Mr. Vanderbilt upon taking the chair said:

Gentlemen of the General Assembly: In accepting the duties of the position to which by your kindness and partiality I have been called allow me to tender you my heartfelt thanks.

I fully appreciate the honor, and comprehend the difficulties of the position to which I have been chosen. I bring to it neither age nor experience; I bring to it only a desire and a firm determination to faithfully discharge the duties pertaining to the office, which duties I conceive to be to preside without partiality, without partizanship; recognizing no minority or majority, but each individual member as the peer of the others, having only as my guide a strict interpretation of the rules, and the parliamentary law laid down for our government. For the successful accomplishment of this I shall rely upon your assistance and co-operation.

Gentlemen, we have met to-day to consult and transact the business of the State, and in entering upon our duties let us bear in mind that trade is languishing, farming depressed, labor unemployed, taxes burdensome; and that on account of this, the people are by necessity practicing the most rigid economy. Such being the condition of the people, and we holding the keys of the treasury, it becomes our duty to scan every appropriation closely, to curtail expenses in every department, where it can be done without injury to the State. In a word, to economize that we may help to lift these burdens from the people.

Let us further bear in mind that all special and class legislation which benefits one section of the State, one class of the people, at the expense of the other is detrimental to good government. Let us endeavor to make laws which shall be uniform, applicable to each citizen alike, so that every one may bear his just proportion of the government. Let us make laws for the good of the many and not for the benefit of the few; let us make laws for the people,—for New Jersey. This being the record of the session, we shall have returned to the better days of the Republic,—when the political economy of the nation was the least government with the least expense compatible with the public welfare.

Again thanking you for this mark of respect and esteem, and trusting and hoping that harmony and good feeling may characterize our proceedings; that our legislation may be honorable to the State and beneficial to the people; in all our actions relying upon the Divine Ruler for our guidance,—when we have finished our labors here, and returned to our homes, may we receive the welcome plaudit: "Well done good and faithful servants."

MESSAGE OF THE GOVERNOR.

Gentlemen of the Senate and General Assembly:

In fulfilment of a duty imposed by the Constitution, I submit to you my annual message. I congratulate you upon the general obedience to law, and the good order which prevails among the people of whom you are the chosen representatives. Peace, prosperity, happiness and protection of lawful rights, the objects for which government was instituted, are here enjoyed. For these and other blessings vouchsafed to us, our thanks are due to Almighty God.

FINANCIAL.

The financial condition of the State is satisfactory. The receipts of the Treasury during the last year have been greater than at any former period. Notwithstanding the payment of the very large legislative appropriations of the last session, the amount in bank to the credit of the various funds at the close of the fiscal year was nearly two hundred and seventy-three thousand dollars.

The following will exhibit the receipts and disbursements of the several funds:

RECEIPTS.

In Agricultural College Fund . .	$ 6,960 00
In Library Fund	3,550 00
In War Fund	283,884 55
In School Fund including State School tax	1,363,547 20
In State Fund	1,707,141 68
In bank November 1, 1873 . .	173,043 54
Total . . .		$3,538,126 97

DISBURSEMENTS.

From Agricultural College Fund	$ 6,960 00
From Library Fund	1,211 37
From War Fund	286,247 25
From School Fund including State School tax	1,352,431 00
From State Fund	1,618,416 54
Total		$3,265,266 16
Amount in bank to credit of all the Funds, October 31, 1874,		$272,860 81

From the foregoing it will be seen that the receipts and disbursements of nearly all the Funds varied but little from those of former years. There was an increase of revenue to the State Fund, nearly all of which has been absorbed by large special legislative appropriations.

The reports of the Comptroller and Treasurer, herewith transmitted, state in detail the items of disbursement from the State Fund. By reference thereto it will be found that the ordinary expenses of the government, except the item of printing are about the same in amount as heretofore. It will also be observed that the revenue from corporations exceeds the ordinary expenses of the government, and that no tax would be necessary in aid of the State Fund, if appropriations for erecting public building had not been made. During the year there has been paid out of this Fund to the Commissioners of the Northern Lunatic Asylum, the sum of six hundred and three thousand dollars, and for State House extension twenty thousand dollars, to reimburse the Commissioners having that work in charge for money advanced in former years. From this fund was also paid a loan of fifty thousand dollars, made last year by the Treasury; and railroad stocks of the par value of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, which had been sold conditionally and the money received during the fiscal year of 1873, were redeemed and returned to the Treasury. During the last three years there has been paid from the State Fund for land, the erection of buildings, and unusual permanent improvements for various institutions, under legislative appropriations, about the sum of one million four hundred thousand dollars, of which amount about eleven hundred thousand dollars were expended on the Lunatic Asylum, now in course of erection, and one hundred and seventy-two thousand dollars on the State Capitol.

To meet these large demands upon the Treasury it has been necessary, from time to time, under the law approved April 4, 1873, to make conditional sale and transfer of part of the railroad stocks belonging to the State Fund. These sales were made with privilege of redemption upon repayment to the vendees of the sums advanced by them, with interest at seven per cent, the State continuing to receive the dividends at the rate of ten per cent. The one hundred shares of stock still unredeemed will be returned to the Treasury on the first day of February next, upon payment to the holders out of the tax levy, the proceeds of which are now being paid to the State by the County Collectors.

The moneys realized from sales of stock furnished only temporary relief, and served to bridge over the period between the necessity of expenditure and the subsequent receipt of the annual taxes. In this emergency it was evident that the financial officers of the State could not continue to pay the appropriations made by the Legislature with the revenue derived from ordinary sources, and that either the rate of taxation should be largely increased or money be realized upon some of the securities in the State Fund. It was thought best not to ask the Legislature to resort to increased taxation unless other expedients should fail, and therefore notice was given to the United Railroad and Canal Companies of New Jersey, requiring payment of their bond. This bond, conditioned for the payment of the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, was given to the State in the year 1869. It belonged to the State Fund; had been legally placed therein when first received by the then Comptroller and Treasurer, and with the approval of all the financial officers of the State and the legislative committees, who since then have annually examined the condition of the finances, has, with the interest accruing, been continuously carried in the State account. No law has been passed which directly or by implication transferred that bond or the money due thereon to any other fund.

In my last annual message it was stated that in the year 1873 the sum of one hundred and ninety thousand dollars had been paid on the principal of said bond. The balance of principal, amounting to three hundred and ten thousand dollars, with all arrears of interest, has been paid during the last fiscal year, and has been used to meet legitimate demands on the State Treasury upon presentation. In no other way could the appropriations have been paid and the credit of the State maintained.

Having stated the present condition of the finances, the sources of revenue and some of the larger items of expenditure in the past, I now call attention to the probable requirements of the future, that the Legislature may be enabled to act intelligently upon appropriation bills that will be presented for consideration.

The estimate of revenue for the present year (excluding the State School tax) is as follows, viz:

From usual sources	$680,000 00
From taxes which go into State and War funds . . .	930,000 00
		$1,610 000 00

The Comptroller estimates the expenditures for the current year (excluding the two mill tax for schools) at one million four hundred thousand dollars, leaving a little over two hundred thousand dollars in the Treasury. The estimates of the Comptroller have been prepared with care, and it will be safe to be governed by them, although upon examination of details I incline to the opinion that the receipts will exceed the expenditures in about the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, and that this amount may be applied toward the payment of appropriations to be made at the present session. Considering the present condition of the structure designed for the use of the insane, and the necessity for its speedy completion, it is manifest that provision must be made to add to the revenue. There are in the State Fund 2,887 shares of stock of the United Railroad and Canal Companies of New Jersey, which can be sold and the Treasurer has the constitutional power to borrow one hundred thousand dollars, which will produce in all according to the Comptroller's estimate, almost seven hundred thousand dollars, that may be paid on special appropriations. Every effort should be made to meet the demands on the Treasury without an increase of taxation, and this can be done if the appropriations be kept within reasonable limits.

The war debt is now about two and a half millions of dollars. The investments of the Sinking Fund amount to a little over one million three hundred thousand dollars. The war debt will be reduced to the same amount as the Sinking Fund in about twelve years, without resorting to additional taxation.

In fact, the amount drawn from the taxes to pay on the war debt will diminish with each successive year. The war bonds having the longest time to run will not be due until the year 1902, but after 1887 the Sinking Fund will pay the war debt as it matures, without receiving any part of the taxes, so that at the time last mentioned the State of New Jersey will virtually be out of debt. Her debt now is only one million two hundred thousand dollars, if the amount in Sinking Fund be deducted. The tax levy for the purposes of both the State and war fund is only one and a half mills.

The items of expenditure during the last fiscal year are specifically set forth in the Comptroller's report. Your attention is especially directed to the increased cost of printing. The amount paid during the last year is one hundred and thirteen thousand eight hundred and ninety-three dollars and thirty-four cents, of which the sum of sixty-seven thousand, three hundred and thirty-three dollars and sixty cents, was for publication of laws in newspapers. This is an increase of about twenty per cent. a year, and as the number of newspapers is constantly growing, unless remedied by legislative action, this ratio of increase in cost will continue. The time has come for the Legislature to devise some means to reduce and limit the expense of publishing the laws.

EDUCATIONAL.

The report of the Trustees of the Normal School represents that institution in a prosperous condition. The number of pupils enrolled during the year (including the Model and Preparatory schools) was eight hundred and seventy-three.

The College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts is steadily increasing in Educational influence. Nearly every county of the State is represented by students.

The amount expended in New Jersey during the last year for support of Public Schools, was two millions three hundred and four thousand three hundred and ninety-eight dollars and thirteen cents. Of that sum one million two hundred and twenty-five thousand five hundred and twenty-two dollars and twenty-one cents came from the two mill school tax, and the residue from the State appropriation, interest on surplus revenue, city, township and district taxes. The total value of public school property in the State exceeds six million of dollars.

The school census prove there are in New Jersey two hundred and ninety-eight thousand between the ages of five and eighteen years. Nearly all the schools are made free and kept open the full time required by law from proceeds of the two mill tax, and in the few districts where the money thus derived is not sufficient, the deficiency has been supplied by taxes levied under the law of March 21, 1874. The Second section of the law requires that the money needed in any district to maintain free schools, if not supplied from other sources, shall be raised by district tax. This gives to New Jersey free schools not merely in name but in fact.

There has been an increase in the per centage of attendance, estimated to be equal to nine months' schooling of four thousand children. The per centage of additional attendance could be quadrupled without subjecting the people to further expense. School buildings must be erected and furnished, and teachers employed on the basis of the school census. It costs no more to isntruct a large than a small class of students. It is clearly the duty of the Legislature, as guardians of the public funds, to legislate so as to induce full and regular attendance of pupils, so that the money expended for public schools will accomplish the greatest possible good.

Since the passage of the act approved April 6, A. D. 1871, the proceeds of all grants and leases of lands under water made after that date, have been paid into the School fund. The constitutional provision protecting that fund has been strictly obeyed. No part of the principal has been withdrawn therefrom, nor has any part of the interest been used except for school purposes. Although it is true that while the State is engaged in constructing large public buildings, the State Fund needs more revenue, and that since the two mill tax has been levied the necessity of augmenting the School Fund has not been so great, yet the law 1871, above referred to, should not be disturbed. Should the Legislature, however, think it wise to divert any of the riparian moneys hereafter to be received from permanent investment in the School Fund, such moneys should be used only for educational purposes or for the establishment of institutions germain thereto.

The Commissioners authorized by the last Legislature to advertise for and receive proposals for sites for buildings for the deaf and dumb, the blind and feeble-minded children of this State, and also to procure from competent experts plans for the several buildings in which these defective classes may be educated, have not made a final report. The chairman informs me that after visiting a number of sites the commission unanimously decided to recommend to the Legislature to accept the valuable property gratuitously offered the State by the city of New Brunswick, for the purpose of an institution for the deaf and dumb. They have also agreed to recommend that the building now belonging to the State, and known as the Soldiers' Childrens' Home, (after it shall cease to be used for its present purpose) be converted into an institution for the blind. It evidently will be impossible while the Lunatic Asylum is in course of construction to erect buildings for these purposes, unless the Legislature supply the money from some source not now yielding revenue to the State Fund.

THE INSANE.

There are six hundred and fifty-five insane persons in the Lunatic Asylum at Trenton. Of these, one hundred and six are private or pay patients. The whole number who have been under treatment since the organization of the institution, is four thousand five hundred and eighty-eight; of whom about three thousand were discharged as recovered or improved. Since the Asylum has been crowded the number annually cured is less that formerly, because there are fewer admissions in consequence of a large number remaining, who for years have been considered incurable.

The maintenance of the insane asylum at Trenton during the year, (including salaries of officers) cost the State a little over forty-two thousand dollars. About thirty one thousand dollars were received for private patients and the balance of the receipts, amounting to a little less than one hundred and seventeen thousand dollars, came from the counties. The State also paid for care of the insane, to the authorities of three counties wherein asylums have been established, the sum of eleven thousand six hundred and twenty-four dollars and forty-one cents.

The Commissioners charged with the duty of erecting the lunatic asylum near Morristown report that the means placed at their disposal by the Legislature, at its last session, were inadequate to forward the work as rapidly as was desirable, and that they anticipated the appropriation of the present year by borrowing on their individual responsibility, and advancing the sum of two hundred and twenty-three thousand dollars. They were thus enabled to put all the buildings under roof, and do much of their interior work. They express the belief that if the necessary appropriations be made, the asylum will be ready for the reception of patients on or before the first of January, A. D., 1876. The report does not name the sum required, but it is evident to those who comprehend the magnitude of the structure, and consider the estimate of resources of the State for the current year, that the treasury will not be able to furnish funds sufficient to complete the entire building within the time indicated. In view of this fact and the imperative demand for more room for the insane, would it be wise to undertake this year to finish more than the centre building and as much of the wings on either side thereof as the amount of the appropriations will warrant? When this shall be done, and the group of buildings in rear of the centre completed, patients may be admitted and placed in apartments where they will not be disturbed by subsequent work on the remaining portions of the edifice.

The commissioners who, without compensation and at much personal incovenience, have devoted their time, their energies and their credit to this noble work, deserve the thanks of the Legislature and the people. I recommend that the appropriations to this object be as large as the condition of the treasury will admit.

REFORMATORY AND PENAL.

The number of boys in the Reform School has increased during the last year. Another family building has recently been completed and is now occupied. Special attention is given to the education of the inmates.

During the Summer, the larger boys were employed upon the farm. For want of accommodations for indoor labor, but little work can be done in winter. The institution would better answer the purpose for which it was founded if arrangements were made to teach all boys a useful trades. When discharged, they could more readly find employment and thus escape temptations which idleness is sure to invite.

Since the last session of the Legislature, the building then in course of erection on the farm recently purchased by the State for the Industrial School for Girls, has been finished. It will probably furnish all the accommodations needed for several years. The inmates are thoroughly instructed in various branches of female employment. The good conduct of those who have been indentured gives evidence of genuine reformation. The progress of the girls in school is satisfactory.

