ABC 'This Week' Transcript: Former President Bill Clinton

Clinton: And the only point I tried to make was that we ought to have a lot of political dissent – a lot of political argument. Nobody is right all the time. But we also have to take responsibility for the possible consequences of what we say. And we shouldn't demonize the government or its public employees or its elected officials. We can disagree with them. We can harshly criticize them.

But when we turn them into an object of demonization, you know, you – you increase the number of threats.

But I worry about these threats against the president and the Congress. And I worry about more careless language even against – some of which we've seen against the Republican governor in New Jersey, Governor Christie.
