Tipped Workers in NJ: Rights and Protections

On February 4, 2019, Gov. Phil Murphy signed Public Law 2019, c. 32, which amends the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, incrementally increasing the state minimum hourly wage for most employees to $15/hour over the course of five years. This law also permits employers of tipped employees to take a “tip credit” toward their obligation to pay the minimum wage by paying a portion in cash to the employee with the balance of the minimum wage made up in earned tips. Tips are the sole property of the employee, and an employer may not take any portion of the workers earned tips for any purpose.

How to get help or make a complaint:

If you believe that your employer has not properly paid you, or you have a question about your situation, we can help.
