Transcript:

Governor Christie: Listen I just tried to assure them that we were here and that we had lots of folks here from state, county and municipal government to help them and the experience that this has allowed me to have over time as Governor is to learn the kind of things that really do truly reassure people and I think at times like this what people are most concerned about is being forgotten. That somehow there will be a lot of attention on them moment something like this happens and then in the days afterwards people forget. And that's why I'm here, to make sure that people know that we will not forget. And we will make sure that we do everything we can to try to assist them to have this transitional period be one that's as short as it can be and as safe and as comfortable as it can be for themselves and their families and then to move on from it from there.
