Veterans Haven - Serving Since 1995

By Staff Sgt. Barb Harbison, NJDMAVA/PA

Since January 1995, more than 460 homeless veterans have come through the doors of Veterans Haven in Winslow, in the search of a new start in their lives.

Veterans Haven is a two year Transitional Housing Program for homeless veterans. Up to 54 veterans are housed in the coed residence. Each veteran has his or her own room with sink, bed, armoire, dresser, night table, television and VCR. Two bathrooms with toilets, showers and bathtubs as well as laundry facilities are located on each floor.

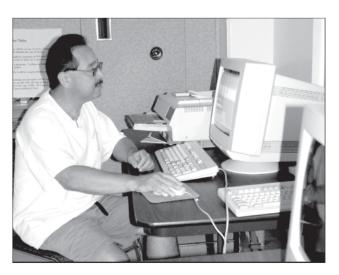

Veterans are given up to two years to get their lives back on track – with lots of help from the staff. During their stay, residents must attend group sessions and other meetings that address subjects such as life skills, job resumes, job searching, alcohol and drug abuse and anger management. The men and women must be drug free when they arrive at the program and they are subject to random testing. Vets who break this rule are asked to leave the program.

Veterans are given the first five months after the initial in processing to take care of any medical and legal problems, as well as begin their job or school searches; most are working by the end of their third month, according to Robert Durante, Superintendent, Veterans Haven. "By the end of the seventh month, the veteran must be employed," said Durante. He added that the job should be full-time and meaningful to enable the veteran to pay for all their dayto-day expenses once they are back on their own.

Durante noted that the average stay of the residents at Veterans Haven is nine months. "Our success rate is 69 percent; success (meaning) being fully employed, living on their own and free of substance abuse. The average age of the veterans participating in the program is 44 and the average education level is 14 years of school.

To be eligible to enter Veterans Haven, applicants must be considered veterans by the standards set forth by the Veterans Administration and must be eligible for veterans' benefits and specifically medical care. Residents use the

Vineland Reconstruction Update

By the Veteran Journal Staff

Phase One of the reconstruction of the Vineland Veterans Memorial Home has been completed.

This construction includes all the site preparation, underground utility work and demolition of a portion of Unit 2.

During construction, the facility had to reduce resident capacity by 50 beds. This was completed through attrition and no residents were displaced. Safe movement around the site has been the biggest challenge among residents and staff. Parking also presented some difficulty. Through the support of service organizations, veteran organizations and individuals, golf carts were donated to accommodate transportation of staff, residents and visitors around facility grounds.

Phase Two of the construction has begun. Foundation walls have been poured and steel erection began Aug. 18. The new facility is taking shape and visitors are encouraged to take the opportunity to visit the site and view the progress.

The Quality Review Board meets monthly to review progress. The board is comprised of NJDMAVA representatives, facility staff, Nadaskay Kopelson Architects, and the construction management team at Gilbane. Sub-committees have been formed for the purchase of furnishings and communication systems. The contractors and the construction management team hold progress meetings weekly.

Although weather has hampered job progress, contractors have been working diligently to make up for lost time to complete the project as close to scheduled completion date as possible.

Documentation to substantiate disability is required.

Eligibility criteria are established by legislation enacted by the N.J. State Legislature and signed into law by the Governor. Personnel of the N.J. Dept. of Military and Veterans Affairs administer the eligibility determination in accordance with laws enacted through the legislative process.

The New Jersey Veteran Journal is an official publication of the New Jersey Department of Military and Veterans Affairs and is intended to serve New Jersey's veterans, their families, friends, and concerned individuals and groups. Message From The Governor

New Jersey will never forget the sacrifices of the more than 615,000 of our state's veterans who answered the call to duty. American servicemen have done more to spread the ideals of freedom across the globe in the last century than anyone, in any time, in all of human history.

I am happy to report that – despite unprecedented budget shortfalls – not a single state veterans program or service has been affected, let alone cut. This administration remains committed to ensuring the best possible quality of life for New Jersey's veterans. We are doing all we can to support your needs.