The notice of revocation of the contract for convict labor in State Prison, referred to in my last annual message, was withdrawn before the appointed time arrived, and a supplemental agreement was made with the same contractors on terms more advantageous to the State. It requires the contractors to hire a greater number of men than before, and provides that if notice of revocation be given, the State shall receive ten thousand dollars.

The financial condition of the prison is very encouraging. The receipts for labor during the fiscal year amount to over one hundred thousand, and the net gain over the cost of maintaining the convicts exceeds forty-five thousand dollars. Of this amount the sum of thirty-thousand dollars has been paid into the State Treasury, and nearly eleven thousand dollars expended in building an additional workshop. It is gratifying to be able to state that it is probable the proceeds of prison labor will hereafter not only maintain the convicts, but also pay the salaries of the officers.

At the close of the fiscal year there were six hundred and fifty-eight prisoners. Many of the cells are occupied by two and some by three convicts. This crowded state of the building must necessarily jeopardize the health of the prisoners and and interfere in a measure with discipline.

Under the present law, prisoners supposed to be insane are sent to the Lunatic Asylum for treatment. The construction of the Asylum does not furnish accommodations to separate them from other patients, and thus opportunity is given to escape. This fact is an incentive to some to feign insanity in order to get out side the prison walls. A part of the prison buildings should be prepared for the reception of convicts who become insane, where they may be treated under the superintendance of the physician in charge. An additional reason for a change in this regard is the fact that the friends of the unfortunate inmates of the asylum complain that they are subjected to the contact of criminals. I think there is justice in the complaint and that a remedy should be applied.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The Commissioners appointed by the last Legislature to examine into the sanitary needs of the State, into deficiencies of existing laws as to the securement of vital statistics, the abatement of nuisances, or whatever concerns the prevention or mitigation of disease, have made an exhaustive report on the subjects referred to them. It has been said that the heaviest tax of a people is that which is paid to disease in suspended labor of the sick and the consequent care which must be given them. The report contains many valuable suggestions, which I commend to your consideration. The commission will prepare a bill to be submitted to the Legislature providing for the cognizance of great public sources of disease and the inauguration of general methods of prevention.

AGRICULTURE.

Agriculture receives but little attention in legislation. Capital too often crowds aside the interests of labor, and corporations usually engross attention, sometimes to the detriment of individual rights.

One of the few acts that directly recognizes the importance of agriculture in this State was passed by the last Legislature. An appropriation was made for the payment of premiums, to induce the development of agricultural and horticultural productions, at the annual exhibition of the State Agricultural Society.

The premium committee maturely considered the subject, made an intelligent classification of the premiums, and general satisfaction was given by the awards. The expenses of the exhibition were defrayed by the Agricultural Society, and the appropriation made by the State was used wholly for payment of premiums. The direct recognition of the agricultural interests of the State by the Legislature, in the award of State premiums, has had a marked effect and infused a spirit among the tillers of the soil which cannot fail to be beneficial to the whole community.

GEOLOGY.

In consequence of the financial difficulties of the country, the iron mines in the State have not been worked to the extent they were last year. The product is about four hundred thousand tons. Several new mines have been opened.

Much time has been given to a survey of the clay district of Middlesex county. A map in course of preparation will locate numerous valuable beds and aid in future investigations. It is estimated that a million dollars worth of the crude material is annually sent to market from the small district of country laid down on the map.

Your attention is directed to that part of the report of the State Geologist which states the obstacles in the way of carrying into effect the provisions of the law in reference to drainage of flowed lands, and to his recommendations on the subject.

In my last annual message reference was made to the fact that some of the monuments that formerly marked the line claimed to be the boundary between the States of New York and New Jersey could not be found, and that several which remained were in locations where they were liable to removal or destruction. In view of the importance of having the question of boundary—which involves the right of jurisdiction—settled, measures were taken to have the line run. This has been done under the direction of the Managers of the Geological Survey.

The termini of the boundary line as fixed by commissioners one hundred years ago were readily ascertained. The terminus upon the Hudson is marked by a large rock, admitted by all to be the true monument. Nor was there any difficulty in locating the tri-states rock which designates the terminus of the line at the Delaware. The work to be done was to procure a description of the boundary line and trace it from one terminal point to the other.

The territory now called the State of New Jersey was conconveyed by James, Duke of York, to Sir George Carteret and Lord Berkeley, in the year A. D. 1664, and the first description of its boundaries is found in that conveyance.

The following is the description, viz: "That tract of land adjacent to New England, lying west of Long Island and Manhattan Island, and bounded on the east part by the main sea and part by Hudson's river, and hath upon the west Delaware bay or river, and extendeth southward to the main ocean as far as Cape May, at the mouth of Delaware bay, and to the northward as far as the northermost branch of the said bay or river Delaware, which is in 41 deg. 40 min. of latitude, and crosseth over thence in STRAIGHT LINE to Hudson's river in 41 deg. of latitude, which said tract of land is hereafter to be called Nova Cæsarea, or New Jersey." From the above description it appears that the line between New York and New Jersey, from the Delaware to the Hudson, is a straight line.

At request of the Geological Board, the Superintendent of the United States Coast Survey detailed officers to make the necessary observations and computations, in order to determine the precise latitude and longitude of the terminal monuments, the direction and length of the boundary line, and to furnish the requisite data for tracing the line. This information having been obtained, in the months of July and August last the line was run with great care and undoubted accuracy. It was found that one-third of the monuments set in 1774 are gone; that their original location is not known; that the monuments which remain mark a crooked line and are all south of a straight line, some being over two thousand feet therefrom.

The line of last summer was run with the theodolite, and is described in the report as an arc of a great circle, which is the shortest distance between two points on the surface of a sphere, and therefore must be a perfectly straight line. Ancient documents prove that the boundary which the monuments originally marked was run with the compass, starting at each end and running towards the middle—that local attraction disturbed the instrument—that the variations of the needle was greater at one end than at the other—and that from these and other causes the line of 1774 was a crooked line and did not answer the description in the grant.

In fact, if there had not been a local variation of the needle, or if the variation had been everywhere the same, a line of that length run with a compass would not, (for reasons given in the report) be a straight line, and, if monuments be removed, could not not be again traced unless the stations used in the first running had been noted and preserved.

From the facts above stated it is manifest that the Legislatures of the respective States should take measures to have the boundary definitely determined and marked. It should answer the description in the grant. In any legislation on the subject, the title to lands on either side of the boundary would of course be confirmed to the present owners.

The line run in 1774 cannot now be accurately traced, and unless the question be settled, conflict of jurisdiction may arise.

I have communicated with His Excellency, the Governor of the State of New York on this subject and forwarded him a copy of the report of the State Geologist. I recommend that the authorities of the State of New York be invited to appoint commissioners to join with a commission to be authorized by this State to determine the true location of the boundary line between the States and mark it with permanent monuments.

RIGHTS UNDER AND IN TIDAL WATERS.

The Riparian Commissioners report, that during the last year they have signed grants for lands of the State under tidal waters, the purchase money for which will amount to three hundred and twenty-two thousand nine hundred and eighty-four dollars. Of this amount, three hundred thousand dollars has been secured to the commissioners by the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, and during the current year will be paid by them to the Treasurer.

In addition to the above, leases have been executed for lands under water, the rentals for which amount to thirteen thousand seven hundred and sixty-four dollars and eighty-three cents, which sum represents a principal of one hundred and ninety-six thousand six hundred and forty-one dollars and eighty-three cents, so that the principal money paid and to be paid for grants and leases of land under water, executed within the last year (estimating in case of leases a principal sum that will yield interest equal to the annual rental), will reach the large sum of five hundred and nineteen thousand six hundred and twenty-five dollars and eighty-three cents.

During last summer application was made to the Riparian Commissioners by the United States authorities, for a grant of land under water in Delaware Bay, to be used as sites for Light-houses. The desired sites being submerged and situated several miles from the main land, there were no riparian owners by virtue of adjacency of shore, and therefore the Commissioners had no jurisdiction of the subject. Application in legal form was then made to me, as Governor of the State, setting forth that plans had been prepared for the proposed structures, advertisements issued inviting proposals for buildings; that the Light-house Board was ready to proceed with the work as soon as title to the required land could be obtained; that unless action were taken at once the work would be postponed another year, and that Light-houses at the places designated were essential to the safety of commerce.

Upon examining the Act of March 26, 1873, entitled A Supplement to an act entitled An Act to provide building sites for life saving stations on the coast of New Jersey, approved February 27, 1872, I was satisfied that the Governor had authority and power to make the desired grant, and on the fifteenth day of August, executed under the Great Seal, in the name of the State of New Jersey, and delivered to the United States, conveyances for two tracts of submerged land, each containing less than five acres, one being part of Cross Ledge Shoal, and the other part of Ship John Shoal. I transmit herewith copies of the deeds, by which it will be seen that the lands granted are restricted to use for Light-house purposes, and if used otherwise are to revert to the State. It will also be observed that concurrent jusisdiction in respect to process civil or criminal, that may issue out of any of our courts is expressly reserved.

As the land granted was without value to the State and nothing was paid to extinguish the title of private owners, conveyance to the United States was made for a nominal consideration. Should the United States authorities, for any reason, ask for confirmation of title to said lands, I recommend that an act be passed ratifying said deeds, subject to the conditions and restrictions therein expressed.

On the 3d day of March, A. D., 1873, in response to resolutions passed by the Legislature of this State, Congress made an appropriation for the survey and examination of Crow Shoals, near Cape May, for an artificial harbor.

The examination has been made and the United States engineer having charge of the survey has made a favorable report. There is not now a good harbor for coasting vessels between New York and Norfolk, and it is therefore of the utmost importance that a harbor of refuge be constructed at the place above designated. I recommend the passage of resolutions requesting Congress to make an appropriation at the present session to construct a breakwater at the place and in the manner recommended in the report of the engineer. The commission named in the joint resolution of 1872, through whose instrumentality, chiefly, the appropriation was obtained, should be continued until the object be accomplished.

The report of the Commissioners of Pilotage states that the New Jersey pilots during the year brought into harbor fifteen hundred and sixty-four vessels, and took to sea thirteen hundred and thirteen, making a total of two thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven. The pilots are generally prospering in business, and no serious disaster has happened to them or to the property in their charge.

The commissioners appointed under an act of the Legislature for the settlement of the territorial limits and jurisdiction of the State of New Jersey and the State of Delaware have not made a final report. The Delaware commission having recently submitted their printed brief and argument, the New Jersey commissioners are now engaged in investigating ancient records and documents to enable them to prepare an argument in rebuttal. On account of the difficulty of access to many old documents the labor of investigation is very great. Under the stipulation made at the first meeting of the joint commission the New Jersey fishermen, pending the negotiations, continue to pursue their business within the so-called twelve mile circle, without molestation or objection.

The interest in fish culture continues. Salmon, salmon-trout, shad, and black bass in great numbers have been placed in several of the rivers, at very little cost, through the agency and under the supervision of the Commissioners of Fisheries.

Shad entered Delaware Bay late in the season and continued in the river but a short time, yet more were taken than during the previous year, and were of much larger size than for many years past. The commissioners account for the increased average weight of the shad by the fact that the fishing laws have recently been better observed. Although there are still some violations of the law, chiefly by citizens of other States, the fish have better access to their spawning grounds than formerly.

In conformity with a concurrent resolution passed at the last session of the Legislature of this State, I have addressed a communication to His Excellency, the Governor of the State of New York, requesting him to bring to the attention of the Legislature of that State the subject of quarantine, with a view of changing that part of the law which affects owners of vessels engaged in the coasting trade. This subject is of great importance to citizens of our State, because Jerseymen are very largely interested in this trade. We have over three hundred coasting vessels, nearly all of which ply between the Chesapeake and ports in New Jersey or on New York bay. At some seasons of the year these vessels are quarantined off Staten Island by the New York authorities, and compelled to pay fees before proceeding up the harbor. The fee on each trip is small, but in a year it amounts to a considerable sum for each vessel, and in the aggregate to many thousands of dollars annually. Vessels are frequently detained off quarantine, and while riding at anchor lose a favorable wind. The payment of the money and the inconvenience of delay would not be so onerous if the quarantine performed answered any useful purpose. The mode in which it is done is very defective, the ceremony consisting chiefly in collecting the fees. But the quarantining of coasting vessels coming from ports north of the Carolinas is not necessary. Numerous railroad trains carrying hundreds of passengers from the cities on Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries arrive daily on the shore of New York Harbor, and their human freight emptied into the city without detention or examination for infectious disease. Owners of coasting vessels in New York subjected to similar quarantine protest against it and desire its abolition. Aided by their influence in presenting the subject to the Legislatue of that State, and relying upon the justice of the complaints against what seems to be an imposition upon a large class of hardy and industrious citizens, an effort on your part to have the quarantine laws so modified as to exempt from the aforesaid unnecessary expense and annoyance will doubtless be successful. No candid person can maintain it is right that vessels registered in this State, owned, commanded, and manned by our citizens, and bound for New Jersey ports, should have the gates at the entrance of their harbor closed to them, to be opened only by paying tribute to another government.

STEVENS BATTERY.

By the Act approved March 27, 1874, the Governor, Vice Chancellor, and the executors of Edwin A. Stevens, deceased, were directed to make sale of the war vessel known as the "Stevens Battery," and pay the proceeds of sale into chancery, to be disposed of by a decree of that court in a suit wherein the State is a party. Soon after the passage of the act the persons therein authorized met and after due deliberation decided, that it was impracticable to prepare and circulate properly advertisements giving the detailed description of the vessel and its contents, as contemplated by the law, within the time specified for opening the bids. Considering the dates named in the law as only directory, and that the substantial purposes intended to be accomplished should not thereby be defeated, they fixed upon the second day of November last, at the State House, in the city of Trenton, as the time and place when and where the bids should be publicly opened. Their consulting engineer prepared, as soon as possible, a description of the vessel and all things belonging or appertaining thereto, which, with the terms of sale appended, was extensively advertised in this and other countries. The advertisement contained carefully prepared specifications of the several parts of the ship, illustrated by drawings. It also exhibited its present condition, the original plan of construction, the feasibility of converting it to other purposes, and the facilities offered for its removal or completion at the dock.

