Re: State Operated School District of the City of Camden, Camden County v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Agency Dkt. No. 354-11/22.

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the papers filed in connection with the petition for declaratory ruling and motion for emergent relief filed by the petitioner, the State Operated School District of the City of Camden (Camden), in the above-captioned matter. The New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) is investigating alleged recruitment violations by the Camden High School basketball team. Camden is seeking a ruling at this stage of the proceedings as to whether it is required to provide the NJSIAA with certain student records in connection with the NJSIAA's investigation.[1]

[1] There was originally a hearing on the matter scheduled for December 5, 2022, however, the NJSIAA agreed to adjourn the hearing until a decision was issued on the declaratory ruling request. The hearing is currently scheduled for January 9 and 10, 2023.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.1(b)1, where a petitioner challenges a rule or determination of the NJSIAA, the Commissioner shall decline to hear the matter on appeal until a hearing before the NJSIAA has been conducted and the NJSIAA has issued a decision. It is undisputed that a hearing in this matter has not yet been conducted and that there has not be any determination made by the NJSIAA. Moreover, the Commissioner's review of NJSIAA matters is appellate in nature; therefore, the Commissioner does not have the authority to dictate to the NJSIAA how it conducts its hearings or what evidence is presented or consider during an investigation as long as the petitioner is afforded due process. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a).

As such, I have determined to exercise my discretion and decline the request for a declaratory ruling pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1(a)1. Once the NJSIAA appeal procedures are fully exhausted, if Camden in not in accord with the NJSIAA's final determination a petition may be filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.1(a). To the extent that Camden maintains that it was not afforded the appropriate due process, that the NJSIAA violated a school law during the evidentiary proceedings or that the NJSIAA Bylaws, Rules or Regulations were violated, those arguments can be made at that juncture.

Accordingly, Camden's request for a declaratory ruling is hereby denied.

Sincerely,

Kathy Ehling

v.

Camden County Office of Education, Camden County,

Respondent,
And

Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County,

Petitioner,

v.

Peggy Nicolosi, Interim Executive County Superintendent,
New Jersey Department of Education.

Synopsis

In these consolidated matters, the Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken (Board) appealed the determinations of the respondents, Lovell Pugh-Bassett, Executive County Superintendent (ECS), and Peggy Nicolosi, Interim ECS, to disapprove certain merit goals submitted by the Board's superintendent, Ronnie Tarchichi, and the payments related thereto, for the 2017-18 and 2018-19 school years.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: two of the disapproved goals for the 2017-18 school year should have been approved, and that the ECS's denial of payment was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable; for the 2018-19 school year, the proposed merit goals should have been approved; and the ECS was unreasonable in failing to reply to Tarchichi's refusal to further revise his goals. The ALJ ordered that Tarchichi be authorized to provide documentation of completion of 2018-19 goals to the Board for approval of payment and to the ECS for confirmation of payment.

Upon review, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision, finding, inter alia, that: the ALJ applied the wrong standard of review; the appropriate standard is whether the ECS decisions were consistent with applicable statutes and regulations; based on the appropriate standard of review, the Commissioner disapproved Goals A and E for 2017-18, and Goals A and B for 2018-19; Goals C, D, and E for 2018-19 were approved; Tarchichi may submit documentation of completed goals to the Board for review; and the Board may submit any approved payments to the appropriate ECS for review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-3.1(e)(11)(iv).

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County, Petitioner,

v.

Dr. Lovell Pugh-Bassett, Executive County Superintendent, Camden County Office of Education, Camden County,

Respondent,

And

Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County, Petitioner,

v.

Peggy Nicolosi, Interim Executive County Superintendent, New Jersey Department of Education,

Respondent.

The record of these consolidated matters and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the respondents in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the petitioner Pennsauken Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto.

These matters involve the superintendent merit goals for the Board's Superintendent of Schools, Ronnie Tarchichi, for two school years: 2017-18 and 2018-19. In the 2017-18 school year, Tarchichi submitted five proposed merit bonus goals to Lovell Pugh-Bassett, the Executive County Superintendent (ECS) for Camden County, for review and approval. Pugh-Bassett approved four of the proposed goals, but disapproved the fifth proposed goal, Goal E. At the end of the 2017-18 school year, the Board approved payment of a merit bonus to Tarchichi for completion of the four merit goals and sought Pugh-Bassett's approval in order to issue payment. Pugh-Bassett approved payment for three of the four goals, but denied payment for Goal A. The Board paid Tarchichi for the three goals approved by Pugh-Bassett.

Tarchichi then submitted proposed merit goals to Pugh-Bassett for the 2018-19 school year. Pugh-Bassett requested revisions to those goals and communicated back and forth with Tarchichi regarding her request, as well as additional requested revisions. On December 17, 2018, the Board filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner challenging the disapproval of Goal E and the denial of payment for Goal A in the 2017-18 school year. The following day, the review of Tarchichi's proposed merit goals for the 2018-19 school year was reassigned to Peggy Nicolosi, the Interim ECS for Salem County. Nicolosi requested new revisions and began exchanging emails with Tarchichi regarding her requested changes. Ultimately, Tarchichi informed her that he was unwilling to revise his merit goals any further. The Board then filed a second petition of appeal seeking approval of Tarchichi's five proposed merit goals for the 2018-19 school year.

Following a hearing on the merits, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that for the 2017-18 school year, payment for Goal A should have been granted and that the denial of payment by Pugh-Bassett was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The ALJ also concluded that Goal E should have been approved for Tarchichi to complete during the 2017-18 school year and that Pugh-Bassett was unreasonable in failing to approve it. The ALJ found that since the requested relief – i.e., approval of Goal E for the 2017-18 school year – is moot, the Board should be compensated for fees and costs to litigate this matter.[1]

For the 2018-19 school year, the ALJ concluded that the proposed merit goals should have been approved. Specifically, the ALJ found that Nicolosi was unreasonable in failing to reply to Tarchichi's refusal to further revise his proposed goals and failing to "pivot" and address each goal separately as the superintendent suggested rather than tiering the goals as Nicolosi requested. The ALJ ordered that, to the extent Tarchichi worked on the 2018-19 goals, he be authorized to provide documentation of the completion of the goals to the Board for approval of payment and to the ECS for confirmation of payment.

In their exceptions, ECSs Pugh-Bassett and Nicolosi argue that the Initial Decision should be rejected because the ALJ failed to show deference to both ECSs. The ECSs contend that Pugh-Bassett and Nicolosi provided detailed explanations for their positions on each of Tarchichi's goals, which cannot be considered arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

With respect to the 2017-18 school year, the ECSs argue that Pugh-Bassett correctly denied payment for Goal A because Tarchichi did not satisfy the goal as written because he only worked with a subset of half of the eligible students rather than all eligible students as his proposed Goal A had stated. The ECSs indicate that Pugh-Bassett offered to pay half of the goal's monetary amount, but Tarchichi refused. The ECSs contend that Pugh-Bassett appropriately disapproved Goal E because it was not meritorious, as the proposed goal was already required by regulation. For the 2018-19 school year, the ECSs argue that Nicolosi was not unreasonable in disapproving the proposed goals because she was not satisfied with the evidence of completion for each goal. The ECSs maintain that the ALJ incorrectly relied on the fact that other ECSs approved similar proposed goals because the needs of each county are different; thus, what occurred between other ECSs and other superintendents regarding proposed merit goals is irrelevant. Accordingly, the ECSs urge the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision.

In reply, the Board argues that the Initial Decision demonstrates that Tarchichi was treated unfairly compared to how other superintendents are treated. The Board further explains that the ALJ's credibility findings involving Pugh-Bassett – that she testified in a "stilted manner, using jargon and superfluous language," that her communication style was "perceived as passively condescending," and that her testimony was "not particularly persuasive" – demonstrated that she had an "ax to grind." Additionally, the Board points out that there is no standardized method for how ECSs review merit goals, so the actions of the ECSs were arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable.

At the outset, the Commissioner notes that the ALJ mistakenly applied an incorrect standard of review in this matter. When there is a challenge to a determination made by an office within the Department of Education, the Commissioner is not mandated to give deference to her staff, but instead determines if the finding was legally appropriate. See, Board of Trustees of the Passaic County Elks Cerebral Palsy Center v. New Jersey Dept. of Educ., Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance, Commissioner's Decision No. 334-14, dated August 14, 2014 (finding that a decision of the Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance is not given deference by the Commissioner). Moreover, where the Department of Education has limited the scope of review of a subordinate office or division, it has done so by regulation, i.e. appeals filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:4 challenging a decision of the State Board of Examiners revoking/suspending a certificate, or a decision of the School Ethics Commission.

In the Initial Decision, the ALJ mistakenly referenced N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a) and stated that an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable standard of review applied to this case. The petition of appeal in this matter was filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3, which consists of completely different regulatory provisions than N.J.A.C. 6A:4; these two Administrative Code sections should never be conflated. As such, this challenge to the actions of two ECSs is not entitled to the arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review that is afforded to appeals filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:4. Instead, the appropriate standard of review for ECS decisions is whether the decisions are consistent with the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions.

Upon review of the record and applying the appropriate standard of review, the Commissioner finds that the Initial Decision must be rejected. The Commissioner will provide an analysis of the legal sufficiency of each of the proposed merit goals below.

Proposed Goal A for the 2017-18 school year was written as follows:

> In order to ensure effective science education for the high school's [English Language Learner] population, the superintendent will create additional writing instruction to assist with the vocabulary and grammar growth with our ELL students in science. The Superintendent will create a Pre-Test and Post-test that will measure student growth on writing strategies embedded > in student learning. Writing strategies will be created by the superintendent and administered by teachers. This will be supplemental instruction.

> All supplemental instruction will be standards-specific and relevant to the pacing guide of the curriculum. 30% of ELL students will show an increase in score from the pre-test exam given initially to the last post-test given in the spring. Focus on 9th and 10th grade students.

Tarchichi's documentation of completion of the goal demonstrated that he used a sample of 20 ELL students from ninth and tenth grade, and all 20 students improved between the pre-test and post-test.

In denying payment for Goal A, Pugh-Bassett found that by focusing on a sample of 20 ELL students in the ninth and tenth grade – half of the 40 total ELL students in those grades – the superintendent did not satisfy the goal as written, which indicated that he would "focus on 9th and 10th grade students." (Joint 0017). Additionally, Pugh-Bassett found that Tarchichi did not submit documentation that he had created "additional writing instruction to assist with vocabulary and grammar growth with ELL students in science," nor did he demonstrate how multiple choice pre- and post-tests measured student growth in writing strategies. Ibid.

Tarchichi testified that he used a sample of 20 students instead of all 40 because "that's just simply not how research works." (1T48:17-18). He explained that "you're supposed to take a sample of a population, not the entire population, and you also have to remember we're dealing with ELL high school students that one, might not be able to participate in the study; two, don't want to be in the health professions; three, simply [have] zero interest in participating in a study." (1T48:18-24). Tarchichi further testified that the tests he created were multiple choice and short answer, and the results of the test demonstrated the students' growth in "biological content knowledge." (1T51; 1T55:23). Tarchichi indicated in correspondence with Pugh-Bassett that the pre-test was entirely multiple choice to provide a gauge of the students' science content knowledge, and "the writing to learn strategies were the treatment (independent variable), so that was not measured in the original pretest as that would not be the point of the study." (Joint 2480).

The Commissioner finds that Tarchichi was not entitled to payment for Goal A for two reasons. First, the proposed goal states that Tarchichi would focus on 9th and 10th grade ELL students, not a sample of those students. The goal, as written, demonstrates that the 9th and 10th grade students were the intended sample, which is a smaller population than all of the ELL students in the entire school. If Tarchichi intended to work with an even smaller group of students, then he needed to make that clear when he was drafting the goal. Instead, his goal stated that he would work with the 9th and 10th grade ELL students, but he failed to do so. Second, the goal states that the superintendent would "create a Pre-Test and Post-Test that will measure student growth on writing strategies embedded in student learning." The pre-test was strictly multiple choice which does not qualify as a means to measure growth on writing strategies. The Commissioner acknowledges that the post-tests were a combination of multiple choice and short answer but notes that a pre-test that does not include any writing does not enable the ECS to accurately measure improvement in writing. The Commissioner also points out that Tarchichi testified that the test demonstrated the students' growth in "biological content knowledge," but according to the goal, the tests were to demonstrate student growth on writing strategies. (1T55:23). Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that Goal A for the 2017-18 school year was not completed and the Board may not pay Tarchichi.[2]

2. Goal E

Proposed Goal E was submitted as follows:

> The Superintendent will conduct and implement monthly training academy for new administrative staff about training and supervising staff, setting instructional objectives, developing academic programs, creating instructional resources for use in the classroom, and working to build a rapport with parents at Pennsauken Public Schools. The goal is to give additional support so they transition into more seasoned administrators. The group will meet for a minimum of 10 sessions during the 2017-2018 school year.

Pugh-Basset found that the goal was not "meritorious" because the existing mandatory requirements set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:9C-3.2 already require support of new school leaders through professional learning. Ibid. Pursuant to the regulation, professional development encompasses a "broad range of professional learning," and Pugh-Bassett testified that a goal must go beyond the minimum requirements to be meritorious.

In support of his contention that Pugh-Bassett erred in disapproving Goal E, Tarchichi pointed to two instances wherein he had proposed nearly identical Merit Bonus goals which were approved. Tarchichi testified that in the 2019-20 school year (two years after the school year at issue here), he submitted a proposed goal for a monthly training academy to ECS Judith DeStefano, which was approved. (1T69:4-25)

[2] There was some discussion between the parties about whether Tarchichi could be paid for half of the goal because he worked with half of the students. The Commissioner finds that would not be appropriate here as that was not the sole rationale for determining that Goal A was not completed.

Tarchichi also explained that in the 2015-16 school year, when he was the Superintendent at Woodlynne School District, Pugh-Bassett approved a similar goal for a monthly training academy for new teachers and educational staff. (1T70:23-71:12) According to Tarchichi, given that his nearly identical goals for similar workshops were approved by Pugh-Bassett in 2015-16 and DeStefano in 2019-20, Goal E should have been approved.

The Commissioner finds that N.J.A.C. 6A:9C-3.2 already requires training of administrative staff; accordingly, the proposed Goal E cannot be approved. The regulation provides:

> (b) Professional development shall encompass a broad range of professional learning that contributes to improved practice, including, but not limited to:
> 1. Participation in the work of established collaborative teams of teachers, school leaders, and other administrative, instructional, and educational services staff members who commit to working together to accomplish common goals and who are engaged in a continuous cycle of professional improvement focused on:
>
> i. Evaluating student learning needs through ongoing review of data on student performance; and > ii. Defining a clear set of educator learning goals based on the rigorous analysis of data on student performance.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:9C-3.2(b).]

The professional development of school staff, including the training of administrative staff, is already contemplated by this regulation. The regulation requires districts to provide professional development that includes a broad range of professional learning, including collaboration in teams. Tarchichi may have the flexibility to train his staff in one-on-one sessions or in monthly training academies, but regardless of the format, professional development is a requirement. Accordingly, a monthly training academy for administrative staff is not a meritorious goal.[3]

The final revised version of the proposed goals for the 2018-19 school year was submitted as follows:

> DESCRIPTION OF GOAL: A
>
> In order to ensure the students of Pennsauken Public Schools continue to receive further course and career choices in secondary education, the superintendent will continue to work to approve more academic courses that are considered dual credit course initiatives. The superintendent will identify articulation agreements and dual credit courses that benefit students at the advanced placement level, honors level, and college prep level.
> Superintendent's Role:
> - Continue to work with administration of Camden County College to generate dual credit options for students; currently the district has 20 approved courses from Camden County College.
> - Continue to work with the administration of Rowan College of Burlington County to generate dual credit options for students; currently the district has 10 approved courses from RCBC.
> - Begin to work with the administration of Rowan College of Gloucester County to general dual credit options for students.
> - Superintendent will meet with all eligible students in Pennsauken High School in two assemblies and go over the options of dual credit courses and introduce concepts such as senior year options with students.
> - Separation of specific dual credit courses for AP students, Honors students and College Prep students.

[3] The Commissioner recognizes that Tarchichi was approved for a similar training academy in the 2019-20 school year, but whether that goal should have been approved is not at issue in this matter. The Commissioner also notes that the requirement for a broad range of professional learning went into effect after Tarchichi was approved for a similar goal in the 2015-16 school year while working in the Woodlynne school district.

[4] When Tarchichi was reassigned to Nicolosi, he submitted proposed merit goals to her on December 19, 2018 (in a version that was dated December 17, 2018); he then submitted further revised versions of those goals on December 21, 2018 and January 2, 2019. In this decision, the Commissioner will review the January 2, 2019 version, as that is the final version submitted by Tarchichi before he declined to submit any further edits.

Nicolosi did not approve these superintendent merit goals because she was not satisfied with the evidence of completion outlined therein, which she testified is important because the evidence of completion is what avoids issues when it comes time for payment to the superintendent based on achievement of the goals. (3T28:24-29:3). Additionally, Nicolosi wanted to combine Goals B (CTE) and D (EMT) into one tiered goal because they were very similar in their relation to career readiness classes. (Joint 580-81). Originally, Nicolosi suggested combining Goal A (college prep) as well, but ultimately agreed that it could stand alone. (Joint 532; 580-81). Tarchichi did not agree that the goals should be tiered as it would be too extensive for one merit goal. (Joint 545; 585).

With respect to those three goals, Nicolosi thought Tarchichi needed to provide meeting minutes to show board approval for the dual credit courses and a video tape of his presentations to demonstrate his involvement. (Joint 581). He refused both, arguing that he was not comfortable with a video tape, and that meeting minutes should not be required for a quantitative goal. (Joint 545). Nicolosi offered to consider alternative evidence to videotaping but Tarchichi did not propose one. (Joint 598).

Additionally, Nicolosi needed a finite measurement as to the number of courses he would be attempting to add or a percentage increase in the number of courses, such as 25%. (Joint 580). Tarchichi argued that a 25% increase was too much to guarantee and that he could not guarantee a percentage increase at all because the community colleges may place limitations on the dual credit courses. (Joint 548). Nicolosi asked for evidence of those limitations or some alternative means to measure the goals, which were not provided. (Joint 598; 599).

With respect to Goal C (SAT prep), Nicolosi proposed that the goal should also include ACT preparation, because according to the New Jersey School Performance Report, students in the district – predominantly minority students – take the ACT. (Joint 542; 581; 598). Tarchichi refused, and argued that he only wanted to focus on one test and that it is "illogical" to expand the goal given that it was already January, and most students take the SAT. (Joint 585). Nicolosi also suggested that he should demonstrate a 25% increase in test scores. (Joint 542). Tarchichi argued that 25% was too high and proposed a 5-10% increase. (Joint 549). Nicolosi indicated that she was willing to compromise at a 15% increase based on the New Jersey School Performance Report, because a 15% increase would bring students closer to the state average. (Joint 581). Tarchichi refused and kept the proposed goal at a 5-10% increase. (Joint 585; 594). Finally, Nicolosi required that Tarchichi video tape his town hall meetings, but Tarchichi argued that while he would be willing to submit sign in sheets, he would be unwilling to videotape himself due to risks of the tape being placed online. (Joint 545). Nicolosi asked what alternative he could provide to videotaping because sign in sheets were not sufficient evidence of his role in the accomplishment of the goal. (Joint 599).

Finally, with respect to Goal E (culture book club), Nicolosi suggested separating the meetings between students, community members, and teachers, rather than having combined meetings. (Joint 544). Tarchichi argued that he wanted students to interact with stakeholders and therefore, they should attend meetings together. (Joint 586). Nicolosi asked for documentation on how many students, community members and teachers attended the December meeting in order to better assess how to achieve the goal, but the documentation was not provided. (Joint 599). She also suggested moving the location of the meeting into the community and closer to homes. Ibid.

The Commissioner finds that proposed Goals A and B were appropriately disapproved because the description of the goals and evidence of completion did not provide a means for measuring these quantitative goals. A quantitative goal needs to be measurable, and the proposed goals indicated that the superintendent would "continue to work to" approve dual credit initiatives in both college prep and vocational classes. As written, it is unclear what would be accomplished in the 2018-19 school year, such as how many courses would be approved. Nicolosi proposed a percentage increase in the number of classes, but when Tarchichi indicated that a percentage would not be possible, Nicolosi asked for an alternative means to measure the goals, which was not provided. While a percentage may not be the only way to measure completion of these quantitative goals, the goals as written do not contain a sufficient finite measurement of completion.

While Nicolosi sought to combine Goal D (EMT) with Goal B (CTE) as a quantitative goal, the Commissioner notes that Goal D (EMT) is currently submitted as a qualitative goal. The Commissioner finds that this goal, as written, may be approved. The creation of an EMT program at Pennsauken High School is substantially different from creating dual credit opportunities with local colleges, so while Nicolosi suggested that the goals be combined, the Commissioner finds that disagreement with such suggestion is not sufficient to disapprove the goal.

With respect to Goal C (SAT prep), the Commissioner finds that the quantitative goal may be approved. While including ACT prep as well – as Nicolosi had suggested – would have enhanced this goal, Goal C can still be considered meritorious without it. Additionally, while Nicolosi's proposed 25% increase was reasonable because it would bring the district's scores up to the State average, the smaller percentage proposed by Tarchichi would also demonstrate a significant increase in student SAT performance.

Finally, as to Goal E (culture book club), the Commissioner finds that the qualitative goal may be approved. Nicolosi's suggestions regarding separating the meetings and moving the location closer to homes in the community were just that, suggestions to improve the goal during the review process. Disagreement as to the location and whether to combine the meetings did not render the proposed goal non-meritorious.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected. For the 2017-18 school year, Goal A is disapproved for payment, and proposed Goal E is disapproved. For the 2018-19 school year, proposed Goals A and B are disapproved, and proposed Goals C, D, and E are approved. To the extent that Tarchichi completed any of the now-approved goals during the 2018-19 school year, Tarchichi may submit documentation to the Board for review as to payment. Should the Board approve payment for any of the goals, the Board may submit them to the currently-assigned ECS for review in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-3.1(e)(11)(iv).

BEFORE ELAINE B. FRICK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Township of Pennsauken Board of Education (Pennsauken BOE), seeks approval of a proposed merit goal from the 2017–2018 school year, to be completed by its Superintendent, Ronnie Tarchichi (Tarchichi), which proposed goal was not approved by respondent, Lovell Pugh-Bassett (Pugh-Bassett), Executive County Superintendent (ECS), Camden County Office of Education. The Pennsauken BOE also seeks approval for the payment of a 2017–2018 merit goal which the Pennsauken BOE approved as having been completed by Tarchichi, which was not approved for payment by Pugh-Bassett. The Pennsauken BOE further seeks approval of Tarchichi's proposed merit goals for the 2018–2019 school year, which were not approved either by Pugh-Bassett or by Peggy Nicolosi (Nicolosi), Interim ECS, Salem County Office of Education. Respondents oppose the relief requested.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Pennsauken BOE's appeal regarding Pugh-Bassett's disapproval of a proposed merit goal by Tarchichi for the 2017–2018 school year, and Pugh-Bassett's disapproval of payment of a merit goal for Tarchichi for the 2017–2018 school year, was transmitted by the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on February 15, 2019, to be heard as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 14B-15 and 14F-1 to 14F-13. The Pennsauken BOE's appeal regarding Nicolosi having not approved Tarchichi's proposed 2018–2019 merit bonus goals was transmitted to the OAL, where it was filed on April 17, 2019, to be heard as a contested matter. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 14B-15 and 14F-1 to 14F-13. The matters were consolidated, at the joint request of counsel, by Order of Consolidation entered on May 9, 2019.

Multiple prehearing telephonic conferences were conducted with counsel regarding discovery and scheduling issues. Hearing dates were set and adjourned due to a change in the Deputy Attorney General (DAG) handling the matter; discovery issues; settlement conferences; and the COVID-19 pandemic and executive orders entered, beginning in March 2020, by the Governor of the State of New Jersey, which impacted the normal operations of the OAL, including the suspension of in-person proceedings.

On May 10, 2020, respondents filed a motion to dismiss regarding the Nicolosi appeal, asserting that the matter was not ripe. Disposition of the motion was held in abeyance while the parties engaged in settlement discussions. Oral argument on the motion was heard via Zoom audio/video remote technology on November 4, 2020. An Order denying the motion was entered on November 10, 2020. The order included a conclusion that Nicolosi's request for additional revisions to the proposed merit goals for 2018–2019, and Nicolosi's failure to issue an approval of the goals in response to Tarchichi's communication that he would not do further revisions of the goals, constituted de facto disapproval of the proposed goals.

On October 9, 2020, Pennsauken BOE filed a motion to compel discovery. Oral argument on the motion was heard via Zoom on November 4, 2020. An Order was entered on November 10, 2020, granting the motion, thereby requiring respondents to provide unredacted copies of documentation it produced in discovery.

The hearing was conducted via Zoom, due to the continued suspension of in-person proceedings at the OAL because of the COVID-19 pandemic. The hearing was held on October 20, 2021; October 27, 2021; and October 28, 2021. The record remained open for the submission of written summations. Extensions for the submission of written summations were granted. The record closed on April 18, 2022. Orders granting extensions for the completion of this decision were entered.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Based upon the testimony and documentary evidence presented during the proceedings, certain facts are undisputed, and I thus FIND as FACTS the following:

Tarchichi is the Superintendent of Schools for the Pennsauken School District. Tarchichi drafted proposed merit bonus goals for the 2017–2018 school year. He forwarded the proposed goals to ECS Pugh-Bassett for her review and approval. Pugh-Bassett approved four of the proposed goals, and disapproved the fifth requested goal. (J-1 at 0009–0011.)

Tarchichi thereafter worked on the four approved merit goals and submitted a request for approval of completion and payment to be made by the Pennsauken BOE. The Pennsauken BOE approved payment for Tarchichi's four completed merit goals for the 2017–2018 school year. The Pennsauken BOE forwarded to Pugh-Bassett its approval of payment confirmation and Tarchichi's documentation of completion of the goals for her review and approval of payment to be issued. Pugh-Bassett approved payment for three of the completed merit goals and denied payment for goal A. (J-1 at 0015–0018.) The Pennsauken BOE paid Tarchichi for the three approved goals.

Pennsauken BOE submitted a petition to the DOE, dated December 14, 2018, objecting to the determinations made by Pugh-Bassett regarding the 2017–2018 merit bonus goals. (J-1.) The Pennsauken BOE seeks a finding that Pugh-Bassett acted arbitrarily and capriciously, and was otherwise unreasonable in failing to approve one of Tarchichi's proposed merit goals. (J-1.) The Pennsauken BOE further asserts that Pugh-Bassett acted arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to approve payment of goal A, which the Pennsauken BOE approved for payment. The Pennsauken BOE seeks equitable relief, including payment of its counsel fees and costs incurred for the petition.

Tarchichi submitted proposed merit bonus goals for the 2018–2019 school year to Pugh-Bassett for her review and approval. Pugh-Bassett requested revisions of the goals. Tarchichi sent revised proposed merit bonus goals to Pugh-Bassett. Further revisions were requested by Pugh-Bassett. Tarchichi requested that another ECS review his proposed merit bonus goals. The request was initially denied.

Tarchichi was thereafter directed to submit his 2018–2019 proposed merit bonus goals to Interim ECS Peggy Nicolosi (Nicolosi) of Salem County. Tarchichi provided same to Nicolosi, who asked for revisions. Tarchichi submitted another revised set of merit bonus goals to Nicolosi, who requested further revisions. Tarchichi responded to the request, and Nicolosi asserted she would not change her opinion as to the revisions she sought Tarchichi to make. Tarchichi was unwilling to further revise his merit bonus goals, and requested approval of same. Interim ECS Nicolosi did not respond with approval or disapproval. This was found to be de facto disapproval, by order entered on November 10, 2020.

Pennsauken BOE filed a second petition with the DOE, seeking relief from Nicolosi's failure to provide approval of the merit bonus goals submitted by Tarchichi for the 2018–2019 school year. (J-2.) Pennsauken BOE seeks a finding that Nicolosi's failure to approve Tarchichi's merit goals was arbitrary, capricious, and otherwise unreasonable; and that all five proposed merit bonus goals submitted by the Pennsauken BOE be approved immediately or, in the alternative, directing that the ECS of Burlington County be assigned to review and approve the proposed merit bonus goals for the 2018–2019 school year. The Pennsauken BOE further seeks equitable relief, including reimbursement of counsel fees and costs incurred for the petition. (J-2 at 5–6.)

Testimony

Ronnie Tarchichi testified on behalf of Pennsauken BOE. He holds six master's degrees. He also holds two doctorates, in the areas of Educational Leadership and Special Education.

He began his employment as Superintendent of Pennsauken schools on July 1, 2016. He is the chief administrator of the school district, overseeing a staff of approximately 1,000 individuals and a population of approximately 5,000 students. There are ten schools within the district, two of which are high schools. There are multiple vocational programs in the district, through the Career Technical Vocational Education (CTVE, also referred to as CTE) program, ten of which he started, in addition to the district serving the collegiate bound students.

He explained that the State of New Jersey capped superintendent salaries in the 2017–2018 and 2018–2019 school years. Superintendents were permitted to seek to earn merit goals, which if achieved, would result in payment to the superintendent of a percentage of their contracted salary. Proposed merit bonus goals may be qualitative or quantitative goals, being a program or activity that a superintendent does above and beyond normal duties, which assists or benefits the district and students. Merit goals must be submitted for review and approval to the Executive County Superintendent (ECS). That is generally done from August through October at the start of the school year. If approved, the superintendent works on the goals during the school year.

The superintendent then must submit proof of completion of the goals to be approved for payment by the BOE. If approved by the BOE, the ECS then reviews the documentation and information submitted by the superintendent, and must determine whether to approve the completion and approval of payment for the goals, so that the BOE can issue payment to the superintendent.

Tarchichi indicated that he never saw any guidelines promulgated by the DOE for a superintendent to follow when formulating merit goals. He was not aware of any information or training from the DOE as to what merit goals should or should not include. He was unaware of any instructions or training provided by DOE to ECSs for their protocols to follow when reviewing merit goal requests or when approving or denying same. (J-3, J-5.) Most communication Tarchichi had when submitting proposed goals to the ECS for review and approval was through email and some phone calls.

Tarchichi submitted five proposed merit goals, identified as A through E, for the 2017–2018 school year, for review and approval by Camden County ECS Pugh-Bassett.[1] She did not approve the fifth goal, goal E, and he seeks approval for same through this litigation. (J-1 at 0011.)

Goal E was proposed as:

> The Superintendent will conduct and implement [a] monthly training academy for new administrative staff about training and supervising staff, setting instructional objectives, developing academic programs, creating instructional resources for use in the classroom, and working to build a rapport with parents at Pennsauken Public Schools. The goal is to give additional support so they transition into more seasoned administrators. The group will meet for a minimum of 10 sessions during the 2017–2018 school year. (2.5%$4,187.50)

Tarchichi explained that the purpose of this goal was to conduct a monthly training academy for new administrative staff to give them something extra as they transitioned from being a teacher to an administrator. There was to be a minimum of ten sessions.

Pugh-Bassett did not approve this as a merit goal, asserting that the goal "does not meet the threshold of being 'meritorious' in relation to existing mandatory requirements for the support of new school leaders through professional learning as outlined at N.J.A.C. 6A:9C-3.2." (J-1 at 0011, italics original.)

Tarchichi asserts the goal should have been approved. He was superintendent in the Woodlynne School District for 2015–2016. He submitted the proposed qualitative goal of implementing a monthly training academy for new teachers and educational staff, aiming to provide additional support as the staff transitioned to more seasoned educators. The goal was approved, and he submitted documentation to support completion of same to get approval for payment by ECS Pugh-Bassett. She approved payment of same, finding that the goals Tarchichi had submitted for the 2015–2016 school year had been completed satisfactorily. (P-19 at 2082.)

Tarchichi acknowledged that a superintendent's regular job duties include training their staff. He denied that providing a monthly training academy was part of his regular duties. The goal he proposed in 2017–2018 for the administrative training academy was submitted by him to another Interim ECS, Judy DeStefano, for the 2019–2020 school year. (P-18.) Interim ECS DeStefano approved the goal for Tarchichi for the 2019–2020 school year. (P-18 at 1768.)

Tarchichi contends that since Pugh-Bassett previously approved a similar goal for him in the 2015–2016 school year in a different district, and he was approved by another ECS for the 2019–2020 school year to work towards achieving the very same administrators training academy goal he submitted to Pugh-Bassett for 2017–2018, Pugh-Bassett should have approved goal #5 for him. Had she approved it, Tarchichi contends he could have worked to achieve it in 2017–2018 school year.

The four other proposed merit goals for the 2017–2018 school year were approved by Pugh-Bassett. (J-1 at 0009–0011.) Tarchichi asserts he completed all of those goals. The Pennsauken BOE approved payment for same during its meeting of July 17, 2018. (J-9 at 1094.) The Pennsauken BOE sought approval from Pugh-Bassett to issue payment to Tarchichi. ECS Pugh-Bassett approved payment for three of the four merit goals. (J-1 at 0015–0018.) She did not approve payment for goal #1. (J-1 at 0017–0018.)

The Pennsauken BOE issued payment to Tarchichi for three of the four goals as approved by Pugh-Bassett. Pennsauken BOE seeks to be permitted to issue payment to Tarchichi for the remaining goal #1, which Pugh-Bassett did not approve for payment. Tarchichi was to be paid 3.33% of his contract if he achieved goal #1, which calculated to be $5,577.75. (J-1 at 0010.)

Pugh-Bassett denied approval of payment for goal #1, noting that the submission from Tarchichi to demonstrate achievement of the goal "did not satisfy the requirements for approval and therefore will not be approved for payment[.]" (J-1 at 0017, italics original.) Goal #1 was stated as:

> In order to ensure effective science education for the high school's ELL [English Language Learner] population, the superintendent will create additional writing instruction to assist with the vocabulary and grammar growth with our ELL students in science. The Superintendent will create a Pre-Test and Post-Test that will measure student growth on writing strategies embedded in student learning. Writing strategies will be created by the superintendent and administered by teachers. This will be supplemental instruction.
> All supplemental instruction will be standards-specific and relevant to the pacing guide of the curriculum. 30% of ELL students will show an increase in score from the pre-test exam given initially to the last post-test given in the spring. Focus on 9th and 10th grade students.

Tarchichi explained that Pennsauken public schools have "a lot" of non-English speaking students. He wanted to take the ninth and tenth grade population of ELL students who had issues with the English language and offer them the possibility of entering the field of science, nursing, or health occupations. Many of those students expressed an interest in entering the healthcare field. Since a large part of the studies in that field require biological language writing, he sought to focus that first goal on assisting the ELL students and giving them a push towards health professions.

Tarchichi asserts that he achieved this goal and the Pennsauken BOE approved payment for same. Pugh-Bassett wrongfully denied payment of $5,577.75 for this goal. Pugh-Bassett denied approval of payment, asserting that Tarchichi had focused on a sampling of the ELL students, that being twenty students, rather than the "focus on 9th and 10th grade students" as stated in the goal. (J-1 at 0017.) Pugh-Bassett indicated that there were forty students in that focus group. Tarchichi testified that as of 2018, there were approximately forty ELL students in the ninth and tenth grade population of Pennsauken high school.

Tarchichi contended that if all forty ELL students were sampled, that is simply not how research works. You are supposed to take a sample of the population, not the entire population. Plus, working with ELL students, some might not be able to participate in the study; some may not be interested in the health field; and others have no interest in participating in the study. He sampled twenty students from the ELL forty student population. Pugh-Bassett did not offer to approve payment for a portion of the goal. He did not interpret her letter indicating additional documentation needed to be provided, to mean that she would approve payment of a portion of the goal. (J-1.)

Pugh-Bassett also noted that Tarchichi did not provide documentation relative to the creation of additional writing instruction to assist with the vocabulary and grammar growth with ELL students in science, as outlined in goal #1. Pugh-Bassett indicated that the documentation provided did not show how the multiple choice pre- and post-testing measured student growth on writing strategies embedded in student learning, as outlined in goal #1. (J-1 at 0017.)

Tarchichi testified that he submitted to ECS Pugh-Bassett a great deal of documentation demonstrating that he completed goal #1. (J-9 at 1095–1138.) He submitted an outline of everything done for merit goal #1. (J-9 at 1137.) He submitted the post-test he created, with questions specific to the goal, to test the students' fundamental understanding of the basics of biological science and included writing to learn strategy, requiring the students to write answers to essay questions. (J-9 at 1096–1100.) He also created a genetics test that was used in the program. (J-9 at 1131.) He included agendas and sign-in sheets in the documentation submitted to Pugh-Bassett. (J-9 at 1102–1128.) Tarchichi explained that the agendas demonstrate writing strategies were discussed with staff members in the professional learning community specific to the ELL students. During a student assembly on February 9, 2018, Tarchichi addressed the high school ELL student sample of twenty students, talking about careers in the health profession, science field, and educational requirements, including the importance of writing in science. (J-9 at 1128.) The twenty students' pre-test and post-test scores were outlined in a table. (J-9 at 1138.) Tarchichi asserted this demonstrates the student growth in biological content knowledge. Every student listed on the chart had progressive increases in their post-testing scores compared to their pre-test score. (J-9 at 1138.)

Tarchichi explained that goal #1 was a quantitative goal. The students' testing scores demonstrated that the students grew quantitatively. He explained to Pugh-Bassett what writing strategies he implemented. (J-9 at 2480.) He believed he was not getting anywhere with Pugh-Bassett to approve payment of the goal. He proposed to Pugh-Bassett consideration of approving payment for half of the goal amount, that being $2,788.87, since she questioned why he did not sample the entire population of forty ELL students in ninth and tenth grades. (R-8.) He noted in his email to her, "I never specified in my goals that I would be using the entire population of ELL." (R-8.) Tarchichi stated that during the course of this OAL proceeding, Pugh-Bassett has not offered to approve payment of goal #1.

For the 2018–2019 school year, Tarchichi submitted six merit goals to Pugh-Bassett for her review and approval. She did not approve same. She requested additional information and submissions from him. Tarchichi requested from the DOE that his merit goals be reviewed and approved by another ECS from Burlington County. Eventually, a representative from the DOE directed Tarchichi to submit his 2018–2019 requested merit goals to the Salem County Interim ECS Nicolosi. Upon review, Nicolosi requested additional revisions and additional information from Tarchichi. He advised her he was not going to revise his goals again. She never approved the goals. Pennsauken BOE seeks to have Tarchichi's 2018–2019 merit goals approved.

Tarchichi asserts that during the beginning of the school year of 2018–2019, he was trying to get his proposed merit goals approved by Pugh-Bassett so that he could work to accomplish them. He prepared a timeline outlining the dates and times of his efforts and the status of Pugh-Bassett's responses. (J-17 at 1726–1729.) He initially sent his proposed merit goals via email to Pugh-Bassett on September 14, 2018. (J-17 at 1726 and 1730.) Pugh-Bassett first responded on October 17, 2018, offering feedback, and noted that "none of the goals as proposed are approvable." (J-17 at 1732–1733.) The two engaged in back-and-forth email communications regarding suggested revisions and discussion attempts to set-up a meeting regarding revisions to the merit goals.

Tarchichi submitted revised goals for review and approval to Pugh-Bassett on November 15, 2018. (J-17 at 0431.) He submitted goals identified as goal A through goal E. (J-17 at 0432–0436.)

The revised 2018–2019 merit goals covered several topics. Goal A generally dealt with continuing to approve more academic courses considered dual credit course initiatives, benefiting students at the advanced placement level, honors level, and college prep level, to receive college credits for courses directly aligned to what they wanted to pursue in college. (J-7 at 0432.) Goal B focused on growing the Career Technical Education (CTE) programs, creating courses that would directly link the students to employment, apprenticeships, and pathways to college. (J-7 at 0433.) Goal C dealt with college and career readiness for students, focusing on offering an SAT prep course, particularly to student athletes who wished to become collegiate athletes. (J-7 at 0434.) Goal D was addressing the chronic absenteeism issue, including data analysis and to create town hall meetings and incentives for students to be in school more. (J-7 at 0435.) Goal E was the creation of a climate and culture club to address global issues and read relevant books and hear from speakers on the issues of racism and violence; middle eastern conflict and religious underpinnings; and the North Korean conflict that was a global issue at the time. (J-7 at 0436.) His goal was to make all students more globally conscious, and not just aimed at students of a specific culture or descent.

He received a reply from Pugh-Bassett on November 26, 2018, with multiple questions about the revised proposed merit goals. (J-17 at 1753.) They spoke on the phone, and she provided another list of questions and comments on November 27, 2018, mandating that his final responses had to be sent to her by November 30, 2018, to guarantee he would have time to execute the goals. (J-17 at 1756.) They exchanged further email communications. (J-17 at 1756–1760.) He did consider Pugh-Bassett's comments and implemented those remarks into his "beefed" up revised goals and forwarded them to her on November 30, 2018. (J-7 at 1761; J-17 at 0470–0474.)

to be unprofessional, giving him deadlines, yet she had no deadlines for her response to him to approve or disapprove the proposed goals. She made remarks about portions of the goals she had not addressed previously, one of which made a comment about chronic absenteeism being a statutory requirement and could not be a merit goal effective June 1, 2018. She never mentioned that during the first round of revisions she provided when she should have done so.

Tarchichi again revised the goals and submitted them to Pugh-Bassett on December 16, 2018. (J-7 at 0482–0489.) Goal A still focused on the dual credit courses for college prep and honors students. Goal B still focused on the development of additional programs for CTE students. Goal C still focused on the SAT preparation program. Goal D no longer dealt with chronic absenteeism, and instead focused on the need for more Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) in the State and to create an EMT program in the CTE division. (J-7 at 0488.) Goal E still focused on the culture and climate club.

In the meantime, Tarchichi had requested that another ECS review his proposed merit goals for 2018–2019. He had to initiate litigation against Pugh-Bassett regarding the prior year's 2017–2018 merit goals. He spoke to representatives at the DOE. He was advised that Interim ECS Nicolosi would review the 2018–2019 merit goals. He was uncomfortable with that choice since Pugh-Bassett had recommended that Nicolosi should take over the review and approval of his proposed goals. He was not aware of any information disseminating from the DOE to its ECSs as to how they were to apply and follow a consistent review method and provide consistent recommendations for proposed merit goals.

Tarchichi submitted his proposed merit goals for 2018–2019 to Interim ECS Nicolosi on December 19, 2018. (J-7 at 0573.) She responded the following day, having made changes such as combining all goals into three goals with tiers. (J-7 at 0572; 0539–05044.) He responded by email on December 20, 2018, and submitted another revised version of the proposed merit goals on December 21, 2018. (J-7 at 0545; 0571, 0580–0584; and 0575–0579.) Nicolosi responded on December 24, 2018, providing commentary to each of the points Tarchichi had addressed in his December 20, 2018, email. (J-7 at 0580–0582.)

Tarchichi sent an email on January 2, 2019, to Nicolosi, outlining his responses to Nicolosi's previous comments, and provided his revised merit goals A through E. (J-7 at 0580; 0585–0591; 0592–0597.) He took issue with many of her comments and requests which went beyond what Pugh-Bassett had asked of him. For example, Nicolosi suggested that multiple goals be combined and then layered, or tiered, within the goal. He felt the situation was getting ridiculous and he was not willing to do certain things. She wanted him to combine an ACT prep course into the goal he proposed for SAT preparation. It just posed more hills to climb for him, which he felt he had been doing over the prior five months trying to get the initially proposed goals approved. He engaged in back-and-forth communications with Nicolosi. (J-7 at 0580–0586.)

Nicolosi responded on January 9, 2019, indicating in bold face type that they were both educators, professionals, and both wanted to see students succeed, and she wanted him to succeed in the accomplishment of his goals. (J-7 at 0597.) She noted that having reviewed his revised merit goals, it appeared that they were "at odds in the tiering or combination of goals and documentation" required to demonstrate accomplishment of goals. (J-7 at 0597.) She would not change her position on the combining and tiering of goals. She concluded that she anticipated his reply "will help bring closure to this process [of review and approval of merit goals.]" (J-7 at 0597.) Tarchichi found the response to be unprofessional and he stopped communicating with her. He believed Nicolosi's feedback and Pugh-Bassett's feedback contradicted one another. This demonstrated to him that there was no training given to ECSs as to how to proceed in reviewing and approving proposed merit goals.

Tarchichi asserted that there were other superintendents from other school districts who had proposed similar goals which were approved, while his were not approved by Pugh-Bassett and Nicolosi. (P-19.) As of February 7, 2013, Nicolosi approved goals for the Superintendent of Waterford Elementary School, including a goal to improve attendance, identified as a qualitative goal, when it should have been a quantitative goal. (P-19 at 1791.) He submitted a similar goal to Pugh-Bassett for 2018–

Nicolosi also approved a proposed goal by the Collingswood School District's Superintendent to expand the pre-school program for the 2018–2019 school year. (P-19 at 1808–1810.) Tarchichi asserted that the proposed goal was similar to the goals he proposed to expand the dual credit programs, to implement the EMT program, and to expand the HVAC and nursing CTE programs at Pennsauken. (J-7 at 0575–0576.)

Nicolosi approved the proposed goal by the Collingswood School District's Superintendent to ensure there was equity in education so that each child has an equal chance for success, requiring an understanding of the unique challenges and barriers faced by individual students or student populations to overcome barriers. (P-19 at 1809–1810.) Nicolosi approved payment for the completion of the goal. (P-19 at 1811–1814.) Tarchichi contends that he had a proposed goal which was similar, more detailed, and included bringing in community members as stakeholders, yet his goal was deemed not meritorious.

Nicolosi approved payment to be made to the Collingswood Superintendent for 2018–2019 completion of a goal to work with Rowan University to bolster and improve the quality of teaching candidates for the district. (P-19 at 1813–1814.) Tarchichi asserted this was similar to his proposed goal to partner with Rowan University to improve the district, regarding growth of courses for students for dual certification credits.

In 2015–2016, Tarchichi was superintendent in the Woodlynne School District. Pugh-Bassett approved completion and payment to be made to Tarchichi for accomplishment of merit bonus goals. (P-19 at 2080–2082.) One goal related to a three percent increase in proficiency in science. (P-19 at 2081.) In 2018–2019, one of his proposed goals for Pennsauken high school students was to improve the SAT test scores with an SAT preparation program. (J-7 at 577.) The evidence of completion for that goal was to demonstrate a five to ten percent improvement in reading and mathematics, which was greater than that which he proposed in the 2015–2016 goal to improve science proficiency in his prior school district, which was approved by Pugh-Bassett in 2015.

Pugh-Bassett approved merit goals for the 2017–2018 school year for the Winslow School District Superintendent, including a goal to create a STEM robotics program, which was already part of its curriculum, but would be an additional program for the first-year students at their middle school. (P-19 at 1778.) The second approved goal for that District's superintendent was to create a computer science pilot program for thirty-five students. The other approved goal was to create a pilot computer program for gaming design. (P-19 at 1778–1781.) Tarchichi asserts that the merit goals he submitted for the 2018–2019 school year called for the creation of new programs and the expansion of existing programs, just as those Pugh-Bassett approved for the Winslow Superintendent in 2017–2018. He sought in goals A and B to expand dual credit and academic programs and his revised goal D was to implement a new EMT program.

In 2015, Pugh-Bassett approved proposed merit goals by the Barrington School District Superintendent. The first qualitative goal dealt with presentations in a town meeting to parents and community members to be made aware of current educational trends, changes, and incentives. (P-19 at 1823.) Tarchichi asserts this is similar to his proposed goal E for the 2018–2019 school year regarding the proposed cultural book club and involving community stakeholders, which was not approved by Pugh-Bassett or Nicolosi. The second goal approved by Pugh-Bassett for the Barrington Superintendent dealt with revising job descriptions and updating same, which Tarchichi indicated was merely an administrative task and was not meritorious. He did not find any comparison between that proposed and approved goal to his goals, particularly the goal regarding the creation and implementation of the EMT program. He took issue that Nicolosi asked him to combine proposed goals, which had been revised multiple times for Pugh-Bassett.

In 2016, Pugh-Bassett approved payment for the completion 2015–2016 merit goals for the Barrington School District Superintendent. (P-19 at 1828.) Those goals dealt with conducting research on the district's existing STEAM program, based upon science, technology, engineering, arts, and math, and expansion of same; and spearheading professional development to increase the district's standardizing math testing benchmarks. The Barrington BOE approved payment of the goals. Pugh-Bassett noted in her letter that one goal was not fully documented, yet she did approve full payment as per the Board's decision. (P-19 at 1829.) Tarchichi compared this to his goal for the 2017–2018 school year regarding ELL students and the development of their language skills and writing for biological sciences careers. The Pennsauken BOE approved full payment for accomplishment of this goal. Pugh-Bassett did not approve payment and never offered that she would accept certain documentation in lieu of something else to affirm the goal was completed. She provided a warning or reminder to the Barrington Superintendent regarding documentation that would confirm completion of a goal, yet never provided that to Tarchichi.

Likewise, Pugh-Bassett never provided any suggestions regarding the EMT goal Tarchichi was trying to get approved for the 2018–2019 school year. Even though the goal was not approved by Pugh-Bassett, Tarchichi did roll out an EMT program that year and completed the goal, as set forth in his proposed goals.

In January 2018, Pugh-Bassett approved payment for the Barrington School District's Superintendent for accomplishment of 2016–2017 school year goals. (P-19 at 1838–1840.) One goal was the development of a multi-cultural club, similar to Tarchichi's proposed goal for a cultural club, except that his was for high school level students. Tarchichi asserted his responsibilities to accomplish the goal were more detailed than the Barrington Superintendent had achieved, and Tarchichi also proposed using three books dealing with current events and race issues. (P-19 at 1840.) Tarchichi asserted that his more detailed goal was not approved, with Pugh-Bassett indicating it was not meritorious.

As of June 2015, an Interim ECS from Camden approved payment for accomplished goals by the Bellmawr School District. One goal was that the superintendent would direct their staff members to design and create a data collection system to be used to track achievement in reading and math. (P-19 at 1857.) Tarchichi did not find this to be a qualitative goal. Another goal approved for the Bellmawr School District's Superintendent was to secure a referendum for funding and beginning an early childhood center. (P-19 at 1857.) Tarchichi has secured multi-million referendums and has had new buildings created and new facilities renovated for security purposes. These tasks were part of his job as a superintendent and were not done as a merit goal.

As of June 7, 2018, Pugh-Bassett approved payment of merit goals for the Black Horse Pike Regional School District's Superintendent. (P-19 at 1863.) That superintendent's first merit goal was to grow a program in which the school had partnered with a finishing trades institute to train and support the growth of a skilled labor force in the area. The superintendent sought to increase the student participation fifty percent, from twenty-four students by adding twelve more students. (P-19 at 1863–1864.) Tarchichi asserted that his proposed goal to create the EMT program was similar to the Black Horse Pike Regional School District's Superintendent's goal which was approved for payment by Pugh-Bassett.

As of June 30, 2014, another Interim ECS had approved payment to the Collingswood School District's Superintendent for completion of a merit goal to increase the percentage of students taking the PSAT exam. (P-19 at 1919.) Tarchichi contended that the goal he submitted to both Pugh-Bassett and Nicolosi required a great deal more work in preparing the students to take the SAT, and not just increase the number of students taking the test.

As of March 2, 2017, Pugh-Bassett approved the Haddonfield School District's Superintendent's proposed goal to move the district from a STEM-based approach to a STEAM-based approach, and proposed establishing a school district task force comprised of community members and stakeholders to culminate in a report of recommendations the superintendent would then present to the Board of Education for implementation in the 2017–2018 school year. (P-19 at 1990.) Tarchichi contended his proposed goals were similar but much more detailed.

Nicolosi approved the Logan Township School District's Superintendent's proposed goals for 2016–2017, including a goal to strengthen communication with the district's parents and community members regarding the district's mission in the community. This would be measured by using social media venues and the business administrator meeting with township administrators to develop communication with the governing bodies. (P-19 at 1994–1995.) Tarchichi asserted that communicating with folks in the community, as well as parents and students, was something that he did as part of his job. He did not see how the approved goal for the Logan Township Superintendent was a meritorious goal if it was proposing doing something that is part of the job of being a superintendent.

Another Interim ECS approved Winslow Township Superintendent's goal for the 2014–2015 school year to implement a STEM program at the middle school. (P-19 at 2050.) Pugh-Bassett approved compensation for the Winslow Superintendent for having completed 2015–2016 merit goals, including one goal with the aim to have students become more fully immersed in the new STEM program. (P-19 at 2052.) Another approved completed goal was to create and implement a journalism program in the middle school. (P-19 at 2052–2053.) Tarchichi affirmed that his proposed goals also offered to create and expand new programs at Pennsauken in 2018–2019, such as the EMT program, other CTE programs, and the dual credit programs.

Tarchichi agreed and disagreed that issues presented in one school district may not be the same in another district. He did agree that every school year can bring new and different needs to a district. He acknowledged that he was not present nor a part of any discussions or communications which may have occurred between other superintendents from other school districts during the merit goal process with Pugh-Bassett, Nicolosi, or any other ECS as he outlined. He did not work alongside any other superintendents while they completed their own merit goal processes. He did not have personal knowledge as to how the other superintendents' goals originated, regarding the other letters he pointed to demonstrating others' approvals. He was only aware of the final result as set forth in the letters for the other superintendents.

Tarchichi contends that he was not dealt with fairly in the process of the approval of proposed goals and approval for payment of completed goals for the 2017–2018 school year and for the approval of proposed goals for the 2018–2019 school year. There were many other superintendents who had proposed goals approved which were much less detailed than his proposed goals, or were goals that he did not see as meritorious as they involved tasks which were part of the job of being superintendent. There were other superintendents who were approved to be paid for the completion of such goals. His goals were rejected. He was never offered a partial payment of goal #1 from the 2017–2018 school year. He was never advised that any of the goals and resubmissions of revised goals for the 2018–2019 school year were ever approved.

Nicholas Perry testified for petitioner. He is the Pennsauken BOE president. He has been a member of the BOE for five years, the last three of which he has served as president. He is a retired educator. He taught for thirty-six years in the Philadelphia public school district, in a blue-ribbon school.

When he became president of the Pennsauken BOE, the board decided there was a much needed change in the direction of their district. He realized a change was needed when 110 students of the graduating class of Pennsauken High School stood up at graduation to signify they were college bound. The other approximate 410 students who were graduating were receiving just a diploma without having other guidance. The Board chose to remove the Superintendent, Human Resources Administrator, and the Business Administrator. The district began with a "clean slate," which included the hiring of Tarchichi as the Superintendent for the Pennsauken School District.

Perry noted that Tarchichi has been responsible for implementing sixteen new programs related to CTE technical educational programming at Pennsauken. Such new programs include carpentry, EMT/Medical technician, Jr. ROTC, and will soon include a diesel technician program and a baking program in conjunction with an international baking company which has a local baking/manufacturing facility.

Perry was engaged in the review of Tarchichi's contract and specifically wanted to include the opportunity for Tarchichi to propose merit goals for the 2017–2018 and 2018–2019 school years. Perry understood the importance of having merit goals, as that would enable Tarchichi to get paid for additional services that he would perform above and beyond his contracted duties. Perry acknowledged that the school district, through its citizens, would be responsible to pay for Tarchichi's contract and his merit goals.

Perry believes that there has been a shift in the culture in the school district. He asserted that the students are now engaged, with the high school students more involved in their future planning, knowing that they will be learning skills through the CTE programs for future employment. He credits Tarchichi for working above and beyond his superintendent duties, including serving as principal for one of the schools within the district, but he is not getting paid for that. Tarchichi is the only employee in the district with certification in Special Education. That is also a savings to the Pennsauken BOE.

Perry asserted that Tarchichi deserves to get paid for the services he provided under the proposed merit goals. Perry identified himself as being a "union person" and individuals should be paid for things they have done, including services that went over and above their contract. That is why the Pennsauken BOE authorized proceeding with these lawsuits, believing it is imperative that Tarchichi be paid for the merit goals he achieved.

Lovell Pugh-Bassett testified. She is currently employed by Camden County College, which employment began approximately August 2021. Prior to that, she was the ECS for Camden County for approximately six years. She previously was employed by the DOE for approximately twenty years.

Pugh-Bassett explained that a new ECS receives "collegial training" by being partnered with other ECSs for mentoring. She learned the "nuances" of the ECS position by having been employed with the DOE. While at the DOE, she learned how to "navigate" through the DOE system. Outside of that, there is no formal "onboarding training" for an ECS. Much of the collegial mentoring occurred during monthly ECS meetings, where the ECSs would share their "challenges" from their respective counties and would exchange advice and support.

The duties of an ECS are all encompassing, with daily responsibilities varying depending upon the ebb and flow of the school year. An ECS is responsible for overseeing budget reviews, contracts, and providing support to school districts for compliance with best practices. ECSs will monitor school districts via the New Jersey Quality Single Accountability Continuum (NJ QSAC) process and guide districts about regulations, statutes, and code. There are regulations that govern an ECS's duties.

Some regulations provide broad guidance while others go into more detail for very targeted areas of an ECS's job duties.

As ECS for Camden County, Pugh-Bassett was responsible to oversee thirty-eight school districts and approximately nine to ten charter schools. Her specific work in overseeing superintendents of school districts varied. Generally, she would meet with the superintendents who were coming into a new school district to give them support and to share openly and transparently about what was going on in their new school district. She generally would check back in with the superintendent after two or three years to see how things were going. She did a lot of troubleshooting and "a lot of support." She navigated all the "moving parts."

There are monthly roundtable meetings for district superintendents to attend. They get together to discuss concerns they may have. Information is shared which may come "from Trenton" about compliance, regulations, or sharing of initiatives posed by the DOE. They are voluntary meetings.

Review and approval of bonus merit goals were included duties as an ECS. Pugh-Bassett described merit goals as an opportunity for superintendents to identify a specific issue they wished to address within their district that goes above and beyond the requirements of the school district. This gives the superintendent an opportunity to be compensated for addressing issues that go beyond their minimum job duty requirements. A quantitative merit goal is measured by a numerical value. A qualitative merit goal is measured by "soft indicators" like videos and newspaper clips.

Pugh-Bassett acknowledged there was no written guidance, nor protocols or instructions in the entire state to explain how an ECS should review a superintendent's merit goals. When asked what the merit goal process was, she explained that when she was first promoted to ECS for Camden County, she placed an agenda item on one of the monthly roundtable meetings to have a discussion of what her expectations would be with regard to superintendents' merit goals. The way she handles merit goals is to have a conversation with the superintendent to "troubleshoot" their proposed goals with her, prior to the superintendent submitting the goals to their BOE for approval. This is done to avoid the embarrassment of having the BOE submit the approved proposed merit goals to her with which she did not agree. She saw this as "a bit of cover for the superintendent and opportunity to really have some pre-talks about what they would like to address, I do that process first." (Transcript 2, page 41:13–20.) Then she will "solidify" the goals and come up with consensual language the superintendent will follow, and give her a final draft she will then approve.

Other times, she might have additional meetings, or the superintendent of a district "comes to the table" and says they want to address something "in my equity" and they will figure out based upon her monitoring, performance, and the climate, how to come up with a merit goal very specific to the district. After she approves a merit goal, she sends a letter to the BOE advising them the goal has been approved. She goes through "this painstaking process of trying to make sure that the goal matches a need and that the documentation to be submitted to support the goal is specific enough to be able to demonstrate that they've achieved the goal." (T2 42:5–12.)

She has seen the process evolve over the years, due to document requests from members of the public. Pugh-Bassett developed her procedure to be sure she had the right information available in the event documentation was needed to support that she did go through the process of having merit goals for a superintendent. Also, every now and then, the ECS office gets audited, so she likes to have the documentation "also in kind" to show what she reviewed when "approving or denying or whatever the process was included in the development of the goal." She asserted that the goal should be impactful for the district, although she was not certain if the regulation regarding merit goals expressly stated that the goal must be specific to the needs of the district.

Pugh-Bassett did not know if this was the same process for all county superintendents. She acknowledged that she was not aware how each ECS handled approval of merit goals in their counties. She only had the opportunity to find out what other ECSs did on a daily basis during "collegial conversations" with them. She was not aware whether every ECS even received merit goals for review, asserting that is optional for the district to submit. She was not certain if all other ECSs in the state did review merit goals, but believed that "a good number" or "good portion" of them did have to deal with merit goals.

Pugh-Bassett asserted that the "skeletal process" of handling merit goals was having an ECS review and approve of proposed goals, and then letting the BOE know that a goal has been approved. An ECS then goes through the process of reviewing submitted documentation and approving payment to be made by a BOE when the superintendent has completed a merit goal.

She described that a superintendent decides "in house" how they want to procedurally have their proposed goals submitted to their BOE for approval. She explained that most superintendents will wait until she and they have "95% approvable" goals before vetting the proposed goals through the superintendent's BOE for formal approval. If she gets such proposed goals from a BOE that is seeking her approval, she will just "respond in kind" with a formal letter.

Other superintendents will go to the BOE first with their proposed goals. She will then respond to the BOE and say whether the goals are approvable or not, and the BOE will respond to her with approvable goals based upon conversations she has had with the superintendent. The BOE may also wait for her to come to a consensus with the superintendent before going through the formal process again of approving proposed merit goals. She was not aware if the DOE issued any specific guidance regarding the writing of merit goals.

The BOE must approve proposed goals since they are the entity that must pay the superintendent for completed goals. The merit goals are activities being carried out on behalf of the school district so the BOE must be aware and approve of the proposed goals. Pugh-Bassett, as ECS, is required to approve the proposed merit goals following the BOE's approval, because the statute says that is her role. The goals cannot be executed and worked upon until she has granted approval.

Pugh-Bassett asserted that the statute pertinent to merit goals does not outline specific deadlines for the process of approval of the proposed goals and approval of payment for the completion of goals. The "natural flow" is that "a lot" of superintendents submit their goals in August so she has an opportunity to review them before the kick-off of the school year. Her office gets very busy at the start of the school year. She tried to get the merit goals "closed out by September 30th" but noted the process could go beyond that date, depending upon the "back and forth." She acknowledged that she goes back and forth as long as possible so that she gets to a "yes" regarding the language of a goal and does not have to go through the process of denial of a goal. This gives the superintendent time to get the language of a merit goal "in a way that makes it approvable[.]" During the back and forth process, she provides her feedback on the document submitted by the superintendent, which outlines the goals by using the track-changes function in the word processing program, or she will do bulleted lists and emails which are very thorough and responsive to make sure that she can "honor them and give them the respect that they deserve for having taking the time to submit the merit goal so that I can give them good responses." On occasion, she has done research to assist a struggling superintendent to come up with ideas for a merit goal. She will give a suggestion for a replacement idea for a merit goal so that the superintendent does not fall short of the intended number of goals being proposed for the school year.

Pugh-Bassett asserted that she typically meets with the superintendent after the first submission of proposed goals to her through scheduling a remote GoTo Meeting so they can have an extensive conversation. Sometimes she schedules in-person meetings with the superintendent. She then provides written feedback to the superintendent. They are fine-tuning the information for the superintendent so that the superintendent does not get "blindsided" when they come to meet with her about their proposed goals. She was unaware if any of her superintendents provided their BOE with the feedback she gave to the superintendent when helping them to draft their goals.

She believes that merit goals are important for a superintendent who is trying to do additional initiatives in their district. She thus gives the proposed goals "time and attention that they need even if it exhausts past what a soft deadline would be so that we could get to the point where the merit goal could possibly be approved." Pugh-Bassett could not consider approval of proposed merit goals for a prior school year because the goals are developed based upon the need of the district at the time, and those needs shift "so very frequently." She noted that an ECS has no stake in whether a merit goal is approved or not. It only provided her a point of pride, where she could brag as an ECS of a superintendent who had done amazing initiatives.

During the 2017–2018 school year, Pugh-Bassett had approximately seven to eight superintendents who each submitted four or five proposed merit goals for her to review. Tarchichi was one of those superintendents. Pugh-Bassett had provided a form to her superintendents to use when submitting goals. A colleague from Bergen County had crafted the form which was used by that colleague in their process of going through merit goals. The colleague shared the form with Pugh-Bassett. Pugh-Bassett found the "informal form" to be a good template for superintendents to better organize their merit goals. On the form, there is an area for "goal type" and it is filled in as quantitative or qualitative goal. The value, or compensation that is sought for the goal, is included under the type of goal by inputting the percentage of the superintendent's salary that is sought to be paid if the goal is accomplished. The actual amount in dollar value may be placed under the percentage. (R-3.) Pugh-Bassett was unsure if the person who served as Camden County ECS prior to her had used that same form.

Tarchichi used the form provided to him by Pugh-Bassett, and submitted to her a draft of five proposed goals, identified as A through E, and that "began the conversation around his merit goals." (R-1.) She responded to Tarchichi's first proposed merit goal submissions, via email, on September 25, 2017, indicating in her first sentence that "these merit goals need work." (R-2.) She proceeded to explain in the email that all of the goals are not approvable because "they are simply replications of requirements of a district (see comments)." (R-2.) She gave a few examples of issues her office knew that the Pennsauken district was facing which he could address in merit goals. She asserted that the superintendent is supposed to be the "star" of the goal, meaning the superintendent has to be the person doing the work to earn the pay. She included her comments in tracking-text boxes on the form he had submitted to her. (R-2.) She also made comments on the areas of the goals that were questionable. This is the format she typically used to provide feedback to all superintendents.

She thereafter had a conversation with Tarchichi about his proposed goals and her feedback. She followed up with him in an email on October 3, 2017, believing it to be their "second round" of her giving additional feedback. The email provided feedback in bullet-point format and additional instructions as to how he should revise his proposed goals for her further review. (R-2 at 2463.)

Tarchichi sent her a revamped version of his merit goals after their initial back and forth. (R-3.) He submitted proposed merit goals A through E, which eventually were all approved by Pugh-Bassett, as per her letter of January 4, 2018, except for goal E. (R-4.) The Pennsauken BOE thereafter approved the proposed goals A through D for the 2017–2018 school year.

Pugh-Bassett did not approve of proposed goal E. (R-3.) That goal dealt with Tarchichi conducting a monthly training academy for new administrative staff to give additional support to the staff as they transitioned into more seasoned administrators. (R-3 at 2471.) Tarchichi proposed that the group would meet for a minimum of ten training sessions during the 2017–2018 school year. (R-3.)

Pugh-Bassett's letter to the Pennsauken BOE of January 4, 2018, described that this goal did not "meet the threshold of being "meritorious" in relation to existing mandatory requirements for the support of new school leaders through professional learning as outlined in N.J.A.C. 6A:9C-3.2." (J-1 at 11; R-4 at 2474, internal quotation and italics original.) Pugh-Bassett explained that in early 2017, the professional standards regulations were revised to include a requirement that school districts provide a broad range of professional learning opportunities for teachers and school administrators. To be meritorious, a goal must be something going above and beyond minimum requirements. She wanted Tarchichi's proposed goal to go above and beyond what the regulation indicated was to be provided. She got no response from him about this in their back and forth exchange over proposed goals, so she deemed the goal as not being approvable. She claimed she did not "outright deny" this goal.

She asserted she is not permitted to approve a goal to do something that is already a requirement to be done, since superintendents would then be paid twice for executing requirements of their job. She acknowledged that the regulation she cited, N.J.A.C. 6A:9C-3.2, requires school administrators, which she described as teachers and administrators, being the "school leaders" to receive training as per the regulation. She avoided confirming that the regulation does not specify that the superintendent is to provide that training, but that professional development and training are required to be done and superintendents are responsible for their school district. The superintendent has the inherent responsibility to make sure the requirements are being implemented.

Pugh-Bassett stated that if a goal was denied for not being meritorious, a superintendent absolutely could not resubmit that goal. The Superintendent may expand or build upon a previously denied goal, but it should not be duplicated and resubmitted. She confirmed that the proposed training academy goal by Tarchichi was later approved by another Interim ECS, Judy DeStefano, from Cape May County, to be worked upon by Tarchichi for the 2019–2020 school year. (P-18 at 1768.) She further acknowledged that the approved goal did not specify the number of sessions required, while the goal she reviewed specified ten sessions would be conducted. She did not agree with Interim ECS DeStefano's approval of the goal for Tarchichi. Pugh-Bassett recognized that each ECS comes from a different background of experience and skills and that none received "on boarding training" or a training process when hired as an ECS. She thus recognized that ECSs could evaluate merit goals differently and might review the exact same proposed merit goal and come to a completely different conclusion, as occurred here.

Pugh-Bassett thereafter had not received, as of July 16, 2018, confirming documentation from Tarchichi that he completed the proposed goals A through D for the 2017–2018 school year. She needed to review such documentation to determine if she would approve payment to be made by the Pennsauken BOE to Tarchichi. She sent a letter to the Pennsauken BOE indicating that the merit goals had been approved for completion by the close of the school year, June 30, and are to be reviewed for completion by the Pennsauken BOE and then submitted to her for approval to be paid. (R-5.) She requested that the Pennsauken BOE advise her if Tarchichi had completed his 2017–2018 merit goals or whether they would no longer be seeking approval for payment. She noted the documentation had to be forwarded to her by August 31, 2018, because there may be a delay in reviewing such documentation since her focus would be shifted to approval of proposed goals submitted for the 2018–2019 school year. The August 31, 2018 deadline was a date she set to give Tarchichi the opportunity to submit the documentation of completed goals so she could provide a timely response.

A few weeks after Pugh-Bassett sent the "tickler" letter to the Pennsauken BOE, she did receive, in her office, documentation to demonstrate that Tarchichi had completed his goals. She did not know whether the Pennsauken BOE submitted the documentation or if Tarchichi himself submitted it, since she is not "privy" to those internal workings. Typically, documentation would come into her office via courier to her assistant, but she did not know who had submitted it.

She reviewed the documentation and prepared a page of comments regarding all four goals and the documentation she still needed to review to determine if Tarchichi should be approved for payment. Pugh-Bassett's assistant sent an email on August 27, 2018, to Tarchichi, forwarding Pugh-Bassett's comments and advising him the documentation requested had to be provided no later than September 7, 2018. (R-6.) Pugh-Bassett described that she provided comments because she needed some clarity about each goal that was originally submitted as she lined up the documents sent in to demonstrate completion. She needed to "tease out" what she was looking at to gain "clarity" to figure out exactly what documentation was provided to respond to what part of the originally approved goal.

Specifically, as to goal A, also referred to as goal 1, Pugh-Bassett wanted additional documentation. (R-6.) That goal was for ELL students in ninth and tenth grades to improve their science vocabulary. She had confirmed with Tarchichi that there were forty students at Pennsauken who fell into that category of students, but she had only received documentation for twenty students. She requested additional documentation, which she did receive from Tarchichi, but he did not respond to her questions about writing strategies and evidence of completion. Later, they had a conversation and "delved" into "that number 20" due to her comparison of the number of ninth and tenth grade students who were eligible "to receive the treatment of his merit goal." They went through another round of emails in mid-September. (J-1 at 13.) She asserted in an email of September 18, 2018, to Tarchichi, that this was his final opportunity to provide additional responses to satisfy attainment of his goals, and that she would not be considering his proposed 2018–2019 goals until she received responses from him to allow her to close out his 2017–2018 goals. (J-1 at 13.)

Pugh-Bassett received voluminous documentation, so it was clear to her that some work had been done on the first goal. She wanted to give Tarchichi the opportunity to receive partial approval, and was outlining in dollars and cents in her email what that could be if he provided appropriate documentation. (J-1 at 13.) Since the proposed population of students was forty, she expected to see documentation that forty students were served. There was "no conversation" around serving a sub-population of that group. She asserted that she offered to approve payment of fifty percent of the goal, since twenty students would be fifty percent of the forty students she expected to have been served, as set forth in her email. (J-1 at 13.) She does not always offer that as an option.

Tarchichi did respond to her September 18, 2018, email, by dropping off additional documentation, as of September 28, 2018. He also sent a reply email on that date. (R-7; J-1 at 13.) He asserted he never specified in his original goal that he would be using the entire population of ELL ninth and tenth grade students. He wanted to engage students interested in sciences, especially the field of health care. He used a sample of the entire population. (R-8; J-1 at 13.) She received the documentation he dropped off, but it did not satisfy her inquiries regarding the first goal.

Pugh-Bassett received the Pennsauken BOE's resolution approving payment to Tarchichi for completion of merit goals A–D for the 2017–2018 school year. She authored a letter on October 12, 2018, in response to the Pennsauken BOE. (J-1 at 15.) She approved payment for goals B through D. (J-1 at 17.) She did not approve payment for the first goal, A. She noted in her letter that the submission from Tarchichi did not satisfy the requirements for approval and would not be approved for payment. (J-1 at 17.) She indicated that Tarchichi had focused on a sampling of the ELL students, that being twenty students, rather than focusing on all ninth and tenth grade ELL students, which she was told was comprised of forty students. She claimed, during cross-examination, that her "take away" of the goal was that the focus was on all ninth and tenth grade students. She acknowledged that she had previously approved merit goals that only impacted a small subset of students.

Pugh-Bassett also criticized that Tarchichi had not provided documentation to demonstrate additional writing instruction to assist with the vocabulary and grammar growth of ELL students, and that the documentation did not demonstrate how the multiple choice tests measured student growth on writing strategies embedded in student learning. (J-1 at 17.) She acknowledged, during cross-examination, that there was nothing in the approved proposed goal requiring submission of writing samples to gain approval for payment of the goal. She dodged confirming that the proposed goal never required submission of the actual tests administered. She was not satisfied with the summary sheet of student scores provided by Tarchichi. She was steadfast that the information provided to her as documentation of fulfillment of the goal was not complete enough for her to make an accurate assessment of the achievement of the goal.

Pugh-Bassett denied telling Tarchichi directly that she refused to discuss payment for goal #1 anymore, and denied that she suggested he could file a lawsuit. She did confirm, in correspondence to the Pennsauken BOE on October 12, 2018, that if Tarchichi wished to appeal to the Commissioner of Education due to her denial of compensation for goal #1, he could submit a request to the Office of Controversies and Disputes. (J-1 at Exhibit C.) She did not want to "litigate this goal denial in my office" and he could file an appeal.

Tarchichi submitted his proposed 2018–2019 merit goals in October 2018. Pugh-Bassett responded with remarks about re-crafting each of the proposed goals. (J-7 at 419–420.) They exchanged several emails over several days to set up a meeting to review his 2018–2019 proposed goals. (J-7.) As of November 7, 2018, Pugh-Bassett sent an email to Tarchichi outlining some suggestions for his proposed merit goals. (J-7 419–420; R-10.) He submitted his revised proposed goals, identified as A through E, to her on November 15, 2018, on the merit goals submission form. (J-7 at 431–436.) She provided a feedback email to him, with bulleted points for each proposed goal. (J-7 at 445–456.)

He forwarded to her, via email on November 20, 2018, certified minutes from the Pennsauken BOE meeting of November 19, 2018. (J-7 at 437–439.) The minutes confirmed that the Pennsauken BOE approved resubmitting Tarchichi's proposed 2018–2019 merit goals to Pugh-Bassett. (J-7 at 439.) The minutes also confirmed that the Pennsauken BOE approved having the Board's solicitor pursue litigation regarding Tarchichi's merit goals. (J-7 at 438.)

On November 26, 2018, she sent an email to Tarchichi with an outline of feedback for each of his proposed goals A through E. (J-7 at 445.) She was confident they could work through the goals by the end of the day. (J-7 at 445.) Tarchichi responded that he needed to discuss the goals with her. (J-7 at 446.) They exchanged emails, agreeing to talk that evening on the phone. (J-7 at 448–454.) They spoke on the phone, and Pugh-Bassett stated it was a very contentious phone call and she had "to exit the conversation" because she was "becoming offended." During that conversation, Tarchichi requested that another ECS review his merit goals. She told him that she would forward that information to her supervisor and respond to him. She was advised that he could not have another county's ECS review his goals. She communicated that to Tarchichi. (J-7 at 458.) She was willing to continue to work with him to clarify his goals so that they would be approvable. (Id.) Pugh-Bassett gave another detailed bulleted list of comments and questions about each of the five proposed goals. (J-7 at 458–459.) She advised him that he needed to respond by that Friday to guarantee he would "have time to execute the goals in order to maximize its impact on student success." (J-7 at 460.)

Pugh-Bassett testified that Tarchichi again requested to have another ECS review his merit goals and wanted to speak to the DOE supervisor with whom she had spoken. In an email of November 27, 2018, Tarchichi indicated that she was the one who suggested that he have another ECS review his merit goals and he agreed. (J-7 at 458.) As of December 18, 2018, the Acting Director of the Office of Field Services Coordination for the DOE sent an email to Tarchichi advising him that effective immediately, Nicolosi would be responsible for reviewing his proposed 2018–2019 merit goals. (R-13.)

which she approved regarding that district's STEAM program, was similar to Tarchichi's 2017–2018 goal regarding ELL students' improvement in science writing and vocabulary. (P-19 at 1828.) She asserted the Barrington goal targeted district-wide students, while Tarchichi's goal only focused on a subset of students in ninth and tenth grades.

Pugh-Bassett authored a letter, as of January 2, 2018, approving payment for merit goals achieved by the Barrington Superintendent from the 2016–2017 school year. (P-19 at 1838–1840.) One goal was for the establishment of a middle school multicultural/diversity club. Pugh-Bassett explained that the Barrington School District had issues that "bubbled up" throughout the previous school year regarding ethnicity and race, and since the goal dealt with preparing middle school students to be successful in high school on issues of multi-culturalism and diversity, she approved it. She acknowledged that Tarchichi's proposed goal for the culture and climate club would be "in a similar bucket" yet asserted that the Barrington's Superintendent's goal was "a little bit more focused on the students based upon existing issues that have been raised or have come up" in that district. (Trans Oct 27, 2021, 144:25-23.)

She did not approve Tarchichi's proposed goal for the 2018–2019 school year for the culture and climate club because she had "some questions of clarity" regarding the benefit of the proposed goal and Pennsauken's student demographic. She defended her position, asserting that she did not insinuate that his goal was not an approvable goal, per se. She wanted to get additional information to determine what would be the impact. She asserted she engaged in significant back and forth with the Barrington Superintendent to approve his proposed goals. Since the letter was from January 2018, which was for the 2016–2017 school year, that reflected a very intense back and forth process.

Pugh-Bassett supported her position that a superintendent is supposed to be the "star" of a merit goal, meaning that the superintendent is performing most of the work to execute a goal. She could not discredit Tarchichi's assertion that a goal approved for another superintendent in another school district in 2015 was a goal in which the superintendent was not the star. (P-19 at 1857.) She was not involved in the back and forth approval process for the goals and did not believe that the template form she utilized for superintendents to develop and submit their proposed merit goals was being utilized prior to her becoming ECS for Camden County.

She testified that the "process of merit goals evolves every iteration" and that process was the topic of "intense conversations" at monthly ECS meetings after 2015. The process of approval of goals "depends upon the landscape of the county" and that there are "very focused initiatives" in each county, going down to the district level, depending upon the specific needs of the district. If the DOE is embarking upon a specific focus or initiative, the individual superintendents may want to piggyback on those initiatives and create goals "that enhance those initiatives to be consistent and aligned." She emphasized that there are "very, very, very unique" needs of school districts that force very targeted and varying goals. A common theme may be found between districts, but the specificity of merit goals will vary based upon the needs of the district.

Margaret "Peggy" Nicolosi testified. She is the Interim ECS for Salem County, which position she has filled for approximately thirteen years. In the 2018–2019 school year, she was Interim ECS for Salem County and Cumberland County.

She described merit goals as an opportunity for a superintendent to take on initiatives that they may not normally address, being over and above what they normally do. There can be three quantitative goals for the year, paid out at 3.33% of the superintendent's salary; and two qualitative goals for the year, paid out at 2.5% of the superintendent's salary. A qualitative goal is doing something in the district to improve the life or district situation, which is a program or project with not a lot of data involved. A quantitative goal is a program or project with specific data involved, which can be more rigorous than a qualitative goal.

Nicolosi descried the merit goal process. Generally, a school board will establish their district goals for the upcoming school year in July, and then the superintendent will propose merit goals aligned with the district's initiatives for the year, usually in approximately August. She will then go back and forth with the superintendent, similar to any type of negotiation process, to develop the merit goal and agree upon what is going to be the baseline data required to demonstrate completion of the goal.

Her communications with a superintendent are generally via email, but sometimes done in person or over the phone. She usually will insert comments or questions in red directly into the proposed merit goals document she gets from the superintendent. She also provides feedback in more detail in an email she usually sends in response with the red comments. She described that as in any negotiation process, neither party is going to be completely happy with the result, but if the students are the end benefit, the merit goals are settled, and she will send a letter to the school district approving the goals. The superintendent then works on the goals during the school year. In approximately mid-May through the end of June, the superintendent will submit to her the documentation they already agreed upon to demonstrate if the goal was accomplished. If the documentation demonstrates completion, a letter is sent to the BOE authorizing payment of the goal to the superintendent.

Some superintendents will tier their merit goals. Nicolosi explained that it means the superintendent has broken down a goal into parts with steps or levels. If the superintendent is only able to attain part of the goal, they can still be paid a certain amount of money for the part that was accomplished. Tiering a goal is something that may be initiated by the superintendent, or through discussions she has with the superintendent when she is in the process of reviewing the proposed drafted goals. If it is a complicated or multi-step goal, it may be to the advantage of the superintendent to tier the goal.

Nicolosi confirmed that she has never received written guidance from the DOE regarding how she should evaluate merit goals. She agreed that there was no formal on boarding or training for new ECSs. She disagreed with Pugh-Bassett's testimony that the process of reviewing and authorizing merit goals varies from county ECS to county ECS. She recognized that ECSs come into their role from various backgrounds with various experience.

During the 2018–2019 school year, approximately twenty-five percent of the superintendents she oversaw were working on merit goals. She was assigned to review Tarchichi's 2018–2019 merit goals as of December 18, 2018, when she received an email from the DOE representative. (R-13.) She assumed Pugh-Bassett had reviewed the proposed goals prior to her being assigned to review them. She was not given any other information as to why she was assigned to review his goals. She did not speak to the previous ECS, Pugh-Bassett, when she received the assignment. She was not aware of the back and forth that had occurred between Pugh-Bassett and Tarchichi before she was assigned the review. Nicolosi did not request Pugh-Bassett's suggested changes. Nicolosi did not review any of Tarchichi's prior submissions. She did not request Pennsauken BOE's goals for the year. She assumed what was submitted to her from Tarchichi was aligned with the BOE's goals. She did not speak to any Pennsauken BOE members regarding the proposed goals.

Nicolosi received Tarchichi's proposed goals for 2018–2019 on a merit goal submission form. (R-14.) He emailed the information to her on December 19, 2018. (J-7 at 606.) Goal A dealt with dual credit programs for Camden County College, Rowan College, and Cumberland County College. Goal B dealt with CTE vocational programming, including a culinary program with Atlantic Cape Community College. Goal C dealt with SAT improvement. Goal D was to create an EMT program in the district. Goal E was the culture book club. (J-7 at 485.) After reviewing the proposed goals, she responded to Tarchichi, with red line modifications and comments she made directly on the form. (R-15.) She recalled going back and forth with him several times via email, making headway on some goals and not so much on others.

Nicolosi believed that three of Tarchichi's goals were very similar. She revised goals A, B, and D, into one goal, as goal A. (R-15.) She was attempting to put those goals together into one because the activities were very similar regarding career readiness, contacts with local colleges, and getting dual credits. One suggestion she made was to substitute Rowan College at Gloucester County instead of Cumberland County College, due to the closer proximity of that school to Pennsauken. (R-15.) She acknowledged that the regulation pertaining to review of merit goals did not include requirements for distances for proposed merit goal programming. She wanted to delineate documentation and information to be submitted so she could see finite numbers. She could not approve the three goals, which she modified into one goal, as he had proposed.

She had not seen or heard Pugh-Bassett's comments regarding the three proposed goals from Tarchichi, which Nicolosi combined into one goal. She could not confirm if the colleges in each of Tarchichi's goals had the exact same programming. Nicolosi recognized that she approved two separate goals for the Oldmans Township superintendent in 2014, where both goals addressed the same improvements to be achieved in language arts literacy, except one goal was for grades three through five, while the other goal was for grades six through eight. (P-19 at 1795.) She confirmed she did not require tiering of the goal into one goal, rather than two separate goals. She candidly commented that looking back upon goals she approved in 2016 for the Kingsway superintendent should have been tiered, due to their similarity. (P-19 at 2093.)

Nicolosi revised Tarchichi's proposed goal C, regarding improvement in preparation and scores for the SAT test, into goal B. (R-15.) Nicolosi reviewed the Pennsauken performance report and saw that Pennsauken students also took the ACT, which minority students traditionally perform better on than the SAT. She wanted Tarchichi to expand the goal to include tutoring and preparation for both the SAT and ACT. She tiered the goal. She also needed more information as to the number of students who would demonstrate improvement. She wanted Tarchichi to videotape the proposed programs he intended to present to the students, and he did not agree to videotaping the programs. She acknowledged she did not see any other ECS requiring a superintendent to videotape themselves doing any of the merit goals in the volumes of documents entered into evidence. Nicolosi also requested additional documentation for Tarchichi to provide to demonstrate whether other staff members who apparently were going to be assisting with the preparation programs were going to be paid. She wanted lesson plans for the sessions. He would not agree to provide such information. Nicolosi could not approve the revised goal B she suggested to Tarchichi without the modifications she sought.

She revised his proposed goal E, for the proposed culture and climate club, into goal C. (R-15.) She reviewed the Pennsauken performance report and saw the demographics of school's population of Hispanics, African Americans, and Asians. She was curious as to the proposed books selected by Tarchichi since they were in areas of the world such as North Korea and the Middle East. She was not certain if the topics from the proposed books were areas of concern for Pennsauken. She checked to see if there were diversity complaints lodged from parents or the public and wanted to know if such matters could be dealt with in a social studies class. Nicolosi recommended taking some of the book club discussions out into the community, rather than all occurring in the school. She had no problem with the spirit of the goal. It was the evidence of completion which was the stumbling block and why she was not able to approve the goal as presented.

They communicated by email over the changes and modifications she was requesting to his proposed goals. (J-7 at 580–605.) She recalled most of the responses from Tarchichi began with "I will not do" whatever it was she had proposed. Their communications broke down, mainly over what she perceived as the documentation and information she was trying to delineate that he would need to provide to demonstrate evidence of completion of the goals. She acknowledged having received a revised set of goals for 2018–2019 from Tarchichi as of January 2, 2019, with his goals A, B, C, D, and E. (J-7 at 592.) She understood this to mean that he refused to turn three of his merit goals into one goal, as she had suggested. (R-15.) She noted, during cross examination, that all five of the goals, as outlined by Tarchichi in his January 2, 2019, submission, could be approvable with more evidence of completion.

When asked if goals from different counties and different years could be compared, Nicolosi responded "Not really." (Tran Oct 28, 2021, 34:12-15.) She confirmed that in 2013, she approved for the Waterford District's Superintendent a merit goal involving attendance. (P-19 at 1791.) She acknowledged she would not be able to approve such a goal now, given that the regulations were modified in 2018 to include attendance improvement as a mandated corrective action plan. She recognized that she approved goals in 2016 for the Upper Township Superintendent, regarding curriculum creation, when she agreed that the creation of curriculum is a requirement for school districts in New Jersey. (P-19 at 1796.)

She further acknowledged that there were goals approved by her in other districts in other years involving those superintendents doing goals, such as website development and contract negotiation, which would require the superintendent to consult with professionals, such as computer technicians and attorneys, to develop and complete the program or proposed action in the merit goals. She approved a new student attendance committee goal in 2016 for the Kingsway Superintendent, when the superintendent was not identified as being the individual to head up such a committee, nor how many times the committee was supposed to meet, or that the superintendent would even be at the attendance committee meetings. (P-19 at 2092–2093.)

Nicolosi acknowledged that a 2014 goal by the Collingswood Superintendent, regarding PSAT preparation and scoring was approved for payment and was a goal like the SAT goal Tarchichi had proposed for 2018–2019. (P-19 at 1919.) She had questioned Tarchichi's goal based upon the lack of baseline data regarding the number of students who would be anticipated to improve in score and the increase anticipated.

Nicolosi confirmed that an example of a tiered goal appeared in the merit goals from 2016 for the Logan Township Superintendent, for merit goal number one regarding improvement of achievement of three subgroups of students in grades one through eight from standardized test scores. If projected improvement of a percentage of students was not achieved, then only a percentage of the merit goal would be paid. (P-19 at 1994.) Such tiering of a goal would be identified at the beginning of the goal review process. She was familiar with the district, and approved the goal because it set forth a project which was not normally required by a school district. There was extensive data provided as evidence of completion, where she could see from child to child what type of growth had occurred. She was provided not only the subgroup data but data for all of the students from grades one through eight.

Nicolosi believed it was important to treat the proposed goals from Tarchichi as if they were brand new goals. She would not take into account anything that a previous ECS might have thought about the goals. She defended her red line remarks and combination of goals as being suggestions to Tarchichi and that they would be going back and forth ironing out the details of his goals. She reiterated that, for example, the cultural book club goal would have been approvable, but they were having issues with what was going to be the documentation to demonstrate completion of the goal.

Credibility

A fact finder is obligated to weigh the credibility of witnesses. Credibility is best described as that quality of testimony or evidence that makes it worthy of belief. "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observations of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). To assess credibility, the fact finder should consider the witness' interest in the outcome, their motive or bias. Credibility findings are "often influenced by matters such as observations of character and demeanor of witnesses and common human experience that are not transmitted by the record." State v. Locurto, 157 N.J. 463, 475 (1999). "A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Tarchichi presented his testimony in a professional, serious, and confident manner. His expression of concern and interest in improving the educational opportunities for all students in the district was genuine. He outlined, in a matter-of-fact method, his past efforts and accomplishments in the district without appearing boastful or cocky. It was apparent how his confident nature of speaking and direct method of communicating in his emails could be perceived by someone as an intimidating response, such as when he would reply to the ECSs with his disagreement to their suggested revisions or modifications. He supported his positions with examples and thoughtful reasons for his proposed goals and methods. His testimony was persuasive.

Perry testified in a forthright, concerned, and supportive manner. It is recognized that he, as the Pennsauken BOE president, has a vested outcome in this proceeding, to find in the Board's favor. However, his testimony in support of Tarchichi's position was delivered in a sincere manner, supportive of Tarchichi's past efforts and accomplishments in the district, and the Pennsauken BOE's mission to serve the students of the district in the best manner possible with the taxpayers in mind. His testimony was not delivered in a condescending or antagonist position towards the ECSs and the DOE, but rather with a focus on getting a fair conclusion to these matters to enable the district to move forward.

Pugh-Bassett testified in a stilted manner, using jargon and superfluous language which was difficult to follow. It was evident that her style of communication with Tarchichi was perceived as passively condescending, and the tension it created was palpable in their written communications and observed through the Zoom proceeding. Her testimony was not particularly persuasive.

Nicolosi was direct and assertive during her testimony. She was self-assured in describing her style of offering suggestions to the superintendents as to how they should draft their goals, such as by tiering. When confronted with prior goals she approved in the past, which did not include tiering or merging of similar goals, her candid acknowledgement that she should not have approved such goals was appreciated. Likewise, her candid comments indicating that Tarchichi's goals would have been approvable as presented, but with more documentation to support completion of same, were reflective of her honest recognition of the subjectivity of this process.

Based upon a review of the documentary evidence and having heard and observed the testimony of the witnesses, I FIND as further FACTS the following:

There is no standardized method, procedure, or training provided by the NJ DOE to the ECSs or superintendents addressing how to formulate merit goals; how to review same; and the timing for the submission and approval of such proposed goals; requested revisions; and timing for the approval of payment of same. There are no regulations, manuals, or written guidelines for superintendents to follow regarding merit goals, nor for an ECS to follow when reviewing and providing feedback and approval or disapproval of goals.

Tarchichi sought approval from Pugh-Bassett for him to work on five proposed merit goals for the 2017–2018 school year. She did not approve goal E, the fifth proposed goal for a monthly training academy for new administrators. Tarchichi had previously been approved to complete a similar goal in 2015–2016, by Pugh-Bassett, when Tarchichi was superintendent at another school district. He later proposed this same goal for the 2019–2020 school year, and was approved by another ECS to do so.

Pugh-Bassett approved Tarchichi's first four proposed goals for the 2017–2018 school year. Tarchichi submitted proof of completion of those four goals to the Pennsauken BOE, and the Board approved payment for same. When the Pennsauken BOE sought approval from Pugh-Bassett to pay Tarchichi for those four goals, she approved payment for three of the goals. Tarchichi has received payment for the three goals in 2017–2018.

Pugh-Bassett did not approve payment for the first goal for 2017–2018, regarding ELL students and testing their growth and improvement in the field of science with writing and learning science-field vocabulary. Pugh-Bassett contended that Tarchichi only provided information for twenty of the ninth and tenth grade ELL population, when there were forty students in that specific student population. The approved proposed goal indicated the ninth and tenth grade ELL population was targeted, but did not specify the number of students. Tarchichi contends that the submission of information for twenty students represents a sampling of the student population and demonstrated fulfillment of the goal since all twenty of the sampled students made progress. Pugh-Bassett also contended that the documentation was insufficient to demonstrate the goal was completed because it did not demonstrate that writing and vocabulary were specifically addressed and improved. Tarchichi asserts that the pre- and post-testing, which was multiple choice, did address vocabulary and writing within the test itself, and that essay questions were part of the testing. He asserts that writing and vocabulary were addressed and stressed during a student assembly; the topic was an agenda item in a staff meeting; and all documentation he submitted supported his completion of this goal, as approved for payment by the Pennsauken BOE.

Tarchichi submitted six proposed goals for the 2018–2019 school year to Pugh-Bassett. They were all disapproved. He cut out a proposed goal for improving attendance, when advised by Pugh-Bassett that attendance became a statutory requirement for superintendents in June 2018, so the issue could no longer be presented as a proposed merit goal. Nicolosi had approved, in September 2018, a proposed attendance goal addressing improved attendance for the Superintendent of Collingswood School District.

Tarchichi revised his initial proposed goals for the 2018–2019 school year and submitted them again to Pugh-Bassett. She disapproved them again. Tarchichi's first proposed goal for the 2018–2019 school year addressed the dual credit program improvement for college prep and honors students with Rowan University and other county colleges. The second proposed goal addressed the development and expansion of the CTE programs, in HVAC and nursing. The third proposed merit goal dealt with improving SAT preparation and scores. The fourth proposed goal was to create another CTE program specifically for EMTs. The fifth proposed goal was to create a culture and climate club, focusing on reading books on current trending global topics and bringing in members of the community and community stakeholders to focus on the global culture and climate.

Tarchichi sought to have another ECS review his proposed goals for the 2018–2019 school year. He was directed to submit his proposed goals to Nicolosi as of December 18, 2018. He did so on December 19, 2018. There was back and forth communication between Nicolosi and Tarchichi, with Nicolosi providing her feedback and suggested modifications to Tarchichi's proposed goals, including her request to combine three goals into one merit goal. Tarchichi again submitted his five proposed goals as of January 2, 2019, to Nicolosi. He refused to do any further revisions. Nicolosi's failure to provide approval was deemed to be de facto disapproval of Tarchichi's proposed merit goals for 2018–2019, by order of this tribunal, entered on November 10, 2020. Nicolosi testified that Tarchichi's goals as presented could have been approval, but with additional documentation and information to be specified in the goals as evidence of completion.

Voluminous documentation demonstrated multiple instances of other superintendents being approved to complete proposed merit goals, similar to goals proposed by Tarchichi which were not approved. For example, in 2015–2016, Pugh-Bassett approved Tarchichi to demonstrate a three percent increase in proficiency for test taking, yet his goal proposing an improvement of five to ten percent for the SAT scores was disapproved. In 2014, another Interim ECS approved the Collingswood Superintendent's merit goal to improve PSAT preparation and scoring.

In 2015, Pugh-Bassett approved the Barrington School District's Superintendent's proposed merit goal dealing with educational trends and involving community stakeholders, like Tarchichi's 2018–2019 proposed fifth goal for the culture and climate club. In 2018, the Barrington Superintendent was approved to complete a merit goal addressing the formation of a culture club.

In 2014–2015, the Winslow School District's Superintendent was approved for a merit goal addressing the creation and expansion of the STEM program, which Tarchichi analogized to his proposed second goal in 2018–2019 to expand CTE programs in nursing and HVAC, and his fourth proposed goal in 2018–2019, to create and implement a CTE program for EMTs. In 2017, Pugh-Bassett approved the Winslow School District's Superintendent's merit goal addressing the creation of new programming, which is similar to Tarchichi's proposal for creating the EMT program. In 2018–2019, Nicolosi approved the expansion of the pre-school program as a merit goal for the Collingswood Superintendent, akin to Tarchichi's proposal to expand the CTE programs in 2018–2019, and his merit goal for dual credit program development and expansion for college prep and honors students with Rowan University and county colleges. In 2018, Pugh-Bassett approved the Black Horse Pike Regional Superintendent's proposed merit goal to grow a program for increasing participation in trades, like Tarchichi's proposed goal to create the EMT program.

In 2014, Nicolosi approved a goal by the Collingswood Superintendent, regarding PSAT preparation and scoring, like Tarchichi's proposed goal regarding SAT preparation and scoring improvement.

In 2014, Nicolosi approved two separate goals for the Oldmans Township Superintendent, where both goals addressed the same improvements to be achieved, except one goal was for grades three through five, while the other goal was for grades six through eight, without requiring the goals to be combined into one goal and tiered. Nicolosi confirmed that in 2016, she approved goals for the Kingsway Superintendent which in retrospect, she should have required to be tiered, due to their similarity.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The New Jersey Statutes and New Jersey Administrative Code governing education in the state provide for the appointment of an Executive County Superintendent (ECS). N.J.S.A. 18A:7, et seq; N.J.A.C. 6A:23A, et seq. The statutes and regulations outline the general powers and duties of an ECS. One such duty is that an ECS shall review and approve contracts for superintendents of school districts within their county. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-3.18(a); N.J.S.A. 18A:7-8j and N.J.S.A. 18A:7-8.1. The ECS's review and approval of a superintendent's contract shall be consistent with several standards, as enumerated in the regulation. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-3.18(e).

A superintendent of a school district can craft proposed merit bonus goals. A merit goal is a project or program, besides the general duties and responsibilities of the superintendent, which if completed, entitles the superintendent to additional compensation based upon a percentage of their contract. The superintendent's proposed merit goals are to be reviewed and approved by their BOE and ECS. The ECS is also tasked with reviewing and approving for payment merit goals the BOE seeks to compensate the superintendent when the goal has been completed.

There is one regulation in the administrative code pertaining to merit bonus goals. That regulation provides that an ECS's review and approval of the superintendent's contract shall be consistent with standards, including specifically the standard as follows:

> 11. No provision for a merit bonus shall be made except where payment is contingent upon achievement of quantitative merit criterion and/or qualitative merit criterion:
> i. A contract may include no more than three quantitative merit criteria and/or two qualitative merit criteria per contract year.
> ii. The executive county superintendent shall approve or disapprove the selection of quantitative merit and/or qualitative merit criteria and the data that forms the basis of measuring the achievement of quantitative merit and/or qualitative merit criteria.

iii. A contract may provide for merit bonuses in an amount not exceeding 3.33 percent of annual salary for each quantitative merit criterion achieved and 2.5 percent of annual salary for each qualitative merit criterion achieved. Any such merit bonus shall be considered "extra compensation" for purposes of N.J.A.C. 17:3-4.1 and shall not be cumulative.

iv. The district board of education shall submit to the executive county superintendent a resolution certifying that a quantitative merit criterion or a qualitative merit criterion has been satisfied and shall await confirmation of the satisfaction of that criterion from the executive county superintendent prior to payment of any merit bonus.

N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-3.18(e)11; See, N.J.S.A. 18A:7-8.1(i).

When there is a controversy or dispute arising under school law in New Jersey, a determination shall be rendered by the Commissioner of Education. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.14(a). The Commissioner may transmit the controversy to the OAL for a hearing to be conducted, and a written decision to issue by an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.11. If the appeal is from a decision of the State Board of Examiners or the School Ethics Commission, it shall be determined whether the decision was supported by "sufficient credible evidence in the record" and the decision shall not be disturbed unless it has been demonstrated that the Board or Ethics Commission "acted in a manner that was arbitrary and capricious or contrary to law." N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). Likewise, here a determination shall be made whether the decisions made by Pugh-Bassett and Nicolosi have been supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record, unless it has been demonstrated that they acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner or contrary to the law. "Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances." Bayshore Sewerage Co. v. Department of Environmental Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199, citations omitted. If there is "room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Id.

The dispute at issue between Pennsauken BOE and Pugh-Bassett is whether Pugh-Bassett arbitrarily and capriciously denied payment by the Pennsauken BOE to Tarchichi for merit goal A for the 2017–2018 school year, and whether she arbitrarily and capriciously failed to approve Tarchichi's proposed goal E for the 2017–2018 school year. The Pennsauken BOE further asserts that both Pugh-Bassett and Nicolosi arbitrarily and capriciously denied approval of Tarchichi's proposed 2018–2019 merit goals.

There are no other regulations, statutes, or guidelines promulgated for superintendents or ECSs regarding the procedures to be followed to draft merit goals; the process for approval of proposed goals or approval for payment of completed goals; or any time guidelines for the process. It is thus a subjective process, for which each individual ECS has developed their own style in handling the review and approval of proposed goals, and the review and approval of alleged completed goals to authorize payment to be made by a BOE to its superintendent.

1. Goal A focusing on ELL ninth and tenth grade students interested in science to improve their writing and vocabulary skills, not approved for payment.

Proposed goal A for the 2017–2018 school year was for Tarchichi to create additional writing instruction to assist with the vocabulary and grammar growth with Pennsauken's ELL ninth and tenth grade students in the field of science. Evidence of completion of the goal would be documentation of pre- and post-tests showing a thirty percent growth in the ninth and tenth grade students' scores, measured from the original pre-test to the final post-test. (R-3 at 2464.)

This goal was one of the four goals approved by Pugh-Bassett. Tarchichi worked on the approved proposed goals during the school year. He sent documentation to the Pennsauken BOE demonstrating his completion of same, which included documentation that all twenty sampled students from the sub-population of ELL ninth and tenth grade students improved their pre- and post-test scores. The Pennsauken BOE approved payment to be made to Tarchichi for completion of all four merit goals for the 2017–2018 school year. Pugh-Bassett approved payment for three of the goals, but denied payment for goal A. The Pennsauken BOE paid Tarchichi for the three approved goals. The Pennsauken BOE seeks approval to pay Tarchichi for goal A.

Pugh-Bassett crafted her own style of review and approval for payment of goals, based upon her prior employment with the DOE and her insider knowledge she gained for "navigation" through the DOE system, and through collegial conversations and roundtable meetings with other ECSs. She recognizes that her opinion could differ from another county's ECS decision, and their ultimate conclusions could be completely opposite.

Pugh-Bassett denied approval of payment for this goal, noting that the submission from Tarchichi to demonstrate achievement of the goal "did not satisfy the requirements for approval and therefore will not be approved for payment[.]" (J-1 at 0017, italics original.) She expressed her displeasure that Tarchichi only provided information for twenty students in the ninth and tenth grade ELL population, rather than all approximately forty students in that population. She stated, during cross-examination, that she expected all ninth and tenth grade students to be served under the goal. She was not satisfied with the documentation provided by Tarchichi asserting that just the test scores by students were not enough, and that the actual tests and students' answers should have been submitted.

Pugh-Bassett approved the goal, which did not have language that all forty of the students of the ELL ninth and tenth grade population were to be sampled. The goal specifically targeted that ELL population and never referenced that all ninth and tenth grade students were to be served. The approved goal targeted the subset population at Pennsauken, just as multiple other districts' superintendents had in their approved goals. The asserted documentation Pugh-Bassett deemed as lacking was not specified in the approved goal to be submitted as proof of completion of the goal. The Pennsauken BOE deemed the documentation and information provided by Tarchichi regarding completion of this goal to be satisfactory, and sought approval from Pugh-Bassett for the BOE to pay Tarchichi for completion of this goal.

I CONCLUDE the documentation provided by Tarchichi that the goal was completed was sufficient and in line with the initial approved goal's language. I CONCLUDE the evidence preponderates that the documentation appropriately demonstrated that the approved merit goal was completed, and thus payment should have been approved. I CONCLUDE that the evidence preponderates, under a totality of the circumstances, that denial of payment by ECS Pugh-Bassett for goal A for the 2017–2018 school year was unreasonable and done in an arbitrary and capricious manner. I CONCLUDE that the Pennsauken BOE's request for approval to tender payment to Tarchichi for goal A from the 2017–2018 school year is GRANTED.

2. Proposed goal E never approved by Pugh-Bassett as a proposed goal for Tarchichi to work on for the 2017–2018 school year.

Goal E was the fifth proposed goal Tarchichi submitted to Pugh-Bassett for her approval for the 2017–2018 school year. (R-3 at 2471.) She did not approve proposed goal E regarding the training academy Tarchichi sought to establish for new administrators. Pugh-Bassett denied approval of the proposed goal, contending it was not an approvable goal because it was a proposal for training, which Tarchichi was already tasked with overseeing, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9C-3.2. She asserted that the regulation regarding professional development required school leaders, whom she interpreted as being the superintendent, to have professional development and training programs for the teachers and staff.

Tarchichi demonstrated that other superintendents had similar merit goals approved. Tarchichi's goal went beyond standard training, and provided for programming of monthly sessions for the new administrators. Tarchichi subsequently submitted the same goal, without specifying the number of academy sessions, for the 2019–2020 school year, which was approved by ECS DeStefano.

Pugh-Bassett rendered her determination based upon her interpretation of the regulation regarding professional development, and her opinion as to what a merit goal was supposed to be targeting, being something separate and apart from the regular duties and responsibilities of a superintendent. There is no guidance promulgated by the DOE, nor codified anywhere, to support Pugh-Bassett's opinions. The applicable regulations do not specify that the superintendent cannot propose a merit goal that is deemed within the superintendent's umbrella of responsibility. The superintendent is the overseer of a school district. All proposed goals are going to have some type of connection to such oversight.

I CONCLUDE that the evidence preponderates that the academy for new administrators, proposed by Tarchichi, was an approvable goal, and should have been approved for him to attempt to complete during the 2017–2018 school year. I thus CONCLUDE that Pugh-Basset's failure to approve this goal was unreasonable, and done in an arbitrary and capricious manner. I thus CONCLUDE that the goal should have been approved.

Given that Tarchichi has subsequently proposed a substantially similar goal for 2019–2020, which was approved by another ECS, the issue is rendered moot in terms of granting the requested relief by the Pennsauken BOE. However, having concluded that Pugh-Basset's failure to approve the proposed goal was arbitrary and capricious, the Pennsauken BOE is entitled to relief, such as compensation for their fees and costs to litigate this matter. I thus CONCLUDE that, to the extent such relief is permissible by law, the Pennsauken BOE's request to be compensated for their fees and costs incurred by the DOE is GRANTED.

There is no guidance in the regulations, statutes, or anything promulgated by the DOE as to how merit goals should be drafted or structured, reviewed and approved, or disapproved. The review process is a subjective one, with each ECS left to their method of developing a style for procedural and substantive review, and for approval of proposed merit goals.

Logically, it makes sense that proposed merit goals should be drafted and completed in August or September, at the start of the school year, if the purpose is for the superintendent to be working on goals during the academic school year. That was done by Tarchichi, who submitted his proposed goals to Pugh-Bassett. Unique here was that he was wrangling with whether a goal from the previous year would be approved for payment by Pugh-Bassett. This set up an adversarial position between them, rather than being the so-called collaborative and cooperative process that was to occur. It was not until December 18, 2018, that the DOE finally confirmed that Nicolosi would be assigned to review Tarchichi's goals.

Nicolosi began the process fresh, not reviewing the prior suggested revisions by Pugh-Bassett. She presented completely overhauled revisions to Tarchichi's goals, combining three proposed goals into one, and drilling down on the remaining two goals as to their purpose, and as to the documentation to demonstrate completion.

Nicolosi cannot be faulted for her approach, given that there are no guidelines in the process for timing and review methods. Yet, Tarchichi had already been engaged in the "back and forth" negotiations for several months with Pugh-Bassett. Tarchichi forwarded his proposed goals to her one day after she was assigned to take over the review from Pugh-Bassett. Nicolosi's initial response was unreasonable, given the time that transpired for Tarchichi already into the 2018–2019 school year, to combine three proposed goals into one in multiple tiers, and creating more issues and responsibilities within the other two goals.

Nicolosi and Tarchichi engaged in back and forth communications, but in January 2019, when Nicolosi received Tarchichi's communication that he was not going to do any further revisions, she considered the process to be at a point that she could not reach an agreement with him. However, she stated during her testimony that his goals as presented could have been approvable goals, but they needed more documentation to demonstrate completion. That position was not communicated to Tarchichi. She never responded to confirm that his proposed five goals could be approved, and just the issue of documentation had to be resolved. She was unwavering on her insistence that Tarchichi videotape himself for one of his goals, rather than negotiating another method of documented proof of completion.

A review of the mountain of documentation regarding other proposed and approved merit goals demonstrates that although school districts have social, cultural, racial, and economic variants, all of the merit goals focus on similar topics and programs such as improving social, cultural, and racial harmony; improving student and staff performance; creating and improving diverse learning programs; and encouraging neglected or minority subsets of student populations to participate in same. Thus, such information was persuasive and supportive to demonstrate that ECSs have approved similarly proposed goals. I thus CONCLUDE that the evidence preponderates that the merit goals for the 2018–2019 school year should have been approved.

Nicolosi was assigned Tarchichi's goals in December 2018, and she acted quickly to review the goals as presented to her. She cannot be faulted for taking her fresh start on the review of his goals, since there is no guidance provided by the DOE or in the regulations or statutes as to the method of review. Where the process broke down was her failure to reply to Tarchichi's refusal to combine his goals as she suggested, and she failed to pivot and address each goal separately as he proposed, with her suggestions. Nicolosi indicated in her testimony that his goals could have been approvable, but would have needed more documentation.

The record supports that although she viewed the goals as being similar, there are instances where each goal could have been approved as a separate goal rather than tiering them into one goal. Likewise, her failure to bend in suggesting other methods of demonstration of goal completion stopped the collaborative process of getting the goals to an approvable manner as she would have liked to see it. I CONCLUDE that the evidence preponderates that it was unreasonable, and thus arbitrary and capricious for Nicolosi to not take any further action to have the goals approved, which resulted in de facto disapproval of Tarchichi's 2018–2019 merit goals. I CONCLUDE that if Tarchichi worked on the proposed goals for the 2018–2019 school year, he shall be afforded the opportunity to demonstrate completion of same to the Pennsauken BOE for approval of payment, and to have an ECS review the information and determine if payment may be approved.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that:

1. The Pennsauken BOE's request for approval to tender payment to Tarchichi for completion of 2017–2018 school year merit goal A is GRANTED.

2. The Pennsauken BOE's request for a determination that Pugh-Bassett acted arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to approve the 2017–2018 proposed merit goal E regarding a training academy for new administrators is GRANTED.

3. The Pennsauken BOE's request for reimbursement of their fees and costs is GRANTED, as permitted by law, to be paid by the DOE.

4. The Pennsauken BOE's request for a determination that Nicolosi acted arbitrarily and capriciously by her de facto disapproval of Tarchichi's proposed 2018–2019 merit goals is GRANTED.

5. If Tarchichi worked on the proposed 2018–2019 goals and seeks to be approved for payment of same, he shall provide documentation of completion of the goals to the Pennsauken BOE for approval and, if approved for payment, the Pennsauken BOE shall seek approval from an ECS to review and confirm if payment may be made.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

WHEREAS, the Board and the Parents are desirous of resolving the issues and have reached an amicable resolution thereby avoiding the time and expense associated with further litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants set forth herein, the undersigned agree as follows:

1. Subject to the terms of this Agreement, the Board shall reimburse the Parents on a monthly basis for the non-sectarian tuition costs resulting from I.C.'s unilateral placement at Metuchen Christian Academy (hereinafter referred to as "MCA") as follows:

(a) Six Thousand Seven Hundred Thirty-Nine Dollars ($6,739.00) with respect to the remainder of the 2022-2023 school year;

(b) Eight Thousand Four Hundred Twenty-Four Dollars ($8,424.00) with respect to the 2023-2024 school year;

(c) Eight Thousand Four Hundred Twenty-Four Dollars ($8,424.00) with respect to the 2024-2025 school year; and

(d) Eight Thousand Four Hundred Twenty-Four Dollars ($8,424.00) with respect to the 2025-2026 school year.

2. All payments by the Board pursuant to this Agreement are contingent on receipt of the proof of the Parents' payments to or proof of obligation to pay non-sectarian tuition costs to MCA, an invoice reflecting the quarterly payment due, and proof of attendance for the relevant period billed. Such documentation may be submitted on a monthly basis and shall be submitted by e-mail to the attention of the District's Superintendent of Schools. Reimbursement to the parents shall be made within thirty (30) calendar days of the Board's receipt of documentation described above.

3. It is expressly agreed and understood that the Board's financial and legal responsibility to provide or offer educational programming and services to I.C. from the date on which this Agreement is executed by the Parents through August 31, 2026 shall be limited to the reimbursement payments explicitly described in this Agreement, unless the Parents re-register I.C. in the District in writing. The Board shall not be responsible for I.C.'s related services, Child Study or IEP team services, or any other education, transportation, services or expenses except for payments explicitly required pursuant to this Agreement, up to and including August 31, 2026.

4. If at any point during the period of time covered by this Agreement I.C. is not offered placement by MCA, or the Parents choose to remove I.C. from MCA for any reason, the Parents shall immediately notify the District's Director of Special Services in writing of such event and may request from the Board an appropriate program and placement for I.C. Within thirty (30) days' receipt of such written notice, the Board's Child Study Team shall convene an IEP meeting for the purpose of developing an appropriate program and placement for I.C. If there is any dispute between the Parties regarding such placement, the IEP proposed by the Board shall constitute I.C.'s placement for the purposes of the stay-put clause of the IDEA during the pendency of any due process petition or mediation, unless the Parties agree in writing or an administrative law judge orders otherwise.

5. In the event that I.C. ceases to attend MCA for any reason, the Board's obligations to issue payments pursuant to this Agreement shall immediately cease and shall not resume unless I.C.'s attendance resumes at MCA. If the Parents reenroll I.C. in the District at any time before August 31, 2026, the Board's obligations to issue payments pursuant to this Agreement shall permanently end.

6. All responsibilities of the Board pursuant to this Agreement shall immediately cease in the event that the Parents establish domicile outside of the Highland Park Public School District.

7. Each party shall be fully responsible for their own fees, costs and expenses incurred to date in all respects. This includes, but shall not be limited to, attorney's fees, expert fees, evaluation costs, transportation costs, and/or any other costs related to this matter, whether disclosed or undisclosed to the other party, unless specifically set forth above.

8. The terms of this Agreement represent the compromise of disputed claims between the parties. This Agreement shall not be treated as an admission on the part of the Board that it has not offered I.C. an appropriate program and placement at any time, or failed to provide appropriate evaluations to I.C., or failed to meet its obligations with respect to I.C. pursuant to the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, or that either party has failed to act in accordance with any laws, statutes, regulations and/or codes.

9. This Agreement and Release shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey and may not be altered, amended, modified, superseded, canceled or terminated except by an express written agreement duly executed by all of the parties or their attorneys on their behalf, which makes specific reference to this Agreement.

10. Upon its full execution, this Agreement shall be sent to the Office of Administrative Law to be incorporated into a Final Decision and Order approving same.

11. Each party with respect to the other party hereby waives all past, present and potential claims regarding I.C.'s education, program, placement and services at public expense through August 31, 2026, unless I.C.'s attendance at MCA ceases and her parents reenroll her in the District sooner, at which time this waiver would end. It is expressly understood and further agreed that neither party is considered a "prevailing party" for any purposes. It is further expressly understood that this Agreement and Release does not require either party to waive any claim related to the enforcement of this Agreement, including any attorney's fees that may be incurred as part of such enforcement claim(s) as may be allowable by law.

12. It is expressly agreed and understood that in exchange for this consideration provided in this Agreement, the Parents do forever release, acquit and forever discharge the Board and its officers, trustees, agents, servants, employees, successors, heirs, executors, administrators, insurance carriers and attorneys of and from any and all claims, actions, causes of action, demands, rights, damages, costs, loss of service, expenses and compensation whatsoever, which the Parents now have or which may hereafter accrue on account of or in any way growing out of any and all known and unknown, foreseen and unforeseen bodily and personal injuries and property damage and the consequences thereof resulting or to result from the alleged events which form the basis of and/or could have formed the basis of the Petition against the Board and are/could have been alleged to have occurred during the course of I.C.'s enrollment in the District and are/could have been further alleged to have resulted in severe and permanent injuries and damages on the part of the Board, including but not limited to any and all claims of disability, race, gender, sexual, national origin, discrimination and retaliation, as well as any and all tort claims or contract claims or claims for general damages, and any and all claims arising under, made, regarding, or involving: any federal, state or local laws, including the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA") and/or under the common law; violations of any civil rights laws, statutes, codes, rules, and/or ordinances; claims for personal injury, defamation, hostile educational/school environment, wrongful conduct, any and all laws against discrimination including but not limited to the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination ("NJLAD"); the District's policies, practices, contracts, benefits or understandings; any claims arising out of any relationship between or among the Parents, I.C., and the Board predating the effective date of this Release; any and all grievances, or demands for mediation or arbitration, or claims or demands under the policies and procedures of the District; and any and all claims asserted, or which could have been asserted, in the above-captioned Petition, including any claims against any current or former agents and/or employees of the District.

13. The Parents further agree that neither he/she/they, nor any person, organization, agency, or other entity on their behalf, will file, charge, claim or sue, or cause to be filed, charged, claimed or sued, any other lawsuit, legal proceeding, administrative complaint, action, or claim of any nature with any court or agency (including any action for damages, attorney's fees, injunction, declaratory, monetary, equitable or other relief) against the Board, its agents, servants, employees, successors, heirs, executors, administrators, attorneys and all other persons, firms, corporations, associations, insurance carrier or partnerships, based on any matter, fact or event occurring prior to the effective date of this Release, whether now known or unknown, or involving any continuing effects of any acts or practices which may have arisen or occurred prior to the effective date of this Release, whether now known or unknown.

14. The Board hereby releases and gives up any and all claims and rights it may now have against the Parents, including those of which it is not aware and those not mentioned in this Agreement.

15. The Parents agree, certify, acknowledge, and represent: (a) that they have been and are hereby advised in writing to consult with an attorney of their choice and at their expense, prior to signing this Release; (b) that they have had adequate time and opportunity to review and discuss, and have reviewed and discussed, all of the terms and sections of this Release thoroughly with their attorney; (c) that their attorney has explained this entire Release to them; and (d) that they and the Board do not waive any rights or claims that may arise after the effective date of this Agreement and Release. The Parents further warrant, represent, and agree that in signing this Agreement and Release, they do so with full knowledge of any and all rights which they may have with respect to the Board and the Petition.

16. The undersigned understand and agree that they fully understand and consent to the terms set forth herein. Specifically, the Parents and the Board have consulted with their respective attorneys regarding the terms of this Agreement and Release, and are satisfied with the legal services that they have received with respect to same. The undersigned further agree and acknowledge that the drafting and negotiation of this Agreement and Release have been participated in by the undersigned and their respective counsel and, for all purposes; this Agreement and Release shall be deemed to have been drafted jointly by each of the parties. No ambiguity shall be resolved against any party based upon authorship.

17. The terms and conditions of this Agreement shall be held in strictest confidence by all parties and shall not be publicized or disclosed in any manner whatsoever, except that: (a) either party may disclose this Agreement in confidence to their attorneys, accountants, auditors, tax preparers; (b) the Board may disclose this Agreement as necessary or required by law and as required by any other mandated/regulatory reporting or disclosure requirements; and (c) the parties may disclose this Agreement insofar as such disclosure many be necessary to enforce its terms or as otherwise required by law such as to explain or enforce same with a government agency or court of law.

18. The parties agree to cooperate fully and execute any and all supplementary documents and to take all additional actions which may be necessary or appropriate to obtain the full force and effect of the basic terms and interest of this Agreement and Release.

19. The Parents' signatures below represent their agreement to the terms stated herein on behalf of themselves and on behalf of I.C. It is expressly understood by the Parents that the Board's administration will recommend this Agreement and Release be approved by the Board, but that the Agreement and Release is only binding upon the Board as a result of the Board's formal action to approve this Agreement and Release at a public meeting. The Parties further understand that the Board's representative named below has been duly authorized to execute this Agreement on the Board's behalf. This Agreement and Release may be signed by the parties in counterparts on separate copies of the Agreement and Release, and all signature pages shall be incorporated into the Agreement and Release as if all the signatures are affixed on one (1) page.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year set forth below.

Re: Laurie Weber v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, Bergen County, Agency Dkt. No. 114-7/21, Commissioner Decision No. 233-22

Dear Parties,

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the Infant Toddler Development Center Parent Group's (ITDCPG) Motion for Reconsideration of the Commissioner's September 19, 2022 decision.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that the ITDCPG was granted participant status in this matter by virtue of Commissioner Decision No. 46-22L, dated March 7, 2022. N.J.A.C. 1:1-16.6 limits the nature and extent of participation to the right to argue orally, file statements or briefs, and file exceptions to the Initial Decision. Furthermore, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b) provides that a "party" may make a motion for reconsideration. The ITDCPG is not a "party" to these proceedings, but a participant. Nothing in the applicable rules permits a participant to file a motion for reconsideration.

Furthermore, the motion was not timely filed. Commissioner Decision No. 233-22, which is the subject of the motion for reconsideration, was mailed to the parties on September 19, 2022. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.14(c), the filing date is three days following the date of mailing; in this matter, the filing date is therefore September 22, 2022. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15, a party may make a motion for reconsideration within 10 days of the filing of the Commissioner's decision. Here, that deadline expired on October 3, 2022, but the ITDCPG's motion was not filed until October 6, 2022. No extension of time was requested or granted.

Nonetheless, the Commissioner has reviewed the motion for reconsideration. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2), a motion for reconsideration shall be determined based upon the following:

> i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
> ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
> iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or > iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

Upon review and consideration of the submissions, I find that the ITDCPG has failed to satisfy the factors set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2). The ITDCPG contends that, because children as young as six weeks old are capable of learning, the ITDC is a lawful use of school facilities pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-34(a). However, this argument was previously made by respondent, and rejected. Respondent's submission expresses disagreement with the outcome of the decision, but that is not a sufficient basis for reconsideration.

The Ridgewood Board of Education (Board) filed a brief in support of the ITDCPG's motion for reconsideration. The Board does not address the grounds for reconsideration raised by the ITDCPG, but instead focuses entirely on its arguments related to mootness, which have also previously been considered and rejected.

Accordingly, the Motion for Reconsideration is hereby DENIED.[1]

Sincerely,

Angelica Allen-McMillan, Ed.D.
Acting Commissioner of Education

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of:

JODI BOCCO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF WEST LONG BRANCH, MONMOUTH COUNTY

Agency Docket No. 25-2/22

Walt De Treux, Esq., Arbitrator

Hearing Date: 9/30/22
Briefs Received: 12/17/22
Decision Date: 1/17/23

Appearances: For Petitioner School District – Tracy A. Armstrong, Esq.; Stephanie D. Gironda, Esq., WILENTZ, GOLDMAN & SPITZER, P.A.
For Respondent – Jodi Bocco, Pro se

Introduction and Statement of Relevant Facts

Jodi Bocco served as a teacher in the West Long Branch School District since September 1987, most recently as a Health & Physical Education Teacher at Frank Antonides Middle School. Bocco previously served as a school counselor and substance awareness coordinator. In December 2012, the District filed tenure charges to dismiss her from that position for allegedly engaging in unbecoming conduct. Specifically, the District charged Bocco with refusing to cooperate with outside agencies, improper conduct toward supervisors, staff members, and outside authorities, insubordination, and inappropriate comments to a student. In a Decision dated July 14, 2012, Arbitrator James Mastriani upheld those charges.

From the 2014-15 school year through the 2020-2021 school year, the District alleged that Respondent engaged in "troubling behavior,' the details of which are not relevant to the current proceeding. Bocco asserted that the District, through its treatment of her from 2014 through 2021 and its previous filing of tenure charges, was retaliating against her for reporting or attempting to report complaints of child abuse to proper authorities and from reporting or attempting to report violations of the District's Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying policy.

On June 8, 2021, the School Board, upon recommendation of Superintendent Dr. Christina Egan and based on it concerns with the alleged "troubling behavior," passed a Resolution requiring Bocco to undergo a psychiatric evaluation. The Board offered her the opportunity to challenge its directive in a hearing before the Board and advised that she had the right to appeal any determination by the Board after hearing to the New Jersey Commissioner of Education. Bocco did not respond, and the Board sent her a follow-up letter on July 13, 2021. The Board scheduled an August 10, 2021 appointment for her with Tosk Psychiatric Services.

One day prior to the scheduled appointment, an attorney retained by Bocco notified the Board of Bocco's request for a hearing. Bocco's counsel attended the August 30, 2021 hearing without his client. At hearing, the Board advised that it would select another date for the examination.

In a September 16, 2021 letter between counsel, the District offered several times and dates for an examination. District counsel sent several follow-up reminders to Bocco's counsel. In one such letter on October 25, 2021, District counsel asked if Bocco intended to appeal the Board's directive for a psychiatric evaluation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. Bocco's counsel responded that his client was considering her options. Bocco did not appeal the Board's directive, and she did not attend a psychiatric evaluation.

On January 10, 2022, the District filed the present tenure charges, alleging that Bocco's refusal to attend the psychiatric examination constituted insubordination and conduct unbecoming. It asserted that her actions warrant dismissal from employment.

On March 15, 2022, the New Jersey Department of Education assigned this matter to the undersigned Arbitrator for a hearing. The parties had difficulty in scheduling a hearing, and the Department granted this Arbitrator's request to extend the statutory time limit for the first hearing. At the end of May 2022, Bocco's counsel withdrew from representation. Bocco asked for and was granted several extensions of time in which to hold a hearing so that she could secure representation. When she was unable to do so, this Arbitrator set a hearing date for September 30, 2022.

Prior to the hearing, the District filed an application for a ruling on the scope of the arbitration. Citing Bocco's failure to appeal the School Board's directive to undergo a psychiatric evaluation in a timely manner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3, the District asserted that Bocco "waived her right to challenge the Board's reasons for requiring her to undergo a mental health examination." In a September 9, 2022 Interim Order, this Arbitrator accepted the District's argument and ruled that "the validity of the Board's directive is no longer at issue." The Order further stated, "The arbitration proceeding will focus solely on the issues raised by the tenure charges..." The Order identified the issues as, "did the Respondent's refusal to comply with the Board directive constitute insubordination and conduct unbecoming, and if so, does her conduct warrant termination from employment?"

On September 30, 2022, a hearing was held at the offices of the Wilentz law firm, during which time both parties had a full and fair opportunity to present documentary and other evidence, examine and cross-examine witnesses, and offer argument in support of their respective positions. The parties filed post-hearing briefs and submitted the matter to the Arbitrator for a decision.

Issue

Has the School District of the Borough of West Long Branch established the allegations of insubordination and conduct unbecoming against Respondent Jodi Bocco as set forth in the tenure charges? If so, do those charges warrant dismissal?

Analysis and Decision

Prior to, during, and after the hearing, Respondent has made multiple allegations of retaliation, harassment, and conflicts of interest against the School District. In numerous detailed emails and in her brief, Respondent described reports she made or attempted to make to District officials and outside agencies and her belief that the District has taken adverse action against her for those reports. The allegations, spanning approximately a decade, are too numerous to include in this Decision. I make no finding on the validity of those allegations because they fall beyond the jurisdiction of this proceeding. As stated in the pre-hearing Order, the only issue to be considered in this arbitration is whether Respondent engaged in insubordination and conduct unbecoming by refusing to submit to a psychiatric evaluation. As Respondent did not challenge the validity of the Board's directive in the proper forum through a timely appeal to the Commissioner of Education as was her right, she cannot now challenge the validity of the Board's directive in this forum. Respondent has other forums in which she can pursue her allegations of harassment, retaliation, and conflicts of interest. This tenure charge arbitration is not the forum to consider or resolve those allegations. The present proceeding only addresses the issues raised in the tenure charges.

Resolution of the issues in this case could not be more straightforward. The School Board directed Respondent to attend a psychiatric evaluation. It gave her multiple opportunities to do so, allowed her to select the medical provider, and reminded her of her right to challenge the Board's directive. Respondent admittedly did not attend the psychiatric evaluation nor appeal the directive. She refused because she did not believe that the directive was valid. She believed it was a form of harassment and retaliation. As noted, the validity of the directive is not before this Arbitrator. The challenge to the validity of the directive should have been filed with the Commissioner of Education, but it was not. With Respondent offering no reason for not complying with the directive other than her opinion as to its validity, I am compelled to find that the charges of insubordination and conduct unbecoming have been substantiated.

The remaining issue is whether Respondent's conduct warrants dismissal from employment. The District cited to several tenure cases in which employees have been terminated for insubordination and the terminations were upheld on appeal. Specific to this case, a penalty less than dismissal would be warranted if a lesser disciplinary sanction would correct Respondent's conduct and ensure that she could return to the classroom without further disruption or consequence. Respondent's repeated refusal to attend the psychiatric evaluation despite several opportunities and her continued insistence that the directive lacks validity demonstrate that a lesser disciplinary penalty would not rehabilitate her conduct or ensure against further insubordinate behavior. The trust necessary between Respondent and the District has been irreparably broken by her refusal to follow the Board directive. Dismissal from employment is an appropriate penalty.

For these reasons, I find that the School District has established the charges of insubordination and conduct unbecoming and those charges warrant dismissal.

Award

The School District has established the allegations set forth in the tenure charges. Accordingly, the tenure charges are sustained, and dismissal is warranted.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Certificates of Richard N. Leonard, State Board of Examiners,
New Jersey Department of Education.

Order of Suspension by the State Board of Examiners, March 7, 2022

For the Respondent-appellant, David W. Fasset, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent State Board of Examiners, Hasibul Haque, Deputy Attorney General (Matthew J. Platkin, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The Commissioner has reviewed the record and the papers filed in connection with appellant Richard N. Leonard's appeal of the Order of the State Board of Examiners (Board), dated March 7, 2022, revoking his two Teacher of Social Studies Certificates.

Appellant maintained two Teacher of Social Studies Certificates, which were issued in 1972. Between 1973 and 1986, appellant taught Social Studies at West Essex Junior High School in North Caldwell and also served as a substitute teacher in the public schools of Caldwell, Glen Ridge, and Roseland. In addition to employment as a teacher, appellant has also held a real estate broker's license and owned and operated a realty business, Arcadia Realtors, in Roseland, New Jersey. From 1973 to 2019, appellant also served as an elected public official, serving as Councilman and the Mayor of Roseland. It is from appellant's service as an elected public official that the Board of Examiner's revocation proceedings originate.

On February 24, 2015, appellant attended a Roseland Council meeting where the Council considered a motion to recommend a redevelopment plan, which included a parcel of real property located at 165 Eagle Rock Avenue that is adjacent to property owned and operated by appellant and his real estate company, Arcadia Realtors. The proposed plan included the construction of a parking lot which would directly benefit appellant's realty business. The motion was passed with appellant voting against the motion. As appellant admitted, he should have abstained from voting on that motion because the property to be redeveloped was located next to his realty business and the plan would confer a benefit to his realty business.

On or about May 15, 2018, appellant was charged with a single count of violating N.J.S.A. 2C:5-2A(1), Conspiracy to Commit a Violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2A, Official Misconduct. Pursuant to the Affidavit of Probable Cause, which was executed by an Officer of the Essex County Prosecutor's Office in support of the charge, it was alleged that appellant made a statement in front of the Roseland Council and Borough employees that appellant would continue voting no against ordinances that would benefit 165 Eagle Rock Avenue until the owner of 165 Eagle Rock Avenue agreed to perform snow removal on appellant's business parking lot.

On January 31, 2019, appellant entered a plea of guilty to the charge of conspiracy to commit official misconduct. As part of his plea, appellant admitted that as a councilman for the Township of Roseland, he conspired with his corporation to obtain a benefit for the corporation for an amount under $200.00. On September 26, 2019, appellant was sentenced to a term of probation for one year and was ordered to pay various penalties and assessments. As conditions of probation, appellant was to remain offense free and to complete thirty hours of community service. Additionally, as part of the plea agreement and sentencing, appellant forfeited his right to public employment and was forever disqualified from holding any office or position of honor, trust or profit under the State of New Jersey or any of its administrative or political subdivisions. The original judgment of conviction incorrectly stated that appellant was sentenced on a second-degree charge, when in fact it was a third-degree charge. As such, on November 8, 2019, the Court entered an amended judgment of conviction without altering the sentencing of appellant.

After the entry of appellant's guilty plea, but prior to his sentencing, on February 8, 2019, the Criminal History Review Unit of the New Jersey Department of Education's Office of Student Protection (OSP) received notice of appellant's guilty plea and transmitted information regarding the same to the Office of Certification & Induction, indicating that appellant was disqualified from employment as a teacher pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18:6-7.1 et seq. On December 13, 2019, the OSP forwarded the disqualification from employment in public schools to the Board, enclosing a copy of the un-amended judgment of conviction.

Thereafter, on January 27, 2020, the Board issued an Order to Show Cause as to why appellant's certificates should not be revoked. On February 17, 2020, appellant filed an answer to the Order to Show Cause, which also included information – the amended judgment of conviction – which clarified that appellant had been convicted of a third-degree offense, not a second-degree offense. The Order to Show Cause and the answer thereto were put into abeyance by the Board because appellant had indicated that he was appealing the OSP's determination that he was disqualified from public school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 et seq. As this disqualification formed part of the allegations of the original Order to Show Cause, the Board determined that the resolution of the appeal was appropriate before the Board could move forward on the Order to Show Cause.

On January 6, 2021, appellant, through counsel, withdrew his appeal of the determination of the OSP that he was disqualified from public school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A 18A:6-7.1. On January 27, 2021, the Board advised appellant's counsel that the Order to Show Cause would be moved from abeyance and requested that counsel file an Answer. Appellant, through counsel, advised the Board that there was an error in the original Order to Show Cause relating to the Judgment of Conviction, specifically the grading of the offense to which appellant plead guilty. Accordingly, on June 24, 2021, the Board vacated the original Order to Show cause and issued a new, corrected Order to Show Cause. Appellant filed an Answer on July 30, 2021, wherein he admitted to the charges and that he pleaded guilty to the downgraded third-degree offense and was sentenced to noncustodial probation for one year. Appellant further admitted that the downgraded third-degree conviction automatically disqualifies him from public school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(d) but argued that it does not disqualify him under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 or warrant revocation of his teaching certificate.

On September 8, 2021, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B:4.6(e), the Board sent appellant a hearing notice indicating that there were no material facts in dispute but offering appellant the opportunity to submit written arguments on the issue of whether the conduct addressed in the Order to Show Cause constituted conduct unbecoming a certificate holder, as well as arguments with regard to the appropriate sanction in the event that the Board found just cause to take action against his certificate. Appellant filed a written response on October 8, 2021, and he appeared before the Board and provided testimony on December 16, 2021. In addition to providing live testimony, appellant was given the opportunity to provide additional documents for the Board to review as part of the hearing.

In its March 8, 2022 Order, the Board concluded that appellant's conduct provided just cause to take action against his certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.4. The Board noted that the purpose of the Criminal History Review Statute was to protect public school pupils from contact with individuals who the Legislature deemed to be a poor example, and individuals convicted of crimes such as conspiracy fall squarely within this category. The Board further found that appellant had abandoned his appeal of the OSP disqualification and indicated that the Board's decision was consistent with the OSP determination. Finally, the Board concluded that an individual whose offense is so serious that he is barred from service in public schools should not be permitted to retain the certificate that authorizes such service. Accordingly, the Board revoked appellant's teaching certificate.

On appeal, appellant argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 does not identify conspiracy to commit third-degree official misconduct under N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2 as an offense triggering disqualification from public employment. As such, appellant contends that the Board's finding that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 disqualifies him from public employment is clearly erroneous and, by itself, requires reversal. Appellant claims that his withdrawal of his appeal of the OSP's disqualification decision was made without prejudice to challenging the Board's proposed revocation of his teaching certificates. In essence, appellant argues that though he is disqualified from all public employment, including employment with a public school, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(d), he is not specifically disqualified by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, despite his withdrawal of his appeal of the OSP's determination that he was disqualified.

Appellant further contends that, due to the Board's mistaken belief that his conviction fell within N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, the Board failed to independently assess his conduct and the circumstances surrounding it. Appellant also argues that the Board ignored the opinion of the Superior Court and the prosecution that his disqualification from public employment under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2 did not disqualify him from maintaining his teaching certificates.

Lastly, appellant argues that his conduct does not constitute just cause for revocation of his teaching certificate. He argues that nothing in his conduct suggests any inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher, or other just cause for revocation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.4. Specifically, he argues that the evidence establishes that he voted against the redevelopment plan in good faith, and on its merits, because he believed it to be against the public interests. Appellant claims that the criminal complaint against him was politically motivated and that his political opponents retaliated against him by manufacturing a false allegation.

After a comprehensive review, the Commissioner finds that the record adequately supports the Board's determination that appellant engaged in unbecoming conduct and there was just cause to revoke appellant's certificates. In reviewing appeals from decisions of the Board, the Commissioner may not substitute her judgment for that of the Board so long as appellant received due process and the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record. Further, the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). With regard to reviewing a sanction imposed by the Board, the Appellate Division has defined the standard as determining whether the "punishment is so disproportionate to the offense, in light of all the circumstances, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness." In re Certificates of Benjamin Norton, 2016 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 2291, *6-7 (internal citations and quotations omitted).

Initially, the record reflects that appellant was afforded the necessary due process throughout the proceedings before the Board prior to the suspension of his certificates. Specifically, prior to moving forward with the Order to Show Cause issued on January 27, 2020, appellant was afforded the opportunity to appeal the OSP's determination that his guilty plea and judgment of conviction disqualified him public school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. The Board granted him the opportunity to pursue the appeal of the OSP's determination and held the Order to Show Cause in abeyance pending said appeal. Additionally, in response to information provided by appellant, the Board corrected the original Order to Show Cause, which listed a second-degree offense, by issuing and allowing appellant the opportunity to respond to an Amended Order to Show Cause which listed a third-degree offense. Lastly, despite the Board determining that there were no material facts in dispute, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.6(e), appellant was offered the opportunity to submit written submissions as well as appear for in person testimony, which was considered by the Board. As such, it is the Commissioner's determination that appellant received due process in this matter.

As to the record before the Board, the following facts are uncontroverted. First, appellant was a certificate holder, specifically holding two certificates as a Teacher of Social Studies going back to the early 1970s. Second, on or about May 15, 2018, appellant was charged with a single count of violating N.J.S.A. 2C:5-2A(1), Conspiracy to Commit a Violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2A, Official Misconduct, a crime of the second degree. Third, on September 26, 2019, appellant entered a guilty plea to a downgraded charge of violating N.J.S.A. 2C:5-2A(1), Conspiracy to Commit a Violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2A, a crime of the third degree. Fourth, appellant testified and admitted the factual basis of his guilty plea that as a councilman for the Township of Roseland, he conspired with his corporation to obtain a benefit for the corporation in an amount under $200.00. Fifth, as a result of his guilty plea, appellant was sentenced to a year of probation, thirty hours of community service, various monetary penalties and assessments, forfeited his right to public employment and was forever disqualified from holding any office or position of honor, trust, or profit under the State of New Jersey or any of its administrative or political subdivisions, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(d). Sixth, the OSP found that appellant's guilty plea and conviction disqualified him from public school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, and appellant voluntarily withdrew his appeal of this determination. These facts adequately support the Board's determination that appellant engaged in conduct unbecoming and that a revocation of his teaching certificates is the appropriate penalty.

The majority of appellant's arguments take issue with the Board's reliance upon the OSP's determination that appellant was disqualified from employment in public schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. He argues at length that the crime to which he pled guilty and was sentenced was not enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 and thus could not be relied upon by the Board. However, the correctness of the OSP's decision to disqualify appellant pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 is not at issue here. Appellant abandoned his appeal of the OSP's determination of disqualification, leaving the Board with the uncontested determination of disqualification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, which adequately supports the Board of Examiner's determination and their order of revocation.

The Commissioner disagrees with appellant that the Board relied solely on N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 to support its decision. Nevertheless, to address appellant's argument that the Board should have looked at and independently assessed his particular conduct when making a determination as to whether his conduct warranted revocation of his certificates, it is clear that the record before the Board adequately supports a finding of conduct unbecoming and just cause, both of which warrant the revocation of his teaching certificates. Appellant's brief and submissions appear to be an attempt to re-litigate the criminal charges to which appellant freely and voluntarily pleaded guilty, ignoring the fact that appellant, under oath, admitted to conspiring with a corporation to commit the crime of official misconduct.

The Board may revoke or suspend the certificates of a certificate holder for demonstrated inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher, or other just cause. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.4. "Other just cause shall include, but be not limited to, offenses within the terms of the forfeiture statute, N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, or the disqualification statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1." Id. Here, appellant has admitted, and it is uncontroverted, that he voluntarily pleaded guilty to a crime which is within the terms of the forfeiture statute, N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. As a result, he forfeited his right to public employment and is forever disqualified from holding any office or position of honor, trust or profit under the State of New Jersey or any of its administrative or political subdivisions. Although appellant argues that the prosecutor and the Superior Court consented to and found that he was not to lose his teaching certificates, he has presented no authority for the proposition that the Board and the Commissioner are bound by the Superior Court and the prosecutor's assessment. The issuance and revocation of certificates falls firmly within the Commissioner's jurisdiction, not that of the Superior Court.

It is clear that the Legislature, when passing the forfeiture statutes, including N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, intended to hold those in positions of public trust to the highest standards of conduct, and breaching that trust would result in forfeiture. As set forth in the Board's order of revocation, teachers must serve as role models for their students. "Teachers... are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of... school children. This heavy duty requires self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. Moreover, unfitness to hold a position in a school system may be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State Bd. Of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (1943), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E & A 1944). As noted in the Board's Order, appellant's conviction demonstrates behavior that falls incredibly short of a role model and the high standards to which educators are held. Indeed, his behavior has resulted in him having to resign his position as a Councilman and he is forever barred from any position of employment or public trust with the State of New Jersey. It would be illogical for the Commissioner to conclude that conduct resulting in a bar from all positions of public trust does not also warrant the revocation of his teaching certificates.