We are hard at work hiring nurse recruiters to help increase the staff at the state's hospitals, institutions and veterans' homes. I am especially pleased at the success of our Comprehensive Nursing Shortage Task Force. Comprised of public and private sector experts, this task force identified strategies to actively address New Jersey's nursing shortage. They have already made recommendations to attain and retain quality health care professionals for our three Veterans Nursing Homes. Last year, the Task Force submitted its report and shortly thereafter, implementation of their recommendations began in earnest, with $250,000 earmarked to support some of these initiatives. Earlier this summer, I directed The Adjutant General, Brig. Gen. Glenn K. Rieth to implement more of their proposals so we can hire the nurses necessary to open the Old Glory Wing at the Menlo Park Veterans Memorial Home.

Also, through a growing partnership with the United States Department of Veterans Affairs, medical services have been made more accessible at New Jersey's ten DVA outpatient clinics. This cooperation between federal and state agencies has proven to be a great success and an invaluable benefit to many New Jersey veterans and their families. In July 2003, we completed a $5.2 million improvement project at the General Doyle Cemetery.

I am proud to say that we have broken ground on a state-of-the-art expanded facility at the New Jersey Veterans Memorial Home in Vineland. This $52.4 million-dollar improvement project will provide South Jersey vets with the best possible long-term residential care. The new, 300-bed facility will consist of 240 long-term care beds, a 32-bed special needs unit and a 28-bed assisted living unit. The assisted living facility will be the first of its kind, within a state veterans nursing home, in the entire nation. Construction began on the site earlier this year. By the spring of 2005, we will begin to move residents into the new home and demolish the remaining, obsolete buildings.

Throughout my career, I have always been an unwavering advocate for the brave men and women who served and sacrificed for our nation. As the son of a Marine Corps Drill instructor, and as the namesake of my uncle who was awarded the Navy Cross posthumously for extraordinary heroic action at Iwo Jima, I recognize our moral obligation to serve our veteran community.

Once again, thank you for your service to our State and Nation. Your courage has provided peace and prosperity to America, as well as millions around the globe. As Governor, I pledge my administration will continue to work tirelessly and demand the best for New Jersey's veterans.

POWs Sought For Possible Benefits

From the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs News Service

The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is asking former prisoners of war not currently using VA benefits to contact VA to find out if they are eligible for disability compensation and other services.

More than 23,000 former prisoners of war (POWs) already receive compensation from VA. This year, the department mailed information about benefits to an additional 4,700 ex-POWs not on its rolls. The VA estimates that there could be as many as 11,000 more POWs for whom it does not have an address or contact information.

Secretary of Veterans Affairs Anthony Principi said that VA has expanded policies to cover increasing numbers of former POWs as new illnesses have been found related to captivity. The administration currently is pressing to get even more compensation and medical care benefits for former POWs.

"These veterans sacrificed for their country in time of war, and it's the nation's turn to serve them, to help them determine if they are entitled to compensation, health care or other services," Principi said.

Nine out of 10 former POWs are veterans of World War II, and their service predates the use of Social Security numbers as a military "service number." That, coupled with the decades that have elapsed since their service, makes it difficult for VA to track down those who have not opened a file with VA in recent years.

The most recent expansion of VA benefits for former POW's was a July regulation that added cirrhosis of the liver to the list of diseases to which entitlement to disability compensation is presumed in former POWs.

Similar policies making it easier for former POW's to obtain compensation have been enacted for POW's detained for 30 days or more who develop specific illnesses.

Former POW's have a special eligibility for enrollment in VA medical care and are exempt from making co-payments for inpatient and outpatient medical care. They have the same co-pay rules as other veterans for medications and for extended care. Free dental treatment for any dental condition is available to former POW's held for more than 90 days.

