Dear Colleagues:

We are pleased to provide you with the revised "1998 Directory of Fluoride In New Jersey Water." It has been prepared as a resource for identification of fluoride levels in local community water supplies. The Directory contains two parts. The first documents fluoride levels by county and municipality and the second contains the names and telephone numbers of water purveyors.

We wish to acknowledge the three Regional Dental Consultants who compiled the directory and department staff who edited and finalized the document.

A special thank you to the New Jersey Dental Association for its assistance to distribute the Directory.

Sincerely,

DIRECTORY OF FLUORIDE LEVELS IN NEW JERSEY WATER

Sources of Data

The information in this directory was compiled by the Regional Dental Health Coordinators using data collected from the New Jersey State Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), Division of Water Resources, Bureau of Safe Drinking Water as well as from telephone interviews conducted with representatives of local water purveyors. The "fluoride level" in this directory represents the average level from 1993 to 1995 for each site identified. Every effort was made to ensure accuracy; however, if you have any questions about the fluoride level in a specific municipality, please contact the water purveyor directly. (Telephone numbers are provided behind the county listings .)

Fluorine is the seventeenth most common element in the earth's crust and can be found naturally in all water. The fluoride ion is released from the soil and rock as water flows through the earth. Although the average naturally occurring level of fluoride does not change significantly from year to year, slight differences may occur. These differences do not affect the amount of prescribed dietary fluoride supplements, which is based on the average fluoride level. Only the initiation or discontinuation of community water fluoridation would alter the amount of fluoride supplements to be prescribed.

Drinking Water Systems in New Jersey

As of 1997 there were 628 active Community Water Systems (CWS) in New Jersey. A CWS serves at least 25 year-round residents or 15 service connections (e.g., municipality, Mobile Home Park). These 628 CWS currently serve approximately 87% of the State's estimated population of 7,750,000, while the 20 largest CWS serve about 50% of the State's population.

It is estimated that there are approximately 400,000 private wells in New Jersey serving approximately 1.5 million people or 13% of the population. Only 17% of New Jerseyans receive adequate levels of fluoride according to the CDC Data, 1992.

The recommended level of fluoride for a community water supply in the United States ranges from 0.7 to 1.2 parts per million (ppm) of fluoride, dependent on the maximum daily air temperature over a year period. Therefore, in warmer climates the fluoride concentration would be lower, and in the cold climates it would be higher. In the United States, most communities are fluoridated at 1 ppm, which is equivalent to 1.0 mg. of fluoride per liter of water.

If a child consumes water from a private well, and the fluoride level is unknown, a sample of the water should be analyzed by a certified laboratory to determine the fluoride concentration before prescribing fluoride supplements.* It is not necessary to test for the fluoride level annually as it remains relatively constant over time.

Supplemental Fluoride Dosage Schedule

Recommended Dosage for Children in milligrams of fluoride per day

Age of Children	Parts Per Million of Fluoride in Water Supply
	<0.3	0.3 to 0.6	>0.6
Birth to 6 Months	0	0	0
6 Months to 3 Years	0.25	0	0
3 Years to 6 Years	0.50	0.25	0
6 Years to 16 Years	1.00	0.50	0

Fluoride Daily Dosages are given in milligrams.

Recommended by the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Dental Association, 1995.

A key recommendation of a 1994 fluoride conference co-sponsored by the American Dental Association, the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry and the American Academy of Pediatrics “is that prescribers know the level of fluoride in the water their patients are drinking.”

PRIVATE WELLS - TESTING RECOMMENDATIONS

Homeowners with private wells used for consumption should have them tested after installation and annually thereafter, according to public health experts.

The public is often unaware of the vulnerability of private wells to contamination and the associated adverse health effects. More than 30 years ago, experts believed that ground water was protected naturally from contaminants that are dangerous to human health and the environment. More recently, environmentalists have learned that groundwater is threatened by contamination resulting from a variety of commercial, industrial, residential and agricultural activities. Sources of contamination include leaking underground storage tanks, landfills, septic tanks and pesticide runoff.

The following parameters should be included in an annual test of privately owned wells (non-public water systems) that are used for consumption.

- ◆ Bacteria (total Coliform, fecal Coliform)
- ◆ Iron
- ◆ Manganese
- ◆ pH

Fluoride, VOC's (Volatile Organics) and radon levels should be tested every three years.