Accordingly, the decision of the State Board of Examiners revoking appellant's teaching certificates is affirmed. Appellant's Teacher of Social Studies certificates are hereby revoked.[1]

IN THE MATTER OF	:	NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
THE CERTIFICATE OF	:	STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS
RICHARD N. LEONARD	:	ORDER OF REVOCATION
_____	:	DOCKET NO: 1920-130

At its meeting of December 13, 2019, the State Board of Examiners (Board) reviewed information provided by the Essex County Superior Court and the Office of Student Protection (OSP) regarding Richard N. Leonard (Leonard). Leonard was charged with Conspiracy to Engage in Conduct Constituting a Crime – Official Misconduct Unauthorized Use of Official Function (2nd degree), following allegations that he agreed not to take official action as a member of the Roseland Council for a benefit that exceeded $200 in value. Leonard pled guilty to Conspiracy to Engage in Conduct Constituting a Crime – Official Misconduct Unauthorized Use of Official Function (3rd degree) and was sentenced on November 8, 2019 to probation for a period of one year along with other terms and conditions, including forfeiture of public employment. The OSP notified the Board that, as a result of his conviction, Leonard is disqualified from public school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 et seq. Leonard currently holds a Teacher of Social Studies Certificate.

On January 23, 2020, the Board issued an Order to Show Cause to Leonard. On March 9, 2020, the Board placed the matter in abeyance because Leonard indicated he was appealing the OSP's disqualification determination. This disqualification is part of the allegations in the Order to Show Cause, and thus resolution of this appeal was appropriate before the Board could move forward on the Order to Show Cause.

On or about January 6, 2021, Leonard withdrew the pending appeal of OSP's disqualification. Accordingly, the OSP's determination of disqualification pursuant to N.J.S.A.

18A:6-7.1 stands. On January 27, 2021, the Board sent Leonard's counsel a notice that the matter would be moved from abeyance and requested that counsel file an Answer in this matter.

The Board was advised that there was an error in the Order to Show Cause relating to the Judgment of Conviction; it required correction before moving forward in the matter. Accordingly, on June 25, 2021 the Board vacated the original Order to Show Cause and issued a new, corrected, Order to Show Cause.

The Board sent Leonard the corrected Order to Show Cause by regular and certified mail on July 1, 2021. The Order provided that Leonard had 30 days to respond. Leonard filed an Answer on July 30, 2021. In that Answer, Leonard admitted to the charges and indicated that the prosecution downgraded it to a 3rd degree conspiracy to engage in official misconduct. See Answer at ¶ 3. He further stated that he pled guilty to the downgraded third-degree charge and was sentenced to noncustodial probation for one year. Id. He states that on May 13, 2020, after 7 months of probation, Leonard was discharged from PTI after he performed 70 hours of community service, which was more than double the 30 hours required by his sentence. Id.

Leonard admits that his third-degree conviction automatically disqualifies him from holding public school employment under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2d but does not disqualify him under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Further, it does not warrant revocation of his teaching certificate. Id. at ¶ 3, 4 and 5.

Leonard states that the allegations of the Order to Show Cause are derived from allegations three (3) years ago when he was a Councilman in Roseland, New Jersey. Id. at ¶ 7. Leonard voted against a motion to recommend a proposed Payment in Lieu of Taxes redevelopment plan for property located next to his realty business, allegedly because the owner of the redevelopment property refused to provide snow plowing services to him/his business. Leonard admits that he should have abstained from voting on the motion but denies that he voted against it because of a desire for snow plowing services or any other benefit to him or his business. Id. Further, he states that his opposing vote was not motivated by monetary or other benefit to him or his business. Id. at ¶ 9. He also indicates that the council attorney nor any other council member advised him to abstain. Id. at ¶ 10.

Thereafter, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.6(e), on September 8, 2021, the Board sent Leonard a hearing notice by regular and certified mail. The notice explained that there were no material facts in dispute. Thus, Leonard was offered an opportunity to submit written arguments on the issue of whether the conduct addressed in the Order to Show Cause constituted conduct unbecoming a certificate holder, as well as arguments with regard to the appropriate sanction in the event that the Board found just cause to take action against his certificate. It also explained that, upon review of the charges against him and the legal arguments tendered in his defense, the Board would determine if his offense warranted action against his certificate. Thereupon, the Board would also determine the appropriate sanction, if any. Leonard was also offered the opportunity to appear before the Board to provide testimony on the sanction issue. Leonard filed a written response on October 8, 2021 and requested to appear before the Board.

In that response, Leonard argued that although his conviction "automatically disqualified him from holding public employment generally under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2d, it did not disqualify him from holding public school employment specifically under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7." See Hearing Submission at p. 1. He states that the Court in his criminal matter found that Leonard's public employment disqualification does not disqualify him from maintaining his teacher certificates. Id.

He further states that the allegations against him were false and brought over three years after the vote. He says they were "proven to be politically motivated, brought by Mr. Leonard's political opponents in retaliation for his disclosing antisemitic and racist comments made by those opponents." Id. at p. 2. Leonard devoted his entire professional life to public service and support of public education. He is 72 years old and has not taught since 1986 and has no plans to return to teaching. Nevertheless, he wishes to maintain his certificate in recognition of his career. Id.

Leonard also submits detailed information on his personal and professional history. Id. at p. 3-4. He provides information on the circumstances surrounding the alleged conduct. Id. at p. 4-13. Leonard argues that his conduct does not warrant action against his certificate because his conduct was a single act almost 7 years ago; the conduct was unrelated to teaching in the classroom; it was a momentary lapse of judgment and not a pattern of misconduct; he is not disqualified from public school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1; and the Court in his criminal matter affirmatively found that the disqualification should not disqualify him from maintaining his teacher certificate. Id. at p. 18-19. Finally, Leonard states that he believes no sanction against his educator certificate is warranted, but any sanction should be less than revocation. Id. at p. 20.

The hearing was scheduled for the Board's December 16, 2021 meeting. Mr. Leonard appeared with his counsel, David W. Fassett, Esquire. Mr. Fassett began the hearing by indicating that he would not reiterate what is in his submissions, but that Leonard wished to speak on his behalf. Prior to the hearing, Counsel for Leonard provided additional documents for the Board to review as part of Leonard's hearing.

Leonard appeared and began by stating that he wanted the Board to know who he was as a person. He wants to give back and is involved in Goodwill and Habitat for Humanity. He spent time discussing his personal ventures and history, his beliefs and the importance of teaching and giving back.

The threshold issue before the Board in this matter is whether Leonard's conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a certificate holder or other just cause. At its meeting of January 21, 2022, the Board considered the allegations in the Order to Show Cause, the Answer, as well as Leonard's Hearing Response and testimony. The Board determined that no material facts related to Leonard's offense were in dispute since he pled guilty to Conspiracy – Agree/Engage in Conduct Constituting a Crime (3rd degree). Moreover, as a result his conviction, Leonard is disqualified from public school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 et seq. Thus, the Board determined that summary decision was appropriate in this matter. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.6(h). After reviewing the allegations, the Board found that Leonard engaged in unbecoming conduct.

The Board must now determine whether Leonard's conduct, as set forth in the Order to Show Cause, provides just cause to act against his certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.4. The Board finds that it does.

In enacting the Criminal History Review statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 et seq. in 1986, the Legislature sought to protect public school pupils from contact with individuals whom it deemed to be a poor example for them. Individuals convicted of crimes such as Conspiracy fall squarely within this category. The strong legislative policy statement is also in accord with the Commissioner's long-standing belief that teachers must serve as role models for their students. "Teachers... are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of ... school children. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. Moreover, unfitness to hold a position in a school system may be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E & A 1944). In this instance, Leonard's conviction demonstrates behavior that falls short of a role model. Leonard argues that he is not disqualified under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1; nevertheless, he abandoned the appeal of that determination in January 2021. He cannot now argue the merits of that appeal before this Board and seek a different outcome. Accordingly, the disqualification from OSP stands and the Board takes its action consistent with that determination.

The strong policy statement on the part of the Legislature set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(b) also offers guidance to the Board as to the appropriate sanction in this matter. An individual whose offense is so great that he or she is barred from service in public schools should not be permitted to retain the certificate that authorizes such service. Nor should a person who has been disqualified from teaching in a public school be permitted to continue to hold himself out as a teacher. Thus, because the Legislature and the Commissioner consider Leonard's offense so significant, the Board believes that the only appropriate sanction in this case is the revocation of his certificate.

Accordingly, on January 21, 2022, the Board voted to revoke Richard N. Leonard's Teacher of Social Studies Certificate. On this 4th day of March 2022, the Board voted to adopt its formal written decision and it is therefore ORDERED that Leonard's certificate is hereby revoked, effective immediately. It is further ORDERED that Leonard return his certificate to the Secretary of the State Board of Examiners, Office of Certification and Induction, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625-0500 within 30 days of the mailing date of this decision.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Certificates of
Michael D'Alessio, State Board of Examiners,
New Jersey Department of Education.

Order of Revocation by the State Board of Examiners, June 30, 2022

For the Respondent-Appellant, James J. Uliano, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent State Board of Examiners, Erin Herlihy, Deputy Attorney General (Matthew J. Platkin, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The Commissioner has reviewed the record and the papers filed in connection with appellant Michael D'Alessio's appeal of the Order of the State Board of Examiners (Board), dated June 30, 2022, revoking his Teacher of Handicapped and Teacher of Elementary Grades K-8 Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing. The Board issued an Order to Show Cause on September 19, 2019, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). Following a hearing at the OAL, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that appellant engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher. Criminal charges had been filed against appellant, stemming from an investigation into the sale of prescription pain medication which revealed that Kevin McNamara (McNamara), an individual associated with appellant, obtained medication from an Acme pharmacy using appellant's credit card, and then sold these medications from appellant's car in the parking lot of the Acme pharmacy, which is located both within a school zone and within 500 feet of a public housing unit. Additionally, appellant's 14-month-old son was present in the vehicle at the time of the transaction. Such conduct resulted in appellant pleading to an Accusation for Possession of a Controlled Dangerous Substance (CDS), suboxone (3rd degree); he received an Order of Postponement and entered a Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI) program for a period of 12 months. The ALJ recommended that appellant's certificates be revoked. Thereafter, the Board adopted the Initial Decision of the ALJ on May 19, 2022.

On appeal, appellant argues that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable manner because it incorrectly relied upon the ALJ's improper determinations regarding credibility and findings of fact. Specifically, appellant claims that he could not have known of McNamara's substance abuse problems with prescription medications; that when assessing his credibility, the ALJ failed to consider the fact that appellant had his infant son in the car at the time of the incident; and that he could not have known that McNamara's request for a ride to the local pharmacy would result in criminal conduct. Appellant further purports that this singular incident does not rise to the level of unbecoming conduct. Appellant also contends that the ALJ's decision gave inappropriate weight to appellant's participation in the PTI program as an admission of guilt. Finally, appellant argues that the Board failed to consider evidence of mitigation provided by appellant at the OAL, including the fact that he has dedicated his life to helping the special education community, has been back to teaching for two years without incident, and has not had related tenure charges filed against him.

In reviewing appeals from decisions of the Board, the Commissioner may not substitute her judgment for that of the Board so long as the appellant received due process and the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record. Further, the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). With regard to reviewing a sanction imposed by the Board, the Appellate Division has defined the standard as determining whether the "punishment is so disproportionate to the offense, in light of all the circumstances, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness." In re Certificates of Benjamin Norton, 2016 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 2291, *6-7 (internal citations and quotations omitted).

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Board that appellant has engaged in unbecoming conduct. The Commissioner also finds that the Board's decision to revoke appellant's certifications was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The Commissioner notes that the Board's decision does not modify any findings of fact or legal conclusions of the Initial Decision. Although appellant contests those findings or conclusions on appeal, the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's findings and conclusions and is satisfied that the record adequately supports the Board's determination that appellant engaged in unbecoming conduct and that revocation of his certificates is the appropriate penalty.

An agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witnesses unless it is first determined from a review of the record that those findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c); N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6(c). Despite appellant's argument to the contrary, the ALJ was clearly aware of the fact that appellant's son was in the car at the time of the incident. The ALJ's findings that appellant's testimony was "less than truthful" and his "denial of McNamara's drug addiction less than credible" were made only after he carefully heard the testimony of all witnesses to the proceeding, which included observing the demeanor of appellant. Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ's credibility findings, on which the Board relied, were supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record and were not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

Regarding appellant's claim that the ALJ placed undue weight on appellant's PTI as an admission of guilt, the ALJ specifically stated, "This tribunal bases no finding upon the criminal charges or acceptance in the PTI program." In addition to this direct negation of appellant's claim, it is also clear from the decision as a whole that the ALJ reached his conclusions based on information about appellant's underlying conduct, not his acceptance in the PTI program.

Furthermore, although appellant argues that this subject incident was a singular event that does not rise to the level of flagrancy required of unbecoming conduct, analysis of a charge of unbecoming conduct focuses on "the morale, efficiency, and public perception of an entity, and how those concerns are harmed by allowing teachers to behave inappropriately while holding public employment." Bound Brook Bd. of Educ. v. Ciripompa, 228 N.J. 4, 14 (2017). Unfitness to hold a position in a school system may be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (S. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944). Teachers "are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of [children.] This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, Sch. Dist. of Black Horse Pike Regional, Camden Co., 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. In the instant matter, appellant not only facilitated possession and distribution of a CDS, which alone is a serious offense, but he did so with the knowledge that his 14-month-old son was in his vehicle.

Finally, appellant's argument that the Board failed to consider the fact that he returned to teaching for two years without incident and did his job well is not persuasive since it is the Board, and not his employer, who is empowered to determine whether he may retain his certification to teach. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38.; N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.4.

Accordingly, the decision of the Board is affirmed. Appellant's Teacher of the Handicapped and Teacher of Elementary Grades K-8 Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing are hereby revoked.[1]

[1] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1. Under N.J. Ct.R. 2:4-1(b), a notice of appeal must be filed with the Appellate Division within 45 days from the date of mailing of this decision.

IN THE MATTER OF	:	NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
THE CERTIFICATES OF	:	STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS
MICHAEL S. D'ALESSIO	:	ORDER OF REVOCATION
_____	:	DOCKET NO: 1819-240

At its meeting of August 1, 2019, the State Board of Examiners (Board) reviewed information it received regarding Michael S. D'Alessio. The Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Student Protection (OSP) provided information to the State Board of Examiners (Board) regarding D'Alessio.

On June 10, 2019, D'Alessio received an Order of Postponement and entered a Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI) program for a period of 12 months following entry of an Accusation for Possession of a Controlled Dangerous Substance (CDS), suboxone (3rd degree). The Accusation was the result of several other charges in which D'Alessio was alleged to have engaged in conspiracy to distribute CDS within 500 feet of a public housing unit, knowingly distribute, dispense or possess CDS with intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of school property, harm to a child, and possession of oxycodone, amphetamine and alprazolam.

These charges were the result of an investigation into the sale of prescription pain medication. The investigation revealed that individual(s) associated with D'Alessio obtained medication from the Acme pharmacy and then returned to the parking lot outside the pharmacy. The medication was sold in the parking lot out of the vehicle driven by D'Alessio. D'Alessio had his child in the car at the time of the investigation and allegedly when the sale(s) were made; further D'Alessio's credit card was used to purchase the prescription medication.

D'Alessio currently holds a Teacher of Handicapped and Teacher of Elementary Grades K-8 Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing. After reviewing the above information, at its September 19, 2019 meeting, the Board voted to issue an Order to Show Cause (OSC) to D'Alessio as to why his certificates should not be revoked.

The Board sent D'Alessio the OSC by regular and certified mail on September 23, 2019. The OSC provided that D'Alessio must file an Answer within 30 days. D'Alessio responded on October 21, 2019. In his Answer, D'Alessio admitted that he received pretrial intervention (PTI) but generally denied the allegations that formed the basis for the criminal charges. (Answer, ¶¶ 3-4). D'Alessio indicated that he was "in the wrong place at the wrong time." Id. at ₱ 4. He further states that he would not have agreed to enter PTI if he realized it would jeopardize his educator certificates. Id. at ₱ 3. He believes that his certificates should not be revoked because he has dedicated his life to helping the special education community. Id. at ₱ 6. He has been back to teaching for two years without an incident. Id.

Since there were material facts in dispute, on October 31, 2019, the Board transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. On February 15, 2022, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Joseph A. Ascione, issued an Initial Decision in the case. In the Matter of the Certificates of Michael D'Alessio, Jr., Dkt. No. EDE 15392-19 (Initial Decision, February 15, 2022).

After reviewing the record, ALJ Ascione found that D'Alessio's actions on October 21, 2015 "clearly demonstrate conduct that is unbecoming, or just cause for a revocation of the certificates." (Initial Decision, slip op. at 10.) Specifically, ALJ Ascione found that D'Alessio's arrest for possession of CDS is a serious offense and that while D'Alessio denies involvement in the possession and distribution of CDS, he facilitated the actions of his co-defendant (McNamara) in the matter. Id. at p. 11. Further, ALJ Ascione found that D'Alessio's actions display "a clear lack of judgment." Id. In conclusion, ALJ Ascione found that the Board met its burden of proof and that D'Alessio's conduct constitutes unbecoming conduct and just cause to warrant the revocation of his certificates. Id. at p. 12.

D'Alessio filed Exceptions and the Deputy Attorney General (DAG or Deputy) representing the Board filed a reply to the Exceptions.

In his Exceptions, D'Alessio argued that the ALJ's finding that D'Alessio may have unknowingly engaged in the conduct was in conflict with his ultimate findings that D'Alessio knowingly engaged in unbecoming conduct that warrants revocation of his certificates. (Exceptions at p. 2). The crux of the matter is the nature of D'Alessio's involvement in the CDS transaction. D'Alessio argues that the ALJ's determination as to that fact is inconclusive and therefore it confirms that the Board did not meet its burden of proof. Id.

D'Alessio further argues that ALJ Ascione's determination that D'Alessio should have known of Mr. McNamara's intent to distribute is belied by the fact that D'Alessio testified that from his perspective he was helping an employee of his family business by taking him to a legitimate pharmacist in a familiar town. Id.

Additionally, several witnesses testified that D'Alessio's relationship with McNamara was more of a an employee relationship than a friendship. Id. D'Alessio states that the testimony does not indicate that he was in the habit of socializing with McNamara. Id. at p. 3. Thus, ALJ's finding that D'Alessio should have known of McNamara's addiction is incorrect.

Moreover, D'Alessio challenges the ALJ's determination as to McNamara's credibility when he testified. Additionally, D'Alessio takes exception to the ALJ's finding that his past and present successful employment with Middletown Board of Education did not mitigate the penalty. Id. at p. 5. D'Alessio further takes exception to ALJ Ascione's characterization of D'Alessio's agitated state during his testimony and then using that to determine that D'Alessio's testimony was less than truthful. Id.

The DAG assigned to the matter argued that the initial decision should be affirmed because it was not arbitrary or capricious and is supported by credible evidence in the record. See Reply to Exceptions at p. 8. She further states that the ALJ correctly assessed witness credibility. ALJ Ascione correctly noted several contradictions in D'Alessio's testimony and noted his agitated state during his testimony. Id. at p. 9.

The DAG further stated that the ALJ's decision cites credible testimony to support the finding that D'Alessio had a lifelong familiarity with McNamara, that D'Alessio's card was used to purchase the CDS, that Suboxone was found in D'Alessio's wallet, and that he did not inquire as to why he was being arrested. Id. at p. 11. Accordingly, the record supports the ALJ's finding that D'Alessio knew or should have known of McNamara's addiction and should have known that he was involved in the possession and distribution of CDS. Id.

Finally, the DAG argued that D'Alessio incorrectly stated that the ALJ disregarded his past and present employment. Rather, the ALJ credited testimony and noted that D'Alessio was able to perform his teaching duties well. Id. at p. 15. The record reflects that the ALJ considered this information but "simply found it uncompelling in light of Respondent's reprehensible conduct." Id.

The Board must now determine whether to adopt, modify or reject the Initial Decision in this matter. At its meeting of May 19, 2022, the Board reviewed the Initial Decision, Exceptions and Reply to Exceptions. After full and fair consideration of the Decision and submissions, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision.

"Teachers ... are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of ... school children. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. There is no doubt that the ALJ is in the best position to render credibility determinations in this matter. Accordingly, the Board will defer to those findings.

As noted above, after assessing the evidence and credibility of the witnesses, ALJ Ascione concluded that D'Alessio's testimony as to the nature/significance of his relationship with McNamara was "less than truthful." See Initial Decision at p. 8. ALJ Ascione determined that D'Alessio's denial of McNamara's drug addiction was "less than credible" given McNamara's closeness to D'Alessio's family and business making "the absence of that knowledge implausible." Id. He also found that testimony from D'Alessio's coworker was a blanket opinion and based upon this, the Board finds no cause to overturn ALJ Ascione's credibility assessment and therefore his findings of fact.

Moreover, the Board is also unpersuaded by D'Alessio's argument that his current and former employment history should mitigate the penalty here. The ALJ assessed the credibility of the related testimony here and deemed that it does not outweigh the egregiousness of D'Alessio's conduct. Id. at p. 11. The Board finds no cause to overturn this finding.

After reviewing the entire record, the Board agrees with the ALJ's assessment regarding D'Alessio's unbecoming conduct and agrees that a revocation of his certificates is appropriate.

Accordingly, on May 19, 2022, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision and ordered revocation of D'Alessio's certificates. On this 30th day of June 2022, the Board formally adopted its written decision to adopt the Initial Decision in this matter and it is therefore ORDERED that Michael D'Alessio's Teacher of Handicapped and Teacher of Elementary Grades K-8 Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing is hereby REVOKED, effective immediately. It is further ordered that D'Alessio return his certificates to the Secretary of the State Board of Examiners, Office of Certification and Induction, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625-0500 within 30 days of the mailing date of this decision.

SEC Dkt. No. T32-21

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of Willie Hembree,
Board of Education of the City of Plainfield,
Union County.

This matter involves an appeal of the School Ethics Commission's (SEC) June 28, 2022 determination that appellant, Willie Hembree – a member of the Plainfield Board of Education – violated the School Ethics Act (Act) for failure to timely complete board member training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1. Appellant ultimately completed the training after the issuance of the SEC's April 26, 2022 Order to Show Cause (OTSC), but prior to its June 28, 2022 decision. The SEC recommended a penalty of censure for the violation. Appellant appealed the SEC's determination, challenging both the finding of a violation and the recommended penalty. Having carefully reviewed the SEC's decision and the record in its entirety, the Commissioner finds that the SEC's decision that appellant violated the Act is supported by sufficient, credible evidence, and that the appellant failed to establish that the decision is arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). However, the Commissioner disagrees with the recommended penalty of censure and instead finds that a penalty of reprimand is appropriate.

In her appeal to the Commissioner, appellant argues that she was scheduled to complete training on February 16, 2022, but experienced technical difficulties. She re-registered for the training but continued to experience difficulties with her logon credentials, throughout which she was in communication with the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA), which provides the training. According to petitioner, her repeated communication with the NJSBA contradicts the SEC's finding that she made no effort to complete her mandatory training in a timely manner. Furthermore, appellant contends that, due to the technical failures by the NJSBA, the training was simply not available to her in a timely manner.

In opposition, the SEC argues that its decision was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The SEC notes that it is undisputed that appellant did not complete the required training by December 31, 2021. Accordingly, the SEC argues that appellant should be censured for violating the Act by failing to complete board member training in a timely manner.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner finds that the SEC's determination that the appellant is in violation of the Act is supported by sufficient credible evidence, and appellant has not established that the SEC's decision is arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, appellant was required to complete the Governance 2 training program by December 31, 2021. While the Commissioner is sympathetic to appellant's technological issues, by appellant's own admission, she did not attempt to complete the training until February 16, 2022, six weeks after the December 31, 2021 deadline. As such, appellant failed to timely complete her board member training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

With respect to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner notes that in previous matters, when a respondent completed the requisite training after the issuance of the Order to Show Cause – but prior to the SEC's meeting date – the penalty has been a reprimand. See, In the Matter of Annette Beasley, Irvington Board of Education, Essex County, Commissioner Decision No. 223-21SEC, decided October 13, 2021; In the Matter of Marcos Garciga, Cliffside

Park Board of Education, Bergen County, Commissioner Decision No. 224-21SEC, decided October 13, 2021; In the Matter of Gary Yedman, Seaside Park Board of Education, Ocean County, Commissioner Decision No. 230-21SEC, decided October 13, 2021. As the instant case arises from the same circumstances, the Commissioner finds that a reprimand is the appropriate penalty for the respondent's failure to timely complete the requisite training.[1] Accordingly, the respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

[1] The SEC has previously recommended a penalty of a censure when a board member completed the training after the issuance of the Order to Show Cause but prior to the SEC's next meeting; however, the Commissioner rejected the penalty recommendation in that case and advised that a reprimand is the appropriate penalty under those circumstances. In the Matter of Robyn Schneider, The Ethical Community Charter School, Hudson County, Commissioner Decision No. 140-16SEC, decided April 11, 2016.

Before the School Ethics Commission
Docket No.: T32-21
Amended Decision for Failure to Complete Mandatory Training Requirement in a Timely Manner

---

I/M/O Willie Hembree,
Plainfield Board of Education, Union County

I. Procedural History

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) that was issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on April 26, 2022, and also served on April 26, 2022, via electronic mail.[1] The OTSC directed Willie Hembree (Respondent), a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

In the OTSC served on April 26, 2022, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

II. Analysis

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1 require every board member to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a member of the Plainfield Board of Education (Board), located in Union County. As a result of her position on the Board, and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online so any board member may complete it at any time, from anywhere. Respondent was required to complete the Governance 2 training program by December 31, 2021.

On or about April 15, 2022, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those board of education members who failed to complete mandated training by December 31, 2021, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes. More specific information detailing the outreach efforts of NJSBA to communicate with Respondent and/or the charter school lead about mandated training is set forth in the attached Certification from NJSBA. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In light of Respondent's failure to complete mandated training, an OTSC was issued by the Commission, and served on Respondent, via electronic mail, on April 26, 2022.

At its meeting on May 24, 2022, and because the Commission did not have information from NJSBA or Respondent indicating that Respondent had completed mandated training prior thereto, the Commission adopted a decision recommending that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal, with such removal to become effective immediately upon issuance of the Commissioner of Education's decision. The Commission's decision further stated that if Respondent completed training before the Commissioner of Education adopted a final decision (which would have been forty-five (45) days after the mailing date of its May 24, 2022, decision), then the Commission recommended that the Commissioner of Education, in lieu of removal, impose a thirty (30) day suspension.

On May 25, 2022, which was after the Commission adopted the aforementioned decision, the Commission received information from NJSBA that Respondent successfully completed mandated training on May 19, 2022.

Notwithstanding Respondent's completion of mandated training on May 19, 2022, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by December 31, 2021, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC.

III. Decision/Penalty Recommendation

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on June 28, 2022, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required. Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension, or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12.

For the reasons set forth above, and because training is regularly completed annually and can be completed from any computer or device with an internet connection, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction."[2] A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission (school.ethics@doe.nj.gov) and all other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Eric Fitzke-Grey,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the West Essex Regional School District, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the December 14, 2022 Order of Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) John P. Scollo, the request for interlocutory review from respondent West Essex Regional School District Board of Education (Board), and petitioner's response thereto, have been reviewed and considered.

This matter arises out of the Board's determination that petitioner, a music teacher employed by the Board, had committed an act of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) against a student, H.O. In response to certain discovery requests, the Board indicated that it was unable to produce student records and correspondence relating to pupils without parental consent. Petitioner filed a motion seeking to compel discovery. The Board opposed the motion, contending that the motion should be denied because it was filed after the deadline set by the ALJ and petitioner had not complied with his own discovery obligations; the Board also reiterated that federal and State laws barred the production of the documents.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner's answers to the Board's interrogatories were responsive and did not bar petitioner from bringing a motion to compel discovery.[1] The ALJ concluded that none of the documents petitioner sought were student records under N.J.A.C. 6A:32-2.1 and ordered the Board to turn over all documents demanded by petitioner.[2]

The Board requested interlocutory review of the ALJ's order. The Board argues that the ALJ incorrectly determined that the documents requested by petitioner are not student records and do not seek any student's private information. According to the Board, correspondence and notes between school staff and H.O.'s parents, H.O's Section 504 Disability Accommodation Plan (504 Plan), doctor's notes, and the identity of the four student witnesses in this matter do indeed constitute education records, and the Family Educational and Privacy Rights Act (FERPA) prohibits their disclosure without the written consent of the students' parents. The Board further contends that the ALJ incorrectly directed the Board to provide an employment verification form to petitioner, when that document was not requested in discovery and is unrelated to the pending case, and when there is no legal requirement that an employer must sign a form attesting that a former employee's service was deemed satisfactory. Finally, the Board reiterates its argument that petitioner should not have been permitted to move to compel discovery in light of his own discovery deficiencies.

In response, petitioner contends that the records at issue are not student records and that he is entitled to the entire investigatory file, including written reports, witness statements,

[1] The ALJ did not specifically address the Board's argument that the motion to compel was not timely filed. However, since the ALJ allowed the motion to proceed, the Commissioner presumes that the ALJ rejected this argument.

[2] Following the ALJ's Order, the Board produced documents and/or provided assurances that responsive documents have previously been provided regarding demands 8, 9, 14, 15, 16, 25, and 29. The Board also revised its response to demands 19 and 30, indicating that it does not maintain responsive records. Accordingly, those demands do not require further resolution in this forum.

summaries, and email and other communications. Petitioner also argues that he is unable to defend himself against accusations that he violated H.O.'s 504 Plan when he has not been provided with a copy of the plan. Petitioner notes that he was unable to apply for employment in a district in Pennsylvania due to the Board's failure to supply the employment verification form. Finally, petitioner argues that the ALJ correctly found that his discovery responses were adequate and that he was not barred from bringing a motion to compel discovery.

Initially, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ's decision to allow the motion to compel discovery to proceed is a case management decision within the discretion of the ALJ, and the Commissioner finds no reason to disturb that decision on interlocutory review.

Regarding the employment verification form, the Commissioner can find no evidence that this document was the subject of any discovery request, and therefore it was improper for the ALJ to direct the Board to produce it as part of a motion to compel discovery.

Turning to the issue of student records, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ erred in finding that the documents in question were not student records. FERPA is clear that an "education record" is a record that contains information directly related to a student and is maintained by an educational agency or institution. 20 U.S.C.S. § 1232g(a)(4). The implementing regulations for the corresponding State law, the New Jersey Pupil Records Act (PRA), similarly define a student record as "information related to an individual student gathered within or outside the school district and maintained within the school district." N.J.A.C. 6A:32-2.1.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner is not seeking "student records as that term is defined in N.J.A.C. 6A:32-2.1," and indicated that "[s]tudent records not subject to disclosure are those which are comprised of information that related directly to the student, such as his name, address, social security number, his grades, and other private information." The ALJ also stated, "Petitioner is not seeking any student's private information." The ALJ appears to have conflated the definition of an "education record" with the definition of "personally identifiable information," which includes the student's name, address, social security number, and other indirect identifiers such as date or place of birth. 34 C.F.R. § 99.3; N.J.A.C. 6A:32-2.1. But FERPA and PRA protection extends beyond personally identifiable information: all student records – meaning all records containing information related to a student – are protected.

Reviewing the broad categories of records sought by petitioner, it is clear that the majority of them are, in fact, student records. Complaints, emails, letters, or memos circulated between H.O.'s parents and school officials about the facts of the HIB allegations or other issues pertaining to H.O.'s education certainly contain information related to H.O. Petitioner's request for documents from his Google Drive specifically indicates that he is seeking documents regarding accommodations made by petitioner in reference to H.O. H.O.'s 504 Plan is unquestionably a student record, as are emails or other documentation related to the plan. The identities of the four witnesses and their statements – assuming that those witnesses are students – also contain information about students and are therefore student records.

The Commissioner notes that although the instant matter involves a discovery request and not a request under the Open Public Records Act (OPRA), the regulation governing OPRA requests provides a useful framework for balancing the privacy interests of students with a request for access. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.5(g), a board of education responding to OPRA requests may release student records without consent as long as all personally identifiable information has been removed from the documents. The board of education is required to make a "reasonable decision that a student's identity cannot be determined whether through single or multiple releases, or when added to other reasonably available information." Ibid. However, there are some records that contain so much student information, or such detailed student information, that redaction can never sufficiently protect the student's identity. This problem is compounded when the party seeking access knows the identity of the student at issue, as there is no possible way to protect the student's identity. Here, petitioner knows the identity of H.O. Accordingly, the Board cannot use redactions to turn over records that contain information relating to H.O. without the consent of H.O.'s parents. Nor can the Board provide the identities of the students who made witness statements without, by definition, disclosing their identities.[3]

However, pursuant to 34 C.F.R. § 99.31, prior consent is not required to disclose personally identifiable information when the disclosure is to comply with a judicial order. See also N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.5(e)(15). Under FERPA, the educational agency must make a reasonable effort to notify the parent of the order in advance of compliance, so that the parent may seek protective action. 34 C.F.R. § 99.31. Under the PRA, the requirement is more specific: prior to disclosure of student records pursuant to a court order, the board of education must give the parent at least three days' notice of the name of the requesting agency and the specific records requested. N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.6(a)(4).

In L.R. v. Camden City Public Sch. Dist., 238 N.J. 547 (2019), the New Jersey Supreme Court identified the factors to be considered for a court order for the production of student records under N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.5(e)(15). The Supreme Court suggested a framework that may include, but is not limited to:

> (1) the type of student record requested; (2) the information that the student record contains; (3) the potential for harm in any subsequent nonconsensual disclosure of > the student record; (4) the injury from disclosure to the relationship between the educational agency and the student and his or her parents or guardians; (5) the extent to which disclosure will impede the educational agency's functions by discouraging candid disclosure of information regarding students; (6) the effect disclosure may have upon persons who have provided such information; (7) the extent to which agency self-evaluation, program improvement, or other determinations will be chilled by disclosure; (8) the adequacy of safeguards to prevent unauthorized disclosure; (9) the degree of need for access to the student records; and (10) whether there is an express statutory or regulatory mandate, articulated public policy, or other recognized public interest militating toward access.

The Supreme Court noted that not all of the factors will apply in every case, and additional factors may be relevant. Ibid.

The Commissioner finds that the most consequential factor in determining whether these records should be released is the degree of need for access to the records. The emails, notes, and other documents regarding the district's investigation of the HIB allegations contain information about the incidents between petitioner and H.O. that are the subject of this matter. Furthermore, as petitioner is alleged to have violated H.O.'s 504 Plan, the contents of that plan are critical to the ultimate determination. Petitioner is entitled to appeal the Board's decision finding that he committed HIB, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e), and it is unclear to the Commissioner how petitioner would be able to challenge the district's investigation or the Board's decision without access to the records that were part of the investigation and which informed the decision. The Board cannot use the information contained in these documents against petitioner and simultaneously prevent him from reviewing them for possible use in his defense. While the Commissioner acknowledges that FERPA and the PRA tend to militate against access to student records, general principles of due process weigh in favor of access under these circumstances, as do general principles pertaining to discovery. See, e.g., N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1.

The Commissioner acknowledges that the release of student records may be unpalatable to the parents of the students at issue, particularly to H.O.'s parents. As noted herein, the documents in question contain sensitive information about H.O. However, it appears that petitioner has already had access to many of the records and/or the information contained therein during the time that he was employed by the Board. Therefore, while the release will provide petitioner with the written records, it does not appear to the Commissioner that, following release, petitioner will know much or any additional information about H.O. beyond what he already knows. This fact, combined with petitioner's strong due process right to access the records to be used against him, leads the Commissioner to conclude that the records should be released to petitioner as part of discovery.

The Commissioner views student privacy as a matter of paramount concern. Accordingly, the student records shall be released only to counsel for petitioner. The records may not be distributed to any other parties. Petitioner may not use the records for any purpose other than pursuing the petition of appeal in this matter. To the extent that student records may be entered into evidence during the course of the hearing, those portions of the record shall be sealed and shall be available for review only by the ALJ and the Commissioner.[4] To the extent that student witnesses may testify at the hearing, they shall be identified in any transcripts, and in any summary of their testimony in the Initial or Commissioner decisions, only by their initials or a pseudonym.

Accordingly, the Board shall provide all documents and information requested in petitioner's demands 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13, 17, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 26, and 28. The Board shall notify the parents of the students at issue of the impending disclosure within seven days of the date of mailing of this decision.[5] Consistent with N.J.A.C. 6A:32-32-7.6(a)(4), the Board shall release the records to petitioner three days after notice is given to the parents. The Order is reversed as to demand 18, as the ALJ found this demand to be unclear and it appears that the Order to produce these records was therefore in error. The Order is reversed as to the employment verification form.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

B.E., on behalf of minor child, F.E.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, Middlesex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed and considered. The parties did not file exceptions.

Petitioner challenges a suspension imposed by the Board on his minor child. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) scheduled a telephone conference regarding petitioner's appeal for October 12, 2022. Petitioner failed to appear and did not respond to an email asking him to explain his failure to appear. A telephone conference was then scheduled for November 14, 2022. Petitioner again failed to appear and did not respond to an email asking him to explain his failure to appear. Therefore, the ALJ dismissed the matter based on petitioner's failure to pursue the appeal.

Upon review, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ that the matter should be dismissed based on petitioner's failure to appear. The Initial Decision indicates that the scheduling notices were sent to the parties via email. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-9.5(c), scheduling notices must be sent by regular mail unless emergent needs require otherwise. There is no indication in the record that the telephone conferences were emergent; to the contrary, the notices were emailed to the parties a month prior to the scheduled dates. Moreover, while sending scheduling notices via email may be acceptable in many circumstances, such as in cases where all parties or attorneys routinely communicate with the OAL via email, those circumstances are not present here. The record does not contain a single email from petitioner to the OAL. Furthermore, the Initial Decision specifically indicates that there was a concern about the correct spelling of petitioner's email address, and the scheduling notices were therefore sent to four separate email addresses. Given the lack of certainty that petitioner ever received the scheduling notices, the Commissioner finds that dismissal at this juncture is not appropriate.[1]

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this opinion.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 182/7/18

B.E. ON BEHALF OF F.E.,
Petitioner,
v.
TOWNSHIP OF PISCATAWAY BOARD OF EDUCATION, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

B.E., petitioner, pro se

David B. Rubin, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: November 16, 2022 Decided: December 20, 2022

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ

On May 1, 2018, the Township of Piscataway, Board of Education (Board) issued a decision suspending then-student F.E. for a portion of the next school year as discipline for conduct occurring on March 14, 2018. On or about July 30, 2018, B.E. on behalf of then-minor child F.E. filed a petition with the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education appealing the suspension. This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on August 16, 2018, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:154B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. and docketed as EDU 11838-18.

Prior to the 2018–2019 school year, petitioner B.E. withdrew F.E. from Piscataway High School and enrolled him in a private school. On October 15, 2018, the Board filed a motion to dismiss the petition for lack of jurisdiction or alternately, for failure to state a claim on which relief may be granted. Following the filing of responsive briefs, an initial decision was issued on November 20, 2018, granting the motion to dismiss.

On January 4, 2019, the Commissioner issued a final decision reversing the initial decision and remanding the matter for further proceedings at the OAL. On January 11, 2022, in response to an inquiry from Board counsel, the Director of the Office of Controversies and Disputes stated that her office failed to transmit the matter back to the OAL. Petitioner elected to pursue the matter and the matter on remand was transmitted to the OAL, docketed as EDU 00375-22, and assigned to me on January 20, 2022.

The parties appeared for a telephone prehearing conference on February 28, 2022, and stated that they would engage in negotiations toward settlement. On or about June 10, 2022, the parties stated that they had reached agreement on settlement but, on August 30, 2022, counsel for petitioner stated that his client had withdrawn his consent to settle. During a telephone conference on September 9, 2022, which was attended by B.E., counsel stated that he would file a formal request to be relieved as counsel. Neither respondent nor B.E. objected to this request. On September 23, 2022, an order was entered relieving the Law Firm of C.N. Njoku, LLC, as counsel to B.E. on behalf of F.E.

During the September 9, 2022, status conference, B.E. stated his intention to retain new counsel within thirty days and a telephone conference was scheduled for October 12, 2022. Notice of the October 12, 2022, telephone conference was sent to the parties on September 12, 2022. A dial-in number was provided. Due to concern for the correct spelling of B.E.'s email address, the notice was sent to four separate emails and to his former counsel. The notice stated in bold print:

> Failure to dial in for the telephone conference will result in the file being returned to the transmitting agency for appropriate action which may include imposition of the proposed penalty or granting the relief requested by the other party.

B.E. failed to appear for the October 12, 2022, telephone conference. B.E. failed to notify my office in advance or to request an adjournment. On October 14, 2022, an email was sent to B.E. asking him to explain his failure to appear. B.E. did not respond.

On October 14, 2022, notice was sent to the parties of a telephone status conference on November 14, 2022. A dial-in number was provided. B.E. failed to appear for the November 14, 2022, telephone conference. B.E. failed to notify my office in advance or to request an adjournment. On November 15, 2022, an email was sent to B.E. asking him to explain his failure to appear. B.E. did not respond.

Absent exigent circumstances, a petitioner's failure to prosecute a matter should result in its dismissal. Henderson v. Jersey Central Power and Light Company, Dkt. No. PUC 2470-10, Initial Decision (January 5, 2011) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/ new-jersey-administrative-decisions-0 (citations omitted).

Here, neither exigent circumstances nor, for that matter, any explanation whatsoever, has been offered to excuse petitioner's failure to prosecute this matter.

DECISION AND ORDER

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to prosecute its appeal and no longer requests relief in this matter. Therefore, I ORDER that this case be and is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Springfield,
Union County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Newark,
Essex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The issue in this case is which of the two school districts – the Board of Education of the Township of Springfield (Springfield) or Board of Education of the City of Newark (Newark) – is responsible for the tuition and transportation costs associated with educating the children of A.I.P. after the family lost their permanent residence and became homeless in approximately June of 2016. The Commissioner issued a previous decision in September 2022, remanding this matter to the OAL to address inconsistent findings in an earlier Initial Decision.

On remand, the ALJ found, inter alia, that: the preponderance of credible evidence indicates that A.I.P. and her children resided at an address in Newark for more than one year prior to the start of the 2017-2018 school year; accordingly, they became the responsibility of the Newark school district for the 2017-2018 school year; Springfield expended a total of $79,511.58 in tuition and transportation costs related to the education of A.I.P.'s children; however, A.I.P. relocated to Dover in the summer of 2018 and from that point forward Dover became the school district responsible for the education of the P. children; the amount that Springfield paid in tuition and transportation for the period beginning in the summer of 2018 was $36,031.92. The ALJ concluded that Newark is responsible for educational costs for the children for the 2017-2018 school year, and Dover became the responsible school district in the summer of 2018. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered Newark to reimburse Springfield in the amount of $43,479.66 for educational costs related to the P. children during the 2017-2018 school year.

Upon review, the Commissioner remanded this matter a second time as she is unable to determine from the present record when the P. family's living situation became permanent such that they were no longer homeless. The Commissioner noted that in order to determine which school district is responsible for the cost of the P. children's education at different points in time, a fact-specific homelessness determination is essential. The present record does not provide sufficient and accurate information regarding where the P. family was living and for what length of time so as to allow the Commissioner to determine when they became homeless and at what point their period of homelessness ended. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Springfield, Union County, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Newark, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this case and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, mindful of the Commissioner's September 7, 2022 decision remanding the matter to address inconsistent findings in the Initial Decision. The exceptions filed by respondent Newark Board of Education (Newark) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the reply thereto filed by petitioner Springfield Board of Education (Springfield), have also been considered.

The issue for determination here is which of the two school districts is responsible for the tuition and transportation costs associated with educating the P. children when they became homeless. It is undisputed that A.I.P. and her children resided in Springfield prior to becoming homeless in June of 2016. According to the McKinney-Vento paperwork submitted by A.I.P., the family was residing with A.I.P.'s mother at a Newark address and also at an Irvington address. As the district of residence (the last district that the children attended prior to becoming homeless), Springfield initially paid for M.P. and Jad.P. to attend school.[1] M.P. attended an out-of-district placement, and Springfield paid the tuition and provided transportation from the Newark address. Springfield also paid the tuition for Jad.P. to attend an out-of-district placement, but she did not require transportation as it was a residential facility. At the end of the 2016-17 school year, Jad.P.'s residential placement came to an end. Springfield offered home instruction pending a new placement, but A.I.P. refused. M.P. also refused to attend the extended school year program.

In June of 2017, Springfield informed Newark that the P. family had lived in Newark for a year, and therefore, Newark should take over responsibility for their placement and tuition for the 2017-18 school year. In September 2017, Newark's homeless management specialist Ana Osoria responded and indicated that she had spoken with A.I.P. and would assist her with registration but needed copies of the children's IEPs. Thereafter, on November 14, 2017, Ms. Osoria informed Springfield that she met with A.I.P. and that she had not lived in Newark consistently for a year because A.I.P. told her she had been staying in "multiple locations and at different districts including hotels/motels in Springfield, a friend's house in Irvington and her family member in Maplewood." (J3). Thereafter, Springfield worked to secure placements for the children because they had not been getting an education. Springfield offered home instruction in the interim, but A.I.P. refused. It appears that Jad.P. and M.P. began attending out-of-district placements in or about April 2018, and Springfield provided transportation for both children from the Newark address. On April 10, 2018, Springfield's Director of Social Services Tiffany Boehm informed Newark that the placements would begin shortly, but that Springfield intended to bill Newark for the cost because the P. family had lived in Newark for more than a year.[2]

Springfield then initiated a residency investigation. The investigator conducted surveillance on the Newark address and observed M.P. leave the house and get on the bus on four consecutive school days beginning on April 25, 2018. He also observed several vehicles come and go but did not see Jad.P. He also conducted surveillance on a Saturday and did not see any activity. Based on his observations, the investigator concluded that M.P. was residing in Newark. On May 15, 2018, Ms. Osoria updated Springfield that she had spoken with A.I.P. on the phone on April 27, 2018, writing:

> During our conversation, the parent indicated that her mother has asked them to leave several times since we spoke in November 2017 and the family had to split. Her older daughter resided with a friend in Irvington, NJ and [A.I.P.] and her younger daughter stayed temporarily [in Dover] with her friend in a 1 bedroom apartment. [A.I.P.] stated that she needed to provide Springfield with a stable address in order to arrange the bus pick up because of her frequent moves. According to [A.I.P.], because her temporary addresses are not reliable and short term, she drops off the students at her mother's address to be picked up so the bus is not interrupted.

Ms. Osoria indicated that she set up an in person meeting with A.I.P. for April 20, 2018 so that she could bring documentation, but A.I.P. did not show up.

In August 2018, A.I.P. informed Springfield by email that she and the children "no longer stay at my mother's house, we currently stay with my fiancé temporarily until I can find a permanent dwelling for us." (P18). Springfield thereafter arranged transportation to pick up M.P. at the fiancé's home in Dover and paid the tuition for her out-of-district placement. It appears that Jad.P. dropped out of school. According to Ms. Boehm's testimony, in December 2018, A.I.P.

[2] The Commissioner notes that with respect to Jad.P., Springfield only appears to seek reimbursement of her transportation costs. The Commissioner is unsure why Jad.P.'s tuition costs do not appear to be at issue.

indicated that she was permanently staying in Dover, and Dover took responsibility for M.P.'s education.

Springfield filed the instant petition against Newark seeking reimbursement of the tuition and transportation costs for M.P. and Jad.P. from June 2017 (one year after it alleged the P. family moved to Newark) through December 2018 (when Dover took over financial responsibility). Following a hearing, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued an Initial Decision dated June 8, 2022, which found that A.I.P. and her children resided in Newark from June 30, 2016 until the summer of 2018, and therefore became the responsibility of Newark for the 2017-18 school year. The ALJ then ordered Newark to reimburse Springfield for tuition and transportation from June 26, 2017 through December 31, 2018.

The Commissioner issued a decision on September 12, 2022 remanding this matter for inconsistent findings. In one instance, the ALJ appeared to find that A.I.P. was domiciled in Dover as of the summer of 2018, but then went on to order reimbursement of tuition and transportation through December 31, 2018. On remand here, the ALJ found that Dover became the responsible district for the children in the summer of 2018, and revised the tuition and transportation amount due from Newark to no longer include September through December 2018.

Upon review, the Commissioner is constrained to remand this matter a second time as she is unable to determine from the present record when the P. family's living situation became permanent such that they were no longer homeless. In order to determine which school district is responsible for the cost of the minor children's education at different points in time, a homelessness determination is essential. The Commissioner is also not satisfied that the present record provides sufficient and accurate information regarding where the P. family was living and for what length of time while they were homeless.

Under the McKinney-Vento Act, homeless children are defined as "individuals who lack a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence," which includes "children sharing housing with other persons due to loss of their own housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason." 42 U.S.C.A. § 11434a. Similarly, under state law, homeless children are defined as "child[ren] or youth who lack[] a fixed, regular and adequate residence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 and N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2," which includes children living in the "residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own." N.J.A.C. 6A:17-1.2 and 2.2. When a child's dwelling becomes fixed, regular and adequate, domicile attaches immediately. Board of Education of the Township of Egg Harbor v. Board of Education of the Mainland Regional High School District, et al, Commissioner's Decision No. 555-10, decided December 30, 2010, at 4.

Thus, conducting a homelessness evaluation to determine whether a child's home is considered fixed, regular and adequate requires a fact-specific analysis and "cannot rest upon a simple calculation of the amount of time that children have spent in a particular location or municipality." M. O'K. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Cresskill, et al, Commissioner Decision No. 325-14, decided August 12, 2014, at 3, aff'd, A-0828-14T4 (App. Div. Sept. 8, 2016). In conducting such a fact-specific inquiry, the Commissioner must consider the totality of the circumstances, such as "[t]he reasons for the children's homelessness, their living conditions, and the resources and intentions of the parents or custodians are relevant." Ibid.

Once it is determined whether a child is homeless, the question becomes which district is financially responsible for the child's education. Ordinarily, a student is eligible for a free public education in a school district if he or she is domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A student's domicile is determined by the domicile of his or her parents.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1). When a child becomes homeless, the school district of residence – i.e., the school district in which the child resided before becoming homeless – remains responsible for the cost of the child's education, including when the child is temporarily living and attending school in another school district. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3; N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. However, when a homeless child lives in a school district for one year or longer – and a new domicile has not been established – the child is "deemed domiciled" in that district for the purposes of determining which district is responsible for the cost of the child's education. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d); N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(c).

In this matter, while it is undisputed that the family was homeless for at least the 2016-17 school year, it is unclear if or when the P. family lived in Newark for one year such that they would be "deemed domiciled" for purposes of the children's education. Further fact finding is therefore required. In the June 8, 2022 Initial Decision, the ALJ found that the P. family were deemed domiciled in Newark for the 2017-18 school year, reasoning that: "In the instant matter, it is clear that A.I.P. resided in Newark. The address given to Springfield was the Newark address. Springfield's investigator confirmed that A.I.P. resided in Newark. The only reasonable conclusion is the A.I.P. resided in Newark." (Initial Decision, June 8, 2022, at 15). The Initial Decision on remand did not provide any additional factual findings on this issue and simply found that the preponderance of the credible evidence indicated that the P. family resided at the Newark address for more than a year. The Commissioner notes that, despite the ALJ's finding regarding providing Springfield with the Newark address, A.I.P.'s McKinney-Vento paperwork listed both a Newark and an Irvington address.[3] Additionally, the investigator's surveillance on four consecutive school days in April 2018 does not prove that the P. family had lived in Newark for a year after becoming homeless in June 2016, but rather only demonstrates where the family was in April 2018.

[3] The Commissioner acknowledges that the Newark address was used for the purposes of transportation beginning in the 2016-17 school year until the start of the 2018-19 school year, but also notes that according to Ms. Osoria, A.I.P. told her on April 27, 2018 that she would drop the children off at the Newark address when living temporarily elsewhere so that the bus service would not be interrupted.

While the family appears to have relocated to Newark on June 30, 2016, a determination needs to be made – through testimony from A.I.P. or others with personal knowledge of the family's living arrangement – regarding how long the family lived in the Newark School District. On November 14, 2017, more than a year later, Ms. Osoria spoke with A.I.P. who appeared to tell her that she'd been living in different places, including hotels/motels, with a friend in Irvington and with a family member in Maplewood, but it is unclear whether A.I.P. had lived in Newark for a full year prior to bouncing between these temporary situations.

Additionally, a determination needs to be made regarding when the family's homelessness status changed. It is undisputed that Dover took over responsibility for M.P.'s education sometime in December 2018, so it appears that the Dover address was a permanent residence and the family was no longer homeless. While A.I.P.'s August 2018 email indicated that she was temporarily staying with her fiancé in Dover until she could find a permanent dwelling, it is unclear at what point the Dover residence became fixed, regular and adequate. Such a determination is essential because it will decide which school district is responsible for the cost of M.P.'s education from September 2018 to December 2018. If the family was no longer homeless when they moved to the Dover residence in August 2018, then Dover would be responsible for the cost of education for that period; however, if the Dover residence did not become permanent until December 2018, then either Newark or Springfield (depending on whether the P. family was ever deemed domiciled in Newark) would be the responsible district.

The Commissioner notes that while homelessness determinations are fact-specific, there was never an evaluation of the family's living conditions at any one of the Newark, Irvington, or Dover addresses. No one looked into what parts of the home the family could use, where the children were sleeping, or what efforts A.I.P. was taking to secure permanent housing. While the Commissioner acknowledges that A.I.P. is not a party in this matter, the fact remains that she is the best source of information about the family's living situation and financial circumstances, and thus her participation through discovery or testimony is critical to a determination in this matter. Therefore, further information is necessary to determine where the P. family was staying when they were homeless and for how long, and the date their home became fixed, regular and adequate such that M.P. and Jad.P. were no longer homeless under state and federal law, in order to resolve the claims for tuition reimbursement.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision,

IT IS SO ORDERED.

ISSUES

Who is the responsible party for the education of the children from September 2018 through December 2018.

FINDINGS OF FACT[1]

1. A.I.P., and her children, Jas. P., Jad. P. and M.P., resided in the Township of Springfield, N.J. until approximately June of 2016.

2. As residents of Springfield the children were entitled to be educated in the Springfield public school system.

3. All three children, above noted, were students with special needs and had Individualized Education Programs (IEPs). (P-20)

4. A welfare check at the Springfield address of the P family by the Springfield Police revealed that they no longer resided at said address. A different family resided therein. (12/13/21 Tr. 26:12 to 27:24)

5. The Springfield Board of Education discovered that the P family was residing in Newark, NJ, through a worker with Families and Communities Together (FACT), however the worker was unable to provide a current address. (P-19)

6. In September 2016, after being contacted by the school social worker, A.I.P. came to the Florence M. Guadineer Middle School to re-register M.P., and provided a lease, dated September 1, 2016, for her prior Springfield address. (P-21)

7. The P family was not living at their previous address in Springfield. They were living with the childrens' grandmother in Newark, NJ, at 134 Fabyan Place.

8. The Springfield Police confirmed that the P family was not living at their previous address. A different family was living there. (12/13/21 Tr. 41:6-17)

9. A.I.P. filled out a McKinney Vento Act Student Information form for Jad. P., Jas. P. and M.P. A.I.P. claimed in the forms that the family was homeless since June 30, 2016, and were residing at 134 Fabyan Place, Newark, NJ. She also listed an Irvington address on the forms. (P-3)

10. Springfield BOE set up transportation from the 134 Fabyan Place, Newark, NJ address to Springfield for Jas. P. and M.P. so they could attend school. Transportation was not required for Jad. P. as she was in a residential facility. Transportation for Jas. P. and M.P. continued through the end of the 2016/2017 school year.

11. Transportation was arranged for M.P. to attend the extended school year program but was subsequently cancelled as M.P. refused to attend the program.

12. The transportation company informed Springfield via email that M.P. would not leave the porch of the 134 Fabyan Place, Newark, NJ address. They also advised that A.I.P. had exited the house after being contacted by telephone that M.P. would not get on the bus. (P-9)

13. During the 2016/2017 school year the only address used to pick up the children for transport to school was the 134 Fabyan Place, Newark, NJ address.

14. An email, dated June 27, 2017, was sent to the Newark Board of Education homeless liaison, Ana Osoria, to advise that the P family was living in Newark from May 2016. Said email provided the names of the children and the Newark address. (J-1)

15. Ms. Osoria did not respond to this email until September 12, 2017, after receiving a follow up email from Tiffany Boehm of Springfield, dated September 6, 2017. (J-2)

16. In response to Ms. Osoria's email of September 12, 2017, the IEPs for the three children were forwarded. (P-23)

17. By email dated November 14, 2017, Ms. Osoria advised Springfield that she met with A.I.P. and determined that A.I.P. did not reside in Newark for 365 days. This was based on representations made by A.I.P. Ms. Osoria determined that the children should be the responsibility of Springfield. (J-3)

18. Springfield then assumed responsibility for the children and arranged for placements and transportation from the 134 Fabyan Place, Newark, NJ address. Jad. P. was placed at Washington Academy, and M.P. was placed at Rutgers Day School. P-10 and P-11)

19. By letter dated April 10, 2018, Springfield advised Newark that it still held the position that Springfield was the responsible district for the 2017/2018 school year. (J-4)

20. Ms. Osoria responded, by email dated April 10, 2018, to said letter on behalf of Newark requesting documents to support Springfield's position and restating Newark's position. (J-5)

21. In response thereto, attendance and transportation records were provided by email dated April 23, 2018. (J-6)

22. Ms. Osoria responded, again reiterating Newark's position, which was based upon a conversation she had with A.I.P. Said email was also to update what had transpired. (J-7)

23. Springfield had their residency investigator investigate the residency situation for the P family. The investigator, James Post, set up surveillance at the 134 Fabyan Place, Newark, NJ address and discovered that M.P. was residing therein. He did not observe Jad. P. He prepared a report as to his findings. (P-4)

24. Newark's position regarding the residency of the P family was based entirely on what A.I.P. told Ms. Osoria without any supporting documentation.

25. Ms. Osoria testified that A.I.P. told her she wanted her children to continue to be educated in the Springfield district.

26. Ms. Osoria, after speaking via telephone with A.I.P. on April 27, 2018, arranged a meeting with her for April 30, 2018. A.I.P. did not attend the meeting. (J-7)

27. Springfield discovered during the summer of 2018 that the P family was living in Dover, NJ. M.P. was enrolled in the Dover district. The transportation contract for M.P. was cancelled. It appeared that Jad. P. had dropped out of school.

28. Newark Board of Education was the responsible district for the education of the P family children, Jad. P., Jas. P. and M.P. from the beginning of the 2017/2018 school year until the time the children became the responsibility of the Dover school district.

29. Springfield expended the sum of $15,707.50 in tuition for the Rutgers Day School for M.P. for the period of April to June 2018. (P-12)

30. Springfield expended the sum of $12,942.84 in tuition for the Rutgers Day School for M.P. for the period of September to October 2018. (P-13)

31. Springfield expended the sum of $12,942.84 in tuition for the Rutgers Day School for M.P. for the period of November to December 2018. (P-14)

32. Total tuition costs expended by Springfield for M.P. are $41,593,18.

33. Transportation costs paid by Springfield total $39,918.40 for Jad P. to Washington Academy, and for M.P. to Rutgers Day School, for the period of June 26, 2017 through December 31, 2018. (P-15 and P-15a)

34. Total amount of funds expended by Springfield that the Newark Board of Education is responsible for equal $79,511.58.[2]

ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Springfield expended the sum of $36,031.92 during the period A.I.P. had moved to Dover, New Jersey. (P-13, P-14, P-15i and P-15l)

[2] The was the sum determined to be payable from Respondent to Petitioner in the Initial Decision of June 8, 2022. This amount is reduced in the within Initial Decision on Remand.

2. The Dover school district would be the responsible district to educate the children from the time A.I.P. moved to Dover. The move occurred in the summer of 2018.
3. The total amount due Springfield from Newark totals $43,479.66 (79,513.58 less $36,031.92)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Right to a Free Public Education

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) sets forth the right of a student to a free public education, which in pertinent parts states:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under twenty years of age:
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district[.]

Consideration in proving residency for purposes of establishing eligibility for school district placement is found at N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a),

> (a) A district board of education shall accept a combination of any of the following or similar forms of documentation from persons attempting to demonstrate a student's eligibility for enrollment in the school district:
>
> 1. Property tax bills, deeds, contracts of sale, leases, mortgages, signed letters from landlords and other evidence of property ownership, tenancy or residency;
>
> 2. Voter registrations, licenses, permits, financial account information, utility bills, delivery receipts, and other evidence of personal attachment to a particular location;
>
> . . .
> 3. Court orders; State agency agreements; and other evidence of court or agency placements or directives;

> 4. Receipts; bills; cancelled checks; insurance claims or payments; and other evidence of expenditures demonstrating personal attachment to a particular location or to support the student;
> . . .
>
> 6. Affidavits, certifications and sworn attestations pertaining to statutory criteria for school attendance, from the parent, guardian, person keeping an "affidavit student," adult student, person(s) with whom a family is living, or others as appropriate;
>
> . . .
>
> 8. Any other business record or document issued by a governmental entity.
>
> (b) A district board of education may accept forms of documentation not listed in (a) above, and shall not exclude from consideration any documentation or information presented by a person seeking to enroll a student.
> (c) A district board of education shall consider the totality of information and documentation offered by an applicant, and shall not deny enrollment based on failure to provide a particular form of documentation, or a particular subset of documents, without regard to other evidence presented.

N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(c) states: The district of residence for children whose parent or guardian temporarily moves from one school district to another as the result of being homeless shall be the district in which the parent or guardian last resided prior to becoming homeless. For the purpose of this amendatory and supplementary act, "homeless" shall mean an individual who temporarily lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence.

As A.I.P. claimed homelessness for the 2016/2017 school year, Springfield acted appropriately and registered children, notwithstanding their new address in Newark.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) states: Any person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall be deemed to be domiciled within the district for the purposes of this section.

The preponderance of the credible evidence shows that A.I.P., M.P. and Jad. P. resided at 134 Fabyan Place, Newark, NJ for more than one year. Accordingly, they became the responsibility of the Newark school district for the 2017/2018 school year.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3 states in pertinent part: a) Tuition assessed pursuant to this section shall be calculated on a per-student basis for the period of a student's ineligible enrollment, up to one year, by applicable grade/program category and consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1. The individual student's record of daily attendance shall not affect the calculation.

Springfield expended the sum of $41,593.18 in tuition costs, and the sum of $39,918.40 in transportation costs from the time that Newark was the responsible district for the education of M.P. and Jad. P. The total sums expended by Springfield were $79,511.58.

However, A.I.P. relocated to Dover, New Jersey in the summer of 2018. Dover would be the responsible district from that point going forward. See Board of Ed. Of Twp. of Egg Harbor v. Board of Ed. Of Mainland Reg'l H.S. Dist., No. 555-10 (Comm'r Ed. Dec. 30, 2010). I agree with the position taken by Respondent that Dover was the responsible district from the period A.I.P. moved. Accordingly, Respondent should not be responsible to reimburse Petitioner for that time frame. The amount Petitioner paid during this period equals $36,031.92. The balance due Petitioner from Respondent equals $43,479.66.

I note that Respondent objected, in its brief, to the additional exhibits produced by Petitioner (P-24, P-25 and P-26). I have determined that the same shall be admitted and be part of the record. The matter is on remand and each party was free to introduce additional relevant information if they chose. I do note that I give no weight to the assertion by A.I.P. that she remained homeless (P-24) as it is unsupported hearsay with no residuum of relevant competent evidence.

Based upon the foregoing, I further CONCLUDE that Jad. P. and M.P., together with their mother, A.I.P., resided at 134 Fabyan Place, Newark, NJ, from June 30, 2016 until the summer of 2018; and, Newark became the responsible school district for the 2017/2018 school year after the family resided therein for more than one year.

I further CONCLUDE that A.I.P. moved to Dover, New Jersey in the summer of 2018 and that Dover became the responsible district for the education of the children thereafter.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing it is ORDERED that the Newark Board of Education reimburse the Springfield Board of Education the sum of $43,479.66.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. V.P., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, M.P.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MIDLAND PARK, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

V.P., petitioner, pro se

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., for Respondent (Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

BEFORE: JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, V.P. challenges the Board of Education's alleged failure to give him information about his child's health on December 5, 2022, its alleged failure to provide him with a protocol for addressing access to his son during future emergency situations, and the Board of Education's December 8, 2022 decision to bar V.P. from the campus of Midland Park High School.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about December 15, 2022, the Petitioner, V.P., filed with the New Jersey Department of Education a Petition of Appeal and a Motion for Emergent Relief. Subsequently, V.P. supplied exhibits. On December 15, 2022, the Office of Controversies and Disputes of the Department of Education (Department) transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on December 16, 2022 as a contested case.

On December 20, 2022, the law firm of Fogarty and Hara filed a Letter Brief in Opposition to Petitioner's Pro Se Petitioner's Petition of Appeal with Emergent Relief and a number of exhibits. The hearing was held via Zoom on Wednesday, December 21, 2022 before the undersigned.

UNDISPUTED FACTUAL INFORMATION

Per the documents submitted by the parties and the testimony of V.P. I FIND that the parties agree on the following facts.

V.P. is the father of M.P., a minor enrolled in Midland Park High School ("MPHS"). A.Z. is the ex-wife of V.P. and is the mother of M.P. Upon the dissolution of their marriage, V.P. and A.Z. entered into a Marriage Settlement Agreement (P-5), referred to herein as the "MSA". The MSA, among other provisions, designates alternating "parenting days" when V.P. or A.Z., respectively, are responsible for M.P.'s care, including the drop-off and the pick-up of M.P. at MPHS. Monday, December 5, 2022 was a parenting day for A.Z. and was not a parenting day for V.P.

Section 4.7 of the MSA provides, "The parties agree to consult with each other and make mutual decisions with respect to ... the child's well-being ... , which shall at all times be the paramount concern of the parties. The parties further agree that routine and day-to-day decisions regarding the child's welfare shall be made by the party who has physical custody of the child at the time."

On Monday, December 5, 2022, M.P. reported to the school nurse, Karen Corcoran, R.N., that he had a headache. M.P. told Corcoran that Mondays were his mother's parenting days. Corcoran telephoned A.Z. about M.P.'s headache and A.Z. decided to wait and see how M.P. felt in an hour. An hour later, M.P. reported to Corcoran that he still had a headache and stated that he wanted to go home. Corcoran again called A.Z. and updated her about M.P.'s condition. A.Z. told Corcoran that her parents (M.P.'s grandparents) would go to the school to pick up M.P. In the meantime, M.P. had texted his father, V.P. telling him that he was not feeling well and wanted him to pick him up from school. V.P. knew that under Section 4.4 of the MSA all Mondays were A.Z.'s parenting days. V.P. also knew that Section 4.12 of the MSA provided, "Absent an emergency, neither party shall come to school ... during the other parent's parenting time." Believing that his son's condition constituted an "emergency", V.P. went to Midland Park High School to pick up M.P. It is noteworthy that Section 4.2 of the MSA provided for the appointment of David Torchin, Esq. as a "parenting coordinator". According to the MSA, "The parenting coordinator's role ... [is to provide] ... intervention between parties on outstanding issues relating to the child. The parties agree to utilize the services of the parenting coordinator to help the parties come to appropriate decisions which are in the best interest of the child." There was no evidence adduced that either V.P. or A.Z. contacted the parenting coordinator on December 5, 2022 regarding the picking-up of M.P. from the school.

There is disagreement between the Petitioner and the Respondent about what took place on December 5, 2022 during the conversations and interactions between and among V.P., Nurse Corcoran, High School Principal Nicholas Capuano; about what various staff members and or students of the school observed during V.P.'s visit to the school; about the conversations or interactions between V.P. and M.P.'s grandparents (the grandfather's being referenced herein as R.Z. and grandparent's referenced herein as the Z.'s); about the emotional state and behavior of V.P.; and, about whether V.P.'s accounts of the events of December 5, 2022 are accurate or whether the reports of five witnesses (R-1) and the Certification of Nicholas Capuano are accurate.

There is agreement on the fact that on December 5, 2022, after V.P., Nurse Corcoran and Principal Capuano had the opportunity to speak with each other in the Principal's Office, that Principal Capuano asked V.P. to leave the school's campus; and that Capuano escorted V.P. to the exit; and that V.P. left the campus.

ANALYSIS OF THE DOCUMENTS AND TESTIMONY

The following is not intended to be a verbatim recitation of the content of documents or of the testimony. Rather it is a summary of the contents of documents and of testimony which I found significant and helpful to my understanding of the matter.

Respondent's Exhibits

The BOE submitted a Letter Brief in Opposition and attached Documents (Exhibits R-1 through R-6), plus the Certification of Nicholas J. Capuano, which was marked by the Tribunal as R-7.

R-1 consisted of six "Faculty/Staff Incident Reports", written and signed by Carol Weaver, Irene Keller, Karen Corcoran, R.N. (the school nurse), Jason Whelpley, Craig Rush, and Barbara Rasmussen.

Ms. Carol Weaver wrote that she was in the main office when V.P. arrived to pick up his son, M.P. Ms. Weaver reports that when she walked into the Principal's Office, Principal Capuano and Nurse Corcoran were having a telephone conversation with A.Z., the mother of M.P. Ms. Weaver reports that Capuano signaled her that V.P. should not take M.P. with him. Ms. Weaver reports that when the phone call was finished, Capuano asked V.P. to come into his office. Then, without much detail, Ms. Weaver reports that V.P. appeared agitated, and Capuano asked V.P. to leave. Ms. Weaver, who was close enough to hear at least part of the conversation between V.P. and Capuano, quotes V.P. as saying to Capuano, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." Ms. Weaver further reports that she observed V.P. interact with M.P.'s grandparents in the entrance foyer and heard V.P. make unspecified "nasty comments" to them which left the grandmother "visibly shaken". Ms. Weaver's testimony is significant because she was an eyewitness who was close enough to both see and hear what transpired on December 5, 2022 at MPHS. Specifically, she described V.P. as "agitated", recalled that Capuano asked V.P. to leave, that as he was leaving V.P. made "nasty comments" to M.P.'s grandparents and observed that as a result of V.P.'s behavior the grandmother was "visibly shaken". Ms. Weaver's observations support the proposition that V.P.'s behavior was not in keeping with good taste and propriety.

Irene Keller wrote that she was in the main office, that V.P. had arrived at the school and was signing his son out of school when he was called into Principal Capuano's office. It is Ms. Keller's recollection that Nurse Corcoran was in Capuano's office at the time. Ms. Keller reports that after a few minutes V.P. left Capuano's office and that V.P. was "very angry". Ms. Keller quoted V.P. as telling Capuano "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." Ms. Keller observed that as V.P. was leaving, M.P.'s grandparents were entering the office. Ms. Keller confirms that words were exchanged between V.P. and the grandparents, but it was unclear to her what was said. She reiterated that after encountering the grandparents, V.P. was "very angry" when he left. Ms. Keller's report is significant because she was an eyewitness to V.P.'s demeanor and behavior. Ms. Keller reported what V.P. said to Principal Corcoran, using the exact same words as Ms. Weaver. It is significant that two witnesses remembered V.P.'s exact warning to Capuano, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." It is also significant that Ms. Keller, characterized V.P.'s emotional state as "very angry" when he left Capuano's office and then again as "very angry" after encountering the grandparents. Ms. Keller's observations support the proposition that V.P.'s behavior was not in keeping with good taste and propriety.

Karen Corcoran, R.N. wrote that M.P. came twice to her office complaining of a headache. M.P. explained to Corcoran that it was his mother's parenting day. Corcoran spoke to A.Z. both times that M.P. came to her office. During M.P.'s second visit to Corcoran he still had a headache and so A.Z. told Corcoran that she would send M.P.'s grandparents to pick him up. Corcoran wrote that at that point in time, M.P. told her that he had contacted his father and that his father was coming to pick him up. Corcoran wrote that she had Dr. Prinsel stay with M.P. while she went to tell Principal Capuano about the situation. Corcoran wrote that V.P. arrived while she was speaking with Capuano in his office. Corcoran wrote that Capuano calmly invited V.P. to sit down and informed him that M.P.'s grandparents were on their way to pick up M.P. V.P. insisted that he was already at the school and would take M.P. home. Capuano then told V.P. that they should all wait for A.Z. to come to the school. Corcoran wrote that after Capuano said this, V.P. became angry, raised his voice and raised his finger at her. Capuano calmly asked V.P. to sit down and wait for A.Z. to arrive. Corcoran then wrote that V.P. became "more angry" and described his demeanor as "aggressive" noting that V.P. started screaming and pointing his finger at Principal Capuano and repeating that he was going to take M.P. home. Corcoran wrote that Capuano asked V.P. to leave the school and was escorting V.P. to the school's exit, but that several times during the trip to the exit door V.P. stopped and turned towards Capuano. Corcoran wrote that in the school's lobby V.P. met M.P.'s grandparents and that some words were exchanged, but she was unable to hear what was said. Following that, V.P. was escorted to the exit and left the school.

It is significant that Corcoran, who was present in Capuano's office with both Capuano and V.P. noted that Capuano was calm throughout V.P.'s visit; that she described V.P.'s demeanor throughout his visit to Capuano's office as "angry", "more angry", "aggressive" and "more hostile"; that V.P. raised his voice and pointed his finger at both Corcoran and Capuano; that Capuano's suggestion that they wait for A.Z.'s arrival was not heeded; that there was an exchange of words in the lobby between V.P. and the grandparents; and that V.P. was escorted out of the school. Notably, Corcoran noted that V.P., while walking through the hallway, stopped and turned towards Capuano several times during his exit.

Jason Whelpley wrote that he was in his office finishing a meeting with Craig Rush when he heard Principal Capuano's door open and heard Capuano telling V.P. that he must leave the premises. Whelpley then saw Capuano and V.P. near Capuano's office door when V.P., in a loud voice, told Capuano, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." Whelpley wrote that V.P. walked out of the office into the vestibule with Capuano following him. Capuano told the secretaries to "clear the office" and to call for security personnel to come to the scene. Whelpley wrote that he saw V.P. and M.P.'s grandparents in the vestibule. Whelpley concluded by writing that he went back into his office. It is significant that Whelpley confirmed that V.P. spoke in a loud voice to Capuano saying, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." This is the exact same statement attributed to V.P. by Ms. Weaver and Ms. Keller, both of whom characterized V.P. as speaking these words while "agitated" or "angry". Whelpley's written account also confirms the accounts of others that Capuano asked V.P. to leave the premises and confirms that Capuano found it necessary to call security personnel to the scene.

Craig Rush wrote that after finishing his meeting with Mr. Whelpley he saw and heard Principal Capuano telling V.P., "You need to leave now" and walking behind V.P. escorting him out of the office and into the hallway. He saw V.P. stop and heard him tell Capuano, "I am going to hold you responsible for my son's well-being", or words to that effect. Rush also wrote that he heard V.P. say the words, "Fuck you" and assumed that that V.P. addressed these words to Capuano. Rush wrote that his observations lasted 15 to 20 seconds. He wrote that his observations were that V.P. was "upset and agitated" and that Capuano "remained professional and focused on removing V.P. from the building". It is significant that Rush confirmed that Capuano remained "professional" while V.P. was "upset and agitated". Rush wrote that he clearly heard V.P. use a vulgarity. Rush confirmed that V.P. told Capuano that he was going to hold him responsible for M.P.'s welfare, but not necessarily with the same words used by others.

Barbara Rasmussen wrote what she observed in the main office. She noted that V.P. arrived to pick up his son. Ms. Keller was going to call for M.P. to come to the main office. Nurse Corcoran took a call in the main office from A.Z. Ms. Rasmussen then went to the ladies' room and upon her return therefrom V.P. had already left the building.

R-2 is the December 5, 2022 handwritten statement of R.Z., the father of A.Z. and the grandfather of M.P. In his statement, R.Z. wrote that V.P. came out of an office and caught sight of him. Mr. Z. wrote that V.P. called him "a piece of shit" and that V.P. passed him, turned to him and then said, "Fuck you" to him. Mr. Z. wrote that V.P. looked "threatening" and appeared to be "getting ready to fight me". Mr. Z. wrote that a "school official" stepped between them to defuse the situation. It is significant that R.Z.'s writing confirmed that V.P. used vulgarities immediately after leaving Capuano' office, which indicates that he was indeed in an angry or agitated or hostile mood. What Mr. Z. wrote comports with Principal Capuano's account of V.P.'s threatening encounter with the grandparents. Mr. Z.'s writing also comports with Ms. Weaver's account of V.P. making "nasty comments" to the grandparents, causing the grandmother to be "visibly shaken".

R-3 is the Midland Park Police Department Operations Report dated December 7, 2022 (consisting of two pages) taken by Police Officer Jason R. Tillson, who was the School Resource Officer at MPHS on December 5, 2022, plus the Midland Park Police Department Supplementary Investigation Report taken by Lieutenant John Gibbons. Tillson wrote that he was contacted by Ms. Keller and told to respond to a disturbance. His report does not indicate that he had any in-person contact with V.P. and his report does not contain any information obtained from V.P. His report contains information obtained from Principal Nicholas Capuano.

The significant highlights of the Operations Report are: that M.P. complained to Nurse Corcoran that he had a headache, which Corcoran reported to M.P.'s mother, A.Z.; that A.Z. told Corcoran that her parents would go to the school to pick up M.P.; that at approximately 12:02 p.m. V.P. arrived at MPHS to pick up M.P.; that Capuano had a telephone conversation with A.Z. during which she stated that Mondays were her parenting day and that she was sending her parents to pick up M.P.; that the school would not release M.P. to V.P. per the court order referred to by A.Z.; that V.P. then became angry and insisted that he should take M.P. home; that Capuano told V.P. that he must leave the premises; that while leaving the premises V.P. stared at and approached Capuano in an aggressive manner and that V.P. directed vulgar language at the grandparents upon their arrival at the school and stared at and stepped towards R.Z. in an aggressive manner, with Capuano deciding to step between the two men to de-escalate the situation; and, that V.P. then left the premises. Capuano also reported that Pinsky had a telephone conversation with School Administrator Stacey Garvey.

R-4 is a letter dated December 8, 2022 from Superintendent of Schools Marie C. Cirasella, Ed.D. to V.P. In this letter, Cirasella informed V.P. that as a result of his conduct at MPHS on December 5, 2022, he is now prohibited from visiting any of the Midland Park School District schools for any reason without her express written permission. With the letter, Cirasella enclosed a copy of "Midland Park Board of Education Policy 9150" (Exhibit R-5), which declares that the Superintendent and school Principals have the authority to prohibit the entry of any person into a school building or to expel any person from a school building when there is reason to believe that the presence of said person would be inimical to the good order of the school.

R-6 is a letter dated December 12, 2022 from Superintendent Cirasella to V.P. in response to his request that the Superintendent confirm the School District's interpretation of multiple court orders and the School District's December 8, 2022 which imposed restraints on his presence on the School District's campuses. In the 12/12/22 letter Cirasella

> (1) assured V.P. that MPHS will respond to him with information about his son, M.P.;
> (2) that on days when V.P. has parenting time (under the MSA) he would not be permitted on the school's campus and that he should pick-up and drop-off M.P. at the end of the driveway or by parking behind the school in the municipal parking lot;

(3) that in the event of an emergency occurring on a day when V.P. had parenting time, he is to contact Cirasella, who would determine whether to authorize his presence on campus; and

(4) assured V.P. that the school's personnel would continue to provide him with all notifications, reports, and assessments that are provided to all parents and guardians of students of the District's schools.

The Tribunal decided to mark the Certification of Nicholas J. Capuano as R-7. In R-7, Capuano wrote:

(1) That he is the Principal of MPHS;

(2) That he is familiar with the matter at hand, i.e. the facts arising out of a December 5, 2022 incident involving student M.P., his father, V.P., school personnel and M.P.'s grandparents.

(3) That on December 5, 2022, M.P. visited the school nurse, Karen Corcoran, R.N. complaining of a headache and that Corcoran telephoned A.Z., M.P.'s mother, about his complaint.

(4) That after lunch, M.P. continued to complain about having a headache and that Corcoran again telephoned A.Z., who responded that she was sending her parents (Mr. and Mrs. Z) to pick-up M.P.

(5) That in the interim, M.P. contacted his father, V.P., about his headache.

(6) That V.P. contacted Nurse Corcoran inquiring about who would pick up M.P. from the school and she told him that A.Z. had made arrangements for the pick-up. Some time later, A.P. appeared at the school to pick-up M.P.

(7) Capuano met V.P. and told him that A.Z. had made arrangements for M.P. to be picked-up.

(8) Capuano stated that V.P. became angry and in a raised voice stated that he would take his son home.

(9) Capuano stated that he asked V.P. to calm down, but V.P. continued to shout and, in Capuano's judgment, became hostile. Capuano warned V.P. that if he did not calm down, he would be asked to leave the building. Capuano stated that V.P. continued his hostile behavior and was told to leave the building.

(10) Capuano stated that as he escorted V.P. out of the building V.P. turned toward him, put his face close to his and stared aggressively at him.

(11) Capuano stated that as he escorted V.P. out of the building, V.P. encountered M.P.'s grandparents, spoke to them in a vulgar manner, and stepped toward the grandfather in a threatening manner with clenched fists.

(12) Capuano stated that he stepped between V.P. and the grandfather to defuse the situation; that V.P. exited the building; and that the encounter between V.P. and the grandparents took place in front of school staff and school children.

(13) Capuano stated that he later spoke with School Business Administrator, Stacey Garvey, who told him that she had spoken to V.P. after he left the building, who told her that "Mr. Capuano better apologize or I'll get him." (This statement was later modified by Mr. Capuano on the last page of the Midland Park Police Department' Operations Report (R-3), where Capuano stated that Garvey's statement was actually that V.P. had stated, "Mr. Capuano better apologize or he will be sorry."

(14) Capuano noted that after the December 5, 2022 incident, he contacted the Midland Park Police Department to make a Police Report.

(15) Capuano stated that he contacted Schools Superintendent Marie Cirasella about the incident of December 5, 2022 because he believed that V.P. had violated Board of Education Policy 9150.

Petitioner's Exhibits

The Petitioner, V.P., submitted his Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief and later submitted Exhibits P-1 through P-6.

P-1 is the December 8, 2022 letter sent by Superintendent Cirasella to V.P. It is the same document as R-4.

P-2 is the December 12, 2022 letter sent by Superintendent Cirasella to V.P. It is the same document as R-6.

P-3 is an "extract" taken from the December 7, 2022 Midland Park Police Department Operations Report. It is the same document as the bottom half of page 2 of 2 of the Operations Report, which has been marked as R-3.

P-4 consists of several emails concerning V.P.'s attempts to speak with either School District officials or with the School District's Attorney.

P-5 is a copy of the Marriage Settlement Agreement (MSA) between V.P. and A.Z., which arose out of their divorce proceedings. This document is significant for setting forth the parenting days of A.Z. and the parenting days for V.P. and it is significant for setting forth that routine and day-to-day decisions regarding the child's welfare shall be made by the party who has physical custody of the child at the time.

P-6 is a May 10, 2022 email from school principal Peter Galasso to A.Z. and V.P. regarding certain communications made on that date among V.P., A.Z. and the school regarding the pick-up of M.P. by one or the other of his parents. It is significant only for Galasso's statement that with regard to the picking-up of M.P. by either one of his parents on a given day, the school does not monitor it unless there is a court order.

Testimony of V.P.

When the Tribunal inquired of V.P. what relief he was seeking from the Tribunal, V.P. responded that he is seeking what he has been asking the School District for: a Protocol outlining what he may do or may not do with regard to dropping-off and picking-up his son on his parenting days and, in the event of an emergency, what he may or may not do, regardless of whether it is his parenting day or A.Z.'s parenting day. V.P. stated he also seeks assurance that he will receive any and all information regarding his son from the School District. In his written Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief, V.P. wrote that he is seeking the following :

(Note: V.P. listed his demand for relief in seven numbered paragraphs, which are somewhat repetitious and unartfully drafted. The Tribunal has condensed them into a more readable format.)

(1) To find out (i.e., clarify) "if the school can decide and enforce the MSA" insofar as determining which parent (V.P. or A.Z.) can pick-up M.P. on any given day;

(2) To find out (i.e., "clarify") if the school "is allowed to decide and enforce the MSA", (i.e., to deny V.P. the right to pick-up M.P. in an emergency whether the emergency occurs on V.P.'s parenting day or A.Z.'s parenting day) ;

In essence, in #1 and #2, V.P. seeks to find out what the protocol is for routine pick-ups and emergency pick-ups;

(3) V.P. seeks demands that the Tribunal launch an investigation to be conducted by a neutral party.

(4) (6) and (7) To overturn the School Superintendent's December 8, 2022 decision (P-1 a/k/a R-4) barring V.P. from the School District's campuses, particularly MPHS; to restore V.P.'s privilege of dropping-off and picking-up M.P. on the MPHS campus by overturning the restrictions imposed in the School Superintendent's letter dated December 12, 2022, which limits V.P.'s authority to drop-off and pick-up M.P. to the area at the end of the school's driveway or, alternatively, in the municipal parking lot located at the rear of the school;

In support of his position, V.P. testified that on Monday, December 5, 2022 his son, M.P., contacted him to say that he was at school, but was not feeling well and wanted to go home. V.P. stated that he had recently undergone surgery and was in pain, but decided, even though he was only wearing gym clothes, to go to MPHS to pick-up his son and bring him home. V.P. was aware that according to the MSA, Mondays were not his parenting days. However, he knew that the MSA allowed either parent to pick-up M.P. in the event of an emergency. V.P. claimed that he did not know the nature or severity of his son's illness, but he deemed this occasion to be an "emergency" and so decided that it was his right to go to the school to pick-up M.P. V.P. testified that Nurse Corcoran refused to explain the nature of M.P.'s illness and gave him "one-word answers" to his inquiries. While V.P. testified that he never became angry with anyone at the school, it was clear that he was, at the very least, expressing his displeasure when he recounted his conversation with Corcoran and he admitted that he was "frustrated" and that he was "hyper-alarmed" about his son's complaints of "not feeling well".

V.P. testified that when he arrived at MPHS, he was invited into Principal Capuano's office. Nurse Corcoran was also present with Capuano. Although Capuano invited V.P. to sit down, V.P. refused to sit because his recent surgery made sitting painful. V.P. testified that he told Capuano that he wanted to take his son home. Capuano advised V.P. that M.P.'s grandparents were on their way to the school and that they would pick-up M.P. at A.Z.'s behest. V.P. testified that Nurse Corcoran had refused to give him information about his son and he complained that he was not told when the grandparents were expected to arrive. V.P. testified that he responded by saying that the grandparents were "not on the list" to pick-up M.P. and that since he was already there, he would take M.P. home. V.P. admitted that he was "alarmist" and stated that his concern was to get M.P. home so he could rest.

Upon questioning, V.P. admitted that he knew that Monday, December 5, 2022 was not his parenting day and that it was A.Z.'s parenting day. He admitted that he knew that under the MSA, the routine day-to-day decisions about M.P.'s welfare were to be made by the parent then having physical custody of M.P., which on Mondays would be A.Z. However, V.P. pointed out that the MSA also provided that either parent could pick-up M.P. when there was an emergency and he construed his son's illness to be an emergency. Upon continued questioning, V.P. re-iterated that he told Capuano that he would take his son home and was told that he should wait until A.Z. could arrive and help resolve the situation. When asked if he raised his voice or became angry when he was told that the school could not release M.P. to him, V.P. denied that he ever became angry or even raised his voice. V.P. was questioned about the statements of the witnesses listed in R-1 and R-7, all of whom stated that V.P. had become loud, angry, and hostile towards Capuano and Corcoran. In response, V.P. was hesitant to say they were all lying. Instead, he stated that they all "misperceived" his emotions and were all mistaken about the volume of his voice. V.P. denied that any of his behavior was "hostile". V.P. never denied that Capuano asked him to leave the premises.

V.P. admitted that he saw his ex-wife's parents in the school's hallway, but he denied that he ever used profanity against them. He specifically denied ever calling his ex-father-in-law, R.Z., a "piece of shit" and denied ever saying "Fuck you" to him.

When confronted with the statements of the R-1 and R-7 witnesses, V.P. claimed that they were either not telling the truth or had been too far away to hear any conversation between himself and R.Z. or that they were not present at all. Indeed, V.P. testified that he did not say anything at all to R.Z. When asked to characterize his relationship with his ex-in-laws, V.P. admitted that it was "contentious". When questioned about Capuano's statement that V.P. walked towards R.Z. with clenched fists, V.P. stated that he always walks with his fists clenched, but that on this occasion his hands were facing downwards, not upwards in a fighting position. When questioned about being escorted out of the building by Capuano and about encountering the ex-in-laws, V.P. denied that Capuano had to step between himself and R.Z. V.P. also testified that Capuano was a big man and that as Capuano escorted him out of the building, Capuano was walking so close behind him that his belly touched the small of his back. V.P. denied ever stopping or turning around to stare at or intimidate Capuano. V.P. also denied that any children were present in the hallway when he encountered his ex-in-laws.

Upon further questioning, V.P., responded to the 13th numbered paragraph of Capuano's Certification wherein Capuano referred to a conversation he had with Stacey Garvey, the school's Business Administrator. Capuano's Certification states that Garvey recounted a telephone conversation she had with V.P. during which V.P. allegedly stated, "Mr. Capuano better apologize, or I'll get him." V.P. admitted that he had a telephone conversation with Garvey shortly after he left the school building which lasted about twenty minutes. V.P. admitted that Garvey asked if his statement was a threat against Capuano, but he denied that he was making a threat.

On Re-Direct, V.P. clarified that his focus throughout all his dealings with the Midland Park School District has been to understand the protocols regarding drop-offs and pick-ups of his son and to obtain assurance that he would be receiving any and all information about his son from the school district.

Summations

Respondent's Summation

The School District emphasized that its responsibility is to keep the schools safe for students and staff. Respondent's counsel, Mr. Fogarty argued that the weight of the credible evidence, both form the documentary evidence and from V.P. himself confirmed that V.P.'s language and behavior on December 5, 2022 was not in keeping with District Policy 9150 or with the good taste and propriety expected of persons who enter school grounds. He argued that the coherence and agreement of the School District's several witnesses, all of whom had no personal interest at stake in the matter, demonstrated that their accounts of V.P.'s conduct on December 5, 2022 were truthful. On the other hand, V.P.'s claim was that he remained calm throughout this episode, never raised his voice, never pointed his fingers at anyone, never use vulgar language, never stared at anyone, never made any aggressive overtures, and never made any threats is against the weight of all the other evidence in the matter. Mr. Fogarty pointed-out that the District's witnesses all agree that V.P. raised his voice; claimed he was denied information about his son; was accusatory; pointed his fingers at both Capuano and Corcoran; stared at and moved in an aggressive manner toward R.Z.; stopped walking, turned and stared at Capuano; and used vulgarities against his ex-in-laws causing his ex-mother-in-law to be "visible shaken". Most importantly, V.P. never denied that Capuano, after appealing to V.P. to calm down, reached the decision that he had to ask V.P. to leave the premises, to notify security personnel, and to personally escort V.P. out of the building. Although V.P. claimed to have remained calm throughout his time at the school, he never denied that he was ejected from the premises. Attorney Fogarty argued that V.P. had not borne his burden of proving even one of the four Crowe factors needed to justify emergent relief. Attorney Fogarty asked the Tribunal to agree that School Superintendent Cirasella's action barring V.P. was in keeping with School District Policy 9150; was backed-up with abundant proof of V.P.'s misconduct; and was fully justified. He asked the Tribunal to affirm Cirasella's decision.

Petitioner's Summation

V.P. re-emphasized that he is simply looking for the School District to provide him with the protocols for dropping-off and picking-up his son in non-emergency and in emergency situations. He believed that his son's reported illness constituted an emergency which justified his presence on the campus of MPHS on December 5, 2022. He re-iterated that the school nurse refused to give him information about his son's health when he spoke with her, which made him frustrated, but not angry or hostile. Since he was not told when the grandparents would arrive to pick-up M.P., he could not understand why he could not take M.P. home. He admitted that he is "alarmist" and was indeed alarmed that the delay in getting his son home would be detrimental to him.

Addressing the obvious question of why the statements of the witnesses, all of which attest to V.P.'s inappropriate conduct, should not be believed, V.P. simply stated that they "misperceived" his emotions and did not actually hear the statements of which he is accused of saying.

Finally, V.P. argued that the Superintendent's decision to bar him should be overturned because it would not only be unfair to deny him access to school activities, but it would be dangerous to bar him from the campus in the event of an emergency, such as another health emergency or even in the event of a school shooting. V.P. pointed out the implausibility of getting through to the superintendent in an emergency situation to seek her permission to come to the campus to see to his son's safety.

At the end of his summation, the Tribunal posed a question to V.P. In answer to the Tribunal's question regarding the need for emergent relief, the Tribunal asked V.P. what the imminent threat (post-December 5th) was to M.P. that justified emergent relief.

V.P. could only say that in the event of a possible future emergency (admitting there was no imminent or present emergency) he would need immediate access to the campus.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

Having reviewed the documents, testimony, and arguments presented, I make the following findings of FACT.

I FIND that V.P.'s demand that the School District provide him with information about his son, M.P., has already been completely addressed by the December 12, 2022 letter to V.P. written by Superintendent Marie Cirasella. (R-4) In that letter, Cirasella gives V.P. the School District's assurance that the School District's administrators, teachers and school nurse will respond to his appropriate requests for any information about his son.

I FIND that the "protocols" demanded by the Petitioner, V.P., regarding the dropping-off and picking-up of his son, M.P. have been provided in Superintendent Marie Cirasella's letter to him dated December 12, 2022 (R-4).

I FIND that V.P.'s demand that he be supplied with information about his son, M.P., has been provided in R-4.

I FIND that the response to V.P.'s demand for the "protocols" for dropping-off and picking-up his son, Cirasella's Letter dated December 12, 2022 (R-4) has provided V.P. with a clear statement that he is not to come upon the premises of MPHS and it has provided a clear procedure for where he, on his parenting days, is to drop-off and pick-up his son, M.P.

I FIND that the response to V.P.'s demand for "protocols" for emergency visits by him to MPHS has already been addressed in R-4, wherein Superintendent Cirasella sets forth a clear procedure for V.P. to contact her by telephone to seek admission to the MPHS campus, reserving to herself the sole discretion and authority to grant or deny admission to the campus to V.P.

I FIND that in response to V.P.'s demand that he be apprised by the School District of all information concerning his son, M.P., Superintendent Cirasella has already stated clearly to V.P. in R-4 that he will continue to receive all notifications, reports, and assessments concerning M.P., which are provided by the school District to all parents and guardians of its students.

I FIND that on December 5, 2022 at MPHS, after his arrival at MPHS, V.P. pointed his finger at and accused Nurse Corcoran of not providing him with information about his son, M.P. I FIND that V.P.'s accusation against Corcoran is lacking in support. I FIND that Corcoran did indeed supply V.P. with adequate information about M.P. and that information was that M.P. was complaining of having a headache, that it being the lad's mother's (A.Z.'s) parenting day she had been informed of M.P.'s complaint and stated that M.P.'s grandparents (the Z.'s) were going to the school to pick-up M.P. I FIND that, contrary to V.P.'s testimony, the preponderance of the credible evidence indicates that V.P. was not calm when he was at MPHS; that V.P. raised his voice while speaking with Principal Capuano and Nurse Corcoran and continued to speak in a loud voice even after Capuano asked him to calm down.

I FIND that V.P. was not as credible as Principal Capuano and that V.P. was not as credible as the Respondent's other witnesses because Capuano and the Respondent's other witnesses had no personal stake in the outcome of the matter, while V.P. had lost his privilege of entering the MPHS campus and was seeking to gain it back. I have also found V.P. to be less credible than Capuano and Respondent's other witnesses due to the consistency of the Respondent's witnesses combined statements, which agree that V.P. was not calm, that he was angry, that his behavior caused Capuano to decide to eject V.P. from the campus; that as he was being escorted to the exit, V.P. confronted both R.Z. and Principal Capuano; that V.P.'s claims that he remained calm throughout the episode and did not use vulgarities is belied by the sheer number of witnesses who contradicted him; by the fact that V.P. claimed that numerous witnesses all "misperceived" what really happened on December 5, 2022; by the fact that V.P. tacitly admits that he was ejected from the campus; by the fact that V.P. admitted that he was "alarmist", "hyper-alarmed" and "frustrated"; by the fact that V.P. while admitting that his fists were indeed clenched as he walked by R.Z., he nonetheless claimed that he "always" walks with his hands clenched and that he recalled on this occasion that his hands were facing downwards; and by the overall implausibility of V.P.'s account.

The preponderance of the credible evidence indicates that the following statements should be, and hereby are, found to be true statements of fact.

I FIND that even though V.P. knew that Monday, December 5, 2022 was not his parenting day and that his ex-wife, A.Z., had dispatched her parents (the Z.'s) to go to MPHS to pick-up M.P., V.P. insisted that he should bring M.P. home.

I FIND that V.P. ignored Principal Capuano's recommendation to wait for A.Z. to arrive to sort out the question of who should pick-up M.P.

I FIND that because Principal Capuano found V.P.'s behavior not to be appropriate under the circumstances, Capuano warned him that he would be asked to leave the campus; and then, because V.P. did not calm down, Capuano decided to eject V.P. from the campus due to V.P.'s continuing inappropriate behavior.

I FIND that Capuano ordered his staff to summon security personnel to the scene and I FIND that in the meantime Capuano personally escorted V.P. to the exit of the school building.

I FIND that V.P.'s testimony about Capuano walking so close behind him that his belly touched V.P.'s lower back to be untrue in light of the account given by Capuano that during the walk to the exit, V.P. stopped and turned to face Capuano.

I FIND that it would not be likely that Capuano could walk so closely behind V.P. that his belly could touch V.P.'s lower back because their legs would have become entangled if they had been walking in such close proximity, as suggested by V.P.

I FIND that V.P. used vulgar language when speaking to M.P.'s grandparents, the Z.'s, in the hallway of MPHS where staff and students were present. Particularly, I FIND that V.P. called R.Z. a "piece of shit" and said "Fuck you!" to R.Z.

I FIND that V.P. walked towards R.Z. with his fists clenched and in an aggressive manner, causing Principal Capuano to take action to prevent an altercation by placing his own body between the two other men.

I FIND that V.P.'s display of vulgar language and aggressive behavior frightened Mrs. Z. I FIND that V.P. exited MPHS shortly after directing vulgarities at R.Z.

I FIND that shortly after exiting MPHS, V.P. placed a telephone call to School Administrator Stacey Garvey and stated to her either, "Capuano better apologize, or I'll get him" or "Capuano better apologize, or he'll be sorry".

I FIND that the statements and actions of V.P. on December 5, 2022 while on the campus of MPHS were grievous enough to violate School Policy 9150.

I FIND that V.P. has not set forth proof of any imminent harm or threat to either himself or to M.P. that justifies any sort of emergent relief. I FIND that V.P. has not presented sufficient facts or sufficient arguments that would satisfy any of the four Crowe factors.

APPLICABLE LAW

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a) provides:

> Where the subject matter of the controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education ... the petitioner may include with the petition of appeal, a separate motion for emergent relief ... pending the Commissioner's final decision in the contested case."

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) provides:

> A motion for stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia , 90 N.J. 126 (1982):
>
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) arose out of a set of circumstances regarding support and palimony matters. Nonetheless, the case has been the polestar decision in New Jersey for cases wherein injunctive relief is sought. The case stands for the proposition that an injunction cannot be granted unless and until the party seeking relief presents clear and convincing evidence that: (1) the injunction is "necessary to prevent irreparable harm"; (2) that "the legal right underlying the claim is settled"; (3) that the party seeking relief has made "a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits"; and (4) that "the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying [injunctive] relief", on a balancing of the equities, weighs in his favor. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132-34. In order to prevail, the party seeking injunctive relief must demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that he meets all four Crowe factors. Brown v. City of Paterson, 424 N.J. Super. 176, 183 (App. Div. 2012).

"[A] party who seeks mandatory preliminary injunctive relief must satisfy a 'particularly heavy' burden." Guaman v. Velez, 421 N.J. Super. 239, 247 (App. Div. 2011), Rinaldo v. RLB Inv., LLC, 387 N.J. Super. 387, 396 (App. Div. 2006).

Also, "[w]hen a case presents an issue of 'significant public importance', a court must [also] consider the public interest in addition to the traditional Crowe factors." Garden State Equal. v. Dow, 216 N.J. 314, 321 (2013).

Appellate courts are bound by the trial court's factual findings if they are supported by "substantial, credible evidence" in the record. Triffin v. Automatic Data Processing, Inc., 411 N.J. Super. 292,315 (App. Div. 2010).

Under the first Crowe factor, a party who seeks injunctive relief must establish that injunctive relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm and to preserve the status quo. Citizens Coach Co. v. Camden Horse R.R. Co. , 29 N.J. Eq. 299, 303 (E.&A. 1878). Irreparable harm is an "injury to be suffered in the absence of injunctive relief [that] is substantial and imminent." Waste Mgmt. of N.J., Inc. v. Union City Utils. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

Under the second Crowe factor, injunctive relief will be withheld when the legal right underlying the claim is unsettled. Citizens Coach, at ps. 304-05.

Under the third Crowe factor, the party seeking relief is obligated to present clear and convincing evidence that he / she has a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. Therefore, injunctive relief will not be granted where there are material facts in controversy. Citizens Coach at ps. 305-06. The party who seeks injunctive relief must be prepared to demonstrate facts which support his case and "must make a preliminary showing of reasonable probability of success on the merits." Crowe, at p. 133.

The second and third Crowe factors involve fact-sensitive analysis that "requires a determination of whether the material facts are in dispute, and whether the applicable law is settled." Waste Mgmt., at p. 528.

Under the fourth Crowe factor, the party who seeks injunctive relief must address the issue of relative hardship to the parties and he must establish that, on balance, the equities favor the grant of temporary relief to maintain the status quo pending the outcome of a final hearing." Crowe at p. 134. The party seeking injunctive relief must prove his case by clear and convincing evidence. Brown at p. 183 and thus his burden is 'particularly heavy'. Guaman at p. 247.

The above-captioned Policy is set forth as follows:

> The Board of Education welcomes and encourages visits to schools by parent(s) or legal guardian(s), or other adult resident of the community, and interested educators. In order for the educational program to continue undisturbed when visitors are present and to prevent the intrusion of disruptive persons into the schools, the Board directs the enforcement of rules governing school visits.
>
> The Superintendent and building principal each possess the authority To prohibit the entry of any person into a school of this district or to Expel any person from the school when there is reason to believe the Presence of such person would be inimical to the good order of the school. If such person refuses to leave the school grounds or creates a disturbance, the Principal is authorized to request from the local law enforcement agency whatever assistance is required to remove the individual.
> Visitors shall be required to register their presence in the school. No staff Member shall transact business with or permit the continuing presence in the school of a visitor who has not been duly registered. Pupils may not bring visitors to school.
>
> No visitor may confer with a student in school without the approval of the Principal; any such conference may take place only in the presence of a teaching staff member and / or administrator.
>
> The Superintendent shall develop regulations that will protect pupils and employees of the district from disruption to the educational program and the efficient conduct of their assigned tasks.

ANALYSIS OF THE ARGUMENTS ON THE PENDING MOTION

Petitioner's Argument

Petitioner V.P. did not demonstrate that he met any of the requirements necessary for demonstrating his need for emergent relief pursuant to the four factors governing the granting of injunctive relief set forth in Crowe v. DiGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). His argument was based on speculation that in the event of a future emergency, he would need immediate access to the high school campus in order to safeguard his son's welfare. He completely ignored the reasons set forth in the School Superintendent's letter for barring him from the campus pursuant to Policy 9150 due to his conduct on December 5. 2022. V.P. therefore failed to demonstrate any good reason for overturning the Superintendent's decision to bar him.

Respondent's Argument

The First Crowe Factor:

Regarding the first Crowe factor, the Respondent convincingly argued that the Petitioner did not demonstrate that he would suffer irreparable harm if emergent relief were not granted

The Second Crowe Factor:

Regarding the second Crowe factor, Respondent's Counsel points out that Policy 9150 was enacted in accordance with the laws of New Jersey and that its purpose is the promotion of the safety of school staff and students. The BOE's convincingly argued that the law is settled, and it is settled in favor of the BOE, not V.P.

The Third Crowe Factor:

Regarding the third Crowe factor, Respondent's counsel points out that the weight of the credible evidence favors the respondent. Moreover the failure of V.P. to reconcile his assertion that he did not cause a disturbance on December 5, 2022 with the tacit admission that he was indeed ejected from the MPHS campus without any protest on his part, strongly indicates that V.P. will not be able to prevail on the merits.

The Fourth Crowe Factor:

Regarding the fourth Crowe factor, respondent's counsel points out that V.P. has not demonstrated any harm to his interests that was not self-inflicted. The weight of the evidence is that he caused a disturbance on the campus of MPHS which resulted in his ejection and eventual barring from said campus. The BOE's position is that allowing V.P. onto the campus could, in view of his previous egregious conduct and the likelihood of a repetition of such conduct, pose a continuing danger to the good order of the school. Therefore, the relative harm to the parties falls heavier on the school (the BOE) than it does V.P.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Legal Analysis of the Evidence Concerning School Policy 9150

School Policy 9150 is attached as an exhibit. Its provisions are clearly stated.

Petitioner, V.P.'s position is that he conducted himself with good taste and propriety on December 5, 2022 at MPHS. He stated that he was calm and remained calm. He denies becoming angry or loud, denies that he made accusations; denies that he used vulgar language; denies that he made threats; and denies that he engaged in any hostile actions. He did not deny that he was asked to leave the school building and that he was escorted out of the building. V.P. characterized himself as "alarmist". In regard to the statements of various witnesses who stated that V.P. became angry, loud, accusatory, used vulgar language, that he made threats, and that he acted in a hostile manner, V.P. responded that the witnesses "misperceived" his words and demeanor and that some of them were too far away to hear what he actually said.

The Respondent's multiple witnesses reported that V.P. was not calm, but rather was visibly agitated and angry and that he raised his voice and was asked to lower his voice. V.P. accused Nurse Corcoran of not giving him information about his son's illness. Multiple witnesses reported that V.P. spoke to his ex-father-in-law using vulgarity and expletives. V.P. did not deny saying to Principal Capuano, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." This statement and the statement quoted by Capuano (from his conversation with Administrator Stacey Garvey), "If Capuano doesn't apologize, I'll get him", suggest untoward consequences against Capuano. Capuano stated that he surmised the need to place himself between V.P. and R.Z. in order to prevent a physical altercation being initiated by V.P.'s use of vulgar language and his approach towards R.Z. with clenched fists.

I have made findings concerning the above-listed conduct and I CONCLUDE that on December 5, 2022 at MPHS V.P. violated School Policy 9150.

Legal Analysis Of The Arguments Concerning The Crowe Factors

Analysis of the First Crowe Factor: The Claim of Irreparable Harm

A party seeking injunctive relief must demonstrate the need for relief by clear and convincing evidence. Brown, supra. The party seeking injunctive relief must demonstrate that the claim of irreparable harm is substantial and imminent. Waste Mgmt., supra. V.P. has not carried his burden of producing clear and convincing evidence that his being barred from the School District's campuses will cause him or M.P. irreparable harm. There has been no showing that the drop-off and pick-up places to which V.P. is limited imposes any undue hardship to V.P. or to M.P. The Board was not inflicting harm when the Superintendent of Schools barred V.P. from the School Districts campuses. Rather the Superintendent was attempting to promote the safety of the students and staff of the District from a repetition of the type of conduct that V.P. exhibited on December 5, 2022.

I CONCLUDE that V.P. has not demonstrated irreparable harm to himself or to his son, M.P., and cannot prevail on the first Crowe factor.

Analysis of the Second Crowe Factor: Whether the Law is Settled or Not

Policy 9150 was enacted in accordance with the laws of New Jersey and its purpose is the promotion of the safety of school staff and students. I CONCLUDE that the BOE has demonstrated that the law is settled and that it is settled in its favor.

Analysis of the Third Crowe Factor: That the Movant has Shown a Reasonable Likelihood of Success on the Merits

On the issue of whether V.P. can show a reasonable probability of success on the merits, V.P. has not set forth an argument demonstrating that the merits weigh in his favor. On the other hand, the respondent has marshalled evidence favoring the Respondent's case from witnesses who have no personal interest in the outcome of the matter and whose credibility has not been seriously challenged. I CONCLUDE that V.P. has not demonstrated that he has a reasonable probability of success on the merits. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that V.P. cannot prevail on the third Crowe factor.

V.P. bears the burden of demonstrating by clear and convincing evidence that the harm he claims to suffer is both substantial and imminent. As noted above, V.P. has not demonstrated that denial of injunctive relief will cause him or his son to suffer any imminent harm or even any foreseeable harm. V.P. has not demonstrated how he or his son, M.P., will be harmed and has not demonstrated that he or his son, M.P., will be harmed to any greater extent than the Board. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that V.P. cannot prevail on the fourth Crowe factor.

From my analysis of the facts and the arguments presented pursuant to Crowe, I CONCLUDE that V.P. has not demonstrated that he has prevailed on any of the Crowe factors and therefore, he is not entitled to emergent relief.

Having reviewed the documents and testimony presented in this matter, together with the arguments presented, I CONCLUDE that the School District does not "enforce" the MSA; rather, it has followed the requirements of the MSA. I also CONCLUDE that the definition of an "emergency", as used in the MSA, is not a matter for the OAL to decide. V.P. and A.Z., through their respective counsel have agreed to the terms and content of their MSA. If either of them now or in the future raises a question or conflict about the meaning of the word "emergency" as used in their MSA, then they must seek to resolve it. Ultimately, the definition of "emergency" under the MSA is for the parties themselves to agree upon, or, if they cannot agree upon the definition of "emergency" they must resolve their dispute before the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Family Part.

Having reviewed Exhibit R-4 and Exhibit R-6, I CONCLUDE that Superintendent Marie Cirasella has given the School District's assurance to V.P. that the School District's administrators, teachers and school nurse will respond to his appropriate requests for any information about his son. I CONCLUDE that Cirasella provided V.P. with a clear statement that he is not to come upon the premises of MPHS and has provided a clear procedure for where he is to pick-up M.P. on his parenting days. I CONCLUDE that Cirasella provided V.P. with a clear procedure in which he is to telephone her regarding an emergency that may involve M.P., reserving to herself the authority to grant or deny admittance for V.P. to enter upon the MPHS campus. I CONCLUDE that Cirasella has stated clearly to V.P. that he will continue to receive all notifications, reports, and assessments concerning M.P., which are provided by the school District to all parents and guardians of its students. I CONCLUDE that Cirasella's December 12, 2022 letter has already provided all of the relief that V.P. is entitled to in this matter, including , but not limited to, his demand for a set of "protocols".

Having made findings of fact concerning V.P.'s conduct on December 5, 2022 at MPHS, and having reviewed School Policy 9150, I CONCLUDE that Superintendent Marie Cirasella was authorized to bar V.P. from the premises of the Midland Park School District and I CONCLUDE that nothing has come before this Tribunal that indicates that the barring of V.P. should be lifted. I hereby AFFIRM Superintendent Cirasella's action of barring V.P. from the School District's premises, subject to her further consideration of circumstances that may arise, and subject to her sole discretion.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that V.P.'s Motion for emergent relief in the form of an Order vacating the December 8, 2022 decision of Superintendent of Schools Marie Cirasella to bar V.P. from the campuses of the Midland Park School District is DENIED; and it is further ORDERED that V.P.'s demand for a set of protocols (i.e., procedures) for the dropping-off and picking-up of M.P. is DENIED because the procedures have already been set forth in R-4, Cirasella's letter dated December 12, 2022; and it is further ORDERED that V.P.'s demand for information about his son, M.P., is DENIED because the promises and assurances have already been set forth in R-4, Cirasella's letter dated December 12, 2022, and it is further ORDERED that a copy of this ORDER shall be transmitted by email from the OAL to V.P. and to Attorney Stephen R. Fogarty, and that receipt of same shall be acknowledged immediately by the recipients.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who is authorized by law to make the final decision in this case. The final decision shall be issued without delay but no later than forty-five days from the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify, or reject this order within those forty-five days, this recommended order shall become the final decision on the issue of emergency relief under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

D.S., on behalf of minor child, M.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the exceptions filed by the petitioner[1] pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 have been reviewed and considered.

Petitioner's minor child, M.S., was involved in a fight at Steinert High School (Steinert) in December 2022. Petitioner filed an application for emergent relief, alleging that M.S. was unsafe at Steinert and seeking M.S.'s immediate transfer to Hamilton High School-West (HHS-West). The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that petitioner failed to establish irreparable harm, noting that there is no more evidence that A.C. targeted M.S. than evidence that M.S. targeted A.C., and that there is insufficient evidence to conclude that A.C. presents a risk of irreparable harm to M.S. The ALJ further indicated that, to the extent that petitioner alleged that a School Resource Officer (SRO) used excessive force when responding to the fight, petitioner has made clear her intent to file a civil lawsuit against the SRO and others, such that redress in the form of monetary damages is available to her and therefore any harm is not irreparable. The ALJ further concluded that petitioner failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of her claim regarding the transfer, as a discretionary decision of a board of education will not be overturned unless the board acted in bad faith or in disregard of the circumstances. Here, the ALJ found that the Hamilton Township Board of Education (Board) has a strong basis for its decision to deny petitioner's transfer request based on a history of conflict during M.S.'s previous enrollment at HHS-West. Finally, the ALJ concluded that the balance of the equities does not favor a transfer. Accordingly, the ALJ denied the application for emergent relief.

[1] Following the issuance of the Initial Decision, petitioner sent two emails to the Commissioner, which the Commissioner deems to be petitioner's exceptions to the Initial Decision. The Board did not file a reply to petitioner's exceptions.

The ALJ also indicated that petitioner previously filed a separate petition of appeal seeking M.S.'s transfer to HHS-West on the grounds that petitioner had purchased a home within the residency zone for HHS-West. In the Initial Decision, the ALJ indicated that the proceedings in that case, docketed as D.S., on behalf of minor child, M.S. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Hamilton, Mercer Co., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10144-22, will continue.

In her exceptions, petitioner indicates that she disagrees with the decision and believes that she has met the prongs for emergent relief. Petitioner also noted that there has been no civil suit filed against the Steinert administration or the Hamilton Township Police Department.

Upon review, for the reasons detailed in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. While petitioner's exceptions express her disagreement with the Initial Decision, she offers no legal basis for that disagreement. Furthermore, with regard to petitioner's contention that no civil suit has been filed, the Commissioner notes that the availability of monetary damages is what precludes a finding of irreparable harm; whether petitioner has filed such a suit at this time is not relevant. Additionally, petitioner is required to meet all four prongs of the emergent relief standard for her application to be granted, and the prong regarding irreparable harm is not the only prong that petitioner failed to meet. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner also failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of her claim or that the balance of equities favors a transfer. Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ appropriately denied petitioner's request for emergent relief.

Generally, when a request for emergent relief is denied, the case continues on the merits of the underlying claim. However, here, as the ALJ noted, the underlying issue of M.S.'s transfer is pending in a separate matter. Therefore, there is no need for further proceedings on the merits of the transfer claim in the instant matter.

Accordingly, petitioner's application for emergent relief is denied, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Record Closed: January 4, 2023 Decided: January 5, 2023

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this emergent matter, petitioner D.S. on behalf of M.S. seeks the immediate transfer of M.S. from Hamilton High School-East, also known as Steinert High School (Steinert), to Hamilton High School-West (HHS-West) on the grounds that M.S. is unsafe at Steinert due to allegedly being the victim of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) on or about December 19, 2022, and as a result of allegedly being subjected to excessive force by the school resource officer (SRO) immediately following the December 19, 2022, incident. Respondent Hamilton Township Board of Education, Mercer County (Board), opposes petitioner's request on the grounds that she has not satisfied the requirements to obtain emergent relief.

On November 10, 2022, petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), Office of Controversies and Disputes, to challenge the decision of respondent to deny her request to enroll M.S. at HHS-West. The petition was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 15, 2022, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 and docketed as EDU 10144-22.

On December 21, 2022, petitioner filed the request for emergent relief with the DOE, which transmitted the emergent petition to the OAL, where it was scheduled for hearing on January 4, 2023. Oral arguments on the emergent petition were made on January 4, 2023, and the record closed.

Based on the petition for emergent relief, the videos proffered by petitioner, and the documents and videos proffered by respondent, and solely for the purpose of deciding this emergent appeal, I FIND the following undisputed FACTS:

The Hamilton Township School District (District) operates three high schools and assigns students within the District to a specific high school based on pre-determined residential boundary lines. M.S. is an eighteen-year-old female who receives special education and related services pursuant to an individualized education plan. When M.S. began high school, in September 2019, she lived with her mother, D.S., at an address within the HHS-West zone and attended HHS-West.

During the 2019–2020, and 2020–2021, school years, M.S. was charged by respondent with seven counts of HIB against another HHS-West student. D.S. appealed the Board's decision by emergent and due process petitions. The request for emergent relief, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 09096-20, was denied on October 6, 2020, and affirmed by the Commissioner on November 12, 2020. While the due process petition, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 07830-20, was pending, D.S. on behalf of M.S. brought a lawsuit against certain administrators and staff of HHS-West, including Principal Brian Smith, alleging racial profiling, discrimination, harassment, and bullying of M.S.[1] This matter was resolved prior to trial.

The S. family moved from New Jersey prior to the end of M.S.'s tenth grade year; she began the 2021–2022 school year in eleventh grade at Gateway High School in Florida. On or before November 1, 2021, M.S. moved with her mother, D.S., back to New Jersey and took up residence in Hamilton Township within the geographic zone assigned by the District to Steinert.

On or before October 29, 2021, D.S. applied to the District for an attendance zone waiver by which M.S. would attend high school at HHS-West rather than Steinert. By letter dated October 29, 2021, the District denied petitioner's application. The District stated that its decision was supported by the earlier allegations made by D.S. on behalf of M.S. regarding HHS-West administrators and staff, the case D.S. filed in Superior Court, and D.S.'s conduct during the 2020–2021 school year.[2]

On February 1, 2022, during M.S.'s junior year at Steinert, M.S. was disciplined by respondent for fighting with another student, A.C., and posting video of the fight on social media. After a manifestation determination meeting, respondent concluded that the conduct of M.S. constituted a disciplinary infraction neither related to nor caused by her disability. D.S. sought an expedited ruling overturning that decision and the discipline imposed on M.S. The requested relief was denied, and the discipline upheld. D.S. obo M.S. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Hamilton, OAL Dkt. No. EDS 01033-22, Final Decision (March 15, 2022).

[2] D.S.'s conduct was at issue in the emergent petition she filed on March 2, 2021, alleging that she was harassed, intimidated, and bullied by employees of respondent. D.S. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Hamilton, OAL Dkt. No. 02205-21, Initial Decision (March 10, 2021) (denying emergent relief).

On April 4, 2022, petitioner filed with the DOE an appeal of respondent's denial of the attendance zone waiver. The matter was transmitted to the OAL and on July 5, 2022, an initial decision was entered granting summary decision in favor of the District, which was affirmed by the Commissioner of Education. D.S. on behalf of M.S. v. Bd, of Educ. of the Twp. of Hamilton, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 02521-22, Initial Decision (July 5, 2022), Final Decision (August 15, 2022).

Before the decision in EDU 02521-22 was issued, petitioner asked respondent if M.S. could participate in end-of-year activities at HHS-West with the rest of the HHS-West Class of 2023 and, on June 13, 2022, respondent denied that request. Petitioner appealed that decision by petition dated August 23, 2022. That matter is pending at the OAL as EDU 07264-22.

After the 2022–2023 school year began, D.S. informed respondent that she had contracted to purchase (but not yet closed on) a home within the geographic zone assigned to HHS-West and, on October 7, 2022, petitioner filed the above-described residency appeal (EDU 10144-22). On November 9, 2022, respondent stated that it would not permit M.S. to enroll in HHS-West in the event of a permanent change in residency. In making this decision, respondent relied on its November 5, 2021, letter to D.S. from counsel explaining the basis for respondent's denial of petitioner's request for an attendance zone waiver. This letter stated in pertinent part:

> [Y]ou, individually, and on behalf of [M.S.], have accused multiple administrators, including the Principal and the Athletic Director, and multiple certified staff members assigned to [HHS-West] of harassment and discrimination toward [M.S.] and you arising from [bullying], disciplinary incidents, and other circumstances. . . It is confounding that you would insist on having [M.S.] assigned to a school against which you have made such allegations. Nevertheless, while the District denies those allegations and avers that it has engaged in unbiased decisions toward you and [M.S.], those claims and > past circumstances justify [M.S.'s] assignment to a high school other than [HHS-West] which is in the best educational interest of [M.S.] and the [HHS-West] staff.

> [Ltr. of Patrick F. Carrigg, Esq., to D.S. (November 5, 2021), at 2.]

In the current petition for emergent relief, petitioner alleges that on December 19, 2022, M.S. was jumped in the school hallway by A.C.[3] A number of other students filmed the incident using their cell phone cameras. Prior to the hearing, petitioner submitted videos of the incident (presumably taken by these other students) which show that A.C. threw the first punch, M.S. fought back, and the students were separated by several male teachers. As M.S. is being pulled away, she can be seen on the video resisting and continuing to flail her arms.

Prior to issuing discipline to both A.C. and M.S.,[4] the Steinert administration conducted an investigation, which included interviews with both students. Ltr. Br. of Respondent in Opposition to Petitioner's Request for Emergent Relief (January 3, 2023), Ex. F. A.C. claimed that she was provoked by M.S.'s action in posting the video of the February 2022 fight (described above). M.S. claims she only posted the video in the morning of December 19, 2022, because of reports that A.C. made disparaging remarks about her on social media the previous weekend. Ibid.

D.S. made an HIB claim against A.C. regarding this incident on December 19, 2022. The District has until January 10, 2023, to complete its investigation and issue findings. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(a).

At petitioner's request, during oral argument, respondent introduced videos of the incident from the Steinert surveillance camera. (Due to confidentiality concerns for the minor students who can be identified in the video, this video will not be transmitted to DOE with this initial decision, nor was a copy provided to petitioner.) On this video, many students are seen walking to class; a student and teacher are standing outside the door to Room 123. M.S. approaches the student and hugs her. A.C. walks up, drops her backpack (or large bag), and takes a swing at M.S.

[3] A.C. is the same student with whom M.S. fought in February 2022, and for which she received discipline. See EDU 01033-22, Initial Decision.

[4] There is no evidence that either student appealed the discipline imposed on her; at oral argument, respondent stated that M.S. returned to school on January 3, 2023, after completing the discipline imposed on her.

As the male teachers are pulling the students apart and moving them away from each other, SRO David Leonardi (Leonardi) can be seen moving toward M.S., who is, as described above, resisting and flailing her arms. Leonardi pulls M.S. away and pushes her up against the wall. There is no audio on the school video, but even if M.S. was using the profanity clearly heard on the students' videos, Leonardi does appear to push M.S. with some force. After that, Leonardi is seen pulling M.S. in the opposite direction from where she appears to be moving. In the last video, Leonardi and M.S. are walking toward the principal's office. Leonardi has one hand on M.S.'s shoulder and the other on her arm, but here he appears to be guiding her and, possibly, preventing her from walking away.

Neither party introduced evidence of the guidelines the SRO is required to follow; the number of other incidents, if any, in which Leonardi restrained or even interacted with M.S.; the statements M.S. made to Leonardi or the statements Leonardi made to M.S.; any directions either M.S. or Leonardi were given by the other teachers or administrators who were present; and/or any physical harm M.S. suffered, including reports from her doctor, or urgent medical care she may have received.[5]

Petitioner claims that due to the above-described incidents involving A.C. and Leonardi, M.S. does not feel safe, and it is not feasible for her to remain at Steinert. The only positive adult relationship[6] that M.S. has found is with her guidance counselor, Anthony Belfiore, who maintains an office at HHS-West but has worked with M.S. during the current school year. The District administration is "being spiteful" in retaliation for the civil lawsuit petitioner filed in 2020.

[5] Petitioner made clear that she has filed (or soon will file) an action against the Steinert administrators and Leonardi. Presumably, such evidence would be included with this complaint.
[6] Petitioner also spoke well of HHS-West Principal Smith, despite having brought a civil action against him. "We have moved on," she stated.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The standards for emergent relief are set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and are codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The petitioner bears the burden of proving:

> 1. that the party seeking emergent relief will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> 2. the existence of a settled legal right underlying the petitioner's claim;
>
> 3. that the party seeking emergent relief has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. when the equities and the interests of the parties are balanced, the party seeking emergent relief will suffer greater harm than the respondent.
> [Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132-34.]

On December 21, 2021, petitioner signed and filed a form of petition which included her obligation to demonstrate that the above standards—as set forth on the form—have been met and provided the citations to the regulations and the Crowe case. As summarized above, this is the third emergent petition filed by D.S.; the decisions in the two prior cases included extensive discussions of the Crowe test.

Petitioner did not, in her petition or at oral argument, specifically address any of the Crowe prerequisites for emergent relief. She argued that M.S. is not safe at Steinert; despite the history of fighting between M.S. and A.C., respondent assigned them to three of the same classes in the current school year; and M.S. is afraid of and was harmed by Leonardi. In an attachment to the petition, M.S. made the following five points, in summary:

> 1. After hearing of the incident on December 19, 2022, petitioner met with Principal Bryan Rogers at Steinert and viewed the hallway surveillance video described above, which she claims shows A.C. starting the fight and Leonardi using excessive force. Petitioner requested but was denied a copy of this video.

> 2. In the above meeting, M.S.'s Steinert guidance counselor "lied" to petitioner regarding who escorted M.S. to the Principal's office. This lie, which petitioner recorded and played for M.S., led M.S. to lose "all respect" for the guidance counselor.
> 3. There was no need for Leonardi to use force with M.S. as the fight was already broken up.
>
> 4. Petitioner intends to file a civil suit against Steinert administrators, the Hamilton Township Police Department and Leonardi.
> 5. Petitioner had warned members of the Steinert administration of trouble between M.S. and A.C. at least three weeks earlier and they failed to respond.

Irreparable Harm

To obtain emergent relief, petitioner must demonstrate more than a risk of irreparable harm should M.S. remain at Steinert. Petitioner must make a "clear showing of immediate irreparable injury," or a "presently existing actual threat; (an injunction) may not be used simply to eliminate a possibility of a remote future injury, or a future invasion of rights, be those rights protected by statute or by common law." Cont'l. Group, Inc. v. Amoco Chems. Corp., 614 F. 2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980). In an educational setting, "irreparable harm may be shown when there is a substantial risk of physical injury to the child or others, or when there is a significant interruption or termination of educational services." Ocean Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. J.E. and T.B. obo J.E., OAL Dkt. No. EDS 00592-04, 2004 NJ AGEN LEXIS 115, at *8 (February 23, 2004) (irreparable harm found where an eight-year-old's "physical aggressiveness and disruptive behaviors [posed] a safety concern to himself and others, and the district's behavior modification techniques [were] no longer effective"); Sparta Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. R.M. and V.M. obo C.M., OAL Dkt. No. 01975-20, 2020 NJ AGEN LEXIS, at *14 (February 21, 2020) (inappropriate interactions with other students and breaking a desk deemed "sufficient evidence of the risk of harm to [student], school staff, teachers and students that if [student] remained in school at this time, other incidents could occur involving the health, safety and welfare of any of these individuals").

Petitioner contends that irreparable harm is established because, essentially, the Steinert administration did not prevent the incident of December 19, 2022; A.C. "jumped" M.S.; and Leonardi used excessive force toward M.S. unnecessarily.

Respondent argues that M.S. is not at risk of harm from A.C., another student whose behavior was arguably provoked by M.S. As described above, the fighting between these two students did not begin—or escalate—in December 2022. There is no more evidence that A.C. targeted M.S. than evidence that M.S. targeted A.C. The above cases in which risk of physical injury was sufficient to present irreparable harm involved students who were placed on home instruction to prevent them from injuring themselves or other students. There are no cases to support removing a student who has been a victim of physical aggression, as petitioner claims happened here. While I agree with petitioner that placing A.C. and M.S. in three of the same classes was unwise, there was no discussion of the reasons for doing so and no evidence that respondent acted in bad faith. If it is necessary to change the students' Steinert schedules to prevent future fights, respondent would be well advised to take such preventative measures. Even so, I CONCLUDE that there is insufficient evidence that A.C. presents a risk of irreparable harm to M.S.

With respect to the claim that M.S. is unsafe because Leonardi used excessive force when responding to the December 19, 2022, incident, respondent notes that harm is not irreparable if redress is available by monetary damages. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132-33. Such is the case here; petitioner has made clear her intention to file a civil lawsuit against Leonardi and his employer, as well as members of the Steinert administration. I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not met the burden of establishing that irreparable harm may result unless M.S. is immediately transferred to HHS-West.

The second consideration is whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)(2), and then third, petitioner must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of success on the merits. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133.

While respondent argues that there is no underlying due process claim, I disagree. As described above, the case docketed as EDU 10144-22, is a challenge by petitioner to the decision of respondent to deny her request to enroll M.S. at HHS-West. Even so, petitioner has not yet shown a likelihood of obtaining the relief sought in that case.

Actions within a school board's authority, including the adoption and implementation of policies for the assignment of students, are entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset by the courts unless there is an affirmative showing that a decision is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Bd. of Educ. of Morris Twp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), affirmed, 46 N.J. 581 (1966). In general, a board of education's actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. Where board actions are challenged, the challenger bears the burden of proving that such actions were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Schuster v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Montgomery, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 670, 676 [citing Schnick v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), and Quinlan v. North Bergen Twp. Bd. of Educ., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962)].

In matters involving the exercise of a board of education's discretion, the scope of the Commissioner's review is "not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions." Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 296 (App. Div. 1960). Our courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199–200 (Ch. Div. 1973), affirmed, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App Div. 1974). To satisfy the arbitrary and capricious standard, petitioner must prove that respondent acted in either bad faith or in disregard to the circumstances.

As the factual record detailed above makes clear, respondent has a strong basis for its consistent decision to refuse to enroll M.S. at HHS-West. Notwithstanding that M.S. is more mature now, has maintained a productive relationship with her HHS-West guidance counselor, and has reconsidered her prior claims against Principal Smith, it is unlikely that petitioner will be able to show that respondent's decision was arbitrary and/or capricious. For the above reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner meets the second prong, but not the third prong of the emergent relief standard.

Balance of Equities and Interests

The final prong of the above test is whether the equities and interests of the parties weigh in favor of granting the requested relief to petitioner. Here, again, petitioner claims that greater harm will result to M.S. if she remains at Steinert because she is not safe there. The Board summarized the reasons it disagrees as follows:

> If the Court were to . . . order M.S. back to [HHS-West], it would require revision to M.S.' schedule, for her to meet new teachers in a new setting that she has not attended since March 2021, and place her in a school setting that she has previously claimed was hostile because of the principal, staff, and students. It is a school setting where she previously was found to have harassed multiple students in a violation of the HIB policy and where she claimed to have been the victim of multiple incidents of HIB perpetrated by other students and staff. It is a setting where many struggles arose. In contrast, [Steinert] is a setting where she has done significantly better notwithstanding the recent altercation. Placement of M.S. back at [HHS-West] is not in her best interest.
> [P]lacement at [HHS-West] would invite a resurgence of the claims of harassment and conflict between D.S., M.S., and the school officials. It would be a hardship to the district administration and staff members at [HHS-West], previously defendants against allegations of racism that they vehemently dispute, to have to scurry to accommodate M.S. with a program as she moves toward graduation all the while on eggshells that any decision to discipline M.S. or conflict between M.S. and her peers would again result in their > professional reputations being attacked as they have been numerous times before.

> [Ltr. Br. of Respondent, at 7.]

M.S. is just months away from graduation and, as petitioner stated, a fresh start at college. In the meantime, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not shown that the equities favor changing M.S.'s enrollment to HHS-West.

I CONCLUDE the petitioner has failed to meet the applicable requirements to obtain emergent relief.

ORDER

For the reasons stated above, I hereby ORDER that the application for emergent relief of petitioner D.S. on behalf of M.S. seeking the immediate transfer of M.S. from Steinert to HHS-West is hereby DENIED. Proceedings in the underlying due process petition, EDU 10144-22, will continue. The evidentiary hearing will be scheduled by my judicial support specialist at the earliest mutually available date.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Final Decision

In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificates of Stephanie Sullivan, Board of Education of the Township of Franklin, Somerset County.

Synopsis

The petitioning Board sought the suspension of the teaching certificates of respondent – a non-tenured special education teacher – following her resignation without providing the notice required under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. Respondent submitted a letter on January 10, 2022, informing the Board that she would resign from her position on January 21, 2022 – eleven days from the date of the letter – to accept a non-teaching position.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: although the respondent made efforts to assure a smooth transition before leaving the school, the Board was not able to fill her position for the remainder of the school year; the abrupt nature of respondent's resignation impacted the classroom experience for her students and caused the school district difficulty in providing coverage for her in-class responsibilities as well as her out-of-class administrative duties, including but not limited to the development of IEPs for students eligible for special education services; under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, any teaching staff member employed by a board of education who ceases to perform his or her duties before the expiration of their term of employment, without the consent of the board, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the Commissioner may thereafter suspend his or her teaching certificate for a period not to exceed one year. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that respondent's certificates be suspended for a period of one year.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion for the reasons outlined in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. Respondent's certificates were suspended for one year from the filing date of this decision, a copy of which has been forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for implementation of the suspension.

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificates of Stephanie Sullivan, Board of Education of the Township of Franklin, Somerset County.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed and considered. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that respondent's resignation from employment with only eleven days' notice justifies suspension of respondent's teaching certificates pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8.

Accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision is granted, and respondent's teaching certificates are suspended for a period of one year from the filing date of this decision, a copy of which shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for implementation of the suspension.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 01767-22

AGENCY DKT. NO. 33-3/22

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATES OF STEPHANIE SULLIVAN, FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, SOMERSET COUNTY

Geoffrey N. Stark, Esq., for petitioner (Capehart Scatchard, P.A., attorneys)

Stephanie Sullivan, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: September 13, 2022 Decided: December 13, 2022

BEFORE ELIA A. PELIOS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Franklin Township (Somerset County) Board of Education (Board or petitioner) seeks to suspend the teaching certificates of Stephanie Sullivan (respondent) for resigning her position having provided less than sixty days' notice, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The matter was transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on March 10, 2022. An evidentiary hearing was held on August 11, 2022. The record was held open to permit written closing arguments and closed on September 13, 2022.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

An evidentiary hearing was held on August 11, 2022. The Board presented testimony from Evelyn Rutledge, the principal of Franklin Middle School, and Jackie Schneider, the District's assistant manager for Human Resources and Personnel Services. Respondent testified on her own behalf. Having considered the testimony presented and the documentary evidence entered into the record (P-1 through P-5), I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

Respondent was previously employed by the board as a special education teacher at the Sampson G. Smith School. She worked for the board for approximately three and a half years and was not tenured in the position. She was under an employment contract for the 2021-2022 school year and the District requires the staff to provide sixty days' notice before resigning their position.

Respondent submitted a resignation letter after close of business on January 10, 2022, and her last day was January 21, 2022, eleven days later. At that point she ceased to perform her job duties prior to the expiration of her contract. The Board did not consent to a shorter notice provision and was unable to fill respondent's position for the remainder of the year. The abrupt nature of respondent's resignation impacted the classroom experience for her students and cause the district difficulty in providing coverage for her in-class responsibilities as well as her out-of-class administrative duties, including but not limited to the development of IEPs for students eligible for special education services. Substitutes were frequently required for instruction and other employees had to help manage the administrative details, beyond the scope of their own regular duties.

Respondent left to accept another position outside of the teaching profession. Respondent struggled with what she perceived to be changes in the teaching profession before ultimately determining not to continue. Had she waited, the opportunity she was accepting would not have been available. She was well regarded by colleagues and superiors and was considered to be a good teacher. She worked to lessen the impact of her departure during her brief transition period.

Respondent holds the following teaching certificates:

Teacher of Elementary School, grades Kindergarten (K)-6 Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing, issued in January 2017;

Teacher of Elementary School in grades 5-8, with Mathematics Specialization Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing, issued in January 2017;

Teacher of Students with Disabilities Certificate of Eligibility, issued in January 2017;

Teacher of Elementary School in grades K-6 Certificate, issued in November 2020;

Teacher of Elementary School in grades 5-8, with Mathematics Specialization, Certificate, issued in November 2020; and Teacher of Students with Disabilities Provisional Certificate, issued in August 2020.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 provides that ("[A]ny teaching staff member employed by a board of education . . . who shall, without the consent of the board . . . cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct . . ." In order to sustain the charge of unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. § 18A:26-10, the petitioner must demonstrate that respondent: 1) was a teaching staff member employed by a board of education who; 2) ceased to perform her duties before the expiration of the term of her employment; 3) without consent of the board. The underlying purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is "to protect pupils from the disruption caused by '[s]taff members who leave before the expiration of their contracts.'" Ibid. (citation omitted.)

In the present matter, the record reflects that none of the required criteria are in dispute and that all are present. The District's contract specifically requires sixty days' notice unless the board consents to a shorter period, which it did not. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioning Board has met its burden by demonstrating by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct, and that the charge of such must be SUSTAINED.

PENALTY

The charge of unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 having been sustained; we now turn to the appropriate penalty to be imposed. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.8(b) both provide that the once they receive notice of a teacher leaving their position prior to the term of employment as contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, the commissioner may suspend the certificates held by that teacher for a period not to exceed one year.

While the language clearly indicates that this is a maximum penalty, and that its imposition is permissive rather than mandatory, it is clear from a review of relevant case law that the one-year suspension is issued unless the mitigating circumstances present compel otherwise.

In the present matter, the record reflects that respondent left her position prior to the ending of the employment term. She did not give sixty days' notice, and the Board did not approve a shorter period. In fact, she gave approximately eleven days' notice, less than twenty percent of what is customarily considered sufficient and what is required by the contract. The record also reflects that respondent was well liked by her colleagues and superiors and acquitted herself quite well in the classroom. She also worked during the time leading up to her departure to try to create as smooth a transition as possible and was frank and candid about her struggles contending with changes in the teaching profession.

While certainly commendable and sincere, these actions do not rise to the significant level of mitigating circumstances that historically have given basis to deviate from the norm of imposing the maximum one-year suspension. Her position went unfilled for the remainder of the school year – nearly five months. Significant substitute assignment was required. Disruption to the educational experience of her students did occur. Accordingly, I am compelled to CONCLUDE that the imposition of the one-year suspension is appropriate.

ORDER

The charge of unprofessional conduct against respondent is hereby SUSTAINED. Further, it is ORDERED that respondent's teaching certificates be SUSPENDED for a period of one year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Decision

C.S., on behalf of minor child, I.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Rikki Frischman,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner sought to hold respondent, Rikki Frischman, accountable for allegedly failing to report an incident of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) and filed a petition requesting that the respondent "be removed from working with students." Respondent worked in North Brunswick Township schools as a teaching staff member during the 2021-2022 school year; petitioner's child, I.S. was a student in Ms. Frischman's second grade class.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the issue in this case is whether petitioner may seek to revoke respondent's teaching certificate; respondent filed a motion to dismiss, arguing that petitioner has no standing to seek revocation of respondent's teaching certificate; petitioner's response to the motion to dismiss did not address respondent's legal arguments as to lack of standing or failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted but opposed the motion, arguing that respondent failed to report an alleged incident of abuse and failed to be honest; accordingly, petitioner sought to "terminate" respondent's teaching certificate; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10 provides that prior to transmittal of a case to the OAL, the Commissioner may dismiss the petition on grounds that the petitioner has advanced no cause of action or for lack of jurisdiction, failure to prosecute or other good reason; the New Jersey Administrative Code governs the revocation and suspension of teaching certificates; N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.5 sets forth circumstances by which revocation or suspension of teaching certificates may be triggered, all of which are initiated by action of the Board of Examiners; there is no provision in regulation for an individual to compel revocation of a teacher's certificates. The ALJ concluded that the petitioner failed to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. Accordingly, the motion to dismiss was granted.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that an individual may not compel the revocation of a teacher's certificate, as the authority to revoke or suspend teaching certificates lies solely with the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.5. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

BEFORE SUSAN L. OLGIATI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, C.S. seeks to hold respondent, Rikki Frischman accountable for allegedly failing to report an incident of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB). On March 14, 2022, petitioner filed a Pro Se Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, requesting that the respondent "be removed from working with students." On or about June 10, 2022, the Regulatory Officer of the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes emailed C.S. seeking clarification of her Petition of Appeal. More specifically, petitioner was asked, "Are you asking the Commissioner to revoke Ms. Frischman's teaching certificates, appealing an HIB decision, both, or something else?" (See, Transmittal packet.) On the morning of June 10, 2022, C.S. responded, "Good morning, I am requesting that Mrs. Frischman [sic] teaching privileges be revoked as she failed to report (violating N.J. Admin. Code 6A:16-5.3) the incident that was reported to her . . . " Id. Later that evening, C.S. further responded, "Good evening, Ms. Simon, I see there is a little misunderstanding of my response and the language used "revoke Mrs. Frischman certification I was referring to termination from duty as a teacher at John Adams not revoke as in reverse her teaching degree." Id.

On or about June 23, 2022, respondent filed a motion to dismiss with the Commissioner. Thereafter, the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case, where it was filed on July 5, 2022. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23. The transmittal notice noted that petitioner named only Frischman as respondent and that jurisdiction with regard to Frischman is a threshold issue. The transmittal notice further noted that the issue of whether the Board's HIB decision was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable, was not transmitted to the OAL and would follow in a separate transmittal if a petition is filed.

On or about September 20, 2022, respondent refiled the motion to dismiss in the OAL. On October 20, 2022, respondent filed a supplemental letter brief in support of the motion. Petitioner filed her response to the motion on or about October 28, 2022. A telephone case conference was held on November 1, 2022, where the parties confirmed that all responsive papers had been filed and the record closed.

Frischman was employed by the North Brunswick Township Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the Board) as a teaching staff member for the 2021–2022 school year. During that time, I.S.[1] was a student in Frischman's second grade class.

On February 2, 2022, respondent excused I.S. from class to use the restroom. C.S. contends that while I.S. was in the restroom, another student bit him on his buttock. (Petr.'s response to motion to dismiss.) C.S. claims that after leaving the restroom, I.S. met Frischman in the hallway and reported the incident to her. In response, respondent allegedly answered something to the effect of, "Don't worry, I will handle it. If you don't feel comfortable using this bathroom, you can use the 3rd and 4th grade bathroom." Id.

I.S. told C.S. about the incident later that evening. Thereafter, C.S. emailed his teachers and added the principal to the email. Frischman responded to the email that evening and said she had no knowledge of the incident. Frischman arranged to speak with C.S. via telephone the next morning. Petitioner contends that during their conversation, Frischman continued to deny knowledge of the incident but advised that she reported the matter to the instructional dean. Id.

