interpretation of a contract over which the Superior Court, rather than this agency, [3] See N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 et seq. (setting forth the rules governing the procedural aspects of transmission to OAL, hearing, and the rendering of initial and final decisions in all contested cases in the Executive Branch of the State Government) and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-1.1 et seq. (setting forth the rules governing hearing and decision of matters arising out of the Special Education Program of the Department of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:28 and implementing the IDEA).

would have jurisdiction. He therefore dismissed the petition, and the Cherry Hill Board appealed.

We agree with the Commissioner that he did not have jurisdiction to entertain this matter. However, our determination is not based on the conclusion that the matter is contractual. In this respect, we stress that while the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over claims that are purely contractual in nature, Salley v. Newark Bd. of Ed., 1984 S.L.D. 1714, he does have the authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 to resolve contractual matters as they relate to disputes arising under the education laws. E.g., Millstone Township Teachers Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Millstone, decided by the Commissioner, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 802, appeal dismissed by the State Board, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 254.

Nonetheless, careful examination of this matter reveals that this dispute is not one over which the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, and we reject Cherry Hill's arguments to the contrary.

The Cherry Hill Board argues that the question of which school district is obligated to pay for the special education program at issue during the relevant period is not contractual, but rather involves statutory interpretation concerning the authority of a board to enter a contract to provide a special education program to a student who is not a resident of the district. It contends that the responsibility to fund special education programs is allocated by statute and cannot be altered by agreement. It asserts that because the child's entitlement to a free education and the determination regarding which district is responsible for payment is contingent on the domicile of the child, Cherry Hill was without authority to agree to pay the costs of the residential placement involved here once Dr. Gooberman moved to Haddonfield and was no longer a resident of Cherry Hill within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Cherry Hill therefore asserts that such portion of the agreement was ultra vires and is unenforceable as a matter of law. Finally, it contends that a "settlement agreement that violates the IDEA cannot stand." Appeal Brief, at 29.

Despite the circuitous arguments presented to us on behalf of the Cherry Hill Board, our review of its submissions indicates that this dispute is not a controversy arising under Title 18A over which the Commissioner has jurisdiction. As the Cherry Hill Board recognizes, the "agreement" in question was a settlement agreement intended to resolve due process proceedings initiated by Dr. Gooberman pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.7 to effectuate his son's rights under the IDEA and our special education laws. In contrast to disputes which are subject to the Commissioner's jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, disputes involving the placement of a child who is entitled to special education and related services under the IDEA and New Jersey's special education laws are not subject to the Commissioner's jurisdiction. Rather, the procedures which apply to these matters are specifically designed to guarantee that this agency does not act as the decisionmaker. N.J.A.C. 1:6A-1 et seq. See, supra, n.3.

Under the applicable procedures, settlement of a dispute such as that initiated by Dr. Gooberman is accomplished by OAL and is not subject to review by the Commissioner or appeal to the State Board. See, supra, n.3. In that the agreement which the Cherry Hill Board is seeking to set aside constitutes the settlement of due process proceedings, neither the Commissioner nor the State Board has jurisdiction.

The fact that the Cherry Hill Board points to various New Jersey statutes does not confer jurisdiction on us to grant the relief it seeks. See Rabinowitz v. New Jersey State Board of Education, et al., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982). Again, the substantive entitlements underlying the Cherry Hill Board's agreement with Dr. Gooberman are those conferred by the IDEA and New Jersey's special education statutes. As conceded by Cherry Hill, the validity of this settlement agreement must be judged under the IDEA. Appeal Brief, at 29. Furthermore, the question of whether the residential placement which Dr. Gooberman unilaterally made was the appropriate one is invariably implicated by any determination to set aside the agreement so as to hold Haddonfield responsible. Quite simply, it would be inappropriate in these circumstances for this agency to exercise jurisdiction in order to direct the Haddonfield Board to reimburse Cherry Hill for the costs of this residential placement. Cf. Roxbury Bd. of Ed. v. Milford Bd. of Ed., 283 N.J. Super. 505 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, __ N.J. __ (1996); D.K. v. Roseland Board of Education, and West Orange Board of Education, 903 F. Supp. 797 (D.N.J. 1995); Woods v. New Jersey Department of Education, et al., 823 F. Supp. 254 (D.N.J. 1993).

Therefore, for the reasons stated herein, the State Board of Education dismisses the petition.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JAMES BARNES, BOARD	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against attendance officer/field monitor for allegedly soliciting and accepting bail monies (together with his partner) from parents/guardians of truant students but never giving said monies to municipal court.

ALJ found that, based on the factual record reviewed, the Board failed to demonstrate that the tenure charges against respondent were sustainable. Thus, the tenure charges were dismissed.

Having considered the record, including deposition testimony, Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board failed to prove the charges were sustainable. Commissioner noted that he could not reject the ALJ's findings without reviewing the transcripts, which were not provided by the Board. (In re Morrison) Tenure charges were dismissed.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

At its meeting of November 18, 1993, the school district of the City of Trenton determined that probable cause existed to support charges against Mr. Barnes pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 warranting his dismissal as a field monitor based upon his attaining of tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-33. The charges, contained in a statement of tenure charges filed with the Commissioner of Education on November 19, 1993, alleged misbehavior and official misconduct.

More specifically the charge concerned allegations that Mr. Barnes, in his capacity as a field monitor, in concert with another, on various occasions misrepresented his authority as a field monitor by demanding and collecting sums of money from various individuals for the alleged purpose of taking it to the City of Trenton Municipal Court, to post bail to satisfy outstanding arrest warrants for the individuals' failure to defend charges of violating N.J.S.A. 18:38-31 and rescheduling a new court date for the truancy charges. The money allegedly was not given to the municipal court but kept by Mr. Barnes for his own personal gain. No new truancy court dates were scheduled after the bail moneys were given.

In his answer, Mr. Barnes denies any wrongdoing, asserting that he was at all times acting within the scope of his position and under the direct authority of the Board of Education.

Following the filing of the various pleadings before the Commissioner of Education, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on December 21, 1993.[1] The matter was scheduled for a prehearing conference to be conducted on April 6, 1994; however, as a result of the substitution of counsel, the matter was adjourned and rescheduled to be heard on April 20, 1994. A prehearing conference was conducted on that date as scheduled and on the following date, April 21, 1994, my office issued a prehearing order defining the issues and scheduling the matter for plenary proceedings to be held on August 16, 17 and 19, 1994, at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), Mercerville, New Jersey. A status conference was also scheduled for July 14, 1994, to discuss various prehearing matters. Following the July 14, 1994 status conference, the scheduled hearing dates were adjourned at the request of Mr. Sumners[2] based upon his request to file a brief to substantiate the position of the petitioner (Trenton) that Mr. Barnes was not in a tenurable position. As a result of his request, a briefing schedule was devised requiring Mr. Sumners to submit by July 25 and Mr. Blackburn to respond by

[1] At the initial stages of these proceedings, Mr. Barnes was represented by Michael T. Barrett, Esq., of the firm of Bergman & Barrett. On February 18, 1994, Mr. Lemuel H. Blackburn, Jr., Esq., submitted a substitution of attorney, signed by himself as well as by Mr. Barrett.

[2] Mr. Sumners appeared throughout the prehearing aspects of these matters and Mr. Hollingsworth represented the petitioner at hearing.

August 31, 1994. Mr. Sumners was also given the opportunity to submit a reply brief by not later than September 8, 1994. In addition, the hearing dates were rescheduled for October 25, 28 and 31, 1994. Unfortunately, Mr. Blackburn inadvertently failed to respond to the motion for dismissal having misfiled the papers. As a result, both parties agreed that the scheduled October 20, 28 and 31 hearing dates be adjourned, so as to afford Mr. Blackburn the opportunity to oppose the motion for dismissal.

As it turned out, the motion instituted by Trenton was for summary decision and on January 25, 1995, my office issued a nine-page ruling and order denying that motion holding inter alia that without an evidential record I could not determine whether, as a matter of law, Mr. Barnes did or did not acquire tenure in his position as an Attendance Officer/Field Monitor. I, therefore, ordered that the motion be denied and that the matter proceed to hearing. It was also noted in the ruling and order that I advised counsel of the disposition of this motion by telephone call placed to their offices on January 19, 1995. By separate letter generated on that same date, I memorialized several aspects of the telephone conversations that were conducted with counsel. One of those being that Mr. Blackburn would be unavailable for the newly scheduled hearing dates of February 14, 15 and 16, 1995, because of an emergent criminal matter to which he had been assigned. No objection to the adjournment was voiced by Mr. Sumners and as a consequence it was agreed that the matter would be rescheduled and proceed in a bifurcated fashion: the issue of whether Mr. Barnes was or was not tenured would be adjudicated on April 12, 13 and 17, 1995, at OAL. If it were determined that he was in an nontenured position, the matter would be moot. If it were determined that Mr. Barnes was a tenured employee,[3] the charges instituted against him were under the tenure statute were to be adjudicated on July 17, 18 and 19, 1995, at OAL. We created the hiatus between the two hearing proceedings so as to allow counsel to submit briefs on the issue tenure in advance of having to adjudicate the propriety of the tenure charges themselves. When the matter was scheduled to proceed in April, I met with counsel at OAL and it was agreed on April 13 , 1995 that the parties would stipulate that Mr. Barnes from September 16, 1991 through November 18, 1993, when tenure charges were certified against him by Trenton, obtained tenure as an attendance officer consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-33. That stipulation was reduced to writing signed by both counsel on April 20, 1995. It was consequently agreed that the matter would then proceed to hearing commencing July 17, 1995, solely on the charges that were instituted by Trenton against Mr. Barnes based upon his tenure. By mid-July, the parties tentatively agreed that the matter could then be decided on cross-motions for summary decision and the submission of a stipulation of facts. At my request, Mr. Sumners on July 13, 1995, submitted a letter setting forth this procedure and agreeing that a joint stipulation of facts would be filed by August 14, 1995, and that briefs would be concurrently submitted by not later than August 28, 1995, and that each party would have the opportunity to submit replies by September 5, 1995. A status conference was conducted on November 15, 1995, following the inability of counsel to comply with the briefing schedule at that time. At that time I was advised that despite a good faith effort on the part of counsel, a joint stipulation of facts and cross-motions could not be agreed upon and as a consequence it was agreed -- once again -- to reschedule the matter for proceedings to be conducted on April 22, 23, 25, 1996, at OAL. This agreement was memorialized in a letter I requested from Mr. Blackburn dated November 15, 1995. The matter eventually proceeded to hearing on April 23 and April 25, 1996.[4] At the conclusion of the evidential phase of the proceedings, a briefing schedule was devised.

On May 10, 1996, following a request for an extension of the originally scheduled submission date, Mr. Hollingsworth submitted his closing arguments by letter brief dated May 20, 1996. By letter of May 29, 1996, which was received by the Office of Administrative Law on June 3, Mr. Blackburn advised that he would not be submitting a brief in response to the submission made by respondent.

Following a review of the record in the matter, I requested that the parties provide, by way of stipulation or other appropriate form, a supplement to the factual record concerning certain actions taken against a co-worker of the petitioner, Mr. James Edwards. Thereafter, on July 17, 1996, my office received a stipulation signed by counsel addressing the issue which I had raised.[5] Accordingly, the record closed in this matter on the date that my office received the joint stipulation of facts alluded to, July 17, 1996.

[4] The April 22 date was not used because Mr. Barnes, for reasons which were unclear, did not appear in a timely fashion and the parties were excused.

[5] Signing the stipulation on behalf of the Trenton Board of Education was Mr. Thomas W. Sumners, Esq., a principal of the firm with which Mr. Hollingsworth had been associated when he represented respondent at hearing. At the time of the entrance of the stipulation, Mr. Hollingsworth was no longer associated with the firm.

ISSUES AND BURDEN OF PROOF

Since the issue of Mr. Barnes' tenure has already been resolved in his favor, the fundamental issue to be addressed in these proceedings is whether the conduct of Mr. Barnes as alleged in his capacity as a field monitor warrants his removal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Assuming arguendo that the charges can be sustained, then the question reduces itself to whether removal would be the only appropriate penalty. In respect to both charges, the burden rests solely and exclusively upon petitioner: the Trenton Board of Education must prove the allegations as well as the propriety of Mr. Barnes' dismissal by a preponderance of the relevant and credible evidence.

THE FACTS AND ANALYSIS

The tenure charges against the respondent, James Barnes, of conduct unbecoming of a Field Monitor, misbehavior and official misconduct consist of eleven allegations. Each contends that the respondent, in his capacity as a field monitor in concert with another field monitor, James Edwards, on various occasions, misrepresented his authority as a field monitor by demanding and collecting sums of money from various parents/guardians of truant students. The money was collected for the alleged purpose of taking it to the City of Trenton Municipal Court to post bail to satisfy outstanding arrest warrants for failure to defend charges of violating N.J.S.A. 18A:38-31 and rescheduling a new court date for the truancy charges. The money allegedly was not given to the municipal court but kept by respondent, and Mr. Edwards, for their own personal gain. No new truancy court dates were scheduled after the bail moneys were given.

In his answer to the charges, respondent denied any wrongdoing and asserted that he was at all times acting within the scope of his position and under the direct authority of the petitioner, the Trenton Board of Education. Respondent also points out that following the investigation and his arrest on or about September 20, 1993, by the Trenton Police Department, which formed the basis for the tenure charges against him, respondent was informed by the Mercer County prosecutor by letter dated March 5, 1994, that the case against him was closed due to the lack of sufficient evidence to sustain the return of an indictment against him.

As noted above, the tenure charges against respondent consist of eleven charges. All of the charges assert that respondent demanded and collected money to allegedly satisfy outstanding arrest warrants for failure to defend charges of truancy under N.J.S.A. 18:38-31 from the following persons: Charges One and Two, Carol Beickert; Charge Three, Wetonah Carter; Charge Four, George Slack; Charge Five, June Angelo; Charge Six, Shirley Chavies; Charge Seven, Lillian Carter; Charge Eight, Patricia Chrzempiec; Charge Nine, Emma Watson; and Charge Ten, Patricia Steindle. Charge Eleven asserts that the totality of respondent's conduct warrants dismissal.

With the exception of Charge Five involving June Angelo, the only submissions on the remaining charges are the written statements of those respective parents/guardians to the police. These statements were submitted to the Commissioner as exhibits to the affidavit of Bernice Venable, Superintendent of the Trenton School District, in support of the petitioner's tenure charges against respondent, which were sent to the OAL in the initial transmittal of the case. A brief summary of each statement follows:

Carol Beickert's statement, dated September 15, 1993, and Lillian Carter's statement, dated September 10, 1993, focus on the field monitor, James Edwards, and that the money demanded and collected was given to him. They both mention respondent in their statements but are unclear as to when he was present or if he was present when the money was given to Edwards.

In her statement to police dated September 8, 1993, Wetonah Carter identified respondent as the man who accompanied Edwards. She stated that no one, including respondent, was present in the room at the board of education when she gave the money to Edwards.

In George Slack's statement, dated September 7, 1993, there is only one possible reference to respondent. Slack noticed Edwards' partner when Edwards came out of his office and into the hallway at the board of education to meet Slack. Slack stated that "Edwards' partner was in the office with him. He was a white guy, but I did not get a good look at him."

Shirley Chavies does not mention respondent at all in her statement.

Patricia Chrzempiec stated on September 23, 1993, that Edwards and Barnes were the truant officers who came to her house. She indicated that money was given to Edwards. No further reference to respondent was made.

No specific mention of respondent was made by Patricia Steindle in her statement dated August 27, 1993. She stated that a white male with blondish hair was with Edwards when he came to her house on August 26, 1993.

In Emma Watson's statement, dated September 6, 1993, she did not identify the truant officers by name and instead gave physical descriptions. She described the black male officer as the one who talked and collected the money. The white truant officer was described as the one who always drives. Barnes is white.

In addition to June Angelo's statement to police, the parties consented to the admission of part of her deposition transcript from the civil matter she has pending in the Superior Court, Law Division, captioned June Angelo, et al. v. Trenton Bd. of Educ. et al. She indicated in her statement to the police, dated September 3, 1993, that she called respondent at the board of education from her workplace after receiving a summons for an outstanding warrant charging truancy. Because the summons had been sent to her old address, the court date listed had already passed. She spoke first with respondent who informed her she had to post bail because she was in contempt of court and that if she did not, he could come to her job and pick her up. Thereafter, she went with her mother to the board of education. Both respondent and Edwards were there when she arrived. When Edwards asked if she had the money she responded, "no" to which Edwards instructed respondent cuff her and take her down to the station. Edwards remained adamant on the payment of the money even after Ms. Angelo's mother indicated that June had a heart problem and if something happened to June she would sue the board of education.

Respondent told Ms. Angelo they needed the money and suggested that she call her husband. Ms. Angelo waited about two hours until her husband showed up with the money. She paid Edwards the $100.00 who then provided a receipt and informed her of a June 3, 1993, court date.

Ms. Angelo's deposition testimony, dated November 29, 1995, varies somewhat from her statement to the police. The deposition indicates that there were a number of phone calls with both respondent and Edwards before she came down to the board of education. She testified that over the phone respondent informed her that she could not be arrested if she didn't pay the money. After a phone call with Edwards, who said they would come and pick her up at work, she went down to the board of education where both Edwards and Barnes were present. She testified that Edwards made the demands and that respondent told her that she could be locked up if the fine wasn't paid. Later, however, she testified that her conversations were with both respondent and Edwards, not primarily one or the other. She offered her wedding ring to pay off the fine but they refused. During her interaction with both respondent and Edwards, respondent tried to calm her and left at one point to get a nurse. In summary, Ms. Angelo's testimony is unclear and somewhat contradictory as to her conversations and interactions with respondent.

Separate from and addition to the deposition testimony which was part of the transmittal file to the OAL, the oral testimony provided at hearing in my view provided no competent providence to support the tenure charges.

Mr. Barnes testified on his own behalf. He had been in the position of Attendance Officer for only a short time before his title was changed to Attendance Officer/Field Monitor sometime in mid-1992. After his change in title, in or about July of 1992, he met with Mr. Harry Barber who at the time (and presumably as of the date of the hearing) served as the Director of Security, Attendance, and Legal Hearings for the respondent Board. He was also the respondent's supervisor. When he was assigned to work with Mr. Edwards, the testimony demonstrated that essentially he was told to follow Mr. Edwards around and to essentially learn on the job. Mr. Edwards was in the position that he occupied for twenty-five years. Initially, Mr. Barnes did not even know that bail was being collected but eventually he was informed of that by Mr. Barber who also advised him at that time that that practice should cease.

Mr. Barber testified as well as acknowledged that he instructed Mr. Barnes to follow Edwards around because he wanted Edwards to provide the respondent with "on-the-job training." He further acknowledged that he only told Mr. Barnes that a field monitor's job did not include the collection of bail money after Mr. Barber was informed by the local police that it was happening. Barber also assessed Mr. Barnes as being a good employee, someone who followed orders and did what he was told. He also acknowledged that after the incident involved which resulted in Mr. Edwards' indictment, a written policy was formulated by the Trenton Board of Education which explicitly precluded the field monitor/attendance officer to be in any way involved in the issuance of or enforcement of bench warrants.

As was noted in the procedural section of this opinion, the factual record did not make clear as to the circumstances and subsequent disposition of any action, civil or criminal, taken against respondent's co-worker, Mr. James Edwards. As a result, I solicited from counsel a stipulation of facts which I have marked into evidence as Joint Exhibit 1 (J-1). That stipulation indicates that tenure charges were filed against Mr. Edwards on the basis of the same facts and circumstances upon which the charges were brought against Mr. Barnes. The tenure matter instituted against Mr. Edwards by the Trenton Board of Education has been held in abeyance by the Department of Education (by letter attached to the stipulation dated September 10, 1994) as a result of the former's indictment for official misconduct and theft by unlawful taking brought against him by a Mercer County grand jury. The facts upon which that indictment were based, notes the stipulation, are the same as those which form the basis of the tenure charges against Edwards. Lastly, those criminal charges against Edwards have yet to be resolved.

As has been previously noted, the burden of proof in this matter rests upon the petitioner to demonstrate that the allegations against respondent are sustainable and that if so, dismissal from his position is appropriate.

See also, Kresse v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 111 N.J.L. 474, 479 (E. & A. 1933) (where the court held that if proofs presented by each side turn out to be equally persuasive on the issue in the case, which in Kresse questioned whether plaintiff's decedent met his death by accidental means as limited by the insurance policy, it is the duty of the jury to find for the (defendant). In other words, the burden of proof is not satisfied where the evidence on an issue of fact is evenly balanced between the parties.

The evidence need not, however, have the "quality of certainty" to satisfy this burden of proof, > but it must be a presumption grounded in reason and logic; mere guess or conjecture cannot be substituted for legal proof. The burden of persuasion is not sustained unless the evidence demonstrates the offered hypothesis as a rational inference, that is to say, a presumption grounded in a preponderance of the probabilities according to the common experience of mankind. It is not easy to lay down with precision the line of demarcation between a just and reasonable inference and mere conjecture or surmise. The accepted standard of persuasion for the triers of the facts is that the determination be probably founded in truth. A bare quantitative preponderance is not enough. The evidence must be such in quality as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusion. The measure of the weight of the evidence is "the feeling of probability which it engenders." Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 27 N.J. 263 (1958)O, citing Wigmore on Evidence (3d ed.) § 2498. See Sivak v. City of New Brunswick, 122 N.J.L. 197 (E. & A. 1939).

> [Joseph v. Passaic Hospital Ass'n., 26 N.J. 557, 575 (1958).]

On the whole, the foregoing evidence in the matter sub judice does not establish by a preponderance of the believable evidence that the incidents occurred. The quality of the evidence not only fails to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the conclusions asserted by the petitioner, but requires a great deal of conjecture to sustain the charges against respondent. Moreover, the statements to the police and excerpts from the deposition testimony constitute hearsay evidence. Though admissible in administrative hearings, there must be a residuum of legal and competent evidence in the record to support the ultimate findings of fact, N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b), which is nonexistent here.

Based on the factual record reviewed, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the tenure charges against respondent are sustainable. Consequently, the tenure charges should be dismissed.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the tenure charges instituted against Mr. Barnes be and are hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JAMES BARNES, BOARD	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board initially contends in its exceptions that there is sufficient evidence to sustain the within tenure charges on the basis of respondent's testimony. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 2) Here, the Board summarizes respondent's testimony at the hearing and points to relevant portions of the transcript of his deposition taken in a related civil matter to demonstrate that "it is unreasonable to believe Respondent could have thought his participation in Edwards' attempts to collect bail money was authorized under any Board policy." (Id. at p. 3)

The Board further asserts that the deposition testimony of June Angelo, also taken in the related civil matter, was uncontradicted by respondent and "clearly demonstrates Respondent's involvement in a scheme to extort money from parents." (Id. at p. 5) Thus, the Board reasons that this testimony should be considered "trustworthy and credible evidence of Respondent's inappropriate conduct " and the tenure charges brought against respondent should be sustained. (Id.)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board has failed to establish by a preponderance of credible evidence that the charges brought against respondent are sustainable. It is noted that to the extent the Board raises exceptions with respect to the hearing testimony of the witnesses and to the credence and weight ascribed to such witnesses by the ALJ, the Commissioner is cognizant that he cannot properly reject the ALJ's findings without reviewing those portions of the hearing transcript(s) relevant to the Board's exceptions. Rowley v. Board of Education of Manalapan-Englishtown, 205 N.J. Super. 65, 75 (App. Div. 1985); In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158 (App. Div. 1987). Inasmuch as it was the Board's duty to provide the Commissioner with such portions of the hearing transcript, (Morrison at 158), and the Board failed to do so, no obligation arises for the Commissioner to review them before rendering a final decision regarding the findings and recommendations of the ALJ. Moreover, as to the deposition testimony of June Angelo, which was made a part of the record herein, the Commissioner is not persuaded that such testimony offers an explicit showing of inappropriate conduct sufficient to sustain the within charges.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the within tenure charges brought by the Board against respondent are hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

The above-entitled matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for emergent relief hearing on June 19, 1995. The matter was scheduled for hearing on June 23, 1995. Before the scheduled hearing the petitioners' attorney, Stephen E. Klausner, Esquire, requested that the Order to Show Cause be withdrawn and requested that the matter proceed to a regular hearing. A telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for October 23, 1995 at 4:00 p.m., at which time the parties requested an adjournment pending settlement discussions. After several telephone calls and letters to counsel to ascertain the status of the matter and to determine whether petitioners intended to pursue their claim, I faxed a letter to Mr. Klausner on July 16, 1996 stating that unless I heard from him by July 25, 1996 I would dismiss the matter for failure to prosecute and/or for mootness

To date, Mr. Klausner has not responded to my letter of July 16, 1996. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the appeal of the Highland Park Education Association, Inc. and Donald Ralph be and is hereby DISMISSED for failure to prosecute.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

D.S. ON BEHALF OF HER MINOR DAUGHTER T.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF LAWNSIDE, CAMDEN COUNTY,

Respondent.

No appearance by or on behalf of petitioner

Harvey C. Johnson, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: August 5, 1996 Decided: August 7, 1996

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on April 1, 1996, when D. S., parent and natural guardian of T. S., (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education contesting the March 18, 1996 determination of the Board of Education of the Borough of Lawnside (hereinafter respondent) that T. S. was not entitled to attend the public schools of the district free of charge. An answer and counter-claim for tuition were filed on behalf of respondent on April 15, 1996. On May 21, 1996, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for July 3, 1996 at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law before the undersigned. By letter dated June 12, 1996, the undersigned had written to petitioner advising her as follows:

> The hearing which you requested in the above-captioned matter has been scheduled for July 3, 1996, 9 a.m., Office of Administrative Law, 9 Quakerbridge Plaza, Mercerville, New Jersey. At that time you will be responsible for presenting evidence on the following issues:
>
> 1. Have petitioners (D. S. and T. S.) been domiciled continuously in respondent's school district from November 22, 1995 through the present?
>
> 2. If the answer to the previous question is no, was petitioner's child nevertheless entitled to attend the schools in respondent's district free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1d or otherwise?
>
> 3. If the answers to issues number one and two are no, what is the amount of tuition payments owed by petitioner for the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools?
>
> I am enclosing a copy of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 for your convenience. The burden of proof to establish entitlement for T. S. to attend respondent's schools free of charge is upon you by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence.

> By copy of this letter I am informing respondent's attorney, Mr. Johnson, of the time, place and date for the scheduled hearing. If you send me any correspondence you must also sent a copy to Mr. Johnson.

On the morning of the scheduled hearing a telephone message was received from petitioner at approximately 8:30 a.m. advising that her transportation to the hearing had failed to show up. At 9:00 a.m. a telephone conference call took place between petitioner, counsel for respondent and the undersigned. During this call petitioner was advised by the undersigned that she should provide a full explanation in writing concerning all of the details of her transportation arrangements, her efforts to contact Denise Lee, the person whom she indicated was supposed to give her a ride to the hearing, Ms. Lee's explanation for not appearing, etc. and forward it to the undersigned with a copy to Mr. Johnson. The correct mailing address for the undersigned was given to petitioner at this time. Petitioner was advised that if her written explanation were deemed satisfactory, the hearing would be promptly rescheduled; otherwise the matter would be dismissed.

To date, no written explanation has been forthcoming from petitioner. Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has abandoned her request for a hearing in this matter, and accordingly, respondent's determination that T. S. was an ineligible student in the district schools from November 22, 1995 (the date of enrollment) to the present is hereby AFFIRMED and the petition of appeal is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

With respect to respondent's counter-claim for tuition, respondent's answer attaches an official publication available in the Board office and in public libraries showing the total per pupil cost for educating students in the district based upon the 1995-96 School Year Budget to be $8,181. Petitioner is hereby ORDERED to reimburse respondent the pro-rated cost for 1995-96 tuition commencing with November 22, 1995. Respondent is directed to send petitioner a bill setting forth the exact amount due within thirty (30) days after this decision becomes final.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner, by her lack of diligence in responding to the OAL, has abandoned her request for a hearing in this matter.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge affirming the Board's determination that T.S. was an ineligible student in the District from November 22, 1995 to the present is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq., petitioner is directed to remit to the Board of Education tuition for T.S., prorated to the time of her ineligible attendance in the District.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning citizens alleged there were improprieties and violations of law in the conduct of a special school election held on a referendum proposal to issue bonds to fund construction of new school buildings. The proposal was approved by the voters. Petitioners sought inquiry into the matter.

ALJ dismissed the petition, finding 1) the petition was not signed by "10 qualified voters at [the December 2, 1995] school election" (N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12); 2) the claim was without any reasonable basis due to absence of assertion of personal knowledge by petitioners; and 3) the petition failed to state a claim upon which relief might be granted. Thus, petitioners were unable to establish that the will of the people as expressed by the results of the special election were thwarted as the allegations did not provide any basis for voiding the results of the election.

Commissioner adopted determination of the ALJ with modification. Commissioner did not find that it was necessary to reach the question as to whether the petition required the signatures of 10 qualified voters who actually voted in the election in order to have standing to bring this matter before the Commissioner. Instead, even granting every inference to petitioners by assuming, arguendo, that the signatures were legitimate to challenge the election, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the within record did not substantiate the irregularities alleged to have occurred in this matter, nor that they were sufficient to have affected the outcome of the election within the meaning of the standard long interpreted by the courts. Moreover, Commissioner did not rule on campaign financing violations as these properly belong before the Election Law Enforcement Commission. Petition was dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SPECIAL SCHOOL ELECTION IN THE LACEY SCHOOL DISTRICT,

Thomas Palczewski, petitioner, pro se

Arthur Stein, Esq., for respondent Lacey Board of Education

Edward H. O'Hare, Esq., for intervenor Lacey Township Education Association (Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 2, 1996 Decided: July 31, 1996

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In the Lacey School District, a special election was held on a referendum proposal to issue $16,790,000 in bonds to fund construction of new school buildings and the voters "at [the] school election" approved the proposal 2,254 to 1,907. N.J.S.A. 18A:24-12; 18A:20-4.2(d); 18A:14-

63.12, emphasis added. Thomas R. Palczewski has alleged that actions by the Lacey Board of Education's (BOE's) school system's employees and the Lacey Township Education Association (LTEA) affected the outcome of the election and he has demanded that the New Jersey Commissioner of Education undertake an "investigation" and make "inquiries" relative to such actions. P-1. See N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 (now repealed)

More particularly, in Mr. Palczewski's letter (treated as a petition) to the Commissioner, he has written the following:

> Below I have listed various items that took place during or prior to the December 2, 1995 School Referendum. I am requesting that you review these items and perform the necessary investigation inquiries:
>
> 1. Employees of the school system used public funds that may have influenced the outcome of the referendum. This took place when the Lacey High School Principal wrote letters to past graduating classes encouraging them to vote via absentee ballot. . . . (School Grounds and Equipment)
>
> 2. School Officials campaigned by wearing yes stickers and also asked students to vote yes for the referendum during school classroom time. Students were asked to write essays as to why they need a new school. These essays most likely influenced parents as to how to vote. (School Grounds and Equipment)
>
> 3. Students held mock elections in a manner that created great peer pressure to vote yes. Alternative viewpoints were never presented.
>
> 4. Interviews of [BOE] members in favor of the referendum were made on School-Sponsored TV Channel 21. Opposing viewpoints were never asked [for] or given equal time to present their view point. (School Grounds and Equipment)
>
> 5. The example of how to vote (in balloting booth) was completed with a yes vote. This obviously was designed to influence people to vote yes. Districts 9 and 10.
>
> 6. Absentee Ballot lists were not present at district locations.