The bids were publicly opened in the Executive Chamber, at the time designated in the advertisement. There were several proposals for the vessel as an entirety, and some for separate lots. The highest bid, absolute in its terms and in conformity with the advertisement, was one hundred and five thousand dollars, which was a greater sum than the aggregate amount of a selection among the highest bids for separate lots. There was, however, a conditional proposal for the vessel as an entirety, of much larger amount. The Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repairs of the Navy Department of the United States, by direction of the Secretary of the Navy, offered for the vessel one hundred and forty-five thousand dollars, with such further sum as would reimburse for any expense or delay occasioned by the bid, such additional sum to be fixed by agreement between the Secretary of the Navy and the vendors. This proposition was made on the further condition that it should be subject to the approval of Congress, and their appropriation to effect the purchase. It was evident that this bid could not be accepted without the consent of the gentleman who had made the highest unconditional proposal. Actuated by a desire that our national government should own the ship designed for a war vessel, and when completed destined to be a formidable instrument of attack as well as of harbor defence, he agreed, upon terms to be fulfilled by the United States, to hold his bid in abeyance and give opportunity for the Navy Department to consummate the proposed purchase. This result was promptly communicated to the Department and the proposition made, that if notified by the Secretary of the approval of the terms within a specified time and the payment by the government of expenses incident to the care of the property during the interval, the Battery would be held for a limited period, subject to the action of Congress, and subject also to approval by the State Legislature. A definite answer has not yet been received, but enough is known to render it probable that the United States will purchase the vessel at the price proposed. Should the sale to the government not be consummated the highest unconditional bidder will take the ship at his proposal. Some additional legislation on the subject may be necessary, and if so, bills for that purpose will be presented in due time for your consideration.

MILITARY.

During the last fiscal year, the sum of two hundred and eighty-three thousand eight hundred and eighty-four dollars and fifty-five cents derived from the tax levy was paid into the war fund. After appropriating what was required toward the liquidation of the principal and interest due on the war debt, there remained in this fund one hundred thousand dollars. Out of this money, the Home for Disabled Soldiers and the Soldiers' Children's Home were supported. Other claims of a military nature were paid out of this fund, leaving in bank, to its credit, on the 31st day of October last, two thousand one hundred and sixty-three dollars and twenty-five cents.

At the close of the fiscal year there were one hundred and fifty-three pupils connected with the Soldiers' Children's Home. The expenses of this Home are much less than heretofore, and it is probable there will be a further reduction during the current year. The children are well instructed in the English branches, and several have learned the art of telegraphing. All are taught to be useful and impressed with the conviction that upon ceasing to be wards of the State, they should be self-supporting. I trust that interest in this institution will not abate, and that it will be liberally sustained.

The ninth annual report of the officers of the Home for Disabled Soldiers states that at the close of the fiscal year there were three hundred and seventy-one beneficiaries, and that the total number cared for during the year, was thirteen hundred and sixty-five. About sixty per cent. of those who were aided are totally disabled and will so continue. There is an increasing demand for this institution. It was founded for a benevolent and patriotic purpose, and the object of its founders has been thus far attained. I recommend the necessary annual appropriation to continue its usefulness.

During this year the official register of the officers and men of New Jersey in the war of the rebellion will be completed and published by the Adjutant General. It will be a valuable addition to the military history of the State. When it shall be completed we will have the record of all New Jersey soldiers and sailors who served in the French war, the American Revolution, the Pennsylvania insurrection of 1794, the War of 1812, the Mexican war and the War of the Rebellion, embracing the period between the years 1756 and 1866. The Adjutant General on application, furnishes, without charge, certificates of record under official seal, which will be proof of service of men serving in either of these wars.

In the Quartermaster General's department, much labor has been given to the re-examination and re-statement of the claim of the State against the United States Government, which early in the year was returned for additional vouchers and explanations. This claim, composed of a large number of items, is an unadjusted balance growing out of the late war, the allowance of which has been objected to and new proof requested. Most of the items will probably in the end be satisfactorily explained. At my urgent request, efforts have repeatedly been made to expedite the settlement. The final statement is now prepared for allowance and under consideration. It is believed that before your present session closes, about thirty thousand dollars will be allowed and the money received during the year.

There has been paid into the State Treasury by the Quartermaster General during the last few years over fifty thousand dollars as proceeds of sale of unserviceable arms. This money should stand to the credit of the State Arsenal to be used when necessary for the purchase of ordnance and ordnance stores.

Under an Act of Congress of 1808, appropriating two hundred thousand dollars annually for arming the militia, there is due New Jersey from the United States as arrears of quota not drawn and payable in muskets, about sixty thousand dollars, which will produce about three thousand five hundred stand of arms, which will be sufficient to supply our whole national guard, without any expense to the State. In settlement of this quota, altered muskets have been repeatedly offered, but the Quartermaster General persistently refused to accept them, believing our militia would be content for a short time with the inferior article they have been using, if by so doing, they would, in the end, receive an improved arm. In my last annual message it was stated that the United States ordnance department would probably, within a short time, furnish our quota in the new model breech-loaders. These arms are now being delivered at the State Arsenal and will be distributed among the National Guard, according to law, as fast as received. This arm, in the opinion of military men, is superior to any heretofore used in the army, combining accuracy, range, and rapidity of fire.

A law of this State, approved in 1871, enacts, that in lieu of the then existing provision for uniforms, armory rents and pay, the paymaster of each regiment or battalion should receive from the treasury five hundred dollars for each company. This constitutes the largest expenditure for the militia. The amount is fixed by law, and the Commander-in-Chief has not the power to make it less or more. The sum appropriated to each company is not too much, if the organization be kept up to the legal standard numerically. In addition to loss of time, the necessary expenses not provided for by law, which individuals connected with the National Guard, contribute for the good of the service, are far greater than the amount drawn from the State. Over eleven thousand dollars charged to the militia account was paid for ordnance and ordnance stores, camp and garrison equipage, equipments and accoutrements now in the Arsenal, to meet the requisition of years to come. A considerable amount has been paid during the year for claims of former years. The current expenses of the National Guard, including transportation for all parades and inspections authorized and required by law, have been less than usual.

My views as to the importance of a well disciplined militia and the constitutional duty of each State to organize and maintain such military force, heretofore expressed officially, have been strengthened by the events of the past year. The report of the Adjutant General refers to an occasion when property, valued at millions of dollars, awaiting shipment, was at the mercy of hundreds of misguided and turbulent men. Not until local authorities requested military aid and protection in due form of law, and the danger was imminent, was any part of the National Guard put under arms, and then with strict orders not to move from their armories until legally notified by the Sheriff of the county, that the civil power had been exhausted. Fortunately, the preparations prevented more serious disorder and doubtless saved much valuable property from damage or wanton destruction. Unless a State has sufficient power in all emergencies to protect property, capitalists will be careful to avoid it in their investments, especially in works of public improvement. So long as mankind is governed by the passions incident to human nature must every government possess military power. If the States have no militia, or have a force that is weak and inefficient, a standing army may supply its place. A large standing army is inimical to the liberties of the country—and it is hoped that New Jersey may always have a sufficient militia force to preserve the peace within her borders without calling on the general government for troops.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Both Houses of the Legislature, at the last session, agreed to several amendments to the constitution of this State, entered them upon their Journals, and have referred them to you to decide whether they shall be submitted to the people. The proposed amendments have been published as the constitution requires, and may be acted upon at any time you shall determine to consider them. It is hoped that the consideration of these proposed changes in the organic law will not be postponed to so late a day in the session, that other business shall intervene to interrupt your deliberations.

The adoption of the proposed amendments would conduce materially to the public welfare. Several of them are of the utmost importance and the people should have the opportunity to vote upon them.

In the article upon suffrage it is proposed to strike the word "white" from the present constitution. This should be done to make it conform to one of the recent amendments of the constitution of the United States, by which our election officers are now governed.

It is right that qualified electors in the military service should be allowed to vote if necessarily absent from home on duty, but the legislation to carry into effect the provisions of this amendment, when adopted, should carefully guard the ballot box and make it impossible for returning boards to deprive the soldier of the effect of the ballot he may cast.

Among the most important of the proposed amendments is the one which forbids special legislation, and provides for general laws on the various subjects therein specified. Should this be adopted, the general railroad law, which was passed with such unanimity two years ago, will be secured, and hereafter there can be no monopoly of routes of travel in any part of the State. With this amendment in force no special law can be passed appointing commissions to govern municipalities, and the long train of evils which follow such departure from the principle of local self-government will hereafter be averted. Neither can corporate powers be granted except by general legislation, and the legislature would hereafter be relieved from the mass of business which now engrosses attention, the sessions would be shortened and the expenses of government diminished.

The paragraph which compels the legislature to provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficent system of free public schools, for the instruction of all the children of the State of legal school age, will commend itself to the friends of education.

My views in favor of other proposed amendments were fully stated to your predecessors, and I will not repeat them. An opportunity is now given to incorporate needed reforms in the constitution without entirely superceding an instrument with which the people of the state are in the main satisfied.

It is to be regretted that in the amendments referred for your action, there was not incorporated the paragraph recommended by the constitutional commission, which provided that conviction for felony or other infamous crime, should, after final judgment thereon, vacate office, and that a duly authenticated record of such conviction and judgment should be conclusive evidence of such vacancy. It has been decided in this State that such offenders cannot be removed by any mode except impeachment, and as the court of impeachment convenes only at long intervals, the extraordinary spectacle may be presented of convicts exercising for months the privileges of office. Although this provision cannot now be incorporated in the constitution, yet it may be embodied in a statute, and considering that it has produced good results in other States it would be wise to pass such a law.

REVISION OF LAWS.

In the multiplicity of business pressing upon the last Legislature during the closing hours of the session, a few of the acts prepared by the revisers failed to become laws. These will be introduced at the present session, and should be considered at an early day, so that the complete volume of revised statutes provided for by the act of 1874, may be printed and distributed within the year.

No provision was made by the Legislature for printing a part of the revision. The law which authorized the printing contemplated the entire volume with notes and marginal references. One of the revised acts that passed forbids their publication in the newspapers or pamphlet laws of the current year. There is a provision in the same act which caused all that received the signature of the Governor to go into effect on the first day of January, A. D. 1875. Upon recommendation of the revisers, approved by the Attorney General and Comptroller of the Treasury, I have caused all the revisions which passed to be printed. To have permitted the great body of the law by which the business affairs of the State are conducted to have remained unpublished and unknown, would have caused serious difficulty and embarrassment.

Through the energy of three practical printers I was enabled to have published within the time designated for them to take effect, one thousand copies of all the revised laws which are now in operation. After forwarding a sufficient number to the officials who usually receive the laws, I deposited the remainder with a bookseller, who will apply the proceeds of sale towards the expenses of publication. In addition to the above, I had printed one thousand copies of the Act for the Trial of Small Causes, which have been forwarded to Justices of the Peace throughout the State.

The publication of these laws was an imperative necessity, and in the absence of a statute expressly authorizing it to be done, I considered it the duty of the Governor to have them printed, to inform the people what the laws are which they were expected to obey and which protect them in the enjoyment of property, liberty and life.

The work has been well done and with remarkable expedition; the bills presented are reasonable, and I recommend the passage of an act providing for immediate payment.

Much time and labor have been given to the revision by the able jurists to whom the important duty was entrusted, and when completed it will be found of great value.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBTION.

An act of the Legislature, approved March 5, 1874, authorized and directed the Governor, Comptroller and Treasurer, on behalf, and in the name of the State of New Jersey, to subscribe for ten thousand shares of Centennial stock, which when issued by the Centennial Board of Finance, should be held by the Treasurer for the use and benefit of the State. The second section of the act contains a proviso that no part of the subscription directed to be made should be paid until in the opinion of the persons named in the law, sufficient money had been subscribed or appropriated either by the National Government, the States, by corporations or individuals, or by all combined, to make the proposed exposition a national success.

The language of the act imperatively directs the subcription to be made, and the payment of the money is dependent upon the decision of the persons authorized to judge the question of success. Under the advice of the Attorney General of the State, who was of opinion that in the spirit of the law the subscription depended upon their determination of this question, the Governor, Comptroller and Treasurer, in fulfillment of the duty imposed upon them by law, proceeded first to ascertain all the facts bearing upon the present financial condition and prospects of the Exposition, in order to decide if sufficient money had been subscribed or appropriated from any or all the sources named in the act, to make it a success. The following information was elicited from authentic and reliable sources:

The State of Pennsylvania has appropriated towards the purposes of the Exposition one million of dollars, and the city of Philadelphia one and a half millions. Two millions of dollars, now available, have been raised by individual subscriptions to stock, and arrangements have been made which will ensure the receipt of at least two millions additional, before the opening of the Exhibition. The use of four hundred and fifty acres of land in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, admirably located for the purpose, has been donated. Contracts have been made for several of the most expensive buildings, and they are now in course of erection. The buildings, when completed, will cover forty acres. "Horticultural Hall" to occupy one and a half acres, and "Machinery Hall" to cover thirteen acres, to cost together one million of dollars, will be paid for out of the appropriation made by the city of Philadelphia. The "Art Gallery" under contract and now being constructed of granite, designed to be the most magnificent specimen of architecture in the country, and to cost one and a half millions of dollars, will be paid for from the appropriations made by the State of Pennsylvania and the city of Philadelphia. These three buildings are to be devoted to the use of the Exposition without charge of any kind to the stockholders, the money appropriated to their construction not being represented by stock. This magnificent donation, together with the free use of the grounds, will inure greatly to the benefit of the stockholders. The main "Exhibition building," to cover twenty acres, now under contract, and the "Agricultural Building," to cover five acres, will be constructed of cheaper materials, with the money subscribed for stock at a cost probably within the amount thus realized.

Without taking into account the large receipts during the Exhibition and the immense sum that will be realized by sale of the memorial medals prepared at the United States Mint and issued by authority of Congress, all of which will benefit the stock, it is evident from the foregoing exhibit of the resources at hand, the favorable terms on which the spacious grounds and some of the most expensive buildings are secured, the advanced stage of construction of the edifices under contract with responsible parties on reasonable terms, together with the undoubted fact that the financial management of the enterprise is in the hands of gentlemen of unquestioned integrity and acknowledged business ability; that the success of the proposed exhibition assured; and this fact being settled by the unanimous judgment of those to whom the decision of the question was entrusted, they so decided, and under the direction of the law the subscription was made.

The facts already stated are sufficient to satisfy every candid mind that the American Centennial will be successful; but there are others which go far to prove that it will not merely be an ordinary success, but that it will be the greatest and grandest exhibition the world has ever witnessed. It has the National sanction. Congress has enacted that the Exhibition, both national and international in its character, shall be held. The President, in obedience to law, has extended an invitation to all nations to participate, and the United States is thus solemnly pledged by every consideration of duty and national honor, to make it worthy the event it is designed to commemorate. Its affairs are managed by representatives of every State in the Union, appointed upon nomination of the respective Governors. The general government is represented in a Board composed of an officer from each of the departments and the Smithsonian Institution. More than one-third of the States have already appointed Boards of Centennial Managers, and it is probable that the others will make like appointments during the present winter. Volunteer committees, consisting of Granges of Agriculture, associations of manufacturers, and central and local boards of citizens, are at work in different sections of the country. In many localities patriotic women, alive to the suitable commemoration of the birth of a nation in which their sex has been advanced to a higher sphere than in any other part of the globe, have collected large sums of money. Applications for space in the several departments have been received from numerous manufacturers and others in many of the States.

Local prejudice has exhausted itself; obstacles which at the beginning seemed formidable have disappeared, and there is now throughout the country a growing enthusiasm in favor of the Exhibition.