Former POW's not receiving benefits who did not receive a VA letter recently should call the department at 1-800-827-1000. More information about VA services for former POW's is available at www.vba.va.gov/bln/21/Benefits/POW/

VA Facts And Figures

From the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs News Service

In 2002, VA spent $23 billion treating 4.6 million veterans, and provided $25 billion in compensation benefits to 2.4 million veterans, dependents and survivors.

The Veterans Administration is making special efforts to process the claims of older veterans quickly, including those of former U.S. POWs who served in World War II. The average age for this group is 82.

Oral History Program

By Chief Warrant Officer 4
Judith McCabe

The National Guard Militia Museum of New Jersey in Sea Girt has interviewed more than 200 veterans as part of the Center for United States War Veterans Oral History Program.

The Center's mission is to collect videos of oral histories from veterans of all conflicts and those who helped support them. The Center opened in the summer of 2001.

This summer the program went on the road to the Paramus Veterans Home and Cape May County to interview veterans who could not travel to the museum.

Veterans are asked to fill out a short biographical form with information regarding where they served, dates, awards, campaigns and civilian occupation prior to joining the military. An appointment is then made for the veteran to come to the museum for the interview.

The Center operates in partnership with the Library of Congress and the Veterans History Project of the American Folklife Center. The Library of Congress and the museum in Sea Girt are both repositories for copies of the videos. Members of the public may view the videos for research purposes. Anyone interested in participating in the program may contact the museum at 732-974-5966.

Gulf War Service-ALS Link Confirmed

From the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs News Service

WASHINGTON – A recent scientific study supports a Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) policy to recognize Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS) among veterans of the Gulf War as a service-connected illness.

The study found that veterans who were deployed to the combat theater during the Gulf War were nearly twice as likely to develop the disease as veterans not deployed to the Gulf, accounting for 40 of the 107 cases identified among military personnel. Deployed Air Force personnel were 2.7 times more likely to develop ALS than non-deployed Air Force personnel.

The new ALS study, published in the Sept. 23 issue of the scientific journal Neurology and funded by VA and the Department of Defense (DoD), does not identify a cause for the disease or the increased occurrence in this group of veterans.

ALS, or Lou Gehrig's disease, kills cells in the brain and spinal cord that control muscle movement, resulting in gradual wasting of the muscles. Fatal in most cases, the disease usually strikes people between ages of 40 and 70. The cause of the disease is unknown.

Earlier this year, VA established a national ALS registry to identify veterans with the disease - regardless of when they served and track their health status. ALS veterans who register must participate in an initial telephone interview that covers their health and military service and will be asked to participate in followup interviews twice a year thereafter.

For more information about the ALS Registry, based at the Durham VA Medical Center, call 1-877-DIAL-ALS (1-877-342-5257) or e-mail ALS@med.va.gov.

Since 1994, the Departments of Defense, Veterans Affairs, and Health and Human Services have spent $213 million on 224 research projects relating to the health effects of military deployment. VA plans to spend up to an additional $20 million by the end of the 2004 fiscal year.

SAAs – Veteran Consumer Protection Agencies

By Donna Myers, State Approving Agency

State Approving Agencies have been in existence for more than fifty years in partnership with the Department of Veterans Affairs in the administration of veterans' educational assistance programs. These programs are more commonly known as GI Bills.

SAAs act as "consumer protection agencies" for the veteran to ensure the quality of education and training programs and to assist the Department of Veterans Affairs in preventing fraud, waste and abuse of taxpayer dollars.

Under Title 38, United States Code, each governor designates a state bureau or department as the State Approving Agency. Professionals within each agency bring a wealth of formal education, training, and experience to the appraisal of programs for veterans' benefits. An ever-changing society has facilitated the need for SAA's to remain on the cutting-edge of program approval to continue to provide opportunities for veterans to stay current with modern technology, develop their employment skills and pursue opportunities for advancement. It is the goal of SAA's to be directly involved with the new and emerging trends in education and training to ensure the highest quality level and availability to veterans.

Since the GI Bill has been in existence, millions of veterans have received entitlements that enabled them to obtain degrees from institutions of higher learning. However, it is important to note that benefits are not limited to college level programs and are also available for non-college degree programs such as vocational-technical schools, OJT (on-the-job-training) and apprenticeships (OJT with related theory instruction).