Petitioner asserts that she met with the principal on February 4, 2022, who informed her there was video footage of Frischman having a brief conversation with I.S. in the hallway on the date of the incident and that the other student involved had yet to be interviewed. Id.

Petitioner indicates that an intake report (#21381646) was made to the Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit (IAIU) hotline regarding the incident, but contends that the report was not intended to address the negligence of respondent and that the matter was not escalated into a formal investigation or referred to the Board of Examiners.

[1] I.S. is also referred to the responsive papers/supporting documentation as "Ibn."

Thereafter, on March 14, 2022, petitioner filed her Petition of Appeal seeking termination of Frischman's teaching certificate. Id.[2]

Finally, petitioner states, that by letter dated June 9, 2022, she was advised by Frischman's attorney, that Frischman had since resigned and was no longer employed by the Board.

Respondent denies that I.S. told her about an HIB incident and claims that I.S. only reported that students were playing in the bathroom. (Frischman Cert.) Upon receiving the email from petitioner on the evening of February 2, 2022, Frischman emailed her instructional dean and principal to inform them of C.S.'s claims. Id.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The issue is whether petitioner may seek to revoke respondent's teaching certificate.

Respondent filed the motion to dismiss, arguing that petitioner has no standing to seek revocation of respondent's teaching certificate. Respondent argues that revocation proceedings are generated by the findings of a state body or agency such as the Division of Criminal Justice, the employing Board of Education, or the IAIU. Respondent further argues that while an individual may bring a claim or concern to the attention of a Board of Education, it is up to the Board to determine what, if any, action to be taken. Respondent contends that none of the basis for bringing a revocation action have been triggered. Thus, respondent argues there is no legal authority for petitioner's action and the matter should be dismissed.

Petitioner does not address respondent's legal arguments as to lack of standing or failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted but opposes the motion arguing that respondent failed to report an alleged incident of abuse, and failed to be honest, and therefore seeks to "terminate" her teaching certificate.

[2] Petitioner incorrectly states in her opposition papers that on this date she filed a motion with the OAL. The Petition of Appeal filed by petitioner on that date was filed with the Commissioner of Education.

I. Standard for Motion to Dismiss

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10 provides:

> At any time prior to transmittal of the pleadings to the OAL, in the Commissioner's discretion or upon motion to dismiss filed in lieu of answer, the Commissioner may dismiss the petition on the grounds that the petitioner has advanced no cause of action even if the petitioner's factual allegations are accepted as true or for lack of jurisdiction, failure to prosecute or other good reason.

The Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (UAPR), N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.3, provide that they "shall be construed to achieve just results, simplicity in procedure, fairness in administration and the elimination of unjustifiable expense and delay." N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a). They further provide that, "[i]n the absence of a rule, a judge may proceed in accordance with the New Jersey Court Rules, provided the rules are compatible with these purposes."

R.4:6-2, allows for motions for judgment on the pleadings. Under R. 4:6-2, if the basis for a motion to dismiss is that the petition has advanced no cause of action, or failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, "the test for determining the adequacy of [the] pleading [is] whether a cause of action is 'suggested' by the facts," such that the "inquiry is limited to examining the legal sufficiency of the facts alleged on the face of the complaint." Printing-Mart Morristown v. Sharp Elecs. Corp., 116 N.J. 739, 746 (1989) (citing R. 4:6-2(e); Velantzas v. Colgate-Palmolive Co., 109 N.J. 189, 192 (1988); Rieder v. Dep't of Transp., 221 N.J. Super. 547, 552 (App.Div.1987)). Thus, R. 4:6-2 is compatible with the purposes of the UAPR, and it is appropriate to assess respondent's motion to dismiss under this standard.

For purposes of the motion, it does not matter whether a petitioner can ultimately "prove the allegation contained in the complaint" because "all facts alleged in the complaint and the legitimate inferences drawn therefrom are deemed admitted." Id.

II. Revocation

The New Jersey Administrative Code governs the revocation and suspension of teaching certificates. N.J.A.C 6A:9B-4.5 provides in relevant part that:

> (a) The Board of Examiners may issue an order to show cause to a certificate holder if the Board of Examiners determines the conduct of the holder may warrant the revocation or suspension of the certificate(s) held where:
> 1. The Commissioner transmits a contested case to the Board of Examiners that resulted in a teaching staff member's loss of tenure, dismissal, resignation, or retirement;
>
> 2. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.3, the Board of Examiners receives information from a school district that a teaching staff member no longer is employed in the school district;
>
> 3. The Board of Examiners receives information regarding a certificate holder's criminal conviction or pending criminal charges;
>
> 4. The Board of Examiners receives notices that a teaching staff member who is certified in New Jersey and who also holds a teaching certificate in another state has had action taken against his or her certificate by the other state;
> 5. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.10 the Department of Children and Families forwards to the Board of Examiners a copy of a report in which the > Department of Children and Families has substantiated that a certificate holder has abused or neglected a student or has identified concerns with the conduct of a teaching staff member;

> 6. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.3, the Commissioner notifies the Board of Examiners that an individual who holds New Jersey certification is disqualified from employment in public schools or has pending charges for an offense that is disqualifying;
>
> 7. A certificate holder fails to maintain any license, certificate, or authorization that is mandated, pursuant to this chapter, for the holder to serve in a position . . .
>
> (b) Nothing in this section shall preclude the Board of Examiners from issuing an order to show cause on its own initiative when the Board of Examiners determines grounds for revocation or suspension of a certificate may exist.
> N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.5.

The regulation sets forth multiple methods/circumstances by which revocation or suspension of teaching certificates may be triggered. All of which are initiated by action of the Board of Examiners based on findings or information including, but not limited to, a certificate holder's criminal conviction or pending criminal charges, action taken against a teaching staff member's certificate in another state, or report by the Department of Children and Families substantiating abuse or neglect or identifying conduct concerns. The regulation does not presently provide any avenue for an individual to compel revocation of an individual's teaching certificate.

Here, none of the methods by which the Board of Examiners may revoke or suspend a teaching certificate have been triggered. The Board of Examiners has not issued an Order to Show Cause or taken any action concerning respondent's teaching certificate. Accordingly, for purposes of this motion, accepting all of the facts alleged by petitioner as true, they remain "palpably insufficient to support a claim upon which relief can be granted."

To the extent that petitioner believes that respondent engaged in improper conduct or disagrees with the way in which the school's administrators, or the Board of Education handled the HIB, she should consider other avenues which she may have to pursue, if any.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth herein, I CONCLUDE that respondent's motion to dismiss should be GRANTED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the respondent's motion to dismiss is GRANTED; and petitioner's Petition of Appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Order on Emergent Relief

W.M. and M.M., on behalf of minor child,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Lafayette, Sussex County,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons stated therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners, M.M. and W.M., bring this action seeking home instruction for their minor child, compliance with prior Commissioner Decisions regarding videos at their child's school, and a hearing before a new administrative law judge for their challenge to a finding by respondent that no harassment, intimidation, or bullying (HIB) occurred against their child from January 10, 2020, through January 17, 2020. More pointedly, the Lafayette Township School District's anti-bullying coordinator issued a report on February 20, 2020, concluding that the complaint's alleged conduct did not meet the statutory definition of HIB, but did violate the Student Code of Conduct. Petitioners disagree with this determination. Petitioners also suggest that the investigation leading to the District's HIB denial was inaccurate.

The Anti-Bullying Rights Act (ABRA), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 to -37, necessitates Board action concerning HIB complaints and investigations. The Lafayette Township School District's Board of Education (District or Board) accepted the February 20, 2020, report at its March 18, 2021, meeting and issued a written decision on December 27, 2021.[1]

A case is pending before the Hon Ernest Bongiovanni, ALJ, for that same HIB denial by the District under OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00546-22, Agency Dkt, 216-11/21. Petitioners assert that the case before Judge Bongiovanni only addresses their allegations of school misconduct concerning the HIB investigation, not the HIB determination. Yet, on January 19, 2022, the Acting Commissioner of the Department of Education (Commissioner) transmitted that case for adjudication of the District's HIB denial and any other violations under ABRA.[2] Like this petition, petitioner M.M. also sought video evidence she asserts the Commissioner ordered. Indeed, petitioners view the January 19, 2022, order transmitting the case to the OAL as ordering copies of the videos petitioners previously sought.[3]

On February 8, 2022, the District provided nearly six hours of footage to the petitioners relevant to its HIB investigation of petitioners' January 17, 2020, complaint. Further, the District offered petitioners an opportunity to review the voluminous additional [1] This tribunal is aware that prior litigation involved these procedural steps.

[2] Petitioners maintain the Commissioner's transmittal of multiple issues was inappropriate. However, this action follows the well-established entire controversy doctrine designed to avoid piecemeal litigation of issues raised by a single cause of action. Blanchard Co. v. Beach Concrete Co., Inc., 150 N.J. Super. 277, 294 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 75 N.J. 528 (1977); Cogdell v. Hosp. Ctr. at Orange, 116 N.J. 7, 15 (1989).

[3] However, by Final Decision of November 5, 2020, the Commissioner also upheld another administrative law judge's denial of M.M.'s discovery request for similar videos under OAL DKT. NO. EDU 05225-20, Agency Dkt. No. 94-5/20.

videos at the school, followed by submitting a list of video clips petitioners assert are relevant to the case.

Unable to resolve the District's offer, petitioners filed a motion with Judge Bongiovanni seeking sanctions for non-compliance with the Commissioner's January 19, 2022, order. Significantly, on January 9, 2023, Judge Bongiovanni entered an order regarding the video evidence and converted petitioners' motion for sanctions to one seeking to compel discovery.[4] That order discusses the long history of the video requests and orders the parties to complete discovery regarding those videos within sixty days.[5] Petitioners disagree with this order, and the District maintains that it disposes of the video discovery issues.

Notably, petitioners sought to disqualify Judge Bongiovanni, and the Office of Administrative Law's (OAL) Acting Director denied that request by letter order on November 7, 2022.[6] In other words, the earlier case involving the same HIB complaint continues with Judge Bongiovanni.

Following the alleged events in petitioner's HIB complaint, petitioners removed their minor child from school. The parents maintain that the school is hostile and unsafe because of the school's alleged failures regarding the HIB investigation, allowing bullying to continue, not providing discovery ordered by the Commissioner, obstructing justice, and delaying a hearing. Thus, petitioners assert that the District must provide their minor child with homebound instruction on an emergent basis.

On January 3, 2023, the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this case to the OAL for hearing as a contested case and resolution of petitioner's motion for emergency relief.

[4] Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14, an administrative law judge only has authority to issue sanctions for a party's unreasonable failure to comply with any order of that judge or non-compliance with the OAL rules.
[5] On January 12, 2023, the District supplied a copy of that Order.
[6] The OAL Director is the agency head for interlocutory review regarding judge disqualification under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j).

The Board provided the OAL with multiple documents regarding the videos on January 5, 2023, which the Clerk supplied to me after the case's reassignment.[7] On January 5, 2023, petitioners also supplemented their application.

I requested the Board submit a reply to the emergent application, which I received on January 6, 2023.

On January 9, 2023, petitioner M.M. advised that she and her son had COVID, and requested time to recover. I permitted additional submissions from the parties.

On January 12, 2023, the Board submitted additional materials.

On January 13, 2023, petitioners filed three submissions, including a response to the Board's opposition with attachments, a brief responding to Judge Bongiovanni's order, and exhibit about the request to disqualify Judge Bongiovanni.

The District brought truancy proceedings and disputes that the school is an unsafe or hostile environment or that its HIB denial was inaccurate. The District highlights that petitioners can request home instruction for health or psychological reasons, such as their son's fears, supported by medical documentation but supply none. Further, the District maintains that petitioners do not meet the standards for emergent relief.

I rescheduled oral argument for January 17, 2023, which I conducted by zoom and the record closed.[8]

[7] The OAL's clerk initially assigned the case to Judge Bongiovanni whom the OAL long ago scheduled as an emergent judge for January 9, 2023. After the petitioners requested case reassignment, the Acting Director assigned the emergent relief motion to me, and the OAL scheduled an oral argument for January 11, 2023.

[8] I held a conference to clarify the videos sought before the oral argument on the record given the voluminous submissions. Petitioners were unavailable before January 17, 2023, because of illness.

The Commissioner's jurisdiction encompasses "controversies and disputes arising under the school laws" under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, Dunellen Bd. of Educ. v. Dunellen Ed. Assoc., 64 N.J. 17, 23 (1973), the New Jersey Supreme Court concluded that "the Legislature enacted provisions entrusting school supervision and management to local school boards . . . subject to the supervisory control [of] . . . the State Commissioner of Education."

The regulations governing such disputes before the Commissioner provide that "[w]here the subject matter of the controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education or any other party subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, the petitioner may include with the petition of appeal, a separate motion for emergent relief or a stay of that action pending the Commissioner's final decision in the contested case." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a).

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) sets forth the standards governing motions for emergent relief and instructs that:

> A motion for a stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):
>
> > 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> > 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
> > 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> > 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

Indeed, the moving party must demonstrate each element "clearly and convincingly." Waste Management of N.J. v. Union County Utilities Authority, 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008). Emergent relief is designed "to 'prevent some threatening, irreparable mischief, which should be averted until opportunity is afforded for a full and deliberate investigation of the case.'" Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132 (citation omitted).

Harm is generally considered irreparable if monetary damages cannot adequately redress it. Id. at 132-33. In other words, courts describe irreparable harm as "'substantial injury to a material degree coupled with the inadequacy of money damages.'" Judice's Sunshine Pontiac, Inc. v. General Motors Corp., 418 F. Supp. 1212, 1218 (D.N.J. 1976) (citation omitted). Further, an applicant for emergent relief must demonstrate more than a risk of irreparable harm. Continental Group, Inc. v. Amoco Chemicals Corp., 614 F. 2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980). The requisite for injunctive relief requires a "'clear showing of immediate irreparable injury,'" or a "'presently existing actual threat; [an injunction] may not be used simply to eliminate a possibility of a future remote injury, or a future invasion of rights, be those rights protected by statute or by common law.'" Ibid. (citation omitted). Unsupported allegations of irreversible harm are insufficient to excuse the completion of administrative proceedings. Komninos by Komninos v. Upper Saddle River Bd. of Educ., 13 F.3d 775, 779 (3d Cir. 1994).

Significantly, petitioners argue the same HIB complaint failures here as in the case before Judge Bongiovanni. Should petitioners prevail in demonstrating that a HIB occurred and the District's determination to the contrary was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, consequences might include home instruction to the victim. See N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(7)(noting that a school has a range of ways it can respond once identifying an incident of HIB); see also. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-10.2 (a court can order home instruction for reasons other than medical). Yet, a plenary hearing has yet to address the disputed facts concerning the HIB complaints and its investigation.

Again, Judge Bongiovanni issued an order concerning the video evidence sought in this action. Should petitioners disagree with that order, they can seek interlocutory review from the Commissioner.

Here, petitioners removed their son from school before adjudicating the District's actions regarding their HIB complaint or investigation issues from January 2020. They allege the school is unsafe for their minor child without specificity other than disagreement with the District's handling of the HIB complaint, currently pending in another case, and vigorous litigation posture in various matters with petitioners. Petitioners' request for home instruction years after the alleged HIB incident detracts from the demand's emergent nature. Further, the loss of educational services was arguably self-inflicted, as the District argues. Petitioners speculate that bullying will continue, asserting their son fears returning to school. Yet, speculative harm is insufficient, and petitioners supply no medical documentation to support a medical need for such instruction.

Thus, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have not demonstrated irreparable harm necessary for emergent relief.

Settled Legal Right

Emergent relief "should be withheld when the legal right underlying plaintiff's claim is unsettled." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133 (citing Citizens Coach Co. v. Camden H. R. Co., 29 N.J.Eq. 299, 304-305 (E & A 1878)).

Notably, an action is moot when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the issues raised have become academic. For judicial economy and restraint, it is appropriate to refrain from decision-making when an issue presented is hypothetical, when judgment cannot grant effective relief, or the parties do not have concrete adversity of interest. Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976); Fox v. Twp. of E. Brunswick Bd. of Educ., EDU 10067-98, Initial Decision (March 19, 1999), aff'd, Comm'r (May 3, 1999), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; S.J. v. Bd. of Educ. of Mountain Lakes, EDU 07081-03, Initial Decision (October 7, 2003), aff'd, Comm'r (Nov. 17, 2003), aff'd, St. Bd. (Feb. 3, 2004). https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. Indeed, petitioners acknowledge that they filed this case because Judge Bongiovanni had yet to decide their motion.

Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.6, Judge Bongiovanni has wide powers over pre-hearing activities and in developing the record necessary to render an initial decision. Here, Judge Bongiovanni issued an Order addressing the petitioners' video discovery dispute concerning the same HIB complaint petitioners reference here. Petitioners dispute that order and now argue to overturn that order through this application and petition.

Further, the OAL's Acting Director denied petitioners' request to disqualify Judge Bongiovanni despite petitioners' assertions regarding his bias. Duplicative filings seeking to reach different results is inappropriate and the OAL's rules do not give me the authority to overrule another administrative law judge's discovery order. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4(c).(discussing duplicative filings); N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 (providing that the agency head reviews orders through interlocutory review or after the judge issues an initial decision. Given the orders of Judge Bongiovanni and the OAL's Acting Director, I CONCLUDE those portions of the petition and emergent application are moot.

To be sure, petitioners have the right to challenge the District's HIB determination. However, a contested hearing on the same HIB complaint has yet to occur in OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00546-22. Further, petitioners cite no authority that requires a District to provide home instruction at its cost under these circumstances. Petitioners supply no medical documentation to support this request and have yet to demonstrate that the District's HIB denial was contrary to the law, arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Therefore, I CONCLUDE petitioners have not satisfied this requirement for emergent relief.

Likelihood of Success on the Merits

Under the third emergent relief standard, "a plaintiff must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 133 (citing Ideal Laundry Co. v. Gugliemone, 107 N.J. Eq. 108, 115-16 (E. & A. 1930)). This requirement is often implicitly tied to whether the right to the underlying claim is settled.

Each school district must provide a thorough and efficient education system to all its resident children. N.J. Const. art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1; N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1. To carry out this policy, local boards of education have discretionary authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1C. Indeed, a presumption of lawfulness and good faith applies to a board of education's actions. In challenges to board actions, the challenger bears the burden of proving that such acts were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Schuster v. Bd. of Educ. Montgomery Twp., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 670, 676 (citing Schnick v. Westwood Ed. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), and Quinlan v. Bd. of Educ. of North Bergen Twp., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962).

The "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" standard of review imposes a heavy burden on challengers of board actions and "means having no rational basis." Piccoli v. Ed. of Educ. of Ramapo Indian Hills Regional School District, OAL DKT. EDU 1839-98 (January 22, 1999) (citing Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dent. of Envir. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

Again, a plenary hearing must occur to resolve petitioners' disputed claims against the District, which weighs against granting emergent relief. Indeed, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have supplied inadequate evidence to support a likelihood of success on the merits to warrant emergent relief.[9]

Balancing of the Equities

Lastly, petitioners fail to meet the fourth emergent relief standard, which involves "the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 134 (citing Isolantite Inc. v. United Elect. Radio & Mach. Workers, 130 N.J.Eq. 506, 515 (Ch.1941), mod. on other grounds, 132 N.J.Eq. 613 (E. & A. 1942)). Petitioners must demonstrate that they will suffer more significant harm than the Board if this tribunal does not grant the requested relief. Moreover, petitioners must show that "the inconvenience or loss to the opposing party will be minimal if the relief is obtained." Zoning Bd. 8 of Adjustment of Sparta Tp. v. Service Elec. Cable Television of New Jersey, Inc., 198 N.J. Super. 370, 379 (App. Div. 1985).

[9] I am mindful that petitioners assert that they need the disputed video evidence to supply that proof. Still, emergent relief requires that petitioners demonstrate a likelihood of success.

The District sought to prevent the release of voluminous security footage that necessarily includes images of staff and many other minor students, potentially compromising the privacy interests of hundreds of individuals. Still, the District provided nearly six hours of footage to the petitioners after the Commissioner transmitted the case before Judge Bongiovanni to the OAL Regardless, Judge Bongiovanni issued an Order regarding the remaining videos, making this issue moot.

If I deny emergent home instruction, petitioners assert that their minor child may not receive educational services. Yet, this is a parental decision, not one by the District. The parents have yet to demonstrate that the District's denial of HIB against their minor child was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. While I appreciate the petitioners' frustration in the legal process, they chose to remove their child from school. Petitioners cite no legal basis to require a District to bear the cost and inconvenience of home instruction absent a finding concerning the impropriety of its actions or evidence of an unsafe school environment. The petitioners' assertion that their son is afraid to return to school could be supported by evidence supporting a medical need for home instruction but is not. The District's disagreement with petitioners about video evidence or in seeking dismissal of earlier actions on legal grounds has little to do with the safety of a school. Thus, the equities favor the District.

Based on the above discussion, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' request for emergent relief does not meet requirements under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 and must be DENIED.

ORDER

Therefore, I ORDER that petitioner's request for emergency relief be and is hereby DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the Commissioner of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Final Decision

B.B., on behalf of minor child, A.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Paulsboro, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

In these consolidated matters, petitioner B.B. challenged the determination of the respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Paulsboro (Board), in regard to a Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) complaint made on behalf of her daughter, A.S., against the coach of the girls track team at Paulsboro High School. Petitioner alleged that incidents which occurred during the 2019 spring track season had prompted thoughts of self-harm in A.S. The Board determined that petitioner's allegations did not constitute HIB.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner was not afforded the due process required by the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq.; specifically, petitioner was not provided an opportunity to appear before the Board, was not provided a summary of the HIB investigation, and did not receive a written decision indicating the Board's rationale for its determination that there had been no HIB; although petitioner was never afforded an opportunity to appear before the Board, the hearing in this matter at the Office of Administration Law (OAL) provided a full evidentiary hearing on the merits; there was no evidence that the coach treated A.S. in a hostile manner; further, HIB must be motivated by an actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic, a critical element that is missing in this case. The ALJ concluded that the allegations contained in the petitions of appeal do not meet the legal standards of the HIB statute; accordingly, the ALJ dismissed the consolidated petitions.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, the Commissioner agreed that the alleged conduct does not constitute HIB as there is no evidence that it was motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic of A.S. The Commissioner also agreed with the ALJ's findings that the Board did not comply with the Act in conducting its HIB investigations, but petitioner ultimately received a full evidentiary hearing through the proceedings at the OAL. Accordingly, the consolidated petitions were dismissed.

Final Decision

B.B., on behalf of minor child, A.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Paulsboro, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner and the Paulsboro Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto.

These consolidated matters stem from a harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) complaint filed by petitioner on behalf of her daughter, A.S., against the coach of Paulsboro's girls track team. A.S. was a student at the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT) but was a member of the track team at Paulsboro. Petitioner alleged that her daughter had thoughts of self-harm as a result of incidents that occurred during the 2019 spring track season. Petitioner filed an HIB complaint on or about January 23, 2020,[1] alleging that her daughter was subjected to a hostile environment after she refused to run the 4x100 relay and opted to visit family instead of competing in the West Deptford relays. The Board's anti-bullying specialist conducted the HIB investigation, interviewing A.S. and several students, but not the track coach or any other athletic personnel. In her statement, A.S. alleged that: she was pressured to run specific events; the coach would say bad things about her so other students would be mad at her; and the coach would be upset when she was too slow getting dressed or warming up. In a follow up interview, A.S. indicated that she runs track for a scholarship but really wants to play soccer. The HIB investigation was completed on February 21, 2020 and found that there was no HIB violation. The matter was reported to the Board on March 30, 2020, and the Board confirmed the HIB determination at its meeting on April 27, 2020. Thereafter, petitioner was informed that after a complete investigation, there was no evidence of an HIB incident.

Petitioner filed these consolidated petitions challenging the HIB determination.[2] At a hearing on the merits, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) heard testimony from the petitioner, the accused track coach, the superintendent, the athletic trainer, three assistant track coaches, the principal, the assistant principal, and the anti-bullying specialist who conducted the HIB investigation. The ALJ found that petitioner was not afforded the due process required by the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. Specifically, the ALJ found that petitioner was not provided an opportunity to appear before the Board, was not provided a summary of the HIB investigation, and did not receive a written decision indicating the Board's rationale for its determination that there had been no HIB. Additionally, the ALJ noted that the investigation was tainted because there were no interviews with coaching staff and the accused was never advised of the investigation. However, the ALJ found that, "In this case, it makes no sense to return this matter to the Board to correct the procedural errors set forth herein.

Although petitioner was never afforded an opportunity to appear before the Board, she has now been afforded a full evidentiary hearing on the merits." (Initial Decision at 19). Ultimately, the ALJ concluded that there was no evidence that the coach treated A.S. in a hostile manner. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that HIB must be motivated by a distinguishing characteristic and that critical element is missing here, so the allegations do not meet the statutory definition of HIB.

In her exceptions, petitioner alleges that the ALJ failed to include certain factual details or testimony pertaining to the Board's failure to follow HIB policy; further, the ALJ erred in referencing specific dates and in failing to admit some exhibits into evidence. Petitioner also argues that the ALJ erred in finding that the testimony of the assistant coaches did not include any observations of improper behavior, as those coaches did not work closely with A.S. and would not have witnessed any of the incidents in question. According to petitioner, the anti-bullying specialist did not conduct a proper investigation in the way that she gathered information and conducted witness interviews; further, the anti-bullying specialist failed to contact GCIT to determine the full effect of the alleged HIB incidents on A.S.'s education at GCIT. Petitioner contends that the ALJ erred in finding that A.S. and her sisters' statements did not contain specific incidents of mistreatment, abuse or intimidation, and that another student did not detail specific incidents of mistreatment, yelling, or being forced to compete while injured. Furthermore, petitioner points out that the ALJ found that the investigation was tainted with procedural errors; petitioner therefore argues that the hearing in this matter was to determine if the Board's investigation was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, and not for petitioner to conduct the HIB investigation for the Board and give the Board a second opportunity. As such, the petitioner argues that the ALJ erred in finding that A.S. did not experience HIB.

In reply, the Board argues that petitioner's exceptions mainly consist of de minimis issues that are irrelevant to the ultimate determination on the merits. The Board agrees with the ALJ that despite the ALJ's findings regarding procedural errors in the HIB investigation, the petitioner was afforded a full evidentiary hearing in this forum. The Board points out that petitioner called nine witnesses, including herself, and none of the witnesses alleged that A.S. had a distinguishing characteristic as required for an HIB determination. Accordingly, the Board agrees with the ALJ that the petitioner allegations did not meet the legal standard of HIB.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the alleged conduct does not constitute HIB. In order for conduct to meet the statutory definition of HIB, it must be "reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the record does not demonstrate that the alleged conduct was motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic of A.S. Accordingly, the alleged conduct cannot be considered HIB.

The Commissioner also agrees with the ALJ that the Board did not comply with the Act in conducting its HIB investigations. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15b(6)(d) provides:

> [P]arents or guardians of the students who are parties to the investigation shall be entitled to receive information about the investigation, in accordance with federal and State law and regulation, including the nature of the investigation, whether the district found evidence of harassment, intimidation, or bullying, or whether discipline was imposed or services provided to address > the incident of harassment, intimidation, or bullying. This information shall be provided in writing within 5 school days after the results of the investigation are reported to the board. A parent or guardian may request a hearing before the board after receiving the information, and the hearing shall be held within 10 days of the request. The board shall meet in executive session for the hearing to protect the confidentiality of the students. At the hearing the board may hear from the school anti-bullying specialist about the incident, recommendations for discipline or services, and any programs instituted to reduce such incidents[.]

Here, petitioner was not provided with information about the investigation within five school days after the results of the investigation were reported to the Board, nor was she provided with an opportunity for a Board hearing. The Commissioner notes that, although she was not given the opportunity to appear before the Board, petitioner was afforded a full evidentiary hearing in the OAL that included her testimony, as well as testimony from the antibullying specialist, the accused, the superintendent, the principal, the assistant principal, the athletic director, and three assistant track coaches. In this circumstance, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that remanding this matter to the Board for a hearing is unnecessary given the full hearing on the merits that petitioner has now been afforded.

The Commissioner is not persuaded by petitioner's exceptions, many of which dispute minor details that do not have any bearing on the outcome of this matter. The Commissioner notes that any disagreement regarding the relevance of the assistant coaches' testimony lacks merit as they were petitioner's witnesses. The Commissioner also finds that exceptions regarding the ALJ's characterization of the testimony of A.S. and other students do not have an impact on this matter as they fail to demonstrate that A.S. had an actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic. Additionally, any exceptions regarding procedural errors in the HIB investigation are of no moment as the ALJ and Commissioner have already acknowledged those defects. Finally, the Board was not provided with a second opportunity to conduct the HIB investigation because a hearing at the OAL is part of the administrative process.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the consolidated petitions are hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: October 3, 2022 Decided: November 15, 2022

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioning parent, B.B., challenged the respondent's, Board of Education of the Borough of Paulsboro (Board), response to her Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) complaint, made on behalf of her daughter, A.S., against Paulsboro High School (Paulsboro) girl's track coach. The Board determined that her allegations did not constitute HIB.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a request for emergent relief on March 7, 2020, with the New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE). On March 10, 2020, the NJDOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case, under Docket No. EDU 03599-20. The matter was heard before the Honorable Jeffery R. Wilson, ALJ, on March 17, 2020. Judge Wilson entered an Order denying the request for emergent relief on the same date. On April 24, 2020, the New Jersey Commissioner of Education adopted the Order and directed the matter be returned to the OAL.

On or about April 21, 2020, the respondent filed and served an answer to the petition. On April 25, 2020, the petitioner filed a document described as "my reply to the respondent's answer submitted." On April 27, 2020, the respondent filed a motion to strike the petitioner's April 21, 2020, reply as an impermissible pleading. By Letter Order, dated January 12, 2021, Judge Wilson granted respondent's motion.

On May 1, 2020, the respondent file a motion for summary decision, under Docket No. EDU 03599-20. The petitioner filed her opposition on May 7, 2020, and the respondent filed its reply on May 21, 2020.

On May 28, 2020, while the summary decision motion was pending, the petitioner filed a motion to compel discovery. Two days later, on June 20, 2020, the petitioner filed a request to amend her petition.

On June 29, 2020, the petitioner filed a second, related petition, under Docket No. EDU 06458-20. On January 12, 2021, the respondent filed a motion for summary decision under Docket No. EDU 06458-20. An order was entered on January 14, 2021, consolidating Dockets Nos. EDU 03599-20 and EDU 06458-20.

On January 14, 2021, the petitioner filed a motion to strike the respondent's motion for summary decision under Docket No. 06458-20. On January 18, 2021, the respondent filed its response to the petitioner's motion to strike.

On January 20, 2021, the petitioner filed her opposition to the motion for summary decision, under Docket No. EDU 06458-20. On January 22, 2021, the respondent filed its formal reply to petitioner's opposition. After hearing oral argument on March 15, 2021, by Zoom platform, Judge Wilson entered an order on September 7, 2021, denying respondent's motions for summary decision. Judge Wilson directed that the matter would proceed to a hearing, solely addressing the required elements of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act.

On September 30, 2021, Judge Wilson entered a Prehearing Order wherein he set a discovery deadline of November 30, 2021. On October 27, 2021, petitioner filed a motion to compel discovery. By Letter Order, dated November 9, 2021, Judge Wilson denied petitioner's motion to compel discovery.

On December 8, 2021, respondent filed a motion to dismiss the consolidated petitions of appeal. On December 10, 2021, petitioner filed an opposition to respondent's motion. Respondent replied on December 13, 2021. Judge Wilson converted the hearing date of January 13, 2022, to oral argument on the motion. Before oral argument was heard, Judge Wilson recused himself after petitioner filed a motion for his recusal which was opposed by respondent. Thereafter, the case was reassigned to me, and I heard oral argument on February 18, 2022. I issued an Order dated March 21, 2022, denying respondent's request for sanctions.

The hearings were held on July 7, 2022, and July 13, 2022. As an accommodation to respondent's witness, the July 7, 2022, hearing was conducted via Zoom platform.

After the last hearing, the parties requested additional time to obtain transcripts and submit written summations. After granting an extension for receipt of closing summation briefs, I closed the record on October 3, 2022.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The following events, derived from the testimony, the pleadings, and the documents, are not materially controverted. Thus, I FIND them as FACT:

Petitioner, B.B., is the mother of A.S. A.S. attended Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT) but participated in the Paulsboro track program as a resident of the Paulsboro School District.

On or about October 22, 2019, A.S. gave her parents, B.B. and F.S., a letter, wherein A.S. expressed thoughts about self-harm. B.B. related her daughter's feelings to incidents which occurred during the 2019 spring track season. Because of the letter, F.S. contacted Marvin Hamilton, a Board member, with his concerns. Mr. Hamilton brought F.S.'s concerns about his daughter to the attention of the Superintendent, Dr. Walter Quint.

Dr. Quint conducted what he termed a "HIB-like" investigation. On or about January 21, 2020, Dr. Quint informed B.B. that his "HIB-like" investigation had not found any evidence of a HIB incident involving A.S. and her track coach. Not satisfied with this response, on January 23, 2020, the petitioner submitted a written request for a full HIB investigation.

The HIB investigation was assigned to the Anti-Bullying Specialist, Ms. Jessica Rose Johnson, for the 2019–2020 school year; after investigating, she found no evidence of a HIB violation. Ms. Johnson completed her investigation on February 21, 2020. On March 30, 2020, the HIB case was reported to the Board as "a follow-up to a "HIB-like" investigation with the determination of "Non-HIB" and "No Action Required." (R-2.) The Superintendent's recommendation was confirmed by the Board at its meeting on April 27, 2020. Id. By letter, dated April 28, 2020, Principal Paul Morina informed petitioner that after a complete investigation, there was no evidence of a HIB incident. (R-1.)

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d), as the parent, B.B. was entitled to receive information about the investigation and whether Paulsboro found evidence of HIB within five days of Paulsboro submitting the results of its investigation to the Board, which occurred on March 30, 2020. Upon receipt of this information, B.B. had the right to request a hearing before the Board in executive session. B.B. never received the information and was never afforded a hearing before the Board. Her only notification about the HIB investigation was set forth in the letter, dated April 28, 2022, when Principal Morina informed her that "[a]fter a complete investigation, the administration did not find evidence of a HIB incident." This letter was sent after the Board had met and voted to uphold the recommendation.

Testimony

Respondent

Dr. Walter Quint testified on behalf of the respondent. He was the interim superintendent during the 2019–2020 school year when petitioner lodged her HIB complaint. Dr. Quint had previously served as the Superintendent of Paulsboro School District from 1990 to 2001. He returned as the interim superintendent for two years during, the 2013–2014 and 2014–2015 school years and was asked to return for the final time for the 2019–2020 school year. Before his retirement, Dr. Quint had over fifty years of service in the education field.

As Superintendent, Dr. Quint is responsible for ensuring that the school's HIB policy is carried out correctly. He reviews the investigation report and must either confirm or deny its findings. Ultimately, he is responsible for reporting the HIB results to the Board. He has performed his role as superintendent in numerous HIB investigations throughout his career.

The investigation at issue was conducted under his watch. As the Superintendent during the 2019–2020 school year, Dr. Quint was familiar with the HIB policy. This was the same policy that was in effect during the 2018–2019 school year. (R-4.)

In October 2019, the Vice-President of the Board of Education, Mr. Hamilton, gave Dr. Quint a portion of a letter that had been purportedly written by a member of the Paulsboro track team wherein this student, A.S., expressed a desire for self-harm. Because the student did not attend Paulsboro, Dr. Quint notified the principal and the superintendent of GCIT, where the student attended. Paulsboro had not had any contact with the student since track ended in May 2019. As the letter referenced concerns which occurred during the spring 2019 track season, Dr. Quint also notified Paulsboro's athletic director.

The student's mother, B.B., addressed the Board at its meeting on December 16, 2019. Dr. Quint did not remember any specifics regarding B.B.'s comments to the Board but he recalled speaking with her. Because of her concerns, he asked his staff to conduct a "HIB like" investigation. "HIB-like" was Dr. Quint's characterization of the investigation. He believed that GCIT was working with A.S. regarding her emotional well-being so he focused on whether there was a hostile situation within the track and field community at Paulsboro. Dr. Quint added that his sole concern was for A.S.'s well-being.

In an abundance of caution, Dr. Quint contacted the Division of Child Protection and Permanency (DCP&P) and requested an institutional abuse investigation. DCP&P declined to investigate.

Dr. Quint asked the Athletic Director, Mr. Giovannitti, to investigate and interview anyone who would have information or knowledge about the culture within the track program. Due to his long association with the school, Dr. Quint was personally familiar with many of the coaches. Therefore, he did his own investigating and personally spoke to coaches to see if they knew anything that would have contributed to the negativity that A.S. was feeling. Recalling that one of the allegations involved athletes being forced to compete while injured, Dr. Quint asked the trainer if A.S. had ever sought medical help.

The trainer recalled no one talking about mistreatment of any kind. None of the coaches reported seeing or hearing anything that would suggest wrongdoing by the track coach.

Dr. Quint recalled speaking to B.B. about his findings after the "HIB-like" investigation. She expressed her dissatisfaction, so he told her to formally request a HIB investigation. After B.B. requested the investigation, Dr. Quint assigned it to the HIB Coordinator, Mr. Giovannitti, who was also the school's Athletic Director; and the HIB Specialist, Ms. Johnson, to investigate. After reviewing the investigative findings (R-3), Dr. Quint was satisfied that B.B.'s complaint did not meet the definitions or criteria for a HIB claim. He also noted that both investigations revealed the same result.

Referring to the school's policy, there are two options for consideration when a HIB report is made. When Dr. Quint was presented with the portion of A.S.'s letter, he saw nothing in the letter that indicated the matter should be investigated as a HIB. Even though he did not view the matter as a HIB, he still felt that any suggestion of wrongdoing should be investigated. At B.B.'s request, Dr. Quint agreed to perform a thorough investigation that he termed "HIB-like" because the claims did not meet the definition of a HIB. His initial investigation did not show any wrongdoing on the part of the coach. When B.B. did not agree with his assessment, Dr. Quint agreed to perform a HIB investigation.

Dr. Quint did not document his conversations with the coaches and trainer during his "HIB-like" investigation. He recalled finding nothing to indicate that the head coach did anything that rose to the level of a HIB violation. However, he maintained that there was a full HIB investigation conducted separate and apart from his "HIB-like" investigation.

When asked if the Board receives the entire HIB investigation, Dr. Quint responded that the Board only receives the investigation results. In this instance, because the result was "no action required," the Board only received the case number, date of incident, status of investigation, and type of discipline imposed. (R-2.)

When B.B. addressed the Board in December 2019, Dr. Quint stated there were three issues. The first issue was making sure A.S. was receiving proper services due to her threat of self-harm. The second issue was whether there was any wrongdoing by the head coach. The third issue involved the head coaching position and whether it had been properly advertised. A.S.'s father had also applied for the position. Dr. Quint commented that in 2019, the track team won the State championship and Coach Gunter had been named coach of the year.

Petitioner

Gabrielle Prendergast was the athletic trainer for Paulsboro. She held this position from September 2017 until June 2020. During her time as athletic trainer, Ms. Prendergast did not recall being questioned or interviewed for a "HIB-like" investigation involving A.S.

David Platt was the cross-country coach from 1977 until 2009, and then the assistant distance girl's track coach from 1988 until 2020. He is currently retired from Paulsboro. Mr. Platt was never questioned by school administrators regarding any issues with the girls track team. As a distance coach, Mr. Platt did not coach or work with petitioner's children.

Anita Evans was a teacher in the elementary school in the Paulsboro School District for thirty-four years. During her last eight years, she was a paid coach for the girl's track and field team. Since her retirement, she has served as a volunteer coach for the past seven years. During the 2019 track season, Ms. Evans was a volunteer coach for field events. She did not work with the sprinters or distance runners. No member of administration ever approached her about concerns with the girl's track team during the 2019 track season.

Although she was never interviewed, she never witnessed harassment, intimidation, bullying, or any improper behavior by any coach associated with the girl's track team. She witnessed interactions between coaches and athletes but never witnessed any athlete being mistreated or treated differently.

Paulette Cwik has been an assistant volunteer track coach at Paulsboro High School since 2002. From 1976 until 2001, Coach Cwik was the head coach of the team. After her retirement, she volunteered as an assistant. She was an assistant coach during the 2019 spring track season when the conduct outlined in the HIB complaint allegedly occurred. Although Coach Cwik was also accused, she was never informed or notified about the HIB investigation. She felt that if there were allegations against her, she should have been interviewed.

Coach Cwik never saw anything improper or anything that could be considered harassment, intimidation, or bullying of any of the girls on the team. In her opinion, all the athletes were treated equally.

Coach Cwik stated that the athletes were part of a team and subject to team rules. In response to B.B.'s question, Coach Cwik recalled the situation when A.S. refused to run in the 4 x 100 relay race. On the day of the race, Coach Cwik approached A.S.'s father about why A.S. was not running in the race. She recalled that her conversation about the race was with A.S.'s father and did not recall whether A.S. was present. The coaching staff had not been informed until the day of the relay that A.S. was not going to run. This was the South Jersey Sectional Meet, and A.S. was an integral part of the four-person relay team.

Coach Cwik was also asked about Coach Gunter yelling at B.B.'s daughters for missing the West Deptford relays during the 2019 season. She did not recall anyone yelling. Coach Cwik only recalled that the coaching staff was informed the night before the track meet that the triplets would not be participating. She never witnessed Coach Gunter harass, intimidate, or bully A.S.

Euridee Gunter is a substitute teacher at Paulsboro and the head girl's track and field coach. Her employment with the school began in 1996. Coach Gunter was never notified that she was the subject of a HIB or "HIB-like" investigation for actions involving A.S. during the 2019 track season. No one interviewed her.

On cross-examination, Coach Gunter stated that she never pressured A.S. to run events against her will. She was only aware of allegations that A.S. has considered harming herself because she was present at the December 2019 Board meeting when B.B. addressed the Board.

Paul Morina has been the Principal of Paulsboro High School for the past sixteen years. He is familiar with the school policy regarding reporting and investigating HIB complaints. He sends all incidents to the HIB coordinator for investigation. The HIB coordinator conducts the investigation to determine whether the complaint constitutes a HIB violation. Mr. Morina works closely with the HIB coordinator. They do not predetermine any incident. All allegations are investigated.

Mr. Morina was not aware of any "HIB-like" investigation. As principal, Mr. Morina was required to sign the HIB investigation report. The report did not list Coach Gunter as being interviewed. Coach Gunter was listed as the aggressor, but she was never interviewed as part of the investigation. There was no written report contained in the investigation. The investigation was not completed within ten days. In reviewing the investigation report, Mr. Morina commented that it appeared as if pages were missing.

The Board does not see the investigation report. The Board receives a list of how many HIB complaints were investigated and the disposition of those complaints. Mr. Morina did not know what would happen if any Board member had questions about the investigation. After Board approval, Mr. Morina sends a letter to the parents telling them the results of the investigation. He signed the letter sent to B.B. that was dated April 28, 2022. (R-1.)

Mr. Morina did not recall the specifics of the incident involving A.S. but he stated that every incident is investigated.

John Giovannitti is the Assistant Principal for grades seven and eight and he is the Athletic Director for grades seven through twelve. He also serves as the Affirmative Action Officer and the District HIB Coordinator. He has been employed by Paulsboro for thirty-four years. Generally, when a HIB complaint is made, it is reported to the principal, who sends it to the Anti-Bullying Specialist. The Anti-Bullying Specialist has ten days to investigate, make an initial determination, and report back to the principal. After reviewing, the principal signs the report, and gives it to the HIB Coordinator for review. The HIB coordinator signs the report, and forwards it to the Superintendent for final review. The Superintendent submits the results to the Board.

Mr. Giovannitti was clear that all complaints are investigated. There is no predetermination about whether a complaint is HIB or not.

Dr. Quint asked him to conduct a HIB-like investigation to determine if there were problems within the girls track program. His recollection was vague, but he recalled conducting some interviews with coaches. He believed he spoke to all the coaches involved with the track program.

Mr. Giovannitti has no contact with the Board. He interacts with the school principals and the superintendent on HIB issues. Acknowledging that the school has lots of policies, he expressed no knowledge of a "HIB-like" policy. He only recalled being asked by Dr. Quint to find out if there were any concerns with the track team.

As Athletic Director, Mr. Giovannitti observes practices and sporting events. He never observed any issues, so he asked some general questions about coaches raising their voices or actions that could be interpreted as mistreating a player. Based on his observations and conversations, he did not find any impropriety.

Mr. Giovannitti stated that the HIB complaint was dated January 23, 2020. He recalled speaking to A.S.'s father on February 7, 2020, at a basketball game to coordinate a time to interview his daughters about the complaint. He could provide no information why he was told to arrange the interviews through F.S. as opposed to B.B.

Mr. Giovannitti stated that it is the policy to send a letter from the superintendent after the matter is submitted to the Board. He did not know what occurred here. He was aware that as the identified aggressor in the complaint, Coach Gunter should have received a letter, but he did not know whether that occurred. Over the years, Mr. Giovannitti spoke with and observed Coach Gunter.

Jessica Rose Johnson is a school psychologist with the Paulsboro School District, who served as the Anti-Bullying Specialist for the 2019–2020 school year. As part of her responsibilities, she investigated HIB complaints. For the HIB complaint against Coach Gunter, Ms. Johnson only interviewed students involved with the team. She understood that Dr. Quint and Mr. Giovannitti had spoken to the adult personnel involved. In a typical HIB investigation, Ms. Johnson would have conducted the full investigation. She was not privy to any interviews conducted by Dr. Quint and Mr. Giovannitti.

In her experience, when there was a report of a potential HIB, the complaint was always investigated. She received this complaint on January 23, 2020. After receiving a general overview of the complaint, Ms. Johnson recalled not being comfortable interviewing school personnel. She expressed her concerns and understood that Mr. Giovannitti and Dr. Quint would interview the school personnel involved.

Based on the information Ms. Johnson collected, she found no evidence of a HIB incident. She put the "no" on the HIB form solely based on the information that she collected. (R-3.) Her investigation did not contain any statements from personnel or coaches. Ms. Johnson does not make the final decision on whether a HIB occurred. She did not believe her decision was complete because there was no statement from the accused. However, she believed that her investigation gave her the information she needed to decide whether HIB occurred. She determined that it had not.

When conducting her investigation, Ms. Johnson looked for corroboration of the allegations in the complaint and evidence of a HIB. In asking her interview questions, Ms. Johnson tried to keep the identity of the complainant confidential by asking general questions to illicit information.

B.B. testified on her own behalf. She believed that her daughter's expressed desire to harm herself was related to her treatment during the 2019 spring track season.

The two main incidents in the complaint stemmed from A.S.'s decision not to run the 4 x 100 relay, and her decision not to compete in the West Deptford relays so she could visit family. B.B. believed that because of these two decisions, the coaching staff subjected A.S. to a hostile environment. B.B. expressed her concerns directly to the Athletic Director, but nothing was ever done.

B.B. knew something had been bothering A.S. Eventually, A.S. put her feelings in a letter which she gave to her parents in October 2019. Dr. Quint was notified by a Board member of a portion of the letter wherein A.S. related she wanted to harm herself because of mistreatment from her track coach.

After Dr. Quint notified GCIT, A.S.'s case manager contacted B.B. and recommended a psychological evaluation. This resulted in therapy and services for A.S. to help her cope. B.B. believed it affected her education. B.B. recalled receiving an email dated May 16, 2019, from one of A.S.'s teachers notifying her that A.S. was struggling in class. B.B. attributed these struggles to what was occurring at track. Her school struggles continued into the following year.

After not hearing anything from Dr. Quint since the October notification, B.B. attended the December 16, 2019, Board meeting and addressed the Board about the problems her daughter experienced during the 2019 spring track season. Coach Gunter's contract was on the agenda, but the Board decided not to vote on it at that meeting.

On January 21, 2020, B.B. sent an email to Dr. Quint because she had not heard any results of his investigation. When Dr. Quint informed her that no action was going to be taken, B.B. requested a full HIB investigation. The only information B.B. ever received from Paulsboro was the April 28, 2020, letter with one line that stated there was no confirmation of a HIB incident.

B.B. reviewed the school's policy for conducting a HIB investigation and believes that the school did not follow its own policy in conducting the investigation of her complaint against Coach Gunter. She was never notified that the HIB investigation was sent to the Board on March 30, 2020. She follows the Board meeting calendar, so B.B. knew when the Board met, but she never received anything about her complaint from the Superintendent. The only document she ever received was after the fact on April 28, 2020.

ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACT

It is the obligation of the fact finder to weigh the credibility of the witnesses, and consider the witness's interest in the outcome, motive, or bias. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness's testimony. Credibility is best described as that quality of testimony or evidence that makes it worthy of belief. "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observations of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950).

Dr. Quint was the only witness for respondent. Given his years of experience as a superintendent, his familiarity with the staff and faculty at Paulsboro, and his HIB experience, his testimony provided valuable insight. From his testimony, it was clear that when Dr. Quint was informed that a member of the track team had expressed suicidal ideations, his motivation was the welfare of the student/athlete. Although he never viewed this matter as a HIB, his actions in conducting an informal investigation, which he referred to as "HIB-like," may have been well-intentioned but clearly contributed to procedural irregularities with the HIB investigation and the corresponding mistrust expressed by B.B. Although none of petitioner's witnesses recollected being interviewed in a "HIB-like" investigation, it is impossible to confirm, based on the record, who Dr. Quint spoke to regarding his "HIB-like" investigation and what information, if any, they provided. Although Dr. Quint testified that he conducted his own investigation into the culture and atmosphere of the track team, his lack of specificity and documentation discredited his investigation. It was also clear, from the witnesses presented by petitioner, that neither the trainer nor the members of the coaching staff had any recollection of being interviewed.

Coach Cwik was a witness with first-hand knowledge. Her testimony was forthright, without bias or motivation, and sincere. Her long-standing association with the track team and knowledge of the incidents that gave rise to petitioner's complaint made her a valuable and insightful witness. While Coach Cwik confirmed that she had not been interviewed or even informed about the HIB investigation, her testimony showed that the events involving A.S.'s decision not to compete in certain events did not constitute HIB. I accept Coach Cwik's testimony that she witnessed no yelling, intimidation, or bulling by Coach Gunter as credible.

The testimony from Principal Morina and Athletic Director/HIB Coordinator Giovannitti provided little detail about the investigation. Memories had faded after so many years and neither witness could provide much information. Principal Morina's testimony highlighted the confusion generated by the "HIB-like" investigation and missing pieces within the investigation, including a statement from the accused, Coach Gunter. Mr. Giovannitti's testimony was like Dr. Quint's in that it lacked specificity and corroboration from any of the coaching staff.

The testimony of Jessica Rose Johnson was highly persuasive. She conducted the HIB investigation of the victim, her sisters, and other members of the girls track team. She had read the entire letter written by A.S. and used that letter as the basis for formulating her questions. She investigated whether A.S. was pressured unfairly by her coach, threatened, or disparaged from the viewpoint of the victim. She candidly admitted her investigation was not complete because she did not have a statement from the accused or knowledge of any interviews with coaching staff. Despite that, Ms. Johnson had discretion to determine who to interview and what questions to ask. She testified that the questionnaires she prepared for the student/athletes, the responses she received, and the victim's sisters' written statements all provided her with the information she needed to determine that the incident was not a violation of HIB.

B.B. also offered testimony to highlight procedural irregularities with the HIB investigation and showed instances where Paulsboro deviated from its own policies.

Upon consideration of the above testimony and the documents in evidence, I FIND the following as additional FACTS:

On January 23, 2020, the HIB investigation into allegations of harassment by Coach Gunter against A.S. was assigned to Ms. Johnson, the Anti-Bullying Specialist. The investigation was not completed within ten days and there was no statement in the Investigation Report from the accused.

The Investigation Report (R-3) was prepared by Ms. Johnson. Ms. Johnson asked A.S. a series of questions based on the information contained in the letter that B.B. shared with her. There was nothing contained in A.S.'s answers that identified specific incidents of mistreatment, abuse, or intimidation. A.S. and her two sisters submitted written statements. There was nothing in their statements that contained specific incidents identifying mistreatment, abuse, or intimidation; instead, their statements contained expressions of their own feelings and reactions to the events. A HIB Questionnaire was completed by K.R., a member of the track team. Her answers provided no specifics of mistreatment, yelling, or being forced to compete while injured. Questionnaires were also completed by two other members of the track team who recalled no issues with anyone being unkind or any athletes being forced to compete while injured. (R-3.)

Member of the coaching staff never witnessed Coach Gunter yelling, threatening, intimidating, or mistreating A.S. or any other member of the team.

A.S. may have experienced the pressure of being a star athlete on a championship team, but there is no evidence in this record that she experienced bullying, intimidation, or harassment from her head coach.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

This appeal asks that I consider whether the conduct engaged in by Coach Gunter rose to bullying as defined by law, and whether petitioner was afforded adequate due process during the course of the HIB investigation. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 defines HIB to include:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act . . . whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds . . . that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging a student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
> b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14]

Districts are required by law to adopt policies that prohibit HIB; that outline expectations for student behavior; that set forth consequences for inappropriate behavior; and create procedures for reporting HIB related concerns. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15. A school anti-bullying specialist must be assigned to each school, and the results of HIB investigations must be shared with the Superintendent of Schools and the Board of Education. Moreover, the law specifically requires as follows:

> (c) the results of each investigation shall be reported to the board of education no later than the date of the board of education meeting next following the completion of the investigation, along with information on any services > provided, training established, discipline imposed, or other action taken or recommended by the superintendent;

> (d) parents or guardians of the students who are parties to the investigation shall be entitled to receive information about the investigation, in accordance with federal and State law and regulation, including the nature of the investigation, whether the district found evidence of harassment, intimidation, or bullying, or whether discipline was imposed or services provided to address the incident of harassment, intimidation, or bullying. This information shall be provided in writing within 5 school days after the results of the investigation are reported to the board. A parent or guardian may request a hearing before the board after receiving the information, and the hearing shall be held within 10 days of the request. The board shall meet in executive session for the hearing to protect the confidentiality of the students. At the hearing the board may hear from the school anti-bullying specialist about the incident, recommendations for discipline or services, and any programs instituted to reduce such incidents;
> (e) at the next board of education meeting following its receipt of the report, the board shall issue a decision, in writing, to affirm, reject, or modify the superintendent's decision. The board's decision may be appealed to the Commissioner of Education, in accordance with the procedures set forth in law and regulation, no later than 90 days after the issuance of the board's decision . . . .
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15 (emphasis supplied).]

Regulations promulgated by the Department of Education further assist local districts in complying with these statutory requirements. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.9. The Commissioner has recognized that these requirements have equal applicability when a bullying charge is directed against a staff member. See K.T. on behalf of K.H. and T.D. v. Deerfield Bd. of Educ., EDU 00489-13, Initial Decision (June 19, 2013), rev'd and remanded, Comm'r (July 30, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ (where, in the context of a claim that a teacher bullied a kindergarten student, the Commissioner confirmed that the internal HIB investigation mandated by law is not discretionary).

Petitioner was not afforded the due process that was guaranteed by statute. The law provides that "parents or guardians of the students who are parties to the investigation" must receive written information about the investigation. Here, petitioner was never afforded an opportunity to appear before the Board; never provided a written summary of the investigation; and never given a written decision from the Board in which it explained its rationale for not finding a HIB violation. How was she to trust in the investigation when she was given no information? More importantly, the failure to document any interviews with the coaching staff or to even advise the accused of the investigation tainted the investigation.

Indeed, this appeal exemplifies the harm that can flow from a failure to follow the statute and Paulsboro's HIB policies. Dr. Quint's "HIB-like" investigation was confusing and may have contributed to a failure to strictly follow policy. Moreover, the school administration clearly knew what its statutory responsibilities entailed; they just failed to follow them. I CONCLUDE that the Board failed to comply with the investigatory process contained in the statute and its own policies. I also CONCLUDE that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d) by not providing B.B. the investigation information, prior to the Board's April 27, 2020, meeting. In failing to comply with this statute, the Board deprived B.B. of her right to a hearing.

In this case, it makes no sense to return this matter to the Board to correct the procedural errors set forth herein. Although petitioner was never afforded an opportunity to appear before the Board, she has now been afforded a full evidentiary hearing on the merits.

The record herein allows me to make a determination whether there was any evidence to support petitioner's claim that her daughter was the target of HIB from her track coach. There is no evidence in the record or testimony from any of the witnesses to substantiate that Coach Gunter treated A.S. in a negative, demeaning, or hostile manner. Although Ms. Johnson's investigation only focused on the victim and other members of the track team, she credibly found no evidence of any conduct that rose to the level of a HIB violation.

Critical to my analysis is the definition of HIB under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. The record is completely devoid of any gestures, written, verbal, or physical acts committed by Coach Gunter that was motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, of any other distinguishing characteristic of the alleged victim, A.S. HIB must be motivated by a distinguishing characteristic. Here there is none. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the allegations contained in the Due Process Petitions do not meet the statutory definition of HIB.

Through this hearing, petitioner was given full due process rights and ample opportunity to show that the Board's decision was against the weight of the evidence. She failed to do so. No one testified that Coach Gunter committed an act of harassment, bullying, or intimidation against A.S. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the allegations contained in the Petitions of Appeal do not meet the legal standards of the HIB statute.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the consolidated petitions be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Nicholas Cilento,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Woodbridge, Middlesex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner appealed the decision of the respondent Board of Education (Board) to terminate his employment as a teacher after the State Board of Examiners (Board of Examiners) suspended his teaching certificates. Petitioner sought reinstatement to his tenured teaching position with back pay, benefits and emoluments; alternatively, petitioner requested that this matter be placed on the inactive list at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pending the disposition of petitioner's appeal of the Board of Examiners' suspension of his teaching certificates. This matter stems from the filing of tenure charges against petitioner by the respondent Board following two incidents of consuming alcohol on school premises while on duty in May 2019.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner, formerly a tenured teacher in the respondent Board's school district, was discovered drinking alcohol while on the job in May 2019; the Board brought tenure charges against petitioner and removed him from employment; after an independent arbitrator recommended against petitioner's dismissal, respondent reinstated him; subsequently – and notwithstanding the decision of the arbitrator – the State Board suspended petitioner's teaching certificates for a period of two years; once petitioner's certification was suspended, the Board terminated him from his tenured teaching position consistent with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(c); the law is clear that a school board cannot permit a teacher to teach without certification, and as of October 28, 2021, petitioner lost his certification. The ALJ concluded that the Board acted appropriately and in accordance with the law when it removed petitioner from his tenured teaching position, because petitioner did not have a valid teaching certificate at the time of the Board's decision. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Nicholas Cilento,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Woodbridge, Middlesex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner. The Woodbridge Board of Education (Board) did not a file a reply.

In this matter, petitioner – a tenured teacher – challenges the Board's decision to terminate him after the New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board of Examiners) suspended his teaching certificate. By way of background, the Board filed tenure charges against petitioner following two incidents of consuming alcohol on school premises while on duty, on May 20 and May 21, 2019. The arbitrator assigned under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 to conduct the tenure hearing determined that petitioner engaged in unbecoming conduct and suspended his employment for a period of three months, but determined that petitioner's conduct did not warrant termination. Thereafter, on October 28, 2021, the Board of Examiners found that petitioner's unbecoming conduct warranted a two-year suspension of his teaching certificate.

The Commissioner upheld the suspension, and an appeal of that decision is currently pending in the Appellate Division. On November 9, 2021, the Board terminated petitioner's employment, effective the date that the Board of Examiners suspended his certificate. Petitioner subsequently filed this appeal challenging his termination.

On a motion for summary decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that the Board acted in accordance with the law when it terminated petitioner as he did not have a valid teaching certificate at the time he was removed from his position. The ALJ also found that there is no reason to delay this matter while the appeal in the Appellate Division is pending, because: "[t]he question here is not whether the action of the [Board of Examiners] was legal, it is whether the action of [the Board] in November 2021, made in reliance on the decision of the [Board of Examiners], was legal." (Initial Decision at 7).

In his exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ ignored the procedural dilemma faced by petitioner when he was forced to initiate this challenge of his termination due to the 90-day filing deadline, while his appeal of the Board of Examiners' suspension of his certificates is still pending in the Appellate Division. Petitioner also contends that the ALJ failed to decide claims alleged in the verified petition, specifically whether the Board of Examiners' Order of Suspension was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and contrary to law. According to petitioner, he has a property right in his tenured teaching position, which was taken from him without due process. Petitioner contends that the ALJ erred in finding that petitioner would be able to bring an action against the Board of Examiners for damages to address the violation of petitioner's property and due process rights if the Appellate Division finds that the Board of Examiners' suspension was invalid; in fact, the Commissioner does not have authority to award monetary damages and the relief that petitioner seeks is reinstatement to his position. Petitioner maintains that this matter should have been placed on the inactive list at the OAL pending the outcome of the appeal in the Appellate Division, since it will affect the outcome of this matter. As such, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable in terminating petitioner. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2, "No teaching staff member shall be employed in the public schools by any board of education unless he is the holder of a valid certificate to teach[.]" Accordingly, a school district "shall remove from the position any teaching staff member who fails to maintain" the required certificate. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(c). In this matter, petitioner failed to maintain a valid certificate as of October 28, 2021, when his teaching certificate was suspended by the Board of Examiners. Therefore, the Board acted in accordance with law when it terminated petitioner from his teaching position for not possessing a valid teaching certificate.

The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ that a decision on this matter is not dependent on the outcome of the case at the Appellate Division. Whether the Board's actions in November 2021 were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable will not change if petitioner is successful in his pending appeal. As such, the ALJ appropriately declined to place this matter on the inactive list.

The Commissioner is not persuaded by petitioner's exceptions. The "procedural dilemma" petitioner discusses does not affect the outcome of this case. Petitioner appropriately initiated the challenge of his termination within the 90-day limitations period, and it is of no moment that his appeal is still pending in the Appellate Division. Additionally, the Commissioner disagrees with petitioner that the ALJ needed to determine whether the Board of Examiners acted contrary to law in issuing the Order of Suspension. That issue has already been decided by the Commissioner and is pending in the Appellate Division, and it is not relevant to a determination of this matter. Regarding petitioner's alleged property right in his tenured teaching position and violation of due process, the Commissioner finds that petitioner received the process that he was due in the suspension matter, the appeal before the Commissioner, and the matter herein. The Commissioner agrees with petitioner that a separate action against the Board of Examiners in the future would not result in reinstatement to his position, as petitioner seeks, but finds that the viability of a future matter does not affect this case.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [1]

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Nicholas Cilento (Cilento) appeals the decision of respondent Township of Woodbridge Board of Education (Woodbridge Board) to terminate his employment as a teacher after the New Jersey Department of Education, State Board of Examiners (State Board), suspended Cilento's teaching certificates. Petitioner seeks reinstatement to his tenured teaching position with back pay, benefits and associated emoluments or, alternatively, petitioner requests that this matter be placed on the inactive list, pending the disposition of Cilento's appeal of the State Board's suspension of his teaching certificates.

Respondent contends that it had no choice but to terminate petitioner's employment once he lost his teaching certificates because without teaching certificates, petitioner was ineligible to work as a teacher. See N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2; N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(a).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner's appeal was received at the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes (DOE), on December 30, 2021. The DOE transmitted this matter as a contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on February 22, 2022. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The parties appeared for prehearing conferences on April 25, and July 19, 2022, and on September 7, 2022, respondent filed a motion for summary decision in its favor. On September 28, 2022, petitioner filed a brief in opposition to the motion for summary decision and cross-motion for placement on the inactive list. On October 14, 2022, respondent filed a reply in further support of its motion for summary decision and in opposition to petitioner's cross-motion to place this matter on the inactive list. No further papers were filed, and the cross-motions are now ripe for review.[1]

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Based on the papers filed in this matter, including the certifications of counsel and petitioner, I FIND the following FACTS undisputed:

1. The Woodbridge Board operates and manages the Woodbridge Township School District.

[1] Although petitioner requested oral argument, I directed that this matter would be decided on the papers. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.2(d).

2. Petitioner was a teacher employed by the Woodbridge Board from September 1, 2007, until his termination on November 18, 2021 (effective October 28, 2021).

3. Following two in-school incidents in May 2019, the Woodbridge Board filed five tenure charges against petitioner with the recommended penalty of removal from employment.

4. Charge I was for unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause, including insubordination — consuming alcohol during work in violation of established standards of professional behavior.

5. Charge II was for unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause, including insubordination — consuming alcohol during work in violation of state law.

6. Charge III was for unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause, including insubordination — consuming alcohol during work in violation of municipal law.

7. Charge IV was for insubordination and unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause — violations of district policy.

8. Charge V was for a pattern or course of unbecoming conduct over a protracted period of time.

9. An arbitration hearing on the above charges was held on August 31, and September 1, 2020. The arbitrator sustained tenure charges I through IV but did not find dismissal from employment warranted. The Woodbridge Board reinstated petitioner.

10. On October 28, 2021, the State Board suspended petitioner's teaching certificates for two years, notwithstanding the decision of the arbitrator.

11. Woodbridge Board Superintendent Joseph E. Massimino notified petitioner by letter dated November 9, 2021, that he would recommend petitioner's termination to respondent at its next meeting, effective as of the date of the State Board's decision.

12. On November 18, 2021, respondent approved petitioner's termination from employment, effective October 28, 2021.

13. On December 6, 2021, petitioner appealed the State Board's decision to suspend his teaching certificates.

14. On December 30, 2021, petitioner filed this appeal on the grounds that respondent's decision "was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, contrary to and in violation of law, and without legal force or effect."

15. In a final agency decision dated June 23, 2022, Acting Commissioner of Education Angelina Allen-McMillen upheld the decision of the State Board.

16. On July 25, 2022, petitioner filed an appeal of the Acting Commissioner's decision with the Appellate Division of the Superior Court of New Jersey. That appeal is pending.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Summary decision may be granted when "the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The rule further provides that an adverse party must respond by affidavit setting forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined at an evidentiary hearing. Ibid. The OAL rule is modeled on New Jersey Court Rule 4:46-2. The New Jersey Supreme Court has explained that when deciding a motion for summary judgment under R. 4:46-2,

> . . . a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.
> [Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).]

I CONCLUDE that the parties raise no dispute with respect to material facts and the issues raised by respondent's motion for summary decision and petitioner's cross-motion to have this matter placed on the inactive list can be decided as a matter of law.

The decisions of local governmental bodies, such as school boards of education, carry the presumption of validity and "will remain undisturbed absent a showing of arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable action." Palamar Constr., Inc. v. Pennsauken, 196 N.J. Super. 241, 250 (App. Div. 1983). The burden of proving the action of the governmental agency was arbitrary and capricious lays with the petitioner. J.M. by his guardian D.M. v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School Dist., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d 415, 419 (December 4, 1995), Comm'r. (January 18, 1996).

In terminating petitioner, respondent acted in compliance with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2, which states that "[n]o teaching staff member shall be employed in the public schools by any board of education unless he is the holder of a valid certificate to teach[.]" See also N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(a) ("any person employed as a teaching staff member by a district board of education shall hold a valid and appropriate certificate"); and N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(b) (a district "shall remove . . . any teaching staff member who fails to maintain" required certifications). As a local school board, the Woodbridge Board has "the duty to enforce rules promulgated by the State Board." Parsippany-Troy Hills Educ. Assn. v. Bd. of Educ. of Parsippany-Troy Hills, 188 N.J. Super. 161, 166 (App. Div. 1983), citing N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1.

It is undisputed that: petitioner obtained tenure prior to May 2019; in May 2019, petitioner was discovered drinking alcohol while on the job; respondent brought five tenure charges against petitioner and removed him from employment; when an independent arbitrator recommended against dismissal, respondent reinstated petitioner; notwithstanding the decision of the arbitrator, the State Board revoked petitioner's teaching certificates; once petitioner lost his certification, respondent terminated him from his tenured teaching position consistent with the requirements of the above law, regulations, and caselaw.

By his petition, petitioner seeks to reverse the decision of respondent to remove him from his tenured teaching position. He concedes that the present appeal is separate and apart from his challenge to the action of the State Board. At the same time, however, petitioner recognizes that until and unless the decision of the State Board to revoke his teaching certificates is reversed in another forum, he cannot prevail in this one.[2] Petitioner argues that the decision of the Appellate Division (or the Supreme Court of New Jersey, should either party pursue that appeal) will be dispositive. In short, if the decision of the State Board to revoke petitioner's teaching certificates is upheld, so too will be the decision of respondent to terminate him for failure to hold the requisite certification. On the other hand, if the State Board is reversed, and petitioner's certificates are returned to him, then the decision of respondent must also be reversed. Therefore, petitioner argues, fairness and the need to conserve judicial resources compels me to hold off on a decision and simply place this matter on the inactive list until the higher court(s) act.

Respondent, however, contends that even if the action of the State Board is later vacated by the Appellate Division, that will not change the basis by which respondent acted in 2021. "The Appellate Division's future decision, whichever way it goes, cannot retroactively deem the Woodbridge BOE's decision to be arbitrary and capricious." Reply Brief of Respondent in Further Support of Motion for Summary Decision (October 14, 2022), at 4 (emphasis in original). Therefore, there is no need to wait to decide whether respondent's decision to terminate petitioner's employment was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. It was not; the law is clear that a school board cannot permit a teacher to teach without certification. As of October 28, 2021, petitioner lost his certification. The decision of respondent to terminate him was correct at the time it was made.

Petitioner further argues that he has a "protectible property right in his tenured position," and there must be "a remedy by suit or action at law where that right is invaded." Letter Brief of Petitioner in Opposition to Motion for Summary Decision and in Support of Cross-Motion to Place Case on the Inactive List (September 27, 2022), at 5. Here, petitioner not only challenges the loss of his tenured position, but of "the lawfulness" of the actions of the State Board and Acting Commissioner of the DOE. Ibid. He then contends that a ruling here in respondent's favor must be preceded by a finding that the actions of the State Board and Acting Commissioner were in fact legal. Id. at 7. I disagree.

The question here is not whether the action of the State Board was legal, it is whether the action of respondent in November 2021, made in reliance on the decision of the State Board, was legal. There is no reason to delay a decision on the latter issue to account for circumstances that may change years after the Woodbridge Board acted. I CONCLUDE that respondent acted appropriately and in accordance with the law to remove petitioner from his tenured teaching position as petitioner did not have a valid teaching certificate at the time of respondent's decision. As respondent notes, any violation of petitioner's property and/or due process rights may be addressed by an action against the State Board for damages and other appropriate relief if the action of the State Board is found to be invalid.

ORDER

For the reasons cited above, I ORDER that the motion of respondent Township of Woodbridge Board of Education for summary decision in its favor is hereby GRANTED, the cross-motion of petitioner Nicholas Cilento to place this matter on the inactive list is hereby DENIED and the appeal of petitioner is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

This matter comes before me on the tenure charges (the "Charges") that the Board of Education of the Bogota Public School District (the "Board" or "Petitioner") certified against Louis J. Severino ("Respondent") on or about October 10, 2022. The Charges allege Respondent, a tenured teacher, engaged in misconduct relative to an incident that occurred on June 6, 2022 between him and two students at the Bogota High School. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, on October 21, 2022, I was appointed as the arbitrator to hear and decide this matter.

A hearing was held on December 22, 2023, during which the parties engaged in settlement discussions and ultimately reached an agreement resolving this matter.

On January 12, 2023, the parties submitted an executed a settlement agreement ("Settlement Agreement"), confirming such resolution.[1] In addition, the parties provided a joint submission ("Joint Submission"), requesting approval of the Settlement Agreement and detailing their supporting reasons.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

After careful review and thorough consideration of the Charges, the Settlement Agreement and the Joint Submission, I am satisfied that the terms of the parties' settlement are reasonable and in the best interest of both parties and the public, and thus, warrant approval.

The New Jersey Department of Education's standards governing settlement of tenure charges, as articulated in In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, and codified at [1] The Settlement Agreement includes: (1) a Certification from Petitioner's counsel, William C. Soukas, Esq., affirming that the Board has consented to the settlement; and (2) a Certification from Respondent's counsel, Michael J. DeMarco, Esq., certifying that Severino has consented to the settlement with a full understanding of his rights. See Settlement Agreement at 9 – 10.

N.J.A.C. §6A:3-5.6, require that the proposed settlement: (1) document the nature of the charges; (2) include an explanation of the circumstances justifying settlement; (3) reflect the consent of both parties; (4) indicate the charged party entered into the agreement with a full understanding of its terms; (5) demonstrate that the agreement is in the public interest; and (6) specify, where the charged party is a teaching staff member, that he/she has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in a loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate. Id.[2]

Upon examination, it is plain that the documents submitted by the parties, on their face, satisfy requirements (1) – (4) and (6). See Joint Submission at 2 - 4; Settlement Agreement at 5 – 10 & Exhibits A – B. The only matter to be resolved then is whether the parties have demonstrated that their settlement of this matter is in the public interest. As stated above, I am persuaded that they have satisfied their burden in this regard.

In reaching this conclusion, as an initial matter, I take note of the parties' representation that the charges stem from a brief, one-time incident, which stands in stark contrast to the otherwise unblemished record Respondent has established over his lengthy career with the Board.[3] Indeed, during his seventeen years of service, the parties report that Respondent has never been the subject of any similar allegations, nor has he received disciplinary action or faced tenure charges. See Joint Submission at 3.

Further, the parties aver that the incident at issue here involved matters that were

[2] As background for these standards, the Commissioner has explained, "once taken up the burden of tenure charges, a board may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges need no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Gilbert Alvarez, Commissioner's Decision 274-09, at 2 (September 4, 2009).

[3] The duration of the incident is reported to have been approximately one minute. See Joint Submission at 3.

personal, unusual and highly unlikely to recur. Also, in reviewing this matter, the Board determined that Respondent's conduct did not involve child abuse or sexual misconduct, and, as such, N.J.S.A 18A:6-7.6 – 7.13(iv) does not require that the incident be reported to public school employers contemplating hiring Respondent. See Joint Submission at 3.

These circumstances in no way diminish the gravity of the charges, which involve a physical altercation after school hours between the Respondent and two students, who were then eighteen and nineteen years old. They do, however, provide context for evaluating the appropriateness of the agreed upon settlement.

In addition, and more importantly, on the parties' joint submission, I am satisfied that the Board's decision to settle this matter reflects more than a desire to avoid the cost, burden and uncertainty of proceeding to hearing on the Charges.

Indeed, on the documentation supplied, objective evidence exists that advances Respondent's contention that he was not the aggressor in the June 6, 2022 incident, but instead was engaged in self-defense.[4] For example, reflective of such claim, the photographs produced show that Respondent sustained injuries to his face and body. See Joint Submission at 3; Settlement Agreement at 2 & Exhibit C.

Further, as cited, independent third-party determinations lend support for the conclusion that the parties have acted in the public interest by settling this matter. Namely, in response to a report of the June 6, 2022 incident: (1) the Bergen County Prosecutor declined to pursue any criminal charges against Respondent; and (2) the Institutional Abuse Investigative Unit of the New Jersey Child Protection and [4] The parties report that Respondent has filed complaints of simple assault against each of the two students involved with the June 6, 2022 incident. These charges are currently pending in Lodi Municipal Court, where Hon. Martin Geisler, J.M.C. has found probable cause as to both complaints. In addition, two charges of simple assault filed against Respondent by the Bogota Police Department are also pending in that same Court. See Joint Submission at 2.

Permanency Division determined that an investigation of the matter was not warranted. See Joint Submission at 3.

In assessing the Settlement Agreement, I also take note that it subjects Respondent to serious adverse consequences. By its terms, he has agreed to resign his employment with the Board and relinquish whatever right he may have had to continued employment with the Bogota School District. In addition, he has acknowledged being notified that it is the duty of the Commissioner of Education to refer tenure charges resulting in the loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible action as to his teaching certificate. See Joint Submission at 3 – 4; Settlement Agreement at 3 & Exhibit D.

Finally, in determining whether the Settlement Agreement serves the public interest, I recognize that consideration must be given to matters beyond the boundaries of the Bogota School District. In doing so, I am persuaded that the parties' settlement meets this standard. Simply put, as the parties represent, it serves to remove Respondent from the charging district, where his continued presence would be a potential distraction, while allowing him the opportunity to transition to another school district where his established ability to function effectively as a graphic arts teacher could properly fill an otherwise unsatisfied need. See Joint Submission at 4.

Accordingly, for all these reasons, I conclude that the parties' Settlement Agreement satisfies the Cardonick standards, and, as such, is approved.

AWARD

1. The parties' Settlement Agreement resolving the tenure charges in this matter satisfies the Cardonick standards and N.J.A.C §6A:3-5.6, and therefore, is approved.

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

This matter comes before me on the tenure charges ("Tenure Charges") certified on or about June 24, 2021 by the School District of the City of East Orange, Essex County (the "District" or "Petitioner") against Rotimi Owoh ("Respondent"), a tenured teacher. The Tenure Charges allege that Respondent exhibited excessive absenteeism during the 2018-2019, 2019-2020 and 2020-2021 school years, which, together with other related conduct, amounts to Incapacity, Conduct Unbecoming, Insubordination, Neglect of Duty and Other Just Cause pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, 6-11, 6-16, 6-17.1 and N.J.A.C 6A:3-5.1. (Arbitrator Exhibit 1.)

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, on July 28, 2021, I was appointed as the arbitrator to hear and decide this matter.[1]

A hearing on the charges against Respondent was conducted on December 13, 2022, by videoconference.[2] Respondent did not appear at the hearing despite having been

[1] Following a pre-hearing conference, the District filed a motion for summary decision, asserting Respondent's failure to comply with the procedures governing the filing of his answer, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3, compelled a determination that the Tenure Charges had been admitted and, in turn, that Respondent's dismissal was warranted. On November 2, 2021, after considering the parties' respective arguments on the matter, I denied the motion, finding insufficient support for

[2] It was necessary for the hearing to proceed by videoconference, so as to avoid further delay, as I tested positive for COVID-19 just prior to December 13, 2022, thereby precluding my conducting an in-person proceeding. By December 2022, the hearing in this matter had been delayed for more than a year. Hearing dates in December 2021 and January 2022 had to be adjourned due to the unavailability of meeting space and a fire at Respondent's home. At Respondent's request, I subsequently granted multiple adjournments of scheduled hearing days in February, March and April 2022, based upon his representation that Petitioner's failure to respond to his November 4, 2021 written requests for records pursuant to the New Jersey Open Meetings Act ("OPMA") and the New Jersey Open Public Records Act ("OPRA") was adversely effecting his ability to prepare properly for the hearing in this matter. On April 5, 2022, I granted Respondent's motion to stay this proceeding, based upon his having commenced an action in New Jersey Superior Court, Essex County, Docket No. L 001745-22, challenging Petitioner's failure to comply with his OPMA request ("OPMA Action"). On July 25, 2022, Respondent dismissed the OPMA Action and renewed a July 7, 2022 motion to stay this proceeding based upon his having filed an action against Petitioner in New Jersey Superior Court, Essex County, Docket No. L 001930-22, alleging discrimination and retaliation in violation of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination ("NJLAD") and other statutes. ("LAD Action"). By interim Opinion and Order, dated August 17, 2022, I denied that motion. Thereafter, by notice dated September 23, 2022, I scheduled hearing dates for November 1 and 9, 2022. On October 31, 2022, at Respondent's request, the November 1, 2022 hearing was adjourned, due to health reasons. In granting that adjournment, I notified Respondent that the matter would be marked peremptory as to him going forward, such that no further adjournments would be granted absent extraordinary and compelling circumstances.

given due notice of the scheduled date and time and being previously informed that with the granting of prior adjournments at his request, including most recently for the November 1, 2022 hearing date, this matter would be marked peremptory as to him going forward.[3]

Upon the conclusion of the December 13, 2022 hearing day, the District elected to close by submitting a post-hearing brief.[4] With the receipt of the District's brief on January 20, 2023, I declared the hearing record closed as of that date.

BACKGROUND

Respondent's employment by the District as a teacher dates to September 1, 2001. (Arbitrator Exhibit 1; District Exhibit 1.) Most recently, he was assigned to the Dionne Warwick Institute, an elementary school. He has no record of prior tenure charges.

The following day, November 1, 2022, Respondent gave notice of his unavailability on the next scheduled hearing date, November 9, 2022, due to a court appearance in another matter, as to which he had notice since September 15, 2022. Citing Respondent's delay in raising this issue and concluding that he had not presented extraordinary and compelling circumstances to warrant granting a further adjournment, by notice dated November 1, 2022, I declined to do so and advised that the November 9, 2022 hearing would proceed as scheduled. On that date, Respondent did not appear for the hearing. After recessing for an hour, Petitioner, in view of Respondent's absence, elected to defer presentation of its case until the next scheduled hearing day, December 13, 2022, and Respondent was so notified.

[3] I issued notice of the December 13, 2022 hearing date on November 3, 2022. Respondent had previously confirmed his availability on that day. From Respondent's communications, it appears his failure to attend the December 13, 2022 hearing stems from a motion for summary decision that he filed on November 4, 2022. By that motion, he requested a dismissal of the instant Tenure Charges, based upon an entry of default as to the District in the LAD Action. Although I informed him in writing that the motion would be addressed at the December 13, 2022 hearing, he replied that holding the hearing would defeat the purpose of the default and his attendance at the hearing would constitute implied consent to the District re-litigating the issues otherwise foreclosed by the default. At the December 13 2022 hearing, after giving due consideration to the parties' respective arguments, I ruled that the motion would be taken under advisement and addressed in my ultimate decision in this matter. I directed the parties to advise me of any developments in the LAD Action on which the motion was based. I have since learned that Respondent's motion has been mooted, as the Court in the LAD Action granted the District's motion to vacate the default. For this reason, Respondent's motion for a summary decision dismissing the Tenure Charges is denied.

[4] By correspondence dated December 13, 2022, I informed Respondent of what transpired at the hearing that day, including: (1) Respondent's motion for summary decision was taken under advisement and would be addressed in the ultimate decision in this case; (2) Petitioner commenced and concluded the presentation of its case in chief, which consisted of the testimony of Marissa McKenzie and 30 District Exhibits; (3) the Tenure Charges and Respondent's Answer were received as Arbitrator Exhibits 1 and 2, respectively; and (4) Petitioner had been granted until January 20, 2023 to submit its post-hearing brief, upon receipt of which the record would be closed. Since then, Respondent has not requested an opportunity to submit evidence or file a post-hearing brief.

The Tenure Charges

> CHARGE ONE: INCAPACITY (EXCESSIVE ABSENTEEISM)
> CHARGE TWO: CONDUCT UNBECOMING (ABSENCE WITHOUT LEAVE)
>
> CHARGE THREE: INSUBORDINATION
>
> CHARGE FOUR: NEGLECT OF DUTY
>
> CHARGE FIVE: OTHER JUST CAUSE

(Arbitrator Exhibit 1.)[5]

The essential facts concerning these charges can be stated as follows:

District's Attendance Policy

Marissa McKenzie, the District's Business Administrator, testified that the District maintains an attendance policy (the "Policy") that provides guidance to staff regarding the District's expectations as too time and attendance and the consequences of failing to satisfy them. (District Exhibit 2.)[6]

In particular, the Policy states, in relevant part:

> The East Orange Board of Education recognizes that an effective educational system is one in which all members, whenever possible, report for duty each and every working day. Therefore, to foster and maximize staff attendance at the 95 percent level, an attendance improvement program shall be developed and implemented.
>
> The primary purpose of the attendance program shall be to improve and maintain the quality of education. Improved attendance will increase the level of staff contact time and ensure the continuity of learning by reducing to a minimum the interruption of services provided students by full time staff.

---

[5] The Tenure Charges include a detailed statement identifying the allegations supporting each individual charge. (Arbitrator Exhibit 1.)

[6] From June 2016 – April 2022, McKenzie served as the District's Director Labor Relations and Employee Services.

> The regular and prompt attendance of teaching staff members is an essential element in the efficient operation of the school district and the effective conduct of the educational program. Staff member absenteeism disrupts the educational program the Board of Education considers attendance an important component of staff member's job performance.
>
> A teaching staff member who fails to give prompt notice of an absence, misuses sick leave, fails to verify an absence in accordance with Board policy, falsifies the reason for an absence, is absent without authorization, is repeatedly tardy, or accumulates an excessive number of absences may be subject to appropriate consequences, which may include the withholding of salary increments, dismissal and/or certification of tenure charges.

Respondent's Attendance and Leave of Absence Record

McKenzie testified that throughout Respondent's employment with the District, he demonstrated a pattern of excessive absenteeism.

2018-2019 School Year. During the 2018-2019 school year, she said, his attendance deteriorated further. In particular, she noted, he was absent over fifteen days, which involved a combination of personal leave and personal illness leave. (District Exhibit 3.)

On February 28, 2019, Principal Flore-Nadeige Lovett issued Respondent a notice, advising that as of that time, he had been absent a total of 7.5 days and tardy 19 times. She expressed concern as to these statistics and reminded Respondent, "regular attendance is necessary to insure a smooth running educational program." She also scheduled for him to meet with Assistant Principal Kevin Williams to discuss this matter. (District Exhibit 4.)

2019-2020 School Year. During the following school year, 2019-2020, McKenzie related, Respondent, beginning September 16, 2019 and continuing for the balance of the year, was unable to report for work due to health reasons. During the course of the year, she said, he supplied doctor's statements confirming his medical condition, some of which identified return work dates that were subsequently revised. (District Exhibits 5 -19.)

As of December 6, 2019, she noted, he applied and was subsequently approved for a Family or Medical Leave of Absence ("FMLA"). (District Exhibits 8-11.) The District extended his leave several times during the course of the year, ultimately continuing it through balance of the term (i.e., June 30, 2020). (District Exhibits 11, 13-14, 17-18.)

2020-2021 School Year. She continued that as of June 24, 2020, Respondent had submitted notice of his intent to return to work for the upcoming school year, but had failed to provide medical clearance. On June 24, 2020, a member of her staff, Jennifer Parrish emailed Respondent, advising him to provide his return to work clearance by no later than July 15, 2020 (District Exhibit 20.)

After receiving documentation from Respondent regarding a possible surgery, she noted, Parish emailed him again on June 29, 2020 to request his medical return to work clearance. In doing so, she extended the deadline for submission until August 14, 2020. (District Exhibit 20.)

On August 13, 2020, she said, Owoh advised Parish by email that he would not be able to meet the August 14, 2022 deadline due to an upcoming medical procedure. Parish, in turn, replied by directing Respondent to keep her posted as to his return to work status. (District Exhibit 20.)

On August 27, 2020, she recounted, Parish sent a follow up email to Respondent, requesting that he advise as to his return to work status and provide appropriate medical documentation to support his continued absence if he would not be returning to work.

Respondent answered that same day by informing Parish his surgery had been delayed, pending clearance from his primary care physician. (District Exhibit 20.)

In response, she stated, Parish, on August 27, 2002, advised:

> As you know, we require a medical note that indicates an estimated return to work date for staffing purposes. Due to your signed contract and intent to return we are trying to prepare accordingly but need to know how long you are slated to be out of work since you've been out of work since last September and are no longer protected by FMLA. Please forward the attached medical certification form after your appointment tomorrow.

(District Exhibit 20.)

She reported that on or about August 31, 2020, Parish received correspondence from Ellen Land, APN, advising that she had seen Respondent and was excusing him from work for medical reasons through October 2, 2020. (District Exhibit 21.) By subsequent correspondence, Land extended this period through November 2, 2020. (District Exhibit 22.)

Respondent, she related, emailed Parish on November 2, 2022, stating he would not be able to return to work the next day. As explanation, he cited an upcoming medical review that would determine whether he was cleared for a necessary surgery. (District Exhibit 23.)

Parish, she noted, subsequently received further correspondence from Land, reporting that Respondent was undergoing additional medical follow up, and requesting that he be excused from work through December 2, 2020. Land also stated that if medical clearance is obtained, Respondent intends to have surgery, which would necessitate his being off work through December 23, 2020. (District Exhibit 24.)

By letter dated November 13, 2022, she recounted, Parish informed Respondent that he had exhausted his applicable paid leave accruals as of October 28, 2020, and thus, had transitioned to unpaid status. Parish advised further that his last paycheck from which his employee share of his group health insurance premiums were deducted was mailed on October 30, 2020. Going forward, Parish explained, he would responsible for making direct payment of the employee portion of the group health insurance premiums until his return to work. (District Exhibit 25.)

On January 8, 2021, she reported, Parish emailed Respondent requesting an update on his status. In doing so, Parish noted that the last medical documentation supplied excused him from work through December 2, 2020. (District Exhibit 26.) Respondent replied by email dated January 15, 2021, stating that due to uncertainty as to his health insurance coverage, he could not undergo surgery, which, in turn, prevented him from providing a medical return to work certification. (District Exhibit 26.)[7]

In response, on January 19, 2021, Parish instructed Respondent to provide a medical note to support his absence from December 3, 2020 to the present. She also provided him with a contact at the District to consult regarding the status of his health insurance. (District 26.) In a separate email, she advised Respondent that if his return to work would be subject to physical limitations, he would need to submit medical note identifying them, so the District could assess if they are feasible. (District 26.)

Replying to Parish's January 19, 2021 email, Respondent referenced his own January 15, 2021 email, which mentioned Land's prior note, but did not contain the information requested.

[7] Citing Parish's November 13, 2020 letter, he also advised being compelled to seek other employment, as he was now without pay or health insurance coverage from the District. In another email to Parish on January 15, 202, he stated, "I had no choice but to find a job that I can do with my medical condition 'as is.' Hopefully, I will get health insurance to finally get the surgery that I need to recover fully without 'limitations.'" In a subsequent email, Parish reminded Respondent that he remained a District employee on a personal illness leave. However, with his being in unpaid status, she noted, he had no wages from which to deduct his employee share of the group health insurance premium, and therefore, must make direct payment of that sum. (District Exhibit 26.)

McKenzie testified that with Respondent having failed to supply the requested medical documentation, she wrote him on April 26, 2021 to address his situation. In particular, her letter noted: (1) he has been out of work since September 16, 2019; (2) the District had approved him for FMLA leave and subsequent health leave from September 16, 2019 – June 30, 2020; (3) despite submitting an intent to return to work form, identifying a September 1, 2020 return date, he has yet to return or report for clearance; (4) the last medical documentation supplied supported his absence through December 2, 2020; and (5) Parish had emailed him on January 8, 15 and 19, 2021 requesting updated medical information to support his continued absence to no avail. (District Exhibit 27.)

In view of these circumstances, her letter stated:

> This letter will serve as a final request for medical information to support your absence from December 3, 2020 to present. I am enclosing a medical certification form for your convenience. Be advised that the form must be completed in its entirety and must include a projected return to work date.
> Please forward the requested information no later than Friday, May 14, 2021.
>
> Be advised that failure to respond by the due date may result in a determination that you have abandoned your position. You will be considered absent without leave effective December 3, 2020 and subject to discipline.

(District Exhibit 27 (emphasis in original).)

Having received no reply from Respondent as of May 14, 2021, McKenzie confirmed notifying him by letter, dated May 17, 2021, that due to his failure to provide the requested information, after being afforded extended time to do so, the District had determined that he has abandoned his position. Her letter stated further that the District would pursue tenure charges against him for insubordination, job abandonment and any other applicable charges. (District Exhibit 28.)

McKenzie averred receiving a subsequent letter from Respondent, dated May 20, 2021, stating:

> This is in response to your two letters dated 4-26-2021 and 5-17-2021. See Exhibit 1. In response to the two letters, I have attached herewith the email I sent to Ms. Parish on 1-19-2021. Who abandoned who? Thank you.

(District Exhibit 29.)

In an email response, McKenzie related advising Respondent that his correspondence did not include the information requested per her April 26, 2021 letter, which also set a May 14, 2021 deadline for submission. Respondent, in turn, replied:

> Nothing more will be sent to your school district. The days of "forced" labor is LONG gone. It was called slavery. A contract requires a good faith obligation and performance on both sides.

(District Exhibit 30.)

She stated that at no time has Respondent ever offered any explanation for his failure to provide the requested medical documentation supporting his continued absence since December 3, 2020.

Recommendation of Tenure Charges

In testifying, McKenzie affirmed her conclusion that Respondent's record of absenteeism, his extended period of absence during the 2019-2020 and 2020-2021 school years, excluding his FMLA leave, and his failure to provide medical documentation supporting his absences beyond December 2, 2020 warranted bringing the instant Tenure Charges. She further averred that discharge was the appropriate penalty. In support, she said, his failure to meet the District's attendance expectations undermined the achievement of its mission to operate and maintain an effective and consistent educational system, and his conduct, in total, constituted incapacity, conduct unbecoming, insubordination and neglect of duty.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The Issues

The issues to be decided here are:

1. Has the District satisfied its burden of substantiating the Tenure Charges that it has proffered against Respondent?

2. If so, what discipline, if any, is warranted?

Positions of the Parties

District's Position. The District submitted a detailed post-hearing brief. Its position is summarized here.

While acknowledging the restrictions on dismissing a tenured teacher per N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, the District stresses that excessive absenteeism represents a well-recognized basis for doing so. This principle, it states, holds true even where the absences have been excused or stem from a bona fide illness or injury. See State-Operated School District of Jersey City v. Pellecchio, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 267, 269-270. In addition, it notes, the teacher's satisfactory performance in the classroom provides no defense, where the absences otherwise support dismissal. See In re Sheets, 1979 S.L.D. 790, 798, adopted, State Board of Education, 1980 S.LD. 1536.

It argues that the record here demonstrates that the standards for a dismissal due to excessive absences have been satisfied. Kelsey v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, EDU 5773-88 (1989). In particular, it highlights, not only was Respondent absent for more than an entire school year, he failed to communicate as to the status of his medical condition and expected return to work date, as instructed by the District.

Respondent, it stresses, was afforded generous paid leave, and after exhausting such leave, was retained in an unpaid status, subject only to providing required medical documentation regarding his continued need for leave and his anticipated return date. Yet, he failed to satisfy this requirement despite being repeatedly advised of what he needed to submit. Further, when he did communicate, he advised of finding other employment.

In addition, on the evidence presented, it argues, Respondent has been shown to have abandoned his employment with the District.

The circumstances here, it maintains, did not simply involve Respondent exhibiting a lack of responsiveness to its requests for an updated medical status. Nor is there any evidence suggesting his medical condition impeded his ability to respond. Instead, it asserts, his non-compliance represented a conscious choice on his part.

Thus, it submits, when the totality of the circumstances are judged, the only reasonable conclusion is that Respondent abandoned his position. Stated otherwise, it avers, Respondent constructively resigned his employment in January 2021, when he ceased responding to the District's requests and began employment elsewhere. See In re Stanley, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 497; Westfield Board of Education v. McLear Poffenberger, EDU 7612-97.

Finally, citing Respondent's failure to appear at the hearing in this matter and present evidence supporting his position, it contends that he has effectively waived all defenses and admitted the Tenure Charges are true and sufficient to warrant his dismissal.

Respondent's Position. As noted, Respondent did not appear at the December 13, 2022 hearing in this case, despite having received due notice and reportedly being available to attend. Nor at any time since then, has he requested or attempted to present any evidence or argument to advance a defense to the Tenure Charges.

Therefore, the only record document setting forth Respondent's position is his Answer to the Charges. There, in denying the Charges, he states that they are pretexutal and constitute retaliation for his having engaged in protected activities under LAD, federal anti-discrimination and anti-retaliation laws and the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act. He notes that the District is fully aware of his medical justification in this matter.

His Answer also references his June 18, 2021 letter to the District's Board of Education, in which he denied all of the Charges.

In doing so, he asserted that the charges should be dismissed because: (1) he provided medical documentation to Parish until the District unilaterally terminated his health insurance coverage; (2) he decided against undergoing back surgery because his treating physician and surgeon could not guarantee that the procedure would permanently resolve his medical issues so as to allow him to return work at the District without limitation or restriction; (3) in view of his medical condition, it is medically impracticable for him to "keep up" with "twenty-one energetic and vibrant elementary school children in the classroom" and "climb up and down stairs at the Dionne Warwick Institute," which lacks an elevator; and (4) the real reason for the Tenure Charges is "actually retaliatory" because (a) he helped another teacher to file a discrimination lawsuit against the District; and (b) he also filed a discrimination complaint on his own behalf against the principal(s) at the Dionne Warwick Institute with the District's Central Office.

Finally, he stated in his June 18, 2021 letter that as of that date, he was practicing law. However, he may choose to return to teaching if he becomes medically able to do so without any limitations or restrictions.

Opinion

Certain introductory comments are appropriate here. Per the governing statute, the District is authorized to seek Respondent's dismissal for reasons of "inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. It is recognized that excessive absenteeism may constitute incapacity, unbecoming conduct or just cause sufficient to warrant dismissal. See In re Castro, Docket No. A-4875-10 (App. Div. April 25, 2012) (citing State Operated School District of Jersey City v. Pellechio, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d 267 (1992)). The existence of legitimate reasons for the absences, such as long-term health issues, may not represent a defense to such a charge or preclude a finding that dismissal is warranted.

In seeking a tenured teacher's dismissal based upon charges of incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause, the school district bears the burden of proof. It must establish the charged allegations by a preponderance of the relevant evidence. In addition, it must demonstrate that the gravity of substantiated offenses warrants the teacher's discharge, as opposed to some lesser disciplinary penalty.

I am not persuaded that the District should be excused of this burden due to Respondent not appearing at the December 13, 2023 hearing or offering any valid explanation for his absence. Stated otherwise, I am not convinced that Respondent's failure in that regard constitutes an admission of the Tenure Charges, so as to warrant a summary decision of this matter. Instead, I conclude, the District should be held to its proofs.[8]

With these principles in mind, I turn to the charges presented here. After a careful and thorough review of the evidence and arguments presented, I conclude that the District has substantiated Charge Nos. 1 - 3. However, I find that Charge Nos. 4 and 5 have not been sustained and must be dismissed. My reasons for these determinations follow.

Charge No. 1: Incapacity -- Excessive Absenteeism

In seeking the termination of a tenured teacher on grounds of incapacity/excessive absenteeism, the District must show: (1) it considered the number of days and the particular circumstances of the absences; (2) the impact the absences had on the District; and (3) the appropriate warning was given. In re Castro, supra, at 13 (citing In re White, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 157 (1991)). On the evidence presented, I am satisfied that each prong of this 3-part standard has been satisfied.

First, as McKenzie's testimony and the documentary evidence reflects, the District's assessment of Respondent's protracted absence, which spanned nearly the entirety of two school years, addressed both the number of days and the particular circumstances involved. Indeed, the record substantiates that the Department gave due consideration to Respondent's medical conditions, which precluded him from performing his teaching duties. It did so by reviewing his supporting medical documentation and approving/extending his leave through and including December 2, 2020. Further, it has expressly acknowledged that the period of leave covered by the FMLA has been and should be excluded from the charge of excessive absenteeism/incapacity.

Second, McKenzie's testimony that Respondent's extended absence undermined the District's ability to fulfill its educational mission stands uncontested. In fact, it strikes me as axiomatic that such a prolonged absence by one of the District's teachers would have such effect.

Third, while the District was apparently open to extending Respondent's leave beyond December 2, 2020, it made clear that his continued absence without leave was unacceptable. Simply put, as McKenzie's testimony and the documentary evidence confirms, the District appropriately informed Respondent of both the requirements (i.e., submission of supporting medical documentation for his continued absence) and the consequences of non-compliance (i.e., a determination of job abandonment and discipline). Further, it afforded him ample time to comply, with its initial request being made on January 8, 2021 and its final request being issued on April 26, 2021, which set a May 14, 2021 deadline for compliance.

Accordingly, for all these reasons, I am satisfied that this charge has been substantiated by the weight of the credible evidence presented.

Charge Nos. 2 & 3: Conduct Unbecoming (Absence Without Leave); and Insubordination

I will address these two charges together, as they both rest upon Respondent's failure to comply with the District's instruction to provide supporting medical documentation to substantiate his need for leave beyond December 2, 2020.

In the first of these two charges, the District alleges that by failing to supply the requested medical documentation, Respondent has been absent without leave since December 3, 2020, and, in turn, has abandoned his position with the District. On review, I am satisfied that the evidence presented substantiates these allegations, McKenzie's testimony and the exhibits received confirm: (1) the last record that Respondent supplied from his medical practitioner specified he was medically unable to work through December 2, 2020; (2) beginning in January 2021 and continuing through April 2021, the District instructed Respondent to provide medical information supporting his continued absence beyond December 2, 2020; and (3) Respondent never supplied the requested documentation.

On the record here, I am convinced that no basis exists to excuse Respondent's failure in this regard. Simply put, there is no evidence that he was incapable of doing so, nor are there any other mitigating circumstances present.

Quite the contrary, it is plain to me that Respondent made a conscious and willful decision to disregard the District's requests for medical documentation. After allowing the District's May 14, 2021 deadline to expire, Respondent submitted copies of two January 2021 emails to Parish, neither of which included the necessary medical documentation. (District Exhibit 29.) When McKenzie informed him of this deficiency, Respondent confirmed his refusal to comply with the District's request. Indeed, in no uncertain terms, he advised McKenzie, "Nothing more will be sent to your school district." (District Exhibit 30.)

In sum, after weighing the totality of the circumstances, I am persuaded that Respondent was absent without leave, commencing December 3, 2020, and, in turn, abandoned his position with the District by willfully refusing its request to provide medical documentation supporting his need for additional leave.[9] Accordingly, I am satisfied that on the record here, Charge No. 2 should be sustained.

Turning to Charge No. 3, it accuses Respondent of insubordination based upon these same circumstances.

It is well recognized that insubordination is defined as "the willful and intentional disregard of the lawful and reasonable directives of an employee's duly authorized supervisor." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Charles Motley, Commissioner's Decision No. 252-99 at 2-3 (August 4, 1999).

Judged by this standard, Respondent's conduct, no doubt, constitutes insubordination. The District clearly had a right to determine whether Respondent had a bona fide medical reason justifying his inability to return to work on December 2, 2020. Its ability to direct and manage its teaching staff dictates as much. As such, the requests Respondent received from McKenzie and her staff member Parish to supply such documentation represented a lawful and reasonable direction from supervision.

Therefore, I am satisfied, it follows that Respondent's willful and intentional disregard of these requests was insubordinate. In fact, by his May 20, 2021 email to McKenzie, he exhibited utter contempt for her authority, stating dismissively, "Nothing more will be sent to your school district." He then doubled down by mischaracterizing her legitimate information request as an attempt at "forced labor."

Likewise, Respondent's effort to shift blame to the Respondent is unavailing. In his January 2021 emails to Parish, Respondent posits that the District acted improperly by discontinuing his salary and requiring him to make direct payment of his employee share of his group health insurance premium. This assertion is unsubstantiated, and in any event, cannot excuse or justify his insubordination.[10] The time honored principle of work now -- grieve later compelled him to comply with Parish and McKenzie's request for supporting medical documentation. His willful and intentional refusal to do so constituted undeniable insubordination.

[9] Respondent's June 18, 2021 letter to the District's Board of Education further evidences his intent to abandon his position. There, he reported that he was then practicing law and would consider returning to teaching in the future only if he became medically able to do so. He also acknowledged his decision not to have the surgery needed to resolve the medical issues preventing his to return to work at the District. (Arbitrator Exhibit 2.)

Therefore, I conclude that this Charge has been sustained.

Charge No. 4: Neglect of Duty

In support of this alleged misconduct, the Charge references Respondent's January 15, 2021 email to Parish stating he had been actively seeking employment elsewhere. On the evidence presented, I am not satisfied that the District has established a neglect of duty by Respondent's actions in this regard.

With Respondent having exhausted his paid leave accrual and apparently unable to afford the required monthly employee contribution to maintain his group health insurance, he had an apparent legitimate need to secure another source of income.[11] Therefore, absent a showing that his efforts to obtain alternate employment undermined or otherwise compromised his recovery from the medical condition preventing his return to work for the District, no basis exists for me to find him guilty of a neglect of duty, as charged.

The District's evidence, I am convinced, falls short in meeting this standard.

[10] In fact, this assertion is contradicted by the evidence presented, which shows the District acted appropriately. Its actions in this regard flowed simply from Respondent's exhaustion of his paid leave accruals. With Respondent having no paid leave available, the District properly transferred him to unpaid status, which, in turn, required him to satisfy his employee share of the group health insurance premium by direct payment, as opposed to a payroll deduction.

[11] The legitimacy of such need turns on Respondent's inability to resume his duties with the District on and after December 3, 2020. A determination to that effect is not possible here, as the record does not include any evidence as to Respondent's medical condition after that date. Respondent deprived the District of the opportunity to do so by rejecting its requests for such medical documentation.

Accordingly, I conclude that this Charge has not been sustained and must be dismissed.

Charge No. 5: Other Just Cause

The District has not offered any separate and independent allegations in support of this Charge. Instead, it repeats the allegations on which the first four Charges are based. As such, I am compelled to conclude that this Charge is duplicative, and therefore, should be dismissed.

Penalty

Turning to the issue of penalty, I find Respondent's proven excessive absenteeism weighs heavily in favor of dismissal, notwithstanding his substantiated medical issues through December 2, 2020. Tenure does not entitle Respondent to an indefinite medical leave. Where, as here, the absence has continued over the course of more than a full school year (after excluding FMLA leave), with no projected end date, and undermines the school district's educational mission, it has reached an obvious inflection point.

Simply put, on review, I am persuaded that the balance tips overwhelmingly in favor of Respondent's dismissal, especially when consideration is given to the other sustained charges of absence without leave/abandonment of his position and insubordination. By his willful actions in that regard, he deprived the District of the information essential to verify his medical inability to work and determine whether he should be granted further leave.

Therefore, with their being no mitigating factors present, I find Respondent's dismissal is justified.

AWARD

1. Respondent is culpable of Charge Nos. 1 – 3.

2. Charge Nos. 4 and 5 have not been sustained, and therefore, are dismissed.

3. The appropriate penalty for the substantiated Charges is dismissal.

Record Closed: January 31. 2023 Decided: January 31, 2023

BEFORE ERNEST M. BONGIOVANNI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Shawn Collier (Petitioner) appealed a denial, dated December 16, 2021, by the State Board of Examiners, of an application for a teacher of biological science certificate of eligibility. The application was denied because her cumulative grade point average was below the 3.0 required of those receiving a baccalaureate degree program, higher degree program or a state approved post-baccalaureate certification program.

Collier's appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrativr Law (OAL) on April 14, 2022. On April 11, 2022, respondent, the New Jersey Department of Education, State Board of Examiners,(Respondent) filed a Motion to Dismiss in lieu of filing an Answer. The motion was supported with Exhibits and a legal brief, and certicviation of mailing to Collier at her address.

Shortly thereafter, petitioner was Noticed, via email to telephonically attend a Prehearing conference. Collier agreed via email of April 26, 2023 to attend the Prehearing conference to be held May 6, 2022 at 9:30 A.M.

At the conference, petitioner was offered an additional thirty days without proceedings going forward, in case she wanted to retain counsel instead of acting pro se. She could also use the additional time to determine if she wished to obtain a high degree program or a State approved post-bacculaureate certificate rather than continuing with the litigation. Hoiwever, she was cautioned that she had thirty days to provide a written reply to respondent's motion to dismiss.

On June 7, 2022, petitioner advised my office that she wished to continue the litigation and without an attorney. She also advised she did not wish to seek another degree in order to have another opportunity to obtain the requested Certificate of Eligibility. However, petitioner made no mention of the written response to the motion to dismiss that was due within thirty days of May 6, 2022.

Having heard nothing further from Collier, for another two months, the court wrote to Collier on August 2, 2022 via email to her that she would have an additional ten days to file her written rresponse to the aforesaid Motion to Dismiss, and referenced N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.2

After another six months had passed, and as of January 31, 2023, Collier has failed to file any written response to the motion to dismiss, nor had any contact with the OAL in any way.

ORDER

Based upon all of the foregoing, I FIND that this matter should be and is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE, for petitioner's willful noncompliance with the requirements of the Rules of the OAL, specifically by failure to provide the required written reply to a motion to dismiss

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter, which was transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4 and includes an advisement of petitioner's failure to appear at the scheduled OAL hearing on January 5, 2023, has been reviewed. Also on March 1, 2023, petitioner notified the Office of Controversies and Disputes that she had attempted to appear at the January 5, 2023 hearing, but had technical difficulties accessing the online platform; she also advised that her phone calls to the OAL to attempt to resolve the technical issues went unanswered. Petitioner indicated that she did not receive the OAL's notice regarding her failure to appear, which permitted her 13 days to provide an explanation.

Final Decision

Queen City Academy Education Association, on behalf of its members, Gary Corcoran and Eric Koellner, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Trustees of the Queen City Academy Charter School, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The petitioner, Queen City Academy Education Association ("petitioner" or "Association") alleged that the respondent Queen City Academy Charter School ("respondent" or "Board") improperly refused to offer an employee health plan that is equivalent to the New Jersey Educators Health Plan ("NJEHP") mandated under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 et seq.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the only issue for determination in this case is the legal authority of the Board to defer offering a NJEHP-equivalent health insurance plan to Association members because of the prospective adverse financial impact that offering such a plan might have on the Board; in July 2020, the New Jersey Legislature enacted P.L. 2020, Chapter 44, which amended the health insurance benefits statutes for school employees, requiring that employees at schools that do not participate in the State Employees' Health Benefits Plan be offered the NJEHP or an equivalent plan; it is undisputed that the Board has not offered or provided such a plan; the Board's argument that the parties must negotiate regarding the increase in cost prior to the Board offering the plan is without merit, as the Board must first offer the required NJEHP equivalent plan and then proceed to negotiations over any increase in net costs; further, the Board's argument that this matter should be stayed pending the adjudication of similar matters currently pending before the New Jersey Council on Local Mandates is also without merit, as those matters involve different parties and there is no reason to believe that any order resulting from those matters would be binding or precedential on the OAL. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision and ordered the Board to offer its employees a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

Upon review, the Commissioner, inter alia, rejected the Board's arguments on exception and concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion herein. The Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board was ordered to offer and implement a NJEHP-equivalent health insurance plan for its employees, as required under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2.

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Queen City Academy Education Association, on behalf of its members Gary Corcoran and Eric Koellner, ("petitioner" or "Association") brought an action against respondent Queen City Academy Charter School Board of Trustees ("respondent" or "the Board") seeking an order compelling the respondent to provide employees with a health plan equivalent to the New Jersey Educators Health Plan (NJEHP) under the Health Benefits Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 et seq., as amended by P.L. 2021, c. 163.

The matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on January 29, 2021, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on February 22, 2021.

Petitioner was granted leave to file a motion for summary decision. The motion and accompanying brief were received by the undersigned on November 8, 2021. Final submissions were received on December 8, 2022, and the record was closed. The matter is now ripe for decision.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

Queen City Academy (QCA) is a charter school operating under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with its initial charter having been issued in 1999. QCA began receiving students in September 2000, and currently serves students in grades K–9. QCA currently operates under a Charter School Agreement with the New Jersey Department of Education, dated September 11, 2012, which requires it to operate within specific parameters, including, but not limited to, the confines of its authorized grade levels, ages of students, individual class sizes, performance framework, and fiscal constraints. The New Jersey Legislature enacted P.L. 2020, Chapter 44, effective July 1, 2020, which amended the health-insurance-benefits statutes for school employees, requiring that employees at schools that do not participate in the School Employees' Health Benefits Plan (SEHBP) be offered the equivalent of the New Jersey Educators Health Plan (NJEHP) provided via the SEHPB. See N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 ("Chapter 44").

Queen City Academy attempted to procure affordable insurance equivalent to the NJEHP, but its attempts to do so were unsuccessful.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner argues that the plain language of Chapter 44 requires the Board to offer a health plan equivalent to the NJEHP, regardless of any adverse financial impact. In response to this motion, the Board argues that 1) this tribunal should stay its decision until all final adjudication on similar matters pending before the New Jersey Council on Local Mandates are resolved; 2) the matter is not ripe for summary decision; 3) petitioner has not met the standard for summary decision; and 4) summary decision is inappropriate, as there remain material facts in dispute.

Respondent also argues that offering a plan equivalent to the NJEHP would have an adverse financial impact on the Board so as to threaten the school's viability, and that the Board should not be obliged to offer a plan equivalent to the NJEHP because this requirement as set forth in Chapter 44 is an unfunded mandate, and, thus, unenforceable.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Point 1 of the Board's response to the motion for summary decision argues that the undersigned should stay any determination regarding the motion pending final adjudication of similar matters currently before the New Jersey Council on Local Mandates, namely, matters involving the boards of education of Franklin Township, Gloucester City, and Lower Township. It should be noted, however, that those matters do not involve any of the same parties as the matter before me. Also, the Board does not suggest, and I have no reason to believe, that any order of the Council on Local Mandates would be binding or in any way precedential to this tribunal. Thus, I CONCLUDE that the pending matters before the Council on Local Mandates do not preclude the undersigned from ruling on the petitioner's motion.

Upon review of the facts and legal arguments presented by the parties, it appears that the only issue to be determined on this summary-decision motion is the legal authority of the Board to defer offering an "equivalent" health insurance plan to the Association due to the prospective adverse financial impact offering such a plan would have on the Board. The main issue before this tribunal, thus, is strictly a matter of legal interpretation.

It is well established that if there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, a moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995). The purpose of summary decision is to avoid unnecessary hearings and their concomitant burden on public resources. Under the Brill standard, a fact-finding hearing should be avoided "when the evidence is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Brill guides us thusly:

> [A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

In explaining the standard to be applied in summary motion practice, the Brill Court stated:

> The same standard applies to determine whether a prima facie case has been established by the party bearing the burden of proof in a trial. . . .
>
> . . . If a case involves no material factual disputes, the court disposes of it as a matter of law by rendering judgment in favor of the moving or non-moving party.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the issue of whether or not the NJEHP or NJEHP-equivalent health-insurance plan must be offered to the QCA employees can be decided as a matter of law.[1]

On July 1, 2020, the New Jersey Legislature enacted P.L. 2020, Chapter 44, which amended the health-insurance-benefits statutes for school employees and provides:

> (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, rule, or regulation to the contrary, beginning January 1, 2021 and for each plan year thereafter, a board of education as an employer providing health care benefits coverage for its employees, and their dependents if any, in accordance with P.L.1979, c.391 (C.18A:16-12 et seq.) shall offer to its employees, and their dependents if any, the equivalent of the New Jersey Educators Health Plan in the School Employees' Health Benefits Program as that plan design is described in subsection f. of section 1 of P.L.2020, c.44 (C.52:14-17.46.13).
>
> (2) The plans under this section shall be offered by the employer regardless of any collective negotiations agreement between the employer and its employees in effect on the effective date [July 1, 2020] of this act, P.L.2020, c.44, that provides for enrollment in other plans offered by the employer.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(a) (emphasis added).]

With regard to employees who commenced employment prior to July 1, 2020, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(b) provides:

> Prior to January 1, 2021, each employer shall provide an enrollment period during which all employees who commenced employment prior to the effective date [July 1, 2020] of this act shall be required to select affirmatively a plan

[1] Two cases with a very similar legal issue have recently been decided at the OAL on summary-decision motion, the first by the Hon. Sarah Crowley, ALJ, Franklin Township Education Association v. Board of Education of Franklin Township, Somerset County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 01442-21, Initial Decision (November 18, 2022), and the second by the Hon. Gail Cookson, ALJ, Community Charter School of Patterson Education Association v. Community Charter School of Patterson Board of Trustees, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 03968-21, Initial Decision (December 7, 2022).

> provided by the employer. If an employee fails to select affirmatively a plan during this enrollment period, the employer shall enroll the employee, and the employee's dependents if any, in the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan offered pursuant to subsection a. of this section for the year January 1, 2021 until December 31, 2021.

With regard to employees who commence employment on or after July 1, 2020, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(c)(1) provides:

> Beginning on January 1, 2021, an employee commencing employment on or after the effective date [July 1, 2020] of this act but before January 1, 2028 who does not waive coverage, shall be enrolled by the employer in the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan, or the equivalent Garden State Health Plan if selected by the employee, as those plans are offered pursuant to subsection a. of this section. The employee shall remain enrolled in either the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan or the equivalent Garden State Health Plan selected by the employee at the annual open enrollment for each plan year until December 31, 2027, provided that the employee during this period may waive coverage as an employee and select and change the type of coverage received under the plan following a qualifying life event, in accordance with the plan regulations. Beginning January 1, 2028, the employee may select, during any open enrollment period or at such other times or under such conditions as the employer may provide, any plan offered by the employer.

In June 2021 the New Jersey Legislature amended the foregoing law to provide that if the provisions of the foregoing result in an increase in the net cost of healthcare plans, the parties "shall commence negotiations immediately, unless mutually agreed upon by the employer and the majority representative to opt to substantially mitigate the financial impact to the employer as part of the next collective negotiations agreement . . . ." P.L. 2021, c. 163 (emphasis added). It is undisputed that respondent, the Board, has not offered or provided its members with a plan equivalent to the NJEHP.

While the parties have commenced negotiations over this issue, the Board has not had a financial impact yet and the net impact of employee contributions is not known.

Respondent has not presented any material facts that are in dispute in this matter. The law in question is clear. It mandates the Board to put in place a plan equivalent to the NJEHP, and if there is an increase in net cost, it mandates that the parties negotiate the issue relating to that increase in the net cost of the plan. Respondent argues that the financial impact of offering this plan is substantial and the parties need to negotiate the issue prior to offering it. The Board submits the Certification of Chief Academic Officer Danielle West-Augustin, outlining the potential increase in cost. However, even assuming that I accept these projections as fact, it does not relieve the Board of the obligation to provide such a plan. The Board must provide the plan and then, under the more recent amendments to Chapter 44, proceed to negotiations over such increase in net costs, i.e., deducting for employee contributions.

I therefore CONCLUDE that petitioner is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law on the issue involving the obligation of the Board to provide a plan equivalent to the NJEHP for its members. I further CONCLUDE that after offering such a plan to its members, if there is a net cost increase, the parties shall negotiate this issue to mitigate the financial impact to the employer.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the motion of petitioner, Queen City Academy Education Association, for summary decision is hereby GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that respondent, Queen City Academy Charter School Board of Trustees, offer its employees an NJEHP-equivalent plan.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

Queen City Academy Education Association, on behalf of its members, Gary Corcoran and Eric Koellner, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Trustees of the Queen City Academy Charter School, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and petitioner's reply thereto, have been reviewed and considered.

The Queen City Education Association (petitioner or Association) is the majority representative for certain employees of the Queen City Academy Charter School Board of Trustees (Board). In its petition of appeal, the Association alleges that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 by refusing to offer its employees a health insurance plan that is equivalent to the New Jersey Educators Health Plan (NJEHP).

Following petitioner's motion for summary decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board is obligated to provide a plan equivalent to the NJEHP; further, it was undisputed that the Board has not offered or provided such a plan. The ALJ rejected the Board's argument that the parties must negotiate regarding the increase in cost prior to the Board offering the plan, finding that the Board must offer the plan and then proceed to negotiations over any increase in net costs. The ALJ also rejected the Board's argument that this matter should be stayed pending the adjudication of similar matters currently pending before the New Jersey Council on Local Mandates, finding that those matters involve different parties and that there is no reason to believe that any order resulting from those matters would be binding or precedential on the OAL. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision and ordered the Board to offer its employees a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the ALJ failed to consider various questions of fact related to the Board's ability to finance a NJEHP-equivalent plan, including whether implementing the plan prior to negotiating could threaten the school's ability to provide a thorough and efficient education; whether charter schools must implement an unbudgeted plan when they have no independent taxing authority; whether performance was impossible because Small Market Insurers do not offer a NJEHP-equivalent plan; and whether incurring a net negative financial impact could result in over-expanding an appropriation. The Board also contends that there are issues of fact regarding whether implementing the plan would deviate from the state-approved performance framework and charter mission and design, and whether the Association had engaged in good faith negotiations to mitigate any negative financial impact.

In reply, the Association argues that the Initial Decision correctly concluded that the Board must first offer the NJEHP and then the parties shall negotiate over financial impact. According to the Association, the Board's excuses for its non-compliance must fail, as the Legislature is presumed to be aware of existing laws, and nonetheless intentionally required that boards offer a NJEHP-equivalent plan, without any exception for charter schools; the Legislature was also presumably aware that implementation would have financial consequences, as it required negotiations to mitigate the impact of offering the plan. The Association further indicates that two other cases addressing the issue of a Board's obligation to offer a NJEHP-equivalent plan have recently been decided, with the same outcome as the Initial Decision in this matter.

The Commissioner notes that the Board also provided information regarding a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) that had been reached between the parties.[1] In doing so, the Board acknowledged N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – which provides that evidence not presented at the hearing shall not be submitted as part of an exception, nor incorporated or referred to within exceptions – but indicated that because the fact and status of the parties' ongoing negotiations were a part of the OAL record, it was providing the information regarding the MOA to provide clarity. However, the record demonstrates that no information regarding the MOA was submitted to the ALJ, nor does that information "clarify" anything previously submitted – it is new information, and thus its submission was improper pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Accordingly, the Commissioner did not consider the portions of the Board's exceptions regarding the MOA, or the portions of the Associations reply thereto, in reaching the decision herein.[2]

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 obligates the Board to first offer a plan equivalent to the NJEHP to Association members, and then to proceed to negotiations over any resulting increase in costs. The plain language of the statute provides that an NJEHP equivalent plan "shall" be offered. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(a)(1). Accordingly, the Board's failure to provide such a plan is in violation of the statute. Furthermore, P.L. 2021, c. 163 provides

[1] A copy of the MOA was not provided.

[2] The Board also argues that the Initial Decision failed to recognize that the Council on Local Mandates did not find that Chapter 44 was not an unfunded mandate, but rather that the matter was not yet ripe for decision. As the Initial Decision does not address the substance of the proceedings before the Council, but rather only found that they did not involve the same parties and would not be binding on the OAL, the Commissioner finds this exception irrelevant.

that any district "with an increase in net cost . . . as a result of" offering the NJEHP-equivalent plan "shall commence negotiations immediately." The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, based on this language, the law requires negotiations only after the Board offers a NJEHP-equivalent plan, if there is a net cost increase.

The Commissioner does not find the Board's exceptions, which largely reiterate arguments made and rejected during the summary decision proceedings below, to be persuasive. To the extent that the Board may experience a negative financial impact as a result of offering a NJEHP-equivalent plan, that impact may be negotiated, but there is no exception that would allow the Board to avoid its obligation to offer the plan.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted, and the Board is ordered to offer and implement a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Queen City Academy Education Association, on behalf of its members, Gary Corcoran and Eric Koellner, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Trustees of the Queen City Academy Charter School, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and petitioner's reply thereto, have been reviewed and considered.

The Queen City Education Association (petitioner or Association) is the majority representative for certain employees of the Queen City Academy Charter School Board of Trustees (Board). In its petition of appeal, the Association alleges that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 by refusing to offer its employees a health insurance plan that is equivalent to the New Jersey Educators Health Plan (NJEHP).

Following petitioner's motion for summary decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board is obligated to provide a plan equivalent to the NJEHP; further, it was undisputed that the Board has not offered or provided such a plan. The ALJ rejected the Board's argument that the parties must negotiate regarding the increase in cost prior to the Board offering the plan, finding that the Board must offer the plan and then proceed to negotiations over any increase in net costs. The ALJ also rejected the Board's argument that this matter should be stayed pending the adjudication of similar matters currently pending before the New Jersey Council on Local Mandates, finding that those matters involve different parties and that there is no reason to believe that any order resulting from those matters would be binding or precedential on the OAL. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision and ordered the Board to offer its employees a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the ALJ failed to consider various questions of fact related to the Board's ability to finance a NJEHP-equivalent plan, including whether implementing the plan prior to negotiating could threaten the school's ability to provide a thorough and efficient education; whether charter schools must implement an unbudgeted plan when they have no independent taxing authority; whether performance was impossible because Small Market Insurers do not offer a NJEHP-equivalent plan; and whether incurring a net negative financial impact could result in over-expanding an appropriation. The Board also contends that there are issues of fact regarding whether implementing the plan would deviate from the state-approved performance framework and charter mission and design, and whether the Association had engaged in good faith negotiations to mitigate any negative financial impact.

In reply, the Association argues that the Initial Decision correctly concluded that the Board must first offer the NJEHP and then the parties shall negotiate over financial impact. According to the Association, the Board's excuses for its non-compliance must fail, as the Legislature is presumed to be aware of existing laws, and nonetheless intentionally required that boards offer a NJEHP-equivalent plan, without any exception for charter schools; the Legislature was also presumably aware that implementation would have financial consequences, as it required negotiations to mitigate the impact of offering the plan. The Association further indicates that two other cases addressing the issue of a Board's obligation to offer a NJEHP-equivalent plan have recently been decided, with the same outcome as the Initial Decision in this matter.

The Commissioner notes that the Board also provided information regarding a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) that had been reached between the parties.[1] In doing so, the Board acknowledged N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – which provides that evidence not presented at the hearing shall not be submitted as part of an exception, nor incorporated or referred to within exceptions – but indicated that because the fact and status of the parties' ongoing negotiations were a part of the OAL record, it was providing the information regarding the MOA to provide clarity. However, the record demonstrates that no information regarding the MOA was submitted to the ALJ, nor does that information "clarify" anything previously submitted – it is new information, and thus its submission was improper pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Accordingly, the Commissioner did not consider the portions of the Board's exceptions regarding the MOA, or the portions of the Associations reply thereto, in reaching the decision herein.[2]

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 obligates the Board to first offer a plan equivalent to the NJEHP to Association members, and then to proceed to negotiations over any resulting increase in costs. The plain language of the statute provides that an NJEHP equivalent plan "shall" be offered. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(a)(1). Accordingly, the Board's failure to provide such a plan is in violation of the statute. Furthermore, P.L. 2021, c. 163 provides

[2] The Board also argues that the Initial Decision failed to recognize that the Council on Local Mandates did not find that Chapter 44 was not an unfunded mandate, but rather that the matter was not yet ripe for decision. As the Initial Decision does not address the substance of the proceedings before the Council, but rather only found that they did not involve the same parties and would not be binding on the OAL, the Commissioner finds this exception irrelevant.

that any district "with an increase in net cost . . . as a result of" offering the NJEHP-equivalent plan "shall commence negotiations immediately." The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, based on this language, the law requires negotiations only after the Board offers a NJEHP-equivalent plan, if there is a net cost increase.

The Commissioner does not find the Board's exceptions, which largely reiterate arguments made and rejected during the summary decision proceedings below, to be persuasive. To the extent that the Board may experience a negative financial impact as a result of offering a NJEHP-equivalent plan, that impact may be negotiated, but there is no exception that would allow the Board to avoid its obligation to offer the plan.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted, and the Board is ordered to offer and implement a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

Final Decision

Franklin Township Education Association,
Janice Regan, and Sheila Holland,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of Franklin Township,
Somerset County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The petitioner, Franklin Township Education Association ("petitioner" or "Association") alleged that the respondent Franklin Township Board of Education ("respondent" or "Board") improperly refused to offer an employee health plan that is equivalent to the New Jersey Educators Health Plan ("NJEHP") mandated under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 et seq. The Association also filed a related Unfair Practice Charge with the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC); the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that PERC was the agency with the predominant interest in that case.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; in July 2020, the New Jersey Legislature enacted P.L. 2020, Chapter 44, which amended the health insurance benefits statutes for school employees, requiring that employees at schools that do not participate in the State Employees' Health Benefits Plan be offered the NJEHP or an equivalent plan; it is undisputed that the Board has not offered or provided such a plan; and the Board's argument that the parties must negotiate regarding the increase in cost prior to the Board offering the plan is without merit, as the Board must first offer the required NJEHP equivalent plan and then proceed to negotiations over any increase in net costs. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision and ordered the Board to offer its employees a NJEHP-equivalent plan. PERC issued a decision agreeing with the ALJ that the Board is obligated to first offer a NJEHP-equivalent plan and then negotiate regarding any net cost increase.

Upon review, and addressing the issues within the Commissioner's jurisdiction, the Commissioner, inter alia, concurred with the ALJ and PERC that the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 obligates the Board to first offer a plan equivalent to the NJEHP to Association members, before proceeding to negotiations over any resulting increase in costs. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board was ordered to offer and implement a NJEHP-equivalent health insurance plan for its employees, as required under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Franklin Township Education Association, Janice Regan, and Sheila Holland, Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of Franklin Township, Somerset County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by the parties pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, petitioner's reply to respondent's exceptions, and the decision of the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) have been reviewed and considered.[1]

The Franklin Township Education Association (petitioner or Association) is the majority representative for certain employees of the Franklin Township Board of Education (Board). In its petition of appeal, the Association alleges that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 by refusing to offer its employees a health insurance plan that is equivalent to the New Jersey Educators Health Plan (NJEHP). Petitioner also filed an Unfair Practice Charge with PERC. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that PERC was the agency with the predominant interest.

[1] Respondent did not file a reply to petitioner's exceptions.

Following petitioner's motion for summary decision, the ALJ found that the Board is obligated to provide a plan equivalent to the NJEHP and that it was undisputed that the Board has not offered or provided such a plan. The ALJ rejected the Board's argument that the parties must negotiate regarding the increase in cost prior to the Board offering the plan, finding that the Board must offer the plan and then proceed to negotiations over any increase in net costs. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision.

In its decision, PERC agreed with the ALJ that the Board is obligated to offer a NJEHP-equivalent plan and then negotiate regarding any net cost increase. PERC amended the Initial Decision to specify that the Board's failure to meet its obligations under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 simultaneously violated the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act.

In its exceptions, petitioner agrees with the merits of the ALJ's decision but requests that the remedy be modified to make employees whole for the financial loss suffered as a result of the Board's refusal to offer the NJEHP plan. Petitioner contends that it sought summary judgment solely on the issue of the Board's liability with respect to its failure to offer the plan and stated in its moving papers that the make-whole remedy would subsequently be proven.

Upon review, addressing the issues within the Commissioner's jurisdiction, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ and PERC that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 obligates the Board to first offer a plan equivalent to the NJEHP to Association members, and then to proceed to negotiations over any resulting increase in costs. The plain language of the statute provides that an NJEHP equivalent plan "shall" be offered. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(a)(1). Accordingly, the Board's failure to provide such a plan is in violation of the statute. Furthermore, P.L. 2021, c.

163 provides that any district "with an increase in net cost . . . as a result of" offering the NJEHP-equivalent plan "shall commence negotiations immediately." The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ and PERC that, based on this language, the law requires negotiations only after the Board offers a NJEHP-equivalent plan, if there is a net cost increase.

The Commissioner rejects as premature or speculative petitioner's exceptions regarding the issue of remedy. Association members' financial losses, if any, suffered because of the Board's failure to offer the required NJEHP-equivalent plan cannot be ascertained until the Board has offered and implemented that plan. Should such damages become evident in the future, the Association is free to file a new petition of appeal.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted, and the Board is ordered to offer and implement a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

RECORD CLOSED: October 31, 2022 DATED: November 18, 2022

BEFORE SARAH G. CROWLEY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner brought an action against the respondent alleging the respondent improperly refused to offer a health plan under N.J.S.A. 18A:13-16.2. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case and assigned to the undersigned. On or about January 8, 2021, the petitioner brought an action against the respondent alleging an Unfair Practice Charge with the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) on behalf of the same Franklin Township Education Association. PERC issued a complaint on June 28, 2021. The matters were consolidated by Order, dated September 30, 2022. On September 30, 2022, the petitioner filed a motion for summary decision. Opposition was filed by the respondent, Board of Education on October 10, 2022. Oral argument was conducted via Zoom on October 31, 2022, and the record closed on that date.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

On July 1, 2020, the New Jersey Legislature enacted P.L. 2020, Chapter 44, which amended the health insurance benefits statues for school employees, which provides:

> (1) Notwithstanding the provision of any other law, rule or regulation to the contrary, beginning January 1, 2021 and for each year thereafter, a board of education as an employer providing health care benefits coverage for its employees and their dependent if any, in accordance with P.L. 1979, c. 291 18A:16-12 et seq. shall offer to its employees, and their dependents if any, the equivalent of the New Jersey Educators Plan in the School Employees' Health Benefits Program as that plan design is described in section f. of section 1 of P.L. 2020,c.44, 52:14-17.46.13.
> (2) the plan under this section shall be offered by the employer regardless of any collective negotiation agreement between the employer and its employees in effect on the effective date [July 1, 2020] of this act, P.L. 2020, c.44, that provides for enrollment in other plans offered by the employer.

With regard to employees who commenced employment prior to July 1, 2020, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(b) provides that:

> Prior to January 1, 2020, each employer shall provide an enrollment period during which all employees who commenced employment prior to the effective date[July1, 2020] of this act shall be required to select affirmatory a plan provided by the employer. If an employee fails to select affirmatively a plan during this enrollment period, the employer shall enroll the employee, and the employee's dependents if any, in the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan offered pursuant to subsection a. of this section for the year January 1, 2021, until December 31, 2021.

With regard to employees who commence employment on or after July 1, 2020, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2c(1) provides that:

> Beginning on January 1, 2021, an employee commencing employment on or after the effective date [July 1, 2020] of this act but before January 1, 2028, who does not waive coverage, shall be enrolled by the employer in the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan, or equivalent Garden State Health Plan if selected by the employee, as those plans are offered pursuant to subsection a of this section. The employee shall remain enrolled in either the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan or the equivalent Garden State Health Plan selected the employee at the annual open enrollment for each plan year until December 31, 2027, provided that he employee during this period may waive coverage as an employee and select and change the type of coverage received under the plan following a qualifying life event, in accordance with the plan regulations. Beginning January 1, 2028, the employee may select, during open enrollment period or at such other times or under such conditions as the employer may provide, any plan offered by the employer.

In June 2021, the New Jersey legislature amended the forgoing law to provide that if the provisions of the foregoing result in an increase net cost, the parties "shall commence negotiations immediacy, unless mutually agreed upon by the employer and the majority representative to opt to substantially mitigate the finance impact to the employer as part of the next collective negotiators agreement." It is undisputed that the respondent, Franklin Township Board of Education has not offered or provided its members with a plan equivalent to New Jersey Educator's Health Plan ("NJEHP"). Moreover, the parties have commenced negotiations over this issue.

The foregoing facts are undisputed and are thus FOUND as FACT.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The undisputed facts are that petitioners have not been offered a plan equivalent to NJEHP. And although the "net costs" of such a plan have not, nor could they be determined without such an offering, the parties have commenced negotiations regarding this issue. Notwithstanding the speculative nature of cost increase of such a plan, the Board has maintained that it does not have to offer the plan until after the negotiations are completed. However, the law provides that if there is an increase in costs that that parties shall negotiate. Moreover, negotiations have been commenced. The law is not discretionary and does provide an option to providing an equivalent plan. The language is clear and unambiguous --- an equivalent plan shall be offered; and if an increase in cost occurs, the parties shall negotiate it.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the allegedly disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995) (citing Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill, 142 N.J. at 540 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 212 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214.

The respondent has not presented any material facts that are in dispute in this matter. The law in question is clear. It mandates the District to offer the plan equivalent to the NJEHP, and if there is an increase in cost, it mandates the parties to negotiate the issue relating to increase cost of the plan. Respondent argues that the financial impact of offering this plan is substantial and the parties need to negotiate the issue prior to offering it. They submit documentation outlining the potential increase in cost. However, even assuming that I accept these projections as fact, it does not relieve the District of the obligation to provide such a plan. They must provide the plan and then proceed to negotiations over such increase in costs.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the petitioner is entitled to a judgement as a matter of law on the issue involving the obligation of the District to offer provide a plan equivalent to the NJEHP to its members. I further CONCLUDE that after offering such a plan to its members, if there is a net cost increase, the parties SHALL negotiate this issue to mitigate the financial impact to the employer.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision on all issues within the scope of its predominant interest. If the PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision on all of the issues within the scope of predominant interest shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the CHAIR OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMEN RELATIONS COMMISSION, 495 West State Street, P.O. Box 429, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0429, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering its final decision PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its final decision, to CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which may subsequently render a final decision on any remaining issues and consider any specific remedies which may be within its grant of authority.

Upon transmitting the record, PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c), request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION within forty-five days of the predominant-agency decision. If CIVIL SERVICE COMMISION does not render a final decision within the extended time, this recommended decision on the remaining issues and remedies shall become the final decision.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

Community Charter School of Paterson
Education Association, on behalf of its members,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Trustees of the Community
Charter School of Paterson, Passaic County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The petitioner, Community Charter School of Paterson Education Association ("petitioner" or "Association") alleged that respondent Community Charter School of Paterson Board of Trustees ("respondent" or "Board") improperly refused to offer an employee health plan that is equivalent to the New Jersey Educators Health Plan ("NJEHP") mandated under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 et seq.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the Association and the Board are parties to a collective bargaining agreement which expired on June 30, 2021; negotiations are continuing to reach a successor agreement; in July 2020, the New Jersey Legislature enacted P.L. 2020, Chapter 44, which amended the health insurance benefits statutes for school employees, requiring that employees at schools that do not participate in the State Employees' Health Benefits Plan be offered the NJEHP or an equivalent plan; beginning January 1, 2021, the Board offered its employees three Open Access health insurance plans, one of which was identified as substantially equivalent to the NJEHP; that plan was later found to not be equivalent to the NJEHP; the Board claims that it is in negotiations with the Association for a new collective bargaining agreement that will encompass health benefits and costs, but no agreement has yet been reached; the issue to be decided here is the legal authority of the Board to defer offering an equivalent health insurance plan to the Association until negotiations have been completed. The ALJ rejected the Board's argument that the parties must negotiate regarding the increase in cost prior to the Board offering the plan and determined instead that the Board must first offer the required NJEHP equivalent plan and then proceed to negotiations over any increase in net costs. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision and ordered the Board to offer its employees a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The Board was ordered to offer and implement a NJEHP-equivalent health insurance plan for its employees, as required under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2.

Final Decision

Community Charter School of Paterson Education Association, on behalf of its members,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Trustees of the Community Charter School of Paterson, Passaic County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and respondent's reply thereto, have been reviewed and considered.

The Community Charter School of Paterson Education Association (petitioner or Association) is the majority representative for certain employees of the Community Charter School of Paterson Board of Trustees (Board). In its petition of appeal, the Association alleges that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 by refusing to offer its employees a health insurance plan that is equivalent to the New Jersey Educators Health Plan (NJEHP).

Following petitioner's motion for summary decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board is obligated to provide a plan equivalent to the NJEHP and that it was undisputed that the Board has not offered or provided such a plan. The ALJ rejected the Board's argument that the parties must negotiate regarding the increase in cost prior to the Board offering the plan, finding that the Board must offer the plan and then proceed to negotiations over any increase in net costs. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision and ordered the Board to offer its employees a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

In its exceptions, petitioner agrees with the merits of the ALJ's decision but requests that the remedy be modified to make employees whole for the financial loss suffered as a result of the Board's refusal to offer the NJEHP plan. Petitioner contends that it sought summary judgment solely on the issue of the Board's liability with respect to its failure to offer the plan and stated in its moving papers that the make-whole remedy would subsequently be proven.

In reply, the Board argues that petitioner has not supplied any proof of loss by employees. The Board also contends that the statutory scheme provides for collective negotiations to address issues arising from the costs of these plans, rather than a private right of action.[1]

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 obligates the Board to first offer a plan equivalent to the NJEHP to Association members, and then to proceed to negotiations over any resulting increase in costs. The plain language of the statute provides that an NJEHP equivalent plan "shall" be offered. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(a)(1). Accordingly, the Board's failure to provide such a plan is in violation of the statute. Furthermore, P.L. 2021, c. 163 provides that any district "with an increase in net cost . . . as a result of" offering the NJEHP-equivalent plan "shall commence negotiations immediately." The

[1] The Board did not file any exceptions regarding the merits of the Initial Decision.

Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, based on this language, the law requires negotiations only after the Board offers a NJEHP-equivalent plan, if there is a net cost increase.

The Commissioner rejects as premature or speculative petitioner's exceptions regarding the issue of remedy. Association members' financial losses, if any, suffered as a result of the Board's failure to offer the required NJEHP-equivalent plan cannot be ascertained until the Board has actually offered and implemented that plan. Should such damages become evident in the future, the Association is free to file a new petition of appeal.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted, and the Board is ordered to offer and implement a NJEHP-equivalent employee health insurance plan.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Community Charter School of Paterson Education Association ("petitioner" or "Association") brought an action against the respondent Community Charter School of Paterson Board of Trustees ("respondent" or "Board") alleging the respondent improperly refused to offer an "equivalent" New Jersey Educators Health Plan ("NJEHP") under the Health Benefits Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 et seq., as amended by P.L. 2021, c. 163.

The matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on April 27, 2021, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.[1] The matter was assigned to the the Honorable Acting Director and Chief Administrative Law Judge Ellen S. Bass, who managed the matter until her retirement in May 2022. Following the retirement of Judge Bass, the Honorable Judge Joann Candido, A.L.A.J., conferenced the matter telephonically on June 29, 2022, to familiarize herself with the status of the case and any settlement discussions. Thereafter, the matter was reassigned to me. It was agreed that counsel would consider drafting a joint stipulation of facts and presenting the case through dispositive motion practice. The scheduling of a plenary hearing date was deferred and a briefing schedule established. The matter is now ripe for decision.

STATEMENT OF UNDISPUTED FACTS

7. The Board states that it is negotiations with the Association for a new agreement that will encompass health benefits and costs, but no agreement has been reached yet.

ARGUMENT ON THE MOTIONS

Petitioner argues that the plain letter of the law set forth in Chapter 44 as amended requires the Board to actually offer an equivalent-NJEHP healthcare plan and determine the net cost increases before negotiating with the Association to mitigate those increases.

Respondent argues that it knows the potential cost increases and that the Association must negotiate in good faith a new collective bargaining agreement before the Board incurs those losses. It also asserts that the OAP III plan offered is substantially consistent with the law's requirements.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The above-recitation of the factual background, together with a reading of the legal submissions of the parties, makes it clear that the only issue pending determination on this summary disposition motion is the legal authority of the Board to defer offering an "equivalent" health insurance plan to the Association until negotiations have been completed. In other words, the parties argue that the legal issue here is a chicken-egg dilemma as to when negotiations must take place.

It is well-established that if there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, a moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995). The purpose of summary decision is to avoid unnecessary hearings and their concomitant burden on public resources. Under the Brill standard, a fact-finding hearing should be avoided "when the evidence is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Brill guides us thusly:

> [A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

In explaining the standard to be applied in summary motion practice, the Brill Court explained:

> The same standard applies to determine whether a prima facie case has been established by the party bearing the burden of proof in a trial. . . . If a case involves no material factual disputes, the court disposes of it as a matter of law by rendering judgment in favor of the moving or non-moving party.