But a fact extremely encouraging to the friends of the Centennial is the unanimity with which other nations have accepted the invitation. There is now hardly a doubt that all the leading nations of the world and several minor powers will participate. The foreign nations which have thus far signified their acceptance are England, Germany, France, Spain, The Netherlands, Sweden and Norway, Belgium, Japan, Mexico, Brazil, Chili, Peru, and other South American Governments, besides a number of others in all the continents and in some of the tropical islands. Extensive preparations are also being made in Austria, Australia, and the Dominion of Canada, for a large display of industries, and their formal acceptance is daily expected. The truth is, that European and Oriental nations look upon the growth and development of this country as marvellous. They cannot understand why it is, that a handful of colonists could in a century grow to a national power and influence equal to what the most prosperous of the governments of the old world attained in a thousand years. The people there are interested and curious to learn the causes of our remarkable career, and they will not only contribute to the Exposition, but will visit it in immense numbers.

The location of New Jersey, in close proximity to the site of the Exposition, and between the two great cities of this hemisphere destined to be the centres of attraction, causes the American Centennial to be of peculiar interest and importance to her people, and therefore I have represented its present status and prospects with some detail. In a business point of view our people will be vastly benefitted in the increased demand for products and the circulation of money by the vast multitude of strangers from this and other countries, who will sojourn within our borders, visiting our battle fields and other places of historic interest, or enjoying the healthful climate or invigorating temperature of our places of summer resort. People who hope to better their condition will see the advantages our State presents, and will cognize the large, uncultivated tracts of land in some of our counties, thus adding to the population and wealth of the State. But the greatest benefit will flow to the manufacturers. An opportunity never before presented, and which probably will not be again for a hundred years, will be given them almost at their own doors, to demonstrate not only to the people of our own widely extended country, but to the representatives of every civilized nation in the world a fact which is well known to those who have had opportunity of observation, that no community of equal population excels the State of New Jersey in variety or quality of manufactures. She will doubtless be fully represented in all departments, and there is no doubt her reputation as a State, as well as the pecuniary interests of her people, will be greatly improved thereby. Now that she has subscribed for stock, probably sufficient in amount to provide the space she will occupy, her people will be better satisfied than to depend for accommodations entirely upon the contributions or subscriptions of others no more interested than themselves.

But in considering this subject we should be governed by higher motives than mere business or pecuniary advantages. We should seize the opportunity, in fitting manner to express our gratitude to the Supreme Ruler of nations, that as a people and a State we have been so remarkably blessed and have advanced so rapidly in population and wealth. A nation not possessing sufficient patriotism at the end of an hundred years, suitably to commemorate the anniversary of its birth would probably not survive another century.

What so proper, after sectional strife and bitterness, for people of all the States to gather at the cradle of liberty, the place where not only the Declaration of Independence was signed and promulgated, but the organic law which binds the Union was framed, there to renew ancient friendships and strengthen the bands of national unity.

Provision should be made by law for the collection and arrangement of our minerals. An act should be passed at an early day, authorizing the appointment by the Governor or the Legislature of five "Centennial Managers," for this State, who, with the present United States Commissioner and Alternate, will constitute a Board, charged with the duty of giving information to those who desire to exhibit, of securing a representation of different industries, and of preparing and supervising the New Jersey department. Unless this be done speedily, other States, where similar Boards have been organized, will be in advance of us in their arrangements for the Exposition.

FEDERAL AND STATE RIGHTS.

Whatever opinion may have been entertained as to the mode in which some of the recent amendments to the Federal constitution were submitted, and the circumstances under which they were ratified by several of the States, it is universally agreed that those amendments form part of the constitution, and as such must be respected and obeyed. The people of every section regard all questions involved in them as finally settled, and have so framed their State constitutions and local laws as to conform to their spirit and letter, by giving equal political rights to all men without regard to color. The entire acquiescence in these amendments, especially by the people of the States most affected by them, is encouraging to all who sustain the constitution in its entirety and abide by the laws of the land.

But the amendments referred to are no more binding than the original instrument. Every provision of the constitution is of equal force, and should be strictly observed and obeyed, not only by the States and the people, but by the general government. Especially should the organic law be the guide and the limit of power to those who govern, and when by them its requirements are disregarded, the voice of condemnation and protest should rise all over the land from the people in conventions, or through their representatives.

The recent violation of the Federal constitution in a sister State strikes at the very existence of State sovereignty. An unlawful blow cannot be inflicted on one State by the federal power without all feeling its effect. When the reserved rights of one are encroached upon, the citizens of every State are interested.

Without giving in detail the unconstitutional proceedings recently had in Louisiana, to which allusion has been made, and with which you are familiar, it is sufficient to state that armed soldiers of the United States invaded the State Capitol, entered the very hall in which one branch of the Legislature was in session, and forcibly ejected members of the body from the seats to which they had been admitted by a vote of the House to which they had been elected, and their right to membership referred; and that the same soldiers, surrounding the Speaker's chair in close proximity, by the intimidation of their presence in military dress and equipment, did drive the body from the legislative hall provided by law for its deliberations. At the time of this transaction, unprecedented in this country, there was no invasion, insurrection, or domestic violence existing there, and the Legislature, having the right to determine upon the election and qualifications of its members, had exercised that right, and was in peaceable session engaged in its legitimate business.

That such action was a clear violation of the constitution needs no argument. A mere statement of a few fundamental principles which lie at the foundation of our system of government, and which are so plain as to have become axioms, is all that is necessary. The first great truth bearing upon the question is, that the United States government is the creation of the States; that it has no power except that which was bestowed upon it by the States, and that all powers not delegated are reserved to the States and the people thereof. The delegated powers given to the general government are expressed in the constitution. Another important fact is that the sovereignty of a State is complete and real in its proper sphere, and from this it follows that it is the duty of the several States, as well as of the United States, to assert and maintain, in a constitutional manner, their several rights. The student of the constitution will also observe that its framers, fearing the encroachments of the central government on the rights of the States, were jealous of its military power and hence threw around its exercise such guards and restrictions as made it subordinate to the civil power. Before the Army of the United States can lawfully be used in any of the States when there is no invasion, there must be insurrection or domestic violence and also application for troops from the proper civil authority of the State. The right of such application is in the Legislature. If the Legislature is not in session, the Governor cannot apply, unless he first call upon the Legislature to convene. If upon being summoned the Legislature cannot convene, then, and not until then, has a Governor the right to call federal soldiers into his State.

The Legislature could have been convened. In fact, on that day it was in session; and the extraordinary spectacle was presented of the United States army dispersing by force the very body without whose application not a single soldier had the right to be there. There was no insurrection or domestic violence; there was no riot; it was not a mob that was dispersed and driven out by the bayonet, but it was the Legislative Assembly of a sovereign State. That was no ordinary invasion of constitutional rights, but a stab at local self-government in a vital part. It was a direct violation of the Constitution in its most important feature, imperiling the rights of the States and the liberties of the citizen.

Nearly forty years ago, in addressing the people of this country upon his voluntary retirement from the Presidency and from public life, the great soldier and statesman, whose name stands next to that of Washington on the roll of American heroes, used the following language, every sentence of which should be engraved on the minds of all who desire the preservation of our form of government: "The legitimate authority of the general government is abundantly sufficient for all the purposes for which it was created; and its powers being expressly enumerated there can be no justification for claiming anything beyond them. Every attempt to exercise power beyond these limits should be promptly and firmly opposed. One evil example will lead to others still more mischievous; and if the principle of constructive powers, or supposed advantages, or temporary circumstaances, shall ever be permitted to justify the assumption of power not given by the constitution, the general government will before long absorb all the powers of legislation and you will have in effect but one consolidated government. Every friend of our free institutions should be always prepared to maintain, unimpaired and in full vigor, the rights and sovereignty of the States, and to confine the action of the general government strictly to the sphere of its appropriate duties."

I recommend that, in the name of New Jersey, a State which has ever been loyal to the constitution and the laws, and which has on all occasions sustained the national government in the exercise of legitimate powers, you do promptly and in firm and decided language protest against the recent unlawful action of the federal authorities in using the military power of the United States to invade the constitutional rights of the sister State of Louisiana.

CONCLUSION.

In concluding this, my last communication to the Legislature, I cannot refrain from referring to the kind feeling and courtesy which have constantly been extended to me by all who fill the various departments of the State government in our personal and official relations.

Conscious of having discharged the arduous and responsible duties which have devolved upon me, to the best of my ability, I leave the executive office in the hands of one whose well known character is a guarantee of good government.

May God in His infinite wisdom so direct that our beloved commonwealth may continue to prosper in all things which conduce to the welfare and happiness of the people.

The Hon. John W. Taylor, President of the Senate, introduced Rev. C. K. Imbrie, D. D., Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Jersey City, who made the following prayer:

O Lord, God Almighty! All things are Thine. Thou hast made heaven and earth and the sea, and all things that are therein; and Thou preservest them all—and the host of heaven worshipeth Thee. We are of a day and know nothing. We humble ourselves in Thy presence and adore Thee, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, from whom alone cometh every good and every perfect gift, and to whom alone belongeth the glory and the honor and the blessing and the might and the majesty and the dominion forever.

Standing as we do before Thee, on this auspicious occasion, we ackuowledge that to thee alone are we indebted for all our National blessings. We here publicly disavow all reliance upon ourselves as the source of these mercies; and we here publicly acknowledge that our mountain stands strong only because Thou hast had a favor unto our people. It is Thou who hast bestowed upon us this broad and goodly land. It is Thou who hast conferred upon us all the blessings of a free government. It is Thou who hast defended us from our beginning hitherto in all straits, and established successfully our nationality and independence. Our fathers trusted in Thee and Thou didst deliver them. It is Thy hand which raised us up men of wisdom and foresight to lay well the foundations of our government. And in our later time of trial it is Thy hand which has preserved us from disseverance and dissolution and established us in a higher degree of honor and power than before. We acknowledge Thee in all.

And now we beseech Thee to bless us as a nation throughout all our borders. Bless Thy servant the President of the United States, and Congress assembled. Bless the Governors of the several States and their Legislatures. Grant unto them who administer our National affairs Thy help and direction, wisely and well to dispose of every difficulty. Heal all our differences. Remove our perplexities and complications. Take away all mere partisanship, and all prejudice and passion—And so direct our Rulers, that by their counsels, harmony and happiness may pervade every portion of our Territory. Graciously, also be pleased to revive the interests of labor and of trade, that anxiety may cease and hope may spring up in the hearts of the poor, and the tide of prosperity again flow over our Nation.

Oh! Lord God, in Thy mercy, deal not with us after our transgressions. Pardon our national sin, our injustice and wrong doings, and our neglect to Thy Gospel. We confess our sins before Thee. We have not rendered to Thee according to Thy mercies towards us. Purge away our transgressions, until Thou find none. Purify our public places from all corruption. Remove from us every form of public iniquity, and make us a God-fearing, upright and merciful people.

In Thy great goodness, O Lord, we beseech Thee to bless our State. We thank Thee that Thou hast placed us among the foremost in the enactment of wise and salutary laws; in making us a law-abiding people; in the rapid increase of our population; in the advanced position of our means for popular education; in the hold which Christian truth has upon the hearts of our people; in the rich resources of our State; and that Thou hast honored us in the past with the presence of so many wise and good men in the public administration of our affairs, whose name is an honor, and whose memory is blessed. Let Thy mercy which has thus far gone before us, as a pillar of cloud, be our guide in all the future.

And now that we are met to induct into office Thy servant who has been chosen to preside over this people, we humbly invoke Thy blessing in this act.

Remember in thy loving kindness him who this day vacates this public trust. We bless The for all that has been wise and beneficent in his administration over this people. Go Thou with him, as he returns again to the retirement of private life. Let health and prosperity attend him and his. Let Thy grace fill his heart, and gather him and his household at last into Thy heavenly kingdom.

In particular we beseech Thee now to bless Thy servant who is this day to assume this high position of public trust. We give Thee thanks for all his past record; and for the fidelity with which he has discharged past obligations. We thank Thee for the confidence reposed in him by this people, and for the hearty unanimity with which he has been called by them to this office. And now, O Lord, confer upon him all the plenitude of Thy gifts to fit him for the due fulfillment of his duties. Let the light of Thy countenance shine upon him; and secure to him throughout, a wise, upright, discerning and judicious administration. Let the fear of God be ever before his eyes. Preserve him from all mere partisan bias. Keep him from an undue regard to the applause or the censure of men. Help him ever to act as in Thy sight, and, in all circumstances, to keep in mind that scene where every voice shall be hushed, and the judgment of Him only, whose eyes are as a flame of fire, shall be heard, rewarding the righteous and condemning the wicked.

Let his life and his health be precious in Thy sight. Under the pressure of every trying emergency, sustain him by Thy strength and guide him by Thy counsel. Make his path plain at every step. Bless him, through all his course; that he may finish that course with the approval of his own conscience; with the approval of this people, and above all, with Thine own approbation; so that the record of his administration may become a theme for grateful praise to Thee, from the hearts of all this people.

O God of Nations, gather ever about us, all those holy influences which tend to exalt and preserve and perpetuate States and Nations; and graciously defend and deliver us from all those subtle errors and gross iniquities which bring down Thine anger upon a people, and lead to their destruction. Let Thy loving mercy embrace in its wide reaching arms, all the Nations of the earth; mete out to them one and all, the true knowledge of Thyself, and the proclamation of the blessed Gospel of Thy Son. Remove from them all misrule, injustice and oppression —grant them peace and prosperity, and inspire them with mutual love and goodwill. Let the day be hastened, O Lord, when Thy glory shall fill all the earth; and when He whose right it is, shall be revealed in the clouds of heaven in power and great glory, and shall take to himself the kingdom and dominion of the whole earth whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and of whose dominion there shall be no end.

These blessings we ask in the name of Thy Son Jesus Christ, our Lord; for whom, above all things, we bless Thee; and to whom, with Thee, O Father and the Holy Spirit ever one God, be glory and dominion, both now and forever, Amen.

The official oath was then administered to the Governor elect, by Hon. Mercer Beasley, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

After the oath of office had been administered, Governor Parker arose and, addressing Governor Bedle, said:

"I deliver to you the Great Seal of the State of New Jersey, which, three years ago, was entrusted to me. Your well known integrity and ability, give assurance that the duties of the high office, to which you have been elected, will during your administration, be faithfully performed."

To which Governor Bedle replied as follows:

"Governor Parker:—It gives me great pleasure to receive this Seal of office from one who has twice held it, and the record of whose administrations, is alike honorable to himself and the State, and to which I can turn for instruction and guide."

Governor Parker, turning to President Taylor, said:

"Mr. President, I now introduce to you His Excellency, Joseph D. Bedle, Governor of the State of New Jersey. You will please introduce the Governor to the Senate and General Assembly."

The President of the Senate introduced the newly qualified Governor to the Legislature, saying:

"Gentlemen of the Legislature:—I present to you Joseph D. Bedle, Governor of the State of New Jersey."