It is believed that many millions of dollars of entitlement money remains unawarded because of lack of knowledge regarding eligibility to collect benefits for such programs. The fact is that in today's changing world employers are demanding training or certification in specific occupational areas, thereby resulting in the need for more vocation-oriented programs.

In addition to continued modification and change of programs at institutions of higher learning, apprenticeship and OJT facilities are accounting for a larger percentage of the new, active facilities. Also, more distance learning programs are being approved along with a limited number of correspondence courses. Benefits can now be obtained for licensing and certification processes while other approvals are emerging in new areas as well.

It is estimated that there are more than 800 trade areas that can be approved and this number is increasing constantly. While a multitude of approved programs provides a wide variety of occupational choices, it is important to know that veterans' benefits are not limited to programs that are already approved. The SAA can have a program approved provided it meets the criteria mandated by federal law. Although not all programs can be approved, the SAA will work with qualified institutions and training sites to ensure that they meet approval requirements.

If you believe you are entitled to benefits under the GI Bill and are currently working in an occupation that may be apprenticeable, please have your employer contact the SAA so the necessary steps can be taken to approve the training program. Contact us at 609-530-6849 or 609-530-6852.

Multi-Purpose Room Slated For Paramus

The New Jersey Veterans Home at Paramus is in the process of planning the addition of a multipurpose room for the facility. This room will host activities, entertainment and residents' meetings.

Currently, such events are held in one of the facility's three dining rooms. This situation created scheduling challenges and conflicted with mealtime setup, dining and cleanup. Many local veteran's groups donated money to help fund the $1.5 million project for the architectural plans.

These plans have been accepted by the Veteran's Administration and 65 percent of the funding for construction has been assured.

The Home's Resident Council and area veterans' groups are working to raise the remaining 35 percent of state matching funds. Residents, veterans' organizations and staff look forward to the day when the resident's quality of life will be improved by the completion of this project.

Operation Recognition: Diplomas For Veterans

By the Veteran Journal Staff

Operation Recognition has been expanded to include Korean and Vietnam veterans.

In 2000, the New Jersey Department of Military and Veterans Affairs (NJDMAVA) and the Department of Education jointly launched a program to honor World War II era veterans who left school to join the military and never received a high school diploma. Known as Operation Recognition, the program was expanded to award a state-endorsed high school diploma to any New Jersey veteran who left a New Jersey high school to enter military service during World War II. Korea and Vietnam.

To date, more than 2,000 high school diplomas have been awarded to New Jersey veterans either by mail or at community ceremonies. Several high schools have held senior proms and graduation ceremonies for veterans in appreciation for their great sacrifices.

Programs similar to Operation Recognition have been established in a number of other states including Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Massachusetts, Nebraska, North Carolina, and West Virginia.

How To Apply For Veterans Status

By the Veteran Journal Staff

Veteran status can be granted for World War II, the Korean Conflict, or the Vietnam Conflict if the service member had at least 90 days of continuous active military service as long as any part of the 90 days falls on or within the dates listed below.

For World War II, laws extend the definition of a veteran to include any honorably discharged member of the American Merchant Marines who served during World War II and can present a DD-214 which establishes 90 days of continuous active service during the period noted above.

Veteran status for the Lebanon Crisis, the Grenada Peacekeeping Mission, the Lebanon Peacekeeping Mission, the Panama Peacekeeping Mission, Operations Desert Shield/Desert Storm, Operation Restore Hope in Somalia and Operations Joint Endeavor/ Joint Guard in Bosnia and Herzegovina requires that the service member served in the country/region or on ships patrolling the territorial waters of these nations for at least 14 days. For Operation Uphold Democracy, the veteran must fulfill the 14-day requirement as above AND have received the Armed Forced Expeditionary Medal.

The 90 or 14-day requirement for service is not prescribed if the veteran was discharged because of a service-incurred disability.