[Id. at 536-37]

I CONCLUDE in this matter that the issue of when the NJEHP or NJEHP-equivalent health insurance plan must be offered to the Community Charter School covered employees can be decided as a matter of law.[2]

On July 1, 2020, the New Jersey Legislature enacted P.L. 2020, Chapter 44, which amended the health insurance benefits statues for school employees, which provides:

> (1) Notwithstanding the provision of any other law, rule or regulation to the contrary, beginning January 1, 2021 and for each year thereafter, a board of education as an employer providing health care benefits coverage for its employees and their dependent if any, in accordance with P.L. 1979, c. 291, 18A:16-12 et seq. shall offer to its employees, and their dependents if any, the equivalent of the New Jersey Educators Plan in the School Employees' Health Benefits Program as that plan design is described in section f. of section 1 of P.L. 2020, c.44, 52:14-17.46.13.
>
> (2) the plan under this section shall be offered by the employer regardless of any collective negotiation agreement between the employer and its employees in effect on the effective date [July 1, 2020] of this Act, P.L. 2020, c.44, that provides for enrollment in other plans offered by the employer.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2 (emphasis added).]

With regard to employees who commenced employment prior to July 1, 2020, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(b) provides that:

> Prior to January 1, 2020, each employer shall provide an enrollment period during which all employees who > commenced employment prior to the effective date [July1, 2020] of this act shall be required to select affirmatory a plan provided by the employer. If an employee fails to select affirmatively a plan during this enrollment period, the employer shall enroll the employee, and the employee's dependents, if any, in the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan offered pursuant to subsection a. of this section for the year January 1, 2021, until December 31, 2021.

With regard to employees who commence employment on or after July 1, 2020, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-13.2(c)(1) provides that:

> Beginning on January 1, 2021, an employee commencing employment on or after the effective date [July 1, 2020] of this act but before January 1, 2028, who does not waive coverage, shall be enrolled by the employer in the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan, or equivalent Garden State Health Plan if selected by the employee, as those plans are offered pursuant to subsection a of this section. The employee shall remain enrolled in either the equivalent New Jersey Educators Health Plan or the equivalent Garden State Health Plan selected the employee at the annual open enrollment for each plan year until December 31, 2027, provided that the employee during this period may waive coverage as an employee and select and change the type of coverage received under the plan following a qualifying life event, in accordance with the plan regulations. Beginning January 1, 2028, the employee may select, during open enrollment period or at such other times or under such conditions as the employer may provide, any plan offered by the employer.
> [Id. (emphasis added).]

In June 2021, the New Jersey legislature amended the forgoing law to provide that if the provisions of the foregoing result in an increase in the net cost of healthcare plans, the parties "shall commence negotiations immediacy, unless mutually agreed upon by the employer and the majority representative to opt to substantially mitigate the finance impact to the employer as part of the next collective negotiators agreement." [P.L. 2021, c. 163 (emphasis added).] It is undisputed that the respondent Board has not offered or provided its members with a plan equivalent to the NJEHP. While the parties have commenced negotiations over this issue, the Board has not had a financial impact yet and the net impact of employee contributions is not known.

The respondent has not presented any material facts that are in dispute in this matter. The law in question is clear. It mandates the Board to put in place a plan equivalent to the NJEHP, and if there is an increase in net cost, it mandates the parties to negotiate the issue relating to that increase in the net cost of the plan. Respondent argues that the financial impact of offering this plan is substantial and the parties need to negotiate the issue prior to offering it. They submit documentation outlining the potential increase in cost. However, even assuming that I accept these projections as fact, it does not relieve the Board of the obligation to provide such a plan. They must provide the plan and then, under the more recent amendments to Chapter 44, proceed to negotiations over such increase in net costs, i.e., deducting for employee contributions.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the petitioner is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law on the issue involving the obligation of the Board to provide a plan equivalent to the NJEHP to its members. I further CONCLUDE that after offering such a plan to its members, if there is a net cost increase, the parties shall negotiate this issue to mitigate the financial impact to the employer.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the motion of petitioner Community Charter School of Paterson Education Association for Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the Community Charter School of Paterson Board of Trustees offer its employees a NJEHP-equivalent plan.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Before MELISSA H. BIREN, Esq., Impartial Arbitrator

ORDER APPROVING SETTLEMENT OF TENURE CHARGES

The School District of the City of East Orange, Essex County (the "Board") certified tenure charges against Emmanuel Etim ("Respondent" or "Etim"), a tenured teacher in the East Orange School District, alleging inefficiency (the "Tenure Charges"); the School Business Administrator/Board Secretary, Marissa McKenzie, filed the Tenure Charges with the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey on or about October 18, 2022. Following submission of the Tenure Charges, Madelaine P. Hicks, Esq. (Antonelli Kantor Rivera) represented the Board in connection with the Tenure Charges. Respondent, by his counsel, Evan Goldman, Esq. (Goldman Davis Krumholz & Dillon, P.C.) filed a Response with the Commissioner on or about November 30, 2022, attaching a September 27, 2022 letter that had been sent to the Board, setting forth Etim's position regarding the Tenure Charges and advising that Respondent would be vigorously defending all the charges. The Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the Tenure Charges and the Response, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation and, therefore, referred the matter to arbitration. These charges were referred to the undersigned Arbitrator on December 9, 2022 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26. A timely request for an extension of time was granted.

The parties reached a mutually acceptable settlement of the Tenure Charges prior to the commencement of the hearings scheduled for February 7, 9 and 16, 2023.

The settlement terms were thereafter set forth in a written Settlement Agreement ("Settlement"). On February 8, 2023, the Settlement, signed by the parties, was forwarded to the arbitrator for review and approval. After review of the Settlement and based on representations by the parties' counsel, the standards for settlement or withdrawal of the Tenure Charges have been satisfied in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 and, therefore, the settlement of the Tenure Charges pursuant to the terms of the Settlement is hereby approved.

1. A copy of the Settlement, as well as the Tenure Charges and the Answer, are annexed to this Order.
2. The settlement of the Tenure Charges is warranted given that Respondent has resigned his employment with the school district effective January 17, 2023. Etim's resignation renders resolution of the charges moot; no further or other relief would result from a continuation of the arbitration proceeding.
3. Both the charged and charging parties have consented to the settlement terms. Both parties were represented by counsel in the negotiation of the settlement terms and the preparation of the Settlement. Etim signed the Settlement indicating his voluntary agreement to its terms on January 10, 2023. The Settlement was also signed by a duly authorized representative of the Board on January 23, 2023, indicating the Board's voluntary agreement to its terms.
4. Respondent confirmed in the Settlement that he fully understands the settlement terms and that he voluntarily entered into the settlement with a full understanding of his rights. Counsel provided advice and counsel to the Respondent throughout the settlement process.
5. The settlement is in the public interest. Respondent has resigned his employment with the district. Proceeding with the Tenure Charges will not provide any further or other relief. Further, by the settlement, the Board avoids the uncertainty of the outcome of the arbitration, the time and expense associated with litigation and any disruption to the school district resulting from school personnel's participation in the hearing.

6. Based on representations made to me by Etim's counsel, Evan Goldman, Esq., counsel has advised his client of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the NJ State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of his certificate in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a)6.

By reason of the foregoing, the settlement of the tenure charges against the Respondent, Emmanuel Etim, pursuant to the terms set forth in the Settlement, is approved.

WHEREAS, Mr. Etim was served with tenure charges on or about September 14, 2022;

WHEREAS, Mr. Etim intends to resign from his position effective January, 2022 ("Date of Resignation"); and

WHEREAS, the parties, now wishing to resolve the within matter amicably without the need for litigation or tenure charges, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein; and

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants contained herein, and for other good and valuable consideration, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledge, the parties agree to resolve the tenure charges filed with the Commissioner of Education, as follows:

1. IRREVOCABLE RESIGNATION

Mr. Etim, by signing this Agreement, hereby tenders his irrevocable resignation effective January 17, 2023, which is annexed hereto as Attachment A. Mr. Etim's resignation shall be effective and irrevocable upon approval of this Agreement by the Board. The Board agrees that it shall accept Mr. Etim's resignation and shall withdraw the instant tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education. However, in the event that any third-party action shall be initiated against Mr. Etim that implicates the Board, the Board reserves its rights with respect thereto. Mr. Etim shall have the same COBRA rights as any other former employee and shall be solely responsible for any and all costs associated with said COBRA coverage.

In the event Mr. Etim secures health benefits prior to the expiration of his District-provided coverage, he will immediately notify the Board and be removed from the Board's plan.

3. NO ADMISSIONS

This Agreement is entered into solely for the purpose of resolving certain issues related to Mr. Etim's employment. Neither the execution, delivery, nor performance of this Agreement, nor Mr. Etim's resignation, shall constitute or be construed at any time or for any purpose to be an admission of liability or wrongdoing by the parties. Specifically exempted from this release are any claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., and for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to COBRA. This release does not limit Mr. Etim's right to seek indemnification, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and/or N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, with respect to a claim filed against him for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties as an employee of the Board. The parties represent that they are not currently aware of the existence of any such claims.

Rivera, Esq., electronic notification to rrivera@akrlaw.com and jscheper@akrlaw.com, simultaneously.

9. SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS

This Agreement shall be binding upon and shall inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective successors and assigns.

10. PUBLIC INTEREST

This Agreement and Release will serve the public interest because, as a result of Mr. Etim having tendered her irrevocable letter of resignation, the Board will not have to engage in litigation related to his employment.

11. ENTIRE AGREEMENT

In the matter of EMMANUEL ETIM EAST ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX	NEW JERSEY COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION AGENCY DOCKET NO. NOTICE OF TENURE CHARGES

I, AbdulSaleem Hasan being of full age and duly sworn according to law, depose and say:

1. I am the Superintendent of the East Orange School District (the "District"). As part of my duties, I oversee the administration of all employees throughout the District, including Emmanuel Etim ("Respondent"). During the time period relevant to the Tenure Charges, the Respondent was a tenured employee within the District.

2. I hereby file these Tenure Charges on the basis of Inefficiency pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3, and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 against the Respondent, a tenured teacher employed by the East Orange Board of Education (the "Board"). The charges stated herein are based upon my personal knowledge, information and belief derived from personnel and other files and records maintained by the Board, and information imparted to me and staff members, specifically as follows:

INFORMATION COMMON TO ALL CHARGES

Respondent, Emmanuel Etim, has been employed by the Board since on or around January 3, 2000. Respondent presently serves in the tenured position of Special Education Teacher at Sojourner Truth Middle School. During his employment with the District, Respondent has been at all times and, among other things, required to observe and comply with District, State, and Federal Law governing teaching standards. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(a):

> (1) the superintendent shall promptly file with the secretary of the board of education a charge of inefficiency whenever the employee is rated ineffective or partially effective in an annual summative evaluation and the following year is rated ineffective in the annual summative evaluation;
> (2) if the employee is rated partially effective in two consecutive annual summative evaluations or is rated ineffective in an annual summative evaluation and the following year is rated partially effective in the annual summative evaluation, the superintendent shall promptly file with the secretary of the board of education a charge of inefficiency, except that the superintendent upon a written finding of exceptional circumstances may defer the filing of tenure charges until after the next annual summative evaluation. Re: IMO Tenure Hearing of Emmanuel Etim

Dear Acting Commissioner Allen-McMillan:

Please be advised that I am currently representing Emmanuel Etim with regard to the recent Tenure Charges filed against him. Previously, I had forwarded to the East Orange School District a detailed letter (attached) responding to the Tenure Charges filed against him. While that letter was acknowledged by the Business Administrator, I received no other contact from anyone at the District or its attorney.

Mr. Etim is strenuously defending against the filed tenure charges as can be seen on the attached letter. I will continue to defend Mr. Etim at any tenure hearing as he has had a flawless career of 23 and ½ years.

If you require any additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Respectfully submitted,

Re: Emmanuel Etim

Dear Ms. McKenzie:

Please accept this letter to note my representation of Mr. Etim regarding the tenure charges that the District has filed and served upon him. I will be representing him in this matter, including but not limited to defending him in any tenure hearing. It is my hope that after this matter is carefully reviewed, there can be some type of resolution which will benefit both the District and Mr. Etim.

Essentially, the tenure charges attempt to portray Mr. Etim as not performing his teaching duties up to the level expected of him by the District. Mr. Etim denies any and all of these allegations and more specifically provides details of this below.

1. Mr. Etim has been teaching for 23 years and 6 months, most of that in the East Orange School District. He currently has Tenure as a Special Education Teacher and has had tenure for many years.

2. Most, if not all, of the allegations pertain to the past two years. As we all know, the past two years were part of the global pandemic and teaching was not easy for any professional. Most teaching was done via zoom.

3. As a Special Education Teacher, Mr. Etim more than the "normal" issues involved in teaching via the zoom platform. At the beginning of the 21-21 school year Mr. Etim had no assistants working with him. His predecessor in that class had three assistants.

4. Even when Mr. Etim was not teaching virtually, he had no one with him. Two parents were consistently drawing Mr. Etim's attention to the fact that their children always had one on one personnel work with their children. One of these students was speech impaired and the other was autistic. The speech impaired student was a female who had to be diapered by the hour. Mr. Etim was left with the student, although regulations required that an adult female change the diaper. As a result, this student would often run out into the hallway. Mr. Etim could not abandon the other students in the classroom, so for the first 5 months of the school year this consistently happened.

5. The classroom that Mr. Etim was assigned had no windows and a door. Students were constantly fanning themselves due to the heat. The toilet barely flushed requiring Mr. Etim to flush the toilet several additional times. The hand wash sink spews hot water.

6. Given the class population with learners with multiple disabilities and functioning capabilities, all of the above compounded normal issues in a special ed. Classroom. Mr. Etim's class consisted of children with autism, downs syndrome and hyperactive disorder, all of which made it difficult for any of them to do any substantial academic work. There was no assistive technology and no aids. There were chrome books, but without the necessary software to enable them to do anything sensible.

7. An assistant who was working there briefly last year was experienced in dealing with these types of students. However, the assistant was replaced with someone much less experienced. Most of these students were MCI (mutiply cognitively impaired).

The situation created by the Pandemic and the lack of support provided to Mr. Etim (not even including the deplorable conditions under which he had to work), would have made it difficult for any teacher to perform adequately. In this case, Mr. Etim is a scapegoat for the lack of support given to him by the East Orange School District. This will be amplified during any tenure hearing and no matter what happens, it is our expectation and hope that this will result in the District giving its teachers adequate support.

The Pandemic made it extremely difficult for teachers who were teaching students without any of these issues to perform adequately. For Mr. Etim, who had a population of students with incredible needs (and where very little assistance was provided), his task was virtually impossible.

As stated above, any and all tenure charges will be defended vigorously.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Very truly yours,

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

W.M., on behalf of minor child, J.M.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster, Somerset County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner disputed the respondent Board's finding that his son, J.M., committed an act of harassment, intimidation or bullying (HIB) against a fellow student pursuant to New Jersey's Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.2 et seq (the Act). After an investigation by the school's anti-bullying specialist, the Board determined that J.M. had committed an act of HIB against classmate C.D. when he made comments regarding C.D.'s weight and attire. The Board asserted that J.M.'s conduct satisfied all of the elements of the statutory definition of HIB under the Act. The petitioner contended that the Board's HIB determination was based on a flawed, incomplete, and biased investigation, and was therefore arbitrary, capricious, and/or unreasonable.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: an action by a board of education is entitled to a presumption of correctness unless it is proven to be arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable; under the Act, "harassment, intimidation, or bullying" is broadly defined as any gesture, any written, verbal, or physical act, or any electronic communication that is reasonably perceived as motivated by any actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical, or sensory disability, that takes place on school property and substantially disrupts the orderly operation of the school; in the instant case, the record reflects that J.M. did not deny asking C.D. how much he weighed, nor making unkind comments about the size of C.D.'s shoes, but defended his inappropriate comments as merely "trash talk" among a group of classmates; C.D. was insulted and demeaned by the comments made by J.M. and those comments had the effect of disrupting C.D.'s education by causing him to stop taking his medication in the hope that he would lose weight, and by causing him not to want to go to school for fear of being made fun of by J.M. The ALJ concluded that the petitioners have failed to meet their burden of proof that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in concluding that J.M.'s actions constituted harassment, intimidation or bullying under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the Board's HIB determination and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in rendering its HIB determination. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

W.M., on behalf of minor child, J.M.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster, Somerset County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the Board's reply thereto.

In this matter, petitioner challenges the Board's determination that his son committed an act of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) based on alleged comments about the victim's weight and attire. Specifically, J.M. admitted to asking C.D. how many pounds he weighs; witnesses reported J.M. calling C.D. fat behind his back and referring to his shoes as being as big as "sailboats"; and C.D. alleged that J.M. used his body to push and intimidate him. As a result of the conduct, C.D. stopped taking his medication because it caused him to gain weight and he did not want to come to school out of concern that he would be teased. The school's anti-bullying specialist conducted an HIB investigation in which she interviewed J.M, C.D., and three student witnesses, and concluded that J.M.'s conduct met the definition of HIB.

Specifically, the HIB investigation report found that the verbal and physical acts were motivated by the distinguishing characteristics of weight, attire, and athletic ability. Moreover, in addition to causing a substantial disruption or interference, the conduct had the effect of insulting or demeaning C.D, and severely or pervasively caused physical or emotional harm to C.D., as he did not want to come to school and ceased taking his prescribed medication. The Board confirmed the HIB determination and petitioner subsequently filed this petition of appeal.

Following a hearing on the merits, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that the Board was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable in determining that J.M. committed an HIB violation, as the record demonstrates that J.M made a series of insulting and demeaning comments based on C.D.'s perceived characteristics of weight, shoe size, clothing, and athletic ability. The ALJ further explained that the comments disrupted C.D.'s education as they caused C.D. to stop taking his medicine and fear coming to school. Moreover, the ALJ disagreed with petitioner's arguments and found that the HIB investigation was proper, unbiased, and complete.

In his exceptions, petitioner argues that the HIB determination should be reversed because it was based on a flawed, incomplete, and biased investigation. Petitioner explained that when C.D.'s parent first contacted the guidance counselor about J.M.'s conduct, the counselor told her she was sorry about what the family was going through and that C.D. is a great kid. Petitioner contends that since the guidance counselor is also the anti-bullying specialist who conducted the investigation, the investigator was biased in favor of C.D. based of her initial exchange with C.D.'s parent. Petitioner also contends that the investigation was flawed as no staff were interviewed and, instead, the report relied only on the statements of fifth-grade students who were named by the victim. As one witness was a good friend of the victim's and was also suspended for punching J.M. in the nose, petitioner alleges he was a biased witness. According to petitioner, the investigator downplayed the assault and never explored the possibility that the HIB complaint was in retaliation for the witness' three-day suspension. Further, the petitioner argues that the investigator did not ask the witnesses about whether C.D. participated in trash-talking; did not consider evidence demonstrating that J.M. was joking and had no history of HIB complaints; and did not place weight on the fact that the victim had no physical injury and that, although he claimed he did not want to come to school, C.D. missed no school days.

Petitioner contends that the ALJ erred in not placing weight on his testimony or the testimony of his son, which, he alleges, demonstrates that the HIB determination was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable. According to petitioner, his testimony established that there was a conflict of interest as the Superintendent's children were involved, while his son, J.M., testified that the students would all "trash-talk" each other at lunch, and that after the investigator informed him that C.D. was upset, J.M. apologized. Finally, petitioner takes exception to the ALJ's refusal to accept the testimony of petitioner's expert as reliable. Accordingly, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision.

In reply, the Board argues that petitioner does not challenge the ALJ's legal determinations, but rather credibility determinations and assessment of the facts. The Board argues that the ALJ's credibility assessments are supported by the record – as petitioner's testimony was inconsistent and his expert relied on inaccurate information – and therefore the ALJ's determinations were not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Additionally, the Board contends that the HIB determination was supported by the record, including J.M.'s own admission that he made a comment about how many pounds C.D. weighed. As such, the Board asks that the Initial Decision be adopted.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, based on the evidence in the record, petitioner did not establish that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in finding that J.M. committed an act of HIB. The Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (the Act) defines HIB as follows:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L. 2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
> N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

Therefore, a finding of HIB requires three elements. First, the conduct must be reasonably perceived as being motivated by any actual or perceived enumerated characteristic or other distinguishing characteristic and, second, the conduct must substantially disrupt or interfere with the rights of other students or the orderly operation of the school. The third condition is that one of the three criteria enumerated in the Act regarding the effect of the conduct must also be satisfied. Wehbeh v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Verona, Essex County, Commissioner Decision No. 51-20 (decided February 4, 2020).

Regarding the first element, J.M. admitted to asking the victim how many pounds he weighs, and the comments about weight and shoe size were corroborated by witness statements. It was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable for the Board to conclude that a reasonable person would consider J.M.'s comments to be motivated by the distinguishing characteristic of weight or body type. Regarding the second element, there is ample evidence in the record that the conduct caused a substantial disruption to the rights of C.D, as he reported that he stopped taking his medication in an effort to lose weight and was afraid to come to school. Finally, regarding the third element, there is no doubt here that making fun of someone's weight and shoe size would insult or demean that student. As such, the Board was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable in determining that J.M.'s conduct met the definition of HIB.

The Commissioner does not find petitioners' exceptions to be persuasive. The investigation was not biased or flawed. Any initial contact with the victim's family did not impact the investigation and the ultimate determination was made based on the victim's own admission and supported by witness statements. Additionally, the Act does not require interviews with staff members for an investigation to be complete. In this case, evidence to justify the HIB determination was established by interviews with the victim, the accused, and three student witnesses, including one of the accused's friends who indicated that he heard

J.M. call the victim "fat" behind his back. Further, the evidence in the record in no way reflects that the HIB complaint was in retaliation for another incident in which a witness punched the accused. It is irrelevant to the determination in this matter whether C.D. participated in trash-talking or whether J.M. was joking; the HIB definition does not consider the accused's intent. It is also irrelevant that C.D. did not have a physical injury or miss school; the victim's fear of coming to school as well as his refusal to take his medicine constitutes a substantial disruption of his rights. Petitioner's remaining exceptions stem from the ALJ's credibility determinations, which the Commissioner finds no basis to overturn. As such, petitioner failed to meet his burden of demonstrating that the Board's HIB determination was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: September 14, 2022 Decided: December 15, 2022

BEFORE SUSAN L. OLGIATI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, W.M. on behalf of his minor son J.M., challenges the determination of the respondent, Bedminster Township Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the Board) that J.M. committed an act of harassment, intimidation or bullying (HIB) under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.2 et seq.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, disputing respondent's determination in HIB case #137. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case, where it was filed on May 30, 2019. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23. The hearing was delayed due to COVID restrictions on in-person proceedings.[1] The hearing was held on May 24, 2022. During conferencing on the first day of hearing, the parties advised the undersigned that petitioner had just learned that the victims in HIB case #137, the HIB that is the subject of this appeal, and HIB case #138[2] were not the same student. Petitioner acknowledged that the HIB investigation reports, along with the identification numbers of the students involved in the two HIB cases had been provided to them in discovery but contend that W.M. formed his belief as to the identity of the victims based on information provided to him by the Board. Following the testimony of W.M. and J.M., the hearing was continued and petitioners presented the testimony of their expert witness on the second day of hearing held on June 7, 2022. Thereafter, the record remained open for the parties to request a transcript of the proceedings and submit written closing arguments. Upon receipt of the closing arguments, the record closed on September 14, 2022. Thereafter, by Order of Extension, the time for filing this Initial Decision was extended until December 15, 2022.

Testimony for petitioner

W.M. testified that he has been a teacher for the past thirty-four years. During the relevant time period, J.M. attended school in the District. He is currently attending school at St. James and is in the seventh grade. On approximately November 27, 2018, W.M. received a telephone call from the Vice Principal (VP) Mr. St. Laurent, advising that J.M. had been punched in the face. At that time, the VP said he could not say who was involved in the incident. W.M. later talked with his son who advised that he was punched in the face by A.C. or S.C., who were twin brothers, and that another student, C.D. was there egging them on to punch J.M. The VP advised that the student who punched J.M. had been suspended for three days. W.M. had a good relationship with the VP. The VP later confirmed which of the students were involved in the incident. He also advised that J.M. would have to sit with him at lunch—meaning he would have detention relating to the punching incident.

Thereafter, he received a call from the Principal, Corby Swan, about a HIB incident in the cafeteria [HIB #137]. Mr. Swan advised that he could not provide any details of the incident.

W.M. then learned about a second HIB concerning J.M. Mr. Swan called him to advise that there was a HIB on the bus. [HIB #138]. W.M. was concerned because J.M. did not take the bus.

Later at the Board meeting, he asked whether the two HIB incidents were the same and he was told, "yes." He also asked if children of the board members were involved in HIB case #138, and was told, "yes." The conversation was with the Board. The Superintendent, Ms. Giordano was also there.

W.M. appeared at the Board meeting with his former attorney who has since passed away. At the meeting, he was advised that the HIB matters were handled together and that the victims were the same. As a teacher, W.M. is very familiar with the HIB process. He advised the Board that proper procedure was not followed. He was told that the Board meeting was not a regular meeting, but rather a reorganization meeting. In speaking with others, he learned that the Board should have taken time at the meeting to hear J.M.'s case. Later in his testimony, W.M. recalled that his conversation regarding improper procedure and whether the two incidents were the same, was with Superintendent Giordano.

W.M. explained that he did not look at the student ID numbers in the HIB reports. He thought the Board would have told him the truth about the students involved.

On cross-examination, W.M. explained that after he was called by the principal about HIB case #137, he contacted the VP to ask whether the same boys who punched J.M. were also involved in HIB #137. He believed he contacted the VP after J.M. spoke with Ms. Infante. J.M. came home hysterically crying, extremely upset and angry. Infante pulled him off the lunch line in the cafeteria and questioned his actions and had him sign an important document. His friends overheard and they called him a bully. His discussion with the VP concerned his disgust regarding Infante's actions and how she could be so "callous" about J.M.'s well-being. His information regarding Infante's interview of J.M. came from J.M. and the VP. W.M. asked for school video from the cafeteria and was given inaccurate/untrue information about the existence of video footage.

He was confused by the letters he received from the District regarding the two HIB cases. He didn't understand how the same incident could be substantiated in one case and not the other.

He clarified that the Board told him the incidents were the same but did not tell him "it was the same kid."

Upon review of Infante's report, W.M. acknowledged that he was mistaken about her pulling J.M. out of the cafeteria to interview him, and explained that information must have come from J.M. or the VP.

Upon questioning by the undersigned, W.M. testified that Ms. Giordano told him at the Board meeting that the victim in the two HIB incidents were the same, that children of board members were involved, and that the next meeting of the Board was not a reorganization but was a regular Board meeting.

J.M. is currently fourteen years old. He testified that he is doing well at St. James' school and has had no behavioral issues there.

.He described the lunchroom at the Bedminster school as being organized by grade. Students are able to sit where they wanted within the tables assigned to their grade. C.D. is the student whom he was accused of bullying. C.D. was a part of his lunch group, he regularly sat with J.M. and his friends. During lunch, J.M. and his friends would talk about sports and would sometimes "trash talk" with each other. They sometimes referred to him as "giraffe neck" or "twig." C.D. would participate in the trash talk. When they played sports at lunch, he would block and/or "box out" others, but he did not do that with C.D.

He admitted to commenting about C.D.'s shoes size but at the time, didn't think there was any problem with it. He also acknowledged commenting about C.D.'s weight but explained that they all talked trash with each other. They joked around and no one took things too harshly. C.D. continued to sit with them daily.

On November 27, 2018, J.M. was punched in the face by A.C. A.C. said something to him, and he said something back, and A.C. punched him in the nose. A teacher sent them both to the principal's office. A.C. was also a witness in HIB #137.

J.M. did not recall where Infante interviewed him. She asked him yes/no questions and couldn't really explain what happened. Sometime after speaking with Infante, she had him sign a statement in the lunchroom. She called him over to a table near the entrance. He didn't know what he was being asked to sign. If he knew it was going to be on his record, he "would never have signed it." He was embarrassed. His friends asked him what it was about. C.D. was there.

After J.M. spoke with Infante, he said, "sorry" to C.D. He stopped making comments about him. He did not intend to hurt C.D.

On cross-examination, he acknowledged that asking somebody "how many pounds they are" would be offensive but explained that they were all joking around and that C.D. said things to him. He denied saying to C.D. that he was fat but acknowledged that he could have used another word other than "pounds." He also acknowledged that he might have asked C.D. why his shoes were so big.

Raymond Bauer testified to his credentials and work experience in the field of education. He began his career as a teacher and then worked as a vice principal in middle and high school. He was a middle school principal and was the acting superintendent of schools. He is familiar with the HIB statute and has been involved in approximately ten HIB investigations and has reviewed HIB investigation reports. He never served as an anti-bullying coordinator and acknowledged that he attended only one HIB training when the statute was implemented. He was offered and qualified as an expert in the field of HIB investigations over the objection of the Board.

He explained that he was advised by W.M. that the victims in HIB cases #137 and #138 were the same. He has since learned the information was not correct. He acknowledged that the investigation reports he reviewed contained student identification numbers, but he did not review or compare that information in the two HIB reports.

Bauer opined that the investigation in HIB case #137 was not appropriate. As an initial matter, he found a conflict with guidance counselor Gina Infante investigating the HIB, because as a counselor, she is a student advocate, and in the course of a HIB investigation, she is obtaining information that could be used against a student for disciplinary purposes.

He found procedural inconsistencies in HIB #137. Infante made assumptions about the victim's statements. He believed that Infante's response to the victim's mother, in which she expressed that she was sorry for what C.D. and the family was going through, and that her comment that C.D. was a "great kid," were not appropriate. She should have received the information from the mother without comment.

He also had serious questions regarding Infante's handling of J.M.'s interview and the manner in which his statement was presented for his signature. J.M. was not given an opportunity to edit or comment on the statement and he was placed in an embarrassing situation when he was required to sign the statement. Additionally, Infante failed to interview or obtain information from adults who were supervising the students.

Further, the fact that J.M. was punched by witness No. 1 three days earlier was not taken into consideration. Infante seemed not to have considered that there were conflicts with the other children involved in the HIB. She failed to learn about a prior conflict that J.M. had with one of the witnesses outside of school.

As the investigator, Infante had the prerogative to arrange for a peer to help ensure proper behavior at the lunch table. Witness No. 2 offered to speak with J.M., but this was never explored. She also could have arranged for a group counseling session, but there was no indication that was ever done and saw no counseling for the parents of the children involved.

Bauer opined that Infante made comments she was not qualified to make, about the psychological harm allegedly suffered by C.S. He believes that J.M. was a scapegoat because HIB case #137, which involved alleged psychological harm, was substantiated against J.M. while HIB case #138, which involved allegations of hitting and pushing, was not. He explained that learning that the victims in the two HIB cases were not the same, strengthened his opinion that J.M. was "scapegoated" because in a very short time, the victim in HIB #137 went from being considered a victim to an accused in HIB #138.

On cross-examination, Bauer acknowledged that it would be highly unusual for a superintendent to breach student confidentiality and inform another parent that the students involved in a HIB were children of Board members.

Regarding his opinion that it was a conflict for a guidance counselor to serve as the HIB investigator, Bauer acknowledged that the HIB statute allows the District discretion in appointing the investigator. He further acknowledged that guidance counselors are often appointed as investigators in HIB matters.

Bauer believes the charges against J.M. should not have been substantiated. He also did not agree with the corrective action recommended by Infante.

Gina Infante testified to her work experience. She has been a school counselor for twenty years. She has been an Anti-Bullying Specialist and has received HIB training since 2011. She also presented HIB training to teachers and staff. She investigated HIB case #137. At the time, she had conducted approximately thirty other HIB investigations. HIB #137 was brought to her attention through a November 30, 2018, email from C.D.'s mother, who reported that he was being bullied at school. Infante responded to the mother immediately, because she made concerning statements that C.D. stopped taking his medication, was very depressed, and that they were having problems finding a psychiatrist. Infante told the mother she was sorry they were going through this and that

C.D. was a great kid. The mother reported that the bullying occurred throughout the school year. The father also sent an email about the bullying.

Infante explained that when she conducts an interview, she types up her notes and reads through it with the individual and if they are okay with the statement—they sign it.

She interviewed C.D. and asked if people were making fun of his clothes. She took his statement in her office. He reported that J.M. said he wears the same clothes every day and called his shoes "crap." J.M. also asked about how much he weighed. J.M. put him down and called him stupid. He had heard that J.M. called him fat, but did not say it "to his face." C.D. was talking about his medication and how it made him gain about thirty pounds and J.M. commented that he could not believe he gained thirty pounds from medication. C.D. said he stopped taking the medication because he thought he could lose weight. He didn't want to come to school because he was afraid J.M. would make fun of him. He sits with other students and said that his friendships have improved since he moved from J.M.'s table. He named three witnesses.

Witness No. 1 confirmed that the victim said he did not want to come to school. He saw J.M. being mean to the victim multiple times. The victim did not respond. He just put his head down. Infante found this significant because a lack of response can demonstrate an imbalance of power. She was aware that witness No.1 had previously punched J.M. He told her about the incident during the interview. That incident was handled through the Code of Conduct. J.M.'s comments leading up to the punch were not appropriate and were not tolerant, but they did not justify the punch.

She interviewed witness No. 2 in her office. He was a friend of J.M.'s. He heard J.M. make comments about C.D.'s weight behind his back. He didn't know if J.M. understood that his comments were hurtful, but witness No. 2 noticed that C.D. was upset. J.M. made fun of C.D.'s double chin.

Infante interviewed J.M. in her office on December 5, 2018. She asked him about his comments to C.D. He could not remember his comments but acknowledged that he asked C.D. "how many pounds he weighed." Infante had previously talked to J.M. about calling others names. J.M. said that after their talks, he learned his lesson and knew not to do that, and apologized. J.M. denied "body checking" or blocking C.D. They also talked about when J.M. got punched by witness No. 1. He gave her his version of what happened. They were using inappropriate terms and J.M. acknowledged that he had taunted witness No. 1 by telling him to push him and hit him. On December 13, Infante reviewed J.M.'s statement with him in her office. She told him to read it to make sure it was accurate. He did not make any changes.

She had J.M. sign his statement for HIB case #138 in the lunchroom. J.M. did not demonstrate any HIB behaviors in that matter. She waived him over to the doorway. She told him to read it, asked him if he was okay with it, and had him sign it. She explained that there were eleven students involved in HIB #138. She was under time constraints to interview everyone, type up the reports, and get the statements signed off. All the behavior in HIB #138 was unsubstantiated.

Infante also interviewed witness No. 3 in connection with HIB case #137. Witness No. 3 is the brother of witness No. 1. He said he had been bulled by J.M. since "pre-K." J.M. recently called him a "loser" and said that "no one liked him." He also heard J.M. call C.D. a "fat loser" and said that he was terrible at recess.

She did not interview any adults because the information she obtained met the HIB criteria.

Infante concluded that J.M.'s comments were motivated by the victim's weight. J.M. admitted asking C.D. how much weight he gained on his medication. Witnesses No. 1 and No. 2 also said they heard J.M. say that C.D. was fat and that his shoes were as big as "sailboats." In addition to weight, she concluded that J.M.'s statement/actions also involved athletic ability. J.M.'s comments also caused a substantial disruption to C.D.'s day. He stopped taking his medication, did not want to wear his clothes because he was afraid of what J.M. would say to him, and did not want to come to school. It didn't matter that C.D. did not actually miss any school days. It was significant that he did not want to come to school. She also determined that there was a series of incidents because it was reported that the HIB occurred throughout the year—no specific dates were given.

Following her investigation, Infante recommended using peer leaders to lead group lessons and talk about different character traits. She also recommended that the teachers incorporate empathy lessons, that they bring in an empathy program, and provide all accused students with a mandatory anti-bullying message. She also recommended pupil counseling and counseling to the parents, if needed. Additionally, she recommended increased supervision or assigned seats, since the lunchroom/recess were "hot spots." In terms of the corrective action taken, she explained there was a Unity Day in February where they had a program called, "The New Kid." The teachers were given follow up questions for use in the classroom. The leaders talked to the students about kindness and tolerance and the DARE officer came in to talk to the students during health class.

She completed the investigation in HIB case #137 on December 13, 2018.

Infante received a verbal report regarding another HIB—case #138 on December 17, 2018. In HIB #138, the only accusation against J.M. was that he and another student taunted the victim and his friends. Infante interviewed J.M. in her office. She found nothing inappropriate with the way he acted in that matter.

On cross-examination, Infante did not agree that most of the allegations in HIB case #137 occurred in the lunchroom and at recess. She contends that the incidents also occurred in the classroom. She acknowledged she did not interview any teachers or staff.

Additionally, she explained that she did not perceive the emails from the victim's parents in which they referenced taking "severe action," to be threatening a lawsuit. Rather, she understood that they wanted the HIB to be addressed.

Witness No. 1 told Infante that C.D. was one of his best friends. Infante agreed that witness No. 3 did not think much of J.M., and that much of his statement discussed things that happened between he and J.M. more than five years ago.

She testified that the information supporting her conclusion that the HIB was also based on "athletic ability" may have come from the victim's mother. She acknowledged that notes of such conversations were not in her report.

Jennifer Giordano is the school superintendent. She explained that once the HIB investigation was completed, it went to the principal, the superintendent, and then to the Board. She signed the report on December 17, 2018. Under the "further action" section of the report, she noted that when she was in the lunchroom on December 4, 2018, she saw the victim and the accused sitting at the same table.

The Board's next regularly scheduled meeting was held on January 17, 2019. She presented both HIB cases during the executive session. On January 4, 2019, the Board had a joint special meeting with the Township, where they swore in new members. The January 17, 2019, meeting date was the first meeting at which the HIBs could have been presented.

The appeal of HIB case #137 was scheduled for February 12, 2019. The Board honored a request to reschedule the appeal due to bad weather. The appeal was rescheduled for February 21, 2019, but J.M.'s parents did not appear. The Board honored another request for a meeting which was held on March 12, 2019. The meeting was attended by the Board, its attorney, the Board secretary, and Giordano. W.M. and his then attorney also attended and spoke at the meeting. They requested that the HIB be looked at again because they felt it should not have been substantiated. Giordano made no statements regarding the HIB. The meeting was run through the Board's attorney. Petitioners did not appeal HIB case #138. Giordano was not aware of HIB case #138 being mentioned. After the meeting, Giordano received correspondence from W.M. requesting a meeting to discuss the well-being and academic achievement of his children. The meeting took place in the beginning of April. She and the VP talked with W.M. She was asked if she would dismiss the charges, but she refused.

Regarding the remedial steps and corrective action taken, Giordano was aware that peer leaders were involved, and of "The New Kid" presentation which addressed bullying, and that the DARE officer conducted a class in February. Additionally, Infante conducted student counseling with the victim and J.M. until W.M. advised that he did not want Infante to meet with his children. The student lunch seats were also moved but she explained that in middle school, students change their seats.

On cross-examination, Giordano acknowledged that the recommendation of parent counseling was not provided.

During the April 2019 meeting with Giordano and the VP, W.M. said that Giordano had the authority to "make the HIB go away." She could not recall if HIB #138 "came up" at that meeting.

She did not agree that the two HIB cases had "certain similarities."

Credibility

In evaluating evidence, it is necessary for me as the finder of fact to assess the credibility of the witnesses. This requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality or internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F. 2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963).

A trier of fact may reject testimony as "inherently incredible" when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or "overborne" by the testimony of other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). "The interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

The testimony of W.M. concerning the information he claims he was told about the two HIB cases, including the identity of the victim and the other students involved, and by whom he was told, was confusing—and at times contradictory. Additionally, his testimony that C.D. was involved in the incident in which J.M. was punched and that he was "egging on" the puncher, is unsupported by the evidence in the record. Further, he acknowledged at hearing that he was mistaken about Ms. Infante pulling J.M. out of the cafeteria to interview him. W.M. was emotional and angry during his testimony and during that of Gina Infante. While he is understandably very concerned about his son and the substantiated HIB determination, his testimony appeared to be unduly influenced and colored by his belief that J.M. was treated unfairly by the District, and that its handling of the HIB investigation was improper. Although W.M.'s beliefs may be sincerely held, he has no first-hand knowledge of the HIB incidents or of Infante's actions in conducting the investigation. Moreover, some of the information upon which he relies has been demonstrated to be incorrect and/or is overborne by the more credible testimony and the documentary evidence in the record. For these reasons, I am unable to accept W.M.'s testimony as reliable or to give it much, if any weight.

J.M.'s testimony that he made comments about C.D.'s weight and shoe size and his acknowledgement that those statements could be considered offensive is consistent with his statements made during the investigation and with the documentary evidence in the record, thus I accept this testimony as credible.

With respect to assessing the testimony and opinions of petitioner's expert witness, it is well settled that "'[t]he weight to which an expert opinion is entitled can rise no higher than the facts and reasoning upon which that opinion is predicated.'" Johnson v. Salem Corp., 97 N.J. 78, 91 (1984) (citation omitted). In this regard, it is within the province of the finder of fact to determine the credibility, weight, and probative value of the expert testimony. State v. Frost, 242 N.J. Super. 601, 615 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 127 N.J. 321 (1990); Rubanick v. Witco Chem. Corp., 242 N.J. Super. 36 (App. Div. 1990), modified on other grounds and remanded, 125 N.J. 421 (1991). Much of the testimony of Raymond Bauer was based on inaccurate information provided by W.M. and/or his unsupported theories of the case. Additionally, Bauer references no statutory or regulatory provision, nor any model policy, or procedure in support of his opinion. Rather, his opinion appears to be based on his personal belief that the investigation could or should have been conducted differently. Finally, his conclusions that investigation was flawed and that J.M. was "scapegoated" because HIB case #137 was substantiated, while case #138 was not and/or because the victim in HIB #137 was also named as an accused in HIB #138, is not reasonable or sensible and appears to ignore that the two cases involve unrelated and wholly differing facts and circumstances. For these reasons, I do not accept the opinion testimony of Bauer as reasonable or reliable and afford it little to no weight.

As to respondent's witnesses, I accept the testimony of Gina Infante as credible. Her testimony regarding her conduct of the investigation is supported by the documentary evidence in the record. Similarly, her testimony regarding her conclusions was straightforward, reasonable, and supported by the evidence in the record including the written statement and hearing testimony of J.M.

Finally, I also accept the testimony of Jennifer Giordano regarding the Board meetings and her communications with W.M. to be straightforward and reasonable. Thus, to the extent her testimony on these issues differs from that of W.M., I accept her testimony as more reliable and more credible than W.M.'s.

Additional Findings

Having considered the testimony of the witnesses, and having observed their demeanor at hearing, and further having reviewed the documentary evidence, I further FIND as FACT:

J.M. admitted to making comments to C.D. about how much he weighed and about his shoes being so big. The comments were insulting and demeaning and were not isolated instances.

These comments were reasonably perceived as being motivated by actual or perceived distinguishing characteristics of C.D.

C.D. and witnesses No. 1 and No. 2 confirmed these types of comments by J.M. Witness No. 1 reported that J.M. said C.D.'s shoes were bigger than "sailboats." See J-1, HIB investigation report at pg. 6

C.D. also reported that J.M. made fun of his clothes and called his shoes "crap." These comments were confirmed by witnesses No. 1 and No. 2 who reported that J.M. made fun of C.D.'s shoes and called them fakes. See J-1, HIB investigation report at pgs. 6 and 8.

C.D. also reported that J.M. would extend his arms and push him with his body at recess. See J-1, HIB investigation report at p. 4.

Witness No. 2 also reported J.M. told C.D. that he reminded him of a rooster because of his neck (double chin). See J-1, HIB investigation report at p. 8.

Witness No. 3 reported that J.M. called C.D. fat and a loser and said he was terrible at recess. He also saw J.M. push C.D. See J-1, HIB investigation report at p. 9.

Witness No. 1 considered C.D. to be one of his best friends. He was not friends with J.M. and he was involved in a November 27, 2018, incident in which he punched J.M.

Witness No. 2 was a friend of J.M.

Witness No. 3 was not a friend of J.M. He is the twin brother of witness No. 1.

C.D. was upset by the demeaning and insulting comments made by J.M. He stopped taking his medication for a period of time in hopes that he would lose weight. He did not want to come to school or wear his clothes because he was worried that J.M. would make fun of him. Witnesses No. 1 and No. 2 confirmed that C.D. was upset by J.M.'s comments.

A reasonable person should have known, under the circumstances, that such comments would have the effect of emotionally harming a student.

J.M. acknowledged at hearing that his comments to C.D. could be considered offensive.

J.M. claimed that boys at his lunch table engaged in trash talk. He attributed no specific comments to C.D.

Gina Infante interviewed J.M. about HIB case #137 in her office. She reviewed his statement with him and J.M. signed the statement in her office.

Infante had J.M. review and sign his statement in HIB case #138 by the doorway of the cafeteria. The charges in that matter were not substantiated.

The Board exercised proper procedure in noticing and hearing HIB case #137 at its next regular meeting on January 17, 2019.

Statements made by Infante to C.D.'s mother in response to her HIB complaint in case #137, including that she was sorry the family was experiencing the incidents complained of and that C.D. was a "great kid" did not demonstrate bias in favor of C.D. or against J.M.

J.M. participated in several "talks"/counseling sessions with Infante. These sessions were discontinued after W.M. advised that he did not want his children to meet with Infante.

J.M. received no discipline in connection with HIB case No. 137.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Here, the issue to be decided is whether the Board's determination that J.M. committed a HIB violation was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable.

The Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act is designed "to strengthen the standards and procedures for preventing, reporting, investigating, and responding to incidents of harassment, intimidation, and bullying of students that occur in school and off school premises." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.1(f). Under the Act, "[h]arassment, intimidation or bullying" is defined as:

> any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

Each school district must adopt a policy that prohibits HIB and provides "a procedure for prompt investigation of reports of violations and complaints." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6). Once an alleged HIB incident is reported to the school principal, the principal must initiate an investigation within one school day of the report. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(a). The investigation shall be conducted by a school anti-bullying specialist, but "[t]he principal may appoint additional personnel who are not school anti-bullying specialists to assist in the investigation." Ibid. The investigation shall be completed within ten days of the initial HIB complaint. Ibid.

The results of the investigation shall then be reported to the superintendent of schools, within two days of completion of the investigation, who may "decide to provide intervention services, establish training programs to reduce [HIB] and enhance school climate, impose discipline, order counseling as a result of the findings of the investigation, or take or recommend other appropriate action." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(b)

The results shall also be reported to the board of education "no later than the date of the board of education meeting next following the completion of the investigation, along with information on any services provided, training established, discipline imposed, or other action taken or recommended by the superintendent." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(c).

The parents of the students involved in any alleged HIB incident "shall be entitled to receive information about the investigation . . . including the nature of the investigation, whether the district found evidence of [HIB], or whether discipline was imposed or services provided to address the incident of [HIB]." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d). The parents may request a hearing before the board, and the hearing must be held within ten days of the request. Ibid. Any hearing shall be held in executive session to protect the identity of any students involved. Ibid. And "[a]t the hearing the board may hear from the school anti-bullying specialist about the incident, recommendations for discipline or services, and any programs instituted to reduce such incidents[.]" Ibid.

A school board must issue a written decision at the first meeting after its receipt of the investigation report. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e). The board may affirm, reject, or modify the superintendent's decision. Ibid. The board's decision may be appealed to the Commissioner of Education. Ibid.

The Commissioner of Education will not overturn the decision of a local board in the absence of a finding that the action below was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. T.B.M. v. Moorestown Bd. of Educ., EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 4, 2008) (citing Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581(1966)), adopted, Comm'r (April 7, 2008), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. Further, the Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board of education, whose exercise of its discretion may not be disturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). New Jersey courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

Here, petitioners argue that the Board's determination was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable because the investigation by Gina Infante was biased, flawed, incomplete, and inconsistent with HIB standards. Despite these arguments, petitioners have presented no credible or competent evidence that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in concluding that J.M. committed a HIB violation under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act. Rather, the evidence, including the statement and hearing testimony of J.M., as well as the statements of the victim and of the three witnesses, demonstrate that J.M. made a series of insulting and demeaning comments concerning C.D. based on perceived distinguishing characteristics including his weight, shoe size, and clothing. Additionally, the evidence including the statements of the victim and witness No. 3 demonstrates that Infante, and ultimately the Board, reasonably concluded that J.M.'s comments/actions were motivated by athletic ability.

C.D. was insulted and demeaned by the comments made by J.M. and they had the effect of disrupting his education by causing him to stop taking his medication in the hope that he would lose weight and by causing him not to want to go to school for fear of being made fun of by J.M. Further, petitioners' arguments that Infante should have interviewed adult teachers and staff who may have witnessed the alleged incidents do not render the investigation as flawed or incomplete. Particularly as the statements of C.D., the three witnesses, and of J.M. demonstrated that the HIB criteria had been established, and further because, no specific dates for the incidents were given—instead the incidents were alleged to have occurred throughout the year. Finally, as previously indicated, petitioners point to no statute, regulation, model policy, or procedure to demonstrate that Infante's investigation of HIB #137 was biased, flawed, incomplete or otherwise improper.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth herein, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have failed to meet their burden of proof that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in concluding that J.M.'s actions constituted harassment, intimidation or bullying under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that the decision of the Board is AFFIRMED and that the petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

P.V. , on behalf of minor child, T.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Verona, Essex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner filed the within appeal on June 6, 2022, challenging the discipline imposed by the respondent Board upon her minor son, T.S., for making an inappropriate remark in class on February 19, 2020, during his freshman year at Verona High School. T.S. received a one-day in-school suspension, a one-day Saturday suspension, and the loss of cell phone privileges for multiple days following the incident. The petitioner maintains that the discipline imposed upon T.S. by the Board was based on an incorrect infraction level as detailed in the school's Student Guidebook, and that this discipline later impacted his ability to join the National Honor Society. The Board filed a motion to dismiss, which was converted to a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there is no issue of material fact in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), petitioners must file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing; here, the petitioner was aware of the discipline imposed and voiced her disagreement with the infraction level and penalty assessed when it occurred, yet the instant petition was not filed until more than two years later; petitioner does not present exceptional circumstances or a compelling reason to warrant relaxation of the ninety-day rule; and her petition was filed well beyond the required time frame. The ALJ concluded that the appeal was clearly filed out of time. Accordingly, the ALJ granted summary decision to the Board and dismissed the petition.

Upon a comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that this matter is time-barred by the 90-day limitations period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a). Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed as untimely.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

P.V., on behalf of minor child, T.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Verona, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Petitioner filed the instant petition on June 6, 2022 challenging the discipline imposed on her son by the Board for making an inappropriate remark in class on February 19, 2020. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petition should be dismissed as it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The ALJ also found that the circumstances do not warrant relaxation of the filing timeframe.[1]

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that this matter was filed more than two years after the discipline was imposed and is therefore barred by the 90-day statute of limitations set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The Commissioner further agrees that relaxation of the limitations period is not warranted.

[1] Petitioner filed a prior emergent matter to compel her son's admission to the National Honor Society as he was precluded from joining based on his disciplinary infraction; the emergent matter was dismissed. The ALJ found that this matter was not barred by the doctrine of collateral estoppel because an analysis on the limitations period was not conducted.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [2]

P.V. ON BEHALF OF T.S.,
Petitioners,
v.
TOWNSHIP OF VERONA, BOARD OF EDUCATION,

P.V. on behalf of T.S., appearing pro se

Gabrielle Pettineo, Esq., for respondent (Kenney, Gross, Kovats & Parton, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 26, 2023 Decided: January 31, 2023

BEFORE NANCI G. STOKES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On June 6, 2022, petitioner challenged respondent's discipline imposed on her minor child, T.S., on February 19, 2020, for an incident in school. Is the claim time-barred? Yes. Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), absent exceptional circumstances, a petitioner must file an appeal "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the [case]." Ibid.; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1.6

On June 6, 2022, petitioner filed a Petition with the Commissioner of the Department of Education (Commissioner) contesting discipline entered by respondent against her minor son while a freshman at Verona High School (Verona). Petitioner maintains that Verona imposed discipline against T.S. for the incorrect infraction level under the high school's Student Guidebook, and this discipline later impacted his ability to join the National Honor Society.

In response to the petition, Verona filed a Motion to Dismiss in place of an Answer on July 6, 2022, asserting that P.V. had another pending case challenging T.S.'s denial of entry into the National Honor Society, resolved by an Order on Emergent relief dated May 23, 2022, denying petitioner's request. Respondent's motion maintained that transfer to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) was unnecessary because the doctrine of collateral estoppel applied as the proceeding explored the same discipline in the earlier case under OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03920-22. Respondent also asserted that the case is duplicative and precluded by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4(c), requiring petitioner to certify there are no pending related matters.

Still, the Commissioner declined to address respondent's motion to dismiss and transmitted this case to the OAL. On July 11, 2022, the OAL filed the contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On September 23, 2022, respondent filed a motion to dismiss that I converted to a motion for summary decision to consider facts and evidence outside of the pleadings. Significantly, Verona's motion included a certification with exhibits. I requested a copy of the transcript of the argument on the emergent application under OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03920-22 before the Hon. Julio Morejon, A.L.J., given his discussion of the disputed suspension in his Order. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.6(p). On September 24, 2022, petitioner filed her opposition to the motion. On October 24, 2022, respondent objected to converting the motion to a motion for summary decision.

On December 7, 2022, the OAL received the transcript, and I permitted petitioner additional time to respond. However, petitioner resubmitted her same opposition. On December 19, 2022, respondent replied to petitioner's opposition. On January 3, 2023, I requested additional information from Verona, which I received on January 26, 2023, and closed the record.[1]

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the documents submitted in support of and in opposition to the motion for summary decision, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, I FIND the following as FACT for purposes of this motion only:

T.S. was a ninth-grade student in attendance at Verona during the 2019-20 school year.

On February 19, 2020, T.S. received a one-day in-school suspension, a one-day Saturday suspension, and the loss of cell phone privileges for multiple days due to his role in an incident in his Spanish class. Before class, T.S.'s Spanish teacher was collecting student cell phones, as was her procedure at the time. T.S. jokingly told his classmates that they should "all say the teacher touched us" so they would not need to turn in their phones. See Transcript, p. 12, 6-8. The teacher heard what T.S. said and sent T.S. to the assistant principal's office.

The assistant principal spoke with T.S. and P.V. on February 19, 2020, discussing the incident and the discipline imposed. That same day, the assistant principal also talked to the Spanish teacher. P.V. voiced her disagreement with the suspension imposed, believing the penalty was excessive under Verona's Student Guidebook. More pointedly, P.V. asserted that the Student Guidebook supported a level two infraction rather than a level three infraction, which warranted lesser consequences. See Transcript, p. 14, 6-10. That same day, the assistant principal sent a letter documenting the conference and explaining the discipline. The letter also advises the parent to contact the guidance counselor or the assistant principal with any questions, concerns, or beliefs about a discrepancy.

The Board of Education policies are readily available on the District's website. Notably, Verona's principal forwards an electronic email to all parents at the start of each school year, including 2019-20, containing links to the Verona Student Handbook (Guidebook), which includes the Student Code of Conduct. The Code of Conduct states that a student or parent has the right to a hearing and can appeal discipline decisions under the Code of Conduct.

T.S. served his suspensions without incident.

On April 22, 2022, P.V. filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner because Verona failed to admit her minor son, T.S., into the National Honor Society (NHS) due to his suspension in February 2020. On April 29, 2022, Verona formally denied T.S.'s NHS admission, noting that T.S.'s "student conduct record is inconsistent with the character requirements of the NHS." The denial instructed T.S. to reapply next year and recommended that he use the time between now and then to amplify his candidacy. Further, the letter advised T.S. that he could request a meeting for clarification of the denial and advocate for himself. Neither P.V. nor T.S. requested a meeting with NHS's faculty council.

On May 16, 2022, petitioner converted her petition under OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03920-22 to an application for emergent relief under N.J.A.C. 6A-31.6. On May 23, 2022, following oral argument and submissions from both parties, the Hon. Julio Morejon, A.L.J., denied the emergent relief because the proofs failed to establish the necessary elements to grant emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), and Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Judge Morejon also stated that "the issue of suspension of the student is moot as petitioner admits that she did not file a timely appeal with the Department of Education under N.J.A.C. 6a:3-1.3(i)." See Exhibit C, p. 7. On July 8, 2022, the Acting Commissioner of Education upheld the denial of emergent relief and concluded no underlying issues remained, thereby dismissing the case.

During the oral argument on May 20, 2022, before Judge Morejon, petitioner confirmed that Verona informed her of the incident with her son and suspension when it happened. See Transcript, p. 14, lines 2-10. Petitioner spoke with the assistant principal "constantly" about the February 19, 2020, events and suspension, disputing the infraction level and discipline. See Transcript, p. 14, lines 6-10,19 through p. 15, line 9. P.V. also "guessed" that she could have gone to the Board of Education about the suspension. See Transcript, p. 15, lines 22-23 and p. 20, lines 17-23. Yet, P.V. took no further action regarding the suspension until 2022, maintaining that no one told her she could appeal the discipline. Instead, P.V. became aware of the discipline's significance once Verona denied T.S.'s admission to NHS.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Summary-Decision Standard

It is well settled that when facts beyond the initial pleadings are relied on in determining the motion, the motion to dismiss is converted to a motion for summary decision. Jersey City Educ. Ass'n v. City of Jersey City, 316 N.J. Super. 245, 253-54 (App. Div. 1998); see e.g. Price v. Bd. of Educ. of Twp. of Washington, EDU 6121-07, Initial Decision, (December 7, 2007), adopted Comm'r (January 24, 2008) http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/search.html (ALJ converted the motion to dismiss to a motion for summary judgment); see also K.L. & K.L. o/b/o minor children C.L. & M.L. v. Kinnelon Bd. of Educ., EDU 1191-08 and EDU 1192-08 (consolidated), Initial Decision, (April 24, 2008), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/search.html., adopted Comm'r (July 22, 2008) http://www.state.nj.us/education/legal/index.html (where judge, sua sponte, converted the board's motion to dismiss to a motion for summary decision). Here, respondent attached a certification and several exhibits with its motion papers. Respondent also relies upon materials from the earlier case involving the parties. Thus, I CONCLUDE respondent's motion is appropriately considered a motion for summary decision.

A party may move for summary decision upon all or any substantive issues in a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). A party must make the motion a party makes with briefs, with or without affidavits. When the filed papers and discovery, together with any affidavits, show that no genuine issue of material fact exists and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law, the judge may grant the motion. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). When a party makes such a motion providing that support, an adverse party, to prevail, must submit an affidavit setting forth specific facts showing that a genuine issue of material fact exists that can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. Ibid.

Even though a statute calls for a "hearing," where a motion for summary decision is made and supported by documentary evidence and where the objector submits no evidence to demonstrate that a genuine issue of material fact exists, the motion procedure constitutes the hearing, and no trial-type hearing is necessary. Contini v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106, 120–21 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996).

To determine whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary judgment, the motion judge must consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to demonstrate that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).

Moreover, even if the non-movant comes forward with some evidence, the court must grant summary judgment if the evidence is "so one-sided that [the movant] must prevail as a matter of law." Ibid. at 536 (citation omitted). If the non-moving party's evidence is "merely colorable or is not significantly probative," the judge should not deny summary judgment. Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Supp. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998).

In this case, no genuine issue exists as to the material facts. The only questions are whether the doctrine of collateral estoppel bars petitioner's claim or whether petitioner timely filed her petition disputing T.S.'s discipline under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). More pointedly, no genuine issue exists that petitioner filed a prior case involving the same punishment, now dismissed, and that she did not file the current action within ninety days of the discipline notification. Since these facts are clear and undisputed, I CONCLUDE that this case is ripe for summary decision.

Collateral Estoppel

The doctrine of collateral estoppel, or "issue preclusion," is an equitable principle that arises when an issue of fact or law is fully litigated and determined by a final judgement. The earlier determination can preclude future litigation when the party asserting the bar shows that: (1) the issue to be precluded is identical to the issue decided in the prior proceeding; (2) the issue was actually litigated in the prior proceeding; (3) the court in the prior proceeding issued a final judgment on the merits; (4) the determination of the issue was essential to the prior judgment; and (5) the party against whom the doctrine is asserted was a party to or in privity with a party to the earlier proceeding. Olivieri v. Y.M.F. Carpet, Inc., 186 N.J. 511, 521 (2006) (quoting In re Estate of Dawson, 130 N.J. 1, 20-21 (1994) (quotation marks omitted).

Undeniably, Judge Morejon addressed the discipline issue between the parties, took sworn statements about the events on February 19, 2020, and rendered a decision upheld by the Acting Commissioner. However, exceptions to issue preclusion exist warranting new determinations because of "differences in the quality or extensiveness of the procedures followed in the two courts" or when "the issue is one of law and . . . an intervening change in the applicable legal context or . . . inequitable administration of the laws" requires consideration. Id. at 25. (citing the Restatement (Second) of Judgements § 28 (1982).

Petitioner, appearing pro se, filed the prior action to compel T.S.'s admission to NHS, not to challenge Verona's discipline. The preceding case ended when Judge Morejon concluded that the petitioner did not satisfy emergent relief requirements, a different standard. Further, Judge Morejon highlighted that NHS admission was not a right and subject to review only upon a showing that a school district's admission decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Still, his Order did not analyze whether the circumstances warranted relaxation of the filing timeframe for a petition disputing Verona's discipline. In other words, my review of the record below does not reveal that Judge Morejon fully addressed the timeliness of petitioner's actions under the law. Thus, I CONCLUDE that the doctrine of collateral estoppel is not equitably applied to bar this case.

Timeliness

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), a party must file an appeal with the Commissioner of Education "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." This rule "provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws," giving school districts the "security of knowing" that an aggrieved party cannot challenge its actions after ninety days. Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993).

Courts strictly construe and consistently apply the ninety-day limitation period. Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 588-89; Nissman v. Bd. of Educ., 272 N.J. Super 373, 380-81, (App. Div. 1994); Riely v. Bd. of Educ., 173 N.J. Super. 109, 112-14, (App. Div. 1980). This period begins to run when the petitioner "learn[s] from the Local Board the existence of that state of facts that would enable him to file a timely claim." Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 588-89. Indeed, the "notice of a final order, ruling or other action" is "sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Id. at 587. Notably, a petitioner need not receive official and formal notification that they may have a valid claim to begin the ninety days. Id. at 588.

However, the Commissioner may exercise her authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1.6 to relax the application of the ninety-day rule "where strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." Ibid. Yet, exceptions to the ninety-day rule are only appropriate where compelling circumstances exist to justify the enlargement or relaxation of the time limit. See Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 590; DeMaio v. New Providence Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 449, 453.

Indeed, this extraordinary relief is reserved for situations where the party presents a substantial constitutional issue or a matter of significant public interest beyond concern only to the parties. Portee v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 381, 384; Wise v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., EDU 160-00, Initial Decision (July 25, 2000), adopted, Comm'r Decision (September 11, 2000), aff'd, St. Bd. (January 3, 2001), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

Here, I found that petitioner was aware of the discipline imposed and voiced her disagreement with the infraction level and penalty assessed when it occurred. The ninety-day limitation flows from that notice, not when it became essential to petitioner to challenge because that discipline later impacted T.S.'s NHS admission. Further, petitioner does not dispute that her son made an inappropriate remark on February 19, 2020, or that Verona could discipline her son. Instead, she maintains that she did not know she could appeal the disputed infraction level or discipline imposed. However, the Student Code of Conduct in the Student Guidebook she discussed with the assistant principal regarding the infraction level advises of an ability to appeal. Further, the record discloses no Verona conduct that caused the petitioner to postpone filing her claim for more than two years.

Notably, petitioner's claim has only personal significance, making relaxation of the rule unwarranted. If the Commissioner relaxed the filing timeframe for every harsh result, that action would nullify the rule's salutary public policy of encouraging prompt resolution of disputes. Pacio v. Bd. of Educ. of Lakeland Reg. High Sch. Dist., 1989 S.L.D. 2060 (Comm'r July 29, 1989). Thus, I CONCLUDE that petitioner does not present exceptional circumstances or a compelling reason which warrant relaxation of the ninety-day rule and that she filed her petition well beyond the required time frame.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that the Verona Township Board of Education be GRANTED summary decision. I further ORDER that petitioner's Petition of Appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Order on Emergent Relief

Margaret Bennett,

Petitioner,

v.

Judith Sullivan, Tom Bogdansky, Doreen Mariani, Marianna Emmolo, and Kim Ansh, Respondents.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons stated therein. This decision is limited to the issue of the vote cast by respondent Judith Sullivan at the January 5, 2023 Board meeting regarding the non-renewal of Fogarty & Hara's contract to act as Board counsel, which is the only issue for which petitioner ought emergent relief. However, the petition raises other issues included in the January 27, 2023 transmittal to the OAL, and the Commissioner finds that the existing petition is sufficient to allow proceedings regarding those issues to proceed. Accordingly, this matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

ORDER ON

EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00881-23

AGENCY DKT. NO. 12-1/23

MARGARET BENNETT,

Petitioner,

v.

JUDITH SULLIVAN, TOM BOGDANSKY, DOREEN MARIANI, MARIANNA EMMOLO, AND KIM ANSH, Respondents.

Margaret Bennet, petitioner pro se

Kerri A. Wright, Esq., (Porzio Bromberg & Newman, Attorneys) for respondents

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

Margaret Benet (petitioner) filed a request for emergent relief challenging the actions of the above captioned five individual Ramapo Indian Hills Regional Board of Education (Board) members in relieving board counsel, amending board policy and passing a motion.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The request for emergent Relief was filed with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, on January 27, 2023, and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law. The matter was set down for a hearing via Zoom before the undersigned on February 6, 2023. The February 6, 2023, hearing was converted to an off the record conference via zoom, and subsequently adjourned until February 7, 2023, by request of counsel for respondents (with consent) so that she may file a response to the forgoing petition.

It should be noted that, as a procedural matter, Bennett has named five individual board members, and not the Board, itself, as a party to the forgoing complaint. Thus, the attorney for the respondents, here, was assigned by the board's insurance carrier to represent the interests of the five named individuals and not the Board as a whole.

At the hearing, the petitioner Bennett amended her emergent petition on the record, focusing the emergent hearing solely on the vote cast by respondent Judith Sullivan at the January 5, 2023, board meeting, a vote which sought to not renew the board counsel Fogarty and O'Hara's contract to act as board counsel. Petitioner seeks emergent injunctive relief removing said "yes" vote and replacing same with a recusal due to an apparent conflict of interest. Bennett noted that the remainder of her complaint, though no emergent, should still be considered heard on a non-emergent by the Commissioner.

FACTS

The following FACTS are undisputed.

At the January 5, 2023, board meeting, respondent Judith Sullivan voted in favor of not renewing the contract of the flaw firm Fogarty and Hara to act as the board's attorney. The motion succeeded and the contract was not renewed.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS

Bennett argues that Judith Sullivan has a conflict of interest with Steven Fogarty, and thus, the law firm of Fogarty and Hara, and therefore, she should have recused herself from the vote to renew the contract with that firm at the January 5, 2023, board meeting.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Emergent relief is available pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) and N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(s), if the application meets the following four requirements:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

Petitioner argues that, as a citizen and tax payer, she, along with the school district generally, will suffer irreparable harm if Sullivan's vote is not nullified. She argues that the named board members have acted with disregard for applicable regulations and Sullivan has failed to recuse herself of voting on issues from which she should be conflicted out.

While petitioner argues that a conflict exists, there is no testimony before me that speaks to that matter. While she notes on the record that she has documents attached to her petition that tend to prove her position, no foundation was laid to admit any such documents into evidence. Ms. Wright notes in her argument that there is a pending case before the school ethics committee involving the issues disputed here.

Bennet states that, if Sullivan's vote is eliminated, or otherwise, voided, the motion to not renew the attorney contract may not have succeeded. Thus, even I order that Sullivan's vote be voided, it may still result in Fogarty and Hara being non renewed as board council. Either way, I CONCLUDE that, even if a conflict did exist, any harm would not be irreparable, as a vote could be re-cast and the law firm may be re-hired at a later date if the board so chooses. Thus, I CONCLUDE the petitioner has failed to meet this first prong.

I further CONCLUDE that the legal right to seek an order voiding an individual board member's vote is not a well settled right, thus the second prong is not satisfied. To this point, Bennett argued that the underlying right is her right to enjoy a board whose members recuse themselves where a conflict exists. To this point, as I stated prior, while a conflict of interest is a serious cause for concern, the alleged conflict at the center of the petition here has not been established on the record. Thus, I CONCLUDE the petitioner has failed to meet this second prong.

I, further, CONCLUDE that petitioner's likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim is not established, as the alleged conflict of interest has not been established. If the conflict were established, the undersigned may be inclined to issue an order voiding Sullivan's vote, but the effect of that order is undetermined.

I, further, CONCLUDE that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will not suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted. This is due to the fact that, as noted above, the non-renewal of a contract can be undone and the firm re-hired if the board so choose.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to meet the four-pronged requirements to succeed on an emergent action as cited above, and is, therefore, not entitled to injunctive relief. The foregoing emergent petition is, therefore, DENIED.

ORDER

It is, hereby, ORDERED that the Bennett's petition for emergent injunctive relief be DISMISSED; it is further ORDERED that any remaining issues be referred to the COMMISSIONER for further determination.

Order on Emergent Relief

S.S., on behalf of minor child, K.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Sayreville, Middlesex County,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in *Crowe v. Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons stated therein.[1] This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

BEFORE KATHLEEN M. CALEMMO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this emergent matter, petitioner S.S., on behalf of minor child K.S., seeks the immediate return of K.S. to Sayreville War Memorial High School (Sayreville) on the grounds that the decision by the Sayreville Borough Board of Education (Board) imposing a long-term suspension with home instruction educational services was arbitrary, unreasonable, and against the weight of the evidence. The Board opposes petitioner's request on the grounds that petitioner has not satisfied the requirements to obtain emergent relief.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 26, 2023, petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), Office of Controversies and Disputes, challenging the Board's decision to place her son on long-term suspension, provide home instruction educational services, and find an alternative appropriate educational placement. The petition was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 31, 2023, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was reassigned to me on February 2, 2023, for an emergent hearing on February 6, 2023. After oral argument, the record closed on February 6, 2023.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Based on the petition for emergent relief, the video proffered by respondent, the legal arguments contained in the briefs in support and opposition of the request for emergent relief, and the arguments of counsel, and solely for the purpose of deciding this emergent appeal, I FIND the following undisputed FACTS:

K.S. is a classified student with a Specific Learning Disability attending Sayreville as a ninth-grade student. His date of birth is June 14, 2007.

On January 12, 2023, K.S. was involved in an altercation with another student. While the video of the fight showed that the other student threw the first punch, it also showed that the fight immediately became four against one. After K.S.'s three friends punched and kicked the student, K.S. was then depicted kicking the student several times as he laid on the ground.

After the incident, Sayreville's Child Study Team (CST) held a Manifestation Determination meeting and determined that the incident was not a result of K.S.'s disability. Thereafter, the superintendent for Sayreville requested a Board hearing due to the severity of the incident. The Board held a hearing on January 24, 2023. At the Board hearing, K.S. was represented by counsel. The Board heard testimony from witnesses, reviewed the video of the incident, and reviewed documentary records which included K.S.'s prior disciplinary history and school transcripts. After the hearing, the Board determined that K.S. would be suspended, pending placement in a suitable alternative educational program. In the interim, K.S. is receiving home instruction.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The standards for emergent relief are set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and are codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The petitioner bears the burden of proving:

> 1. That the party seeking emergent relief will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> 2. The existence of a settled legal right underlying the petitioner's claim;
>
> 3. That the party seeking emergent relief has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and the interests of the parties are balanced, the party seeking emergent relief will suffer greater harm than the respondent.
> [Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132-34.]

Petitioner has not specifically addressed any of the Crowe prerequisites for emergent relief. Petitioner's argument is that in-home instruction is not a proper substitute for a classroom education. K.S. struggles academically and there is a concern that given the limited home instruction hours, K.S.'s educational progress will suffer further decline.

Petitioner's lead argument was that the discipline was excessive. Reference was made to K.S.'s lack of any prior disciplinary history of violent behavior episodes. Arguing that K.S. was not the aggressor because he was punched in the face, petitioner believes that the discipline was unfairly administered among all the participants involved in the altercation. On balance, petitioner argued that K.S. is suffering greater harm to his education than the school would suffer by his re-admittance.

Irreparable Harm

To obtain emergent relief, petitioner must demonstrate more than a risk of irreparable harm should K.S. not be re-admitted to Sayreville. Petitioner must make a "clear showing of immediate irreparable injury," or a "presently existing actual threat; (an injunction) may not be used simply to eliminate a possibility of a remote future injury, or a future invasion of rights, be those rights protected by statute or by common law." Cont'l. Group, Inc. v. Amoco Chems. Corp., 614 F. 2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980). In an educational setting, "irreparable harm may be shown when there is a substantial risk of physical injury to the child or others, or when there is a significant interruption or termination of educational services." Ocean Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. J.E. and T.B. obo J.E., OAL Dkt. No. EDS 00592-04, 2004 NJ AGEN LEXIS 115, at *8 (February 23, 2004) (irreparable harm found where an eight-year-old's "physical aggressiveness and disruptive behaviors [posed] a safety concern to himself and others, and the district's behavior modification techniques [were] no longer effective"); Sparta Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. R.M. and V.M. obo C.M., OAL Dkt. No. EDS 01975-20, 2020 NJ AGEN LEXIS, at *14 (February 21, 2020) (inappropriate interactions with other students and breaking a desk deemed "sufficient evidence of the risk of harm to [student], school staff, teachers and students that if [student] remained in school at this time, other incidents could occur involving the health, safety and welfare of any of these individuals").

Petitioner contends that irreparable harm is established because home instruction is not adequate. Despite the argument, petitioner has not provided, by affidavit or testimony, information about the home instruction services that K.S. is currently receiving.

Respondent argued that K.S. is receiving home instruction in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.8, since January 20, 2023. Respondent further argued that K.S. is receiving more home instruction than is statutorily required. He is receiving home instruction in all his classes, including World History, Biology, Algebra 1, English 10, and Physical Education. In addition to the home instruction, the CST is meeting and working with K.S.'s parents towards finding an appropriate alternative educational program. As the Board is supplying home instruction services while exploring the appropriateness of alternative placement, I FIND that there has been no break in educational services to K.S. Home instruction to a student with a disability must be provided in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.8, and subject to a maximum of sixty calendar day intervals for renewal. I further FIND that K.S. was placed on home instruction after he was afforded due process rights under N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that there is insufficient evidence to show that home instruction educational services present an irreparable harm to K.S.

The second consideration is whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)(2), and then third, petitioner must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of success on the merits. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133.

Petitioner has also filed an underlying due process claim. Petitioner correctly claims that a decision by the Board can be overturned if the decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Whether a Board's decision can be overturned absent a plenary hearing is not well settled. Herein, there is no dispute that the Board has the power to discipline a student and when appropriate subject a student to a long-term suppression.

Actions within a school board's authority, including the adoption and implementation of policies for the assignment of students, are entitled to a presumption of correctness, and will not be upset by the courts unless there is an affirmative showing that a decision is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Thomas v. Bd. of Educ. of Morris Twp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), affirmed, 46 N.J. 581 (1966). In general, a board of education's actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. Where board actions are challenged, the challenger bears the burden of proving that such actions were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Schuster v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Montgomery, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 670, 676 [citing Schnick v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), and Quinlan v. North Bergen Twp. Bd. of Educ., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962)].

In matters involving the exercise of a board of education's discretion, the scope of the Commissioner's review is "not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions." Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 296 (App. Div. 1960). Our courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199–200 (Ch. Div. 1973), affirmed, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App Div. 1974). To satisfy the arbitrary and capricious standard, petitioner must prove that respondent acted in either bad faith or in disregard to the circumstances.

The limited record herein included a video of the incident. While K.S. did not initiate the fight, his actions in repeatedly kicking another student who was lying defenseless on the ground was sufficiently serious to warrant a long-term suspension. There was no argument questioning the Board's authority to impose discipline. Petitioner's argument that the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable cannot be determined without a full plenary hearing. Herein, petitioner is afforded the protections, established by N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.8, requiring all home instruction services to be renewed by notice on a sixty-day interval.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner does not meet the second and third prong of the emergent relief standard.

Balance of Equities and Interests

The final prong of the above test is whether the equities and interests of the parties weigh in favor of granting the requested relief to petitioner. Petitioner claims that greater harm will result to K.S. because he is suffering an educational loss for every day he remains on home instruction. Petitioner has not presented any proof, let alone clear and convincing proof, of how K.S. is being affected by home instruction. Petitioner has also argued that Sayreville will not suffer any harm because K.S. is not a danger to the school community. K.S. has a minimal disciplinary record, no prior violence, and, in this instance, K.S. reacted after being punched in the face. Petitioner strongly argued that the punishment did not fit the crime.

Respondent's argument is that K.S.'s educational needs are being met through home instruction services. Moreover, K.S. was afforded full due process. He had a Manifestation Determination meeting and a Board hearing. Accordingly, respondent argued that there is no just cause to disturb the Board's decision on an emergent basis. A determination of whether the Board acted arbitrarily or in bad faith can only be decided after a plenary hearing on the merits. In the interim, K.S.'s educational needs are being met by home instruction.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not shown that the equities favor reversing the Board's decision without a plenary hearing.

For the reasons stated above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to meet the applicable requirements to obtain emergent relief.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the application for emergent relief of petitioner S.S., on behalf of the minor child K.S., seeking the immediate re-admission to Sayreville War Memorial High School is hereby DENIED.

This Order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify, or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Deptford, Gloucester County, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Gloucester County Vocational School District, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioning school district (Deptford) sought an order relieving it of the obligation to pay the tuition and transportation costs for its students to attend the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT), which is operated by the Gloucester County Vocational-Technical School District (GCV-TSD). Petitioner contended that it offers Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs that are equivalent to those offered at GCIT and is therefore the functional equivalent of an approved vocational school; accordingly, petitioner argued that it is exempt from paying tuition and transportation costs for its resident students to attend GCIT when the same or similar courses are offered in the Deptford School District. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case and the matter is ripe for summary decision; Deptford has created three CTE programs (Academy of Biomedical Science and Nursing/Allied Health; Academy of Engineering and Computer Science; and Spartan School of Carpentry) and received CTE program approval from the NJDOE; the Commissioner previously decided the issue of whether operating approved CTE programs is the same as operating a vocational school (see, Board of Education of the Delaware Valley Regional High School District, Hunterdon County v. Board of Education of the Hunterdon County Vocational School District, Hunterdon County, et al., Commissioner's Decision No. 124-20, decided June 8, 2020, affirmed 2021 N.J. Super Unpub. 3090 (App. Div. 2021)) and determined that approved CTE programs are not the equivalent of a vocational school; establishment of a vocational school requires a separate application and approval process; there is no evidence in the record that Deptford has applied for approval to establish a vocational school; accordingly, Deptford is not exempt from paying the tuition and transportation costs for its students who apply and are accepted to attend GCIT under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3. The ALJ granted GCV-TSD's motion for summary decision and dismissed Deptford's petition.

Upon review the Commissioner, inter alia, concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion in this case. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter and dismissed the petition.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Deptford, Gloucester County, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Gloucester County Vocational-Technical School District, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Petitioner Deptford Township Board of Education (Deptford) seeks an order declaring that it is not required to pay the tuition or transportation costs for its students to attend the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT), which is operated by the Gloucester County Vocational-Technical School District. Deptford argues that because it offers Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs that are equivalent to those offered at GCIT, it is the functional equivalent of an approved vocational school, and it is therefore exempt from paying tuition and transportation costs.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that Deptford's CTE programs are not the equivalent of a vocational school, and Deptford is not exempt from paying the tuition and transportation costs for its students who attend GCIT under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3. The ALJ cited to Board of Education of the Delaware Valley Regional High School District, Hunterdon County v. Board of Education of the Hunterdon County Vocational School District, Hunterdon County, et al., Commissioner's Decision No. 124-20, decided June 8, 2020, affirmed 2021 N.J. Super Unpub. 3090 (App. Div. 2021), in which the Commissioner decided the same issue and determined that operating approved CTE programs is not the same as operating a vocational school, the establishment of which requires a separate application and approval process. The ALJ found that the record does not reflect any correspondence between Deptford and the Department seeking approval and establishment of a vocational school.

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that Deptford is required to pay the tuition and transportation costs for its students to attend GCIT. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3 establish that boards of education shall send and pay tuition for its resident students who are accepted to attend a county vocational school district, unless the board of education maintains an approved vocational school. The Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determination that Deptford does not have approval to operate a vocational school, nor is its CTE program the same as a vocational school, so it is not exempt from the tuition and transportation requirement.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE TAMA B. HUGHES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF CASE

The Board of Education of the Township of Deptford ("Deptford" or "petitioner") filed a "Petition of Appeal" seeking a declaratory ruling of a February 7, 2022, decision by the Gloucester County Interim Executive County Superintendent (Superintendent) holding petitioner responsible for the tuition and transportation costs of any resident student admitted to the Gloucester County Vocational-Technical School District ("GCVTD" or "respondent"). It is Deptford's contention that they complied with the applicable statutes and regulations when they created and instituted a State recognized "Career and Technical Education" (CTE) program that was assigned the same Classification of Instructional Program (CIP) code as a vocational school. As such, they should be exempt from the tuition and transportation costs of any of their residents/student admitted to GCVTD's program when the same or similar courses are offered in their own district.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

By letter, dated January 28, 2022, Deptford informed parents and guardians of students in their district that commencing in the 2022/2023 school year, Deptford would no longer pay the tuition and transportation costs for students enrolled in certain programs at the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT) — GCVTD's vocational school. On February 7, 2022, the superintendent issued a decision rejecting Deptford's plan to stop tuition and transportation reimbursement.

On May 5, 2022, Deptford appealed to the Commissioner of Education seeking a declaratory ruling in its favor. On May 26, 2022, GCVTD filed its answer and a cross-petition for a declaratory ruling. On June 20, 2022, Deptford filed its answer to GCVTD's cross-petition.

On June 23, 2022, the Acting Commissioner of the Department of Education transmitted the matters to the Office of Administrated Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. An initial call was held on August 24, 2022, at which time the parties were provided dates to file cross motions for summary decision and their respective oppositions. Upon receipt of the parties moving papers, the record closed on November 8, 2022.

FINDING OF FACT

1. GCVTD was established in 1970 as the county vocational school for Gloucester County and pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6, the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") approved the establishment and operation of GCIT.

2. GCVTD provides multiple CTE programs at GCIT, which include among other things, programs in: Health Sciences/Allied Health/Health Sciences, General; Engineering Technology, General; and Carpentry/carpenter.

3. Deptford operates the Deptford Township School District located in Gloucester County and pays the tuition and transportation costs for its resident students who attend GCIT.

4. Starting in 2018 to 2021, Deptford created and instituted three CTE courses of study: (1) Academy of Biomedical Science and Nursing/Allied Health Sciences, (2) Academy of Engineering and Computer Science, and (3) Spartan School of Carpentry. The CTE courses were approved by the New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1 and 3.2 and assigned the appropriate CIP codes. (Petitioner's brief, Exhibits A–D.)

5. GCVTD offers the same CTE programs at GCIT, all of which are approved by the NJDOE.[1] (Respondent's brief, pages 3–4.)

[1] Some of the courses may be listed under different titles and a different CIP code.

6. By letter, dated January 28, 2022, Deptford informed parents and guardians of students in their District that commencing in the 2022/2023 school year, it would no longer pay the tuition and transportation costs for students enrolled in the following programs at GCIT:

GC Vo-Tech Program	Deptford High School Equivalent Program
Health Science	Academy of Biomedical Science and Nursing/Allied Health
Engineering Technology	Academy of Engineering and Computer Science
Carpentry	Spartan School of Carpentry

Deptford also advised parents/guardians that "We are also required by law to cover tuition and transportation costs of any resident student enrolled in a county vocational program, unless we offer the same program within our district. The law defines "the same" as being Department of Education approved, assigned the same Classification of Instructional Program (CIP) code, and meeting or exceeding all applicable program performance standards." (Petitioner's brief, Exhibit F.)

7. By letter, dated February 7, 2022, the superintendent issued a decision rejecting Deptford's plan to stop tuition and transportation reimbursement citing to N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3 and N.J.A.C. 18A:54-5 et seq. and the fact that Deptford did not maintain a vocational school. (Petitioner's brief, Exhibit F.)

8. Deptford is not an approved vocational school and has not applied for such status with the State Department of Education.

LEGAL ARUGMENT AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the allegedly disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995) (citing Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill at 540 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed.2d 202, 212 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed.2d at 214.

Based upon the facts in the present matter as set forth more fully above, I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision.

There are no genuine issues of material fact in this matter. The respondent provides a vocational program at GCIT. Petitioner has District students who attend this program and pays their tuition in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). The petitioner has created three programs (Academy of Biomedical Science and Nursing/Allied Health, Academy of Engineering and Computer Science, Spartan School of Carpentry) and received CTE program approval from the NJDOE. However, the petitioner does not operate a vocational school and has not applied or received approval to run a vocational school.

Petitioner argues that in each of its course offerings, it has demonstrated that they meet all requirements for a CIP classification under N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3, satisfied all program requirements for a CTE program outlined under N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1 and therefore its courses are the same as those offered by respondent. Moreover, petitioner avers it has received for the Fiscal Year 2023, an allocation of $27,654,595 in Perkins Grant Funds, for the advancement of its CTE program. Taken collectively, petitioner believes that its good faith efforts to create and obtain NJDOE approval of its CTE courses, is the functional equivalent of an approved vocational school that offers the same courses as the regional vocation school, in this case, GCIT. Therefore, it satisfies the two-part test for exemption of tuition and transportation cost payments under N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3(a)(1).

Respondent's argument focuses on the fact that the Commissioner of Education has never declared petitioner a vocational school under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6. Nowhere in petitioner's motion or supporting documents is there the Commissioner's approval for petitioner to establish and maintain its own vocational school. Likewise, in review of petitioner's papers, is there any evidence that petitioner has considered or voted on a resolution to create a vocational school. While there is evidence that petitioner has created and sought approval for vocational courses which they self-labeled as "Academies" or the like, there are no letters or applications to the Commissioner seeking actual approval as a vocational school pursuant to the statute. As such, summary decision is the appropriate remedy as a matter of law because petitioner does not meet the statutory or regulatory requirements for exemption from paying tuition and transportation costs for their resident students currently enrolled at GCIT.

Respondent is correct.

In this matter, N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 and the corresponding code N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3 are controlling.

N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 states in pertinent part:

> a. The board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the school district or regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district pursuant to subsection c. of this section. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a school district or regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes. [emphasis added]

N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3, which mirrors, N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 states in pertinent part:

> (a) Each resident district board of education shall ensure that resident students may apply to and, if accepted, attend a county vocational school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1. The existence of the same career and technical education program at the resident district board of education shall not negate a student's right to apply to and, if accepted, attend a county vocational school, subject to the following limitations:
> 1. The resident district board of education shall be responsible for the tuition and transportation costs of any resident student admitted to the county vocational school in which the school district is located, unless the resident district board of education maintains a vocational school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 et seq., and such school offers the same program as the county vocational school where the student has been admitted. A program shall be deemed the same, for purposes of this section, if it is approved by the Department in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1 and 3.2, is assigned the same Classification of Instructional

> Programs (CIP) code, and meets or exceeds all applicable program performance standards . . . [emphasis added]

N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 provides that "the board of education of any school district or regional school district may establish and maintain vocational schools." Id. That authority however is qualified under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6 which states:

> Before any such school shall be established, the location and rules for the management of the school, the course, or courses of study to be pursued therein, and all changes in such courses shall be approved by the commissioner, subject to the advice and consent of the state board. Id.

Thus, it is critical to determine whether the approval for a CTE program is the equivalent to being an approved vocational school, and if this relieves a board of education from the obligation to pay for resident students who are enrolled at a regional vocational school as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.

This exact issue was recently addressed in Delaware Valley Regional High School District, Board of Education v. Hunterdon County Vocational School, EDU 13276-19, Final Decision (June 8, 2020), affirmed Superior Court of New Jersey Appellate Division, Docket No. A-3927-19, 2021 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 3090 * | 2021 WL 5872879.

In Delaware Valley, the same issue of law and similar facts were raised. Similar to the petitioner in this matter, Delaware Valley had state approved CTE programs of study which were assigned CIP codes. Delaware Valley sought a determination that because it had state approved CTE programs, it was the equivalent of being a vocational school so that it could qualify for tuition and transportation exemption. The Commission adopted the ALJ's findings and confirmed that "operating a CTE program is not the same as operating a vocational school" and concluded that a Board of Education "does not fall into the exception outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) because it does not operate a vocational school since it never applied or been approved to do so." (Final Decision at page 5.)

In affirming the Commissioner's Final Decision, the Appellate Division determined that:

> [I]t was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable for the Commissioner to conclude Delaware Valley Board does not operate a vocational school. The relevant Department regulations consistently differentiate the terms school, program, and program of study. See, e.g., N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1. Thus, approval to administer a CTE program is not the equivalent of approval to operate a vocational school. As the ALJ aptly noted, Delaware Valley Board "does not have an approved 'school[,]' . . . only . . . an approved 'program.'" Delaware Valley Board asserts that contrary to legislative intent, current Department regulations do not provide a mechanism for a regional board of education to obtain approval to operate a vocational school. However, Delaware Valley Board has not sought the Commissioner's approval to operate a vocational school as authorized by statute; it only requested authorization to offer a CTE program, which was approved.
> N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 declares that district and regional school boards "may establish and maintain vocational schools," and N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6 conditions the establishment of district and regional vocational schools on Commissioner approval. Consequently, on this record, we have no basis for concluding Delaware Valley Board operates a vocational school or that the Commissioner denied it the opportunity to establish a vocational school contrary to legislative intent.
> Id. at 11-12.

Petitioner argues that it has satisfied the various pieces and parts of the regulatory framework to be a vocational school when it was granted NJDOE approval to offer various CTE courses. Petitioner cites to Delaware Valley, for the proposition that when the controlling statute and implementing regulations as to vocational schools are unclear, a Court should not defer to the agency's interpretation of the statutory language and regulatory scheme because to do so would be "plainly unreasonable." This is a misreading of Delaware Valley.

The Appellate Division in Delaware Valley provided an in-depth analysis of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and what was necessary to qualify as a vocational school pursuant to the applicable regulations. Citing to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6, the Court determined that the Commissioner must approve the location, management rules, and courses of study of all district and regional vocational schools. Citing to N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c) the Court also noted that boards of education cannot label their schools and programs "career and technical" or "vocational-technical" without NJDOE approval. Id. at 11.

Similar to Delaware Valley, petitioner in this case is not a NJDOE approved vocational school. While it has several NJDOE approved CTE course/programs, that alone does not qualify it to be a vocational school. See N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 et seq. There is nothing in the record to reflect any board minutes, letters or other correspondence by the petitioner to the NJDOE consistent with the statutory requirements, seeking approval and establishment of a vocational school.

As succinctly stated in Delaware Valley, approval to administer a CTE program is not the equivalent of approval to operate a vocational school. For all of the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's CTE courses/program as approved by the NJDOE, is not the equivalent to approval as a vocational school. I further CONCLUDE that petitioner is not exempt from paying tuition and transportation costs of its students who apply for and are admitted to the CTE program at GCIT.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the Board of Education of the Gloucester County Vocational School District's Motion for Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED and that the Board of Education of the Township of Deptford's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision is DENIED, and their petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: Askiaa Nash v. Board of Education of the City of Newark, Essex County, Agency Dkt. No. 315-11/22.

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the Petition for Declaratory Ruling in the above-captioned matter, together with the motion to dismiss the petition filed by the respondent, Newark Board of Education (Board).

Upon such review, I have determined to exercise my discretion to decline the declaratory request pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1(a)1. I have further determined to grant the Board's motion to dismiss this matter.

Petitioner claims that he is entitled to back pay, pension, and benefits because of his "illegal" termination in 2001, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30. By way of background, petitioner worked for the Board from 1993 to 2001 under an emergency certificate as an Educational Media Specialist, a credential that was issued annually. The Board terminated petitioner in 2001 following a Division of Youth and Family Services investigation into allegations of sexual assault involving students. Petitioner was subsequently convicted on criminal charges stemming from the incident and sentenced to 22 years of incarceration. In 2013, the New Jersey Supreme Court reversed petitioner's criminal conviction and the indictment was dismissed. Petitioner filed a petition against the Board seeking reinstatement in 2013, which was dismissed as untimely and because he had not earned tenure, and that decision was affirmed by the Appellate Division. Petitioner filed a second petition in 2016, again seeking reinstatement, which was dismissed based on the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel. Petitioner filed a third petition in 2021, arguing that he was improperly terminated as a non-tenured employee and should therefore be reinstated. The Commissioner found the claims were barred by the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel as the matter had been fully litigated; further, petitioner's claims were time-barred by the 90-day limitations period.

The Commissioner finds that, as this is the fourth petition challenging petitioner's 2001 termination from the Board, this matter is again barred by the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel. The Commissioner, and the Appellate Division, have previously determined that petitioner's termination was not improper. Additionally, this matter is also barred by the 90-day statute of limitations set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 as petitioner was terminated more than 20 years ago and his conviction was vacated 10 years ago.

Accordingly, petitioner's petition for a declaratory ruling is DENIED and the Board's motion to dismiss the petition is GRANTED. The petition is hereby dismissed.

Sincerely,

Angelica Allen-McMillan, Ed.D.
Acting Commissioner

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Maria Ricupero and Gerlando Termini,

Complainants,

v.

Jeanne Stifelman, Board of Education of the Township of Randolph, Morris County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioners, citizens of Randolph, alleged that respondent, a member of the Randolph Board of Education, violated multiple sections of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1, through actions she took as the chief proponent of a plan to eliminate the Columbus Day holiday from the school district's calendar – a result that generated great community outcry over the lack of public vetting of the plan prior to the Board taking action to eliminate the holiday. The School Ethics Commission (SEC) determined that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members and recommended a penalty of reprimand.

The case was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination of the appropriate penalty in this matter. Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the penalty recommendation of the SEC for respondent's participation in a meeting with members of the public, which constituted action beyond the scope of her duties as a board member and had the potential to compromise the Board. Accordingly, the respondent was reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Maria Ricupero and Gerlando Termini,

Complainants,

v.

Jeanne Stifelman, Board of Education of the Township of Randolph, Morris County,

Respondent.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the January 31, 2023 decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission). The Commission found that respondent Jeanne Stifelman, a member of the Randolph Township Board of Education, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e). The Commission recommended a penalty of reprimand for the violation. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). Respondent neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's participation in a May 31, 2021 meeting with members of the public, which constituted action beyond the scope of her duties as a Board member and had the potential to compromise the Board.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

v.

Jeanne Stifelman,
Randolph Township Board of Education, Morris County,
Respondent

I. Procedural History

The above-captioned matter arises from a Complaint that was filed on July 16, 2021, by Maria Ricupero (Complainant Ricupero) and Gerlando Termini (Complainant Termini) (collectively referred to as Complainants), alleging that Jeanne Stifelman (Respondent), a member of the Randolph Township Board of Education (Board), violated the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A 18A:12-21 et seq. More specifically, the Complaint avers that Respondent violated N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(b), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(f), and N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(b) in Count 1, violated N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(b), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(g), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(b), and N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(c) in Count 2, violated N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(f), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(b), and N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(c) in Count 3, and violated N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(f), and N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(b) in Count 4.

On July 16, 2021, the Complaint was served on Respondent, via electronic mail, notifying her that ethics charges had been filed against her with the School Ethics Commission (Commission), and advising that she had twenty (20) days to file a responsive pleading.[1] On August 4, 2021, Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of Answer (Motion to Dismiss), and also alleged that the Complaint is frivolous. On August 27, 2021, Complainants filed a response to the Motion to Dismiss and allegation of frivolous filing.

Thereafter, and at its meeting on November 16, 2021, the Commission adopted a decision granting the Motion to Dismiss as to Count 1 (in its entirety); as to N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(b), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(b), and N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(c) in Count 2; as to Count 3 (in its entirety); and as to N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(f), and N.J.S.A 18A:12-24(b) in Count 4,

[1] In order to conduct business during the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, the Commission implemented an electronic filing system, which remains a permissible method by which the Commission and parties can effectuate service of process. Consequently, service of process was effectuated by the Commission through electronic transmission only and denying the Motion to Dismiss as to all other allegations. The Commission also adopted a decision finding the Complaint not frivolous, and denying Respondent's request for sanctions; directing Respondent to file an Answer to Complaint (Answer) as to the remaining allegations in the Complaint (N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(e) and N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(g) (Count 2) and N.J.S.A 18A:12-24.1(e) (Count 4)); and transmitting the above-captioned matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) following receipt of the Answer. On December 8, 2021, Respondent filed an Answer as directed, and the above-captioned matter was transmitted to the OAL.

At the OAL, the contested matter was assigned to the Honorable Andrew M. Baron, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ Baron). Initial Decision (Granting Summary Decision) at 1. Following the filing of Respondent's Notice of Motion for Summary Decision, oral argument was held on June 28, 2022, with supplemental argument on October 11, 2022; thereafter, the record closed. Id. at 2.

On November 22, 2022, ALJ Baron issued an Initial Decision (Granting Summary Decision) detailing his findings of fact and legal conclusions, and the Commission acknowledged receipt of same; therefore, the forty-five (45) day statutory period for the Commission to issue a Final Decision was January 6, 2023. Prior to January 6, 2023, the Commission requested a forty-five (45) day extension of time to issue its final decision so as to provide the Commission, which only meets monthly, with the opportunity to receive and review the full record. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8, and for good cause shown, the Commission was granted an extension until February 21, 2023.

At its regularly scheduled meeting on December 20, 2022, the Commission considered the full record in this matter. Subsequently, and at a special meeting on January 31, 2023, and for the reasons more fully detailed below, the Commission voted to adopt ALJ Baron's findings of fact; adopt the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) as alleged in Count 2; adopt the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) as contended in Count 4; but to reject the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) as asserted in Count 2. Based on its finding of a violation, the Commission also voted to recommend a penalty of reprimand.

II. Decision on Motion to Dismiss

In its Decision on Motion to Dismiss, the Commission stated, in relevant part:

> The Commission, however, finds that if the facts [as] argued are proven true by sufficient credible evidence, they may support a finding that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) in Count 2 and Count 4.
> Although Respondent maintains that she provided "sufficient disclaimers that she was speaking as an individual" during the meeting on May 31, 2021 with Complainants and in connection with the alleged interview on June 13, 2021, the Commission has advised that despite the use of an otherwise appropriate disclaimer, the content of a message or communication could render any potential disclaimer meaningless. As such, if Complainant can demonstrate that > Respondent's meeting with Complainants and alleged interview on June 13, 2021, constituted action beyond the scope of her duties as a Board member, and had the potential to compromise the Board (e.g., because she responded to or addressed a complaint or concern before it could be resolved by the administration), a violation may be found. Therefore, the Commission finds that the contended violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) in Count 2 and Count 4 should not be dismissed.

> Decision on Motion to Dismiss at 17.

In addition, and regarding the stated violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) in Count 2, the Commission advised:

> After review of the pleadings, the Commission finds that if the facts as asserted are proven true by sufficient credible evidence, they may support a finding that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g). If Complainants can prove by sufficient credible evidence that Respondent disclosed certain information to Complainants during the May 31, 2021 meeting, namely confidential information from the DISC/DEI committee meetings or any personally identifiable student information, and such information was "not public under any laws, regulations or court orders of this State," or was "otherwise confidential in accordance with [B]oard policies, procedures or practices," a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) may be established. Further, if Complainants can demonstrate that Respondent's sharing of data regarding the treatment of Columbus Day in other Morris County schools was indeed not miniscule as suggested by Respondents and establishes that the inaccuracy was other than a reasonable mistake or personal opinion, a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) may also be established. Therefore, the Commission finds that the alleged violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) in Count 2 should not be dismissed.
> Decision on Motion to Dismiss at 18.

III. Initial Decision (Granting Summary Decision)

In the Initial Decision (Granting Summary Decision), ALJ Baron issued findings of fact, and noted that the "parties essentially agree upon" the facts, but "dispute the application and interpretation of the law in relation to the facts." Initial Decision (Granting Summary Decision) at 2.

In the "Factual Discussion" section of his Initial Decision (Granting Summary Decision), ALJ Baron initially noted that the genesis of the Complaint is certain actions taken by the Respondent in her capacity as a member of the Randolph Board of Education (Board). Id. More specifically, at its regularly scheduled meeting on May 13, 2021, Respondent and another Board member, Susan Devito, introduced a "walk-on" resolution to change the Randolph Township School District's (District) observation of Columbus Day in October to "Indigenous People's Day." Id. at 3. For reasons unknown, Respondent brought the resolution on as a last minute motion from the floor, which is somewhat unusual for a matter that would have such significant importance. As such, the resolution was not part of the original meeting agenda advertised to members of the community, which did not allow for a full-fledged debate and discussion prior to the vote. Id.

Ultimately, a majority of the Board voted to remove Columbus Day from the District calendar. Id. Upon learning of the change to the District calendar, which was not "vetted" in the normal way such changes are usually introduced, there was a huge public outcry against what Respondent and a majority of the Board had done. Id. Thereafter, Complainant Ricupero and Complainant Termini felt compelled to exercise their rights as citizens to file an ethics complaint against Respondent Stifelman who was the leading proponent of the change. Id.

However, prior to filing their Complaint with the Commission, Complainant Ricupero and Complainant Termini sought a meeting with Respondent Stifelman to address their concerns and listen to what Respondent had to say about the drastic change to the District calendar. Id. The meeting, which occurred on May 31, 2021, lasted almost two hours, and Respondent was not aware it was being recorded. During the meeting, Respondent attempted to justify her actions, but was unsuccessful in addressing Complainants' concerns. Id.

Complainants further contend that during the course of the meeting, Respondent also revealed "confidential information" from a local diversity committee on which she served as a member, but it is not disputed that the information she shared did not identify specific individuals or specific cases which were discussed by the committee. Id. at 3-4. However, Complainants strongly believe that none of this information should have been discussed even in general terms. Id. at 4. It is unclear why this unrelated subject came up during a meeting between the parties the primary purpose of which was to discuss the removal of Columbus Day from the District calendar. Id.

In the approximately thirty (30) days that followed the initial vote to remove Columbus Day from the District calendar, there was a tremendous backlash throughout the community, many of whom are proud Italian-Americans, who rely on Columbus Day as a marker for their Italian heritage, not just a day off from work and school as some have suggested. Id.

In a hastily arranged community forum sponsored by the Randolph Italian American One Voice Committee, several local, county and State elected officials, and about sixty (60) members of the community appeared to speak out against the removal of Columbus Day from the District calendar. Id. Although she was not invited to the forum, Respondent appeared and was seen speaking to members of the press and giving out information. Id. However, Ms. Stifelman was not a speaker, and did not use her title as a Board member to defend her actions. Id.

Complainants strongly believe that by attending the forum, and being seen speaking to members of the press even though she was not quoted, Respondent had an affirmative obligation to identify herself as a Board member to anyone she was speaking with, and further believe that the anonymous quote which appeared in the newspaper following the forum could only be attributed to her. Id. Complainants further believe that, based on the Act, Respondent had an affirmative obligation to disclaim her position and her role as an attendee, even though she was not part of the formal program. Id.

At the Board's next regularly scheduled meeting on June 10, 2021, the removal of Christopher Columbus Day from the District calendar was raised again, this time as part of the Board's formal agenda. Id. Nearly all attendees at the Board meeting expressed their outrage at what the Board and Respondent had done, and demanded that Christopher Columbus Day be reinstated. Id.

In their Complaint, Complainants contend that Respondent circulated incorrect and incomplete information about what other school districts had done on the Columbus Day issue, and that Respondent was pursuing her own personal agenda in violation of the Act. Id. at 5.

At a special Board meeting on June 21, 2021, which was attended by over 400 members of the community, the Board, including Respondent, voted to rescind its prior action and to reinstate Columbus Day on the District calendar. Id. Prior to her vote, Respondent stated that a committee should be created to further study the matter, an action which was not taken prior to the earlier "resolution from the floor." Id.

Still reeling from what they believe to be a violation of Respondent's ethical obligations, Complainants, who come across as sincere, caring, intelligent and dedicated citizens and taxpayers, sought relief from the Commission for Respondent's role as a leader in creating what they believe to be bad public policy, and for acting outside the scope of her authority as a member of the Board. Id.

Based on the foregoing factual findings, ALJ Baron concluded as follows:

- Respondent, who did not use her title outside the scope of public Board meetings, was convinced that her opinion on changing the Christopher Columbus holiday on the District calendar was correct based on her research, and that action by the Board was required despite the potential repercussions. Although Respondent made the ill-advised and perhaps naive decision to try to force the Board to act on a last minute resolution from the floor, which was not part of the monthly meeting agenda, and while Complainants argue that such conduct technically violates the Act, ALJ Baron concluded that her conduct "does not rise to the level of conduct for which a penalty is warranted." Id. at 8.

- By voting with the majority of the Board to rescind the prior Board action after hearing the consensus of the community, even if Respondent had committed any prima facie violations of the Act, Respondent corrected her proposed policy change which, at worst, was politically misguided. Id.

- Requiring a Board member who attends a community forum(s) to, prior to speaking about their votes, disclaim their speech would have a chilling effect on elected officials at levels of government. Id. at 8-9.

- ❖ Other than being a "driving force" in the decision to change the District calendar, Respondent's actions were not self-serving in nature and/or could have resulted in her securing any kind of personal benefit from the change. Instead, Respondent's conduct was "bad public policy" which was later revoked by a majority of the Board (when it rescinded its prior action). The rescission of the previous Board action is a recognition that Respondent and her fellow Board members erred. Id. at 9.

- ❖ Respondent's conduct may have been bad policy, but "it does not rise to the level of unethical conduct under the statute." Id.

With the above in mind, ALJ Baron ordered Respondent should not be penalized for any violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) and/or N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), and summary decision is granted in Respondent's favor. Id.

IV. Exceptions

Neither Complainants nor Respondent filed Exceptions to the Initial Decision within the time period prescribed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a).

V. Analysis

Upon a careful and independent review of the facts and evidence set forth in the record, the Commission adopts ALJ Baron's findings of fact; adopts the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) as alleged in Count 2; adopts the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) as contended in Count 4; but rejects the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) as asserted in Count 2.

As an initial matter, the Commission agrees with ALJ Baron that Respondent's role as the "driving force" behind the change to the District calendar; the walk-on motion for the resolution to change the District's calendar; and the failure to include the resolution on the Board agenda, thus depriving the community of the opportunity to have advance notice of, to debate, and to discuss the issue are not reasons why she should be found in violation of the Act. In fact, in its Decision on Motion to Dismiss, the Commission specifically said that if Complainants could prove that Respondent's meeting with Complainants on May 31, 2021 (Count 2) and alleged interview on June 13, 2021 (Count 4), constituted action beyond the scope of her duties as a Board member, and had the potential to compromise the Board, a violation(s) of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) could be found. Moreover, if Complainants could prove that Respondent disclosed confidential or inaccurate information to Complainants during the May 31, 2021, meeting (Count 2), a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) could be established. Decision on Motion to Dismiss at 17-18. In this way, the Commission dispensed with the argument that any action taken by Respondent at the Board meeting on May 13, 2021, June 10, 2021, and/or June 21, 2021, even if procedurally inappropriate and/or contrary to best practice, was unethical. Instead, the Commission focused on Respondent's conduct and actions outside of scheduled Board meetings.

Based on a thorough review of the record, the Commission also agrees with ALJ Baron that there is insufficient factual evidence that, on May 31, 2021, Respondent disclosed "confidential" or "inaccurate" information to Complainants. Although Complainants may have believed that the information was "confidential" and/or that it was not appropriate for Respondent to have discussed it with them, Complainants needed to identify the specific information that was confidential and the basis for its confidentiality, and/or substantiate the inaccuracy of any information that Respondent may have provided during their meeting on May 31, 2021. The record before ALJ Baron did not reveal such evidence and, therefore, a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) is not supportable.

Similarly, the Commission further agrees there is insufficient factual evidence that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) when she attended a community forum, regardless of whether she was invited, and did not preface her statements to attendees with a disclaimer. In this regard, and other than Complainants' supposition, there is no evidence that any specific statement was officially attributed to Respondent. Absent evidence that a statement was made by Respondent or attributed to her in some official capacity, there is no way for the Commission to determine whether it required a disclaimer or, even if a disclaimer was used, whether the disclaimer was vitiated by the substance of the statement.

However, the Commission rejects ALJ Baron's conclusion that there is insufficient factual evidence that, on May 31, 2021, Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) when she met with Complainants to discuss the removal of Columbus Day from the District calendar. In this regard, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) states, "I will recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board." In order to substantiate a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), Complainants shall adduce certain factual evidence, namely "factual evidence that Respondent made personal promises or took action beyond the scope of her duties such that, by its nature, had the potential to compromise the board." N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)(5).

The factual record, limited as it is, is undisputed and confirms that: on May 13, 2021, and without prior notice, Respondent made a walk on motion to approve a resolution to change the District calendar, namely to change Columbus Day to Indigenous People's Day; upon learning of the change, "there was a huge public outcry against what Respondent and a majority of the Board had done"; Complainants sought a meeting with Respondent "to address their concerns and listen to what Respondent had to say about the drastic change on the calendar"; the meeting between Complainants and Respondent occurred on May 31, 2021, and lasted for almost two hours; during the meeting, Respondent attempted to "justify her actions," but was unsuccessful in addressing Complainants' concerns; in the approximately thirty (30) days that followed the Board's vote on May 13, 2021, "there was a tremendous backlash throughout the community"; at the Board's meeting on June 10, 2021, all attendees save three "expressed their outrage at what the [B]oard and [Respondent] had done" on May 13, 2021, and requested that Columbus Day be reinstated to the District calendar; and at a special meeting on June 21, 2021, which was attended by over 400 members of the community, the Board, including Respondent, voted to rescind its prior action and to reinstate Columbus Day. Id. at 3-5.

Even if Respondent, when she agreed to meet with Complainants, tried to explain to Complainants that she was speaking as an "individual," the fact is she was the "driving force" of a Board action that resulted in a "huge public outcry," she was asked to attend the meeting because of that action, Complainants wanted to express their concerns to that Board member, Complainants wanted to listen to Respondent's rationale for the "drastic change" that she initiated to the District calendar. Id. In other words, Complainants wanted Respondent, as a Board member, to be accountable, and to justify her actions as a Board member, and any attempt to represent or disclaim otherwise was futile.

Respondent knew that there was "a huge public outcry" and "tremendous backlash" from the community about her motion and the Board's action. As a result, and when asked by Complainants, Respondent should have declined the meeting, and referred Complainants to the District's administration, or to the Board. Respondent should never have agreed to meet to discuss, or to comment upon, official Board action, especially when the action was so presently divisive and a palpable point of contention.

By attending the meeting to discuss Board action, Respondent clearly took action beyond the scope of her duties as a Board member. Not only did Respondent's acceptance of, and attendance at, the meeting with Complainants constitute action beyond the scope of her duties as a Board member, it also had the potential to compromise the Board. As a Board member, Respondent is required, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j), to refer all complaints to the District's administration, and is prohibited from resolving, or attempting to resolve, a complaint at a time other than at a public Board meeting, and prior to the failure of an administrative solution. By not referring Complainants' concerns to the administration, which she was aware of prior to attending the meeting, Respondent undermined the administration's authority (and ability) to potentially resolve or address the concerns and this, in turn, imposes an unnecessary strain and hardship on the relationship between the administration and the Board.

Moreover, given the public outcry over Respondent's motion and the Board's action, it was incumbent upon the Board, and not Respondent, to publicly discuss and explain the rationale for its decision-making, and not for Respondent to explain it to Complainants. Although Respondent may have made the motion which caused the Board to take action, Respondent did not, by herself, cause the complained of action (even if she was the driving force). Instead, it was the Board, and the Board alone. Therefore, it was the Board's responsibility, and not Respondent's, to address any concerns, including those from Complainants, about why certain action was taken. Agreeing to meet with certain constituents and to offer her rationale undermined the ability of the Board to explain to the community at large, which included Complainants, why the action was taken. By attempting to explain or rationalize why she made the motion, Respondent compromised the integrity of the Board's decision-making process.

Consequently, and regardless of how Respondent may have attempted to qualify the capacity in which she was speaking and the capacity in which she was attending the meeting, the record supports a finding that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) in Count 2.

VI. Decision

For the reasons more fully detailed above, the Commission adopts ALJ Baron's findings of fact; adopts the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) as alleged in Count 2; adopts the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) as contended in Count 4; but rejects the legal conclusion that Respondent did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) as asserted in Count 2.

VII. Penalty

Having found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), and following its review of the record, the Commission recommends a penalty of reprimand, the lowest form of sanction/penalty that can be imposed for a violation of the Act. The Commission's recommended penalty of reprimand is predicated on the fact that Respondent's actions, although violative of the Code, did not appear to be willful, wanton, or reckless, and there is no evidence that she has previously been found in violation of the Act. As such, the Commission recommends that Respondent be reprimanded for having violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e).

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) for review of the Commission's recommended sanction. Parties may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's findings of violations of the Act; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction and an appeal of the Commission's findings of violations of the Act.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanctions of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's findings of violations may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended sanctions to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction," as well as to ControversiesDisputesFilings@doe.nj.gov. A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission (school.ethics@doe.nj.gov) and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's findings of violations must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4, et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanctions will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the findings of violations on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

On October 27, 2022, the Board of Education of Neptune Township School District [the "Petitioner or the "Board"] certified tenure charges of insubordination, conduct unbecoming and other just cause with the State of New Jersey Department of Education against William Mooney [the "Respondent"] and suspended Mr. Mooney without pay effective October 28, 2022. On November 14, 2022, Respondent filed an answer to the Charges. On November 16, 2022, the tenure charges were referred to me by the Director of the Office of Controversies and Disputes, Department of Education, for a hearing and decision.

On November 22, 29 and December 16, 2022, I held pre-hearing teleconferences during which representatives of the Respondent and the Petitioner met with the arbitrator. During these teleconferences, the parties advised that they had entered into settlement discussions. The arbitrator, via email, continued to request and receive updates from the parties regarding the status of their settlement discussions. Thereafter, Respondent and Petitioner reached a Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") resolving the charges against Mr. Mooney. The terms of the Agreement were approved by the Board on February 23, 2023.

The terms of the Agreement, in part, provide that Petitioner agrees to withdraw and rescind the tenure charges against Respondent and further that, pursuant to N.J. S.A. 18A:30-7, Mr. Mooney will be placed on a paid leave of absence effective January 3, 2023 through June 30, 2023.[1] In addition, Mr. Mooney agrees to submit an irrevocable letter of resignation contemporaneous with the execution of the Settlement Agreement, effective June 30, 2023 and his employment with the Board will automatically cease on June 30, 2023.

During the time period between October 28, 2022 and January 2, 2023, Mr. Mooney will serve an unpaid suspension.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, the arbitrator is required to issue a brief decision approving the settlement of tenure charges and explaining why the arbitrator is approving the terms of settlement. I have approved these terms for the following reasons:

I am persuaded that the issues that were raised in the Statement of Tenure Charges and Specifications filed by the Petitioner and the Answer to Tenure Charges filed by the Respondent have been fully reviewed and discussed by all parties and that the issues raised therein have been satisfactorily addressed by the terms of settlement. The Settlement acknowledges that Mr. Mooney has entered into the Agreement voluntarily and knowingly and that he was represented by counsel.

Moreover, the terms of the Agreement reflect an appropriate resolution of the tenure charges filed against the Respondent. The Agreement will allow both parties to avoid using valuable educational time as well as the avoid protracted and costly proceedings at the public's expense. The Respondent's agreement to tender his resignation in exchange for the withdrawal of the tenure charges will allow the District to continue to provide efficient educational services to students. I believe that the settlement terms properly balance all of the parties' interests and provide a satisfactory basis for the resolution of any concerns that were raised by the Statement of, and the Answer to, the Tenure Charges that were set forth in the record of this proceeding. Finally, the arbitrator finds that the Agreement serves the public interest.

For the foregoing reasons, this decision will serve as the arbitrator's approval of the parties' Settlement Agreement.

Final Decision

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, Bergen County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed Stipulation of Settlement and General Release (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner notes that the Agreement references actions that preceded the consideration of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the settlement. Further, with respect to Term 10 of the Agreement, the Board is reminded that it must comply with the requirements of New Jersey's Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq., notwithstanding any agreement the parties may have between themselves to keep the terms of their settlement confidential.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, provided that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms or have agreed upon mutually satisfactory alternate dates for the effectuation of the terms of the Agreement. Assuming same, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement consistent with applicable public records law.

acknowledged, the Parties now desire to memorialize the terms of their terms and conditions agreement in writing, as follows:

1. Parents agree to pay the Board tuition for C.K. and E.K.'s Period of Ineligible Attendance in the Ridgewood Public School District in the amount of $19,500 ("Settlement Amount") as follows:

a. Parents shall pay the Board an initial payment in the minimum amount of $5,000 by February 1, 2023 following execution of this Agreement;

b. Parents shall pay the Board a minimum amount of $2,500 over the course of four (4) months so that a total of $10,000 shall be paid no later than June 30, 2023. The four (4) monthly installment payments shall be made by the 30th of each month;

c. Parents shall pay the remaining portion of the Settlement Amount in the amount of $4,500 no later than December 31, 2023; and

d. All payments shall be made to the Board by personal or certified check, payable to the Ridgewood Public Schools Board of Education.

2. Should Parents provide a Certificate of Occupancy to the Board for the residence at 143 Kenilworth Rd. Ridgewood, New Jersey 07450 ("Property") on or before February 1, 2023, then the Parties agree that the Settlement Amount shall be reduced to $16,250.00 and the payment schedule set forth in Paragraph 1 above shall remain in effect, with the exception of subsection (c) which will be reduced to $1,250.00.

3. Should Parents fail to re-establish domicile in the Village of Ridgewood by February 28, 2023, C.K. and E.K. are entitled to remain enrolled in the Ridgewood Public Schools, but Parents will be charged monthly tuition rate of $3,250 pursuant to Board Policy until domicile is re-established in the Village of Ridgewood. Should Parents establish domicile in Ridgewood during the middle of any given month (including February 2023), tuition will be charged on a pro-rated basis. Said monthly payments shall be in addition to the agreed-upon tuition payment structure in Paragraph 1 of this Agreement.

4. Parents must provide a Certificate of Occupancy for the Property to the Board to re-establish residency in the Village of Ridgewood.

5. In consideration of the terms of this Agreement, Parents hereby waive and release the Board, its employees, and agents from all possible claims that have or may have been accrued against the Board arising out of the Petition of Appeal in this matter. Nothing in the release set forth in this Paragraph shall be construed as a release or waiver of any claims between the Parties seeking to enforce any term or provision of this Agreement.

6. In consideration of the terms of this Agreement, and as long as the Parents satisfy their obligations under this Agreement, the Board hereby waives and releases the Parents, their heirs, agents, representatives, and assigns, from any and all claims, demands, debts, liability, and causes of action of any type whatsoever, legal or equitable, arising from or pertaining to any act or circumstance including, but not limited to, anything that has occurred up to the date the Parties execute this Agreement, whether known or unknown, accrued or not accrued, and specifically, any claims for student tuition for failure to be domiciled in the District prior to February 28, 2023.

7. Parents acknowledge that they have had the opportunity to review this Agreement in detail. Parents fully understand its requirements and limitations. Parents hereby state that they are signing this Agreement voluntarily, of their own free will, and not under duress or coercion of any kind.

8. This Agreement shall be construed fairly according to the plain language of its terms and not for or against any party hereto.

9. All parties are bound by this Agreement and each of its provisions. Anyone who succeeds to their rights and responsibilities, such as their successors and assigns are also bound. This Agreement is made for the benefit of all parties hereto and all who succeed to their rights and responsibilities, and expressly includes their officials, representatives, employees, agents, attorneys, successors or assigns.

10. This Agreement is to be kept confidential by both parties to the maximum extent permitted by Law.

11. This Agreement represents the entire Agreement between the Parties, and will not be modified in whole or in part except by a mutual subsequent written and signed agreement.

12. This Agreement is governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey. The Parties agree that the courts of the State or District Court of New Jersey shall be the sole forum in which any legal action concerning or relating to this Agreement shall be brought.

13. In the event that any provision of this Agreement is held to be void or unenforceable by any court or regulatory authority having jurisdiction thereof, such ruling will not affect the validity of this Agreement; the remaining provisions shall continue to be in full force and effect.

14. This Agreement may be executed in one or more original, emailed or telecopied counterparts, all of which together shall be one instrument, and all of which shall be considered duplicate originals.

The parties hereby acknowledge their agreement to the terms set forth above by signing below.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

A.C.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District, Somerset County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

This case arose from an appeal filed by petitioner's parents on behalf of A.C. in January 2014, seeking to reverse the respondent Board's determination that petitioner committed acts of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) against fellow students during the 2012-2013 school year, when she was in sixth grade. A.C. was accused, inter alia, of making inappropriate comments about the Muslim attire of a fellow student and the weight of another; she was also accused of repeatedly stating that she had a "kill list," wanted a gun permit, wanted to be "Osama Bin Laden #2," and wanted to buy a plane and crash it into the Hoover Dam. A.C. served a five-day suspension for making violent statements and was the focus of a HIB investigation. The petition alleged, inter alia, that, by determining A.C. had committed HIB and by suspending her for violent comments and blog posts, the Board violated school laws, including New Jersey's Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.2 et seq (the Act), and A.C.'s constitutional and civil rights. The long procedural history of this case includes a separate action filed in Superior Court and multiple amendments to the petition. During the pendency of this matter, A.C. attained the age of majority and the case caption was changed to reflect A.C. as the sole petitioner.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Board's determination that petitioner committed acts of HIB was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable; while the Board did not violate education laws by failing to provide A.C. with support services after her suspension, it did violate procedural requirements of the Act in response to her parents' claims that A.C. was herself the target of HIB; and the Board violated A.C.'s free speech rights by suspending her for violent statements she made about teachers in her off-campus blog. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that the Board take corrective measures, including training, to ensure that Board members and employees comply with the procedural requirements for HIB investigations. Regarding remedies for the Board's violation of A.C.'s free speech rights by suspending her from school, the Board has already expunged the suspension from A.C.'s school records, and any further redress of the Board's violation of petitioner's constitutional rights would require A.C. to seek relief in a court of appropriate jurisdiction.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, modified to address the untimeliness of A.C.'s amended pleadings. The Board was ordered to take corrective measures to ensure that procedural violations of the Act do not re-occur. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

A.C.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District, Somerset County

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by the parties pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the replies thereto, have been reviewed and considered.

June 2013 Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying Complaints Against Petitioner[1]

On June 17, 2013, when petitioner was in sixth grade, she was accused of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) by three other students. One student, A.Q., alleged that petitioner had repeatedly commented on and questioned A.Q.'s clothing, despite A.Q. explaining to petitioner that her clothing was based on her Muslim religion. All three students reported that petitioner had repeatedly stated that she had a "kill list," wanted a gun permit, wanted to be "Osama Bin Laden #2," and wanted to buy a plane and crash it into the Hoover Dam. During the HIB investigation, it was also reported that petitioner had asked A.S., "Can I eat your flesh because you have too much of it?" or "Can I eat you since you have a lot of flesh?" as a way of making fun of A.S.'s weight. The investigation determined that petitioner had committed acts of HIB based on her comments on A.Q.'s religion and A.S.'s weight, and petitioner challenged the results at a hearing of the Board of Education of the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District (Board) in November 2013. The Board affirmed the determination of the superintendent that petitioner had committed acts of HIB against A.Q. and A.S. Petitioner[2] appealed to the Commissioner in January 2014, seeking to reverse the Board's HIB determination. In November 2016, petitioner filed an amended petition, which included the following counts related to the HIB finding against petitioner:[3]

[1] Due to the lengthy and complex procedural history of this matter, this decision will address each major incident at issue in the case separately.

Count 5: The Board arbitrarily, capriciously, and unreasonably determined that petitioner committed acts of HIB against A.Q. and A.S.

Following the Board's motion for summary decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that the Board's determination that petitioner committed acts of HIB against A.Q. and A.S. was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Reviewing the criteria for a finding of HIB, the ALJ first noted that petitioner's statements to A.Q. were reasonably perceived as being motivated by A.Q.'s religion, and her statements to A.S. were reasonably perceived as being motivated by A.S.'s weight. Next, the conduct took place on school property. Third, petitioner's actions substantially disrupted or interfered with the orderly operation of the school, as the "essential lessons of civil, mature conduct cannot be conveyed in a school that tolerates . . . offensive speech and conduct." Order on Summary Decision, p. 17. Petitioner's conduct also interfered with A.Q. and A.S.'s rights "to be secure and to be let alone," ibid., and other students were so affected by petitioner's behavior that they joined A.Q. in filing a HIB complaint. Finally, the ALJ concluded that a reasonable person should have known that such acts would have the effect of emotionally harming A.Q. and A.S. and the acts did, in fact, have the effect of insulting them. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision as to Count 5.

[2] The petition was filed by A.C.'s parents on her behalf. As A.C. reached the age of 18 during the pendency of these proceedings, the parties submitted a consent order to the ALJ to modify the case caption to name A.C. as the sole petitioner. Filings referenced herein as those of petitioner may have been submitted by A.C.'s parents but will be identified as petitioner's filings for ease of reference.

[3] The counts of the amended petition are identified as numbered therein. The allegations of each count are summarized, rather than directly quoted.

In her exceptions, which essentially reiterate arguments made during the briefing on the motion for summary decision, petitioner argues that the ALJ's findings of fact in favor of the Board were made based on incompetent evidence, as there were no certifications, sworn statements, or testimony from individuals possessing personal knowledge of pertinent facts. Petitioner contends that there were disputed issues of material fact, because she denied making the statements to A.Q. and A.S. According to petitioner, the ALJ should have viewed the facts in the light most favorable to petitioner but failed to do so. Petitioner also contends that the ALJ improperly assumed that there was a substantial disruption in the operation of the school when the record lacked any such evidence.

Upon review, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ appropriately granted the Board's motion for summary decision as to Count 5. When a local board of education acts within its discretionary authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be disturbed unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Furthermore, "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration[,]" and the Commissioner will not substitute her judgment for that of the board. Bayshore Sewerage Co. v. Dep't. of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Based on the evidence in the record, the Commissioner finds that petitioner did not meet her burden of demonstrating that the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The record contains sufficient credible evidence to support the Board's determination that petitioner made comments about A.Q.'s religion and A.S.'s weight and that those comments met the criteria for a finding of HIB.

The Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act) defines HIB as follows:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L. 2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
> N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

Therefore, a finding of HIB requires three elements.[4] First, the conduct must be reasonably perceived as being motivated by any actual or perceived enumerated characteristic or other distinguishing characteristic and, second, the conduct must substantially disrupt or interfere with the rights of other students or the orderly operation of the school. The third condition is that one of the three criteria enumerated in the Act regarding the effect of the conduct must also be satisfied. Wehbeh v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Verona, Essex County, Commissioner Decision No. 51-20 (decided February 4, 2020).

Regarding the first element, in defining HIB as an action "that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic . . .", N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 (emphasis added), the statute requires an analysis of how the actor's motivation is perceived and whether that perception is reasonable. Here, it was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable for the Board to conclude that A.Q. reasonably perceived petitioner's comments as being motivated by the distinguishing characteristic of religion, or that A.S. reasonably perceived petitioner's comments as being motivated by the distinguishing characteristic of her weight.

[4] The statute also requires that the conduct take place on school property, at a school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3. The parties do not contest that this requirement has been met with regard to petitioner's comments about A.Q. and A.S.

Regarding the second element, the Commissioner finds that it was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable for the Board to determine that petitioner's comments substantially disrupted or interfered with the rights of other students. Multiple students were so affected by petitioner's comments that they joined A.Q. in filing a HIB complaint. Furthermore, A.Q. and A.S. have the right to attend school in an environment free from offensive comments of this nature. Finally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner should have known that her comments would have the effect of emotionally harming A.Q. and A.S., and that her comments did have the effect of insulting them.

The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions persuasive. Petitioner contends that the witnesses who gave statements regarding the alleged HIB were not subject to cross-examination, and that the ALJ failed to consider petitioner's denials that she had made any such comments. However, even considering petitioner's denials, at most, they balance the other evidence in the record that petitioner did make the comments about A.Q. and A.S. While the evidence may leave room for two opinions regarding whether petitioner made the statements, it is insufficient to overturn the Board's decision, as it does not demonstrate that the decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. To overturn the Board's decision would require the Commissioner to substitute her judgment for that of the Board, which is not permissible.

The Commissioner has previously held that statements similar to those made by petitioner constituted HIB. See, e.g., R.G.B., on behalf of minor child, E.B. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Village of Ridgewood, Bergen Co., Commissioner Decision No. 242-13 (decided June 24, 2013) (statements calling a student "a horse" and "fat"); S.S. and W.S., on behalf of minor child, J.S. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Hasbrouck Heights, Bergen Co., Commissioner Decision No. 369-05 (decided October 13, 2005) (statements regarding a student's religious clothing). Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that the Board's decision that petitioner committed acts of HIB against A.Q. and A.S. was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable and that the ALJ correctly granted the Board's motion for summary decision as to Count 5.

Count 7: The Board violated petitioner's constitutional rights because her comments regarding A.Q. and A.S. were constitutionally protected speech.[5]

Following the Board's motion for summary decision, the ALJ concluded that the Board did not violate petitioner's First Amendment rights by finding that she committed acts of HIB based on her statements to A.Q. and A.S., and granted the Board's motion as to this portion of Count 7. The ALJ noted that First Amendment case law provides that a board of education may impose consequences for speech that substantially disrupts the operations of the school or the rights of other students, which mirrors a requirement of the Act for a finding of HIB. The ALJ found that a substantial disruption did occur, for the same reasons as in Count 5.

In her exceptions, petitioner contends that the ALJ improperly assumed that there was a substantial disruption when the record lacked any such evidence.

Though not specifically raised in the original petition of appeal, Count 7 arises out of the same facts as the original petition – the district's handling of the HIB complaints against petitioner – and it is therefore deemed to relate back to the original date of filing pursuant to N.J. Ct. R. 4:9-3.[6] Petitioner's exceptions, which make the same arguments she made during briefing on the motion for summary decision, are not persuasive. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that a substantial disruption to both the orderly operation of the school and to the rights of other students did occur. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ correctly granted the Board's motion for summary decision on this portion of Count 7.

[5] Count 7 also included allegations related to petitioner's May 2013 blog posts and suspension. That portion of Count 7 is discussed separately below.

[6] This rule is applicable to proceedings at the OAL pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3.

Count 9. The Board's HIB policy violates the New Jersey Constitution because it prohibits speech and related conduct, and is unconstitutionally vague and overbroad.

Following the Board's motion for summary decision, the ALJ concluded that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over facial challenges to the constitutionality of a school board policy. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision as to Count 9.

The parties did not file exceptions to the ALJ's conclusions regarding Count 9.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Commissioner has no jurisdiction over facial challenges to the constitutionality of a school board policy. See, e.g., A.S., supra (citing Valent v. N.J. State Bd. of Educ., 114 N.J. Super. 63, 69 (Ch. Div. 1971). Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ correctly granted the Board's motion for summary decision as to Count 9.

May and June 2013 Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying Complaints by Petitioner

On May 22, 2013, petitioner's parents alleged that certain teachers had intentionally mispronounced petitioner's first name. On May 28, 2013, they alleged that a student was bullying petitioner on the school bus. The school did not conduct an HIB investigation.

On June 13, 2013, petitioner's parents again alleged that petitioner had been harassed by teachers and students. The school then conducted a HIB investigation regarding petitioner's complaint that teachers were intentionally mispronouncing her name and thereby ridiculing her because of her Asian ancestry. The investigation was conducted by the assistant principal rather than the school's anti-bullying specialist, who was deemed to have a conflict since she was in the same union as the accused teachers. The accused teachers and petitioner's fifth-grade teacher were interviewed, but petitioner was not interviewed. On June 25, 2013, the principal notified petitioner's parents that the investigation determined that A.C. was not the target of an act of HIB. The superintendent signed the investigation report the following day, and the Board's July 23, 2013 meeting minutes show that the superintendent's report was affirmed, but the Board did not issue a written decision affirming the superintendent' report.

In November 2016, petitioner filed her amended petition, which included the following counts:

Counts 2 and 3. The Board failed to conduct a timely and sufficient investigation of the HIB allegations made by petitioner about teachers intentionally mispronouncing her name and about bullying by a classmate on the bus.

Following the Board's motion for summary decision, the ALJ found that there were genuine issues of material fact with respect to the investigation of the HIB allegations made by petitioner, and therefore denied the motion for summary decision as to those counts. A hearing was held and, in the Initial Decision, the ALJ found that the Board failed to conduct a HIB investigation when petitioner's parents reported that a student was making fun of petitioner on the bus. The Board also failed to timely initiate an investigation regarding the allegations that teachers were intentionally mispronouncing petitioner's name, as the allegations were initially made in May 2013 and an investigation was not initiated until June 2013 when petitioner's parents repeated the allegations. Furthermore, even if staff did not have sufficient information to initiate an investigation until June, the HIB report was not sent to the principal until 13 days after the complaint was made, rather than within 10 days as required by the Act. The ALJ concluded that the investigation should have been conducted by the school's anti-bullying specialist, not the assistant principal, and the fact that the specialist was in the same union as the accused teachers does not, by itself, create a conflict. Finally, the ALJ concluded the Board violated the Act by failing to issue a written decision regarding its HIB determination. The ALJ ordered the Board to take corrective measures, including training, to ensure compliance with the procedural requirements for HIB investigations.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that it appropriately determined that a HIB investigation was not warranted based on petitioner's complaint in May 2013 that a teacher mispronounced her name, because petitioner did not state that she was being bullied or harassed or indicate that the conduct was motivated by a distinguishing characteristic. The Board also contends that petitioner's complaints did not include any accusations against students, and that it therefore did not violate the Act by failing to investigate the conduct of other students. Additionally, while the Board acknowledges that it did not issue a written decision to affirm the June 2013 investigation findings, that violation of the Act is de minimus and should be excused because petitioner had the opportunity to contest the findings before the Board.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that because the Board failed to provide notice of its HIB determination to petitioner, as required under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e), there was no event triggering the start of the 90-day limitations period, and therefore any argument made by the Board as to lack of timeliness of these claims must fail. The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that the Board violated the Act by: failing to conduct an investigation when petitioner made the HIB allegations against another student in May 2013; failing to initiate an investigation within one day of petitioner's allegations regarding teachers mispronouncing her name; failing to complete the investigation within 10 days of the allegation; failing to have the school's anti-bullying specialist conduct the investigation; and, as noted above, failing to issue a written decision.[7] The arguments made by the Board in its exceptions were also raised in the Board's post-hearing brief and rejected by the ALJ in the Initial Decision. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that these arguments are not persuasive and concludes that the record contains sufficient information to affirm the ALJ's conclusions that the Board violated the procedural requirements of the Act.

[7] As the ALJ noted, petitioner did not allege that the Board's decision that the teacher did not commit an act of HIB against petitioner was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, or seek relief in the form of reversal of that decision. Therefore, the Commissioner does not reach this issue, and this decision is limited to the Board's procedural violations of the Act.

May 2013 Blog Posts and Suspension

On May 17, 2013, petitioner was accused of HIB by another student based on postings she made on her blog, including statements saying that the student was annoying, not funny, and did not have any friends. School staff conducted an investigation and determined that petitioner's statements did not constitute HIB; the determination was affirmed by the Board. However, a review of petitioner's postings demonstrated that she had also made statements on her blog that violated the Board's anti-violence policy, including that she wanted to kill one of her teachers and toss her body in a river, and that she wanted to kick another teacher in the face, break all her bones, and watch her die. Petitioner was suspended for five days based on the violent statements; she was also required to undergo a psychiatric evaluation prior to being allowed to return to school because she threatened to kill herself and others during staff interviews related to the HIB investigation. Petitioner appealed the suspension at a Board hearing in November 2013. The Board voted to expunge the suspension from petitioner's student record.

The amended petition included the following counts:

Count 1. The Board failed to provide petitioner with necessary and appropriate education, remedial, and intervention and referral services with regard to the May 2013 HIB investigation, suspension, and psychiatric clearance.

While the Board's motion for summary decision sought dismissal of the petition in its entirety, the ALJ found that the Board's motion did not address Count 1 and therefore denied the motion as to Count 1. A hearing was held and, in the Initial Decision, the ALJ concluded that the Board did not violate any statutory or regulatory provisions regarding support services for petitioner. The ALJ noted that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over any claims regarding special education services, which instead fall under the jurisdiction of the Department of Education's Office of Special Education. Furthermore, petitioner failed to demonstrate that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which empowers the Board to do all things necessary "for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance" of its schools, or N.J.S.A. 18A:40-6, which empowers the Board to provide services that will "aid in the preservation and promotion of the health of the pupils. Finally, petitioner failed to demonstrate that the Board violated N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, which requires boards of education to establish a code of student conduct that, among other things, fosters "the health, safety, and social and emotional well-being of students" or N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.1, which requires a system of "planning and delivering intervention and referral services designed to assist students who are experiencing learning, behavior, or health difficulties." Petitioner did not provide evidence to support this claim and, instead, the record reflects that school staff took steps to ensure petitioner's well-being after the blog incident.

The parties did not file exceptions regarding the ALJ's conclusions regarding Count 1.[8]

Upon review, the Commissioner finds it is necessary to address the timing of petitioner's claim and the application of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, which requires that a petition be filed within 90 days of the "date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education" that is the subject of the requested hearing. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, any petition regarding the Board's conduct when petitioner returned from her suspension in May 2013 should have been filed no later than August 2013, yet no petition was filed at that time. Even if the alleged failure to provide services to petitioner could be construed as an ongoing violation, the record reflects that petitioner moved out of the district some time before September 2013. Therefore, at the absolute latest, any petition of appeal alleging a violation of law for failure to provide services should have been filed by the end of November 2013. No such petition was filed. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that Count 1 of the amended petition was untimely and must be dismissed.

[8] The Board filed exceptions to the Order on Summary Decision, arguing that the ALJ should have granted the Board's motion as to Count 1, but as Count 1 was ultimately dismissed by the Initial Decision and is dismissed herein, it is not necessary to address those exceptions.

Count 7. The Board violated petitioner's constitutional rights by suspending her for the constitutionally protected speech contained in her blog statements.

Following the Board's motion for summary decision, the ALJ found that there was a genuine issue as to whether petitioner's blog postings materially and substantially disrupted the work and discipline of the school, and therefore whether the suspension violated petitioner's First Amendment rights. Accordingly, the ALJ denied the Board's motion for summary decision as to this portion of Count 7. A hearing was held and, in the Initial Decision, the ALJ found that the statements petitioner made on her blog about harming teachers could not be construed as true threats because a reasonable recipient of the statements would not have considered them to be serious expressions of an intent to harm the teachers. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's blog did not materially and substantially interfere with the requirements of appropriate discipline in the operation of the school and could not have reasonably led school authorities to forecast a substantial disruption or material interference with school activities and that, as a result, the Board violated petitioner's First Amendment rights by suspending her. The ALJ noted that the record reflects that the Board has already expunged the suspension from petitioner's school records.[9] The ALJ additionally noted that that any other relief that petitioner might seek regarding the violation of her constitutional rights must be sought in a court of appropriate jurisdiction.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that it correctly determined that petitioner's blog caused a material and substantial disruption within the school, noting that students were aware of and discussed the blog and felt unsafe and upset during school hours. The Board also contends that it reasonably forecasted a substantial disruption based on the violent content of the blog, and – given the frequency and content of the posts – the likelihood that petitioner would have continued to make violent and negative statements about staff and students which would continue to cause those individuals to feel unsafe. The Board cites to case law concluding that school administrators have substantial discretion to limit or restrict speech that might be constitutionally protected in other environments. Finally, the Board argues that petitioner's claims related to her suspension are moot because the suspension was served and has been expunged from petitioner's record, and therefore no further action can be taken, and no additional remedy is available.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, any petition regarding the Board's conduct or decisions related to the May 2013 suspension should have been filed no later than August 2013, yet no petition was filed at that time. Petitioner did not raise her claim that the Board violated petitioner's First Amendment rights until she filed a Superior Court complaint in May 2016. In his decision dismissing the Superior Court complaint, Judge Thomas C. Miller found that although it was unclear whether petitioner's constitutional claims would be fully adjudicated through the OAL proceedings, nonetheless, the Superior Court's review should be deferred pending completion of the OAL matter. However, the filing of a separate action, in a separate court, three years after the suspension occurred cannot absolve petitioner of the obligation to file any claims against the Board that are within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner within 90 days. The timeliness of a complaint under the Superior Court rules, in and of itself, has no bearing upon the timeliness of a petition under the Department of Education's regulations. A.S., o/b/o minor child, P.P. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Pinelands Regional Sch. Dist., Ocean Cty., Commissioner Decision No. 411-09, decided December 16, 2009. The purpose of the time limitation is, in part, to serve as a measure of repose through which a board of education can be secure that, after the 90 days have elapsed, its decisions will not be challenged before the Commissioner. See, e.g., Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993). This requirement cannot be circumvented by the later Superior Court filing.

Nor is the November 2016 amendment of the petition to include counts related to the suspension sufficient to render those claims timely. N.J. Ct. R. 4:9-3 provides that when a claim asserted in an amended pleading arose out of the conduct, transaction, or occurrence set forth or attempted to be set forth in the original pleading, the amendment relates back to the date of the original pleading. Although the original petition does recount the events surrounding petitioner's suspension, that information is included solely in the background section. The petition was filed by an attorney, not a pro se petitioner who might be afforded leeway in crafting claims. Indeed, the petition is well-pled, and it is clear from the absence of any reference to the suspension in the portion of the petition that identifies the alleged violations of law and requested relief that petitioner was not attempting to set forth any claim regarding the suspension.

While the Commissioner may relax rules in cases where strict adherence may result in injustice, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, the Commissioner does not find relaxation of the 90-day limitations period to be appropriate here. The Commissioner acknowledges the importance of allegations of constitutional violations such as those made by petitioner. However, even if the Commissioner were to find that the Board violated petitioner's First Amendment rights, the Commissioner lacks authority to order any remedy other than the expungement of petitioner's suspension, which has already occurred. Any other remedy is only cognizable in other forums. Should petitioner wish to pursue her First Amendment claim, she is free to do so in the courts that are best positioned to adjudicate and award a remedy for such claims. For all these reasons, the Commissioner concludes that the portion of Count 7 related to the suspension was untimely and must be dismissed.

June 2013 Police Contact

On June 17, 2013, the school's assistant principal contacted the local police department to report petitioner's comments regarding a kill list, wanting to be Osama bin Laden #2, and wanting a gun permit. The school also provided the police with copies of the HIB reports, psychiatric release, and blog postings. The police conducted a search of petitioner's home but found no weapons and closed the case without further action.