The Governor then delivered the Inaugural Address, as follows:

INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Gentlemen of the Senate and General Assembly:

I am not unmindful of the high honor—and therefore gratefully acknowledge it—of being chosen by the people of New Jersey, particularly after nearly ten years of labor in another department of the government, to serve them in this as their executive. Office, however, under our system, is not a mere dignity, but a position of duty and responsibility. The officer is the servant of the people, and their welfare is the great object for which office is ordained and filled. Personal honor and advantage are but incidents, and should be the result only of a faithful discharge of duty, and the reward of actual honest service. With this view, and, as I trust, in the fear of God, I have taken the oaths prescribed, and by His help shall hope to remember and keep them.

The Constitution requires the Governor to communicate to the Legislature at the opening of each session the condition of the State. That duty was incumbent upon my predecessor, and he has thoroughly performed it. No details, therefore, will be expected from me. His message is definite and comprehensive, and from that, as well as the clear reports of the Treasurer and Comptroller, it is evident that the financial affairs of the State have been judiciously and faithfully managed. But it matters not how faithful administrative officers may be, if legislation is not economical and prudent. The present is a time peculiarly fitting for those engaged in the enactment of laws, to consider well the public interest and its demands, and to be willing to co-operate in any measure that will relieve the people from unnecessary burthens and restore and secure prosperity. We have just passed through a period of undue speculation, extravagance and much of public fraud. To-day the whole country is suffering by the reaction and the necessary effort to reach a permanent and healthy basis. Business is crippled, mutual confidence in credit is shaken, debts public and private have vastly accumulated, work is scarce and taxes are burdensome. The people feel these evils and are thoughtful. They turn to those who have been entrusted with power for relief, and demand a rigid accountability. They are ready by their votes to elevate or defeat as will best subserve the public good. These are the clear signs of the times, and no official should mistake his responsibility. The public mind until lately has been absorbed in the general expansion and deluded with a fictitious prosperity, but now, in the midst of depression, it is aroused to action, and all extravagance, abuse and fraud, whether in National, State or local governments, must meet its condemnation. Relief, however, cannot come alone from legislation or the strictest faithfulness in office. These, like medicine to the human system, may assist in the recovery, but there must be time for the natural laws of trade to operate; also the people must live less expensively; must be satisfied with legitimate and regular earnings as distinguished from speculative; must avoid extravagance of all kinds, and practice a close economy. With conduct like this on their part, aided by legislation both National and State, solely for the public welfare, and not for a mere partisan purpose, together with a faithful performance of official duty, there need be no ground for discouragement or doubt of a reasonably speedy restoration to a sound condition. To doubt would be to lose sight of the immense resources of this great land, and the energy and intelligence of its people.

Our own State, in common with the rest, has felt the peculiar evils of the times, and our duty is clear to help correct them and lighten the public burthens. To that end all appropriations should be carefully watched, and none made that can be reasonably dispensed with; general State taxes should be kept as low as possible, for local taxation is heavy, and in some municipalities oppressive. At no time, unless under the pressure of an absolute necessity, should there be a narrow State policy. No illiberal, stinted course is now necessary, nor will it have any encouragement from me; but it is always wise for governments, like individuals, to keep within a prudent economy, and retrench or abstain in expenditures as circumstances may require. In the present emergency we should not, in my opinion, undertake the erection of buildings for the deaf and dumb, the blind and the feeble minded, as contemplated by an act of the last session. The purposes of that act cannot be carried out without an expense much greater than the revenues of the State will warrant, and the necessity is not so imminent as to justify direct taxation. The State is undoubtedly under obligation to furnish the means of education to these afflicted classes, and provision is made accordingly in suitable schools in other states. As soon as the condition of the public finances, or the resources of the people will permit, these most worthy and noble institutions should be established and maintained within our own territory, but now it is wise to continue the present system of paying for the tuition of such as may need it, until we are better able to incur a greater expense. The report of the Comptroller on this subject meets my hearty approval. Besides, a large appropriation is necessary for the work in progress upon the Insane Asylum at Morristown, which should be speedily completed in whole or in part, for use, and I do not see how it is practicable, with a due regard to that, to provide for these other objects. I am not informed of any other matter outside the usual range, likely to come before the Legislature involving a large expense, and therefore remark generally that it will be my effort, as I am satisfied it will be yours, to check all tendency to extravagance and keep expenditures at the lowest possible amount consistent with the dignity and reasonable demands of the government.

But the great cause of complaint is not in the State appropriations. Taxes for these are comparatively light. It is in the taxes of municipal bodies, including assessments for local improvements. These taxes are the most serious consequences of the recent recklessness. Improvements, so called, in advance of the public demand, made at extravagant rates, and often for personal advantage alone, have been imposed upon the land owner, and rights of property, although guaranteed by the constitution, and within the protection of fundamental law, have become insecure. Under color of the taxing power and by its abuse, confiscation has frequently been accomplished, and the results are now seen in some localities, in useless lots and deserted tenements, encumbered by assessments that the owners are unable to pay. Many local assessments have been carelessly and illegally made, and debts thereby thrown upon the municipality at large, which have helped swell the volume of taxes for others than those interested, to bear. Useless officials, supporting a cumbersome and expensive machinery of government, have been kept in power, while others have made office but the means for illegitimate gains. Dishonesty has often been set down as smartness, and public plunder as official prize. These abuses have been carried on under color of law, although sometimes in defiance of it. Relief has frequently been had in the courts, but the effective remedy must be sought in a judicious limitation of powers; in legislative restraints upon incurring debts and imposing taxes; in securing the land owner a reasonable voice on the question of local improvements; in providing more independent bodies for the adjustment and assessment of costs, damages, and benefits, and, above all, in the election of efficient and honest men to office, and in allowing the people to elect for themselves, so that there may be a direct responsibility. It is said to be a problem how to govern a city. One thing is certain, that in New York and New Jersey the system of legislative commissions has failed. To my mind the best municipal government for our people, and the only one consistent with the spirit of our institutions is that in which they govern themselves. Frauds and abuses will at times creep in. There cannot be entire immunity from these. They are chronic in human nature, but their occurrence is less likely where the people can select and control their own servants, than when furnished by the Legislature. The simpler the machinery of a local government the better. A complicated system is a bulwark for fraud. The public should be able to understand, without any mystery, the mode by which they are governed. That is very difficult now in some cities, and when a person is successful in accomplishing it in one, his knowledge is of very little service in another, for there are scarcely two charters alike. I hope to see the day when every city in this State, of a certain population, will be governed by one general law. It is doubtful whether that is practicable until required by a constitutional provision, but it should be the aim and tendency of legislation to observe as much uniformity as possible in the construction of city governments. The error of Legislative commissions is so clear to my mind, from what I have seen—both as a Judge and as a citizen—as to induce me most earnestly to recommend that such a policy be discarded, and particularly that Jersey City, where the evil has been seriously felt, shall be given a charter based on the principle of self-government.

But we must not stop with the reforms indicated; temptation to fraud and overcharge must be removed. There should be solid punishments against any officer being interested directly or indirectly in public contracts or works connected with his office, or in the range of his official duty. Here lies one chief inducement for incompetent or corrupt men to seek office. Most important offices with nominal salaries are liable to be sought after with the expectation of revenue from contracts and work. Honestly disposed men may be beguiled with the idea of profit, and losing sight of their public duty be tempted, for their own gain, into extravagance, and at length to fraud. The vice is in the antagonism between the official's duty to the public and his own interests. This temptation should be removed. A law carefully prepared with penalties, both of fine and imprisonment, sufficient to intimidate and punish, would be of great public service. There are provisions in some charters on this subject. There is also a general law, but it is inadequate. Fraud in office can be punished by indictment at the common law, but to punish for being interested, without fraud, requires a statute.

Every safeguard should also be thrown around the elective franchise, to secure a free and fair choice of officials. There are now stringent penalties against illegal voting, and efforts to corrupt the voter, but there is a difficulty back of the elections. It is in the primary meetings. These are the sources of gross corruption. Parties within a proper sphere are a political necessity, and nominations, practically speaking, have to be made in order to give purpose and concentration to votes. The influence of these preliminary organizations is potent in the election, and depravity there necessarily extends to the ballot-box. Could this evil be corrected, better and more independent men would often be nominated and secured to office. The subject is merely suggested now. There are serious difficulties about it, but to the extent that it is possible to avoid them, and reach the malady, I will gladly aid, and on reflection make further suggestion, if advisable.

Another evil is special legislation. This we have been slow to correct. In England the tendency has been against it for years. Attention has been called to it by several of the governors since the new constitution, and yet the statute books year after year show an increase of special favors. In these a vast amount of public time and expense is wasted, and thereby the sessions of the Legislature prolonged. Besides, such a policy does not give sufficient encouragement to capital and concentrated labor. Corporate privileges in many matters of legitimate trade and enterprise should be open alike to all, and readily obtainable on compliance with general laws whenever the demands of business require it. The Free Railroad Act of 1873 is eminently just and wise, and is a most important advance towards a thorough system of general laws. Competition should be encouraged, and reasonable corporate facilities readily required.

Exclusive or perpetual privileges should be most scrupulously avoided, for it is incompatible with the dignity and interest of a free people to create odious monopolies, or hamper its sovereign power.

The tax laws need some examination, so that their true spirit may not be evaded; also that equality of distribution among the counties be better secured. All exemptions should be kept within the narrowest limits, and more effective means be provided to compel individuals to bear their just proportion of taxation. I have not had time to give this subject a thorough consideration, and therefore am not warranted in suggesting any details at this time.

Labor should be protected as far as possible from unreasonable exactions, and the agricultural interests of the State carefully fostered.

The existing institutions of education, benevolence and reform, will receive my hearty support, and whatever is necessary on the part of the executive, within the scope of his authority, to assist in their management, by which the objects intended may be fully accomplished, will be done. I look upon this office as a place of work, and as early as possible will endeavor to become possessed of a knowledge of the actual condition of all State affairs. As yet, having just left the bench, my information is only cursory. The administration of my predecessor has been so faithful and thorough that the labors of his sucessor will be lightened and his duty readily understood.

It is advisable that a moderate part of the militia be kept organized and equipped. I am, therefore, in favor of maintaining the National Guard, seeking, however, to avoid all useless expense.

The people ought not to overlook the importance of securing to our State a representation in the National Centennial commensurate with her dignity, her history and growth, and to encourage and arrange for it, it is desirable that provision be made at this session for the appointment of a suitable commission. New Jersey was among the foremost in the great work of independence, and her valor, her struggles, and her battlefields have made her renowned. No State has had a more varied or substantial development. By none is she excelled in her industries, her agriculture, her internal commerce, her mines developed, her homes, her institutions of learning and charity, her system of laws, or her patriotism, virtue and intelligence; and in none should there be less ardor and voluntary effort by her citizens to give success and character to the great celebration of the century.

Additional judicial help is needed in the eastern part of the State. The sixth and seventh districts are now too large, owing to the vast increase of civil business. Essex and Hudson counties should each be a district. That will necessiate the passage of an act for one more justice of the Supreme Court, at least.

These are the only topics peculiarly of State interest to which I will refer, but there are others of a broader nature involving every State, and in which the whole country is interested.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS.

The management of affairs by the present National Administration is a subject of the deepest concern. Rarely if ever in the history of the Republic has attention been so thoroughly aroused to its condition as now. The people mean that this great government shall be conducted on a more economical and less partisan basis, that useless officials shall be dispensed with; that jobbery, extravagance and fraud shall cease; that there shall be a sound public credit, and a settled financial policy founded on integrity and principle; that the country shall have rest from the animosities of war, and the South be dealt with in the spirit of justice and peace; that there shall be more of statesmanship and less of partizanship—more of the power of law and less of physical force.

In this purpose there must be no encumbrance of dead issues. We are dealing with the living present and its influence upon the future. Everything that has been secured by constitutional amendments since the war is final and out of the region of controversy. Those amendments guarantee the extinction of slavery, the citizenship of the colored man, and his right to vote, the validity of the public debt of the United States incurred in the rebellion, and absolutely prohibit the payment by the United States, or any State, of the Confederate debt or any claim for the emancipation of a slave. Discussion of the manner of their adoption, or the wisdom of any of them is worse than idle. As a concluded fact in the government those amendments are of the past, are a part of the constitution; and the obligation to obey them is imperative.

But among the vital issues is the return to specie payment. The practical result of the recent policy has been to retard and not to advance it. Instead of fostering resources and preparing for resumption, the government has acted contrariwise, and depleted its treasury of gold. To my mind there is no safe way out of the present financial difficulty, but through a speedy resumption of specie payment by the Government. The precise mode is a question of political economy on which minds with the same purpose in view will differ; but as to the duty of the Government to resume as early as reasonably practicable there ought to be no dispute. There can be no successful financial policy not founded on integrity. To do what is right and observe good faith can never be an unsafe rule. Congress may borrow money on the credit of the Government and authorize bonds and notes therefor. If notes on demand, as in the case of the Treasury notes, there is an implied obligation or promise that they shall be paid in coin or its equivalent as soon as the ability and resources of the Government will permit. This obligation is recognized in the act of Congress of March 17, 1869, entitled "an act to strengthen the public credit." It is as follows: "That in order to remove any doubt as to the purpose of the Government to discharge all just obligations to the public creditors, and to settle conflicting questions and interpretations of the laws by virtue of which such obligations have been contracted, it is hereby provided and declared that the faith of the United States is solemnly pledged to the payment in coin or its equivalent of all the obligations of the United States not bearing interest, known as United States notes, and of all the interest bearing obligations of the United States, except in cases where the law authorizing the issue of any such obligation has expressly provided that the same may be paid in lawful money, or other currency than gold and silver." "And the United States also solemnly pledges its faith to make provision at the earliest practical period, for the redemption of the United States notes in coin."

Nearly six years have elapsed since the passage of that act, and the pledge and legal obligation during that time have been disregarded. The true duty of the government is contained in that act, and had there been a judicious system of husbanding gold and moderately redeeming the greenbacks, or funding them in bonds or interest paying notes, they would naturally have appreciated closely, if not quite, to gold long before this. Instead of that, views in Congress were sectional and inharmonious, and no step was taken towards resumption. The finances drifted, and now, after the collapse, an effort is made to retrieve; but it is only an experiment of uncertain effect. It will probably result in a deficiency of small change, unless the standard of the coin provided for the redemption of the fractional currency is reduced. What the country needs is a sure mode by which specie payments will inevitably be reached. It is doubtful whether any definite time ought to be fixed for complete resumption, as the laws of trade cannot always be controlled by legislation, but measures should be adopted steadily and with certainty looking to it, and then the time cannot be remote—it will speedily come. In this way only can confidence be restored. The people must believe that the government is in earnest to reach the objective point. The pathway may be a gradual redemption in coin or funding of the greenbacks into bonds, or interest paying notes convertible into bonds at moderate rates, or either. Contraction is necessary, and this would lessen the volume and give increased value to the rest. It would also induce the banks and others to hoard them because of their legal tender quality and convenience. Years may elapse before the treasury notes are all gathered in after a fixed, efficient means of redemption is provided, for whenever they are appreciated to gold the people will retain them. Confidence in the purpose and ability of the government to redeem when required is the greatest security against presentation for payment. Resumption is an accomplished fact when the greenback is appreciated to par with gold. The temptation to keep this currency entirely unredeemed is great, from the fact that no interest is paid upon it, but that is a secondary consideration in comparison with the advantage of a restoration of confidence in a stable governmental policy, founded in integrity, and of a settlement of values upon the only legal standard of the civilized world—gold and silver. It is time that the government with its vast powers, resources and credit, began in effective earnest to observe its implied obligation to pay its notes in something besides the notes themselves, and also to redeem its pledge in and by the act of Congress of 1869.