> 7. To the best of my knowledge, Lacey Teachers Association [the Lacey Township Education Association] did not declare themselves as a PAC. The same may be true for the Parents-Teachers Association.
>
> 8. Phone calls encouraging people to vote were made from a local professional firm that may benefit from the construction of a new school.
> [R-A.]

The BOE and the LTEA submit that the petition must be dismissed, for reasons including the following: (1) Mr. Palczewski's letter (petition) was not signed by "10 qualified voters at [the] school election," required for standing to bring the claim for the inquiry, etc. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, emphasis added (now repealed) (2) The signers of Mr. Palczewski's letter (petitioners) do not have the personal knowledge necessary to bring the claim. (3) Mr. Palczewski's letter (the petition) fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. (4) Because Mr. Palczewski has filed a petition for candidacy for election to the BOE, he has a conflict of interest and his claim, which is essentially against the BOE, should be barred. See N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 6, 1995, a letter requesting an "investigation," etc., signed by Mr. Palczewski and ten other persons was filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education. The Department treated the letter as a petition within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on December 13, 1995, it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On January 30, 1996, the BOE filed objections to certain interrogatories served by Mr. Palczewski. On February 23, 1996, the LTEA's papers were filed in support of a notice of motion to intervene. On February 29, March 19 and April 12, 1996, the BOE's papers were filed in support of a motion to dismiss Mr. Palczewski's claim for relief. (In the BOE letter filed March 19, 1996, it also requested an order placing "appropriate parameters" on the parties' "public statements concerning this matter." However, I deny that request as an impermissible abridgment of the freedom of speech. U.S.

Const. amends. I, XIV; N.J. Const. art. 1, ¶ 6. On March 22, 1996, Mr. Palczewski's letter was filed, objecting to the BOE's motion to dismiss. On March 26, 1996, the LTEA's papers were filed in support of the BOE's motion. On February 21, March 12 and May 9, 1996, Mr. Palczewski's letters, etc., were filed in support of his request for more responsive answers to interrogatories served on the BOE. On March 21, 1996, the BOE's letter was filed in response to Mr. Palczewski's letters relative to interrogatories. On May 14, 1996, Donna Kirk's letter was filed, relative to interrogatories the BOE directed to her. On July 2, 1996, a copy of Mr. Palczewski's letter to the BOE's attorney and copies of portions of the Lacey Middle School "Ninety-Six" yearbook were received (and they have been marked as exhibit P-5) and this last exhibit closes the record. (Given my granting of the BOE motion for summary decision, I will not address Mr. Palczewski's demand relative to interrogatories.)

On March 1, 1996, in the case captioned In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the City of Paterson, Passaic County, bearing OAL docket number EDU 4712-95N, a motion was made to dismiss based on the repeal of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-1 et seq., i.e., based on the contention that the Commissioner of the Department of Education, and therefore the OAL, no longer had jurisdiction over the matter. Barbara A. Harned, Chief Administrative Law Judge, entered a limited order of consolidation of OAL education cases bearing OAL docket numbers EDU 4706-95, EDU 4712-95, EDU 5149-95, EDU 12393-95, EDU 12572-95, EDU 360-96 and EDU 3010-96. No decisions were made on motions pending in this case, and the hearing was adjourned from its previously scheduled (June 4 and 5, 1996) dates pending entry of Chief ALJ Harned's order on the motion to dismiss. On June 11, 1996, Chief ALJ Harned entered an order denying the motion to dismiss and determining that the statutory change did not remove jurisdiction of this and the other cases from the Commissioner and the OAL. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Lacey Township is being developed and, consequently, since 1991, the number of students enrolled in the BOE's school system has increased by approximately 500. This has caused "non-traditional space and temporary trailers [being] used" for school buildings. Development is expected to continue and, based upon data available to the BOE, from 1996 to 2001 student enrollment is expected to increase by 500 to 700. R-B.

Given the above circumstances, the BOE determined that new school buildings should be constructed and it provided for a special election on December 2, 1995, to authorize $16,790,000 in bonds for such construction. R-B; N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(d); N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d); N.J.S.A. 18A:24-12; N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1.

The LTEA, the duly certified bargaining representative of teachers employed in the BOE's school system, also determined that, to alleviate significant classroom overcrowding in the BOE's school system, a new school building was required. The LTEA created a committee to promote passage of the bond referendum and, consistent with the reporting and disclosure requirements of the New Jersey Campaign Contributions and Expenditures Reporting Act, timely completed forms and filed them with the New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission (ELEC). N.J.S.A. 19:44A-1 et seq. LTEA-1; LTEA-A; LTEA-B; LTEA-C.

Donna Kirk, who signed Mr. Palczewski's letter, stated the following in her answers to interrogatories: She observed teachers wearing "Yes" stickers, possibly at the BOE's middle school. Students were "made to watch a very one sided video of why we need the new school and why the referendum must be voted on." "In the middle school, the teachers had the kids very 'riled' up over voting 'yes' for their mock referendum. When my daughter had the foresight to use her own mind and vote the way she wanted, kids stated yelling at her." She did not see a sample ballot showing how to vote on the referendum proposal. She "believe[d] [she] overheard 2 of the women speaking about not having the [absentee ballot] list - but [she] can't remember who they were." A "friend" told her she had received a telephone call encouraging her (the friend) to vote in favor of the referendum and, after she "pressed *69," she saw that the call was from Henderson & Breen, "a local engineering firm." P-4; see also P-5.

The election was held on December 2, 1995, from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. in the school system's five districts (polling places). James G. Savage, Jr., the BOE's business administrator and secretary, had supplied to each polling place a copy of the absentee voting list. The voting procedure was as follows: A prospective voter signed a register. Each voter was provided a card to be marked showing her or his vote. Each voter was provided a private voting booth in which to mark the card. In the booth, a sample ballot with instructions as to how to complete a ballot was provided. Each voter took the marked card to and inserted it in a tabulating machine. No worker monitored the booth, but an election worker was stationed at the tabulating machine. At 11:00 a.m., at one polling place, a voter notified the judge of elections that the sample ballot in one of the booths had been marked to show a "yes" vote and, immediately, the judge of elections removed the marked ballot and replaced it with an unmarked sample. R-B.

In the election, relative to the signers of Mr. Palczewski's letter: Mr. Palczewski voted. 1. Mary A. Palkovics did not vote. 2. Joe Palkovics did not vote. 3. Ernest F. Smith did not vote. 4. Carol M. Smith did not vote. 5. Thomas Smith did not vote. 6. Donna Kirk voted. 7. William P. Brady voted. 8. Veronica Brady voted. 9. Joan Jacobs did not vote. 10. Patricia Clancy voted. R-B. That is to say, the letter (petition) was not signed by ten persons who voted at the election. See N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12.

The 'voters at [the] school election" approved the bond proposal 2,254 to 1,907. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

(1) Standing to Request the Inquiry (Bring the Claim)

A board of education, such as the BOE here, has the power to "[p]erform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district." N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(d). And such a board of education must "provide . . . suitable educational facilities including proper school buildings." N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1.

When a board of education contemplates school construction, it may adopt educational specifications and plans, develop cost estimates, etc. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-16; N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.2, - 1.4(a), -1.4(d). However, the school district's voters' authorization, expressed in a special election, is required for the board of education to issue a bond to fund school construction (or land acquisition). N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2, 18A:24-10.

An official inquiry into an election procedure and/or a challenge to an announced result of an election have profound and disruptive effects on governmental offices and activities and standing to request such an inquiry and/or bring such a challenge does not arise in common law; it is created and limited by statute. Jones v. Mitchell, 194 N.J. Super. 387, 391 (Law Div. 1983), aff'd, 194 N.J. Super. 337 (App. Div. 1984).

That is to say, election laws are construed liberally to provide a broad right of franchise to vote. However, standing to compel an inquiry into an election procedure and/or to bring a challenge to an announced result of an election is limited.

Effective March 14, 1996, L. 1995, c. 278, amended and repealed sections of Title 18A, which previously governed the conduct of school elections. L. 1995, c. 278, requires, generally, that school elections be conducted pursuant to Title 19, which governs elections in New Jersey. For example, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 was amended to state:

> The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the state board or of the commissioner. For the purposes of this Title, controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws.
>
> [Emphasis added.]

At the time of the subject special election and at the time of the filing of the petition, in N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 (repealed as described above), the Legislature limited standing to compel an inquiry into election procedures, etc.:

> Upon written request within 5 days of the announcement of the result of an election by any defeated candidate, or, in the case of > a question, proposition or referendum, upon petition of 10 qualified voters at any school election, the Commissioner of Education or his authorized representative shall inquire into alleged violations of statutorily prescribed procedures for school elections, to determine if such violations occurred and if they affected the outcome of the election.

> [Emphasis added.]

Of Mr. Palczewski and the signers of his letter, only five actually voted "at [the] school election" and the first issue is whether the letter constitutes the "petition of 10 qualified voters at [the] school election," i.e., whether they have standing to compel the Commissioner to undertake the inquiry. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12.

"Qualified voters at any school election," "voters at any school election" and "voter" are not among the definitions in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12.

In N.J.S.A. 19:28-1, using words and phrases similar to those of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, the Legislature also limits standing to compel an inquiry into an election procedure and its effect on elections:

> When any candidate at any election shall have reason to believe that an error has been made by any district board or any board of canvassers in counting the vote or declaring the vote of any election, he may, on or before the second Saturday following such election, or declaration of any board of canvassers, apply to a judge of the Superior Court assigned to the county wherein such district or districts are located, for a recount of the votes cast at the election in any district or districts.
>
> When ten voters at any election shall have reason to believe that an error has been so made in counting or declaring the vote upon any public question at any election, such voters may, within a like time, make like application [to a judge of the Superior Court] for a like recount of the votes cast at the election on such public question.
> [Emphasis added.]

"Voters at any election" and "voters" are not among the definitions in N.J.S.A. 19:1-1. N.J.S.A. 19:28-1. "Election" is defined as "the procedure whereby the electors elect persons to fill public office or pass on public questions." N.J.S.A. 19:1-1.

N.J.S.A. 1:1-1 states:

> In the construction of the laws and statutes of this state, both civil and criminal, words and phrases shall be read and construed with their context, and shall, unless inconsistent with the manifest intent of the legislature or unless another or different meaning is expressly indicated, be given their generally accepted meaning, according to the approved usage of the language.

Consistent with N.J.S.A. 1:1-1, "voters," as used in N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, must be read and construed as "voters at any school election." Emphasis added.

In N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 and N.J.S.A. 19:28-1, the Legislature limited standing: The Legislature limited to a "defeated candidate" and a "candidate at any election," i.e., one whose name actually appeared on the ballot, standing, e.g., to apply for a recount relative to such an election and/or to inquire into alleged violations of election laws. Similarly, the Legislature limited to "voters at any school election" standing, e.g., to request inquiry into "alleged violations of statutorily prescribed procedures" for elections relating to a referendum. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12. Emphasis added. The Legislature (made up of elected officials) declined to extend such standing to persons who, e.g., merely had the legal right to vote at the time of the election - but who failed to actually vote. That is to say, the general meanings of "voter" are "one that votes or [one that] has the legal right to vote." Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary 1323 (1987) (emphasis added). However, the second meaning is inconsistent with the context of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 and the "manifest intent of the legislature," and, therefore, is inapplicable in this context. N.J.S.A. 1:1-1.

Here, a $16,790,000 bond proposal was approved by a vote of 2,254 to 1,907. Six of the letter (petition) signers failed to vote and there is no evidence that any of them was unable to do so because of justifiable incapacity. N.J.S.A. 19:57-2. (N.J.S.A. 19:57-2 defines "Absentee voter," "Civilian absentee voter," "Incapacitated absentee voter," and "Military service voter" as persons who, due to justifiable incapacity, are unable to cast or complete their ballots at the usual polling places.)

Given the above, the letter (petition), which was not signed by "10 qualified voters at [the December 2, 1995] school election," must be dismissed. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12; emphasis added.

Given the above conclusion, no decision may be necessary relative to the other bases for the BOE's motion. Nonetheless, on the other bases I would conclude as follows:

(2) The Requirement of Personal Knowledge by the Petitioners

Administrative adjudication is governed by judicial principles, such as notice, due process and fundamental fairness and, consistent with these principles, an administrative claim must give to the adverse party fair notice of the factual allegations and the legal basis for the relief claimed. N.J.S.A. 52:14B -9; N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a); R. 4:5-2; R. 4:6-2(e); Juzek v. Hackensack Water Co., 48 N.J. 302, 314-15 (1966); Department of Envtl. Protection v. Stavola, 103 N.J. 425, 436 n.2 (1986); City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1, 32-34 (1980).

It is enough that a claimant have "reason to believe" the allegations in the claim that there should be a recount of an election result. N.J.S.A. 19:28-1. And N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 did not include the (unusual) requirement that a petitioner (claimant) have personal knowledge and/or verify the facts on which is based his request for the Commissioner's inquiry. Consequently, the absence of assertion of personal knowledge and/or verification of the facts alleged does not, of itself, require dismissal of the claim.

Here, however, the BOE served on Mr. Palczewski interrogatories asking him to set forth the "knowledge or information" of the ten person who signed his letter upon which the letter's allegations are based. To these interrogatories Mr. Palczewski answered, e.g., "I do not know what they know" and "I do not know. I did not ask." R-A1; R-B1; R-C; R-C1; R-D; R-E. This constitutes an absence of good faith "reason to believe" the allegations in the letter (statement of claim) and requires dismissal of the claim (petition.) N.J.S.A. 19:28-1. Compare N.J.S.A. 2A:15-59.1, where a friviolous claim is one without any reasonable basis.

(3) Statement of a Claim upon which Relief May be Granted

An administrative petition may be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a); R. 4:5-2; R. 4:6-2(e).

The letter's Item 1 alleges that "the Lacey High School Principal wrote letters to past graduating classes encouraging them to vote via absentee ballot." However, voting by absentee ballot is provided for by statute and the letter fails to cite any law violated by the alleged action. N.J.S.A. 19:57-2. Consequently, Item 1 fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted and is dismissed.

The letter's Item 2 alleges, "School Officials campaigned by wearing yes stickers and also asked students to vote yes for the referendum during school classroom time. Students were asked to write essays as to why they need a new school." Construed liberally, Item 2 states a claim that, e.g., during school classroom time, school officials wrongfully attempted to influence students relative to the election.

The letter's Item 3 alleges, "Students held mock elections in a manner that created great peer pressure to vote yes. Alternative viewpoints were never presented." However, the letter attributes no wrongdoing to, e.g., school officials, and it fails to cite any law violated by the alleged action. Consequently, Item 3 fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted and it is dismissed.

The letter's Item 4 alleges, "Interviews of [BOE] members in favor of the referendum were made on School-Sponsored TV Channel 21. Opposing viewpoints were never asked [for] or given equal time to present their view point." The letter fails to identify, e.g., school officials who used the "School-Sponsored TV Channel 21" to unfairly influence the election and fails to cite any law violated by the alleged action. However, if the petitioners supply such information, this allegation could be the subject of an inquiry.

The letter's Item 5 alleges that the "[e]xample of how to vote (in balloting booth) was completed with a yes vote. This obviously was designed to influence people to vote yes." However, the letter fails to identify who caused the "example" to be in the voting booth; when and where this occurred; and whether the will of the voters was thereby thwarted. Consequently, Item 5 fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted and it is dismissed.

The letter's Item 6 alleges, "Absentee Ballot list was not present at district locations." The letter fails to identify the locations at which the list was not present and fails to cite any law violated by the alleged action. However, if the petitioners supply such information, etc., this could be the subject of an inquiry.

The letter's Item 7 alleges that the "[LTEA] did not declare [itself] a PAC. The same may be true for the Parents-Teachers Association." However, the letter alleges no facts upon which it may be found that these organizations were required to register themselves as PACs fails to cite any law violated by the alleged action. Consequently, Item 7 fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted and it is dismissed.

The letter's Item 8 alleges, "Phone calls encouraging people to vote were made from a local professional firm that may benefit from the construction of a new school." However, the letter fails to identify the "local professional firm;" fails to state that the claimant has a reasonable basis to believe the facts alleged (it merely speculates that the firm "may [possibly] benefit from the construction"); and fails to cite any law violated by the alleged action. Consequently, Item 8 fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted and it is dismissed.

(4) The Effect of Petitioner's Petition for Candidacy for Election to the BOE

"No member of any board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with or claim against the board." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.

Mr. Palczewski's petition charges wrongdoing by "School Officials," and such charges are, at least indirectly, against the BOE. However, Mr. Palczewski is not (yet) a member of the BOE and I would not dismiss the petition on the basis of conflict of interest. (However, see Howell Township Board of Education v. Suchcicki, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 157, where, as a result of a candidate's conflict, (1) he was deemed not legally qualified for election to a board of education; (2) his nominating petition was invalid, null and void; and (3) his name as a candidate was removed from the ballot for election to the board.)

ORDER

I ORDER the petition DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SPECIAL	:
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
LACEY SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN	:	DECISION
COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Respondent filed timely cross-exceptions, as well as reply exceptions. Intervenor also filed timely reply exceptions. Both petitioners and respondent submitted additional filings not provided for in regulation, which are not considered herein.

Petitioners' exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), contending, inter alia, that respondent "[campaigned] consistently throughout the school system, during school hours on school grounds" for a bond referendum and used "[d]efenseless children while in the sanctity of their classrooms for these political activities." (emphasis in text) (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 2) To buttress these arguments, petitioners present 19 allegations, some which repeat initial allegations set forth in the petition along with new examples of alleged Board impropriety. (Id. at pp. 7-10) In that petitioners' claims were already fully and fairly considered by the ALJ at hearing, and in that new allegations may not be raised in exceptions, these arguments are not addressed herein.

Petitioners next generally aver that they filed the instant petition as "lay person[s]" and are "saddened that the judicial system is more concerned with the letter of the law than the spirit in which it was created." They assert that "[t]o administratively dismiss this petition would demonstrate that the legal system does not protect children unless the petitioner is properly represented by an attorney." (Id. at p. 2)

Petitioners further except that the six registered qualified voters who signed the petition but did not vote in this election did vote in prior school-related elections. They aver

> [t]he phrase "At any election" does not refer to a specific election. If this phrase was meant to pertain to a specific election it would have been worded as "Qualified Voters who voted in the election." (emphasis in text) (Id. at p. 6)

To illustrate their point, petitioners attach, a petition signed by 10 qualified voters in the matter entitled, In the Matter of the Annual School Election held in the School District of the Township of Willingboro, Burlington County, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 564. Petitioners say that such case was initiated based on the signatures of 10 registered voters and see no reason why the ALJ would allow for a "double standard" (presumably, in accepting that petition and not the present petition). (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 6)

Lastly, petitioners aver that respondent did not file with the Election Law Enforcement Commission. (Id. at p. 10)

In reply, respondent disputes each of petitioners' points with regard to Board impropriety in conducting its election. As noted, in that these arguments were generally addressed by the ALJ in the initial decision, they will not be considered again herein.

Respondent next contends, in regard to petitioners' pro se status, that it is "black letter law" that everyone is conclusively presumed to know, and in the absence of statutory or constitutional requirements, an agency is not required to give actual notice of the law. Respondent cites in support of its proposition, Board of Education of the Township of Howell v. Ben Suchicki, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 157, 158, as well as Graham v. N.J. Real Estate Comm'n, 217 N.J. Super. 130, 138 (App. Div. 1987), and In re Krah, 130 N.J. Super. 366 (App. Div. 1974). (Reply Exceptions at p. 11) Respondent avers that,

> [a]lthough the Department of Education is frequently confronted with litigation involving pro se parties, the regulation [N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.3] does not distinguish a lay person from any other petitioner. And certainly, the regulation does not state, or even suggest, that it is not reasonable to comply with its requirements. (Reply Exceptions at p. 12)

Further, respondent submits that the ALJ did not consider the Board's contention that it is nonetheless entitled to summary judgment since petitioners cannot establish that the will of the people was thwarted, was not fairly expressed, or could not properly be determined. In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Township of Madison, Middlesex County, 1974 S.L.D. 744, 751, quoting Love v. Freeholders of Hudson County, 35 N.J.L. 269 (Sup. Ct. 1871).

With regard to petitioners' arguments that they had proper standing in that 10 qualified voters signed the petition, the Board replies that

> [s]ignificantly, Petitioner[s] [have] not submitted any proofs to support this suggestion. Of course, such submission would presume that voting in prior school-related elections is relevant to whether one may sign a petition relating to a subsequent election. (Reply Exceptions at p. 15)

In the same vein, respondent further excepts that petitioners' reliance on In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Township of Willingboro, supra, is misplaced in that the case contains no discussion whatsoever of the statutory meaning of "voters at any school election."

Respondent next avers that the 19 allegations presented by petitioners to demonstrate misconduct in conducting the school election are "additional items outside the scope of the filed petition and are beyond the record," citing In the Matter of the Annual School Election held in the Parsippany-Troy Hills School District, Morris County, 1975 S.L.D. 203.

Intervenor avers that petitioners' claims that intervenor did not comply with the reporting and disclosure requirements of the New Jersey Campaign Contributions and Expenditures Reporting Act (hereinafter "Act"), were false. (Intervenor's Exceptions at p. 3) Further, it argues that even assuming that intervenor did not comply with the reporting and disclosure requirements of the Act such failure may not serve as the basis for voiding the results of the election. (Id. at p. 4) In this regard, it argues that the Act sets forth specific penalties for violations of the Act; voiding the result of a referendum election is simply not an option and cites N.J. Election Law Enforcement Commission v. Brown, 206 N.J. Super. 206 (App. Div. 1985). Next, it urges that the ALJ correctly held that the petition alleges no facts upon which it may be found that [intervenor was] required to register as [a PAC and] fails to cite any law violated by the alleged action." (Intervenor's Exceptions at p. 5)

Intervenor further concurs with and adopts arguments set forth at length in the cross-exceptions and response exceptions filed by the Board of Education, stating that "the Board presents compelling, indeed dispositive, reasons for adoption of the Initial Decision and dismissal of the petition." (Intervenor's Exceptions at p. 6) It further concurs that the petition is prima facie invalid. Citing N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, intervenor argues that "the petition was not signed by the statutorily prescribed '10 qualified voters at any school election' and should be sustained and adopted on that basis alone." (Intervenor's Exceptions at p. 6) Then as a matter of law, it argues, petitioners are unable to establish that the will of the people as expressed by the results of the special election has been thwarted as the allegations do not provide any basis for voiding the results of the election. (Id.)

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner determines to affirm the determination of the ALJ with modification as explicated herein.

Initially, in view of the fact that the statute at issue has now been repealed, and given that the ALJ proceeded with a hearing on the merits notwithstanding his threshold determination on standing, the Commissioner finds that it is not necessary to reach the question as to whether the petition required the signatures of 10 qualified voters who actually voted in the election in order to have standing to bring this matter before the Commissioner. Instead, even granting every inference to petitioners by assuming, arguendo, that the petition's signatures were legitimate to challenge the within election, the Commissioner nonetheless agrees with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that the within record does not substantiate the irregularities alleged to have occurred in this matter, nor that, even if they did occur, they were sufficient to have affected the outcome of the election within the meaning of that standard as long interpreted by the courts.

As to petitioners' exceptions to the contrary, the Commissioner finds these to be unpersuasive based on the record presented and herein notes that to the extent petitioners' challenge to the findings of the ALJ relies on proffered testimony, he cannot in the absence of hearing transcripts, which were not provided by the parties, ascertain the merits of petitioners' claims. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 157, 158 (App. Div. 1987).

Lastly, with regard to petitioners' allegations of campaign financing violations, the Commissioner notes that campaign financing matters properly belong before the Election Law Enforcement Commission pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:44A-5 and 19:44A-6. The Commissioner will not consider such questions herein.

Thus, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioners have not met the burden necessary to prevail in an election inquiry. Notwithstanding this finding, however, in view of certain allegations raised herein, the Commissioner reminds respondent and other boards of education of the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A: 42-4 which state:

> No literature which in any manner and in any part thereof promotes, favors or opposes the adoption of any bond issue, proposal, or any public question submitted at any general, municipal or school election shall be given to any public school pupil in any public school building or on the grounds thereof for the purpose of having such pupil take the same to his home or distribute it to any person outside of said building or grounds, nor shall any pupil be requested or directed by any official or employee of the public schools to engage in any activity which tends to promote, favor or oppose any such candidacy, bond issue, proposal or public question. The board of education of each school district shall prescribe necessary rules to carry out the purposes of this section.

Boards are further reminded of their obligation to develop policy and procedures in conformance with this statute so incidents of the type alleged herein may be prevented, or dealt with appropriately if they do occur.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, as modified above, and the instant appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SPECIAL ELECTION HELD IN THE LACEY SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 25, 1996

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Thomas Palczewski, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Arthur Stein, Esq.

For the Intervenor, Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak (Edward H. O'Hare, Esq., of Counsel)

Thomas R. Palczewski (hereinafter "petitioner") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education contending that irregularities had occurred during and prior to a bond referendum election held on December 2, 1995 in the Lacey Township school district. The Board of Education of the Township of Lacey (hereinafter "Board") filed a motion for summary decision, arguing, inter alia, that petitioner had failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted and that his petition had not been signed by 10 individuals who had actually voted in that election, as allegedly required by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12.[1]

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, which was repealed by L.1995, c. 278, s. 46, eff. March 14, 1996, provided that the Commissioner of Education was required to inquire into alleged violations of statutorily prescribed procedures for school elections "upon petition of 10 qualified voters at any school election."

2/5/97

The Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") recommended dismissing the petition, agreeing that the petition had not been signed by "10 qualified voters at any school election." N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12. The ALJ also found that the majority of petitioners' allegations failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's recommended decision with modification. The Commissioner found it unnecessary to reach the question of whether the petition was required to be signed by ten individuals who had actually voted in the election since the statute at issue had been repealed and "given that the ALJ proceeded with a hearing on the merits." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 20. The Commissioner concluded that the "record does not substantiate the irregularities alleged to have occurred in this matter, nor that, even if they did occur, they were sufficient to have affected the outcome of the election...." Id. Consequently, he dismissed the petition.

After a careful review of the record, we agree with the Commissioner's ultimate determination to dismiss the petition. We do so, however, for the reasons expressed herein, and modify his decision accordingly.

We find initially that petitioner has set forth several claims in his petition upon which relief could be granted. Petitioner alleges that teachers in the district involved students in a number of school activities designed to advocate passage of the bond referendum, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:42-4 and the Board's rules implementing that statute.[2] Petitioner further contends that a school principal sent letters to alumni on

[2] N.J.S.A. 18A:42-4 provides:

> No literature which in any manner and in any part thereof promotes, favors or opposes the candidacy of any candidate for election at any annual school election, or the adoption of any bond issue, proposal, or any public question submitted at any general, municipal or school election shall be given to any public school pupil in any public school building or district stationery urging their support for the referendum, in violation of the district's implementing rules prohibiting staff members from conducting political activities during school hours and on school property.

However, viewing the record in a light most favorable to petitioner, including the papers he filed in response to the Board's motion for summary decision, we are compelled to conclude that he has not come forward with any proofs or asserted any facts that would show a nexus between the violations alleged in his petition and the outcome of the election. In this respect, we stress that in order for an election to be invalidated, it must be shown that the irregularity influenced the election so as to have repressed a full and free expression of the popular will. In re Wene, 26 N.J. Super. 363, 383 (Law Div. 1953), aff'd, 13 N.J. 185 (1953). "It is well established that elections are to be given effect whenever possible and are not to be set aside unless it can be shown that the will of the people was thwarted, was not properly expressed, or could not fully be determined." In the Matter of the Annual School Election of the School District of Lacey Township, decided by the Commissioner, 91 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 3, 6, quoting In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the Township of Pittsgrove, decided by the Commissioner, 1976 S.L.D. 585, 589.

In this instance, the bond referendum at issue passed by a vote of 2,254 to 1,907, a difference of 347 votes, and petitioner, in response to the Board's motion for summary decision, has failed to offer any proofs showing that the irregularities alleged on the grounds thereof for the purpose of having such pupil take the same to his home or distribute it to any person outside of said building or grounds, nor shall any pupil be requested or directed by any official or employee of the public schools to engage in any activity which tends to promote, favor or oppose any such candidacy, bond issue, proposal, or public question. The board of education of each school district shall prescribe necessary rules to carry out the purposes of this section.

in his petition, even if true, had the effect of thwarting the will of the electorate. An election will not be set aside on the basis of mere speculation that the result would have been different. See In re Clee, 119 N.J.L. 310 (1937); In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the Borough of Ringwood, decided by the Commissioner, 1974 S.L.D. 591.

In this context, we correct the Commissioner's apparent misconception that the ALJ conducted a hearing on the merits of this matter. The ALJ's recommended decision was based on a motion for summary decision, and there is no indication in the record that he conducted a hearing or considered the merits of petitioner's claims.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, we grant the Board's motion for summary decision and dismiss the petition. Given our determination, and in light of the fact that N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 was repealed in 1996, we find no need to address the Board's contention that the petition was invalid because it had not been signed by ten individuals who had actually voted in the challenged election.

However, we cannot ignore the proofs submitted by petitioner regarding school activities conducted prior to the election, and we strongly admonish the Lacey Board that school children may not be "requested or directed by any official or employee of the public schools to engage in any activity which tends to promote, favor or oppose any...candidacy, bond issue, proposal or public question." N.J.S.A. 18A:42-4. We direct the Board to reexamine its rules governing such activities, along with its means of implementing those rules, in order to insure that future elections do not involve any such conduct.

Since we have rendered our final determination in this matter, we deny as moot the Board's motion to accelerate the proceedings. We also deny the Board's request to file a response to petitioner's reply brief as unnecessary for a fair determination of this case.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents sought emergent relief requiring the District to allow their daughter, D.S., to "skip" the eighth grade and proceed directly to her freshman year at Hunterdon Central. D.S. had been retained in first grade. Board contended matter was not only untimely but that D.S. needed the "transitional learning phase" of eighth grade to prepare for high school.