The November 2016 amended petition included the following counts:

Count 4. By reporting petitioner's conduct to the police, the Board retaliated against petitioner for filing a HIB complaint.

Following the Board's motion for summary decision, the ALJ concluded that while the Act prohibits retaliation against anyone who reports an alleged HIB incident, the papers did not suggest that school officials retaliated against petitioner when contacting the police, but instead did so based on reports by three of petitioner's classmates that petitioner had said that she had a kill list, wanted to be the next Osama bin Laden, and wanted a gun permit. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision as to Count 4.

In her exceptions, petitioner contends that there were disputed issues of material fact regarding counts 4 because petitioner denied making the statements regarding a kill list, gun permit, and wanting to be Osama bin Laden #2. According to petitioner, the ALJ should have viewed the facts in the light most favorable to petitioner but failed to do so.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, any petition regarding the district's contact with the police in June 2013 should have been filed by September 2013, but no such claim was filed. Additionally, for the same reasons discussed above, the amendment of the petition in November 2016 is insufficient to render this claim timely. Accordingly, Count 4 of the petition is untimely and must be dismissed.

Count 6. By providing copies of petitioner's student records to a teacher and the police, the Board violated petitioner's privacy rights.

While the Board's motion for summary decision sought dismissal of the petition in its entirety, the ALJ found that the Board's motion did not address Count 6 and therefore denied the motion as to Count 6. The Board then filed a motion for partial summary decision, seeking dismissal of Count 6, which the ALJ granted, concluding that even if the Board had violated the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act or New Jersey's Pupil Records Act, there were no enforceable rights or administrative remedies available to petitioner in this forum.

The parties did not file exceptions to the ALJ's conclusions regarding Count 6.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, any petition regarding the district's contact with the police in June 2013 should have been filed by September 2013, but no such claim was filed. Additionally, for the same reasons discussed above, the amendment of the petition in November 2016 is insufficient to render this claim timely. Accordingly, Count 6 of the petition is untimely and must be dismissed.

Count 8. Petitioner's complaints that teachers racially demeaned her were protected under the Law Against Discrimination, and petitioner could not be subject to retaliation for those complaints.

Following the Board's motion for summary decision, the ALJ concluded that there was no causal connection between petitioner's report that teachers had committed acts of HIB against her and the actions of school officials in contacting the police about petitioner's other statements. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision as to Count 8.

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ improperly disregarded her denials and that issues of disputed fact exist regarding when and why school staff called the police.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, any petition regarding the district's contact with the police in June 2013 should have been filed by September 2013, but no such claim was filed. Additionally, for the same reasons discussed above, the amendment of the petition in November 2016 is insufficient to render this claim timely. Accordingly, Count 8 of the petition is untimely and must be dismissed.

Conclusion

The Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter, as modified herein. The Board shall take corrective measures to ensure that procedural violations of the Act, as identified in Counts 2 and 3, do not re-occur. The Board's motion for summary decision as to the remaining counts is granted, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [10]

Petitioner,

v.

BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,

Respondent.

John F. McDonnell, Esq., for petitioner (McDonnell Artigliere, PC, attorneys)

Stephanie C. Schwartz, Esq., for respondent (Hatfield Schwartz Law Group, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 29, 2022 Decided: November 14, 2022

BEFORE ELIA A. PELIOS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter arises from a nine-count petition of appeal originally filed by P.C. and S.C., on behalf of their daughter, A.C., and alleging that respondent Board of Education of the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District (Board or District) violated school laws, including the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13, et seq. (Anti-Bullying Act), and A.C.'s constitutional and civil rights as a result of the Board's actions in suspending A.C. from school due to violent statements she made in her personal blog about certain teachers, conducting three separate harassment, intimidation, or bullying (HIB) investigations involving A.C., and calling the police to investigate threatening statements A.C. allegedly made while attending the District's Eisenhower Intermediate School during the 2012-2013 school year.[1]

After the Commissioner of Education transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the Board filed two motions for summary decision that resulted in the dismissal of several of the counts in the petition of appeal. The issues that survived summary decision, and on which a contested case hearing was held, are as follows:

(1) Did the Board violate the school laws governing programs to support student development by failing to provide A.C. with appropriate services after she returned from her out-of-school suspension?

(2) Did the Board violate the Anti-Bullying Act by failing to timely and sufficiently respond to P.C.'s claims that A.C. had been bullied by a classmate and harassed by teachers?

(3) Did the Board violate A.C.'s free speech rights under the United States Constitution and the New Jersey Constitution by suspending her for the contents of her personal, off-campus blog?

For the reasons that follow, I CONCLUDE that while the Board (1) did not violate various education laws by failing to provide A.C. with support services after her suspension, the Board (2) violated certain procedural requirements of the Anti-Bullying Act in response to P.C.'s HIB claims and (3) violated A.C.'s free speech rights by suspending her for violent, yet constitutionally protected, statements she made about teachers in her off-campus blog.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 21, 2014, P.C., and S.C., on behalf of A.C., filed with the Commissioner of Education a petition of appeal specifically challenging the Board's November 2013 decision that A.C. committed HIB acts against her classmates. Upon receipt of the Board's answer, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the OAL as a contested case.

In May 2016, P.C. and S.C. filed an action against the Board and Eisenhower administrators in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Somerset County, Law Division, alleging that the defendants violated A.C.'s constitutional right to free speech by suspending her for her blog postings; violated the Law Against Discrimination (LAD) by retaliating against A.C. because P.C. reported that various teachers had been intentionally mispronouncing A.C.'s first name in a racially demeaning manner; and, that the Board's HIB policy is unconstitutionally overbroad and vague. Board's Motion for Summary Decision, Ex. F.

In August 2016, the OAL matter was placed on the inactive list pending resolution of the Superior Court action. Schwartz Cert., ¶ 11. On October 14, 2016, the Honorable Thomas C. Miller, P.J.Cv., issued an order dismissing the complaint "in order to defer to the OAL action" because "the facts that form the basis of Plaintiff's petition to the OAL are generally the same factual predicate that forms the basis of the Plaintiff's First Amendment claims." Board's Motion, Ex. F.

On November 4, 2016, I granted petitioners' motion to amend their petition. Schwartz Cert., ¶¶ 9-10; Board's Motion, Ex. G., and Ex. H. According to the amended petition, which petitioners filed on September 17, 2017, after the matter was made active again:

- Count One: "With regard to the May 17, 2013 HIB investigation, the subsequent 5-day suspension, and the administration's demand that A.C. receive psychiatric clearance before being permitted to return to Eisenhower School, the Board and its employees violated A.C.'s rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:40-6, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.1, et seq., N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.1, et seq. by failing to provide her with the necessary and appropriate education, remedial and intervention and referral services."

- Counts Two and Three: "On or about May 18, 2013, P.C. filed a HIB complaint with the Board and its employees maintaining that A.C. was being bullied by certain 6th grade teachers who were continuously mispronouncing her name, and by a classmate on her school bus," but the Board failed to conduct a timely and sufficient HIB investigation, in violation of the Anti-Bullying Act. The Board failed to interview A.C. as part of its investigation and, according to the HIB report, "P.C. and A.C. did not identify a distinguishing characteristic or protected class which, of course, is a completely false statement" because "P.C. and A.C. made it clear that the deliberate and willful mispronunciation of A.C.'s first name was predicated upon her Asian ancestry."

- Count Four: By reporting a "suspicious incident" to the police on June 17, 2013, "the Board and its employees engaged in retaliatory acts against A.C. and her family because they had exercised their rights to file a HIB complaint . . ."

- Count Five: The Board arbitrarily, capriciously, and unreasonably determined that A.C. committed HIB acts based upon one student's religion and another student's physical characteristic.

- Count Six: By providing copies of A.C.'s student records to one of her teachers and members of the Bridgewater Police Department, "the Board and its employees violated A.C.'s privacy rights under . . . "the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), 20 U.S.C. 1232g, 34 C.F.R. Part 99, N.J.S.A. 18A:36-19 and N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.4 through 7.6."

- Count Seven: The Board and its employees violated A.C.'s constitutional rights by suspending her and finding that she committed HIB acts because her "speech as set forth in her off-campus blog, and her statements to students A.Q. and A.S. is protected under Article I, paragraph 6 of the New Jersey Constitution," and "[t]he respondents are liable to the petitioner pursuant to the New Jersey Civil Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 10:6-1, et seq. [N.J.C.R.A.] for the violation of petitioner's aforementioned constitutional rights."

- Count Eight: "The petitioner's complaints, through her father, P.C., that various teachers were intentionally mispronouncing A.C.'s first name, in a racially demeaning manner, intentionally causing her humiliation in front of her peers, was protected under the [LAD] and petitioner could not be subjected to retaliation for that complaint pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:5-12(d)."

- Count Nine: The Board's "HIB Policy violates Article I, paragraph 6 of the New Jersey Constitution as it prohibits speech, and related conduct that cannot be legally prohibited" and "[t]he Policy is unconstitutionally overbroad and vague." [Id. at Ex. H.]

On September 22, 2017, the Board filed an answer denying the allegations set forth in the amended petition. Board's Motion, Ex. I.

On May 4, 2018, the Board filed a motion for summary decision finding that "the Board did not act arbitrarily, capriciously, or unreasonably in reaching the three HIB determinations and the petitioner's rights under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights were not violated;" that "petitioner's state law claims must be dismissed . . . because petitioner did not engage in protected speech under the New Jersey State Constitution;" that "petitioner's NJLAD/Retaliation Claims should be dismissed because petitioner's claim fails as matter of law;" and, that "[t]he petition should be dismissed as moot because all of the students involved in the alleged HIB incidents have graduated or are no longer enrolled in the district." Board's Brief in Support of Motion. On June 26, 2018, P.C. and S.C. filed a brief in opposition to the Board's motion. On July 20, 2018, the Board filed a reply brief in support of its motion. In September 2018, the parties submitted supplemental information that I had requested for purposes of deciding the Board's motion.

On September 20, 2018, I issued an order denying the Board's motion for summary decision as to Counts One, Two, Three and Six, and granting the Board's motion as to Counts Four, Five, Eight and Nine, which were dismissed. The Board's motion was granted in part and denied in part as to Count Seven, which was dismissed in part. An evidentiary hearing was ordered to resolve Count One, Count Two, Count Three, Count Six, and the remaining portion of Count Seven of the petition – whether the Board violated A.C.'s First Amendment right to free speech by suspending her for her off-campus blog. Additionally, as part of this matter, petitioners brought a motion for depositions of seven current or former Board employees and of two police officers, which was denied by order on September 13, 2018. The order granting partial summary decision was submitted under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) for immediate review by the Commissioner.

On October 5, 2018, the Commissioner issued a letter indicating his determination to not review the order, pursuant to his discretion under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e). Also on October 5, 2018, the Board submitted a motion for partial summary decision seeking dismissal of Count Six as a matter of law. That motion was granted and Count Six was dismissed. Thus, as a result of the Board's motions for summary decision, the petition counts that necessitated a hearing were Counts One, Two, Three, and Seven (in part).

A hearing was held on May 6, May 8, May 15, May 16, May 21, and June 4, 2019. At the hearing, A.C., Joseph Diskin, Kimberly Patullo, P.C., and Cathleen Filippello, were called to testify for petitioners, while Alice Piscadlo and Nicole Fitzpatrick testified for the Board.

After the hearing, the parties submitted written summations of their respective positions. The record was reopened on May 20, 2022, when it was determined that petitioner had attained the age of majority while the proceedings had been ongoing. A conference call was held on July 13, 2022, to discuss the matter. A subsequent call was scheduled for August 26, 2022.

Prior to that call, on August 25, 2022, this office received a consent order whereby the parties "consented to the amendment of the caption whereby A.C. shall replace her parents, P.C. and S.C., as A.C. is no longer a minor and has reached the age of majority."[2] The telephone conference scheduled for August 26, 2022, was adjourned. On September 29, 2022, I ordered the caption amended as consented to by the parties because A.C., who was a minor child on whose behalf her parents originally filed this appeal, turned eighteen during the pendency of this matter and she now wishes to pursue the appeal on her own behalf. Therefore, A.C. is now the sole petitioner in this appeal of certain decisions made by the Board. The record re-closed September 29, 2022.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The following facts are derived from the documentary evidence presented by the parties, and I FIND:

A.C. was born in 2000 to Taiwanese immigrants, P.C., and S.C. Second Amended Petition of Appeal, ¶¶ 2-3. She attended the Board's public schools from kindergarten through the sixth grade. Id. at ¶ 4. On May 17, 2013, while A.C. was in sixth grade at the Eisenhower School, one of her classmates, E.K., alleged that A.C. had cyberbullied him on her personal blog. R-1; R-2. In response, Eisenhower administrators conducted a HIB investigation by reviewing the contents of A.C.'s blog. Ibid.

The blog, which was called "GinyPigLuver," included sections entitled "Surveys," "Cute Pics!!!," and "Vids/Music." P-1. However, at the heart of this matter, is another section of the blog entitled "GinyPigLuver - Rants." Ibid. In that section, there were nine separate "rants," including ones called "Annoying Kid," "Anger Issues Escalated Everyone's a Moron," "More on: New Annoying Teacher!," "Amazing News: New Annoying Teacher Found!!!," and "Gigantic Rant on Annoying Teacher That Is Totally Annoying." Ibid. Although A.C. did not refer to the subjects of her "rants" by name, she revealed their identities when asked by school staff during its investigation into the matter.

The entry, "Annoying Kid," included such language as "IT'S A TRUE FACT THIS KID HAS ABSOLUTELY NO FRIENDS OTHER THAN THAT MAN-LADY PERSON" and "THIS KIDS A LOSER." Ibid. A.C. admitted that this entry was about E.K.

In "Anger Issues Escalated Everyone's a Moron," A.C. wrote in reference to an incident between her and her gym teacher during class, "I REALLY, REALLY wanted to kick her in the face and break all her bones and watch her die." Ibid. A.C. admitted that this entry was about her gym teacher, Nicole Fitzpatrick.

The two "rants," "More on: New Annoying Teacher!," "Amazing News: New Annoying Teacher Found!!!," which A.C. admitted were about a teacher named Rachel Merino, included such statements as "I JUST FEEL SO MUCH ANGER AN[D] EMOTIONS IN ME! I JUST WANT TO KILL HER AND TOSS HR BODY IN A RIVER (but I can't, 'cause I'm not old enough to kill people yet – LOL jk I don't kill . . . yet . . :-O", and "I almost SPIT IN HER FACE AND PUNCHED HER DOWN. But I managed to control my unstable self and not do it." Ibid.

Finally, in the entry, "Gigantic Rant on Annoying Teacher That Is Totally Annoying," A.C. wrote how a teacher mispronounced her first name to rhyme with the word "rice," but that the teacher "KNOWS my name is [A.], she's just doing it to insult me." Ibid. A.C. admitted this entry was about her English teacher, Patricia Idell.

The investigation, which was conducted on May 17, 2013, resulted in a finding that the comments A.C. made about E.K. did not constitute a HIB act. (R-1 and R-2.)

However, A.C. was suspended for five days "for making threatening comments about staff members" in her blog. (R-7.) The suspension began on May 20, 2013. Ibid.

On May 17, 2013, school administrators also referred A.C. for a psychiatric evaluation at County of Somerset, Department of Human Services, Psychiatric Emergency Screening Services (PESS) because, as indicated in an incident report filled out by school counselor, Alice Piscadlo, "when [A.C.] was seen by administration [and] counselor she expressed verbally that she wanted to 'go off and die,' kill someone,' and 'kill myself.'" (R-4.)

The same day, A.C. was seen by PESS staff, who concluded that A.C. was not "[a]n imminent danger to self or others secondary to a mental illness." Ibid. A.C. "admitted to feeling a little depressed and rated her depression a 5 on a scale of 0 to 10." (P-5.) The staff diagnosed her with "Depressive Disorder [Not Otherwise Specified] and "Problems with social environment – animosity with certain peers." Ibid. The PESS staff recommended that she seek outpatient counseling services, and P.C. told the staff that he "will follow up with church counselor." Ibid. The evaluation form also states that "[i]f church counseling does not seem to be helpful the family was referred to in-home or outpatient therapy." Ibid.

On May 18, 2013, P.C. emailed the Eisenhower principal, Joseph Diskin, the results of A.C.'s psychiatric screening and requested that A.C.'s suspension be reversed and that she be allowed to return to school on May 20, 2013. (R-9.) P.C. wrote that "[A.C.] is a good student and . . . never intend[ed] to harm any person" and that A.C. "has been bullied at school constantly and led to using blog to convey her frustration and anger." Ibid. P.C. also stated that "[w]e will arrange church [counselor] for [A.C.] to learn how to manage her emotion[.]" Ibid.

On May 20, 2013, Principal Diskin met with P.C. and denied his request to allow A.C. to return to school before the end of her five-day suspension. Petition of Appeal at

¶ 23. P.C. appealed to the Assistant Superintendent, Cheryl Dyer, who also denied P.C.'s request. (R-9.)

On May 22, 2013, P.C. emailed Principal Diskin that "Mrs. Idell is the person intentionally to pronounce [A.C.'s] name incorrectly since beginning of school year until [A.C.] mentioned she felt annoying in her home work on Feb 2nd." (R-21.) He also informed Principal Diskin that "Mrs. Merino . . . called [A.C.] 'pest'." Ibid.

In a June 8, 2013, email, P.C. told Principal Diskin that "I still have not receive the investigation report regarding my complaint," and asked" Can you kindly inform when you will send me the report?" (R-21.)

On June 13, 2013, P.C. met with Principal Diskin and other school staff members, and again alleged that A.C. had been "harassed" by teachers and students. (R-11.) According to the ensuing investigation report, "[s]ince the word harassment was used, an HIB (staff) investigation was started." Ibid. The investigation report indicated that four staff members, Patricia Idell, Rachel Merino, Nicole Fitzpatrick, and Jason Draine, had been accused of bullying A.C., and that as part of the investigation, Assistant Principal Cathleen Filippello interviewed the accused teachers and one of A.C.'s fifth-grade teachers, K.P., who had not been accused of bullying A.C. Ibid.

In her interview, Ms. Idell admitted that she had mispronounced A.C.'s first name, but that she had done so unintentionally. Ibid. She stated that A.C. had corrected her pronunciation, and that she had since made a conscious effort to pronounce A.C.'s name correctly. Ibid. Ms. Fitzpatrick stated that she did not know how to pronounce A.C.'s name and that A.C. had corrected her several times. Ibid.

By letter, dated June 25, 2013, Principal Diskin informed P.C. and S.C. that "[i]t has been determined that your child was not the target of the investigated act of [HIB]." Ibid. The letter also informed P.C. and S.C. that the report would be forwarded to the Superintendent, Michael Shilder, and the Board for further review and that "[y]ou will be notified if the Board takes action to either modify or reject these findings." Ibid. P.C. and S.C. allege that they "received no further communication regarding this matter" including information regarding any actions taken by the superintendent or the Board and that, as a result, the Board denied them a right to appeal the results of the HIB investigation. Petition of Appeal, ¶¶ 36-37.

On June 26, 2013, Principal Diskin signed the investigation report, which was then signed by the superintendent on July 2, 2013. (R-11.) According to minutes from the Board's July 23, 2013, meeting, the Board approved "the Superintendent's report of alleged HIB incidents and investigations for July 18, 2013, as well as the recommendation of the Board's HIB Committee to affirm the determinations and actions specified." Board's September 6, 2018, Letter to OAL, Ex. B. However, the Board did not issue a written decision affirming the Superintendent's report.

P.C. subsequently appealed A.C.'s five-day-suspension and the results of a different HIB investigation to the Board, which held a hearing on November 12, 2013. (R-23.) On November 13, 2013, the Board Secretary, Peter Starrs, wrote a letter to P.C., informing him that "the Board voted to affirm the determination of the Administration that your daughter did commit an act or acts of HIB, denying your appeal on this issue," but that "[w]ith respect to the suspension for her blog, although she has already served the time and that cannot be undone, the Board voted to expunge her record of the suspension, in effect, granting your appeal on this issue." Ibid.

The foregoing statements are based in large part on documents that speak for themselves and are FOUND as FACT.

Next is a summary of the testimony presented by the parties at the hearing before me. At that hearing, A.C., Principal Diskin, Kimberly Patullo, P.C., and Assistant Principal Filippello, were called to testify for petitioners, while Alice Piscadlo and Nicole Fitzpatrick testified for the Board.

A.C.

A.C. testified that she made excellent grades throughout her academic career and that, prior and after the incidents at issue in this matter, which occurred during the 2012-2013 school year when she was in the sixth grade, her disciplinary history was otherwise unremarkable. She left the Bridgewater-Raritan school district after sixth grade, and at the time of her testimony in 2019, she was a high school senior who had been accepted to, and planned on attending, The Honors College of Rutgers.

A.C. offered insight into certain problems and feelings she had in the sixth grade. She explained that "I had a lot of issues in sixth grade. I was angry all the time. I was like really sad, too, because [it was] the first year that all my friends got split up from being in the same class, so I had to like make new friends and I didn't really know how to do that." She further stated that she was "insecure" and "super awkward all the time," and that sixth grade "was rough."

A.C., who is Taiwanese American and whose parents emigrated to this country from Taiwan before she was born, also dealt with students and teachers alike who mispronounced her first name to include, and rhyme with, the word "rice." She would correct people who did so "most of the time," and most people would thereafter pronounce her name correctly. When her friends mispronounced her name jokingly, "it wasn't like that big of a deal," but she did not like it when non-friends would repeatedly and intentionally mispronounce her name after she asked them to stop. In sixth grade, A.C. did not think that mispronouncing her name to include the word "rice" was a racial slur; however, in retrospect, she believes that the mispronunciations were racially motivated.

A.C. testified about the blog postings that resulted in her five-day suspension from school in May 2013. She explained that she created her blog "like around late 2012 to early 2013," and that "in the blog I basically wrote about my thoughts . . . How my day went. Things I was upset about . . . I wrote about books that I read. Like, posted pictures of cute animals, stuff like that. A compilation of things that, like, mattered to me, pretty much."

She only shared her blog with her group of friends, who were four other sixth-grade girls at Eisenhower. In order for her four friends to access her blog, A.C. gave them the web address, which was "ginypigluver.weebly.com." The blog was not password protected, but according to A.C., anyone who wanted to find and access the blog could not merely conduct a web search of A.C.'s name, but instead would have to know and enter the exact web address. She further testified that all of her blog entries were made off-campus, and that she did not use school computers to write on her blog.

Her blog included a section entitled, "GinyPigLuver – Rants." According to A.C., "'Rants' was a side page of my main blog . . . a specific category that I created to compile all my rants into one." She also had sections with "cute pictures, videos, and like music videos that I liked." There was also a section with A.C.'s book recommendations.

As for the "rants" section, A.C. described a "rant" as "it's like when I'm venting about something and I write it down." According to A.C., "I was really angry. So, I write about why I'm angry. And then I like make it funny so that my friends will laugh when they read it."

She made nine separate entries to the "rants" section of her blog during the course of her sixth-grade year. Most relevantly, four of those entries were about teachers at her school, and one was about a classmate.

The first entry, "Gigantic rant on annoying teacher that is totally annoying," was about her English teacher, Ms. Idell. A.C. testified that she wrote that entry "around January [2013]," and that she wrote the entry about Ms. Idell in part because the teacher had repeatedly mispronounced her name to include the word "rice" since the beginning of the 2012-2013 school year. At first, A.C. would correct her, "but it didn't seem to like make a difference, so I stopped at one point." The fact that Ms. Idell kept mispronouncing her name "annoyed" A.C.

A.C. testified that, "at first I didn't know she was doing it on purpose, I thought she was just like really stupid," and she responded, "I don't think so," when asked by her counsel if she thought Ms. Idell had accidentally mispronounced her name. However, on February 2, 2013, A.C. had a homework assignment for Ms. Idell that apparently brought an end to the teacher's mispronunciation of A.C.'s name. A.C. wrote about how she related to the main character in a story who "had an ethnic name . . . and faced like racism because people pronounced it incorrectly," and according to A.C., "after I handed in that entry she never called my name wrong ever again."

A.C. also wrote two entries about another teacher, Ms. Merino. A.C. recollected that the entries were made in February 2013. Those entries were entitled, "More on New Annoying Teacher" and "Amazing News on New Annoying Teacher Found." A.C. stated that she wrote the posts about Ms. Merino because, even though she wasn't A.C.'s teacher, Ms. Merino said "rude things" to A.C. at school, had allegedly called A.C. a "pest," and "would like scream at students for no reason."

In one of her posts about Ms. Merino, A.C. wrote that "I just feel so much anger and emotion in me, I just want to kill her and toss her body in the river. But I can't, cause I'm not old enough to kill people yet, lol, just kidding, I don't kill. Yet." However, A.C. testified that she did not actually want to kill Ms. Merino and toss her body in a river and stated that "I probably made the same joke to my friends, but . . . if I did it wasn't a serious threat." According to A.C., "it was just a joke."

A.C. testified about writing, in reference to Ms. Merino, "I almost spit in her face and punched her down, but I managed to control my unstable self and not do it." According to A.C., "I was joking, I thought it was funny. My friends thought it was funny like." A.C. explained that "all this stuff that I wrote in here was like yeah, it was to vent, but it was also to make my friends laugh, like they're just jokes."

A.C. also wrote a "rant" about her gym teacher, Ms. Fitzpatrick. While A.C. usually "kept [her posts] anonymous to the point where I didn't tell like what subject the teacher taught, but this one I needed to say that they taught gym, because it was relevant to my story." According to A.C., Ms. Fitzpatrick "just like had a problem with me. She would like single me out for no reason." In reference to Ms. Fitzpatrick, A.C. wrote in her blog, "I wanted to kick her in the face and break all her bones and watch her die." A.C. testified that she did not really want to harm Ms. Fitzpatrick, but instead "just wrote this stuff because I thought it would make my friends laugh."

Finally, a "rant" entitled "Annoying kid," was about a classmate, E.K., who rode the same bus as A.C. According to A.C., she and E.K. did not get along, and the two mutually exchanged unpleasantries. As A.C. explained, "I would like be sitting on the bus minding my own business and he would come up to me and tell me that I'm a loser . . . and then I would respond like, shut up, like nobody likes you." E.K. was the student who brought A.C.'s blog to the school's attention, but A.C. does not know how he gained access to the blog and knew that it was her blog – "I mean my name is only listed in my entire blog one time and you would have to scroll through all the entries to see it . . . so, I don't know if he even knew that I wrote this or if he just had like a suspicion."

A.C. stated that she "was very angry" when she made the "rant" entries but asserted that she never intended to turn her words into actions. According to A.C., "I was too scared to even . . . say like what I felt, you know. So, I wouldn't have, like done anything. I wouldn't even have said, like, what I wrote." A.C. explained that her "rants" were hyperbolic or satirical, not literal. She denied ever directly threatening any of the teachers or the student who were the subjects of her "rants."

In her nine "rant" entries, A.C. did not identify the subjects by name "[t]o protect like their identity" and "create a sense of anonymity." She also did not "sign any of the blogs with my name[.]" According to A.C., "[y]ou would not have known that I had written any of this, unless you read through all of it and got to the entry where I wrote about people pronouncing my name wrong."

She deleted, and stopped making entries to, the blog on May 17, 2013, the day the school learned about the blog and suspended her from school for the content of the blog. A.C.'s understanding was that the school suspended her "because like the stuff that I wrote made me a threat . . . to like the people I wrote about, I guess." She recalled being called to the principal's office on May 17, and that the principal, assistant principal, and a guidance counselor were there.

While at the principal's office, the assistant principal asked for, and A.C. divulged, the names of the teachers and student about whom she wrote in her blog. However, according to A.C., none of the faculty members who were present asked her for further information about the entries, like why she wrote them or her feelings while writing them. Yet A.C. testified that she told Ms. Filippello on May 17 that "the stuff I said about teachers . . . were jokes."

Although a document entitled "Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District Life Threatening Behavior Incident Report," dated May 17, 2013, reflected that A.C. stated that she wanted to kill someone and herself, she denied on the witness stand that she told any school staff on May 17 that she intended to kill anyone or herself. However, she allowed that she was very upset about getting in trouble and "probably [said], wow, I wish I could die or something. But like, like teenagers say that stuff all the time," but don't actually mean it.

After A.C.'s psychiatric evaluation on May 17, she did not receive any counseling services either at the school or outside of school.

Principal Joseph Diskin

Diskin began his employment with the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District in 2002 and was the principal at Eisenhower during the 2012-2013 school year. E.K. reported the existence of the blog to Ms. Filippello, the assistant principal, "sometime in the afternoon of May 17th." Ms. Filippello then alerted Diskin.

The same afternoon, Diskin accessed the blog on the Internet and read its contents. He also printed a copy of the blog. According to Diskin, "the things that were most problematic were . . . the ones that . . . threatened physical violence, killing" with respect to teachers. Even phrases that included smiley faces or other emoticons did not affect Diskin's interpretation of A.C.'s words; he did not find funny the posts espousing violence.

Diskin did not discuss the posts with A.C.; Ms. Filippello and the school counselor were the staff members who interviewed A.C.

He testified that he did not know, but that it did not make a difference to him, who had access to the blog or when A.C. wrote the entries – whether recent or not – "because of the words about killing, watching someone die . . . what would be violent acts towards staff members." To Diskin, whenever the posts were written, "it's still a threat."

As for access, Diskin said "it was a public blog and that anybody could access it." It did not matter to Diskin whether the blog was easily accessible or whether anyone who wanted to access it had to know and enter the exact phrase "ginypigluver.weebly.com;" whether three people or 3,000 people accessed A.C.'s blog; or whether A.C. wrote the entries at home or at school. According to Diskin, A.C.'s blog "was making a substantial disruption to our school and the – those students had access to it, it was communicated to another student. So where it originated from it did not matter."

The "substantial disruption," in Diskin's opinion, was "the threatening the lives of staff members," Diskin and his staff having to address the situation and hold various meetings about it on May 17 and May 20, "for a sixth grade student like A. and her own well being . . . is also a disruption to our school," and for the student who reported the blog to Ms. Filippello. As Diskin explained, "it's a disruption to our normal operating procedures." However, Diskin conceded that, in response to the blog posts, the police were not called to the school on May 17th, the school was not closed, and no teachers or students (other than A.C.) missed school.

He confirmed that A.C. told Ms. Filippello the identities of the teachers who were the subject of her blog posts and stated that he did not know whether he or other staff members would have been able to identify all of the teachers if A.C. had not told them.

Ms. Filippello called P.C. and asked him to come to the school on May 17. When P.C. arrived, he met with Diskin. Diskin told P.C. about his concerns with some of the contents of A.C.'s blog. He also informed P.C. that A.C. would be suspended for five days. The decision to suspend A.C. was made by Diskin, in consultation with Ms. Filippello and the superintendent.

Diskin and P.C. then went to Ms. Filippello's office and met with her, the school counselor, and A.C.

Diskin did not notify the teachers about whom A.C. wrote in her blog until May 20. May 17 was a Friday, and the superintendent told Diskin to wait to inform them about the contents of the blog after the weekend. The teachers had already left for the weekend, and the superintendent "did not think it was something that was appropriate to talk to them about on the phone over the weekend." Moreover, "A. was in the care of her parents as well as being sent . . . for an evaluation. So we deemed it that she was in a good safe place now and that for that time being our staff was safe." When Diskin talked to the teachers on May 20th, "they were concerned for their safety." However, the only safety precautions taken at the school were "awareness" and "monitor[ing] the situation" upon A.C.'s return to school.

Diskin confirmed that A.C. was referred for psychiatric screening. The PESS staff that screened her concluded that A.C. was not "[a]n imminent danger to self or others secondary to a mental illness," but recommended that she seek outpatient counseling services. Although A.C. received psychiatric clearance to return to school, Diskin declined P.C.'s May 20 request to allow her back to school because the five-day suspension had not yet ended.

As far as counseling, Diskin stated that P.C. had told him that A.C. would talk with someone at the family's church, and Diskin told P.C. that "we would be checking with our teachers just to see how A. is doing when she returned to school." A.C. was not referred to any in-school counseling services. According to Diskin, "we do not have the role to do that or the personnel to do that type of counseling in our school."

As a result of A.C.'s blog entries, the school counselor, in consultation with Diskin and Ms. Filippello, filled out a "Life Threatening Behavior Incident Report" (R-4.) Diskin explained that the decision to fill out the report was made because, when the school counselor and Ms. Filippello interviewed A.C. about the blog, A.C. "had communicated that she wanted to go off and die, kill someone and kill myself." Diskin and his staff deemed the situation "serious" and did not think that A.C. was joking when she made her oral statements about harming herself or others or when she wrote her blog posts about wanting to harm teachers.

In Diskin's opinion, when he and his staff "hear words like, you know, 'kill', wanting to watch people die, you know, punch them down, we take that very seriously and look at it as something that's way beyond acting out or venting." He also did not think A.C.'s posts were "hyperbole," but conceded that he did not discuss that possibility with his staff. However, he hypothesized that A.C. could have still been subject to some form of discipline had Diskin and his staff determined that A.C. was joking in her posts.

Although Diskin had been employed by the District since 2002, he said that the incident involving A.C. was the first time at Eisenhower that he or his staff had filled out a report involving a life-threatening behavior incident that was deemed "serious."

At his May 20 meeting with P.C., P.C. informed Diskin about teachers mispronouncing A.C.'s name. Diskin told P.C. that he would talk to the teachers about it. Diskin confirmed that in a May 22 email, P.C. again raised this concern, and stated that he believed that Ms. Idell was intentionally mispronouncing A.C.'s name. This was the first time that P.C. used the word "intentional." At some point in May, P.C. also told Diskin that E.K. was bullying A.C. on the school bus. While, in response, the school did not conduct a HIB investigation, Principal Diskin spoke with E.K. and reviewed audible video footage from the school bus that the two students rode together. He determined that there was no bullying, but a mutual conflict in which A.C. and E.K. would call each other names. The principal reassigned their seats on the bus to keep them separated.

The school did conduct a HIB investigation regarding P.C.'s complaint that teachers were intentionally mispronouncing A.C.'s name. However, Diskin did not know when the investigation began other than "sometime after June 13th." The investigation was conducted by Ms. Filippello, and not the school's anti-bullying specialist, Kimberly Patullo, because the superintendent determined that Ms. Patullo had a conflict due to the fact she was in the same union as the accused teachers. This was not only Ms. Filippello's first HIB investigation, but also the school's first HIB investigation of teachers since Diskin started at the school in 2002.

For the investigation, Ms. Filippello interviewed the accused teachers and A.C.'s fifth-grade teacher. However, A.C. was not interviewed as part of the investigation. The teachers at issue were informed by letter dated June 25, 2013, that they had not committed acts of HIB against A.C.

Kimberly Patullo

Kimberly Patullo was employed by the District as a school counselor, and she also served as Eisenhower's anti-bullying specialist, during the 2012-2013 school year. She reviewed E.K.'s May 17, 2012, complaint that A.C. was cyberbullying him. However, because she quickly determined that his allegation did not involve a "distinguishing characteristic" as required by HIB law, she did not conduct a HIB investigation, and instead referred the matter – A.C.'s writings about E.K. on her blog – for a code of conduct investigation.

P.C.

P.C. testified about his interactions with school staff in the aftermath of the blog revelation on May 17, 2013. Ms. Filippello summoned P.C. around 2:30 p.m. on May 17. When he arrived at the school shortly thereafter, he was told by Principal Diskin that A.C. had been suspended for five days because of the blog and that she would have to successfully complete a psychiatric screening prior to her return to school.

When P.C. met with Principal Diskin again on May 20, and although P.C. provided the principal with documentation showing that A.C. had received psychiatric clearance, the principal denied P.C.'s request to reinstate A.C. before the end of her five-day suspension.

P.C. also testified about his email exchanges with Principal Diskin and other school administrators on May 22, 2013, and thereafter. P.C. emailed and spoke with the District's assistant superintendent about appealing A.C.'s suspension and explaining why A.C. wrote what she did about the teachers. He told the assistant superintendent that Ms. Idell mispronounced A.C.'s name and that Ms. Merino called A.C. a "pest." He testified that his interaction with the assistant superintendent on May 22 was the first time he alerted any school officials about his concerns regarding certain teachers' treatment of A.C. P.C. also emailed Principal Diskin with these concerns on May 22. In response, Principal Diskin called P.C. the next day to tell him that he had spoken with Ms. Idell, who said she had mistakenly mispronounced A.C.'s name, and Ms. Merino, who denied calling A.C. a pest.

When A.C. returned to school from her suspension on May 28, P.C. accompanied her and met with Principal Diskin. At that meeting, P.C. told the principal that E.K. was "making fun of A.C. on the bus," and the principal told him that he would reassign their seats on the bus.

On June 13, P.C. met with school staff, including Principal Diskin, Ms. Filippello, Ms. Piscadlo, and Ms. Patullo. He told the staff that Ms. Merino, Ms. Fitzpatrick, and Ms. Idell were harassing A.C. In response, Ms. Filippello told P.C. that the school would investigate. P.C. testified that, after June 13, neither he nor his daughter were interviewed about the complaints involving E.K. or the teachers.

When confronted on the stand with the psychiatric facility's discharge instructions – which stated in part that "Patient will benefit from outpatient therapy; patient and patient's father are agreeable to this. Patient will follow up with church counselor," P.C. conceded that A.C. never underwent any outpatient therapy or other counseling after her release from the facility.

Cathleen Filippello

Cathleen Filippello began her employment with the District in 2003. She became assistant principal of Eisenhower in 2008 and served in that position during the 2012-2013 school year. Her duties included student discipline. She is the staff member to whom E.K. reported A.C.'s blog after lunchtime on May 17, 2013. She and Principal Diskin reached out to the superintendent "for guidance because we never dealt with a journal that had anything about threatening teachers' lives, wanting to kill people[.]"

Filippello testified that "the Superintendent was in support of the five-day suspension because it was a substantial disruption to the school day." According to Filippello, the "substantial disruption" was "the report of a cyberbully, then that led to calling down A.C. to speak to her about some of the information that was in the blog and then you had two building administrators pulling [the two] school counselors, [and we] were involved with one student at the time where we had close to 800 students." However, she conceded that the word "disruption" was not discussed among administrators on May 13, 2017 – "there's no discussion about a disruption, we just know that we're behind closed doors and cannot address anything else going on in the building." She also could not recall what other duties or meetings she missed due to the blog situation.

She recalled that after A.C. was called to meet with administrators about the blog, A.C. "became very upset and emotional because of some of the things that we had discovered in her blog and that's when she said she wanted to not live anymore, kill herself or hurt others – kill others." She confirmed that A.C. told her the names of the teachers in her blog.

Filippello took the blog seriously because of the threats against staff members. Also, because A.C. "was in my office and she was emotionally upset, rocking back and forth, [saying] 'I don't want to live anymore,' [such that] not only were there staff members who were listed as people who [A.C.] wanted to be hurt . . . I also had a concern for [A.C.'s] well-being." Filippello further testified that A.C. never told her the blog contents about teachers were a joke.

According to Filippello, neither she nor Principal Diskin notified the teachers about the blog on May 17 because it was the end of the school day and "because we were with [A.C.] at that time, concerned about her well-being and getting her [a psychiatric evaluation]." She confirmed that the subject teachers were not notified about the blog until the following Monday, May 20.

Although the school's life-threatening behavior policy included the requirement that local police be contacted, she "followed the direction of the Superintendent" and none of the administrators called the police.

On the topic of the investigation, she conducted regarding P.C.'s HIB allegations against teachers, Filippello stated that it was the school's first investigation involving staff, and that it was the first HIB investigation of any sort that she had led. According to Filippello, she "receive[d] training for HIB for students, and at that time back in 2013, school districts didn't really have an HIB [form] for staff[;] that's why we used the [student] form . . . with staff members because there was nothing in place."

Filippello stated that the superintendent directed her to use the HIB form for students when investigating staff, and that the superintendent told her which people to interview as part of the investigation. She confirmed that she only interviewed teachers, and not A.C., as part of her investigation. When asked why she did not interview A.C., she answered "because [A.C.] was also involved with another case that was going on under investigation in our school." She also confirmed that her HIB report does not include the specific allegations against the teachers but conceded that such information was important.

Based on her investigation, Filippello concluded that "there wasn't enough . . . information to support the allegation." Filippello did not think that the mispronunciation of A.C.'s name to rhyme with "rice" constituted racial harassment.

Alice Piscadlo

Alice Piscadlo began her employment with the district around 2000 and served as a school counselor at Eisenhower during the 2012-2013 school year. She is the school employee who filled out the form that referred A.C. for a psychiatric evaluation on May 17, 2013, "because [A.C.] had expressed . . . verbally that she wanted to go off and die, kill someone, and kill herself. She repeatedly stated that." According to Piscadlo, A.C. never stated on May 17 that she was joking about the things she said in her blog.

After A.C. returned from her suspension, Piscadlo met with her "two times" and A.C. told Piscadlo that she was "fine." Piscadlo also "checked with [A.C.'s] teachers about how she was doing."

Nicole Fitzpatrick

Nicole Fitzpatrick was A.C.'s gym teacher during the 2012-2013 school year and the subject of one of A.C.'s blog entries. Principal Diskin told Fitzpatrick about the blog on May 20 and Fitzpatrick was "completely shocked by what was written." According to Fitzpatrick, "the one comment that lingers in my mind is that she wanted to break every bone in my body and watch me die." These words made Fitzpatrick "feel threatened."

She spoke with her husband about the blog and testified that "I was concerned for my safety and he was concerned for my safety as well." She also told co-workers that "I was not comfortable having her in my class anymore, but she could not "recall whether I said it to the administration – but I believe I had." She also could not recall whether A.C. was removed from her class after she returned from her suspension.

Fitzpatrick did not call the police after she learned of the contents of A.C.'s blog, and she did not miss any classes as a result of the blog incident other than when Principal Diskin pulled her out of class to tell her about the blog on May 20.

Each one of the witnesses testified in a manner that was forthright, direct, and thorough and as such, I found their testimony to be credible. Based on the testimony presented at the hearing, I further FIND as FACT:

During the 2012-2013 school year, A.C. did well academically, but admitted that she "had a lot of issues in sixth grade," such that she "was angry," "insecure" and "super awkward."

In the sixth grade, she created a blog in which "I basically wrote about my thoughts" and "things I was upset about." She also "posted pictures of cute animals" and made book recommendations.

Her blog also included a "rants" section in which she posted several rants about Ms. Idell, Ms. Fitzpatrick, and Ms. Merino, who were teachers at Eisenhower.

A.C. "ranted" about Ms. Idell because Ms. Idell had repeatedly mispronounced A.C.'s first name to rhyme with "rice." However, after A.C. wrote for Ms. Idell's class a particular essay about how A.C. related to a story character who "had an ethic name ... and faced like racism because people pronounced it incorrectly," Ms. Idell stopped mispronouncing A.C.'s name.

The rants about Ms. Fitzpatrick and Ms. Merino featured violent statements about inflicting physical harm on those teachers. While A.C. was "really angry" when she made those statements, she was "venting" and did not intend to inflict physical harm on the teachers. The statements were "jokes" that A.C. "thought would make my friends laugh." She did not communicate the statements directly to the teachers.

Although A.C.'s blog was not password-protected, she only shared the blog's web address – ginypigluver.weebly.com – with a small circle of girlfriends who also attended Eisenhower. All of A.C.'s blog entries were made off-campus on a personal computer. A.C. did not use school computers to work on her blog.

On the afternoon of Friday, May 17, 2013, E.K. reported the blog's existence to school staff. As a result, several staff members, including Principal Diskin, Assistant Principal Filippello, Ms. Patullo, and Ms. Piscadlo, spent the afternoon investigating the matter and meeting with A.C. and P.C. The police were not called to the school and no classes were canceled.

As a result of the blog's contents about certain teachers, Principal Diskin suspended A.C. from school for five days. Eisenhower staff also referred A.C. for a psychiatric evaluation because A.C. made statements about killing herself or others in the presence of Ms. Filippello and Ms. Piscadlo. The evaluation showed that A.C. was not "an imminent danger" to herself or others. The evaluators recommended "outpatient counseling services," but P.C. did not pursue such services for A.C.

At the direction of the superintendent, Principal Diskin did not notify the teachers who the subjects of A.C.'s blog "rants" until Monday, May 20, 2013. He did not notify the teachers on May 17 because they had already gone home for the weekend and because A.C. was in the care of her parents and going for a psychiatric evaluation, school staff "deemed it that [A.C.] was in a good safe place now and that for that time being our staff was safe." The only safety precautions the school took were "awareness" and "monitor[ing]" the situation upon A.C.'s return to school.

When Principal Diskin told Ms. Fitzpatrick about the blog, she felt threatened and concerned for her safety. However, she did not contact police. She did not miss any classes as a result of the blog incident other than when Principal Diskin pulled her out of class on May 20 to discuss the blog with her.

On May 22, 2013, P.C. told Principal Diskin that Ms. Idell had "intentionally" mispronounced A.C.'s first name. On May 28, 2013, P.C. notified Principal Diskin that E.K. was bullying A.C. on the school bus. In response to the latter complaint, Principal Diskin interviewed E.K., but not A.C., reviewed audible video footage from the school bus, and concluded that there was no bullying, but a mutual conflict between the two students. He did not refer the matter to the school's anti-bullying specialist for an investigation.

In response to P.C.'s complaints regarding teachers, Principal Diskin spoke with Ms. Idell, who admitted to "mistakenly" mispronouncing A.C.'s name. However, it was not until June 13, when P.C. met with several school staff members and alleged that certain teachers were "harassing" A.C., that Principal Diskin ordered a HIB investigation.

The investigation was conducted by Ms. Filippello, an administrator, and not the school's anti-bullying specialist, because the superintendent thought there would be a conflict if the anti-bullying specialist investigated teachers who were in the same union as she. This was the school's first investigation into alleged HIB by teachers.

As part of the investigation, Ms. Filippello interviewed the accused teachers but did not interview A.C. Ms. Filippello concluded that the teachers did not commit HIB acts against A.C. She forwarded her report to Principal Diskin on June 26, 2013. Principal Diskin notified P.C. of the results of the investigation. P.C. did not request a hearing before the Board. On July 23, 2013, the Board adopted the findings that the teachers did not commit HIB acts against A.C. The Board did not issue a written decision.

Post-Hearing Submissions[3]

After the close of testimony, the parties submitted written summations. Petitioners argue that the Board violated A.C.'s free speech rights by suspending her for her off-campus blog despite the absence of any substantial disruption of school operations. In this regard, petitioners point out that the police were not contacted, the teachers who were the subjects of A.C.'s "rants" were not notified of the blog's contents until three days after the existence of the blog was reported to school administrators, and no classes were cancelled. Instead, the only evidence of any disruption was that "the investigation of A.C.'s blog . . . caused staff to interview people and conduct meetings." Petitioners also contend that A.C.'s statements about the teachers were not "threats" that would be unprotected by the First Amendment, because "the blog posts contained conditional, hyperbolic expressions of feelings, about how A.C. felt and what she 'wanted' to do" and "[n]one of the statements were expressions of an intent to communicate a threat of harm to the teachers." These facts, petitioners maintain, are insufficient to punish A.C. for her off-campus blog.

[3] At the time of the submissions, the petitioning parties were P.C. and S.C., on behalf of A.C. Even though A.C. is now the sole petitioner, references to "petitioners" will not be changed when discussing submissions made by P.C. and S.C. on behalf of A.C.

Petitioners' second post-hearing argument is that the Board violated the Anti-Bullying Act by failing to conduct a HIB investigation into P.C.'s allegation that E.K. was bullying A.C. and by failing to timely respond to, and properly investigate, P.C.'s allegations that teachers were harassing A.C. by mispronouncing her name.

Absent from petitioners' post-hearing brief is any argument regarding Count One of their petition of appeal –

> With regard to the May 17, 2013 HIB investigation, the subsequent 5-day suspension, and the administration's demand that A.C. receive psychiatric clearance before being permitted to return to Eisenhower School, the Board and its employees violated A.C.'s rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:40-6, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.1, et seq., N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.1, et seq. by failing to provide her with the necessary and appropriate education, remedial and intervention and referral services.

In its post-hearing submission, the Board denies that it violated A.C.'s free speech rights by suspending her because "her speech through her blog posts were both perceived as threatening violence and created a material disruption to the operations of the school and therefore were not entitled to constitutional protection." The "material disruption" identified by the Board is that:

> [a]s a result of the blog, Administration immediately diverted their complete attention to A.C. and the blog to (i) address the contents of the blog, (ii) meet amongst themselves to determine subsequent action (iii) hold phone calls with the Superintendent, (iv) meet with P.C., (v) meet with A.C., (vi) > meet with the teachers who were identified in the blog, and > (vii) meet with other students regarding the blog.

Thus, the school staff involved in the matter were "unable to attend to any other matters" while they dealt with the blog situation.

The Board also submits that its "decision to suspend A.C. was further premised upon the expectation of a continued disruption" because "the administration's role in addressing the violent posts carried through the weekend into the following week," Ms. Fitzpatrick "felt threatened and wanted A.C. removed from her class after reading the blog," and Eisenhower "is a small school," such that "[i]t was reasonable for administration to forecast that additional disruption would continue to occur in the school if administration did not respond to the incident immediately."

The Board further contends that the blog postings about teachers were perceived as threats by Principal Diskin, Assistant Principal Filippello, and Ms. Fitzpatrick, and thus the Board "was justified in administering discipline in response to the blog postings and did not violate A.C.'s constitutional rights."

Lastly on the constitutional issue, the Board argues that A.C. did not suffer any damages as a result of the Board's alleged First Amendment violation because the suspension was expunged from her record, and she did not offer any evidence that she otherwise suffered any harm as a result of her suspension.

The Board denies any violation of the Anti-Bullying Act in connection with its investigation into P.C.'s complaints regarding E.K. and the teachers. First, the Board argues that, with regard to teachers mispronouncing A.C.'s name, "P.C. did not allege that this conduct was harassing or bullying, nor did P.C. allege that this conduct was predicated on a distinguishing characteristic," as required by the Anti-Bullying Act. As such, in late May 2013, "Mr. Diskin treated the matter as an ordinary complaint and addressed it with the accused teachers," who denied any wrongdoing. Then, in June 2013, when P.C. used the word "harass" in referring to the mispronunciation of A.C.'s name by certain teachers, the school investigated the matter, "using its discretion to determine whom should be named as an aggressor and how the investigation should be conducted." Ms. Filippello conducted the investigation instead of the anti-bullying specialist "since the alleged aggressors were staff and colleagues of the anti-bullying specialist" and the school "conducted a thorough investigation and reached a fair determination within the time limits set forth under the law."

As for the decision to not conduct a formal HIB investigation into P.C.'s allegations that E.K. was bullying A.C. on the school bus, the Board notes that Principal Diskin spoke with E.K., who told him that both E.K. and A.C. had called each other "losers" and that the principal reviewed audible video footage from the school bus that the two students rode together, and that Principal Diskin concluded that the conflict between the two students did not involve a distinguishing characteristic as required by the Anti-Bullying Act.

The Board, unlike petitioners, addressed Count One in its brief. The Board maintains that it did not violate the school laws, including N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:40-6, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.1, et seq., N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.1, et seq., "by failing to provide her with the necessary and appropriate education, remedial and intervention and referral services" in response to the blog incident. The Board asserts that it followed proper procedure by referring A.C. for a psychiatric evaluation, and that it took proper precaution upon her return from her suspension, as "A.C.'s counselor monitored A.C. by checking in with A.C. and with her teachers." The Board also notes that the PESS staff recommended "outside counseling" and that "the school does not offer psychological services."

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

There are three main legal issues in this matter. The first issue is whether the Board violated various education laws by failing to provide A.C. with support services after she returned to school from her five-day suspension. The second issue is whether the Board violated certain procedural requirements under the Anti-Bullying Act in response to P.C.'s HIB complaints against E.K. and Eisenhower teachers. The third issue is whether the Board violated A.C.'s First Amendment rights by suspending her for the contents of her off-campus blog. Each issue shall be addressed in turn.

I. Whether the Board violated various statutory and regulatory provisions by failing to provide A.C. with support services after she returned from her suspension.

Petitioners complain that the Board "violated A.C.'s rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:40-6, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.1, et seq., N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.1, et seq. by failing to provide her with the necessary and appropriate education, remedial and intervention and referral services." While petitioners did not address this issue in their post-hearing briefs, petitioners alleged in their amended petition that, after A.C. was discharged from PESS on May 17, Eisenhower staff did not refer her for interventional and referral services (I&RS) "to consider her eligibility for a Section 504 Accommodation Plan" or for an evaluation to assess her eligibility for special education, and that A.C. was not "offered school-based counseling services or [I&RS]." Second Amended Petition of Appeal, ¶ 21. Unlike petitioners, the Board addressed this allegation in their post-hearing submission, denying any wrongdoing in terms of the support services petitioners allege that A.C. should have, but did not, receive after her suspension. For the reasons that follow, I CONCLUDE that the Board did not violate any regulatory or statutory provisions regarding support services, as alleged by petitioners.

First, to the extent that petitioners allege that Eisenhower staff failed to consider A.C.'s eligibility for Section 504 or special education services, the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over such claims. Instead, "[f]or students age three through 21, a due process hearing may be requested when there is a disagreement regarding identification, evaluation, reevaluation, classification, educational placement, the provision of a free, appropriate public education, or disciplinary action" under Section 504 or the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C. §§ 1400-1485. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(a) and (w). Due process hearing requests shall be made to and are under the jurisdiction of the Office of Special Education (OSE or OSEP). N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(c); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(e).

However,

> [i]f a petition appears to raise, in addition to issues within scope of the Commissioner's authority, issues requiring a determination under State statutes or rules governing special education, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), or Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and the petition has not been concurrently filed with the OSEP, it will be docketed by the Office of Controversies and Disputes in accordance with this chapter and also forwarded to OSEP for docketing as a special education matter pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7.
> N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(e).

Yet here, other than a vague allegation of a failure to evaluate A.C. under Section 504 or the IDEA, petitioners did not specifically claim that the Board violated those statutes or seek relief thereunder. Thus, the petition of appeal insufficiently identified "issues requiring a determination under" special education law and necessitating concurrent docketing with OSE.

For these reasons, petitioners' bare allegation regarding Section 504 and the IDEA will not be considered as part of this matter.

Second, a review of the provisions cited by petitioners raises questions about what exactly petitioners maintain was the Board's obligation in terms of providing A.C. other support services. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 is a general provision regarding a school board's powers and duties and requires, for instance, that a school board "[p]erform all acts and do all things . . . necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district." Similarly, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-6 generally states that "[t]he board of education of any district may provide such equipment, supplies, and services as in its judgment will aid in the preservation and promotion of the health of the pupils." However, it is unclear how the Board violated these provisions as far as A.C. is concerned. Even if the provisions apply as alleged, the facts reveal that Eisenhower staff tried to ensure proper conduct in the school by referring A.C. for a psychiatric evaluation and by keeping an eye on her after she returned from her suspension. And as the Board points out, the PESS staff cleared her to return to school and recommended "outpatient counseling services," i.e., counseling outside of the school setting.

Moreover, it is disingenuous of petitioners to blame the Board for failing to provide A.C. with "school-based counseling services" when P.C. told Principal Diskin that P.C. would seek outside counseling through the family's church but testified that A.C. did not, in fact, receive any outside counseling.

N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.1 to -11.1 govern school district programs to support student development. These provisions include N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, which requires a school district to establish and implement a student code of conduct that, among other things, "[f]oster[s] the health, safety, and social and emotional well-being of students," and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.1, which requires school boards to "establish and implement in each school building in which general education students are served a coordinated system for planning and delivering intervention and referral services designed to assist students who are experiencing learning, behavior, or health difficulties[.]" Again, it is not clear in what way petitioners believe the Board violated these provisions because petitioners did not elaborate on this claim in their post-hearing briefs. It is petitioners' burden to show that the Board violated these provisions, and there is an absence of evidence to support such a conclusion.

Instead, the record shows that the Eisenhower staff took steps to ensure A.C.'s well-being after the blog incident, and there is insufficient evidence that A.C. was suffering from mental health issues upon her return from suspension. First, school staff referred A.C. for a psychiatric evaluation to determine whether A.C. might harm herself or others and A.C. was psychiatrically cleared to return to school as a result of the evaluation. And again, even though the psychiatric staff recommended that A.C. receive "outside counseling," P.C. admitted that he did not pursue any outside counseling for A.C.

Second, the school counselor, Ms. Piscadlo, testified that she met with A.C. twice after A.C. returned to school and that A.C. told her she was fine.

In sum, the record is bereft of evidence indicating that the Board or its employees violated the statutory and regulatory provisions cited by petitioners by failing to offer A.C. "school-based counseling services or [I&RS]."

As a result, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have failed to show that the Board "violated A.C.'s rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:40-6, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.1, et seq., N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8.1, et seq. by failing to provide her with the necessary and appropriate education, remedial and intervention and referral services."

II. Whether the Board violated the Anti-Bullying Act by failing to timely or sufficiently respond to P.C.'s claims that A.C. had been bullied by E.K. and harassed by teachers who intentionally mispronounced her first name.

As a threshold matter, I have a jurisdictional concern that petitioners' claim that the Board violated the Anti-Bullying Act offends the "90-day rule" for filing petitions of appeal with the Commissioner of Education. Under that rule, "[t]he petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). As the Supreme Court has explained, the "90-day rule" serves the dual purposes of (1) stimulat[ing] litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims" and (2) "penaliz[ing] dilatoriness and serv[ing] as a measure of repose by giving security and stability to human affairs."[4] Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993) (citations and quotations omitted). Thus, an untimely claim may be dismissed.

Here, petitioners allege that they were not notified "whether the Superintendent of Schools or the Board of Education, or both, took formal action to adopt, modify or reject the findings of those District employees who undertook the investigation."[5] Second Amended Petition, ¶ 36. Thus, according to petitioners, they "were denied their right to challenge the results of the District's HIB investigation." Id. at ¶37. In response, the Board denied the allegations and set forth as an affirmative defense that "[p]etitioners' claims are barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i)'s Ninety (90) Day Rule." Answer to Second Amended Petition, ¶ 37; Fourteenth Affirmative Defense.

In my September 20, 2018, order granting in part and denying in part the Board's motion for summary decision, I noted petitioners' allegation that they had been denied an opportunity to challenge the HIB findings regarding the teachers. However, I also noted that Principal Diskin notified petitioners of the HIB investigation results in a letter, dated June 25, 2013. I further found that "the papers do not indicate . . . that the Board issued a written decision with respect to its finding that A.C. was not the victim of HIB," but that the Board merely submitted with its motion the minutes from its July 23, 2018, meeting at which the Board adopted the superintendent's report.

[4] The ninety-day rule may be relaxed "in any case where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. However, the rule is relaxed only for compelling reasons, including "cases involving (1) important and novel constitutional questions; (2) informal or ex parte determinations of legal questions by administrative officials; and (3) important public rather than private interests which require adjudication or clarification." Brunetti v. Bor. of New Milford, 68 N.J. 576, 586 (1975).

[5] In the original petition, filed with the Commissioner on January 21, 2014, petitioners exclusively sought a reversal of the Board's November 2013 HIB decision that A.C. bullied classmates. However, included in the original petition was an allegation that the Board improperly investigated P.C.'s HIB claims against E.K. and the teachers. On November 4, 2016, I allowed petitioners to amend their petition, and petitioners did so on September 17, 2017, to include several other counts or claims, including a count that the Board violated the Anti-Bullying Act with respect to P.C.'s HIB allegations. Pursuant to R. 4:9-3, "[w]henever the claim or defense asserted in the amended pleading arose out of the conduct, transaction or occurrence set forth or attempted to be set forth in the original pleading, the amendment relates back to the date of the original pleadings." Thus, the claims in the amended petition filed on September 17, 2017, relate back to the time of the filing of the original petition on January 21, 2014.

At the hearing, P.C. offered no testimony regarding the Board's alleged denial of P.C.'s right to challenge the HIB findings regarding the teachers. However, the Board similarly failed to provide any testimony or provide other proof that the Board issued a written decision as required by law, or that petitioners received notice of the Board's July 23, 2013, decision.

Under the Anti-Bullying Act, "[a] parent or guardian may request a hearing before the board after receiving the information [about the investigation results], and the hearing shall be held within 10 days of the request." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d). By letter, dated June 25, 2013, petitioners received from Principal Diskin the results of the HIB investigation into the teachers. However, petitioners did not "request a hearing before the board after receiving the information." Yet, while at its July 23, 2013, meeting, the Board adopted "the Superintendent's report of alleged HIB incidents and investigations for July 18, 2013, as well as the recommendation of the Board's HIB Committee to affirm the determinations and actions specified," the Board did not follow its procedural obligation to "issue a decision, in writing, to affirm, reject, or modify the superintendent's decision." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e). If the Board had issued a written decision, that would have then started the ninety-day period in which petitioners could have appealed the decision under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e), which states that "[t]he board's decision may be appealed to the Commissioner of Education, in accordance with the procedures set forth in law and regulation, no later than 90 days after the issuance of the board's decision."

Because there is no evidence showing that the Board issued a written decision as required by law, I CONCLUDE that petitioners did not receive "notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education" and thus, by filing a petition of appeal with the Commissioner on January 21, 2014, did not violate the ninety-day rule by then challenging certain aspects of the Board employees' HIB investigation (or lack thereof) into P.C.'s claims against E.K. and certain teachers. Thus, it is appropriate to address the substance of petitioners' claim that the Board violated various requirements under the Anti-Bullying Act in response to P.C.'s report of possible HIB acts against A.C. by teachers and a classmate.

The Anti-Bullying Act is designed "to strengthen the standards and procedures for preventing, reporting, investigating, and responding to incidents of harassment, intimidation, and bullying of students that occur in school and off school premises."[6] N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.1(f). Under the act, HIB is defined as:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
> > a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
> >
> >
> > c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.]

[6] The act was recently amended to add several other procedural requirements regarding HIB investigations. L. 2021, c. 338. However, the amendments became effective in 2022, and the Board's and Eisenhower staff's actions must be assessed in light of the Anti-Bullying Act's requirements as they existed in 2013.

Each school district must adopt a policy that prohibits HIB and provides for a prompt response to any alleged HIB incident. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15. Once an alleged HIB incident is reported to the school principal, the principal must initiate an investigation within one school day of the report. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6). The investigation shall be conducted by a school anti-bullying specialist, but "the principal may appoint additional personnel who are not school anti-bullying specialists to assist in the investigation." Ibid. The investigation shall be completed within ten days of the initial HIB complaint. Ibid.

The results of the investigation shall then be quickly reported to the superintendent of schools, who may take certain remedial action. Ibid. The results shall also be reported to the board of education "no later than the date of the board of education meeting next following the completion of the investigation, along with information on any services provided, training established, discipline imposed, or other action taken or recommended by the superintendent." Ibid.

The parents of the students involved in any alleged HIB incident are entitled to receive information about the nature of the investigation and the results of the investigation. Ibid. The parents may request a hearing before the board, and the hearing must be held within ten days of the request. Ibid. Any hearing shall be held in executive session to protect the identity of any students involved. Ibid. The board may hear from the anti-bullying specialist about the incident, recommendations for discipline or services, and any programs instituted to reduce such incidents. Ibid.

And as noted above, a board must issue a written decision at the first meeting after its receipt of the investigation report. Ibid. The board may affirm, reject, or modify the superintendent's decision. Ibid. The board's decision may be appealed to the Commissioner of Education. Ibid.

An action by a board of education "is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App.Div.1965.) Thus, to prevail, those challenging a HIB decision made by a board of education "must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it." G.H. & E.H. ex rel. K.H. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bor. of Franklin Lakes, EDU 13204-13, Initial Decision (February 24, 2014) (citation omitted), adopted, Comm'r (April 10, 2014) http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. Also, a board's decision may be overturned if its determination violates the legislative policies expressed or implied in the governing act. J.A.H. ex rel. C.H. v. Twp. of Pittsgrove Bd. of Educ., EDU 10826-12, Initial Decision (March 11, 2013) (citing Campbell v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 39 N.J. 556, 562 (1963)), adopted, Comm'r (April 25, 2013) http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

Considering these procedural requirements, I CONCLUDE that the Board violated the Anti-Bullying Act in several respects after P.C. complained to Principal Diskin about E.K. and Eisenhower teachers. First, regarding petitioners' claim that the Board failed to properly investigate P.C.'s HIB allegation against E.K., the record shows that P.C. told the principal at their May 28, 2013, meeting that E.K. was "making fun of A.C. on the bus." In response, the school did not conduct a HIB investigation, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d). That is, instead of directing the school's anti-bullying specialist to conduct an investigation, Principal Diskin conducted his own investigation in which he spoke with E.K., but not A.C., and reviewed audible video footage from the school bus. Principal Diskin then determined that it was not bullying, but a mutual conflict in which A.C. and E.K. called each other names. By failing to initiate an investigation by the school's anti-bullying specialist within one day of receiving P.C.'s HIB complaint against E.K., Principal Diskin, and therefore the Board, violated the procedural requirements of the Anti-Bullying Act.

Second, the Board violated the Anti-Bullying Act in response to P.C.'s complaint about certain teachers intentionally mispronouncing A.C.'s name. Although on May 22, 2013, P.C. notified Principal Diskin that Ms. Idell was intentionally mispronouncing A.C.'s name, Principal Diskin did not initiate a HIB investigation within one day as required by law, but instead he spoke with Ms. Idell, who told the principal that she had mistakenly mispronounced A.C.'s name. An allegation that a teacher was "intentionally" mispronouncing a student's name was sufficient to have triggered a formal HIB investigation within one day of the complaint.

However, it was not until June 13, when P.C. met with school staff and again alleged that teachers were "harassing" A.C, that a HIB investigation was then initiated – because, according to the ensuing HIB report, "the word harassment was used[.]" The first problem with the investigation is that it was initiated on June 13, or twenty-two days after P.C. first alleged on May 22 that Ms. Idell was intentionally mispronouncing A.C.'s name. By failing to timely initiate the HIB investigation, Eisenhower staff also failed to timely complete the investigation, in violation of the Anti-Bullying Act, which requires that investigations be completed within ten days of the principal's receipt of a HIB complaint. In this instance, a formal HIB investigation – at least of Ms. Idell – should have been completed by June 1, which was ten days after P.C. notified Principal Diskin that Ms. Idell was intentionally mispronouncing A.C.'s name.

And even assuming Eisenhower staff did not have sufficient information to initiate a HIB investigation until June 13, the record shows that the HIB report was not sent to the principal until June 26, or thirteen days after P.C. met with school staff to again complain about mistreatment of A.C. by teachers.[7] (R-11.) This is also a violation of the ten-day requirement for the completion of HIB investigations.

Another problem with the investigation is that it was conducted by Ms. Filippello, and not the school's anti-bullying specialist, Ms. Patullo, as required by law. Diskin testified that the superintendent determined that Ms. Patullo had a conflict due to the fact she was in the same union as the accused teachers. However, the Anti-Bullying Act provides that "[t]he principal in each school in a school district shall appoint a school anti-bullying specialist;" that "[w]hen a school guidance counselor, school psychologist, or another individual similarly trained is currently employed in the school, the principal shall appoint that individual to be the school anti-bullying specialist;" and that the specialist shall "lead the investigation of incidents of harassment, intimidation, and bullying in the school" and "act as the primary school official responsible for preventing, identifying, and addressing incidents of harassment, intimidation, and bullying in the school." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-20. The requirement that the anti-bullying specialist be the lead investigator is also included in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15. The law does not distinguish between investigations of students and teachers. The fact that Ms. Filippello, and not Ms. Patullo, the school's anti-bullying specialist, conducted the investigation into alleged teacher HIB misconduct, was a violation of the Anti-Bullying Act.

There have been many cases in which teachers have been accused of committing HIB acts against students. See, e.g., Mosser v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Union, 2021 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 458 (Dec. 2, 2021); Sohl v. Bd. of Educ. of the Town of Boonton, 2021 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 137 (May 18, 2021); DeFalco v. Bd. of Educ. of the Township of Hamilton, 2019 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 732 (July 26, 2019). Because the anti-bullying specialist is also the school guidance counselor, school psychologist, or other teaching staff member, there would always be a "conflict" if the anti-bullying specialist must investigate an accused colleague who is a member of the same teachers' union. But the law requires the anti-bullying specialist, who is specifically trained in investigating HIB complaints, to conduct HIB investigations, whether the accused is a student or a teacher. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-26 (providing for inservice workshops and training programs for anti-bullying specialists.) Of course, if the anti-bullying specialist was accused of HIB, there would be an actual conflict that would certainly necessitate that an alternate staff member lead the investigation, but the fact that the anti-bullying specialist is in the same union as an accused teacher does not, by itself, excuse a principal from directing the anti-bullying specialist to conduct the investigation. Perhaps the superintendent was being overly cautious by ordering Diskin to have someone not in the teachers' union conduct the investigation since it was the school's first case in which a teacher was accused of HIB.

Nonetheless, it was a violation of the HIB law to have Ms. Filippello, and not Ms. Patullo, conduct the investigation.

Yet another problem with the investigation is that A.C. was not interviewed as part of the investigation. When asked why A.C. was not interviewed, Ms. Filippello answered, "because [A.C.] was also involved with another case that was going on under investigation in our school." Instead, Ms. Filippello only interviewed teachers, and based on her investigation she concluded that "there wasn't enough . . . information to support the allegation." However, by failing to interview A.C., Ms. Filippello heard only one side of the story.

If Ms. Filippello had interviewed A.C., she may have reached a different conclusion, at least with respect to the allegation against Ms. Idell. As A.C. testified at the hearing in this matter, Ms. Idell had repeatedly mispronounced her name to rhyme with "rice" since the beginning of the 2012-2013 school year. At first, A.C. would correct her, "but it didn't seem to like make a difference, so I stopped at one point." The fact that Ms. Idell kept mispronouncing her name "annoyed" A.C. A.C. further testified that, "at first I didn't know she was doing it on purpose, I thought she was just like really stupid," and she responded, "I don't think so," when asked by her counsel if she thought Ms. Idell had accidentally mispronounced her name. Finally, A.C. testified that it was not until she wrote an essay for Ms. Idell's class that Ms. Idell stopped mispronouncing A.C.'s name. In that essay, A.C. wrote about how she related to the main character in a story who "had an ethnic name . . . and faced like racism because people pronounced it incorrectly." While problematic, the failure to interview A.C. as part of the HIB investigation is not a specific violation of the Anti-Bullying Act.

However, the failure to conduct a thorough investigation that includes an interview of the alleged target of HIB could, under certain circumstances, lead to the conclusion that a school board that makes a HIB decision based on such a faulty investigation acted arbitrarily or unreasonably. Here, though, it is important to note that petitioners do not specifically allege that the Board's July 23, 2018, HIB decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, or seek relief in the form of a reversal of that HIB decision. Instead, "petitioners demand judgment granting an Order that the [Board] and its employees, by failing to open and conduct a HIB investigation of certain teachers and a certain student as requested by P.C. in May of 2013, violated A.C.'s rights, as secured by the [Anti-Bullying Act]" and "petitioners demand judgment granting an Order that the [Board] and its employees, by waiting more than 30 days after the receipt of P.C.'s HIB complaint against some of A.C.'s 6th grade teachers and a classmate on A.C.'s bus, to open a formal HIB investigation . . . on or about June 17, 2013, violated A.C.'s rights as secured by the [Anti-Bullying Act]." Second Amended Petition. Thus, I am not asked to, nor will I, assess the validity of the Board's July 23, 2018, HIB decision. However, I CONCLUDE that because, as noted above, there is no evidence that the Board issued a written HIB decision regarding the teachers, and because that is the basis for my conclusion that petitioners' HIB claims do not violate the ninety-day rule, the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e) by neglecting to issue a written HIB decision at or after its July 23, 2013, meeting at which it determined that the teachers did not commit acts of HIB against A.C.

In sum, and based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Board violated the Anti-Bullying Act by failing to conduct a formal HIB investigation into P.C.'s bullying allegation against E.K. and by failing to timely investigate P.C.'s HIB claims against certain teachers; by failing to have the anti-bullying specialist conduct the eventual investigation into P.C.'s HIB claims against teachers; and by failing to issue a written HIB decision.

III. Whether the Board violated A.C.'s First Amendment right to free speech by suspending her for the contents of her off-campus blog.[8]

Prior to a determination whether the Board violated A.C.'s free speech rights by suspending her for violent statements she made in her off-campus blog about certain teachers at her school, it is important to lay out a school's general authority under state law to discipline students for misconduct away from school grounds. This is so because the state regulation that sets forth a school's authority to discipline students for off-campus conduct, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5, clearly recognizes that such authority may be limited by a student's First Amendment rights.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5, "[s]chool authorities have the right to impose a consequence on a student for conduct away from school grounds" if the following conditions are met. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a). First, "[t]his authority shall be exercised only when it is reasonably necessary for the student's physical or emotional safety, security, and well-being or for reasons relating to the safety, security and well-being of other students, staff or school grounds[.]" N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1). Second, "[t]his authority shall be exercised only when the conduct that is the subject of the proposed consequence materially and substantially interferes with the requirements of appropriate discipline in the operation of the school." N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(2).

[8] Importantly, "the Court has repeatedly acknowledged and approved the administrative handling of educational controversies that arise in the context of constitutional and statutory litigation" because "ultimate constitutional issues are especially fact-sensitive and relate primarily to areas of educational specialization." Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 300 (1985) (citations omitted). As such, this matter, which implicates fact-sensitive constitutional issues in the educational context, is appropriately before the Commissioner of Education, who transmitted the controversy to the OAL for a hearing. The OAL has been tasked with "conduct[ing] a thorough hearing" for the "development of a complete and informed record, which will reflect determinations of administrative issues as well as the resolution of factual matters material to the ultimate constitutional issues." Id. at 303. And "in order to discharge this responsibility in a way that makes sense, the first-instance decision makers, the ALJ and the agency head, must fully address such constitutional issues raised as are necessary to the decision, and resolve them in principled fashion by their best lights, subject, of course, to judicial review." Jones v. Dep't of Cmnty. Affairs, 395 N.J. Super. 632, 636-37 (App.Div.2007) (citing Roadway Express, Inc. v. Kingsley, 37 N.J. 136, 14-42 (1962)).

This second requirement is rooted in the United States Supreme Court's First Amendment jurisprudence regarding students' freedom of speech.[9] Specifically, in Tinker v. Des Moines Indep. Cmty. Sch. Dist., 393 U.S. 503, 506 (1969), the Court famously held that "[i]t can hardly be argued that . . . students . . . shed their constitutional rights to freedom of speech or expression at the schoolhouse gate," and school officials cannot punish them for exercising those rights unless such "conduct would 'materially and substantially interfere with the requirements of appropriate discipline in the operation of the school[.]'" Id. at 509 (quoting Burnside v. Byars, 363 F.2d 744, 749 (5th Cir. 1966)).

In that case, the Court ruled that an Iowa School District improperly suspended several high school students for exercising their right to free speech by wearing black armbands to school in 1965 to protest the Vietnam War. Id. at 504. In reversing the discipline imposed on the children, the Court explained that there was an absence of facts showing that the students' conduct materially and substantially interfered with school operations. The student protesters merely engaged in "a silent, passive expression of opinion" and there was "no evidence whatever of [the students'] interference, actual or nascent, with the schools' work or of collision with the rights of other students to be secure and to be let alone." Id. at 508. While "[o]utside the classrooms, a few students made hostile remarks to the children wearing armbands [,] there were no threats or acts of violence on school premises." Ibid.

According to the Court, "[i]n order for the State in the person of school officials to justify prohibition of a particular expression of opinion, it must be able to show that its action was caused by something more than a mere desire to avoid the discomfort and unpleasantness that always accompany an unpopular viewpoint." Id. at 509. Instead, there must be "facts which might reasonably have led school authorities to forecast substantial disruption of or material interference with school activities[.]" Id. at 514. But because the students in Tinker "neither interrupted school activities nor sought to intrude in the school affairs or the lives of others" and because "[t]hey caused discussion outside of the classrooms, but no interference with work and no disorder," the Court concluded that "our Constitution [did] not permit officials of the State to deny their form of expression." Ibid.

[9] The First Amendment to the United States Constitution protects several individual rights, including the freedom of speech. U.S. Const. amend I; see also N.J. Const. art. VI (providing that "[e]very person may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right"). Of course, "[t]he First Amendment restriction on governmental interference with free speech was made applicable to the states by the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution." Hamilton Amusement Ctr. v. Verniero, 156 N.J. 254, 264-65 (1998). As the New Jersey Supreme Court has explained, "[b]ecause we ordinarily interpret our State Constitution's free speech clause to be no more restrictive than the federal free speech clause, '[w]e rely on federal constitutional principles in interpreting the free speech clause of the New Jersey Constitution.'" Id. at 265 (citing and quoting Shelton Coll. v. State Bd. of Educ., 48 N.J. 501, 518 (1967), Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 547 (1998); Bell v. Twp. of Stafford, 110 N.J. 384, 393 (1988)).

And while Tinker involved on-campus student speech, the Court recently announced in Mahanoy Area Sch. Dist. v. B.L., 141 S. Ct. 2038 (2021), that the Tinker standard that school officials may regulate speech that materially and substantially interferes with school operations applies to off-campus student speech.[10] However, the Court in Mahanoy declined to "set forth a broad, highly general First Amendment rule stating just what counts as 'off campus' speech and whether or how ordinary First Amendment standards must give way off campus to a school's special need to prevent, e.g., substantial disruption of learning-related activities or the protection of those who make up a school community." Id. at 2045.

Nonetheless, the Court noted that "[t]he school's regulatory interests remain significant in some off-campus circumstances" including "serious or severe bullying or harassment targeting particular individuals; threats aimed at teachers or other students; the failure to follow rules concerning lessons, the writing of papers, the use of computers, or participation in other online school activities; and breaches of school security devices, including material maintained within school computers." Ibid.

[10] In so doing, the Court disagreed with the Third Circuit's conclusion below that "Tinker does not apply to off-campus speech." B.L. v. Mahanoy Area Sch. Dist., 964 F.3d 170, 186 (3d Cir. 2020). And while the Supreme Court issued its opinion in B.L. after the occurrence of the facts in this matter, the Court's holding is nonetheless instructive in determining the constitutional issue in this case. Moreover, it was assumed in this matter that the Tinker standard applied to A.C.'s off-campus blog, and the parties addressed the issue.

The Court also "mention[ed] three features of off-campus speech that often, even if not always, distinguish schools' efforts to regulate that speech from their efforts to regulate on-campus speech" and stated that "[t]hose features diminish the strength of the unique educational characteristics that might call for special First Amendment leeway." Id. at 2046.

According to the Court, the first feature is that "a school, in relation to off-campus speech, will rarely stand in loco parentis, or "in the place of students' parents under circumstances where the children's actual parents cannot protect, guide, and discipline them." Ibid. Thus, "[g]eographically speaking, off-campus speech will normally fall within the zone of parental, rather than school-related, responsibility." Ibid. The second feature is that "from the student speaker's perspective, regulations of off-campus speech, when coupled with regulations of on-campus speech, include all the speech a student utters during the full 24-hour day," such that "courts must be more skeptical of a school's efforts to regulate off-campus speech, for doing so may mean the student cannot engage in that kind of speech at all." Ibid. As such, "[w]hen it comes to political or religious speech that occurs outside school or a school program or activity, the school will have a heavy burden to justify intervention." Ibid. And the third feature is that "the school itself has an interest in protecting a student's unpopular expression, especially when the expression takes place off campus" because "America's public schools are the nurseries of democracy." Ibid.

Due to "the many different kinds of off-campus speech, the different potential school-related and circumstance-specific justifications, and the differing extent to which those justifications may call for First Amendment leeway," the Court "[left] for future cases to decide where, when, and how these features mean the speaker's off-campus location will make the critical difference," and limited its holding to the facts of the case before the Court. Ibid.

Under those facts, B.L., a Pennsylvania high school student who was cut from the varsity cheerleading team and who did not get to play her position of choice on her softball team, was suspended from the junior varsity cheerleading team for a year due to captioned Snapchat photos she posted while at a local convenient store on a weekend. Id. at 2042. One photo captured B.L. and a friend holding up their middle fingers, with the caption "Fuck school fuck softball fuck cheer fuck everything." Ibid. As the Court explained, "the images spread" among students and school staff and, "[a]fter discussing the matter with the school principal, the coaches decided that because the posts used profanity in connection with a school extracurricular activity, they violated team and school rules" and suspended B.L. from her cheerleading team. Ibid.

In analyzing B.L.'s speech, the Court said that, while her words were "vulgar," they were not "obscene" or "fighting words" that are "outside the First Amendment's ordinary protection." Ibid (citing Chaplinsky v. New Hampshire, 315 U.S. 568 (1942); Cohen v. California, 403 U.S. 15, 19-20 (1971)). The Court also took note of "when, where, and how B.L. spoke:"

> Her posts appeared outside of school hours from a location outside the school. She did not identify the school in her posts or target any member of the school community with vulgar or abusive language. B.L. also transmitted her speech through a personal cellphone, to an audience consisting of her private circle of Snapchat friends. These features of her speech, while risking transmission to the school itself, nonetheless . . . diminish the school's interest in punishing B. L.'s utterance. [Id. at 2047.]

The Court then considered the school's interest in the context of the "three features" of off-campus speech identified by the Court as diminishing a school's regulatory powers. First, while the school had an "interest in teaching good manners and consequently in punishing the use of vulgar language aimed at part of the school community," "[t]he strength of this anti-vulgarity interest is weakened considerably by the fact that B. L. spoke outside the school on her own time;" in other words, "B.L. spoke under circumstances where the school did not stand in loco parentis." Ibid.

Second, though the "school argue[d] that it was trying to prevent disruption, if not within the classroom, then within the bounds of a school-sponsored extracurricular activity," the Court found "no evidence in the record of the sort of 'substantial disruption' of a school activity or a threatened harm to the rights of others that might justify the school's action. "Ibid. The Court noted that "discussion of the matter took, at most, 5 to 10 minutes of an Algebra class 'for just a couple of days'" and that "some members of the cheerleading team were 'upset' about the content of B.L.'s Snapchats," but there was otherwise no forecast of disruption or actual disruption other than "kids kept asking . . . about it." Id. at 2047-48. According to the Court, "[t]he alleged disturbance here does not meet Tinker's demanding standard." Id. at 2048.

Finally, although the school had "a concern for team morale," there was no evidence of "a substantial interference in, or disruption of, the school's efforts to maintain team cohesion." Ibid.

Due to the school's diminished interests in punishing B.L.'s off-campus speech, the Court held that the school violated her First Amendment right to free speech by suspending her from the team for her Snapchat posts.

Over the years, there have been several other off-campus speech cases arising out of Pennsylvania and New Jersey. For example, in J.S. v. Bethlehem Area Sch. Dist., 569 Pa. 638 (Pa. 2002), the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled that a school district did not violate a student's First Amendment rights by suspending him "for creating at home, and posting on the Internet, a web site that, inter alia, contained derogatory, profane, offensive and threatening statements directed toward one of the student's teachers and his principal." Id. at 643. On the website, the student asked viewers to "give me $20 to help pay for the hitman" to kill his math teacher and posted a drawing of her "with her head cut off and blood dripping from her neck." Id. at 645.

In Bethlehem, the Court found that the website substantially disrupted "the entire school community – teachers, students and parents." Id. at 674. The targeted math teacher was so distraught over the website that she took a lengthy medical leave of absence and needed three substitute teachers to fill in for her, "[c]ertain students expressed anxiety about the web site and for their safety" and "visited counselors," "there was a feeling of helplessness and low morale" on campus, and "[c]ertain parents understandably voiced concerns for school safety and questioned the delivery of instruction by substitute teachers." Ibid. Thus, the Court was "satisfied that the School District has demonstrated that [the student's] web site created an actual and substantial interference with the work of the school to a magnitude that satisfies the requirements of Tinker."[11] Id. at 675.

In two cases decided on the same day by the Third Circuit Court of Appeals, J.S. v. Blue Mountain Sch. Dist., 650 F.3d 915 (3d Cir. 2011), and Layshock v. Hermitage Sch. Dist., 650 F.3d 205 (3d Cir. 2011), the Court also dealt with First Amendment issues arising from the suspension of Pennsylvania students who created fake profiles of their respective principals on the social media website MySpace while using home computers. In J.S. and Layshock, the school districts themselves conceded that there was no substantial disruption to their operations even though in J.S. the principal called the police, there were "rumblings" in the hallways and classrooms, and staff members were pulled away from their job duties to address the situation, and in Layshock, the principal also contacted the police, "word of the profile 'spread like wildfire' and soon reached most, if not all, of [the] student body," and the school conducted an investigation into the matter, limited students' use of on-campus computers for several days, and cancelled computer programming classes.

In J.S., "[t]he profile contained adult language and sexually explicit content," but "was so outrageous that no one took its content seriously" and the student testified that "she intended the profile to be a joke between herself and her friends." Id. at 920, 921.

[11] While the Court in Bethlehem deemed the student's website "on-campus speech" because he "facilitated the on-campus nature of the speech by accessing the web site on a school computer in a classroom, showing the site to another student, and by informing other students at school of the existence of the web site," the Court's "substantial disruption" analysis is illuminating in this off-campus speech matter. Id. at 668.

At first, "the profile could be viewed in full by anyone who knew the URL (or address) or who otherwise found the profile by searching MySpace for a term it contained;" however, the next day the student made the profile private by limiting access to her MySpace "friends." Id. at 921. The school district did not assert that the profile created a substantial disruption, but that "it was justified in punishing [the student] under Tinker because of 'facts which might reasonably have led school authorities to forecast substantial disruption of or material interference with school activities . . . .'" Id. at 928. To support this argument, the district "contend[ed] that the profile was accusatory and aroused suspicions among the school community about [the principal's] character because of the profile's references to his engaging in sexual misconduct." Id. at 930. However, the Court rejected this argument because "[t]he profile was so outrageous that no one could have taken it seriously, and no one did," and "[t]hus, it was clearly not reasonably foreseeable that [the student's] speech would create a substantial disruption or material interference in school[.]" Ibid.

And in a recent, post-Mahanoy case, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in J.S. v. Manheim Twp. Sch. Dist., 2021 Pa. LEXIS 3998 (Pa. 2021), again addressed the conflict between "student free speech rights under the First Amendment and the duty of public schools to maintain a safe, effective, and efficient educational environment." Id. at *2. Under the facts of that case, a high school student, using his personal smartphone while at home, created two captioned Snapchat memes depicting a classmate as a potential school shooter and shared the memes with one of his schoolfriends. Id. at 3-4. The friend then posted one of the memes to his personal Snapchat account, rendering the meme "available for approximately five minutes and seen by 20 to 40 other students." Id. at 4-5.

The principal soon thereafter learned of the meme and contacted local police, who "concluded there was no threat to school safety" and that the school could remain open. Id. at 5-6. The superintendent "sent an e-mail to all parents and teachers stating that there had been a threat posted on social media, but that, after investigation, the school and campus were deemed safe." Id. at *6. During its investigation, the student who created the memes told school authorities that "he intended his on-line conversation with [the friend] to be funny and to remain private." Ibid.

The school district expelled the student under its terroristic threats policy, and argued before the Court that the memes resulted in substantial disruption by causing "apprehension," leading to "an investigation by the administration and local police to determine if the threat was real," and because the two students originally involved "lost educational time due to their being interviewed, and . . . the administration was required to spend time investigating the messages, diverting its time and resources." Id. at *59. However, the Court disagreed, finding instead that "[w]hile [the student's] memes no doubt impacted the school environment to some degree, we do not believe that they rose to the level of a substantial disruption required by Tinker." Id. at 59-60.

The Court first acknowledged that "the School District responsibly investigated the possibility of a threat by immediately contacting the police," but noted that "[u]pon receipt of law enforcement's investigation and conclusions that [the student] did not present a threat and that it was safe to attend school the next day, . . . it was the School District that created a disruption by sending an email to parents that a threat had been received." Id. at *60. Moreover, "[w]ith respect to the students at school, the interruption was relatively minor, including conversations, concern, and the campus being 'abuzz'" and "[i]mportantly, there is no allegation that school was missed, classes or instruction interrupted, or the operation of the school was compromised." Ibid. The Court "reject[ed] the School District's assertion that its investigation, and even the increased police presence at school the following day, without more, constituted a significant disruption of the school environment" because "[t]aken to its logical conclusion, under the School District's argument, any off-campus speech which was investigated by a school could be punished as a substantial disruption of the school environment regardless of whether it was protected by the First Amendment." Id. at 60-61.

Finally, in Dunkley v. Greater Egg Harbor Bd. of Educ., 216 F. Supp. 3d 485 (D.N.J. 2016), a district court judge in New Jersey held that a high school student's disparaging comments about certain classmates on out-of-school YouTube and Twitter postings caused a substantial disruption to school operations. In so holding, the judge explained:

> [the postings] contained HIB speech, about which students and parents complained[.] The administrators were required by state law to investigate the complaints about plaintiff's Twitter account, which took them away from other school duties. This disruption was compounded by plaintiff initially lying about his involvement, causing the school administrators to continue their investigation. Complaints from parents and students about the HIB-speech content of the Twitter account, and an investigation into those complaints, which was stymied by plaintiff's intentional decision to lie about his involvement, constitute the 'material and substantial disruption' to the 'work and discipline of the school' requirement necessary to permit the school to discipline plaintiff for his out-of-school speech.

Thus, the judge concluded, the school district did not violate the student's free speech rights by suspending him for eleven days. The judge distinguished that case from J.S. and Layshock because the student's social media account "contained disparaging comments directed to students' race, gender and other physical and mental characteristics," and therefore "implicated anti-bullying policies and procedures set in place to manage harassment, intimidation and bullying against other students, whether that harassment, intimidation and bullying occurs on-site or off-site." Id. at 493.

Before applying the Tinker standard to the facts of this case, it is necessary to address the Board's argument that A.C.'s statements about teachers in her blog were "threats" that are not protected by the First Amendment. The Board is correct that, in addition to such utterances as obscenities and fighting words, "true threats" are "one of the well-recognized exceptions" to First Amendment protection. B.L., 964 F.3d at 191 (citing Doe v. Pulaski Cnty. Special Sch. Dist., 306 F.3d 616, 619, 621-27 (8th Cir. 2002)); see also Watts v. United States, 394 U.S. 705 (1969) (holding that "[w]hat is a threat must be distinguished from what is constitutionally protected speech").[12] Thus, if A.C.'s speech constituted "true threats," there would be no need to analyze the effects of her speech under Tinker and her statements would not be protected under the First Amendment.

A "true threat" must be "a statement that a reasonable recipient would have interpreted as a serious expression of an intent to harm or cause injury to another." Doe, 306 F.3d at 624. The speaker must have "intended to communicate the purported threat . . . to the object of the purported threat or to a third party" and "a reasonable recipient" must perceive the statement "as a serious expression of an intent to harm" another person. Id. at 624, 625.

Here, A.C. intended to communicate the purported threat, not to the objects of the purported threat – the teachers – but to third parties, her friends with whom she shared her blog. And the purported threats eventually reached the teachers when they were told about the contents of A.C.'s blog. Thus, A.C.'s statements satisfy one element of the "true threat" analysis. However, were A.C.'s statements "true threats"? That is, would a reasonable recipient have viewed her violent statements about the teachers as serious expressions of A.C.'s intent to harm them?

A.C. testified that she was "joking" or "venting" when she wrote the "rants" about teachers, and that she had no intention to actually harm any of the teachers. She also testified that "[m]y friends thought it was funny." On the other end of the spectrum, Ms. Fitzpatrick, one of the subjects of A.C.'s rants, testified that she "felt threatened and wanted A.C. removed from her class after reading the blog." And Principal Diskin and [12] In B.L., the Third Circuit held only that "Tinker does not apply to off-campus speech" and "reserv[ed] for another day the First Amendment implications of off-campus student speech that threatens violence or harasses others" because the facts in B.L. did not implicate such speech. Id. at 186. Nonetheless, the Court acknowledged that "[a] future case . . . involving speech that is reasonably understood as a threat of violence or harassment targeted at specific students or teachers, would no doubt raise different concerns and require consideration of other lines of First Amendment law. Thus, the Court offered, "[w]hile we disagree with the Tinker-based theoretical approach that many of our sister circuits have taken in cases involving students who threaten violence or harass others, our opinion takes no position on schools' bottom-line power to discipline speech in that category" and "[w]e hold only that off-campus speech not implicating that class of interests lies beyond the school's regulatory authority." Id. at 190-91.

Assistant Principal Filippello testified that they understood A.C.'s statements to be threats against the teachers.

However, a review of the actual statements and surrounding circumstances leads to the conclusion that a "reasonable recipient" would not have considered the statements to be "serious expressions" of an intent to harm the teachers. First, the statements themselves. A.C. wrote, "I REALLY, REALLY wanted to kick her in the face and break all her bones and watch her die," in reference to Ms. Fitzpatrick, and in reference to Ms. Merino, she wrote, "I JUST FEEL SO MUCH ANGER AN[D] EMOTIONS IN ME! I JUST WANT TO KILL HER AND TOSS HR BODY IN A RIVER (but I can't, 'cause I'm not old enough to kill people yet – LOL jk I don't kill . . . yet. . :-O", and "I almost SPIT IN HER FACE AND PUNCHED HER DOWN. But I managed to control my unstable self and not do it." These statements, although violent and disturbing, were not true threats, but extremely misguided attempts at humor.

Two of the statements are written in the past tense and describe the emotions she felt at the time of past interactions or incidents with those teachers – A.C. "wanted" to kick Ms. Fitzpatrick after an incident in gym class and she declared that she "almost spit" in Ms. Merino's face and "punched" her as a result of an interaction she had had with that teacher. The other statement about harming Ms. Merino, although written in the present tense, was qualified by a "joking" reference to A.C.'s age as a deterrent to acting out on her statement, and the "jokey" initialism "LOL" and emoticon ":-O." These were deplorable things that A.C. said about the teachers, but a reasonable recipient would not have viewed her violent statements about the teachers as serious expressions of A.C.'s intent to harm them. Intent is "[t]he state of mind accompanying an act, esp. a forbidden act," or "mental resolution or determination to it." Black's Law Dictionary, 825 (8th ed. 2004). A.C.'s statements do not reflect a mental resolution or determination to harm the teachers.

The school staff's reaction to these statements upon learning of A.C.'s blog on May 17 supports the conclusion that a reasonable recipient would not have viewed A.C.'s statements as "true threats." Although Diskin and Filippello testified that they thought certain statements were "threats" against teachers, neither they, nor the superintendent, ever contacted police, or took any action to notify the teachers at issue until May 20, or three days later. And while Ms. Fitzpatrick testified that she felt "threatened" and "concerned for my safety" when told about A.C.'s statements about her, Ms. Fitzpatrick also did not contact the police and was not sure whether she actually asked Principal Diskin or other administrative staff to remove A.C. from her gym class or whether A.C. was, in fact, removed from her gym class, upon A.C.'s return from suspension. These actions or inactions by school staff belie a reasonable perception that A.C.'s statements were "true threats."

Since A.C.'s blog statements about teachers were not "true threats," the question is whether her statements are protected free speech in light of Tinker and Mahanoy. This question is crucial because the school could not punish A.C. for the statements she made in her off-campus blog unless such speech "materially and substantially interfere[d] with the requirements of appropriate discipline in the operation of the school" or there were "facts which might reasonably have led school authorities to forecast substantial disruption of or material interference with school activities" as a result of A.C.'s blog.

Upon review of the facts in this matter and an application of relevant case law to those facts, I CONCLUDE that A.C.'s blog did not materially and substantially interfere with the requirements of appropriate discipline in the operation of the school and could not have reasonably led school authorities to forecast a substantial disruption or material interference with school activities and that, as a result, the Board violated A.C.'s First Amendment rights by suspending her from school because of her off-campus blog.

As an initial matter, it is necessary to note that A.C.'s blog is properly characterized as "off-campus speech." A.C. testified that she created the blog on a home computer and that she did not use school computers to work on her blog. She intended to share her blog only with a circle of four girlfriends who also attended Eisenhower, and provided them with the blog's web address, "ginypigluver.weebly.com." However, the blog was not password protected, and while according to A.C., anyone who sought access to the blog would have to know and enter the exact web address, E.K. somehow caught wind of the blog, knew the web address, and shared the information with Assistant Principal Filippello. Thus, A.C.s "off-campus speech" found its way "on campus."

Nonetheless, because A.C.'s blog was "off-campus speech," the school could not punish her for the blog's contents absent satisfaction of the Tinker standard. Yet here, like in Tinker, Mahanoy, J.S., Layshock, and Manheim, the school authorities improperly, and in violation of A.C.'s free speech rights, suspended her from school because there was no material and substantial disruption of school operations or facts that would reasonably lead school authorities to forecast substantial disruption.

Certainly, there was disruption of school operations as a result of A.C.'s blog: a classmate of A.C.'s complained about the blog to school staff, who in turn conducted an investigation into the matter. That investigation involved four staff members [Diskin, Filippello, Piscadlo, and Patullo], two students [A.C. and the complaining classmate], and A.C.'s father. By all accounts, the investigation consumed the afternoon of May 17. A.C. was referred for a psychiatric evaluation and missed five days of school while on suspension. The matter trickled into the following Monday when Diskin again met with P.C. and when Diskin informed the relevant teachers about the contents of the blog. However, such disruption was not substantial.

Filippello testified that the "substantial disruption" was "the report of a cyberbully, then that led to calling down A.C. to speak to her about some of the information that was in the blog and then you had two building administrators pulling [the two] school counselors, [and we] were involved with one student at the time where we had close to 800 students." Diskin offered similar testimony, but conceded that, in response to the blog posts, the police were not called to the school on May 17, the school was not closed, and no teachers or students (other than A.C.) missed school. And although the judge in Dunkley found that a school investigation coupled with parent and student complaints regarding off-campus, bullying social media posts constituted a substantial disruption, the Court in Manheim more persuasively concluded – for purposes of this matter – that it would be illogical if "any off-campus speech which was investigated by the school could be punished as a substantial disruption of the school environment regardless of whether it was protected by the First Amendment."

Here, there was a school investigation, but unlike Manheim, the police were not contacted to address A.C.'s blog, and while Ms. Fitzpatrick testified that she felt threatened, unlike Bethlehem, none of the targeted teachers had to take a leave of absence or missed any time from their classes other than perhaps when they met with Principal Diskin so he could tell them about the blog. The facts of this case undermine a finding of substantial disruption.

Also, like in J.S., there is also an absence of facts that would have forecast a substantial disruption. On Friday, May 17, 2013, A.C. was referred for psychiatric evaluation when, confronted by school staff about her blog, she threatened harm to herself and others. However, the school did not contact police, and instead remanded A.C. to the custody of her father, who took her for the evaluation the same day. The evaluation revealed that A.C. was not a threat to herself or others, and the hospital staff cleared A.C. to return to school. P.C. notified Principal Diskin of the evaluation results the following Monday, but the principal refused to allow A.C. to return to school until she served her five-day suspension.

Diskin testified that he did not immediately notify the targeted teachers on May 17 because they had already left for the weekend, and the superintendent "did not think it was something that was appropriate to talk to them about on the phone over the weekend." Diskin further testified that "A. was in the care of her parents as well as being sent . . . for an evaluation. So we deemed it that she was in a good safe place now and that for that time being our staff was safe." And although the targeted teachers expressed concern for their safety when finally notified about the blog, none of the teachers called the police and the only safety precautions taken at the school were "awareness" and "monitor[ing] the situation" upon A.C.'s return to school. Like in J.S., A.C.'s statements, while disturbing, were meant as "jokes" and she did not intend to harm the teachers.

Thus, the totality of circumstances does not support a finding that there was a forecast of substantial disruption as a result of A.C.'s blog.

As Justice Breyer wrote in Mahanoy, "[i]t might be tempting to dismiss B. L.'s words as unworthy of the robust First Amendment protections discussed herein [b]ut sometimes it is necessary to protect the superfluous in order to preserve the necessary." Mahanoy, 141 S.Ct. at 2048. Certainly, A.C.'s statements about her teachers were vile and distasteful, but they are nonetheless protected by the First Amendment because they were not "true threats" and did not substantially disrupt, or forecast substantial disruption of, the orderly operation of the school. And like in B.L., because A.C. "spoke outside school on her own time," the Board's regulatory powers were diminished because the Board "did not stand in loco parentis" when A.C. posted the statements on her off-campus blog.

In sum, by suspending A.C., the Board not only violated N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5, but the Board also violated A.C.'s free speech rights under the United States Constitution and the New Jersey Constitution.[13]

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on a preponderance of the credible evidence, I CONCLUDE that while the Board (1) did not violate various education laws by failing to provide A.C. with support services after her suspension, as alleged in Count One, the Board (2) violated certain procedural requirements of the Anti-Bullying Act in response to P.C.'s HIB claims, as alleged in Counts Two and Three, and (3) violated A.C.'s free speech rights under the United States Constitution and the New Jersey Constitution by suspending her for violent statements she made about teachers in her off-campus blog, as alleged in Count Seven.

[13] Because I conclude that A.C.'s blog did not materially interfere with appropriate discipline under N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5, I find it unnecessary to reach the other element required for discipline for off-campus conduct – whether the suspension was "reasonably necessary for the student's physical or emotional safety, security and well-being or for reasons relating to the safety, security and well-being of other students, staff or school grounds, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:25-2 and 18A:37-2." N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1).

As for remedies for the Board's violations of the procedural requirements of the Anti-Bullying Act, I ORDER the Board to take corrective measures, including training, to ensure that Board members and Board employees comply with the procedural requirements for HIB investigations.

As for remedies for the Board's violation of A.C.'s free speech rights by suspending her from school, I note the following. First, the record reflects that the Board has already expunged the suspension from A.C.'s school records. If the Board has not, in fact, expunged A.C.'s suspension from her records, I ORDER the Board to do so. Second, as petitioners acknowledge in their petition of appeal, I do not have the power to otherwise redress the Board's violation of A.C. constitutional rights, and petitioners must seek any relief that might flow from such violation in a court of appropriate jurisdiction.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SEC Dkt. No. T02-22

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of James Daley,
Board of Education of the City of Clifton, Passaic County.

This matter involves an appeal of the School Ethics Commission's (SEC) October 17, 2022 determination that appellant, James Daley – a member of the Clifton Board of Education (Board) – violated the School Ethics Act (Act) for failure to timely complete board member training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1. Appellant ultimately completed the training after the issuance of the SEC's August 23, 2022 Order to Show Cause (OTSC), but prior to its October 17, 2022 decision. The SEC recommended a penalty of reprimand for the violation. Appellant appealed the SEC's determination, challenging both the finding of a violation and the recommended penalty. Having carefully reviewed the SEC's decision and the record in its entirety, the Commissioner finds that the SEC's decision that appellant violated the Act is supported by sufficient, credible evidence, and that the appellant failed to establish that the decision is arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). The Commissioner further finds that the recommended penalty of reprimand is appropriate.

In his appeal to the Commissioner, appellant argues that he did not receive the notices of non-compliance sent to his residence in January and March 2022. He indicates that he did receive a June 24, 2022 letter, but it did not identify which course he was required to take, and he was not advised by the Board's business office until September 1, 2022 which course he was required to take. Appellant notes that he took the course promptly thereafter, on September 6, 2022.

In opposition, the SEC argues that its decision was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The SEC notes that it is undisputed that appellant did not complete the required training by March 31, 2022. According to the SEC, five notices regard training were sent to appellant, and appellant only disputes receiving two of them. The SEC further contends that the law charges board members with the responsibility for completing training, and that the Board was not responsible for notifying Daley regarding the requirements.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner finds that the SEC's determination that the appellant is in violation of the Act is supported by sufficient credible evidence, and the appellant has not established that the SEC's decision is arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, appellant was required to complete the Governance IV training program by March 31, 2022. It is undisputed that he failed to do so. As such, appellant failed to timely complete board member training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1. Appellant offers no explanation for why some notices sent to his address were received, while others were not. Furthermore, appellant admits that he had received a notice by June 24, 2022, nearly two months before the SEC issued the Order to Show Cause, yet appellant appears to have taken no action to complete the training other than inquiring – with the business office, rather than the New Jersey School Boards Association, which offers the training and issued the non-compliance notices – which course he was supposed to take. But appellant's reliance on the Board cannot excuse his violation of the Act, as he is responsible as a board member to be aware of the law and to comply with it.

With respect to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner notes that in previous matters, when a respondent completed the requisite training after the issuance of the Order to Show Cause – but prior to the SEC's meeting date – the penalty has been a reprimand. See, In the Matter of Annette Beasley, Irvington Board of Education, Essex County, Commissioner Decision No. 223-21SEC, decided October 13, 2021; In the Matter of Marcos Garciga, Cliffside Park Board of Education, Bergen County, Commissioner Decision No. 224-21SEC, decided October 13, 2021; In the Matter of Gary Yedman, Seaside Park Board of Education, Ocean County, Commissioner Decision No. 230-21SEC, decided October 13, 2021. As the instant case arises from the same circumstances, the Commissioner finds that a reprimand is the appropriate penalty for the respondent's failure to timely complete the requisite training. Accordingly, the respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

Before the School Ethics Commission
Docket No.: T02-22
Amended Decision for Failure to Complete Mandatory Training Requirement in a Timely Manner[1]

I/M/O James Daley,
Clifton Board of Education, Passaic County

I. Procedural History

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) that was issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on August 23, 2022, and also served on August 23, 2022, via electronic mail.[2] The OTSC directed James Daley (Respondent), a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

In the OTSC served on August 23, 2022, the Commission notified Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

II. Analysis

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1 require every board member to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a member of the Clifton Board of Education (Board), located in Passaic County. As a result of his position on the Board, and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online so any board member may complete it at any

[1] The School Ethics Commission adopted an Amended Decision at a special meeting October 17, 2022, because its previous decision, adopted on September 14, 2022, failed to acknowledge that Respondent completed training following the issuance of the August 23, 2022, Order to Show Cause.

[2] In order to conduct business during the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, the Commission implemented an electronic filing system, which remains a permissible method by which the Commission and parties can effectuate service of process. Consequently, service of process was effectuated by the Commission through electronic transmission only.

time, from anywhere. According to NJSBA, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 4 training program by March 31, 2022.[3]

On or about August 22, 2022, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those board of education members who failed to complete mandated training by March 31, 2022, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes. More specific information detailing the outreach efforts of NJSBA to communicate with Respondent and/or the charter school lead about mandated training is set forth in the attached Certification from NJSBA. See Exhibit A. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In light of Respondent's failure to complete mandated training, an OTSC was issued by the Commission, and served on Respondent, via electronic mail, on August 23, 2022.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete his required training by March 31, 2022, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed training on September 9, 2022, but did not submit anything, in writing, explaining why a penalty up to and including removal should not be imposed for his failure to complete training by March 31, 2022.

III. Decision/Penalty Recommendation

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its special meeting on September 14, 2022, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1. Respondent received repeated notifications of his training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, he failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction."[4] A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission (school.ethics@doe.nj.gov) and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4:1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

K.S., on behalf of minor child, K.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Union City, Hudson County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner filed a pro se petition challenging the determination of the respondent Board that his minor child, K.S., was not eligible to receive a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner asserted that he and his son were residing with a family friend in Union City while the child's mother, who lives in Jersey City, was having personal issues. K.S. does not have a custody order for his son. The Board contends that K.S. was unable to provide sufficient proof of residency in the District, and filed a counterclaim for tuition for the period from the beginning of the 2022-23 school year through January 31, 2023.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, public schools are free to any person over five and under twenty five years of age who is domiciled within the school district; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2., if a student does not have a right to attend the school district, the Commissioner may assess tuition; in this case, the Board sent Notice of Final Determination of Ineligibility to the minor child's mother on November 1, 2022; the Board received an appeal of this determination on November 21, 2022, filed by K.S., the father of K.S.; petitioner supplied no compelling proof of domicile in Union City despite requests to produce required documentation of residency from the beginning of the school year until January 31, 2023; documents submitted as proof of residency included unsigned lease agreements, a student registration with the child's mother listed at the Union City address but with a Jersey City driver's license, and two utility bills with the exact same information but one with the mother's name and the other with another student's parent's name; no custody order for either parent was presented. The ALJ concluded that K.S. was not domiciled in Union City during the time period at issue; therefore, his son was not eligible to attend school in the District. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered petitioner to pay the Board tuition in the amount of $10, 516.52 for the period of K.S.'s ineligible attendance from September 6, 2022 through January 31, 2023.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was domiciled in Union City during the time period at issue here. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, with modification with respect to the final tuition calculation. Petitioner was directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $11,202.38 for tuition costs incurred during the time period in which K.S. was ineligible to attend school in Union City. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

K.S., on behalf of minor child, K.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Union City, Hudson County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The petitioner did not file a reply.[1]

In this residency matter, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board met its burden of demonstrating that petitioner was not domiciled in Union City from the beginning of the 2022-23 school year through January 31, 2023, and the minor child was therefore not entitled to a free education in the District during that time.[2] The ALJ further found that the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $114.31 per day for 92 school days, from September 6, 2022 through January 31, 2023, totaling $10,516.52.

In its exceptions, the Board requests that the Commissioner include an extra six days of tuition in the final calculation of tuition reimbursement, representing the number of days from January 31, 2023, until the minor child was removed from the district.[3]

[1] The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the January 30, 2023 hearing.

[2] The Commissioner notes that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2, the burden of proof falls on the petitioner, not the Board.

[3] The Board also requests two modifications: (1) indicating that petitioner's utility bill was identical to that of another student, rather than to another bill of petitioner's; and (2) finding that the lease provided to the Board

Upon review, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was a domiciliary of Union City from the beginning of the 2022-23 school year through January 31, 2023. As such, the Commissioner finds that the minor child was not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during that time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in Union City. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $11,202.38, representing 92 school days from the beginning of the 2022-23 school year through January 31, 2023, at $114.31 per day, plus an additional 6 days until the child was disenrolled from the District.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is modified with respect to the final tuition calculation. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $11,202.38 for tuition costs incurred during the time period in which K.S. was ineligible to attend school in Union City. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11086-22
AGENCY DKT. NO. 321-11/22

K.S. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD K.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF UNION CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,

Respondent.

K.S., petitioner appearing pro se

Susanne Lavelle, Esq. appearing on behalf of respondent.

Record Closed: February 1, 2023 Decided: February 8, 2023

BEFORE: JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALAJ

Petitioner K.S. challenges the residency determination made by the Union City Board of Education ("Board") regarding the minor child K.S. asserting they were not domiciled within the Union City School District. Respondent's demand included a request that the Commissioner dismiss the petition, that the child be removed from the district, and that the petitioner be assessed a tuition charge for ninety-two days of K.S., Jr.'s ineligible attendance in the Board's schools.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 12, 2022, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. to -13. A hearing was held on January 30, 2023, and the record closed on February 1, 2023, upon receipt of the school calendar.

The issues in this matter are whether K.S. Jr. is eligible to attend respondent's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1 and, if not, whether respondent's requests for tuition reimbursement and for disenrollment of K.S., Jr. should be granted.

In support of its claim for tuition, the Board produced evidence in the form of testimony from School Superintendent Silvia Abbato. She testified regarding the results of the investigation supporting the finding that K.S. Jr., is domiciled out-of-district, but continued to attend public schools in the school district for a total of ninety-two days (one holiday). The school year began on September 6, 2022, with nineteen days of attendance for that month, October for twenty days, November for eighteen days and for December seventeen days and for January 2023, students attended school for nineteen days.

Abbato received information in August 2022 anonymously, regarding a residency issue with students on the Union City football team. Abbato directed the Board's counsel to begin an investigation. Counsel reviewed the files of the name of students that transferred into the District that year. When reviewing K.S. Jr. file she found it contained two different addresses, leases were unsigned by the landlord and two utility bills submitted were identical in all respects, but the addresses and owners name were different. K.S. was not aware of the utility bills submitted. Mother of K.S., Jr. presented a driver's license with the student registration that reflects a Jersey City address.

The Board sent the Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility to the mother of K.S., Jr on October 18, 2022. The Board did not receive a response. The Board sent the Notice of Final Determination of Ineligibility to the mother of K.S., Jr on November 1, 2022. The Board received an appeal of this determination on November 21, 2022, filed by K.S., the father of K.S., Jr. K.S. filed the appeal with a Jersey City address. (R-8) K.S. wrote on the appeal that a family friend offered to have his son stay with him at the Union City address while his son's mother was having personal issues. On December 21, 2022, family friend Omar Colon provided a document that both K.S. and his son are residing with him since August 15, 2022. The lease provided of Colon's apartment reflects father and son reside in Colon's apartment since May 1, 2022.

K.S. provided an updated utility bill that reflects the Union City address from December 20, 2022 to January 6, 2023. K.S. also changed his driver's license address to the Union City address effective December 20, 2022.

Dr. Anthony Dragona, school business administrator with the Union City school district, provided tuition calculation rate for the 2022-2023 school year by grade level. (R-13) The annual estimated tuition rate for students grade nine through twelve is $20, 576.00. The per diem estimated rate for the same grades is $114.31 per day of attendance.

K.S. does not have a custody Order for K.S., Jr. He is employed part-time with Sam's Club. Prior to residing in his friend Omar Colon's three bedroom apartment in Union City, he resided at his mother's home. K.S. was not able to show proof at the time of his appeal that he resided at the Union City apartment. Both the change of license and the utility bill reflects the Union City address effective in December 2022.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:

1. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;

b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is > supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner on the validity of the claim and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the resident in writing of his right to contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days. No child shall be denied admission during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. In the event the child is currently enrolled in the district, the student shall not be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the resident may contest the board's decision nor during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the resident, parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner.

In the instant matter, Respondent notified the mother of K.S., Jr. of the residency ineligibility by Final Notice dated November 1, 2022. Neither parent has provided sufficient proof that they have been residing at the Union City address since the start of the 2022-2023 school year. The documents submitted show unsigned lease agreements, a student registration with the child's mother listed at the Union City address but with a Jersey City driver's license, two attached utility bills with the exact same information but one with the mother's name and the other with another student's parent's name, nor was a custody Order for either parent presented.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden under N.J.S.A. 18A:38 b (2) that K.S. Jr. was not domiciled in Union City for the dates reflected and therefore is not entitled to a free education in the Union City school district.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3 states in pertinent part: a) Tuition assessed pursuant to this section shall be calculated on a per-student basis for the period of a student's ineligible enrollment, up to one year, by applicable grade/program category and consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1. The individual student's record of daily attendance shall not affect the calculation.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in Union City. Therefore, I further CONCLUDE the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $10, 516.52 ($114.31 per day for 92 days) for the time period from September 6, 2022 through January 31, 2023, during which time petitioner's minor child was ineligible to attend school in respondent's district.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination that K.S., Jr. is not a resident and domiciliary in Union City, New Jersey, and was not domiciled within its school district during the period being sought, is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that respondent is entitled to reimbursement from petitioner for the cost of audited tuition in the amount of $10,516.52.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Order on Emergent Relief

Marcella Simadiris,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Paterson, Passaic County,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons stated therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY,

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Marcella Simadiris challenges the withholding of a portion of her pay by respondent City of Paterson Board of Education (the Board). On February 14, 2023, petitioner filed a Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, accompanied by a motion for emergent relief. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on February 15, 2023, and scheduled for oral argument on February 24, 2023 regarding petitioner's request for emergent relief. In support of her motion, petitioner filed a brief and certifications by petitioner (Simadiris Cert.) and her attorney (Maurice Cert.). The Board opposes the motion and submitted a brief, along with a certification by counsel (Murray Cert.). Oral argument on the motion was adjourned at the parties' request and rescheduled for March 6, 2023. On March 3, 2023, petitioner filed a supplemental brief in support of her position. Oral argument was entertained on March 6, 2023. On March 7, 2023, the Board filed a supplemental certification of counsel (Murray Supp. Cert.), petitioner submitted an e-mail in response, and the Board responded to that e-mail.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

For purposes of the within motion, the pertinent facts are undisputed.

Petitioner is a tenured teacher in the Patterson School District (the District). (Verified Petition of Appeal at ¶ 1.) On June 3, 2019, the Board filed its certified tenure charges against petitioner with the Commissioner of Education, along with the Board's May 22, 2019 resolution memorializing the vote certifying the tenure charges against petitioner and certifying that the Board voted to suspend petitioner without pay effective May 23, 2019. (Murray Cert. at ¶ 2 and Exhibit A.) Petitioner filed an Action in Lieu of Prerogative Writ in the Superior Court, Law Division, Passaic County, challenging the Board's resolution on a procedural issue. (Id. at ¶ 3 and Exhibit B.) The Office of Controversies and Disputes held the tenure case in abeyance pending the resolution of the Superior Court proceedings. (Id. at ¶ 4 and Exhibit C.) On August 21, 2019, the Honorable Ernest Caposela, A.J.S.C., issued an Order invalidating the Board's May 22, 2019 resolution certifying the tenure charges and suspending petitioner without pay, which the Board appealed to the Appellate Division. (See Id. at ¶¶ 5 and 11 and Exhibits D and J.) The tenure case was held in abeyance, and petitioner was then suspended with pay effective September 2, 2019, pending the result of the Board's appeal. (See Id. at ¶¶¶ 6, 7 and 8 and Exhibits E, F and G.)

District employees are paid bi-monthly, on the 15th and 30th of each month. (Murray Cert. at ¶ 9 and Exhibit H.) The Board's payroll records show that petitioner was not paid for the month of June 2019. (Ibid.) In September 2019, the Board refunded petitioner the pay from the two June 2019 pay periods as a result of the trial court's order. (Id. at ¶ 10 and Exhibit I.)

On January 21, 2021, the Appellate Division ruled in favor of the Board and reversed the trial court's order. (Murray Cert. at ¶ 13 and Exhibit L.) On September 9, 2021, the New Jersey Supreme Court denied petitioner's petition for certification. (Id. at ¶ 14 and Exhibit M.) At this point in time, the litigation was concluded and the Board's May 22, 2019 resolution certifying the tenure charges and suspending petitioner without pay became effective.

By letter dated September 21, 2021, the Board's counsel advised the Office of Controversies and Disputes of the results of the above litigation and that the tenure case could now be processed for tenure arbitration. (Murray Cert. at ¶ 15 and Exhibit N.) On September 27, 2021, the Department of Education informed counsel that the tenure charges were referred to Arbitrator James Mastriani. (Id. at ¶ 16 and Exhibit O.) Throughout the above described two years of court litigation, petitioner remained on the Board's payroll, i.e., suspended with pay. (Id. at ¶ 17.)[1]

According to counsel's certification, while preparing exhibits for the tenure hearing, counsel, in conjunction with the District's Human Resources Department and the District's

[1] The Board notes that petitioner submitted applications under the teachers' collective bargaining agreement for an annual stipend of $1,000 for perfect attendance, even though she was suspended with pay; the Board erroneously paid this stipend for three years (2019–2020, 2020–2021, and 2021–2022); and petitioner again submitted a request for this stipend for the Fall 2022 ($500/per semester), despite being advised that she was not entitled to the perfect attendance stipend. (Murray Cert. at ¶¶ 18 and 19.) The parties agree that the Board's recoupment of this $3,000 is a matter subject to the contract's grievance procedure and is not before this forum.

Business Office, discovered that subsequent to the Supreme Court's decision in September 2021, petitioner's suspension without pay, pursuant to the Board's May 22, 2019 resolution, had not been implemented again. (Murray Cert. ¶ at 20.) Counsel's certification explains that, as a result of the two years of litigation and several court decisions, District personnel had overlooked the fact that the suspension monies refunded in September 2019, once again had to be deducted from petitioner's pay, and there was also a significant delay in discovering the oversight as petitioner promptly filed a motion as soon as an arbitrator was assigned, disputing the Board's potential evidence for the hearing. (Ibid.)

The Board has not charged petitioner the full 120 days suspension effective as of the date of the Supreme Court's ruling. (Murray Cert. at ¶ 21.) Rather, the Business Office calculated the suspension without pay consistent with the Board's May 22, 2019 resolution certifying the tenure charges and suspending petitioner without pay effective May 23, 2019. (Ibid.) Specifically, since petitioner is a teacher, the initial suspension would have run through the summer months of July and August, and, thus, no pay was withheld. (Ibid.) Petitioner is only being suspended without pay for forty-one days,[2] and the Board spread out the forty-one days of salary deduction, instead of reducing her pay in full. (Ibid. and Exhibit P.) On December 14, 2022, counsel for the Board e-mailed a letter to petitioner's attorney dated December 12, 2022, advising that petitioner's salary would be reduced by $2,000 gross per paycheck, commencing with her first paycheck in January 2023, to reimburse the District for compensation erroneously paid to her for the period of May 23 to May 31, 2019 and September 1 to September 19, 2019. (Maurice Cert. at Exhibit 1; Simadiris Cert. at Exhibit 1; Murray Supp. Cert. at ¶ 2 and Exhibit A.) The letter further advised that the Business Office would calculate the total salary monies owed. (Murray Supp. Cert. at ¶ 4 and Exhibit A.) Counsel explained in her certification that she drafted the letter based on the 2018–2019 payroll records that showed a suspension without pay for the month of June 2019. (Murray Supp. Cert. at ¶ 3; Murray Cert. at Exhibit H; see Murray Cert. at Exhibit G.) After receiving the information from the

[2] The calculation includes the periods of May 23 to May 31, 2019 (seven days); June 1 to June 30, 2019 (twenty days); and September 1 to September 19, 2019 (fourteen days). See Murray Cert. at Exhibit P.

Business Office, counsel for the Board learned that the June salary deductions had been repaid to petitioner in September 2019. (Murray Supp. Cert. at ¶ 3; see Murray Cert. at Exhibit I.) On January 11, 2023, counsel for the Board sent the Business Office's computation to petitioner's attorney, which included the dates stated in counsel's December 12, 2022 letter and the amount attributable to the period of June 1 to June 30, 2019. (Murray Supp. Cert. at ¶ 5 and Exhibit C; see Murray Cert. at Exhibit P.)

It is against this backdrop that petitioner's application for emergent relief is considered.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Petitioner's emergent application seeks an order enjoining the Board from further payroll deductions until the issue of the amount and method of payment can be determined. (See Simadiris Cert. at ¶ 14.) Alternatively, petitioner urges in her supplemental brief that the period for the payment should be extended and spread over the balance of the school year.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) sets forth the standards governing motions for emergent relief and instructs:

> A motion for a stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):
>
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

"Each of these factors must be clearly and convincingly demonstrated" by the moving party. Waste Mgmt. of N.J. v. Union County. Utils. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

Turning to the first criteria, emergent relief should not be granted except "when necessary to prevent irreparable harm." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132. Harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be adequately redressed by monetary damages. Id. at 132-33. It has been described as "'substantial injury to a material degree coupled with the inadequacy of money damages.'" Judice's Sunshine Pontiac, Inc. v. General Motors Corp., 418 F. Supp. 1212, 1218 (D.N.J. 1976) (citation omitted). "In other words, [petitioner] must have no adequate remedy at law." Subcarrier Communications, Inc. v. Day, 299 N.J. Super. 634, 638 (App. Div. 1997). Further, more than a risk of irreparable harm must be demonstrated. Continental Group, Inc. v. Amoco Chemicals Corp., 614 F.2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980). The requisite for injunctive relief requires a "'clear showing of immediate irreparable injury,'" or a "'presently existing actual threat; (an injunction) may not be used simply to eliminate a possibility of a remote future injury, or a future invasion of rights, be those rights protected by statute or by common law.'" Ibid. (Citations omitted.)

Having considered the parties' submissions and arguments, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to clearly and convincing demonstrate that she will suffer irreparable harm unless the requested relief is granted.

Petitioner contends in her certification that, "[a]s a result of a $4,000.00 per month reduction in salary, [she] will be unable to pay [her] bills and support [her] family" and "[t]he reduction is causing great hardship and may cause [her] to default on [her] obligations," and petitioner lists various monthly expenses. (Simadiris Cert. at ¶ 8.) Apart from the lack of documentation to support petitioner's alleged expenses and potential default on her obligations, it is well settled that harm which can be addressed by monetary damages will not suffice to establish irreparable harm and that more than a risk of irreparable injury must be demonstrated. Beyond this, the reduction in petitioner's salary has caused no financial harm that petitioner should not have anticipated. Plainly, petitioner was aware of the Board's May 22, 2019, resolution suspending her without pay, which could not be implemented in light of the trial court's order and until the completion of the litigation surrounding that resolution. Petitioner was also fully aware that she did not serve the imposed suspension and had received a refund of the monies that had been withheld in June 2019. Indeed, the Board, by following the original suspension timetable, rather than the date of the Supreme Court's decision, imposed the suspension for only forty-one days. And the Board also accommodated petitioner by spreading the forty-one day suspension over a period of months so that only a portion of her pay is being withheld every two weeks, rather than withholding petitioner's full salary until the suspension period was completed. In short, petitioner's reduced paycheck for a few months to implement the forty-one day suspension does not constitute irreparable harm.

Petitioner must also make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits of her underlying claim, and demonstrate that the legal right underlying her claim is settled, to prevail on an application for an emergent relief. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133. I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to shoulder her burden of proving both standards.

Petitioner does not contest the Board's calculation of the forty-one days or the resulting amount of her salary that equates with forty-one days. Rather, the crux of petitioner's argument focuses on the manner or schedule of payment.

N.J.S.A 18A:6-14 provides in pertinent part:

> Upon certification of any charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay, but, if the determination of the > charge by the arbitrator is not made within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges, excluding all delays which are granted at the request of such person, then the full salary (except for said 120 days) of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made.

In other words, a board of education possesses the statutory right to suspend an employee without pay upon certification of tenure charges, provided that the suspension may not exceed 120 calendar days. In the within matter, the Board acted consistent with the statutory directive. The Board determined to suspend petitioner without pay when it certified the charges against her, and the forty-one day suspension imposed is significantly less than the maximum 120 days. Further, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 does not include an exception to the authorized suspension for an alleged hardship or provide that a teacher facing tenure charges has a right to negotiate the duration or amount of his/her suspension. And, as noted, the Board in this case spread the suspension over a period of months, rather than requiring a consecutive forty-one day suspension. The cases and civil service regulation cited in petitioner's brief are markedly distinguishable and do not support a contrary result. Simply put, in contrast to those cases that addressed a salary overpayment, this matter involves the implementation of a statutory authorized suspension. In sum, the viability of petitioner's legal and/or equitable claims cannot be said to be settled in petitioner's favor and petitioner has failed to demonstrate a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of her claims.

In view of the foregoing, it is unnecessary to address whether, when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, petitioner will suffer greater harm than the Board if the requested relief is not granted.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to meet the requirements warranting emergent relief.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergent relief be and hereby is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Such plan will be drafted in January of 2023 through collaboration of the District and Petitioners, or as soon as possible after approval of this Agreement.

9. In exchange for the considerations above, the Petitioners on behalf of A.C. agree to dismiss their Complaints OAL Docket No. EDU-06217-2022S and OAL DOCKET No. EDU-05741-2022S and further agree to waive and release all claims against the Board regarding these two specific Docket Numbers listed above.

Final Decision

Department of Children and Families,

Petitioner,

v.

R.R.,

Respondent,

and

Robert Rodriguez,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education,
Criminal History Review Unit,

Respondent.

Synopsis

In this consolidated case, petitioner – a school bus driver – appealed a finding of neglect by the Department of Children and Families (DCF), and a determination by the NJ Department of Education, Criminal History Review Unit (now known as the Office of Student Protection or OSP), imposing a six-month suspension of petitioner's school bus license stemming from a 2017 incident wherein the petitioner parked and locked the school bus without checking to see if any children remained onboard at the end of his shift. Petitioner's negligence resulted in an 8-year-old child being left unsupervised on the bus for nearly two hours.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there was no dispute, under the totality of the circumstances, that the student never reached his destination on the day of the incident and was found by a third party locked on the bus after 5:00 pm, well after his normal drop off time; accordingly, DCF's determination of established neglect was upheld. Regarding the suspension of petitioner's school bus license, a 6-month suspension was not warranted given that petitioner has not had a valid bus driver "S" endorsement since this matter was initiated more than 4 years ago, and – while technically a 6-month suspension should have been imposed – petitioner has already endured a "de facto" suspension of his bus license for more than 4 years and any further suspension would be fundamentally unfair and penalize him twice for the same violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, as petitioner has already served the mandatory suspension of his school bus "S" endorsement.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Department of Children and Families,

Petitioner,

v.

R.R.,

Respondent,

and

Robert Rodriguez,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Criminal History Review Unit, [1]

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by respondent New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (OSP) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the petitioner's reply thereto.

[1] The Criminal History Review Unit is now known as the Office of Student Protection. This decision will use Office of Student Protection for consistency.

This consolidated action stems from an incident in which petitioner, a bus driver for the Hoboken School District, left a student on the bus on May 31, 2017. Petitioner parked and locked the school bus at the end of his shift and, approximately two hours later, another district employee found an eight-year-old child on the school bus. The Department of Children and Families (DCF), Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit investigated and established that petitioner's conduct constituted "Neglect/Inadequate Supervision." Additionally, OSP sent a letter dated March 9, 2018, indicating that petitioner's "S" endorsement to operate a school bus would be suspended for 6 months because petitioner had failed to conduct a visual inspection at the end of his transportation route as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-28 et seq. Petitioner challenged the DCF finding of child neglect and filed a petition of appeal with the Department challenging the suspension of his "S" endorsement to operate a school bus. The matters were consolidated at the OAL as they both stemmed from the same incident. DCF was determined to have the predominant interest as to the finding of neglect, and the Commissioner has jurisdiction to decide the remaining education issue involving the suspension of the "S" endorsement.[2]

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) upheld DCF's determination of established neglect. With respect to the bus driver "S" endorsement, the ALJ found that a 6-month suspension was not warranted given that petitioner has not had a valid bus driver "S" endorsement since the education matter was initiated more than 4 years ago. The ALJ explained that the pandemic caused extensive, unprecedented delays in this case, and petitioner has certified and testified that he could not utilize his "S" certification throughout the pendency of this matter because he was prevented from having his fingerprints taken, which is required to operate a school bus. As such, the ALJ found that while technically a 6-month suspension should be imposed, petitioner has already endured a "de facto" suspension of his "S" endorsement for more than 4 years and any further suspension would be fundamentally unfair and penalize him twice for the same violation.

In its exceptions, OSP argues that the School Bus Safety Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:39-26 to -33, requires bus drivers to visually inspect the school bus to ensure that no child has been left on the bus. The Act leaves no discretion and imposes a mandatory 6-month suspension for the first offense of leaving a child on the bus. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-29. OSP contends that the statute does not permit further inquiry into a petitioner's personal circumstances. As such, OSP requests that the Initial Decision be rejected.[3]

In reply, petitioner argues that he has already served well more than a 6-month suspension of his "S" endorsement as he has been subject to a "de facto" suspension of not less than 5 years. As such, he urges the Commissioner to adopt the Initial Decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that petitioner failed to inspect the bus at the end of his route as required, which resulted in a student being left on the bus for approximately two hours. The Commissioner further concludes that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-29 mandates a six-month suspension of petitioner's school bus endorsement as this was his first offense. However, the Commissioner finds that given the specific circumstances in this matter, in which petitioner has been unable to obtain a valid "S" endorsement for at least the past 4 years while this matter was pending, the petitioner has effectively already served his 6-month suspension. The [3] OSP also argues that the Department did not violate petitioner's due process rights by blocking him from getting fingerprinted; if petitioner was prevented from having his fingerprints taken, it was not due to any action of the Department. The Commissioner agrees that petitioner's due process rights were not violated.

Commissioner finds that, given the unique circumstances in this case, the suspension petitioner has already served is sufficient to meet the statutory requirement.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petitioner has already served the mandatory suspension of his school bus "S" endorsement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

BEFORE ANDREW M. BARON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

R.R., appeals a finding of neglect by the Department of children and Families, and a determination by the Enforcement Unit of the Department of Education, imposing a six-month suspension of petitioner's school bus driving privileges, arising out of an incident of neglect, where petitioner closed, parked and locked a school bus without checking to see if any children remained on the bus at the end of his shift.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was initially the subject of predominant matter, HSV 01772-18, which was decided on April 5, 2022, upholding the DCF determination that neglect was "Established." That decision was recalled, when an issue was raised by the Department of Education that the second part of the case which had been "held in abeyance," was inadvertently not reinstated, and a consolidation order, which has now been filed, was not entered at that time.

R.R. also appeals from a determination by the Department of Education suspending his school bus driver's license "S" endorsement for a period of six months in connection with the finding of "Established Neglect," involving the student who was left on the bus.

Four years after the original incident, the State now seeks via motion for a Summary Disposition a ruling in its favor to impose a six-month period of suspension of petitioner's bus driving privileges, despite having already served a similar suspension imposed by the school district of Bayonne, based on allegations of "Neglect" found by the State Division of Children and Families. (That part of the case had previously been de-activated by consent, was re-activated in April 2022. The ministerial act of filing a consolidation order which was overlooked at the time has now been filed as a prelude to filing the within decision which addresses both matters.

Oral argument on the Department of Education's penalty phase of the case was conducted on September 22, 2022, November 2, 2022, and December 21, 2022, respectively.

Other than the contested fact that R.R. says he checked the bus to make sure no students remained, most of the facts are not disputed.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACTS AS TO DCF v. R.R. HSV-01772-18

Irek Taflinski is a Senior Investigator with the Institutional Abuse and Investigation Unit (IAIU) with the Department of Children and Families (DCF). At the time of the hearing, he had been with the agency for fourteen years. Prior to that, he worked as a supervisor with the agency.

Mr. Taflinski was assigned by the agency to investigate the incident involving R.R., a school bus driver with the Hoboken School District which occurred on May 31, 2017. In addition to speaking with the Hoboken Police Department, and school officials, Mr. Taflinski spoke with the child (J.S.'s) mother and several students who ride the bus with J.S.

Mr. Taflinski prepared an Investigative summary, (P-3) regarding his investigation. Hoboken Public Schools also did a Report of Incident. (P-9). Other evidence considered was the Weather History for 5/31/17 (P-4), Certification of Documents, (P-6), the Hoboken Transportation Employee Manual, (P-7) and the Hoboken Police Investigation Report. (P-10). Also considered was the DCF IAIU Findings Report dated 9/22/17.

According to his testimony, after meeting with the Hoboken Police Department, Mr. Taflinski went to the area where the bus was usually parked at the end of each day and met with the coach and a group of students who play softball on a field adjacent to where the bus is parked.

The coach, whose name was Vincent Johnson, told Mr. Taflinski that there was a foul ball that rolled over near where the bus was parked, and that he and some of the players noticed that there was actually someone still inside the bus. After seeing the individual, Mr. Johnson and his assistant coach immediately opened the door and got the child off the bus. The time was around 5:15 P.M. It is unknown how long the bus was there with J.S. on it before they discovered him. In addition to the people at the field near where the bus was parked, Mr. Taflinski interviewed J.S.

J.S. told him he remembered getting on the bus, he sat in the back, and he remembered falling asleep, he woke up and there was no one else on the bus, including the driver.

The investigator Mr. Taflinski interviewed R.R. R.R. swore that he walked from the front to the rear of the bus, and then back again, checking side-to-side to make sure everyone was off the bus. Mr. Taflinski said he went to see the bus himself, and in his opinion, there was no way a child could hide underneath one of the bus seats, because of the metal bracket that support the seats which are attached to the floor. He further stated during his testimony that it would be virtually impossible to miss a young child still sitting on the bus, particularly if they were the only one remaining.

Mr. Taflinski also interviewed several of the other students, age 8 who rode the bus. At least three of them confirmed that J.S. frequently falls asleep and that R.R. has to wake him up when they reach his destination.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AS TO HSV 01772-18

The Department of Children and Families is entrusted with responsibility for the care, custody, guardianship, maintenance and protection of children. N.J.S.A. 30:4C:-2 (a); G.S. v. Dept. of Human Services, 157 N.J. 176 (1999). In furtherance of that objective, Title 9 of the New Jersey statutes includes comprehensive provisions governing allegations of child abuse and neglect. N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.8 (a). The main goal of Title 9 is to protect children from acts or conditions which threaten their welfare. G.S. 157 N.J. at 176, quoting State v. Demarest, 252 N.J. Super 323, (App. Div. 1991).

Toward the achievement of this goal, any person having reasonable cause to believe that a child has been subjected to child abuse or acts of child abuse is required to report that suspicion to the Division of child Protection and Permanency. (formerly the Division of Youth and Family Services.) N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.11.

Once such an allegation is concluded, the Division will make a finding regarding the allegations.

The Division's standard in abuse and neglect cases is a preponderance of the evidence, which means showing "that a desired inference is more probable than not." N.J. Div. of Youth & Family Servs. v. N.S., 412 N.J. Super. 593, 615 (2010);

N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.46(b)(1). The evidence rules in administrative court state that all relevant evidence is admissible that aid in the ascertainment of the truth. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1(b)-(c). Hearsay evidence is allowed. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1; N.J.A.C.1:1-15.5. Abuse and neglect evidence rules N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.46(a)(3), N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.46(a)(4), and N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.46(b)(2) also apply.

N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21 (a) defines parent or guardian as a teacher, employee or volunteer, whether compensated or uncompensated, of an institution who is responsible for the child's welfare and any other staff person of an institution regardless of whether or not the person is responsible for the care or supervision of the child. So, in this case, R.R. in his capacity as a school bus driver, would fall into this category.

N.J.A.C. 10:129-1.3 similarly defines a "parent or guardian" as "any birth parent, adoptive parent, resource parent, stepparent, paramour, or any person, who has assumed responsibility for the care, custody or control of a child or upon whom there is a legal duty for such care" including "a teacher, employee or volunteer, whether compensated or uncompensated, of an institution who is responsible for the child's welfare and any other staff person of an institution regardless of whether or not the person is responsible for the care or supervision of the child" and a "teaching staff member or other employee, whether compensated or uncompensated, of a day school as defined in N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21. Clearly R.R. also falls within this definition.

The Division of Child Protection and Permanency (DCP&P's) regulations provide four possible conclusions of an abuse and neglect investigation: (1) substantiated; (2) established; (3) not established; and (4) unfounded. If a finding is either substantiated or established, DCP&P would deem the child abused or neglected in accordance with N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21. DCP&P has defined their findings as follows:

> Substantiated: a "preponderance of the evidence" suggests the child is "abused or neglected" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21, and the investigation indicates any of the circumstances set forth in N.J.S.A. 3A:10-7.4 (e.g. subjecting the child to sexual activity, repeated instances of physical abuse) or substantiation is warranted based on factors provided in N.J.A.C. 3A:10-7.5.
> Established: a "preponderance of the evidence" indicates that a child is "abused or neglected" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21, but the conduct does not warrant a finding of "substantiated."
> Not established: a "preponderance of the evidence indicates the child is "abused or neglected" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21, but the evidence demonstrates that the child was not harmed or placed at risk of harm.
> Unfounded: there is no "preponderance of the evidence" indicating that the child was abused or neglected pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21, and the evidence indicates that the child was not harmed or placed at risk of harm.

Previous statements made by a child relating to allegations of abuse are admissible in evidence, provided they must be corroborated. N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.46(a)(4). Corroborative evidence may be circumstantial as the Appellate Court has recognized that "it would be a rare case where evidence could be produced that would directly corroborate the specific allegation of abuse" between the victim and perpetrator, especially a parent-perpetrator N.J. Div. of Youth & Family Servs. v. Z.P.R., 351 N.J. Super 427,435-36(App. Div.2002). "The corroborative evidence need not relate directly to the alleged abuser it need only provide support for the out-of-court statements." Id. This means that corroboration can be in any form.

The burden of proof in these matters lies with the Respondent in this matter. N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.46 (a) states: In a fat-finding hearing (1) any determination that the child is an abused or neglected child must be based on a preponderance of the evidence and (2) only competent, material relevant evidence may be admitted. See also: N.J. Div. of Youth and Family Servs. V. P.W.R., 205 N.J. 17,32 (2011).

When an allegation of child abuse or neglect has been substantiated, the name of the individual found to have perpetrated the abuse or neglect and any identifying information are entered into the Registry maintained by the Department. N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.11. The information contained in the Registry is confidential but may be disclosed consistent with relevant statutes.

Though petitioner argues that J.S. was found safe and unharmed, actual harm does not need to occur in order to establish that neglect occurred. See: N.J. Dept. of Children and Families v R.R., 436 N.J. Super. 53,59 (App. Div. 2014). The finding in R.R. affirmed a conclusion of willful and wanton disregard by a school bus driver who failed to inspect the bus personally at the end of a route that day because she relied on a bus aide's statement that no children remained on the bus.

The criteria analogous to the situation in this case was discussed at length in the matter of N.J. Dept. of Children & Families v. E.D.-O, 434 N.J Super 154,157 (App. Div. 2014) wherein a parent let a child in a vehicle for five to ten minutes. The conclusion in ED-O. found that "a parent invites substantial peril when leaving a child of such tender years in a motor vehicle that is out of a parent's sight, no matter how briefly."

When witnesses present conflicting testimonies, it is the duty of the trier of fact to weigh each witnesses' credibility and make a factual finding. In other words, credibility is the value a fact finder assigns to the testimony of a witness, and it incorporates the overall assessment of the witnesses' story in light of its rationality, consistency and how it comports with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F 2d. 718 (9th Cir. 1963). Credibility findings "are often influenced y matters such as observations of the character and demeanor of witnesses and common human experience that are not transmitted by the record." State v. Locurto, 157 N.J. 463 (1999). A fact finder is expected to base decisions of credibility on his or her common sense, intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 N.J Super 837 93 S. Ct. 2357 37 L.Ed. 380 (1973).

Respondent argues that most of the evidence the agency relied on to reach its finding that neglect was Established should be disregarded as Hearsay, and under the residuum rule, there is insufficient evidence to sustain the agency's finding.

Citing Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36, Respondent contends that the State's case is almost entirely based on hearsay testimony, and as such, its primary witness, Mr. Taflinski, has no firsthand knowledge of any of the facts. He argues that his testimony consists of what other people told him, specifically L.S., the local police, the softball coach, the other students, and the players at the scene. Thus, he argues that the State's case is completely based on hearsay. Nonetheless, even if less weight were given to some of the admissible statements the investigator relied upon, IT IS UNDISPUTED, under the totality of the circumstances, that J.S. never reached his destination on the day of the incident, and he was found by third parties on a locked bus sometime after 5:00 o'clock on the day of the incident, well after the normal drop off time for a student of his age.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION CRIMINAL HISTORY REVIEW UNIT ACTION (EDU 06479-18)

I now turn my attention to the second part of the case, wherein the Department of Education seeks a ruling of Summary Disposition to impose a six-month suspension of petitioner's school bus driver's "S" license, as a result of an Established finding of neglect for closing, parking and locking a school bus with a young child still inside.

