Fairness Formula would treat kids equally
State Sen. Joseph Pennacchio
Daily Journal

As a state senator with more than 15 years of experience serving in this Legislature, I have long held the belief that politics and ZIP codes should not dictate how much school aid each child receives.

I cannot in good conscience stand by another minute while this Legislature refuses to deal directly with school-funding reform, leaving it up to a commission that will take too long to come up with a solution. This is a poor leadership decision that will likely lead to a billion-dollar tax increase for our residents.

We do not need a commission on school funding. There are better solutions, including Gov. Chris Christie's Fairness Formula, that would fix this problem, treat every child equally, and provide property tax relief to homeowners across the state.

The Legislature needs the courage to right this wrong. Our children deserve better.