Commissioner denied emergent relief for failure to meet the Crowe standards. Additionally, the Commissioner found that even if petitioners' appeal were to be considered timely, petitioners could not demonstrate that the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable as is required in law for it to be reversed, so that no purpose would be served by further proceedings in this matter. Petition was dismissed. Commissioner directed that the file be returned to the agency by OAL.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This is a ruling and order issued in response to a motion instituted by J.S. and P.S. on behalf of their minor child, D.S., requesting that respondent, the Board of Education of the Flemington-Raritan School District, Hunterdon County ("Flemington-Raritan"), in which D.S. is currently enrolled, be placed in the ninth grade for the 1996-1997 school year, thus skipping her eighth grade class. D.S. completed her seventh grade class for the 1995-1996 school year. They further ask that D.S. be placed in the high school within the Hunterdon Central Regional Board of Education District (Hunterdon) to commence her ninth year of study in that her current placement, in the Reading Fleming Middle School, runs through the eighth grade only. For the following reasons, the petitioners' motion is DENIED.

I

On August 19, 1996, the petitioners filed an Amended Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief with the Commissioner of Education, seeking the relief previously articulated. On August 29th the respondent, Flemington-Raritan, filed its answer opposing the motion for emergent relief on its merits and also asserted a variety of affirmative defenses including but not limited to the "ninety day Rule," as delineated at N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2.[1] Thereafter, on August 30, 1996, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Commissioner of Education on the emergent relief motion. On September 3, 1996, oral argument was conducted and, in addition, the petitioners' exhibits, which were attached to the Petition of Appeal, were admitted collectively into the record.

In addition, James P. Granello, Esq., counsel to the Hunterdon Central Regional Board of Education, had corresponded in writing with the Commissioner of Education on August 16 and August 20, 1996, advising the latter of his intention to move to intervene in the proceeding. He was advised that he should appropriately make such motion once the case had been transmitted to the OAL. Accordingly, Mr. Granello was kept on the service list and appeared at the OAL on September 3, 1996, at which time he brought a motion to intervene on behalf of Hunterdon,

[1] Petitioners argued that, to the best of their knowledge, the respondent's answer was not submitted until August 30, 1996, one day after the ten day regulatory timeframe. I took official notice that the copy of the respondent's answer, which was transmitted by the Commissioner of Education, was officially stamped "in" on August 29, 1996, and have proceeded to decide the motion under that basis.

which motion was unopposed by Flemington-Raritan or the petitioners. In addition, Mr. Granello had not had the opportunity to review respondent's pleadings in the matter and was granted the opportunity to review those and also the opportunity to submit either an appropriate response to the petition of appeal from Hunterdon and/or a written argument on behalf of his client. He indicated that he would do so with all due expedition and hoped that the latest for that submission would be September 5, 1996. In the interest of due process and fundamental fairness I granted him that right. On September 5, 1996, my office received a hard copy of documents faxed the previous day on behalf of Hunterdon. Mr. Granello submitted an answer on behalf of respondent/intervenor to the petition of appeal. He also submitted a letter brief, dated September 3, 1996, embodying the arguments offered on behalf of Hunterdon in opposition to the motion. Accordingly, the record on the motion closed on the latter date, September 5, 1996. Because the school year began for D.S. on September 4, 1996, and because there was a strong probability that the written ruling and order in respect to the motion sub judice might not be received by the parties until several days thereafter, my secretary contacted the petitioners as well as counsel and advised them, as a courtesy, on September 5, 1996, of the disposition of the motion.

II

STANDARD FOR THE MOTION FOR EMERGENCY RELIEF

The standards utilized within the administrative forum in respect to motions for emergent relief are substantially the same if not identical to those applicable to temporary restraining orders or similar interim remedies within the courts. Both under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 and under well established rules within the judiciary in order for a moving party to prevail on a motion for interim relief, the moving party must demonstrate:

> (1.) The reasonably likelihood that it will prevail on the merits at a full plenary disposition of the proceedings;
> (2) immediate and irreparable harm will in all likelihood result to the moving party should the motion be denied; and

> (3) the remedies sought would be as limited in scope and temporary as is possible so as to allow the party or parties opposing the motion not to suffer undue harm.
>
> See the seminal case of Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-33 (1982); Wolfington Board Company Inc. v. Hunterdon Central Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 622, 624; M.S. v. Barnegate Township Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDS) 16, 17]

The Court must also evaluate the relative hardship to the parties and the public interest in granting or denying relief. Id.

"Harm is generally considered irreparable. . . if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages. In certain circumstances, severe, personal inconvenience can constitute injury justifying issuance of injunctive relief." Crowe at 132-33.

The requirement that petitioner show a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits "is usually tempered by the principle that mere doubt on the claim's validity is not an adequate basis for refusing to maintain the status quo. So frequently, emergency relief is granted to prevent a decree on the merits from becoming futile or useless by preventing the res from destruction or impairment." See, 37 N.J. Practice (Lefelt, Administrative Law and Practice) sec. 196 at 204. "Indeed the point of temporary relief is to maintain the parties in substantially the same condition when the final decree is entered as they were when the litigation began." Crowe at 134.

III

The facts of this matter have been derived exclusively from the petition of appeal submitted by the parties, the certification and affidavit, as well as the petitioners' exhibit 1, a compilation of D.S.'s school records through grades one through seven. Unless otherwise noted, the following is a substantially uncontradicted narrative of the operative facts on this motion. Where, however, a factual dispute presents itself, I shall set forth its adversarial basis and derive an express finding of fact, giving reasons to support it. Accordingly, I FIND:

D.S. is a fourteen year old girl who completed her seventh grade in the 1995-1996 school year, attending the Reading-Fleming Middle School in Flemington, New Jersey, and within respondent Flemington-Raritan School District. D.S. commenced her first grade within the district, attending the Barley Sheaf School in the 1988-1989 school year. As an incident to the first year of her schooling, D.S. was administered the Gesell Institute Of Human Development School Readiness Screening, referred to by the petitioners in their petition of appeal as the "Gesell Test." The petitioners note in their petition that they were advised by a school administrator in 1988-1989 that D.S.'s score on the Gesell Test was "below average," and at a level between kindergarten and first grade. At paragraph six of the petition they note that as a consequence, the administration "recommended to the petitioners that D.S. should not be promoted to second grade." In the following paragraph, paragraph seven, the petitioners indicate that "On reliance upon the administration, the petitioners did not oppose the retention of D.S. in the first grade in the 1989-1990 school year," which indeed D.S. repeated.

Thereafter, D.S. completed the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades consecutively, and based upon the petition of appeal, maintained what was described as "above average" academic grades.

The petitioners contend that in June 1996, they conferred with a guidance counselor at the Reading-Fleming Middle School and were advised that the district mistakenly advised them as to D.S.'s score on the Gesell Test; they contend that in fact her score in 1989 was such that she should not have been retained in first grade and compelled to repeat it.

It is based essentially on this factual scenario that the petitioners seek an order requiring the Flemington-Raritan District to essentially allow D.S. to "skip" the eighth grade and proceed directly to her freshman year in high school. Should that order be granted, D.S. would not continue at the Middle School where she has been educated for the past several years but rather would be, at her own request, placed at the Hunterdon Central Regional High School.

The petitioner's father, J.S., submitted an affidavit, dated August 13, 1996, which essentially addressed the procedures and efforts made by himself and representatives of the Flemington-Raritan School District to effect a non-adjudicatory remedy. The affidavit was embellished upon by J.S. in his oral argument. Essentially, he expressed his frustration in what he believed was an uncooperative school district in failing to comply with his request and also in failing to provide him guidance in respect to how he might seek redress should his informal efforts be unsuccessful. Essentially, the affidavit as well as J.S.'s testimony, describe decisions on various fronts which denied his request to have his daughter go directly from the seventh to the ninth grade based upon the reasons provided.

While I can certainly understand the frustration that the petitioners have experienced-indeed they acknowledge that the issue has been "tearing them apart"-from almost immediately after they agreed to D.S. being retained at first grade,-the circumstances of respondent's decision while it may have been delivered more courteously and sensitively in J.S.'s view, are not particularly probative in respect to the motion for emergent relief.

One aspect of the affidavit however was somewhat disturbing, J.S. notes at paragraph seven that one of the reasons which was provided to him the Superintendent of Schools of the Flemington-Raritan District for not promoting his daughter was that such action "was typically never done and that [the superintendent] could only follow the procedure set by the principal of the middle school." Affidavit J.S. at paragraph seven. In addition, on inquiry to respondent's counsel, I was advised that she was unaware of any written policy or board resolution which addressed the issue of when and under what circumstances a child may be advanced beyond the next expected grade. She did, however, note that on occasion there were circumstances under which exceptionally gifted children were allowed to take advance courses. While it may be beyond the purview of this decision as well as the purview of the law imposed upon local school districts, the respondent Board might find it worthwhile to consider adopting a written policy addressed to when and under what circumstances a child may advance a grade.

Lastly, the parents articulated what, in my judgment, was the central reason for their request to have D.S. skip a grade. They noted in their statements at oral argument that D.S. was physically very mature for her age and that because she appeared to be older than her classroom peers, she suffered from a lack of self-esteem, experienced difficulties in socialization and was bored and unmotivated. The petitioners related that many of her teachers referred to D.S. as the "mother of the class" in that she assisted teachers in various ways and exceeded the skills and maturity of her classmates. That circumstance, petitioners indicated, was the primary reason why they decided at this time to try to right the wrong that they believed occurred when D.S. repeated her first grade.

I have perused the various school records presented on behalf of the petitioners in support of their motion. I think it would be fair to characterize D.S.'s performance throughout the years as satisfactory to above average in terms of her grades. In addition, comments by teachers if anything indicated that she is a highly motivated child who strives to improve. In addition, there are areas of her academic performance that through the years are noted as requiring improvement. (It should be noted as well that some of the comments are illegible because the documents are not originals but photocopies). For example, her report card for her seventh grade, dated June 25, 1996, indicates for the fourth marking period a scattering of grades from A+ to B in a variety of course work. This represents improvement in a variety of courses, notably in foreign language skills. The teacher's comments reinforce this conclusion by indicating that D.S. has improved test grades in that area and that she demonstrates considerable effort and "is a pleasure to have in class". Her activities in class were described as "active" and her work product as "excellent". Thus, in my opinion, the results of the report card for seventh grade strongly suggest that, notwithstanding the argument offered by D.S.'s parents, the record demonstrates that D.S. is a motivated, involved, participatory child notwithstanding the suggestions made by her parents that she is not as motivated as she should be and is bored. In addition, her classwork, while good, is certainly not considered so exemplary either in the seventh grade or previous grades to warrant the conclusion that, separate and apart from what occurred in the first grade, she should skip her final grade in middle school and proceed directly to high school.

This conclusion is also reinforced by the submissions made on behalf of Flemington-Raritan. It should of course be noted that while D.S.'s parents impress me as being intelligent and knowledgeable, they are not expert educators, are deeply and emotionally involved in the issue of D.S.'s education and to that extent one must assume that they have been extraordinarily involved not just at this time but since the decision was made at D.S.'s first grade level not to dispute the decision to have to repeat that grade. To that extent, their expressions in respect to their views of D.S.'s educational growth and capability must be viewed with some skepticism since it is colored by their love and emotional commitment to their daughter's educational experience.

Reinforcing the assessment that I have derived through an examination of the educational packet submitted on behalf of D.S. by her parents, was the certification of Mr. Paul G. Metzger, the principal of the Reading-Fleming Middle School which D.S. attends. Principal Metzger unequivocally states that D.S. has not been inappropriately placed in the eighth grade for the 1996-1997 school year. Moreover, he notes, "advanced placement to the ninth grade would be detrimental to D.S.'s educational development [Certification, Paul G. Metzger, paragraph four, emphasis added]. He notes as well, that in considering the request made by the petitioners in this case to advance D.S. to the ninth grade at Hunterdon Central High School he conferred with D.S.'s guidance counselor and her seventh grade teachers. He also thoroughly reviewed her academic record. Based upon these assessments, Principal Metzger, in conjunction with the views expressed by D.S.'s seventh grade teachers and her guidance counselor, unambiguously concluded that "advanced placement in this case would not be appropriate." Id. at paragraph seven.

All of the educators directly involved with D.S. determined that D.S. must complete the eighth grade curriculum so as to be successful when entering high school as a freshman ninth grader. Counsel for Flemington-Raritan emphasized at oral argument that the reason that the eighth grade experience is so significant is because its provides a launching pad for the learning experience at the high school level. Particularly, she noted, that in eighth grade students commence independent study particularly in respect to language skills as well as mathematics-both important factors in the development of the student so that he or she may satisfactorily make the transition to a high school curriculum.

Principal Metzger uses the word "vital" to characterize D.S.'s need to continue in the eighth grade so as to encourage appropriate educational development. Id. at paragraph ten. In respect to the eighth grade curricula and educational approach to learning that I have previously touched upon, Principal Metzger at paragraph eleven of his certification, indicates and embellishes upon what counsel argued on the motion. He noted that the approach to foreign languages, mathematics and science is "significantly different" than learning instruction received in the seventh grade and that the eighth grade course of study and the approach taken at the middle school "is essential to adequately prepare D.S. for our regional high school curriculum." Principal Metzger characterized the independent learning skills taught in the eighth grade as a "transitional learning phase," necessary and vital for the preparation for high school. He also concludes that based upon D.S.'s tests scores and performance in the seventh grade it is the view of D.S.'s teachers as well as the principal that the educational program which is offered in the eighth grade "is necessary for D.S.'s educational and social development." Id. at paragraph twelve. Further, he notes that were D.S. to be accelerated to a ninth grade level and attend the regional high school in Hunterdon, the result would "not be in her best interests."

Principal Metzger also addressed himself to the concerns articulated by the petitioners at hearing and elsewhere that D.S. as a fourteen year old, will be significantly older than the other students entering eighth grade in September. He notes at paragraph fifteen that based upon his review with the guidance office, the student body entering eighth grade in D.S.'s middle school in September would have approximately 30% of its class attaining the age of fourteen by December of 1996. The petitioners dispute that finding indicating at hearing that 30 children rather than 30% of the class would reach that age. Clearly, I cannot make a factual determination in regard to this issue at the emergent relief level; nevertheless, in my view the question of how many other students will be fourteen is not of significant probative value in assessing the standards for granting or denying the petitioners' motion.

IV

Based upon the foregoing factual scenario, I shall now address the standards set forth earlier in this opinion in respect to when a motion for emergent relief should or should not be granted and whether the petitioners have been able to meet their burden of proof.

The first requirement in order to determine that the motion should be granted is that the moving party shall demonstrate a reasonable likelihood that it will prevail on the merits at a full plenary disposition of the proceedings. In my judgment, the petitioners have failed to meet their burden in this regard. Based upon the pleadings in this matter, as well as the affidavit, certification and oral argument, the genesis of the petitioners' claim that D.S. rightfully belongs in ninth grade is their assertion that during D.S.'s first grade experience in 1988-1989, when she was required to repeat that grade as a consequence of what petitioners indicate was her score on the Gesell Test, the guidance counselor who assessed that test and determined to require D.S. to repeat first grade was mistaken. In fact, had the guidance counselor properly read the results of D.S.'s score on the Gesell Test, petitioners assert, she would have proceeded directly to second grade.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, in order to properly initiate a proceeding before the Commissioner of Education to determine a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws:

> [A] petitioner shall file with the Commissioner the original copy of the petitioner, together with proof of service of a copy thereof on the respondent or respondents. Such petition shall be filed within ninety (90) days after receipt of the notice by the petitioner of the order ruling or other action concerning which the hearing is requested.

Any consideration of the timeliness issue must begin with the determination of when the petitioner received "notice . . . of the order, ruling or other action" complained of. The petitioners fully acknowledge that when they were advised by an administrative representative of respondent in 1988-1989 that D.S.'s scores were such that she should repeat first grade they did not oppose that action and reluctantly agreed to the decision. They knew or reasonably should have known in 1988-1989 that if they believed that the district was improperly compelling their daughter to repeat first grade, a means of redress would be available. Petitioners struck me as intelligent people. D.S.'s mother formerly was employed by a law firm. D.S.'s father is, to the best of my recollection, active in the local board of education where he resides. The fact that an administrator may have told the petitioners that the decision was final should not place any parents in the position of assuming that they could not seek redress outside of the school itself. Indeed, that was not even the scenario alleged here. D.S.'s parents agreed to the decision (see petition at paragraph seven).

In my judgment, a very serious question is thus raised as to whether the claim asserted in this matter comports with the ninety (90) day rule. A very strong case could be made that the basis of this appeal,-if indeed that is the basis-there was some ambiguity in respect to the positions expressed by the petitioners at oral argument,-is stale. The petitioners could have and should have, if they felt aggrieved when it was decided that their daughter should repeat first grade, opposed that decision. Perhaps a telephone call to an attorney who has some experience in education law would have been the appropriate thing to do and could have, in theory, (I am not judging the issue of whether the decision to hold D.S. back to repeat first grade was or was not proper) resolved the matter to the satisfaction of the petitioners eight years ago. Thus, there is a reasonable likelihood in my opinion that the petitioners cannot overcome the initial hurdle to prevailing on the merits in this matter-demonstrating that their assertions in respect to the genesis of this problem has been timely brought before the Commissioner pursuant to the ninety (90) day rule as set forth under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2.

But even if arguendo the petitioners are able to overcome the ninety (90) day rule, it is my view that they still have not been able to demonstrate a likelihood of prevailing on the merits in this matter. Determinations in respect to pupil promotion and remediation rests in the sound discretion of the local school districts. See N.J.S.A. 18A:35-4.9; N.J.A.C. 6:8-7.1(a). The exercise of this sound discretion must be examined in the context of the general proposition that pupils in New Jersey are entitled to a free and appropriate public education. See 20 U.S.C. 1401(a)(20). Thus, even if the petitioners would be able to overcome the obstacle of the probable untimeliness of their appeal, when based upon an argument that the decision to hold their daughter back to repeat first grade was improper, they still have not approached the burden of proof necessary to prevail. They would unlikely be able to to demonstrate that the decision arrived at by the respondent, to require D.S. to complete eighth grade, with full knowledge of the arguments offered by the petitioners in respect to what they described as a mistake made in holding their daughter back in first grade, was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and contrary to the obligation of Flemington-Raritan to provide D.S. with a free and appropriate public education. All of the evidence presented demonstrates that from an academic and learning perspective D.S. belongs in eighth grade. I will not repeat the factual basis of this determination but will refer the reader back to my discussion of the school records offered by the petitioners as part of its motion and to the certification of the principal of the middle school, Mr. Metzger. It would seem that the position that D.S. should proceed to eighth grade and satisfactorily complete that program was a unanimous one taken by all of those educators directly involved in her learning experience at Flemington-Raritan. The petitioners themselves have no complaints in respect to the quality of her education or her learning experience. That they may believe that D.S. has become bored with school work may very well be true. There are many students who are bored with school work who nevertheless must overcome that boredom to obtain a foundation for higher education.

The primary basis, in my opinion, of the decision by the parents to request that D.S. skip eighth grade is their perception of her emotional discomfort. She, in their opinion, is physically more mature and more developed than other children in her grade level and she perhaps is also more emotionally mature. That, however, is not a reason to allow a child to skip a grade. For if we were to adopt that approach, all chaos would break loose within our school system. One can only imagine if the Commissioner of Education would adopt as a standard for promotion or demotion the physical maturity of the child and/or his or her emotional development. Would that mean that if a child is maturing more slowly than his or her peers he should be demoted? Obviously, children develop at different periods of time in their lives. One cannot determine when hormones become active. There is no authority provided by the petitioners or found by my office which would remotely suggest that with all else being equal, a child should be permitted to skip a grade because she has become more physically mature than her peers.

While I sympathize with the position articulated by the petitioner in respect to the possible emotional impact D.S.'s maturity may have on her, in of itself that cannot serve as a basis to allow her to skip eighth grade. The overriding educational objectives which have been presented on this motion are far more compelling in respect to allowing her to continue on the educational track that she has been on since second grade. It should also be noted as an aside that no argument has been offered to demonstrate that even if a child has been improperly held back at first grade level the appropriate remedy would be to permit that child to skip a grade eight years later. In my view, it would be much more damaging to D.S. to miss the educational experience of the eighth grade and proceed directly to high school,-even if she found herself among children and young men and women who were as physically advanced as she. Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioners have been unable to demonstrate a reasonable likelihood of succeeding on the merits of this matter should it proceed to plenary hearing.

The second prong to be satisfied in order to be granted emergent relief is for the petitioners to demonstrate that immediate and irreparable harm will in all likelihood result to the moving party should the motion be denied. In my judgment, the petitioners have failed to satisfy this standard as well. School is scheduled to begin September 4, 1996. This holds true for both the middle school and for the Hunterdon-Regional High School. Why this matter came before me as late as it did remains unclear. The point is however that there is a greater likelihood that irreparable harm would result by granting the motion then by denying it. So for example, if D.S. were granted her request to skip eighth grade and sent to ninth grade and if thereafter either the Commissioner reverses this decision by the administrative law judge or he upholds it and the district requests a full plenary hearing, that plenary hearing may not be conducted until several months from now and a final decision arrived at months thereafter. Suppose that decision reverses the initial ruling which sent D.S. to high school and sometime in mid-semester, perhaps as late as early 1997, she is returned to eighth grade? As Mr. Granello noted in his oral argument, under those circumstances, D.S. would in all likelihood be unable to complete eighth grade by the conclusion of the 1996-1997 school year and would thus find herself falling even further behind chronologically then where she already stands. In addition, the emotional impact on her could be traumatic. But even if this scenario were rejected, in my judgment, there is no immediate and irreparable harm here. The petitioner has been satisfactorily performing academically and it makes much more sense to have her stay put in eighth grade unless and until her parents are able to demonstrate on the substantive merits of this proceeding that she is improperly placed. Since I have already indicated that there is very little likelihood of there being able to establish that, both from a timeliness perspective as well as substantively, there is a far greater likelihood that harm would result to D.S. by dropping her into high school and finding several months from now that she was improperly placed. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petitioners have been unable to demonstrate that immediate and irreparable harm will in all likelihood result to D.S. should the motion be denied.

The final prong of the emergent relief standard requires that the remedy sought be as limited in scope and temporary as possible. In this instance, the remedy sought is, on the contrary, as broad in scope as can be effected: the petitioners are requesting that D.S. be plucked out of middle school after having completed seven successive grades and dropped into a brand new much more sophisticated environment-the Hunterdon Regional High School. One can only think of the trauma she may experience under those circumstances. She cannot be a "little bit" in high school; she would be totally uprooted from an educational environment she has been on track with since second grade. I therefore CONCLUDE that the petitioners have failed to demonstrate that the remedy which it has sought is limited in scope and is as temporary as is possible. Indeed, it is my view that from every perspective (perhaps excepting the argument offered by the petitioners that D.S. may feel awkward because she is more physically mature then other young girls surrounding her) it is in D.S.'s best interests to remain in eighth grade, continue to achieve success from an academic perspective, continue to mature, and then enter high school successfully prepared to meet the academic, emotional and social challenges with which she will be confronted. She will hopefully learn from them and they will enrich her life.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the petitioners' motion for emergency relief be and is hereby DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The audiotape of emergent proceedings before the ALJ, and the initial decision on Motion for Emergent Relief of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) denying emergent relief as petitioner failed to meet the standards for such relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, and R. 4:52-1.

Further, upon review of the facts and arguments presented in the petition and answer, and in reviewing both parties' arguments as to petitioners' likelihood of success on the merits and the ALJ's findings in such regard, it is clear that petitioners' filing is untimely, based on the fact that she is challenging a Board determination from the 1988-89 school year when she was required to remain in first grade, so that this matter must be dismissed on the merits. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) plainly states that a petition "must be filed within 90 days after receipt of the notice by the petitioner of the order, ruling or other action concerning which the hearing is requested."

However, even if petitioner's appeal were to be considered timely, it is equally plain from the existing record that the Board has advanced a reasonable basis upon which it denied petitioners' request for D.S. to bypass the eighth grade. Thus, the Commissioner finds that petitioners cannot demonstrate that the decision arrived at by the Board was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable as is required by law in order for it to be reversed, so that no purpose would be served by further proceedings in this matter.

Accordingly, the ALJ's determination to deny emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed. Consistent with this holding, the Commissioner directs that the file of this matter be returned to the agency by OAL in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(a).

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SEPTEMBER 26, 1996

Resolution Adopting Decision

In the Matter of Marcy Matlosz
Mansfield Township Board of Education

Whereas, Marcy Matlosz was appointed as a new board member to the Mansfield Township Board of Education in June 1993; and

Whereas, Marcy Matlosz was elected to the Mansfield Township Board of Education for a three-year term in April 1994; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Act at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires all new board members to attend board member training within one-year of appointment or election to the board; and

Whereas, on June 19, 1995, the School Ethics Commission issued an Order to Show Cause against Marcy Matlosz for failing to comply with the statutory requirement; and

Whereas, Marcy Matlosz supplied a certification on July 11, 1995, stating that she was not aware of the requirement; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association publishes the requirement to attend training, the dates of training and sends correspondence to board members who have not attended training; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association held sixteen training sessions between May 1994 and March 1996, five of which occurred after the Order to Show Cause issued in June 1995; and

Whereas, Marcy Matlosz was appointed to the board in 1993, elected to a full three-year term in 1994 and did not attend training until March 16, 1996; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission, having considered her initial response, but being unaware of her subsequent registration for training, recommended her removal from the Mansfield Township Board of Education on January 23, 1996, and forwarded its recommendation to the Commissioner of Education; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education, being apprised of her subsequent attendance at training, remanded the case to the School Ethics Commission for further proceedings in light of the evidence that Ms. Matlosz attended training; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission considered all of the aforementioned documents and heard testimony from Marcy Matlosz at its meeting of May 28, 1996, regarding her reasons for not attending training until March 16, 1996; now therefore

BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of a two-month suspension for failing to attend training until March 16, 1996, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33.

Paul C. Garbarini 6/18
Paul C. Garbarini, Chairman

Upon adoption of this formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission, the matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." You must copy the School Ethics Commission on your comments.

I hereby certify that the Resolution was adopted by the School Ethics Commission at its public meeting on June 18, 1996.

IN THE MATTER OF MARCY MATLOSZ, :

MANSFIELD TOWNSHIP BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION, WARREN COUNTY. : DECISION

The Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the Resolution Adopting Decision of the School Ethics Commission, dated June 18, 1996, including a recommendation for respondent's two-month suspension from office for failure to attend Board member training until March 16, 1996, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4.

Respondent's comments concerning the recommended sanction were timely filed with the Commissioner on June 19, 1996. Respondent requests that the Commissioner deny the Commission's recommendation of suspension in that she is "a working mother and was unable to take a course prior to March of 1996 due to her hectic schedule." Respondent further notes that if March 1996 were too late to take the course, she should have been notified of this fact in July 1995 when she registered for such course.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopts as his own the recommendation of the Commission. The Commissioner concurs that a two-month suspension is appropriate in view of respondent's significant and insufficiently justified delay in obtaining the required training, noting that > the New Jersey School Boards Association held sixteen training sessions between May 1994 and March 1996, five of which occurred after the Order to Show Cause issued in June 1995.

> (Resolution Adopting Decision at Para. 7)

In reaching this determination, the Commissioner notes that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 is clear in its mandate for training within the first year of board membership and imposes no requirement upon either the School Ethics Commission or the New Jersey School Boards Association to grant extensions for noncompliance. Rather, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4(c),the School Boards Association need only "present to the School Ethics Commission a list of those board members who have not fulfilled the training mandate for the previous filing period" for enforcement as set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4(d).

Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that respondent be suspended from office for a period of two months from the date of the Board's receipt of this decision.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning principal contended that the Board improperly reduced his salary in violation of his tenure rights when it transferred him from high school principal to elementary principal. During the 1994-95 fiscal year, petitioner's salary remained frozen at $83,341, the amount he had previously earned as a high school principal. In May 1995, the Board adopted a resolution increasing petitioner's salary for the 1995-96 fiscal year to $87,463. Three weeks later, however, the Board adopted a second resolution purportedly rescinding the earlier resolution and reinstating the salary of $83,341.

ALJ concluded that the Board's attempt to reduce petitioner's existing salary for 1995-96 violated the statutory protection of the tenure law. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that principals who have acquired tenure in their positions "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause." ALJ ordered the Board's action of May 30, 1995, by which it sought to reduce petitioner's salary to $83,341, declared to be null and void. Board was ordered to reinstate petitioner's salary of$87,463 for the 1995-96 school year and to pay him the difference of $4,122 within thirty days of the date of the Commissioner's decision.

Commissioner concurred with the conclusion of the ALJ that the Board's attempted action to rescind petitioner's vested salary was invalid in that such action contravened petitioner's tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Commissioner directed payment to petitioner.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a school principal who contends that a board of education improperly reduced his salary in violation of his tenure rights. Effective July 1994, the board of education transferred petitioner from principal of the high school to principal of an elementary school. Both principalships are twelve-month positions.[1] During the 1994-95 fiscal year, petitioner's salary remained "frozen" at $83,341, the higher amount that he had previously earned as a high school principal. On May 9, 1995, the board adopted a resolution increasing petitioner's salary for the upcoming 1995-96 fiscal year to $87,463. Three weeks later, however, the board adopted a second resolution purportedly rescinding the earlier resolution and reinstating the salary of $83,341.

Basically, the case presents two issues: First, whether the action of the board constitutes a "reduction in compensation" in contravention of petitioner's tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Second, whether petitioner's salary should remain frozen at the high school principal's salary for 1993-94 or be increased to reflect the rate for an elementary principal on the 1995-96 salary guide. Petitioner claims that he is entitled to receive the salary of an elementary principal on a ten-month salary guide, adjusted to twelve months. Respondent argues that petitioner is entitled to the same salary that he was receiving as high school principal at his year of transfer until such time as the salary on the elementary principal's guide would be greater.

Procedural History

On July 31, 1995, petitioner Thomas Fedor ("Fedor") filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). Respondent Elmwood Park Board of Education ("Board") filed its answer on August 15, 1995. Subsequently, on September 7, 1995, the Commissioner forwarded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for determination as a contested case. Since all material facts are undisputed, the parties have agreed to submit the matter for disposition on stipulated facts. They filed a written stipulation of facts on February 28, 1996. Thereafter, both parties filed legal briefs and petitioner filed a reply brief. The record closed on May 13, 1996. Exhibits are listed in the appendix.

[1]Ordinarily, an elementary principalship in this district is a ten-month position.

Findings of Fact

The parties have entered into the following stipulation of facts:[2]

1. Petitioner is a tenured principal employed by the respondent. By virtue of his service, petitioner had tenure as a principal prior to the 1993-94 school year.