A repeal of the legal tender feature as to future contracts would retard the progress of resumption. It would take away a quality of value from the notes. It would also be a species of repudiation which ought not to be permitted. Whatever question existed, and it was a serious one as to the right of Congress to declare these notes legal tender, has been settled by the Supreme Court of the United States, and the public are now entitled to the full benefit of the law. That quality should accompany the note as long as it is outstanding. When it attains to par, the legal tender clause can be of little practical consequence; but in the meantime good faith and the prevention of depreciation require its retention.

Liberal banking facilities are also necessary to meet any deficiency of currency supply. The laws of trade can well regulate the amount of bank issues, the government always keeping in mind the duty of securing the bill holder beyond all peradventure, and the dealer, as far as reasonably possible.

The recent Louisiana difficulty presents a question of the rights of the States calling for notice. Louisiana was restored so her status as a sovereign State in 1868, she having fully complied with the reconstruction acts. Since then she has continued to be and is now entitled to the same constitutional rights as New Jersey or any other State. The only authority in the constitution for the United States to interfere in behalf of the internal peace of a State, is under article IV, section 4, of the constitution, which provides that "the United States shall guaranty to every State in this Union a republican form of Government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and on application of the Legislature or of the executive, (when the Legislature cannot be convened,) against domestic violence." Congressional aid was required to justify the President in executing that provision, and therefore early in the history of the country, in 1795, Congress passed an act to cary it into effect. That act authorized the President to call upon the militia of the States, but in 1807 another act was passed to use the land and naval forces of the United States. The assumption of the convention that framed the constitution was, and such is undoubtedly the philosophy of that instrument, that each State was expected to preserve its own peace and good order; but recognizing the fact that there might be emergencies when the State forces and tribunals were impotent to accomplish it, an obligation was imposed upon the United States to render assistance and protection. The condition both in the section referred to and in the acts of Congress, is that there shall be an application by the Legislature—if convened, and if not—by the executive. This condition must be complied with when the States themselves are not in rebellion. Restoration having been had, Louisiana stands in its relation to the Federal Government upon the strong basis of the constitution, and to that organic law in terms must we look for the powers of the National within the State Governments. The presence of the United States forces at the State capital was, it is said, owing to a call in September last, from Kellogg, who had previously been recognized by the President as the elected Governor, for aid in the maintenance of his authority. But the presence of the United States military there could be only for a lawful purpose. It was not to interfere in the domestic affairs of the State further than to put down insurrection or forcible violence. In November last, the State elections for members of both houses of the Legislature occurred, out of which grew bitter and wide-spread animosities. Their character or the cause need not now be stated. The Returning Board after sitting several weeks returned as elected one hundred and six members of the House of Representatives, and referred for the determination of that body, where the power resided under the constitution of that State (apart from any right by fundamental law,) the seats of five. On the fourth day of this month one hundred and two of the returned members assembled in the Representative Hall, having passed through a guard of soldiery to reach it. I mention the fact only to show that means were provided to preserve the public peace. The former clerk called the roll of names returned as furnished by the Secretary of State, according to the statute, the one hundred and two answering; and then began, and were continued, the proceedings in the election of Wiltz as temporary Speaker, the seating of five claimants in the seats referred and vacant and the subsequent election of Wiltz as permanent Speaker. Afterwards, while the House was thus organized and in session a United States General (De Trobriand) appeared with sufficient military force, and removed from the hall the five who had been seated. This was done in strict compliance with a written request of Governor Kellogg to "clear the Hall and the the State House of all persons not returned as legal members of House of Representatives by the returning Board of the State." Kellogg's action was taken on the petition of fifty-two members, who claimed that the organization was illegal. The request to the General was accompanied with a note that the clerk who had the roll (being the former clerk) "will point out to you those persons now in the Hall of the House of Representatives returned by the legal Returning Board of the State." It will thus be plainly seen that the clear and only purpose for the use of the military at that time was to remove the obnoxious five from their seats, and put them out of the State House. There is no pretence that there was then any violence to quell. There had been a disturbance in the lobby before, which was quieted by the presence of the same General—it is said—at the request of Wiltz, but that fact can have no legitimate bearing on the question of the right of the Governor or the military to remove those five claimants of seats. I have not referred to the particulars of the organization. Some of the facts are in dispute, but enough appears from the various statements (including that of the fifty-two members, the reports of General Sheridan and of the Congressional sub-committee) to show that when the controversy is divested of everything extraneous it is only one of party organization of the House, and some contested seats. Whether one party or the other had the Speaker; whether there was over-reaching and unfairness in the election of Wiltz, or not; whether the five contested seats were filled or not, were matters not to be decided by the Governor, his militia or the United States militia, but by the House itself. If the members chose to be factious, it was for them to wait for sober reflection, or settle it with their constituency. I do not mean to say that a mob may not be dispersed from a Legislative hall, or when strife among the members themselves assumes the shape of brute force and violence, that it may not be put down by the authority of the Executive, in the interest of peace; but I desire to say that no case of contested election in a Legislative body, or of Legislative organization merely, can be determined by the Governor, the militia, or the United States Soldiery. To attempt it is a clear invasion of the Constitution, and should meet a most decided protest. No discussion of the manner of the organization of the Hose or its proceedings—either as to their propriety or fairness—is now necessary. This is not the occassion for it. The leading undisputed facts show that the means taken to break up what had been done was a direct attack on the independance and power of the Legislative body and the sovereign rights of the State. The country was naturally aroused, particularly as the act was approved by Lieutenant General Sheridan and the Secretary of War, and, as it was understood from the Secretary's dispatch, by the President. I do not understand now from the President's special message that he condemns the specific act; for, although stating that he can conceive of no case not involving rebellion or insurrection, where interference by authority of the general government ought to be permitted or can be justified, he seeks to extenuate it, and fails to say, either in express terms or by necessary implication, that it was in violation of the principal he announces or that it did not meet his approval. His opinion seems to be, that it about served them right. But on a question like this there should be no uncertainty. If that particular act is not to be taken as a precedent, and as acquiesced in by the Administration, the disclaimer should be unmistakable. For the sake of Constitutional Government it is hoped that it may be. Whether so or not it is my duty, as the Executive of this State, to make solemn protest against that interference.

The fact is, there has been too much interference generally, by the United States military and Federal marshals in the work of restoration. Also too little willingness and moral support by the National Government for the South of herself to rehabilitate. Vanquished, she has been a prey to her rulers, the most of whom have been without sympathy in her humiliation, and whose party success and personal aggrandizement were of more importance than healing the disruption. She is now borne down with taxation, that is "eating out her substance." She is poor, and needs encouragement to work and to live. She was defeated in her monstrous heresy of secession; and, prostrate, now is the time to lift her up. The day of force is gone, and the period of a wise, magnanimous treatment is come. Her case now rests within the sphere of broad statesmanship, and all the influence of the administration should be to place her in harmony with national interest and advancement. The Government should be her friend and should show it. Her power of rebellion is gone, and she longs for prosperity and repose. Special violence should be put down and yet, notwithstanding, the government should rise above the feeling it engenders, and give peace to the whole land. The people cry for rest from this dread agitation, that is disturbing and impeding the nation's progress. The day of relief will surely come. The independent, sovereign will of the people is aroused, and neither partisanship, official mismanagement, recklessness nor indifference can resist the avalanche.

Gentlemen of the Senate and Assembly, with you it will be my effort to remember that within the scope of our peculiar duties we are not the agents of a party merely, but trustees for the welfare of a State we love. Let us feel that now, if ever, the public demand and expect the best service of those they have placed in power, and, looking to God, to whom all authority is subordinate, for guidance and strength, seek to promote the true interests of the State and transmit the blessing of a good government to those who shall succeed us.

At the conclusion of the address Rev. Thomas Hanlon, D. D., pronounced the benediction, as follows:

"The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of His son, Jesus Christ, our Lord; and the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with our chief Magistrate, now inducted into office, and with you all. Amen."

Mr. McGill, from the Committee on Railroads and Canals, to whom was referred

Assembly Bill No. 95, entitled

A supplement to an act entitled, An act to incorporate the New York and Long Branch Railroad Company, passed April 8th, 1868, Report the same without amendment.

Mr. Morrow, the committee to investigate charges made against the Clerk, presented the following:

The Special Committee to whom was referred the investigation of the charges that "certain subordinate clerkships of the House, had been made the subject of barter and sale, and that at least one of them had been bestowed for a pecuniary consideration, beg leave, respectfully, to report:

That they have been patiently and exhaustively investigating the charges in question, and have arrived at the following conclusions upon the evidence presented:

That the Clerk of the House, John Carpenter, Jr., entered a combination with one Charles Y. Bamford, of Trenton, and one Stephen H. Sayre, of Deckertown, New Jersey, to assist him to secure his election as Clerk—he agreeing, in consideration of their active support in securing votes of members in his behalf, to appoint them as Journal Clerk and Assistant Journal

Clerk, respectively; it being also agreed between them, that in case of his election as Clerk, his friends should unite with theirs, to prevent any nominations for those subordinate positions by the House.

That upon his election as Clerk by the House, Mr. Carpenter absolutely refused to fulfil his contract with the parties named, assigning as his reason for this refusal, that the pressure was so great from other parties, as to compel the selection of other appointees.

That notwithstanding the alleged heavy pressure, which, as he claimed, prevented the fulfilment of his obligation, Mr. Carpenter did subsequently determine that one of these gentlemen should have the Journal Clerkship, and selected a method by which it might be ascertained which of these gentlemen should receive the appointment, which method was, that the two should draw lots for the office, the one securing the prize to give the other his note for five hundred dollars, Mr. Carpenter agreeing to endorse said note. Upon the drawing, Mr. Bamford secured the prize, and thereupon gave his note to Mr. Sayre for the amount stated. It was endorsed by Mr. Carpenter, he agreeing that Mr. Bamford should have the clerkship. The note so endorsed was offered for discount, Mr. Carpenter suggesting the banking house at which it should be offered. Before the discount was had, the negotiation of the note was stopped, by order of Mr. Carpenter, through a telegram from Anandale.

That between the time when the note was given, and with Mr. Carpenter's endorsement was offered for discount, and the day on which the appointment of Journal Clerk was finally made, efforts were made by Mr. Carpenter and his friends to secure the destruction of the note, and no less earnest efforts were made to prevent the transaction from reaching the public ear; it appearing in the testimony that those who had become cognizant of the facts, regarded the affair as disreputable and discreditable to all concerned.

That notwithstanding his agreement to appoint Mr. Bamford as Journal Clerk, and in full knowledge of the further fact that Mr. Bamford's note for $500 dollars had been given to Mr. Sayre as a consideration for the appointment, Mr. Carpenpenter then gave the appointment to a third party.

These as briefly stated, are the facts conclusively established by the concurrent testimony of creditable witnesses, and upon these facts, your committee beg leave to remark as follows:

That such combination was obviously against sound policy and the public good, since under such combinations among individuals seeking public positions not genuine, merit, integrity, and capacity, but the opposite of these qualities, must in the long run, always become dominant to the detriment of the public service; and that still further, such agreement was a wrong to the friends of the other candidates as tending to prevent an honest election of officers for the organization of the House.

That as to the alleged pressure assigned by the clerk as a reason for not fulfilling his first agreement with Mr. Bamford and Mr. Sayre, the evidence shows that no such pressure existed; only two members solicited the appointment of the candidate chosen; one of the candidates being ignorant of his candidacy for the position to which he was appointed.

That the note transaction with all the incidents attending it betrayed a spirit of barter and trade and want of preception of the grave responsibilities of his office on the part of the clerk.

Your committee cannot be mistaken in concluding that with such a precedent once established we may expect at no distant day to see all the positions in the gift of the Legislature not bestowed upon the meritorious candidate, but upon the intriguing politician.

That the efforts made to procure the destruction of Bamford's note with Mr. Carpenter's endorsement, or the substitution for it of another was a confession that his conduct would not stand investigation, for if the note was given with honest intent, why seek its destruction?

If, on the other hand, when Mr. Carpenter endorsed it he contemplated in his own mind either its destruction or the prevention of its use as a legitimate value, then he was no less culpable than he proved himself in his final refusal to fulfill his engagements after that note had been extorted from Mr. Bamford.

That although, perhaps, Mr. Carpenter did not premeditate his acts in this unfortunate affair, yet we are constrained to believe that his experience in public affairs enabled him, or should have enabled him, to at once comprehend a situation he would be placed in by them, and that he had sufficient time to fully realize the consequence which must grow out of his acts.

Your committee concludes: From first to last the transaction which provoked this investigation was wholly disreputable, and that nothing remains for the House, if it would preserve its own character and reputation, but to condemn, in the most signal and emphatic manner so reprehensible an abuse of its privileges. That while thus condemning the motives and the acts of Mr. Carpenter, your committee cannot pass by without condemning the position of Mr. Sayre in the matter, in holding the note for the purpose of extorting from Mr. Carpenter more than the legitimate amount of money called for by it, or other considering than an honest holder of the note should seek or exact.

In the opinion of your Committee a mere censure of the offender would not amount to such a condemnation as the gravity of the offense demands. The rebuke must be so unmistakable and absolute, that hereafter there shall be no recurrence of a similar state of affairs.

Your Committee, in reporting, tender to the House the testimony which they have reduced to writng, and which is now in possession of their chairman, subject to the order of the House, and respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the office of the Clerk of this House be and the same is hereby declared vacant.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

The Special Committee to whom was referred the investigation of the charges that "certain subordinate clerkships of the House had been made the subject of barter and sale, and that at least one of them had been bestowed for a pecuniary consideration," beg leave respectfully to report:

That they have patiently and exhaustively investigated the charges in question, and have arrived at the following conclusions upon the evidence presented:

First, That the Clerk of the House, John Carpenter, Jr., entered into a combination with one Charles Y. Bamford, of Trenton; and one Stephen H. Sayre, of Deckertown, New Jersey, to assist him to secure his election as Clerk—he agreeing, in consideration of their active support in securing votes of members in his behalf, to appoint them as Journal Clerk and Assistant Journal Clerk, respectively; it being also agreed between them, that in case of his election as Clerk, his friends should unite with theirs, to prevent any nominations for those subordinate positions by the House.

Second, That, upon his election as Clerk by the House, Mr. Carpenter absolutely refused to fulfill his contract with the parties named, assigning as his reason for this refusal, that the pressure was so great from other parties as to compel the selection of other appointees.

