Family Readiness Group recognizes volunteers

By Spc. Pablo Vizcaino, 444th Mobile Public Affairs Detachment

For Linda Pagan, spending a weekend outside a ShopRite collecting money to buy Valentine's Day cards for deployed Soldiers is just part of life as a Family Readiness Group volunteer.

Pagan was among 30 volunteers recognized at the Family Programs Awards luncheon on Oct. 3 for exemplary service in support of the National Guard's 50th Infantry Brigade Combat Team deployment.

Of those recognized, Pagan and Nancy Lacorte stood out. Each logged more than 600 volunteer hours. Both have sons who deployed to Iraq with the brigade.

Although both Pagan and Lacorte said supporting deployed Soldiers is the most important mission of the Family Readiness Groups, they believe the organization is obligated to help people with no military or veteran connections understand there are still New Jersey National Guard troops being sent into harm's way.

Lacorte recalled a woman who watched the 50th Chemical Company homecoming in Somerset and then asked: "Is the war over?"

"People need to understand that we are still deploying Soldiers and still have families left at home," Lacorte said.

Although volunteering involves long hours and hard work – think five-hour visits to the post office to mail hundreds of holiday cards – there are some fringe benefits.

Pagan's efforts to get celebrities behind the support effort led to a recent special package from her favorite New York Giant: quarterback Eli Manning.

"He sent an autographed picture and everything," she said.

At the Family Programs Awards luncheon held in Green Brook on Sunday, volunteers Nancy Lacorte and Linda Pagan, get together for a photo after receiving Presidential Service awards for providing more than 600 hours volunteering to the Soldiers and families of the 50th Infantry Brigade Combat Team. Both women had sons who deployed to Iraq with the 50th IBCT, which prompted them to volunteer.

Final step in post deployment takes place this month

By Sgt. Wayne Woolley, DMAVA Public Affairs Specialist

The 50th Infantry Brigade Combat Team finished their historic deployment to Iraq in May. But the tour won't really end until the brigade's nearly 3,000 Soldiers have readjusted to the lives they left behind.

A final, formal step on that journey is taking place this month as the brigade's Soldiers undergo the last of its Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program sessions. The third and final session is the 90-day post deployment health assessment. More than 1,000 Soldiers went through a three-day health screening at Fort Dix this past weekend and the rest are scheduled for later this month.

To Pfc. Peter Polo of the 102nd RSTA, the health screening meant a symbolic end to the deployment.

"Now that we're doing this, we know it's the last step before we go back to our regular drill schedule," he said. "We're all just happy to be home."

Maj. Gen. Glenn K. Rieth, the Adjutant General, addressed the Soldiers gathered at Fort Dix on Saturday and told them the health screening was crucial.

"This is an opportunity to medically reset you," Rieth said. "If you have a medical issue, take care of it now. Get it documented. I challenge you to ensure that the system works for you ... Your decision to serve puts you in an elite one percent of the population, I guarantee that the rest of America owes you something."

The health screening followed a Yellow Ribbon Reintegration program at 60 days that focused on mental health. The first Yellow Ribbon event involved the Soldiers and their families and focused on veterans benefits and a job fair.

Rieth told the Soldiers that while overseas deployments remain certain in the face of ongoing conflicts, the New Jersey National Guard should be able to focus its efforts on domestic missions, at least for now.

DMAVA Green

By Tech Sgt. Barb Harbison, DMAVA Public Affairs Office

Do you know the little triangle with a number in it on the bottom of the plastic container? Here is a list of the seven categories of plastics, what is commonly made from each group and what they can be recycled into for their next life. Please check your local recycling rules for what you can put out at the curb on recycling day.

1 PET (polyethylene terephthalate): Soda bottles; recycled into pillow fill.

2 HDPE (high-density polyethylene): Plastic milk bottles, detergent bottles; recycled into new detergent bottles.

3 PVC (polyvinyl chloride): Take-out boxes, shampoo; recycled into drainage and irrigation pipes.

4 LDPE (low-density polyethylene): Grocery bags, shrink wrap; recycled into new bags.

5 PP (polypropylene): Yogurt containers, bottle caps; recycled into plastic lumber.

6 PS (polystyrene): Packing peanuts; recycled into plastic lumber, cassette-tape boxes.

7 Other: Includes squeezable ketchup bottles and microwavable dishes; these items can't be recycled.

As the days get shorter, those electric and heating bills can start to rise. Here is a note that may help you save on your electric bill. Up to 10 percent of your electricity bill comes from powering appliances and home electronics that are turned off. Known as "phantom load," or "vampire power," it is the power used to keep your TV, stereo and other remote-control-operated devices in standby mode; run the digital clock on your microwave; and illuminate the little LED light on your cell-phone charger. One way to reduce vampire power is to plug these items into a power strip that can be switched off when they're not in use.

Keep green!

State Employees

Employees charitable campaign begins

By Paul Serdiuk, DMAVA Campaign Chairperson

The New Jersey State Employees Charitable Campaign (ECC) has officially kicked off its 2009/2010 Campaign which will run through December 2009. Maj. Gen. Glenn K. Rieth's letter expressed his commitment to this very worthwhile activity.