2. For the period July 1, 1993 to June 30, 1994, petitioner was appointed by the respondent to the position of High School Principal. This was a 12 month position and petitioner's annual salary for that time was $83,341 ($82,766 base salary plus $575 longevity).

3. By letter dated February 25, 1994, the petitioner was notified that he was being reassigned from his position as Principal, Elmwood Park Memorial Junior/Senior High School to Principal of the Gilbert Avenue School, effective July 1, 1994.

4. Petitioner received a memorandum, dated September 26, 1994, providing him with a copy of the job description adopted by the respondent and applicable to his assignment as an Elementary Principal.

5. Petitioner was employed by the respondent as Principal of the Gilbert Avenue School from July 1, 1994 through June 30, 1995. He received an annual salary of $83,341 because his previous salary as a High School Principal was higher than that of an Elementary School Principal.

6. Petitioner was reappointed by the respondent as Principal of the Gilbert Avenue School, effective July 1, 1995 and is scheduled to work through June 30, 1996. This employment was confirmed in a resolution adopted by the respondent on May 9,1995.

7. On May 9, 1995, the respondent took the following action:

   BE IT RESOLVED: that the superintendent recommends that the board of education approve the appointment(s) of the following school district administrators for the 1995-1996 school year as listed below:

[2] References to the attached exhibits have been omitted.

NAME	POSITION	SALARY
	* * *
Thomas Fedor	Principal (Gilbert)	$87,463
	* * *

NOTE: Salaries include longevity if applicable

Approved unanimously by roll call vote of the members present.

8. Petitioner received a memo, dated May 10, 1995, confirming his appointment for the 1994-95 school year and establishing his salary for such employment at $83,341 per year. Petitioner signed and returned the annual notice of salary for the 1994-95 school year.

9. Petitioner received a memo, dated May 10, 1995 providing him with an annual notice of salary for the 1995-96 school year. Consistent with he respondent's resolution of May 9, 1995, the annual notice indicates that petitioner's 1995-96 salary would be $87,463 per year. Petitioner signed and returned this annual notice.

10. On May 30, 1995, the respondent took the following action:

PERSONNEL

MOTION OF: Mr. Freitag
SECONDED BY: Dr. Landou

BE IT RESOLVED: that the superintendent recommends that the board of education rescind the resolution (May 9, 1995) with reference to the following administrator:

NAME	SALARY	LONGEVITY	TOTAL SALARY
Tom Fedor	$86,888.	575	$87,463.*

*12 month position

The above motion was carried by a vote of eight (8) ayes and one (1) no (Dr. Landou).

MOTION OF: Dr. Landou
SECONDED BY: Mr. Luke

BE IT RESOLVED: that the superintendent recommends that the board of education approve the salary (1995-1996) for the following administrator per contractual that the superintendent recommends that the board of agreement:

NAME	SALARY	LONGEVITY	TOTAL SALARY
Tom Fedor	$82,766.	575.	$83,341.*

12 month position

The above motion was carried by a vote of eight (8) ayes and one (1) no (Dr. Landou).

11 Petitioner received a memo, dated May 31, 1995, notifying him of the respondent's action of May 30, 1995, rescinding the resolution it adopted on May 9, 1995, establishing petitioner's salary at $87,463 for a 12 month position and approving his salary for the 1995-96 school year at $83,341 for a 12 month position.

12. The respondent and the Elmwood Park Administrators Association have entered into a collective negotiations agreement establishing terms and conditions of employment for the 1993-94 through 1995-96 school years. This agreement is applicable to, among others, Principals employed by the respondent. Salaries for employees covered by the agreement, including principals, are contained in Article VI of the agreement.

13. Respondent's Gilbert Avenue School is an elementary school.

14. Twelve month principals employed by the respondent are paid in 24 equal installments during the course of the school year. While employed as Principal of the Gilbert Avenue School, petitioner was paid his annual salary in 24 equal installments from July 1, through June 30.

15. Twelve month principals employed by the respondent receive 20 vacation days and 12 sick days per year. While employed as Principal of the Gilbert Avenue School, petitioner has received 20 vacation days and 12 sick days plus two additional sick days for years of service.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's attempt to reduce Fedor's existing salary for 1995-96 violates the statutory protection of the tenure law.

Fedor never challenged the Board's original decision to transfer him from principal of the high school to the equivalent rank of elementary school principal. See Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 176 N.J. Super. 154, 158 (App. Div. 1980), certif. den. 87 N.J. 306 (1981). Similarly, he did not complain about any loss of potential earning power, in light of the settled legal principle that "future increases in salary, or salary expectation, is not an appropriate factor to be considered in determining the validity of a transfer." Williams, at 162. However, when the Board voted to increase his salary for 1995-96 and then voted to rescind that increase, Fedor initiated both a grievance proceeding and the present action before the Commissioner to vindicate his tenure rights. In non-binding arbitration conducted as part of the grievance procedure, the arbitrator determined that Fedor does not possess any contractual entitlement to the larger salary. Nonetheless, the arbitrator expressly acknowledged that he had "no authority to rule on any question with statutory tenure" and "could only rule on contractual tenure, if appropriate." Elmwood Park Bd. of Educ. and Elmwood Park Adm'rs & Supervisors Ass'n, Case No. 18 390 00428 95 (April 15, 1996) (at 13). Moreover, the nature of the arbitrator's nonbinding opinion is advisory only. Thus, the arbitration decision does not resolve the question of Fedor's rights under Title 18A, which falls clearly within the Commissioner's general jurisdiction "to hear and determine . . . all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that principals who have acquired tenure in their positions "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause." (Emphasis added.) N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 reiterates that no tenured teaching staff member shall be reduced in compensation, except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause and then only after a hearing held in accordance with the Tenure Employees Hearing Law. Related statutory provisions, not pertinent here, authorize school boards to reduce the size of its staff for reasons of economy or efficiency and place any affected employees on a preferred reemployment list. N.J.S.A.. 18A:28-9 to -14.

A long line of school law decisions has interpreted this reduction-in-compensation language as prohibiting a local board from rescinding a resolution approving a tenured employee's salary in a given year, unless the board successfully brings tenure charges or the employee is laid off or demoted as the result of a reduction in force. Illustratively, in Anson v. Bridgeton Bd. of Educ., 1972 S.L.D. 638, 640 (Comm'r Dec. 5), the Commissioner declared that tenured teachers "acquired vested rights to the salaries established for them by the Board's adoption of their salary placement" and that they could not "be deprived of a right they had acquired by action of the board". Accord, Docherty v. West Paterson Bd. of Educ., 1967 S.L.D. 297 (Comm'r Oct. 23), where the Commissioner ruled that a board may not adopt a subsequent resolution to correct a mistake in a tenured teacher's placement on the salary guide, if the mistake "was not of [the teacher's] making." See also, Rivers v. Mercer Cty. Area Vo-Tech. Schs., 1984 S.L.D. 102, 108 (Comm'r Jan 17) and Galop v. Hanover Twp. Bd. of Educ., 1975 S.L.D. 358 (Comm'r May 16), aff'd 1975 S.L.D. 366 (St. Bd. Sept. 10), where the Commissioner invalidated attempts by local boards to recoup small overpayments of salary that were not "of windfall proportions."

Recently, in Gerity v. Woodbridge Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 522, 525 (Comm'r Sept. 12), the Commissioner reaffirmed the continuing validity of this precedent by delaying a school board from taking any corrective action until the contract year following approval of an erroneous salary amount. One reported appellate opinion recognizes that the tenure law prevents a board from reducing a tenured teacher's salary where both parties have "undertaken performance of the contract" and the teacher has already started to work. Stockton v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., 210 N.J. Super. 150, 157 (App. Div. 1986). But the Commissioner's decisions go even further and protect a teacher's vested interest as soon as the board has adopted a resolution setting the new salary, regardless of whether the teacher has yet worked under the new salary guide. Cf. Docherty, supra (school board fixed teacher's salary on April 6 and superintendent endeavored to correct error on June 7).

It may be that the State Board will someday want to reconsider whether the tenure law was truly intended to bar a school board from correcting clearly-erroneous payments of public funds to an employee. But see Rivers, supra, at 114, wherein the Commissioner cautioned that "until such authority is overruled by a change in the law," the statutory interpretation adopted by the State Board of Education is binding at the lower level. In any event, the current facts do not present an appropriate opportunity for the State Board to conduct a reappraisal of its earlier rulings. Contrary to respondent's unsupported assertion, this is not a situation where a school board is simply seeking to correct a clear error. Rather, the original resolution represents a good faith effort by the Board to set a fair salary for an administrator who had been involuntarily transferred to a new position. Faced with the task of adjusting a ten-month salary guide to fit the circumstances of an elementary principal who works for twelve months, the Board opted for the rationale choice of paying him at the elementary principal's rate for a full twelve months.[3] There is no logical inconsistency in paying twelve months of salary to an employee who actually works for twelve months and is treated like a twelve-month employee in terms of sick leave and vacation pay. Hence, the situation is very different from genuine mistake, such as inadvertently placing a teaching staff member on the wrong step of the salary guide for a person with his particular experience and qualifications.

In view of the conclusion that the Board's attempted rescission of Fedor's vested salary was invalid, it is unnecessary to address the second issue of when salary frozen at a higher level due to a lateral transfer should be "defrosted." It is noteworthy, however, that cases involving comparable situations have granted tenured employees

[3] Although the record does not disclose why Fedor was given a twelve-month assignment whereas most elementary principals in the district work only ten months, the Board may have felt that if he were to continue being paid at the frozen salary of a high-school principal, he should work a full twelve months.

a prorated share of salary calculated at their current rate on the salary guide. See Bassett v. Oakland Bd. of Educ., 223 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 1988) (full-time teacher transferred to a part-time position must be compensated at the salary rate for full-time teachers rather than at a lower hourly rate); Casey v. Cinnaminson Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 585 (St. Bd. Oct. 5) (teacher's aide suffered a reduction of compensation when her salary rate dropped, even though her annual salary increased as a result of an extended work year). See also, Allen v. Newark Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 12013-93 (Oct. 13,1994), adopted, Comm'r (Nov. 30, 1994) (supervisor sustained no real damage as result of her transfer to a teaching position because her per-diem rate as a teacher exceeded her per-diem rate as a supervisor). Thus, the Board's original decision to pay Fedor at the elementary principal's rate is consistent with existing case law. Otherwise, Fedor would have be forced to work a longer year at a lower rate of pay than the other elementary principals in the district.

Order

It is ORDERED that the Board's action on May 30, 1995 by which it sought to reduce petitioner's salary to $83, 341 is declared to be null and void.

And it is further ORDERED that the Board reinstate petitioner's salary of $87, 463 for the 1995-96 school year and pay him the difference of $4,122 within thirty days of the date of the final administrative decision.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that the Board's attempted action on May 30, 1995, to rescind petitioner's vested salary was invalid in that such action contravened petitioner's tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.*

Accordingly, the initial decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons articulated therein. The Board is directed to pay petitioner the difference in earnings to which he is entitled in accordance with the Commissioner's determination herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. authorizes the School Ethics Commission to recommend removal of any board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Bedell was elected to the school board in September 1994 and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA)advises prospective school board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit" and advises new board members of the requirement in a letter congratulating them on their achievement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence in December to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend board member training and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 15, 1995, advising that they have only three more programs to attend without being in violation of the Act; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the School Ethics Commission, the New Jersey School Boards Association published a notice entitled, "Last Chance to Meet Training Requirements" in the February 23, 1996 edition of School Board Notes advising that the March 16, 1996, session was the last that board members elected or appointed before June 1995 could attend without penalty; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association conducted eight training sessions on the following dates:

June 2-4, 1995
June 16-18, 1995

September 8-10, 1995
September 22-24, 1995
October 24, 1995
January 6, 1996
January 20, 1996
March 16, 1996; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association continuously published the dates and locations of the training sessions and indicated that training was a state mandate; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirements was March 16, 1996, yet the Commission allowed the June 1996 sessions to fulfill the requirement without setting precedent for future violations; and

WHEREAS, the above-captioned board member failed to attend training for well over the one-year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission issued an Order on April 25, 1996, directing the board member to Show Cause why he or she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission considered the board member's reply to the Order, but found same to be insufficient in light of the aforementioned notices and opportunities to attend training; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated June 4, 1996, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), the Commission notified said board member of the opportunity to appear before the Commission, be represented by counsel, and present witnesses on his or her behalf; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commissions finds that the failure to attend board member training from April 1995 to June 1996, constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-33 and warrants removal from the board,

NOW THEREFORE IT IS RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that despite adequate opportunities, the above-named board member has failed to attend the training program as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and thus violated that provision. The Commission therefore, recommends to the Commissioner of Education that said board member be removed from office. The Commission further recommends to the Commissioner that a copy of his decision removing the board member be transmitted to the board secretary of the district in which said board member serves and the county superintendent for the district.

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of her failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), on April 23, 1996, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why a penalty should not be imposed for such failure; and

Whereas, on May 10, 1996, the Board secretary responded to such Order advising that the above-named Board member was scheduled to attend the October 22, 1996 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission, having considered such response, voted on June 18, 1996 to recommend removal of the above-named Board member for failure to attend training sessions in violation of State statute, and forwarded this matter to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated June 20, 1996 from the Commission, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to the Commission's decision recommending removal; and

Whereas, on July 9, 1996, the Pemberton Borough Board of Education filed a response to such decision stating that the above-named Board member has demonstrated her willingness to comply with the training mandate and has offered valid reasons for her inability to previously attend, further advising that this Board member was registered for the October 1996 training session; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and determines that, in light of the above-named Board member's demonstrated inability to attend prior sessions and registration at the next available training session in October 1996, the severe penalty of removal is not warranted at this time; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member shall not be removed, but shall be suspended for a period of two months to commence upon the Board's receipt of this decision, or until the required training is completed, whichever is longer.

SEPTEMBER 26, 1996

IN THE MATTER OF	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
TOM BURTON	:
STOW CREEK BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
	:	RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. authorizes the School Ethics Commission to recommend removal of any board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Burton was elected to the school board in April 1995 and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA)advises prospective school board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit" and advises new board members of the requirement in a letter congratulating them on their achievement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence in December to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend board member training and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 15, 1995, advising that they have only three more programs to attend without being in violation of the Act; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the School Ethics Commission, the New Jersey School Boards Association published a notice entitled, "Last Chance to Meet Training Requirements" in the February 23, 1996 edition of School Board Notes advising that the March 16, 1996, session was the last that board members elected or appointed before June 1995 could attend without penalty; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association conducted eight training sessions on the following dates:

June 2-4, 1995
June 16-18, 1995

September 8-10, 1995
September 22-24, 1995
October 24, 1995
January 6, 1996
January 20, 1996
March 16, 1996; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association continuously published the dates and locations of the training sessions and indicated that training was a state mandate; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirements was March 16, 1996, yet the Commission allowed the June 1996 sessions to fulfill the requirement without setting precedent for future violations; and

WHEREAS, the above-captioned board member failed to attend training for well over the one-year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission issued an Order on April 25, 1996, directing the board member to Show Cause why he or she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission considered the board member's reply to the Order, but found same to be insufficient in light of the aforementioned notices and opportunities to attend training; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated June 4, 1996, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), the Commission notified said board member of the opportunity to appear before the Commission, be represented by counsel, and present witnesses on his or her behalf; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commissions finds that the failure to attend board member training from April 1995 to June 1996, constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-33 and warrants removal from the board,

NOW THEREFORE IT IS RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that despite adequate opportunities, the above-named board member has failed to attend the training program as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and thus violated that provision. The Commission therefore, recommends to the Commissioner of Education that said board member be removed from office. The Commission further recommends to the Commissioner that a copy of his decision removing the board member be transmitted to the board secretary of the district in which said board member serves and the county superintendent for the district.

Paul Garbarini, Chairman
School Ethics Commission

Date: June 18, 1996

I certify that the within Resolution was duly adopted by the School Ethics Commission at its Public Meeting on June 18, 1996.

IN THE MATTER OF TOM BURTON, :

STOW CREEK BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

CUMBERLAND COUNTY. : DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), on April 23, 1996, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why a penalty should not be imposed for such failure; and

Whereas, on May 2, 1996, the above-named Board member responded to such Order, advising that he planned to take the training course scheduled for October 22, 1996; and

Whereas, the Commission considered the reply to the Order and found same to be insufficient in light of the aforementioned notices and opportunities to attend training; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was given an opportunity to appear before the Commission at a meeting concerning his failure to take the training course but did not appear; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on June 18, 1996, to recommend removal of the above-named Board member for failure to attend training sessions in violation of State statute, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on June 20, 1996, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner comments to the Commission's resolution recommending removal; and

Whereas no comments to the aforesaid resolution were filed; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission. After such review, the Commissioner finds that, based on the Board member's assertions that he intends to take the required training on October 22, 1996, the severe penalty of removal is not warranted at this time; however, some lesser penalty is warranted for such Board member's insufficiently explicated delay in meeting the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Wherefore, the Commissioner modifies the Commission's penalty determination of removal to suspension of the above-named Board member; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member shall not be removed, but rather shall be suspended from office for a period of two months from the date of the Board's receipt of this decision, or until such time as he completes the required training, whichever is longer.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed General Fund cap waiver in the amount of $381,425 rejected by voters.

Upon review of the record, Commissioner determined to order the increase of the full amount of $381,425 in cap waiver monies for a total General Fund tax levy of $2,117,150 for the 1996-97 school year.

SEPTEMBER 30, 1996

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER	:
APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE BOROUGH OF LAWNSIDE,	:	DECISION
CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

For the Board of Education of the Borough of Lawnside, Harvey C. Johnson, Esq.

For the Borough Council of the Borough of Lawnside, Wayne Bryant, Esq. (Freeman, Zeller & Bryant)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 17, 1996, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Lawnside Board of Education (Board), seeking to appeal the defeat of the Board's cap waiver proposal at the annual school election.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In March 1996, the Board advised the County Superintendent that the Board would need a "voter cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) in order to be able to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E) in the District. Following a series of meetings and discussions, the County Superintendent ultimately determined, by way of letter dated March 13, 1996, that the entire amount of the Board's proposed $381,425 voter cap waiver was necessary for T & E and, therefore, appealable in the event of voter defeat.

At the annual school election on April 16, 1996, the Board submitted a proposed General Fund tax levy question of $1,817,725, as well as its proposed cap waiver question of $381,425, to the voters of Lawnside; both questions were defeated by the voters. On May 21, 1996, the Board of Education determined to reduce the 1996-97 budget by $82,000 due to a change of circumstance in the District. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Mayor and Council reviewed the defeated budget, and determined to certify a tax levy of $1,735,725 reflective of the $82,000 reduction made by the Board. As a result of this reduction, the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Lawnside expressed support for the original cap waiver amount; so that the appeal filed on June 17, 1996 was deemed uncontested.

On June 17, 1996, the County Superintendent submitted his affidavit and supporting documents attesting to the process that led to his conclusion, and that of the Department of Education's Cap Waiver Review Panel, that the cap waiver funds finally approved were both necessary for T & E and unable to be reallocated from within the base budget. No replies to this filing were made by the parties.

The Board's Position Statement was duly filed on July 2, 1996, at which time the record was deemed closed, pending receipt of the June 30 report below.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner, dated March 12, 1996, and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1996-97 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

The amounts at issue in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by Council
General Fund	$1,817,725	General Fund	$1,735,725

Amount of Reduction by Council		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$ 82,000	General Fund	$ -0-

Amount of Cap Waiver as T & E and Appealed Herein	$381,425
Amount of Cap Waiver Not Approved as T & E and Appealed Herein	$ -0-
TOTAL AMOUNT ON APPEAL	$381,425

The cap waiver requested by the Board included the following line items, which were determined by the County Superintendent to be necessary for T & E as set forth below:

Account Title	Account Number	Amount
Kindergarten-Teacher Salaries	11-110-100-101	$ 5,427
Grades 1-5-Teacher Salaries	11-120-100-101	27,626

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such T & E to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of T & E. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). With respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is both fully necessary for purposes of T & E and unable to be derived from further reallocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993; Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standards to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

By way of introduction, the Commissioner notes the Board's comments regarding the District's fiscal and programmatic status for the past few years, noting the Board has maintained a high quality instructional program while maintaining funding at a level below the district cap, thereby providing property tax relief. Further, the 1994-95 audit showed that the District had $645,923 in current expense surplus funds for the 1995-96 school budget. As of June 1996, the current expense surplus for the 1995-96 school year was anticipated to be approximately $222,898 of which $100,000 has been appropriated for the 1996-97 budget. This will leave an estimated surplus of $122,898 as of June 30, 1997. Consequently, the District contends, there are insufficient funds in the projected surplus to appropriate the cap waiver amount of $381,425. If the entire projected amount of $122,298 were appropriated, there would be a deficit of $259,127 and no surplus to cover any contingencies. According to guidelines issued by the Commissioner of Education, the Board should have a minimal surplus balance of 3% of its budget. Using a current expense budget of $4,233,529, the Board argues it should, at a minimum, have a surplus of $127,006. The Commissioner notes that the proposed 1996-97 budget, including the cap waiver amount of $381,425, reflected an increase of 2.5% over the revised 1995-96 budget. The appropriation of surplus in the 1995-96 school budget created the need for the voter cap waiver in 1996-97 since those funds were no longer available and the District was required to make up the shortfall with property taxes.

The Board generally contends that the cap waiver sought maintains existing programs, provides no new programs, and accurately reflects the cost of operation of those programs. Each of the items included in the cap waiver relates directly to the District's T&E goals. Moreover, the base budget and the cap waiver request were carefully reviewed by the Camden County Superintendent who determined that the cap waiver was needed, and approved the 1996-97 budget for advertising as being sufficient to provide T & E upon the condition of the submission of a cap waiver in the amount of $381,425. The Board and Council Body were able to agree upon reductions of $82,000 in the base budget because two teachers who retired after the budget was submitted could be replaced at a savings of $43,831 and the Tuition-Private School for the Handicapped line item was reduced by $38,169. The Council supports the need for certain specific line items as set forth below.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Kindergarten - Teacher Salaries	11-110-100-101	$ 5,427
Grades 1-5 - Teacher Salaries	11-120-100-101	27,626
Grades 6-8 - Teacher Salaries	11-130-100-101	33,436

One of the positions affected in this account grouping is Physical Education. The program promotes and attempts to maintain health, safety and physical well-being. Without a physical education program, continued efforts to encourage positive physical-health habits would not exist. The other position affected in this grouping is the part-time computer instruction teacher. Without this position, advancement in the area of technology will be limited and not in keeping with State goals and objectives.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that these amounts have been proven necessary for T & E. The budgeted amounts relate to existing positions. The Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the need for maintenance of its educational programs.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Other Salaries for Instruction	11-190-100-106	$ 13,200
Other Salaries for Instruction	11-205-100-106	6,900
Other Salaries for Instruction	11-230-100-106	13,019

The Board says the existing program includes three instructional assistants, one of which is assigned to the Special Education Department. Presently, two instructional assistants support classroom instruction by providing individualized attention to students experiencing academic difficulty. In addition, these assistants offer opportunities for students to receive supplemental help as they prepare for state and local standardized tests. The instructional assistants assigned to the special education program provide the individualized attention needed for the students to achieve academic and emotional success. If this position is removed, the Board avers its efforts to continue to provide an environment which is least restrictive would not exist.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that these amounts are necessary for maintenance of T & E.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Tuition-Regular	11-000-100-561	$103,200

This is a mandatory expense in conjunction with the sending/receiving contract for educational services for our high school students. The Board avers it cannot be reduced.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner concurs that this amount is necessary for T & E. However, upon such review, it also appears that the District may have underbudgeted this line item, in that the number of students for whom tuition has been appropriated between the budget and cap waiver appears to be less than the number given in the advertised enrollment. Accordingly, the County Superintendent is directed to inquire into this matter and recommend appropriate corrective action as necessary.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Attendance & SW Salaries	11-000-211-100	$ 12,867

The Board explains that the position affected in this area is the home/school coordinator. Presently, this position provides a link between home and school. In addition, this position facilitates a positive working relationship with borough officials in an effort to coordinate activities and programs for our youth. Without this position, the Board contends these efforts would not be maintained.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Child Study Team Salaries	11-000-219-104	$ 7,400

This category affects the school psychologist position. Presently, the psychologist services the Board's special needs population three days per week. These salaries will be reduced to two days per week. In order to adequately provide continuous mandated services, the Board argues that the present status of this position needs to maintain its three-day schedule.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Clerical Salaries	11-000-219-105	$ 1,379
Clerical Salaries	11-000-240-105	$ 12, 941

Two part-time clerical positions are affected in this grouping. One is the Basic Skills Clerk Typist who supports the Title I program and the other supports the Child Study Team. The Board avers that such positions are essential in order to maintain and expedite necessary forms, applications, and general communications as needed.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that these amounts have been proven necessary for T & E.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Principal/Assistant Principal Salaries	11-000-240-103	$ 43,181

The existing position provides leadership in school level planning for improvement of instruction, staff development and implementation of performing objectives, and core course proficiencies. This leadership also establishes and maintains an effective learning climate for all students. The Board argues that if this position were to be eliminated, monitoring and implementation of programs affecting student achievement would not exist.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Maintenance Salaries	11-000-260-100	$ 29,100

This existing position affects the head custodian. In order to ensure a safe, clean, healthy environment for staff, students, and the community, the Board avers the head custodian's position is necessary in that its elimination would impede the coordination of maintenance efforts and operation of the facility.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Transportation-Other H/S	11-000-270-512	$ 1,000

The Board explains that this line item provides opportunities for the students in grades K-8 to visit education-oriented facilities that coordinate with classroom experiences.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Other Employee Benefits	11-000-290-290	$ 49,289

The Board notes that this line item is a mandatory expense covered by an employment contract and cannot be reduced.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E.

Description	Account Number	Amount
Transfers to Cover Deficit	11-000-310-930	$ 21,550

The Board avers that this line item is a necessary expense to support the operation of the Food Service Program provided for the student population.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E.

The Commissioner notes that the total of the amount budgeted for this line is comparable to 1994-95 expenditures and reflects an increase over the 1995-96 budgeted amount. During 1995-96, the District appropriated all available surplus funds accumulated by the food service to reduce the Board contribution amount in that year. The increase over the 1995-96 budgeted amount is comparable to the appropriated surplus amount, making all three years comparable. The Commissioner approves these appropriations as necessary for maintenance of T & E.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected $222,898 in surplus and allocated $100,000 as revenue, leaving $122,898 as undesignated unreserved surplus. The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board Secretary's report) reveals that the District's projection was reasonable and that no excess surplus funds are available.

Based on the above, subject to verification through the Board's 1995-96 annual year-end audit report, the Commissioner determines that no allocation from surplus is possible to fund any of the line-item appropriations approved herein as necessary for T & E.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner finds that $381,425 appealed by the Board herein is necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the District and, further, that the monies in question cannot be derived from reallocation within the General Fund budget. The Commissioner additionally notes that all line-item waivers to expenditure limitations granted herein, as summarized below, represent restricted appropriations in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

Accordingly, the Camden County Board of Taxation is directed to make any necessary adjustments, subject to verification of surplus amounts through the year-end audit, to raise $2,117,150 in the tax levy for General Fund purposes of the Lawnside Board of Education for the 1996-97 school year as set forth above. Additionally, in view of the possible underbudgeting noted above, the County Superintendent is directed to inquire into the actual number of students for whom tuition must be paid to Haddon Heights and to recommend such corrective measures as he deems appropriate to address any underbudgeting that may have occurred in the tuition account.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The above-captioned case arises from a claim that Belleville Board of Education member Frank Montagna violated the School Ethics Act by influencing the hiring of his wife as game personnel. Complainant Gabriel Nazziola filed the complaint on November 9, 1995. Mr. Montagna filed his answer pursuant to an extension by the Commission on January 9, 1995. He subsequently filed an amendment to the answer on January 18, 1995. After investigating the matter, the Commission notified the parties that the matter would be heard at the Commission's April 23, 1996 meeting. However, Mr. Montagna retained counsel who requested an adjournment. Thus, the case was rescheduled for the May 28, 1996, meeting of the Commission.

At its meeting of May 28, 1996, the School Ethics Commission heard testimony from Frank Montagna, Ralph Mazzuca, Karen Fuccello and Marguerite Moscatello during its executive session. Mr. Montagna was represented by Lisa Rusciano, Esq. Mr. Nazziola did not appear. At its public meeting, the Commission found probable cause that Frank Montagna violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (g) by presenting his wife's name for consideration as game personnel by the Supervisor of Athletics and later voting on the resolution to approve her appointment. On May 31, 1996 the Commission forwarded letters to the parties setting forth the facts that it believed to be undisputed and asking the parties to file written statements on whether the respondent's conduct constituted a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (g) of the School Ethics Act. Mr. Nazziola requested an extension of time to file his statement and the Commission extended the date until July 9, 1996. The matter was scheduled for decision at the Commission's July 23, 1996 meeting. The complainant's statement was received on June 19, 1996. Respondent's attorney alleged that she never saw the letter setting forth July 9, 1996 as the new deadline and requested an extension to file. Respondent's written statement was received on July 16, 1996.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

In September 1995, the Belleville Board of Education advertised for names of candidates for game personnel to be submitted to the Athletic Supervisor. Game personnel consist of persons who assist and student athletic events. The board of education pays them $28.00 per game. Mr. Montagna submitted the name of his wife and Richard Fisicarro in an envelope that he delivered to the Athletic Supervisor. Mr. Montagna says that he did so without comment; however, this is disputed by the complainant who says that Mr. Montagna attempted to exert undue influence upon the Athletic Supervisor. The Athletic Supervisor testified that Mr. Montagna only handed her the names of his wife and Mr. Fisicarro. Further, she testified that she in no felt that he was trying to exert influence over her by doing so.

After hearing all of the testimony and reviewing the pleadings, documents and written statements submitted, the Commission finds there to be no dispute with regard to the following facts.

1. Frank Montagna was elected to the Belleville Board of Education in April 1995. Mr. Montagna's first meeting as a board member was the reorganization meeting of the board on May 1, 1995.

2. In September 1995, Mr. Montagna heard an announcement, possibly through the superintendent, that the Supervisor of Health, Driver Education and Athletics, Karen Fuccello, was seeking persons to serve as game personnel. Game personnel are persons who assist at student athletic events by taking tickets and assisting with seating and other duties.

3. Sometime in September 1995, Mr. Montagna delivered to Karen Fuccello in her business office an envelope containing the names of his wife and another district resident. He told her he was submitting the name of his wife and the other citizen for the game personnel positions.