This part of the case was deactivated by consent, while the first part of the case proceeded with testimony. At the time, a Consolidation Order was inadvertently not entered, which is being filed now as a pro forma matter, since it was always the intention to do so, when the deactivation occurred.

A motion for summary disposition may be granted if there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. Under that rule, "a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case. Further, "the decision sought may be rendered if there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged, and the movant is entitled to relief as a matter of law."

By analogy, the State suggests it is the equivalent of R. 4:46-2 regarding summary judgment and avoids unnecessary evidentiary hearings when there are no disputed issues of material fact. Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106 (App. Div. 1995). See also: Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995), wherein the New Jersey Supreme Court established that the key question is whether the evidence is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law.

Thus, the State argues here that because of the determination in the first part of the case that neglect was Established, it automatically follows that the six-month bus driving penalty privilege must be assessed, regardless of the suspension already imposed by the Bayonne School District, and the amount of time that elapsed from the offense, the Bayonne suspension and the decision. The State also wants this tribunal to ignore and argues petitioner's inability to fully renew his "S" license throughout this entire time is irrelevant to the mandates of the statute. I respectfully disagree, as this, in and of itself, presents a genuine issue of material fact that compels denial of the State's motion.

Essentially the State argues that regardless of the time in between and the related suspension by the District, and the fact that throughout this entire time, including a once-in-a-lifetime State emergency health shutdown, and the inability to be fingerprinted, a key component of being able to drive a school bus, strict interpretation of the law does not allow for any flexibility in penalty, and the clock must start fresh regardless of whether or not a penalty has already been served for the same offense. See: Garner v. N.J. Dept. of Educ. Crim Hist. Review Unit, OAL DKT. No. EDU 06655-085, Initial Decision, April 3, 2009) adopted, Comm'r Final Decision, (May 1, 2009).

To reinforce its position that the law is unambiguous on the issue of penalty, with four years having passed, two of which included a once in a lifetime pandemic when the State was either completely shut down, and/or legal proceedings were backed up or delayed, the State also cites: Graham v. New Jersey Dep't of Educ., Criminal History Review Unit, OAL DKT. No. EDU 08439-11 Initial Decision (December 15, 2011), adopted Agency DKT. No. 168-6/11, Final Decision (January 30, 2012) And see: Dacres v. N.J. Dept. of Educ. Crim. Hist. Review Unit, OAL DKT. No. EDU 04414-2010S, Initial Decision Feb. 7, 2011), adopted Comm'r Final Decision (Sept. 8, 2010). Thus, the State argues that a strict application of the statute requires the imposition of a six-month penalty, without any consideration of other factors. I respectfully disagree, as these facts warrant a ruling on the issue of penalty in favor of petitioner.

It is unfortunate that while the parties agreed from the outset that the two cases should be consolidated, this tribunal determined and agreed to deactivate the second part of the case involving the enforcement action by the Department of Education. That is no one's fault. No one could have foreseen a pandemic on the horizon, which effectively shut down the State and caused extensive delays in this case and others. But that does not mean the State should be allowed to "sleep on its rights" during this entire time, and then nonetheless demand petitioner still be forced to endure another hardship of another six months of not being able to perform his job duties, and now risk losing his position outright. The principles of equity and fundamental fairness that are inherent in our system of justice dictate otherwise.

Nonetheless, at the time the case was deactivated, no one would have anticipated that a pandemic would ensue, it was not the intention of doing so that the outcome of the first case, if the neglect determination was upheld, would automatically result in a strict construction finding four years after the local school district had already imposed its own suspension of more than six months.

Further, petitioner has certified and testified under oath that despite the State presenting an uncertified copy of his license which no one from the Motor Vehicle Services Commission or the CHRU came forward to explain, petitioner, who I deem credible based on his certification and testimony explained that regardless of one of the licenses still having the "S" designation on it, he still could not utilize it since the government agency responsible for taking his fingerprints and forwarding them to the CHRU, would not allow this process to go forward.

These actions, (or inactions) appear to be in direct contravention of the statute and petitioner's due process rights. While speculative, even if the Hoboken Board of Education continued to bar petitioner from driving students, other districts may have hired him pending the final disposition of this case. (Judicial notice is taken that once schools fully re-opened, many school district had and still have experienced problems hiring bus drivers to transport their students.) The actual impact of not allowing petitioner to proceed with fingerprinting amounts to a "de facto" suspension of his driving privileges which cannot be ignored and is the equivalent of double jeopardy.

The Double Jeopardy Clause of the Fifth amendment provides that no person shall "be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb." U.S. Const. amend V. The New Jersey Constitution contains a similar provision. "No person shall, after acquittal, be tried for the same offense." N.J Const. Art. I. Sect. 11. The New Jersey Supreme Court has consistently interpreted the State Constitution's double jeopardy protection as coextensive with the guarantee of the Federal Constitution. See: State v. Miles, 229 N.J. 83 (2017), State v. Schubert, 212 N.J. 295 (2012) and State v. Barnes, 84 N.J. 362. (1980). Although the language of the U.S. Constitution and the New Jersey Constitution differ, "they have come to be recognized as substantially coextensive in principle and scope." State v. Ebron, 61 N.J. 207 (1972).

The principle that no person is to be placed in jeopardy "more than once for the same offense" traces the roots to a variety of early sources. United States v. Wilson, 420 U.S. 332, 339-342 (1976). See also: State v. Currie, 41 N.J. 531. The Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution embodies the principle of common law double jeopardy protections and is binding on the states by virtue of the Fourteenth Amendment. State v. Ebron 61 N.J. 207 (1972), (citing Benton v. Maryland, 395 U.S. 784, (1969)).

Here, we have the Criminal History Review Unit, (CHRU) a Division of the Department of Education, seeking to impose a six-month license suspension against a party who has already been suspended from driving by his employer four years earlier and against whom a Finding of Established Child Neglect has been upheld. Throughout this entire time, petitioner has been unable to perform the job he was hired to do by the Hoboken Board of Education and has been unable to present himself for finger printing pending the outcome of both of these related cases against him. Were it not for the good graces of his employer during this time, who was able to utilize him as an equipment operator and courier which do not require the "S" designation, he would have been terminated. Now, having ironically received a thirty-day notice from the employer, the State seeks to enforce the six-month penalty, even after over forty-eight months where petitioner was prevented from working as a school bus driver. A sense of equity and fundamental fairness seems to compel a different outcome.

No one can be faulted for not having a crystal ball when the State made its request early in the proceedings for seeking to deactivate the second part of the case involving the license suspension, which petitioner and this tribunal agreed to. But it is undisputed that everything changed as of March 15, 2020, when the State, including all of its school and non-essential businesses, and its entire court system were shut down, due to a once-in-a-lifetime public emergency in accordance with Executive Order.

Even after court proceedings slowly opened for virtual hearing, a huge backlog of cases developed over time, which only now the system is starting to recover from. Thus, this case, which had been de-activated by the consent of the parties, remained in that status, and at no time did anyone on behalf of the State move to change the status, until the Initial Decision on the first part of the case was filed. At that time, the State asked for and was granted the opportunity to re-open the case and file this motion. However, the State contends that under the statute regarding suspensions, strict scrutiny must be applied, and there is no discretion or flexibility to look at the totality of the circumstances.

While the Department is technically correct that a six-month penalty of petitioner's "S" privileges should be imposed, petitioner raises a valid concern about what he refers to as a form of "civil double jeopardy" being penalized twice, consecutively for the same offense. Principles of fundamental fairness, due process and reasonable expectations are the underpinnings of our system which protects against second prosecutions and multiple punishments for the same offense. State v. Yoscowitz, 116 N.J. 679. That is exactly what the State seems to be doing here, regardless of the amount of time petitioner has been unable to work as a bus driver since the incident, and regardless of what appears to be actions taken by other State agencies during this period of time that prevented petitioner from regaining his bus driving privileges while his appeal was pending.

Prior to the first Supplemental Argument on November 2, 2022, petitioner submitted a Certification indicating that he had been rebuffed by the Motor Vehicle Services Commission several times when he tried with the hearing pending, to renew his S rider to his license so he could renew his bus driving duties. Throughout this entire time, the Hoboken Board of Education maintained petitioner's employment, even though he could not drive a school bus, and assigned him to drive other vehicles that did not involve the transportation of students.

Shortly thereafter, the State submitted a certified, but unexplained document which the Deputy Attorney General represented that it showed petitioner had an "S" endorsement throughout the time this matter was pending. It is important to indicate here that while the document the State submitted was certified as a Motor Vehicle Services Commission record, it is undisputed that there was no explanation attached to it by any official at the agency.

When the supplemental argument resumed on December 21, 2022, petitioner offered limited testimony to rebut the State's contentions about the status of his license. Petitioner testified that while he did not dispute that the letter "S" appeared on some of his earlier licenses before 2022, it had no meaning since he was barred by the State from completing the fingerprinting process, which is the final step to remain eligible to be a school bus driver. The only facts before me on this phase of the case are the facts put before me by way of Certification and testimony by the petitioner. No Certification or testimony was offered by the State, just a partial copy of petitioner's driving abstract, offered as a business record.

With his driving privileges still in limbo, on December 12, 2022, petitioner received formal written notice from his employer that his license with the "S" endorsement had to be reinstated within thirty (30) days in order to fully resume the functions of his job with the Hoboken Board of Education. Though not stated outright, the letter implies that if petitioner is not able to produce a fully approved "S" endorsement, it is likely his employment will end.

In its argument that the mandatory six-month license suspension should still be imposed, the State argues that the decision in the first case sustaining the Established finding of neglect, is irrelevant (emphasis added) to the second proceeding which was initiated by the Department of Education, CHRU unit.

For the reasons set forth herein, I RESPECTFULLY DISAGREE. Petitioner was unable to drive a school bus for at least the past four years. It is also undisputed that the employer, the Hoboken Board of Education, has kept petitioner on as an employee, even though he has been unable to do the work he was hired to do.

Also undisputed is that even if an individual is able to secure an "S" endorsement, fingerprints are a prerequisite to activating the "S" endorsement. I accept petitioner's testimony and his representation by way of Certification that despite repeated efforts, he was unable to do so. It is also undisputed that were it not for a once-in-a-lifetime extended State shutdown due to a serious health emergency, this case would have been heard, completed and decided long ago.

Although this is not a criminal case, it is important to understand here that the agency seeking to now impose a six-month license suspension is the Criminal History Review Unit of the Department of Education. As such, by seeking to now invoke an additional penalty against petitioner, after he has already accountable for the underlying incident is akin to a double jeopardy violation.

A property interest in a public sector job arises when the employee has "a legitimate entitlement to continued employment as determined by the laws of the state in which they work. Elmore v. Cleary, 399 F.3rd 279 (3rd Cir. 2005) (citing Bd. of Regents of State v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564 (1972)). Though petitioner may not be a Civil Service employee, he is employed by the Hoboken Board of Education which is a public entity.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has a property interest in his position as a school bus driver for the Hoboken Board of Education. I FURTHER CONCLUDE that the four-year period of time from the inception of the underlying incident and for all of the foregoing reasons set forth herein, including the fact that petitioner was denied the right to be fingerprinted which is a prerequisite for an individual driving children on a bus, constitutes a denial of petitioner's due process rights. I THEREFORE CONCLUDE, that taking all of these factors into account, and balancing the equities which are an inherent part of our system of justice, with petitioner now potentially facing permanent termination of his job as evidenced by a letter recently issued by his employer, it would be an undue hardship and unjust for the Department of Education to impose a license suspension of six months, thereby further preventing R.R. from making a living in his chosen occupation.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the earlier determination of Established Neglect is Affirmed, and with all of the facts having already been presented by both parties and no further hearing being necessary, it is further ORDERED, that the State's Motion for Summary Disposition seeking imposition of a six month license suspension is Denied, and petitioner having already served the equivalent of a six month penalty for more than four years, any further penalty would constitute a hardship and a violation of petitioner's due process rights. I THERFORE ORDER, that on the issue of penalty, on procedural and substantive due process grounds, and as a matter of fundamental fairness and to avoid an undue hardship, no further hearing is warranted and a ruling in favor of petitioner is appropriate that no suspension should be imposed. The matter should now be deemed closed.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER OF LEGAL REGULATORY AND LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS, of the DEPARTMENT OF CHILDREN AND FAMILIES and THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION respectively for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by either of the ASSISTANT COMMISSIONERS OF LEGAL REGULATORY AND LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Assistant Commissioner of Legal Regulatory and Legislative Affairs, does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER OF LEGAL REGULATORY AND LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS, DEPARTMENT OF CHILDREN AND FAMILIES, 50 East State Street, 5th Floor, PO Box 717, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0717, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering its final decision ASSISTANT COMMISSIONERS OF LEGAL REGULATORY AND LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS respectively shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its final decision, to the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, which may subsequently render a final decision on any remaining issues and consider any specific remedies which may be within its grant of authority.

Also upon transmitting the record, the ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER OF LEGAL REGULATORY AND LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c), request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION within forty-five days of the predominant-agency decision. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not render a final decision within the extended time, this recommended decision on the remaining issues and remedies shall become the final decision.

Final Decision

Jamie Sebastian,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education,
State Board of Examiners,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro-se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent New Jersey State Board of Examiners (SBE) that she had not met the requirements for issuance of a Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant (LDT-C) endorsement because she lacked twenty-one (21) graduate credits needed to obtain the endorsement. Petitioner argued that her alternative education and experience satisfied a one-to-one-correspondence to the missing credits, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12(b). The SBE found that petitioner's experience was geared toward special education instruction and not to the roles and responsibilities of someone serving in the role of a consultant, which is an educational services certificate, rather than an instructional or administrative certificate.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the issue in this case is whether petitioner satisfied her burden of demonstrating, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the SBE acted in a manner that was arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law when it determined not to accept petitioner's alternative education to satisfy the remaining requirements that petitioner needed to receive the LDT-C endorsement; N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.10 sets forth the requirements for issuance of this certificate; the SBE determined that petitioner did not satisfy the requirements for certification because she lacks twenty-one (21) graduate credits and her alternative education and experience was not deemed equivalent to satisfy that deficiency; and petitioner failed to establish that the SBE's decision to deny her application for the LDT-C endorsement was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the SBE's decision and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that: the petition of appeal in this matter was filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3, not N.J.A.C. 6A:4; the ALJ mistakenly applied the wrong standard of review in the Initial Decision, stating that the SBE's decision will not be overturned unless the petitioner proves that the SBE acted in a manner that was arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law; the appropriate standard of review here is whether the SBE's decision was consistent with the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3; nonetheless, the record of this matter demonstrates that the petitioner did not complete the required course work and that the SBE's decision to deny her application was consistent with the applicable regulatory provisions. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was modified with respect to the appropriate standard of review and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Jamie Sebastian,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education,
State Board of Examiners,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

In this matter, petitioner challenges the New Jersey State Board of Examiners' (Board) denial of her application for a Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant (LDT-C) certificate. The Board denied petitioner's application because she was missing twenty-one (21) graduate credits required for the endorsement. Petitioner argued that her alternative education and experience satisfied a one-to-one-correspondence to the missing credits, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12(b). The Board found that petitioner's experience was geared toward special education instruction and not to the roles and responsibilities of someone serving in the role of a consultant, which is an educational services certificate, rather than an instructional or administrative certificate. Following a motion to dismiss, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner did not meet requirements for an LDT-C Certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.10.

As a threshold matter, a discussion of the applicable standard of review for petitions of appeal that are filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:3 is necessary. When there is a challenge to a determination made by an office within the Department of Education, the Commissioner is not mandated to give deference to her staff, but instead determines if the finding was legally appropriate. See, Board of Trustees of the Passaic County Elks Cerebral Palsy Center v. New Jersey Dept. of Educ., Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance, Commissioner's Decision No. 334-14, dated August 14, 2014 (finding that a decision of the Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance is not given deference by the Commissioner). Moreover, where the Department of Education has limited the scope of review of a subordinate office or division, it has done so by regulation, i.e. appeals filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:4 challenging a decision of the State Board of Examiners revoking/suspending a certificate, or a decision of the School Ethics Commission.

In the Initial Decision, the ALJ mistakenly referenced N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a), applied deference to the Board, and stated that the Board's decision in this case would not be overturned unless the petitioner proves that the Board acted in a manner that was arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law. It is important to recognize that a decision by the Board denying an application for a certificate is not entitled to the arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review that is afforded to appeals filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:4, challenging a decision of the Board revoking or suspending a certificate. See, Jessica Walder v. New Jersey Department of Education, State Board of Examiners, Commissioner's Decision No. 503-14, decided December 29, 2014 (finding that the Commissioner does not give deference to a decision of the State Board of Examiners denying a request for issuance of a certificate). The petition of appeal in this matter was filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3, which consists of completely different regulatory provisions than N.J.A.C. 6A:4; these two Administrative Code Sections should never be conflated. As such, the standard of review that governs appeals filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:4 does not apply to this case. Therefore, the appropriate standard of review of the Boards' decision is whether the decision is consistent with the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions.

Upon review of the record and applying the appropriate standard of review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's ultimate determination that petitioner has not met the requirements for an LDT-C Certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.10. As the ALJ noted, while there are similarities between the job description for the position petitioner performed in Georgia and the requirements for an LDT-C Certificate, the Georgia job description included more teacher-related duties. The limited amount of collaboration required by the Georgia job does not rise to the level of consultant experience that would be sufficient to meet the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.10.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is modified with respect to the appropriate standard of review and the petition is hereby dismissed.

JAMIE SEBASTIAN,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,
Respondent.

Jamie Sebastian, petitioner, pro se

Sydney Finkelstein, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Matthew J. Platkin, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: January 9, 2023 Decided: February 23, 2023

BEFORE KIM C. BELIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Jamie Sebastian appeals the decision to deny her application for a Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant (LDT-C) endorsement by the State Board of Examiners (Board of Examiners or respondent). The Board of Examiners contends that the petitioner lacked twenty-one graduate credits required for the endorsement.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 16, 2021, the Board of Examiners denied the petitioner's application for an LDT-C endorsement. Petitioner filed a petition appealing this decision on January 14, 2022. The Department of Education (DOE) transmitted this matter as a contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on March 4, 2022. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On February 24, 2022, respondent filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g). During a conference call on April 25, 2022, petitioner requested and was granted until June 1, 2022, to seek legal representation. On June 1, 2022, petitioner affirmed her desire to proceed without counsel and this tribunal set a briefing schedule. Petitioner submitted her response on June 27, 2022, in accordance with the briefing schedule and the respondent filed a reply brief on July 13, 2022. The respondent's motion was denied on August 15, 2022.

A hearing was held on October 27, 2022. The record was held open for receipt of transcripts and post-hearing summations. Post-hearing summations were received on January 9, 2023, and the record closed on that date.

serves a member of the Intervention and Referral Service Team in the Toms River School District.

8. Petitioner was granted an emergency LTD-C certificate which is good for one year and can be extended twice.

Testimony

For petitioner

Kelly Umbach (Umbach) has been a supervisor of special education for six years in the Toms River School District. She has oversight of the child study team (CST) and supervised the petitioner directly. Umbach stated that petitioner was qualified for the LDT-C position based upon her prior experience in Georgia. Petitioner is using the emergency certificate and is performing as a strong LDT-C. Petitioner has written strong Individualized Education Plans (IEP) and has filled all expectations. Umbach hired petitioner.

Dana Weber (Weber) has been a supervisor of special education for four years and was a LDT-C for ten years with the Toms River School District. She has oversight of teachers and programs from kindergarten through grade twelve. Weber observed petitioner this past school year. Petitioner has written IEPs, done case management, re-evaluation meetings and conducted testing. Petitioner has fulfilled the role of LDT-C and has been a valuable resource, and a key person on the CST. Petitioner has given recommendations and strategies including behavioral strategies, supported the administration within the schools and worked well with others. Weber believed petitioner was fully qualified to be a LDT-C.

For respondent

Rani Singh (Singh) has been the Director of Certification since 2019, and also served as secretary to the Board of Examiners during that time. She has a bachelor's degree in biology from Rutgers University. She has oversight over all education certificate applications. As of May 31, 2022, a new application system was installed and implemented in which applicants submitted an application, paid a fee and signed an oath. Once all the documents were received, the case was assigned to an examiner for review. If documents were missing, the examiner contacted the applicant with a notice outlining what was still needed.

Petitioner was missing twenty-one graduate credits. Singh was not the original examiner, however, she reviewed the credential appeal packet and agreed that twenty-one graduate credits were needed. Accordingly, petitioner's application was denied, and she appealed. The Board of Examiners denied her appeal because the Board of Examiners found petitioner's experience was instructional based and not consultant based. Although petitioner completed an additional class since filing her application the additional class was not sufficient to issue a standard certificate, however, the additional class was sufficient to issue an emergency certificate. The emergency certificate was good for one year and could be renewed twice.

Because the LDT-C certificate is unique to New Jersey, there is no reciprocity with any other state. Petitioner can re-apply because applicants are given six months to complete their applications.

Additional Findings

The finder of the facts must determine the credibility of the witnesses before making a decision. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness' testimony. Credibility is best described as that quality of testimony or evidence that makes it worthy of belief. "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observations of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). To assess credibility, the fact finder should consider the witness' interest in the outcome, motive, or bias; the accuracy of the witness' recollection; the witness' ability to know what s/he is talking about; the reasonableness of the testimony; the witness' demeanor when testifying; the witness' candor or evasion; and the presence of inconsistent or contradictory statements. A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp, 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

The fact finder must weigh the testimony of each witness and then determine the weight to give to it. Through this process, the fact finder may accept all of it, a portion of it or none of it. Based upon the testimonial and documentary evidence, I FIND the following as additional FACTS: Petitioner testified credibly and earnestly about her teaching experience in Georgia which she believed was comparable to the duties of an LDT-C in New Jersey. In addition, she clearly articulated her passion for students with disabilities. I further FIND that petitioner has received numerous accolades for her job performance while in Georgia and currently in New Jersey and is a valued asset to her supervisors.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The New Jersey State Board of Examiners has established a certificate system requiring "any person employed as a teaching staff member by a district board of education shall hold a valid and appropriate certificate." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(a). There are three types of certificates — instructional, administrative, and educational services. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.3(a). In addition to certificates, the Board of Examiners has provided for special endorsements that attach to a specific certificate. This qualifies an individual to teach in a particular area based upon the endorsement on the certificate.

A LDT-C is an endorsement under the educational services certificate. The requirements to obtain a LDT-C endorsement are outlined in N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.10(c) which mandates:

(b) To be eligible for the standard educational services certificate with a learning disabilities teacher-consultant endorsement, a candidate shall:

1. Hold a master's or higher degree from a regionally accredited college or university;
2. Hold a standard New Jersey or out-of-State instructional certificate; and
3. Have three years of successful teaching experience.

(c) A candidate who satisfies (b) above also shall complete one of the following:

1. A Department-approved graduate program for the preparation of learning disabilities teacher-consultants;
2. A consultant-level master's degree in educational disabilities from a nationally accredited program; or
3. A minimum of 24 semester-hour graduate credits chosen from the areas listed below. The candidate shall complete the requirements in (c)3i through ix below and may take elective credits in any area in (c)3i through x below.

i. Education of students with disabilities, including study in history of the development of educational services for children in each area of exceptionality; study of present services, research, and professional ethics dealing with the characteristics of children who differ from the norm intellectually, physically, socially, and emotionally; evaluation of present practices in the education of students with disabilities; study of the relationship of educational practices and their environmental settings; and cultural and linguistic diversity;

ii. Learning theory, including study in motivation and its effect on learning; leading theories of learning; rewards and incentives; and interests and climate for learning;

iii. Remediation of basic skills, including study in research-based corrective methods and materials as related to specific diagnostic findings, NJSLS requirements, and the school and classroom environment;

iv. Physiological bases for learning, including study of the neurological development and physical readiness of the normal child for learning; abnormal health conditions that contribute to educational disability; and metabolic and infectious disorders that affect learning;

v. Orientation in psychological testing, including study of an overview of tests applicable to educational psychology; interpretation of psychological reports as applied to tests administered; the appropriate use of tests and the potential misuse of test results; and test construction theory;

vi. Diagnosis of learning problems, including study of the nature and cause of learning problems; formulating an evaluation plan for educational assessments; administering and interpreting technically sound and culturally responsive standardized instruments and functional assessment procedures to determine educational levels, underlying deficits, and learning style; methods of arriving at a diagnosis based on evidence available from each child study team (CST) member; and ways of reporting diagnostic findings;

vii. Accommodations and modifications as a method of providing service to children with learning problems, including utilization of validated methods for adapting instruction for diverse learning needs; technology for students with disabilities; understanding of accommodations and modifications in curriculum, materials, methods, classroom structures, and assessment; utilization of the individualized education plan (IEP) and the NJSLS accommodation and modification; methods to enhance social relationships and positive behavior methods; focus on the inclusive classroom environment; legal issues related to the CST's responsibilities, including the requirements of a free appropriate public education, least restrictive environment, the determination of eligibility, and IEP development;

viii. Collaboration theory and practice, including theory and process of conducting collaborations; establishing collaborative partnerships between general and special educators, with parents and families, and with paraprofessionals; methods of co-teaching, including in-class support and classroom consultation; preparation for participating in a multidisciplinary CST setting with opportunities for modeling and participation in team staffings and parent conferences; opportunities to observe, rehearse, and present results from evaluations in practice sessions;

> ix. A college-supervised, consultant-level practicum in diagnosis and remediation of educational disabilities in school and clinical situations. The definition and nature of this practicum, and the courses in which it will be provided, should be clear in the program description. The practicum shall provide for a minimum of 90 clock hours of college-supervised experience. The practicum shall not be a student-teaching experience; and > x. Elective study chosen from areas such as group dynamics; methods and materials for teaching students with disabilities; curriculum development in the teaching of students with disabilities; teaching of reading; assistive/adaptive technology; interviewing and counseling; educational psychology; and community resources.

Here, it is uncontroverted that petitioner held a master's degree from a regionally accredited college or university, held a New Jersey or out-of-state instructional certificate and had three years of successful teaching experience. However, the Board of Examiners determined that petitioner lacked twenty-one of the twenty-four graduate credits required. In its denial, the Board of Examiners stated that petitioner:

> did not establish a compelling one-to-one correspondence between the LDT-C requirements and her experience and education. The LDT-C [endorsement] is an education service certificate rather than instructional or administrative and it authorizes its holder, specifically, to serve as a consultant rather than a classroom teacher. (R-2 at 2.)

The Board of Examiners acknowledged petitioner's "extensive experience and education" but stated "it was primarily geared towards special education instruction. The Board finds that she would benefit from the coursework geared to the roles and responsibilities of one serving in the role of consultant rather than instructor." Id.

Conversely, the petitioner contends that her work experience consisting of seven years as a special education teacher in Georgia, her current employment with the Toms River School District and academic coursework substantiate that she fulfilled responsibilities as a consultant, as well as a teacher for the past ten years and thus she is qualified for the LDT-C endorsement. (Petitioner's Appeal Petition.) In addition, since the date of the Board of Examiners denial, she completed a class in psychological testing which supplements her educational achievement list, collaborated with a licensed LDT-C, and worked as an "interventionist to support the staff with the implementation of modifications and accommodations" for the students. (Petitioner's response to the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss.)

Petitioner carries the burden of demonstrating by a preponderance of the credible evidence that she is entitled to the certifications she seeks. Farrar v. State Bd. of Exam'rs, EDU 13763-08, Initial Decision (April 27, 2010), aff'd, Comm'r (July 26, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. The Commissioner will "not disturb the decision [of the Examiners] unless the appellant has demonstrated that the Board [of Examiners] or the Commissioner acted in a manner that was arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law." N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1; Farrar, supra, EDU 13763-08 (citing Fisher v. State Bd. of Exam'rs, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 58). Where there is room for two opinions, action is not considered arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though the court may believe that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. Bayshore Sewerage Co. v. Dep't of Envt'l Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199 (App. Div. 1973). Petitioner has not offered any additional evidence that was not considered by the Board, nor has she alleged any facts establishing that the Board of Examiners clearly erred in denying her application for the LDT-C endorsement after review of those documents. She simply disagrees with the conclusion drawn by the Board of Examiners after exercising its discretion. Hutchinson v. Bd. of Examiners, EDU 16373-12, 2013 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 73, *15.

A review of the Georgia and New Jersey job descriptions show similarities in duties; however, the Georgia job description included more teacher related duties such as "maintain[ing] lesson plans, compil[ing], maintain[ing] and submit[ing] accurate paperwork within designated timelines, demonstrates prompt and regular attendance." (R-1.) Although the Georgia job description required petitioner to collaborate with general education teachers and other staff, the Board of Examiners was not persuaded that petitioner engaged in sufficient consultation duties. I must defer to the expertise of the Board of Examiners absent a showing that the decision was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not met her burden of demonstrating that the Board of Examiners' decision was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, and that the petition of appeal must be dismissed. It is regrettable that petitioner was led to believe that her application would be approved with just the submission of her transcripts, however, the Board of Examiners is the entity authorized to issue or refuse to issue certificates.[2] N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-3.2(a).

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that the State Board of Examiners' denial of the petitioner's LDT-C endorsement is AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[2] It is noted that petitioner is not precluded from re-applying for the LDT-C endorsement or requesting an additional review by the Board of Examiners considering her additional experience working under the emergency certificate.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Synopsis

In this matter on remand, pro se petitioners appealed the determination of the respondent Board that their minor children were not entitled to a free public education in the South Brunswick School District during the 2021-2022 school year. The Board contended that, based on the results of residency investigations, petitioners do not live at the address provided on the children's school registration. The Board sought reimbursement for the cost of tuition for the period of E.M. and I.M.'s ineligible attendance. In a decision issued on September 21, 2022, the Commissioner determined that petitioners failed to prove that they were domiciled within the district during the 2021-2022 school year and therefore were not entitled to a free public education in the district's school during that time. However, the Commissioner noted that the record did not provide sufficient information to accurately determine the amount of tuition owed by petitioners for the period of ineligible attendance. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to the OAL for further proceedings to calculate the per diem tuition and number of days of ineligible attendance, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

On remand, the ALJ found that: the petitioners did not sustain their burden of proving that E.M. and I.M. were domiciled in South Brunswick during the period in question; accordingly, the minor children were ineligible to attend school in the district for the entire 2021-22 school year; and the Board submitted a certification setting forth the per diem tuition rate at $72.01. The ALJ concluded that the Board was entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $25,922 ($12,961 for each child) for the 2021-22 school year.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, with modification to the total tuition due. Petitioner was directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $25,923.60 for tuition costs incurred during the period that E.M. and I.M. were ineligible to attend school in South Brunswick. The petition of appeal was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision on Remand

M.M. and A.M, on behalf of minor children, E.M. and I.M.,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of South Brunswick, Middlesex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, mindful of the Commissioner's September 26, 2022, decision remanding this residency matter for calculation of the per diem tuition and the number of days of ineligible attendance. The parties did not file exceptions.

In her September 2022 decision, the Commissioner found that petitioners were not domiciled in South Brunswick during the 2021-22 school year and the minor children were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the district during that time. With respect to the assessment of tuition, the Commissioner found that the Board may recover tuition "computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. As the record did not contain sufficient information to calculate the per diem tuition, nor did it contain evidence as to whether the minor children attended school in South Brunswick for the entire 2021-22 school year, the Commissioner remanded this matter for calculation of tuition consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

On remand, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the minor children were ineligible to attend school in the district for the entire 2021-22 school year. The ALJ noted that the Board submitted a certification setting forth the per diem rate at $72.01. Accordingly, the ALJ found that the Board was entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $25,922 ($12,961 for each child) for the 2021-22 school year.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement for the entire 2021-22 school year, during which time the minor children were ineligible to attend school in the district. However, the Commissioner finds that the tuition calculation for that period is $25,923.60 ($72.01 per day for 180 days, totaling $12,961.80 for each child).[1]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is modified as to the tuition calculation. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $25,923.60 for tuition costs incurred during the period that E.M. and I.M. were ineligible to attend school in South Brunswick. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Record Closed: December 8, 2022 Decided: January 10, 2023

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners M.M. and A.M., on behalf of minor children, E.M. and I.M., appeal the decision of respondent Township of South Brunswick Board of Education, Middlesex County (Board) that E.M. and I.M. were not eligible to attend the South Brunswick Township Public Schools in the 2021–2022 school year. Petitioners also seek a ruling that they are not responsible to pay tuition for E.M. and I.M. for the 2021–2022 school year in the amount of $12,961 for each child.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 4, 2022, petitioners filed a pro se residency appeal with the Office of Controversies and Disputes of the New Jersey Department of Education. On May 2, 2022, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On June 28, 2022, the parties appeared for a prehearing telephone conference, during which the hearing was scheduled for July 20, 2022. A prehearing order was issued on June 30, 2022.

On July 20, 2022, the hearing was conducted using Zoom Communications, Inc., a remote audio/video platform licensed by the OAL for use during the public health emergency in which the Governor of the State of New Jersey issued Emergency Orders mandating stay-at-home protocols for citizens and public employees (COVID-19). Petitioners, who speak Russian and are not fluent in English, were assisted throughout the proceedings, including the hearing, by Natalia Sorokina, a Russian language interpreter. The record closed on July 20, 2022, and on August 15, 2022, an initial decision was issued finding for respondent on all issues.

As set forth in her Decision of September 26, 2022, the Acting Commissioner of Education adopted the findings of fact and conclusions of law of the initial decision and ordered that the matter be remanded to the OAL for the calculation of the total amount of tuition that petitioners are responsible to pay for their children's attendance in Monmouth Junction Elementary School. On November 30, 2022, respondent submitted the Certification of David Pawlowski to support the tuition assessment. Petitioners responded by letter dated December 7, 2022, received on December 8, 2022, and the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The issues in dispute are whether the M. family, mother and two minor children,[1] resided at Bernini Way, Monmouth Junction, New Jersey, within the geographic area served by the South Brunswick Township School District (District), during the 2021–2022 school year and if not, the amount of tuition owed by petitioners to respondent for the 2021–2022 school year.[2]

To properly address the remand order, it is necessary to clarify the dates in which E.M. and I.M. attended Monmouth Junction Elementary School during the 2021–2022 school year, and the costs of their attendance.

At the hearing, respondent presented three witnesses; A.M. testified on behalf of petitioners. In response to the remand order, respondent submitted the Certification of David Pawlowski (Pawlowski), Business Administrator. The following is not a verbatim recitation of the testimony but a summary of the testimonial and documentary evidence that I found relevant to the above issues.

TESTIMONY

Suzanne Luck-Born (Luck-Born), District Director of Student Assessment and Instructional Support, testified on behalf of respondent. She has been employed by the District for twenty-six years in various positions, the last eleven in her current position. Luck-Born is responsible for the Registration Department, including oversight of two

[1] A.M., the father of the two minor children involved in this matter, stated that he lives in Brooklyn, New York, apart from his wife and children.

[2] E.M. has attended school in the District continuously since the 2018–2019 school year and I.M. has attended school in the District continuously since the 2020–2021 school year.

Central Registrars who register new families and coordinate registrations with the Transportation and Buildings Departments.

On September 13, 2021, shortly after the school year began, Luck-Born received an email from the Director of Transportation stating that Mickey Guzman (Guzman), the Community Manager of the Villagio South Brunswick Homeowners Association (Villagio HOA), objected to District buses entering the Villagio community as it is an age-restricted community in which school-aged children are not permitted. (R-1.)[3] According to the District records, the M. children resided in the Villagio community at Bernini Way, but the lease M.M. had provided to the District as proof of residency had expired. Luck-Born or her staff contacted petitioners and requested updated residency documents, which M.M. hand-delivered on September 14, 2021, including a lease for July 1, 2021, through July 1, 2023, for Bernini Way.

On September 21, 2021, Luck-Born retained a private investigator, Patrick O'Brien (O'Brien), to conduct a residency investigation. Luck-Born identified the report generated by O'Brien, in which he concluded that the M. family was not residing at Bernini Way. (R-2.) Using this report, Luck-Born told her supervisor that as a result of the investigation, the District had no basis to conclude that E.M. and I.M. lived at Bernini Way, but the M. family may have been residing at Drinking Brook Road, another location within the township.[4] Luck-Born identified the "system-generated" letter sent to petitioners on December 17, 2021, stating that the District does not "accept students" from the Villagio address, but they could provide proof of residency at the alternate location. (R-3.)

[3] Luck-Born identified this summary of the residency investigation conducted in this matter, which she wrote. She stated that this document was provided to Board of Education members prior to the M. family hearing. Not all communications described in this document were written but all were corroborated by later writings and/or action taken in response.

[4] The District operates seven elementary schools. The two addresses at issue here, Bernini Way and Drinking Brook Road, are within the geographic boundaries for different elementary schools. There was no evidence presented as to why the M. family would prefer one school over another, other than because their children were already attending the first school and because they stated that they do not live within the geographic boundaries of the second school. See, P-6.

On January 10, 2022, Luck-Born sent a letter to petitioners stating that E.M. and I.M. are not eligible to attend the District schools because:

> • Petitioners failed "to provide requested documentation that satisfies the residency requirements as outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1[.]"
>
> • "Based upon an investigation by [the District's] Residency Officer," the District determined that the M. family "is not residing at Bernini Way[.]"
>
> • "The 55 and Older Community" in which Bernini Way is located "does not use [the District's] schools due to the age restriction of residents."

On January 26, 2022, petitioners sent a letter to Luck-Born disputing the findings of the investigation, claiming that the District was discriminating against them, and stating that if the District was unwilling to permit the children to complete the year in the District, they would "be forced to go to court and appeal your decision, as well as file a lawsuit for persecution and discrimination." (R-5.) A Board hearing was scheduled and, in the interim, the District hired Prime Source Investigators to obtain a second opinion and more recent information.

On two days in February 2022, the investigator from Prime Source parked outside Bernini Way from 6:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m., and he reported seeing no activity at the house during those hours. (R-8.) Further, in response to a request from District Superintendent Scott Feder (Feder), Guzman provided excerpts from the Villagio HOA governing documents, which make clear that no children under the age of nineteen are permitted to reside in a home in the community. (R-6.)

On February 10, 2022, respondent held a hearing at which petitioners appeared and gave testimony. On February 14, 2022, Feder sent a final notice of ineligibility to petitioners, which described the basis for the decision of respondent that petitioners' children are not domiciled at Bernini Way and are not eligible to attend school in the District. (P-3.) Petitioners were again given the opportunity to provide proof of residency at Drinking Brook Road. In this notice, respondent stated that they would be responsible for tuition for each child in the amount of $72 per day, or $12,961 per year.

Petitioners did not provide additional information to respondent. This appeal followed.

David Pawlowski, Business Administrator, certified that the per pupil tuition for a non-resident elementary school student in the District schools during the 2021–2022 school year was $12,961, and the per diem rate was $72.01. Certification of David Pawlowski (November 23, 2022), ¶ 2. Both E.M. and I.M. attended Monmouth Junction Elementary School for the entirety of the 2021–2022 school year. Id., ¶ 3. The combined, per pupil non-resident "elementary school tuition rate for both E.M. and I.M. to attend school at Monmouth Junction Elementary School for the entire 2021–2022 school year was $25,922." Id., ¶ 5.

Patrick J. O'Brien, testified on behalf of respondent. He spent twenty-five years on the South Brunswick Police Department, five as an investigator. From December 2011, through December 2021, O'Brien served as the District Residency Investigator. During this time, he estimates that he handled over one-hundred residency investigations, in cases in which "the Board had reason to believe that non-resident children were attending school" in the District.

O'Brien identified the report he prepared on his investigation of the M. family who were allegedly living at Bernini Way. (R-2.) He began on September 21, 2021, by conducting internet research. He was able to confirm the house at Bernini Way was purchased in 2009 by Charles and Maria Lichtenstein.[5]

O'Brien stated that on September 24, 2021, he arrived at Bernini Way at 7:30 a.m., and stayed one hour, during which he saw no activity, no cars, no lights on inside the house, and no children or adults leaving the house. (R-2.)

[5] Maria Lichtenstein is the landlord on the leases M.M. signed for Bernini Way. (P-6, P-7, P-8.) On each lease, Lichtenstein uses Bernini Way as her address for notices.

On October 15, 2021, O'Brien arrived at Bernini Way at 8:15 a.m. and saw an open second floor window. At 8:23 a.m., a silver SUV with New Jersey license plates pulled into the driveway and when the garage door was opened remotely, drove into the garage. O'Brien described the driver as an adult male in his 60's; he stated that A.M., who was present by Zoom during O'Brien's testimony, was not the man he saw driving the SUV. At 8:26 a.m., O'Brien saw an adult female walking inside the house from the first to the second floor. O'Brien described the adult female as in her 60's; he stated that M.M., who was present by Zoom during O'Brien's testimony, was not the woman he saw in the house.

On November 29, 2021, O'Brien arrived at Bernini Way at 7:32 a.m. and saw the same second floor window open. He saw no cars or other activity. He drove to the elementary school where the M. children were attending. While he was told by staff that M.M. usually drove her children to school and parked in the rear lot, he did not see M.M. or the children that morning.

On November 29, 2021, O'Brien drove past Bernini Way at 7:50 a.m., observed no cars, and proceeded to the elementary school. At 8:45 a.m., a woman driving a white SUV with New Jersey license plates parked in a spot in the rear lot. The car came from the direction opposite of where it would travel if coming from Bernini Way. The woman walked two students, one male and one female into the school, returned to her car, and proceeded to Drinking Brook Road, parking in the driveway.

On November 30, 2021, O'Brien arrived at Drinking Brook Road at 8:25 a.m., and observed the same white SUV parked in the driveway. He saw the lights go on in the car at 8:45 a.m. O'Brien drove to the elementary school, saw the same white SUV drive in from the same route and park in the rear lot at 8:54 a.m. O'Brien left and went to Drinking Brook Road. The same white SUV returned at 9:06 a.m. and parked in the driveway. On Saturday, December 11, 2021, O'Brien saw the same white SUV parked in the driveway at Drinking Brook Road.

O'Brien stated that on each occasion he went to Bernini Way, he never saw children, whether at the home or in the neighborhood, and never saw signs of children such as toys or bicycles. He concluded that based on his investigation, there are no grounds to believe that the M. family resided at Bernini Way.[6]

Austin Lindsay (Lindsay) testified on behalf of respondent. Since 2018, he has been a field investigator with Prime Source Investigators and in this position, has conducted over one thousand investigations. In a typical residency investigation, he is briefed by the client and given an address to surveil, and reports back with a description of the residence, any vehicles present, and any activity that he observes.

Lindsay identified the report he wrote regarding the investigation he conducted on Bernini Way. (R-8.) On February 3, 2022, Lindsay arrived at Bernini Way at 6:00 a.m. Knowing that school started at 8:55 a.m., and that the children involved were young and likely woke up early, Lindsay wanted an early start. He described Bernini Way as a large home with a two-car garage, located in a cul-de-sac in a nice neighborhood. By the time he left at 10:00 a.m., Lindsay had seen no activity at the house, no lights inside the house going on, no doors opening, no vehicles departing.

On February 4, 2022, Lindsay arrived at Bernini Way at 6:00 a.m., and stayed until 10:00 a.m. Again, he saw no activity, no lights going on, no vehicles. As shown on a video Lindsay took of the residence, one light above the interior staircase was on when he arrived, and it turned off at 8:05 a.m., without any other lights going on. (R-10.) Lindsay concluded that this light was on a timer. Lindsay saw no children at Bernini Way, nor in the neighborhood, and saw no school buses (though both February 3 and 4, 2022 were school days). He concluded that the M. family does not live at Bernini Way.

A.M. testified on behalf of petitioners. He stated that he and M.M. decided to live separately[7] but continue to parent their children together. In 2018, M.M. and the children moved to Monmouth Junction to live with M.M.'s aunt, Maria Lichtenstein (Lichtenstein), and M.M.'s mother.

[6] O'Brien further concluded that the family resided at Drinking Brook Road, but respondent offered no further evidence to support this theory.
[7] A.M. did not say whether he and M.M. are divorced.

Lichtenstein lives at Bernini Way with her husband, M.M. and the children. M.M.'s mother, who was not named, lives at Drinking Brook Road. M.M.'s mother is quite old and sickly and cannot be with the children all the time, but the children do stay with her from time to time. The dates chosen by the investigators to surveil Bernini Way are all days on which the children stayed with their grandmother.

In 2018, petitioners took E.M. to register at Monmouth Junction Elementary School. They were told what documents were required for registration and provided all required documents, including the lease between Lichtenstein and M.M. for Bernini Way.[8] At the same time, petitioners told the registrar that they did not need transportation for E.M. because they lived in the Villagio, and school buses are not allowed in the community.

Each successive year, from 2019 through 2021, petitioners submitted all required documents to the registrar and each year, petitioners told the registrar that they did not need transportation for E.M., and eventually for both children. In 2021, someone in the school system made a mistake and sent the bus to Bernini Way.

A.M. stated that respondent did not prove that M.M. and the children do not live at Bernini Way; just because the HOA rules forbid children does not mean the family does not live there. M.M. pays rent to Lichtenstein, as provided in the lease. When asked to provide proof of payment of rent, A.M. stated that they pay in cash some months and did not have documentary proof of non-cash payments.

DISCUSSION

To the extent that testimony given by petitioner and the other witnesses is in conflict or inconsistent, the credibility of their testimony must be assessed. Credibility is best described as that quality of testimony or evidence which makes it worthy of belief. The Supreme Court of New Jersey considered the issue of credibility in In Re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514 (1950). The Court pronounced:

[8] Petitioners also introduced copies of M.M.'s federal tax return, her New Jersey driver's license, and her bank account statements, all of which show her address as Bernini Way. (P-6 through P-20.)

> Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances.

See also, Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, (1954), State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6 (App. Div.1955).

In order to assess credibility, the witness' interest in the outcome, motive or bias should be considered. Furthermore, a trier-of-fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony, or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura- Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Luck-Born, O'Brien and Lindsay were all credible witnesses. They spoke without emotion about routine matters they took on in the course of their employment. While I question the limitations of O'Brien's investigation — he did not have proof that the children he saw with the woman in the white SUV were actually E.M. and I.M. — respondent did not pursue the alternate theory, that the M. family was living at Drinking Brook Road. It was enough that neither investigator saw any children, or even a woman of M.M.'s age, at Bernini Way.

There is no dispute that the Villagio HOA rules forbid children under the age of nineteen, and it should not then be a surprise that by the second week of the 2021–2022 school year, Guzman had had enough of the disruptive school buses and contacted the District to keep them out. A.M. testified that starting in 2018, when E.M. began school, petitioners notified the Transportation Department that they did not need busing, and someone made a mistake in September 2021 and sent a bus to their address. While not all of A.M.'s testimony rang true, this explanation makes sense. Prior to September 2021, Guzman had no reason to complain to the Transportation Department because there were no buses going through the Villagio community. The M. family may have been living at Bernini Way between September 2018 and June 2021, which would explain why M.M.

went to the trouble of opening bank accounts with that address, using that address for her driver's license and her federal tax returns. There was no testimony regarding the apparent willingness of M.M.'s aunt to sign a lease that violates the Villagio's stringent age-restriction rules,[9] but the question here is not whether the M. family and/or their landlord was breaking the rules by setting up house in a fifty-five and over community.[10] The question is whether they lived in the Villagio community during the 2021–2022 school year.

The credible evidence presented by two investigators is that on five occasions, between October 2021, and February 2022, when school was in session and the M. children were in attendance, the children did not spend the previous night at Bernini Way and did not leave from Bernini Way to go to school. Coincidence is not enough to overcome the preponderance of the credible evidence and accordingly, I FIND that petitioners did not prove that during the 2021–2022 school year, E.M. and I.M. resided at Bernini Way.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Petitioners contend that E.M. and I.M. are entitled to a free education in the District under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, which provides that public schools shall be free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled within the school district." See, V.R. ex rel A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds sub nom., Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, for a student to receive a free education). E.M. is nine years old and I.M. is seven years old and, therefore, I CONCLUDE they meet the age requirements to be entitled to a free public education.

[9] There was also no documentary proof that the M. family made lease payments to Lichtenstein.
[10] Given how quickly Guzman reacted when she saw the school buses, it is surprising that she never noticed elementary school-aged children allegedly living in the community for close to four years, a clear violation of HOA rules.

A person who meets age requirements and is domiciled within a school district may attend its public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). A person may have many residences but only one domicile, and a child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051 (1999).

The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in the light of all the circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parents have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

Here, the evidence as to E.M. and I.M. being domiciled in the District is mixed. E.M. started school in the District in September 2018, and she and her brother have attended continuously since then. M.M. went to a great deal of trouble to show Bernini Way as her address. Both houses in which M.M.'s relatives reside — Bernini Way and Drinking Brook Road — are in the District, albeit within the geographic boundaries of different elementary schools. Petitioners refused to concede residency at Drinking Brook Drive — either because they did not want their children to change schools in the middle of the school year or because they did not live there and could not prove otherwise.[11]

Accordingly, in light of all of the facts and circumstances, I CONCLUDE that E.M. and I.M. are not entitled to a free public education in the District. I CONCLUDE petitioners failed to satisfy the burden of proving that E.M. and I.M. are domiciled at Bernini Way and elected not to submit evidence supporting residency at Drinking Brook Road.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) provides that when the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, the resident shall be assessed tuition:

[11] In their letter of January 26, 2022, petitioners state that they could enroll their children in private school but prefer for them to complete the current school year at Monmouth Junction Elementary School. (P-2.)

> [F]or the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced.

The record reflects that the actual cost of attendance in-District was $12,961 per year for each student for the 2021–2022 school year and that E.M. and I.M. both attended Monmouth Junction Elementary School for the entire school year.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3(a) provides that,

> Tuition assessed pursuant to this section shall be calculated on a per-student basis for the period of a student's ineligible enrollment, up to one year, by applicable grade/program category and consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1. The individual student's record of daily attendance shall not affect the calculation.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioners are responsible to pay tuition to respondent for attendance by E.M. and I.M. at Monmouth Junction Elementary School for the entire 2021–2022 school year in the amount of $12,961 for each, for a total of $25,922.

ORDER

I ORDER that the decision of respondent South Brunswick Township Board of Education that E.M. and I.M. were not eligible for a free public education in the District during the 2021–2022 school year is AFFIRMED and the pro se residency appeal of petitioners M.M. and A.M. on behalf of E.M. and I.M. is DISMISSED.

Further, I ORDER that petitioners shall pay respondent tuition in the amount of $25,922.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration. This recommended decision may be

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

Ingrid Fullerton,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of East Newark, Hudson County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro-se petitioner was a non-tenured teacher employed by the respondent Board for the 2022-23 school year pursuant to an employment agreement. Petitioner was terminated via a letter dated September 22, 2022 which relieved her of her duties immediately and indicated that she would be on leave with pay for the 60-day period. The following day another letter from the Superintendent informed petitioner that her termination had been reexamined based upon recent conduct and that the immediate termination was for cause and without pay. Petitioner filed an appeal on October 18, 2022, challenging her termination. She claimed, inter alia, that the Board's actions: violated the 60-day notice of termination, defamed her character, and wrongfully terminated her under New Jersey's Family and Medical Leave Act. The Board filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found that the petition does not arise out of the New Jersey school laws; therefore, the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, and the respondent Board's motion for summary decision could not be addressed. Accordingly, the ALJ took no further action and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner found that the most relevant statute cited by petitioner in her exceptions is N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30.1, which provides that "[w]hen the dismissal of any teaching staff member before the expiration of his contract with the board of education shall be decided, upon appeal, to have been without good cause, he shall be entitled to compensation for the full term of the contract . . . ", and that the petitioner appears to argue that the Board improperly terminated her while she was using a sick day and before she had any observations. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the petition did not reference any New Jersey school laws, and the Commissioner therefore lacks jurisdiction over the claims alleged in the petition. However, affording broad latitude to the petitioner as a pro se litigant, the Commissioner determined that the matter should be remanded to the OAL for consideration of petitioner's argument under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30.1.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Ingrid Fullerton,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of East Newark, Hudson County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board did not file a reply.

In this matter, petitioner challenges her termination by the East Newark Board of Education (Board). Petitioner was a non-tenured teacher who was employed by the Board for the 2022-23 school year pursuant to an employment agreement. In a letter dated September 22, 2022, the Superintendent provided petitioner with a 60-day notice of termination, relieved her of her duties, and placed her on administrative leave with pay. The following day, the Superintendent informed petitioner that due to inappropriate and harassing text messages, she was instead recommending immediate termination for cause. Petitioner filed the instant petition of appeal, making claims that the Board: violated the 60-day termination notice in her contract; defamed her character; and wrongfully terminated her under the New Jersey Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA). Further, petitioner contended that the Board's actions violated the 4th and 5th amendments of the U.S. Constitution.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petition does not arise out of the New Jersey school laws, and therefore the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. As such, the ALJ dismissed the petition.

In her exceptions, petitioner cites to various education statutes to support her contention that this matter involves New Jersey school law and falls under the Commissioner's jurisdiction. The most relevant statute cited by petitioner is N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30.1, which provides that "[w]hen the dismissal of any teaching staff member before the expiration of his contract with the board of education shall be decided, upon appeal, to have been without good cause, he shall be entitled to compensation for the full term of the contract . . . " Petitioner appears to argue that the Board improperly terminated her while she was using a sick day and before she had any observations.[1]

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge that the petition did not reference any New Jersey school laws, and the Commissioner therefore lacks jurisdiction over the claims alleged in the petition. Nevertheless, affording latitude to petitioner as a pro se litigant, the Commissioner finds this matter should be remanded for consideration of petitioner's argument under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30.1.

[1] Petitioner also argues that N.J.S.A. 34:11D-4 prohibits employers from taking retaliatory action when an employee uses sick leave. The Commissioner notes that the statute does not fall under the Commissioner's jurisdiction.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is remanded for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

Ingrid Fullerton, petitioner, pro se

Record Closed: December 15, 2023 Decided: January 5, 2023

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Ingrid Fullerton filed a pro se Petition of Appeal, dated October 18, 2022, challenging her termination of employment with the Respondent District, and seeking Emergent Relief. The Office of Controversies and Disputes in the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on October 19, 2022.

Petitioner is seeking payment of sixty days pay pursuant to her employment contract.

Respondent Board filed its brief in opposition to the request for emergent relief, and the Certification of Rosaura Bagolie, on October 31, 2022.

Oral argument via Zoom was held on October 31, 2022.

The application for emergent relief was denied by Order of the undersigned dated November 1, 2022.

A prehearing conference was held on November 9, 2022, and a Prehearing Order was entered November 14, 2022.

Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision dated November 11, 2022. Respondent filed a motion to dismiss dated November 17, 2022. Petitioner filed her opposition to Respondent's motion to dismiss on December 6, 2022. Respondent filed its opposition to Petitioner's motion for summary decision on December 8, 2022; and, Petitioner filed her response thereto, also on December 8, 2022. Respondent then filed a reply to Petitioner's response on December 15, 2022.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Petitioner was employed with the Respondent District pursuant to an Employment Agreement for East Newark Board of Education Employees, dated June 30, 2022. Petitioner was employed as a non-tenured teacher for the 2022-2023 school year, at a salary of $62,348.

Petitioner was terminated from her position via Notice of Determination dated October 7, 2022, with an effective date of termination of September 23, 2022.

Initially, Petitioner was terminated via letter dated October 22, 2022, from Rosaura Bagolie, the Superintendent of the District. Said letter was referenced as a 60-Day Notice of Termination. Said letter relieved Petitioner of her duties immediately, and provided that she be on Administrative Leave with pay for the sixty-day period.

Thereafter, in a letter dated September 23, 2022, Superintendent Bagolie advised Petitioner that her termination was re-examined based upon recent conduct, and the termination of employment be immediate and without pay. This letter stated the termination was for cause. The letter also served as a Rice[i] notice.

Petitioner claimed a violation of the NJ Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) in her petition of appeal. Petitioner was not on leave pursuant to FMLA. (See Bagolie Cert., pg. 3, para. 11.)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 states, in pertinent part:

> The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the State board or of the commissioner. For the purposes of this Title, controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws.

Petitioner's petition of appeal sets forth the following claims:

1. Violation of 60 days termination notice;
2. Defamation of character;
3. Wrongful termination during FMLA leave;
4. Violation of NJ FMLA;
5. Violation of 4th Amendment to US Constitution;
6. Violation of 5th Amendment to US Constitution; and,
7. Violation of right of privacy.

Said petition also alleges interference with unemployment benefits.

None of the above noted claims fall under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of the Department of Education. The only arguable claim that may be before the Commissioner is the contractual claim regarding Petitioner's termination.

See Picogna v. Board of Educ., 249, N.J. Super. 332, 592 A.2d 570, 1991 N.J. Super. LEXIS 229 (App.Div. 1991), Dismissal of terminated teacher's petition was proper, which sought relief from the Commissioner of Education based upon the terminated teacher's allegedly wrongful dismissal by the city board of education, and allowed the terminated teacher to adjudicate a parallel civil suit that he had commenced shortly before he filed his petition with the Commissioner, because even though the Commissioner had jurisdiction to hear and determine without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the contract claim of a non-tenured school employee did not arise under the school laws simply because its outcome could have later enabled him to attain tenure under the school laws; whether the terminated teacher's employment was wrongfully terminated under the contract and under the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 et seq. was for the court, not the Commissioner, to decide.

Clearly, this matter is not a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws. The Commissioner lacks jurisdiction. Accordingly, the undersigned lacks jurisdiction.

As the instant matter is not properly before the undersigned, Petitioner's motion for summary decision cannot be addressed.

I make no findings as to the veracity of any claims set forth in the petition of appeal. I only CONCLUDE that the instant matter cannot be addressed in this forum due to lack of jurisdiction.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Respondent's motion to dismiss be GRANTED, and that Petitioners' petition of appeal be DISMISSED; and,

Final Decision

Matthew J. McDevitt,

Complainant,

v.

Scott Lavine, Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Complainant alleged that respondent, a member of the Pennsauken Board of Education, violated a section of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq, when he voted to approve a new employment contract for the District's Superintendent of Schools, despite the fact that respondent's wife is employed as a teacher in Pennsauken schools. The School Ethics Commission (SEC) determined that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members for voting to approve the contract, which constituted action in a matter in which respondent had a personal involvement that created a benefit to the respondent. The SEC recommended a penalty of reprimand.

The case was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination of the appropriate penalty in this matter. Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the penalty recommendation of the SEC. Accordingly, the respondent shall be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

Final Decision

Matthew J. McDevitt,

Complainant,

v.

Scott Lavine, Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County,

Respondent.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the February 21, 2023, decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission). The Commission found that respondent Scott Lavine, a member of the Pennsauken Board of Education, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). The Commission recommended a penalty of reprimand for the violation. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). Respondent neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's participation in a vote to approve a new employment contract for the district's superintendent while respondent's wife was employed by the district, which constituted action in a matter in which respondent had a personal involvement that created a benefit to respondent.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

v.

Scott Lavine,
Pennsauken Board of Education, Camden County,
Respondent

I. Procedural History

The above-captioned matter arises from a Complaint that was filed on August 16, 2022, by Matthew J. McDevitt (Complainant), alleging that Scott Lavine (Respondent), a member of the Pennsauken Board of Education (Board), violated the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq.[1] More specifically, the Complaint avers that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act.

On August 26, 2022, the Complaint was served on Respondent via electronic mail, notifying him that ethics charges had been filed against him with the Commission, and advising that he had twenty (20) days to file a responsive pleading.[2] On September 19, 2022, Respondent filed an Answer to Complaint (Answer).

At its meeting on November 22, 2022, and after reviewing the parties' pleadings on October 17, 2022, the Commission adopted a decision finding probable cause for the alleged violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), and to decide the above-captioned matter by summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.7(c)(1). The Commission also directed Respondent to file a statement, within twenty (20) days, setting forth the reasons he should not be found in violation of the Act. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.7(c)(1). Respondent was advised that if he disputes any of the facts determined by the Commission to be both material and undisputed, he should set forth the facts with which he disagrees, and why they are material to the case. Finally, Respondent was advised that following expiration of the time period for submission of his statement, the Commission may make a determination of a violation on a summary basis. Ultimately, and on December 12, 2022, Respondent submitted a Position Statement/Statement of Reasons (Statement of Reasons) as directed.

[1] By correspondence dated August 17, 2022, Complainant was notified that the Complaint was deficient, and required amendment before the School Ethics Commission (Commission) could accept his filing. On August 24, 2022, Complainant cured all defects and filed an Amended Complaint (Complaint) that was deemed compliant with the requirements detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.3.

[2] In order to conduct business during the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, the Commission implemented an electronic filing system, which remains a permissible method by which the Commission and parties can effectuate service of process. Consequently, service of process was effectuated by the Commission through electronic transmission only.

Consequently, at a special meeting on January 31, 2023, the Commission reviewed the record in this matter and, at its regularly scheduled meeting on February 21, 2023, adopted a decision finding that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), and recommending a penalty of reprimand for Respondent's violation of the Act.

II. Summary of the Pleadings

In the Complaint, Complainant submits that, based on the substance of Respondent's 2021 and 2022 Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements, his (Respondent's) spouse is employed in the Pennsauken Public Schools District (District) as a teacher. Complaint at 1. Despite his spouse's employment in the District, and at a Board meeting on June 16, 2022, Respondent voted to approve a new contract for the superintendent. Id. Because Respondent "voted to award a contract to the person that is his spouse's ultimate superior," Complainant argues that Respondent acted in his official capacity in a matter where he or a member of his immediate family (his spouse) had a personal involvement that created a direct benefit to himself and his spouse in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). Id. at 2.

In his Answer, which included a signed Certification, Respondent admitted that he "inadvertently" voted to approve the superintendent's contract during the Board meeting on June 14, 2022, "notwithstanding that his [spouse] is currently a teacher in the [D]istrict." Answer at 1. However, Respondent denies that the vote created a direct benefit to himself and/or his spouse. Id. According to Respondent, because the vote to approve the contract was unanimous, his "vote had no impact on the ultimate outcome of the approval of the employment contract." Id. Respondent noted that he abstained on another agenda item "which included his [spouse] among those [D]istrict employees who were being transferred for the 2022-2023 school year, evidencing that his vote on the superintendent's employment contract (which was otherwise unanimously approved) was unintentional and inadvertent." Id. at 1-2. Further, Respondent noted his action was "entirely due to oversight and error," and further admitted that he should have abstained, but "mistakenly failed to do so." Id. at 2. Respondent offered, "In an effort to correct any misconception or claim that [Respondent] was purposefully and/or unethically voting on the superintendent's employment contract, the ... Board ... will be once again vot[ing] upon the very same employment contract at its upcoming October 2022 meeting, and [Respondent] will abstain from voting on that agenda item." Id. Therefore, Respondent requested that the Commission "impose no penalty, since [Respondent's] vote on the [s]uperintendent's employment contract amounts to a de minimus violation of the Act, was unintentional, had no impact on the outcome of the vote, no longer presents a live controversy, and is moot as the Board will vote again on the same contract ... during the October 2022 [B]oard meeting and [Respondent] will abstain from that vote." Id.

In his Statement of Reasons, Respondent notes that "Agenda Item No. 3" related to the superintendent's contract and "was one of a block of forty-eight (48) agenda items" that were to be voted upon at the June 14, 2022, Board meeting. Statement of Reasons at 1. Respondent further maintains he "deliberately abstained from voting on Agenda Item No. 11," which involved his spouse; however, he "accidentally failed to abstain from voting on Agenda Item No. 3," due to "sheer inadvertence and/or momentary inattention." Id. at 2. Respondent contends that although his "inadvertence is no excuse ... it was solely and purely due to his oversight and error that he failed to recuse himself ... ." Id. Respondent reasserts that his vote was not the deciding vote, which Respondent notes was unanimous; however, Respondent notes, the superintendent's contract that was voted upon at the June 14, 2022, meeting was "subsequently rescinded because of procedural deficiency" and was resubmitted for a vote at the Board meeting on October 18, 2022, from which Respondent abstained. Id.

Respondent requests that the Commission consider that since becoming a Board member in 2018, Respondent "has never before had an ethics complaint filed against him." Id. Respondent "deeply regrets" his mistake, and apologizes for his oversight, and reiterates that his conduct "was not intentional in any way nor in an effort to escape his ethical responsibility as a Board member, but rather due to oversight and error." Id. at 2-3. Respondent further requests the Commission find that he did not violate the Act, but if a violation is found, Respondent implores "the Commission to consider the lowest level of sanction for his inadvertent failure to abstain." Id. at 3.

III. Findings of Fact

Based on its thorough and independent review of the record, the Commission finds the following facts to be undisputed:

1. Respondent is a member of the Board and has served in this capacity since 2018. Complaint at page 1; Answer at 1; Certification of Respondent at 1; and Statement of Reasons at 1-2.

2. Respondent's spouse is employed as a teaching staff member in the District. Complaint at page 1; Answer at 1; Certification of Respondent at 1-2; Statement of Reasons at 2.

3. The Board had a meeting on June 16, 2022. Complaint at page 1; Answer at 1; Certification of Respondent at 1; and Statement of Reasons at 1.

4. At the Board meeting on June 16, 2022, Respondent voted in the affirmative for Agenda Item No. 3, which included "a block of forty-eight agenda items," including a new employment contract for the superintendent. Complaint at page 1; Answer at 1; Certification of Respondent at 1-2; and Statement of Reasons at 1.

5. At the Board meeting on June 16, 2022, Respondent abstained from voting on Agenda Item No. 11, which included a personnel matter related to his spouse, among other District staff. Answer at 1-2; Certification of Respondent at 1-2; Statement of Reasons at 1-2.

6. The superintendent supervises all staff employed in the District. Complaint at page 2.

IV. Analysis and Conclusions of Law

The uncontroverted facts in this matter can be briefly summarized as follows: Respondent is a Board member; Respondent's spouse is employed in the District; while Respondent's spouse was employed in the District, he voted to approve a new employment contract for the superintendent, the highest ranking supervisor in the District. By voting on a new employment contract for the superintendent while his spouse was employed in the District, Complainant argues that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) states, in relevant part:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he ... has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he ... has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official ... .

Also of relevance to the Commission's analysis is the legislative findings and declarations relative to the adoption of the Act, to wit:

> a. In our representative form of government it is essential that the conduct of members of local boards of education ... hold the respect and confidence of the people. These board members ... must avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated.
> ... .

In Advisory Opinion 24-17 (A24-17), the Commission issued clear and unequivocal guidance regarding Board members "who have immediate family members or relatives who are employed in ... the District ... ." More specifically, the Commission stated, "A Board member with a relative who is employed in the District, cannot participate in any aspect of negotiations, including the vote on the collective negotiations agreement following attainment of the memorandum of the agreement. ... ." (emphasis in original). Id. The Commission further advised that, "a Board member who has a relative or immediate family member employed in the District would also be prohibited from participating in any and all issues related to the superintendent, including the search, contract approval, and evaluation of performance" (emphasis in original). Id.

With the above in mind, the Commission finds that because Respondent voted, albeit unintentionally and inadvertently, to approve a new employment contract for the superintendent – the individual who has ultimate supervisory authority over Respondent's spouse, and the individual who is charged with making personnel recommendations for his spouse (including continued employment and possible promotions) – while his spouse was employed in the District, the Commission finds that Respondent acted in his official capacity in a matter where "he ... has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment," and in his "official capacity in any matter where he ... has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official ... ."

The Commission also notes that regardless of whether Respondent's spouse may have actually received a benefit from Respondent's vote is irrelevant, because the "question will always turn on 'whether the circumstances could reasonably be interpreted to show that they had the likely capacity to tempt the official to depart from his sworn public duty,'" and "[a]n actual conflict of interest is not the decisive factor, nor is 'whether the public servant succumbs to temptation,' but rather whether there is a potential for conflict." I/M/O Deborah Anderson, High Point Regional Board of Education, Sussex County, Docket No. C45-19, at page 5. In this case, and as conceded by Respondent, there is no question that, due to the employment of his spouse in the District, Respondent had a conflict of interest, actual and/or perceived, and should have abstained from voting on the new employment contract for the superintendent.

Accordingly, and based on a complete and thorough review of the record, the Commission finds, based on the undisputed evidence as set forth herein, that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he voted to approve a new employment contract for the superintendent while his spouse was employed in the District.

V. Recommended Penalty

Having found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), the Commission is authorized to recommend to the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) an appropriate penalty, which may range from reprimand to removal. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c).

In its review, the Commission finds that reprimand is the most appropriate penalty. In reaching this determination, the Commission finds that, based on the record, Respondent did not act deliberately or intentionally, and that his vote was, based on his abstention in another matter, "sheer inadvertence." The Commission genuinely appreciates Respondent's contrition for his mistake, and his ready acknowledgment of wrongdoing. As the Commission has stated in other decisions, this matter is "a reminder that he, like all other school officials, must be mindful of how their Board action can implicate, and potentially, violate the Act. No one is beyond reproach, and everyone is entitled to make a mistake." Mervin Rose v. Ronnie McDowell, Township of Union Board of Education, Union County, Docket No. C78-20, at 6. The Commission urges Respondent, and all other school officials, to ensure vigilance when reviewing all agenda items to ensure that they are abstaining from all matters as appropriate.

VI. Decision

For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand for the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. The parties may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction," as well as to (ControversiesDisputesFilings@doe.nj.gov). A copy must also be sent to the Commission (school.ethics@doe.nj.gov) and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of a violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4:1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated in the appellant's briefs on appeal.

Final Decision

Kedra Gamble,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Bound Brook, Somerset County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed and considered. The parties did not file exceptions.

In this case, the petitioner challenged the respondent Board's evaluation of her performance and subsequent non-renewal. The ALJ's Initial Decision reported that three telephone conferences were scheduled in this case, and petitioner was given proper notice of all three. Petitioner did not participate in a January 17, 2023, telephone conference and did not contact the OAL to explain why she was unable to do so. Another telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for February 22, 2023, and petitioner once again did not participate, nor did she contact the OAL to explain her absence.

The ALJ found that petitioner failed to appear for the scheduled telephone conferences and failed to file any explanation for her failure to appear. Accordingly, the ALJ determined that the petitioner has abandoned her appeal.

Upon review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner did not appear for scheduled telephone hearings and filed no explanation for her failure to do so. Accordingly, this matter is no longer deemed to be a contested case before the Commissioner and is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [1]

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Certificates of Theresa Guerriere, State Board of Examiners,
New Jersey Department of Education.

Order of Revocation by the State Board of Examiners, December 9, 2022

For the Respondent-Appellant, Oded Weinstock, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent, State Board of Examiners, Sadia Ahsanuddin, Deputy Attorney General (Matthew J. Platkin, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The Commissioner has reviewed the record and the papers filed in connection with appellant Theresa Guerriere's appeal of the Order of the State Board of Examiners (Board), dated December 9, 2022, revoking her Teacher of Health and Physical Education Certificate, Teacher of Handicapped Certificate, and Teacher of Driver Education Certificate.

Appellant and her husband, Harry Guerriere, have been the co-owners of a home located at 201 St. Paul Ave, Apt 1H, Jersey City, New Jersey (hereinafter "the Jersey City property") since 1999. Appellant and her husband are also the owners of a home located at 295 35th Street South, Brigantine, New Jersey (Brigantine property), which they have owned since 2002. On October 29, 2012, Hurricane Sandy (Sandy or "the storm") slammed into the eastern shore of New Jersey, devastating the shore communities, and causing a massive amount of property damage. To assist those affected by the storm, the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs

(DCA) created, among other programs, the Homeowner Resettlement Program (RSP) and the Renovation, Reconstruction, Elevation, and Mitigation (RREM) program. To be eligible for assistance under either program, the property had to: have suffered a specific amount or type of damage; be located in one of the nine communities most affected by Sandy; and be used as the claimant's primary residence. The RREM program also included an income restriction.

On May 27, 2013, appellant filled out an application for RSP assistance. In the application, appellant indicated that the Brigantine property was her and her husband's primary residence when Sandy hit. As part of the application, appellant executed a document titled "Resettlement Program Self-Certification" which states that "any person who knowingly or willingly makes a false or fraudulent statement ... may be subject to termination of assistance and civil and criminal penalties." Attached to the application was a copy of appellant's driver's license, which was issued on December 12, 2012 and lists the Brigantine property as her address. Appellant's RSP application was accepted on July 27, 2013, and thereafter appellant executed a Grant Agreement and Promissory Note. Under the Grant Agreement, appellant made the following affirmative representations: "At the time of Superstorm Sandy, I (We) owned and occupied as my/our primary residence the above-designated IMPACTED RESIDENCE." Additionally, the agreement required that appellant agreed to maintain the Brigantine property as her residence for a minimum of three years after receiving the grant money. On August 20, 2013, appellant received and cashed the grant check in the amount of $10,000.

On June 18, 2013, appellant made an application for assistance through the RREM program. As with the RSP application, appellant certified that the Brigantine property was her and her husband's primary residence. However, while this application was being processed, the DCA became aware of information that led them to believe that the Brigantine property was not appellant's primary residence. Specifically, the DCA learned that a driver's license issued to appellant on October 24, 2013, listed the Jersey City property as appellant's address. Further, the Motor Vehicle Services address change history showed the Jersey City property as appellant's residential address and mailing address when Sandy hit and that these addresses were changed to the Brigantine address shortly after the storm. Appellants' vehicle registration listed Jersey City as their primary address prior to Sandy. Prior to Sandy, appellant was registered to vote in Jersey City and only changed her voter registration in 2013 after the storm. Additionally, the investigation revealed that tax records for the Brigantine property were mailed to the Jersey City property prior to the storm. As a result, the RREM application was denied and the RSP grant was retroactively denied.

Appellant asserts that after learning of the denial, she entered into a repayment plan for the RSP grant while at the same time filing an appeal of the decision with the DCA (DCA matter). The appeal was treated as contested and was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and heard by the Hon. Todd Miller, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). In his decision, Judge Miller noted that it was undisputed that the property was located in one of the nine affected communities, that the property sustained sufficient damage to qualify for the grants, and that appellant and her husband's annual adjusted gross income met the income requirement of the RREM program. As a result, Judge Miller found that the only issue before him was appellant's claim that the Brigantine property was her primary residence. IMO Theresa Guerriere v. Department of Community Affairs, OAL Docket No. CAF 11204-15.

Judge Miller found that appellant and her husband were employed full time in Jersey City. The Jersey City property was located a few minutes away from their places of work. The Brigantine property was located over 100 miles away from their places of work and represented a two-hour commute each way. Appellant's 2011 taxes, which were filed in 2012, identified the Jersey City property as her address. Appellant's driver's license and motor vehicle registration identified the Jersey City property as her primary address on the date of the storm. In fact, Judge Miller found that all of appellant's vital documents identified Jersey City as her primary address as of the date of the storm. Further, Judge Miller found that these documents were changed after the storm and that the change appeared "too convenient and self-serving" to be credible. Judge Miller concluded that appellant did not meet her burden of establishing that the Brigantine property was her primary address as of the date of the storm.

After the hearing, the DCA made a potential fraud referral to the Atlantic County Prosecutor's Office, whose investigation further revealed that appellant's bank accounts all listed the Jersey City Property as appellant's address during the relevant time period. As a result of the investigation, appellant and her husband were indicted for various alleged crimes, including theft by deception, and making unsworn false statements to authorities. Appellant applied for and was accepted into the Pre-Trial Intervention program (PTI). As part of the conditions for PTI, appellant was required to complete 25 hours of community service, pay restitution in the amount of $7,900.00 (the balance due after appellant's partial repayment), pay mandatory fines and penalties, and complete 12 months of probation. Pursuant to the rules, appellant was not required to admit guilt or make any allocution of the facts as condition of admission into PTI.

After completing her community service and paying the fines and restitution, appellant's request to terminate probation early was granted.

As a result of the foregoing, on December 13, 2019, the Board of Examiners issued an Order to Show Cause why all of appellant's certificates and credentials should not be revoked. Appellant filed her answer on January 17, 2020. Since there appeared to be material facts in dispute, the matter was transmitted to the OAL for hearing as a contested case. The Hon. Tama B. Hughes, ALJ, was assigned to hear the matter. The parties engaged in written discovery and thereafter each side filed motions seeking summary disposition in their favor pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

Judge Hughes issued her written opinion on January 26, 2022, finding that appellant had engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher; the decision revoked all of appellant's teaching certificates. Specifically, Judge Hughes incorporated all of Judge Miller's findings and credibility determinations in the DCA matter and held that appellant was collaterally estopped from arguing that the Brigantine property was her primary residence and that her unsworn statements on the RSP and RREM applications constituted material misrepresentations of fact. Judge Hughes rejected appellant's contention that the Board was required to prove that appellant made the material misrepresentation knowingly or purposefully, finding that this was "an attempt to place an enhanced burden of proof on the State." Judge Hughes further found that, in making material misrepresentations, appellant engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher, and revocation was the only appropriate sanction.

On February 2, 2022, appellant filed exceptions to the Initial Decision. The Deputy Attorney General representing the Board filed their response on March 11, 2022. The Board considered the arguments and adopted the Initial Decision on December 9, 2022. The Board found that appellant was collaterally estopped from contesting the facts established at the hearing on the DCA matter before Judge Miller. Further, the Board found that appellant's intent was not relevant to the determination that she claimed the Brigantine property as her primary residence and sought and obtained relief funds based upon that claim. The Board also affirmed Judge Hughes' revocation of appellant's teaching certificates. The present appeal to the Commissioner of Education followed.

On appeal, appellant asserts that Judge Hughes and the Board erred in their application of the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel, arguing that the issues before Judge Miller and the DCA were markedly different than the issues before Judge Hughes. Appellant further contends that Judge Hughes erred in finding that appellant was attempting to impose a higher burden of proof on the Board. Appellant argues that Judge Hughes erred in finding that appellant failed to provide any new evidence that was unavailable at the prior proceeding. Additionally, appellant contends that Judge Hughes erred by revoking appellant's certificates without a finding that she committed fraud. Finally, in the alternative, appellant argues that Judge Hugues erred in revoking her teaching certificates summarily without providing an opportunity for appellant to present mitigating evidence.

In reviewing appeals from decisions of the Board, the Commissioner may not substitute her judgment for that of the Board so long as the appellant received due process and the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record. Further, the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). The Commissioner may reject or modify conclusions of law but shall clearly state the reasons for so doing. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6(b).

Upon review, the Commissioner concludes that Judge Hugues and the Board correctly applied the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel with respect to all conclusions of law, findings of fact, and credibility determinations made by Judge Miller in the DCA matter. Res judicata and collateral estoppel (i.e., issue preclusion) are equitable doctrines asserted to prevent parties from re-litigating an issue decided by a prior court. Winters v. North Hudson Reg. Fire, 212 N.J. 67, 85 (2012). Res judicata and collateral estoppel have been held to apply to administrative agency litigation. Mansoldo v. State, 187 N.J. 50, 60 (2006). Collateral estoppel applies if:

> (1) the issue to be precluded is identical to the issue decided in the prior proceeding; (2) the issue was actually litigated in the prior proceeding; (3) the court in the prior proceeding issued a final judgment on the merits; (4) the determination of the issue was essential to the prior judgment; and (5) the party against whom the doctrine is asserted was a party to or in privity with a party to the earlier proceeding.
> See Hennessey v. Winslow Twp., 183 N.J. 593, 599 (2005).

The limited issue of whether or not the Brigantine property constituted appellant's primary residence is central to both the instant matter as well as the previous matter. In the DCA matter, Judge Miller found as a fact that the Brigantine property was not appellant's primary residence. As a result, appellant is precluded from relitigating this issue.

It is well settled that conduct unbecoming a teacher or other public employee includes "'conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency'" of the public entity or "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [public] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services." In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960) (internal citation omitted). Contrary to appellant's assertion, the Board is not required to demonstrate that appellant violated any specific statute or engaged in criminal activity; rather, the Board must show that appellant engaged in conduct that violated the implied standard of conduct for teachers.

The Commissioner finds that there is sufficient evidence in the record to conclude that appellant misrepresented her primary residence for the purpose of obtaining relief funds she was not entitled to receive. The Second Restatement of Contracts defines a misrepresentation as "an assertion that is not in accord with the facts." Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 159 (1981). The Second Restatement of Contracts also states that "[a] misrepresentation is material if it would be likely to induce a reasonable person to manifest his assent, or if the maker knows that it would be likely to induce the recipient to do so." Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 162 (1981). In the DCA matter, Judge Miller found that the RSP and REM programs required, as a condition for receiving relief, that the damaged property be appellant's primary residence. As a result, appellant's assertion on her applications that the Brigantine property was her primary residence was a material misrepresentation.

Appellant's claim that she believed and continues to believe that the Brigantine property was her primary residence prior to the storm is not credible. The facts as found by Judge Miller and supplemented by the documents submitted by the parties in their cross motions for summary decision show that on October 29, 2012, appellant had owned two properties, one located in Jersey City and the other located in Brigantine, for over 10 years. The Jersey City property is located within a few minutes of appellant's work address, while the Brigantine property is located over 100 miles away. Further, at the time of the storm, all of appellant's vital records identified the Jersey City property as her primary address. After the storm, appellant sought relief funds totaling $20,000.00 through the RSP and RREM program. Each of these programs required that appellant certify that the Brigantine property was her principal residence. Further, the application required that appellant submit some documentation of her primary address, with a driver's license identifying the property as her address being the preferred method of proving primary residence. After the storm, appellant changed the address on her driver's license and submitted the changed driver's license with her applications as proof of primary residence. Appellant also changed her vital records, including her voter registration, vehicle registration and address where she received the property tax information to the Brigantine Address. Finally, after submitting the applications, appellant changed the address on her driver's license back to the Jersey City property. There is simply no legitimate explanation for these document changes. The record clearly and unequivocally demonstrates that appellant was intentionally creating documents after the fact to support a claim for relief that she knew she was not entitled to receive.

This matter is very similar to I/M/O Certificate of David Toler, EDE 5946-02, State Bd. of Exam'rs (October 28, 2004). In that case, it was alleged that Toler had provided personal information to a psychologist who used the information to file insurance claims for services that had not been provided. It was also alleged that the Toler received payment from the psychologist. As in this matter, Toler was admitted to PTI and, after his completion of the PTI program, he did not have a criminal record. The Board of Examiners found that participation in a scheme to obtain benefit payments constituted conduct unbecoming a teacher. See also

I/M/O Credential of Shauna E. Morgan, Dkt. No. 1314-190, State Bd. of Exam'rs (June 28, 2019) (finding that knowingly providing false information to an employer for the purpose of obtaining improper insurance benefits constituted conduct unbecoming a teacher). Appellant's participation in a scheme to obtain grants from the RSP and RREM programs – relief programs for which she was not eligible – constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher.

With regard to the penalty determination, the Board's decision to revoke appellant's certificates is consistent with the factors identified in In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). The decision to revoke appellant's certificates is also consistent with revocations in I/M/O Credential of Shauna E. Morgan, Dkt. No. 1314-190, State Bd. of Exam'rs (June 28, 2019); I/M/O Certificate of David Toler, EDE 5946-02, State Bd. of Exam'rs (October 28, 2004); and I/M/O the Certificate of Suzanne Amabile, Agency Dkt. No. 625-04/01-306, State Bd. of Exam'rs (April 3, 2003) (revoking certificate of a former school business administrator for the misappropriation of entrusted property).

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds no basis upon which to disturb the penalty decision of the State Board of Examiners.[1] The Decision of the Board is affirmed.[2]

IN THE MATTER OF	:	NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
THE CERTIFICATES OF	:	STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS
THERESA GUERRIERE	:	ORDER OF REVOCATION
_____	:	DOCKET NO: 1920-110

At its meeting of November 1, 2019, the State Board of Examiners (Board) reviewed information received from the Office of Student Protection (OSP) and the New Jersey Superior Court – Atlantic County Vicinage regarding Guerriere.

In August 2018, Guerriere was indicted for Theft by Deception – False Impression (3rd degree), Conspiracy – Agree/Engage in Conduct Constituting a Crime (3rd degree), and Unsworn Falsification (4th degree) after she received disaster relief funds by falsely claiming a property as a primary residence.

On July 11, 2019, Guerriere received an Order of Postponement and was entered into PreTrial Intervention Program for a period of 12 months and was required to complete 25 hours of community service and make restitution in the amount of $7,900.

Guerriere holds a Teacher of Health and Physical Education, Teacher of Handicapped, and Teacher of Driver Education certificates. On December 13, 2019, the Board issued Guerriere an Order to Show Cause as to why her certificates should not be revoked.

The Board sent Guerriere the Order to Show Cause by regular and certified mail. The Order provided that Guerriere's Answer was due within 30 days. Guerriere filed her Answer on January 17, 2020.

In that Answer, Guerriere admitted that she was indicted for 3rd degree theft by deception, 3rd degree conspiracy to commit theft by deception, and 4th degree unsworn falsification. See Answer at ¶ 3. Guerriere, however, denied that she engaged in any of the alleged conduct or wrongdoing. Id. She asserted that she permanently resided in Brigantine, New Jersey at all times relevant; she paid taxes there and used that address on her driver's license. Id. Furthermore, Guerriere admitted that she entered into PTI for 12 months, but she did not enter a guilty plea to any criminal charges. Id. at ¶ 4. She further offered 2 separate defenses.

Since there were material facts in dispute, on January 20, 2020, the Board transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. On January 26, 2022, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Tama B. Hughes (Judge Hughes) issued an Initial Decision in the case. In the Matter of the Certificates of Theresa Guerriere, Dkt. No. EDE 01212-20 (Initial Decision, January 26, 2022).

In the matter at OAL, the Board filed a motion for summary decision, asserting that there were no material facts in dispute as Guerriere's residency was determined at a hearing before the Honorable W. Todd Miller, ALJ (IMO Theresa Guerriere v. Department of Community Affairs, OAL Docket No. CAF 11204-15). Guerriere filed a cross motion indicating that the Board has no evidence that Guerriere knowingly submitted a fraudulent application to the State in order to receive Sandy relief funds.

Judge Hughes found that Judge Miller's ruling, as adopted by the Department of Community Affairs, is "controlling upon this tribunal on the issue of respondent's primary residence as of October 29, 2012, and her application for Sandy recovery funds for her Brigantine residence." Id. at p. 12-13. ALJ Hughes further found that it did not matter that the Board was not a party to the litigation before Judge Miller, but rather Guerriere had a "full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue and received a final judgment on the merits." Id. at p. 13. Accordingly, Judge Hughes determined that Guerriere is collaterally estopped from relitigating the issue of her residency as of October 29, 2012.

Based upon the determination that collateral estoppel applies, the Board argued that summary decision is warranted because Guerriere was found to have "material misrepresentations as to her primary residence to secure Sandy relief funds." Id. Judge Hughes therefore found that Guerriere engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher, such that revocation is appropriate. Id. at p. 13-16.

On February 2, 2022, Guerriere filed Exceptions to the Initial Decision. In those Exceptions, Guerriere argues that collateral estoppel and res judicata are not applicable in this matter because the issue before Judge Hughes is different than the issue decided by Judge Miller involving the DCA. See Exceptions at p. 19. First, the criminal charges in this matter were issued after Judge Miller's hearing and ruling, so res judicata or collateral estoppel does not apply. Id. at p. 23. Further, the alleged criminal conduct involved purposeful or intentional conduct. Id. Accordingly, Guerriere states that the Board must prove that she intentionally made a material misrepresentation. Id. at p. 24. There is no evidence that her conduct was purposeful or intentional. Rather, based upon discussions and representations, Guerriere "reasonably believed that she qualified for the relief funds." Id. Judge Miller's determination is limited to the fact that Guerriere was not legally entitled to the relief funds for which she applied. Id. at p. 25.

Guerriere also argues that summary judgment should not be granted where the matter requires a determination of a state of mind or intent. Id. at p. 25. The Board's motion should have been denied as a matter of law. Id. at p. 26.

Additionally, Guerriere argued that Judge Hughes incorrectly stated that she was arguing the Board had a higher burden of proof in this matter than the matter before Judge Miller. Guerriere asserts that this demonstrates that Judge Hughes did not understand Guerriere's arguments. Id. at p. 27. Additionally, Guerriere states that Judge Hughes erroneously found that she presented no new evidence and failed to permit Guerriere to offer character evidence or evidence in mitigation of the penalty. Id. at p. 30-33.

On March 11, 2022, the DAG representing the Board filed a reply to Guerriere's exceptions. The reply states that Judge Hughes properly applied the criteria for determination of collateral estoppel. See Reply at p. 9. First, the issue in both the DCA proceeding and in this matter are the same – whether Guerriere's primary residence was in Brigantine, New Jersey at the time of Hurricane Sandy. Id. Judge Miller determined that Guerriere received disaster relief by falsely claiming a property as primary residence. Id.

Additionally, in determining whether the matter decided by Judge Miller was the same as that before Judge Hughes, courts should look for significant overlap of evidence or argument, among other factors. Id. at p. 10. The fact finder in Judge Miller's matter and the instant matter would have considered the exact same testimony, evidence and arguments. Id. at p. 10-11. Moreover, Guerriere had a full opportunity to litigate the matter before Judge Miller. Id. at p. 12.

The DAG also asserts that the Board does not have to prove Guerriere violated the criminal code or that she had the requisite mens rea. Id. at p. 14. The Board had to prove by a preponderance of credible evidence that Guerriere misrepresented her primary residence as Brigantine when she applied for Sandy funds. Id. at p. 15. Finally, the DAG asserted that there are numerous cases where revocation of certificate is appropriate in instances of fraudulent claims. Id. at p. 18-19.

The Board must now determine whether to adopt, modify or reject the Initial Decision in this matter. At its meeting of October 28, 2022[1], the Board reviewed the Initial Decision,

[1] There were delays in the Board's consideration of the Initial Decision in this matter resulting from Board member recusals and lack of quorum, as well as consideration of proposals to resolve this matter short of the initial decision.

Exceptions and Reply Exceptions. After full and fair consideration of the Decision and other submissions, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision.

"Teachers ... are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of ... school children. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. Unfitness to hold a position in a school system may be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E & A 1944). In this case, Judge Hughes correctly noted that the facts underlying Guerriere's conduct were established at the DCA hearing before Judge Miller and, pursuant to collateral estoppel, govern the Board's decision-making here. Judge Miller found that Guerriere received Sandy relief funds after she falsely claimed Brigantine was her primary residence. Guerriere's intent behind the filing is not relevant to the determination that she claimed the property as a primary residence and sought and obtained relief funds based upon that claim. Furthermore, the Board agrees with Judge Hughes that Guerriere's behavior constituted unbecoming conduct which warrants a severe penalty, consistent with the Board's precedential case law relating to submission of fraudulent claims. See IMO Certificates of Eloise Stewart, 10796-16, State Bd. of Exam'rs (July 27, 2017); IMO Certificates of Shauna E. Morgan, Dkt. No. 1314-190, State Bd. of Exam'rs (June 28, 2019); and IMO Certificate of David Toler, EDE 5946-02, State Bd. of Exam'rs (October 28, 2004). Consequently, the Board finds that revocation is the appropriate response in this matter and therefore adopts the Initial Decision.

Accordingly, on October 28, 2022, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision and ordered to revoke Guerriere's certificates. On this 9th day of December 2022, the Board formally adopted its written decision to adopt the Initial Decision, and it is therefore ORDERED that Theresa Guerriere's Teacher of Health and Physical Education, Teacher of Handicapped, and Teacher of Driver Education certificates are hereby revoked, effective immediately. It is further ORDERED that Guerriere return her certificates to the Secretary of the State Board of Examiners, Office of Certification and Induction, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625-0500 within 30 days of the mailing date of this decision.

Synopsis

Respondents in this consolidated matter are municipalities and boards of education who passed resolutions related to a proposed regionalization plan. Currently, students from the Borough of Sea Bright attend pre-K through eighth grade in Oceanport and high school at Shore Regional High School. Sea Bright – which does not have its own board of education – wishes to leave Oceanport and Shore Regional, and join the boards of education of Highlands, Atlantic Highlands, and Henry Hudson Regional in a new, all-purpose K-12 regional school district. Sea Bright passed a resolution authorizing special counsel to file a petition with the Commissioner seeking approval to place the question before the voters as a referendum. The other respondent municipalities and boards of education passed similar resolutions. The petitioning school districts opposed and contended, inter alia, that these resolutions are invalid. The respondents filed motion to dismiss the petition, arguing that the matter is not ripe for review.

Upon review, the Commissioner granted the respondents' motion to dismiss, finding, inter alia, that: the passing of a resolution is within the authority of boards of education and governing bodies of municipalities; and the resolutions in question here merely authorize the steps necessary to seek the Commissioner's potential approval of actions related to the proposed regionalization plan. Accordingly, the consolidated petition of appeal was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Borough of Sea Bright, Monmouth County; Borough of Highlands, Monmouth County; Borough of Atlantic Highlands, Monmouth County; Board of Education of the Borough of Highlands, Monmouth County; Board of Education of the Borough of Atlantic Highlands, Monmouth County; and Board of Education of the Henry Hudson Regional School District, Monmouth County, Respondents.

Respondents in this matter are municipalities and boards of education who passed resolutions related to a proposed regionalization plan. Currently, students from the Borough of Sea Bright attend pre-K through eighth grade in Oceanport and high school at Shore Regional High School. Sea Bright does not have its own board of education. Sea Bright wishes to leave Oceanport and Shore Regional and join the boards of education of Highlands, Atlantic Highlands, and Henry Hudson Regional in a new all-purpose K-12 regional school district. To that end, Sea Bright passed a resolution authorizing special counsel to file a petition with the Commissioner seeking approval to place the question before the voters as a referendum. The other respondent municipalities and boards of education passed similar resolutions.

In their petitions, the boards of education of Oceanport and Shore Regional ask the Commissioner to find that the resolutions are invalid because 1) Sea Bright does not have the authority to withdraw by resolution from Oceanport and Shore Regional or to pursue a referendum on the creation or enlargement of a regional school district, and 2) the November election date referenced in the resolutions is not authorized by statute.[1]

Respondents filed motions to dismiss both petitions. Respondents argue that unless and until the Commissioner authorizes the referenda and the voters approve the actions, Oceanport's and Shore Regional's challenges are not ripe for review. Respondents also contend that the Borough of Sea Bright is a member of the Oceanport consolidated school district and the Shore Regional limited purpose regional school district and therefore is one of the entities

[1] Along with its petition of appeal, Shore Regional filed a motion to consolidate its petition (Agency Dkt. No. 190-7/22) with Oceanport's petition (Agency Dkt. No. 157-6/22). The parties subsequently provided a consent order in which they agreed to the consolidation of the two petitions. The Commissioner concludes that the standards for consolidation set forth in N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.3 have been met and, accordingly, orders that the two petitions be consolidated.

authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:13-47.11 to seek the Commissioner's approval regarding a regionalization referendum. Finally, respondents argue that placing the requested referenda on the ballot for the November election is permissible, and further note that their request to the Commissioner for approval seeks permission for that election or as soon thereafter as permitted by law, such that they will be guided by the Commissioner's direction on this issue.

In response, petitioners argue that there are disputed issues of material fact – for example, whether Oceanport is a consolidated school district – that preclude dismissal at this stage of the proceedings and instead warrant transmittal of the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case. Petitioners assert that they will suffer harm in the event of Sea Bright's withdrawal, such that they have standing to pursue their petitions, and that their petitions are ripe for review. Petitioners reiterate the arguments made in their petitions, contending that Sea Bright does not have the authority to withdraw from Oceanport and Shore Regional and that the requested referendum cannot be placed on the November ballot.

Along with their opposition to the motions to dismiss, petitioners filed a motion to consolidate their petitions with respondents' request to the Commissioner for approval of their referenda. However, the request for the Commissioner's approval of respondents' referenda is not a controversy or dispute over which the Commissioner has jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Procedures related to the formation, enlargement, and dissolution of regional school districts are set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:13-34 et seq. Those procedures are entirely different than the procedures related to the adjudication of controversies and disputes set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds it inappropriate to consolidate the matters and denies petitioners' motion to consolidate their petitions with respondents' request for approval of their referenda.

Upon review, the Commissioner grants respondents' motion to dismiss. In evaluating a motion to dismiss, "the inquiry is confined to a consideration of the legal sufficiency of the alleged facts apparent on the face of the challenged claim." Rieder v. State, 221 N.J. Super. 547, 552 (App. Div. 1987) (internal quotation and citation omitted). The Commissioner must assume the facts asserted by the petitioner are true. Velantzas v. Colgate-Palmolive Co., 109 N.J. 189, 192 (1988).

The resolutions passed by the respondents state that each entity: 1) finds that good cause exists to pursue a referendum regarding regionalization; 2) seeks to have the referendum placed on the November ballot with approval from the Commissioner; and 3) authorizes special counsel to submit a petition to the Commissioner seeking approval of the referendum. The act of passing a resolution is unquestionably within the authority of boards of education and the governing bodies of municipalities. Moreover, the resolutions are fairly limited in substance. They do not authorize the withdrawal of Sea Bright from Oceanport or Shore Regional, or the placing of any measures on the ballot, or the creation, enlargement, or dissolution of any regional school district. The resolutions only authorize the steps necessary to seek the Commissioner's approval of those actions. Even if petitioners are correct that Sea Bright does not have the authority to withdraw from Oceanport or Shore Regional, or that there are any other reasons for the Commissioner to deny respondents' request for approval of their referenda, that does not make the resolutions invalid. Boards of education and municipalities may submit any number of requests to the Commissioner; if the ultimate disposition of those requests is a denial, the submission of the request is not rendered improper.

Because the approval or denial of a regionalization referendum is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:34 and is not a controversy or dispute subject to the procedures set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3, this decision does not reach the substance of any arguments regarding Sea Bright's ability to withdraw from Oceanport or Shore Regional. Those issues will be considered by the Commissioner as part of the N.J.S.A. 18A:34 review. Additionally, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws, and therefore any claims regarding the timing of the requested referenda, if approved by the Commissioner, are not justiciable in this forum.

Accordingly, respondents' motion to dismiss is granted, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Order on Emergent Relief

Lisa Narcise,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Mount Olive, Morris County,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons stated therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

On March 10, 2023 Petitioner, Lisa Narcise (petitioner/Narcise) in the above captioned matter which was filed with the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) on February 27, 2022, sought to 1) "Expedite the relief requested" in her February 27, 2022 petition of appeal and to "Reinstate Dr. Robert R. Zywicki to his full active status as superintend of schools; 2) Investigate "financial governance and personal improprieties" of "conflicted Board attorney Mark Zitomer, Esq."; 3) "Send a DOE representative to the March 13, 2023 meeting of the Board to ensure Petitioner is not banished from any Board discussions, and that the Doctrine of Necessity is not invoked illegally"; and 4) to ensure at that meeting that a Dr. Gayles does "not participate in personnel matters to certify dubious and retaliatory tenure charges against Dr. Zywicki."

Narcise's February 27, 2020 petition of appeal, while containing ancillary complaints states that "the instructional program and administrative oversight of the district has been completely disputed following the suspension of our Superintendent Dr. Robert Zywicki on October 10, 2022 via private action of a single board member." She also claims the ensuing vote on October 17, 2022 [although failing to mention the vote by the majority of the members was to suspend Superintendent Dr. Zywicki] was made upon on the "false information of our conflicted Board attorney Marc Zitomer, Esq." While the rest of her February 27, 2023 petition speaks of a "recent consensus of non-conflicted members to mediate with Dr. Zywicki", every complaint of petitioner is based on the October 2022, suspension of Superintendent Zywicki and operates on the assumption that he should be reinstated.

On March 10, 2023, using another DOE form Pro Se Petition of Appeal, Narcise filed "another appeal," but which was, correctly viewed by the DOE as a request for emergent relief based on the February 27, 2023 pleading. Here, while petitioner expands somewhat on the alleged facts found in her Feb 27, 2023 pleading, he once again recounts what she perceives a bad decisions made by the BOE by its October 10 and October 17, 2022 sessions by suspending Dr. Zywicki because of information provided by the previously described "conflicted" board attorney.

She then goes on to describe further actions taken by the board in making "false statements" to the public about executive session decisions which resulted in an announcement that there would be another meeting on March 13, 2023 at which time she predicted the Doctrine of Necessity, occasioned when there is an insufficient number of non-conflicted BOE members available to conduct business would be employed and that at such meeting tenure charges against Zywicki would be preferred.

The respondent BOE filed a brief in Opposition on March 17, 2023 and argues that 1) Petitioner lacks standing to bring the action to challenge a Board's decision to suspend its Superintendent as she "has no direct interest in the case" and the Superintendent is a third party wholly unrelated to petitioner, and therefore cannot assert claims on his behalf; 2) Petitioner failed to submit any support for granting emergent relief, because she failed to submit, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), and as stated in Section V of the Petition of Appeal form provided by the DOE, a "letter memorandum or brief which shall address the standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 NJ 126 (1982);" 3) Petitioner's claim for Emergent Relief does not meet as required the four elements needed to be proved under Crowe to justify any emergent relief; 5) While related to the Crowe test, respondent argues separately that petitioner's claims regarding the October 10 and October 17, 2022 BOE meetings that resulted in the Superintendent's suspension, have already been litigated by him in his Complaint with Order to Show Cause heard in New Jersey Superior Court, which was denied by Order of the Hon, Louis J. Sceusi, JSC (ret. T/a on recall) and which dismissed the complaint. (Exhibit G, Order and Opinion dated December 2, 2022). Further, as stated in respondent's brief and as uncontested during oral argument (in which Zywicki's attorney appeared for argument acting on behalf of Zywicki as intervenor) Zywicki recently withdrew his Appellate Division Appeal of that matter. Finally, as Narcise did not file her Petition of Appeal until February 27, 2023, her appeal and Emergent application are untimely as she had 90 days to file a claim challenging the October 10 and 17, 2022 suspension actions against Zywicki and her claim was made 133 days after the cause of action arose.

Zywicki also filed a Motion to Intervene in the motion for Emergent relief, While written and oral argument by his counsel was permitted, his counsel candidly conceded that his purpose in intervening was to prevent his client from being barred in filing future actions on Zywicki's behalf by failing to seek to intervene here, owing to the Entire Controversies Rule. Strictly speaking, I doubt that Zywicki had the right to intervene, because he has failed to show a sufficient divergence of interest from petitioner so as "to add measurably and constructively to the scope of the case." Further, I agree with respondent's point that Narcise makes the same claims as Zywicki, and in this motion Zywicki simply joins in Narcise's arguments. Attorney Edelstein's Certification, paragraph 6. However, as he submitted his written arguments and was heard on the record, I see no reason to deny his motion to intervene, but note for the record that his request to intervene was only on the application for emergent relief not to Intervene in the underlying action. Were that issue before me, I would deny the motion to Intervene as I would regard it as forum shopping given the results in Superior Court.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

To be successful in an application for emergent relief the moving party prove and demonstrate each element clearly and convincingly.. Waste Management of N.J. v. Union. Cnty, Utilities Authority, 399 N.J. Super 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) sets forth the standards governing motions for emergent relief and instructs that:

> A motion for a stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):
>
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
>
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).] [emphasis supplied]

Irreparable harm

Irreparable harm is a "substantial injury to a material degree coupled with the inadequacy of money damages." Judice's Sunshine Pontiac v. General Motors corp., 418 F. Supp. 1212, 1218 (D.N.J. 1976). An injunctive relief award requires a "clear showing of irreparable injury" or a "presently existing actual threat." Cont'l Grp. v. Amoco Chemicals Corp., 614 F.2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980). More than a risk of irreparable harm must be demonstrated. Id.

Here, petitioner and Intervenor both failed to provide the required written letter memorandum, but also have completely failed to state even a hypothetical case that Narcise will suffer irreparable harm without injunctive relief. She says she has "suffered and the township and their school kids will suffer because of the continued suspension of Zywicki. This is speculative at best. Indeed it would be an almost impossible burden for a citizen or group of citizens to argue irreparable harm if any such official is suspended or eventually even discharged. Aside from her unsworn to arguments about the conflicts and alleged bad motives of Zywicki's adversaries, an emergent application hardly gives the opportunity to prove something that will take months or years to prove (e.g. that the conditions at the schools, because of a change in personnel, have deteriorated, warranting court intervention.)

Right to the underlying claim must be settled and Likelihood of Success on the Merits

A board of education's actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. In challenges to board actions, the challenger bears the burden of proving that such acts were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Schuster v. Bd. of Educ. Montgomery Twp., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 670, 676 (citing Schnick v. Westwood Ed. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), and Quinlan v. Bd. of Educ. of North Bergen Twp., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962). Narcise makes no competent argument that the BOE's actions were "arbitrary capricious or unreasonable." As for "unlawful" it is entirely speculative that the BOE would not have made the same the decision to suspend Zywicki were it not for the so called "false" statements made to them and the public by the so called conflicted attorney. None of this, not even the nature of the alleged conflict of the attorney has been shown clearly and convincingly, if at all.

Further, disciplinary actions of its employees such as the suspension challenged here and the tenure charges which Zywicki's counsel said will soon be challenged are the province of the local Board of Education which is vested , e.g. with the discretion to accept or reject tenure charges. Galante v. Board of Education of the City of North Arlington, Bergen County, OAL Docket No. 11479-06 (Final Decision August 21, 2008.) The legislature has vested that authority with the local BOE to make and enforce rules governing tenure terms of employment dismissal and discipline of its employees. It is untenable, if not impossible, to accept as a working principal of governing school board business that an aggrieved parent or a single Board member could compel a Board of Education to discipline one of its principles or other employees, or to undo that disciplinary action N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4 et. seq. In the absence of a clear showing of abuse of discretion, the Commissioner of Education will not substitute his or her own judgment for that of the board of education. Massaro v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Bergenfield, 1 965 S.L.D. 84, 85. In Kopera v. Bd. of Educ. of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960), the Appellate Division stated, "the well-established rule that action of the local board [of education] which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently without rational basis or induced by improper motives."

For those reasons and as stated by the respondent and my comments on the record, I find that Narcise has no standing to bring this action. Further the action itself and therefore the emergent appeal is moot as it has already been decided in the Superior Court. Finally, petitioner's appeal is untimely. For all those reasons the rights of the Narcise's underlying claim can hardly be considered settled, and for the same reasons, it cannot be plausibly argued that "clearly and convincingly" there is a likelihood of success on the merits of Narcise's claim.

Balancing of the Equities

As none of the other three elements of Crowe have been proven in favor of the applicant, I need not greatly discuss the final prong of balancing the equities. However, I note that at this stage where only Narcise's concerns for the suspension of Zywicki are at stake, the balance of the equities lie with the BOE as an entity, rather than with just one of its members.

Based on the above discussion, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to establish the existence of irreparable harm, that her claims are well settled, that petitioner is likely to prevail on the merits, or that the equites favor petitioner. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE the petitioner does not satisfy all the requirements under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 and must be DENIED. I also CONCLUDE that petitioner has no standing, her claims are untimely, and already decided by another action in Superior Court and otherwise, such as the relief sought to send representatives of the DOE to the March 13, 2023 BOE meeting, are moot.

ORDER

Therefore, I ORDER that petitioner's request for emergent relief be and is hereby DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who is authorized by law to make the final decision in this case. The final decision shall be issued without delay but no later than forty-five days from the entry of this order. New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Michele Fekete and Ben Kenion,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Trenton,
Mercer County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed Settlement Agreement (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner notes that Paragraph 2 of the Agreement references an action that preceded the consideration of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the settlement.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, provided that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms or have agreed upon mutually satisfactory alternate dates for the effectuation of the terms of the Agreement. Assuming same, the matter is hereby dismissed.

Final Decision

Jonathan Wadley,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner appealed the decision of the respondent New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (OSP), permanently disqualifying him from employment with any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Petitioner had twice pled guilty, in February 2000 and April 2001, to the second-degree offense of possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute on or near a public facility. N.J.S.A. 2C:35-7.1(a). Twenty years after his convictions, petitioner applied to be a substitute teacher and submitted to a background check which revealed his criminal record. The OSP filed a motion to dismiss.

The ALJ found that: N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 is clear in its requirement that a school cannot employ a staff member if that individual has a disqualifying criminal history record; petitioner's criminal history record check revealed two convictions for drug offenses which are permanently disqualifying for employment in New Jersey schools, even as a substitute teacher; petitioner's arguments that the New Jersey Cannabis Regulatory Enforcement Assistance and Marketplace Modernization Act decriminalizes marijuana possession and therefore his convictions should not bar his ability to work in a public school are without merit, as only certain charges under the Act will be dismissed, vacated, or expunged, and possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute on or near a public facility is not one of those enumerated charges. Accordingly, the ALJ granted OSP's motion to dismiss, as petitioner did not make a claim for which relief can be granted.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ findings and conclusion, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Jonathan Wadley,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

In this matter, petitioner challenges his permanent disqualification from employment with an educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education (Department). On February 3, 2000, and again on April 6, 2001, petitioner pled guilty to the second-degree offense of possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute on or near a public facility. N.J.S.A. 2C:35-7.1(a). Approximately 20 years after his convictions, petitioner applied to be a substitute teacher and submitted to a background check which revealed his criminal record. On August 15, 2022, the Office of Student Protection (OSP) notified petitioner that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, he is permanently disqualified from employment or service in public education. Thereafter, petitioner filed the instant petition.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that N.J.A.C. 18A:7.1(b) dictates petitioner's disqualification to work in a public school, including as a substitute teacher. The ALJ disagreed with petitioner's arguments that the New Jersey Cannabis Regulatory Enforcement Assistance and Marketplace Modernization Act (Act) decriminalizes marijuana possession and therefore his convictions should not bar his ability to work in a public school. The ALJ noted that only certain charges under the Act will be dismissed, vacated, or expunged, and possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute on or near a public facility is not one of those enumerated charges. As such, the ALJ granted OSP's motion to dismiss as petitioner did not make a claim for which relief can be granted.

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner is disqualified from working in a public institution under the supervision of the Department. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, an individual is permanently disqualified if he or she has been convicted of any crime of the first or second degree. Additionally, a person is permanently disqualified for any offense involving the "manufacture, transportation, sale, possession, distribution or habitual use of a 'controlled dangerous substance' . . . " N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(b). Petitioner was convicted twice of a second-degree offense, and those convictions involve the possession, sale, or distribution of a controlled dangerous substance. As such, he must be disqualified from employment in public education, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

Sydney Finkelstein, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Matthew J. Platkin, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: February 13, 2023 Decided: March 10, 2023

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Jonathan Wadley challenges the decision of respondent New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (Department), that he is disqualified from employment in a public school, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(b).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 15, 2022, petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes. On October 11, 2022, respondent filed an answer and motion for dismissal. The Commissioner of Education did not rule on the motion but transmitted it with the petition to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 13, 2022, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference on December 8, 2022, but petitioner failed to appear or to contact the OAL to explain his absence. The telephone prehearing conference was rescheduled for January 11, 2023, but petitioner failed to appear. In response to an email from the OAL, petitioner stated that he was unable to get away from work for the prehearing conference and asked that it be rescheduled. The parties appeared for a telephone prehearing conference on January 26, 2023, during which a briefing schedule for respondent's motion to dismiss was issued. On January 31, 2023, petitioner filed a response in opposition to respondent's motion to dismiss. Respondent replied on February 13, 2023, and the motion is now ripe for review.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The following FACTS[1] are not in dispute and accordingly, I FIND:

1. Petitioner is an adult male. On or before August 1, 2022, petitioner applied to serve as a substitute teacher in a New Jersey high school. This application was denied, as described below.

2. On February 3, 2000, at the approximate age of nineteen years old, petitioner was charged with, and pled guilty to, the second-degree offense

[1] Most of the documents transmitted by the Department are illegible and therefore, to establish background and non-disputed facts, I relied mainly on statements made by the parties in their moving and responsive papers which were not challenged by the other party.

of possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute on or near a public facility, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-7.1(a).[2]

3. On April 6, 2001, petitioner was charged with, and pled guilty to, the second-degree offense of possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute on or near a public facility, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-7.1(a).

4. On December 9, 2001, petitioner completed a six-month drug program conducted by the Mercer County, New Jersey Drug Court Program.

5. On June 7, 2006, petitioner completed five years of probation. There was no evidence presented of additional criminal charges.

6. By statute, any person applying for employment with, or to volunteer at, a public school in New Jersey must submit to a background check. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(b). The background check conducted following petitioner's application for employment as a substitute teacher revealed his above-described criminal record.[3]

7. Petitioner stated that he has completed college, has been accepted into the Screen Actors Guild (actors' union), and has found steady employment in the television industry. He is a father of four and grandfather of two and believes he is well qualified to work with children.

8. On August 26, 2022, after enactment of the New Jersey Cannabis Regulatory, Enforcement Assistance and Marketplace Modernization Act, P.L. 2021, c. 19 (the Act), petitioner applied to have his above-described criminal record expunged. His expungement application is pending.

[2] Petitioner now claims that he was improperly charged; the action of the Trenton Police Department in charging petitioner more than twenty years ago is not at issue in this proceeding.

[3] Again, the documentary record provided by the parties was incomplete or illegible, but this can be presumed based on the requirements of the statute and the content of the notice respondent gave petitioner of his disqualification for employment in a New Jersey public school.

9. On August 15, 2022, respondent notified petitioner in writing that he is "permanently disqualified from serving in any position, paid or unpaid, with any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education, or with a contracted service provider under contract with said school or educational facility."

10. This appeal was timely filed by petitioner.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The rules of procedure governing petitions of appeal filed with the Commissioner permit a respondent to submit a motion to dismiss in lieu of (or with) an answer "on the grounds that the petitioner has advanced no cause of action even if the petitioner's factual allegations are accepted as true or for lack of jurisdiction, failure to prosecute or other good reason." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10. However, these education rules do not offer any guidance on the standards by which such motions should be assessed.

The Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (UAPR), N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.3, also do not address the standards for such motions. However, the UAPR, which "shall be construed to achieve just results, simplicity in procedure, fairness in administration and the elimination of unjustifiable expense and delay," state that, "[i]n the absence of a rule, a judge may proceed in accordance with the New Jersey Court Rules, provided the rules are compatible with these purposes." N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a).

Here, the court rule that fills the void is R. 4:6-2 which, like N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10, allows for motions for judgment on the pleadings. And since R. 4:6-2 serves the interests of time and expense and may help achieve just results, it is compatible with the UAPR's purposes, and thus it is appropriate to assess respondent's motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer under the standards used by the courts in applying R. 4:6-2.

Under these standards, if the basis for a motion to dismiss is that the petition has advanced no cause of action, or failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, "the test for determining the adequacy of [the] pleading [is] whether a cause of action is 'suggested' by the facts," such that the "inquiry is limited to examining the legal sufficiency of the facts alleged on the face of the complaint." Printing-Mart Morristown, 116 N.J. at 746 (citing R. 4:6-2(e)); Velantzas, 109 N.J. at 192; Rieder v. Dep't of Transp., 221 N.J. Super. 547, 552 (App.Div. 1987)).

Importantly, for purposes of the motion, it does not matter whether a petitioner can ultimately "prove the allegation contained in the complaint" because "all facts alleged in the complaint and the legitimate inferences drawn therefrom are deemed admitted." Ibid. (citing Somers Constr. Co. v. Bd. of Educ., 198 F.Supp. 732, 734 (D.N.J.1961)); Smith v. City of Newark, 136 N.J. Super. 107, 112 (App. Div.1975) (citing Heavner v. Uniroyal, Inc., 63 N.J. 130, 133 (1973); J.H. Becker, Inc. v. Marlboro Twp., 82 N.J. Super. 519, 524 (App. Div. 1964)). While "[a] complaint should not be dismissed . . . where a cause of action is suggested by the facts . . . a dismissal is mandated where the factual allegations are palpably insufficient to support a claim upon which relief can be granted." Rieder, 221 N.J. Super. at 552.

Petitioner is working on his own, without the assistance of counsel. For that reason, his pleadings are held to a less stringent standard than that by which pleadings drafted by an attorney are judged. Anchorage Poynte Condo. Ass'n. v. Di Christo, 2017 N.J. Super. Lexis 1112 (August 17, 2017), at *5(citing Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519 (1972)). Even so, petitioner presents no facts sufficient to negate the application of the following statute:

> An individual . . . shall be permanently disqualified from employment or service under this act if the individual's criminal history record check reveals a record of conviction for any crime of the first or second degree; or [an] offense involving the manufacture, transportation, sale, possession, distribution or habitual use of a "controlled dangerous > substance" as defined in the "Comprehensive Drug Reform Act of 1987," N.J.S.2C:35-1 et al. or "drug paraphernalia" as defined pursuant to N.J.S.2C:36-1 et seq.

> [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(b).]

In response to the motion to dismiss, Wadley notes that the Act "legaliz[es] and regulat[es] cannabis use and possession for adults 21 years and older and decriminaliz[es] marijuana and hashish possession." Ltr. Br. of Petitioner Opposing Motion to Dismiss (January 31, 2023), at 2. As respondent argues, however, the Act does not expunge the specific crimes as to which petitioner pled guilty, nor does the Act supersede the mandates of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Specifically, under the Act, only certain charges are qualified to be dismissed, vacated, and expunged and these enumerated charges do not include possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute within 500 feet of a public facility. See Reply Br. of Respondent (February 13, 2023), at 3, citing N.J.S.A. 2C:35-23.1(a).

In his petition and letter brief, petitioner makes policy arguments to support his allegations of unfair and discriminatory treatment by respondent. While it may be that the mistakes petitioner admits making as a young adult would no longer result in criminal charges,[4] and those charges may yet be expunged from his record, until such time as the education laws reflect the recent decriminalization of marijuana possession and use, the above statute dictates petitioner's disqualification to work (or volunteer) in a public school in any capacity, including as a substitute teacher.

For the above reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not made a claim for which relief can be granted.

[4] As stated above, petitioner claims he was mischarged with intent to distribute a controlled substance rather than simple possession. Since he was just nineteen years of age at the time of his first arrest, even under the recent change in the law, he still could have been charged as possession of a controlled substance by a person less than twenty-one years of age is illegal. See N.J.S.A. 24:6I-32(b).

ORDER

For the reasons set forth above, I ORDER that the motion of respondent Department of Education to dismiss the petition of Jonathan Wadley for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted is hereby GRANTED and the petition of Wadley is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Voorhees, Camden County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner challenged the respondent's filling of a vacancy created by the resignation of Board member Rachel Van Aken (Van Aken) on February 24, 2022. Petitioner maintained that the Board lacked the authority to fill this vacancy and sought to overturn the Board's appointment of Julie Ketover (Ketover) to fill Van Aken's unexpired term; petitioner further sought to nullify any votes cast by Ketover as a Board member. The Board contended that this matter is moot as Ketover was subsequently elected to a full term as a Board member on November 8, 2022. The Board further contended that the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted and filed a motion to dismiss.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: on February 24, 2022, a vacancy on the Board was created by the resignation of Van Aken; the Board sought to fill the vacant seat for the remainder of Van Aken's term, which expired in November 2022; following two unsuccessful attempts to fill the vacancy in March and April of 2022, the Board rescinded its previous actions regarding the vacancy and voted on June 15, 2022 to appoint Ketover to fill the vacant seat for the remainder of Van Aken's term; and petitioner contended that the Board's actions on June 15, 2022, violated N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201(b)(2) as more than sixty-five days had passed since Van Aken's resignation; however, it is undisputed that Ketover was duly elected to a seat on the Board on November 8, 2022 and petitioner's argument that Ketover's appointment to the seat, three months earlier, could have "dramatically effected the election" is speculative and has no relevance to the within proceeding. The ALJ concluded that the petition is moot because Ketover was duly elected as a member of the Board on November 8, 2022, and there is nothing left to decide in this case. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion to dismiss the case for mootness.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ, for the reasons thoroughly detailed in the Initial Decision, that the petition of appeal is moot. Accordingly, the Board's motion to dismiss was granted, and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

MOTION TO DISMISS
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 07409-22
AGENCY DKT. NO. 216-8/22

ERIC SIMKIN,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF VOORHEES, CAMDEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Eric Simkin, petitioner, pro se

Jeffrey P. Catalano, Esq., for respondent (Parker McCay, P.A., attorneys)

Record Closed: February 16, 2023 Decided: March 10, 2023

BEFORE KATHLEEN M. CALEMMO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Eric Simkin, filed this action against respondent, the Board of Education of the Township of Voorhees, Camden County (the Board), as an emergent-relief request and petition. After emergent relief was denied, the Commissioner of Education continued the petition at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for such proceedings as were deemed necessary to bring the matter to closure.

Petitioner challenged how the respondent filled the vacancy caused by the resignation of Board member, Rachel Van Aken, on February 24, 2022. Petitioner maintained that the Board lacked the authority to fill this vacancy. Therefore, he sought to overturn the Board's appointment of Julie Ketover to fill Van Aken's unexpired term and to nullify any votes cast by Ketover as a Board member.

The Board contends that the matter is now moot due to Ketover's election as a Board member on November 8, 2022, for her own term. The Board further contends that the petition fails to state a claim on which relief can be granted, thereby requiring dismissal of the petition.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 26, 2022, the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes transmitted petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief to the OAL to be heard as a contested case. I issued an Order on September 6, 2022, denying the request for emergent relief. On September 14, 2022, the Commissioner issued an Order adopting the September 6, 2022, Order, and continued the matter at the OAL for such proceedings deemed necessary to bring the matter to closure.

Following telephone conferences and the exchange of discovery, the Board filed a Motion to Dismiss. On February 8, 2023, Simkin filed a brief in opposition. On February 15, 2023, the Board filed its reply.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

On February 24, 2022, a vacancy on the Board was created by the resignation of Rachel Van Aken. The Board sought to fill this seat for the remainder of her term which would end in November 2022. The Board was unsuccessful in two attempts during meetings on March 16, 2022, and on April 11, 2022, to fill the vacancy.

By email, dated April 12, 2022, the Board's Solicitor advised Executive County Superintendent, Daryl Minus-Vincent, that the deadline for the Board to appoint a candidate to fill the vacancy expired on April 30, 2022. (Respondent Exhibit A.) The vacancy created by Ms. Van Aken's resignation was not on the agenda for its May 4, 2022, meeting.

At the June 15, 2022, Board Meeting, Board President Monica Watson added an agenda item to rescind the previous votes to fill the vacancy. The Board then voted to appoint Ms. Ketover to fill the vacant seat for its unexpired term by a vote of five to three. Petitioner contends that under N.J.S.A. 8A:12-15(a), the Board lacked the authority to fill this vacancy because more than sixty-five days had passed since the occurrence of Van Aken's resignation.

After appointing Ms. Ketover to the vacant seat on June 15, 2022, the Board Solicitor sent an email to the new Executive County Superintendent, Carmen Rodriguez, informing him that the Board filled the vacancy. (Respondent Exhibit B.)

Ms. Ketover was sworn in as a Board member at the August 29, 2022, Board meeting and voted during that meeting as a member of the Board. She voted to approve the 2022–2023 curriculum for Social Studies; Science; Math; Language Arts Literacy; Health and Physical Education; Visual and Performing Arts; and World Language. The motion passed with seven members voting yes and one member abstaining. Even if Ms. Ketover's vote was invalidated, this motion would still have passed, and the Curriculum would have taken effect.

On November 8, 2022, Ms. Ketover was duly elected to a seat on the Board.

The above facts are not disputed. Rather, petitioner maintains that the Board's actions on June 15, 2022, violated N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201(b)(2), because sixty-five days had passed since Van Aiken's resignation.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

As the Board properly argued, mootness is a threshold justiciability determination rooted in the notion that judicial power is to be exercised only when a party is immediately threatened with harm. Jackson v. Dep't of Corr., 335 N.J. Super. 227, 231 (App. Div. 2000). "A case is technically moot when the original issue presented has been resolved at least concerning the parties who initiated the litigation." DeVesa v. Dorsey, 134 N.J. 420, 428 (1993). Courts normally will not decide issues when a controversy no longer exists, and the disputed issues have become moot. Id.

An action is moot when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the issues raised have become academic. For reasons of judicial economy and restraint, it is appropriate to refrain from decision-making when an issue presented is hypothetical; judgment cannot grant effective relief; or the parties do not have a concrete adversity of interest. Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super. 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976); Fox v. Twp. of E. Brunswick Bd. of Educ., EDU 10067-98, Initial Decision (March 19, 1999), aff'd, Comm'r (May 3, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>; S.J. v. Bd. of Educ. of Mountain Lakes, EDU 07081-03, Initial Decision (October 7, 2003), aff'd, Comm'r (Nov. 17, 2003), aff'd, St. Bd. (Feb. 3, 2004) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

When a decision being sought in a particular matter has no practical effect on the existing controversy, it is considered moot. "Therefore, when there has been a change in circumstances that raises doubt concerning the immediacy of the controversy, courts will ordinarily dismiss cases as moot, regardless of the state to which litigation has progressed." Anderson, 143 N.J. Super. at 437.

In the instant matter, I FIND as it is undisputed that Julie Ketover was duly elected to a seat on the Board on November 8, 2022. Petitioner's argument that Ketover's appointment to the seat, three months earlier, could have "dramatically effected the election" is speculative and has no relevance to this proceeding. Any decision rendered by this tribunal about the Board's action on June 15, 2022, when it voted to approve Ketover's appointment to fill Van Aiken's unexpired term and on August 29, 2022, when it voted to approve Ketover as a member of the Board would have no practical effect due to Ketover's election on November 8, 2022. As such, I FIND that this action no longer presents a justiciable controversy. There is no relief that can be afforded to this petitioner, as there has been no injury shown.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petition is moot because Ketover was duly elected on November 8, 2022, as a member of the Board. As such, there is nothing for this tribunal to decide.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that respondent's Motion to Dismiss on behalf of mootness is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." New Jersey Commissioner of Education

R.G., on behalf of minor child, R.G.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Florence, Burlington County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Petitioner filed the instant petition on or after November 5, 2022, challenging the Board's May 11, 2022, denial of his request to expunge his son's records concerning speech and language assessments that petitioner contends were incorrectly administered and scored. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petition should be dismissed as it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The ALJ also found that the circumstances do not warrant relaxation of the filing timeframe.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that this matter was filed more than 90 days after the Board denied petitioner's request to expunge his son's student records. As such, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that this matter is barred by the 90-day statute of limitations set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The Commissioner further agrees that relaxation of the limitations period is not warranted.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

R.G., petitioner, pro se

Sanmathi Dev, Esq. and Joseph F. Betley, Esq., for respondent (Capehart & Scatchard, P.A., attorneys)

Record Closed: January 10, 2023 Decided: March 10, 2023

BEFORE JUDITH LIEBERMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner R.G. appealed the denial, by respondent Board of Education of the Township of Florence, Burlington County (Board), of his request for the expungement of records, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 6A:32-7.7(a)1. The Board filed a motion to dismiss based upon the failure of petitioner to file his petition within ninety days, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A: 3-3.1(i).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about November 5, 2022, petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of the Department of Education (Commissioner), in which he appeals the Board's denial of his expungement request. On November 18, 2022, respondent filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. Petitioner filed an opposition brief on November 19, 2022, and respondent filed a reply brief on November 23, 2022. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) November 22, 2022. During a January 9, 2023, prehearing conference, it was determined that the reply brief was not submitted to the OAL along with the petition, the motion to dismiss and the opposition brief. Respondent submitted its reply brief to the OAL on January 10, 2023. The record for the motion closed that day.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following, taken from the petition and documents appended to the petition, are treated as undisputed for the purpose of this motion.[1] I therefore FIND the following as FACT:

On or about November 5, 2022, petitioner R.G. filed a petition with the Commissioner, in which he seeks the expungement of records concerning his son. The records concern speech and language assessments that petitioner contends were incorrectly administered and scored. He described the purported errors in his petition. Petition at ¶¶1–5.

[1] Because the matter arises on defendants' motion to dismiss, [the court must] accept as true the facts alleged in the complaint. . . . Plaintiffs are entitled to every reasonable inference in their favor." Craig v. Suburban Cablevision, Inc., 140 N.J. 623, 625-26 (1995) (citations omitted); see also Maeker v. Ross, 219 N.J. 565, 569 (2014).

Petitioner first requested expungement of his son's records on March 30, 2022. Id. at ¶6. School district personnel denied his request, and he appealed the denial to the Board. Ibid. On May 11, 2022, he was advised by the Board that it had reviewed and denied his request. Ibid. The Board further advised that it found that all but one of the assessments at issue were properly conducted. However, having found that one assessment was inaccurately scored, it directed that an addendum concerning that assessment would be included in the student's file. Ibid. The Board further advised that petitioner's communications and the documents that he submitted in support of his expungement request would be made part of the student's educational record. Id. (referring to attached undated letter from Board Secretary Luis Valencia).

On November 18, 2022, respondent filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. It contends that petitioner's complaint is untimely, as he was required to appeal the denial of his expungement request within ninety days of the Board's denial of his request.

In opposition to the motion, petitioner does not dispute more than ninety days passed since the Board denied his expungement request. He asserts that his failure to file his complaint in a timely manner was an oversight. He noted that he is proceeding pro se; has no legal education or background and is responsible for a child who has special needs. Pet. Reply Brf. at 1. He asserted that the Commissioner should relax the filing deadline pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The analysis required when considering a motion to dismiss is "whether a cause of action is suggested by the facts." Velantzas v. Colgate-Palmolive Co., 109 N.J. 189, 192 (1988)(citations omitted). "A reviewing court must search the complaint in depth and with liberality to ascertain whether the fundament of a cause of action may be gleaned even from an obscure statement of claim[.]" Craig v. Suburban Cablevision, Inc., 140 N.J. at 625-26 (1995)(citations omitted). A motion to dismiss should only be granted in the rarest of instances. Printing Mart-Morristown v. Sharp Elecs. Corp., 116 N.J. 739, 772 (1989). In reviewing the complaint, the question is not whether the petitioner can prove the allegations, but whether the facts alleged are sufficient to state a cause of action. Id.

at 746. See also F. G. v. MacDonell, 150 N.J. 550, 556 (1997) ("If a generous reading of the allegations merely suggests a cause of action, the complaint will withstand the motion.").

N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7 addresses requests for expungement of student records. It provides:

> (a) Student records are subject to challenge by parents and adult students on grounds of inaccuracy, irrelevancy, impermissible disclosure, inclusion of improper information, or denial of access to organizations, agencies, and persons. The parent or adult student may request:
>
> 1. Expungement of inaccurate, irrelevant, or otherwise improper information from the student record;
>
> 2. Insertion of additional data, as well as reasonable comments regarding the meaning and/or accuracy of the student record;
>
> 3. The immediate stay of disclosure pending final determination of the challenged procedure as described in this subchapter; and/or
>
> 4. Immediate access to student records for organizations, agencies, and persons denied access, pending final determination of the challenged procedure, as described in this subchapter.
>
> (b) To request a change in the student record or to request a stay of disclosure pending final determination of the challenged procedure, a parent or adult student shall notify, in writing, the chief school administrator of the specific issues relating to the student record.
>
> 1. Within 10 school days of notification, the chief school administrator, or the chief school administrator's designee, shall notify the parent or adult student of the school district's decision. If the school district disagrees with the request, the chief school administrator, or the chief school administrator's designee, shall meet with the parent or adult student to resolve the issues set forth in the request.

2. If the matter is not satisfactorily resolved, the parent or adult student has 10 school days to appeal the school district's decision.

2. If an appeal is made to the district board of education, the district board of education shall render a decision within 20 school days.

3. The decision of the district board of education may be appealed to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9[2] and N.J.A.C. 6A:3, Controversies and Disputes. At all stages of the appeal process, the parent or adult student shall be afforded a full and fair opportunity to present evidence relevant to the issue.

4. A record of the appeal proceedings and outcome shall be made a part of the student record with copies made available to the parent or adult student.

(c) Appeals relating to student records of students with disabilities shall be processed in accordance with the requirements of (b) above.

(d) Regardless of the outcome of an appeal, a parent or adult student shall be permitted to place in the student record a statement commenting upon the information in the student record or setting forth any reasons for contesting a portion of the student record, including the decision made in the appeal. The parent's or adult student's statement shall be maintained as part of the student record, as long as the contested portion of the student record is maintained. If the contested portion of the student record is disclosed to any party, the statement commenting upon the information shall also be disclosed to that party.

[Emphasis added.]

[2] The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the State board or of the commissioner. For the purposes of this Title, controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) requires that appeals from final decisions of district boards of education must be filed with the Commissioner within ninety days:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute, regulation, or court order provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal.

"The ninety-day rule has been strictly followed and applied almost without exception. D.Q. o/b/o S.Q. v. Sch. Dist. of Newark, 2009 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 640 (Jan. 21, 2009). In Dreher v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., a petition filed only two days after the ninety-day period was dismissed as untimely. 1987 S.L.D. 1706, aff'd, 1988 S.L.[D]. 2439 (State Bd. of Educ. 1988), rev'd on other grounds, A-6120-82 (App. Div. 1989), cert. denied, 117 N.J. 138 (1989)." Hendrickson v. Board of Education of the City of Rahway, Union County and Ray Lopez, Board Member, 2018 N.J. Relaxation of the rule may be permissible if exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated.

> The rules in this chapter shall be considered general rules of practice to govern, expedite and effectuate the procedure before, and the actions of the Commissioner in connection with, the determination of controversies and disputes under the school laws. Where such rules do not reflect a specific statutory requirement or an underlying rule of the OAL, they may be relaxed or dispensed with by the Commissioner, in the Commissioner's discretion, in any case where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice.

However, this relief has been rarely granted.

> "Such authority is rarely invoked unless strict adherence to the rule would be inappropriate, unnecessary or where injustice would occur, or where the Commissioner finds the presence of a substantial constitutional issue or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves." [Snow v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Moorestown, 2007 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 312 (April 20, 2007).] In fact, this extraordinary relief has been reserved only for those situations where a substantial constitutional issue is presented or where a matter of significant public interest is involved, beyond that of concern only to the parties. AAA School LLC v. Passaic Cnty. Educ. Servs. Comm'n, Passaic Cnty, 2014 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 397 (June 18, 2014).
> [Hendrickson v. Board of Education of the City of Rahway, Union County and Ray Lopez, Board Member, 2018 N.J. AGEN LEXIS at *13-14.]

Here, there is no dispute that petitioner received the Board's denial of his expungement request on May 11, 2022. He served his petition appealing this decision upon school district personnel on October 31, 2022, and filed his complaint with the Commissioner on or after November 5, 2022. This is well beyond the ninety-day deadline. It is also undisputed that the Board included petitioner's request for expungement, his communications about the request and the documents he submitted in support of his request in his son's student file. The Board thus ensured that there is a clear record of his objection to the documents at issue. In support of his plea for relaxation of the controlling regulation, petitioner cites his pro se status and his obligations to his child. Notwithstanding these circumstances, he properly pursued his application before the school and the Board, as he detailed in his petition. For these reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not presented exceptional circumstances for the Commissioner to relax the ninety-day deadline.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, I ORDER that respondent's motion to dismiss the petition is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Decision

Board of Education of the Village of Ridgefield Park, Bergen County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Little Ferry, Bergen County, and Frank R. Scarafile, Superintendent

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, Ridgefield Park Board of Education (Ridgefield Park), and respondent, Little Ferry Board of Education (Little Ferry), have a longstanding send-receive relationship whereby Little Ferry students attend Ridgefield Park High School on a tuition basis. The two boards are parties to a formal written send-receive agreement which historically has provided for a tuition rate that was lower than the certified tuition rate based on Ridgefield Park's actual cost per pupil. For the 2018-2019 school year, the parties executed a contract that provided an estimated tuition rate and indicated that "there shall be no certified tuition adjustment." Subsequently, in 2022, Ridgefield Park filed the within petition seeking to compel Little Ferry to pay the difference between the estimated tuition cost listed in the contract and the actual State-certified cost. Ridgefield Park filed a motion for summary decision, which Little Ferry opposed; the ALJ considered Little Ferry's opposition as a cross-motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: although N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f) requires a receiving district to return an overpayment to a sending district, a receiving district is not required to charge a sending district for an underpayment caused by the difference between the estimated tuition rate in the contract and the State-certified rate; the provision in the parties' contract stipulating that there would be no certified tuition adjustment did not contradict the regulation and was enforceable; although Ridgefield Park could have negotiated contract language stating that it may seek to recoup tuition underpayments, it did not do so in 2018-2019; in this matter, equitable principles favor Little Ferry, which relied upon the contract agreement's negotiated adjustment waiver. Accordingly, the ALJ granted Little Ferry's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that Ridgefield Park is not entitled to recoup any underpayment by Little Ferry for the 2018-2019 school year, finding, inter alia, that: there was nothing improper in the ALJ's consideration of Little Ferry's opposition as a cross-motion for summary judgment; and the applicable statutes and regulations clearly permit a receiving district to waive its right to any tuition underpayment from a sending district. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Village of Ridgefield Park, Bergen County, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Little Ferry, Bergen County, and Frank R. Scarafile, Superintendent, Respondents.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by the petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the respondent's reply thereto, have been reviewed and considered.

This matter involves a sending-receiving relationship whereby students from Little Ferry attend Ridgefield Park High School. Historically, the tuition rate that the Ridgefield Park Board of Education (Ridgefield Park) charged the Little Ferry Board of Education (Little Ferry) was lower than the certified tuition rate calculated by the New Jersey Department of Education (State) based on Ridgefield Park's actual cost per pupil. For the 2018-2019 school year, the parties executed a contract that provided an estimated tuition rate and indicated that "there shall be no certified tuition adjustment." In 2022, Ridgefield Park filed a petition of appeal seeking to compel Little Ferry to pay the difference between the estimated tuition cost listed in the contract and the actual State-certified cost.

Following Ridgefield Park's motion for summary decision, and opposition thereto by Little Ferry – which the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) considered as a cross-motion for summary decision – the ALJ found that while N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f) requires a receiving district to return an overpayment to a sending district, a receiving district is not required to charge a sending district for an underpayment caused by the difference between the estimated tuition rate in the contract and the State-certified rate. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the provision in the parties' contract stipulating that there would be no certified tuition adjustment did not contradict the regulation and was enforceable. The ALJ found that Ridgefield Park could have negotiated language stating that it may seek to recoup underpayments, but it did not in 2018-2019. Additionally, the ALJ concluded that equitable principles favored Little Ferry, which relied upon the agreement's negotiated adjustment waiver. The ALJ granted Little Ferry's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

In its exceptions, Ridgefield Park argues that the Initial Decision in a prior case between these parties held that the statutory and regulatory scheme governs the right to tuition payments, not the parties' contractual language, and that any contractual language or past practice that is at odds with the regulations is unenforceable. Bd. of Educ. of the Village of Ridgefield Park, Bergen Co. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Little Ferry, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 07868-20 (Initial Decision, March 8, 2021),[1] adopted, Commissioner Decision No. 92-21 (decided April 22, 2021).[2] According to Ridgefield Park, the ALJ erred in finding that the 2021 Initial Decision applied only in cases where there was no signed tuition contract, when no such limitation is contained in that decision. Ridgefield Park also contends that there is no basis for the ALJ's conclusion that underpayments and overpayments should be treated differently, and that such a result is unfair to receiving districts. Ridgefield Park further argues that while the regulation provides that a receiving district "may" demand an underpayment, this language only means that the receiving district has the discretion to demand or not demand that amount – not that the district can bargain away its right to demand it in a tuition contract. Ridgefield Park notes that Little Ferry did not move for summary decision – and in fact argued that the case should proceed to a hearing – and contends that it was therefore inappropriate for the ALJ to award summary decision to Little Ferry.

[1] Hereafter, "2021 Initial Decision."

[2] Hereafter, "2021 Commissioner decision."

In reply, Little Ferry argues that Ridgefield Park agreed to waive any claim for additional tuition costs when it signed the tuition contract providing that "there shall be no certified tuition adjustments for the 2018/2019 school year." According to Little Ferry, the 2021 Commissioner decision allows a receiving district to accept a tuition rate lower than the full certified tuition rate, and that is what Ridgefield Park did in signing the tuition contract. Little Ferry notes that other agreements between the parties either included no language regarding tuition adjustments or expressly confirmed that Little Ferry would pay the adjusted amount, demonstrating that Ridgefield Park was aware of its ability to negotiate the adjustment language. Little Ferry contends that the current matter is factually distinct from the prior matter because of the inclusion of language specifically waiving Ridgefield Park's ability to demand any tuition adjustment. Little Ferry argues that it successfully negotiated for a lower tuition rate, and that Ridgefield Park should be bound by that negotiated term. According to Little Ferry, the ALJ correctly determined that overpayments and underpayments should be treated differently, because while a receiving district can agree to accept less than it is entitled to for the services it provides to the sending district, it should not be unjustly enriched by being permitted to charge the sending district more than the cost the receiving district incurred.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that Ridgefield Park is not entitled to recoup any underpayment by Little Ferry for the 2018-2019 school year. Initially, the Commissioner finds unpersuasive Ridgefield Park's argument that it was inappropriate for the ALJ to award summary decision to Little Ferry when Little Ferry had not moved for summary decision. In opposition to Ridgefield Park's motion for summary decision, Little Ferry asserts that its position regarding Ridgefield Park's ability to recoup any underpayments is correct as a matter of law. Little Ferry also argued that there are issues of disputed material facts, but those issues pertain solely to calculation of the tuition rate and the amount Ridgefield Park was seeking to collect. However, in finding that Ridgefield Park is not entitled to recoup the underpayment, those issues of fact become irrelevant, and a plenary hearing to address them would be a waste of judicial resources. The Commissioner finds no basis to disturb the ALJ's decision to view Little Ferry's opposition to Ridgefield Park's motion for summary decision as a cross-motion for summary decision.

Turning to the merits, Ridgefield Park relies heavily on the language in the 2021 Initial Decision that states, "[T]he statutory and regulatory scheme governs the sending-receiving relationship relative to tuition payments, and not the parties' contractual language. .... While the regulatory scheme demands execution of a formal agreement, any contractual language or past practice that is at odds with the regulations is unenforceable." 2021 Initial Decision, supra. Ridgefield Park appears to assume that the portion of the parties' tuition agreement providing for no tuition adjustments is at odds with the regulations, and – pursuant to the 2021 Initial Decision – is therefore unenforceable. However, a board of education choosing to forego its ability to recoup an underpayment is not at odds with the applicable statute or regulation. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19 provides that "the board of education of the receiving district shall determine a tuition rate to be paid by the board of education of the sending district . . .". That is precisely what occurred between the parties for the 2018-2019 school year. Ridgefield Park determined the estimated tuition rate, and, by virtue of agreeing that it would not recoup any underpayment, also determined the final tuition rate.