Service with the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (WAAC) and Women's Army Corps (WAC) also qualifies for veteran status.

Absent Without Leave (AWOL) is deducted from total active service and if this reduces the active service to less than the 90 or 14day service requirements, veteran status will be denied.

Veteran status can not be granted if an individual received a dishonorable discharge, a discharge from the draft, disenrollment from the Coast Guard Reserve, or a discharge from the reserve with no evidence of active service in time of war.

Veteran status also can not be granted if the individual service was in the:

State Militia; Student Training Corps during World War II; Army of the Allies but not as a citizen of the United States at the time of such service; Military service during peacetime;

Military service for training purposes. Also, Courses of Education and Training under the Army Specialized Training Program or the Navy College Training Program where the courses were a continuation of the individual's civilian courses;

as a cadet or midshipman at one of the service academies; or any military service performed pursuant to the provisions of Section 511 (d) of Title 10, United States Code, pursuant to enlistment in the Army National Guard or as a reserve for Service in the Army Reserve, Naval Reserve, Air Force Reserve, Marine Corps or Coast Guard Reserve.

Disabled Military Retirees May Receive Compensation

Under the new requirements of the 2003 National Defense Authorization Act, some military retirees will soon be able to receive monthly payments for service-related health problems.

Combat-Related Special Compensation allows some disabled military retirees to collect monetary compensation for both their military service and their service related disability. Those qualifying may include larger numbers than the term "combat related" implies.

According to the legislation, "combat-related" disabilities refer to:

Anyone who is a 20-year military retiree with at least a 60 percent combined disability rating whose injuries are a "direct result of armed conflict;"

A result of "hazardous" military service;

Were incurred while serving in "conditions simulating war;" or

Are injuries incurred "through an instrumentality of war."

Automatic qualifiers include any military retirees with at least 20 years of service who are rated at least 10 percent disabled by injuries related to the award of a Purple Heart.

Those who apply and are approved will begin receiving payments about 60 days after approval. Payments are retroactive to June 1, 2003 for those whose disability occurred before that date.

VA RX Program Announced

The United States Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) recently announced a program to fill prescriptions written by non-VA physicians for some veterans waiting to see a VA doctor.

To be eligible, veterans must have enrolled in VA's health care system and requested their first primary care appointment before July 25, 2003. Also, they must have been waiting more than 30 days on Sept. 22, 2003, when the benefit went into effect.

Veterans will be charged a VA co-payment of $7 if the medicine isn't for a condition related to their military service. This benefit does not apply to veterans who have seen a VA primary care provider or those waiting for appointments with specialists or follow-up appointments. The VA will mail instructions to eligible veterans.

For more information, call the toll-free number on VA health benefits: 1-877-222-8387.

Veterans Haven a real haven for these veterans in need. Durante thanked the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary; Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies Auxiliary; Rolling Thunder Chapters 2 and 5; The New Jersey State Elks Association Southeast District; Sons of the American Legion; and many other organizations and individuals who contributed time, money and materials during the past nine years and without whose support the program could not have flourished.

He specifically noted some recent contributions from the New Jersey American Legion and Legion Auxiliary of $36,000 that went toward the purchase of new beds, dressers and night stands for the rooms. Residents received new sinks in their rooms thanks to a $50,000 grant from the South Jersey Charitable Organizations.

Other recent contributions to Veterans Haven include $169,000 from a veterans' fraternity in north Jersey, which will be used to renovate the four bathrooms on the second and third floors.

The facility was also the recipient of a $354,000 HUD grant under the 2002 McKinney-Vento Act, the third such award. This money will be used to defray operating costs. Veterans Haven also receives VA money based on a per diem of $24.99 per veteran.

Durante said that the program has two grant proposals pending with the Veterans Administration, one for the purchase of a new van and a second to replace the building's transformer and rewire the electrical system.

Of course Durante, as do most owners or managers of older buildings, has a wish list for his building he would like to replace the all the windows and install air conditioning in all resident rooms.