4. The board pays game personnel $28.00 per game.

5. On October 10, 1995, the board voted on a general resolution to approve the list of 33 game personnel including respondent's wife, Rita Montagna. Mr. Montagna voted on the resolution and the resolution passed unanimously.

6. Although the resolution referred to an attached list of names of persons who were recommended to be game personnel, no list was attached to the agenda when the respondent voted at the October 10, 1995, meeting. According to the board president, this was a common practice. The list had been attached to the agenda in the closed session prior to the open meeting.

7. The 33 persons who applied to be game personnel were hired and the games were distributed without preference.

8. Rita Montagna worked two football games in the fall and two wrestling matches in the winter.

Mr. Montagna states that since the vote was unanimous, his vote did not have any impact on the passage of the resolution. Further, he urges the Commission to recognize that he defeated the complainant, Mr. Nazziola, in the election on April 7, 1995, and to attribute the filing of the complaint to this fact.

ANALYSIS

Complainant sets forth that Mr. Montagna's actions violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b), (c), (f) and (g) of the School Ethics Act. The Commission found probable cause with respect to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (g) N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial or personal involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment.

In the present case, respondent admits to presenting the Athletic Supervisor with his wife's application and later voting for the resolution naming her as game personnel. The resolution passed unanimously, so respondent is correct that his vote was not the deciding vote in whether his wife would be approved. Nevertheless, his participation in the vote constitutes acting in his official capacity in a matter in which his immediate family member had a financial and personal involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity. The fact that he did not have the list of 33 names in front of him will be considered as a mitigating factor when determining the penalty. However, it does not excuse his violation. The list was provided prior to the meeting, although it was not attached at the meeting. Mr. Montagna knew that his wife applied for the position, having submitted the application himself. The resolution certainly should have triggered his memory that his wife was on the list. It was incumbent upon Mr. Montagna to be aware of the items on which he is voting. Thus, the Commission concludes that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

The Commission did not find probable cause that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) or (f) and so ruled at its May meeting. Given the fact that all of the persons who submitted their names to be game personnel were hired, the Commission cannot find respondent used his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for his wife. For the same reason, we also do not find that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(f). This subsection prohibits a school official from using his public office to secure financial gain for himself or a member of his immediate family. The Commission's investigation did not show that respondent attempted to coerce or otherwise unduly influence the Athletic Supervisor into hiring his wife. Thus, the Commission found no probable cause with respect to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (f).

Subsection (g) of the School Ethics Act prohibits a member from representing any person or party other than the school board in connection with any cause, proceeding, application or other matter pending before the school district in which he serves. Initially the Commission found probable cause that respondent violated subsection (g). Although respondent did not present the Athletic Supervisor with the application to coerce her, subsection (g) does not require proof of a coercive purpose. In presenting the application, respondent appeared to have represented his wife in connection with her application to the position. However, after reviewing the documents, the written statements, the Commission finds that respondent did not violate subsection (g) by presenting the application. In reviewing the School Ethics Act, the statute appears to require an actual representation, not just the mere turning in of an application. The facts are undisputed that he at no time acted as an advocate for his wife. Therefore, the Commission dismisses the charges under subsection (g).

DECISION

For all of the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds no probable cause to credit the allegations in the complaint with respect to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (f). However, the Commission did find probable cause with respect to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (g). Because there were no material facts in dispute, the Commission determined that there was no need for fact-finding at to the Office of Administrative Law to determine whether the Act was actually violated. Thus, based on the undisputed facts, the Commission finds that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), but dismisses the charge that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(g). Based on Mr. Montagna's inexperience on the board at the time of the vote and the fact that the list of names was not attached to the resolution to hire game personnel, the Commission recommends to the Commissioner of Education a penalty of a reprimand.

Upon adoption of this decision by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission, the matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's penalty recommendation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF FRANK MONTAGNA, :

BELLEVILLE BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

ESSEX COUNTY. : DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission have been reviewed.

Complainant Gabriel A. Nazziola, submitted timely comment regarding the Commission's recommended penalty, urging that Mr. Montagna's penalty should reflect the fact that his action was deliberate and intentional, considering his knowledge of the pertinent law.[1] Although Mr. Montagna submitted comment, said comment was untimely filed and cannot be considered herein.[2]

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Frank Montagna be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[1] Mr. Nazziola's submission also takes issue with the fact-finding of the Ethics Commission; however, the Commissioner is bound by such fact-finding and his review is limited to the recommended sanction.

[2] Records of the School Ethics Commission indicate that the Commission's decision was mailed to Mr. Montagna and his counsel on July 24, 1996. Mr. Montagna's comments were received on August 8, 1996, outside the 13-day submission period established by the Commission.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Complainants Judith A. Steward and Anne Bush filed separate complaints against Kingsway Regional board member Robert Wilgus on November 14, 1995. They allege that respondent violated various provisions of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., by voting on matters of interest to him and his immediate family member and participating in a closed session of the board on a matter in which he had a conflict. The Commission consolidated the two complaints for decision as they were identical.

On May 28, 1996, the Commission found no probable cause and dismissed the part of the complaint that alleged respondent violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) by voting for Delta Dental as the dental insurer for teachers when his spouse is a teacher in the district. However, the Commission found probable cause on the charge that respondent violated the Act by attending the closed session of the board in which the board discussed parameters for negotiations. The Commission invited the parties to submit written statements on whether the respondents agreed that the facts were not in dispute and whether the conduct as agreed upon constituted a violation of the Act. The Commission received the complainants' written statement on June 7, 1996, and received respondent's statement on June 14, 1996.

FACTS

The parties agree that the following facts pertaining to the remaining claim are undisputed. Complainant Judith Steward was a member of the Kingsway Regional High School Board of Education from April 1990 to April 1993 representing the residents in Woolwich Township. Complainant Anne Bush was a member of the board between April 1991 and April 1994 representing East Greenwich Township. Respondent Robert Wilgus has been a member of the board since April 1992, having been re-elected in 1995. He represents the residents of East Greenwich Township.

Mr. Wilgus' spouse is employed as a secretary with the Kingsway Regional Board of Education. She is a member of the Kingsway Education Association, the bargaining unit of the district employees.

At the June 26, 1995, board meeting, the board members discussed School Ethics Commission Advisory Opinion A33-95[1] in the presence of the complainants. Each board member had a copy of the Advisory Opinion including Mr. Wilgus. The Board authorized the board solicitor to seek clarification of the Advisory Opinion with the School Ethics Commission.

At the August 15, 1995, regular meeting of the board, Robert Wilgus moved to enter into executive session to discuss personnel, negotiations, and legal issues. The motion passed unanimously. According to the minutes from the executive session, the board discussed statistics for the mediator. The minutes further indicate that the consensus of the Board was to provide a maximum of 4.6% increase. Robert Wilgus remained in executive session during the discussion.

The remaining issue in the above complaint is whether respondent violated the School Ethics Act by attending the closed session of the board on August 15, 1995, during which the board discussed parameters for the negotiations. In Advisory Opinion A33-95, the Commission advised that if a board member attended closed sessions of the board when it discussed parameters for negotiation, he could violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(f) of the School Ethics Act, along with the general admonition in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22 that school officials must avoid conduct which creates a justifiable impression among the public that the public trust is being violated.

As the Commission previously discussed, the executive session minutes from the August 15, 1995, meeting show that the board discussed statistics for the mediator. Further, they show that the board polled the members present to determine that the consensus of the board was to provide a maximum of a 4.6% increase to the union. The minutes do not indicate whether Mr. Wilgus recused himself from the discussion. Mr. Wilgus admits to being present at the executive session, but denies participation in any contract negotiation or discussion involving any represented group at Kingsway Regional High School. Terrence Crowley was Acting Board Secretary at the time. Mr. Crowley testified before the Commission that Mr. Wilgus attended the executive session of the board in which the board discussed parameters for the mediator. However, he further testified that Mr. Wilgus did not participate in the discussion and did not suggest a range for the mediator.

Mr. Wilgus argues in his written statement that he did not receive the board solicitor's written opinion on recusal until the August 15, 1995, meeting and did not read it until after that meeting. He argues that since that time he has excused himself from any executive sessions in which the same issue may arise. It is immaterial whether he read the board solicitor's opinion before or after the meeting. Mr. Wilgus was provided with a copy of Advisory Opinion A33-95 in June. The opinion specifically stated that a board member who has a conflict of interest preventing him from participating in negotiations cannot attend closed sessions of the board in which parameters for negotiations are discussed. His attendance at a closed session, out of the public view, created a reasonable perception that he was trying to influence the contract in which he and his wife have a personal and financial interest. This violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

[1] In Advisory Opinion A33-95, the School Ethics Commission advised that a board member who is prohibited from negotiating and voting on a collective bargaining agreement due to a conflict of interest may not be present during closed sessions to discuss negotiation strategy.

The Commission set forth in Advisory Opinion A33-95 that even if the conflicted board member merely sat in the closed session discussions, he still would reasonably appear to be acting in his official capacity in a matter in which he had a personal and financial interest in violation of subsection (c). Similarly, if he merely sat in a closed session, but provided no input, he could be privy to confidential information that could lead to a financial gain for him and his spouse in violation of subsection (f). In the present case, it is a reasonable inference that Mr. Wilgus attempted to use information that he gathered in the executive session to secure financial gain for himself and his spouse. Therefore, the Commission concludes that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(f) and the general prohibition in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22, that board members should avoid conduct that creates a justifiable impression that the public trust is being violated.

DECISION

We therefore find that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(f) by his presence in the board's closed session in which it discussed negotiations and parameters for the mediator. However, the penalty is mitigated by witness testimony indicating that he did not participate in the discussion.

Considering the foregoing, we recommend that the Commissioner impose a penalty of reprimand for respondent's violation of the School Ethics Act.

Upon adoption of this decision by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission, the matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF ROBERT A. WILGUS, :
KINGSWAY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER	:	DECISION
COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission have been reviewed.

Complainant Anne Bush submitted timely comments regarding the Commission's recommended penalty, essentially contending that the recommended sanction in this matter was too lenient, and underscoring that Mr. Wilgus should be removed as a Board member. The comments of Complainant Judith Steward and Respondent Mr. Wilgus regarding the recommended penalty were untimely filed and are, therefore, not considered herein.[1]

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines that, in view of the fact that Mr. Wilgus was provided with a copy of Advisory Opinion A33-95, which addressed the issue of the attendance of conflicted board members in closed sessions to discuss negotiation strategy, and said opinion expressly warned that, notwithstanding a member's silence at a closed session, his mere attendance could reasonably create the perception that he is

_____	:

SEPTEMBER 30, 1996

In the Matter of Edward Vanderbeck	:	Before the School Ethics Commission
Oakland Twp. Board of Education, County of Bergen	:	Docket No. C33-95

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The above complaint arises from a claim that Edward Vanderbeck, a member of the Oakland Board of Education, violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. by participating in discussions on and indirectly participating in negotiations of the teachers' contract. James Mokhiber filed the complaint on September 19, 1995. The Commission served Mr. Vanderbeck with the complaint on November 27, 1995. Mr. Vanderbeck received an extension of time to retain counsel and filed his answer on January 4, 1996. The Commission duly investigated the complaint questioning various members of the board of education to determine whether there is probable cause to credit the allegations in the complaint.

Commission staff notified the parties that the Commission would discuss their case on April 23, 1996. However, counsel for Mr. Vanderbeck, Ms. Monica Peck, Esq., notified the Commission that she would be unable to attend that meeting and asked that the Commission refrain from rendering a decision until Mr. Vanderbeck had the opportunity to address the Commission. The Commission tabled the case at the meeting as a result of Ms. Peck's request and the Commission's desire to have more information before rendering a decision. The case was then rescheduled for May 28, 1996; however, the Commission was still in the process of gathering information from its investigation. Therefore, the Commission adjourned the matter until June 18, 1996. The staff notified both parties on May 30, 1996, that the Commission would hear the case on June 18, 1996. Staff advised them of the right to have counsel, bring witnesses and testify before the Commission.

Mr. Vanderbeck appeared with his attorney and testified before the Commission during the Commission's executive session on June 18, 1996. In the public meeting following the executive session, the Commission found probable cause that Mr. Vanderbeck had violated the School Ethics Act based on his admission that he commented on the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement prior to the board vote, an issue from which he necessarily recused himself.

Since the material facts regarding Mr. Vanderbeck's comments to the board on the collective bargaining agreement prior to the vote were not in dispute, by letter dated June 20, 1996, the Commission advised the parties to submit written statements on whether

Mr. Vanderbeck's actions constitute a violation of the Act. Mr Vanderbeck submitted his papers by letter dated July 15, 1996. Mr. Mokhiber did not submit a statement.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The following facts are undisputed. Mr. Vanderbeck's spouse is a teacher in the Oakland school district and a member of the local bargaining unit, the Oakland Education Association (OEA). Because of his wife's position, Mr. Vanderbeck did not participate in negotiations and abstained on voting on the contract with the OEA. He is currently a member of the team negotiating the collective bargaining agreement with the clerical employees in the district. He had previously recused himself from closed session discussions and negotiations. Mr. Vanderbeck admitted in testimony before the Commission that he participated in the discussion of the collective bargaining agreement prior to the vote on it. Specifically, Mr. Vanderbeck voiced concern over the salary guidelines, stating that there was an uneven salary distribution.

ANALYSIS

The School Ethics Commission has previously advised that a board member whose immediate family member is a member of the local bargaining unit cannot participate in negotiations; nor can the board member participate in closed sessions in which the board discusses the parameters for the negotiation team or the mediator. SEC Advisory Opinions A01-93, A10-93, A10-93(b) and A07-94 consolidated, and A33-95. The Commission so ruled based on the wording of the School Ethics Act at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (f), which provide respectively:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial or personal involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment;

and

> No school official shall use, or allow to be used, his public office or employment, or any information, not generally available to the members of the public, which he receives or acquires in the course of and by reason of his or office or employment, for the purpose of securing financial gain for himself, any member of his immediate family, or any business organization with which he is associated.

The Commission reasoned that such conduct would violate (c) because it would create the reasonable perception among the public that the member was participating in negotiations to benefit himself or his immediate family member rather than the public that he or she was meant to serve. Similarly, the Commission reasoned that participating in closed session discussions and negotiations could result in a violation of (f) because the board member could gain access to confidential information that he could pass on to the local bargaining unit. The local bargaining unit could use this information to gain an advantage in negotiations. The Commission felt that this was a particular concern given the Legislature's declaration in the School Ethics Act that school officials "must avoid conduct which is in violation of their [sic] public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22.

Mr. Vanderbeck argues in his written statement that he could not have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) because he did not "act" as set forth in the statute. Further he argues that the Commission's policy guideline #2, which set forth the meaning of "recusal," did not adequately provide Mr. Vanderbeck with notice that commenting on the contract after negotiations would violate the Act. He also argues that policy guideline #2 is invalid as a rule which was not promulgated in accordance with the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-4. After careful analysis of the facts of the present case, the Commission concludes that the facts before it show that Mr. Vanderbeck committed conduct that violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he participated in the discussion in the public meeting.

The complainant also alleges that Mr. Vanderbeck spoke to a board member about the proposed contract before the board voted on it and attempted to discuss the contract in progress during executive sessions of the board. The complainant further alleges that Mr. Vanderbeck spoke for over 35 minutes about the contract during the meeting in which the board ratified the contract. Last, the complaint sets forth that Mr. Vanderbeck is currently improperly a part of the negotiating team because the clerical employees are allegedly members of the same union as Vanderbeck's spouse. Mr. Vanderbeck denies that he committed any of the conduct charged and denies that the clerical employees are members of the same union as the teachers.

The Commission's investigation disclosed that Mr. Mokhiber appears to be the only board member who recalls Mr. Vanderbeck attending executive sessions of the board in 1994. Mr. Mokhiber recalled Mr. Vanderbeck attending four such sessions despite Mr. Mokhiber statement that he left such sessions. Also, Mr. Mokhiber is the only board member who recalls Mr. Vanderbeck trying to influence negotiations with the OEA. Mr. Mokhiber said that he did this by disagreeing on the effective date of the retirement clause and also by being involved in salary guide used in negotiation. Last, Mr. Mokhiber is the only board member who believes that the clerical workers are part of the same union with the OEA.

Mr. Mokhiber had support for his assertion that Mr. Vanderbeck spoke to a board member regarding negotiations with the OEA. However, Ms. Lorraine Koscielny, Board President stated that Mr. Vanderbeck called her only to advise her that all teachers, including his wife, had copies of the salary schedule for three years, while he had the salary schedule for one year. She said that no other conversation took place regarding negotiations with the OEA.

There is insufficient proof that Mr. Vanderbeck participated in negotiations with the OEA. Further, there is insufficient proof that made telephone calls to or otherwise contacted board members in an attempt to influence negotiations with the OEA. Similarly, there is insufficient evidence that Mr. Vanderbeck attended any closed sessions of the board in which the board discussed parameters of negotiations or other aspects of the contract. Presently, there are no witnesses to these meetings that Mr. Mokhiber says Mr. Vanderbeck attended. Indeed, Mr. Mokhiber admits to not even being there himself except to see him there and then leave. Thus, there is no way of knowing whether Mr. Vanderbeck left immediately after Mr. Mokhiber.

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds no probable cause to credit the allegations in the complaint concerning Mr. Vanderbeck's alleged attendance at closed sessions and alleged attempts to influence the negotiation process with the OEA and hereby dismisses those allegations in the complaint.

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Mr. Vanderbeck violated N.J.S.A.18A:12-24(c) and recommends to the Commissioner a penalty of reprimand.

Upon adoption of this decision by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission, the matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Respectfully submitted,

Paul C. Garbarini

Resolution Adopting Decision -- C33-95

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties and the documents submitted in support thereof and if applicable, has considered the arguments raised by parties in subsequent submissions and testimony; and

Whereas, the Commission has reviewed the proposed decision of its staff; and

Whereas, the Commission agrees with the proposed decision;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter and directs its staff to notify all parties to this action of the Commission's decision herein.

IN THE MATTER OF	:
EDWARD VANDERBECK,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OAKLAND TOWNSHIP BOARD OF	:	DECISION
EDUCATION, BERGEN COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission have been reviewed. Although Mr. Vanderbeck submitted comment regarding the Commission's proposed penalty, said comment was untimely filed and cannot be considered herein.*

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter, in view of the Commission's determination, which is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein, that a violation of the act occurred under the circumstances set forth in the decision.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Edward Vanderbeck be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* Records of the School Ethics Commission indicate that the Commission's decision was mailed to Mr. Vanderbeck and his counsel on July 24, 1996. Mr. Vanderbeck's comments were received on August 8, 1996, outside the 13-day submission period established by the Commission.

BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
BERGEN COUNTY	:	RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. authorizes the School Ethics Commission to recommend removal of any board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Weinstein was elected to the school board in April 1995 and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA)advises prospective school board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit" and advises new board members of the requirement in a letter congratulating them on their achievement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence in December to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend board member training and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 15, 1995, advising that they have only three more programs to attend without being in violation of the Act; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the School Ethics Commission, the New Jersey School Boards Association published a notice entitled, "Last Chance to Meet Training Requirements" in the February 23, 1996 edition of School Board Notes advising that the March 16, 1996, session was the last that board members elected or appointed before June 1995 could attend without penalty; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association conducted eight training sessions on the following dates:

June 2-4, 1995
June 16-18, 1995
September 8-10, 1995
September 22-24, 1995
October 24, 1995
January 6, 1996
January 20, 1996
March 16, 1996; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association continuously published the dates and locations of the training sessions and indicated that training was a state mandate; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirements was March 16, 1996, yet the Commission allowed the June 1996 sessions to fulfill the requirement without setting precedent for future violations; and

WHEREAS, the above-captioned board member failed to attend training for well over the one-year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission issued an Order on April 25, 1996, directing the board member to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission considered the board member's reply to the Order, but found same to be insufficient in light of the aforementioned notices and opportunities to attend training; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated June 4, 1996, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), the Commission notified said board member of the opportunity to appear before the Commission, be represented by counsel, and present witnesses on his or her behalf; and

WHEREAS, said board member chose not to appear, and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commissions finds that the failure to attend board member training from April 1995 to June 1996, constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-33 and warrants removal from the board,

NOW THEREFORE IT IS RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that despite adequate opportunities, the above-named board member has failed to attend the training program as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and thus violated that provision. The Commission therefore, recommends to the Commissioner of Education that said board member be removed from office. The Commission further recommends to the Commissioner that a copy of his decision removing the board member be transmitted to the board secretary of the district in which said board member serves and the county superintendent for the district.

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of her failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), on April 23, 1996, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why a penalty should not be impose for such failure; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member provided to the Commission an answer stating that she planned to take the training in October 1996 and that the Board had issued a check to her for such purpose; however, such explanation was deemed as an insufficient reason for her nonattendance; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on June 4, 1996, to recommend removal of the above-named Board member for failure to attend training sessions in violation of State statute, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on July 25, 1996, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending removal; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member chose not to provide comments to the Commissioner regarding this resolution; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds that based on the Board member's assertion that she planned to take the course in October, removal is not warranted at this point; however, some penalty is warranted in view of her insufficiently explicated delay in meeting statutory requirements; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member shall not be removed from office but, rather, shall be suspended from office for a period of two months to commence as of the Board's receipt of this decision, or until such time as she obtains the required training, whichever is longer.

Whereas, on May 8, 1996, the above-named Board member responded to such Order advising that he would be attending training in June 1996; and

Whereas, the Commission, having considered such response, voted on June 18, 1996, to advise the Board member that it would dismiss the Order to Show Cause if the Board member attended the June training, but would adopt a resolution at its next meeting to remove him from the Board if he failed to attend such training; and

Whereas, the Commission, having been informed that the above-named Board member failed to attend training in June 1996, voted on July 23, 1996, to recommend removal of the

Whereas, on August 2, 1996, the Superintendent of Hackensack Public Schools filed a response to such decision stating that the above-named Board member has demonstrated his willingness to comply with the training mandate and has offered valid reasons, as attested by evidence, for his inability to previously attend, further advising that this Board member was registered for the September 1996 training session; and

Whereas, the Commissioner has received confirmation that the above-named Board member did attend the training session conducted September 6-8, 1996; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and determines that, in light of the above-named Board member's demonstrated inability to attend prior sessions and his attendance at the training session in September 1996, the severe penalty of removal is no longer warranted; now therefore

Petitioner, tenured teacher who had been displaced from Ancora Psychiatric Hospital and transferred to Marlboro sought return to Ancora. In a prior decision, the State Board found that petitioner's displacement, notwithstanding that he maintained the same title and salary, did trigger tenure protections. The State Board remanded primarily for a review of petitioner's claims that his duties were transferred to someone else at Ancora and that seniority entitled him to locate a more favorable assignment. However, since the remand, petitioner was reinstated with no loss in pay, benefits or seniority.

ALJ found that there was now no broad public interest in pursuing the factual claims and no reason to believe that like questions could not be fully reviewed in the future as they arise. ALJ concluded petitioner failed to show that the circumstances at bar warranted an exception to the mootness doctrine. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Record Closed: July 5, 1996 Decided: August 15, 1996

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter is in the Office of Administrative Law on remand. The procedural history is reviewed in the prior decisions of the former Chief Administrative Law Judge, the Commissioner and the State Board of Education, all of which is incorporated herein by reference. The issue has, however, changed. The parties agree that petitioner, a tenured teacher, has been returned to his position as supervisor of education at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital and that he has suffered no loss of pay, benefits or seniority. The case is moot. The question now is whether it should proceed nevertheless, as an exception to mootness doctrine. Respondent has filed a motion for summary decision which petitioner opposes.

Our courts will entertain a case that is moot when the issue is of significant public importance and is otherwise likely to evade review. In De Vesa v. Dorsey, 134 N.J. 420, 428 (1993), the New Jersey Supreme Court reached past mootness to evaluate the question of senatorial courtesy. The issue involved the respective powers of governmental branches and would likely continue to escape judicial review because of the short time periods involved in the renomination process. In Oxfeld v. New Jersey State Board of Education, 68 N.J. 301, 303-04 (1975), the Court would not hear the case of high school students who attacked a school rule regulating the distribution of pamphlets and leaflets on school grounds. The students had long since graduated. In re Geraghty, 68 N.J. 209 (1975), concerned the problem of involuntary civil commitment. Though the case was moot regarding the individual in question, the Supreme Court initially entertained the matter because of its public importance. It then dismissed without reaching the merits because its own rule revisions provided the guidance it thought necessary. In John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital v. Heston, 58 N.J. 576 (1971), the Court dealt with the case of a Jehovah's Witness who had been hospitalized after an automobile accident and needed a blood transfusion lest she expire. Her mother refused to authorize it on religious grounds, a lower court appointed a guardian with authority to consent to the transfusion, surgery followed and the woman survived. Though the case was moot, the Supreme Court went on to uphold the hospital's position, the issue being one of life and death.

Petitioner's case embraces a nuance of the tenure law and certain factual allegations concerning his seniority rights and respondent's bad faith. The legal question presented was whether respondent's decision during a reduction in force to displace petitioner at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital and transfer him to work at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, in the same title and without loss of pay, or benefits, triggered tenure protections. The State Board of Education has now ruled that it did and remanded primarily for a review of petitioner's claim that his duties were actually transferred to someone else, and even if not, seniority entitled him to locate a more favorable assignment. Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital is distant from petitioner's home. Since the remand petitioner has been reinstated to his former position at Ancora. There simply is no broad public interest in pursuing his factual claims and no reason to believe that like questions cannot be fully reviewed in the future as they arise.

Based on the foregoing, it is my conclusion that petitioner has failed to show that the circumstances at bar warrant an exception to mootness doctrine and it is ORDERED that this matter be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, riffed secretarial/clerical employee, claimed Board violated her tenure rights and sought order for reinstatement to a full-time position with compensation.

ALJ found that no current statutory provision provides tenure for paraprofessional employees like petitioner. Prior to the 1994-95 school year, petitioner's duties were primarily those associated with her paraprofessional attendance duties; to the extent petitioner performed clerical duties, they were incidental. Although the focus of her duties shifted in the 1994-95 school year, her position was not, at that time, recategorized as a clerical one. Thus, petitioner never achieved tenure in a clerical position.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. Petition was dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8281-95

MARLENE MARBUT,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Stephen E. Klausner, Esq., for petitioner (Klausner & Hunter, attorneys)

John E. Collins, Esq., for respondent (Carroll & Weiss, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 17, 1996 Decided: August 15, 1996*

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on July 28, 1995, when Marlene Marbut (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order declaring that she is a tenured secretarial/clerical employee of the Board of Education of the Township of South

---

* An extension of time for issuing the initial decision was requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

Brunswick (hereinafter respondent) and ordering respondent to reinstate her to a full-time secretarial/clerical position together with reimbursement for any lost back pay and benefits. An answer was filed on behalf of respondent on August 17, 1995, and on September 8, 1995, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on November 16, 1995, at which time the following were identified as issues for determination at hearing:

1. Does petitioner have tenure/seniority rights to a full-time position currently occupied by non-tenured or less senior secretarial/clerical personnel?

2. If the answer to the foregoing question is yes, what are the appropriate remedies?

The hearing was scheduled for March 4 and March 6, 1996, at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law and commenced as scheduled. Following the conclusion of testimony on March 4, 1996, the record remained open for the receipt of written submissions. Respondent's initial post-hearing written submission was received on April 3, 1996; petitioner's was received on April 4, 1996. Respondent replied by letter memorandum dated April 12, 1996 and received on April 19, 1996. Petitioner's letter advising that she would not be filing a reply memorandum was received on May 17, 1996, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts necessary to a disposition of this matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Petitioner's employment with respondent commenced in 1972. At that time she performed the duties of playground and lunchroom monitor on a part-time basis. Later she was assigned to a classroom where she performed the duties of an aide for handicapped students on a one-to-one basis, after which she was assigned to function as a monitor on a special education van. Commencing in 1981 she also worked part-time in the high school, in the comp/ed program. Starting in 1983, she worked in the attendance office part-time and continued to perform her duties on the special education van. While she was performing her attendance duties she worked with Anthony Biddle, Assistant Principal in Charge of Student Affairs. Mr. Biddle's duties included supervision of student attendance and discipline. Petitioner's function in the attendance office was to call parents of students who were absent and to keep records of excuses. In 1984 the number of hours she worked in the attendance office increased; she was then responsible for keeping track of student cuts from classes. In connection with her calls to parents, she had occasion to update directory information on the students' attendance cards, i.e., new phone numbers, etc. She also answered telephones in the attendance office and relayed information she obtained from her telephone calls to guidance counselors. She did minimal typing in connection with her attendance duties. She also issued special bus passes to students if they missed their regular bus and she completed forms acknowledging receipt of confiscated radios.

Commencing with the 1985-86 school year, petitioner was employed full-time as an "Instructional Call-up Aide." Because her regular hours were 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. (eight hours with one-half hour unpaid lunch) and the regular hours of Mr. Biddle's secretary, Nancy Sandvick, were 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., during the time period before Ms. Sandvick arrived, petitioner would take telephone messages for Mr. Biddle. She also performed Ms. Sandvick's functions when Ms. Sandvick was absent. When Ms. Sandvick was present and performing her own functions, petitioner assisted her upon occasion with secretarial duties. Between the 1985-86 and 1988-89 school years petitioner's personnel card listed her as a thirty hour per week call-up aide and a ten hour per week hall monitor. Petitioner candidly testified at the hearing, however, that she did not perform any hall monitoring duties during this period of time, and for purposes of a determination herein, no finding is necessary with respect to this dispute since it is undisputed that she was a full-time Instructional Call-up Aide for at least the six school years beginning in 1989-90 and ending in 1994-95. Petitioner, and the other employees who functioned as instructional call-up aides for respondent were classified as paraprofessional aides and their bargaining representative was the South Brunswick Association of Paraprofessionals. Petitioner's entire employment history is recorded on personnel cards entitled "Paraprofessional Aides" or "Paraprofessional Personnel," with the exception of her part-time bus aide and bus driver responsibilities from 1982-83 to 1984-85; those employment experiences appear on a card entitled "Bus and Van Drivers." No written job description for the position Instructional Call-Up Aide can be located, and neither petitioner nor the administrators who testified ever recall seeing one.