Furthermore, as the Commissioner indicated in the 2021 matter, "nothing in the statutes or regulations precludes negotiations between the parties, and the receiving district is free to accept a tuition rate lower than the full certified tuition rate. . .". 2021 Commissioner Decision, supra.[3] This outcome is also consistent with Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Spotswood, Middlesex Co. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Milltown, Middlesex Co., Commissioner Decision No. 179-99 (decided June 7, 1999). In Spotswood, the Commissioner noted, "the pertinent regulations permit, but do not require, a receiving district to charge a sending district for either all or part of the money owed when it is determined that the tentative charge established by written contractual agreement was less than the actual cost per pupil during the school year." Ibid. (citations omitted)[4] (emphasis in original). Spotswood and Milltown had signed a tuition agreement based on a form prepared by the Commissioner in which they agreed that Milltown would pay the full amount of any underpayment, and, accordingly, Milltown was required to pay that amount. However, the Commissioner also noted that "the contract permits the parties the option to check [a box]

[3] To the extent there is any conflict between the Initial Decision and the Commissioner Decision in the prior matter, the Commissioner decision controls. However, the Commissioner does not find there to be any conflict, as the Initial Decision addresses contractual language that is at odds with the regulation, and, as noted herein, a receiving district forgoing its ability to recoup an underpayment is not at odds with the statute or the regulation.

[4] The pertinent regulations were codified in a different section of the Administrative Code at the time of the Spotswood decision but are substantially the same in content.

indicating that a sending district would not be charged with any tuition differential"[5] and that the applicable regulations permit the receiving district to forego charging the sending district where tentative costs are found to be underestimated. Ibid.

Ridgefield Park did not have to forgo its right to recoup an underpayment, as the statute gives the receiving district full discretion to set the rate, so long as it does not exceed the State-certified rate. Ridgefield Park could have included language in its contract allowing it to recoup any underpayment. The parties could have left the agreement silent on this issue, allowing Ridgefield Park to set the rate once it learned of the State-certified rate later in the cycle. If Little Ferry refused to sign either of such versions of the tuition agreement – which is what led to the prior case between these parties – Ridgefield Park could have insisted that they do so. However, none of those events occurred. The statutory and regulatory scheme clearly permits a receiving district to waive its right to any underpayment, and such a waiver is not ineffective simply because it occurred at the time the parties signed their tuition agreement.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

For school year 2018-2019, respondent executed a contract with petitioner to educate its high school-aged residents at an estimated tuition rate, agreeing that "there shall be no certified tuition adjustment" for that year. Petitioner now seeks payment at the higher State-certified tuition rate. Is additional reimbursement owed? No. While statutes allow receiving districts to charge tuition up to the State-certified rate, the parties can negotiate a lower rate. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8; N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f)7.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 24, 2022, the Township of Ridgefield Park Board of Education (Ridgefield Park) filed this action with the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes (DOE), seeking to compel the Little Ferry Board of Education (Little Ferry) to pay the difference between the estimated tuition cost for educating Little Ferry's high school students and the actual State-certified cost. Specifically, Ridgefield Park maintains that its agreement not to adjust the tuition rate after the State calculated the exact cost and certified the rate is unenforceable under the governing statute.

On March 11, 2022, Little Ferry submitted its answer to the petition.

On March 16, 2022, the DOE transmitted the contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On November 16, 2022, Ridgefield Park filed a motion for summary decision. On December 7, 2022, Little Ferry filed its opposition to the motion, which I now consider a cross-motion for summary decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.6(d) (allowing an ALJ to "convert any form of proceeding into another."); see also N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.6(p) (providing that an ALJ may take action to ensure "the proper, expeditious and fair conduct of the hearing or other proceeding, development of the record and rendering of a decision.") Significantly, each party asserts they are correct under the law and entitled to a decision in their favor. On December 19, 2022, Ridgefield Park submitted its reply. At Little Ferry's request, I scheduled oral argument on the motion for January 13, 2023, and I closed the record.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the documents submitted in support of and in opposition to the motions for summary decision, I FIND the following as FACT for purposes of these motions only:

The Little Ferry School District has no high school. Little Ferry's high school-aged students attend Ridgefield Park High School on a tuition basis under a send-receive agreement. The State calculates the tuition cost per student under a regulatory formula. However, actual audited expenditures and average daily enrollment numbers are unavailable until after the school year ends. Thus, the State calculates and adjusts the tuition rate over a three-year period.

Under this scheme, Little Ferry estimates the number of students attending Ridgefield Park High School the following year in year one, and Ridgefield Park estimates a per-pupil tuition amount. Little Ferry budgets that estimated amount during year two and pays Ridgefield Park. In year three, the Department of Education reviews Ridgefield Park's audited financials and issues "certified tuition rates," representing the actual cost per student in year two. After the State establishes the certified rate, Little Ferry and Ridgefield Park can address or adjust deficits or credits if the State-certified rate or the number of students differs from the estimated numbers. This three-year cycle repeats continuingly.

Boards must prepare a written sending-receiving contract, including the estimated students and cost per pupil. In 2018-2019, the parties' negotiated sending-receiving contract included language stating that "there shall be no certified tuition adjustment" for that year.

Little Ferry did not budget beyond the contract tuition cost. Historically, the parties did not include this waiver, and the State-certified rate exceeded the estimated figure. Only recently, Ridgefield Park sought to recoup the difference between the lower estimated contract rate and the State-certified cost. Notably, the parties' sending-receiving agreement from 2016-2017 required Ridgefield Park to remit any overpayment above the State-certified per-pupil cost to Little Ferry and for Little Ferry to pay any underpayment below that rate to Ridgefield Park. Based on the 2018-2019 contract tuition amount and Ridgefield Park's inability to upwardly adjust the rate given the agreed-upon waiver, Little Ferry budgeted tuition funds and paid them per the contract.

Undeniably, Little Ferry received a discounted price from the actual cost per pupil. Specifically, Little Ferry remitted a payment to Ridgefield Park of $4,513,644.44 for tuition for the 2018-2019 school year per the contract. However, the State-certified rate for the 2018-2019 school year was $5,556,369.71, leaving a difference of $1,042,725.27, which Ridgefield Park now seeks.

Notably, in a prior case before the Hon. Ellen Bass, CALJ, for the 2019-2020 and 2020-2021 school years, Ridgefield Park refused to include the 2018-2019 adjustment waiver language, and Little Ferry declined to sign the sending-receiving agreement. In other words, Ridgefield Park wanted the ability to adjust tuition costs up to the State-certified rate and to reserve Ridgefield Park's right to demand that difference. That Decision provides the basis for this litigation.

Before the earlier litigation, the Superintendent advised Little Ferry that it owed Ridgefield Park the balance of the State-certified rate for the 2016-2017 school year, absent any tuition waiver and Ridgefield's stated right to the State-certified rate. Indeed, Little Ferry expressly agreed that it owed Ridgefield Park the balance of the certified tuition cost if the estimated cost was less for the 2016-2017 school year.

Further, the Superintendent told Little Ferry that it must sign the 2019-20 and 2020-21 school years' sending-receiving contracts, allowing tuition adjustments up to the State-certified rate. Little Ferry agreed to pay the State-certified tuition rate for the 2020-2021 school year and paid Ridgefield Park the 2016-2017 balance between the lower estimated cost and the State-certified rate.

Despite the explicit language not to adjust for the certified rate in the 2018-2019 school year contract, on June 28, 2021, Ridgefield Park first demanded the difference between the lower estimated rate and the higher State-certified actual cost per student. Little Ferry refused, maintaining that it only owed what the parties negotiated for, which it anticipated and included in its budget. Indisputably, the Boards negotiated that waiver language in drafting the 2018-2019 sending-receiving contract, and Little Ferry relied upon that adjustment waiver.

In making this demand, Ridgefield Park relies upon language from Judge Bass' Initial Decision, stating that:

> The statutory and regulatory scheme governs the sending-receiving relationship relative to tuition payments, and not the parties' contractual language. See, Mountainside Bd. of Educ. v. Berkeley Heights Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 09700-06, Initial Decision (July 20, 2007), adopted, Comm'r (January 17, 2008), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ [affirmed 2010 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 545 (App. Div. 2010).] Indeed, the Commissioner of Education has broad powers to oversee sending-receiving agreements. Merchantville Bd. of Educ. v. Pennsauken and Haddon Bds. of Educ., 204 N.J. Super. 508 (App. Div. 1985). While the regulatory scheme demands execution of a formal agreement (N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f)), any contractual language or past practice that is at odds with the regulations is unenforceable.

Further, Judge Bass addressed the tuition rate-setting process, highlighting that "while the parties obviously negotiate the tentative rate, these negotiations do not deprive Ridgefield Park of its clear right, ultimately, to demand the full certified tuition amount." Ibid.

In turn, Little Ferry relies upon the Commissioner's Final Decision in that case, stating that:

> The Commissioner also concurs with the ALJ that Ridgefield Park may charge the full certified tuition rate. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-19 provides that the receiving district "shall determine" the tuition rate. As the ALJ correctly concluded, the plain language of the statute gives the receiving district – Ridgefield Park – the discretion to set the tuition at any amount, with the only limitation being that it cannot exceed the certified tuition rate. While nothing in the statues or regulations precludes negotiations between the parties, and the receiving district is free to accept a tuition rate lower than the full certified tuition rate, the statutory language clearly provides for a specific outcome in the event that the receiving district does not wish to negotiate, or negotiations are unsuccessful. In those circumstances, the receiving district is permitted to set the tuition rate, as long as it is not more than the certified tuition rate.

In 2022, the parties attempted to resolve the disputed tuition for 2018-2019 and submitted the issue to the Interim Executive Bergen County Superintendent of Schools (Superintendent) for mediation under N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f)(5). To date, the Superintendent issued no guidance or pronouncement that would facilitate the settlement of this dispute.

Both Boards stress understandable financial hardships.

Little Ferry also argues that the State improperly calculated the certified tuition rate for the 2018-19 school year.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Summary-Decision Standard

A party may move for summary decision upon all or any substantive issues in a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). A party must make the motion a party makes with briefs, with or without affidavits. When the filed papers and discovery, together with any affidavits, show that no genuine issue of material fact exists and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law, the judge may grant the motion. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). When a party makes such a motion providing that support, an adverse party, to prevail, must submit an affidavit setting forth specific facts showing that a genuine issue of material fact exists that can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. Ibid.

Even though a statute calls for a "hearing," where a motion for summary decision is made and supported by documentary evidence and where the objector submits no evidence to demonstrate that a genuine issue of material fact exists, the motion procedure constitutes the hearing, and no trial-type hearing is necessary. Contini v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106, 120–21 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996).

To determine whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary judgment, the motion judge must consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to demonstrate that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).

Moreover, even if the non-movant comes forward with some evidence, the court must grant summary judgment if the evidence is "so one-sided that [the movant] must prevail as a matter of law." Ibid. at 536 (citation omitted). If the non-moving party's evidence is "merely colorable or is not significantly probative," the judge should not deny summary judgment. Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Supp. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998).

In this case, no genuine issue exists as to the material facts. The only question is whether Ridgefield Park has the statutory right to demand the State-certified tuition rate for the 2018-2019 school year despite contractual language waiving the ability to adjust tuition costs based on that rate. More pointedly, no genuine issue exists that the parties negotiated a sending-receiving contract for the 2018-2019 school year setting forth an estimated tuition rate for Ridgefield Park's education of Little Ferry high school students and agreeing that the parties would make no adjustments for the State-certified rate. Yet, the State-certified tuition rate for 2018-2019 exceeded the tentative cost per student. Further, no dispute exists that Little Ferry executed sending-receiving contracts before and after the 2018-2019 school year, which included Ridgefield Park's ability to demand reimbursement up to the State-certified rate and no tuition adjustment waiver. Lastly, there is no dispute that Ridgefield Park first sought the 2018-2019 tuition underpayment from Little Ferry in June 2021. Since these facts are clear and undisputed, I CONCLUDE that this case is ripe for summary decision.

Notably, Little Ferry asserts that the actual tuition costs for 2018-2019 are incorrect. Yet, I CONCLUDE that the calculation dispute is immaterial to whether Ridgefield Park can demand the full certified rate under the 2018-2019 sending-receiving agreement. Indeed, Little Ferry can file a petition with the Commissioner if it believes there are errors in the tuition calculations.[1]

Timeliness

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), a party must file an appeal with the Commissioner of Education "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." This rule "provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws," giving school districts the "security of knowing" that an aggrieved party cannot challenge its actions after ninety days. Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993).

Courts strictly construe and consistently apply the ninety-day limitation period. Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 588-89; Nissman v. Bd. of Educ., 272 N.J. Super 373, 380-81, (App. Div. 1994); Riely v. Bd. of Educ., 173 N.J. Super. 109, 112-14, (App. Div. 1980). This period begins to run when the petitioner "learn[s] from the Local Board the existence of that state of facts that would enable him to file a timely claim." Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 588-89. Indeed, the "notice of a final order, ruling or other action" is "sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Id. at 587. Notably, petitioners need not receive official and formal notification that they may have a valid claim to begin the ninety days. Id. at 588. However, the regulations encourage the parties to resolve their disputes before litigation, and a petitioner should receive notice of the "firm rejection" of its claims before the statutory period begins. Gloucester Bd. of Educ. v. Lenape Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10120-98, Initial Decision, adopted and modified, Comm'r (December 16, 1999), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

Further, the Commissioner may exercise her authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1.6 to relax the application of the ninety-day rule where the Commissioner determines that strict observance might be "inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." Ibid. Yet, exceptions to the ninety-day rule are only appropriate where compelling circumstances exist to justify the enlargement or relaxation of the time limit. See Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 590; DeMaio v. New Providence Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 449, 453.

In a similar sending-receiving contract dispute, the Commissioner agreed that the petitioner knew its dispute with the respondent was at an impasse after an unsuccessful mediation with the County Superintendent's offices. Mountainside Bd. of Educ. v. Berkeley Heights Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 09700-06, Initial Decision (July 20, 2007), adopted, Comm'r (January 17, 2008), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, affirmed 2010 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 545 (App. Div. 2010) (emphasis added). Even though Mountainside filed its claim more than ninety days later, the Commissioner concluded that the petition was not time-barred. The Commissioner relaxed the time requirement because the parties' tuition disagreement spanned years, and resolving the issue was in the public interest. Id.

Similar public interest considerations exist here. This case is the second one addressing tuition reimbursement under sending-receiving contracts between the parties. Notably, Ridgefield Park did not make its demand until June 2021, after receiving Judge Bass' decision, and learning it may have a claim to the 2018-2019 actual tuition costs. Significantly, the parties attempted mediation as in the other case, including involving the Superintendent in January 2022. When it became clear that the Superintendent would not step in to resolve the issue, Ridgefield Park filed its petition of appeal in February 2022. Thus, I CONCLUDE that Ridgefield's claim against Little Ferry is not time-barred.

Sending-Receiving Agreements

Through N.J.S.A. 18A:38–19, New Jersey school districts may enter into sending-receiving agreements whereby the sending district sends its students to the receiving district's schools, N.J.S.A. 18A:38– 8, in return for a tuition payment set by the receiving district that cannot exceed the "actual cost" of the students enrolled. Ibid. Further, regulations govern the Commissioner's calculation of the "actual cost" per pupil. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A–17.1(b).

To allow for appropriate budgeting, the sending and receiving districts must execute a yearly written contract setting the tentative tuition charge, which cannot exceed "the receiving district board of education's 'estimated cost per student' for the ensuing school year . . . multiplied by the estimated average daily enrollment of students expected to be received during the ensuing school year." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-

17.1(f). Indeed, the receiving district calculates the estimated cost per pupil with an appropriate supporting schedule. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-17.1(f)(1).

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f), receiving school districts have differing obligations for overpayment and underpayment of tuition charges compared to the actual certified cost per student. When the Commissioner determines that the tentative tuition charge under the contract exceeds the actual cost per student, the "receiving district board of education shall return to the sending district board of education . . . the amount by which the tentative charge exceeded the actual charge." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f)(6) (emphasis added).

However, when the Commissioner determines that the tentative tuition charge under the contract was less than the actual cost per student, the "receiving district board of education may charge the sending district board of education all or part of the amount owed by the sending district board of education." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f)(7) (emphasis added). In other words, an overpayment by the sending district must be returned to it by the receiving district, but an underpayment request is not mandatory. The parties could not contract otherwise when action is compulsory under a regulation.

Notably, the decision cited by Judge Bass, addressing unenforceable tuition contract provisions, involved overpayments by the sending district that the receiving district refused to reimburse. See, Mountainside Bd. of Educ. v. Berkeley Heights Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 09700-06, Initial Decision (July 20, 2007), adopted, Comm'r (January 17, 2008), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, affirmed 2010 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 545 (App. Div. 2010). Indeed, the parties sending-receiving agreement set a maximum tuition rate without consideration of the Commissioner's actual tuition cost determination and the mandatory overpayment reimbursement requirement. Ibid. (emphasis added). In the last case between these parties, Judge Bass concluded, and the Commissioner agreed, that Ridgefield Park had the right to demand the total certified tuition cost where the parties could not resolve the terms of the sending-receiving agreement.

To be sure, Ridgefield Park has no obligation to accept a lower tuition payment than the State-certified rate in a sending-receiving contract, even if it did so in the past. Instead, the regulation allows Ridgefield Park to demand the State-certified per pupil tuition cost in its contract. Yet, Judge Bass had no agreement like the 2018-2019 contract wherein Ridgefield Park, aware of the ability to demand the actual cost, chose not to. Indeed, her decision addressed Ridgefield Park's authority to insist upon the State-certified rate should it wish to include that provision in the sending-receiving agreement. Significantly, the regulation only allows districts to negotiate a potential underpayment of the difference between the anticipated and actual tuition costs once the Commissioner determines that rate. Thus, I CONCLUDE that because this case involves an underpayment, in line with the parties' prior history, the parties' contract provision does not contradict N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(f)(7), nor is it unenforceable.

Notably, a court has no right "to rewrite the contract merely because one might conclude that it might well have been functionally desirable to draft it differently." Levison v. Weintraub, 215 N.J. Super. 273, 276, (App. Div.), certif. denied, 107 N.J. 650, (1987); Brick Tp. Mun. Util. Auth. v. Diversified R.B. & T., 171 N.J. Super. 397, 402, (App.Div.1979). Nor may the courts remake a better contract for the parties than they have seen fit to enter or to alter it for the benefit of one party and to the detriment of the other. James v. Federal Ins. Co., 5 N.J. 21, 24, (1950).

To determine the intention of the parties to a contract, the court must consider the relations of the parties, the attendant circumstances, and the objects they were trying to attain. Tessmar v. Grosner, 23 N.J. 193, 201, (1957). An agreement must be construed in the context of the circumstances under which it was entered, and it must be accorded a rational meaning in keeping with the express general purpose. Id.

While Ridgefield Park maintains an absolute right to demand the balance, despite its contract precluding adjustments, the Commissioner's Final Decision recognized that the parties could negotiate a lower rate than the actual cost per pupil. The only limit to the sending-receiving contracts relates to overpayments, not underpayments. Had this been a case of overpayment by Little Ferry, Ridgefield Park would have to return the overpayment as that amount exceeds the statutory maximum. Yet, importantly, the parties did not experience that situation. Instead, the parties' sending-receiving agreements historically resulted in Little Ferry's underpayment of the State-certified actual cost to Ridgefield Park. Thus, the parties' tuition circumstances when entering the 2018-2019 contract were clear. Based on earlier sending-receiving agreements, Ridgefield Park was well aware it could negotiate language stating that it could seek such underpayments, but it did not in 2018-2019.

Here, equitable principles favor Little Ferry. Equitable considerations are appropriate in assessing governmental conduct, Skulski v. Nolan, 68 N.J. 179, 198 (1975), and in trying to prevent manifest injustice, Vogt v. Borough of Belmar, 14 N.J. 195, 205 (1954). The New Jersey Supreme Court has defined equitable estoppel as:

> The effect of the voluntary conduct of a party whereby he is absolutely precluded, both at law and in equity, from asserting rights which might otherwise have existed ..., as against another person, who has in good faith relied upon such conduct, and has been led to change his position for the worse. . . .
> [County of Morris v. Fauver, 153 N.J. 80, 104 (1998).]

The doctrine of equitable estopped is invoked when one party changes its position in reliance on the conduct of another party, and the repudiation of that conduct would prejudice the relying party. Amir v. D'Agostino, 328 N.J. Super. 141 (Ch. Div. 1998). The claiming party may rely on conduct, inaction, or representations of the actor. Miller v. Miller, 97 N.J. 154, 163 (1984). Further, the claiming party must show that the other party made the representation intentionally or under such circumstances that it would likely induce action. Ibid. Then, the claiming party must act in a way that is to their detriment. Id. (citing to Fidelity Union Trust Co. v. Essex Cty. Mortgage Co., 130 N.J. Eq. 351, 353 (E. & A.1941)).

Undeniably, Little Ferry did not anticipate or budget for the difference between the tentative cost and the State-certified actual cost for 2018-2019. Instead, Little Ferry relied upon the agreement's negotiated adjustment waiver. Although Ridgefield Park asserts that cost is irrelevant, it goes to Little Ferry's detrimental reliance on the contract's tuition payment provision when creating the budget for such costs. On the contrary, Ridgefield Park had no legitimate expectation of receiving such underpayments when it negotiated and agreed not to seek tuition adjustment payments. Significantly, Ridgefield Park argues it only learned that it might be able to claim such reimbursement after Judge Bass ruled in its favor in the earlier case. Certainly, Ridgefield Park knew its prior experience under these contracts or underpayments and that it had the right to demand the total tuition costs, having included this provision in an earlier agreement. Thus, I CONCLUDE that Little Ferry reasonably relied upon the negotiated contract provision for the 2018-2019 tuition, and Ridgefield Park may not now demand the State-certified tuition cost. As such, I CONCLUDE that Little Ferry is entitled to summary decision in its favor, and Ridgefield Park is not.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that the Little Ferry Board of Education be GRANTED summary decision and that the Ridgefield Park Board of Education be DENIED summary decision. I further ORDER that Ridgefield Park Board of Education's petition be and is hereby DISMISSED.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, Middlesex County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Bound Brook, Somerset County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The Board of Education of Piscataway (Piscataway) filed a petition contending that the Board of Education of Bound Brook (Bound Brook) is financially responsible for student O.W.'s attendance in Piscataway schools during the 2020–2021 school year. Bound Brook filed a motion for summary decision, asserting that Piscataway's petition was untimely filed. In this matter, O.W. was residing with his parent and attending school in Bound Brook in 2019, when he was removed by the New Jersey Department of Children and Families (DCF) and placed with his aunt, K.W., in Piscataway. O.W. continued to attend school in Bound Brook until the 2020-2021 school year, when his aunt enrolled him in school in Piscataway. During that year, Bound Brook ignored a tuition contract and invoices from Piscataway regarding O.W.'s educational costs. In December 2021 and January 2022, counsel for both boards exchanged a series of emails in which they continued to disagree about which board was responsible for O.W.'s tuition in 2020-2021. Piscataway filed the appeal in April 2022.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts in dispute, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; because Bound Brook ignored Piscataway's tuition contract and invoices during the 2020-2021 school year, Piscataway should have realized that Bound Brook did not intend to pay for O.W.'s costs for that school year, yet the within petition of appeal was not filed until April 18, 2022; the 90-day limitations period in this case began to run at the end of the 2020-2021 school year, so any petition of appeal should have been filed by the end of September 2021; and Piscataway's argument that the matter of financial responsibility was still in dispute in the fall of 2021 and Bound Brook did not take final action until January 2022 is without merit. Accordingly, the ALJ determined that the petition was untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 and granted Bound Brook's motion for summary decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner disagreed with the ALJ's findings and conclusion, and reversed the Initial Decision. In so doing, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that the petition was timely filed as, in other matters, the Commissioner has concluded that the 90-day limitations period begins to run when a petitioner is put on notice of a respondent's "firm position," which in this case did not occur until the exchange of emails in 2022. Further, the record demonstrates that Piscataway established a genuine issue of material fact; therefore, summary decision is inappropriate at this stage. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, Middlesex County, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Bound Brook, Somerset County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by the petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the respondent's reply thereto, have been reviewed and considered.

This matter involves the question of whether the Piscataway Board of Education (Piscataway) or the Bound Brook Board of Education (Bound Brook) is responsible for the costs of student O.W.'s attendance in a Piscataway school for the 2020-2021 school year. O.W. was residing with his parent and attending school in Bound Brook in May 2019, when he was removed by the New Jersey Department of Children and Families (DCF) and placed with his aunt, K.W., in Piscataway.[1] O.W. continued to attend school in Bound Brook until the 2020-2021 school year, when his aunt enrolled him in school in Piscataway. During that year, [1] K.W.'s home was considered a resource family home pursuant to N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26.1.

Piscataway sent Bound Brook a tuition contract and periodic invoices, which Bound Brook ignored. In December 2021 and January 2022, counsel for both boards exchanged a series of emails regarding tuition, in which the parties continued to disagree about which board was responsible for O.W.'s costs.

In April 2022, Piscataway filed a petition of appeal, seeking an order that Bound Brook is financially responsible for the costs of O.W.'s attendance in Piscataway during the 2020-2021 school year. Following Bound Brook's motion to dismiss, which was converted to a motion for summary decision pursuant to N.J.Ct.R. 4:6-2,[2] the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined that the petition was untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. The ALJ found that Bound Brook ignored Piscataway's tuition contract and invoices during the 2020-2021 school year, such that Piscataway should have realized that Bound Brook did not intend to pay for O.W.'s costs. The ALJ concluded that, giving all favorable inferences to Piscataway, the 90-day limitations period began to run at the end of the 2020-2021 school year, and therefore any petition of appeal should have been filed by the end of September 2021; Piscataway did not file the petition of appeal until April 18, 2022. The ALJ rejected Piscataway's argument that the matter of financial responsibility was still in dispute in the fall of 2021 and that Bound Brook did not take final action until January 2022, finding that the facts suggest otherwise. Accordingly, the ALJ granted Piscataway's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

In its exceptions, Piscataway argues that, in disputes between school districts arising from an ongoing course of dealing rather than a single discrete action, the Commissioner has framed the triggering event for the 90-day limitations period as when the parties are undeniably at an impasse. According to Piscataway, Bound Brook did not unequivocally refuse to pay for O.W.'s attendance until the exchange of emails between counsel in 2022, and any other events relied upon by the ALJ were insufficient to support a finding that the limitations period began to run earlier. Piscataway contends that it would be unfair to commence the limitations period on the last day of the school year when the regulation does not specify such a start date, and further submits that applying such strict timelines would discourage the informal resolution of these types of matters. Finally, Piscataway argues that, even if the petition was untimely, the limitations period should be relaxed because there was no clear notice to Piscataway that it had commenced running, and there would be no prejudice to Bound Brook.

In reply, Bound Brook argues that the ALJ correctly dismissed the petition as untimely based on the events that occurred during the 2020-2021 school year. According to Bound Brook, the emails between counsel in December 2021 and January 2022 should not reset the clock on the limitations period when Piscataway's counsel acknowledged that Bound Brook had already disagreed that it was responsible for O.W.'s tuition. Bound Brook contends that there is no reason to relax the 90-day limitations period and that doing so would run counter to the principles underlying the limitation.

Upon review, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ and finds that the petition of appeal was timely filed. In other matters, the Commissioner has concluded that the 90-day limitations period began to run when a petitioner was on notice of a respondent's "firm position." Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Waterford, Camden Co. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Hammonton, Atlantic Co. and Bd. Educ. of the Twp. of Folsom, Atlantic Co. v. Bd. of Educ. of the

Twp. of Hammonton, Atlantic Co., Commissioner Decision No. 132-08 (decided Mar. 24, 2008); see also Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Mountainside, Union Co. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Berkeley Heights, Union Co., Commissioner Decision No. 21-08 (decided January 17, 2008). While the ALJ relied heavily on the fact that Bound Brook ignored the tuition contract and invoices sent by Piscataway, the Commissioner concludes that Bound Brook's failure to respond is not sufficient to have notified Piscataway that Bound Brook was firm in its position that it was not responsible for O.W.'s tuition and costs, nor is the fact that the school year ended without any payment by Bound Brook. Neither of these non-events represents the communication of a firm position by Bound Brook to Piscataway.

Turning to the other potential triggering event asserted by Bound Brook, the enrollment of O.W. in Piscataway schools in September 2020 could not start the running of the limitations period since, at that time, Bound Brook had not stated its position regarding which party was financially responsible for O.W.'s education costs. Additionally, while Piscataway became aware in November 2020 that Bound Brook had not reported O.W. on its Application for State School Aid (ASSA), the certification of Piscataway's business administrator (BA) indicates that Bound Brook had not reported O.W. because Bound Brook believed that O.W.'s aunt had adopted him. Contrary to Bound Book's suggestion that the BA's certification confirms that Bound Brook had disavowed financial responsibility in November 2020, it is clear to the Commissioner that Piscataway was under the impression that Bound Book's disavowal was conditioned on factual misinformation that Piscataway later corrected. It was not unreasonable for Piscataway to believe that, once Bound Brook had received the updated information showing that O.W.'s aunt had not adopted him and that the kinship legal guardianship had not yet been finalized, Bound Brook would begin making tuition payments.

The parties' briefs on summary decision, as well as their exceptions, also addressed the merits of Piscataway's claim for tuition. However, a review of the record demonstrates that Piscataway has established a genuine issue of material fact regarding DCF's involvement with O.W.'s placement, and therefore summary decision on this issue is inappropriate at this stage.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is reversed and Bound Brook's motion for summary decision is denied. This matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

BOROUGH OF BOUND BROOK BOARD OF EDUCATION,
SOMERSET COUNTY,
Respondent.

David B. Rubin, Esq., for petitioner

Record Closed: December 9, 2022 Decided: January 31, 2023

BEFORE SUSAN M. SCAROLA, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner, Township of Piscataway Board of Education, Middlesex County (Piscataway), contends that the respondent, Borough of Bound Brook Board of Education, Somerset County (Bound Brook), is financially responsible for student O.W.'s attendance at school in Piscataway during the 2020–2021 school year under N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(a)(2). That provision states that, for school funding purposes, if a child is placed in a resource family home, "the district of residence shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to the most recent placement in a resource family home."

Piscataway contends that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(a)(2), Bound Brook was O.W.'s "district of residence" for the 2020–2021 school year because he lived with a parent in Bound Brook prior to his placement in a resource home in Piscataway in May 2019, and Bound Brook must pay to Piscataway the cost of O.W.'s education for the 2020–2021 school year. In response, Bound Brook has moved to dismiss the petition as untimely.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 18, 2022, Piscataway filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education.

In response, on May 6, 2022, Bound Brook filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g). The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on May 17, 2022. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On September 28, 2022, Piscataway filed a brief in opposition to Bound Brook's motion to dismiss, and included with its brief a certification from David Oliveira, Piscataway's school business administrator/board secretary. By letter dated October 28, 2022, the parties were notified that, pursuant to R. 4:6-2, and as urged by Bound Brook, Bound Brook's motion to dismiss would be converted to a motion for summary decision, because Oliveira's certification in response to Bound Brook's motion included facts outside Piscataway's petition.

On December 9, 2022, Piscataway submitted a brief in opposition to Bound Brook's motion for summary decision and included a supplemental certification from Oliveira and a certification from another Piscataway employee, Stephanie Verbarg.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

For purposes of Bound Brook's motion, the following facts submitted by Piscataway are not in dispute. O.W. is a student who was residing with a parent and attending school in Bound Brook when, in May 2019, he was removed from his home and placed by the New Jersey Division of Child Protection & Permanency, Department of Children & Families (DCF), with his aunt, K.W., in a resource family home in Piscataway.[1] Petition, ¶¶ 1–2. O.W. continued to attend school in Bound Brook for the remainder of the 2018–2019 school year and for the 2019–2020 school year. Id. at ¶ 3. However, his aunt enrolled him in school in Piscataway for the 2020–2021 school year. Ibid. On or about June 29, 2021, O.W.'s aunt was granted kinship legal guardianship (KLG) over O.W. Id. at ¶ 4.

The Somerset County executive county superintendent has determined that Piscataway was responsible for O.W.'s education from the date of entry of the KLG order, but that determination did not address financial responsibility for O.W.'s enrollment in Piscataway during the 2020–2021 school year.[2] Id. at ¶ 5. On March 23, 2022, Piscataway applied to the Somerset County executive county superintendent for a determination that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(a)(2), Bound Brook was financially responsible for O.W.'s enrollment in Piscataway during the 2020–2021 school year; that

[1] Under the laws governing dependent and neglected children, "resource family home" is a "private residence[] wherein any child in the care, custody, or guardianship of the Department of Children and Families may be placed by the department[.]" N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26.1.

[2] It is unclear from the petition when the executive county superintendent made this determination; that is, it is unknown whether this determination was prior to or part of the determination made by the executive county superintendent in response to Piscataway's March 23, 2022, application. The facts concerning determinations made by the Somerset County Executive County Superintendent are recited here in the same order as they were presented by Piscataway in its petition.

application has since been transferred to the Middlesex County executive county superintendent of schools, where it is currently pending resolution. Id. at ¶ 6.

In an April 14, 2022, response to Piscataway's application, Bound Brook asserted that executive county superintendents of school have no jurisdiction to resolve disputes over financial responsibility for the education of students residing in resource family homes, and that such disputes must be resolved, in the first instance, by the Office of School Facilities and Finance on application pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2. Id. at ¶ 7. Piscataway disputes Bound Brook's contention regarding jurisdiction and, on April 18, 2022, appealed to the Commissioner's authority over all disputes arising under the school laws for a determination that Bound Brook is responsible for the costs of O.W.'s attendance at school in Piscataway during the 2020–2021 school year. Id. at ¶ 9.

In response, on May 6, 2022, Bound Brook filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g). According to Bound Brook, even assuming that all of the allegations set forth in Piscataway's petition are true, the matter must be dismissed as untimely under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The 90-day rule, as N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) is commonly known, requires a party to "file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." Bound Brook contends that Piscataway should have first filed a complaint with the Office of School Facilities and Finance in accordance with the residency-determination rules at N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.1 to -19.3, and that Piscataway filed this petition before the Commissioner on April 18, 2022, in contravention of the 90-day rule because it was filed approximately 594 days after O.W.'s aunt enrolled him in Piscataway.

On September 28, 2022, Piscataway filed a brief in opposition to Bound Brook's motion to dismiss, and included with its brief a certification from David Oliveira, Piscataway's school business administrator/board secretary. Oliveira certified to the following supplemental facts not contained in Piscataway's petition: When, in September 2020, K.W. enrolled O.W. in Piscataway for the 2020–2021 school year, she provided Piscataway with certain paperwork, including a letter from the DCF advising O.W.'s school principal in Bound Brook that O.W. had been removed from his parental home and placed in a resource family home with K.W. as of May 20, 2019, and that O.W. "will remain in his or her current school—Bound Brook Borough." Oliveira Cert., ¶¶ 2–3. The undated letter bears a fax date stamp of September 11, 2019. Id. at ¶ 3. K.W. also presented a letter from the DCF dated May 21, 2019, authorizing her to register O.W. for school. Id. at ¶ 4.

In October 2020, Piscataway's 2020–2021 electronic Application for State School Aid (ASSA) included O.W. as being the financial responsibility of Bound Brook; however, Piscataway received an error message because Bound Brook's ASSA had not included O.W. as being Bound Brook's responsibility. Id. at ¶ 5. In November or December 2020, Piscataway contacted Bound Brook, which according to Oliveira thought that K.W., a Piscataway resident, had custody of O.W. and that, as such, Piscataway was financially responsible for him for the 2020–2021 school year. Id. at ¶ 6.

Piscataway spoke with K.W., who informed the district that she was seeking KLG status, and that the process was ongoing. Ibid. On December 2, 2020, Piscataway, in turn, informed Bound Brook of the ongoing guardianship process. Ibid. In particular, an accountant for Piscataway sent an email to Bound Brook about the guardianship situation and stated that "[b]ased on this information, as of 10/15/20 [O.W.] is still being sent from Bound Brook, until this process is finalized. Can you adjust your ASSA to reflect Bound Brook sending [O.W.] to Piscataway." Id. at Ex. C. The accountant then advised Bound Brook that "[a]s soon as the court order has finalized the [guardianship] paperwork, we will notify you of the change." Ibid. According to Oliveira, he "alerted the Department [of Education's] Middlesex County Office to the issue in December 2020, in the hope they could straighten it out informally, but that never happened." Id. at ¶ 6.

Oliveira further certified that "[o]ver the course of the 2020–2021 school year, my office sent Bound Brook a tuition contract and periodic invoices for tuition for O.W., which were ignored." Id. at ¶ 7.

However, "[t]he matter remained in limbo between our two districts going into the fall of 2021," when on November 15, 2021, Piscataway contacted the DCF for information about O.W.'s district of residence. Ibid.; Ex. D. In response, on November 19, 2021, the DCF provided Piscataway with a court order appointing K.W. as O.W.'s KLG on June 29, 2021. Ibid.

Beginning on December 18, 2021, Piscataway's counsel, David Rubin, and Bound Brook's then-counsel, Robert Merryman, exchanged a series of emails about O.W.'s district of residence for the 2020–2021 school year. In the first email, Rubin stated that Bound Brook was responsible and acknowledged that "Bound Brook has indicated it disagrees" and that "my understanding is that this disagreement goes back to last school year." Id. at Ex. E.

On December 22, 2021, Rubin informed Merryman that he reviewed the KLG order and that he accepted Piscataway's responsibility for O.W. after the order was entered, but not for the 2020–2021 school year, and asked Merryman if "Bound Brook is still contesting its financial responsibility for that period of time?" Ibid. Merryman eventually responded on January 27, 2022, advising Rubin that because it was unknown where O.W.'s parent lived when he was removed from the home, "Bound Brook District is not prepared to accept financial responsibility for the child's education in Piscataway for 2020–21." Ibid.

On March 22, 2022, Rubin reached out to the DCF about where O.W.'s parent(s) lived during the 2020–2021 school year, and a DCF representative informed him that O.W.'s mother had lived in Bound Brook throughout the DCF's involvement and was still living in that town when the DCF closed its file on O.W. in July 2021. Id. at Ex. F.

Based on these facts, Piscataway argues in opposition to Bound Brook's motion that the 90-day rule does not bar its petition and that Bound Brook was financially responsible for O.W.'s attendance at school in Piscataway for the 2020–2021 school year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(a)(2) since Bound Brook was O.W.'s "district of residence" for the 2020–2021 school year.

As to the timeliness issue, Piscataway maintains that, although Piscataway first approached Bound Brook in December 2020 about financial responsibility for O.W.'s education, and although "there were further communications between the parties from time to time over the rest of [the 2020–2021] school year, . . . [t]he earliest evidence of a 'final . . . action'" for purposes of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) "was the exchange of emails between the parties' counsel in December 2021 and January 2022, after Piscataway was first made aware in November 2021 that the aunt had secured [KLG] status in June 2021."

According to Piscataway, the limitations period most reasonably started to run after Merryman's January 27, 2022, email in which he stated that Bound Brook "is not prepared to accept financial responsibility for [O.W.'s] education in Piscataway for 2020–2021." And because Piscataway filed its petition on April 18, 2022, such filing was timely, that is, within ninety days of "final action" by Bound Brook regarding financial responsibility for O.W. for the 2020–2021 school year.

Moreover, Piscataway contends that, contrary to Bound Brook's position, it did not have to first appeal to the Office of School Facilities and Finance pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2 because that provision does not, on its face, refer to disputes regarding the district of residence of a child living in a resource family home, such as O.W.

Finally, Piscataway argues that, even if its petition was untimely, the 90-day rule should be relaxed for good cause because "[t]here is no evidence that Bound Brook was ever lulled into believing that Piscataway had dropped its pursuit of tuition for the 2020–2021 school year," and "[g]iven the confusion over the aunt's guardianship status during that school year, it's apparent that the material facts bearing on Bound Brook's responsibility were continuing to evolve well after O.W. started attending school in Piscataway in September 2020." In Piscataway's view, "there is no prejudice to Bound Brook by allowing Piscataway its day in court."

On October 11, 2022, Bound Brook submitted a brief, arguing that, because Piscataway, through Oliveira's certification, provided facts outside the petition, Bound Brook's motion to dismiss should be converted to a motion for summary decision and that the additional facts, which Bound Brook does not dispute, not only strengthen Bound Brook's 90-day-rule argument, but also show that Piscataway was financially responsible for O.W. for the 2020–2021 school year.

In regard to the latter argument, Bound Brook relies on N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26b, which authorizes the DCF to determine the school a child should attend while placed in a resource family home. According to Bound Brook, under that statute, only the DCF (or a court) could have changed O.W.'s school placement from Bound Brook to Piscataway, and by accepting O.W. in the absence of the DCF or a court order placing O.W. in Piscataway's schools for the 2020–2021 school year, Piscataway "assume[d] responsibility for the cost of same, and cannot enroll a student in direct contravention to the law and then seek to impose the cost on another school district despite its disregard for the law to the financial detriment of the other school district."

By letter dated October 28, 2022, the parties were advised that, pursuant to R. 4:6-2, and as argued by Bound Brook, Bound Brook's motion to dismiss would be converted to a motion for summary decision, because Oliveira's certification in response to Bound Brook's motion included facts outside Piscataway's petition. Under this rule, if, on a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted (like Bound Brook's motion to dismiss on timeliness grounds), > matters outside the pleading are presented to and not excluded by the court, the motion shall be treated as one for summary judgment and disposed of as provided by R. 4:46, and all parties shall be given reasonable notice of the court's intention to treat the motion as one for summary judgment and a reasonable opportunity to present all material pertinent to such a motion.

> [R. 4:6-2; see also Roa v. Roa, 200 N.J. 555, 562 (2010) (concluding that because a motion to dismiss a complaint as untimely "was based upon evidence, including certifications, outside of the pleadings," the Court "view[ed] the record in a light most favorable to the non-moving party, which is the standard applicable to summary judgment").]

In accordance with that rule, Piscataway was given an opportunity to oppose Bound Brook's motion for summary decision.

On December 9, 2022, Piscataway submitted a brief in opposition to Bound Brook's motion for summary decision and included a supplemental certification from Oliveira and a certification from another Piscataway employee, Stephanie Verbarg. In its brief, Piscataway again argued against the application of the 90-day rule, reiterating that "Piscataway would not have reasonably considered this matter as having reached an impasse until after the email exchanges between [counsel for each district] clearly framing the issues and our clients' positions concerning them."

As for the substantive issue—which district is financially responsible for O.W.'s schooling during the 2020–2021 school year—Piscataway again contends that N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(a)(2) applies, such that Bound Brook is responsible for O.W.'s tuition because Bound Brook was where O.W.'s mother lived when the DCF placed O.W. in a resource family home in Piscataway. And as for Bound Brook's contention that, under N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26b, only the DCF could change O.W.'s placement from Bound Brook to Piscataway, and that in the absence of such action by the DCF Piscataway "assume[d] responsibility for the cost of same, and cannot enroll a student in direct contravention to the law and then seek to impose the cost on another school district despite its disregard for the law to the financial detriment of the other school district," Piscataway counters with Verbarg's certification, in which she attests that O.W.'s aunt informed Verbarg that the DCF did, in fact, direct the aunt to change O.W.'s enrollment from Bound Brook to Piscataway for the 2020–2021 school year. Regardless, according to Piscataway, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(a)(2), which cross-references N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26b, dispositively designates Bound Brook as the district of residence for funding purposes for O.W. during the 2020–2021 school year.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Standards for summary decision

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, "[a] party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Such motion "shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits" and "[t]he decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). When the motion "is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid.

Bound Brook does not dispute any of the facts presented by Piscataway. As such, the question is whether Bound Brook, as the moving party, is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. This first depends on the threshold issue regarding the timeliness of Piscataway's petition.

The 90-day rule

Under the "rules of procedure for the filing of petitions with the Commissioner of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws," N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 to -1.17, "[t]he petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Here, Bound Brook asserts that Piscataway's petition is untimely under the 90-day rule, and, therefore, should be dismissed. As the Supreme Court has explained, the 90-day rule serves the dual purposes of (1) "stimulat[ing] litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims," and (2) "penaliz[ing] dilatoriness and serv[ing] as a measure of repose by giving security and stability to human affairs." Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993) (citations and quotations omitted). Importantly, for purposes of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), the limitations period begins when a party is "alerted to the existence of facts that may equate in law with . . . a cause of action." Ibid. (citing Burd v. New Jersey Tel. Co., 76 N.J. 284, 291 (1978)).

The 90-day rule may be "relaxed or dispensed with . . . in any case where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice," or if there is "the presence of a substantial constitutional issue or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16; Balwierczak v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Heights, 1999 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 1367 (December 8, 1999).

Timeliness of Piscataway's petition

Piscataway's petition should be dismissed as untimely because the board was alerted to the existence of facts that equated with a cause of action during the 2020–2021 school year yet did not file its petition seeking tuition from Bound Brook for O.W.'s school attendance in Piscataway for the 2020–2021 school year until April 18, 2022. While it is difficult to pinpoint the applicable limitations period in this matter, several instances of inaction by Bound Brook in response to actions by Piscataway throughout the 2020–2021 school year should have indicated to Piscataway that Bound Brook did not intend to pay for O.W. and stimulated Piscataway to file a petition at some point during the 2020–2021 school year, or at some point soon thereafter.

The first indication of Bound Brook's renunciation of responsibility for the costs of O.W.'s education in Piscataway was the fact that Bound Brook did not include O.W. as a student sent to Piscataway in its 2020–2021 ASSA filing. And after Piscataway alerted Bound Brook about K.W.'s ongoing, yet unfinalized, pursuit of guardianship of O.W., stating in the December 2, 2020, email that "[b]ased on this information, as of 10/15/20 [O.W.] is still being sent from Bound Brook, until this process is finalized. Can you adjust your ASSA to reflect Bound Brook sending [O.W.] to Piscataway," it appears that Piscataway's request went unanswered by Bound Brook. This was yet another indication that Bound Brook was disinclined to pay for O.W.'s education in Piscataway.

However, the most obvious indication of Bound Brook's position and what should have served as the impetus for Piscataway to promptly file a petition against Bound Brook was the fact that "[o]ver the course of the 2020–2021 school year, [Piscataway] sent Bound Brook a tuition contract and periodic invoices for tuition for O.W., which were ignored." At some point during the 2020–2021 school, after Bound Brook's silence or inaction in response to Piscataway's attempts at getting Bound Brook to pay tuition for O.W., Piscataway should have realized that Bound Brook did not intend to pay for O.W. and should have pursued legal action against Bound Brook.

The exact date by which Piscataway should have filed a petition is uncertain, particularly because Oliveira did not certify to or clarify the dates on which Piscataway sent the tuition contract or invoices to Bound Brook. However, even giving all favorable inferences to Piscataway, and setting the start date for the 90-day period at the last day of the 2020–2021 school year, or June 30, 2021, Piscataway would have had to file its petition by the end of September 2021. That did not happen. And although Piscataway advised Bound Brook on December 2, 2020, that "[a]s soon as the court order has finalized the [guardianship] paperwork, we will notify you of the change," Piscataway waited until November 2021 to inquire with the DCF about K.W.'s guardianship status (which was finalized on June 29, 2021), and then revisited with Bound Brook the issue of financial responsibility for the 2020–2021 school year.

Although Piscataway argues that "[t]he matter [of financial responsibility] remained in limbo between the two districts going into the fall of 2021," and that Bound Brook did not take "final action" until January 2022, the facts suggest otherwise. Collectively, Bound Brook's 2020–2021 ASSA filing, Bound Brook's inaction in amending its ASSA filing after Piscataway asked Bound Brook to do so in the December 2, 2020, email, and Bound Brook's inaction when sent a tuition contract and numerous invoices during the 2020–2021 school year alerted Piscataway that Bound Brook was not going to pay O.W.'s tuition for the 2020–2021 school year and should have spurred Piscataway to file a petition against Bound Brook at some point during the 2020–2021 school year, or ninety days thereafter.[3] April 18, 2022—by any measure—was too late.[4]

[3] In this regard, such petition could have been filed at any point with the Commissioner, who has jurisdiction over all matters arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

[4] That Piscataway first sought redress through an executive county superintendent also does not save Piscataway from the 90-day rule, since Piscataway appealed to that authority only a few weeks before filing a petition with the Commissioner.

Piscataway unconvincingly argues that, in a dispute between school districts, the 90-day period does not begin to run until there is a "firm" disagreement or an "undeniable impasse," citing to Commissioner decisions in Bd. of Educ. of Mountainside v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Heights, 2008 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 270 (January 17, 2008), aff'd, 2010 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 545 (March 15, 2010), and Bd. of Educ. of Waterford v. Bd. of Educ. of Hammonton, 2008 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 261 (March 24, 2008), and that Piscataway and Bound Brook were not undeniably at an impasse until January 2022. Bound Brook's inaction in the face of Piscataway's persistent attempts to get Bound Brook to accept financial responsibility for O.W. throughout the 2020–2021 school year suggests otherwise. Piscataway was certainly firm in its position by sending a tuition contract and invoices to Bound Brook that it wanted Bound Brook to be responsible for O.W., yet it declined or neglected to pursue legal action within a reasonable time after its communications went unanswered.

Finally, relaxation of the 90-day rule is not appropriate in this case because Piscataway knew it had a cause of action at some point during or shortly after the 2020–2021 school year but sat on its rights, and because there is no "substantial constitutional issue or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves." While not to minimize the importance of a district of residence's orderly payment of tuition for a student's attendance in another school district when required by law, the present dispute is between two school districts over the costs of educating one child for one school year.

Contrary to Piscataway's argument that relaxation is appropriate because "[t]here is no evidence that Bound Brook was ever lulled into believing that Piscataway had dropped its pursuit of tuition for the 2020–2021 school year," Bound Brook could have reasonably concluded that Piscataway would not seek legal recourse when, after ignoring the tuition contract and invoices throughout the 2020–2021 school year, Bound Brook did not hear anything about the tuition issue again until December 2021. Accordingly, Bound Brook's motion to dismiss Piscataway's petition as untimely should be granted.

CONCLUSION

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

V.P., on behalf of minor child, M.P.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Midland Park, Bergen County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner challenged the respondent Board's alleged failure to provide information regarding his child's health on December 5, 2022, its alleged failure to provide him with a protocol for addressing access to his son during future emergency situations, and the Board's December 8, 2022, decision to bar V.P. from the campus of Midland Park High School (MPHS). In this case, M.P.'s parents, V.P. and A.Z., entered into a Marriage Settlement Agreement (MSA) upon the dissolution of their marriage; the MSA designates alternate "parenting days" when V.P. or A.Z. are responsible for M.P.'s care, including drop-off and pick-up of M.P. at the high school. The Board asserted that December 5, 2022, was a parenting day for A.Z., and that petitioner's inappropriate and threatening behavior at the school while attempting to pick up his child justified the actions taken by the Board to restrict petitioner's access to the school. The petitioner filed a motion for emergent relief, and a hearing was held via Zoom on December 21, 2022.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) sets forth the standards governing motions for emergent relief and instructs that parties seeking such relief must meet all of the four standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982); petitioner has failed to meet all four of the required standards for emergent relief; further, the relief sought by petitioner in his appeal has already been addressed through the Board's actions; specifically, petitioner's request for a protocol regarding access to his son during future emergencies, as well as assurances that petitioner will receive information regarding his son, have been addressed through letters from the superintendent; and the superintendent's decision to bar petitioner from the school was consistent with District Policy 9150 regarding school visitors, as the weight of the evidence demonstrated that petitioner behaved inappropriately on December 5, 2022. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's requested relief has been satisfied.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion in this matter. Further, the Commissioner found that the decision to bar petitioner from the district's schools was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this case, and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

V.P., on behalf of minor child, M.P.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Midland Park, Bergen County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed and considered. The parties did not file exceptions.

This matter stems from an incident that occurred on December 5, 2022. Petitioner's child reported a headache to the school nurse and petitioner attempted to pick his child up from school, even though a Marriage Settlement Agreement (MSA) between petitioner and his ex-wife designated December 5th as the mother's parenting day, rather than petitioner's. School staff reported that petitioner behaved inappropriately at the school, using vulgar language and acting aggressively. Thereafter, the district's superintendent informed petitioner that he could not visit any of the district's schools for any reason without her express written permission, pursuant to Midland Park Board of Education (Board) Policy 9150. A subsequent letter from the superintendent clarified that petitioner could seek the superintendent's permission to visit school in case of emergency, and that for routine drop-offs and pick-ups, petitioner should use the end of the driveway or a nearby municipal parking lot. Petitioner appealed and sought emergent relief, which was denied.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that petitioner's request for protocols had already been addressed through the superintendent's letters, which also provided the requested assurances that petitioner would receive information regarding his son. The ALJ further concluded that the superintendent's decision to bar petitioner from the district's schools was consistent with district policy, noting that petitioner's testimony was not credible, and that the weight of the evidence demonstrated that petitioner had behaved inappropriately.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board, through its superintendent, has provided the protocols and assurances sought by petitioner in his petition of appeal.[1] The Commissioner also finds that the decision to bar petitioner from the district was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

ACTING COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: April 20, 2023
Date of Mailing: April 21, 2023

[1] The Commissioner also agrees with the ALJ that, to the extent that more specificity regarding the definition of an emergency in the MSA is at issue, that is a matter for petitioner and the child's mother to resolve between themselves or through proceedings in the Superior Court.

[2] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1. Under N.J.Ct.R. 2:4-1(b), a notice of appeal must be filed with the Appellate Division within 45 days from the date of mailing of this decision.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11278-22
AGENCY DKT. NO. 362-12/22

V.P., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, M.P.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MIDLAND PARK, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

V.P., petitioner, pro se

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., for Respondent (Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 26, 2023 Decided: February 8, 2023

BEFORE: JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, V.P. challenges the Board of Education's alleged failure to give him information about his child's health on December 5, 2022, its alleged failure to provide him with a protocol for addressing access to his son during future emergency situations, and the Board of Education's December 8, 2022 decision to bar V.P. from the campus of Midland Park High School.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about December 15, 2022, the Petitioner, V.P., filed with the New Jersey Department of Education a Petition of Appeal and a Motion for Emergent Relief. Subsequently, V.P. supplied exhibits. On December 15, 2022, the Office of Controversies and Disputes of the Department of Education (Department) transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on December 16, 2022 as a contested case.

On December 20, 2022, the law firm of Fogarty and Hara filed a Letter Brief in Opposition to Petitioner's Pro Se Petitioner's Petition of Appeal with Emergent Relief and a number of exhibits. The hearing was held via Zoom on Wednesday, December 21, 2022 before the undersigned.

UNDISPUTED FACTUAL INFORMATION

Per the documents submitted by the parties and the testimony of V.P. I FIND that the parties agree on the following facts.

V.P. is the father of M.P., a minor enrolled in Midland Park High School ("MPHS"). A.Z. is the ex-wife of V.P. and is the mother of M.P. Upon the dissolution of their marriage, V.P. and A.Z. entered into a Marriage Settlement Agreement (P-5), referred to herein as the "MSA". The MSA, among other provisions, designates alternating "parenting days" when V.P. or A.Z., respectively, are responsible for M.P.'s care, including the drop-off and the pick-up of M.P. at MPHS. Monday, December 5, 2022 was a parenting day for A.Z. and was not a parenting day for V.P.

Section 4.7 of the MSA provides, "The parties agree to consult with each other and make mutual decisions with respect to ... the child's well-being ... , which shall at all times be the paramount concern of the parties. The parties further agree that routine and day-to-day decisions regarding the child's welfare shall be made by the party who has physical custody of the child at the time."

On Monday, December 5, 2022, M.P. reported to the school nurse, Karen Corcoran, R.N., that he had a headache. M.P. told Corcoran that Mondays were his mother's parenting days. Corcoran telephoned A.Z. about M.P.'s headache and A.Z. decided to wait and see how M.P. felt in an hour. An hour later, M.P. reported to Corcoran that he still had a headache and stated that he wanted to go home. Corcoran again called A.Z. and updated her about M.P.'s condition. A.Z. told Corcoran that her parents (M.P.'s grandparents) would go to the school to pick up M.P. In the meantime, M.P. had texted his father, V.P. telling him that he was not feeling well and wanted him to pick him up from school. V.P. knew that under Section 4.4 of the MSA all Mondays were A.Z.'s parenting days. V.P. also knew that Section 4.12 of the MSA provided, "Absent an emergency, neither party shall come to school ... during the other parent's parenting time." Believing that his son's condition constituted an "emergency", V.P. went to Midland Park High School to pick up M.P. It is noteworthy that Section 4.2 of the MSA provided for the appointment of David Torchin, Esq. as a "parenting coordinator". According to the MSA, "The parenting coordinator's role ... [is to provide] ... intervention between parties on outstanding issues relating to the child. The parties agree to utilize the services of the parenting coordinator to help the parties come to appropriate decisions which are in the best interest of the child." There was no evidence adduced that either V.P. or A.Z. contacted the parenting coordinator on December 5, 2022 regarding the picking-up of M.P. from the school.

There is disagreement between the Petitioner and the Respondent about what took place on December 5, 2022 during the conversations and interactions between and among V.P., Nurse Corcoran, High School Principal Nicholas Capuano; about what various staff members and or students of the school observed during V.P.'s visit to the school; about the conversations or interactions between V.P. and M.P.'s grandparents (the grandfather's being referenced herein as R.Z. and grandparent's referenced herein as the Z.'s); about the emotional state and behavior of V.P.; and, about whether V.P.'s accounts of the events of December 5, 2022 are accurate or whether the reports of five witnesses (R-1) and the Certification of Nicholas Capuano are accurate.

There is agreement on the fact that on December 5, 2022, after V.P., Nurse Corcoran and Principal Capuano had the opportunity to speak with each other in the Principal's Office, that Principal Capuano asked V.P. to leave the school's campus; and that Capuano escorted V.P. to the exit; and that V.P. left the campus.

ANALYSIS OF THE DOCUMENTS AND TESTIMONY

The following is not intended to be a verbatim recitation of the content of documents or of the testimony. Rather it is a summary of the contents of documents and of testimony which I found significant and helpful to my understanding of the matter.

Respondent's Exhibits

The BOE submitted a Letter Brief in Opposition and attached Documents (Exhibits R-1 through R-6), plus the Certification of Nicholas J. Capuano, which was marked by the Tribunal as R-7.

R-1

R-1 consisted of six "Faculty/Staff Incident Reports", written and signed by Carol Weaver, Irene Keller, Karen Corcoran, R.N. (the school nurse), Jason Whelpley, Craig Rush, and Barbara Rasmussen.

Ms. Carol Weaver wrote that she was in the main office when V.P. arrived to pick up his son, M.P. Ms. Weaver reports that when she walked into the Principal's Office, Principal Capuano and Nurse Corcoran were having a telephone conversation with A.Z., the mother of M.P. Ms. Weaver reports that Capuano signaled her that V.P. should not take M.P. with him. Ms. Weaver reports that when the phone call was finished, Capuano asked V.P. to come into his office. Then, without much detail, Ms. Weaver reports that V.P. appeared agitated, and Capuano asked V.P. to leave. Ms. Weaver, who was close enough to hear at least part of the conversation between V.P. and Capuano, quotes V.P. as saying to Capuano, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." Ms. Weaver further reports that she observed V.P. interact with M.P.'s grandparents in the entrance foyer and heard V.P. make unspecified "nasty comments" to them which left the grandmother "visibly shaken". Ms. Weaver's testimony is significant because she was an eyewitness who was close enough to both see and hear what transpired on December 5, 2022 at MPHS. Specifically, she described V.P. as "agitated", recalled that Capuano asked V.P. to leave, that as he was leaving V.P. made "nasty comments" to M.P.'s grandparents and observed that as a result of V.P.'s behavior the grandmother was "visibly shaken". Ms. Weaver's observations support the proposition that V.P.'s behavior was not in keeping with good taste and propriety.

Irene Keller wrote that she was in the main office, that V.P. had arrived at the school and was signing his son out of school when he was called into Principal Capuano's office. It is Ms. Keller's recollection that Nurse Corcoran was in Capuano's office at the time. Ms. Keller reports that after a few minutes V.P. left Capuano's office and that V.P. was "very angry". Ms. Keller quoted V.P. as telling Capuano "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." Ms. Keller observed that as V.P. was leaving, M.P.'s grandparents were entering the office. Ms. Keller confirms that words were exchanged between V.P. and the grandparents, but it was unclear to her what was said. She reiterated that after encountering the grandparents, V.P. was "very angry" when he left. Ms. Keller's report is significant because she was an eyewitness to V.P.'s demeanor and behavior. Ms. Keller reported what V.P. said to Principal Corcoran, using the exact same words as Ms. Weaver. It is significant that two witnesses remembered V.P.'s exact warning to Capuano, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." It is also significant that Ms. Keller, characterized V.P.'s emotional state as "very angry" when he left Capuano's office and then again as "very angry" after encountering the grandparents. Ms. Keller's observations support the proposition that V.P.'s behavior was not in keeping with good taste and propriety.

Karen Corcoran, R.N. wrote that M.P. came twice to her office complaining of a headache. M.P. explained to Corcoran that it was his mother's parenting day. Corcoran spoke to A.Z. both times that M.P. came to her office. During M.P.'s second visit to Corcoran he still had a headache and so A.Z. told Corcoran that she would send M.P.'s grandparents to pick him up. Corcoran wrote that at that point in time, M.P. told her that he had contacted his father and that his father was coming to pick him up. Corcoran wrote that she had Dr. Prinsel stay with M.P. while she went to tell Principal Capuano about the situation. Corcoran wrote that V.P. arrived while she was speaking with Capuano in his office. Corcoran wrote that Capuano calmly invited V.P. to sit down and informed him that M.P.'s grandparents were on their way to pick up M.P. V.P. insisted that he was already at the school and would take M.P. home. Capuano then told V.P. that they should all wait for A.Z. to come to the school. Corcoran wrote that after Capuano said this, V.P. became angry, raised his voice and raised his finger at her. Capuano calmly asked V.P. to sit down and wait for A.Z. to arrive. Corcoran then wrote that V.P. became "more angry" and described his demeanor as "aggressive" noting that V.P. started screaming and pointing his finger at Principal Capuano and repeating that he was going to take M.P. home. Corcoran wrote that Capuano asked V.P. to leave the school and was escorting V.P. to the school's exit, but that several times during the trip to the exit door V.P. stopped and turned towards Capuano. Corcoran wrote that in the school's lobby V.P. met M.P.'s grandparents and that some words were exchanged, but she was unable to hear what was said. Following that, V.P. was escorted to the exit and left the school.

It is significant that Corcoran, who was present in Capuano's office with both Capuano and V.P. noted that Capuano was calm throughout V.P.'s visit; that she described V.P.'s demeanor throughout his visit to Capuano's office as "angry", "more angry", "aggressive" and "more hostile"; that V.P. raised his voice and pointed his finger at both Corcoran and Capuano; that Capuano's suggestion that they wait for A.Z.'s arrival was not heeded; that there was an exchange of words in the lobby between V.P. and the grandparents; and that V.P. was escorted out of the school. Notably, Corcoran noted that V.P., while walking through the hallway, stopped and turned towards Capuano several times during his exit.

Jason Whelpley wrote that he was in his office finishing a meeting with Craig Rush when he heard Principal Capuano's door open and heard Capuano telling V.P. that he must leave the premises. Whelpley then saw Capuano and V.P. near Capuano's office door when V.P., in a loud voice, told Capuano, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." Whelpley wrote that V.P. walked out of the office into the vestibule with Capuano following him. Capuano told the secretaries to "clear the office" and to call for security personnel to come to the scene. Whelpley wrote that he saw V.P. and M.P.'s grandparents in the vestibule. Whelpley concluded by writing that he went back into his office. It is significant that Whelpley confirmed that V.P. spoke in a loud voice to Capuano saying, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." This is the exact same statement attributed to V.P. by Ms. Weaver and Ms. Keller, both of whom characterized V.P. as speaking these words while "agitated" or "angry". Whelpley's written account also confirms the accounts of others that Capuano asked V.P. to leave the premises and confirms that Capuano found it necessary to call security personnel to the scene.

Craig Rush wrote that after finishing his meeting with Mr. Whelpley he saw and heard Principal Capuano telling V.P., "You need to leave now" and walking behind V.P. escorting him out of the office and into the hallway. He saw V.P. stop and heard him tell Capuano, "I am going to hold you responsible for my son's well-being", or words to that effect. Rush also wrote that he heard V.P. say the words, "Fuck you" and assumed that that V.P. addressed these words to Capuano. Rush wrote that his observations lasted 15 to 20 seconds. He wrote that his observations were that V.P. was "upset and agitated" and that Capuano "remained professional and focused on removing V.P. from the building". It is significant that Rush confirmed that Capuano remained "professional" while V.P. was "upset and agitated". Rush wrote that he clearly heard V.P. use a vulgarity. Rush confirmed that V.P. told Capuano that he was going to hold him responsible for M.P.'s welfare, but not necessarily with the same words used by others.

Barbara Rasmussen wrote what she observed in the main office. She noted that V.P. arrived to pick up his son. Ms. Keller was going to call for M.P. to come to the main office. Nurse Corcoran took a call in the main office from A.Z. Ms. Rasmussen then went to the ladies' room and upon her return therefrom V.P. had already left the building.

It is significant to note that, according to Ms. Rasmussen, Nurse Corcoran took a telephone call from A.Z. in the main office.

R-2 is the December 5, 2022 handwritten statement of R.Z., the father of A.Z. and the grandfather of M.P. In his statement, R.Z. wrote that V.P. came out of an office and caught sight of him. Mr. Z. wrote that V.P. called him "a piece of shit" and that V.P. passed him, turned to him and then said, "Fuck you" to him. Mr. Z. wrote that V.P. looked "threatening" and appeared to be "getting ready to fight me". Mr. Z. wrote that a "school official" stepped between them to defuse the situation. It is significant that R.Z.'s writing confirmed that V.P. used vulgarities immediately after leaving Capuano' office, which indicates that he was indeed in an angry or agitated or hostile mood. What Mr. Z. wrote comports with Principal Capuano's account of V.P.'s threatening encounter with the grandparents. Mr. Z.'s writing also comports with Ms. Weaver's account of V.P. making "nasty comments" to the grandparents, causing the grandmother to be "visibly shaken".

R-3 is the Midland Park Police Department Operations Report dated December 7, 2022 (consisting of two pages) taken by Police Officer Jason R. Tillson, who was the School Resource Officer at MPHS on December 5, 2022, plus the Midland Park Police Department Supplementary Investigation Report taken by Lieutenant John Gibbons. Tillson wrote that he was contacted by Ms. Keller and told to respond to a disturbance. His report does not indicate that he had any in-person contact with V.P. and his report does not contain any information obtained from V.P. His report contains information obtained from Principal Nicholas Capuano.

The significant highlights of the Operations Report are: that M.P. complained to Nurse Corcoran that he had a headache, which Corcoran reported to M.P.'s mother, A.Z.; that A.Z. told Corcoran that her parents would go to the school to pick up M.P.; that at approximately 12:02 p.m. V.P. arrived at MPHS to pick up M.P.; that Capuano had a telephone conversation with A.Z. during which she stated that Mondays were her parenting day and that she was sending her parents to pick up M.P.; that the school would not release M.P. to V.P. per the court order referred to by A.Z.; that V.P. then became angry and insisted that he should take M.P. home; that Capuano told V.P. that he must leave the premises; that while leaving the premises V.P. stared at and approached Capuano in an aggressive manner and that V.P. directed vulgar language at the grandparents upon their arrival at the school and stared at and stepped towards R.Z. in an aggressive manner, with Capuano deciding to step between the two men to de-escalate the situation; and, that V.P. then left the premises. Capuano also reported that Pinsky had a telephone conversation with School Administrator Stacey Garvey.

R-4 and R-5

R-4 is a letter dated December 8, 2022 from Superintendent of Schools Marie C. Cirasella, Ed.D. to V.P. In this letter, Cirasella informed V.P. that as a result of his conduct at MPHS on December 5, 2022, he is now prohibited from visiting any of the Midland Park School District schools for any reason without her express written permission. With the letter, Cirasella enclosed a copy of "Midland Park Board of Education Policy 9150" (Exhibit R-5), which declares that the Superintendent and school Principals have the authority to prohibit the entry of any person into a school building or to expel any person from a school building when there is reason to believe that the presence of said person would be inimical to the good order of the school.

R-6

R-6 is a letter dated December 12, 2022 from Superintendent Cirasella to V.P. in response to his request that the Superintendent confirm the School District's interpretation of multiple court orders and the School District's December 8, 2022 which imposed restraints on his presence on the School District's campuses. In the 12/12/22 letter Cirasella

> (1) assured V.P. that MPHS will respond to him with information about his son, M.P.;
> (2) that on days when V.P. has parenting time (under the MSA) he would not be permitted on the school's campus and that he should pick-up and drop-off M.P. at the end of the driveway or by parking behind the school in the municipal parking lot;

(3) that in the event of an emergency occurring on a day when V.P. had parenting time, he is to contact Cirasella, who would determine whether to authorize his presence on campus; and

(4) assured V.P. that the school's personnel would continue to provide him with all notifications, reports, and assessments that are provided to all parents and guardians of students of the District's schools.

R-7

The Tribunal decided to mark the Certification of Nicholas J. Capuano as R-7. In R-7, Capuano wrote:

(1) That he is the Principal of MPHS;

(2) That he is familiar with the matter at hand, i.e. the facts arising out of a December 5, 2022 incident involving student M.P., his father, V.P., school personnel and M.P.'s grandparents.

(3) That on December 5, 2022, M.P. visited the school nurse, Karen Corcoran, R.N. complaining of a headache and that Corcoran telephoned A.Z., M.P.'s mother, about his complaint.

(4) That after lunch, M.P. continued to complain about having a headache and that Corcoran again telephoned A.Z., who responded that she was sending her parents (Mr. and Mrs. Z) to pick-up M.P.

(5) That in the interim, M.P. contacted his father, V.P., about his headache.

(6) That V.P. contacted Nurse Corcoran inquiring about who would pick up M.P. from the school and she told him that A.Z. had made arrangements for the pick-up. Some time later, A.P. appeared at the school to pick-up M.P.

(7) Capuano met V.P. and told him that A.Z. had made arrangements for M.P. to be picked-up.

(8) Capuano stated that V.P. became angry and in a raised voice stated that he would take his son home.

(9) Capuano stated that he asked V.P. to calm down, but V.P. continued to shout and, in Capuano's judgment, became hostile. Capuano warned V.P. that if he did not calm down, he would be asked to leave the building. Capuano stated that V.P. continued his hostile behavior and was told to leave the building.

(10) Capuano stated that as he escorted V.P. out of the building V.P. turned toward him, put his face close to his and stared aggressively at him.

(11) Capuano stated that as he escorted V.P. out of the building, V.P. encountered M.P.'s grandparents, spoke to them in a vulgar manner, and stepped toward the grandfather in a threatening manner with clenched fists.

(12) Capuano stated that he stepped between V.P. and the grandfather to defuse the situation; that V.P. exited the building; and that the encounter between V.P. and the grandparents took place in front of school staff and school children.

(13) Capuano stated that he later spoke with School Business Administrator, Stacey Garvey, who told him that she had spoken to V.P. after he left the building, who told her that "Mr. Capuano better apologize or I'll get him." (This statement was later modified by Mr. Capuano on the last page of the Midland Park Police Department' Operations Report (R-3), where Capuano stated that Garvey's statement was actually that V.P. had stated, "Mr. Capuano better apologize or he will be sorry."

(14) Capuano noted that after the December 5, 2022 incident, he contacted the Midland Park Police Department to make a Police Report.

(15) Capuano stated that he contacted Schools Superintendent Marie Cirasella about the incident of December 5, 2022 because he believed that V.P. had violated Board of Education Policy 9150.

Petitioner's Exhibits

The Petitioner, V.P., submitted his Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief and later submitted Exhibits P-1 through P-6.

P-1 is the December 8, 2022 letter sent by Superintendent Cirasella to V.P. It is the same document as R-4.

P-2 is the December 12, 2022 letter sent by Superintendent Cirasella to V.P. It is the same document as R-6.

P-3 is an "extract" taken from the December 7, 2022 Midland Park Police Department Operations Report. It is the same document as the bottom half of page 2 of 2 of the Operations Report, which has been marked as R-3.

P-4 consists of several emails concerning V.P.'s attempts to speak with either School District officials or with the School District's Attorney.

P-5 is a copy of the Marriage Settlement Agreement (MSA) between V.P. and A.Z., which arose out of their divorce proceedings. This document is significant for setting forth the parenting days of A.Z. and the parenting days for V.P. and it is significant for setting forth that routine and day-to-day decisions regarding the child's welfare shall be made by the party who has physical custody of the child at the time.

P-6 is a May 10, 2022 email from school principal Peter Galasso to A.Z. and V.P. regarding certain communications made on that date among V.P., A.Z. and the school regarding the pick-up of M.P. by one or the other of his parents. It is significant only for Galasso's statement that with regard to the picking-up of M.P. by either one of his parents on a given day, the school does not monitor it unless there is a court order.

Testimony of V.P.

When the Tribunal inquired of V.P. what relief he was seeking from the Tribunal, V.P. responded that he is seeking what he has been asking the School District for: a Protocol outlining what he may do or may not do with regard to dropping-off and picking-up his son on his parenting days and, in the event of an emergency, what he may or may not do, regardless of whether it is his parenting day or A.Z.'s parenting day. V.P. stated he also seeks assurance that he will receive any and all information regarding his son from the School District. In his written Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief, V.P. wrote that he is seeking the following :

(Note: V.P. listed his demand for relief in seven numbered paragraphs, which are somewhat repetitious and unartfully drafted. The Tribunal has condensed them into a more readable format.)

(1) To find out (i.e., clarify) "if the school can decide and enforce the MSA" insofar as determining which parent (V.P. or A.Z.) can pick-up M.P. on any given day;

(2) To find out (i.e., "clarify") if the school "is allowed to decide and enforce the MSA", (i.e., to deny V.P. the right to pick-up M.P. in an emergency whether the emergency occurs on V.P.'s parenting day or A.Z.'s parenting day) ;

In essence, in #1 and #2, V.P. seeks to find out what the protocol is for routine pick-ups and emergency pick-ups;

(3) V.P. seeks demands that the Tribunal launch an investigation to be conducted by a neutral party.

(4) (6) and (7) To overturn the School Superintendent's December 8, 2022 decision (P-1 a/k/a R-4) barring V.P. from the School District's campuses, particularly MPHS; to restore V.P.'s privilege of dropping-off and picking-up M.P. on the MPHS campus by overturning the restrictions imposed in the School Superintendent's letter dated December 12, 2022, which limits V.P.'s authority to drop-off and pick-up M.P. to the area at the end of the school's driveway or, alternatively, in the municipal parking lot located at the rear of the school;

In support of his position, V.P. testified that on Monday, December 5, 2022 his son, M.P., contacted him to say that he was at school, but was not feeling well and wanted to go home. V.P. stated that he had recently undergone surgery and was in pain, but decided, even though he was only wearing gym clothes, to go to MPHS to pick-up his son and bring him home. V.P. was aware that according to the MSA, Mondays were not his parenting days. However, he knew that the MSA allowed either parent to pick-up M.P. in the event of an emergency. V.P. claimed that he did not know the nature or severity of his son's illness, but he deemed this occasion to be an "emergency" and so decided that it was his right to go to the school to pick-up M.P. V.P. testified that Nurse Corcoran refused to explain the nature of M.P.'s illness and gave him "one-word answers" to his inquiries. While V.P. testified that he never became angry with anyone at the school, it was clear that he was, at the very least, expressing his displeasure when he recounted his conversation with Corcoran and he admitted that he was "frustrated" and that he was "hyper-alarmed" about his son's complaints of "not feeling well".

V.P. testified that when he arrived at MPHS, he was invited into Principal Capuano's office. Nurse Corcoran was also present with Capuano. Although Capuano invited V.P. to sit down, V.P. refused to sit because his recent surgery made sitting painful. V.P. testified that he told Capuano that he wanted to take his son home. Capuano advised V.P. that M.P.'s grandparents were on their way to the school and that they would pick-up M.P. at A.Z.'s behest. V.P. testified that Nurse Corcoran had refused to give him information about his son and he complained that he was not told when the grandparents were expected to arrive. V.P. testified that he responded by saying that the grandparents were "not on the list" to pick-up M.P. and that since he was already there, he would take M.P. home. V.P. admitted that he was "alarmist" and stated that his concern was to get M.P. home so he could rest.

Upon questioning, V.P. admitted that he knew that Monday, December 5, 2022 was not his parenting day and that it was A.Z.'s parenting day. He admitted that he knew that under the MSA, the routine day-to-day decisions about M.P.'s welfare were to be made by the parent then having physical custody of M.P., which on Mondays would be A.Z. However, V.P. pointed out that the MSA also provided that either parent could pick-up M.P. when there was an emergency and he construed his son's illness to be an emergency. Upon continued questioning, V.P. re-iterated that he told Capuano that he would take his son home and was told that he should wait until A.Z. could arrive and help resolve the situation. When asked if he raised his voice or became angry when he was told that the school could not release M.P. to him, V.P. denied that he ever became angry or even raised his voice. V.P. was questioned about the statements of the witnesses listed in R-1 and R-7, all of whom stated that V.P. had become loud, angry, and hostile towards Capuano and Corcoran. In response, V.P. was hesitant to say they were all lying. Instead, he stated that they all "misperceived" his emotions and were all mistaken about the volume of his voice. V.P. denied that any of his behavior was "hostile". V.P. never denied that Capuano asked him to leave the premises.

V.P. admitted that he saw his ex-wife's parents in the school's hallway, but he denied that he ever used profanity against them. He specifically denied ever calling his ex-father-in-law, R.Z., a "piece of shit" and denied ever saying "Fuck you" to him.

When confronted with the statements of the R-1 and R-7 witnesses, V.P. claimed that they were either not telling the truth or had been too far away to hear any conversation between himself and R.Z. or that they were not present at all. Indeed, V.P. testified that he did not say anything at all to R.Z. When asked to characterize his relationship with his ex-in-laws, V.P. admitted that it was "contentious". When questioned about Capuano's statement that V.P. walked towards R.Z. with clenched fists, V.P. stated that he always walks with his fists clenched, but that on this occasion his hands were facing downwards, not upwards in a fighting position. When questioned about being escorted out of the building by Capuano and about encountering the ex-in-laws, V.P. denied that Capuano had to step between himself and R.Z. V.P. also testified that Capuano was a big man and that as Capuano escorted him out of the building, Capuano was walking so close behind him that his belly touched the small of his back. V.P. denied ever stopping or turning around to stare at or intimidate Capuano. V.P. also denied that any children were present in the hallway when he encountered his ex-in-laws.

Upon further questioning, V.P., responded to the 13th numbered paragraph of Capuano's Certification wherein Capuano referred to a conversation he had with Stacey Garvey, the school's Business Administrator. Capuano's Certification states that Garvey recounted a telephone conversation she had with V.P. during which V.P. allegedly stated, "Mr. Capuano better apologize, or I'll get him." V.P. admitted that he had a telephone conversation with Garvey shortly after he left the school building which lasted about twenty minutes. V.P. admitted that Garvey asked if his statement was a threat against Capuano, but he denied that he was making a threat.

On Re-Direct, V.P. clarified that his focus throughout all his dealings with the Midland Park School District has been to understand the protocols regarding drop-offs and pick-ups of his son and to obtain assurance that he would be receiving any and all information about his son from the school district.

Summations

Respondent's Summation

The School District emphasized that its responsibility is to keep the schools safe for students and staff. Respondent's counsel, Mr. Fogarty argued that the weight of the credible evidence, both form the documentary evidence and from V.P. himself confirmed that V.P.'s language and behavior on December 5, 2022 was not in keeping with District Policy 9150 or with the good taste and propriety expected of persons who enter school grounds. He argued that the coherence and agreement of the School District's several witnesses, all of whom had no personal interest at stake in the matter, demonstrated that their accounts of V.P.'s conduct on December 5, 2022 were truthful. On the other hand, V.P.'s claim was that he remained calm throughout this episode, never raised his voice, never pointed his fingers at anyone, never use vulgar language, never stared at anyone, never made any aggressive overtures, and never made any threats is against the weight of all the other evidence in the matter. Mr. Fogarty pointed-out that the District's witnesses all agree that V.P. raised his voice; claimed he was denied information about his son; was accusatory; pointed his fingers at both Capuano and Corcoran; stared at and moved in an aggressive manner toward R.Z.; stopped walking, turned and stared at Capuano; and used vulgarities against his ex-in-laws causing his ex-mother-in-law to be "visible shaken". Most importantly, V.P. never denied that Capuano, after appealing to V.P. to calm down, reached the decision that he had to ask V.P. to leave the premises, to notify security personnel, and to personally escort V.P. out of the building. Although V.P. claimed to have remained calm throughout his time at the school, he never denied that he was ejected from the premises. Attorney Fogarty argued that V.P. had not borne his burden of proving even one of the four Crowe factors needed to justify emergent relief. Attorney Fogarty asked the Tribunal to agree that School Superintendent Cirasella's action barring V.P. was in keeping with School District Policy 9150; was backed-up with abundant proof of V.P.'s misconduct; and was fully justified. He asked the Tribunal to affirm Cirasella's decision.

Petitioner's Summation

V.P. re-emphasized that he is simply looking for the School District to provide him with the protocols for dropping-off and picking-up his son in non-emergency and in emergency situations. He believed that his son's reported illness constituted an emergency which justified his presence on the campus of MPHS on December 5, 2022. He re-iterated that the school nurse refused to give him information about his son's health when he spoke with her, which made him frustrated, but not angry or hostile. Since he was not told when the grandparents would arrive to pick-up M.P., he could not understand why he could not take M.P. home. He admitted that he is "alarmist" and was indeed alarmed that the delay in getting his son home would be detrimental to him.

Addressing the obvious question of why the statements of the witnesses, all of which attest to V.P.'s inappropriate conduct, should not be believed, V.P. simply stated that they "misperceived" his emotions and did not actually hear the statements of which he is accused of saying.

Finally, V.P. argued that the Superintendent's decision to bar him should be overturned because it would not only be unfair to deny him access to school activities, but it would be dangerous to bar him from the campus in the event of an emergency, such as another health emergency or even in the event of a school shooting. V.P. pointed out the implausibility of getting through to the superintendent in an emergency situation to seek her permission to come to the campus to see to his son's safety.

At the end of his summation, the Tribunal posed a question to V.P. In answer to the Tribunal's question regarding the need for emergent relief, the Tribunal asked V.P. what the imminent threat (post-December 5th) was to M.P. that justified emergent relief.

V.P. could only say that in the event of a possible future emergency (admitting there was no imminent or present emergency) he would need immediate access to the campus.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

Having reviewed the documents, testimony, and arguments presented, I make the following findings of FACT.

I FIND that V.P.'s demand that the School District provide him with information about his son, M.P., has already been completely addressed by the December 12, 2022 letter to V.P. written by Superintendent Marie Cirasella. (R-4) In that letter, Cirasella gives V.P. the School District's assurance that the School District's administrators, teachers and school nurse will respond to his appropriate requests for any information about his son.

I FIND that the "protocols" demanded by the Petitioner, V.P., regarding the dropping-off and picking-up of his son, M.P. have been provided in Superintendent Marie Cirasella's letter to him dated December 12, 2022 (R-4).

I FIND that V.P.'s demand that he be supplied with information about his son, M.P., has been provided in R-4.

I FIND that the response to V.P.'s demand for the "protocols" for dropping-off and picking-up his son, Cirasella's Letter dated December 12, 2022 (R-4) has provided V.P. with a clear statement that he is not to come upon the premises of MPHS and it has provided a clear procedure for where he, on his parenting days, is to drop-off and pick-up his son, M.P.

I FIND that the response to V.P.'s demand for "protocols" for emergency visits by him to MPHS has already been addressed in R-4, wherein Superintendent Cirasella sets forth a clear procedure for V.P. to contact her by telephone to seek admission to the MPHS campus, reserving to herself the sole discretion and authority to grant or deny admission to the campus to V.P.

I FIND that in response to V.P.'s demand that he be apprised by the School District of all information concerning his son, M.P., Superintendent Cirasella has already stated clearly to V.P. in R-4 that he will continue to receive all notifications, reports, and assessments concerning M.P., which are provided by the school District to all parents and guardians of its students.

I FIND that on December 5, 2022 at MPHS, after his arrival at MPHS, V.P. pointed his finger at and accused Nurse Corcoran of not providing him with information about his son, M.P. I FIND that V.P.'s accusation against Corcoran is lacking in support. I FIND that Corcoran did indeed supply V.P. with adequate information about M.P. and that information was that M.P. was complaining of having a headache, that it being the lad's mother's (A.Z.'s) parenting day she had been informed of M.P.'s complaint and stated that M.P.'s grandparents (the Z.'s) were going to the school to pick-up M.P. I FIND that, contrary to V.P.'s testimony, the preponderance of the credible evidence indicates that V.P. was not calm when he was at MPHS; that V.P. raised his voice while speaking with Principal Capuano and Nurse Corcoran and continued to speak in a loud voice even after Capuano asked him to calm down.

I FIND that V.P. was not as credible as Principal Capuano and that V.P. was not as credible as the Respondent's other witnesses because Capuano and the Respondent's other witnesses had no personal stake in the outcome of the matter, while V.P. had lost his privilege of entering the MPHS campus and was seeking to gain it back. I have also found V.P. to be less credible than Capuano and Respondent's other witnesses due to the consistency of the Respondent's witnesses combined statements, which agree that V.P. was not calm, that he was angry, that his behavior caused Capuano to decide to eject V.P. from the campus; that as he was being escorted to the exit, V.P. confronted both R.Z. and Principal Capuano; that V.P.'s claims that he remained calm throughout the episode and did not use vulgarities is belied by the sheer number of witnesses who contradicted him; by the fact that V.P. claimed that numerous witnesses all "misperceived" what really happened on December 5, 2022; by the fact that V.P. tacitly admits that he was ejected from the campus; by the fact that V.P. admitted that he was "alarmist", "hyper-alarmed" and "frustrated"; by the fact that V.P. while admitting that his fists were indeed clenched as he walked by R.Z., he nonetheless claimed that he "always" walks with his hands clenched and that he recalled on this occasion that his hands were facing downwards; and by the overall implausibility of V.P.'s account.

The preponderance of the credible evidence indicates that the following statements should be, and hereby are, found to be true statements of fact.

I FIND that even though V.P. knew that Monday, December 5, 2022 was not his parenting day and that his ex-wife, A.Z., had dispatched her parents (the Z.'s) to go to MPHS to pick-up M.P., V.P. insisted that he should bring M.P. home.

I FIND that V.P. ignored Principal Capuano's recommendation to wait for A.Z. to arrive to sort out the question of who should pick-up M.P.

I FIND that because Principal Capuano found V.P.'s behavior not to be appropriate under the circumstances, Capuano warned him that he would be asked to leave the campus; and then, because V.P. did not calm down, Capuano decided to eject V.P. from the campus due to V.P.'s continuing inappropriate behavior.

I FIND that Capuano ordered his staff to summon security personnel to the scene and I FIND that in the meantime Capuano personally escorted V.P. to the exit of the school building.

I FIND that V.P.'s testimony about Capuano walking so close behind him that his belly touched V.P.'s lower back to be untrue in light of the account given by Capuano that during the walk to the exit, V.P. stopped and turned to face Capuano.

I FIND that it would not be likely that Capuano could walk so closely behind V.P. that his belly could touch V.P.'s lower back because their legs would have become entangled if they had been walking in such close proximity, as suggested by V.P.

I FIND that V.P. used vulgar language when speaking to M.P.'s grandparents, the Z.'s, in the hallway of MPHS where staff and students were present. Particularly, I FIND that V.P. called R.Z. a "piece of shit" and said "Fuck you!" to R.Z.

I FIND that V.P. walked towards R.Z. with his fists clenched and in an aggressive manner, causing Principal Capuano to take action to prevent an altercation by placing his own body between the two other men.

I FIND that V.P.'s display of vulgar language and aggressive behavior frightened Mrs. Z. I FIND that V.P. exited MPHS shortly after directing vulgarities at R.Z.

I FIND that shortly after exiting MPHS, V.P. placed a telephone call to School Administrator Stacey Garvey and stated to her either, "Capuano better apologize, or I'll get him" or "Capuano better apologize, or he'll be sorry".

I FIND that the statements and actions of V.P. on December 5, 2022 while on the campus of MPHS were grievous enough to violate School Policy 9150.

I FIND that V.P. has not set forth proof of any imminent harm or threat to either himself or to M.P. that justifies any sort of emergent relief. I FIND that V.P. has not presented sufficient facts or sufficient arguments that would satisfy any of the four Crowe factors.

APPLICABLE LAW

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a) provides:

> Where the subject matter of the controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education ... the petitioner may include with the petition of appeal, a separate motion for emergent relief ... pending the Commissioner's final decision in the contested case."

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) provides:

> A motion for stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia , 90 N.J. 126 (1982):
>
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) arose out of a set of circumstances regarding support and palimony matters. Nonetheless, the case has been the polestar decision in New Jersey for cases wherein injunctive relief is sought. The case stands for the proposition that an injunction cannot be granted unless and until the party seeking relief presents clear and convincing evidence that: (1) the injunction is "necessary to prevent irreparable harm"; (2) that "the legal right underlying the claim is settled"; (3) that the party seeking relief has made "a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits"; and (4) that "the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying [injunctive] relief", on a balancing of the equities, weighs in his favor. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132-34. In order to prevail, the party seeking injunctive relief must demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that he meets all four Crowe factors. Brown v. City of Paterson, 424 N.J. Super. 176, 183 (App. Div. 2012).

"[A] party who seeks mandatory preliminary injunctive relief must satisfy a 'particularly heavy' burden." Guaman v. Velez, 421 N.J. Super. 239, 247 (App. Div. 2011), Rinaldo v. RLB Inv., LLC, 387 N.J. Super. 387, 396 (App. Div. 2006).

Also, "[w]hen a case presents an issue of 'significant public importance', a court must [also] consider the public interest in addition to the traditional Crowe factors." Garden State Equal. v. Dow, 216 N.J. 314, 321 (2013).

Appellate courts are bound by the trial court's factual findings if they are supported by "substantial, credible evidence" in the record. Triffin v. Automatic Data Processing, Inc., 411 N.J. Super. 292,315 (App. Div. 2010).

Under the first Crowe factor, a party who seeks injunctive relief must establish that injunctive relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm and to preserve the status quo. Citizens Coach Co. v. Camden Horse R.R. Co. , 29 N.J. Eq. 299, 303 (E.&A. 1878). Irreparable harm is an "injury to be suffered in the absence of injunctive relief [that] is substantial and imminent." Waste Mgmt. of N.J., Inc. v. Union City Utils. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

Under the second Crowe factor, injunctive relief will be withheld when the legal right underlying the claim is unsettled. Citizens Coach, at ps. 304-05.

Under the third Crowe factor, the party seeking relief is obligated to present clear and convincing evidence that he / she has a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. Therefore, injunctive relief will not be granted where there are material facts in controversy. Citizens Coach at ps. 305-06. The party who seeks injunctive relief must be prepared to demonstrate facts which support his case and "must make a preliminary showing of reasonable probability of success on the merits." Crowe, at p. 133.

The second and third Crowe factors involve fact-sensitive analysis that "requires a determination of whether the material facts are in dispute, and whether the applicable law is settled." Waste Mgmt., at p. 528.

Under the fourth Crowe factor, the party who seeks injunctive relief must address the issue of relative hardship to the parties and he must establish that, on balance, the equities favor the grant of temporary relief to maintain the status quo pending the outcome of a final hearing." Crowe at p. 134. The party seeking injunctive relief must prove his case by clear and convincing evidence. Brown at p. 183 and thus his burden is 'particularly heavy'. Guaman at p. 247.

Midland Park Board of Education, District Policy 9150 – School Visitors

The above-captioned Policy is set forth as follows:

> The Board of Education welcomes and encourages visits to schools by parent(s) or legal guardian(s), or other adult resident of the community, and interested educators. In order for the educational program to continue undisturbed when visitors are present and to prevent the intrusion of disruptive persons into the schools, the Board directs the enforcement of rules governing school visits.
>
> The Superintendent and building principal each possess the authority To prohibit the entry of any person into a school of this district or to Expel any person from the school when there is reason to believe the Presence of such person would be inimical to the good order of the school. If such person refuses to leave the school grounds or creates a disturbance, the Principal is authorized to request from the local law enforcement agency whatever assistance is required to remove the individual.
>
> Visitors shall be required to register their presence in the school. No staff Member shall transact business with or permit the continuing presence in the school of a visitor who has not been duly registered. Pupils may not bring visitors to school.
>
> No visitor may confer with a student in school without the approval of the Principal; any such conference may take place only in the presence of a teaching staff member and / or administrator.
>
> The Superintendent shall develop regulations that will protect pupils and employees of the district from disruption to the educational program and the efficient conduct of their assigned tasks.

ANALYSIS OF THE ARGUMENTS ON THE PENDING MOTION

Petitioner's Argument

Petitioner V.P. did not demonstrate that he met any of the requirements necessary for demonstrating his need for emergent relief pursuant to the four factors governing the granting of injunctive relief set forth in Crowe v. DiGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). His argument was based on speculation that in the event of a future emergency, he would need immediate access to the high school campus in order to safeguard his son's welfare. He completely ignored the reasons set forth in the School Superintendent's letter for barring him from the campus pursuant to Policy 9150 due to his conduct on December 5. 2022. V.P. therefore failed to demonstrate any good reason for overturning the Superintendent's decision to bar him.

Respondent's Argument

The First Crowe Factor:

Regarding the first Crowe factor, the Respondent convincingly argued that the Petitioner did not demonstrate that he would suffer irreparable harm if emergent relief were not granted

The Second Crowe Factor:

Regarding the second Crowe factor, Respondent's Counsel points out that Policy 9150 was enacted in accordance with the laws of New Jersey and that its purpose is the promotion of the safety of school staff and students. The BOE's convincingly argued that the law is settled, and it is settled in favor of the BOE, not V.P.

The Third Crowe Factor:

Regarding the third Crowe factor, Respondent's counsel points out that the weight of the credible evidence favors the respondent. Moreover the failure of V.P. to reconcile his assertion that he did not cause a disturbance on December 5, 2022 with the tacit admission that he was indeed ejected from the MPHS campus without any protest on his part, strongly indicates that V.P. will not be able to prevail on the merits.

The Fourth Crowe Factor:

Regarding the fourth Crowe factor, respondent's counsel points out that V.P. has not demonstrated any harm to his interests that was not self-inflicted. The weight of the evidence is that he caused a disturbance on the campus of MPHS which resulted in his ejection and eventual barring from said campus. The BOE's position is that allowing V.P. onto the campus could, in view of his previous egregious conduct and the likelihood of a repetition of such conduct, pose a continuing danger to the good order of the school. Therefore, the relative harm to the parties falls heavier on the school (the BOE) than it does V.P.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Legal Analysis of the Evidence Concerning School Policy 9150

School Policy 9150 is attached as an exhibit. Its provisions are clearly stated.

Petitioner, V.P.'s position is that he conducted himself with good taste and propriety on December 5, 2022 at MPHS. He stated that he was calm and remained calm. He denies becoming angry or loud, denies that he made accusations; denies that he used vulgar language; denies that he made threats; and denies that he engaged in any hostile actions. He did not deny that he was asked to leave the school building and that he was escorted out of the building. V.P. characterized himself as "alarmist". In regard to the statements of various witnesses who stated that V.P. became angry, loud, accusatory, used vulgar language, that he made threats, and that he acted in a hostile manner, V.P. responded that the witnesses "misperceived" his words and demeanor and that some of them were too far away to hear what he actually said.

The Respondent's multiple witnesses reported that V.P. was not calm, but rather was visibly agitated and angry and that he raised his voice and was asked to lower his voice. V.P. accused Nurse Corcoran of not giving him information about his son's illness. Multiple witnesses reported that V.P. spoke to his ex-father-in-law using vulgarity and expletives. V.P. did not deny saying to Principal Capuano, "If anything happens to my son, it's on you." This statement and the statement quoted by Capuano (from his conversation with Administrator Stacey Garvey), "If Capuano doesn't apologize, I'll get him", suggest untoward consequences against Capuano. Capuano stated that he surmised the need to place himself between V.P. and R.Z. in order to prevent a physical altercation being initiated by V.P.'s use of vulgar language and his approach towards R.Z. with clenched fists.

I have made findings concerning the above-listed conduct and I CONCLUDE that on December 5, 2022 at MPHS V.P. violated School Policy 9150.

Legal Analysis Of The Arguments Concerning The Crowe Factors

Analysis of the First Crowe Factor: The Claim of Irreparable Harm

A party seeking injunctive relief must demonstrate the need for relief by clear and convincing evidence. Brown, supra. The party seeking injunctive relief must demonstrate that the claim of irreparable harm is substantial and imminent. Waste Mgmt., supra. V.P. has not carried his burden of producing clear and convincing evidence that his being barred from the School District's campuses will cause him or M.P. irreparable harm. There has been no showing that the drop-off and pick-up places to which V.P. is limited imposes any undue hardship to V.P. or to M.P. The Board was not inflicting harm when the Superintendent of Schools barred V.P. from the School Districts campuses. Rather the Superintendent was attempting to promote the safety of the students and staff of the District from a repetition of the type of conduct that V.P. exhibited on December 5, 2022.

I CONCLUDE that V.P. has not demonstrated irreparable harm to himself or to his son, M.P., and cannot prevail on the first Crowe factor.

Analysis of the Second Crowe Factor: Whether the Law is Settled or Not

Policy 9150 was enacted in accordance with the laws of New Jersey and its purpose is the promotion of the safety of school staff and students. I CONCLUDE that the BOE has demonstrated that the law is settled and that it is settled in its favor.

Analysis of the Third Crowe Factor: That the Movant has Shown a Reasonable Likelihood of Success on the Merits

On the issue of whether V.P. can show a reasonable probability of success on the merits, V.P. has not set forth an argument demonstrating that the merits weigh in his favor. On the other hand, the respondent has marshalled evidence favoring the Respondent's case from witnesses who have no personal interest in the outcome of the matter and whose credibility has not been seriously challenged. I CONCLUDE that V.P. has not demonstrated that he has a reasonable probability of success on the merits. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that V.P. cannot prevail on the third Crowe factor.

Analysis of the Fourth Crowe Factor : Relative Harm to the Parties

V.P. bears the burden of demonstrating by clear and convincing evidence that the harm he claims to suffer is both substantial and imminent. As noted above, V.P. has not demonstrated that denial of injunctive relief will cause him or his son to suffer any imminent harm or even any foreseeable harm. V.P. has not demonstrated how he or his son, M.P., will be harmed and has not demonstrated that he or his son, M.P., will be harmed to any greater extent than the Board. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that V.P. cannot prevail on the fourth Crowe factor.

From my analysis of the facts and the arguments presented pursuant to Crowe, I CONCLUDE that V.P. has not demonstrated that he has prevailed on any of the Crowe factors and therefore, he is not entitled to emergent relief.

Having reviewed the documents and testimony presented in this matter, together with the arguments presented, I CONCLUDE that the School District does not "enforce" the MSA; rather, it has followed the requirements of the MSA. I also CONCLUDE that the definition of an "emergency", as used in the MSA, is not a matter for the OAL to decide. V.P. and A.Z., through their respective counsel have agreed to the terms and content of their MSA. If either of them now or in the future raises a question or conflict about the meaning of the word "emergency" as used in their MSA, then they must seek to resolve it. Ultimately, the definition of "emergency" under the MSA is for the parties themselves to agree upon, or, if they cannot agree upon the definition of "emergency" they must resolve their dispute before the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Family Part.

Having reviewed Exhibit R-4 and Exhibit R-6, I CONCLUDE that Superintendent Marie Cirasella has given the School District's assurance to V.P. that the School District's administrators, teachers and school nurse will respond to his appropriate requests for any information about his son. I CONCLUDE that Cirasella provided V.P. with a clear statement that he is not to come upon the premises of MPHS and has provided a clear procedure for where he is to pick-up M.P. on his parenting days. I CONCLUDE that Cirasella provided V.P. with a clear procedure in which he is to telephone her regarding an emergency that may involve M.P., reserving to herself the authority to grant or deny admittance for V.P. to enter upon the MPHS campus. I CONCLUDE that Cirasella has stated clearly to V.P. that he will continue to receive all notifications, reports, and assessments concerning M.P., which are provided by the school District to all parents and guardians of its students. I CONCLUDE that Cirasella's December 12, 2022 letter has already provided all of the relief that V.P. is entitled to in this matter, including , but not limited to, his demand for a set of "protocols".

Having made findings of fact concerning V.P.'s conduct on December 5, 2022 at MPHS, and having reviewed School Policy 9150, I CONCLUDE that Superintendent Marie Cirasella was authorized to bar V.P. from the premises of the Midland Park School District and I CONCLUDE that nothing has come before this Tribunal that indicates that the barring of V.P. should be lifted. I hereby AFFIRM Superintendent Cirasella's action of barring V.P. from the School District's premises, subject to her further consideration of circumstances that may arise, and subject to her sole discretion.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that V.P.'s Motion for emergent relief in the form of an Order vacating the December 8, 2022 decision of Superintendent of Schools Marie Cirasella to bar V.P. from the campuses of the Midland Park School District is DENIED; and it is further ORDERED that V.P.'s demand for a set of protocols (i.e., procedures) for the dropping-off and picking-up of M.P. is DENIED because the procedures have already been set forth in R-4, Cirasella's letter dated December 12, 2022; and it is further ORDERED that V.P.'s demand for information about his son, M.P., is DENIED because the promises and assurances have already been set forth in R-4, Cirasella's letter dated December 12, 2022, and it is further ORDERED that a copy of this ORDER shall be transmitted by email from the OAL to V.P. and to Attorney Stephen R. Fogarty, and that receipt of same shall be acknowledged immediately by the recipients.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: E.C. and S.C., on behalf of minor children, C.C. and K.C. v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, Agency Dkt. No. 100-4/23

Dear Parties,

This matter arises from the determination of the Elizabeth Board of Education (Board) that petitioners do not meet the residency requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The petition of appeal in this matter was received by the Office of Controversies and Disputes, which processes petitions filed before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a), via email on April 17, 2023. Accordingly, an acknowledgment was sent to the parties that identified April 17, 2023 as the filing date. Thereafter, the Board determined that, because the petition was filed more than 21 days after the Board issued the notice of ineligibility, it would not allow petitioners' minor children to continue to attend school in Elizabeth during the pendency of the proceedings.

Petitioners filed a motion for emergent relief, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1(f), which the Board did not oppose. As part of their motion, petitioners included a shipping receipt that demonstrated that they had mailed the petition of appeal via United States Postal Service (USPS) Priority Mail, using a third-party shipping service called "Prime Postal Center." The tracking information demonstrates that the package was shipped on March 24, accepted by the USPS on March 25, and delivered to the Department of Education (DOE) on March 27, 2023. However, the tracking information listed the DOE's Office of Certification and Induction as the recipient, rather than the Office of Controversies and Disputes. Accordingly, the package containing the mailed version of the petition was searched for and located in the Office of Certification and Induction. The petition was enclosed in a plain white mailing envelope, which was correctly addressed by petitioners to the Office of Controversies and Disputes. However, Prime Postal Center placed the entire package in a USPS-supplied Priority Mail envelope and prepared an electronic shipping label which listed the recipient as the Office of Certification and Induction. Whether this happened due to an autofill error or for some other reason, it is clear that the fault for the incorrect address lies with Prime Postal Center, not petitioners.

Upon review of petitioners' submission, I conclude that the filing date for the petition of appeal must be amended to March 27, 2023, the date that the petition was delivered to the Department of Education. Based upon this filing date, the petition was filed within 21 days of the Board's notice of ineligibility. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, petitioners' minor children may not be denied admission during the pendency of the proceedings.[1]

The petition will be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings regarding the merits of the underlying residency dispute. Minor children C.C. and K.C. are permitted to attend school in Elizabeth during the pendency of the proceedings.

Sincerely,

Angelica Allen-McMillan, Ed.D.
Acting Commissioner of Education

[1] Because the Commissioner concludes that the petition was filed within 21 days of the notice of ineligibility, there is no need to reach a decision on petitioners' motion for emergent relief or to address the factors of Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Final Decision

New Jersey Education Association,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Hudson County Schools of Technology, Hudson County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by respondent Hudson County Schools of Technology Board of Education (HCST) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the reply thereto filed by petitioner New Jersey Education Association (NJEA), have been reviewed and considered.[1]

In this matter, the NJEA is seeking payment from HCST for the legal fees and costs that it incurred in defending a criminal matter involving an HCST secretary, Graciela Rubet. Rubet was accused of taking a gift bag belonging to another employee from a locker on June 22, 2018. Following an investigation into the incident, the Board attorney directed the district to have charges filed against Rubet. Thereafter, on or about August 9, 2018, the superintendent reported the incident to the police, provided them with a copy of video surveillance, and informed them that she wanted to pursue a criminal complaint against Rubet. On August 29, 2018, the North Bergen Municipal Court issued a criminal complaint against Rubet, charging her with the fourth-degree crime of theft by unlawfully taking or exercising control over movable property. On February 24, 2020, the charges against Rubet were dismissed. Rubet was defended in the criminal matter by the Law Firm of Caruso Smith Picini, P.C. (Law Firm). On April 24, 2020 and again on August 25, 2020, the Law Firm sent demand letters to the Board, requesting reimbursement in the amount of $155,367.27 to defray Rubet's legal costs in defending the criminal charges against her. The NJEA then filed the instant petition of appeal.

[1] HCST's reply to the NJEA's reply was not considered, as such a filing is not contemplated by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Despite HCST's assertions, the Commissioner notes that the NJEA's reply exceptions were timely filed in accordance with the extension that it received from the Commissioner with HCST's consent.

Following cross-motions for summary decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the NJEA is entitled to reimbursement for the legal fees and costs associated with defending Rubet in the criminal matter, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1. Specifically, the ALJ concluded that the criminal charge arose out of and in the course of the performance of Rubet's position as a secretary at HCST. The ALJ noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 provides an exception to indemnification when a criminal complaint is filed by or on behalf of the Board. In this case, the ALJ found that the complaint was filed by a police officer and on behalf of Edward Sellmeyer, the employee who owned the gift bag, and not by or on behalf of HCST, such that the exception does not apply. Finally, the ALJ found that the NJEA is entitled to indemnification even though the funds will be paid to the Law Firm rather than to Rubet herself, and that a settlement agreement and release between Rubet and HCST does not affect the NJEA's right to seek indemnification.[2]

In its exceptions, HCST argues that the NJEA is not entitled to indemnification for several reasons. First, according to HCST, Rubet's actions in going into a coworker's locker and taking a gift bag does not arise out of and in the course of the performance of her duties as a secretary as it is unrelated to her job responsibilities. Second, HCST argues that the ALJ erred in finding that this matter was not filed by or on behalf of the Board as it ignores that the school contacted police and made the request to file a criminal complaint. Third, HCST contends that Rubet does not have a right to reimbursement for her legal fees because she waived her rights to bring any action against the Board in a settlement agreement with HCST. Finally, HCST maintains that the NJEA does not have an independent right or standing to bring this action as the NJEA is not an employee of HCST.

In reply, the NJEA argues that the ALJ correctly concluded that the complaint was not filed by or on behalf of HCST. The NJEA explains that police officers issue complaints, and therefore the complaint in this case was issued by the officer who signed the summons. The NJEA also points out that the complaint was filed on behalf of Sellmeyer, who was the actual victim because he owned the property, and not the Board. As such, the NJEA maintains that it is entitled to reimbursement of Rubet's legal fees. Additionally, the NJEA contends that the settlement agreement between Rubet and HCST did not release any rights of the NJEA because it was not a party to the settlement. Accordingly, the NJEA's position is that it funded Rubet's legal fees, and it is therefore entitled to reimbursement under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the NJEA is not entitled to payment for the legal fees and costs incurred in the defense of Graciela Rubet because the criminal matter was initiated by HCST. The statute provides:

> Should any criminal or quasi-criminal action be instituted against any such person for any such act or omission and should such proceeding be dismissed or result in a final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall reimburse him for the > cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the original hearing or trial and all appeals. No employee shall be entitled to be held harmless or have his defense costs defrayed as a result of a criminal or quasi-criminal complaint filed against the employee by or on behalf of the board of education.

When interpreting a statute, the goal is to discern the legislative intent, which can be gleaned from the plain meaning of the language. Board of Education of the City of Sea Isle City v. Kennedy, 196 N.J. 1, 12 (2008). In doing so, courts intend to give meaning to all statutory provisions, without rendering any language "inoperative, superfluous, void[,] or insignificant." In re DiGuglielmo, 252 N.J. 350, 360-61 (2022) (alteration in original) (quoting Sanchez v. Fitness Factory Edgewater, LLC, 242 N.J. 252, 261 (2020)). The language of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 indicates that an employee will not have her legal costs indemnified if the criminal complaint is filed against the employee "by or on behalf of the board of education." In order to effectuate meaning to each provision of the statute without rendering any words superfluous, the Commissioner notes that there must be a different meaning when a complaint is filed "by" a board versus when a complaint is filed "on behalf of" a board, as the provisions are separated by "or," indicating that there are two separate scenarios when the legal costs will not be defrayed.

Considering the plain meaning of the statute in this circumstance, the complaint was filed on behalf of Sellmeyer, the victim who owned the property that was allegedly stolen. Conversely, the complaint was filed by HCST. The Board attorney directed the district to have charges filed. Thereafter, the superintendent reported the incident to police, and the police incident report specifically indicates that "Mrs. Lin-Rodriguez informed me that at this time, she would like to pursue criminal complaints against Rubet." HCST initiated the criminal action by reporting it to police and pressing charges. The Commissioner is not persuaded by the NJEA's argument that the complaint was filed by the police officer who signed the summons. While the officer physically signed the complaint, that is an officer's job. However, it was HCST that reported the incident and pursued the charges with the police, such that the police followed through and issued the summons. The legislature could only intend that that a complaint is filed by the party that presses charges.[3] As the complaint was filed by HCST, Rubet shall not be held harmless and have her legal costs defrayed under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1. Therefore, the NJEA is not entitled to reimbursement of the costs it spent for Rubet's legal defense.[4]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected. HCST's motion for summary decision is granted, and the NJEA's motion for summary decision is denied. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

[3] While it appears to be undisputed that the gift bag at issue in this matter belonged to Sellmeyer, the criminal summons indicates that the gift bag belonged to HSCT. If such were true, the complaint would have been filed on behalf of HCST in addition to being filed by HCST.

[4] As this issue is dispositive, the Commissioner need not determine any of the remaining issues in this matter.

BEFORE ELISSA MIZZONE TESTA, ALJ

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF CASE

Petitioner, New Jersey Education Association ("NJEA"), seeks payment by the respondent, the Board of Education of the Hudson County Schools of Technology

("Respondent", "Board" or "HCST") for legal fees and costs associated with defending a criminal matter. On January 21, 2021, this matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") from the New Jersey Department of Education.

Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of an Answer in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g). On April 8, 2021, pursuant to a telephone conference held with the undersigned and counsel for the parties, it was agreed that there are no disputed facts with respect to this matter, and respondent's Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of an Answer was converted to a Motion for Summary Decision. Subsequently, petitioner filed a Cross-Motion for Summary Decision and each party then submitted opposition and replies to each Summary Decision Motion. On January 5, 2022, Oral Argument was held on the Summary Decision Motions. On July 28, 2022, a telephone conference was held to clarify whether the reasonableness of the attorneys' fees in question was an issue to be decided before the undersigned; it was agreed and determined that the only issue to be decided by way of this Initial Decision is whether respondent is required to reimburse petitioner for the cost of the legal fees associated with Rubet's criminal defense pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1. The record was then closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following facts are undisputed, and I therefore FIND them to be the FACTS of the case:

1. On June 22, 2018, Graciela Rubet was employed as a secretary by the Hudson County Schools of Technology.
2. On June 22, 2018, it was alleged that Rubet unlawfully took property while on school grounds during the course of her employment.
3. On August 29, 2018, a Criminal Complaint against Rubet, alleging theft by unlawfully taking or exercising control over property, was issued by the

North Bergen Municipal Court, (Exhibit A. Criminal Complaint). The Complaint was signed by Officer Eric Weyand (Exhibit A). [1]

4. John R. Dineen, Esq., Board Counsel for HCST, directed HCST to have criminal charges filed against Rubet and those charges were filed on the district's behalf. (Exhibit R. Certification of John R. Dineen, Esq., Board Counsel for HCST).

5. The North Bergen Police Department Incident Report attached to the Criminal Complaint also indicate that then Acting Superintendent Amy Lin-Rodriguez of the District requested that criminal charges be filed against Rubet. (Exhibit A., Criminal Complaint, Police Incident Report).

6. The Police Incident Report indicates that Lin-Rodriguez viewed Rubet on a surveillance camera taking a gift bag from an employee's locker. (Exhibit A., Criminal Complaint, Police Incident Report).

7. It is undisputed that there is no evidence to suggest that Rubet's job responsibilities as a secretary included going into the lockers of other employees.

8. Rubet was represented in her criminal defense matter by the Law Firm of Caruso Smith Picini, P.C. (Exhibit C, April 24, 2020 Demand Letter for Rubet's Legal Fees, with Invoices).

9. The Criminal Complaint against Rubet was ultimately dismissed by the North Bergen Municipal Court on or about February 24, 2020. (Exhibit D. New Jersey Automated Criminal Complaint System Charged, Disposition Inquiry Report).

10. As per the billing records of Rubet's attorneys, a few days prior to the Criminal Complaint being dismissed against her, her attorneys began negotiating with respondent's Board Counsel regarding a Settlement Agreement between Rubet and respondent. (Exhibit C., April 24, 2020 Demand to respondent for Rubet's Legal Fees, with Invoices; See Counsel Entries on February 20, 2020.)

[1] The referenced Exhibits are attached to the Motion and Cross-Motion for Summary Decision.

11. On April 24, 2020, a Demand Letter from Nicolas Poberezhsky of the Caruso Smith Picini Law Firm "to defray Ms. Rubet's legal costs" was forwarded to respondent. (Exhibit C. April 24, 2020 Demand Letter to Respondent for Rubet's Legal Fees with Invoices).

12. In the Demand Letter, Mr. Poberezhsky demands $155,367.27 be forwarded to his law firm "to defray Rubet's legal costs." (Exhibit C. April 24, 2020 Demand Letter to Respondent for Rubet's Legal Fees, with Invoices).

13. Rubet and respondent agreed to settle their differences related to the matter involved in the Municipal Court Criminal Complaint and their Settlement Agreement was fully executed on or about July 17, 2020. (Exhibit E., Settlement Agreement).

14. Under the terms of the Agreement, Rubet was paid $115,000. (Exhibit E. Settlement Agreement, ¶8).

15. The General Release in the Settlement Agreement reads, in part, as follows:

> General Release – As an inducement for the Employer to enter into this Agreement, the Employee does hereby remise, release and forever discharge the Employer and its officials, officers, directors, employees, agents, successors and assigns from any and all debts, obligations, suites, actions, causes of action, claims or demands, in law or in equity, which the Employee ever had now has or hereafter can, shall or may have, for upon or by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever arising

16. The General Release further reads, in part, as follows:

> . . . In the event that any action or proceeding has been filed or instituted, the Employee agrees to cause its immediate dismissal with prejudice. Employee further agrees not to participate as a plaintiff either individually or as part of a class, as if so named, she shall withdraw with prejudice from the matter. (Exhibit E., Settlement Agreement, ¶10) (Emphasis added).

17. The Settlement Agreement further provides as follows:

> KNOWING AND VOLUNTARY WAIVER – The Employee acknowledges that in the execution of this Agreement, she is affecting a knowing and voluntary waiver of any claims, liabilities or causes of action against Employer, its officials, and employees . . .. The Employee has consulted with an attorney and has read this Agreement and fully understands all of its terms.

(Exhibit E. Settlement Agreement. ¶12) (Emphasis added).

18. The Petition in this matter was filed on or about October 20, 2020 with the New Jersey Education Association as the petitioner and the Hudson County Schools of Technology as respondent. (Exhibit F., Petition without Exhibits). The petitioner seeks to have the Hudson County Schools of Technology pay to the New Jersey Education Association $155,367.27 "to defray Ms. Rubet's legal costs" that appear to have been incurred by the Caruso Smith Picini Law Firm in representing Ms. Rubet in the Municipal Court action referenced in the proceeding paragraphs. (Exhibit F., Petition; Exhibit C, April 24, 2020 Demand Letter to Respondent for Graciela Rubet's Legal Fees, with Invoices. See list paragraph on first page).

20. Petitioner submits documentation of hours spent by her attorneys in representing Rubet in her criminal matter. (Exhibit C, April 24, 2020 Demand Letter to Respondent for Rubet's Legal Fees, with Invoices).

21. No documentation is provided as to what entity is obligated to pay Rubet's legal fees and under what conditions, pursuant to contract or other legal vehicle, although it is undisputed that she has no outstanding legal fees.

22. There is no representation in the Petition, or documentation provided by petitioner, New Jersey Education Association indicating that Rubet is responsible for the payment of the $155,367.27 for legal fees that are sought.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

A party may move for summary decision under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), which "may be rendered if the papers and discovery, which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This Motion shares similarities with the summary judgment rule established in New Jersey Court Rules, R. 4:46-2. See, Judson v. People's Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). Pursuant to this standard, all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant and in favor of the party against whom the motion is directed. Id. at 75. Here, both the respondent and the petitioner are moving parties. Summary Judgment is precluded when it is determined that "there exists a genuine issue of material fact." Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

Petitioner and respondent agree that no genuine issues of material fact exist in this case. Therefore, the primary legal question to be determined is whether respondent is required to reimburse petitioner for the cost of the legal fees associated with Rubet's criminal defense pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

The indemnity of board of education employees in certain criminal and quasi-criminal actions is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, which provides in pertinent part:

> Should any criminal or quasi-criminal action be instituted against any such person for any such act or omission and should such proceeding be dismissed or result in a final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall reimburse him for the cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the original hearing or trial and all appeals. No employee shall be entitled to be held harmless or have his defense costs defrayed as a result of a criminal or quasi-criminal complaint filed against the employee by or on behalf of the board of education.

In Bower v. East Orange Bd. of Educ. (Bower I) 149 N.J. 416 (1997), the New Jersey Supreme Court interpreted N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 to be read in conjunction with N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6[2] and adopted a two-part standard to determine whether board of education employees are entitled to indemnification of counsel fees and expenses incurred in the defense of criminal charges under the statute. To prevail, the employee must demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence that 1) any act or omission on which

[2] N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 provides: "Whenever any civil or administrative action or other legal proceeding has been or shall be brought against any person holding any office, position or employment under the jurisdiction of any board of education, including any student teacher or person assigned to other professional pre-teaching field experience, for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of the duties of such office, position, employment or student teaching or other assignment to professional field experience, the board shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting therefrom; provided that the criminal charges are based, arose "out of and in the course of the performance of his duties", and 2) the charges were either dismissed or resulted in a final disposition favorable to the employee. Id. at 423.

> (a) no employee shall be entitled to be held harmless or have his defense costs defrayed in a disciplinary proceeding instituted against him by the board or when the employee is appealing an action taken by the board..."

Rubet has satisfied the second prong under Bower – all criminal charges against her were ultimately dismissed. The next inquiry then focuses on whether the act on which the criminal charges are based arose out of and in the course of the performance of her duties as a secretary. Respondent contends that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 does not apply here because the act upon which the criminal charge was based did not arise out of Rubet's performance of her duties as a secretary. Rather, respondent argues, when Rubet allegedly stole a gift bag from another employee's locker, she was acting outside of the scope of her employment duties.

The facts underlying the criminal charge are to be "analyzed strictly rather than liberally, so that reimbursement of legal fees and expenses should only ensue when the circumstances are such as to fit clearly within the legislative limitations." Powers v. Union City Bd. of Ed., 124 N.J. Super. 589 (Law Div.1973) aff'd, 127 N.J. Super 294 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 575, (1974) (analyzing a prior version of the indemnification provision). This is so because a public employee should not be "encouraged to engage in acts which may constitute crimes by the assurance that an acquittal on the charge will permit him to saddle defense costs upon the taxpayers of the community." Ibid.

In Bower, after setting forth the two-part test for indemnification under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, the Supreme Court elaborated on the scope of the term "arose out of and in the course of the performance of [the employee's] duties." Bower, a kindergarten teacher, was criminally charged with sexually abusing his students during the school day and on school premises. The charges were ultimately dismissed. Bower requested indemnification from the Board for the legal fees associated with the defense of his criminal action pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, which the board denied. Bower appealed to the State Board of Education.

The State Board of Education remanded the matter to the OAL in light of the dismissal of Bower's indictment with prejudice. The State Board instructed, on remand, that Bower had the burden of establishing both a nexus between the alleged conduct and the performance of his duties and a favorable disposition of the criminal charges. The ALJ recommended the denial of Bower's request for indemnification because he was unable to establish that the conduct alleged in the criminal matter arose out of the performance of his duties as a teacher. The Commission adopted the ALJ's recommendation, noting that the record was devoid of proof that Bower's alleged actions were linked to his teaching responsibilities. The State Board affirmed the Commissioner's ruling, emphasizing that Bower had failed to meet his "affirmative burden" of establishing a relationship between the conduct alleged and the performance of his duties as a teacher.

Bower's attorneys separately filed suit on behalf of Bower and themselves in the Law Division, seeking a judgment for attorney fees and disbursements, representing the work done in defending Bower against both indictments. The Law Division judge concluded that the criminal charges indeed had arisen out of the performance of Bower's duties because his involvement with the children was produced by his contact with them as a teacher. The judge awarded both the attorney fees and disbursements.

The Appellate Division reversed the judgment of the State Board and affirmed the judgment of the Law Division. The Appellate Division found that to arise "out of" the employment responsibilities, the criminal charges "must be of such nature the risk of which might have been contemplated by a reasonable person when entering the employment, as incidental to it." Bower v. East Orange Bd. of Educ., 287 N.J. Super. 15, 32 (App. Div. 1996). Such a risk "is incidental to the employment when it belongs to or relates to what a teacher has to do in fulfilling his contract of service." Ibid. The Supreme Court affirmed. See, Bower v. East Orange Bd. of Educ., 149 N.J. 416 (1997).

The Court found it "undisputed" that the alleged events "took place in the school, during school hours, and while Bower was required to be engaged in performing his duties as a teacher." Id. at 432. However, the Court denied the Board's assertion of a supplementary requirement that the employee present specific testimony that rebuts the charges or explains their specific relationship to the employee's performance of their assigned duties, as the requirement was absent from the statute, nor had it been imposed by administrative regulation. Id. at 433. All that is required of employees under the statute, the Court concluded, is proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the acts upon which the criminal charges were predicated arose out of and in the course of performance of the duties of employment, which Bower plainly satisfied. Id. at 434.

In McHarris v. North Brunswick Bd. of Educ., EDU 4968-01, Initial Decision (Dec. 8, 2005), McHarris, an In-School Suspension (ISS) supervisor was arrested and charged with criminal sexual contact based on allegations of inappropriate conduct with two students in the ISS classroom. During the time period of the allegations, the two students were not assigned to ISS. McHarris was subsequently acquitted of all criminal charges after a jury returned a verdict of not guilty and he sought indemnification from the board of education.

McHarris had testified that, while the students in question were not assigned to the ISS classroom, he allowed non-ISS assigned students to have their lunch break in the room and that other teachers and staff frequently visited the classroom. The Assistant Principal also confirmed that neither of the two students were assigned to the classroom. She testified that non-ISS students were not permitted to enter that room, however, there was no written policy in this regard and that it was difficult to keep other students out of the room. The ALJ also found that there was no proof of any verbal instruction to McHarris that non-ISS students were not permitted in the room, and that the school administration was on notice that McHarris allowed non-assigned students in the classroom during a free period. As such, the ALJ concluded that the alleged acts arose out of and in the course of McHarris' duties and that he was entitled to reimbursement under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

In contrast, in Crews v. Hackensack Bd. of Educ., EDU 07629-06, Initial Decision (May 2, 2007), adopted, Comm'r (May 31, 2007), Crews, a teacher for the Hackensack School District, challenged the board's denial of reimbursement of legal fees incurred in connection with her defense against a criminal complaint for disorderly conduct. While school was in session, Crews was observed to be under the influence of a controlled substance or alcohol. Pursuant to the District's substance abuse policy, Crews was required to immediately undergo a medical examination. While another employee attempted to accompany her to a doctor, Crews exited the school grounds. Police were summoned and the officers detected the smell of alcohol on her. They summoned an ambulance. When it arrived, Crews became more agitated and louder was flailing her arms, was cursing and said that she did not want to go with the ambulance. She yelled to get the f--- off her and to keep his f---ing hands off her. The officer told her she would be arrested if she did not calm down. The officers arrested her for disorderly conduct when she persisted and tried to push away from the officers. After a bench trial, Crews was acquitted, and the charges were dismissed.

The ALJ concluded that Crew's disorderly conduct charge neither arose out of nor arose in the course of the performance of her duties as a teacher. In so finding, the ALJ noted that the arrest occurred off school property on a public street when she was not in the process of educating children or attempting to fulfill her obligation to undergo a medical test under the substance abuse program. As such, the ALJ found that Crews was not entitled to reimbursement under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

Here, as was the case in Bower and McHarris, but in contrast to Crews, Rubet was charged with a crime that allegedly occurred on school premises. She was charged with the theft of a gift bag that was in the locker of a fellow employee, Mr. Sellmeyer. The risk of a secretary being charged with the theft of an item in the school is "of such nature that the risk of which might have been contemplated by a reasonable person when entering the employment, as incidental to it." Bower, 287 N.J. Super. at 32. Rubet's presence on school grounds demonstrates that this risk was at least incidental to Rubet's position as a school secretary. Thus, the criminal charge against Rubet arose out of her employment in the district and the first requirement of the two-part test is satisfied.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the criminal charge against Rubet arose out of and occurred in the course of the performance of her position as a secretary for HCST.

Respondent next contends that the exception carved out in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, which denies indemnity for an employee when the criminal or quasi criminal matter was filed "by or on behalf of the board of education" applies here. Respondent asserts that because Board Counsel and the Acting Superintendent requested that the District and the Police Department file criminal charges against Rubet, the Criminal Complaint was filed on behalf of the district.

A person is guilty of theft if they "unlawfully take, or exercise unlawful control over, movable property of another with the purpose to deprive him thereof." N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3A. "Victim" is defined as "a person who suffers a personal, physical or psychological injury or death or incurs loss or injury to personal or real property as a result of a crime committed against that person . . ." N.J.S.A. 2C:43-3(e). An individual convicted of theft may be ordered to pay restitution to the victim. N.J.S.A. 2C:43-3.

Here, Edward Sellmeyer, meets the statutory definition of "victim," because he alone allegedly suffered a loss of property in the form of a gift bag worth approximately $200. Additionally, the criminal complaint was signed by Officer Eric Weyand, who charged Rubet with the violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3A, the offense of Theft by Unlawful Taking in the Fourth Degree. While respondent may have wanted and advocated for criminal charges to be filed against Rubet, the charges were not filed "on behalf of" respondent. Criminal charges such as the one at issue here are filed by or on behalf of the victim, and here, Mr. Sellmeyer fits that definition. No action was or could have been taken by respondent to officially press charges against Rubet – its only connection to the incident was that it took place on school property.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the Complaint was filed by Officer Weyand on behalf of Mr. Sellmeyer, not on the behalf of respondent. Accordingly, the exception carved out in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 is not applicable here.

Respondent next argues that the indemnification statute refers only to an employee, not to other entities that may pay the employee's legal fees.

A board's obligation to pay for the indemnification of third parties under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 is not relieved even if the employees themselves did not shoulder any of the costs. In Salaam v. Irvington Bd. of Educ., EDU 13483-10, Initial Decision (May 17, 2012), adopted, Comm'r (June 25, 2012), a criminal complaint was filed against Salaam, a teacher employed by the Irvington Board of Education, for allegedly assaulting a fifteen-year-old student. The criminal complaint was eventually dismissed. Salaam was a member of the NJEA and had obtained his legal services through a law firm that participated in the program. Salaam requested reimbursement for his attorney fees under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1. The Board of Education ignored his request and Salaam appealed.

The ALJ concluded that the Board was required to reimburse the NJEA for Salaam's fees even though Salaam himself did not pay the fees. The ALJ rejected the Board's argument that Salaam had no standing to bring the case because NJEA financed his defense, and that Salaam had no fees to be reimbursed. The ALJ explained that:

> the fact that a third party finances the defense is irrelevant as the obligation to pay for the cost remains with the board of education. In other words, the fact that a third party finances the defense does not relieve a board of education of its obligation under the statute to pay for it.

The ALJ further found that NJEA was entitled to indemnification, as the fact that Salaam "chose to protect himself from potentially ruinous defense costs" should not "inure to the benefit of the Board of Education." The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision in full. On appeal, the Appellate Division affirmed these rulings. See, Salaam v. Bd. of Educ. of Irvington, Essex County, 2014 N.J. Super. Unpub. Lexis 268 (App. Div. February 4, 2014).

Similarly, a qualifying employee who is defended by an insurance company is entitled to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1, even when the reimbursement monies will ultimately be paid to the defending insurer rather than the employee. In Waters & Horace Mann Co. v. Tom's River Bd. of Educ, EDU 2611-10, Initial Decision (April 4, 2011), adopted, Comm'r (May 11, 2011), Waters, an Art Teacher, was alleged to have made inappropriate sexual comments to a student. Waters was named as a defendant, among others, in a lawsuit brought by the student. The claims included negligent supervision as well as violation of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act. Waters sought coverage through the NJEA, and the Horace Mann Insurance Company provided his defense. This policy contained a Subrogation Clause, which stated that:

> In the event of any payment under this contract, the Company shall be subrogated to all the Insured's rights of recovery therefore against any person or organization and the Insured shall execute and deliver instruments and papers and do whatever else is necessary to secure such rights. The Insured shall do nothing after loss of prejudice to such rights.

The lawsuit was dismissed against Waters without any finding of liability. Waters & the Horace Mann Co. brought an N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 claim (involving civil actions) seeking reimbursement in the amount of $59,023.82, representing the settlement as well as attorney's fees and costs incurred in defending Waters. The board refused, arguing that Waters had not actually incurred any expense in his defense, only Horace Mann had, and that Horace Mann is not an "employee" and therefore did not have standing to bring a claim.

The ALJ noted that Waters was faced with four choices following the Board's refusal to provide him with a defense: "raise the money himself; persuade a defense counsel to take the case and cover the upfront costs in hopes of indemnification; forgo hiring counsel to provide a defense; or draw upon the insurance policy." The ALJ concluded that the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 was to defray the employee's expenses; the subrogation clause in the insurance policy clearly stated that the Company shall be subrogated to all the Insured's rights of recovery against any person or organization; the petitioners' contention that the statute does not require an employee to personally go out of pocket to claim indemnification, and that it is sufficient that Waters petitioned for reimbursement, as in line with the Appellate Division's holdings in Sekuler v. Montgomery Township Board of Education, A-000091- 96T1 (App. Div. May 8, 1997) certif. denied, 151 N.J. 464 (1997); and the interpretation urged by the Board was overly mechanistic and not within the statute or existing case law. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the petitioners' request for relief and ordered the board to reimburse petitioners for all costs and fees expended on behalf of Waters in connection with the defense and settlement of the Superior Court lawsuit. The Commissioner adopted the decision in full.

The Appellate Division affirmed, holding that the subrogation clause was valid, and that nothing in the legislative history supports the Board's position that Horace Mann cannot seek reimbursement under the statute because it is not a board employee. See, Waters v. Bd. of Educ. of Toms River, 2011 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 3083 (App. Div. Dec. 22, 2011). The Court determined that the purposes and policies of the statute are advanced by allowing for reimbursement of costs in situations in which, in the face of board refusal to defend a case, a school employee relies on his union's insurance policy to fund legal representation. To conclude otherwise, the court held, that it "would create a loophole for school boards that would undermine the statutory purpose of defraying the costs of a school employee's defense of a suit." Id. at *19. Thus, a qualifying employee who is defended by an insurance company is entitled to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1, "even when the reimbursement monies will ultimately be paid to the defending insurer rather than the employee." Ibid.

The Court also questioned the decision of Meisenbacher v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 1 N.J.A.R. 162, 165 (Dep't of Educ. 1980), certif. granted, remanded, 91 N.J. 251 (1982), which the board had relied upon in its arguments. In that case, the ALJ held that an attorney who represented a school employee in a civil matter did not have standing to seek reimbursement from the Newark Board of Education. The court concluded that the reasoning in Meisenbacher was "questionable" because the ALJ relied on broad language in Hartmann v. Maplewood Sch. Transp. Co., 106 N.J. Super. 187, 192 (Law Div. 1969), aff'd 109 N.J. Super. 497 (App. Div. 1970) without acknowledging the factual differences between Hartmann, which involved a school bus company's driver and the issue of whether the driver was a "school employee" for the purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6, and the facts of the case before him, namely, the defense of a teacher in the district. Id. at *15-16 n.1

Here, because Rubet is entitled to reimbursement of legal fees for the cost of her criminal defense, the NJEA, who provided the funding for these fees, is entitled to same. As stated in Salaam and Waters, the Board is not relieved of its obligation under the statute to pay simply because the NJEA is not an "employee" of the Board. It does not make a difference which party filed the petition under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-16.1, and the Board has not cited any authority to the contrary.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the NJEA, who defended Rubet, a qualifying employee, is entitled to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 even when the reimbursement monies will ultimately be paid to the defending attorneys rather than Rubet herself. Accordingly, the NJEA is entitled to restitution for legal fees under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

Finally, respondent contends that, even if Rubet is found to be entitled to reimbursement under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, she waived such entitlement pursuant to her prior Settlement Agreement with respondent.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has enunciated the standard to determine whether a party has waived its legal rights. As a threshold matter, "[w]aiver is the voluntary and intentional relinquishment of a known right." Knorr v. Smeal, 178 N.J. 169, 177 (2003). The party must "have full knowledge of [its] legal rights and intent to surrender those rights." Ibid. A party need not expressly state its intent to waive a right; rather, waiver can occur implicitly if "the circumstances clearly show that the party knew of the right and then abandoned it, either by design or indifference." Ibid. Such a waiver must be done "clearly, unequivocally, and decisively." Ibid. Determining whether a party waived a right is a fact-sensitive analysis. See, Ibid.

In the Settlement Agreement, Rubet waived any future claims that she personally may be entitled to against the respondent. However, Rubet did not claim to waive any rights on behalf of NJEA. Significantly, she did not and does not have the authority to waive any rights on behalf of the NJEA. The NJEA itself did not sign any form of release as part of agreement between Rubet and the respondent, nor was it a party to any of the previous actions involving Rubet. It never demonstrated a voluntary and intentional relinquishment of its right to seek reimbursement under N.J.S.A. 18A:16.6.1, as is required under New Jersey law. Accordingly, the District cannot use Rubet's Settlement Agreement as a shield to avoid its financial obligations under N.J.S.A. 18A:16.6.1.

I therefore CONCLUDE that Rubet's Settlement Agreement did not affect NJEA's legal rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 because the NJEA was not a party to the agreement and because Rubet did not have authority to waive NJEA's legal rights.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE that the NJEA is entitled to reimbursement for legal fees and costs associated with defending Rubert in the criminal matter. Rubet was charged with a Criminal Complaint connected with on-duty conduct and the charges were subsequently dismissed. As a result, Rubet would be entitled to reimbursement of reasonable legal fees under N.J.S.A. 18A:16.6.1. Since Rubet would be entitled to reimbursement of legal fees, the NJEA, who funded those legal fees, is accordingly entitled to reimbursement.

Therefore, having reviewed both parties' submissions, I CONCLUDE that no issues of material fact exist. I further CONCLUDE that respondent is in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:16.6.1 and that petitioner is entitled to reimbursement for Rubet's legal fees and costs.

It is therefore ORDERED that the petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision be and hereby is GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the respondent's Motion for Summary Decision be and hereby is DENIED.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

J.S. and S.S., on behalf of minor child, A.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the West Morris Regional High School District, Morris County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, along with petitioners' exceptions filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board did not file a reply.[1]

In this matter, petitioners claim that the Board discriminated against A.S. by failing to provide door-to-door transportation to and from her out-of-district placement. A.S. is a high school student who attends Sage Alliance (Sage) due to her special education needs. At the time her placement began at the start of the 2021-22 school year, the Board secured Cassidy Transportation (Cassidy) to transport A.S. to and from Sage. As petitioners live on a hazardous, steep mountain road, Cassidy determined that it would be unsafe to stop directly in front of petitioners' home because it is utilizing a smaller bus rather than a full-sized bus which would have the ability to safely stop traffic.[2] As such, Cassidy picks A.S. up and drops her off at the municipal building located one-third of a mile from petitioners' home. Petitioners filed the instant petition claiming that the Board is discriminating against A.S. based on her disability and seeking an order requiring the Board to provide door-to-door transportation.

[1] The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the October 7, 2022 hearing, which included the limited testimony of one witness. The parties agreed that the testimony and record in a related special education matter – J.S. and S.S., on behalf of A.S. v. West Morris Regional Board of Education, EDS 08829-21, Final Decision dated December 7, 2022 – was duplicative of the record in this matter, and therefore the testimony of all witnesses and the corresponding exhibits from that matter were incorporated by reference in this matter. The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the hearing or the exhibits from the special education matter.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioners' claims under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD) and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) do not arise under the New Jersey School Laws and are therefore outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.[3] The ALJ found, however, that petitioners' claim under New Jersey's Equality and Equity in Education Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20 – which prohibits discrimination "in admission to, or in obtaining any advantages, privileges or courses of study of the school by reason of race, color, creed, sex or national origin" – is properly before the Commissioner. Considering the merits of petitioners' argument that A.S.'s disability is the reason that the Board has denied the curb-to-curb transportation service that other general education students on her road enjoy, the ALJ found that A.S.'s disability is not the proximate cause of why she is not being picked up in front of her house. Instead, the ALJ found that it is the hazardous road where petitioners live that prevents the shorter bus from stopping in front of the home; thus, utilizing the municipal building for pick up and drop off is an "unintended consequence" of A.S.'s placement at Sage.[4]

[2] The type of vehicle being used to transport A.S. to and from school is unclear. The director of transportation for Washington Township School District referred to the vehicle as a van but clarified that it was a smaller yellow school bus, while the transportation supervisor at West Morris Regional High School District testified in the related special education matter that a seven-passenger minivan is utilized to transport A.S.

[3] The ALJ found the Board's argument that petitioners had failed to exhaust their remedies under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) was moot, because a final decision has been issued in petitioners' due process petition.

In their exceptions, petitioners argue that the ALJ should have addressed their claims under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act (504), the ADA, and the LAD because, according to petitioners, the Commissioner has concurrent jurisdiction with the Division on Civil Rights over LAD matters when it involves schools, and the OAL has jurisdiction to hear cases involving Section 504 and the ADA. Petitioners also argue that the ALJ failed to address the fact that the Board does not allow child study teams to offer curb-to-curb transportation for people with mental health or psychiatric disabilities, regardless of their needs, and only offers it if there is a physical impairment requiring door to door transportation. Petitioners contend that because there is disparate treatment between children with physical disabilities and children with mental health or psychiatric disabilities, disability-based discrimination is apparent. Additionally, petitioners argue that A.S. was treated differently than general education students who are picked up at their homes on the same hazardous road as A.S.'s house. In support of their contention, petitioners point out that the Board did not have to use Cassidy to transport their daughter, as it could have considered other options or transported A.S. on its own using a larger bus rather than requiring her to walk along a hazardous route or rely on her parents to drive her to the municipal building.

[4] In a related special education matter, petitioners filed a due process petition similarly challenging the Board's failure to provide door-to-door transportation for A.S. to Sage and arguing that the lack of door-to-door transportation violates A.S.'s right to a free and appropriate public education (FAPE). J.S. and S.S., on behalf of A.S. v. West Morris Regional Board of Education, EDS 08829-21, Final Decision dated December 7, 2022. In a Final Decision, the ALJ found that there was no medical evidence in the record that A.S. required drop-off and pick-up immediately outside of her house. As such, the ALJ found that while a bus stop at her home may be preferable, transportation to and from the municipal building does not rise to the level of a denial of FAPE or a deprivation of educational benefits.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board is not meeting its responsibility to provide A.S. with appropriate transportation to and from school. Notably, the Board has not provided persuasive evidence that it is incapable of safely stopping in front of A.S.'s house but yet it is requiring her to walk along a hazardous road without sidewalks or a shoulder to the location of her assigned bus stop.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.3(a):

> District boards of education shall provide transportation to public school students who reside remote from their assigned school of attendance, nonpublic school students who reside remote from their school of attendance and meet the eligibility criteria of N.J.A.C. 6A:27-2.2, and students with disabilities who reside remote from their assigned school or who require transportation services in accordance with their individualized education program (IEP).

In this matter, A.S. is a student with a disability who resides remote from her assigned out-of-district placement, and as such, she is entitled to transportation to and from school. In order for A.S. to utilize the provided transportation, she must travel one-third of a mile down a steep, hazardous road to a municipal parking lot because, according to Cassidy, it is unsafe to stop along such a dangerous route. The Commissioner cannot reconcile why the Board would accept Cassidy's representation that the road is so unsafe that a vehicle cannot safely pick up a student (especially when other buses have previously stopped in front of her house), but at the same time find it acceptable for a student to walk down the same hazardous road, without a shoulder or sidewalks, to reach her assigned bus stop. The Commissioner understands that petitioners have been driving A.S. to the municipal building; while petitioners have been taking extra efforts to ensure that their child reaches the bus safely, they should not be required to do so. It is the Board's responsibility to provide A.S. with transportation under N.J.A.C. 6A:27-

1.3(a), and her parents should not be burdened with the additional responsibility of driving her back and forth because the Board has chosen a location that is indisputably unsafe for her to traverse on her own.

The Commissioner is uncertain why Cassidy transportation cannot effectuate a safe stop at or near petitioners' home. It is clear that full-sized school buses routinely stop along petitioners' road, and even at their house, while utilizing flashing lights to safely stop. If Cassidy is providing a shorter yellow school bus as one witness testified, then it is unclear why such a school bus would not be equipped with flashing lights and a stop sign in order to stop traffic. If, on the other hand, Cassidy is utilizing a seven-passenger minivan as another witness testified, then it is unclear why a van cannot pull into petitioners' driveway, or a safe pull-off location away from traffic. Notably, the record is devoid of testimony from a representative of Cassidy to explain its rationale in detail.