The ECC provides each of us with an annual opportunity to voluntarily help others and ourselves by donating to any of the 1,500 participating agencies and organizations listed in the ECC Code Book. Contributions may be made by payroll deductions each year or by cash, or check.

Over the years, our Department has been most successful in this endeavor because of your personal generosity and concern. We urge every employee to support this worthy cause.

To reduce the cost of printing extra code books we have been asked to share books. If you did not receive one, go to www.njsecc.org. This year the organizations are listed alphabetically by county.

Please remember, your contribution today means a lot to the people in need tomorrow.

Thank you. For more information, contact Paul Serdiuk at 609-530-6878.

New retirement applications, procedures

The Division of Pensions and Benefits is implementing significant changes to retirement application procedures for members of the Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS), Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF), Police and Firemen's Retirement System (PFRS), and State Police Retirement System (SPRS).

There will be a new section listing "Terms and Conditions of Retirement" that employees will now need to review and sign off on, in order for their application to be accepted. If a member is applying through MBOS, there will be a check box the employee must check off, stating they have read, understood and agree to the terms and conditions.

Also, for retirements other than Deferred Retirement* the Division of Pensions and Benefits will no longer accept an application more than one year prior to the retirement date. For more information on these changes, a copy of the certified letter from Pensions and Benefits is available as a file attachment with an announcement on the DMAVANet site under Human Resources. If you wish to obtain a copy of the New Application for Retirement Allowance form, please visit the DMAVANet site under Human Resources > Benefit Forms, and Helpful Forms, as well as on the Pensions and Benefits website.

"Save for Retirement Week" designated for October 18-24

Congress has again passed a resolution to designate national "Save for Retirement Week" October 18-24. In New Jersey, the Division of Pensions and Benefits supports this effort to encourage Americans to save more for retirement. This year, we're using this opportunity to remind employees to save the environment as they save for retirement.

The New Jersey State Employees Deferred Compensation Plan (NJSEDCP) is a great way for employees to save for retirement. It also gives them opportunities to save the environment, through actions such as opting for online account statements.

Employees can also get "Save the environment, Save for your retirement" reusable bags from NJSEDCP Education Consultants during National Save for Retirement Week.

- Employees who are enrolling a child as a dependent in the SHBP for the first time are required to provide a photocopy of the child's birth certificate showing the employee's name as a parent.

If the employee's name is not on the birth certificate, the birth certificate and a copy of the top half of the front page of the employee's most recently filed federal tax return (Form 1040*) that lists the child may be submitted.

Employees may black out all financial information shown on the form but the last 4 digits of any Social Security numbers.*

Note: Additional documentation requirement information can be found on the SHBP Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/pensions/shbp.htm. If you wish to enroll any dependents in the SHBP, and are not sure what documentation is required, please contact Benefits Administrator, Lisa J. Dandrea in Human Resources at 609-530-6888.

The State Health Benefits Commission has approved health, dental, and prescription drug plan rates for the 2010 plan year. The cost for health and prescription remains the same at 1.5 percent of the employee's salary. There will be a slight increase to the dental plan rates for state employees. Rate increases will be effective Jan. 2, 2010. These rates may be found on the SHBP Web site at: http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/pensions/hb_open_enrollment_2009/dental-state-biweekly.pdf.

VA warns Veterans of telephone prescription scam

WASHINGTON (Sept. 17, 2009) - The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is warning Veterans not to give credit card numbers over the phone to callers claiming to update VA prescription information.

"America's Veterans have become targets in an inexcusable scam that dishonors their service and misrepresents the Department built for them," said Dr. Gerald Cross, VA's Under Secretary for Health. "VA simply does not call Veterans and ask them to disclose personal financial information over the phone."

Veteran Service Organizations have brought to VA's attention that callers are misrepresenting the VA to gain personal information over the phone. They say VA recently changed procedures for dispensing prescriptions and ask for the Veteran's credit card number.

"VA has not changed its processes for dispensing prescription medicines," Cross said. "Nor has VA changed its long-standing commitment to protect the personal information of this nation's Veterans."

Veterans with questions about VA services should contact the nearest VA medical center or call, toll-free, 1-877-222-8387.

108th Airman singing for AMC Icon show at Scott AFB

Master Sgt. Lisel White of the 108th Air Refueling Wing will be traveling to Scott Air Force Base, Ill., later this month to take part in the AMC Icon Show.

Several months ago she competed in the local AMC Icon Show at McGuire Air Force Base and was named top Airman in the competition. She will be competing against 12 other Airmen from the Air Mobility Command at Scott.

The AMC Icon is loosely based on American Idol and designed to showcase the vocal talents of the AMCE communities. Each of the installations held contests during the July/August timeframe and were open to authorized participants 18 years old and above. Everyone – spouses, kids and Airmen themselves – were eligible to win the base-level contests, but only the AMCE Air Force members were permitted to represent their base in the competition.

Participants are competing for $2,000 in cash prizes and the winner receives a special invitation to audition with the Air Force Tops in Blue – the Air Force's premier entertainment showcase, according to Scott Black of the AMC Icon Program Marketing.

White has had lots of practice singing the national anthem at the many 108th functions and sings regularly at her church and other events. We wish her luck at the AMC Icon Show.