Third, That notwithstanding the alleged heavy pressure, which as he claimed, prevented the fulfillment of his obligation, Mr. Carpenter did subsequently "determine that one of these gentlemen should have the Journal Clerkship," and selected a method by which "it might be ascertained which" of these gentlemen "should receive the appointment;" which method was that the two should draw lots for the office, the one securing the prize to give the other his note for five hundred dollars, Mr. Carpenter agreeing to endorse said note; upon the drawing Mr. Bamford secured the prize, and therefore gave his note to Mr. Sayre for the amount stated; it was endorsed by Mr. Carpenter, he agreeing that Mr. Bamford should have the clerkship; the note so endorsed, was offered for discount, Mr. Carpenter suggesting the banking house at which it should be offered; before the discount was had, the negotiation of the note was stopped by order of Mr. Carpenter, through a telegram from Anandale, that between the time when the note was given, and with Mr. Carpenter's endorsement was offered for discount, and the day on which the appointment of Journal Clerkship was finally made, efforts were made by Mr. Carpenter and his friends to secure the destruction of the note, and no less earnest efforts were made to prevent the transaction from reaching the public ear; it appearing in the testimony that those who had become cognizant of the facts, regarded the affair as disreputable and discreditable to all concerned.

Fifth. That notwithstanding this agreement to appoint Mr. Bamford as Journal Clerk, and in full knowledge of the further fact that Mr. Bamford's note for five hundred had been given to Mr. Sayre as a consideration for the appointment, Mr. Carpenter then gave that appointment to a third party.

Sixth. These, as briefly stated are the facts conclusive established by the concurrent testimony of creditable witnesses, and upon those facts, your committee beg leave to remark as follows:

1. Such combination was obviously against sound policy and the public good, since under such combinations among individuals seeking public positions, not genuine merit, integrity and capacity, but the opposite of these qualities, must in the long run, always become dominant to the detriment of the public service; and that still further, such agreement was a wrong to the friends of other candidates as tending to prevent an honest selection of officers for the organization of the House.

2 That as to the alleged purpose assigned by the clerk as a reason for not fullfilling his first agreement with Mr. Bamford and Mr. Sayre, the evidence shows that no such pressure existed—only two members solicited the appointment of the candidate chosen, one of the candidates being ignorant of his candidacy for the position to which he was appointed.

3 That the note transaction, with all the incidents attending it, betrayed a spirit of barter and trade, and a want of preception of the grave responsibilities of his office on the part of the clerk.

4. Your committee cannot be mistaken in concluding that with such a precedent ever established, we may expect at no distant day to see all the positions in the gift of the Legislature not bestowed upon the meritorious candidate, but upon the intriguing politician.

5. That the efforts made to procure the destruction of Bamford's note, with Mr. Carpenter's endorsement, or the substitution for it of another, was a confession that his conduct would not stand investigation, for if the note was given with honest intent, why seek its destruction?

If, on the other hand, when Mr. Carpenter endorsed it, he contemplated in his own mind either its destruction, or the prevention of its use as a legitimate value, then he was no less culpable than he proved himself in his final refusal to fulfill his engagements after that note had been extorted from Mr. Bamford.

That although, perhaps, Mr. Carpenter did not premeditate his acts in this unfortunate affair, yet, we are constrained to believe that his experience in public affairs enabled him, or should have enabled him to at once comprehend a situation he would be placed in by them, and that he had sufficient time to fully realize the consequences which must grow out of his acts.

Finally, your committee conclude, from first to last, the transaction which provoked this investigation was wholly disreputable, and that nothing remains for this House, if it would preserve its true character and reputation, but to condemn, in the most signal and emphatic manner, so reprehensible an abuse of its privileges. That, while thus condemning the motives and the acts of Mr. Carpenter, your committee cannot pass by without condemnation of the position of Mr. Sayre in the matter, in holding the note for the purpose of forcing from Mr. Carpentor more than the legitimate amount of money called for by it, or other consideration than an honest holder of the note should seek to exact. In the opinion of your committee a mere censure of the offender would not amount to such a condemnation as the gravity of the offence demands. The rebuke must be so unmistakable and absolute that hereafter there shall be no recurrence of a similar state of affairs.

Your committee, in reporting, tender to the House the testimony which they have reduced to writing, and which is now in possession of the chairman, subject to the order of the House, and respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the office of the Clerk of this House be and the same is hereby declared vacant.

VETO MESSAGE.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, February 8, 1875.

To the General Assembly:

I am constrained to return without approval, Assembly Bill, No. 65, entitled "An act to incorporate the Peters and Calhoun Company." It is intended by this bill to incorporate a manufacturing and trading company in the saddlery and harness business. Its provisions are not peculiar, nor objectionable, in themselves, but it belongs to a class of special legislation by which corporate privileges in an ordinary business are conferred, and which privileges in my judgment should be obtained only through general laws. We have now an act under which a corporation may be organized for the purpose of carrying on any lawful business whatever, except banking. If some of its clauses may be regarded as too exacting, a change could readily be made, so as to make it conform to the usual scope of such bills as this. In common business matters corporate powers should be procured with discrimination and under general laws. The waste of public time and money in special legislation like this and of a kindred character, is so great, and the true policy of the State is so decidely against it, as to induce me in this way, and at the first suitable opportunity to call attention to it, so that now the evil may be corrected, and the principal of general laws for corporate privileges in ordinary business be acted upon, if thought wise by the Legislature.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH D. BEDLE,
Governor.

Which was laid over for one day.

On motion of Mr. Morrow, the House adjourned.

signed by the President and members of this Board, and that the Clerk be directed to send certified copies to the Senate and House of Assembly, and to the Governor of this State.

A message was received from the Governor, by the hands of Mr. Hall, his Private Secretary, as follows:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, February 23, 1875.

MR. SPEAKER:

Assembly Bill No. 95, entitled

A supplement to an act entitled, "An act to incorporate the New York and Long Branch Railroad Company," passed April 8th, 1868.

To the General Assembly:

Assembly Bill No. 95, entitled, "A supplement to an act entitled an 'Act to incorporate the Long Branch Railroad Company,'" &c., has been filed in the office of the Secretary of the State without being signed, but in order that it may become a law, as far as it provisions are not void. Section three contains a proviso intended to authorize a purchase of, or consolidation with, connecting or intersecting roads, with the assent of the majority in interest of the stockholders. It is not within the power of the Legislature, by a subsequent act without the consent of all the stockholders, or a condemnation of the interest of dissenting stockholders, to compel them to engage in enterprises foreign to those contemplated by the charter under which stock was subscribed. That is now the settled law of this State, as decided in cases of Zabriskie v. The Hackensack and New York Railroad Company, 3 C. E. Green, 179, and Black v. the Delaware and Raritan Canal Company. That proviso being void I was unwilling to mark the bill approved, but inasmuch as there are other provisions in it of value, outside of section three, and as section three might be entirely excluded, if all the stockholders consented, I preferred to give the bill effect so far as it could be carried out, and therefore have not returned it. The same difficulty substantially exists in Assembly Bill No. 60, being a Supplement to the act entitled

"An act to incorporate the Eatontown and Sea Shore Turnpike Company," and a like course has been taken with that.

Respectfully,

JOSEPH D. BEDLE,

Governor.

Which was read and laid on the table.

Mr. Rabe, from the Special Committee on Salaries of Officers of the House, made the following report:

Hon. George O. Vanderbilt, Speaker, &c.:

SIR: Your Committee appointed by resolution of this House January 13th last, to ascertain the salaries paid to the officers of the House of Assembly, to what extent the same have been increased durnig the past few years, and also what reductions of the same may be made, beg leave to report as follows:

That there were paid to the officers of the House of Assembly the salaries as stated below, viz.:

	Sessions of 1870.	1874.
To the Clerk,	$2,100	$3,024
Asssistant Clerk,	1,250	1,800
Journal Clerk,	1,250	1,800
Assistant Journal Clerk,	1,500	1,800
Engrossing Clerk,	1,500	2,160
Sergeant-at-arms,	870	1,244
Assistant Sergeant-at-arms,	870	1,044
Two Galery Keepers,	480	676
Speaker's Secretary,	600	720
Eight Pages Each,	300	360

That in the year 1873 there was created the office of Clerk of the Committee on Engrossed Bills, and that officer was paid the sum of $1,200 for his services during the session of 1874. An act abolishing that office has already passed the House.

During the time between the years 1870 and up to and including the year 1874, various acts and joint resolutions were passed, increasing the salaries of one or the other or all of said officers and clerks. That in the year 1873, by item No. 28, in the act to defray the incidental expenses of the session of 1873, there was added to the salaries as then existing, an additional compensation of twenty per centum: this item was substantially re-enacted in 1874. Your Committee would recommend a reduction of the salaries, and to that end report Assembly Bill No. 105, which was referred to your committee, with several amendments. The salary of the Engrossing Clerk, as fixed by the bill, is $2,000; this, in view of the fact that the office of Clerk of the Committee on Engrossed Bills has been abolished, and a clear saving of $1,360 over what was paid during the year 1874 is thus affected.

In conclusion, your committee would say that the passage of the bill herewith reported, will effect a saving on the salaries of the officers and attendants of the House, of $5,298 over what was paid for the same, for the year 1874.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS, During the closing hours of the Forty-Third Congress, while the sundry civil appropriation bill was under consideration, an amendment was offered and agreed to as follows:

That section eight, of the act approved June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, and for other purposes be, and the same is hereby amended as follows: "Insert the word 'ounce' in lieu of the words 'two ounces,'" and

WHEREAS, The effect of this amendment is to increase the postage on transcient newspapers, periodicals, packages, and other printed matter sent through the mails, included in third class, double the rate of postage of the law of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, notwithstanding it was offered on the plea to "replenish the United States Treasury," and

WHEREAS, By the enacting of this law it compels all citizens of this country to pay double postage on transient newspapers and periodicals two, three, and four cents instead of one and two cents under the old law, therefore it bears hard on the people, especially the humble poor, and in these times when business is depressed, work is scarce, and labor low and poorly paid, and all are striving to economize in living, it seems ill-timed for imposition of additional taxes as created by this amendment. It was distinctly said by those who advocated the enacting of this law that it was for the purpose of replenishing the treasury, which implies increase of taxes. No department of the National Government comes so near the people as the Post Office Department, and where they are more willing to have a debt incurred if they receive corresponding benefit for the same, and the object of the Post Office Department should be to give accommodation and good mail facilities to the people. It is not expected that this department can be one of profit and revenue to the government, but by strict economy and good management it can give cheap and low rates of postage, which will necessarily create correspondence, scatter intelligence among the people by newspapers, and periodicals, promote education, and good generally be accomplished; and

WHEREAS, The mailing of small packages at a moderate rate of postage is a very great accommodation to the people, especially in remote towns and villages, not located on express routes. The new law doubles the rate of postage, which, in our opinion is too high, and

WHEREAS, While Congress has imposed on the people of the country additional high rates of postage it is to be regretted that they have also in part re-enacted the Franking Privilege, thus granting free use of the mails and privileges to a favored few at the expense of the many; therefore be it

Resolved, (House of Assembly concurring) that postage reforms ought not to go backward as is the case in the enacting of this new law. Justice and equity—alike demand that the law of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and seventy four, regulating the postage on transient newspapers, periodicals, packages, etc., be restored by repealing the amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, adopted March third, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, increasing double rates of postage and that on the Assembling of Congress in December next. We do recommend and respectfully ask that this to be done.

Resolved, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to use their influence for the repeal of the law enacted March third, eighteen hundred and seventy-five.

Resolved, That a copy of these Resolutions signed by the Governor, be sent to each of our Senators and representatives in Congress to be presented to their respective bodies.

SENATE CHAMBER,
TRENTON, March 25, 1875.

MR. SPEAKER:—

I am directed by the Senate to inform the House of Assembly that the Senate has passed the following:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, The Treasurer of the State of New Jersey in his report of credits and securities belonging to the State fund, reports bonds of the several counties of the State, for the surplus revenue of the United States, seven hundred and fifty-four thousand six hundred and seventy dollars and forty-four cents, which stand on his books as a loan to the counties and due the State, and the United States treasurer holds certificates against the State of New Jersey for the same, which stands charged on the books of the United States treasurer with that amount, showing an indebtedness of this State to the United States for the amount named above, and the treasurer of this State has reported annually, for nearly forty years, these securities, showing no interest paid by the counties to the State, neither has there been any interest paid by the State to the United States on the same; and whereas, the said securities due by the counties to the State are for the amount of surplus revenue deposited with the State of New Jersey, under an act of Congress of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, ordering "That the money which shall be in the treasury of the United States on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and thirty-seven, reserving the sum of five million dollars, shall be deposited with the several states, in proportion to their respective representation in the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States;" and whereas, the State of New Jersey, under said act, received as her proportion of the said surplus revenue, the sum of seven hundred and sixty-four thousand six hundred and seventy dollars and forty-four cents, and distributed the same among the counties of the State on the ratio of their valuations for taxations, receiving their bonds for the same; and whereas, no call has ever been made upon this State, or upon any other of the states for the return of this money so deposited; and whereas, in the settlement of the claims of this State, against the treasury of the United States for expenses incurred in raising and forwarding troops during the late unhappy civil war, no offset was claimed by the United States treasurer on account of the said money so deposited with this state in eighteen hundred and thirty-seven, the same course having been pursued with the other states, and in no case any claim made for credit or offset on account of said money so deposited; and whereas, the general opinion was, at the time the law was enacted and still is, that the said deposits were only so in name, but in reality was a distribution of an excess of taxation levied upon the people of the United States; (in the debates in Congress, at the time the act was under consideration, it was spoken of as "returning these deposits to the people by whom they were paid," and was treated as a "distribution in its consequences," and, said a member, "It is viewed as an indirect distribution, those who voted for it considering it a mere deposit measure;") and whereas, the said money so deposited still appears on the books of the treasurer of the United States as a charge against the several States, and as an available fund at command of the United States treasury; therefore be it

Resolved, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to present the following resolution for action by Congress, and use their influence for its passage:

"WHEREAS, The thirteenth section of the act of Congress of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, was so construed at the United States treasury, as authorizing a deposit with the states of that amount of money from the treasury, which amount has, since said deposit was made, been included in the balance of the treasury from year to year; therefore,

"Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the secretary of the treasury be and hereby is authorized and directed to cause the proper entries to be made on the books of the department, to relieve the several states from all liability to the government on account of the respective amounts deposited with them in accordance with the provisions of said act."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the governor, be sent to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress to be presented to their respective bodies.