Each year commencing at least with 1983-84, petitioner's position and those of the other call-up aides were listed on the "Annual Report of Persons Employed in School Aide Positions" submitted to the county superintendent of schools for approval. (On the 1988 report, the position title was inadvertently omitted on the report to the superintendent; prior to 1988, there had been a number of employees functioning in that position and commencing with 1988, petitioner was the only person employed in the job title, and Michael Lacey, Director of Personnel, who was responsible for submitting the report, simply forgot to include it.) Each year prior to the 1994-95 school year, petitioner was expected to call the parents of all of the students who were recorded absent, unless she had been given a prior explanation. The number of absent students ranged between 80 to 120 per day. Mr. Biddle estimated that making the telephone calls constituted eighty percent of petitioner's work load; petitioner estimated that it took approximately four hours of her seven or eight hour day, but she acknowledged that she was rarely able to call each and every parent whose student was absent that day, because of the number of other things she was doing, i.e., answering the phone, giving messages to teachers, getting students for the nurse, answering a walkie-talkie used by hall monitors who required to Biddle's assistance and assisting Ms. Sandvick with her secretarial duties. Upon occasion she typed letters when Ms. Sandvick asked her to do so. Sharing the secretarial work was just something that petitioner and Ms. Sandvick did; Mr. Biddle did not instruct petitioner to help.

During the 1994-95 school year, petitioner's duties changed. The new high school principal determined that daily telephone calls to the parents of all absent students should cease and thereafter only those parents and students were called as directed by Mr. Biddle. Mr. Biddle estimated that during the 1994-95 school year petitioner's call-up duties consumed approximately forty percent of her time. Petitioner estimated that call-up duties during 1994-95 consumed approximately one hour each day. During the 1994-95 school year petitioner also performed all of Ms. Sandvick's duties on a couple of occasions, once when Ms. Sandvick was sick and another time when Ms. Sandvick went on vacation, with the exception of duties petitioner advised Mr. Biddle she could not perform because they were "secretarial functions." During the 1994-95 school year petitioner was assigned additional duties, such as inputting student directory information into a new computer system, and keeping records of student discipline and Saturday detentions.

Respondent's answers to interrogatories, offered as an exhibit by petitioner on her direct case, described petitioner's duties for each year prior to 1994-95 as follows:

1. Calling up absent students and their parents, as well as other calls as directed by the Assistant Principal

2. Calling students to the office to explain their absences and latenesses

3. Collecting and filing notes from parents regarding student absences and latenesses

4. Completing absence and lateness forms to be forwarded to teachers.

Respondent's interrogatory answers add the following additional duties for 1994-95:

5. Computer input of discipline forms

6. Computer input regarding Saturday detentions.

Petitioner always performed her duties in an exemplary manner. Her performance evaluations praise her outstanding communications skills, her personal interactions with parents, students and staff, and her thorough knowledge of each student.

After petitioner's call-up functions had been drastically limited, Michael Lacey, Director of Personnel for respondent, reviewed the three existing paraprofessional jobs and after consulting with the secretarial association and the paraprofessional association, he determined that the three positions, as they then currently existed, were more secretarial than paraprofessional.

On or about May 2, 1995, respondent posted the following position vacancy notice for Secretary - Level I - 10 Month:

TITLE: Secretary - Level I - 10 Month

LOCATION: High School

REPORTS TO: Assistant Principal - Student Affairs

DESCRIPTION: Computer input, knowledge of Mac necessary. Organize and maintain records on student detentions and tardies. Other duties include filing, phone calls, parent and student contact and any other duties as assigned.

SALARY: Per Negotiated Salary

The job description which was prepared for the job listed in the May 2, 1995 posting, provided as follows:

TITLE: Clerk Typist

LOCATION: South Brunswick High School

REPORTS TO: Assistant Principal for Student Affairs

GENERAL DUTIES INCLUDE:

Types memos, letters, reports, purchase orders and related materials for the department and school. Operates standard office machines. Prepare and order supplies. Maintains student files. Screens and routes materials, correspondence and phone calls. Conveys some departmental and school information of a routine nature to parents, staff and outside individuals. All other jobs as assigned by supervisor.

ADDITIONAL DUTIES:

DAILY:

Inputs student discipline information into Mac School. Signs in and maintains accurate records for attendance. Processes and maintains detention records and contacts students and parents on detentions.

REGULAR AND PERIODIC:

Retrieve from computer and prepare discipline description portfolio on students. Prepare forms and maintain records on truant students. Contact students and facilitate conferences with school personnel.

OCCASIONAL:

Prepares forms, work orders, bus passes and purchase orders.

EDUCATION AND EXPERIENCE:

High School Diploma required. Training or experience in secretarial skills including typing. Knowledge of arithmetic, English and grammar. Operation of basic office equipment including MAC computer, copying/duplicating machines.

Upon the advice of the Paraprofessional Association, petitioner did not submit an application for the posted vacancy. Petitioner's position and that of the Paraprofessional Association was that petitioner already held the job described, although petitioner acknowledges that she never prepared or ordered supplies or prepared purchase orders. The posted position was thereafter filled by another employee who had applied. By letter dated June 22, 1995, respondent wrote to petitioner as follows:

> During recent weeks the administrative staff and I have been wrestling with some rather difficult questions about paraprofessional staffing for the 1995-96 school year.
>
> It appears that at the present time, you will be reappointed for the 1995-96 school year but unfortunately at a lesser number of hours than we have been able to assign in preceding years.
>
> In the event you have any questions about your hours and your assignment please contact your principal.
> I want you to know that we value the paraprofessional unit very highly and regret that we must make these reductions.

The paraprofessional job to which petitioner was assigned for the 1995-96 school year involves performing hall monitor duties for six and one-half hours per day with one-half hour unpaid lunch break. Petitioner's collective bargaining unit filed a grievance with respondent in which the Paraprofessional Association alleges that petitioner's contractual seniority rights have been violated by the reduction in hours, and petitioner filed the petition of appeal which commenced the within matter.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

Since tenure is a statutory status and not a contractual one, petitioner must base her claims in this matter upon specific statutory provisions. Not all school board employees are protected by statutory job security. The Education Act makes specific provisions for tenure of teachers and other employees holding certificates issued by the State Board of Examiners (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 6); secretaries, assistant secretaries, business administrators, business managers, secretarial and clerical employees (N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2); janitorial employees (N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3); and attendance officers (N.J.S.A. 18A:38-33). In Plumbers and Steamfitters v. Woodbridge Bd. of Ed., 159 N.J. Super. 83, 87 (App. Div. 1978), the court held that board of education employees whose tenure is not provided for by the Legislature may negotiate job security with their employer. The court noted:

> The existing protections are the result of successful appeals by the covered groups for the passage of protective laws. Their ad hoc nature is implicit in the diversity of sections in which they are found. Each legislative grant has been sui generis. The failure to provide a specific tenure should not be interpreted as a legislative prohibition [of negotiated job security]. See Maywood Education Assn., Inc. v. Maywood Bd. of Ed., 131 N.J. Super. 551, 554-555 (Ch. Div. 1974); Camden v. Dicks, 135 N.J. Super. 559, 562-563 (Law Div. 1975).

Currently no statutory provision provides tenure for paraprofessional employees. Petitioner's bargaining unit, the South Brunswick Association of Paraprofessionals, in recognition of this statutory omission has apparently negotiated some job protection with respondent as evidenced by the notation in the verified petition concerning the seniority grievance filed by the Association on petitioner's behalf. The Commissioner has previously recognized that paraprofessional titles established pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6 (formerly N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.9) are not tenure eligible. In Rossi v. Willingboro Twp. Bd. of Educ., Agency Docket Number 294-8/78 (September 24, 1980), adopted (Comm'r. November 7, 1990), aff'd August 5, 1981), the Commissioner determined that Mr. Rossi's Learning Resources Center (LRC) Aide Position was a paraprofessional position and therefore not eligible for tenure. The job description at issue in Rossi provided:

> Under the supervision of a certified librarian and teachers, the aide's duties will be:
> 1. To assist with processing books, supplies, materials, magazines, journals, newspapers in the Resource Center.
>
> 2. To assist with preparation of displays to motivate student interest and to provide supplementary instructional information.

3. To assist in checking out and retrieving of materials.

4. To assist instructional staff with preparation of special bibliographies and reading lists.

5. To care for the housekeeping duties of the Resource Center.

6. To assist with roll taking.

7. To assist with general typing.

8. To assist with collecting and filing of free materials.

9. To assist with cataloging and care of audio visual materials in the Resource Center.

10. To assist pupils with locating books and materials applicable to their individual needs.

The same document identified the function of an LRC aide as, "To maintain and operate Learning Resource Centers under the direction of the librarian." The document also identified the responsibility of the position:

> The Learning Resource Center Aide is responsible to the librarian and the secondary school principal and through him to the Director of Secondary Education, the Assistant Superintendent of Schools and the Superintendent of Schools.

Adopting the administrative law judge's decision as his own, and recognizing that Barnes v. Board of Education of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42 (App. Div. 1964), cert. den. 43 N.J. 450 (1964), required a broad, inclusive reading of the clerical title, the Commissioner nevertheless ruled:

> Some of the listed duties are clearly clerical, some may be clerical and some clearly are not. Petitioner urges that a simple preponderance of clerical duties is sufficient to warrant a decision that she is a clerk irrespective of title. I cannot agree.

> The Board hires many employees. The Willingboro district is a fairly large one. Differentiation of staff is at once necessary, inevitable and desirable. Aide positions, such as petitioner's, have been created pursuant to law for specific purposes. The function and duties of LRC aide are clearly stated in the job description. It is not a purely clerical position. Even if clerical duties predominate, the position is not necessarily a clerical one.
>
> The Board recognized the special nature of some of the duties involved, particularly as they relate to pupils but also as they relate to professional staff, and decided the position was neither clerical nor professional. In brief, it was paraprofessional. On the basis of that decision, the required approval of the county superintendent of schools was sought and received.
> Petitioner knew the title of the position and the nature of the duties attendant when she applied for it. It is noticed in this connection that the job description is a joint exhibit.

Although in the within matter respondent regrettably failed to comply with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6(c), requiring district boards of education employing school aides or classroom aides to submit to the county superintendent of schools a job description for each type of aide to be employed,* petitioner herein, like the petitioner in Rossi, was well aware of the nature and parameters of her call-up duties over the years she held the position, and she herself considered the position a paraprofessional one rather than a non-professional one. Prior to the 1994-95 school year, petitioner's duties primarily and predominantly involved telephone communication with parents and students and interaction with school professional staff members. Clearly some of petitioner's duties were clerical in nature but those clerical duties which were hers, as opposed to Mr. Biddle's secretary's duties, were incidental to her paraprofessional attendance duties. As respondent pointed out in its initial post-hearing written submission, most jobs contain some functions which could be classified as clerical. "Performing nominal clerical duties does not make one a clerical employee within the meaning of the statute." Effenberger v.

* Respondent did comply with the annual requirement of N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6(c)3 to submit to the County Superintendent a report of those persons employed in school aide positions. These reports always included petitioner and her call-up aide position.

Board of Education of Toms River Regional Schools, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 66, 69; aff'd State Board, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 203. As in Rossi, supra, petitioner's primary duties prior to 1994-95 involved assisting a certificated teaching staff member, the assistant principal, in performing his school attendance functions. The communications skills required to perform these duties and the interaction necessitated between petitioner and pupils, parents and professional staff, remove call-up aide from the category of non-professional clerical employees contemplated in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. The same cannot be said with respect to the nature of petitioner's position during the 1994-95 school year, however, when her paraprofessional-type duties were minimal and incidental to the predominantly and primarily clerical duties she performed. Respondent recognized this change, and thereafter recategorized the position as a clerical one, commencing with the 1995-96 school year.

None of the cases cited by petitioner in support of her claims to be declared a tenured clerical employee require a different conclusion. In Quinlan v. Bd. of Ed. of North Bergen Tp., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962), the court held that an employee who held tenure in a district in a clerical position and who was then assigned to a hybrid position, clerk-attendance officer, wherein the board of education controlled the number of duties she performed in the non-tenure eligible portion of her position,* did not lose her tenured clerical status simply because during some years she was primarily doing the work of an attendance officer. When the attendance officer position was eliminated, the court ruled, Ms. Quinlan was entitled to return to her tenured clerical position. If the facts in the within matter had been chronologically reversed, i.e., if petitioner's position had been primarily clerical as it was during 1994-95 for the number of years required to obtain tenure in a clerical position, and the nature of the position then changed primarily to paraprofessional status, Quinlan might have some applicability. As the facts stand in the within matter, however, petitioner never achieved tenure in a clerical position, and Quinlan does not provide any basis for the relief which petitioner seeks.

* At the time Quinlan was decided the position Attendance Officer was a non-tenure eligible position. The statute providing tenure for attendance officers was not adopted until 1968.

Berardi v. South Orange School District Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 239, also cited by petitioner, is likewise not controlling under the facts of the present matter. In Berardi, the Commissioner determined that the job description "Clerical Aide" placed petitioner's clerical position within the broad range of coverage intended in Barnes, supra. Although Ms. Berardi's job duties included most of those encompassed by petitioner's Call-Up Aide position herein, i.e., checking student attendance daily and calling parents concerning absences, Ms. Berardi was also specifically assigned her own unrelated clerical duties, e.g., sorting incoming and outgoing mail, assisting secretarial staff with filing and Xeroxing, etc. The Berardi case was tried on stipulated facts and there is no indication in the record concerning whether the paraprofessional functions she performed were primary or incidental. Based upon the outcome of the case, a fair conclusion is that Ms. Berardi's call-up functions were incidental, as were petitioner's during the 1994-95 and as reflected in the position posted on May 2, 1995 for a clerk typist.

Finally, the determination in Roach v. South Orange-Maplewood School District, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 370, that the position "media aide (clerical)" was a tenure eligible clerical position rather than an aide position under N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6, is based upon a fact-specific analysis that petitioner's duties therein were predominantly clerical in nature. The administrative law judge's determination also appears to be based, at least in part, upon his conclusion that Ms. Roach had her own unique duties to perform and did not merely assist others in performing their professional responsibilities, as well as his conclusion that the board manipulated Ms. Roach's job title and assignments in an attempt to divest her of tenure protection. No such bad faith motivation exists or was even alleged in the within matter. Respondent holds petitioner in high regard as a paraprofessional employee within the district. She is understandably unhappy about her reduction in hours and resultant compensation for the 1995-96 school year; however, as a non-tenured employee her forum to address those concerns is the grievance procedure in the negotiated agreement, as the verified petition of appeal indicates and recognizes.

For all of the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner does not hold any tenure/seniority rights to a full-time position currently occupied by non-tenured or less senior clerical personnel. Accordingly, the petition of appeal is DISMISSED and these proceedings are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Inasmuch as both submissions essentially constitute a verbatim reiteration of the parties' arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), and the Commissioner finds that said arguments were fully and fairly considered by the ALJ, they are not summarized herein.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that petitioner has failed to establish that school law accords her a tenure and/or seniority right to the full-time position currently occupied by nontenured, or less senior, personnel. Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,	:
V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 30, 1996

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Klausner & Hunter (Stephen E. Klausner, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Carroll & Weiss (John E. Collins, Esq., of Counsel)

On October 24, 1996, appellant's counsel filed a notice of appeal to the State Board of Education from the Commissioner's decision, which had concluded that appellant had not achieved tenure as a clerical employee. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.11(a), a brief in support of an appeal must be filed "within 20 days after the appeal has been filed." Thus, as mandated by N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.11(a) and computed under N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.4, appellant's counsel was required to file an appeal brief by November 13, 1996. No brief was filed by that date, nor did counsel for Appellant request an extension for such filing.

By letter dated November 19, 1992, appellant's counsel was notified of his failure to file a brief in support of the appeal. Counsel was advised that the matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board of Education for consideration of his failure to perfect the appeal as provided for by N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.12, which authorizes dismissal of an appeal on motion of the State Board for failure to meet the filing deadline for the appeal brief. Appellant's counsel failed to respond to this notice.

As described above, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.11(a), appellant's brief was due on November 13, 1996. Appellant's counsel did not file a brief by that date and has not acted to rectify this failure in any way. Nor has he at any time requested an extension or provided any explanation for his failure to file a brief. Because appellant's counsel has failed to perfect the appeal, the State Board of Education therefore dismisses it. N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.12(a). Paszamant v. Highland Park Board of Education, Docket # A - 4812-91-3 (App. Div. 1993).

Record Closed: August 16, 1996 Decided: August 21, 1996

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

The within matter was commenced on August 23, 1995, by the Board of Education of Haddon Heights (hereinafter petitioner) with the filing of tenure charges in accordance with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 against Gertrude Saunders (hereinafter respondent). Petitioner certified charges alleging unbecoming and unprofessional conduct, specifically that respondent had intentionally and surreptitiously altered students' answer sheets to the Iowa Test of Basic Skills in order to influence and improve the scoring of her sixth grade students on the test. On September 15, 1995, respondent filed an Answer denying the charges and on September 20, 1995, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was conducted on November 21, 1995 by Jeff S. Masin, the administrative law judge then assigned to the case. Trial dates were scheduled for April 15, 16, 18, 22, 23 and 24, 1996, and the case was transferred to the undersigned for hearing. Prior to the scheduled hearing dates, the parties advised that because petitioner wished to avoid having to produce the student witnesses and because it had concluded that it lacked sufficient evidence to prove the charges, the parties would be attempting to resolve this matter without the necessity for a hearing. Following several telephone status conferences, on August 16, 1996, the parties forwarded a signed Settlement Agreement/Release and Stipulation of Dismissal which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I CONCLUDE that in view of all of the circumstances, it would not be improper for the Commissioner of Education to approve this settlement as an appropriate voluntary resolution of this matter entirely consistent with the law and the philosophy expressed in Cardonick v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, EDU 7093-81, 7094-81 and 100-82, decided April 6, 1983 by the State Board of Education. The parties have set forth in their written settlement agreement all of the circumstances which have caused petitioner to conclude that a hearing on the merits in this matter would probably not serve the public interest. Petitioner has some concerns about what respondent may have done, but recognizes nonetheless that the charges must be established on the record by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence.

Based upon additional information obtained in the discovery process, petitioner now believes that it will be unable to sustain its burden of proof, and it wishes to avoid the costs of protracted litigation with little likelihood of success on the merits. Petitioner recognizes that respondent's record is otherwise unblemished over an 18-year teaching career, and the arrangements made in the settlement agreement for respondent to be reassigned from a classroom to a special education resource room or a basic skills position where there will be other teaching staff members present will remove the possibility of any conduct ever occurring similar to that alleged in the charges. Resumption of salary payments to respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 has occurred already; the only additional payment to respondent provided in the settlement agreement is for the 120-day period of suspension without pay which commenced August 23, 1995, and respondent will be returning to petitioner the net payment; this will give respondent pension credit for the 120 days, but it will also help to defray petitioner's costs for payment of salary to the substitute teacher(s). If respondent engaged in any unprofessional conduct, she undoubtedly has learned from this experience, and there is unlikely to be any future incident.

Under all of the circumstances, the proposed Settlement Agreement and Stipulation of Dismissal appears to be an appropriate resolution of the matter.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the Settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Merit System Board does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

WHEREAS, the parties are able to agree on a compromise with respect to this matter, based upon a careful review of the facts and circumstances surrounding the incident, a careful review of the evidence to be submitted in regard to the matter, certain concessions and conditions which have been agreed to by the Respondent, and the parties' desire to avoid the uncertainty of prolonged litigation; and

WHEREAS, on September 15, 1996, Respondent filed an Answer to the charges denying the allegations as stated; and

WHEREAS, the Petitioner having instituted the charges based upon initial information received pertaining to the allegations, and subsequent to the placing of this matter in litigation, during the "discovery" phase and in preparation for hearing, having conducted a more detailed and full independent investigation into the allegations, having obtained all relevant information and documentation; and having determined that it will not be able to meet its burden of proof by a preponderance of the credible evidence; and

WHEREAS, this full investigation of all the evidence that might be presented during the tenure hearing having provided the Petitioner with the opportunity to explore a means of resolving this dispute in a manner consonant with the public interest; and in light of the commendable employment record of Respondent over her long-standing tenure of some eighteen years, her age (69), and other mitigating factors; and the Petitioner having concluded that it is in the best interests of the public, including the students and the Haddon Heights community that Respondent continue in her long standing position as a teaching staff member for the Haddon Heights School District uninterrupted; and being satisfied that no further incident of the nature alleged would occur; and

WHEREAS, the Respondent is agreeing to reassignment and continued supervision by the District Superintendent of the school district of Petitioner, which assignment will be in a controlled and supervised setting; and

WHEREAS, the Respondent has agreed to pay back certain monies to defray the costs of the substitute which was necessarily hired based upon the charges being brought by the Petitioner; and

WHEREAS, the parties desire to resolve this matter subject to the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey; and

WHEREAS, both Petitioner and Respondent have agreed as to what they believe to be a settlement which is in the best interest of all concerned.

IT IS HEREBY AGREED that the entire controversy in dispute by and between Petitioner and Respondent is to be settled and resolved in the following manner:

TERMS OF SETTLEMENT

In consideration of the mutual covenants and agreements as set forth below, the parties on this 21st day of August, 1996, stipulate and agree as follows:

LAW OFFICES
HANNOLD, MARSHALL & BECKER
47 COOPER STREET
WOODBURY, NEW JERSEY
08096

1. The Petitioner agrees to pay over to the Respondent $15,749.75 less deductions which are identified as follows:

Federal Withholding . . .	$2,008.79
Medicare	231.00
FICA	887.84
Summer Pay	1,275.00
NJIT	276.57
TPAF	755.16
Union Dues	207.20

Upon making these deductions and payment, the amount of $10,008.19 shall be paid over to Respondent by Petitioner. The Respondent agrees to accept the above-mentioned sum in full satisfaction of any and all claims and interest that it now has or may have in the future with respect to the tenure charges against the Respondent or as to salary owed. The Respondent agrees to the amounts which are being deducted and paid and notes that contribution insurance, pension loan, tax shelter, and Washington National deductions which are normally deducted from the Respondent's pay are not being paid by Petitioner and are Respondent's responsibility.

2. Respondent agrees to be reassigned to the Junior/Senior High School to a Special Education and/or Basic Skills position providing special education and/or basic skills instruction, or, to be reassigned in any other area of appropriate certification based upon the needs of the District at the discretion of the Superintendent. The Respondent agrees to this reassignment and shall enjoy all other rights and privileges of her employment as heretofore was her right under her contract of employment.

3. The parties agree that the terms of this compromise and settlement agreement bind the parties to this agreement, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns.

4. The parties to this agreement in consideration of the covenants contained in this agreement, do hereby mutually release each other from any and all claims of any kind or character which they or any any of them may have, by reason of any matter or thing whatever.

5. Petitioner and Respondent hereby releases and discharges themselves, their legal representatives, successors and assigns, from any and all claims, demands, damages, action cause of action, or suits at law or equity, of any kind or nature, in any manner arising out of the tenure charges brought by Petitioner against Respondent.

6. Petitioner agrees to file a Dismissal with Prejudice of the above-mentioned legal action against Respondent.

7. This Agreement and the obligation of the parties as set forth herein is specifically contingent and conditioned upon the approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education. In the event that either the Office of Administrative Law and/or the Commissioner of the State of New Jersey disapproves this Agreement, then in that event, this matter shall be relisted for Trial with the Office of Administrative Law.

8. In the event the Office of Administrative Law and/or the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey does not approve this Agreement, then in that event, it is specifically understood and agreed that no part of this Agreement, nor the fact that the parties entered into this Agreement shall be admissible or used in any manner in any subsequent proceedings between Petitioner and Respondent.

9. Petitioner and Respondent believe this Agreement is consistent with the public interest and public policy and is in the public's best interest.

10. For the reasons set forth above, Petitioner and Respondent believe that an amicable and expeditious settlement of the dispute based upon the foregoing terms is in the interest of themselves and the public. In consideration of these terms and subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education, Petitioner and Respondent hereby agree that the dispute between them shall be resolved, based upon the terms and conditions as set forth herein. It is further agreed that should the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey reject this Agreement, all provisions thereof shall be null, void and of no further effect, and the parties shall retain all the legal rights they had prior to their consent to this Agreement.

RELEASE OF ALL CLAIMS

In consideration of payments being made as aforesaid by Petitioner to Respondent and then Respondent to Petitioner and Respondent submitting to a transfer of work assignment as aforesaid, the Respondent does release Petitioner and, likewise, the Petitioner does release Respondent from all claims, demands and cause of action that either has had or may have against the other based upon the disagreement which is the subject of the tenure charges.

The Respondent agrees that no representations have been made regarding this settlement except those as set forth in this settlement document.

In consideration of mutual relinquishment of their respective legal rights with references to the disputes and in consideration of the execution of this mutual release and fulfillment of the conditions of the settlement as aforesaid, it is hereby acknowledged that each of the parties hereby expressly releases the other, and their heirs, executors, administrators, successors or assigns from all liability or claims and demands arising out of this tenure action.

STIPULATION OF DISMISSAL

Based upon the settlement and release aforesaid, the Petitioner does hereby move for dismissal of the tenure charges which have been filed against Respondent and considers the matter fully settled.

B.M., petitioner, pro se

Joanne L. Butler, Esq., for respondent
(Schenck, Price, Smith & King, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 19, 1996 Decided: August 26, 1996

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On or about January 3, 1996, petitioner B.M., on behalf of her minor child, F.M., filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging the residency determination of the South Orange Maplewood Board of Education. Respondent filed an answer on February 13, 1996, alleging that F.M. is not entitled to a free public education in respondent's school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Respondent asserted in its counterclaim that B.M. is responsible pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 for the tuition costs for the period of ineligible attendance of the pupil F.M., the 1995-96 school year, and sought reimbursement. On February 20, 1996, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on April 7, 1996, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for July 1, 1996. A notice advising B.M. of the conference was sent to B.M. at one address that appeared in the file. On July 1, 1996, this judge attempted to place the call with petitioner at three different telephone numbers that appeared in the file for her, but to no avail. Since petitioner could not be reached, the prehearing conference could not be held on July 1, 1996. Notices of an in-person prehearing conference scheduled for July 31, 1996, at 3:30 p.m. at the OAL were sent on July 9, 1996, to the three addresses that appeared in the file for B.M. In addition, the undersigned wrote a letter to B.M. (see attached letter dated July 5, 1996), advising her of the OAL's attempt to place the conference call on July 1, 1996. The letter further indicated that an in-person prehearing conference had been scheduled for July 31, 1996, at 3:30 p.m. at the OAL. B.M. was advised that this was a peremptory date, and that if she did not appear her case would be dismissed for failure to appear.

On the date and time scheduled for the in-person prehearing conference, respondent's attorney appeared. B.M. failed to appear or provide the OAL with reasons for her non-appearance. As a result, the conference was not held. The undersigned advised counsel for respondent to prepare an order pursuant to the five-day rule, dismissing petitioner's claims and granting respondent's counterclaim seeking reimbursement of tuition for the 1995-96 school year. Respondent's counsel filed the order under the five-day rule on August 12, 1996, and sent a copy to B.M. B.M. was advised that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.9(c) she could object to the form of the order in writing within five days. B.M. has failed to respond to the order, to any of the notices sent to her scheduling prehearing conferences on July 1, 1996, and July 31, 1996, or to this judge's letter of July 5, 1996. As a result, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has abandoned her request for a hearing in regard to her petition and in response to the counterclaim. I therefore ORDER that the petition is dismissed, and that respondent's counterclaim seeking reimbursement of tuition for the 1995-96 school year is granted. The attached order incorporates the terms of this decision.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner, by her repeated failure to respond to the attempts by the OAL to schedule this matter for hearing or to respond to the proposed Order, has abandoned her request for a hearing.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge affirming the Board's determination that F.M. was an ineligible student in the District for the 1995-96 school year, and assessing relevant tuition costs, is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq., petitioner is directed to remit to the Board of Education tuition for F.M., prorated to the time of her ineligible attendance in the District.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, a certified teaching staff member, based on a work-related injury, seeks restoration of sick time and benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 28, 1995, for hearing as a contested case. The matter was scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference on March 5, 1996, but was adjourned until April 9, 1996. On April 9, 1996, a telephone prehearing conference was held and because of ongoing settlement discussions, the matter was continued to May 7, 1996. On May 7, 1996, the parties indicated that the matter would be settled and that upon resolution of certain outstanding matters, a stipulation of settlement would be provided. The matter was rescheduled for hearing on July 17, 18 and 19, 1996. Prior to the scheduled hearing date, the parties notified the administrative law judge that the matter had been settled. A Stipulation of Settlement was submitted on August 23, 1996, and by this Stipulation of Settlement a copy of which is attached, the parties have agreed to settle this matter.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :

HEARING Of MANUEL MARRERO, :

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, : DECISION

HUDSON COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

District certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent school psychologist due to allegedly improper interaction with female student and teacher.

In light of evidence in the record and testimony of witnesses, ALJ concluded the District did demonstrate that respondent exhibited conduct of a sufficiently inappropriate, suggestive and flagrant nature as to constitute conduct unbecoming a staff member. ALJ determined that respondent's conduct toward a female teacher was conduct unbecoming, and further found that respondent inappropriately used a student to relay messages to said teacher. Moreover, the ALJ found that respondent engaged in improper interaction with another minor female student, indicating a pattern of unbecoming conduct which warranted dismissal from his position as a Child Study Team member.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. Commissioner concurred with ALJ that the District proved its charges, revealing not one incident of serious lack of judgment on respondent's part, but a pattern of unacceptable behavior warranting dismissal. Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from his position and matter forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for further appropriate action.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, State Operated School District of Jersey City ("District"), certified tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a staff member against respondent, Manuel Marrero, a tenured psychologist. The District submits that Marrero's conduct warrants his dismissal from employment. Respondent denies any charges of wrongdoing.

The Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 1, 1995 for a determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14b-1 to-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1 to-13. Hearings were held on October 2, 3, 5 and 31, 1995. The parties filed posthearing briefs and the record closed on May 2, 1996.

The forty-five (45) day statutory period within which to file the initial decision with the Department of Education expired on May 2, 1996. Based on the administrative law judge's voluminous case load, a forty-five (45) day extension of time to complete the initial decision was granted. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8.

SUMMARY OF THE CHARGES

The District filed two charges of unbecoming conduct against Marrero. The charges are summarized as follows:

Charge No. 1:

1. Marrero, a school psychologist assigned as a member of the Child Study Team (CST) at Dickinson High School, has exhibited conduct on school premises and during school hours of a sufficiently inappropriate, suggestive and flagrant nature as to constitute conduct unbecoming a staff member in the Jersey City Public Schools.

2. On April 19, 1994, S.R., a minor female student who is classified for special education purposes, was called to the CST office to take a test related to her re-evaluation. Mary Ann Van Dyke, S.R.'s assigned case worker, told S.R. that Marrero would test her. During the test, Marrero began asking S.R. questions such as if she had a boyfriend, if she "hung out" and if so, what did she do. Marrero told S.R. that she should get glasses instead of the hazel contacts that she was wearing at the time because they made girls look prettier.

