

Christie Administration Warns Merchants Against Price Gouging During Declared State of Emergency

Saturday, October 27, 2012 Tags: Hurricane Sandy

Trenton, NJ – Upon declaring a state of emergency today, Governor Chris Christie issued a forceful reminder to merchants: Price gouging during a state of emergency is illegal; will be investigated by the Attorney General and Division of Consumer Affairs; and will result in significant penalties.

"During emergencies, New Jerseyans should look out for each other – not seek to take advantage of each other," said Governor Christie. "The State Division of Consumer Affairs will look closely at any and all complaints about alleged price gouging. Anyone found to have violated the law will face significant penalties."

New Jersey's price gouging statute, N.J.S.A. 56:8-107, et. seq., makes it illegal to set excessive price increases during a declared state of emergency or for 30 days after the termination of the state of emergency.

Price increases are deemed excessive under the law if they are more than 10 percent above the price at which the good or service was sold during the normal course of business, prior to the state of emergency. The law does allow that, if the merchant faces additional costs imposed by suppliers or legitimate logistical concerns, a price increase is considered excessive if it is more than 10 percent above the amount of markup from cost, compared with the markup normally applied.

As a reminder of the penalties, Governor Christie pointed out the case of a Sussex County gas station accused of raising fuel prices more than 16 percent during the August 2011 Tropical Storm Irene state of emergency. To settle an enforcement action by the Division of Consumer Affairs, that business recently agreed to pay $50,000. (See press release: <http://www.njconsumeraffairs.gov/press/09262012.htm>).

"Retailers should know we will conduct a thorough investigation, including an audit of the merchant's receipts dating back to before the State of Emergency, to examine each and every complaint," Attorney General Jeffrey S. Chiesa said. "Anyone violating the law will find the penalties they face, far outweigh the profits of taking unfair advantage of their fellow New Jerseyans during a time of great need."

"We are reminding consumers to watch out not just for price gouging, but for the home repair scams and charity scams that often lie in wait when residents seek to recover from storm damage," Eric T. Kanefsky, Acting Director of the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs, said. "Disasters unfortunately attract their share of dishonest and shady opportunists. Any consumer who has a complaint about price gouging or any emergency-related scams should call the Division of Consumer Affairs at 800-242-5846. Investigators are checking this phone line throughout the weekend."

Violations of the price-gouging law are punishable by civil penalties of up to $10,000 for the first offense and $20,000 for the second and subsequent offenses. Each individual sale of merchandise is considered a separate and distinct event.

The Division of Consumer Affairs provides tips for consumers on "How To Avoid Disaster-Related Scams (English (http://www.njconsumeraffairs.gov/disaster/floodtipsflyer_1.pdf)) (Spanish (http://www.njconsumeraffairs.gov/disaster/floodtipsflyerSP_1.pdf)))," including information on price gouging and on the home-repair scams and charity scams that have been known to arise during times of emergency.

Last year, during and after the State of Emergency declared in the wake of Tropical Storm Irene, the Division of Consumer Affairs sent investigators out to all affected counties in order to provide information to consumers about price gouging, home repair scams, and charity scams; and to investigate and mediate consumer complaints related to the emergency.

Consumers who believe they have been cheated or scammed by a business, or suspect any other form of consumer abuse, can file a complaint with the State Division of Consumer Affairs by visiting its website (<http://www.nj.gov/oag/ca/index.htm>) or by calling 1-800-242-5846 (toll free within New Jersey) or 973-504-6200.

Follow the Division of Consumer Affairs on Facebook (<http://www.facebook.com/pages/NJ-Division-of-Consumer-Affairs/112957465445651>), and check our online calendar of upcoming Consumer Outreach (<http://www.NJConsumerAffairs.gov/outreach/>) events.

Stay Connected
with Social Media

Stay Connected
with Email Alerts

LIKE THIS PAGE? SHARE IT WITH YOUR FRIENDS.

...

Related Content

Hurricane Sandy - Middletown
Oct 27, 2012

View More Photos

###

NJ TRANSIT PREPARATIONS FOR HURRICANE SANDY

Rail and Light Rail Operations

NJ TRANSIT's maintenance forces continue inspecting culverts, drainage pipes and rights-of-way to ensure they are clear of blockages that could exacerbate flooding and disrupt service.

NJ TRANSIT rail and light rail crews and equipment are on standby to respond to downed trees, wires and flooding.

Bus and Access Link Operations

NJ TRANSIT Bus and Access Link maintenance and support staff will be on standby 24/7 to respond where needed.

Customer Service

Customer Service Field Offices will extend their hours of operations if necessary.

The Transit Information Office (TIC) – NJ TRANSIT's call center, is also prepared to extend its hours if necessary.

TRAVEL ADVICE

For the latest travel information, customers should listen to broadcast traffic reports, visit njtransit.com or access our Twitter feed at @NJ_TRANSIT prior to starting your trip.

In the event of service delays or adjustments, including the suspension of service, NJ TRANSIT will provide the most current service information via the My Transit alert system, which delivers travel advisories for your specific trip to your cell phone, PDA or pager. (If you are not yet a My Transit subscriber, we encourage you to sign up at www.njtransit.com/mytransit) Service information is also available by calling (973) 275-5555.

Listen closely to public address announcements at stations for late-breaking service information.

Build additional travel time into your trip to a station, terminal or bus stop.

Stairs, floors and platforms can be slippery, so please use caution when walking along wet surfaces or any outdoor surface exposed to the weather. Use extra care when boarding or exiting buses and trains.

Report slippery or unsafe conditions to bus operators, train crews or to NJ TRANSIT staff.

About NJ TRANSIT

NJ TRANSIT is the nation's largest statewide public transportation system providing more than 895,000 weekday trips on 261 bus routes, three light rail lines, 12 commuter rail lines and through Access Link paratransit service. It is the second largest transit system in the country with 164 rail stations, 61 light rail stations and more than 19,000 bus stops linking major points in New Jersey, New York and Philadelphia.

###

Press Contact:
Michael Drewniak
Kevin Roberts
609-777-2600

Contact Us | Privacy Notice | Legal Statement & Disclaimers | Accessibility Statement |

Statewide: NJ Home | Services A to Z | Departments/Agencies | FAQs
Office of the Governor: Home | Newsroom | Media | Administration | NJ's Priorities | Contact Us

Copyright © State of New Jersey, 1996-2018
Office of the Governor
PO Box 001
Trenton, NJ 08625
609-292-6000