To the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

From Committee appointed under resolution adopted April 1st, 1875, to examine as to the sufficiency of the bond of $300,000, offered by Josephus Sooy, Jr., for the faithful performance of his duties &c., as Treasurer of the State of New Jersey, respectfully reports that it has examined under oath all the gentlemen who as surities sign said bond except two, touching the value of their respective estates. This examination has satisfied your Committee that the gentlemen who sign said bond are worth in real estate situated in the State of New Jersey, over and above the incumberance thereon, about $325,000, and that the total value of the combined estates of the bondsmen real and personal, in the State of New Jersey and elsewhere is about $1,250,000, much of this last mentioned property is out of the State of New Jersey, much is perishable by nature and much may be easily disposed of by its owners if the owners should so please. These facts and as well the high character of the gentlemen who sign the bond, your Committee have deemed material to a fair determination as to the sufficiency of the bond tendered by Mr. Sooy, and will constrain to report that the bond is sufficient, and they hereby respectfully advise the approval of the same by this House. Your Committee beg to add that this pressing duties unfits members in this House and the great amount of work required has decided it to determine not to undertake to ascertain the present condition of the State Treasury, as the resolution under which your Committee was appointed contemplates.

AUSTIN H. PATTERSON,
Clerk.

Mr. Carscallen offered the following:

WHEREAS, The ninety-ninth session of the New Jersey Legislature is rapidly drawing to a close; and, whereas, it is fit and proper that the members of the House should give public expression to their feeling of respect toward the Speaker and officers, and also to acknowledge their services; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of this House do cheerfully join in expressing the respect they entertain for the Hon. George O. Vanderbilt, Speaker of the present Legislature; that they most cordially tender to him their thanks for the able and impartial manner in which he has discharged the laborious duties of his position, and they, one and all, wish for him success in all his future undertakings, and a long life of happiness and prosperity.

In reply to the complimentary resolution, Mr. Vanderbilt spoke as follows:

Gentlemen of the Assembly:

It is no unmeaning formality that I utter when I assure you that the approving resolution just passed, and the generous spirit of its wording, affords me a satisfaction beyond my ability of expression. In my experience in the duties so suddenly devolved upon me, I dared hardly hope, however anxious, to be just; to pass through the perplexing ordeal so as to receive in its final scene your recorded approval of the manner in which I have discharged the important trust.

The post of presiding officer of this House is one of high honor, and corresponding responsibility. Honorable, because the Legislature is the supreme power of the State; responsible, because the Speaker is largely held accountable for the manner in which its proceedings are conducted.

Perplexing questions of parliamentary law, requiring prompt decision, are among the liabilities of the moment, and in which the most honest intentions cannot always hope to be just.

But the most gratifying and satisfactory of my reflections on the eve of severing our associations of the session, consists in the fact that partisan spirit has engendered no animosities, and that, amid the manifold duties of my position, your sympathy and assistance has ever been generously extended to make that easy and agreeable which otherwise might have been painful and perplexing.

Our work as legislators is finished, and is entered upon the recorded history of the State, and I believe its errors are few. The people who entrusted us with power are to be the final arbiters upon our actions, and we have reason to hope that "Well done, good and faithful servants," will be the verdict of their scrutiny.

And now, without one embittered memory of this session, I again extend my most grateful thanks for the distinction you have so generously conferred upon me, for the charity that turned no critical eye upon my delinquencies, and for the patriotism and manhood that avoided the introduction of all mere partisan tactics to embarrass and annoy. May you each and all return to your homes to find health and happiness among those whom you most love, and may the Great Ruler of the universe continue His protecting care to our State and people.

And now, for the present, it only remains to say farewell, a word that has been, and is, a sound that makes us linger yet. Farewell.

Mr. Kirk offered the following:

Resolved, That the thanks of the members of this House is hereby extended to the officers of this House for their assiduous attention to the duties of their office, and for their uniform suavity and affability to each and every member of the 99th Legislature.

Mr. Torbet offered the following:

Resolved, That the thanks of this House are hereby extended to the efficient Clerk, Austin H. Patterson, and other officers of this House, for the prompt and courteous manner in which they have discharged their respective duties.

Mr. Gill offered the following:

Resolved, That the courtesies and compliments of this body be extended to Gen. Joseph Hooker, an officer of the U. S. army, who distinguished himself during the late rebellion, who is now on the floor of this House, and that one and all greet him with the hands of fellowship.

Resolved, That the thanks of this House are hereby tendered to the reporters of the press and telegraph operators, for the manner in which they have reported the proceedings of this House during the session of 1875.

Resolved, That the thanks of this House are hereby tendered to Naar, Day and Naar, for the prompt manner in which they have printed and furnished the members of this House of Assembly.

Mr. Gill, from the committee appointed to wait on the Governor, read the following report:

That they had waited on His Excellency, and that he informed them that he had no further communication to make.

Thereupon the House of Assembly proceeded to the Senate Chamber, and both Houses of the New Jersey Legislature, for the session of 1875, adjourned sine die.

AUSTIN H. PATTERSON,
Clerk.

120. That the action of the minority in this Legislature, in refusing to go into Joint Meeting, shows not only contempt for the will of the people of New Jersey, as expressed at the ballot box, but also plainly manifested a disregard for the letter and spirit of the constitution and laws; that the factious and revolutionary course pursued by the minority has tended directly to unduly and unnecessarily prolong this session of the Legislature, to clog the wheels of legislation, and injuriously effect the true interests of the whole State; and that the Republican party, as represented by this minority, has thereby incurred the unqualified condemnation of every man who believes in the acknowledged principles of right and justice, and that the expressed will of the people should be respected and obeyed—1323.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS.

1. (House of Assembly concurring), That a joint committee of three persons from the Senate and five from the House of Assembly be appointed to wait on the Governor-elect, and to make such arrangements as may be necessary and proper for his inauguration, and that the Senate has on its part appointed the following Senators: Hopkins, Abbott and Potts. In which the concurrence of the House is requested—17.

2. WHEREAS, In a time of profound peace, a body of Federal soldiers, under command of a general of the United States Army, invaded the Legislative chamber in which the Assembly of the State of Louisiana had lawfully convened, and removed by force persons claiming seats in that body; and

WHEREAS, The Administration at Washington has approved of this usurpation of the powers which belongs exclusively to the Assembly by the Constitution of the State of Louisiana;

Therefore be it resolved, (the Senate concurring), That this act is a usurpation of power on the part of the present administration at Washington, which should receive the emphatic condemnation of a free people, and in the name of the State of New Jersey, we protest against the same as an outrage upon the rights of the people of a sovereign State.

That we tender our sympathies to the people of Louisiana in their present deplorable political condition—54.

3. (The House of Assembly concurring), That when the House adjourn this morning, it will adjourn to meet at half-past eleven, A. M. at Taylor Hall, in the City of Trenton—91.

4. (That the House of Assembly concurring), That when the Senate and General Assembly adjourn this day, they will adjourn to meet in their respective chambers, in the State House, at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning—91.

5. (The Senate concurring), That the time for the introduction of private bills be extended to the 22d of February, inclusive—355.

6. (House of Assembly concurring), That this Legislature adjourn sine die on the fourth day of March next, at twelve o'clock, noon.

7. WHEREAS, A Joint Resolution was passed by the Legislature of New Jersey, at its session in the year 1872, appointing a commission in relation to the construction of an artificial harbor on Crow Shoal, Cape May, for the protection of small class vessels, and whereas the work of said commission has not been completed; therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Assembly (Senate concurring), That the Governor be and is hereby authorized to draw on the Treasury for an amount not exceeding five hundred dollars, out of any money heretofore appropriated to be paid to said committee, for the purpose of aiding and defraying their reasonable and necessary expenses—383.

8. (The Senate concurring) that the two Houses meet in joint meeting in the Assembly Chamber, at 10 o'clock A. M., on Wednesday, the 17th of February, 1875, for the purpose of appointing a State Treasurer and other State officers—268.

9. (House concurring) that a Joint Committee be appointed to prepare a bill for the submission of the Constitutional Amendments to a vote of the people of this State—544.

10. (The Senate concurring), that the two Houses will meet in Joint Meeting in the Assemby Chamber on Thursday, March 18, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of electing a State Treasurer, and other State and County officers—805.

11. WHEREAS, During the closing hours of the Forty-third Congress, while the sundry civil appropriation bill was under consideration, an amendment was offered and agreed to as follows:

That section eight, of the act approved June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, and for other purposes be, and the same is herby amended as follows: "Insert the word 'ounce' in lieu of the words 'two ounces,'" and

WHEREAS, The effect of this amendment is to increase the postage on transient newspapers, periodicals, packages, and other printed matter sent through the mails, included in third class, double the rate of postage of the law of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, notwithstanding it was offered on the plea to "replenish the United States Treasury," and

WHEREAS, By the enacting of this law it compels all citizens of this country to pay double postage on transient newspapers and periodicals two, three, and four cents, instead of one and two cents under the old law, therefore it bears hard on the people, especially the humble poor, and in these times when business is depressed, work is scarce, and labor low and poorly paid, and all are striving to economize in living, it seems illtimed for imposition of additional taxes as created by this amendment. It was distinctly said by those who advocated the enacting of this law that it was for the purpose of replenishing the treasury, which implies increase of taxes. No department of the National Government come so near the people as the Post Office Department, and where they are more willing to have a debt incurred if they receive corresponding benefit for the same, and the object of the Post Office Department should be to give accommodation and good mail facilities to the people. It is not expected that this department can be one of profit and revenue to the government, but by strict economy and good management it can give cheap and low rates of postage, which will necessarily create correspondence, scatter intelligence among the people by newspapers, and periodicals, promote education, and good generally be accomplished; and

WHEREAS, The mailing of small packages at a moderate rate of postage is a very great accommodation to the people, especially in remote towns and villages, not located on express routes. The new law doubles the rate of postage, which, in our opinion is too high, and

WHEREAS, While Congress has imposed on the people of the country additional high rates of postage it is to be regretted that they have also in part re-enacted the Franking Privilege, thus granting free use of the mails and privileges to a favored few at the expense of the many: therefore be it

Resolved, (House of Assembly concurring) that postage reforms ought not to go backward as is the case in the enacting of this new law. Justice an equity alike demand that the law of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, regulating the postage on transient newspapers, periodicals, packages, etc., be restored by repealing the amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, adopted March third, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, increasing double rates of postage and that on the Assembling of Congress in December next. We do recommend and respectfully ask that this be done.

Resolved, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to use their influence for the repeal of the law enacted March third, eighteen hundred and seventy-five.

Resolved, That a copy of these Resolutions signed by the Governor, be sent to each of our Senators and representatives in Congress to be presented to their respective bodies—875.

12. That (the Senate concurring) that this House adjourn sine die on the sixth day of April next—930.

13. WHEREAS, Joseph Sooy, Jr., was appointed State Treasurer, in joint meeting, February, 13, 1873, and gave a bond in the sum of $50,000, which was approved by the Senate March 12, 1873, and by the Assembly March 25, 1873; and whereas, he was reappointed State Treasurer in joint meeting February 5, 1874, and presented a bond in the sum of $50,000, which was approved by the Assembly March 18, 1874; and whereas, the Senate on March 27, 1874, refused to approve said bond, and never have approved the same; and whereas, by an act approved March 27, 1874, the Treasurer was required to give bonds in sufficient securities to be approved by the Legislature in the sum of $300,000; and whereas, the Legislature, in 1874, adjourned without requiring any bond from the Treasurer whatever; and whereas, some of the sureties in the bond approved in 1873 are reported to be now insolvent, and there are also doubts as to whether there is any bond now in existence by which any one is legally bound for the faithful performance of the duties of the office of Treasurer; and whereas, there are very large sums of money in the Treasury, and it is proper that the Treasurer should give bonds as provided by the act of March 27, 1874; therefore.

Resolved, (the House of Assembly concurring), That the Treasurer be and he is hereby required, immediately to present to the Legislature a proper bond in the sum of $300,000, for their action, in accordance with the provisions of the act of March 27, 1874—982.

14. WHEREAS, The Treasurer of the State of New Jersey in his report of credits and securities belonging to the State fund, reports bonds of the several counties of the State, for the surplus revenue of the United States, seven hundred and fifty-four thousand six hundred and seventy dollars and forty-four cents, which stand on his books as a loan to the counties and due the State, and the United States treasurer holds certificates against the State of New Jersey for the same, which stands charged on the books of the United States treasurer with that amount, showing an indebtedness of this State to the United States for the amount named above, and the treasurer of this State has reported annually, for nearly forty years, these securities, showing no interest paid by the counties to the State, neither has there been any interest paid by the State to the United States on the same; and whereas, the said securities due by the counties to the State are for the amount of surplus revenue deposited with the State of New Jersey, under an act of Congress of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, ordering "That the money which shall be in the treasury of the United States on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and thirty-seven, reserving the sum of five million dollars, shall be deposited with the several states, in proportion to their respective representation in the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States;" and whereas, the State of New Jersey, under said act, received as her proportion of the said surplus revenue, the sum of seven hundred and sixty-four thousand six hundred and seventy dollars and forty-four cents, and distributed the same among the counties of the State on the ratio of their valuations for taxations, receiving their bonds for the same; and whereas, no call has ever been made upon this State, or upon any other of the states for the return of this money so deposited; and whereas, in the settlement of the claims of this State, against the treasury of the United States for expenses incurred in raising and forwarding troops during the late unhappy civil war, no offset was claimed by the United States treasurer on account of the said money so deposited with this state in eighteen hundred and thirty-seven, the same course having been pursued with the other states, and in no case any claim made for credit or offset on account of said money so deposited; and whereas, the general opinion was, at the time the law was enacted and still is, that the said deposits were only so in name, but in reality was a distribution of an excess of taxation levied upon the people of the United States; (in the debates in Congress, at the time the act was under consideration, it was spoken of "as returning these deposits to the people by whom they were paid," and was treated as a "distribution in its consequences," and, said a member, "It is viewed as an indirect distribution, those who voted for it considering it a mere deposit measure ;") and whereas, the said money so deposited still appears on the books of the treasurer of the United States as a charge against the several States, and as an available fund at command of the United States treasury; therefore be it

Resolved, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to present the following resolution for action by Congress, and use their influence for its passage :

"WHEREAS, The thirteenth section of the act of Congress of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, was so construed at the United States treasury, as authorizing a deposit with the states of that amount of money from the treasury, which amount has, since said deposit was made, been included in the balance of the treasury from year to year ; therefore,

"Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the secretary of the treasury be and hereby is authorized and directed to cause the proper entries to made on the books of the department, to relieve the several states from all liability to the government on account of the respective amounts deposited with them in accordance with the provisions of said act."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the governor, be sent to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress to be presented to their respective bodies—991.

15. WHEREAS, It has come to the information of the Legislature that certain prisoners have escaped from the State Prison ; therefore,

Resolved, (Senate concurring), That a committee, to consist of two members of the Senate and three members of the House, be appointed to investigate the present management of the State Prison ; and also the expediency of introducing a system of telegraphing to facilitate the communication between the prison and the city, with power to sit during and after the session ; and, if the latter, to report to the people through the Governor—1138.

16. The Senate concurring, that the Legislature adjourn sine die April 4, 12 o'clock, noon--1145.

17. (The Senate concurring), that the Legislature go into Joint Meeting this afternoon at four o'clock, to elect officers generally contemplated by such meeting—1235.