3. On the next day, April 20, 1994, S.R. returned to the CST office to drop off some papers. Marrero called her over to his desk. He said that he had driven by her house the previous day and had not seen her outside. He commented that the new hairstyle that she was wearing made her look very pretty, and told her if she "ever needed anything" that she should just "come down."

4. The following day, April 21, 1994, S.R. returned to the CST office to complete testing. When Marrero got up from his desk to get some papers, he slipped S.R. a note reading, "[S.] can I call you at your house? Yes-No." S.R. wrote back on the note - "Why? My phone is disconnected," but then decided not to return the note and instead slipped it under some papers.

5. After S.R. finished the test and Mrs. Van Dyke was preparing a pass for her to return to class, Marrero asked Mrs. Van Dyke not to put a time on it.

6. Marrero asked S.R. to sit in the chair closest to him. He asked if he could call S.R. or take her places, and what was she doing on the weekend. S.R. asked "for what" reason would he ask her this and said that she would probably spend the weekend out with her mother. Marrero then asked if she always went out with her mother. S.R. then began nervously looking at the calendar and at her watch so Marrero said that she had passed her test and to tell him when her phone was reconnected.

7. S.R. returned to school with her mother and made a police report. In speaking with a detective investigating the matter, Marrero admitted that these incidents had occurred and stated that he had exceeded his guidelines as a psychologist because S.R. needed help.

8. As a result of Marrero's behavior, he was suspended from his duties with pay effective April 22, 1994. He was served with notice of suspension by hand-delivery on the same date.

9. S.R. was so severely traumatized by these incidents that she went on home instruction for the remainder of the school year and for September and October of the following school year.

10. It is the District's position that inappropriate and suggestive behavior of this type directed toward an underage, educationally handicapped pupil by a professional in a position requiring confidentiality and trust is sufficiently flagrant to sustain termination on a tenure charge of unbecoming conduct.

Charge No. 2:

1. In the fall of 1993, Marrero began sending verbal messages through a female student to a fellow female teacher, Janet Gabriel, that Ms. Gabriel was attractive and asking if she was married.

2. Over the next two months, Marrero continued to send verbal messages through the student and wrote Gabriel a total of three letters expressing that he was attracted to her, that he looked at her every morning, and that he knew that she was married but that he would like to be friends and to give her gifts.

3. It is the position of the District that conduct of this obviously inappropriate nature, including the use of a student for its accomplishment, represents conduct unbecoming a staff member of the Jersey City Public Schools.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Based on the evidence, I FIND the following as FACT:

1. Marrero has been employed as a school psychologist and a member of the CST at Dickinson High School in the Jersey City Public Schools since 1979.
2. In school year 1993-94, S.R. was 16 years old and a tenth grade student at Dickinson.
3. S.R., a student with disabilities, was classified perceptually impaired, (P.I.).
4. On or about April 19, 1994, Mary Ann Van Dyke, Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant (LDTC) and case manager of the CST, called S.R. to the CST office for testing.
5. Van Dyke informed S.R. that Marrero would begin the tests.
6. Marerro tested S.R. for approximately 1 1/2 to 2 hours. He asked her questions such as with whom and where did she lived; if she had a boy friend, and if she "hung out"; and if so, what did she do. Marrero also commented on S.R.'s contact lenses and suggested that she should wear glasses because they made girls look prettier. When the testing was completed, Marrero wrote S.R. a pass to return to class. S.R. was also told to return some consent papers with her mother's signature the next day to Van Dyke.

7. The next day, S.R. returned some papers to the CST office. Marrero called her over to his desk and told S. that he had driven by her house the previous day, but had not seen her outside. He remarked that her hairstyle made her look pretty, and told her that if she ever needed anything that she should come down.

8. The following day, S.R. returned to the CST office to complete testing with Van Dyke. While Marerro was testing another student he left his desk and slipped S.R. a note which asked, "[S.] can I call you at home? Yes- No". S.R. replied on the note, "Why? My phone is disconnected (sic).". . S.R. did not return the note to Marrero; instead, she slipped it under some papers.

9. Van Dyke completed testing S.R. and prepared a pass for her to return to class. Marrero asked Van Dyke not to put a time on it because he wanted to speak to S.R. Marrero asked S.R. to sit in the chair closest to his desk. He then asked her what she was doing on the weekend and if he could call to take her places. S.R. asked him why he asked such questions and responded that she would probably spend the weekend out with her mother. Marrero than asked if she always went out with her mother. S.R. did not answer. Instead, she responded by looking down and away from his direction. Marrero then told her that she had passed his test and to tell him when her phone was reconnected.

10. S.R. returned to her Geometry class and told her teacher, Gina Herrero, what Marrero had said. Herrero advised S.R. to tell her mother what had occurred.

11. S.R. left school and met her cousin, J.G., on the way home.

13. J.R. returned to school with S.R. and met with principal Frank Dooley and vice-principal John Powers.

14. Powers recorded S.R.'s description of the occurrence in a school incident report (P-9). The report also stated that "an Asian-American female math teacher reported Mr. Marrero to Mr. Dooley earlier this year for harassing her. She reported that Mr. Marerro kept asking her for dates and would not take 'no' for an answer. Mr. Dooley counseled Mr. Marerro, and he stopped speaking with the teacher."

15. On April 24, 1994, detective John Whalen filed an investigation report, "harassment/endangering the welfare of a minor" (P-4). Detective Whalen took statements from S.R. and Marrero. S.R. described the incidents which occurred in the CST office on April 19, 20, and 21, 1994. Marrero "admitted saying what the victim had told but that it was taken out of context." Id Marrero also stated that "he may have gone outside his guidelines as a psychologist...and that he may have gotten to involved with the victim in trying to help her." Id.

16. J.R. filed a criminal complaint against Marrero charging him with sexual harassment, stalking and endangering the welfare of a minor. The matter was postponed several times and thereafter the complaint was dismissed.

17. Janet Gabriel is a math teacher who was assigned to Dickinson for the 1993-94 school year. Marerro wrote Gabriel three letters expressing his feelings toward her. In one letter, Marerro stated:

> I have never been affected by a woman as much as I have by you. When I first saw you from a distance, I recognized your beauty, but yesterday up close, I realized that you were ravishing. I know that you are married and I respect you as such, however, this does not negate the truth that you are an astonishing, beautiful woman. I also believe that your beauty goes beyond your physical attributes. You appear to be (illegible). I would like to be your friend. I hope that you are not offended by my frankness. I am a gentleman and respect the established boundaries. I ask you to be my friend and grant me permission to occasionally write to you. If I can, I would like to give you something for Christmas. I don't want anything except your friendship. Thank you.
>
> Sincerely,
>
> Mannie
> [P-7]

18. Gabriel destroyed the other letters. She recalled, however, that he wrote that he looked at her every morning. She was frightened by his confession because they had spoken only face-to-face once when he came to her classroom and requested that she fill out a form regarding a special education student in her class. Thus, she realized that he had been watching her. After she received the third letter, P-7, approximately one week before Christmas, Gabriel reported the incident to principal Dooley. Dooley told Marerro that day to "cease and desist."

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

I

THE CHARGES:

Tenured employees are protected "in their employment when they are subject to unfair and improper attacks, when they are unable to perform efficiently because of conditions not of their own making or beyond their control." In re Tenure Hearing of Joseph A Maraeta, Township of Riverside, 1966 S.L.D. 77, aff'd State Board of Education 1966 S.L.D. 106. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 further provides that no tenured teacher shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. Additional procedural safeguards, including the right to a list of charges, a sworn statement of evidence and an impartial hearing are required under the law to protect tenured teachers from arbitrary dismissal or "unfounded or flimsy reasons." Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1968). Moreover, charges against a tenured employee may not be examined in a vacuum, but must be considered in any events leading up to the allegations made against the employee which may help to explain the situation. In re Tenure Hearing of Romaroli, School District of Willingborough, 1975 S.L.D. 352.

Petitioner has the burden of proof to establish claims against the tenured teacher by a fair preponderance of the evidence. In Re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982). Preponderance is the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonable cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Where the standard is reasonable probability, that is, preponderance of the evidence, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Loew v Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div 1959).

With regard to charge one, Marerro conceded that when he administered the WISC-R intelligence test to S.R., he asked her if she had a boyfriend or "hung out", and told her to come see him if she needed anything. He maintained that he asked these questions to all students to establish a rapport. He claimed that he told S. that she would look pretty if she wore glasses because her eyes appeared to be irritated from contact lenses. At the hearing, Marrero also conceded the charge that he told S. that he had driven by her house and did not see her outside. "He also described the cement wall outside her complex which bears the address numbers." P-4. He claimed that it was common for him to divulge to the student that he lives in the same City; the student then realizes that he will "understand the plight of the urbanite". Respondent's Brief at 5. Respondent's testimony contracts his initial response to the charge. In the answer filed with the Department of Education respondent stated that "he may have advised the student that he passed or passes her residence, however he does not specifically remember doing so". Respondent's Answer.

Marerro explained that his note to S. which asked, "Can I call you at your house Yes -- No?" was written "in a hurry while he was testing another student in an attempt to confirm with S.R. that he wanted to talk with S.R.'s mother about declassifying S. from special education". Respondent's Brief at 5. Respondent submits that because these acts occurred in the CST center with other CST members present, it was impossible to do or say anything inappropriate. Id.

Respondent presented several witnesses who are experienced CST members. Robert Hanlon, a school psychologist and CST member, explained that the Vineland Psychological Test assesses the student's social level and includes questions about dating. However, Marerro administered the WISC-R intelligence test to S.R., not the Vineland Psychological Test. Hanlon and other CST members including Edward Fawerbach, Robert Scalh, Joseph Mills, Liz Sanchez, Paul Donnelly, Anthony Annacone, Dennis Forker agreed that personal questions about dating and directing the student where to sit during the evaluation help the CST member develop a rapport with the student. However, none would acknowledge that the questions which Marerro asked S.R. and the note he gave her were appropriate. Instead, they agreed that appropriate conduct, questions, and remarks by the CST member depend on the circumstances, the situation, and the demeanor of the student. For example, if the student is shy, questions should be confined to general items. Indeed, questions about personal relationships, e.g., do you have a boyfriend, should be initiated by the student.

Marerro conceded that he asked S. some personal questions but, claimed that his remarks were taken out of context. Moreover, he believed that there was nothing improper about his approach. I disagree. Marerro described S.R. as shy and timid. Indeed, the CST members who testified for respondent agreed that if the student is shy, questions should be confined to general items. Marrero's remarks, however, focused specifically on S.R.'s physical appearance and personal relationships. S.R. had never met with Marerro before he administered the test, and felt uncomfortable about the personal questions. In prior years, she had been tested several times by other CST members but, they never asked her if she had a boyfriend, did she "hang out", or what she did on weekends. Nor had she ever been told by an evaluator that he lived in the same neighborhood as she and that he had passed by her home.

I am persuaded by her straightforward testimony that S.R. did not misperceive Marerro's questions and conduct. Although S.R. may have maintained her composure in Marerro's presence, she was upset by the series of incidents which had occurred over the three day period. Marerro's communication was not always verbal or written. While Van Dyke administered her portion of the re-evaluation test, S. saw him starring at her from his side of the room. S.R. first confided in her teacher, Gina Herrera. S. tried to ignore Marerro's initial comments about her appearance but was frightened after he told her that he driven by her home and did not see her outside. Herrera described S. as extremely upset and sent her home to tell her mother about the incidents. On her way home S. ran into her cousin, J.G. J.G. credibly testified that S.R. appeared to be extremely upset. Thus, I reject respondent's suggestion that "it was S.R.'s mother's reaction and the subsequent lynch mob mentality of the school administration that made her upset." Respondent's Brief at 7.

S.R.'s mother, J.R., believed that the questions asked by Marrero were suggestive and had no relationship to the re-evaluation. Although S. had recently experienced the loss of several family members and she has been classified as PI for several years, J.R. maintained that her daughter had not exhibited any behavioral problems at home or academic problems in school. J.R. had three other children enrolled in the District and she had always been contacted by a staff member directly when he wanted to speak to her about her children. J.R. had never received a handwritten note similar to the one that Marrero had written to her daughter.

I have also considered the testimony and police report presented by Det. Whalen. He observed S.R., her mother, and Marerro on April 21, two days after S.R. first met with Marerro. S.R. and her mother were very upset about the incidents that occurred on April 19, 20, and 21, 1994. Marerro gave statements to Det. Whalen concerning the incidents. Det. Whalen believed S.R. and Marerro although their perceptions of Marerro's conduct differed. Det. Whalen testified that he believed Marerro's conduct was improper considering "the collectiveness of everything that was said...."

Proof of the charges filed against Marerro depend largely on the credibility of the witnesses and the believable evidence. In an administrative proceeding, testimony may be disbelieved, but it may not be disregarded. Middletown Tp. v Murdoch, 73 N.J. Super. 511 (App. Div. 1962). One factor to consider to determine which party's version of the incident has the "reasonable probability of truth" is that the "interest, motive, biases or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify [the trier of fact], whose providence it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952). Further, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). The record reveals no reason S.R. might be biased or hold any grudges against Marerro whom she had just met. S.R.'s testimony was credible and she was more believable than was Marerro. Thus, I accept her version of the incidents that occurred in April 1994. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert Mantone, 93 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 322; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing Dennis Cooke, 92 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 220.

Marerro's assertion that the purpose of his note to S. was to discuss declassification with the parent is bogus. He handed the note to S. and expected an answer to his question, "[S.] can I call you at your house? Yes- No".

> Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as a common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable under the circumstances.
> Spagnuolo v. Bonnet*, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954); In re Perone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950).

Marerro was asking permission to call S., not the parent. Moreover, Marerro's attempt to communicate information to S. or her mother about declassification in this manner is contrary to school policy. Dr. Elias, Executive Director of Pupil Services, explained that the declassification of a student is a collective decision of the CST. Besides, no CST member should discuss declassification with the student before the completion of the revaluation, the CST has met, and recommendations have been presented.

I also reject respondent's notion that S.R.'s classification of P.I. may have caused her to misperceive or misinterpret his questions and conduct. Dr. Elias description of a perceptually impaired student is consistent with the definition provided in N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.5(d)8ii. She described P.I. as a discrepancy of about one and one half years between the pupil's achievement and intellectual ability. Thus, I am also persuaded that S.R.'s was telling the truth about Marrero's request that she sit in the chair which was closest to his desk and then proceeded to ask if he could call her and take her places. She did not misinterpret his remarks as inappropriate.

Based on the evidence, I CONCLUDE that the District has proven the allegations in charge one. I further CONCLUDE that the District has demonstrated that Marrero exhibited conduct of a sufficiently inappropriate, suggestive and flagrant nature as to constitute conduct unbecoming a staff member in the Jersey City Public Schools.

With regard to charge two, Gabriel credibly testified that Marerro sent her messages that "he liked her" through a former student, M.R. who was also a special education student. Gabriel acknowledged that she asked M.R. to tell Marerro that she was married and had no intent to go out with him. Marrero also wrote three letters to Gabriel expressing his affection, emotional attachment, and a desire to be part of her life. His expressions were neither de minimis nor inconsequential. Gabriel found Marerro's letters demeaning and suggestive. When Gabriel did not return his affection after receiving the first letter, Marrero continued to pursue her with more letters expressing his feelings of passion. After the third letter, Gabriel reported the matter to the building principal who ordered Marrero to stop.

Marerro's testimony does not supporthis assertion that his letters to Gabriel and his offer to give her gifts were work related. Marerro claimed that he wrote the first letter to apologize for looking at her in a manner which made her feel uncomfortable. The second note was written to thank her for completing a questionnaire concerning a student. He claimed that the third letter was a friendship card, P-7, which he sent to her around Christmas. He explained that the "gift" which he alluded to in his statement "I would like to give you something for Christmas", P-7, was removing a problem student from her class. Marerro's explanations defy common sense. Any reasonable person would interpret Marerro's declaration as personal, not business related. His thought was explicit:

> I have never been affected by a woman as much as I have by you. When I first saw you from a distance, I recognized your beauty, but yesterday up close, I realized that you were ravishing. I know that you are married and I respect you as such, however, this does not negate the truth that you are an astonishing, beautiful woman.

The letter sends an implicit message that given the opportunity, Marerro would be more than a friend to Gabriel. I also agree that Marerro's actions "could be construed as creating a hostile work environment, an element of the charge of sexual harassment." Petitioner's Brief at 8.

Based on the preponderance of the credible evidence, I CONCLUDE that the Board has demonstrated that respondent's conduct toward a female teaching staff member was conduct unbecoming a staff member in the Jersey City Public Schools.

II

THE PENALTY:

Unfitness to remain a teacher may be shown by a single incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it is best evidenced by a series of incidents. See Redclay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944) I have carefully considered Marrero's testimony regarding the charges and observed his demeanor. He has been employed in the Jersey City Public School system for many years. He is a certified school psychologist. Except for the pending charges, Marrero's record is unblemished. Indeed, several of Marerro's colleagues who worked with him testified that they never heard any negative comments about him. Several former students saw him as a dedicated and attentive CST member who cared about his students.

These mitigating factors do not negate conduct which is improper or might be viewed improper by the ordinary person. Marrero exercised poor judgment by asking S.R. personal questions and sending her notes which asked if he could call her at home. Like teachers, school psychologists are entrusted with the care and custody of school children and thus, they play important roles in the community. They have close contact with students who are emotionally, physically, or educationally challenged. CST members interact with students whose deficits may cause them to be more vulnerable and impressionable than the non-educationally disabled student or who may lack the inner resources which led S.R. to report improper conduct. Thus, CST members must be held to a high standard of conduct. Parents, law enforcement officials and the general public expect them to impart social and moral values appropriate to the setting. Like teachers, school psychologists :

> ...are public employees to who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinion of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher. When a teacher deliberately and willfully . . . violates the public trust placed in him, he must expect dismissal or other severe penalty as set by the Commissioner.

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ernest Tordo, School District of the Township of Jackson, Ocean County, 1974 S.L..D. 97, 98. It is essential that CST members avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated. School psychologists are expected to exercise exemplary restraint and mature self-control. Consequently, it is appropriate to sanction those employees who behave with impropriety or the appearance of impropriety.

Based on the whole of the record, I CONCLUDE that Marrero, a tenured staff member with many years of experience, engaged in a pattern of improper interaction with a minor student whose interest he is mandated to safeguard. I further CONCLUDE that Marrero violated the public and private trust. I also CONCLUDE that there are no mitigating factors to support continued employment with the Jersey City Public Schools. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that respondent should be dismissed from his position as a CST staff member in the Jersey City Public Schools.

Finally, in his brief respondent mentions but does not address "numerous procedural and substantive errors which pre-date the hearing..." Consequently, these unsupported assertions will be disregarded.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that respondent be dismissed from his position as school psychologist for the State Operated School District of Jersey City.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING Of MANUEL MARRERO,	:
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter, which includes four days of hearing transcripts, and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. No reply exceptions were filed by petitioner.

Respondent generally excepts that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) did not give any weight to the witnesses who testified on his behalf. Respondent avers that each of these witnesses said that there was nothing inappropriate in his actions concerning student, S. R. (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 1)

Respondent then, by way of example, summarizes the testimony of each of the witnesses who testified on his behalf by presenting excerpts from the transcripts of the hearing to bolster the position that he did not act inappropriately in performing his Child Study Team (CST) evaluation of S.R. (Id. at pp. 2-3)

Respondent next avers in Exceptions 2 and 3, that the ALJ gave no weight to his prior students who testified that he was extremely helpful to them and did not make them feel uncomfortable. (Id. at p. 3) He avers in Exception 4 that the ALJ did not give any weight to the testimony of a social worker on the CST who was in the room during S.R.'s evaluation and said that he did not observe S.R. "in a state of agitation or upset." (Id.) Next, respondent avers that due weight was not given to the testimony of an individual who said he never witnessed or heard of respondent ever doing anything inappropriate in the 20 or 30 cases for which he was respondent's supervisor. (Id. at p. 4)

Respondent also objects that the ALJ ignored testimony of a learning consultant who worked in the same school as respondent and said it is important to establish a friendship or a rapport with an exceptionally shy student, as in the case of S.R.

Respondent then avers that the ALJ gave too much weight to the testimony of S.R. and her friend, J.G., and to the testimony establishing that S.R. was extremely upset by respondent's actions. (Id. at p. 7)

Respondent further contends that the ALJ violated respondent's constitutional protections by allowing into evidence criminal charges that were ultimately withdrawn and the testimony of Detective Whalen who testified that respondent's conduct was improper, stating that the prejudicial effect of his testimony outweighed any probative value. Respondent characterizes such testimony as, "double hearsay testimony" which is "violative of the confrontation clause of the United States Constitution." (Id. at pp. 8-9) He further avers that what happened in the municipal court and what happened with respect to police investigations is not relevant to the case at bar and the ALJ erred in admitting the police report and Detective Whalen's testimony into the record. (Id. at p. 9)

In his final exception, respondent again claims that the District violated the confrontation clause of the U.S. Constitution in proving Charge II generally by failing to call the student as a witness who it alleged to have served as respondent's conduit in carrying messages from respondent to female coworker, Janet Gabriel. Respondent avers, in that a student was allegedly used as a conduit to send information, the ALJ's finding that this is true, without the testimony of the student, defies logic. (Id. at p. 10)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that respondent's actions, as proven, constitute unbecoming conduct for the reasons expressed therein. The Commissioner finds that the ALJ considered all testimony and weighed its content according to the credibility of the witnesses. The Commissioner further finds the excerpts of transcripts put forth by respondent, when reviewed in their full context, could reasonably support such findings. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super.

143 (App. Div. 1987) and Campanile v. Middletown Board of Education, Monmouth County, decided by the Commissioner March 2, 1982.

In so ruling, the Commissioner is mindful that respondent raises extensive exceptions regarding proper versus improper behavior of school officials when evaluating a student as a member of a CST and notes that conflicting testimony on this subject was present in the record, including testimony from the District's Executive Director of Special Education who testified that the note passed to S.R. by respondent was not appropriate, nor was it appropriate to pursue asking her questions of a personal nature when she was uncomfortable, nor was it appropriate to drive by her house. The Commissioner is satisfied with the ALJ's explanation that all testimony proffered by respondent was considered by her and weighted accordingly. Specifically, the ALJ noted, > several of Marrero's colleagues who worked with him testified that they never heard any negative comments about him. Several former students saw him as a dedicated and attentive CST member who cared about his students.

>
> These mitigating factors do not negate conduct which is improper or might be viewed improper by the ordinary person. Marrero exercised poor judgment by asking S.R. personal questions and sending her notes which asked if he could call her at home.
>
> (Initial Decision at pp. 13-14)

The ALJ further found S.R.'s testimony to be credible in that she had no reason to lie and she was more believable than was respondent, stating

> Thus, I accept [S.R.'s] version of the incidents that occurred in April 1994. ***
>
> Marrero's assertion that the purpose of his note to [S.R.] was to discuss declassification with the parent is bogus.
>
> Marerro was asking permission to call [S.R.], not the parent. Moreover, Marrero's attempt to communicate information to [S.R.] or her mother about declassification in this manner is contrary to school policy.Besides, no CST member should discuss declassification with the student before the completion of the revaluation, the CST has met, and recommendations have been presented. (Id. at pp. 11-12)

The ALJ found S.R.'s credibility reinforced by her actions subsequent to the alleged incident:[1] She cried and told a friend's mother about the incident and her own mother who then reported the incident to the police and school officials were notified within a day of the incident.

In sum, the Commissioner will not challenge the ALJ's credibility determinations and resultant conclusions with respect to the charges against respondent in that the ALJ was in the best position to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and of respondent and to carefully measure conflicts and inconsistencies. Consequently, respondent's exceptions challenging the ALJ's credibility determinations and the factual findings predicated thereon, are hereby rejected.

While the ALJ admitted the police report, initially stating that it would have no impact on her determination but would give the trier of fact better focus on the issues (Tr. 10/2/96 at pp. 80-81), the Commissioner notes that the ALJ subsequently did admit the police report on October 5, 1996, and advised that she would consider it as part of the record. (Tr. 10/5/96 at p. 17) Even assuming arguendo that such admission was improper, it is clear that the ALJ reached no conclusion that would not have been reached without the report in that, as noted by respondent's own attorney,

> [Detective Whalen] testified about everything that's contained within the report. His testimony's now part of the record. [U]nder the Best Evidence Rule his -- his testimony's better than the report. (Tr. 10/5/96 at p. 17, lines 13-16)

Therefore, in that the author of the report was present at hearing, testified about everything contained in the report, and was available for cross-examination at a de novo hearing, the Commissioner rejects respondent's objections to such evidence as without merit.

The Commissioner further concurs that the District proved its charges of unbecoming conduct in Charge 2. The Commissioner concurs that any reasonable person would conclude that the content of respondent's letter to Janet Gabriel was personal, and not business related. (Initial Decision at p. 13) Further, his expressions were "suggestive" and "neither de

[1] The Commissioner has weighed student credibility in past tenure cases of this nature by assessing a student's motives and subsequent actions following the incident leading to dismissal. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of William Matthews, decided by the Commissioner December 20, 1979, aff'd St. Bd. May 7, 1980, teacher dismissed for offering to give student an "A" in exchange for sexual favors. Commissioner found student's testimony was credible because she had no motive to lie and had repeated the incident to other teachers immediately after it had happened.

minimis nor inconsequential." (Id. at p. 12) The Commissioner also determines that the ALJ reasonably concluded, based on the testimony, that these expressions were relayed from respondent to Ms. Gabriel by a student. This is so without the testimony of the student "conduit" in that the female teacher who received respondent's letters and messages of overt interest, Janet Gabriel, testified that a student relayed such messages and letters to her from respondent. This testimony was based on Ms. Gabriel's own first-hand knowledge and Ms. Gabriel underwent cross-examination. (Tr. 10/3/96 at pp. 8-81) For such reason, there is no finding that a violation of the confrontation clause occurred.

With regard to the evaluation/determination of the appropriate penalty to be imposed in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the tenure charges, as proven, are sufficient to warrant respondent's termination from employment, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and 11.

In reaching such determination, the Commissioner is aware that he is required to consider the totality of respondent's record in the District, the nature and gravity of his offenses under all the circumstances involved, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation, or aggravation and must consider any harm or injurious effect which his conduct may have had in the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421-22 (App. Div. 1967).

The Commissioner finds removal appropriate despite the fact that respondent's record prior to these charges is unblemished, given that the District has proven not one, but both of its charges, revealing not one incident of serious lack of judgment on the part of respondent, but a pattern of unacceptable behavior.

> The Commissioner concurs that school psychologists > are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. (In re Tordo, supra, at 98)

As such, the Commissioner has removed teachers in the past for making unwarranted advances upon students. See, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of

Robert Mantone, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU)322, aff'd St. Bd. 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 789.[2] In a recent case, the Commissioner found > that by forcing his attentions on young girls who looked to him, as their teacher, to assure their protection, and continuing such behavior despite the clear indication of these students that his behavior was causing them to be frightened, embarrassed and uncomfortable, Mantone misused his authority and clearly betrayed the trust of his students, his school district, and his community. The Commissioner opines that sexual harassment on the part of any individual is intolerable behavior but when engaged in by an educator it is utterly reprehensible. (Mantone, 93 N.J.A.R. at 326)

Moreover, although several of respondent's witnesses classify his actions as "not inappropriate," the Commissioner does not concur and finds that school psychologists, like teachers, "must exhibit a high degree of exemplary behavior" (In re Tyler, 13 N.J.A.R. 297, 308 (1991)), a standard which was clearly breached by the conduct proven herein.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein and respondent is ordered dismissed from his position as a school psychologist for the State-operated School District of Jersey City. This matter will be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

EDUCATION, MIDDLESEX COUNTY. : DECISION

_____:

OCTOBER 8 1996

IN THE MATTER OF	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
NOLA G. CAULEY	:
MIDDLESEX COUNTY VOCATIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
	:	RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. authorizes the School Ethics Commission to recommend removal of any board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Cauley was elected to the school board in April 1995; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA)advises prospective school board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit" and advises new board members of the requirement in a letter congratulating them on their achievement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence in December to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend board member training and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 15, 1995, advising that they have only three more programs to attend without being in violation of the Act; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the School Ethics Commission, the New Jersey School Boards Association published a notice entitled, "Last Chance to Meet Training Requirements" in the February 23, 1996 edition of School Board Notes advising that the March 16, 1996, session was the last that board members elected or appointed before June 1995 could attend without penalty; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association conducted eight training sessions on the following dates:

June 2-4, 1995
June 16-18, 1995

September 8-10, 1995
September 22-24, 1995
October 24, 1995
January 6, 1996
January 20, 1996
March 16, 1996; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association continuously published the dates and locations of the training sessions and indicated that training was a state mandate; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirements was March 16, 1996, yet the Commission allowed the June 1996 sessions to fulfill the requirement without setting precedent for future violations; and

WHEREAS, the above-captioned board member failed to attend training for well over the one-year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission issued an Order on April 25, 1996, directing the board member to Show Cause why he or she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, said board member failed to respond; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated June 4, 1996, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), the Commission notified said board member of the opportunity to appear before the Commission, be represented by counsel, and present witnesses on his or her behalf; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commissions finds that the failure to attend board member training from April 1995 to June 1996, constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-33 and warrants removal from the board,

NOW THEREFORE IT IS RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that despite adequate opportunities, the above-named board member has failed to attend the training program as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and thus violated that provision. The Commission therefore, recommends to the Commissioner of Education that said board member be removed from office. The Commission further recommends to the Commissioner that a copy of his decision removing the board member be transmitted to the board secretary of the district in which said board member serves and the county superintendent for the district.

Paul Garbarini, Chairman
School Ethics Commission

Date: June 18, 1996

I certify that the within Resolution was duly adopted by the School Ethics Commission at its Public Meeting on June 18, 1996.