Considering the specific circumstances in this matter – including the treacherous route A.S. would be required to walk to her assigned bus stop and the fact that transportation vehicles have safely stopped at A.S.'s home in the past – the Commissioner finds that the Board should provide curb-to-curb transportation to and from A.S.'s out-of-district placement at Sage beginning in the 2023-24 school year. The Commissioner notes that if the Board is unable to meet its responsibility while utilizing a short yellow bus or a seven-passenger minivan, it is free to utilize a large school bus, which has already been determined to be able to safely stop along petitioners' road. Given that petitioners' requested relief of curb-to-curb transportation is being granted, it is unnecessary for the Commissioner to reach the remaining discrimination arguments in this case.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected. The Board is required to provide A.S. with curb-to-curb transportation to and from Sage beginning in the 2023-24 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

J.S. AND S.S. ON BEHALF OF A.S.,
Petitioner,
v.
WEST MORRIS REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

David R. Giles, Esq., for petitioner

Jodi S. Howlett, Esq., for respondent (Cleary, Giacobbe, Alfieri, and Jacobs, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 15, 2022 Decided: January 30, 2023

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

J.S. and S.S. on behalf of A.S. (petitioners) filed a petition claiming, among other related items, that the West Morris Regional High School District (District) discriminated against A.S. due to its failure to provide door-to-door transportation to and from A.S.'s out-of-district placement.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 1, 2022, J.S. and S.S. on behalf of A.S. filed a petition seeking the following:

A.) a declaration that the District has discriminated against A.S. by not providing her with door-to-door transportation;

B.) an order directing the District to provide door-to-door transportation;

C.) an order directing the District to reimburse A.S.'s parents for out-of-pocket expenses and for their time;

D.) attorney's fees; and E.) other relief as appropriate.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 16, 2022, as a contested case. A hearing was conducted by the undersigned on October 7, 2022. Final submissions were received by the parties on December 15, 2022, at which point the record was closed.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

I FIND the following to be the facts of the case:

Petitioners reside on Schooley's Mountain Road, Long Valley, New Jersey 07853, and, as such, the West Morris Regional High School District is the local education agency responsible for providing A.S. with a free, appropriate public education (FAPE). The parties agree that Schooley's Mountain Road is dangerous and hazardous.

A.S. is currently fifteen years old and in the tenth grade. At the time of the filing of the due-process petition, A.S. was fourteen years old and attending Sage Alliance (Sage) as a ninth-grade student. A.S. has been deemed eligible for special education and related services under the classification of "other health impaired."

Prior to becoming a student in the West Morris Regional High School District, A.S. was a special-education student in the Washington Township School District (Washington Township). While students of Washington Township, both A.S. and her brother were picked up and dropped off by a Washington Township school bus in front of their house on Schooley's Mountain Road.

On June 10, 2020, Washington Township proposed an IEP ("6/10/20 IEP") placing A.S. at the Newmark School in Scotch Plains, New Jersey. Transportation was added as a related service to her IEP.

On January 14, 2021, Washington Township issued an IEP ("1/14/2021 IEP") placing A.S. at Barnstable Academy in Oakland, New Jersey, for the remainder of her eighth-grade year. The Washington Township School District provided A.S. with "curb-to-curb" transportation as a related service in her IEP through June 10, 2021.

On April 23, 2021, Washington Township convened an Annual Review IEP meeting ("4/23/21 IEP"). At that meeting, it was contemplated that A.S. was in need of a more therapeutic placement than Barnstable Academy for her ninth-grade year. Accordingly, the 4/23/21 IEP provides for A.S. to remain at Barnstable Academy for the remainder of the 2020–2021 school year. Washington Township sent records to potential out-of-district placements with a therapeutic component in preparation for A.S.'s freshman year of high school.

On July 1, 2021, following the completion of A.S.'s eighth-grade year, A.S. became a student of the West Morris Regional High School District. On July 14, 2021, at the request of petitioners, the West Morris Regional High School District convened an IEP meeting. At that time, petitioners advised the District that they wished to discuss Barnstable Academy's decision to discontinue A.S.'s placement in the program. The IEP team determined that, in reviewing the recommendations from Long Valley Middle School and Barnstable Academy, a more therapeutic out-of-district placement would most appropriately meet A.S.'s social-emotional needs. Petitioners and A.S. attended the July 14, 2021, IEP meeting virtually.

The IEP drafted as a result of the July 14, 2021, meeting ("7/14/21 IEP") placed A.S. on home instruction pending her acceptance to an appropriate out-of-district placement. Because A.S. would be receiving home instruction, transportation was not provided as a "related service" in the 7/14/21 IEP. The 7/14/21 IEP was implemented after expiration of the fifteen-day notice period pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(h).

Subsequent to the 7/14/21 IEP meeting, the West Morris Regional High School District secured A.S.'s placement at Sage Day High School in Boonton, New Jersey, for the 2021–2022 school year. A.S. started her ninth-grade year at Sage on September 10, 2021. Upon A.S.'s placement at Sage, the West Morris Regional High School District worked to secure A.S.'s transportation to the out-of-district placement.

On September 10, and September 15, 2021, the District put the transportation route out for public bid to various vendors pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 et seq. The District did not receive any bids for transportation from any vendors on A.S.'s route for Sage. On September 20, 2021, the District's director of special education, Michael Reinknecht, informed petitioners of the difficulties in securing a vendor to provide transportation to Sage. On October 1, 2021, the District put the transportation route out to public bid for a third time to transportation vendors pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 et seq.

In October 2021 the District secured a sole vendor, Cassidy Transportation, to transport A.S. to and from Sage. Cassidy was then employed by the District to transport A.S. (via school bus) to Sage, beginning on October 10, 2021. Between the time A.S. started at Sage on September 10, 2021, and Cassidy being contracted to transport A.S. on October 10, 2021, her father, S.S., drove A.S. to and from Sage every school day for approximately twenty days.

As A.S. is the only student utilizing the bus route to Sage, Cassidy utilizes a smaller "short bus" to transport her to and from Sage. Due to the hazardous conditions of Schooley's Mountain Road, Cassidy Transportation determined that it may prove unsafe to effectuate a stop immediately in front of A.S.'s house utilizing this sort of equipment. Cassidy Transportation, instead, picks up and drops off A.S. at the Washington Township Municipal Building, one-third mile from A.S.'s home.

On October 5, 2021, petitioners filed a request for a due-process hearing to challenge the District's refusal to provide "curb-to-curb" transportation pursuant to the 4/23/21 IEP created by A.S.'s previous district.

On October 12, 2021, West Morris Regional High School District convened a Thirty-Day Review IEP meeting ("10/12/21 IEP"). At that meeting, it was reported by A.S.'s teachers at Sage that she was transitioning well, and the input reflected strong clinical and academic feedback. The 10/12/21 IEP provides transportation to Sage as a related service with pickup and drop-off locations at the Washington Township Municipal Building. Cassidy Transportation has been safely transporting A.S. to and from Sage daily since October 11, 2021, and throughout the pendency of these proceedings.

SUMMARY OF RELEVANT TESTIMONY

As noted above, this matter was set down for a hearing on October 7, 2022. Prior to the hearing, it was decided among the parties that the bulk of the testimony to be presented was duplicative of the testimony already placed on the record in the related case, J.S. and S.S. on behalf of S.S. v. West Morris Regional Board of Education, OAL docket number EDS 08829-21. Thus, the testimony of all the witnesses taken in EDS 08829-21, along with the corresponding exhibits and transcripts, was incorporated by reference on the record on October 7, 2022. Only the limited testimony of Dr. Michael Reinknecht was taken at the October 7, 2022, hearing.

Michael Reinknecht

Michael Reinknecht is the District's director of special education. He testified that West Morris Regional High School District's own director of transportation is responsible for transporting their special-education students. He further testified that West Morris has a contract with the Washington Township School District to transport general-education students. Reinknecht stated that he had no knowledge of the fact that all general-education high-school students who live on Schooley's Mountain Road are transported to and from school and picked up in front of their homes.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In response to the petition, respondent argues that petitioners' discrimination claims are barred by the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act's (IDEA's) exhaustion requirement. In its brief, the District argues that the IDEA affords parents of a disabled child the opportunity to present a complaint "with respect to any matter relating to the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child, or the provision of a free appropriate public education to such child . . . ." 20 U.S.C. § 1415(b)(6)(A) (emphasis added). The District argues that exhaustion of the IDEA's administrative process is required in non-IDEA actions where the petitioner seeks relief that can otherwise be obtained under the IDEA, noting that Congress provided an express "[r]ule of construction" in 20 U.S.C. § 1415(l), which provides:

> Nothing in this title [20 U.S.C.S. §§ 1400 et seq.] shall be construed to restrict or limit the rights, procedures, and remedies available under the Constitution, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, title V of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 [29 U.S.C.S. §§ 790 et seq.], or other Federal laws protecting the rights of children with disabilities, except that before the filing of a civil action under such laws seeking relief that is also available under this part [20 U.S.C.S. §§ 1411 et seq.], the [IDEA administrative process] shall be exhausted to the same extent as would be required had the action been brought under this part [20 U.S.C.S. §§ 1411 et seq.].

Thus, the District argues that it is only following the outcome of the due-process hearing that an aggrieved party shall have a right to bring the action filed with the commissioner. As noted above, petitioners had filed a due-process petition (EDS 08829-21) and a hearing was held. Although no decision was rendered in that matter when the instant matter was filed, a decision has since been made, with petitioners being largely unsuccessful on their claims, thus, I CONCLUDE that respondent's exhaustion argument is, therefore, mute.

Respondent next argues that the commissioner of the Department of Education does not have jurisdiction over claims brought pursuant to the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination or the Americans With Disabilities Act, asserting that the extent of the jurisdiction of the commissioner is set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, which provides the following:

> The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the State board or of the commissioner.

Thus, respondent argues, the statute clearly implies that where the controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the commissioner's jurisdiction.

As petitioners rightfully point out in their brief, however, New Jersey's Equality and Equity in Education law provides that "[n]o pupil in a public school in this State shall be discriminated against in admission to, or in obtaining any advantages, privileges or courses of study of the school by reason of race, color, creed, sex or national origin." N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20; see also N.J.A.C. 6A:7-1.1, which states:

> The purpose of this chapter is to ensure all students, regardless of race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, gender, gender identity or expression, religion, disability, or socioeconomic status, are provided equal access to educational programs and services by district boards of education.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' current petition is properly before the commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education as per the plain language of the above-referenced statutes and regulations.

With these jurisdictional and procedural issues now resolved, I turn to address petitioners' case-in-chief: the assertion that the Board discriminated against A.S. by denying her curb-to-curb transportation, a service, they claim, provided to all other students living on Schooley's Mountain Road, because A.S. has a disability.

As discussed in the factual findings above, and as discussed at length in the related special-education case, the District put A.S.'s transportation route out for public bid to various vendors, with Cassidy Transportation ultimately winning the bid and securing the contract to transport A.S. to and from Sage. This transportation route was put out to bid because A.S. is entitled to, and receives, special-education instruction at her out-of-district placement, Sage Academy. This placement was chosen by A.S.'s parents after evaluating other facilities and determining Sage to be the best placement for their child. As transportation is a related service to A.S.'s special-education programing, the District is obliged to put the transportation route out to bid so that A.S. may properly access her special-education programing, as she has been doing on a regular basis thus far.

After Cassidy won the bid and traveled to A.S.'s home, Cassidy determined that, due to the hazardous conditions of Schooley's Mountain Road, Cassidy could not safely pick up A.S. directly in front of her home with the equipment (short school bus) it utilizes to transport A.S. Thus, Cassidy resolved to pick A.S. up at the municipal building approximately one-third mile down the road from A.S.'s home, which Cassidy determined to be the closest location to A.S.'s house at which the bus may safely execute a stop.

Petitioners argue that if A.S. were a general-education student, she would be picked up by a larger bus, one that would, presumably, be able to stop in front of her home safely. Thus, they reason that, but for A.S.'s learning disability, which, in turn, brought forth an IEP calling for an out-of-district placement and transportation as a related service, A.S. would be picked up in front of her home by a larger bus on a daily basis. Petitioners argue that A.S.'s disability is the cause in fact, or the "but for" cause of A.S. not being picked up directly in front of her home. While this scenario may be a cause in fact, it is not the only cause in fact. One may argue, for instance, that "but for" the location of the petitioners' house being on a hazardous stretch of road, A.S. would be picked up in front of her home. If, for example, she lived in a residential neighborhood with wide, straight, level lanes of traffic, effectuating a stop directly in front of her home with any motor vehicle—short bus, long bus, etc.—could be achieved with ease. Thus, while A.S.'s disability may be a cause in fact of why A.S. is not picked up immediately in front of her home, it is not the proximate cause, and, therefore, not the direct cause of why she is not picked up in front of her house. Rather, I CONCLUDE that A.S. being picked up at the municipal building is an unintended consequence of the Board's implementation of A.S.'s IEP, so that she may access a free and appropriate education as required by law.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the petition of appeal be, and hereby is, DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

Yesenia Camilo,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Town of West New York, Hudson County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed and considered. The parties did not file exceptions.

This matter arises from tenure charges filed by the West New York Board of Education (Board) against petitioner. The arbitrator assigned to hear the case ordered that petitioner be reinstated to her position if she successfully completed a fitness for duty examination. Petitioner proposed that the exam be completed by Dr. Daniel Gollin, but the Board rejected her proposal and scheduled the exam with its choice of physician, Dr. Mark White. Petitioner attended the exam but also filed a petition of appeal on the same day.

Following cross-motions for summary decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner did not waive her claim by submitting to the exam with Dr. White. The ALJ also found that both N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 and Board Policy 2161 allow an employee to propose a physician of her choice for a fitness for duty exam and concluded that the Board was required to act in a reasonable manner in reviewing petitioner's proposal. The Board offered no reason whatsoever for its rejection of petitioner's choice of Dr. Gollin and, therefore, the ALJ concluded that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The ALJ rejected the Board's argument that, because the arbitrator ordered the Board to schedule the exam, it had unfettered discretion in choosing a doctor, noting that the arbitrator specifically indicated that the exam should be performed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons thoroughly detailed in the Initial Decision, that: the Board was required to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 and should have considered petitioner's choice of doctor in scheduling the exam; the Board's rejection of petitioner's choice of doctor without any explanation was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable; and petitioner did not waive her right to make such a claim by attending the exam with Dr. White.

Accordingly, petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted. All reports and exams of Dr. White are null and void. Dr. White and practitioners affiliated with him shall not be used for any future exams of petitioner or to provide testimony in any tenure proceedings against petitioner. Petitioner shall have the opportunity, if she has not already done so, to propose a doctor for a fitness for duty exam. The Board shall not unreasonably withhold its approval of petitioner's choice. If petitioner does not propose a doctor within ten calendar days of the date of mailing of this decision, the exam shall be scheduled with a doctor designated by the Board.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Yesenia Camilo, is employed as a teacher in the West New York, New Jersey school district. On September 20, 2020, respondent filed tenure charges against Ms. Camilo, alleging that she engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher and that there was other just cause for her termination.

On June 3, 2021, an arbitrator assigned by the New Jersey Commissioner of Education sustained the charges in part, dismissed the charges in part and ordered her reinstatement on the condition that she successfully undergo a fitness-for-duty examination. That exam was not completed.

On November 1, 2021, respondent filed revised tenure charges, once again alleging conduct unbecoming and other just cause for termination. In the interim, Ms. Camilo completed a fitness for duty exam on February 1, 2022. Then, by decision dated July 5, 2022, a Commissioner assigned arbitrator sustained the charges in part, but ordered that Ms. Camilo be reinstated if she successfully completed another fitness for duty examination. That exam was to be scheduled within five business days and completed within fourteen business days of the decision.

By letter dated July 8, 2022, Ms. Camilo proposed that the exam be conducted by Daniel B. Gollin, M.D., but that proposal was not approved. Then, by letter dated August 4, 2022, the arbitrator issued a supplemental decision finding that respondent had failed to comply with the terms of his July 5, 2022 decision and ordering reinstatement of petitioner's salary pending the completion of the exam.

On August 8, 2022, respondent scheduled the exam with Mark White, Ph.D. to occur on August 29, 2022. By letter dated August 12, 2022, petitioner objected to Dr. White's selection and once again proposed that the exam be performed by Dr. Gollin. Respondent refused and after an interchange of messages, the examination finally commenced on September 23, 2022, continued briefly on November 17, 2022 and eventually concluded on December 22, 2022.

In a January 9, 2023 report, Dr. White found that Ms. Camilo was fit for duty, but opined that when she was assigned to the middle school, that "it may be necessary…to provide sick leave…to permit her to avail herself of therapy to address adjustment issues." On January 11, respondent sought "clarification" of Dr. White's opinion and the following day, Dr. White authored a report that she was not fit for duty.

Then, on January 21, 2023, the Board again filed tenure charges against Ms. Camilo and same were served on January 26.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 26, 2022, Ms. Camilo filed a petition seeking relief from the selection of Dr. White as her fitness for duty examiner. Respondent filed an Answer to the Petition on September 12, 2022 and the matter was transmitted to Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on September 20, 2022 for hearing as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

An initial conference was held on November 28, 2022 with additional conferences taking place on December 22, 2022 and February 3, 2023. Petitioner then filed this Motion for Summary Decision on February 6, 2023 and following the filing of a Cross-Motion for Summary Decision and an opposition brief by petitioner and a reply brief by petitioner, the record closed on March 17, 2023.

FINDINGS OF UNDISPUTED FACT

The following FACTS of the case are not in dispute:

1. Most of the facts detailed in the Statement of the Case are undisputed and a full timeline of events will be provided below.

2. At all times relevant to this matter, petitioner, Yesenia Camilo, was a tenured teacher employed by the West New York, New Jersey school district.

3. On September 20, 2020, respondent filed tenure charges against petitioner alleging that she engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher and that there was other just cause for her termination. (Exhibit R-A).

4. On June 3, 2021, an arbitrator assigned by the New Jersey Commissioner of Education sustained the charges in part, denied the charges in part and ordered her reinstatement on the condition that she successfully undergo a fitness-for-duty examination. (Exhibit R-B). That exam, however, was never completed.

5. On November 1, 2021, respondent filed revised tenure charges, once again alleging conduct unbecoming and other just cause for termination, but this time adding a charge of abandonment of position. (Exhibit R-D).

6. In the interim, Ms. Camilo completed a fitness for duty exam on February 1, 2022.

7. Then, by decision dated July 5, 2022, a different Commissioner assigned arbitrator sustained the charges in part, but ordered that Ms. Camilo be reinstated if she successfully completed another fitness-for-duty examination. That exam was to be scheduled within five business days and completed within fourteen business days of the decision. (Exhibit R-C).

8. By letter dated July 8, 2022, Ms. Camilo proposed that the exam be conducted by Daniel B. Gollin, M.D., but that proposal was not approved. (Exhibit P-B).

9. Then, by letter dated August 4, 2022, the arbitrator issued a supplemental decision finding that respondent had failed to comply with the terms of his July 5, 2022 decision and ordering reinstatement of petitioner's salary pending the completion of the exam. (Exhibit R-E).

10. On August 8, 2022, respondent scheduled the exam with Mark White, Ph.D. to occur on August 29, 2022. (Exhibit P-D). By letter dated August 12, 2022, petitioner objected to Dr. White's selection and once again proposed that the exam be performed by Dr. Gollin. (Exhibit P-E).

11. Respondent refused and after an interchange of messages, on August 26, 2022, through counsel, Ms. Camilo agreed to undergo the examination with Dr. White. However, in doing so, she "reserve(d) all rights to seek relief from the Commissioner of Education in this matter". (Exhibit P-J).

12. That same day, petitioner filed this fair hearing appeal. The examination with Dr. White finally commenced on September 23, 2022, continued briefly on November 17, 2022, and ultimately concluded on December 22, 2022.

13. In a January 9, 2023 report, Dr. White found that Ms. Camilo was fit for duty, but opined that when she was assigned to the middle school, that "it may be necessary...to provide sick leave...to permit her to avail herself of therapy to address adjustment issues." (Exhibit P-L). On January 11, respondent sought "clarification" of Dr. White's opinion and on January 12, Dr. White authored a report in which he opined that she was not fit for duty. (Exhibits P-M and P-N).

14. Then, on January 21, 2023, the Board again filed tenure charges against Ms. Camilo and same were served on January 26. (Exhibit P-O).

15. The parties have agreed that the issue in the case before the OAL does not involve the validity of the tenure charges that have been filed against Ms. Camilo, nor whether she is "fit-for-duty."

16. Rather, the issue is limited to whether respondent's actions in scheduling the examination with Dr. White and refusing to consider petitioner's choice of doctors was lawful and, if not, what, if any, remedy would be appropriate.

MOTION

Petitioner filed a Motion for Summary Decision, arguing that;

> The Board's directive that Camilo submit to a fitness for duty examination with its chosen doctor and only its chosen doctor violates that law and is invalid.

More specifically, petitioner argues that the law "clearly provides" her the right to reject the Board's chosen doctor and propose her own to perform the exam and that the decision to ignore her choice was improper. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3.

It is argued that the only reason for the Board insisting on Dr. White as the examining doctor was as a pretext to filing yet another set of tenure charges against petitioner in an effort to terminate her employment. It's decision to outright reject Ms. Camilo's proposed examiner was therefore arbitrary and capricious.

Respondent opposes the Motion and has filed a Cross-Motion for Summary Decision, first arguing that the original Motion was moot, since Ms. Camilo, whether reserving her rights or not, voluntarily underwent the examination. It was also argued that the results of the exam are irrelevant to the sole issue before the court; whether the manner in which the exam was scheduled was legal.

Respondent argued that it followed both the letter and intent of the statute, but that regardless of whether it is found to have violated the statute, the OAL is powerless to assess any penalty for said violation.

LEGAL POSITIONS

PETITIONER:

Petitioner argues that despite Ms. Camilo having undergone the examination with Dr. White, respondent's decision to insist upon an examination with this provider violates N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3, which affords her the option of being examined by a physician of her choosing, as long as that choice is approved by the Board.

It is further argued that the Board's rejection of Dr. Gollin was arbitrary and capricious and not only violated the statute, but also Board policy.

> What occurred here is simple: he Board coerced Camilo to submit for an examination with its chosen doctor, arbitrarily and unreasonably refused to consider and approve Camilo's proposed doctor.
>
> Petitioner brief at 15.

It is claimed that this refusal was part and parcel of a plan by the Board to file a third set of tenure charges against petitioner "in an effort to terminate her employment."

In support of her position, Ms. Camilo cites to Board of Ed. of City of Pleasantville, Atlantic County v. Chambers, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 447 Final Decision (February 7, 1996).

Petitioner is requesting that Dr. White's report be deemed "invalid" and that it be "rescinded and expunged" and that respondent be compelled "to accept my chosen doctor to perform the fitness for duty examination".

Petitioner also denies waiving any rights by agreeing to appear for the examination with Dr. White, since she only accepted same "under the threat of termination by the Board".

RESPONDENT:

Respondent argues that it did nothing wrong, but instead simply followed the language of the July 5, 2022 arbitration award which required that it and not petitioner, schedule the fitness-for-duty examination.

By following the letter of the arbitration award, it per se acted in a reasonable manner, which was compliant with the standard enunciated in Chambers.

It was further argued that by attending and ultimately completing the exam with Dr. White after the filing of the fair hearing appeal, petitioner waived any claim that the Board acted improperly. West Jersey Title & Guaranty Co. v. Industrial Trust Co., 27 N.J. 144, 152 (1958). See also, George F. Malcolm, Inc. v. Burlington City Loan & Trust Co., 115 N.J. Eq. 227 (Ch. 1934).

Respondent further argues that petitioner's proposed remedy of "striking" Dr. White's evaluation is unauthorized by law and even if petitioner's Motion is granted, there is no appropriate remedy, making the Motion moot.

CERTIFICATION OF YESENIA CAMILO:

In support of the Motion for Summary Decision, Ms. Camilo provided a Certification which largely mimics counsel's arguments and timeline. In addition to requesting legal remedies, she provided background information and a history of her employment related issues with respondent.

She certified that she has been employed by respondent as a teacher for twenty-two years and carries certificates as Teacher of English as a Second Language, Teacher of the Handicapped, Teacher of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing and Teacher of Elementary Education.

She then briefly traced the course of her employment difficulties, beginning with the Board's filing of tenure charges in September, 2020 and continuing through the arbitrator's July 5, 2022 decision that she be reinstated if she successfully completed a fitness for duty examination.

She then certified to the course of events that occurred subsequent to the ruling, including the offering of Dr. Gollin, with whom she had never treated nor had contact with, as a potential examiner. She continued to trace the course of the post-arbitration dispute, including her objection to the Board's selection of Dr. White and her interpretation of Board Policy 3161 as permitting her to select her examiner and that the Board could not unreasonably reject her choice.

Ultimately, under threat of legal action, Ms. Camilo, through counsel, agreed to appear for the exam with Dr. White, but argued that her appearance "was not an agreement that the Board's directive complies with the governing law" and that she "did so without waiver or prejudice" and "in good faith, and in response to the Board's threat to take action against my employment if I did not attend."

Ms. Camilo then reviewed the contents of Dr. White's initial report and the later "clarification" and the subsequent filing of yet another set of tenure charges on January 26, 2023.

LAW AND POLICY

The law involved in the performance of so called "fit-for-duty" examinations is rather clear and reads in pertinent part:

> 18A:16-2. - Physical examinations; drug testing; requirements
>
> (a.) Every board of education may require its employees and shall require any candidate for employment who has received a conditional offer of employment to undergo a physical examination. The board may require individual psychiatric or physical examinations of any employee, whenever, in the judgment of the board, an employee shows evidence of deviation from normal, physical or mental health.
>
> 18A:16-3. - Character of examinations
>
> Any such examination may be made by a physician or institution designated by the board, in which case the cost thereof...shall be borne by the board or, at the option of the employee, they may be made by a physician or institution of his own choosing, approved by the board, in which case said examination shall be made at the employee's expense.

Respondent has also propounded a district policy on this issue which reads, in pertinent part:

> District Policy 3161 – Examination for Cause
>
> The Board of Education may, in accordance with law, require the psychiatric or physical examination of any teaching staff > member who shows evidence of deviation from normal physical or mental health...

>
> This examination shall be at the expense of the school district and the results shall be confidential and only provided to the Director of Human Resources and/or designee...
>
> The teaching staff member may, at his/her option, submit names of physicians or institutions to the Board for consideration to complete the appropriate examination(s). The Board is not required to designate a physician or institution submitted for consideration by the teaching staff member, but the Board will not act unreasonably in withholding its approval of a physician or institution submitted by a teaching staff member. The cost of the examination will be borne by the Board if the Board designates a physician or institution from the names submitted from the teaching staff member.
> If the teaching staff member's request is denied, or if the teaching staff member does not request the Board to consider a physician or institution, the staff member may elect to submit to an appropriate examination conducted by a physician or institution of the teaching staff member's own choosing and at his/her expense, provided the physician or institution so chosen is approved by the Board, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3, and is authorized and directed by the member to report the result of the examination to the Board.

Ms. Camilo is not challenging respondent's right to demand the examination but argues that a reasonableness standard should be read into N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 and that the Board never proffered a reason why her choice of doctor was unacceptable.

Respondent argues that because the exam was ordered by the arbitrator and not by it, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 does not apply and that its denial of Ms. Camilo's chosen doctor was appropriate.

WAIVER

Respondent claims that by voluntarily submitting to the examination with Dr. White on September 23, 2022 after having both objected to it and filing this Petition on August 26, 2022, Ms. Camilo legally waived her right to object to both its performance and the utilization of the ensuing report by respondent.

In her Certification, Ms. Camilo, while agreeing to attend the exam, noted that this agreement, per her attorney's email "is not an agreement that the Board's directive complies with the Arbitrator's Award and the school laws governing fitness for duty examinations." She also "reserves all rights to seek relief from the Commissioner of Education in this matter" and further claimed that the only reason she agreed to undergo the examination was "under the threat of termination by the Board".

This issue is effectively independent of the underlying issue of whether the examination in a broad sense was properly scheduled.

The doctrine of waiver was discussed in detail in Sroczynski v. Milek, 197 N.J. 36 (2008):

> It hardly needs repeating that "[w]aiver is the voluntary and intentional relinquishment of a known right." Knorr v. Smeal, 178 N.J. 169, 177 (2003) (citing W. Jersey Title & Guar. Co. v. Indus. Trust Co., 27 N.J. 144, 152 (1958)). See also Shotmeyer v. N.J. Realty Title Ins. Co., 195 N.J. 72, 89 (2008). It is beyond question that "[a]n effective waiver requires a party to have full knowledge of his legal rights and inten[d] to surrender those rights." Knorr, supra, 178 N.J. at 177 (citing W. Jersey Title & Guar. Co., supra, 27 N.J. at 153). A waiver cannot be divined but, instead, must be the product of objective proofs: "The intent to waive need not be stated expressly, provided the circumstances clearly show that the party knew of the right and then abandoned it, either by design or indifference." Ibid. (citing Merchs. Indem. Corp. of N.Y. v. Eggleston, 68 N.J. Super. 235, 254 (App. Div. 1961), aff'd, 37 N.J. 114 (1962)). That benchmark standard leaves little room for doubt, as "[t]he party waiving a known right must do so clearly, unequivocally, and decisively." Ibid. (citing County Chevrolet, Inc. v. Twp. of N. Brunswick Planning Bd., 190 N.J. Super. 376, 380 (App. Div. 1983)). See also Shotmeyer, supra, 195 N.J. at 89 (quoting Knorr, supra). Specifically, "waiver 'presupposes a full knowledge of the right and an intentional surrender; waiver cannot be predicated on consent given under a mistake of fact.'" County of Morris v. Fauver, 153 N.J. 80, 104-05 (1998) (quoting W. Jersey Title & Guar. Co., supra, 27 N.J. at 153).

> Id. at 63-64.

The cases cited by petitioner is her brief are not entirely on point but do provide some basic guidance. For example, in Rieder v. Caldwell-West Caldwell Bd. of Ed., 1999 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 60, EDU 7609-97, Initial Decision, (Jan. 22, 1999), adopted, Comm'r. (March 10, 1999), aff'd, St. Bd. (July 7, 1999), while the Board did adopt the basic "waiver law" cited above, the factual circumstances are much different. There, a teacher on the preferred eligible list remained silent, despite learning that another individual had been appointed ahead of her. The court found that this alone was insufficient to "warrant the inference that (she) intended to waive her right to remain on the...list." Id. at 8.

Tribbett v. Board of Ed. Twp. of Willingboro, 2012 N.J. Agen. LEXIS 343, Agency Dkt. No. 231-8/11, (May 10, 2012), adopted, Comm'r (August 1, 2011) is a tenure case, where like in multiple other cases, "a waiver of tenure rights requires a clear and unequivocal rejection of an offer of employment". Id. at 21.

Evaul v. Bd. of Ed. of City of Camden, 35 N.J. 244 (1961) may be the most illustrative case. While this is another tenure case where an employee resigned, the Court held that the resignation had been proffered under "emotionally charged" circumstances and had been "an impetuous act prompted by her understandably distraught condition." While she was reinstated to her position, the Court held that based on equitable principles, she was not entitled to back pay. Id. at 249-50.

Petitioner argues that she was essentially forced to agree to undergo the exam with Dr. White, certifying:

> Notwithstanding my objection to the Board's chosen doctor and my Petition, I, in good faith, and in response to the Board's threat to take action against my employment if I did not attend, attended and completed the fitness for duty examination with Dr. White.
> Camilo certification at ¶24.

Ms. Camilo cites to respondent counsel's August 15, 2022 letter to her attorney to support her allegation that her job was being threatened by her refusal to accept the Board's unilateral selection of Dr. White. The letter was essentially a legal discussion/disagreement until the final paragraph, which read as follows;

> We urge Ms. Camilo to reconsider her refusal to attend the fitness for duty examination with Dr. White on August 29, 2022 at 9:00 A.M. Pursuant to Arbitrator Pecklers' award, 'the failure of Ms. Camilo to attend the Fitness For Duty shall result in an adverse inference being drawn that she is unfit for duty.' In such event, the Board reserves its right to pursue any and all legal remedies available.
>
> (Exhibit P-G).

There is surprisingly little case law concerning the issue of waiver and most of what there is concerns insurance companies providing coverage under a reservation of rights.

However, there was a statement by the Court In the Matter of State of New Jersey, Department of Human Services, Division of Public Welfare and Union County Welfare Board, Respondents - and - Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO, Charging Party, 1980 NJ Perc. LEXIS 235 (April 18, 1980) that is notable:

> It should be apparent that the State's defense of waiver on the part of the Union has been rejected. The CWA's consistent oral reservation of rights in the face of County intention to seek State approval, particularly the Union's stated reservations of right to litigate the justification for inclusion of the subject to State approval clause in the agreement has preserved the Union's objections. Its practical approach to making its agreement with the County effective is in no sense the equivalent of a waiver of rights. The clear and convincing proof of a relinquishment of rights necessary to support the State's position is thus lacking.
> Id. at n.35.

While respondent claims that the reservation of rights statement contained in Ms. Camilo's attorney's email (Exhibit P-J) "is no more legally operative than a boilerplate attorney salutation", he notably fails to produce any case law that is really on point. The citation to Cole v. Jersey City Medical Center, 215 N.J. 265 (2013), which concerned a contractual arbitration clause (another common fact pattern in waiver cases), is correct in that there need not necessarily be an expressed statement of waiver, but it also states that if "the circumstances clearly show that the party knew of the right and then abandoned it, either by design or indifference", then as long as those actions/inactions demonstrated waiver "clearly, unequivocally, and decisively", then waiver could be found. Id. at 277, cit. Knorr, 178 N.J. at 177.

I FIND that Ms. Camilo did not waive her rights to contest respondent's unilateral scheduling of the exam with Dr. White. It was very clear from the onset of the issues concerning scheduling and its timing, that petitioner was challenging the manner in which the examination was going to be performed.

After the back-and-forth interaction between counsel, as was noted by respondent's counsel, they "clearly disagree(d)" as to the application of the statute and the Board policy. (Exhibit P-I). After it was obvious that the Board would not accept Dr. Gollin as the examining doctor, petitioner agreed to be examined by Dr. White, but very clearly stated that the agreement to do so was not a concession that the Board was acting properly and she explicitly reserved the right to contest respondent's decision, as it ultimately did. In fact, the day that she agreed to the exam, the petition which led to the referral to the OAL was filed. (Exhibit P-K)

There is nothing in this fact pattern that demonstrated that Ms. Camilo intended to relinquish any rights, let alone that she gave them up "clearly, unequivocally, and decisively". Deeming the verbiage to be "boilerplate" does not make it so and given the history of conflict over the specific issue that was the subject of said language, it simply cannot be dismissed as meaningless legalese. This is particularly true given the filing of the Petition of Appeal on August 26, 2022.

While I appreciate that the exam was performed during the pendency of this litigation, I FIND that the doctrine of waiver does not apply in this case and that this matter should be decided on the merits.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

Summary decision may be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The OAL summary decision rule is essentially the same as the summary judgment rule under the New Jersey Court Rules, which states:

> The judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law. An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact.
> [R. 4:46-2(c).]

The New Jersey Supreme Court has modified and clarified the analysis required when considering a motion for summary decision/judgment. In Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995), the Court adopted the summary judgment standard utilized by federal courts:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." [Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 212 (1986).] . . . If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. Liberty Lobby, > supra, 477 U.S. at 250, 106 S. Ct. at 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 213. The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214, the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment.

The burden is on the moving party to exclude all reasonable doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the moving party and in favor of the non-moving party. Saldana v. DiMedio, 275 N.J. Super. 488, 494 (App. Div. 1994). The critical question therefore is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Brill, 142 N.J. at 533 (citation omitted). If the non-moving party's evidence is merely colorable, or is not significantly probative, summary judgment should not be denied. See, Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Supp. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998).

While respondent's issues (the details of which are irrelevant for the purposes of this Motion) with Ms. Camilo apparently began in September, 2019, the procedural events that led to this specific dispute began with an October 16, 2019 memo to Ms. Camilo from the district placing her on administrative leave and ordering that she undergo a fitness-for-duty examination. (Exhibit R-A13). The Board resolution ordering same specifically cited N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 as the basis for the exam. (Exhibit R-A14). That exam was scheduled by respondent to take place on October 28, 2019, but was thereafter rescheduled to take place on January 23, 2020. (Exhibits R-A15 and R-A16).

Despite having yet to appear for the scheduled fitness-for-duty examinations, the tenure charges were forwarded to an arbitrator by the Department of Education's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on September 24, 2020 and hearings were held on March 19 and March 25, 2021. The arbitrator then issued her decision on June 3, 2021, with Ms. Camilo still not having appeared for the exam. The arbitrator sustained the tenure charges in part, dismissed them in part and ordered Ms. Camilo's reinstatement on the condition that she successfully undergo a fitness-for-duty examination. (Exhibit R-B).

Following petitioner's failure to appear for the examination, on November 29, 2021 the Board filed a "revised" set of tenure charges against Ms. Camilo (Exhibit R-D). After motion practice, a hearing was held on May 12, 2022 during which the arbitrator reviewed the litany of reasons/excuses why petitioner had failed to attend various scheduled exams before enrolling in an Employee Assistance Program for psychological treatment.

The arbitrator also noted that Ms. Camilo had undergone a "successful" fitness-for-duty examination on February 1, 2022 with the Board's "in-house doctor", Vincent C. Ruiz, M.D. However, the arbitrator did not find the exam to be "dispositive", since the language utilized by the doctor in this "fitness-for-duty" exam, did not specifically address Ms. Camilo's fitness for duty. Ultimately, in a July 5, 2022 award, the arbitrator sustained the charges in part and dismissed them in part and ordered, in pertinent part:

> Within five (5) business days of the receipt of this AWARD, the Board shall schedule a psychiatric Fitness For Duty examination for Ms. Camilo pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3, which shall be held within fourteen (14) business days. The doctor administering the Fitness For Duty exam shall definitely state in the report that Ms. Camilo "is" or "is not" fit to return to her teaching duties. This timeline may be amended by mutual agreement of counsel in the event of scheduling difficulties. The failure of Ms. Camilo to attend the Fitness For Duty shall result in an adverse inference being drawn that she is unfit for duty. An absence may be excused only for an emergent and documented circumstances.
> (Exhibit R-C)

In an Award Clarification letter dated August 4, 2022, the arbitrator addressed another scheduling issue. On July 8, 2022, petitioner's counsel, as he did here, had sent a letter to the Board proposing that the exam be performed by Dr. Gollin[1] and complained to the arbitrator that respondent had failed to respond to the request and had further failed to suggest any other doctor. Despite promises to schedule the exam, respondent failed to do so. The arbitrator then authored his clarification and ordered Ms. Camilo to be "immediately paid her salary, pending the results of the Fitness For Duty examination." (Exhibit R-E).

[1] (Exhibit P-B)

Following the Clarification Award, the back-and-forth which led to Ms. Camilo's exam with Dr. White ensued. First, there was an August 8, 2022 email from respondent's counsel to petitioner's counsel scheduling the exam for August 29, 2022 with Dr. White. (Exhibit P-D). Petitioner's counsel replied in an August 12, 2022 letter in which she declined to be examined by Dr. White and again proposed Dr. Gollin. (Exhibit P-E).

The back-and-forth continued with a letter from respondent's counsel which seems to ignore petitioner's suggestion of Dr. Gollin and infers that once the Board makes a selection, the option for the employee to counter that suggestion disappears. (Exhibit P-G). In reply, petitioner's counsel sent an August 15, 2022 letter in which he noted that the arbitrator had cited specifically to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 and that both the language of the statute and District Policy 3161 permit the employee to propose a doctor to conduct the exam. Counsel further argues that the Board cannot unreasonably or arbitrarily withhold approval of that doctor. He also noted that Ms. Camilo "reserves all rights to file a petition with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education to enforce her rights in this matter." (Exhibit P-H).

Respondent's counsel replied by letter dated August 16, 2022, noting that "the Board maintains that unless same is either vacated or modified on appeal, the Board remains responsible for scheduling Ms. Camilo's Psychiatric Fitness for Duty examination, which necessarily includes selecting the examining physician." (Exhibit P-I).

There was then an August 26, 2022 email exchange between counsel in which, ultimately, Ms. Camilo agreed to attend the exam with Dr. White, but also that she "reserves all rights to seek relief from the Commissioner of Education". (Exhibit P-J).

That was immediately followed by the filing of a Petition of Appeal arguing that the Board's actions violated N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3. (Exhibit P-K).

In analyzing this case, perhaps the best way to summarize respondent's position is that it insists on all parties following the portions of the law and policies it likes and then ignoring those that it doesn't.

Despite the somewhat tortured procedural history, the underlying facts are rather basic. This entire case started with what appears, for what it's worth, to be an entirely justified request that Ms. Camilo undergo a fitness-for-duty examination per N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2.

Ultimately, an arbitrator, despite Ms. Camilo actually having already undergone a fitness-for-duty exam by the Board's chosen doctor, ordered another fitness-for-duty examination to be performed "pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3".

As argued by respondent, the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 is unambiguous. The Board can designate the physician to perform the exam "or, at the option of the employee, they may be made by a physician or institution of his own choosing, approved by the board".

There simply is not a lot of room for interpretation in this language. The Board can designate the physician and the employee can accept that choice, or the employee can propose their own doctor to perform the exam (at their own expense). That choice must then be approved by the Board.

Respondent argues that there is no requirement for it to accept the employee's choice and infers that it has unfettered discretion in making its decision. That is incorrect. Not only does District Policy 3161 mandate that the Board act in a reasonable manner, but case law supports that standard as well.

While respondent attempts to distinguish this examination from, for instance, the exam which it initially attempted to schedule back in 2019, that is a distinction without a difference. In essence, respondent argues that since the arbitrator ordered the exam, it can ignore the statute and do whatever it wants. Whether it was ordered to take place by the arbitrator or not, this is an exam that is being required by the Board for petitioner to return to work and that has been true from the first requested examination until today and that exam was to be performed per the dictates of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3.

Both parties argue that Chambers v. Pleasantville Board of Education, 1998 N.J. Agen. LEXIS 263 (May 1, 1998) supports their respective positions. In Chambers, the petitioner was a teacher who was having difficulties on the job and the Board requested that he undergo a psychiatric examination. Chambers refused to be examined by the Board selected doctor, but in the underlying action before State Board of Education, he was ordered to "propose a psychiatrist for his examination and ordered that the BOE not unreasonably withhold its approval of such psychiatrist." Id. at 11, citing Pleasantville City Board of Education v. Chambers, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 447, 448.

While the Board ultimately agreed to petitioner's selection of doctor and the controversy here was avoided, petitioner points out that a reasonableness factor must be built into the decision-making process or else that process is meaningless.

This issue is discussed in G.H. and E.H. on behalf of K.H. v. Board of Education of Franklin Lakes, 2014 N.J. Agen. LEXIS 19 (February 24, 2014). While this was a bullying case, the manner in which a Board must act is discussed, with the court noting that the Commissioner "will not overturn a local board in the absence of a finding that its actions were arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable." Id. at 19, cit. Thomas v. Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965).

The court continued, citing to Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960), that;

> The Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board of education, whose exercise of its discretion may not be disturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives."
>
> K.H., 2014 N.J. Agen. LEXIS at 19, quot. Kopera, 60 N.J. Super. at 294.

This sentiment was also expressed in J.A.H. on behalf of minor child, C.H. v. Township of Pittsgrove Board of Education, 2013 N.J. Agen. LEXIS 58 (March 11, 2013), aff'd. 2013 N.J. Agen. LEXIS 436 (April 25, 2018), another bullying case.

> The standard before me one that is comparable to appellate review -- arbitrary and capricious, since the matter under review is a final decision of a school board. When an administrative body such as a school board acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960) Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. Of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965)Thus, the Commissioner, and consequently the ALJ, cannot overturn a local board's decision absent the required affirmative showing of arbitrariness.
> Id. at 11. See also, Klapach v. Board of Education of Fort Lee, 2021 N.J. Agen. LEXIS 89 (April 6, 2021).

There is no question that there is a reasonableness standard that governs a Board's actions and interpretations of law, policy and procedure. And there is no material fact in dispute that would lead me to conclude that the Board acted in a reasonable manner in declining to approve petitioner's proposed examiner. The Board has never expressed any reason why Dr. Gollin was unacceptable, but only insisted upon Ms. Camilo appearing before Dr. White.

District Policy 3161 actually contains a reasonableness clause ("the Board will not act unreasonably in withholding its approval of a physician or institution submitted by a teaching staff member"), which respondent never gave any indication of intending to follow.

When combined with case law which clearly indicates that the Board must act in a reasonable manner when applying the dictates of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent, in rejecting Ms. Camilo's choice of Dr. Gollin without positing any reason for that rejection, acted in a manner that was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Now that it has been determined that the Board acted improperly, the question that remains is what, if anything, the remedy for its improper actions should be. Unsurprisingly and ultimately unsuccessfully, respondent argues that since the statute does not contain a penalty provision, there should be no adverse action taken and that rescinding Dr. White's reports would be "an extraordinary, unjustifiable remedy".

Petitioner emphatically disagrees, pointing to multiple cases which demonstrate that both ALJs and Commissioners have broad discretion in formulating remedies for similar violations.

In Board of Education v. Levitt, 197 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1984), a case involving the improper denial of tenure to substitute teachers, the court held that;

> It is a well-settled principle of administrative law that the statutory powers accorded an agency "should be liberally construed to permit the agency to achieve the task assigned to it, and that such administrative agency has such implied incidental powers as may reasonably be adapted to that end." In re Suspension of Heller, 73 N.J. 292, 303 (1977), quoting In re Com'r of Bank. v. Parkwood Co., 98 N.J. Super. 263, 271-272 (App.Div.1967). These incidental powers have been extended to the fashioning of remedies, including the award of specific items of compensatory damages not expressly enumerated by statute. (Citations omitted)

The theory underlying Levitt was followed by the Court in Klapach, another bullying case in which the court, after a finding reversing an HIB[2] violation, ordered the Board to "remove any references to the...investigation and findings from petitioner's personnel file." Id. at 4.

The Court in Graziano v. Grant, 326 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1999) expressed this proposition well. In this matter involving a contract dispute concerning the ownership of a medical practice, the court wrote that;

[2] Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying

> Applying principles of fairness and justice, a judge sitting in a court of equity has a broad range of discretion to fashion the appropriate remedy in order to vindicate a wrong consistent with principles of fairness, justice, and the law.
>
> Id. at 343.

The court continued;

> The imposition, under these circumstances, of a reasonable covenant against competition is consistent with the broad equitable powers entrusted to him. We therefore conclude that the judge did not mistakenly exercise his discretion in deciding to impose a restrictive covenant against Grant.
>
> Ibid. See also, Crane v. Bielski, 15 N.J. 342 (1954).

Given this discretion, I FIND that the Court has the power to formulate a remedy to compensate petitioner for the Board's violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 and District Policy 3161. That remedy will be fashioned below.

FINDINGS & CONCLUSIONS

The nature of this dispute is limited and this decision is not a referendum on Ms. Camilo's fitness for duty. Rather, what this decision does is emphasize that if someone's career and livelihood is under threat and procedures are in place that dictate how the matter should proceed, those procedures must be followed. That protects both the rights of the employee and the integrity of the disciplinary decision made by the Board.

With that being said, I CONCLUDE that there are no issues of material fact in dispute that would preclude the disposing of this case via Motion for Summary Decision.

Given the totality of the evidence and argument, I FIND the following:

1. That respondent acted in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner in violation of both N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 and District Policy 3161 by failing to approve Ms. Camilo's selection of Dr. Gollin as her examining physician and by further failing to provide a reasonable (or any) explanation for its failure to do so.

2. That Ms. Camilo did not waive her right to contest the Board's decision.

3. That this Court has the authority to formulate a remedy to compensate petitioner for the Board's improper actions.

I therefore CONCLUDE that summary decision shall be granted in favor of petitioner and denied on behalf of respondent.

Given the nature of the both the dispute and the violation and the manner in which this case has proceeded since 2019, I FIND that the following remedies are appropriate, and it is hereby ORDERED:

1. That the examination performed by Dr. White on September 23, 2022, November 17, 2022 and December 22, 2022 shall be considered null and void.

2. That the reports authored by Dr. White on January 9, 2023 and January 12, 2023 shall be considered null and void and should not be considered by any party for any reason.

3. That Dr. White shall be barred from acting as the fitness-for-duty examiner in any and all matters involving petitioner and shall further be barred from testifying or providing any evidence in any proceedings involving Ms. Camilo's current or any potential future tenure charges.

4. That the parties shall comply with the dictates of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3 concerning the selection of the examining doctor.

5. That if petitioner proposes a doctor to conduct the fitness-for-duty examination per N.J.S.A. 18A:16-3, respondent must approve that physician or, if that physician is unacceptable, advise petitioner of the basis for that rejection and explain why that rejection is not arbitrary, capricious and/or unreasonable.

6. That petitioner shall have ten calendar days from the issuance of this Initial Decision to propose a doctor to conduct the fitness-for-duty examination to the Board. If no such proposal is forthcoming from petitioner in that timeframe, the examination shall be scheduled with a physician designated by the Board, except that the Board shall not schedule the examination to take place with Dr. White or practitioners affiliated with him (including, but not limited to Kyle Barr, Psy.D. and Julie Wikman, M.A., L.A.C.) (Exhibit P-N).

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision be and is hereby GRANTED and it is further;

ORDERED that respondent's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision be and is hereby DENIED, and it is further;

ORDERED that the remedies enumerated above shall be enacted by the parties.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." New Jersey Commissioner of Education

T.C., on behalf of minor child, D.R.H., Jr.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Rahway, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she or any person having custody of her minor child was a domiciliary of Rahway during the 2022-2023 school year. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that D.R.H., Jr. was, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in Rahway's schools during that time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in Rahway. Therefore, the Rahway Board of Education (Board) is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $9,803.13[1] for the period from the beginning of the 2022-2023 school year through March 24, 2023, during which time petitioner's minor child was ineligible to attend school in Rahway.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of 9,803.13 for the period from the beginning of the 2022-2023 school year through March 24, 2023, for tuition costs incurred during the time period in which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in Rahway. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Angelica Allen-McMillan, Ed.D.
ACTING COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: April 24, 2023
Date of Mailing: April 26, 2023

[1] This calculation is based on 127 school days of ineligible attendance at a tuition rate of $77.19 per day. The Commissioner notes that these figures were derived from testimony presented to the ALJ during the hearing. However, a transcript of the testimony was not provided to the Commissioner, nor did the record contain any certification verifying the tuition rate or number of days of ineligible attendance. Therefore, the Commissioner relies on the ALJ's findings of fact.

[2] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1. Under N.J.Ct.R. 2:4-1(b), a notice of appeal must be filed with the Appellate Division within 45 days from the date of mailing of this decision.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 371-12/22

T.C. O/B/O MINOR CHILD D.R.H.,JR.

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF RAHWAY UNION COUNTY,

Respondent.

T.C., pro se petitioner

Margaret Miller, Esq., for respondent (Weiner Law Group)

Record Closed: March 20, 2023 Decided: March 24, 2023

BEFORE JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALAJ:

Petitioner, T.C, the mother of minor child D.R.H., appeals the determination of the Board of Education of the City of Rahway School District (the "Board") that D.R.H. did not reside within the Rahway school district in the 2022–2023 school year and that tuition reimbursement is required. The Board alleges that the minor child D.R.H. was not residing at the address provided by the petitioner and seeks repayment of tuition.

On December 2, 2022, the Board notified T.C. that her child was ineligible to continue to attend school within the district. It's Initial Determination of Ineligibility was provided to T.C. on October 12, 2022. The petitioner filed a notice of appeal on or about December 14, 2022, and the Board filed an answer on December 29, 2022. On or about January 5, 2023, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14b-1 to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. The hearing was held via Zoom on March 20, 2023, on which date the record closed.

At issue is whether D.R.H. was entitled to be enrolled in the district for purposes of receiving a thorough and efficient public education free of charge for the 2022–2023 school year, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Based upon the papers submitted as of the hearing date and the supplemental submission by respondent as to tuition calculations, as well as the testimony of T.C. and Rahway Board of Education attendance officer William White and Board Secretary Stephen Fried, I FIND the following FACTS.

D.R.H. has been a student at Grover Cleveland since Kindergarten and is currently in the sixth grade. T.C. resides in the State of Delaware since November 27, 2021. Her mother had applied for temporary guardianship of D.R.H. On September 13, 2022, Attendance Officer White went to the home of T.C.'s Aunt Joselyn Ortiz to confirm that D.R.H. resides at her address with his grandmother Mrs. Fitzgerald. White was advised that there was not room in her residence for the two of them and that the grandmother resides in Roselle. T.C. submitted a Temporary Guardianship Affidavit filed with the Superior Court on September 15, 2022, with no attached signed Court Order. It requested Guardianship to commence on July 1, 2023.

To date, Mrs. Fitzgerald has not submitted documents of proof of residence in Rahway. Neither she nor Ms. Ortiz testified.

The respondent is seeking tuition for the child for the 2022-2023 school year at a daily rate of $77.19 for 127 days (through today, March 24, 2023), for a total cost of $9803.13.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) provides that every person in New Jersey between the ages of five and twenty is entitled to a free education if they are "domiciled within the school district." "Domicile" means a permanent home from which a person does not intend to move. Lipman v. Rutgers-State Univ. of N.J., 329 N.J. 16 A-5475-18 Super. 433, 444 (App. Div. 2000). A child's domicile is normally that of his parents. Roxbury Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. West Milford Bd. of Educ., 283 N.J. Super. 505, 521-22 (App. Div. 1995).

However, "[i]f the superintendent or administrative principal of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district . . . , the superintendent or administrative principal may apply to the board of education for the removal of the child." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). The parents may contest a local school board's decision regarding the student's right to attend school in the district to the Commissioner of Education and "shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence" to prove domicile in the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). The State Board of Education has promulgated various rules implementing N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and governing student domicile and eligibility to attend school. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-1.1 to -6.3.

The record is clear that petitioner's child was not domiciled in Rahway with his grandmother. The aunt, Ms. Ortiz advised the District that there was no room in her home and the grandmother, Ms. Fitzgerald did not present any documents proving she resided at that Rahway address. I therefore CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed in her burden to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that her child was domiciled in Rahway. Tuition is sought by the Board for the period of ineligible attendance.

A school district may seek a child's disenrollment from its schools and seek tuition reimbursement if a child is attending but domiciled in another district. N.J.S.A.

18A:38-1(b)(2). The parents or legal guardian of the child are entitled to a hearing where they have the burden of proving domicile by a preponderance of the evidence, which occurred today.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the respondent is entitled to tuition in the amount of $77.19 per day for a total of $9803.13.

ORDER

I ORDER that the decision of respondent City of Rahway Board of Education that D.R.H. was not eligible for a free public education in the District during the 2022-2023 school year is AFFIRMED and the pro se residency appeal of petitioner T.C. on behalf of D.R.H. is DISMISSED.

Further, I ORDER that petitioner shall pay respondent tuition in the amount of $9803.13.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." AMANDA GOMEZ,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF STUDENT PROTECTION,
Respondent.

Amanda Gomez, petitioner, pro se

Sadia Ahsanuddin, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Matthew J. Platkin, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: March 17, 2023 Decided: March 20, 2023

BEFORE SUSANA E. GUERRERO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Amanda Gomez (Gomez or petitioner), filed an application for emergent relief seeking a determination by respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (respondent), challenging her disqualification from employment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 27, 2023, the matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The petitioner initially sought emergent relief. Oral argument on the emergent application was scheduled for February 1, 2023, but during a conference prior to the hearing, the petitioner withdrew her emergent application. The underlying Due Process matter remained with the undersigned. A pre-hearing conference was scheduled for February 16, 2023, however, petitioner failed to appear. The conference was then rescheduled for February 21, 2023, and the petitioner again failed to appear.

On February 16, 2023, respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss in lieu of an Answer. By letter dated February 22, 2023, petitioner was advised to file any written opposition to respondent's motion by March 8, 2023. No opposition or response was received. Another telephone conference was scheduled for March 13, 2023. Again, the petitioner failed to appear. To date, petitioner has not filed any opposition to the motion to dismiss, nor has she contacted this tribunal to explain why she did not appear to any of the prehearing conferences or file an opposition.

FACTS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Petitioner was employed by Pomptonian Food Services and worked at Clifton High School serving food in the cafeteria. A fingerprint search of Gomez was conducted in December 2022 which revealed that she had been arrested on July 23, 2007 and had been convicted of theft by deception in the third degree, N.J.S.A. 2C:20-4 on August 28, 2007. The New Jersey Department of Education's Office of Student Protection (OSP) informed Gomez that she was permanently disqualified from serving in any position with any educational institution.

Gomez subsequently filed the motion for emergent relief, in which she did not deny the conviction. She wrote, "This is because of a mistake I made 15 years ago. At the time of the incident I was young and hanging out with the wrong crowd and was not thinking about my future and how it could affect me. The incedent [sic] that is on my record had nothing to do with children or put anyone in danger."

The respondent asserts that the petition should be dismissed because even accepting Gomez's allegations as true, she has failed to establish a cause of action upon which relief can be granted, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10. Gomez did not oppose the motion to dismiss.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 requires the permanent disqualification from employment or service of a school cafeteria worker if that individual's "criminal history record check reveals a record of conviction for any crime of the first or second degree; or . . . a crime as set forth in Chapter 39 of Title 2C of the New Jersey Statutes, a third degree crime as set forth in Chapter 20 of Title 2C of the New Jersey Statutes, or a crime as listed below . . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(2). (emphasis added)

I FIND that the record shows that Gomez was convicted for the crime of theft by deception, N.J.S.A. 2C:20-4, which is a crime of the third degree as set forth in Chapter 20 of Title 2C. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(2), this conviction permanently disqualifies her from serving as a cafeteria worker at the Clifton public school. Gomez has not challenged the accuracy of the disqualifying criminal history record, and only asserts in her petition that it occurred when she was young and hanging out with "the wrong crowd," and that she needs to provide for her two children. Even if the statements made in the petition are true, it does not constitute sufficient grounds to reverse the disqualification. Permanent disqualification is not discretionary, as the statute reads that the individual "shall be permanently disqualified" upon one of the convictions listed in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Gomez is permanently disqualified from serving as a cafeteria worker with the school, and that her petition must be dismissed.

If, however, Gomez's record becomes expunged, she may request that the Department of Education reconsider the disqualification.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the motion to dismiss filed by the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection is GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the petition be and hereby is DISMISSED without prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." FOR THE RESPONDENT

James Marion (Respondent) is a tenured teacher at the Wallkill Valley Regional School District, Sussex County, New Jersey (Petitioner or District). Respondent has been employed by the District as a science teacher since January 2002. In March 2022, three female students reported to James Hamil, the school psychologist, that Respondent made them feel uncomfortable with sexually provocative comments and daily hugging and touching their shoulders. Mr. Hamil reported the matter to Adam Vazquez, Assistant Principal, who reported it to David Carr, Superintendent of School/Principal. Principal Carr authorized Taryn Geuther, Director of Curriculum, to conduct a school investigation and she interviewed five students on March 21-22, 2022. The District placed Respondent on a paid suspension during the school investigation. Also on March 21, 2022, the matter was reported to the New Jersey Department of Children and Families Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit (IAIU), which investigated the matter as a child sexual abuse/risk of sexual abuse concern. On May 17, 2022, the IAIU's report determined that the Respondent's behavior did not rise to the level of sexual abuse, that the students were not harmed or placed at risk of harm by the Respondent, and that the child sex abuse/risk of sexual abuse concern was "unfounded."

On August 4, 2022, based on the complaints of the same three students and two other students interviewed during the school investigation, the Petitioner instituted five tenure charges against Respondent for Unbecoming Conduct, Inappropriate Behavior, Violation of Regulations 3280 and 3281, and Other Just Cause. On September 7, 2022, the District placed Respondent on an unpaid suspension for 120 days, and on September 15, 2022, Paul Griggs, Counsel for the Petitioner, submitted the following documents to the Commissioner of Education:

(1) a Statement of Tenure Charges
(2) a Statement of Evidence
(3) Certified Copy of Certificate of Determination and CM (certified mail) receipts

On September 22, 2022, the Respondent denied all the charges and filed an answer opposing the charges. The Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the charges and Respondent's answer, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation and referred the charges for arbitration on October 12, 2022.

On February 3, 2023, Sandford Oxfeld, Counsel for the Respondent, filed a Motion in Limine to dismiss the tenure charges with prejudice asserting that the Petitioner violated N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b((3). That statute states in relevant part:

> Upon referral of the case for arbitration, the employing board of education shall provide all evidence including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statement of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony to the employee or the employee's representative. The employing board of education shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing, except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses.

The Respondent notes that it did not receive the student witnesses' names until December 2022, that it did not receive the IAIU report until February 2023, and that to date, it has not received the summary of the witnesses' testimony and other required pretrial disclosures. The Respondent's motion seeks to exclude the testimony of any witnesses and any other evidence the Petitioner may offer at the arbitration hearing that was not provided to the Respondent upon referral of the case for arbitration. The Petitioner submitted its brief regarding the motion on March 7, 2023, and the Respondent submitted its response brief on March 22, 2023. The Petitioner submitted a sur-reply on April 4, 2023, and on that same day, the Respondent objected to its consideration.

Respondent Position

The Respondent argues: (a) that the Petitioner cannot present its case in chief since it is barred by statute from providing any evidence at the hearing which it had not disclosed upon referral of the case for arbitration; (b) that the IAIU report was available when the charges were referred for arbitration but the Petitioner failed to secure it or provide it to the Respondent; (c) that the Petitioner did not provide the students' names, a list of witnesses, a summary of their testimony, and other mandated disclosures specified in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3) when the case was referred for arbitration; (d) that the instant case is governed by the procedures established in the Opinion and Award written by Arbitrator Gerard G. Restaino in Atlantic City Board of Education v. John Toland DOE Dkt 167-8/20 dated October 13, 2021, which the Superior Court of New Jersey upheld; and (e) that the Motion in Limine was filed prior to setting the trial date to avoid having the students recount the events if the motion prevailed. The Respondent requests that the tenure charges against Mr. Marion be dismissed with prejudice.

Petitioner Position

The Petitioner argues: (a) that the IAIU report was not disclosed to the Respondent upon referral of the case for arbitration because it was not available; (b) that the students' names were not initially provided to Respondent because the parties had not agreed upon a Protective Order; (c) that the Statement of Tenure Charges included an Appendix of Exhibits containing a witness list and a summary of their testimony, and that along with the Statement of Evidence, and Certified True Copy of Determination and CM receipts provided to Respondent satisfied the statutory requirements; and (d) that the Motion in Limine was filed prematurely since according to New Jersey Court Rule 4:25-7 the parties are to exchange pretrial information seven days prior to the initial hearing or trial date but the trial date has not yet been set. The Petitioner requests that the Motion in Limine be dismissed.

DISCUSSION

The Respondent's argument that the Petitioner cannot present its case in chief since it is barred by statute from providing any evidence at the arbitration hearing which it had not disclosed upon referral of the case for arbitration is persuasive. Although the witness list and a summary of their testimony was in the Appendix of Exhibits attached to the Statement of Evidence, the District acknowledges that it did not provide the Respondent the students' names and the IAIU report upon referral of the case for arbitration in October 2022. In addition, the District's argument that the IAIU report was not provided because it was not available was not supported by the facts. The evidence reveals that the IAIU report was prepared in May 2022, and although the District requested it in July, November, and December 2022, it did not take the necessary steps to obtain the IAIU report. The evidence shows that the IAIU report was obtained only after the Respondent subpoenaed for its release in January 2023. The District provided no explanation why it did not subpoena the report prior to the referral of the case for arbitration.

In addition, the District's argument that it did not supply the students' names because there was no Protective Order agreed upon by the parties is unpersuasive. The evidence shows that the parties signed a Protective Order in December 2022. Again, the District provided no explanation why it did not seek a Protective Order prior to that date so that the students' names could have been provided to the Respondent when the case was referred for arbitration. Thus, the evidence reveals that the District did not comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3), which requires that all specified disclosures be provided to the Respondent upon referral of the case for arbitration.

Moreover, the Respondent's argument that the instant case is governed by the procedures established in the Atlantic City Board of Education v. John Toland DOE Dkt 167-8/20 Opinion and Award written by Arbitrator Gerard G. Restaino, dated October 13, 2021, and confirmed by the Superior Court of New Jersey is persuasive. In the Toland case, the Petitioner failed to provide the Respondent with a witness list and a summary of their testimony. The procedures established in the Toland case and upheld by the Superior Court on January 20, 2022, established that the District is statutorily prohibited from calling undisclosed witnesses and/or presenting evidence in its case in chief when it fails to adhere to the mandates of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3). Arbitrator Restaino held that the consequence of non-compliance with the statute is mandatory. Thus, he granted the Motion In Limine to bar the testimony of undisclosed witnesses since the District did not adhere to the statute. In his Award, Arbitrator Restaino stated that:

> "The specifics of the Legislative intent do not grant me leave to ignore the requirements of the statute. The language in question is specific not general and must be given full force and weight."

The facts in the instant case are similar to those in the Toland case as both Petitioners failed to comply with the statute's requirement to provide the Respondent with all specified disclosures mandated by the statute. In the instant case, the Petitioner failed to provide documents, specifically, the IAIU report and a list of the students' names. In confirming Arbitrator Restaino's Award, the Superior Court ruled that since the Award was based upon the District's failure to comply with the statute, the tenure charges filed against the Respondent should be dismissed. The Court concluded that:

> "...plaintiff is entitled to appropriate notice as to the evidence which will be presented against him in support of the charges....Plaintiff is a tenured employee and is defending his job and career. Therefore, an individual in Plaintiff's position should be entitled to strict compliance with statutory rules due to the extremely important rights involved in tenure employment termination matters.

Furthermore, the District's argument that the Statement of Tenure Charges, Statement of Evidence, and Certified True Copy of Determination and CM receipts satisfied the statutory requirements is not supported by the facts. The language of the statute specifically requires the District to "provide all evidence including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statement of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony...." As noted above, the evidence reveals, and the District acknowledges, that it did not provide all the specified disclosures to the Respondent upon referral of the case for arbitration since it did not include the IAIU report or the students' names. Thus, the District provided insufficient evidence to support its claim that the above noted items it provided to the Commissioner of Education satisfy all the specific statutory requirements.

Finally, Respondent's argument that the Motion in Limine was filed prior to setting the trial date to avoid having the students recount the events if the motion will prevail is persuasive. In its brief, the Petitioner cited the New Jersey Court Rule 4:25-7 requirement that parties exchange pretrial information seven days before the trial date. However, the Petitioner also acknowledged that "...there is no specific guidance regarding the procedures for the filing and handling of a motion in limine in relation to an administrative action." Since the arbitration process is an administrative action outside of the Court, I find that the cited Court Rule is not applicable, and thus, the Respondent's motion is not premature. In the instant case, there is no need to further involve the students if the case could be dismissed on procedural grounds.

Therefore, I grant the Respondent's Motion in Limine to dismiss the tenure charges against James Marion, DKT NO. 249-9/22, with prejudice since the District failed to adhere to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3).

It is so ordered.

ORDER APPROVING SETTLEMENT OF TENURE CHARGES

On August 25, 2022, the Kingsway Regional School District, Gloucester County, by its Superintendent Dr. James Lavender, filed with the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey, Tenure Charges against Respondent Joseph Kuppler, a tenured teacher in the Kingsway Regional School District, alleging unbecoming conduct. The Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the Tenure Charges and Respondent's October 11, 2022 Answer thereto, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary and, therefore, referred the matter to arbitration. The charges were referred to the undersigned on October 14, 2022, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

Following the completion of discovery and the adjudication of several pre-hearing motions, the parties reached a mutually acceptable settlement of the Tenure Charges prior to the commencement of the hearings scheduled for March 15, 16, 17, 27 and 28. A hearing was held on March 16, 2023, in which the District laid out the basis for the settlement, to wit, that:

1. Following the District's full investigation of the matter, including evidence disclosed during discovery in this proceeding, and the finding by the Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit of Unfounded with regard to the same allegations contained in the Tenure Charges against Mr. Kuppler, the District was voluntarily dismissing all Tenure Charges currently pending against Joseph Kuppler. The District agrees that allegations of sexual abuse were unfounded and that no students were harmed or placed at risk of harm with regard to any conduct as alleged in the Tenure Charges. As such, the District has determined that any and all allegations of sexual misconduct and sexual harassment have been found to be unsupported and unsubstantiated within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.6.

2. Mr. Kuppler will provide an irrevocable letter of resignation effective June 30, 2023. He will be paid his full salary, benefits and emoluments of employment through June 30, 2023, but will not be paid any back pay for the 120 days he was out of work without pay. The District will not contest any application by Mr. Kuppler that he may make for unemployment insurance benefits and will provide a neutral employment reference with regard to Mr. Kuppler if requested.
3. Mr. Kuppler testified that he understood the terms of the settlement and that he was entering into the agreement knowlingly and voluntarily. According to Mr. Kuppler, he does not wish to work at the District because he's not wanted there. Further, he testified that he understood that under the Administrative Code, and particularly N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a)6, the Commissioner has a duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in the loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate.

The settlement terms were thereafter set forth in a written Settlement Agreement ("Settlement"). On April 28, 2023, the Settlement, signed by the parties, was forwarded to the Arbitrator for review and approval. After review of the Settlement and based on the representations by the parties in the hearing, I find that the standards for settlement or withdrawal of the Tenure Charges have been satisfied in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 and therefore the settlement of the Tenure Charges pursuant to the terms of the Settlement is hereby approved.

1. A copy of the Settlement, as well as the Tenure Charges and the Answer, are annexed to this Order;
2. The withdrawal of the Tenure Charges is warranted given that further investigations demonstrated that the charges were not substantiated and Respondent has decided to resign his position;
3. The Settlement is signed by both the charged and charging parties, both of whom were represented by competent counsel;
4. Respondent was informed of the terms of the Settlement and testified that he was entering into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights, having been represented by competent counsel;
5. The Settlement is in the public interest, given that further investigation showed the charges not to be substantiated and, Respondent having resigned his employment, proceeding with the Tenure Charges will not provide any further relief; and
6. Respondent was advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate.

By reason of the forgoing, I am satisfied that the terms of the parties' settlement are reasonable and in the best interests of both parties and of the public and therefore the settlement and withdrawal of the Tenure Charges against Respondent Joseph Kuppler, pursuant to the terms set forth in the Settlement, is approved.

SO ORDERED.

OPINION and AWARD

Pursuant to N.J.S.A., 18A:6-10, et seq, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109 ("TEACHNJ"), the tenure charges brought by the Petitioner Township Board of Education, Union County ("Board" or "Petitioner") against Corey Lowery ("Lowery" or "Respondent") were referred to me for a hearing and decision. The charges were filed with the New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE") on or about August 26, 2022. On September 20, 2022, in lieu of an answer, the Respondent moved to dismiss the charges.

On September 21, 2022, Jennifer Killough-Herrera, the DOE's Director of the Office of Controversies and Disputes, appointed me to hear this dispute. The Petitioner is represented by Christopher Buggy, Esq. of the firm of Florio, Perrucci, Steinhardt, Capelli, Tipton and Taylor, LLC and the Respondent is represented by Omar A. Lopez, Esq. of the Lopez Firm.

On September 22, 2022, I conducted a telephone conference with the parties to discuss the case. During the conference, the parties agreed to a briefing schedule. On January 6, 2023, I denied 1) the Respondent's motion to dismiss; 2) the Respondent's request that his suspension without pay for 120 days be lifted; and 3) the Petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision.

Hearings were held at the Petitioner's law firm, Florio, Perrucci, Steinhardt, Cappelli, Tipton and Taylor, LLC, ("Florio firm") 450 Mountain Avenue, New Providence, New Jersey, on February 2, and February 15, 2023.

Both parties were afforded a full opportunity to examine and cross-examine witnesses, submit evidence, and present arguments in support of their respective positions. The parties submitted briefs and the record was closed as of April 14, 2023. The evidence adduced and the positions and arguments set forth by the parties have been fully considered in the preparation and issuance of this Opinion and Award.

A related case is pending before Arbitrator Ralph H. Colflesh ("Colefish"). Although related, the two proceedings were not consolidated.[1] [1] The Respondent objected to the Petitioner's request to amend the charge pending before Arbitrator Colflesh. At the time of this writing, I am unaware if arbitrator Colflesh has issued an Award in the proceeding before him.

THE ISSUE:

The issue for arbitral determination is:

Has the Petitioner established that the Respondent abandoned his position as set forth in the Tenure charges brought against the Respondent? If so, what shall be the penalty?

STATEMENT OF CHARGES

I, Dr. Scott Taylor, of full age and capacity, having been duly sworn by the undersigned authority, depose and say as follows:

I am employed by the Township of Union Board of Education ("Board") as its Superintendent of Schools. The Board maintains its administrative offices at 2369 Morris Ave, Union, New Jersey 07083. I am charged with the general oversight of the school district and all employees serving therein. During all times relevant herein, Corey Lowery ("Mr. Lowery" or "Respondent") has been employed by the Board as a high school Principal. Lowery is currently tenured pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

I am fully familiar with all the facts and circumstances regarding the charges against Mr. Lowery, based upon my personal knowledge and upon information and belief. I have personally reviewed the accompanying Sworn Statement of Evidence. I hereby charge Mr. Lowery with abandonment of position, violation of New Jersey statutes, violation of Board policies and/or other just cause warranting dismissal or reduction in salary, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq., as more particularly set forth below.

BACKGROUND COMMON TO ALL CHARGES

Respondent was hired by the Board on or about September 1, 2007, as the Principal of Franklin Elementary School, where he remained through July 31, 2015. Respondent became the Principal of Union High School on August 1, 2015, a position he still holds today.

At all relevant times herein, Respondent was subject to the terms and conditions of the Collective Bargaining Agreements between the Board and The Township of Union Association of School Administrators for September 1, 2014 through August 31, 2018, thereafter by the Agreement of the same parties for September 1, 2018 through August 31, 2021, and thereafter by the Agreement of the same parties for September 1, 2021 through June 30, 2024. Further, Respondent was obligated to perform the duties of his position in accordance with any and all Board policies and any and all applicable laws, rules, and regulations, as an employee of the Board.

On July 21, 2017, Linda Ionta ("Ms. Ionta"), the Board's Athletic Director, submitted an Affirmative Action Complaint against Respondent. In sum, Ms. Ionta claimed that Respondent created a hostile and/or unhealthy workplace environment because of his actions toward her and the Union Township High School coaches that she oversees. Specifically, Ms. Ionta pointed to twelve (12) incidents, or actions, that contributed to Respondent's creation of a hostile work environment.

As a result, the Board engaged Peter B. Fallon, Esq. ("Mr. Fallon"), to complete an investigation into the allegations. Following an in-depth investigation, Mr. Fallon concluded that Respondent violated the Board's Workplace Harassment Policy for the following reasons:

1. Writing up Ms. Ionta on a District "Comments Related" form typically used to discipline a staff member when he was not her supervisor was inappropriate behavior that was intimidating, offensive and harassing.
2. Respondent's continued insistence that Ms. Ionta obtain his approval or consent before recommending coaches for appointment or reappointment was contrary to my direction and established practices and policies of the Board.
3. Respondent continued his behavior after former Superintendent Gregory Tatum directed him to refrain from doing so.
4. Respondent's continued insistence that Ms. Ionta obtain his permission prior to recommending the appointment of coaches was an attempt to intimidate and harass her into following his instructions.

Relevant to the investigation completed by Mr. Fallon, Former Board Policy 4119.3/4219.3 stated "[d]isciplinary action may be taken if the severity of the workplace harassment or bullying makes that intervention appropriate."

As a result of Ms. Ionta's complaint and Mr. Fallon's findings, Respondent was placed on paid administrative leave on or about September 13, 2018. On or about May 5, 2020, Lincoln University announced that it hired Respondent as its head men's basketball coach. Lincoln University is located in Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, approximately one hundred and thirty-five (135) miles from Union Township High School. Despite his acceptance of a full-time position which conflicted with his duties of employment with the Board, Respondent refused to resign from his Board position, as detailed in a letter from his attorney, dated May 19, 2020. In response to numerous requests, on September 22, 2020, Respondent's attorney confirmed that Respondent sold his New Jersey residence and relocated to Pennsylvania.

Throughout this timeframe, there were multiple civil lawsuits filed in connection with the aforementioned circumstances. First, on about November 13, 2018, Respondent filed a civil lawsuit captioned Lowery v. Nufrio et al., UNN-L-3887-18. Additionally, the Board instituted an action pursuant to the New Jersey First Act captioned Union Township Board of Education v. Corey Lowery, Docket No. UNN-L-3466-20, due to Respondent's failure to reside in the State of New Jersey, after having moved to Pennsylvania, as referenced above.

Throughout the course of the Lowery litigation, Respondent has consistently demanded to be reinstated as Principal of Union High School. Respondent demanded reinstatement in December 2019. At mediation in March 2021, Respondent again demanded reinstatement. As recently as May 3, 2022, Respondent continued to demand reinstatement, as well as payment of significant monies by the Board, to resolve his action against the Board.

After receiving Respondent's May 3, 2022 settlement demand, the parties requested the Court hold a settlement conference in an effort to resolve the litigation. The Court scheduled a settlement conference for June 8, 2022. Prior to attending the conference, on May 10, 2022, Respondent and I, as well as our respective counsel, conducted a meeting via Zoom regarding Respondent's return as Principal at Union High School on July 1, 2022. During this May 10, 2022 Zoom meeting, Respondent and I were able to become acquainted and I was able to communicate my expectations for the Principal role at Union High School. We also reviewed a three-page memo I prepared regarding same. At the end of the May 10, 2022 Zoom conference, the parties scheduled another Zoom conference for May 26, 2022 for further discussion of the logistics of Respondent's return to the Principal position at Union High School. This meeting was cancelled by Respondent on May 25, 2022 due to a last minute scheduling conflict.

At the June 8, 2022, the parties and their counsel attended a settlement conference before Hon. Mark P. Ciarrocca, P.J. Civ., at the Union County Courthouse in Elizabeth, New Jersey. At the settlement conference the Board was prepared to discuss settlement proposals, with the parties' understanding that Respondent would be returning as Principal at Union High School on July 1, 2022 and the monetary component of any settlement would need to be negotiated. Specifically, the Board offered Respondent full reinstatement to his position as Principal of Union High School effective July 1, 2022, along with financial considerations and other accommodations. After discussing this proposal with his counsel, Respondent advised the Court and the Board for the first time that he was not interested in returning to his position as Principal at Union High School.

After the June 8, 2022 settlement conference, the Board and Respondent exchanged various settlement proposals. On or about June 22, 2022, the Board learned through media outlets that not only was Respondent no longer interested in returning to his position as Principal at Union High School, but that he had accepted a full-time position as Assistant Coach of the Seton Hall University Men's Basketball team. Additionally, on or about June 27, 2022, Respondent's attorney not only confirmed Respondent's acceptance of the full-time position at Seton Hall University, he also advised that Respondent had moved back to New Jersey in June of 2022.

Current Board Policies 3214 and 4214 provide that no staff member of the Board of Education "shall have any interest, financial or otherwise, direct or indirect, or engage in any business or transaction or professional activity which is in conflict with the proper discharge of the staff member's duties." Likewise, former Board Policy 4119.21/4219.21, which states "[a]n employee of the Township of Union Board of Education shall not have any interest, financial or otherwise, direct or indirect, or engage in any business or transaction or professional activity which is in conflict with the proper discharge of his/her duties." Similarly, former Board Policy 4119.22/4219.22, states that "[n]o member of the staff shall engage in outside employment which conflicts with proper performance of his/her duties, or which would tend to harm the teaching/learning relationship."

Current Board Policies 3230 and 4230, provide that employees "shall not devote time during their work day to an outside private enterprise, business, or business organization." Under these Policies, the "Board reserves the right to determine if activities outside the [employee's] job responsibilities interfere with their performance and the discharge of the [employee's] responsibilities to this district." In that same vein, former Board Policy 4138/4238 states in pertinent part, "[s]chool employees shall not use school time or school facilities in connection with any personal activity for financial profit. Any violations of this provision may bring disciplinary action." This Policy further states, "[n]o outside work by a staff member shall prevent him/her from properly performing assigned functions during duty hours or be prejudicial to his/her work effectiveness."

Additionally, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 states, "Any teaching staff member, under tenure of service, desiring to relinquish his position shall give the employing board of education at least 60 days written notice of his intention, unless the board shall approve of a release on shorter notice and if he fails to give such notice he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year."

Finally, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24 states "[n]o school official or member of his immediate family shall have an interest in a business organization or engage in any business transaction, or professional activity, which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest," and [n]o school official shall undertake any employment service, whether compensated or not, which might reasonably be expected to prejudice his independence of judgment in the exercise of his official duties."

SPECIFICATION OF CHARGES CHARGE I
ABANDONMENT OF POSITION

The foregoing background information, and the facts alleged therein are incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein. Respondent is guilty of abandonment of his position. In June 2022, Respondent moved back to the State of New Jersey. On June 8, 2022, after years of demanding reinstatement, and after plans had been made to reinstate Respondent effective July 1, 2022, for the first time, Respondent abruptly and unexpectedly advised the Board that he would not be returning to his position as Principal at Union High School. Further, on or about June 22, 2022, Respondent accepted a full-time position as Assistant Coach of the Seton Hall University Men's Basketball Team, resulting in his inability to perform the functions of his full-time role as an administrator. Respondent is unwilling, incapable and unable to perform his duties as Principal while simultaneously working as an assistant coach of a Division I men's basketball program. Respondent's employment as an assistant coach with Seton Hall University clearly conflicts with the proper performance of Respondent's duties as an administrator with the Board, and illustrate Respondent no longer is willing to perform those duties. The above-referenced facts demonstrate abandonment of position and warrant Respondent's immediate dismissal from the position of Principal with the Board.

Count 1

On June 8, 2022, Respondent informed the Board that he was no longer interested in returning as Principal of Union High School, despite consistently demanding reinstatement in that position. This abrupt change in position was also contrary to the parties' understanding and plans made for Respondent's reinstatement effective July 1, 2022. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, a tenured teaching staff member must give at least sixty (60) days written notice of his intention to relinquish his position.

Count 2

On or about June 22, 2022, Respondent accepted a position as an assistant men's basketball coach at Seton Hall University, a position which he continues to hold. This is a full-time, paid position which conflicts and interferes with the proper performance and discharge of his duties as an administrator with the Board. Current Board Policies 3214 and 4214 provide that no staff member of the Board of Education "shall have any interest, financial or otherwise, direct or indirect, or engage in any business or transaction or professional activity which is in conflict with the proper discharge of the staff member's duties." Further, under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24, no school official shall have an interest in a business organization or engage in any business transaction, or professional activity, which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest.

The foregoing acts and omissions by Respondent, as set forth in the above Counts, individually and cumulatively, constitute abandonment of his position, warranting dismissal.

FACTS

Prior to being employed by the Petitioner, the Respondent began his career in education as a teacher in the Hillside School District. From 1998-2000 Mr. Lowery taught fifth grade at George Washington Elementary School. From 2000-2002, Mr. Lowery taught at the Calvin Coolidge Demonstration School. Commencing in 2002, Mr. Lowery began his career as an administrator. In addition to being a reading teacher at the Walter O. Krumbiegel Middle School, from 2002-2003, Mr. Lowery became an Administrative Intern, and assisted Principal Gregory Tatum ("Tatum"). (Respondent Ex. 10).

From 2003-2007, Mr. Lowery was the Vice Principal of the Walter O. Krumbiegel Middle School. After Mr. Tatum left the Hillside School District, he was employed by the Petitioner in this proceeding as an Assistant Superintendent. Mr. Tatum then helped recruit Mr. Lowery to become the Principal of Franklin Elementary School in Union Township.

Franklin Elementary School had been designated as a School in Need of Improvement ("SINI") because it had failed to meet state benchmarks. Mr. Tatum testified that under Mr. Lowery's tenure, Franklin Elementary School emerged from the SINI designation, and was considered to be one of the better elementary schools in the State of New Jersey.

From 1998-2005, while working in Hillside, Mr. Lowery also coached the Union High School basketball team. According to Mr. Tatum, Mr. Lowery's rapport with high school students led him in 2015 to recruit Mr. Lowery to be the Principal of Union High School.

As a Principal in Union Township, Mr. Lowery's employment was in part governed by the collective negotiations' agreement ("CNA") between the Board and the Township of Union Association of School Administrators. ("UTASA").

Throughout Mr. Lowery's employment by the Petitioner, he worked with some success as the head men's basketball coach at two junior colleges in New Jersey. From 2006-2010, Mr. Lowery was the head coach at Middlesex College in Edison, New Jersey, and from 2011 to 2017, Mr. Lowery was the head coach at Essex County College in Newark, New Jersey.

There is no evidence that Mr. Lowery's coaching duties interfered with his work as a Principal at Union High School. Mr. Tatum testified that Mr. Lowery's coaching duties did not interfere with Mr. Lowery's duties as a Principal.

On July 21, 2017, Linda Ionta ("Ionta"), the Petitioner's Athletic Director filed an Affirmative Action Complaint against Mr. Lowery. Ms. Ionta alleged that Mr. Lowery "created a hostile and/or unhealthy workplace environment towards her and the Union Township High School coaches" that Ms. Ionta supervised.[2]

The Board commenced an investigation, and by letter on September 14, 2018, now Superintendent Tatum placed Mr. Lowery on administrative leave. The letter states in pertinent part:

> This letter is written to confirm the fact that you have been placed on an administrative leave of absence with pay effective September 13, 2018. The reason you have been placed on an administrative leave of absence with pay is due to the conclusion of the affirmative action investigator's report and pending litigation.
>
> While you are on this leave, you are not permitted on the school grounds of any Township of Union Public School without my prior approval. In addition, you should not have any contact with faculty, staff, or students of any Township of Union Public Schools.

[2] The allegations contained in Ms. Ionta's complaint are not before me.

Until Ms. Ionta's complaint was filed, there is no evidence that Mr. Lowery had been disciplined by the Board, and in fact he had received uniformly good evaluations. As a result of being placed on leave, Mr. Lowery commenced a lawsuit against the Board entitled Lowery v. Nufrio et. al., UNN-L-3887-18[3].

On or about May 5, 2020, while on leave Mr. Lowery accepted the position of the head men's basketball coach at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania. When the Petitioner learned of Mr. Lowery's employment by Lincoln University, the Board commenced an action against Mr. Lowery under the New Jersey First Act, which, with certain exceptions, requires New Jersey public employees to reside in New Jersey.[4]

The present Superintendent of Schools is Dr. Scott Taylor ("Taylor"). Dr. Taylor succeeded Mr. Tatum as Superintendent. In his testimony before me, and in the above stated charges and specifications, Dr. Taylor stated that he believed Mr. Lowery wanted to return to his position as Principal of Union High School. At the time that Dr. Taylor became Superintendent, Mr. Lowery was on administrative leave. As such, Dr. Taylor never supervised or observed Mr. Lowery in his role as Principal of Union High School.

Dr Taylor described settlement discussions between himself and Mr. Lowery, and the possible return of Mr. Lowery to his position as Principal. These discussions occurred in May 2022. Although Mr. Lowery and Dr. Taylor discussed the possibility that Mr. Lowery would return to work on July 1, 2022, no firm commitment to return Mr. Lowery to service was made.

[3] The allegations contained in this complaint are not before me.

[4] The allegations contained in the complaint filed pursuant to the New Jersey First Act are not before me. However, as I understand it, they may have some bearing on the proceeding before Arbitrator Coleflesh.

On June 8, 2022, Mr. Lowery and his counsel, and counsel for the Board, appeared in Court for a settlement conference. During these ongoing discussions, the media reported that Mr. Lowery had accepted a position as the assistant men's basketball coach at Seton Hall University, a Division I program. Respondent's counsel confirmed these reports. Without discussing Mr. Lowery's decision to take the position at Seton Hall, the Petitioner concluded that Mr. Lowery was no longer interested in returning to his position as Principal of Union High School. However, there is no evidence that Mr. Lowery ever communicated an intention not to return to Union High School.

Discussions between counsel for Mr. Lowery and the Petitioner continued, and on June 15, 2022, counsel for Mr. Lowery sent a letter to counsel for the Petitioner in which he stated that Mr. Lowery would remain on administrative leave and resign as Principal of Union High School on September 30, 2023. (Respondent's Ex. 19). Counsel for the Petitioner appeared to accept the terms offered by counsel for Mr. Lowery. (Respondent's Ex. 20). Counsel for the Petitioner sent an email to Mr. Lowery's attorney which stated: "Please accept this email as my further acknowledgement that we have a deal subject to final Board approval, to resolve this matter along the terms outlined in your letter of June 15, 2022." (Respondent's Ex. 20). On June 24, 2022, counsel for the Petitioner forwarded a draft settlement agreement to counsel to the Respondent. (Respondent's Ex. 21). However, the Board did not approve the settlement terms, and on July 19, 2022, the Board appointed an Interim Principal for Union High School. (Respondent's Ex. 27).

Dr. Taylor testified that he was unaware of the settlement discussions held between counsel for the Board and Mr. Lowery's counsel. Dr. Taylor also testified that he never discussed Mr. Lowery's duties as an assistant head coach at Seton Hall University with Mr. Lowery.

On July 14, 2022, Dr. Taylor sent Mr. Lowery a "Rice notice" informing him that the status of his employment would be discussed at the Board's meeting set for July 19, 2022.[5] On August 4, 2022, Dr. Taylor filed sworn tenure charges against Mr. Lowery. On August 23, 2022, the Board determined that there was probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the tenure charges, and that the tenure charges were sufficient to warrant dismissal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

A. The Board's Position

The Board recognizes that tenure is designed to protect statutorily designated school employees from dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy, or political reasons." However, the Board notes that a tenured Principal may be dismissed for "inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

In support of its position that Mr. Lowery abandoned his position as Principal of Union High School, the Board cites to the Board's Conflict of Interest Policy No. 3214 which provides in pertinent part:

> No staff member of the Board of Education shall have any interest, financial or otherwise, direct or indirect, or engage in any business transaction or professional activity which is in conflict with the proper discharge of the staff member's duties.

Although the Board concedes that Mr. Lowery is an administrator and not a teacher, the Board contends that Mr. Lowery is bound by policies that further restrict [5] Under New Jersey law, a Rice notice is sent to an employee whose employment status will be discussed at a closed-door meeting. The term is derived from the case of Rice v. Union C'nty High School Bd. Of Ed, 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977).

outside activities by staff members. The Board cites Outside Activities Policy No. 3230 which provides in pertinent part: "Teaching staff members shall not devote time during their workday to outside private enterprise, business or business organization." In addition, the Board notes that it "reserves the right to determine if activities outside of the teaching staff members job responsibilities interfere with their professional performance and the discharge of the member's responsibilities to the students of this district."

The Board also maintains that Mr. Lowery violated N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 which requires all teaching staff to provide sixty days written notice of their intent to relinquish their position.

The Board takes the position that by accepting the position as an assistant basketball coach at Seton Hall University, Mr. Lowery created for himself an undeniable conflict of interest, and violated the statute because he never gave notice to the Board that he was relinquishing his job. In further support of its argument that Mr. Lowery could not be both the Principal of Union High School and an assistant basketball coach at a Division I school, the Board cites to the CNA between the Board and the UTASA.

The Board notes that under the CNA, administrators are required to work no less than eight hours per day including lunch. In addition, the CNA provides that:

> an administrator shall be required to extend his or her daily working hours to perform his/her professional responsibilities in accordance with existing practices for the profession. This includes various workshops, professional development meetings and presentations pertaining to district initiatives, building department or academic information sessions.

(Petitioner's Ex. 19, Art. 6.01).

In addition to the professional requirements for administrators, the Board notes that the CNA also limits the amount of time off that an administrator can take during the school year. The Board points out that while administrators are entitled to twenty-five vacation days during the school year, an administrator may not take vacation days when students are in attendance without the prior approval of the Superintendent. Dr. Taylor testified that he would not authorize Mr. Lowery's use of vacation days in order to perform his duties as an assistant basketball coach. Similarly, administrators are also entitled to six personal days per year, but no more than two personal days may be taken consecutively without the permission of the Superintendent.

The Board reasons that the position of Principal is a full-time, demanding position, and that it would be impossible for Mr. Lowery to fulfill his duties as a Principal and as a basketball coach for a Division I school. The Board cites Mr. Lowery's testimony in this proceeding, and notes that Mr. Lowery himself established that the demands of an assistant basketball coach precluded him from taking on both roles. The Board notes that as an assistant basketball coach, he was required to attend both home and away games, some of which were outside of the State of New Jersey and would require Mr. Lowery to miss school. In addition, as an assistant basketball coach, Mr. Lowery would have to attend practices, watch films resulting in a commitment of approximately forty hours per week.

While conceding that Mr. Lowery had previously coached at the Junior College level with the approval of Mr. Tatum, the Board argues that the demands of Division I basketball program far outweigh Mr. Lowery's previous coaching responsibilities.

The Board also contends that because of the settlement discussions with Mr. Lowery, it was unclear if Mr. Lowery truly intended to return to his position as Principal of Union High School, and therefore the Board concluded that it was justified in finding a replacement for Mr. Lowery to assume the duties of Principal.

The Board also notes that tenure rights may be relinquished on a voluntary basis. The Board points to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 which provides:

> Any teaching staff member, under tenure of service, desiring to relinquish his position shall give the employing board of education at least 60 days of written notice of his intention, unless the board shall approve of release on shorter notice and if he fails to give such notice he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year.

The Board contends that when a tenured employee refuses to accept a full-time position offered to them, that employee has surrendered his right to tenure. (Board's brief at 17, citing, O'Toole v. Forestal, 211 N.J. Super. (App. Div. 1986).

The Board maintains that during settlement discussions Mr. Lowery refused to accept the full-time position offered to him, and thereby relinquished his tenure rights. The Board asserts that Mr. Lowery put the Board in an untenable position because Mr. Lowery knew that the Board had to have a Principal in place for the 2022-2023 school year. The Board asserts that Mr. Lowery never intended to return to Union High School as evidenced by his employment as assistant basketball coach at Seton Hall University. The Board reasons that by his actions, Mr. Lowery demonstrated that he intended to abandon his position at Union High School. The Board contends that Mr. Lowery ignored his obligations to the students at Union High School.

The Board also analyzes Mr. Lowery's role as an Assistant Coach at Seton Hall University and contends that his position as coach presents a substantial conflict with his duties as a Principal at Union High School. The Board contends that by assuming his duties at Seton Hall University, Mr. Lowery will be running afoul of Board policies and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24 which prohibit school employees from having a business interest that conflicts with their obligations to their school. The Board maintains that, as an assistant basketball coach, Mr. Lowery would have to sacrifice some of his obligations to Union High School if he were to continue in both jobs. The Board stated that Mr. Lowery made a choice, and he must live with the consequences.

The Board contends that Mr. Lowery abandoned his job, and that dismissal is the appropriate penalty.

B. Respondent's Position

The Respondent begins his brief by noting that the burden of proof in tenure cases is on the Petitioner, which must prove the truth of the allegations against Mr. Lowery by a preponderance of the evidence. The Respondent also notes that the tenure laws are designed to "protect competent and qualified teachers in the security of their positions during good behavior, and to protect them . . . against removal for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." (Respondent's Brief at 13 citing, Zimmerman v. Board of Education of Newark, 38 N.J. 65, 71 (1962)). The Respondent maintains that the Tenure Act must be liberally construed." (Respondent's Brief at 1 citing, Spiewak v. Bd. of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 74-75 (1982)).

In discussing the first count in which Mr. Lowery purportedly indicated that he did not desire to return to Union High School, the Respondent denies that he ever communicated a desire not to return to Union High School as Principal. The Respondent also notes that in order to relinquish his tenure rights he had to make a knowing choice to surrender those rights. The Respondent relies upon the case of Knorr v. Smeal, 178 N.J. 169 (2003). In Knorr the Court stated that:

> Waiver is a voluntary and intentional relinquishment of a known, right. An effective waiver requires a party to have full knowledge of his legal rights and intent to surrender those rights. The intent to waive need not be stated expressly, provided the circumstances clearly show that the party knew of the right and then abandoned it, either by design or indifference. The party waiving a known right must do so clearly, unequivocally and decisively.

(Respondent's Brief at 15).

The Respondent also cites other cases where the Courts and the Commissioner of Education concluded that employment held before a suspension, or without notice of the consequences of accepting another position did not constitute a knowing and voluntary waiver of tenure rights. (Respondent's Brief at 15 citing, School District of Willingboro v. Gilbert, 3 N.J.A.R. 206, aff'd 3 N.J.A.R. 209 (1981); Parsells v. Bd. of Ed. of Sommerville, Docket No. A-3084-19 (App. Div. June 6, 2022) (slip op.)).

The Respondent contends that he never resigned or intended to resign by exploring settlement options at a court-sanctioned settlement conference. The Respondent asserts that he was deciding whether he should purchase the "offeror's peace" with the Petitioner and put the litigation behind him. Thus, the Petitioner maintains that he never intended to waive his right to tenure and Charge 1 must be dismissed.

Regarding the second count, the Respondent rejects the Board's position that his work as an assistant head basketball coach at Seton Hall University would interfere with his ability to perform his duties as Principal at Union High School. The Respondent asserts that many of the policies relied upon by the Board refer to teachers and not administrators such as Mr. Lowery.

The Respondent also contends that under the provisions of the CNA he would be able to arrange his personal and vacation days in order to fulfill his obligations to both Seton Hall University and to Union High School.

The Respondent notes that as Principal he is charged with creating a master schedule. While the Respondent recognizes that he would frequently have to attend after school events, he states that he had previously worked with other administrators to divide those responsibilities so that there is coverage at various school events, and minimal disruption to school activities.

The Respondent points to Mr. Tatum's testimony in which Mr. Tatum stated that Mr. Lowery's coaching responsibilities did not interfere with his duties as Principal. Mr. Tatum characterized Mr. Lowery as "highly professional" and in constant communication. The Respondent also notes that, since September 13, 2018, when he was placed on administrative leave, the Respondent has had no duties to perform as an employee of the Petitioner.

The Respondent rejects the idea that his employment at Seton Hall University would "prejudice his independence of judgment in the exercise of his official duties." The Respondent asserts that he has always acted in a professional manner as a Principal with sincerity and dedication.

The Respondent contends that the Petitioner is speculating when it asserts that the Respondent is unable to perform the tasks of an assistant basketball coach and Union High School Principal. The Respondent notes that Dr. Taylor never supervised Mr. Lowery. The Respondent further contends that the Petitioner has no factual basis for insisting that the Respondent relinquish his tenure rights based upon the fact that he is a coach at Seton Hall University.

The Respondent maintains that the Petitioner has not proven Count 2. The Respondent asks me to dismiss the charges against the Petitioner, that his suspension be reversed, and that his pay be reinstated with all backpay benefits and emoluments due to him. In addition, the Respondent demands all back pension contributions in order to restore Respondent's pension credit to the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund.

DISCUSSION

A. The Legal Standard

The Education Tenure Act governing teacher tenure provides in pertinent part:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,
>
> (a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state . . .
>
> except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this sub article, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

N.J.S.A. 18a:6-10.

Tenure is a "statutory right that may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982). Tenure is designed to protect employees from dismissal "for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." Wright v. Bd. of Educ. Of E. Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 118 quoting Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962).

In order to find that an employee engaged in conduct which merits removal, that employee is "entitled to an evaluation of the conduct in terms of its relationship to the nature of the office itself, and in that context, an appraisal of the actual or potential impairment of the public interest which may be expected to result from the conduct in question." Sch. Dist. Of Parsippany-Troy Hills v. Hess, 97 N.J.A.R. 2D (EDU) 34, 45 (citations omitted).

The Board has asserted two Charges against Mr. Lowery each of which it contends merits Mr. Lowery's termination. The Board has the burden of proof in this proceeding. The two Counts though related will be discussed separately.

A. Count 1

> On June 8, 2022, Respondent informed the Board that he was no longer interested in returning as Principal of Union High School, despite consistently demanding reinstatement in that position. This abrupt change in position was also contrary to the parties' understanding and plans made for Respondent's reinstatement effective July 1, 2022. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, a tenured teaching staff member must give at least sixty (60) days written notice of his intention to relinquish his position.

Count 1 arises from the conversations that Mr. Lowery had with Dr. Taylor, and settlement discussions held in Court to resolve pending litigation. In order to prove this charge, the burden is on the Petitioner to establish that Mr. Lowery knowingly relinquished his position and waived his tenure rights.

There is no evidence that establishes that Mr. Lowery ever agreed to relinquish his position and waive his tenure rights. The evidence shows that throughout May of 2022, Mr. Lowery was in contact with Dr. Taylor and the two were discussing Mr. Lowery's reinstatement to his position as Principal as of July 1, 2022. The evidence also establishes, that on a separate track, counsel for the Board and counsel for Mr. Lowery were in Court discussing a resolution of pending litigation. The proposed settlement would have kept Mr. Lowery on Administrative leave through September 30, 2023. That is under the terms of the settlement agreement, Mr. Lowery would not have to perform any duties as a Principal and would have been permitted to retire in September of 2023.

After the announcement that Mr. Lowery had taken the position at Seton Hall University, the Board decided not to finalize the settlement that had been under discussion.

Dr. Taylor was unaware of the settlement discussions between the Board and Mr. Lowery. The settlement discussions and the possibility of Mr. Lowery's reinstatement to full-time duty at Union High School were independent of each other.

At no point did Mr. Lowery specifically relinquish or waive his tenure rights. Even if I were to credit the position of the Board, that by engaging in settlement discussions, Mr. Lowery had communicated that he was no longer interested in being Principal of Union High School, that settlement required the Board to provide significant consideration to Mr. Lowery. The only conclusion that could be drawn from the fact that settlement discussions occurred, is that Mr. Lowery was willing to consider the offeror's peace, but without that consideration contained in the settlement proposal he was still interested in maintaining his position as Principal of Union High School.

Accordingly, I find that the Petitioner has not proven Count 1.

B. Count 2

> On or about June 22, 2022, Respondent accepted a position as an assistant men's basketball coach at Seton Hall University, a position which he continues to hold. This is a full-time, paid position which conflicts and interferes with the proper performance and discharge of his duties as an administrator with the Board. Current Board Policies 3214 and 4214 provide that no staff member of the Board of Education "shall have any interest, financial or otherwise, direct or indirect, or engage in any business or transaction or professional activity which is in conflict with the proper discharge of the staff member's duties." Further, under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24, no school official shall have an interest in a business organization or engage in any business transaction, or professional activity, which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest.

Count 2 concerns Mr. Lowery's decision to accept the position of assistant head basketball coach at Seton Hall University. The Petitioner contends that by accepting this position, the Respondent has violated Current Board Policies 3214 and 4214 and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24, which preclude school officials from engaging in activities that have a substantial conflict with their duties. Having reviewed the record evidence, I conclude that the Petitioner has partially proven the allegations contained in Count 2. I find that Mr. Lowery, by taking the position of assistant head coach at Seton Hall University, engaged in a professional activity which was in substantial conflict with his position as Principal of Union High School. Nonetheless, under the unique circumstances of this case, I also conclude that Mr. Lowery's termination is not warranted.

Although Mr. Lowery has established to my satisfaction that he had successfully served as a Principal and as head basketball coach on the Junior College level, I am unable to conclude that Mr. Lowery would be able to adequately fulfill his duties as Principal if he were to be reinstated and continue his employment at Seton Hall University.

Mr. Lowery's own testimony establishes that coaching a Division I basketball team is more rigorous than coaching a New Jersey Junior College. Although many games are on weekends, there are also occasional games during the week that entail extensive travel, and occasionally overnight travel. In addition, if a Division I team is successful it might engage in significant post-season tournament play. I also conclude that the rigors of the schedule, the travel, and practices on non-game days would conflict with Mr. Lowery's ability to perform the duties of Principal at Union High School.

While I conclude that there is an innate conflict between the position of assistant coach and Principal, I do not believe that a significant penalty should be imposed upon the Respondent. I make this finding because at the time Mr. Lowery accepted the position at Seton Hall University, the Board had placed Mr. Lowery on administrative leave and he was "not permitted on the school grounds of any Township of Union Public School without. . .prior approval. In addition, [he was barred from having] any contact with faculty, staff, or students of any Township of Union Public Schools."

As such, Mr. Lowery had no responsibility to the Petitioner until the Petitioner ended the administrative leave. Mr. Lowery was, therefore, free to partake in any activity he chose until the Petitioner directed Mr. Lowery to return to work.

Under these circumstances, the issue becomes what is the appropriate penalty. While I conclude that Mr. Lowery placed himself in an inherent conflict, at this juncture, I do not believe he should suffer a monetary penalty, and this award shall be deemed a warning that he no longer engages in activities that place him in a conflict with his duties as Principal of Union High School.

I direct that Mr. Lowery be reinstated to his position as Principal of Union High School with all backpay, benefits and emoluments due to him, including any pension contributions.

However, Mr. Lowery's reinstatement is contingent upon his deciding whether he prefers to be an assistant basketball coach at Seton Hall University or the Principal of Union High School. As such, within thirty days of the date of this Award, Mr. Lowery must choose if wishes to remain at Seton Hall University or to return to the position of Principal Union High School. Mr. Lowery cannot have both full-time positions. Should Mr. Lowery choose to remain at Seton Hall University at the end of the thirty days, his employment by the Petitioner will be deemed terminated.

Absent an appeal to the Commissioner, I will retain jurisdiction to resolve any dispute concerning the remedy herein.

AWARD

The undersigned Arbitrator having been designated pursuant to N.J.S.A., 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109 ("TEACHNJ") hereby issues and AWARDS as follows:

1. The allegations contained in Count 1 of the Charge have not been proven, and are dismissed;

5. Petitioner Corey Lowery's reinstatement is contingent upon his resignation from Seton Hall University within thirty days of the execution of this Award;
6. In the event Petitioner Corey Lowery fails to resign from his position as an assistant basketball coach at Seton Hall University within thirty days of the date of this award, his employment by the Petitioner shall be deemed terminated;

On November 14, 2022, the State of New Jersey Department of Education acknowledged receipt of the certified tenure charges and the statement of evidence exhibits as of November 9, 2022.[1]

[1] On November 18, 2022, Counsel for the Respondent filed a motion to dismiss because "the district has not filed the appropriate procedures under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 in the bringing of these tenure charges." Included in the Respondent's motion was a certification from the Respondent. The Respondent also

By letter dated December 9, 2022, I received notice from Jennifer Killough-Herrera, the Executive Director of the Division of Legal and External Service, New Jersey Department of Education, that this matter was referred to me pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. A copy of the certified tenure charges and the statement of evidence exhibits were included with the notice. The charges were not accompanied by statements of witnesses or a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony.

Informal settlement discussions initially took place in lieu of proceeding to an evidentiary hearing. On February 8, 2023, the District requested that the matter proceed to a hearing in lieu of continuing settlement discussions. On March 3, 2023, after several conference calls and email exchanges between February 8th and March 3rd, the parties agreed to a pre-trial schedule that included the exchange of discovery and an an opportunity to file and respond to motions.

On March 30, 2023, the Respondent submitted a letter memorandum in support of a motion in limine and motion to dismiss the charges against him. More specifically, with respect to the motion in limine, the Respondent contends that the District failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18:6-17.1 because the District's provided an answer to the District's charges. On November 28, 2022, the District filed a letter brief in opposition to the Respondent's motion.

charges were not accompanied by statements of witnesses or a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony:

(3) Upon referral of the case for arbitration, the employing board of education shall provide all evidence including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employee or the employee's representative. The employing board of education shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing, except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses. At least 10 days prior to the hearing, the employee shall provide all evidence upon which he will rely including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employing board of education or its representative. The employee shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses.

In support of this position, the Respondent refers to In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John Toland, Atlantic City School District Board of Education, DOE Agency Docket No. 167-8/20, an Award issued by Arbitrator Gerard Restaino on October 13, 2021, confirmed by the Superior Court of New Jersey, Counties of Atlantic and Cape May, Docket No. ATL-L-3656-21, on January 30, 2022. The Respondent also relies upon an Award issued by Arbitrator Lisa Charles most recently on April 24, 2023. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of James Marion, Wallkill Valley Regional High School Board of Education, DOE Agency

Docket No. 249-9/22. In each of these cases, the arbitrator granted the respondent's motion to dismiss because the petitioner did not strictly adhere to the statute. The Respondent requests that the tenure charges be dismissed with prejudice and the awarding of attorneys' fees given the blatant violation of the statute.

On April 21, 2023, the District submitted a letter brief in opposition to the Respondent's motions. With respect to the Respondent's motion in limine, the District contends that the Respondent's position lacks merit. The District relies Allen v. E. Orange BE, an unpublished Appellate Division Decision issued on February 4, 2022, and Petrella v. Hackensack BE, another unpublished Appellate Division Decision issued on March 5, 2021. In Allen, the arbitrator denied the Respondent's motion to dismiss the tenure charges based upon N.J.S.A. 18:6-17.1(b)3 and permitted the matter to move forward and be heard on its merits. The Court concluded that strict statutory construction was not required and, therefore, the arbitrator did not exceed his authority by providing the parties with a full and fair opportunity to prepare for the arbitration prior to the hearing. In Petrella, the Court "discern[ed] no undue means tainting the arbitrator's decision" where the arbitrator considered additional exhibits that were submitted during the arbitration hearing.

I have thoroughly reviewed and considered the decisions the parties submitted in support of their respective positions. I have also considered other arbitration decisions referenced in Petrella: In re Tenure Hearing of Ebert, No. 267-9/14 (N.J. Dep't of Educ. Jan. 30, 2015) (Denenberg, Arb.); In re Tenure Hearing of Gordon, No. 24-1/18 (N.J. Dep't of Educ. Aug. 13, 2018) (Licata, Arb.); In re Tenure Hearing of Fetty, No. 173-7/19 (N.J. Dep't of Educ. Sep. 3, 2019) (Zudick, Arb.). The Court in Petrella distinguished these cases in part because "the decisions all involved pre-hearing procedural violations distinguishable from the issue on this appeal: the submission of additional exhibits during the arbitration." As for Allen, the Court's decision does not include any excerpts from the arbitrator's decision that includes any substantive analysis of his decision to deny the Respondent's motion. Nor could I find the arbitrator's decision on the motion on the State's website that includes electronic copies of the Arbitrator TEACHNJ decisions. Putting this aside, I conclude that Toland, Marion and Ebert are directly on point in the instant matter. To reiterate, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1.b(3) provides, in relevant part:

> Upon referral of the case for arbitration, the employing board of education shall provide all evidence including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employee or the employee's representative. The employing board of education shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing, except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses.

In this case, the District at the time that this matter was referred to me on December 9, 2022, provided the exhibits it relied upon to file tenure charges against the Respondent. However, the District failed to submit statements of witnesses and failed to provide a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony by that date. Based on these undisputed facts, and given the strict compliance that has been required of the statutory rules in the arbitration decisions cited above (i.e. Toland, Marion and Ebert), I conclude that the District failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1.b(3).

Accordingly, based upon the foregoing and the parties submissions addressing the Respondent's motion in limine, the Respondent's motion is granted. The tenure charges against the Respondent are dismissed without prejudice. I decline the Respondent's request to dismiss the charges with prejudice or to award attorneys' fees. As awarded in Toland, the Respondent "shall be returned to work with full back pay, health benefits, seniority and any other emoluments he lost while serving a 120 day suspension."

AWARD

The Respondent's motion in limine is granted due to the District's failure to follow the statutory requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1.b.(3). The tenure charges against the Respondent are dismissed without prejudice. The Respondent "shall be returned to work with full back pay, health benefits, seniority and any other emoluments he lost while serving a 120 day suspension."

FOR THE RESPONDENT: MICHAEL DAMM, ESQ.

I. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

The Board of Education of Lakehurst, New Jersey (Ocean County) ("Board") certified to the Commissioner of Education four tenure charges ("Charges") seeking the revocation of tenure and termination of employment of Rebecca Schroeder ("Respondent" or "Ms. Schroeder"), a tenured Teacher employed by the School District of the Borough of Lakehurst, Ocean County ("District," "Employer," or "Management"). Each charge alleged "unbecoming conduct" and pertained to events alleged to have occurred on April 7, 2022. In lieu of an Answer, Respondent timely submitted a detailed Motion to Dismiss ("Motion") seeking dismissal of all charges. Thereafter, by letter dated July 22, 2022, the Commissioner of Education, through the Office of Controversies and Disputes, referred the charges to this Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. In a conference with the Arbitrator, the parties agreed that full briefing and consideration of the Motion would proceed before further scheduling was undertaken. In accordance with the schedule agreed to by the parties, the parties provided detailed submissions regarding the Motion. After having given full, fair, and careful consideration to all arguments presented by the parties, the charges and all supporting documents provided by the District, and all authorities and citations offered by the parties, the Arbitrator issued an Order Regarding Motion to Dismiss ("Order"), granting the Motion as to Charge Four and holding the hearing would proceed as to Charges One, Two, and Three. That Order, issued on September 7, 2022, is attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference. Respondent thereafter submitted her full Answer in response to the remaining charges.

By agreement of the parties, the hearing of the remaining three charges was commenced on January 19, 2023, at the Lakehurst Community Center, 207 Center Street, Lakehurst, New Jersey. At hearing, each party was given a full and fair opportunity to present evidence through documents and testimony of witnesses. All witnesses, except Ms. Schroeder and District Superintendent Loren Fuhring, the Board's party representative, were sequestered. All testimony was provided under oath and was subject to direct, cross, redirect, and re-cross examination. At the commencement of the hearing, it was agreed that a court reporter would prepare a transcript, which, after the hearing, was provided to both parties and the Arbitrator.[2] At the conclusion of the District's case in chief, the Respondent moved for dismissal of all charges, arguing that the District had not met its burden of proof. The Arbitrator took the motion under advisement and now concludes that, based upon the findings herein, it need not be addressed. When the presentation of evidence was concluded, the parties agreed to a schedule for post-hearing briefs

[2] Neither party prepared an errata sheet regarding same, nor did the Arbitrator. The Arbitrator notes, however, that, on page 8 of the transcript, the District's opening statement is attributed to "The Arbitrator." This is incorrect. It of course was presented by counsel to the District. In addition, the transcript states that each witness was sworn "by the Certified Court Reporter." That is incorrect; each witness was placed under oath by the Arbitrator, who administered the oath herself, asking each witness to swear or affirm regarding the truth of the witness's forthcoming testimony.

and arguments. Following agreed extensions of time, same were timely submitted to the Arbitrator, and exchange copies were forwarded by the Arbitrator's Office Administrator, whereupon the hearing was closed on March 23, 2023. In light of the Motion process and various scheduling issues, the Arbitrator, with the agreement of the parties, secured approval from the Office of Controversies and Disputes for extensions of the statutory deadlines for this proceeding.

II. THE CHARGES

In seeking termination of Respondent's employment and revocation of her tenure, the District asserted four Charges, each of which alleges that Respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct. Charges One, Two, and Three relate to the alleged events of April 7, 2022. Charge Four related to a discussion that Superintendent of the Lakehurst School District, Loren Fuhring, held with Respondent the following day, April 8, 2022. That Charge alleged that Grievant had "knowingly, intentionally, and willfully made a false statement" to the District Superintendent. For the reasons stated in the Order, attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference, Respondent's Motion to Dismiss was granted with regard to Charge Four, as the charge itself was based not on a denial but solely upon Respondent's statement that she lacked recollection. The Arbitrator notes that, while Charge Four was dismissed, the full evidence adduced at hearing, through testimony presented under oath, confirmed further that there was no falsehood conveyed by Respondent during the investigation.

Charges One, Two, and Three allege that on or about April 7, 2022, Respondent, a tenured Pre-School Teacher, "knowingly, intentionally, and willfully" and during school hours and "in the presence of staff members and students": "lay on the ground in her classroom and went to sleep, at approximately 9:35 a.m."(Charge One); "did sleep in the closet of her classroom during lunch period" (Charge Two); and "did delegate instructional responsibilities to [LM], a paraprofessional in her classroom, without any supervision, by asking [LM] to perform morning meeting, or 'circle time' by herself while Ms. Schroeder did . . .sleep in her classroom by laying on the floor . . . ." (Charge Three).

III. FINDINGS OF FACT

Multiple elements of the relevant facts are not in dispute. Ms. Schroeder is employed by the District as a tenured Pre-School Teacher and has served in that capacity for many years. At all relevant times, she was assigned to a class of approximately 12 students, aged three to five. During the 2021-22 school year, also assigned to Ms. Schroeder's class was LM, a Paraprofessional who then was in her first year of employment with the District.

The Charges relate to events that occurred on April 7, 2022. The preceding week, Ms. Schroder had spent eight hours at a local Emergency Department being treated for severe gastroenteritis, which resulted in her being off duty on the Thursday and Friday of that week. Ms. Schroeder followed the proper administrative steps to report off duty because of illness on those two days, letting the attendance officer know that she was ill and that she was seeking emergency treatment. There is no issue in the instant charges regarding the propriety of her absences on those days nor is there any valid challenge to the credibility of her testimony recounting her illness and medical care.

Ms. Schroder routinely arrives for class well before the required time of 7:55 a.m. Thursday, April 7, was no different, and she reported between 7:15 and 7:20 a.m. and prepared for the class. She was not, she testified, feeling unwell at that time. On Thursdays, the children's mornings began with a physical activity class in the gymnasium. Ms. Schroeder and LM thus walked together to the gym/cafeteria area to be there to pick up the students when their session in the gymnasium concluded. As they were walking, Ms. Schroeder began to feel nauseated. She and LM concur that she told LM that her stomach hurt and that she was feeling sick, as she had felt the prior week when she had gone to the hospital. Ms. Schroeder visited the bathroom but continued to feel ill. When LM suggested that perhaps she needed to go home, Ms. Schroeder said "Let's see, I am just not feeling right." Ms. Schroeder usually engages with the children during their physical activity class but, on this day, she and LM instead sat in the bleachers and observed the class from there. While there, Ms. Schroeder told LM that she was not feeling better and felt that she needed to go home. She indicated that she would call the nurse when they returned to the classroom.

In the classroom, Ms. Schroeder had the children sit on the carpet for their usual "circle time," to take attendance, read stories, and get ready for the day. "Circle time" is conducted with the full class together, before breaking into "centers," in various parts of the room, when the students focus on different activities such as technology, blocks, dramatic play, etc. After having the children assemble on the floor, Ms. Schroeder asked LM to lead the circle time while she called the nurse, but Ms. Schroeder remained present, at her desk, right beside the students in the circle. LM took a seat in a rocking chair as Ms. Schroeder sat at the desk just a few feet from LM and the children. Ms. Schroeder telephoned the RN. The RN recalls that, in their brief conversation, Ms. Schroeder reported that she was nauseated and had diarrhea. They agreed that she should go home, and Ms. Schroeder asked the RN to call the office to let them know. The RN relayed this information to Cecilia Ward, the Coordinator of Substitutes, telling Ms. Ward that Ms. Schroeder "has to go home." Ms. Ward told the RN that she did not know what she was going to do, as she did not think that she had a substitute teacher available.

After speaking with the RN, Ms. Schroder remained at her desk, observing the circle time, waiting to hear back from administration as to whether she could be relieved. LM told Management and initially testified that, as to this particular point in time, she had to do circle time "alone" and had never done so before, yet the record establishes and LM at no time disputed that, while she was reading stories to the class, she, the class, and the activities were under the observation of Ms. Schroeder, who was seated at the desk, mere feet away. Circle time is considered instructional activity, and, on this day, it was conducted pursuant to the plans and readings developed by Ms. Schroeder and under Ms. Schroeder's direct and immediate supervision and observation.

During circle time, Coordinator Ward entered the classroom. She had been unable to locate a substitute teacher and, of the Paraprofessionals who could step in, one was out on leave and the other was already covering an assignment. Ms. Ward testified that she apologized to Ms. Schroeder and told her that there were no teachers or paraprofessionals available to cover the class for her for the rest of the day. Ms. Ward, who has known Ms. Schroeder for many years, confirmed that Ms. Schroeder appeared to be "a little under the weather" and noted that she had been resting her head on her hand while seated at the desk by the circle session. Ms. Ward asked her if she was going to make it, and Ms. Schroeder responded that she would "get through the day." All agree that it was essential for this Pre-School class to have both a Teacher or appropriate substitute plus a Paraprofessional present, given the number of students, their age levels, and pedagogical and safety requirements. Ms. Schroeder was aware of this requirement and also aware of the difficulty the District often had finding appropriate substitutes. She thus decided, she testified, that she could "tough it out."

In total, circle time lasted approximately 20 minutes. Ms. Schroeder was at her desk, observing and monitoring the circle time, with the exception of one moment, which Ms. Schroeder described as when she felt the worst of the day, when she briefly went into the bathroom in the classroom and then returned to her desk. When Ms. Schroeder noted that LM was completing a story, Ms. Schroeder began to set up for the center activities, fetching the small decorative pillows that the children use during center time and for naps. It is undisputed that, as COVID and various viruses, including a gastrointestinal bug then prevalent within the school population, remained of concern, the classroom hygiene routine was for Ms. Schroeder or LM to spray the pillows each morning with disinfectant before placing them on the furniture for use by the children. LM in testimony initially suggested that Ms. Schroeder did this as part of a plan to prepare a place on the floor to sleep, but LM acknowledged on cross-examination that preparation of the pillows was a daily hygiene routine in the classroom.

After Ms. Schroeder placed the pillows, she returned to her desk, and circle time was completed. Ms. Schroeder and LM then directed the children into their groups for center activities. During center time, Ms. Schroeder and LM typically would move throughout the classroom or position themselves so that they could observe the various groups. LM took a seat at a table near one group, and Ms. Schroeder sat on the floor, which is common for Pre-School Teachers, by the sofa, in the center of the room, near another group. Although she still felt unwell, Ms. Schroeder while seated was observing the children in one group who were working with puzzles, and her undisputed testimony establishes that she was interacting with them verbally. As Ms. Schroeder was in the center of the room, she also could observe the children in another group, on the other side of her, while LM, seated at a table, was in a position to monitor the groups closest to her. LM reported to the District and initially testified that, during this time, she observed Ms. Schroeder "laying [sic] on the floor," but LM modified that account as her sworn testimony progressed, ultimately agreeing that Ms. Schroeder was, as Ms. Schroeder has consistently maintained, seated upright and not lying on the floor. As addressed below, LM's account was the only testimony (as contrasted with a witness's written account, which the witness contradicted in testimony) supporting the aspect of Charges One and Three alleging that Ms. Schroeder willfully "lay on the ground," in the classroom, and LM's account cannot be and is not credited. [3] Having followed, carefully observed, and studied all testimony and considered all evidence, the Arbitrator credits Ms. Schroeder's account of events that morning, including that Ms. Schroeder was seated on the floor, observing the children in their center activities.

Another Paraprofessional testified that, during center activities, at approximately 9:45 a.m., she "popped [her] head into" Ms. Schroeder's classroom for less than a minute. This [3] LM's testimony in this and other regards lacks credibility for a number of reasons. Her accounts, on the whole, were conclusory and lacking in the supporting detail that would be expected of an eyewitness and participant in events. When she did attempt to offer details, these points, as well as central assertions and sequences of events, were inconsistent, not only when contrasted with her written accounts but also within her sworn testimony. Further, LM's written statements had been "updated" pursuant to directives from the District and contain the content of a conversation to which, under oath, LM acknowledged she was not privy. LM's testimony on cross-examination tended to be evasive and argumentative, and matters that she at points had described as certainties were acknowledged in testimony to be assumptions and overstatements. In that regard, the record shows substantial exaggeration regarding her role that morning and inconsistencies in her stated motivations for and timing of her actions in conveying information to Management. Moreover, LM has an interest in the outcome of these proceedings, as her personal friend now is holding the teaching position to which Ms. Schroeder would return if the charges herein are not sustained. Accordingly, and having carefully assessed all aspects of the testimony of all witnesses, having observed same attentively throughout their sworn testimony on direct, cross, redirect, and follow-up questioning, and having thoroughly considered all other evidence of record, the Arbitrator finds that there are significant impediments to according weight and credibility to the specifics of LM's accounts.

Paraprofessional, who holds a substitute teaching certificate and has been assigned to teach Ms. Schroeder's class pending the outcome of this proceeding, was working in another class that day. She testified that, during the minute in which she popped her head into the classroom, center activities were underway, and she saw Ms. Schroeder on the floor in the library area, across the classroom, with children in the center area "right next to her." This is consistent with Ms. Schroeder's account of the activities that were underway in her area. While this Paraprofessional testified initially (and wrote in a statement) that she saw Ms. Schroeder lying on the floor "sound asleep," in her testimony the Paraprofessional acknowledged that she could see only Ms. Schroeder's legs, "from her knee down," and could not see Ms. Schroeder's head, face, upper torso, or abdominal area, as there was a bookcase blocking her view. She also could not recall the position of Ms. Schroeder's feet or what type of shoes she was wearing. The Paraprofessional also observed, she testified, that Ms. Schroeder "was moving." The Paraprofessional asked LM if she could help out, and LM reportedly said that she could handle things. In her testimony, the Paraprofessional explained that she had reported and written that Ms. Schroeder had been "sound asleep" only because LM had told her that Ms. Schroeder was sleeping.

Also during the center time activities, while Ms. Schroeder was seated on the floor and LM was seated at a table, Carmen Quaglia, Pre-School Supervisor, entered the classroom, Ms. Schroeder greeted her verbally, and Ms. Quaglia noted that Ms. Schroeder looked tired and disheveled. She asked Ms. Schroeder if she was okay, and Ms. Schroeder responded that she was not feeling well. When Ms. Quaglia said that she should go home, Ms. Schroeder explained that she had spoken to the RN and to Ms. Wade and that there was no one who could cover the class. Ms. Quaglia recalls that Ms. Schroeder told her that she thought she would be okay and could make it through the day. Ms. Schroeder got up from the floor and, as even LM testified, "continued" her teaching activities until it became time to prepare the students for lunch. Ms. Schroeder then oversaw the students as they washed their hands, retrieved their lunch boxes, and sat and ate their lunches. LM testified that, during this time, Ms. Schroeder appeared to be feeling better and that ". . . she seemed great. She seemed fine."

The District has alleged that during some portion of the morning, from the time that Ms. Schroeder contacted the RN until some point at or prior to the students' lunch, LM was required for approximately 45 minutes to teach the class and manage the entire class alone "without teacher support" from Ms. Schroeder. As indicated above, however, the evidence of record does not establish that this was the case. In fact, during this time, both the Coordinator and the Pre-School Supervisor were in the classroom and, while both agreed that Ms. Schroeder stated that she was not well but that she could get through the day, neither observed anything to suggest or to raise concern that LM was being left alone to teach with no guidance or supervision from Ms. Schroeder. Other than conclusory testimony by LM, with no details as to any particular actions or any absence of direction, nothing in the record indicates that LM was left on her own to handle any tasks with the students. Ms. Schroeder was present throughout the morning and, while she was grappling with feeling unwell but feeling better toward the end of center activities, there is no credible evidence that she at any time failed to oversee the classroom and the work of LM or that she shirked her duties as a Teacher or delegated instructional responsibilities to LM without providing proper supervision.

After the students had lunch, which Ms. Schroeder supervised, it was time for Ms. Schroeder's scheduled lunch break at 11:30 a.m. Ms. Schroeder told LM that she was going to take a nap in the "closet," which all agree is a storage room, housing toys and other items that are not in daily use. It is located at the back of the classroom, behind the kitchen area, and has sufficient space to accommodate a desk and to store a number of extra cots. Rooms of this type are used from time to time by staff when a quiet, closed space is needed. The parties agree that, during lunch breaks, Teachers are free to engage in personal activities of their choice. They may leave the school, as long as they return by the end of the break, may tend to personal business, and are free to nap, although the District has suggested that napping in the storage room was prohibited. Nothing in any policy, however, indicates that such a prohibition is in place or should be known.

Testimony in this regard veered off into why it is wrong for personnel to sleep in the "classroom" and did not address the storage room, behind the kitchen, with the doors closed, away from the children, during a private lunch period. The District has suggested that Ms. Schroeder could have asked the RN to sleep in her office. The RN indicated that this could be possible and that it occurs roughly once per year, but Ms. Schroeder noted that, while there are two beds in the RN's office, the space is bright and has frequent access by students and staff. Similarly, when asked about the teachers' lounge, Ms. Schroeder noted that it is not quiet or private and there was no sofa at that time. Finally, the District suggested that Ms. Schroeder could have taken a nap in her car, which Ms. Schroeder acknowledged that she could have. In the end, however, there has been no showing that use of the storage room in this way during her lunch break was prohibited, posed an impropriety, or placed the welfare of the children in jeopardy.[4]

Ms. Schroeder entered the storage room and set her telephone alarm so she would wake up before the end of her lunch period. She napped on one of the cots, and, when she awoke, Ms. Schroeder returned to the classroom at approximately 12:00 or 12:05 p.m. LM, however, told Ms. Schroeder that she was worried about her and was going to the office to tell them that she should be permitted to leave. Ms. Schroeder responded that it was not necessary, that she was going to be fine, and that she did not want to bother them because she knew that there were no substitutes available. LM nonetheless went to the office, which is odd, as Ms. Schroeder had said she was better and, from the end of center time at least one hour before, LM had observed that Ms. Schroeder was, as LM said, "fine" and "great." LM reported first to Coordinator Ward that Ms. Schroeder was not well and took a nap in storage room. LM then spoke with the District Superintendent, who recalls that LM told her that Ms. Schroeder had taken a nap "in the middle of the classroom," which is different from what LM told Ms. Ward.

[4] The District also has argued that, during her lunch break, Ms. Schroeder could have summoned medical assistance, dialed 911, or contacted her personal physician. This is a notable over-dramatization of the circumstances with which Ms. Schroeder was dealing. By this point, she had committed to and was working through the day, was already feeling better, had been observed by LM as being "fine," and had expected that a brief nap during her lunch break would be helpful. The situation was not and has never been described by Ms. Schroeder as a medical emergency, as suggested by the District.

While Ms. Schroeder was monitoring the students during their nap time, Supervisor Quaglia returned to the classroom. She went when she knew that LM would be on her lunch break and that the children would still be in nap time. She and Ms. Schroeder spoke, and Ms. Schroeder told her about having been ill the week before but that she had concluded that her condition that morning ultimately had not been related. Ms. Schroeder and Ms. Quaglia discussed the fact that she was feeling better and that, with the absence of any available coverage for the class, would be able to stay for the little time that remained in the day. The RN also stopped in during this time to check on Ms. Schroeder, and Ms. Schroeder reported to the RN that she was feeling better and was able to complete the day. Ms. Schroeder did so, and, after the students had left for the day, she stayed for a 2:00 p.m. teachers' meeting with Ms. Quaglia. Ms. Quaglia recalls that Ms. Schroeder did then seem to be feeling better, that she contributed to the meeting, and that she had the paperwork that Ms. Quaglia had asked the Teachers to prepare for the meeting.

The following day, based on what LM had reported, the District Superintendent oversaw the initiation of an investigation. Ms. Schroeder reported to work that day, and she was summoned to meet with the District Superintendent, who told Ms. Schroeder repeatedly that she had been seen sleeping. Ms. Schroeder testified that she began to doubt herself, wondering if she might have had a medical episode that did not recall. She noted that she has a heart condition, of which LM is aware, and Ms. Schroeder thus wondered why, if LM thought she had passed out, LM did not summon help using the emergency button or other communication options available in the classroom. Written accounts were requested from those noted above, although LM later revised her written account at the request of the District. Ms. Schroeder was notified that she was being sent for a fitness-for-duty examination. She complied and was found fully fit for duty.

IV. ANALYSIS

Respondent is a tenured Teacher, and the District seeks, under N.J.S.A. §18A:6-10 and N.J.A.C. §6A:3-5.1, to revoke her tenure and dismiss her from employment on the basis of charges alleging that, on April 7, 2022, she engaged in unbecoming conduct. To this end, the District bears the burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that Respondent engaged in the acts alleged in the charges and, if so, that said actions constituted unbecoming conduct under New Jersey law. If that is established by the credible evidence of record, the question then is whether dismissal is the appropriate level of discipline. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). Having carefully reviewed and considered all evidence of record and all arguments and authority presented, the Arbitrator determines that resolution of Charges One and Three turns solely on the first inquiry, which is whether the District has met its burden of establishing that Respondent engaged in the conduct alleged in those Charges. The proofs, consisting of extensive testimony and documents and leading to the factual findings noted above, fall far short of establishing that events occurred as alleged in Charges One and Three. As to Charge Two, the Arbitrator finds that the proofs fall far short of establishing that Respondent's actions as alleged therein, in view of the detailed facts of record, constituted unbecoming conduct.

The allegations set forth in Charges One and Three are the result of initial accounts and reports that have been shown to lack credibility but to have flourished through repetition. Managerial concerns would have been warranted if the allegations were true, yet the evidence of record establishes that they are not. Simply stated and what the overwhelming weight of the credible evidence shows is that Respondent was physically unwell but not unable to function in her capacity as a Teacher and that, in order to properly attend to the children, she enlisted Paraprofessional LM's assistance with the class but at no time left LM alone or had LM interact with the children without Respondent's supervision, observation, and guidance as the Teacher in charge of the class. The record further shows that, during a portion of center activity time, Respondent was seated on the floor, interacting with and observing student groups, while LM was seated at a table with her attention directed to different groups of students, as is the structure of center time. The uncorroborated allegation by LM that Respondent lay on the floor cannot be credited, nor is credit given to LM's allegation that Respondent fell asleep at any point while seated on the floor.

The District has portrayed the circumstances as being dramatic in nature, describing Respondent as having been so ill that she could not hold her head up, could not keep her eyes open, and could not stay awake and arguing that she nonetheless offered no medical evidence to support such a condition of emergent illness. Yet nothing in the record establishes that these circumstances existed. Respondent has consistently, from the morning of April 7 to present, described a situation involving nausea and diarrhea that made her feel unwell but that did not render her unable to function, given that no substitute was available, and that had largely subsided by late morning. All who testified regarding interactions with Respondent, even LM, offered descriptions that were consistent with those facts.

The District also suggests that there is a set procedure for how Teachers are to deal with instances in which they become unwell after having reported to work or while teaching a class, but no such policy or directive has been shown to exist. The RN logically is to be consulted, which was the case here, but beyond that, there is no specified course of conduct. Indeed, the absence of such a policy is indicative of the broad range of circumstances that may exist when a teacher begins to feel ill in the course of the workday. Try as the District might to heighten the drama, this was not a case of a dire emergency or a medical collapse, and Respondent at no time portrayed it as such. This was a case in which a Teacher, knowing that Management had no ready way to cover her needed presence in the classroom, remained on duty, pushing through and hoping that the symptoms she was experiencing would pass. She continued to function, albeit not in top form, providing the required supervision of the classroom, students, and the Paraprofessional. As Respondent told others that day and testified at hearing, she gradually felt better over the course of two hours and anticipated that, if she could take a nap during her lunch break, she would be back in full form. And, in fact, the evidence establishes that this is what happened.

As is clear from these findings, Charge Two, regarding the nap that Respondent acknowledges she took during her lunch break, in the storage room, behind the kitchen area, away from the students, with the door closed, and with her alarm set so that she would return to the classroom on time, has not been shown to constitute any form of misconduct or unbecoming conduct. The District is free to prohibit the use of such storage spaces for purposes such as lunch-break naps or class preparation, but no such prohibition was in place at the relevant time. Moreover, the District has not shown that Respondent's action in this regard constituted unbecoming conduct: there has been no showing that Respondent's action during her lunch break created any risk of harm, raised any concern for the welfare of students or personnel, constituted inappropriate conduct by a teaching professional, compromised morale or efficiency, or formed any basis upon which the respect of the public or the interests of the District were impaired. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 157 N.J. 532 (1988); Bound Brook Board of Education v. Ciripompa, 228 N.J. 4 (2017); In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 160). Accordingly, Charge Two fails as the action at issue has not been shown to constitute unbecoming conduct.

Charge One fails for a lack of proof. It asserts that Respondent "willfully lay on the ground in her classroom and went to sleep," which, for the reasons stated above, has not been shown by a preponderance or any measure of the credible evidence. Similarly, Charge Three fails for lack of proof. It alleges that Respondent delegated instructional responsibilities to the Paraprofessional "without any supervision" by asking the Paraprofessional to conduct circle time by herself while Respondent allegedly slept. Again, the evidence as to the allegation of sleeping is fundamentally flawed and without credibility, and that element of the Charge thus has not been established. Moreover, while Respondent did ask the Paraprofessional to lead circle time while Respondent was feeling unwell and attempted to arrange to leave, circle time was conducted in accordance with the plans Respondent had developed, with Respondent mere feet away, under Respondent's observation and supervision, and with Respondent's full awareness, per her specific and credible testimony, of what task was being performed by the Paraprofessional at what time. For the reasons addressed above, the record does not support, by any measure of proof, a finding that, as alleged in Charge Three, Respondent was asleep at any time or that Respondent at any time told the Paraprofessional to conduct or had the Paraprofessional conduct circle time "by herself," without Respondent's presence and supervision.

In the absence proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence or by even lesser standards, that the alleged actions and conduct occurred, all Charges against the Respondent are hereby dismissed. The District is ordered to restore Respondent to her position as Pre-School Teacher and to make her whole for any compensation, benefits, and seniority lost as a result of her suspension pending resolution of these Charges.

ORDER RE: MOTION TO DISMISS

APPEARANCES BY COUNSEL:

FOR THE RESPONDENT/
MOVING PARTY: MICHAEL DAMM, ESQ.
SELIKOFF & COHEN, P.A.

FOR THE DISTRICT: BARRY A. STEIBER, ESQ.
CITTA, HOLZAPFEL & ZABARSKY

I. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

The Board of Education of Lakehurst, New Jersey (Ocean County) ("Board") certified to the Commissioner of Education four tenure charges ("Tenure Charges") seeking the termination of employment of Rebecca Schroeder ("Respondent" or "Ms. Schroeder" or "Movant"), a tenured Teacher employed by the School District of the Borough of Lakehurst, Ocean County ("District," "Employer," "Lakehurst"). Each charge alleged Unbecoming Conduct and related to events having occurred on April 7, 2022. In lieu of an Answer, Respondent on July 15, 2022, timely submitted a detailed Motion to Dismiss ("Motion") seeking dismissal of all charges. Thereafter, by letter dated July 22, 2022, the Commissioner of Education, through the Office of Controversies and Disputes, referred the charges to this Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-

16. The Arbitrator conducted a conference call with counsel on August 9, 2022, at which time the parties agreed that full briefing and consideration of the Motion would proceed before further scheduling was undertaken. In light of this process and with the agreement of the parties, the Arbitrator secured approval from the Office of Controversies and Disputes for an extension of the statutory deadline for completion of this proceeding.

In accordance with the schedule agreed to by the parties, the District on August 19, 2022, submitted its detailed response to the Motion. Respondent submitted her reply brief on August 24, 2022. In reaching the conclusions and decisions herein regarding the Motion, the Arbitrator has given full, fair, and careful consideration to all arguments presented by the parties, the charges and all supporting documents provided by the District, and all authorities and citations offered by the parties.

II. THE CHARGES

At issue in this case are four Charges, each of which alleges that Respondent engaged in Unbecoming Conduct. Charges One, Two, and Three relate to the alleged events of April 7, 2022. Charge Four relates to the discussion the District Superintendent conducted with Respondent the following day, April 8. Specifically, Charge Four alleges as follows:

> UNBECOMING CONDUCT: That on or about April 8, 2022, Rebecca Schroeder, a tenured Pre-School teacher with the Lakehurst School District, did knowingly, intentionally, and willfully make a false statement to Loren Fuhring, Superintendent of the Lakehurst School District, when questioned about the incident involving Lisa Monahan occurring on or about April 7, 2022, by denying that she fell asleep in her classroom.

III. RULING ON THE MOTION TO DISMISS

In considering the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss, all facts alleged in the Charges are accepted as true. In addition, accompanying the Charges is the Superintendent's affidavit regarding the Charges. That affidavit includes the Superintendent's account of the communication cited in Charge Four, as does an affidavit supplied by the District with its opposition to the Motion. These documents and additional evidence included with the Charges and the opposition to the Motion have been cited by the District in support of the single assertion set forth in Charge Four, which is that Respondent "knowingly, intentionally, and willfully make a false statement" to the Superintendent "by denying that she fell asleep in her classroom."

Although all facts as alleged in Charge Four are accepted as true as are all references in the evidence supplied by the District in support of the Charges and the Opposition to the Motion, taken together, they establish only that Respondent said, which she does not deny, that she did not remember or recall having fallen asleep. Specifically, in the Superintendent's affidavit dated May 10, 2022, which accompanies the Charges, the Superintendent stated as follows:

> 5. The next day, Friday April 8, 2022, I conducted an interview of Ms. Schroeder in my office. Present for the interview was the Lakehurst Teachers Association President, Cherie Menchini. When questioned, Ms. Schroeder denied falling asleep in her classroom during circle time. She told me that "I don't remember that". Ms. Schroeder did admit that she slept in the closet of her classroom during her regular 42-minute lunch period. Following the initial interview, Ms. Schroeder continued to teach her class.

In another affidavit of the Superintendent, dated August 18, 2022, and apparently prepared specifically for use in the District's opposition to the instant Motion, the Superintendent reiterated the same assertion as quoted above.

Further, as noted above, the other evidence submitted by the District in support of the Charges refers only to statements by Respondent in which she cites a lack of recollection. No evidence reflects or attributes to Respondent a denial.

The statement "I don't remember that" is well established in law and logic as neither an affirmation nor a denial as to the substance of the question posed. Whether the lack of recall itself is credible is a different factual issue, but the statement attributed to Respondent in Charge Four does not, under any interpretation, constitute a denial. Thus, accepting as true all of the allegations set forth in Charge Four, in the supporting affidavit, in the affidavit supplied with the District's Opposition to the Motion, and in all other evidence presented by the District in support of the Charges, no cause of action can be shown for Unbecoming Conduct based on the allegation that Respondent made a false statement by "denying that she fell asleep in her classroom." Accordingly, the Motion is granted as to Charge Four, which hereby is dismissed.

With regard to the remaining Charges, the Motion is denied in that the Charges are not dismissed. This does not, however, preclude Respondent from advancing at hearing the fact-based and/or procedural arguments posed in this Motion as to the remaining Charges. As required by statute, a hearing will be held to determine if the remaining three Charges are supported by the preponderance of the evidence. The Office of Controversies and Disputes has granted an extension until December 6, 2022, for the hearing of this matter. The Arbitrator's office will contact counsel to arrange for a prehearing conference at which time scheduling of the hearing and any remaining pre-hearing steps will be addressed.

Final Decision

D.S., on behalf of minor child, M.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner challenged the decision of the respondent Board to deny her request that her daughter, M.S., be permitted to participate in activities with the Class of 2023 at Hamilton High School-West (HHS-West), specifically to attend the HHS-West senior prom and to receive her high school diploma in the HHS-West graduation ceremony – even though M.S. currently attends Steinert High School, another of the three high schools operated by the Board. The instant case is the latest in a series of challenges brought by the petitioner against the Board since 2021 involving demands that M.S. be allowed to finish her high school education at HHS-West despite the fact that M.S. was subject to discipline and removed from school at HHS-West on nine occasions for fighting and acts of harassment, intimidation and bullying against fellow students.