IN THE MATTER OF NOLA G. CAULEY,	:
MIDDLESEX COUNTY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
VOCATIONAL BOARD OF	:	DECISION
EDUCATION, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of her failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(I), on April 23, 1996, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why a penalty should not be imposed for such failure; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member failed to respond to such Order; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on June 18, 1996, to recommend removal of the above-named Board member for failure to attend training sessions in violation of State statute, and forward this matter to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter from the Commission dated June 20, 1996, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner comments to the Commission's decision recommending removal; and

Whereas, counsel for respondent submitted comments, dated June 26, 1996, urging that the recommended penalty of the Commission was excessive and unwarranted for the "technical non-compliance" involved here and suggests, instead, that respondent be suspended upon condition of mandatory participation within a fixed time frame*; and

Whereas, on September 25, 1996, the Commissioner received a certification from Toby R. Simon, Assistant Executive Director/Membership Development for the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA), stating that the above-named Board member had attempted to register for and to attend the training session held September 6-8, 1996, but was refused admittance because NJSBA personnel believed, and the above-named Board member did not clearly dispute, that she had already been removed from the Board by the Commissioner; and

Whereas, Ms. Simon further states that on September 10, 1996, she contacted the School Ethics Commission to verify this Board member's status and was informed that, although the Commission had recommended her removal from the Board, the Commissioner had not yet acted; and

Whereas, Ms. Simon advises that upon receiving this information she promptly contacted the above-mentioned Board member informing her of her eligibility to register for and

*The Commissioner notes counsel's contention that removal of this Board member, together with the potential removal of another member of this Board for the same violation presently pending, would reduce a five member Board to only three members, thereby jeopardizing its ability to take public action. In that, despite the potential of two vacancies on this Board, a quorum remains and in that there is a provision in law for prompt filling of Board member vacancies, such contention is unpersuasive and the Commissioner will not hesitate to remove this Board member if she does not promptly attend training.

to attend either the training session scheduled for October 22, 1996, or the one on January 4, 1997; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter, the decision of the School Ethics Commission, the comments filed on behalf of respondent and the certification of Ms. Simon. After such review, the Commissioner finds that, based on this Board member's attempt to register for and attend the September training session, removal is not warranted at this point; however, some penalty is warranted for the Board member's insufficiently explicated delay in meeting the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Wherefore, the Commissioner modifies the Commission's penalty determination to a suspension of the above-named Board member for a period of two months; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member shall not be removed from office, but rather shall be suspended for a period of two months to commence upon the Board's receipt of this decision, or until such time as she obtains the required training, whichever is longer.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:

OCTOBER 8, 1996

IN THE MATTER OF	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
THOMAS F. PANCONI	:
MIDDLESEX COUNTY VOCATIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
	:	RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. authorizes the School Ethics Commission to recommend removal of any board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Panconi was elected to the school board in November 1994 and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA)advises prospective school board members of the training requirement in the "candidate kit" and advises new board members of the requirement in a letter congratulating them on their achievement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence in December to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend board member training and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 15, 1995, advising that they have only three more programs to attend without being in violation of the Act; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the School Ethics Commission, the New Jersey School Boards Association published a notice entitled, "Last Chance to Meet Training Requirements" in the February 23, 1996 edition of School Board Notes advising that the March 16, 1996, session was the last that board members elected or appointed before June 1995 could attend without penalty; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association conducted eight training sessions on the following dates:

June 2-4, 1995
June 16-18, 1995
September 8-10, 1995
September 22-24, 1995
October 24, 1995
January 6, 1996
January 20, 1996
March 16, 1996; and

WHEREAS, the New Jersey School Boards Association continuously published the dates and locations of the training sessions and indicated that training was a state mandate; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirements was March 16, 1996, yet the Commission allowed the June 1996 sessions to fulfill the requirement without setting precedent for future violations; and

WHEREAS, the above-captioned board member failed to attend training for well over the one-year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission issued an Order on April 25, 1996, directing the board member to Show Cause why he or she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission considered the board member's reply to the Order, but found same to be insufficient in light of the aforementioned notices and opportunities to attend training; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated June 4, 1996, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), the Commission notified said board member of the opportunity to appear before the Commission, be represented by counsel, and present witnesses on his or her behalf; and

WHEREAS, said board member chose not to appear, and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commissions finds that the failure to attend board member training from April 1995 to June 1996, constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-33 and warrants removal from the board,

NOW THEREFORE IT IS RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that despite adequate opportunities, the above-named board member has failed to attend the training program as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and thus violated that provision. The Commission therefore, recommends to the Commissioner of Education that said board member be removed from office. The Commission further recommends to the Commissioner that a copy of his decision removing the board member be transmitted to the board secretary of the district in which said board member serves and the county superintendent for the district.

Paul Garbarini, Chairman

IN THE MATTER OF THOMAS PANCONI,	:
MIDDLESEX COUNTY VOCATIONAL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.4; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member for his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.3(i), on April 23, 1996, the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why a penalty should not be imposed for such failure; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member responded to the Order to Show Cause through his attorney advising that he planned to take the training course in January 1997;[1] and

Whereas, the Commission considered the reply to the Order and found same to be insufficient in light of the aforementioned notices and opportunities to attend training; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was given an opportunity to appear before the Commission at a meeting concerning his failure to take the training course but did not appear; and

[1] Although not specifically noted in the Commission's resolution, respondent did submit three responses to the Order to Show Cause under separate cover dated April 29, 1996, May 6, 1996 and May 24, 1996, which were all included in the record reviewed herein. Additionally, the Commission forwarded in the record reviewed herein a letter in support of respondent from Joseph Colombo, Superintendent of the Middlesex County Vocational Technical School dated June 12, 1996.

Whereas, the Commission voted on June 18, 1996, to recommend removal of the above-named Board member for failure to attend training sessions in violation of State statute, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on June 20, 1996, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending removal; and

Whereas, counsel for the above-named Board member submitted comments, dated June 26, 1996, urging that the recommended penalty of the Commission was excessive and unwarranted for the "technical non-compliance" involved here and suggests, instead, that respondent be suspended upon condition of mandatory participation within a fixed time frame;[2] and

Whereas, the Commissioner has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and the comments filed on behalf of respondent. After such review, the Commissioner finds that, based on respondent's assertions that he intends to take the required training in January 1997, removal is not warranted at this point; however, some penalty is warranted for respondent's insufficiently explicated delay in meeting the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Wherefore, the Commissioner modifies the Commission's penalty determination to a suspension of the above-named Board member for a period of two months; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member shall not be removed from office, but rather shall be suspended for a period of two months to commence upon the Board's receipt of this decision, or until such time as he obtains the required training, whichever is longer.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[2] The Commissioner notes counsel's contention that removal of this Board member, together with the potential removal of another member of this Board for the same violation presently pending, would reduce a five member Board to only three members, thereby jeopardizing its ability to take public action. In that, despite the potential of creating two vacancies on the Board, a quorum remains and in that there is a provision in law for prompt filing of Board member vacancies, such contention is unpersuasive and Commissioner will not hesitate to remove this Board member if he does not attend training in January 1997.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning contractor contended Board awarded a contract in excess of $1 million to another contractor for the upgrade of the fire alarm equipment in certain schools operated by the Board. Petitioner contended this contract was awarded contrary to the requirements of the Public School Contracts Law since it was made without having been preceded by public advertisement for the receipt of bids.

ALJ concluded that there was an emergent situation with respect to the disrepair of the fire and security systems that justified the Board's award without going through public bidding process. Board had invoked the emergency purchase exception found in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7. Moreover, the ALJ found that the steps taken by the Board following its invocation of the emergency declaration were legally sufficient. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ's findings and determination in initial decision.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral initial decision rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2 on August 14, 1996.

The procedural history of this case may be described as follows. On or about April 8, 1994, petitioner, Institutional Systems Service Corporation (hereafter referred to as "Institutional") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education wherein it set forth that it was a qualified installer and distributor of fire alarm equipment utilized in the public schools and that in February 1994, a few months earlier, the respondent East Orange Board of Education had awarded a contract in excess of $I million to a respondent at that time, Metro Fire and Communication Systems, for the upgrade of the fire alarm equipment in certain schools operated by the respondent Board. The petition went on to contend that this contract was awarded contrary to the requirements of the Public School Contracts Law since it was made without having been preceded by public advertisement for the receipt of bids. The petitioner maintained that it had the qualifications, financial ability and experience to perform the services and to deliver the equipment required under that contract and that by virtue of the Board's action in awarding it without bidding, petitioner had been deprived of its right to participate in the proceedings. The petitioner therefore requested that the Commissioner set the contract aside and order the Board to publicly advertise for the receipt of bids in proper accordance with the requirements of the statute and the regulations. The matter then was promptly transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Commissioner since Institutional was seeking a stay of the carrying out of the Board's intention to award the contract to Metro. Also, I believe that the stay application included a request for summary decision.

A hearing in connection with that application was conducted by Judge Elinor R. Reiner on May 6, 1994. She denied Institutional's request for emergent relief and for summary judgment and directed that the matter proceed to plenary hearing on the issue of whether or not a statutory emergency legitimately existed thereby justifying the Board's award to Metro without having gone through the public bidding process. I should note, as well, that in June 1994 a company known as Tenavision Inc., filed a separate petition challenging the Board's award after public bidding of a contract to a company known as Electro-Es for actual installation of the fire alarm equipment which was to be delivered by Metro. Later that month Judge James A. Ospenson denied Tenavision's request for a stay of the installation contract to Electro-Es, thereby permitting all of the work ultimately to proceed.

In July 1994, the State Board of Education affirmed Judge Reiner's denial of Institutional's application for a stay and for summary judgment and by October 1994 much of the equipment essentially had been delivered to the sites in East Orange by Metro in accordance with its contract and essentially installed by Electro-Es. Thereafter, in February 1996, Metro was dismissed as a respondent by stipulation (copy attached) whereby it agreed to be bound by any decision in this matter, or in any other forum. The delay from 1994 when the petition was filed, until 1996 when the case was tried was due to a variety of reasons which I shortly will discuss.

Ultimately, on April 4, 1996 I conducted a plenary hearing at which time the testimony of two individuals was received. First, from the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. John D. Howard, Jr. and also from an architectural consultant employed by the Board, Dr. Robert J. Dean. In addition, a variety of exhibits were offered and received on that date.

Following the close of the testimony a schedule for the filing of post-hearing proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law was established. Those documents ultimately were filed with me and I am today rendering my oral decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2. At this juncture I would note that the delay prior to my conducting a hearing in April 1996, even though the case came to the OAL in April 1994, was the result, as I said, of a variety of reasons, including requested adjournments by counsel. Also a substantial aspect of that delay was to provide both the Board and Institutional with time to respond to certain issues which I raised sua sponte respecting a concern I had regarding the very propriety of my even proceeding with a hearing in light of the fact that the equipment had already been installed and it did not seem to me that any relief could be awarded either by me or by the Commissioner. Therefore, I raised the question of whether we should be spending the time of the court and counsel, and the money of their clients, with respect to the matter. Counsel thereafter submitted memoranda in connection with the issues I raised. In fact, to be a little more specific, in September 1995, after we had set hearing dates and while I was awaiting receipt of the stipulation of dismissal with respect to Metro, I wrote to counsel (copy of letter attached) and asked them to address and to submit memoranda of law with respect to the following three issues: (a) what specific relief is sought in this matter by Institutional which the OAL has jurisdiction to grant? (b) if the object of continuing to pursue this case before OAL was to establish a record for a separate Superior Court action, was that activity essentially a waste of judicial and administrative efficiency since two separate fora were involved? and (c) what would be the likelihood that proceeding in the Superior Court rather than at OAL on the issues involved would lead to a determination by the Superior Court to transfer all or part of the case back to OAL to have the hearing under the exhaustion of remedies doctrine? Counsel, as I said, ultimately submitted memoranda of law with respect to the issues I raised and by letter dated January 4, 1996 (copy attached) I wrote to counsel and reviewed the status of the case at that time. I noted that as a result of the receipt of the memoranda it seemed to me that Mr. Lawless, on behalf of petitioner, seemed to agree that the question of my continuing to retain jurisdiction was not an inappropriate one to consider and, in fact, I believe he noted and I said so in my letter that he would not object to my transferring the case to the Superior Court where all of the issues could be heard and decided at once. He also suggested I make certain recommendations in that order to see to it that the case perhaps would be expedited. Mr. Randall, on behalf of the East Orange Board of Education, to the contrary, took the position that the matter was appropriately before me, not that it would not also perhaps be appropriate to be heard directly in the Superior Court. However, he maintained that as long as it was here before me I might as well decide it. I then determined, based upon my receipt of those briefs, that even though I continued to entertain extremely serious reservations regarding my proceeding with the case it was technically, at least, a "school law controversy" and I therefore would assert jurisdiction and conduct a plenary hearing to establish a record, leaving petitioner to whatever remedies, if any, it believed it might be entitled as a result of whatever I said. So, with those trepidations, and I still continue to have those concerns, nevertheless I did proceed and I will today render my oral initial decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon my review of the testimony received at the plenary hearing from Drs. Howard and Dean, as well as my consideration of the documentary evidence, I make the following Findings of Fact:

1. In March 1993 the Board hired L. Robert Kimball & Associates, an architectural firm, to design and superintend the award of contracts for the installation of a new fire alarm system for all of the Board's buildings. The fire alarm and security system had been in a state of deterioration for a considerable period of time before the Kimball firm was hired.

2. Thereafter, in September 1993, the Board advertised for the receipt of bids for a contract to both furnish and install district-wide fire and security systems. Unfortunately, only one bid was received in response to that advertisement and that bid had to be rejected because it exceeded the school district's budget for the project by approximately $2 million, at least.

3. Subsequent to the rejection of that bid the Board's architect began an in-depth investigation of the fire and security systems. Also included in that investigation was a company known as ADT which, I believe, had been engaged temporarily to provide some corrective action, at least in an emergent, stop-gap sort of way, while the Board was continuing to look at its more long term problems. As a result of that review and investigation, which took place following the September 1993 rejection of the only bid, the architect found that the fire and security systems were much worse than initially had been believed, that the only early warning notice regarding fire protection or prevention in many of the schools would be if a neighbor actually saw fire or smoke and called the fire department or some other person and, in short, that the condition of the fire and security systems was deplorable and tantamount to an emergent situation requiring prompt corrective action.

4. Therefore, on or about December 7, 1993 and pursuant to a letter received from the Board's architect, Mr. David E. Chase, the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Howard, officially declared and determined that there was an emergent situation in connection with the fire and security systems. On that same date, the Board passed a resolution declaring that a condition of emergency did exist with respect to that situation (Exhibits R-1, R-2).

5. On December 14, 1993 the then County Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Peter Carter, was advised that the Board intended to invoke the emergency purchase exception to the public bidding requirements found in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7. A communication from Dr. Howard to Mr. Carter is part of the record in this case (Exhibit R-4). The basis for the determination by the Superintendent and Board for declaration of emergency was essentially the letters received not only from Mr. Chase, the architect, but also from the East Orange Fire Department as well (Exhibit R-3), and there are documents in the record in that respect. Dr. Howard also testified that even prior to December 14, 1993 he had been in conversation with Mr. Carter regarding the situation and had expressed his belief that this was an emergent situation.

6. In response to the information provided to him Dr. Howard, Mr. Carter determined that the district's belief that an emergent situation existed did find support in the correspondence from the architect and from the East Orange Fire Department and based upon that documentation, and in light as well of conversations he had previously with Dr. Howard and apparently with Board counsel, Carter authorized the East Orange Board to invoke and apply the provisions of the statute concerning the emergency purchase of, in this case, equipment - fire and security alarm equipment. The school district specifically was instructed by Mr. Carter to "adhere to the statute and code as well as take whatever precautions it deemed necessary and appropriate with regard to all fiscal and physical aspects of the situation" (Exhibit R-5). The county superintendent also directed the school district to obtain three proposals for the security system. Thereafter, although the district actually requested proposals from four potential suppliers, only two were received - one from Simplex Time Recorder Company and the other from Metro. Metro's proposal was approximately $700,000 less than the other one and the Board therefore determined simply to consider Metro only with regard to the award of the contract.

7. Sometime during January 1994 the other proposer, Simplex, informally challenged the anticipated award to Metro by complaining about it to some entity in the Department of Education, but there was never any formal filing of a petition by Simplex, either with the Commissioner or anyone else regarding Simplex's concern.

8. Subsequently, on February 1, 1994 the East Orange Board, having determined following its review of the status of the bids to award the delivery and equipment contract to Metro, passed a resolution awarding the contract to that company (Exhibit P-4).

9. Previous to this award an issue had been raised concerning whether Metro was properly pre-qualified to be awarded such a contract and several communications on that issue were made part of the record including exchanges between counsel for Metro, then counsel for Institutional and from Ms. Adams, the DBC Director in Trenton (Exhibits R-7 to R-11). Ultimately, Ms. Adams advised counsel for Metro that her office had no jurisdiction over the project and that any complaints concerning the absence of prequalification had to be addressed to the Board (Exhibit R-12).

10. Thereafter, into March 1994, Metro and the Board were negotiating over payment terms and particularly various payment options. Ultimately that was ironed out and Metro indicated that deliveries would commence sometime in April and hopefully would be completed by June. Thus, on April 8, 1994, the Board issued a letter of intent to Metro (Exhibit P-6). Some of the delay in ordering the equipment (recognizing, of course, that the emergency determination was made in December 1993 and that in March 1994 people are still talking about what the parameters of the deal are) was due to the challenge made to, and questions about the installation award (that was the Tenavision-Electro-Es situation) as well as the school district's interpretation of the instructions from the County Superintendent to proceed cautiously - that at least was Dr. Howard's explanation of part of the reason for the length of time that had transpired.

11. However, the fact that the installation contract was not awarded simultaneously with the equipment contract did not substantially delay the project after it was started since there was testimony, undisputed, that procurement of the equipment even after it was ordered would take approximately ten to sixteen weeks and that the installation, for obvious reasons, could not commence until after that equipment was received.

12. The installation contract bids originally were opened following some litigious activity at the end of April 1994. In fact, at that time both of the bids, I believe, were rejected and the Board then had to go out and rebid. Again, Tenavision and Electro-Es submitted bids and there was a challenge. However, in early June 1994, the Board awarded the installation contract to Electro-Es. That, too, was challenged and Judge Ospenson's decision to reject the challenge thereafter was rendered in OAL Docket No. EDU 5611-94. I mention that fact only to give whomever is to read this decision some flavor of what was going on "on the ground" so to speak with respect to the "fits and starts" that were taking place regarding the Board's attempt to deal with the situation.

13. As noted, eventually by either October or November 1994, the entire project was completed. However, that did not stop Institutional from continuing to pursue this case for the reasons that I have previously noted even though all agreed I could not under any circumstances, and certainly not now, award any damages, nor could the Commissioner, as petitioner was not technically an unsuccessful or low bidder since it never participated in the process. However, it does have a legitimate nexus to the case with respect to its status, as set forth in its petition.

DISCUSSION

The major issue, obviously, is whether or not in the context of this case the Board's determination to declare an emergency and therefore to avoid following the dictates of the Public School Contracts Law with respect to advertising for the receipt of bids in a public fashion and so forth was legitimate. The statute previously mentioned, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7, specifically provides that a contract may be awarded without that public activity where there is, "an emergency affecting the health or safety of occupants of school property" and where it is required that, "the immediate delivery of the articles or the performance of the service" is necessary. The statute also provides that a written requisition for the performance of such work or labor, or the furnishing of materials, supplies or services, has to be filed with the contracting agent or his deputy which describes the nature of the emergency, when it occurred, the need for invoking the section and a certification by the employee in charge. Also involved in this type of case is the provision set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.5 which requires that a copy of the contract awarded without public bidding, including a copy of the written requisition mentioned in the statute, has to be filed with the Bureau of Facilities Planning Services and with the Office of the County Superintendent of Schools within three days after the award of the contract or the agreement. I believe in this case it is not disputed that preparation of that written requisition setting forth the essential aspects was never done and the petitioner maintains that is a fatal defect.

Petitioner maintains not only that there was no emergency and that there was no proper written requisition, it also pursues a contention regarding the fact that Metro was not properly prequalified. Those are the three reasons set forth by Institutional with respect to its claims that the Board's action in this case was improper.

The case law which deals with whether or not an emergency exists is to be found in decisions not only in the Public School Contracts Law area, but in other public contract areas as well. Both counsel cited, for example, the decision in Scatuorchio v. Jersey City Incinerator Authority, 14 N.J. 72 (1953) where the court indicated that a statutory emergency must be "a sudden or unexpected occurrence or condition calling for immediate action". Both counsel, I believe, also made reference to the decision in Board of Education of Asbury Park v. Hoek, 38 N.J. 213, 240 (1962) where the court's language respecting whether an emergency would justify a contract award without public bidding involved a situation which was, "so imminent a need that normal procedures may be dispensed with". I don't think counsel cited any school law decisions in regard to emergency and I don't know if there are any that are pertinent to this case. The petitioner's thrust, however, is that the emergency exception in the statute is not intended to be an avenue to go around the public bidding requirements which must faithfully be followed where the situation so requires.

In my view, having considered the testimony, the documentation and whatever case law might be pertinent, the facts of this case reveal that for purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7 an "emergency" did exist in December 1993, at least, thereby justifying the Board's determination to invoke the emergency procedures. While in hindsight one might question that determination, hindsight is always perfect. At the time, in December 1993, when it reviewed the situation, I believe that the Board and its senior administrative agents, including its superintendent and its architect, properly concluded that there was an emergent situation threatening the health and safety of the students and the employees using the schools whose fire and security alarms systems were in pathetic condition.

While it is true that prior to December 1993 the state of disrepair of that system was quite serious, and arguably could have supported a much earlier request that it be treated as an emergency, in my view that is not a reason in retrospect to declare that no true emergency existed in December. While perhaps the Board could and should have acted more quickly before December, at least it did take appropriate action in that month. The temporary stop-gap measures which had been put in place by ADT clearly did not suffice. I would also note, as I noted in the Findings of Fact, that the Board had attempted to get the entire project done, both delivery and installation, earlier, but unfortunately the Simplex bid in September 1993 was way beyond the Board's budget and had to be rejected. Let me also note that at that time during 1993, East Orange was under Level II State Monitoring and no substantial fiscal activities could take place without review by the Department of Education. Indeed, that is why the superintendent had to have communications with Mr. Carter during December - because of that particular relationship between the school district and the State. Also, the fact the Board did not move earlier to declare an emergency, as both Dr. Dean and Dr. Howard noted, was due to the fact that apparently neither fully recognized the extent of the problem. As I say, perhaps they should have, but the fact that they did not does not convert an emergency into a non-emergency.

Secondly, at first blush the decision simply to seek delivery of the equipment on an emergent basis, and not install it as well, appears to militate against the existence of a true emergency. After all, if the problem is that there might be a fire and there is not a warning system, having equipment sitting on the ground without being installed does not do very much in that regard. However, with respect to that view, both Dr. Howard and Dr. Dean testified that they considered that aspect of the situation and both felt, particularly in view of the cautionary suggestion made by Mr. Carter, that they should approach this entire matter without taking precipitous action. I am satisfied that they reasonably took such steps as were necessary, particularly in view of the fact as testified by Dr. Dean, if not Dr. Howard as well, that there was a substantial lag time even after one awarded the equipment delivery contract until the items actually were delivered. As Dr. Dean particularly observed, the Board also was very concerned about cost, especially given the history of the intent to bid the entire job during 1993, and that, too, had to be taken into account. Ultimately, as it turned out, the delivery of equipment did take place, installation thereafter followed by October, perhaps November 1994, and the matter was then complete at that point.

So, not only can I not find no emergency because the Board did not act earlier than it did and perhaps should have, neither does it make the situation a non-emergency because the Board did not complete the project for a quite a long period of time. Each case has to be decided on its specific facts. The language, of course, of "imminent need" and so forth is generic language. In this case the testimony was that there was built-in "lag time" because this material and equipment was a "shelf item" and there was nothing much the parties could do about it but act as quickly as they could, bearing in mind the particular constraints they had. Could the Board have acted more quickly? Surely it could have. Fortunately, no catastrophe took place. But neither of those aspects, as I said, make an emergency a non-emergency. The Board also noted that some of the delay was due to the fact that there was a Christmas break and the Board's own architectural people had to spend some time looking over the bid specs and so forth. Also, the Electro-Es-Tenavision problem was going on - those are all certainly factors which caused delay. But again, neither alone nor in combination do they make an emergency a non-emergency. All they do, really, is to highlight the fact that the Board perhaps should have acted more quickly.

Nor can I agree with petitioner that Mr. Carter's approval of the emergent nature of the situation was based upon his erroneous assumption that what the Board intended to do was to move forward simultaneously both with delivery and installation and that it was not made clear to him that all the Board was talking about was delivery of the equipment and that had it done so perhaps Carter might not have acted the way he did with respect to the approval. In that regard, while it is not "crystal clear" to me that Carter actually was totally cognizant of the somewhat limited nature of the request, the testimony by Dr. Howard, as well as the pertinent documents, essentially support the Board's position that it was clear enough to Carter I will not challenge the emergency determination on the basis that Mr. Carter either was misled or that he misunderstood the situation.

With respect to the different opinions concerning whether Carter actually wanted the Board to proceed cautiously, I believe that Dr. Howard and the Board's approach was at least minimally appropriate. As I noted, in 1993 this school district was in Level II monitoring and its financial activities, to say the least, were under close scrutiny by the State. Acting too quickly was therefore not to be encouraged - even in an emergency situation such as this. This Board had to be very careful with regard to everything it did with respect to spending money. As I said, the Board perhaps could and should have moved with greater dispatch. But I cannot say that its measured pace was legally insufficient and certainly, as I will repeat again, its conduct did not make an emergent situation a non-emergent one. As Dr. Dean noted, the Board, overall, acted with prudence, with adequate enough speed and with reasonable consideration of its fiscal constraints.

Nor do I agree with Institutional that the award to Metro must be set aside because that bidder was not properly prequalified. First, it is highly arguable that this issue is moot since the material successfully was delivered and presumably has successfully been installed as the Board argues. Also, the Division, through Ms. Adams, advised counsel for Metro, previous counsel for Institutional and Board counsel as well that the determination with respect to prequalification was one for the Board to make (Exhibit R-12). There is also an opinion expressed by Mr. Chell from the Department of Education, cited by Metro in one of its letters, that Metro had gotten an indication that prequalification for equipment purchases was not even a legal requirement (Exhibit R-7). On balance, then, I can see no reason - even if prequalification is required and I do not believe the case was made out that it was, but even if prequalification was required, that now in retrospect, years later really, that this is an appropriate reason to require either the Board or Metro to respond in any way to Institutional's petition.

Similarly, I see no basis to grant relief to the petitioner because Dr. Howard failed, which he admitted, to see to it that a written requisition was prepared and certified as required by sub-section A of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7 and by the regulation I cited which requires that a copy be filed in appropriate places. Thus, having found on the facts that a true emergency under the statute reasonably did exist and justified the Board's invocation of the procedure which it followed, for me now to set aside the action because of the failure to follow the written requisition requirements would in the context of this case exhalt form over substance.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Essentially, that is my determination with respect to the case. A record has been made in the sense that testimony was received from Drs. Howard and Dean, the pertinent documentation is now part of that record, and the final nail, so to speak, is the determination that I now have made disposing of the matter. Formally, then, I therefore CONCLUDE that in light of the Findings of Fact previously made, that an emergency situation did exist in December 1993 justifying the invocation by the East Orange School District of the statutory procedures set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7 and that the steps taken by the Board following its invocation of that emergency declaration were legally sufficient. Thus, the ultimate award of the contract for the delivery of fire and security equipment to Metro without public bidding substantially was in accordance with the statutory requirements and the appropriate regulations and therefore I will not order that it be set aside. Accordingly, I ORDER that the petition by Institutional Systems be DISMISSED.

In accordance with OAL regulations regarding oral decisions I will attach to this oral initial decision a witness and an exhibit list so that that is also part of the record. Of course, this initial decision goes to the Commissioner of Education who will review it. I believe under our regulations this oral decision has to be transcribed within fifteen days of today's date, which it will be, and it will be sent to the Department. Both counsel will receive a copy of my determination. I also will attach to this decision my letters of September 29, 1995 and January 4, 1996 with respect to the other issues. They may be moot, but I think it is important as part of the record in this case, even though I said so in my decision, to indicate my continuing concern regarding the propriety of my proceeding with the case.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF EAST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board, under the particular circumstances herein, properly concluded that there was an emergent situation which existed with respect to the disrepair of its fire and security systems, thereby rendering it appropriate to invoke N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7, notwithstanding that the Board could have acted more swiftly. (Initial Decision at pp. 11, 12) Further, like the ALJ, the Commissioner is not persuaded that petitioner has established that Metro's apparently deficient prequalification was fatal to the contract formed in his matter,* or that petitioner should prevail on the basis of the Board's failure to address the filing requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7a and N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.5. (Id. at p. 14)

* The initial decision refers to the opinion expressed by Mr. Chell, who, according to Exhibit R-7, is Contractor Administrator for the New Jersey State Department of Treasury, rather than for the Department of Education, as erroneously stated in the initial decision. (Initial Decision at p. 14)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teacher claimed entitlement to salary, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, as a consequence of an alleged work-related injury.

ALJ found that petitioner had 90 days from May 2, 1995, the date his statutory benefits were discontinued, to file his appeal with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), even though his cases were pending before the compensation court. (Verneret) Petitioner did not file until October 1995, well beyond the 90 days. Thus, the ALJ concluded that the petition was filed untimely. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with the determination of the ALJ.

Record Closed: July 15, 1996 Decided: August 20, 1996

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On October 13, 1995, petitioner, James C. McKeon, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Elizabeth Board of Education and named individual members of the Board withheld income from him in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.

On December 29, 1995, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The substance of the appeal is whether respondents wrongfully discontinued making payments to McKeon pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.

The respondents moved for summary decision in this matter on the grounds that the petition was not timely filed according to the ninety-day rule, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(C).

The facts, as they appear in the pleadings and in respondents' motion, with no dispute by petitioner, are these:

Respondents, the Elizabeth Board of Education and the named individual members of the Board, hired James McKeon as a teacher on September 1, 1989. For convenience, all of the respondents will be referred to collectively as the "Board" in this decision.

The Board was aware that McKeon was involved in an automobile accident that year but denies any knowledge of the circumstances, including whether the accident occurred before or after he commenced employment. Since 1989, McKeon was also involved in seven separate accidents resulting in seven separate injuries which he alleges are work-related. Specifically, the claim petitions filed with the New Jersey Department of Labor, Division of Worker's Compensation, in 1995, are for one injury occurring in 1991 and one in 1992, two injuries occurring in 1993, and three injuries occurring in 1994. All of these cases are currently pending before the Worker's Compensation Court. In all of these proceedings, the Board is contesting, among other things, that the injuries are work related.

At the request of the Board, McKeon was examined by Dr. Gerald Ross on April 19, 1995, because of the latest injury which occurred on December 2, 1994. According to Ross, petitioner would reach the maximum medical benefit of treatment on May 1, 1995, and could return to work on May 2, 1995.

Up until this time, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, respondent had been paying petitioner both his full salary and the expenses of his medical treatment due to the December 1994 accident without deducting petitioner's sick days. When he did not return to work on May 2, 1995, the Board immediately began to deduct sick days.

The petition filed by McKeon with the Department of Education on October 13, 1995, alleges that the Board wrongfully discontinued the benefits which he was receiving pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. These benefits are only available for work-related injuries. It is precisely the issue of whether any or all of them are work-related which is presently pending before the Compensation Court.

Respondent argues that the petitioner had ninety days from May 2, 1995, the date his statutory benefits were discontinued, to file his appeal with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(C).
